

LAMESA SCHOOLS OPEN MONDAY MORNING

Regulations Are Explained

The Lamesa Public Schools will open next Monday morning at 8:45 A. M. High School pupils are to assemble in the high school auditorium and all other pupils will assemble in the class rooms listed below.

The regulations concerning vaccination, book cards and former school records apply to all pupils.

Announcement has heretofore been made as to the application of the Compulsory Attendance Law from the first day of school.

The following announcements are made for the benefit of those desiring to enroll in the Elementary school, Monday, September 10:

All children enrolling in the school for the first time and who are not immune from smallpox will be required to be vaccinated against smallpox and to present a certificate of such vaccination. Children who attended this school last year and who have never had a successful vaccination will be required to have another vaccination this year before enrolling.

All children must present book card from previous school. Persons interested in this matter may save a long period of waiting by writing to the school last attended for such record immediately.

School will open at nine o'clock Monday morning and will be in session practically all day and children should come prepared to spend the day.

It is not necessary for parents to purchase a large amount of school supplies until children have had instructions from teachers as to what will be needed. Some materials will be needed but teachers will be very conservative in their demands as to the amount, and particular brands of materials will be requested in very rare instances. Teachers will be glad to confer with parents at any time relative to the supplies needed.

It is hoped that every child in the school district of scholastic age will become enrolled within the first few days of school. Any parent who finds it impossible to enroll a child at the beginning of school because of any handicap should confer with the principal and explain cause of delay. The school will cooperate in any way possible to bring about an early enrollment. There seems to be little employment for children at this particular time and every effort should be made to have all children enrolled in school.

Parents are reminded also of the importance of regular and punctual attendance for successful school work. Habitual tardiness and irregular attendances develop in the child sloven habits of work and will soon show up in his general progress. Every child is urged to be in school every day on time.

This does not mean that sick children should be sent to school. Any child who has a severe cold, fever, sore throat, sore eyes or any other physical ailment should be kept at home under curative treatment until such illness has disappeared. The disadvantages of sending sick children to school are too numerous to mention.

Each member of the faculty desires to cooperate fully with parents concerning any problems of the child. Mutual understanding will solve many a problem and parents are invited to hold conferences with teachers at any time they find it advantageous.

For the purpose of enrolling, children should report to rooms as indicated below. This schedule is for the purpose of enrolling only and many changes may have to be made at any time after enrollment is completed. Parents will show a splendid attitude of cooperation by refraining from asking for changes before enrollment is completed and only then when it can be shown to be to the best advantage of the child. Every effort will be made to give each child individual attention at the best adjustment possible. Because of lack of room it will be impossible to place all children in the elementary school building but no child should suffer any handicap on this account.

All children five years of age and under six on September 1, 1934 who wish to enroll in the kindergarten will report to room 108, High school building. A tuition charge of three dollars per month, payable in advance, will be made on such children. No pupil under six years of age can be admitted to the first grade in an affiliated school by state regulations.

Children who are six years of age and who have completed the work of the kindergarten will report to room 11, elementary school.

All beginners six years of age between March 1 and September 1,

Trades Day Big Success

A nice business was reported Monday by Lamesa merchants as a result of trading First Monday. The crowd was not as large as the ones that came during the election days, but those who came here to trade and took advantage of the special priced merchandise offered by Lamesa merchants.

Ask any of these what they think of Trades Day: Andy Long of the Woody community; Edith Harris, Lamesa; Aubrey Burdine, Lamesa; Marie Billingsley, Lamesa; Mrs. W. E. Stanley, one mile north of Lamesa; L. M. Baxter of the Higginbotham community; Mrs. H. A. Graves, of the Five-Mile community; Miss Vione Randle, Lamesa; R. A. Vaughn Lamesa; Mrs. C. R. Stanley, one mile north of Lamesa; Mrs. J. G. Patterson of the Hancock community; Mrs. W. F. Veazey, 3 miles north of Lamesa; Harold Williams, Lamesa; and Mrs. L. R. Bagwell of the Liberty community. All these people were interviewed regarding what they had to think of the Trades Day and all gave a very favorable report. They will tell you, too, if you ask them.

These are the merchants that made last Trades Day possible: City Market and Grocery; Allen Hardware; Arnett Motor Company; Bryant-Link Company; Baldwin's Store; Bryant Pharmacy; Clark-McDonald Drug; Collins Dry Goods Corner Drug; Dal-Paso Drug; Davis Food Store; Hatch Grocery; Hulls Cash Grocery; Self Serving Grocery; Spruill's Grocery; Milk Plant, Pierce's Toggery, Pratts Kash and Karry, Taylor-McCall Drug Store, Wilkes Grocery, Yates Hardware, J. C. Penney, A. G. Waugh, Farmers Co-op Gin, Dawson County Courier, Lamesa Reporter, B. F. Morris.

Trade with these merchants and help make the next Trades Day possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Oquin Meyers left this week for Pampa where Mr. Meyers will be employed with the Phillips Petroleum Company.

Pat Ridgeway returned this week from a visit in Granberry.

1934, report to room 108, high school building.

All other beginners six years of age and over, report to room 11, elementary school.

All pupils for the high first grade report to room 105, high school building.

All pupils assigned to the low second grade by Mrs. McCall and Miss Key, report to room 15.

All other pupils for the low second grade report to room 14.

All high second grade pupils will report to room 13.

Pupils assigned to the low third grade by Miss Massengale, report to room 12.

All other low third grade pupils report to room 25.

All pupils for the high third grade will report to room 13.

Pupils assigned to the low fourth grade by Miss Nix, report to room 26.

All other low fourth grade pupils report to room 31.

All high fourth grade pupils report to room 22.

Pupils assigned to the low fifth grade by Miss Hamilton report to room 23.

All other pupils for the low fifth grade report to room 24.

All pupils for the high fifth grade report to room 28.

All low sixth grade pupils report to room 32.

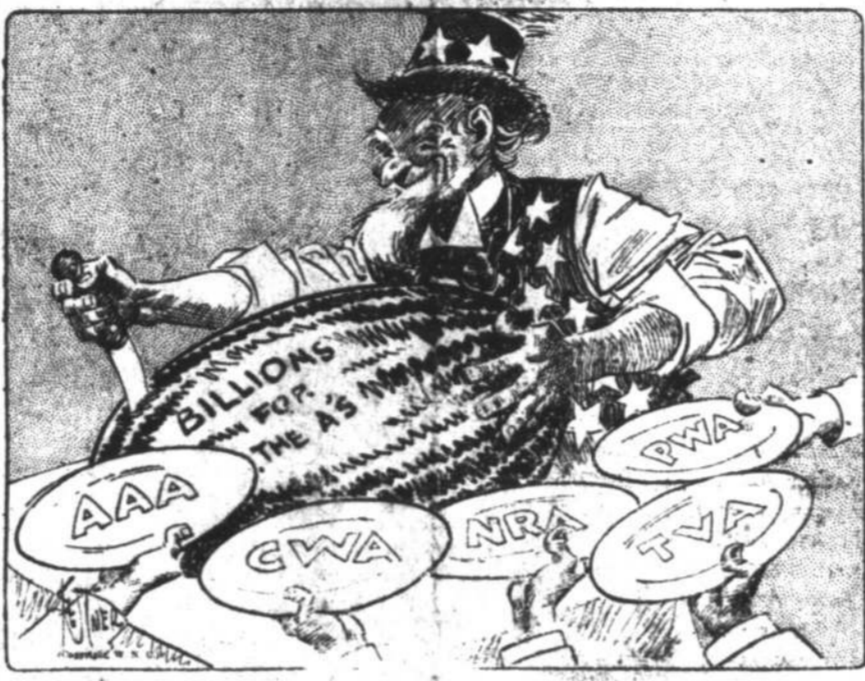

All high sixth grade pupils report to room 31.

All low seventh grade pupils report to room 34.

All high seventh grade pupils report to room 33.

Pupils above the first grade entering this school for the first time may enroll in either of the sections for which they are classified, subject to changes later.

Cutting the Melon

Expect Large School Attendance

The school census of Lamesa district taken last March, showed 1192 pupils in this district of school age. Several undersen enroll each year in the kindergarten and there are several who are over 18 years of age who have not yet finished their studies in the local schools. The scholastic age on which apportionments are paid is from six to seventeen but the free school age extends through twenty-one years of age. Thus the numbers of those who may attend school within the district may be considerably more than the census reports.

In addition there are 126 transfers and applicants for Free High School tuition to be added to the scholastic rolls and then there is the further fact that pupils who have not yet indicated officially, intention of taking advantage of the local school where the grades are not taught in their home districts in this or other counties may appear on the opening day to increase the enrollment figures. Pupils from other counties are expected as in other years but their numbers cannot be known until they appear for their courses.

Local school authorities report that the numbers attending the schools this year are expected to be as great as in former years and are wondering if the enrollment may not be heavier than at the close of school last session. Preparations are being made to care for a normal enrollment in both the elementary and high school departments.

It is reported that many parents residing within the district have not sent their children to school and that with the compulsory attendance law now effective, a greater percentage of local attendance is anticipated.

County Schools Open For Fall Terms

The following schools of the county opened on Monday morning or will open this coming Monday for their fall terms; Key, Plainview, O K, Grandview and Shumake.

Mr. V. Z. Rogers made the opening address at the Key school. Mr. Charles Hatchett is principal. Other teachers are, Mrs. E. H. Kerby, Miss Cora Kerby, and Miss Ila Bartlett. All these schools are planning to have an eight month term.

PROGRAM FOR BAPTIST SUNDAY SCHOOL CLASS

The following is the program for Young Peoples Sunday School Department of the First Baptist Sunday School. Sunday morning, September 9th: Male quartet; Ephie Barron, devotional; Freda Ruth Smart, violin solo. All members are urged to be present and visitors will be welcome.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Simpson had as their guests the past week. Mr. and Mrs. Leek Cowden of Wichita Falls, Mrs. R. R. House of Whitesee, Mrs. E. E. Patterson and sons of Iran.

Arlie Minor Killed In Auto Accident In California

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Minor received a message early Tuesday morning of the death of their son Arlie aged 24, who was killed at 5:15 A. M. on the mountain road between Bakersfield and Los Angeles, California.

The accident happened when a truck struck the car in which Arlie Minor and Harley Tune, a former Lamesa boy were riding. The car was overturned. Young Tune was seriously injured and is not expected to live.

Arlie Minor had been in California for the past two years and has been employed by the Union Oil Co. at Avin. He worked at the Western Union here as messenger boy in 1925 and 1926.

Funeral services are probably being held today (Thursday) in Bakersfield. Burial to be made at that place.

Survivors are his parents, three brothers, J. A., O'Donnell, Warren, Levelland, and Connally, Bakersfield California; three sisters, Mrs. O. R. Bearden, Mrs. Daisy Layfaette and Miss Lillie Minor all of Lamesa, and brother-in-law, I. N. Buck, Hollis, Oklahoma. The Courier joins with the family's many friends in extending sympathy to the bereaved ones.

Sparenberg District Singing Convention To Meet Sunday

The Sparenberg District Singing convention will meet at the Sparenberg church on Sunday afternoon, September 9th. The singing will start promptly at 2:00 P. M.

Everybody is invited to attend this singing. All who have books bring them and help make this one of the best meetings the class has ever had.

Higginbotham H. D. Club Organized

On August 30th, the women met at the school house and organized a Home Demonstration Club. There were seven present.

Mrs. H. F. Pounds was elected as president, Mrs. W. P. Cozart, vice president, Mrs. H. Calhoun, secretary, Mrs. A. H. House, treasurer, Mary Smith reporter. Miss Cox gave an interesting talk on "what kinds of seed to select that will mature early for fall gardens and also a family food budget to help keep our babies healthy."

The next meeting will be at Mrs. John Keiths September 12th, at 2:30 o'clock. Miss Cox will meet with us and give a demonstration on the new processed cheese. We will be glad to have all women interested in this work to meet with us at that time. —Reporter.

Conciliation Commission Appointed for Dawson County

Mr. M. C. Lindsey of Lamesa has been appointed Conciliation Commissioner for Dawson County by Judge James C. Wilson, according to an announcement by R. J. Murray, Supervising Conciliation Commissioner of the Northern District.

Under the terms of a recent amendment to the National Bankruptcy Act Federal Judges are required to appoint a Conciliation Commissioner in each agricultural county and at any time within five years after the amendment takes effect, a petition may be filed by any farmer before the Federal County Conciliation Commissioner, stating that the farmer is insolvent or unable to meet his debts as they mature and that it is desirable to effect a composition or extension of time to pay his debts. The County Conciliation Commissioner then attempts to work out a settlement which will be satisfactory to a majority of the farmer's creditors, both in number and amount. If a Commissioner secures their approval the Court may then make the settlement binding on unsecured minority creditors, even though they disapprove the basis of settlement.

The final step which the debtor may take as a last resort after all other efforts have failed is to file a petition in Bankruptcy under the recently adopted Frazier-Lemke amendment. Under the provisions of this amendment the debtor may be allowed to retain possession of his farm for a period of either five or six years. During this period he may make certain payments under a six year purchase plan, including the payment of taxes and one per cent interest on the principal each year in addition to certain payments on the principal of the debt. This plan is followed provided the secured creditors give their consent. If they do not accept the plan, the farmer may retain possession by paying into the Court a fixed annual rental. At the end of this five or six year period or before the debtor may repurchase the farm by paying a price set up on it by three appraisers appointed by the Federal Court.

Murray, who is Chairman of the Texas Farm Debt Conciliation Committee, strongly recommends that every effort be made by distressed farmers to secure a voluntary adjustment of their debts through the Farm Debt Adjustment Committee already appointed in each county, or with the aid of the County Conciliation Commissioner before resorting to bankruptcy proceedings under the Frazier-Lemke amendment. This amendment requires farming under the jurisdiction of the Court, and gives the farmer no assurance that he will be able to borrow the money at the end of the six year period to pay the appraised price of the farm.

Klondike H. D. Club Organized August 30

On August 30th the ladies of the Klondike community met at the school house and organized a Home Demonstration Club. There were 16 present.

Mrs. Oeta Edmondson was elected president, Mrs. Buster Rhodes, vice-president, Mrs. McKenzie, secretary, and treasurer, Miss Ruby Lee Latham, reporter, Mrs. Elmo Eoff and Miss Oddie Lewis council committee. After electing officers we were served with delicious cake and iced tea which everyone enjoyed very much.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. McKenzie at 2 o'clock, September 13th. Miss Cox will be with us to give a demonstration on cheese making and tiling. We wish all the ladies of our community to be present if you are interested in this work. —Reporter.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Secretary Wallace today set a price for a tax exempt certificate upon cotton production at 4 cents a pound on the cotton they represented. A farmer who sells his excess certificates will be paid roughly on the basis of $20 per bale.

At the same time the secretary created a national pool to direct sale and purchase of the certificates, which were issued under the Bankhead production control and represent the total amount of cotton a farmer may produce tax free. Production above quotas set under the act is subject to a tax of 50 per cent of its value.

The pool will permit the sale of excess certificates by farmers in the drought areas, where production has been sharply cut. They will be sold principally to the Old South where production is prospectively greater than Bankhead allotment.

Wallace appointed Ernest L. Deal of Florence, Ala., as manager of the pool.

The exchange of certificates will operate to aid farmers in the drought area by permitting them to realize at least some cash on their excess certificates and at the same time will help others in more favorable production areas by enabling them to avoid paying the heavy penalty tax on production above the quota.

Government purchase of certificates is not contemplated. Holders will turn them over to the manager of the pool, who will handle them in behalf of producers under a trust agreement.

When the pool is closed all money on hand from sale of certificates exclusive of expenses will be divided among producers each to receive his share in the proportion that his poundage surrender by him bears to the total poundage in the pool. Likewise each producer will get his pro rata share of all unsold certificates which will be valuable next year if the Bankhead act is continued.

The Bankhead act permits a national tax free production of 10,460,251 bales, a figure well above the last official estimate over 1934 production, which was 9,195,000 bales. The excess in certificates will probably be greater in Texas and Oklahoma than in any other states.

L. N. Garrett Dies In Anson August 29

L. N. Garrett of the Wilson community in Jones county, died in an Abilene Sanitarium, Wednesday afternoon after having undergone an emergency operation Tuesday night for appendicitis and was buried in the Funston cemetery Thursday afternoon following funeral services at four o'clock. Mr. Garrett was in Anson Saturday, was at church services Saturday night, taking seriously ill on Monday. Funeral services were conducted by Rev. Clyde R. Campbell of Mineral Wells.

Mr. Garrett was born August 6, 1894 in Leon county, Texas, came to Jones county with his parents when about nine years of age. He was converted and joined the Baptist church at Truby in 1913 under Rev. F. C. Dick's preaching and lived a Christian until his death. Mr. Garrett and Grace Waldrop were married in 1916, moving to Lamesa the same year where they lived until two years ago when they moved back to Jones county to the R. P. King farm, ten miles southeast of Anson in the Wilson community where they were living at the time of his death.

Mr. Garrett is survived by his wife and three children, Zuma Lee, Vernon Brice, and Louise, all at home, and three brothers, William T., J. Ezra, and Roger G., all of Anson; and three sisters, Mrs. S. O. Nowell, Lamesa; Mrs. M. O. Thorn, Hawley; and Mrs. R. P. King, Abilene.

Mrs. Garrett's mother, father, two brothers and one sister, all of Lamesa attended the funeral.

Active pallbearers were Roy Nunnelly, Nolan Rogers, Jasper Gentry, John Bradshaw, W. C. Bennett and N. B. Leatherwood of Lamesa. Honorary pallbearers were: J. C. Fielder M. L. Manly, G. W. Hyatt, R. T. Moore, Willie Bennett, and Allie Foster.

EVERYBODY TALKS ABOUT THE WEATHER BUT NOBODY DOES ANYTHING ABOUT IT!

PHILLIPS DOES!

We scientifically match PHILLIPS 66 to your weather... and that is why neither heat wave nor sub-zero cold can rob your motor of peak performance.

When a blistering heat wave makes front page news... your motor doesn't mind the weather, if the tank is filled with Phillips 66... the greater gasoline.

During a month officially recorded by the U. S. Weather Bureau as the "hottest in seventy years," hundreds of thousands of drivers discovered the benefits of CONTROLLED VOLATILITY.

They marveled that their engines did not overheat or knock, that speed and power were undiminished. They will be just as pleasantly surprised this Winter, when their motors start with split-second speed on mornings away below zero.

Phillips was FIRST to break the vicious connection between bad weather and bad engine-performance. With our pioneer process of CONTROLLED VOLATILITY, the weather may change but motor efficiency does not... because Phillips 66 Gasoline is changed in advance, "custom tailored" or pre-adjusted at the refinery to make engines do their best regardless of climate.

One trial tankful, at any Orange and Black 66 Shield, will quickly give you facts about extra anti-knock and miles, added power and speed... without extra cost... Yes, you will actually feel the difference in your engine!

SAFETY VAULT PROTECTION for Phillips 66 Motor Oil

This is our finest quality, 100% paraffin base. Now it is refinery-sealed in cans, and reaches you fresh, clean, and tamper-proof. A tougher, long-lasting lubricant. We proudly call it "world's finest oil for your motor." 30¢ qt.

LET'S ALL DO OUR PART

Trades Day—First Monday has become an important function in Lamesa. But for the past two months patrons of Lamesa merchants have not seen advertised in the columns of Lamesa papers very much advertising as to "bargains" listed on Trades Days.

As a paper, one would think we are to get much of the benefit of advertising. True, but you as business men will get much benefit also, and the patron will get a benefit in that bargains are sold on these days and through the medium of advertising this is made known to him.

We contribute to Trades Day the same as the merchants that it might be a success. We are glad to do this and glad to have a part in doing our bit that this worthy undertaking be kept up. But, aside from the money contributions we make we also give free an almost unlimited amount of space to what is called publicity concerning the Trades Day. No doubt this fact alone aids materially in carrying on this feature of Lamesa's commerce. We submit, if all this free publicity is stopped, which we do not intend to do, and all the free work that is being done to promote Trades Day, it would soon stop.

Out of fairness to the newspapers which have really made the Trades Day possible—and for that matter out of fairness to your patrons Mr. Merchant you should advertise SPECIALLY of these Trades Days. Do not forget our neighbors—as Lubbock, Tahoka, O'Donnell, Brownfield and Seagraves are doing this very thing and great crowds are going to these places on First Mondays. If something isn't done as our neighbors are doing—soon we will be wondering why the crowds went NORTH.

Another thing—why can't all our business men "get in" on the financial support of this Trades Day? If they will it will cost those who are in much less and all will have a part in it. We will all feel better if we give it our financial support. It is fair and right that we should. Let's do it.

CHURCH OF THE NAZARENE

Our Sunday school meets at 1:00 A. M. sharp.

The young people's service will begin at 7:45 P. M., Mrs. Ida Lienby is leader.

Immediately after the morning service the church will hold its annual meeting for the election of officers for the coming year.

The subject for the morning message: "Chooseers Should Mind the Chips." At the evening hour we will bring a message based upon the theme, "Policies Determine Progress." School begins next Monday morning and we are desirous that this message shall inspire parent, pupil and teacher, for the great task we are just entering into.

It would be an inspiration to us for you to be in the morning and evening services next Lord's Day. A. L. Dennis, Pastor.

4-H CLUB GIRLS WORK
Bedroom improvement and gardening will be the demonstrations the 4-H girls of Dawson county will work on for the coming year.

Bedrooms will be redecorated and improved with the least possible cost. The girl who makes the greatest improvement in her bedroom with the least cost will have gained the most. Improved bedding, lighting, clothes closets, and study centers will be emphasized.

In the garden work the girls will make hot beds in which they will raise a variety of fresh vegetables for winter use.

Girls between the ages of ten and twenty can enroll in 4-H club work.

112 FEET OF TILE FOR 95¢

"I have 112 feet of tile from one sack of cement and enough cement left to cement the angle for the feed pipe," said Mrs. Gus Schmidt. The cement was Mrs. Schmidt's only expense in making her tile because native sand was used.

According to Mrs. Schmidt's report, an area of 560 square feet of garden space is being irrigated with tile costing 95¢.

The tile has been laid in Mrs. Schmidt's tomatoes thereby insuring a long bearing period.

WARDROBE WORK STARTS

The wardrobe demonstrators of the home demonstration clubs are being selected in each club for the purpose of starting the wardrobe work.

Wardrobe work creates an interest for each woman to have a more harmonious and economical wardrobe by giving serious study to the planning of the entire wardrobe. She will carefully keep accounts of her clothing expenditures and plan a better and more adequate closet or storage space for clothing. This will all be done with the least expenditure possible.

The selection of suitable line, color, and design will be studied for individual. Foundation patterns will be made and variations and uses of them will be carefully studied. Knowledge of renovation and making of garments will be utilized in making an improved economical wardrobe.

FARM NOTES

By Joe C. Williams, County Agent

Cotton Program

Over one hundred and twenty five thousand dollars have been paid out through the county agent's office in the cotton reduction campaign, which was a part of the first checks due in the office. Ninety-three contracts have not been paid off yet from the Washington office, however, letters have been written to that office sending lists of names that have not been paid to date.

Practically all the certificates for compliance have been filled out and over 80 per cent of those certificates have been mailed to the Washington office to be in line for the second payment as soon as that office is ready for second payments. Some contracts that have been sent to land lords have not been returned and those that have not been returned will naturally be late in receiving the second checks.

Mr. Glen Hackney, Asst. in Cotton Adjustment will leave for state headquarters Sunday to stay until the cotton tags are issued for this county. We do not as yet have the regulations for transfer from one party to another. But we do have applications from other counties for all the Dawson County surplus tags that will be placed on the market. As to the price that will be paid for these tags we do not know as that price is supposed to be set by the Secretary of Agriculture. Practically all the farms in the county have been measured and certified by the local and county committees.

Cattle Buying Program

Over fifty thousand dollars have been paid to the farmers of the county in the Government cattle buying program, with over 5,000 head already sold, and over 6,000 head more listed for sale in this program which will bring in at least $50,000 more dollars to the county.

Seven school districts are yet to be worked in the buying program before the county is gone over completely, then at the end of this time the school districts that were worked buying condemned cattle will be worked again in the order as worked before. At the close of working every school district any one who wants to meet the appraiser and veterinarian in any school district with his cattle may do so.

Hog and Corn Program

The corn and hog section has sent into Dawson county over thirteen thousand dollars for the signers of corn hog contracts representing two hundred and seventy-five checks received to date. This payment represents two dollars per head on the der these contracts. It is believed that these corn and hog checks are the first to be received in the south plains section.

With modern equipment that is kept scrupulously clean the milk is brought quickly to you without danger from contamination of any kind. That's why L. Berry milk is always fresh as the morn—why it has a flavor that is "different." It's fresh, it's finely flavored, and because every drop comes from well-fed, pure-bred dairy cattle it's richer in cream—milk at its best!

ROBBERS' ROOST

By ZANE GREY

old fairly well as to horseanship, but in rough going he could not keep to the English saddle. He would put his horse at anything and he had a jarring fall.

Notwithstanding this, Herrick finished out the hunt. He was funny, and queer, but he was game, and Jim liked him. On the way back Jim amused the Englishman by shooting Jack rabbits with his revolver. He managed to kill three out of five to Herrick's infinite astonishment and admiration.

"By Jove! I never saw such marksmanship," he ejaculated.

"That was really poor shooting."

"Indeed. What would you call good shooting, may I ask?"

"Well, riding by a post and putting five bullets into it. Or splitting the edge of a card at twenty feet."

"Let me see your gun?"

Jim West broke his rule when he handed it over, butt first.

Herrick looked at it with mingled feelings. "Why, there's no trigger!" he exclaimed, in utter astonishment.

"I do not use a trigger."

"Thunderation, man! How do you make the pistol go off?"

"Look here. Let me show you," said Jim, taking the gun. "I thumb the hammer. . . like that."

"By Jove!—But please explain."

"Mr. Herrick, the cocking of a gun and pulling the trigger require twice as much time as thumbing. For example, supposing the eyesight and the draw of two men are equal, the one who thumbs his hammer will kill the other."

"Ah—Er—Yes. I see. Most extraordinary. Your American West is quite bewildering. Is this thumbing a common practice among you desperadoes?"

"Very uncommon. So uncommon that I'll be obliged if you will keep it to yourself."

"Oh!—Yes, by Jove! I see. Ha! ha! I grasp the point. . . Well, you're a comforting fellow to have round the place."

Herrick was evidently a free, careless, impressive man who had been used to fulfilling his desires. His eccentricity was not apparent, except in the fact of his presence there in wild Utah. He liked horses, dogs, guns, the outdoors, physical effort. But he had no conception whatever of his remarkable situation in this unsettled country.

When they arrived at the barn he asked Jim to ride up to the house, where they would look over some English guns.

The big living room had three windowed sides and was bizarre and strange to Jim, though attractive. Herrick had brought with him a quantity of rugs, skins, pictures, and weapons.

The heavy English guns earned Jim's solemn shake of head. "No good at all here, Mr. Herrick. Not even for grizzly. Get a forty-four."

"Thank you. I shall do so. I'm fond of the chase."

Herrick had his desk near a window, and upon it, standing out in relief from books, papers, ornaments, was a framed picture of a beautiful, fair-haired, young woman. The cast of her features resembled Herrick's. That was a portrait of his sister.

Jim carried a vision of Helen Herrick's picture in his mind as he rode back down the bench. And he cursed the predicament into which he had allowed himself to become involved.

"I'll have to stick it out," he muttered, that fair face and shining hair before his inward eye. "I might have chucked this outfit."

"I'll have to hoof it up to see the boss tonight," Hays said, after finishing the late supper. "Put me wise to what's come off in my absence."

"We've had no sign of Smoky's outfit. So we don't know where his camp is."

"I do. Good place an' out of sight. I gave Smoky orders to pack supplies back from Grand Junction every trip."

"Hank, reckon you're figgerin' up a long hole-up somewheres," said Happy Jack, with a grin.

"Have you run into Heeseman?" went on Hays, ignoring Jack's hint.

"Yes. He called on us," replied Jim, casually.

"Humph! I don't savvy that dodge. It's no good. Heeseman is the slickest customer in Utah. Just tryin' to scrape acquaintance, eh?"

"I think so. It struck me that he might be wanting to throw his outfit with yours."

"Ahuh. I had that hunch. It might wal be," replied Hays, meditatively.

"Herrick put Heeseman's outfit to cutting and peeling logs. He wants more horses and barns for them."

"That's good. It'll keep that outfit from ridin' down Limestone way. An' the cowboys—where have they been?"

"Plenty of work around, but little riding, except after the hounds. I had a chase after Jackrabbits with the boss."

"Hounds an' Jacks!—What next? However, it's not so bad. Anythin' for us but regular ranchin'. Haw! Haw!"

"Herrick took me up to see his guns," went on Jim, easily, with furtive eyes on Hays. "Have you seen them?"

"Yes. Funny lot of knickknacks. There's one thing I'm goin' to own, though."

Jim laughed. He did not need to ask any more. Suddenly then a tigerish sensation shot through his vitals. It was like an unexpected attack.

"I'd like to own all that stuff," he said, carelessly.

Three days of genuine labor around the ranch followed. But on the fourth day, Herrick approached Jim.

"Well, I want you to go to Grand Junction tomorrow after my sister," he said. "Take the cowboy Barnes with you. His home is in Grand Junction. Have him hitch the black team to the buckboard and start early."

"Boss, I reckon I'll go along with Wall," Hays said, coolly.

"Hays, I did not ask your services," returned Herrick. "You are needed here." His tone as much as his words settled the matter.

Jim purposely delayed his hour of quitting, in order to avoid Hays.

After supper Hays lighted his pipe. Then, without facing Jim, he said:

"Jim, had the boss mentioned this here trip before?"

"No. I was as surprised as you."

"Wal, suppose you make some excuse an' let me go instead?"

"But Herrick won't like that, Hays," protested Jim. "He turned down your proposal cold."

"Shore. He did. D—n funny, I take that, too. But if you wouldn't or couldn't go, I'd be next choice."

"Hays, you surprise me. Here you are on the eve of a big deal—the biggest of your life. And you risk angering Herrick at this stage."

Hays puffed his pipe. He was beaten.

"Wal," he said, finally, "I reckon maybe you're right, Jim. Only it didn't seem so."

By sunrise next day Jim Wall was on his way to Grand Junction. Young Barnes, the cowboy, had his hands full with the spirited team.

Presently Jim's ever-watchful eyes caught dust far ahead, and dots of riders getting off the road into the cedar thickets. They would be Smoky's outfit, Jim calculated, and gave them credit for seeing the buckboard first. They did not appear again, and Jim knew they were hiding on their way back to Star ranch.

At four o'clock they drove into Grand Junction, which was considerably larger, and busier than Green River.

"Barnes, here we are," said Jim. "This is a metropolis, compared to Green River."

"Fust I've been home fer long," rejoined Barnes. "I'll take care of the team at my paw's."

Barnes drove off down the road and Jim leisurely entered the lodging house, which, it turned out, was run by a buxom woman, who made herself agreeable. She was loquacious, and very shortly Jim gained the surprising information that no cattle herds had passed through Grand Junction this week.

After supper Jim turned in.

Awakening early he got up and leisurely shaved and dressed, paying more than usual attention to his appearance. He was there to escort an English girl fifty miles across the wilderness to Star ranch. One thing he was sure of, and that was that it would be vastly better for Miss Herrick than if Hank Hays had been sent. Suddenly this fact struck Jim as singular. Was he any better than Hank Hays?

After breakfast he went out and found a boy to shine his high-top boots and brush his dark, worn suit and his black sombrero. Presently, then, he encountered Barnes.

"Howdy, boy. Did you have a nice time home?"

"Gee, I did," grinned the cowboy. "You sure look bright this morning."

"Wal, you look kinda spick an' span yourself, Jim," drawled Barnes. "Funny how the idear of a girl gets a feller."

"Funny? You mean terrible, my friend. A woman is as terrible as an army approaching with banners."

"Gosh, who'd ever dreamed you had seen inside a Bible?" exclaimed the cowboy.

"It's funny, though, how I happened to remember that. Now, Barnes, listen. This Miss Herrick might take me for an honest, decent fellow like you. But if I let that pass I'd be selling under false colors. I don't do that. And as I can't very well tell her myself you must"

"Tell her what?" queried Barnes, with a puzzled grin.

"You know. . . The kind of a man I am."

"I sort of like you myself. So if you want me to tell her anythin' you must say what."

"Well then, tell her about Herrick hiring all the desperadoes in Utah, and that I'm one of them. Make me out worse than Hays and Heeseman thrown together."

"Shore. That's easy. But what's the idear, Jim?"

"I wasn't always an outcast. . . And I think it'd hurt me less if this girl was scared and repelled. If she took me for a real westerner, you know, and talked and laughed—well, I'd go get powerfully drunk and probably shoot up Star ranch. So you fix it for me, will you, Barnes?"

"Shore, I'll fix it," replied Barnes, with a sly glance at Jim. "You give me a chance when the stage rolls up. She's due now. I'll run down an' drive the buckboard up."

But the stage did not show up for an hour—a long, nervous dragging one for Jim Wall. Grand Junction was no different from other western points remote from civilization—everybody turned out to see the stage come in. It was a gala occasion for the young sters, of whom there was a surprising number. The women, snappers, Jim observed, rather being in the background.

The four-horse stage came rolling up in a cloud of dust. The driver, a grizzled old frontiersman, brought it to a stop with a fine flourish and bawled out: "Grand Junction! Half hour fer lunch."

There were six passengers, two of them feminine. The last to leave the stage was a tall, veiled young woman, her lithe and erect figure encased in a long linen coat. She carried a small satchel. Expectantly she looked around. Jim stepped before her, barring his head.

The couple were accompanied by Misses Ruth Lee Stuart, sister of the bride, Gladys Alsbrook, Annabel Allen and Essie Moore.

The bride was attractively dressed in a navy blue triple-suit with matching accessories.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Stuart and is a graduate of the Lamesa High School. Mr. Austin is the son of Mrs. S. D. Austin and is also a graduate of the local high school. He is employed at the Alamo Service Station.

Immediately after the ceremony the couple left on a honeymoon trip to Colorado. They will return after a few days and will make their home here.

Lois Jean Weekes Honors Visitor

Honoring her cousin, Patricia Yonge of Abilene on her birthday, Little Miss Lois Jean Weekes entertained a few friends with a picnic at the City Park on Saturday afternoon.

Every batch of Sinclair P. D. insect spray is death-tested on 1,000 five-day-old flies

Two batches of insect spray made of the same materials, in the same plant, by the same people may differ utterly in killing power. One will kill insects and the other only dope them — and the user seldom knows why! Before shipment, every batch of Sinclair P. D. insect spray must kill 1,000 flies under conditions more difficult than those in your own home. Only healthy five-day-old flies raised on the Sinclair Fly Farm in East Chicago are used in these tests. As flies at that age are the toughest household insects to kill, Sinclair P. D. is sure to kill any fly, mosquito, moth, bedbug, ant, roach, flea or silverfish in your home. Ask for Sinclair P. D. — it's harmless, stainless, and sweet with the clean odor of cedar.

Rural Rehabilitation To Be Pushed

Austin, Sept. 1.—The Texas Relief Commission's program of rural rehabilitation will be pushed to the limit during the next two months, it was announced today by J. E. Stanford, director of the department, as he issued instructions to his field supervisors to employ assistants to help them carry out the program during the next eight weeks.

It is the aim of the department to house every family possible and supply them with capital goods before the winter season arrives.

Federal authorities have been asked for a grant of $800,000 for rural rehabilitation in Texas in September as against $250,000 for the current month.

Stanford reported the program now being carried on in 142 counties and said it will be extended to others as soon as rains break the long existing drought in these counties.

Automobile Show At Lubbock Fair

Lubbock, September 3.—An automobile show, with the latest model cars with their knee action automatic shifts, air flow bodies and other popular features, will be an added feature at the Panhandle South Plains Fair here September 24-29, inclusive.

Practically every popular car in the Panhandle South Plains territory will be exhibited.

With heavy rains over the entire territory, interest in the agricultural show has increased and practically every county on the South Plains is now expected to have an exhibit at the fair.

There will be keen competition for that $75 first prize for the county exhibit and losers will take $60 for second honors, $40 for third and $25 for fourth. Prizes of $25 each will be awarded to all other counties entering the agricultural show. Hundreds of individual exhibits will be entered from each county.

Horse racing is expected to again lead the field in amusements, augmented by the John T. Wortham shows with the only "Loop-o-Plane" east of California, vaudeville acts, band concerts, and fireworks.

Road Contract Is To Be Let Monday

Contract for grading and drainage structures on Highway 9 from here to Tahoka, including the loop through the town itself will be let Monday, September 10, according to calls from the Texas Highway department last Friday.

This contract was one of eleven which are to be let at the same time. Estimated cost of construction in the twelve counties was $1,890,000.

Work on this section of the highway has been the subject of no little conjecture during the past two or three years, so that beginning of actual construction is creating much interest.

Further particulars regarding date of the beginning of work, number of workmen needed, etc., will probably be available in time for next week's issue of the Index.

645 Texans Died of Pellagra Last Year

Austin, Sept. 2.—Six hundred and forty-five Texans died last year of pellagra, declared Dr. John W. Brown, State Health Officer. Pellagra is a disease that is caused by lack of proper foods. It comes on slowly and may not be recognized until the victim begins to have a sore mouth, stomach trouble and reddening and scaling of the skin. When these symptoms appear the disease has been present for some time.

The longer a person has pellagra the harder it is to cure, so one should be on the lookout for the early symptoms such as nervousness, indigestion, and burning of the feet and hands. The disease may become so severe as to affect the mind.

Pellagra is not contagious. As long as a person eats enough of the right kind of food and is not otherwise diseased, he is in no danger even if he lives with a pellagra patient.

The prevention of pellagra depends upon eating the right kind of food at all times. To make sure that the diet is right, it should always include plenty of milk daily, some fresh

Cactus To Feed Cattle Relief Agents Plan

Austin, Sept. 1.—The wide cactus covered expanses known to the Southwest Texas ranchmen as pear flats may be invaded this winter by relief roll clients seeking sustenance for drought stricken livestock.

The prickly pear, rid of its small sharp stickers, is a choice bit of vegetation upon which ranchmen have been known to fatten their herds during winter for many years.

Relief commission officials are considering a plan whereby an army of relief roll clients will go into the flats with pear burning machines, singe the stickers from the plants, and rake the pears safe for consumption by the hungry herds.

Meanwhile, officials are seeking thousands of acres of pasturage for cattle in acute need, most of them in the extreme western part of the state. Federal Surplus Relief corporation has urged that up to 200,000 head of cattle be pastured but it is doubtful that sufficient acreage for that number can be found in the state according to C. Z. Crain, head of the surplus commodities department, in charge of the cattle program.

"I want it made clear," Crain said, "that the Relief Commission will not go into competition with the ranchman in the matter of leasing land. If there is available sufficient pasturage at a price we know to be right, we will take it, but if owners begin to raise prices in anticipation of competition between the government and the private livestock owner also seeking pasturage, then we will get out of this program."

Many counties have been reluctant to other pasturage because they are in the emergency drought classification and fear that they will lose such designation if land is leased for grazing purposes within their borders.

Crain explained that leasing for pastures will in no case have any bearing on the county's drought classification.

The leasing program has also been made difficult because of lack of grass in North and West Texas. Although there is some grass in South and West Texas, tick quarantine covering many counties will prevent movement of cattle into much of that area.

Diseased Teeth Often Cause Other Trouble

Austin, Sept. 1.—A fact that is not generally understood, according to Dr. John W. Brown, is that diseased teeth frequently may be associated with disease manifestations in other parts of the body. The interrelation and inter-dependence of the various parts which comprise this marvelous bodily mechanism are so sensitive that in many instances when matters go amiss, not only this the location of the infection affected but other parts become involved too.

Thus diseased teeth or gums may directly develop an infection of the nose, eye, head sinuses, the stomach and even the intestinal tract. Again germs from a diseased mouth may be transported by the blood stream to the kidneys or heart, thus causing serious trouble frequently ending fatally. Even such extremely painful and tenacious conditions as neuritis and arthritis can often be traced to infections in and around the teeth.

The man or woman who respects health as the greatest of all earthly assets will do well to heed the ordinary principles of mouth hygiene, being conscientiously adhered to, they can be relied upon to protect against the conditions that take such a tremendous and unnecessary toll.

Thoroughly cleanse the teeth daily by toothbrush and dental floss, and religiously to seek a periodic dental examination at least semi-annually, oftener if required, is merely practicing a common sense procedure which returns incalculable dividends.

meat, and as many fresh vegetables as possible. Tomatoes, whole wheat products, salmon, brewer's yeast and fresh fruits are especially valuable. Having provided these essentials of a proper diet, the rest may be arranged according to family and personal likes. In this way pellagra may be avoided.

LEAGUE DEBATE SUBJECT CHANGED FOR 1934-35

Austin, Texas, Sept. 1.—Wording of the debate question for the Inter-scholastic League for 1934-35 has been changed to restrict the subject to a discussion of government ownership of electric light and power utilities, rather than of all utilities, according to Roy Bedichek, chief of the University of Texas Bureau of Public School interests. As previously announced, the question was: "Resolved, that the Government Should Own and Control All Public Utilities." as amended, the subject is "Resolved, that the Government Should Own and Operate All Electric Light and Power Utilities." A 200-page bulletin on this subject is now in the press and will be ready for release soon, Mr. Bedichek said.

Texas meat canning plants, to the number of 19, are doing their best to take care of the cattle bought as drought relief; 8,585,134 No. 1 cans of meat had been placed on the pantry shelf of the Relief Commission by the middle of August. Eight and a half million cans of meat is quite a bit.

Are You RIDING ON A CALF'S TAIL?

A LOT OF CAR OWNERS ARE

"How many legs has a calf?" Abraham Lincoln once asked a caller.
 "Four," said the visitor.
 "But suppose we call his tail a leg, how many legs will he have?" Lincoln persisted.
 "Five," said the visitor.
 "No, sir!" retorted Honest Abe. "He'd still have four. CALLING a tail a leg doesn't make it a leg."

... And CALLING a tire burst-proof doesn't make it proof against blow-outs. ... CALLING it a mileage marvel doesn't make it wear longer. CALLING it a masterpiece of tire building, doesn't make it so.

Seiberling Tires are built and sold on the four legs of fact. F. A. Seiberling, builder of good tires since 1898 and responsible for more major tire inventions than any other man, believes that car owners want tires that WEAR well—not that just READ well.

Seiberling Tires are FACT tires. Let us show you the difference between a "leg" and a "tail" when it comes to tire mileage, safety and economy. Drop in today.
