Nixon to Reveal Cabinet Choice

William Rogers Expected to Be State Secretary

WASHINGTON (UPI)—William P. Rogers, a Washington, D.C., lawyer with limited diplomatic experience, is expected to be named secretary of state by his longtime friend President-elect Richard M. Nixon.

A source close to Nixon said Tuesday Rogers was a "good bet" for the top post in the Nixon cabinet. He served in the Eisenhower cabinet as attorney general between 1957-1961.

Rogers' formal diplomatic experience came in 1967 as U.S. representative to the United Nations General Assembly and, during the same period, as a member of the U.N. ad hoc committee on South Africa.

Rogers, 56, has been a close friend of Nixon since the latter was a congressman in the late 1940's.

When Eisenhower suffered his heart attack in Denver in 1955, Nixon, then vice president, went to Rogers' home first for advice.

In the 1951 presidential campaign, Rogers was Nixon's closest political adviser. It was he who advised Nixon to go to the public for support to answer charges that he had put to personal use a special fund raised by businessmen to help defray his political expenses as a senator.

The result was the famous "Checkers" speech in which the vice presidential candidate referred to Checkers, a cocker spaniel which a Texas admirer had sent as a gift for his daughters. He said no matter what happened to him, he intended to keep the pet.

Rogers' public career started as assistant district attorney for

A spokesman said Nixon and Agnew would hold private discussions at Nixon's Hotel Pierre headquarters prior to an evening meeting with the whole cabinet. At his unprecedented television extravaganza in the Paladium room of the Shoreham Hotel, Nixon will introduce both the cabinet members and their families who, along with a few invited guests, will make up the live audience.

The cabinet will be introduced at 9 p.m. CST.

Nixon gave some hints of his cabinet's coloration Tuesday when he told newsmen most would be "generalists rather than specialists."

"We want to be sure that each of these men does not feel that it is his responsibility simply to develop a policy without having in mind the effect it will have on the total environment of our urban and rural communities," Nixon said. The president-elect met with

Christmas Spirit May Be Dimmed By Flu Attacks

ATLANTA (UPI)—Millions of Americans will open their homes this Christmas to the Hong Kong flu bug as well as to visiting relatives and friends. The new flu strain already has swept into 28 states and an official at the National Communicable Disease Center (NCDC) in Atlanta predicted Tuesday it would visit all 50 before spring.

The big problem is Christmas, said Dr. Bruce Dull, assistant director of the NCDC.

"There's no question that all the movement of people during the Christmas holidays who are ill or who likely have the virus will cause a spread of the flu," he said.

The NCDC statement came at the same time as an announcement by New York City health officials that the Hong Kong flu is at an epidemic rate in the city.

The city health department reported a rise in deaths from pneumonia, which it said often documentary, "What Trees Do They Plant?" and the "White Paper" which presented the city's side of police clashes with demonstrators.

The documentary, shown over many television stations across the nation, put the blame for clashes on demonstrators it said came to Chicago determined to start trouble. The white paper said 641 persons were arrested during the trouble.

The persons who filed the suit said they either were arrested during the convention, were humiliated or harassed by police, or were taxpayers.

Among them was Sidney Lens, co-chairman of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, the group which played a leading role in organizing anti-Vietnam War demonstrations during the convention.

The suit also asks that Daley, Conlik and other city officials be made to personally reimburse the city, state and U.S. governments for funds spent on police overtime and deployment of military troops during the convention.

Police Checking Out Leads For Armed Robbery

Pampa police were busy checking out leads today in the armed robbery Tuesday night at Ward's Minit Mart, 710 N. Hobart.

Two masked gunmen took an undetermined amount of cash after tying up Doris Kelley, 1017 Duncan, a cashier at the store, and Velda Huddleston, 1513 N. Christy, a customer in the establishment.

One of the men was described as white, 23-25 years of age, 5', 8" and of slender build with brown hair and a ruddy complexion. The other man was described as 25-28 years of age, about six feet tall, of slender build.

One of the men had on a long white coat, the type butchers wear, and both had tin construction-type hats on when they ran from the store.

Early this morning Southwest Investment Co. in Amarillo was robbed of about $800 by two white men, but Pampa police were not sure if they were the same two subjects.

The men who robbed the Amarillo business were seen leaving in a 1968 maroon Corvete with an Oklahoma license tag.

But Tuesday night, about 10:50 p.m., a man walked into the Pampa Minit Mart, went behind a counter and put on a nylon stocking as a mask.

He then told the cashier, "Don't do anything and you won't get hurt." The woman was then taken to a back room

Fleet Continues 'Routine' Cruise

ISTANBUL (UPI)—U.S. officials said two American destroyers moved quietly today in the Black Sea, halfway through a five day cruise denounced by the Soviet Union and its allies.

U.S. defense spokesmen at 6th Fleet headquarters in Naples, Italy, in London and in Washington gave few details of the cruise of the destroyers Dyess and Turner beyond saying the ships remained clear of Soviet, Bulgarian and Romanian territorial waters.

In Washington, asked if the ships were bothered by Soviet planes or vessels, a Defense Department spokesman told United Press International, "I do not know." U.S. spokesmen said the ships were doing only "routine drills."

The Soviets, who regard the Black Sea as theirs, have denounced the Monday-Friday cruise as a "provocation." Bulgaria echoed Moscow's words.

The Soviets have aired their objections along with reporting a boost in military spending in next year's Moscow budget.

Unofficial observers here said the Dyess and Turner were engaged in an American response to the Soviet naval buildup in the Mediterranean Sea.

Previous U.S. naval visits to the Black Sea had not elicited such violent Soviet outbursts.

The Russians have called the destroyers "unwelcome guests." The Soviet expression conflicted with the ancient Greek and Latin era name for the Black Sea, when it was called Pontus Euxinus which translates roughly as "hospitable sea" or "nice to strangers."

CHRISTMAS TOYS — The Pampa Fire Department, one of the biggest benefactors for the city's underprivileged children, assembled these toys in preparation for the Salvation Army's third annual Christmas party to be held Dec. 23. Looking over the set of toys prior to their transfer to the Salvation Army building for the Christmas distribution are, left to right, Fireman Tommy Brewer, SA Capt. Jesse Duncan, and Fire Capt. Robert Young. The toys are all new and were purchased with funds from the annual Fireman's Charity Ball. The VFW will also receive some toys for distribution to underprivileged children this year.

MIDDLE EAST CRISIS HEATING UP

Israeli and Jordanian Troops Renew Fighting Near Border

TEL AVIV (UPI)—Israeli and Jordanian troops battled with tanks, machineguns and bazookas across the Jordan River today for the first time in six days.

It followed Tuesday's aerial dogfighting between Israeli and Egyptian planes.

In Amman, a Jordanian spokesman said today's 15-minute fight began at 7 a.m. with Israeli soldiers opening fire on a Jordanian patrol near the Al-Majami bridge.

Israeli military officials in Jerusalem said the Jordanians started it with a bazooka barrage into Israeli soldiers on patrol at 6 a.m.

In Beirut newspapers said the air raids Wednesday helped trigger a wave of anti-American and anti-Israeli violence in Baghdad that killed 39 persons.

The Beirut newspaper Al-Bayraq today said shooting erupted in various parts of Baghdad after a group of "attackers" set fire to municipal cars. The paper said Iraqi troops and tanks put down the demonstrations.

None of the newspapers reported exactly when the outbreak occurred in the past few days.

In Baghdad, Iraqi President Ahmad Al-Bakr urged his nation to support Arab guerrillas "so that the blitzes of the battle against Zionist invaders can continue glowing."

Here, former Gov. William Scranton of Pennsylvania concluded visits to Israel, Jordan and Egypt saying he thought the chances of renewed war in the Middle East were declining.

Israeli jets and Egyptian MIG-17s battled above the Red Sea Tuesday. Israel said its pilots shot down one MIG and sent another fleeing home, trailing smoke from the second dogfight since the June, 1967, war.

Jordanian anti-aircraft gunners reported driving off Israeli planes from the city of Mafraq, reportedly the base for Iraqi jets in Jordan. Iraqi gunners said they downed an Israeli plane in the same area.

The flurry of combat in Middle East skies accompanied Israel claims that Jordanian gunners opened up with artillery into the outskirts of its Kfar-Rupin settlement in the Beisan Valley. There were no casualties.

Israeli officials said the Egyptian MIGs that tangled with their fighters were probing air defenses south of the Strait of Tiran, Israel's only access to its port of Elath at the head of the Gulf of Aqaba.

In Amman, Jordan said the flight of Israeli jets threatening Mafraq was the third Israeli violation of Jordanian air space in nine days.

In Beirut, 13 Arab nations concluded an eight-day confer-

Saigon Rejects Direct Talks with Viet Cong

PARIS (UPI)—North Vietnam said today it is ready to discuss the mutual withdrawal of troops from South Vietnam as soon as the Paris conference on Vietnam is convened.

Nguyen Thanh Le, the chief Hanoi spokesman in Paris, told newsmen:

"The Americans will be able to raise this and any other question — but first the conference must start."

Two major setbacks today again made start of the talks problematical. South Vietnam rejected direct Vietnam talks with the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese were reported to have cold shouldered French mediation efforts.

Le made the remark in commenting on a statement by U.S. Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford Tuesday that Washington and Hanoi might start withdrawing their troops from South Vietnam within 40 days.

Le was offhand in his reply, but North Vietnamese sources said he meant the matter would be open for discussion. The source did not say the North Vietnamese would be willing to offer any compromise.

Le said the problem of withdrawal of troops in South Vietnam had not been discussed so far.

He said the private meetings had been devoted to working out procedural problems — for a broadened conference, which would include the Saigon government and the National Liberation Front (NLF) of the Viet Cong.

The North Vietnamese have never really admitted they had several divisions in South Vietnam fighting on the side of the Viet Cong, so Hanoi's readiness to discuss Clifford's suggestions could mean simply they were willing to discuss the pullout of U.S. troops. Clifford spoke of a mutual withdrawal.

On the positive side, North Vietnam was believed to have withdrawn some of its troops from the South as an unpublished goodwill gesture, although U.S. Defense Secretary Clark M. Clifford Tuesday said that at the same time, the North Vietnamese spokesman accused the United States and Saigon of "stepping up the war." He also reaffirmed North Vietnam's demands the Viet Cong be granted equal status with the United States, South Vietnam and North Vietnam.

The question of representation at the moment centers around the seating arrangements. South Vietnam earlier today flatly rejected any attempt to seat the NLF as its equal. It pledged to walk out of any negotiations if the guerrillas display their flag or a name plate in the conference room.

France was reported to have tried to intervene, indirectly, to get the talks started but failed.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Some chapters of the American Association of University Women are opposing a drive by the organization in behalf of an educational fund named for the widow of slain Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The opponents, mostly representing southern and southwestern chapters, voted against contributing to the "Coretta Scott King Educational Fund."

Their chief complaint is that the AAUW governing board should not have set up the fund without clearing it with all the AAUW's 177 thousand members. About one-half dozen chapters are involved.

"We have had opposition to the program from some branches and some members," said Mary Boyette, spokesman for the national headquarters in Washington. She said "the opposition has been small in comparison to the support."

The group has raised about $11,000 to date. The goal is $150,000 by June, 1969.

"There is no doubt that the John Birchers are having a voice in this Texas," she said, "and many southerners feel strongly against it elsewhere." Texas has contributed $97 from the state organization.

In a letter of explanation to 1,640 branches of the organization mailed in October, Mrs. Neville Massa, chairman of the fund, wrote:

"I wish that each of our members might have been with me in Washington this June when the board of directors and the state presidents were meeting. There was an air of urgency, a feeling of impatience with the routine order of things, and above all a desire to act. Educated women felt that time was running out and that as an association we must become involved in the issues of the day. From these meetings came the motion to provide the fund."

Band, Choir Students Ready for LA Trip

It's almost count-down time for Pampa's Los Angeles '68 project. Luggage and band instruments were to be loaded at 6 p.m. today for the 9 a.m. departure Thursday from Pampa High School.

The five buses plan to take the southern route through Albuquerque and Gallup, N.M., and Flagstaff, Ariz. Students, sponsors and trip visitors will arrive in Los Angeles, Calif., about 11 a.m. Friday and rehearse Friday afternoon for the half-time performance at the Los Angeles Rams-Baltimore Colts football game Sunday.

Saturday's schedule includes Disneyland and a visit to the Dean Martin Show. The Los Angeles Rams-Baltimore Colts National Football League game will be telecast over CBS-TV, locally Channel 10 at 3:05 p.m. Pampa time, with the band and choir's half-time performance scheduled between 4 and 4:30 p.m. Sunday, Bill Davis, choir director, said today.

"We still have room for 12 more to go, if they call tonight at MO 5-5364 or they can call Harris Brinson, the band director, MO 4-8836," Davis said.

"The bus fare of $45 includes entry to the game. We plan to take a colored sound film of the half-time performance and other movie pictures of our trip."

Those making the trip include 163 students, including 51 choir members and 117 band members, 18 sponsors and two drivers, and several parents and other visitors.

"We just barely made the money to finance the trip, and to be on the safe side for expenses, we could still use about $1,000 in the Los Angeles '68 fund," Davis said.

The Los Angeles '68 financial goal was $15,000. The Band Boosters' Club treasurer, Mrs. Phyllis Laramore, said the fund raising projects collected $14,361.90.

"I know we had that much, because I've already spent it. We expect some more checks to come in, because all the funds for candy, cakes, and other projects aren't yet collected. I don't imagine we'll know exactly how much money we made until we get back," Mrs. Laramore said.

Winner of the band's house project was C. R. Bolin, 340 S. Gillespie. The house is located at 333 Miami St.

Jaycees Slate Full Weekend

Pampa Jaycees have slated a full weekend of activities Saturday when they will have a "regional smoker," their annual Christmas dance, and a party honoring the state Jaycee president.

Bud McVicker, president of the local chapter of Jaycees, said state president Bob Buck of San Antonio would head the list of guests at a 5 p.m. "regional smoker" in the basement of the First Methodist Church.

McVicker said other officials would include Morris Wilson of Pampa, a state director in the organization, and several regional officers. He said the "smoker" was primarily for the exchange of ideas.

The annual Christmas dance will be from 9 p.m. Saturday to 1 a.m. Sunday morning at the Sportsman's Club. Dance music will be provided by the Arcades from Berger. Admission is $7 per couple, Mc-

J. C. Hopkins, 2124 Coffee, was named general chairman of the 96th annual convention of Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sisters, to be held at Coronado Inn June 11.

Hopkins, along with others, was named at a meeting held last night at the Knights of Pythias Hall.

Others named on the planning committee were Knights Jack Eack, G. R. Fugate, Robert Elliott, A. L. Weathered, and B. B. Altman Jr.

On the Pythian Sisters committee were Mrs. Maggie Smith, Mrs. Lola Mae Fugate, Mrs. Doris Wilson and Mrs. Joyce Howell.

This committee will meet with Grand Chancellor Weathered and Grand Chief Hazel Walker, Fort Worth, at a meeting at Coronado Inn Sunday at 8 a.m. to meet with the Coronado Inn officials.

Police Suspect Possible Arson

Pampa police and the Pampa Fire Department are investigating a possible arson at the new Crystal Lounge, 324 S. Cuyler.

According to a Pampa police report, firemen received an anonymous telephone call about 12:30 a.m. Tuesday that the building was on fire.

Investigation showed the back door was open and pry marks were found. There was also a strong odor of gasoline in the building and a sample of a rug

Police Ring Campus After More Riots

WEST CHESTER, Pa. (UPI)—Classes resumed today at Cheyney State College but state police patrols ringed the campus to prevent further violence at the predominantly Negro school rocked by repeated disorders this semester.

About 180 helmeted state troopers moved onto the campus Monday afternoon to restore order after rampaging students, some from five other colleges, damaged the library, cafeteria, snack bar and administration building. Fifteen students were arrested.

Dr. Wade Wilson, college president, conferred with the militants in the Yarnall Hall men's dormitory but he refused to accede to their demands for the appointment of a judicial review board to reconsider the expulsion of nine black militant students more than a week ago.

The nine were expelled by Wilson on charges of roughing up a dean, bombing the lawn of his home and threatening students and faculty members.

He said it was established because domestic problems are now as significant as those concerning national security.

Nixon named Dr. Daniel P. Moynihan, 41, an urban affairs specialist and director of the Center for Urban Studies, run jointly by Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as his assistant for urban affairs.

Nixon looked to close personal friends and long-time associates to fill some key positions in the cabinet he will announce tonight.

Although members of the Nixon staff have been tight-lipped about his selections, sources in Washington said William P. Rogers, formerly attorney general in the administration of President Eisenhower and a friend of Nixon's for 20 years, was a sure bet for Secretary of State.

Rep. Melvin Laird of Wisconsin, a former congressional associate who emerged in the campaign as a valued Nixon adviser on both policy and political matters, was reported to be the new defense secretary.

By United Press International The first U.S. secretary of the treasury was Alexander Hamilton.

Other militants charged the nine were expelled illegally without a hearing and claimed at least three were innocent of wrongdoing.

Leon Benson, spokesman for the college, said the destructive demonstration "seemed to be a deliberate attempt to create support for the expelled nine." Authorities said only about 250 of the 1,500 students at the school took part in demonstrations against the expulsions and the militants broke through the doors but they left hurriedly when the state troopers were called out.

Wilhelmina Jones of Philadelphia, president of the militant Dormitory Council, said busloads of students from five other colleges took part in the disorders but they left hurriedly when the state troopers were called out.

She named the colleges as Morgan State at Baltimore; Lincoln University at nearby Lincoln, Pa.; Hampton Institute in Virginia; Howard University, Washington, D.C., and the Delaware Federal City College in Washington all predominantly Negro.

Wall Street Chatter

NEW YORK (UPI)—Shearson, Hammill & Co. expects the market to close the year with all the price indexes in new high ground. "Certainly the momentum and all the technical indications point in that direction . . . and the news background is providing sufficient fuel for a continued advance," the company notes. Over the longer term, the analyst suggests a degree of caution in investing. With the new administration likely to steer a conservative and perhaps deflationary economic course at the outset, "business news may not make such good reading as it does now," the firm points out, and stock prices are unlikely to sustain their present highs.

Standard & Poor's believes that the market in 1969 will be buoyed by a number of key factors. These include a mounting preference for stocks over cash, fueled by recurring monetary crises; a sharp rise in demand from institutional investors for common stocks; fear of inflation, and the continuing strength of the economy.

In 1967, President Theodore Roosevelt announced he would not be a candidate for another term.

Wall Street Chatter

Vanden Broeck, Lieber & Co. "seem to be supporting the demand for equities, possibly to an extent which will overlook near-term problems." The firm counsels however caution in the light of continued monetary uncertainty, emerging effects of the surtax and possible diminution of current military demand.

The moon is between its full phase and last quarter. The morning stars are Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history: In 1930, effects of the depression began to spread in New York, where the Bank of the United States, including 60 branch offices, closed its doors. In 1936, King Edward VIII abdicated his British throne to marry American divorcee Wallis Warfield Simpson. In 1941, four days after Japan's sneak attack on Pearl Harbor, Congress declared a state of war between the United States and Germany and Italy.

A thought for the day: British writer Lord MacAulay said, "His imagination resembled the wings of an ostrich. It enabled him to run, though not to soar."

Conference sources said France had suggested the allies and the Communists face each other seated behind semicircular tables. The North Vietnamese said they would insist on a square table, with each side equal.

South Vietnamese Ambassador Pham Dang Lam told newsmen his government had decided to reject North Vietnamese proposals giving the Viet Cong independent status.

In Saigon, Foreign Minister Tran Chanh Thanh told his House of Representatives his delegation will walk out of any talks in Paris if the Viet Cong show their flag or display the name plate.

Thanh also said the delegation would take the walk if North Vietnam refuses to "talk seriously." In such a case Saigon's delegation might come home, he said.

The struggle over procedure already has delayed since Nov. 6 the start of negotiations between the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong. Diplomats today said they could not predict when the conference might begin.

The dispute centered on the Communists' demands that the Viet Cong guerrillas of South Vietnam be given equal status with the Saigon government in the negotiations. The United States and South Vietnam have refused, insisting the Viet Cong enter the negotiations only as part of the Hanoi delegation.

At the United Nations, a special 126-nation political committee today took up a resolution calling on Israel to permit the immediate return of hundreds of thousands of Palestinian refugees.

Israeli Ambassador Michael Comay called the resolution "unacceptable." Some of the refugees fled as long ago as 1948 when Israel was founded. Others left during the 1967 war. They want to return under Arab control.

Worried Soviets Up Defense Budget by $1.1 Billion

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union upped its defense budget by $1.1 billion today in a move that reflected increased worries over alleged NATO "provocations" that followed the Warsaw Pact occupation of Czechoslovakia.

The balanced 1969 Soviet budget was presented to the Supreme Soviet (parliament) by Finance Minister Vasily Garbutov who put expenses at $148.51 billion and revenues at $148.74 billion.

(The dollar figures are based on the Russians official exchange rate which pegs the ruble at the artificial worth of $1.11. The total Russian budget, for example, was put at 133.8 billion rubles.)

The rise in defense spending had been expected, especially because of the outcry in the Soviet press over NATO developments and currently the visit to the Black Sea of two U.S. destroyers. Russia considers the Black Sea almost a private lake and has called the visit a provocation.

The Soviet defense budget had crept slowly upward from $14.9 billion in 1966 to $18 billion in 1967 and $18.5 billion in 1968 to $19.6 billion for 1969. Western observers noted that it did not include expenditures on rocketry and other scientific developments which could be used for military purposes. The new defense budget was 13.2 percent of all appropriations.

By DICK WEST

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Health programs in schools and public service messages on television are now being used to dissuade young people from smoking.

I don't know how effective the campaign is elsewhere, but at my house it has achieved results over and beyond what was originally intended.

I seldom light up a cigar at home any more that I don't get an anti-smoking lecture from my eighth grade daughter or second grade son.

"Don't you know smoking is bad for you, daddy?" eighth grade said the other evening.

"Yes, I know that," I replied. "Your little brother told me last night."

"Then why do you do it?" Children often think they can paint their parents into a corner with direct interrogation. Most parents, however, are more devious and cunning than children suspect.

"I'm trying to set a good example for you kids," I said. "I figure that if you see how bad smoking is for me, you will refrain from smoking yourselves."

Despite this ingenious rationale, however, I began to have guilt feelings about smoking in front of them. More and more, I found myself sneaking around to grab a few puffs where they wouldn't see me.

Last Saturday afternoon, second grade caught me smoking behind the woodshed. He was pretty stern about it.

"I understand why you are tempted to smoke," he said. "You see other parents doing it and you feel you have to go along with the crowd. It's natural for a man your age to identify with your peers."

"But if you let yourself be swayed like that, you will never develop any character of your own. You will always yield to the herd instinct even when you know that what you are doing is wrong."

"In the long run, other parents will respect you more if you show a little individuality and stand up for your own viewpoint."

He was telling it like it is, of course. But a child's control over a parent isn't as strong as it once was.

Modern parents are subjected to too many outside influences that dilute the teachings in the home.

"I know you mean well, son," I told him. "But you'll just have to let me make my own mistakes in my own way. Some day when you have children of your own, you'll understand what I mean."

ACB Officer Warns Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The executive vice president of the Associated Credit Bureaus today cautioned against "imprudent" action by Congress as Senate investigators opened an inquiry into the bureaus which hold cash-or-credit power over vast numbers of American consumers.

The executive, John L. Spafford, said "any legislation which might tend to erode the sources of information to credit bureaus, or limit the ability of bureaus to supply complete factual information to credit granters would be imprudent."

Spafford said in prepared testimony that "any such erosion of information would make it difficult for credit granters to reach intelligent and fair decisions about credit applicants."

Sanders said in prepared testimony that he has been blackballed by credit agencies because of a long-standing feud with members of the industry and apparently because he once filed a successful lawsuit against a credit bureau.

DEAR ABBY: I have an age old problem. An unfaithful husband, I've long suspected that he and the woman he has been transporting to and from work were more than "friends," so I started to watch him more closely. I followed him one night when he said he was going to visit his mother, and he went to her place. We had a showdown and they confessed they were "in love." I threatened to tell their employer if they did not stop seeing each other. They promised they would, but I think they are lying. I'm 42, have three children and I doubt if I can just "forgive and forget." Besides, I haven't worked in 16 years and he represents security to me.

I'll never be able to trust him again, and I'm sick of putting up a front for our friends. Should I divorce him and start over again at my age?

CONFUSED: Confusion is a temporary state, divorce a permanent one. I would not advise anyone to make a permanent move while in a temporary state. Evaluate this situation with your husband when you both have your wits about you and are less emotional and more objective. You can always divorce him. What's the hurry?

DEAR ABBY: I am a 35-year-old man who is tired of the bachelor life, all my friends are married and I would sincerely like to find a wife. I've a lot to offer as I'm good-looking (so I am told), own my own business, and I don't have any bad habits I could not break if I wanted to.

The problem seems to be that the minute a woman shows any serious interest in me, I back off. I like a challenge! It is said that the "fruit at the top of the tree is sweetest." Why is this so? And why must I insist on the unreachable?

STILL SINGLE: DEAR STILL: The fruit at the top of the tree isn't any sweeter than the fruit within your reach, you only imagine it is. The truth of the matter is that you probably do not really want the fruit. You just enjoy reaching for it.

DEAR ABBY: About a year ago I quit my job as an aid in a hospital to go home with a 90-year-old man who wasn't supposed to live much longer. He has one old maid sister who is his only living relative, and she is 88.

This old man has a lot of money, and I was told by his sister that if I went home from the hospital with him and stayed there until he died, I would get $5,000 in cash, and he would also leave his house to me.

Well, this old man's health seems to be getting better all the time, but I don't feel so good lately. I am a poor old lady 63 years of age and I quit my hospital job to come here to work for room and board and $20 a week. Now his sister tells me if I don't feel up to working, they will replace me with a male nurse. What about the promises?

MYRTLE: DEAR MYRTLE: If you have nothing in writing, you need a lawyer. If you can't afford one, seek help at your local Legal Aid Society.

Your birthday tomorrow: The coming year brings you superficial success. The challenge is to see beneath the circumstance and work steadily for solid savings, relationships. It is not enough just to go along with the turbulent times. Thursday's natives: pleasant people willing to live and let live, until seriously impeded. ARIES (Mar. 20-Apr. 19): With relative quiet and few tensions, keep rocking along with the rhythm of the day. Do the easy things. If time is available use it for your hobbies. TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Unusual conditions are a dragging experience today but result in higher rewards later. Promises are not kept. Leave your funds alone. GEMINI (May 21-June 20): An under-current of unrest begins in your home and neighborhood. Avoid stirring up animosity. Meet your mate halfway before the squabble grows into a full-blown argument. CANCER (June 21-July 23): Unscheduled flips of circumstance suddenly change all your plans. Help others bear up under emergency conditions. Little to do at the moment but pray. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Your information is outdated, or out of context, to the point of unreliability. Speculation gets out of hand, over involved, so the parlay does not pay out. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): People have misunderstood you somewhat; firmly try to prevent any unjustified criticism of you. Financial matters are capricious; hold fast. LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Care is essential today! Chemicals, medicines require proper handling according to instructions. Intuition (fortunately) runs ahead of impulses, so you reflect before acting. SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Financial matters are out today. Use caution in any travel, however brief or local. Act as if nothing were awry; ignore discrepancies in your environment. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Whims imperil your friendships. Los Angeles—Are you a woman whose figure is on the good side but might look perfect? You'll be thrilled by the new easy way science has discovered for you to become Suddenly Slim and yet completely comfortable. If you're more than 15 pounds overweight, or your waistline is larger than 33 inches, then this idea is not for you. If your weight problem falls within this range, then you can realize a new, smoother figure today, without diet or exercise.

Suddenly Slim is an all-new kind of 4-oz. girdle constructed of science fibers. One startling innovation is the sheer nylon front panel. This is permanently stiffened by a science process and cannot give or sag. It's surrounded by a slimming action border. A feather-tipped panel down each side of this girdle will contour your hips if they are a problem. The girdle itself is of a "wonder" Lycra spandex blend. It's a new power net consisting of rayon, acetate and spandex. It is so comfortable, but has such slimming strength, it gives your figure everything that's possible with a foundation. "Suddenly Slim," in both girdle and panty versions, is the peak achievement of the California design-gene, Olga.

Goal Tending Call Pushes Dons Past Harvesters

By RON CROSS
Sports Editor
AMARILLO — Palo Duro, with able assistance from Jack Scarborough and Carroll Berringer, numerous Pampa mistakes and ideal football-type conditions, beat the Harvesters, 55-53 in opening District 4-4A basketball action Tuesday night.

A goal tending charge on Pampa's Jim Gallman with 27 seconds to play gave the Dons its 13th, and last, lead of the night.

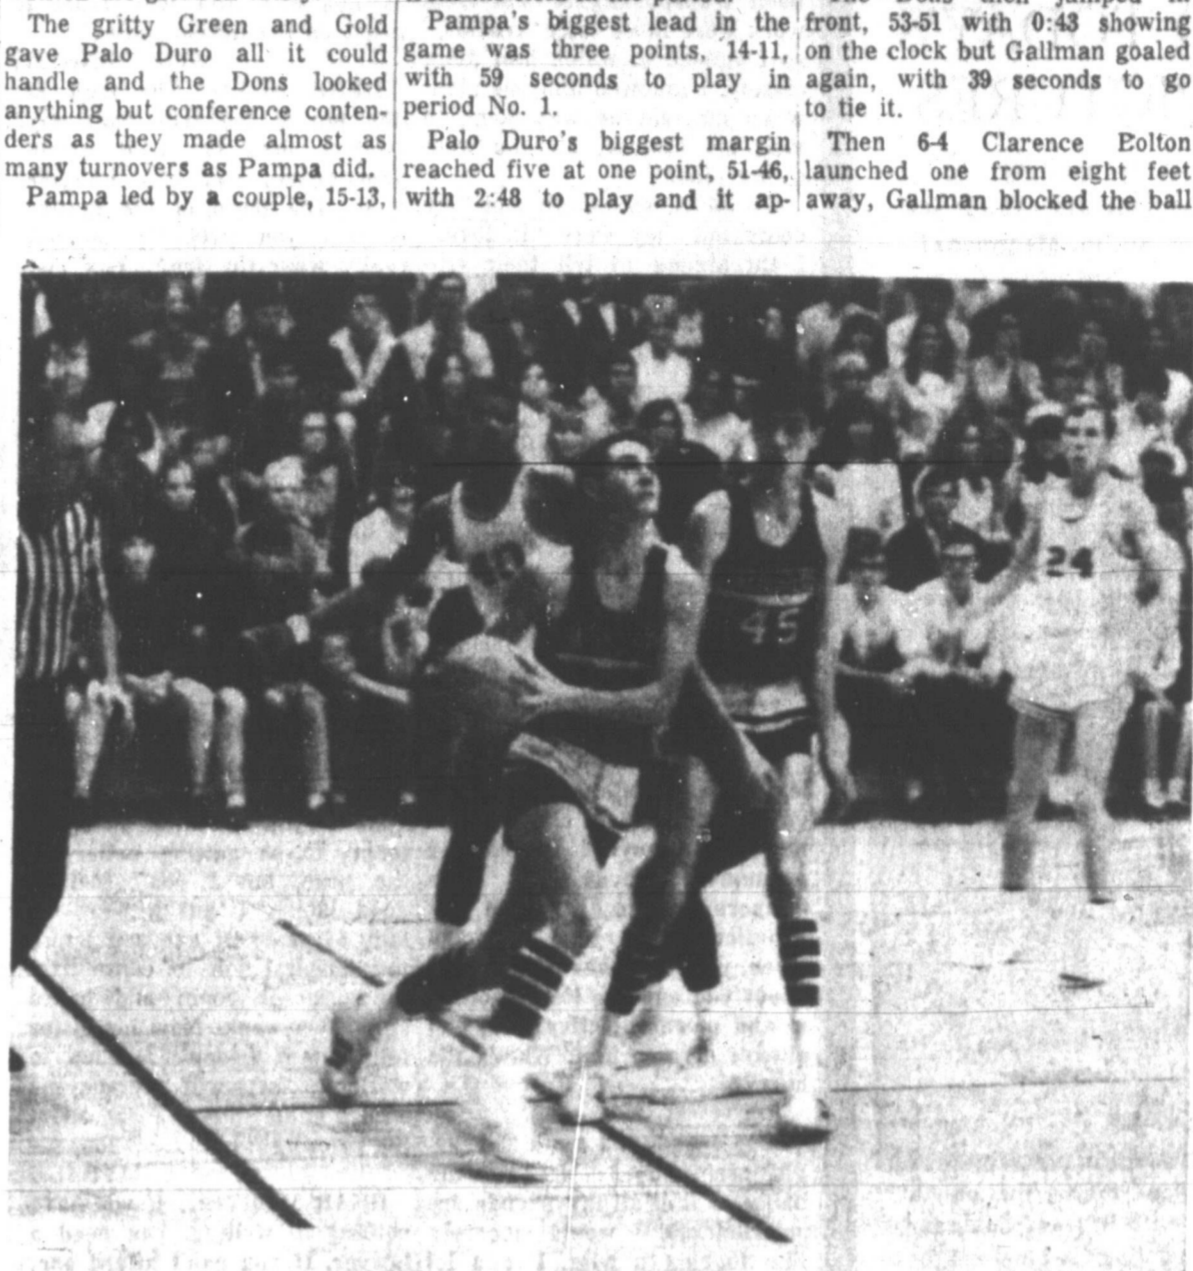

Palo Duro now stands 5-5 and 1-0 while the Harvesters are 3-2 and 0-1. Pampa hosts Amarillo here Friday night.

Although it was supposed to be a basketball contest the game, under the guidance of Scarborough and Berringer, who were signed to officiate the game, resembled more a football contest and everybody knows Pampa hasn't done too well on the gridiron lately.

The gritty Green and Gold gave Palo Duro all it could handle and the Dons looked anything but conference contenders as they made almost as many turnovers as Pampa did.

Pampa led by a couple, 15-13, after one period, on the shooting of Jim Hollis who tallied 10 of his 21 points in this period.

At halftime Palo Duro had cut the margin to a single point, 26-25, mainly because Hollis missed all seven shots he took from the field in the period.

DRIVING IN — Jim Hollis starts his drive toward the basket while Jim Gallman (45) screens for him. Hollis scored 21 points to pace Pampa.

But, as always Pampa did not quit, and a free throw by Gallman, baskets by Johnny Epperson and Gallman tied the count at 51-all with 1:31 to go.

The Dons then jumped in front, 53-51 with 0:43 showing on the clock but Gallman missed again, with 39 seconds to go to tie it.

Then 6-4 Clarence Bolton launched one from eight feet away, Gallman blocked the ball in the air and away from the boards.

But Scarborough, who was away from the play, called goal tending, while Derringer, who was two feet away from the action, called nothing.

Pampa still had two chances to knot the score again, but Hollis missed from the charity line twice and Gallman missed from under the basket with three seconds remaining.

Hollis led Pampa scoring with 21 points and Epperson hit in double figures for the first time this season, scoring 13, as did Billy Thomas, who contributed 10.

Bolton and Johnson paced Palo Duro with 16 points each and Jim Harris added 11.

The lead changed hands 24 times with Pampa holding it 11 times and the game was tied 18 times.

The Palo Duro B team shocked the Shockers, 62-48. Jordan scored 9, Thompson 10, Morris 15, Long 4, Wallace 2 and Hood 8 for Pampa.

LOOSE BALL — Pampa's Johnny Epperson goes for a loose ball in Pampa's 55-53 loss to Palo Duro Tuesday night.

Epperson scored a season high, 13 points against the Dons.

Ellis Next for Frazer

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—For Joe Frazer, it was Oscar Bonavena last night, tomorrow the world.

Frazer retained his share of the heavyweight title with a unanimous 15-round decision over awkward Bonavena Tuesday night and immediately announced through a swollen jaw that he would settle only with Jimmy Ellis, who holds the World Boxing Association version of the title, as his next opponent.

The 24-year-old Frazer, discounting deposed champion Cassius Clay, said a victory over Ellis would make him undisputed titleholder throughout the world.

However, it may take the unbeaten Philadelphian, recognized as champion in only five states and parts of the Orient and Latin America, several months before he is ready to get back in the ring. Frazer suffered a possible broken jaw against Bonavena and the doctor said they would wait for the swelling to subside before taking X-rays.

Frazer dominated the bout most of the way, nearly closing both of Bonavena's eyes with cuts and pounding him relentlessly to the body.

To get to the 25-year-old challenger, Frazer had to wade through a barrage of low blows, which drew numerous warnings from referee Joe Sweeney and cost Bonavena the eighth round.

Several times the referee seemed to lose control of the fight and Yank Durham, Frazer's manager, had to leap into the ring in the 10th round to keep the fighters from pummeling each other after the bell.

Sweeney, the only man in the ring to draw boos from the disappointing crowd of about 8,000, gave the bout to Frazer by the lowest margin, 70-67. Judges Dave Beloff had it 72-64 and Nate Lopinson 74-64.

"I think I didn't lose," said

Jr. Highs Win Three

Pampa eighth downed Berger Austin, 38-29 with Ricky Smith's 12 points leading the way. McCampbell scored 7, Freddy Wilbon 1; Don Proctor 4; Tim Holt 2; Clay Reeves 2; Danny Nickelberry 8; Terry Daughtery 1.

Pampa ninth ran its record to 2-1 with a resounding 63-54 win over Austin.

Larry Knutson tallied 28 for Pampa. Roy Bunton 14; Ray Hendrics 6; Darrell Nipp 4; Sam Vallaster 4; Al Ferguson 3; Jerry Holt 2; Cameron Cunningham 2.

Lee ninth won its fourth game without defeat, 50-41 over Dumas.

Garry Haynes scored 8; Marsh Gambin 12; Jeff Hogan 6; Mike Edgar 6; Dan Cain 6; Dale Ammons 3; Tom Montgomery 5; Greg Schultz 1; Randy Stephens 2; Tom Watson 1.

Dumas clipped Lee eighth 33-28 to hand the Rebels its first loss in three outings.

Randy Bloomer scored 12; Shane Lee 1; Rick McGuire 9; Bill Simon 4 and A. J. Brewer 2.

Pappas Has Eye on Baseball Czar's Job

NEW YORK (UPI) — The year's two biggest upsets were perpetrated by a pair of Greek boys.

One of them, Aristotle Onassis, shocked the whole world by marrying Jacqueline Kennedy, and the other one, Spiro Agnew, shocked himself by winning the Vice Presidency.

Now here comes another young fellow of Greek ancestry, an open admirer of the other two by the way, with a shocker of his own.

His name is Milt Pappas, he's a pitcher for the Atlanta Braves, and he'd like to be the next baseball commissioner. That's right, the next baseball commissioner.

Milt officially threw his hat in the ring at his home in Baltimore and if he ever gets the job, forget about the two upsets by those other Greek boys. This will be bigger than both of 'em.

Pappas proved he wasn't kidding about the commissioner-ship when he sat still for some questions Tuesday. He said he'd try answering them all. And he did.

Q. Are you serious about this?

A. Very serious. I don't think this is anything to fool around about.

Q. What makes you so qualified for the job?

A. I think it's the most important one in baseball and I'd like someone to get it who knows the players' side, the owners' side and the fans' side. Basically, a young man is accustomed to him. After a while, if he did a good job, he'd be needed. Someone who has imagination and can speak on his own without having to go to all 24 owners. The next commissioner should be a man who sits in on all player-owner negotiations. As a player representative for five years, I have. I honestly feel I know both sides from seeing and being in on so many negotiations.

Q. Don't you imagine people would laugh if a ball player was named commissioner?

A. They might at first but they wouldn't after they became accustomed to him. After a while, if he did a good job, he wouldn't be laughed at. They laughed at Mike Burke when he first took over the Yankees, didn't they? They don't laugh at him anymore.

Q. Where do you think Bill Eckert failed as commissioner?

A. The man wasn't brought up in baseball. He was thrown into an office he knew nothing about. He had to be told everything. That wouldn't have been the case had he been a baseball man. He wouldn't have had to go to committees for everything. I don't blame William D. Eckert. I blame the club owners for putting him in that spot.

Q. What ideas do you personally have for improving baseball?

A. For one thing, I'd consult the players before trying to change the rules. Now there's talk about lowering the mound. Did they ever take into account that a pitcher can hurt himself physically by throwing from a lower one? Then there's the question about two 12-club leagues. Why not have three leagues of eight clubs each instead? An eastern division, a central division and a western division. I think inter-league games are vital for the improvement of baseball, and I also think the fans should be polled about their ideas on how the game could be played quicker.

Q. Say by some miracle you did become commissioner, would you quit pitching?

A. Definitely. The commissioner-ship is no part-time job. I'd be something, wouldn't I? Player-commissioner, I mean.

Q. You do favor changing the baseball structure from the traditional to the modern, more progressive, don't you?

A. I'd have to say yes. Baseball is just like anything else in this day and age. By doing something different it has more appeal. You have to think ahead. Why be conservative all the time?

Q. What do you think the commissioner's chief function should be?

A. To have baseball's best interest at heart and to be able to see both sides, the players' and the owners'. I don't think you need to be a U.S. Supreme Court judge to do the job right. It's more a matter of having good common sense.

Q. What do you think of your chances of getting the job?

A. Not too good. I realize the owners are the ones who make the choice and it's going to be a long, long time before they're ever going to go for a ballplayer. The reason I'd like the job is because I'd love to do something for baseball. I'm only 29. I feel I've got four-five good years left pitching. But I'd be willing to give them up to serve as commissioner.

Milt, old boy, the initial reaction from the other side of your generous offer was, shall we say, lukewarm.

The first club official asked said he had no comment to make but the second one had. He said baseball can't afford to have good established pitchers like you quit for other jobs. He said it with a straight face, too.

Now what do you suppose he meant by that?

Frogs Beat Loyola With Hot Shooting

Houston Baptist Wn
Houston Baptist led most of the way to a win over Southwestern 86-60.

Terry Burkhalter sent the Baptists out in front with 11 points toward the middle of the game. Eddie Brown picked up the slack when Burkhalter cooled and wound up the game's high scorer with 16 points.

East Texas Baptist College held off a final period rush by St. Edward's University to come up with a slender 74-73 win after leading the game by as much as 19 points.

Woody Trooper of ETB was high point man with 24.

Southwestern Louisiana State trounced West Texas State 90-84 to come back from a four point loss to the Buffaloes last week.

Garland Williams put out 23 points for USL, but James McCLOUD of West Texas hit 26 to lead all players.

Fred Davis and Lee Coleman joined with 49 points to push Howard Payne over St. Mary's 82-76 Tuesday night.

In Seattle, Seattle whipped Hardin-Simmons 97-79.

SMU Guard Leads SWC Grade Parade

DALLAS (UPI) — SMU's middle guard Rufus Cormier led the latest all-Southwest Conference team but his selection was for feats performed in the classroom as well as on the gridiron.

Cormier's 3.8 grade point average out of a possible 4.0 point placed him on the all-SWC scholastic team along with four players from Arkansas, Texas and Texas A&M among others.

Chosen on offense were:

Ends Jerry Levas of SMU and Dave Elmendorf of A&M; tackles Leland Winston of Rice and Webb Hubbell of Arkansas; guards Don King of Texas Tech and James Ray of TCU; center Calvin Hunt of Baylor, Rabb of TCU and Pinkie Palmer of Baylor.

The defense consisted of Bill Zapalac and Corby Robertson of Texas at ends, Dickie Griff of Tech and Terry Shackelford of TCU at tackles, Cormier at guard, Scott Henderson of Texas, Buster Adams of A&M and Larry Tunnell of SMU at linebackers, and Terry Stewart of Arkansas, Pascual Piedford of Rice and Fred Steinmark of Texas at halfbacks.

Arkansas' Bob White is the team's placekicker and A&M's Steve O'Neal the punter.

Some Views of the SDS

The Students for a Democratic Society may be lovingly and proudly described by some as "our concerned children," but those who do either do not know the facts or ignore them.

If the judgment of FBI Director Hoover, who pronounces the SDS "a new type of subversive and their danger is great" is not acceptable, perhaps the SDS itself could be persuasive.

The organization's ultimate goal, according to the organization, is "nothing less than the destruction of society itself."

The SDS has made good use of Lenin's rules for revolution, and, although the group represents only a minuscule minority of students, it has managed to play a leading role in the violence, bloodshed and arson that have exploded across college campuses, from Columbia to Stanford.

Details of how this small militant group has disrupted college life are revealed in the October Reader's Digest by Eugene Methvin of the magazine's Washington bureau.

Methvin quotes one speaker at SDS' national convention at East Lansing, Mich., last June: "the ability to manipulate people through violence and mass media has never been greater, the potential for us as radicals never more exciting than now."

SDS' tactics include use of off-campus issues to disrupt campus life, the article points out. An SDS member from Wisconsin put it this way: "We organized dormitory students around rules, and then it was easy to move them on such issues as the university's relation to Chase Manhattan Bank."

The article quotes these among specific SDS proposals for disruption of society: picking public fights with welfare workers; starting trash can fires and pulling fire alarms in high schools as

"forms of protest"; making appointments by the score with university deans and registrars "to over-use the bureaucracy"; checking out an inordinate number of books to disrupt libraries and study programs; disrupting draft boards by registering under a false name so "federal agents will spend much time attempting to track down people who do not exist."

While it purports to follow a line of "independent radicalism," Methvin reports SDS betrays growing signs of links to professional Communists. Known Communists have sat in on SDS meetings and coached organizers since the organization was founded in 1962; SDS leaders frequently travel to Red capitals; two of three national officers chosen at last June's national convention were self-proclaimed Communists.

While many SDSers are actively anti-Kremlins, they share with the Communists a common desire to destroy, to annihilate and to tear down the article asserts.

Citing SDS' role in the recent upheaval at Columbia University, Methvin declares that firmer action by school authorities in support of the anti-radical "majority Coalition" would have averted escalating violence that culminated in cancellation of classes at Columbia.

While acknowledging that legitimate grievances by students must receive "far more attention" from officials than heretofore, Methvin says that prompt action by students and administrators is a must to prevent campus-wide clashes in the future.

Sidney Hook, noted New York University philosophy professor, has said that SDS members "threaten to become the true grave diggers of academic freedom in the United States." Only prompt action by school authorities and the overwhelming majority of students can prevent the grave from being dug.

Wants Yankees To Leave

Are Mississippians now saying, "Yankees go home"? The question was recently asked by the Jackson (Miss.) Advocate and answered in the affirmative by the editor of the Negro weekly.

The cry of "Yankee go home!" has resounded in far corners of the world, too often where millions of American dollars have poured in in the hope of helping others achieve a higher standard of living. Once again it is echoed from the spot within the United States which was limelighted for attention when civil rights advocates rushed in to help Negroes assert their rights.

But citizens of Jackson, both black and white, did not, and apparently do not, have any yen to see their area used as a battleground for the movement. According to Editor Percy Greene, nothing is happening to indicate that there is abatement in the resentment against the action and presence of outsiders.

Their advent into the state under the guise of bringing about better conditions of Negro life has actually so worsened the psychological, moral and spiritual life of Negroes that it may take a generation or two of work and effort to bring about its undoing, especially among the young.

"How has the worsened psychological, moral and spiritual outlook of Negroes been brought about? Among the borders of outsiders that made advent into the state, there were Communist Party, Secretary Gus Hall's girls, mostly from the less respectful environs of the big northern cities being non-Negro, brought to the state to give the Negro male what Gus Hall calls "bedroom politics" while indoctrinating them with the ideology and program, and the native born Negro girls of the state with beauty, education and talent, made subject to the wooing and flattery of white men in order to indoctrinate and bring them into the fold, while they give freely of themselves to provide their pleasure in their present loneliness. Thus setting forth the false idea that racial intermarriage is the alternate of Negro rights, Negro equality, and the amelioration of the nation's race problems."

The outsiders, Greene claims, have been the main cause of incidents which "have created for the state of Mississippi the most unappealing public image of any other state in the nation" — incidents like the Neshoba County case in which three civil rights workers were slain.

Responsible black and white leaders already, prior to Yankee inroads, had been working diligently to bring about better relations between the races, and the advent of the Northerners succeeded only in bringing to a hasty end one of the most hopeful periods in the history of the state, according to the Jackson Advocate.

It was under a Democratic administration that outside interference was imposed for the Mississippians' own good. Come January, with a change in federal administration, the responsible leadership among blacks and whites of Jackson may hopefully suffer less outside interference and be able to work together for the best solution to their problems. The Jackson Advocate is saying do it themselves.

Pull Up A Chair

By JOHN KEASLER

DEAR DR. Steincrohn: My husband, who is 30, was perfectly healthy until he got a severe virus mecum which kept him in bed three days. Now he has become . . . faint and dizzy . . .

I tell him he ought to see your doctor. Do you agree?—Mrs. S.

COMMENT: I do. It's important to know just what is causing his vertigo. Your doctor might suspect "labrynthitis" . . . however, that is only a guess. Your doctor will have to rule out Meniere's disease . . . eye disorder . . . extremely low blood pressure . . . high blood pressure, anemia, migraine, or some other trouble. . . .

I recall one man in his 30's who complained of dizziness. I noticed that his face was unnaturally red . . . anyone could see that he wore his shirt collar too tight. It was choking him. I could not insert my forefinger between his shirt collar and his neck.

He remembered that the dizziness began after he ordered custom-made shirts that turned out to be too tight around the neck. Because they were expensive he did not want to exchange or discard them . . . I loosened his collar and he felt better . . .

His tight shirt collar pressing on an irritated carotid sinus was causing his dizziness . . . I followed his case history for years . . . he gave his shirts away and wore loosely fitting ones and never complained of dizziness again — Dr. Peter J. Steincrohn's syndicated column.

The Annals of Medicine are replete with cases equally strange. Most never come to the attention of the lay public as many doctors do not write but confine their reading to the 1958 Quarterly of The Wholesale Rasp & File Merchandiser, which you will find in their waiting rooms. Be that as it may, I have collected similar cases.

Pablo Swill, a successful mule swapper of Bark, Ark., seemed healthy enough through the week but his weekends were pure hell. He developed a painful stoop each Saturday and found it hard to strighten up until Sunday night.

His wife eventually made him go to the doctor because she was sick of him killing her last bottle of Hadacol.

As he was undressing for his physical, the examining physician noticed his suspenders were too short.

Inadvertently, he had been wearing his son's suspenders when dressing up in his town clothes, which explained his painful stoop while getting drunk on Saturday night and going to church on Sunday. He couldn't stand erect.

His stoop disappeared after he discarded the suspenders although, of course, his pants fell down a lot.

Space prohibits mention of other cases—deafness caused by too-thick sideburns, operations narrowly averted by discovery of tight belts and the strange case which baffled diagnosticians in three continents for years until the good old family doctor noticed the patient had a tendency to inadvertently hook that little catch on a brassiere to her garter belt.

But the medical profession stays ever alert. Gee, think of all they would find if they made house calls.

Study To Ask: Can Riot Neighborhoods Recover?

ROBERT ALLEN

WASHINGTON — The Senate Investigations Subcommittee, which conducted a series of public hearings on big city riots, plans to take a look next year at rioting's aftermath.

Staff investigators have already started preparations for a new inquiry. More public hearings will probably be held early in the spring.

The subcommittee, under the direction of Chairman John L. McClelland, D-Ark., studied riots in a number of cities during the last Congress. The focus, then, was on the rioting itself and its causes. In some cities the subcommittee explored militant activities by participants in federally financed poverty programs.

A mixed bag of witnesses included mayors and police officers, along with spokesmen for militant groups. Their testimony related to activities in Detroit, Newark and Plainfield, N. J., Houston, Nashville, Chicago, and Wilmington, Del.

In the new series of hearings, the subcommittee hopes to show what happens in riot-torn neighborhoods in the months after the flames die and the ashes cool, when community residents try to resume their way of life — or establish a new one.

Some of the same witnesses may be asked to testify again. No decision has been made as to what communities will be revisited, but preliminary spadework has centered on the inner-city riot areas of Detroit and Newark.

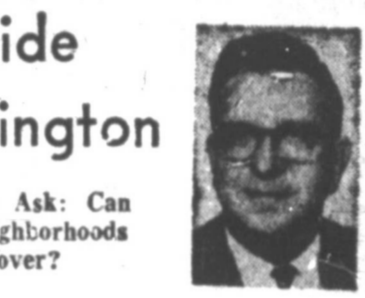

HEAVIER IMPACT — In trying to pin-point the after-effects of turmoil in the streets, subcommittee experts are seeking answers to questions of this sort: Are riot-ravaged homes and stores being rebuilt? How many buildings are still in ruins, and what is planned for them? Have owners been able to get insurance on rebuilt facilities?

Staff experts are assembling data on some of the sociological questions raised by the riots. What was the education level of participants? In what sort of homes did they live? Were they employed, and at what salary levels?

The subcommittee also wants better answers to some of the questions raised at its earlier riot hearings. For example, how much did the riots finally cost in terms of property damaged and income lost? Is the standard of living higher now, or lower, in the stricken neighborhoods?

Early indications are that the long-range impact of riots in poverty areas is heavier, even, than it appears to be in the immediate aftermath of the looting and burning. Rehabilitation seems to be more difficult and more expensive.

That seems to be the case here in Washington, where the deadening effects of riots last April are just now becoming clear as the winter winds begin to whistle through the burned-out buildings in the inner city.

JOHN GOLDSMITH

recently returned to a block of stores and shops which it had studied right after the riots. At that time, all but one of the white owners of burned-out businesses spoke hopefully of rebuilding.

Now, few of the proprietors show any interest in returning to the mostly Negro neighborhood. A number of them have already relocated their businesses in the affluent suburban areas of Virginia and Maryland.

McClelland SHIFTING? — A detailed plan and schedule for the new riot hearings must await the first meeting of the subcommittee early in January. At present, the hearings have second priority, behind a final subcommittee review of the F-111 (TFX) fighter plane.

The TFX hearings have been tentatively scheduled to start in February. They are designed to disclose how much money was spent on the Navy version of the F-111 which has now been canceled by congressional action.

The subcommittee began its study of the controversial TFX procurement contract in 1963. McClelland has been a constant critic of the all-service fighter plane in all its forms and variations, and he took the lead in getting Congress to deny funds for the Navy plane.

McClelland, now 72, has been telling friends he will surrender the chairmanship of the Investigations Subcommittee to Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., after the TFX wind-up, and devote himself to the affairs of the parent Government Operations Committee, of which he is also chairman.

McClelland, long the Senate's "Mr. Investigator," has made similar statements in the past, and Senate friends are inclined to take his recent comments with a grain of salt.

"John's like an old fire-horse," says one Senate friend. "Once he's back in harness, he'll stay there a while."

Wit and Whimsy

Two men were discussing the high rate of taxes and government waste of money. Just then a school bus passed them. "See what I mean," exclaimed one. "When I was a boy we walked three miles to school and three miles back home each day. Now we spend $5,000 for a bus to pick up the children so they don't have to walk. Then we spend $50,000 for a gymnasium so they can get exercise."

Hal — Did anyone in your family ever make a brilliant marriage? Cal — Only my wife.

The amount of sleep required by the average person is about five minutes more.

Santa's 'Bag' is the Unusual NEW YORK (NEA)—A reader in Boston, Mrs. Pamela Wood, writes:

"It isn't the crowds at the gift counters and toy departments at Christmas. I can understand them. It's the crowds at the other counters—the ordinary, plain white, nongift underwear counters. And the crowds at the plastic garbage pail counter. And the crowds at the mouthwash counter. Who are these people? And what in heaven's name are they doing?"

What indeed? They are giving each other garter belts and garbage pails and mouthwash for Christmas.

As we have pointed out repeatedly, gift-giving has become a terrible problem now that everybody has everything. And so, for the affluent and perplexed, this column takes on the responsibility of suggesting some of the more unusual items that make excellent presents.

Today's installment covers home appliances—especially those that have been developed since last Christmas. Or should have been.

FOR MOM ALL-IN-ONE ELECTRIC food chopper and garbage disposal unit. Puts an end to hundreds of wasted mealtime hours. Saves mother the drudgery of cooking and washing dishes. Conserves water.

LUXURY HANDS—Are mom's hands too rough and red for evening wear? Luxury hands slip on like gloves yet look like skin. Available in three finishes—velvet, satin, mink.

MAGNETIC-CORE SILENT BUTLER—Looks like a piano, but is actually a computer! Thousands of uses for mother. Addresses greeting cards. Writes condolence notes. Programs guest lists, seating arrangements, table conversation topics. In teak, mahogany, walnut or imitation.

DIET DISH—Is mom trying to lose weight? Modern design and atomic age engineering combine to make this beautiful china dinner plate that disintegrates fork and turns radioactive after the second mouthful.

FOR DAD DIAL-A-SCENT—Over $1,000 fragrances in this computerized push-button dispenser. A flick of the thumb, and dad's boutonniere smells like a tangy whisky sour. A wave of the hand, and the living room exudes essence of new Packard.

DENTONASHAVE—Amazing immunized cream reduces cavities and razor burn at the same time. Cuts morning ablutions by 11 seconds. Perfect gift for the man who can't shave after every brushing.

12-TRANSISTOR CARVING KNIFE lets dad slice lamb, beef, poultry, ham without missing his favorite music or the latest news. Cord or battery-operated. Stereo fork optional.

FOR THE KIDS 6-TRANSISTOR CARVING KNIFE lets the kids listen to their favorite programs while at school and play. In pink for

Silver Lining Showing

Things are looking up. There have been so many dark clouds hanging over our horizon, even a little light appears bright, warm, reassuring.

The war in Vietnam is de-escalating. The United States is phasing out of Far Eastern involvements.

Inflation, which has threatened the dollar with drastic devaluation, still does — but the new Administration is determined to curtail federal spending which has been feeding that fire. Last summer some Europeans were refusing to cash American dollars; now they are begging for them.

American campuses are less turbulent. Many administrators have decreed expulsion for chronic troublemakers, have tightened their grip, reinforced discipline, rawon respect.

Similarly, big-city officials have adopted a harder line against burning, looting and guerrilla war.

There remains too much crime and too little punishment, but an increasing awareness of the price we are paying for leniency precludes counteraction in this area.

Also, some of us are convinced that when our most unpopular foreign war has phased out, domestic restiveness per se will subside.

Most all business barometers are rising. Corporate profits, though purposely dampened by the recent excise tax, were record high in the third quarter.

Personal income increased last month, but at a less inflationary rate than heretofore.

A bumper-to-bumper crop of new cars continues to roll off production lines, and this year's sales will total an unprecedented 9½ million.

Consumer demand for appliances remains record high.

Total industrial production, trying to keep up with that demand, is up, up, every month.

New construction, including new housing, is booming.

It's encouraging to note that most of last summer's acute problems are now under control. The ills which remain chronic — Vietnam, inflation — hopefully, under the new President, will respond to treatment.

Man continues to poison his habitat by polluting air and water, but crash research efforts promise antidotes: nuclear power, potable sea water, electric cars.

Simultaneously, medical research is making Bunyan strides.

In the year since the first human heart was transplanted, 100 others were. Next year, 300.

Three kinds of heretofore incurable cancer have responded to chemical treatment. Among all cancer victims the recovery rate is now one-in-three.

From research for space exploration, if we never go to the moon, we are harvesting some 40,000 new or improved methods or materials every year!

Odds are that when you have filled in those "next 365 blanks on the calendar" you will be healthier, wealthier and wiser. I pray you will be happier.

Merry Christmas! And Happy New Year!

With Some Reservations

The Coordinating Committee of Welfare Groups in N.Y. City are preparing plans for showing their Christmas spirit early. They are going to create nuisances at the big department stores this month and disrupt Christmas shopping.

Each demonstrator will pick up about a hundred dollars worth of goods, go to the check-out, then demand "Charge it to Welfare." This will hold up the lines of customers shocked, at police called, then the police, and finally the register will have to be done over as customers become madder and madder.

"You put up a struggle and we'll get some people planted in the store to be very upset customers shocked at police brutality to welfare mothers trying to get something for Christmas," the Committee told the welfare grabbers. "Don't worry, we'll take care of the legal appeals when you get arrested."

The businessmen will complain to the city and the city will knock under and give us anything we want—try it, you'll see. You'll get what you want."

The Columbia Univ. Center for Social Welfare Policy and law briefed the coordinators on the necessity for getting recruits to fill out papers to back up appeals cases for the arrested demonstrators. The Center, of course, recently received a subsidy from that arch-enemy of freedom in America, the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Through their efforts the spirit of Christmas will be somewhat different this year. In keeping with this thought, a Chicago gang leader, Jeff Fort, who is under indictment for contempt of Congress, has just been hired at $9,000 per year as "youth-co-ordinator" for a South Side Community program.

O, how long can this abuse of public intelligence continue?

Congress Starts Investigation Into Nation's Credit Bureaus

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A commercial photographer told Senate credit industry investigators that his economic standing as a businessman is so good he financed a plane but a local credit bureau blackballed his wife's attempt to buy two gallons of paint on credit.

Raymond John Maurer, a self-employed photographer in Baton Rouge, La., said his Dun and Bradstreet rating was "favorable" and he had no trouble financing a plane, for his business.

But last May when he sent his wife to buy two gallons of paint to fix up their swimming pool she was refused credit by a local merchant who first checked the credit bureau.

Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., chairman of the Senate antitrust and monopoly subcommittee, commented on the "irony" that Maurer could obtain substantial credit for commercial purposes but virtually none for his personal needs.

Maurer, who testified as the subcommittee opened an inquiry into credit bureaus, said his trouble traced back to 1957 when he ran into financial setbacks as he opened his photography studio. Maurer said despite all his efforts to "pay all correct accounts" his troubles with the credit bureau persisted.

In 1964, Maurer said, he hired a lawyer to make a full settlement of his debts and offered the collection agency $224.31, although the bureau was seeking $506. The collection agency, which was also the credit bureau, refused to accept it and Maurer said that since that time derogatory reports have been made about him.

Another witness, John L. Spafford, executive vice-president of the Associated Credit Bureaus Inc., warned Congress against taking any "imprudent" action against credit bureaus. His statement was delivered to the subcommittee by T. Monty Skiles, director of industry relations for the firm.

"Any legislation which might tend to erode the sources of information to credit granters, or limit the ability of bureaus to supply complete and factual information to credit granters, would be imprudent," Spafford said.

Foreign News Commentary

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst

A practical politician who finds escape in Western-type movies is taking over the premiership of Italy in an attempt to lead the nation out of its 20th government crisis since World War II.

He will need his practical skills, luck and a unity seldom shown by Italy's fragmented Christian Democrats if he is to succeed.

The man is 55-year-old Mariano Rumor, onetime school teacher, resistance fighter after the Italian armistice of 1943, and a protégé of the late Alcide de Gasperi, the great leader of the Christian Democrats and premier of postwar Italy.

Once more it will be a center-left coalition, with the Christian Democrats and Socialists playing the principal roles in that order, joined by the small Republican party.

As in the past, it will be a makeshift affair of sticks and stones held together by straw. Time is the important factor.

Italy is an economic and political paradox. Its gold and foreign-currency reserves of nearly $6 billion place it behind only the United States and West Germany.

Yet as it piled up gold and industrial production moved steadily upward, so did unemployment.

Wages rose but not enough to satisfy the aspirations of the workers who contributed to the economic miracle. In the especially depressed south, a man performing the same job as the man in the north received half as much pay.

In the years since Italian unification, institutions of higher learning have multiplied by half again, but students demanding entry have multiplied 10 times.

Among the chief political parties, only the Communists retain a semblance of unity and in recent elections they have shown the greatest gains.

Labor unions are split among the various political parties, and thus become a political arm rather than a unified force for the benefit of labor as a whole.

Television In Review

By RICK DU BROW
HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—ABC-TV Tuesday night presented "A Guide to the Swinging Bachelor," an erratic musical-comedy hour that nevertheless offered some bright performances.

And before we go on, it should be noted that this special has already spawned a sequel, "A Guide to the Single Girl," which is set for April 1, and may indicate future similar programs if the ratings are there.

Tuesday night's hour offered Joey Bishop as the host, with other performers including Shelley Berman, Noel Harrison, Dean Jones, Larry Storch and some of Playboy magazine's "Playmates of the Month."

And for this viewer, the most satisfying portions of this distinctly uneven broadcast were those sequences that reminded us that Bishop is still quite a deadly and talented standup comedian.

It should really be unnecessary to have to point out that fact, but the truth is that his regular late-night series presents him mainly as a very considerate and sincere fellow, with his humor tailored to the conversation.

Yet those who remember his days, not too long ago, as the brilliant comic catalyst of Frank Sinatra's nightclub performances with his pals have often missed Bishop's masterfully dry monologues, and his ability to go the black-tie route with style.

His opening monologue Tuesday night, setting the tone of the hour, was right on target, and established his control of the proceedings. Later on, he was delightful as the Playboy "Playmates," each representing a month, went up to him one by one, and he described what each of these months meant to him as a married man.

Berman was also very good in the sketches, particularly one in which, on the telephone, he portrayed a date-hungry bachelor trying to get girls to go out with him.

There was one comedy sequence, however, that seemed to be stretching the borders of tastelessness. In this segment, Berman played a sort of square fellow who is rather embarrassed about getting his first massage in a health club, and Storch portrayed his effeminate masseur.

Berman, considering the material, was remarkably efficient in this sketch—and funny too—but the effeminate bit was overdone badly.

A little bit might have been amusing—in fact, it was. But Storch would be well advised to put this effeminate characterization to rest for a while. He doesn't need it. And you can bet they won't love it in Waukegan.

The channel swim: CBS-TV's Ann-Margret special ranked third among all shows in the national television ratings for the week ending Dec. 1.

Same network's "Miss Teenage America Pageant" came in fourth, tied for eighth place, meanwhile, was NBC-TV's Frank Sinatra special with Dianah Carroll and the 5th

Heavy Fighting Breaks Out In Bangkok Area

BANGKOK (UPI)—Heavy fighting between government forces and Communist-aided tribal guerrillas today raged 300 miles north of here, reports from the battle area said.

The reports said Thai fighter bombers and helicopter gunships went into action for the first time in a year.

Four separate clashes were reported with the tribesmen suffering at least 11 men killed and many more wounded. There was no word on any government losses.

The reports said units of the Thai 3rd and 6th armies had moved into the battle area with tanks, armored personnel carriers, mortars and other major arms. One report said a Thai general had called for artillery.

The fighting broke out about three weeks ago, when guerrillas surrounded and attacked a militia camp and killed 10 of the 12 men in it. Since then there have been almost daily reports of sizeable engagements.

'Sweet' Girls Murderers

NEWCASTLE, England (UPI)—In the brightly lighted courtroom hard by the River Tyne two schoolgirls from "Rat Alley" sit between plainclothes policemen. The girls fidget and occasionally gawk. Suddenly both cry.

They might be anybody's little girls, not quite out of dolls, not quite aware of boys.

The crown prosecutor alleges they are cold-blooded killers. Mary Bell, 11, has wide brown eyes and dark bangs. Her round face is intense.

A forensic scientist testified Monday he found fibers from a gray jumper owned by Mary on the bodies of Martin Brown, 4, and Brian Howe, 3. Both boys were strangled two months apart in different areas of "Rat Alley."

Norma Bell, 13, is not so intense. Bigger than Mary, she has a chipped front tooth and glances frequently around the oak paneled courtroom to the vaulted ceiling.

Norman Lee, the forensic expert, testified he found fibers from Norma's maroon skirt on Brian Howe's shoes.

The two girls, next-door neighbors but unrelated, have pleaded innocent to charges they killed both boys "for the pure pleasure of it." The prosecution expected to end its case today with testimony by a little girl who allegedly was once threatened with strangulation by Mary Bell.

The crimes are believed unprecedented in Britain for children so young. The girls, at their request, are being tried before an adult jury of seven men and five women. If convicted they will be remanded "at Her Majesty's pleasure"—an open-ended penalty. Britain has abandoned capital punishment for such crimes.

Both girls burst into tears during Lee's testimony. It was their first breakdown since the trial began Thursday before red-robed Ralph V. Cusack, a bespectacled London high court judge brought to and from court in a police-escorted limousine.

Earlier, pathologist Bernard E. Tomlinson testified Brian Howe's strangulation marks were likely inflicted by a child rather than an adult. He said pressure was probably applied for "at least 20 seconds" and declared the handsome, curly haired youngster "did not die instantly."
