Titus County Oil-Gas Roundup

More than $11.9 million a year of economic stimulation for Titus County flows from its oil and gas wells each year, an annual study by Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association showed today.

"As one of the 206 producing counties in Texas, Titus County's economy is sensitive to fluctuations in the oil industry generally," commented W. A. Landreth, Fort Worth, Association president. "Long range, the demand for oil looks strong and current production rates continue to provide Texas a major source of its income. On the other hand, Texas operators are beset by competition from other oil producing areas, government ceilings on natural gas prices, heavy tax payments, and a price for crude oil that is insufficient to encourage the amount of exploratory drilling that is needed to find future reserves."

Based on latest U. S. Bureau of Mines production figures, Titus County in 1965 produced 4.0 million barrels of crude oil, valued at $11.9 million and 44.8 million cubic feet of natural gas valued at $5,800, and ranks 82nd among Texas counties in production.

A major contribution of income from sales of oil and gas went to county landowners in royalty payments totaling more than $1.5 million.

In 1966, a year that saw drilling in Texas fall to its lowest level since 1947, oil and gas operators drilled 2 wells in Titus County. One was a wildcat seeking a new field.

The Association estimated that operators in the county spent more than $123,480 in drilling last year, of which $50,568 was lost in dry holes.

Shading heavily in the county's production each year is the State Treasury, which received $549,922 in production taxes in 1965 paid by the producers and royalty owners. Crude oil production paid $549,516 and natural gas production, $406.

Texas Employment Commission figures for 1966 show that some 244 workers directly employed in oil and gas operations accounted for a payroll in excess of $1.1 million.

Additional value is given oil and gas from the operation of processing plants. The Oil and Gas Journal lists 1 refinery in the county.

Rep. Neal Solomon At Deport Crusade

Representative Neal Solomon of Mt. Vernon, congressional representative for District 10, will participate in the Deport Crusade for Christ on July 4, Paul Campbell, Crusade Committee co-chairman announced. At the outdoor service Solomon will tell of his faith in Jesus Christ.

"The reason for asking Mr. Solomon," Campbell said, "is because of his unique position in government and his demonstrable life in his home community and the capital. Solomon is an ordained deacon in the First Baptist Church, Mt. Vernon. We felt it fitting, on the day of our country's Independence celebration, to register our allegiance to our Land of the Free. And a public servant of his caliber participating with us affords us this opportunity."

Special recognition will be given to Veterans of the Armed Services on this night. In addition, families who have relatives in the armed forces will be honored.

Mrs. Felix Jones and Mrs. B. L. Gieger went to Fort Worth Monday to visit Charles Nichols, who is a patient in a hospital there. Mr. Nichols, who has been seriously ill, is reported to be slightly improved.

R. Williams and Bob Judy Reed, judges; and the officers of Bogata Rodeo Club. Lee King, president; Charles Lewis, vice president; Jackie Gray, secretary-treasurer.

Farm Income In Titus Co. Increased

Titus County farm income has increased over one-third since 1964 according to "Agricultural Income Evaluations" prepared by Texas A&M University.

Overall estimated cash income received by Titus County farmers in 1964 was $3,379,798 and in 1966 $4,812,807. This increase of over 1.4 million in rural income came largely from cattle and broilers. Dairying showed a slight increase as it held its own.

Mrs. Sally Wages and Mrs. Elwood Jones returned home Thursday after a three weeks visit with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wages at Earth. They were met there by C. T. Wages of Dallas. Mr. Jones went to Earth Tuesday to accompany them home.

Community Public Service Distributes Questionnaire

Much has been written and said by civic leaders in recent months about ways and means of helping a town grow and prosper in spite of the many problems that plague the smaller communities of the state. It is generally agreed that the acquisition of new industry is one of the quickest and most effective ways of giving a boost to local economy.

Every citizen of Talco is being given an opportunity to take part in the search for industrial firms which may be interested in expanding or moving into this area.

"Along with civic leaders and other civic-minded firms, Community Public Service Company is helping distribute a questionnaire designed to turn up leads on industrial prospects," according to David L. Hudson, manager for the power company.

"A copy of the questionnaire will be enclosed with electric service bills during the next month," Mr. Hudson continued, "and every citizen of this community is encouraged to obtain, fill out and return the questionnaire as an aid to helping the area grow and prosper."

Austin. — Exercising his veto power to cut appropriations, Gov. John Connally sliced off $3,214,121 of the one-year general appropriation bill and killed 37 bills passed by the 60th Legislature.

Nine of the vetoed bills called for total expenditures of $12,519,760 beginning Sept. 1, 1968.

By way of explanation of his line-item vetoes in the appropriations bill, Connally said, "I endorse the actions taken by the Legislature to provide the funds needed to meet state's increasing services to its people. However, there are several items of expenditures for which money was appropriated that I do not consider essential or justified."

Connally deleted a $600,000 appropriation which would have allowed the New Texas Research Institute of Mental Sciences at Houston to lease and operate hospital facilities. "This item was not requested by the Department of Mental Health and Mental Retardation in its budget request, nor was it included in my budget recommendations or those of the Budget Board," the Governor explained.

A $300,000 appropriation for additional Phase I construction at Corpus Christi State School also was vetoed. Connally said it was not requested by the MHMR Department or in budget recommendations submitted by the Legislative Budget Board or by Connally. He pointed out that the 1965 Legislature appropriated $2,224,000 for the proposed school.

Connally slashed $800,000 off the appropriation for the University of Texas Medical School at San Antonio. "With construction of the medical school and teaching hospital and the recruitment of faculty and staff still in process, the number of students actually enrolled will be limited during the 1968 fiscal year," the Governor said.

"Even after vetoing this item," he continued, "the medical school's appropriation for the 1968 fiscal year will exceed my recommendation by $685,795 and will represent a 145 per cent increase over the amount appropriated for the current year."

Also vetoed was $325,000 earmarked to the State Department of Agriculture for expanding market outlets for Texas' agricultural commodities. Connally explained that "The appropriation of $325,000 duplicated in purpose a major portion of the $500,000 'special program' appropriation for marketing and market outlet research, quality research, statistical reporting and other programs relating to agriculture."

Other bills vetoed included those extending the curfew for alcoholic beverage drinking until 2 a. m. in the metropolitan counties, doubling retirement benefits for legislators and improvements in state employees' retirement benefits, prohibiting employment of youngsters under 21 in stores which sell beer and liquor, permitting broader powers for the State Soil and Water Conservation Board, allowing the State Comptroller to seize property for tax debts and sell it without court action, setting up special county boards to assess tax values on agricultural land near cities, and granting cities police powers on private property such as shopping center parking lots.

COSTLY OVERTIME — Extension of the federal minimum wage act to state hospitals and school employees would cost state government in Texas at least $14,000,000 a year, according to Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin.

Martin says he intends to keep fighting inclusion of state institutions under the act all the way to the Supreme Court.

Three federal judges in Maryland recently handed down conflicting opinions on the issue but not a final order.

Under the new appropriations bill, all State employees will get more than the required federal minimum wage. Big catch financially is that the federal act also requires time and a half payment for overtime—or an hour and a half compensatory time off for every hour of overtime worked during the same pay period. Texas employees get compensatory time off (no cash) on an hour-for-hour basis.

CAR INSURANCE — Careless Texas drivers will pay more for their car insurance, on policies written after July 31. They will be charged more because of their accidents or traffic law violations during the nine months which ended May 1.

Penalties which range from 15 to 90 per cent, depending on the number and importance of the law violation — will add up to -6,439,362 during the year starting August 1.

These penalties, feeding that much more money into the auto insurance "kitty," will prevent rate increases for most drivers.

State Board of Insurance held its annual auto insurance rate hearing and got a staff recommendation for a general rate reduction of one per cent in insurance rates. It varies from area to area, and from classification of cars and drivers.

There would have been a general rate increase had it not been for the more than $6,000,000 in penalties which will be charged against the drivers who violate the law and have accidents.

Board also took under consideration a proposal that high school and college students whose grades average B or better be given a 25 per cent insurance rate reduction. State Farm Insurance Co. started such a program in 1962. It found that students who make high grades drive less and have fewer accidents. Hence it is a valid basis for lower rates for those who make the honor roll or the dean's list.

COLLEGE TUITION — Instead of doubling tuition as requested by the Coordinating Board of the Texas College and University system, the Legislature made it easier for poorer youngsters to get tuition and fee exemptions.

Exemptions would go only to students from families with gross incomes of $4,800 a year or less. No student would be allowed to attend college more than six years under the exemption plan.

To be eligible, students must be graduated in the top 25 per cent of their high school classes. Or score in the top 20 per cent in a nationally standardized college admission examination.
