Commission Will Approve Survey Made by County

County Judge G. J. Henshaw returned Wednesday from Austin where he went Monday to see the highway commission in regard to replacement and construction of approaches at Sanderson canyon, Prairie Creek and Lozier canyon bridges and to get the approval of the commissioners of an engineer to be appointed by Terrell county to locate a pubic road from Dryden to Sheffield, so that the route surveyed would be acceptable to the highway department when and if they designate it as a state highway.

The location of the highway from Dryden to Sheffield will be a Works Progress Administration project.

Judge Henshaw was informed that appropriation had already been made for the replacement of the washout at Prairie creek and that construction work on Sanderson canyon and Lozier canyon bridges would begin as soon as plans had been completed and approved by the department.

Judge Henshaw also stated the department approved John Stovell of Alpine as engineer for the surveying of the Dryden-Sheffield road.

Big Telescope For Mt. Locke Ready in 1936

Grinding of the 82-inch lens which will be installed in the Mt. Locke observatory near Ft. Davis is well under way, according to advices from Austin.

The firm of Warner & Swasey of Cleveland, hopes to have the huge disc finished in 1936 according to Dr. Otto Struve, director of Yerkes observatory at Williams Bay, Wis., who selected the site near Fort Davis, and supervised much of the preliminary work of construction. He further stated that most of the rough grinding was finished, but that the lens was not quite ready for tests. The surface of the mirror is now a portion of a sphere having a radius of approximately 54 feet. This means that approximately one one and one-third inches of glass have been removed from the center of the disc, giving it a concave figure.

The next step will be to polish the mirror and to change its shape from a sphere to a paraboloid, which may take several months. The latter geometrical figure has the property of reflecting parallel beams of light in such way that they are all concentrated in one point, called the focus.

It was stated by Dr. Sturve that "practically all astronomical work with the 82-inch reflector will be carried on by photography and astronomers will rarely have an opportunity to see the stars." Through an eye-piece they will expose photographic plates in the focus of the telescope, the resulting photographs will then be examined under microscopes and measuring machines in the observatory laboratory. The building, itself is completed and ready for installation of the new telescope.

Work At Lozier To Begin Middle Of Next Month

Recent flood damage to highway No. 90, east and west of this place, has brought an inevitable falling off in tourist travel.

So great was the damage that engineers of the highway barely have had time to plan repairs except of an emergency nature.

Advices available to the Times are to the effect that several very radical changes will be made in repairing flood damages. At the Lozier canyon bridge the damage was heaviest, and the recent ordeal has convinced engineers that the span across this canyon —a magnificent concrete structure — is wholly inadequate to cope with flood waters released via the watershed which empties into it.

Plans have been drawn up and the highway commission will be asked to let contract for work at this point as an emergency. The detour road across the canyon, built from fill-in material from the east end of the bridge approach hardly will withstand a rain of any consequence.

It is understood that the recommendations, which call for six additionals spans, have been approved, and that in all probability contract on this job would be let by October 15—work to start immediately on awarding of contract. This will lengthen the present structure approximately 175 feet.

Other highway work which, to date, have not been passed on by the commission, includes an additional of one span in the east end and two spans on the west end of the bridge in the east part of town.

West of town 1 mile, the dip will be replaced with a 10-span bridge. A similar bridge will replace the dip five miles west of here, if plans are approved. At what is now another dip, 9 miles west, an 8 span bridge will be erected. Another dip farther west will be eliminated by diking the sides of a small draw.

Traffic has been at normal over this highway for two weeks now, and no difficulty is encountered in reaching points between San Antonio and El Paso, via Highway No. 90.

Herbert Dodd of Langtry, agent for the Federal Loan Bank, was a visitor here this week.

Funds to Repair Bridge Damage Is Appropriated

Damage to the approaches to Prairie Creek bridge will be repaired at once, according to word received Thursday by County Judge G. J. Henshaw from the state highway commission.

At a meeting held in Austin on Monday the commission appropriated $3,243.00 for the work of replacing the approaches recently washed out. The work will be done through the maintenance division of the department under supervision of the state highway engineer.

Prairie creek bridge is on state highway No. 3, and was one of several whose approaches were washed away during the recent floods.

Dr. and Mrs. P. W. Mallory had as their guests Sunday his uncle, T. H. Jarrell and wife and daughter of San Antonio.

Plans Include Many New Attractions Rodeo, Football Games and Dances

Marfa, Sept. 26—(T-PN).—The eighth annual Highland Fair and Feeder Sale, which will be held in Marfa on October 17, 18 and 19, is a growing institution in the Trans-Pecos country and is the outgrowth of a long-felt need in this section which came to a head when a mass-meeting of prominent ranchers and business men of the three Big Bend counties met in Marfa on July 16, 1928, and formed a temporary organization.

One week later another meeting was held with representatives from nearly every town in the Trans-Pecos area. The entire group began the Fair with the idea that it was not just a Presidio county fair—or even just a Big Bend fair—but a fair for the whole of the Trans-Pecos area, and, with this in mind, the fair has grown and prospered each year until this year it bids to be one of the major attractions of the State.

Some of the original officers and directors of the Highland Fair still hold office, showing not only their own trustworthiness, but also their unbounded faith by their unstinted services offered this institution, which has grown with the years and which is the biggest and best piece of publicity offered to the Trans-Pecos country.

Building their own grandstand, rodeo field, race track, cattle pens and exhibition booths on their grounds that first year, the Fair association has steadily increased its holding with each year's successive success. Events, also, have been added each year, and this year's program will include a street parade, coronation of the Fair Queen, rodeo which is devoted entirely to amateurs, high school and college football, dances each night, educational and commercial exhibits, street carnival and, last, but not least, the famous Feeder Sale, on October 18.

HORTON HALEY INJURED

Last Saturday afternoon as he was coming to town from his ranch, Horton Haley sustained light injuries when his auto turned over. The accident occurred about six miles east of town, and caused, supposedly, by defective brakes. The car was badly damaged.

BOBBIE LEA WINS $45 PRIZE

Bobbie Lea, high school student, was winner of the $45 cash award at the Princess Theatre Monday night. Next Monday the award will be $15.

In the draw for free passes the following were the lucky ones: Miss Kathleen Buck, Mrs. E. A. Buck, Henry Maddox, Milam Northcut, Albert Dennis and W. L. Miller, all present.

Car Loaded With Autos Derailed

A peculiar accident happened to the first section of the "L. A." on its run east-west Tuesday afternoon.

Carrying its load of manifest freight, and making as good time as the condition of the roadbed permitted, the train was nearing Watkins, 14 miles east of Dryden.

Here the track curves just before going over a small bridge, and in some manner a carload of Buick automobiles left the rails just before reaching the bridge, and turned over. Its position in the train was 15cars back from the engine.

None of the other cars were derailed, and after a delay of four hours the train proceeded on its run, leaving the derailed car.

Wednesday morning a wrecker and crew were at the scene of the wreck, and picked up the overturned car. Examination showed that the automobiles were not damaged beyond repair, estimates placing the liability at between $600 and $800.

The car, after being repaired will be shipped back to Houston, it was stated.

Showers During Week Puts Range In Prime Shape

Beneficial rains fell in this section over the week end which assured ranchmen of winter feed. To the north of town heavy rains fell Saturday night, Sunday and Tuesday night.

Monday a good rain fell in town and that, together with a shower Tuesday night, amounted to .41 of an inch.

Continued warm weather prevails here and Thursday afternoon dark clouds hung in the sout and east and chances were good that more rain would fall by the end of the week.

Eagles and Marfa Tangle in First Conference Game Sat.

Game Will Start At 2:30 P. M. Legion Park

Sanderson high school Eagles, notwithstanding loss of five regulars of last season, and several lettermen being shifted to different position this year, made a favorable impression on the sideliners last Saturday when, in a clash and clawing between two Eagle squads, they put over a 26 to 0 victory against Van Horn.

Head coach Smith has done a fair job with the new material offered this year. In the backfield, especially, opinion is that it measures up to that of last year, with the possible exception of generalship, a defect that bids fair to be remedied as the season progresses. Sullivan call of plays on last Saturday, especially after it was seen that Van Horn's team was inexperienced, were more in the nature of experiments. With him are Halley, prime line plunger; Mussey, noted for his surprise long runs, and Lochausen, good at most any job assigned.

Much new material is in the makeup of the line, but no one has to learn them to fight. They were all on their toes last Saturday—a little over-anxious, if anything. Deaton seems to bear the brunt of the front wall, but that Smith boy will bear watching. Plenty hefty, fast, a sureshot on the receiving end. Already he has all the earmarks of a regular.

Without flattery, it can be said that every one showed up fine.

Tomorrow, however the Eagles face a more experienced squad in the Marfa Shorthorns. It's going to be a real test.

Our Eagles looked snappy in their new uniforms Saturday and fans enjoyed the game more for that reason.

Let's close shop tomorrow at 2:30 and be at Legion Park to encourage our home team!

IT'S FENCE BUILDING TIME

Already beginning to seep into the Times office are "clipped" items from the larger dailies—nothing more or less than political propaganda. Well, the Times has had the forethought to order a capacity waste-basket in the shape of a pasteboard carton 2 feet by 4 feet, by 2 feet. So let 'em come! It's a poor newspaper that does not know just how to boost. Only those who have directly helped this section, or Texas, as a whole, will receive consideration. Unknowns, or those who shake hands once every two years will do well to inquire about our advertising rates before sending in their "news" items, which are merely announcements of their respective candidacies with reverse English.

OPPOSITION TO FOOTBALL

While not as noticeable in Sanderson as in many other places, there is scruples on the part of parents against their boys playing football. Why, we do not understand. For training in fundamental character traits we know of no other game that approaches high school football. It a complete course in sportsmanship and this includes many things—to be generous in victory, to give praise and credit to those who won from you. It teaches the young man to take orders without question. One parent confessed the other day that his boy underwent a complete change in his deportment about the house. He became religious in attending to the many little chores that made the day's work lighter on his mother. "I don't know for sure whether football training was the cause of the change, but do know the change came after he started playing football." The majority of high school boys are better college students, better citizens today through the fact—not that they played football—but directly by retaining the laudable principles embodied in this particular sport. And the kids love it. They anticipate it. In years past the ambition of the average kid in the molding stage was to be a Buffalo Bill, a Kit Carson—sometimes they yearned for the roving existence of Captain Kidd. Nowadays, they count the years when they can be like some great athlete—a Red Grange of the gridiron, or a Babe Ruth of the diamond. That's why you see them while still in the kindergarten stage lugging a football bigger than themselves. And what kid can you parents recall whose eyes didn't shine with new lustre when, on the Christmas tree he noticed a complete football uniform. Thanks to the fact that there are not many parents who object; others they are who have no objections to their boys playing, but they suffer a thousands deaths during the course of a football season. The latter have our complete sympathy—of such is the salt of the earth.

LONG "POLICIES"

(Christian Science Monitor)

Governor Allen of Louisiana has announced that Huey Long's followers will continue the Long policies.

What are they?

Senator Long was best known nationally for his share-the-wealth proposal. Was this a policy? Huey Long was in complete control of Louisiana for several years. He never attempted to put his share-the-wealth plan into effect there.

Perhaps by "Long policies" Governor Allen really means methods. Do his followers intend to continue ruling by dictatorial decrees called laws by courtesy? Do they expect to keep the legislative mill in operation passing a law a minute? Will they again clamp down a censorship of the press? Will they hold an American state in subjugation by using the militia to suppress opposition? Will the continue to invade the province of local government and keep in their own hands the power to hire and fire every fireman and teacher? Will they use the Long main recipe—threats well mixed with rewards—to maintain a dictatorship?

Or are the members of this cabal so devoted to the great "principle" of one-man rule that they will sacrifice their own ambitions and accept the domination of one among them?

Really, the difficulty in carrying out the Long policies is that there were none. As a leader he did not himself know where he was going. He manifested no clear purpose except to exercise power, ever more power. His regime did not exhibit even as much direction as do the European dictatorships, and they have not proved that they can perpetuate themselves after their leader passes.

Is it not plain that personal rule based primarily on the uncertain and temporary nature of one human mind, affords poor expression for the fundamental purposes of a people? Would it not be well for Louisiana to think again whether it wants more of the "Long policies?" And would it not be wise for citizens of other states to determine what purposes their own leaders have beyond obtaining office and enjoying the revenues and powers of office?

NOBODY'S BUSINESS

By JULIAN CAPERS, JR.

Austin.—with the period of "perfecting the record" about over—meaning the time during which members of the legislature facing re-election next year have introduced for the sake of the record, about the full crop of "wild" measures about which they can brag during the campaign next summer—the special session was about ready to settle down this week and attempt to work out some constructive measures from the flood of good, bad and indifferent bills offered for the record.

The house expected to get onto the floor for debate at least one of three bills for liquor control. These range from the measure by Emmett Morse, wet leader, permitting sales in cafes and hotels—regarded as the "wet" bill—to that by George Moffett of Chillicothe, calling for state monopoly and sale only in unbroken packages, which may be taken as the extreme dry measure. In between there is a proposal by C. E. Nicholson, Port Arthur, under which the state would act as a liquor wholesaler, licensing retail package stores and hotel and restaurant bars, which could sell by the drink. In the senate, Clint Small's bill defining a saloon as any place selling a drink, signed by eight of his senate colleagues, is the only pending liquor measure.

Leading the big parade of state officials who will seek re-election in 1936 Col. Ernest O. Thompson, of Amarillo, chairman of the railroad commission this week issued his formal announcement. His campaign, Thompson asserts, will be based upon the record of the commission in administering oil conservation laws. "Our oil law is written to protect the consumer as well as the producer," said Thompson. "We have administered it faithfully." Thompson was appointed by Gov. Sterling in Feb., 1332, when Pat Neff resigned. He was elected in November, 1932, to fill out Neff's term.

Committee hearing on the old-age pension system, together with bills to finance it continued this week. Some pretty wild proposals, both for paying pensions and for raising the money to do it, have been offered. Additional revenue undoubtedly will be needed. At this early date, sentiment seems to be strongest with the solons to put much of this cost on chain stores, natural resources, including oil, gas and sulphur and, possibly, an increased take from the race track bettors.

* * *

What actually happens, of course, is due to be learned only when the lobby goes into action. The lobbyists are here in swarms. In addition to those of the big oil companies, the public utilities and others who remain constantly in Austin, numerous "specialists," including a large whisky lobby, and a sizeable representation from the hotels who seek to sell liquor are on the job. So large is the "third house" at this special session that one airline has put on a special plane, politely referred to as the "Legislative Special" so lobbyists can sleep at home in Dallas, or San Antonio and work in Austin without loss of time.

* * *

The whisk lobby which totally ignored Texas during the battle over the repeal amendment is on the job in a big way, now that some kind of liquor sale is certain, and they can't lose. They staged a 2-day boat trip on the Gulf for all members who would go along, just prior to the session's opening. Candidates for the legislature from sections that are drier than some of their present representatives might check up on the personnel of this "party" and obtain some useful information and campaign thunder.

Last week Walter Cline $25,000 a year managing director of the Texas Centennial Central Exposition Inc., of Dallas, flew to Washington to see some federal officials. He suddenly discovered himself to be out of a job. While he was gone the executive committee has announced his resignation from his lucrative post. Cline denied he had resigned, said he was being "forced out." What happened was that a bitter fight that has been going on for weeks behind the scenes had suddenly broken into the open—and Cline had lost. Otto Herold, recently manager of the State Fair of Dallas, was named temporary successor to Cline.

* * *

Cline never did business to suit the banking group which controls the Dallas Centennial machine. He was the last member of the original Texas Centennial commission cast to remain in the picture, and he had been miscast from the outset. Cline is a big, colorful, talkative West Texan from Wichita Falls. His genius is that of a salesman and a contact man. He likes people and they usually like him. On a executive job that required a "hard-boiled" man capable of picking an efficient staff and seeing that it did its work, he was lost. He preferred the spectacular role, and he thought if he hired the best talent from the San Diego and Chicago fairs, they would look after the details. They did not and couldn't. They found

Former Resident of City Get Thrill Of Appearing in Real Movie Scenes

Geo. O'Brien is Featured in New Type of Picture

George O'Brien will be seen far from his beloved West in most of "The Cowboy Millionaire," a Fox release, showing at the Princess Theatre today and Saturday, Sept. 27 and 28. The majority of the action in the film takes place in a big city.

All the characters are red-blooded, and the scenes have a breath-taking beauty. Action is plausible and makes one want to climb into a saddle and head for the land of adventure and romance.

O'Brien, one of the best loved of western film stars, gives a splendid portrayal of the cowboy guide, rough-mannered, but with a fine character, who falls in love with an English heiress at one of the swanky dude ranches in Arizona. He and his pal jointly own a mining claim, and while George O'Brien is called to the mine hurriedly, the girl returns to England. He returns with the great news that the mine has clicked and is worth a fortune, to find that the girl not only has left for England, but that his pal has gone, too, having had an offer to sell the claim for $25,000.

Thereupon starts the quest for the partner, to prevent him from selling the mine, and for the girl he loves. From the sandswept desert of Arizona, across the United States to England he goes, and his adventures during this quest makes a fast-moving and beautifully blended picture.

HARRISON-HAASS NUPTIALS SATURDAY

Of interest to friends of the bride in this city is the announcement of the marriage of Miss Aline Haass and Mr. Almer Harrison, which occurred last Saturday at 7 p. m., in Del Rio. The ceremony took place in the home of Rev. Hackworth, minister of the Del Rio Church of Christ.

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Haass of Hondo, and a former resident of Sanderson, and a graduate of the local high school. For the past year she has made her home in Del Rio.

Mr. Harrison is a son of J. E. Harrison of Del Rio and is an employe of the T. & N. O. railway.

The couple will make their home in North Heights, Del Rio.

Herbert Brown left last week for Kerrville to resume his studies at Schreiner Institute. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Brown accompanied him, and returned home last Thursday.

A. C. Clatfelter arrived the first of the week from Los Angeles where he had been attending a radio school, and will visit with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Clatfelter, Sr., for several weeks.

The following article, appearing in the Flagstaff Journal was received last Friday from Mrs. Stella Alcorn, who visited here recently, and will interest many of our readers. W. C. Steele, mentioned in the article, at one time lived in Sanderson and is a nephew of B. C. and Wade Farley of this place.—EDITOR

One doesn't have to go to Hollywood to get into the movies—not if they are brought to one's doorstep.

So the simple-living, hard-working farm folk of Oak Creek canyon, who never even dreamed of having their faces flashed on a real movie screen, learned last week when a German motion picture group, filming a picture in northern Arizona for the past three weeks, set up its studio on the lot of the W. C. Steele ranch, 25 miles south of Flagstaff.

Nobody ever told them they "ought to be in pictures," either, and they didn't ask for the "extra" parts. They were drafted.

Nestled down in the fertile canyon bottom, bordered by a mountain stream, and overshadowed by wind-worn, irregular red and white sandstone cliffs, the Steele ranch made an ideal setting for western scenes of '49, being reenacted by the German screen fans.

Cow Eyes Camera Suspiciously

The picture being filmed, "The Emperor of California," is a story dealing with the life of John Sutter, who struck gold at what subsequently became known as "Sutter's creek" near Sacramento, in California, in 1849. It will show the Switzerlander's migration across America, the gold strike, his loss of all he attained, and his philosophy.

Routine labor of Oak Creek ranch life—gathering in the rich harvest of fruits that are bearing down the limbs to the breaking point—was interrupted for Mr. Steele's neighbors, employes and his family as the movie camera clicked and they became part of the movie scenes.

Mr. Steele said he was too busy to take part in the picture-making himself but that everybody had a lot of fun.

Even all the horses and cows available in the neighborhood were drafted. They eyed the camera man and his 3-legged paraphernalia suspiciously, but their masters' "whoa," and "get-tap" and "sou, bossy" was reassuring, so they, too, will "be in pictures."

Hear of First Gold Strike

Teams, used to work and not play, pulled three rigged-up covered wagons of the "westward ho era" up a crooked mountain trail near the Steele ranch, while costumed Oak Creek men, women and children rode in the wagons, went a-foot driving tired-eyed cattle, or on horseback as scouts. The wagons were brought to Oak Creek canyon by the picture troup.

Mr. Steele's two son, Will, 10, and Raymond, 8, received a thrill when a cameraman made a close-up of them peeping shyly from under the cover of one of the wagons.

Earl Russell and Leland Larrymore, employed by Mr. Steele, were depicted in a closeup scene as two contented mid-western farm hands gathering apples from a heavy loaded tree when they first heard of Sutter's discovery of gold in California. They dropped their filled buckets, the apples rolling in every direction, to join in the gold rush of '49.

Youngest Member of the Cast

To show what bountiful golden crops they were deserting in lust for the glittering metal, the cameraman took a closeup of the big fruit on one of the most heavily laden trees in Mr. Steele's orchard.

Probably the youngest member of the cast in the German picture is the month-old baby of Mr. Russell. The baby was used in one scene.

Luis Trenker, a German actor playing the part of John Sutter, and 13 others, including actors, comeramen and the director, boarded at Mr. Steele's ranch for a week. While there, with the help of Oak Creek's residents as extras, they filmed scenes of Sutter's westward trek across the continent in a covered wagon train, as well as other scenes. The troup went from Steele's ranch to Prescott, where more scenes will be filmed.

The picture they are filming probably will never be shown in America. Sound will be add to it artificially when they return to Germany. They promised, however, to send Mr. Steele pictures of some of the scenes in the canyon on his ranch.

INTERESTING ITEMS PICKED UP HERE AND THERE

With the opening of school a new problem in preparation confronts many mothers and housewives not only in the actual preparation and packing of adequate lunches for their growing children but in so coordinating the school lunch with the home meals that all members of the family are well served.

Where a hot dish is available in the school lunch room the task is somewhat simplified but in any case it is necessary that the evening meal take care of shortages in the school lunch without overburdening the housewife.

Jackie Cooper in Perfect Role as 'Peck's Bad Boy'

The Fox Film presentation of "Peck's Bad Boy," which will be seen at the Princess Theatre next Monday night, Sept. 30, was acclaimed by Hollywood critics as a "new American classic" and a "vital human document for every man and woman."

There is an abundance of stellar talent in this film — at least three stars, and some will agree with the writer that there are six. Jackie Coper and Jackie Searl appear respectively as Bill Peck and Horace Clay, offering performances which are splendidly matched and balanced. Then there is Thomas Meighan, whose return to the screen must be a cause of rejoicing to all who admire his stalwart, healthy humor and his matured, certain touch.

Also there is O. P. Heggie as the town's hand man, philosopher tramp and humorist — a "fat" role. The other two stars are inevitable in a boy's story. They are dogs. Bill has one and Horace has the other, and they get along just as badly as do their masters. Each dog is the dumb symbol of his owner. Much humor is developed in this dual antagonism, for Bill has reason to detest his mealy-mouthed, hypocritical cousin just as "Elmer" has to hate "Wee Toy," Horace's pedigreed Pekinese.

The story is that of a misunderstood boy who, though full of mischief and lively spirits, is at heart a fine manly youngster who wins everybody's liking on sight. Played by Jackie Cooper, he is an unfailing delight.

Don't miss this new version of an American classic, retold with fine simplicity and effect.

BE A BOOSTER

Editor's Note: This is an editorial prepared by Pat Harris in his tenth grade English work·

Everyone should be a booster for his team. At the present time every member of the Sanderson school should boost or help the football in some way. There are several ways in which one may boost the team of Sanderson high school. Those in the high school should be on the team in the band, in the pep squad, or be a sideline spectator.

When the boys meet a team that is hard to beat they need encouragement to make them play harder. Encouragement is one of the best ways to win when a team is almost defeated. So let's all be boosters for our team and be out at the football field at every game.

Watch our boys go! P. H.

Eagle Squad Has New Equipment

For the first time in five years the Eagle football team will wear new suits. Over $200 worth of new equipment has been bought by the athletic department at the Sanderson high school for the ensuing season.

The following purchases were made: Twelve pairs of shoulder pads, twelve pairs of pants, twelve head gears, and eighteen orange and black jerseys.

This equipment and the cost of trips and visiting teams constitutes the athletic department's expense for the season. Coach Duane Smith urges all citizens of the town to attend the football games so that these expenses may be met.

The purpose of this pep rally is to give the citizens of the town an opportunity to join with the student body in support of the athletic team.

At the game with Van Horn last Saturday the pep squad was on hand and gave yells and sang songs during the afternoon. Lois Taylor is head yell leader, and Mildred Haines and Elizabeth Brown are her assistants. There are thirty-three members in the pep squad.

Eagles Win First Game From Van Horn Squad 26-0

The Sanderson high school Eagles opened the season last Saturday by defeating Van Horn Eagles 26 to 0, at the American Legion park.

Halley started the scoring by a 45-yard dash around end to the 5-yard line. On the first play Lochausen plunged the line for the first score, crosing the line standing up. Try for point was a little off. Sanderson kicked to Van Horn, and the visitors were held for downs. Then the fleet-footed Mussey knocked off 55 yards around left end for another count. The Eagles converted for the extra point by bucking the line. The first quarter ended Sanderson 13, Van Horn 0.

Letup at Quarter

In the second quarter there was a slight letup, and Sanderson scored but one touchdown. Halley scored on an off tackle play. The half ended, Sanderson still in the lead, 19 to 0.

The third quarter started with Mussey in the doctor's office with a nervous breakdown. Black was used for Mussey. There wasn't any blocking or tackling to speak of, and the teams see-sawed up and down the field. Sullivan did most of the ball carrying. Mussey returned all o. k. and he was put back in the game. He hit the center of the line and cut back to his left, and ran 40 yards for another pay time. Halley bucked the line for extra point, but our right end and tackle were offside and it didn't count.

Visitors Only Threat

With fifteen seconds left to play the Eagles kicked off. "Dutch," 185-pound back was Van Horn's only ball carrier. He intercepted one of Halley's passes and ran 20 yards before he was stopped. He was the only man on the visitors' team who could be called a star. He played a nice defensive game by backing up the line, did the ball carrying, punted and passed with three fractured ribs.

R. Deaton and Appel were the outstanding performers in the line. Mussey and Halley were outstanding in the backfield. The fine blocking by Sullivan and Lochausen enabled the ball carriers to make yards.

Eagle-Shorthorn At Legion Park Tomorrow, 28th

The Sanderson Eagles will meet the Marfa Shorthorns tomorrow at 2:30 p. m., at American Legion field. The Shorthorns are traditional rivals of the war birds. Every year they meet in about two gridiron clashes.

Last year the War Birds and Shorthorns played a 0 to 0 deadlock at the Highland Fair. When the Shorthorns invaded the nest of the Eagles they were taken by a score of 6 to 0.

Marfa boasts having another fine team this year, although Coach Martin has only one returning letterman around which to build his 1935 machine. They were beaten 26 to 0 last week in Fort Davis' back yard

Team Has Injuries

The Eagles are in pretty bad shape right now. Lochausen, our blocking halfback, has an injured leg. Halley, big bruising fullback, has a bad charlie horse, but will be ready to go when the whistle starts play. Black, utility back, has a bad heel, but this will not keep him out of the game. With the exception of a few bruises and skinned places the rest of the squad are ready for action.

Coach Smith has given the team some new plays to use this week end. He stated that the boys will be able to demonstrate a better brand of football in tomorrow's game than they showed last Saturday. The boys are blocking and tackling more viciously this week —they are becoming football-minded a little now.

Starting Lineup

Eligibility Rules Will Be Strictly Enforced at SHS

Eligibility rules are being adhered to strictly during this season of football at Sanderson high school. Since the team has become a member of the Interscholastic League conference, rules must be held to rigidly or else conference membership will be denied this school.

Members of the team must pass three out of four subjects seven days prior to a game of either football or basketball before they are eligible to play. Failing lists are published weekly at the high school on bulletin boards so that the students are notified as to the kind of work they are doing.

Rules for Lettering

Before a football player can letter for the season and awarded a sweater he must be passing in three out of four of his subjects at the end of the season. He also must have played in eighteen quarters of football games before he can earn a letter award sweater. Charley Laughlin is the only member of the team who is ineligibe this week. His position at guard will be filled by Bob Lea.

Lettermen Will Be Given Chance To Captain Team

Reuben Mussey will act as captain in the Marfa-Sanderson gridiron tilt tomorrow afternoon at American Legion park. Roy Deaton acted as captain in the game last week against Van Horn.

Prior to this year it had been customary to elect a captain before the start of the playing season. This year, however, the practice is changed, and Coach Duane Smith will name a captain before each game. The acting captain will be a letterman. The following players are eligible for the honor: Sullivan, Halley, Mussey, Lochausen, Appel, Richardson and Roy Deaton. Haines and Bogusch are the two reserves.

Coach Smith pointed out that this is an honor that should be passed around to all letter men. At the end of the season a captain will be elected that has been the best leader. In such a custom the best leader shows his ability and wins his "star" for ability rather than popularity.

Coach Smith also pointed out that a captain of a football team does not have to be the best player on the team, but should be the player with the best spirit. He must first be eligible scholastically and then must train rigidly during the season.

Good High School Band is Prospect

Thirty-nine students have registered for band work at Sanderson high school to date. Nineteen of these students are not playing in the band as yet, but are taking special music instruction preparatory to band membership. Students from the first to the eleventh grade are taking added interest in the band are are participating in some musical activity.

Due to the band growing so rapidly in size, prospects are good for a large band this year. J. E. King, director, has been working with the new members to teach them to play their instruments.

The band played at the football game at Legion park last Saturday, and will furnish music at the other games of the season.

Songs of Texas Sung at Assembly

Assembly singing was begun at the general assembly of the high school students and the seventh grade at the regular assembly period last Tuesday afternoon at Sanderson high school. Leitha Chaffin directed the songs.

Texas songs, a part of the statewide Centennial observation, will be sung at each weekly meeting.

Assembly guests Tuesday were Mrs. Bill Vaughn and Thomasine St. Clair, ex-students.

The assembly is held weekly each Tuesday afternoon, at 1:45 o'clock.

UNDER THE
Eagle's Wing
BY O. T. SCHUPBACH

Eagles! Eagles! Eeagles! That isn't a bad name to have, is it? We, the student body of Sanderson high school, ought to be very proud of our name.

The Sanderson Eagles and the Van Horn Eagles seemed to have a very nice time last Saturday afternoon. It was a good time for us, because we won.

At the end of the first half, feathers were flying all over the park with Sanderson 19 points in the lead. The first quarter ended with our boys in the lead, 13 to 0. Only one touchdown was made in that counted in the second quarter. By the way, folks, our boys scored three touchdowns that were called back?

When the whistle blew at the close of the third quarter, Sanderson had failed to score in that period, but in the last quarter Sanderson tallied another payday making the final count Sanderson 26, Van Horn 0.

With Mussey and Halley doing most of the pigskin toting, the boys found it very easy to score. Halley circled end behind some fine blocking for 45 yards, to the five yard line. On the first attempt Lochausen took it over standing up. Another counter came when Mussey went through the middle of the line for 50 yards and a touchdown. A while later Mussey scored again on a long run.

In the last half the boys began to let down; they didn't play the same style of ball. Had they played the whole game like they did in the first quarter the score would have been somewhat different.

The only threat made by Van Horn was when "Dutch," the big Van Horn back intercepted Halley's pass and ran about thirty-five yards before he was brought down from behind by Halley.

Field general Sullivan called a very nice ball game. This boy is going to hard to get along with on the field when he gets over his stage fright. Roy Deaton, acting as captain, played a bang-up game at center and end. It was his excellent blocking that paved the way for several nice gains through the center of the line. On defense he is a whiz! Appel looked good in this game, both in tackling and blocking. In fact the whole line looked good, especially the boys playing their first game.

Essary Haines, guard, who sustained a broken collarbone last week in practice was missed, but Laughlin and Lea will hold down his position until he gets back.

We will play the Marfa Shorthorns at Legion park Saturday. This will be our first Interscholastic game, so let's see if we can't have a record crowd on the sidelines. The Eagles have new equipment that must be paid for, so they will appreciate it if every one who possibly can be out for the game tomorrow.

Marfa has but one letterman back from last year, but Coach Martin has a husky bunch of squad men. Last Saturday they were beat, 26 to 0, by Fort Davis, but that doesn't mean a thing. They will be fired to the gills for us. So let's get fired for them.

Don't forget—Saturday, Sept. 28, at 2:30 p. m., the Sanderson Eagles and Marfa Shorthorns will clash!
