Ike Doubts Red Motive In Far East

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — President Eisenhower told the Russians bluntly Saturday he doubts they really are trying to ease the war-threatening crisis in the Far East.

In a reply to Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev, the President accused the Chinese Communists in effect of risking an atomic version of the Korean War and called on the Soviet Union to urge moderation on its Chinese ally.

Eisenhower referred to a message Khrushchev sent him Sept. 7.

"If your letter to me is not merely a vehicle for one-sided denunciation of United States actions but is indeed intended to reflect a desire to find a common language for peace," the President said, "I suggest you urge these (Red Chinese) leaders to discontinue their military operations and to turn to a policy of peaceful settlement of the Taiwan (Formosa) dispute."

Khrushchev had charged in his letter, stemming from the Red Chinese bombardment of offshore Quemoy and the resulting buildup of U.S. military strength in the area, that this country is setting itself up as an unauthorized "gendarme" in the Far East.

ATTACK ON SOVIET

The Soviet leader also warned that the Soviet Union would regard any attack on the Chinese mainland as an attack on the Soviet Union itself.

Eisenhower replied that the real question is whether the Chinese Reds will seek to conquer the offshore islands and then Formosa "through the application of force, as they did in Korea, or whether they will accept the vital requisite of world peace and order. . . ."

Eisenhower has said previously that this country will fight if necessary to keep Formosa out of Communist hands. His letter, delivered to the Kremlin Saturday, carried a plain indication that a new conflict in the Far East could involve the use of nuclear weapons.

Eisenhower also repeated an expression of willingness to resume ambassador-level talks in an effort to settle the Formosa Strait conflict peacefully.

CUT AND SHOOT HERO MAY BE A BOXER, BUT HE'S NO RIDER

TYLER, Tex. (AP) — Boxer Roy Harris rode a big white charger at the head of the mile-long parade opening the East Texas Fair today — but not for long.

The horse threw him within a couple of blocks. The Cut and Shoot ring gladiator wasn't hurt. He finished the parade on the back of a motorcycle.

The horse, belonging to Aleck Genecov, president of the fair, was led off in disgrace.

Otherwise the parade featuring "Fifty Years of Progress" went off without a hitch. It included antique automobiles, an oxen cart from Mexico, various bands and marching groups.

Rumor Arrest Of Arkansas Group

Faubus Hears Court Decision

Governor Orval Faubus (right) declines immediate comment as he was informed during a meeting that the Supreme Court has ruled that Central High School of Little Rock must integrate immediately. Later, he ordered all high schools in Little Rock closed, maintaining he is on sound legal ground; but rumors developed that he may be facing a federal warrant. Next to the governor, seated at left, is Attorney General Bruce Bennett. (AP Wirephoto.)

Virginia Asks For Ruling On School Closing

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The state of Virginia surprisingly took the initiative Saturday in seeking a court ruling on the validity of the anti-integration law under which Gov. J. Lindsay Almond Friday night ordered the closure of Warren County's only high school.

Even as attorneys for Negro applicants for admission to the white school were promising they would not stand idly by in the face of school closings, the state put the crucial question to the Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals.

Thus it sought to head off a similar challenge to the school-closure law which the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People has indicated will be filed early next week in federal court.

MORE DELAY

Thus, too, by making its move before a state court, it laid the groundwork for a possible new complex of litigation and delay. It is the state's belief no federal court would act on a challenge to the law while a state court has the same question under consideration.

Almost simultaneously with the presentation of the state petition, 17 Negro pupils appeared Saturday morning at the office of the school superintendent in Front Royal, seeking enrollment in Warren County High School. They were turned away.

Atty. Gen. Albertis Harrison had hardly laid his petition before Virginia's highest court when the prospect for closure of two schools in Charlottesville became more clearly imminent.

In Harrisonburg, U. S. Dist. Judge John Paul formally affixed his signature to an order directing the Charlottesville School Board to admit two Negroes to Lane High School and 10 others to Venable Elementary School, both all-white facilities.

Federal Official Says It's Nonsense

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Two segregationist leaders declared Saturday that the federal government is planning to arrest 11 persons—and possibly Gov. Orval Faubus—in the Little Rock integration case.

A spokesman at the U.S. district attorney's office here called the segregationists' assertion "nonsense" and from U.S. Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers in Massena, N.Y., came the comment:

"There are all kinds of rumors. I have no comment now. We have not issued any statements and won't for a day or two."

Earlier, commenting on other reports of federal action, Faubus said:

"I don't think the federal authorities have any legal right to stop me from closing the Little Rock high schools."

Amis Guthridge, Capital Citizens Council attorney, and the Rev. Wesley Pruden, a Baptist minister, and council president, said the government planned to invoke an injunction issued last year on which to base the arrests.

"It's nonsense," said Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. Malcolm R. Wilkey, who was sent here from Washington a few days ago to direct the Justice Department's affairs in Little Rock.

Guthridge and Pruden said they are included on the list of 11 persons.

They quoted an unidentified but "top level" source in the Little Rock Federal Building.

There also were reports that the file in U.S. District Court a request to become a litigant rather than merely a "friend of the court" in the original Little Rock integration suit.

This action apparently would be preparatory to asking for a new injunction in an attempt to enforce integration.

Called A Test Of Public Sentiment

Pruden said the federal government hesitated to proceed directly against Faubus because of the fear of "a public uprising." He said other arrests would be made first on a test of public sentiment.

Pruden and Guthridge listed themselves, Arkansas Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett and these eight others on the list of those scheduled for arrest:

Mrs. Margaret Jackson, president of the Mothers League of Central High; Mrs. Clyde Y. Thomason, the league's secretary; Karr Shannon, columnist for the Arkansas Democrat; John F. Wells, publisher of the Weekly Arkansas Recorder published here; Dr. Dale Alford, member of the Little Rock School Board; Letcher Langford, elected last year to the Little Rock City Board of Directors on a segregationst platform; Jim Johnson of Crossett, militant segregationist and Democratic nominee to the State Supreme Court; and R. B. McCulloch of Forrest City, attorney for the State Sovereignty Commission.

Faubus was not in Little Rock and not available for comment. Reached by telephone earlier in the day, he said he was taking a rest and would return to his office Monday.

A highly placed source, who could not be identified, said he had been advised the U.S. action in the case was in preparation. He said he understood it would "come soon."

U.S. Dist. Atty. Osro Cobb and his staff held a long conference Saturday with assistants of the Department of Justice who have been sent to Little Rock.

U.S. Dist. Judge John E. Miller said he is coming to Little Rock from Fort Smith Sunday in order to be on hand for any litigation brought in the integration controversy.

Faubus Says He's On Legal Ground

"I don't know, at least officially, the status of the procedings," he said. "I am coming to see."

Miller is the only federal judge now in Arkansas. Any federal action against Faubus would be filed in the U.S. District Court in Little Rock, over which he will preside.

The Arkansas Democrat reached Faubus by telephone Saturday. Rumors developed Friday night that the governor had left town in order to avoid being served with a federal warrant for his arrest.

In Washington, a spokesman for the Justice Department called the report "complete nonsense." The Arkansas Democrat said Faubus had laughed at the story.

"I wouldn't want to hide from the federal authorities even if I could," he said, adding: "They won't have any trouble finding me."

Faubus said he believes he is on sound legal ground in ordering the high schools not to open their doors as scheduled Monday morning.

"I don't think there is any law under which they can cause my arrest for taking action I think is necessary as the head of a sovereign state," Faubus said. "I don't mean to say they may not try it. The next move is up to the federals," he said.

College Will Open 13th Term Monday

Howard County Junior College will begin its 13th annual regular session Monday with prospects of another record number of full time students.

As of Saturday, there had been 515 applications for admission, said Dr. W. A. Hunt, president. This does not mean that the number of applications will not be greater, for in the past a substantially larger number has entered than has applied.

Orientation for beginning freshmen is set for 9 a.m. Monday at the HCJC auditorium. Dr. Hunt will welcome the beginning class and Dean Ben Johnson will conduct the orientation which continues through Tuesday morning.

Freshman registration is scheduled for Tuesday, and Tuesday evening the first period for evening school registration will be observed.

Regular registration for all students comes on Wednesday, and evening school registration continues through Wednesday evening.

Classes are scheduled to get under way Thursday morning.

Faculty members Saturday summarized the work of the past week, done mostly through special committees, and made final preparations for registration. Saturday evening the traditional get-acquainted meeting for the 27 faculty members, their wives or guests, and the board was held at the Student Union building.

Paris To Rome By Jet—99 Minutes

ROME (AP) — A Pan American World Airways Boeing 707 jet airliner flew Saturday from Paris to Rome in 99 minutes—about half the time it takes on the fastest current flights.

The big airliner, named America, is on a European tour to familiarize personnel with the craft before Panam puts jets into regular service later this year.

U.N. Gardens Open

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) —U.N. headquarters is opening its rose gardens, paths, and East River promenade to the public. Starting Monday, visitors will be welcome between 9:30 a.m. and 6 p.m. daily.

Seek Man Who Took Children

HOBBS, N. M. (AP)—Police in New Mexico and West Texas searched Saturday for Leo Dean Townsend, 30, of Lubbock, Tex., who is accused of kidnaping three children from his former wife.

Mrs. Adrian Warren of Hobbs reported to police here that her former husband took the children Friday, and later telephoned to ask permission to take them to Alamogordo.

Mrs. Warren said she refused permission and quoted Townsend as saying: "You'll never see the children again."

Mrs. Warren said Townsend later called from Seminole, Tex., 30 miles east of Hobbs. Mrs. Townsend told officers her former husband told her he had a gun and once more made threats against the children.

The youngsters are James, 3; Ellie Fay, 4, and Lola Mae, 6. Mrs. Warren moved here last March after she and Townsend were divorced.

India Names New U.S. Ambassador

NEW DELHI (AP)—Mohamed Alie Currim Chagla, 58, a brilliant and sometimes controversial jurist from Bombay, Saturday was named India's ambassador to the United States. A golf-playing Moslem, he succeeds F. L. Mehta, whose term ended in May.

Prime Minister Nehru, who is his own foreign minister, personally selected Chagla.

UAW Awaiting New Contract Bid From Ford

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers waited Saturday for the Ford Motor Co. to make a contract offer that might head off a scheduled strike at Ford Wednesday and set a pattern for other contracts covering a million auto workers.

John S. Bugas, Ford vice president and head of its negotiating team, told newsmen before he entered unusual weekend bargaining sessions with the UAW that some progress had been made.

He declined to say when Ford would lay its new contract proposals before the UAW, but added smilingly: "It will be before Wednesday."

Bugas described Saturday's five-hour session as productive. But he said there still were a lot of knotty problems to be resolved before any contract offer could be made.

UAW President Walter Reuther said he thought the company would make an offer in ample time for it to be worked on before the strike deadline.

Ford and the union scheduled more talks for Sunday.

UAW members have been working without contracts at the big three—Chrysler, General Motors and Ford—since old contracts ran out Memorial Day weekend.

If This Keeps Up, He'll Be Wealthy

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Emmett K. Gibbons quit driving a bread truck four years ago.

In 1954 his aunt's estate bequeathed Gibbons $110,737.

Three years later his brother, William, died and left Emmett $38,780.

Saturday, a tax appraisers report filed in probate court, showed the 53-year-old Gibbons will receive $278,944 from the estate of Mrs. Henry Klotz, another aunt.

Ask Information On Missing Airmen

MOSCOW, (AP) — The United States urgently asked the Russians Saturday for information about 11 missing crewmen of a U.S. Air Force plane that crashed in Soviet Armenia.

The request was turned over to the Soviet Foreign Ministry by U.S. Charge d'Affairs Richard H. Davis. The note also demanded the earliest release of the 11 men if they are alive and being held and the return of the bodies of the six men the Russians said were killed in the crash Sept. 2.

The U.S. note said Soviet fighter planes were seen to have intercepted the plane near the Soviet-Turkish border. A Soviet note delivered to Davis Friday said the plane had crashed 34 miles northwest of Yerevan, capital of Soviet Armenia. Yerevan is 35 miles from the Turkish border.

The U.S. State Department in Washington charged that the plane was intercepted by the Soviet planes near the Turkish-Soviet frontier and "was then directed eastward under control of Soviet aircraft."

(The plane, a C130, was taking part in a worldwide study of radio wave propagation, the U.S. Air Force said. It took off from Adana, Turkey, and disappeared between Trabzon on Turkey's Black Sea coast and Lake Van, Turkey.)

Six days ago, the United States asked the Soviet government about the missing plane. It was learned reliably that a Soviet Foreign Ministry official in a telephone talk with Davis Monday had denied all knowledge of the incident.

The U.S. note expressed surprise—"in view of the involvement of Soviet aircraft"—that the Soviet government had originally denied any knowledge of the crash and that it had delayed replying to the U.S. inquiry on Sept. 6.

Reviewing The

Big Spring Week

With Joe Pickle

Tax was the topic of the past week — the new assessed values proposed after a revaluation survey, that is. Several hundred taxpayers showed up to make inquiry, and a number lingered to protest to the boards of equalization. In the wake of the hearings, there likely will be considerable work for taxing agencies before rolls can be completed.

* * *

In this connection, the biggest single adjustment came on the Cosden and Cabot protest which resulted in the companies adding a fourth more than they had contended was the right formula in keeping with other assessments.

* * *

Big Spring found itself with a sudden case of football fever Friday night after the Steers looked surprisingly sharp in overwhelming Edison of San Antonio 26-0. Even though the memory of a similar showing in the opening game last year was fresh, there was no denying the team looked sharper, blocked harder and had more depth. And while passing out praise for the gridders, a word is in order for the band. Considering it was the first appearance of the season, the band looked really good.

Members of labor unions in Big Spring are planning a big "good turn" for the Gonzales Warm Springs Foundation Monday evening. Unless a large sum is raised in a state-wide drive, the polio rehabilitation center will have to be closed. No matter how diligently the volunteers work, you'll have to

MOSTLY FOR KIDS, BUT GROWN-UPS IN THE ACT

Everybody's Swiveling With Those Hula Hoops

By SAM BLACKBURN

Within the past fortnight, Big Spring youngsters have been literally hooping it up around town.

Belatedly but feverishly, boys and girls of all ages have succumbed to the now renowned Hula Hoop fad which some say is the biggest thing since yo-yo. Kids are in a mad whirl of gaily colored polyethylene plastic rings.

In less than a month—and most of it within the past two weeks—youngsters have snatched up more than 2,000 of the Hula or other trade name hoops. If there are signs of modification in the latest craze, they are slight. Most dealers complain they can't get delivery or can't keep them in stock. One company making 20,000 hoops a day said it couldn't stay abreast of demand as the craze swept from the West Coast eastward. The hoop trade predicts cumulative volume of 15 million by November.

A check of stores here indicated Big Spring youth plans to contribute its full share to the quota.

Not all the purchases are by or for small fry, because adults have surreptitiously tried to master the knack of swaying torso rhythm which makes the hoop defy gravity. But it's primarily a juvenile art.

Take the case of little Miss Paula Buckner, 5-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Buckner, 1413 E. 18th Street. She may not be the champion operator, but she is a logical contender. Nonchalantly and with almost imperceptible ripples of motion around the hips, she sends the hoop spinning, sometimes crawling toward her armpits, sometimes descending to her knees, as she desires. She and scores of other youngsters make it look as easy as a Hindu rope trick. Oldsters, who keep telling themselves it is good exercise, find that natural lateral hippy heave is a liability. The trick apparently is front to back, and vice versa.

The Hula Hoop made its debut last spring in California as an adaptation from a similar toy employed earlier in Australia. Soon the West Coast was afflicted by the fad. Somehow the initial eastward wave washed over until a telecast showed California kiddies in a contest.

Price tag on the hoops at a dozen places range from 98 cents to $1.98. There is a deluxe metal model, which no one seems to have in stock, which runs up to $2.50.

Jim Lewis, whose 5 & 10 stores has sold about 150 dozen, credits his daughter Jill, 7, with giving him the inside track. When she insisted on a hoop, this sent him asking about something which was a complete mystery to him. Several calls to jobbers brought no promises of delivery until one finally made good. He cancelled other orders but they were delivered anyhow—and luckily for just as he thought he was up to his hips in hoops, the lightning struck. Although he still has a sizeable stock he thinks the fad is here to stay.

"It may not continue at the wild pace it now enjoys." said Lewis, "but I think it will be a staple toy for a long time."

Herman Bauer of Woolworth's got caught with his hoops down when the craze suddenly hit. Clerks hardly got the magic circles on the counter when they disappeared. This prompted a rush volume order.

"They should be good for a long time," he noted. "The kids keep playing with them. They're safe and good exercise."

John Gregory of McCrory's concurs with other dealers that the demand here started in mid-August and hit a dizzy rate within the past two weeks. Although the demand is slightly off he thinks it will continue brisk. John Dibrell said he made the mistake of waiting two weeks to re-order while waiting to see if the craze would die off. Joe Bunch at Sportsman Toy Center said sales were heavy, a report echoed by Ace Elliott Drug and Edwards Heights Pharmacy. Elsewhere, Wacker's Variety and other stores reported a whopping hoop trade, and on the supermarket front Furr's said it was just getting warmed up.

Meanwhile, in the yards along any street in town the kids keep the circles going lazily around their hips. Sometimes they get tricky and use them for "jumping ropes," roll them along sidewalks in the fashion of granddad's day, or throw them out with a backward spin to bring them back like an earthbound boomerang. Mom and Pop might as well get their bubble gum and give in.

Youth Cleared Of Slaying; Couple's Son Still Checked

NEW YORK (AP)—An 18-year-old youth apparently was cleared Saturday of any suspicion in the Staten Island knife slayings of Dr. and Mrs. Melvin Nimer, but was charged with stealing two suitcases in Brooklyn.

The youth, William Fletcher Jr., a Negro and onetime mental patient, had gone from New York to Virginia three days ago and made statements which relatives interpreted as hints he had some connection with the case.

However, after extensive questioning and a tour of Staten Island, which he was said to have visited with friends several hours before the Nimers were found dead at their home early the morning of Sept. 2, he was released to Brooklyn authorities.

Brooklyn police said he admitted stealing two suitcases owned by the operator of a rooming house where his father lives.

This action returned the spotlight to 8-year-old Melvin Nimer Jr., who, after first telling police a masked intruder slew his parents, claimed he did it with a kitchen knife. The boy now is undergoing mental tests.

Supply Ships Are Chased By Red Guns

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — A convoy of Nationalist supply ships, sailing into curtains of Red artillery fire, failed twice Saturday to unload badly needed cargoes on the bombarded beaches of Quemoy.

After fleeing once under a torrent of Red shells before dawn, four Nationalist ships steamed back into Quemoy at 4 p.m. Again Red artillery, obviously zeroed in on the beaches beforehand, unleashed another barrage.

In the first landing, the ships stayed on the beaches 23 minutes and managed to unload a smattering of supplies. Then the Reds poured in 7,035 shells in 50 minutes, by Nationalist count. In the second attempt, the Communist guns dropped in 4,000 rounds of high explosive shells after the ships had hit the beach. A Nationalist source said no major amount of supplies had been landed on the second try.

With the Reds tightening their blockade of Quemoy day by day, the Nationalists were reported preparing for air drops. This could be dangerous in view of the proximity of Quemoy to red MIG jet bases.

RUNNING SHORT

But supplies obviously were running short on Quemoy. No ships have made any good landings ships escorted the first daylight convoy to Quemoy.

Sources close to top Nationalist military leaders indicated that the Nationalists are on the verge of bombing Red artillery positions on the mainland and the Red-held offshore islands. However, these reports were viewed with some skepticism. It is believed here the Nationalists are still under U. S. restraint not to try bombing for fear it might touch off a major war in Formosa Strait.

Bombing raids on the mainland may bring retaliatory air attacks on Formosa. The United States is bound by treaty to defend Formosa from Communist attack.

The Reds show no signs of letting up on their bombardment of Quemoy and the other Nationalist islands near it. Up to 6 p.m. Saturday, more than 11,542 shells had pummeled the Nationalist islands in a double-barreled attempt to keep out supplies and break the Nationalist spirit, the Defense Ministry said.

With the fourth attempt to supply Quemoy by ship marked a failure, the Defense Ministry came up with more ominous news. It said intelligence reports indicate the Reds may have 300-ton gunboats in the waters around Quemoy. These would bolster a Red fleet of 100-ton war vessels and torpedo boats now helping in the blockade of the offshore islands.

Texans Battle Flood Waters

Water Rate Fuss Is Put Before Congressman

City Manager H. W. Whitney reported it would probably be two weeks before any results could be expected from a meeting with U. S. Rep. George Mahon about a dispute between the city and the Air Force over water rates.

Whitney met with Mahon Friday upon the instructions of the City Commission and laid the matter before him. The Air Force has refused to pay a rate increase imposed by the commission in April, and the city council felt it was necessary to speak to Mahon.

The congressman told Whitney he would make an investigation of the matter but it would be a few weeks before any results could be seen.

The city has tried without avail to convince the government it was justified in hiking the water rate for large consumers.

Until last month, the city had received no payment at all since the new rate went into effect. In August, the Air Force paid $25,000 for water—figured under the old rate—and the city continued to lay claim to the additional fees. These charges amount to over $6,000.

CAA Gives OK To Lamesa Port Job

LAMESA—City Manager Carroll Taylor announced that the newly completed Lamesa Municipal Airport has received final approval of the Civil Aeronautics Administration.

Taylor also stated that an audit of the joint city-county project is still pending, however. The new 4,000 by 75-foot runway was constructed by W. C. Caldwell of Big Spring. Engineering on the work was directed by Roberts, Merriman and Bowden of Lubbock.

The project was financed by the city, Dawson County and the CAA, with the two local agencies paying one-fourth and the federal agency, the other half.

Man Draws Three Years For Assault

LAMESA—Willis Collins, 52, was convicted of assault with intent to murder in 106th District Court here Thursday. He has been sentenced by Judge Louis B. Reed to three years in the state penitentiary. Collins was charged with the Feb. 20 shooting of Espirion Vera, 42, at Vera's farm home five miles southeast of Lamesa. Vera recovered. Collins, a used car salesman, allegedly had gone to the Vera home and the two men engaged in an argument over payment for a car sold Vera. Chief of Police Morris Zimmerman, who at the time of the shooting was chief deputy sheriff here, testified that Collins had admitted shooting Vera.

Rites Today For Former Long-Time Lamesa Resident

LAMESA—Funeral for Mrs. Retha Griffis, 55, a former longtime resident of Lamesa, will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Lamesa Church of Christ. Mrs. Griffis passed away Wednesday in a Los Angeles, Calif., hospital.

Officiating in the service will be W. T. Hamilton, and burial will be in the Lamesa Memorial Park under the direction of Higginbotham Funeral Home. Mrs. Griffis was living at Bell Gardens, Calif., at the time of her death. She was born in Parker County and had been a member of the Church of Christ for 40 years.

Survivors include her husband, R. F. Griffis, one son, Doyce Ray of Norfold, Calif.; three sisters, Mrs. Lee Hancock of Lamesa, Mrs. F. J. Donnley of Downey, Calif.; and Mrs. Howard Kay of Compton, Calif.; one brother, Earnest Rhodes of Lamesa and one grandchild.

Expect 17,500 At Texas University

AUSTIN (AP)—Enrolment of about 17,500 students—same as last year—is expected at the University of Texas.

An estimated 2,800 will be freshmen.

'$64,000 Challenge' Is Dropped Off TV

NEW YORK (AP)—The P. Lorillard Co. has withdrawn as a sponsor of "The $64,000 Challenge," a television quiz show. The program is going off the air.

The cancellation, announced Friday, "does not concern any accusation made against the show," its producer said.

Last week, the Rev. Charles E. Jackson, a Nashville minister, said he was given the answer to a question in advance when he was a contestant.

Entertainment Productions, Inc. producer of the show, has denied his charge.

Steve Carlin, head of Entertainment Productions, said he would continue to seek a sponsor for the program.

Earlier this week, the tobacco company's advertising agency, Lenpen & Newell, Inc., reported the sponsor was "greatly disturbed over the unfavorable publicity" received by the show when the minister leveled his charge.

Cancellation of another TV quiz, the now-defunct "Dotto," touched off an investigation of quiz shows by the Manhattan district attorney's office.

"Dotto" was dropped with a minimum of explanation by the Colgate-Palmoliver Co. and by NBC and CBS, the two networks carrying the program.

A standby contestant charged the show was rigged.

Manhattan Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan said Friday he is laying all the evidence gathered in his investigation before a grand jury.

Hogan said he will ask a Manhattan general sessions judge next Wednesday to impanel a third September grand jury to determine "whether the crime of conspiracy or other crimes have been committed."

He added:

"It is not a fair assumption that we have concluded that there has been wrongdoing."

Member Drive On C-C Board Agenda

Chamber of Commerce directors will devote most of their session Monday to the organization's current membership campaign.

All campaign workers who were unable to attend drive meetings last week have been sent special invitations to the directors' luncheon, which will be held in the Settles Hotel ballroom. Campign leaders also hope to enlist most of the directors in the membership recruiting effort.

Although workers haven't been asked yet for reports, Rad Ware, general chairman, said Saturday that the drive is progressing satisfactorily. A number of encouraging reports have been received from some workers, he said.

Directors also are to hear reports on Chamber of Commerce campaigns to secure a master plan for development of the city and adoption of a municipal livestock ordinance.

If Douglas Orme, Cosden Petroleum Corp. vice president, is available, he will report on a meeting of the Council of State Chambers of Commerce he attended last week in Houston. Cosden stockholders are holding their annual meeting here Monday, and Orme may not be able to attend the Chamber meeting, however. The Cosden official represented his company, the local Chamber and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at the CSCC meeting.

U.N. Could Make Use Of Language Prof

By B. F. KELLUM

EDINBURG, Tex. (AP) — The United Nations could probably use one of Pan American College's instructors. He speaks seven languages.

Heliodor Sztark, who will teach Russian at the college here this fall, speaks English, Russian, Polish, French and German fluently and a "little Spanish and Italian."

Sztark, a slightly-built man with gray hair and "close to 70," was born in Poland and came to the United States in 1938. He came to Weslaco, in the Lower Rio Grande Valley, in 1946.

He served from 1938 to 1945 as consul general of Poland at Pittsburgh, Pa.

Sztark gained practical knowledge of the several languages through his many years in Poland and Russia as a civil engineer.

"The Russian language should be familiar to everyone in the United States since Russia and this country are the two leading ones," he said.

"The teaching of English in Russian schools is a common everyday occurrence," he added.

Sztark said this was especially important today with the new scientific advances by both countries with space satellites and related material.

"And with the admission of Alaska to the United States as a state the two countries are practically neighbors," he said.

Since 1946, Sztark has operated a citrus farm near Weslaco.

"We once had 30 acres but the drought and freezes kept hurting us until now we only have five acres," he said.

He said he had taught a foreign language several times before but always "just incidentally" and not as a career.

Decorating Course Set

An adult course in interior decorating will be offered at Goliad Junior High School, under sponsorship of that school's homemaking department and the homemaking departments of Big Spring public schools.

Mrs. Jack Alexander, Goliad homemaking teacher, invited parents of Goliad and Runnels Junior High and high school students to attend the first lecture at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in Goliad's homemaking room.

Homemaking teachers who are co-sponsoring the course include Mrs. Florence Lenox, Mrs. Nina Rose Walker, Miss Edna McGregor and Mrs. Frances Farris.

Dawson Chest Adopts Goal

LAMESA — The Dawson County Community Chest will have an objective of $24,984.50 this autumn.

Heading the campaign to raise this amount for 10 agencies will be LeRoy Olsak. The goal and the general chairman were named by directors of the chest here last week.

Bob Woodrum, outgoing president, introduced the new officers, Stansell Clement, president; Bill David, vice president; and W. B Beeson, treasurer.

New directors are George Norman, Bob Crawley, J. C. Powell Jr., Mrs. Henry Stafford, Dr. Charles Bucy and Mrs. Henry Morris. Dates for the campaign will be announced later.

Lowlands Are Flooded Along The Rio Grande

By The Associated Press

The Rio Grande continued rising slowly below Presidio Saturday, flooding lowland cotton fields and a few homes.

Approaches to the International Bridge were under water, preventing Latin Americans from Texas from crossing to join in the Mexican Independence Day celebrations next Monday and Tuesday. Usually several hundred from Texas cross the river for the observance.

The Rio Grande floods came from heavy rains in the mountains of Mexico 250 miles upstream.

Skies were partly cloudy over the state except for heavy overcasts in the Dalhart and Texarkana areas.

No rain was reported after morning showers along the coast and at El Paso.

Afternoon temperatures ranged from 80 degrees at Dalhart and Beaumont to 92 at Laredo.

Newsmen Jailed

BERLIN (AP)—Karl Brammer, chairman of the Berlin Journalists Guild, says the Russians and East German Communists have jailed 58 West Berlin newsmen during the past 10 years. Brammer reported they were arrested in East Germany and that it is not known how many are still being held. He said three had died in Siberian camps.

"MEDICINE TO PRODUCE HEALTH, HAS TO EXAMINE DISEASE"

*(Author's Name Below)

Modern practice of medicine differs greatly from ancient methods. A research team of scientists, pharmaceutical chemists and physicians are continuously studying the causes of the different diseases.

Once they are known, it is only a matter of time before cures are discovered. Physicians now have better methods of diagnosis and treatment. Medicines are formulated to attack the cause. Sometimes, if we have no known chemical that will help, our chemists invent one by synthesis. That is why the medicines your physician now prescribes can help you more than ever before.

Govt. Leaders Differing On Military Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two high administration officials differ over whether the administration has decided to put an economy freeze on some one billion dollars in extra defense funds, most of it for weapons.

In a related development, the Pentagon said Friday it is deferring further cuts in military manpower for the next few months.

The question of the fund freeze arose when Secretary of Defense McElroy took issue with a statement Thursday by Budget Director Maurice A. Stans that the administration had decided not to spend the money Congress voted over and above requests for defense.

McElroy told a news conference no decision had been made yet; that President Eisenhower still was considering the matter. Pressed further by reporters, McElroy said:

"I don't care what Mr. Stans said; I'm telling you."

Of the more than one billion dollars in extra funds, only 320 million would be spent in the current fiscal year, the balance to be allocated for future years.

In announcing the plan to hold off for the time being on further cuts in armed services manpower, McElroy said the reason was not entirely the result of the Formosa crisis.

But he added that Red China is a very large country. Reporters interpreted that as an allusion to possible manpower needs in any war with the Chinese Reds.

Eisenhower's budget proposal called for reducing the Army to 870,000 men and the Marine Corps to 175,000 by next June 30. But Congress voted enough money to keep the Army at about its present strength of 900,000 and the Marines at 200,000.

N. Gregg Business Houses Burglarized

Two businesses in the 300 block of N. Gregg were burglarized Friday night, with money being taken from one and clothing from the other.

A clothing store at 309 N. Gregg operated by J. A. Whisenhunt was burglarized, with the burglars entering through a window on the north side of the building. Taken were six jackets, eight shirts, two women's suits, four pair of shoes, six skirts and a watch.

At the El Sombrero Cafe, 307 N. Gregg, burglars got about $45 in change from the juke box, cigarette machine, and the cash register.

Plan Formosa Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department said Saturday arrangements are being made to start U.S.-Red China diplomatic talks on the Formosa problem at Warsaw in the next few days.

Department press officer Francis Tully told newsmen the first meeting should take place within a few days although no exact time has yet been set.

Raps Justice Dept. For Probe Failures

WASHINGTON (AP) — Counsel for the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee Saturday rapped the Justice Department for what he called its failure to prosecute at least 20 witnesses for suspected perjury.

The committee counsel, Robert F. Kennedy, called the lack of action "the most disappointing thing."

Kennedy told newsmen the Senate committee is referring no more cases to Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers for investigation of conflicting testimony "because no action has been taken in any case."

"State authorities have taken action in many cases," he said.

Kennedy did not list the 20 cases he had in mind. The committee has wound up many hearings announcing that conflicting testimony from accusers and accused had demonstrated that someone was lying under oath.

The Justice Department, asked about Kennedy's statements, said its records showed "13 official referrals of alleged or indicated perjury" received from the committee, some of these involving more than one witness.

The official spokesman said eight of these cases were closed with a finding of no chance for successful prosecution, while the five others are still under study.

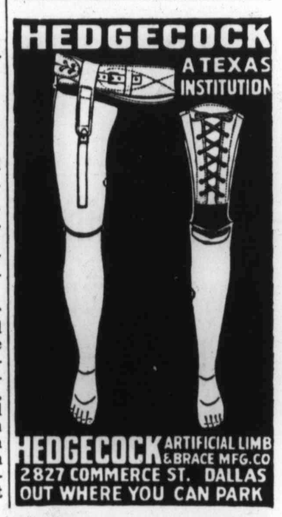

A special grand jury was convened here earlier this year to investigate matters connected with the rackets hearings other than perjury, but no indictments were returned. The department declined to say whether any grand jury now is looking into rackets probe cases.

The committee plans to recall Teamster President James R. Hoffa Monday for more questioning about alleged union tieups with gangsters.

Moderation Plea On Racial Issues

HENDERSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) —Sen. George A. Smathers (D-Fla) pleaded today for moderation on racial integration lest the issue doom the Democratic party.

Smathers said in a speech prepared for a regional rally of Young Democrats here that the civil rights issue "will have to be faced fully and fairly when we go into our national convention in 1960."

As chairman of the Democratic Senatorial Campaign Committee, Smathers said he deplores the "emotional armaments race between the North and South" touched off by the U. S. Supreme Court's decision outlawing segregation in the schools.

"We have seen passion, force and anger substituted for reason and restraint in Little Rock, Ark., in Harrisburg, Pa., in Springfield, Ill., and more recently even in far away London," he said.

"In my humble judgment, this unrestrained fervency which seems to be taking over is a contract for disaster."

Smathers said in making an appeal to reason he realized his action "sets me down naked as a target for firebrands from both sides.

"But I feel an appeal to moderation should not yet be considered a criminal act," he continued. "If reason and moderation cannot bring about accord in the cold war between integration and segregation—if the future does indeed belong to the extremists—then the Democratic party as we know it, in my judgment is doomed."

Airspace Problem Is Topic Of Aviation Panel Briefing

Members of the Chamber of Commerce Aviation Committee will be briefed Monday morning on a Civil Aeronautics Authority proposal for restricted airspace areas in the vicinity of military flight training bases.

Efforts to designate the areas have been under way for three months, but no agreements between military and civil aviation representatives have been made.

A session of the CAA Airspace Subcommittee in Fort Worth last week ended in disagreement over the problem, and a new meeting has been scheduled for next Thursday, Robert J. Larsen of Big Spring, CAA representative, announced Saturday.

Monday's briefing will be designed to acquaint local aviation leaders with various aspects of the airspace problem and the CAA's efforts to alleviate it.

If restricted military training areas are designated, they will be for exclusive use of military training planes and civilian and other aircraft will be banned from the areas. The problem of crowded airways has been under close scrutiny throughout the nation since a series of tragic air crashes early this year.

Monday's briefing session is scheduled for 9:30 a.m. at Webb AFB. The aviation group will assemble in the coffee shop at the Webb AFB Officers Club.

YMCA Directors To Meet Tuesday

Board of directors of the local YMCA Tuesday will hold its first meeting since last May and several items of importance are on the agenda, R. H. Weaver, president, announced Saturday.

Adoption of a budget for 1959, approval of preliminary plans for a new YMCA building, and a report from the long range planning committee are to be considered, Weaver reported.

In addition, reports will be received from youth activities, building, adult program, summer recreation and personnel committees.

The meeting is set for 5:15 p.m. Tuesday at the YMCA building.

Ramirez Baby's Services Are Held

Graveside rites were said Saturday at 10 a.m. in Trinity Memorial Park for Raymond Ramirez, two-day-old son of A.2.C. and Mrs. Juan Ramirez, 111 Carey Street.

The baby was born on Sept. 10 and died Friday afternoon. Services were conducted by Chaplain Kenneth Enrique and arrangements were in charge of River Funeral Home.

Area Cases Docketed By Court Of Appeals

Several area cases are on the docket of the 11th District Court of Civil Appeals in Eastland.

The court granted motions in the case of Harry McLachlan et al versus H. R. Stroube et al on an appellees motion for enlargement of time to argue the case and for an extension of time to file briefs. The case is up from Scurry County.

The case of H. C. Blassingame et al versus A. O. Wellman & Sons et al was submitted from Mitchell County. So was the case of Traders & General Insurance Co. versus Henry W. Vaughan from Nolan County. The case of L. S. Howard versus the county of Nolan was set for submission Oct. 3.

Mother Claims Son Holding Father Against His Will

A petition for a writ of habeas corpus based on the contention that a son is detaining his father contrary to the latter's desire was filed in 118th District Court on Friday afternoon. Judge Charlie Sullivan issued a court fiat in the matter with instanter instructions.

This was taken to mean that the case will be heard as quickly as service can be had on the defendant.

The petition was filed by W. I. Gamewell, as attorney for Mrs. Susie E. Placker, Abilene, who acted in the name of her husband, Lazrus B. Placker. The man, described as being 69 years of age, is at present in the custody of his son, Wilbur B. Placker, Big Spring.

The petition for the writ alleges that the father does not want to stay with the son and that he is not being accorded proper care.

His health, the petitioner declares, is poor and he should be removed from his present residence. This, the son has declined to allow, the petition states, and the habeas corpus action is brought by the wife to bring about decision on the issue.

Local Marines March In Abilene-San Angelo Relay

Four weary Marine reservists from Big Spring were due to complete their leg of a march from Abilene to San Angelo at midnight Saturday.

With packs and rifles, they set out from Abilene at noon Saturday on a marching relay that was due to end late today or early Monday at San Angelo.

Sgt. Jimmy Parks, in charge of the Big Spring platoon, said that Pfcs. Roy Brown and James Nelson led off and were relieved by Pfcs. Huey Birdwell and Harry Hepner. In turn, Pfcs. Darrell Sanders and Don Cannon were to take over from them. Alternates were Sgt. Robert J. Knocke and Sgt. Bolton Mitchell.

The San Angelo platoon was to relieve the Big Spring unit, carrying the relay into San Angelo. Each pair of Marines had the assignment of marching four hours with full gear.

This is part of a program to focus attention on the corps and to encourage enlistment in the reserve unit.

Sgt. Parks said that the local platoon has secured quarters at Webb AFB now. It will meet Sunday at 1 p.m. as usual at Howard County Junior College and go in a group to Webb to the quarters which they will use henceforth.

Conservation Tours Slated For The Week

Schedule for the series of four soil conservation tours this week in Howard County has been announced by the Martin-Howard Soil Conservation District.

Half a day will be spent in the Vealmoor, Knott-Fairview, Coahoma-Vincent, and Elbow-Lomax areas, said Jack Buchanan, chairman of the district board of supervisors.

The tours are set up for convenience of farmers and ranchers who may prefer to make the swing in their neighborhoods. However, Buchanan stressed that the board is anxious to have business and professional men and others to attend.

The following are the tours with places to be visited and practices to be inspected:

TUESDAY

Leave Vealmoor 9 a.m. Tuesday for J. F. Winans place, Great Plains conservation program, root plowing and reseeding rangeland, guar crop, winter cover crop in cotton; Tom Good ranch, aerial chemical spraying of mesquite; Wilson ranch, root plowing and seeding (second year); Cecil Hyden, dryland and irrigated blue panic grass, cotton following blue panic, Caddo switchgrass, sorgrass (perennial sudan); Jack Buchanan, sorghum almum (third year grazing).

Leave Knott school and store at 2 p.m. Tuesday for James Harvey Fryar place, guar, grain sorghum and New Era cowpeas interplant; Harvey Adams, results with cotton burrs, residue management and equipment; Paul Adams, commercial fertilizer on dryland cotton, Blackwell switchgrass, blue panic (two and four year old stands), perennial sudan; R. W. McNew, GP conservation program root plowing, mesquite kerosening; Jack Hatch, cotton following guar and sesbania; D. F. Bigony, guar.

WEDNESDAY

Leave Acuff Gin in Coahoma at 9 a.m. Wednesday for Donald Lay place, irrigated sorghum almum; Elvon DeVaney, use of cotton burrs, Atlas sorgo-Groehler guar interplant, Caddo switchgrass; Willis Winters, dryland leveling; Frank Whitaker, GP plan root plowing; Nick Reed, aerial 2-4-D spraying on conservation reserve acreage.

Leave Elbow at 2 p.m. Wednesday for Morris Patterson farm, soil improving legume, management of sorghum almum and blue panic (second year of conservation reserve;; Curtis Wood, winter cover crop; Hudson Landers, management sorghum almum and blue panic (second year conservation reserve; Curtis Wood, wingrazing sorghum almum (second year), rye seeded in blue panic; O. L. Rush, GP plan, commercial fertilizer on irrigated blue panic, vetch and barley cover; Dr. G. T. Hall, sorgrass-blue panic mixture, cotton after blue panic, results with rye and vetch, fertilizing for cotton.

The Kiwanis Club is furnishing refreshments for the tours.

Equalization Boards Recess, Hearings Planned On Sept. 22

The hectic five-day session of the County-City-School equalization boards came to a grinding halt at 8 p.m. Friday. However, the business is not finished—there will be one additional day devoted to it on Sept. 22.

Pritchard & Abbott, tax engineering firm which made a county-wide revaluation of property for tax purposes, said that they would utilize this week to repost their records on the basis of changes which have developed from the equalization sessions. They also have men out in the field rechecking certain properties over which disagreements on values were revealed at the hearings.

By Monday, Sept. 22, the engineers will have completed their recheck. On that date, disposition will be made, either by agreement with the property owners or by decision of the equalization boards, of these incompleted cases. A few taxpayers, who were unavoidably prevented from attending the five-day to appear, will be accommodated on Sept. 22.

However, the engineers said that for all practical purposes, the hearings are at an end. The one additional week will be largely for the purpose of cleaning up odds and ends of business left hanging in the air.

On Thursday and Friday a step-up in the number of taxpayers reporting to protest their valuations was in evidence. On each day, the engineers reported that 177 taxpayers registered their names for interviews with the tax engineers or the qualization boards. The average for the first three days of the sessions ran approximately 130 to 140 per day.

The total number of interviews conducted with taxpayers in the five days was 732. The last client was heard around 8 o'clock Friday night. The two boards stayed in session until 7 p.m.

There was a noticeable increase on the last two days of the sessions in the number of taxpayers whose grievances could not be worked out with the tax negineers. Both the county and the city-school board had more cases to consider on these two days than on the first three days of the week.

Pritchard & Abbott had estimated last Monday that 650 protesting taxpayers would report for interviews. The engineers explained that their experience in this work over many years had resulted in the establishment of remarkably reliable statistics on how taxpayers of a county reacted to property revaluation.

There were 13,000 taxpayers whose property was surveyed and values established in the course of the work by the engineers. A total of 732 appeared to protest these valuations. The qualization boards were called upon to make decisions in approximately 75 instances, the engineers said. The others, who reviewed their problems with the tax engineers, did not carry their protests to the boards.

Pritchard & Abbott said that changes in values were made in a great many cases. In some, errors were revealed which were corrected. In others, the equity of the taxpayers' position resuled in revisions of the original figures. The qualization boards also made changes in other cases.

The job now is to revise the entire lot of record cards, posting any changes which may have been made and preparing the records for submission to the three tax agencies.

Jewish New Year To Begin Today, Monday Is Holiday

The Jewish new year, No. 5719, begins at sunset today and observance of the holiday, Rosh Hashana, will be celebrated all day Monday.

Religious services in observance of the advent of the new year will be held at 8 p.m. today and at 10 a.m. Monday in the chapel at Webb AFB. A. J. Prager and Brian Bootel are to be in charge.

Virtually all businesses operated by Jews will be closed Monday and Mellingers will observe the Orthodox Jewish two-day holiday and also will be closed on Tuesday.

Services at the base will be for all members of the Jewish congregation of Big Spring and Webb AFB, said Prager.

Ten days from now, observance of Yom Kippur begins at sunset Sept. 23 and services again will be held in the Webb chapel, starting at 8 p.m. Second service is scheduled to begin at 10 a.m. Sept. 24 and will last for the remainder of the day, Prager said. Jewish business operators again will suspend commercial activities.

Convict Drinks Ink By Mistake, Is Critically Ill

HUNTSVILE, Tex. (AP) — Mario (El Turko) Sapet, 32, serving 99 years in an Alice mistake slaying, was in critical condition in the state prison hospital today after drinking ink accidentally.

Guard Link Harris said Sapet called him to his cell and said he mistook the ink, used to mark linens, for medicine.

Dr. M. D. Hanson and Dr. L. E. Bush gave Sapet a 50-50 chance of recovering. O. B. Ellis, prison system director, said he was convinced that Sapet drank the ink accidentally.

Sapet, a former San Antonio tavern keeper, was convicted in 1953 of plotting to kill Jacob E. Floyd Sr., Alice lawyer, whose son, Buddy Jr., was shot from ambush Sept. 8, 1952. The elder Floyd testified that the bullet was meant for him. He was a political foe of George Parr of Duval County.

Nago Alaniz, a South Texas lawyer, was acquitted of a charge of plotting with Sapet to kill Floyd. A Mexican national, Alfredo Cervantes, was named as the trigerman but has never been arrested.

Rites Today For Mrs. Johnson

AUSTIN (AP)—Funeral services will be held Sunday at Johnson City for Mrs. Sam Johnson, mother of Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, who died here Friday night.

Dr. Blake Smith, pastor of the University Baptist Church will conduct the services at 2:30 p.m. at the Crofts Funeral Home. Burial will be in the family cemetery overlooking the Pedernales River near Stonewall.

Mrs. Johnson was the former Rebekah Baines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Baines, members of pioneer Texas families active in professional, educational and religious circles.

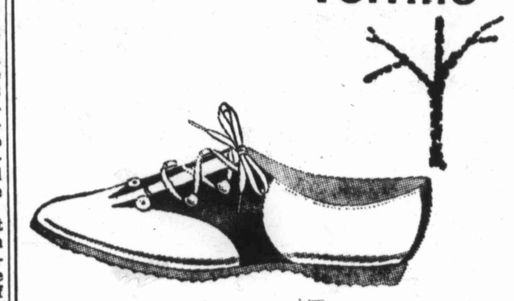

She married Sam Ely Johnson of Fredericksburg, a state representative, in 1907. He died in 1937.

Mrs. Johnson has made her home in Austin in recent years.

Also surviving her are a son, Sam Houston Johnson, Washington; three daughters, Mrs. O. P. Bobbitt, Austin, Mrs. Birge Alexander, Fort Worth, Mrs. J. D. Moss, Fredericksburg; a brother, Huffman Baines, San Antonio, and a sister, Mrs. W.E. Saunders, San Antonio.

Three Killed In Crash At Intersection

A passenger car and a butane truck, obscured by a lush field of feed, collided at a road intersection south of Ackerly Friday afternoon and left three men dead.

They were Billy Rickman, 19, and Olen Earl Walton, 21, of Lamesa, and Kenneth Graham, 32, of Malvern, Ark.

Shaken but seemingly unhurt was Charles Everett of Ackerly, driver of the truck which was carrying 3,100 gallons of butane.

The crash occurred on FM 2212 two miles south of Ackerly at 1:30 p.m. The site was at the intersection of the Ackerly-Knott road and the one which extends westward from the Vealmoor road.

Rickman and Graham died instantly. Walton died a few minutes after he was rushed to the Cowper Hospital in a Nalley-Pickle ambulance. Everett was examined and released from the hospital.

The westbound 1950 Ford in which the three men were riding came through a stop on a dirt road. Just at that instant Everett sent his truck south on the paved lateral road and caught the car just in front of the front door.

The impact almost wadded the car, hurled the truck motor to one side of the road and the cab to the other. Both car and truck were almost totally demolished, said Jimmie Parks, state highway patrolman. It was thought Rickman may have been at the wheel but officers could not be sure.

Luckily for Everett, the butane load did not explode.

The collision was one of the worst in the history of Martin County and brought to five the number of fatalities for that county this year.

Bodies of Rickman and Walton were removed to Higginbotham Funeral Home in Lamesa and Saturday night Nalley-Pickle shipped Graham's body to the Atkinson Funeral Home in Malvern, Ark.

Walton leaves his wife, who lives in Lamesa; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Walton, Lamesa; five sisters, Mrs. Dan Richter, Mrs. A. S. Grothe, Mrs. K. W. Mull and Miss Lenora Walton, all of Lamesa, and Mrs. Tommie Cox, Shreveport, La.; and six brothers, C. D. Walton, J. E. Walton, J. T. Walton, Elmer Walton, Delmer Walton and S. D. Walton Jr., all of Lamesa.

Rickman is survived by his wife and two children, Ronnie Deen and Connie Jene, both of Lamesa; his parents, L. F. Rickman, Fort Worth, and Mrs. L. F. Rickman, Carothers, Calif.; two grandparents, Mrs. Nettie Graham and N. Rickman, both of Malvern, Ark.; five sisters, Helen and Carolyn Rickman, Fort Worth, Frances, Linda and Brenda Rickman of Corsicana; five brothers, B. L. Rickman of Lamesa, D. L. Rickman, Gatesville, J. D. Rickman, H. L. Rickman and K. L. Rickman, Corsicana.

No information on the survivors of Graham was available. All three of the victims were laborers.

Finds Going A Bit Rough

Even this giant earth mover found the terrain almost too tough to handle in the tangle of canyons and hogbacks across which FM 700 is being constructed just south of Big Spring. The machine was hung astride "high center" for a time Friday afternoon as its operator was attempting to smooth out a route for the new highway. Work on the road project started a week ago and is advancing rapidly, despite the twin handicap of hills and draws. The road will cut around the southeast boundary of Big Spring from U.S. 87 on the south to U.S. 80 on the east.

U.S. Sending More Supplies To Far East

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Defense Department spokesman said today American forces in the Far East have an adequate supply of ammunition for fighting any conventional war.

But, he added in answer to questions, "additional supplies of many types, such as food, clothing and other material, as well as ammunition, are being sent as normal resupply operation."

Noting there has been some increase in U.S. forces in the Formosa area, the spokesman said this, too, entails the need for more supplies.

There also is a necessity to replace ammunition used by Chinese Nationalist artillery batteries on the Quemoy Islands in replying to the bombardment by Red Chinese forces in the mainland.

"There is no shortage of ammunition in the area which would affect our ability to fight a conventional war if called upon to do so," the spokesman said.

Meanwhile, there were these Washington developments in the Formosa area crisis:

1. George Yeh, Nationalist China's new ambassador, said Friday Communist Chinese guns have blocked efforts to supply Quemoy's defenders and that "we should choose the proper moment to retaliate with an air attack."

Yeh, saying "we don't want to involve the United States in a war," told newsmen he did not suggest that American bombers should join in any Nationalist air raid at this tine.

2. Secretary of Defense McElroy said at a news conference that any Nationalist attempt to strike back by air against communist shore batteries might be "a rather provocative action."

On another and major point, McElroy said he believed the United States "has made it clear we would resist an assault on the Quemoys by the Chinese Communists."

3. In a joint statement Friday night, the United States and Japan agreed the situation in the Formosa Strait should be settled peacefully and "without recourse to force." The statement was issued by Secretary of State Dulles and Japanese Foreign Minister Aiichiro Fujiyama at the end of two days of talks.

Rash Of Mishaps; Two Persons Hurt

Two persons were hospitalized but not seriously injured in a series of traffic accidents which occurred on Friday night and Saturday morning, the highway patrol reported Saturday.

Paul Murray, 51, Midland, was taken to Cowper Hospital by River Ambulance at 10:30 p.m. after a one-car accident six miles east on U. S. Highway 80. He had lacerations and there was fear he might have had internal injuries.

Pauline Smith, 20, of 1606 Lancaster was taken to the Big Spring Hospital for treatment after she was thrown out of a car window in a two car crash on the Moss Creek Lake road at 4 a.m. Saturday morning.

The patrol reported the first of the mishaps occurred at 5:10 p.m. Friday when Robert Jones, driving a 1946 Plymouth, collided with Joe Sherman's Ford tractor one mile east on U. S. Highway 80. Neither driver was injured but both vehicles were extensively damaged.

The second accident, which hospitalized Murray, occurred when he lost control of his 1955 Pontiac, with which he was pulling a boat, and crashed into a bridge six miles west on U. S. 80. The car and the boat were wrecked in the impact. He was alone in the car.

The accident which sent Miss Smith to the hospital was the result of a collision between two cars both of which were travelling the same way on the Moss Creek Lake road. The patrol said that one car was driven by David Allen Winter, 24, a Webb airman. He was in a 1954 Ford following behind a 1950 Plymouth, driven by Robert Dale Sharbona, 20, also an airman. Miss Smith was in this car.

The patrol said that Winer's car rammed the Sharbona car from the rear with such force that Mrs. Smith was thrown out of her vehicle through a window.

River ambulance removed her to the Big Spring Hospital.

Both cars were seriously damaged.

Tax Officials' Work Not Done

End of the equalization board meetings does not mean a lull in the tax work for tax assessor-collectors.

Mrs. Viola Robinson, assessor, whose staff has been working steadily for weeks posting the valuations set up by the tax engineers on the property listed in the county books, said Saturday that she saw very little chance that she can have the county tax rolls ready by the scheduled Oct. 1 deadline.

She pointed out that the hundreds of protests which were aired before the equalization boards or before the tax engineers have resulted in many adjustments of values. Now her task will be to go through the adjusted values and revise her records accordingly.

When this has been done, the next job will be to prepare the county tax roll — the official listing and figuring of the tax bills of the 13,000 taxpayers on the rolls.

Storms Halt World Flight

ROME (AP)—Storms Saturday night forced Capt. Charles F. Banfe Jr. to delay again his projected round-the-world flight in a single-engine plane.

Just five minutes before the Palo Alto, Calif., flier, was to take off from Rome's Ciampino Airport for Karachi, Pakistan, he received word that violent storms were sweeping over his flight route across southern Italy.

He climbed out of his Texas-built Mooney Mark 20-A plane and said he would try to take off again early tomorrow.

Banfe, an airline pilot, left New York last Sunday on what was to have been an eight-day solo flight around the world.

But on the first leg, a projected New York-Rome hop, a fuel line failure forced him to land in a Corsica vineyard. It took him most of the week to get the plane repaired and to fly to Rome.

Originally he planned to fly from Rome to Bombay and then on to Singapore, Tokyo, Mexico City and New York. But he changed the itinerary Saturday and scheduled stops in Karachi and New Delhi, rather than Bombay, before going on to Singapore.

Methodists Plan School Series For Church Leaders

The Big Spring First Methodist Church will be the site for one of a series of interboard district schools to be held in the Northwest Texas Methodist Conference, Bishop William C. Martin of Dallas has announced.

The Big Spring school is scheduled for Oct. 2 for churches of the Big Spring district. The series is planned for one day in each district, starting Sept. 22.

Schools will involve seven persons from each local church in the conference, including the pastor, official board chairman and the chairmen of five church commissions: Membership and evangelism, missions, education, stewardship and finance, and Christian social concerns.

Purpose of the sessions, according to Bishop Martin, is to increase the effectiveness of local churches by giving fuller information and training to the leaders. General board representatives who are assisting in the direction of the Dallas-Fort Worth area schools include: Dr. Lloyd Daugherty, Board of Evangelism, Nashville, Tenn.; the Rev. Walter Towner, Board of Education, Nashville; the Rev. Richard Belcher, Board of Missions, New York City; Earle MacLeod, Board of Lay Activities, Chicago, Ill.; and Dr. Caradine Hooton, Board of Temperance, Washington, D. C.

Terms Offered To End Strike Of Truckers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Teamsters Union locals in 11 Western states began voting today on an agreement reached Friday to settle the 34-day-old tieup of long haul trucking.

Approval of the agreement was announced by negotiators for the Teamsters' Western Conference and employers after lengthy federal mediation.

The strike-lockout, which began Aug. 11 with a walkout by the Central Valley Joint Council of Teamsters in California, idled some 100,000 workers for 1,200 trucking firms.

The voting on the agreement by union locals and employer groups is to be tabulated in San Francisco Monday and Tuesday.

A joint statement by Elinar O. Mohn, chairman of the Teamsters Western Conference, and Robert Cutler, El Paso, Tex., chief management negotiator, gave no terms of the settlement.

However, it was understood it provides for 10-cent hourly wage boosts now and in 1959 and 1960, plus improved fringe benefits.

Forsan Girl Gets HCJC Scholarship

STANTON—Nadene Pitcock of Forsan was announced as recipient of a scholarship given by Delta Kappa Gamma, honorary teacher's society, here Saturday.

The announcement was made at the monthly meeting of the Beta chapter which held its meeting in the Stanton High cafeteria. About 50 members were present including 22 from Big Spring. Miss Pitcock's scholarship is to HCJC.

Other members were present from Stanton, Coahoma, and Sterling City. Members of the Stanton Music Club presented the program. Mrs. Ruth Rutherford presided for the business session.

Dag Back From Mid-East Trip

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold returned from his Middle East peace mission Saturday. He made clear he had not yet accomplished what the General Assembly asked him to do — arrange to get American troops out of Lebanon and British troops out of Jordan.

He told airport reporters his talks with Mideastern governments "have been highly useful for the intended purpose, giving me much better background for the decisions which will have to be taken here."

But he said that purpose was not to negotiate, mediate or argue for "withdrawal of troops or what not" — only to get the governments' views "as a background for the practical arrangements that we might make from the U.N. side."

The Assembly's unanimous Aug. 21 resolution assigned him to make, in consultation with the early withdrawal of the foreign troops."

The troops went in last July because the two governments said they were being threatened by subversion fostered by the United Arab Republic.

Pioneer Resident Of Andrews Dies

Eddie Denies Writing That He Still Loves His Wife

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Singer Eddie Fisher declined to comment Saturday on Debbie Reynolds' announcement that she is going to sue him for divorce. But he did deny writing in a newspaper column that he still loves her.

The singer's press agent said he asked Fisher about the divorce situation and Fisher, in declining to comment, said: "All I can think of is my television show. We begin production meetings Monday."

As to the newspaper article, the Chester, Pa., Times Saturday published a copyrighted column with Eddie Fisher's byline in which the singer purportedly wrote: "I am still very much in love with my wife."

The newspaper said this was written by Fisher Thursday, a day after his separation from Miss Reynolds.

But in Hollywood, Fisher's press agent quoted the singer as saying this: "I did not write that story."

The press agent said he was at a loss to say who might have written the story.

In Chester, Bud Magnin, managing editor of the Times, said there could hardly be doubt about authorship of the column. He continued:

"I telephoned Fisher Wednesday and suggested that he write something in his next column which would set the record straight about himself, his wife and Elizabeth Taylor. He said he would do so.

"We received the column shortly after midday yesterday. Enclosed with it was a brief note, signed Eddie, saying 'I hope this is what you want,' and apologizing for some typing errors. The letter was mailed from Los Angeles Thursday and the postmark was 11:30 a.m.

"This column had been written on the same kind of paper Fisher has used since he started these columns for us July 1. The typing and other characteristics were the same. It certainly doesn't seem that anyone else could have written so personal a column."

Fisher issued a statement here Friday in which he said: "A breakup was inevitable. The marriage would have come to an end even if I had never known Elizabeth Taylor." He also said: "Debbie and I tried very hard to make our marriage work. We have been having problems for a long time. Debbie, especially, has done everything possible to make our marriage work. I alone accept full responsibility for its failure."

The situation came to a boil when Fisher returned from New York where he had been seen on frequent nightclub dates with actress Elizabeth Taylor, glamorous widow of showman Mike Todd.

First there was the separation and then Friday Miss Reynolds announced she would go ahead with divorce proceedings.

Miss Taylor, now in virtual seclusion in a Beverly Hills hotel, hasn't said anything for a day or two, but before that she commented: "I'm not taking anything away from Debbie because she never had it."

Mrs. Nalley's Father Dies

W. T. Gregory, father of Mrs. C. O. Nalley, died Saturday morning in a Ballinger hospital after being seriously ill for two weeks. He had been critically ill for the past week since suffering a stroke.

Services will be held at 3 p.m. Sunday at the First Baptist Church in Talpa, the family home for many years. He will be buried in the Talpa cemetery beside the grave of his wife, who died last May. Newby-Davis Funeral Home will be in charge of arrangements.

Besides Mrs. Nalley, other survivors include Mrs. Coy Estes, Ballinger, Mrs. George Bevell, Brownwood, and Miss Curtis Gregory, Talpa, daughters; and Jeff Gregory, Abilene, a son.

Goliad Students Elect Leaders

Representatives and other officers have been elected to the Goliad Junior High School student council, according to Bernard Rains, faculty sponsor.

Representatives from the 7th grade include Baxter Moore, Virginia Wilson, Ann Gibbs, Larry Paul Jones and Gloria Fletcher.

From the 8th grade, elected last spring, are Ronnie Crownover, Pete Harmonson, Karen McGibbon, Kennie Kay Stevens, and Karon Key.

Pate, council president; Bob Moore, vice president; Katy Bess Morgan, Karon Koger, Telie Grooms, Judy Gillean and Joan Jordan.

French Exchange Students Injured

PLEASANTON, Tex. (AP) — Two of six exchange students from France, hurt late Friday when their car crashed near Campbellton, were in serious condition in a Pleasanton hospital

They are Jean Pierre Baudais, 22, and Pierrette Robin, 20, both of Paris. Baudais suffered a broken back, while Miss Robin suffered a broken arm and severed ligaments.

THE WEEK

The Big Spring Concert Association is all set to kick-off its campaign for memberships on Sept. 23. The drive is due to be completed within two weeks. Offerings include the San Antonio Symphony, the "Diary of Anne Frank," Chicago Opera Ballet, the folk singer Dylan Todd.

* * *

Speaking of campaigns, the Chamber of Commerce began its special enlistment of new members. Early reports indicated encouraging response. Our chamber needs a faithful thousand members to have the necessary undergirding for an unhampered job.

* * *

ABClub members, working toward the relays next spring, are not letting any grass grow under their feet. They "signed" Abilene Christian College, which last year brought its great Bobby Morrow here for the celebrated "race of the century." Bill Woodhouse, returning ACC sprinter, is no slowpoke himself.

* * *

Howard County Junior College counted 315 entrance applications Saturday. While this is by no means the total expected since a lot of students show up unannounced, it is by far more advance applications than ever before. Hence prospects are high for another year of growth.

* * *

Incidentally, the $600,000 loan for revenue bonds on the two proposed dormitories at HCJC was firmed last week. Plans could be off the board within six weeks.

* * *

Baptist Temple, for one institution, isn't lacking in faith for prospects in the community. Last week the congregations adopted a 10-year development plan aimed at providing educational facilities for 1,400 people.

* * *

The building surge continued its head with announcement of plans to construct a $165,000 motel venture on U. S. 80 just north of the Webb AFB road intersection. Mrs. Laura Baker announced the project. Plans continued on at least two other fronts for major apartment developments.

Rains of the past week, as always, helped more than they hurt. Not all farmers were overjoyed because they wanted to pick, but then the showers were spotted as they were varied—ranging from sprinkles to as much as three inches.

* * *

The city commission grabbed the ball on master planning, assuring the Chamber of Commerce master planning committee that it was interested. Accordingly, the city proposes to talk directly to the county commissioners court about the matter.

Shuffles of the operations staff for the T&P Railway Company will send George Stone to Fort Worth as an assistant superintendent at that busy spot, and up Clarence Percy Jr. to assistant superintendent here. We hate to lose men like George Stone but are happy the T&P looks to the western division for executive material.

Two Men Are Held On Charges Of DWI

Two men were being held in the Howard County jail Saturday on charges of DWI.

They are Ray Garcia and Silvester Ramirez.

Also placed in the jail on Saturday was Edwin H. Huelster, 29, wanted here for felony worthless check. He was arrested in McCamey and returned to the Howard County jail Saturday by Sheriff Miller Harris.

Patrolman Finds Stolen Car While On Wreck Call

Kel Davis, highway patrol officer, killed two birds with one stone early Saturday. Rather, answering a wreck call at 4 a.m., enroute he located a car reported stolen and managed to cover both assignments without involvement.

The patrol officer was on his way to a two-car crash on the Moss Creek road. He noted a parked car on the side of the highway, spotted the license plate and identified it as that on an automobile reported stolen.

Not having time to check further, he hastened on to the wreck where he encountered two city officers. While he checked out the crash, he told the police about the car he had seen.

They investigated, finding the driver asleep in the vehicle. No charges had been filed Saturday in the case and the officers said they did not know what would be done about it.

Another Rattler Is Killed In City

Another rattler was killed here Saturday, the third reported on the south side of town this week.

Mrs. Bill Early reported that Neil Robinson, a Herald newsboy, killed the rattlesnake in the 1700 block of State. It was reported to be about four feet long.

Earlier, John Tibbets killed two near the south end of Scurry. Speculation is that the grading work on FM 700 has routed the snakes out of their holes.

MILITARY RECOGNITION WINS SILHOUETTE CONTEST AWARD

A military salute to Big Spring merchants is the theme of the prize winner this week in the last of the Silhouette Contest series.

First prize of $35 cash goes to A.1.C. Roe K. Fulgham, Headquarters 3560th, at Webb. He created a model jet plane of foil, and in the aircraft were packed the newspaper clippings bearing the silhouettes identified. The entry notes that "these Big Spring merchants have a warm welcome for all military personnel."

Winner of the second prize of $10 is Mrs. L. C. Wilkerson, Box 1124. She developed a model well (of coffee can and foil) to hold the identified profiles of participating merchants, with the observation "we are all in the well together wishing and working for a bigger and better Big Spring."

The third place award of $5 goes to Mrs. Marvin Woolridge, 1709 Settles.

This week concludes the contests whereby distinctive profiles of merchants have been identified. The Herald acknowledges, with thanks, the many entries that were submitted each week. The profiles appear today for the last time on Page 3-D.

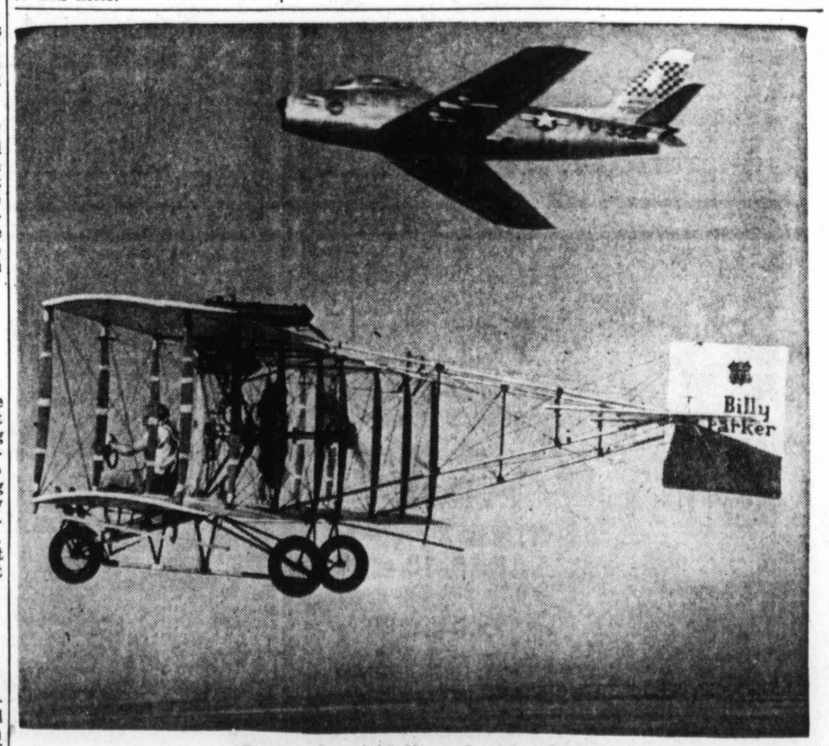

Terrorist Shoots French Policeman

PARIS (AP)—An Algerian terrorist shot and gravely wounded a French police sergeant today in one of the busiest quarters of Paris. The Algerian was promptly captured.

Terrorists carrying the Algerian revolution to France have killed 11 policemen and soldiers since a big attack started Aug. 25 with shootings and sabotage of oil tanks.

Man Suffering From Head Blow

Samuel Lee Porch, who said he lives in Midland, was found at 400 NW 3rd at 7:50 p.m. suffering from a blow on the head. City police reports stated he had a deep cut over one eye and was bleeding badly. He was given emergency treatment. The attack was referred to County Attorney John R. Coffee. He identified his assailant as a woman. His condition was not serious.

Due At Midland Air Show

This ancient plane, a 1912 model flown by Billy Parker, pioneer aviator and manager of aviation sales for Phillips Petroleum Co., dramatizes the progress of air travel as it is contrasted with the Sabrejet in the background. The old plane and many jets, including 12 T-33's from Webb AFB, will be on display during a big air show at Midland Air Terminal from 2 to 5 p.m. today. The Minute Men, precision flying team of the Colorado National Guard, will perform during the afternoon. Lt. Luther W. Manuel of Webb also will stage a flight demonstration.

Ike At Guarded Resort For Long Day Of Trout Fishing

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — President Eisenhower slipped away Saturday for a day-long outing of trout fishing at the guarded estate of a friend.

Getting an almost crack-of-dawn start, the vacationing President left the summer White House at Ft. Adams at 5:17 a.m. on a 20-mile helicopter hop to the resort home of W. Alton Jones near West Greenwich, R.I. Jones, a frequent golfing companion of Eisenhower, is board chairman of Cities Service Co., oil and gasoline company.

There was no White House announcement of the President's trout fishing plans until almost three hours after he had departed. In making the announcement then, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told some 40 newsmen here to cover Eisenhower's activities that it came as "somewhat as a surprise to me, too."

It was another indication—there have been several lately—that the President prefers not to have newsmen along for coverage of his recreation activities. This time it was even to the extent, apparently, of not letting Hagerty know in advance about his plans.

At a news conference, Hagerty made it clear that while the highway approaches to the Alton estate are open to the general public, any reporters or photographers attempting to travel further "won't get past a check point" manned by the always present Secret Service agents.

One photographer asked whether there would be any objection to trying to take pictures of the fishing President from an airplane.

"I wouldn't try it," Hagerty replied with a smile.

The press secretary also turned down flatly the request of newsmen for a report at the end of the day on whether Eisenhower caught any trout in the private lake on the Alton estate.

Hagerty said the President wanted one completely free day. He has been mixing work and recreation each other day since he came here for a vacation Aug. 29.

THE GREATEST TEACHER

That girl at the blackboard is Ellen Blake. She is a sixth grade student at Fairview Heights School, and she has just written my name. I'm the new teacher—Mary Thomas.

Being a teacher is a big job. Each Sunday I say a special prayer for guidance in my work. But I am well aware that the task of training these children for good citizenship is one I can't possibly accomplish alone.

This is a wonderful age, but it is often terrifying. There are so many diversions, so many activities and so much knowledge that seem apart from the Church. And yet God created everything, and God's love is universal. Today's children need help that only the Greatest Teacher of all can give them. They need the teachings of the Church, and a firm basis of Faith.

I'm gratified when I see so many of my students at church with their parents. The Church needs all; all need the Church.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

MEN'S WEAR OF CHARACTER

Gilbert May Claim Insanity In Clayton Stewart Murder Case

Ralph Leland Gilbert, 21, accused in the murder of Clayton Stewart, 87, Forsan rancher, will probably base his defense in court on a plea of insanity and he will not come to trial until the next regular term of 118th District Court.

These developments arose Friday when defense attorneys filed a motion for a continuance of the case. Gilbert was scheduled to have gone to trial on Sept. 22.

The motion for a continuance was allowed by Judge Charlie Sullivan and the case will be reset for the next term which opens Oct. 22. No date can be fixed for Gilbert's trial until after the term is opened.

The indication that R. H. Weaver and Harvey Hooser Jr., court-appointed lawyers to represent the penniless ranch hand, would submit a contention of insanity as a defense was incorporated in the continuance motion.

Signed by Gilbert, the motion asserted that the defendant was insane on July 17, the day he shot his aged employer benefactor to death and that he is insane at this time. Supporting this contention was a statement that his service records in the U. S. Navy would reveal the mental instability he claims. The attorneys for the defense have requested these records from the Navy but they have not been received. It was said that Gilbert was discharged from the service only a few weeks after induction because of his mental condition.

Defense attorneys also set up in their motion that they had not had opportunity to question important defense witnesses living in San Angelo. Gilbert is a native of that city.

They intend, the lawyers stated, to spend most of this week in San Angelo in conference with relatives, officers and others who have known their client for most of his life.

Guilford Jones, district attorney, did not oppose continuance of the case to next term but he did announced that the continuance was strictly for the defense and that the state was ready to go to trail on Sept. 22 as planned.

A special venire of 200 which had been drawn several weeks ago from the four panels for this term and whose members were to have been officially notified on Monday will not receive their notices.

The official notices were all prepared and ready for mailing in the office of Miller Harris, sheriff. Judge Sullivan instructed the sheriff to cancel plans to send out the letters.

After the new term opens on Oct. 22, a new special venire may have to be called However, if the issue of Gilbert's sanity is made a prime element in the defense, a hearing before a regular district court jury panel on this question will have to be conducted prior to the trial proper. The outcome of this hearing, if it is held, will hold the real key to the future destiny of the young defendant.

He is being held in the Howard County jail. He was placed in jail on July 18, the day following the murder.

18 Registered For Vocational Nurses Course

At least three more students are needed to assure a course in vocational nursing at Howard County Junior College.

Dr. Marvin Baker, in charge of the adult education program, said Saturday that 18 have signed for the course which will cover approximately a year of study and on-duty experience.

Those who complete the course and satisfactorily pass the state examination will be certified as licensed Vocational Nurses.

For the first four weeks, there will be six hours a day in class. During the next four weeks, there will be four hours in class and two hours duty at a hospital per day. During the next 10 weeks the time will be divided evenly between three hours in class and three hours hospital duty per day. The remaining time will be divided 36 hours hospital duty and four hours class per week.

Those interested should contact Dr. Baker at the college.

Another course being considered under the adult education course is pattern making for housewives.

A course advanced as a possibility last week was conversion of military rifles into sportsmen's rifles.

Most GOP Candidates Think Sherman Adams Should Quit

WASHINGTON (AP)—A cross-section check showed Saturday that 10 out of 18 Republican candidates for the Senate who could be reached think Sherman Adams should resign as President Eisenhower's chief assistant.

Republican campaign leaders reported that demands for Adams' separation from the administration have stepped up since the Democrats defeated GOP Sen. Frederick G. Payne in Maine last Monday, took the governorship and two of three House seats.

Both Payne and Adams were friendly with Bernard Goldfine, Boston industrialist. Both acknowledged receiving favors and gifts from him but denied the use of any improper influence with government agencies in Goldfine's behalf.

Politicians are divided on whether this situation contributed in any major fashion to Payne's defeat.

Aside from that, more than half of the GOP Senate candidates queried in an Associated Press check think Adams should go. There are 34 Senate contests in 33 states this year. Sixteen of the GOP candidates could not immediately be reached.

Three of those who were reached said the decision on whether Adams goes must be left to Eisenhower. Eisenhower has said Adams was imprudent, but has defended his assistant's integrity and said "I need him."

None of 18 candidates reached defended Adams publicly. Three declined any comment, and another, Sen. William A. Purtell of Connecticut, indicated he thinks the matter is going to be cleared up quickly.

Some Republican campaign leaders said they have been informed Adams may resign this week. Without saying whether he has any such information, Purtell said: "It is my belief the Adams matter will be resolved soon, and in the light of this I reserve comment."

These Republican senatorial candidates took the position that Adams should get out: Sen. Barry Goldwater (Ariz), Gov. Goodwin J. Knight (Calif), Sen. John J. Williams (Del), Sen. J. Glenn Beall (Md), Sen. Charles E. Potter (Mich), Sen. Roman L. Hruska (Neb), Rep. Kenneth B. Keating (NY), Sen. Arthur V. Watkins (Utah), Sen. Chapman Revercomb (WVa), and Sen. Frank A. Barrett (Wyo).

Most of these men called upon Adams to resign shortly after his relations with Goldfine were disclosed, and they said they have not changed position.

In Nevada, Sen. George W. Malone said the Adams case is "the President's business and not mine." Malone, once described by Eisenhower as a Republican unlikely to support much of the President's legislative program, added: "I'm for the President. Let him make his own decision."

In Massachusetts, GOP Senate nominee Vincent J. Celeste said: "I will go along with whatever the President decides to do, if anything." Montana nominee Lou Welch said it is up to Eisenhower whether Adams should resign.

In Missouri, Miss Hazel Palmer, the GOP Senate nominee, said: "I don't want to get into that now." The Wisconsin Republican candidate, Roland J. Steinle, declined comment. So did Forrest Atchley, the nominee in New Mexico.

In Washington state, GOP candidate William B. Bantz said he doesn't think the Adams case will make any difference in how the people vote there.

Ackerly Sailor On Way To Far East

ACKERLY—James R. Merrick, aviation machinist mate third class, is serving with Fighter Squadron 64 aboard the attack carrier Midway which left Pearl Harbor Aug. 26 to join the U. S. 7th Fleet in the Far East.

The Midway is scheduled to return to the U. S. in early 1959, barring a worsening of the Formosa Straits dispute between this country and China.

Merrick is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Merrick, Star Route, Ackerly.

Co-Op Power Usage Climbs

Heavy consumption in August helped cut the volume loss in comparison to a year ago for Cap Rock Electric Cooperative.

Monthly operating statistics showed 8,714,940 KWH of power bought and 8,395,880 sold. This made 30,551,870 for the year in purchases and 25,955,554 in sales.

August of 1957, culminating a summer of severe drought, had shown 6,659,670 KWH bought and 5,849,055 sold. At the end of August last year the cumulative figures were 32,427,410 and 29,065,731.

Abnormally heavy spring rains and occasional summer showers drastically reduced the demands by irrigators in central Martin County.

The 8,395,880 KWH sold during August of this year was above the 6,604,713 sold in July, which was the previous largest month. The August figure was a record for the Cap Rock system in any one month.

The system now has 2,003 miles of line energized, a gain of two miles for the month. The members connected stood at 3,852, up by 32 during August. The density per mile rose one point to hit 1.92.

BIG SPRING DAILY HERALD

SECTION B — BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1958 — SECTION B

Charlie Coe Captures His Second Nat'l Amateur Golf Championship

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Charlie Coe, 34-year-old Oklahoma oil broker, won the National Amateur Golf Championship for the second time Saturday, defeating young Tommy Aaron of Gainesville, Ga., 5 and 4 in the 36-hole final on the Olympic Club lake course.

Coe, who won his first title in 1949, crushed his 21-year-old opponent with a steady string of pars in the afternoon after leading only 2-up at the end of the morning 18 holes.

After cutting his deficit to one hole when Coe played the short 21st miserably, Aaron committed a damaging series of errors while Coe shot nearly perfect golf. Coe won five straight holes to reach the 27-hole turn 6-up. He closed out the match on the 32nd.

Aaron, a tall, powerful-looking University of Florida senior, was playing in his first national amateur championship. He had shot superb golf all week and he got off some fine shots Saturday to stay within striking distance for 21 holes.

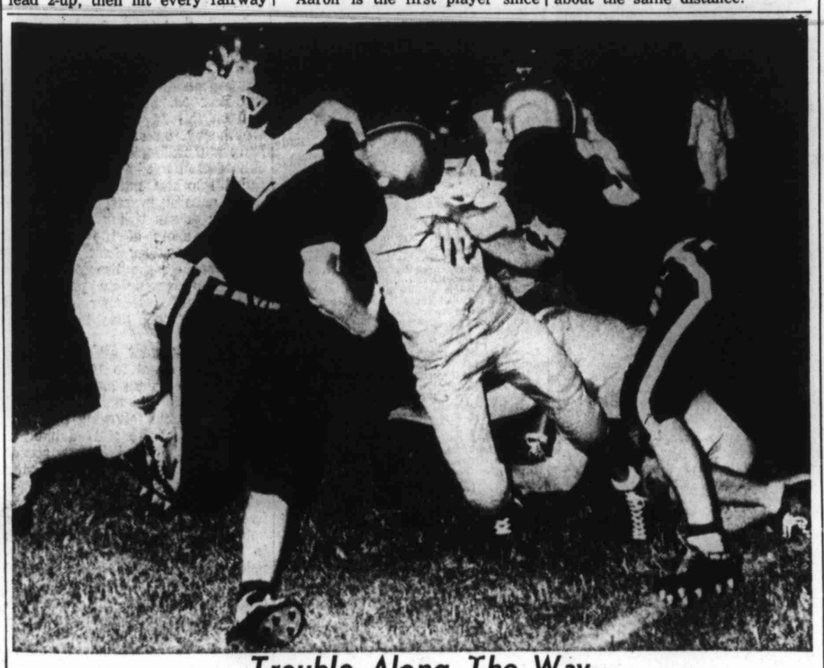

But Coe, playing in his 12th championship, had the experience and concentration that counted when the pressure began to mount. He had a morning round of 74 to Aaron's 76 over the trying 6,680-yard, par 35-35—70 course. He was out in approximately 37 Saturday afternoon, although he didn't hole out on the 21st.

The tall, lean Oklahoman rammed in a birdie putt of 18 feet on the 22nd green to make his lead 2-up, then hit every fairway and every green as he stretched out his lead.

Aaron prolonged the match by halving the 27th and 28th holes and winning the 29th. There Coe put his second shot into a trap—the first green he had missed since the 21st—and then missed a four-foot putt. But Coe closed out the match by sinking a 25-foot birdie putt on the 32nd.

Aaron is the first player since 1946 to reach the final of the national amateur the first time he qualified for it. Smiley Quick turned the trick then. Aaron is also the first college player to make the final since Billy Maxwell won the title in 1951.

Aaron had cut the margin to 1-up on the first hole of the afternoon round by sinking a three-foot putt while Coe missed one from about the same distance.

Trouble Along The Way

Tommy Whatley of Big Spring (with ball) advances, but not without experiencing some difficulty in the above picture. Teammate Jerry Dunlap attempts to clear the way for him. Whatley quarterbacked the Steers in the last stages of the game with San Antonio Edison here Friday night. The local club won, 26-0.

Henderson, Team 5 Record Wins

In Thursday Matinee Women's bowling league competition the past week, Henderson Cosden Service Station won over Tot N'Teen Shop and Team 5 turned back Team 6, both by margins of 3-1; while Teams 3 and 4 played to a 2-2 standout.

Dot Henderson of Henderson's led her club in scoring, with 167-157—438. Virginia Kent of Team 4 had a 155.

Nadelle Steakley of Team 5 posted a 416 aggregate. Henderson's recorded 868-857—2487 for the best team totals. Team 4 wound up with a 858 while Tot N'Teen had a 2469 total.

Splits were converted by:

Evelyn Ball, Henderson's, 3-10; Marvalene Mundell, Henderson's, 4-6-10; Daury Cockrell, Team 4, 3-10; Pat Stuteville, Team 5, 4-5; Nadelle Steakley, Team 5, 3-10; and Toni Roman, Team 6, 5-7.

Guthrie Defeats Bearcats, 22-14

GARDEN CITY (SC) —Guthrie put a blemish on the 1958 football record of the Garden City Bearcats by winning a 22-14 eight-man exhibition here Friday night.

Stalled in the first period, the Yellow Jackets tallied a touchdown in each of the last three quarters. They led at half time, 14-8.

Billy Fisher and Frank Murphy counted touchdowns for the home club.

E. B. Dozier Top Scorer In Loop

The first night of play in the Major Bowling league, an all-men organization, was completed last week with the 10 teams in competition.

In 3-1 victories were Fireball Muffler, over Wheat Furniture; Texas Electric over Independent No. 4; Team 6 over Lee Hanson; Miller the Killer over Cosden; and Savoy's Phillips 66 over Pepsi-Cola.

E. B. Dozier recorded high individual game and series for Fireball Muffler, with a 209 and 545, respectively.

Wheat Furniture sacked up the high team game with an 841. Fireball had high team series with 2464.

Tommy Jacobs Clings To Lead In Denver Open, 11 Under Par

DENVER (AP)—Tommy Jacobs 23-year-old Whittier, Calif., professional, shook off some putting jitters Saturday and hung on to his two-stroke lead in the Denver Centennial Open Golf Tournament.

He shot a 67 for a 54-hole score of 199, 11 under par for the Wellshire municipal course.

Another young pro, John McMullin, 23, of Fair Oaks, Calif., was tied for the runner-up spot with Arnold Palmer, Latrobe, Pa., at 201. Palmer won the Masters tournament this year and is the top money winner.

The best 18-hole score was a 7-under-par 63 by Doug Sanders of Miami Beach, Fla. This gave Sanders a score of 254, good for sixth place. He registered eight birdies and went over par on the 46th hole when he missed the green with his second shot.

Jacobs, who has not won a major tournament since joining the circuit a year ago, started as though he were going to shoot the course to ribbons. On the 510-yard 37th he ran down a 15-foot putt for an eagle 3 and birdied the 39th with a 10-footer but on the 40th and 43rd holes he missed putts of less than five feet for bogeys.

McMullin, who went over par on three holes while collecting six birdies, said putting was his best weapon but complained that his driving was off.

The 28-year-old Palmer carded five birdies including a deuce on the 50th where he put a three iron two feet from the pin. He went over par only once with three putts on the 46th.

Broyles Pleased Scribes Placed Hogs In 6th Spot

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP)—"I sure am glad they put us there," said Frank Broyles when he heard that Southwest Conference sportswriters had picked his Razorbacks to finish sixth in the nation's toughest football league.

Broyles, the red-haired Georgia Tech product who took over the head coaching job at Arkansas when Jack Mitchell returned to Kansas, is no pessimist. He didn't plan to finish sixth, but a sixth place choice by the sportswriters, who are traditionally wrong, takes a lot of pressure off the inexperienced squad Broyles is working with in the Ozark highlands.

Lack of depth and experience in the line is the main problem Broyles must lick before the Sept. 20 opener against Baylor in Little Rock. He inherited a fine backfield—three deep in top caliber performers except at quarterback—but 1957's good line was ripped to shreds by graduation.

Mitchell did Broyles a big favor when he decided to red-shirt quarterback James Monroe last year. Monroe was the second string signal-caller in 1956 and Broyles feels he can carry the load this season. He'll have to. Mike Cooney, last year's third stringer, is the only experienced hand behind him.

Broyles figures to fill the shoes of Gerald Nesbitt, the departed all-conference fullback, with Donnie Stone, a starting halfback last year. Stone possesses the size and power to make Porker fans forget Nesbitt, a 3-year star.

Halfback is loaded with Don Horton, Billy Kyser, Jim Mooty, Don Ritschel, Freddie Akers, Tommy Back, Jarrell Williams and Terry Arenz, all capable of starting roles.

At center, junior Barry Switzer and sophomore Wayne Harris are battling for the job vacated by all-conference Jay Donathan.

Billy Tranum is one fine end, but Broyles will be casting among squadmen and sophomores to fill the other terminal and add depth.

Where the Porkers are really hurting is in the center of the line. Gone are tackles Richard Bennett and Rollie Luplow and guards Stuart Perry and Jerry Ford—a quartet who made overland travel tough for more than one Arkansas opponent last season.

13-Hit Offensive Sinks Dodgers For Corsairs

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates launched a 13-hit attack against five Los Angeles pitchers Saturday and whipped the Dodgers 9-4 in the farewell game of the season between the two teams.

Pirate second baseman Bill Mazeroski drove in two runs in the fourth inning when he hit his 18th home run of the year over the left field scoreboard.

Dick Groat was a big help to the Pirate attack with a double and two singles. Bob Skinner belted a double and a single.

Dick Stuart, the Pirates' lanky first baseman, tied a National League record when he struck out for the sixth straight time in the second inning. He had fanned four consecutive times Friday night.

Dodger Manager Walt Alston was ejected from the game in the fifth inning by second base umpire Vinnie Smith. Alston was arguing with Smith about the Pirates Bill Virdon being ruled safe at second on a grounder hit to Don Zimmer by Roberto Clemente.

Ralph Mauriello, a righthander, made his major league debut as the Dodgers' starter and was charged with the loss.

3:44 Mile Coming

YANKEES CLINCH TIE FOR LEAGUE CROWN

CHICAGO (AP)—The New York Yankees clinched at least a tie for the pennant Saturday on Gil McDougald's three-run homer in the eighth that produced a 5-4 victory over the Chicago White Sox and kept Early Wynn from beating the Yankees for the entire season.

The Yankees, who will play a doubleheader in Kansas City Sunday, reduced their magic number to 1—a combination of 1 victory or 1 loss by the second - place White Sox would give New York its 24th championship and 9th in 10 years under Casey Stengel.

The Yankees boosted their lead to 12½ games over Chicago with 12 yet to play. The Sox have 13. They have two games with Washington Sunday.

Wynn absorbed his sixth loss by the Yankees and now has a 14-14 mark for the campaign.

In losing the two-game series with the Yankees the Sox won only 7 of 22 games against them this season.

Wynn seemed ready to get his first decision against the league champions until McDougald broke it up in typical Yankee fashion.

Mickey Mantle led off the eighth with a single, his only hit, but was forced at second by Yogi Berra. Bill Skowron walked. Then McDougald lofted his 13th homer into the left field stands.

OVER PHILLIES

Rodgers, Kirkland Star In Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Rookie Andre Rodgers' first home run of the season in the ninth inning proved to be the winning run in a San Francisco Giants' 6-5 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday. But the hero's mantle had to be reserved for outfielder Willie Kirkland.

Kirkland appears to be making a career out of helping beat the Phillies. On May 28, he rifled a home run in the ninth, whipping the Phillies 7-6. Then he went back to the minors for a spell.

Recalled in June, he walloped a home run off the Phillies' Ray Semproch in the 14th inning of a June 22 game, winning that one 5-4.

Saturday, he was sent in by Manager Bill Rigney after the Giants used a runner for Hank Sauer in the seventh. The sight of the Phillies must do something to Willie. He cracked an inside-the-park home run off his old friend, Dick Farrell, climaxing a five run, eighth inning rally which erased a 3-0 Philadelphia lead.

Southpaw Seth Morehead blanked the Giants through the first seven innings but came apart with two out in the eighth. He walked Jackie Brandt. Willie Davenport singled. Daryl Spencer singled home Brandt and Willie Mays' only hit of the day, a two bagger, sent home two more, tying the score.

That brought up Kirkland, who hit the scoreboard in centerfield. The ball rolled along the ledge on the bottom of the board as Kirkland circled the bases for his 13th homer of the season, scoring Mays ahead of him.

Clem, With Shoemaker Up, Upsets Round Table Again

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP)—Clem smashed the Atlantic City track record and prevented Round Table from becoming the world's leading money-winning race horse Saturday when he captured the $100,000 United Nations Handicap in a thriller before a sun-bathed crowd of 26,444.

In a dramatic switch of jockeys, it was Willie Shoemaker, the wee Texan who usually pilots Round Table, who brought Clem home the winner over Round Table by a half length for the second straight race.

Round Table, with Shoemaker aboard, was upset on Labor Day when Clem won the Washington Park Handicap. Johnny Sellers rode Clem that day.

Clem, owned by Mrs. Adele L. Rand of Santa Fe, N.M., is named for the veteran racing announcer, Clem McCarthy, and he was getting the calls over the loud speaker, as well as radio and television.

The time for the mile and three sixteenths on the grass course was a blistering 1:54 three-fifths, compared with the 1:55 four-fifths mark hung up in 1953 when Iceberg 2nd from Chile won the United Nations.

Round Table, who went into the race with earnings of $1,243,114, picked up second place money of $20,000, instead of the $65,000 which went to Clem.

The winner's purse would have put Round Table past Nashua, now retired, as the world's No. 1 banknote winner. The great Nashua retired in 1956 with $1,288,565, so Round Table will have to wait another day to get the greenbacks job done.

Detroit Rakes O's Pitching

DETROIT (AP) —The Detroit Tigers put on their finest hitting show of the season Saturday, raking four Baltimore pitchers for 16 hits and a 3-2 victory in the final 1958 contest between the two American League rivals.

Gail Harris hit a pair of towering home runs and added a single, scoring twice himself and driving in four runs. His homers were his 17th and 18th of the season and brought to seven the number off Baltimore pitchers.

Harvey Kuenn ,still in contention for his first American League batting championship, had a single, double and triple in five trips and raised his batting average to .316.

Bears, Porkers In SWC Feature

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Speculation ends and facts start falling into place this week when the Southwest Conference opens its forty-fourth football campaign.

A race as enigmatic as any of its predecessors begins unfolding Saturday when seven of the eight member schools dash into battle with the headline at Little Rock where Baylor and Arkansas clash in the earliest conference game in history.

Texas A&M plays Texas Tech, the non-championship participating member, at Dallas while Texas Christian, Rice and Texas launch the league on an ambitious intersectional schedule.

Texas Christian, the team that's generally favored to win the championship, actually plays the opening game. The Christians clash with Kansas at Lawrence in an afternoon tussle.

Saturday night finds Texas engaging Georgia at Austin and Rice hosting Louisiana State at Houston in addition to the Tech-Texas Aggie and Baylor-Arkansas squabbles.

Southern Methodist doesn't start the season until Sept. 27 when the Methodists battle Ohio State at Columbus. For that reason an accurate check on the strength of the conference teams can not be fully achieved this week.

SMU is one of the favorites, with its 21 lettermen, great passer Don Meredith and some outstanding sophomores.

Texas Christian will be meeting a team that had an identical record last year—5-4-1. The Christians though didn't take the lusty beatings Kansas suffered at the hands of the likes of Oregon State, Oklahoma and Miami.

But Kansas has 20 lettermen and a new coach, Jack Mitchell, who was at Arkansas last year and administered a licking to TCU.

Texas A&M will return the single wing to the conference when it meets Texas Tech. Jim Myers is the new coach at Aggieland and he has equipped his well-stacked team with this formation that depends on power and is suited best to passing. Tech has more lettermen than the Aggies but A&M seems to have more quality.

Texas, whose coach has been underrating it for months, claiming it just doesn't have the experience to challenge for the title, gets a dangerous foe in Georgia. The Bulldogs are 25-lettermen strong, with a dozen seniors. They had only a 3-7 record last season but are expected to vastly improve on that this year.

Rice will have to stop the fastest man in football—Billy Cannon—when it rolls against Louisiana State. LSU has no more experience than Rice but the Owls don't have anybody looking equal to Cannon, a fellow well known in Texas last year for his running feats against Texas Tech.

Baylor and Arkansas always play a close-to-the-chest game. In the last seven contests there has been no more than seven points separating them. Arkansas won 20-17 last year.

Baylor is ranked last in the conference and Arkansas next to last. The boys may be deciding who's going to be in the cellar the first crack out of the box. Arkansas, with its great speed, should be favored to take the decision.

ELLIOTT EYES A BIG OFFER

PERTH, Australia (AP) — A wealthy Perth bookmaker promised Saturday to place 111,600, Australian pounds ($250,000) in a Perth bank as a guarantee of Herb Elliott, Australia's miracle miler, would turn professional.

Elliott's father, Herb Elliott, Sr., acting for the famous runner, said he wanted more time to think about it.

The bookmaker, P. B. Healy, said he was acting in behalf of the American promoter, Leo Leavitt of Chicago, who has been making pro offers to the miler.

Leavitt has been conferring for three days with Elliott Sr., on the pro offer. The younger Elliott is returning home from an European campaign during which he ran a record 3:54.5 mile and 3:36 for 1,500 meters.

Stanton Buffaloes Surprise Big Lake

By DON HENRY

STANTON (SC) — Two quick touchdowns plus savage line play paved the way to a 14-12 victory for the Stanton Buffaloes over the visiting Big Lake eleven here Friday night.

The win was the first in two outings for the Buffs and their opening home game. For the Owls, it was their first contest of the 1958 season.

Stanton jumped off with 8 points before Big Lake got its hands on the ball, added a second counter in the first half and then staved off a last-half rally. The Owls made most of their yardage around end and via passes; the center of the Buff line yielded very little ground.

Stanton's Kenneth Yates brought the fans to their feet on the kick-off when he returned the opening boot from the Stanton 25 to the Owl 20. And in five plays, Stanton had racked up its first tally.

Four plays carried to the five, and Yates cut over his own right guard for the counter. Porky Britton crashed over center for the vital two points to put Stanton in the lead for good.

Big Lake found it impossible to gain yardage against the Buffs in the first quarter and the opening play of the second period found the Owls forced to punt. Stanton gained possession on the Big Lake 30.

Buzzy Brewer went over center for two, and on the next play, quarterback Dwayne Thompson circled his own left end for the remaining 28 steps and Stanton's second TD. The extra point try failed, but Stanton, as it turned out, had enough to win.

Big Lake came out after the half with plans to make the game a closer contest and maye a runaway, scoring the first two times it got the ball.

Big Lake kicked off and held Stanton on downs to take over on the Buff 38. Six plays found the ball on the 24, and then Karman Weatherby, alternating at quarterback and tailback, cut around left end and back to midfield and raced into the end zone.

The ensuing kickoff was followed by four downs which netted Stanton just short of the needed 10 yards for another first. The Owls took over on the Stanton 46 and fired two incomplete passes before Harold Gardener connected with a long pass play to Weatherby.

Weatherby went all the way to narrow the count to 14-12, but the try for two points again failed.

Stanton lost the ball on the Owl 47 on a fumble following the kick-off, and Big Lake started another drive which looked like a scorer before a fumble cut short the Owls' hopes.

The Owls moved to the Stanton five as the fourth period opened before Weatherby was thrown back to the Buff 20 and fumbled. Arnold Fincher fell on the ball to end the threat. Big Lake got the ball twice more before the game ended, but it wasn't able to mount a drive.

Stanton's complete domination of the first half is shown by Big Lake not being able to get past the 50 until the closing minutes of the second period. In the first half, the Owls could gain only 46 yards—34 of them on the ground, while Stanton racked up 87 on the ground and 32 in the air.

The Buffs now look forward to a game away from home with Grandfalls next Friday night before returning to face Ozona here Sept. 26.

Star League Sets Up Organization

A meeting of women bowlers at the Clover Bowl recently sent the Star Bowling league into its first functioning. Officers were elected, rules were voted upon and teams were formed.

Elected presiding officer was Bobbe Larsen, and others were vice president Lee Duncan, secretary Shirley Webert, treasurer Beverly Gibson, and reporter Wilma Shepherd.

Team sponsors were named but there still remains a shuffling of players among the groups. Captains of the teams are: Harmonsen Foreign Motor, Lockie Beach; Girdner Electric, Beverly Gibson; River Funeral Home, Frances Glenn; Baron's Dress Shop, Margie Raughley; Tate-Bristow-Parks, Jean Cauble; Edward Heights Pharmacy, Lucy Garrison; Jo's Dress Styles, Jo Palone; Park-Inn, Janice Sursky.

Bowling will be on Fridays at 8:30 p.m. The eight teams have five women performers each.

Bulldogs Lose 52-6 Verdict

OZONA (SC)—The Ozona Lions had much too much for Coahoma in a football exhibition here Friday night, winning, 52-6.

The Bulldogs could never untrack until the final period, at which time Lonnie Anderson intercepted an Ozona aerial and raced 44 yards across the double stripes.

Sharp passing by Bobby Sutton, David Sikes and Bob Mienecke broke the game wide open for the Lions.

Jerry Jacobs counted first for Ozona in the opening quarter on a 26-yard pass from Sutton. Sutton then ran for two points. The Lions went on to count two more TD's in that period. Sikes sought out Jim Williams with a payoff pitch. The play covered 27 yards.

Sutton himself ambled seven yards for the third Ozona score of the period. Bill Holden ran over the two-point conversion.

Jacobs again counted in the second, this time on an aerial thrust by Meinecke, good for 30 yards. Don Powers added two points on a conversion try.

The Lions padded their lead in the second quarter when Tony Parker raced 26 yards into the end zones. That made it 36-0.

Williams gathered in another aerial from Sikes, good for 16 yards, for Ozona's only TD in the third. Holden added two points on a PAT run.

Coahoma made only 48 yards rushing to 339 for Ozona and 49 yards passing to 140 for the home club. Ozona was not forced to punt during the game.

The Coahoma club plays its home opener next Friday, at which time it hosts Loraine.

San Antonio Edison, a team which must get accustomed to defeat this season, proved no match for the Big Spring Steers in football's inaugural show played before 3,500 fans here Friday night.

The Longhorns buried the Bears under a 26-0 score and it could have been a lot worse. Coach Al Milch saw to it that his sophomores piled up plenty of playing time in the final quarter.

Big Spring counted twice in the opening quarter, once in the second and its final six-pointer in the third round.

Edison, no doubt, would have averted a shutout had its backs been able to hold onto the ball. The Bruins from the Alamo City got as far as Big Spring's three-yard line on one occasion and twice advanced as far as the Steers' 17 but on each occasion yielded possession.

In all, Red Forehand's team fumbled six times and recovered on only one of those occasions. The alert Steer forwards hawked the ball throughout.

The Steers must wait for yet another day to get a true test. Edison, a green ball club, simply came along for the ride.

It was in over its head from the start.

Wayne Fields, far and away the leading ground gainer of the night although he was employed sparingly, counted Big Spring's first two touchdowns.

He churned off right tackle for 12 yards and the locals' first tally 6:20 minutes deep in the opening period at the end of a 41-yard drive.

The run for point failed but Fields zipped 54 paces right up the middle for his second tally a short time later. Big Spring had gone on the offensive at its own 23 following recovery of a Bear fumble by Frank Williamson.

Freddie Brown, who was one of the top ball carriers for Big Spring, added two points to the Steers' aggregate with a run on the PAT try.

Near the end of the second quarter, fleet Buddy Barnes swept left end from two yards out for Big Spring's third touchdown, culminating a 70-yard drive. The run for point ended up just short of the goal and Big Spring led, 20-0.

Barnes got back into the scoring act with 10:55 gone of the third period when he roared 12 yards, slanting off right end. Donnie Morrow had curled himself around an Edison fumble on Big Spring's 10 to put Big Spring in business again and the Steers moved downfield without misfiring.

The run for point again failed and Big Spring had the margin it held to the very end.

A lost fumble on Edison's 17 early in the game kept Big Spring away from the goal the first time it got the ball.

Gene Salazar and Ronnie Pairish twice came up with Edison bobbles that stopped San Antonio thrusts.

Mackie Alexander played one of the finest defensive games in the Steer line. He was smearing everything that came his way. Benny McCrary was a stickout for Big Spring, both defensively and offensively. Don Payne, Chubby Moser, Williamson, Bud Bridges and Bobby McCrary were among the many local boys who distinguished themselves in the trenches.

Brown electrified the stands several times with his mercurial play. Back J. B. Davis and Carey King both showed well.

Bill French, cool and collected, was in command of the situation at all times as the Steer quarterback. His understudies, Donnie Everett and Tommy Whatley, were considerably more than adequate, too, when tapped for action.

Edison had its heroes. Ralph Bushell, the visitors' fullback, gained 96 yards in 19 carries. Curtis Smith was hobbled in the last half but he wound up gaining 56 paces. The Bears' Dennis Miller plugged away for 67 yards.

All in all, it was a night when Big Spring fans had much to cheer about and little opportunity to second guess the coaches. One thing which impressed the onlookers was the fact that the talent runs deeper here than most everyone expected it would.

All 2-4A Elevens Triumph In 1958 Football Debuts

District 2-AAAA football teams came through without a slipup in opening games last weekend but Abilene and Midland had close calls.

Big Spring and San Angelo engaged in the easiest romps while Odessa had things all its own way to belting Pasadena, 21-8.

Big Spring knocked over San Antonio Edison, 26-0, without a great deal of trouble. San Angelo rambled past a game but outclassed Colorado City outfit, 43-6.

Abilene had to go all out to vanquish San Antonio Thomas Jefferson, 28-26. Jefferson is the favorite in its district.

Midland had its hands full in repelling Lamesa, 8-6. Lamesa gained more yardage (166 on the ground and 14 in the air to 142 on the ground and none in the air) than did the Bulldogs and Midland had to repell a Tornado threat in the final quarter to win. Lamesa drove all the way to Midland's two-yard line before yielding possession.

Pat Whitaker scored what proved to be the difference in the game on a PAT run after Don Boyce had counted the Bulldogs' TD. Bill Addison went over for Lamesa in the third quarter.

Colorado City scored first on San Angelo but the Bobcats dominated the game from there on down to the wire.

Bobby Lowery passed seven yards to Charles Starkey for the first Bobcat score.

In the second round, Lowery went over from one yard out and passed to David Senter for two extra points.

Starkey then churned over for San Angelo from nine yards away and Lowery booted the PAT.

Wedge Turner, James Collins and Verlin Kelly added TD's for San Angelo in the last half while Tommy Ford and Don Young added PAT's.

Ronnie Goodwin counted two touchdowns and Belmont Westbrook one in Odessa's victory over Pasadena. The Red Hosses scored in every quarter but the third.

Abilene contained Jefferson on the ground, outgaining the visitors, 203-92, but had lots of trouble with the Mustangs in the air.

The Eagles took a 16-0 lead in the first quarter but Jefferson was in command at half time, 20-16.

Andy Springer counted twice for Abilene on runs of 70 and seven yards). Stan Cozby got one on a 54-yard gallop and Charley Harrison the other on a one-yard plunge.

Harrison and Cozby each tallied two points on extra points runs.

Next week, Midland visits Amarillo for a game with Palo Duro, Odessa invades Lubbock for an outing with Tom S., Abilene will be in Sweetwater, San Angelo tries Corpus Christi Ray at home and Big Spring hosts Ysleta.

ACKERLY (SC) — Forsan and Ackerly smashed play for play on near-even terms during the first half of their game here Friday night, before a churning little sophomore and a gang-tackling defense muffed the Eagles bid for a top upset. Forsan took a 28-8 triumph.

The victory was the Buffs' second decisive battle. Last week they powdered Dawson, 52-6. Ackerly had dropped Smyer, 8-0.

The green and yellow shirted Eagles, playing on their home field encircled by a spirited crowd, halted Forsan's vexed running attack for only three first downs the first two periods, but the Buffs had too much power in the stretch.

Dewey Howard, 135-pound soph, scored only four points on two PAT runs, but his zippy jaunts through the middle kept the Buffs in a potential scoring position constantly. Forsan's offense depended on his timely six and seven yards gains, most of them setting up TD's.

The Buffs scored twice in the first half. Midway in the first quarter, after a pass interception by Jerry Bardwell, Howard lugged the ball thrice for 19 yards to the Ackerly 18. A holding penalty stalled the drive, and another for illegal procedure killed it.

After two plays, Ackerly quarterback Royale Lewis faded virtually to his own goal line, was slammed hard by two Buff men, and lost a fumble. From there, Coach James Blake's team leader, George White ducked across for the score. Howard added the PAT to make it 8-0.

In the second period, rugged defensive end Charles Skeen slipped through to disrupt a punt attempt, and on Forsan's first scrimmage effort from mid-field, Jerry Bardwell passed to Bill Conger on the 2. Bardwell scored, Howard converted on a run, and Forsan led, 16-0.

The Eagles came screeching back into the game on the following kickoff return, Benny Kunkel gathered the bouncing kickoff in on the Ackerly 8, slipped it to Lewis passing to the left sideline, and the tall redheaded signal - barker hugged the boundary for a 70-yard touchdown scamper. The halftime score was 16-8.

In the third, Howard intercepted a pass and returned it to the Eagle 30. He and Freddie Park alternated to lug it to the 19, setting up another touchdown. Quarterback White bobbled a handoff, scooped it up and pitched it to Park who was five yards near the sideline.

Park scored from 12 yards out for a Forsan 22-8 lead.

With five minutes to play, White sneaked across to tally following three Howard-totes to the three yard stripe. Point conversion failed and the score stayed at 28-8.

Best defensive men for Forsan were sparkplug Howard and Raymond Martin, Howard getting credit for a half dozen key tackles.

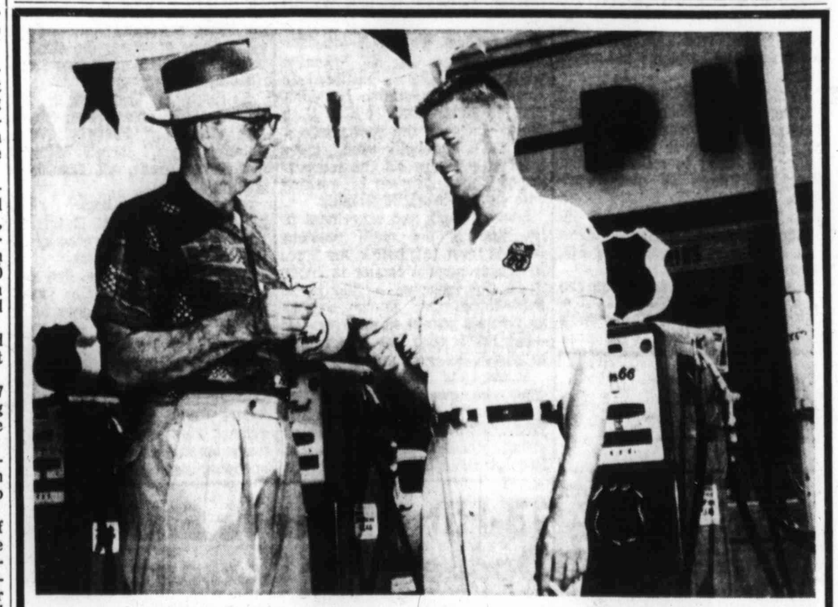

Gibby Ingram, Kunkel, Lewis, Adams and Buster Grigg, seniors, carried the responsible duties for the Ackerly crew.

Adams left the game shortly after halftime with a shoulder injury, and didn't play the rest of the night. Forsan end Charles Skeen was also a casualty, struck in the eye by the football early in the second period during a pass play.

Ackerly's formation, basically a spin-and-lateral to the right or left flanker in motion, obviously was too delayed for the quick charging Buffalo defense. Occasionally the double and triple handoffs worked for Coach Garlon Freeman's men, but more often than not, Forsan defenders including Howard, Stanley Willis, Raymond Martin, and Ken Duffer were dealing out losses to Eagle backs.

Forsan filled the air with passes when their running game faltered in the first half. Totalled, they completed five of 12 for 83 yards. Ackerly had three punts blocked, but was able to get one quick kick off for 26 yards. The Eagles completed one of eight passes, good for 25 paces.

Next week Forsan plays Knott at Forsan and Ackerly challenges Wellman on the Eagles' field.

"Golden Approach"

Jimmy Hopper, operator of the Phillips 66 Service Station at Eleventh Place and Johnson is handed a special award by K. H. McGibbon, local Phillips jobber, for giving perfect driveway service to a "Mystery Motorist."

When this "Mystery Motorist" drove into the station at 11th and Johnson unknown to Hopper, he got the same "Golden Approach" service Jimmy and other Phillips dealers give you every day.

This "Golden Approach" includes a friendly greeting, checking under the hood of your car, cleaning all your car windows, whisk-brooming the floor mats, checking the tires, and thanking you for your patronage.

In this case, the motorist was one of 2,000 visiting Phillips stations regularly to encourage constant top-notch service. Thus, Mr. McGibbon, on behalf of Phillips Petroleum Company, followed up by presenting a $25 cash award to Hopper.

Why don't you make your next stop at this friendly Phillips 66 Station at 11th and Johnson — or at any other Phillips Station where it will be a Golden Experience for you and your car.

Ted Williams Assumes League Batting Lead

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cleveland Indians climbed to within a game and a half of the third-place Boston Red Sox Saturday by beating the Bosox 4-1 with a three-run seventh-inning rally in which Dave Sisler walked home the winning run and Vic power doubled in two more.

The victory went to Cal McLish and the seven-hitter was win No. 15 against seven lost. The Tribe finished its season with Boston with 10 victories to the Red Sox's 12 and with a sweep of the close-out, two-game series.

Three of the four players with the highest American League batting averages took part in Saturday's game: Ted Williams broke out of a tie with his Boston teammate Pete Runnels by getting a single in three trips, along with a walk, while Runnels went hitless. Williams' average held at .320, while Runnels slipped to .318. His double and a single enabled Vic Power, fourth in the averages, to go up a point to .315.

Through the first 6½ innings it was a pitchers' battle between McLish and Sisler, who went down to his ninth defeat against eight victories.

Warren Spahn Wins 20th Mound Verdict

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Warren Spahn became the first lefthander in major league history to win 20 games for the ninth time as he pitched the Milwaukee Braves to an 8-2 victory over the St. Louis Cadinals Saturday.

The Braves' southpaw ace, in chalking up his 20th victory against 10 losses, broke a tie with two immortal American League portsiders, Lefty Grove and Eddie Plank, both of Philadelphia, each of whom had registered eight 20-game seasons.

Spahn also moved into a tie with Grover Cleveland Alexander for fourth place among all pitchers in the game's history. Cy Young leads with 16 seasons of 20 victories or more, followed by Christy Mathewson with 13 and Walter Johnson with 12.

Spahn has had better days but was good enough to win—thanks to a 5-run outburst by his teammates in the fourth and a 3-run 8th inning. He performed before a crowd of 36,092, allowing the Cards nine hits, striking out 2 and walking none.

The victory was important to the Braves, leading the National League by 7½ games. Although the second-place Pittsburgh Pirates won, too, Milwaukee's magic number—any combination of Braves' victories and Pirate losses—was reduced to five.

BS Runnels Is Winner

MIDLAND (SC) — Jack Irons scored all the points for the winners as the Runnels 9th graders of Big Spring shaded Midland Austin, 8-2, in a football game here Saturday afternoon.

Irons, who plays tailback, plowed over from two yards out at the end of a 60-yard drive in the third quarter for the only touchdown of the game. He later accepted a pass for the other two points.

Big Spring had numerous other chances to score but fumbles hurt the Yearlings.

Midland got credit for a fumble when the Big Spring center snapped the ball over the heads of the Yearling backs in the second period.

Irons was outstanding for Big Spring on offense and defense. Linebacker Gene Horton and guard-tackle Guy Dobbs were others who played stellar ball for the Big Spring club.

Richards Seeking Stiffer Penalties

DETROIT (AP)—Manager Paul Richards of the Baltimore Orioles, who was fined for violating the old baseball bonus rule, Saturday suggested a new system putting the heaviest penalty on the club for violations.

"My plan would absolutely rupture a team that tried to circumvent the rule with under-the-table payments," said Richards.

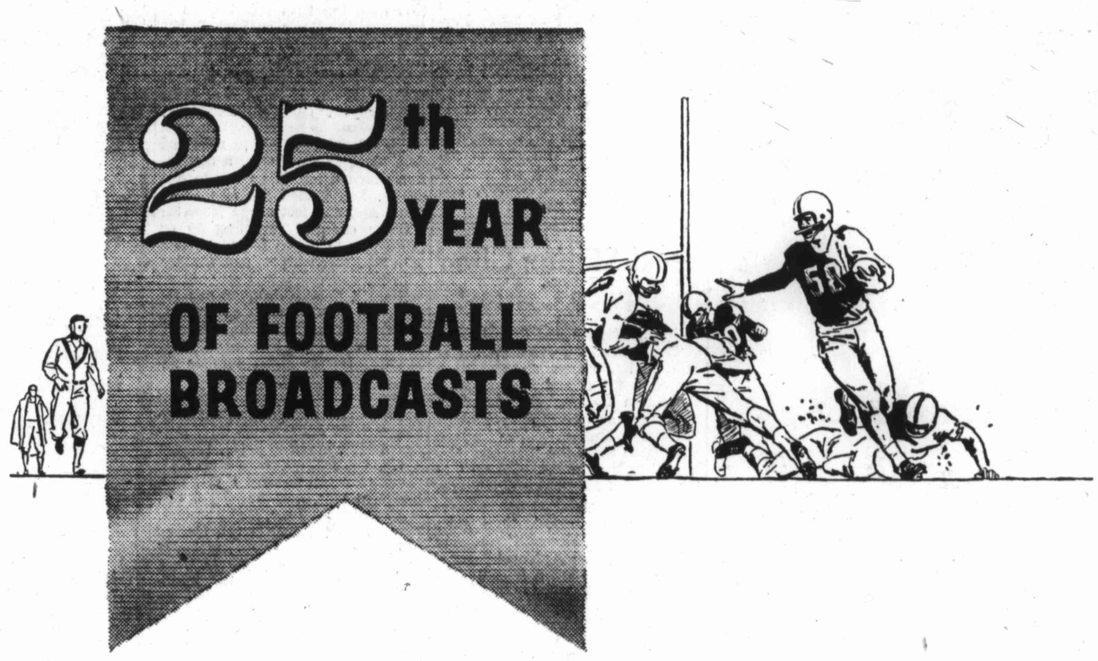

"Take 'em out of the bonus business for two years and you'd really have 'em by the neck."

Richards was fined $2,000 and the Orioles $2,500 in connection with a $40,000 bonus contract signed by Tom Borland, Oklahoma A&M pitcher, in 1955.

The bonus rule then in effect and repealed for this season provided that a player given more than $4,000 to sign had to stay on the major league roster for at least two years.

Richards' idea for a new rule is to "put a ceiling of $7,000 a year on a kid's payments for three years for a total maximum outlay of $21,000. Anything paid over that would put a player in a bonus category and freeze him to a major league roster for three years."

Richards said he is amenable to other penalties such as suspending the manager or general manager and fining both him and the club.

Cosden Stockholders To Meet Monday

Stockholders of Cosden Petroleum Corp. will hold their annual meeting in the company headquarters here Monday at 11 a.m.

Directors, all of whom have been nominated for new terms, began arriving here Saturday and the last of the group is expected Sunday morning. Several stockholders from various parts of the nation, as well as representatives of large blocks of stock, have indicated they will be on hand Monday.

Re-election of the board and approval of two proposals appeared solidly assured on the basis of proxies on hand.

The board will be in session at 10 a.m. with R. L. Tollett, president, for discussions in advance of the annual meeting. Following the formalities of the annual meeting at 11 a.m., Tollett will follow his usual custom of remarking informally on company operations and prospects, and answering any questions which may be raised.

Immediately afterwards the newly elected board will go into session to elect officers and attend to such other business as may be pending.

The two proposals by management has to do with granting of stock purchase options to certain executive level officers to increase proprietary interest in the company's progress, and with the affirmation of a policy which would wash out any pre-emptive rights in stock.

Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Karcher came up from Austin Thursday in advance of the meeting. He is a director and secretary of the corporation. Due Saturday were William H. Hayes, Leon M. O'Neill and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas I. Sheridan Jr. of New York City. With the Sheridans was his father, Thomas Sheridan Sr., whom the younger Sheridan succeeded last year as a member of the board. The remaining out-of-town director, Herbert W. Grindal, and Mrs. Grindal were expected Sunday from San Antonio.

Spraberry Try Due In Dawson

George Gibson of Midland has located a try in the Jo-Mill (Spraberry) field on the Dawson County side, and Texas Seaboard announced completion of a well in the Spraberry Deep pool.

The new site is Gibson No. 1 Stewart about 11 miles north of Ackerly. Location is 550 from north and 1,900 from west lines, 5-34-4n, T&P Survey, on a 160-acre lease, and operator will drill to 7,700 feet.

The Texas Seaboard No. 16 A. J. Spraberry about 11 miles southeast of Lamesa yielded 344.28 barrels of 39.6-degree oil as potential with a half-inch choke being used, Operator reported only 1 per cent water accompanying, and the flow was after the well had been treated with 500 gallons of acid.

Gas-oil ratio measured 593-1.

The well is 1,680 feet from south and 550 from east lines, 38-34-5n, T&P Survey.

Total depth is 7,510 feet, but it is plugged back to 7,464. Five and a half-inch string is set on the bottom of the hole. Spraberry production is reached at 7,278 feet, and perforation interval is 7,278-400 feet.

Plugged Yoakum Test Is Re-Entered

L. T. Pate of Dallas announced this weekend that he would re-enter an old abandoned wildcat in Yoakum County for additional tests in the San Andres. It was originally tested in that zone but nothing was found.

The venture will be Pate No. 1 Buckner, 660 feet from south and 1,980 from east lines, 604-D, Gibson Survey, and 10 miles northwest of Denver City.

It was originally drilled in 1952 as the Murchison & Fikes No. 1 Neely to a depth of 11,474 feet in the San Andres but abandoned it after finding nothing of commercial value.

Pate will clean out to 5,400 feet in the zone and try to complete it.

Pioneer Gathering Buys Irion Gas

A gas purchase contract covering the purchase of gas from wells in the Ketchum Mountain field in Irion County has been signed between Pioneer Gathering System, Inc. and Sinclair Oil and Gas Co. The announcement was made by Burton P. Smith, president of Pioneer Gathering System.

The gas purchased by Pioneer Gathering will be produced from wells heretofore flared for lack of an available market.

Pioneer Gathering, a subsidiary of Pioneer Natural Gas Co., is already buying gas in this area and delivering it to Permian Basin Pipeline Co.

To tie the additional wells to its system, Pioneer Gathering has made application to the Federal Power Commission for the construction of two miles of 2⅜-inch pipeline. If approved, gas delivery is projected for Jan. 1.

BACK ON JOB

Dixon Returns To Cosden After Earning Degrees

Floyd Dixon is back on the job at Cosden's refining plant here wearing a brand new degree — that of electrical engineer.

Two years ago he left the plant here to enroll at Texas Tech under the Cosden scholarship plan which encourages and finances select candidates to complete technical training.

Although the terms of the scholarship do not require an individual to return to Cosden, Dixon hurried home to begin work on a special project in the engineering department. In addition to the degree in electrical engineering, he also completed enough work for a bachelor of arts degree with a physics major, which will be awarded him next June.

Despite a lapse of some 15 years in his college training, Dixon made the Phi Kappi Phi honorary scholastic fraternity which is open only to the top two per cent of juniors and eight per cent of seniors. He also was accepted into professional and scholastic engineering fraternities.

He had been in Tech two years when World War II hung off in the balance. He entered service, was captured on Wake Island and somehow managed to survive the next 44-months in a Japanese prison camp. After recuperating, he joined American Airlines as a meterologist.

Dixon had been working with Cosden a couple of years when he was tapped out by Cosden on the basis of competitive oral and written scholarship examinations. According to Cosden's plan, he was paid his normal salary during his time in college, plus tuition and fees. On hand to see him get his degree late in August were Mrs. Dixon, the former Kinman, their two sons, Benny, 9, and Roger, 6, and other relatives. Dixon, who now wears the title of junior engineer on Cosden's staff, is the son of Mrs. B. Y. Dixon, Big Spring.

Last Half Upturn Seen For Industry

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP)—There is indication domestic crude production will take a sharp upward swing before the end of the year.

Stronger demand and an improved position in inventory levels indicate December crude output may be well above seven million barrels a day.

Improved drilling operations also are expected for the final quarter of the year.

World Oil Magazine, in its recent international outlook edition, predicts a three per cent boost in anticipated demand for October-December.

The publication also forecasts that 6.1 per cent more wells will be completed in the last half of the year than in the first six months.

The prospects for brighter days also apply to the free world outside the United States. World oil predicts improved conditions the last half of 1958 will end a 2-year slump in drilling operations in free world areas.

The industry possibly is entering a long awaited levelling-off period after over a year of readjustments following the all-out efforts to supply oil to Western Europe during the Suez crisis.

Domestic drilling operations slumped sharply as crude output dropped from a record 7,818,000 barrels a day at the end of the Suez emergency to some 6,300,000 last winter.

Producing wells the last half are expected to total about 14,600 for a 1958 total of 28,700, compared to last year's 31,800.

Reed's Chief Sees Good Basin Future

ODESSA—In spite of the tremendous accomplishments of the last decade, West Texas is still a great frontier for the oil industry. Reed Roller Bit Co. will display its faith in West Texas by putting many dollars to work in equipment and research.

This was the statement made here by John F. Maher, newly elected president of Reed, a major producer of bits and other basic drilling tools.

The occasion was a meeting of Reed sales division 30 personnel from Odessa, Midland, Brownfield, Big Lake, Big Spring, Hobbs and Lovington, said the division manager, S. P. (Steve) Hazlip.

Reed's division offices and warehouse in Odessa will be renovated and modernized, said Maher. More important will be funds in product development.

Although proud of the Y series rock bits, Maher said that Reed does not recognize there is a "standard bit." The Y bit will be constantly redesigned to produce the most efficient tool, he added.

3 Locations In East Field

C. W. Guthrie has staked two new sites in the Iatan East Howard field, and Magnolia has located one in the same pool on the Mitchell County side of the line.

The Guthrie tries are the Nos. 3 and 4 W. M. Schumacher. The No. 3 Schumacher is four miles south of Iatan, 2,331 feet from south and 1,631 from east lines, 15-29-1s, T&P Survey, on a 320-acre lease.

Drilling depth is 2,800 feet.

Guthrie No. 4 Schumacher is located 1,671 feet from south and 2,291 from east lines, 15-29-1s, T&P Survey, and four miles south of Iatan. It is also a 2,800-foot project.

Magnolia staked the No. 39 A-C Mary Foster in the same pool four miles southwest of Iatan. Drillsite is 430 feet from north and east lines, 7-29-1s, T&P Survey, and it will drill to 2,450 feet.

About 14 miles northeast of Otischalk, the Ray Albaugh of Big Spring No. 1 H. J. Brice was bottomed at 1,295 feet over the weekend and waiting on rotary. Operator drilled to the 1,300 feet with cable tools and will probably resume drilling operations early this week.

The 2,550-foot wildcat is 330 from north and west lines of the east half of the southwest quarter, 5-17, SPRR Survey.

Completions Continue To Lag Far Behind Last Year

AUSTIN AP)—Oil well completions in Texas continue to lag far behind completions for the same period last year, the Railroad Commission's weekly drilling report showed.

Oil well completions totaled 8,872 for the year to date compared with 11,176 for the same period last year. Of these, 282 this year were wildcats, compared with 366 for the same time last year.

Gas well completions thus far were 1,595, compared with 1,382 in the same period last year.

For the week Sept. 6-13 inclusive, there were 226 oil well completions, 23 gas well completions, 144 dry holes, 11 oil wildcats completed, 6 gas wildcats, and 90 dry holes in wildcat territory.

Also for the 233k, 212 wells were plugged, including the 144 dry holes, 6 gas wells, 62 wildcats.

Of the 11 wildcat oil wells brought in 2 were in District 1; 2 in District 2; 1 in District 4; 2 in District 7B; 2 in District 8; 1 each in districts 9 and 10.

The total average calendar day allowable as of Sept. 13 was 3,204,491 barrels compared with 3,197,101 for the week ended Sept.6.

Testing Still Underway For South Venture

Amerada Petroleum Corp. continued to test the No. 1 Blanche Lester wildcat in the southwestern part of Howard County at the end of the week, but the firm had not made reports on the tests.

The site is eight miles southwest of Big Spring, and a mile south of the Moore field, C NE SW, 41-33-1s, T&P Survey.

The wildcat is bottomed below 10,000 feet in the Devonian, but results of a drillstem test and other tests of the section haven't been released.

In the Howard-Glasscock field, the Continental No. 11 Clay potentialed 84 barrels of 29-degree oil and 20 per cent water recently. The well is three miles southwest of Otischalk, 990 feet from south and 330 from west lines, 139-29, W&NW Survey.

Total depth is 2,562 feet, with production reached at 2,352. Perforations in 5½-inch string are from 2,482-512 feet. Operator took potential after acidizing with 1,000 gallons.

In the same field, Drilling & Exploration No. 8 Douthitt was bottomed at 2,955 feet Saturday and taking logs. The site is 330 from south and 990 from west lines, 123-29, W&NW Survey, and six miles east of Forsan.

Local Station Cited In Service Contest

Jimmy Hopper and Carrol Dyes of 11th Place 66 Service Station at 11th and Johnson streets, have shared a $50 award from Phillips Petroleum Co. for giving perfect driveway service to a Phillips "Mystery Tourist." The award was made when the "Mystery Motorist" paid an unheralded visit to this Phillips 66 service station recently.

To win the award, they gave the "Mystery Motorist" the six steps of "Golden Approach" service, which included a friendly approach; checking under the hood of the car; cleaning all the car windows; whisk-brooming the floor mats; checking the tires; and thanking the customer for his purchases. At the conclusion of these services, the customer identified himself as a Phillips "Mystery Motorist" and left a $50 certificate at the service station. A special certificate was also left for the station.

The "Mystery Motirist" is one of more than 2,000 who will this year be rewarding Phillips 66 dealers and their driveway salesmen to the tune of $166,000 for giving customers complete driveway service. Dealers and personnel of more than 16,500 Phillips 66 service stations operating in 35 states are eligible to win an award by giving the "Golden Approach" service.

LYNN GETS ONE OF THREE NEW BASIN EXPLORATIONS

A Longview operator has staked two new Delaware wildcats in Reeves County, and a Lynn County wildcat will be drilled to test the Ellenburger.

F. R. Jackson of Longview staked the No. 1 State about 12 miles north of Toyah to drill to 4,000 feet seeking Delaware production. The try is 330 from south and west lines, 26-55-5, T&P Survey.

The Jackson No. 1 Henderson Estate is located 330 from south and west lines, 15-53, PSL, and about 27 miles north of Toyah. It will drill to 3,000 feet.

The exploration in Lynn is W. E. Bakke No. 1-158 Edwards and is 1,980 from south and 660 from east lines, 158-9, Fakes Survey. The site is 12 miles northwest of Tahoka and is contracted to 11,000 feet.

Drilling Remains Static For Basin

Drilling activity in the Permian Basin last week was practically static, with the change during that time being only two rigs.

Reed Roller Bit Co. counted the active rotary drilling units Friday and found 357 turning. This is two less than the firm found when it surveyed the Basin on Sept. 5, but still above the 350 recorded on Aug. 29.

The 357 is still the fifth highest number recorded this year. High for the year came in February, 378.

Lea County, N. M., regained first place in the Basin, a distinction which it lost last week to Andrews. Lea gained six rigs to 42 while Andrews lost seven from 37.

Other counties reporting 20 or more rigs in action include Crane with 21, Ector with 32, and Winkler with 28.

Howard County dropped one rig from the nine reported on Sept. 5, but Borden increased its total by two to 10. Six are turning in Dawson County, the same number reported the previous week.

The county-by-county breakdown (with Sept. 5 totals in parenthesis) include Andrews 30 (27), Borden 8 (10), Cochran 2 (1), Chaves 2 (2), Coke 3 (4), Crane 21 (21), Crockett 2 (6), Crosby 1 (1), Culberson 8 (10), and Dawson 6 (6).

Also Dickens 1 (0), Ector 32 (29), Eddy 3 (11), Fisher 6 (4), Gaines 9 (12), Garza 8 (10), Hidalgo 1 (1), Hockley 5 (5), HOWARD 8 (9), Irion 1 (1), Kent 4 (5), Lamb 1 (2), Lea 42 (36), Loving 4 (5), Lynn 1 (1), and Martin 3 (5).

Others covered by the survey include Midland 14 (15), Mitchell 1 (1), Menard 2 (2), Nolan 5 (4), Pecos 16 (16), Reagan 1 (1), Roosevelt 2 (1), Reeves 3 (3), Runnels 8 (5), San Miguel 0 (0), Scurry 8 (7), and Schleicher 8 (5).

Also Stonewall 6 (4), Sutton 5 (4), Tom Green 3 (1), Terrell 5 (5), Terry 2 (2), Upton 4 (5), Ward 8 (6), Winkler 28 (32), Yoakum 6 (6), others 10, and Permian Basin totals 357 (359).

Rotary Drilling In Slight Increase

Another slight gain in rotary operations was noted for the week ending Sept. 8.

On that date there were 2,072 rigs turning in the United States and Canada, five more than the previous week and 2,071 a month ago. Indicative of the drilling slump, it is 2,703 below a year ago.

Of the operations reported by Hughes Tool Co. to the American Oilwell Drilling Contractors, 1,921 were in the United States, a gain of 10 for the week. Canada, with 151, dropped five. Texas reported 692 rigs, a decline of nine for the week.

North Borden Well Dually Completed

A well in the U Lazy S field has been dually completed from the Strawn, and the Hudson & Hudson No. 1 Clayton & Johnson finaled from the Ellenburger this week in Borden County.

Also one wildcat southeast of Gail has been plugged and abandoned.

The Shell No. 1-BC Slaughter which was completed in the Ellenburger last April has now been finaled in the Strawn section. The well in the U Lazy S field is 12 miles north of Gail, 660 from south and east lines, 2-JP-6n, T&P Survey.

On 24-hour final test, it flowed 200 barrels of 40.7-degree oil without a trace of water through an 8-64-inch choke for 24 hours. Gas-oil ratio measured 320-1.

Flow was from Strawn perforations 8,170-356 feet, and it was completed originally from the Ellenburger below 8,580 feet for 240 barrels of oil daily.

William & Edward Hudson No. 1 Clayton & Johnson will be dually completed from the Strawn in the near future in the Dunigan field. It has been potentialed from the Ellenburger and made 306 barrels of oil through an 11-64-inch choke, but gravity and gas-oil ratio were not reported.

Ellenburger production is from perforations 8,735-65 feet. Location is 915 from north and 330 from east lines, 30-30-6n, T&P Survey, and 10 miles north of Gail.

The venture showed possibilities for production in the Strawn while it was being drilled, and Strawn perforations extend from 8,417-31 feet.

The duster about eight miles southeast of Gail is Pierce, Davis & Stillwagon No. 1 McDowell. Total depth was 8,680 feet. The Ellenburger wildcat was 660 feet from north and east lines, 135-25, H&TC Survey.

MEET THE 'seniors' OF THE COSDEN FAMILY . . .

This is the 15th in a series of special Cosden presentations recognizing the long and valued services of those employes who have been associated with the Company 15 years or longer. Cosden is proud of the scores of workers who have contributed their efforts through so many years toward the success of the Company.

M. G. Moore really believes in Cosden products.

He should — for before joining Cosden he was the Cosden jobber in Jacksboro and prior to that he operated a Cosden station.

Born in Jack County Oct. 12, 1913, M. G. Moore was graduated from Newport High School. He became a Cosden employee May 23, 1943, when he went to work at the old Graham refinery. Later he was transferred to the terminal at Sweetwater and five years ago moved to Big Spring.

A former baseball player, Mr. Moore met Mildred Durham, appropriately enough, at a baseball game. The couple was married Aug. 1, 1940, in Jacksboro. They have a daughter, Elaine, 15.

Now a warehouseman at the lube blending plant, Mr. Moore drove a Cosden truck for 13½ years before assuming his present position.

Most active in the Westover Baptist Church, the Cosden senior serves as president of the Brotherhood. Many of his leisure hours have been spent in renovating the church building.

His hobby is, of course, watching baseball games either at the ball parks or on television.

The Moores own their home at 208 Algerita.

Needed: Miracle School Solution

By G. K. HODENFIELD
Associated Press Education Reporter

WASHINGTON (AP)—What the country needs—besides a good 10-cent cigar—is a miracle solution to the most critical problem facing American education today: The twin shortage of classrooms and good teachers.

There is no miracle to one suggested remedy. And yet it seems to promise better teaching, happier teachers. And maybe even an eventual end to the teacher shortage.

It's a simple remedy: Just hire untrained assistants to do the regular teachers' clerical and housekeeping chores, thus freeing the teacher for fulltime work with her pupil.

The idea has been tried, and found workable. Research indicates school costs would increase little, if any. Teachers find themselves with more time to devote to their pupils. This, in turn, challenges and inspires each student to do his best work.

With one important qualification, most of the teachers, superintendents, parents and even the pupils themselves who have participated in the plan are enthsiastic about it.

The qualification: It must not be allowed to get out of control, it must be carefully administered.

The assistants and teachers used must be carefully chosen and paired off, else there will be harmful friction.

Care must be taken that the assistant doesn't gradually move over into the professional work of the teacher.

School officials must not be pressured by politics or lack of funds into adopting the plan just to permit the overloading of classes to save money.

The big objection—and it carries a lot of weight — seems to come from educators who can't believe these limitations can be applied, or made to stick. They fear the use of classroom assistants will challenge the status of teachers, and tend to downgrade the teaching profession.

There is nothing complex about the plan. The assistants are given clearly defined tasks, just as a master mechanic might assign an apprentice to change tires or flush radiators.

Housing Project Gets The Once-Over

In the first "close-up" of units going up in the Webb Air Force Base Capehart housing project, an inspection team is shown making a monthly progress check. Left to right are Donald G. Bailey, project supervisor; John W. Floore, Fort Worth architect who designed the housing; Henry Williams Jr., of Williams & Dunlap, which holds the prime contract on the project; and Lt. Col. William W. Lee, Webb's project officer. Floore observed that pace of construction has taken a fine turn in recent weeks, and Col. Kyle Riddle, Webb commander, announced after the inspection that he is pleased with progress that has been registered since Williams assumed personal supervision of the $6,000,000 job. The project got bogged down by bad weather, materials delay and other problems early in the year, but is now gaining back time on its schedules. (AF Photo.)

ARE YOU FOR STATES RIGHTS?

ROY WHITTENBURG

The words honesty and integrity carry only their most strict, old-fashioned meanings to me. As Senator, I will be obligated to our state and our nation only. I will discharge my duties honestly with determination and vigor. I will strive to get your money's worth from your tax dollars. I do not believe that money has ever purchased friendship of nations or individuals. I believe it would be the height of folly to rely on Russia to disarm without full and complete inspection and control. There should be no federal interference or influence in our schools. States' rights and self-government can not endure under our system of appointing federal judges for life.

To restore congressional powers and abrogated states' rights; to make secure the blessings of liberty resulting from our constitutional self-government; the United States Constitution should be amended to require that future federal judges be elected by the people. Is there another way to preclude dictatorship and slavery? Our founding fathers, many of whom were lawyers, believed that judges could be relied upon to follow precedent set in previous Supreme Court decisions. However, by reversing itself, the Supreme Court has usurped and nullified much congressional authority and many powers belonging to the separate states. The Supreme Court answers to none for its misdeeds. The Supreme Court should not be above the final authority of the people and their constitutional law. Lifetime appointments too often go to men with little or no judicial experience and not of judicial temperament. Appointment of judges to our federal courts poses an intolerable threat to states' rights and self-government. Judges elected to federal courts would pose no such threat to self-government, the most important earthly ally to Christianity and freedom of religion.

If Congress were to submit such an amendment to the people for ratification, Congress would be doing its part in bringing the Supreme Court back into its proper place. Any other approach by Congress promises very limited relief.

The Court by inference has warned Congress that it will be impossible to phrase legislation to correct a bad situation resulting from a poor court decision. Very probably the Court would hold that any corrective or clarifying legislation, when finally tested, meant something entirely different from congressional intent or Webster's definitions, and even ascribe opposite meanings to words in confusing decisions. Or, the Court could rule such corrective legislation to be unconstitutional. The Supreme Court, in violation of the United States Constitution, can and has in effect amended the Constitution. The Court can do this at its slightest whim. Such may occur in a 5 to 4 decision. On the other hand, it is extremely difficult for citizens to secure amendments favored even by majorities of ¾ths or more.

These chaotic decisions are the result of domination of the Supreme Court by appointees determined to promote social, economic, and political objectives contrary to the Constitution and in opposition to the desires of Congress and the great majority of United States citizens.

Most all agree that something must be done to stop this abuse. In spite of this, my opponent voted against restoring states' rights to enforce anti-subversive laws. His one vote was the margin of defeat but could and should have been a one vote margin of victory in the Senate for Texas and all of these United States. We must elect future federal judges for a limited term. Can there be another effective plan? Has anyone offered a proposal which, even though adopted, would protect states' rights and self-government?

This is your first opportunity to elect a Senator dedicated to secure this amendment. Vote November 4. Let us begin now to work diligently until such amendment is an accomplished fact. The securing of this amendment rests in your hands and in the hands of your neighbors and friends. Its attainment can be accomplished only by the efforts of industrious people — and these people must be willing to work to protect their rights, God given, but not guaranteed. I hereby appeal to those people who are willing to work to safe-guard our precious states' rights and self-government.

No Political Solution For Economic Problem, West Says

WACO—There are no practical political solutions to economic problems, J. H. West, president of the Texas Farm Bureau, declares in an editorial column in the September issue of Texas Agriculture, official publication of the state farm organization.

Writing on the fallacy of past government parity programs, West points out an "economic truth" which "has not changed and never will, regardless of how many laws we pass," namely, that "prices are determined by what someone is willing to pay."

"Price is one thing we are interested in," the state farm leader declares. "Prices are never high enough when we sell and never low enough when we buy. Every sale, regardless of size is determined by what someone is willing to pay. This we call market price."

The TFB president tells of the efforts of the past 25 years to develop a formula, usually based on some prior period, to determine a "fair" price for which farm products should sell, called a "parity price."

"We have passed many laws seeking to guarantee and maintain these prices," he declares. "We have moved from plain parity to modernized parity and on to dual parity. If we have proven anything at all it is that there is no practical political solution to an economic problem.

"One authority has said that had we used the same method of pricing in other fields, a Ford or Chevrolet would sell for more than $6,000 with no allowance for the improvements that have been made since 1914. A Coca Cola would be priced between 20 and 15 cents.

"How many of these items do you think would sell at such prices?" he asks. "How long would these manufacturers maintain enough volume to continue in business?"

Relating a personal experience, West illustrates how volume of production affects profits. "When my wife and I started farming on the halves in the fall of 1924, we purchased 150 hens that started laying in December, and just before Christmas we sold three dozen eggs at $1 per dozen. Two weeks later we were selling 10 dozen per day at 40 cents per dozen. Several months later we were selling at 30 cents per dozen.

"We lost money on the $1 eggs, but were able to show a profit at the lower prices," he declares. "The difference was in the amounts produced."

"Price is important," he states, "but it is only one of the factors we must consider. We must maintain volume. We must be free to make the best use of our land and equipment and to take advantage of technological improvement. Parity of income is what we are most interested in."

Affirming that government does have a part to play in agricultural programs, he warns that "we must determine how much we are willing to permit it to manage for us. Remember, any government that is big enough to give us everything we want, is also big enough to take everything we have."

Another big cotton harvest made a brief start, slowed down because of the rain, but was picking up again by Friday. In most communities the full impact of the boll pulling will not be felt for another eight or ten days. However many fields will have workers in them tomorrow if the weather is favorable.

Most of the cotton is opening about the same time except in the sandy land that had late rains. West of the Brown community farmers won't be needing many workers for another two weeks. To the north of Brown toward Ackerly where cotton is burnt, the fields are already white.

* * *

Andy Brown, Ackerly cotton buyer, says there is no market for cotton of any kind. He planned to go to Dallas today and try to find buyers, but isn't optimistic about it.

"I thought we'd have a market for light spotted cotton," he said, "but no one is buying it."

Brown had several dozen samples in his office and said the grades were unusually good. Only a very small percentage of them graded light spot. Most were middling and strict low middling.

* * *

V. J. Coleman of Ackerly got off to a fast start in maize buying. He had bought 10 million and 900,000 pounds at noon yesterday.

He enlarged his plant during the spring and summer by adding a new dumping ramp and three large grain tanks with each one holding a million pounds. This will enable the elevator to take grain almost twice as fast as it did last year, when loaded trucks were often lined up over a city block in length.

Coleman has a large grain dryer but hadn't used it much until the recent rains. Most grain tested about 12 or 13 per cent moisture until the rain when it jumped past the 15 per cent limit.

"It will be dry again with a couple of days sunshine," said the Reverend W. H. Watson, who is minister of an Ackerly church. He is employed as bookkeeper during the busy season.

The crop is averaging from 300 to 400 southwest of Ackerly in the dry areas to 1,000 northeast of town. There is also quite an acreage of late maize which won't be ready to combine for another month or six weeks.

* * *

The rat population has zoomed in all parts of the area. In the Old Flower Grove community they are especially numerous. J. G. Butchee says they stay in the tall weeds near his homestead. He has two cats and his hired hand has a couple, so the four felines are having a field day catching rats. Butchee said they had been dragging them up in the yard and using it as a dumping ground.

He had one dead one down at the gin. These are not the old-fashioned blue or corn-crib rats that used to stay under barns. Instead they are much smaller, only about half the size, and they have long brown hair. From a distance of several yards they look something like a tiny javelina hog, except they have buck teeth instead of tusks.

With the coming of cold weather some farmers think the rats will move to shelter, such as granaries, under houses and maybe even into the towns.

* * *

One of the Lamesa farm labor associations is depopulating Mexico by the number of braceros being brought in. Week before last 500 were imported; last week the number jumped to 2,500, with another 2,500 due between now and Saturday night, according to B. J. Burnett, office manager.

His association works in six counties, but the bulk of the Mexican Nationals will be used in Dawson and Gaines counties. He said they would probably contract for nearly 10,000 this year.

The big demand for workers is already on with dryland farmers, but irrigation producers won't be in full harvest for another two weeks.

Lamesa was having a combination carnival and fair Saturday, but the crowd was very slim. The 50 cents admission fee may have had something to do with it.

I didn't go in after the man at the gate said it would cost half a buck. I've been attending fairs all my life, but this is the first time I was ever asked to pay at a fair this small.

They probably charge at Lubbock and Dallas and the big shows where entertainment is offered. But not many people want to part pay just to see a few exhibits of hogs, chickens and crops.

At least that's my opinion, and from the small crowd there must be others who feel the same way.

* * *

The Dawson County cotton crop has been estimated at 140,000 bales. This figure was lowered several weeks ago but raised again when the rains came.

Yields will vary, but the best crop is north of Lamesa.

However there is good cotton in every community, and nowhere will there be a complete failure.

In the Sparenburg community the summer drought reduced prospects. W. R. Foster, who operates a grocery store there, said the crop was about like it was in 1956. It is likely to average a quarter of a bale per acre.

He said feed crops were fair. Ewell Scott combined 1,100 pounds to the acre, although some fields won't be this good. Foster said there were about 350 braceros in the community now.

* * *

The Fairview Gin is hoping to beat its 1957 record when it ginned over 4,400 bales to lead the county. Johnie Ray Dillard says if they can keep their same customers, they might easily reach this mark again.

Cotton is unusually good around Fairview. Dillard wouldn't hazard a guess on acre averages, but did mention half a bale.

He started only a few days ago but had ginned 127 bales at 2:00 p.m. yesterday. Thirty-two of them came in Friday.

"Unless a rain comes, we intend to put on another crew Monday," he said. "It looks like we'll be doing a lot of night ginning this week —maybe all night. We didn't shut down Friday night until 10 o'clock."

Burglars Make 2nd Raid On Thompson Home

This sort of thing can get monotonous!

On Sept. 5, the Richard Thompsons were away from their home six miles east and south for most of the day. When they returned, they found that a burglar had broken into the building through a rear window, stolen about $29 and a valuable Masonic ring. He had left greasy finger smears on the window facing and the wall in the bedroom.

Saturday morning, Thompson was away from his house for 45 minutes to go after a man he was employing on the farm. His wife works in town and no one was at home from around 7 to 8 a.m.

When he returned, he discovered burglars had forced open a front window by cutting the screen. They had ransacked the house, pawing through drawers and dressers, and took $23 in cash and a cigarette lighter.

No greasy prints or big-sized footprints were left this time.

Deputy Sheriff E. W. York who investigated the break-in said that no clues as to the identity of the prowler had been left. The smudged prints which Deputy Bob Broughton found in the first break-in were not any good in identifying the prowler.

Lamesa Church Has Awards Banquet

LAMESA—Bill Bumpas of Midland who is minister of education at the First Baptist Church, was the guest speaker for the Training Awards Banquet Thursday evening.

Miss Julia Holder was the soloist for the program which paid special tribute to the different workers. Ed Wittner, minister of education in Lamesa, gave the recognition for work done and the pastor, the Rev. Milo Arbuckle, presented the diplomas.

VETERINARIAN WRITES

Shipping Fever Is Cattle Threat

Dr. AKIN M. SIMPSON

Fall is the time of year when western ranchers are moving their cattle off the ranges and into the feed lots in other parts of the country. And with this big movement of cattle, shipping fever becomes an increasingly serious problem.

The economic importance of this disease is indicated by the fact that cattle losses from shipping fever cost the livestock industry over $25 million a year.

Much of the trouble can be traced to stress conditions. Cattle being shipped are subjected to conditions which they have probably never experienced before. They are rounded up and herded together in big groups often just after they are weaned.

They may be herded over dusty trails; then closely confined in trucks or railroad cars and shipped long distances. These conditions cause excitement among the animals. Besides that the animals may go for long periods without feed and water or rest.

These stress conditions, however are just contributing factors. Veterinary scientists believe that shipping fever is actually caused by an infectious agent or a combination of agents.

Shipping conditions lower an animal's resistance so that it is much easier for a disease organism to get a start in the animal's body. And these stress conditions come at a time when the animals are in places such as sale barns, railroad cars, trucks or even in stockyards where the exposure to the disease is much greater than it is out on the range.

Shipping fever kills many animals, but probably the greatest loss from this disease comes from the interrupted or reduced growth rate which means that the animal will have to be fed longer to reach market weight and condition.

Generally speaking, if animals with shipping fever are treated promptly, there isn't much to worry about as far as deaths are concerned. Animals with mild cases of shipping fever may recover in only one or two days. But if animals aren't treated promptly, shipping fever may develop into pneumonia, and in those cases, death may occur in a day or two.

Shipping fever seems to be similar to flu in man. Symptoms of this disease include high fever, a tired and depressed appearance, red, watery eyes, a soft cough, loss of appetiete, and a nasal discharge. The disease can be easily confused with other diseases.

Since shipping fever usually breaks out when an animal's resistance has been lowered, all preventive programs should be aimed at keeping the animal's resistance as high as possible. To accomplish that, cattle should be handled as gently as possible, not crowded and not forced to exert themselves any more than is absolutely necessary. Also, the feed, as well as the feeding and watering schedules should be changed as little as possible.

It is also wise for farmers to be sure that the feeder stock they are buying comes from a farm or ranch instead of having been confined to a stockyard or sale barn for a long period.

As soon as these feeder animals get to the farm they should be segregated for two or three weeks. In case they do develop shipping fever or some other disease, it will then not be transmiitted to the home herd.

Recent findings on the use of tranquilizing drugs showed definite reduction in the incidence of shipping fever and in the loss of weight caused both by shipping shrinkage asd other stress conditions. These results are obtained when the tranquilizers are given prior to shipping.

Stocks Advance During Week On Heavy Trading

By ED MORSE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced close to the record highs of April 1956 in heavy trading this week.

The rise encountered profit taking on the final trading day, reached high tide, at least temporarily, before falling back a bit. Nevertheless, prices remained at their highest level since Aug. 10, 1956.

It was the market's fourth straight weekly gain. This week lively investment demand for the higher quality blue chip issues combined with continued activity in the lower priced stocks to give the advance a solid aspect.

The market largely ignored news of tightening credit and the Formosa crisis as it went ahead. Brokers reported a crescendo of investment demand from throughout the country based, apparently, on the conviction that the market is rising and will keep rising, regardless of temporary setbacks.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $2.10 to $189.00, placing it a step nearer to its all-time peak of $191.50 reached on April 6, 1956.

Post Office Aids Stamp Program

Atol Porter (left), assistant postmaster, accepts a gold card of appreciation for the postal department's aid in distributing U.S. Savings Stamps, from Larson Lloyd, Howard County chairman for the war bond program. The Treasury's Savings Stamp campaign is being stepped up this year, and young people may get them either at the post office or in the schools. Young purchasers may become members of the Lone Ranger's Peace Patrol, and membership cards are available along with the stamps.

U.S. Savings Stamp Buyers Join Lone Ranger's Patrol

Biggest drive for sale of Treasury Savings Stamps since World War II days is being undertaken by the Treasury Department, with aid of volunteers. And one of these is the Lone Ranger.

While the Savings Stamp program has continued as an adjunct to the Bond program, it has operated on a fairly small scale until recent years. However, about 115 million stamps were sold last year.

These, of course, are offered principally to youngsters, who acquire the stamps on a regular savings basis, then convert them into bonds.

Locally, the school system has agreed to participation again this year, and the post office will continue to be a source of supply.

Youngsters may become members of the Treasury-Lone Ranger Peace Patrol by buying their next U. S. Savings Stamps at the post office or at school. Their credentials—a Peace Patrol membership card signed by the Lone Ranger and National Bond Director — pledge them "to LEARN, because knowledge and understanding will keep peace in the world . . . to SAVE, because buying U. S. Savings Stamps and Bonds will help keep our country strong."

The Howard County bond director Larson Lloyd, said in connection with the new program: "No American has a greater stake in peace than the young American. The future is what he lives for; and without peace there may be no future—for him or the world. I em confident that our local boys and girls will respond in greater numbers than ever before—to buy Savings Stamps regularly, for their own benefit and the benefit of the nation."

The Peace Patrol is now being featured on the Lone Ranger television series. Large Peace Patrol posters also are being displayed throughout the country. Both Savings Stamps and Peace Patrol membership cards are available at the post office and in schools.

Marshall Will Go To YMCA Meet In Toronto, Canada

Arnold Marshall, a Southwest Area Council representative on the YMCA International Committee, will leave Thursday for a meeting of the committee in Toronto, Canada.

This is the committee that shapes the world services program of the YMCA. In one sense it is the "missions" program of the Y in that it sets up funds which supplement those of associations in various countries where native Y members are undertaking programs and buildings.

Marshall, a past president of the Big Spring YMCA and who directed its world services committee for a number of years, will make the trip by plane and will join with other area representatives in Toronto for the Friday, Saturday and Sunday sessions.

Dr. Lloyd Tells Of Mexico Trip

Rev. R. Gage Lloyd, appearing before members of the American Business Club at their regular luncheon Friday at the Settles Hotel, told of his family's trip to the west coast of Mexico, which consumed three weeks in August.

Lloyd made it a point on the trip to study at first hand building methods employed by the Mexicans and told of the difference between those and the American system.

He said he and his son took time to fish twice during the trip, once for sailfish and the other time for bass.

Guests at the luncheon included Don Anderson, Gerald Varner and Clyde McMahon Jr.

George McAlister, president, said the club planned to have representation at a meeting in Snyder this week, at which time efforts will be made to organize an ABClub there.

Farm Labor Requirements For This Area Estimated

The Howard County Farm Labor Committee has been informed by the Texas Employment Commission that this county will be in need of more than 2,200 cotton pickers and pullers during the peak of the cotton harvest.

Three Howard County citizens serve as County Farm Labor Committee; they are the Rev. A. M. Metzger of the Sacred Heart Church in Big Spring, D. F. Bigony and John Davis.

On Sept. 12 the committee met with Leon M. Kinney, manager of the Texas Employment Commission office; C. A. Shoemaker, district director, Texas Employment Commission, San Angelo; and James A. Tobin, field assistant of San Angelo, to review the total employment seasonal needs developed by the TEC.

Under Public Law 78 the TEC must inform the Secretary of Labor of the supply and shortage of farm workers. The secretary limits the number of Mexican Nationals to be used by granting a "ceiling." The committee consults with the local office manager to assist him in estimating the number of workers who will be needed, based on the current local conditions affecting the cotton crop.

"Ceilings" granted by the Secretary of Labor limiting the importation of Mexican Nationals into this area will be posted in the postoffices in Big Spring, Coahoma, Knott, Luther and Vincent, in the county agent's office and on the bulletin board in the lobby of the courthouse in Big Spring.

Three Glasscock County citizens serving as a County Farm Labor Committee are Fritz Henrichs, E. J. Bednar and Sidney Hirt, all of the St. Lawrence community.

Glasscock County will need more than 1,000 workers.

On the Martin County committee are the Rev. Fabian Diersing, St. Joseph's Church in Stanton, Leo Turner and Jerry Hasson.

It was determined that Martin County will be in need of more than 6,000 workers.

A TELEPHONE ROUND-UP, such as the one being conducted by Mrs. L. R. Simpson, may help in adding new students for the course in Family Service, which is being offered Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 8:45 to 11:30 a.m. Location for the course has been announced as the academic auditorium, Bldg. 350 at Webb Air Force Base. Volunteers are urgently needed for the various activities of the group, such as serving on the welcoming committee, the housing or office committees or assisting in the time of a family bereavement.

WORK IN THE BASE DISPENSARY is an important part of the Red Cross Gray Lady activities, since they relieve the doctors and nurses of non-professional duties. Mrs. Paul Leming seems to have just called for the patient whose chart she holds. Her task may consist of showing the patient to the doctor's office or to a treatment room and helping in the preparation for an examination. Members of the corps are taught the procedure in courses such as the one to be given Tuesday through Thursday from 1 to 3 p.m. in the APT. Bldg.

COFFEE TIME ON THE WARDS at Webb Base Hospital finds the Red Cross Gray Ladies on hand with steaming coffee and doughnuts or sweet rolls of some kind for the patients. Mrs. W. R. Loftis was snapped by the photographer as she rolled her refreshment cart through one of the wards and stopped to serve coffee to A.3.C. Harry H. Gilbert of Nashville, Tenn. This is just one of the many services performed by the volunteers who have completed the interesting orientation course offered at the base at regular intervals.

TIME HANGS HEAVY when you're only two years old and waiting for the doctor to see you, thinks Donna Lynn Brink; she is the daughter of S-Sgt. and Mrs. D. L. Brink, who live near Sand Springs. As part of their duties, Red Cross Gray Ladies try to keep little patients as happy as possible, either on the wards at Webb Base Hospital or in the waiting room. Here, Mrs. A. H. Hargrove reads the story book while Donna Lynn names each of the characters pictured. Other duties of the Gray Ladies include ward runs, during which they distribute magazines, cigarettes or comfort articles. (Photos by Keith McMillin).

Volunteers Training At Webb

Planned for this week at Webb Air Force Base are two orientation courses for volunteer workers, desperately needed in both branches of the service.

New members will be most welcome in the Red Cross Gray Lady Corps and in the Family Service Department, according to statements made by the chairmen of these organizations.

RED CROSS

Slated for Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday is the class offered for Red Cross Gray Ladies. Lectures will be heard from 1 to 3 p.m. each day with free nursery provided for the children of workers. Location of the sessions has been announced as the APT. Building.

Mrs. R. N. Rhodes, Gray Lady chairman for Webb, will give the organization orientation, while various doctors at the base will discuss hospital orientation.

Wives of both officers and airmen are active in the corps, and those not already working are invited to attend the course. Due to the fast turnover of military personnel, there is a constant need for the addition of volunteers in order that an adequate staff is available.

The women relieve doctors and nurses of non-professional duties, and, at the same time, serve to bring cheer and comfort to the patients in the hospital.

Monday and Thursday mornings, a regular activity is the informal coffee given on the wards. Then, a Gray Lady wheels a serving cart through the wards, serving refreshments and chatting with patients.

Ward runs are made regularly, too, with magazines and books, comfort articles or perhaps a letter written for one incapacitated for writing. Children are entertained with stories read by the workers, and other recreation is planned to relieve the tedium of being in a hospital.

In the dispensary, the Gray Ladies welcome and register out-patients and assist in the preparations for examinations.

Organized in September, 1956, the Webb Gray Lady Corps was first under the direction of Mrs. Leslie Garrett, with the second chairman being Mrs. Richard Bigelow. Mrs. Robert N. Rhodes, who was the third leader, is still serving in that capacity.

Volunteers desiring more information are asked to call Mrs. Rhodes at AM 3-3575, or Mrs. L. R. Simpson at AM 3-2949.

FAMILY SERVICE

The other orientation course is for volunteers who will help with the Family Service on the base. Classes are scheduled for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday from 8:45 to 11:30 a.m.

Sessions will be held in the academic auditorium, Bldg. 350, which is a change from the location originally announced. Nursery service is planned during this course, also.

Volunteers are needed for work in the office where families are given assistance with housing, social security, BX, commissary, estate planning and similar subjects.

Workers are also wanted for duties in the welcoming committee and in the other groups, such as the housing, personal service or casualty committees.

Household supplies are furnished newcomer families for use until their possessions arrive; all necessary care is given in times of casualty, with volunteers taking over the care of the house, the cooking and other tasks.

During the orientation course, Col. Kyle Riddle, base commander, will be one of the speakers. Mrs. M. A. January is the coordinator for the volunteer group.

Anyone wishing to regisster for the course may call Mrs. January at AM 4-2536, or Webb AFB, AM 4-2511, ext. 446.

HOUSEHOLD SUPPLIES are kept available for families to use during emergencies, such as a move when household furnishings are late in arriving. Family Service at Webb AFB constantly adds to the supply of dishes, kitchen utensils and even a bit of furniture, which may be borrowed during the time of need. Mrs. M. A. January, coordinator of the various services extended by the volunteer group, checks over some of the articles on hand. Note the attractive uniform which she wears. It is of a navy, linen-like fabric, two-piece style, with a touch of white on the collar. Volunteers receive stars and service stripes for hours given to the work.

Became A Size 10

TV's popular Patti Page tells in today's Hollywood Beauty how she dropped to a size 10 from her once chubby self in less than six weeks. Miss Page begins her new musical series for ABC-TV Sept. 24.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Changed Appearance Made Patti's Career

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — When I first met Patti Page she was anything but a glamour girl. But today on TV one would hardly recognize this slim, blonde beauty as the chubby, shy girl who made such a sensation with her hit record, "The Tennessee Waltz."

I mentioned this to Patti at lunch the other day and she remarked, "When I look back on it, I realize I didn't feel the importance of looking attractive. I dressed very conservatively and had been on the chubby side in school but I had always been able to get by on my voice.

"At first I wanted to be a commercial artist and started singing with my sisters at church and school just for kicks. We were known as the Fowler girls, but during high school I did my own 15-minute radio show for a milk company and they gave me the name Patti Page.

"In that job it didn't matter if I was overweight," Patti explained. "After graduation, when I was offered a job with a band, I certainly didn't make the most of it. I had a few little dresses that I had worn at proms. I knew nothing about make-up and my hair was a mousy shade, but I felt if I sang well that was all that was necessary. Never let anyone tell you that appearance is not of vital importance. I think ignoring mine set my career back about five years.

"In 1950 I had a hit record, and people began writing me fan letters. Most of them told me to reduce. There were so many of them that I became defiant. Instead of going on a diet, I ate more than ever. I kidded myself into thinking my big hips didn't show in full skirts.

"It's a funny thing about being overweight," Patti continued. "Your emotions play such a part that dieting can be useless. You have to be receptive, or no diet will work.

"It's nice to think back to something you've been able to overcome. I don't have a weight problem any more," she added.

"How did you manage this?" I asked.

"About two years ago my agent asked Charlie O'Curran to stage an act for me. He took a different approach. He told me I was beautiful and that he liked me the way I was. I fell in love with him and I wanted to be thinner just for him. As you know, we're now married.

"I think the worst thing friends and family can do to an overweight person is to nag her about being fat. Charles made me feel he loved me the way I was and that I didn't have to lose a pound for him but that I should do it for my career. I think it was his good taste in leaving the decision to go on a diet entirely up to me that made me want to diet and reduce.

"For the first time I gladly gave up candy bars, fried potatoes, bread and butter and all the other fattening things with which I had been stuffing myself. I remember an engagement in Las Vegas when they were going to make a kinescope of my act for TV. I told myself that this piece of film would be around a long time, and I wanted it to be flattering. Then and there I kissed the chubby Patti Page goodbye."

Patti confided that she had no intention of undermining her health with reducing pills or a freakish diet.

"I make a plan and stayed with it. I didn't break my diet, and I did exercises and had a steam bath and massage every day. When the show went on, six weeks later, I was wearing a size 10 dress."

Patti didn't want to say how many pounds she had lost, but the important thing to her is that she has not gained them back.

"When you diet against your will," she warned, "you'll go right back to your old habits and eat it on again. You have to put your heart in dieting."

NEW 'MINUS' DIET

Appetite is a habit. Check the habit with the proper foods and you'll find it's easy to lose weight. The once chubby Patti Page dropped to size 10 with this same diet, now offered to Hollywood Beauty readers for the first time. It's all there in Leaflet M-76, "Patti Page's 'Minus' Diet." Lose a pound a day with the seven days of menus, made up of catabolic or "minus" foods. The more you eat of these, the more you lose. For a copy of this sensational diet-leaflet, send 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, in care of The Big Spring Herald.

September Holds Varied Tasks For Gardeners

By ANNE LeFEVER

September is a month for many garden tasks, with roses to be lightly fertilized and pruned and given plenty of water for fall blossoms; bulbs to be ordered and spring-blooming flowers to be planted.

Roses should be lightly pruned and fertilized immediately, if it is to be done this season; a delay in the process might just possibly bring on new growth which would be unable to withstand the first freezing temperatures. Lovely fall roses will be the result of a little attention at the present time.

Iris rhizomes should be dug now and divided for transplanting. Apply bone meal in the space for each rhizome, and cover ever so shallow. Deep planting of the rhizomes will prevent blossoms.

You may have some of the rhizomes left over; how about checking with a member of some of the garden clubs as to whether they can be used at Webb Air Force Base in the housing project. Special beds have been prepared there for shrubs and flowers to be transplanted upon completion of the dwellings.

Fill in those vacant spots on the lawn with grass seed; be sure to keep it moist until the sprouts show. Water and fertilize the established lawn for good spring growth.

Many annuals and perennials, which have started seeding, may be induced to show a last spurt of blossoms if they are cut back, with all faded flowers removed, fertilized and watered. The cutting back will also make a much prettier and neater garden.

Continue feeding dahlias and chrysanthemums with liquid fertilizer. If you want larger and fewer blossoms, remove some of the buds as they form.

Liquid fertilizer may be made by combining a gallon of sheep or cow manure and four gallons of water. Soak overnight, and then dilute with six gallons of water for each gallon of the strong solution. Each plant can use about a pint of the mixture; if it is applied too strong, foliage will turn yellow.

Now is the time to sow seeds for spring-flowering plants, such as larkspur, bluebonnets, poppies, daisies, cornflowers, pinks, alyssum, columbines and calendulas in open buds. Snapdragons should be planted in boxes or flats for transplanting into the garden later.

Sweet peas, planted at this time, will have a good strong root system for early spring blossoms. Be sure to place them in a deep furrow,—about two inches deep, at least—which has been prepared in well-worked, fertilized loose soil. After planting the seed, mound the soil over them and cover with a mulch, which should be removed in the spring as soon as the weather is favorable.

From September to mid-December is the time for planting bulbs for spring blooming; begin now to plan your garden for these bulbs and decide which you will want, tulips, hyacinths, daffodils, jonquils, narcissus, crocus and others. All give such a wealth of pleasure for such little effort on your part, once they are established.

Mrs. Boles Honor Guest At Parties During Week

Two complimentary affairs were given Thursday and Friday for Mrs. C. M. Boles, who is leaving Monday with her family to make their home in Cortez, Colo.

Mrs. J. G. Lewis and Mrs. Walter Ross were hostesses Thursday morning at the Ross home for a coffee.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. E. V. Spence and Mrs. W. D. Caldwell. Cokes and coffee were served from a table laid with a cutwork cloth and centered with an arrangement of bronze chrysanthemums.

Included on the guest list were members of the 1953 Hyperion Club, the Woman's Forum and the Rosebud Garden Club, in all of which Mrs. Boles held a membership. Other friends joined the group which numbered approximately 50.

Mrs. Boles was presented with a gift from the hostesses.

* * *

Mrs. Joe Pickle named Mrs. Boles honoree for an informal gathering Friday morning at her home.

Fifteen called between 10 and 11 for coffee and a farewell visit. The hostess gift was a piece of blue glassware.

Forum Embarks On New Year With A Patio Supper Friday

With a patio supper Friday night at the home of Mrs. J. D. Leonard, members of the Modern Woman's Forum embarked on their new year of activities. The course of study is entitled Ideals — Our Greatest Strength.

Joining Mrs. Leonard as hostesses were Mrs. G. G. Sawtelle and members of the social committee, Mrs. A. C. Bass and Mrs. R. L. Warren.

The meal was served buffet style, with the 15 members taking their places at quartet tables laid with colorful cloths. Garden flowers made centerpieces, and the scene was lighted by hurricane lamps.

Mrs. M. A. Cook distributed yearbooks.

The next meeting is scheduled for 3 p.m. Sept. 26 at the home of Mrs. T. G. Adams, 507 Johnson.

Has Birthday

Mrs. Lula Motley marked her 80th birthday anniversary Thursday at the home of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Arch Hodnett, in Knott. A son, Porter Motley, is also a resident of Knott.

Kentuckian Maps Plans For GFWC

WASHINGTON (AP) — Miss Chloe Gifford laughingly tags herself "the first old maid ever elected president of the General Federation of Women's Club."

But her approach to the duties of heading the international organization of 11 to 12 million members is jesting only as it concerns herself.

She becomes deadly serious on big plans for the federation during her two years as its head.

"We will place great emphasis on the study of the community."

However, she adds that the federation also will emphasize a study of international affairs.

But she favors "having more women in Congress, more in state legislatures and more on policy-making committees."

Miss Gifford was born in Mount Olivet, Ky., but has lived in Lexington most of her life. She holds bachelor's, master's and law degrees from the University of Kentucky, where she has been on the faculty since 1940.

Although a Democrat, Miss Gifford is practiced in bi-partisan work. Thruston Morton, one of Kentucky's two Republican senators has told her she will find 'the 531 doors on Capitol Hill open to you."

She plans to enter many of these doors on behalf of legislation, "particularly in the field of health, education and welfare."

Her lack of illusion extends to the end of her term—"There's nothing as dead as a former president of the federation."

"I'm just going back to Kentucky to write a book about the amusing things that have happened to me in club work."

"Since I haven't snared a man," she says with amusement, "I'll need the money to get my black dress to go to the old ladies home."

Remember Where We Found These?

Capt. and Mrs. James H. Fry, Donna, David and Kerry returned to the States last fall from a three-year assignment in England. The isles are known as choice "hunting grounds" for antiques, and Mrs. Fry is particularly proud of these fine old kettles she acquired. They are not only useful but decorative, even if they do require frequent polish sessions.

New College Diploma, New Home, New Assignment, New Friends

So much has happened to Capt. and Mrs. James H. Fry and their family these past months that they can scarcely believe they are getting settled into a home of their own out in the Western Hills Addition. But in this jet age, speed is the watchword, and no one realizes that more than an Air Force man.

On August 22, Capt. Fry stepped up on the platform to receive his degree in Business Administration from Abilene Christian College. Lacking only the equivalent of six months work to reach this milestone, he had returned with his family from England in November, put together his credits from Sul Ross and ACC, and studied this summer into the wee hours to accomplish his goal. It was no minor feat; 16 years in the USAF had intervened in his college life.

The day following this momentous occasion the Frys began moving into their home at 207 Cactus Drive, and the head of the house reported to Webb AFB to begin duty as commissary officer. Neither of these were little feats either. In the first place, their household furniture is scattered from England to Washington to Abilene and Austin, with some of it here. And in the second place, Capt. Fry and his work are new to each other, his 16 years having been spent as a pilot.

During the three years that he was stationed as operations officer for a fighter bomber squadron at an RAF base 70 miles east of London, the family made trips as they could into Scotland and the Scandinavian countries, with two tours of Europe. Much traveled for her 18 months is Kerry, who was born in London. David, 6, started last week in the first grade at Park Hill, although he has already had three years in English schools. Donna, 9, is a fifth grader at College Heights.

Shutterbugs, the family formed a battery of photographers in their travels. David and Donna each had a brownie; Mrs. Fry operated the movie camera and the captain had a high-powered lens of his own.

Some of the pictures preserve a rare opportunity which came to Mrs. Fry. This was one of Lady Aster's famous teas, to which the native of Victoria was invited. It was altogether a delightful experience, remembers Mrs. Fry.

Interesting souvenirs, such as wood carvings from Austria, the appealing Hummel figures from Germany, and handsome copper kettles from England are nostalgic accents for their home decor.

Sewing is a pleasant diversion for Mrs. Fry, who makes many of her dresses and those for her daughters. She developed the talent early, making dolls and their tiny frocks as a child.

The son of a Church of Christ minister now living in Liberty, Capt. Fry, with his family, attends the Main St. Church of Christ.

Home Tour Set For HD Clubs

Members of the City Home Demonstration heard an announcement, Friday afternoon, of a home tour to be made by the various HD Clubs of the county some time soon. Mrs. B. F. Mabe was hostess for the meeting.

The tour will be sponsored by the HD Council and will include displays of handcrafts, food preservation and other items of interest to the organization.

Mrs. D. L. Dannheiser was introduced as a new member. Mrs. Ross Callihan directed a contest as part of the recreation.

Officers elected include Mrs. Alton Underwood, president; Mrs. Callihan, vice president; Mrs. Eldon Appleton, secretary, and Mrs. Armour Long, treasurer. Mrs. Johnny Green was named delegate to the council, and Mrs. M. E. Anderson was elected reporter.

Sixteen members answered roll call with ways to improve the club. Mrs. W. R. Jones, HD agent, spoke to the group on the best method of buying furniture. She advised looking first for comfort; taking note of the wood used and the construction.

The next meeting was announced for the home of Mrs. H. F. Jarrett, 413 Edwards.

Knott P-TA Tells Project For Year

At a meeting of the Knott P-TA recently, it was decided to provide more books for the library and for home rooms. This was selected as one of the group's projects.

A membership drive was planned with the winning room to receive a book for its library.

Mrs. J. H. Homan, preident of the Big Spring P-TA Council was the speaker for the evening. The room count was won by the fifth grade, with 11 present.

New teachers were introduced; Mrs. Robert Brown was named delegate to the County Council of P-TA. George White offered a prayer and a social hour followed the meeting.

Ceil Chapman

SLENDERIZING LINES

Frock In Wide Size Range For Casual Wear

The body beautiful is the main interest of Ceil Chapman, and she sticks to her ideas whether she be dreaming up a gorgeous ball gown or a simple daytime tailored model such as this.

The body of this model lends itself to sizes up to 20 (the V neck is part of this) but is equally good for size 12s—was one of the biggest sellers in a recent collection.

The envelope-fold pockets on bodice and skirt do a marvelous and wondrous trick of minimizing the tummy while emphasizing the bosom which, from a style viewpoint, is necessary in all sizes.

As easy to sew as it is to wear, it was originally made in gray flannel with linen collar and cuffs.

In tweed, or any of the new wools, it is the perfect way to start the fall. In faille or crepe it is an ideal casual afternoon dress.

From this chart select the one size best for you:

Size	Bust	Waist	Hips	Nape of Neck to Waist
12	35	25	36	inches 16¾ inches
14	36½	26½	37½	" 17 "
16	38	28	39	" 17¼ "
18	40	30	41	" 17½ "
20	42	32	43	" 17¾ "

Size 12 requires 2⅝ yards of 54-inch material for dress and ½ yard of 39-inch material for contrast.

To order Pattern No. 1191, state size, send $1, plus 5 cents postage.

For new 96-page Pattern Book No. 15, send $1. For Ceil Chapman label, send 25 cents.

If paid by check, bank requires 4 cents handling charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pitcock and baby, from Midland, have visited the T. R. Camp family.

Guests in the Frank Swiger home have been Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Maxwell of Rising Star, Mrs. T. A. Willis of Henrietta, Okla., and Paul Gregory, Andrews. The Swigers spent Friday and Saturday in Sterling City and Andrews.

Mrs. Price Stroud has been hospitalized this week following an automobile accident in which she and her husband figured Sept. 6.

HCJC Quadrangle Is Party Setting

Informality was the keynote of the salad supper for members of the HCJC faculty and staff, board of trustees and their wives Saturday on the college campus. Faculty Ma'ams and the social committee of the college joined forces to stage the party.

White-laid tables for eight were set up in the quadrangle and were made festive with wicker cornucopias filled with orange pyracantha berries. Place cards were cleverly contrived of orange slices, to promote the color scheme.

Lavish Jewelry Contributes To New Fashions' Elegance

By HELEN HURT

Jewels in the grand manner, sufficiently opulent to mime a maharajah's ransom, make glittering fashion news in this era of the empire vogue.

Milady may open her trinket chest and bedeck herself with baubles and beads, throwing conservatism to the winds. For gem display stops this season just short of gaudiness.

Makers of costume jewelry have run rampant, if one is to judge from the crammed showcases in the shops. Most eye-arresting of the pieces, by force of sheer numbers, are the ropes which staged a comeback a couple of years ago and continue to forge ahead with the eased chemises and the subdued trapezes.

Ropes range from gilded chains to brilliant patches of color imprisoned in glass beads. Wear them long, in single or multiple strand, or coil them round and round the neck to fill in plunging necklines, so important this season.

Silver and gold play second fiddle to the fabulous colors. A favorite is the vivid electric or royal blue which lends such a smart note to the greys and black. Chic, too, are the pure greens, the subtle beiges into browns, and the perennial pearls, some newly mated with crystals and colored beads. Stark drama is sparked by the burning reds, which run the scale from the pale and orangy tones to the clear fire hue.

Color is the thing, whether radiated in fiery glints from pretend-cut stones or flashed from sparkling beads. An especially popular combination now is the once-forbidden blue with green, in any intensity; and don't overlook ruby with rose. Pace-setters are the bronze beads and ropes of jet.

Mates have their heyday, "gemnastically" speaking. Earrings alone are not enough. They must be bolstered with matching or contrasting bracelet, ring, necklace or hair ornament. Chokers are good, but not quite so modish as the necklaces. Crystals, once so icy, are warmed by the aurora borealis magic that makes them assume the colors against which they are worn. Rhinestones in riotous profusion remain sure sellers.

Pins are unquestionably THE thing. The more massive, the better. Wear them high or low, on a hat or bag, pinned fetchingly at the waist or at the apex at the empire line. Pendants and brooches encrusted with synthetic gems and dangling fake stones merit favor.

There is no doubt about it. With the luxurious fabrics of her fall wardrobe enhanced by a galaxy of glamorous jewelry, milady will feel enticingly feminine.

Lamesa Show Awards Go To Big Springers

LAMESA—Two Big Spring women, Emma Brown and Mrs. E. A. Jones, were awarded medals in the art exhibit held in Lamesa in connection with the Dawson County Fair this week.

Miss Brown received the silver medal, Mrs. Jones a bronze one, and a Lamesa woman, Mrs. Alice Hart, was awarded a gold medal in the adult division.

Mrs. Jones and Marjorie Havins, also of Big Spring, won second and fourth, respectively, in the oil landscape division.

First place in oil abstract landscapes went to Miss Brown, while Mrs. Richard Patterson took first in oil abstract, still life, and Miss Havins was second.

In the oil portraits, Mrs. Bismarck Schafer of Big Spring was a second place winner; Mrs. William Rosser, third, and Mrs. Jones, fourth. Mrs. Schafer also won in oil still life—a second place.

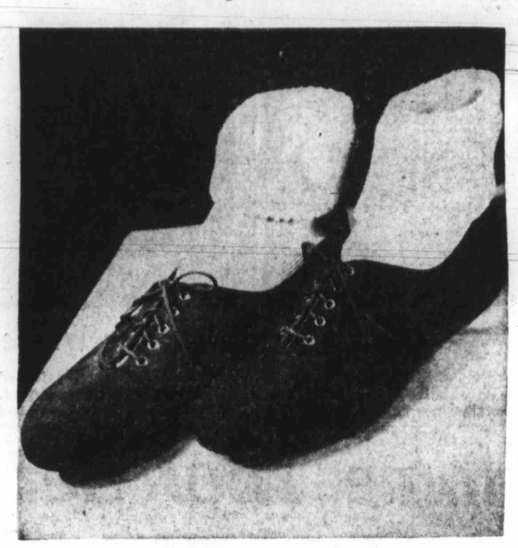

Mrs. Patterson received a blue ribbon for her work in pastel; Miss Havins was first on pastel portraits, and Mrs. Jones, first in watercolor. First and second went to Mrs. Patterson and Miss Havins, respectively, for pastel animal division.

Woman's Forum To Have First Meeting

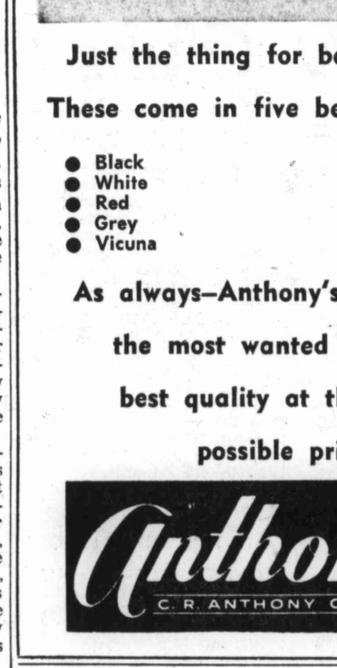

The Woman's Forum, will begin the fall season with a Coke party scheduled for Friday morning from 9:30 to 11 at the home of Mrs. J. D. Elliott, 201 East Sixth.

Cohostesses are to be Mrs. Clarence Percy and Mrs. Elvis McCrary. Members are invited to bring a guest if they wish to do so.

Once 'Finest Home In America' Is Now Part Museum, Part Silent

By FRANKIE SHARP

BILTMORE, N. C. (AP)—"I want to have the finest home in America," said George W. Vanderbilt in 1890.

Five years later a French chateau—complete with baronial hall, lake, formal gardens and stable houses—stoood grandly among the mountain peaks of rugged western North Carolina.

Construction took five years, an army of 1,000 workers, and a private three-mile railroad (built to carry materials to the site, then torn up to leave woodland unmarred).

Designed by Richard Hunt, one of the famous architects of the 1890s, the Biltmore Mansion's foundation covers four full acres. The site once was a deep gully, but tens of thousands of cubic feet of fill were dumped into it to permit construction in a spot with a sweeping view of the surrounding hills.

George Vanderbilt lived in his castle as a king should, filling the vaulted banquet hall with guests and entertaining lavishly in the magnificent rooms.

His daughter, Cornelia Vanderbilt, was married here in splendor in 1924. But George Vanderbilt had no sons. After he died, his widow left the castle, later remarrying. His daughter has been divorced, moved to England and remarried.

LEFT SILENT

The old house was left silent. Finally, in 1930, 16 years after George Vanderbilt's death, the Asheville Chamber of Commerce persuaded Mrs. Vanderbilt to open the chateau to the public.

She agreed, feeling the public should be allowed to see the invaluable objects of art her husband had gathered from all over the world.

Cornelia's older son, George Cecil, lives with his family on the estate—but not in the great mansion. He has taken over the old superintendent's house. Her younger son, William, has a suite of rooms in the mansion, but lives in New York.

Only a cook and a housekeeper live now in the mansion whose 251 rooms include 65 bathrooms. The head ranger's family lives in an apartment over the stables.

A small part of the house is open to visitors. The rest of the rooms stand in shrouded silence, ghostly dust sheets over the unused furniture. Six full-time employes and 10 part-time workers labor year-round, grooming and maintaining the mansion.

Rangers in radio cars patrol the estate's 20 square miles and four night watchmen guard the house. The estate originally stretched over nearly 200 square miles, but most of the land was sold to the government for the Pisgah National Forest.

JEWEL TONES

Inside the house, the jewel colors of Persian rugs gleam everywhere against polished floors.

"Experts practically get down on their knees and pray on them," said Dr. Fred Nisbet, superintendent of the estate.

In the center of the hall is the Palm Court, where plants bloom profusely. The Vanderbilts used to serve luncheon among the greenery.

To the right is the banquet hall where great beams arch 75 feet above the floor. The room, copied from an old Norman hall, was built 72 feet long to display five 16th Century tapestries Vanderbilt found in Europe, said to be the tapestries used by Francis I of France in his tent when he met Henry VIII.

The Family Dining Room has Spanish leather on its walls and Spode china with the Biltmore monogram on the table.

"Everything in the house is Spode china with that monogram —even the chamber pots," commented Dr. Nisbet.

The Print Room holds rare engravings and the chess set Napoleon Bonaparte used during the weary years on St. Helena.

The Tapestry Gallery stretches 90 feet, its walls hung with Flemish tapestries of the late 15th Century. Multi-colored fireplace hoods with colors inlaid into the stone were made for this room.

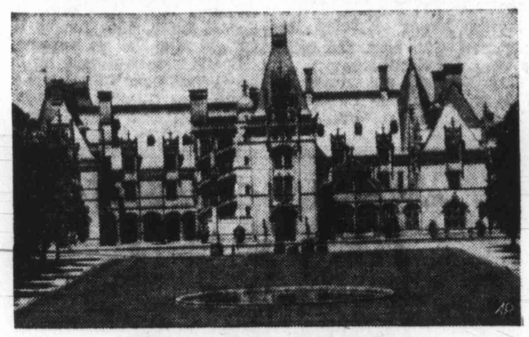

DRESDEN CHINA

Twelve Dresden china figures of the Apostles and ornate candle holders, each bearing the Imperial Arms of Austria, are believed to have come from the private chapel of the ill-fated Hapsburgs.

The grand staircase spirals up four stories without visible support. In the center hangs a black, lacy chandelier—the largest hung from a single point in the world.

It's all pretty fantastic, but not everybody is impressed by it. Take the elderly lady who stalked through the rooms and emerged shaking her head.

"Well," she said firmly, "if I had money enough to build a house like this, I'll be darned if I'd fill it with second-hand furniture."

Vanderbilt Splendor

This is the Biltmore Mansion, built at the turn of the century by financier George Vanderbilt. The chateau has 251 rooms, some of which are open to the public.

Spiral Beauty

The mansion's grand staircase climbs four stories without visible support. The lacy chandelier hanging in its center is the world's largest hung from a single point.

Students Elect Their Officers

FORSAN — Student activities have begun with a flourish at the Forsan schools, and the junior and senior classes have already begun a magazine contest to finance expenses of the year and the senior trip.

George White was elected president of the student council. Charles Skeen will be vice president, Lorita Overton secretary, and Linda Camp treasurer.

The seniors chose Charles Skeen as their president, and Johnny Kennemur vice president. Ginny Dee Scudday and Sherrie Fletcher are secretary and treasurer, respectively. W. M. Romans is their sponsor.

In the junior class, Linda Camp was named president. Other officers are Ellabeth story, vice president; Jan Fields, secretary; Carol Johnson, treasurer. The sponsor is James Childress.

Sophomore officers will be Johnny Bob Asbury, president; Dewey Howard, vice president; Verna Draper, secretary; Olga Rodriguez, treasurer. Mrs. Hamlin Elrod sponsors the class.

Freshmen have selected Rodney Alexander, Walter Fields, and Darla Dunagan as officers, the latter being secretary and treasurer. James Blake is sponsor.

Top four officers for the choir, sponsored by Mrs. Thomas Spell, are Linda Camp, Jerry Bardwell, Sherrie Fletcher and Walter Fields. On the annual staff are Charles Skeen, editor; Sherrie Fletcher, co-editor; and Ginny Dee Scudday, business manager.

FHA officers include Linda Camp, president; Lorita Overton, vice president; Cleta Newsom, second vice president; Jan Fields, secretary; and Janet Gooch, treasurer. Mrs. O. W. Fletcher and Mrs. W. E. Stockton are FHA Chapter mothers.

Stanton Students Leave For College

STANTON—Among those scheduled to enter Howard County Junior College in Big Spring Monday are Sherley Nowlin, Bill Stephenson, Garland Polson, Lois Badgett, James Edward Williamson, Granville Graves, Nolan Sorrels, Vernon Massey and Wallace Hazlewood.

Sadler Bridges will be an A&M College student. He will work on his master's degree.

James McCoy will enter the University of Houston as a junior this fall.

Barbara Smith left today for Lubbock where she will enroll as a freshman at Texas Tech.

Hamburger Supper Given After Game

After-the-game fun was enjoyed by about 60 young people at the East Fourth Baptist Church when they attended a hamburger supper at the church. It was staged by a group of parents in the church, Friday evening.

Hamburgers, potato chips and bottled drinks were served to about 60.

This is being planned as a regular event after each home game, and all students of the church are invited to attend.

West Texas Artists Slate Fall Meeting Here November 8

November 8 has been set as the fall meeting date for the West Texas Art Association, announces Mrs. Richard L. Patterson, secretary - treasurer. The meeting is expected to draw members from Midland, Abilene, Snyder, Sweetwater, San Angelo, Cisco and Brownwood.

Cosden Country Club will be the setting for the assembly, which will include a luncheon, business session, and art exhibit. Tentative hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Membership in the association is open to artists as well as to those interested in art, and annual dues are $1. Those who attend the luncheon will aslo pay the plate fee.

WTAA officers in Big Spring include Mrs. Patterson and Mrs. Ennis Cochran, director. Mrs. William H. Rosser is publicity chairman.

Ackerly Gains New Residents: Wagners

ACKERLY—Mr. and Mrs. John Wagner have moved here from Houston to make their home. She is the sister of Mrs. Tommy Horton.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Myles of Lubbock have returned to their home after visiting with his mother, Mrs. Ira Myles.

Recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Coleman were her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Vaughn and son of Pasadena, Calif.

Mrs. Clinton Hamilton and Eiland of Petersburg have visited with Mrs. Emma Coleman and Mrs. Cora Coleman.

Mr. and Mrs. Cartis White were guests of friends in Waco, Temple, Marlin and Reagan. They have also entertained cousins, Mrs. Lena Bowden and son of Comanche and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Smith, Mulins.

Mrs. Lessie Higgins has had her sons with her, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Higgins and family and Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Higgins, all of Saragosa. Also a sister, Mrs. Essie Glover of Austwell; a cousin, Mrs. Ona Nolan of Big Spring; and Mr. and Mrs. Carl McKee, Vealmoor.

See The Pyramids

Fashion, wise as the Sphinx, takes a new tack with this season's smallest classic pins to achieve a bold, jewelled look. Three small, similar but unmatching pins may be used to give a striking costume accent when arranged in a triangular pyramid shape on a suit shoulder, lapel, or neckline.

CAMPUS CHATTER

By Kathy McRee

The junior college is a busy place as the time approaches for registration and the beginning of school. Tomorrow morning at 9, all freshmen will gather in the auditorium for the orientation assembly. On Tuesday afternoon, the freshmen will register.

Tuesday and Wednesday evening from 6:30 to 9:30 will be night school registration. All day students will register on Wednesday from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Classes will begin Thursday morning.

The school calendar is filled with social events for the opening of school. Last night the college faculty met in the quadrangle next to the administration building for a "salad supper".

Thursday night, after the opening day of classes, a wiener roast will be given by the school for all the students. This will be held just outside the SUB. After everyone has had his fill, the group will move inside for a get-acquainted party.

Friday night, an informal dance will be held in the SUB following the Steer football game. Another dance will take place on Sept. 22, also to be in the SUB. It can be easily agreed that students at HCJC will not be lacking in fun and entertainment this fall.

I am sure that everyone remembers Mary Jane Troxel who worked in the library at the college last year. Mr. Paul Vagt, school librarian, just received word from her and her husband that they have adopted a little girl, Kristen Kay, who was born Aug. 29 and weighed 5 pounds 12 ounces. Mary Jane and Ed have been in Washington this summer, but should be back in Big Spring sometime this week.

As colleges all over the state reopen for the fall semester, the local students are packing last minute articles and preparing to leave. Walter Dickenson left Friday morning for Rice. North Texas was the destination for Donald Lovelady, Lefty Morris, Dwayne McRorey who left Saturday, and Julie Rainwater who left Sunday.

Jacqueline Smith, Lou Ann Parsons, and Barbara Coffee took leave Thursday as they departed for Baylor.

News on a few ex-Jayhawkers: Jerry McPeters will attend Tech this year; Larry Glore has a basketball scholarship to Texas Wesleyan; Gilbert and Helen Bell will be living at Goodwell, Okla., where Gilbert will attend Panhandle A&M; Oscar Williams, Billy Evans, and Lovelle and Freddy Stuart will be students at North Texas State College.

A few Jayhawkers who will be returning to HCJC are Delbert Shirey, Tommy Zinn, Cookie Sneed, Jesse McElreath, Don Anderson, Glendine Philley, Janey Murphy, Benny Carver, Peggy and Patty Francis.

This column is the last I will be writing as I leave for Tech Wednesday. I hope that the students at HCJC will have as successful a year as we did last year.

ESA Pictures Are Made For Scrapbook

Snapshots of each member of the Epsilon Sigma Alpha Sorority were made for the scrapbook Thursday evening when the group met at the home of Mrs. Fred Stitzell.

Barbara Ann Eye reported on the district meeting held recently in Midland. Several projects for the year were evaluated and the members were reminded of the next meeting, Sept. 25.

Mrs. W. L. Phillips, cohostess, and Mrs. Stitzell served refreshments to 11.

This is a wonderful time of the year for watching night football games. The weather is pleasant and clear and no one has to bring blankets, coffee containers and foot warmers to add to the crowded conditions. Of course, winning the game makes the evening more pleasant, and we hope for many more of the same.

DR. AND MRS. CARL MARCUM and their little daughters are happily entertaining Mrs. Marcum's sister and her family, DR. AND MRS. VINCENT J. KITOWSKI and COLLEEN who are in the States on vacation leave. He is with an oil company and is stationed in Saudi Arabia. After leaving Saudi, the family was in India, Hong Kong and Hawaii where Colleen acquired a hula skirt instead of a hoop — and she has become quite adept at hula dancing. Arriving in California, the group took time to go to Disneyland and then to Las Vegas, Nev., before coming here.

The Kitowskis will leave Monday for San Antonio where they have their home. Dr. Kitowski plans to do post-graduate work in either New Orleans or Chicago until Oct. 15, when they will leave for Europe. They plan to spend some time in Ireland and Rome before reporting back to Saudi on Nov. 1.

MRS. GUY SPECK of Carlsbad, N. M., left Friday morning after a visit in the home of her friends, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Taylor. Mrs. Speck has just returned from a tour of Europe that extended from July 16 through Sept. 6. She got back in New York City in time to see the Yankees play the Senators before she came here. She is now visiting a son, Cecil, and his wife in Lamesa and later will spend several days in Denver City with another son and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Speck, before continuing to Carlsbad.

Mrs. HUGH NIXON feels somewhat jarred. For several weeks now she has been jarring peaches from the bountiful supply on trees in her mother's yard. Before she got all of them put away a neighbor called to say her pear tree had produced a bumper crop and so Mrs. Nixon canned several bushels for herself and the neighbor. This seemed to be all the fruit the Nixons and the neighborhood could use, but that was before she fell heir to a large apple box full of fresh prunes, which were sent by a sister from Yakima, Washington. She now has many jars of fresh prunes to add to the peaches and pears.

New Pastor Steps Into Building Drive

Father Francis Beazley, OMI, stepped into the midst of a church building campaign this week when he succeeded Father William J. Moore as pastor of St. Thomas Catholic Church here.

Father Beazley said continuation of the campaign in hopes of starting a new church in the near future will be one of his immediate objectives. The parish owns a tract of land on the south edge of the city as a site for the new building. A school may be constructed in conjunction with the new church.

A native of Dublin, Ireland, the hometown of Father Moore, Father Beazley has lived in this country since 1947 when he was assigned as assistant pastor of St. Mary's Church in San Antonio. Since then, he served a year at Elgin, two years as assistant pastor of St. Ann's Church in Midland, and as pastor of St. Joseph's Church in Edinburg, the post he left to become pastor here.

Ordained into the Oblate Fathers, Order of Mary Immaculate, in Dublin in 1940, Father Beazley served for a time in London, England, where he enlisted as a chaplain in the British Army during World War II.

During the war, he saw service in London, France, East India, Burma and Indonesia.

Following the war, his assignment to this country, which had been pending during the war years, was completed.

Speaking with slight Irish brogue, Father Beazley said he is happy about his assignment in Big Spring.

"Having been reared in a cool climate, I found the Valley temperature quite warm," he reported.

Getting Acquainted

Father Francis Beazley, OMI, new pastor of St. Thomas Catholic Church, is busy getting acquainted with his new post and meeting members of the parish. In this scene, he looks over church records and ponders expansion plans.

Plaugher Leading Steer Wrestlers

Wilbur Plaugher, the rodeo clown who bids fair to win the world's steer wrestling championship this year, increased his lead for the title for the second week in a row when he won second place money in his specialty last weekend at the Ft. Madison, Ia., Championship rodeo.

Plaugher, from Prather, Calif., won $738 bulldoging at the Iowa cowboy contest. Counted a point for every dollar, his winnings moved him 1,419 points ahead of the second ranking steer wrestler, defending champion Willard Combs, Checotah, Okla.

It was the second straight week that Plaugher has won while Combs has not. Combs, competing at the Oklahoma State Prison rodeo at McAlester, didn't place for a penny.

Other major rodeos were the Oregon State Fair Rodeo at Salem, the New York State Fair Rodeo at Syracuse, and the Lewiston, (Idaho) Roundup.

Biggest individual winner of the week was Tex Martin, Sanderson, who won the bareback riding at both Syracuse and Ft. Madison. Martin placed third in both saddle bronc riding and bull riding at Syracuse, winning a total of $2,082 for the week's work.

All around contender Guy Weeks, Abilene, who lost the lead for the big title two weeks ago to big Benny Reynolds, Melrose, Mont., regained lost ground over the weekend. Weeks won all-around cowboy honors by placing third in both bronc riding events and sharing a day money in calf roping at Ft. Madison, winning $659 to pare Reynolds' lead down to 1,516 points.

In the calf roping department, Herschel Romine of Big Spring is now in 10th place nationally with earnings of $5,192 for the year. ropers with 18,016 points.

VA Insisting On Accurate Tax Estimates

Lenders and builders in the GI home loan program should make sure that reasonably accurate tax estimates are given to veteran-buyers and reported to the Veterans Administration, according to Robert W. Sisson, manager of the Lubbock, Texas VA Regional Office.

In some areas, he explained, lenders and builders have erroneously estimated real estate taxes and special assessments when negotiating with veteran-buyers, and when submitting loan applications to the VA.

By this practice, Sisson said, the veteran is faced with meeting a substantially higher monthly payment shortly after closing the loan than he originally was informed he would have to pay.

In some cases, the increased payment is so much higher that, if it were known prior to approving the loan, he said VA would have rejected the application because of the veteran's insufficient income.

The loan also may be placed in jeopardy due to the borrower's inability to meet the increased payment, Sisson added.

Even though exact amounts of real estate taxes and assessments may not be available, accurate estimates may be obtained by checking with local taxing authorities or by comparing nearby properties, he said.

New Abilene Bank Charter Asked

AUSTIN (AP)—A charter application for a new state bank to be known as the Bank of Commerce in Abilene has been filed here.

It has a proposed capital of $100,000, surplus of $100,000 and reserve of $100,000.

Jack Hughes is projected as president; Lee Roper as cashier, with these directors: E. F. Smith, Floyd Childs, H. S. Higginbotham, W. S. Wagley, Carl Dugger, all of Abilene; Omar Burleson of Anson.

That Branchy Taste Due To Lake 'Turning Over'

If water from your tap has that branchy taste, don't be alarmed. It may not be as tasty for a brief period but it's as good as ever.

Twice a year lake water takes on a taste similar to a bucket dipped from the creek. For a brief interval you might think it came from a stump, but the laws of physics which cause this move promptly into long periods of stability.

What happens, explained E. V. Spence, general manager of the Colorado River Municipal Water District, is that the lake (in this case Lake J. B. Thomas) "turns over."

Warm water, like warm air, tends to rise, and cold water tends to sink. After summer sunshine has warmed lake water to the bottom, crisp fall weather moves in and chills the top layer of water. When the top layer reaches a temperature lower than the bottom layer, they simply swap places.

In the process, algae and other vegetative matter which have grown during the favorable warmth of the summer, are stirred. They are harmless but hardly tasteless.

As soon as autumn coolness stabilizes, the water in the lake settles down. Nothing happens until next spring when the same thing happens in reverse, only not so much vegetative matter has grown during the winter and therefore the taste is not affected so much.

During periods of turbulence, water may be treated with activated carbon to minimize the taste.

A Bible Thought For Today

O the depth of the riches both of the wisdom and knowledge of God! how unsearchable are his judgments, and his ways past finding out! (Romans 11:33)

Sacrifice To Perform A Service

The work of the Equalization Board is virtually over for this season, and the men who have sat on this board during the past week are due the highest thanks of the community.

Serving on this board is not the most pleasant experience under any circumstance. But in the too widely separated years when revaluation is undertaken, the task is indeed one to challenge the patience and endurance of the most stalwart men.

To say that all of the several hundred who came and talked with evaluators and did not insist on an audience with the board went away satisfied is to stretch the bounds of credulity. If they departed with acceptance rather than satisfaction, you may be sure that those who did remain to appear before the board did so out of intense dissatifaction.

Accordingly, the board caught the brunt of wounded feelings and hurt pocketbooks. No matter how sympathetic a board might be on an individual basis, it could make adjustments only in relation to other property of comparable value, character and location.

Not being able to yield, or to yield as much as many might think justified, has made the board the target of some intemperate and stinging remarks. The experience of having to politely absorb these barbs was all the more frustrating since the board did not fix the tables of value in the first place.

Still, this job had to be done, and we believe that taxpayers—regardless of their personal feelings about assessments one way or the other—will salute men such as G. H. Hayward, R. L. Cook and C. D. McDonald who have been willing to sacrifice to serve on this board. Less courageous and public spirited men would not have served.

Carrying A Fair Share Of The Load

Good response has been reported so far to the special appeals for affiliating with the Big Spring Chamber of Commerce or for strengthening financial support of the chamber.

There is no most propitious moment for waging such a campaign, but in the face of an over-all feeling that we are on the threshold of a period of great development, the drive is imperative.

We could say a lot of things about how Big Spring and Howard County have provided for the fundamental mechanics and administration of a good chamber program, but how we have cut off just short of that vital area of program expansion. We could say that this is like driving to the 10-yard line and then not turning on the power required to score. We could say, in all accuracy, that the chamber if the best and most logical agency to coordinate activities and promotions for benefit of all the community.

But it is not necessary to repeat these and many more. The average person is intelligent enough to know these.

We like to feel that the average person has enough civic and personal pride not to want someone else to carry his load and that he will want to do his fair share in community building.

David Lawrence

Loose Talk In A Time Of Crisis

WASHINGTON—At a critical time—when at any moment a miscalculation as to American resoluteness and firmness can cause an enemy to take a chance and start a military action which could lead to a big war—it may be asked whether all the reporters who cover the news of the top officials of our government are facing up to the obligations of a responsible press. Also, are the selfish politicians putting partisanship and the pursuit of party advantage above patriotism?

These questions are asked because of a breakdown in ethics, particularly in a recent press conference with the secretary of state. Mr. Dulles had conferred last week with the President at Newport, Rhode Island, on the situation in the Formosa area and had issued a prepared statement. Mr. Dulles also had given, for diplomatic reasons, in confidence to the reporters some background information, with the understanding that what he said was not to be attributed to the secretary of state. Some reporter at the press conference felt free nevertheless to ignore the established custom that the confidences of public officials are never broken, and evidently informed former Secretary of State Dean Acheson about it. The latter—who is head of the committee on foreign policy of the Democratic party's National Advisory Council—issued a statement last week in which he publicly identified Secretary Dulles as the source of the information to the press. Yet Mr. Acheson must have known what the rules of the State Department have always been in relation to these informal conferences with the press.

The question of ethics came up sharply at the public session which Secretary of State Dulles had with newsmen on Tuesday of this week. Here is an extract from the official transcript of that conference as made public by the State Department:

"Q. Mr. Secretary, were you the high official at Newport the other day who interpreted the President's statement after it was released?

"Mr. Dulles: I had what was supposed to be, under the rules that were laid down when I had the meeting, a background conference there. I realize now that you cannot always have a 'background' conference with compliance with the rules.

"Q. So you were the official, sir?

"A. I was."

This was but a polite way of saying that some of the reporters who cover the news of the chief executive and the secretary of state perhaps cannot be trusted, or that someone in their home offices violated a confidence in transmitting to Mr. Acheson the source of the news dispatches.

An argument can be made that "background" conferences should never be held anyway and that everything should be on the record. But in delicate situations involving possible military action, the press for years has respected the confidences of government officials. Recently organizations of editors have set up special committees investigating "secrecy in government" and demanding, under the "right to know" principle, that more information be made public. Will they concern themselves with the responsibilities of the press?

It would seem that the press has obligations also and that the "right to know" doctrine does not include the right to break a confidence-agreement made with high officials. The candid and aboveboard way for anyone who disagrees with that concept is not to accept confidences from high officials in the first place, if it is the intention surreptitiously to act as an informant for the politicians of the opposing political party.

The situation in the Far East is touch and go. Principles of transcendent importance are at stake. Yet the needling of the government here for information of a military nature with respect to American defense planning in the Far East goes on steadily. Both the Moscow and Peiping regimes, with their listening posts on radio broadcasts, are delighted with the co-operation they get nowadays through those American press dispatches which tell in detail, without authorization, what is being planned and what is liely to be done in a military operation by American forces.

Secretary Dulles has explained many times why it is necessary not to advise the enemy exactly what the United States will do in case of an attack on Quemoy. His reason is that it is hard to tell when a military move by Red China may be merely intended to capture that island and go no further, or whether it is part of an attack on Formosa itself, which the United States is committed by treaty to defend. It will be recalled that Formosa is the base from which MacArthur's forces on the Philippines were bombed by the Japanese on the same day that Pearl Harbor was attacked. The Philippines—an integral part of the free world—are vulnerable to attack from Formosa. As Mr. Dulles says, the whole situation with respect to the offshore islands is interwoven with the problem of security of America's allies in the Far East.

Sharp Recovery Brings Danger Of Over-Optimism

The astonishing fact of 1958—leaving out Adams-Goldfine, Senator-elect Muskie of Maine, and plastic hoops and outboard motors—is that there was a recession. Remember?

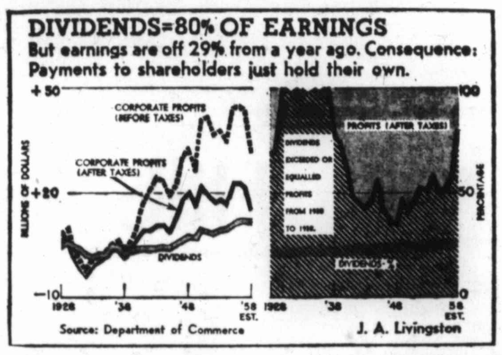

For 4,700,000 persons that recession is still a near-disaster. The unemployed feel the drag of being unwanted, of having no assured livelihood, of depending on unemployment benefits. But for most of us, the recession has receded as a crucial topic of conversation.

Business failures in the first week in September dropped to the lowest weekly total of the year. International Harvester has increased its labor force for the third consecutive month, a signal that the farmers are doing better than all right. Retail merchants, encouraged by healthy buying during the summer months, as personal income rose to a new peak, look forward to a better half in the last six months of 1958 than in 1957. And Wall Street aureates. Stocks are at the top of the chart.

Yet, the recession is not over in a technical sense. It began in August a year ago. The Federal Reserve Board index of industrial production registered 145, then skidded to 135 by December, 130 in February, 126 in April.

In four months—May, June, July, August—production has gained half that loss. The index is up 9 points, 7 per cent, to 135, has ten more points to go, a little bit more than 7 per cent, to complete the cycle—top to bottom to previous top—and end the recession statistically.

The following table shows how the significant business indicators declined during the recession, how much they've recovered to date, and how much further they have to go to complete the cycle (in per cent) to get back to where they started down:

As depressions go, this has been mild, notwithstanding the almost panicky demands in April and May (before the upturn was recognized) for massive government intervention, for tax cuts. The decline lasted only eight months, compared with 11 months in 1948-49-50, and 13 months in 1953-54. In depth, however, this was somewhat sharper, 13 per cent. The 1949 drop in production was 11 per cent, the 1953-54 drop 10 per cent. And this time, the peak of unemployment, 5,400,000, was considerably higher than 1950's 4,700,000 and 1954's 3,700,000.

The rapidity of the rise implies a momentum, a follow-through strength, that may be a snare. Bad weather interefered with construction activity, kept shoppers out of stores in the 1957-58 winter. Bad news crowded into April, so much so that many intelligent and perspicacious business analysists felt that the economy might fall apart, the unemployment might rise to 7,000,000.

Then, all at once, the worst was over. The economy bounced up like a golf ball. Optimism rose in a geometric ratio. Today, business men and labor leaders seem to take for granted that the pace will continue, that the country is set for another round of industrial expansion and wage and price increases. Wall Streeters assume that as production rises so will corporate profits. This explains the strength in stocks—the making of new highs by many issues day after day.

Sharp - penciled investors are careful to note that corporations today are paying out 80 per cent of their earnings in dividends (see chart). That's a high percentage. Historically, 60 per cent is all investors can expect.

Consider International Harvester as an example. It pays $2 a share in annual dividends. It's selling around 38. So it yields better than 5 per cent. But earnings in the first nine months were only $1.81, versus $1.95 last year. The company seems able to continue the dividend; but it isn't likely to raise it in the near future, even if earnings increase. The large percentage payout acts as a ceiling.

For many companies, profits will have to rise considerably before they are translated into higher returns to stockholders. And when Sears, Roebuck & Co. offers a double A debenture to return 4¾ per cent it could be that industrial stocks, selling to yield only 3.6 per cent, are over-aureated. Don't forget, the Federal Reserve Board is fighting inflation. That makes the market vulnerable.

Bang-Up Job

MASSILLON, Ohio (AP)—A rolling stone may gather no moss, but it can damage the siding, lathing and plaster of a house.

That's what Mrs. Rufus Williams told police. She said that, while she was away at work, someone rolled a 30-pound stone down a hill into her house.

Bible Words for Today

PHILIPPIANS 4:13 — "I can do all things through Christ which strengtheneth me."

* * *

Paul, the author of the above statement, was a native of the city of Tarsus. Tarsus was one of the leading centers of Stoic philosophy. The Stoics maintained that man possesses an intrinsic force within himself, and that this force can resist and overcome all outward pressures. Paul refuted that teaching, for he believed that man by himself can do nothing, and that God for this reason sent us a Deliverer, Christ Jesus.

Paul was conscious of the inward presence of Christ. To translate the verse literally, Paul was saying, "I have strength for all things in Him who gives me inward power." This is the universal need of man, for many of our problems and perplexities have been brought upon us by our attitude of self-sufficiency.

Each of us can share in the secret of Paul, for the power which he felt was given him because he was "in Christ."

A Lecture On Teeth, And Their Aches

All right, the class will now come to order, and we will go into the day's physiology lesson. Turn to the chapter on teeth.

Teeth, it says here, are hard structures developed in the mouth and adjacent parts of vertibrate animals and concerned in the obtaining and mastication of food and secondarily in a variety of other functions. Like gnashing.

Teeth, in the medical world, are identified by names like incisors, canines, molars and bicuspids. This omits the more standard variety known as buck, and besides the ordinary mortal does not care about the name of a particular tooth when it begins to hurt. More about this in a minute.

Teeth, it does not say here, may start out to be hard structures, but there is something that happens to teeth along about late middle age, with makes them a lot less hard. Teeth, in the medical world, are subject to such harassments as caries, periostitis, alveolar abscess and impaction. Here again is a category that the ordinary mortal does not care about, because the whole works can be lumped under what is known as the toothache. Just to tell you the truth, this is what I have had for days, and so now we will get down to the subject.

Some pertinent observations:

First of all, toothache always is worse at night. Show me the tooth, while, after driving a fellow to pacing around the room and moaning during the dark hours, does not miraculously improve with the light of dawn, so that, come morning the fellow can decide that the trip to the dentist was not so essential after all, and perhaps can be delayed at least a day.

Next, locating the source of pain is not always easy. The dentist—once you have gotten nerve to get to his office—can ask whether it is the second bicuspid, or the molar in the third row balcony, but about all the layman can do is thrust his finger into his mouth and mutter "Fis fone fite fere, doc," and then hurriedly pull out the finger so the doc can have a look.

But a professional man, of course, can easily spot an infected area. "H-m-m-m-m," he says, and immediately gets out the weapons.

Third observation is that is not strictly true that dentist's tools were designed for general slaughter and mayhem—it just seems that way. Neither is it true that a conscientious dentist will strap you in a chair, mount your chest on all fours, thrust into your mouth a pair of pliers and yank back with such force that he falls back to the floor, taking two of your molars with him. It just seems that way.

Nor is it always a fact that the dentist will put into your mouth such assorted gimmicks as a mirror, a nutpick and a four-inch swab, and then ask you if this is hurting. This is part of your fearful imagination.

And certainly there is no basis for the belief that the dentist's drill is emerging three inches below your left shoulder blade. This is hallucination.

All these things add up to the fact that a dentist is not a sadist, and it is a mistake to jump to such a hasty conclusion. A dentist is a humanitarian, as one will realize when the toothache does finally disappear. Of course, the tooth has probably disappeared with it.

The final item in today's lesson on teeth is that if you have to blame somebody for the toothache, blame Mother Nature for not fixing the things to last as long as the rest of you. It won't be long before I have things all gummed up.

Noted Writer Labels Video Just 'Freebie'

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Television isn't show business," said Robert Paul Smith thoughtfully. "It's a freebie."

Smith, who writes best-selling books, hit Broadway shows, big box office movies and TV variety shows, put his feet up on the typewriter and continued:

"Show business is the legitimate theater, the movies and in an odd way, book publishing. In show business, the audience walks up to a counter, puts down its money and buys a ticket.

"A freebie is something you get for nothing. In television, you are given entertainment for nothing. Oh, sure, you're supposed to keep watching while somebody tries to sell you cigarettes or shaving cream, but it's still for nothing. Well, what you get for nothing usually is nothing.

"The trouble with a freebie like television is that nobody knows if people are buying tickets. So they have to find people to tell them whether or not people are watching and if they like what they see. I don't think the people who tell them are competent to judge."

It's this business of just not knowing, Smith says, that makes television people so jumpy.

Smith himself isn't jumpy. At the moment he is writing the Andy Williams Show, which is the summer replacement for Pat Boone. He accepted the chore because it enables him to earn a chunk of money so that later he can stop earning money for awhile and write another book, which is what he considers his serious business. ("Where Did You Go? Out. What Did You Do? Nothing" was one recent piece of serious Smith business).

"A writer is what they call us in TV," he said, "but that's not right. I write ad libs. Think up ideas. I try to figure out somebody for the performer to be—basically performers have no idea who they are. But that's not writing. In the old days of radio they used to call this continuity. In a show with music that just means giving people something to do or say while the musicians are turning the pages.

Norman Vincent Peale

"Let Not Your Heart Be Troubled...."

The time was three in the morning. The place, a white-pillared Southern mansion—the kind usually seen in movies about the Old South. And the character was a businessman from a Northern city. Suffering from a nervous upset, he was visiting in the home of his south Georgia friend in an attempt to find peace and rest.

The visitor just couldn't sleep. His mind kept whirling, still burdened with the tempo and tension of the life he had left behind in the North. Finally, after tossing restlessly for a while, he got up and paced the floor. He stood by the open window and looked out into the night.

A gleaming moon was sending its silvery beams through the tall pines, and the moonlight fell softly on the lawns that stretched beyond. The serene and glorious night was filled with the fragrange of flowers. The deep quiet was interrupted only by the far-off muted barking of a dog. A little pool sparkled—the brightness of the moonlight reflected by the polished leaves of lilypads. It was truly a scene of beauty and peacefulness.

The disturbed man sadly contemplated this serenity and said to himself, "God has filled the whole world with peace, but there is no peace in me." He turned from the window and resumed his restless pacing around the room.

Then, he noticed a little booklet on a night table and picked it up. It was a devotional magazine called The Daily Word. He leafed through it and came to these words: "My peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."

These words fascinated him with their strange, melodic beauty. He read them aloud and sensed their soft, healing touch. Somewhat quieted, he again stood at the window beholding the peace of the natural world.

Then came one of those powerful insights that remodels lives. "I see, Lord, what You mean," he soliloquized. "You fill the world with peace, but You reserve for the heart of man a deeper peace than that with which You fill the world. I know now that my sins and my weaknesses have kept me from knowing this deeper peace. It isn't hard work or tension or worry; it's my wrongdoing that has built up this nervous upheaval in my mind. I confess all to You and ask You for Your peace. I can no longer live without it."

Suddenly there came to this man one of those spiritual experiences that can take place in a human life when a person really wants a better life. A strange quietness overcame him and with it a deep drowsiness. Completely relaxed for the first time in months, he went back to bed and fell into a sound sleep. In succeeding days he sought and finally found the everlasting peace of God. He felt a sense of deep inward healing. Tension, stress and strain subsided; his sleep became untroubled. When time came to return home, he went back North with the new and wonderful discovery that it is possible to live without strain.

How, then may you live without strain? Mentally and spiritually cleanse yourself of inner conflicts. Face yourself honestly and eliminate anything at all which can subtract peacefulness from your mind. But, of course, the deeper healing—the kind that lasts and fills life with joy—comes from God. Here is a suggestion that can give you God's peace. Every day, perhaps a dozen times during the day, repeat the reflect upon these words: "Peace I give unto you . . . Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid."

This will greatly help you to live without strain.

GOP Wants To Keep Ike Out Of Campaign

WASHINGTON—In the light of the election returns from Maine serious thought is being given within the Republican high command to recasting the Congressional campaign this fall.

Among certain of President Eisenhower's closest associates and stoutest admirers the argument is made that he should deliberately stand aside, for the reason that the gravity of the times with the imminent threat of war in the Far East make it imperative that he refrain from partisanship. He would speak for national unity and in this way he would emerge as the leader of all the people, Democrats as well as Republicans, appealing for understanding and support in a moment of national peril.

Certainly a strong case can be made that he has everything to lose and nothing to gain by going out to campaign for individual candidates. Despite the President's appeal, the Republicans lost both houses of Congress in 1954, and even when Mr. Eisenhower was sweeping the country in a great electoral triumph two years ago his party failed to regain control of Congress.

The experts studying the Maine returns believe they indicate that the most boastful claims of the Democrats—a gain of 60 seats in the House and 7 to 10 in the Senate—are possible and perhaps ever probable.

The sober argument advanced in Administration circles is that if the Republicans use the appeals they have employed in the past, with the seeming sanction of the President, then after January in a Congress with top-heavy Democratic majorities they will risk disruption of the bipartisan support they have had on foreign policy and defense. The generalship exercised by Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn would be blunted by unwieldy majorities swollen by newcomers eager to strike a blow for the Democrats in 1960.

One of these appeals used in each campaign beginning in 1952 is that the Democrats bring wars while the Republicans bring peace. This was revived by Senator Frederick G. Payne who suffered a shattering defeat in Maine at the hands of Governor Edmund Muskie.

"The simple fact," said Payne in a television debate, "is that for the past five years under a Republican President no American boy has been under enemy fire on foreign soil either as a result of a declared war or a police action. You will remember that both World War II and the Korean War took place under Democratic Administrations."

This had a curious sound in view of the fact that President Eisenhower had ordered the 7th Fleet to convoy Nationalist Chinese ships within three miles of the China mainland. In earlier campaigns this theme has been worked over more openly with national campaign headquarters supplying ammunition in the form of casualty lists in the "Democrat wars" of World War I, World War II and Korea. In 1954 the technique was used wholesale in radio and television spots in four or five states where Senate seats were up.

Another point used to buttress the argument that the President should stay out of the campaign is that in certain of the tightest races he would be supporting Republican candidates who had opposed him on important issues. This is conspicuously true in the case of Senator William Knowland of California, in a precarious race for governor of that state. Although he was Minority Leader in the Senate, Knowland opposed the President again and again.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, after his unfortunate debut in the 1952 campaign, has stayed strictly out of politics and he has enforced this rule on all Ambassadors. That example is being pointed out to the President. But the professional managers who want to use the presidential name and get the publicity he draws are likely to prevail. It is a risk—a risk not for the party but for the President and the nation.

CINEMA COMMENT

KINGS GO FORTH, starring Frank Sinatra, Tony Curtis and Natalie Wood. Produced by Frank Ross. Directed by Delmer Daves. Screenplay by Merle Miller from the novel by Joe David Brown. Sunday through Wednesday at the Ritz.

This is a part of the current love and war cycle, which features yarns of young people inconvenienced by war. The horrors of war are being forgotten by Hollywood's script writers, and are being used instead as a backdrop for inconsequential love stories.

Joe David Brown's novel was an exciting story of men in war, but the film version puts the emphasis on a triangular love affair that, to many an ex-dogface, would seem contrived. It seems the two principal male characters are able to meander down to the Riviera on leave just about any time they take a notion, and most of their arguments take place in hotels and bistros, instead of foxholes.

In spite of these faults, however, "Kings Go Forth" has come out as a deep, mature drama. Much of the credit for salvaging a story that might otherwise have been specious and dull must go to Frank Sinatra, whose portrayal of a troubled lieutenant is almost as good as his role in "From Here to Eternity."

STEVENS & BRAND
He's being overly solicitous

Despite the attention given the love angle, there is some fast action expertly blended into the story to give it some movement.

Sinatra is seen as a U. S. Army officer, during World War II in France, who falls in love with Natalie Wood. Sinatra discovers Miss Wood is half Negro, but he decides this is beside the point. The girl, however, doesn't love Sinatra, and to make matters worse, she falls for pretty boy Tony Curtis, a member of Sinatra's platoon who spurns her because of her parentage.

Brown put a tragic ending to his novel, but Miller changed the ending to leave it hanging in the air. The movie-goer comes away with the feeling that everything turned out all right.

In a nutshell, "Kings Go Forth" is not an Academy Award contender, but it is one of the year's better films.

Other viewing, recommended or otherwise:

"Ride a Crooked Trail." Audie Murphy, born in a saloon, grows up to be a bank robber. Once, when one of his pursuers falls over a cliff, Audie inherits the victim's horse, badge and identity, and the erstwhile bank robber becomes a river town marshall. He has some help from beauteous Gia Scala. This film should appeal to those who like their Westerns in the old style.

"The Light in the Forest." Young James McArthur, in this highly entertaining Walt Disney production, is a young white boy captured by Indians and reared as a true and noble Redskin. Fess Parker is the friendly feller who brings the boy back to his real parents, where he runs into trouble with Indian-hating Wendell Corey, and into love with Carol Lynley.

"Marjorie Morningstar." Little is left of the biting Herman Wouk novel, but is nevertheless especially appealing to those who like the star-is-born type of film. Gene Kelly and Natalie Wood give some fine performances.

"Cry Terror." Rod Steiger is an old meanie who tricks pal James Mason into making a time bomb for him, with which said villain extorts $500,000 out of an airline. Mason and his little girl are held as hostage, while bully Neville Brand attempts to assault Mason's wife, played by Inger Stevens. All in all, a pretty good suspense story.

"Spanish Affair." An inconsequential love story made by a Spanish film company that is all the more charming for its lack of content. It is, indeed, a rare substitute for a vacation in Spain. Spain's top actress, Carmen Sevilla, co-stars with an American, Richard Kiley.

Millie Perkins, who plays the title role in "The Diary of Anne Frank," was visited on the set by Otto Frank, the real Anne's father. They found each other vastly interesting.

Coming soon are three delirious movies: "The Matchmaker," "The Admirable Crichton," and "Me and the Colonel." In the latter film, Danny Kaye does a straight role, which may push him up among the top dramatic stars.

"I Want to Live" gives convicted murderess Barbara Graham a better shake and a great deal more sympathy than did the judge, jury, warden, district attorney, the finger man, or the man who turned states evidence.

Just before she was led to California's gas chamber, Mrs. Graham predicted that all those who pushed her toward death would come to violent ends. This has proved true, and includes the entire list above, except for the jury.

The movie was scripted by Nelson Gidding, who was supplied with information by Edward S. Montgomery, a Los Angeles newspaper reporter who was convinced of Mrs. Graham's innocence. This evidence is additional to that which was introduced at the trial, and the discrepancies thereof make one wonder if Mrs. Graham wasn't railroaded.

"I Want to Live" promises to be one of the year's better documentary-type movies.

Bold Ventures Not New To Austin Players

By FRANK N. MANITZAS

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—"I read where flat-chested girls need not apply. So I offered my services," she said.

Tamesha Tami Kelly, 18, is the latest of many bold ventures undertaken by the Austin Civic Theatre. She has no acting experience, except when she played a tomboy in a high school play.

Tami opened Friday, Sept. 12, in the major eye-catching role of "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter?"

She, of course, was bosomy Rita Marlowe, who was created by George Axelrod as a 40-22-35½ silhouette.

Jayne Mansfield, also a one-time Austin girl not remembered for her flat-chestedness, starrred on Broadway in the part.

Civic theatre manager-director Joe Bill Hogan points to Tami as another bit of boldness to go with the 30-year-old theatre's history. It is not subsidized—"strictly box office," he said.

"We're in the black this year. We put on shows through the summer when most other theatres were closed, and we paid our bills," he said. "And we're one of the few cabaret-style theatres in the country to serve beer and set-ups when the play allows it."

EAGER WORKER

For an actress to fill Miss Mansfield's slippers, Hogan picked Tami. He said she is eager but inexperienced on the stage. "But she works hard. You can't ask for more."

Tami is 5-5 and weighs 122. She is natural blonde—her hair now is platinum for the role—with blue-grey eyes. She is 37-22-36½. She is engaged.

Born in Holland, Tex., Tami is a last June graduate of a local high school. She said she became interested in the part when the Civic Theater advertised for someone to play Rit Marlowe, saying "and flat-chested girls need not apply."

"The girls at the office were teasing me about it," Tami said. 'I told them I could get the role. They thought I wouldn't apply. I told them, 'You'll see. I'll get it.' I did."

Hogan is optimistic about live theater in Austin.

"We have plenty of talent to draw from and the interest grows," he said. "The future looks much better than the past."

Tami agrees. She now works as a teller—behind the bars—in a savings and loan association. She hopes to be married in January "and then I'll do as I like: eat steak, potatoes and everything that goes with it. It's my favorite food. My perfect dessert is mince meat pie."

And how does she keep the figure?

"I've been swimming all my life." she said. "And I just love the water ski. When this play is over. I don't know if I'll do any more stage work."

Larry Roberts, the fiance, says "No."

All He Needs For TV Is 2 Front Teeth

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—There was a gasp of dismay when Jon Provost, 8, Lassie's pal on the TV series, smiled at the camera.

"He looks like an alligator!" said the director.

Jon's winsome smile had lost some of its charm—two front baby teeth were missing. He didn't match previous shots made for the filmed show.

The boy was rushed to a Beverly Hills dentist, who made a tiny plate with two teeth to fill the gap, and work resumed.

Prairie Playhouse To Open Doors To Public For 'The Box'

The Civic Theatre will stage the formal opening of its Prairie Playhouse this week, but the public will have to rough it.

"The Box," a two-act play, will be presented in the Playhouse at 8 p.m. Thursday. Afterwards, the visiting public will be given a tour of the building, and those who wish may stay for the meeting of the theatre group to be held after the tour is finished.

All members, incidentally, are reminded to attend Thursday evening in work clothes—there will be a work party after the membership meeting, after the visiting public has had a chance to get safely away.

"The Box," written by Bob Walker, is a brainwash drama about an American flier captured in North Korea who makes the mistake of being too stubborn and sassy to his captors, who eventually use his own aggressiveness to break him. A good source of do's and don'ts for Americans taken prisoner, "The Box" was designed as part of Webb's indoctrination program, and has been well received by base personnel.

The decision to present "The Box" to the public, and to make the presentation in the Playhouse, was prompted by a desire on the part of theatre members to make use of the Playhouse as soon as possible and to show the public how much has been done and how much remains to be done before what was once the old museum building may be converted into an auditorium.

As it is, the Playhouse is in pretty crude shape. Places where interior walls have been knocked out are plainly visible, the remaining walls need a new coat of paint, and the stage will have to be simply a cleared space in the center, with audience seats arranged around four sides.

Those who would like to take the grand tour of the Playhouse, besides being entertained by staging of "The Box," are reminded that there is no charge for the general public, nor will anyone come around with a "kitty" to be filled.

And speaking of kitties, those theatre members who for whatever reason cannot or will not pitch in late Thursday evening at the work party, may instead put a couple of dollars into the labor kitty before heading for home. The principle of the labor kitty is that, if you can't volunteer your own labor, you can help hire a regular day laborer to do the job for you. In fact, a few hours work by a small number of hired hands has accomplished more than all the amateur volunteer efforts, so far.

There was a work party Saturday afternoon, and there will be another today at 1 p.m. to get the Playhouse cleaned up for the play Thursday. Other cleanup chores will be accomplished Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. Theatre members wishing to volunteer may call theatre president Capt. Allen Robertson or work projects director Sgt. Dewey Magee at Webb.

A Mixture Of Jazz And Porter

Odd bits from all over:

Wilbur DeParis, the jazz classicist who is considered to be the world's leading exponent of this art form, does a top-notch job on a new LP, "Wilbur DeParis Plays Cole Porter" . . . he accomplishes the impossible mixture of good jazz and good Porter . . .

In the classical field, the Berlioz "Requiem" is still tops . . . it is a vast and magnificent work, especially on two late recordings by Westminster and Vanguard . . .

There is perhaps no more brilliant display of pomp and circumstance, fanfare and drum beating, than that by the Regimental Band of the Grenadier Guards and the Highland Dancers of the Scots Guards, which are now on an American tour . . . Lubbock was planning to have them this year, but the plans fell through . . . too bad our own Concert Assn. could not have brought them in, possibly using the local gridiron for that purpose . . .

Mary Martin's heart still belongs to Peter Pan . . . she's setting out on a nation-wide tour this fall and winter, and will be flitting about in auditoriums in all parts of the United States . . . it will be a grand show, with music and dancing helping Miss Martin to leap about over the viewer's heads . . .

A couple of weeks ago, the new teen-age singing idol, Ricky Nelson, appeared in a Washington, D.C., concert, and the young-uns went wild. Wishing to crowd to the front to see their idol close up, many of the kids hopped up from their seats, romped over older patrons (and their toes) in a mad rush for the aisle, and generally made themselves obnoxious.

One patron, for example, objected to being stepped on and suggested that the children slow up a bit. The answer he got was that if he didn't want his toes stepped on, he should stand on his seat.

The Washington Post critic, Richard Coe, while speaking kindly of Ricky, wrote some harsh words about the teen-agers' behavior, accusing them of "jungle manners" and "the behavior of slobs."

The reaction, as one might expect, was vociferous and mostly anti-Coe. A few youths agreed the show was a mess, but most letters to the editor on the subject reflected the attitude of the too-young as a childish, self-centered attempt to justify their own bad manners.

Here, if the Post editors will forgive a slight theft, are some comments from the letters column:

. . . Coe is the most horrible person in the world for . . . telling such lies . . . just because he doesn't have girls screaming over him, (he) is so jealous . . . he has to say something to get people's attention . . . the nerve . . . of saying that us girls were slobs . . . if anybody were slobs it was the squares that were just sitting around looking like they were dead and not enjoying themselves a bit . . .

(Coe) became a critic just so he could call people vulgar names without . . . a punch in the nose . . . . he is (the real) slob . . .

. . . Coe is a real slob for calling us kids slobs. Just because a lot of old squares were too lazy to stand on their seats . . . is no reason to say we have no manners . . .

Well, Mr. Coe has my sympathy. He also has my assurance that most kids today, even in the nation's capital, are as polite as they ever were. It's just that the eternal minority of spoiled brats that stink up every generation are more vociferous than they ever were.

It used to be that such kids got the back of an adult's hand, but that was before the advent of psychology "experts" who write mostly for women's magazines, and who have a holy horror of keeping the bad ones in line. Might give the little darlings a complex.

The troubles of a critic are legion, but I have never experienced a reaction such as Mr. Coe suffered. It may be that in Big Spring the back of the adult's hand means something. Or maybe we just don't have our fair share of spoiled brats.

Ex-Tarzan Having Money Troubles

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Johnny Weissmuller, onetime screen Tarzan, says he's in bad shape—financially.

The matter came up in court yesterday after his ex-wife Beryl Scott Weissmuller Ginter testified that Weissmuller was $5,750 behind in support payments for their three children.

Weissmuller's attorney said the actor didn't make a dime last year but is under contract to do some more "Jungle Jim" films for television. Mrs. Ginter asked that Weissmuler be held in contempt. The court took the request under study.

VILLAGE OF LIGHT

It once was called Village of the Blind. But the Israelis who live there, all of them blind, voted to change the name to Village of Light. They changed it because now there is light—the light of hope. The citizens all have their own houses and support themselves by making and selling furniture, handicrafts, rugs. They were trained through rehabilitation programs operated by one of America's religious faiths. It isn't only the blind who need rehabilitation help overseas. Many have been maimed during war years. They've been deprived of training and education. They need the help you can give when you support the religious OVERSEAS AID Program of your faith.

NEW WING CHAPLAIN ASSUMES DUTIES AT WEBB
Maj. W. C. Hall with secretary, Mrs. Frances Cooke

Maj. Wilbur Hall Is New Webb Chaplain

Maj. Wilbur C. Hall, former group chaplain for the 3310th Technical Training Group, Scott AFB, Ill., has assumed his duties as wing chaplain at Webb AFB.

The major, who calls St. Paul, Minn., his home, entered the armed forces in 1943 and has 10½ years of service. He has spent six of those years overseas, 18 months in the Aleutian Islands, one year in Alaska, 18 months in France and two years in Germany.

During Maj. Hall's tour in Europe, he visited MATS units in some 30 countries while on both duty and leave status. His family accompanied him to 15 of those countries. He also spent 15 days in the Holy Land, including one entire Holy Week in Jersusalem in 1954.

In 1947, after release from active duty, he was minister of the Dayton's Bluff Methodist Church in St. Paul. He was in charge of all religious radio broadcasts for the St. Paul Council of Churches, director of youth aticitivies for Methodist Churches in St. Paul, and dean of a Summer High School Youth Institute of 200 young people at Frontenas, Minn. He was recalled to active duty in 1951.

A graduate of Hamline University in St. Paul, and Boston University, Boston, Mass., the major is married to the former Miss Harriet Smith, of St. Paul. The couple have four children, Russell, 21, Jimmy, 19, Marilyn, 17, and Rosalyn, 10. Their boys are presently serving with the USAF, Russell at Bitburg AFB, Germany, and Jimmy, Andrews AFB, Md.

The major's parents, the Rev. and Mrs. John Hall, reside in St. Paul, where his father is a retired Methodist minister. His brother, John O. Hall, is a professor at Michigan State University, E. Lansing, Mich.

Farmers May Pay $75 Million To U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Uncle Sam may collect upwards of 75 million dollars from farmers who produced too much wheat this year.

A penalty of $1.12 a bushel is assessed against wheat grown in excess of a farm's quota. This tax is designed to discourage overproduction when there are surpluses.

Hearings Delayed For Prison Inmates

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah, (AP) — Three Utah State Prison inmates failed to appear yesterday for their parole hearings before the Utah State Pardon Board. The reason: Two are escapees and the third is being held on a murder charge. The board continued the hearings to an indefinite date.

DEAR ABBY

SOME LIKE IT LONG

By ABIGAL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Everyone in our office howled over the letter from the woman who complained because her husband was getting bald and had a crew cut thereby making him look like a picked chicken. Our boss is also balding, but he won't face it. He hangs onto the few very long wisps of hair he has, drapes them around his head in a most artistic fashion. He looks positively ridiculous! On HIM a crew cut would look better.

THE OFFICE GANG

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I seldom write to newspapers but this little item has been bothering me for a long time, and I thought if you'd mention it in your column it might do some good. I work in the Circulation department of a newspaper. So many carriers have trouble collecting their money. Some customers make the boys come back three and four times. Don't these people realize that the carriers are in business for themselves and they have to pay for the newspapers whether they collect their money on time or not? If they knew how hard those boys work to get their collections in on time, they would think twice before turning them away. This goes for all newspaper boys—whether they are 6 or 60. Give those kids a break, Abby, and print this. GRACE U.

DEAR GRACE: By the Grace of Grace—it's printed. Happy collecting, boys!

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I am a boy 14 and have a job (if you want to call it that) for the summer. My father told me to go to a certain place and apply for a job. I got it without any trouble. There is nothing for me to do here and I am only in the way. I heard from one of the girls who works here that my father is paying my salary. I would rather have played baseball this summer. What do you make of a deal like this?

IN THE WAY

DEAR IN: Your father "meant well" but he was off base a country mile in the way he handled the situation. "Cooked up" jobs for youngsters are a handicap to those who fall heir to them. A boy who doesn't have what it takes to get a job of his own doesn't deserve to have one.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: It's a known fact that a woman should look glamorous for her husband at all times, but if I don't put my hair up in pin curls and wear a net at night I am a mess the next day. I can't fuss with my hair during the day because I work with him My husband doesn't like the way I look at night but he wants me to look "just so" during the day, so what should I do?

MIDDLE-AGED WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Perhaps you need a new permanent so that you wouldn't have to pin-curl your hair every night? If that's out—shop around for a cute new hair net. They have them now.

CONFIDENTIAL TO SELF-CONSCIOUS: You can't have everything — but the smart girl makes the most of her assets. Did you ever notice, it's the girl with the best-looking legs who usually sees the mouse first?
