Bike-A-Thon To Be Held

The Donley County Unit of the American Cancer Society will sponsor its annual Bike-A-Thon, September 16th. The Bike-A-Thon is normally held in the spring, but due to other organizations competing for funds during that time, the local unit decided to move this fund-raising activity to the fall.

Prospective participants can pick up their pledge cards at the office of the Elementary-Junior High School Principal.

The route the bikers will use is along Farm to Market Road 2362. A police escort will accompany the riders to insure the safety of all participants.

All those interested in participating in this fun, worthwhile activity should be at the School Cafeteria at 10:00 a.m. on September 16.

If you can't be a rider, then be a pledger! Let's continue to cooperate in supporting the quest to eliminate cancer!

Economy Is Robust

According to figures released by the Office of the Texas Comptroller of Public Accounts, Donley County retail sales tax receipts were up by 5.9% over the same period last year. Gross sales in the first quarter of 1988 were $4,040,932, while the 1989 figures were $4,277,643.

By comparison, the state as a whole was up only 4.6%. As usual, there was a side variation from county to county. Donley County seems to be in better shape than most counties in the area, however.

Anyone interested in looking at the figures may stop by the Press office.

Appearances

Luke 19:1-9 is a contrast in the way people see things.

There are several strange things about this story. Imagine a dignified government official climbing a tree. And then Jesus invited himself to the man's house for supper. Instead of being mad, Zaccheus "welcomed him gladly".

There was a big difference in the way Zaccheus looked at Jesus and the way the crowd looked at him. The crowd looked at Jesus trying to find something wrong. They were critical.

Zaccheus called Jesus "Lord". "Lord" was a word used to address a king, or what a slave called his owner, or what a student called his teacher back then. Zaccheus had a different attitude.

But Jesus did not look at things the way that the crowd did, either.

The crowd looked at Zaccheus and saw a traitor who worked for the Romans. They saw someone who they thought was dishonest. They felt they were better than he was.

Jesus looked at Zaccheus and saw someone worth dying for.

Zaccheus responded to Jesus' love by giving half of his possessions to the poor.

When we look at someone today, do we look down on them as a sinner? Or do we see them as valuable, as Jesus saw them.

Hedley News

Hedley: Heading for Success

This is the new motto for Hedley Schools. It was suggested by Christina Woodard, shown in the photograph above. Students and teachers came up with suggestions for the motto. The Hedley faculty and student council made the selection from that list. There were dozens of good entries in the competition, but Christina's was chosen because it was brief, to the point, and the initial letters are also those of "Hedley High School". Christina is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Woodard of Hedley. She has a sister, Rachel, in the seventh grade. Christina's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Toby Woodard, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Long of Hedley. Her great-grandmother is Flora Sanders, also from Hedley. Christina's favorite subject is math. Her favorite hobby is going shopping. It is hoped that "Hedley: Heading for Success" will become a community-wide motto.

This portion of Hedley News was contributed by Mandi White, Student Council Representative, Hedley School.

In other Hedley news, Gail, Johnny, and Lisa Hill accompanied Buford and Jerry Holland to Wheeler Friday night. They had supper with Glyndol, Kathi, Whitney, and Lynn Holland, and attended the Clarendon-Wheeler football game.

Visiting in John and Martha Hill's home Labor Day weekend were Nina King of Van Buren, Arkansas; June Stephens of Tulsa, Oklahoma; George Schell, also of Tulsa; Jeff and Lori Hill of Whitharral; Sherric, Tim, and Jordan McDougal of Lubbock; Loreta Crump and Jason and Justin Ham of Clarendon; Johnny, Gail, and Lisa Hill of Clarendon, and Carole, Amanda, and David Ward of Hedley.

Cliff Wilkinson was home from Texas Tech on Labor Day weekend. On Friday, Cliff, Clairdee, Dusty, and Tiffany Wilkinson, and Dorothy Harris traveled to Felt and Guymon, Oklahoma. They returned Monday afternoon.

Kathy, Angela, James, and T. J. Turner, along with Dale Turner from Amarillo, traveled recently to Brownwood for the funeral of their grandmother, Mildred Denton.

Jimmie Hunt has been quite ill in Saint Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo. He was reported doing better as of Sunday night. Friends may send cards and letters to room 287.

Sunday was High Attendance Day in Sunday School at First Baptist Church. This was a warm-up for a state-wide high attendance day among Baptist Churches in October. The goal was easily exceeded, and a near-capacity crowd attended the following morning worship service. Hedley has three fine churches, with a variety of worship and fellowship opportunities. We urge you to support the church of your choice.

Faculty and school board members enjoyed a reception for new Hedley School Superintendent Gary L. White at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Longan on Thursday evening. Homemade ice cream, cake, and cookies were served. The Whites will be moving from Laramie, Wyoming, sometime between September 20 and October 1.

Last Friday was picture day at Hedley Schools. Prints will be returned and retakes made in about a month.

Burlington Northern Railroad is constructing a new bridge over the creek just west of Hedley. A train of pre-cast concrete components was unloaded last week, and the individual components were trucked to the construction site. The bridge will be opened with a minimum of disruption to rail traffic.

Mission Cable Television workers were in town last week connecting two new channels, TNT and The Nostalgia Channel, to Hedley's cable system.

The second of two public hearings concerning the City of Hedley's application for a Texas Department of Community Development grant was held Thursday evening at City Hall. The city is applying for sewer-system-improvement funds.

Leave news for this column at Senior Citizens Center. It will be picked up around eleven o'clock each Monday morning.

Loss Of Bladder Control

It is estimated that more than 10 million Americans suffer from urinary incontinence or the loss of bladder control. This condition affects many elderly persons. Ten to 15 percent of all older people living at home and over half of all elderly living in nursing homes experience urinary incontinence.

Incontinence may occur when the opening of the bladder does not close tightly enough to prevent urine from being released when an individual sneezes, coughs, or experiences other types of physical stress to the abdomen. This is called stress incontinence. Medicines which constrict the bladder opening or improve bladder capacity may be beneficial. However, surgery may be the only way to correct the problem.

Urge incontinence results from the inability to prevent the urge to urinate. This may result from nervous system problems, such as strokes. Urinary tract infections or tumors also can cause urge incontinence. Prescription medicines used to treat this problem include anticholinergics (halt nerve impulses to the bladder), calcium blockers (increase bladder capacity), and antispasmodics (relax the bladder muscles).

"You Mean,
He...
Really Does
Love... Me?"

"Yes!" The Bible says, "For while we were still helpless, at the right time Christ died for the ungodly. For one will hardly die for a righteous man; though perhaps for the good man someone would dare even to die. But God demonstrates His own love toward us, in that while we were yet sinners, Christ died for us..." - Romans 5:6-8

I am often haunted...haunted by my past, my failures, my mistakes which surface in my memory from time to time: Things I've said and done to others that hurt them deeply; Things I ought to have done that would have helped others, but due to my own selfishness, I never bothered; Immoral thoughts & desires; Lack of integrity; Foolish human pride... it all resides deep inside me, occasionally springing up to remind me of who and what I really am... helpless, a sinner, an enemy of righteousness!

What a dramatic thought, then, that God loves me anyway. He loves me so much that He gave His son, Christ Jesus, to die for me! He didn't wait for me to "get it all together" before He did it. He just, did it anyway! And now He waits... for me... to come home to Him... because He really does love me!!!

PTA and Clarendon Working For Unity, Communication and Success

Parents and teachers must communicate if children are to succeed in school. Here are two wish lists to help that dream come true.

Ten Things Parents Wish Teachers Would Do:

1. Build Students' self-esteem using praise generously while avoiding ridicule and negative public criticism.
2. Get to know as much as you can about each child's needs, interests and special talents as well as the way each child learns best.
3. Communicate often and openly with parents, contacting them early about academic or behavior problems and being candid rather than defensive when discussing school problems.
4. Assign homework regularly that helps children learn; provide parents with direction on how they can work with their children to get the most out of homework.
5. Set high academic standards for all students, expecting all of them to learn and helping them to do so.
6. Vary their teaching methods and make learning fun.
7. Care about children, since children learn best when taught by warm, friendly, caring and enthusiastic teachers.
8. Treat all children fairly and not play favorites.
9. Enforce a positive discipline code based on clean and fair rules that are established at the beginning of each school year and remember to reinforce positive classroom behavior rather than punish negative.
10. Encourage parent involvement by reaching out to involve them in their children's education, showing them how they can help their children at home, all the while remembering that parents want to work with teachers to help their children do their best.

From the book The National PTA Talks to Parents: How to Get the Best Education for Your Child by the National PTAS. Published by Doubleday.

Ten Things Teachers Wish Parents Would Do:

1. Be involved. Parents' involvement helps students learn, improves schools and makes teachers' jobs easier.
2. Provide resources at home for learning. Parents should have books and magazines available and read with their children each day.
3. Set a good example. Parents should show their children that they believe that reading is both enjoyable and useful. They shouldn't spend all their time, either, in front of the TV.
4. Encourage students to do their best in school. Parents need to show students that they believe education is important and that they want their children to do their best.
5. Emphasize academics. Too many parents get caught up in athletics and in preparing their children for the world of work when academics should be their first concern.
6. Support school rules and goals. Parents should take care not to undermine school rules, discipline or goals.
7. Use pressure positively. Parents should encourage children to do their best but not pressure them by setting goals too high or by scheduling too many activities.
8. Call teachers early if there is a problem so there is still time to solve it. Don't wait for teachers to call them.
9. Accept their responsibility as parents. Don't expect the school and teachers to take over all the obligations of parents. Parents should teach children basic discipline at home rather than leaving this to teachers.
10. View drinking and excessive partying as a serious matter. This takes a toll on students' classroom performance. While parents are concerned about drug abuse, many fail to recognize that alcohol is the drug most frequently abused by youngsters as well as adults.

Fathers And The PTA

by Jamie Deyhle

Clifton Davis, the 1989-91 Honorary Membership Chairman of the National PTA knows the importance of education and of parent's participation in their children's education. The father of two children, Davis is "...deeply concerned about the quality of their education and their response to it."

"I hope that my work with the National PTA will encourage and motivate fathers to understand that their children's education is the responsibility of both parents," says Davis. "I believe that more and more fathers are getting involved in their children's education, which is a positive step. Fathers are attending parent-teacher conferences and PTA meetings. They are volunteering in many areas of curricular and extracurricular activities," he continues. They are making their concern for their children's education known."

"My father inspired me to strive for excellence in education and I try to do the same for my children," adds Davis, who holds a B.A. degree, a master of divinity degree, and an honorary doctorate in humane letters.

The Clarendon PTA encourages and welcomes fathers to join and be contributing members; to attend meetings, to participate on committees and to hold offices. Fathers can offer a wealth of information, wisdom and productivity to a PTA, to a school board, to a school system. The education of our children is the responsibility of BOTH parents. Won't you accept that responsibility, embrace it as an honor and in so doing set an example for your children they will always remember?

As Clifton Davis concludes, "It is not enough for parents to simply tell their children of the importance of education. They must set an example." PTA salutes the examples of the men who generously give of their time and talents (both publicly and supportively) and are available and visible to our children in Clarendon.

Join the men who dare to participate, who dare to try, who dare to attempt. Join the men who Dare To Care!

*Quotes from Clifton Davis taken from the book The National PTA Talks To Parents: How To Get The Best Education For Your Child by Melitta J. Cutright.
