Saigon May Stall Talks

PARIS (UPI)—Western diplomats, North Vietnam, the United States and South Vietnam may block meaningful National Liberation Front peace negotiations until U.S. officials have said they will not be in any talks with the Communists on procedural matters, Nixon will take a somewhat harder line with the Communists.

An indication of possible foot-dragging by the South Vietnamese came Saturday with the announcement that Ambassador Phan Dong Lam was not arriving from Saigon on Sunday as scheduled.

Delays Arrival
Lam, chief South Vietnamese observer in the Paris talks, will not be arriving for "several days," a Saigon spokesman said. Lam is considered a possible leader of the South Vietnamese delegation to the four-sided talks involving Saigon, North Vietnam, the United States and South Vietnam.

Nixon Wanting To Fill All Jobs By Inauguration

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Despite a lot in announcing his cabinet choices, President-elect Richard M. Nixon has sent down orders that he wants all major policy positions in his administration filled when he takes office on Jan. 20, it was disclosed Saturday.

A top Nixon aide said the incoming president is seeking to avoid the burden of employment problems when he moves into the White House.

"Traditionally, little more than the cabinet and perhaps sub-cabinet has been filled when presidents moved into office," said Harry S. Fleming, Nixon's personnel chief.

The goal is to have every policy job in the government filled by inauguration day. "Continuing said in an interview, "This may be difficult but we're trying to do it."

Most of the 2,000 policy positions pay between $20,000 and $28,000. Nixon himself is receiving $200,000 a year, higher than other higher echelon officials whose salaries will range up to $135,000.

Fleming has gone beyond simply accepting appointments. (See NIXON, Page 3)

French Christmas Won't Be So Happy

PARIS (UPI)—President Charles de Gaulle's save-the-franc austerity program hit Christmas Saturday.

The latest crackdown by the government, trying desperately to save both the franc and the wobbling economy, came with the announcement the post office will not be delivering letters children write to Santa Claus.

In past years there has been a special service run by the post office where letters ad-

Discontinue Service
The service was discontinued "due to cuts in the budget," the post office announced Saturday.

In an "crackdown measure," a time closer to Christmas, the government announced a hike in the price of automotive fuels, including gasoline. At 86 cents a gallon, regular gasoline in France already was the highest in Europe.

The increase Saturday was from two to three centimes, one hundredth of a franc per liter. This means a two cents a gallon increase, putting it at 88 cents a gallon. The price increase, which also includes diesel fuel, went into effect midnight Saturday.

There was only a slight increase in the normal number of people buying gasoline, trying

Kremlin Issues Harsh Words On Reform Moves

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union told Czechoslovakia's leaders Saturday to accelerate their country's return to hard-line communism.

Admitting that "not everyone will like the decision," the Russians said "now more than ever before" the regime of reformist Alexander Dubcek must implement the promises made to the Soviets after the August invasion.

The Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda said "certain people passing themselves as supporters of true democracy" were exerting pressure on the Czechoslovak party and leadership that was contrary to the post-invasion accords between Prague and Moscow.

These "right-wing elements" should either "work honestly with the party or leave and get out of the way," Pravda said.

The harsh words were echoed in the Soviet military newspaper Red Star, which said "reactionary forces" were trying to taint the close relationship between the occupation troops and the Czechoslovak army.

Observers said the renewed newspaper admonitions appeared to indicate unhappiness within the Kremlin over the pace of Czechoslovakia's return to orthodox Communist policy and ideology.

GOP Task Force Proposes Laws Against Crime

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House Republicans proposed Saturday a sweeping package of law and order measures for the 91st Congress ranging from a major crackdown on crime lords to job plan for the unemployed.

A GOP task force on crime problems said it would introduce a number of bills to deal with the law and order problem, a dominant 1968 campaign issue.

The bills, some of which were introduced this year, are aimed at putting racketeers behind bars, but the proposals also would help ex-convicts get rehabilitation and job help as well.

Some Measures
Among the measures—which the House Republicans said were not necessarily part of the Nixon administration's own law and order package:

A tax incentive plan for industries that help rehabilitate lawbreakers while they are behind bars.

Solicitation of industry's help to get convicts jobs when they are released.

Plans for surety bonds to industries as an inducement to hire ex-convicts.

Also, the Republicans propose to spell out guidelines for judges who feel that present bail laws require them to unwise-ly free high-risk suspects.

Major Part
A major part of the package, however, is with organized crime. As part of this proposed crackdown, mobsters convicted of infiltrating legitimate busi-

Officials Decide to Seal Mine 78 Men Abandoned for Dead

MANNINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—On Nov. 13, 1964, Mannington

For the second time in 14 Nov. 9 was sealed with 16 men trapped deep underground following Mannington No. 9 coal mine sealing was closed Saturday.

At that time it was closed for 11 days before rescue crews entered its still-hot tunnels and recovered the bodies.

After that, stories spread in the West Virginia coal fields about the finding of diaries and marks cut on walls showing men still were alive when the mine was sealed.

Officials and the rescue teams which entered the mine denied the stories and said all evidence indicated the 16 men were killed in the explosion.

This time the underground news of the sealing with quiet explosions and about a dozen smaller blasts, were expected to burn much longer.

The mine's portals were "capped" the day following the Nov. 13, 1964 accident. They were not capped this time until 10 days after an initial explosion before dawn Nov. 20 trapped 90 men shortly before they were to leave the mine after completing the overnight shift. Twenty-one men escaped or were rescued hours after the blast.

No Contact
No contact ever was made with the 78 others.

The families of the trapped men generally accepted the news of the sealing with quiet dignity when it was announced late Friday by John Corcoran, president of Consolidation Coal Co., owner of the mine.

There was little bitterness. The families felt the conveyance had done all possible to attempt to reach the trapped men.

Before dawn Saturday workers completed sealing the five portals with tons of concrete, steel and lumber. The closed portals were made off limits because the danger of continued explosions was "still great," a company spokesman said.

Scores of air samples brought up through 10 bore holes drilled in the mine during the past week showed the underground air had a high content of carbon monoxide and methane gas unable to sustain life.

Workers Unwilling To Pay Party Dues

By JAMES O. JACKSON
PRAGUE (UPI)—A top official in the Czechoslovak government said Saturday "diplomatic means" will be used to stop the illegal spread of Soviet propaganda in this country.

Petr Colotka, a deputy premier with special responsibilities in the communications field, told Czechoslovak television an official ban by the Prague government against the pro-Soviet newspaper Zpravy News had "no effect."

"Now diplomatic means will be used, and I am optimistic that they will bring good results," Colotka said. He did not say whether a formal protest would be lodged with Soviet occupation authorities.

Zpravy is believed to be published in East Germany. Members of the Czechoslovak Parliament attacked the newspaper last week, charging it was printing "libels" against prominent Czechoslovak political figures.

The newspaper is printed in Czechoslovakia and distributed by Red army occupation troops. The official ban on it was imposed early in November.

In another development, a Czechoslovak newspaper said steel workers, angry with the Soviet-imposed hard line, are refusing to pay their Communist party dues.

It said dissident workers at a giant Moravian steel plant sought to withhold their dues "until we hear their views are taken into consideration."

Unusual Protest
The unusual protest was reported in the Czechoslovak party newspaper Rude Pravo, which said the workers were unhappy over the creation of a committee to set up a separate Communist party organization (See CZECH, Page 3)

Vatican Censures Dutch Catechism For It's 'Errors'

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—The Vatican Saturday censured a new Dutch catechism which has come to represent to dissident Catholics many of the things they find wrong with the church.

A document signed by six cardinals appointed by Pope Paul VI to investigate this catechism called for correction and clarification of "erroneous" interpretations of Catholic teaching.

It warns that the catechism would lead Catholics to misunderstand what the church teaches.

The Vatican did not condemn the two-year-old catechism or the Dutch theologians who wrote or approved of it, however. It confined itself to sharp criticism while saying much of the "uncommon" interpretation of doctrine was laudable in its attempt to reach modern man.

It was clear the Vatican was deeply displeased at the refusal of Dutch theologians to change parts of the catechism's text, especially passages dealing with the nature of the most cherished tenets of Catholicism.

The catechism, which since its publication has become a focus of acute controversy within the church, questions the existence of angels, the doctrine of original sin and the doctrine of transubstantiation—the belief that the blood and body of Christ is physically present in the bread and wine of Communion.

It would not ask for assistance from anyone," he told a news conference Saturday, on the 25th anniversary of the assembly here that led to his federal republic.

Since the Czechoslovak invasion last August, Western military sources have expressed concern that the Russians might move against the liberal-leaning Yugoslavs and Romanians.

Yugoslavia has been on a protective alert since the Soviet-led Warsaw Pact troops rolled into Czechoslovakia Aug. 20-21.

Tito said he had "asked no guarantees from the Soviet Union" that they keep hands off Yugoslavia. He also branded wide reports that Romania would allow Warsaw Pact military maneuvers inside its territory as "Romania's own affair."

Tito expressed "anxiety," however, over the presence of U.S. and Soviet fleets in the Mediterranean. He said there would be less tension in the Balkans "if both fleets had not been (in the Mediterranean) in the first place."

Officials Decide to Seal Mine 78 Men Abandoned for Dead

MANNINGTON, W. Va. (UPI)—For the second time in 14 years the five portals of the burning Mannington No. 9 coal mine were sealed Saturday, burying the fate of 78 miners abandoned for dead deep in its underground chambers.

The portals were sealed with concrete, lumber and steel to cut off the supply of oxygen feeding the flames.

No one would hazard a guess on when the fires deep in the mine's seven miles of tunnels would die out and mine teams would be able to enter and recover the bodies.

It could be better, but I don't believe I've seen as many cattle on wheat before than at present. There are several dry spots in the county where wheat was rather late in being sown. In the Groom area there are more stocker cattle per square mile than I have seen in almost a decade.

There seems to be a good supply of stocker calves to the east by the auction sales reports and a rather large number coming into the Panhandle area.

In the latest USDA Livestock and Meat Situations Report, the forecast is that cattle numbers will remain about the same as last January. In mid-January of next year a cattle numbers report will be published.

With the tremendous increase in slaughter, and the large sell of cow herds in the Great Plains area, it is difficult to see anything other than a population decrease in cattle numbers.

The cash market has been in a steady rise for the last several weeks. Cash choice steers in Chicago are now quoted from twenty-eight, twenty-five, to twenty-nine fifty. Another fifty cent rise in prices would place choice steers in the thirty cent category.

Should this happen and we have a steady market through January, keep a keen eye open for the mid-January cattle numbers report.

If a substantial decline in cattle numbers was reported then the Futures Market might run wild. The Futures Market has moved up much faster recently than stocker calves or steers. If we get another one dollar surge in the Futures Market, hedging of modest profits would be profitable.

One thing our local cattle feeders are so very cautious about is the fact that the higher the fat market rises, the farther it will have to fall.

Is your rangeland producing at its potential?

A new concept in range management may increase your income from rangeland up to 25 per cent over a period of several years.

Pioneered by the Sonora Experiment Station, the new concept — range rotation — deferred grazing — has been tested by several Panhandle ranchers with excellent results.

One Hemphill County rancher reported income from rangeland increased 25 per cent over a period of four years. Other Panhandle ranchers are reporting similar results.

At the present time, no rancher in the Gray County Soil Conservation District is using one of these systems.

The rotation grazing system can be fitted to any size operation. It can be set up to include two, three or four COLLEGE STATION — Texas A&M University, through its Opportunity Awards Program, offers numerous scholarships and grants to single students who will graduate from Texas high schools next spring, announces County Agricultural Agent Foster Whaley.

Senior high school students interested in obtaining a college education should take a close look at this awards program. Since only several months remain before the deadline for applying for these awards, now is a good time to check with your high school counselor or to write Texas A&M University for additional information.

Scholarships under the Opportunity Awards Program are available in amounts up to $800 per academic year. Academic achievement and leadership capability are the main considerations in awarding these scholarships although financial need is also considered. Part-time employment is also offered to recipients of these scholarships.

Also a part of the program are grants awarded under the Higher Education Act of 1965. These are in value of up to $1,200 per academic year with financial need being the major consideration.

Academic achievement and promise are also considered. These grants include a cash stipend with part-time employment or a long term loan to fulfill the individual's financial need. Grants can be renewed for a maximum of four years with a total value of $4,800.

A College Entrance Examination must be taken before applying for admission to any college or university. Check with your high school counselor concerning this examination. Deadline for applying for an Opportunity Award is Feb. 21, 1969. For applications, write to: Director, Student Financial Aid, Room 303 YMCA Bldg., Texas A&M University, College Station, Texas 77843.

Here's how the basic system works:

One pasture will be deferred while the others will be grazed for a period of three or four months, depending on the number of pastures involved. Deferments are staggered so that they will fall at different times of the year.

What are the advantages?
1) Increased grass production due to periodic deferments.
2) Increased utilization of lower palatable plants due to intense grazing periods.

3) Fewer number of bulls needed, especially in rough country, due to more limited and compact area.

4) Reduced labor requirements since one pasture will be empty at all times.

FEEDING STUDY REVEALS

Beef Cattle Perform Equally
Well On Different Rations

TULIA — Beef cattle perform equally well on rations composed of three different types of processed grain sorghum — steam flaked, whole reconstituted and rolled and ground reconstituted. Reconstituting is bringing the moisture level of the grain up to about 30 per cent.

That's what the final results show in a feeding study conducted at the Swisher County Cattle Co. just north of Tulia.

"I'm more impressed by the uniformity of animal performance and carcass results rather than any major differences," points out Dr. Lowell Schake, area livestock specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service and coordinator of the feeding study.

"Cost of processing, feeding and other management practices may be of more concern to the feeder than the type of processed grain fed."

First Such Project
This is the first time such a project has been undertaken under actual feedlot conditions. Thus, information obtained from the study should be of interest to all cattle feeders throughout the area, says Schake.

The three types of processed grain were used in each of three rations fed to six groups of feedlot steers. The rations differed only in the type of processed grain.

Three groups of steers were lightweight, averaging about 665 pounds, and the other groups consisted of heavier steers averaging about 807 pounds.

Thus each ration was replicated with a light and a heavy group.

There were 75 steers in each group. The steers starting out with the extra weight were slaughtered at 129 days while the lighter steers were slaughtered at 158 days.

Midway through the study, the steers feeding on the steam flaked grain were "apparently out-performing the ones being fed the other two preparations," explains the specialist.

"However, in the end, animal performance differed only slightly."

"Looking at figures on the average daily feed consumption, there is an interesting difference among the three rations," adds Schake.

"Figuring the rations at 12 per cent moisture, daily consumption ran 22.2 pounds for the ration with the steam flaked grain, 21.2 pounds for the whole reconstituted and rolled and 22.4 pounds for the ground reconstituted."

Only 7.04 pounds of the ration containing whole reconstituted and rolled grain were required per pound of gain. This was about six per cent less than for the other two rations. For the ration with the steam flaked grain, the conversion was 7.53 while the ground reconstituted grain ration had a conversion rate of 7.43.

Carcass Data
Taking a look at carcass data, Schake points out that there was little difference in dressing per cent which averaged slightly more than 63 per cent.

However, differences were noted on two other counts. The steers on the steam flaked grain had the lowest number of carcasses grading low choice or above with 59.4 per cent.

Those on the whole reconstituted and rolled grain came in with 66.6 per cent of the carcasses grading low choice or above, and the group on ground reconstituted grain averaged 66.3 per cent.

Ration Costs Differ

Costs of per pound of gain of the three different rations were tabulated by Ed Garnett, Extension area farm

One of the key speakers for the Institute was State Representative Bill Swanson of Houston. In order that local people might know what is in store for us we are carrying a portion of his address to the Institute.

All three groups of large steers outperformed the groups of smaller steers. The group of large steers on whole reconstituted and flaked grain were tops with an average daily gain of 3.2 pounds at a feed cost of 15.2 cents per pound.

A close second were the large steers on dry ground reconstituted grain with an average daily gain of 3.3 pounds at 15.9 cents per pound.

Those on the steam flaked grain had an average daily gain of three pounds at 16.3 cents per pound.

Ration costs regarding the groups of small steers also showed little difference, according to Garnett.

to start our national and state life on a virtually unused, unspoiled land. The land which became the Republic of Texas and then the State of Texas was vast and beautiful, a landscape of mountains and rolling hills, valleys and plains, all drained by a generous system of water — crystal clear mountain brooks, meandering lowland creeks, great rolling rivers, and salty bays. Here was a primary source of life, wealth and enjoyment beyond measure. It seemed to our forefathers — enough good water to meet the Republic's and the State's needs for all time to come.

"Yet, within a few generations we have fouled and degraded our waters. With destructive ignorance and vandalistic abandon we have clogged the capillaries and arteries of our land with filth. We have used our creeks, rivers, and lakes — the same ones from which we must draw our drinking water — as handy, cheap sewers to carry away every imaginable kind of waste.

"We have filled our streams with raw excrement and garbage, laden with disease. We have stained them with oil, tar, dyes and chemical 'liquors' discharged by industry. We have used them to dispose of residues containing long-lasting poisons, some so powerful that less than one part per billion in a stream can kill fish. And, as though to show our contempt for our natural scene, we have dumped millions of tons of trash and offal in our once lovely waters — beer cans, worn-out tires, old mattresses, rusty broken glass, dead animals, junked automobiles.

"It's a dismal fact that we have seriously contaminated and despoiled almost every creek, river, lake and bay in the Lone Star State.

"Our cities, towns and villages use our streams and rivers as sewers. Hundreds of manufacturers, packers, stockyards, refiners, and mills drain their assortment of wastes into our surface and groundwater. Feedlots, where thousands of head of cattle are fed and bed, drain into our water supplies. Pesticides used by our farmers to protect their crops drain into our streams and are responsible for killing aquatic life in our streams and our bays. People, fortunately, are far more tolerant to the pesticides. Still the presence of even minute amounts in the water supply of some cities can be a matter of 'grave concern.'"

"Many examples can be cited to point up how we have gone to the brink of disaster with our water supplies, but the point should be clear: Our surface waters and our groundwaters are in grave danger unless we take positive steps to preserve and protect them for our beneficial use and for the use of generations that will follow". Q Some checks have more than one signature on them. Why is this? Also, is it possible to have more than one checking account? —Mrs. B. Mc.

A. As a rule, multiple signature checks are used by business firms or organizations which wish to maintain an accounting control or disbursement of funds. With regard to your second question, it is possible and, in some cases, quite advantageous to have more than one checking account. There are three basic types of checking accounts: "Personal" or individual accounts allow only one person to write checks; "Joint" accounts (most frequently used by husband and wife) allow two or more persons to write checks on the same account. For example, you and your husband might have a joint account on which either of you could have your own personal account for normal household expenses and your husband might have a Business account on which he wrote checks covering items pertaining to his business or profession.

JEAN-PAUL SEVILLA
... Geneva prize winner

Concert Pianist Here Tomorrow

Jean-Paul Sevilla, the young French pianist, will appear in Pampa Junior High School auditorium tomorrow night as the second attraction in the Pampa Community Concert Association's 1968-69 series of concerts.

Concert time will be 8 p.m. and admission will be by association membership card only. There will be no box office ticket sale.

Sevilla was born in Oran, Algeria, where he began his musical studies at the age of five. In 1947 he won the Prize of Honor at the Oran Conservatory, the first of many awards he was to win.

In 1948, Sevilla left Algeria and moved to Paris where he studied at the National Conservatory with Marcel Ciampi and Madame Bascouret de Gueraldi. He also studied for some years with Madame Suzanne Roche.

In 1952 he was accorded an overwhelming tribute: the Jury at the Conservatory awarded him both the First Prize and the Prize of Honor, a double award which no one had merited in the previous ten years, and which no one has merited since.

In the years 1954-1958 Sevilla continued his studies and toured in France, Austria, Luxembourg, Germany, Holland, Belgium, Spain, Morocco, Algeria and Egypt. He served twenty-eight months with the military and, in 1959, burst upon the musical scene again as the jury's unanimous choice for the Geneva Prize. Sevilla also counts among his awards the Schilling Prize.

After his discharge from military service, Sevilla made his North America debut in Canada and the United States in 1962, and in Mexico in 1964. This season marks Sevilla's sixth recital tour of the United States and Canada.

Boy Gorilla Dies From Infection

HOUSTON (UPI)—The boy gorilla Bomba, one of the Houston zoo's newest valuable additions, died Friday of an infection zoo authorities said he must have had since his days in the African jungle.

Bomba was 17 months old. He and a female named Sasha, one year old, were brought to Houston at a cost of approximately $10,000 two weeks ago.

Zoo officials discovered Bomba had a bacterial infection. Sasha is ill, also, a zoo spokesman said, but is expected to recover. She was being kept in a glass-enclosed cage at the Houston Zoo.

The circus play and three others sponsored by Pampa Fine Arts Association will be presented in Robert E. Lee Junior High School. The first play, "Toby Tyler," is scheduled at 3:15 and 4:45 p.m. Wednesday.

The December dinner meeting of the Texas Panhandle Section of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers will be held at Dyer's Steak House in Pampa on Thursday, with a social hour at 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7 p.m.

The speaker will be Leroy Frick, industrial refrigeration sales engineer for the Carrier Corp., Dallas. Frick attended Evansville College and the University of Missouri, and completed Carrier's post-graduate engineering training school. He has had more than 22 years experience with Carrier.

Reservations may be made by calling Ron Riggs at Celanese Chemical Co. in Pampa on or before Wednesday.

for Czech lands. The move was seen as a capitulation to Soviet wishes.

As a consequence the workers in one division of the Klement Gottwald plant voted to collect their dues of $2.80 but to pass on only $1.4 to party officials.

The dispute involves a bureau for Czech-speaking lands of Bohemia and Moravia. Slovakia already has a separate party organization.

There has been strong sentiment among the party rank-and-file to withhold creation of a separate Czech party apparatus until a full-scale congress can be held.

The party bureau was seen as a way of sidestepping the congress, which was to meet shortly before the invasion last August.

Some observers believe the Russians sent troops into Czechoslovakia to prevent the congress from being held since they anticipated the meeting would turn into a liberal forum at which the Soviet Union would be criticized.

More Protests

More anti-Soviet protests appeared Saturday with the reopening of the political magazine Reporter. Shut down three weeks ago because it failed to toe the Kremlin line, the magazine reappeared on newsstands with more cartoons poking fun at the Russians.

One cartoon showed a man sporting a Santa Claus beard but wearing a military uniform and holding a bagful of machine guns.

The man was standing before a door, from which a puzzled Czechoslovak peers.

"What's the matter?" Santa asks. "Haven't you ever seen St. Nicholas before?"

The magazine was allowed to resume publication after widespread protestations against its closure.

Chicago Police Detail 50 More Detectives

CHICAGO (UPI)—Police officials Saturday discussed plans to detail 50 more detectives to an already overtaxed force of about 300 patrolling subway stations and riding city buses in an effort to put down an eruption of rapes, robberies and beatings.

A police department spokesman said assigning more men to the city's transportation system would thin out a force that is now heavily burdened because of needed extra security and traffic control for holiday shoppers in the Loop and outlying centers.

Nixon Meets With Aides To Discuss New Programs

NEW YORK (UPI)—Unlike most Americans, President-elect Richard M. Nixon worked this holiday weekend and opened communications with a leader in the Democratic-controlled Congress he faces when he takes over Jan. 20.

Dr. Martin Sweig, legislative assistant and secretary to Democratic House speaker John W. McCormack, met briefly with Nixon Saturday after a lengthy discussion with the president-elect's chief legislative aide, Bryce N. Harlow.

Follows like

When Nixon takes office, he will follow in the footsteps of his chief mentor, former president Dwight D. Eisenhower, who faced a hostile Congress for the last six years of his eight-year stay in the White House.

The president-elect held a luncheon meeting in his Pierre Hotel suite with former Ambassador Robert D. Murphy, his chief liaison man with the outgoing Johnson administration, and Herbert Brownell, former attorney general under Eisenhower.

Nixon's press spokesman, Ronald L. Ziegler, declined to disclose details of Sweig's meeting with Harlow or the president-elect, but it was one of Nixon's first steps to offset potential congressional roadblocks to his program.

The president-elect has said he plans to bring Democrats into his administration, possibly placing one in a high cabinet position.

By bringing the opposition into the planning stage, as well, Nixon might very well achieve some degree of harmony with the 91st Congress.

Plans Work

Ziegler said Nixon planned to go to church Sunday and afterward to retire to his transition headquarters for more work on programs and policy as well as deep thought on his first coming cabinet appointment.

Ziegler said Nixon has made "no final decisions" on his cabinet, but plans to announce his appointments sometime after Dec. 5. However, on that day Nixon will fly to California to attend a dinner honoring James Francis Cardinal McIntyre of Los Angeles.

In Dec. 6, he will attend a meeting of the Republican governors conference in Palm Springs, Calif., and then fly back to New York the following day.

So, as far as the cabinet appointments go Ziegler said, "it's not likely that we'll have an announcement until after we return to New York."

attacks in North Vietnam and terror raids in the Demilitarized Zone." The report said the Communists inflicted casualties but gave no specifics.

The heaviest fighting reported in South Vietnam was a four-hour battle Friday which pitted hundreds of North Vietnamese regulars against units of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division near Lon Ninh, 75 miles north of Saigon.

The U.S. Command said at least 78 Communists were killed against American losses of seven killed and 16 wounded.

Spokesmen said the Communists attacked from atop a hill and were battered by U.S. jet fighter-bombers, helicopter gunships and artillery as the American infantrymen pushed up the slopes.

Tet Prelude

Loc Ninh, in November, 1967, was the scene of some of the heaviest fighting of the war. Combat there was a prelude to the big Tet offensive which Communist troops launched last January.

Official spokesmen said the new Viet Cong call for Communist forces to "annihilate" American and South Vietnamese troops was another in a series of propaganda blasts aimed at keeping morale high as the Paris talks moved closer to the substantive stage.

"There is no pattern of any communist initiative," a U.S. official said. "There is no indication at all of an effort the North Vietnamese or the Viet Cong to launch a major offensive."

The optimistic statement on the progress of the war was made Saturday by Maj. Gen. Charles P. Stone, retiring commander of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division at his headquarters in Pleiku on the Central Highlands.

"I believe the main force war is over and a new war now starts—one of pacification," Stone said as he turned over command of the division to Maj. Gen. Donn R. Pepke.

ATTACK PHOTOGS

HONG KONG (UPI)—Leftist youths attacked photographers awaiting the release of jailed rioters Saturday. One cameraman was forced to hand over his film and another was chased down a street before police intervened.

AWAIT DONOR

TAIPEI (UPI)—Doctors who fear that a 28-year-old girl may die in a few days unless she undergoes a kidney transplant said Saturday they are still awaiting a suitable dead donor. They said they have rejected scores of living donor volunteers because of possible legal complications.

Knife and Fork To Hear Address From Montague

Sydney R. Montague, a former member of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and more recently adventurer, philosopher, platform speaker, and an authority on Canadian-U.S. relations, will be the speaker at the Tuesday meeting of the Pampa Knife and Fork Club.

The dinner will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

Montague spent most of his six years as a Royal Canadian Mounted Police in the Arctic Patrol. It was while serving as a Mounty that he evolved a personal philosophy of living and showed a tendency toward adventure which he had inherited from a long line of swashbuckling ancestors, most of whom were seafarers.

Originally Montague was destined for an engineering career and was educated with that end in view in Montreal, Canada. But he brushed aside further formal education when the chance came to him to serve with the lads in the scarlet tunics.

Montague has been places, seen and done things, and is a past master in the art of getting all of this across to his audiences. He makes it quickly apparent that the life of the pioneer has not passed.

He believes, and he makes his hearers believe with him, that the youth of today has new worlds to conquer and that vast, unsuspected resources are waiting to be discovered; and he declares that the natives of the North can show the way to these things as well as to a calm, pleasant, happier and longer life.

nesses through use of crime profits would face maximum $10,000 fines and 10-year prison sentences.

Fines up to $50,000 and one-year prison terms would be levied against anyone investing profits that were intentionally withheld from a federal tax return.

A move was also planned to halt the rising wave of airplane hijackings, mostly to Cuba. The Republicans readied legislation to require bullet-proofing of all pilot cabins.

Using firearms to commit crimes would be subject to new, heavy penalties. Should Congress approve this bill, anyone using a pistol or other firearm, faces a prison sentence of between one and ten years if convicted for a first offense. A second offense could bring a prison sentence up to 25 years, under the GOP plan.

The GOP package was put together by Rep. Richard Poff, R. Va., described by President-elect Richard M. Nixon as "one of the most knowledgeable men in the Congress" on crime problems.

Santa To Make Appearance At Yultide Parade

Santa Claus will make his first appearance of the season at the Annual Santa Day here this Saturday.

The fat, jolly gentleman from the North Pole will pass out candy in the downtown area from 9 to 10 a.m. and at Coronado Center immediately after the parade.

The parade will form at 9:30 a.m. at the intersection of Craven and S. Cuyler and will wind its way to Francis, then to Ward, N. Hobart and thence to the Coronado Center.

Cash prizes of $15, $10 and $5 will be awarded in the pot section and the decorated bicycle section.

No entry blanks or fees are required for participation, according to chamber manager E. O. Wedgeworth.

"Just be where the parade forms," he said. Entries will be judged before the parade starts and everyone entering should be at the starting point by 9:30 a.m., Wedgeworth said.

The parade is being held on Saturday this year so more children can participate, Wedgeworth said.

Christmas street decorations, the most elaborate ever, were hung on Nov. 24 this year and lighted on Nov. 29.

SIO Launches Annual Drive For Indians

The Southwest Indian Organization (SIO) has launched its annual Christmas drive for the Papago Indians in Arizona and appealed to all Pampans to join in providing food, clothing, and supplies for the poverty-stricken people who live on a reservation in southern Arizona.

An estimated 10,000 Papago Indians live on the arid, desert-like reservation southeast of Tucson.

The aim of the drive is to provide at least one new article for the people of the village, according to a spokesman for the SIO, Mrs. Marland Hays.

"We've had this program for four years and we've always been grateful for the tremendous response we've gotten from Pampa citizens and merchants," Mrs. Hays said.

The SIO hopes to have all gifts in by Dec. 15, at which time a truck manned by two missionaries from the Papago reservation will pick up the food, clothing and supplies.

Gifts may be left at the Hays residence, 334 Rider, or at the Kookie Krumblers Nursery, 206 W. Browning. Persons leaving gifts have been asked to leave their name with the gift so they may be properly thanked, Mrs. Hays said.

Especially needed are canned goods, especially meats and fruits; quilts and blankets; and wearing apparel for adults, children and infants, both male and female.

Chamber Invited To Brain-Picking Chat

All members of the Pampa Chamber of Commerce have been invited to attend a 10 a.m. "brain-picking" session this Thursday in the Starlight Room of the Coronado Inn.

Chamber president George B. Cree Jr. said the idea for the session was to get new ideas for the Chamber's program of work for the year.

SUKARNO SUGGESTION

JAKARTA (UPI)—Former Indonesian Prime Minister S. Prawiranegara suggested Saturday the government deport ex-President Sukarno "to preserve the national unity." Exile would allow the government to avoid demands that Sukarno be put on trial for alleged complicity in the Communist coup attempt of 1965, he said.

NO SUBSTITUTE
There is no substitute for the beauty of a natural Christmas tree provided care is exercised at the time of purchase and the way it is used. Bill Smith, Extension forester, suggests an early purchase in order to get a fresh tree. Then store it in the shade and keep it moist by frequent spraying with water. Keep it in water after it is placed until discarded. Local county agents can supply a copy of L-722, "Safe Use of Christmas Trees."

Pest Control Meetings

Several overlapping agricultural short courses and conferences at Texas A&M University have been combined into one annual meeting. It will be known as the Texas Conference on Insect, Plant Disease, Weed and Brush Control and will be held Feb. 24-26 at A&M. The conference program will include plant diseases, insects, weed control in field crops, vegetables, fruits, nuts and range lands. Other discussions will cover application equipment, new chemicals, pest control programs and recommendations for application and use of herbicides, insecticides and fungicides.

National 4-H Congress

Every section of Texas will be represented in the 39-member delegation to the 1968 National 4-H Club Congress. The "cream-of-the-crop" 4-H'ers will be in Chicago from Dec. 1-5 for the event which brings together 4-H champions from every state in the nation. Randall Warminski of White Deer, winner of the state safety award, will be a delegate. In 1874 Sir Winston Churchill was born. He twice was Britain's prime minister.

TEEN DANCES — The Center has been very pleased with the teen dance program. There have been good attendances to each dance and we anticipate these to grow even further. All dances are very well chaperoned by band parents and the Youth Center workers. There is always an off duty policeman present.

The type of dances has changed somewhat from last year setup. We are trying not to mix the age groups unless it is a special dance or extra dance. The schedule calls for high school and college age group dances after all home basketball games and these last from 9:30 to 11:30 on Friday nights.

When the Harvesters are playing out-of-town all age groups including Jr. High are invited to attend and these dances last from 8-11 p.m. Parents are invited as our guests if they desire to come as a chaperon.

The dance schedule for December is: Dec. 6 Mojos; Dec. 13 Tyne; Dec. 20 Mojos; Dec. 24 Tyne; Dec. 27 Right Turn Only and Dec. 31 New Years Eve Dance.

SWIM LESSONS — The winter swim program is rolling right along with classes filled to capacity. This is the nice thing about our pool — it is heated. Because of this we can offer a year round swim lesson program with no interruptions. Classes during the school year meet on Monday, Wednesday, Thursday and Fridays with each session meeting 10 meeting days. All classes are under the direction of our resident Red Cross Water Safety Instructor, Jackie Marlar. Mrs. Marlar is one of the top instructors in Texas and we are privileged to have her here in Pampa.

Classes are open to everyone with Center members enrolled free of charge while non-members are charged $4. Center-memberships are always available. You need only come by the Center to enroll. The schedule is:

If you are interested in joining this class, you need only come by the Center on Monday or Thursday nights. You must be a Center member.

VOLLEYBALL TOURNAMENT — The men's volleyball tournament was held Monday night, bringing the season to a close. This was a double elimination tournament with Bell County coming out as the victor. Furr's took runner-up honors. Bell in winning defeated Skelly Oilers 15-4 and 11-5; Furr's 11-1 and 10-6; and Furr's again 15-13 and 15-11. Furr's had defeated First Baptist Church 15-8 and 15-12 and again 8-4 and 7-0.

BASKETBALL SEASON STARTS — The winter basketball program began Friday night with the organizational meeting. The program will extend until February and will end with our Top O Texas Invitational

HOSPITALS AND YOU

By WES LANGHAM
This increased and improper use of emergency facilities affects you, the potential patient, in two significant ways. First, the increased utilization of emergency facilities just might endanger your life, if in a natural emergency, you must wait in line while the non-emergency patient receives treatment.

Secondly, since hospital emergency rooms are usually a public service gesture, they are usually not on a self-sustaining basis, and any financial losses incurred by the emergency room must be made up somehow. Traditionally, deficits such as these are made up by charging more for other hospital services, namely, inpatient care. The misuse of emergency facilities affects the rates you must pay as an inpatient.

You can help prevent this overuse and misuse of hospital emergency room facilities by becoming more aware of your responsibilities as a potential patient. First, you should know just what is meant by an emergency. An emergency case is one which needs immediate, or critical attention and aid. Heart attack patients, gunshot or stab wound victims, automobile accident victims with serious internal bleeding or multiple lacerations—these are just a few examples of cases which would probably justify emergency care.

You might be surprised to learn that some of the more common abuses of emergency room facilities include patients coming in with cold or flu symptoms and asking for shots or other medication or finally getting around to asking for treatments for back pains that have bothered them for years.

To help further your understanding of why use of emergency care facilities is becoming a problem, you should perhaps be aware of one other important factor. In non-teaching hospitals where there is not a staff of resident doctors and interns on duty in the hospital, members of the hospital's medical staff take turns being "on call" in the emergency room.

Whenever anyone is brought to the emergency room, this doctor must be called to the hospital. If the case is a true emergency, naturally the doctor and all nurses will render any and all emergency treatment possible. However, this means that the doctor will have to leave the patient he is presently treating and thus create hardships for everyone concerned.

To alleviate much of the unnecessary congestion in hospital emergency rooms and delay in receiving treatment, the following suggestion is made. The basic rule is to call your family physician any time you feel you need medical treatment. If he considers your case serious enough to require emergency treatment he will direct you to the nearest emergency facilities.

Then perhaps he will meet you there himself to render treatment. Or he can at least call and warn the emergency room that you are on your way and what to be prepared for. If he doesn't feel that your case is truly an emergency, he will probably arrange for you to meet him at his office, or he will make a house call to treat you. In either case, you will have avoided unnecessary delay in securing the treatment you need and will have insured that no unnecessary load has been placed on the emergency room facilities and staff.

EXPENSIVE CALL
ZARAGOZA, Spain (UPI)—A local resident nearly got away with an unusually heavy haul, authorities reported.

Police told a court Friday that beetle-mopped Angel de las Pozas, 20, cleaned out most of the city's 16 telephone booths and was caught lugging away a 150-pound sack of coins worth more than $300.

In 1960 the first direct clash between the Congolese army and United Nations troops took place in Leopoldville.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va., America's oldest college after Harvard, was founded in 1693. The World Almanac says. Thomas Jefferson became a student there in 1760 when the college had three buildings, about 100 students and a seven-man faculty. Jefferson had one teacher, Professor William Small, throughout most of his undergraduate days. Small taught science, mathematics, philosophy and literature.

Colleges' Future: Growing Waves of Racial Violence

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON (NEA)—It will surprise no one that racial disorders in American schools are on a sharp increase. Discouragingly, experts studying violence say the rise may prove to be a long-range phenomenon.

The Lemberg Center for the Study of Violence, based at Brandeis University in Massachusetts, reports that in the whole of 1967 some 17 per cent of all civil disorders recorded involved schools at various levels.

Int he first four months of 1968, the only part of the current year for which data is reasonably complete, 44 per cent of all recorded civil disorders involved the schools.

There is no need to dwell here in detail on the nature of racial disorders in the schools. They run the gamut from interracial fighting to disruption of classes and administration to vandalism to boycotts. The outbreaks tend to be fairly evenly distributed among the North, the Midwest and the South, but are less common in border sectors, the Southwest and West.

Clearly the schools have become a major battleground in the racial struggle. The traveler across the country can hardly pick up a newspaper in any city of substantial size without finding fresh account of trouble.

In all 1967, some 42 outbreaks of racial nature occurred in colleges and pre-college schools. In 1968, even before the rash of disturbances which followed the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., the January-through-March total had reached 31.

King's murder on April 4 touched off a nationwide explosion of riot and disorder which inevitably engulfed the schools as well as the streets.

Through the whole of that turbulent month, 91 disorders took place which were either entered on schools or related to them. Some 20 of these evidently were not connected with the King affair, but a whopping 71 instances occurred between the night of April 4 and April 9, the day of King's funeral.

Authorities at the Lemberg Center, while making place for the extraordinary consequences of the assassination nevertheless stress the fact that 20 disorders unrelated to it happened in that month. In April of the previous year there were only seven in the nation's schools.

Lemberg Center correctly forecast that a continuation of the heavier incidence of racial violence in schools would mark the fall term in 1968. The recent closing of San Francisco State College and the new disruptions following its reopening only underscore the heightening problem.

In a periodic report called "Riot Data Review," the center solemnly warns:

"The 'tinder-box' status of some communities is higher than others, but all are at a sufficiently high level to be considered potential sites of disorders."

Neither this well-motivated center at Brandeis or any other scholarly undertaking seems yet to have come up with any profound and truly comprehensive explanations for the precipitate growth of racial disorder in the schools.

The obvious things are suggested—tension between whites and blacks, real or imagined grievances related to the quality of education and school facilities, a search of action and excitement by youths of whatever color.

But there may well be deeper strains of disorientation running not just through the schools but through the whole of American and even western society. The free world is in obvious crisis. Its people are having great difficulty in accepting the necessary role of authority as they demand enlarged liberties and ever-more material assurances.

If the causes of disorder are being barely hinted at, so is it true that the consequences for education are not yet really being hinted at, so is schooling thrives on continuity and order and discipline. All these are lost if new "freedoms" are quested after at the cost of recurring disorder, racial or other. Disruption is not the ally but the enemy of the real learning process.

SPEED READING COURSE SET FOR PAMPA

Arrangements have been made to conduct a 27 hour SPEED READING course, to be taught in PAMPA, in night classes. The spokesman said, "The course is guaranteed to triple the reading speed of anyone, with an improvement in comprehension." He also said, "The guarantee, however, is a bare minimum, because the average person will increase TEN TIMES FASTER with a marked improvement in comprehension." The average person today reads about 250 words per minute and has about a 50 per cent comprehension level and after taking this course can expect to read 2,000 to 2,500 words per minute, with an 80 per cent comprehension level. This means after taking this course a person should be able to read any book, of average length, in 45 minutes to an hour and understand and enjoy it better than ever. Those who enroll in this course will be required to attend ONE CLASS PER WEEK for nine weeks and will receive a diploma upon completion.

For those who may be interested in further details about the course or how to enroll, a series of one hour orientation lectures have been scheduled. A person may attend one of these orientations without any obligation to enroll in the course. At these meetings the course will be explained in detail including the class schedule, and the special introductory tuition which will be offered, this time only. These free orientation meetings will be conducted in the "EMERALD ROOM" of the CORONADO INN, 1110 N. Hobart, Pampa, Tex. The Emerald Room is on the ground floor near the lobby. They will be conducted at the following times: MONDAY, DEC. 2, at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m.; TUESDAY, DEC. 3, at 6:30 and 8:30 p.m.; WEDNESDAY, DEC. 4, at 7:30 p.m. This course offered by ACCELERATED EDUCATION SCHOOLS, with locations in Dallas, Ft. Worth, Denton, Amarillo, and other cities, was created by Dr. Wade E. Cutler, of Dallas, a Ph.D. in Psychology. It has been offered to Texans for the past five years with over 5,000 graduates, including 150 in Amarillo. There is no obligation by attending one of these meetings so if you are a college bound high school student or a college student or a professional person with more to read than you can handle, be sure to come to one of the above meetings and find out about this fabulous course. Classes will definitely be limited to 18 students and class places will be filled on a first come, first served basis. Classes will start very soon. (Adv.)

Sooners Run Cowboys Ragged, 41-7

By PAUL ENGLISH
STILLWATER (UPI)—Senior signal caller Bobby Warmack tossed a pair of touchdown passes and ran for two more six-pointers to pace the record-shattering Oklahoma Sooners to a 41-7 victory over Oklahoma State and tie for the Big Eight Conference football crown Saturday.

Warmack flipped touchdown aerials of 12 and 13 yards to wingback Eddie Hinton and split end Johnny Barr, and scooted in from five and 13 yards out. Sturdy Steve Owens, slowed by mud and a stubborn Cowboy defense keyed to him, was held to only one touchdown, from four yards out.

Second string quarterback Ripley added the Sooners' final touchdown with less than three minutes to go.

Several Oklahoma and series records fell before the onslaught of Owens, Warmack and Hinton. Oklahoma State's lone score came on a nine-yard dash by Bub Deerinwater, capping an 81-yard drive as the Cowboys galloped out of the corral after the half.

The victory boosted the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl-bound Sooners to a 6-1 Big Eight mark and a tie with Kansas for the championship which Oklahoma won outright last year.

Warmack passed and ran for 236 yards, smashing the Cowboys - Sooner series mark of 230 held by former OSU all-America Bob Fenimore. Warmack's 189 yards through the air cracked ex-Cowboy Jackie Hartman's 19-year-old record of 174 yards.

Hinton, a speedy senior wingback, tied former Sooner Gordon Brown's mark of 10 receptions in the series and set a record of 164 yards in pass receiving.

Owens chugged for 120 yards and established a school career record of 2,344 yards. The old Oklahoma mark of 2,297 was set in 1962-63-64 by Jim Gris-ham.

Oklahoma jumped to a 21-0 lead in the first quarter before fumbleitis, a cold wind, mud and a determined Cowboy defense slowed the scoring pace.

Owens opened the scoring with a four-yard slant over left tackle, climaxing a 73-yard drive which came less than four minutes after the opening kickoff.

A 25-yard punt by Bob Cut-burth set the Sooners up at the Cowboy 38 four minutes later and Warmack faked to Owens and bootlegged around right end for the final five yards.

The Sooners opened up the Cowboy defense with two Warmack touchdown passes before the half.

Warmack scored from the 18 and Ripley from the 12 in the last half, which was marred by numerous fumbles.

Army Holds Off Stubborn Navy, 21-14

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Charlie Jarvis, the goat of last year's interservice classic, eluded a brilliant career with three touchdowns Saturday and smashed the Army career rushing record of the immortal Glenn Davis while leading the Cadets to a 21-14 victory over stubborn Navy.

The hard-driving fullback scored on a five-yard run and a one-yard plunge in the first half and tallied the decisive tie-breaking touchdown on a nine-yard run with one minute remaining in the third period as Army avenged a 19-14 loss to Navy last year and defeated the Middies for the fourth time in five years.

Jarvis, whose fumble in the final five minutes of last year's contest killed Army's last ditch drive to win, redeemed himself nicely by carrying the brunt of the Army ground game. The senior fullback lugged the ball 21 times for 88 yards to beat Davis' career mark by 11 yards. Jarvis ended his career with 2,334 yards rushing.

Despite Jarvis' work, however, Navy made a struggle out of the 78-year-old classic. The Midshipmen, a 14-point underdog, capitalized on a fumbled punt by sophomore Billy Hunter to score on a one-yard run by Dan Pike in the second quarter and tied the score in the third period when defensive lineman Tom LaFord raced 36 yards for a touchdown with an intercepted pass.

Navy, which ended its season with a dismal 2-8 record, was thoroughly harassed by Army's rugged running game but gave the capacity crowd of 102,000 visions of a second straight upset in the third period when LaFord snared an errant toss by quarterback Steve Lindell and with the help of a good block by Tom O'Brien on Lindell, raced unmolested into the end zone to tie the score with 3:11 left in the period.

Irish, Trojans Battle to Draw

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The University of Southern California rode the passing arm of Steve Sogge to a fourth period touchdown Saturday to pull up to a 21-21 tie with Notre Dame but the deadlock spoiled the Trojans' dream of a perfect season and a possible national football championship.

The battling Irish, underdogs by three points, for the first time this season stopped O.J. Simpson by holding the Heisman Trophy winner to 55 yards on 21 carries. This was his lowest yardage total of the season.

It took the passing of Sogge to keep the Trojans from their first defeat on their way to their Rose Bowl engagement with Ohio State Jan. 1.

In the fourth period after Gerry Shaw intercepted a Joe Theismann pass, Sogge climaxed a 54-yard touchdown drive with a 40-yard pass to end Sam Dickerson.

Notre Dame held a 21-7 halftime lead but USC cut the margin with a third quarter touchdown on a 65-yard drive with Simpson going over from the one for his 22nd score of the season.

Four Interceptions
Theismann threw four interceptions in the game but proved a brilliant field general, subbing for All-American Terry Hanratty. The Irish scored all three of their touchdowns in the first half, two of them in the opening period which was highlighted by Bob Gladieux's breakaway run for 57 yards from scrimmage for a TD. It was the longest Notre Dame run of the year from scrimmage.

The game was 40 seconds old when Trojan safety Sandy Durko stepped in front of Jim Seymour on the 21 to intercept a Theismann pass and run it over for a TD.

The Irish took the kickoff and marched 83 yards with Ron Dushney going over from the three.

The next time Notre Dame gained possession of the ball the Irish moved 76 yards but 57 came on Gladieux's spring through left tackle for the score.

Crowd Amazed
With 30 seconds left in the half, Notre Dame amazed the crowd of 82,659 as Theismann handed off to Coley O'Brien who passed 13 yards to Theismann for the touchdown.

Sogge completed 17 of 28 passes for 187 yards while Theismann hit on 10 of 16 for 152 yards. Gladieux was the leading rusher with 19 carries for 121 yards while Notre Dame outgained the Trojans in total yardage, 442-239.

Georgia Tops Tech In Easy 47-8 Victory

ATHENS, Ga. (UPI)—Fourth-ranked Georgia closed out its first unbeaten season in 22 years Saturday when sophomore quarterback Mike Cavan led the Bulldogs to an easy 47-8 victory over Georgia Tech.

Georgia, which will take an 8-0-2 record against Arkansas in the Sugar Bowl, scored 17 points in the opening period and then coasted the rest of the way to hand the faded Yellow Jackets their worst loss in the series that started in 1893.

The first time the Bulldogs got the football they were backed up to their own two-yard line, but Cavan led them 96 yards in 16 plays, going the last yard himself, to score the game's first touchdown midway through the opening period.

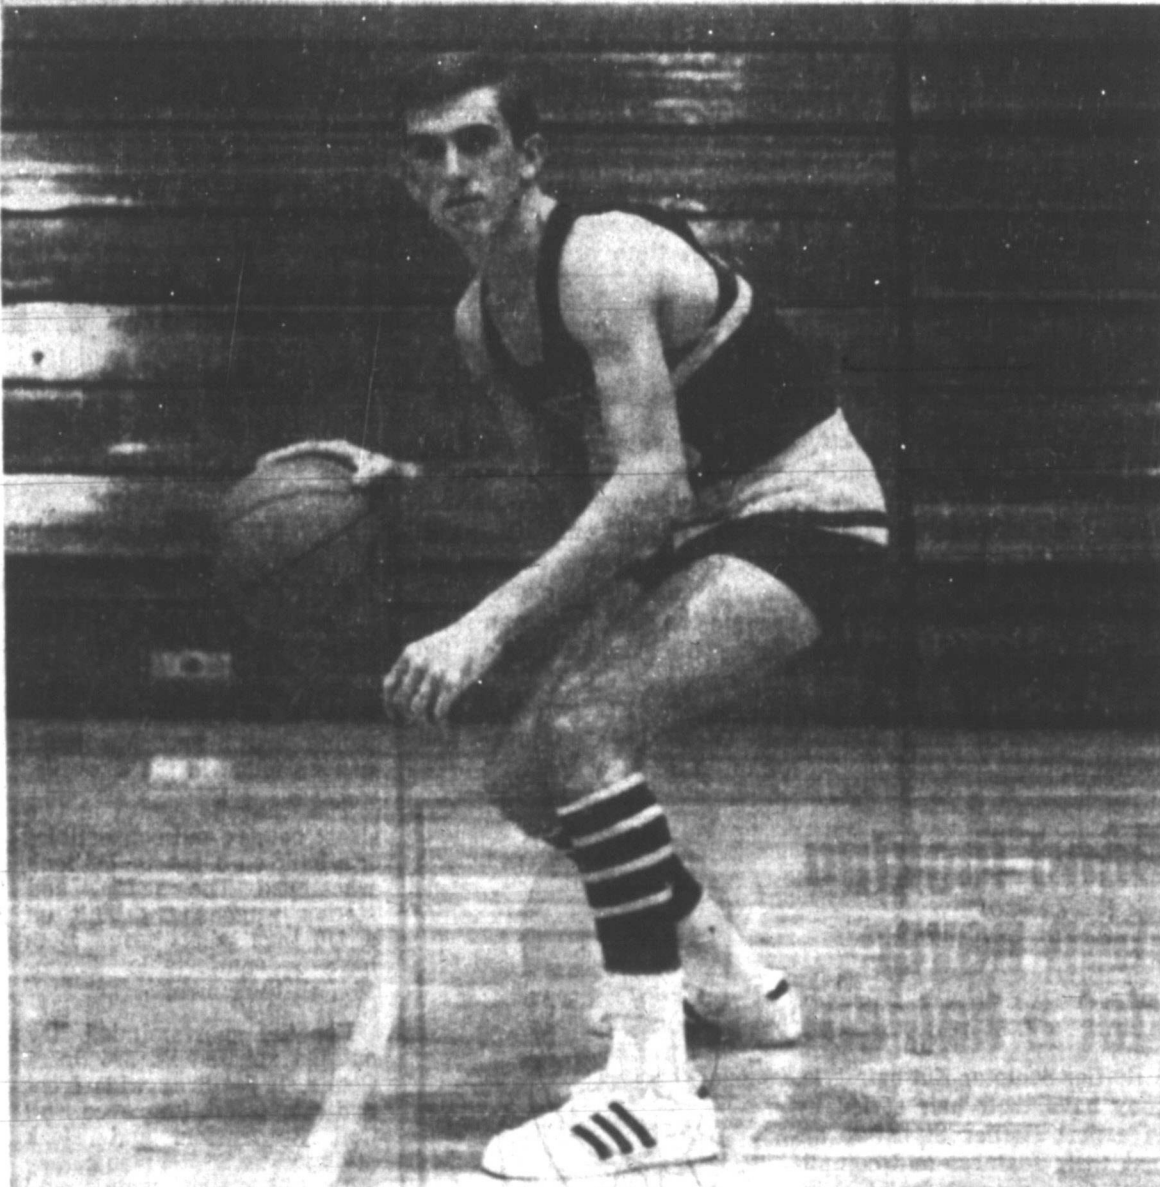

It didn't take Georgia a 20-point favorite, but a moment to pad its score as linebacker Happy Dicks intercepted a pass at the Tech 22 on the first play after Georgia's kickoff. Four plays later, Brad Johnson rammed over from three yards out.

Tech tried to battle back, but after moving to the Georgia 33 yard line, quarterback Larry Good, who had been the Yellow Jacket star before a mid-season injury, re-injured his knee and when he was carried off the field, the Yellow Jackets' offense went with him.

Following Good's injury, Georgia marched 89 yards, only to be stopped at the Tech five-yard line and Jim McCullough, who made six extra points during the afternoon, kicked a 22-yard field goal to give Georgia a 17-0 lead with 23 seconds left in the first period.

Georgia didn't score in the second period because the Bulldogs were held for downs once at the Tech four-yard line and later at the Tech 8.

But Georgia was back pouring it on in the third period adding two more touchdowns in the period.

Tennessee Field Goal Stops Upset Minded Vanderbilt, 10-7

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Tennessee's Karl Kremser kicked a 23-yard field goal and Richmond Flowers scored on an 11-yard run as the Cotton Bowl-bound Vols turned back upset-minded Vanderbilt, 10-7.

The seventh-ranked Volunteers, who will meet Texas in the Cotton Bowl, marched 33 yards for Flowers' touchdown in the opening period after defensive tackle Dick Williams intercepted a pass from Vanderbilt quarterback John Miller.

Kremser's winning field goal came in the closing seconds of the third period after safety Jim Weatherford had returned a Commodore punt 32 yards to the Vandy 47.

Vanderbilt, a two-touchdown underdog prior to the game, marched 33 yards in eight plays early in the third period after guard Bill McDonald had recovered a fumble by Vol quarterback Bubba Wyche. Tail-

Florida Upsets Miami By 14-10

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI)—Fullback Larry Smith tore loose from two tacklers and romped six yards to score with two minutes to play Saturday as underdog Florida upset Miami 14-10.

Smith, closing out a career as one of the best runners in Southeastern Conference history, capped a second half rally by Florida after the Hurricanes had taken a 10-0 halftime lead.

Ole Miss Pulls Out Tie With Miss. State, 17-17

OXFORD, Miss. (UPI)—Tommy Pharr threw two touchdown passes for winless Mississippi State Saturday to help the Bulldogs gain a 17-17 tie with favored Mississippi, their Liberty Bowl-bound archrival.

The deadlock was almost as good as a victory for Charlie Shira's bulldogs, who haven't won a game since early last fall.

State appeared headed toward its second victory over Ole Miss since 1946 until Archie Manning, the Rebels' sophomore quarterback, scored a fourth period touchdown that helped tie the game.

State scored early in the first period on a 37-yard field goal by Robert Culvert. The kick was setup by a long kickoff return by David Smith.

Ole Miss quickly overcame the State dead after recovering a fumbled punt on the State 21. Manning passed 17 yards to tailback Floyd Franks on the four, and Steve Hindman bulled over two plays later.

Gator Bowl-Bound Alabama Takes Advantage Of Auburn Mistakes, 24-16

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Gator Bowl-bound Alabama, behind tailback Ed Morgan's running and quarterback Scott Hunter's passing, took advantage of Auburn mistakes Saturday to beat the Tigers 24-16.

Morgan ran 35 and one yards for touchdowns and Hunter passed five yards to linebacker-turned end Mike Hall. Mike Dean kicked a 30-yard field goal and three extra points for 15th-ranked Alabama.

Lombardi May Lift Helpless Eagles

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Ordinarily Vince Lombardi leaves no room for any doubt. When he says yes he means yes and any time he says no he means no. That's generally his way and anybody who has ever had anything to do with him knows it.

But somehow this time Vince Lombardi's answer comes out rather different. When he's asked about the latest report that he may become one of the new owners of the floundering Philadelphia Eagles, he angrily cried, "No, no, no. Hell no, I'm not going to Philadelphia!"

Method the man protest too much.

I think that once Jerry Wolman, Philadelphia's financially saddled present owner, sells out, as he will have to shortly, Vince Lombardi will become part of a syndicate which buys the Eagles. Once he's part owner, Vince Lombardi will go out and get the best coach and general manager he knows. By some strange coincidence both these men have the same name. Vince Lombardi.

Lombardi Leaving??? That's what I think this intense, restless 55-year-old general manager of the Green Bay Packers will do before another football season rolls around.

His players, here with him for their all-important game with the San Francisco Forty-niners Sunday, never can be sure what their former coach is going to do but most of them have a pretty good idea.

"It would come as no surprise to us if he goes to Philadelphia," says one of his veteran players.

"As part-owner?" the player was asked.

"As part-owner, coach, the whole works. The same way old man Halas operated with the Chicago Bears for years."

Lombardi is not disenchanted with Green Bay, the little Wisconsin city he has helped build into something approaching a national shrine, but the reasons he'd move on are as obvious as the change in the Packers' performance from last year to this one.

Every man likes to better himself and unique as he is, Lombardi is not that much different than every other man. He had a fine playing career at Fordham and did some coaching there and at West Point. Then he moved into the professional ranks where he eventually took over a down-trodden Green Bay club whose 1-10-1 record at the time bears a startling resemblance to Philadelphia's 1-11 log right now.

As coach of the Packers, Lombardi became a household word. He led them to five NFL championships, two Super Bowl titles and one Western Division championship in nine seasons before he gave up coaching earlier this year to concentrate on his other job as general manager.

The job apparently has palled on him. The next logical step for a man of his drive and ambition is ownership. There's no chance for Lombardi with the Packers in that respect because they are a community corporation and quite likely to remain that way. That's why the Eagles look made to order for him.

As general manager alone and no longer coach, Lombardi admits he misses the old pre-game and post-game excitement along with the rapport he used to enjoy with his players. That's gone now.

OBF Charges WBA is Unfair

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—World Boxing Association (WBA) president Emile Bruneau today denied reports the WBA is threatened with a pullout by the Oriental Boxing Federation (OBF) over alleged discrimination against Orientals.

The OBF pullout, threatened in August by OBF president Justiniano Montano Jr. of the Philippines, is based on the claim that Far Eastern countries do not enjoy equal status with Western countries in the WBA and that the powerful WBA rating committee does not include enough Orientals among its membership.

"Ninety per cent of his (Montano's) arguments are unfounded," Bruneau said. "The rating committee has people from Japan, Thailand and other Eastern countries."

"I don't say the WBA is faultless," Bruneau said. "No world-wide organization is. But we're the only world-wide governing organization in boxing that is recognized today."

Bruneau admitted one OBF claim that most of the more powerful WBA officials are Americans.

"But the boxing brains of the world are in America and that's been proven time and time again, even though boxing is thriving in the Orient," he said. "That's the reason why there are more Americans in authority."

Rams, Vikings in 'Must' Game Today

By United Press International

There is no place like home except when it's New York, where it could cost a team a chance at the National Football League title.

The New York Giants (7-4) were all but eliminated from the NFL's Capitol Division race when Dallas (10-2) defeated Washington 29-20 on Thanksgiving day. However, if the Giants were still in the Century Division as they were last season, this Sunday's game against Cleveland (8-3) would have given New York a chance to win the crown and gain just reward for their continued improvement over the last two years.

But, as the NFL's only nomadic team, the Giants were switched to the Capitol Division this season so that in alternate years all Eastern Conference teams would be able to play in New York and take home a share of the gate receipts.

Thus, the Giants will have to be content with trying to beat long time rival Cleveland Sunday just for prestige.

In other games Sunday Los Angeles is a one point favorite over the Vikings in Minnesota. Green Bay is a touchdown pick over the Forty Niners in San Francisco, the Colts are 21 over Atlanta in Baltimore. St. Louis is six over the Steelers in Pittsburgh and the Saints are six over Chicago in New Orleans.

In the other Thanksgiving Day game, Philadelphia scored its first victory in 12 starts, 12-0, over Detroit.

The Browns are 12 point favorites over the Giants and have won six straight behind the quarterbacking of ex-Steelers Bill Nelsen.

Nelsen, who didn't start until the fourth game, has thrown 17 TD passes and is ranked sixth in the league. His counterpart, Frank Tarkenton, has thrown for 18 scores and is ranked fourth in the league with 137-of-245 for 1,896 yards.

Minnesota (6-5) and Los Angeles (9-1-1) are in must win situations Sunday and the Rams will be hampered by the continued absence of flanker Bernie Casey. The Vikings have 15 players suffering with the flu but on the brighter side Dave Osborn, the NFL's second leading runner in 1967, is ready to play for the first time this season.

The Green Bay offense is leading runner in 1967, is ready to play for the first time this season.

The Green Bay offense is leading runner in 1967, is ready to play for the first time this season.

been up and down this season but the Forty Niners boast two of the league's top rushers, in Ken Willard and Gary Lewis.

Earl Morrill, with 22 TD passes, continues to write the Cindarella story of the year as Baltimore (10-1) gets a breather against Atlanta (2-9). Randy Johnson, who has been out the last four games, will start for the Falcons.

St. Louis (6-4-1) is still clinging to its hopes of catching the Browns but the Cardinals defense will have to stop Pittsburgh (2-9) if they hope to win. The Steelers tied the Cards 28-28 last time around.

Cincinnati, Boston Rookies Clash

The Cincinnati-Boston clash in Boston Sunday will have no effect on the title race in the American Football League, but to the teams concerned something vital is at stake.

To Cincinnati, a victory would be victory No. 4 in the 1968 season. Compared to the 10 victories of Kansas City and Oakland and the eight victories of New York, four isn't much, but it would be more than any other expansion team has won in its first year.

For Boston Patriots Coach Mike Holovak, the game represents a matter of pride. He's going with a record nine rookies in the lineup for the third Sunday in a row—and wants to show they are there for their ability and not just as part of a rebuilding effort.

Boston is a Three Point Favorite.

"The new men we're using have exceptional promise not only for next year but for right now," Holovak said. "We'd like to finish out our home season with a win."

Cincinnati will still have a game at New York, against the Eastern Division champion Jets, on Dec. 7 to get the fourth victory if it escapes them Sunday. Their chances there would depend on how many regulars are playing for New York as head coach Weeb Ewbank tries to give his starters a rest for the league playoff and also let some of the substitutes get in some game experience.

The Bengals are headed by Paul Robinson, a leading contender for rookie-of-the-year honors. He is only 88 yards short of 1,000 yards rushing for the season and is expected to become the first freshman since Cookie Gilchrist in 1962 to top the barrier.

In other AFL games today, San Diego is at Denver and Miami is at New York.

Only One Upset Hits Preps Grid Playoffs

By United Press International

Dallas South Oak Cliff, Galveston, Iowa Park and Poth picked up big wins in Texas high school football playoff action Friday night, but the major threat to Poth's march to a Class A state title—Honey Grove—was a major upset victim.

Honey Grove saw its bid for the championship and its undefeated record go down the drain in a 21-7 loss to once-beaten Clifton, but there were few other surprises.

Dallas South Oak Cliff, ranked second in Class AAAA, scored a surprisingly easy 47-0 victory over Fort Worth Arlington Heights to move into next weekend's quarterfinals.

Top-ranked Galveston had a little more trouble, but still polished off tough Beaumont Charlton Pollard 16-6 and will take on Houston Washington next weekend. Washington won the Houston championship Friday night by downing Houston Lee 31-4.

In other Class AAAA contests, Irving pulled a mild upset by downing Richardson 14-12 and San Antonio Wheatley shut out San Antonio Houston 12-0.

Piano, the defending Class AA champion, proved it has a chance at this year's Class AAA game by rocking Azle 62-20 in the bi-district round of that classification.

Piano's victory set up a quarterfinal match next week against Henderson, a narrow 10-7 victor over Mexia Friday night.

Refugio, top-ranked in Class AAA, pulled out a 21-19 win over Belton and Mission drubbed San Antonio East Central 34-0.

MRS. RANDALL JAY HARRIS
... nee Pamela Sue Stevens

Miss Stevens Weds Randall J. Harris

Miss Pamela Sue Stevens exchanged wedding vows with Randall Jay Harris in Original Chapel, First Baptist Church, Amarillo Nov. 27. Dr. Winifred Moore, Amarillo, officiated for the double-ring ceremony at 6:30 p.m.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Ray Stevens, Amarillo. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill J. Harris, 944 Terry.

A basket of white gladioli, with yellow mums decorated the church and were flanked with tapers decorated with greenery.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a white formal dress of karate with Swiss lace trim, long sleeves and a sabrina neckline. Her modified A-line skirt fell from the triangular cut empire bodice finished with a self fabric bow. The gown was enhanced by a wide ruffle finish to the long sleeves, executed in Swiss lace. The short illusion veil was attached to a Christian Dior bow in karate fabric.

Her maid of honor, Miss Barbara Ann Vincent, Plainview, wore a yellow formal sleeveless crepe dress with a sabrina neckline and empire bodice. She carried a cascade of spider mums in gold and bronze.

Best man was Randy Carmon, Lubbock. Ushers were Ritchie Kregg Stevens, the bride's brother, and Ricky Jack Harris, the bridegroom's brother.

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Hatcher

POET, ACTRESS

Pampa Culture Club Studies Lives Of 2 Women in American Literature

In furthering the course of study "Women Are Here To Stay", two members of Twentieth Century Culture Club reviewed lives of two outstanding women when the club met recently in the home of Mrs. L. H. Hart, 1323 Mary Ellen.

Mrs. N. Dudley Steele assisted Mrs. Hart with refreshments. Mrs. E. E. Shelhamer, president, conducted the business meeting in which members voted to assist in several projects. Mrs. Steele discussed the need for volunteer workers for the newly formed class for retarded children, age 13 or older. She also gave clothing sizes for girls at Girls Town near Borger and asked for clothing for the retarded children at Abilene State School.

Mrs. Jack M. Felts introduced the program. Mrs. Wayne D. Irwin discussed the life and said, "Encouraged by her Millay, an American poet who called, developed an early interest in literature." Mrs. Irwin works of Edna St. Vincent in 1950 at the age of 58.

Vincent, as Miss Millay was mother, she read Shakespeare's plays before she was nine and by age 12 she had read almost all of Tennyson and Milton. While still a child she began to read Latin verse because she enjoyed the sound of it. During her 14th summer she read "Caesar's Gallic War".

Mrs. Irwin described Vincent as "one obsessed with life, curious and enthusiastic about everything with an equal amount of skepticism."

One of Vincent's first poems, written at about age five, was quoted by Mrs. Irwin, "One bird on a tree, One bird came to me, One bird on the ground, One bird hopping around, One bird in his nest, One bird took a rest".

Vincent's first recognition came when she was awarded a $10 prize for a poem printed in an adult publication, "Current Literature". A comment with the poem read, "The poem that follows seems to us to be phenomenal — it's author, whether boy or girl we do not know — is but 14 years of age."

Mrs. Irwin explained the name St. Vincent was in honor of a hospital by that name where Vincent's mother's brother was for a time a patient. Her mother wanted to honor the hospital for the care given her brother.

"By chance, Vincent saw an advertisement seeking poems written by U.S. poets to be published in a book of poetry titled, 'The Lyric Year'." Mrs. Irwin said, "The best 100 poems selected by the judges. She sent in her 'Renaissance' which was judged fourth out of 10,000 entries," Mrs. Irwin said.

"Recognizing her talents, Miss Caroline Dow, head of the National Training School of the U.W.C.A. in New York City, helped Vincent attend colleges, Columbia University, Barnard College and Vassar. She later married Eugene Baissevain and as 'one obsessed with life, continued her writing, winning the Pulitzer Prize for Poetry in 1923 and an award of $1,000."

In her poem, "Wine from these Grapes" Vincent showed how man triumphs over all the natural calamities of the world, of wild beasts, earthquakes, volcanoes, floods, famines, and fire, but is defeated in the end, by his own greed and unkindness," Mrs. Irwin said.

Mrs. G. C. Craddock reviewed the book, "Time Out, Ladies" written by Dale Evans Rogers in 1966.

"Mrs. Rogers speaks not out of vain authority but only for Christ's authority for in every crisis in her life she found Christ able to do for her what she could not do for herself," Mrs. Craddock stated.

"Mrs. Rogers speaks from her own broad experience as a wife and mother of nine children, having faced death of three of them. She has received honors and citations as an outstanding woman of conscience and ideals and is a noted motion picture and television star."

"Mrs. Rogers was named Church Woman of the Year in 1964, was chosen Woman of the Year by International Orphans, Inc. and was selected by Texas Newsmen as the 1966 Texan of the Year," Mrs. Craddock said.

Mrs. Craddock related that "Mrs. Rogers invites women to make a pot of coffee, brew a cup of tea and sit down and think about our role in life, our prime purposes and goals, even though dinner might be late. In her opinion the 'time out' would bring a feeling of refreshment and a challenge to higher goals and deeper faith. She sometimes wished 'time-outs' or coffee-breaks were compulsory because without them we women stand a good chance of falling apart."

"Regarding children, Mrs. Rogers said each child is different, each has his own pattern and only God knows what that pattern is. He designed it. And only when parents turn to Him to determine the pattern can they rightly train up the child in the way he should go."

"Marriage is the great and shining hour of the life of woman — and it is the trickiest, most dangerous and fateful moment of her life, too. If you want to know one shining hour after another, all your life, try the Christian approach to marriage," Mrs. Craddock said.

Mrs. Craddock quoted comments by Mrs. Rogers on prayer, questions about clothes, growing gracefully, gossip and other topics.

Miss Sherryl Baxter, Willam Ryan Exchange Marriage Vows in Pampa

Miss Sherryl Kay Baxter was united in marriage with William Richard Ryan in a double-ring ceremony in Central Baptist Church at 7 p.m. Friday. Rev. T. O. Upshaw, pastor, officiated for the marriage ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph H. Baxter, Pampa. The bridegroom is the son of William Thomas Ryan, Gadsden, Ariz.

BRIDE

Given in marriage by her father, with the "her mother and I" avowal, the bride was escorted to the altar in a slim-line gown of white peau de soie. Her empire bodice was accented by a single bow with the long, tapering sleeves ending in points over the wrists. Flower appliques accented the skirt and floor-length train.

She carried a bouquet of white roses and stephanotis atop a white Bible, which was given to her by the Young Women's Auxiliary of Central Baptist Church. Her shoulder-length veil of illusion fell from a white peau de soie pillbox hat.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Ronnie Kinney, the bride's cousin, was matron of honor. The bridesmaid was Miss Paula Skidmore, Amarillo. Both wore royal blue velvet dresses fashioned similarly to the bride's dress and carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Candlelighters, Mrs. Jerry Baxter, the bride's sister-in-law, and Miss Rhonda Baxter, Pampa, wore dresses of royal blue velvet fashioned like the bride's dress and also wore wristlets of white carnations.

Best man was Ronald Riggs, Pampa, assisted by LaWayne Hogan as groomsman. Ushers were Ralph Baxter, the bride's brother, and Don Turner, Waco.

RECEPTION

For the reception in the Fellowship Hall of Central Baptist Church, Mrs. Nannette Long played reception music. The table was covered with a white taffeta and net cloth with royal blue swag and silver service set.

Miss Cynthia Pond, Waco, served the five-tiered cake as Miss Jeanne Turner served at the coffee service. Mrs. LaWayne Hogan registered guests.

For the honeymoon to Colorado, the bride traveled in a royal blue two-piece wool suit and lifted white orchids from her bouquet. The couple will live at 1008 N. Wells.

The bride was a Pampa High School graduate in 1967 and member of the A Cappella Choir. She is employed with a Pampa television service. The bridegroom, a University of Arizona graduate, is employed with Celanese.

PRE-NUPTIAL EVENTS

Pre-nuptial courtesies included a white Bible ceremony by the Central Baptist Church.

Twentieth Century Forum Studies French Settlements in Texas

Twentieth Century Forum Study Club met in the home of Mrs. Frank Stolfa at 2429 Mary Ellen recently.

The president, Mrs. Stolfa, conducted the business session. Each member brought a Christmas gift that will be sent to the State Hospital in Wichita Falls.

The program was given by Mrs. David E. Holt, who discussed five attempts by French to make settlements in Texas.

"The first Frenchman on Texas soil was LaSalle. Through faulty navigation and bad weather, he landed, not at the mouth of the Mississippi River as he had planned, but at Matagorda Bay. Here he established Fort Louis in 1685,"

Mrs. Holt said.

"This first French colony fared badly from the first. Most of the garrison was massacred or kidnapped by Indians. LaSalle was murdered by one of his own men.

"Despite its unhappy fate, LaSalle's colony did bring the French flag to Texas soil. Moreover, it served as a reminder to the Spanish in Mexico that some effort would be required to hold the area," Mrs. Holt further stated.

"The second attempt to form a French colony was the plan for Champ d'Asile (Field of Asylum). It was to be a mecca for banished soldiers. The site of the colony was near the present town of Liberty where 400 immigrants erected a fortified camp.

"No sooner had they completed their quarters, than they fled to Galveston Island after learning Spanish troops were approaching. On the island there was neither wood nor fresh water supply, and shortages began to appear. Hurricane and flood ravaged them for days and they were forced to give up their grand scheme for a Champ d'Asile," she said.

"Shortly after Texas declared herself a Republic, a bill was introduced to the legislature which proposed bringing 8,000 French soldiers to the Texas frontier. Had the Franco-Texian Bill been passed, the future history of Texas would have been greatly altered.

"The bill was withdrawn following the quarrel between a French diplomat and an Austin Inn keeper. Following this episode known as the 'pig incident,' the French decided to send Texas neither money nor soldiers.

"It was also during the early days of the Republic that a successful French colony was founded. Henri Castro recruited over 2,000 Frenchmen whom he brought to Texas. He established Castroville on the Medina River west of San Antonio. The town prospered because settlers were capable farmers, and the soil yielded a variety of crops. Today the quaint houses built over a century ago are still occupied, and the Alsatian language is still spoken.

"The colony of La Reunion near the present location of Dallas was founded according to the social theories of Charles Fourier. It was a cooperative society, divided into self-supporting groups of 1600. The Texas colony was (See TWENTIETH, Page 18)

Couple Celebrates 25th Anniversary

A candlelight supper was held recently for the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon D. Bayless Sr., of Pampa. Mr. and Mrs. Bayless were married in Pampa Oct. 30, 1943.

Guests were greeted by the celebrants' children, Mary Waretta a Pampa High School senior; and Gordon D. Jr., a University of Texas graduate and resident of Washington, D.C.

Mr. and Mrs. Bayless' home, at 900 Terry Rd., was lighted completely by candlelight for the buffet supper. Dinner was served from a green-clothed table decorated by a four-branch candelabra containing a floral arrangement of tapered yellow mums.

About 35 attended the celebration.

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 21 years to a wonderful man. I am 44 and he is 45. We have 3 children — 13, 16, and 18. I have always worked to help with "extras" and to assure our children of a college education — then I discovered I was pregnant! I was just sick about it, so our happy home life ended. I have not spoken to my husband in 6 months, except when I absolutely have to for the sake of the children. The baby is due in 2 months.

I love my husband very much, but I do not like what he did to me at my age. And what am I going to do with a baby?

I cry every day. My family was all planned — and now this! Am I wrong for feeling and acting as I do?

HEARTSICK
DEAR HEARTSICK: Yes. Regardless of how you feel now, the baby could enrich your lives beyond belief. (I have heard from other mothers who also received late dividends and they reaffirm this fact.)

Ask your husband to forgive you. And by the way, this was as much your doing as his, you know. (P.S. For further consolation, Freud said, "There are no accidents.")

DEAR ABBY: I have a dear friend who insists on bringing something to my home whenever I invite her to dinner. Abby, she is a darling person, but she's possibly the world's worst cook!

When she brings something I have to serve it, don't I? The last time she brought a cake. It was underdone and lumpy with a blue (!) frosting which looked terrible and tasted worse.

I was embarrassed watching the faces of my other guests as they tried to eat it.

She's coming again on Sunday, and I told her not to bring anything. I've told her that before, but she always "surprises" me with something. My husband says I am an idiot for serving her failures, so I am writing to you for your opinion.

HELPLESS
DEAR HELPLESS: Your husband is right. Call her and tell her that one of the joys of entertaining is in preparing everything yourself, so please don't bring anything! And if she "surprises" you with something, surprise HER, and don't serve it.

DEAR ABBY: You are always printing letters from people who complain because they're too fat. They don't know how lucky they are. Fat people can always lose weight, but how about thin people who can not put on an ounce? Nobody will believe this, but I am living proof that it is harder to put on a pound than to take it off.

I am a 24-year-old girl and have been told I have a beautiful face. But that is where it stops. I am 5 feet 6 and weigh 101 pounds. My bones stick out all over. I've been to doctors and tried diets and exercises and everything known to gain weight, but I can't put on an ounce. I am not sickly, either; I'm healthy, but I'm underweight. Is there something new I can try?

POOR ME
DEAR POOR: If you're healthy, you're wealthy. If you can't change the frame, upholster the clothes. Wear full skirts, light wide belts, high necklines, and quit worrying about your weight.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NO LONGER DISGUSTED": Just because your "system" always works, doesn't necessarily mean it's "good." I feel sorry for a service man whose mother writes to his commanding officer if she does not get a letter from her son every week.

For Abby's new booklet "What Teen-agers Want To Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069.

founded by Victor Considerant. The settlers he brought were mostly artisans, craftsmen, and musicians; people unsuited to the demands of practical farm life, and soon their experiment in social reform ended.

"The Frenchmen of La Reunion, although they failed to create Utopia, extended the frontier and encouraged cultural development in Texas."

During the social hour, refreshments were served to Mmes. Holt Barber, Hugh D. Barton, Michael Dunigan, Joe Franklin, Robert W. Harmon, J. R. Holloway, M. McDaniel, Neil Quattlebaum, Aubrey Steele, and Mrs. McHenry Lane.

A thought for the day: Admiral Chester Nimitz said, "A ship is always referred to as a she because it cost so much to keep one in paint and power."

Seven-Year-Old Pampan Celebrates Birthday with Party

Steve Smith, seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Smith, 2721 Navajo Rd., Pampa, was honored with a birthday party by his mother and Mrs. Charley Coleman recently.

Those attending were Dave Greenwood, Julie Smith, Terry Smith and Mrs. Charlie Coleman and Cheryl Ann.

Your Horoscope

JEANE DIXON

SUNDAY, DEC. 1

YOUR BIRTHDAY today.

The coming year is up to you; you must provide the goals and the work. Dramatize a bit, show off at times. Today's natives require strong motivation but once in action have an impressive drive.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Find time, and privacy, to think ahead. A few weeks preparation, then four or five weeks of happiness are indicated, more so if married.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): This month your health may emerge as a leading item of attention. Resist any temptation for year-end travels to far places.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Your month ahead is exciting, busy. Do not discard steady old friends in favor of glamorous new contacts. During the month you must conquer the urge to achieve all ends by giving lavish gifts.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): A three-week rush period begins in which you must guard your health by avoiding excess. The coming 10 days involve some hazard relating to fire or uneven heating. Family affairs this month are unsettled, need tact.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): The next two weeks are the best time for months to come for checking up on your health; get solid advice on diets, preventive measures, etc. Stop smoking now if you have the habit!

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): This week is very important. . . for the long-term future in emotional matters. Romantic interest is strong, financial stresses stiffer than ever. Changes are not indicated.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): A normal holiday period begins for you. Money comes in somewhat more easily than usual, but you spend it even more generously. Your own health seems to hold up, but you encounter problems relating to others' health.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): This whole month is full of unusual affectionate experiences. Short trips are favored early in the month; longer, necessary, less rewarding trips the latter half. The first three weeks are busy in physical terms, the last two more mental.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Three hectic weeks begin: complex burdens, emotional stresses, conflicts on earning and spending. This quiet Sunday, in the midst of the rush, offers a rare lull to ponder.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): This month will be rather emotionally charged. Your affairs, particularly earnings, suffer some disruption. Do not leave a sure thing this month, despite the overly active first 10 days.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The next three weeks bring an avalanche of intellectual stimulation, entertainment given and accepted. In this surge the major trends and opportunities of a year or two coming are determined subtly.

— and irrevocably.

PISCES (Feb. 19-Mar. 20): Potential difficulty with money continues and remains critical for the coming six weeks. During the first three weeks, you let slip away more than you can afford. Emotion in this period is happy.

★ MONDAY, DEC. 2 ★

YOUR BIRTHDAY tomorrow: This coming year you must learn patience to allow for other peoples' qualities. Projects should be set up for long-range goals. Except to serve your community; indeed, you may have to choose which of several sacrifices to make. Today's natives usually have strong skills in politics.

ARIES (Mar. 21-Apr. 19): Business men are busy but willing to collaborate. Seek interviews, political backing where appropriate. Add to your savings account.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): If you want anything special, the next nine days are the time to ask — not later. Wear new clothes today, get some if you don't have them. (Romantic interests are strong.)

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Group financial deals progress well. Take care of any obligations relating to schools or institutions. Confidential work is under way all around you. . . secret romances.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Put yourself out to be pleasant, obliging. Work placidly. Sentimental attachments thrive. Make a celebration this evening, but simple.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): The upcoming three weeks are interesting emotionally, but don't get overly involved! Begin creative projects. What starts today is of prime importance and of permanent impact.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Domestic affairs are busy the next three weeks. Put more pressure on yourself to get work done; concentrate on interrupted details. Intense romantic ventures tend to meet success.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): All month relations are difficult. Single people are urged to consider group operations for better security. Pooling of resources work well now.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): This week contains favorable emotional surprises. There is a practical benefit for every nuance of give-and-take. Be yourself; make the move to meet everybody halfway (and they will level with you).

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Your health and emotion are top priority. Put your efforts there and thrive. It's a favorable time. Neglect nothing of importance.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Your humor is good and pleasure tempting. Cater a bit both ways, but stay on the job. If you are doing work you don't really enjoy think about changes in the next couple of months.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Work stiffens a bit; it's uphill.

Twentieth Century Club Members Attend Thanksgiving Program

The Thanksgiving program for the Twentieth Century Club was held recently in the home of Mrs. Robert Sanford as Mrs. Jack Foster, membership chairman, presented the name of Mrs. Jack Stroup for associate membership, and the club approved her membership.

Mrs. Fred Neslage, yearbook chairman, announced plans for the Christmas party to be held in the home of Mrs. Dick Stowers, and names were drawn for the gift exchange.

Mrs. Joe Gordon provided the program "Works of Art in the Nation's Capital" and quoted Dr. William Schuman, "The Arts are crucial to our automated age. They serve as a creative illumination to counteract the push-button emptiness of our mechanized life, and armor against the disillusionment and anxiety of our times and an added defense against the destructive forces inherent in man."

Illustrating artists' work with pictures, Mrs. Gordon chose the White House as the nation's focal point to begin her talk.

"In 1800, less than 25 years after the Revolutionary War, the first picture was presented—the well known full length picture of George Washington by Gilbert Stewart. This started the famous President's Collection of all presidents, and in some cases, pictures of their wives," she said.

President Tyler's portrait is considered the finest in this group. The portrait of Abraham Lincoln done by Mr. Healey, was not accepted by the White House committee but was the favorite of Mrs. Tod Lincoln, who purchased it and upon her death, presented it to the White House.

"Another famous collection is called the "Peacemakers Collection" because of the part they played on American history. This collection is composed of five historic men: Ben Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, Alexander Hamilton, John Marshall, and Andrew Jackson.

"Morning on the Seine" by the French artist Monet was purchased by the Kennedy family as a memorial to President Kennedy and given to the White House. Flag Day by Child Hassam was painted in 1917 and represents one of the first painters in the Impressionist School, she said.

Eight paintings are in the Capitol Building. Most historically subjected works of art have been placed in the National Portrait Gallery and the Smithsonian Institute. Art donations formed the National Gallery in Washington D.C.

In tracing development of American art, Mrs. Gordon said "for the first decade following the Revolutionary War artists decided the way to preserve the focus of the country's leaders was to paint them."

"As the country extended westward, fear of Indians faded, and the country's economy began to prosper, pictures of landscapes, rivers, forests, began to appear, and the River School of Art emerged. The artist Hudson's pictures portrayed forces of nature with man a mere speck in the background. This school has been considered the predecessor of the Impressionist School, she said.

"The end of the 19th century found American artists painting still life subjects in stark realism. The best of these is Pito who succeeded in making his subjects so natural the viewer thought he could touch the real subject."

"Studies of men in their vocations became important; people saw people in all walks of daily routine. John Neagle's "Pat Lyon at the Forge" is a classic example."

Winslow Hudson, an early 20th Century artist, focused attention on the West and portrayed scenes the East knew little of. Following this trend, artists Remington and Russell encouraged people to come West.

As the century ended its first decade, when interest turned to cities which were rising, Reginald Marsh depicted facets of urban life.

"As the century moved on, and stark realism became the goal of American artists, one group of artists became known as the "Ashcan Painters" with John Sloan as the foremost."

Mary Cassie and Georgia O'Keeffe are regarded as the two most outstanding American women artists. "The projection of starkness developed into a concern for expression of art in the use of lines, angles, and geometric influences, as typified by the works of Charles Schuler and Grant Wood."

"It has been said America salutes the past and is grateful to the old Masters of Europe, but it is also conscious of the fresh spirit of its own. American art trends change about every 10 years, but this is a healthy factor, for if art stands still, it dies," Mrs. Gordon said.

Members present were Mmes. W.R. Campbell, F.M. Culberson, Charles Fagan, Jack Foster, Joe Gordon, Tom Greenwood, David McGahey, Fred Neslage, R.W. Sanford, W.A. Skoog, R.W. Stowers, R.H. Thompson. Two guests were welcomed, Mrs. J. Bush, mother of Mrs. Fred Neslage, and Mrs. A.W. Brown, mother of Mrs. Jack Foster.

Pope Considering Expansion Of College of Cardinals Body

By RAY MOSELEY
VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI is getting ready to expand once again that select body known as the College of Cardinals, and he may spring some surprises.

According to Vatican sources, the Pope's second consistory in June, 1967, may have been the last of the "traditional" consistories with red hats going primarily to residential archbishops and officials of the Vatican administration.

"The Pope wants to make the College of Cardinals a genuine elite," said one source. "It may be, at the next consistory, he will go beyond the traditional circles to appoint distinguished men."

There is also some speculation the Pope may go so far as to ask inactive cardinals to give up their posts to make room for younger men. More than a dozen of the current 102 cardinals have no active post in the church.

Not Certain

None of this is certain. All that is known for sure is that the Pope is considering reforms of the College of Cardinals, and has these proposals under study. How he will act on them is a secret.

Even the date for the new consistory is not known yet, but it is likely to be early in 1969, according to the best-informed Vatican sources.

Pope Paul already has made the College of Cardinals more international than at any time in its history—with 39 countries represented—and raised authorized membership to a record 120 at the 1967 consistory.

Eighteen cardinals have died in the 18 months since then, which accounts for the Pope's decision to make new appointments.

The College of Cardinals is probably one of the few bodies in the world dominated by men who would be well beyond retirement age in any other profession.

Oldest And Youngest
The average age of the cardinals is just over 70. Sixty-nine of them are past 65, and 44 of these are beyond 75—the age at which the Pope has asked residential bishops to offer their resignations.

The oldest cardinal is Italy's Giuseppe Pizzardo, who celebrated his 91st birthday last July 13. The youngest is 47-year-old Alfred Bengsch of Berlin.

The cardinals are the Pope's primary advisers in the church and they head the Vatican's sacred congregations which correspond to ministries or departments in government terms.

As a collective body, the cardinals' chief task is the election of a new Pope.

Some appointments at the next consistory are fairly predictable.

Archbishops Terence James Cooke of New York, Francois Marty of Paris and Antonio Poma of Bologna, Italy, are expected to get red hats simply because their posts are traditionally held by cardinals.

Italian Msgr. Sergio Guerri is a sure bet because the Pope recently named him head of the pontifical commission for the state of Vatican City. The holder of this office is always given cardinal's rank.

Many Christians Not Certain About Giving Thanks to God

By LOUIS CASSELS
United Press International
"It is good to give thanks to the Lord," the Bible declares. Why?

What purpose is served when a human creature turns in gratitude to his creator?

The wrong answer is that rites of Thanksgiving are necessary to appease a touchy deity. It is an insult to God to treat him like a stingy giver who may cut off his benefactions if we fail to display proper appreciation.

It's amazing how many "religious" people seem to think of Thanksgiving as an onerous duty, to be undertaken out of prudential regard for the divine wrath which may fall upon those who neglect it.

Rebuke This Attitude
Jesus rebuked this attitude. He reminded his disciples that even human parents, with all of their shortcomings, usually are unselfish enough to provide for their children's welfare without demanding anything—including expressions of gratitude—in return. God, he added, is infinitely more willing than the best of earthly fathers to give without strings.

Another widespread attitude views Thanksgiving as an act in which we acknowledge, gladly or grudgingly as the case may be, that there may be some good things in our lives which are not directly traceable to our own hard work and other virtues.

The pitfall in this approach is that those who take it are apt to give God credit for good luck while nursing secret grudges against him for any bad luck that befalls them. In either event they run the risk of attributing to express divine volition events which result from the random workings of a natural order in which God has seen fit, for our soul's health, to leave room for chance, accidents, uncertainty, danger and prosperity, health, happiness, pain, as well as undesired love, truth and beauty.

If gratitude is not an emotion to be conjured up by "counting our blessings" (and trying to forget our troubles), what is it?

Spontaneous Response
The biblical answer is that true Thanksgiving—the only kind that can possibly matter a whit to God or to us—is a spontaneous response of our hearts to the conviction that God loves us. Its spirit is perfectly expressed in the ancient Jewish prayer found at the beginning of several Old Testament psalms:

"O give thanks to the Lord, for he is good;

"His steadfast love endures forever."

Another way of putting it is that Thanksgiving is a celebration of the goodness and mercy of God, on the part of one who has experienced that goodness and mercy at first hand in his own life.

It should be noted that belief in God's kindness is not confined to persons who are conspicuously endowed with material "blessings." On the contrary, it very often is in the midst of pain, trouble, need or despair that a person becomes most certainly aware of the inexplicable love in whose presence all else seems unimportant.

It is indeed good to give thanks to the Lord. For Thanksgiving is the other face of faith. You can't have one without the other.

Young Romeo and Juliet Art Verily Hip

By DICK KLEINER
HOLLYWOOD — (NEA)—Romantic and artistic, came to life. She bought a copy of Hunter Davies' biography of the Beatles and he was having stomach problems and bought a Franco Zeffirelli's much-acclaimed version of "Romeo and Juliet." Romeo is Leonard Whiting and Juliet is Olivia Hussey.

Whiting took a swig of medicine and groaned a few pear-shaped groans. Miss Hussey leafed through the book and stopped at a picture of Paul McCartney.

"I had a crush on Paul when I was 14," she said. "That was the only time I ever cut anybody's picture out. But I don't think he looks so nice these days."

These are two talented and attractive youngsters—he was 17 and she was 15 when the film was made—with glittering careers ahead.

Whiting has done one film, what he calls "R & J," "The Royal Hunt of the Sun." Olivia hasn't done anything.

"I've had many offers," she says, "but so far nothing has come along that I've wanted to do. One has to be careful after playing Juliet. One can't do a cowboy-and-western, although that's what they seem to want me to do."

They find it hard trying to live up to Romeo and Juliet. In that way, their lives have been unalterably changed. In other ways, however, they remain the same.

"There was certainly not enough money in it," Whiting says. "To change much of anything. We only got 1,500 pounds (about $4,000) to do the picture."

"It was actually less than that for me," Olivia said. "My money was supposed to go into a trust fund. Mother would call up and say 'How is Olivia's trust fund?' and they'd say it was fine. But now nobody seems to know what became of it. So I have nothing. I got a few pounds a week allowance, that's all."

Neither of them seem particularly troubled about financial matters. They realize that better—and richer—days lie ahead.

"It was a springboard," Whiting says. "A springboard to big things."

He'd like to play all kinds of parts, and probably will. She, on the other hand, wants desperately to play a murderess.

They are both spirited and modern people, interested in the world that lies outside acting. Whiting is a sports enthusiast.

"I love football," he says, "and I used to play a lot and I also did a great deal of amateur boxing. My father was a boxer in the Marines and my mother's family—the O'Sullivans—were all fighters. My uncle, Danny O'Sullivan, was a pro and pretty good."

"I was a tomboy when I was a girl," Olivia said. "In school, I was champion breast-stroker and a champion runner, and I loved fighting, too. When I was eight and nine, I was on a gang, and I was the best fighter. But I changed. Now I hate sports."

Olivia always wanted to act, but Leonard just sort of drifted into it. He's happy about it now.

"I can't remember not wanting to act," Olivia says. "I remember seeing 'Black Orpheus' as a little girl, and that scene where they were electrocuted and fell off the bridge or whatever it was still haunts me. I'll never forget it."

Thus spoke Romeo and Juliet.

Desperate Cubans Flee To Guantanamo Bay

By MATHEW T. KENNY
GUANTANAMO NAVAL BASE, Cuba (UPI)—Desperate Cubans climb, run, swim and float into this big U.S. base on the southeast corner of the Communist island every chance they get, usually under cover of darkness.

Some make it over the base fence and through the mine fields or via the waters of Guantanamo Bay and are quietly flown to the United States where they meld into the huge refugee population.

The Navy does not like to talk about the refugees or even acknowledge that the flights occur.

Less fortunate Cubans fail in their bid for freedom and are shot by Fidel Castro's vigilant troops, clawed or cowed by patrol dogs or drowned in the bay. The Cuban regime doesn't care to admit that such things occur either.

Increasing dissatisfaction in the ranks of Cuban army men. Cuban "commuter" workers must turn over 90 per cent of their dollar earnings—at a peso-for-dollar rate—to the Castro regime every payday.

Double Lives
These "commuters" who lead double lives—working for the Yankee dollar by day and returning to their families in Red Cuba at night—are only one of unique things about Gitmo.

It is a place where iguanas often take the place of dogs as household pets, thriving on dog food and—some times—strawberry shortcake, reaching healthy four, five and six-foot length, according to base occupants.

It is a place where Marines capture big Boa constrictors while on fence-line duty and where they use tank flame throwers to burn off the overgrown grass on the mine fields, sometimes setting off a few mines in the process.

And one Marine cat is suspected of "commuting" regularly to Cuba through the fence for purposes of romance, something all the Marines cheer.

The 4,000 military men here include 250 Navy officers, 2,448 Navy enlisted men; 50 Marine officers, 1,239 Marine enlisted men; and three Coast Guard officers and 10 enlisted men.

Escape Reports
Last week at least four escapees were reported to have made it into "Gitmo," as the base is known. The week before at least two were captured, one of them wounded by Cuban guards.

These reports come from some of the 500 Cuban exiles who live and work on the base and the 400 Cuban "commuters" who go back and forth daily from their jobs here via the "northeast gate," the only route through the 17-mile chain link fence Cuban workers are permitted to use.

Both the exiles and the "commuters" are mostly middle-aged, long-time and trusted workers.

While the Navy does not discuss the refugee problem, it does report Castro's economy is in big trouble.

Rear Adm. James E. Hildreth, commander at Gitmo, said Castro "has got his hands full, economically." The Cuban leader is "going to have trouble unless somebody bails him out," Hildreth said.

That "somebody" presumably would be the Soviet Union.

Press reports that some 70 of Castro's troops around Gitmo had defected into the base were called "absolutely false" by the two-star admiral.

But the Cubans reported

The Pampa Daily News

A Watchful Newspaper
EVER STRIVING FOR THE TOP O' TEXAS
TO BE AN EVEN BETTER PLACE TO LIVE

The Pampa News is dedicated to furnishing information to our readers so that they can better promote and preserve their own freedom and encourage others to see its blessing. Only when man is free to control himself and all he produces, can he develop to his utmost capabilities.

We believe that freedom is a gift from God and not a political grant from government. Freedom is neither license, nor anarchy. It is control and sovereignty of oneself. No more, no less. It is thus consistent with the Human Relations Commandments, the Golden Rule and the Declaration of Independence.

Population Strain on Mother Earth

There were 65 million more souls in the world in mid-1967 than in mid-1966, reports the United Nations in the latest edition of its Demographic Yearbook. They brought total world population a year ago to 3.42 billion.

Man kind continues its inexorable expansion. At its present rate of growth of 1.9 per cent, it will double its numbers by the year 2006.

It requires an optimism of a high, though not necessarily unrealistic, order to believe that the world's nations will be able to feed a population approaching 7 billion at that time. Technology is capable of marvelous things and has only begun to face the challenge of squeezing the utmost production from present food sources and discovering new ones.

But one thing technology cannot do, and that is to add one inch to the size of the earth or one particle to the finite supply of resources the earth possesses.

As Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall pointed out recently, if we double our numbers there will only be half as much water per person. The same is true of our parklands, air and physical space.

"If we want it," said Udall, "our engineers can double and triple-deck our freeways and other public facilities and fill in the urban skyline with high-rise apartments, but man can never double-deck a park, a forest, a marsh or a seashore."

Our sudden awakening to the problems of air and water pollution and waste disposal is making us realize that not only man but the earth itself needs breathing room. Open spaces, wilderness areas, unpolluted

Trouble-Making Newspapers

Johannes Gutenberg, the man who invented movable type was a troublemaker.

Gutenberg had a hunch it would make a printer's work easier if type could be used over and over again in various combinations.

Before his time, printers carved entire texts on large blocks of wood, Gutenberg, experimenting, sawed up one of these blocks into individual letter-units.

His idea worked, and it made printing a great deal easier. But the ruckus it was to cause would have astounded this humble and devout German craftsman. For movable type not only simplified printing but it made possible for the first time the swift distribution of ideas to large numbers of people.

Under this interchange of ideas, serfs became restless, national states developed and feudalism crumbled, revolution, freedom-oriented troublemakers such as Tom Paine, Richard Cobden, and a group of uncouth pamphleteers in England took ideas directly to the people. They found print was the ideal way to express complex thoughts. It was true then and it is true today.

Printing made possible today's newspapers. Good newspapers tell the truth and truth causes problems. It causes problems to officials who want to carry on government affairs in secret or who want to take steps which serve their own vested story.

Without them, the public might never know what steps have been taken by those who are in positions of governmental authority as it was in the days before Gutenberg's problem causing experiment.

Newspapers can do harm as well as good. Some newspapers are just nothing but propaganda errand boys. Some newspapers are just a "pal" for entrenched interests.

But a newspaper that is sincerely dedicated to bringing the truth as far as it is able and without fear or favor can do a lot of good.

That's something to think about.

Eat Steak in Good Health

Some time ago, suspicion was cast on the back yard barbecue as a possible source of cancer. The charge had remarkably little impact on the al fresco cooking habits of Americans.

Nevertheless, it's a pleasure to learn that charcoal-broiled meat has been given a clean bill of health, even though it does contain a carcinogen (cancer-causing agent) called benzpyrene.

But only about one minuscule amount of benzpyrene gets on your average charcoal-broiled steak, and at that rate, says Health News, a person would have to eat nearly 30 million of them to be in danger.

Lest we allow ourselves to be lulled into a false sense of security, however, from another source comes the warning that unless man stops polluting his environment (with, among other things, smoke from back yard barbecues, presumably), he cannot survive on earth for more than five more generations.

That encouraging word comes from Dr. David M. Gates, director of the Missouri Botanical Gardens in St. Louis, who got it straight from a computer's mouth.

Win a few, lose a few.

Hairnets For The Hirsute

The Automobile Legal Association has proposed that hairnets be made mandatory for hippie drivers.

Lengthy locks are a traffic hazard not only because they obscure the vision of the one whose head they, uh, grace, but because other drivers are disconcerted when they see a car being driven by "a ball of fuzz."

"Many hair-styles of the younger set obstruct both forward and lateral vision," says Philip C. Wallwork, ALA safety director. "A regulation requiring hairnets for the hairy

Hon. Bob Price, Washington, D.C.
Thank you for the great work you are doing. Please use your great power and influence to defeat (stop) urban renewal. Also, please do all you can to keep our police free and independent of federal control!

Please defeat bill 90351.

Our understanding of the "Omnibus Police Control Act of 1968" is that in reality it is a wolf in sheep's clothing. This statute is a cleverly disguised instrument for federalization of law enforcement. There is a $400,000,000 carrot for fiscal years 1968, 1969, 1970, which is to be rationed out to states that apply for it. This money, removed from states, run through federal books, and returned to the states with strings attached. Let the states raise their own revenue for police purposes.

What are the crime prevention councils? The powers, qualifications and identities of these mysterious councils are not spelled out, except to say that they "shall be knowledgeable in organized crime." This could mean practically anyone, including a Capone, could become councilman. Why is a council needed at all? Each state has a governor, and attorney general who are charged with oversight of state law enforcement matters; why by-pass them? Who ordered the police not to shoot in Washington D.C. (April 1968 during the Resurrection City episode)?

What are these councils of Government (COG)?

The $400,000,000 carrot brings to mind the adage: "He who dances pays the piper."

Our local police is our last line of defense; so please back our local police and keep them independent of federal control so that they will take pride in their work and if roving hoodlums are molesting your children or trying to break into your house at 2 o'clock in the morning... there will be a policeman to call.

The above seems to tie-in with urban renewal. Jo Hindman has written two books—the first, Terrible 1313 Revisited; and Blame Metro when Urban Renewal Strikes, when Laws Oppress. The two may be obtained at $1.75 each from the Caxton Printers, Ltd., Caldwell, Idaho 83605. Miss Hindman states that Metro is spreading over the U.S.A. from Metro 1313 Chicago. New York axis located at 1313 East 60th St. on the University of Chicago campus and the policy-making "parent body" the National Municipal League is 46th East 68th St. New York City, New York. So much money flowing from federal government tends to destroy state lines.

From our information it seems that when Congress reconvenes it will want to order a searching look into Model Cities program. The multi-billion-dollar scheme has quickly degenerated with plans from the programs now being implemented by Klansmen, Black racists, ex-criminals and other assorted freaks. It seems the whole Civil Rights war-on poverty is a gigantic fraud.

Possibly we can do what is necessary on the local level to keep law and order for ourselves with no strings attached from Washington. We object to the Omnibus Crime Control Act in general because we fear federal control of law enforcement agencies at the local level. We need less Big government and more personal responsibility at the local level.

The Soviet slave states all have councils of government to run things from the top down. Please defeat the Omnibus Crime Control Act. Thank you. Mrs. B.E. Walker 2028 Austin St. Amarillo, Texas set may prove as sensible as the regulations requiring helmets for motorcyclists.

The problem could also be solved by mandatory haircuts, or perhaps even a hairstyle with peepholes. But that, he thinks, may be too drastic a step.

I'll Stick With My Old Fashioned Earth Orbit

Branch Head Bill Says:

By BILL KENNEDY

Together, it's wonderful!

If Richard Nixon really wants to "Bring Us Together," surely he is giving some consideration to the 10 million Wallace votes and the South.

I don't know what kind of secret promises were made to politics makes strange bed-fellows; and after this election, I have to concede that this is true. How "Mr. Southern Conservative," Thurmond of South Carolina, ever brought himself to support the liberal Richard Nixon so actively I cannot understand—that Miami horse trade must have been a dilly. I do know there are folks in Dixieland who may never forgive Thurmond for dumping for Nixon. (I haven't decided yet whether or not I'm one of them.)

But he did it. And he made a tremendous contribution—as Nixon himself knows, or he would not have met with Thurmond immediately after the election to thank him for it. So now it is only good sense—if he wants to "Bring Us Together" and pay off his debt to his leading supporter in the South at the same time—that he appoint Strom Thurmond attorney general! (He probably wouldn't want it but that's okay. I'm mad at him anyway.)

One liberal columnist suggested Wayne Morse for that post. I think that would be a little better in the eyes of southerners than if Rap Brown got the job... but not much—it surely wouldn't "Bring Us Together" with anybody. Thurmond would!

So we'll see whether or not the President-elect is serious about this "togetherness." Or whether he plans to continue to ignore the wants of the South as they have been ignored for the past several administrations.

Nixon may be making a big mistake if he permits the continued persecution of the Deep South states because he is going to need some help with the Democrat Congress. If the southern strength in the Congress decides to go against him with the rest of the country's Democrats, he will be in trouble trying to get legislation passed. On the other hand, if the southern Democrats form a coalition with Nixon's Republicans he can handle the Congress to some extent.

(Wallace's candidacy at least made that a possibility.) If Nixon names a so-called "civil rights" leader like Morse Attorney General, he's had it!

Speaking of the election, there is a lot of talk these days about changing the presidential election system, doing away with the Electoral College, changing to a popular vote system and all that. What good would that do?

The present system is one where the majority of the states elect the President (with voting strength based on population). We have indeed proved that elections can be stolen under this system, but would that likelihood be less under the popular vote approach? No, it would be even more likely. In a close election—like in 1960 and 1968—some place like Cook County could reverse the results by simply switching a few thousand votes. It would be far easier to influence the election than now—because with the present system the vote might have to be switched in several different states. (As it turned out, Illinois alone couldn't have saved HHH.)

All this drive to do away with the Electoral College is simply another move by the liberals to take the states out of the governing process. It is another project, against states rights, a hoped for further step toward the one-man, one-vote concept. I hope the country will be aware!

The Doctor, Says

Child's Playthings Can Be Dangerous

Toys are on nearly everyone's mind as Christmas approaches. Efforts to make all toys foolproof have helped to cut the accident rate due to toys and play equipment but it still stands at about 4 per cent of all home accidents. Broken toys, toys that are put to uses that were never intended and lack of parental supervision are the chief contributing factors.

Faulty design and the use of hazardous materials formerly incriminated have been largely eliminated through the activity of the National Safety Council, the Federal Hazardous Substances Act and voluntary preventive measures by large manufacturers. For example, parental supervision could have prevented a boy from donning a Batman or Superman suit and jumping off a roof thinking he could fly. It could also have prevented a toddler in his little red wagon from plunging down the basement stairs.

At different ages children need different toys. Those suitable for a toddler should be washable, nonbreakable and free of sharp edges. Plastic toys made of polystyrene, polypropylene and polyethylene are preferred because, if they are broken, there will be no jagged edges. Electric toys for young children should work by batteries rather than by being plugged into a wall socket. As a child becomes older, let him have toys that would be dangerous for a younger child but make sure you teach him how to handle them safely.

Don't give a chemistry set to a child who is under 12 and even then keep track of what kind of experiments he is making. When he is old enough for electric toys that plug in, see that they bear the seal of the Underwriter's Laboratories and impress on him that they must never be handled with wet hands.

If your child plays with any kind of gun, teach him to point it at a target or a tin can but never at another person or at up.

An Opinion? Get It From Polls
NEW YORK (NEA)—Of all things, it now turns out that marriage of Jackie Kennedy to Aristotle Onassis is probably not valid after all.

According to the results of a scientific nationwide poll conducted by Louis Harris one month after the wedding:

Only 35 per cent of the electorate approved of the marriage.

About 31 per cent disapproved.

And the remaining 34 per cent were not sure whether they approved or disapproved.

So, with no plurality of the popular vote, the Kennedy-Onassis nuptials will probably be thrown into the House of Representatives for a final decision.

Or, at least, that's what ought to be done.

As everybody knows, no step is taken nowadays without a prior vox by the populi. And so, the poll-takers are out until all hours sampling the public's opinion on everything from pre-presidential preference to—well, postmarital customs (32 per cent agreed with the Church's stand on the wedding).

Naturally, such wholesale traffic in decision-making has caused considerable concern. Many critics of the public opinion polls see leadership and self-reliance fading away in the face of government by consensus and life by committee.

For our part, we disagree completely with that diagnosis. Poll-taking, it seems to us, lies at the very heart of the democratic way of life.

The right to express your opinion is the basis of a free society. If there were no poll-taker asking people how they felt about the Kennedy-Onassis nuptials, say, most people would not have anything to think about while they expressed their opinions.

What worries us about the constant survey of public opinion is the effect it has on the public.

Most people, we have noticed, are very accommodating. They will go out of their way and take time from a busy and uncertain life to answer any question asked of them—no matter how personal.

As of this writing, we would bet there are 50,000 householders telling questioners they have never seen before how they feel about their spouses, their children, their in-laws, their mating habits and underarm deodorants.

It is hardly unusual for perfect strangers at a cocktail party to query each other about whether they are happily divorced and, if so to what pill they owe their success.

It is also our understanding an animal. If you give him roller skates or a bicycle, make sure there is a safe place for him to learn to use them. Properly selected toys will not only keep your child happy—they will also help him to grow never at another person or at up.

Democrats Raise 'No Patronage' Sign On CIA

ROBERT ALLEN

JOHN GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — President-elect Richard M. Nixon is being strongly urged to retain career-man Richard Helms in his present job as head of the ever-controversial Central Intelligence Agency.

Helms, appointed by President Johnson in 1966, has been with CIA since the big spy agency was established in 1947. His retention would go far towards nailing down a precedent for non-political, career directors of Central Intelligence.

Some of the keep-Helms sentiment is being relayed to Nixon by Democratic law-makers. They are stressing the desirability of career continuity in CIA. They contend that the top CIA job has never been treated as a patronage plum.

They are right that, by accident or by design, no President has ever made a purely partisan appointment of a CIA director. Three of the six CIA heads to date have, in fact, been military men, insulated by their profession from partisan politics.

An all but forgotten Naval officer, Rear Adm. Roscoe Hillekoetter, was the first director of Central Intelligence. He had been the head of a predecessor intelligence agency and was appointed by President Truman in 1947, when Congress established the new CIA.

President Eisenhower appointed his World War II chief of staff, Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, to succeed Hillekoetter in 1950. In 1953 Eisenhower appointed Allen W. Dulles as the first civilian director of Central Intelligence, succeeding Smith.

At that time Dulles had an extensive intelligence background. He had been active in the study process which led to the creation of a civilian agency to coordinate all the government's intelligence activities. President Kennedy, as one of his first appointments, announced that he was retaining Dulles.

In 1961, after the ill-fated Bay of Pigs adventure, Democrat Kennedy named a Republican, John A. McCone, to succeed Dulles. McCone had been under-secretary of his Air Force and a member of the Atomic Energy Commission in the Eisenhower Administration.

President Johnson named another military man, Adm. William F. Raborn, as McCone's successor in 1965. Helms was named as Raborn's deputy at that time. He was elevated to the top job when Raborn left it a year later.

NO POLITICS — No mention was made of Helms' politics when he appeared before the Senate Armed Services Committee at the time of his appointment in 1965 and, again, in 1966. His career summary made it clear that he had never held a political job.

A reporter in Europe before World War II, Helms became an intelligence officer during the war. He has been in military and civilian intelligence jobs ever since.

He had been serving as CIA's deputy director for plans under McCone when he was selected for the number two spot with that the national landscape is presently dotted with small groups of people who gather once or twice a week in the name of therapy to survey each other's anxieties, neuroses and obsessions.

All in all, from what we have observed, poll-taking is a very contagious ailment with extremely serious consequences.

We know of one case where a fellow developed an acute identity crisis so he would have someplace to go on Wednesday evenings.

There is another instance on record of a woman who came down with so severe a case of public opinion that she could do nothing but marry a rich Greek ship owner.

Needless to say, there is no protection against this disease. People simply cannot help answering questions. And if they do not know the answer, two out of three times they will concoct one rather than disappoint you.

And then, having made the concoction, they feel honor-bound to drink it down.

The question: "Do you think Lee Radziwill's feeling about her sister Jacqueline is justified?"

The response we got is just about what you would expect.

Raborn, who had been the expediter of the highly successful Polaris submarine program and let it be known, at the outset, that he would stay in CIA for only a short period.

The transition from the hard-driving, spade-calling McCone to short-timer Raborn was a difficult one for CIA, and the elevation of one of their own was hailed by the agency's careerists.

The law which created CIA bars appointment of military men to both of the CIA jobs. That requirement has been interpreted as requiring a civilian deputy for an officer director, and vice versa. If President Nixon sets a career precedent by retaining Helms, the intelligence community, as presently constituted, would seem to have no lack of career talent.

Even the CIA critics agree that it has assembled an able group of employees at its nearby Langley, Va., headquarters and in overseas posts around the world. On the military side, there is the billion-dollar Defense Intelligence Agency, which coordinates separate Army, Navy and Air Force intelligence services. In addition, there is the super-secret National Security Agency, which specializes in codes, cryptography and other electronic intelligence.

WORK "SUBSTANTIALLY" IMPROVED — Helms' performance as CIA chief and the performance of the agency under his direction is difficult to assess. No government operation in the world is under as steady a drumfire of criticism as CIA, but the agency gets generally high marks from the insiders who are familiar with the intelligence estimates which it produces.

Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford testified earlier this fall that U.S. intelligence operations have improved "substantially" in recent years. He said he accepts and believes the intelligence community's appraisals of Soviet nuclear strength and thinks there is "a higher degree of agreement" in the intelligence community about such national estimates.

Except for an early misunderstanding with Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, Helms has had excellent relations with Congress and the House and Senate committees which ride herd on CIA activities. Generally, Helms has, as he promised in 1966, kept CIA out of foreign policy making.

CIA operations came under fire most recently after the recent invasion of Czechoslovakia by troops from Russia and other nations of the Warsaw pact. Critics contended that CIA's warnings of such a move were deficient.

Congressional military experts, who looked carefully into those complaints, say CIA correctly charted the pre-invasion moves of the Warsaw pact armies and reported the possibility of a move into Czechoslovakia. Missing was the definite word that the Kremlin had decided to invade, and some informed authorities doubt whether CIA could be expected to get that tightly-held information.
