Sky-Riding Officers Arrest Woman In Shook-Pryor Case

SPEED PLANE USED IN RACE TO LAMPASAS

Mrs. Lillian Blair Taken By Wichita Officers In Central Texas

PURSUIT IS CLOSED

Last Arrest Made in Jail Break by Shumate After Flight

Swinging half way across Texas in a roaring airplane, two deputies of the Wichita Falls sheriff's department dropped into the little town of Lampasas Wednesday morning to take into custody Mrs. Lillian Blair, sought over three states by officers for questioning in connection with charges recently brought here against Ed Pryor, former Electra constable, and Tom Shook, former Electra chief of police.

Mrs. Blair was found with a carnival company now showing in Lampasas, according to a telephone report to The Record News from its Lampasas correspondent. She was arrested on a warrant charging aiding a prisoner to escape, the charges being filed in connection with the escape from jail of Henry Shumate, indicted for the robbery of an Electra newsstand.

Return Today

The arrest of Mrs. Blair brought to a close one of the most thorough and spectacular pursuits in the annals of Wichita county history. It was believed the first time an airplane has been used for the arrest of a prisoner.

Mrs. Blair will be returned to Wichita Falls Thursday morning by airplane, with her young daughter.

A warrant charging Mrs. Blair with aiding a prisoner to escape was filed here before Justice of the Peace O. L. Gibbs July 20 by Sheriff W. G. Bralley. Then started the long search to locate Mrs. Blair. The charge against the woman is a technical one. It was said by officers, as she is believed to have important information in connection with the charges brought against Pryor, Shook and Shumate, and it was to secure this information that she was sought by officers.

Sheriff Notified

Sheriff A. R. Harvey notified the Wichita sheriff's department at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning that he was holding a woman believed to be Mrs. Blair. An airplane was immediately chartered here, and W. P. Belcher, deputy sheriff, and S. O. Hamm, highway officer, were dispatched shortly before noon with the warrant for the woman's arrest. Arriving in Lampasas, the woman was placed in the Lampasas city jail, but the return trip was delayed until, her young daughter, in a nearby town, could be reached.

One deputy sheriff will return by plane Thursday morning with Mrs. Blair and her daughter, it was stated in Lampasas. The other Wichita officer will make the return trip here by automobile. The plane is expected to reach here early today.

Pryor, Shook and Shumate were indicted on charges of burglary in connection with the burglary of the King newsstand at Electra May 29, after Shumate had escaped the county jail here in June, to be recaptured while sleeping with Pryor at the constable's home in Electra.

With additional investigations into the activities of the two men being demanded by Ben P. Allred, district attorney, and Fred Weeks, special prosecutor, the July grand jury was convened in special session last Friday, to be dismissed Monday when the state had been unable to locate Mrs. Blair and other witnesses. The grand jury, it is understood, is subject to recall any time this month.

CRAIN OPENS HOT CAMPAIGN

500 Hear Candidate In First Speech

Robert R. Crain, candidate for county attorney, began his second primary campaign at Bellevue park Wednesday night with a hot indictment of the record of Wayne Somerville, incumbent. More than 500 persons attended the address.

Mr. Crain exhibited a paper which he declared to be a photostat of a hunting license issued "W. Somerville" in Oklahoma on Dec. 1, 1927. He declared that Mr. Somerville, in order "to save $13.75 went into Oklahoma while he was county attorney here and declared he was a resident of Oklahoma and purchased a 'resident' hunting license for $1.25 because a non-resident license would have cost him $15."

"Withdraw, If Untrue"

"If I believed that the result of the first primary was the will of the people," Mr. Crain said, "I would not stay in the race. But shortly prior to the primary a whispering campaign was started against me, spreading the untrue rumor that I am an infidel and an atheist. I had to continue in the race to refute these charges and show you what manner of man made them.

"If Mr. Somerville will meet me in joint debate here tomorrow night

COAST CITIES ISOLATED BY GALE'S HAVOC

Power, Telephone and Wireless Service Halted By Gale

HOMES DAMAGED

Storm Sweeps Out From Land and May Be Dissipated

MOBILE, Ala., Aug. 8. (AP)—Storm warnings were hoisted here by the weather bureau tonight. The weather bureau made public the following warning:

"Hoist northeast storm warning west of Apalachicola to Mobile. Northeast winds will increase Thursday. Disturbance moving northwest with decreasing intensity."

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Aug. 8. (US)—Central and south Florida were still isolated tonight as a result of the hurricane which struck that portion of the state last night.

More than a hundred miles of the east coast line was lashed by the storm which swept in from the sea and then went crashing across the state toward the west coast.

Telegraph, telephone and power wires were put out of commission and only meager reports came out of the stricken district today. The wrecking of the power lines left the towns in the storm area in darkness last night and tonight and stopped all industry depending on electric power today.

Loss Into Millions

A property damage of a least $5,000,000 has been estimated though so far, no loss of life has been reported.

Miami, which was so hard hit by the hurricane in September of 1926, is among the cities cut off from communication and it is not known how serious the damage is in that city.

The naval communication station on Jupiter island, between Palm Beach and Miami, has been silent all day and so have other wireless stations at Miami and Palm Beach.

Some anxiety is still being felt for ships at sea. The Mallory liner Algonquin reported this morning that it was safely riding the storm though it was badly battered by the winds and churning sea last night. Three hundred passengers are aboard.

The Honduran steamship Lempira is assumed to be safe though no word has been received from her since she was struck by the gale last night. The Mallory freighter Alamo is overdue at Tampa.

Houses Unroofed

The storm was heavy around the famous Indian river district and fears are felt for the heavy-laden fruit trees in the central area of the state.

It is said that at least 75 per cent of the houses at Fort Pierce and Stuart and Vero have been unroofed. These towns have a population of 5,000 or more.

A heavy downpour of rain accompanied the wind and added to the damage.

Reports have come through from Palm Beach telling of how the town was left in darkness last night and adding that the wind had dwindled to a slight breeze today.

Gale Goes Into Gulf

The gale, however, had swept westward toward the gulf coast and was headed out over the Gulf of Mexico, where it is expected to dissipate itself.

The few persons who managed to make their way out of the stricken district today said most of the countryside was laid waste. Houses are unroofed, plate glass windows blown out of stores, trees uprooted and telephone poles blown across the road. It was with great difficulty that these few managed to make their way along the highways which were cluttered up with poles, trees and sign boards.

Repair work has already been started and it is expected that communication with all points will be established within a few hours.

Relief work has also been started.

JOHNSTON MAY 'BREAK EVEN'

Friends and Enemies Of Governor Elected

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 8. (UP)—An even break in the selection of friends and opponents of Governor Henry S. Johnston was recorded in the Oklahoma primary yesterday, it was indicated on the basis of returns tonight.

Although Judge E. P. Hill, one of the "four horsemen" leaders in the late attempted impeachment session for the governor, was defeated, there were believed to be sufficient anti-administration winners to endanger the "harmony" program in 1929 as asked by the governor. Three of the four insurgent members—H. Tom Kight, Robert Graham and Tom Johnson—were renominated.

Chief Justice Fred P. Branson, of the state supreme court, who wrote the opinion holding the late impeachment attempt illegal, was the apparent winner in the contest to succeed himself in the seventh judicial district.

Missouri Dry in Lead

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Aug. 8. (UP)—Although late returns today from urban centers of Missouri slashed the lead of Charles M. Hay, dry Democratic candidate for the United States senator, returns from rural districts were expected to keep him in front.

Throughout today Hay had maintained a lead of from 18,000 to 25,000 over James A. Collet of Sallisbury, who was strongly supported by Senator James A. Reed during the campaign.

Tabulation of 3,133 out of 4,112 precincts gave Hay 126,074 votes to Collet's 118,586 votes. Hays' lead was slashed when Collett carried St. Louis by a vote of 35,844 to 8,188 and Jackson county, including Kansas City, by 39,258 to 11,358. Further returns, however, were expected to favor Hay.

Reed in Kansas

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 8. (UP)—John Hamilton, of Topeka, conceded late today the nomination of Clyde M. Reed, of Parsons, for governor of Kansas on the Republican ticket.

The concession was made in a telegram of congratulations sent Reed by Hamilton. Returns from 1,589 precincts gave Reed 71,999 votes; Hamilton, 44,657; Charles F. Scott, 23,855; D. A. N. Chase, 19,858; Frank J. Ryan, 19,276; Fred Volland, 6,965.

The Record News desires to make this correction in order that the name of the plaintiff in the suit may not be confused with the name of any other person.

CITY COMBED FOR SLAYER OF NOTED WOMAN

Moron Killer Attacks College Teacher In Evanston, Ill.

IRON PIPE FOUND

Body of Famous Educator Left at Door Of Residence

EVANSTON, Ill., Aug. 8. (UP)—Every moron suspect in Evanston was ordered arrested by Chief of Police Charles Paasch today in the search for the murderer of Miss Jenny Constance, 45, English instructor at Bradley Polytechnic institute at Peoria, Ill.

The teacher's body with the head crushed was found beside a hedge on the lawn of the home of George H. Peak early today. A pool of blood lay near the body in which a heavy iron pipe, the instrument used by her attacker, was found.

Miss Constance was beaten to death and assaulted, police announced. Most of her clothing had been torn from the body by the fiend who presumably had laid in wait for her when she was returning to the home of her sister, Mrs. A. B. Anderson.

Police centered their search for a negro, reported to have been seen in the vicinity Tuesday night carrying a heavy iron pipe. Agnes Beals and Marguerite McKee, Northwestern university students, reported having seen the negro walking near the Peak home.

Noted Educator

Miss Constance had entered Northwestern post-graduate school July 1, intending to obtain a doctor's degree. She was prominent in women's club circles in Peoria, where she was head of the English department of the Bradley institute. She was the author of several articles on Shakespearean subjects and frequently lectured on English literature.

She had left the home of her sister Tuesday night to go to the university library. When she had not returned early this morning police were notified and a search was made.

The body was found by a milkman who delivered milk at the Peak residence.

Robbery was not the motive of the murderer, police said, as two valuable rings on her hand were untouched and a necklace was found on the ground nearby.

Miss Constance held a bachelor of philosophy degree from Hamline university and a master of arts degree from Columbia university. She also studied in Europe for three years. In 1919 she began as a teacher in the Bradley institute and soon was given charge of the English department.

Before she started this picture she was afraid of guns. Now she handles them like a veteran, and makes quite a charming sharpshooter.

Tunney's Engagement to Wed Heiress Of Steel Riches Formally Announced

Retired Champion to Take Mary Josephine Lauder As Bride; Enters One of Wealthiest Families

By MORRIS DE HAVEN TRACY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Aug. 8. (UP)—The mystery of the immediate plans of Gene Tunney, retired heavyweight champion, was cleared up today when his engagement to Miss Mary Josephine Lauder was announced.

The announcement was made by friends of Tunney and of the Lauder family in New York, at the request of Mrs. George Lauder Jr., mother of Miss Lauder.

Although the time for the wedding has not been set, it will take place probably in the late autumn or the early winter in New York.

Guest of Lauders

Tunney now is a guest of the Lauders at their estate on St. John island, off the Maine coast near Bristol, Maine.

The wedding will bring Tunney into one of the wealthy families of the country for the Lauders amassed millions under the guidance of Andrew Carnegie in the steel business. Not only is the Lauder family wealthy but in it are united families of some of the oldest families of the eastern United States.

Tunney, himself, started from the "sidewalks of New York." He was a native of Greenwich Village and his mother, Mary Lydon Tunney, and his father, the late Joseph Tunney, both were natives of Ireland.

Miss Lauder's father was the son of the late George Lauder of Pittsburgh, Pa., who became wealthy in steel. The family fortunes followed those of Andrew Carnegie and the Lauder wealth has been estimated as high as $50,000,000.

Met Five Years Ago

Tunney first met Miss Lauder through Edward Dewing, her brother-in-law who was a friend of Tunney. That was about five years ago and Miss Lauder was then a girl of 16 or 17 years. She was attractive, spirited and athletic.

During the years Tunney was fighting his way to the top of the ladder she was a student at exclusive girls' schools in New York and abroad.

Miss Lauder is an ardent follower of outdoor sports. She rides, is an enthusiastic yachtswoman, and also is interested in art.

Reports that he was about to wed have followed Tunney almost continuously since immediately after he won the championship, but all of them have been denied. The engagement between Tunney and Miss Lauder has been understood between them for about a year, however, dating from approximately the time of his second meeting with Jack Dempsey in Chicago.

Immediately following the fight with Heeney in New York, these reports became more persistent than ever, but again they met with de-

TOM CONNALLY HINTS AT PACT

Ferguson-Mayfield-Power Alliance Mentioned

DENTON, Texas, Aug. 8. (AP)—An alleged "Ferguson—Mayfield—electric power alliance" was the target of Congressman Tom Connally's attack in two addresses here tonight in his campaign for the United States senate against the incumbent, Earle B. Mayfield.

The Marlin representative spoke to students of the North Texas State Teachers college this afternoon and delivered a public address tonight.

Connally charged a representative of the Texas-Louisiana Power company rented a room in an Austin hotel last Tuesday and there held forth during the day "with Earle B. Mayfield and James E. Ferguson visiting him."

Later in the week, Connally said, Ferguson announced that he would support Mayfield for the senate.

Connally ridiculed answers that the senator had made to his previous attacks and renewed his charge that Mayfield claimed credit for the cotton census bill whereas Congressman Marvin Jones was the original author.

The speaker made light of Mayfield's explanation of his vote to refer the Walsh electric power investigation resolution to the federal trade commission and reiterated his invitation to the senator to meet him for a joint discussion of the issues of the campaign.

YOUTH GIVEN MAXIMUM FOR ROAD ASSAULT

Comanche Jury Returns Verdict to Court In Five Minutes

OTHERS ACCUSED

Youth Seems Dejected As Doom Is Spelled By Jury's Finding

COMANCHE, Texas, Aug. 8. (AP)—Five minutes after having been given the case and on the first ballot, the jury trying Dick Hazzard of near De Leon for criminal assault on Velma Bankhead, 19, daughter of a Comanche county farmer, today returned a verdict of guilty and assessed his penalty as death.

The defendant, who had maintained perfect composure during the trial, broke down immediately after the verdict. An Associated Press staff writer found him on his knees in his cell in the jail, groaning and crying.

He denied his guilt and said that he would maintain his denial until the end, even to the electric chair. He asserted he was convicted on perjury testimony.

Holland and Pierce also said they were innocent.

They were unperturbed by the report of the verdict in Hazzard's trial.

Appeal Planned

J. R. Stubblefield, defense attorney announced immediately after the verdict that he would appeal the case.

Trial of Hazzard perhaps has attracted more attention than any other case in the history of Comanche county because of the nature of the alleged crime. The case went to trial Monday morning and throughout the three days the court room has been packed to capacity, scores of persons arriving as early as 6 a. m. daily. Many of the spectators brought their lunches and remained all day.

Hazzard, Harley Holland, 22, and J. B. Pierce, 22, all farmer youths, were alleged to have taken the Bankhead girl out for an automobile ride Saturday night, July 21. It was charged that the three youths also picked up Christine Gammage, 17 of German, and took her with them.

Dragged From Car

It was claimed that after proceeding some distance on the highway the youths halted the automobile and dragged the Bankhead girl from the car after which two of them attacked her. Later she was returned in a hysterical and fainting condition to the car and they drove along a short distance further, it was said.

It was charged the automobile again was stopped and the third man assaulted her and Hazzard, who was the member of the trio alleged to have harmed her first, again mistreated her.

The Gammage girl was charged with being a confederate in the crime. She was arrested and formally charged with criminal assault. This unusual charge against a female, it was pointed out, was filed in order that the state might fix a bond heavy enough to hold her as a material witness. On Monday the charge against her was dismissed by the state, but in default of bond she was still being held in jail here.

Trial of Holland and Pierce jointly upon a charge of criminal attack is scheduled to begin tomorrow morning. A venire of 100 men will be in court from which a jury is expected to be obtained.

Wichitans Learn About Industrially Minded City in Tour of Sherman

Special to The Record News.

SHERMAN, Texas, Aug. 8.—About a dozen Wichitans today learned what it means for a community to be "industrially-minded." They learned it in a town which, though far down the line in population among Texas cities, ranks fifth as a manufacturing center. Sherman has progressed farther along the line of developing industries than any other Texas city, and the Wichitans came here to learn how it was done.

The party arrived about noon and were guests of the chamber of commerce at luncheon after which the plants of the Interstate Cotton Oil company, Meadolake Milk Products company, Tommy Tucker Hog company, Hardwicke-Etter company, manufacturers of gin machinery, Day Manufacturing company, manufacturers of paper boxes, Washington Iron Works, The Pool Knitting, Shirt Making and Work Clothing Making plants, The A. B. C. Candy company and the Sherman Manufacturing company's cotton mill, were visited.

The Wichitans derived some ideas along the line of factory development which will be put into effect at home as opportunities arise. The party left for home late tonight.

Wichitans, headed by J. B. Marlow, returned from Sherman Wednesday night after spending the day inspecting the factory system of that city.

HOOVER ENACTS NOTIFICATION

Group Holds Dress Rehearsal of Event

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Aug. 8. (AP)—A dress rehearsal of the Republican notification ceremonies, with Herbert Hoover in the star role, was held today in the university stadium. The action moved with precision and it was announced everything was in readiness for the start at 3:30 p. m., Saturday.

The Republican presidential nominee went to the bowl early in the day and spent more than an hour looking over the ground and testing out his voice on loud speakers installed on a high platform directly above the speaker's platform.

The nominee pronounced the broadcast arrangement satisfactory. Hoover scanned the latest returns from the Missouri senatorial primaries and apparently derived satisfaction out of the figures which indicated the nomination of a dry senatorial candidate to run with Gov. Alfred E. Smith in the November elections. It also appeared that a dry will be on the ticket with Hoover.

The only aspect of the returns which served to lessen enthusiasm in Republican quarters was the relative size of the Republican and Democratic votes, returns from two-thirds of the state showing more Democrats than Republicans had gone to the polls.

Chester H. Rowell, publicist, San Francisco, was a luncheon guest at the Hoover home and the commerce secretary also conferred with W. K. Newel of Portland, food administrator for Oregon under Hoover during the war, and also with Mark L. Requa, who is arranging details for the visit of the candidate to southern California after he leaves here for Washington.

Present plans would defer departure until a week from tomorrow or Friday as Hoover is not due at his birthplace, West Branch, Iowa, until Aug. 21.

He accepted correspondents' invitation to be their guest at a dinner Friday night in honor of his birthday.

JUDGE COOK THANKS VOTERS

Says Primary Vote Compliment to Experience and Efficiency

Judge Weldon, Mr. Smoot and I received an overwhelming majority of all votes cast in the first primary, in which youth and inexperience yielded to maturity and efficiency. Judge Weldon and Mr Smoot, both honorable men, with years of experience in civil law shared with me those votes cast for experience and efficiency. It is upon this issue that I most earnestly solicit votes of the people of this county in my request for a second term.

My record of cases tried during my first term as district judge favorably compares with that of other district judges in the state. The records of the higher courts show that the per cent of cases in which my judgments were approved is higher than the average of other district judges in the state. This fact, at no time, has been disputed. I also invite inquiry of any person in any manner, at any time, connected with my court as to its efficiency and the deliberate method of its functioning.

I sincerely thank my many friends for their former expression of confidence and will appreciate the honor of continuing to serve for a second term as your 78th district judge, promising that business will be dispatched with all possible speed permitted by thoughtful consideration of all issues raised upon the trial of causes, to the end that when a case is so tried, deliberately, that it will stand the test of the higher court, rather than being reversed for another trial because of error made in its hasty disposition.

Boy, 13, Stays in Burning House To Die With Sister After Rescue Fails

BAKERSVILLE, N. C., Aug. 8. (UP)—The heroism of a 13-year-old boy who died because he could not save his baby sister was being recounted here tonight.

The boy, Lonnie Gaither, lost his life when he rushed back into his parents' burning home to rescue Anna Lee, 4, George, 10, and William 6, who failed to flee when their mother gave the alarm. The four children were burned to death.

Mrs. Gaither escaped with her infant child and Lonnie, but the boy ran back in spite of the frantic cries of his mother. When he failed to find Anna, he called to Mrs. Gaither:

"I can't find her, so I'll stay in here and die with her."

Mrs. Gaither and the infant were being treated for minor burns tonight. The father was away from home when the blaze started from George's attempt to revive a fire in an open fireplace.

ITALY MOURNS FOR VICTIMS

Sub Crash Is Third Recent Disaster to Nation

ROME, Aug. 8. (UP)—Italy bowed her head in mourning today for the third disaster in recent weeks which has come upon her heroes.

First, there was the crash of the dirigible Italia with its toll of a dozen lives not yet accounted for. Next there were the four crashes—the last more serious than all of the rest—to the heroic efforts of Majors Arturo Ferrarin and Carlo del Prete to continue their flight to Buenos Aires after establishing a world's record by their flight from Rome to Brazil. Then came the official announcement that the submarine F-14, which sunk Monday after a collision with a destroyer in the upper Adriatic, had taken 27 lives as its toll.

Those who were rescued from the Italia have returned to Rome, except Captain Mariano, who has remained in Stockholm for treatment of injuries received as a result of the Italia crash. Some of the rescued men still carry marks of their battle against the elements in the ice north.

Fliers in Hospital

Ferrarin and Del Prete are now in the Sao Sebastiao hospital in Rio de Janeiro, both in a critical condition as a result of the accident Tuesday when the airplane they were testing crashed. Del Prete is in a grave condition. Ferrarin has passed the danger point. An official communique today attributed the accident to "faulty assembling of the craft," which had been set up for the flyers to make trips around Brazil.

Meanwhile, the city of Palo, base of the submarine F-14, is mourning the death of the 27 men who went down. An examination of the craft showed that part of the men had perished by drowning and those who had not met death by the great inrush of waters had succumbed to the deadly gas generated by the sea water coming in contact with the sulphuric acid which had spilled from the ship's batteries.

Towed Into Harbor

As a giant pontoon kept the ship afloat, it was towed into Palo harbor today. A half-masted flag veiled in black was fluttering from the poop.

"Due to the chlorine gas still hanging in the death chamber hulk of the ship, gas masks were used by the rescuers to remove the bodies of the men. The bodies were removed to the Palo shipyard.

The submarine was placed in drydock to determine the cause of the accident.

It was the message of the submarine's radio operator, whose distress signals brought first aid to the vessel almost before she reached the bottom, which told the final story of the disaster. It simply read: "We are now staying in the starboard chamber. The gas is advancing toward us. We implore you to hasten help. We are dying."

Two Prostrations In Dallas Heat Wave

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 8. (AP)—Two heat prostrations were caused by the intense heat here today.

Walter Harris, 74, and Miss Jimmie Bradburn, 19, were those overcome.

Hickman Faces Second Sentence Of Death In Girl Slaying Today

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 8. (UP)—Sentence of death will be passed Thursday, for the second time, upon William Edward Hickman, kidnaper and slayer of a Los Angeles banker's daughter.

It was announced today that legal procedure in the case had reached the point where the superior court of Los Angeles, which tried Hickman originally and sentenced him to die on the gallows at San Quentin penitentiary, may act again.

In accordance with provisions of new state statutes, Hickman will not be returned to Los Angeles to hear the sentence. He has been at San Quentin since his conviction and while two unsuccessful appeals were made to the state supreme court.

The date of hanging must be not less than 60 days nor more than 90 days from the time of sentence, which would place it between Oct. 1 and Nov. 1.

Attorneys for the youth, whose murder of Marian Parker is regarded as one of the state's most sensational crimes, have not abandoned hope of saving their client and are planning an appeal to the U. S. supreme court.

Masked Gunman Shoots Golfer

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 8. (AP)—Shot through the groin by a masked assailant while playing on the McGregor golf links here today, County Attorney Edward E Eddy, 45, was taken to a hospital in apparently serious condition.

John W. Nichols, his partner, saw a man wearing a mask emerge from a woods and point a gun at the attorney.

Others heard the man command Eddy to "stick 'em up."

Eddy, said: "What are you trying to do, kid me"?

His assailant pulled the trigger and then fled.

Moody Restores Former Convict to Citizenship

GRANDAMA, 101 TAKES TO AIR

Aged Woman Lured by Aviation Thrill

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Aug. 8.—When "Grandma" Almatia Bennett was a little girl she rode in the first steam trains. While indignant horse owners covered the eyes of their snorting steeds and said hard things concerning the new "contraptions," the grand old lady of Chicopee was enjoying this startling new form of transportation; and the faster the train went the more she enjoyed it.

Now at the age of 101, "Grandma" points with pride to a record of four flights in the newest form of travel to develop during the century in which she has lived. Beginning in 1920, Mrs. Bennett took her first airplane flight over the city of Portland, Maine. Flying proved to be such a thrill for the centenarian that since that time she has taken to the air on three other occasions and is now seriously considering a flight to California.

May Cross Country

Her fourth adventure in the air was made when she hopped from Agawam in a Ryan monoplane, a sister ship of Lindbergh's famous "Spirit of St. Louis," and circled over Springfield and Chicopee for over one-half an hour.

"Grandma's" two other air outings were made, first at Portland on her birthday, Sept. 8, 1926, and one year later when she undertook the ambitious jaunt from the Boston airport to Old Orchard, Maine.

The element of fear in these trips has been entirely missing, she claims, and she is eager for longer and more sustained hops.

"Why," she exclaimed after landing at Agawam following her most recent aerial venture, "a friend has invited me to fly with him to California, and I'm only too willing to go."

She had just come to rest on the field after coming back to the narrow confines of the earth with a smooth landing. The plane was piloted by John T. Rogerson, who, together with all other pilots who have carried Mrs. Bennett as a passenger claims that she is naturally "airminded."

Young Folks in Awe

The younger element in Springfield which believes that it will be doing extremely well to attain "Grandma's" enviable old age while clinging close to the ample and comforting bosom of Mother Earth, stand frankly in awe of this smiling old lady who thinks no more of this hopping off for California than they do of taking a dip in the Connecticut river.

They are a nervy, audacious set, on the whole, yet no one of them can face the prospect of a long flight with the equanimity of this veteran of four long flights.

"The more I fly, the better I like it" maintains the gray-haired smiling eyed woman whose spirit belies her age; and she is really serious about that California hop.

Moody and Pollard To Address Kiwanians

DALLAS, Aug. 8. (AP)—Kiwanians of Texas and Oklahoma, who attend the annual convention of the Texas-Oklahoma district, Kiwanis International here Sept. 2, 3 and 4, will hear seven outstanding speakers, in addition to the official reports and discussions of the problems and objectives of the service clubs.

In addition to Gov. Dan Moody's opening address on Sunday afternoon, Sept. 2, Attorney General Claude Pollard will speak on "Kiwanis and Good Citizenship," Tuesday morning.

International President O. Sam Cummings of Kansas City, International Secretary Fred C. W. Parker of Chicago, and International Trustee Frank C. Smith of Houston, are distinguished officials of the organization who will speak to the assembly.

Dr. Marshall Craig of Dallas, will deliver an inspirational address on "Kiwanis" and H. G. Hatfield of Oklahoma City, district governor, will deliver his annual message.

Valley View Becomes Independent District

Creation of the sixth independent school district in Wichita county was authorized at Valley View Tuesday by a vote of 60 to 1, according to Burl Bryant, county school superintendent.

As an independent school district Valley View school will be empowered to set its own property valuations. When a common school its valuations were set by the commissioners' court. With the proposed 40 per cent of real value instead of the 50 previously assessed for taxation purposes, the school faced the problem of being unable to raise as much money as needed.

Valley View school has an enrollment in excess of 400 pupils and is described by Mr. Bryant as one of the model rural schools of the state.

Woman Claimant Blames 'Thirteen' for Ill Luck

BEAUMONT, Kan., Aug. 8. (AP)—Leona Mae Byers, who sued J. H. Porter, Kansas capitalist, for annulment of their alleged common law marriage and for a division of his property, estimated to be worth $20,000,000, blames her misfortune on the number 13.

The woman, said she lived with porter for 13 years, her suit was filed on July 13, and her case is the 13th on the September docket of the Ely county district court.

Outstanding Women of Major Parties Debate Pro Planks Over Radio

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. (AP)—Relative merits of law enforcement planks in the Democratic and Republican platforms were debated over the radio last night by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, head of Governor Smith's advisory committee for women, and Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition cases and a Hoover supporter.

Speaking first on the "voters' service" program of the National League of Women Voters, Mrs. Roosevelt declared the Democratic law enforcement plank, from her viewpoint as a dry, seemed "much more specific" than the Republican plank and Governor Smith, while and that Governor Smith, while favoring modification of the Volstead act, "would be the first to agree that in changing the law he is powerless unless congress agrees with him."

Mrs. Willebrandt, taking the air for Hoover, declared the Democratic law enforcement plank did not go as far as the Republican, charged that Governor Smith had "scrapped" his party's pledge by his message to the Houston convention and asserted Herbert Hoover "has a private life and habits of temperance which square with the party's pledge."

Tobin Reported to Have Resigned Labor Post

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Aug. 8. (UP)—Reports were current here tonight that Daniel J. Tobin, treasurer of the American Federation of Labor, had resigned because the executive council of the federation failed to endorse Gov. Alfred E. Smith's candidacy.

Common Interests Essential For Prolonged Married Happiness

The Importance of Marrying One's Intellectual Equal—Sage Advice to an Elderly Widower—The Radio Fan Who Is Unnerving the Neighborhood.

Dear Miss Dix—It has been generally claimed that two persons of opposite sex cannot become intimate friends unless they possess something "in common." I consider this to mean something that causes them to harmonize spiritually, but my experience seems to be diametrically opposite. For more than 10 years I have been keeping company with a girl. We are both 20. We get along agreeably, but it seems to me that we do not possess anything in common. I am a junior in college. She has never even attended high school. Since she is unread, we have never discussed the things I am interested in—literature, drama, music, psychology, sociology or current events. She is a strict Catholic. I am an atheist. I enjoy sports. She does not. She is very fond of dancing. I am not. I have hobbies such as chess, stamps and autographs. She has never mentioned one to me.

We do not discuss anything when we are together. Don't talk much. Neither of us is good-looking in face or body, yet I like her and she likes me. We are not yet in love. Would marriage be advisable under these circumstances if we did fall in love with each other? We have nothing in common, but there is something intangible, like the magic thread of Goethe, that draws us closer and closer.—AL.

Answer: The attraction you have for each other is physical. Sex appeal is the primal and perhaps the most potent force in nature, and if you believe Freud it is all that counts. He teaches that if a man and woman have that for each other, nothing else matters.

But it seems to me that, as important as it is for a man and woman to be mated in body, it is even more important for them to be soul-mates. For youth passes. The blood runs slow. Passion perishes of satiety and then there is nothing left. They have no mental interests, no tastes in common.

It is because so many men and women marry because of a fleeting physical allure they had for each other that you see so many middle-aged couples who bore each other to tears. Look about you at any place of amusement and note the husbands and wives who are reading the program between the acts, or memorizing the menu at a restaurant while they wait for their food, with never a word to say to each other.

Think of the homes you go into in which a husband and wife are sitting in a dull, cold silence. Watch how they brighten up, how animated and jolly and interested and talkative they become as soon as any casual caller drops in.

Think of all the quarrelsome couples you know where neither husband nor wife can say a word without starting a row. Think of the husbands you know who always knock everything their wives want to do. Think of the wives who always wet-blanket all their husband's plans.

Think of that sardonic old minstrel joke about the man who, when asked if he was going to take his wife along with him when he went to Paris, replied: "No, I am going on a pleasure trip."

And the reason for all of this is that these husbands and wives are bored; they have nothing to say to each other because they have nothing in common. You never run out of conversation with those who are interested in the same things that you are. You can sit up half the night discussing a new book or play with some one who has read it or seen it and who has ideas and opinions concerning it. Golfers can hold post-mortems for hours over a game. Any two collectors can swear a blood bond over their specimens. But what are you to say to one who knows nothing that you know, who never reads, who has no interest in your interests, to whom you can talk about nothing but the weather.

Married life has—or at least it should have—thousands upon thousands of evenings when a husband and wife sit by their hearthstone dependent upon each other for society. These evenings will be very dull if your wife is illiterate and if you cannot discuss with her the new book, the new play, the latest news. Or they will be very fascinating and thrilling hours if you have a wife who is intelligent and sympathetic, with whom you can talk over all the topics that interest you, and who will add a zest to the discussion by bringing to it her point of view.

It seems to me that a man makes a fatal mistake when he marries a woman with whom he has nothing in common but a certain physical attraction. As you are only 20, wait and see if this lasts.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a widower 60 years old. I have only one daughter, who has been married for a number of years and who lives in a different locality. Finding life too lonesome, I have decided to marry and have picked out a girl of 18 for my wife. My daughter objects and wants me to come and live with her, but I will not do so. My daughter also thinks that I should help pay the schooling of her girls, but I refuse to do this because I do not approve of educating girls and consider it a waste of money, because with marriage the benefits of education ceases. My daughter predicts a dark future if I marry this girl, but the reason is obvious—she wants my money for herself and her children. I want your advice on the subject, as you are an impartial bystander.
—A THREE-SCORE BRIDEGROOM.

Answer: I think you are perfectly right to refuse to go to live with your daughter, because you would be miserable in a strange place away from your old home, your old friends and associations.

I also think you are quite right in getting married and establishing your own home. But you will make a terrible mistake that will bring you utter wretchedness if you marry a girl of 18. Pick out a nice suitable woman about your own age, somewhere in the 40s or the 50s, and you stand every chance of happiness, but no prophecy that even a pessimistic daughter could utter will be bad enough to foretell what will happen to you if you marry this chit of a girl young enough to be your granddaughter.

Put your vanity aside, man, and face the truth that no girl of 18 marries a man of 60 for anything but his money. Do you deceive yourself by thinking that she will want to sit at home with you and hear you reminisce about the past, or talk about your rheumatism? Far from it. She will want to be out playing with the girls and boys. Do you think she will be economical and saving? Not a bit of it. She will want to have the fun of spending the money she sold herself for.

And don't you know that you won't have an idea or a thought in common? You belong to one generation. She belongs to another generation. You will think every one of her ideas shocking; she will think every one of yours moss-grown, and you will quarrel from morning until night. So be warned in time. Don't marry her. Marry some nice, comfortable widow or old maid who belongs to your own time, who has the same opinions that you have, who will be interested in your talk of other days, and who will be glad to make you a good home.

But where did you get the idea that it doesn't pay to send girls to school, and that a married woman has no need of an education. The benefits of an education end only with life itself, because they make the individual wiser, broader, more tolerant.

And surely no woman needs to know so much as the woman who must manage a home and rear little children, the molding of whose character is in her hands.
—DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I have a good, kind neighbor who is about to drive everybody in his vicinity crazy. He has a radio, and because he enjoys it very much himself he has had a loud-speaker put on it. He keeps it on the porch, where it bellows and shrieks for hours at a time, so that there is neither peace nor quiet to be had in our vicinity. How can we abate this nuisance?
—DISTRACTED NEIGHBOR.

Answer: Perhaps if you would write the man a nice note, or if the neighbors would get up a round robin explaining their sufferings, your radio fan might be made to understand that everybody does not share his enthusiasm. Otherwise you will have to call in the police. But that is the terrible thing about radio. Those who have the bug never seem to realize that they bore others to tears by making them listen to long programs in which they have not the slightest interest.

"Ticked Ad Berd Do Godorado"

Not Foreign or Profane Language—Just Hay Fever Prescription

A railroad ticket office may not be a drug store, nor the agent a master of languages, but there is one prescription which is being frequently filled at the ticket offices, and while is sounds like Latin, the agents understand perfectly. "Ticked Ad Berd Do Godorado," translated from the language of the "Hay Fever Tongue" simply means —"Ticket and Berth to Colorado."

It is the one prescription that doctors and patients alike know as the only sure relief from this miserable summer affliction. In place of humid polen-laden air, Colorado's high, cool breezes are scented with soothing balm of pine and balsam, bringing relief as blessed as the first frost. Victims are always particular to specify tickets via Fort Worth & Denver, since this route is the most direct, reaching higher altitudes quicker, and is free from smoke, cinders and excessive dust.—Adv.

CHIC CHERIE

Sports for Spectators

LATEST FASHIONS

Our own feeling about Cherie at this moment is "tut, tut", or "pshaw" or some such thing. We don't know where she got this coy trick. Probably too much movie. But it does rather match the way her hair is growing out of her hat of white felt trimmed with white ribbon—broad-brimmed like the hat next to it, which is also felt. Trying to ignore this social error of Cherie's we hasten to tell you about the frocks worn by the young women watching the sail boats. The costume to the left is white silk dotted with red and trimmed with red bands around the skirt and blouse Please notice that the coat is half-way between long and short and that the sleves have mosquetaire cuffs with buttons.

The next costume consists of a coat (full length) of very light knit wool; tan dotted with orange. The dress has a skirt of the same and a bodice of orange. It can hardly be cool enough for this costume since the coat next to it is of printed pique with no collar at all. Both ladies look comfortable though and that's a fashion mystery.

Cherie went for a sail with Eustace later. Partly because Eustace looks quite human in a peaked yachting cap and partly because it was too hot anywhere else to wear this new sweater of palest yellow with a diagonal band of darker yellow spots. Also that hat is pale yellow and deep yellow. The skirt she wears with them is white, flared, and plain.

GOODBYE KNEES, SAY PARISIANS

New Styles in Dress Favor Lengthened Skirt

PARIS, Aug. 8. (US)—Farewell to knees.

Paris has sounded the death knell of the short skirt. In all the various showings of winter styles by Paris houses, there is but one dominant note: The lengthening of the skirt to well below the knee.

This sweeping change in the tide of fashion marks the end of a mode which threatened to revolutionize the art of dress and was beginning to cause grave concern to Paris dressmakers.

Sport clothes can still be worn short. Afternoon and evening frocks, however, are back to the stately elegance of the Victorian era. Some evening gowns, notably in Vionnet's collection, have gone back as far as the directoire for their inspiration. Some of her formal gowns are cut with very definite trains.

Fashion showings have lost their traditional atmosphere and chic. Jean Patou invited his guests at the unusual hour of 10 o'clock at night, and his showing ran well after midnight. Lucien le Long chose Sunday night to present his new season's offerings.

Tweeds in Favor

Masculine suitings woven in Scotch tweeds in checks and plaids and in English woolens seem generally chosen for sport clothes. Most of Le Long's suits and sport ensembles are so designed as to focus attention on the bewildering assortment of sweaters which is invariably the accompaniment of every suit.

These sweaters are form fitting with the Le Loug designs of 1929. They will display the stately silhouette of almost forgotten days. Her evening gowns are of delicate chiffon tulle or Afghan velvet. Her waistline will be as much as two inches higher, and the gown will be draped to fall in soft, rippling folds with points touching the ground and, in some cases, trailing in back.

Afternoon Dress

Afternoon frocks will be in flowered chiffon velvet or crepe metasol, crepe georgette and wool crepe. Chiffon velvets shown this season have the delicate loveliness of Botticelli's primavera, with their wealth of intricate design and color.

Patou's afternoon frocks have waistlines tightly draped and gathered into a bow at the back. Skirts have circular or pleated ruffles, either two or three, which follow in an ascending curve to the center of the back.

AND why not dispense with hose?

People are coming back to simple living—they are learning that so many of the things once considered necessary really only clutter up the place. Every day people with means are giving up large homes and moving into two or three-room hotel suites or into an apartment, leaving much of what they have accumulated behind, sold or even given away. And cumbersome wardrobes are a part of the discarded luggage.

Some time ago people learned that too much clothing is as bad for our bodies as too little—and we have been wearing too little ever since.

Mothers are learning that it is not humane to put babies away to simmer in a bundle of woolen and heavy cotton garments, and now young babies can be seen au naturelle (except for a pair of shoes to keep burrs out of their feet) in back yards taking the sun and the cool breezes, if any.

Whereas, it was once considered the proper thing for women to possess an exhaustive wardrobe—exhausting to keep it in order and more so for dad or the man of the house to settle for it—women and girls now own enough sport dresses to keep in trim appearance and one or two dress gowns for state occasions. And unless the threatened elongation of skirts is brought about, about a foot of skirt has likewise, more or less permanently, seen the wastebasket.

◇ ◇ ◇

AT last, I've seen one. This corner has been optimistic on the subject of fluffy and goofy-looking dogs for playmates of young ladies, otherwise of average intellect. But today I was thoroughly disillusioned. The dog was a simple-looking Pekingese pup, one of those low slung models with uncombed hair and ears that drag the floor. And it didn't have a brain at all, I'm persuaded, otherwise it wouldn't stand for all that pampering. No, I don't know who was with the dog.

Exclusive Newport Bursts Into Print

By BETSY SCHUYLER
NEA Service Writer

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 8.—Newport is gayer than it has been in many a year.

What with coming out parties, weddings, tennis at the Casino, golf on the courses at the Country club and T. Suffern Tailer's private links, bathing at Bailey beach and small gatherings here and there at private homes it promises to be a season brilliant as pre-war days.

Bridge, luncheon and afternoon tea present original, varied and extremely feminine costumes. I am surprised to find how much exclusive folks believe in the authenticity of print. For dressy day-time wear, the patterned chiffon, linen, silks, crepe, or georgettes outnumbers the plain two to one!

Irregularity Rules

There's a premium in irregularity in styles that seem to suggest motion. Rippling tiers, fluttering panels, bows at neck and girdle, scarfs, jabot, lingerie, collars or irregular line, irregular hems in full skirts are the order. The big hat has the vote, for anything after the clock strikes noon.

Young folks, like Nada de Branganza and Rose Davis, show a preference for washable frocks for sports. Nada has a stunning green-yellow fine checked imported handkerchief frock that is just too cool looking with a smart quilted green linen small hat. Rose wears an off-white linen coat with red-white airplanes printed on it, over a white batiste frock.

Brown's graduation into social ranks for formal wear was sponsored in a charming frock Mrs. Odgen Whitehouse wore to a garden party.

Even Newport has its blues! Mrs. Eaton Cromwell prefers them in peacock shades and wears one gown of printed chiffon of that tone that is extremely effective—with a full, fluttering skirt that dips in points ever and anon. A green straw hat, banded with peacock completes the picture.

Mrs. Michael M. van Beuren picks navy blue, either in a polka dotted or plain smartly fashioned daytime frock. Mrs. Perry Belmont has three entirely different kinds of blues figuring a darker blue silk in a most modern manner for one stunning dress she has this summer.

I saw Violet Tangeman starting for the Casino one day in a beautifully effective frock of off-white, with flowered stripes in bright red and green, with a touch of black. A kerchief neck and a three-quarters skirt yoke, the other quarter being a gathered godet, helped give the frock distinction. Her hat was a large leghorn, with red and green grapes all around it for a banding.

New Type of Frock

Her mother, Mrs. Cornelius H. Tangeman, walking with her, wore the type of unusual frock that Newport seems to inspire. None but paris could have combined a double-tiered ecru lace skirt so effectively and perfectly with a silk crepe body, richly embroidered in golden, tan and brown tones. The sleeves had deep, flaring cuffs of the beige lace.

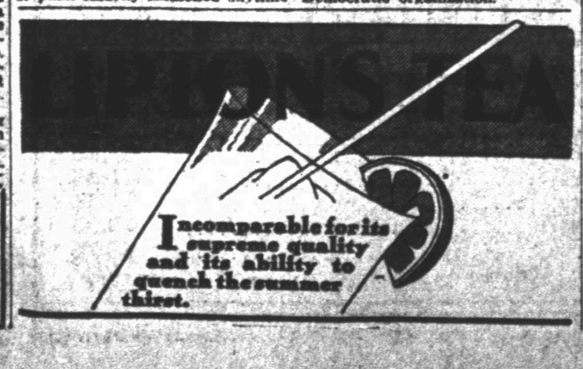

Mrs. James Laurens looked the personification of an airy, moonlit night in a greenish chiffon of this type, with the skirt fluttering and flowing in uneven lengths as she danced, almost touching the floor in the back.

Mrs. George Burgess suggested olden bustle days in a new buttercup yellow chiffon, with narrow tucks running vertically around until the back which spread, fan-like, out from under a huge bow of moire. Mrs. Kenneth Budd is another who favors yellow, with one printed chiffon that looks like a field of flowers—all yellow ones printed on a green background.

12 Army Stations in Area Manned With Experts

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 8. (AP)—Aerial travelers, shippers or anyone else interested in the weather can learn anything he wants to know about the atmosphere of the southwest by calling up the army. With the completion of a meteorological station at Fort Brown, which is now being installed, the army will have 12 stations in the eighth corps area manned by trained army observers.

The service is maintained chiefly for army fliers and is aided by the army radio network, which covers the southwest very thoroughly. An airplane traveler who wished to hurry east was flagged down at Marfa recently because of weather conditions. He was very eager to get to Kelly field by 6 o'clock that night and the army meteorological station, aided by the army radio stations, delivered a weather bulletin to him every 15 minutes from 10 o'clock in the morning until 3 o'clock in the afternoon, when he was finally able to continue his journey.

The stations are located at Fort Crockett, Kelly field, Fort Clark, Camp Marfa, Dryden, Texas, El Paso, Love field in Dallas, Lordsburg, N. M.; Fort Sill, Okla.; Hatbox field, Okla., and Tucson.

Houston Faces Novel Situation With No Mayor

HOUSTON, Aug. 8. (AP)—Houston recently had neither a mayor nor anyone who could act, for all purposes, in that capacity.

Mayor Oscar Holcombe was away on his vacation. H. A. Halverson, who had been elected mayor pro-tem, had left town, thinking the mayor was going to return. The charter of the city says that when both the mayor and the mayor pro-tem are absent the city attorney "will preserve peace and order," but he cannot act in any other capacity.

On this day, Sewall Myer, city attorney was not at the city hall. The charter did not say who would be mayor under these circumstances, and other city officials said they could not go "that far."

$32,000,000 in Bonuses Paid to Osage Indians

BARTLESVILLE, Okla., Aug. 8.—Nearly $32,000,000 in bonuses, royalties and taxes have been paid to the Osage Indians and to Osage county in the 10 years ending in 1927, according to statistics given out by the Phillips Petroleum company and other operators in the Burbank field in that county.

Figuring the total of 2,229 headrights on the tribal roll, the Phillips company alone has paid in nearly $14,000 per headright.

The Phillips company is paying nearly $9,500 daily as royalties in Osage county, despite the fact that little new production work has been done for some time.

Babe Adams Runs For Sheriff in Home Town

BETHANY, Mo., Aug. 8.—Charles "Babe" Adams, one of the satellites in many major league pennant races, now wants to wear a sheriff's star.

He is now actively engaged in a campaign for the Democratic nomination for sheriff of his home county. His friends say his campaign will win him the nomination and the election.

The venerable "Babe," who was declared "through" with the big leagues in 1917, only to find his way back to the Pittsburgh Pirates where he was again hailed as one of the National league's best pitchers, quit organized baseball last year and returned to Bethany to manage extensive real estate holdings over the county.

French War Brides Regain Citizenship

PARIS, Aug. 8.—Fifteen thousand Frenchwomen who married foreigners took advantage of the opportunity to regain citizenship in France during the year accorded for this privilege which expires on August 10.

Officials said that 15,000 was a small proportion of the Frenchwomen who lost theid nationality through wedlock, particularly in view of wartime romances where it was estimated more Americans won brides in France than soldiers of any other allied nation.

War brides automatically became Americans and, according to officials, they apparently are content to remain American.

Every obstacle was removed from the path of aliens-by-marriage who wished to enjoy again the protection of the tri-color. The law permitting this went into effect on August 10, 1927. The women were required only to file a declaration expressing their desire to become subjects of France again.

With the expiration of the law French-born wives of foreigners will have no legal recourse to their native land if they should be left helpless through death, divorce or desertion.

Sap Cedar May Prove Aid in Leather Tanning

BURNET, Texas, Aug. 8. (AP)—Sap cedar, long cursed by stockmen because it hurts grazing land, may prove a blessing in disguise and become a great resource to the state, in the opinion of J. H. Faubion, who has been investigating the possibilities of using it in tanning leather.

The supplies of tannic acid, which have been taken from oak and hemlock trees, are steadily dwindling and the scarcity of this necessity in tanning leather has added greatly to the cost of leather goods. On top of this the demand for leather goods is increasing.

Mr. Faubion believes that the sap cedar of Texas will offer an inexhaustible supply of tannic acid. He says that the Indians once used it in tanning leather and that pioneers in Texas used the cedar extensively for this purpose during the civil war. The foliage of the tree is used.

New Buildings Will Transform Old Fort

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 8. (AP)—Old soldiers who return to San Antonio after a long absence will scarcely know Fort Sam Houston, after the new barracks which the government is building are completed.

One of these buildings, three stories high and big enough to house a battalion, is now nearing completion while bids have been asked for two more buildings of the same type.

Girl Married at 12 Is Granted Divorce

BALTIMORE, Aug. 8.—Married at the age of 12 but having never lived with her husband, Mrs. Gladys Cowan has been granted a divorce from John M. Cowan. She was married in October 8, 1920 and, being still a minor, her mother entered the divorce proceedings.

The testimony revealed, Mrs. Cowan was going to a store for her mother when she met Cowan, accepted his invitation to enter his automobile and accompanied him to Towson where the marriage took place. Her mother found her by the following day and took her home, she testified.

Demand for Direct Election Of Presidents May Face Next Congress

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—A closely contested and bitterly fought presidential election this year may precipitate demands for changes in the nation's political system far more important than the choosing of a chief executive for another four years from next March 4.

Direct election of presidents and reappointment of congress, bringing with it a new distribution of electoral votes, already are being suggested with renewed emphasis on the eve of the formal opening of campaign hostilities.

Should either Gov. Alfred Smith or Herbert Hoover be placed in the White House on next March 4 without receiving a majority of all the votes cast for presidential electors, which is possible under the electoral college system, demands for a change are sure to be made in the next session of congress.

Popular Vote

Many presidents have been elected by less than a majority of votes and the injection of the European bloc system into the political structure of the nation has been avoided only by the continued dominance of the Republican and Democratic parties. Should the Socialist or Farmer-Labor parties rise to an eminence where they could command many millions of votes the unique electoral college system would be brought more forcibly before the people.

With electoral votes apportioned man for man among the states on the basis of congressional representation many inequalities are certain to be reflected in presidential returns. The system, however, has been defended on the ground that it is the keystone of the representative system of government as distinguished from a pure democracy.

An elector in Nevada represents 22,000 votes, while one in New York represents approximately 220,000. Each state is voted as a unit, and therefore it is just as effective for a presidential candidate to carry a state by one vote as it is to carry it by 500,000. This system makes it possible for a candidate to carry enough states by a small margin to furnish the necessary electoral votes, while the unsuccessful candidate might gain great majorities in some other states which would give him the greater popular vote.

24 States Affected

Added to the disproportion is the failure of congress to reapportion congressional representation since 1911, although the constitution requires reapportionment every 10 years. In the recent fight on reapportionment in congress it was shown that the representation in congress of 24 states would be affected by a new division based upon the most recent census. The electoral vote also would change.

Any reapportionment, it is pointed out, must necessarily give more power to the great cities which have increased so rapidly in population. Some historians believe that the electoral vote division, like representation in the senate, was intended to check the possibility of sectional control of national affairs.

Many presidents, among them Woodrow Wilson and Grover Cleveland, received less than a majority of the total votes cast. Abraham Lincoln was re-elected by 55 per cent of the popular vote but with 90 per cent of the electoral vote.

The late Senator La Follette urged a constitutional amendment to permit popular election of presidents and Senator George Norris of Nebraska has announced that he will devote much time in bringing this about. No third party can gain a foothold so long as the electoral college system exists, according to Norris.

Burnet Turkey Crop Dwindled by Disease

BURNET, Texas, Aug. 8. (AP)—For the first time in several years, the turkey crop of this section will be short this fall, according to turkey raisers.

Many of the young fowls were lost from disease in the spring, and large numbers have been dying recently from disease. Poultry experts have been called in to determine the cause of the many deaths in this country.

New York's Most Beautiful Hands

They are the hands of Miss Annette Grandin, the most photographed hands in the world. They are so white and smooth that they can stand "close-up" reproduction. And here's the secret, according to Miss Grandin:

"I use no fancy or expensive lotions, but I make a skin bleach of my own. I get three ounces of Orchard White at the corner druggist and mix it with the juice of two lemons. This makes a full quarter pint of a remarkable, and at the same time perfectly harmless, bleach. I rub a little into my hands—also my neck and face—every night, and don't worry about freckles, tan or redness. This simple mixture not only keeps the skin clear and white, but luxuriously soft and smooth to the touch."—Adv.

STATIONS TALK WITH ORIENT

Operators at San Antonio Linked With World

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 8. (AP)—Conversations with the Orient and Occident, and the Arctics and Tropics are carried on nightly by operators of the army's amateur radio station at Fort Sam Houston here.

A report for the station for the month of July showed that the army "hams" had communicated with nine different countries, or political subdivisions outside of the United States. The station talked to Liberia once, Australia seven times, Cuba three times, Ecuador once, Hawaii twice, Japan and Labrador once, Mexico and New Zealand three times.

The conversation with Labrador was really a talk with the Arctic exploration ship of Capt. Donald McMillan, which reported itself 100 miles off of the Labrador coast.

The San Antonio station, which is known as NU-5AIN, is not a part of the army net, but belongs to the army amateur net. It also corresponds with members of the governor's net, which is an organization controlled from Austin for the direction of national guard affairs. The station is entirely the enterprise of the various amateur soldiers and officers who run it and is not supported by the government. All of the operators give their services.

In July six personal and one official messages were sent and four personal messages received and delivered.

Herb Picks Noisest Tune for Pep Song

Frenzied Band Leaders Begin Rehearsals

PALO ALTO, Calif., Aug. 8. (UP)—The song of the Hoover Republican presidential campaign will be "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here."

This news was broken to a waiting world of frenzied band masters who have been trying to offset "The Sidewalks of New York"—the Smith Democratic campaign song—when Prof. Ernest Whitney Martin, head of the Stanford university band, received word today from Hoover headquarters that "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here" will be promoted as the pep song of the acceptance ceremonies of the Republican presidential candidate here next Saturday.

Hoover likes the "Hail, Hail" piece, it was said. He does not like "The Sidewalks of New York" and he doesn't want it played at his notification.

Hoover has several favorites. Parodies on "Ramona," the California song, "Who," which rhymes effectively with Hoover and the Stanford university anthem, are all well liked by the Republican nominee.

But the Republican music experts have argued that none of these create sufficient noise to offset the Smith air. Nothing could do that but "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here," whose chords offer more encouragement for voice volume than any other.

Hoover did not seem perturbed by the momentous musical decision of his campaign leaders.

MIDDLE-AGED WOMEN KEEP IN GOOD HEALTH

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

MRS. C. E. YOUNG
19 Chapel St., Cobleskill, N. Y.

Cobleskill, N. Y.—"I keep Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the house and if I don't feel just right I take it. I can't say just how long I have been taking it but it is a good while. I take it now for a run-down condition and old age and it certainly helps me wonderfully. I used to read about how it helped other women and I thought it would help me and it does. My husband used to have to help me with the work but after taking the Vegetable Compound I got better. I recommend it and you can use my letter as a testimonial."—Mrs. C. E. Young, 19 Chapel St., Cobleskill, N. Y.

Mrs. Corse Recommends It

Clinton, Mass.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound when I was having the Change of Life. I felt miserable all one summer then I noticed an ad of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the paper. I tried it and in no time began to feel better. Although I am the housekeeper for a family of six I did not give up my work at any time. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to others and will answer any inquiries."—Mrs. Lucy Corse, 23 Laurel Street, Clinton, Mass.

One Minute Pulpit

PREPARED BY REV. ALVIN F. WHITE

Woe to them that join house to house, that lay field to field, til there be no room, and ye be made to dwell alone in the midst of the land.—Isaiah 5:8.

The Day Book of a New Yorker

By GRANT DIXON

NEW YORK.—Whether you have a handful of old gold jewelry or millions in gold bullion doesn't matter. The trusty scales of Uncle Sam down at the department of assay will weigh and appraise it for you. What's more you can have its value in bars, currency or by check.

The only stipulation is that you have at least a hundred dollars' worth—a little less than five troy ounces.

Down there enough gold is handled daily to make even the most Midaslike king envious. Fifty million dollars' worth was not uncommon during the war, and nowadays weighing out ten millions doesn't make an assayer flicker an eyelash. To them it's just like any other commodity. Their largest bars, about six and a half by three and half inches and about one and an eighth inches thick, are piled on the floor like bricks.

Yet everything is handled most efficiently. You hand in your trinkets over the counter to the receiver's cage as in a bank. He pushes out a slip upon which you put your name and address and the way you wish to be paid. Then while you pass to the next wicket to receive your receipt your gold is having its preliminary weighing. A short time later you return, hand in your receipt at the cashier's window and receive your bullion or money. If you are paid in currency your gold is deposited in the Treasury at Washington.

Sounds pretty simple, doesn't it? But to the 125 federal employees who work in the department it isn't quite so easy. For them it's a matter of careful analysis, of delicate mathematics, or expert chemistery. For your gold must undergo many tests before it meets the standard of purity demanded by the government.

It is placed in a crock, an earthenware crucible and treated with hydrochloric acid. By electrolysis the gold is precipitated and when the solution is siphoned off there is a thick muddy sediment in the bottom of the jar. This is pure gold. Later it will be poured in a thin yellow stream into molds which will shape it into the ingots or bars.

On the back of the bar the seal of the department of assay is stamped. The number of the crock in which the process has occured, the weight in troy ounces, the value in dollars and number designating its purity—999.9 or less than one ounce of impurity in 10,000 ounces is the highest mark it can receive—also are impressed on the metal.

Now it's ready to be shipped to the United States mint, the treasury, a foreign country, or sold across the counter at the standard rate of $20.67 an ounce. You cannot buy less than $5,000 worth at a time, but you can receive a tiny bar in return for the gold, which you have handed in.

What happens to the so-called impurities left in the solution when the gold is refined is even more interesting. Silver is the most frequent foreign matter in gold. With nitrate this is precipitated and the solution again siphoned off.

Funny things come to the department of assays. If you're lucky you may persuade the genial assistant superintendent of buildings Mr. Daly, to tell you about them.

"You remember the World's Fair in Chicago? Oh, no, of course not; you weren't born then" he will say. "Well, anyway, some famous sculptor made a gold statue of Maude Adams, which was rumored to be worth $100,000. It was such a big attraction out in Chicago that a New York department store bought it, thinking it would entice customers to the store. It certainly did.

"But it cost a lot to protect it. So after a time it found its way over here to be melted down into bullion. Oh, what a tough time we had! Two other men and I had to break it up. Believe me, it was a hard job. It was terrible to see first an arm and then a leg disappearing into the crocks. But anyway, it yielded a about $47,000. I guess the sculptor's work was worth the rest.

Freighter Picks Up Courtney Plane at Sea

NEW YORK, Aug. 8 (UP)—The freighter Valtrato has picked up the Dornier-Napier plane of Capt. Frank T. Courtney, abandoned after it was forced down at sea last Thursday, marine advices received here today said. The Arthur Hansen company, shipping agents, 25 Beaver street, announced receipt of a telegram from the Montreal Shipping company, Montreal, giving details.

John Bull Changes Front

JOHN BULL is and has been a free-trader. Now he is ready to change front. He will place a heavy import tax on foreign made iron and steel products. John is going to protect British manufacturers. At least enterprising London publishers agree that the change of front is about to come in the near future.

It appears that the American steel manufacturers are underselling in foreign lands the products of the European steel manufacturers. This is in the face of the cheap labor of Europe, long-hour work days and standards of living which are not of the highest.

If the tariff is a good thing for Americans then why not for the Britishers? Again, why should foreign crude be kept on the free list? American oil kings control the crude output in Mexico as well as in the Pan-America producing fields.

Now who pays the price? Who suffers, financially speaking? Why, the independent oil producers of the American states. The American wildcatters ever willing to take a chance and the owners of land subject to oil leasing.

There are other sufferers. American labor, skilled and unskilled, found in the oil-producing states of the republic. Now, why should foreign crude be on the free list?

Yes, it is true that the Woodrow Wilson administration placed it there, but the Republicans have controlled the federal government since the passing of Wilson and foreign crude remains on the free list.

Coming of Joe

TEXAS labor leaders anticipate 100,000 visiting union men from outside of Dallas at the occasion of the Labor day speech of Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas. Senator Robinson's address will be the outstanding feature of the big Labor day program. Labor leaders from all parts of Texas have been invited to Dallas for the occasion. Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller will have a big place on the program.

Early in his political career Barry Miller was a member of the state senate of Texas and champion of legitimate demands of wage workers. Sydney L. Staples of Austin was a member of the senate and likewise a champion of labor legislation. Through the years Miller and Staples have enjoyed the confidence of the organized breadwinners of the commonwealth. Indeed it was a farm labor state gathering that drafted Miller for the office of lieutenant governor in 1924 and the same farm labor state convention or conference drafted Dan Moody for the office of governor.

Speaking of Alcohol

FOR the first time since prohibition went into effect druggists soon will be able to obtain alcohol in pint bottles instead of being forced to obtain it in five-gallon cans and bottle it themselves. In the good old dry Republican state of Maine the farmers make their own alcohol. There is an apple orchard on every farm. When the first heavy freeze comes the cider presses are started, barrels are filled and the contents frozen almost solid. Alcohol will not freeze. It is piped from the center of the barrel to the open mouth of the old brown jug. Then the farmer is fixed for the dry season. In the rural districts of Maine the moist farmer ever has the "makins" of a long toddy.

Hoover and His Plans

HERBERT HOOVER is not an orator. Speech making does not appeal to him. A California correspondent lets it be known that unless the Republican party managers are unable to dissuade him from his purpose the presidential nominee will make only three or four trips during his campaign for the presidency. These trips will be brief with only a few speakers. William Jennings Bryan, in his campaigns for the White House, was different. He traveled all the time. He talked all the time. He was defeated all the time.

The library of Gene Tunney's Connecticut home is stocked with 40 books, says a dispatch. Why, even lowbrow sport writers have read nearly that many!

The chemists' meeting at Chicago has come and gone and still we don't know why a dog seems more affectionate toward mankind when he's shedding.

Texas-Oklahoma Press

OKLAUNION HOSTESS TOWN

The people of Oklaunion played host to a large gathering at the formal opening of the new pavement on Lee highway the other night in a very creditable manner. The provisions made for the crowd at the formal opening program drew no little comment, and the facilities arranged were ample for the crowd, despite the fact that the attendance was much larger than expected.

It was pointed out that the affair was handled more creditably than most events of that type, and it was also pointed out that it was the first event ever undertaken by the new municipal government of Oklaunion.

—Vernon (Texas) Daily Record.

THUMB LIFTING BECOMING HABIT

Automobile tourists from Wichita county report many boys and young men along the road, asking for rides. The uplifted thumb is the signal of this tribe. It no doubt seems very mean to them when a motorist with empty seats slips sweetly along, and declines their appeal to take them up.

Many cases occur where a driver feels called upon to take these people in, and he feels that he is helping people who are worthy of such a favor. But the objections to the habit are so serious that school authorities in many places have done the best they could to stop this fad.

Burkburnett (Texas) Star.

FEW TEXAS HOOVERITES

The primary elections in Texas were of particular interest to Eastern newspapers. The largest part of the editorial opinion from these papers was to the effect that Hoover could get little hope from the Texas situation, as the state would go Democratic as usual.

There is little doubt but that Texas will remain in the Democratic column, but there will be a great many more votes than usual in the Republican column. The system of election which throws all of the electoral votes of a state with the majority is the reason Hoover supporters can expect little from Texas.

When A Girl Loves

© 1928 by NEA Service — by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

THIS HAS HAPPENED

Virginia Brewster is in love with an artist, Nathaniel Dann, but she is tricked into promising to marry Frederick Dean in one year if she fails to earn $100,000 that he alleges her father cheated him out of. Brewster had lost his fortune before his death and Virginia is left destitute.

She pawns some of her jewelry and Oliver Cutter promises to invest the money for her. She seeks work without success, and discovers that Dean has bribed the agency not to help her. Oliver gains her confidence and shows her attentions which Neil resents, but she does not like the familiarity with which his model, Chiri, treats him.

Virginia finally obtains a position she likes. Shortly after she is charged by Cutter's wife with trying to alienate his affections. She appeals to him to explain, and demands an accounting of her investments.

Then Cutter confesses that he has not made a penny for her, but that he will give any amount to her if she will go away with him.

She denounces him and leaves his office. Her company offers to send her on a voyage as ship hostess. She goes to see Neil but Chiri's presence in the studio spoils the evening.

The break between the lovers is widened when Neil doubts her love after receiving a letter from Dean saying that she is angling for money. They both suffer in silence, and Virginia sails before a reconciliation is effected. Her work and the hope of getting aid from one of her father's friends, O. D. Leigh, in Haiti, helps to endure the heartache.

Now Go On With the Story

CHAPTER LXIII

Virginia pressed forward against the rail on the stern deck and peered from under a hand that shaded her eyes from the bright morning sun.

She was gazing at Moro castle, glad to be seeing that gloomy relic of departed glory for the last time. It had fascinated her with its somber gray color and prison-like atmosphere, that symbolized so perfectly her own bondage.

She had heard of the dungeons below the water line; she had listened to tales of horror and bravery about the old days of the Spanish reign; and she had come to think of herself as a prisoner in the shadow of that grim pile of stone.

Not until they sailed for Haiti would she feel otherwise, for not until then could she count off the miles, or knots as it were in this case, that separated her from the land where resided the man who might save her.

The colorful days of Havana that the passengers found so diverting and thrilling were only so many days of imprisonment to Virginia. She was held as helplessly against her wish to depart as though she were indeed incarnated in a dungeon in Moro castle.

It was slow torture, waiting amid lavish beauty and gaiety with pleasure-bent people who expected her always to be carefree and interested in their entertainment.

Their absorption of her did not extend to this early morning hour, however, and she took her farewell glance at the jewel-like city and famous old fortress undisturbed.

The first throb of the engines deep in the bowels of the ship had set her nerves to quivering with the excitement that attends an eagerly awaited moment.

She was dressing, hurriedly to be on deck, when the welcome sound reached her ears. She struggled into her string-colored linen dress, seized a sweater and flew up to experience the satisfaction of witnessing the steamer's departure from the scene of her impatient delay.

She was turning away from the rail, having drunk in enough of satisfaction and sun glare, her mind on her obligation to the Blue Capella, when she was joined by a man she did not recognize as a passenger.

He was elderly and distinguished looking, with a thin, tropic-browned face.

"May I introduce myself?" he said in a quiet, pleasant voice. "Just came aboard this morning. Name is Flance—John Harvey. I was told you were the Boston and I presumed to believe I might speak to you."

Virginia smiled at him. "Why, of course," she returned politely. "The Agena is just like a country house, you know. If you wish I'll present you to the other guests, but they're at liberty to count the roof as an introduction, you know."

"I think I'd prefer to meet them by degrees," Flance assured her "I'm not exactly a member of the cruise, Miss Brewster, so you aren't under compulsion to welcome me. Mr. Welkins kindly arranged to give me passage from Cuba to Haiti . . . "

Virginia interrupted him with an eager little cry. "Haiti! Oh, are you acquainted there?"

"For an Prince has been my home for several years," Flance replied, with a look of surprise for her inquiry.

Virginia's face was aglow. "Perhaps you know Mr. Leigh," she said quickly. "Oddly' he is called by his friends."

"Old Oddly Leigh! We all know him by name down here in the islands, Miss Brewster, but I'm sorry to say I'm not personally acquainted with him. Matter of fact, no one has seen much of him lately. He rarely leaves his plantation and I've heard . . . "

He paused and glanced anxiously at Virginia. "By the way, is he a friend of yours?" he asked, trying to sound casual.

Virginia shook her head. "No," she said, "but my father knew him many years ago, in India. It is my greatest wish to meet him on this trip and I thought, when you said you lived in Haiti, that you might introduce us."

"I'd be only too happy, but you will not need an introduction. Oddly will welcome the daughter of an old friend. I can vouch for that on his reputation. Only . . . well, since it will not shock you as it would if you knew him, I must prepare you to find him greatly changed from the man your father knew. The poor fellow has had his troubles."

Virginia's heart sank like a plummet. "Oh," she cried in consternation; "what has happened to him? I met a friend in New York who had heard bad news about him but I didn't know then that it was the same man—the man who saved my father's life, I mean."

Mr. Flance's lips set in a tight line. "It is hardly a subject you would care to discuss, Miss Brewster, I judge."

Virginia remained quiet for a moment. Then: "But . . . don't you see? If there is anything I ought to know it because I'm going down there principally to see him. It would be much easier, I think, if I knew what to expect."

"Yes, I believe it would," he agreed after a second thought. "Did you ever hear of Oddly's wife?" he added abruptly.

"His wife!" Virginia repeated. "Why, I don't remember that I ever did. I'm sure father never mentioned her in his diary or when he spoke of Mr. Leight."

"Probably not. Most likely he never heard of her. No one had, I guess, until she suddenly appeared down here in the West Indies and dragged old Oddly's name through all the slimy backwash of the islands. Then the story came out. She'd drive him from the state a few months after their marriage, and such was her hate of him because she lost him that she wouldn't divorce him and marry the other man.

"Oddly couldn't do that because he didn't believe in divorces. So he took to roving, thinking she'd free herself. But she didn't. And when she came to Haiti she was still Mrs. O. D. D. Leigh and all the world could know it for all she cared.

the remnants of a man. I'm afraid, Miss Brewster."

"What became of . . . his wife?"

"She went out in the gutter screaming in agony at a madman who didn't know how to handle a knife . . . "

He broke off sharply, suddenly aware of the effect of his words upon Virginia who was leaning against the rail, white-faced and trembling.

"I'm sorry," he hastened to add. "Beastly of me, but I was thinking of the finest man in the world and what that woman did to him."

Virginia did not answer immediately. Finally she thanked him for telling her what he had and left him, to flee to her stateroom and try to compose herself to carry on her duties.

"Touch of the tropics?" someone asked her at the breakfast table, regarding her untouched plate.

"I suppose so," she answered.

"After Cuba everyone should take a good dose of salt," another advised placidly. "It isn't safe not to. Everybody eats too much there. Never had better fish in my life."

The remark started a general recounting of the days just past and Virginia slipped out of the conversation to commune with her own thoughts. They were not pleasant company but she could not get away from them. Besides, the situation in which she now found herself must be faced.

She had come upon a wild goose chase, it appeared. Still, on after thought, she realized that no one had said that Leigh had been impoverished by his wife's conduct. Stacy had merely spoken of "bad news," and surely the scandal and heartbreak would account for that.

Flance, too, had mentioned only that her coming had "broken" her husband. That did not necessarily mean that money losses were implied. A man could be more terribly broken in spirit. He had specifically said that the sugar trust had not been able to do."

Her heart ached for Oddly Leigh but she was glad of a slim thread of hope for her own future. Such a man as Leigh would do all that lay in his power to release her from the hold of anyone who held her father's honor at stake, Virginia knew.

She need not appeal to him for her own sake alone once he knew her story. For this Virginia breathed a prayer of thankfulness. She was chary about approaching anyone on her own behalf entirely. Her experience with Oliver Cutter had warned her of that danger.

But here was one person whom the whole world seemed to trust. A man who had known her father. Virginia felt she could pour out her heart to him in the sure knowledge that he would be as certain of Richard Brewster's innocence as she herself was.

But the uncertainty of his ability to help her now hung over the rest of the voyage to Haiti like a heavy black cloud. Had it been necessary she could have gone to Flance and asked him directly if he knew anything of Oddly Leigh's financial affairs. But it would seem like prying to do so and she knew that she might be misunderstood unless she explained her reason for wishing to know, and she did not care to take Flance into her confidence.

Virginia preferred to endure the suspense, knowing that it could not be for long now.

She got definite directions for reaching the Leigh plantation from Flance, however, and then turned desperately to the task of entertaining the Agena's passengers until the day should come when she would return to the ship with a heart full of thanksgiving or only a bitter, hopeless despair.

Dame Melba Splits With Singer Over Conversation Printed In Biography

LONDON, Aug. 8. (US)—"Terribly sorry, Nellie, dear, for the silly story in Miss Ponder's book. Being in India, unfortunately I did not see the proofs or it would not have appeared."

With these words cabled to Dame Nellie Melba, world famous singer who is now in Australia, Dame Clara Butt today tried to smooth over the controversy which has developed out of the publication of a biography of Dame Clara written by Winifred Ponder, an Australian journalist.

The trouble between the two famous singers arose as a result of the publication in the book of a conversation which is supposed to have taken place 30 years ago between Melba and Kennerly Rumford, Dame Clara's husband, as the two were returning from Windsor Castle after an appearance before the king.

According to the book Melba is supposed to have said:

Describes Her Songs

"So you are going to Australia. Well, I made 20,000 pounds ($100,000) on my tour there, but of course that will never be done again. Still it is a wonderful country and you will have a good time.

"What are you going to sing? All I can say is, sing them muck. It is all they can understand."

As a result of the passage there is a great popular uproar in Australia, according to dispatches from Sydney. The situation is especially delicate since Dame Melba is about to start a grand opera season in Sydney and Melbourne over which great expense has been incurred.

Dame Melba immediately cabled a protest to Dame Clara and issued a public denial in Sydney of the words attributed to her. In replying to Melba Dame Clara's cable added:

"I am sure, knowing me, you will understand my very sincere regret at causing you annoyance, especially while you are carrying out your usual wonderful work in our much beloved Australia.—Clara."

Proofs Didn't Arrive

Explaining the passage in her biography Dame Clara issued a statement here saying that Miss Ponder accompanied her to India last fall. Proofs of the book were expected in India but never arrived. Afterwards Miss Ponder continued her journey and Dame Clara returned to England. Miss Ponder is now believed to be in Borneo.

It is reported in London that King George was greatly amused when he read the passage describing the visit of the singers to Windsor Castle, and laughlingly said:

"I have been reading the book with great interest. I finished it last night."

Dame Melba and Dame Butt have always been great friends until this incident.

The Record News Staff Poet

MY BLACK MAMMY

She was just my coal-black mammy,
Just as black as Stygian night,
And though her skin was ravenhued,
Her big, warm heart was white.
Mammy treated me like mother,
For she led my footsteps right.

Her fat hand gave me spankings
In twos and threes each day;
When they were done, she'd calm me,
And send me out to play,
And she'd hand me several cookies
Just to take the sting away!

And she would say: "If I touch you,
You'll get as black as black can be!"
And those words would cure a bad boy,
As all boys will sometimes be.
But they did their part in helping
Her to make a man of me.

I don't see many more mammies
Like that old black mammy of mine.
She earned her right to existence
By being so true and so fine.
And she carved her name in my memory,
And that name is almost divine.

EAST IS FINAL BATTLEGROUND

Republicans Lay Plans For Seaboard States

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. (US)—The final battle between Herbert Hovernor and Gov. Alfred E. Smith will be fought along the Atlantic seaboard, in all the states between New Hampshire and Maryland.

That certain development began evident today when Dr. Hubert Work, although en route to Palo Alto, ordered the Republican national committee headquarters here to arrange a series of eastern conferences to be held immediately upon his return from California.

It is likely that Dr. Work will hold these conferences with the numerous party leaders in New York and Boston and that he may proceed as far north as Portland to hearten the Republicans in Maine's "barometer election" to be held early in September.

The party leaders in the northern tier of New England states will be invited to meet Work at Boston an dthere acquaint him with "the progress of the campaign for Mr. Hoover." Dr. Work will also explore the disquieting reports about Massachusetts and Rhode Island while in the New England Metropolis.

Survey To Be Made

A survey of conditions in New Jersey and Connecticut will be made by Dr. Work at a conference to be held probably in New York city and Dr. Work will decide whether there should be a separate conference either in Philadelphia or in Baltimore, which Governor Ritchie is making the scene of his unabated efforts for Smith.

The Republican strategy of the presidential campaign is being steadily evolved as each 24 hours solidifies the issues between the two camps. The Republicans are confident that Hoover will sweep all the states along the Pacific coast. They have a new optimism over the corn belt states, since Governor Smith repudiated the equalization fee and confessed that he is still without a program of relief to offer the mid-western farmers. They have received reports that George N. Peek's indorsement of Governor Smith will fail to receive the approval of the corn belt committee and that throughout the west there is a growing disposition to allow Hoover rather than Governor Smith to work out a formula of government assistance for the agriculturists.

Washington Headquarters

Mr. Hoover, therefore, will follow his original plan and establish his permanent political headquarters here after his Palo Alto and west branch speeches. He may make an excursion or two into the Illinois-Ohio-Indiana territory, and, if conditions seem ripe to pry away the border states he will swing into Tennessee and Kentucky. But the latest developments plainly indicate that the greatest efforts in behalf of the Republican nominee will finally be made along the Atlantic seaboard where Governor Smith has shown the greatest pre-election strength.

Senator Curtis, the vice presidential candidate, will be urged to campaign in Maine while Senator George H. Moses, Assistant Postmaster General Bartlett and Representative Fort Hill head the battery of Republican orators who will be thrown into Maine in the hope of piling up a majority there in September which would impress the country with the certainty of Republican success in the November elections throughout the country.

Curtis Opens Campaign In Rhode Island Aug. 23

CHICAGO, Aug. 8. (AP)—Senator Curtis of Kansas, Republican vice presidential nominee, will open his active campaign for election at Rocky Point, R. I., on Aug. 23, it was announced at western Republican headquarters today.

Curtis, whose official notification ceremonies are set for Aug. 17, sent word today he had accepted an invitation to make his first campaign speech at Rocky Point, after his speech of acceptance. He also would speak at the New York state fair at Syracuse on Aug. 28.

Terrell Leads in Votes For Opposed Candidates

AUSTIN, Aug. 8. (AP)—State Comptroller S. H. Terrell noted today that, with one exception, he led the July 28 primary election ticket in the number of votes cast for candidates having opposition.

"Such expression of public confidence," he said in a statement, "is the greatest honor I could ask."

EXPERT TELLS WHY HOPS FAIL

Weather Study Is Needed, Says Oceanographist

NEW YORK, Aug. 8. (US)—Westward flights across the North Atlantic ocean will never be successfully carried out, until deeper research into weather conditions is made, in the view of Prof. Harald Sverdrup, noted Norwegian oceanographist. He arrived here today aboard the Norwegian-American liner Stavangerfjord to deliver an address on oceanography at the convention of the National Academy of Sciences, at Wood's Hole, Mass.

He attributes the failure of the westward flights thus far, to weather conditions created by the Labrador current. Extremely predominant this year, it had brought down wind, ice and fog, he said.

Professor Sverdrup is one of the best informed men in the world on weather conditions around the polar regions and their effect on the northern section of the earth. For three years he floated on the ice fields off northern Siberia on a research expedition connected with the Carnegie institute.

Norway has charted its currents he said, to such an extent that weather conditions for three months can be accurately predicted. The predictions are followed, to profit by Norwegian fishermen.

He urged a similar study of currents in the Arctic region, on this side of the earth. It is essential to learn the depth of the water at the pole. He believed a dirigible, considerably larger than used by Nobile, could ascertain the depth of the water with a radio sounding device.

The two bandits gave their names as Adam Ribette of Lehigh, Okla., and Ottis Harper of Hammond. Both confessed to hold-ups in Oklahoma.

Prison Centralization Plan Proposed By Moody Extends 8-Year Agitation

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Aug. 8.—The prison centralization plan proposed by Gov. Dan. Moody this week carries on an effort of eight years' standing, during which time the policy of the state, as expressed by the legislature, by successful candidates for office, and frequently by the party platform, has been for relocation and centralization of the penitentiary plant of Texas.

Heretofore the plan has been for the legislature to select a place for the prison system, appropriate a large sum to buy lands, direct the lump sale of present farm lands and cause the whole relocation to be made in one immense transaction. This program reached its climax when the Teer-Chitwood bill, house bill 203 of the 39th legislature, regular session, 1925, carrying an appropriation of $200,000 as the first lump of a "revolving appropriation" was vetoed by Gov. Miriam A. Ferguson in a veto message which said that huge sums would be required to carry out the purpose of the bill.

Women Sponsor Move

Prison relocation has been sponsored by the joint legislative council of women's statewide civic, educational and welfare organizations.

As contrasted to the lump purchase of at least 5,000 acres of land, the construction of all needed buildings, and the lump sale of thousands of acres of valuable land, Governor Moody has announced the nucleus of his new plan, likely to be submitted in messages to the 41st legislature next January. The plan gets away from the squabbles in the legislature over moving the prison system, and over appropriations for the purpose. It seems to substitute a business plan and business methods for the political plan heretofore attempted. Only its barest outlines have been suggested, leaving all details of the plan to be worked out.

Governor Moody will favor legislative authority for the new non-salaried prison commission to work out the prison centralization plan, including relocation as the board may deem fit.

He would authorize the board to sell off such lands as it may wish, with the business judgment and the ability of the board as business men, as the state's safeguard, and to buy such other lands or property for use of the system.

No Reference to Funds

Governor Moody has made no reference to legislative appropriation to finance such a centralization plan. He may believe that the changes which he said would be brought about gradually, can be financed by the prison system without further legislative grants. Obviously, sale of the outlying prison farms, which would be the first step of the concentration or relocation, would bring into the prison treasury large sums of money.

The plan formerly sponsored, of moving the whole system to the high country of Central Texas, involved buying comparatively little land, and of putting most of the prisoners to work in manufacturing highway building materials and such commodities as could be used by the wards of the state in other institutions—clothes, shoes, furniture. The aim has been to take the convict labor out of competition with the Texas farmer, and to keep it out of competition with Texas industries so far as the public market is concerned.

In the Neff administration, a prison relocation commission was named to select a site for the central prison within 100 miles of Austin. Governor Neff was head of this commission. Land Commissioner J. T. Robison was a member. The board inspected many sites, including hill country near Marble Falls and farm land near Seguin. It inspected the Landa plantation, including the famous Landa park at New Braunfels. Land Commissioner Robison declined to join in the relocation recommendation, and the work of the board went for nothing when members did not agree on recommending a site.

Prisons Make Profit

The prison system showed that it paid its own way during the Hobby administration, with a profit in addition. Governor Hobby secured a state-wide referendum, the voters favoring some plan to pay to the families of convicts part of the earnings of the system above the costs of operation. But then the prison system steadily showed losses again until the Moody administration.

During the second Neff administration the demand for prison relocation grew still stronger, and was given attention in the 1924 governorship race.

In 1925 the Teer-Chitwood bill was successfully enacted by the legislature, opening the way to a 10-year program of centralizing the prison system in the high country of Central Texas. Mrs. Ferguson, who was inaugurated in 1925, vetoed the bill.

Prison reforms were part of the Moody platform, and the plan for abolishing the old salaried commission of three and substituting a non-salaried prison board and a paid prison manager was put into effect by the Moody administration, following approval by the voters of a constitutional amendment authorizing it.

Governor Moody indicates he now feels that the administrative body in charge of prison affairs may be intrusted with the task of centralizing the system and of choosing the location for it. Steps toward centralization, in the abandonment of outlying farms, have been taken already.

Fort Bend Protests

The protest, to be voiced by Fort Bend county residents Aug. 15 against the operation of numerous highly-populated prison farms adjacent to the cities of this county, on the main highway only a few miles from Houston, is an opening wedge toward future action on the relocation plan. Residents of the county, besides citing the hazards and the objectionable features of pouring out a large ex-convict population at Houston's doors, of a large number of prisoners escaping from inadequate buildings and drifting to the towns around Houston and to Houston, point out the county is impoverished by reason of its inability to tax the thousands of acres of valuable land now in possession of the state for prison purposes.

In Fort Bend county, within a few miles of Houston are the Blue Ridge farm of 4,815 acres, the Imperial farm of 5,474 acres and the Harlem prison farm of 5,439 acres. At the low valuation of $200 an acre this involves something like $5,045,000 of the values of Fort Bend county on which the county and its schools are deprived of the tax revenues.

TOOMBS NAMED IN HUGE LOANS

Reorganization of Company Reveals Facts

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 8. (AP)—Interlocking loans each of $1,000,000 or more, between Roy C. Toombs, president of the International Life Insurance company, and persons interested in the Great Southern Life Insurance company of Houston Texas, were revealed here today.

This became known when E. P. Greenwood, president of the Great Southern conference, met with those interested in reorganization of the International Life.

Greenwood's purpose is to protect value of International Life stock, a large block of which he holds as security for a $1,000,000 loan made to Toombs last September. The stock now is threatened with loss in value through alleged removal of $2,500,000 in bonds from the International company's assets.

Toombs borrowed the money from Greenwood at the time Toombs had a balance of more than $1,000,000 to pay on purchase price of the International company acquired in June, 1927, from W. K. Whitefield and associates.

Records of the International Life for 1927 show that last November 7, two months after Toombs had completed the purchase of the International, the International lent $1,510,000 to a borrower designated as the "Great Southern L. S. S." As collateral it received shares of the company's stock with an actual value stated at $1,906,404.

On the same date, the record shows the International company lent E. P. Greenwood $60,000 on shares of the Great Southern stock with a market value of $76,769.

Toombs paid $2,000,000 of the purchase price in June, 1927, and paid the balance of more than $1,000,000 in September.

Marrs Outlines Active Campaign for Votes

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Aug. 8. (AP)—Plans for an active campaign in every county which he failed to carry in the first primary were outlined here today by S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, candidate for renomination against W. F. Garner of Nacogdoches.

Murphy Enlists In Demo Ranks

NEW YORK, Aug. 8. (UP)—Another farm leader and former Republican, Frank W. Murphy, of Wheaton, Minn., came out for Governor Alfred E. Smith tonight and enlisted in Democratic ranks.

Murphy has been associated in the fight for the McNary-Haugen bill with George N. Peek of Illinois, chairman of the corn belt committee, who recently endorsed the Democratic candidate.

The newest recruit was a delegate to the Kansas City convention and took the floor with a warning that failure to adopt a satisfactory farm relief plank would drive the farmers from the Republican party. Murphy is a lawyer and a farmer, owning farms comprising about 5,000 acres, and is chairman of the legislative committee of the corn belt farm organizations, representing some 30 or 40 farm organizations in the middle and northwest.

In his statement endorsing Smith sent to national headquarters here, Murphy said he is opposed to Herbert Hoover, "because of his unsympathetic attitude toward agriculture." He blamed the Republican candidate and his friends for preventing endorsement of the equalization fee principle at the Republican convention.

RADIO MOVIES PROVE SUCCESS

Special Apparatus to Carry Pictures to Home

They pronounced the broadcasting and the reception of motion picture film perfect. So perfect, in fact, that announcement was made immediately afterward by Westinghouse officials that station KDKA would inaugurate a regular broadcast of movies within a few weeks.

Special Receivers Required

While a special receiving apparatus will be required for the home reception of the air pictures, the announcement added that this is now in the process of production, at a price within reach of present radio owners, and, when ready for the market, would be sold through the radio corporation.

The radio movement is but a further step in television recently perfected. The idea is said to have come to Dr. Frank Conrad, in charge of this branch of Westinghouse's experimental laboratory, and it proved so simple he worked it out in barely two months' time.

Explained in simplest terms, the apparatus consists of a ray of light which, when projected through small, regularly placed square holes around the circumference, throws 60 vertical lines to an inch through the motion picture negative.

Represents Picture

These lines represent the lights and shadows of each of the myriad of individual pictures on the film—like 60-line screen cuts used by newspapers. They are brought then into contact with a cylindrical electrifier which changes them into current varying in intensity with the lights and shadows they represent.

This current, in today's experiments, was carried by telephone wire to a broadcasting station two miles distant. Here it was picked up and broadcast in the usual manner, back to the laboratory. Picked up by an ordinary aerial, the current was put through identically the same treatment, as in the sending of the movie, except that the process was reversed. In other words, the current was transformed back into the movie, which, by means of a mercury arc, was projected on an improvised screen on the laboratory wall.

While no sound accompanied the projecting of the picture, it was said that photo-phone would be synchronized with the film when it finally is placed on the market.

Randitch Dies Of Shot Wound

Croatian Capital Guarded By Troops

VIENNA, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Stefan Raditch, Croatian peasant parliamentary leader, died at 9 o'clock this evening at Zagreb, capital of Croatia. The city was grief stricken and troops are everywhere ready to suppress trouble.

Raditch died of wounds received June 20 in parliament when a radical deputy, Punica Ratchitch, infuriated at frequent interruptions, whipped out his pistol and fired six shots into a group of Croatians. Each shot claimed a victim, two being killed, one of them a nephew of Raditch, and four wounded.

Since his assassination Croatia has seen what has been almost tantamount to martial law, with troops patrolling its cities' streets to quell possible peasant demonstrations.

Friberg News

FRIBERG, Aug. 8.—The members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Methodist church were delightfully entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Casper Geyer. During the business session a note of sympathy was sent to the pastor's wife, Mrs. J. J. Davis, who is ill in the Methodist hospital at Guthrie, Okla.

after the vaudeville performance, and prove that the charges I am making against him are not true. I will withdraw from the race. I have not been 'mud-slinging' unless telling facts about the public records could be called mud-slinging."

Mr. Crain also charged that Mr. Somerville, while county attorney, had worked on collecting delinquent taxes from residence owners and had not attempted to collect the delinquent taxes from oil concerns because these oil taxes occasioned a bit more work. "Mr. Somerville," the speaker charged, "used the time he should have been doing county work for the trial of divorce cases for his own profit."

Quotes Trial Record

Claiming that about 3,000 criminal cases had been filed in the county court-at-law during the time Mr. Somerville has been in office, Mr. Crain declared that only 152 contested cases had been tried in this time. Of this number, he said that 60 resulted in convictions and 90 in acquittals.

"While Mr. Somerville and his two assistants were trying the 152 criminal cases," Mr. Crain continued, "Mr. Somerville tried 151 divorce cases in his private practice."

The speaker also charged that much of the tax money for which Mr. Somerville claimed credit of collecting was secured by outside aid paid for by the county in addition to the county attorney's services.

"If it is true that Mr. Somerville has collected all taxes without outside aid, I'll quit the race," Mr. Crain said.

Exhibiting what he alleged were complaints against "traveling dancers," Mr. Crain declared that although the law provides that the fine for this offense shall be not less than $100 and 30 days' imprisonment, Mr. Somerville recommended to a jury in county court that five women on trial on this charge should be given a $5 fine.

"If I am elected county attorney I'll close every pool hall in Wichita county within 30 days," he declared.

Mr. Somerville could not be reached by The Record News Wednesday night in regard to the charges and in regard to meeting Mr. Crain Thursday night.

nial. Then, following Tunney's retirement, they were revived and for the first time the name of Miss Lauder was connected directly with that of the champion.

Reports Denied

On Tuesday friends and representatives of the family proved reticent to reiterate denials and today Miss Lauder's mother announced definitely the engagement through friends in New York.

Tunney, it was learned Tuesday, was a guest at the Lauder estate which comprises most of the island of St. John off the coast of Maine near the town of Bristol. Since Tuesday night, however, efforts to communicate with him have been unavailing. There is no public telephone to the estate and no way of reaching it from the mainland excepting in private craft.

In religion, Tunney is a devout Catholic, whereas Miss Lauder is an Episcopalian. Friends of the two said they saw no reason why either should make any change in religious faith.

Present plans are for the wedding to be held in New York and, owing to the prominence of the bride's family and the social standing of Tunney—(acquired since he became champion)—this city may see a society wedding uniting the son of Irish immigrants who rose to the ranks of a millionaire, a scholar, and a world's champion pugilist with one of the country's oldest and wealthiest families.

Smith Waits Pastor's Note

Nominee Refuses to Reply To Acceptance

ALBANY, N. Y., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Until Governor Smith gets a letter from Dr. John Roach Straton accepting his challenge for a close range and free discussion of his political career, the Democratic presidential nominee intends to say nothing more about the proposed debate.

In a letter to the pastor of Calvary Baptist church of New York Smith yesterday took exception to Dr. Straton's declaration from the pulpit that the governor was "the deadliest foe in America today of the forces of moral progress and true political wisdom."

Smith called on the minister to repeat the assertion to his face in his church, and to give him an opportunity of reply, and proposed that the meeting be held during Labor Day week.

Dr. Straton, not waiting for Smith's communication, to reach him at his New Jersey vacation retreat, announced the debate was a go, but suggested it be held in some large New York auditorium instead of his church. He also proposed that the nominee and he engage in a series of joint debates through the South.

Today Governor Smith was asked for his reaction to the clergyman's counter-proposal. He replied that he would not comment, adding:

"I will have nothing to say until I receive a reply from the reverend gentleman."

And with that he dismissed the subject, and passed on to others—the gambling situation at Saratoga and the death in Chicago of his friend, George E. Brennan.

The governor disclosed he had called on the carpet the three law enforcement officials at Saratoga whom he had threatened with removal from office if they are proved negligent.

SILENT PLANE ENGINE MADE

Experiments Seek to Perfect Invisible Machine

LONDON, Aug. 8. (UP)—Silent, almost invisible airplanes capable of wiping out unsuspecting populations with sudden showers of gas and bombs are being experimented upon by British, French, German and Russian governments.

Experts predict the early development of the new type of machine, which would alter the whole character of warfare.

An almost soundless airplane motor already has been produced, and the problem now being worked upon as regards noise, is the production of a new type of propeller, which will not have the high pitched note that at present gives the first warning of an approaching airplane.

Experiments are being conducted with invisible paint and new methods of camouflage which will make machines difficult to see from beneath.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

Questions in regard to health and diet will be answered by Mr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper.

Fatigue Poison

A person who overworks, without obtaining sufficient rest or sleep, actually poisons his system with fatigue toxins. Our bodies are continually using or burning up food which leaves a kind of waste product like ,as rumes and ashes. When we exercise, these products are produced much more abundantly.

These waste products must be promptly removed from the muscles and tissues, or they will interfere with the processes of metabolism. When they accumulate in our blood we feel the symptoms of fatigue. It has been proven that when the blood of the fatigued person is injected into another, the sense of weariness is transmitted to the second person.

Life is a continual process of building up and tearing down. Fresh substances are being continually absorbed and become a part of our tissues, and waste products are being continually discharged. The same blood which carries the nutritive elements to the tissues also carries away their waste products.

A tired person is a person poisoned by his own waste products. In order to protect us against this, nature has provided means for our body to destroy these poisons or to discharge them through eliminative organs. When these poisons are removed from the blood we feel refreshed.

Many diseases are brought on by fatigue. You may have noticed that your colds usually develop after you have been up late the night before or were over-tired. This is because the poisons of faitgue had formed in your body, and the tired eliminating organs were not working at their full strength and allowed the poisons to accumulate. During rest and sleep these organs have an opportunity to purify the body.

The fact is that the elimination of these toxic substanes will make one feel stronger, and this is one of the reasons why patients often feel stronger after fasting for eight or ten days. Many times, they feel easily exhausted at the beginning of a fruit fast, because of the stirring up of toxins in the body, and then they actually begin to feel stronger day by day until their systems have become more cleansed. An irrisistible hunger will make itself felt when the body needs food.

A feeling of weakness is not usually an indication that the body needs food. It either means that the body needs a rest or that poisons have been allowed to accumulate within the body. Sleep provides the rest for the nervous system.

Most cases of serious chronic diseases, such as tuberculosis and cancer are prepared for by the condition of body poisoning and nervous enervation.

It is well known that extreme cases of exhaustion lead to death from toxic poisoning. Fatigue is nature's warning that it is time to rest, and it is well to stop any activity as soon as one feels fatigued. If you use coffee and stimulants to spur yourself on when you feel tired, you are simply using up your reserve energy and shortening your life.

Questions and Answers

Question: W. L. Writes: "Have been troubled for a long time with an itching under the arms. Please tell me a cure."

Answer: Do everything you can to produce more skin elimination. Take a sweat bath two or three times weekly, or induce a sweat by vigorous exercises. Take one or two shower baths daily. Local application to the parts are dangerous and are not necessary.

Question: D. L. J. writes: "I have followed your diet, exercises, etc. and have been helped wonderfully, and have reduced all parts of my body but my stomach. Some people tell me a large stomach is hereditary. Is this correct? Or is there something I can do to reduce my stomach?"

Answer: The only way you can reduce the size of your abdomen is through taking vigorous physical culture exercises, principally those taken while lying on the back. Dieting alone will not reduce a protruding abdomen, although the size will diminish somewhat if only small amounts of food are used. Measure your circumfrence with a tape measure, then start in with the exercises, and every week you will be able to note a reduction in the size of this part of your body.

Question: "What treatment do you advise for multiple sclerosis? What is the cause? Violet rays have brought back the feeling to patient's limbs and he has use of them, but a numbness comes over him at times."

Answer: The fundamental cause of multiple sclerosis is the poison of toxic materials in the spinal cord resulting from a faulty diet. The patient you write of will get quickest results by taking a fruit fast for a week or ten days followed by a well-balanced diet. Treatment such as massage, osteopathy, chiropractic, and electrotherophy will be helpful in restoring the circulation to the affected parts.

FRANK ERNEST NICHOLSON

By DAVID WARFIELD

David Warfield is the grand old man of the stage, whom you will remember as "The Music Master." He began his theatrical career in the 1880's, playing the role of a rube in a cheap San Francisco vaudeville house.

Eventually he made his way to New York, where he played a variety of roles, from Jewish men to that of a comic Irishwoman.

Near the end of the nineteenth century he landed a place with Weber and Fields. He remained under their management until that memorable production, "The Music Master," which proved a hardy perennial for season after season.

"Although I am but 60," Mr. Warfield told me, "I am a retired veteran, watching the passing show from my favorite setting—the home. After years on the road—touring it and de luxe—I have decided that home is sweet—and the final scene for me.

"I believe I have laughed more often at a negro story I heard once than at any other which recurs. It seems that a negro boy had got into some trouble and was brought to court for the first time.

"'Do you understand what you are to swear to?' asked the judge.

"'Yessuh. Ah does,' replied the darky promptly. 'Ah am ter swear ter tell de truff.'

"'And what will happen if you do not tell the truth?' the judge pressed.

"'Well, suh,' was the hesitating answer, 'if Ah don't Ah expects ouah side will win de case.'"

STAGE STAR HELD BY COPS

Laura Saunderson and Her Husband Arrested

DETROIT, Aug. 8. (UP)—W. C. Biddle, alias W. W. Easterday, and his wife, Laura Biddle, an actress known in stage circles as Laura Sanderson, were arrested here today and held for Houston, Texas, police.

According to information at police headquarters, Houston authorities stated Mrs. Biddle was wanted there for forgery.

The woman formerly played a leading role in "No, No, Nanette," and told police here she had been offered the lead in "Ringside," a play which opened here recently. She was indignant when arrested and blamed business enemies of her husband for the charges.

Both denied knowledge of the forgeries. Biddle, police said, once had served a term in a federal prison but recently had been interested in electric power business in Texas. He told authorities he had a franchise to serve electric power service in a small town near Houston.

Houston authorities were asked to furnish additional information.

John Atkinson, assistant corporation counsel, sought to have Biddle released on the grounds there were no charges against him.

HOOVER HEARS ROSY REPORT

New York State Senator At Palo Alto

PALO ALTO, Calif., Aug. 8. (UE) Confidence of New York Republicans in their ability to carry the Empire state for Herbert Hoover in the presidential election was displayed by State Senator John Knight of New York in a conference with the nominee here.

Knight is Republican floor leader in New York state senate. He sees the Democratic party split in all directions up state. He said:

"New York state is normally Republican in presidential elections. Gov. Al Smith reached his high water mark four years ago, when he was elected by a majority of 100,000. He will lose votes in the national election.

"I believe there will be a large vote in New York state this year and that means more Republican units. The Tammany machine is always busy and gets out the vote in New York City, but with the up-state territory alive to the issues this time I believe Hoover will come down to the Bronx with a large enough vote to carry the state.

"Governor Smith has had no business experience. All the experience he has was gathered as a public office holder. Hoover has been dealing with international problems as well as national problems for years.

"The main issue in New York, I believe, is the fitness of the two men. Prohibition is an issue that cuts both ways. It runs through both parties."

Harry Culver of Culver City, Calif., having crossed the country four times this summer, told Hoover today that the Republicans must guard against over-confidence.

"I think the Republicans in California are too optimistic. I have no doubt that California will go for Hoover, but we cannot lay down on the job. It looks like Hoover will be elected, but the Republicans must not think it is going to be a walkaway."

Man Cleared of Murdering Woman After 20 Years Gets Compensation

LONDON, Aug. 8. (UP)—Oscar Slater, who was cleared of charges of murdering a woman after he had served nearly 20 years in prison, today accepted the government's offer of $30,000 compensation for wrongful conviction.

Slater, sentenced to life imprisonment in 1909, was assisted by Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, creator of Sherlock Holmes. Doyle was convinced that Slater was not guilty and, after thoroughly investigating the case, started a campaign which resulted recently in release of the convict.

Unsatisfied with mere freedom, Slater instituted proceedings to clear his name and was successful. The government's offer of compensation and his acceptance closed the book on the most realistic of Sherlock Holmes adventures.

The average price obtained for the crop was 19.30 cents per pound, compared with 12.96 the year before.

Wichita Falls Operators to Seek Oil In Woodbine Sand in Henderson Test

Wichita Falls operators will begin an effort within the next few days to open up a new oil field in East Central Texas when McElreath and Suggett spud in a wildcat test 14 miles northeast of the Powell field in Henderson county, southeast of Dallas.

The test is to be known as No. 1 Schoellkopf and will be carried to a depth of 3,000 feet if commercial production is not found at a higher level. Seeking the famous Woodbine sand, the test is being made on a sub-surface fault, seven or eight tests having been drilled in the general vicinity in recent years and furnishing underground data.

Construction of the derrick on the new location, which is in the Thomas Mitchell survey, will be started within the next few days and the hole is to be spudded in in about one week.

McElreath and Suggett blocked a large area for the test and their lease proper comprises nearly 1,000 acres while Pure, Humble, Gulf, Texas and other companies hold close in tracts ranging in size from 5,000 acres downward.

SPUDDERS WIN 9 STRAIGHT AND TAKE LEAD AS BUFFS LOSE

Shreveport Topples Houston From Lead When Estrada Pitches 5-0 Shutout

STANTON STAR IN 4 TO 3 WIN

Buck's Homer and Double Account for 3 Runs

By LARRY DAILEY
Record News Sports Editor

Our Spudders ARE leading the league. And no fooling.

Visions of the 1928 pennant, seen so bright a couple of weeks ago, then dimmed in the recent three-game series at Houston, again loom before the good folk of Wichita Falls and vicinity. For today, by virtue of a victory yesterday over the San Antonio Bears while Houston was losing two straight to Shreveport, the Spudders occupy first place UNDISPUTED one game ahead of the Buffs.

The Spudders have won 30 games and lost 12, a standing of .714, while the Buffs have 29 wins and 13 reversals, a mark of .690.

In winning yesterday's pastime out at the playground, 4 to 3, Jim Galloway's men swept the three-game series in the final appearance here this season of the San Antonio club. It was the ninth straight victory for the Spudders, one less than the string of consecutive victories won last year by the champions.

See-Saw Battle

Yesterday's affair was another heart-rendering piece. It was a see-saw battle and victory seemingly perched on the banner of both clubs on more than one occasion. But the Spudders finally came through in the pinch, like the stout-hearted athletes they are.

Mike Cvengros was unsteady, and his lack of control seemingly contributed to corresponding erratic support by his infield. But although he issued seven bases on balls and was in frequent difficulty, Michael bore down with just enough to turn back the Bears with their three tallies.

Tink Riviere limited the Spudders to six hits, while Mike held the hostiles to five knocks. But the difference wasn't only in that one blow. The Spudders made five of their smashes count in their run-getting, while two of the Bears' hits went for naught.

Buck Stanton was the foremost factor in the attack. The rookie first baseman slammed a home run and a double and accounted for three of the four runs, scoring twice and driving a mate home ahead of him on his circuit clout, which was a mighty wallop over the scoreboard.

Swenson Again Delivers

Wally Swenson drove home the fourth and winning tally, the last run scored in the game, in the sixth inning. It was a dramatic occasion. Fitzgerald singled and went to second on Lamb's sacrifice. They purposely passed Jenkins. Swenson then delivered his hit, as he usually does in the pinch, smiting a sharp single to left that scored Fitzgerald.

The Bears fought hard to win. They played much faster ball afield than the Spudders, the only San Antonio error not figuring in the scoring, while two the three Wichita Falls misplays contributed to the Gilmos' tallying.

Flaskamper was responsible for two of the enemy markers when he smote a home run over the left field wall in the third round, driving home a teammate ahead of him.

Bears Score in Third

After double plays by both clubs helped prevent scoring in the first two innings, the Bears tallied a brace of runs in the third. Benton made a fast stop of Riviere's grounder over second but threw wild, Tink going to second. Flaskamper hit a home run over the left field wall, Riviere ambling home ahead of him.

The Spudders tallied a run in their half. Stanton led off with a double to the fence near the right field foul line. Stanton went to third on a wild pitch. Smith lined to Grimes. Cvengros hit harshly through Riviere and Stanton beat Chapman's throw to the plate. Benton hit into a double play, started by Chapman and completed by Flaskamper and Grimes, the Bears' second two-ply killing.

San Antonio filled the bases in the fourth on Nason's hit and two bases on balls but with two out Riviere grounded to Turgeon.

Stanton Hits Homer

Stanton crashed his homer in the fifth with a comrade on base to put the Spudders ahead. Swenson started it with a single through short and scored ahead of Stanton on Buck's smash over the scoreboard in right-center.

The Bears tied it in the sixth. Grimes singled to center. Nason forced Grimes, Swenson to Turgeon, but Stanton failed to get in front of Pete's low throw and Nason continued to second. Nason went to third on a passed ball, getting a close decision on Smith's throw to third. Chapman strolled for the third time. Meyers singled to center, Nason scoring and Chapman stopping at second. Boggess lifted to Lamb. Stanton took Riviere's grounder.

Wichita Falls regained the lead in its half, which it held the rest of the game. Fitzgerald was safe on a hit to Flaskamper. Lamb sacrificed, Meyers to Grimes. Jenkins was purposely passed. With the count two strikes and three balls Swenson singled sharply to left, Fitzgerald scoring and Jenkins going to third. Mulvey threw out Swenson at second after misjudging Stanton's fly, Jenkins going to third. Mulvey backed against the fence for Smith's lift.

No Further Scoring

San Antonio had runners on first and third bases in the seventh but Swenson threw out Nason for the third out.

Meyers walked in the 8th after one was out but Smith picked him off first for a double play when Boggess fanned.

Jenkins singled sharply to right in the eighth but Nason went back for Swenson's drive for the third out.

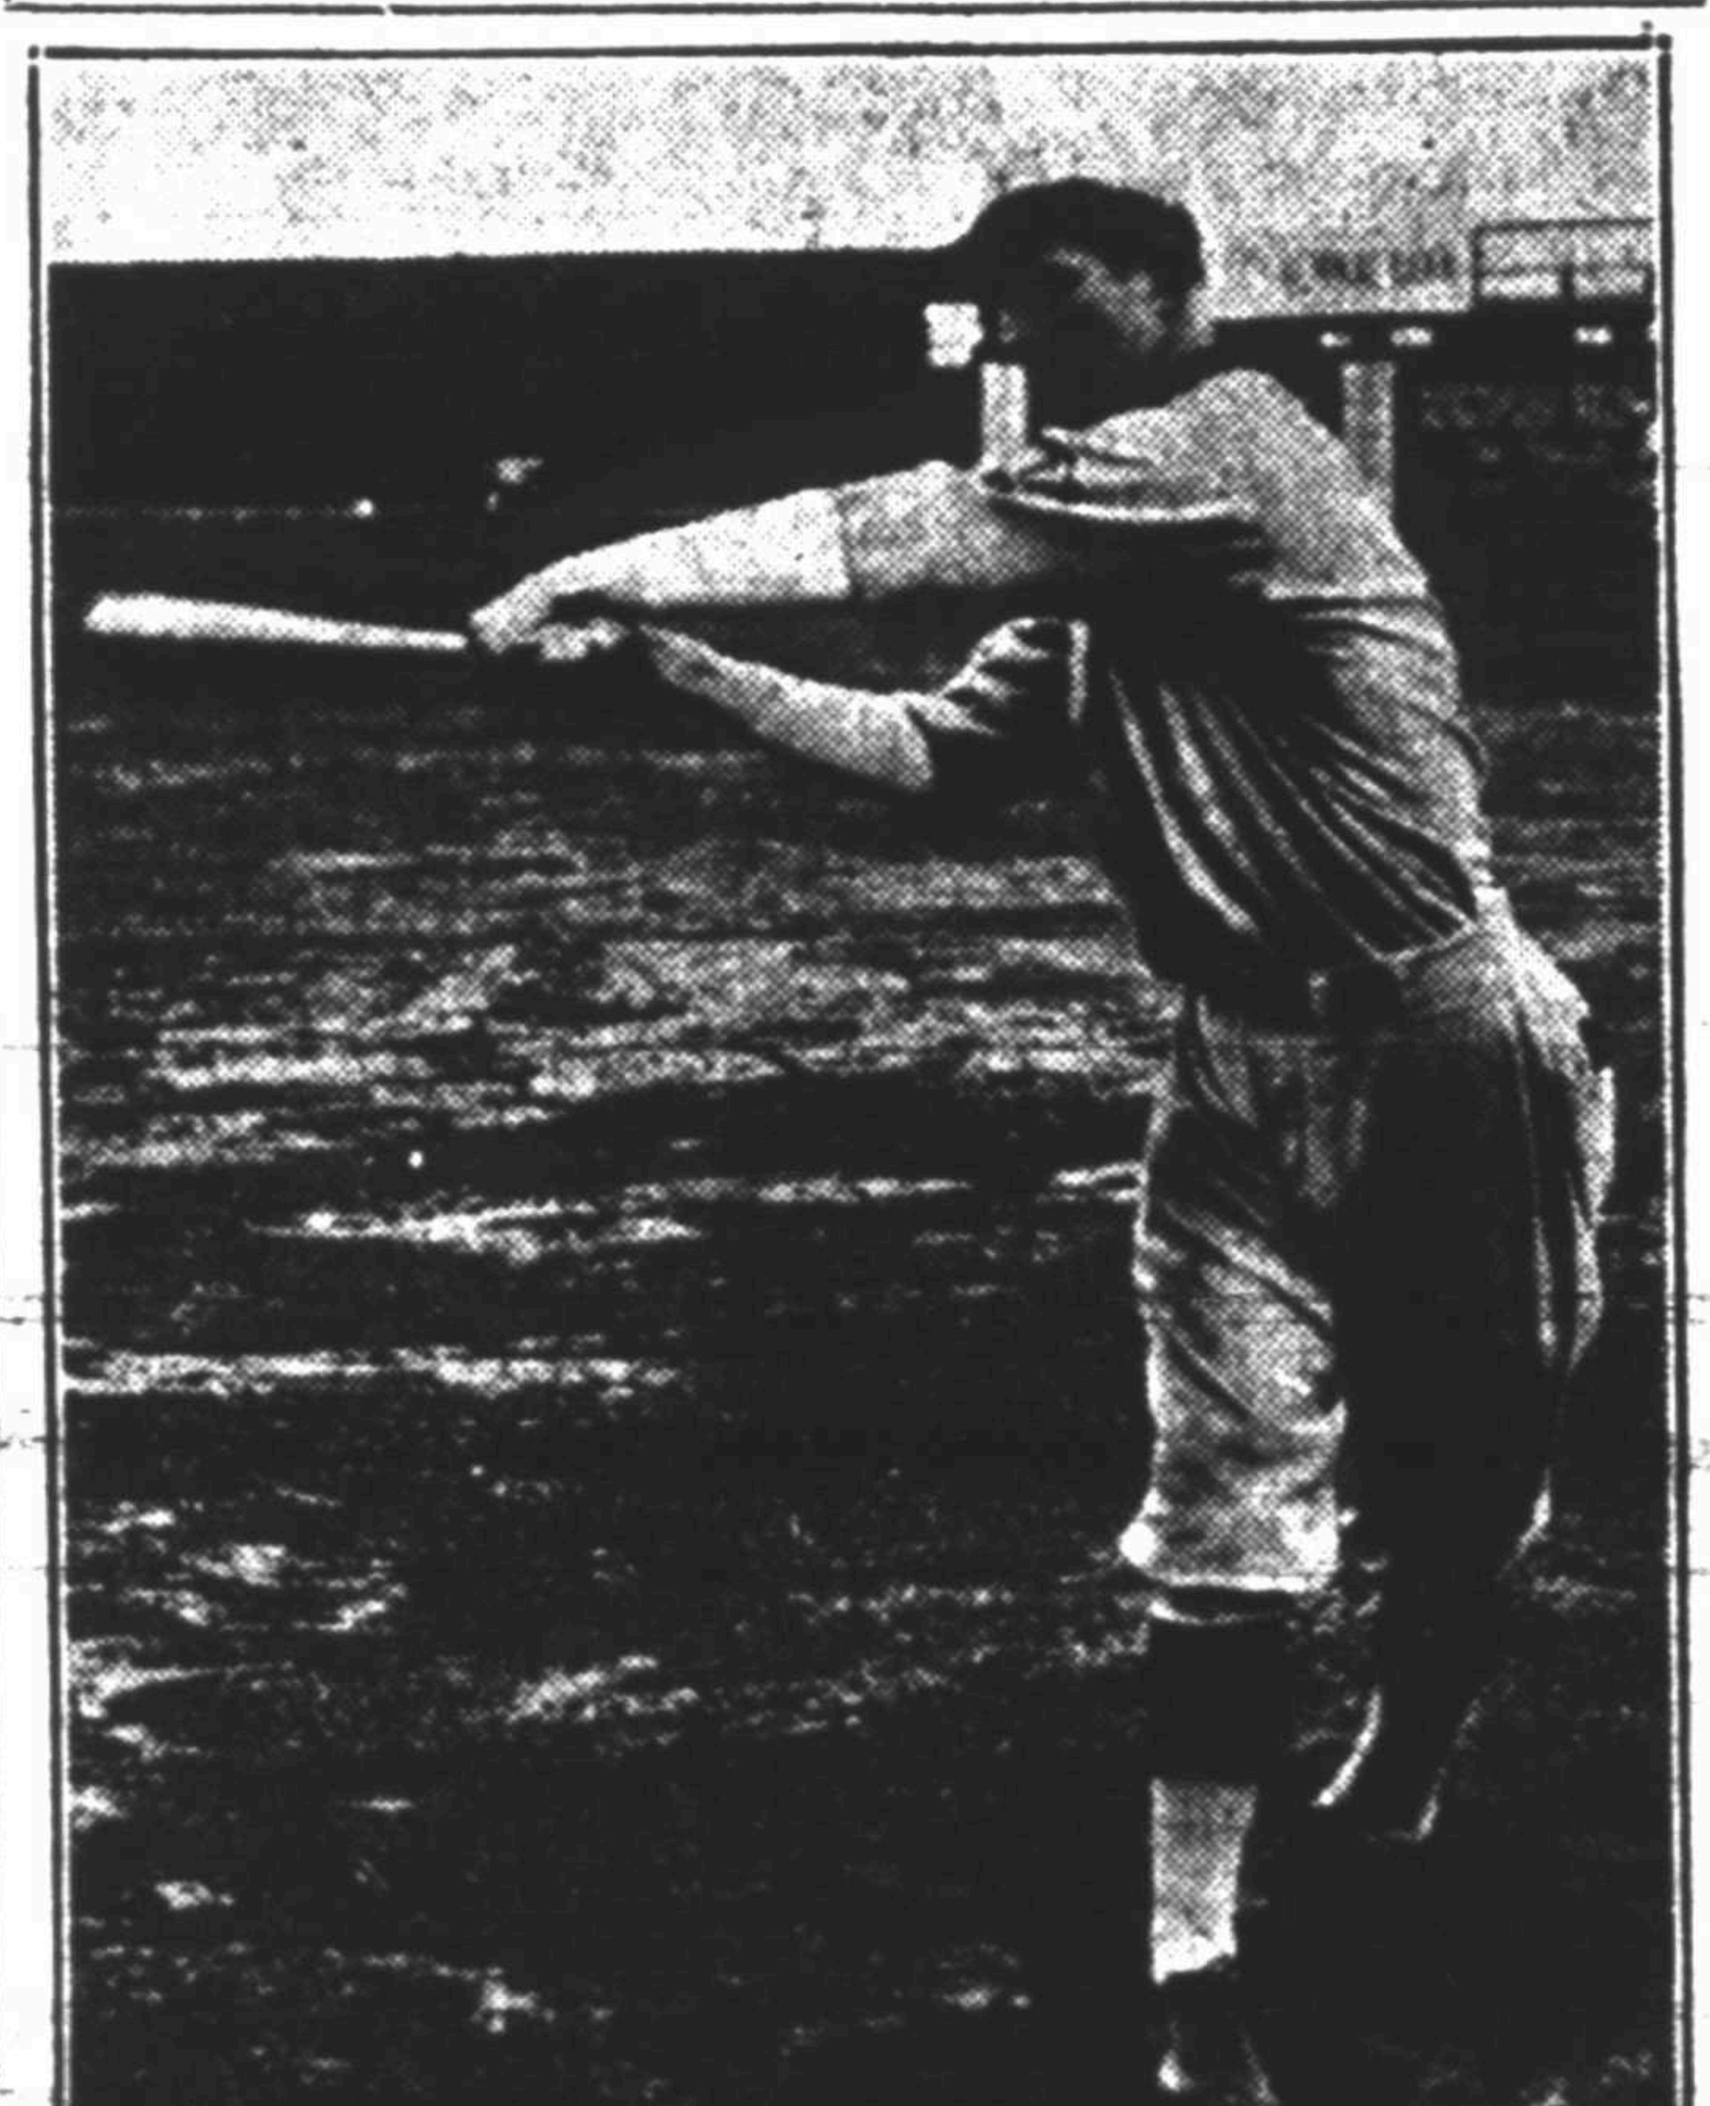

The Bears were retired in order in the ninth.

Bell Beats Australian In Southampton Tennis

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 8. (UP)—Berkeley Bell, Austin, Texas scored a surprising victory over J. B. Hawkes, Australian Davis cup player, in the third round of the Meadow club invitation tennis tournament today in three sets, 3-6, 6-1, 6-2. It was Hawkes' first match in the tournament.

H. O. Hopman, another Australian Davis cup player, defeated J. Olhausen, Philadelphia, 4-6, 2-6, 6-2.

The Kid Delivers

George Stanton came through in the pinch yesterday. His home-run and double accounted for three runs and helped the Spudders beat San Antonio at Athletic park, 4 to 3.

SPUDDERS FACE BATTLE TO WIN

Schedule Rest of Season Favors Buffaloes

A friend of mine says yesterday, "I'm takin' my vacation in September when the Buffs meet those Spudders in the Texas league playoff. Boy, I'm sure goin' to have a grand time I hear some of that convention licker that they didn't sell still can be bought, if you know where and how."

Well I don't know where and how, and I don't care where and how to get liquor. But like all dyed-in-the-wool enthusiasts here of the irrational pastime, I'm hoping on where and how to win a pennant, and in fact planning on a trip to the Bayou city for the purpose of seeing our Spudders win their way into another Dixie series.

Long Way to Go

But it's a long way to September 9 when the campaign ends, and while the Spudders have nothing worse than an even chance to cop the second half title, it's going to be gained only by strenuous and continuous fighting.

The schedule for the rest of the season favors the Buffs. Including today's games the Buffs have 22 games at home and 14 on the road, while the Spudders play 18 more games here and 17 on alien fields.

Spuds Good Road Club

The Spudders, however, have shown themselves to be an excellent road club. Except for the recent three-game series at Houston, swept by the Buffs, the men of the Galloway clan won with about as much impressiveness while wearing grey uniforms as when disporting themselves in white regalia.

In one respect the schedule favors the Spudders. They play the Buffs here four games, Saturday, two Sunday and the final Monday, while they are in Houston only for two contests, Wednesday and Thursday, August 22 and 23.

Anyhow, like Stephen Decatur said about his country, win or lose, they're our Spudders.

I think they'll win. —L. D.

U. S. Boxers May Quit in Olympics

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 8. (UP)—The American boxing team threatened to withdraw from the Olympaid boxing tournament tonight unless the decision giving Sartos, Belgium flyweight, a victory over Hyman Miller, Los Angeles, A. C., in the opening contest today, was reversed.

Jacob Stumpf, chairman of the American Olympic boxing committee, announced he would recommend to Maj. Gen. Douglas MacArthur, president of the American Olympic committee, the withdrawal of the American team unless Miller was awarded the decision.

Although the decision was unpopular with the crowd and the officials were jeered when Saru was declared the winner, the Olympic boxing rules say that the judges and referee decision is final.

Notes of the Game

Milt Steengrafe or Joe Kiefer will oppose the Beaumont Exporters today in the start of a two-day series out at the orchard.

While our nine is meeting the Shippers, the Buffaloes will be engaging the Cats over at Fort Worth.

Brick Eldred injured a hip in that hectic, winning eleventh inning Tuesday and will be out of the line-up a few days. It is probable that Eldred, who is pacing the Spudders in batting, will be able to play in the series with Houston, which starts Saturday.

Fortunately, Lyman Lamb is available for duty and thus Eldred's absence will not be so severely felt, despite his hard hitting.

Wally Swenson came through yesterday with some fast fielding, handling five chances, some of them difficult, without an error.

'Honeyboy' Finnegan Gets Nod Over Jadick

BOSTON, Aug. 8. (UP)—Dick (Honeyboy) Finnegan, Dorchester featherweight, avenged his recent defeat at Philadelphia at the hands of Johnny Jadick, winning a decision over the Philadelphia slugger in a fast 10-round bout here tonight.

DAILY DOPE

By LARRY DAILEY

WHO'S CHAMPION of the Texas league? The propounding of that question is not for the purpose of speculating on the 1928 pennant winner; it is, rather, to determine whether the Spudders or Buffaloes have the right to claim that honor until the present campaign is over. The Spudders, in the opinion of this writer, are entitled to call themselves champions, until proved otherwise. They won the flag in 1927 and though Houston won the first half of the 1928 race, one swallow doesn't make a drink and a first half isn't two halves, or wasn't when I went to school, which was several years ago but not so long ago at that.

◇ ◇ ◇

You take a fighter who is a champion and he loses the first five founds of a 10-round battle—he's still champion until he's knocked out or the 10 rounds are over. So in my pieces in the paper I'm going to continue calling the Spudders champions of the Texas league until after Sept. 15—and I have the hunch we can call them champions next season, too.

◇ ◇ ◇

APROPOS TO PENNANTS, a discrepancy is noted on the Texas league and Dixie gonfalons that float from the flagpole out at Athletic park. I don't recall which is which—I MUST be getting old at that, my memory is so poor—anyhow one pennant says champions, 1927, and the other legend has it champions, 1928. Of course the Spudders are Dixie and Texas league champions now until proved otherwise but they won those honors in the season of 1927, and the buntings should read that way.

◇ ◇ ◇

HAVING DISPOSED of that momentous question, I have an announcement to make. This is my twenty-ninth birthday today. Not that I am so egotistical as to think that "my public" will celebrate my natal day, except perhaps with a few letters in which I am given the present of the razzberry. But I now disclose my true age, for the reason that some readers of this colvum regard me as an old man of 40 while others look upon me as a lad from college still with the bloom of peach fuzz on my face. The reason for that must be that I can discourse of sports history back into the ages, thanks to close study and reading which must lead to the belief that I am a graybeard. On the other hand, some readers probably see in my writings the enthusiasm of a tyro of journalism. If so, it is well. Not for me a cynical pose. After 10 years of writing sports I have greater enthusiasm for sports than ever and greater interest in my work. Because I appreciate the former better; and know the latter better. I love the contact with people and I like people very much. I hope they like me. This is personal? Perhaps. Uninteresting? Maybe. But let's get acquainted. The only way a majority of people can know me is through this column. So I'm just telling this bit of stuff about myself in the hope that through it, you'll know me and perhaps like me as I like everybody.

◇ ◇ ◇

I'M THE original Pollyanna of Main street— and proud of it. Bring on your Mencken.

◇ ◇ ◇

More about my birthday: I have neuritis, so I don't want any heavy-handed wisecracker slapping me on the back.

◇ ◇ ◇

GENE TUNNEY retired from boxing to avoid insanity, according to one report.

◇ ◇ ◇

Now the story is that he is to be married.

◇ ◇ ◇

The first rumor must have been correct.

◇ ◇ ◇

WHEN DEL PRATT was here for a visit with his Cubs recently he confided to this writer that he had another athlete who probably would be sold to the big time. The name of the athlete is Earl Caldwell and he is the youthful right-hand pitcher. Caldwell, according to Pratt, has been given the once-over by a bevy of scouts and several of the ivory hunters have been observed coming back for more than one glimpse of the young man on the hill.

◇ ◇ ◇

Not so many weeks ago it seems that the Waco club, acting under the belief that Caldwell wasn't a Texas league pitcher much less anything better, asked waivers on him. None of the other Texas loop clubs wanted the kid, even at the waiver price of $1,500, so the story I hear goes. So the Cubs kept him around, pitching to batters in practice, carrying Del Pratt's hit-and-run bag that contains iodine, old baseballs, a Spalding guide and other such managerial paraphernalia.

◇ ◇ ◇

SUDDENLY OUR HERO blossomed into a star of most serene ray. He attained startling effectiveness overnight. So now, as Mr. Pratt narrates it, the scouts are following the Cubs wherever they go, in their eagerness for a look-see at Mr. Caldwell. Other Texas league moguls who had opportunity to view the youthful Mr. Caldwell only a few innings and those under unimpressive circumstances, can't be blamed for not wanting to take Caldwell. If Del Pratt, with his pitching staff of few winners couldn't use Caldwell of what avail would he be for other teams. So when and if Mr. Caldwell goes to the big leagues and Jinx Tucker writes more pieces over in the Waco papers about the foresight of Del Pratt in selling another youngster, we shall enjoy a hearty laugh. For didn't Mr. Pratt want to dispose of Mr. Caldwell for $1,500?

Sekyra Beats Braddock In Slow 10-Round Mill

BROOKLYN, Aug. 8. (UP)—Joe Sekyra, Dayton, Ohio, 177½, won the decision from James J. Braddock, Jersey City, 168, in a 10-round light heavyweight bout at Ebbets field tonight. Sekyra was too strong and aggressive for Braddock.

There was little action, both fighters resorting to clinching and holding tactics.

SHREVEPORT, La., Aug. 8. (AP)—The Sports, scoring five runs, toppled Houston from the league lead when Lefty Estrada shut them out today in the final game of the series and allowed but five hits.

STEERS, EXPORTERS SPLIT

DALLAS, Aug. 8. (AP)—After dropping the opener, 5 to 2, due to a heavy bombardment on Les Bartholomew in the first six innings, the Steers came back behind Charlie Robertson to cop the second game of Wednesday's double header from the Beaumont Exporters, 3 to 0. It was the Shippers' final appearance here this year.

Robertson pitched great ball in the nightcap, allowing only four hits, no two of which came in the same period. Phillips' wildness started the locals off to a lead in the first when he walked the first two men up. A hit and a wild pitch netted a run. Two more were registered in the sixth when the Steers coupled a double, two singles and an outfield error. Scores; first game:

Help Spudders

Mike Cvengros (top) and Lyman Lamb have contributed their share to the play of the Spudders this season. Although unsteady yesterday Mike hurled five-hit ball to beat the Bears 4 to 3. Lamb got into the game after a long absence with Eldred out with an injury, and the presence of hustling Lymie is assurance that the club is not weakened, though Brick is its leading hitter.

Three U. S. Crews In Olympic Final Round

SLOTEN, Holland, Aug. 8. (AP)—Desperate races some of which were marked by thrilling finishes particularly hard on American spectators with weak hearts, three boatloads of United States oarsmen today forged into the final round of the Olympic rowing regatta. A fourth reached the semi finals in its class and a fifth was eliminated.

The three American entries which have only one more opponent to beat to win championships are the University of California eight, the Penn Barge Club four, both of which had narrow escapes today, and Ken Myers, the single sculling representative.

FIRPO WOULD TRY COMEBACK

"Wild Bull" Considers Return to Battle

BUENOS AIRES, Aug. 8. (UP)—Luis Angel Firpo, the Argentine who was knocked into obscurity by the fists of Jack Dempsey, is seriously considering returning to the ring.

He revealed today he had been in light training for the last eight weeks. Firpo said he had reduced his weight from 260 to 240 and that he expected to start sparring within two weeks.

Tries to Make Weight

"The Wild Bull of the Pampas," as he was known when he slugged his way to prominence in the American ring, has a bet with a friend that he can recover his old fighting weight of 216 pounds by Oct. 1.

Firpo had made tentative arrangements to fight Monte Munn on Oct. 12, but Munn's defeat at the hands of Clemente Sanchez, the Cuban, caused cancellation of the plans. Since then Firpo has refused to make an open declaration that he intended to return to the ring, but told the United Press he had been in communication with Tex Rickard, who will stage the elimination bout to pick Tunney's successor as heavyweight champion.

May Meet Munn

Firpo showed a decided bulge at the waistline, but he proudly exhibited four new holes in his belt, which he said he had punched in the last six weeks.

"If I continue to reduce like this," Firpo said, "I shall be ready to go north next spring."

The Argentine indicated he would be willing to meet Munn here some time later in a trial bout.

First National '9' Defeats Security

The relief tossing of Amos West, First National bank righthander, pulled the game from the fire Wednesday afternoon on the Jalonic street diamond and the First National came from behind to nose out the Security National bank team, 16 to 15. Three hits, two of them scratches, three errors and a walk gave the winners their tying and winning runs in the sixth inning.

The fielding of McGregor, First National shortstop, played a great part in the victory. McGregor also led the field in the run scoring with four tallies being credited to him. McGregor was safely placed on base five times.

Ragged fielding behind West in his first inning netted five runs but in the last three frames the big right hander settled down and gave up only three scattered hits and held Security scoreless.

TILDEN ASSERTS HE WILL NEVER TURN TENNIS PROFESSIONAL

HOT FIGHT ON STATUS LOOMS

U. S. L. T. A. President To Battle Disbarment

By JOSEPH S. ROGERS

NEW YORK, Aug. 8. (US)—"I will never turn professional. I am still an amateur regardless of what action the tennis officials take against me."

William T. Tilden so declared this afternoon on return from abroad where he, George Lott, Francis T. Hunter, Junior Coen and John Hennessey failed in their effort to bring back the Davis Cup, he added:

"We were all very poor in our play at Wimbledon. We showed some improvement in France. Heinessy played one truly great match against the Italian, Baron De Morpurgo. Lott played well at times and so did Coen. The 15-year old boy played a marvelous match against the Englishman, H. W. Austin."

No Comment On Trial

Tilden would make no statement regarding the proposed trial set for August 24 before a tribunal of tennis officials for his alleged violation of the player-writer rule. He added that he would not play in the tourney which is now in progress at Southhampton. Tilden was asked:

"Suppose at the coming meeting your disqualification is sustained, will you retire from lawn tennis altogether?"

"You had better withdraw that question," Tilden mumbled.

It was made plain from conversations with Samuel H. Collom, president of the United States Lawn Tennis association and Joseph Wear, director of the American team that they would fight with every effort at their command to prevent Tilden's disbarment. As result, one of the hottest fights in the history of amateur sport is in prospect.

Bill Praises Frenchmen

Tilden was high in his praise for the Frenchmen, as sportsmen and tennis players. He said:

"Lacoste is playing as well as ever while Cochet and Brugnon are the greatest doubles players the world has ever known. Our players all gained by their experience. It was a college education in tennis for them and they will do better in another year."

Collum, commenting on Tilden's writing activities said:

"Technically I believe that Tilden, according to the American rules, may have violated them. But the question of the technical charge being established was still unsettled and it will be unsettled until Tilden has had his hearing.

"In France, there is no objection to a player writing about the game, and receiving money for it, nor is there any objection in the International association, but there is objection to it in the American rules.

"I acted on my own initiative and responsibility when I put Tilden into the game. I did it because I thought Tilden had first to be found guilty and secondly because the French tennis public was such offended at the barring of America's leading player."

Baer Facts

By ARTHUR (BUGS) BAER
(Copyr't, 1928, by Universal Service)

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Indigestible reports from Holland state that our Olympic athletes have stowed themselves up with too much eating and ice cream.

We will have to make our next Olympic team train in a cafeteria.

A man cannot run with 11 apple dumplings rattling in his tummy like pennies in a tambourine.

You can get milk from a contented cow but you cannot get speed from a pig in clover.

Most of our athletes gained 20 pounds on this trip and only three ounces were medals.

Did you ever try to catch a street car with a New England spoiled dinner straining the buckles of your vest?

In order to be an athlete you must nibble at lettuce, cabbage and carrots. You are in shape when you grow long ears like a rabbit.

However, we will allow Finland to win the distance races and we will wave the patriotic sirloin and the spangled veal cutlet.

The favorite American distance race is 20 yards to the delicatessen store on the corner.

If we eat a lot now, we are only trying to make up for what we missed at Valley Forge.

The next Olympics will be in America. Then we will see what those Europeans can do on our home cooking. When they taste chicken Maryland with corn fritters we bet that Nurmi will win the marathon with a napkin around his neck and grease on his vest.

They say that when Barbuti finally won a race for America the officials ran up a tablecloth instead of the American flag.

That ain't a bad idea either. We have heard the bells of Naples, the chimes of Normandy and the carillons of Strasburgh, but when it comes to real music there is no melody like the tinkling bell when you are feeling right and your dental work is all paid for.

LONG BEACH, Calif., Aug. 8. (UP)—A new speedboat record was established today when Frank H. Robertson of Houston, Texas, piloted his hydroplane, "Miss Houston IV" at an average speed of 57 miles an hour.

The "Miss Houston IV" made a maximum speed of 58.63 miles per hour. The former record was 58.43 miles per hour.

Several Light Heavyweights Loom As Contenders for Championship

175-Pound Division Has Several Brilliant Battlers Worthy of Succeeding Tommy Loughran

By DAMON RUNYON
(Copyr't., 1928, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—It appears that the retirement of Mister Gene Tunney, that big amnesia man, has opened up activity in two divisions of the sour science.

The mumble and fumble of the big bozarks clamoring for Mister Tunney's crown, as we call it at the club, is almost equaled by the grumble and fumble along the light heavyweights claiming the fistic coronet that decorates the more or less classic brow of Tommy Loughran, the phantom of Philly, light heavyweight champion of the world.

It seems to be the consensus of the straw vote that Loughran has the best claim to the heavyweight title wherefore he must step out of the light heavyweight business. This was inevitable, anyway, as almost everybody resigns from the light heavyweighting sooner or later.

In fact, Tommy Loughran succeeded to the title through the resignation of a holder, the same being M. Cyrille Chapdelaine, otherwise Jack Delaney. The New York Boxing commission appointed the aged Michael McTigue in Delaney's place, but this appointment was merely by way of giving Michael the champion's cut of 37½ per cent of the gate. He was ordered to fight Tommy Loughran, and Tommy at once removed the title from the ancient one.

Paul Berlenbach won the title from Michael McTigue when Michael was in light heavyweight office under less suspicious circumstances than when Loughran got it. Michael lured the late Battling Siki to Dublin one St. Patrick's day some years ago and nabbed the title from the singular Senegalese, who had won it from M. Georges Carpentier, the wilted lily of France.

It Looked Phony

M. Georges won it from Barney Williams, otherwise Battling Levinsky, eight years ago, but somehow a lot of followers of the sour science have always sniffed sniffs whenever that memorable battle is recalled.

They were looking for an opponent for Jack Dempsey at the time, and M. Georges had plenty of color, and international flavor, but no American standing as a gladiator. So he canoed over here one bright day and hit Battling Levinsky on the chivinsky in the fourth heat, though some folks always did claim that the battler was looking out the window at the time.

Anyway, that made M. Georges Carpentier light heavyweight champion of the world, for such was the battler's status at the time. The battler had won the title by outstumbling Jack Dillon, the Indiana man eater, who would never confess to the distinction of being light heavyweight champion. The battler himself had practically forgotten he had the title until M. Georges fortuitously came along.

Well, the lily of France moved into the first of the million dollar gates with Jack Dempsey, and got his gosh durn safety in four periods. Somehow he never resigned the title of light heavyweight champion of the world, and when he returned to Europe he called himself such. The singular Senegalese was then the rage over yonder, and a waltz was arranged between him and M. Georges.

I believe M. Georges was supposed to win this waltz, so he merely took a bath by way of training. The singular Senegalese discovered at once that M. Georges couldn't fight much that night, so he so far forgot himself as a gentleman, and a scholar, as to give M. Georges a jolly shellacking, removing the title, and everything. The singular Senegalese was thereafter shunned by all right thinking exponents of the ring when they were seeking a partner for a waltz.

Tunney in Class Once

Battling Levinsky languidly continued to call himself the American light heavyweight champion, which didn't mean much, especially after McTigue beat Siki. Then Mister Gene Tunney came along and outstaggered the old battler, and Mister Tunney, too, began calling himself the American light heavyweight champion, until he moved into the heavyweight division.

Thus the line of succession is complete back to the careless Dillon. The title wasn't worth a dime until M. Georges Carpentier came along, and it reached its highest value when Berlenbach was champion. I am inclined to think that it contains the best pugilistic talent of the day at this time, however, and when Loughran resigns the title it ought to produce some first class scuffling.

Two matches are always pending in which the principals have Loughran's title in mind, and are the ideas of old October roll around again the light heavies will be busier than a hound dog with the fleas. At Ebbets Field Thursday night Joe Sekyra of Dayton, Ohio, meets James J. Braddock of New Jersey, as the first of what you might call the elimination light-heavy bouts.

On Aug. 27, in San Francisco, Armond Emanuel, the Hebrew marvel, and Clarence Walker, otherwise Mickey, will battle in a ball yard, and the promoters are advertising it for the light heavyweight title without waiting for Loughran to resign. Out there they concede Thomas the heavyweight title, apparently.

Joe Sekyra is a chappy who stands out here with a rush of promise. He is only 21, a good boxer, and a good hitter, and he fought himself up to a match with Leo Lomski, only to find that he didn't have enough experience to battle that kind. Sekyra got a big setback that night, but he has gone on fighting and it is said has commenced to show the improvement that he didn't disclose against Lomski.

Other Fine Prospects

James J. Braddock the tall, slim-waisted New Jerseyman, has long been regarded as a potential champion hereabouts, but, like Sekyra, he has seemed to linger in the lap of developments. He sustained a broken hand that kept him idle for a long time, and in a recent appearance at Ebbetts' Field against Johnny Lamanna's good youngster, Mando Tassi, Braddock showed the effects of his lay-off.

Braddock and Sekyra ought to put up a great fight. They are representative of the crowd of youngsters from which may come the heavyweight champion of the future. All are just about equal right now, but I is about time for one to commence forging ahead of the others.

Emanuel is a corking boxer, without a punch. If he would do as Mister Gene Tunney did, and carefully and conscientiously devote himself to his physical upbuilding, he might make a good heavyweight. Charley Ballenger, who recently knocked out Tony Tarullo, is a Canadian and a right good club fighter. Swiderski is a crafty boxer, an eel-like fellow in the ring, who ought to commence to show something now.

Tassi, an Italian, is a good hitter and a good boxer. Adgie is a rough, tough young slugger. Schmeling, the German, hasn't started here yet, but they say he looks good. Lomski, Leton and Blattery are among the best known ringmen in the land and few better light heavies have ever lived.

I think my list contains the name of Loughran's successor, but I wouldn't undertake to specify the individual.

AMERICAN WINS OLYMPIC DIVE

Des Jardines Victor With Los Angeles Man Next

By ROBERT J. PREW

AMSTERDAM, Aug. 8. (US)—Peter Des Jardines gained a magnificent victory for America in the springboard diving today. Michael Galitzen of Los Angeles was second, and Simaiki, the Egyptian, who coached at Los Angeles, was third, with Harold Smith of Los Angeles fourth.

From the very first dives the Americans began to take the best points in the international field of nine competitors, Des Jardines quickly establishing himself as a favorite with the crowd with a fine standing backward somersault that gained maximum points, a success which he repeated in the next dive with a running backward somersault.

The Americans were easily out in the front after the series of five compulsory dives. When the volunteer dives began, both Des Jardines and Galitzen dropped a few points with bad finishing in the half corkscrew, but in his second volunteer effort Peter cinched his victory by gaining the maximum, which he repeated with his fifth beautifully executed corkscrew.

Japan Has Champion

In the final stages Simaiki picked up a few points over Galitzen, nearly winning the maximum with his fifth. Galitzen and Smith were definitely out of first place with the last dives of the day when both failed to do as well as Des Jardines.

Japan provided a new Olympic champion for the men's 200 meters breast stroke. The winner was Yoshiyuwin Tsuruta, Tokio, pressman, who beat the world champion, Ernst Rademacher. The time of the Japanese was 2:48 4-5, while Rademacher was second in 2:50 3-5. The German made a desperate effort to overhaul the Japanese in the last 50 meters amid tremendous applause from the large Teutonic section of the crowd, but Tsuruta touched a good yard ahead of Rademacher.

George Kojac of New York again showed his superior class in the semi-finals of the men's 100 meters backstroke, winning easily in 1:10 from Irye of Japan. In the other semi-final, America finished first and second. Walter Laufer of Chicago swam in 1:13 2-5 and Paul Wyatt of Uniontown, Pa., in 1:14 1-5. Kojac has tomorrow's final under his belt.

Borg Beats Crabbe

The semi-finals of the men's 400 meters free style was interesting mainly because it brought Lester Crabbe of Honolulu into the pool with Arne Borg. The matchless Swede won in 5:05 2-5. Crabbe was second in 5:06 1-5, with Austen Clapp of Hollywood also qualifying in 5:06 4-5.

In the other semi-final the best was Ezolla of the Argentine, with Charlton of Australia, second. Raymond Ruddy of New York was third. Borg has to fall to pieces tomorrow not to win the final, but Crabbe, most impressive quarter miler of the American team, ought to take second.

Agnes Geraghty of New York, the Paris Olympic champion, was eliminated in the semi-final of the women's 200 meters breast stroke, finishing fourth. This event was noteworthy because Hilda Schrader of Germany established a new world record in 3:11 1-5. The hefty German girl was an easy first, and little Jane Fauntz of Chicago, swimming in the adjoining lane, must have been discouraged, for she finished last. However, Margaret Hoffman of Scranton maintained American interest in the final by qualifying with third place.

U. S. Asks Reconsideration Of Boundary Dispute

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. (AP)—The United States in a note to Honduras delivered at Tegucigalpa today declared it felt Secretary Kellogg's proposal that that country and Guatemala submit their boundary dispute to the International Central American tribunal for settlement, which Honduras declined July 27, is still open to acceptance by Honduras and hopes that government will give careful reconsideration to the matter.

GOVERNMENT CROP REPORT SENDS COTTON PRICES SKYWARD

VALUES GAIN AFTER SLMUP

Market Closes 78 to 83 Points Higher

Publication of the government cotton crop report put prices sharply higher yesterday, the values gaining $5 to $8 immediately after the report was made public.

Later market developments sent the prices down but the close was steady and at advances of 78 to 83 points.

The staple was in small demand when the market opened, but belief that the Florida coast disturbance might work up the eastern coast caused some buying. After the report was made public the tone of the market changed completely.

The official figures placed the crop condition at 67.9 per cent and the indicated crop at 14,291,000 bales or about a half million bales below recent private estimates.

Cotton Takes Sharp Gain On Local Market

Local cotton brokers only partially met the increase in cotton middling on the close of Wednesday's market with quotations by R. O. Harvey company of 19 cents and by D. W. Wiley of 19.10 cents, 50 and 35 points higher than Tuesday's close. Grain markets were unchanged.

Produce markets saw arrival of the first of the year's crop of yams from South Texas offered at 8½ to 9 cents. California Gravenstein apples also reached local markets, quoted at $3 per box. Poultry and creamery prices showed no change.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Aug. 8. (AP)—A jump of approximately $5 to $8 a bale in cotton prices followed publication of the government crop report today. December contracts, which had sold off to 19.00, or into new low ground for the movement before the report, sold up to 20.33, compared with 19.22 at the close the previous day. This advance was checked by southern selling and realizing, and later fluctuations were irregular, but after reacting to 19.65, December steadied up again, closing at 20.03. The general market closed steady at net advances of 78 to 83 points.

The market was nervous and irregular preceding the official report. The opening was steady at an advance of 7 to 14 points on relatively steady cables. Apprehensions that a gulf disturbance might possibly work up the south Atlantic coast extending into the eastern belt, appeared to be responsible for some covering or a little local buying.

The comparatively small demand was soon supplied, and the market eased on a favorable impression of weather conditions otherwise, which seemed to promote pre-bureau liquidation by recent buyers. Active months sold 20 to 25 points net lower just before business was suspended to receive the government report. October declining to 19.10 and January to 18.90.

The official figures placing the condition at 67.9 and the indicated crop at 14,291,000 bales was about half a million bales below the average of recent private reports, and evidently surprised the market. There was a rush of buying on the resumption of trading after the 20-minute interval, and the market almost immediately sold up to 20.75 for October and 20.05 for January on covering and some fresh buying which appeared to come from abroad and from local and Wall street interest. The South was credited with selling freely on this advance, which attracted considerable realizing and there were quick reactions of 30 to 75 points, followed by irregular fluctuations, but steadiness marked the late trading. The census report showing 87,888 bales ginned prior to August 1 attracted little comment as attention was monopolized by the crop figures and conjectures as to their probable effects on buyers of cotton and cotton goods.

Exports today 15,087, making 61,510 so far this season. Port receipts 3,570. U. S. port stocks 534,349.

P. LORILLARD COMPANY
Five-Year Record

The manufacture of plug and smoking tobaccos, little cigars and cigarettes, constitutes the activities of the P. Lorillard company. The concern only in late years has expanded into the cigarette field with a blended type called "Old Gold." The company is engaged in an extensive advertising campaign to push this product and the reception has been reported to be satisfactory.

Plant facilities have been enlarged, but the company is now in the midst of a price war involving the four great cigarette manufacturing concerns in the country. At the close of 1927, sales of Old Gold cigarettes were reported to be about 20,000,00 a day. The company has more than a dozen factories scattered throughout the eastern section of the United States.

Since organization the company's earnings have been subject to somewhat wide fluctuations. The high year was 1922 when a profit of $6,888,000 was made. In 1926, profit amounted to approximately $4117,000. In 1927 net income dropped to $2,490,787, or $1.25 a share.

Funded debt totals $35,192,200. Capital stock outstanding consists of $11,307,600 in 7 per cent cumulative preferred shares of $100 par, and $33,993,550 in common stock of $25 par.

Dividends are being paid regularly on the preferred issue but the last payment on the common was April 1, 1927.

As of January 1, 1928, current assets totaled $65,839,321; current liabilities were $4,516,241, and net working capital $61,322,980. Book value of the common stock amounted to $19.96 a share.

Report of Du Pont's Resignation Is Factor in Falling Stock Market

By BROADAN WALL
Universal Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, Aug. 8.—Motors and money put the stock market lower today. Report that Du Pont would resign from General Motors caught most of the street by surprise and its effect was enhanced when the banks called $15,000,000 more loans, putting the rate from a renewal of 6½ to 7 per cent.

Here and there Durant and others threw in support but the only bull feature of the day was Pathe which was skyrocketed on merger rumor.

General Motors started sliding from the opening and dropped gradually until at the close it lost 5 points. Warner dropped more than 3, Chrysler 2, radio over a point, with Montgomery Ward and other recent favorites showing similar declines at the close. Sinclair and a few other oils were active for a while but sentiment was too disturbed to permit of the activity attracting a following and most of the group lost fractionally. Railroads dropped lower also in comparatively light trading.

Motors Conferences

Most of the higher General Motors officials were in the city in important conferences during the day, while Durant stayed down at Deal and prayed for special dividend action.

The feeling grew as the day progressed that if Du Pont resigned, his action might be offset by an increase in the regular dividend to a $6 rate which appears warranted by the $9 a share earnings of the first six months of the year.

The corporation also has a substantial amount of authorized stock which it could issue. If Du Pont's associates in the corporation are unable to persuade him to remain as an active official, it was thought that he would announce that his investment and that his associates in the corporation will not be disturbed.

It was the rumor indicating that the first break had occured in the ranks of the "big ten" that was responsible for the softness in most other recent favorites. Montgomery Ward's drop was recorded in the face of report that a splitup might be expected soon and Sears Roebuck with other store stocks followed it downward.

Radio's decline was due in part to the unsatisfactory earnings of the second quarter. Large holdings were not disturbed as they are owned by those looking to income years hence. Steel slumped with the rest of the list although tonnage report today is expected to show no change of importance in unfilled business while the Mid-West reviews reported sustained demand at an unusually high level for this season of the year.

Pathe's strength was accompanied by advance in Keith which added to merger rumors. Those usually correct on Pathe, however, declared there was no foundation for such a report but maintained that the stock had been out of line with shares of other companies going in for talking pictures.

Fox group tried to get their favorite to emulate Warner on the same talking picture influence but met too much opposition in the general irregularity to attract much of a following.

Can Loses Gain

Continental Can soared early as a leading wire house sent out a special analysis, but also lost all its gain under the effect of continued weakness in the balance of the list. Small capitalization of Continental, it was pointed out, suggested possibility of ultimate splitup or stock dividend.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW
By THOMAS TEMPLE HOYNE

CHICAGO, Aug. 8. (US)—Wheat prices broke badly today in the liquidating market which, due to favorable crop conditions and slow export trade, has lasted for five consecutive days. New lows for the crop and for the past four years were registered. Weakness of the foreign markets was an important factor in the sharp decline here.

Corn was weak early and prices slipped with wheat, but later short covering lent strength to the September delivery and most of the losses were recovered. Oat prices were lower and they almost kept pace with wheat in the downward movement.

At the close wheat was 2c to 2½c lower, corn steady to ⅛c off, oats ¼c to ⅜c lower and rye was down 1½c to 2⅜c. Winnipeg futures finished 1⅜c to 2c off.

Liverpool finished the session 2⅝d to 3⅛d lower, and Buenos Aires at midsession was 1⅝c to 2⅛c lower. Cables said that both markets were demoralized. However, the decline in the local market while sharp was of an orderly nature with shorts covering for profit as prices receded.

Corn had a heavy tone in the early trading, due to pressure on the far months caused by favorable weather and a message from Texas asking for bids on new corn, 15-day shipment.

September was relatively firm due to strength in the cash market. The spot basis was unchanged and firm and prices were steady to 1c lower. Local shipping sales of corn were 125,000 bushels, apart from the sales made by the leading holders, which were reported to be of large volume.

There was some scattered liquidation in oats, but most of the decline in prices was attributed to the influence of the weakness in corn and wheat. Rye prices followed practically the same course as wheat.

SOUTHWESTERN REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 8. (AP)—(U.S.D.A.)—Cattle receipts around the 11-market circuit were estimated at 36,000, an increase of 5,300 over a week ago, but a shortage of 11,000 of the same day last year. Beef steers and yearling trade was marked by considerable unevenness. # TWO NEW TITLE BILLS DRAFTED

Texas and Foreign Firms Would Be Affected

Special to The Record News.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 8.—Legislation affecting both Texas title guaranty corporations and foreign corporations in the same business is now being drafted here for introduction at the 41st legislature.

A conference of title guaranty and casualty officials with R. B. Cousins, commissioner of agriculture, outlined some of the conflicting interests of the various groups. Representative W. T. Williams of Travis county, who has called what he considers glaring inequalities of present laws to the attention of the insurance department, will draft and offer some of the legislation.

There are three groups:

"Title guaranty" corporations, simple private corporations outside the jurisdiction of the insurance department.

Casualty companies engaged in writing title guarantee certificates, which are required to maintain a legal reserve and are subject to jurisdiction of the insurance commission.

Foreign title guaranty corporations, which are not required to maintain any legal reserve in Texas.

Two Bills Advocated

Two bills which Mr. Williams advocates are:

One to require the title corporations to set up a legal reserve to protect the certificates they write, and to make these corporations subject to the state insurance department, just as are casualty, life and fire insurance companies.

Another to bring the foreign title companies under the Robertson life insurance law, which requires companies to keep 75 per cent of their legal reserve in Texas or invested in Texas securities.

DEATH TAKES DEMO CHIEF

Geo. E. Brennan, Chicago 'Genius,' Succumbs

CHICAGO, Aug. 8. (US)—George E. Brennan, nationally known Democratic chieftain of Illinois died here today. He had waged a terrific fight for the past 10 days against an infection that followed the extraction of two teeth.

The 63-year-old political leader never rallied to consciousness from the coma into which he had fallen before his death.

Dr. C. R. G. Forrester, Mr. Brennan's personal physician, said immediate death was due to diabetic poisoning and coma. The infection or septic condition following the extraction of teeth had been driven out.

Family at Bedside

At 2:30 this morning, his temperature jumped from 103 to 105. From there on the veteran Democrat sunk rapidly until claimed by death.

When the end came, Mr. Brennan was surrounded by his family, the Rev. Father Scanlon, two sisters, Mrs. Jennie Fogarty and Miss Jane Brennan, a brother and State Representative Joseph L. Gill and his wife. The priest conveyed the death news to waiting reporters.

Mr. Brennan was perhaps one of the most dominant powers ever enlisted in the ranks of Democracy. His political sagacity was legend throughout party circles.

Political Genius

Mr. Brennan, a maker of presidential candidates, and generally recognized in Illinois as the genius behind the throne, never held but one public office. He was appointed in 1892 to a minor clerk's position in the office of the secretary of state.

He was never a candidate but once. That was in 1926, when he was prevailed upon to run against Col. Frank L. Smith for senator. He was defeated, but Smith was never allowed to take office.

Mr. Brennan was born in New York City 63 years ago, but as a lad he came to Illinois, where he settled in the mining town of Braidwood, near Joliet.

He worked in the mines by day, and studied at night, to augment the learning he had taken from the public schools. Finally, he gave up mining. He became a teacher, and then allied himself with the Democratic councils.

Succeeded Sullivan

His first position was in the state house at Springfield. When his term was ended he came to Chicago, schooled in the politics of those who controlled the state. The Democrats were then fighting themselves and Brenan gained the reputation of giving no quarter. When Roger Sullivan died, Brennan took the reins.

In 1920 he went to San Francisco with the avowed purpose of making Al Smith the presidential candidate. Failing in that, he whipped the Tammany organization together and succeeded in nominating James M. Cox of Ohio.

In 1923, Mr. Brennan gave out the word that Judge William Dever would be the Democratic candidate for mayor of Chicago. He was elected.

In 1927, Dever, again a candidate, was swept under the avalanche of Republican votes.

Opposed McAdoo

In 1924 Brennan went to the notorious New York Democratic convention, and there as in San Francisco, he defeated William Gibbs McAdoo for the presidential nomination, even though he lost for Al Smith.

In later years, becoming a party harmonizer, he succeeded at the harmonious Houston convention in nominating Al Smith on the first ballot. It is generally assumed that it was through the efforts of Mr. Brennan that Smith received his nomination on the first ballot.

Mr. Brennan has been an avowed wet since the advent of the prohibition amendment and the Volstead act.

But through all of his political life, Mr. Brennan has kept as far in the background as possible. Political leaders here say that never has a politician had so much power, and yet has been so little in the public prints.

GEM: "Underworld." Western. Comedy.

The thousands of screen fans who knew and loved Norma Shearer for her great work in "The Student Prince" as well as those who admired the traveling saleswoman in "The Latest from Paris," will find both of their favorite characters combined in Miss Shearer's new picture, "The Actress," which opened Wednesday at the Majestic.

In "The Actress," Miss Shearer is seen as a finished actress of ripened powers fully capable of using her abilities in the most dramatic manner.

Her delineation of the character of Rose is such as to reveal a woman of supreme charm who is at times a gay wrecker of human hearts, and again a serious searcher after the supreme truths of existence.

The picture is the screen adaptation of Sir A. W. Pinero's "Trelawney of the Wells." The plot concerns an actress in one of the minor theatres of London who is in love with a son of an objecting old aristocrat. The old man does not want his son in love with an actress.

With this as a starting point, the story is developed along much the same lines as the original stage play.

O. P. Heggie, Owen Moore, Roy D'Arcy, Ralph Forbes and Cyril Chadwick are seen in excellent roles which are well done.

All in all the play is one of the really good pieces of screen entertainment of the summer, and deserves the support of those who enjoy good entertainment.

Headed by Frank Creighton, Wichita Falls Boy Scout executive, a party of 17 honor scouts, selected from the scouts at the Wichita area camp this summer, will leave Wichita Falls Thursday morning at 7 o'clock for a 10-day tour of the Gulf coast.

In addition to Mr. Creighton and the honor campers the party will consist of Taylor Cash of Electra, scoutmaster and camp director; Willard Price, Childress scoutmaster; Robert Tabor of Vernon, deputy scout commissioner, and a negro cook. The party will travel in two large trucks carrying the duffle, bedding and cooking utensils.

Stops will be made at Fort Worth, Waco, Austin, New Braunfels, San Antonio, Georgetown, San Marcos, Houston and Galveston. A feature of the tour will be a trip through an ocean-going liner at Galveston.

The party will return to Wichita Falls by way of Houston, Bryan, Corsicana, Dallas and Sherman.

Electra Lions Add Gifts To Zoo Here

Two blue peafowls, frequently known as peacocks, are being donated to the Wichita Falls municipal zoo by B. M. Dickey of the Lions club of Electra, and an armadillo is being given to the zoo by the Electra Lions club, it was announced at the park department Wednesday.

The peafowl is considered the most beautiful bird in the world and has a way of spreading its brilliantly multicolored feathers in the shape of a gigantic fan. Because of an old superstition that this bird was a bird of ill fortune and that it stood for the vice of vanity, it has diminished in numbers in recent years. Many breeders will have nothing to do with the peafowl because of the bad luck superstition.

The two birds coming to the zoo were raised by Mr. Dickey and are now about half grown.

Injunction Hearing Today First Step In $212,000 Suit Against City

Application for an injunction restraining the city of Wichita Falls from dumping refuse into the Wichita river will be heard by Judge E. G. Thornton in 30th district court here Thursday morning at 9 o'clock. The injunction hearing marks the start of legal action involving a claim for $212,500 damages against the city, oil companies and laundry concerns here.

The damage suit and petition for injunction were filed by D. G. Whitney and others, represented by the law firm of Fitzgerald and Hatchitt. The petitioners claim that the dumping of refuse into the river tends to preserve rather than dispose of it. The oil, it is stated, solidifies all refuse in the water until finally it is dumped in solid form upon the banks.

The damage is claimed on 750 acres of land, situated on the banks of the river, owned by Mr. Whitney and a brother. The land, which petitioners claim is damaged in the amount of $212,500, is used chiefly for truck farming.
