Cyprus Torn By Violence After Outlawing Of Communist Party

Defense Proposal Studied

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower's proposal for a billion-dollar boost in defense spending and a possible battle over tax cuts pointed today toward a stormy election-year session of Congress.

The President's plan to step up the production of B52 bombers, jet interceptors and development of the guided missile program won general support from Republicans and Democrats.

But the 35½-billion-dollar defense budget he outlined to top congressional leaders at a White House briefing yesterday held a threat to tax reductions and budget balancing. Several leaders in both the House and Senate said they saw little chance of substantial tax reductions.

Several other issues arose out of two days of White House briefings which signaled forthcoming battles.

In individual statements, Democrats and Republicans displayed sharp differences of opinion with each other—and even with their party colleagues—on debt payments, continuance of foreign economic aid, proposed new farm programs, highway financing and school construction.

Both Chairman Bridges (R-NH) of the Senate GOP Policy Committee and Chairman Byrd (D-Va) of the Senate Finance Committee joined the chorus of those calling for a balanced budget before taxes are cut.

Byrd said he will fight to wipe out all foreign economic aid, a position already taken by Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the Senate Armed Services Committee.

The President was reported to have proposed a $2,800,000,000 new appropriation by Congress for all foreign aid, including military Assistance.

Chairman Richards (D1SC) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee said that while there might be some differences of opinion on economic aid he doesn't see how the over-all program can be reduced below its present level.

MAN SLAYS FAMILY THEN KILLS SELF—Buford V. Calhoun, 32, lies mortally wounded outside a telephone booth in a Dallas, Tex., drug store after he fired a bullet into his head as police closed in on him. Calhoun was the object of an intense search after his wife and three children were found slain earlier. Police said Calhoun killed his family and wounded Mrs. Calhoun's son-in-law in the shooting spree.

Court Upholds Garcia Order

By DAVE CHEAVENS

AUSTIN (AP)—Removal of Mrs. Estella G. Garcia, partisan of George Parr, as a Duval County commissioner was upheld unanimously today by the State Supreme Court.

The court in an opinion by Associate Justice Meade F. Griffin held that Dist. Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin's order suspending Mrs. Garcia was valid.

The court held that while Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd did not have the power to institute removal proceedings, Dist. Atty. Sam Burris of the 79th District did have such authority despite the fact that County Atty. R. F. Luna did not sign the removal proceedings.

Involved in the case was the question of where the state will try suits for recovery of about $750,000 in Duval County funds allegedly misapplied to the benefit of South Texas political boss Parr.

Shepperd and Burris are seeking dismissal of a suit against Parr in the Laredo district court. They want prosecution in La Salle and Jim Wells counties.

Mrs. Garcia's attorneys argued that the order removing her was "an obvious and fraudulent scheme to deprive her of her vote on the commissioner's court and replace her with a puppet who will vote with Dan Tobin and Mrs. Juan Leal" to dismiss the Laredo suit against Parr and authorize prosecution in La Salle and Jim Well counties.

ARRIVE FOR CONFERENCE—House Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex.), right, walks beside Sen. Lyndon Johnson (D-Tex.), the Senate majority leader, as they arrived at the White House in Washington for bipartisan conference with President Eisenhower. Scheduled for discussion at the meeting were the nation's foreign and defense policies.

Bombing Injures Soldiers

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Britain banned the Communist party in this rebellious colony today and rounded up 135 Red leaders in lightning raids.

The island flared in a new wave of strikes, bombings and demonstrations protesting the anti-Red move.

Strikes for political purposes are illegal, but building workers in Nicosia downed their tools, military cantonment employes stopped work and even waiters in hotels refused to serve guests today. Newspaper printers held urgent meetings to decide whether to block publication.

In some towns the strikers tried to march to their union headquarters, but were dispersed by troops using tear gas.

Three British soldiers were injured by a bomb thrown in Limassol. Another bomb was exploded at Famagusta.

Those picked up included the mayors of Limassol and Larnaca, two of the island's largest towns; all members of the Central committee of the Cyprus Communist party, known as AKEL; and Red officers of the labor federation.

Also outlawed were the Communist youth organization, AON; the Red farmers' association, EAK; and the Red women's group, Pody. The party newspaper Neos Democratis was ordered to close.

However, the ban was not extended to the labor federation. The British colonial governor, Gen. Sir John Harding, said his regime "is most anxious not to disrupt the work of legitimate trade unionism."

Harding said the new crackdown on the strategic east Mediterrean island — headquarters for British forces in the Middle East — was ordered because the Communists appeared determined to "prolong dissension and turbulence" in the colony.

The anti-Red order is part of Harding's campaign to put down continuing disorders caused by demands for Enosis, union of the island with Greece.

County, State Okay Marketing Controls

Scurry County cotton producers favored continuation of marketing controls on cotton 274 to 52 in their part of the national cotton referendum held yesterday. A total of 326 voted.

That represented an 84 per cent majority of Scurry voters. Only one of the nine boxes in which the cotton raisers voted reported a dissenting majority. That was China Grove, where farmers voted 13 for controls, 16 against.

In other boxes, the vote was 95 for and 13 against in the Snyder box, 9 for and 3 against at Union, 39 for and 7 against at Hermleigh, 25 for and 2 against at Camp Springs, 20 for and 5 against at Ira, 24 for and 6 against at Dunn, 42 for and none against at Fluvanna, and 7 for and none against at Knapp.

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Texas farmers voted almost 9-1 yesterday to continue cotton marketing controls on next year's crop.

While overwhelming for the quotas, the Texas vote favoring the controls was under the 13-1 margin given the proposal by cotton growers across the nation.

The incomplete vote from 239 of the 240 counties which had eligible voters was 42,632 for the quotas and 5,451 against. The national vote, also incomplete, showed 267,235 favored the quotas and 20,191 opposed them. A two-third vote was required for approval.

At least two counties in West Texas, where there has been strong opposition to the way the county allotments for the coming year were determined, voted against the controls.

Growers in Runnels County flatly turned down the quotas by a vote of 270 against and 27 for. Tom Green cotton farmers failed to give the proposal a two-third majority. The vote there was 127 for and 116 against.

A survey by San Angelo Standard-Times reporters showed that the votes against controls were not in all cases based on the changes in allotments, which reduced 1956 acreages for some West Texas counties and increased the allotments for some East and Central Texas counties.

"Maybe if we kick allotments out, they'll give us something better," R. J. Wenland, who lives near the Lowake community, said. His wife added "The little farmer can't make a living any longer on these allotments."

"It's been shown acreage controls won't hold down production," J. S. Johnson of the Veribest community said. "The irrigation farmer is just putting on a little more fertilizer and makes as many bales as he ever did, and on less acreage. . . It's only the dryland man who really suffers. We're in favor of restricting sales of lint cotton by the pound."

Youth Clings To Life In Hospital Room

DALLAS (AP)—A 19-year-old youth, shot down when he attempted to stop the mass slaying of his mother-in-law and her three small children, clung tenaciously to life in a Dallas hospital today.

The youth, John Warren, remained in critical condition from gunshot wounds inflicted by Buford V. Calhoun, 32-year-old ex-convict, who killed his wife and three children here yesterday morning and later fatally wounded himself when officers cornered him.

Baylor Hospital attendants termed Warren's condition "extremely critical." They said his right kidney had been destroyed and had to be removed by surgery, two large wounds had punctured his kidney, another wound left a bullet in his lung and another shot broke his arm.

Calhoun, who Monday night had bragged to members of his family "I'm just like a rattlesnake. I give a warning before I strike," broke into the home of his estranged wife, Mrs. Mary Calhoun, 33, before dawn yesterday morning. He shot and killed his wife, then shot and slashed the throats of their three-months-old twin daughters, Pamela Sue and Patricia Lou, and their 19-months-old son, Bobbie Lynn.

Warren, awakened by Mrs. Calhoun's screams, was attempting to load a rifle when he was shot in the back. Though critically wounded, he managed to stagger to a neighbor's house.

The one-man reign of terror ended four hours later when Calhoun, cornered by police, fired a bullet into his temple in a drug store telephone booth.

Justice of Peace Glenn Byrd rendered a verdict of suicide and murder in the five deaths.

The suicide of the unemployed auto mechanic ended his years-long reign of fear and terror over his entire family.

"No one will ever know the fear Mary lived with," relatives said.

When Calhoun's second wife, Mrs. Frank Tennison of Fort Worth, heard of the early morning slayings and the police hunt for Calhoun, she asked for police protection.

Mrs. Deley Calhoun, Buford's mother, who lives in San Antonio, described her son as a "religious fanatic."

"I had expected something, but nothing like this," she sobbed when told of the slayings. "When I heard he escaped I was afraid he was coming down here to finish us all off."

Annual Choral Festival Set Here Monday

The second annual Christmas Choral Festival of the Snyder schools has been scheduled for Monday in the high school auditorium, Bob Clinton, school choral director, announced today.

There will be no charge for the festival. The choral students, numbering about 400 in the program, will appear first at 10 a.m. Monday in a school assembly program and then at 7:30 p.m. in an evening program.

The combined choirs of the elementary schools will be first on the program. These are sixth grade choirs picked in each school and will be in new uniforms for the first time. All the robes are similar. They will be choirs of the West Elementary, directed by Miss LaMoyne Harrell; East Elementary, Mrs. Tim Dennis; Central Elementary, Mrs. Bob Beams; and North Elementary, Mrs. Buster Pilcher.

Next will be the junior high choir, under direction of Mrs. Landis Lee, followed by the freshman girls choir, also directed by Mrs. Lee.

Clinton's high school girls chorus will follow, and fifth will be his high school a capella choir.

Last on the program will be nativity scenes presented by Joe Craft and the junior high dramatics club. This was one of the highlights of last year's program. With the singing of traditional Christmas carols by the a capella choir from backstage, the various scenes depicting the brith of Christ as portrayed behind the transparent curtain with colorful lighting effects.

Report Given Here On School Meeting

The Snyder school board of trustees last night in regular meeting heard a report from Paul Keaton, member of the board, on the White House Conference on Education held last month in Washington.

Keaton was among several Texas delegates to the conference, which was the final of several conferences which started on the area level, worked up to state meetings, and then finally to the national conference.

The board member said he believes education will benefit from the conference. Although the majority of those attending favored federal aid to schools most of them, he said, favored it only for those states which need it badly. Some states, he said, prohibit by state law further school spending, while some have had such disasters and floods or are plagued with big debts and will not spend additional money on schools. The Texas delegation was against further federal aid.

Keaton said a message from President Eisenhower at the beginning of the session said that education should be free to children but should be kept under control of families and localities, not controlled by a central government.

It was brought out in the conference that probably no state has demonstrated such financial incapacity that it could not provide adequate funds for edueation, were there not many obstacles to legislation of that nature.

Upon request of the city council of the city's Parent-Teacher Associations, the board scheduled a January joint meeting of the city council and school board for a report on the education conferences.

The board heard and approved an audit report from Deffebach & Yorgesen, which was submitted by Russell Yorgesen and Charles Blakey. The audit gave the school a satisfactory report, adding a few suggestions on bookkeeping methods.

A request was made to the board by Wacil McNair that the board investigate Interscholastic League rules to determine whether Snyder High School's football championship trophies of past years, which burned in a 1937 school fire, could be replaced. The high school has won, prior to this year, four district championships and two regional titles at a time when the school's class did not play to state championship. The board voted to check with the Interscholastic League and to take some action to restore the trophies.

D. V. Prichard, liaison man here for the firm of Buford & Feinberg of Dallas, architects and engineers for the schools, and M. E. Stanfield, assistant school superintendent, made reports on the school's building program. The two said there has been considerable progress in building and that the schools will be able to take over parts of the new facilities by the time the Christmas holidays end, including additions to cafeterias at West Elementary and Central Primary. Some of the new elementary physical education gyms will be completed for use in January. Concrete is being poured at the new Northeast Elementary, and work there is on schedule.

Glen Richardson, head of the school science department, and T. D. Wiman, Jr., high school principal, gave a report on progress in the science department. Giving enrollment figures, the two showed how interest in science had increased. During the 1952-53 school year, there were 173 of the high school's 608 students, or 28 per cent, taking science courses. In 1953-54, there were 324 out of 735, or 44 per cent, in the course, and in 1954-55 there were 324 out of 735, or 44 per cent. This year 415 out 720 are taking the Temperatures were expected to drop to as low as 10 degrees in the Panhandle by Thursday morning. The freezing zone should extend well into Central Texas.

Heavy fog in South Texas Wednesday morning reduced visibility. Victoria reported 1-16 of a mile visibility, Brownsville ¼-mile, Alice, ½-mile, Austin, 4 miles and San Antonio, 5 miles.

The cold front slowed down considerable as it reached Texas and northeastern New Mexico.

Official Tells Of Snyder Dog Biting Cases

Attacks on two Snyder persons by dogs this week has re-emphasized the urgency of having all dogs vaccinated and licensed, E. D. Allen, city animal officer, said today.

Allen said that Lee Prince, Clairemont Road, was taken to a local hospital yesterday afternoon after being attacked and bitten by a dog in the north part of town. The animal officer said that the dog even tried to bite Prince after Prince had driven a screwdriver through the dog's body in an attempt to ward off the dog.

A second dog attack occurred in east Snyder on Mrs. Raymond Alexander, 2901 Avenue L, but the dog did not actually bite Mrs. Alexander, Allen said.

Allen said Mrs. Alexander called him to have the dog impounded for observation, and that it took two hours to catch the dog by finally roping and tying it. When the dog was taken to the city pound to be held for observation, it took a "fit" and died. The dog's head has been sent to Austin for examination.

Allen said that all dogs will be picked up and impounded if they do not have city licenses and vaccination tags.

The license tags are available at the city hall, but a vaccination receipt must be shown before the licenses wil be issued. Or license tags may be obtained at the time the dog is vaccinated at the office of Dr. Robert J. Kidd on the Big Spring highway in south Snyder.

Wichita Falls Files Claim

WICHITA FALLS (AP)—The City Council Monday night voted to file a formal claim seeking 2½ million dollars from the Air Force for alleged damages to Wichita Falls' municipal airport.

The unanimous action by the council followed the recommendation of the city chamber of commerce which said it had been investigating deterioration of the field for two years.

The chamber committee recommended that any funds received on the claim be used to construct a proposed new airport in cooperation with the county.

The committee recommendations said the Air Force had not lived up to a 1952 contract for joint use of the field. "Its (Kell Field) condition has worsened to the point that only one runway is still open to airline use, and only for twin-engine or smaller aircraft."

U.S. Blasts Soviet Vetoes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States said today Russia took a position "that the will of the majority be damned" when it cast a string of 15 vetoes yesterday against nations seeking United Nations membership.

State Department press officer Lincoln White hotly denounced the talk by the Reds that Nationalist China is a "satellite" of the United States.

Nationalist China vetoed in the U. N. Security Council the U. N. membership application by the Soviet-sponsored state of Outer Mongolia.

Thereupon Russia vetoed applications of 15 free nations.

Russia had insisted that if any new members were to be taken in, Outer Mongolia must be among them.

Sainburg Given Time To Prepare His Case

AUSTIN (AP)—Dr. Frank P. Sainburg has been given until 2 p.m. Thursday to prepare his case for a hearing on New York's request to extradite the Big Spring physician on charges of kidnaping.

The hearing, originally set for 10 a.m. today, was delayed to give Dr. Sainburg time to confer with his attorneys and prepare his defense, Sec. of State Tom Reavley said yesterday.

The physician was not due to be released from the county jail in Longview until 10:10 a.m. today. He is serving a three day jail sentence for contempt of court for refusing to comply with a court order directing him to surrender his four-year-old son, Philip Sainburg II.

Sainburg is charged in New York with kidnaping the boy from his mother, Miss Doris Blanchard of Ithaca, N.Y., who resumed her maiden name after her divorce from the Texas doctor. She flew to Texas last week to reclaim her son.

School officials said today that enrollment at the school was normal.

No Charges Planned Against Otto John

By BRACK CURRY

BONN, Germany (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and his Cabinet today discussed the sensational return to West Germany of former intelligence chief Otto John.

An Interior Ministry spokesman said John was still under interrogation here. He said the questioning could last four or five days.

"John is giving information voluntarily," he said. "There has been nothing revealed so far that would justify the filing of any charges against him."

Nothing of what John was telling was announced. There was no confirmation of the report by a West German news agency that he had said a West Berlin physician, Dr. Wolfgang Wohlgemuth, had drugged him and kidnaped him from West Berlin.

Wohlgemuth left West Berlin with John and still is in East Germany.

Interior Minister Gerhard Schroeder, John's boss when the turncoat headed the West German counterespionage setup, reported to the Cabinet on John's surprising return to the West.

Although authorities maintained silence on John's questioning and his future, official quarters doubted that he would be tried for treason. The government labeled him a traitor when he defected. Now many believe he could not be convicted because of the difficulty of proving he had betrayed any secrets to the Communists.

Bolstering this was Schroeder's statement last Monday that he did not believe John went over to the East with any "treasonable intent."

Holding Of Official From U.S. Is Claimed

KABUL, Afghanistan (AP) — Unconfirmed reports from north Afghanistan today said U.S. Ambassador Angus Ward was held by police for three hours for entering a restricted area.

Creation Of Additional State District Attacked By Lindsey

GAINESVILLE (AP)—State and county government is being weakened by creation of additional districts and agencies to handle each new problem, Texas House Speaker Jim Lindsey said today.

Lindsey, who will step from his role as speaker of the House Jan. 1 to become executive vice president and general counsel of the Texas Good Roads Assn., addressed the Rotary Club.

"We have water districts, sewage districts, irrigation districts, flood districts, soil districts, school districts and countless others. We have, on every hand, special boards and agencies to supervise and control different professions and trades and businesses.

"Surely this is not good government. This is not responsible government.

"By this preoccupation with the creation of new districts and new agencies to deal with new problems, we are degrading and undermining the strength of state and county government.

"We are by-passing the legislature; we are, bit by bit, reducing the status and prestige of the legislators. We are, furthermore, circumventing the county judges and the county commissioners and taking from county government the strength it ought to have," Lindsey said.

"The speaker said he also was concerned that so many groups were asking the state to grant authority to regulate themselves.

"If we are to have responsible state governments, then we must have clearly defined a source of policy making authority. I believe we must get away from the fancy that a three-man board or a five-man board or a 15-man board is the automatic answer to every problem that arises."

He said the state should have a constitution "which is a genuine constitution, not merely a scrap of paper on which we can scratch out or pencil in new changes almost every year.

He also called for a modernization of the tax collection system.

Mailing Tips On Christmas Cards Given

Tips on how residents can make sure their Chirstmas cards will reach their destination before Christmas were given here today by Dawson Moreland, postmaster.

"When you use three cent stamps on your Christmas cards, you get first class mail service," the postmaster said, adding that first class service will make it certain Christmas cards will be delivered promptly, as well as insuring forwarding service if the addressee has moved or the card will be returned to the sender if the recipient cannot be located. Also, on cards sent by first class can include handwritten messages.

The postmaster said it is advisable to include the return name and address on each Christmas card envelope.

Any Christmas card envelopes large than 9 by 12 inches or smaller than two and three-fourths by 4 inches must be sent by first class mail because such cards require hand cancellation.

Moreland asked that patrons, when mailing their cards, put those with local addresses in one bundle and those with out-of-town addresses in another, to aid the postoffice in more rapid handling.

He asked that cards going to distant points should be mailed right away, while those going to local addresses should be mailed as many days before Christmas as possible.

Big Spring TV Station To Go On Air Jan. 1

BIG SPRING — Station KBST-TV will begin regularly scheduled television programs on Channel 4 Jan. 1, Jack Wallace, president of Big Spring Television, Inc., has announced.

Installation of equipment started today, and technicians expect to have the station functioning in time for the New Years Day opening.

A 500-foot tower will be raised at the transmitter site, which is located near the Howard County Junior College in southeast Big Spring. Effective radiated power of the station will be 12,750 watts, video, and 6,880 watts audio. Engineering surveys have indicated that KBST-TV will put a "snow-free" picture into Snyder to TV receivers with modest antenna facilities, Wallace said.

The Big Spring station will be affiliated with the CBS television network. Work to connect the station with the cable already is underway, and regular network programs are due to begin on KBST-TV shortly after the station opens.

The station will maintain studio facilities at the transmitter site for use in televising local programs which require such equipment.

All equipment for the station has been on the site for several days, and technicians expect to put it together rapidly.

Jordan Government Falls After Crisis

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—The Jordan government fell today in a crisis over new British proposals on defense.

King Hussein accepted the resignation of Premier Said el Mufti and four of his Cabinet, and asked Deputy Premier Hazza el Majali to form a new government.

The protest was against proposals for a wider application of the Anglo-Jordan treaty of 1948 and strengthening of Jordan's Arab Legion.

courses. That represents 60 per cent.

Richardson stressed the need for keeping students interested in sciences, pointing out that industry now has terrific shortages of personnel trained in those fields and that science teachers are harder to secure each year.

The board voted to purchase a nine-passenger vehicle for use in athletic and other departments and to make the purchase from the athletic fund in order not to change the already-adopted budget for the year. The station wagon will be used, probably supplemented by one other car already in use, for transporting basketball, track and baseball players, and well as being utilized by other departments when not in use for athletic transportation. This action was taken after the board heard reports of coaches having to use their family cars for out-of-town trips, some of them over a period of two to three days in the case of weekend basketball games. Informal bids submitted showed that Ford and Chevrolet bids were low, and the board voted to accept one of those, according to amount of room in the vehicles.

The board also approved purchase of several articles of furniture and fixtures for new facilities being constructed under the school building program.

Chrysler's wonderfully convenient Pushbutton drive is on the left side where no one but the driver can reach it.

Push this button and all other cars seem outdated!

15 minutes in the new "PowerStyle" Chrysler can change a lifetime of buying habits!

Push that "D" button and step on the gas. You're off like a shot. Now you're eating up the ribbon of road in front of you. A curve comes up and bends around behind. What was a hill has vanished. The scenery itself must be moving, not you!

What accounts for this magic? A whole new series of Chrysler engineering developments. Pushbutton PowerFlite transmission . . . a bigger airplane-type V-8 engine, more powerful than anything in its price class. . . . full-time Power-Pilot Steering . . . and newly designed PowerSmooth Brakes that bring you to the world's safest, smoothest straight line stops.

Chrysler, with its low center of gravity, rivals the cornering ability of a racing car.

All this you see reflected in Chrysler's "PowerStyle" lines . . . the new Forward Look . . . the new look of power.

If you're now driving one of the other two major cars in Chrysler's price class, come in and make a direct comparison. Just see if Chrysler doesn't make everything else seem outdated!

FHA Holds Banquet In Cafeteria

The F.H.A. held their annual banquet Monday night in the High School cafeteria.

The decorations were in keeping with Christmas. The centerpiece for the head table was sprayed cedar surrounded by red Christmas balls with graduated red candles and red boots with candy. A lighted Santa Claus hung on the wall behind the head table.

The Rev. T. Gerald Cates spoke on "The Four Truths." The Freshman girls quartet composed of Jean Rylander, Gaynelle Nix, Anna Lou Joines and Ann Emerson sang "Silent Night," "Seventeen" and "A Good Man Is Hard to Find." They were accompanied by Mrs. Nan Lee.

F.H.A. members and their dates and their two sponsors, Miss Perrimana and Mrs. Cross, attended the banquet.

CHRISTMAS DECOR YOU CAN EAT

Cookie Rolls Make Good Decorations For Trees

Here's a quick and easy way you can make unusual and beautiful Christmas tree decorations that look good enough to eat. In fact, you can eat them—they're made from frozen ice box cookie rolls. There's no end to the variety of decorations you can make so let your imagination run wild. Decorate each cookie differently, using frosting, colored sugars and cake decorating candies. Let the children in on the fun of making these easy, tasty ornaments. Also hang cookies on a small wire or plastic hors d'oeuvre "tree" to make a festive table or buffet decoration.

Christmas Cookie Tree Ornaments

Slice frozen cookie rolls and place on cookie sheet. Put on piece of uncooked macaroni through each cookie about ½ inch from the edge to make hole for hanging cookie. Bake according to directions leaving macaroni in cookie.

To decorate: Remove macaroni while cookies are warm. In a bowl mix 1 cup sifted confectioners sugar, ½ teaspoon vanilla and 1 to 2 tablespoons milk to spreading consistency. Add food coloring if desired. Frost a few cookies at a time, sprinkle with colored sugar and decorating candies. When icing hardens, put ribbon through holes and hand on tree.

Scout Troop Has Christmas Party

Girl Scout Troop No. 11 held its family Christmas party Monday night at the Scout Littlehouse.

The program included group singing, distribution of Christmas gifts and serving of refreshments. Seven new members were invested during the program.

Mrs. O. C. Stanley was leader, and Mrs. Felix Glisson was co-leader. Also assisting in the investiture ceremony was Lottie Wilkerson, senior Scout.

Presbyterian Group Luncheon Held Here

Mrs. W. R. Everett, 1901 Twenty-ninth Street, gave a luncheon Monday for 15 members of the Presbyterian Womens Organization of Post.

Miss Clarice Plunkett of Morden Surrey, England, who is visiting the Everetts, was the guest of honor.

Honey butter makes a breakfast special when served with waffles or pancakes. Beat ½ cup butter or margarine in a small bowl until softened, then beat in ¼ cup honey gradually; continue to beat until smooth. This will keep well in a covered jar in the refrigerator.

Ground lamb may be seasoned and broiled. Brush the lamb patties with melted butter, then place them so they are about three inches from the source of the heat. Broil until top side is well browned — about 5 minutes; turn and broil other side. Good with green peas and broiled canned pear halves filled with mint jelly.

The Pressuring Of Ike

Politics being what it is — a play for power, an endless contest between the ins and the outs, and no holds barred — the increasing absorption of GOP "pols" in the subject of Mr. Eisenhower's intentions toward 1956 may betray a deeper current of design than appears on the surface.

The "pols" — the politicians' own word to describe the professionals — hammer away incessantly on the subject of Ike's availability. Naturally they "think" he is going to run, and no doubt this wishful thinking is entirely sincere, for obvious reasons. It would relieve them of the risks and turmoil of picking a substitute, it would insure them a vast backlog of ready-made votes, Republican and independent, it would come as near insuring their return to power as anything in politics can be.

But deep down in their hearts the "pols" must realize that Mr. Eisenhower's availability is gravely in doubt, for reasons too numerous to go into here. One will suffice: there is no way under the Constitution of relieving a President of a vast burden of inescapable duties, the principal one being the making of decisions — precisely the one thing that takes most out of any man, whatever position he holds.

So, the incessant chatter from high and low places to the effect that Mr. Eisenhower is just as apt as not to seek office again cannot be divorced from the suspicion that his own party leaders are using it as a means of pressuring him into making the decision earlier than he might do under ordinary circumstances. If he isn't going to run — and it is at least an 80-20 bet that he won't — they want to get it over with as soon as possible, to clear the way for a campaign that will need all the time and preparation they can get.

This is the cool, practical side of politics, and hardheaded long view of the situation. Granting the premise is correct, the party leaders are saying to Mr. Eisenhower, "Hurry, hurry; we want an answer. We have work to do, and the sooner we get at it the better."

Filling A Vacuum

It is an old Communist tactic to push in wherever a vacuum exists, as they are doing today in Southeast Asia. But this principle exists in nature, and it is found everywhere in human, economic and political affairs.

Take American education, for example. Because local and state governments have not faced up to their duties and obligations with respect to maintaining and improving public education, there is today the dire threat of federal intervention. It probably will start on a modest scale, with all the appearance of indirectness —like federal grants for school plants only. From there it will progress to the point where some bureau in Washington will be directing what is to be taught in the public schools, how it will be taught, and who teaches it. And at the moment public education becomes regimented, right then the inevitable decay of free enterprise and independent thinking, not to mention local self-government, will be on its way.

We have allowed this situation to develop because of indifference and neglect. We have been reluctant, to put it mildly, to pay teachers a living, much less a decent wage. School plants were allowed to run down, and in spite of improving public interest in this regard, most school systems are still wholly inadequate, overcrowded and outmoded.

Young people aren't adopting the teaching profession in adequate numbers, and small wonder, and our teachers' colleges are no longer called that, but emphasize general subjects, and absorb an increasing amount of the state's education dollar.

If we wish to stand off federal encroachments in a field that belongs peculiarly to the state and the local school districts, we will have to get rid of the existing vacuums. Once we start taking the opiate of federal aid, we can kiss good by to local self-government in educational affairs. When we start throwing our burdens on Uncle Sam, Uncle Sam has every right to call the tune all the way.

Slumber Time

WALHALLA, S.C. (AP)—The Rev. Eugene Mason, baby sitting with his 1½-year-old son, lay down by the youngster in an effort to coax him to sleep.

But it was the minister who fell asleep. He was awakened sometime later by the sharp ringing of the telephone.

It was a neighbor calling to report that the boy had wandered to his house seeking excitment.

Survey Shows Wives Have Many Ideas On How Their Husbands Could Be Improved

By LORA LEE WATSON
Minneapolis Tribune Writer

MINNEAPOLIS, Dec. 14 (AP) — "Husbands," someone has said, "are a sorry lot." Millions of wives agree—at least part of the time.

In an effort to find out in what ways the American male falls short of being the ideal husband, we have undertaken an informal poll of wives in Minneapolis. Results are guaranteed to be highly unscientific, somewhat biased and statistically questionable.

This question was asked wives in a number of offices, bridge clubs, neighborhood groups, mothers' organizations, auxiliaries and at large:

What things would you like to say to your husband—but don't dare?

First, and almost unanimous, reaction of wives questioned was that there's nothing they don't "dare" say to their husbands. But all wives hastily agreed that there are areas of conversation into which they prefer not to venture for one reason or another.

We got hundreds of answers, but many of them are variations of the same themes. After sorting, combining and tabulating, we found the questions a composite wife would like to ask a composite husband:

Dear husband:

Why are you always in the kitchen before dinner, making suggestions and nuzzling lovingly on my neck when I'm trying to cook —and why are you never there after dinner when there are dishes to be washed?

When you go into a grocery store, could you, just once, stick to the list and skip the impulse buying which throws our budget into reverse?

Why do you immediately go into a slow boil whenever my relatives, especially my mother, are mentioned? and why, conversely, do you sprout a large chip on each shoulder if I dare make the faintest criticism of your relatives?

How about that promise you made before we were married to do half the housework if I kept my job?

Why do you insistently cling to your cliches that "you can't fly on one wing" and "another little drink wouldn't do us any harm" when bitter experience has proved that on more than one "wing" you fly too high and bounce too hard? (And who has to hold your head, and make your apologies and try to explain to the kids next day what's wrong with daddy?)

Must every movie, TV show and sporting event—either live or televised—be an audience participation performance when you're there? Are you completely impervious to the glares you get when your loud laugh drowns out dialogue or when you mutter advice and comment to the players or actors?

Why does any discussion of religion embarrass you?

Must you always look like a tramp over the weekends?

You were a regular twinkle-toes in your courting days, so why do you now dislike dancing and act like an old bear if I suggest it?

Why is money, just plain money, such an incendiary topic in our house? Do you know of anybody who keeps a household going without it? And where am I supposed to get it if not from you?

How do you manage to dream up so many excuses for postponing (sometimes forever!) such chores as cleaning the basement and garage, doing the yard work and hauling rubbish to the dump?

Since it is you, old friend, who must take credit for every dent that's ever been put in our car, and you, old chum, who have received the only traffic tickets ever issued against it—how can you, with a straight face, keep telling me how to drive a car?

(Now, having asked you these soul-searching questions, I ask myself one: with all his faults, how come I love him still? Because, you know, I really do!)

With Love,
Your Wife.

Solution To All Problems: Merely Eleminate People

BY INEZ ROBB

The greatest unsolved problem in the world today, bar none, is traffic. It dwarfs all others, especially at Christmastime.

I have been giving the problem the benefit of some long, long thoughts since New York Traffic Commissioner T. T. Wiley suggested one solution of the traffic problem would be the abolition of buses, and Michael Quill, president of the Transport Workers Union, a man with a formidably low boiling point, suggested the abolition of Mr. Wiley.

As a result of my deliberations I can report that doing away with either buses or Mr. Wiley would be a mere stopgap measure. What the problem demands is a radical solution and I have it: do away with people!

There is such a beautiful simplicity and finality about this solution I am surprised no one has thought of it before. Furthermore, it is basic, and it will work. Mark my words: do away with people and traffic is a dead issue.

In the first place, people are obsolete. They have not kept pace with technology. They are still being created in the same old way, and the basic model hasn't changed in thousand of years. In contrast, machines are updated constantly and improved models are an annual affair.

In the second place, people subconsciously know that they have had their day. This accounts for the popularity of puppets, marionettes, dancing cigarettes, and whistling teakettles on teevee. People know they are done for; anything they can do, some mechanical gadget can do better.

The continuing improvement of robots, mechanical brains and automation, as contrasted with man's static oposition, relegates people ever more to the background. The hex it on.

Man might have hoped to compete a while longer if mechanical brains had continued to cost in the millions. But even this respite is gone. I have before me an advertisement of a do-it-yourself construction kit for the assembly of a mechanical brain for home use.

This midget marvel costs only $19.95 and, when assembled, is even capable of playing ticktacktoe (that's what the ad says!). Let us face our fate bravely: when you can buy for $19.95 the makings of a mechanical brain that can play ticktacktoe, man's day is done. The Indian sign is on him.

But man has his consolations. Do away with people and you solve some of the most-crucial problems of the day, such as farm surpluses, the cocktail and-or office party and even the man-eating shark, which is done for, too, once his diet evaporates. Get rid of people and you are also shed of Linda Christian, Edward Purdom, V.K. Krishna-Menon, J. J. Astor, Rita Hayworth, Ali Khan, et al, and no sacrifice is too great.

Now there may be a few unreasonable persons who won't go unless they can take it with 'em. But when they realize that what they are taking is the traffic problem and Liberace, well—open the door, Richard, and stand back!

Unusual Christmas Cards Depict Weird Predictions Of How Future Life Will Be

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Year after year Huge Gernsback probably puts out the most unusual Christmas cards in America.

Each year they contain predictions by Gernsback, publisher of the magaine "Radio-Electronics," on how life will be in the future.

Some years his forecasts are pretty eerie. This year they are weirder than weird. If Gernsback is even half-right (and he is convinced time will prove him altogether right), the average man will probably be glad he lives in the present—and that the next century will be up to posterity to endure.

Take transportation. Dr. Gernsback sees the "airmobile" as the only final answer to today's traffic problem.

Motorists will zoom through the skies in small gravity - resistant cars propelled by compressed air. Back seat drivers will be really out-of-date, because—

"All-around radar will make collisions in the air almost an impossibility."

Are you worried about where you will be buried? Gernsbeck is. He fears the earth soon will be too crowded for cemeteries. He has an answer—space burials.

Coffins containing the dead will be taken up into outer space by flying funerary ships. At the proper altitude the ships will discharge their cargo in a direction away from the sun. Frozen in your casket, you will then soar out of the pattern of the solar system—and sail on forever in space.

Gernsback sees this as the most practical way a man can "go to heaven." Anybody want to be first? The big advantage to this plan: Your relatives won't have to revist the cemetery. They also save money on flowers. Those you take with you will last forever—frozen as solid as you are.

Take electronic brains. Bernsback doubts science will be able any time soon to come up with a machine that will actually do its own thinking.

His solution: You take a brilliant living human brain, supply it with a food solution that will keep it permanently alive, then wire it to the gigantic electronic machines, and it will do the thinking for them.

These human "electronicized brains," he feels, will be able to write great books and plays, create needed new inventions—and never wear out. The task here, of course, is how to get the right brains. Gernsback feels sure, however, that some outstanding men will be glad to contribute their brains—before death—to benefit mankind. Any volunteers

Gernsback has done one thing with his moody Noel forecasts. He makes simply being alive in the Christmas season of 1955 seem like a mighty fine privilege.

Three Men Stimulate Hope For Heart Attack Victims

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — No three men — two of them by being themselves and one by his sensible explanations — have done more than Eisenhower, Johnson and White to create hope for a full life among victims of heart attacks.

President Eisenhower and Lyndon Johnson of Texas, leader of the Senate Democrats, are recovering from heart attacks of their own. It was Dr. Paul Dudley White, Boston heart specialist, who did the explaining.

Neither Eisenhower, stricken in September, nor Johnson, who had his attack in July, is out of the woods yet — in the sense they have so fully recovered their doctors can fit them to resume a full life.

Both are awaiting the final medical verdict: Eisenhower in February, Johnson later this month. It may be the doctors will tell Eisenhower he can't run again and Johnson that the job of Senate leader is too much for him.

Even so, both men will go on leading lives just short of all-out. This need be no discouragement to other heart cases since a full life for both those men means a strain and responsibility most people never have to worry about.

If the verdict is against the fullest activity for them, Johnson may have to give up the Senate leadership but will stay in the Senate and Eisenhower will continue to fill his job as president until his term ends in January 1957.

Eisenhower and Johnson, through their prominence, focused the nation's attention on the problem of cardiac cases and how men, unwilling to let it throw them, can get up out of bed and be themselves again, patiently working toward recovery.

This doesn't mean heart cases can or should chase fire engines again, climb mountains or fight a 10-round bout. But those are extremes anyway.

Because Dr. White was one of Eisenhower's physicians, and because Eisenhower was the first president in history to have a known heart attack, White had a greater opportunity to talk common sense about the heart to more people than any doctor in history.

He used the opportunity to the utmost to do good. Through an article specially written for The Associated Press for newspaper use and through repeated news conferences he preached this gospel:

Trying to resume your full life is the best treatment: One heart attack doesn't necessarily mean you'll ever have another. Some heart cases live to a ripe old age and die of something else.

Pink Parties Latest Thing In Washington

By JANE EADS

WASHINGTON—Everything's in the pink now since Mamie Eisenhower designated it as her favorite. Pink houses, pink hats, pink flowers, pink boudoirs, now pink parties!

To me, one of the most facinating parties was given by a local hostess for an about to be married young couple. Seems she'd just been aching for a chance to give an all pink party in her ritzy apartment to match the pink walls, rugs and furniture which are in varying tones of the same color.

She ordered all pink flowers, candles and a tea table decorated with pink tulle and pink lovebirds hanging in little bamboo cages. On the veranda, under a pink and white striped awning, were scads of floating pink balloons.

The menu consisted of pink roast beef, with pink cake topped with pink spun sugar and more pink lovebirds for dessert. Bartenders in pink jackets served pink champagne and pink lady cocktails.

Then there was another pinked-up shindig which local society reporters said guests called, "the party of the year." It was given in a local hotel cocktail lounge which the hostess had decorated with clusters of pink balloons, big bunches of pink chrysanthemums, and a pink cloth on the long buffet table. The hostess who had injured her foot and had it in a cast, sat on a chair on a pink dias. Here's where she broke the color scheme. She wore a white lace dress and had beside her in a cage her pet parakeet. She kept track of all who came by having them sign their names on her foot cast. In pink ink!

Martha Rountree is noted for her patries. She tells us in the Women's National Press Club Cook Book, "Who Says We Can't Cook," in it she also goes for pink in a party way.

"I like pink balloons, pink camelias floating in a brandy snifter around a lighted pink candle. You can get colored table cloths and napkins cheaply to match, or dye them yourself, pink grapefruit, and, if you want to spend money, get pink champagne." Martha says, incidentally: "If you must give a party, first have a good reason for doing it. This decides the guest list, the menu and the spirit of the occasion."

American GI's Changing Yule Custom In Germany

By HANNS NEUERBOURG

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — The American GI is changing some of the centuries-old Christmas traditions in Germany.

Santa Claus arrives in an Army jeep or helicopter. And, with a GI playing the role of Santa, he may bring along such presents as a cowboy suit or a coonskin cap.

Since the end of World War II, American servicemen have opened their mess halls and recreation rooms to German orphans and underprivileged children for Christmas parties. Some American units also play host to refugees from the East. Military police units collect and repair toys to give German youngsters.

In turn, many German families invite American servicemen to spend the holiday with them.

In West Germany, currently enjoying a boom, everyone expects this Christmas will be the best in many years.

Sentimentally, Christmas is the year's No. 1 event for German-speaking peoples. Many of the yuletide customs were originated by their ancestors. Reputedly, it was in Germany that the idea of a Christmas tree started.

As for the German younger generation, Santa Claus makes two visits. The first is Dec. 6, known as St. Nikolaus Day. On that occasion, children place their shoes outside their doors and St. Nikolaus fills them with candies, cakes and fruits. Sometimes, if a child has been bad, Santa also leaves a small whip—a warning to the youngster to mend his ways.

The second visit, on Christmas Eve, is the time for children to receive toys and other presents from Father Christmas (Weihnachtsmann) or the Christ Child (Christkind). As elsewhere, adults exchange presents too.

Germans observe Christmas Day much as they always have. They go to church, open their presents and have a big family dinner. Sometimes it is the only family reunion of the whole year.

The traditional main dish at dinner is goose but some prefer carp. The meal usually includes a loaf-shaped, sugar-coated cake filled with raisins, almonds and candided lemon peel.

Lighthouse Given New Coat Of Paint

CAPE ELIZABETH, Maine (AP) —Oft-photographed, oft-painted old Portland Head Light had to wait nearly 165 years for its own new coat of paint.

The famed lighthouse, a pioneer U. S. public works project, was painted when it went into service in 1791. Periodically ever since, it has been whitewashed. The inexpensive process was right in line with the frugality attending its erection, when President George Washington ordered the 80-foot tower built of local field-stone and brick by Portland-area stonemasons.

Not long ago science developed a plastic vinyl weather-resistant paint, since adopted to coat aids to navigation. Coast guards rigged bos'ns' chairs and applied about 30 gallons of the new-fangled stuff — white — to the spray drenched, rock-bedded old beacon.

RADIO-TV REPORT

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—A fellow was sitting around the other day with John A. Aaron and Jesse Zousmer, coproducers with Edward R. Murrow of CBS-TV's Person to Person, when he thought up a question: "Where are they now?"

In a kind of chorus Aaron and Zousmer replied: "They're just about where they were."

This game of "Where are they now?" was occasioned by the fact that Murrow will conduct his 100th Person to Person interview program next Friday night. He will look in at the Chicago home of actress Kim Novak and the New York home of columnist Leonard Lyons.

Statistics are always deceptive, but maybe you can conclude something about the lives of the famous and near famous in America after Aaron and Zousmer finish running through the 199 names Murrow has interviewed in these past two years. Here's what they say:

More than 95 per cent still live in the same homes. Although two couples have hit rocky marital roads since Person to Person looked in on them, there has been only one divorce—that of Fleur and Gardner Cowles. Only two have died—Walter White, president of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and Imogene Coca's husband Robert Burton.

There have been quite a few marriages since a visit by Murrow: Eddie Fisher to Debbie Reynolds; Jayne Meadows to Steve Allen . . . Mohammed Ali, Pakistan ambassador to the United States, now has two wives instead of one. Groucho Marx has married again (but has only one wife). So have Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas and Renee Jeanmarie.

A few generals and the like have retired, but others in arts, politics and the world of entertainment are still running along like Tennyson's brook. In fact, there's an interesting trend toward greater success after you appear on Person to Person. Krishna Menon, Ethel Waters, Lillian Gish, Ernie Kovacks are a few of those who have enjoyed upswings in public notice. David Sarnoff, who was merely president of RCA when interviewed, is now chairman of the board. George Meany, who was merely president of the AFL, is now president of the AFL-CIO.

So it goes. It seems that famous people generally just plug along at the same job while living in the same house with the same wife and get famouser and famouser.

GUIDEPOST LITERARY

THE TRAIL OF THE DINOSAUR and Other Essays. By Arthur Koestler. Macmillan.

Eighteen essays and talks from Koestler's work of the last decade are arranged in three sections. The divison is loose, but never wanders far from the central Koestler thought, central now and always:

"Free men must be prepared to defend their freedom or lose it."

He classifies these essays as "The Challenge," "Diversions" and "The Failure of Response." In the middle group are one amusing piece of snobbery, a too lenient article on science fiction; a discussion of the novel's future, and another on the status of the Jew—now free, says Koestler, son of a Jewish father, either to become an Israelite in Israel or to submerge religion and blood and become a European among Europeans.

The best writing in the book comes at start and finish. "The Little Flirts of St. Germain des Pres," which excoriates neutralists for their futile middle-ground stand, is one of the most eloquent and ardent passages Koestler has written. The title essay shows man getting more and more powerful and emptier and emptier headed, man with an engine such as he'd never dreamed of and no steer ing wheel.

Koestler is all against, he's a dissenter. He may have a positive program, but experience and conviction lead him to negative attitudes. Of all his "anti" positions, the main target is of course Communist Russia—though the Soviet's other foes may be disturbed to learn he doesn't count on the modern church as much of an ally. This book is more challenging than "The Yogi and the Commissar;" it's written by the fiercest, deadliest polemicist we have.

RINGS BELL OF LIBERTY AND JUSTICE — Sir Winston Churchill receives a silver replica of the town crier's bell of Colonial Williamsburg, Va., from Winthrop Rockefeller at a dinner in London's historic Drapers' Hall. The bell and $10,000 represent America's first Williamsburg Award for "outstanding achievements in advancing basic principles of liberty and justice." The award was created by the trustees of Williamsburg, the 18th Century restored capital of the British Colony of Virginia. Rockefeller's father, the late John D. Rockefeller, provided the funds for the restoration.

Fellow Communists Named By Professor

CHICAGO (AP) — A former college professor has named some 34 persons he said he knew as fellow Communists in the federal government before and during World War II. Included were 16 lawyers employed by the National Labor Relations Board.

Prof. Herbert Fuchs, 50, testified in Chicago yesterday before the House Un-American Activities Committee. He was dropped from the law faculty of American University in Washington after testifying before the committee in a closed session July 15. The hearings continue today.

Fuchs, who said he dropped out of the Communist party in 1946, declared the 16 NLRB lawyers were members with him of a Communist party cell in the NLRB from 1937 to 1942.

He also named Communists he said were on the old War Labor Board and other government agencies in the Democratic administrations of former Presidents Franklin D. Roosevelt and Harry Truman.

Several persons Fuchs named denied the accusations.

Lester Asher of Chicago, one of the former NLRB attorneys named by Fuchs, said when he joined the agency in 1938 "Fuchs tried to sell me on communism and was unsuccessful." Asher said he attended one or two cell meetings and quit.

In Washington, Ruth Weyand, another former NLRB attorney, said Fuch's testimony was "nonsense." She said, "He never organized me. I am now and always have been a loyal American."

In Denver, Edward Scheunemann denied Fuch's accusation and, speaking for himself and his wife Cecilia, also named, said: "I have never been and am not now a member of the Communist part."

Louis G. Silverberg, NLRB press chief, said in Washington that none of the 16 attorneys named by Fuchs is now employed by the agency.

Fuchs told the committee he was with the NLRB from 1937 to 1942, and the War Labor Board from 1942 to 1945 in Denver.

Fuchs said one WLB employe complained to the agency's Denver office after being asked to join the Communist cell there, but "though an investigation was made, no employes were dismissed.

Rep. Walter (D-Pa), committee chairman, commented during the hearing that the release of Fuchs by American University was "a very reprehensible thing." Another committee member said, "I can't understand the university's attitude. First they praised Mr. Fuchs publicly for what he's doing and then they fired him."

Fuchs named as NLRB members of the Communist party cell from 1937 to 1942:

Asher, Ruth Weyand, David Rein of Washington; Woodrow Sandler; Jacob H. Krug; Mortimer Reimer; John W. Porter and his wife Margaret; Allen Heald; Harry Cooper; Frank Donner; Scheunemann; Burt Diamond; Allen Rosenberg; Martin Kurasch; and Joseph B. Robison.

He named Scheunemann, Kurasch and Porter as members of the party cell in Denver's WLB office also, and in addition:

Scheunemann's wife Cecelia, also a WLB employe; Phil Reno; Gerald Matchett; Raymon LaVallee; Dwight Spencer; Don Plumb and his wife Arlene.

Fuchs named as members of the Communist party while in government service:

Leah Robison, a cousin of Joseph Robison, one of the former NLRB lawyers named; James Gorman; Samuel Koenigsberg; Ellis Olim; Eleanor Nelson; Henry Rhine; Arthur Stein; Sidney and Julia Katz; Janet Buck; Gaines Stern; and Jessica Rhine.

Atomic Energy Use Widened

CLEVELAND (AP) — Another new use for atomic energy—sterilizing human bone for use in transplanting—was described yesterday.

A spokesman for the University of Michigan said researchers there have developed a technique for treating bone with radiations from radioactive cobalt prior to grafting into a diseased or injured person's body.

The technique is designed to assure that bone kept in "bone banks" is free of bacterial contamination before use in surgery.

Dr Donald Katz, who said the research was done by a team headed by L. E. Brownell, declared that bone so treated has been used as transplants in about 40 cases and that there is "much less inflammation afterwards" compared with bone sterilized by other methods such as heat.

Katz told reporters about it during the Nuclear Science and Engineering Congress here. He said that the work up to now has been on a small research basis.

But he said the university researchers have designed a proposed instrument for using various radioactive materials for the purpose—an instrument he said conceivably might find wide use in hospitals.

Fred Walters, 598 arrests since 1934 for 1,629 days in jail and fines totaling $5,619, all for misdemeanors.

NEW DELHI (AP)—Premier Bulganin and Nikita Khrushchev, Soviet traveling salesmen of Communist cooperation and discord, left India today after a month of warming up the cold war with bitter attacks on the Western nations.

They left behind pledges of closer political, economic and cultural cooperation between Russia and this key nation of Southern Asia.

The Russians planned to fly direct to Tashkent, in the south of Soviet Asia, to wait out a snowstorm raging at Kabul, Afghanistan, final stop on their tour through non-Communist Asia.

In a final communique, Bulganin and Indian Prime Minister Nehru called for "unconditional prohibition" of nuclear and thermonuclear weapons, along with a "substantial reduction of conventional armaments, coupled with effective international control."

But in a separate statement to newsmen, Bulganin and Communist party boss Khrushchev said the Soviet Union could not disarm unless the other big powers did.

Until atomic and hydrogen weapons are banned "completely and unconditionally," they declared, "the Soviet Union is compelled to, and in the future will take care to, strengthen its defensive capacity and produce atomic and hydrogen weapons."

The huge enthusiastic crowds which greeted the Russians everywhere on their four-week tour of India and Burma again were out to give a goodby ovation. Touring loud-speakers and free buses swelled the outpouring along the route to the airfield and at the field itself.

"I am leaving part of my heart behind in India," said Khrushchev, echoing Nehru's statement when he wound up his visit to Russia last June.

"Our entire generation will remember your visit," Nehru replied.

But the Indian Prime Minister took pains to reassure the non-Communist world, as he had several times after his Russian visitors' blasts at the West, that "our friendship with the Soviet Union is not directed against anybody."

"Our getting close to the Soviet Union does not mean that we are drawing away from others," Nehru declared. "Indo-Soviet friendship will be good for the whole world."

For India, the chief concrete result of the visit appeared to be an agreement announced in the joint communique to expand trade between the two nations. There was nothing said about the many millions in gifts, grants or other economic aid which many Indians had expected to materialize.

Instead Russia agreed to sell India a million tons of steel over a three-year period, plus equipment for oil production and mining. In return the Soviets said they would increase their purchases of Indian raw materials and manufactured goods substantially "with the hope that the value of these goods wil lequal the value of Indian purchases of Russia."

The two nations also agreed to organize a regular service of Indian and Soviet ships to carry the expanded commerce.

The communique also exchanged pledges of broad cooperation and largely rehashed a similar statement Bulganin and Nehru signed in Moscow.

In addition to insisting on the necessity of disarmament, the two Premiers called again for the admission of Communist China to the United Nations. They said the "disappointment of the foreign ministers' conference in Geneva need be only temporary," that "every effort should be continued for a relaxation of international tension" and for settlement of differences solely through negotiation.

Singer On TV Asks Divorce

BUNNELL, Fla. (AP)—Singer Dorothy McGuire, a member of the Arthur Godfrey broadcasting troupe, and her husband are suing each other for divorce. Both charge cruelty.

Miss McGuire, 27, has several times complained that her married life with Sgt. John Henry Brown of the Air Force was overcast by too much publicity.

Public interest in the marriage began two years ago when former Godfrey singer Julius La Rosa was dismissed from the troupe during a broadcast. At the time he said he loved Dorothy and wanted to marry her if she could gain her freedom.

The divorce suits were disclosed last night by Miss McGuire's lawyer Charles E. Booth. He said Brown filed the original suit here last Aug. 16, seven months after she publicly announced reconciliation.

The couple, who have no children, married July 30, 1951, in Dorothy's hometown of Miamisburg, Ohio. Brown was later sent to Korea and his wife went on to entertainment fame as one of Godfrey's singing McGuire sisters.

Cripple Is Committed To Mental Hospital

GUTHRIE, Okla. (AP)—Asa Beck, 45-year-old cripple who climbed a television tower in Oklahoma City Sunday to draw attention to what he termed his family's dire plight, has been committed to Central State Hospital for mental treatment.

Logan County Judge Mildred Patterson yesterday ordered him to the mental institution at Norman on recommendation of a sanity commission.

Beck had told officers who rescued him from the 250-foot level of the KWTV tower that his family was starving. Gov Raymond Gary later declared the Beck family was being cared for "in as satisfactory a manner as the law will permit." The family receives $136 a month in public welfare payments.

Beat By Ballots

CLERMONT, Fla. (AP) — Ross C. Cantwell was unopposed for city treasurer in yesterday's election. But he didn't win. His name and the title of the office had been left off the ballot by error. Another election must be held.

Krause Quits In Lockheed Policy Battle

BURBANK, Calif. (AP)—A policy battle in Lockheed Aircraft Corp.'s Missile Systems Division, dealing with weapons of the future, has resulted in the resignation of Dr. Ernst Krause, head of the research program, and several of his top assistants.

The dispute is reported to be centered on whether the research scientists or aeronautical engineers would dominate the development of unmanned missiles, which are expected to fly beyond the earth's atmosphere at thousands of miles an hour.

A Lockheed spokesman said yesterday Krause has been replaced by Dr. Louis Ridenour, formerly of the Naval Research Laboratory in Washington.

Among those reported resigning were Dr. Montgomery H. Johnson, head of the Nuclear Physics Department, and Dr. John L. Barnes, director of the computer and controls lab. The head of the physics section, Dr. Joseph Charyk, said last night he has not yet decided whether to stay at Lockheed.

The firm is one of the nation's prime suppliers of military air weapons.

The company claimed the resignations will not impede the missile project and replacements will be taken from other Lockheed programs.

Krause resigned because of "a difference of opinion on the management of the program," a company spokesman said. About a dozen of Krause's assistants have indicated they will resign before the first of the year, the spokesman added. Others placed the total between 15 and 20.

Hard Freeze Chills Nation

By The Associated Press

Midwinter weather continued to plague northern areas of the nation today.

Below-zero temperatures, snow and strong winds struck sections of Montana, North Dakota and the Lake Superior district. A cold air mass extended from the Pacific Northwest eastward into the Midwest and southwest into northwestern Texas.

There wasn't much relief from the cold in the Eastern states. Temperatures were mostly in the 20s and low 30s this morning from the New York area southward into Georgia.

But the most severe weather was in the northern Rockies, the central and northern plains and parts of the north central region.

A blizzard hit the northeastern tip of Montana. Winds up to 60 miles an hour caused heavy drifting and cut visibility to zero in some areas. Temperatures dropped to 5 degrees below zero.

Heavy snow fell in some parts of the frigid belt. The fresh fall at Houghton, Mich., measured 7 inches. At Duluth, Minn., which reported 3 below this morning, the new snow added 4 inches to the heavy snow already on the ground.

Tax Cut Plans Pose Big Question Mark

By WILLIAM F. ARBOGAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top House leaders—and some senators—posed a big question mark today over prospects for cutting taxes next year.

In separate talks with newsmen, Speaker Rayburn (D-Tex) and Representatives Martin (R-Mass) and Cannon (D-Mo) voiced doubts that any substantial tax relief would be forthcoming. Senators Byrd (D-Va) and Bridges (R-NH) said a balanced budget is more important than a tax cut.

Chairman Cooper (D-Tenn) of the House Ways and Means Committee, where tax legislation normally is originated, declined to comment on the tax outlook for next year.

Rayburn is boss Democrat in the House; Martin is the top Republican; and Cannon heads the Appropriations Committee. In the Senate, Byrd is chairman of the Finance Committee, and Bridges is senior Republican on the Appropriations Committee.

Their pessimism over the tax outlook differed from the attitude of Sen. George (D-Ga), an influential member of the Senate Finance Committee. He predicted yesterday that pressure for a tax cut "will be too great for Congress to resist."

George said earlier this week he believed taxes could be cut from 3 to 3½ billion dollars next year. He cited no figure yesterday, but said he expects cut some time during the year. Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson, Senate Democratic leader, also has called for tax cuts.

Rayburn said he was far from convinced that taxes can be cut in the light of present world conditions. On the contrary, he said, "we may need more."

He said he thinks some present "inequities" in the tax structure should be corrected, with "the little fellow getting some relief."

Rayburn, Martin and Cannon hinted at the possibility of increased defense spending next year, which would make both a tax cut and a balanced budget difficult despite record high income. They were interviewed after a White House conference at which President Eisenhower reportedly talked of a billion-dollar boost in defense spending next year.

Despite his belief that "we are further away from war today than we were a year ago," Martin said, "Defense spending may increase, and that well may prevent any tax cut."

Summing up the outlook, Martin said:

"It's quite doubtful whether we can have any substantial tax reduction next year," though a balanced budget may "permit tax reduction for the little fellow."

Cannon cautioned against cutting taxes until the federal budget is balanced and a systematic reduction of the national debt is undertaken.

Byrd agreed, saying he is against reducing any taxes. If there is a surplus, he said it ought to be applied on payments on the national debt.

Bridges said he will "certainly opposed any tax reduction until the budget is balanced."

Probe Set On Security

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special, bipartisan commission created by Congress meets today to organize and start an inquiry into all aspects of the government's security program.

Vice President Nixon sent out the call for the meeting Dec. 3, saying he had been requested to do so by President Eisenhower.

Nixon planned to welcome the members, drawn equally from public and private life, and then depart. He is not a member of the commission.

The commission was approved by Congress last summer. Some members of Congress expressed hope its study would help to lift the controversy over the administration's employe security program out of politics.

With this in mind, the date for the group's report was set after next year's election.

The commission's study is not confined, however, to the employe security program. It embraces all laws, presidential orders and administrative regulations relating to internal security.

As directed by Congress, Eisenhower, Nixon and Speaker of the House Rayburn (D-Tex) each appointed four members of the commission.

Woman Sniffs Fuel, Averts Explosion

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Police found the woman yesterday who got five gallons of white gas at a local service station—instead of the kerosene she had thought she was buying.

But Mrs. Clyde C. Strode said they needn't have worried. She poured the gasoline into the family car's fuel tank as soon as she sniffed it later, at home.

Asst. Fire Chief Al Thompson says it's a good thing she did. He said three tablespoons of the gas, if used to start a coal stove fire, would have exploded with the same force as a stick of dynamite.

One In Big Family Lost During Trip

PRYOR, Okla. (AP)—An Arkansas family driving with their eight children to Clarksville, Ark., lost one of their brood here yesterday but with the help of the Highway Patrol finally were reunited.

The family pulled into a service station, the father driving a truck and the mother an automobile towing a house trailer. When they departed they left behind an 11-year-old boy. The name of the family was not learned.

Benson Details His Agriculture Plans

By OVID A. MARTIN

WASHINGTON (AP)—If there is to be any over-all limitation on farm production next year, the Eisenhower administration will leave it to farmers to impose it upon themselves.

Secretary of Agriculture Benson indicated yesterday the administration does not intend to propose or to impose restrictions beyond those already required by legislation enacted before World War II. In fact, it wants to go in the opposite direction — toward greater farmer freedom.

The secretary sketched further outlines of new farm program proposals the administration is preparing for presentation to Congress next month. He talked with newsmen at the conclusion of a two-day meeting of the government's 18-member Agricultural Advisory Commission.

Overproduction and the resulting accumulation of more than seven billion dollars worth of surpluses are accepted on all sides as a major factor in a prolonged decline in farm prices and incomes. These declines have become a major political issue.

Benson told newsmen that new measures will feature a "soil bank" plan under which payments —totaling 400 million dollars next year—would be made to farmers who take land out of surplus crops and put it to grass and trees.

But, he declared, this plan will be "absolutely voluntary." Farmers would be free either to take it or to leave it and continue the production of any crops except those under marketing quotas. Those are wheat, cotton, tobacco, peanuts and possibly rice.

Proposals high on Benson's list would ease present restrictions on corn and on wheat produced for livestock feed. These proposals might well encourage greater, rather than less, production of these two major crops.

The secretary said that aside from the voluntary soil bank plan, the administration would stress measures to speed up disposal of present farm surpluses and to protect family-type farms.

Disposal measures, he said, would include an increase in grants and donations of surplus food at home and abroad, including the school lunch program and the armed services, as well as an enlarged barter program. But Benson ruled out the use of food stamps to channel surpluses to low-income groups.

Help to the family-type farm would be provided in the form of "liberalized" credit and special treatment under price support programs.

An over-all limit — possibly of $25,000 — would be set for the amount of price support aid that would be extended to a single farm. Such a limitation has been urged by some farm leaders as a means of discouraging a shift to a pattern of corporate-type farming.

Atomic Rays Help Science In Research

By FRANK CAREY
Associated Press Science Reporter

CLEVELAND (AP)—A new class of chemical compounds which may prove to have wide commercial use—for example, as insecticides and wood preservatives — have been developed with the help of atomic rays, a University of Michigan scientist said today.

Dr. J. J. Martin said they are a special variety of so-called "chlorinated aromatic hydrocarbons"—produced by making chlorine and certain coal tar derivatives react vigorously in the presence of a radioactive material.

One such compound, he said, has long been produced commercially with the help of ultraviolet radiation. This particular one is used as an insecticide.

But he said the Michigan research had produced a variety of different compounds of this class and that, moreover, use of a radioactive material instead of ultraviolet light appeared to offer "a more efficient method of chlorinating," because its rays are more penetrating.

The research, done with radioactive cobalt, opens up possibilities of using waste fission products which result from the operation of nuclear reactors, he said.

He told reporters about the development in explaining a technical paper on the subject which he read to the Nuclear Science and Engineering Congress (NSE) here.

Martin declared that he and his colleagues have also radioactive cobalt in an attempt to develop a simpler and cheaper method of producing industrially important ammonia from hydrogen and atmospheric nitrogen.

HITLER'S PRIVATE LIFE

Admirals Repulse Ideas By Hitler

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is another in the series on the private life of Adolf Hitler, as told by his personal valet.)

BY HEINZ LINGE

Hitler's Personal Valet

(WORLD COPYRIGHT 1955)

BERLIN — Adolf Hitler was contemptuous of American's military potential, and he held to this belief nearly to the end of the war. He had a certain respect for General Eisenhower — "You can see the German blood in him" — but he referred to the rank and file of the American army as "saloon soldiers."

I recall his remarks after D-Day that the U.S. forces were "spoiled soldiers who need good food and soft conditions before they can fight. My soldiers have fought in the Russian winter," he added, "and are fit for anyone from the West."

Hitler knew nothing in advance of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor, but he was quite pleased when the news was brought to him by the press-monitoring unit. He knew that America would be at war with Germany as well.

"Now," he said, "our submarine fleet will be able to sink on sight every American ship sailing the high seas. They will no longer be able to bring food and supplies to Britain. We don't have to stand back now."

"American help in the first war was of no great value and was late in arriving. This time they will be too late altogether."

He sent for Oshima, the Japanese Ambassador to Germany, and after congratulating him on their victory over the American fleet, asked when Japan was going to attack the Russian mainland.

Oshima replied quite firmly that Japan thought Germany should defeat England first before any full-scale attack on Russia was launched. Japan, the Ambassador said, could not be expected to take on heavier burdens when the Germans themselves still stood aloof from an invasion of Britain.

Later Hitler told me he made it clear to Oshima that he was determined to deal with Russia first. He felt that the Japanese were helping a good deal by tying down British navy and RAF units in the Far East. He became convinced that in jungle warfare the Japs could defeat most European armies. But he was angry again when he heard that among the booty captured on the Russian front were spare parts for weapons and vehicles stamped "Made in Japan."

He called Oshima again and told him bluntly, "Your people are thinking more of doing business with my enemies than of acting as my ally." And the meeting became stormier when Oshima made it clear again that Japan still had no intention of attacking Russia.

The entry of Japan and America into the fighting made the war at sea more important to Germany, although such was the emphasis on the army and Luftwaffe at headquarters that the events at sea were not always clear to us on the staff.

Hitler often said that Germany was not a sea power, still I do remember many of the triumphs and disasters which grasped his attention and I should point out that Hitler had an unusual interest in the Germany navy ever since 1932.

He developed ideas of his own on how fighting ships of the future should look and I saw many sketches he made.

"In future wars," he said to me many times, "it is the air we must watch. Big ships are for parades. Surface ships will become obsolete unless they are very fast and small. Submarines are the fighting ships of the future."

A typical drawing showed a curved top desk with gangways and all light anti-aircraft artillery below. Only the biggest guns and the bridge would be visible.

Opening "Jane's Fighting Ships" and pointing at the superstructure of most battleships, he would say, "All that should be swept away, and everything that can be put below the armored deck should not be left as superstructure to present a perfect target for enemy planes."

Although Hitler talked of his idea on many occasions to senior navy officers and shipbuilders, he was never able to get his ideas adopted.

He watched maneuvers and went into the North Sea on occasions, but never did he travel within sight of the coasts of either Britain or France.

He continued to make drawings of the "battleship of the future," but complained that "I can't put my ideas through the heads of the naval chiefs. They are like my generals who prefer cavalry to tanks."

If anyone was under the impression that Hitler had only to give an order for it to be obeyed, this probably is a good example of the limitations on this idea.

Early in the war, he was advised that the great British carrier, the Ark Royal, had been sunk by the Luftwaffe. The pilot who claimed the kill was sent for and Hitler decorated him with great glee. When a short time later the suspicion arose that the Ark Royal was still serving in the British fleet, he became angry and ordered that no more victories were to be claimed unless witnessed and checked by a number of responsible people.

When Italy entered the war, Hitler was confident the Italian fleet would steam at top speed to seize Gibraltar on the west and close the Suez Canal in the east. He also was convinced that Italy would seize Malta within a few hours of their declaration of war.

But nothing happened, and it was a very angry Hitler who asked Alfieri, the Italian Ambassador, to come to him at Godesberg.

A few hours after the meeting, Hitler told me he had taunted Alfieri with the fact that the Italian army had done nothing in the south of France and now the fleet was standing idle with many prizes to be won.

He said the Ambassador's explanation as to why the army had not been fighting left his speechless.

"He said it was raining!" Hitler exploded. It was several days before he stopped relating this story.

After the fall of Norway, I went with Hitler to Kiel to inspect the Bismarck and Prinz Eugen before they sailed out to raid shipping in the Atlantic. We boarded the Bismarck and sailed a short distance out of the harbor so that the big guns and anti-aircraft batteries could be demonstrated for the Fuehrer. It was the heaviest barrage he had ever seen.

"This is a ship," Hitler said, "which can never be wounded by an enemy." The ship's officers and crew thought the same thing.

After the inspection we returned to Ober Salzberg, where the news came in that the Bismarck had met and conquered Britain's H.M.S. Hood.

Excitedly, Hitler slapped his knee several times and said, "That will show the British what my navy can do."

Thinking it over, he said the British would be after the Bismarck like dogs after a fox, so he gave the order to turn her back to the Norwegian fiords.

But Admiral Luetjens, who had transferred his flag to the Bismarck, replied that he thought they would have a better chance of giving the slip to the pursuing British fleet if they went into the open Atlantic.

Hitler finally agreed—and soon was regretting his decision.

The battle was joined shortly. I will never forget the period that followed. I still call them "Hitler's 36 hours of agony." They were the 36 hours between the minute Hitler heard that the Bismarck had been brought to battle in the Atlantic, until the last message which said she had gone down with her guns firing.

Hour after hour, Hitler paced back and forth in his workroom at the Berghof. As messages came in, he snatched them from the hands of the officers.

Desperately, he had hoped that ships based on the French coast or Luftwaffe bombers would bring help to the cornered battleship, but messages soon reported it was impossible to send ships or U-boats because of the weather and planes were grounded by zero visibility.

Then news came that the Bismarck's steering gear had been damaged by bombs and that the hunt was closing in.

Hitler turned to me and said, "Germany cannot help the Bismarck or her men now. Only the English can do anything."

When all was over, he read and reread the last message from Admiral Luetjens:

"We will shoot to the last. We shall not surrender. We will give our lives for you, mein Fuehrer. Luetjens."

Hitler gave orders immediately afterward that no other big ships should attempt to break out to the open sea.

During the campaign against Allied shipping on the North Sea routes to Murmansk, Hitler told me he had put forward an idea for building small cruisers with a flying deck under which planes could be packed with their wings dismantled. They would then be brought to the flight deck, assembled and catapulted off to attack the convoys.

"When I put the idea up to the navy," Hitler said, "The admirals said to me, 'We cannot do that. The ENGLISH have nothing like that. It is not in the classical tradition.'"

I was present at the lunch table sometime afterward when Hitler had Admiral von Puttkamer, the navy adjutant, as his guest. Hitler had been looking at the news paragraph which announced that the British admiralty had hit on the same idea and were building such ships. He handed the item to the admiral, and said sarcastically:

"Now I suppose we can build the ships I suggested. The English are building them, so I suppose my admirals will think it is now in the classical tradition."

Admiral Puttkamer bit his lips in annoyance but said nothing.

U-boat successes in the Atlantic and the North Sea were mounting and when in 1942 Doenitz had been given command of the U-boat fleet the sinkings reached a peak. Successful U-boat commanders came direct to see Hitler after big successes.

Hitler instructed me to get a supply of photographs of himself mounted in silver frames. Each successful captain was presented with one of these to hang in his cabin. On some of them he wrote: "To my brave U-boat captain," and all of them were autographed.

After 1942, Hitler realized that his chances of strangling England with U-boats was diminishing, due in part to the American navy and supplies from the United States.

Hitler was particularly pleased when he heard that a special school had been opened to train frogmen who could attack British shipping and installations. Their prime targets were to be the bridges across the Thames at London.

Hitler was delighted when he heard that volunteers were coming forward in great numbers for the "Death Commandos." Volunteers were told bluntly that they would be going to almost certain death.

At headquarters we heard the first volunteers had set off for the Thames. Then we had a report they had penetrated the esturary defenses and that Death Commandos had set out upstream.

I don't recall any futher operational reports. But I do remember Hitler remarking that the men who lost their lives on these desperate enterprises "will be the future gods of the German Reich."

Christmas Season For Lawyers Here

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The Christmas season is really here. Municipal Judges Forrest J. Cavalier, Robert D. Nevin and Frank R. Franko made the following appeal to lawyers in an advertisement published yesterday in the Legal News:

"In keeping with the holiday spirit we know that you will want to cooperate with us and not seek to attach the Christmas pay of any defendant. Merry Christmas."

FLEES RED CHINA — Richard Roger Tennson, 22, of Alden, Minn., a turncoat GI who refused repatriation after the Korean war, is shown as he talks to reporters after crossing from Communist China into Hong Kong. Tenneson has been wanting to come back for some time and was only recently granted permission to leave. He made his first attempt to cross the border on Nov. 30. He finally succeeded.

Hollywood Park Takes On Air Of Christmas

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Santa Claus is lined up at the $2 window at Hollywood Park, and there's feverish activity under the grandstand, where, in the good old summertime, the people gamble on the bangtails.

The Post Office Department has taken over much of the racetrack space to sort and handle 100,000 incoming and outgoing Christmas packages daily. Like queues of anxious bettors, packages are lined up in front of the betting windows. The racetrack warehouse serves as a division of the Inglewood post office.

Red Cross Is Given Good Selling Points

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Red Cross had a good selling point for its needy for blood yesterday.

It said it had just sent 37 pints of blood to one hospital in a vain attempt to save the life of a boy.

And on Saturday, it said, it provided 21 pints which helped save the life of another young man.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS

THE REALIGNMENT IN THE Texas schoolboy ranks for 1956-57 seasons is going to be an improvement for some schools while it will work a hardship on others.

But then it's virtually impossible to please everyone. The present setup isn't satisfactory with all, either.

Bob Herdein of the Wichita Falls Record voices the first complaint we've heard on the realignment.

Wichita Falls is in one of the largest districts in the 4A division (7 teams) but the other six teams in the district with her are coming up from the Class 3A ranks. These are Arlington, Denison, Denton, Grand Prairie, Irving and Sherman.

Herdein's pet gripe here and he's probably voicing the opinion of the Wichita Falls school officials, too, is that none of these schools will be good drawing cards.

"Wichita Falls averaged 9,000 paid fans per home game last fall," Herdein said, "but under the new setup we'll do good to average 5,000."

We believe Herdein will be fooled, though, about the drawing powers of the other schools in the Wichita Falls district next year. These schools are capable of playing good football and that, of course, is what fans are primarily interested in. Any school with a good football team is going to draw well, regardless of what its name may be.

We'd much rather see a lesser known school with a good football team play than a "name" school with a poor team. Any of the six schools who'll be in the Wichita Falls district next year probably could have handled Highland Park who was in the WF district this year.

And in most ordinary years, these schools could also hold their own with Tyler, another team in the present WF district.

The loss of Waco will be the most damaging blow to the WF schedule but then the Coyotes could still play them if they so desired. The Coyotes will have three openings for non-district foes.

4 Triple A Champs Moving Up Next Year

Four of the eight Triple-A district champions this year will move up into the 4A bracket next year. They are Texarkana, Temple, Victoria and Alice.

District champions remaining in 3A are Snyder, Garland, Gainesville and Port Neches.

You'll note the two state finalists, Garland and Port Neches, will be around again next season in the Triple-A ranks.

Members of this year's 9-team 1-AAA will be split up next year into your districts.

Only three are remaining in this district although it will be known as 3-AAA next season. The three remaining members are Snyder, Sweetwater and Lamesa. We'll be joined by Colorado City and Lake View of San Angelo.

Four other teams are going into 4A classification. Monterey of Lubbock, Plainview and Palo Duro of Amarillo will go into 1-AAAA along with Lubbock, Amarillo, Borger and Pampa.

Big Spring will join Abilene, Midland, Odessa and San Angelo in 3-AAAA.

The other two members, Levelland and Vernon, are staying 3A but will be in different districts. Levelland will join 1-AAA with Dumas, Hereford, Littlefield and Phillips.

Vernon will go into 4-AAA with Breckenridge, Graham, Mineral Wells and Weatherford.

Under the new alignment, the Tigers next year will be meeting two Class 4A schools and eight 3A elevens. The 4A opponents will be Borger and Big Spring.

Snyder's Grant Teaff Wins Another Honor

With only five teams in the district next year, there will be no need of scheduling district games before Christmas as was necessary this year.

In other words, the Tiger footballers can go all the way next year and still not weaken the chances of the basketballers going all the way.

The basketball season, of course, would get off to a belated start but there would still be about a month's time to whip the cagers in shape before the conference schedule starts.

We don't mean to be hoggish about the whole thing but we'd like to see the Tigers go "all the way" in every sport they partake in.

Snyder's Grant Teaff, who recently wound up a brilliant college grid career at McMurry, has been named on the Dallas News' "Super All-College" second team in Texas.

This team doesn't include palyers from the Southwest Conference but all other colleges in Texas representing the Lone Star, Texas and Gulf Coast conferences and independent colleges.

Teaff, as you'll recall, was named on the All-Texas Conference team and Honorable Mention for Little All-America.

Kermit Grid Coach Cancels Resignation

KERMIT, Tex. (AP)—Max Jones will continue as head football coach of Kermit High School.

Jones decided to withdraw a resignation he submitted Nov. 20. He said he had done so because of the unexpected reaction of a large segment of Kermit football fans. "I was flattered by the action of many persons who indicated they wanted me to continue as Kermit High School's football coach," he explained.

George Wardman, with a five under par 66, holds the course record for amateur golfers at Bermuda's Mid-Ocean Club. He shot his record breaking score in 1952.

Tiger 5 Preps For Mustangs

Unable to schedule a game for his charges, Tiger basketball coach J. P. Ward sent the Bengal quint through a lengthy drill yesterday.

The Tigers are bearing down in their workouts as the District 1-AAA slate opens for them Friday night when they meet Sweetwater at Tiger Gym.

Coach Ward was in Sweetwater last night scouting the Mustangs against the Abilene Eagles. Sweetwater defeated the Eagles, 62-61. Dale McKeenhan, stringbean Mustang center, canned the winning field goal for the mustangs in the waning seconds of play.

Jerry Lamm, however, led the Sweetwater scorers with 19 points. McKeehan followed with 17 and Bubba Meyer of football fame had 16.

Don McNew, Tiger lettermen, has joined the squad. McNew reinjured his knee in the final football game against Garland and missed last week's two games in the Canyon Reef Tounament.

McNew, although he still isn't in top physical shape, may see limited duty Friday night against Sweetwater.

Another returning letterman, Jack Spikes, has been working out with the team although he still has a cast on his broken hand. Spikes isn't due to see any action untfl after the Christmas holidays.

The District 1-AAA race, meanwhile got underway last night with Palo Duro of Amarillo and Vernon registering opening night victories.

Palo Duro swamped Big Spring, 82-49, at Big Spring while Vernon edged Lamesa, 39-36, at Vernon.

Robert Echols and Robert Hoover each bucketed 20 points to lead Palo Duro. Jim Bice was high for Big Spring with 18.

Doyle Chapman of Lamesa was high scorer in the game at Vernon with 13 points. Junior Butler and Jim Lindsey had 11 points apiece for Vernon scoring honors.

In other games involving 1-AAA teams last night, Monterey of Lubbock lost to Odessa, 52-62 while Levelland defeated Midland, 61-48.

Phillips 66ers Drub Longhorns, 108-91

By The Associated Press

Texas Christian and Texas A&M, two Southwest Conference basketball teams who have garnered more losses than victories so far this season, make another attempt to better their records Wednesday night.

The Horned Frogs take on Kentucky Wesleyan at Fort Worth while the Aggies are hosts to the University of Houston at College Station in the only two games involving conference squads.

The Texas Longhorns, only conference team active Tuesday night, took a 108-91 trouncing from the Phillips 66 Oilers at Austin.

The Longhorns managed to hold the pace in the first seven minutes of the game but they couldn't contain Chuck Darling, who swished 24 points through the hoops, and the other rangy Oilers who used their height to take 65 rebounds to 34 for the Steers.

The loss gave Texas a 2-3 season record. The Aggies enter Wednesday night's game with a 2-3 record while the Frogs to date boast of only one victory against four losses.

Thursday night Arkansas, which has three losses without a single victory, meets Oklahoma at Norman and the Longhorns head for the Blue-Gray Tournament at Montgomery, Ala.

The Southern Methodist Mustangs, with the second best record in the loop, seek their sixth victory against Kansas at Dallas Saturday night, while the Christians meet Tulsa at Tulsa.

NC Fires Barclay

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—George Barclay, who earned All America honors as a guard at North Carolina but couldn't win enough games as the scholl's head football coach, has been released.

Athletic Director C. P. (Chuck) Erickson and Chancellor Robert B. House announced jointly yesterday that Barclay's three-year contract, which expires Dec. 31, will not be renewed.

At the same time, Barclay's four assistants were dismissed, leaving the way open for his successor to name his own staff.

Barclay, who came here in 1952 as assistant to Carl Snavely and took over as head coach when Snavely was fired at the end of that season, posted an 11-18-1 record in his three years.

Speculation immediately centered on Maryland Coach Jim Tatum as Barclay's successor—although university officials insist that no successor has been discussed.

Tatum only Monday reminded reporters that he had denied plans to move to North Carolina.

Barclay and Tatum played together at North Carolina in the early 1930s.

Newcomers Strengthen Navy Gator Squad

GALVESTON (AP)—Phil Bucklew, coach of the Navy Gator football team which meets Fort Hood in the Shrimp Bowl here Dec. 18, says his squad will be strengthened by several new players.

The Gators, already one of the best in the Navy, will be adding several well known former college grid stars when it begins practice here this weekend.

Perhaps the best known of the new players is Joseph Wojtys, a six-foot, 220-pounder who won All-America recognition during his playing days at Purdue. Wojtys is a tackle.

Louis A. Florio, another tackle who played four years at Boston College, is a 235-pounder who will bolster the Navy line in their clash with the fearsome Tankers.

William Connolly, a 205-pound guard, played two years at University of Massachusetts. Another addition, end John McKee, attended Mississippi State and played four years.

An ex-Vanderbilt ace, William J. Ray, has been added as a fullback. He's a 200-pounder.

This will be the second bowl game of the season for the Navy team. They defeated the Norfolk Navy Tars, 33-0, in the Red Feather Bowl at Norfolk in November. In that game, which matched two of the Navy's best Eastern Seaboard teams, the Gators collected 240 yards rushing to a minus eight for the Tars and 100 yards passing to 69 for Norfolk.

Marquette Readies For SF Don Tilt

By BEN OLAN
The Associated Press

The San Francisco Dons, winners of 29 straight games and the nation's top-ranked college basketball team, may be headed straight into a Marquette ambush. Even the Warriors' coach admits, "This is the season for upsets."

Unbeaten Marquette, which meets San Francisco Friday night in Chicago, increased its winning streak to four games last night by tripping Miami of Ohio 71-65. The Warriors had to come from behind to do it.

The Dons were idle. But North Carolina State, rated No. 2, clubbed Clemson 100-83 for its 17th straight victory and fifth of the season. And Duquesne, No. 6, made it five in succession by routing St. Francis (Pa.) 63-48.

In other games, George Washington defeated West Virginia 94-79 despite Hot Rod Hundley's 40 points. Illinois beat Notre Dame 103-93. Bradley nipped Canisius 73-66 and Michigan State trounced Southern Illinois 99-71.

Marquette, which trailed until the final five minutes, may have been looking ahead to the San Francisco game. At any rate, the Warriors needed a jump shot from sophomore Al Avant to put them ahead 56-55. And there they stayed.

The Dons-Warriors meeting will be the opener of the DePaul Invitational Tournament. The winner will meet the survivor of the second Duquesne-DePaul tilt.

The Dukes from Pittsburgh got only 15 points from big Si Green, who normally goes over the 20 mar. But after trailing 16-15 they moved out in front to stay on Mickey Winograd's basket.

N. C. State, capitalizing on the fine shooting and fancy floorwork of guards Vic Molodet and Phil Dinardo, jumped into a 5-0 lead over Clemson and breezed home.

While Hundley ran wild for West Virginia, four George Washington players scored in double figures.

Illinois' point total was the largest ever made against Notre Dame. The Illini got hot in the second half, hitting on 19 and 33 shots from the field.

Frosh Ameche Is Pro Rushing Champ

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Rookie Alan (The Horse) Ameche of the Baltimore Colts and retiring veteran Otto Graham of the Cleveland Browns captured the two big offense titles for 1955 in the National Football League.

Ameche became the first freshman to win the ball carrying title since Bill Paschal of the New York Giants did it in 1943 while Graham made his swan-song season with the Browns another year atop the league's passers, final NFL statistics showed today.

Ameche, former All-America from Wisconsin, lived up to his preseason billing as he ground out 961 yards in 213 carries, an average of 4.5 yards. Howie Ferguson of Green Bay was second with 859 yards on 192 carries, also for a 4.5 average. The league's best average per carry went to Dick Casares of the Chicago Bears with 672 yards on 125 runs, an average of 5.4.

Sahe Average

Last year's ball carrying leader, Joe Perry of San Francisco, also had a 4.5 average on 156 carries for 701 yards.

Graham tossed the ball 185 times, completed 98 for a gain of 1,721 yards—an average gain per pass attempt of 9.30 and a completion average of 53 per cent. Bobby Layne of Detroit also had a 53 per cent completion average but he gained only 6.78 yards per toss.

Ed Brown of the Chicago Bears tossed 164, completed 85, gained 1,307 yards for an average of 7.97 yards per pass attempt, second best in the league. Jim Finks of Pittsburgh was the total passing yardage leader with 2,270 in 344 attempts, 168 completions, for a 48 per cent completion average and an average gain of 6.60.

Pete Pihos, retiring from the Philadelphia Eagles, finished atop the pass receivers for the third successive year with 62 catches for 864 yards and 7 TDs. He edged Bill Wilson who gained 834 yards on 53 receptions and 7 TDs for San Francisco. Harlon Hill of the Chicago Bears caught nine touchdown passes, high for the league in that division.

Other leaders:

Doak Walker, Detroit, scoring, 96 points; Norm Van Brocklin, Los Angeles, punting 44.6 yards per boot; Ollie Matson, Chicago Cardinals, punt returns, 13 for an average of 18.8 yards; Al Carmichael, Green Bay, kickoff returns, 14 for an average of 29.9 yards, and Willard Sherman, Los Angeles, interceptions, 11 for 101 yards total.

Score Is AL's Top Rookie

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK (AP)—Herb Score of the Cleveland Indians, who fanned 245 batters to set a record for most strikeouts by a pitcher in his first major league season, was named the American League's 1955 Rookie of the Year today.

The 22-year-old stylish southpaw received 18 votes in the balloting of the 24 committeemen of the Baseball Writers Assn. Three writers from each of the eight American League cities made up the committee.

Only two other players received votes. Infielder Billy Klaus of the Boston Red Sox was picked got five and first baseman Norm Zauchin, also of the Red Sox, one.

Score's strikeout mark eclipsed the previous record of 227, established by Grover Cleveland Alexander in his rookie season with the Philadelphia Phils in 1911. Score, a 6-2, 185-pound fast-baller won 16 games and lost 10. He ranked fourth in earned run listings with a 2.85 average.

He was signed to a bonus contract by the Indians for an estimated $60,000 in June 1952. He posted a 22-5 won-lost record for Indianapolis during the 1954 season, striking out 330 batters for an American Assn. record.

Klaus, a peppery shortstop who failed to make the grade in the National League after trials with the Braves and the New York Giants, was instrumental in Boston's successful season. He hit .283.

Writers Honor 3 In Boxing

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP) — Welterweight champion Carmen Basilio, rookie welterweight Bob Murphy of Boston and publicity man Harry Mendel today were named to receive the Boxing Writers Assn.'s three main awards.

Basilio, 28-year-old ex-Marine from Chittenango, N. Y., was voted the Edward J. Neil Memorial Plaque as Fighter of the Year.

Murphy, undefeated, 22-year-old 147-pound prospect, was chosen Rookie of the Year.

Mendel, 62-year-old former promoter, matchmaker and newspaperman, was singled out for the James J. Walker Memorial Plaque, "for long and meritorious service to boxing over a period of years."

The award-winning trio will be honored at the BWA's annual dinner Jan. 19.

Basilio, a pro eight years, won the 147-pound crown from Tony DeMarco by stopping the hard-hitting Bostonian in the 12th round of a thrilling fight in Syracuse June 10. He is unbeaten in his last 15 fights over a two-year span. His record is 48-11.

"It's a real surprise and I'm terribly happy," said Basilio when informed of the award at Waynesboro, Ga. "Whoever would have thought three or four years ago that I'd be picked for such a great honor?" Basilio is bird hunting in South Georgia.

Murphy, Army veteran of Korea, turned pro this year. The onetime star high school infielder and halfback won his first 14 fights, 10 by knockouts, and showed he was ready to step up in class by holding experienced Chico Vejar to a draw in Boston last Saturday night.

Mendel, popular with sports writers, has been connected with boxing for over 45 years. He is publicity man for the International Boxing Club.

Eagle Day, Mississippi quarterback, averaged 41.7 yards on 11 punts against Georgia and Kentucky this season.

Prairie View In 28th Bowl Tilt

HOUSTON (AP)—Back before they even thought about the Sugar, Orange and Cotton Bowls the Prairie View Bowl was originated.

It is the only bowl game that has a permanent host team—Prairie View AM College always plays in it.

It was 1929 when this bowl game saw the light of day with Prairie View playing and losing to Atlanta University.

It will go on for the twenty-eighth time here Jan. 2 and since that beginning Prairie View has won 16 games, lost 9 and tied 2.

This time Prairie View will be playing Fisk University of Nashville.

The Prairie View Bowl is the second oldest bowl. Only the Rose Bowl, started in 1902, is older.

Manager Casey Stengel of the Yankees used more players this year than he had used in five previous World Series. He used 24 different men in the first four games. In 1951 he used 21 Yankees.

Snyder Jr. Hi 5s Win 2 Off Lamesa

Snyder Junior High's two basketball teams swept a doubleheader from Lamesa yesterday afternoon at the local junior high gym, the 8th graders winning by 30-24 and the 7th graders by 31-16.

Dick Hayes and Berry Walker led the Snyder 8th graders with 10 points apiece. Hayes hit five field goals while Walker canned three from the field and four from the free throw line.

Dick Westmoreland led Lamesa 8th with six points.

Victory Bell Silent

SEGUIN, Tex. (AP)—They oiled Texas Lutheran College's "victory bell" this week—to keep it from rusting and just in case the Lutherans basketball squad beats St. Mary's University tomorrow night.

The bell has not rung since May 12 when the baseball team eked out a 2-1 victory.

The bell was silent all fall as the football team lost seven games and tied one.

Jimmy Don Robinson was high for the Snyder 7th grade team with 10 points, coming on three field goals and four free tosses.

Eddie McNeil, with six points, led the Lamesa 7th grade five.

Cast Removed From Leg Of Ronnie Knox

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The cast has come off UCLA tailback Ronnie Knox's broken leg and his physician says he may be able to play against Michigan State in the Rose Bowl game.

Dr. Walter Scott said x-rays showed the fractured fibula above the right ankle was healing normally without any complications.

Knox broke the bone in the opening minutes of the Washington game. He will be on crutches the rest of this week but will watch Bruin practice sessions. He will wear a hiking boot with a special built-in support to test the leg.
