Kitty's Korner

By
Kitty Montgomery

Things seem to be getting back to normal around here. Willa returned from a 3-week trip to Japan. I returned over the weekend from San Angelo, where I greeted my new grandson. I had forgotten how little they are. The Perry's grandson was born in Japan and this was their first glimpse of him. I spent several days entertaining my granddaughter, or was it the other way around? Some of the things she comes up with are simply amazing.

When Jim called to tell us about the baby, we dressed and went to the hospital, where we peeked through the glass at him. Natalie banged on the glass and demanded that they bring the baby out so she could hold him. However, that didn't come to pass until that night when they let the whole family in and everybody gowned up to hold him.

We went to Hemphill's to get him a "coming home suit," while I was shopping, Natalie got a dozen baby carriers out from under a table, arranged them in a circle and had a stuffed bear in each one. She was giving them singing lessons. We finally got everything back in place and went up to get the little suit gift-wrapped. She got into one of her rambunctious moods and was really acting up. I very seriously advised her that she was acting looney and if she didn't cool it, they would come and put her in the looney bin. She took me at my word and sat down beside me like a little lady.

An older man came up the stairs and she looked at him, all eyes, and asked "are you the looney?" He said "I beg your pardon?" Meanwhile I was trying to act like I didn't know her. When she repeated herself, he just laughed and said, "honey I've been looney all my life." Then she asked if he had come to put her in a bin. Everybody got a laugh out of it, but it could have been one of life's most embarrassing moments.

When I got home, there was a note on my desk from Vera Baker. She said if I thought grandchildren were lots of fun, just wait until I had great grandchildren. She has several.

We missed Rita Clements' visit to Ozona last Wednesday, also the opening of the Senior Citizens' Center on Sunday. We didn't know about Mrs. Clements' visit until it was too late to get it in the paper, so the turnout was meager. We understand there was a large crowd for the opening of the center.

Well, last year about this time, everybody on the block was discussing the life span of an ordinary housefly. We seemed to have an influx. The twins at Happy Hollow were especially hard hit and they each had a fly swatter. It was so dull and boring, that's all we had to discuss.

However, this year, we've had another puzzle. Everyone who subscribes to Ultra Magazine has been curious following the most recent issue. An Elizabeth Townsend was picked as one of the ten most beautiful women in Texas. She gives her hometown as Ozona. We have not been able to find any authentic information. Anyone who knows her might let us know, and we'll spread the word.

John Jones completes banker school

John R. Jones of Crockett County National Bank successfully completed the 1986 Texas Tech School of Banking last month.

The program runs one week and comprises over 25 seminars on issues facing the banking industry today. The schools are co-sponsored by the Texas Bankers Association and Independent Bankers Association of Texas. Approximately 160 bankers attended this year.

Rita Clements campaigns-- on behalf of her husband, Bill, who is running against Mark White for governor. Mrs. Clements was at Crockett County National Bank Wednesday morning for a reception. Others are Beth Boyd, Herbert Kerby, Paula Bailey and Louis Hall.

In tax base for 1985--

Crockett Co. schools lose over $1 million

Two-thirds of the state's school districts experienced a loss in tax base between 1984 and 1985, according to the annual study prepared by the State Property Tax Board (SPTB). The agency's 1985 Property Value Study estimates that Texas school districts contained a total of $702.6 billion in taxable value as of January 1, 1985.

The tax base in Crockett County is off $110,000,000. The base for 1984 was $627,000,000 and for 1985 $516,000,000. The school board will work on the budget after the final figures come in in July. Some drastic cuts must be made or a hefty increase in the tax rate is indicated.

Ron Patterson, SPTB's executive director, says a low inflation rate coupled with economic problems in agriculture and the oil and gas industry--two of the mainstays of the Texas economy--helped shrink the tax bases of many districts during this period.

"Our figures may not reflect this year's drastic drop in oil prices until the 1987 study is prepared," he noted.

State law required SPTB to estimate the taxable value of property annually for each of the state's 1,063 school districts.

"A school district's taxable wealth is an important factor in determining how much financial aid it may receive from the state," explained Patterson. The Texas Education Agency will use the 1985 values in calculating education aid allotments for the 1986-87 school year.

"Although our figures show that total taxable values grew by 1.6 percent between the 1984 and 1985 value studies, we believe the actual growth rate was closer to five percent," Patterson said. "This is because the taxable values of nonbusiness vehicles and bank stock were excluded from our 1985 study as a result of changes in state law."

By comparison, statewide taxable values grew by 8.7 percent from 1983 to 1984.

Among the 732 school districts that showed a loss in taxable value during 1984-85 were the Houston and Dallas Independent School Districts, the state's two largest. In general, many districts that lost taxable value could be eligible to receive more state aid.

Figures from the study show that a majority of the school districts with the largest growth in tax base--20 percent or more--were suburban school districts in the areas surrounding Dallas, Fort Worth, Austin and San Antonio.

Rita Clements here to campaign for Bill

A small group was on hand at the Crockett County National Bank Wednesday morning to meet with Mrs. Rita Clements, wife of former governor Bill Clements. Mrs. Clements was in Ozona to campaign for her husband in his bid for the governorship in November against incumbent Mark White.

"Texas needs a businessman for governor," said Mrs. Clements. She stressed that Texas is operating in the red under Governor White and that the most important issue facing Texans is to balance the budget. "Governor Clements, upon leaving office four years ago, left a surplus in the state treasury. Under Mark White, that surplus is gone and Texas is in debt."

On education, Mrs. Clements said that the former governor favors Texas House Bill #72, but suggests refinements that will eliminate excessive paperwork and put more control of education in the hands of local school officials.

Governor Clements also predicts an upturn in the petroleum industry with oil prices perhaps rising to $21 a barrel in September of 1986. He favors an import fee on oil, as well as total gas deregulation and the abolishment of the windfall profits tax.

"Current liability insurance rates in Texas, as well as the rest of the nation, are crippling the small businessman and the agricultural sector," said Mrs. Clements. "My husband feels that changes in the current liability laws and practices are a priority in the next administration."

Asked in what fields she would be active should her husband become governor, Mrs. Clements cited the Main Street Historical Preservation Project. She was most complimentary about Ozona's historical landmarks and said she particularly admired the reconstruction work done on many of the buildings. In addition, Mrs. Clements planned to revive the Governor's Office for Volunteer Services, a project she instigated during her husband's term.

Kay Gray takes position as Crockett Co. Museum curator

Kay Gray, the wife of Rev. Jim Gray, has taken over as museum curator from Mrs. Violene Stanton who retired last month. "At least for the summer," Kay says.

The museum is open from 2 until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. Besides the excellent Indian exhibit presently showing, the museum offers a large collection of books about Crockett County, and this area of Texas. Many books on historic Texas Forts and Texas Indians are also available.

So far this year, 939 visitors have signed the register in the museum. Five of these were from foreign countries, and 110 from other states. Six school classes have also toured the facility.

Crockett Co. Water District makes changes in policies

The Crockett County Water Control and Improvement District has made some changes in policy. First, the payment dates have been changed. Payment on water, sewer and sanitation statements will be due by the 7th of each month.

Service will be disconnected without further notice if payment is not received by the 15th of the month. A re-connect fee of $7.50 will be required to re-establish service.

Also, permit fee of $25 will be required for all new or reconstructed sewer lines.

The customer is required to purchase a permit from the County Road Department when making a cut in the paved streets. Property owners will be responsible for all damages to main sewer or water lines. The property owner or contractor is responsible for the permit before construction begins.

Mohair officials tour Turkey

Four Texas mohair industry officials are in Istanbul, Turkey, this week for the 1986 annual International Mohair Association conference.

Bob Childress of Ozona, vice-chairman of the IMA, is the official Texas representative to the group. Attending the IMA meeting are Mohair Council of America officers Joe David Ross of Sonora, Perry Bushong of Mountain Home and council executive director Bob Raschal of San Angelo. Ross, Bushong and Paschal have been in Europe on a market survey trip, visiting mohair merchants and manufacturers in Switzerland, Germany, Austria and Italy.

Big Game of the Paleo Indians

MUSEUM VISITORS are entranced by this mural of the pre-historic animals that once roamed this part of Texas. Painted by Mary Jo Mason, the mural, is one of the highlights of the Indian Exhibit now on display at the Crockett County Museum.

THE ECONOMY AND YOU

THE MAN WHO DIDN'T COME TO DINNER

By Richard H. Fink

Imagine that you've been overdrawn on your bank account for 25 of the last 26 years. And imagine that, during this same period, you increased the amount of money you spend annually by 1000 percent! Is it likely that the bank's managers would gleefully continue to cover your losses? I doubt it. Not, of course, unless you were the federal government.

Without much fanfare in late March, the United States Senate thumbed its nose at fiscal responsibility by voting down a proposed constitutional amendment which would mandate a balanced budget. By only one vote, the Senate exempted Washington's bureaucrats from having to practice the same kind of economics in their spending that American families must practice with their own checkbooks.

In 1982, the Senate passed a constitutional amendment to require a balanced budget, but the amendment was defeated in Tip O'Neill's big-spending House of Representatives. This time, four of the Senators who had previously supported the amendment voted against it—Democrats Robert Byrd (WV) and Quentin Burdick (ND) and Republicans Mark Hatfield (OR) and Robert Stafford (VT). If just one of these senators had held firm, we might have been well on the way to enacting a reform most Americans believe is necessary to control federal spending.

Curiously, a balanced budget amendment seems even more important today than it did four years ago. Since 1982, the federal deficit has more than doubled, despite two instances in which taxes were raised under the guise of "eliminating loopholes." Federal spending has continued to increase, with only the Gramm-Rudman threat of mandatory cutbacks standing in the way. The amendment, which would not take effect until after the target of a balanced budget is met through Gramm-Rudman guidelines in 1991, would help insure that America never again goes on an irresponsible spending spree without having the cash to pay for it.

Interest payments on the national debt, which increases every year we run a deficit, now total $147 billion, or 15 percent of all the money spent by the federal government this year! That means that the average family of four will have to shell out about $2,400 in taxes this year just to finance interest payments on past debt. No wonder taxes are so high.

Not only is Congress now showing itself unwilling to confront this problem, but, indeed, it's making the situation worse by continuing along on its irresponsible spending spree. Your senators and congressmen are now considering giving themselves an additional $42 million for mailing out self-serving newsletters which are designed to get them reelected. For example, Sen. Alan Cranston (D-CA) spent $1.6 million on newsletter mailings during the last three months of 1985. Cranston, who is seeking reelection in 1986, voted against the balanced budget amendment.

Between May and October, your senators and congressmen want to send out one trillion pieces of mail—after having already spent nearly $96 million on newsletter mailings since last October. What message are they sending us when they refuse to agree to balancing the budget and then continue to waste out tax money like that?

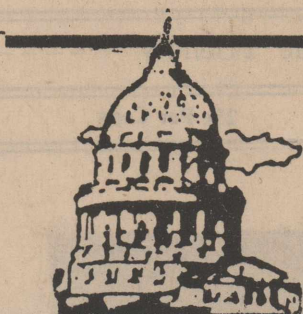

President Reagan has long supported a balanced budget amendment, and he feels personally betrayed that 10 Republican senators "walked away" from him by voting against the balanced budget amendment, according to White House chief of staff Donald Regan. In fact, Regan was said to have been so angry at one key Republican Senator who voted against the amendment, Sen. John Heinz (PA), that he refused to speak at a campaign fundraising dinner Heinz had organized. Although Donald Regan gets a lot of bad press, I say bravo to the man who didn't come to dinner. Our elected representatives need to learn that thumbing their nose at the public will not go unpunished.

(Richard H. Fink is President of Citizens For A Sound Economy, a 250,000 member Washington-based citizens' organization.)

STATE CAPITAL HIGHLIGHTS

By Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN—Texas Comptroller Bob Bullock reported last week that state spending rose for the third straight month, even as state government hurtles towards its destined day of reckoning with a $1.3 billion deficit.

Bullock's figures show total spending in May was over 80% higher than the monthly average for the fiscal year. Bullock's office, which months ago began criticizing Gov. Mark White's voluntary austerity plan, made no comment on that issue.

But former Gov. Bill Clements, now seeking to oust White, called White's plan "a bust" that "did not reduce the spending habits of state government one penny."

White exchanged fire, accusing Clements of flip-flopping on the Panhandle nuclear dump issue. He remained optimistic that his austerity plan is working.

Cyclical spending causes some monthly reports to be higher than others, his office explained.

Monitoring Spending
Neither White nor Clements had any new twists on the subject of a special session to balance the state budget.

One bright spot is that Bullock has joined together the top staff in several of his divisions into a new Economic Analysis Center.

He has directed them to combine data from the research, revenue-estimating, fund-accounting and debt-registration arms and compile an up-to-date picture of the Texas economy and its future in an ongoing process.

Clements Gains
Clements and U.S. Sen. Phil Gramm, the state's top two Republicans, have apparently reconciled any differences they carried in the past primary election.

Their new alliance means peace, for now, between old line Republicans and new converts, particularly former Democrats.

Clements also won the straw vote preference of delegates to the state employees convention last week by 61 percent to White's 24 percent. White responded that while Clements may have the state employees' leadership support, he had the rank and file membership.

The Texas Public Employees Association made no official endorsement in that race, but voted to lobby for a nine percent pay increase next session.

Texas Supreme Court
Meanwhile, a House Committee continued investigating alleged misconduct on the Texas Supreme Court amid charges from two justices the probe is politically motivated.

Justices C. L. Ray and William Kilgarlin, in a letter to that committee, said they have been politically targeted for removal from the court, apparently for siding too much with plaintiffs.

They charge the committee chairman with aiding their opposition.

The link, the letter pointed out, occurred visibly at a March meeting to plan the first committee hearing. It was held at the home of George Shipley, a political consultant who jointly works for committee chairman Rep. Frank Tejeda and the pro-defense group Texas Supreme Court Justice Committee.

Ray and Kilgarlin questioned "the legislative purpose being served by your campaign manager (Shipley) directing the committee investigation from his home."

Shipley responded the informal meeting was to introduce a San Antonio reporter to possible sources.

Other Highlights
—The Texas AFL-CIO last week said labor will lobby next session for state legislation imposing criminal penalties on contractors who do not enforce occupational safety standards. Recent figures show Texas leads the nation in construction deaths, and violations of federal safety regulations were cited as factors in three of four deaths.

—Recent survey results show most Texans are not optimistic about the state economy and their personal fortunes.

Fifty-four percent expect to be worse off next year, an impact of the oil patch crises.

—The Texas Education Agency will study the possibility of public schools switching to a quarter system from the semester system.

In the quarter system, students would be required to attend school three quarters and have one quarter off. Vacations would be alternated by taking off three months at different times.

Letters to the Editor

June 16, 1986

Dear Kitty,

Enclosed is my check for the Stockman for another year. Even though I don't know many people in it anymore, I look forward to receiving it each week. There are still a few familiar names.

We are going to be moving soon, so I would like for you to change the address on my subscription. We already have a mail box and receive mail at the new house. We hope to be in it about six weeks.

Tell everyone in Ozona hello for me. It is still near and dear to my heart after all of these years. I try to get back at least once a year, but doubt that I will make it this summer with the move.

Sincerely,
Ann Baggett Oswald

Tips For Gardeners

From the Ozona Garden Club
by Mrs. Bailey Post

June brings fast growth to lawns and gardens. Annual flowers, shrubs, trees and vegetable gardens are at the peak of their growth this month. Aim your garden experience at growing things properly, not just planting them. Prune to gain the shape and form you want and fertilize to get the type of growth that will produce the best fruits and flowers.

Of all the problems in June, insects and diseases are the most difficult to contend with. You can find a prevention for these at many stores and nurseries.

Up to now we have been blessed with a great number of light rains to keep our area in best shape than for several years. Summer flowers and vegetable need strong growth now to continue their flowering and fruiting. Dahliar and chrysanthemums need water and care to mature them enough to flower abundantly in the fall.

Plants need plenty of nutrients and moisture if mid-summer growth is expected, for by now most of the fertilizer applied at planting time has been used up. Water well afterward.

June also is the time for specialized jobs such as making cuttings of evergreens. Make a rooting bed outdoors in a lightly shaded area, using perlite or vermiculite as the medium. For best results keep the medium constantly damp and use a rooting compound. I have used sand, new evergreen growth is ready for cuttings when it hardens up. Make them 4 to 6 inches long and strip off all but the top set of leaves. Cut the base at an angle and stick the cuttings at least an inch deep in the rooting soil.

In six to eight weeks, after the cuttings have rooted and roots are about an inch long, pot them in a light soil mixture (y3 peat moss, 1/3 vermiculite, 1/3 loam) and grow through the rest of the summer. Transplant into the garden in late fall. Keep damp if no rainfall. The rarest color among flowers, except for green, is blue-True blue is not easy to find. Some that have a cooling effect are blue delphinium, forget-me-nots, blue hydrangea, "Heavenly Blue," blue ageratum, morning glories, perennial flax, blue lobelia and blue bromellia. Have you noticed the beautiful Vitex covered in blue flowers in several yards and village park.

Cancer Society warns to take care in the sun

The American Cancer Society (ACS) has some words of warning for Texans looking forward to spending time outdoors during the long days of summer.

If you fry now, you may pay later, the Society cautions, because every exposure to the sun ages and damages skin. Skin cancer is the most serious form of "payment" for sun worshippers. More than 400,000 new cases of skin cancer will be diagnosed this year. While the vast majority are highly curable, the problem itself is largely preventable by exercising good sense and taking simple precautions.

"Young people, especially, are unaware of the cumulative amount of damage they are getting when they get too much sun," said Linda N. White, R.N., Houston, Chairman of the ACS Texas Division skin cancer program development committee. "They think because nothing happens this year, or in five years, that everything's okay."

"Also, a lot of people are unaware of the damage done other than skin cancer...wrinkles, drying out, the aging process," White added.

"Geographically, skin cancer is more prevalent in the Sun Belt, and because we are in the Sun Belt, people are at higher risk," White said.

Also at higher risk for developing skin cancer are people with lightly-pigmented skin, people who work or spend a great deal of recreational time outdoors and workers exposed to coal tar, pitch, creosote, arsenic compounds or radium. As with many other cancers, risk increases with age.

Because skin cancer occurs more frequently than any other type of cancer, it is important to recognize its warning signals: a sore that does not heal; any unusual skin condition, especially a change in the size or color of a mole or other darkly pigmented growth or spot.

To reduce the risk of damage from too much sun, the Society advises Texans to:

Cover up-wear hats and protective clothing;

Use sunscreens-apply sunscreen at least an hour before going into the sun and again after swimming or perspiring heavily;

Avoid the midday sun-between 10:00 a.m. and 3:00 p.m. the sun's ultraviolet rays (the ones that do the damage) are strongest;

Don't use indoor sun lamps, tanning palors or tanning pills

In addition to taking precautions in the sun, the Society recommends monthly skin self-exams to note any changes in moles, blemishes or birthmarks.

For more information, contact your local American Cancer Society office.

Fowler and Denman chosen for Youth range workshop

Keith Fowler and Scott Denman were chosen to attend the Youth Range Workshop at the Texas Tech University Center, Junction, June 22-27. Selection was based on outstanding projects or interest in range management.

Local sponsors are Crockett Co. Soil and Water Conservation District, Ozona National Bank, and Crockett County National Bank, strong supporters of range education and leadership development of local youth.

The week long Youth Range Workshop, sponsored by the Texas Section of the Society for Range Management, is arranged to recognize outstanding range and ranch youth and to provide them an opportunity for complimentary training in range management and leadership skills. According to Barron Rector and B.J. Ragsdale, Workshop Coordinators from College Station, participants will learn to identify range plants, evaluate rangeland potential and current condition, manage rangeland for livestock production and wildlife habitat and practice ranch planning. Leadership training will feature discussion of interpersonal relations, communications skills and group leading practice. Field trips away from the Center will be to a Kimble county ranch and the Kerr Wildlife Management Area in Kerr County.

Range Workshop instructors include Texas Agriculture Extension Service specialists, teachers from Texas A&M and Texas Tech Universities, a range specialists from the Soil Conservation Service, and other members of the Texas Section SRM.

This will be the thirty-first consecutive year for this educational activity for youth. More than 969 youth have benefited.

Pecos High Bridge boat ramp opens with rain run-off

Due to the combined effect of the recent rains and the decreased release of water from the dam, the level of Amistad Lake has risen enough to allow the National Park Service to open the Pecos ramp to launching. The lake level is now at an elevation of 1080 feet.

Although that is eleven feet lower than the water was when the ramp was closed on April 25, it is now safe to use. The difference is the improvements that were made to the ramp surface while the water was down. The Comstock community raised money to repair and surface 120 feet of the ramp. Added to what the Park Service did, the ramp was extended 300 feet during this six week period. The combined work of Comstock and the Service followed the dropping water with concrete surface, so all that was needed was a rise of less than two feet from the low last week to get the ramp back in operation.

The National Park Service appreciates what the Comstock residents did. Without their help the Pecos ramp would not have been in service today.

It is important to note that there is no assurance that the lake will maintain its present level or continue rising. In the event the level falls much below 1080 it will again be necessary to close the Pecos ramp.

Most of us refrigerate left-over food for one of two reasons: either we want to postpone washing the dish it's in or we feel guilty about throwing away perfectly good food. But when food sits in the refrigerator too long, we often wind up throwing it away anyway--and the dish still has to be washed!

A better system for handling leftovers is to think of them as "planned-overs." Here are some suggestions for planning to make good use of leftover food before it goes to waste:

Know the appropriate amount of food to buy for your household. If you buy an extra amount of a certain food because it's on sale, prepare two batches of the same dish and freeze one. Label and date the frozen dish. Then keep a running list or card file of frozen items so you can remember to include them in future menu plans.

Decide immediately after a meal whether you can incorporate any leftover food into the current week's menus, or if you should freeze it for future use. Family members may be more accepting of leftovers if they aren't faced with the food in the same form for several days in a row.

If you have small amounts of several food items, make your own individual frozen dinners using foods that complement each other. These can be most helpful for those days when family members eat at different times due to conflicting schedules.

If you choose not to freeze leftovers, be sure to cover or wrap them properly and refrigerate immediately. Know how long you can safely refrigerate different food items and make definite attempts to use the food while it's still fresh.

Use your imagination to come up with different ways of incorporating the food into your week's meals. The idea behind "planned-overs" is to think about leftovers in a new way--no longer as food waiting to be thrown away but as complete or partial meals waiting to come to your rescue.

Roof Thatching

Miss Bertha's eighty-years did not show as she lay in the hospital bed facing surgery. We talked about the weather, the latest news, and about life in general.

Then, our conversation centered on faith. She told me the surgery was serious but she had no fear. "My roof is thatched," she said, and smiled as she noticed wrinkles of question marks forming on her young pastor's face.

"Your roof is what?" I stammered, searching for a handle of interpretation.

She took my hand in both of hers. "My faith in God was birthed when I was a little girl, and it has been growing ever since. Every day I have built my faith, and now that I face this unknown surgical journey, I have no fear. Nothing can harm me; nothing can scare me. My house of faith is firm, solid. I have covered the roof of my life with the teachings of God's word," and she took a deep breath, then called my attention to the beauty of the day reflecting itself outside her window.

"My roof is thatched."

Ozona Royals continue winning streak with 2 wins

The Ozona Royals continued their hot winning streak Sunday as they swept a tough double-header from the San Angelo Sundevils by scores of 4 to 3 and 7 to 1.

The Royals put on a barbecue lunch Sunday to regain the traditional Royal crowd which helped the Royals to close victories.

Ozona drew first blood in game one in the bottom of the first inning when Ruben Mendez reached on an error. Harvey Fierro then laid down a sacrifice bunt to advance Mendez to second. With two outs Hector De-Hoyos continued his hot hitting by driving in Mendez on a hard double to right centerfield. The Royals scored another unearned run in the bottom of the second when Cruz Garza reached on an error. Garza came in to score after singles by Steve Sanchez and Butch Gonzales. The Sundevils tied the game in the top half of the third when the Sundevils hit three straight singles off Royals pitcher Steve Sanchez. Ozona came back to regain the lead in the bottom of the fourth when Garza crossed the plate. San Angelo came back to tie the game in the top of the fifth on a hit batter and a sacrifice fly to deep center.

With the game tied at three and two outs, Willie Fierro hit a single to right-center. Valdo Galindo then came in to pinch run. With two outs Jimmy Tambunga hit a double to deep right-center to drive in the sliding Galindo. The Royals held on to the lead as the Sundevils went down in order to win 4 to 3. Steve Sanchez pitched seven innings allowing three runs on three hits, one walk, and five strikeouts.

Game two proved to be as exciting as game one as the Royals took their twelfth straight game.

Game two found lefthanders Abel Lara and San Angelo ace Adam Martinez in a 0-0 pitching dual through four complete innings. In the bottom of the fifth the Royals scored two runs off Martinez on singles by Richard Sanchez and Romaldo Cervantez, and a hard double off the bat of Lara. Lara took himself out of late inning trouble in the fifth and sixth innings as the Sundevils stranded four runners. Ozona came back in the bottom of the sixth to score five runs highlighted by Lara's three run homer, his third of the season. Richard Sanchez came on in relief in the bottom of the seventh after Lara allowed one run on a single and a base-on-balls. Richard Sanchez shut the door on the Sundevils to pick up a save and a 7 to 1 Ozona victory. Lara pitched six innings, allowing one run on five hits, four walks, and five strikeouts.

The Royals would like to thank Sunday's big crowd and would like to have their continued support down the stretch.

Ozona will put their twelve game winning streak on the line Sunday afternoon in San Angelo against a tough Cardinals team, starting time is 1:30 p.m.

Circle Bar downs Moore Oil

During the first inning neither team was able to score. Circle Bar pitcher Walter Babb struck out Moore Oil's Keith Miller and Adrian Vargas. Raul Rico also struck out. Adrian Vargas' strong arm and excellent pitching quickly struck out Jimmy McCary and Bryan Dunn. Luis Guadarrama's keen eye helped him stop a ground ball to tag out Walter Babb leaving the score 0-0. Only seconds into the second inning Walter Babb quickly struck out Luis Guadarrama, Andy Borrego and Jesus Ramos.

The tension grew as Circle Bar again went to bat and Moore Oil continued to hold their ground. Again in the third inning Circle Bar pitcher Babb struck out the first three batters for Moore Oil. When Circle Bar boys went to bat they decided to try their luck and Jimmy McCary and Adam Alba quickly scored two runs. Moore Oil surprised them when they came back to bat. Adrian Vargas and Luis Guadarrama each scored a run to tie at the end of the fourth inning. As the game grew more exciting Circle Bar's Jimmy McCary, Adam Alba, and Bryan Dunn scored three more runs. Moore Oil decided to make this their game and sent Adrian, Mike, Hal, Keith, Raul, Chad, and Luis out to do just that. The game ended fifteen minutes after the official time expired with a score of Moore Oil 11 to Circle Bar 5.

Trey Preston of Eldorado, spent several days last week and the weekend with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Applewhite.

El Chatos ends season with win over ONB

Ozona National Bank went to bat first during this very exciting game, but to no advantage over the well conditioned efforts of the second place team, El Chatos. Pitcher John Ramirez used his excellent technique to strike out ONB's first batter, Randall Wilson. Third baseman Joe Mendoza managed the second out which was an excellent hit by ONB's Shane Pridemore. Mark Ramirez at short stop position was on the alert when Juan DeLuna tried to sneak to second base. When the bottom of the first inning began the El Chato's gang had it all planned out. Alonzo Quiroz, Matthew Marshall, Mark Ramirez, Michael Sizek, Joe Mendoza and Diego Pena all brought in runs. ONB's pitcher Paul Vargas managed to sneak up on James Tambunga and struck him out for El Chato's first out. The eighth batter, Gerald Ortiz, scored the seventh run and John Ramirez, Alonzo Quiroz, and Matthew Marshall all came in when Mark Ramirez hit a homerun for the eleventh run. Again Paul Vargas struck and Michael Sizek made the second out. Joe Mendoza, Diego Pena, and James Tambunga all scored another run before the combined efforts of Paul Vargas and Mike Vitela managed to tag out John Ramirez. By this time the game pretty much belonged to El Chatos but there were still more surprises to come as ONB returned to quickly score a run by Mike Vitela.

Paul Vargas came to bat and was struck out by John Ramirez. Gabriel Perez succeeded at getting a hit and advanced to third while Shaun Morrow drew a base and advanced all the way to second base. Clay Westmoreland came to bat and was struck out as did Randall Wilson. ONB still had two men on bases. El Chatos sent five men to bat and two drew bases while pitcher, Shane Pridemore struck out J. J. Coy, Michael Sizek, and Tim Wheeler. In the top of the third inning ONB went to bat and Alex Borrego, Mike Vitela, and Paul Vargas all scored runs for their team. John Ramirez struck out Shane Pridemore and the combined efforts of J. J. Coy and Justin Moran were used to tag out Juan DeLuna.

Eddie De Luna scored the last run for ONB and Ryan Morris came to bat only to get beat to home base by catcher Michael Sizek. The bottom of the third inning lasted long enough for El Chatos to score the last and fifteenth run for the end of the game. It was called at this time and the final score was El Chato's 15 and ONB 5.

El Chatos downs Buttery

El Chatos downed Buttery 10-8 in Little League play last week.

Matthew Marshall pitched four complete innings throwing 5 strikeouts. Diego Pena pitched 1 inning throwing 2 strikeouts. Oscar Payne served as umpire behind the plate.

Mark Ramirez scored the first run in the second inning. Others scoring were Joe Mendoza, James Tambunga, Gerald Ortiz, Diego Pena, Alonzo Quiroz and Michael Sizek.

Joe Mendoza and James Tambunga both had three RBI's apiece. Mark Ramirez had two RBI's and Gerald Ortiz had one RBI.

James Tambunga scored the only in-field home run during the game.

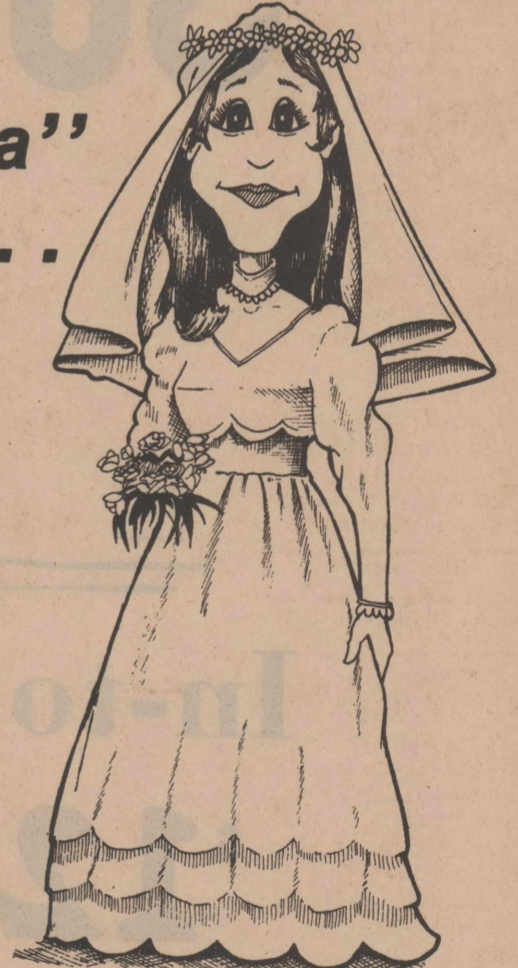

Arthur Vasquez was hit by a pitched ball during the fourth inning and was replaced by John Ramirez as base runner.

Final score was El Chato's 10 and Buttery 8. The game was called after the fifth inning due to time expiration.

Ships of the desert must adjust to life in Texas

By Allison Cowan

In 1853, Senator Jefferson Davis becomes Secretary of War in the Cabinet of President Franklin Pierce. This enables him to pursue one of his dreams: to find an animal that can carry heavy loads, survive on small amounts of food and water and travel quickly on the Texas frontier. The War Department persuades Congress to pass a bill called the Camel Act, which makes $30,000 available to purchase camels.

On May 10, 1855 Major H.C. Wayne receives the money and a special presidential assignment to make an expedition to North Africa to purchase 33 camels. He returns in May of the next year to Powder Horn, Texas to unload 35 camels. The return voyage went well; the animals were in remarkably good condition except for some sores and swollen feet.

Lizzie Holzheuser, a lifetime resident of Indianola, Texas, near Victoria, is there when the camels are unloaded. "...How we like to watch them. People are afraid of them because they are so mean," she says. "A camel tried to attack my husband and he whipped it with his bull whip, which took care of him," she says.

Unloading these unruly beasts requires the help of a Negro like Old Uncle Jack Green, a slave on the wharf. "Whilst I was working on the wharf...some camels in the charge of Mexican-looking people come to Indianola. I don't see when they unload them from the ships. I don't know where they come from. They are just there--right there in Indianola, walking around in the streets when I see them. The men unload a camel and just turn him loose. And then a man rides a horse and drives the camels with packs on their backs. You see I work on the wharf; I'm a slave and I don't have no business out there with them camels."

Later, a second load of camels arrives for Camp Verde, three miles outside of Bandera Pass in southern Kerr County. Then, on June 16, 1857 the whole herd heads west for California. Some of the camels never make it because they are turned loose, others are used in salt-packing trains. Some even return to Texas again after Bethel Coynwood, a Confederate spy, and Texas lawyer, who captures 14 camels from Union troops. Throughout the Civil War 80 camels and two Egyptians pass through Confederate hands.
