BLEASE SAYS FOUR JOINTS ARE OPERATED

BLEASE MAKES CHARGE IN TARIFF DEBATE ROW TODAY

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—An assertion that "four narcotic joints" were operating near the capitol on Pennsylvania Avenue and that this was known to "people whose duty it is to stop it" was made in the senate today by Senator Blease, democrat, South Carolina.

Blease made these statements while speaking in opposition to a committee agreement to the tariff bill to eliminate a house provision to extend the liability to owners of vessels for unmanifested smoking opium found on board.

Cases Presented

Blease said the cases of four persons suspected of narcotic law violation were presented to the grand jury for action here last July and no action has yet been taken.

There was reason to believe, he asserted, that some higher up was preventing grand jury action. He added that local authorities were making no narcotic arrests, and federal enforcement agents also were lax because they were putting enforcement up to the local officers.

Tech Opens Fifth Session Today

Plastic youth in varying moods, enlivened greetings of sophomores and upper classmen, flashing array of scarlet and black, assembly of sweaters depicting high school colors of the Southwest, reticent freshmen meekly responsive to exigencies of registration and crowded corridors.

ENROLLS FIRST

Miss Myrtle Reed, of Corsicana was the first person to complete registration for the 1929-30 session of the Texas Technological college this morning.

Miss Reed holds a scholarship from the State Orphans Home at Corsicana.

Such are glimpses of Texas Technological college today as the gateway to education was opened for registrations for the fifth annual session of Texas' youngest—but one of the largest—institution. Registrations will be concluded Wednesday.

Heralding an enrollment expected to peer any of former years, all buildings are crowded today as registrations have fooled in such rapid succession that accurate estimate of probable enrollment is impossible at this time, college authorities announce. Registrations are expected, however, to reach almost 2,000 this week.

Green-capped freshmen, following orientation Friday and Saturday, furnished scource for usual jesting of seasoned collegians this morning, when initial gestures of first yearlings evoked considerable laughter.

One freshman was corrected after he had written, "They have consented" in the blank space seeking names of parents on the registration sheet. Another, who lives in a small town near this city, wrote, "Would like to go home every week-end if possible" as a foot note.

Several entered the office of Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the colege, thinking that was the logical place for registration. In each instance, however, Miss Pearl Harrison, secretary, courteously directed them.

Highlights in the program for the first week follow:

Registration—Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

Fall term classes open Thursday morning at 8 o'clock.

Dr. Paul W. Horn, president of the college, will deliver annual address to student body at convocation Friday morning at 11 o'clock in the college gymnasium.

Membership Books Are Compiled For State And National Members of PTA

The name and address of every one of the 60,690 members of the Texas Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations is wanted at the state office of the congress as soon as the 1929-1930 dues are paid, for every one of the men and women who pay the twenty-five cents per capita dues for membership in the state and national organizations is entitled to an attractive 4-page membership card that was adopted at the Washington convention in May.

The first page of the card contains the oak tree emblem of the National Congress and certifies that the person whose name appears in the space provided for it is a member of a certain parent-teacher association, and it has the names of the National and State presidents, and the local president.

Aim Is Stated

The second page contains an exposition of what it means to be a parent-teacher worker: "The one worth of a little child. American thing in the world which every one regardles of race, creed, or language, can agree is the worth of a little child. America is committed to the ideal that every child shall have a fair start in life. The organized parenthood of America is a mighty force for worthier homes, better schools and finer communities. As a member of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers you have a part in helping to realize that ideal in your home, in your community, in your state, in the nation, and in the world. Every thing that you put in this movement in time, energy, money, and spirit helps to magnify the finer and richer values of our civilization. It is an inspiring movement worthy of your best and you may well be proud of your part in it."

Has Platform

The third page contains the permanent platform of the National Congress, the seven cardinal objectives of education. The fourth and last page contains the objects of the national congress as expressed in the by-laws:

"First, To promote child welfare in home and school, church, and community; to raise the standard of home life; to secure more adequate laws for the care and protection of women and children.

"Second, To bring into closer relation to the home and the school, that parents and teachers may cooperate intelligently in the training of the child; and to develop between educators and the general public such united efforts as will secure for every child the highest advantage in physical, mental, moral, and spiritual education."

FRILLS AND FURBELOWS MARK PRESENT FEMININE FASHION TREND

By MME. LISBETH

Fashions worn by screenland favorites are of interest to every woman, almost as much so as the love story.

As the beauties of Hollywood must be strictly up to the minute with their clothes, they are now showing the various frills, draperies and fur-belows that mark the present feminine trend.

Raquel Torres, left, is wearing a youthful dance frock of Alice blue chiffon, with princess bodice and ruffly skirt. The latter consists of rows of little circular ruffles set on from the hip tops to the hemline, with a lengthened line in black which just escapes the floor. A row of flat pink roses forms one shoulder strap and outlines the neckline in the back. Satin slippers of the same shade as the dress complete the dainty costume.

Black cire satin is used to fashion the sheath-line gown worn by Julia Faye, second from left. A narrow belt, finished with a jewried buckle breaks the long-lined bodice, while the skirt consists of two circular flounces set on in uneven line.

Sheer batiste, showing lovely embroidery patterns, fashions the frock worn by Julia Faye, second from right. The frock has the close fitting bodice and full, circular skirt finished with large scallops and deep border of black taffeta. A crisp taffeta bow is posed on the left hip. A diamond necklace and matching bracelets are the jewels worn with this frock.

A lovely white moire model is worn by Raquel Torres, right. The waistline is outlined by a belt of sequins which extends down the front in fan-shaped design. The back of the long skirt is faced with red taffeta.

Living and Loving

BY MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"Blessed is the peacemaker," says the Good Book. But sometimes, in our hearts, we have grave doubts about this. We all know the fate of the person who rashly interferes in a battle between husband and wife. Both usually turn on him. And the same is often true of the friend who tries to help the course of true love to run smoothly in a lovers' quarrel. Both lovers decide that the peacemaker is the one that made all the trouble and distrust and dislike her. That is pretty nearly the predicament of the young woman who writes the following letter:

DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: Some time ago my girl friend and her fellow seemed to quarrel and disagree. I felt she was wrong and tried to help them both and make her care for him more. The fellow seemed a friend and came to me with everything she did. I told him just how to go to work to make her care. He followed my suggestions and things went smoothly for awhile. Then he began to be hateful about petty things. She was good to him through it all until her patience wore out. They quit last week and he told her that I wasn't her friend and that I would eventually cause her trouble. What should I do to make her know this is untrue? Should I get them together and make him tell her it isn't true? I have explained everything to her. She hasn't turned me down.

"ALL WRONG."

Looks as if you are experiencing the proverbial lot of the peacemaker. All Wrong. As long as you have told the girl friend all about it, and she still seems true to you, why worry? And I advise you to keep out of other people's quarrels hereafter, no matter how good your motive. Lovers are generally better left to patch up their own misunderstandings.

PATIENCE: If the man wishes to meet you he will find a way to get someone to introduce him, so be true to your name a while longer, Patience. It is always best to let the man take the nitiative in such cases.

POLLY AND PEG: What do you talk about when with your girl friends? Boys are human beings, too, you know, and what interests you and your girl friends usually interests them, too, except clothes, of course. Boys are usually interested in athletics and such like things, and also in all sorts of modern inventions, adventures one reads and hears about, etc. Try out a few of these on them. You will gradually outgrow your bashfulness and learn to forget yourselves which is the secret of self-confidence and poise.

"DEAR VIRGINIA LEE: I am 18 years of age and go with a girl one year my junior. I met this girl three years ago and became intimate with her almost at once and have gone with her steady for two years. We plan to be married some time of course not for several years. We are both seniors in high school.

"Now, Mrs. Lee, do you think that it's just a case of 'puppy love,' or real love which will lead to the happy home we are planning? How soon do you think I shall be old enough to give her an engagement ring? Thanking you for the kind advice. PETE."

Time alone can tell whether your love for one another is lasting, Pete. It may be. As to the engagement ring, when you are through school and have earned the money for it yourself it will be all right to give it to your sweetheart.

BROKEN HEARTED SUE: I think if the young man really loved you he would not tire of you. If he was like that it was well you found it out before you married. He is young—younger than you in his development, possibly—and maybe he wanted to go with other girls for awhile and see if you really were the one he wanted. You can't do anything, that's the sad part, but wait until he comes back. Maybe by that time you will have decided that a changeable person like he is not the man you can really be happy with. Two congenial people can agree even if their complexions are alike. Something usually comes along to ruffle the course of true love, however.

DALLAS STEERS DIXIE SERIES BOUND AFTER BESTING SPUDDERS

ATHLETICS APPEAR CONFIDENT OF VICTORY IN WORLD SERIES

VIC FRASIER AGAIN LEADS TEAM IN WIN

SPUDDERS FALTER IN FOURTH GAME, 2 TO 1 SUNDAY

(By Associated Press)

As a result of their play-off against Wichita Falls here yesterday by a score of 2 to 1, the Dallas Steers, Texas League champions, were Dixie Series bound today.

Manager Milt Stock's warriors including the 20-year-old Victor Frasier, individual hero of the torrid series just concluded, planned to board a train for Birmingham at 11 p. m. for a 24-hour ride to the home of the Southern Association champions. Two games will be played at Birmingham Wednesday and Thursday, the teams returning here for three more starting Saturday.

Spuds Falter in Test

While the victorious Stockmen prepared to joust with the Barons and reap the resultant glory and financial gain, Jim Galloway's Spudders, decisively beaten in the concluding games of the series ere, had gone back to Spudderville to turn in their uniforms. For the second straight year the Oilers have battled their way to the second half title only to falter in the play-off.

Seldom as a club of championship calibre taken it on the chin more thoroughly than the Spudders did at the Steer corral here the last two afternoons. Veteran baseball observers agreed the north countrymen were outfought and outgeneraled at every turn. They chose to play "right" baseball refusing to take a chance at any point. Their attack collapsed and the Steers located the weak spot in the Spud armor three times to drive through to victory.

Pitchers Spell Defeat

Whitey Glazner and Vic Frasier turned in two mound masterpieces in the concluding tilts. Where the veteran Whitey set the Spud wrecking crew down with four scattered hits and blanked them on Saturday, his youthful compatriot came back to limit the visitors to five blows yesterday, only one of which was out of the infield. In other words, a club that mauled the ball at a .300 clip all season slammed only three clean hits in two games.

In many ways Frasier's performance yesterday was more remarkable than that of Glazner the previous day. The rookie phenom had everything including an abundance of nerve. His withering speed and sharp breaking curve set 10 Spudders down by the strikeout route.

Got in Hole

In the eighth frame, after the Spudders had scored one on Fitzgerald's double through Davis and had the tying and winning runs on base, Frasier walked Red Bennett purposely to get to Pete Turgeon. With the bases loaded and a single almost certain to deprive him of victory, Frasier bore down and fanned the hard hitting Wichita second baseman for the third out. That broke the Spudders' spirit and two more of them whiffed in the final frame.

A crowd estimated at 15,000 witnessed the final battle.

BARONS NOT HITTING AS IN 1928 SEASON

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Sept. 23. (AP)—Batting precedent which has given Texas league representatives victory in all except one of the Dixie series, the Birmingham Barons, Southern Association champions, will meet the Dallas Steers here Wednesday.

The Barons this year do not look as formidable as did last year's team, hitting more than 30 points below the .331 clip set in 1928. However, it is generally agreed the 1929 champions have a much better balanced team with the added advantage of a stronger and more rounded pitching staff.

Dick Ludolph, who led the association hurlers with 21 victories and 8 defeats in the race just closed, and Art Weis, league's leading batter, will lead the Barons into battle.

Chillocothe Wins From Quanah, 33-6

(Special To The Journal)

CHILLICOTHE, Sept. 23 — The Chillicothe high school gridsters continued their onslaught against lane A football teams Friday by trouncing the Quanah Indians, 33 to 6.

The victory was the second triumph of the season for Coach Volney Hill's fighting grid warriors, having downed the Vernon Lions earlier in the week, 6 to 0.

Team Outweighed

Quanah outweighed Chillicothe at least 20 pounds to the man, but were unable to cope with the flashy attack shown by Coach Hill's well-coached aggregation.

The annual success of the Chillicothe eleven under its new mentor has caused considerable comment among local grid fans. Indications point to one of the most successful seasons in the history of Chillicothe high.

MUCH LEASING ON

TEAGUE, Sept. 23 (AP)—Major oil companies are actively engaged in leasing land in this section. One company alone is leasing 60,000 acres around Teague, paying one and two dollars an acre. It is probable that a number of tests will be started soon.

Winner Of Stadium Scrap Will Get Big Dixie Date

SCHEMELING IS SLATED FOR BOUT IN MIAMI DURING WINTER

BY EDWARD J. NEIL
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—If nothing else comes of the milling in the Yankee stadium Sept. 26, the leather jousting of Tommy Loughran and Jack Sharkey should at least provide a heavyweight hero for the winter campaigns.

While that honor may not mean added glory, it does offer opportunity and the chance to delve deeply into the heavy money that grows around the outdoor rings of the southern winter playgrounds.

To Be In Demand

The winner will be in particular demand for one of the principal roles in Madison Square Garden's annual spectacle at Miami Fla., and other shows that may develop from the success last winter of the Sharkey-Stribling struggle on the Florida sands.

Not so pleasant for the winner is the prospect of facing Max Schmeling the Teuton schlager, as the party of the second part in one of the winter festivals.

Loughran Favored

If the German ever regains his standing among American boxing commissions, Loughran would be slightly favored to give him a boxing lesson in ten rounds, but Sharkey, easier to hit and more willing to slug, probably would have to climb up off the resined deck to win.

The Boston Cob, mellowing with prosperity and the years, has displayed in training but few flashes of the fierce talkativeness that accompanied his early conquests. Underneath, however, Sharkey despises Loughran for derogatory newspaper references to his fighting abilities, and has a supreme contempt for the Philadelphia Adonis' punching and fighting ability. And when Sharkey is in that mood, he's rather a formidable battler.

Faces Opportunity

Loughran, facing the biggest opportunity of a career studded with hard knocks and struggles for recognition, is the master boxer of the big fellows. He probably will scale 185 pounds, the highest weight of his career, only 10 less than Sharkey. If he can carry that weight well, Tommy may show the boys a bit of viciousness and punching power, himself, when they turn the big arcs on in the home of the Yankees.

The future will take care of itself for the victor in the Sharkey-Loughran battle, Sept. 26. A mid-winter bout in the south is one of the prizes in sight.

Dowell And Carter Tied In Golf Play

A "blind hole" tournament held Sunday at the Meadowbrook Golf club north of the city, proved one of the most interesting contests that has ever been staged at a local golf course.

N. R. Carter and D. A. Dowell were tide for first place when the final tabulation was made. Both golfers turned in a score of 20 on the four holes selected for the championship. Dr. M. F. Swart and Bud Roberds, both with 21's, came in deadlocked for second place in the tourney.

Sixty-six local golfers were entered in the contest, according to W. G. McMillan, owner of the course. Another tournament is planned for next Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Painter have returned from a two-weeks wedding trip. They are at home at 1104 Avenue L.

BAYLOR BEARS, HEAVY FAVORITES IN CONFERENCE RACE AFTER ROLLING UP BIG OPENING SCORE; CHASE IS ON

(By Associated Press)

With two of its member already bearing marks of battle and five others preparing to swing into action this week-end, the Southwest conference was rapidly getting down to serious football business today.

While the past two weeks have been devoted principally to conditioning and the task of separating the gridiron wheat from the chaff, the present week will see each conference coach putting finishing touches on his machine. They should be functioning smoothly by Saturday.

The Baylor University Bears will command the spotlight this week. The impressive manner in which Morley Jennings' stalwarts mowed down Stephen F. Austin in their opener left no doubt of their power. Gilliland and McElrath each scored three touchdowns as the Teachers were snowed under, 88 to 0.

If the Bruins can do anything like that to the North Texas Teachers next Saturday the conference dopesters will know something, ie., that the Southern Methodist university Mustangs, for all their past glory, are to play a very minor role this year. The Ponies had to resort to a desperate last-quarter aerial attack to defeat the Teachers, 13 to 3, in their inaugural at Dallas.

With the exception of the Rice Owls, booked for a night game with Loyola university at New Orleans, all conference elevens will meet secondary state schools this week. The Owls are said to be the first conference team in history to open away from home. The night game is another radical departure.

Two Texas university squads will take the field several hundred miles apart. The Longhorns first squad will stay at home to face St. Edwards' university, while a second team will trek to Abilene to joust with the Simmons university Cowboys. Coach Matty Bell's Texas Aggies face a stiff opening assignment, playing the Southwestern university Pirates at College Station. The Horned Frogs, who are looming as dangerous under Coach Francis Schmidt's tutelage, are to play the Daniel Baker Hill Billies at Fort Worth. As for the last nine years, the Arkansas university Razorbacks will test their speed against the college of the Ozarks at Fayetteville.

TECH'S GRID OPENER NEAR

MATADORS WILL FACE WAYLAND TEAM SATURDAY

Candidates for the Tech football eleven will take their places in the long lines of waiting students during the early part of this week as registration gets under way for approximately 2,000 college men and women.

Beginning of the long session will take away the morning workout from the gridsters regular program. Only the afternoon training period will be left, beginning each day at 3:30.

Coaches Higginbotham and Payne saw enough at Plainview Friday to convince them that the Matadors are in for a serious battle Saturday when the Wayland college Jackrabbits come here for the first college game of the season.

Rabbits Show Form

Holding the Canyon Buffs to a scoreless tie and piling up nine first downs as compared to five for the Teachers, the Rabbits showed a club that will be dangerous for the Tech gridsters from first to last whistles. The Rabbits were in striking distance of the Canyon goal on several occasions, and roundly outplayed Coach Reed's charges thruout the encounter.

Tech coaches will put in considerable time this week in defensive training. Heretofore the Matadors have worked intensively on their formations with little thought to actual defense. Although work will be continued on the plays that will be used against the Rabbits, Coach Payne will give special attention this week to drilling the Matador line on defense.

Lubbock Has Game Without Littlefield

When the Littlefield baseball club failed to arrive on the scene Sunday afternoon for their scheduled game with the Hubbers, a Lamesa aggregation which happened to be in the city, donned uniforms and gave the locals a ball game.

The result was one of the best-played games of the season, the Hubbers winning, 9 to 4.

Del Morgan had his old soupbone working nicely yesterday, holding the Lamesa sluggers to six hits and no earned runs. The Hubbers were bustin' everything pitcher McQuirter had to offer and fielding in sensational style. Five double plays were turned in by the Lubbock infield composed of Waller at third, Gaither at shortstop, Jackson at second and Bettis at first.

No word was received from Littlefield other than a phone call that the club would not be here for the game.

SATURDAY FINDS GRID SEASON IN FULL SWAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP)—Scattered firing along the football line was heard over the week-end but not until next Saturday will the battle be on in earnest.

As opposed to three-score teams from one coast to the other that opened the season last Saturday, the cast alone will send close to 100 squads into the fray at the end of this week.

Most of this coming Saturday's contests are that in name only. Here and there in the schedule are the makings of a close contest but for the most part the program calls for tune-up affairs.

Yale, Harvard, Princeton and Lafeyette, among others, will not open the campaign until October 5, but they're exceptions to a general rule. Every other big college on the Atlantic seaboard will see action.

BRUINS BEGIN PREPARATIONS FOR BIG PLAY

CRIPPLES RETURN TO LINE-UP; MAGNATES LOSING COIN

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—Considerably battered and mistreated since the National League pennant became theirs the Cubs today had five days during which to pull themselves together for the finish of their season schedule and the world title struggle against the Athletics.

Exhibitions of Charlie Root and Guy Bush in the two final contests with the Giants showed them to be in need of something. If it is rest five days are available due to a break in the schedule, although Joe McCarthy will take his band to Aurora, Ill., Wednesday for an exhibition game with a semi-pro team.

Hartnett Returns.

The return yesterday to the line-up of Gabby Hartnett, ranked as the leading catcher of the senior league last season, who has been kept out of action by an ailing throwing arm this year, brought a measure of encouragement. Captain Charlie Grimm, will be back on first base when the Cubs start a series with Cincinnati Saturday.

OTHER TEAMS FACING DEFICIT IN GAMES

By WILLIAM J. CHRISMAN
(Associated Press Sports Writer)

Big hearted baseball magnates are about to begin payment to the sandlot for a two weeks' dance through open dates toward two crowded week-ends which may or may not entice sufficient fans to the parks to pay the ushers. William Wrigley, of course, is sitting pretty with the Cubs, and even the Athletics should prove no great financial drain upon the Messrs. Shibe and McGillicuddy in the coming days, but the rest of the boys face a deficit estimated in the aggregate at anywhere between $250,000 and $500,000.

If anything can bring a magnate to his senses, it is a deficit, and for the reason above, it may be authoritatively stated the schedule for 1930 will make use of the time saving opportunities offered by Sunday baseball in Boston. With a few regularly-scheduled double-headers placed upon the chart for Philadelphia, a full week could easily be cut from the 1929 program, which covered 25 weeks or 174 playing days.

Yanks Muster Crowd

After attracting 500 fans to their park one day last week, the Yankees mustered 20,000 clients on the banks of the Harlem with a bargain bill yesterday, but E. G. Barrow would sell the rest of his home dates from now until October 6 at bargain prices. The double-header was divided, the White Sox winning the opener, 7 to 4, and the Yanks the nightcap 2 to 1.

Elon Hogsett, $40,000 Detroit recruit from Montreal, made his first home start, and southpawed the Tigers to a 5 to 0 victory over Sammy Gray and the Browns.

Wesley Ferrell pitched the Indians to a 7 to 4 victory over the Red Sox in ten innings. Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg all had a hand in a game at Washington which the Senators won from the Athletics 7 to 6 in two rounds.

Dazzy Vance featured the National League afternoon with a fine game against St. Louis which he won 7 to 2 but the Cards rallied in the nightcap with a 4 to 0 victory.

Rogers Hornsby entertained the Chicago fans with his thirty-eighth home run, but the Giants shaded the Cubs 5 to 4 in the final game of the series. Cincinnati outpointed Philadelphia 3 to 2 in ten innings just prior to Jack Hendricks' announcement of his resignation.

Slaton Team Trains For Clovis Contest

(Special To The Journal)

SLATON, Sept. 23.—After trimming the Big Spring Steers, a Class A team, by a score of 12 to 0 at Big Spring last Friday, the Slaton high Tigers, a Class B eleven began a week's hard training today preparatory to meeting Clovis, N. M., high team here next Friday.

In the Big Spring battle, the Slaton eleven showed themselves stronger in every part of the game than were their Class A opponents. Tiger stars in the tilt were O. Cannon, D. Cannon, Cecil Austin, Cecil Scott and John Simmons. The Tigers used aerial methods completely outwitting the Big Spring outfit. It was the Tigers opening game of the season.

The Olton team has been doing some good field work under the coaching of Tillman Carter. Two years ago the Olton team lost but one game the whole season. Last year they did not lose a single game.

WESTERNERS HEAR COACHES LECTURE

With their first football engagement of the 1929 season tucked safely away on the win side of the ledger, the Westerners of Lubbock high resume training today for the second practice game here Friday afternoon with the Crosbyton Chiefs.

Except for a few minor bruises and sore spots, the high school gridders are in excellent spirits today and ready to hear the usual mortems that follow the opening football games of the season.

Weak Spots Seen

The tilt with the Ralls eleven gave Coaches Frnka and Morgan their first opportunity to see their charges under fire, and the results were far from disappointing. Weak spots in the Westerner forward wall and in the team's offensive play will occupy the time of the gridders during the coming week.

Both Lubbock coaches were in Amarillo Saturday to see the Sandies defeat Norman, Oklahoma, 13 to 0.

MACK'S CLUB IS READY TO BATTLE CUBS

TEAM RESEMBLES GRID SQUAD BEFORE BIG COLLEGE GAME

BY BRIAN BELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 23 (AP)—As the Athletics go about their tasks of preparing for the World's series clashes with the Cubs, they leave an impression of a college football team about to play a big game. So enthusiastic are the new American League champions that one would not be surprised to hear a shout, "let's go out and see if we can find these fellows," meaning beyond question the champions of the National League.

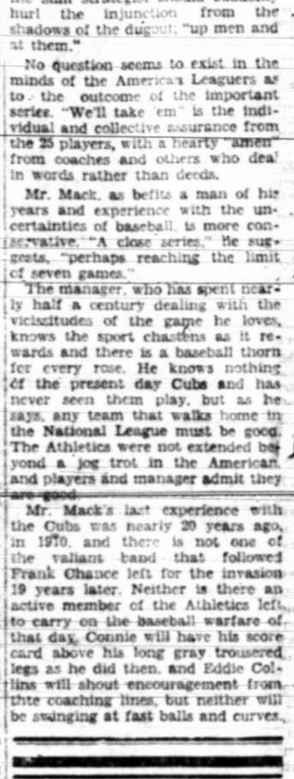

There is no more dignified figure in baseball than Connie Mack. No man in the game has more poise than the tall tactician, and yet so emphatically has the enthusiasm of the players communicated itself to the manager, or vice versa, it would not seem much out of character if the slim strategist should suddenly hurl the injunction from the shadows of the dugout: "up men and at them."

No question seems to exist in the minds of the American Leaguers as to the outcome of the important series. "We'll take 'em" is the individual and collective assurance from the 25 players, with a hearty "amen" from coaches and others who deal in words rather than deeds.

Mr. Mack, as befits a man of his years and experience with the uncertainties of baseball, is more conservative. "A close series," he suggests, "perhaps reaching the limit of seven games."

The manager, who has spent nearly half a century dealing with the vicissitudes of the game he loves, knows the sport chastens as it rewards and there is a baseball thorn for every rose. He knows nothing of the present day Cubs and has never seen them play, but as he says, any team that walks home in the National League must be good. The Athletics were not extended beyond a jog trot in the American, and players and manager admit they are good.

Mr. Mack's last experience with the Cubs was nearly 20 years ago, in 1910, and there is not one of the valiant band that followed Frank Chance left for the invasion 19 years later. Neither is there an active member of the Athletics left, to carry on the baseball warfare of that day. Connie will have his score card above his long gray trousered legs as he did then, and Eddie Collins will shout encouragement from thte coaching lines, but neither will be swinging at fast balls and curves.

THE LIFE STORY OF DR. ECKENER

WRITTEN BY HUGH ALLEN FOR NEA SERVICE

Copyright 1929, By NEA Service, Inc.

CHAPTER:

Born at Flensburg, Schleswig-Holstein, in 1868, Dr. Hugo Eckner, commander of Zeppelins, was educated as a philosopher and scientist. As a boy he was a sailing enthusiast. He studied the winds and became a youthful authority on the weather in his native village. Graduated from Leipzig university with a degree of doctor of philosophy, he established his home at Friedrichshafen, on Lake Constance. There he studied political economy. Bismark had just fallen and William II was on the throne. Young Eckner was contributing articles to the Frankfurter Zeitung, and intended to write a book dealing with the economics of his time. But there was another resident on Lake Constance —Count Ferdinand Zeppelin—and Eckner's book was destined never to be finished.

CHAPTER II

We now approach the year 1906 with Dr. Hugo Eckner living quietly with his family at Friedrichshafen on Lake Constance, contributing articles on economics and other subjects to the Frankfurter Zeitung and other periodicals, sailing small boats upon the lake, and following a life of a student and scholar, while still planning to complete a book dealing with economic affairs of the day.

Meanwhile, also on the shores of Lake Constance, Count Ferdinand Zeppelin was embarked upon a project requiring probably the greatest and most persistent exercise of courage and devotion in the whole field of invention and research.

As a volunteer officer in the Union Army during the American Civil War, Count Zeppelin had flown in free and captive balloons, first at Fort Snelling, Minn., then in Virginia during Grant's campaigns. He was never to forget the experience. For years afterward he had spent all the leisure hours that come to an army officer in working up plans and blue prints. He wanted to build a balloon that would carry motors and a rudder, something that would enable man to achieve his long ambition to ascent into the third dimension.

The creation of airships is different from all other inventions in that it can not be started on small scale.

The builder of the early automobile could work at it in a shed after hours. If it failed, he could find what was wrong, correct it, and try again. He would not be out much except his time. He could keep on trying until he succeeded. Many of the inventions that have changed the economic and political map of the world have been started in sheds and attic lofts.

But Count Zeppelin had to have 100 acres of ground, a building as large as the town hall at Constance, and hundreds of thousands of dollars in money before he could build even a single ship.

He wanted a metal framework to his balloon so as to give adequate strength and speed. Steel was to heavy, aluminum too soft. Duralumin, which has the strength of steel with a third its weight, had not been discovered.

Using metal of any kind he had to build the ship very large before it could carry enough hydrogen gas to lift its own weight; he must build it larger still if it were to carry motors, fuel, crew; larger still if it should carry a load.

His ship had to be as large as an ocean steamship. And it must weigh more than a small lake schooner.

The calculations of strength to weight are highly intricate. Stress analysis in the past had largely been applied to bridges and to buildings. The science of aero-dynamics hadn't even been born. The light weight gasoline motor was still in its infancy, lacked much in dependability.

If the Zeppelin airship today as a reality still looks difficult of belief, how much more so must it have appeared 30 years ago, on paper.

For any man to have convinced enough people that this miracle could happen, to have persuaded them to the point of actually staking their personal funds that it could be done, is in itself no small achievement.

Technically Count Zeppelin was not an engineer, was not even an inventor in the ordinary sense of the term. His supreme contribution in the case of the airship was an indomitable faith and courage.

Count Zeppelin had designed his first airship on paper in 1873, embodying many of the principles used today. In 1887 he submitted a complete memorandum on the subject to the King of Wurtemburg. In 1894 he had employed an engineer to work out full structural designs, had submitted these to a committe of experts. The committee deliberated, argued, finally reported that while his calculations seemed accurate, the thing wouldn't work.

He had retired from the army at 56, a full general, had dedicated the rest of his life to this dirigible project.

Six years later, in 1900, Zeppelin built and lost his first ship. It was 420 feet long, having 388,000 feet of hydrogen gas about a tenth of the size of the Graf Zeppelin. Crude as the first ship was, it embodied many of the principles used today—a complete metal framework, longitudinal girder extending from nose to tail, reinforced by 16 circular girders between which hydrogen was carried in separate gas cells, the whole ship surrounded by an outer cover of fabric.

From the pontoons of the floating hangar the ship arose in the air, its two 16 horsepower motors driving it along at 13 1-2 miles per hour. The ship made three successful flights and convinced the inventor that he was on the right track, and he started confidently to finance a bigger and stronger ship.

It took him five years to raise the money, assistance finally coming from the King of Wurtemburg and the manufacturer of aluminum. Important changes in strength, speed and control had been developed, but as the ship was taken out of the hangar for the first time, the steering gear was broken and the ship was driven out of control across the lake, where an emergency landing was made and the ship with great difficulty returned to the workshops and repaired. On its second flight Zeppelin took the ship to a height of 1600 feet before motor trouble developed. He made a forced landing in the open, but before the motors could be repaired a storm came up, wrecked the ship on the ground.

This second failure convinced the world generally that Zeppelin airships were impractical. The inventor's explanation that if he could have kept his motors running he would have gotten successfully through the storm convinced only a few people. The one man whose faith was unshaken was Count Ferdinand Zeppelin himself.

On the other hand, among those convinced that Count Zeppelin's theories were unsound was a certain "Dr. E." His articles appeared from time to time in the Frankfurter Zeitung. They breathed a spirit of fairness and tolerance, but left little doubt that to the writer's mind the vagaries of the air would never be conquered by a rigid balloon. The writer was a sailor and philosopher, and some of his readers doubtless reasoned that he must be right, for what could a cavalry officer know about the winds and the sky, anyhow?

In the spring of 1906 Count Zeppelin threw the last of his personal resources into his third ship; and this one—the LZ-3—launched in the fall, maneuvered under perfect control, showed a speed of nearly 30 miles an hour —brought him the government help in the shape of a new and larger hangar.

While planning for this fourth ship, Zeppelin continued to demonstrate with the LZ-3, staying aloft on one occasion for eight hours, making a record flight of more than 200 miles. The fourth ship was started early in 1908, a half million cubic feet ship with two 100 horsepower motors; and with it in July, 1908, Zeppelin made a daring flight over the Alps to Lucerne and back again, astounding the entire world.

The entire country became wildly enthusiastic. Zeppelin had triumphed.

There was the keenest interest then in the Duration flight set for August, 1908, which, if successful, would bring full government support and improved finances.

The ship flew down the Rhine toward Mainz but disaster again lay in wait on the return voyage. His old bugaboo of motor trouble developed. A forced landing had to be made at Echterdingen near Stuttgart where a storm set in tearing the ship from its moorings. The next moment the ship broke into flames and presently Zeppelin was gazing at a twisted skeleton and the collapse of his hopes.

Again the critics proclaimed the folly of airships.

Count Zeppelin was 70 by now—long since ready for the carpet slippers and skull cap of old age; but instead leaving the wreckage at Echterdingen he was already revolving plans in his mind with all the confidence and enthusiasm of a boy.

And it was at this time that the common people of Germany—the baker the postman, the shoemaker —with popular instinct, sounder than that of scientists and officials, turned to him. Subscriptions were opened up throughout Germany and within a few weeks 6,000,000 marks had been raised, approximately $1,500,000, and turned over to him as a free gift of the people to use as he saw fit. This gift brought him the assurance of release from financial worry and set up a corporation unique in the world of business.

This money, he felt, was a trust fund and with it he created the Zeppelin Foundation, with a proviso written in the charter that all profits must be put back in the treasury to be used exclusively for the propagation and development of air navigation throughout the world.

And it was this unusual organization that Dr. Eckner, the skeptical scholar of Flensburg, was shortly to join and from which he was to emerge 15 years later as the dominant figure.

Wages

The United States is famous as a country of high wages.

Nowhere in the world do the services of even the ordinary worker command as high a sum of money as they do here. To the underpaid laborer of Europe the country looks like an El Dorado—and we have to pass stiff immigration laws to keep from being swamped by a flood of job-hunters.

Yet there is another side to the picture. If you can get a lot of money for your services here, you can also get a lot of service for your money. This country is, after all, like every other—for an amazingly small sum you can buy the very best that a man as to give, in generous measure.

About a year ago there was published a book called "On the Bottom," written by Commander Edward Ellsberg of the U. S. navy. It illustrates this point perfectly.

Commander Ellsberg was in charge of the navy's effort to raise the sunken submarine S-51, which sank off Block Island a few years ago after being rammed by a steamer. His book is the story of that job, and it tells a tale of heroism and endurance that is almost incredible.

Under him there were approximately a score of divers—navy enlisted men.

These men were drawing the regular navy pay—good pay, as military service goes, but not comparable to the earnings, say, of a first-rate carpenter or mechanic in civil life. They were all volunteers for the jobs they held; the navy can't order any man below the surface against his will.

Day after day, for many weeks, these men went about the most perilous job you can imagine. Their work took them 140 feet below the surface of the water. They crawled into the sunken sub through narrow hatches, trailing their life lines past machinery that could so easily entangle them and trap them forever; they lay on their backs, an hour at a time, to burrow through the muck of the bottom beneath the sub's hull; they dare death in its most horrible form imaginable time after time, cheerfully and without complaint—and all for a scant three or four dollars a day!

If you want to strengthen your faith in the race, read that book. And, as you read it, reflect on this: that while the story told by Commander Ellsberg is an extreme one, it only typifies the sort of thing that happens every day in the year, in every city and town in the country.

What does an employer get when he hires a man? The mere performance of a job? Not at all. He gets his life. Uncounted millions of men are giving everything they have to jobs that yield them a bare living—giving it simply because there is something in the human heart that makes for long endurance, great bravery and unprotesting sacrifice.

The sailors who went down to the S-51 save more than most. Yet they are merely symbols of the great average. Like their fellow citizens ashore, they were doing the jobs they knew best for a few dollars a day—and putting into the doing all of the strength and courage that God gave them.

More Light

It is to be hoped that the Senate will begin an immediate and thorough investigation of the various charges relating to paid propaganda in connection with the government's naval building program.

Such an investigation is called for all the more urgently because of the fact that four American rear admirals stand accused of fostering "big-navy" propaganda at a time when their government was trying to reach agreement with a foreign power for naval reduction.

The Plainsman often wonders if the telephone company is staging a contest to see which girl can cut off conversationalists the most times every month. He has a sneaking idea that the whole system has been divided up into zones and a sort of an elimination contest arranged. The company will probably decide the championship of each state it operates in and then let the state champions battle it out for national awards. And, incidentally, we're also of the opinion that the Texas champion is on the Lubbock board and is going after the big prize with a bang—or, if you please, a crackle and sputter!

The Plainsman and Byron Dickinson were merrily engaged in insulting each other over the phone just a day or two ago and the conversation was ended in a contest to see which one knew the most bad words. In ten minute endurance test we were cut off no less than five (count 'em, five) times which gave birth to the idea that a national elimination contest was being held. If that is the case, and the girls are trying to gain some recognition, it's all right, because Lubbock ought to be first in everything. However, if this cut-off isn't going to get anybody anywhere that's a different story. Folks naturally expect to get cut off four or five times a day but five times in one conversation is about four times too many.

Speaking of fish stories, did you hear the one about the erstwhile blushing bride and all that sort of thing washing a fish in soap and water and cooking it, scales and all? For a long time The Plainsman was in favor of changing the calendar to make each year 13 months long and each month 28 days in duration until he happened to remember the folks whose birthdays fall on the 29th, 30th and 31st days of nine months. That wouldn't be fair to them and this column, as usual, will present a brave defense of the oppressed. Of course some of the ladies who are satisfied with the number of birthdays they've already had may object to our stand but you can't please all of the people all of the time, even in the matter of birthdays.

The way some men talk in big figures is a scream. Birds that haven't got enough dough to meet the monthly bills can talk impressively in terms of tens and hundreds of thousands and can actually turn up their noses at a fortune.

This writer happened to hear a conversation the other day between a couple of travelling men. They were talking about some bozo in Dallas or Houston who had cleaned up $200,000 on a real estate project but one didn't seem to be impressed.

"Sure," he said, "that guy made a couple of hundred thousand dollars, all right but that ain't near what he should have made. If it had been me I'd have made a darn sight more than that!"

Well, maybe he would—and then again, maybe he wouldn't. It's an easy matter to sit back and talk about making money but it's quite another thing to step out and do it. About the only fellow not subject to criticism of the lowly in the money-making line is old John D. himself and it wouldn't be surprising if there were a few fellows in odd jobs who believe they could have done better.

"I never said I could," the woman retorted, "and now, if you've finished with me I'll clean the office. That's what I came in for anyway!"

"But the trouble is," said the mother, "the twig is bent on being a girl."

Brookhart's Committee Continues To Dig For Patronage And Gets Some Interesting Facts, Rodney Dutcher Says

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23. — For more than a year now, Senator Brookhart's committee investigating federal patronage has been digging up the dirt in the purchase and sale of federal offices which everyone knew lay below the surface but which no one had ever exposed before in a large way.

The investigation has been more or less coincident with an announced change of patronage policy on the part of the administration and the general result has been that Republican bosses in the south are finding poor pickings instead of customary profitable assessments on federal officeholders who owe them their jobs.

The Brookhart committee has actually been into Georgia and Texas and, sitting in Washington has heard witnesses from South Carolina, Florida, Mississippi and Kentucky.

Investigating a Suicide

First off, the committee went into Georgia. The investigation originally was aimed at conditions there. Senators George and Harris, following the suicide of a postmaster who was reported to have been sorely harrassed for political contributions, demanded it and Senator George introduced the resolution on which the inquiry was based.

There the committee found four or five men who had set up shop as the Republican party of Georgia, headed by Ben Davis, Republican national committeeman. Davis was drawing $250 a month. The state treasurer drew the same. The committee seized an assortment of cards which gave the names of postmasters and postmistresses and their periodical payments to the "party." This was the money that went to pay salaries and expenses. Expenses were incurred when a collector went around and rounded up the delinquents. Also when Ben Davis used to have to go to Washington to see about the federal appointments.

It was charged that as much as $600 had been paid for a single rural letter carrier's job. It was testified, for instance, that John W. Martin, treasurer of the Republican state central committee, had offered a reappointment of one postmistress for a contribution, mentioning the sum of $500. The money wasn't paid and there was no reappointment. In Georgia, as in other states, there was testimony that federal jobs were bartered on a basis of returned contributions if the contributor didn't get the job. Sometimes the jobseekers got their money back in such cases and sometimes not.

What Happened In Mississippi

Partly through the committee and partly through the Department of Justice, the Perry Howard organization in Mississippi appears to have been thoroughly exposed. Howard had a $6000 job here as special assistant attorney general and maintained offices on Pennsylvania avenue, where he dealt with patronage. One Mr. A. P. Russell testified that when Howard wired him to come to Washington and "bring recommendations" it meant to bring $1500 for a marshalship. Russell did and got the job. Then he resigned because "those negroes down there wanted to sell things around the office and Patton (a close friend of Howard) wanted to lie around the office drunk."

Russell said his successor paid $2000 for his appointment. Howard was indicted last year and prosecuted by Mabel Willebrandt, but was acquitted. The committee heard evidence tending to show that one federal officeholder lost his job because he testified against Howard. The record also shows that Howard deposited $31,000 in banks while in Washington, above his salary.

In the Texas situation the committee met Republican National Committeeman R. B. Creager, who vigorously denied testimony that contributors were promised their money back if the state G. O. P. didn't get jobs for them and combatted charges that he had tried to defeat Harry M. Wurzbach, the only Texas Republican congressman, so that Creager wouldn't have to split up the patronage. It was admitted that 983 federal officeholders had given promisory notes and that 457 had made cash donations, but insisted that they were outnumbered in each instance by non-officeholders. Creager denied that officeholders were assessed 10 per cent of their salaries.

Levied On Salaries

A witness from South Carolina told the committee that National Committeeman Joseph W. Tolbert had given him to understand after the Harding election that 20 per cent of all salaries would have to be paid in subject to Tolbert's drawing for campaign expenses. Harding had referred the witness to Tolbert. Evidence was given of specific payments. Tolbert came back with numerous affidavits from federal jobholders in which nothing was admitted other than "purely voluntary" contributions. Recently a postmistress who made one of these affidavits wrote to the committee as follows:

"I cannot sleep at night. I want to make my peace with God. I will tell how much I paid for the postoffice as well as others."

The Brookhart committee, which is likely to continue its inquiry indefinitely, will be glad to hear from other postmasters, marshals and other federal officials who have paid politicians for their jobs.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—The colleges have been providing Broadway with many of the big street's nightiest entertainers.

Last season it was Rudy Vallee, the soothing-toned lad, who graduated from a university jabb band into a millionaire warbler.

And this year the loudest applause of many a season is being heaped upon Charlie Butterworth as quiet and distinguished a clown as the critics ever tossed adjectives at. Such words as "genius" are carelessly dripping from important pens. And yet just a few years ago, young Butterworth was leaving the campus to make his way in the world as a lawyer. But it appears that while attending Notre Dame, he appeared in a college play and there presented a very funny sketch. In this act Butterworth gave a hilarious Babbitt address to a table of fellow Babbitts—all of them wax dummies. Someone saw the act at an alumni dinner and urged the theatrical gents to get excited. Wherefore, the young man made his bow in a revue called "Americana," and was spotted as a comer. Before this season has ended, however, the higher-browed periodicals will be carrying essays on his relationship to the Comic Muse, and all that sort of thing.

And, speaking of personalities, the annual invasion is already under way—

During the week P. G. Wodehouse, the British creator of Jeeves the Psmith, and all the rest came back to town and settled down just above a swanky midtown night club. When friends come to see him, they are fronted by these typical uniformed and gold-braided doormen. Which he thinks is nighly amusing. One American magazine advertises him as the highest paid writer contributing to the publications. Whereas, Wodehouse himself is large, genial and fond of swapping newspaper reminiscences.

The point is, that when Wodehouse first arrived in America many years ago, he was an unknown, struggling young man from London. He descended upon Washington Square, when that small open space quartered starving artists and groping young journalists. And he found many friendly fellows—all of whom he recalls most fondly. When, still struggling, he went back home it was with the assurance of a change to write some lyrics for a musical show.

So today, when he might be getting several dollars a word for short stories, he comes back to write lyrics for a new musical show. This, he tells me, is his idea of a swell vacation; that lyrics are far more fun than a month's outing at Ostend.

Which reminds me that he brings with him this time his daughter, a charming girl of 18, to whom he once penned in a book this amusing dedication: "To my daughter, but for whose assistance in preparing this work it would have been written months ago."

My favorite dedication to date, however, was that penned by Ben Clarke in his "Reign of Rothstein." It went something like this: "To my parents, who have stood so much from their son that they probably will stand for this."

At the midnight sailing of a Europe-bound liner the other night, however, I encountered a personality who is perhaps unknown to the youngsters of this generation. And too bad it is—for grand stuff he wrote when he was a national best seller some years ago; when this correspondent was just getting interested in reading novels.

The man was Opie Read—and his "Jucklings" and his "Kentucky Colonel" and the rest were as much a part of thousands of youths as Alger or Henty.

Stories from Canada tell of the Doukhobors running around without any clothes on. That must be some kind of bathing beach society.

If they can only make the penitentiaries nice enough, maybe the yeggs will want to keep out of 'em.

Diet and Health

GERMS EXPOSED TO SUN ALWAYS DIE QUICKLY, STATES DOCTOR PETERS

Headache While Exercising

"Dear Doctor: I can't understand why I should have had a dull headache every day after taking the radio exercises. I tried to start them again since the baby came, but the same headaches returned. As my blood pressure is normal, and I am physically perfect, I would like very much to know if it is wise to continue with the exercises.

"I feel quite sure that because of your help in dieting and exercising I was able to become pregnant, even though I am 40. The baby is three months old, and the joy of our lives.

"MRS. B."

I congratulate you on the happy results of your reducing, Mrs. B.

Obesity has been recognized for some time as one of the reasons for sterility. We do not know whether it is the chemical disturbance of the glands, caused by the unbalanced diet, or whether it is the physical disturbance caused by inl filtration of fat. Probably it is a combination of the two factors. We have heard after many years of despair, have been made happy by motherhood, after reducing. Overweight in the man will also cause sterility.

Now about your exercises: I wouldn't take them if they make your head ache. Why they should do that I don't know. Perhaps you could take part of them, or take them less strenuously. Try them out, because you really should have some exercise, of course.

Those who need instructions on how to lose or gain weight may have our pamphlet on the subject by observing column rules. We also have an article which outlines some splendid Tummy Ten exercises.

"When wearing apparel has been exposed to disease, will dry cleaning render them sterile and safe to wear, or will sunlight airing bring about that result? P."

Either would bring about the desired result, P. Germs exposed to the sun and air die very quickly. Tuberculosis germs, for instance, are killed by direct sunlight in one half hour, if in a dried state, and in a few hours in a diffuse light; but in a dark, damp room they will live for months.

"What causes albumin in the urine?

Its most usual significance is inflammation of some degree in the kidneys, L. A normal kidney only permits the waste water and the waste materials from the blood to be filtered out. If the kidneys are inflamed, their cells do not work properly, and one of the normal constitutents of the blood, albumin escapes, and appears in the urine. Albumin may also appear if there is an inflammatory condition in the urinary tract or if there happens to be blood in the urine, from any of going to a physician for an examination.

You see from this the importance of having a urinalysis made by any commercial concern.

We have a new pamphlet on the kidneys which will tell you how to test your urine for albumin and sugar.

Miss T.—Your questions are answered in our article on Acne.

Editor's Note: Dr. Peters cannot diagnose, nor give personal advice. If she considers your questions of general interest, they will be answered in the column, in turn. Requests for articles on hand must be accompanied by a fully self-addressed, stamped envelope and 2 cents in coin for each; for the pamphlets on "Reducing and Gaining," "The Kidney and Its Excretions" and the "Hygiene of Women," 10 cents in coin (for each) and fully self-addressed stamped envelope, must be enclosed. (These charges are to cover the cost of printing and handling.) Address Dr. Peters, in care of this paper.

Tomorrow: Dreams.

PRECISE DEFINITION OF COMMUNISTS ADVOCATED

BY ALBERT JOHNSON, Congressman from Washington

(Albert Johnson was born at Springfield, Ill., March 5, 1869. After attending high school he learned the printer's trade. In 1896 he was managing editor of the New Haven (Conn.) Register. Two years later he was news editor of the Washington (D. C.) Post. From 1898 to 1906 he was editor of the Tacoma (Wash.) News. In 1906 he became editor and publisher of Grays Harbor Washingtonian, at Hoquiam, Wash. He was elected to congress in 1913 from the third Washington district, and has been returned each term since. He is a Republican, and cahirman of the committee on immigration and naturalization.

Congress should make the definition of international revolutionary communists and similar groups so clear and precise as to leave no loopholes in the law.

Albert Johnson

There are volcanoes of communism scattered throughout the United States—in the small cities as in the big ones.

As soon as the house committee on immigration is organized we will seek not only to formulate corrective defects in the new deportation law just enacted, but to formulate a clear definition of international revolutionary communists.

During the preparation of the 1924 immigration bill, now on the statute books, the committee spent many hours in an effort to make such a clear and precise definition of a communist as would stand up in law and with the support of the courts of the land.

It is possible to write such a definition of international revolutionary communists and to add it to the present law of 1924 known as the immigration restrictions law. The public understands what congress meant when it used the word "anarchist" in the basic immigration restriction act of 1917, that such persons should be excluded from admission into this country and should be deported if found here.

The deportation officials have not made one mistake in the deportation of anarchists. Once we give a legal term describing the communists there is no likelihood of there being one mistake in a thousand with respect to them.

There are many communists in the United States. There are communistic schools in my own congressional district in Washington that teach the young to gnaw at the very foundations of government.

FRED SPIKES

"Himself"

TRULY A "PIONEER"

I have been on The Plains continuously, since August 1890, and although I have made many trips and visits to other sections of the country, I have never seen any section of country in the United States or Old Mexico that will favorably compare with the PLAINS OF TEXAS, all main points considered, including amount of capital invested, therefore I unhesitatingly and unreservedly recommend THE PLAINS COUNTRY to one and all.

Where else can you find good water in unlimited quantity, with good soil averaging 95 per cent tilable, located in a pleasant, healthful climate and inhabited with God fearing, good neighbors, traversed and checkerboarded with natural roadways, almost equal to concrete pavement, and where religious and educational advantages are upon every side, and where there in reality only ONE real hinderance to prosperity, viz: Scant Rainfall. With an average of 20 inches annual rainfall it is necessary to thoroughly FARM the land, and by so doing the scant rainfall is largely overcome or supplanted by conservation of moisture, hence the average of 20 inches annual rainfall is sufficient, if properly taken care of, and when a farmer fails to make a good showing at harvest time on the Plains it is more largely due to lack of proper tilling of the soil.

I have had varied experiences in life vocationally speaking, dating back to 9 years old as a plow boy; an ox driver at 11 to 15; a bronc buster and U. S. Mail Carrier at 16; a cowboy from 17 to 25; a stock farmer and bank director from 25 to 33; a merchant from 33 to 40; and 40 to 50 in real estate business, and since I am THOROUGHLY SOLD on the City of Lubbock, and the Plains country of Texas, I am entirely sincere when I recommend both, and while in Lubbock during the FAIR, or anytime, I will be glad to meet you with a GOOD WILL HAND SHAKE, and if you are looking for a good investment in any sort of REAL ESTATE, perhaps my knowledge of the country might be of some benefit to you and if so there would be no extra cost for it, so why not have it. A few of my real estate offerings follow:

1,300 acres, fine farm land partially improved, only 2 miles from town, $80 per acre. A real sacrifice but "Money Talks."

1,280 acre improved ranch, well watered in Central New Mexico and suitable for stock farming. Value $10 per acre on reasonable terms and will consider trading for good farm near Lubbock.

640 acres mesquite grass, Plains land, in SW portion of Bailey county, Texas. Price $30 acre. Will accept 1-2 to 2-3 in good clear property at fair value and give easy terms on balance.

55 acres, highly improved fruit and truck farm clear of debt. A good home. To trade for city property or raw land or small farm on the Plains. Many other good properties too numerous to mention here, for exchange. Come in and investigate.

Residence and business lots for sale in all portions of the city, also residences and business properties for sale at bargain prices. WELCOME, FAIR VISITORS. LUBBOCK COUNTY MAPS FREE FOR THE ASKING.

Correspondence solicited. SAVE TIME and MONEY by seeing me.

STOCKS MOVE IRREGULARLY

NUMBER OF SHARES GO HIGHER ON OPENING OF MART TODAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 23 (AP)—Stock prices moved irregularly higher at the opening of today's market as a result of strong buying support over the week-end. Atchison jumped 6 3-4 points on the first sale, U. S. Steel common 2 and Montgomery Ward 1. United Corporation opened with a block of 15,000 shares at the spread price of 74 1-2 to 75, an extreme gain of 2 -8 points, and United Gas improvement opened with a block of 10,000 shares at 59, up 1 1-4. American Bank Note and United Aircraft each dropped about 1 1-2 points.

Public Utility and Allied issues contained in the forefront. A better demand also developed for the rails.

Pools Resumed

Pools resumed operations in a select list of specialties, early buying centering in such issues as Kroger Stores, Republic Steel, U. S. Industrial Alcohol, Otis Elevator, National Cash Register, Loose Wiles Biscuit and Montgomery-Ward, all up 1 to 3 points before the end of the first half hour.

Selling pressure was renewed against Radio, which quickly dropped 2 points to 93. Western Union and Sears Roebuck also were heavy in the early trading.

Foreig nexchanges opened firm, with cables quoted 1-8 a cent higher at 4.84 3-4.

COTTON HITS SLUMP TODAY

PRICES ARE OFF ON OPENING OF BOTH MARKETS

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. (AP)—Cotton opened steady at a decline of 3 to 7 points under southern and local selling or liquidation on the easier showing of Liverpool. October sold off at 18.30 and March to 18.91, but trade buying and covering checked the decline and held the market fairly steady during the first half hour.

The report of the census bureau showing 3,653,038 bales ginned prior to September 16, was without much effect on the market. The figures were a little under one of the private forecasts, but slightly over another and appeared to have been pretty well discounted. Further southern selling was reported which was absorbed by trade buying or covering and the market held generally steady late in the morning with December selling up to 18.75 and March to 19.01 or 1 to 5 points net higher.

NEW ORLEANS MART IS SLIGHTLY EASY

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 23. (AP)—Although cables were relatively steady the cotton market opened irregular. Initial trades were 3 points up to one down, and the market turned slightly easier in sympathy with New York. October trading down to 18.22, December 18.52 and January 18.80, or six points under Saturday's close.

Towards the end of the first hour the market rallied a point or two, but showed hesitation while waiting for the ginnings report.

The market ruled steady most of the morning. Little response was shown to the census report on ginnings given as 3,563,038 prior to September 16. There was a later rally on advices from New York announcing the heaviest trade demand of the season. October traded up to 18.37, December to 18.68 and January to 18.73, or 15 to 16 points up from the early lows and 8 to 10 points above Saturday's close.

At mid-session the market was steady and only a few points under the highs.

MOVE IS ON FOR RALLY OF HOOVERCRATS

WICHITA FALLS MAN PLANS STATE MASS MEETING SOON

(By Associated Press)

WICHITA FALLS, Sept. 23.—A move was started here Saturday by B. D. Sartin, Hoover campaign manager in Texas during the last campaign for a state mass meeting of Hoover Democrats in Texas to demand fro mthe state democratic committee ratification or denunciation of a statement by D. W. Wilcox, chairman of the state executive committee, that in his opinion a person who took the democratic party pledge in the last election, and then voted republican should not be allowed to run for office on the democratic ticket in the next election.

Wilcox made the statement in a letter to Edgar Scurry, chairman of the Wichita county democratic committee.

Entire Group's New

Sartin said he had "reasons to believe" that Wilcox's opinion was the opinion of the entire executive committee, even though expressed solely as Wilcox's own. He added that is the state executive committee sustained Wilcox's view, the Sartin group would enter a full list of capdidates in the field in the next election to oppose the democratic party.

Sartin is an announced candidate for congress from this dispost of special assistant United States Attorney General to seek congressional honors.

Sartin left the democratic party in the last election and became a Hoover leader.

Comes After Conference

Wilcox's letter to Judge Scurry came after a "peace conference" was held here in which Hoover democrat leaders asked Scurry what attitude the democratic party would take toward them. Scurry answered that should bolters sign the peace pledge, all would be forgotten. At the request of the Sartin faction, Scurry asked Wilcox for his views. Wilcox sustained Scurry's position, but in adding his opinion relative to the future candidates, apparently shattered all hopes of peace between the two factions.

"We have asked for peace and harmony and we can't get it. If they won't have peace, then let's have war," Sartin declared.

Sartin added he had written to Alvin Moody of Houston, chairman of the anti-Tammany democrats of Texas, relative to calling the state mass meeting, which very likely will be held at Dallas in the near future. Sartin is vice chairman of the anti-Tammany democrats at present.

BRILLIANT PAST OF TRULY SHATTUCK SAVES HER FROM JAIL TERM'S SHAME

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—The brilliant past of Truly Shattuck—A past of glory, vivid color, success and public favor—flashed into a courtroom today to soften the stern mandates of justice and lift from Truly's tired shoulders the odious brand of "shoplifter."

Truly was desperately in need yesterday. From fame she had slipped to Honkey-Tonk, to seamstress, to waitress, and finally, to nothing—broke, discouraged and too proud to appeal to friends.

Saw Pretty Dress

She saw a pretty green dress in a department store. She visioned herself within its folds.

"Hold on there, lady!"

Even before she knew that she had tried to steal it, she was in the hands of an alert policeman.

Truly pleaded guilty before Judge William R. Fetzer Wednesday. His disposition to temper justice with mercy was made unanimous when the department store withdrew the charges against her. Then came offers from many friends and even the judge offered to help her find a job in Chicago.

"No," Truly's hand—the hand that once shook the hand of a king—trembled, and tears splashed her cheeks, as she declined the assistance. "I'd rather disappear, judge, just disappear from Chicago and start out again somewhere else.

"Your kindness has been the greatest thing I have known in many, many years. I shall never forget it, nor shall I ever do anything which will make you and my old Chicago friends sorry that this kindness has been done me now and here."

And then the judge delivered an admonition, in voice and manner unusual.

"Since you decline to let those who wish to help you be of any assistance and prefer to work out your own salvation in your own way, then I can but dismiss you, with the earnest hope that such will be the case," the judge said.

The once great star of the musical stage drew up her shoulders and turned to walk from the courtroom. Five well dressed men stepped forward to escort her. Then the drama overwhelmed her. She leaned on her escorts for support and crossed the threshold sobbing.

ODD FELLOWS IN MEETING

SOUTH PLAINS I. O. O. F. ASSOCIATION MEETS IN LITTLEFIELD

Twenty Lubbock Odd Fellows are included in the body of about 250 members and guests of the South Plains association of the I. O. O. F. lodge assembled today in Littlefield, where they are guests of the Littlefield unit of the fraternal organization.

Delegates to the meeting began arriving at 9 o'clock.

Degree Work Scheduled

The Littlefield lodge, one year old, now boasts 100 members and also an auxiliary organization of 40 Rebekahs. During the association meeting here today degree work will be conferred probably on 8 or 10 candidates for the Odd Fellow work and 20 for the Rebekah work.

Music is furnished by the Littlefield band.

Mayor Otto Jones welcomed the delegates in behalf of the city, and Jess Mitchell spoke in behalf of the chamber of commerce. T. W. Potter welcomed the visitors for the Littlefield lodge.

Responses were given by A. C. Davis, of Lubbock, and I. C. Byerly, of Ralls.

Scheduled on the program are: Reading, Miss Sue Brannen; vocal solo, Mrs. T. W. Potter; reading, Miss Louise Baird; address on Odd Fellowship, Rev. Joe Grizzle.

The Latin American Medical congress will hold a general exposition of medical and surgical supplies in Panama next January.

TO COME HERE

DR. A. S. LONDON

Heading an evangelistic party composed of himself, his wife, his son, and the latter's wife, Mrs. Holland London, Dr. A. S. London, of Kansas City, will open a week's revival service here tonight. Services will held in a tent to be erected at the corner of Fourteenth street and Avenue Q and are under the sponsorship of the First Church of the Nazarene.

Is Well Recommended

According to Rev. S. H. Erwin, local Nazarene pastor, Dr. London is a talented lecturer and has, in the past, been president of three different bible schools and is well known on the religious platform. His son, Rev. Holland, will do the preaching here and Dr. London will lecture daily. The party also renders musical selections. They will appear before local clubs and schools during the week.

COTTON PICKING CLOSES SCHOOLS

Three rural schools of Lubbock county have been closed temporarily so that students might aid their fathers during the cotton picking season, according to Miss Mae Murfee, county superintendent of education.

Wolffarth, New Hope and Foster schools have closed doors.

A parent-teachers association has been organized recently at Foster, with O. E. Welch as president. Other officers are W. Hitt, first vice president; T. B. Prestidge, second vice president, and Miss Minnie Martin, secretary.

A community fair will be held at Foster this week in order to select products for the community exhibit at the Panhandle-South Plains fair, to be held in this city September 30 to October 5, inclusive.

"The Lubbock store will be one of the largest and most beautiful of our units. Fixtures will be entirely new and altra modern. Spanish designs will accentuate attractiveness of our windows."

A Mexican orchestra, senoritas in Spanish song numbers and an elaborate style show in which each store of the corporation will furnish a model will be features of the opening program.

HOLMES' CASE

unsuccessful candidate for sheriff against Joe Ownbey, and as second investigator the only man ever discharged by sheriff Ownbey. The commissioners denied the prosecutor's request for funds with which to pay the investigation.

Rangers Await Orders

Four Texas Rangers, awaiting the return of Captain Frank Hamer from Austin, while working on their own leads admitted they were depending largely for developments on a reward fund which totalled nearly $5,000. They declined to comment on Captain Hamer's statement to Governor Moody that the situation here represented the "worst bit of organized crime" he had seen in 23 years.

Sheriff Ownbey continued to work without talking for publication. Chief Deputy Jim Crane, however, made the declaration that "if more than one person was implicated in the Holmes killing, we will catch them." He said he anticipated little success if the slaying was a "one man job."

Data Not Found

Search for data Holmes had obtained for presentation to the federal grand jury in connection with 14 liquor arrests here in July so far has been unsuccessful. Officers said they had found no satisfactory clues pointing to the disposal or probable present location of the data.

Clothes have Changed... so have Washdays

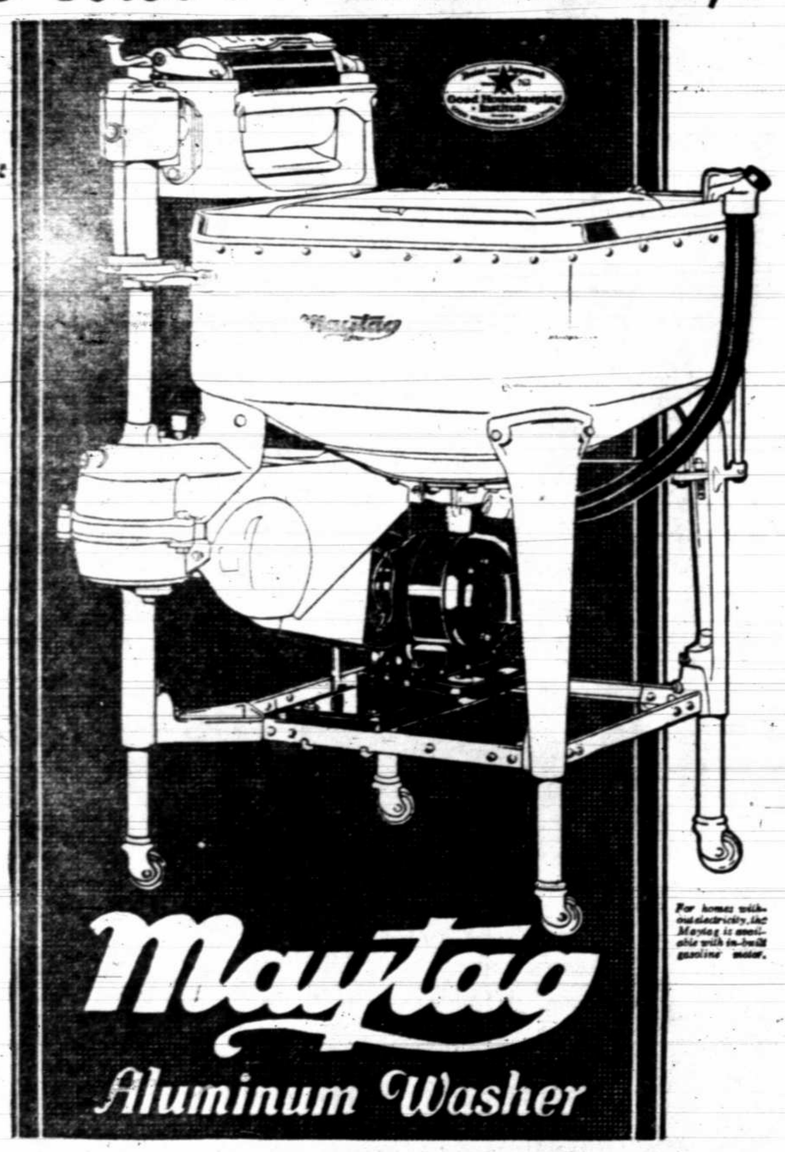

CLOTHES are prettier, but much daintier than they used to be. The family washing contains so many delicate garments that you hesitate to send it out to be subjected to ordinary laundering methods.

Let the Maytag wash them for you at home. It makes the weekly washing a pleasant task of an hour or so. The seamless, cast-aluminum tub and gyrafoam washing action wash so gently that dainty garments are safe . . . so thoroughly that no hand-rubbing is necessary even on soiled edges of collars and cuffs.

Thousands of Women

everywhere know that a Maytag saves time, clothes and money. Phone for a trial Maytag washing. If it doesn't sell itself, don't keep it. Deferred payments you'll never miss.

For homes without electricity, the Maytag is available with in-built gasoline motor.

dent Hoover to lay before the department of justice the "definite fact" on which he based his assertions in the senate that prohibition is not being enforced in the capital, but could be enforced if the chief executive insisted on it.

Expressing a desire on the part of the president to make the District of Columbia "a model in the country" with respect to prohibition enforcement in the district possible under the organization of enforcement agencies as provided by law," a statement issued by the White House said:

"The president is glad the senator has raised the question. He is confident that the senator would not make these charges unless they were based upon definite facts with time and place, and if he will lay any such information before the department of justice, the president will have the matters vigorously investigated."

Ought to Have Chance

Remarking that "Senator Howell's statement that the prohibition law is not being enforced in the District of Columbia seriously impugns the good faith and capacity of Commissioner Dougherty in charge of police, Superintendent of Police Pratt, District Attorney Rover, and Prohibition Agent William Blandford," the White House statement also observed "it is only fair to give the district officials an opportunity to meet such charges."

Saying he was surprised that his assertions in the senate has aroused unusual attention, since he regarded the situation he was discussing as one with which every one in Washington ought to be familiar, Howell asserted, after being informed of the White House statement, he had meant everything he told the senate, although he had not intended to cast a personal reflection on any government official.
