TOP CITIZENS....Mrs. Bob Allford and I.B. Holt

C-CA Banquet Honors Holt And Mrs. Allford

The Olton community said "Thank You" impressively to two of its outstanding citizens last Friday night.

A crowd of more than 300 was on hand to applaud the town's top citizens for the year ---Postmaster I. B. (Doc) Holt and Music Teacher Mrs. Bob (Jenny Lynn) Allford --- at the Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture's ninth annual banquet.

A standing ovation awaited both as Holt, choked with emotion, returned the "Thank You" and Mrs. Allford, near tears, wished she could give a plaque to everyone in Olton, saying, "To the most wonderful people in the most outstanding community in Texas."

Holt, a resident here 43 years, worked for the community while here, and while away as a member of the House of Representatives, looked out for the area's best interests.

Active in scout work and baseball activities many years, he started the first PeeWee baseball in Olton and Lamb County and organized the first Quarterback Club in Olton.

He served as American Legion coach in baseball several years, and was district director at one time. A charter member of the Legion here, he also is past president of Olton Lions Club and served three terms as Worshipful Master of the Masonic Lodge.

Joe Turner, in presenting the Citizen of the Year award, described Holt's work in a road project from Umbarger to Anton.

"He pushed this project to completion while serving as chairman of the Highways and Roads Committee in the House of Representatives."

Holt authored and co-signed many bills important to his district, among them the underground water bill.

A popular vote-getter, Holt was elected district clerk, county tax assessor and collector, county judge and state representative in the times he offered himself for public service.

The award to Mrs. Allford as "Woman of the Year" was made this year for the first time.

A resident here three years, Jenny Lynn has been called up constantly to provide music for community, church and school occasions, in her role as music teacher for Olton schools.

A daughter of school-teaching parents, she received a bachelor of music degree from Texas Tech in 1953, and taught junior high school music at Plainview.

By 1955, she had won a sweepstakes award with the Plainview High School A Cappella Choir.

After her marriage to Bob Allford in 1955, she and her husband devoted the next 10 years to church music, serving churches in Hollis, Okla.; Ballinger, Canyon and Grand Prairie.

As a student of piano beginning at age three, Jenny Lynn studied under many outstanding teachers in the state, and once took second place in a nationwide contest won by the renowned Van Cliburn.

"Mrs. Allford works tirelessly with children of all ages to bring music into their lives in a way that will benefit them throughout their lives," Turner said in presenting the award.

Early during the banquet, the crowd began to worry about the lack of a speaker, as announced by the Rev. Bill Cottrell, master of ceremonies.

S.J. Sparks, billed as a Texarkana attorney with humor, had failed to show, so the Rev. Cottrell asked a guest, "Charlie Thomas of Olney, " to report on his town's progress.

Thomas, after some embarrassing stuttering and tongue-twisting, turned out to be "Stuttering Sam," a well-known professional entertainer from Tulsa, Okla.

"Sam," whose real name is Cecil Hunter, gave the crowd a laugh-a-second, but got across his point that Chamber work takes teamwork.

And after he was done, "Sam" popped one last remark: "That S. J. Sparks has been on the program with me a lot of times, and he hasn't shown up yet."

Of course the ficticious Sparks wasn't supposed to show, but that was unknown to the audience, which included guests from Earth, Muleshoe, Littlefield, Dimmitt, Floydada, Lockney, Plainview and Hale Center.

Also on hand were several seeking office in this year's Demo primaries, including Sen. Jack Hightower of Vernon, Ray Lynn Britt, candidate for district clerk, and Jim Mangum, candidate for county judge.

Invocation and benediction was by J. D. Lancaster. Dinner music was provided by Harold Dean Carson and entertainment included the OHS Stage Band and Luis Rey.

Council Gives Go-Ahead On Paving Bond Project

Plans Under Way On $60,000 Vote

Paving and a community center were the objects of attention of city councilmen at a special meeting Tuesday night.

Approval was given by the council to proceed with drawing up a $60,000 paving bond election.

Action on the community center was tabled until exact cost estimates could be presented to the council by center leaders, who brought up the idea of the building.

Joe Smith of the First Southwest Co., Lubbock, met with the council to receive approval to proceed with drawing up bond papers for a proposed $60,000 paving bond election.

Under a plan submitted by Smith, city tax rates would increase approximately 14 per cent.

The current tax rate is $1.50 per $100 valuation, now assessed at 35 per cent of actual value.

The bond would require an increase from the 35 per cent to 40 per cent.

Of the $1.50, 60 cents is now given to the interest and sinking fund, and 90 cents to the general fund.

The 1966 valuation would be $3,400,000 and the increase in tax would allow a division of 70 cents for the interest and sinking fund, and 80 cents for the general fund, giving the general fund approximately the same amount of annual tax funds as it now gets.

The city currently owes $234,170 in principal and interest payments to be completed in 1980.

With the proposed bond of $60,000 and interest on the bond through 1982, the total city liability would run to approximately $322,945.

Mrs. Basil Johns brought a rough floor plan of the proposed community building for councilmen to view.

Mrs. Johns said Leslie Gordon, who drew up the plan, estimated the cost of the building as it was on the plan at $70,000 to $80,000.

The building, as proposed, measured 140 feet by 90 feet.

It contained two meeting rooms 34 feet by 40 feet, with a divider in one room to make two separate rooms.

It also contained an 85-by-50 foot recreation room, a 34-by-60 foot library, and a 40-by 50-foot space for use as a new city hall.

Council members then brought up the question of possible federal assistance if the building included a basement for Civil Defense use.

Council member and contractor Robert Dennis said costs on such a building could vary greatly and added that he thought the council would be better prepared to act if more definite plans and cost estimates were prepared.

Mrs. Johns said she would submit the plan to several contractors for cost estimates, and get a more definite idea on the exact design of the building.

Smith also advised the council that in checking over previous city bond debts he discovered the city had a surplus of more than $10,000 placed as a reserve fund in the water and sewer bond interest fund.

Smith said the total deposits in the fund topped $18,000, and that state law required only $8,000 to be in the fund.

He told the council that while the money could not be drawn out by the city, the total $18,000 could be invested to draw interest and further build up the fund to provide for future bond elections.

The council then voted unanimously to invest the money in short term U. S. Treasury bonds currently drawing slightly over five per cent interest per year.

Smith also suggested to the council they investigate the possibility of starting a fund now to buy up land for possible later use as sites for city water supply.

Smith said several other area towns had already made such a move to forestall the possibility of a water shortage in future years.

Turner, principal at Olton High, will work with the school board and administration in promoting and organizing the event.

The observance is designed to spotlight what schools are doing and to remind citizens that good public schools are their responsibility.

Several special programs already have been scheduled for the week.

An open house for the entire school system in planned for Tuesday, March 8, from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m. An all-school play will be presented in the auditorium at 8 o'clock that night.

During the mission, a machine gun on his helicopter was shot off.

An 11 year army veteran, Dodd is now training helicopter pilots and other specialists for Viet Nam duty.

Dodd received the awards Feb. 17 from Brig. Gen. George I. Forstythe, acting commanding general of Fort Benning.

Candidates who had filed earlier are Gerald Allcorn and Raymond (Cotton) Lewis, farmers, and Bob Duncan, businessman.

Deadline for filing in the school trustee election is March 2.

Meanwhile, back at the city hall, no one has filed for the three vacancies which will be present this year.

The three members whose terms expire are Doug Jones, C. E. Sullivan and Robert Dennis. Dennis said he would definitely be a candidate for re-election, while the other two members were undecided.

Deadline for filing in that race is 5 p.m. March 5, with the election set for April 5.

Choir, Band In Contests At Lubbock

Olton choir and band members found the pickins' pretty slim at the regional solo and ensemble contests held in Lubbock last weekend.

Members of both groups brought back a single Division 1 and eleven Division II's as an early date and stiffened requirements took their toll of a usual rash of 1 ratings.

A cornet trio of Donnie Fancher, Harry Max Thomas and Bruce Hines picked up the single first.

Band members picking up Division II's were a clarinet trio of Mike Bodkin, Shirley Leonard and Linda Collins; a clarinet quartet of Cheri Dorris, Letha Estes, Susan Venable and Brenda Ellis, Glen Loveless, baritone solo; Gary Parkey, French horn solo, and Jerry Caddel, snare drum solo.

Choir members picking up II's were a sextette consisting of Cheri Dorris, Francine Offield, Joannie Floyd, Kathline Carson, Judy Miller, and Jackie Harrod, and solos by Cheri Dorris, Gayle Gunter, Glenda Turner, Bruce Hines, and Harry Max Thomas.

Schultz Invited To Library Meet

Olton School Supt. Ray Schultz travels to Austin March 23 to attend a conference on state library improvement.

Other state and local community leaders have been asked by the governor to attend.

In addition to the problem of inadequate facilities and book collections, the conference will point out the growing demands for broader library services.

The necessity for additional lay support to meet the growing demands on library facilities will be pointed out in speeches and printed material.

VARIOUS SICKNESSES

Absenteeism High Here, But No 'Flu' Epidemic

The "bug" is taking its toll in Olton school attendance this week, but so far it doesn't appear to be the widely-publicized Asian variety.

Olton Community Hospital reported only one case of actual flu, and Dr. Lynn Fite said he hadn't noticed an unusual number of cases the past few days.

At Olton High School, Principal Joe Turner said absences had been running as high as 22 a day, with a normal average of around 7-8.

But he qualified the statement by saying attendance was above average the last few days due to six weeks tests. He said however, "Some of the students looked as if they should still have been home in bed when they were taking tests.

Junior High Principal Carl McClure said about 10 per cent of his pupils were out Monday, compared to a usual absence rate of about five per cent.

But he said, "Other than Monday, we haven't had an unusual number of absences."

The biggest attendance dip was noticed in Olton Elementary school.

Principal Fred Gordon said, "Attendance has been down quite a bit, but it seems to be due more to a rash of measles, chicken pox, and mumps rather than the flu. We have had some cases of flu reported, but it seems to be just getting here and is very light."

To March Again

Olton's Bykota Club will have the second round of the annual Mothers' March of Dimes beginning 2 p.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Bob Harber said the group collected $193 during the first march held last Saturday.

She said the group will visit downtown businesses and the section of town south of 9th St. and east of Main St.

A Salute To The FFA

Future Farmers of America Week is to be observed during the Feb. 19-26 period in Olton and throughout the nation.

And the theme that has been chosen for it--"Agriculture Is More Than Farming"--admirably points up the week's purpose and significance.

There is a term, "Agri-Business"', which often is used in reference to all the occupations related to farming.

The chain of agriculture starts with the suppliers to farms -- those who provide goods and services ranging from machinery and chemicals to insurance and technical services.

Farmers, the producers of raw materials, are the center link.

Then come marketing, processing, transportation and distribution. All in all, this agricultural complex employs many millions of people and is America's largest industry.

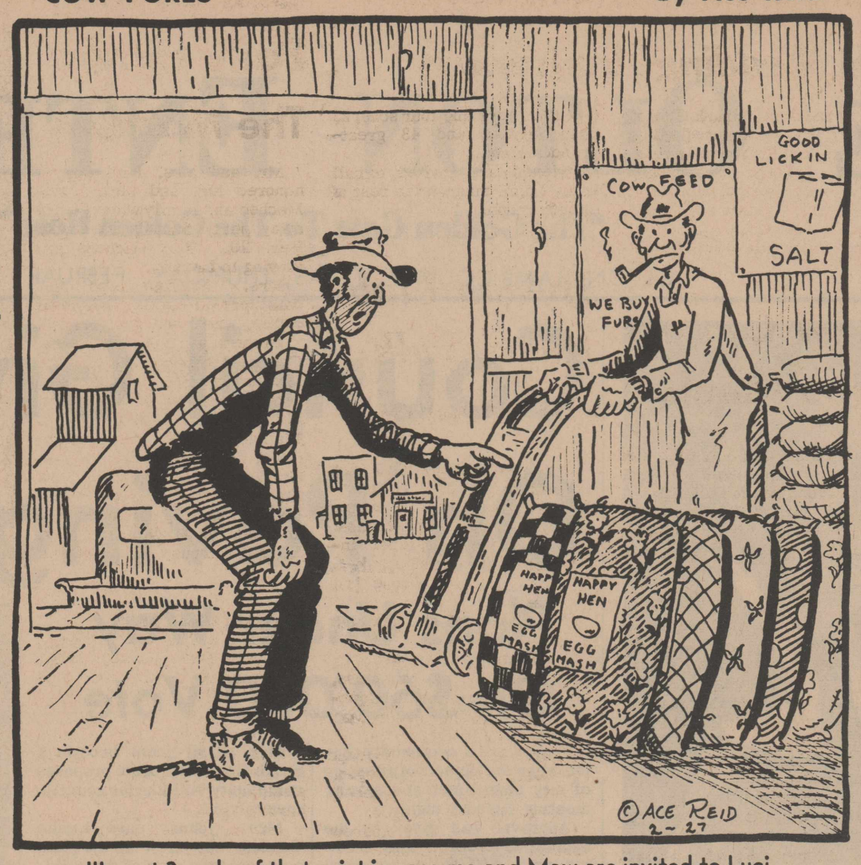

Vocational agricultural education in Olton High. School, as throughout the nation, provides a start for boys to obtain the training needed to enter these occupations. Some will go on to college or technical schools.

About a third will return directly to the farm, and they will have the knowledge that additional education is available to them in young farmerand adult farmer classes conducted by teachers of vocational agriculture.

The Future Farmer's organization supplements the regular school instruction by providing opportunities for leadership development.

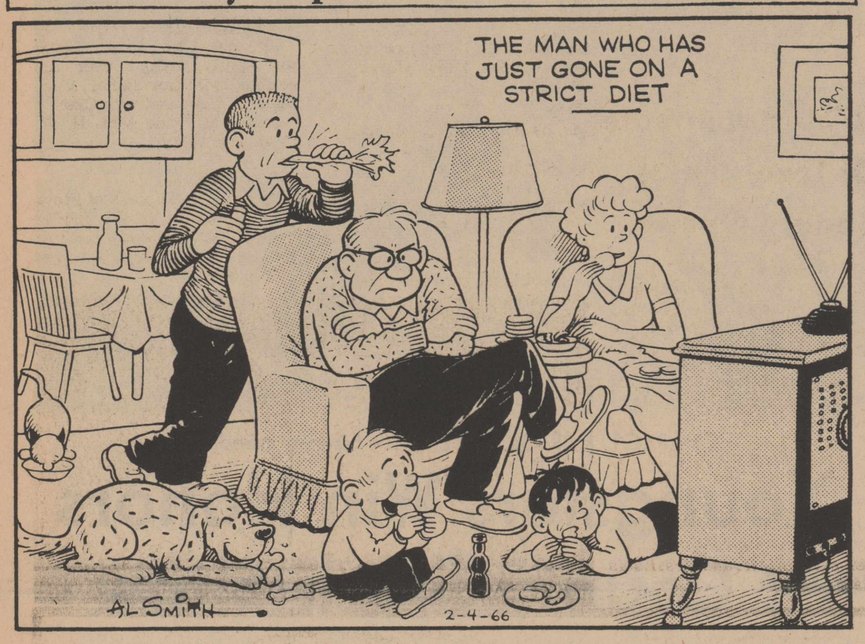

Its goal is to help train young men for a wide horizon of agricultural occupations. This is a needed and valuable work.

Construction of an Olton Community Building on the property of Olton Recreation Center will begin as soon as weather permits. That word was passed on Monday night by ORC's board of directors, as following unanimous approval of the project last Thursday night by 120 members who attended the ORC annual meeting at the school cafeteria.

Ask Amy

BY AMY ADAMS

TOO YOUNG AND TOO OLD

Dear Amy:

I will soon be a teen-ager but I am small for my age. All of my friends are bigger than I, yet I'm older than most of them. Their parents buy them teen-age clothes and permit them to use make-up. All this helps to make them look older, but I have to stick to little girl's dresses which include lace and bows. To me, the dresses I have to wear are very 'kiddish' looking.

Since I am now in Junior High, I would like to know how I can keep from looking like a third or fourth grader?

Discouraged Shorty

Dear Shorty:

You're too old for ruffles and too young for rouge!

Ask your mother to choose your clothes along more tailored lines . . . and Mother Nature will take care of the rest.

* * * *

Dear Amy:

I have a very good friend of Japanese decent whom I have known all my life as he has lived on the family property since I was a child.

Recently there was a death in my family (after a long illness), and in my troubles, he took over all the responsibilities. There wasn't a thing that he didn't do in his quiet but efficient way.

I would like to repay him in some way for all his kindness but I don't want to hurt his feelings in any way since I feel he is quite sensitive. I have thought of handing him a check, but I wish you could suggest some better way to repay my 'debt' to him.

Please help me if you can. I always look forward to your writings and enjoy them very much.

M. C.

Dear M. C.:

A check or money in any way, shape or form is in my opinion improper . . . unless the gentleman in question is in dire need of money.

If this is not the case, I suggest you give him a personal gift in the form of anything that you know he would wear, use or enjoy.

* * * *

Dear Amy:

Will someone please tell me what all this talk about big brothers is about? Why all this, "Oh, he's so mean" and "Big brothers are nuisances."

I am a thirteen year old girl and I have a sixteen year old brother. Sure he teases me and calls me a "punk", but I still think he's a good brother. When I get some records, he'll play them but he knows he can because when a person buys something in our house, it sort of belongs to everybody. When I ask, he always helps me with my homework and he never gets impatient when I don't get it right away. When I'm the one who gets mad, he walks away and comes back later when I'm in a better mood. We have lots of arguments, but they are soon forgotten.

Really, Amy, I think a great deal of my brother. And to those who don't get along with their brothers, here's a hint of advice: Try doing a little on your part.

The Kid Sister
(Cleveland Ohio)

* * * *

Dear Amy:

I recently met a man who seems well mannered. We do not know each other very well since we met just about a week ago. He asked me if my parents would mind if he could see me, which shows that he was thinking of them as well.

My parents don't approve because they don't know him or his background. Therefore, they won't let me go out with him.

I had full intentions of introducing him to my parents. Would you please give me your opinion as to whether they should let me date him or not. I'm 20 and no 'kid'.

Wondering

Dear Wondering:

It would be a nice gesture on your part (with your parents' permission) to invite the young man to your home for the purpose of meeting your parents.

If he's as nice and as thoughtful as you say, I'm sure they will have no objections to him dating their daughter.

Poultry Again Best Buy Says Changing Times

You'll be paying high prices for beef, pork, and lamb in the months ahead so poultry once again will be the best buy of the year, according to the February, 1966 issue of Changing Times, the Kiplinger Magazine.

Beef prices hit their highest point since 1962 last year. And even though future supplies will increase, they will not outstrip population growth. So prices are likely to go up -- and the upward trend of beef prices may well continue through the rest of this decade.

Premium prices for pork will prevail through the summer months. Why? Farmers slaughtered fewer hogs in 1965 because of low pork prices in 1963 and 1964. Low prices also caused a drop in hog breeding in 1964, with a small 1965 pig crop as a result.

Sheep raisers are trying to build up their flocks restricting shipments to market. Thus, the odds are that rpices will stay high.

Despite recent price rises, poultry costs about 28% less than it did 15 years ago. Both chicken and turkey production have been expanding and prices are likely to decline.

Teachers Say English Continuous Study

At the junior high level of teaching of language becomes a more highly specialized task than at the elementary level.

Two Olton Junior High teachers, Mrs. Ivin (Essie Lee) Wozencraft and Mrs. Burt (Austa) Fisher, offer their comments on the subject.

The language arts program is a continuous one for the entire school life of a child.

The elements of the program are reading, including the study of literature; communication, oral and written, and grammar, mechanics and usage.

The child should not be led to believe that reading is always easy or that all reading material is, or can be simple.

At each grade level the child puts into use the skills learned in previous grades.

He is led into a deeper knowledge of how to attack strange words independently; to develop the ability to get meanings and to study reading such as he encounters in social studies, science, math, and other informative material; and to develop an interest in reading worth-while material for pleasure.

In the study of literature, the child is taught how to find the main idea of a selection, to interpret the implied ideas, recognize the author's point of view and to relate the stories to his own experiences.

The child also learns how to read at different speeds, according to the purpose or subject matter to be stressed.

Example: History Vs. a "Nancy Drew" mystery. In the study of literature, differentiating between figurative and literal language is stressed.

The students continue the reading of literature throughout the junior high school. The selections studied continue to be on a more mature level designed to lead to a greater refinement of skills learned previously.

During the last year of junior high school, greater stress is placed upon the study of literature to prepare the student for high school.

As in the lower grades, the pupil continues to be presented with prose and poetry. In order for a child to communicate effectively, instruction is given in spelling, capitalization, punctuation, manuscript form, usage, and grammar -- coordinated with reading, writing, speaking and listening activities.

In the final stages of the program, creative writing and drama are stressed.

Spelling is not an isolated subject for the pupil of junior high school, nor is it merely a study of letter sequence. The study of spelling is designed so that he may learn meanings, synonyms, homonyms, and antonyms. Word building patterns are stressed with the use of prefixes and suffixes.

The many activities of spelling include practice in proofreading, recognizing parts of speech, correct pronunication, and punctuation, and practice in advanced dictionary skills.

Since this is the last formal spelling program that most students will have, words have been selected that meet his present needs, as well as words with which he will come in contact in adult life.

Grammar is the study of form and structure of sentences. Usage has to do with language practice, spoken and written. Instruction in mechanics includes forms, capitalization, and punctuation in written communication.

Grammatical terms studied at this level are: subject, verb, predicate, adjective, noun, direct object, simple adverb, simple adjective, prepositional phrases used as adjective and adverb, and indirect objects.

Improvement of sentence structure is stressed through the correct use of infinitives, participles and gerunds. Compound and complex sentences are also added to the program to give spice and variety to the pupil's communicational ability.

LAST WEEK OLTON WAS INVADED!!!

Yes, at least it seemed that way. Everytime you met a car on Main Street, while making your usual drag, there was, at least, one out-of-town visitor in the car. Some of the "invaders" were from Hereford, Friona, Albuquerque, Hart, Duncan, and oh, yes, Earth. With the visitors and regular teenagers, Saturday night was quite a night! Wasn't it, kids --especially with all the EXTRA activities?!!

****

At the Littlefield Stock Show Olton captured three champion swine awards with animals shown by Jackie Burkhalter, Tommy Ray, and Steve Huckabee. Archie May displayed three of his lambs, which received champion awards. The reserve grand calf was owned by Charlotte Brigance. And last but not least, Jason Latimer won two reserve champions with his two calves.

Other boys who displayed livestock at the show were Larry Green, Stan Huckabee, Aaron Robertson, Jimmy Huckabee, Jimmy Schreier, Joe Fincher, Steve Burleson, Rocky Farrar, David Aigaki, Doel Cordero, Butchie Hudgens, Tony George, Danny Sides, Gary Shawn, Steve Moss, Danny Collins, J. Curtis Hall, Ted Wheeler, Darell Breland, Guy Ballard and Doyle Meadows.

Campaigning and politics were the themes, all of last week concerning the elections of the '66-'67 student council officers.

Nominees for student council officers were as follows: president, Valda Jones and Jim Smith; vice-president, Barbara Cowart and Kenneth Moss; secretary, Karen Hipp and Jackie Harrod; reporter, Jeanie Gardner and Johnny Lewis; treasurer, Steve Spain and Joe Fincher; parliamentarian, Albert Key and Danny Amerson.

After the ballots had been counted and totaled, the tallies read: president, Valda Jones; vice-president, Kenneth Moss; secretary, Jackie Harrod; reporter, Jeanie Gardner; treasurer, Joe Fincher; and parliamentarian, Albert Key.

From us, "Congratulations!"

Is it worth the long, hard-working hours spent on a solo or ensemble? The cornet trio -- consisting of Donnie Fancher, Harry Max Thomas and Bruce Hines -- thinks so. They were the only ensemble that brought back a 1 from contest last Saturday.

According to Mr. Ross, they had the hardest set of judges that he had ever seen at contest. The band also brought back three ll's -- Glen Loveless, Gary Parkey, and Jerry Caddel.

****

The choir didn't do quite so well, though, at their contest Saturday. They did bring home six ll's, two lll's, and on 1 plus.

In explanation of the 1 plus, the sextet -- Cheri Dorris, Kathline Carson, Joanie Floyd, Francine Offield, Judy Miller, and Jackie Harrod--sang their contest number and received a ll. After hearing their famous song of "Downtown," he gave them an unofficial 1 plus. Pretty good, girls!!!

Besides all the encouraging remarks -- Gayle Gunter, Cheri Dorris, Glenda Turner, Bruce Hines and Harry Max Thomas all brought home ll's with their solos. In addition to these, Dale De Berry and Jerry Caddel got lll's.

Best of luck next year!!!

****

Since it's six weeks again, we thought we might slip in this short rhyme.

I like an exam,
I think it's fun;
I never cram,
And I don't flunk one...
I'm the teacher!!!!

****

WHO'S WHO IN O.H.S.

Neil Burrus: Why were you so upset Saturday after lunch? Did someone make you angry?

****

Charles McClain and Jerry Kemp: Did you ever get things settled Friday night?

****

Kenneth Moss: Did you ever get that phone call made to that special someone?

****

Benny Akin: How MUCH did you say you PAID for your new butane lighter?

****

Jimmy Huckabee and Larry Neinast: How come the cop followed you two all the way from Earth Saturday night?

****

Kathy Norfleet: Have you caught Scarlet Fever yet?!!!

Harry Max Thomas: Did you enjoy your corn-cob pipe at the banquet Thursday night?

****

FOR FUN

Gary Parkey: How does an octopus go into battle?
Gary Johnson: Well armed!

****

Darrell Breland (entering library): Miss do you have the book, Man, Master of Woman?
Mrs. Armstrong: The fiction section is to your left!!!

****

Mr. Dennis: What do you get when you crossbreed an owl and a goat?
Rickey Smith: A hootenanny!

****

Iva Tanner: "Pins are really crazy they are pointed in one direction, but headed in the other!"

****

Mrs. Hamilton: Do you believe in clubs for young people?
Mr. Turner: Only when kindness fails .

****

Kennneth Moss: Today you don't have to spend a lot of money on a date. There's romance in the stars, the sky, the moon.....
Ottis Patterson: Yeah, but isn't there anything within walking distance?!!

****

Father lightning bug: Isn't Junior bright for his age.

****

A chrysanthemum by any other name would be easier to spell.

****

A special note to VICKI NEINAST!!! Hurry up and recover from your operation. We all miss you!!!!!

Soybeans Could Be New Crop

Soybeans may become the replacement crop for cotton in the Olton area this year, according to information from the USDA and the High Plains Research Foundation.

According to Dr. Earl Collister, HPRF director, farmers can plant soybeans on allowable grain sorghum acres this year and receive price support payments, just as if feed had been planted.

Castor Bean Payment Set

The diversion payment rate will be increased from 30 per cent ot 50 percent for the 1966 program where castor beans are grown as an alternate crop on acreage diverted for payment, the USDA announced.

The programs involved are those for wheat, feed grains and cotton. The 50 per cent rate is the same as that paid in the 1965 programs.

It had been announced earlier that the acreage diversion payment rate would be based on 30 percent of the individual farm acreage diversion payment rate. New information on production and income to farmers for this crop has been obtained. It shows that a larger part of acreage diversion payment is needed. to maintain a moderate acreage from which production can be expanded should the need arise in the future.

In the 1966 feed grain program, producers who divert at least 20 per cent of their base feed grain acreage will receive price support payments of 53 cents per hundred.

The same price support payment will be received when soybeans are substituted for grain sorghum.

For instance, on 100 acres, a farmer can divert the minimum of 20 acres, plant 30 acres to soybeans and 50 acres to feed.

Or, he can divert 30 acres, plant 35 in soybeans and 35 in feed. He can also divert 50 acres and plant 50 acres in soybeans, or he can divert 20 acres and plant 80 in soybeans.
