SEVERAL HURT BADLY TODAY IN BLAZE

SPECTATORS, FIREMEN BURIED BY WRECKAGE AT GAINESVILLE

(By Associated Press)

GAINESVILLE, May 18—Two men were killed and several others were injured probably fatally early today when the front wall of a burning building collapsed, burying firemen and spectators.

The dead:

H. C. Talley, 37, foreman of the Texas Power & Light Co.

Wayne Williams, 28, railroad telegraph operator.

William Block, Erick Giles, Raymond Powell, Morris Finley all of Gainesville, were injured seriously, and were taken to a sanitarium.

Robert Young, truck driver, residing at Marysville, 25 miles northwest of Gainesville, was probably fatally injured. He had just stepped on the sidewalk when the wall fell on him, badly crushing his body.

Origin Unknown

The fire, of unknown origin, started about 1 a. m. and was still burning at 7:30.

The building, housing the Trew Bros. Motor Co., and the Kennerly Hardware Co., buildings were destroyed with loss estimated at $100,000.

Talley had just finished cutting light wires above the Trew building and had slid down a pole to the ground when the wall collapsed.

Search For Victims

Firemen were trying to get into the ruins to search for several other men reported to have been caught when the wall collapsed.

Damage to the Trew Co., was estimated at $40,000 and stocks and the building of the hardware company suffered an estimated $80,000 loss.

Firemen at 8 a. m. had succeeded in removing sufficient debris from the sidewalk to determine that no more bodies were buried there. Block, member of the hardware firm and also a volunteer fireman, had said he believed others were buried there.

WHEAT PARLEY OPENS TODAY

SEEK TO ALLEVIATE WORLD SURPLUS IN LONDON MEETING

BY TOM WILHELM,
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, May 18. (AP)—Howard Ferguson, Canadian high commissioner, convened the world wheat conference here today, outlinings in his inaugural speech broad methods of alleviating the world surplus. Delegates of 11 wheat exporting countries were in attendance.

At the outset, Mr. Ferguson termed disposal of surplus wheat stock a matter of outstanding importance to the world, explaining that the wheat growing industry contained two essential problems, that the wheat reach the customers when required and that the producer get a reasonable price for his product.

"Low prices," he said, "have a tendency to correct themselves—acreage shrinks and business decline shortens supplies and raises prices.

"The result is dearer bread. Our efforts must be directed to help the fathers get a fair wage and maintain their families without overcharging their fellow workers who must buy bread."

Ferguson said that the conference should delve into possible better ways of bringing the customer and producer together.

Church Burning Is Condemned By Pope

VATICAN CITY, May 18 (AP) — Riots and incendiarism over all of Spain during the past ten days in which churches and church buildings have been sacked and burned are considered by Pope Pius XI to be "sacrileges against God and holy religion."

A heavy responsibility exists on the malefactors and upon those "who allowed these things to take place and have not hindered them," the pontiff said in his first public utterance on the subject, to a group of Spanish pilgrims headed by the auxiliary bishop of Valencia, Sunday.

"Certainly conditions in Spain were already too much compromised and menaced by many evils without need that there be added these violences these sacrileges against God and the holy religion," he said.

PLEADINGS IN LIBEL CASE STARTED

FRED SPIKES SEEKING $200,000 DAMAGES IN SUIT HERE

Pleadings in the $200,000 libel action of Fred Spikes vs. J. Evetts Haley and the Capitol Reservation Lands and its trustees were begun in Ninety-Ninth district court this morning by G. E. Lockhart, attorney for the defendant and E. L. Klett, attorney for the syndicate. The latter had completed his discussion at noon and Judge Clark M. Mullican, presiding, announced recess until 1:30 when George W. Dupree, for J. Evetts Haley, was to begin his pleadings.

The jury assembled at 10 o'clock Opening for the plaintiff, Mr. Lockhart outlined the position of his client on the matter of the alleged libel, read the pages in the chapter of the "History of the XIT Ranch" complained of and cited other statements in the book and index to substantiate.

"Mr. Spikes has been in business in this city for 25 years" he said, "and has been known as an upright citizen". He pointed out that publication of the book had had an effect upon Mr. Spikes reputation and standing as a citizen of this community, and in the communities where he has lived.

Judge Klett, introduced the several members of the legal staff of both sides, the plaintiff, one of the defendants, J. Evetts Haley who was present, and others. He maintained, that from a historical standpoint Haley had been employed to write a history of the properties owned by the syndicate and that Haley had spent a good portion of two years in his investigation of the history of the ranch. "We deny any intention of malice," he stated. Publication of the book, he claimed, was privileged. Some of the results of the investigation made since the filing of the suit, were outlined in the pleadings.

Night Watchman Is Charged In Slaying

WHARTON, May 18 (AP) — A charge of murder against Night Watchman Lee Jenkins, 24, after a man was slain during an attempted holdup of a filling station here, was referred to the grand jury which convened here today.

Justice W. F. Neal released Jenkins on $250 bond after the charge was filed at Jenkins' request.

According to Sheriff J. C. Willis, the grand jury will be in session two weeks.

Three Negroes Are Taken To Prison

Three negroes, including Ed Harris and Will Fulcher, were taken to the state penitentiary at Huntsville today by a prison agent.

DEATH BRINGS THE AERIAL CAREER OF CHARLES "SPEED" HOLMAN TO END

(By The Associated Press)

OMAHA, Neb., May 18.—Death has brought to a close the aerial career of Charles W. "Sped" Holman, 33, of St. Paul, whose name for years had been high in the list of American aviators. He was killed yesterday while stunting upside down at a height of only 20 feet at the Omaha air races. Death was instantaneous. Twenty thousand spectators saw him die.

His own magnanimity, his friends said, was the indirect cause of the death of the St. Paul aviator whose stunts in the air had thrilled thousands during the past decade. During a lull in the closing day program, Holman volunteered to go aloft and stunt for the capacity holiday crowd. A stiff, treacherous wind was blowing above the field. For fifteen minutes he had delighted the crowd with his sky antics. Barrel-rolls, outside loops, imelman turns, each in turn, brought spectators to their feet.

Crash Heard

Then a thunderous crash was heard as his plane fell. It rolled, plowed and bounced its way along for 200 fet before it stopped.

The engine was thrown two feet to one side and Holman's body was thrown ten feet from the battered shapeless wreckage.

No official verdict on the cause of the fatal crash had been reached today. Some official observers believed Holman's safety belt broke, allowing him to fall partly out of the cockpit and lose his grip on the controls as his ship skimmed crazily along the earth; others thought that the plane was caught in a down current of air and was unable to right itself because of the pressure from above.

Alleged Roadhouse For Students Is Raided Here

WOMAN CHARGED WITH BEER POSSESSION FOLLOWING RAID

Described by Sheriff Wade Hardy as a roadhouse catering to college students, a residence in northwest Lubbock was raided Sunday night by city and county officers.

A large quantity of beer and some equipment for brewing were found, Sheriff Hardy said. Mrs. Etta Mann, alleged operator of the place, was arrested and subsequently charged in Justice of the Peace H. K. Porter's court with possession of beer for purpose of sale.

Others Arrested

Several persons were arrested at the house, which is in Friend's addition, for intoxication, Sheriff Hardy said.

A small crowd in the house when it was raided consisted principally of Texas Technological college students, and several automobile-loads of other persons arrived during the raid, the sheriff said. Beer was being served at tables when the raiders arrived, the sheriff said.

Mrs. Mann, mother of a 19-year-old daughter and several younger children, was in city jail this morning.

"Nig" Johnson was arrested here Saturday night by police on liquor charges against him at Fort Worth. Johnson was in city jail this morning.

THREE NARROWLY ESCAPE AS CAR DIVES INTO POOL

A 5-year-old boy and two girls narrowly escaped injury Sunday afternoon when a small sedan into which the boy had climbed rolled down an incline and plunged into a pool at Buffalo Springs.

The little boy, Joe Thomas Glaze, had gone to his father's car to get his bathing suit. He was believed to have accidentally kicked the gear into neutral as he leaned over the front seat.

Because of the incline on which it was parked, the machine had been left in reverse, the boy's mother, Mrs. S. J. Glaze, said. The diving sedan barely missed two girls who were in the pool, a witness said.

George Glaze, 17-year-old brother of Joe Thomas, dived into the pool and rescued the small boy. Both Mr. and Mrs. Glaze saw the accident, which occurred at about 4:30 p. m.

The automobile, which was reported not to have overturned, was pulled from the pool.

The Glazes live at 1921 Twenty-fourth street.

Buffalo Springs is about 12 miles southeast of here.

Refused Permission To View Earl Quinn

KANSAS CITY, May 18 (AP) — Capt. Jeff Griffith of the Blackwell, Okla., police force today was refused permission to view Earl Quinn, 30-year-old ex-convict, held here as the slayer of the officer's two daughters, Zexia, 34, and Jessie, 24.

"Purely a precautionary measure," Chief of Police L. M. Siegfried said in explanation of the refusal. Siegfried said Griffith, who is accompanied by Patrolman Roy Burger of Blackwell, is convinced Quinn is the man who killed his two daughters Dec. 28 near Tonkawa as they were returning to their schools from a Christmas at home.

Jerry Kent Awaits Outcome Of Appeal

BAIRD, May 18 (AP)—Jerry Kent, 19, Cross Plains youth convicted of murder for the slaying of his uncle, Bob Ensor of Cross Plains, and given a 40-year sentence, today awaited the outcome of an appeal after District Judge Milburn S. Long Saturday denied a motion for new trial.

The hearing resulted in the filing of perjury charges against two witnesses, J. P. Hill and E. T. Hudnall, who live near Rising Star.

"JAKE THE BARBER" SOUGHT BY LAW AND LAWLESS FOR ALLEGED SWINDLE

(By The Associated Press)

CHICAGO May 18—Reports were current today that John Factor, known as "Jake the Barber," alleged swindler of English stock investors, was sought by the lawless as well as the law.

The Chicago Daily Tribune said a price had been set on Factor's head by Jack (Legs) Diamond, New York gangster and quoted federal agents as fearing he might be slain before he could be arrested for extradition to England, where he is accused of defrauding investors of several millions of dollars.

At Odds With "Legs"

"Jake the Barber", reputed to have made big money illegally since he closed up his cut rate shop in Halsted street, was at odds with Diamond, the Tribune said, because of his failure to split the profits of a stock selling scheme after Diamond had "grubstaked" him on a trip to England.

The story was that Factor accepted Diamond's aid at a time when the former barber was in trouble over Florida land deals, went to Europe rolled up a fortune, but forgot all about dividing with the New York gangster. It recalled that Diamond tried unsuccessfully to enter England last Summer and described this trip as an attempt to have a showdown with Factor.

SEVEN TRY TO BREAK CITY JAIL HERE

PRISONERS ARE HEARD SAWING BARS EARLY SUNDAY MORNING

An attempt to escape from city jail was frustrated about 12:30 a. m. Sunday after two bars in a west window of the jail had been cut.

Prisoners were heard sawing on the bars Saturday, and a guard armed with a shotgun Saturday night was posted outside of the jail.

Saw Blades Found

Search of cells after daylight Sunday resulted in finding of two hacksaw blades. Prisoners had not attempted to take out the bars until late Saturday night. Officers decided to await a move on the part of the inmates, as they believed there would be little chance of finding the sawblades before daylight.

Hearing sawing of the bars, officers posted a guard outside the jail. Shortly after midnight, a prisoner stuck his head through the window. The second time he did so, he learned that the window was being guarded.

Investigation indicated that seven prisoners intended to make the break for freedom, Chief of Police John Lemond said. Identity of the ring-leader had not been determined, he said.

More stringent rules pertinent to visitors at the jail were ordered by the chief of police.

No arrest had been made this morning in connection with smuggling of the hacksaw blades into the jail.

Attempt To Solve Slaying Of Agent

CLARKSDALE, Miss., May 18 (AP) —The federal government massed all its available forces from Birmingham to New Orleans in north Mississippi today to solve the slaying of Deputy United States Marshal Clyde Rivers, the second federal officer killed in the state within a month in rum warfare.

"We will work together on this case until every man involved is punished," North Mississippi Deputy Prohibition Administrator E. S. Chapman said.

"The killing of Rivers makes the seventh government representative in Mississippi who has sacrificed his life in an effort to combat crime and lawlessness which is continually growing more menacing."

LUBBOCK COUNTY BOY IS INJURED

A severe laceration of the scalp and possibly a fractured skull were suffered shortly before noon by Willie Melton, 15-year-old nephew of Mr. and Mrs. G. Hildreth, living four miles from her near the Slaton highway.

Blade of an ax the boy was using in repairing a fence on his uncle's farm came off the handle and struck him on the head. He was conscious shortly after noon at West Texas hospital, where he was undergoing x-ray photography.

Extent of his injuries would not be determined until the x-ray pictures were examined, hospital attaches said.

Minor Thefts Are Reported To Cops

Several thefts were reported to police last week-end.

Felix Summers of 1211 Sixteenth street told police Saturday night that an automobile tire belonging to him had been stolen at the Uptown Dance palace.

Theft Sunday of a tan leather purse containing $16, and of small change belonging to another person from Mrs. R. J. Williams' home at 1511 Main street was reported. Two men seen leaving the house were pursued but escaped.

A .12 gauge shotgun and a revolver in an army scabbard belonging to H. B. O'Neall of 2405 Tenth street were reported stolen.

HOME RULE IS DEFEATED IN VOTE TODAY

RESOLUTION FAILS TO GET MAJORITY VOTE FOR SUBMISSION

(By The Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 18.—Pushed to a vote in the senate today the Beck home rule resolution failed to procure the necessary two-thirds majority for submission of proposed constitutional amendments. The vote was 16 to 9.

Rules for submission of proposed constitutional amendments require the vote of two-thirds of the members.

The Beck resolution would allow consolidation of city and county governments in counties of 75,000 and above. As brought to the senate, the population figure was fixed at 60,000, a senate amendment raising it.

Senator Moore of Greenville, who opposed the Beck plan throughout, said if proponents would raise the population figure to 150,000 as carried in the resolution when introduced in the house, and allow smaller counties by petition to ask imposition of the home rule instead of requiring them to get permission from the legislature, he would not oppose the proposed amendment.

Moore charged the resolution had not been explained to the senators. He said if larger counties could consolidate their governments without permission from the legislature, smaller counties should be permitted to do likewise or else the proposed amendment should be killed.

Negroes Charged In Attempted Assault

Charges of attempted assault were filed today in county court against Leroy and Theodore Struggs, negro brothers following their arrests this morning by the sheriff's department.

The two negroes were accused of chasing another negro with a knife here last night.

STRONGER PRO LAWS SEEN

W. C. T. U. SAYS TREND TOWARD STRENGTH IN PLACE OF REPEAL

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 18.—A trend in state legislatures toward strengthening of prohibition laws instead of repeal was seen today by the Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

In a statement the organization said in the last 10 years 22 states "have strengthened enforcement laws; only five states have repealed their laws."

"Despite tremendous wet propaganda," the statement asserted, "the wets have shown negligible political strength. New Jersey is a fine example of wet failure. The wet resolutions and bills at Trenton in the legislature just adjourned comprised the entire gamut of wet proposals, from outright repeal to an expression favoring Dwight Morrow's plan to revise the Eighteenth amendment. The legislature adjourned with the entire collection of wet resolutions dead in committee."

In the last year and a half, the W. C. T. U. said, repeal attempts were defeated in California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Missouri, New Jersey Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, Rhode Island and Utah.

HELD CONSTITUTIONAL

PRO LAW BILL SIGNED BY STERLING

SUSPENDED SENTENCE ALLOWED VIOLATORS OVER TWENTY-FIVE

(By Associated Press)

AUSTIN, May 18—Governor Ross S. Sterling today signed 35 bills, including the Weinert proposal to give liquor law violators over 25 years old the benefit of the suspended sentence law. Liquor law violators under 25 already were entitled to suspended sentences.

When it was considered in the house, the Weinert bill was the object of a spirited attack by B. J. Forbes, minister-member from Weatherford, who claimed it was "dripping wet."

Supporters of the bill maintained it was intended to give the liquor law violator the same chance as the violator of nearly every other law where the maximum penalty was five years.

Given Adverse Report

The bill was given an adverse committee report in the senate but that body overrode its committee.

The Woodward water priority bill was signed by the governor. It would give municipal and domestic users of water from Texas streams priority over irrigationists and power companies with the power company rights last.

Other new laws created a commission for the Texas centennial of 1936 and required that buses and street cars in cities of more than 20,000 people grant half fares to school children.

Local Doctor Makes Call In Airplane

Chartering an airplane at municipal airport, Dr. V. V. Clark of Lubbock made an emergency trip Sunday afternoon to attend J. D. Bruce at Estelline.

Ben Branson, local pilot, operated the ship. The roundtrip of more than 300 miles was made in 2 hours 2 minutes. Doyce Clark accompanied his father.

An hour and 30 minutes was spent in Estelline. The trio landed at municipal air port here at 6 p. m.

PRESIDENT OF SOUTH PLAINS BANKERS IS SHOOTING VICTIM

(Special To The Journal)

BROWNFIELD, May 18. — Morgan L. Copeland, president of the South Plains Bankers association, shot and killed himself shortly after 8 o'clock this morning in the Brownfield State bank.

A coroner's' verdict of suicide was returned by Justice of the Peace E. L. Shelton. Funeral arrangements had not been completed.

About 35 years old, Copeland was cashier of the State bank, with which he had been affiliated here since 1920.

Poor Health Blamed

Despondency as a result of poor health, and the critical condition of his mother, Mrs. W. M. Copeland, was believed to have led to his act. The bank is in sound condition financially, County Attorney W. M. Price and bank officials said.

Ben Hillard and Leo Holmes, bank employes, said Copeland acted queerly when he walked into the bank shortly after 8 a. m. as it was being opened for business.

Shot In Head

Going to the rear of the banking rooms Copeland entered a telephone booth. A few moments later a shot was heard.

The two men found Copeland slumped on the floor, a revolver bullet in his head.

"Morgan never said a word as he came into the bank," an employe said.

"He acted queerly, but as he had been sick we thought nothing of it."

In addition to his parents, Doctor and Mrs. W. M. Copeland, who came here from Ralls with their sons about 1918, Copeland is survived by:

His widow, a son three or four years old, and a brother, Andrew Copeland, vice-president of the bank here.

Active In County

Active in Brownfield and Terry county affairs, Morgan Copeland had been a leader in organization of pig clubs and 4-H club boys in the county.

At the recent annual meeting at Big Spring of the South Plains Bankers association, he was elected president of the group.

Doctor Copeland, his father, practiced medicine here until a few years ago.

LUBBOCK IS IN NEW LEAGUE

FOUR CLUBS TO OPEN PANHANDLE LEAGUE NEXT WEDNESDAY

The Amarillo Daily News said today that a Panhandle baseball league has been organized with four West Texas clubs opening the season Wednesday, June 10. The clubs, Lubbock, Amarillo, Pampa and Plainview, will attempt to rush plans during the next two weeks in order that opening games may be played at night, the News states.

The entrance of Lubbock in the new league, to be known as the Panhandle Baseball league, came as a surprise to local fandom. Not until the announcement was made in the Amarillo paper was it hazarded here that Lubbock would be represented in the league, due to a lack of interest on the part of fans and the failure of any local man or group of men to take any interest in managing or sponsoring a team. At the same time, Lubbock has been mentioned frequently in proposals for a West Texas baseball organization.

Owns Local Team

The News states that Harry Wanderling, former power in the Western League, Western Association and one of the organizers of the West Texas League in 1928, is the owner of the Lubbock club, holding the franchise for a Panhandle league team here. Wanderling is expected to arrive in Lubbock this

Sheffield Case Is Set For June 15th

The case of C. A. Sheffield, local hotel manager facing a charge of negligent homicide, this morning was set for trial in county court June 15 by agreement of the prosecution and defense counsel.

An accident in which an automobile driven by Sheffield here struck and killed a 17-year-old girl and seriously injured a 22-year-old man resulted in the charge against the hotel manager.

Other criminal cases were set for trial in this morning's session at which County Judge E. L. Pitts presided.

Some were set for this week and several others for the week of June 15, County Attorney Vaughn Wilson said.

ORCHESTRA DROWNS OUT SHOTS WHEN MAN SHOOTS TWO, COMMITS SUICIDE

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, May 12 — While the orchestra at a fashionable night club here drowned out the noise of the shots, Robert S. Montgomery, aged 25, yesterday wounded one man, killed a policeman and then committed suicide.

Police sought today to establish a satisfactory motive from the mass of evidence. They said the most plausible, advanced by Montgomery's relatives, was that the member of the prominent New York and Boston family had broken under the strain of preparing for an examination to become a certified public accountant.

Young Montgomery, witnesses said, was refused a table in the night club early Sunday and left to return a few minutes later. After an argument, he wounded Charles Carbett, the club manager.

As Montgomery ran toward the door, Jesse Taylor, a policeman, blocked the stairway. Two bullets killed Taylor.

Montgomery fled outside the club, stopped behind a taxicab and shot himself twice. He died before his ambulance reached the hospital.

Coroner J. Ramsey Nevitt held no inquest was necessary. He issued certificates of murder and suicide.

WEST TEXAS GOLF WILL REACH ITS CLIMAX HERE THIS WEEK

SPYING ON SPORTS

—in a few days Lubbock again will take on the aspect of a convention city when golfers from many points of West Texas gather for the annual W. T. G. A. championship tournament.

* * *

Due to the large number of local entries a special qualifying round for them may be held Wednesday, preceding the opening of the tournament proper on Thursday.

* * *

One of the many nice things about this year's tournament lies in the fact that Lubbock's two leading golf clubs have united in a common cause and in a common effort to keep the championship, or bring the championship to this fair city. The action of the Meadowbrook officials in joining the West Texas association is to be heartily commended.

* * *

This afternoon at 5 o'clock four college track teams will engage in a "conference" track meet here. If you like track, particularly college track games, you will have the opportunity today to see some of the best in this section. Only Tech athletes will be running and jumping, but a number of them are varsity men and as good as you'll find.

* * *

In Tadlock, Fisher and a number of men who would be representing Texas Tech in intercollegiate track and field campaigns if a Matador team existed this season, Lubbock and Tech has some of the best material to be found in West Texas colleges.

* * *

Tech will have a representative track team next spring, if Coach Pete Cawthon has anything to say about it. The athletic council decided to abandon the sport this spring because of lack of funds necessary for the provision and upkeep of material, trips, et cetera, but it has promised that a sincere effort will be made during the ensuing year to enter Tech again on the track map.

* * *

Bill Parker, Texas' Associated Press sports scribe who succeeded Gayle Talbot, jr., is under the impression that the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic association, the oldest organization of its kind in the state, is nearing an end. Last week five member schools of the organization announced their withdrawal, leaving only the West Texas division in the running. A Lone Star conference was announced as under organization. Thus is perceived the gradual fading out of the old association, parent of the Southwest conference and Texas conference. To quote from Parker:

* * *

Indications are that the Texas Intercollegiate Athletic association which has survived twenty years of athletic competition will soon fade from the picture. Previous to the 20th annual T. I. A. A. track and field meet last week at Denton, five schools withdrew from the T. I. A. A. and organized their own conference which will be known as the Lone Star conference until a more suitable name is discovered. L. I. Smith business manager of the East Texas State Teachers College of Commerce, was elected president.

* * *

Explaining their withdrawal from the T. I. A. A., such schools as North and East Texas State Teachers, Stephen F. Austin, Sam Houston and San Marcos, claimed the T. I. A. A. was unsatisfactory because several members did not include year round athletics along with their school work. It was also pointed out that the T. I. A. A. covered such a wide area of Texas that it was impossible for East Texas schools to meet West Texas schools without students losing too much time from their class rooms. The withdrawal of five schools from the T. I. A. A. cut the conference roster to six, leaving West Texas State Teachers College of Canyon, Arts and Industrials of Kingsville, Daniel Baker of Brownwood, Abilene Christian and McMurray College of Abilene and Sul Ross of Alpine.

It was the consensus of coaches at the T. I. A. A. track meet that schools left in the T. I. A. A. will form a new conference composed of West Texas schools.

* * *

The new conference plans to keep its membership small enough to allow the playing of a round-robin schedule in all athletics. The biggest protest on the T. I. A. A. was the fact that several members entered no competition except football. Such schools as North Texas State Teachers and West Texas State Teachers carry a full program of athletics the year round, but pointed out they have to meet Southwest conference schools in order to fill out their respective schedules, simply because many T. I. A. A. members do not go in for track, tennis and basketball.

If the six remaining schools do decide to toss in the sponge and let the T. I. A. A. travel on, it will mean the vanishing of Texas' oldest and largest athletic conference. The new Lone Star Association is Texas' fourth athletic conference. The Southwest conference and Texas conference were formed from former members of the T. I. A. A.

* * *

In 1930, the T. I. A. A. voted to split into East and West division in the hope of reaching a satisfactory arrangement of playing schedules and finances, but even this was unsatisfactory. The Lone Star conference plans to operate under Southwest conference rules.

HOODOO PURSUES WESLEY FERRELL

THIRTY TOWNS ARE ENTERED IN TOURNEY

SEVEN HUNDRED GOLF FOLLOWERS ARE TO COMPETE HERE

West Texas golf will reach its climax of the season this week when approximately 700 golfers from about 30 cities gather here for the seventh annual West Texas Golf association tournament. Qualifying rounds will be held Thursday, match play to begin Friday and continue through the finals Sunday. The Lubbock Country club golf course will be the scene of the battles for the highest title amateur golf can offer west of Fort Worth.

With every club sending a special favorite along with delegations ranging in size from five to 25 or 30 players, the contest for the throne won last year by Dennis Lavender of Abilene will wage thick and hot, if pre-torunament dope is any indication of the potentialities of the contestants. Among the favorites who are expected to gain a place in the championship bracket are Mansell Merriman of Amarillo, Gibson Payne of Lubbock, Charles Quail of Post, Bohanon of Abilene, a player from each of the two Fort Worth clubs, and others whose names promise to break into frequent print.

The players are expected to begin arriving tomorrow, since a number have stated their intentions of arriving a day or two early in order to play over the local course.

The Meadowbrook Golf club of Lubbock has joined forces with the Country club and will for the first time send players to the W. T. G. A. tournament. Bill McMillan announced that perhaps as many as fifty players from the Meadowbrook would enter the qualifying round. It may be necessary that a special qualifying round for Lubbock players only be held Wednesday, officials announced.

Meadowbrook players who have paid the W. T. G. A. entrance fee to McMillan may play over Lubbock Country club course this week and no green fee charge will be made.

Entertainment Planned

Special entertainment features are being planned for the week and since a number of golfers will be accompanied by their wives local authorities are planning dances and parties at the Country club and in town for nearly every evening during the tournament. The Lubbock hotel has been selected as headquarters for the tournament entries.

After 18 holes of qualifying play on Thursday, the qualifiers will be divided into four brackets of 32 players each. Eighteen-hole match play rounds will be played through Saturday, with 36-hole matches determining the championship on Sunday.

TRACK SEASON TO CLIMAX IN MEET

The championship track team of the Texas Tech campus will be decided this afternoon when all four of the intramural teams clash in a "conference" meet at 5 o'clock on the Tech course.

The intramural track season, waging for the past three weeks, will be brought to a close today. It has constituted all of Tech's track and field activity this season, varsity and intercollegiate competition being curtailed for 1931.

The meet this afternoon promises to carry all of the thrills usually seen in a college meet, since varsity men are eligible for competition.

'Dizzy' Dean Wins In Game But Is Defeated In Fight

BUFF LOSING STREAK HALTED IN VICTORY OVER STEERS

BY BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Jerome "Dizzy" Dean, the Art Shires of the pitching mound, took it on the chin Sunday in Dallas, but this time it happened to be Alfred Todd's firm fist and not a baseball defeat.

Insofar as the ball game was concerned, "Dizzy" stopped Houston's losing streak by defeating Dallas 7 to 1 for his fifth win since returning to the Texas league from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Mix In Ninth

Dean and Todd mixed it in the last half of the ninth. On his previous time at bat Todd tripled off Dean. Coming up in the ninth, after the first two batters had been retired, Todd was dusted off on the first pitched ball but said nothing. He was dusted off with Dean's second pitched ball, and there and then, Todd dropped his bat and went after Dean. Todd was an easy winner, being bigger and heavier than Dean. A number of blows were exchanged with Todd scoring the only knockdown. Although he had a split lip, Dean was in character until the last with:

"Well, I guess I was knocked from the mound in that fight, but the ball game belongs to me, and they are the little things that wins pennants."

Cats Hold Lead

The Fort Worth Cats continued to win and lead the Texas league flag chase. Sunday at Fort Worth, the Cats defeated San Antonio 3 to 0 with Dick McCabe pitching his finest game this season.

At Shreveport the Beaumont Exporters won their ninth consecutive ball game when they whipped the Sports, 6 to 5. The win gave the Exporters a clean sweep of the Shreveport series.

The Galveston Buccaneers rampaged in Wichita Falls Sunday to trim the Spudders, 10 to 1. White, starting pitcher, and Florrid, relief man, were touched for sixteen hits. Harris, Galveston's ace hurler, was never in trouble.

PITCHED BALL OPENS RIOT

FANS SURGE ON FIELD AFTER PLAYER HIT BY PITCHER

KANSAS CITY, May 18 (AP)—A pitching ball that felled Bill Dunlap, Kansas City Blues first baseman, in the second game of a double header with the Milwaukee Home Brews opened a riot before 9,000 American association fans here yesterday.

Dutch Zwilling, manager of the Blues, attacked Jack Knott, the offending pitcher, as his star batter dropped unconscious. Hundreds of spectators, keyed up by a 10 to 5 victory for Kansas City in the first game and a 5 to 5 tie in the twelfth inning of the second, surged upon the field. Bottles were hurled.

Art "The Great" Shires, Milwaukee's first baseman acted as peacemaker. One fan hurdled a gate and made for Shires. A blow from Garland Buckeye, 250-pound Milwaukee pitcher, sent him sprawling. Umpires, police and players united to prevent further violence.

Darkness forced conclusion of the game as a tie at the end of the twelfth inning. Dunlap regained consciousness. Zwilling said he would be kept out of uniform several days.

HUBBERS LOSE TO LOBOES

LAMESA GETS REVENGS TWO GAMES IN ROW OVER LUBBOCK

LAMESA, May 18—(Special)—The Lamesa Loboes continued to get revenge on the Lubbock Hubbers for the latter's 6 to 1 victory Friday at Lubbock and Sunday afternoon took an 8 to 7 decision on the local lot, a return series of one game. Saturday the Hubbers lost a 4 to 3 decision at Merrell Park in Lubbock.

The game yesterday went on through the last half of the ninth after Clarence Hodges' home run in the eighth scored four runs. Rose, pitching for Lamesa, was touched for five consecutive hits by Galey and Galey. Lubbock's battery, Waller, Hodges and Hambright. Hambright died on base when Marshall went out to end the rally.

HITLESS GAME PROVES JINX FOR HURLER

INDIANS IN SLUMP IN GAMES WITH EASTERN TEAMS OF LEAGUE

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

A hoodoo seems to have pursued Wesley Ferrell, Cleveland ace, since he pitched a hitless shutout against the St. Louis Browns three weeks ago. Since then he has been able to pitch only one full game. On his next start he got out of some trouble and beat Detroit but he has failed to last through the last three games he started.

The Indains called on him again yesterday in an endeavor to halt the slump they have been in ever since they began meeting eastern teams. He weathered five stormy innings against the Athletics and contributed a home run on his own account. But in the sixth he gave way to Pete Jablonowski, who was charged with Cleveland's ninth straight defeat. The A's also used three pitchers in the slugfest which wound up with a 15 to 10 score.

Washington and the St. Louis Browns divided a double header, the Browns won the first, 7 to 1, behind Sammy Gray's fine pitching, to break their five game losing streak and end the Senators' string of victories at six. Homers by West and Bluege in the ninth inning of the second clash gave Washington a 4 to 2 triumph.

Ground rules limited the long hits at Detroit to two bases as 38,000 fans, the biggest crowd of the season, turned out to see the New York Yankees outslug the Tigers 8 to 5. Boston and Chicago showed that the spell of pitching had not been completely broken as the White Sox pushed over a run in the ninth inning of a close duel to win 2-1.

Clout Four Homers

The St. Louis Cardinals clouted four of the National league's homers in beating the New York Giants and Fred Fitzsimmons 6 to 1. They connected four times, George Watkins hitting two.

Eppa Rixey of Cincinnati and Heinie Meine of Pittsburgh turned in some good National league pitching to win the other two games. Rixey awakened in the eighth and gave Brooklyn four runs before Frey rescued him but Cincinnati won out 7 to 5. Given a three run lead in the first inning, Meine pitched the Pirates to a 5-3 victory over the Boston Braves, getting in trouble only once.

The Chicago Cubs and the Phillies had an off day.

CHARLES COMISKEY, "THE OLD ROMAN" STRIVING TO WELD A CHAMPIONSHIP CONTENDER OF CHICAGO'S WHITE SOX

CHICAGO, May 18. (AP)—In his seventy-third year and not in the best of health, Charles A. Comiskey, "The Old Roman," is still striving to weld together another American league championship contender for Chicago.

After the world series scandal of 1919, which caused him to wreck a great team, Comiskey's White Sox sagged and sagged into the depths of the league. A year ago he hired Donie Bush, who had given Pittsburgh a National league title, to manage his club and since then has bought and traded in an effort to fashion a club capable of attracting enough customers to fill the huge White Sox playing park.

Trades For Fonseca

His latest effort has been to trade Willie Kamm, for whom he paid $100,000 in 1922, and who was one of the league's leading third basemen, for Lew Fonseca of the Cleveland Indians. Fonseca, who led the American league in batting in 1929, will be used either at second or third, and his hitting should help the Sox win games.

Early in the season Lu Blue was obtained from the St. Louis Browns to play first, otherwise Fonseca, who has been at first for the Indians, might have been stationed there.

Manager Bush predicts his team will cause all kinds of trouble when it gains its full power. Ted Lyons, the ace of the pitching staff, has been out with an injured shoulder, and Smead Jolley, a batsman of .300-plus caliber, has been inactive since undergoing a minor surgical operation. Bob Fothergill, whose hitting this season has been reminiscent of his best days while with Detroit, also has been injured, but is due back in a few days, giving Bush six outfielders when all hands answer roll call.

Hong Kong, China, now has six talkie theatres.

Mule Haas, Athletics—Collected two doubles and three singles off Cleveland pitching.

DR. MYERS

Doctor Myers' Daily Column On Child Welfare

BY GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

UNRULY BOY

"DEAR DR. MYERS: I am a farmer. I have been reading your articles on the Parent Problem. I have intended to write you, but have been putting it off. I have a parent problem which I wish you would answer in the paper, so that perhaps some other fathers with the same problem may be helped, too.

"I have a ten-year-old boy, in the fourth grade at school. He frames up all kinds of excuses to keep from going to school; he doesn't get his lessons, his grades are bad, very poor all the time. I've tried to teach him division for months and he knows no more about it now than at first. The teacher says he is just a dummy. He does all kinds of things at school and when the teacher whips him he'll laugh about it; don't seem to realize what the punishment is for. I took him to the doctor and told him the circumstances.

"The doctor examined him and said he is not mentally bright. He has an awful temper, matching his red hair, I guess. I have other children, who do much better in school work than he does, although they are not A pupils. When he does naughty things and I whip him he will get up and 'sass' back at me. He is always doing things to get other people into trouble.

"I try to talk to him kindly but it does no good. He has to be forced to do everything he does. I see other children bright, entirely different to him, and it makes me sad to know mine is like he is. Neither his mother nor I had much education.

* * *

"Not so very long ago we went to visit my wife's relatives, and this lad stole some things from the home and put them into his pockets; we found it out after we got home. It makes me ashamed to go back there. People are afraid to have him around; he has scarcely any friends at school. It seems no one likes him, not even my own folks. He will do things and then lie about it, even though he knows he will be caught. I have him help me plow and feel maybe he can be taught along farm lines. Then I think, well, we have a fool in the neighborhood, an idiot. He gets out and plows, harnesses teams, etc. The older he gets the worse he grows that is what worries me. No matter what I do he shows no improvement.

"I have told you the plain facts. Now, what would you do?"

* * *

Answer: If I were you I should not bother this boy about school. If the truant officer forces him to go then you would better take him to Indiana university, which is near your home, and ask a psychologist there to give him a mental examination and advise you. Just address a letter, "The Department of Psychology, Indiana University, Bloomington, Ind." and ask for an appointment and what the charge will be.

Live In The Country? Yes—But Don't Forsake City

Edna St. Vincent (left), noted American poetess, adores flowers, dictionaries Charlie Chaplin, riding horses week-ends—and her Dutch husband, Eugene Jan Boissevain (right).

BY JULIA BLANSHARD
NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, — The only sane way to live is to "go native"—live in the country, dig in the earth, raise gardens. But to keep your balance you need a "bat" in the city every so often to make you glad to go back to the country!

America's first poetess, Edna St. Vincent Millay, recommends this. Certainly no lovelier nor more shining testimonial could be found than Miss Millay herself, here with her husband, Eugene Jan Boissevain, for a fortnight.

She was a sunny sight, curled up on the davenport of their hotel suite, with the afternoon light falling upon her. Healthy glowing cheeks of a child, tawny hair with a bronze gleam to it, green eyes merry at seeing old friends again, her small self intensely enthusiastic — like a child. Her words tumble out, her gestures are quick, her mind races ahead of every question put to her.

Flowers everywhere, selected and placed by that cultivated, charming Dutch gentleman, her husband, a man who wears tweeds beautifully, is a perfect host and who anticipates her every wish. He is a crack huntsman although he has never been able to persuade Miss Millay to shoot a single animal.

She Wears Shorts

She is here to see her publishers about her new volume of verse, "Fatal Interview," her first book since "The Buck in the Snow."

"But we are here, too, for parties and of course I have thought loads and loads of clothes," she added. "Up in the country I never think of clothes, wear shorts most of the time and spend my days gardening and trying to get a nice tan. But when I come to New York I get clothes conscious. I rush out and buy dresses here and there and they all have to be altered (she is between size 12 and size 14) and I have to go back for fittings. They are all delivered just as I am ready to go home and I take them and never wear them and when I come again they are all out of style."

She is eager to talk of Steepletop, their home near Austerlitz, N. Y., where she grows a wonderful garden, raises birds of all kinds, keeps "Eugene's Ghost," a blooded English setter, and a pet riding horse, where she did have a wonderful black cat "Velvet Paws," but has never had another because cats catch birds. She works, plays the piano, entertains her friends over week-ends, tramps, rides, spends hours over her collection of dictionaries.

"I may write a play," she smiled predicting the future. "But I shall never write a novel. Once I was going to. I even saw the jacket for it with the name 'Hardigut' on it and got a fine advance on it, but before I sailed to France to write it. But it was a special idea, a theme that it was disgusting to taboo so all mention of food was taboo, but things that are taboo today were discussed freely and openly. I was working on it when I came upon Cabell's thin little 24-page book on the same subject that was so thorough that I never lifted my pen again!"

Comedy she adores, but comedy that is almost tragedy. She considers Charlie Chaplin a supreme artist. Beatrice Lillie, too, came in for high praise. And then Miss Millay had to run on to other friends waiting for her.

"Writes In Her Mind

"She didn't tell you what a marvelous gardener she is," Eugene Boissevain said as she left the room. "Vincent has a 'growing hand,' everything she touches grows. Her methods are unique; she can even transplant corn and it thrives.

And then he told of Miss Millays methods of work, which also are unique.

"The hardest job I have is teaching new maids not to bother her when she is just sitting still, curled up in a chair, without pencil or paper or even a book. She works that way. She never puts down a single word until a poem is complete. She has carried a poem half finished in her mind for four years before it sang itself just right and she was willing to put it on paper.

"She has the most remarkable, the most fantastic memory I have ever heard of. She can come home from a Paul Robeson concert, or some other one she has enjoyed and sit down and play and sing every single word of every song. Friends come over to read their sonnets to her. She will listen and when they have finished she may say, 'I think the 7th line is not very good,' and repeat it. I have never known anyone that came anywhere near Vincent for this faculty."

"B.O." a serious handicap

In school, in business, in society—people always shun the "B.O." offender. And the worst of it is, the guilty one seldom realizes why he is unpopular. Though pores give off a quart of odor-causing waste daily, we don't notice "B.O." in ourselves because we soon become used to an ever-present odor. But others quickly detect the smallest trace of it.

Thought For Today

Lead us not into temptation.—St. Matthew 6:18.

* * *

Temptations are a file which rub off much of the rust of self-confidence.—Penelon.

Healthier Life

One of the favorite dreams of this scientific age has been that human life, at some time in the near future, will be measurably lengthened. The "average life span" that we hear so much about has been stretched in the last generation or so; most of us have a lurking hope that it will eventually go far beyond the scriptural three score and ten.

However, the experts on such matters are a bit dubious about it. There is, for example, Lee K. Frankel of the Metropolitan Life Insurance, who told the American Philosophical Society recently that the actual number of years which an individual can attain will probably never be much greater than it is now.

Still, Mr. Frankell is an optimist. Human beings of the future may not live much longer than human beings of today, but he believes they will be a great deal healthier. They will support fewer hospitals and orphan asylums, and their doctors will be busier preventing disease than curing it.

And this, after all, is about all that any sensible man would hope for. The yearning for everlasting life seems to be one of mankind's fundamental traits, but it is always assumed that that immortality will be enjoyed in another world than this. The earth has too many imperfections. Few people care to linger on it indefinitely.

But the mere length, in years, of one's earthly existence is not a prime consideration. Whether we are to have 50 years or twice 50, the most important question is, what are those going to be like? In promising better health for our grandchildren, Mr. Frankel holds up a brighter picture than would be the case if he simply promised longer life.

To save life and to have it more abundantly has always been the race's greatest earthly hope. It is back of every great migration of massed tribes and nations, back of every revolution, back of many bloody wars; the hope that somehow something can be done to make the ordinary man's existence a little bit less bare, a little bit more full of those moments of contentment, of ecstacy or of achievement that give it significance.

With that goal mere length of days has little to do. We need not be disappointed if science finds itself unable to promise a longer life. It is promising a better one—a life more free from pain, a life in which men can more fully use the powers that are in them. That is enough. We would be foolish to ask for more.

Enduring Marriages

The college campus seems to be a propitious spot for matchmaking. Miss Rita S. Halle, writing in the current issue of Good Housekeeping magazine, reveals that whereas there is now one divorce to every six marriages, only one divorce occurs to every 75 marriages that resulted from college romances.

Just why college romances should be so much more lasting than other kinds is a matter for speculation. Our guess is that the chief reason lies in the fact that college romances are seldom hasty things.

A college engagement tends to be a long one; usually it has to be. And while the long engagement is generally condemned, it does give a boy and a girl plenty of time to find out whether they are really suited to one another. It is usually the "whirlwind romance" that winds up in the divorce court.

Johnny Weismuller, swimming champ, and his young bride, are taking an extended honeymoon. Well, they won't have to worry about keeping their heads above water.

The hotel where Alfonso is paying $30 an hour for rooms probably considers the jack more important than the king and queen.

The Plainsman Says:

NUEVO LAREDO, State of Tamaulipas, Mexico, May 17—Well, here we are, The Plainsman, That Girl on Broadway and That Man on Avenue Q, in Mexico and ready to go on. The Tri-State Fair special has gotten this far, right side up, and if nothing happens we'll be in Mexico City bright and early Tuesday morning. This article is being written at 7:16 o'clock Sunday night.

* * *

If you folks thought last week—while the WTCC convention was going on—was hot, you ought to be here. The Plains in July are comparative to today's temperature on the well known border, and that's no exaggeration.

* * *

Over on the U. S. side a fellow might think he was in Florida. Spanish moss is everywhere, hanging from the trees that border the sidewalks and streets all over town. Orange trees grow everywhere, almost, and vegetation is both verdant and abundant. Laredo is different from El Paso in that there is much more natural growth of vegetation—and Mount Franklin's bare grim background is supplanted here by rolling country.

* * *

THERE are the same narrow streets in Laredo that characterize all border towns, giving the impression that the city was laid out by a Mexican on a burro. Yet it possesses the same strange charm of its sister border cities—a sort of a haunting charm to the stranger. Laredo apparently is well-fixed for hotels and should be a busy tourist headquarters.

* * *

Nuevo Laredo is not like Juarez. The only two things the towns have in common are saloons and their locations—just across the international boundary. The downtown section is around the public square—or plaza, as they call it down this way—which is not the case in Ciudad Juarez, where the square is several blocks removed from the heaviest traffic.

* * *

JACK PARSONS would enjoy a location similar to that of his company's store here. It is on the bank of the river, right next to the international bridge. A hundred yards away is Mexico.

* * *

Sign on one of the most popular 'cantinas': "We're From New Orleans. Ramos Gin Fizz." Somebody's trying to steal Harry Mitchell's thunder!

* * *

DICK McMURRAY, editor of the Laredo Times, tells The Plainsman that he should visit Nuevo Laredo on a Thursday night. The old promenade, so popular in the interior, is carried on at the plaza for an hour or so each Thursday evening—a custom not followed in some of the other border points which have become more affected by Americanization.

* * *

According to McMurray, the young Mexican bucks walk around the plaza in one direction, the young girls circle the other way. When they meet acquaintances they join each other and all walk in the same direction. The promenading lasts about an hour or an hour and a half, and is the method young people use to become better acquainted with one another. The Laredo newspaperman says it is very interesting to watch.

* * *

Add strange facts: The onion crop is one of the principal sources of revenue in the Laredo section. Laredoans are as interested in the onions as we South Plains people are in cotton.

* * *

Where we set out Chinese elm trees, palms grow in this area. Whether the trees are cultivated or "have always been here", The Plainsman doesn't know. However, they are highly decorative and pleasing to the eye.

* * *

WE'RE pulling out of here about midnight with the next stop scheduled at Monterrey, in the state of Coahuila, shortly after seven chimes tomorrow morning. We get a half a day to look Monterrey over and everyone is interested in getting there, for it is called the most beautiful city in Mexico. Those who have been to Guadalajara, however, say it will have to go some to beat that thriving community. There are said to be 125,000 souls in Monterrey, which incidentally is the home of the Carta Blanca split.

* * *

Although it is 'mucho caliente' here, those who have been to Mexico City promise that we'll go through a refrigeration process between Monterrey and the capital. Up in the mountains they contend it gets plenty cold and in Mexico City people wear light wraps at night, the year around. The capital itself is tucked away in the mountains, nearly four times as high as Lubbock.

* * *

The Mexican National railway lines will pull us out of here when we take up our journey on to Monterrey. The Plainsman has never ridden on a Mexican railroad but he'll bet it's no rougher than the run between Milano Junction and Austin.

"Without-Or-With, Offense To Friends Or Foes, We Sketch Your World Exactly As It Goes"—Byron

Over-Production And Competition Are Given Blame For Agriculture's Plight; Crop Reduction Seen Solution

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON, May 18—American farmers learned from the International Chamber of Commerce congress that the captains of the world's industry and finance are really interested in their plight and that the state of American agriculture is closely paralleled by that of agriculture abroad.

Agriculture went on the program for the first time. Everyone agreed that agriculture and other raw material producers shared with industry the credit for bringing about the great depression and that in both cases the trouble was overcapacity and overproduction.

Aside from this recognition our farmers, told what was happening to them and their foreign brethern, received no particular encouragement. American farmers, especially seem to be at bat with two strikes called against them.

Competition Increases

The relative importance of food shrinks as civilization becomes more complex and living standards rise, according to tone of several propositions made by former Dean H. L. Russell of the University of Wisconsin's college of agriculture. People still eat only three meals a day. Meanwhile, as birth rates in nearly all civilized countries increase, agriculture constantly expands.

Fast quick transportation for food supplies all over the world bring products from afar off into direct competition with home grown supplies of consuming areas, Russell pointed out.

"The difference in economic level of production, due to cost of land, labor and the like, place America at a decided disadvantage in meeting world competition," he explained.

New Zealand farmers, Russell went on, had grass lands available the year around and almost no expense for dairy housing and shelter which in northern United States imposes a capital investment of $200 to $300 per animal. With milking machines a New Zealand farmer and his boy can handle 60 or 75 cows. And there's a terrible sock at our foreign dairy markets.

Too Much Wheat

The wheat situation, according to Russell is primarily due to enormous expansion of acreage in all countries wheer cheap land could be brought into use during the war. Huge expansions were made in Australia, Argentine, Canada and the United States. Farmers acted like manufacturers who doubled or trebled their plants for rush business; they mechanized the grain industry, too, further adding to surplus.

To save paying out gold, European nations especially in post-war years, have been making every effort to increase their own food supplies and buy less from America and other exporters. Now Russia comes along with limitless possibilities for wheat expansion and plenty of indication that she will take advantage of them. Already Russia has undersold American cotton in the Manchester market; she expects to lead the world market as a buyer next year. Pre-war Russia imported between 800,000 to 900,000 bales of cotton a year, of which we supplied more than half. Now she has increased her own cotton production from 41,000 bales in 1921 to an estimated 2,500,000 bales in 1931.

Then there is the factor of reduced consumption, especially of cereals, in Europe as well as America. Calories in pre-war diets were much more numerous.

Among countries using tariffs in the effort to grow their own food Germany has a duty of $1.62 a bushel—more than twice the world market price and France has raised its wheat duty to 400 per cent in four years.

Russell says world agriculture's obvious problem is to reduce production to existing need but that competing countries will not restrict acreage unless under an effective international agreement. At the recent international grain conference in Rome Soviet Russia flatly refused to accede to any agreement for acreage restriction.

There is one remedy American farmers can apply which will start them on the way to making a comfortable livelihood, said President Melvin A. Traylor of Chicago's First National Bank.

Say Farmer Can Save Himself

"When we find that on about 20 per cent of our farms there is not a milch cow or a chicken, that on more than 30 per cent not a hog and about 90 per cent not a sheep, when we know that on many of our large farms no gardens are kept and almost every article of food is purchased at the store," Traylor said, "we are forced to the conclusion that the farmer, by and large, is not farming as he should. As far as possible every farmer should produce his own milk and dairy products, his own meat and his own poultry, raise his own garden truck and can the fruit and vegetables he requires for winter use.

"Until he obtains from his farm every item for personal consumption which is humanely possible for him to produce he has not done his job properly. Pigs and chickens are worth more to the individual farmer than all the government relief measures that may possibly be devised."

POISON IVY

Every season has its own peculiar diseases. Affliction, that is, which are directly related to the climatic condition of the season, superficial aspect of friendliness and peace, but in that green verdure and among those gentle trees and bushes, there are danger and discomfort—snakes and chiggers, fleas, gnats, mosquitoes and enemy plants. Forewarned is forearmed, so here is a description of some of them.

Dr. Clendening

Poison ivy or poison oak. Rhus toxidendron, if I remember by botany correctly. The victim touches the plant and almost immediately at the spot of contact it begins to sting. Soon a painful blistery rash appears. Then other parts of the body are affected by the same rash. "As a rule" say the dermatologists, "the eruption is self-limited, and disappears spontaneously without scarring, in the course of a few days or weeks." But oh! the discomfort packed into those few days or weeks.

Some people believe that it can be acquired by just going near the plant—getting down wind from it. But it appears to be proved that actual contact is necessary.

Most persons do not catch it even if they handle the plant. It is much like hay fever in this respect. Some are susceptible. But the number of people susceptible to it is higher than hay feverites.

A few years ago a pair of doctors got 12 people to volunteer to handle poison ivy or poison oak plants. Only two of the 12 developed the eruption immediately. The juice of the plant was squeezed out on the skin of the other ten and rubbed in; the skin was also irritated and scratched so that the juice got into the blood. Under this treatment six more of them developed the eruption. This left four, and nothing could make them break out into a poison ivy rash.

As every victim knows, you can have more than one attack, but as time goes on the attacks get milder and finally complete immunity develops.

A serum has been developed for treatment. It does not seem to have any preventive powers. In other words, if you are a poison ivy victim and you are going on a camping trip and want to take the serum to prevent any attacks, you are out of luck! The serum will not work that way. After the eruption is started the serum will sometimes stop the itching and clear up the rash very quickly. At other times it does no good at all. But it is always worth trying, because it is claimed that it never does any harm.

Among other methods of treatment, ether soap is recommended. The oil of the plant stays on the surface of the skin and takes some time to be absorbed. If you can get to it in this stage and wash if off with soap and water you may entirely prevent an attack. Ether soap dissolves oil better and as the plant juice is oily this is more effective than plain soap.

In Court

Literary piracy was charged against Eugene O'Neill, famous American playwright, in the trial of Miss Georges Lewys' $2,000,000 suit for damages in New York. The red-haired woman writer, shown above, accused the dramatist of "theftring" portions of one of her books for use in his highly successful play, "Strange Interlude." A motion to dismiss the suit was refused.

SWAN

In New York With Gilbert Swan

NEW YORK, May 18 — It's said that almost anyone with a new and tricky idea can make his rent and board in Manhattan. In fact if the notion is sufficiently novel, it's possible to make a neat fortune. Of course, everyone has his own idea concerning what a bright idea may be. In New York, as elsewhere, everything that's tried doesn't work.

But let me give you a few examples; Not so many years ago, a couple of middle-aged women began to wonder how they could survive in the big city. They were down to their last few dollars and had been taking in sewing.

Suddenly it occurred to one of them that New York was filled with bachelors. There were tens of thousands of them. And, as everyone knows, a man likes to have some woman darn his socks. So they left cards at a few bachelor hotels announcing that sock darning would be done for a very small fee.

Today the two women employ a score of helpers who darn socks from morning to night.

You see, it's as simple as that! And very practical.

* * *

More recently, one of Manhattan's army of unemployed bright boys began to wonder what the millions of men did with their old neckties. Did they throw them away? Or did they just let them hang on the tie rack?

He made an investigation and found that there were any number of gents who would gladly wear old ties if they could be renovated, like old hats or shoes. Further inquiry showed him that no one had thought of this.

So he started a necktie hospital. He studied the cost of cleaning and overhauling and then went into business. Soon he had quite a list of customers who gave him their idle ties. He fixed them over at so much per dozen. And, if the men were about to throw the ties away, he bought them up for little or nothing, fixed them up and sold them to peddlers who operate in the side streets and poorer sections.

Today he has several automobiles going about the city picking up tens of thousands of ties a day.

Yes, it's as simple as that, too! But practical.

* * *

Then there was the smart young woman who wondered what New York women did with their babies and children when they went shopping or attended a bridge party. She found that all of them had to hire nursemaids and pay a neat sum for it. So she organized a bureau of maids who are "on call." A regular routine of calls has been mapped out. Some of the "traveling maids" go from home to home, like the milkman or the iceman.

The "baby carriage garage" business has been a good one here for many a year.

And there's the "Hostess bureau" where a lonesome gent can hire a theater or dinner partner for the evening. But no rough stuff goes. You can hire your "fourth" at bridge; can engage dancing partners for that party which lacks a few nice girls or can retain a glib conversationalist to "keep the party alive."

I understand this idea was transplanted from London.

So you see, there're all sorts of ways of making a living in New York if you're smart — and, of course, practical about it.

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

As down the street the Tinies went, all of a sudden Clowny bent way over to one side and cried, "Hey, Mister Camel Man! This camel's going mighty slow and what I'd really like to know is, will you make him perk up just to prove to us he can?"

The camel man just smiled a bit and then said, "Be sure you sit real tight, 'cause you will be bounced high when we begin to run. My camel knows my hurry call, which I will give if you won't fall. To tumble down from 'way up there would not be any fun."

"Aw, we're all set," one Tiny cried. "Go on, give us a speedy ride! We're not afraid. Nope, not one bit." And then some fun began! Almost before the Tinies knew what happened, down the road they flew. The man shouted, "Hi, oh, hi!" and off the camel ran.

"Hey! Hey! Slow down," cried Scouty, "Gee, this shakes the dickens out of me. I think I've had enough for now. Please make your camel stop. I'm slipping every step he takes and, mercy me, how my back aches. If we go on much further, I'm sure I'll take a flop."

The man then gave another cry and all the Tinies heaved a sigh as soon as the old camel stopped his crazy, sigzag run. The beast then stopped and turned around. They journeyed back and shortly found the Travel Man who cried out, "My, I'll bet you had some fun!

"But come, I'll give you all more cheer. There is a scientific garden near. It's where they gaze up toward the sky and look at stars and moon." So that was where the whole crowd went. About a half an hour was spent in walking through the garden. Then they left the place at noon.

(Clowny gives the rest a laugh in the next story.)

SATURDAY'S ANSWER

Richest Heires" To Wed Barrister

CHICAGO, May 18 (AP)—Miss Josemary Baur, known as one of "Chicago's richest heiresses," daughter of Mrs. Bertha Baur, civic and social leader, will become the bride of Bartle Bull, eldest son of W. Perkins Bull, K. C. The announcement was made at a dinner party at Mrs. Baur's home. Miss Baur is 20 years old, while the groom-elect is 28.

Young Bull returned to Chicago from Cuba only recently where he suffered an attack of poisoning.

News of the engagement was a surprising, friends of both families said. Last fall Miss Baur and her mother returned from a visit at Cap D'Antibes in southern France where Bull visited them.

The prospective bride made her debut last autumn and was presented at the court of St. James. She was educated at Miss Walker's school and at Bryn Mawr college. Young Bull was educated at Eton and Magdale college, Oxford. He is a barrister of the inner temple.

Name Beauties In Oklahoma Annual

NORMAN, Okla., May 18 (AP)—Six University of Oklahoma girls selected as "beauty queens" for this year's Sooner, annual publication, included only three girls from the state, with two from Texas and one from Arkansas.

Aside from the geographical trend, other statistics gleaned tonight, with announcement of names of the six, showed that two were blondes, three were brunettes and the sixth "doubtful."

The sextette are Pauline Sill, San Angelo, Texas; Eula Lee Burch, Amarillo, Texas; Norma Lee, Magnolia, Ark.; Frances Price, Chickasha, Elizabeth Mahoney, Enid, and Ohhelia Jones, Cushing.

McClelland Barclay, magazine illustrator, selected them.

Births in England and Wales in a recent week outnumbered the deaths by two, the figures being 6,772 and 6,770.

Stock Market

WALL STREET REPORT

NEW YORK, May 18 (AP)—Selling of railroad shares and some pivotal industries, including U. S. Steel and American Can, both of which broke below par, gave stocks a weak tone today but trading continued dull.

Steel common, off fractionally at the opening, sagged to 100, then rallied, but finally dipped just under par for the first time since 1924. American Can dropped a point and a half to 98 5-8, new low for the year, and General Electric also went under its previous minimum.

Larger losses developed in many rails. Atchison broke nearly 7 points and Norfolk & Western tumbled 5. American Telephone slumped more than 4 points to a new 1931 low. Miscellaneous issues off 3 to 5 included American Tobacco "B," Baltimore & Ohio, Union Pacific, Auburn Auto, Lambert and International Business Machines. New York Central, Southern Pacific, Allied Chemical, Eastman Kodak, National Biscuit and Consolidated Gas were down a couple of points.

Call money renewed at 1 1-2 per cent.

Cotton Market

NEW YORK REPORT

NEW YORK, May 18 (AP)—Cotton opened steady today 4 to 6 points lower on reports of good weather in the south over the week-end and relatively easy Liverpool cables.

Initial offerings were fairly well taken by covering and trade buying attracted by the new low prices but the buying was restricted by continued weakness in the stock market. Selling continued and prices at the end of the first half hour showed net losses of 6 to 11 points with July selling at 9.74 and December at 9.91. Influences most generally mentioned were the weather and the unsettled ruling of the stock market.

Liverpool cables reported continental and Bombay selling in that market and reports a bearish sentiment in Manchester with the cloth and yarn turnover unimportant.

NEW ORLEANS REPORT

NEW ORLEANS, May 18 (AP)—Cotton had an active but easier opening here today. Liverpool cables were lower than due and early weather reports showed favorable conditions in the belt. As the stock market started easier, cotton eased off after the opening call until July traded down to 9.35 and October to 9.70 or 10 to 11 points below Saturday's close.

Ring sentiment appeared to be bearish and traders sold rather freely. At the end of the first hour, the market was still active and at the lows.

The market rallied five to six points during the second hour owing to map indications of unsettled and colder weather in the belt, but later in the morning eased off again owing to renewed weakness in stocks which caused selling by ring traders. July dropped to 9.25 and October to 9.60, or 20 to 2-points below Saturday's close. Near mid-session shorts showed a disposition to cover and the market rallied a point or two from the lowest.

The decline extended to 9.31 for July and 9.88 for December during the middle of the morning under a continuation of the early selling movement. Offerings became less active at the decline which was checked by some covering and trade buying but the market was quiet later in the morning and showed very little rallying power. At midday July was selling around 9.33 and December 9.90 with the active months ruling about 10 to 12 points net lower.

FORMER DAWSON COUNTY MAN STATES RANCHING IN MEXICO IS DIFFERENT

SAN ANGELO, (AP)—There is a vast difference in the manner in which ranching is conducted in Durango, Mexico, and in Texas, according to J. L. Higginbotham who formerly ranched in Dawson county.

In 1924 he bought a 200,000-acre ranch in the state of Durango, in the Sierra Madre Mountains, where he carries on ranching on a large scale. "With no blizzards and no cold weather we ranch successfully at less expense than cattle can be raised in Texas," said Higginbotham. He recently went to Kansas to contract pasture for several thousand head of his cattle from Durango this season.

Raise Own Feed

"Our ranch is 7,500 feet above sea level," he explained. "We have valleys and some plains on the 200,000 acres of land and in one of the valleys we have 700 acres under irrigation on which we raise a vast amount of feed, and other products such as beans. The ranch is watered by springs, and clear streams, which is a big item. We have 30,000 breeding cows, all high grade Herefords, and we used registered Hereford bulls in this country.

"Our ranch is located within 50 miles of the Gulf of California, and we are 70 miles from the nearest railroad point, he said. "Our entire ranch is enclosed with a wire fence, besides we have several cross fences, and fenced fields, a total of 2,000 miles of barbed wire fencing to watch and keep up. It requires 100 saddle horses for fence riders and others at the ranch.

"The climate is ideal, varying but a few degrees the year around and the scenery is beautiful.

"The country is sparsely settled by natives who live in the same crude way they have always lived, merely making enough to exist without modern advantages. There are vast desert plains stretching away from the mountains, and here and there are streams and valleys. The country is full of opportunities to farm and raise livestock at a low cost, but progressive people from the United States do not care to venture in although the present government seems to be of a permanent and better kind than they ever had before.

"It is about 350 miles to El Paso, which is our port of entry into the United States, where we bring our cattle."

Seven Persons Are Killed Under Train

CALEXICO, Ia., May 18. (AP)—Seven young people, five of them brothers and sisters, were killed yesterday when their car darted from behind a moving freight train into the path of a Chicago Northwestern passenger train bound for Denver.

The dead, Martha, 20, Medona, 19, Bernadette, 16, Monica, 15, and Arnold Berner, 13, the brothers and sisters, living in Toronto, Iowa, and their cousin, Mildred Byers, 16, and Walter Mumford, 17, of Dewitt, Iowa.

Efforts of the crossing watchman and others to prevent the accident were futile.

Attendance Is 3,977 At Sunday Schools

Sunday school attendance in eight churches in Lubbock totaled 3,977 persons with the First Baptist church leading in an enrollment of 1,205.

SPEED—APPLIED TO TYPEWRITING—IS DEMONSTRATED

Speed, as it is applied to typewriting, was demonstrated in Lubbock Monday morning by Miss Olga Elkowri, 21-year-old representative of the Remington Typewriter company, of Buffalo, N. Y.

Playing popular tunes and marches and writing almost 250 words per minute features of Miss Elkowri's programs, given at Texas Technological college, Draughons Business college and City hall.

For one minute on her program, she wrote 242 words, talking and answering questions as she did it. During another minute she took a list of figures called by a student, and as she finished, gave the total.

Keeping time with her typewriter, Miss Elkowri sang and wrote "Should I" and other popular tunes.

Speed writing comes natural with her, Miss Elkowri said. She started a course in a Detroit business college before she was sixteen. In a short time she excelled the advance class in speed.

"Realizing I had a knack for this kind of work, I devoted all of my time to developing greater speed," she said.

NEW LEAGUE

afternoon to discuss the situation with local men and to begin immediate arrangements for the opening of the season.

The News says that Lubbock will open the season at Plainview on the night of June 10, playing a series of two games there and returning to Lubbock on Friday and Saturday to dedicate the local field.

At the organization meeting in Amarillo yesterday, J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas League, was formally elected president of the Panhandle league for one year without compensation. Other officers elected were J. M. Dodson, president of the Pampa National bank, active first vice-president, and S. D. Hunter, of Lubbock, active second vice-president.

Hunter said he knew nothing about his being elected to the office and did not know that formal organization of the league had been made. He did report holding a long distance conversation with Harry Wanderling yesterday in which Wanderling asked about the local situation. Told that there was a lamentable lack of interest here, especially of financial interest, Wanderling suggested that if he would "foot the bill", install high powered lights for night play and otherwise care for the local club that baseball would "get over" here.

According to the plans of the organization, each team may carry fourteen players, including a bench or playing manager. Nine of the players must be non-class and five may be of any class.

RETURN OF WTCC BADGES SOUGHT

Fearing a shortage of badges for the next two conventions, the West Texas Golf Association here this week and the Texas Retail Merchants association next week, officials of the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce issued an appeal to local people this morning for return of badges used in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention.

"We don't want the people to feel that we're being cheap in asking for these badges," A. B. Davis, manager said this morning, "for they have a perfect right to keep them as they paid for them in registration. We only want those badges of people who don't want to keep them as souvenirs. If you are not planning on keeping your badge, we would be glad to get it back for the next two conventions.

The badge has been adopted as Lubbock's official convention badge for all future gatherings here, it was said.

An order for more badges has been wired to the factory but it is feared that they will not reach here in time for this week's convention.

Training Course At Lamesa Set Tonight

Sixth session tonight of a Boy Scout leadership training course for Lamesa will be outdoors at Dean's ranch, about 12 miles east of Lamesa.

Those enrolled in the course will cook supper over open fires and attempt to pass second class cooking tests, D. T. Jennings, area scout executive, said.

Ninth session of a similar course here will convene at 7:45 o'clock Tuesday night in the basement of the First Presbyterian church.

SESSION WILL END FRIDAY

LEGISLATURE TOILING IN EFFORT TO END NECESSARY WORK

AUSTIN, May 18 (AP)—The legislature toiled feverishly last week in an effort to get its necessary work in such shape that it could end the long session Friday.

The 120-day period suggested by the constitution ended Tuesday but the lawmakers decided to labor ten days longer on half pay or $5 a day. There had been some talk of extending the session even another week.

Three Bills Faced

Both houses last week freed themselves of the troublesome truck regulatory bills. That left three major appropriations bills and congressional redistricting for this week. There was considerable doubt as to whether a redistricting bill would be passed, since free conferences had had it for about a month and had been unable to agree.

Chairmen of the finance committees of the house and senate expressed confidence agreements would be reached on the eleemosynary, the educational and the departmental appropriations bills in time for action before scheduled adjournment. This opinion was voiced notwithstanding the fact the senate was considerably higher than the house i nits appropriations desires. In event the free conferees should agree, the new figures still would have to run the gauntlet of the house which has a strong economy bloc.

Bond Issue Slated

The proposed constitutional amendment to authorize a $212,000,000 state highway bond issue came nearer to submission than at any previous time, and sponsors said they would bring it up again Wednesday. Last Wednesday, in the house, proponents were only four votes short of the 100 necessary for submission. The senate passed the resolution long ago. On its first vote in the house it received only 80 votes.

The Howsley bill to increase oil proration powers of the railroad commission received a favorable house committee report by one vote but indications were it might never reach the floor for discussion. During the last days of the session, a bill cannot be brought up except by two thirds majority and opponents insisted the oil bill did not have that two thirds.

Senator Small of Wellington Saturday introduced a resolution calling upon the attorney general and railroad commission to recommend needed oil legislation. He withdrew it after considerable argument. Carl Estes of Tyler, one of the leaders of the fight against the Howsley bill, charged the resolution was an attempt to pave the way for that bill.

Concur In Amendment

The house concurred in senate amendments to a bill aimed at eliminating the possibility of persons forging witness fee certificates. Three cases of alleged forgery had been uncovered by state investigators, two men having committed suicide and two others having been charged with forgery.

The bill would provide that applications for witness fees be accompanied by affidavits from state and defense attorneys that the witnesses were subpoenaed and by a statement from the trial judge that the witnesses testified. As a further check the district clerk would be required to submit a certified copy of the court minutes to the comptroller.

One on the bills on the governor's desk was a proposal to permit liquor law violators over 25 years old to receive benefits of the suspended sentence law. The bill, attacked by some prohibitionists was passed by the senate 18 to 10, last week notwithstanding an adverse committee report.

Another bill sent to the governor last week would authorize an appropriation of $1,000,000 to repay farmers in certain West and Northeast Texas counties for losses occasioned by a pink boll worm quarantine and those in certain East Texas counties for losses incurred in tick eradication work.

People To Decide

A proposed constitutional amendment to exempt $3,000 of the assessable value of homesteads from the property tax was submitted last week. The people will vote on it in the general election next year.

Governor Sterling signed a bill which would legalize Sunday shows in cities which desired them. This law repealed a sixty year old statute. It will become effective late in August.

BACK Again!

Sun-BACKS will be BACK next summer. And you'd probably have taken BACK anything you've said about their being a BACK number if you'd seen BACK-ward Margot Van Barcom of New York BACK at Miami Beach, Fla., just a few days BACK. The photographer got this picture because he wouldn't BACK down on a demand that she turn BACK to the camera. Yes, the dress is for wear when playing BACK-gammon!

Drive Backward To Cut Down Mileage

OMAHA Neb., May 18 (AP)—"Turn backward, oh miles in thy flight," was the muttered chant of Edward Ely, 19, and Jack Mergen, 24, both of Omaha, as they twisted and cramped their necks to gaze out the windows as their car zig-zagging and careening, proceeded in reverse from South Omaha to uptown, a distance of some four miles.

"Crazy kids driving a car backwards," came the call to police headquarters. Police missed them the first time but nabbed them when a second call came in.

At police headquarters the "crazy kids" explained this way:

"You see, sergeant, we had a couple of dates who lived way down in South Omaha. We rented our car and we thought by driving backwards we could cut down the mileage."

MOBILIZATION IS OUTLINED

COMPREHENSIVE WAR DEPARTMENT PLANS ARE REVIEWED

WASHINGTON, May 18 (AP)—Comprehensive war department plans for quickly mobilizing American industry and raising an army of 4,000,000 men at the outbreak of possible future hostilities have been outlined to the war policies commission by Chief of Staff MacArthur.

The army plans conflicted with a statement to the commission from the administrative committee of the federal council of churches which contended that elaborate war plans create suspicion among foreign nations and diminish, rather than increase, the security of the United States.

Hearings Resumed

MacArthur and other war department officials including Assistant Secretary Payne appeared before the commission, composed of members of the cabinet, house and senate, as it resumed hearings in search of a plan to take the profits out of war.

The chief of staff said the war department is opposed to draft manpower for military service under a selective service law similar to that used in the World war.

Under his proposal, manufacturers of war material would be limited to six per cent profit and other prices would be gradually controlled, if necessary, by negotiation.

Not Satisfactory

"The conscription of labor," the chief of staff said, "the department insists is not a satisfactory solution from any standpoint to the problem of assuring an adequate supply of skilled labor in war.

"It is firmly convinced that aside from constitutional prohibitions, the enforced employment of labor would not receive the support of the public opinion, and even if tolerated by the public at large, would be so resented by the workers affected that they would not lend their best efforts to the production of needed supplies."

MacArthur recommended an educational campaign to teach the suffering and waste of war and to make it plain that in a future conflict "no one would be able to escape a share in the ensuing loss."

East Meets West

WASHINGTON—East is east and west is west, but they can mix. Wallace R. Farrington, formerly governor of Hawaii, said in a radio address that mingling of races probably had furnished a foundation for the higher character of American citizenship in the islands.

American air-transport lines in 1930 carried 285,910 assengers, an increase of 133 er cent over 1929.

J. P. MORGAN HELD MASTER MIND BY MOST OF WORLD BUT TO HOME TOWN HE'S JUST A DEMOCRATIC NEIGHBOR

GLEN COVE, N. Y., May 18 (AP)—In the world of finance J. P. Morgan is known as a master mind, but to this little town on the north shore of Long Island, near where he lives some of the time, he's just a neighbor, kindly and democratic.

Pipe in mouth he is often seen riding on the front seat of his automobile with the chauffeur. On Sundays he passes the collection plate at St. John's Episcopal church, nestling among the quiet hills of Locust valley.

Lives Simple Life

Citizens know he is a world figure and worth millions, but they like him primarily because he is a yachtsman who can handle a sailboat skillfully and lives a simple, friendly life. They like his smile and say the wrinkles at the corners of his eyes come "from laughing with the world—not at it."

Mr. Morgan has two yachts, both of which contain features originated by him. Frequently he decides personally to renovate them and garbed in paint spotted white duck trousers and a bespattered white cap, he scrapes and paints, unmolested by the citizenry.

Has Flower Garden

He has a magnificent flower garden on his estate in which he spends much of his time when he's home. Last year he was "tickled pink" when his violets, iris, tulips and lilies won nine prizes at the international flower show. He was pleased too, when his Guernsey herd of cattle won ribbons at the Nassau county fair.

Twenty years ago Mr. Morgan helped organize St. John's church. When he's home he never misses a vestry service or Sunday worship and for many years has been senior warden of the parrish.

Rare paneling duplicates of those executed by the late Sir Robert Lorimer in the Chapel of Thistle, St. Giles cathedral, Edinburg, Scotland, are in the church edifice, gifts of the Morgans.

Christmas is a big occasion in the life of J. P. (he doesn't like "Pierpont") Morgan. He is a "regular" grandfather to his 16 grandchildren who assemble with their parents in the mansion.

Vacations Abroad

His summers are generally spent abroad while his New York employes enjoy vacations at Camp Elliot Bacon, which he maintains solely for them on the boundary line of Maine and Canada.

Mr. Morgan dislikes personal publicity, as hundreds of newspaper reporters and photographers can testify. On one occasion, however, a number of years ago, while returning from France he broke precedent by granting an interview to a reporter for The Associated Press.

The reporter had prepared a number of questions to ask him about post-war financial affairs in Europe. Before he could say anything, scores of fellow scribes had surrounded the financier, hurling all sorts of queries at him. Mr Morgan fled to his cabin.

But the A. P. man was persistent. He wrote a polite note to Mr. Morgan and set down the questions he did not have an opportunity to present. The note was slipped under the cabin door. Shortly, to astonishment of the reporter he was invited to see him. Most of the questions were answered readily and the reporter came away with real news.

The people hereabouts are awaiting completion of "Morgan memorial park." Built in memory of his wife Mr. Morgan is spending almost a million dollars to make it one of the best in the country.

And yet he will remain just a neighbor to the folks here.

Names That Fit

(By The Associated Press)

MONTREAL—Names that fit are urged on hotels by L. A. David, secretary of the province of Quebec. He said at the county hotel keepers' convention: "Let's have no more Dew Drop Inns and such Americanisms. When the American comes here it is for a change, not for the same blatant nomenclature that probably has already driven him to distraction and Quebec."

ADELE JAHNCKE BORN WITH GOLDEN SPOON IN MOUTH; IS PRETTY BLONDE

BY SUE McNAMARA

WASHINGTON, May 18 (AP)—Miss Adele Jahncke, daughter of Assistant Secretary of Navy Jahncke, who is to be presented at the season's first royal court of King George and Queen Mary in London May 19, seems to have been born with the proverbial golden spoon in her mouth.

A pretty blonde with soft southern accent and ways but with lithe body made strong by athletics, Miss Jahncke has had more than the average society girl's advantages. Her presentation to their majesties at Buckingham palace will be the climax of a girlhood career such as few young American girls have had.

She was graduated from Newcomb college in New Orleans with the bachelor of arts degree.

"Best Girl Skipper"

Inheriting her father's love of yachting she has been called the "best girl skipper of the south."

She was a prominent figure in the picturesque Mardi Gras in her home city a year ago and was the fourth generation of the Jahncke women who have made their debuts in the stately old family mansion there.

She had her capital "coming out" at one of the most formal teas of last season.

A tea was given for her at the White House and flowers sent by Mrs. Hoover for her debut.

When not pursuing the social round Miss Jahncke loves to ride horseback, to fly through the surf bare-headed and bare-armed or to lead the outdoor camping life.

Suggestion Seemed To Be A Good One

CHICAGO, May 18 (AP)—Someone may be money ahead because of David Miller's civic spirit.

"If it seems best," said Miller, an alleged pickpocket, to Municipal Judge Justin F. McCarthy, "I will go to jail for the rest of the jubilee celebration."

There are large crowds on the streets of Chicago these days, and Judge McCarthy did not hesitate in accepting Miller's suggestion.

KONJOLA VERY REMEDY NEEDED

Day By Day, Everywhere This Medicine Is Known New Victories Are Reported

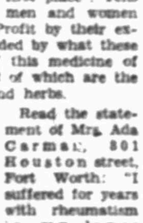

"Konjola is the medicine I should have had in the first place". Tens of thousands of men and women have said that. Profit by their experiences; be guided by what these thousands say of this medicine of 29 ingredients, 22 of which are the juices of roots and herbs.

Mrs. Ada E. Carman

Read the statement of Mrs. Ada Carman, 801 Houston street, Fort Worth: "I suffered for years with rheumatism in my lower limbs. Kidney and bladder weakness worried, and constipation brought on headaches and dizziness. In my experience there is no medicine to equal Konjola, for I have not a trace of rheumatism or constipation."

And consider what Konjola did for Mr. William Davenport, 913 Monroe street, Fort Worth: "This splendid medicine gave me relief from rheumatism after I had about given up hope. I had stomach and kidney disorders too, and I could not find anything to help me. Konjola was recommended, but I was skeptical. But results were amazing. In less than a month all pain vanished, and today I feel better in every way".

Mr. William Davenport

And is there not encouragement in the statement of Mrs. James F. Ferguson, 504 E. Rippy street, Ft. Worth, who declares: "For thirteen years I suffered dreadfully with stomach trouble. Pains followed the simplest meal, while heartburn, dizziness, nausea and headaches were daily occurences. But today I am like a different person. All trace of illness is gone, and I eat heartily."

Mrs. James Ferguson

Konjola contains no alcohol, no nerve-deadening drugs, no heart-depressing chemicals. It needs no such ingredients. Buy Konjola in any drug store, and do not accept a substitute.
