New Peanut Variety W. B. Starr As A Farm Leader

W. B. STARR

More than five decades of good practices as a farmer and good work as a citizen have earned for W. B. Starr, long time resident of the Cisco area, the honor of having a new variety of peanuts named for him.

This information was contained in a recent announcement from the Texas Agriculture Experiment Station at Stephenville by B. C. Langley, superintendent, who developed the new variety. It was given the name of Starr Spanish Peanut to honor "Mr. W. B. Starr, one of the founders of the Southwestern Peanut Growers Association," the announcement said.

Enough Starr peanut seed will be released by the experiment station this year to plant 5,000 acres. Enough seed to plant 10 acres will be allotted to Mr. Starr for planting at his stock farm seven miles southwest of Cisco in the Mitchell Community. Eastland County has been allocated 2,150 pounds.

The experiment station has described Starr peanuts as having a thicker and heavier shell than Spantex but only slightly more so than Argentine. Starr has a lower rate of damaged kernels than most other varieties.

County Agent J. M. Cooper, who has long worked with Mr. Starr in various farm and community projects, said that "It is good to see such a well deserved honor come to Mr. Starr. This shows the respect and admiration that not only the peanut farmers in this region but the professional agriculture workers have for him.

"Mr. Starr saw the great possibilities of growing peanuts commercially on our sandy soils many years ago. He was instrumental in bringing about many of the advantages our agriculture industry now enjoys.

"I have always greatly admired Mr. Starr because of his interest and knowledge of a variety of crops and livestock. His hand and influence have always been on the side of progress. I consider him a friend of agriculture and he and Mrs. Starr are among the outstanding citizens of Eastland County."

This recognition was regarded by many of Mr. Starr's friends and neighbors as well deserved. But he views the type of soil building farm practices that he has carried out for many years as nothing more than the land owner's obligation.

It was 83 years ago this month — April 17, 1878 that Mr. W. B. Starr was born in Richmond, Indiana, to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph West Starr.

After finishing the 9th grade in the public schools, he went to New York City and spent four years attending evening high school, finishing as one of 36 from a beginning class of 500 in 1902.

The Starr family moved to Nebraska from Indiana when Mr. Starr was three years old. There, he spent most of his boyhood and married a doctor's daughter — Elizabeth Jeffries — on August 6, 1903. The Starrs arrived in Cisco on Dec. 20, 1903, and to their farm on January 1, 1904.

Starr bought 320 acres of land — Highland Springs Farm — and they have lived here ever since. Since that time, they have added to their land holdings. From an original one acre in cultivation, the Starr land now has over 200 acres in crops and the balance is in well kept pastures.

During a two-year period, 1912-14, Mr. Starr was employed by the T&P Railroad as an agriculture agent and traveled extensively in West Texas. Following this, he spent two years as secretary of the Fort Worth-El Paso Highway Association and, in 1916, he went to Midland for two years as secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. The Starr home was maintained in Cisco, however, and he returned in 1913 to stay.

Mr. Starr helped organize the Southwestern Peanut Growers Association some 25 years ago and served as its first president. He was appointed on the USDA peanut control board of President Roosevelt in 1934 and spent a year serving the territory west of the Mississippi River.

Mr. Starr was one of the organizers of the Comanche County REA and served as a director two terms. He is a former director of the Stephenville Production Credit association. He has long been active in Cisco and Eastland County civic activities.

The first carload of fertilizer to reach Eastland County came here addressed to W. B. Starr. This is the 37th year that Mr. Starr has organized a carload pool of Irish potato seed for this area.

Mr. and Mrs. Starr raised nine boys and one girl at their farm, and they are all well known in the community.

Like many early-day farmers, Mr. Starr said that he "wore out" the land before he realized it and had to rebuild the soil with the use of cover crops, fertilizer and crop rotation. The cover crop-fertilizer-crop rotation plan has been practiced at Highland Springs Farm for many years.

The Starrs use goats and hogs as livestock projects. The goats improve the land as well as bring in money. They have about 100 hogs on feed at this time and have had as many as 600 in other years. They have grown turkeys a good many years.

The Starr home is large and comfortable and they have all the conveniences of the city. They have a good well of water that is 24 feet deep and equipped with an electric pump. Good roads lead to their farm.

Mr. Starr's activities at the farm have been fewer since a serious illness that took him to the hospital from Thanksgiving until Christmas, 1960. Except for surgery in 1954, he has enjoyed good health over the years.

Last March 29th was the 50th anniversary of the death of Mr.

Starr's father, the late Joseph West Starr, and the son commemorated the occasion by writing an article about it for his children. He noted that his father passed away after a brief illness at the old Hartman Hotel in Cisco during a visit here. The elder Starr was an officer in the Union army during the Civil War. But he was so well thought of that an honor guard of former Confederate veterans accompanied his body to the railway station here.

Soon after his 80th birthday in 1958, Mr. Starr wrote "a statement and acknowledgement" to be attached to the abstract of title, covering the 320 acres of land that he and his wife bought from Charles W. Daniels when they arrived in Cisco. In this he acknowledged that "the true wisdom we acquire during our lives comes from our Almighty Father . . . His voice, if we seek it, will guide our steps as we journey through life . . . Many good farmers soon come to realize that the proper care of their soil constitutes a part of God's wisdom . . . The true title to all land rests in the hands of God."

The statement was attached to the abstract for all who follow Mr. Starr, who has lived the life of a good Quaker all of his years, to see and know that his love for the land was very genuine.
