(By Associated Press)
MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark., Jan. 9.—T. C. Farlin, in jail following a fire in which two of his children and a 16-year old boy lost their lives, faced charges of murder today.

Sheriff R. S. Hurst announced plans of filing charges after he said, an occupant of the Farlin home told him Farlin made no effort to save the children from the burning attack. The sheriff's informant, Miss Edna May Floyd, who with her father and brother lived in the Farlin home, charged that the father could have saved the children, and that he protested when a child, sleeping down stairs, was carried to safety by Miss Floyd.

Three Die In Fire
Miss Floyd's brother, Frank, 16, and two Farlin children, Velma, 14, and a five year old boy, died in the fire.

The sheriff said Retha Farlin, daughter of the accused man, told him she found a door leading to the attic locked and that she escaped only by kicking a hole through a burning wall.

COOLIDGE DISREGARDED BY SENATE COMMITTEE IN APPROVING BILL OF JONES TO BUILD MERCHANT MARINE

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Jan. 9.—Disregarding the policies of President Coolidge, the senate commerce committee today approved the bill of Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, to build up the Merchant Marine and keep it under government supervision through the shipping board.

The measure would not only provide for an extensive replacement program of vessels, but would require the unanimous consent of the shipping board for the sale of any ships.

President Coolidge repeatedly has called for early disposal of the Merchant Fleet but the measure approved today won the support of a substantial number of both democratic and republican on the committee. Senator Copeland, democratic, New York, reserved the right to oppose it.

The bill would "reaffirm" that the policy of the United States is "to maintain permanently a Merchant Marine adequate for the proper growth of the foreign and domestic commerce of the United States and for the national defense."

While no specific sum was mentioned, it is understood by Chairman Jones of the committee that the shipping board has mapped out a plan calling for $200,000,000 expenditures over a period of years in building up the government fleet.

MAY PETERSON THOMPSON FINDS CITY GREATLY IMPROVED; WEST TEXAS' OWN PRIMA DONNA SPEAKS OF HER CAREER

BY BLANCHE E. BEAN
Avalanche-Journal Staff
May Peterson Thompson likes a college audience best because there is youth in the group and because someone is going to receive the message that she is singing; and her love for the youth and the inspiration she gets from singing to it knows no bounds.

Remembering this and that her husband, Col. E. O. Thompson, of Amarillo, is a regent of the Technological college, she is looking forward to her concert at the Tech gymnasium this evening with more than usual interest.

Visited today at her hotel, the singer was exclaiming over the growth of Lubbock, which she had not seen for two years. "It seems almost like a child growing so unexpectedly from the little town class, and I feel that Amarillo must be looking about for this place will be her rival in size," she said.

BLAST IN MINE KILLS TWO AND TRAPS OTHERS

24 MORE MISSING AND LITTLE HOPE HELD FOR RECOVERY

(By Associated Press)
WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., Jan. 9.—Two miners were known to have been killed and 24 were missing four hours after an explosion today in the Industrial Coal company's mine No. 18 near here.

Leroy Sink, chief of police, said he had received word that rescue teams were able to enter the mine by the main shaft, which Sink said had not been damaged. The full force of the explosion was felt in the "first east, north," he said.

It was Sink's understanding that men who had escaped reported that several of those caught in this section had been killed.

More than six hundred men were employed in the mine. All made their escape except the 24 who were cut off by smoke and dust. A mine rescue team was summoned from Benton.

The cause of the explosion was not determined. It occurred in the section known as the "first east north," 600 feet below the surface.

east and west coasts unite with their buddies now on the scene, the force in Nicaragua will approximate 2,400. They will devote their activities, General Lejeune said before leaving Washington yesterday, to eliminating Sandino from the otherwise peaceful Nicaraguan horizon before the August elections.

To Inspect Charges
The general intends merely to inspect his charges in Nicaragua and gather information which probably will be of value to the administration in its study of the situation, which has provoked much criticism in and out of congress. Actual command of the campaign will be left to General Peñal.

General Lejeune may penetrate interior Nicaragua as far as Quilala, present center of Sandino's activities, and upon leaving will sail for the west coast of the United States to inspect marine detachments there.

Citations Show Deeds Of Valor

(By Associated Press)
MANAGUA, N.I.C., Jan. 9.—Citations for gallantry revealed today that American Marines had lived up to the best traditions of the corps famous for intrepid fighting. The citations told of personal courage under withering machine gun fire when the Marines captured Quilala, stronghold of the rebel General Augustus Sandino, on December 30.

Sandino, the self styled "wild Beast of the Mountains," is now believed to be lurking in a mine three miles from El Chipote. A bodyguard of fifty picked men and four boys who have been specially trained to shoot at his request surround him.

Seal Shows Behaving
The rebel leader, whose official documents bear a seal showing a rebel soldier behind a machine, is ready to escape through Honduras or down the Coco river to the Caribbean, if hard pressed.

The 23-year-old general, who was formerly a clerk in an American mine which he captured and destroyed, has resented his law providing the death penalty for the man that sold liquor and the burning of her property for any woman found guilty.

Six officers, two non-commissioned officers and seven privates of the marines and three Navy pharmacists mates were cited for gallantry in action in the capture of Quilala by Colonel Louis Mason Gulick, commanding the marines in Nicaragua. Three Nicaraguans, members of the national guard, also were cited.

Severely wounded early in the battle, Captain Richard Livingston, U. S. M. C. remained on the field until the last of the wounded were removed, heedless of his own safety, the citation said. He was in command of the combat expedition.

"Unusual willingness" was shown by Second Lieutenant John E. Hemphill, Nicaraguan national guard, in giving his life as a member of the advance party. His body was riddled by the first burst of enemy machine gun fire.

Second Lieutenant John L. Neel, national guard (Corporal U. S. M. C.) displayed personal courage of the highest order. Wounded and unable to handle a weapon, he stuck to his position as a member of the advance party. He made his way forward to look out for the welfare of his men and to get ammunition forward to his guns. Due to his altruistic action, the enemy's position was discovered and a great loss of life averted.

Roos Led Advance

Sergeant Otto N. Roos, U. S. M. C. led a section of the advance guard which received a withering machine gun fire from a concealed position. He was hit by two machine gun bullets which were deflected by ammunition in his belt and only inflicted slight wounds. When the advance machine gun ran out of ammunition Sergeant Roos without orders and with utter disregard of his own life made his way along a narrow trail which the enemy raked with fire from three sides, procured the ammunition and brought same to the advance machine gun, thereby displaying courage and gallantry which greatly assisted in sustaining the morale of the advance guard.

Private Charles E. Turner, U. S. M. C. was seriously wounded in the first burst of machine gun fire. After regaining consciousness he crawled to a position to fire on the enemy and continued to fire until he fainted from pain and loss of blood.

Private Herbert D. Lester, U. S. M. C. brought a mule carrying the advance guard's machine gun through devastating enemy fire, set up a gun and kept it running after the Corporal in charge had been riddled with enemy machine gun fire.

Gould Forges To Front

First Lieutenant Moses J. Gould, U. S. M. C. who assumed command of the expedition, Captain Livingston was wounded worked his way forward in front of the enemy lines to conduct the machine gun fire, showing skill and soldierly ability under the most difficult circumstances. He was slightly wounded.

First Lieutenant Thomas J. Hiltcourse, U. S. M. C. under a heavy withering and well directed fire from the enemy disregarded his personal safety and moved up to the enemy's right thus frustrating their apparent plan to attack from that direction.

Lieutenant William T. Minnick, Medical Corps, U. S. N. exposed himself to the rebel's fire in caring for the wounded. He was slightly wounded.

Qualities Of Leadership

Sergeant William E. Roberts, U. S. M. C. showed "qualities of leadership of the highest order, his gallantry and personal courage being an example to all."

Private John A. Harts, U. S. M. C. exposed himself to heavy enemy fire to procure ammunition from the back of a terrified mule.

Private George Rackemann, U. S. M. C. fired his machine gun with one hand and assisted in holding an ammunition mule with the other.

Private Victor C. Hughes, U. S. M. C. kept up a heavy well directed fire in face of enemy machine gun fire from the front and rifle fire from the flanks.

Pharmacist Mate Weldeb C. Calk, U. S. N. travelled back and forth along the column under heavy fire to bring dressings from the rear and render first aid to the injured.

Pharmacists Mate George B. Werthington, U. S. N., went to the head of the column to render first aid to the wounded at the risk of his own life.

Private Glenn Smith, U. S. M. C. planted himself in an open and dangerous point to better return fire against the rebels.

Private David J. Jones, U. S. M. C. displayed great coolness in removing ammunition from a mule while under heavy fire.

Lieutenant Merton A. Richal of Minneapolis who was wounded Jan. 2, when leading reinforcements to Quilala and is invalided here was paid high tribute by his soldiers as the hero of the column.

On his soldiers said it was one of the greatest acts of heroism they had ever seen.

Rogers Arson Case Not Set For Trial

GEORGETOWN, Jan. 9. (AP)—The case in which Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers is charged with arson in connection with burning of a house at Round Rock more than a year ago, was passed today without setting a date for trial when the criminal court docket was called.

At one trial of the case the state alleged Mrs. Rogers, who since has been convicted of robbing the bank at Buga, Texas, set fire to the vacant house near the bank in Round Rock in an effort to distract attention of bank employees from funds before them. At the first trial the jury disagreed. Mrs. Rogers now is at liberty under bond pending appeal from her conviction at LaGrange for having robbed the Buga bank.

WHY NOT?

We people of Lubbock believe that the people of other sections would be much better off were they to come and join us in the development of the South Plains. We believe we offer the farmers of other sections the greatest land values of the age. We believe in its productivity, in the climate and know that this section of fers opportunities in greater proportion than older developed sections. For those and other good reasons the people of Lubbock are intending to expend a neat sum in National advertising. We believe that advertising will be as much for the benefit of those who read it as its results will be to this section. The South Plains, because of its opportunities deserves National advertising.

REVAMPED GIANTS TO OFFER STRONG OPPOSITION IN FLAG CHASE

NEW MATERIAL IS GIVEN CLUB BY "NAPOLEON"

INFIELD AIRTIGHT AND PITCHING TO BE OF BEST CALIBRE

(By Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—Barring some sling and arrow practice by outrageous misfortune, John McGraw believes the New York Giants will have considerable to say before the national league's 1928 champions are crowned.

The Giants had a lot of luck last year but it was mostly bad. Injuries during the early part of the season kept the "Napoleon" busy trying to devise some sort of a lineup that could keep him from being left at the post before the race really got underway. Finally the jinx departed and the McGrawmen started an upward climb that threatened to bring both major league pennants to New York. The drive came to a halt, however, and the Giants were forced to trail both Pittsburgh and St. Louis.

Probably considering himself lucky to finish as high as third place, McGraw began his plans for the 1928 campaign. The addition of Lefty O'Doul, crack coast league outfielder, and a flock of new pitchers has given the Giants "paper power" that seems the equal of that of any of their rivals.

In Terry, Hornsby, Jackson and Lindstrom, McGraw has one of the best infelds in the league; the two "Andys"—Reese and Cohen—are the principal reserves. Other infielders include Baker Jordan or Charlotte, N. C., and C. R. Crawford, Greenville, N. C. With Harper and Roush as two sure starters, McGraw is depending upon O'Doul to fill out his quota of fly-chasers. Once a pitcher with the Yankees, O'Doul experienced a change of snoring flies and hitting them far and often. He comes to the Giants from San Francisco. The other outfielders include Leslie Mann, that terror of southpaws; Art Jahn, once with the Chicago Cubs; and Melvin Ott, pinch-hitter extraordinary.

Pitchers Are Good
Indications are that the chief burden on the mound will be carried by Larry Benton, who led the league on a won and lost basis last year, Burleigh Grimes, Fred Starnes and Virgil Barnes. McGraw hopes to develop at least one more starting hurler from among "Edgie" Benfey, Ben Cantelero, Jacksonville right-hander, "Lefty" Faulkner, Toronto star, Bill Walker, Denver Southpaw, and Thurston Johnson, purchased from Norfolk. All of these saw service during the latter part of the 1927 campaign.

SNYDER-GRAY

Warden Lawes upon discovery that Mrs. Snyder had struggled letters to her mother, Mrs. Josephine Brown, by hiding them in a washroom used by Mrs. Brown on visits to the prison. The notes subsequently appeared in a tabloid newspaper.

Had Suspected Counsel
Warden Lawes at first suspected members of Mrs. Snyder's counsel and forbade visits by them. Later he discovered that Mrs. Brown was the messenger. She will be permitted to visit her daughter only on the regular visiting days, which are today and Wednesday.

Henry Judd Gray, Mrs. Snyder's paramour, who is under sentence to die with her for the murder of the woman's husband, was not affected by the order. He received visits yesterday from his mother, Mrs. Margaret Gray, and his sister, Mrs. Harold E. Logan, and her husband.

Guards Doubled
The start of the week during which both prisoners are to die unless executive clemency from Governor Smith or a last-minute legal move intervenes, resulted in a doubling of their guard. Warden Lawes said they would be under constant surveillance until the executions.

A breach in the ranks of Mrs. Snyder's counsel complicated matters today. Edgar P. Hazelton, her chief counsel instructed prison officials to admit no lawyers to Mrs. Snyder unless he was present. Joseph L. Landon, an associate of Dana Wallace, her counsel, was especially mentioned by Hazelton. Discussion between Hazelton and Landon developed when Landon learned that Frank Bannaba, law clerk for Hazelton, was planning to take Mrs. Snyder's nine year old daughter, Lorraine, to the death house to visit her mother. He objected and the proposed visit was cancelled.

Landon said he was prepared to go before the United States Supreme Court for a writ of error, while Hazelton declared no further legal action would be taken. Samuel L. Miller, counsel for Gray, said he would appeal to state and federal courts for a stay of execution on information he said he had just obtained but which he did not reveal.

A THING OF BEAUTY IS A JOY FOREVER

Our University Place 100 foot home sites have a beautiful situation now and their beauty of situation and environment will surely continue to increase as the development of the Tech campus unfolds and the costly homes for which sites have already been purchased, are constructed.

Have you noticed that the general architectural scheme of Tech college buildings tend to indicate that the campus will front south and its main entrance be from 19th street.

University Place comprises the last tract of land right at the Tech's front within easy walking distance of all of its buildings.

It is the place you will want to live some day, so why not avail yourself of our low prices and easy payment plan now instead of waiting and having to pay the fancy price that such properties command when its logical development is only a bit further along.

Where else can you make a small investment that assures you of the large profits that these 100 foot highly restricted sites assure you of? INVESTIGATE.

THE PLAINSMAN

Says:

That Girl on Broadway says as if flying is concerned, she will be content to start at the bottom and stay there.

Nearly everybody in Lubbock, after reading reports of last Thursday night's shooting, which resulted in the death of one man and the injury of two others, has formed an opinion.
That's natural.

But too many people who have formed an opinion, one way or another, are trying to force that opinion on somebody else. That may also be natural but it is not fair to say of the principals in the case.

As far as The Plainsman is concerned he is willing to await the production of the facts—he is willing to withhold his personal verdict until he has received the actual official report.

That Man on Avenue Q has discovered that two can live cheaply one can play golf.

"No man who has an annual income of more than $10,000 can afford to travel any other way than by airplane," says a young lady who recently became a devotee of aviation. That statement indicates that if her advice is taken there will soon be a number of vacancies in offices where the pay is so remunerative.

"Bell County Open Warfare on Roads," announces a headline in the Temple Daily Telegram. Oh, Rats!

Beginning with the Monday edition of the Daily Journal and the Tuesday morning issue of the Morning Avalanche, these newspapers will receive their Associated Press reports over what is known as the "printer circuit."

The Daily Journal's wire will open at seven a. m., and run straight through without pause to three p. m. The Morning Avalanche wire opens at four p. m. and runs through to one a. m. This arrangement will give each eight-hour period accounting for from 18,500 to 20,000 words.

"The printer circuit" is the latest whopper in delivering news to the editorial rooms of newspapers.
The A. P. is installing printers in all offices in Texas, replacing the usual operators who have hitherto performed the work.

The automatic printer is a machine of marvelous perfection. It is a super-typewriter which runs by electro-magnetic control. Without the aid of human hands, these machines take the electric impulses from the wire and translate them into words and sentences on white paper which comes from rolls across the plate of the typewriter. As it played on by invisible fingers, the key of the typewriter understands their meaning on the paper and this in turn is torn off as needed and sent to the typist machine.

The impulses which set the machine in motion come from a similar machine which in this case is located at Dallas. The dispatches are written out on stiff paper and then ready for the sending machine. This paper looks very much like the roll from which "clerks" are played. The automatic printers are much faster than the old system of manual typewriting and considerably more economical in operation.

The passing of the telegraph operators will be sincerely regretted by newspaper offices. Almost without exception he was a gentleman, a man of keen wit and wide knowledge, and always a loyal member of the staff although he was in the employ of and was paid by the news association. His wonderful skill and his never-failing good humor in the midst of difficulties have become traditional. An important personage was the telegraph operator and the A. P. operator was always the elite of the profession. The top-hand of all telegraphers. He had to be efficient and skillful to work for the A. P.

The city girl was on the farm.

yelled.
She did. Right in the kitchen.

Chances Of Red Hot Reed-Dawes Fight This Year Is Lending Added Zest To Political Outlook—Dutcher

IN NEW YORK
SEE-SAWING
AND
BROADWAY

NEW YORK, Jan. 9.—See-sawing up and down Broadway, I saw Ring Lardner, the short story scribe and the particular favorite of any laurels that happen to be going round at the opening of "The Love Nest," which Robert Sherwood dramatized from his satiric tale of Hollywood. And it did seem to me that the greatest comic Sherwood, who measures at least seven feet with or without stockings, didn't do so well by the tale as he might.

And looking over what New York is pleased to call celebrities, I remember the words of a telephone columnist, Bob Clark, who said upon arrival from Baltimore:
"New York is a place filled with celebrities, that nobody ever heard of." Which is my idea of the wisest crack of the season. Nevertheless I saw Sophie Treadwell, who once wrote pieces out in San Francisco and who contributes a play almost annually, but somehow never seems able to retire on the profits—And Horace Laveright, looking as though the book publishing season had been hectic.
James Montgomery Flagg, who seems to be growing a bit older for the pretty maids he draws—the veteran, Dr. Wolfe Hopper, who is the Broadway whoos who Saw Otis Skinner at the opening of John Murray Anderson's school for the drama, dance, movies, or whatever it is. And that old Thespian, who seems to be a bit sad over the status of the modern stage and regretted the disappearance of "the good old things of the stage."

WE who try to vision the passing show of a modern Manhattan are frequently reminded by the planners that New York isn't what it used to be. We may say the latest contributor, write of spargle, glitter, jazz and skyscrapers, but Manhattan is no longer Manhattan. There is no sparkle, no glitter, no jazz, no skyscrapers, no sparkle, no glitter, no jazz, no skyscrapers. When the long skirted and beghemmed ladies of "them
days" came down the street "there was class." And when one went to Sherry's and Delmonico's one did not see flappers drunk on bathtub gin, but sophisticated ladies of the world whose behavior "was that of the salon"—whatever that is.

THIS "old timer" writes that he can even remember the days of Barnum and his silver-tongued spokesman, one "Professor Hutchinson," and defines a "modern" generation to produce a spellbinder who can bring you to tears over the wonders and terrors of the Tattooed Greek, or the Piji Mermaid or the freakish Jumbo.

And, he recalls actors who were not ashamed to be "ham" and to shout their lines until the gals in the back seats of the gallery yell.
It's all so different now. Everything tries so hard to be refined,
he suggests, without knowing how.
But since I did not live in "them days" I'll reserve comments for 20 years, when I can sit down and write of those "grand old times" of 1927.

If that should be the 1938 lineup, politics certainly would again be politics. What a rip-roaring, beltbusting campaign it ought to be!

The fact is that although neither of being nominated by his party, the chances for the nomination of both apparently were never bet-

ephone columnist, Bob Clark, who
said upon arrival from Baltimore:
"New York is a place filled with
celebrities, that nobody ever heard
of." Which is my idea of the wisest crack of the season. Nevertheless I saw Sophie Treadwell, who once wrote pieces out in San Francisco and who contributes a play
almost annually, but somehow
never seems able to retire on the
profits—And Horace Laveright,
looking as though the book publishing season had been hectic.
James Montgomery Flagg, who
seems to be growing a bit older
for the pretty maids he draws—the veteran, Dr. Wolfe Hopper, who is the Broadway whoos who Saw Otis Skinner at the opening of John Murray Anderson's
school for the drama, dance, movies, or whatever it is. And that old Thespian, who seems to be
a bit sad over the status of the modern stage and regretted the
disappearance of "the good
old things of the stage."

WE who try to vision the passing show of a modern Manhattan are frequently reminded by the planners that New York isn't what it used to be. We may say the latest contributor, write of spar-
gle, glitter, jazz and skyscrapers,
but Manhattan is no longer Manhattan. There is no sparkle, no
glitter, no jazz, no skyscrapers,
no sparkle, no glitter, no jazz, no
skyscrapers. When the long skirted
and beghemmed ladies of "them
days" came down the street "there was class." And when one went to Sherry's and Delmonico's one did not see flappers drunk on bath-
tub gin, but sophisticated ladies
of the world whose behavior "was
that of the salon"—whatever that
is.

THIS "old timer" writes that he can even remember the days of Barnum and his silver-tongued
spokesman, one "Professor Hutchinson," and defines a "modern" generation to produce a spellbinder who can bring you to tears over the wonders and terrors of the Tattooed
Greek, or the Piji Mermaid or the
freakish Jumbo.

And, he recalls actors who were
not ashamed to be "ham" and to
shout their lines until the gals in
the back seats of the gallery yell.
It's all so different now. Everything tries so hard to be refined,
he suggests, without knowing how.
But since I did not live in "them
days" I'll reserve comments for 20 years, when I can sit down and
write of those "grand old times"
of 1927.

SOME of the smarter politicians say that the next Republican candidate must appeal to the drys, the business interests and the agricultural west. Nearly any outstanding Republican can make an appeal to the first two elements, but when it comes to the west, the field narrows down.

Such minor candidates as Senators Curtis and Willis, it should be noted, seem to be taking them-

BIRTHDAYS KILL MORE THAN AUTOS

Birthdays have killed more women than automobiles or anything else, according to Madame Ida Chernoff, who will conduct the second annual Beauty and Health school in Fort Worth January 16, 17 and 18 under the auspices of the Star-Telegram and Record-Telegram.

Years approach rapidly and women become so conscious of them that they permit themselves to fall into the habit of protecting their bodies rather than ignoring Father Time.

Madame Chernoff's philosophy of beauty, which will be expounded by lecture and demonstration during the school, is that a few girls are born to be beautiful and charming, but that most women must plan and work to attain charm.

The wise use of one's own brain will bring all the beauty and charm that will ever be needed, according to Madame Chernoff. She lists the four things, through the exercise of which the individual may win poise, confidence, health and well grooming.

"Sit down for 10 minutes and commune with yourself. Face the situation you must meet, decide just how you will dress and plan the occasion as far as you can.

"If your nerves are tired, rest them and gain complete self control, proceed through a leisurely toilette, have an unburied bath and let the moments before your dressing table be moments of rest and recuperation."

"Then with dignity and assurance take your place among others with the knowledge that you have made best of every advantage and that it is wasteful to spend even a single thought in wishing that your dress, or your face, or even your hair were otherwise."

"In this forgetfulness of self you will make other people conscious of your good points and put them at ease and the verdict is sure to be "What a charming woman!"—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

The desire on the part of many women to keep their youthful appearance seems to be more serious to their general health than the average man or woman would imagine. The practice of doing too many things that are the opposite to nature no doubt has brought men and women to their graves at a much earlier year than they would otherwise.

Women who try to look young regardless of the cost will meet certainly pay the price for it, and the sooner they find this out the better off they will be.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, the greatest healing agent that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, whooping cough and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu.
Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

BECAUSE HENRY FORD saw, realized and cooperated with the ruling, dominating impulse of the human race which is one of continuous upward progress and development; and that this required mobile or flexible transportation for the individual, he has stepped the race up higher and higher and further than any other man of modern times in a few years.

A part of the benefits accruing to Mr. Ford is one billion dollars and over—the first man in his history to go from the red to the billionnaire in 20 years. This cooperation by him with the invariable immutable trend of the race, has increased both the selling and intrinsic value of every habitable foot of real estate on the globe.

And he has increased the value of his own land from the red to the billionnaire in 20 years. This cooperation by him with the invariable immutable trend of the race, has increased both the selling and intrinsic value of every habitable foot of real estate on the globe.

This has stimulated the desire for and willingness to buy the most expensive family cars to a greater degree than it has the lower priced cars.

The same steel that sells for a few cents per ounce in a Ford car will sell as readily for many times that in a Buick or Rolls-Royce. So there is the difference between restricted and unrestricted.

So much for relying on and working for principle—that principle which governs all things and commodities—real estate as well as automotive, which causes two apples and two apples to be four apples and two matches and two matches to be four matches.

Now, there is a greater need and stronger desire for fine homes than ever was for automobiles and there is an ever-increasing willingness and ability to buy.

The man of value to a community—the constructive man willingly accepts the rapid depreciation which always accompanies the better family cars, and in the records of his estate you will find that he always offsets that and other such depreciation by establishing a home in a highly restricted and exclusive addition where value is always steadily increasing.

Lubbock is rapidly becoming a wealthy little city of fine homes. There remains only one tract logically located for 100 foot sites with high restrictions, which has not already been sold out in 30 foot lots.

This only remaining tract is UNIVERSITY PLACE, which overlooks the Tech campus, a good number of these 100 foot sites have already been selected.

To those who wish to buy now and build later, we will make unusually attractive terms.

Like cause always produces like effect.

MANY ENROLL IN SCOUT TRAINING SCHOOL IN CITY

Fifty Lubbock Scout Workers and fathers have registered for the Scout Leaders Training school programs which open tomorrow night at 7 o'clock at the First Presbyterian church, according to information gained from Dr. Paul W. Horn, chairman of the Leadership and Training committee. The programs will be held every Tuesday night for six weeks.

More men are expected to sign for the programs today and scout officials are expecting an attendance of around 75 at the meetings. The program tomorrow night will be featured mostly with the organization of the course and the establishment of the various study groups. Special music will be given by a male quartet and other events are scheduled for the program.

Good representation at the meetings will come from Littlefield, Anton, Levelland, Ropesville, Wolfarth, Rails, and Crosbyton, scout officials report.

gratified that so many understand what she has to give them.

Father Taught Her

"My father, whom I adored, taught me many lessons when I was a child that I will remember all of my life. I remember that when I was a child of possibly eleven years, he was singing a revival. One day he called me to his knee and asked to whom I was singing the night before.

"I was not sure, I told him, but he smiled for he knew. You were singing to that attractive man on the front row. But there were many people on the back row who wanted your message and who could not understand a word that you had to say. Now, tonight, I want you to sing to those on the back row.

"Forget your voice. It is God-given and you have not it to give, the message is yours to impart."

Since she has been singing over radio, May Peterson hears frequently of those days when her home was in Oshkosh, Wis., and she was singing with her father in revival.

Not long ago a man wrote reminding her of the days when she had a contract to sing for his church at five dollars per week and many of the people who heard her childish voice then are writing to the artist today.

Hardships, No Trouble

The hardships of those early years are not remembered as troubles by this singer. She was doing the thing she most wanted to do, singing, and she was sustained by determination that said she could attain her goal if she tried hard enough.

And during the time that she was singing in the United States and working in Europe at anything and everything she could find to earn pennies, this singer accumulated a vast knowledge of human nature and an understanding of that has given her an unusual personality and charm.

She continues to work at her art, trying new interpretations of songs, studying to attain a perfection that will be greater than that she now has.

A song in a foreign language may be only so much "parrot talk" to one who has no knowledge of the tongue," this singer explained, "and I have found that those who hear me seem to enjoy a song much better if I give a synopsis of the song-story before the presentation in order that my message may reach them." And in all her singing, she strives to reach her listener and help him to understand the song.

Husband Not Here

The singer came to Lubbock Sunday and night spent yesterday at her hotel and in seeing Lubbock. Colonel Thompson was to accompany her here but could not come on Sunday night. He had sent word this morning to his wife that he might fly down from Amarillo to-night for the concert.

The technological college is giving a reception at Hotel Lubbock this evening for the singer and her husband. Faculty members of the college and friends of the couple in this city are to call on them at this time. A dinner will be served tomorrow noon at the Tech home economics building by faculty members in that school for the singer.

Handcuffed Man Is Loose On Plains

SAN ANGELO, Jan. 9 (AP)—Somewhere in West Texas, a man is walking across the plains with handcuffs on his wrists, unless friends have helped him or he has succeeded in freeing himself of the shackles.

He was arrested by a San Angelo motorcycle officer Sunday when the officer was investigating a reported fight. He placed handcuffs on the man, only to have him swim off in the icy waters of the Concho as he turned his attention to two other men who had been badly beaten.

Providence was the first city in the United States to have open air schools.

CHARGES FILED ON TWO INJURED IN LIQUOR RAID

Still confined to the hospital because of the wounds received in the shooting Thursday night in which Bill Richardson was killed when Sheriff H. L. Johnston and Deputy Vernice Ford raided a liquor cache, R. B. (Blackie) Lester and Byron Lewis, local men, are now facing charges of transporting liquor. The complaints were filed late Saturday with Justice of the Peace Guy R. Scott.

The bonds of the men will not be set until they are released from the hospital, officers said. They will be confined for several days longer. Lester was shot in the jaw and Lewis sustained a wound in the arm.

In the car with the men were two quarts of liquor and officers discovered 79 more in the roof of the car. Following the shooting, they reported.

The funeral of Richardson was held in Dallas Saturday.
