

Entire State Is Caught in Tumbling Cold Spell

Valley Due Hard Freeze

By The Associated Press
Numbing cold clamped all Texas in an unrelenting grip Saturday. Light snow and sleet fell even in Houston before noon.

Another frigid night was forecast with temperatures tumbling 15 to 20 degrees below zero in the Panhandle. A hard freeze was predicted for the Lower Rio Grande Valley, where vegetable and citrus crops were threatened.

Happily, there was little snow, sleet and freezing rain with their attendant perils to travel. Snow, however, fell through the morning in far West Texas, locally heavy in spots.

Predicted lows for the night were: Northwest 15 below zero to zero; North Central 3 below 12 as above; Northeast zero to 15 above; extreme Southwest 8 below 15 above; Southwest 8 to 22 above; South Central 12 to 30; and Southeast 15 to 25.

WINTER WONDERLAND—Mr. Mac, the Scottie, picks his way carefully across the ice covered lawn of the N. R. Clements home at 3005 Avenue U. Watching him are those responsible for the wintry night, Tray Cooper, son of Mrs. Nina Cooper, and the Clements' daughter, Carla. The pair sprayed the area with water which quickly froze in Saturday morning's near-zero temperatures.

SNYDER AREA OIL

In Southwest Scurry County, 3/4 mile southeast of the Tri-Blue (Pennsylvania) pool, F. Howard Walsh, and others No. 1 Will Clay, Jr., is drilling below 6,475 feet with no show reported.

The wildest is scheduled to 7,000 feet in the Canyon reef and to 1,900 feet from south and 650 feet from west lines of section 154, block 97, H&TC survey.

In the Sharon Ridge 2,600-foot field of Scurry County, French M. Robertson plans to drill No. 10 Byrd-Frost, a 3,489-foot project. It is located 900 feet from north and 487 feet from west lines of southwest quarter of section 121, block 97, H&TC survey, and three miles west of Ira.

Locations for test wells have been spotted in Fisher County. Texas Pacific Coal & Oil Company No. 1 U. S. Gypsum Company will be a 6,500-foot Ellenburger test in the southeast sector of the county.

Dunn Wins First Round In Hassle

By FINIS MOTHERHEAD
PECOS (AP)—Dr. John Dunn won the first round Saturday in a bitter fight over official efforts to bar him from Reeves County Memorial Hospital, the only one in Pecos.

Under a temporary injunction granted by Dist. Judge William Ward of El Paso, the controversial physician allowed to treat patients there until the hospital board of managers grants him a formal hearing.

One of the eight lawyers representing the board, Hill Hudson, said advance notice would be given Dunn and the hearing would be held within a week.

Except for counsel on both sides, Hudson said the session will be closed to outsiders. This means accusations against Dunn if improper conduct with women patients, aired briefly in the injunction suit, will be heard only by the board, its medical staff and any witnesses who may be called.

Zero Mark Looms Here

The Snyder area had a new season low of 3 degrees Saturday morning, but the record for the season was not expected to stand more than a few hours.

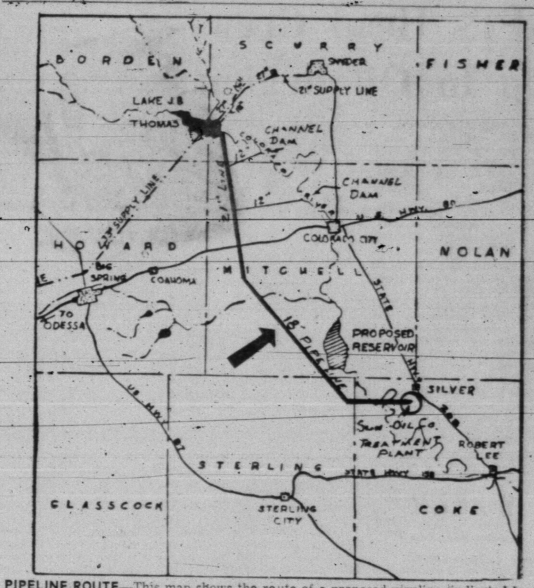

Zero readings loomed Saturday night as the vicious cold spell kept the area in its grip.

Chances for moisture dwindled as skies were partly cloudy Saturday afternoon. A few snow flurries fell Saturday morning, but they accounted for only a trace of moisture and were not enough to cover the ground.

COLD HALTS GI'N WORK

After several days of good weather, Scurry County cotton gins were quite busy until the cold wave struck the area Thursday night.

Late Saturday afternoon only one of the nine gins in the county was operating. It was not lack of cotton, but a lack of water which stopped the operations. Only the Snyder gin, which has a rotating fire, was able to gin water in case of a fire, was operating. The others, with their water supplies, were closed down rather than take the chance of a fire.

PIPELINE ROUTE—This map shows the route of a proposed pipeline (indicated by arrow) from Lake J. B. Thomas to the Sun Oil Co. receiving point in northern Coke County, a distance of 51.5 miles. Also shown is the site of a proposed new lake in southern Mitchell County.

CHANNEL DAM—This sketch shows a cross section of how the low-water channel dams will intercept the surface and underground normal flow of the Colorado River, well in the bank, then pumped to storage and to the supply line taking it to the Sun Oil Co. terminal. Lake water will meet the remainder of the quantity demands.

By intercepting the normal flow of the river with channel dams, the CRMWD hopes to make a substantial water conservation program possible. The project would intercept the normal flow of the river with channel dams, which would be heavily charged with salt water. The brine would be drawn off to a wet well in the bank, then pumped to storage and to the supply line taking it to the Sun Oil Co. terminal. Lake water will meet the remainder of the quantity demands.

Water Rates Fixed For Three Cities

By The Associated Press
BIG SPRING—Water rates to the member cities of Odessa, Big Spring and Snyder were established for 1963 by directors of the Colorado River Municipal Water District in Big Spring Saturday.

Under terms of the bond indenture, the district must fix rates in January of each year sufficient to care for operations, debt service and other expenses anticipated during that year.

Rates are a combination of monthly fixed charges plus 6 cents per thousand gallons for water delivered. It is not possible, therefore, to ascertain an exact cost per thousand until that year's consumption is known.

Charges during 1962 will be: Odessa $59.181 per month, plus 6 cents per M for water consumed; Big Spring $22,448.33 per month plus 6 cents per M; Snyder $4,866.67 per month plus 6 cents per M.

Army Poised To Reshape Its Divisions Under New Concept

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army will spend $1.2 billion over the next five years to reshape its regular divisions into the most heavily-armed and most maneuverable in U.S. history.

Fourteen infantry, armor and airborne divisions in the United States, Germany, Korea and the Pacific will be revamped. Only one division at a time will be reorganized in each area, to minimize disruption.

The Army's two newest divisions—the 1st Armored at Ft.

Monterey, Calif., and the 5th Infantry at Fort Carson, Colo.—were first reorganized under the new concept in the ground-up. They performed in field testing demonstrated the concept's advantages.

Since 1956, infantry and para-divisions have been formed under what the Army calls a "pentomic" structure built around five battle groups of about 1,350 men each. The Army felt then that the three-regiment triangular division of World War II and reorganized in each area, to minimize disruption.

In recent years, Army planners have seen the need for still another reorganization that would fit the demands of the modern battlefield. The new concept is radically different kinds of terrain and the pace as well as the nature of the fighting.

The Army is converting its infantry divisions to mechanized divisions. Simply stated, a mechanized division is an infantry outfit in which everybody rides to the battle area.

Geography will determine the makeup of any given division. Thus, Army divisions in Europe will be either armored or mechanized to take advantage of the flat country and good roads. Divisions in the Far East will be heavy in infantry and light in armor. Divisions posted to the United States will have more parachute troops or combinations of battalions suited to swift movement overseas to deal with brush fire crises.

Infantry divisions now total 13,748 men at full strength. The new infantry division will have 15,345 men and a mechanized division 15,931.

As examples of heavier firepower, the new infantry division will mount 148 90mm guns, compared with none in the present divisions. Tanks at about 125, 30 Davey Crockett atomic mortars as against none, and four Honest John nuclear bombardment rockets as against two in the current division.

The new armored division will number 15,096 men—an increase of 1,262. It will muster 360 tanks, an increase of 29, and 84 more guns as compared with none in the present armored divisions.

API's Head Grew Up In Oil Region

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON (AP) — The oil industry's new chief spokesman is a Texas lawyer from one of the state's oldest oil producing areas.

Frank Kard has a vast knowledge of the industry. Kard, 49, in Jan. 30, is the new president of the American Petroleum Institute, the industry's largest trade group.

He succeeded Frank Pester, 70, who died Nov. 20. Pester had been head of API since 1944.

Kard is a soft-spoken former Wichita Falls congressman who prefers hard work to speaking.

Associates say he carries money almost to an extreme. Many friends are unaware he was wounded twice while an infantry lieutenant in Europe. The normal 250-pound weight for Kard's 6-foot-4 frame dropped to 135 pounds while he was a German prisoner of war.

During his fifth term, Kard resigned from Congress in late 1961.

to become API's executive vice president and a specialist on Washington affairs.

API directors had decided to bolster their Washington forces and selected Kard to head the expanded operation. Kard had fought many battles in Congress in behalf of a major segment of the economy of his North Texas district.

Sometimes called a prince of the late Speaker Sam Rayburn, Kard was a member of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee when he resigned from Congress.

Kard was active in the fight for mandatory control of oil imports. Ironically, the API for the most part, sidestepped the import controversy since its membership includes both major importers and independent operators who want stricter controls.

Oil was discovered near Henrietta, Tex., 12 years before Kard was born there in 1902. He later moved from Clay County to adjacent Wichita County, where oil was discovered in 1910. The two counties have produced over 750 million barrels of oil.

Kard practiced law in Wichita Falls from 1937 until he became a district judge in 1948. He was elected to Congress in 1951.

Kard led API's annual meeting in Chicago last November. The oil industry has five main problems:

1. The grave threat caused by Russia's economic offensive in which oil is being used as a bait for a Soviet trap.
2. Complex problems brought about by worldwide expansion of the oil industry.
3. The "crushing mismanaged" drive to reduce the 27 1/2 per cent depletion tax allowances.
4. The campaign by certain interests to induce the government to establish a national fuels policy with end use controls.
5. The proposals for "ill-considered" regulatory legislation that could hamper industry.

With only 8 per cent of the world's forest area, the United States produces about 27 per cent of the world's lumber, 38 per cent of the plywood and 10 per cent of the wood pulp.

About 90 per cent of the world's population uses the metric system of weights and measures.

er pump station is planned.

Not a part of these bids, but certainly a part of the project, will be channel dams across the Colorado River in southwestern Scurry and northwestern Mitchell Counties. Each will be connected by a 12-inch lateral line to the main supply line serving Sun Oil Company.

The channel dams are low structures which cut through the river and intercept the underground as well as surface low flow of the river. The flow drains to the side into a well, from whence it is pumped to a storage tank. The water is then pumped to the supply line. By intercepting the supply normal flow of the river, the CRMWD hopes to reduce drastically the salt content in the river.

The channel dams are low enough that flood waters, which are of good quality, spill over the top and flow downstream.

It is necessary for the district to trap the intensely salty flow, which, if allowed to continue, would in time pollute the projected second lake.

The Texas Railroad Commission has issued a permit, effective April 7, 1963, which bans the disposal in open pits of oilfield brines from the Sharon Ridge oil field along the watershed in southwestern Scurry and northwestern Mitchell Counties. This, the district contends, will stop a continuation of the major source of pollution on the river. It may take a score of years for saltwater already migrating from the pits to be leached from the sub-surface soils leading to the river.

The district's first major project was, naturally, the construction of the dam, surrounding Lake B. Thomas and later a diversion dam and channel and the pipeline from the lake to Snyder, Big Spring and Odessa in 1957-58. Revenue bonds in the amount of $11,750,000 were issued to finance this work. Then in 1958, another $4,600,000 in bonds was floated to finance the construction of 33 miles of 25-inch line from the Martin County field to Odessa, as well as to double Odessa's terminal storage capacity.

Of the total of $16,350,000 in revenue bonds issued by the district, $11,527,000 is now outstanding. The district does not levy a tax and finances its services solely from revenues.

In the Saturday meeting the board of directors also authorized expenditure of $35,000 for the improvement and extension fund for converting the Big Spring pump station to automatic control on its microwave system; $2,240 to go to the Texas Water Commission for cooperative quantity and quality studies on the Colorado River; $50,000 to be used for auxiliary expense in connection with the pipe line project.

The manager was authorized to file with the Texas Water Commission for permission to construct channel dams on Colorado River. Contracts with McCall, Parkhurst and Grove of Dallas for legal services in connection with bond issue, and with Egmond, Dillon, Union Securities and Co. of New York as fiscal agents in preparing for the bond sale were ratified.

Helicopter Tactics Under Review After Rising Toll

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE
SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A rising toll of United States helicopter crewmen and aircraft in the war against Viet Cong guerrillas has brought helicopter tactics under review.

Bodies of the seven latest victims were recovered from an island in the Mekong River delta Saturday.

Of 33 Americans killed so far in a year of supporting South Viet Nam's armed forces, 23 were killed in helicopters. Many others have been wounded.

Sixteen helicopters have been destroyed since the start of the year. Nearly all the loss or operating off the ground and down temporarily. When you start trying to assault the ground, you're in a very tight spot. American crewmen Friday night was attributed to mechanical difficulty. Their H21 troop carrier flipped on its back and cartwheeled down from about 2,500 feet.

Three other helicopters had been forced down by mechanical difficulty in the same 24-hour period.

U. S. Army service crews are having increasing maintenance problems. American military leaders believe more helicopters are sorely needed. But nearly all the trained and equipped helicopter units the United States can spare already are in South Viet Nam.

"Repper," this kind of warfare is brand new," a high-ranking military spokesman said. "We have to do some experimenting and we're bound to make some mistakes. But let's not forget how much helicopters have accomplished here."

Five of the helicopter companies in South Viet Nam are equipped with the H21 troop carrier. The H21 is more powerful than the H11 and is considered a better aircraft for the recommended flying lives.

Sikorsky's H21s are also used for troop-carrying missions. The H21 is more powerful than the H11 and is considered a better aircraft for the recommended flying lives.

There are various reasons for the high casualty rate.

"After all, this is mainly a helicopter war," a helicopter crew member said.

Counterfeit Operations Discovered

AUSTIN (AP)—U. S. Treasury agents arrested two Austin men Saturday which the agents say are members of one of the largest counterfeiting operations ever discovered in the Southwest.

Secret Service Agents L. M. Benavides, of San Antonio and Clarence Knipsch arrested a South Austin man Saturday morning. They said he was charged before a U. S. Commissioner in Houston with counterfeiting. Another Austin man is being held without charges.

Benavides said a Houston man and another Austin man are being sought by federal officers.

Benavides said one of the men had sold $300,000 in counterfeit notes to the Houston man, identified as the "passer," at the price of $25 per 100.

He agent said the bills, printed in Austin, are of "better than average" quality. He said the arrests climax a one-month investigation which began when counterfeit bills traced to the operation began to appear.

Squirrel Hunter Makes Use of Train

TYLER (AP)—With the help of a train, hunter R. A. Pope of Buxa outsmarted several smart squirrels.

Pope had his heart set on a squirrel dinner and found his game in a tree. But about the time he was ready to fire the squirrels ducked behind a limb.

Then Pope had an idea. A train was due, so Pope settled back and waited. Soon, on schedule, the train roared by, frightening the squirrels from their hiding place.

Ole Miss Chancellor Has A Plausible Explanation

James H. Meredith, the controversial Negro student at the University of Mississippi, has been the object of more student demonstrations on the Ole Miss campus.

Chancellor J. D. Williams says Meredith himself sparked the demonstrations when he held a "press conference" several days earlier. We suspect that Chancellor Williams is as "right" as the proverbial fox.

Meredith told newsmen that he probably would not enroll for the spring semester at Ole Miss, despite the fact that a considerable amount of costly maneuvering had been employed to get him registered in the first place. The only Negro known to have enrolled in Ole Miss said he did not feel disposed to continue his studies there "under present circumstances."

He did not specify the circumstances, but we have no doubt that other Ole Miss students got the message. And, unless college students have changed radically since we dwell on a campus, some outward manifestation of their feelings should have been expected, and no amount of precaution on the part of the university administration could have prevented it.

The situation would have been similar, regardless of race, if any other student "celebrated" enough to hold a press conference had made such a statement.

The situation may be different at Harvard, but we doubt it.

And the Justice Department's protests of the latest incidents appear purely naive.

Backstage...

Tomorrow at the commissioners court meeting a number of Scurry County will be appointed to official boards. In this capacity they will serve the county and its citizens in several areas. These people, who will get little or no public recognition or thanks, will spend many hours this year in administering various county functions, at least one of which will benefit almost every county citizen. Not only do they seldom get any thanks, but often all the board members get is criticism. As one member said, "I don't believe I had an enemy in the county until I took this job." But she's not quitting — because she feels, and so do we, that she and the other board members are contributing a real public service. As a matter of fact, we think these people are giving the most unselfish public service that we know of. And so our hats are off to the members of the Airport, Hospital, Library, and Welfare boards, and if we, like everyone else, forget to say "Thanks" again this year, we hope that the board members will remember that we do appreciate their efforts in our behalf.

Both of these young ladies were more or less bruised and shaken up, but fortunately no bones were broken.

The horse continued on his mad career until he was hemmed in and stopped, when it was found that the two remaining ladies sustained no more serious injury than being badly frightened.

Anti-American Feeling In Britain Comes And Goes

Editor's Note: Anti-American feeling has colored British political life for more than a month. The final spark came when Dean Acheson, former U. S. secretary of state, said in a speech at West Point Dec. 5 that Britain "has lost an empire and has not yet found a role."

At the NATO conference the United States put forth its ideas for a multinational nuclear defense force, instead of separate forces such as those of the U. S., Britain and France. This is the proposal that finally emerged from the Nassau conference where Britain was offered the Polaris missile provided it eventually integrated its nuclear force with NATO.

The same proposal was made to France, which has not yet announced a decision on it.

New British and American sources agree that on balance the developments of the past few weeks have been favorable to Britain.

Skybolt, the plane-launched missile, has been abandoned. But in its place the British will get a proved nuclear delivery vehicle, the Polaris, at a cost London can afford.

The British nuclear deterrent will be linked with NATO but it remains to support the most meaningful future role Britain can assume—that of helping develop the unity of Western Europe and beyond that of the entire Atlantic Community.

Finally, the evidence does not support the charge that Kennedy is riding roughshod over his allies.

True he has offered firm leadership but Western Europeans have always said that was what they wanted from Washington. They can't have it both ways, and after Cuba there is a growing realization that the United States must always provide a firm hand at the helm, diplomatic sources said.

Will Rogers was to say, when talking to full-blooded Whites. "My Ancestors were here to greet Columbus when he landed." The same might be said by Charles Eagle Plume for his ancestors on the distaff side. This well-known scholar and anthropologist will be the honored guest speaker at the next meeting of the Knife and Fork Club.

The meeting will be held at the Indian love in the United States. Eagle Plume is considered one of the foremost interpreters of Indian life in the United States. Through his mother, he is a member of the Blackfoot tribe. Under his gay care-free manner, he has a serious side and there is a wealth of valuable research material in what he has to offer. He is a graduate of the University of Colorado, and he was studying for his doctor's degree at Columbia when the Second World War broke out. His studies were interrupted by three years in the United States Army. Most of this time was spent in the Southwestern Pacific theater where he served as a scout.

The White man owes much to the Red, he declares, pointing to the fact that thirty-two of our economically important vegetables came from the Indians.

But that feeling smolders all the time. It takes two additional ingredients to touch off an explosion. One of these involves disappointments on the domestic political scene. The other is an act or statement from the American side which the British interpret as playing down their own importance.

In the present case, Macmillan's government and his conservative party are worried by a slowdown in industrial investment and a rising tide of unemployment. They feel frustrated by their inability, thus far, to gain admission to the Common Market.

The final spark came when Dean Acheson, former U. S. secretary of state, said in a speech at West Point Dec. 5 that Britain "has lost an empire and has not yet found a role."

Dear Abby...

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: The growing trend toward teen-age marriages doesn't worry me until my 17-year-old daughter told me that she and her 19-year-old boy friend wanted to get married. They have gone steady for two years and he is a nice, enough fellow, but I'm sure they don't know what they are letting themselves in for. How should I handle this?

MRS. G.
DEAR MRS. G.: Say, "Flie, but first I want to give you a little sample of married life. You manage this home for the next two weeks. That means getting up in time to prepare Dad's breakfast, do the dishes, make the beds, vacuum, sweep, scrub the bathroom, prepare all the meals, do the laundry and ironing, wash the windows and Venetian blinds and do all the marketing. Meanwhile, I'll get up at the time you usually do and spend the day as you spend it (including an hour in the phone). Then I'll borrow some soiled diapers so you will be prepared for the chores of early motherhood." If daughter understands what will be expected of her in marriage, and still wants to be in a hurry, give her your blessings.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me if you have ever heard of anything like this, and explain it to me. I am of one religion and my husband of another. We have a 15-month-old baby girl who has never been baptized because my husband wanted her baptized in his religion, and I said I would rather see her not baptized at all than agree to that. Now my husband says he wants to take her and get her baptized — but not in any special religion; she will just be baptized. It's a no-religion bap-

ism. Have you ever heard of such a thing? My mother says she thinks he is trying to pull a fast one. I don't think this man and my daughter have a right to happiness together? Abby, if you could see them together you would know it is true love and not infatuation. What can be done?

QUESTION MARK
DEAR QUESTION: It is conceivable that a 15-year-old girl could have a crush on her mother, but how her mother could consent, encourage and permit such a relationship to grow is beyond me. Your daughter has no business going with a married man. Consult a professional counselor for your daughter's sake. You, too, need to have some twisted notions straightened out before you can give your daughter proper guidance.

Woman Is In Krush Party

MOSCOW (AP)—A top-ranking woman official of the Soviet Communist party is a member of Premier Khrushchev's delegation to East Berlin.

She is Yonna Muravyeva, chairman of the party's Auditing Commission, which supervises party finances and insures the smoothness of the party's internal operations.

There is no indication why she is accompanying Khrushchev to the congress of the East German Communist party, unless it might be to give the East Germans some pointers on party finances and control.

There is also no indication that she is emerging as another Ekaterina Furzeva, who frequently was a member of Khrushchev's delegation. Miss Furzeva lost her position on this party's Presidium in 1961 and retains only her post as cultural minister.

Miss Muravyeva has a trade union background. From 1960 to 1964 she was chairman of the Central Committee of the Textile Industry Trade Union. After that she was included in a number of Soviet delegations, including one to the United Nations in 1962.

CHARLES EAGLE PLUME

K&F Club Will Hear Eagle Plume

Will Rogers was to say, when talking to full-blooded Whites. "My Ancestors were here to greet Columbus when he landed." The same might be said by Charles Eagle Plume for his ancestors on the distaff side. This well-known scholar and anthropologist will be the honored guest speaker at the next meeting of the Knife and Fork Club.

The meeting will be held at the Indian love in the United States. Eagle Plume is considered one of the foremost interpreters of Indian life in the United States.

Through his mother, he is a member of the Blackfoot tribe. Under his gay care-free manner, he has a serious side and there is a wealth of valuable research material in what he has to offer.

He is a graduate of the University of Colorado, and he was studying for his doctor's degree at Columbia when the Second World War broke out.

His studies were interrupted by three years in the United States Army. Most of this time was spent in the Southwestern Pacific theater where he served as a scout.

The White man owes much to the Red, he declares, pointing to the fact that thirty-two of our economically important vegetables came from the Indians.

In the present case, Macmillan's government and his conservative party are worried by a slowdown in industrial investment and a rising tide of unemployment. They feel frustrated by their inability, thus far, to gain admission to the Common Market.

The final spark came when Dean Acheson, former U. S. secretary of state, said in a speech at West Point Dec. 5 that Britain "has lost an empire and has not yet found a role."

At the NATO conference the United States put forth its ideas for a multinational nuclear defense force, instead of separate forces such as those of the U. S., Britain and France. This is the proposal that finally emerged from the Nassau conference where Britain was offered the Polaris missile provided it eventually integrated its nuclear force with NATO.

The same proposal was made to France, which has not yet announced a decision on it.

New British and American sources agree that on balance the developments of the past few weeks have been favorable to Britain.

Skybolt, the plane-launched missile, has been abandoned. But in its place the British will get a proved nuclear delivery vehicle, the Polaris, at a cost London can afford.

The British nuclear deterrent will be linked with NATO but it remains to support the most meaningful future role Britain can assume—that of helping develop the unity of Western Europe and beyond that of the entire Atlantic Community.

Finally, the evidence does not support the charge that Kennedy is riding roughshod over his allies.

True he has offered firm leadership but Western Europeans have always said that was what they wanted from Washington. They can't have it both ways, and after Cuba there is a growing realization that the United States must always provide a firm hand at the helm, diplomatic sources said.

David Bevel of Vernon, a youngster who could do little wrong, grabbed the scoring spotlight for the game, however. He pointed 33 points through the hoops to single-handedly make a game of it before being charged with his fifth foul with 38 seconds left to play.

Gridders Treated To Banquet Here

Beri Huffman, freshman football and varsity baseball coach at Texas Tech, addressed a crowd of some 300 local griders and townspeople here last night as a highlight to the annual football banquet sponsored by the Quarterback Club.

Huffman, who has been in the coaching profession for longer than I care to remember, urged his predominantly youthful audience to be ready for the possibility of failure and take it as a challenge to do better.

Huffman was introduced to the group by a longtime friend and coach in the local system, Speedy Moffett. Both men were mutual friends of Pete Cawthon, the legendary Texas Tech mentor, who passed away only last month.

Master of ceremonies for the affair, which was held in the high school cafeteria, was Johnny Hoffman, vice president of the coaches present, who in turn recognized their team members.

Bob Purkey Signs; Gets Hefty Raise

CINCINNATI (AP) - Bob Purkey, the Cincinnati Reds' everything pitcher last season, signed up for 1963 after a couple conferences Saturday with General Manager Bill DeWitt.

DeWitt said Purkey got a hefty raise, but didn't say how much money was involved.

Purkey led the Reds in most victories last year—23—and started the season with a streak of seven victories before a loss. He had only four other losses in the season, had the best earned run average—1.81—and pitched the most innings—238.

LOS ANGELES (AP) - An unimpressive, unimpressive performance by Green Bay, fullback Jim Taylor, Sunday's 13th annual Pro Bowl All-Star game at the Coliseum, between the Western and Eastern Conferences of the National Football League.

With Taylor, the West had been granted a slight favorite.

Green Bay fullback Tom Moore who filled in for ailing Paul Hornung much of the season, was summoned from Goodsville, Tenn., as a replacement for Taylor.

West Coach Vince Lombardi of Green Bay said, however, that J. D. Smith of San Francisco was earmarked for Taylor's place at fullback.

Midshipman Mike Reed Has A Busy Life At Annapolis

ANNAPOLIS — The "Men of Annopolis" are young men from all walks of life. They come from the fifty states and from some foreign countries. But all have one thing in common — the desire for a career in the naval services. Among the more than 4,000 midshipmen at the U. S. Naval Academy, Annapolis, Maryland, is Midshipman Third Class (sophomore) Michael P. Reed, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Reed, 2900 Westridge Drive, Snyder.

A graduate of Snyder High School, Snyder, Texas, in 1961, Reed was in the student council, dance band, and on the golf team. He was a winner of scholastic achievement awards.

Reed entered the Naval Academy in the summer of 1961 to commence "plebe" summer training while the Academy upper classes were on summer cruise.

During plebe summer, he learned the rudiments of Navy life, and particularly, the meaning of the mission of the Naval Academy. Because midshipmen are the future officers who will be the leaders of tomorrow's Navy, every aspect of the Academy is turned to the mission:

"To develop midshipmen morally, mentally, and physically, and to imbue them with the highest ideals of duty, honor, and loyalty in order to provide graduates who are dedicated to a career naval service and have potential for future development as leaders and character to assume the highest responsibilities of command in the United States Navy."

This mission is fulfilled in surroundings steeped in tradition, and within a framework of strict discipline. But, at the same time, there is an academic atmosphere which is necessary for the hard studying midshipmen must do throughout their four years.

At the completion of plebe summer training, he joined the Brigade of Midshipmen and fell into a daily routine similar to that of all midshipmen. He rises at 6:15 a.m. and is ready for breakfast formation thirty minutes later. The entire Brigade of Midshipmen is served at one sitting in the world's largest dining room. The average meal takes only 25 minutes.

After breakfast, he begins a day

Cargile, president; Martin Brooks, executive vice president; Bill Elland, vice president; Keith Pitter, cashier, and Leon B. Smith, assistant cashier.

The directors were reelected at the stockholders meeting.

In addition to Boren, H. H. Elland, Bill Elland, Cargile and Brooks, the board is composed of Hermon Doak, Dan Gibson, C. V. Whitl Thompson and Nathan Wade.

Dated for the annual membership drive of the Scurry County Association has been set.

Directors of the association approved the dates of April 22-27 at a meeting Thursday afternoon in the board room of West Texas State Bank. The week beginning April 1 was set as preparatory week for the drive.

"Badger Robertson, president of the association, introduced Sean O'Dowd, representative of United Assistance Services, who discussed plans for the membership drive with the local group.

The reminder of the meeting was used to discuss possible attractions for the new season. O'Dowd mentioned the possibility of booking the Karlsruh Choral, a group of 16 men; Nelson and Noel, a duo-soprano team that appeared in Snyder a few years ago; Hal Holbrook, in "A Night With Mark Twain"; and Celeste Holm, in a show titled "With Love and Laughter."

Miss Holm does selections from Shroyan, Shaw, O'Neal, Laurens, Williams and Rodgers and Hammerstein. Broadway a c i o r W. S. Oley appears with Miss Holm along with Gordon Conell, accompanist. Definite bookings will be made at the end of the spring drive.

The final concert of the current season will be on March 29 with the appearance of James Mathis, well-known pianist.

Government Gets Estate

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — A woman has left her entire estate to the United States government, her will filed for probate, disclosed Saturday.

The will of Mrs. Mary V. White, 81, was written last Sept. 5. She died on Dec. 22.

Mrs. White appointed the Post National Bank as independent executor. In the application for probate it was stated the estate was in excess of $100,000.

Mrs. White said after payment of all of her just debts "I give, devise and bequeath all the rest of my property to the United States of America."

"To gratitude to my country, I therefore direct my executor to sell and convert into cash all my property and bequeath the proceeds of these sales to the United States of America."

Mrs. White listed her one child as Alice White Anderson.

Harry Haberkorn, county court counsel, said the money will probably wind up with the U. S. Secretary of the treasury. Asked if the Internal Revenue Service might get it, he said "No, they won't figure in on this."

Historical Survey Panel Sets Session

County Judge Sterling Taylor has issued a call for a meeting of the newly appointed Scurry County Historical Survey Committee on Jan. 19 at 4 p.m. in the county judge's office.

This meeting is being held in accordance with a proclamation by Governor John Connally, declaring Jan. 19 as Texas Historical Preservation Day. Over 2,000 committees in some 240 County historical Survey Committees over Texas are expected to convene on that day to elect officers and formulate plans for the year's work.

"Every county has a history all its own, and Scurry County is no exception," said Judge Taylor. "The County Historical Survey Committee has unlimited possibility for doing our County a great service in the field of preserving our history for future generations."

"The tourist trade stimulated by history-seeking travelers will be an aid to the economy of the county," he said.

County Historical Survey Committees are currently concerned with historic buildings, markers, museum pieces and records of the counties.

Members of the newly appointed Scurry County Historical Survey Committee are Hugh Taylor, Mrs. H. J. Brock and Mrs. Maud Taylor of Snyder; M. W. Bavousett and Homer Gannaway of Hurlbush; Mrs. John Stavelly of Flernanna; Paul Moore of Ira.

Rotary Rig Count Dips

Rotary drilling activity in Permian Basin oil fields declined slightly last week, according to Reed-Holler Bit Company's weekly report.

The count showed 195 working units, compared to 205 the week before and 197 for the same week a year ago.

Scurry County's rig count dipped from 3 to 2, while the Fisher County was down from 3 to 3 and Borden County from 4 to 2. Mitchell County had one rig running compared to none the week before, while Garza County's count was unchanged at 3.

Lea County, New Mexico, was still the leader with 35 active units. Ector County, with a gain of 11 for the week, was in second place with 28.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture's Economic Research Service says each American eats just over six eggs a week, compared with about seven and a half 10 years ago.

Building Figures Here Up Slightly

A report on the building permits issued by the City of Snyder in the calendar year of 1962 has been issued by Prentice Smith, planning and zoning engineer for the city.

A gain of $54 over the 1961 total was shown in 1962. 119 permits were issued covering $979,523 worth of construction. In 1961 the total was $973,471.

In 1962 additions to residences for new homes and accounted for 44 of the permits. In 1961 new homes accounted for 43 permits and $485,140.

In 1962 additions to residences totaled $71,175 on 59 permits compared to 1961's $56,311 and 49 permits.

Fourteen permits for construction of business buildings were issued both years. In 1962 the total value of new business construction was $33,730, while in 1961 the total was $167,000 which included the $30,000 post office permit.

In 1962 school construction amounted to $15,000 on one permit for work at the Lincoln School. In 1961 one school construction permit for $34,000 was issued for repair work on the Stanfield School following the fire there.

In 1962 one permit for $12,000 was issued for an addition to a church building. No church construction was done during 1961.

In 1962 additions to residences contributed only $9,000 in the year's total. Of this $4,000 was for a new residence and $5,000 was for additions to existing residences. However, the present month of January is already well ahead of last month, and will probably exceed January of 1962.

The speaker will be Dodd Miller, district sales manager for Lynes in Midland. His subject will be "Some Unique Applications of Inductane Packers For Use in Waterfowl Operations."

Reservations may be made through George S. Loch, 205 Wagstaff Building, Abilene. All interested persons are invited to attend.

Vacant Ice House Burns In Bowie

BOWIE, Tex. (AP) — Frozen water mains in 9-degree weather hampered firemen Saturday in fighting a fire in an abandoned ice house in this North Central Texas town.

A wholesale grocery and three nearby wholesale gasoline distribution plants were threatened for a while.

The capital of the Dominican Republic, once more known as Santo Domingo, for 23 years was Ciudad Trujillo, named for Rafael Trujillo.

Slant Well Cases May Be Delayed

GILMER (AP)—Trial of 12 defendants in East Texas slant oil well cases is set in this East Texas town for Monday but postponement Saturday were it will be postponed.

Main reason for this postponement is that most of the defendants have hired lawyers who are members of the Texas legislature to represent them. The legislature is in session and members representing the defendants are not expected to present Monday.

The case is scheduled in Dist. Judge Looney Lindsay's court. The defendants were indicted last October by an Upshur County grand jury for various alleged violations, including bribery, conspiracy to commit bribery and theft.

The group was the first indicted on charges growing out of a state investigation last year into slant oil well drilling. Fourteen men later were indicted by a Wood County grand jury, 30 by a Rush County grand jury and 61 by two Gregg County grand juries.

DANA WESTFALL is dressed appropriately for most any hour of the day in "The Cardigan Look", every young miss loves and can't live without. The soft colors in her muted wool suit really 'take to the blues'. Large mock buttons are partially concealed and the suit is fully lined. GEORGIA SPENCE models her coordinated suit with a relaxed look in fine wool-flannel in a soft toast color, accented by saddle stitching in the contrasting brown. The fully lined jacket is enhanced by pocket tabs which add to the chicness. CHARLOTTE STEWART chose black kid heels and bag and white gloves to complete the picture of this indispensable basic outfit. The royal blue wool ensemble is made of contrasting fabric textures. The straight sheath of smooth textured wool is topped with a matching loop pile coat. PAULETTE LINVILLE wears a gold and pearl necklace for accent on her neat gray wool suit with boxy jacket and straight skirt, all completely lined. Smart black kid accessories. KAY SMITH is striking in her lightweight wool suit of delft blue with matching buttons. The boxy jacket has three-quarter sleeves and tailored lapel collar. The graceful pleated skirt is a favorite of many.

PRETTY COTTONS—From left, MARY BRICE is neat in her cardigan shirtwaist, made of provincial print in red, trimmed with narrow heavy lace in black. The elbow length sleeves and small, unpressed pleats make this a dress of classic good looks. JEANIE MINTON says a jumper dress such as this is a joy to own. A two-in-one combination, with blue corduroy jumper which may be worn separately. The blue is repeated in the print of the dress, featuring a new Bermuda collar. TREVA MOORE is smart in this color-splashed dress of cotton satin print with French cuffs and big box pleats. Buttons accent the sleeves, with a plain neckline, which smartly takes to accessories. LINDA REON wears her neat blue-and-beige pima cotton. The beige tone rick rack trim on the round neck and around the tiny waist above a softly gathered skirt gives it a "fresh-as-a-daisy" look, which previews Spring.

LINDA WILLIAMSON is pretty in her striking peacock blue cotton shirtwaist dress, matched perfectly in the braid around the rounded neckline, three-quarter sleeves, and down the button front. The relaxed, effortless air of this garment makes a dress you can wear about everywhere. DIAN ATOR models a spice brown dress that takes you through a whole day's activities. The soft, silky cotton lends itself to the graceful pleats in the skirt. With butterfly sleeves of three-quarter length, tiny buttons marching down the front, and a self-belt, this dress is equally at home, at school, or in town.

ORABETH HENDERSON models a casual and sporty combination which may be worn together or as separates. The brown corduroy skirt is box-pleated and the vest is reversible. Eye-catching brass buttons don the front of the vest. For those cold, windy days, SALLY WADE, right, designed this brown tailored skirt in soft wool flannel. The crisp, fresh look of the open box pleats makes it a valuable asset to any girl's wardrobe for school, dates, or shopping.

ALICE KAY ASKINS, left modeled this festive holiday dress with a bodice of rich wine-red velvet, with wide-set shoulder straps and intriguing darts which accent the tiny waist encircled with wide belt and flat bow. The bouffant skirt of white silk organza has an underskirt of white taffeta. She wore matching velvet pumps. At right, FELICIA DUPONT in her charming dress of simple elegance. The severity of the black velveteen is offset by a striking gold pin. The fitted bodice, long-butterfly sleeves, and low cut neckline add to the simplicity of styling.

Bowling For Cash Glory

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — The money-making festival that involves some 23,000 women in an athletic scramble for cash and glory opens here April 4. It's the annual National tournament, sponsored by the Women's International Bowling Congress (WIBC), which expects to put up a prize pot of about $100,000. The huge national is the most important bowling event for women. Many of them save all year long for this, says Mrs. Borkin, a basic attraction is you never know when lightning will strike in bowling. A hot streak long enough to cover three to nine games can make a tournament tiger out of an unheralded tabby. Nine games get you through the team, doubles and singles. "Take one of the big winners last year," recalls Mrs. Borkin.

"She had been doing poorly for months. There were times when her team could cheerfully have killed her. Then she hit the National and bang! everything click." Another thing about bowling: Any amateur who wins gets the cash unlike other sports, there is no question about whether an amateur may accept money. The National will be held in the most of the big name professionals. But so many tiger-tabby have turned up now has ever won this event. Any girl who wants in the five-day Queens that opens May 6 must first bowl in the National. The Queens carries a cash pot of $17, 127.

First Southern Tourney
The bulk of out-of-town amateurs in the National try to make their trips and do their stuff during weekend periods. This will be the first time the tournament has been held in the South.

KOLACHE—An American version, made with cornmeal, of a popular European sweet bun filled with fruit.

Sweet Buns From Czechoslovakia

BY CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
AMERICAN COOKS like to adapt foreign recipes for yeast breads to suit their own fancies. Now comes a version of Kolache, popular in Czechoslovakia and some of the other European countries. What's Kolache? Sweet, filled buns. Dried fruits are popular for the fillings because they add tang as well as sweetness. The original rule for Kolache calls for all white flour, but this strictly U. S. A. version substitutes part cornmeal. Two fillings for the buns are given in this recipe, one using prunes and the other apricots. When we tested the rule, we halved each filling recipe and had two kinds of Kolache at one baking.

AMERICAN KOLACHE
1/2 cup milk
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1-1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
2 packages active dry yeast
1/4 cup warm (105 to 115 degrees) water
3 to 3 1/2 cups sifted flour
2 eggs, yolks slightly beaten
1 cup enriched white cornmeal
Prune or Apricot Filling
Scald milk; pour over butter, sugar, salt and lemon rind; stir until butter is melted; cool to lukewarm. Sprinkle yeast over warm water and stir to dissolve. Stir in flour and the eggs into the milk mixture; add dissolved yeast and cornmeal. Stir in warm additional flour to make a soft dough. Turn out on lightly floured board or canvas, knead until satiny—about 10 minutes.

Entree For Fall Meals

It's the Monday-through Friday main dishes for dinner that are the universal concern of homemakers. While pleasing the family food tastes, they yearn to do something different with the meat and potato fare.

Many homemakers, who double in brass as wage earners and in charge of food service at home, have adopted the cook-extra-ordinary plan. This strategy makes dishes such as Ham and Chicken Casserole easy doing if ingredients can be assembled the night before. At dinner time, the casserole needs only to be baked for 30 minutes.

With experience, the homemaker turns to inexpensive running mates combined with costlier meats. These include the limitless combinations of vegetables, or fruits, and always that reliable ingredient—add texture—bread as cubes, slices or crumbs. Typical of these for fall meals are hearty pork dishes featuring a savory stuffing. For suggestions, try Baked Squash with Sausage Stuffing or Currant-Apple Stuffed Pork Chops. Again looking to convenience and flavor interest, a bread stuffing mix gives the imaginative touch to Bacon Ringed Stuffed Steak or Veal Birds Supreme.

Occasions do arise which call for shell-service meals from supplies on hand. Almost complete as a meal is this Deviled Ham, Corn Casserole or most delightful are the Pineapple-Ham Balls.

Ham and Chicken Casserole
1/2 pound cooked ham
2 tablespoons finely chopped onion
1 (10-ounce) can condensed cream of chicken soup
1/2 cup milk
1 tablespoon granulated sugar
1 cup diced processed American cheese
1 cup diced cooked chicken
2 cups 1/2-inch soft bread cubes
1 tablespoon chopped parsley
2 tablespoons melted butter or margarine
Brown ham in skillet; cut it into cubes. Brown onions in same skillet. Combine soup and milk; heat until blended. Add sugar, cheese, and chicken. Place 1 cup of soft bread cubes in bottom of a 4 1/2-quart casserole; add layers of ham and onion and 1 cup soft bread cubes. Top with 1 cup soft bread cubes and remaining drizzle butter oil. Bake in moderate oven (350 F.) for thirty minutes.
Yield: 6-8 servings

Baked Squash with Sausage Stuffing
1/2 pound sausage meat
1/2 cup chopped onions
2 cups chopped red apples
1 quart 1/2-inch soft bread cubes
1 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup milk
Clean squash; cut in half, crosswise. Remove seeds and stringy portions. Brush 2 tablespoons butter over the bottom of an oblong 2-quart baking dish. Place equal cup sides down into butter. Cover and bake thirty minutes in moderate oven (350 F.). Remove from oven, uncover and turn squash over. Brown sausage meat, crumble it into peck with fork

How Many Husbands Fix Their Own Breakfasts?

EDITOR'S NOTE:
 A New York home maker re- searches a controversial issue she didn't even know was a problem until she heard me discussing it — with more resignation than bitterness. As for Mrs. Palmer, ALMA V. gets HER husband's breakfast.

BY VIRGINIA PALMER

The Associated Press
 Are you the dutiful kind of wife who gets up every morning to get the breadwinner's breakfast? Or do you champion the school of thought that believes strong men should be able to fend for themselves in the morning?

At an office party not long ago I eavesdropped on a group of budding young executives as they reached a rather startling 'to me, at least' conclusion: It's a losing battle to expect today's wives to provide breakfast.

One put it: "Mary doesn't fix my breakfast because she says she can't stand the sight of people who smile in the morning."

Takes Survey
 Over the next couple of weeks every time I gathered a few friends together, I threw in the question: "Do you fix your husband's breakfast?"

In all, I casually discussed the breakfast situation with 52 women. Eight lived in apartment houses either in the city or just outside. Four were working wives; the remainder full-time homemakers. Twenty-nine were between 25 and 40 years old. Fifteen were 45ish. The rest were over 55.

Let's tell her inspirational tale first. In the 50 years she has been wed, she has never failed to serve her husband's breakfast.

Each morn the gay little lady hops out of bed at 6:30, dons a freshly starched house dress, and squeezes a large tumbler full of orange juice which she brings to the gentleman before he steps out of bed.

Gets It Night Before
 Another lady I know, in her 60s now, once gave up a promising business career to marry a small town farmer. So grateful was he that he provided her with breakfast in bed every single day. A few years later her sister moved in with them. Now 40 years after it all began, the farm has been sold, he trots out to a new job — but first he serves breakfast in bed to both "girls."

One of the women in the 35 category proudly announced SHE gets her husband's breakfast — the night before. A place for one is set at the kitchen table. Into the pretty cup goes a teaspoon of instant coffee. The kettle is partially filled. The crumb bunis bought yesterday afternoon are put on his plate; still in waxpaper. There's always a can of juice in the refrigerator "if he feels like it."

There's a rose in the vase on the table and she's convinced it's much prettier to look at at 7 a.m. than she is.

Her best friend — checked on separately — confesses she "not only gets up and gives the ol' boy breakfast but most mornings has hot rolls or homemade coffee cake waiting for him."

One young working wife who admits staying up with the late late show until she unwinds, wakes up each morning to the smell of mushroom omelets, souffles or the like. He worries lest she get run down and is something of a gourmet be-occasion was Mrs. E. B. Kiser, mother of the bride-elect. Those attending included the honoree, the hostesses and Miss Jean Hart, who attends North Texas; Miss Dottie Whigham, who goes to Texas Tech; Miss Linda Douglas of SMU; Mrs. Don Collins of Big Spring; Mrs. Jimmy Drake of Hobbs; Mrs. Richard-Crohn of Fort Worth and Mrs. Paul Gene Arnold of Lubbock.

Another young woman has a reasonable gripe. She's a morning zombie. He's at his mental peak. While she stumbles about trying to fix something — anything — he's rambling on about the high cost of his friend's psychiatrist, her failure to take his gray suit to the tailor, and what does she think of disarmament?

They finally worked out a delightful system. Every other morning she fixes him a special deluxe type meal. The other days she takes care of himself. One day each weekend he sleeps til 10, the other she does. The awake party endeavors to quiet the kids; it works out beautifully. Or they expect it to. It began yesterday.

Wife Wakes Up
 The last husband on our list told the little woman it wasn't necessary for her to get up. "Stay there all curled up, comfy and cozy. I'll grab a bite at the coffee shop," he said thoughtfully.

One morning after he had gone, she realized she wanted him to exchange a blouse for her on his lunch hour. She threw on an old storm coat, slipped moccasins on her feet, tied a kerchief around the pin curls, and hopped in the car bound for the coffee shop, where he said he'd be.

She found him there — all right, looking especially handsome in a new suit. He was sharing the table with a voluptuous blonde daughter of one of the new neighbors. And she was buttering his toast.

Moral: Wife suddenly lost her appetite for sleeping late, and hubby isn't forced to eat that dreadful restaurant food any longer.

When you are baking apple dumplings, you'll find that pie dough that is rolled about 1/4 inch thick and cut into 6-inch squares will unfold apples that are about 3 inches in diameter. The fruit for the dumplings should of course be pared and cored.

Another young man who works locally in the summer months, this gemlike male leaves for work a half hour earlier than necessary and then comes home again about 9:30 a.m. to breakfast with her. He loves to sleep late but can't — so he permits her that pleasure.

Kizer-Shelburne Rites Read In Pecos Baptist Church

PECOS — Wedding vows were exchanged here Friday, Dec. 28 at 4:30 p.m. for Miss Sareta Kiser, daughter of Mrs. Blanche Kiser, and the late E. B. Kiser, 218 N. Cedar, and Lesley Bryan Shelburne, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Shelburne, 202 32nd St. in Snyder.

The double ring ceremony was held in a candlelight setting at the First Baptist Church, with Rev. Glen Edwards, pastor of the church, officiating.

The altar was decorated with candelabra holding white tapers and held arrangements of white flowers and greenery.

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, P. R. Bowie from Ysleta, was attired in a floor-length gown of white brocade designed in elegant princess simplicity.

Styled with a fitted bodice and beautiful skirt, the gown had a princess front panel, side hoops and fell to a chapel train in the back. Long fitted sleeves were pointed over the fingertips. The waistline, draped in the back to match, the V on the bodice and tiny covered buttons marched down the back to the top of the skirt.

Her waistlength veil of innocuous fluffon fell from a crown of seed pearls and rhinestones. Her single white orchid was atop a white Bible. She borrowed a handmade handkerchief presented to her mother by her half-sister, Mrs. Stewart Bessant. For something old, she wore a penny bearing her birthdate in the pocket of the traditional blue garter.

Miss June Jones served as maid of honor and wore a street-length frock of antique gold brocade. It was fashioned with a fitted bodice dipping to a V in the back, a tulip skirt and three-quarter length sleeves. Her headress was a single gold flower with an eye length veil and her hairnet was gold and white pompon mums atop a white Bible, gift of the bride.

Miss Joan Sliger served as bridesmaid and was attired identically to the maid of honor.

Candlelighters at the ceremony were Misses Anne and Lynn Shelburne, twin sisters of the groom from Snyder. They wore identical sheaths of soft wool in antique gold, complimented with corsages of white carnations.

Tommy Shelburne, brother of the groom, served as best man. Ushers were Jim Bowie, cousin of the bride from Houston, and Nick Dugas, Abilene.

The traditional wedding music was furnished at the organ by Mrs. Tommy Sims from Abilene. She Tri Phi Social Club, member of also accompanied her husband who sang, "One Hand, One Heart," "O Perfect Love" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. Kiser chose for her daughter's wedding a blue lace frock with a matching hat, complimented with white accessories and a white gardenia corsage.

The mother of the groom wore a blue silk brocade dress with matching hat and black accessories. She also wore a corsage of gardenias.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the chapel of the church.

Guests were greeted by the wedding party and their parents and registered in the bride's book by Miss Gayla Wallace of Pecos.

The bride's table was covered with a gold lace cloth over white. The centerpiece featured an arrangement of white carnations and gold heather fern leaf. Silver appointments were used to serve the traditional wedding cake and punch.

The houseparty included: Mrs. Norma Hill of Pecos; Mrs. Jimmy McNeil of Pecos, and Mrs. Woody Young of Carlsbad, all cousins of the bride; Miss Kay Shelburne of Snyder, cousin of the groom; Miss Mary Wilka, the bride's college roommate at Hardin-Simmons from Stamford, Miss Nan Lawless, Miss Jean Hart, Mrs. Ferrell Eldredge, Mrs. Barney Hobbs, Mrs. Eva Grammer, Mrs. Sammy Caroline, Mrs. S. G. Wallace, and Mrs. Arlin Bowie, aunt of the bride.

The rehearsal dinner which preceded the wedding was held on Thursday night at the Lazy L Cafe.

Gold and white was used in the decorations and the menu included ham, baked potato, cranberry relish, asparagus, salad, stierbert, cookies and coffee.

Attending this event were the honored couple and their parents, members of the wedding party and Lee Green of Fort Worth.

For traveling, Mrs. Shelburne wore a green doubleknit suit complimented with brown accessories and wore the white orchid from her bouquet. Following a short wedding trip, the couple will be at home at 1833 Dillinger Street in Abilene, where they are both active students at Hardin-Simmons University.

the Cowgirls, and was chosen class favorite her sophomore year. The groom is a graduate of Hamlin High School. In college, he is a member of the Cowboy Band, Phi Ma Alpha and Sigma Delta Social Club. He also served as director of the choir at the First Baptist Church in Roscoe.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. Tom Routh of Hamlin and Mrs. T. E. Shelburne of Hermleigh, grandparents of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. D. P. ALL ABOUT BABIES

A Public Service of the National Baby Care Council

By C. Robert Gruver

Editor, All About Babies

Pediatricians point out that in babies, there is greater likelihood that the common cold will spread to the lungs or ears, and cause such complications as bronchitis, pneumonia, or inflammation of the middle ear.

They urge mothers to take extra precautions to prevent their babies from coming down with a cold and extra measures to minimize the effects of a cold after it develops.

Babies should be kept away from persons who have colds and from crowded places such as stores, buses and movie theaters.

If a mother who has a cold must take care of her baby, she can give the baby some protection by wearing a gauze mask over her mouth and nose, and by washing her hands with soap and water before handling the baby or preparing his food.

Anything which tends to lower a baby's body resistance such as not eating enough of the right kinds of foods, and lack of rest, will often increase a baby's susceptibility to colds. Disrupted formula and other defects in the nose and throat may also be contributing factors.

Sniffles, sneezing, coughing, sneezing or soreness in the throat are some of the symptoms of a cold. When a baby shows these signs, he should be put to bed, kept warm and quiet and separated from other people, especially other children.

If the cold does not clear up quickly, a physician should be consulted. For some of the signs of a cold may also be the symptoms of the early stage of many communicable diseases of babyhood. If the symptoms are followed by chilliness or convulsions, fever and aching, it may be more than a cold, perhaps some babyhood infection such as measles, pertussis, etc.

Parents should not allow a baby who has even a mild cold to mingle with other children. This one precaution alone, a responsibility of all parents, would do much to minimize the effects of a cold and check the spread of colds and other infectious diseases among babies.

Roll up jelly-roll fashion; seal ends; slash at 8 even intervals. Place on a well-greased cookie sheet or jelly roll pan, edge a 1/2 inch down. Bake in a moderate (325 degree) oven 25 to 30 minutes. Serve hot. Makes 6 servings.

No matter how many power tools are in your home workshop, there is always a need for the old reliable hand tools, such as the hammer, screwdriver, pliers, etc. Oddly enough, many persons who have become proficient in the use of electric machines in recent years have no parallel skill in the use of hand tools.

Here are some tips about handling the nonpower equipment in your shop:

Use only a wrist movement in driving a small nail with a hammer, bending the elbow for large nails and striking hard with full arm action for very large nails. In using a chisel, keep the left hand if you are right-handed behind the cutting edge at all times.

Remember that it is easier and quicker to make several thin cuts with a chisel than one thick one in addition to insuring a more professional result.

In making a hole in wood with an awl, the edge of the tool should be pushed into the wood across the grain, as there is a possibility of splitting the stock if it is done along the grain.

On the other hand, the clenching of nails into wood should always be along the grain, since this adds strength to the fastening.

In cutting with a hacksaw, be sure that the work is held firmly in a vise, that the blade is held lightly in its frame and that you remember the principle that the cutting is done on the forward stroke.

The cutting also is done on the forward stroke when filing, so be sure no pressure is exerted in drawing back the file.

Old screwdrivers can be renewed by grinding the tips, but be certain to use grinding in one straight across so that the tips will fit firmly into the heads of screws.

Attaching a piece of tempered hardboard to the top of your workbench will insure an excellent working surface that will resist dents and other marks. Screw the hardboard into the workbench top so that, if necessary, it can be removed and replaced at a later date, although this is unlikely to occur for several years.

QUESTION: An epoxy plastic waterproofing compound has been recommended to me for leaky basement walls. Can you tell me something about it?

ANSWER: This is the material often used for waterproofing the outside of boat hulls. It will do an excellent job. But enough to do an entire basement might cost more than you planned on spending. Better check the prices if you plan on waterproofing all the walls rather than just a section or two.

It will adhere firmly over paint if the paint is in good condition. Loose or crumbling paint must be scraped off before the compound is applied. All dirt and grease must be removed and the wall must be perfectly dry. The compound consists of two liquids which are mixed before applying. Since the compound dries rather quickly, too much can not be mixed at one time. Application is by brush. More than one coat is recommended for severe leaky areas. After the compound has hardened, it can be painted with rubber-base paint if desired. It is important that the manufacturer's instructions for this product be followed to the letter.

Many Readers Ask About Older Houses

BY VIVIAN BROWN AP Newsfeatures Writer

Now that outdoor activity is limited, many home owners take time out to brood indoors about their homes. Everything is green in a new light - cracks in the ceiling are observed and even the bareness and sameness of floors get on one's nerves.

"We have some old bed - up floors in our upstairs rooms," writes one homemaker. "They are the brown - painted - kind, old-fashioned and ugly. My husband says that it would be a big job to scrape them and impossible to live with as the bedrooms are very tiny and it wouldn't be easy to move the furniture around as we worked. He doesn't think that colored paints would hold up on the floor, but I certainly think that whatever happened to them would be better than having our present floors which makes the rooms look dreary."

There are some very good deck paints available in many colors that would be more cheerful than that old - time floor paint. Cardinal red is especially good when put over brown floors. If just one color is applied, the effect is unique - red.

There are other colors that may be selected, and floor colors may be mixed from the basic white to which oil paints are added as paint store or painter can advise you. Many people like black floors and these can look chic even in the living room.

Mothers-In-Law Used To Be Belled

NEW YORK (AP) - A pair of ancient chopines edged with little silver bells, to "chime" when worn, are a part of an exhibition of antique and modern bells at the Traphagen School of Fashion.

The bells are similar to those worn by "Merry" Indian mothers-in-law worn by luckless women to appease their sons-in-law of their presence. It was presumably bad luck for them to see the faces of their wives' mothers.

Each chopine's toe rest is of gold with gold bells, and the sole is of hand-wrought chased silver in intricate design.

Although these luckrunners of the platform shoes are Eastern in inspiration, they were once worn in London and Paris. Shake Spear speaks of them in "Hamlet."

Stuffed hard-cooked eggs do not always have to be served as is on a salad plate. Pour a tomato sauce over them after they are placed on triangles of buttered toast.

Bullets Dominate Ballots In Latin American Affairs

By FRANK N. MANITAS
BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The military toppled two democratic governments in Latin America in 1962 and struck several others. With quiet efficiency, the armed forces put President Arturo Frondizi of Argentina under arrest in the early hours of March 29 and flew him to an island prison where he remains today. Tanks and armed troops forced open the doors of the white marble presidential palace in Lima on July 15 and took President Manuel Prado of Peru prisoner. He was released 10 days later with a military government in full command of the Andean country. In both cases, the military complained about national elections. And in both cases, the citizenry of the second and fourth largest countries in Latin America accepted the military might without open opposition. In Ecuador, the Dominican Republic, Brazil and Venezuela, the military threatened to take over their governments until the chief executives or national congresses capitulated to their demands. Two prime factors disturbing the stability of the governments are old. They are: 1. Social and economic reforms. 2. The open threat of communism. But the governments are under new pressures: 1. More than ever, the 206 million people in population at an annual average of 2.6 per cent — are hearing proposals for developments and progress. A catalyst is the "Alliance for Progress." It has brought problems to the surface. The solutions, however, are not as easy. Currency devaluations in Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, and other nations, a rapid increase in the cost of living and the flight of capital have shaken confidence within and without the continent. Another fear was accentuated through the Fidel Castro regime in Cuba, where international communism has its strongest ally in the Western Hemisphere. The Soviet Union's rapid armament buildup of the Caribbean island as an offensive base shocked the other nations. They revised laws against Communists. Many measures include catch-all terms that worry the loyal opposition political parties. Hence, leftist reform proposals became more suspect. Political arrests grew. And the military placed itself firmly in the bench to judge what is best for a country and how to keep it on the democratic road. To keep some 700,000 men in arms, Latin America — excluding Cuba — spends more than $14 billion annually. This compares to the $2-billion-dollar goal set for the Alliance for Progress development program. Here's a quick review of some of the governments today: ARGENTINA—Eight of the last 12 presidents in the Casa Rosada — Pink House — have been military officers. Dr. Frondizi was elected and took office May 1, 1958, following a three-year military provisional government and the 10-year dictatorship of Juan D. Peron. Under military pressure repeatedly during his four years in office, Frondizi was ousted by the military. They feared the return of Peronism through electoral victories gained by its forces. Elections are promised for early 1963. BOLIVIA—President Victor Paz Estenssoro ends his second term in 1964. Expected to replace him is Vice President Juan Lechin. Although both led the 1952 revolution that crushed Bolivia's army and oligarchy, the two are enemies. Paz Estenssoro maintains order by a small police force, using the "people's militia" when violence shows signs of threatening his rule. BRAZIL—The largest country in Latin America has yet to recover from developments stirred by the surprise resignation of President Janio Quadros in August 1961. At that time, the military forced a parliamentarian-type government of Quadros' successor, Joao Goulart, to strip him of power. This past year, the military demanded and received congressional approval to allow people to say in January 1963 whether they want a return to the original strong-president form of government. National congressional elections in October initially showed an overall victory for the moderates. CHILE—With participation of the 40-year-old legal Communist party, Chile faces crucial presidential elections in 1963. Popular Action Front — FRAAP — dominated by the Communists, controls one-third of Congress and is a strong contender in the elections which will name a successor to independent President Jorge Alessandri. Reports are classified as "prematuring" that military takeover would occur. If a Communist-backed candidate should win, the military left politics in Chile in 1932 when General Carlos Ibanez was the dictator-president. COLOMBIA—For its nearly 15 million people, Colombia maintained its constitutional government this year as Guillermo Leon Valencia was elected president. He was the candidate of the party coalition formed at the end of the bloody 10-year political violence which killed an estimated 200,000 to 300,000 persons. The part-political, part-savagery killings have not been eliminated, however, and it is the military's job to try to keep the toll down. The military last ruled Colombia in 1957. CUBA—Fidel Castro undoubtedly sits atop the largest armed force in Latin America. No elections have taken place in his four years in power after he overthrew dictator Fulgencio Batista. Castro has not allowed political opposition and his enemies have been executed and imprisoned. DOMINICAN REPUBLIC—Dictator Rafael Trujillo built an effective military force, but it did not prevent his assassination on May 30, 1961. Since then, the island has seen day after day of unrest. A seven-man provisional council headed by Rafael Bonnelly held the first post-Trujillo elections Dec. 20. They were won by moderate leftists led by Juan Becerra.

ECUADOR—Carlos Julio Arosemena moved up from the vice presidency to the chief executive post when Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra fled from military pressure to exile in Argentina in November 1961. With 20 presidents in 30 years, Ecuador does not remember political stability and the armed forces are active in the presidential chambers. President Arosemena buckles frequently to the military's strength, without which he would be kept. MEXICO—With little army but a large police force, Mexico keeps stability with the Institutional Revolutionary party (PRI) dominating elections. Its nomination is normally the last word. Communist action is slapped down quickly, keeping most disturbances under control. PANAMA—President Roberto F. Chiari was elected last year. He divides his time fighting what he calls Communist invasion threats from Cuba and for more than "titular sovereignty" by Panama in the U.S. Canal Zone area. PERU—A military junta headed by Gen. Ricardo Perez Godoy took over after it threw out President Manuel Prado and the ballots for his successor. The military claimed the elections were fraudulent. New balloting has been promised next July. Informed sources say Perez Godoy plans to resign from the army and be a candidate for president. VENEZUELA—Next year, Venezuela is scheduled to elect a successor to President Betancourt. Reports are not uncommon that a "rightist military group" may take over the government prior to the voting. Military leaders sporadically have sought to upset Betancourt. But he has weathered every rebellion, including the bloody revolt last June at Puerto Cabello where some 120 deaths were reported.

Junior Editors Quiz on GUNS

QUESTION: How did bullets come to be used?

ANSWER: When came first, the stone age man (A), hurling a big stone at an animal is using a kind of bullet without the gun. Of course, it was gun powder, introduced to the western world in 1242, which led to the development of the modern gun shooting real bullets. Clumsy cannons made in the 1300's, used stones and various scrap materials as bullets. Cast iron balls appeared in the early 1400's. Later, lead was employed because it was heavy and easy to melt. Using a paper cartridge (shown in picture) the gunman bit off end of cartridge poured powder down muzzle, rammed in the ball. The first guns were smooth inside the barrel. Then came grooves inside the barrel to spin the bullet, which made the gun a "rifle." These were much more accurate; in fact, it is said that the deadly accuracy of a Kentucky rifle may have won the Revolutionary War for the Americans. Another improvement was the pointed shape of the bullet and the metal jacket. With metal cartridge case and bullet inside, ammunition then developed to the form in which we use it today.

FOR YOU TO DO: Make a scrap book telling the story of guns and bullets in pictures you can clip from comic books and magazines. (David Tolasat, of Forestville, Conn., wins $10 for this question. Mail yours on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of this newspaper, and you may win $10 or the weekly grand prize of a set of Britannica Junior Encyclopedias.) I-12

Acacia Club Names New Officers

The Acacia Study Club met Wednesday afternoon at the Martha Ann Woman's Club with Mrs. Charlotte Egan as hostess.

Mrs. Jay Hockabee gave the Federation topic on religion.

Mrs. Ray Hoop gave the program, "A Biography of a Great Man." She selected Dr. Albert Schweitzer, a doctor of music, medicine, philosophy and religion. Dr. Schweitzer won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1952. His life is one of self-sacrifice and dedication and he is one of the world's great humanitarians.

Following the program election of officers was held. The officers for 1963-64 are: Mrs. James Mathis, president; Mrs. David Adams, first vice president; Mrs. Joe Carroll, second vice president; Mrs. Robert Clinton, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Tony Hatfield, recording secretary; and Miss Alice Burdwell, treasurer.

The club voted to sponsor a Mardi Gras Ball the latter part of February as a benefit for the Scurry County Boys Club.

Use Wall - Covering Against Stove Splatters

Are you tired of looking at a less than cheery, grease-splattered area behind your kitchen range? You can change this today—by covering the entire area with washable adhesive coverings in a bright color or pattern to match your kitchen decor.

When you tire of one pattern or color, you can remove it without damaging the wall surface and try another color combination.

Book Publishers Have Art Lovers In Mind

BY MILES A. SMITH
ART Editor of NEW YORK, N. Y. Month by month and year by year, book publishers are making it easier and easier for the art lover to enjoy his hobby in his home—as a reasonable cost.

There is one new idea in this field, the combination of a book text and a set of color slides, all within a stiff cover.

And there is one trend which continually receives new impetus—the issuance of paperback art books.

Making color slides of famous paintings has been going on for years, schools, colleges and universities particularly have made good use of them in lecture courses.

Similarly, there have been numerous examples of combining texts and portfolios of reproductions, and occasional examples of putting phonograph records into a book.

Note McGraw-Hill Book Co. has started a series—there will be 18 volumes eventually—called "The Color Slide Book of the World's Art." Each volume contains 24 slides, half of them tucked into transparent pockets at the front of the volume and the other half tucked in the back.

Booksellers will offer free hand viewers to anyone who buys the book, but it is expected that many purchasers will want to use slide projectors. The projection method has one advantage over the printed plates in even the most expensive art books.

When an artist creates a painting on a certain size—say 10 by 13 inches—the "dimensions" are a part of the general effect. Even when an art book 17 inches across has to present its reproduction of that painting in "reduced" size. That often makes a subtle change in the esthetic appeal.

But with a slide projector, the image thrown on the screen may be adjusted to match the dimensions of the original painting.

The first volume off the presses in the McGraw-Hill series is "Impressionist Painting," with a brief text by Albert Chavée of the Lille Museum in France. Including 16 black and white illustrations (different from the slides), the text runs only 44 pages. An appendix gives data on the slides, including original dimensions.

Paperback art books have been blossoming out in the last decade at the same dizzy speed of the other types of paperbacks.

Harry N. Abrams Inc., New York, a major publisher of art books in all price ranges, in 1962 began putting out "Portfolio Editions of Great Painters" in paperback 10 by 13 inches, containing 10 color reproductions and many black and white illustrations, at a price of only $4.99. An appendix gives data on the slides, including original dimensions.

Abrams' "Pocket Library of Great Art" began in 1953 and lists reached an even greater mass market, running to 15 million copies. Priced at 95 cents, these volumes average more than 40 illustrations, of which 25 to 35 are in full color.

Paperback art books range in price from 25 cents to more than 10 times that figure. At 30 cents there is a series "Little Art Library," featuring 15 color plates per volume, published by Tudor Publishing Co., New York, which also has other price ranges, Washington Square Press, with titles at 49 and 90 cents, and Dell Publishing with a 75-cent line, are among the companies with a well-established market in the lower price range.

An example of the upper brackets is the output of George Wittenborn Inc., New York, at $2, $2.50 and $4.50.

Venturesome publishers are bringing new series out frequently. Here are some examples:

New American Library, which publishes paperbacks under several names, including Mentor, has started the Mentor-Lineser Art Series, concentrating on little-known art works at 95 cents a volume. A typical volume, "Egyptian Wall Paintings," has 24 pages of text (including nine black and white illustrations) followed by 28 color plates.

Barnes & Noble, New York, has started a series of individual artists at 75 cents a copy. A typical example, "Rembrandt," has 22 pages of text and 54 illustrations, of which 24 are in color.

Here is a partial list of other publishers who have issued art paperbacks: Penguin, Harper Torchbooks, Noonday Press, Bantam Books, Capricorn (Putnam), Dover Publications, Evergreen, University Library and Dutton Everyman, all of New York; Charles E. Tuttle Co., Rutland, Vt.; Beacon Press, Boston; Meridian Books (World), Cleveland; and Indiana University Press, Bloomington.

New Style Collections Ignore Spring

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
 Fashion Writer

NEW YORK — Although it's still on the calendar and mentioned frequently by poets, the fashion industry has stopped believing in spring.

This is evident in fashion writers previewing the American couture collections Jan. 11-14, which were arranged by Eleanor Lambert, former New York Couture Group Press director.

Let the birds come and go when they may, declare the informal group of designers that make up what is called Fashion Circle, they will no longer surrender to the title style dictate of time of year, or even time of day.

The people who can afford the clothes of such designers as Christian Dior of New York, Adele Simpson, Sarni, Scars, Jean Louis, Rudi Gernreich and the like don't have to fret about elements. They can choose their climates to fit their clothes and be there by jet within hours.

Thus, the collections of these couturiers cannot be classified as to season simply by color, or fabric, or the degree of cover up, or ease.

Old Rules Out

Fancy, light-weight wool coats are in pastel hues, especially ice blues and pinks when it isn't even spring. These wonderful winter colors are being held over into the next clothing season by popular request. But just as frequent in the new collection—picture—are stark blacks and shadowy blues and browns, once called fall tones. Conditioned by the hidebound style rules of the past, women always expect to find wispy chiffon in summer and slinky crepes and wools in winter. But these seasonless designers are dishing up both for any kind of weather. They also serve up silky tweeds and bushy woolsens as often in June as they do in January.

The designers do give the fur rage a showy reprieve, but not at those other ingredients of the muffled look, scarves and stoles.

Bare Arms Again

Ever since Jackie Kennedy started it, women have dutifully shivered in collars, sleeveless shifts. And very often the necklines of their dressier dresses dipped daringly down to there.

Consequently, the spare-bare costumes in the new collections do not necessarily stamp them as for sunshine and the June moon glow. The two extremes, bare and covered, are happily sharing fashion honors from one end of the year to the other.

Fancy That

Without spring whatever happens to a young man's fancy?

It never did hibernate, scoff the designers. At least they, the couturiers, have done their part to stimulate a year-round romantic spth by stitching into their garments such necessary ingredients as allure, femininity and mystery.

The femininity is always there.

- Fine Fabrics
 - Patterns
 - Sewing Accessories
- GLOVERS

even when women spoof men by stealing their jacket lapels and their derby hats. Figures especially, however, in supple (not exposed or plastered) curves of this season's collection.

The allure is there with soft, flattery fabrics. The mystery is managed by saris- or dinner gowns that drape lean bodies like Arabian sheiks.

If this sounds slightly like fall, or winter it is only because it is intended.

Small mounds of currant jelly make a bright garnish for good old bread or Brown Betty pudding.

Brush the tops of baking powder biscuits with milk or cream before baking. You'll get a nicely browned crust.

Mammoth Book About Houston

SAM HOUSTON, American Giant. By M. K. Wisheart, historian, newspaperman — historian. Wisheart apparently decided that nothing less than a mammoth book would do justice to a man who served as governor of two states, president of a republic, commander of the army that won Texas her freedom, a congressman, a U. S. senator, an Indian chief and a master politician.

The result of 20 years of research, the 700-page volume includes much material gleaned from interviews with descendants of Houston and his contemporaries.

Its length is at once its strength and its weakness: the book is long enough to include fact after fact and anecdote after anecdote about this fascinating figure, but from time to time the telling of such a grand story becomes a bit tedious.

Wisheart sees the life of Houston as encompassing eight major phases, and he examines each in detail. As might be expected, the high points concern his Tennessee and Texas political careers, his service as governor of two states and was spoken of as a possible successor to his friend and mentor, Andrew Jackson, until a family scandal arose; his battles to beat the breach between North and South and then to keep Texas from seceding when the light proved too great to mend; his struggles to keep the infant Republic of Texas alive and his leadership of the ragtag army which turned on Santa Anna's elite legions and routed them with gunfire, knife slashes and the chilling cry of "Remember the Alamo."

Beauticians Elect New Officers Tuesday

The Snyder Beautician Unit No. 77 met at the Town House Tuesday evening for dinner and installation of officers.

Those installed were: Johnnie Taylor, president; Marilyn Pinkerton, vice president; Dee Byrum, secretary; Betty Rau, treasurer; Viola Smith, director; Kenneth Maches, historian; Thelma Clark, reporter; and Billie Mattson, parliamentarian.

LaWanna Vincent, outgoing president, was presented with a corsage and gift for her two-year term.
