Premiere Industry Looking At Snyder

Chamber officials announced Friday that a major industrial prospect had expressed interest in locating in Scurry County and that an industrial team from Snyder is mobilizing to work with the prospect.

A Fortune 100 company, the firm is believed to be considering three locations. It is believed that one of the other locations also is in West Texas and the third is in Eastern New Mexico.

Two officials from the industrial development department of Texas Electric Service Co. were in Snyder Tuesday to brief chamber and industrial foundation officials on the prospect.

"The ball has been handed off to us," stated chamber president Dalton Walton. "TESCO has done the preliminary spade work, provided the prospect with data about Snyder, now it is up to us."

The firm, local leaders were told, would manufacture an exotic metal used in nuclear projects. The plant would be built in four phases with ultimate employment of some 1,000 persons. Initially, the plant would employ about 150 persons, then would double each year for four years.

Estimated cost of construction would be $150 million, leaders were told. "That in itself would require a sizeable work force during the construction period," Walton added.

Rex Fields, president of the Industrial Foundation, said Snyder is being considered because of its arid climate, its rail facilities and highways and it's non-union influence. In addition, Fields said, the company has the potential to use products currently manufactured

Rain, Snow Fall

A cold front brought a mixture of light rain and snow into the Snyder area early Saturday, but temperatures remained above the freezing mark.

The official gauge at the city water treatment plant recorded .03 inch of moisture and a low reading of 35 degrees. Heavier snowfall was reported to the north, but clouds began to break up by mid-morning Saturday.

Lease Fight Looms

WASHINGTON (AP) A fight may be brewing between two major federal departments over how fast to sell oil rights to the nation's offshore waters.

The basic difference - whether to give priority to all-out oil production at the possible expense of mismanaging public lands - has been kicked around for years both in and out of government.

But now an administration official says the question may come to a head in a jurisdictional dispute between the Energy Department and the Interior Department that could culminate in a Cabinet-level debate.

The official, who asked to remain anonymous, said Friday the differences between the two departments over the offshore oil leasing schedule may test a "memorandum of understanding" adopted when the Energy Department was established in 1977.

11 To Lose Jobs

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)-Eleven state employees have learned they will lose their jobs at the end of March as part of a plan to reduce the number of employees in the governor's office.

Allen Clark, special assistant for administration for Gov. Bill Clements, said Friday the cuts in the Governor's Criminal Justice Division will bring the target number close to its goal.

Clements has said he planned to have 5 percent fewer employees in his office than former Gov. Dolph Briscoe. The number of positions would then be 268 instead of the 282 listed in the budget.

Carter Claims Progress Made

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) —President Carter, claiming progress toward an Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty, said today "I have good reason to hope that the goal can now be reached."

Carter's remarks were prepared for delivery on his arrival from two days of negotiations in Egypt, which President Anwar Sadat described today as "fruitful."

"I look forward to completing the urgent business at hand," Carter said in his arrival remarks.

After his final round of talks with Sadat in Egypt Carter said, 'We have resolved some difficult issues here. Difficult issues still remain to be resolved."

"I'm hopeful that the difficulties which still remain can be resolved," Carter added.

Sadat, appearing with Carter after their final meeting, said "At this precise moment I am prepared to say only that we have had a very fruitful talk. Exactly as President Carter stated, we have overcome some of the difficulties. Some other issues are to be taken."

Carter wrapped up his stay in Egypt with a televised address to the nation's parliament and the talk with Sadat.

He then headed for a quick tour of the pyramids before his departure for Israel.

Ask Us

Q - What is involved in becoming a court reporter?

A - Basically, three things are required, said John Cline, court reporter for 132nd Disdtict Court in Scurry County. One is the successful completion of a reporting school program. Another is the passage of a competency test in which the prospective reporter must type 220-plus words a minute on a phonetic-style typewriter. Also, the court reporter must be appointed by the judge of the court in which he wants to work. Another aspect of court reporting is continuing education that includes attendance at special seminars, Cline added.

IRA--The sun has been harnessed and put to work in Troy Lilly's science class in Ira High School.

The high school science teacher and a ninth grade class built a solar collecting window box and put the device to use in heating a room of a school-owned house.

The process is embarrassingly simple and completely cheap. A blackened piece of Masonite attracts heat that is then channeled into a bedroom of the home. The cool, heavier air already in the room is drawn into a special slot of the solar collector where it is heated and then discharged back into the room as warm air.

On a sunny day, said Lilly, the air discharged into the room by solar collector can be in the 95 to 100-degree range. Once the door to the bedroom is opened, however, the heat quickly dissipates.

The bedroom into which the heat is channeled belongs to Kerry Gardner, one of the students in the science class.

"They were real pleased it worked as well as it did," said Lilly of his skeptical students.

His students were at first skeptical, he said, when an earlier attempt to cook meat with cone-shaped solar collectors met with only lukewarm success.

The window unit is 60 inches long, 24 inches wide, and 10 inches deep. Lilly and his students worked on it for about two weeks. Built of scrap materials, it cost approximately $12. It was installed Tuesday.

Displaying a boundless enthusiasm, for solar mechanics, Lilly said, "I've been interested in solar power since it came out four or five years ago real

The SDN Column

There are not many things that old jails are suited for, and consequently there haven't been a lot of inquiries from possible tenants. Not only is the old jail building limited in its suitability, but it is mighty close to Deep Creek.

The old building may have some historical significance, however. It is around 67 years old and obviously was built when jails served a purpose somewhat different from the functions decreed by some federal judges today. So, if anyone should be interested in the old building, the county historical commission is a logical one.

Jo Ann Nunley stopped by the old jail Thursday while members of the historical commission were making a tour of the building to get us a picture for the SDN. She was surprised to learn that the Scurry County jail which served as a center for incarceration here until a few weeks ago had facilities for hanging. The state has changed its method of carrying out death penalities twice since hangings were in vogue. Also, counties do not perform their own executions any more. But this facility now only serves to make the old jail of more importance from a historical standpoint.

Texans have perhaps been more conscious of their history than residents of some states, but we are newcomers to this field in the eyes of some of the "old states." A couple of years ago, we happened to stop overnight in Jackson, Tenn., and the town was in an argument over the home of Casey Jones. It seems that one group wanted to move it nearer the freeway where it would be easier for tourists to find. Others wanted the home of the famous locomotive engineer to remain where it had been all these years. We never did learn how the argument came out, but the significant thing to us was that tourists were stopping to see it.

We can't match places like Charleston, S.C., or Williamsburg, Va., or even several places in Tennessee when it comes to historical attractions, but Texas is getting there, and people do come in off the highways to see these things.

Snyderite Believes Americans Will Be Welcome In Iran Again

By JOHN LONG

Having worked in Iran, Guy Browning believes Iranians will one day be saying, "Yankee, come back." They will need the help of Americans, whom they forced to leave their country, to help them recover their oil supplies. Although that day may be a few years in the future, Browning feels he may go back and help them.

"They didn't like me, but they treated me with respect," said Browning of his year-long stay in the oil-rich but politically troubled nation. "They didn't mistreat me from the day I arrived to the day I left."

Browning was a drilling superintendent for the Overseas Service Co., a conglomerate of American oil companies working abroad. Other tours of duty in foreign lands have taken Browning to Saudi Arabia, Indonesia, Nigeria, and Algeria.

"As far as I'm concerned, that's one of the nicest bunch of people there is," Browning said of the Iranians. They are a hard working people, but a people who lack the necessary technological expertise to reclaim the oil in their own country, he believes.

Browning arrived in Iran Jan. 1, 1978, and left Jan. 10, 1979. The political situation in that country "Changed overnight," he said.

When he arrived, a person could be jailed for criticizing the shah. The shah enjoyed popular support even as late as six months before he was toppled from power.

Then, Browning remembers, something happened. Browning recalls it happening around November, but the shah's support suddenly vanished. The Iranian people turned against their leader. Browning believes the discontent was sown by communists.

Browning's boss, Paul Grimmm, the head of the overseas oil company, was assassinated the last part of December. Browning, however, said he personally never feared for his own safety.

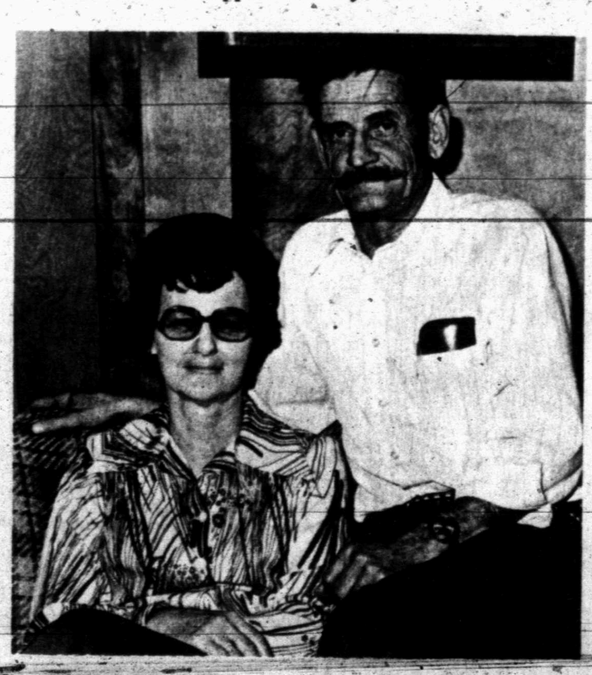
But with a worsening political climate in Iran, Browning and a group of Americans were shipped out of the country in early January. They left on a boat and went to Baharain, an island in the Persian Gulf. From there, they went to Malta, and from there home to America.

What Browning said he liked most about Iran was the challenge of the work.

"You can run into every type of drilling that's possible in that country," he said. "The challenge over there is quite great."

While Browning was stationed in Iran, his wife, June, spent six months on the island of Malta in the middle of the Mediterranean. She came back with a heightened appreciation for America.

"I think every American ought to go overseas," she said, "because he will appreciate the United States more."



HOME AGAIN--The Guy Brownings have returned to their home outside Snyder following trips abroad. He was in Iran for one year, and she was on the island of Malta for six months. Both have developed a greater appreciation for the United States. (SDN STAFF PHOTO)

Diets and menstruation

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a problem that I'd like some help with. I've been on a diet and lost about 20 pounds in a year. I'm happy about that but when I lost weight, I also lost my menstrual period. At first I didn't worry and kept right on with the diet and taking water pills. Then I started to worry. I'm only 16 and I've had a period regularly for about a year. Could I still get pregnant?

I've been to doctors and they all say that it will come back soon if I stop worrying about it. I really can't stop worrying. I'm still trying to lose weight, but I did quit taking the pills for a month already. In January, it showed a little but then after that it mysteriously disappeared again. I hope you will give me an honest opinion.

DEAR READER — Your doctors have given you the correct answer. When a girl first starts having menstrual periods, they are often irregular and may disappear for a time. Later on, when she becomes fully matured, they are more apt to be regular. This could happen to you whether or not you had been on a diet. It's just part of the developmental process.

It is true that severe dieting or fad diets which don't give you a balanced diet can cause you to have such a problem. Years ago a study in men at the University of Minnesota showed that when they were on a 1600-calorie balanced diet and lost a lot of weight, they lost their normal interest in sex as well as undergoing a lot of other changes. If you abuse your body, you should not expect it to function normally.

I am all for losing weight, if you need to, but I like to see people do this in a sensible way that's not dangerous to their health. I am sending you The Health Letter number 4-7, Weight Losing Diet, because it is a balanced diet plan that you could rely on. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

You shouldn't stay on this diet or any other diet that's too restrictive for too long. I think six weeks is about maximum. Then you should be on a maintenance diet that would allow your body to recover and replenish all its needs.

A lot of girls have menstrual difficulties from excessive fad dieting. Some of the worst are the low carbohydrate or no carbohydrate diets that people use. Since you've only lost 20 pounds in a year, you're losing less than half a pound a week and that's a good sensible approach. I wish everyone would be as sensible. If you learn to eat a good balanced diet with a plan you can use the rest of your life, you may be able to avoid obesity for a lifetime.

The other pitfall I'd like to caution you against is some young women overdo dieting. It becomes an obsession with them to the point that they develop anorexia nervosa. This is basically a psychological reaction often related to basic emotional disturbances and an inability to properly assess one's own body image.

A lot of these young girls still think they are fat even after they are as thin as a fugitive from a concentration camp. This is quite serious and parents should guard against this tendency, particularly in young women. It can also occur in boys but it more often occurs in young girls.

Pound of Counsel Saves Ton of Woe

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: You constantly urge people to get counseling or therapy to help solve their problems. This might seem to be a cop-out to some, but I know how helpful it is.

At 14 my daughter was having problems. She wasn't popular, her grades were poor and we were constantly at each other's throats.

She threatened several times to run away, and I was worried.

Her teacher called me in and recommended a psychologist. My daughter agreed to go "just once." It worked out splendidly. It took only six months. (Both of us went so we could learn to understand each other better.)

Today my daughter is the mother of two well-adjusted children. When they showed signs of emotional turmoil, she saw to it that they went to a professional therapist, just as she did, in order to understand themselves better. (Kids frequently need to talk to someone other than their parents because their parents usually are the problem.)

Don't let up, Abby. Mental health is the most important thing in the world. I dread to think of what might have happened had I been too proud, ashamed, or stingy or whatever it is that keeps so many people from seeking the help they need.

THANKFUL

DEAR THANKFUL: Thank you for the testimonial. I know of no one who, at some time in his or her life, couldn't have used counseling. Not everyone needs years of analysis. But in times of stress, sorrow or indecision, a few sessions with a trained therapist can work miracles. Help is as near as one's mental health clinic. And the price is always right.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please find a nice girl for my son? Burton is 33, nice looking, plays the piano, and is not dumb. He's had three years of college, but he lacks ambition and drive.

He's gone out with lots of girls, but he never calls them. If they call him, or if I arrange a date for him, he'll go. He has a few friends, but if they don't call him, he doesn't call them. I'm sure the right girl could motivate Burton to be a little more active socially.

His father and I would like to be grandparents, but Burton is our only child and he doesn't seem to be in any hurry to have a home of his own.

He lives with us, has an 8 to 4 job, and that's his life. Do you know of a nice girl for my Burton, Abby?

WORRIED IN PATTERSON

DEAR WORRIED: If Burton wants a girl he will have to find one himself. Perhaps one of his problems could be a mother who does too much for him. Burton sounds like a nice fellow. If he wants any help from me, I'll be glad to help him, but I can't intrude on a man's life because his mother asks me to.

DEAR ABBY: Can you give us a definition of "maturity" without going into a lot of detail?

You seem to have a gift for putting a lot into just a few sentences. Thank you for your time.

SIXTH GRADERS

DEAR SIXTH GRADERS: Maturity is the ability to do a job whether you're supervised or not; finish a job once it's started; carry money without spending it. And last but not least, the ability to bear an injustice without wanting to get even.

If you put off writing letters because you don't know what to say, get Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for all Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (28 cents), self addressed envelope to Abby: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212.

Robbed Store To Pay Fine

CASPER, Wyo. (AP)- Wyoming law officers are looking for an armed robber who stuck up a Casper liquor store to raise money to pay a fine in Gillette.

The gunman walked into the liquor store Monday night and demanded $125 - no more, no less, Casper authorities told Campbell County Sheriff D.B. "Spike" Hladky.

The robber told the clerk he needed $125 to pay a fine in Gillette or go to jail. He took only $125 and left the rest of the money, Hladky said Tuesday.

DIVERSIFIED

BY BILLY E. ROACH
COUNTY EXTENSION AGENT

LAWNS, FRUITS & NUTS:

If you plan to use a pre-emerge herbicide on your lawn it should be done by this coming week for best results. Pre-emerge herbicides are designed to kill germinating weed seed and applications of these type herbicides made after the weeds are up will end in dissatisfaction.

For application rates and chemicals refer to the Diversified Column of two weeks ago.

Dormant oil sprays on fruit trees should not be used this late in the season. Many apricot trees have already started blooming and peaches will not be far behind. Applications of dormant oil could result in killing of the buds which are beginning to swell. Home owners should postpone spray applications until 75 per cent of the petals have dropped and then begin the regular spray schedule for fruits and nuts.

Fact sheet L-1140 "Homeowners Fruit & Nut Spray Schedule" is available from my office. This publication gives recommendations on insecticides and fungicides for pests throughout the season.

If you had trouble with nematodes in your garden last year, you probably will have trouble again this year unless you treat for them. The application of a nematicide will greatly improve satisfaction with you garden.

Vapam should give good control of nematodes. Applications must be made at least three weeks prior to planting of vegetables.

Lawn fertilization with a complete fertilizer (containing nitrogen, phosphorous) should be made during March or April. Rates vary with the type of fertilizer to be used. Application rates of 2 pounds actual nitrogen per 1000 sq. ft. should be used as a guide. This is, if using 16-20-0 apply approximately 12 pounds of material per 1000 square feet. This will give 1.9 pounds actual nitrogen (12 pounds material times 16 percent nitrogen equals 1.92 lbs. actual nitrogen).

This application of fertilizer in the spring should be followed by another application of nitrogen only, during the summer months, probably in June.

We have several bulletins on recommendations for weed control on various crops in our office and are available for your use. Since there are so many different herbicides for different purposes we cannot offer all these through this column. You are invited to visit our office at 2605 Avenue M for these publications.

Soil Fertility Short Course Set At Roby

ROBY--A two-night soil fertility shortcourse will be held March 13 and 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the courthouse annex in Roby, according to Richard Spencer, county agent.

A shortcourse will cover basic soil fertility, major soil elements, trace elements, soil testing and research and demonstration results.

Extension Specialists, Dr. Charles Welch, Dale Pennington, and Dale Lovelace, will present the program.

The program is being sponsored by the Extension Crops Committee and is open to the public.

Director Named

NEW YORK (AP)-Barbara J. Gaden has been named director of public relations at the Mannes College of Music.

She replaces Robert Weiss, who was recently named public-relations director of the Chicago Lyric Opera.

Coe College won every home game in football in 1978 and lost every game on the road.

No Beef Import Hike

WASHINGTON (AP)-The Carter administration has no plan to increase beef imports this year and does not intend to let farmers plant soybeans on acres set aside from production under the 1979 wheat and feed grains programs, says Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland.

Sen. J. James Exon, D-Neb., said that rumors were afloat that the administration was considering those moves as part of an attempt to cool food-price inflation, by expanding hamburger supplies and boosting soybean food and feed ingredient stocks.

Those rumors hurt prices this week on commodities markets, Exon said Friday during a Senate Budget Committee hearing.

"The answer to both questions is no...for this year," Bergland said.

Grain farmers who want federal price supports and income subsidies must idle, a portion of their cropland, depending on the crop.

Allowing farmers to plant beans on the set-aside acres probably would bring that market tumbling down and cause them to shift to other crops, he said.

Karen Blaker Ph.D.

Part of the problem

By Karen Blaker, Ph.D.

DEAR DR. BLAKER — I love my husband very much but I can't stand the way he behaves on the job. It is embarrassing to be married to a man with such a weak spine. He can't stand up to anyone.

I have tried to help him by being on the lookout for situations where he has allowed himself to be pushed around.

Just the other day he came home saying that he wanted to take a co-worker out to lunch because he appreciated the fellow's help on a special project. I know my husband did the lion's share of work on that project, yet he insisted on giving the credit to someone else. By the time I finished talking, he decided to forget about the lunch.

I don't see why he can't handle these situations by himself. After all, I have never even set foot in the office but I can understand the politics there.

Maybe it's all due to low self-confidence. Can I do anything else to help him feel better about himself?

DEAR READER — Becoming the "expert" regarding your husband's job has probably only compounded his low self-confidence. Now it is not a matter of "doing" but of "undoing" the damage.

To turn this potentially disastrous situation around, you must first admit to yourself that you are not the expert you claim to be.

There is no way you could possibly know what goes on in your husband's office. If your husband is really so incompetent, how can you trust his powers of observation to use as the basis for your instant analyses?

You and your husband have sucked each other into a fantasy world where there are only two laws: You are right. And he is wrong.

Both of you have clouded your judgment by dwelling there too long. Take in a big breath of reality.

Not only has your husband lost any confidence he might have had to make his own decisions, but your own sense of reality has also become warped.

Working for so long on the assumption that your husband is incompetent, you cannot even see how appropriate it might be for him to take his business associate out to lunch merely as a gesture of thanks. Since when is a lunch date necessarily an admission of dependence and total helplessness?

You sound more like an overprotective mother than a wife. In her zeal to make certain her son grows up to be confident and mature, such a mother supervises too much of his activity. She thus keeps him incapable of handling even the smallest details of his life.

Find yourself another charity case and begin relating to your husband as an adult. The two of you have nothing to lose — and everything to gain.

Suicide threats must be taken seriously. To learn how to cope with them, order Dr. Blaker's hotline, "When a Loved One Threatens Suicide." Send 50 cents plus a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Blaker in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 475, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

strong."

"It's probably one of the more promising energies we have in inexhaustability," he added. Aside from that, he pointed out, it is a "clean heat, no pollution involved in it at all."

Although there may be some expense involved in the construction of efficient, attractive solar heating units for one's home, "there's no way they can tax you on fuel," he said.

Court-Less Divorce Bill Introduced

AUSTIN (AP)—Childless couples with little real or personal property could be divorced without a court hearing under legislation filed by Rep. Lanell Cofer, D-Dallas, and Sen. Lloyd Doggett, D-Austin.

"Once a couple has carefully considered and decided to divorce, if that couple has no children and little property or debt, then I believe the interests of society and the individuals would be better served by allowing them this means of final separation," Doggett said.

Summary, uncontested divorce would be available if the couple's real or personal property is less than $10,000.

All divorce cases now require a court appearance.

BILLY YOUNG

New Music Director At Local Church

Billy Young is the new music director for the Calvary Baptist Church in Snyder.

As music director for the church, Young is in charge of the adult and youth choirs.

Young, 47, came to Snyder from the 25th St. Baptist Church in Lubbock. Other music directorships have been served in San Angelo, Borger, and Sweetwater.

"I think we're really going to like it here," said Young. "It's practically like the town I was raised in. We like this size town rather than a larger city."

Young and his wife, Joy, also pianist and organist, have two children, Kevin, a college student, and Kimberly, a fourth grader.

Industry Looking

in Scurry County.

The prospect was described as a $2.5 billion firm. Already, the company has had construction and manufacturing plans approved by agencies in Austin--including the Air and Water Quality Control Board.

All plans and manufacturing processes would require prior approval of all environmental agencies, chamber leaders were told.

Currently plans are being made to visit the firm's existing facility located in the northwest. Officials of the company--including the firm's chief executive officer--have indicated that they will visit Snyder within the next few weeks.

"What makes this particular industry unique other than size," Mayor John Fagin said, " is that they have indicated no interest or desire in monetery incentives such as land or buildings. Our information indicates that they want to be a good citizen and be wanted by the local community."

For that reason, chamber officials are soliciting letters from local residents stating their feelings about the prospective new industry.

"We need to show them they are wanted," stated chamber manager Bill Warner "Based on the current information we have, we have no reason to believe that this firm would not be an asset to our business community."

"The economic impact with regard to employment would be overwhelming," stated industrial foundation vice president Roy McQueen. It was reported that all the cities under consideration have a low unemployment rate.

"We're told this is the kind of company that will attract new employees here," stated city manager George Patterson. "Most of the work force will be male and their families could help fill the needs of some of our women-oriented industries."

Dr. Robert Clinton, president of Western Texas College, also noted that some of the skilled personnel needed by the company require the type training already offered at WTC. "This would mean a ready job market for our graduates where now they must leave for places like Houston. We have the capacity now to double our enrollment in these areas," Clinton added.

Henry Clark, manager of TESCO in Snyder, said his company's industrial development department has highly recommended this company to Snyder. "They want to be a good neighbor with no nuisances and no hazards."

The chamber was told that the prospective industry had spent considerable money and had used a New York consulting firm to accumulate data and to help narrow the choices of sites for the new plant.

The decision is now in the hands of the company's top executives. Also, the selling job is now in the hands of Snyder civic leaders and other interested citizens.

"What we need is resolutions from various organizations and letters from individuals stating that Snyder would welcome the new industry to our community, Warner said.

"We would like to have 500 or 1,000 letters to take with us on the trip to visit the existing plant and then have additional material when the company officials visit Snyder," Warner said.

Others who sat in on the briefing session with TESCO representatives include Guy Sullivan, president of the Board of County development, County Judge Preston Wilson, Bill J. Hood, Rex Robinson, Carlton Chapman, Joe Williamson and Mel Gilbert. All have been asked to assist in negotiations as a local industrial team to work with the prospective new industry if needed.

Suit Filed Against IRS

DENVER (AP)—A Colorado Springs man has filed a suit alleging two Internal Revenue Service agents barged into his home March 2, waved a gun at him and arrested him without identifying themselves or producing a warrant.

The suit, filed in federal court by Robert Joos, seeks $132,00 in damages. Roy Moran, superintendent of the IRS's internal security section in Denver, declined to comment Friday. Joos, 26, was arrested on a warrant charging him with impersonating a federal employee, an IRS agent. He appeared before U.S. Magistrate Royce Sickler on Friday, but the case was continued until next Friday.

Pro golfer Hale Irwin played football at the University of Colorado and was all-Big 8 as a defensive back.

Ira Mails Forms For Exemptions

IRA—The Ira School district has mailed homestead exemption affidavit forms to each homeowner.

To qualify for the exemption you must have owned the property claimed and it must have been your residential homestead on Jan. 1 of this year. You may claim a residential homestead exemption for the year on one property only.

Daily drinks of orange juice may ward off the sniffles, coughs, and sore throat of common colds is indicated by research at the Univ. of Florida. One group of students drank 15 oz. of orange juice daily; another group received dummy pills. Both groups were then exposed to a cold virus.

Students who began drinking orange juice a week before exposure to the virus developed virtually no cold symptoms. A few of those who began orange juice the day of exposure developed symptoms. Three-fourths of those on dummy pills developed normal symptoms of the common cold.

Tax Relief Bill Action To Begin

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Texas (AP)- Texans approved the Tax Relief Amendment last fall expecting a healthy dose of property tax cuts - $450 million worth was the publicized amount.

What wasn't so well publicized was that much of the relief depended on action by the Legislature.

Floor action starts Monday on a House bill to keep the twin promises of additional tax relief for millions of Texans and of state reimbursement of school districts for revenue lost to tax cuts.

There probably will be some dispute over exactly what was promised.

When legislators left Austin for the weekend on Thursday, they carried computer printouts showing amounts of reimbursement for their school districts. All districts combined would get $430.2 million over the next two years.

"I am sure the members will make a decision on the bill based on whether their districts get a good deal or a bad deal," said Rep. Bob Davis, R-Irving.

Davis is chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, which wrote the tax relief implementation bill.

The committee's bill does not reimburse every district's losses dollar-for-dollar after the 1979-80 fiscal year.

Instead, the committee adopted a formula for rewarding districts with up-to-date, accurate appraisals and for punishing those that have lagged behind the average in evaluating homes for taxation.

The state average of school districts, own appraisals was 68 percent of the market values determined late in 1978 by the School Tax Assessment Practices Board.

So those whose self-reported values are greater than 68 percent of the board's figures will get more state dollars than the mandated tax cuts would cost them. Those who are below 68 percent will lose money but still receive at least 90 percent reimbursement.

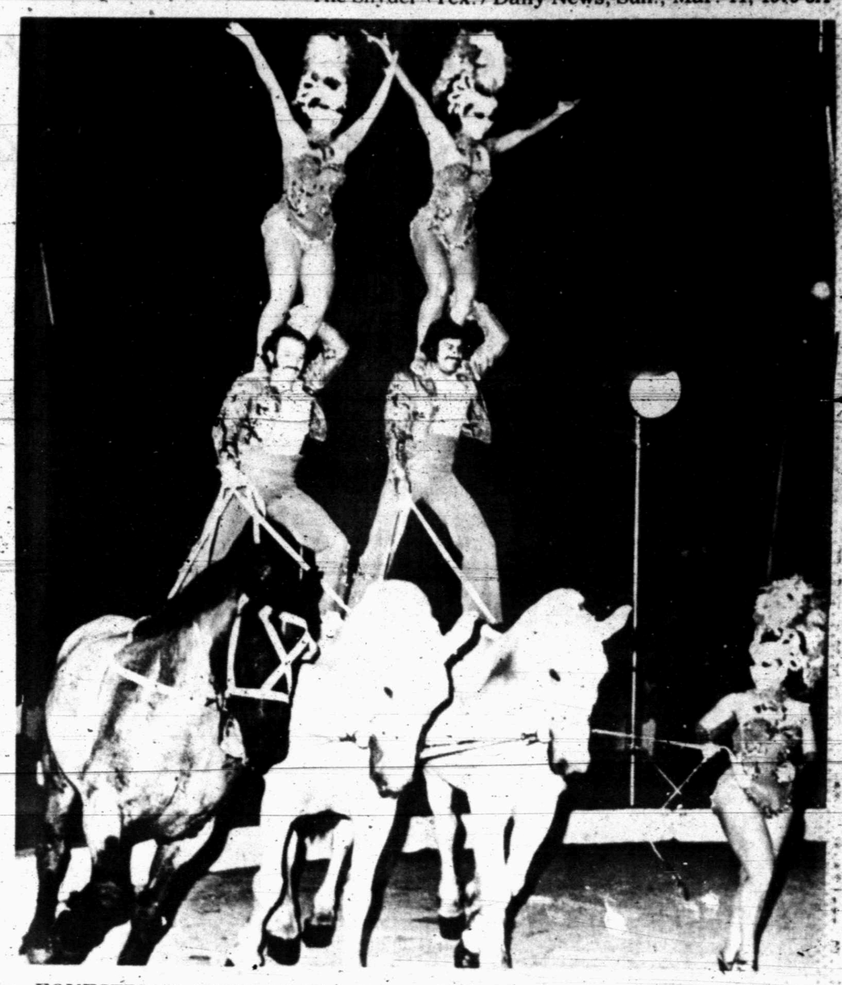
One note of caution: A district that brings its appraisals up to the state average or better in the coming year won't lose money. And wide-scale reappraisals would raise the state average and reduce the profitability for districts with good appraisals.

According to the printouts, 321 of the 1,148 school districts would be rewarded with extra state dollars in 1980-81, based on current appraisal levels.

Most of the remaining 821 districts would take a loss, including the two with the most pupils, Houston and Dallas.

According to the committee's printout, Houston would lose $8,125,800 because of new homestead exemptions but the state would cover only $7,730,600 of its loss in 1980-81. The reason: the Houston Independent School District's appraisal of residences was only 64 percent of the true market value found by the School Tax Assessment Practices Board.

Dallas' reimbursement in the 1980-81 year would be only $7,193,100 of its $7,992,300 loss because its appraisals are 57.3 percent of true market value.



EQUESTRIAN THRILLS--The Suarez Riding Troupe, a fourth and fifth generation equestrian family from Mexico, has been thrilling audiences throughout the world for over a hundred years. The family will be performing in this year's edition of the American Continental Circus coming to the Scurry County Coliseum on Monday. Showtimes are set for 4:30 and 8 p.m. with tickets on sale at the door and at various merchants around town.

Cloud-Chasing Season For Tech Researchers

LUBBOCK—While some are always chasing rainbows, several Texas Tech University researchers are preparing to chase 1979's spring storms in the hope of collecting cloud, tornado and hailstorm data.

The researchers, working through the Texas Tech Institute for Disaster Research (IDR), are working on three kinds of studies.

Dr. Richard E. Peterson of the atmospheric science faculty and his graduate students want to document the growth and maintenance of thunderstorms and to learn why certain storms become severe.

Dr. Milton L. Smith of the industrial engineering faculty will be studying hailstone properties and their possible effects, particularly on solar collectors. His work is supported by the Energy Foundation of Texas. For his studies he is counting on research teams retrieving hailstones for him, but he also is asking the public to collect and keep for him large or oddly shaped hail.

Dr. Joseph E. Minor, IDR director, and his colleagues in civil engineering specialize in wind engineering and are most interested in pictures of ground level wind fields as tornadoes move across the land. Faculty working with him are Drs. James R. McDonald and Kishor C. Mehta.

The ultimate goal of each researcher is to obtain sufficiently complete understanding of severe storms to protect lives and property.

The IDR Storm Chase organization for 1979 will include four teams, each equipped to bring in useful data. Teams of three will rotate duty and no more than two teams are likely to chase one storm. On the chase will be a team director, recorder and cameraman. They will be supported by a fourth team member, the radar observer, stationed at the National Weather Service office in Lubbock and in communication with the traveling teams.

Teams will have ready to go at a moment's notice equipment including binoculars; motion picture and still cameras; an ice chest with numered plastic bags to store hailstones; tape recorders; maps and a compass; CB radio and antenna; stakes and ribbon for marking camera locations for future reference; and rain gear, including hard hats to protect against hail.

The nationally televised Skywarn program will be monitored by team members during the spring season. If threatening weather is predicted, Peterson's group will make a late morning forecast for research teams. Based on that forecast, a decision will be made whether or not to send a radar observer to the Lubbock weather station. Even before severe weather develops, the chase team will be dispatched to be in position to get long distance pictures of cloud formations and to move in as close as possible to eventual wind damage or tornado areas to gather pictures and other data.

Teams do more than watch and wait and take picures. All data gathered must be documented, either by tape recorder or on data forms during the chase. For each hailstone collected for instance, researchers must note the hour, date and location it was picked up.

Horticultural Seminar Set March 20

A seminar featuring three horticultural specialsts with the Texas Extension Service has been scheduled for March 20 in Room A of the Scurry County Coliseum. It will begin at 1:30 p.m.

Dr. George McEachern, Fruits and Nuts Specialist at Texas A&M, will discuss general production practices in areas of fruits and nuts.

Dr. Roland Roberts, vegetable specialist at Lubbock, will present information relative to vegetable production in the home garden.

Dr. Robert Berry, plant disease specialist at Lubbock, will discuss plant diseases, fungicides and practices in the prevention of diseases.

At the conclusion of the meeting each specialist will be available to discuss individual problems and answer questions relative to his specialized area.

County Extension Agent Billy Roach said "This will be an excellent opportunity for home owners, gardeners and others to receive excellent information on horticultural crops and production practices from very knowledgable individuals."

ASTRO-GRAPH

Your Birthday

Bernice Bede Osol

March 11, 1979

This coming year you will fare very well if you devote more of your energies and efforts to situations that promise long-range benefits, as opposed to those that offer immediate returns. Build foundations for brighter tomorrows.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 2) As long as you are allowed to use your initiative today, you will perform competently. When associates start offering advice or issuing orders, it'll be another story. Learn more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be wary of criticizing co-workers in front of others today. Thoughtless remarks could create a serious incident.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It may be necessary to make some concessions today favoring persons with whom you will be socializing, in order to keep the peace. Do so willingly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Today you could be ambitiously motivated for all the wrong reasons and cause yourself frustrations. Be content with what you have. Don't envy another.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You may inject a volatile issue into a conversation with friends today, just to provoke a reaction. This proves to be extremely unwise.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If at all possible, avoid involvements with one you know from past experience to be rather greedy. This person could be even more so today.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Select companions, with care today because your independence is very important to you. It would irritate you to have another telling you what to do and when to do it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Keep on schedule today with your duties and responsibilities. Putting things off could force you into a very tight corner.

SCORPIO (Oct 24-Nov. 22) Steer clear of social cliques today. The participants could create a petty situation you won't want to be identified with.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 23-Dec. 21) To prove your point today you may do something opposed to your best interests. You gain nothing if you win a battle but lose the war.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be prepared to have your ideas severely criticized if you start putting down the views of others today. If you can't be complimentary, it's best to say nothing.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Persons who lack expertise should not be permitted to manage anything for you today that could wind up costing you money.

(NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

March 12, 1979

Someone who once was important to you could reenter your life this coming year. This person could have a strong influence on what will be occurring for you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Unless you attempt to see the other guy's point of view today, what is bugging you will be blown out of proportion and become extremely difficult to resolve. Like to find out more about yourself? Send for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter by mailing $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth sign.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A heavy schedule could make you irritable today. Keep your mind on the rewards and your job won't seem so trying.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) One with whom you usually have a difficult time getting along could cross your path again today. Use past experience to play it smart.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) It's up to you to put a stop to an outside influence undermining the tranquility of your home. Don't let it get a foothold.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Unless you're tactful today you could find yourself on a collision course with a strongly opinionated person. Things would get heated.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Better put off buying anything today that is supposed to last for a very long time. You could pay too much and end up with a lemon.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There is a strong possibility you could have a run-in with your mate or an associate today. Both must be willing to yield if peace is to be restored.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Another person's problems might inconvenience you and monopolize your time today. Take it in stride. Do the best you can to help.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You might be forced today to face up to and resolve an old issue that has been smoldering for much too long between you and a friend. Preserve the friendship.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Try to see things through the eyes of your competition and you could come out the victor. Otherwise, you could lose what you've already gained.

Trounce Midland College, 105-80...

Westerners Sack Up Semi-Finals

BIG SPRING—The Western Texas College Westerners ignited past Midland College 105-80 here Friday, setting up a date to defend their 1978 Region V title.

The Westerners, who utilized the numbers game to defeat the No. 3 seeded WJCAC crew, were to vie for the tournament championship Saturday night at 8 against Cooke County Junior College.

Cooke County, of Gainsville, did similar destruction to its opponent, McLennan Community College, setting up the title game with 101-83 victory.

A 6 p.m. All-Star game, pitting top players from the WJCAC and NJCAC not involved in the tourney, was to precede the main event Saturday

Paul Pressey, 6-5 freshman, paced the Westerners in the early going here Friday. Playing perhaps his best game since coming off of an ankle injury weeks ago, Pressey got WTC off to an overwhelming start which left Midland behind 8-1 and 18-8 in the first eight minutes.

Pressey got a lot of aid from a number of teammates, as Coach Nolan Richardson began the process which led to Midland's downfall - utilizing a wealth of bench strength to wear the Chaparrals down.

But first half action was not a WTC run-away. Midland, pumped up by an ever-moving Robert Tate, 6-3 freshman, fought back and scored nine straight points midway through the first half to come within a point (18-17) of the Westerners. The rally was aided by a four-point play from Luis Alvarado, and a three-pointer from Cullen Mayfield.

It took WTC the rest of the half to gain control again. Midland went up 31-24 before the Westerners began to whittle it away. The Snyder-based crew tied the mark with 6:43 left in the period, locking the score at 33-33 on a Greg Stewart three-point play.

Neither team garnered much of a lead for the remainder of the half, and when the intermission buzzer sounded, WTC found itself on top, 50-48.

"We got our timing down in the second half and that was it," said Richardson after the game.

Midland College Coach Jerry Stone agreed, and added, "Too many horses, Coach. You just wore us down. I could see it coming. We were starting to wear down."

Richardson acknowledged that the strategy was a large part of the Westerner game plan. "You've got five players who can play with anybody in the league, but we felt that we could tire them out with our bench strength," he told Stone.

Midland's bench strength amounted to only three players - eight on the team - and Richardson's dozen, minus an injured Franklin Bennett, provided too much for too long a time.

The Westerners broke it open with 15 minutes still to play in the semi-final contest. Freddie Davis became the man to watch, taking teammates' passes to shove looping slam-dunks deep into the bucket.

Midland's points toward the end of the contest amounted to little but free throws.

All 12 active Westerners scored in the game, with Pressey's 25 leading the way. Davis came up with 22, while Stewart polled 17. Joe Mendoza, still slightly nursing an injured knee, noted 8.

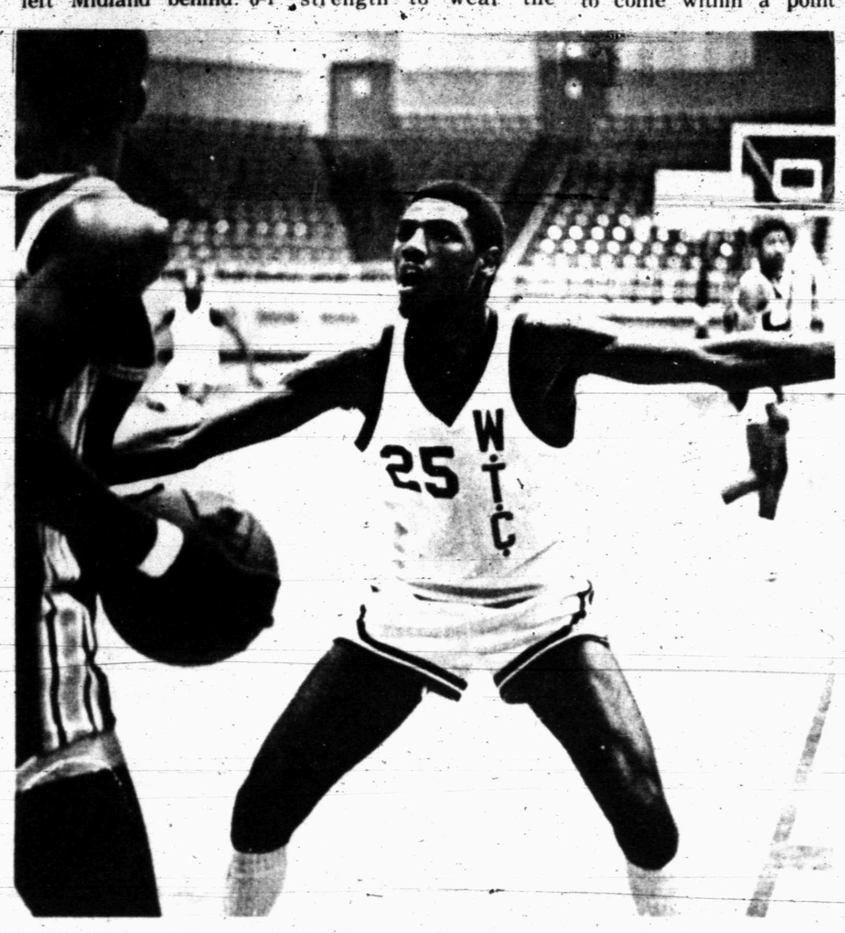
Tate keyed the Chaparral attack with 19 points while Kenneth Young had 16, Mayfield scored 15 and Chucky McGill added 10.

Mayfield - the Chaps' leading scorer most of the time this season despite his 5-10 height - was sidelined during the middle of the contest with an ankle injury. He came back in the second period to become a major strength for the otherwise worn Midland team.

The victor in Saturday's game was to gain a playoff berth against Panola (Carthage), to be played before or on March 15.

WTC (105)—Davis 10-2-2-22; Patterson 2-0-1-4; Stewart 7-3-3-17; Gifford 1-0-3-2; Williams 2-0-3-4; Portee 2-2-2-6; Smith 2-1-3-5; Brown 1-1-4-3; Pressey 11-3-1-25; Russell 2-0-1-4; Mendoza 2-4-3-8; Patridge 2-1-3-5; Totals 44-17-26-105.

Midland (80)—Mayfield 6-3-4-15; Shelby 1-1-1-3; Tate 9-1-3-19; Jones 1-3-1-5; McGill 4-2-4-10; Alvarado 4-4-4-12; Young 5-6-4-16. Totals 30-20-21-80.



PRESSEY PRESSES--Paul Pressey (above) led the charge as Western Texas College dumped Midland in Region V Tournament semi-final action Friday night, 105-80. Optimists Set Cage Contests

Competition for local youngsters in the Optimist Club's Tri-Star Basketball Program has been set for Saturday, March 17, at the Snyder High School gym. Mike Sanders, president of the Optimist Club, has announced.

The program is for both boys and girls 8-13, based on age as of Sept. 1, 1978. Boys and girls compete separately in the program, which is similar to the well-known Punt, Pass and Kick competition in football.

There are three areas of competition. Passing skills include direct passes and bounce passes from a marked line to a target. Dribbling skills require a contestant dribble through a prescribed course as quickly as possible. Shooting skills include four free throws from varying distances and two shots from anywhere on the court outside the key area.

Trophies will be awarded to first, second and third places in each division.

All boys and girls are invited to participate, regardless of whether they are participating in an oganized basketball program. Sanders said the club hoped to attract some 200 entrants from Snyder, Hermleigh, Ira, Fluvanna and other Scurry County rural areas.

Contestants are being urged to register in advance. Registration forms are available at the Texas Electric Service Co. office, at the Goodyear Store and at the Scurry County Boys' Club. There is no entry fee, but each contestant must wear gym shoes.

NCAA Rounds See Lamar Upset Detroit

By The Associated Press

Coach Billy Tubbs and his kids from Beaumont planned to head down the road about 50 miles from Murfreesboro, Tenn., to Nashville Saturday to check out a genuine American institution, compliments of Clarence Kea.

The 6-foot-6 junior for Lamar University scored 33 points to lead the unranked Cardinals to a 95-87 victory over 17th-ranked Detroit in a first-round game of the NCAA's Mideast Regional basketball tournament Friday night.

With a victory in its first appearance ever in the NCAA tourney, Lamar earned a shot at fourth-ranked powerhouse Michigan State - but Tubbs and his troops had something else on their mind when they got to Murfreesboro.

"The only thing was, if we lost, we wouldn't get to go to the Grand Ole Opry," he said of the famous country-western music house. "But now we get to go and we've got to get ready for Michigan State."

Two other teams in The Associated Press Top Twenty rankings were in action, too. In the other Mideast Regional, Tennessee, No. 20, tore up Eastern Kentucky 97-81. And in another upset, St. John's tripped 13th-ranked Temple 75-70 in an East Regional.

In the other East Regional, Penn stopped Iona 73-69. In the Midwest, Weber State shaded New Mexico State 81-78 in overtime and Virginia Tech trounced Jacksonville 70-53. And in the West, Pepperdine nosed out Utah 92-88, also in overtime, and Southern Cal shelled Utah State 86-67.

In the second round starting Saturday, 11th-ranked Georgetown faced Rutgers and No. 10 Syracuse played Connecticut in the East Regionals at Providence, R.I.; No. 14 Iowa opposed Toledo and ninth-ranked Louisiana State went against Appalachian State in the Mideast Regionals at Bloomington, Ind.; No. 15 Texas faced Oklahoma and No. 18 Louisville played South Alabama in a Midwest twinbill at Dallas, and, in the West at Los Angeles, No. 19 San Francisco took on Brigham Young and 12th-ranked Marquette played Pacific.

In the remaining second-round games Sunday - Friday night's winners playing the top two seeds in each region - it's top-ranked Indiana State vs. Virginia Tech and Arkansas vs. Weber in the Midwest; No. 5 Notre Dame vs. Tennessee and No. 4 Michigan State vs. Lamar in the Mideast; No. 3 North Carolina vs. Pennsylvania and No. 6 Duke vs. St. John's in the East and No. 2 UCLA vs. Pepperdine and No. 8 DePaul vs. Southern Cal in the West.

Michigan State's Spartans will have to watch out for Kea, who scored 12 points and grabbed 10 rebounds in the first half when Lamar, the Southland Conference champion, took a 47-41 lead. He had 21 points in the second half.

Texas Out Of Tourney

TULSA, Okla. (AP)-Hot-shooting Angela Turner scored 24 points to lead Louisiana Tech to a 77-74 victory over Texas Friday in the AIAW National Basketball Tournament.

Louisiana Tech met Wayland Baptist in the championship game Saturday night. Wayland upset Stephen F. Austin 70-53 to gain the finals against Louisiana Tech. Stephen F. Austin was the No. 1 ranked team in the American Intercollegiate Athletic Association for Women.

Elinor Griffin added 22 points and had 13 rebounds in Louisiana Tech's victory over Texas. Jackie Swain led Texas with 19 points.

Stephen F. Austin will meet Texas in the consolation game.

NIT To Resume Play Monday

By The Associated Press

The Big Ten and Atlantic Coast Conferences are alive and well and playing in the National Invitation Tournament.

All three of the Big Ten schools and the trio of ACC teams in the original NIT field of 24 have reached the second round of the nation's oldest collegiate basketball tournament.

Then there is the Southeast Conference, which also started with three teams - Kentucky, Mississippi State and Alabama - in the tourney. Alabama is the only one of the three still playing.

Purdue, Indiana and Ohio State all advanced with lopsided first-round victories to keep the Big Ten prestige intact. No. 16 Purdue ripped Central Michigan 97-80, Indiana stopped Texas Tech 78-59 and Ohio State routed St. Joseph's, Pa., 80-66.

The three ACC clubs - Virginia, Maryland and Clemson - all survived closer calls. Virginia nipped Northeast Louisiana 79-78, Clemson edged Kentucky 68-67 in overtime and Maryland went to triple overtime for a 67-65 decision over Rhode Island.

Besides Kentucky's loss to Clemson, the SEC got burned when Mississippi State was beaten 80-78 by little Alcorn State. Alabama stayed alive by beating St. Bonaventure 98-89.

The tournament resumes Monday night with six games. Purdue, 24-7, hosts Dayton, 19-9, after walloping Holy Cross 105-81. Maryland, 19-10, is at home against Ohio State, 18-10, in the only head-to-head show-down between the Big Ten and ACC. Old Dominion, 22-6, plays at Clemson, 19-9. Virginia 19-9, plays at Alabama, 20-10; Alcorn State, 28-0, plays at Indiana, 19-12; and Texas A&M, 23-8, visits Nevada-Reno, 21-6.

Four of Monday's winners advance to the tournament's third round March 15 or 16 at sites to be determined. Two others, in a blind draw, move directly into the March 19 semifinals scheduled for New York's Madison Square Garden. The championship game is set for March 21.

Perhaps the most intriguing matchup is the Indiana-Alcorn State game.

Alcorn's victory over Mississippi State, constructed on a full court press and frantic rally in the final six minutes, extended the Braves' unbeaten streak to 28 games. The only other major college team still unbeaten is top-ranked Indiana State, which takes its 29-0 record into the NCAA tournament on Sunday.

Indiana was the last major college team to complete an undefeated season when they went 32-0 en route to the NCAA championship in 1976.

Clements Notes 'Campbell Day'

AUSTIN (AP)-Gov. Bill Clements issued a statement Friday calling attention to "Earl Campbell Day," which will be held here Monday.

The Heisman Trophy winner and Houston Oilers running back will be honored in the Texas Senate on Monday, followed by a luncheon in the lieutenant governor's apartment and a barbecue that evening.

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP)-"You come to spring training and you have to wonder if you really can do all the things you did last year," says Reggie Smith.

All self doubts were most likely blasted away when Smith hit three home runs - one to each field - in the first exhibition game for the Los Angeles Dodgers Friday.

Another key blow in the Dodgers' 8-3 victory over the Texas Rangers was Dusty Baker's three-run homer to break open a tie game in the sixth inning.

Also in high readiness was Dodger starting pitcher Don Sutton, who struck out nine Rangers in five innings, allowing just four hits and one run.

"I was ready to go five innings. Anything less than five innings would not have been much of a workout," said Sutton, a 33-year-old right-hander who was 15-12 last year as he closed in on all-time Dodger pitching records of Don Drysdale in victories and shutouts and the career strikeout record of Sandy Koufax.

"A day like this removes all doubt," Smith said of his pair of homers off Dock Medich and his shot off Danny Darwin that capped the Dodger's five-run sixth inning.

"Now I know I have the power to hit to all fields," said Smith, who homered to right field in the first, left field in the third and center field in the sixth.

The Rangers, who have a 1-1 spring record, tied the game at 3-3 in the sixth inning when John Ellis hit a two-run homer.

Ellis hit his pinch-hit homer off Dodger winning hurler Rick Rhoden. Rhoden pitched just one inning, and was taken out when his shoulder tightened. Rick Sutcliffe finished up with three shutout innings, allowing just two hits.

Sweeney To Join Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Jim Sweeney of the Oakland Raiders will join the St. Louis Cardinals as offensive backfield coach, the National Football League team says.

Bud Wilkinson, Cardinal coach, described Sweeney's offensive style Friday as "flamboyant and unusually creative."

The 49-year-old Sweeney said he decided to leave Oakland after John Madden announced his retirement as head coach. At St. Louis, he will fill the position vacated by Pete Elliott, who was recently named the executive director of the Pro Football Hall of Fame at Canton, Ohio.

Maryland Sophomore Snaps Record...

Texas-El Paso Leads Meet

DETROIT (AP)—Renaldo Nehemiah had a disqualification last week and followed that up with an embarrassing injury.

But Friday the 19-year-old Maryland sophomore embarrassed his competition in the 15th annual NCAA Indoor Track and Field Championships at Cobo Arena.

"This is my last indoor this season and I want to put on a show for the people and myself," Nehemiah said after breaking the meet record twice in the 60-yard high hurdles trials.

His performances overshadowed the seven finals. The two-day meet concluded Saturday with 11 final events.

Defending champion and co-favorite Texas-El Paso, shooting for its fifth title in six years, was first wit, 7 points, followed by Auburn, 16; Dartmouth and Tennessee, 14 each, and Southern Illinois, 12. There were 27 teams that scored at least one point in the 10-8-6-4-2-1 scoring system.

Co-favorite Villanova had just two points. But with its strong events to go, it appeared to have a shot at the title.

Nehemiah was disqualified in a heat of last week's IC4A meet for failing to clear the final hurdle. Monday he injured his buttocks while not quite clearing a hurdle in practice.

But in his first trial heat Friday he was timed in 7.08 seconds. Then he came back with a 6.94 in the quarter-finals - a half-second faster than his nearest rival. He set a meet mark last year with a 7.11 in the trials and owns the world mark of 6.88.

"I still have pain in it now," he said of his injury, "but it's psychological pain. It won't bother me unless I hit it."

The affable speedster said: "I want to be an all-around performer, in the trials and the race. I don't care how much of a lead I have, I'll give 100 percent."

James Walker of Auburn, who won the 440-yard dash in 48.61 seconds, was one of the qualifiers for today's 60-yard hurdles finals with Nehemiah.

"That guy's phenomenal," Walker said of Nehemiah. "He's in a class by himself. It would take a superhuman effort to beat him."

Auburn had another winner in Mark Baughman, who heaved the shot 62 feet, 10 inches.

Prairie View's Evans White, spurred by the crowd, captured the 880 in 1:51.90.

Texas-El Paso's Michael Musyoki took advantage of the absence of flu-ridden Washington State star Henry Rono to win the three-mile in 12:21.6.

Indiana's Robert Cannon leaped 54 feet, 8¼ inches to win the triple jump while Larry Myricks of Mississippi took the long jump in 25-10¾.

White and Myricks are the first representatives from their schools ever to compete in the NCAA meet.

Guthrie Revs Up For Aggie 500

COLLEGE STATION (AP)—Pioneer woman race driver Janet Guthrie, the only woman to race in the Indianapolis 500, is plowing new ground in Texas where she will race for the first time Sunday in the Aggieland 250 at Texas World Speedway.

Following a three-day swing through the state, Guthrie isn't sure if the fans will sprout up for or against her.

"I think I'll reserve an answer on that for awhile," Guthrie said when asked how she had been accepted by race fans on her first trip through Texas. "I haven't had much of a chance to visit them yet."

As for the rest of the world, Guthrie says she is much more accepted in the pits now than during the tense days of 1977 when she became the first woman to qualify for the prestigious Indy 500.

"I'm never going to be one of the guys, that's for sure," said Guthrie, a ninth place finisher last year at Indy. "But it's different from 1976 when the hospitality was so thick you could cut it with a knife.

"The guys in the garage are mostly friendly and helpful now with a few exceptions. And those exceptions hurt more than in 1976 because by now you'd think they would know better."

Guthrie was scheduled to drive a Camaro owned by Bay Darnell, Deerfield, Ill., in Sunday's first race of the season at Texas World Speedway.

After failing to get a ride on the NASCAR circuit this year, Guthrie reapplied for a United States Auto Club license last week and found herself heading for Texas to drive the Darnell Camaro.

Assisting In Real Estate School Probe

By SUSAN STOLER
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)—Fred Shaw told his boss at the Texas Real Estate Commission Feb. 16 that he was assisting a grand jury investigation of a Houston real estate school.

On Monday, Shaw's superior drove from Austin to Houston and fired him from his $17,800-a-year job as Houston field office director.

Both Shaw and his boss Mark Mosely, chief of the commission's enforcement division, testified last week before the Travis County grand jury in a growing investigation of the Houston school.

Shaw said he had told Mosely since 1977 that Ahrens Real Estate School in Houston allegedly had sold course diplomas to persons who attended few or no classes.

Prospective real estate agents must pass either college or proprietary school courses before taking the state real estate licensing exam.

The school's two operators, Carl and Kenneth Ahrens, have been indicted in the alleged diploma-selling scheme.

"I audited the Ahrens class to see its quality," Shaw said before his grand jury testimony.

"I found what I considered poor quality of instruction," he said. "I kept receiving unsolicited complaints about this particular school."

In January 1978, Shaw said he audited school attendance records and got his first documentary evidence of alleged diploma-selling.

View Certificates As Mixed Blessing

By KRISTIN GOFF
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP)-Government efforts to modify interest-rate rules for a popular money market certificate is seen as a mixed blessing by many in the housing industry.

The certificate was created by bank regulators last June as one way to help banks compete when interest rates were rising and deposits might otherwise be withdrawn for better yields on investments elsewhere.

The certificates, tied to rates on six-month Treasury bills, are largely credited for preventing a slowing of housing construction last year by providing billions in extra funds to savings and loan institutions, the chief mortgage lenders.

But the message coming out of Washington this past week seemed to indicate that they were too much of a good thing in light of the administrations's efforts to restrain inflation by gradually slowing the economy.

So bank regulators said they were scaling back some provisions in interest rates on the certificates, "in further support of efforts to restrain inflation."

The net effect, some analysts say, may be to restrict the amount of funds lenders have for mortgages and thus slow housing construction.

Northern Electric Co. Marks 1st Anniversary

Northern Electric Co., manufacturer of electric blankets, celebrated its first anniversary in Snyder Friday by treating employees with cake and punch. Also, employees who have been with the company since it began operations here received certificates of appreciation.

The Snyder location produced about 450,000 electric blankets last year, says J.P. Daniels, operations manager. He expects about 700,000 to be turned out during the second year of production.

The Snyder plant began operation with about 20 employees. The Mississippi based company now has over 170 employees in the Snyder plant. Daniels says about 15 of these are in management positions with all but 3 coming from the Snyder area. He foresees continued growth in the coming year although it will not be as fast as in the first year.

The company began operations with an assembly line, said Daniels, now they also fabricate, package and ship out the finished product.

Daniels, a Mississippi native, lived in Brownsville before transferring to Snyder when operations began here. After a year he says he likes West Texas.

"I miss the pine trees but I like the people."

Best-Known Landmark...

Chicago's Noted Loop Could Be Dismantled

By ARTHUR ROTSTEIN
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP)—The Loop, perhaps Chicago's best known landmark, may be doomed.

For 82 years, trains have whooshed and roared around the elevated tracks that mark the borders of downtown. They lurch around 90-degree turns, third rail flashing, cement canyons magnifying shrill screech of metal on metal, assaulting cardrums, smothering conversation.

The Loop has been symbolic of Chicago's identity as Lake Michigan. It's a survivor, a utilitarian device uniquely delineating the city's business and financial hub and carrying the public there in unequaled numbers.

It's been loved and hated, its demise predicted since its inception. The latest threat: City Hall wants to tear down the two square miles - $11,000 tons - of 25-foot-high riveted plate steel. Merchants long have howled it's an eyesore, a nuisance, a blight, a deterrent to business.

The Chicago Urban Transportation District says the Loop is doomed. It will take about $400 million to build a partial replacement, a subway businessmen insist will spur more than $1 billion in new development west and northwest of the Loop.

And so the brouhaha: "The Elevated and the Loop are as much a part of Chicago as the cable car is to San Francisco," says architecet Doug Schroeder.

"If anybody is interested in preservation of the elevated structure for historical purposes, we have some sections of it on 63rd Street I'm sure we could keep," says Mayor Michael Cilandic, "But downtown, clearly the best things we could do is to take it down."

Since the Union Loop Elevated was completed by Charles Tyson Yorkes in 1897, an estimated 2.7 billion passengers have ridden the "iron collar" around a 7-by 10-block downtown area.

Yorkes devised the Loop, bringing rail lines from north, south, west into common circling trackage above the congestion. For real estate and businessmen, it meant more shoppers and land development.

But it brought dire warnings: of rush-hour trains stacking up at its ridiculous 90-degree curves, of packed behemoths plunging into streets teeming with pedestrians, cars, trolleys and trucks.

And it quickly brought complaints about light blotted out and noise that made thinking impossible. But Yorkes scoffed at replacing the elevated with subways.

Now merchants were complaining about the Loop. It stifled already-jammed streets, magnifying the tumult, and provided a haven for dead-eyed pigeons.

In 1916, the Chicago Traction and Subway Commission was ordered to extend the transit system by elevated lines, noting, "A subway costs about four times as much per mile as an elevated railroad and will furnish no more passenger carrying capacity, speed or other advantage."

Business interests, and mayors ; Ed Kelly, Richard J. Daley, Bilandic - said most of the Loop could, or would be removed. But the general manager of the Rapid Transit Lines, predecessor of the Chicago Transit Authority, said in 1940: "The Loop occupies only 8½ percent of the street area in the downtown business center and is the greatest asset the other 91½ percent has. It is the greatest passenger pickup system in the world."

The present plan stems from a 1968 study that includes a $750 million program for an underground replacement and an east-west line past major railroad terminals. The CUTD was set up in 1970 to carry it out. But there wasn't enough federal money, so the agency trimmed its plans to intersecting north-south and east-west axes.

At $50 million to $100 million a mile, there's enough money now only for one line.

COUPLE SETS JUNE VOWS—Mr. and Mrs. Billy J. Voss of E. 40th & College, announce the engagement and forthcoming wedding of their daughter, Lisa, to Mickey Crump of Albuquerque, N.M. Feagan-Gee Rites At Sweetwater

Double ring vows united Karen Jill Feagan and Larry Wayne Gee in marriage Feb. 23.

The Rev. Malcolm Brown officiated at the ceremony which was held at 7 p.m. in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Doil Feagan, 1914 East 12th St., Sweetwater.

The fireplace served as an altar for the vows. The mantle had greenery entwined among brass candle holders with orange blossoms in mist, with brass candelabra on each side and palms in the background.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Larry Smith of Snyder.

Mrs. Kenny Patrick of Snyder accompanied Mrs. Randy Billingsley who sang "The Twelfth of Never" and "I'd Always Love You."

Mrs. Kenny Head of Snyder, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She wore a floor-length gown of dusty rose, made blouson-style with round neck and shirred at the waist. Her bouquet was of carnations and mums.

Kenny Head of Snyder lighted candles and Jim Saunders of Abilene ushered guests to their seats. Bernie Weems of Snyder was best man.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father, wore a wedding frock of white organza with orange embossed flowers. The bodice had a ruffled overlay with orange bows attached to the front left and right back, accented at the waist with an orange cumberbund. The floor-length skirt was in three ruffles, each trimmed orange ribbon and lace.

She carried a circle of daisies, orange and white carnations, baby's breath and ivy.

The bride is a 1977 graduate of Sweetwater High School and attended Paris Junior College. The bridegroom is a 1976 graduate of Snyder High School, attended Ranger Junior College and is employed by Production Operators.

A reception followed the ceremony. The table featured crystal appointments with spring flowers. Serving the three-tiered wedding cake were Tracy Gill of Snyder, and Mrs. Jim Saunders of Abilene, sister of the bride. Melonie Smith, sister of the groom, passed out rice bags.

The couple is at home at 1310 24th St. in Snyder.

Divorce Plans Up In The Air

ANTIOCH, Calif. (AP)—Gene Ballard is bailing out of his marriage but his divorce plans are up in the air.

Ballard is to serve divorce papers on his wife, Lynda, on Saturday at about 10,000 feet.

Ballard, a carpenter, and his wife plan to skydive one last time together - for old times' sake. They are friends and have been separated for four years. The divorce is uncontested but in the sky ceremony will include Ballard's attorney.

And if things go as planned, Ballard says, he'll give his soon to be ex-wife a kiss as they open their chutes at 4,000 feet above the Antioch Airport, about 40 miles east of San Francisco.

Well-planned kitchens combine organization and function.

When building a new home, remodeling an existing kitchen, or adding one to a present home, study specific ways to plan the kitchen.

FUNCTION

Remember, the kitchen contains important areas such as counters that provide work and storage space, built-in appliances, fixtures and floor space.

Like a well-fitted jigsaw puzzle, the pieces must fit properly to insure personal satisfaction and to meet functional requirements.

A well-planned kitchen includes centers designed for specific food preparation or cleanup tasks.

Besides its appliances, each center needs counter surface and storage space. Effective centers allow work to move continuously in one direction.

ORGANIZATION

The arrangement of the centers within the floor plan usually take a basic kitchen shape:

--the "U" shape,
--broken "U" or island,
--"L" shape,
--two wall or corridor,
--or, the one wall or Pullman shape.

Too much space is an unnecessary step and wastes energy--so, plan ahead to side-step any excess space.

Recommended work area distances are as follows:

--sink to refrigerator--four to seven feet.
--refrigerator to range top--four to nine feet.
--range top to sink--four to six feet.

Ivan the Terrible was crowned the first czar of Russia in 1547.

"There ought to be a law against an opening trump lead," complained South. "Any other lead and I would have been home free."

"We have too many laws now," replied West. "In any event a trump lead is clearly indicated with my holding."

It certainly was indicated and it certainly cooked South's goose. He had to lose a spade, two diamonds and a club. Now let's see what could happen with various other leads.

A club lead would be won by East's queen. Later on South would finesse successfully against West's king and get to discard a diamond.

A diamond lead would give South two diamond tricks instead of just one.

A spade lead would be won by South's jack. South would then draw trumps and play ace and six of spades. West would be back on lead with the king and forced to lead a diamond or club for South.

Ask the Experts

A Wisconsin reader asks if you can handle A J 3 2 opposite 10 7 5 4 so as to be sure of two tricks in the suit against any adverse holding.

Yes, there is a perfect and simply safety play. Just lay down your ace and continue with the deuce. If the suit breaks 3-2, all plays work. If there was a singleton honor it would have dropped. If either opponent held four to the king-queen he would score his king and queen, but that would be all.

Students Play For Coterie

The Snyder Musical Coterie was entertained by Snyder High School Band students when it met Thursday at the Martha Ann Woman's Club.

Solo and ensemble groups performed, under direction of Don Eiring.

Look Before You Leap

NEW YORK (AP)—It's better to be working when you're looking for a job, according to a survey of the member personnel agencies of the National Personnel Associates, which shows employed applicants get 18 percent more in pay and benefits in new jobs than unemployed applicants.

Moreover, employed applicants get more jobs. Seventy-two percent of applicants applying to these management-level agencies are employed but they get 81 percent of the available jobs.

Fast Pace For Royal Family

MOSCOW (AP)—It's another busy week for Britain's royal family, with a suntanned Prince Philip flying off to Moscow and Prince Charles eating snake meat.

Philip, husband of Queen Elizabeth II, arrived in the Soviet capital Monday for a four-day visit and is to view facilities being built for horses and riders at the 1980 Moscow Olympics.

Philip, looking suntanned after a three-week four of Arabian Gulf states with the queen, is president of the International Equestrian Federation. He came here at the invitation of Soviet Olympic organizers.

Meanwhile, in Hong Kong, 30-year-old Prince Charles gingerly ate several ferns, grimaced after drinking some rice win, then when it came time for the snake meat, quipped, "Boy, the things I do for England."

Miss South, Mark Rhodes Wed In Single-Ring Rites

Karla Kay South became the bride of Gary Mark Rhodes in a single-ring ceremony at the First Christian Church Feb. 24 at 2 p.m. Dr. Wilbur J. Mindel, minister of the church, performed the ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Harold South of Sulphur Springs and Mrs. Nell Oswalt of Snyder, and Mr. and Mrs. Coy Rhodes, Clairemont Rd.

The bride's brother-in-law, Billy Freeman, gave the bride in marriage. She was attired in a gown of polyester organza featuring front and back sheer yoke bodice accented with a scrolled venise lace, trimmed with Cluny lace. Her sheer bishop sleeves accented with matching lace appliques came to a wide cuff at the wrists. The skirt ending with flounces trimmed with cluney and Venise lace extended to a full chapel train. The bride's matching short veil was attached to a headpiece complimented with seed pearls.

The bride carried a cascade of blue and white carnations and pink roses surrounded with baby's breath.

Cheryl Jamison of Breckenridge was maid of honor. She was attired in a long, pink dress with a ruffled back and carried a long stemmed carnation. Flower girl Amanda Donnelly wore a long, pink dress and carried a white basket filled with pink rose petals.

Julie Rhodes, sister of the groom was attired in a long blue dress and carried a long stemmed blue carnation. Bridesmaids were Julie Rhodes and Janice Rhodes, sisters of the groom. Each wore long blue dresses and carried blue carnations.

Best man was Dale Rhodes, brother of the groom. Groomsmen were Leon Ward of Hermleigh, and Mark Duke of Snyder. Ushers were Mike Rhodes of Odessa and Robbie Hinds of Fort Smith, Ark.

A single basket of gladioli decorated the altar along with a full arched candelabrum holding 30 candles. The candelabrum was entwined with ivy. This was flanked with two arrangements containing seven candles. The pews were marked with white silk bows.

The musical program included "There Is Love" and "The Lord's Prayer." Mrs. Buddy Whittenburg was organist and Kathy Burk was soloist.

A reception followed the ceremony in the fellowship hall of the church. The bride's table was centered with a floral arrangement of white and pink roses and small blue and pink carnations and baby's breath. Mrs. Jeana Duke attended the bride's table and Darline Amos registered guests.

The couple will reside in Snyder. The bridegroom is employed with Rhodes Welding Co., Inc.

Seafood Breakfast

COLLEGE STATION—Try seafood for breakfast and introduce a little novelty into the morning, suggests a seafood consumer education specialist, Annette Reddell.

Ms. Reddell is with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

The following recipe is an excellent way to start out the day and help keep you alert and attentive throughout the day, she says.

Add whole wheat or bran muffins and a fruit juice for a complete breakfast.

PEPPERED SHRIMP AND EGGS

½ pound cooked, peeled, and deveined shrimp
3 slices bacon
½ cup chopped onion
¾ cup chopped green pepper
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon cayenne pepper
6 eggs, beaten
¼ cup coffee cream
½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Fry bacon until crisp and drain on absorbent paper. Crumble bacon.

Cook onion and green pepper in bacon fat until tender. Add seasonings and shrimp and heat.

Combine eggs, cream, Worcestershire sauce and bacon.

Add shrimp mixture and cook until eggs are firm, stirring occasionally.

Makes six servings.

fat spot to ponder

When President Carter takes off his shoes at night and pushes everything else from his mind, he can always think of what to do with Davis-Bacon.

Now Davis-Bacon is not the kind you eat in the morning, and it is not the kind that has come under fire for having cancer-causing chemicals, but it is the kind that is accused of giving the country a certain amount of heartburn.

What Davis-Bacon is, is a Depression era "emergency" law beloved by unions because it forces contractors on federally aided projects to pay higher wages than they might have to pay otherwise.

Lo, all these years that it has been in effect, it has continued to be outdated, unnecessary and inflationary.

Now, those are not our words. They are the words of the General Accounting Office, Congress' watchdog agency that points fingers at peons and presidents alike.

What it is telling the president now is that he will have to choose between living up to his anti-inflation rhetoric or face a fight with the leaders of organized labor.

The GAO has studied the Davis-Bacon Act and in a blockbuster report calls the 1931 measure those words that we used above. It costs the government (ye olde taxpayer) about $715 million a year in unneeded construction and administrative costs.

Originally The Law was supposed to make sure that workers on federal projects were paid the same wages as workers on private jobs in the same area. However, according to the GAO, the Labor Department has been unable to determine the prevailing wage rates which are needed to make the law work.

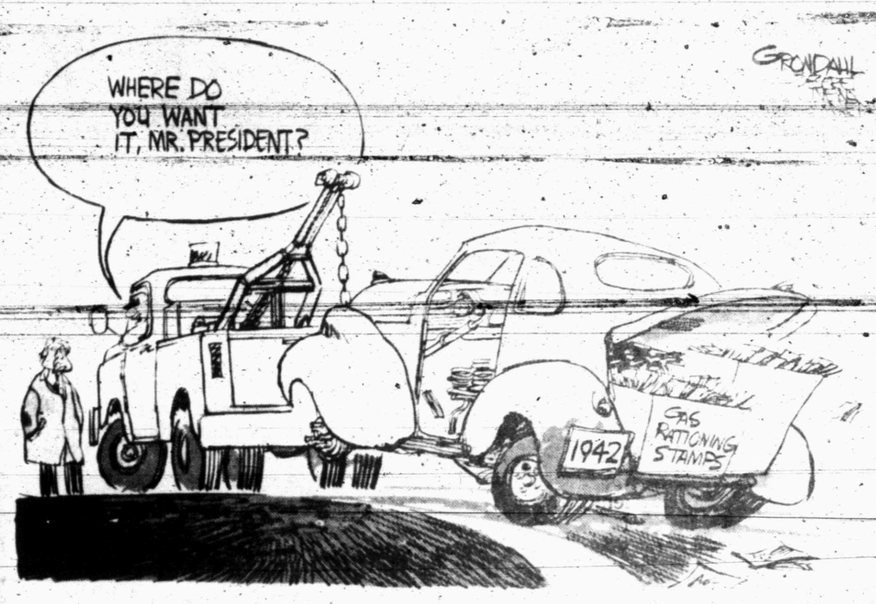
That doesn't speak too well of the Labor Department, does it? One begins to wonder about the need of a Labor Department if through 47 years of inertia, laziness, bias or incompetence it can't find out such elemental facts as what are the prevailing wage rates in an area.

The GAO charged that instead of learning what the area's general wage pattern is the Labor Department usually honed in on union wage rates, and an unskilled laborer willing to accept $4.50 an hour would find the Labor Department assuring that he got $9.50 an hour.

The law, passed at the nadir of the Depression to protect local construction workers from outside competitors willing to slave for peanuts, simply is not working. What often happens, the GAO said, is that local contractors cannot pay the determined wages without undermining their normal wage structure. Consequently they do not bid, and outside contractors get work that normally would be done by local workers.

And this is costing taxpayers money, said GAO. Since federal construction amounts to some $40 billion annually Davis-Bacon has an inflationary impact on the construction industry, to say nothing of the national economy as a whole.

Carter has put into his new foundations the stone designed to hold down inflation. It will be interesting to see whether Carter moves to rescind Davis-Bacon or sidesteps it in favor of organized labor which is bitterly opposed to the law's repeal.



where big cost is

Congressman Jim Collins of Dallas dished up some interesting information in Congress last fall that apparently fell on deaf, or non-existent ears.

Noting that oil imports were climbing and that the price of foreign oil was rising steadily while domestic producers were frequently accused of making too much money off consumers, Collins said he decided to do some research.

He said he took the 35 largest oil companies "because they are the ones that are always criticized so vigorously." He wanted to see how much money they made and how much money their stockholders received.

The research turned up figures that should have opened a few eyes. For example, in 1976, the last full year for which Collins said he could obtain complete figures, dividends paid to the stockholders of these 35 oil giants amounted to a little over $4.5 billion. During the same year, these 35 companies paid out $15 billion in payrolls and benefits to employees. Thus, every time stockholders made a dollar, the employees got $3.

But the money returned to stockholders and paid to employees was a minor factor in the distribution of the revenues the 35 companies accumulated that year. The biggest slice went to government. Yes, taxes gobbled up $53.7 billion, meaning that for every dollar the stockholders got, the government got $12.

But Collins had more figures which we found even more interesting. He found that it cost $11.3 billion to produce all of the oil in this country in 1976. That includes the cost of new oil and gas, plus the expense of keeping 500,000 old oil and gas wells in operation. The federal admidnistration and Congress in their bureaucratic wisdom created the Department of Energy to handle our oil, gas and coal problems. The DOE's budget for 1979 came to $12.6 billion, more than the entire oil and gas industry spent to produce all of our domestic oil and gas.

Thus, while ostensibly looking out for the consumer's interest, the government is tacking on a mere $12.6 billion to our energy cost. And guess who pays.

widows short-changed

While the several states debate ERA I have been standing aside; I might not much longer.

Meanwhile there are still some laws in some states which discriminate against women, and that injustice can be corrected.

Indiana is one state wherein a widow really gets shortchanged.

When the wife dies first, all property held jointly goes to the surviving husband and is not assessed a state inheritance tax.

But should the husband die first, all property held jointly is legally construed as his and thus subject to a full inheritance tax.

For any part of their jointly held property to be construed as hers, she has to prove that she contributed to it from salary, cash, gifts or previous personal inheritance.

The fact that she was a marriage partner and homemaker gets no consideration at all.

Let me say that there are a few tax relieving possibilities and conditions, a certain marital exemption. However, for the bereaved widow these are more likely to compound estate problems than to relieve them—and considering the inflation rate in recent years the relief is absurdly inadequate.

What the tax-and-spend lawmakers try to help us forget is that accumulated property has already been subject to income tax at the time of the accumulation.

When it is corporation stock income, it has already been subject to tax at least three times.

But rather than debate the punitive injustice of redundant taxes, let's here concern ourselves only with the question of equitability—of "fairness"—when a wife, mother and homemaker is construed by the law to be less than a full "marriage partner."

This inequity should be especially intolerable in an era when even unmarried live-in lovers are demanding "community property."

How should the inheritance tax law read?

It should say, "Property held by Mr. or Mrs. or Mr. and Mrs. with right of survivorship, or passed on by will, after all debts of the deceased have been discharged, should pass on immediately to the surviving spouse—without any inheritance tax or probate."

I note that at least one state, Indiana, appears prepared to rewrite its own inheritance law to that effect. Bill 1556 is at least halfway through that state's legislature and has the support of the governor.

Understand, Indiana is one of the states which has already ratified ERA—as long ago as 1977—but without awaiting federal government clarification of what constitutes discrimination, Indiana is proceeding one-by-one to eliminate state statutes which unfairly penalize women.

Some Americans have imagined that all discriminatory laws had already been eliminated. That is not so. Nor would ERA automatically obviate all state laws relating to inheritance, for example. What appears prima-facie discrimination to you and me would still have to be measured against the test of "constitutionality."

Meanwhile, if the United States cannot do everything that should be done at once—there are some things individual states can do—at once.

my turn

by roy mcqueen, publisher

The feller on Deep Creek says, "Chance favors those who are prepared."

We've lived in Snyder just over two years, so we only have to assume some things when we see the attractive downtown area, nice schools, a terrific coliseum, an outstanding junior college and other points of interest.

We know these things didn't just happen. Sure it was nice that Snyder had a healthy oil tax base, but it obviously had something else.

Snyder had people of vision.....or we might just call them dreamers. These are people who take an idea, determine it is good for the community, roll up their sleeves and see the project to fruition.

There is industry in Snyder right now that is evidence of people wanting to insure Snyder's continued economic health.

There is a new opportunity for all Snyder residents—and it will take the efforts of everyone.

A major industry is now looking at Snyder—one of three apparent finalists. Some of the basic things that the industry is interested in is an arid climate, rail, and good highways. All three towns fit this description.

Unlike some industrial prospects, they have expressed no interest in incentives such as land, buildings or financing. In fact, it is a $2.5 billion company capable of building a $150 million plant that would eventually employ 1,000 persons.

What they do want, however, is to be wanted. They want to "marry" a community that will be proud to have it. Present state bureaucratic regulations and labor unions have prompted the company to look for a new site.

Our information tells us that the company would build the facility in accordance with all environmental, air and water control regulations. In fact all plans and specifications must have prior approval. This satisfies our concern about the desirability of the outfit.

The economic impact of some 1,000 new males on the payroll of Snyder and Scurry County would be terrific: It could mean expansion for some of our existing industry. It's the kind of industry that will bring in new people and add to our work force.

Snyder folks have done it before. Combine efforts and we stand an excellent chance of landing a major new industry. To let them know they're wanted, a simple letter to the chamber would be greatly appreciated.

in washington

martha angle and robert walters

WASHINGTON (NEA)—You can see them every weekday afternoon, in any city in America, in any type of neighborhood. Kids—little kids—wearing a house key on a string around their necks.

They are the "latch key" children, the youngsters of working mothers who trudge home from school each day to an empty house where a television set and a telephone are the only available "child care" resources.

Nobody knows for sure how many there are, although the Census Bureau estimates at least two million children ages 7 to 13 are left alone each day without supervision.

Millions more youngsters too young to go to school are shuttled about from babysitters to group-care homes to relatives, neighbors and occasionally child care centers as women with and without husbands flood the labor market.

Within the space of a single decade, the child care problem in this country has reached crisis proportions. Whatever the reasons—economic, social or a combination thereof—mothers are leaving home for the work force at an accelerating pace.

By last year, according to the U.S. Department of Labor, 60 percent of all women with school-age children were working, along with almost 44 percent of all mothers with children under 6 years of age.

They left behind them, to be cared for one way or another, close to 30 million children—and in the entire Untied States, there were only about 1.6 million licensed child care openings.

Policy-makers at all levels of government, but especially federal, have been typically slow to recognize and respond to the obvious need for greater child care support.

Last year, the federal government spent went to families on welfare or at the poverty level. Perhaps $500 million more was provided indirectly through the tax credit which working parents can claim for child care costs.

The last major federal initiative on child care came in 1971, when then-Sen. Walter F. Mondale steered a comprehensive bill through the Congress only to see it vetoed by former President Nixon.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who succeeded Mondale as chairman of the Senate subcommittee on children and youth, is now trying to put together a more modest, limited measure that would establish a system of state grants for a wide variety of child care services, fromhome-based care to day care centers.

The cost would be relatively small—less than $100 million in the next fiscal year, Cranston estimates. Yet in this "International year of the Child," the only witness opposing the child care bill—of dozens who have testified so far—was the representative of the Carter administration.

The American Legion, hardly a group noted for its bleeding heart liberalism, heartily endorsed the Cranston bill. But an assistant secretary of Health, Education and Welfare insisted no new child care program is needed.

It is no secret the administration is pinching pennies wherever and whenever it can, especially in regard to domestic programs. But there is such a thing as penney wise and pound foolish.

As Cranston has noted, a new General Accounting Office study shows that money invested in child care pays enormous dividends in lower welfare costs, higher worker productivity and reduced crime and delinquency. Some programs are worth spending money on—and child care, notwithstanding the administration's attitude, is one of them.

Snyderite Due 1st UTEP Doctorate

Gary L. Massingill, a coal geologist with the New Mexico Bureau of Mines and Mineral Resources in Socorro, is expected to become the first recipient of a doctor's degree from the University of Texas at El Paso.

The doctoral program, first in the 66-year history of UT El Paso, is in geological sciences and was officially launched in 1974.

Massingill will undergo a defense of his doctoral dissertation before a panel of geologists at the University at 1 p.m. on March 14 in the Old Geology building. These "orals" are the final step in Massingill's work toward his doctorate in geological sciences begun in the summer of 1975.

A 32-year-old native of Snyder, Massingill spent 11 months mapping and exploring in the vicinity of Riley, a New Mexico ghost town north of Magdalena. The extensive field work in an area of over 50 square miles was followed by a year of writing his 300-page dissertation titled "The Geology of the Riley-Puertecito Area, Southeastern Colorado Plateau, Socorro County, New Mexico."

Massingill received his B.S. and M.S. degrees at West Texas State University and was recommended to the UT El Paso doctoral program by his major professor at West Texas. He has served in the Air Force as an officer, including a one-year tour of duty in Korea. His wife, Linda Marie, has completed her classroom work toward a master's degree in geological sciences at UT El Paso and is employed in the Energy Institute in Socorro.

Massingill, upon successfully completing his dissertation defense on March 14, will unofficially receive his doctorate in geological sciences; the official awarding of the degree will be made at UT El Paso Commencement ceremonies on May 12.

Dr. W.N. McAnulty, whom Massingill especially credits for aiding him in his doctoral-level work, will retire later this year. Dr. McAnulty, professor of geological sciences at the University since 1964 and former chairman of the department, was instrumental in the formation of the doctoral program.

SNYDER MAN EARNS DOCTORATE--Gary L. Massingill, a native of Snyder, due to receive the first doctoral degree in geological sciences ever awarded by the University of Texas at El Paso, is shown here working with a petrographic microscope at his Bureau of Mines office.

The strike finaled for a 24-hour pumping potential of 215.97 barrels of oil and no water, through perforations from 8,482 to 8,486 feet after a 500-gallon acid treatment.

The gravity of the oil is 39 degrees. The gas-oil ratio was not reported.

Total depth is 8,486 feet and 5.5-inch casing is cemented on bottom.

Operator has suggested King David (Ellenburger) as the name of the new pool.

Location is 467 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 48, block 30, T-6-N, John W. Gibson survey. It is one mile northeast of the two-well Rafter Ctoss (Ellenburger and Strawn) field, but separated from it by two failures.

Bobby Bonner of Midland No. 1 Tunner has been completed as a east offset to production in the Borden (Spraberry) field of Borden County, 10 miles northwest of Gail.

If finaled for a daily pumping potential of 32 barrels of oil 38-gravity oil and 60 barrels of water, through perforations from 6,492 to 6,508 feet. Treatment was not reported.

The gas-oil ratio is 785-1.

Total depth is 7,464 feet and 4.5-inch casing is set at 6,849 feet.

Amoco Production Co. of Brownfield announced plans to re-enter the former Midwest Oil Corp. No. 1 Joe Scott in Borden County.

Attempt will be made in the Ellenburger. The site is in the depleted myrtle, West (Ellenburger) field 12 miles northeast of Gail.

A former Strawn producer, it will be deepened from 8,330 feet to 8,650 feet. It originally was completed in 1956.

The location is 1,980 feet from south and west lines of section 413, block 97, H&TC survey, abstract 1155.

WES-TEX Drilling Co. of Abilene has completed its No. 1 D. K. Burkhart in southwest Borden County, four miles northwest of Vealmoore.

The operator filed the potential test in the Ackerly (Dean) field.

It is one location east of a depleted Dean well and was completed for a 24-hour pumping potential of 170 barrels of 38-gravity oil, through perforations from 8,080 to 8,262 feet. The gas-oil ratioi is 1,050-1.

Operator acidized the pay with 2,000 gallons and fractured with 100,000 gallons.

The total depth is 9,075 feet and 4.5-inch casing is cemented at 9,074 feet.

Noted Geologist Declares There's Lots Of Oil Left

By MAX B. SKELTON
AP Oil Writer

HOUSTON (AP)—P.W. J. Wood, a geologist who has participated in oil explorations around the world, says petroleum resources still to be discovered probably are several times as large as all the oil found to date.

"There are ample resources of petroleum in the world, still undiscovered, which should permit an orderly transition from our present petroleum-dependent civilization to a society based on alternate energy sources during the next 50 years," Wood said.

"The price to the public of this undiscovered petroleum will continue to be a factor controlled by the 'government take', as that price is now, rather than what we in industry call the technical cost of finding and producing oil and gas although that cost will increase."

Wood, executive vice president Cities Service Co., Tulsa, Okla., said a lot of the undiscovered oil is economically recoverable.

"To get the job done within a reasonable time, we must accelerate our exploration efforts around the world and, incidentally, when those efforts yield success, we must reduce the time now wasted in bringing new discoveries to production," he said.

In a report presented at a London conference on world energy economics, Wood said the key to such explorations will be the political and economic climate.

"If there is to be a wide spread petroleum shortage before the end of this century, it will not be because reserves are not available to be found and developed," he said.

"Neither will it be because the petroleum industry lacks the technology to perform the task."

Wood said the United States, excluding Alaska, is the most densely explored region in the world.

"If technology and economic incentives advance sufficiently the world as a whole should attain a drilling maturity approaching that of the United States," he said.

"The majority of the world's prospective area is non-productive to date. Most of it is relatively unexplored."

Wood said present studies indicate from 145 to 155 major basin and subbasin areas are virtually undrilled at this time and that an equal number of large basin areas are considered to be semi-frontiers in early exploration stages.

"Of the 145-155 true frontier basins the vast majority are in harsh exploration climates of the Arctic, deep oceans, jungles, and in areas of extreme logistical difficulty," he said.

"The geographic size of the relatively unexplored areas gives credibility, I believe, to the idea there is still as much petroleum to be found as we know about already."

Wood said statistics on exploration drilling density versus prospective areas are not readily available.

"Rather they have been compiled with reference to political units," he said.

"Perhaps that is appropriate as it is political factors rather than technical ones which determine whether any work will be done or not, and ultimately whether or not enough petroleum will be found to permit an orderly transition to the 21st century."

Wood said that although they did not result in increased operating revenues to the oil industry the OPEC price increases of 1973-74 did have the effect of stimulating exploration activity in the United States.

"It was assumed by U.S. industry that U.S. domestic prices would ultimately rise to world levels, that producers would ultimately receive increased revenues, and that therefore some areas previously considered to be uneconomic for exploration would become attractive," he said.

Wood added that the United States is doing as much within its borders to find new petroleum reserves as is the rest of the free world put together.

But, he said, most of the large quantities of oil yet to be found are in areas outside the United States and that explorations in those areas are woefully inadequate today.

Bond Set For Bombing Suspect

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)- Bond has been set at $50,000 for William Bowman, charged with killing an elderly woman in the Speedway area last summer.

When Bowman, 32, was arrested for the shooting death of Julia Scyphers, he was free on bond from Texas, where he and Brett Kimberlin, an Indianapolis businessman, were charged with drug smuggling. Kimberlin also has been indicted for six of eight bombings around the Speedway area last summer. Local police say they are looking for links between the Speedway crimes.

Poor Are Using Occult In Lieu Of Psychiatry

By CYNTHIA STEVENS
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP)-They pay $3.50, take a number, then sit at a table and stare at flowered wallpaper, waiting for a taret card reader to resolve all their conflicts and deliver their dreams in 15 minutes.

Many customers at the Caravan Tea Garden, like clients of psychies, palmists and astrologers elsewhere, are regulars. Some go every week, even every day, to consult the occult on the course of their lives.

In New York and on the West Coast, increased interest in the supernatural means increased business for its practioners.

"We're the poor man's psychiatrist," says Marlyn Ficlare, the Caravan tearoom owner. She says her clientele has tripled in the last year. Her eight readers, all said to be gifted with extrasensory perception, handle about 30 people each evening. Up to 200 would-be customers, mostly women, are turned away every week.

Ms. Ficlare says a reading is "almost like a confessional." And Jean, a Caravan reader, says: "There's almost a panic on because of the economy. People are afraid of losing their jobs, homes and husbands' attentions. The children have gone haywire."

Taret readers who work for tips in Manhattan's two tea-rooms are one facet of a nationwide hodgepodge that includes storefront gypsy palmists, astrologers working at home, and psychometrists, who trace a client's past, present and future by feeling "vibrations" in a personal item. Even some psychotherapists admit to using astrology.

Interest in the occult has increased dramatically in a decade, spreading from the '60s hippie counterculture. It has spawned horoscope columns, astrology magazines and movies with psychic themes.

Parapsychologists attribute the boom to fascination with Eastern mysticism and dis-illusionment with a world that has failed to erase violence and poverty. It coincides with a yen for an emotional, intuitive, spiritual approach to life, a search for the answer.

How much credence can be put in occultists who claim that "forces" outside the mind and physical environment allow them to perceive another person's emotional and mental state? Answers vary.

Take Dr. Bernard Rosenblum, a New York psychiatrist, who uses astrological charts "to help a person get a real in-depth understanding of who he is in terms of his potential."

Some astrologers, like Marcia Kaplan, insist they're not predicting the future, only analyzing personalities in terms of probabilities.

Ms. Kaplan, 30, is editor of four astrology publications. She says astrology is a "based on 6,000 years of observation of human behavior. There's a tremendous amount of information in it on what people are likely to do in a given set of circumstances."

Rolled Back Prices For Anniversary

ARTHUR, Ill. (AP)-To celebrate their 25th anniversary in business, restaurant owners D.C. and Pauline Moses rolled prices back to the 1954 level.

Coffee was a dime, hamburgers a quarter and complete dinners were 90 cents.

"I don't have any idea how many people we served, but I'm sure we lost a lot of money," said Mrs. Moses Tuesday night. "We didn't advertise it. We worked it out so that our regular customers would be able to take advantage of it. That was the idea. Just a novelty idea and a way of saying thanks to our customers."

The meals included meat loaf, sausage, beef and noodles, weiners and sauerkraut, or chicken salad, plus mashed potatoes and gravy, a choice of three vegetables, eight salads, hot rolls and drinks.

Today, the price of one of those meals is $2.60.

"Yeah, it was busy," said Mrs. Moses. "But, I've been 'tireder.' This was a very pleasant day."

Surviving Twin In Stable Condition

PHILADELPHIA (AP)-A surviving Siamese twin, separated from her sister last week, is now being fed by formula and is in stable and satisfactory condition, a hospital official says.

A spokeswoman at St. Christopher's Hospital for Children said that the infant, identified only as "Baby A," had been fed by intravenous fluids. Baby A and Baby B shared a six-chambered heart and other vital organs. Baby B was sacrificed during a six-hour operation to separate the sisters, born Feb. 20.

Frank Isbell of the chicago White Sox made four doubles in a World Series Game in 1906.
