Rural Water Deadline Near, Chairman Says

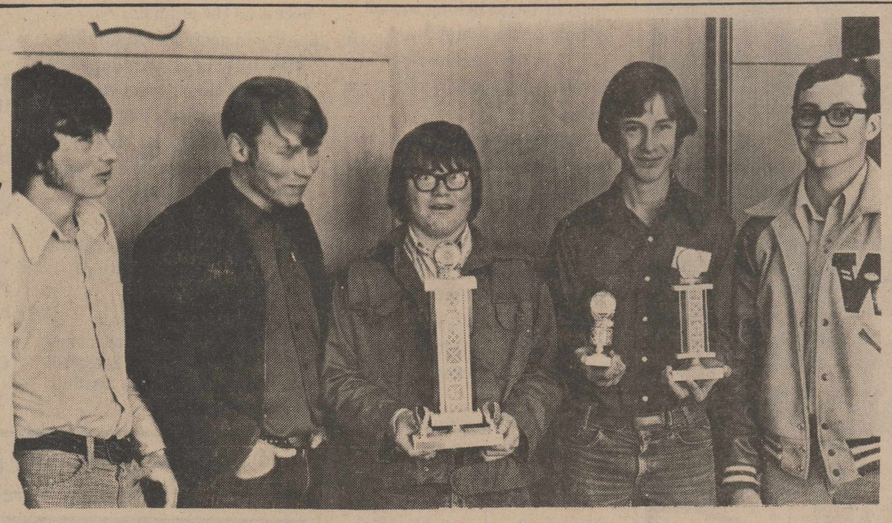

"Time is running out for anyone desiring good water in their homes and for stock," residents of southeast Collingsworth and northeastern Childress counties were warned this week by A.V. Lowrie, chairman of the rural water board.

A meeting of the board will be held Saturday, March 30, at 8:00 p.m. in the Dodson Co-op Gin office to review progress to date.

So far, 83 meters are signed up for the rural water system, Mr. Lowrie said, and these have been placed on the master meter map.

The completed map will be used by engineers to determine the route the rural water lines will take.

Annual Cancer Crusade to Start in County on April 1

The American Cancer Society annual Crusade will begin in Collingsworth County Monday, April 1, and most of the work will be completed during the first week, Mrs. David Phipps, Crusade chairman, announced Tuesday, March 26.

The goal this year is $1,375.

House to house coverage is planned for the Wellington residential area, Mrs. Phipps said, as she announced workers who will participate. Not only will these women solicit Crusade funds, they will also distribute educational material on cancer, including listings of the 7 recognized danger signals.

"Whether you wish to make a donation or not, we do want to get this material in your hands," said Mrs. Phipps.

Mrs. L.M. Bartlett will serve as co-chairman. She headed last year's successful drive.

Working with her as the drive opens will be Mrs. Willie Gragson, from 9th to 15th Streets on Floydada. Mrs. Gorman Owens, 9th to 15th on El Paso; Mrs. Jones Singley, south of 15th on El Paso; Mrs. Pat McAlister, 15th south on Amarillo; Mrs. Cal Sugg, 9th to 15th on East Avenue; Mrs. Bobo Castleberry, 9th to 15th on Corsicana; Mrs. Robert Lacy, 9th to 15th on Dallas Street; Mrs. Cal Hurst, Park Lane; and Mrs. Dwight Bowen, the area north of 9th Streets.

Workers in the business area will be named this week.

Mrs. Mecca Manuel will work in the Lillie community, and other community chairmen also will be named.

Mrs. Phipps said that of the total $1375 goal, it is hoped that $275 can be raised in the business section; $1,000 in the residential area and $25 by special events that are planned.

The remaining $75 will come from the Memorial Fund, which is operational year around. The depository is City State Bank with Billy Moseley as the officer in charge.

"People can make memorial gifts at any time during the year," Mrs. Phipps pointed out.

The American Cancer Society has one of the lowest percentages of all funds in the amount spent for administrative costs, leaving the largest percentage to be spent on its prime objectives, research, education, and service.

For every dollar contributed to the Cancer Society in Texas, the Society spends $1.10 to $1.14 within the state.

The American Cancer Society has made many major grants for research in Texas, the chairman reminded.

On the local level, films and other educational programs are available free of charge to any organization wishing to show them.

Another service is the loan of hospital equipment and numerous comfort items to cancer patients, without charge, through the Society. A phone call or letter, with the physicians's approval, is all that is necessary to obtain any service offered by the Society.

Dodson Co-op Gin Begins Major Repair

General remodeling which will include considerable new equipment is under way at the Dodson Co-op Enterprises gin, Darrel Murphy, manager said late last week.

The entire operation when completed will involve between $125,000 and $145,000, he said.

Major new equipment includes a big 142 Murray stand, automatically operated, which will sit alone and has an 8-bale per hour capacity.

There is also a 96" Airline separator; a big 72-inch tower dryer; 96-inch stick machine plus an 18-foot combined bur and stick machine.

Plans also call for new electric motors, rewiring the gin, and installation of a new lighting system, Mr. Murphy said.

Three of the present stands and feeders will be retained, however individual drives will be added to all machinery.

Mr. Murphy pointed out that while the gin could probably have gone through another season without serious problems, he and the directors felt that the end of a good cotton year was the time to do the remodeling. A situation that would require the remodeling at the end of a short crop would be much harder to handle, it was pointed out.

Norwood Faculty Re-elected and Changes Noted

The re-election of Samnorwood School faculty members was announced late last week by Supt. Rex Peeples.

Two teachers resigned, effective at the end of the year, and one new teacher was elected. Mrs. Judy Oren, who taught on the third and fourth grade levels, does not plan to teach, and Zeldon Jenkins, high school science instructor, is going to a larger system.

Mrs. Leon Myers was elected to teach in the elementary grades, probably third and fourth, pending her graduation from West Texas State University this summer. She is presently doing her practice teaching in the Pampa Schools at the kindergarten level. She is an elementary education major, with a kindergarten endorsement.

A lifelong resident of the Abra area, she is the former Bonita Tate. She was graduated from Samnorwood High School in 1957. Her husband is foreman of the Hess Ranch. They have two sons, Bobby, a freshman at Samnorwood, and Dwayne, a fifth grader.

Teachers who were re-elected include Mrs. Charles Waugh, kindergarten, first and second; Mrs. Glenn Thomas, fifth and sixth grades; Paul Schaub, high school and junior high math; Mrs. Billie Shirley, Junior high and senior high English and librarian; Jimmy Brown, vocational agriculture, and Miss Judy Barber, home economics.

That Skyrocket Band Wins UIL Sweepstakes Honors

That Skyrocket Band, jubilant and victory-happy, brought home sweepstakes honors from their performance in the annual University League competition Thursday, March 21. It is the second year in a row, and the third time in recent years, the band has won Sweepstakes. Sharing the honor was their director, Keith Wood.

This portion of the contest, held in Panhandle, included concert playing and sight reading. In both, the band received Division One rating and praise from the judges.

The third portion, the marching contest, was held last fall, and That Skyrocket Band also had a Division One rating

Their buses painted with victory signs, band members reached home about 5:00 p.m.

Welcome cars were waiting at the Quail Y, but because the band reached home a little earlier, not everyone was there and had to join in later.

Their victory lane was the Court House Square, and then they went to the Band Hall for another welcome by a dele-

Work has started building the approaches to Salt Fork Bridge, one part of the widening of US 83 to a dual highway.

Work is also under way on concrete culverts and the grading operation has been started. O.V. Johnson, resident engineer for the Texas Highway Department, said the bridge construction has been sublet to Austin Bridge Co. of Dallas.

Ivan Dement, Inc. of Amarillo is the general contractor.

None of the bridge building equipment has been moved in, and Mr. Johnson said that since skilled construction workers are required for this, most of those on the Salt Fork job will come in with the contractor.

"Our latest information is that they will receive the bridge piling about May 1, and this phase of work should begin shortly afterward.

More earth moving equipment is expected and work is expected to progress in both directions from the bridge -- north toward

Home Gardeners Do Their Thing

"More and more home gardeners are 'doing their thing' out in their back yards or just wherever they can find space," says Sam Cotner, vegetable specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

The gardening boom is definitely on, as Cotner cites the latest Gallup Poll showing that three million more Americans took up gardening last year compared to 1972 figures. The poll also shows that four out of every ten families in the U.S., or about 27 million families, have a home vegetable garden.

Why the sudden spurt to return to Mother Nature, to till the soil, to live off the land?

"It's a matter of economics for most families," points out Cotner. "The increase in food prices during the past year has been a major factor in the mushrooming interest in gardening. Most gardeners should be able to save from $200 to $300 a year on their grocery bills.

"And no one can deny the improved flavor and freshness of home grown vegetables. Plus they're available when you want them," contends Cotner. "The current fertilizer shortage as well as a shortage of commercial seed may keep down commercial vegetable production in some areas this year."

Gardening can also play an important role in the current energy crisis, notes the Texas A&M University System specialist. With fresh produce in the back yard, trips to the supermarket can be reduced. Gardening also provides a form of recreation that brings about family togetherness. Again, this helps keep family members at home and out of those gas- consuming automobiles.

"And the health aspect can't be overlooked," argues Cotner. "Gardening provides good, wholesome exercise in the outdoors."

How do you get started in producing your favorite vegetable?

"Begin with a small plot," advises Cotner, "and if you and your family really have the desire, you can always expand. A plot 20 feet by 20 feet can produce plenty of vegetables for a family of four. Remember that time and work are involved, so don't go overboard. Also, grow only the things that you and your family enjoy most and those that cost the most at the supermarket."

Texans are blessed with a good climate and growing season that makes gardening even more profitable, adds the specialist. Spring and fall gardens can produce an abundance of fresh vegetables.

"So, join in the gardening craze," invites the specialist. "The rewards are many. And don't dally; the spring gardening season is just around the corner."

More Texans in Labor Force

More workers than ever before were in the Texas labor force in 1973, the Texas Employment Commission says in its annual report to Governor Dolph Briscoe.

The Texas Labor Force reached 5,139,000 last August. Total employment was up 162,000 for the fiscal year, and jobless workers represented only 3.4 per cent of the total work force.

Fewer jobless workers claimed unemployment benefits each month during 1973 than in the corresponding month of the previous year.

Samnorwood Schools Checked by Agency

The Samnorwood Schools were given an accreditation check by a team from the Texas Education Agency on Thursday, March 21, Supt. Rex Peeples reported.

"It will be 5 to 6 weeks before we get their report but early indications are they are very proud of what we have," he added.

Team members were Keith Harding, who is with the accreditation division of TEA, and Mrs. Imadora Hale, who is in charge of the vocational homemaking division.

This is the first accreditation check Samnorwood has had since 1960 -- 14 years.

Mr. Peeples said the team covered the entire school system thoroughly -- the school plant, curriculum, teachers and transportation. Some remodeling will be necessary in the grade school area, but plans were already being made for this.

Associations Honor Scholars

AUSTIN, (Spl.) -- Two national associations have bestowed recent honors on University of Texas scholars.

Dr. R.H. Bing won the Mathematical Association of America's Award for Distinguished Service to Mathematics for his "inspirational teaching, igenious research . . . and delightfully effective salesmanship for our subject."

The American Association of Physics Teachers gave its Distinguished Service Citation to Dr. R.N. Little, whose special physical science course has helped upgrade the training of prospective high school physics teachers in Texas.

"The money, $100 per meter, must be paid to be counted or to be marked on the master map," Mr. Lowrie reminded. Pat Bouchelle holds the map.

This project is being worked up with the co-operation of the Red River Authority of Texas, to whom application will be made. It in turn will seek funding through the Farmers Home Administration and possibly a federal grant.

Two meetings of the water board have been held. Mr. Lowrie was named chairman at the first of these, while Tom Lewis was named secretary and treasurer. Members are John Brim, Louis Patterson and Mr. Bouchelle. Others working with the project are Cliff Campbell, Mike Kirkland, and Mrs. Esta Glenn.

Mr. Lowrie reminded that those who wait until the line is laid will have to pay $250 per meter to receive water.

"If for any reason the water line cannot reach your property, your $100 meter money will be refunded," he continued. "Your $100 meter money and the monthly meter reading charge are all it will cost you to be on this rural water line."

It is planned that the master map will be turned over to engineers soon after April 1.

Ownership of Wild Game Is Explained

AUSTIN -- George Adams of the Texas Parks and Wildlife department's land acquisition staff explaines a ticklish subject in Texas -- ownership of wild game.

"According to the Texas Penal Code," said Adams, "all wild and indigenous game animals in Texas belong to the people of the state.

"This also includes all fur-bearing animals and wild-game birds."

Adams said that it was necessary to draw a legal distinction between wild and domestic animals.

"The same Penal Code defines 'game animals' as wild deer, elk, antelope, desert bighorn sheep, black bear, gray or cat squirrels, fox or red squirrels and collared peccary of javelina.

"In addition, aoudad or Barbary sheep are considered wild game animals in Armstrong, Briscoe, Donley, Floyd, Hall, Motley, Randall and Swisher Counties."

Adams pointed out that the public ownership of game species had its roots in the early common law of England and that laws after the Magna Carta recognized that wild game was individually owned only after it was reduced to possession by the hunter.

All of this, of course, is significant to Texas hunters since most hunting in the state is done on private land.

LAndowners do not "own" the game birds and animals on their land and must abide by game and fish statutes.

They do, however, control access to the animals.

"Wild game can legally be taken only upon two important conditions," said Adams.

"All game laws both state and federal must be observed and permission must be granted to the hunter when he is on the land of another."

Knowledge of Texas game laws is the responsibility of all hunters.

Use Manure Fertilizer During the Shortage

Commercial fertilizer may be in short supply in the coming months, but there's another source of fertilizer that could help relieve that shortage -- manure.

"Manure is more cumbersome to handle and its nutrient content varies, but it can get the job done if the situation warrants," believes Don Reeves, County Extension Agent.

Manure contains essential plant nutrients such as nitrogen, phosphorus, potassium, iron and zinc and is also valuable in improving the physical properties of some soils. Consequently, manure use is increasing in such areas as the High Plains where large feedlots have an abundance of the material.

"Most feedlots are now selling all the manure they have and are at least covering the cost of handling it," points out Reeves. "That's a switch from a few years ago when manure disposal was a real problem."

Reeves believes that attempts to place a dollar value upon manure based on its nutrient content are sometimes misleading. Rather, it is better to look at increases in crop or forage production that can be obtained.

Some county Extension agents are cooperating with farmers in conducting demonstrations to determine the true benefit of manure on various crops and soils.

The county agent cites three studies in the Panhandle where corn silage and grain sorghum yield increases from manure were practically nil to as high as 125 per cent compared to plots receiving no fertilizer.

"Physical properties of manure should receive as much attention as nutrient content," points out the county agent. "Manure that undergoes composting in piles may be more desirable than freshly-scraped manure because it spreads more evenly and contains fewer viable weed seeds."

The moisture content can also have a profound influence on the value of manure. For instance, feedlot manure can contain 20 times more nitrogen per pound of material than liquid dairy manure diluted with cleaning water.

What is a generally recommended application rate for most cropland?

Sweeten contends that about 10 tons of feedlot manure can be applied per acre for most cropping situations without problems of soil salinity, forage nitrate accumulations, or water pollution. However, since only about half of the nitrogen in manure will be available to plants the first year, applications can be cut to five tons per acre in succeeding years without decreasing the total available nutrients.

"The best guide to application rates is to match fertilizer requirements for the particular crop and soil with an analysis of the manure, taking into account the limited availability of nutrients the first year," advises Reeves, County Extension agents can assist with determining fertilizer requirements.

"Manure is a valuable commodity that has not been used efficiently in agricultural production in recent years. With the current energy crisis affecting commercial fertilizer production, manure use may come back into its own," believes the County Agent.

Clarendon College Concert March 28

The Music Department of Clarendon College will present its spring concert on Thursday, March 28, at 8:00 p.m. in the Harned Sisters Fine Arts Auditorium. The College Choir, "College Singers", and the Stage Band will each be featured, all directed by Kern Pigg.

The College Choir will perform a wide variety of choral music. Included will be selections from "Godspell" a folk musical based on the Gospel of Mark. Titles include "Prepare Ye The Way of the Lord" and "Day by Day". Other selections to be performed include: "Let There Be Peace on Earth," "Movin' On," featuring Mrs. Joburta Helms as soprano soloist, and "Why Me," featuring Miss Beth Rutledge and Mr. Charles Clinton as alto and baritone soloists.

The College Singers, a ten member select choral group, and the College Stage Band have recently presented school concerts at Valley High School, Silverton High School and McLean High School. Each organization will perform selections presented on these concert tours.

The "College Singers" program will include the popular ballad, "If I Were a Carpenter," "Delta Dawn" and the theme song from the Julie Andrews television program, "Time Is My Friend."

The Stage Band will perform music of a jazz and jazz-rock nature. Selections include: "I'm Pressin' On," arranged by Robert Lowden, "Gladstone", by William Svarda, and "No Way" by Marty Gold. The latter composition is unique in that it contains complete selections in the jazz as well as in the rock style, rather than combining the two.

Individual band members to be featured soloists include trumpeters Kent Heath of Clarendon, and Benny Stallings of Wellington, trombonist Mike Boothe of Clarendon, drummer Fred Lowder of McLean, and saxaphonists Wanda Trout and John Holland of Clarendon and Johnnie Sue Hancock of Memphis.

Proceeds from the concert benefit the college music scholarship fund.

Isbell Manages Plainview Store

Bill Isbell has been named manager of an Allsup's 7-11 grocery in Plainview, where he has been training for several weeks.

His wife, Terressa will work with him.

Both were employed by Furr Foods in Amarillo. Since their return to Wellington, he has been with Ralph Owens Farm Service. Mr. and Mrs. Isbell and their 5-year-old daughter, Melissa, were here Saturday to complete their move to Plainview.

Agricultural Credit Outlook Is Promising

Agricultural loans are likely to increase by 15 to 20 per cent again this year, but rural areas should have plenty of money to cover them, predicts Dr. Wayne Hayenga, economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

His prediction, based on what happened last year, also indicates that the price of loans will be about the same as last year.

"Nationally, the money supply increased about 7.3 per cent last year, a bit faster than increases for the previous several years," says Hayenga.

Interest rates for long-term securities from major money markets increased slightly last year from 7.1-7.2 per cent in January to 7.6-7.7 per cent in December, while short-term interest rates made steady increases throughout the year.

"The prime rate which big city banks charge their best customers was up to nearly 10 per cent from 5.75 per cent at the beginning of the year," says the Texas A&M University System specialist. "The other major short-term interest rate -- three-month treasury bills -- ended the year yielding 7.5 per cent, up from about 5 per cent.

In Texas, deposits in country banks are up substantially due to increased prices received on agricultural products. Estimates for year-end deposit increases range from 10 to more than 20 per cent for various areas over the state, notes Hayenga.

Loans from rural banks are up also. Loans outstanding from Texas banks at the end of 1973 were nearly $1.7 billion, over 20 per cent more than the 1972 year-end volume.

"All this means that the agricultural credit outlook for Texas farmers and ranchers is better than it has been in several years," explains Hyaenga. "There should be an adequate supply of money available in Texas to meet much of the expanding agricultural credit demand."

The economist also says that interest rates on outside funds may decline if the money supply keeps growing at its normal rate and the economy slows down as many economists think it will. So, chances are that agricultural interest rates will remain about steady or move downward slightly for both short-term operating loans and long-term mortgages.

This year, many lenders will look closer at records that farmers and ranchers have to back up their loan requests," adds Hayenga. "Because of government program changes, the secure feeling the banker had with the old government check is no longer a part of farmer-banker relationships.

"Many bankers are requesting net worth and income statements for at least three years and a projected cash flow for the next year. Having these records available when applying for a loan will aid both the borrower and lender," contends the economist.

Altom Attends Hospital Meet

Garner Altom, Administrator, Collingsworth General Hospital, attended a two day smaller hospital forum, March 21 and 22 at Texas Hospital Association Headquarters Building in Austin. This is an annual affair designed for Administrator's of Hospitals with less than 100 beds and was attended by over 125 registrants from throughout Texas.

Most interesting to Mr. Altom was the session on the status of Phase IV Regulations, by John D. Twiname, director of the office of Health, Cost of Living Council, Washington. He told the group that contrary to public opinion, inflationary conditions in hospitals were brought about by governmental regulations such as Wage and Hour Laws and Medicare, and not by the so-called normal process of increases as related to other industry, Mr. Altom said.

Other sessions covered electrical safety, fiscal information physician recruitment, practical utilization of consultants, certification and budgeting.

A Message to the High School and College Age Students of Wellington . . . (and those who love them) From the President of West Texas State University

You are standing on the threshold . . . perhaps the threshold of greatness, but at least on the threshold of what can be a rewarding career. West Texas State University is also on the threshold . . . we think it is the threshold of greatness.

There is a new excitement on our campus. Everyone associated with the University tells me they feel it, students, faculty, alumni and our many boosters throughout the Panhandle.

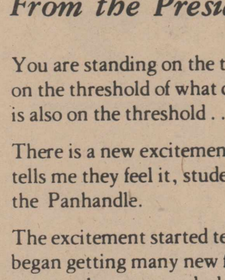

The excitement started ten years ago when we achieved University status. We began getting many new facilities including a new library, science building, research center, classroom and administration buildings and a new Student Activities Center which is second to none in the United States. We have new programs of a dozen different kinds . . . even one for horsemanship.

Much of the money for these programs and facilities has come from individual citizens, companies and foundations. These benefactors say, in effect, that our area should be the site of a significant university . . . a university with facilities and programs which attract outstanding faculty and students from all over the nation, even the world.

WTSU is growing but it is not so big but that our teachers can take a personal interest in each student and relate to him as the individual he is. Though we have a higher percentage of Ph.D.'s on our faculty than most universities, (over 50% ,) our classes average fewer students than most, (under 20).

Our students are very much a part of making things happen at WTSU. They are interested, involved and excited. Their learning experience is bigger than the classroom . . . it is as big as life itself.

Tell us which of these areas of study interests you and we will tell you more about that program at WTSU. Clip this coupon and mail it to me personally. I'll see that you get the whole exciting story without obligating you in any way.

A Texas Vacation Will Save Gas, Briscoe Says

Governor Dolph Briscoe announced today he is inaugurating a comprehensive plan to encourage Texans to take fuel-saving vacations within the State this year.

Vacationing in Texas will not only provide Texans with the opportunity to see some beautiful country while conserving fuel, but it will help to protect the jobs of the 600,000 Texans employed in this $2.2 billion industry," the Governor said.

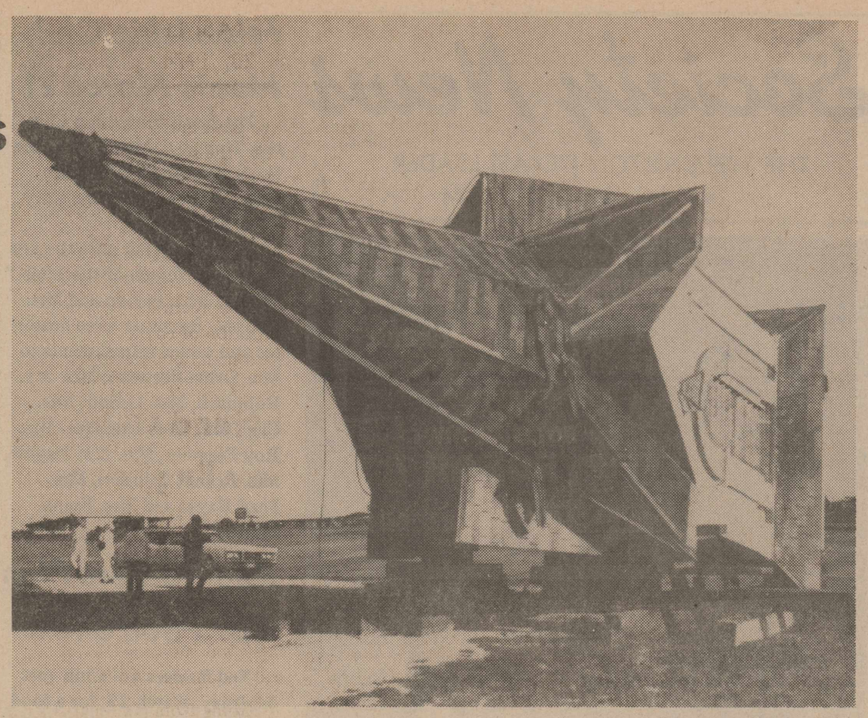

"In Texas we aim to save energy -- to save jobs. Tourism is one of the industries most sensitive to the gasoline shortage, and by encouraging fuel saving vacations within Texas we will help to preserve the livelihoods of those who serve the traveling public, and to protect the nearly $4 billion investment that the private sector has in tourist-serving facilities in Texas," Governor Briscoe added.

"At a time when conserving fuel is so important, I want to remind all Texans of the many fine vacation opportunities that abound throughout the State," The Governor pointed out "Texans can visit mountains, Gulf beaches, forests, lakes, deserts and a tropical valley without leaving the boundaries of our State."

The Governor said the plan to encourage Texans to discover Texas vacation spots will be a coordinated effort involving the Texas Tourist Development Agency, the Texas Highway Department, the State Historical Commission and other State agencies.

Travel folders have been prepared on 10 scenic Travel Trails through Texas. Each trail is designed to give travelers more vacation opportunities for the mileage. The trails, which encompass every region of Texas, vary from the historic Independence Trail to the Lakes Trail which features many recreational opportunities.

These Travel Trail folders are available from the Texas Highway Department, Austin, Texas 78763.

DID THE LEANING TOWER LEAN TOO FAR? Not really. It's an 111-year-old church steeple from Dodgeville, Wisc. that was recently transported by its new owner who plans to build a new foundation and set the steeple upright again.

Amelia Brown Promoted by Levis for Gals

Mrs. Amelia Brown, who moved to Harlingen in May as area quality assurance manager for the Levi's for Gals Division in the Rio Grande Valley, has been promoted to division quality assurance manager for Levi's for Gals nationally.

She will be responsible for the quality program in more than 20 facilities throughout the United States. Levi's for Gals is a division of Levi Strauss & Co.

In this new capacity, she will be returning to the Amarillo office. At the present time she is spending time in both the Harlingen and Amarillo offices, but will be completely moved into Amarillo by the end of May when her husband, Ken, graduates from the Texas State Technical Institute School of Drafting and Design Technology.

They have one son, Mitchell, who is 11.

Mrs. Brown is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Morgan. She is a graduate of Quail High School and West Texas State University.

Stock More Bass In Panhandle

AUSTIN -- Texas Parks and Wildlife Department inland fisheries biologists are ready for the second phase of a project which will tell them more about the optimum size of bass to be stocked in large impoundments.

The biologists plan to stock 20,000 bass averaging seven inches long in Lake Meredith in the Texas Panhandle. They will join 50,000 other largemouthes stocked in the lake in June when they were three inches long.

The smaller fish are marked with flourescent pigment, and the larger fish are to be marked with a cold brand.

By measuring returns from netting, electrofishing, creel census and any other method by which fish come to them, biologists hope to determine a ratio between the stocked fish and fish which are produced in Lake Meredith naturally.

In this way biologists will be able to determine if it is more economical to stock smaller or larger fish, or worthwhile to stock at all.

Bass for the project were provided by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service at the National Fish Hatchery at Inks Lake. The fish had to be trained to feed on commercial fish food so they would grow large enough for study.

Former Resident Dies Monday

The former Beatrice Walters, she was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Walters and grew up here.

She and Mr. Collins moved from Wellington about 25 years ago. She was employed in the office of a doctor at Lake Jackson.

Funeral services and burial were at Lake Jackson Wednesday.

Survivors are her husband; a daughter, Mrs. Gloria Gammon of Tom Ball; two sons, Chuck Collins of the U.S. Air Force and Ronnie Collins of Lake Jackson; two sisters, Mrs. Willie Mae Haskell of Denver, Colorado and Mrs. Fain (Dorothy Jean) Derryberry of Beaumont; and one brother, T.J. Walters of Amarillo.

Landscape for Value, Beauty

COLLEGE STATION -- A properly landscaped yard can increase the beauty and value of a home.

"Several concepts should be kept in mind when planning a yard,such as family desires, simplicity, unity, textural contrasts and ultimate plant size," points out Dr. William C. Welch, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

He suggests preparing a plan and drawing in the house, property lines and other permanent features. Then, consult each family member and list his needs. Thus areas for outdoor living, gardening and other interests can be assigned to meet the needs of the entire family.

"Simplicity is variety without confusion. Use trees, shrubs, bricks and fences for specific needs to imporve the over-all look and utility of the yard," advises the Texas A&M University System specialist.

Unity can be achieved with a proper balance of simplicity, contrast and scale. The temptation to add plants bought on sale or sent by friends is often less if the yard appears complete without them, believes Welch.

Contrasts with plants and structures can add interest. Try large-leafed plants like bananas or cannas to contrast with ferns, or use a fine-textured stucco wall around a yard with coarse-looking flagstone steps.

Mr. and Mrs. Velman Warrick were in Hereford last of the week visiting their sons, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Warrick and children and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Warrick.

The College Choir, "College Singers," and the Stage Band will be featured. These organizations are under the direction of Kern Pigg, Music Instructor at Clarendon College. Proceeds from the concert will benefit the college music scholarship fund.

Groups Study The Beatitudes

The last study of the text "God's Psychiatry" was presented to the Lydia and Esther Circles by Mrs. Cecil Masten on March 21 at the First Methodist Church Parlor.

Mrs. Masten opened the meeting with a recording of a scripture. Plastic bookmarkers bearing the scripture of the Beautitudes were given to each member.

Mrs. Masten quoted the author, Charles L. Allen, as stating that the Beautitudes are the Keys to the Kingdom. She carried out this theme by introducing each Beautitude with cutout keys of different colors. This set the mood for each of the eight Beautitudes in an effective manner. Recordings for the first beautitude were "Beneath The Cross; The second Beautitude was paraphrased by the Norman Tabernacle Choir's rendition of "Blessed Are They That Mourn; The seventh Beautitude was made more impressive by the recording of Peace, Wonderful Peace sung by Ernie Ford.

Poems and quotations were used to explain each Beautitude. The following points were emphasized: A person sees not only with his eyes and ears but with his mind and heart. To have peace in the world and our soul, we must root out hate, suspicion, and fear. To be poor in spirit means to give up our pride; to mourn means to be penitent for our sins; meekness means to surrender your all to God; hunger for God means turning away from worldly ambitions; to be merciful is to pay good for evil; for purity we must give up the impure; to make peace is to choose God wholly; these are the seven ingredients of righteousness by which we obtain the Keys to the Kingdom.

Mrs. J.B. King announced that on March 30 all U.M.W. will meet for the First Year Birthday Brunch at the Methodist Church at 9:30 a.m. Mrs. John Holton gave the closing prayer.

La Paisana Chapter Receives Two Awards at Texas DAR Conference

The La Paisana Chapter, DAR, of Wellington, was represented at the Diamond Anniversary Conference of Texas Society Daughters of the American Revolution held in Austin, March 20-22 at the Driskill Hotel. Included in the over seven hundred members in attendance were two officers of La Paisana Chapter, Mrs. Hubert Bowen, Regent and Mrs. Jack Davis, Librarian.

Mrs. Bowen accepted, for the local chapter, two awards; A certificate of Merit for outstanding work in American Heritage, and the State First Place Certificate in membership for their 60% increase. This Chapter also had two full pages of press releases, attractively mounted in the large State DAR Press Book which goes to Washington in April.

The musical numbers were outstanding, she said. "The Twenty-Third Psalm," arranged by Randal Alan Bass, was sung at the Memorial Service by Kerri Dameron Aiken and Mr. Bass. Concerts by exceptional artists preceded Convenement. Harpist, Mrs. Kim McCall and two pianists, Mrs. Glen Lewis and Mrs. Fred Clark entertained, Mrs. Bowen's report continues.

"Each general session was opened dramatically and patriotically in this manner: the assembly call by a bugler; the presentation of Colors; a processional of state and national officers; honored guests and pages; a prayer; the Pledge to the Flag of the United States; the salute to the Texas Flag; the Americans Creed; the National Anthem, with emphasis on the oft-forgotten fourth stanza.

"Special numbers enjoyed during the events were presented by the Southwest Texas State University Madrigal Singers; the Heritage Dancers; and a remarkable, beautiful young vocalist, Mrs. Thelbert Childers, who has returned to teach voice in a Dallas School after three years on the New York Stage.

"The Conference speakers were challenging and able speakers: Mrs. Donald Spicer, President General of the National Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution; Mrs. Ray Erb, Former National Chairman of National Defense; Mrs. Clarence Whitfield Kemper, Chaplain General National Society DAR; Dr. William Seale, Smithsonian Institute and Mr. Karl Wallace, President of the Texas Sons of the American Revolution.

"In many ways these speakers alerted those in attendance of the gravity of our national and world situation, and our responsibility. DAR is not a political organization but it is the only woman's patriotic organization. It contributes no legislation, but 195,000 patriotic women can do a tremendous service in our country's hour of trial. All citizen's owe it to our ancestors, and to the present and the future generations to be aware of and act against the dangers at home and abroad," Mrs. Bowen concluded.

Watering Critical Says Expert

"Improper watering techniques probably cause the highest per cent of home plant failures," says Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

This is especially true during the winter months when plant growth is slow because of low light intensities. Frequently additional water and fertilizer are applied to try to make the plant grow large and healthy. Actually, plant leaves produce very little food at this time and thus the plant cannot grow rapidly.

"If the soil is kept saturated with water, little or no oxygen can reach the roots," explains the Texas A&M University System specialist. "Roots need air as well as water. Lack of oxygen causes the plant's small feeder roots to die and eventually the plant succumbs.

"Never water plants by rule of thumb, such as every other day or twice a week," cautions Janne. "Once the soil is thoroughly moistened, water plants only when they need it."

Supply sufficient water so it runs through the potting soil in the saucer below. This helps prevent the accumulation of soluble salts in the potting soil.

Vonda Van Dyke, former Miss America, will be speaking to Texas Future Homemakers of America at their annual state meeting, April 26, at the Convention Center, Dallas. Since winning the Miss America title, Miss Van Dyke has written and published three books, been on television both in commercials and as a performer, written two regular magazine columns aimed at youth, cut three record albums, and has traveled over a quarter of a million miles as an entertainer. Her message to Future Homemakers will be one of the highlights at their meeting.

National FHA - HERO Week Slated March 31 - April 6

The Texas Association of Future Homemakers of America will observe National FHA-HERO FHA Week, March 31 through April 6. Using the theme, "Impact" '74 the 68,000 Texas members will join some half-a-million young women and men across the country in demonstrating projects that are challenging, stimulating, and of real value to youth in preparation for future responsibilities.

"We have a new approach to program planning," Annette Re Reznik, state president, of Friona, pointed out. Working with our Program Action Impact Kit is exciting. IMPACT was developed by youth and introduced to chapters this year by state and area officers. We analyze member concerns and then develop what we call "indepth" projects that are related to our home economics classroom study. Most people have no idea of what is taught in home economics classes today. They think of home economics as cooking and sewing and of Future Homemakers of America as just another 'fun and games club.

"During National FHA-HERO Week we want to impress on people that Future Homemakers of America, as a part of home economics education, provides opportunities for us to learn, to know, to care and to do the things that help prepare us for future living."

Future Homemakers of America was founded June 11, 1945 as an incorporated nonprofit orgn organization supported by membership dues. There are two types of hcapters. FHA chapters place major emphasis on consumer education, homemaking and family life education combined with exploration of jobs and careers. HERO chapters, taking the name from home economics related occupations, place major emphasis on preparation for jobs and careers with recognition that workers also fill multiple roles as homemakers and communitie leaders

Nationwide in membership and effort, Future Homemakers of America is sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education through the Division of Vocational and Technical Education and the American Home Economics Association. National Headquarters are located in Washington, D.C.

High school home economics teachers, members of the state home economics education staff and leading home economists serve as advisors to chapter, state and national youth officers, giving guidance and counseling to the program.

The annual state meeting of the Texas Association will be April 25 and 26 in the Convention Center, Dallas. More than 5,000 members and advisors are expected to attend.

The theme of the meeting is "Today's Concern--Tomorrow's IMPACT." Programs are planned to provide delegates further information and ideas about implementation of the new IMPACT program of work, which was first introduced last July at the National Meeting of Future Homemakers of America in Dallas.

Keynote speaker at the April meeting will be Roger Staubach, Dallas Cowboy quarterback and popular youth speaker. Other ighlights include an address by Vonda Van Dyke, former Miss America and popular entertainer, presentation of Honorary Memberships to non-members who have contributed their time and effort to the organization, and a breakfast honoring members who are to be recognized at the meeting for their outstanding achievements in FHA.

Fix-It Tip

Once a fancy picture frame has been cleaned, you can properly determine if any refinishing is needed. Generally, a touching-up will take care of blemishes and scratches. Use a color stain in a matching color for any wood frame. Use a fine brush or cotton swab and put on only as much as needed.

Painted frames can be touched up in the same way, using the proper color of paint. A fine brush dipped in gold paint will take care of scratches on a frame finished in gold leaf.

Texas Composers on the Pops Scene Studied by Wellington Music Club

With Mrs. L.W. Wells as hostess, members of Wellington Music Club met March 19 for their Texas Day Program.

Mrs. Charles Floyd, presided. The business discussion covered The Bank Notes fund-raiser, the senior musician medals, state convention on April 17-20 in Tyler, and National Music Week events. The club's next meeting will be attendance on April 16 of the Skyrockets Band Pops Concert.

Mrs. Wells was also the program leader for "Top of Texas Salutes Contemporary Texas Musicians." Guest artist was junior musician Debbie Stallings whose flute solo was entitled "Orientale." Miss Stallings is one of the all-region members from That Skyrocket Band. At the piano was her accompanist, Miss Juliana Baumgardner.

The rest of the program dealt with composers from Texas who have had pops recording hits nationally. Scott Joplin of Corsicana, a black composer at the turn of the century, was the first to put ragtime in seriously composed numbers.

Terry Shand of Kerrville is the holder of the Lucky Strike Hit Parade record with three compositions in the top ten at the same time.

A little nearer Collingsworth County is Mac Davis, songpainter-performer, with several current hits. A former neighbor, Bob Wills of Turkey, is still a country music legend. Mrs. Wells played from a Wills album which she plans to place in the Bob Wills living museum at Turkey soon.

Still closer to home would be a former local citizen, Jimmy Webb who lived here as a child. His "Up, Up and Away" might have been brewing in his mind as he remembered our spacious Panhandle skies.

During refreshments, musical examples from EXPO '72 were heard as recorded in the Dallas Crusade for Christ.

An elaborate dessert buffet was served. Book markers were presented to Miss Stallings, Miss Baumgardner, Mrs. Jack Campbell, Mrs. Floyd, Mrs. Bura Handley, Mrs. Dan Henard, Jr., Mrs. Truett Holland, Mrs. A.J. Peters, and Mrs. B.M. Sims.

Dripping faucets can be expensive as well as annoying – wasting up to 90 gallons of water in a single day, according to Lynn Bourland, home management specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas A&M University.

Questions People Ask About the Catholic Church

Q. How are Catholic Priests faring in Communist Cuba these days?
A. Their number has declined to about 193; they must work very carefully, so as not to upset Fidel, and there were only 15 priests ordained in two years. Castro has also forbidden Spanish priests to enter his country, so your Catholic brothers and sisters need your prayers.

Q. I see you never condemn alcohol in your column. Why is that?
A. That would be like condemning gas or electricity or water. They are all indifferent substances; neither good nor bad in themselves. How they are used by people makes all the difference. Water is good when you wash in it, but bad when you drown in it. Electricity is good in your electric blanket, but bad in the electric chair. I have nothing against alcohol; only against its abuse.

Collingsworth Teens Star in Blood Donor Recruitment

Collingsworth teen agers have been achievers in many ways for many years, but everyone who has reached adult status should be proud indeed of their performance Tuesday, March 19.

Groups from the three high schools accounted for almost one-third of the blood given during the visit of the Red Cross Bloodmobile.

There have been teen-age blood donors before, but for the first time, 17-year-old donors were included. Without them and their 18-year-old friends still in high school this county would not have met its quota of 110 units. The prevalence of flu and other illnesses in recent weeks excluded many potential donors.

In a briefing luncheon of school leaders as the blood drive began, Sherry Walker, representative from the Red River Regional Blood Program, told them every unit of blood they give can be divided into four components and every one of these four can save a life.

Collingsworth teen donors can take pride that more than 150 people in the Red River Regional Blood Program area will benefit from this fine thing they did Tuesday afternoon.

And adults should remember this and speak out the next time anyone puts down a teen ager.

Blow, Wind

The frontier rancher would have been able to bring light and power, as well as water, to the wide open spaces somewhat earlier if he had owned a windmill like the 100-kilowatt job NASA is building.

Working with the National Science Foundation, NASA is creating a "mill" with a 125-foot rotor blade mounted on top of a 125-foot tower.

With an 18-mile-an-hour wind the rotor will turn at 40 revolutions a minute to produce 100 kilowatts of electricity.

The pitch of the rotor blade is controlled automatically.

Such wind generators have been used off and on in Europe over the last 40 years, and America had its Wincharger for a brief spell.

But this is a big one, destined to be the first step the development of systems capable of generating millions of watts of electricity.

But it strikes us NASA is making a mistake.

The system is being built at NASA's test grounds near Sandusky, Ohio, where the average wind velocity is only 10 miles an hour.

Why not bring it here to the High Plains where a man can depend on something more respectable than a measly 10-miles-an-hour breeze?

AUSTIN, Tex. — An extensive property tax study is beginning in 35 of 1,113 Texas school districts as a guide to overhauling the public education finance formulas.

The Legislative Property Tax Committee approved the survey by C.B.M. Inc. of Cleveland, Ohio, and Marshall and Stevens, a worldwide tax appraisal service.

About $382,900 is available for the work, although apparently not all of the money will be spent.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe had requested a top-to-bottom study of tax values in all districts in preparation for his recommendations to the 1975 Legislature on school finance reform.

However, the property tax committee said such a study would cost $8 million, and a 325-district spot-check proposed by Texas Research League $2 million.

Committee Chairman Sen. H. J. (Doc) Blanchard of Lubbock said he is hopeful the 35-district survey "can be used as a model by which we can set a formula for allocating state school aid that provides equitable support and maintenance."

Consultants have a November deadline for compleing their work, and a first phase report is anticipated April 18.

Districts to be covered ranged in student population from 18 in Terlingua to 26,884 at Northeast of Bexar County. They include:

Friendswood; Little Cypress-Mauriceville; Overton; Hitchcock; Blue Ridge; Darrouzett; Cross Plains; Presidio; Celeste; Sonora; Glen Rose; Rusk; Joshua; Mumford; Carthage; Arlington; Clarksville; Midlothian; Buffalo; Atlanta; Northside of Wilbarger; Alvin; Elysian Fields; Central Heights of Nacogdoches; Somerville; Slidell; Bruni No. 22; Bowie County CSD No. 42; Lindale; Alvord; Devers; Strong and Leakey.

A "SAD" TAIL — Texas printers are having problems with the new campaign reporting law, because the name and address of the printer — name and address of the candidate have to appear on each printed item.

Latest problem comes from candidates who are having "t-shirts" printed for campaign workers.

It seems the name and address of the candidate and name and address of the "t-shirt" printer must be printed on the tail of the shirt.

If you see someone pulling off a "t-shirt" at a political rally, don't worry about a streaker, it's just someone fullfilling the request of the Secretary of State's inspector.

STATE OILSHARE BIGGER — The State School Land Board revised oil and gas lease terms for public lands in an effort to increase the state's income and encourage more drilling.

The Board, by a two-to-one vote, raised minimum royalty interest on state leases from one-sixth to one-fifth royalty and reduced the leasing term from five to three years.

Quarterly lease sales will be held, and minimum bonus bid payment will be reduced to $10 an acre in all areas for the right to hold a state lease.

Terms adopted by the board will go into effect with leases awarded at the next oil and gas lease sale July 2. Nominations of state tracts for that sale will be open until April 19, and the School Land Board will determine terms and conditions of leases to be awarded on nominated tracts at its meeting May 7.

"With oil prices doubling and gas prices tripling, I think it is an appropriate time for the state to realize higher royalty for production of its mineral resources," said Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong.

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

A lot of allegedly high-powered cerebrators have been busy here lately, studying the science of exorcism of the Devil, who is said to possess some people.

It is even claimed by some that he has taken over the government, and an eerie incantation called "impeachment" is being chanted by numerous wheels in the communications and politics field to get him out of the White House.

My realist neighbor says as a youth he often tried to beat the Devil out of other kids, but this method of de-diabolizement often backfired on him.

New Look and New Spirit at WTSU

For an institution approaching its 75th anniversary, West Texas State University looks mighty new these days.

The new masonry and spirit invigorating the campus at Canyon belie the age of the oldest state-assisted institution of higher learning in the West Texas Region.

Just this spring, WTSU opened a $3 million library, capable of housing a million volumes, and a three-story University Science Center, constructed at the same cost.

The buildings, which provide much needed enlargements of the university's science and library facilities, also symbolize the progressive attitude that WTSU supporters feel has emerged more strongly than ever in the past year.

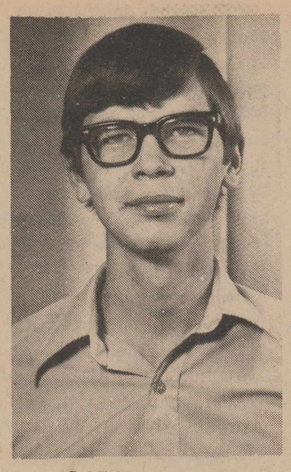

Two important events in 1973 ushered in the new spirit at WTSU. The school marked its 10th year with university status, and Dr. Lloyd Watkins arrived to take over the reins as university president.

Almost as soon as he arrived on campus, the new president began stirring up a new excitement among all segments of the university and its supporters.

Watkins has been associated with a number of fine Universities in the Midwest, so everyone respected him as something of an authority in such matters. His enthusiasm for this part of the country, its people and especially WTSU was contagious. Soon everybody concerned began thinking about the future and seeing WTSU, not as a good University for this area as it has been for many years, but as a significant university . . . significant beyond this part of Texas or even beyond the Southwest . . . a significant University . . . one that will attract outstanding faculty and students from all over the country, even the world.

The new enthusiasm has already begun to show itself in a number of areas such as the concept that the University is operating to serve students. That concept is manifested in a broad range of practical applications, from simplified registration procedures that have shortened those tradiditonal lines at the start of each semester to a faculty-student ratio of 1-20, which means that no WTSU student ever becomes just a numbered seat in an auditorium.

West Texas State's six schools -- the School of Agriculture, the College of Arts and Sciences, the School of Business, The College of Education, the School of Fine Arts and the Graduate School -- offer a total of 16 different bachelor's and master's degrees with over a hundred majors and areas of emphasis. Expansions of the curriculum in recent years have taken diverse forms. Five new degree programs and courses in social work and criminal justice administration have appeared, Latin has reappeared, and horsemanship is now offered for either physical education or agriculture credit. WTSU students, within the past year, have found themselves engaged in projects ranging from digging for archeological material threatened by a new dam to mapping Mars from photos gathered by the Mariner spacecraft.

Sugar Beets Only Part of Huge Fuson Farm Operation

The Spin Crash and Burn Column in a California newspaper tells the following story of huge sugar beet and other farming operations carried on by a man who grew up in Wellington, John Fuson of Bakersfield.

Mr. Fuson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F.C. Fuson and is a graduate of Wellington High School. His wife is the former Ruby Fisher, who lived near Wellington. They have two children, Barry and Barbara, who is married.

The family has lived away from here since 1938. The article follows.

SPIN CRASH & BURN WITH LEN MURNANE

Forty miles west of Lancaster, in the distance north of Highway 138, strange creatures inched across the Valley floor, stirring dust devils that danced in the thrust of a brisk morning easterner.

As I watched, a half-hearted storm cloud parted overhead and the winter sun slanted in to pursue one of the objects that had detached itself from the others and was heading in my direction.

Soon a truck and trailer materialized, loaded with a cargo of sugar beets. Backtracking the load led to a pair of wildly thrashing, banging, beet-harvesting machines that chewed up 8,000-foot rows of buried beets, topping, digging and loading the crop in a single operation.

Accompanying each harvester was a truck-trailer rig which caught the beets that spewed from the harvesters' conveyor belts. As one truck filled and departed another slid into place. So that there need be no interruption, each harvester is equipped with its own three-ton hopper which contains newly-dug beets while trucks are changing places.

From a high-powered sports car that thumped and bumped its way carefully over the windrows as he checked points of activity, handsome, debonair, soft-spoken John Fuson kept a careful eye on the beet operation.

John and his son, Barry, are owner-operators of a vast 7,000-acre ranch, including the 1,000 acres of sugar beets presently being harvested.

A friendly man whose very demeanor commands and gets respect, the elder Fuson invited me to join him for a tour of the far-flung enterprise, and gave me a fill-in during the ride.

The beet crop, valued at $700,000, will be succeeded immediately by a planting of spring wheat. As we talked we passed a discing machine preparing the soil for seed.

Another 100 acres had recently yielded a crop of very special onions, grown expressly for a dehydrating firm which produces onion powder and flakes.

The remainder of the 7,000 acres produce wheat and barley, some as "dry farm" subject to the whims of the weather, some as carefully controlled irrigated crops.

Five giant combines, owned by the Fusons, will move in to reap ripened grain corps. The beet harvest is being handled by a Bakersfield firm on contract that calls for delivering the beets to the scales and loading facilities of Union Sugar Division of Consolidated Foods Corp. at Rosamond.

Water — enough to supply a fair-sized town — contributes to the staggering production total. The 22 wells that water the Fuson acreage ran up an Edison Company electric bill this year of $171,000.

At the peak of the growing season the complex water network — equivalent to 90 miles of irrigation pipe that is picked up and moved 45 feet daily, then hooked up again — turns out a torrent of 20,000 gallons per minute.

Thinning young beet plants — once a job demanding thousands of man-hours of manual labor — is achieved today by an electronic device that uses sensors to "feel" the plant rows, triggering blades to eliminate excessive growth where indicated.

Only weeding is done by hand. The sensors still cannot distinguish beets from weeds.

Scientific control of beet production extends to fertilizing the growing crop. At frequent intervals during the growing season beet leaves are examined by chemists who determine what plant foods are needed. Then nutrients are added to irrigation water.

So efficient is this system, according to the Fusons, that their harvested beets will contain less than one per cent of unused nitrogen that has not been turned into sugar.

Their concern with the beet crop ends at Rosamond where Bob McDonald of Lancaster, field representative for Union Sugar, takes over.

This year McDonald expects to rail-ship more than 45,000 tons of beets from Rosamond. The trains of gondola cars will be routed through Lancaster and Palmdale, thence by a circuitous route to Betteravia, Calif., where Union operates a sugar factory.

At their final destination the beets will be washed and put through a machine that will leave them looking like french-fried potatoes. Giant presses will squeeze juice from the pulp, and high-speed centrifuges will spin off sugar for storage in silos to await shipment.

What is the difference between beet and cane sugar? "There is a tiny difference," Bob noted, "so small that a chemist would spend all day trying to find it."

And a final question: "Why can't we buy beet sugar on our local store shelves?"

We can, according to Bob who pointed out that Union Sugar is sold at Safeway Markets under the trade name of Empress Brand.

Somehow I thought he was going to say "You can't beet it!" But he didn't.

Rev. Collins in Wichita Revival

The Rev. Roy Collins, pastor of First Baptist Church, preached in a revival at Shasta Baptist Church, Wichita Falls, from Sunday, March 17 through Saturday, March 23.

Pastor of the church is Rev. D. Taylor, a retired Air Force Chaplain.

Miss Merle Hays, formerly of Wellington, is a member of the church and several other members have relatives here, Rev. Collins said.

Weatherstrip to Reduce Winter Utility Bills

Even a well-insulated house can lose heat, one authority warns.

"From 15-30 per cent of a home's heating (or cooling) bills are due to air leaking in or out," Patricia A. Bradshaw, housing and home furnishings specialist, Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, noted.

Weatherstripping and caulking in problem areas can reduce this waste, the specialist said.

"By applying these products himself, a homeowner also cuts expenses.

"Weatherstripping goes on doors and windows. It's sold by the foot or in kits with enough weatherstripping and fasteners for one door or window.

"Caulking compound, on the other hand, is applied at joints where different materials meet -- such as brick and siding. Also, around doors and window frames."

Miss Bradshaw advised consumers to carefully compare caulking compounds in order to select the right one for the job.

"Many different caulks are available; however, all types come in handy tubes for application with caulk guns.

"For more information or help in selecting products, consult a reputable dealer.

"For best results, caulk and weatherstrip until a light mist forms on windows during cold weather. This creates the most comfortable living conditions, cuts heating costs and helps conserve national fuel resources," she added.

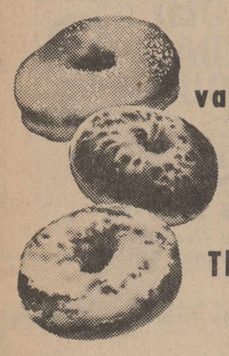

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Bill Harbin over the week end was their daughter, Mrs. Jack Mearles of Rosco and her daughter Jan, a Junior student at Hardin Simmons University, also Mr. Harbin's sister, Mrs. Olean Bearden of Carey and his nephew, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Whitten and Scott of Amarillo. Rev. and Mrs. Roy Collins and children were dinner guests on Sunday.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Pat Bouchelle over the weekend were their daughters, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Roades, Amanda and Collin of Brownwood and Mrs. Alan Havens of Booker, Oklahoma. She also visited Mr. and Mrs. Roy Jeffrey, Sr.

Guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Henry over the week end was her mother, Mrs. Jess Sherbet and sister Mrs. W.L. Brick Uses and Costs Vary

A brick may be a brick, but how it's used -- and what it costs -- varies from one section of the country to another.

"The National Association of Home Builders conducted a study in more than 175 cities, and the findings may be helpful to consumers and builders alike," according to Mrs. Jane Berry, housing and home furnishings specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System.

"Findings include cost and amount of brick used in single family homes in 40 cities.

"According to the study, each home contained an average of 7,328 bricks -- although amounts varied widely with the different styles.

"For example, in Sacramento only 490 bricks were used in a typical house, because most of the outside was covered with stucco.

"In contrast, homes in southern cities -- where brick finishes are most popular -- contained from 11,000 to 13, 650 bricks."

Turning to costs, Mrs. Berry noted the average in-place cost of brick veneer in the 40 cities was $1,231 -

New Policy on Fish Adopted

AUSTIN -- Stocking in private waters by the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department will be guided by a policy which should help landowners better manage their farm ponds.

Under the new policy, adopted by the Parks and Wildlife Commission at a recent meeting, the department will:

-- Stock private waters with such native fish as largemouth bass, channel catfish, blue catfish and sunfish. Stocking rates, sizes, distribution pattern, previous stocking history and hatchery production capabilities will determine the availability of fish for private waters.

-- Require that other private water introductions involving non-native or exotic fish be part of an approved research objective under a contractural agreement with the landowner

-- Require that all other fish stockings into private waters have prior written approval of the executive director.

N'wood Student Trip Approved

The Samnorwood School Board, in its meeting recently, approved a trip to Wonderland Park, Amarillo for grade school students and teachers.

62 Aoudad Sheep Taken in '73

LUBBOCK -- A brief seven-day aoudad season in the Texas Panhandle yielded a record of 62 of the big animals.

Hunting aoudad in the Palo Duro Canyon region is by permit only. The Parks and Wildlife Department issued area landowners 195 permits prior to the Nov. 10-16 season.

Most of the permits were passed on to hunters and some 32 percent bagged a sheep.

From the 154 permits issued last year, 46 aoudad were harvested.

The North African sheep were first released in the Palo Duro Canyon in 1957 and first hunted in 1963.

Only nine aoudad were killed during that initial season.

Scout Member Enrollment to Begin April 11

The Scout Membership Enrollment campaign will begin in Wellington Thursday, April 11, according to Ken Burquist, District Scout Executive, who was here Tuesday, March 26, to confer with leaders.

Annual Flowers Accent Lawns

COLLEGE STATION -- Flowering annuals can serve as accents and color coordinators in home landscapes.

"Careful planning will help you achieve success with these plants," reminds Everett Janne, landscape horticulturist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

"Use annual beds as borders along fences, sides of the house or around the patio where they will not detract during the off-season. These beds should be well-drained. Use an edging to raise the bed level if necessary," suggests the specialist.

Improve tight clay soils by adding two to three inches of sharp builders sand and the same amount of organic matter, such as peat moss. Then work this material into the soil to a depth of 8 to 10 inches.

Be sure the soil is fertile in the beds. Apply two to three pounds of a complete fertilizer such as 12-12-12 or its equivalent per 100 square feet and work it into the top six inches of soil.

"Once you've prepared the beds properly, design a planting pattern," advises Janne. " "Place taller plants in the back if the bed is viewed from only one side. If the bed is viewed from many areas plant the taller flowers in the center.

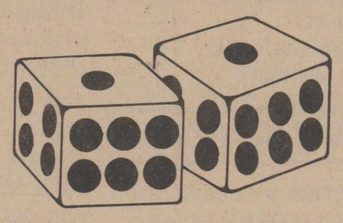

Midge Costs Texas $10 Million

A team of researchers at the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station at Lubbock found certain tropical sorghum varieties to have high resistance to sorghum midge. The midge is a serious insect pest of sorghum that annually costs Texas producers as much as $10 million. To transfer the midge-resistant characteristic of the tropical varieties to elite U.S. varieties may take as long as 10 to 15 years since both male and female breeding lines must have the resistant characteristic to produce resistant hybrids. Such hybrids will give farmers much more flexibility in planting date and will enable them to select hybrids that are later maturing and higher yielding.

Don't gamble with your crop

There are areas within states and within counties that are hit by hail almost every year but there is no area in which anyone can guarantee that hail will not fall.

You probably carry fire insurance on your home year after year — you should carry hail insurance on your crops year after year. Your chances of having a hail storm are much greater than those of having a fire.
