Cold Wind Grips State

By The Associated Press

Cold, cloudy and windy weather gripped Texas Monday, but—except in the Panhandle—the clouds held temperatures above the freezing mark.

Scattered light rain fell shortly before dawn at Houston, Brownsville, McAllen, El Paso and across the state line at Shreveport, La.

A cold front that blew into the state late Saturday had spread over the state by Monday morning with thermometer readings in the 40s and 50s across the southern third of the state and in the 30s over most of the remainder of Texas. The range was from 54 at Galveston to 31 at Amarillo.

Small craft warnings continued up along the coast from Port Arthur to Brownsville and tropical storm Inga moved northward at about five miles per hour. Wind velocities of 20-30 knots were expected with gusts up to 45 knots.

Inga's highest winds were estimated at about 55 mph near the center with gales extending outward some 85 miles from the center. The Weather Bureau said the storm, centered about 140 statute miles east northeast of Tampico, Mexico, offered no immediate threat to any land area and was expected to diminish Monday night.

Forecasts called for cloudy skies over most of Texas with scattered light rain mostly in southern and central areas of the state.

The Weather Bureau said temperatures would be a little lower in the eastern half of the state Monday with a warming trend over the state Tuesday. Temperatures Monday night were expected to again be in the 30s and 40s.

Sunday's maximum temperatures ranged from 80 at Brownsville to 36 at Alpine and Dalhart.

Rainfall reported to the Weather Bureau for the 24-hour period ending at 6 p.m. Sunday included Victoria 1.18, Houston 2.06, Brownsville .86, Alpine .03, Austin .02, Beaumont .12, College Station .32, Corpus Christi .03, Galveston .09, San Antonio .02 and Lufkin .01.

Fund Makes A Bit Of Progress

The total gifts received for the United Fund Campaign through this morning had changed little from the figure of Saturday, according to Angy Glenn, manager. Only $165.39 had been added bringing the total to $99,573.84.

About $5,500 remains for the goal of $105,000 to be achieved. And there are many card.. which have not been returned, despite the fact that the drive had a tentative closing time of Friday, Glenn said.

Most of these cards are in the employe and metropolitan divisions. There are only four outstanding cards in the big gifts division and 13 in special gifts. About 50 cards on prospects in the metropolitan division are still in the UF office. They were returned unworked.

Big Spring Printing Co. and KBST radio station employes were reported topping their goals.

Glenn said the office would be open every day and he urged workers to bring their cards by as soon as they have been worked. Persons who have not been contacted, but who wish to give, may drop by the office or mail in gifts.

More money has been raised now than in any previous UF drive, but the needs are greater than ever, Glenn said.

Twelve welfare agencies benefit from gifts to the United Fund.

President Welcomes Nehru On U.S. Visit

To Talk Over World Problems

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru of India flew here today to open a series of talks with President Kennedy on world problems and on the divergent views of the United States and India toward nuclear testing.

Nehru landed at Quonset Point Naval Air Station at 11:46 a.m. after a flight from New York on a presidential plane.

President Kennedy was on hand to greet him, along with John Kenneth Galbraith, U.S. ambassador to India. Nehru and President Kennedy shook hands warmly. Within a few minutes, Nehru and the President went by automobile to the nearby pier to board the presidential yacht Honey Fitz for the 10-mile trip across Narragansett Bay to Hammersmith Farm for lunch.

A crowd of several hundred gave Nehru a round of applause.

President Kennedy and Nehru were to lunch together privately, according to White House press secretary Pierre Salinger. Ambassador Galbraith was to join Mrs. Kennedy, and Nehru's daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandha, and some others for lunch at Hammersmith Farm, the Newport estate of Mrs. Kennedy's family.

Nehru has called the latest series of Soviet nuclear tests "an evil thing."

Kennedy last week set in motion preparations for U.S. tests in the atmosphere. He said this country will conduct explosions in the air if an evaluation of the Soviet Union's shots indicates that U.S. tests are necessary for the security of this country and the free world.

Nehru flew into New York Sunday after a stopover in London where he talked with Prime Minister Harold Macmillan.

Nehru is expected to press Kennedy for a moratorium on nuclear testing, "whatever happens." He reiterated his position that the important thing is to stop all tests now without waiting for a treaty "with inspection and controls and all that."

The American and Indian positions also are diametrically opposed on the question of admission of Red China to the United Nations.

The Indian position, as expounded by Nehru, is that disarmament is one of the major world problems and "you can't deal with it without China."

All Aboard For Football Special

Fans were buying tickets Monday morning for the special train to be operated Friday afternoon to Abilene under the sponsorship of the Herald and the Quarterback Club. Dr. W. A. Hunt, president of Howard County Junior College, was one of those taking advantage of the train, purchasing four tickets Monday morning from Ruth Welch at the School Business office. "The whole town ought to go and back the team, not because of its wins but because of its fine spirit," he said. Tickets for the round trip are $3.75 per person and are being sold at Senior High School, the Big Spring Herald, Chamber of Commerce and the business office. Students and fans planning to join in the fun and excitement of a special train are urged to get tickets as soon as possible. Band Boosters will set up a sandwich and cold drink shop on the train.

Girl Athletes Begin Turning Into Males

LONDON (AP) — Two British girl athletes started turning into men at the peak of their track and field careers, a leading British gynecologist said today.

Thomas Jeffcoate, of Liverpool University, made his disclosure in the current issue of the "Proceedings of the Royal Society of Medicine." The women were not named.

The article set off a discussion in British athletic circles. Jack Crump, secretary of the amateur athletic board, suggested that an international medical panel make sure that girls are girls before every meet.

Jeffcoate's article followed controversy during the Olympic games in Rome last year over the sex of one of Britain's competitors. It was rumored at that time—and the rumor was printed in newspapers throughout the world—that one of the British girls had male characteristics.

Prof. Jeffcoate said one of the girls was a sprinter of 16 who could run 100 yards in 11 seconds and her "sex interest was towards boys." She was an outstanding woman athlete. Then she had an operation, lost interest in her boy friend, and her time for the 100 yards slumped to 12.8 seconds.

The other example discussed by Jeffcoate was a "girl aged 20, an international woman athlete, who complained of deepening of the voice."

"Treatment needs to be based on a wide interpretation of ex, and not on any one criterion . . . the final decision rests on the answer to the following question: Will this individual fit into the community better, and therefore be happier, as a male or a female?" the professor said.

South Viet Nam Slowly Losing War

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Viet Nam's pro-Western government is slowly losing its war against Communist rebels. The next few weeks may decide whether this trend speeds up or reverses.

Even if U.S. troops are not sent, there are expected to be large new outlays of American aid, which has already totaled more than $2 billion.

Officials here don't always want to be quoted on such dark views, but that is the general picture.

There are three major forces involved: The guerrilla enemy directed and reinforced from Communist North Viet Nam, the United States, and the 7-year-old government of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

The Communists, called the Viet Cong, have stepped up the war to a dangerous degree in recent weeks.

Despite a variety of hints in the press and by officials here that Viet Nam would welcome U.S. combat troops, the feeling is still that President Kennedy's fact-finding mission led by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor considers this is not the time.

Diem's government has taken a series of steps to meet the growing Communist threat.

They include proclamation of a state of emergency, new revenue-raising taxes, military training for women and a variety of austerity moves such as three meatless days a week, cuts in high official salaries, working government offices on Saturday afternoon, and formation of military units for civil service workers.

Many of these moves are only psychological and much could still be done in the way of austerity in the cities.

The army is considered generally loyal, but many troops have been literally fighting every day for years. They are tired, and their officers have at times been frustrated by the political dealings that center around Diem's palace.

The peasants in the countryside, where the war will be won or lost, are still another matter.

It is generally agreed that much more could have been done, both in material and psychological ways, to win their allegiance. Besides its tactics of fear and violence, the Viet Cong has been able to capitalize on abuses by civil officials and the military.

Russian Jew Leader Jailed

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the most prominent Jewish leaders in Leningrad has been arrested, tried and sentenced to 12 years in jail for consorting with so-called "foreign agents" and other "treasonable" activities, the New York Herald Tribune reported today.

A copyright Washington dispatch by Rowland Evans Jr. said the secret trial of Gedalia Rubinovich Pechersky was held at Leningrad on or about Oct. 9 and lasted four days.

Evans said sources of the information that Perchersky was arrested last June and convicted in October for crimes against the state "were of undoubted veracity."

Pechersky was described as the former lay chairman of the Leningrad Jewish religious community, and for years the outspoken advocate of Jewish religious life.

Soviet U.N. Legate Plans Talks Before Congo Meeting

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin planned more talks with other U.N. delegates today before calling a Security Council meeting to discuss the threat of civil war in the Congo.

Zorin is president of the council this month. One source said the 11-nation group might meet Tuesday or Wednesday, but another delegate dealing with the Congo case said he favored delaying it until next week to enable the U.N. Secretariat to gather more information.

Ethiopia, Nigeria and Sudan sent Zorin a letter Friday night asking that he convene the council to consider the situation "caused by the lawless acts of mercenaries" in the Congo's secessionist Katanga Province.

The three African nations did not say what action they wanted the council to take.

At its last Congo meeting Feb. 21, the council (1) urged that measures be taken for the immediate withdrawal of all mercenaries from the Congo and (2) called for U.N. measures to prevent civil war, by force if necessary.

The U.N. force seized strongpoints in Katanga Sept. 13 in an attempt to oust the mercenaries, but Katangan troops fought it to a stalemate. Last week the central government announced its troops had penetrated 35 miles into Katanga in a police action to end the secession. But on Saturday it admitted the Katangans had driven its soldiers back.

Katanga's makeshift air force of less than 20 planes, manned by about 20 hired foreign fliers, was a major factor.

Despite the council's instructions to prevent civil war, the U.N. office in the Congolese capital of Leopoldville last July made known that the U.N. force would not act to stop the coalition central government from winning back Katanga.

Last Thursday it went even farther. In a report to U.N. headquarters, the officer-in-charge, Sture Linner of Sweden, said he had warned the Katangans the U.N. force would shoot down their military planes if they kept on bombing central government troops in Kasai Province, staging area for the Katanga invasion.

President Moise Tshombe of Katanga left Geneva Sunday night for the Congo after a week of medical examination. He said his troops are prepared to defend their province against the invaders and do not need white mercenaries.

"We are strong enough without them," Tshombe declared.

In Elisabethville, capital of Katanga, army chief of staff Joseph Yav said his force's only casualties in the border fighting were three slightly injured. But Associated Press correspondent Colin Frost, after a flight in a Katanga plane to the frontier region, reported: "Even on its so-far limited scale, the border war has been fought with a ferocity commonplace in the Congo."

Frost reported a U.N. estimate of 200 whites in the air force is not accurate, that there are about 20 Belgian, South African, Rhodesian, French and Canadian pilots, a handful of professional ground crewmen and a volunteer force of Belgian farmers living in Katanga who help with the servicing.

"I haven't been paid in four months so you could hardly call me a mercenary," one of the pilots told Frost.

Supreme Court Refuses To Review Censor Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court refused today to review a lower court decision that a movie censorship law in Pennsylvania is unconstitutional.

The refusal means that the decision, made by the Pennsylvania Supreme Court, is permitted to stand.

The censorship law called for approval of films by a three-member board appointed by the governor. Anyone showing a disapproved film could be fined and jailed.

The state court held that the law "plainly violates" federal and state constitutions. The state government appealed on the ground the decision gave a clear road to "smutmongers."

As is usual, the U.S. Supreme Court gave no reason for its refusal to grant the state a review.

Other actions by the high tribunal today were mostly of regional or limited interest. Among other things, the court:

Denied a review to Walter J. Hammil, a circus roustabout sentenced to death for the killing of an 11-year-old boy in Denver, Colo., Aug. 27, 1958.

Refused for the second time to review the trial of Ronald Lee Wolfe, under death sentence for the rape of an eight-year-old girl in Troy, Mo. The refusal was without prejudice to a habeas corpus petition now pending in U.S. District Court in Missouri.

Set Jan. 8 for hearing arguments on a dispute among southwest states over use of the waters of the Colorado River.

Talks Recessed

NEW YORK (AP) — Lengthy peace talks in a Teamsters Union strike that has caused a 13-day milk drought in the city and on Long Island were recessed early today after management negotiators claimed exhaustion.

Rusk Returns From Asian Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk has returned from what he termed successful conferences with leaders in Japan and South Korea.

Rusk, Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg and Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges arrived Sunday night after a week in the Far East.

Rusk said three days of economic meetings with Japanese leaders at Hakone were very useful and very successful.

Rusk held a news conference during a stopover at Anchorage, Alaska. He said Berlin "is not lost and not going to be lost." The situation in Laos will require further planning, he said.

'Minute Men' Plan Meetings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The leader of a group known as Minute Men, intended for civil defense in event of a Communist invasion or takeover, plans a 10-day series of meetings with followers on the West Coast.

Robert B. DePugh said the wildcat organization's only purpose is to promote civil defense at the grass roots and to train civilians in event of war or insurrection.

Picking Slowed But Cotton Has Not Been Hurt

Other than for slowing down picking, the chilly weather of recent days has not caused any important damage to cotton, in the opinion of area farmers.

The chill and damp has kept the pickers out of the field and this, of course, is not pleasing to the growers. The dampness which came last week has probably increased the spottiness of the lint to some degree but the damage will not be too costly.

The light freeze which occurred last week was not strong enough to rate as a killing frost and did not cause any trouble. The cool weather hanging on has been detrimental to the ripening of late cotton and by that delay has increased the danger of loss later on when the first real killing frost hits.

Temperature on Sunday night did not fall below 36 degrees. Sunday was cold and there were occasional light sprinkles.

R. Wiley Gets Stay

AUSTIN (AP)—Gov. Price Daniel granted today the customary 30-day stay of execution to Roosevelt Wiley, Negro hitchhiker convicted of the knife slaying of milk truck driver.

Wiley's execution date was moved from Dec. 12 to Jan. 14.

A Johnson County jury sentenced Wiley in the murder of L. H. Canada, Oct. 24, 1958. The truck driver's body was found near a highway about 10 miles southeast of Sterling City.

Scandinavia Gets Fallout

WASHINGTON (AP)—The fallout cloud created by Russia's 50-megaton superbomb blast of last Monday rolled across the North Atlantic and over Scandinavia today, the U.S. Weather Bureau reported.

The bureau estimated that jet windstreams six miles above the earth would whip the nuclear debris back over the Soviet Union later in the day and thus complete a circling of the globe.

The cloud was expected to move well north of Moscow, but Leningrad was within its path.

From its origin in the Novaya Zemlya area of Siberia a week ago, it had drifted across the Pacific and over much of Alaska, southern Canada, and the northern rim of the United States.

Most of the nuclear debris from the Soviet test is believed to have been hurled high into the stratosphere from which it may not descend until next spring.

Rayburn Is Improved

BONHAM (AP) — A slight improvement was reported today in the condition of House Speaker Sam Rayburn, 79, ill with cancer.

A morning hospital bulletin read:

"The speaker continues to be weak, but better than yesterday. Condition still serious."

He had a poached egg, bacon and toast for breakfast.

The speaker's physician, Dr. Joe Risser, said Rayburn inquired if Bonham's weekly cattle was being held today.

He said the 79-year-old Texas Democrat "was less alert to what was happening about him" than he had been. His condition remained serious.

Hospital Board Names Chairman

AUSTIN (AP) — Houston contractor Howard Tellepsen was elected chairman today for the State Board for Hospitals and Special Schools.

He succeeds French Robertson of Abilene who last week was named a University of Texas regent.

W. G. Kirkland of Odessa was named vice chairman.

Kennedy Makes Bureau Official

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—President Kennedy signed an executive order Sunday directing Secretary of State Dean Rusk to create the Agency for International Development.

The action, making the agency official, puts practically all foreign aid functions under a single roof.

The new agency is already functioning with Fowler Hamilton, New York attorney, as its administrator.

The last session of Congress created the agency to take over the functions of the Development Loan Fund, the International Cooperation Administration and other foreign aid matters.

2 Children Die, 3 Adults Survive Crash Of Plane

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP)—The wreckage of a small, light plane with five South Texans, including two children, aboard was spotted today northwest of the Santa Fe Airport.

State police reported there were three survivors. State Police Chief K. K. Miller said two children were reported killed in the crash.

The plane crashed about three miles southwest of a new sewage disposal plant in southwest Santa Fe.

Miller reported the plane crashed on mesa ridge and ground crews had to walk into the wreckage.

The pilot was identified by the Federal Aviation Agency as James L. Stover of Houston. The four passengers were identified as Mr. and Mrs. Wilson R. Bond and their two children, Laurie Lee, 2, and Tracey Lynn, 1, of Baytown.

The Cessna 182 aircraft was reported downed Sunday night north of the Santa Fe County Municipal Airport about 12 miles southwest of here.

Tower personnel at the airport said Stover asked for landing instructions about 6:30 p.m. The yellow plane circled the field once then made a wrong turn on its approach and disappeared over a hill north of the runway.

State police said the terrain in the area was rugged with a number of deep arroyos.

Ground search parties continued to search through the night although their effort were hampered by a steady snowfall in the area.

Officials said the plane was on a flight from Houston to Santa Fe.

The FAA reported that all airports in the area were checked after radio contact was lost with the plane.

Visibility was listed as poor when the air search for the missing plane got under way today.

Reds Turn Tests Into Propaganda

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviets have issued a veiled warning that further nuclear testing by the United States and its allies may compel the Soviet Union to prolong its program of tests, still numerically behind the West.

President Kennedy's announcement last Thursday that the United States is getting ready for possible resumption of atmospheric tests was the target of a statement issued Sunday by the official Soviet news agency Tass.

"The statement by the United States president does not meet half way the desires of those who are sincerely pressing for an end to the nuclear arms race," Tass said. "To the underground tests of nuclear weapons which are already being staged in the United States, nuclear tests in the atmosphere are to be added as soon as the U.S. government regards this as necessary.

"In the case of continuation of nuclear tests by the United States of America and its allies, all the more in the case of resumption of American nuclear tests to the atmosphere, the other side will watch these military preparations, primarily the steps in improving nuclear weapons, because it cannot permit the occurrence of such a situation in which the interests of its security would not be reliably ensured.

"This other side again will have to draw the appropriate conclusions for itself with regard to nuclear weapons tests. It gives without saying that full responsibility for the continuation of the nuclear arms race and for the holding of nuclear tests will be borne then by the United States government."

The warning was coupled with another call for a general and complete disarmament Friday, long proposed by Premier Khrushchev, and a reiteration that the Soviet Union is ready to ditch all its nuclear weapons if other nations do the same.

The statement said such a treaty should provide for "most strict international control." It did not elaborate. The Soviet Union in the past has rejected proposals to establish what the Western allies consider would be an adequate inspection system before conclusion of a disarmament treaty.

"Tass has been authorized to announce that the leading circles of the Soviet Union reaffirm the readiness of the Soviet government to sign even today a treaty on general and complete disarmament, on the basis of such nuclear weapons tests to be ended for all time," the agency said.

"Is the government of the United States, with President J. Kennedy at its head, ready to say that? The peoples are entitled to expect an answer to this question."

The United States and its allies have staged considerably more tests than the Soviet Union, the statement said, and this gave "complete moral justification" for the Soviet test program launched Sept. 1. The series included detonation of one device of 50-plus megatons.

The U.S. Atomic Energy Commission said the Soviet Union had set off 55 announced tests prior to the present series, in which there have been 31, making a total of 86. The U.S. total, including four in the current underground series, is 157. Britain has fired 22 and France 4.

Politicos May Share Election Spoils Evenly

NEW YORK (AP) —Democrats and Republicans appeared likely today to share evenly in the spoils from two major election contests Tuesday that might have a bearing on 1962 and 1964 national races.

The Democrats went into these final battles, in New York City and New Jersey, with a weekend victory that demonstrated their party label represents money in the political bank in Texas when matched man-for-man against the kind of GOP conservatism represented by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Henry B. Gonzalez, a liberal Democrat who won a special congressional race from Republican John Goode Jr., in San Antonio, Tex., Saturday flew to New York to help Democratic Mayor Robert F. Wagner's bid for re-election. Gonzalez planned appeals to Spanish-speaking voters.

There was not much indication that Wagner needed Gonzalez' efforts to win over Republican State Atty. Jouis J. Lefkowitz and City Comptroller Lawrence E. Gerosa, a Democrat running as an independent.

Gonzalez had said he hoped to campaign also in New Jersey for Democrat Richard J. Hughes in his contest with Republican James P. Mitchell for the governorship. But New Jersey Democratic leaders didn't show much enthusiasm for this idea. Hughes has canceled his remaining campaign appearances in view of the death of his 85-year-old father Sunday.

President Kennedy, former President Harry S. Truman and former President Dwight D. Eisenhower all have had a hand in the New York City and New Jersey contests. Kennedy gave a long-distance endorsement to Gonzalez and Eisenhower campaigned personally in Texas for Goode.

The President seemed likely to field a left-handed victory if Wagner wins re-election in New York City, as now expected. This would tend to simplify Kennedy's problems in dealing with the divided Democrats of the state.

In New Jersey the journeys of the political Mohammeds to the mountains seemed to have had little outward affect on the outcome of a race for governor. Kennedy, Eisenhower and Truman all visited the state with receptions that varied in enthusiasm.

Supporters of Hughes were predicting that their candidate would win by a whisker. Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., said he is willing to bet that an upset is in the making and Hughes will be the winner.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said in a separate interview he is confident Mitchell, Eisenhower's former secretary of labor, will take it handily. Sam Zagoria, Mitchell's campaign manager, predicted a 100,000 margin for his candidate out of an expected 2,225,000 vote.

Elsewhere there were contests of compelling local interest but of little national significance.

New York State will elect 470 mayors. Michigan will fill a vacated Democratic congressional seat. Pennsylvania will pick a State Supreme Court judge and Kentucky will elect 100 state representatives and 38 state senators.

In Ohio, Cleveland's Democratic Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze is seeking a fifth term. The state votes on four constitutional amendments.

Storm Kills 34 In Athens Area

ATHENS (AP) — Torrential rains, hail and hurricane-force winds lashed the Athens area for four hours early today, leaving behind 34 dead, at least 50 missing, 300 injured and 3,000 homeless.

The storm, the worst in memory, crumbled houses and turned streets into rivers more than 8 feet deep.

The storm broke about 3 a.m. and subsided about 7.

"A biblical deluge," said one police officer directing rescue operations.

Storm damage was also reported in other parts of Greece, but details were lacking.

Gonzalez Goes To N. York To Repay Help From Party

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Henry Gonzalez, this city's first new congressman in 23 years, went to the aid of the party today, the same Democratic Party that came to his aid last week.

Gonzalez flew to New York Sunday night to join in campaigning for reelection of Mayor Robert Wagner.

Meanwhile, his Saturday election over Republican John Goode Jr. and three other Democrats kicked up a fuss over its significance. Gonzalez sail former President Eisenhower's visit here in Goode's behalf backfired to become Democratic advantage.

Gonzalez called his victory "a vote of confidence in the New Frontier program and above all in the Democratic Party." He will succeed Democrat Paul Kilday, who resigned as a member of the House after 23 years to become a judge of the U.S. Court of Military Appeals.

During a stop in Dallas Sunday night en route to New York, Gonzalez said:

"Up to that time (Eisenhower's appearance) the National Democratic headquarters hadn't realized what I knew and had said all the time—the Republicans were trying to make this election a national issue.

"After the Republicans brought in their 50-megaton bomb, people started getting agitated. Frankly, I was scared. But money started coming in that I never dreamed we would get for the campaign."

Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey called the vote a "clear-cut test of strength between the President's supporters and his foes."

"The Democratic victory is also a rebuke to those who sought to inject racial issues into the campaign and a hopeful harbinger that religious and racial prejudice is on the wane in American politics," Bailey said.

Goode said the Democrats, particularly Vice President Lyndon Johnson, were the only ones who raised the race issue.

"I was a little bit shocked to hear my vice president inject the racial and national origin issue into a campaign in which they were not originally issues," he said.

Johnson, who endorsed Gonzalez and then flew here for three days of campaigning with him, had urged voters to prove "that a man can be elected to the U.S. Congress in spite of his race" by electing Gonzalez.

State Republican Chairman Tad Smith said the election, in which Gonzalez received 52,855 votes to 42,553 for Goode and about 1,500 for the other Democrats, "indicates that never again will they be able to take any race in Texas for granted."

DEAR ABBY
A Little Child Who Knows—

DEAR ABBY: In your column a woman wrote that she would like to know who God is. God is a spirit. Just as beautiful and wonderful as He can be. God made all things out of nothing. God is everywhere. God had no beginning. He always was and He always will be.

I am in the second grade. I am seven years old and my name is MARY MARGARET GOFF

DEAR MARY MARGARET: Your letter is a treasure and I hope you don't mind my printing it. I want my readers to see for themselves that in these troubled times there are children who are still being raised properly.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I've been going to this doctor for several weeks and I like him more every time I see him. I could easily love him, and I have reason to believe that his interest in me is more than professional. How can I find out if it is only his wonderful bedside manner or if he cares for me? I don't want to do anything bold or unethical. He is unmarried and so am I. He would make a dream husband. Also tell me how I can get rid of his nurse. She sticks to him like glue.

COULD CARE

DEAR COULD: Unless the doctor asks to see you socially, be assured that his interest in you is strictly professional. Don't attempt to "get rid" of his nurse. Her presence is necessary.

DEAR ABBY: My boy friend and I have gone steady for a year. I am 15 and he is 18. He has enlisted in the Army and is due to be called soon. He said that when he goes into the Army he wants us to break up. He feels it would be unfair to me to be tied down to a fellow who isn't around. He wants me to go with others and have fun. He says I am too young to promise to "wait for him." I am sure he is the one for me and I want to wait for him. I know I couldn't enjoy the company of another boy. What should I do?

SOLDIER'S GIRL

DEAR SOLDIER'S GIRL: Do as he says, and go with others while he is gone. If there is faithfulness in your heart it will remain there until he returns. Better test it. You are only 15 and too young to wear a reserved sign.

CONFIDENTIAL TO MINNIE: Sorry, but his net income does not make up for his gross immaturity. Lose him.

FAITH AND OBEDIENCE

By T. H. Tarbet, preacher, Church of Christ, 2500 West Highway 80 P.O. Box 1383.

Faith and obedience go together. While Paul teaches we are not saved by the works of the law nor the works of human merit; James shows we are saved by the works of obedience.

"Was not Abraham our father justified by works when he had offered Isaac his son upon the altar? Seest thou how faith wrought with his works, and by works was faith made perfect? And the Scripture was fulfilled which saith, Abraham believed God, and it was imputed to him for righteousness: and he was called the Friend of God." (James 2:21-23.)

So, instead of his works of obedience nullifying his faith, it made Abraham's faith perfect. His obedience fulfilled the Scripture which said his faith was imputed unto him for righteousness.

Thus, his obedience was faith; faith in action. So it is with the sinner seeking justification. His repentance, confession of Christ, and baptism, is his faith in action. Verses 26 and 27 of Galations 3, taken together, show that we are saved by faith because of our baptism.

Kennedy's Reply To Dealey Given

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—The Chattanooga Times has published what it said was part of President Kennedy's reply when Texas publisher E. M. (Ted) Dealey sharply castigated the President at a recent White House luncheon.

Dealey, publisher of the Dallas Morning News, attended the luncheon Oct. 27 of 19 Texas publishers and editors with the President.

Among the statements the publisher said he made to Kennedy were: "We need a man on horseback to lead this nation and many people in Texas and the Southwest think that you are riding Caroline's tricycle.

"The general opinion of the grass-roots thinking in this country is that you and your administration are weak sisters."

The Times, in a story by its Washington correspondent, Charles Bartlett, said, "There was no transcript of the luncheon . . . but the President's reply, a spontaneous expression of his basic philosophy, has been partially reconstructed from the recollections of some of those who were present."

The story said, "Dealey's interruption came suddenly toward the close of the meal and there was a dead silence after he finished his lengthy indictment. The President, challenged for the first time at his own table, began his reply in a low voice.

"He said that everyone was entitled to his own opinions in this country and that this was a healthy thing. 'But the difference between you and me, Mr. Dealey,' Kennedy continued, 'is that I was elected president of this country and you were not. I have the responsibility for the lives of 180 million Americans, which you have not.' "

The President told the publisher, the Times said, "If the American people want to make another decision in 1964, it will be all right but that while he is President, he intends to be certain that the nation's vital interests and its security are at stake before he puts the lives of the people in jeopardy from a nuclear exchange."

"The President said he had observed that men tend to like the idea of war until they have tasted it but that they quickly get enough of it," the story continued, then quoted Kennedy as saying:

"Wars are easier to talk about than they are to fight. I'm just as tough as you are, Mr. Dealey, and I didn't get elected President by arriving at soft judgments.' "

The newspaper claimed, "Several of the Texas publishers have expressed their embarrassment over the outburst in editorials and in private letters to the White House."

"One account of the luncheon," the Times said, "published by Pat Taggart of the Waco News-Tribune, reported a chorus of 'no, no' after Dealey finished his statement."

The newspaper claimed one publisher of six Southwestern dailies, C. C. Woodson, was quoted as saying: "Ted, you're leading the worst Fascist movement in the Southwest and you don't realize that nobody else is with you."

The Ministry of Oil and Gas offered Bashir the post of caretaker at a salary of $60 a month with a pension when he retires.

Bashir, who recently visited the United States, has said he was making twice that much as a camel driver.

"Kissies", the doll that kisses back.

"Tiny Tears", the ever-popular baby doll that comes in a variety of sizes.

For boys there is the new line of Elliot Ness "Untouchable" toys which includes gun and holster sets and the interesting "Untouchable" games and play sets.

Jones Changes With The Times

Cars—and the facilities for servicing them-have changed a lot since Relerce Jones put in his first day of work at a service station back in 1928.

Those might have been the good old days in some ways but few people would want to trade the sleek, efficiently performing automobiles of today for the unsure operation of those earlier models.

Like anything else, you get out of a car what you put into it. Jones says, "You can't go wrong by treating your car right with time-tested Chevron products."

Jones runs the Standard Service Station on East 3rd at Nolan, across from the city auditorium. Being on a main traffic artery, it's a convenient place to stop on the way downtown. Attendants there know that busy people are in a hurry; gas tanks are filled, oil and water checked and windshields cleaned as quickly as possible so you can be on your way with confidence in your car.

Businessmen can go on to the office, and leave their cars with Jones for one of the best wash and lubrication jobs in town. (Or ladies can do the same while they spend a morning shopping.)

"We don't do half-way work," said Jones. "Your car will be really clean and you'll wonder where the squeaks went."

The big news there now is the "Football Special" This is the bargain deal where a new battery, absolutely free, is given to each customer who purchases a set of Atlas tires. Winter weather is no time to be caught with a weak battery or tread-bare tires. Have both checked now; cold, wet weather is just ahead.

Car accessories cost so little for the convenience they provide. For instance, a handy spray deicer to use on windshield and windows sure beats the old-fashioned scraping method that can mar the glass and fray tempers.

Jones can supply headlamps, chrome polish, liquid car wash or cooling system sealer. He invites all his old friends to visit at the new location. Stop for Standard products under the sign of your Chevron dealer, Relerce Jones.

Stalin Painted Out Of Picture

MOSCOW (AP) — Stalin has been painted right out of the picture in Moscow's big Metropole Hotel.

For years a picture hung in the lobby showed Lenin seated at a table reading from his works to Stalin.

When the dictator was denounced at the recent Soviet Communist party congress, an artist was called in to touch it up.

Now Lenin sits reading to a big empty chair draped with a white dust cover.

Thugs Terrorize Shoppers In Holdup

DALLAS (AP) — Trigger-happy masked men held up an Arcadia Park supermart Sunday night, terrorized clerks, shoppers and children with gunfire and escaped with a sackful of cash.

The bizarre holdup left cashier Mrs. Tessie Case, 44, and sackboy O. C. Wilkerson, 18, thankful they had escaped death.

One bandit fired a pistol just inches from Mrs. Case. His pal pulled the trigger of his pistol aimed at Wilkerson's head but the weapon clicked harmlessly.

BUTTER-CREAM FROSTING
. . . smooth as a pastry chef's

Smooth Frosting Can Be Made By Amateurs

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

We're often asked how to make frosting with which bakery-bought birthday cakes are usually covered.

Here's one way. For this recipe, you make a syrup with sugar, water and cream of tartar, and add it to egg yolks before beating in the butter and flavoring.

Be a taste-tester while you add the flavoring so that you put in just the right amount—your own judgment is needed here because the amount will depend on the quality of the butter and your preference.

BUTTER-CREAM CHOCOLATE-MINT CAKE

1 pkg. (1 lb., 3 oz.) chocolate-mint cake mix
¾ cup sugar
¼ cup water
⅛ tsp. cream of tartar
5 egg yolks
1 cup sweet butter
Vanilla, rum or brandy flavoring
Chocolate leaf cookies (if available)

Make up the chocolate mint cake according to package directions, baking it in a 13 by 9 by 2 inch pan. Have cake cold before frosting.

Stir together the sugar, water and cream of tartar in a saucepan and bring to a boil. Boil rapidly until the syrup spins a light thread (236 degrees on a candy thermometer).

Beat egg yolks until they begin to get thick; gradually beat in hot syrup; continue to beat until thick and cool.

Beat butter until fluffy; gradually beat into the syrup-yolk mixture. Beat in flavoring to taste.

Spread over top and sides of chocolate-mint cake; garnish with chocolate leaves if used.

Note: Chocolate leaf cookies may be bought by the pound in some fancy pastry shops; they also come packaged and may be available in a food-delicacy market.

Brown, Crusty

It's a good idea to brush refrigerator rolls (made with a yeast dough) with melted butter before they go into the oven.

HOLLYWOOD BEAUTY

Gets Help From A Philosophy Of Diet

By LYDIA LANE

HOLLYWOOD — Four years ago Joan Fontaine decided that she would photograph better if she were thinner. She weighed 118 and wanted to be 110. To take off excess weight is one thing, but to thin down for an ideal is much more difficult.

Recently I visited Joan on the "Tender Is the Night" set and found she had not gained any of this weight back.

"I think Alfred Hitchcock's dieting philosophy helped me more than anything," she began. "If he has a craving for something too rich or too sweet to be on his diet, he takes one taste of it. He tells himself that the flavor in his mouth came from the last bite and not the first. In his imagination he relives the pleasure of this food, and I tried it and found that it really works. You have the taste in your mouth and not your stomach.

"There is no use suffering! If you work at it, you can eat less without having to exert too much discipline. I drink wine before dinner because it doesn't create a false appetite the way a cocktail does.

"My doctor told me that if I craved starches, I should go on a binge of carbohydrates. And he said that if I eat pasta, rice and bread not to mix them with fat. He feels that when you mix fat and carbohydrates at the same time that you gain more quickly.

"One of the worst things," Joan continued, "is to allow your weight to have violent fluctuations so that you are taking off pounds and eating them on again. Your skin has just so much elasticity in it. Think what a feast and famine diet does to it!

"I have decided there is no reason today to show your age. A century ago a woman of 30 wore a bonnet and was considered middle aged. That is not so today. I know a beauty who is 60 and a dame fatale. Men adore her. This particular star has a wonderful figure. She eats butter to keep her skin lubricated from the inside and she never goes on blitz diets. But she is very good about not eating when she is not hungry. It's the food you eat that you don't need that makes you overweight. But you must discipline yourself to have good habits, and to stay young you have to have an open point of view."

We talked about the fear some women have of growing old.

"That's dreadful," Joan exclaimed. "Naturally every woman wants to look as young as possible, but no one should fear old age. There's something attractive about a woman who has lived and learned by her mistakes. Usually this shows in her face, but these are character lines and nothing to be ashamed of. No one should cling to immaturity, but it is amusing to be mature and look young. When or if I need to, and really want to, I will not hesitate to have my face lifted. They do wonderful work today. As one famous beauty said, 'I wouldn't wear a dress with wrinkles, why a face?' "

"But youth isn't entirely in the face," I remarked. "You have to have an agile body, too."

"True," Joan agreed. "But that's no problem if you exercise. And you feel so much better when you are active, and it's so good for your circulation. I like sports, but I must confess that I'm not too fond of exercising on a hard floor."

Joan seemed happier and more relaxed than I had ever known her to be.

"I've learned the pleasure of making an effort to help someone else," she smiled. "When you give of yourself, you hear an inner music, a joy that is never there when you concentrate on selfish goals. We are told that it is more joyous to give than receive, but advice such as this has to be experienced to have meaning.

"Another thing that has helped me was the discovery that you can't worry about what other people think. You know in your heart if your motive is worthy, and if you do your best, learn not to be unhappy when people criticize you. There will always be gossips, but try not to let them have any power over you," Joan said in conclusion.

HOW TO STAY YOUNG

Indications of age in a woman are crowsfeet around the eyes and mouth, the neck area and the hands—and lack of muscular flexibility. Although one cannot eliminate these by a miracle, one can take 10 years off by correct exercising, skillful make-up and the use of corrective cosmetics. Leaflet M-40, "How to Stay Young," gives simple and effective advice. For your copy of this important leaflet, send only 10 cents and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Lydia Lane, Hollywood Beauty, Big Spring Herald.

Four Fined For Theft

Four Latin Americans from Ackerly, who were arrested by police early Saturday morning and charged with theft of car mirrors and hub caps, were tried in County Court Monday morning and fined $50 each. Two boys with them were turned over to the juvenile officer.

Jose Salazar, Francisco Salazar, Domingo Trevino, and Bill Trevino Jr., pleaded guilty in Judge Ed Carpenter's County Court to charges of theft under $50.

The six were arrested Saturday morning following a call from a man at the Wyoming Hotel who saw them removing a side mirror from his car. He gave police a description of the car they were driving which led to their apprehension on the North Side.

Teachers Push Special Program On Education

Parents of children in local schools have an opportunity to learn more about education this week through a special program planned by teachers for American Education Week which began today.

A newsletter will be sent to parents along with report cards Wednesday giving pertinent information about schools, according to Harold Bentley, president of the local Texas State Teacher's Association.

Daily broadcasts of tapes over local radio stations and a panel discussion over the television station Saturday are other highlights of the effort to disseminate information about the work of our schools.

A special feature of the week's program is a talent show sponsored by the Classroom Teacher's Association. It will be held at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at the High School auditorium.

The program will include musical presentations by local talent and Ira Schantz, from Howard County Junior College, will present the HCJC Quartet and Sextet.

The public is invited to the show. There is no admission charge.

First ROW Trial To Begin Tuesday

A county court jury panel is to report at 9 a.m. Tuesday to serve in the trial of a right-of-way appeals case before Judge Ed Carpenter.

The state of Texas is the appellant in the case holding that a special commission designated to set damages and valuations on a tract of land owned by Clarence Thompson had submitted an excessively high figure.

The 3.975 acres involved is on US 87 north of the city limits. It is part of the right of way that the state is obtaining to enable the highway department to rebuild the road into a four-lane route.

The suit is one of half a dozen which Ed Carpenter, county judge, had hoped he would be able to try this week. The cases are all appeal actions brought by the state on the heels of a report by the special commissioners.

Due to an error in the time allowed in notifying the defendants of the pending hearing, the Thompson case is the only one ready for trial. The others will have to be heard later.

Meantime, the four county commissioners are in Austin today for a conference with officials of the state hospital board on another phase of the right-of-way problem. The Big Spring Hospital owns a strip of land needed for the road. So far the hospital and the county have been unable to agree on a fair price for the land. The state hospital wants two buildings, which are near the boundary of the hospital and close to the road if the highway is widened, moved back to a greater distance. The county contends that removal of the buildings would be excessively expensive and above the amount of money allocated for the job.

Because the land is owned by the state and not an individual there is no way for the county or the State Highway Department to condemn the tract and get possession of the needed land by that course.

ON THE SHELF

STORMY PASSAGE. By W. S. Woytinsky. Vanguard. $10.

Written in the form of an autobiography, here is the story of a gigantic figure in modern times.

Beginning life as a precocious student in St. Petersburg, Woytinsky was a socialist, anti-Tsarist revolutionary in the days following the Russian upheaval of 1905. He took part in the critical days of 1917 as a major figure in the attempts to bring a representative form of government to Russia in the spring of that year, only to suffer defeat in the months that followed. As he says, no one realized how late it was in history. He fought the rise of the Lenin element as it overcame the faction-ridden government of Kerensky.

He was a socialist who broke was a socialist who broke with the Bolsheviks—who soon took the name of Communists—on the issues of national defense and a sensible government. Often a political prisoner, a man who had come back from Siberia to work untiringly for what he believed, he became eventually an exile abroad, an internationally known economist who ended his days in America with scholarly works.

The principal interest in this book lies in the 1917 episodes, and the author conducts us on a first-hand tour of the horrors and illogical nightmares of the Russian political vacuum — making the point that a representative form of government, with a little luck, might have survived the attacks of the Communists in those fateful days.

The book is long and rambling, a circumstance which discourages the casual reader. But it is a living history by a man who was in the thick of momentous developments, and as such it is compelling and important.

Cox Calls Vote A 'Good Sign'

DALLAS (AP)—Jack Cox, who wants to be Republican candidate for governor next year, said today the result of Saturday's San Antonio congressional election was "a good sign."

Henry Gonzalez, a liberal Democrat, won out over Republican John Goode.

"I think it's a good sign," Cox said by telephone from his Breckenridge home. "It's remarkable that John Goode, a young man who never ran for public office could poll over 42,000 votes in a county where there are so many controlled, bloc votes."

The former conservative Democrat said that he thought rather than hurt his chances next year, the result would help. The fact that the Republican ran strong in a traditionally Democratic county, he said, will make the GOP work even harder around the state.

"It indicated to me the Republican party is certainly on the move, even in some counties where the odds are very much against them," he said.

Republican National Chairman William Miller in Washington accused Vice President Lyndon Johnson of inserting the race issue in the campaign.

The vice president's appeal to the voters to prove a Latin American could be elected, Miller said, constituted "a low type of politics below the dignity" of his office.

Republican chairman Tad Smith said:

"The Kennedy administration had the pants scared off of them."

Sen. John Tower, R-Tex., said the results were "not any cause for disappointment." He pointed out that the Republicans polled 44 per cent of the vote in a district which has not sent a Republican to Congress in 28 years.

Half Wagon, Will Travel

Greta, a nine-year-old Dachshund, is sort of half dog and half wagon. With her hind quarters paralyzed by a slipped disc, Greta gets around with the aid of a contraption that looks like a sulky used in harness racing. Seven years ago veterinarians wouldn't give Greta much chance of survival but she has little trouble romping with the neighborhood dogs. Greta is the pet of Mr. and Mrs. George C. Doherty of Jacksonville, Fla.

The Man On The Left Won

Democratic State Sen. Henry B. Gonzalez, left, and Republican John Goode Jr. are shown as they voted in San Antonio in the special election in which they sought San Antonio's Congressional seat that was vacated by Rep. Paul Kilday. Gonzalez, liberal Democrat, won by a margin of 10,000 votes.

N.Y. Mayor Candidates Are In Horatio Alger Tradition

NEW YORK (AP)—The major candidates for mayor in Tuesday's election all have family backgrounds in the Horatio Alger tradition of rising from poverty to position. All are sons of immigrants.

Mayor Robert F. Wagner, 51, a Democrat running for a third four-year term, represents a second generation of the tradition.

His father, the late Sen. Robert F. Wagner Sr., sponsor of the New Deal's Wagner Labor Relations Act, came here from Germany as a boy, sold newspapers and then worked as a bellhop to put himself through college and become a successful lawyer.

He was able to send his son to Taft School, Yale, the Harvard School of Business Administration, the School of International Relations at Geneva, and Yale Law School.

State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz, 57, the Republican candidate, grew up in grinding poverty on the Lower East Side. He worked his way through Fordham Law School and sent his son, Stephen, to Yale and Harvard Law School.

City Comptroller Lawrence E. Gerosa, 67, a Democrat running as an independent, was born in Italy and came to the United States at the age of 19 months, son of a fruit farmer. He has become a millionaire as a trucking contractor.

Lefkowitz' father, Samuel, an immigrant from Hungary, was a vest maker in a clothing factory. His mother, from Austria, helped the family's meager income by cutting quills from feathers for use in pillows.

Lefkowitz himself went to work summers at the age of 12, lugging bundles for a garment district dress house.

"They gave me a dime for my fare," he recalls. "Generally, if the bundle wasn't too big, I saved the dime by walking the errand—20, maybe 30, blocks. At 13 I worked in a sweatshop, making buttons—and then delivering them."

Later he went to work as a law clerk at $8 a week and was on his way.

Gerosa began working at the age of 11 in a glass factory and then became a Western Union messenger.

He started in business on his own by operating what he calls the first truck freight service between New York and Philadelphia. It consisted of one truck and one driver—Gerosa.

"It had oil lamps and solid tires," he reminisces. "I used to hang my left hand out the window so the cold would keep me awake."

He was 18 then. The business, now the Gerosa Hauling & Warehouse Norp., operates 50 trucks and does a gross business of $25 million to $50 million a year. He still owns a third of the stock but has accepted no earnings from it since he became city comptroller in 1953.

His business background on top of bookkeeping experience gained in night school has made him economy minded and earned him repute as a watchdog of the city treasury.

Gerosa is not tight-fisted with his own money. He entertains generously. But if a guest orders a second cup of coffee and doesn't drink it, he may frown. He doesn't like waste.

Bean Trial Opens Tuesday Morning

Frankie Lee Bean, charged with habitual burglary, will be called to trial at 10 a.m. Tuesday as the No. 1 case when the current week of jury trials opens in 118th District Court.

His case was set down to open the docket by Judge Ralph Caton at the Monday morning arraignment session of the court.

Charles Glenn Connolly, indicted for incest and rape, will be the No. 2 defendant to go to trial.

Andrew Garcia Perez, charged with being an exconvict apprehended in possession of a pistol, is next to be tried; Geraldine Bush, theft from person and habitual theft, is No. 4.

Other cases in the order they are to come for trial:

W. C. Jackson, worthless check, two charges of forgery and passing, and theft over $50; Arthur Downs, forgery; Perry Connell, worthless check; Claudie C. Aaron, murder by automobile; Jim Buck Matthews, murder by automobile; and W. P. Land, indecent exposure.

Catarino Silva, charged with DWI second offense, pleaded guilty Monday and his punishment was fixed at a year in jail, probated, and a fine of $200. J. N. Lane, indicted for DWI second offense, pleaded guilty and was fined $200 and placed on 18 months probation.

Waiting to plead was Orville Houston Thomas, indicted for theft over $50. Announced by his attorney as intending to plead guilty was Alex Gonzales, charged with possession of narcotics.

A panel of 125 jurors is to report at 10 a.m. Tuesday. Judge Caton indicated he would continue court through Friday in an effort to dispose of as many of these cases as possible.

Self Protection Course Slated

Self defense measures to be taken in the event of assault, will be taught to women in a course starting Friday at the YMCA, according to Joe Leach, physical director.

"They can learn how to use their hands, feet, a purse or whatever is available to ward off an attacker," he said. "We certainly hope the women never have to use what they learn here, but if they ever find it necessary, the training would be invaluable."

Jon Webb, a lieutenant at Webb Air Force Base, will instruct the seven-week course. Classes are tentatively scheduled between 5:30-7 p.m. each Friday, but the time could be changed if another hour would be more desirable.

"The course is not one in judo or karate," Lt. Webb said. "It is purely for self-protection."

Various hand holds, crippling blows, physical exercises to keep in condition, and a background of vulnerable parts of the human body will be taught during the seven class periods. Although protection against attack with firearms will be a part of this course, the use of such weapons will not be taught, he said.

Interested persons should contact the Y. The course is free to Y members. There is a $5 charge for non-members. Women under 21 years of age are required to have written permission of their parents or guardian before entry into the class.

LAMESA (SC) — Sheriff Henry Mayfield has announced the appointment of Royce Pruitt, 24, as deputy sheriff of Dawson County.

Pruitt resigned a smiliar post at Garden City to accept the position here. A native of Lovington, N. M., the new deputy attended Odessa schools. He is married and the father of two children. Mayfield has three other deputies.

Ex-Student Group Formed In Lamesa

LAMESA (SC) — An ex-student association has been formed in Lamesa. Tom Koger is the first president and Wayland Reeves was named vice president. Mrs. Jim Hardwick is secretary.

Plans were made to contact as many ex-students as possible by 1962 homecoming. A representative of each class will be selected who will be in charge of contacting members of his class.

Las Vegas Launching Site For Anti-Crime Campaign

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The U.S. Justice Department has picked Las Vegas as the launching site for a new drive against national crime syndicates.

The chairman of the State Gaming Control Board, Ed Olsen of Reno, immediately promised to support the drive. But he said the Washington announcement of the investigation sounded "just a little bit sensational."

Justice Department officials in Washington announced Sunday Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy has ordered a systematic investigation to determine: (1.) The extent to which syndicated crime leaders are using Las Vegas as a meeting place; (2). Whether a race track wire service is being run here for bookmakers throughout the country; (3). The backgrounds of some gambling casino operators.

Olsen said the attorney general has been interested in Nevada for some time "and we've been working in close cooperation with Mr. Kennedy."

"The state is just as interested in uprooting racketeers—if any are here—as he is," Olsen said.

Olsen said his agents—more than 50 of them—"Keep track of national underworld figures that come to Las Vegas."

"If meetings of any significance (involving crime leaders) occurred in Nevada, we'd likely know about them."

Las Vegas has long been under scrutiny of federal agents. But until Congress recently passed legislation directed at syndicates, a Justice Department official said, these agents could do little more than look for hoodlum interests in Las Vegas enterprises and investigate possible income tax violations. The new laws, among other things, prevent racketeers from crossing state lines in pursuit of unlawful activities.

Plebe Returns To West Point

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP) — United States Military Academy plebe Paul M. Weaver II was confined to his quarters today pending investigation of his mysterious flight from the academy Aug. 30.

Weaver, 18, turned up in his hometown of Portsmouth, Ohio, Saturday after hitchhiking about the South and doing odd jobs as he went.

He was returned to West Point Sunday by military officials after his father notified the FBI that he was home.

The father, Paul M. Weaver, said the youth was "bewildered" and had been unaware that he was the object of a nationwide search.

After young Weaver was gone from the academy 30 days, he was dropped from its rolls and declared a deserter—a routine administrative procedure.

Adenauer Nominated

BONN, Germany (AP) — President Heinrich Luebke nominated Konrad Adenauer today for a fourth term as chancellor of West Germany.

The nomination apparently ended successfully the 85-year-old leader's desperate struggle to retain the leadership he first took up 12 years ago.

Luebke made the nomination in a letter to Eugen Gerstenmaier, president of the Bundestag, at the request of Adenauer's Christian Democrat party and the Free Democrats, which agreed Saturday to form a coalition.

The Bundestag will meet Tuesday afternoon to vote.

Adenauer had to sacrifice Foreign Minister Heinrich von Brentano, one of his most faithful lieutenants for the last six years. Brentano resigned last week.

Adenauer's battle to stay in power began Sept. 17 when his Christian Democrats lost their Bungestag majority.

Pleads Guilty

Lee H. Chancellor, charged with DWI, pleaded guilty in Howard County Court Monday morning. He was fined $50 and sentenced to serve three days in the county jail.

They Shall Not Pass . . . Complete

Bill Aldridge (86), big Midland end, poises for a pass downfield, but David Mayberry, Big Spring halfback, comes up fast with paw outstretched to bat down the aerial in last Friday night's game here. Clutch defensive plays such as this, and including a back-breaking interception by Jimmy Gilbert, subdued the Bulldogs 21-14.

Halting Leading Back Is Big Task Facing Steers

Battered but undaunted, the Mighty Mites of Big Spring prepared to dig into the bag of surprises today to see if they can pull out one more for Abilene's Eagles on Friday.

Eight times the Steers have gone to the pole this season as underdogs or no better than an even choice, and seven times they have managed to come out on top. Now they face not only an ancient rival but a stern test when they go to Abilene.

Hopes of victory ride on an extra measure of determination—which already is at a peak—because at best two of the Steers key men will be doubtful starters. Jack Irons, fullback and star linebacker, sustained a hip injury, and Jerry Tucker, the cool cucumber at quarterback and a sparkplug all the way, aggravated an old knee injury. Both may play, but indications Monday was that they would be in a patched-up status.

REPLACEMENTS SHINE

Two of their replacements came through admirable Friday evening against the rugged Midland Bulldogs. Walter Minter made some mistakes in his linebacking but he also made some crucial stops while showing a real aggressive spirit. Dickie Spears ran the fullback post with some of the drive and balance reminiscent of Wayne Fields. Ricky Wisener at quarterback cooly connected for a TD that administered the coup de grace on the Bulldogs.

The biggest job confronting the Steers is stopping Abilene's great Jack Middlebrooks. He is the conference's leading scorer and gainer and Friday against Odessa gained 178 yards on 21 tries. One of his runs was a 67-yard sweep of right end.

Nor is this all, for in Sonny Jones he has an alternate package of dynamite. Jones gained 96 yards in 25 tries and scored the other two touchdowns with runs of 2 and 8 yards. Middlebrooks also bucked over two extra points to bring his season total to 70 points.

WEAK PASSING

One ray of hope in containing the fast Eagle backs is that Abilene so far has not shown a potent aerial game. Against Odessa the Eagles completed but one pass for nine yards, but they ground out 292 on the ground.

Eagle defenses, led by the stellar performance of Phil Brown, contained the Odessa offense to 145 yards on the ground and 43 in the air. Odessa got both of its scores on long dream plays—one a 60 yard pass interception by Bill Rose and the other an 84-yard kickoff return by Martin Benevides. In other words, Odessa couldn't blast its way through and over the Eagle line for scores.

Coach Emmett McKenzie and staff got their scouting report Monday morning from Roy Baird, who has been watching the Eagles. The staff had nothing but praise for the scrappy spirit of their squad.

Pass Was Short, But Won The Game

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — "The pass was far short and appeared certain to be incomplete."

Louisiana State quarterback Lynn Amedee shook his head with disbelief as he discussed the pass which proved to be the pivotal play in LSU's 10-7 upset triumph over second-ranked Mississippi last Saturday night.

Billy Truax, a 220-pound sophomore right end, who was almost held out of competition for a year at the beginning of the season, made a shoestring catch of the six-yard Amedee toss. It was the only completion of four LSU attempts.

The pass came on a fourth and 5 situation on the Rebel 18, late in the third quarter with Ole Miss leading 7-3.

"I just scooped at it and managed to get my hands under the ball a moment before it would have hit the ground," said Truax, 6-foot-5 Gulfport, Miss., resident.

Truax' catch gave the Tigers a first down and three plays later halfback Wendell Harris swept left end for seven yards and the game-winning touchdown.

"Truax' catch won the football game," said LSU Coach Paul Dietzel. "No one else on our team could have made that catch.

"We were going to redshirt him, but I told our coaches that the big rascal would win a game for us somewhere along the line with his hands."

Dietzel drills his ends and halfbacks on different snags and it pays off.

Just before Truax' diving catch, LSU halfback Jerry Stovall found a hole in the Ole Miss forward wall and scooted 57 yards before he was hauled down on the Mississippi 23.

Three plays gained only five yards, and then came the Amedee-to-Truax pass.

To another right end—Wes Sullivan of Ole Miss—went another distinction in the game. Sullivan scored the Rebels' touchdown and became the first Mississippi player to cross the LSU goal line in regular play since 1957.

The 6-foot-1 junior from Mendenhall, Miss., caught a 2-yard toss from substitute quarterback Glynn Griffing in the dying minutes of the first half to put Ole Miss on top temporarily.

Longhorns Win Statistical Debate For No. 1 Position

By The Associated Press

Texas has won the statistical debate—at least for the present—from Alabama as to who should get the No. 1 spot this week among the nation's college football teams.

The Longhorns, the movingest team in college football with 1.7 miles in yardage in seven winning games so far, have the over-all edge on the Crimson Tide, which has also won seven games and can't enhance its reputation much this week against Richmond of the Southern Conference.

The Longhorns should replace fallen Michigan State as the No. 1 team in the next Associated Press poll after the Spartans and second-ranked Mississippi got bitten by the jinx bug last Saturday. The Spartans (5-1) lost their fourth straight game to Minnesota in Minneapolis, 13-0, while Mississippi (6-1) failed to get by Louisiana State in their big one for the third consecutive year, and had its winning string broken at 21 games, 10-7.

Texas, ranked first in over-all offense and with a defense that is as stingy as its offense is mobile, racked up Southern Methodist 27-0 after being ranked third last week. This week the Longhorns, first in the Southwest Conference with a 4-0 mark, go against foe Baylor, gradually working its powerful offense back into condition after being riddled by early season injuries.

Alabama (No. 4), which will play Georgia Tech and Auburn after Richmond and lay its claim to national honors on those games, skipped through Mississippi State 24-0 and took over as solid Southeastern Conference leader with a 5-0 mark. LSU is 4-0.

Texas and Alabama, in addition to Ohio State, which knocked off Iowa 29-13 in a Big Ten battle, Colorado, atop the Big Eight after beating Missouri 7-6, and Georgia Tech, 20-0 victor over Florida in an SEC game, plus Ole Miss, LSU and Minnesota are solid bowl prospects.

Either Ohio State, ranked fifth a week ago, or the defending national champion Gophers, are the Big Ten's current favorites for the Rose Bowl, where Minnesota lost a year ago.

Alabama, if it wins the SEC, will probably be host in the Sugar Bowl, and play Louisiana State or Ole Miss, with the other to test Texas in the Cotton Bowl.

That leaves an opponent for Colorado in the Orange Bowl to be decided as well as places in the Gator, Bluebonnet, Liberty, Gotham and National Trophy bowls.

Minnesota's upset of Michigan State and Ohio State's victory over Iowa put the Big Ten into a two-way tie. Each has a 4-0 record but Minnesota plays one more conference game than Ohio State and the two clubs don't meet. Colorado is 7-0 over-all and leads the Big Eight with a 5-0 record.

Other conference pictures are also clouded. Duke and North Carolina, co-leaders in the Atlantic Coast with 3-1 records, are both outside this week, against Navy and LSU, respectively, but settle things on Nov. 18. The Duke-Navy contest will be this year's Oyster Bowl in Norfolk, Va. Duke suffered a 28-14 loss to Michigan Saturday, while North Carolina surprised Tennessee 22-21.

The Skyline Conference is tied up again after Utah State beat Brigham Young 31-8. Co-leader Wyoming lost to non-conference foe Arizona 20-15 and ends it season this week against New Mexico. The Aggies (4-0-1) play Western Michigan and also have one more conference game.

UCLA climbed atop the Big Five with a 2-0 mark after beating California 35-15 as Southern Cal and Washington played a 0-0 tie. The Uclans tackle non-league foe Texas Christian this week and USC (1-0-1) meets Stanford.

Princeton, after beating Brown 52-0, is 4-0 in the Ivy League and plays Harvard. The Citadel clinched its first Southern Conference title, beating Virginia Military 14-8, and Rutgers, the nation's other major undefeated team, made it 6-0 with a 37-6 victory over Lafayette.

The battle for eastern supremacy remained a race after Syracuse (5-2) rolled over Pitt 28-9 and Maryland beat Penn State 21-17. Navy (5-2) made things even more difficult with a 13-10 upset of Notre Dame.

Revived Baylor To Confront Texas Power

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Writer

Baylor, which once crumbled Texas' fondest dreams, is the next on the list as the mighty Longhorns thunder toward a walkaway Southwest Conference football championship.

It was 1941 when Baylor, loser of four games, rose up to tie Texas and put the skids under a Rose Bowl express. The Longhorns were unbeaten, untied and apparently unworried when they ran into the first thorn along the trail. Next they lost to Texas Christian and that ruined everything.

Texas, winner of seven straight games and pretty well untested thus far, hosts Baylor Saturday. The Golden Bears, who have won three and lost three, showed first indications of righting themselves last week as they trampled Texas Christian 28-14.

Texas, which hasn't been held to lower than a three-touchdown margin, blasted Southern Methodist 27-0 with a last half fury that stunned the 41,000 homecoming crowd at SMU.

Rice smothered Texas Tech 42-7 and Arkansas whipped Texas A&M 15-8 and that meant only three teams were left in the championship running—Texas, with a 4-0 record; Arkansas with 3-1, and Rice with 2-1.

Arkansas and Rice clash at Houston Saturday and barring an upset of Texas the loser will fade from the conference race.

Southern Methodist and Texas A&M play at College Station in a conference game having no bearing on the race.

Two conference members will be hooking up in intersectional games. Texas Christian meets UCLA at Los Angeles Friday night. Texas Tech plays Boston College at Lubbock Saturday.

The league's intersectional record for the season thus far is 10 victories, six losses and one tie.

Vital Meet For QB Club

"We want a big crowd out for Quarterback Club meeting Tuesday evening," Jimmy Felts, co-captain with Roy Bennett, said today. "We have a lot of important business to talk about."

One of the items will be naming of committees for the special train to Abilene Friday afternoon. There will be a scouting report and word from the coaches on physical condition of the Steer squad. The session is set for 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria and everyone is urged to attend.

Arizona After Border Share

By The Associated Press

Arizona State University goes after a certain share of the Border Conference football championship Saturday, meeting Texas Western at El Paso.

The Sun Devils, by winning this one, can finish the league race with a 3-0 record and take the championship unless New Mexico State won all three of its games, too.

New Mexico State has won only one and has West Texas State and Hardin-Simmons yet to play.

Arizona State and New Mexico State do not meet each other.

Texas Western won its first conference game in three last week when it handed Hardin-Simmons its 20th straight defeat 35-7.

All the other conference members took lickings from outsiders. New Mexico State was upset by lowly Trinity 17-14 in the shocker. West Texas State took a 28-6 trimming from Bowling Green. Arizona State lost to San Jose State 32-26.

Two Days Left For Bowl Ducats

DALLAS (AP)—The public sale of tickets to the Cotton Bowl football game Jan. 1 has two more days to run.

Applications, with $5.50 per ticket plus a 25-cent mailing fee, will be accepted until midnight Tuesday.

Howard Grubbs, Cotton Bowl secretary, said it was expected that the 25,000 tickets available to the public would be oversubscribed.

All applications will be placed in a drawing to determine the allotment and applications coming in the last day are just as likely to be filled as those that came in the first day of the 13-day mail sale.

Bowl Prospects

HOUSTON (AP)—Eight schools were on the prospect list of the Bluebonnet Bowl today.

Those under consideration for the post-season football game here Dec. 16 are Rice, Arkansas, Louisiana State, Mississippi, Georgia Tech, Auburn, Alabama and Notre Dame.

LOOKING EM' OVER

By TOMMY HART

The Snyder coaches think they have another Jack Spikes in ninth grader Leslie Brown (of Travis JH), who has been pulverizing enemy lines this fall.

Brown is as able on defense as he is when his team is on the attack. He's got great speed, too.

* * *

Prospects are bleak that the District 3-AAA football champion, which ever team it might be, will ever get beyond bi-district competition — what with Brownwood just down the road.

The 3-AAA kingpin, even if it should get by Brownwood, might face an even bigger hurdle in Regional play, however. Jack Meredith, the Hereford mentor, said recently he thought Dumas of District 1-AAA had the finest club in the state in that classification.

Dumas has been ranked third in a couple of statewide polls. Dumas boasts a stick-out quarterback in Mike Boxwell, a 6-feet-1, 185-pounder and a tremendous line.

* * *

If Sweetwater officials elect to end the football series with Big Spring, they may do so in order to open a long and (they hope) prosperous series with Abilene Cooper.

Some observers think Cooper will become the dominant school in Abilene in a few years, especially if the system adds a third high school, as it is threatening to do.

* * *

Are you ready to agree with some observers, after watching him last Friday night, that Midland's Steve Thomas—pound for pound — is the hardest running back in District 2-AAAA? He only weighs 181 pounds.

* * *

It went almost unnoticed the other day when the Los Angeles Rams of the NFL benched Olie Matson, the one-time Texas Negro, in favor of the former New Mexico State star, Pervis Atkins.

Matson is the fellow acquired by the Rams a couple of years ago in exchange for nine players—at which time most everyone conceded them the league championship.

* * *

I'm not prepared to say that Big Spring is the best team in the state with a 7-1 won-lost record (Permian, for one, boasts the same sort of mark after eight games).

I don't think there is any doubt about the best team in the state with a 1-7 record. That would be Midland High, which gave the Big Spring team many a bad moment before losing a 21-13 decision here last week.

(Big Spring actually defeated Midland more decisively than it did Permian, scorewise).

Why Midland hasn't been able to win more games than it has this fall remains a big mystery to a great many people. Those who try to explain it say the club developed late.

Incidentally, sophomore Bill Wood did a fine job of running the team what time he was on the field.

Eagles Win Game, But Lose Brookshier

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia Eagles won the battle, but suffered a casualty that could make a big difference in the final results of the National Football League war.

Tom Brookshier, the Eagles' defensive captain, suffered a compound fracture of the right leg in the fourth quarter of Philadelphia's 16-14 verdict over Chicago Sunday.

The 1960 all-pro defensive halfback, generally regarded as one of the league's finest pass defenders, will be out for the season.

"It's a costly blow to us," Philadelphia Coach Nick Skorich said. "One of our rookies will have to grow up in a hurry."

He named Glen Amerson and Irv Cross as replacements for the veteran from Colorado this week when the Eagles, leading the Eastern Conference with a 7-1 record, play the first of two vitally important matches with pressing New York.

The Giants stayed one game back of the Eagles, winning their sixth against two losses in a 53-0 rout of winless Washington.

Green Bay, the Western Conference leader at 6-2, was victimized by Johnny Unitas and the Baltimore Colts 45-21, but retained its one-game lead over Chicago.

The Bears, looking for a chance to move into a tie with the Packers, missed two field goals inside the 20 in the fourth quarter in their two-point loss to the Eagles.

In other games, San Francisco and Detroit remained tied for third in the West, playing a 20-20 tie; Pittsburgh upset Cleveland 17-13, St. Louis used pass interceptions to beat Dallas 31-17 and Los Angeles took Minnesota, also 31-17.

The seven games attracted 353,084 fans for an all-time, one-day total.

The Detroit-San Francisco game changed complexion three times in the last 65 seconds. Tommy Davis kicked a 34-yard field goal with 1:05 left to pull the 49ers into a 17-17 tie. Then Jim Martin booted one from the 24, giving Detroit a 20-17 lead. With four seconds left, Davis tied it again on a 41-yard effort.

It left each team with a 4-3-1 record, and coaches Red Hickey of San Francisco and George Wilson of Detroit both say they still have a shot at the title.

"We have a chance at each of those teams (Green Bay and Chicago) ourselves," Hickey said. Wilson agreed.

Unitas, showing his old-time form, passed for four touchdowns as the Colts beat Green Bay. They played on even terms until Lenny Moore got off on a 38-yard touchdown run with a flat pass just before the half ended. That gave the Colts a 21-14 lead, and they took it from there.

Clarence Peaks bulled over from the two in the third quarter, giving Philadelphia a 16-14 lead over Chicago. The Bears failed on two field goals in the fourth that would have won it. Roger LeClerc missed from the 17 and Ed Brown from the 13.

Y. A. Tittle, Del Shofner and Pat Summerall were the standouts in the Giants' rout of Washington. Tittle passed for three touchdowns, Shofner caught three and Summerall ran his consecutive string of points after touchdown to 107.

Veteran Bob Schnelker was the big gun in the Pittsburgh upset of Cleveland that dropped the Browns out of a share of second place in the East.

Schnelker, released by Minnesota two weeks ago, picked up 160 yards on seven receptions and scored the winning touchdown on a 26-yard pass from Rudy Bukich in the last three minutes.

Billy Stacy ran back two pass interceptions for second-period touchdowns that made the difference in the St. Louis victory over Dallas. Los Angeles used a pair of last-quarter touchdowns to break out of a 17-17 tie with Minnesota.

Houston Battles For Playoff Spot

By The Associated Press

The resurgence of Houston under Wally Lemm, and led by the inimitable George Blanda, brings speculation that the American Football League playoff in December will match the same clubs that battled for the first title.

San Diego's Chargers, who were the Los Angeles Chargers then, have won nine straight and have clinched at least a tie for the Western Division championship. They are due to sew it up Sunday when they play hapless Denver.

Houston, which won the 1960 title, is pushing upward in the Eastern Division and is only one-half game behind leading Boston. The Oilers, paced by Blanda, who is averaging better than three touchdown passes per game and kicking field goals from most any distance, meet Boston at Houston Sunday and can take over the lead by toppling the Patriots.

It was after Houston had tied Boston 31-31 that the Oilers began their drive. They have won three straight since then, including a 55-14 rout of Denver Sunday. Boston, too, has taken three straight, climaxed by a 28-21 decision over Dallas last Friday.

So the chips definitely will be on the line when the Oilers and Patriots have it out at Houston next Sunday.

San Diego, which galloped over New York 48-13 Sunday to knock the Titans down to third place in the Eastern Division standings, will take on Denver, which looks like a fairly soft touch.

San Diego can't count too strongly on going through the regular season undefeated. While the Chargers get Denver and Dallas in their next two games, they then run into Houston and wind up against Boston.

The week's work starts Saturday night when Oakland plays at New York. Sunday's schedule has Buffalo at Dallas in addition to the San Diego at Denver and Boston at Houston battles.

In other action Sunday, Oakland defeated Buffalo 31-22 in a battle between the last-place teams in each division.

Broyles Likes Present Rules

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — "Leave the rules alone. We have the best game we ever had."

That was the advice today of Frank Broyles, one of the country's most successful young college football coaches. In four seasons he has seen his Arkansas Razorbacks play in two major bowl games and is in running for another following a 15-8 victory over the Texas Aggies Saturday.

"The present rules give a coach a chance to make the best use of his personnel," said the handsome, poised coach.

Broyles said he was firm in his belief that the wild card rule has helped balance college football.

"I know Arkansas would have been much weaker last year and this season without the rule," he said. "It gives a chance for a coach to use his specialists and make substitutions without big squads. Before the wild card rule was put in the books, we used as many as 45 or 50 men in a game at Arkansas under the platoon system. That was not good for the players and certainly not for college football."

Ferrier Grabs Almaden Open

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Jim Ferrier's final-round 72 gave him a 72-hole total of 279 and victory Sunday in the $10,000 Almaden open golf tournament.

The 1947 PGA champ's score, good for top prize money of $1,200, was nine strokes under par and a tournament record. The previous mark was 281, set by Ken Venturi in 1959 and tied last year by Charley Sifford and Bill Eggers.

Bob Rosburg, another former PGA champ, took second-place money of $1,000 with a 280 total.

RULE CHANGES

Four Major Revisions To Affect Basketball Play

By LARRY LAWRENCE

The coming basketball season will be greeted with 13 changes or alterations in rulings. Four will be drastic, some of the remaining nine so small and insignificant the average fan may never notice.

The four major changes are:

1. No free throws will be awarded for common fouls committed while in player control by the offensive team. Under the new ruling, the defensive (or fouled) team will get the ball out of bounds.

2. A foot-wide neutral or buffer zone has been placed between the first and second sections of the free throw lane, in an attempt to cut down on the crowding and elbowing that usually takes place after a foul shot.

3. Sideline coaching is now allowed, so long as the coach remains seated on the bench. The coach is still unable to take any action which may cause an undesirable reaction from the fans.

4. Obvious deliberate fouls will carry a penalty of two free throws and automatic disqualification of the offender.

EASIER SUBBING

Another change enables substitutes to enter the game faster. The old system prohibited a replacement to enter a game until a foul or jump ball had been called. Now he may go in just about any time a whistle sounds.

The only other noticeable change is the elimination of the sudden-death method of overtime. Now, as many three-minute overtime periods as necessary will be played.

The jump ball ruling may also become a significant change. Players may now move further away from the jump circle, so long as one foot is on or inside it.

Other alterations deal with personal foul rules and variations of the common offensive foul rule.

Balubas Tell Sad Story Of Congo Trouble

By LYNN HEINZERLING

ELISABETHVILLE, Katanga, (AP)—Some 30,000 Baluba tribesmen, sitting in mud and filth on the northern outskirts of Elisabethville, tell the sad story of the Congo.

They include men, women and children. Fear sent them to this camp for U.N. protection—fear of ancient tribal enemies, fear of primitive brutality by the police, and maybe imagined terrors unknown to modern man.

The Balubas of Katanga are political followers of Jason Sendwe insofar as they have any political consciousness.

Sendwe is president of the Association of the Baluba of Katanga (Balubakat) and was formerly President Moise Tshombe's most powerful political opponent in Katanga.

AN EXILE

Now vice premier in the central Congolese government at Leopoldville, Sendwe is an exile from Katanga.

The Balubas began to leave their homes in the African townships of Katanga more than two months ago. They said police of Tshombe's interior minister, Godefroid Munongo, had circulated through the townships, threatening and maltreating them.

The Balubas settled down in what once was a handsome suburban area, with a few handsome villas and many trees. Soon they were arriving by the thousand, bringing pots, pans, chairs, sewing machines.

They hacked limbs from trees, gathered grass and made thousands of huts. Trees, grass, shrubs and flowers have disappeared. The Balubas squat in their huts waiting in fear.

NO SANITATION

When it is dry, clouds of evil-smelling dust blow through the camp. When wet, the Balubas cook, eat, sleep and squat in the mud. Flies, rats and vermin make their life miserable. Naked children wade in dirty ditches. The camp has no sanitary arrangements.

Traders have set up shop on packing oxes, selling everything from hashish to human skin. A cemetery soon became necessary.

Swedish U.N. troops make regular patrols through the camp in armored cars. Once they opened fire when youths seized a Swedish soldier. Eight Balubas died.

Ten days later it was discovered the bodies were being preserved with ice from a brewery. The Balubas said they were preserving the bodies as proof that the United Nations killed the tribesmen.

HELD BODIES

Recently the Balubas killed three policemen. Police recovered the mutilated bodies. President Tshombe called to pay his last respects and insisted that the French, British and American consuls see the bodies.

The 30,000 Balubas sitting in the mud illustrate the deep tribal suspicions and intense hatred which motivate the Congolese.

They show why it is so difficult to form a central government representative of all sections of the Congo. The colonial powers for years made no effort to integrate the tribes. Instead they used these primitive divisions to consolidate control.

NOTHING IN COMMON

Katangan leaders insist they have nothing in common with the politicians in Leopoldville, 1,200 miles away. Katanga, they say, was included in the new republic simply because the Belgian colonial authorities arbitrarily included it to suit their purposes.

The Congo now has three armies: those of Gen. Joseph Mobutu in Leopoldville, Victor Lundula in Stanleyville, and Norbert Muke in Elisabethville.

The U.N. task in reconciling these conflicting forces and maintaining order in the Congo's 900,000 square miles will take many years. Distances involved and the lack of roads and communications work against unity.

Leaders in Katanga have only the vaguest idea of what is happening in Leopoldville. From their public statements they appear to believe the central government is in the hands of Communists seeking a share in Katanga's wealth, derived from minerals.

INTEGRATION?

Visitors are told by government officials and white supporters of the Tshombe government that Katanga has achieved a multiracial society unknown in the rest of the Congo.

There is little evidence of it.

Except for government leaders and Africans favored by government positions, the great mass of Africans have pretty much the same second-rate status as before.

This is perhaps inevitable until money can be diverted from the armies to provide schools and buildings in an integrated social system.

Any hint of an integrated society was certainly foreign to one Elisabethville man, who told this correspondent: "Only good Kaffir (Negro) is dead Kaffir."

Radiation-Proof Windows Developed

CORNING, N.Y. (AP) — Radiation-tight windows that would provide a glimpse of the outside from a family fallout shelter have been developed by Corning Glass Works.

The glass portholes, four inches square and up to 36 inches thick, are designed to ease the mental strain of confinement. The company said a 24-inch-thick window with frame and casing is priced at "less than $100."

Pantie Raiders Defy Police

An estimated 2,500 male students stormed the women's dormitories area at the University of Texas at Austin in a pantie raid. In several instances, students wrestled with police trying to break up the demonstration. Part of the group, shown here, shouts at police and one waves an article of women's lingerie.

Tax Office To Speed Process By Computer

By FRANK CORMIER

MARTINSBURG, W.Va. (AP)—The Internal Revenue Service announced today a two-year speedup in its program to process all tax returns automatically at an electronic computer center in this Shenandoah Valley city.

Internal Revenue Commissioner Mortimer M. Caplin said IRS expects to complete the conversion to computer operations by 1966. The agency had been thinking earlier in terms of 1968 or possibly 1969.

The speedup announcement was made in a speech Caplin prepared for the dedication of a $750,000 national computer center here. This brick structure eventually will house a master file on 80 million individual and corporate taxpayers. The file will cover 400 miles of magnetic tape to be stored in a single room about 30 by 40 feet.

As part of the shift to electronic tax processing, every taxpayer will be given an identity number so individual accounts won't get mixed up. For 85 per cent of all taxpayers, this will be their Social Security number. All others will be assigned numbers similar to those used in the Social Security program.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, another participant in the dedication, emphasized in his prepared remarks that "the new technique will not dehumanize our tax administration."

"It will not be man against machine—the individual taxpayer against a giant, impersonal monster that thrives only on numbers," Dillon said.

Dillon said, "In fact, the new system should permit the internal revenue service to devote more time to direct, personal contacts."

IRS eventually will pay annual computer rentals of about $7 million. The agency said the electronic system will be more expensive than the present one but will be able to do more work and raise more revenue.

TAX CHEATS

The government is counting on the computers to help detect tax cheats, who are estimated to evade about $5 billion in taxes each year. The computers will cross-check the figures on every tax return against reported payments to taxpayers in the form of wages, dividends and interest. This task must now be done by hand, so only spot checks are possible.

Dillon said the electronic system will enhance "the certainty and fairness of our tax administration" and give honest taxpayers "comforting reassurance" that "life will be made far more difficult" for the minority who chisel.

Except for the assignment of identity numbers, the new system will not directly affect individual taxpayers. Returns still will be filed with district offices, which will forward them to nine regional service centers now being set up. At the regional centers, information from the returns will be transcribed on punch cards, then on magnetic tape to be shipped to the national center here.

At Martinsburg, incoming tapes will be run against the master file, to see whether everything is in order. The computers also will figure out refunds and obvious underpayments. In addition, they will automatically flag those returns which seem suspicious and these will be returned to district offices for checking.

The national center will have 70 employes in the coming year and an eventual peak payroll of under 200. Regional centers will employ 1,000 to 2,400 workers.

Caplin said plans for regional centers "are substantially ahead of our original timetable." He said that "at the rate we are now proceeding, every taxpayer in the United States will have his returns processed under this new system by 1966."

The first regional center, at Atlanta, Ga., will go into operation Jan. 1. During the first year it will handle all returns from businesses in a seven-state area and send the tapes to Martinsburg. In 1963 it also will handle selected individual returns and, in the third year, will take on all returns.

This three-year cycle of gradual conversion will be followed in all nine regions.

Plans have been made for centers at Philadelphia and Austin, Tex., and Caplin said a site for the Cincinnati, Ohio, region will be announced soon.

He said present centers at Lawrence, Mass., and Kansas City, Mo., will convert to computers in 1963 and the center at Ogden, Utah, in 1964. He reported that new centers will be set up in 1964 in the Chicago and New York regions.

How To Move A Library? Organize A Book Brigade

MARIETTA, Ohio (AP) — Problem: How to move 120,000 books and hundreds of magazines from an old library to a new one.

Marietta College faced up to it with all the intellectual ingenuity expected of an institution of higher learning.

The answer arrived at by librarian Richard K. Gardner was surprisingly simple.

Organize the school's 1,500 students and faculty members into a giant book brigade, he said—one that could tote the 120,000 books from the old library across a street into the new $865,000 Dawes Memorial Library.

So that's just what will happen Nov. 15.

All of Marietta's students will be excused from classes when the bell in Erwin Tower rings at 8 a.m. to muster them.

The brigade will be divided into two groups, one for magazines and the other for books.

They will move in a continuous line, in one door of the old building, pick up books, out another door, cross the street into the new library, deposit books, out another door, and back to the old library for another trip.

Each boy and girl will be limited to carrying a stack of books about 12 inches high, Gardner said, adding: "If the majority of the students turn out, each person will have to make only about 11 trips."

The librarian figures the majority of the books can be moved by noon. "We will finish up in the afternoon, straighten things out that evening, and be open for business the next morning," he said. All who work on the project will be compensated—a free lunch on the college.

Red Bid Called 'No Danger'

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) — President Urho Kekkonen told his people Sunday night he considers the Soviet request for defense talks constitutes no danger to Finland's neutrality or independence.

Kekkonen presented a confident view toward Moscow's Oct. 30 note in a radio-TV report on his 24-day tour of Canada and the United States.

Of the call for consultations between Finland and the Soviet Union on common defense measures against what the Russians term West German militarism, Kekkonen said:

"The foundation of our foreign policy is relations with the Soviet Union based on confidence and on our neturality, as recognized by the Western powers. . ."

A Devotional for Today

O that thou hadst hearkened to my commandments! then had thy peace been as a river, and thy righteousness as the waves of the sea. (Isaiah 48:18.)

PRAYER: O Lord God, Thou who didst send Thy Son to give knowledge of Thyself to all people, we pray that men and women of all nationalities may be submissive to Thy will. Teach us the obedience required of us, so that together as men and nations of men we may move forward, living in peace one with another. For Jesus' sake. Amen.

Urban Growth Affects Political Attitudes

A significant climax to the transition of Texas from a predominantly rural to a predominantly urban state was noted Monday at the Texas Municipal League convention at San Antonio. The address of the outgoing president, Kingsville's Mayor James H. McCrocklin, marked the end of a long era in which Texas cities were the stepchildren of state government, whose interests were often ignored or abused by a rural dominated legislature.

McCrocklin could truthfully say that, in the past year, "Texas cities have enjoyed the most cordial and constructive relations in history with those who bear the policy responsibilities at the state level, both legislative and executive." His chief evidence was the record of the 57th Legislature: No legislation regarded (by the league which represents 591 cities) as directly hostile to cities were enacted. Eight of nine major measures sponsored by the cities were enacted. Virtually all proposals considered detrimental to municipal government were defeated, and more than 40 bills supported by the league were passed.

That is an unprecedented record. It should be no detraction from the creditable work of the league, or of state officials enlightened enough to be seriously concerned with city problems, to add that the 1960 census had a powerful influence for this sharp reversal of political attitudes at the state level. Legislators had to view the city bills before them with one eye on the 1962 elections.

The Trade-In Trend On Homes

In a recent address to Maryland realtors, Virginia home-builder Stephen G. Yeonas estimated that 71 per cent of American home-owners can afford to "move up" in the housing market and predicted that within five years half of all new house sales will involve trade-in of an older home.

His estimate of what home-owners can afford was inflated by his hardly unbiased assumption that better homes should have a higher preference share in the consumers' dollars. But he did call attention to an interesting, and potentially highly significant, trend toward trade-in home purchasing.

The effect on American life of mass production of automobiles, coupled with the mass-distribution stimulant of trade-in purchasing, was not clearly foreseen. Neither was the impact of mass housing construction stimulated by federal credit underwriting which multiplied the market after World War II.

If Yeonas' prediction on trade-in home purchasing proves out, what will the economic and social effects be? Will homes come to be traded as rapidly as cars now are? What will be the impact on residential architecture, on the home-building and real-estate businesses, on city planning, school systems, in fact, on the whole complex of urban culture?

The Virginian builder did not attempt to answer such questions;, nor, probably, can anyone with much assurance of accuracy. But experience warns — or promises, depending on the viewpoint — that major marketing innovations have a way of profoundly affecting far more than the immediate interests of seller and buyer. The home trade-in may be such a phenomenon.

Russians Must Learn The Truth

WASHINGTON — What the world sorely needs today is not more talk about fallout shelters, but more information directly from the President of the United States on the military power of this country—its ability to destroy an enemy if there should be any kind of attack.

Some speeches have been made by lesser officials and brief comments have lately appeared in White House statements, but all these are not a substitute for a comprehensive pronouncement by the President that the whole world would read and accept as authoritative.

WHY IS IT so important? Because if the peoples of all the world could realize that the United States is capable of destroying an aggressor, attention would really turn to the restraining influence that could be exerted upon such an aggressor. The demand would arise not merely for a limitation of armament but for eventual non - use of any nuclear weapons.

To achieve any kind of balance, however, requires something far more effective than merely a paper agreement signed by an international conference in Geneva or anywhere else. It requires the only assurance that can be given against another world war—the establishment of a free system of government in Russia and in her several colonies now captive behind the Iron Curtain.

THE SOONER this is recognized as the paramount issue the greater the chance for the early achievement of a true peace in the world. For, while the Communists may remove the body of Stalin from its place of prominence in Moscow, it is significant that they have failed thus far to show the slightest intention of burying his ideas — faithlessness to the pledged word, bluff, bluster, threats, and a form of tyranny as old as the despotism of a Caesar.

BUT HOW CAN the men who hold power in the Soviet government today be deprived of their position of authority? Only by the will of the people. And how can that be done? Only by penetrating the Communist countries with official statements and ideas that will eventually convince the 200,000,000 people of the Soviet Union—and the many millions more under the Communist yoke—that to set up a free government is the only way to prevent a nuclear war and the destruction of millions of human beings.

Once the issue is fully understood, the people of the Soviet Union can be depended upon to exercise their concerted will at least to preserve their own lives.

THE FIRST STEP, therefore, is for the President to put aside any qualms about being accused of "sabre-rattling" and tell the whole story of America's bomber and missile strength. For Mr. Khrushchev has certainly manifested no such sensitivity lately, and he has actually joked about his "mistake" in setting off something even more terrifying than the 50-megaton bomb that had been planned.

This week brings an important experiment in crossing boundaries into Russia by the Voice of America—the broadcasting organization of the U. S. Information Agency. A massive broadcast of 52 powerful stations located in Western Europe will be put on the air simultaneously for the first time to the people behind the Iron Curtain. In their own languages, they will be given for eight hours a detailed story of what has happened recently in nuclear testing. The Russian people haven't been told anything about it as yet by their own government. What an opportunity to show them how deceitful their government has been and how inconsiderate of their safety!

FOR THE Russian people not only do not know that their government has been spreading terror throughout the world by its tests of huge megaton bombs, but they do not know that other nations in self-defense now must begin testing. Nor are they aware of the dangers the nuclear arms race may bring to mankind.

Will the Soviet government jam the new broadcasts? It has done so before in the case of individual stations. There are some technicians, however, who say the jamming can be overcome. Certainly in this age of scientific invention this episode could well serve as an incentive to the establishment of a more effective means of reaching the people of other lands. Theoretically, the broadcasts themselves inform a relatively small number of listeners, but the word-of-mouth communication which always results can be depended upon afterward to spread the truth far and wide.

THE IMPORTANT thing that the Soviet people must be told is that America possesses an almost incredible strength to retaliate. This should be spelled out clearly so it can be thoroughly understood. Once these facts become known, the Russian people will realize that they alone can save mankind. They can do it by instituting a system of government which does not permit one man to hold in his hand the power of life and death over them as well as over millions of human beings in other lands.

Butte Contains Fossils

FOSSIL, Wyo. (AP)—Efforts are under way to establish a national monument here commemorating what may be the best fish fossil bed in the world.

State geologist Horace D. Thomas said the 700-foot butte which contains the fossils once was at least 1,000 feet under water. Dead fish settled at the bottom and were left undisturbed because scavenger fish could not live in such deep water. The fish were then buried in countless layers of mud.

Some fish extracted from the butte are believed to have lived 50 million years ago at the beginning of the mammal age. One of the extracted fish was bought by Eisenhower last year as a gift for Japanese Emperor Hirohito.

Another Russian Revolution

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Russian people must now go through a revulsion and revolution in their thinking after seeing Stalin excoriated and his body hauled from the shrine beside Lenin.

The result should be creation of a new skepticism about the absolute rightness of their Communist leadership and a softening of the party's rigid control over their minds.

BUT IT DOES not follow this will mean a softening in Soviet foreign policy or any lessening of Premier Khrushchev's demands on Berlin. It should be remembered the Russians are intensely nationalistic, and have been.

So, no matter what their doubts about the wisdom of their leadership at home, they can be expected to rally around the flag when their government, Communist or otherwise, deals with foreign nations.

By propaganda, edict, repressions and reprisals, practically all Russians alive and able to read and write when Stalin died in 1953 had been conditioned into acceptance, muted or ecstatic, of his wisdom, rightness, goodness, and Communist sanctity.

Now Khrushchev and others in the leadership have revealed Stalin as a pathological monster who —by his excesses, misuse of power and self-idealization — was in effect an enemy of the people and a betrayer of the revolution.

FROM THESE belated disclosures the Russian people can draw only one conclusion: They'd been had. They had been bamboozled by Stalin and since his death—until now—by Khrushchev and others who withheld the truth from them.

They cannot avoid feeling like fools when they remember how by the millions since 1953 they stood in long lines to see the body of this man who had become as much their "little father" as any czar.

This will compel them to a more questioning and critical evaluation of the actions and pronouncements of their leadership. It demonstrates how propaganda can delude them. To this extent the revelations about Stalin are a liberalizing force. The leadership had to realize this before it permitted the denunciations.

IRONICALLY Stalin himself had set loose the most liberalizing force of all with the broad educational system created in his lifetime. No doubt he felt strict party control could keep it in hand.

Most Dangerous Room

NEW YORK (AP)—Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The most dangerous room in the average home is the bedroom. Three-fourths of all accidental falls occur in the home and more happen in the bedroom than any other part of the house.

Do you feel crowded in a modern airplane coach? It was worse in the days of the stagecoach. A ticket then entitled you to 15 inches of seating space—and you had to pay dearly if you traveled with more than 25 pounds of luggage.

Sports oddity: If a man made a different billiard shot every second, he would have to play 24 hours a day for more than two-billion years to make all the possible shots.

What's in a name? Tula Finklea is Cyd Charisse, Aaron Chwatt is Red Buttons, Fritz Austerlitz is Fred Astaire, Jim Stewart is Stewart Granger — and Marlon Brando is really Marlon Brando.

Don't give up hope if you have a heart attack. At least half of all people who suffer a coronary thrombosis recover fully and are able to resume their normal activities.

Former President Harry Truman says he doesn't dream. But scientists think everybody dreams whether he can recall them or not on awakening. The average person spends two hours nightly dreaming. Women usually dream more than men.

Language lesson: Television is a combination of "tele," a Greek word for "distant," and "vision," Latin for "image."

Oldtime etiquette: Bells and whistles were sometimes put in table knives a century ago. If a guest at dinner bragged or told a tall tale, the host rang a bell or blew a whistle, then presented the guest the knife with much ceremony. He kept it until someone else told a bigger whopper.

Sign in the window of the Cafe St. Denis, a French restaurant: "We spoke English here."

Best bet: Your son will have a better chance to wind up in the White House if he studies law. Twenty-four U. S. presidents were attorneys. Only one was an engineer—Herbert Hoover. Two were former newspapermen, Warren Harding and John F. Kennedy.

Wisecrack of the week: "There are only two kinds of women—clinging vines and power plants."

Nature note: The stool pigeon is one of the world's most valuable birds. It is estimated that up to 90 per cent of felonious crimes are solved with the help of tips by police informants.

Odd legislation: In ancient India a law decreed that if a husband got into debt his wife could sell him into slavery to pay off the creditors.

See America first: The tourist industry now is the top income producer in Florida, New Mexico, Nevada, Maryland and Hawaii. It ranks as the second or third most important industry in 25 other states.

Safety tip: Here's the real reason you shouldn't drive while weary: Studies show that driver fatigue is a factor in two-thirds of all fatal accidents.

It was George D. Prentice who observed, "If a woman could talk out of the two sides of her mouth at the same time, a great deal would be said on both sides."

Three Main Causes Of 'That Tired Feeling'

By JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.
(This is the first of a series of two articles.)

"Dear Dr. Molner: It seems as though I'm tired all the time. Even daily vitamins haven't helped. What can I do? Mrs. L. E."

Vitamins aren't the answer to "that tired feeling" except for people whose eating habits are such they just don't get a balanced diet.

But there are plenty of other reasons for fatigue, and I think the most helpful advice I can offer is an outline of how a physician tackles such a complaint. There's a good chance that many readers may find the answer staring them in the face!

There are three main causes of "that tired feeling":

1—Natural weariness. Fatigue, in itself, isn't bad. It is Nature's signal that we are running the human machine harder, faster or longer than it is supposed to go.

2—True physical ailments.

3—Nervous or emotional causes. Boredom is one very real reason for being "tired all the time." Unrelieved nervous tension can leave you feeling worn out. And frustration, such as feeling that you can't ever catch up with all the things you should do, (or think you should) is a fairly common one.

Lots of people who complain of fatigue hope to find the answer in a pill, and simply overlook the fact that they are trying to do too much.

The young mother who feeds, bathes, dresses, spanks, entertains and comforts three children all day, and keeps the house and herself neat and attractive, and stays up until 11 o'clock every night mending, fussing over the budget, writing letters, trying to watch TV while she irons, and seeing whether last year's clothes can be shortened to where hems are now —well, she ought to be tired. She may argue that "I worked just as hard last year, and I wasn't always tired then," but this doesn't make sense. Young, healthy women can get away with such overloading for quite a long time. Eventually, however, it catches up.

The test is quite simple: If, after one or two nights of solid, restful sleep, she finds her vigor returning, she has the answer. She's been doing too much, too long.

Another classic type of "tired patient" is the oldster who won't admit that being 50, 60 or 70 makes any difference. It does. Muscular reserve declines, and sheer stubborn will power won't make this up. Short periods of rest scattered through the day will do wonders for such people.

Incidentally, too many oldsters do the opposite: They give in to stiff, painful joints. They sit. They resign themselves to "being old" — and condemn themselves to boredom—and the fatigue that is the price of boredom.

It is better to force themselves into regular activity (like walking, for the muscles, and reading, for the mind.) Trying to do too much is bad; trying to do too little is worse.

More about this tomorrow.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Am I wrong in thinking that a two-year-old child is too young to eat popcorn or nuts? Aren't their systems too delicate to digest them? — Mrs. R.T."

You're right, but not as a matter of digestibility—it's the danger of getting particles caught in the windpipe. I positively would not give either of these foods to such a young child.

MRS. B.E.A.: I can't see why the amount of ascorbic acid you mention could harm you. Large doses may help some individuals if the sinus trouble is on an allergic basis.

Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, write to Dr. Molner in care of the Big Spring Herald for his booklet, "Ear Noises—Their Causes and Cures," enclosing with your request 10 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

Around The Rim

Stay Honest, And You're OK

This and that:

How would you feel about taking honesty tests on your job?

Before you say it smacks of a police state, look at it in this manner. If you're shooting straight, you have nothing to hide.

A woman who gives lie detector tests to most of the professional gamblers, those who work for the gambling houses, said most of the croupiers realize what the tests are for and don't grumble about them.

"THE ONLY WORKERS who have ever resented the tests," she said, "are those whose dishonesty has been shown up.

"I will invariably ask this question, 'Did you ever deliberately cheat any player? Failure to pass this question is grounds for instant dismissal."

It's rather common knowledge that commercial uses of lie detector tests in industry is spreading, although there is much opposition among the union.

W. D. HOLMES, a polygraph examiner for the Miami, Fla., police department, cited these statistics recently:

Sixty-five per cent of employes who handle money on jobs steal from their employers.

Of those handling merchandise, 85 per cent steal.

AMONG THE smaller items like paper clips, the majority of those who steal is practically 100 per cent (but most don't regard it as stealing).

Of those firms throughout the country which went bankrupt last year, 18 per cent wound up broke because of pilfering by employes.

THE NEGRO PROBLEM is bothering the big cities. The reason: Most civic leaders are willing and prepared to tackle the integration problem head-on but many of their white citizens had rather not and, as a result, beat a retreat.

Realistically, the leaders say the problem will resolve itself only if the Negro is given equal educational opportunities and accepted socially.

CHICAGO (AS AN example), however, lost 400,000 white citizens in the past decade while its Negro population has mushroomed 800,000 in the same period of time.

Some close to the situation say the city of Chicago may have a Negro mayor within 20 years. —TOMMY HART

The Old West That Never Was

NAMPA, Idaho — Since any resemblance between fact and what transpires in teevee's unreconstructed horse operas is purely coincidental, it is doubtful if Aunt Kit's reaction to Westerns will lead to reform of the home screen.

Aunt Kittie Lee, who will be 88 in the spring, can't abide Westerns even though they often claim to re-create a period she can remember as if it were yesterday.

"NEVER SAW A cowboy in my life who was a gunslinger, if that's the word," she said as she dialed out a cannonading Western.

"Now, when I was growing up on your grandfather's ranch," continued this petite, peppery lady of 87 who was born in 1874, "I saw cowboys by the score. And I never saw a one with all those guns and pistols they carry on teevee.

"When I was young, they used to drive cattle from Oregon through this part of Idaho to the rail junction at Green River, Wyo."

"WASN'T THAT A long drive?" I asked.

"Yes," said Aunt Kit, patiently, "but that's where the railroad was. As I was saying, they came through the valley driving cattle to Green River and they often camped across from your grandfather's ranch.

"They camped across from us because there was plenty of water and the cattle had to be watered regularly if they were ever to reach Green River. Often, because there was water, they made camp for 24 hours, more to give the herd than the men a rest.

"WELL, YOU KNOW, men can only stand their own cooking just so long," Aunt Kit continued. "So the men — the cowboys — would make a beeline for our house, hoping your grandmother would feed them. Mother hated to say 'no,' so if she had an extra loaf of bread or a pie, they usually got it.

"We children saw lots of cowboys, both those coming and going to Wyoming and those here in the valley. And I," said the woman blessed with total recall, "can't ever remember seeing one who was armed, much less to the teeth. And I can't believe they took off their guns merely to come into our house to ask Mother to spare them the monotony of their own cooking.

"SO DON'T ASK me to look at Westerns! The Old West wasn't a shooting gallery! See if you can get 'Lassie.' At least that collie doesn't carry a gun."

I'm afraid what follows is further proof that the West ain't what it useta be and never was. When I was in Boise my cousins took me to an excellent restaurant that features a large bar, the Royal.

When we walked in, the goings-on in the bar were nothing short of incredible. No one was gunning anyone else. I would have felt better if a masacre had been in process. For there, before my eyes in a crowded barroom, the decline and fall of the Old West was in progress.

"THIS IS THE night of our regular, weekly fashion show," a cultivated female voice cooed over the public address system. And — ah-h-hh — how it hurts me to write this — there in an enclave where men once were men and there was wall-to-wall sawdust, a fashion show was in full progress.

The long bar and the tables were crowded with crew-cut types in Brooks Bros. clothing and women in Jackie hairdos and sleeveless dresses.

NO FAN-TAN, NO poker games under way! Attention was strictly riveted on decorous young ladies modelling the latest fashions. They watched — that audience — for 90 minutes, gravely assessing skirt lengths and other matters of national interest. In a bar — the lineal descendant of the old saloon!

Sic semper gloria—if not teevee.

Keep The Program Under Control

WASHINGTON — Runaway ideas in government occur when some notion, not wholly insane of itself, gets the bit in its teeth and goes wild, frequently starting a whole stampede of vagrant thoughts.

Something of the sort is recognizable in the idea of our Ambassador to India, Harvard professor John Kenneth Galbraith, who proposes that American agriculture, with its miraculous productive power, be government-guided toward feeding the hungry peoples of India and elsewhere.

YOU SEE HOW THE whole thing started in Galbraith's brain. Under World War II encouragement of federal price supports, American farming became an industry of prodigious output. The supports were continued in peacetime until we raised an enormous surplus. Then, to reduce the rotting stockpile, we found federally subsidized consumers — school children at lunch hour, needy persons throughout the nation, and finally, hungry persons in friendly lands abroad.

BUT WORLD planners, like Galbraith, know a good thing when they see it. Why confine these overseas shipments to surplus products only? The hungry foreigners are still, there, aren't they? And American agriculture is immeasurably bountiful, is it not? Ergo, let us pay American farmers to raise the specific foods that allied and neutral nations desire. Give Nehru and Nkrumah, give Bourguiba of Tunisia and Ayub Khan of Pakistan a menu, or calorie chart, or protein schedule, and allow them to order what their people should have.

EARLIER THIS YEAR, the New Frontier made a cautious experiment in this direction. Agriculture Secretary Freeman, with the purpose of meeting a foreign demand of Food for Peace, raised the support prices on soybeans. This is the government's way of calling for an increased planting and harvesting of any commodity. The revolutionary nature of Freeman's action was that he was not doing it to satisfy a shortage in the American market, but to cater to foreign appetites. Later, he did the same on a smaller scale, for powdered milk. Ambassador Galbraith evidently took it from there.

It should be emphasized, as was stated some paragraphs above, that the idea is not completely loco. If kept under tight rein, and not permitted to become a runaway, the plan to use American ingenuity for the benefit of less fortunate breeds is tenable.

FOR INSTANCE, I have researched some of this subject at the shop of George McGovern, Food for Peace Director, who has done some practical thinking on it. Leaving McGovern's office as I went in were two representatives of the wheat and soybean growers who had been there with useful information. It seems that by a certain mixture of soybean and wheat flours, it is possible to come up with a processed food of 50 per cent higher protein yield than either of the ingredients has by itself. This and other modern versions of the loaves-and-fishes miracles which American know-how can bring off are under study.

McGOVERN HAS ALSO advanced an idea called Food for Wages which was tested by the Eisenhower administration. Public works in nine foreign nations are being paid partly by American surplus edibles, and 25 other countries are in consultation with us on the plan. Presumably, a bridge or dam in Afghanistan or Nigeria will eventually be completed, and the payments in food will cease. But this is not the same as an open end arrangement to feed hungry people as long as their hunger and American top soil continue.

OUR COUNTRY IS full of runaway ideas which began tamely enough. Foreign aid began as the four-year Marshall plan to rehabilitate West Europe. Federal aid to dependent children commenced humanely and modestly, but is today a disgraceful racket which is bursting from our control.

Here we sit on overflowing granaries of foodstuffs, and on a mechanized farm industry which is marvelously productive. Should we not help the hungry? Yes, if we can be the master of this plan. But if it should master us, we could become enslaved to the now-famished nations.

Informed Visitor

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Mrs. Edwin Betts, official hostess at the University of Virginia's famed Rotunda, regularly tells visitors of the great fire that destroyed the building in 1895.

Dr. James B. Bullitt, of Chapel Hill, N. C., turned out to know more about it than she did. He was a student from 1895 to 1899 and helped save a statue of Thomas Jefferson from the flames.

The Chief

U Thant, 52, head of the Burmese delegation to the United Nations, is the new acting secretary-general of the world organization. He will serve until April 1, 1963.

Mom Finally Regains Her Missing Child

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Don't say a word, the judge cautioned. So, though she had waited 16 months for this moment, Mrs. Harley Sax, 23, walked into the FBI office without a word.

The 4-year-old blonde she found there looked at Mrs. Sax. In her blue eyes the watching judge saw a look of recognition.

The young Albuquerque, N.M., mother broke into tears. The child ran into her arms.

There was no question, said Judge Seward L. Hart after the reunion Sunday, that the girl was Brenda Marlene Jennings, daughter of Mrs. Sax by a previous marriage. She had disappeared from her grandparents' home in Guthrie, Okla., June 27, 1960.

The mother had sought the child in 14 states, but it was the FBI and Judge Hart, of the Omaha Juvenile Court, who finally brought them together.

Judge Hart and Thomas Gearty, special agent in charge of the Omaha FBI office, said they had pieced together this story:

The night Brenda disappeared she had been permitted to accompany Billy Don Nelson, 29, of Guthrie, a family friend, on an errand. Nelson and the child vanished.

In August, 1960, neighbors in Omaha reported a little girl crying at an upstairs window. The child officers found behind a double-padlocked door had dyed hair. She was healthy, but the room was filthy.

The man who posed as her father used the name of Jack Wilbanks. He had served a 10-day vagrancy sentence.

Brenda became a court ward and was placed in a juvenile home. When Wilbanks was unsuccessful in gaining her custody, he disappeared.

Working with the name Wilbanks, Judge Hart and the FBI learned of the missing girl in Oklahoma. Wilbanks is the name of Mrs. Sax's parents with whom Brenda had been staying.

That led to Sunday's meeting.

The FBI said a comparison of pictures indicated the man who used the Wilbanks name in Omaha and Billy Don Nelson are the same individual. He is sought under a federal warrant charging unlawful flight, Gearty said.

Gearty knew of no motive for taking Brenda.

Carla Fools The Blossoms

GALVESTON (AP)— Hurricane Carla seems to have changed the seasons around here.

An apple tree owned by Mrs. C. M. Wilson is in bloom.

"We feel sure Hurricane Carla caused this bloom," she said.

Spring-like foliage and blossoms are appearing everywhere on plants described by one local naturalist as like "poor mixed up kids."

Plants and leaves were just turning brown prior to the big storm. Now they are busting out all over. Pears and plum trees are adrift with bloom; pecan trees loaded with nuts for harvesting are putting out new buds around clusters of pecans which withstood the force of the winds.

Redbud trees, which ordinarily bloom briefly only during the spring, are filled with blossoms, as are the wisterias and oleanders.

Honeysuckle vines are scenting the town and the owners of mulberry trees, some of them old-timers, say they have never seen a reaction to equal this one.

Mrs. Kent Curtis, a nursery worker, said the phenomenon is not unusual after a hurricane.

"It happens every time, but since the winds and rain of Carla were so severe, and a cool norther followed, the plants are just like many of our poor mixed up kids. They suffered a shock—a period when all growth stopped much as it does in winter—and the new growth is nature's method of revival. Indeed, the plants do believe it is spring," she said.

Air Force Reserve Unit To Hold Practice Alert

Members of the 9409th Air Force Reserve Recovery Squadron, which includes eight Big Spring men, will conduct their first actual practice alert since being organized in July, according to Lt. Col. Archie B. Cord Jr., Odessa, commander.

The Big Spring men include M. Sgt. Lee E. Frank, 1506 Cherokee; T. Sgt. Richard E. Mitchell, 1607 Avion; S. Sgt. Doris Ballard, 600 Circle Dr.; S. Sgt. Harold W. Danford, 1803 Hamilton; S. Sgt. Arthur B. Parker, 3619 Hamilton; Airman 1.C. Johnson B. Hall, Box 304; Airman 1.C. Clark O. Hitt, 1301 Pennsylvania; Airman George D. Warren, 808 Settles.

The Squadron, one of the newly activated units under a reorganized Air Force program for Reservists, operates at Midland Air Terminal.

The practice alert, according to Col. Cord, will take place at 1 p.m. Sunday. All members of the squadron will take part in the simulated recovery of a returning USAF plane.

The mission of the recovery squadron is to provide facilities for friendly aircraft to land, be serviced, its crew taken care of, and sent aloft again for a second strike. The feeling of many American military strategists is that in case of war, many Air Force bases could be knocked out. In that case, the importance of having a trained force to take care of aircraft, scattered at civilian fields throughout the nation, looms as an important aspect of national defense.

As part of the alert, an Air Force plane will land at the Terminal, Air Policemen, crash and rescue equipment, maintenance men, communications section personnel and others needed to take care of the plane and its crew will meet it. Decontamination exercises will also be simulated upon the airplane, the commander said.

To witness the practice, a number of business and community leaders have been invited. The press is also being invited in order to make available to the general public a full report on the progress and capabilities of this unit.

Following the practice there will be an informal coffee with a question and answer period. The 9409th AFRR Sq. is comprised of men from throughout the Permian Basin.

Cuban Baptist Orphans Being Sent To Russia

AUSTIN (AP) — A Southern Baptist missionary said today homeless children are being taken out of Baptist orphanages in Cuba and sent to Russia for training.

"This is the worst thing they have done," Mrs. T. E. Lee, general field worker for the Southern Baptist Home Mission Board, told the more than 1,500 Baptists gathered for the Woman's Missionary Union convention.

The annual Baptist General Convention of Texas begins its meeting Tuesday with about 6,000 messengers expected from most Baptist churches of the state.

"PROSPERING"

Mrs. Lee told the women's meeting that Baptist missions work in Cuba is prospering despite the atheistic influence of communism. She said Cuba's sending orphans to Russia for training is the "worst thing" done to Baptist missionary efforts.

Mrs. Lee said a simultaneous revival in 286 Baptist churches and missions resulted in more than 5,200 professions of faith in Christ in Cuba.

She is one of six missionaries still working in Cuba.

"Raul Castro told the wife of the superintendent of missionaries that Southern Baptist missions work in Cuba would not be molested unless the missionaries joined the revolution," Mrs. Lee said.

"The Cuban government recently returned the property which they had taken earlier from southern Baptists." She did not specify what property had been earlier confiscated by the Castro regime from the Baptists.

Raul is a brother of Cuban dictator Fidel Castro, and Cuban defense minister.

DILIGENCE

Mrs. Lee urged the Baptists to be more diligent in telling others about Christ. She said more than 80 million people in the United States, Cuba and the Canal Zone who have never "had a personal experience (salvation) with Christ."

A last minute change in the program of the WMU convention shifted principal speaker Winston Crawley, secretary of Southern Baptist Missions work in the Orient, from a Monday morning speaking spot to a Monday evening address.

Twelve Southern Baptist missionaries are slated on the WMU convention program, with other principal addresses by Dr. Giles Fort and Dr. Wana Fort of Southern Rhodesia, and Dr. Thurman Dabbs of New Mexico, all Southern Baptist medical missionaries.

Street Work Progressing

The work of smoothing out the bumps on East Second Street, from Johnson to Main, has been completed except for touching up some of the intersection dips, Bruce Dunn, director of public works, said Monday. He also said work on portions of outlying streets needing attention had been completed.

"We are having to do all the downtown work at night," he said, "because it would be unwise to clear traffic during the daytime. We will finish Second, between Main and Scurry, in a short time and then get to work on Scurry south to the concrete."

Dunn, who had watched the machine work and conceived the idea of renting the heater-planer from the city of El Paso, said it was necessary to go over some of the roughest places as many as three times to get the bumps down to street level.

"If we try to get it all down the first time the machine would likely tear up the pavement in chunks and do more damage than good," he said. "As it is we are getting smoother streets without having to close them to traffic, tear them out, and do the paving job over."

West Berlin Police Stave Off Reds As Fence Falls

BERLIN (AP)—West Berlin police successfully defended workmen ripping down 300 yards of wire fence in a tear gas battle today with border guards of Communist East Germany.

About 150 tear gas grenades were thrown, but nobody was reported hurt. The West Berliners succeeded in removing most of the fence, which was about a yard inside the French sector of West Berlin.

The fence had been put up by the Communists long before the Aug. 13 closing of the border to separate a railway track in East Berlin from an elevated track in West Berlin. It was later reinforced by another fence, entirely on the East Berlin side.

Four West Berlin workmen went this morning to take down the fence in West Berlin territory. With them went 12 West Berlin police and a French army officer.

Border guards on the Communist side ordered the workmen back. They refused.

The East Berliners began the tear gas tossing, the western police said. Each side hurled about an equal number.

Crowned

Betty Pat Nix, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Nix, Lamesa, was crowned last week 1961 Homecoming Queen at Lamesa. The new queen is a senior cheerleader and was named from a group of four other candidates. She was crowned by Richard Pearson, student council president, at half-time ceremonies of the Lamesa-Lake View game.

Third Forum Is Scheduled

The threat of communism will be the topic discussed at the third session of the Freedom Forum at the Howard County Junior College auditorium tonight at 7:30. C. L. Kay, vice president for public services, Lubbock Christian College, will conduct the session.

"This session will deal with the philosphy, historical development, recent gains, strategy, and methods of Communism in the world today," James Cape, general chairman of the forums sponsored by the Big Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce, said.

"Documented materials from Communist leaders, as well as Communist acts of aggression and political interferences in the governments of weak states, prove that the true aim of the Soviet powers is world domination. The false claims of the Marxist line will be examined in the light of historical events."

These sessions, free to the public, are being held each Monday night over a period of six weeks.

Future sessions will deal with the threat of socialism, the profit system, and the responsibility of citizenship.

34th Discoverer Satellite In Orbit

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The 34th Discoverer satellite is in polar orbit, carrying a capsule the Air Force will try to catch in the sky over the Pacific.

This shot, one of a series aimed at perfecting a technique for recovering packages from space, was fired Sunday. Within a few days, the Air Force hopes, the capsule will separate from the orbiting rocket and parachute toward the ocean. Planes based at Hawaii will try to snag the parachute before it hits the water.

School Trustees Meet Tuesday

Joe A. Moss will officially become a member of the board of trustees for the Big Spring Independent School District at a meeting called for Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. Moss is replacing Dan M. Krausse, whose resignation will be up for action at the same meeting.

Krausse has been a trustee since 1959. He recently resigned his post with Cosden Petroleum Corp. to accept vice presidency of Dresser Industries, Inc. in Dallas. Moss is secretary of Cosden.

Other business on the tentative agenda includes pictures to be taken of trustees for the High School Annual, consideration of proposals regarding a car for the superintendent and consideration of the policy of payment for lost time where employes are called away from the school job for physical examination by the Armed Services.

The meeting was called one week earlier than the usual meeting time.

Car, Residence Burglarized

A theft from an automobile, and one house burglary, were reported to police for investigation after midnight Saturday.

Rodger Frazier, a student at Howard County Junior College, said two tires and wheels, and two tail lights, were taken from his car while parked behind the shop at the college Saturday night and Sunday.

Otha Lee Miller, 111 N. Goliad, called police to report the theft of a car coat from his residence some time Sunday. Police found the back door broken open. Nothing else was reported missing.

A neighbor told police she had seen a Negro male park his car in front of the Miller residence Sunday afternoon, go to the back of the house, and later return wearing the coat reported stolen.

Rubin Torres, 212 N. Goliad, told police someone had broken the windshield on his car while parked at the Sav-Mor Food Store on Northwest Fourth between 12:45 and 1 a.m. Sunday.

Divorces Lead Court Docket

LAMESA (SC)—A total of 39 cases were filed in Dawson County for disposition in 106th District Court last month. Divorces and delinquent tax suits paced the month with 16 and 11 cases, respectively. A total of 362 instruments were recorded and 17 marriage licenses issued in the county clerk's office.

CLAYTON RAND

TESCO To Honor Veteran Employes At Annual Meeting

Veteran employes of Texas Electric Service Company will be honored Tuesday evening, at the annual meeting of the company's Quarter-Century Club. This will be a dinner affair at the Cosden Country Club, beginning at 6:30. Clayton Rand of Gulfport, Miss., noted author and columnist, will be guest speaker. Rand has appeared at previous TESCO meetings.

Beeman Fisher, president of TESCO, will address the group, giving a report on the company's activities of the past year.

The local Quarter Century Club has nine members: R. L. Beale, Hugh Duncan, J. W. Garrison, A. C. McClendon, D. M. McKinney, T. A. Rogers (retired), W. A. Shaw, B. G. Shepard (retired) and A. B. Sisson. No new members are being added this year.

Beale, district manager, will be master of ceremonies. About 300 TESCO employes and their guests are expected to attend.

Zoning Board Meets Tuesday

Two plats of proposed developments of the Edwards property will be presented for approval to the Planning and Zoning Commission Tuesday at 5:15 p.m. Two requests for zone changes will also be made.

The Edwards proposals, both a part of a master plan formerly presented and approved by the commission, will include seven lots along Westover Road in Edwards Heights.

A request for a zone change from general residence (GR) to commercial (C) will be presented on property located at the intersection of Lamesa Highway and Northwest Seventh.

A change from duplex to retail (R) will be asked for property at the corner of East Ninth and Nolan.

"Other requests may be made at the meeting of the commission," Bruce Dunn, secretary, said Monday, "but this is all that we have had information on."

Water Department Adds 26 Taps

LAMESA (SC)—Lamesa's water department, connecting 26 new taps in October, pumped 48,197,000 gallons to city residents. The top October pumping day was on the 12th when residents used 1,876,000 gallons. On the last day of the month, the low was recorded at 1,209,000 gallons.

Construction Dips

LAMESA (SC) — Construction figures dipped slightly in Lamesa during October, but the $120,000 in permits granted helped boost the figure for the year to $2,454,750. Eight new home permits were granted in October along with two commercial buildings.

Ship Sinks, 61 Missing

TUNIS (AP) — The 7,129-ton Scottish tanker Clan Keith exploded and sank in heavy seas Sunday night off the north Tunisian coast. Sixty-one of her 68 European officers and Pakistani crewmen were reported missing.

Seven survivors were picked up, including the ship's captain, said a radio message from the scene. The ship owners said one of the rescued crewmen died later.

The seven were picked up by the British freighter Durham Trader.

Radio messages intercepted in Tunis said the Clan Keith exploded around midnight and sank in several minutes. A storm had battered the North African coast during the night.

The 19-year-old ship was owned by the Clan Line Steamers of Glasgow. She sailed from Southampton Oct. 28 for Ceylon with a cargo of chemicals, steel filings and cast iron pipe.

134 Handled

LAMESA (SC) — The Dawson County juvenile office handled 134 youths so far in 1961. A report by Bill Hollingsworth, juvenile officer, indicated that 2,736 house calls were made during the period with 11 petitions filed, and three youths committed to the Texas Youth Council.

Lamesa Stretches Deathless Days

LAMESA (SC)—Tuesday will be the 957th straight day in Lamesa without a traffic fatality and only two deaths have been reported on city streets since Jan. 1, 1957.

The city boasts an enviable traffic record despite the fact that fewer but more serious accidents have been logged so far this year.

The last traffic fatality in the city occurred at 4 p.m. on March 26, 1959, and broke another deathless-day string that spanned almost two years. The victim was a pedestrian.

With only 166 accidents listed during the first nine months of this year, city police are striving to record the least number of mishaps since 1957 when 229 were reported.

Dawson County this year has recorded seven traffic fatalities.

New Social Security Office Manager Here For A Visit

Ervin L. Fisher, who will be the first manager for the new Social Security Office here, was in Big Spring during the weekend making arrangements to return his family here and establish the area's first Social Security office.

Fisher came to Big Spring several years ago as area supervisor of the State Welfare Department. He left that post to join federal employment in the Social Security department.

His first post was in Victoria, then he was moved to Fort Worth. When the chance came to return to Big Spring, he accepted it.

"We are anxious to get back to Big Spring," Fisher said Saturday. "We have many friends here and we are looking forward to renewing old acquaintances."

Actually, there are more Fishers coming back than formerly lived here. Two more children have been added to the family, making four youngsters in all.

Fisher did some house hunting while here, as well as checking over possible temporary quarters for the Social Security office. A permanent headquarters for the office will be decided by the General Services Administration, which took bids recently for a building or quarters for both the Social Security office and the Internal Revenue office.

In order to get the new Social Security office in operation at the earliest time, Fisher said, it was decided to begin operations in a temporary location, then moving when permanent quarters are found.

He confirmed that the office here will employ seven persons. Besides himself as manager, two women have been employed here, and four others are being transferred from other offices around the state.

Fisher could set no definite date on when the office will be opened here, but apparently it is only a few weeks off until the temporary office is opened. No definite information has been released.

Screaming Boy Found Under Car

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP)—Sheriff's deputies came upon two overturned cars in a ditch Sunday and discovered a screaming boy of 12 pinned under one of the machines—near the bodies of his parents and another victim of the collision.

Killed in the crash about 10 miles south of here were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Deeg of rural Savage, Minn., and John M. Matz, 37, Rochester, Minn.

The Deegs' son, Thomas, suffered a compound leg fracture and a severely cut face. Deputy Sheriff Norman Gould said the boy was in shock and unable to tell about the accident. Hospital attendants said his condition was critical.

THE ICE CAPETS IN "BALLET MILITAIRE"

THE FRONT ROW

By BOB SMITH

Midland's FM station has begun a fascinating new series on the American cowboy. (Big Spring's KBST has just ended a presentation of most of this same series.)

The programs were prepared by the radio-television department of the University of Texas, and drew from such sources as J. Frank Dobie, Walter Prescott Webb, and Fred Gipson.

Last Saturday's program, first in the series, was titled "Suited to His Times." The quarter-hour dramatized documentary followed the theme of "conditioning at the hands of history." The special nature and characteristics of the cowboy made him the only effective buffer between civilization and savagery where they met at the point of greatest impact—the American frontier. Conversely, and in this there was an exchange and dual forming of historical factors, the nature of the cowboy sprang directly from the environment into which he was born.

The programs are aired each Saturday at 5:30 p.m. over KNFM, and there will be 12 more in the series.

The 21st year of the Ice Capades will be seen in Odessa beginning Tuesday for a 5-night, 2-matinee run.

As usual, there is something for everyone — sumptious costumes and sets, 10 huge production numbers, 20 acts that range from feats of skill to slapstick comedy.

Top performers include Jimmy Grogan and Aja Zanova, the headliners, and Peter Voss, Helga Neff, The Emanuels, Louisa Orwell, and the Maxfields, a new adagio team appearing for the first time with the Ice Capades.

The Bruises, knockabout team of slapstickers, are back along with the clown prince, Hans Leiter, and the daffy Demko and Ben Gee.

Some of the big productions include a fantasy, "The Wizard of Oz," two sequences from "South Pacific" ("Some Enchanted Evening" and "There's Nothing Like a Dame"); and "Baranihan on Ice," an interpretation of Philippine folk dances.

Segments from four operas will be presented: "Manon," "La Traviata," "Tannhauser," and "Il Trovatore." Also, some great moments in American musical comedy will be staged in "Salute to Rodgers and Hammerstein."

The "Ballet Militaire" features the Ice Capets and Ice Cadets in intricate precision maneuvers. The Ice Capets include 36 girls specially chosen from auditions.

Evening performances will be at 8 p.m. and matinees at 2:30 p.m.

Boxoffice Magazine has sent out ballots to critics and commentators for a nationwide poll on the top boxoffice draws in Hollywood.

Voting was requested not on individual critics' personal preferences, but upon assessments of the boxoffice potential of various screen personalities. Balloting was accomplished through selection of 12 names from each of two lists containing hundreds of names.

This critic's vote, in the female category, went to Brigitte Bardot, Leslie Caron, Doris Day, Sandra Dee, Susan Hayward, Janet Leigh, Sophia Loren, Shirley MacLaine, Marilyn Monroe, Juliet Prowse, Lee Remick and Debbie Reynolds.

The male column included Marlon Brando, Tony Curtis, Bobby Darin, Kirk Douglas, Glenn Ford, William Holden, Burt Lancaster, Elvis Presley, Vincent Price, Steve Reeves, Frank Sinatra and John Wayne.

There was no preferential classification among those selected; and, I repeat, voting was entirely based upon each critic's evaluation of boxoffice potential, and not necessarily upon the candidates' talents.

Boxoffice Magazine will publish its results in February, 1962.

Six Flags Over Texas, the huge entertainment complex located between Dallas and Fort Worth, is growing Texas style. The managers are now busily planning and building for a doubled capacity for next year's tourist season.

Besides the new attractions, the management is constructing a hotel to house guests — a logical move for a businessman.

Walter Lord, in researching for his recently-released book about the Alamo, "A Time to Stand," went through almost enough adventures to write another book about.

Lord travelled all over the United States and Mexico running down documents, diaries and letters to cast new (and controversial) light on the Texas legend.

He drove over 500 miles in one day to check an old document dealing with the reported escape of a defender. He flew to Mexico City to find the Alamo's flag.

The writer corresponded with people in 23 states who knew something about the Alamo, and was marooned in a Connecticut blizzard chasing an old Bowie letter.

He bounced over the prairies of Mexico and South Texas in a jeep trying to trace Santa Anna's line of march, and he even munched mesquite food chewed by Mexican soldiers on their way north.

"Encounters: The Life of Jacques Lipchitz," by Irene Patai, commemorates the famed sculptor's 70th birthday. The book contains 33 pages of photographs, and is the authorized version of his biography. It is not a critical evaluation of his works.

Mrs. Patai extensively interviewed Lipchitz over a two-year period, taking down the quotations stenographically to avoid errors of paraphrazing. She also interviewed the sculptor's friends and researched available written information about him.

Much of the resulting material was previously unpublished — the artist's youth in Lithuania, his encounters with Picasso, Modigliani, Gertrude Stein, and his life in the United States.

The title is taken from one of Lipchitz's quotes regarding "the encounters of materials, the encounters of ideas, the encounters between myself and things not-myself, and the encounters of the various sides of myself . . ."

Next production of the Lubbock Theatre Centre will be the Lunt-Fontain vehicle, "The Visit," a powerful indictment of human nature written and portrayed in a stage setting that is both earthreal and nightmare-fantasy.

"The Visit" is planned for Nov. 16.

The Theatre Centre, incidentally, is not to be confused with Civic Lubbock Inc. (Several readers have phoned in confusion on this point.) The Centre is more of a community theatre organization, Civic Lubbock is a municipal booking, management and ticket agency for the City of Lubbock's cultural department.

Predict Farm Vote To Lessen

WASHINGTON (AP)—The National Grange predicts farmers will lose 35 of the present 166 predominantly farm districts under congressional redistricting now on as a result of the 1960 census. There are 435 districts.

In a letter to its members, the farm organization said this redistricting by state legislatures promises to be one of the "hottest and most vital issues affecting rural people during the next 10 years."

"The loss of farm representation in the U.S. House of Representatives will place rural people at a greater disadvantage than at any time since the first Congress assembled," the letter said.

Water Group To Name Officers

McALLEN (AP) — The Texas Water Conservation Association had a board of directors meeting and election officers on tap here today before ending its two-day 17th annual meeting.

The resolutions committee of the group Sunday commended Gov. Price Daniel for what it called "his continued statesmanlike leadership in the furtherance of a water program for Texas." It was to be presented to the entire membership today.

The resolution also praised Daniel for recent appointments to the Texas Board of Water Engineers.

The executive board's report, presented by President Max Starcke of Austin, said two congressional committees have reported to Congress and the President that a critical water situation of overwhelming proportions is facing the United States.

"Recent reports of the Texas Board of Water Engineers and the U.S. Study Commission-Texas confirm this," the report said. "Both agencies agree that Texas has sufficient water resources to meet our foreseeable needs if properly developed and managed."

The report said that the Texas Board of Water Engineers' plan for meeting the 1980 water requirements of the state calls for construction of 45 new reservoirs and enlargement of two others to supplement 73 existing reservoirs and 14 now under construction.

It said the U.S. Study Commission's plan calls for the construction of 30 new reservoirs by 1975 and another 53 by the year 2010.

Speakers today included Col. L. H. Hewitt of El Paso, U.S. Commissioner for the International Boundary and Water Commission; Maj. Gen. Robert J. Fleming Jr., commander of the U.S. Army Engineers in Dallas; Leon W. Hill of Amarillo, regional director, U.S. Bureau of Reclamation; Ben A. Glusing, Kingsville legislator; and John J. Vandertulip of Austin, chief engineer for the Board of Water Engineers.

Unemployment End In Cuba Seen

HAVANA (AP) — Economic chief Ernesto Guevara says unemployment will be wiped out in Cuba by the end of 1962.

Fidel Castro's pro-Communist industries minister told a meeting of directors of state factories and farms there will be no pay increases for workers next year except for special cases. He said this would be necessary to create new jobs and to reduce production costs.
