Congressman Young Seeks Re-election

Congressman John Young has announced his candidacy for re-election to the Fourteenth Congressional District of Texas. Congressman Young is completing his 8th term as United States Representative.

In announcing for re-election, Congressman Young stated: "When a person has had the honor and privilege of representing a great District like our Fourteenth as I have, his record of performance in office speaks for itself. I welcome the performance test because the interests of our South Texas area are vast, and I know no one could have dedicated himself more completely, sincerely, or effectively to the representation of his District." These interests include: Farming and ranching, military installations, oil, gas, and minerals, deep-water ports and water-transportation facilities, world-renowned recreation facilities, including the fabulous Padre Island National Seashore, innumerable Federal public works projects, including dams, Federal interstate highways, a broad scope of major industrial plants, and great fleets of sport and commercial fishing vessels.

These varied economic interests are as complex and broad as those of the nation itself. Young takes pride in a progressive attitude and record in support of the whole scope of this effort, and emphasizes, "the problems of our District, wherever located, are my problems and I shall continue to treat them with the same personal care and attention."

Young attributes a great deal of his effectiveness to his service on the powerful Committee on Rules, a much coveted, "door-opening," Democratic leadership assignment, which puts him in an especially advantageous position to present our District's problems to the appropriate officials at an appropriate time.

"We are serving as sponsors of the pageant this year because we believe it provides a valuable contribution to the community and to the young ladies who enter the competition," Lister said in announcing plans for his organization.

"We believe it serves the community well because it focuses attention on the high calibre of young ladies who are residents of our area and in addition - we believe it serves youth well because it provides the opportunity for those taking part to gain added poise through public appearances and to gain added maturity through participation in a wholesome worthwhile community project such as the Miss Rockport Pageant," Lister added.

The entire affair will be directed by Mrs. Martha Iris Goodman of Beeville. Mrs. Goodman has had vast experience in pageantry activities and is closely associated with many outstanding young ladies throughout South Texas.

Aransas County History Research Nearing Completion

Collection of information for a book on the "History of Aransas County, 1871-1971," will be completed soon.

The author, Dr. A. Ray Stephens, professor of history at North Texas State University at Denton, is here between semesters, interviewing persons knowledgeable on various phases of the history of this area.

In some instances he is making tape recorded interviews for source material for the history. The tapes also will be added to the Oral History Collection of North Texas State University.

The historical project started early last year after being initiated by Spencer and supported financially by him and other community leaders. Stephens hopes to have the history written by the end of 1972 and published in 1973.

Among the persons interviewed during the past week by Stephens were County Judge John D. Wendell, James H. Sorenson, Jr., and David Crooks, James R. Heldenfels of Corpus Christi (including a taped interview), Mr. and Mrs. Simon Lee Sorenson.

District Judge John Miller of Sinton, Mrs. Connie Hagar, Dr. H. F. Elliot (including a taped interview), Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Rice, Sr., Aransas National Wildlife Refuge officials and Pete Hamilton of the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Flood Protection Ordinance Approved by Aransas County

Building During 1971 Totaled $2,266,840

The year 1971 was a banner 12 months here from the standpoint of building, with permits issued by the City of Rockport for $2,266,840, including residential and commercial construction.

Heading the list were permits for 45 new homes, with total estimated value put at $1,077,200.

In second place from the standpoint of estimated value was a 24-unit townhouse complex listed at $400,000.

Next, were two apartment complexes, one planned for 48 units and the other for three units. Total estimated valuation was placed at $315,000.

Commercial buildings numbered 11, according to the records, and the total valuation was put at $249,400.

Four motel additions, providing for 19 units, were included, with a valuation of $122,800.

A total of 52 permits were issued for additions to existing homes and the estimated valuation was listed at $81,165.

Navig. District Budget Information

The following information about the 1972 budget for Aransas County Navigation District was given to the Pilot by Ellis Clark, attorney for the Navigation District:

In the preparation of the 1972 budget the Navigation District Commissioners noted some things which should be of interest to the people of Aransas County.

Availability of operating dollars--The fact that Ad Valorem taxes are payable starting in October the previous year makes dollars available to the Navigation District beginning the first month of the operating year. This means, generally speaking, that income is greater than expenses throughout the year. However, 1972 expenses are estimated at $77,000 and income at $75,000. This situation didn't happen overnight; the cost of running the business of the Navigation District has been increasing each year. Now we have a problem. The deficit in 1972 can be paid from interest accrued on savings accounts held by the Navigation District. This only delays facing up to the overall problem. Some $31,000 comes from the county Ad Valorem tax and the remaining $44,000 from dock and lease rentals. The cost of doing business is about $25,000 greater than all the income received from Navigation District property rentals and leases.

How to obtain deficient funds --An increase in dock rates and land leases are therefore indicated. A study of similar facilities in other areas show that the Aransas County rents and leases are much lower than any area contacted. Dock rate increases will provide immediate help but lease income will lag owing to the tenure of the leases. Some leases will take as long as five (5) years before they can be increased and some will not pay income until their leases expire.

Summer Month Expenses--It is noted that expenses go up appreciably during the summer months. This is due to the work done by the Navigation District.

Register to Vote

Mrs. Margaret Weber, Aransas County Tax Assessor-Collector, has asked the Pilot to publish the following information about voter registration:

The tax office in October mailed applications to qualified voters in Aransas County. Many of these applications have NOT been filled out and returned to the tax office. Mrs. Weber urged those who have received applications to please fill them out and return them to the tax office in the courthouse by Jan. 31.

New Garden Center Plans To Produce Greenhouse Tomatoes

Emory M. Spencer today announced the sale of a five-acre tract on Highway 35 North, 11 1/2 miles north of the city limits, which will become the location of the $250,000 Pearson's Garden Center.

This choice location is on the west side of the highway and is known to local people as the place where the "old Barracks" have stood for years.

Construction work was started this week on the Garden Center by area building tradesmen under the supervision of Lawrence Harrell of Houston. Construction is expected to be completed in May, with the grand opening shortly thereafter.

Pearson's Garden Center will be owned and operated by Melton T. Pearson and his son, James E. Pearson. Melton Pearson has been engaged in the agricultural business for over 20 years and immediately prior to moving to the Rockport area in 1968 was president of Standard Spray and Chemical Company, operating plants in Florida, Alabama and North Carolina, and producing a line of commercial and garden center products.

James Pearson graduated in May of last year from Tennessee Technological University with a B.S. degree, majoring in general agriculture and horticulture.

Pearson's Garden Center will consist of a 2,500-square foot store space connecting with a plant flat house and display area. A large greenhouse operation is also planned consisting of a 22,680-square foot Ickes-Braun Fiberglass greenhouse containing the latest in climatic controls for producing greenhouse tomatoes.

An additional separate 3,000-square foot greenhouse will be built for the production of potted floral and related plants.

The Pearsons plan to operate the tomato and floral production business on both a retail and wholesale basis and to serve a wide area of South Texas.

"The selection of our location," Pearson explained, "was motivated by a desire to build and maintain an attractive operation that will not only be a credit to the community, but will be of possible interest to the many tourists and visitors who come to the Rockport area."

Accordingly, some rather extensive landscaping is planned, and observation areas will be built in each greenhouse with "Visitors Welcome" signs attractively posted for the attention of all traffic passing the site.

Customers of the Garden Center will be offered a complete line of garden supplies, such as seeds, potted plants, yard plants, grasses, fertilizers, pesticides and herbicides.

Greenhouse tomatoes will be offered during the months of November through May. Prior to inventory, all garden chemical products will be examined to determine that they meet the safest guidelines for non-persistence in the environment, yet effectiveness in their purpose.

A landscaping, lawn renovation and spray service is planned involving custom-made equipment and chemical technology needed in this area.

Laboratory and soil testing equipment necessary for analysis work in the greenhouse will be offered home owners of the area for specific identification of soil, disease, weed and insect problems with control recommendations being based on research data from Texas A&M University.

It is intended that this type of technical educational service will enable home owners to not only avoid frustrations often experienced in yard care and development, but also to assist in improvement of the general environment and property values.

Aransas County Commissioners Court, at a public hearing this week, gave final approval to a Flood Protection Ordinance which was passed just prior to the end of 1971.

The ordinance, similar to one adopted by the City Council, qualifies the county to retain eligibility for flood insurance under the National Flood Insurance Program.

Adoption of this ordinance by the city and county, and submission of it to the Federal Flood Administrator prior to Dec. 31, 1971 was necessary in order for coastal flood-prone areas to retain eligibility of Federal subsidized insurance.

The most important provision of the Flood Protection Ordinance is the requirement that, effective Jan. 1, 1972, all new construction and substantial improvement to residential and non-residential structures must be elevated to or above eight feet above sea level.

Other actions at the Commissioners Court meeting included:

--W. W. Janeczek was given permission to use overhead wiring to supply electricity for a 20-acre subdivision he is planning near Rattlesnake Point. He said the subdivision would consist of two-acre tracts.

--Jimmy Hunt, County Veterans Service office, was praised in a letter from the Veterans Affairs Commission for his service to war veterans and their families. During 1971, monetary benefits for veterans and their families in this county totaled $270,357.

--Voted to pay $200 dues to Texas Association of Counties.

City Gets $10,396 Grant for Park

At the last City Council meeting it was announced that the city had received a $10,396.08 government grant to help pay the cost of establishing a 25-acre park one mile northwest of the city on Farm Road 2165. This was the first payment by the government on a total $25,000 of grant money to assist with the project.

When finished, the park will offer many recreational facilities including two Little League baseball diamonds and a third baseball diamond. Also, there will be picnic tables and restroom facilities.

tion District in preparation for the Summer Water Recreation program. During 1971, about $8,000 was spent for this purpose. Although the Aransas County Navigation District might be considered the proper agency to sponsor a Summer Water Recreation program, there is no way it can be funded. The program has grown too large and too important for a hit-miss type sponsorship. It is no longer feasible to expect private donors or the business community to provide funds for such a program. City and county officials must determine who will be charged with sponsorship and make provision for proper funding.

Exceptions to the 1971 Budget—During 1971 the Navigation District paid out the last of its share of the cost of realigning the county boundary lines. The total cost was about $17,500 to the Navigation District. During the year, some $32,000 was spent in repairing damages caused by Hurricane Celia. This cost was reimbursed from national governmental sources. Should expenses of this nature arise in the future, the Navigation District would be hard pressed to pay them.

What has been done to Reduce Costs and Increase Income—Steps have been taken to collect all delinquent dock rents and lease accounts. A procedure is now being established to eliminate or reduce the incidence of bad debts. Dock rates in Rockport Harbor are being increased fifty (50) percent effective 1 March 1972. Dock rates in Fulton Harbor owing to less desirable facilities in Fulton Harbor are being increased by only twenty five (25) percent effective 1 March 1972. All utility users will be required to provide the services they desire. Lease rates will be increased by 50% or as specified in the lease contract.

The actions will increase income in 1972 by about $7,500, and by about $10,000 in 1973. Thereafter, income will increase each year until by 1977 it will provide about $19,000 more revenue. Cost savings will amount to about $500 in 1972, and about $700 each year thereafter. It will take years to close the gap on the income-cost relationship. We need your support in correcting this problem which can only get worse.

announced soon as they will come from out of town.

Several area winners have been invited to attend the event as special guests and these will be announced as they accept.

One of the highlights of the program will be the selection of a Little Miss and Little Mister Rockport from among more than twenty first grade youngsters.

"This will be a community effort and endeavor and it is hoped that all will participate to insure its success," Lister said.

One outstanding guest has already been obtained for an appearance. She is the current Miss South Texas, Shelley Lee. Miss Lee of Victoria will present the talent which won her the coveted Miss South Texas crown last summer.

Additional details will be announced next week.

Aliens Must Report Addresses

Immigration officials are well pleased with the response of aliens in this area to address report requirements.

Hoyt H. Harris of the Immigration and Naturalization Service stated that although the program has been underway only ten days, the number reporting thus far is well ahead of the number reporting during the same period last year.

Aliens have until the end of January to submit their address reports to the Government. Forms for the purpose may be obtained at any Post Office or any office of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

All aliens, with few exceptions, are required to report. Those excused from this requirement include diplomats and persons accredited to certain international organizations.

Aliens who are minors must also report, but the parent or legal guardian should submit the report for an alien child under fourteen years of age.

Re-elect Harrison Library Chairman

Col. James Harrison was re-elected chairman of the Aransas County Public Library Board at its annual meeting Monday. W. E. McBride was elected vice chairman for a second term as was Mrs. Alice Moore, secretary-treasurer.

Plans were outlined for the improvement of the services the library renders to the public, and extension of its programs in connection with the announcement of the Library's status as a Community Library under the Texas Library Association's implementation of the 1969 Texas Library Systems Act, particularly in connection with the advisory council.

Members attending the meeting were Col. Harrison, W. E. McBride, Blas Rameras, Tom Moore, Mrs. Frances Bailey, Mrs. Joe Slocum, Col. T. L. Moran, Mrs. Alice Moore and Librarian Mrs. Corrinne Crabb.

Mrs. Crabb reported to the Board the increased use of the "copy" machine. Since this is a coin-operated machine available to the general public it is felt that it is supplying to the area people an easy method of securing copies of almost any type of material. While the machine may be operated without the assistance of library personnel, they are always happy to assist in its use in any way requested.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT

By Carl Duckworth

About seven years ago, we had a guest who promptly decided that shrimping was the thing he should be doing. After drooling each time he saw a shrimp boat coming into the harbor, he went back home, severed his ties, gathered up his money, and rushed back to Rockport.

Daily, he would look for a good boat to buy. Before long, he found "the one". Course it needed a little work. Like rigging, live bait boxes, repair an oil leak, straighten a slightly bent shaft, and install a new prop. Few little minor things like that. Needed licensing too. And nets. And doors.

Come to think of it now, I don't think it had been a shrimp boat to begin with. But I digress. Before long, (about 4 months) I heard that he was about to make his maiden voyage. Later, he came by, very depressed.

"Hey, I heard you made your first trip out shrimping. How'd you do?" I asked.

"Well, you know how long I've been working on the boat," he said. "Let me tell you what happened. I got everything ready, started up the boat, and headed out of the Basin. As soon as I got by the rock jetty, I dropped my net over and drug for a good thirty minutes before I pulled the net up. There were a lot of odds and ends in the net; but only two shrimp. Wouldn't you know, when I got ready to shrimp there wouldn't be any in the bay?"

"How many times did you drag," I asked.

"Just that one time. It's a lotta' hard work handling that net, putting it in and taking it out," he answered.

We talked a little longer. Mostly about his bad luck as a shrimping tycoon.

He's still around the area and has since become a pretty good shrimper; but he doesn't come to see us anymore. Somehow, I feel like he holds us responsible for his introduction to the "shrimping game".

I'm sure he could tell a "newcomer" a lot: Like how some men spend their lives shrimping and never learn it all. Like boats don't stay in running condition, without constant attention. Like every single obstacle on the ocean floor is just waiting to tear up your nets. Like squalls and sudden weather changes can tear up boats and drown shrimpers. Like---when the shrimping is good, the wholesale price is down. He could tell a lot more things that wouldn't look good in print.

Some things must be easier than others no doubt. Like they say, "the grass is greener in the other yard". That is, until you scratch the surface.

Take Charter Boats: Looks profitable, and easy, until you enter the business. There's the cost of your boat, moorage, insurance, maintenance, maintenance, and more maintenance. You have to be a genius in all things that your charters encounter. You have to be able to forecast the weather, know where the fish will be, act as a doctor, be a servant, listen to old jokes (and laugh in the proper places), not laugh when you really want to, and you need to be able to spin a good yarn.

Up at 4:30 to get things ready for a charter, help your people aboard with their booze and gear, and cast off. You try to think of the best place to go that will produce fish. Generally, it's better for you to cast the lines out. You already know that you will have to net their fish, and put them in ice chests.

After half a day, you're tired. Bone tired; but a happy kind of tired if your trip was successful.

There are many things that can happen on a charter trip. Someone can get a hook. You can have mechanical trouble. Occasionally someone will fall overboard, or get stoned. Maybe both. All in a day's work for a captain.

He may have to wait weeks before the conditions and weather are right for a charter. If there is the threat of a hurricane, he must haul his entire business out of the water.

It takes a special kind of fellow to make a successful charter boat captain. So the next time you run across one of our captains, stop and say Howdy. Shake their hand. Re-

Political Organizations Are Required to Report Contributions

Secretary of State Bob Bullock today asked that the state and county political organizations report their contributions and expenditures in the same manner as is required of candidates for public office.

"The people of this state who care enough to give their money to political parties deserve to know how their money is being spent. Likewise, they are entitled to know how much money is received by their party and the sources of the contributions."

"I do not contend that the law requires these reports. It does not. However, thirty-one states now require that political organizations at all levels report their contributions and expenditures. I believe that Texas parties should be no less diligent in keeping the public informed."

"I know of no better way to accomplish this than by assuring the people of this state that they will be accurately informed of the financial transactions of the candidates and the political organizations."

"In my directive of December 3, 1971, the statutes governing the reporting requirements of candidates for public office were clarified. I now believe the candidates are aware of what is required of them and I am sure that they will comply."

"If the political parties will take this same step toward public disclosure of their finances, the people of this state can make a more accurate judgement of the performance of their party."

"I believe that this type of open disclosure should be required of the parties and my staff is presently preparing draft legislation to be submitted to the next session of the Legislature. Until such legislation is enacted, I call on the state and county political organizations to voluntarily make this report in the interest of the people."

In order to allow the parties to comply with my request in an orderly fashion, I ask that all contributions and expenditures to the parties made after January 1, 1972, be reported at the same time and in the same manner as is required of candidates for public office."

More information may be obtained at the county clerk's office.

member what kind of a guy he has to be... It might be a good idea to have a "be nice to charter boat captains" week. They deserve it... But, come to think about it, without live shrimp for bait, they couldn't go fishing and expect to catch very many... We'd better be nice to the shrimpers too.

Use Pre-Addressed IRS Label

Many taxpayer errors, particularly those that delay refunds, can be eliminated by using the pre-addressed label on the tax package received in the mail. Peel the label from the tax package and place it on your Form 1040.

Income tax returns with labels can be quickly identified and processed since they contain necessary identifying information, George Zerd, Administrative Officer of Internal Revenue for Corpus Christi, Texas, said today.

If your name or address has changed, make the necessary corrections on the label and lightly strike through the wrong pre-printed information. If you have a refund due, this will help insure delivery of the check to the correct address.

Taxpayers should also be certain that their correct Social Security number is entered on the label before they file their return.

Increase In Social Security Earnings Base Means Higher Benefits

You may pay more in social security deductions in 1972--but the increase will mean higher benefits in the future, according to H. M. Cleveland, social security district manager in Corpus Christi.

The percentage rate of social security deductions from earnings is the same as it was last year--5.2 percent. But the amount of earnings subject to social security--the earnings base, and the amount you get credit for, was increased to $9,000 a year for 1972.

Employers and employees pay an equal amount. Self-employed people contribute 7.5 percent of their covered earnings for social security.

Those who earn more than $7,800 a year will pay more, but they can also expect higher social security benefits in the future because the amount of social security benefits is based on average earnings, Cleveland said.

In figuring the average, only earnings on which social security contributions have been paid, can be counted.

The "earnings base" that counts for social security has gone up gradually over the years as income levels have risen. In 1937, when social security began, taxes and benefits were based on only $3,000 a year.

State and County Political Organizations Must Report Contributions and Expenditures

Secretary of State Bob Bullock today asked that the state and county political organizations report their contributions and expenditures in the same manner as is required of candidates for public office.

"The people of this state who care enough to give their money to political parties deserve to know how their money is being spent. Likewise, they are entitled to know how much money is received by their party and the sources of the contributions."

"I do not contend that the law requires these reports. It does not. However, thirty-one states now require that political organizations at all levels report their contributions and expenditures. I believe that Texas parties should be no less diligent in keeping the public informed."

"In my directive of December 3, 1971, the statutes governing the reporting requirements of candidates for public office were clarified. I now believe the candidates are aware of what is required of them and I am sure that they will comply."

"If the political parties will take this same step toward public disclosure of their finances, the people of this state can make a more accurate judgement of the performance of their party."

When contacted, Lola L. Bonner, Democratic Chairman of Aransas County stated that for a practical matter, no funds other than assessments had been deposited to nor expended from the local Executive Committee Account since the Kennedy-Johnson ticket in 1960. At that time, all county executive committees were asked by the State Executive Committee to solicit donations to help pay for the cost of the Statewide campaign for Kennedy-Johnson.

She further stated that although the committee is authorized by statute to pay for the cost of a Secretary, as a part of election expenses, the local committee made no such expenditures during the election year of 1970. She emphasized that Mr. Bullock's request pertained only to contributions and donations received in addition to candidate assessments, since the executive committees must, by statute, report to the County Clerk the manner in which assessment funds are expended.

FINEST ON THE GREAT COASTAL BEND

Hiway 35 North

Fulton Beach Road

Shown above is a photograph of an oil painting "The Day's Beginning" painted by William A. Brigl who will teach a painting workshop in oil at the Rockport Art Ass'n. Gallery beginning January 24.

The artist was born in Munich, Bavaria and is a direct descendant of the Flemish painters, Peter and John Breughel. His earliest teaching was received from his father, who painted for the King of Bavaria. When Brigl was 16, he was a private student of the marine painter, Eric Mercker and at 18 years of age was accepted at the Academy of Fine Arts of Munich in Joseph Sailer's class. He was also accepted as a member of the Artists' Association of Bavaria. He studied Renaissance and Baroque painters privately in Rome and in Paris. By the time he was 23, Brigl had three paintings accepted at the Grand Salon in Paris.

When Brigl was 28, he came to the U. S., where he lived in Wisconsin. Private showings of his works have been held in many galleries and museums including the Findlay Gallery of Chicago, the O'Brien Gallery of Chicago, the Goehring Gallery of Evanston, Ill., and the San Francisco Exhibition of the Western Artists Association. In the 50's he maintained a studio and gallery in Taos, N. M., and in Tree Studio Bldg., in Chicago.

Mr. Brigl has had 7 professorships and a deanship offered, one from the American Government in Karachi. His works hang not only in museums, but in many large private collections in the U. S., Europe and Australia.

In 1959, he moved to Highland Park in Dallas, where he now maintains his studio.

His work is quite varied, since he paints seascapes, landscapes, figure paintings, religious works and his beloved Big Bend country of Texas, where he has walked and painted for 35 years. He is especially known for the beautiful sunlight in his paintings. In his youth, in order to perfect his knowledge of the sea, he travelled from Denmark to Iceland and back on fishing boats. He also became an amateur geologist in order to discover why colors change when vegetable, mineral and earth paints are mixed. This is what led to his interest in Texas' Big Bend Country.

He is a State Appointed Judge of Fine Arts for the State of Wisconsin, and is sought out by insurance companies, banks, and individuals desiring appraisals on various works of art.

William Brigl's classes will begin on January 24th and continue through January 28 and will be half-day limited classes, morning and afternoon. He is the first of the 1972 Spring Program of artists being sponsored by the Rockport Art Association.

While in California for Christmas, my wife, father and I took a tour of the Queen Mary, the famed ship which was purchased for several million dollars as a tourist attraction and docked at Long Beach.

A book could be written about this famous ship, but I shall limit my account to a few paragraphs. In the first place, this 1,019 foot ship already has been partially converted to offer visitors a wide variety of shops and restaurants and work is in progress to install hotel accommodations.

But to me, the immense size, the history, the fittings and equipment were the main things of interest. To condense this information, here are the highlights:

Builders: John Brown & Co., Ltd., Clydebank, Scotland. Keel Laid: December 1, 1930. Work Suspended: December 10, 1931.

Work Resumed: April 3, 1934. Launched: September 26, 1934.

Question: "What do you think of 'Moderate' drinking?" Answer: The chances of becoming a "problem drinker" is about one out of seven. This simply means that the "moderate" drinker is playing Russian Roulette with his life and health.

We dare not shut our eyes to the facts. Alcoholism constitutes the country's largest mental health problem. 60% of the mental hospital patients in almost any of our 50 states have problems related to alcohol. 75% of all juvenile delinquency involves those youth who drink.

The Bible says "Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging; and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise". Proverbs 20:1. Drinking is a cruel mocker - a false friend. It promises much, but gives ugliness and sorrow. Total abstinence from drinking is smart and makes sense.

The Rockport School of Fine Arts

By CAMP EZELL
News Editor Bee-Picayune
Beeville, Texas

Just as the Cape Cod Peninsula off the coast of Massachusetts became an art center many years ago, so has the Rockport Peninsula in Texas developed into a magnet that attracts artists from many parts of the nation. And this has all come to pass because of a "seed thought" in the mind of Simon G. Michael during the time he was with the armed forces in World War II.

Mr. Michael was stationed near Mineral Wells, while in Texas he became distressed over the dearth of art and art appreciation in the Lone Star State. Outside of cities like Dallas and Houston, there was little interest in painting landscapes, still life, portraits, and other media of creation by the use of brush and oils.

He promised himself that after the war he would lay aside his own paintings (and he was a big-name artist who had studied and taught in France and had been honored with a one-man show in Paris) and proceed to teach students who desired to acquire the technique of putting people and things on canvas with charcoal, oils, brush, palette knives, and other equipment used by creative painters.

At the end of War II, Michael kept his promise. He came to Rockport. He knew South Texas people needed art more than those of any section of the state he had visited.

He saw blue skies, white clouds, vivid colors on the grounds, the gnarled windswept oak trees up and down the shoreline, shifting sand dunes, water, fishing boats, fishermen, nets. . .

This, he reasoned, would not become a second Cape Cod. . . It was Rockport--the most ideal location for an art school that he had seen. This was the place!

That was in 1948. He rented a building for a studio in Fulton and began teaching. But he also organized classes in Victoria, Cuero, and Corpus Christi. Later came Goliad, Freeport, Beeville and other area towns. At one time he had around six hundred students. People were, as he had assumed, hungry--starving--for a competent instructor so they could express themselves in art.

In 1952, Mr. Michael decided it was time to build a home and studio. He conferred with Emory M. Spencer, a Rockport patron of art, who encouraged him in the project. He purchased five acres of land with beautiful oak trees and erected the building, which Mr. Spencer helped design and supervised the construction, and that was actually the beginning of the Rockport School of Fine Arts.

Mr. Spencer was instrumental in making it possible for some of the largest cash awards ever given at annual art exhibitions in Rockport.

Michael built a beautiful one-story tile-stucco studio and museum, with an apartment for living quarters adjoining the studio. The gnarled oak trees surrounding the structure form a picturesque part of the landscape. Through the seasons the trees are inhabited by the many kinds of birds that make this area an ornithologist's paradise.

In 1956, as the fame of the school spread, a second studio was added to take care of the students who came in increasing numbers to study during the three summer sessions. Many of these students were members of his fall and winter classes in other coastal cities.

Each student blocked in two canvases a day, then upon returning home would complete the technical work under the master teacher's guidance and the paintings were ready for the signature and for sale.

A few years ago Mr. Michael added a room which he has designated The Borglum Room because he has seven products created by the great American sculptor, Gutzon Borglum, in this room. This section of the museum has an atmosphere of books and relics collected from many parts of the world, and is conducive to meditation and relaxation.

In the Greek Room are to be found great paintings, sculptures and other works done by outstanding artisans from many parts of the world. There is an atmosphere of simplicity, with a touch of primitive seating (benches), with tables, a pot-bellied stove, and other features.

The studio is still further adorned by artistic installations of iron grill work in vantage places, and the entrance to the various sections of the studio-museum are additionally beautified with gorgeous statues.

In 1967, while Mr. Michael had stopped his car on a street in Beeville to permit school children to pass, a driver of another car ran into the rear of his vehicle. Michael sustained internal injuries, which necessitated a surgical operation. His physician told him to give up classes for three months.

This was quite a jolt to this man with amazing vitality, but being a person who makes use of practically all of the time that is not used for refreshment and sleep, he decided to make the best of the situation. He asked for his paints and brushes and ordered canvases and frames.

Michael went to work!

Until this time Mr. Michael had nothing to show. He had disposed of his great masterpieces upon entering the armed forces, and after being released from the services, he had devoted all his time to teaching.

Because he had not shown any specimens of his works, some people snickered around with such snide remarks as: "Yes, He's a great teacher. . . but have you ever seen any of his works? Can he really paint?"

The accident, though painful and expensive, did one thing for art in Rockport and South Texas. Michael, a prolific and fast painter, turned out nearly a hundred of the outstanding paintings that contributed greatly to Texas and the world of art. And many of them are in his studio at Rockport, which is open to the public, and thousands of people have been there to see them. Students of art stand in amazement in front of the finished products of this master painter.

Simon Michael was born in Pennsylvania. Although his father, a Greek Orthodox priest, did not want him to study art, Simon had art in his veins and knew that he must express. He studied under great teachers in Pittsburgh, St. Louis, and Chicago, then went to Paris and continued his studies there. Simultaneously he taught students in that great cultural city. His one-man show there attracted deep interest.

Returning to the United States, he completed many great works, which brought fabulous prices. Then came World War II, and Michael offered his services to his country. He was given the Legion of Merit by the United States government for his contribution to the war effort.

Associated with him in summer classes at Rockport School of Fine Arts have been several outstanding craftsmen, including James Buchanan (Buck) Winn, a nationally famous muralist and architectural sculptor who served as consular and lives at Wimberly, Texas. Mr. Winn and Mr. Michael studied together in St. Louis at Washington University School of fine arts. Also in Europe and have been close friends many years. Mr. Winn has completed outstanding assignments in Africa, Europe, and America.

County Finances

The December financial report for Aransas County disclosed the following: Cash balance, $115,192.29; receipts, $136,741.20; total funds available, $251,933.49; disbursements, $99,363.68; cash balance, $152,569.81; time deposits, $414,210.63; fund balance, $566,780.44; securities owned, $88,824.28.

Also working with Mr. Michael several summers was Lincoln Borglum, talented son of the late Gutzon Borglum, who helped his father in the creation of Mount Rushmore Memorial in South Dakota. Upon the death of his father, Lincoln Borglum completed the Mount Rushmore project.

Mr. Michael has been teaching art in Bee County College at Beeville since it started in 1967. He now has five classes a week in that institution. He has been offered a full-time position there at an attractive salary, but does not want to take it for fear it would curtail his Rockport School of Fine Arts, now known as the Simon Michael School of Fine Arts.

With Rockport as the center for his project of teaching art in a section that was pitifully backward in this line of endeavor, Mr. Michael has developed hundreds of excellent painters throughout the Gulf Coast area, and as a result, appreciation of art has grown tremendously. Many of his students, who showed great talent but had no money to pursue their studies, were trained free of charge.

Michael kept his promise. He taught where there was a lack of interest in the subject that was dearest to his heart. And his paintings and the museum would be a credit to any city in the nation.

And it all started right here in Rockport, and remains here.

What is a Bank?

Of course, a bank is a commercial business.

But it is more than that. It is a semi-public institution which occupies a unique position in the community. It is bound by federal and state laws and regulations which go far beyond the rules under which other business firms operate.

In addition, the individual bank is governed by self-imposed rules of conduct and by operating traditions which reflect the integrity of its founders and of the men and women who have managed it through the years.

Another important factor is experience — experience of the bank's officers and directors. After all, banking is a highly technical business, one that demands a knowledge and background not required in most other types of business.

First National has served this community for more than 80 years through good times and bad, prosperity and depressions, with a single-minded devotion to integrity and sound banking principles. During that time no depositor has ever lost a penny or suffered the inconvenience of interrupted banking service.

First National Bank

This is the first in a series of newspaper messages which will discuss some of the principles and code of ethics under which this bank operates.

Local Area Well Publicized In Brochure

PREVAILING WINDS SCULPTURE COASTAL TREES NEAR ROCKPORT

LARGEST LIVE OAK IN TEXAS, GOOSE ISLAND STATE PARK

COPANO BAY CAUSEWAY STATE PARK

Last year the Travel and Information Division of Texas Highway Department published a magnificent book called TEXAS--LAND OF CONTRAST.

Illustrated with superb color photos, the 200-page book "takes you on a tour" of all sections of our glorious state and gives you facts and statistics about the cities and areas of interest.

The Rockport area is well represented in this fine book which has been given nationwide distribution. The Chamber of Commerce assisted the Texas Highway Department in gathering information about this area.

Following is the article and the photos published in TEXAS--LAND OF CONTRASTS to describe and illustrate some of the attractions of this area:

ROCKPORT: General--Established 1867 as shipping point for wool, hides, bones and tallow. Became seat of Aransas County in 1871; today important commercial fishing area. Tourists, boaters and fishermen gather to enjoy abundant access to salt-water recreational opportunities; on peninsula between Copano Bay and Aransas Bay, sheltered from Gulf of Mexico by St. Joseph Island.

Aransas National Wildlife Refuge--Famed as principal wintering ground for near-extinct whooping crane, refuge is on broad peninsula about 12 miles across the bay northeast of Rockport. Administered by U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service as refuge for protection and management of various species of wildlife in inhabiting this coastal area. Some 300 species of birds--Canada geese, pintail and baldpate ducks, sandhill cranes, etc.--have been recorded. Other inhabitants include white-tailed deer, javelina and raccoon. Sightseeing, nature observation, hiking and photography permitted along designated public use roads, trails, and at observation towers; also picnic areas. Most rewarding time to view wildlife: Nov. through Mar., when greatest number of species are at refuge (including whoopers). Open daily 8 a.m.-5 p.m. Access to refuge entrance about 40 miles northeast of Rockport via Texas 35 north, F.M. 774 east, and F.M. 2040 south.

One of the best ways to view wildlife, especially whoopers, is from 65-foot motor vessel Whooping Crane. Regular trips each Wed., Fri. and Sun. throughout year, cruising past tidal flats and salt marshes where many species are found. Departs 1:30 p.m. for five-hour tour from Sea Gun Sports Inn, nine miles north of Rockport on Texas 35.

Copano Bay Causeway State Park--Former highway causeway across bay north of Rockport (replaced by a modern span) now excellent fishing piers administered by Texas Parks and Wildlife Dept. Piers extend from north and south sides (not connected), total length of both over mile and a half. Concessions on both sides provide tackle, bait, food; public boat ramp south side. Near present Texas 35 causeway. Modest fee for fishermen.

Fishing--Public pier and jetty sheltering Rockport Yacht Basin are popular spots for bay fishing; dawn hours generally the most productive. Many hotels and motels on bay front maintain private fishing piers for guests. Depending upon season of the year and proverbial luck, catches may include redfish, sand and speckled trout, catfish, croaker, sheepshead, flounder and drum. Group boat fishing and deep-sea charter cruisers are also available at the Yacht Basin.

HUGE REPLICA SALUTES CRAB INDUSTRY, ROCKPORT

PLEASURE CRAFT MOORINGS AT ROCKPORT BOAT BASIN

Offshore species may include tarpon, sailfin, marlin, ling, wahoo, king mackerel, bonito, pompano, red snapper, warsaw and others.

Goose Island State Park--307 acres on peninsula between Copano and St. Charles Bays. Rest rooms, showers, picnic sites, open shelters, children's play area, fishing pier, fish cleaning table, boat ramp. Tent and trailer camping permitted, unsupervised Gulf swimming beach. Site of "Big Tree," an immense live oak certified as largest in Texas, estimated 2,000 years old. About 12 miles north of Rockport, Texas 35, Park Road 13.

Texas Parks and Wildlife Department Marine Laboratory--Exhibits of Texas Gulf marine flora and fauna, open to public Mon. - Fri., 8 a.m. - 5 p.m. Closed national holidays. Installation is center for state marine research.

WHO ARE THESE CUTE KIDS?

This "Tricks or Treats" photo was taken at Key Allegro last Halloween. The woman who took the picture doesn't know who the children are but she has authorized the Pilot to give this photo to the first parent who comes to the newspaper office and identifies her child.

The accompanying "Letter to the Editor" tells the story of this picture.

Letter to the Editor

Editor
Rockport Pilot
Rockport, Texas

Dear Sir:

When Col. Murray and I were spending a few weeks at Key Allegro this fall we were visited on Halloween by a number of young "trick or treat"-ers. One group in particular so caught our fancy that we asked if we might take their picture. We have no idea who the children are, except that they were polite, bright, clean, and having as much fun as they gave us.

We thought perhaps their parents might like to have this picture, if you know some way to identify them. In any event, people who come into your office might enjoy seeing the picture as much as we enjoyed taking it.

Sincerely,
Elizabeth C. Smith

Questions and Answers

Q. I have hired a woman to stay with my mother as a companion while she is recuperating from an operation. Should I report her earnings and pay the social security contributions on the wages I pay her?

A. Yes, if you pay her cash wages of $50 or more in a calendar quarter (3-month period of the year). For more information, get in touch with any social security office. Ask for the free leaflet, Social Security and Your Household Employee.

Q. Since I will be 62 later this year, I plan to apply for reduced monthly social security retirement benefits a couple of months before my birthday. I understand that I can earn up to $1,680 a year without losing any benefits. From what date do I begin counting the $1,680—from the date I apply for benefits or the date I become 62?

A. Neither. Start counting from the first of the year toward the $1,680, even though you apply for benefits and become 62 later that year. However, regardless of your total earnings for the year, benefits are paid for any month in which you do not earn over $140.

Q. I am 65 and have Medicare, but my doctor does not accept direct payment from Medicare and has sent me an itemized bill. How can I file a claim for the amount Medicare will reimburse me over the $50 annual deductible?

A. Follow the directions carefully in Your Medicare Handbook. Fill out Part 1 of the Request for Medicare Payment form and attach the itemized bill. Then mail the itemized bill and the form to the address shown in the upper left-hand corner of the form. You'll find extra copies of the form at most doctors' offices or at any social security office. If you have any problems understanding the form, call or visit any social security office. The people there will be glad to answer your Medicare questions.

Have a question about social security and its retirement, survivors, disability or Medicare benefits? See your telephone directory for the phone number and address of the nearest social security office.

Miss Heymann, Robert Shivers Exchange Vows

and orange blossoms centered with orchids.

Among the wedding attendants from the states were Thomas Scott Schmitt of Houston, brother-in-law of the groom, as best man, with Caren, Susan and Brian Schmitt as junior attendants.

The reception was held at the Circulo Deportivo Internacional with music by Bertoldo Brett.

After a honeymoon at Lake Coatepeque and San Salvador, the couple are at home in San Antonio.

IRS Urges Wage Earners to Adjust Their Form W-4's

The Internal Revenue Service today urged all wage earners to adjust their income tax withholding exemption certificates (Form W-4) according to the recently enacted Revenue Act of 1971. Otherwise, many will be subjected to overwithholding and unnecessary reductions in their take-home pay.

The IRS said new withholding provisions of the tax law apply to all wages paid after January 16, 1972, and employees should file new exemption certificates as soon as possible.

The changes in withholding reflect the increases in the standard deduction and in the personal exemption provided by the 1971 Act, and are designed to eliminate the major causes of underwithholding that many taxpayers experienced in 1971. The withholding tax rates are adjusted so that single employees earning up to $25,000 a year and married employees, whose spouses are not employed, with earnings up to $31,000 a year can generally expect to have their full tax withheld.

The new law also introduces "special withholding allowance" for one-job individuals and families and liberalizes the provisions governing additional withholding allowances for taxpayers who itemize their deductions (for charities, taxes, etc.).

The IRS said that, generally, an employee should do these things: (1) Claim all of the withholding exemptions to which he is entitled for himself, spouse, dependents, etc. Employees who formerly under-claimed exemptions in order to counterbalance the underwithholding in the withholding system will probably find that is no longer necessary or desirable. (2) Claim the new "special withholding allowance" if single and he does not earn more than $25,000; or if married his spouse does not work and he has only one job from which he earns not more than $31,000. (3) Claim the "additional withholding allowance" shown in the table on the back of the withholding exemptions certificate (Form W-4) if his itemized deductions are substantially larger than the standard deduction.

However, the IRS suggested that all single employees who earn more than $25,000 and married employees who earn more than $31,000 figure out their 1972 tax and withholding based on expected earnings for the year. Then if their withholding is not sufficient, they can increase it in order to avoid having to make payments on a declaration of estimated

FISHING REPORT

Burnett Gable, staying on South Beach, caught 80 reds and trout last week.

One 8 pound red, several sheephead, a large drum, and a number of golden croaker were caught by bank fishermen in Copano near the causeway. Oleander Motel guests J. W. Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. Keeley caught over a hundred trout in the Ski Basin from their boat.

Pouze's Pier reports Ron Gibbons from San Antonio caught a lot of trout, fishing at night. Nancy Skeen and her baby visited for a week. Husband David Skeen carried back a lot of trout. They are living in Houston.

The Ski Basin appears to be the hottest spot for fishing the last few days. Many a stringer loaded with trout was seen Monday afternoon. Key Allegro basins also producing good catches.

Few reports from boats... Lures still good. Live bait available at the bait stands, with the largest catches being caught with live bait.

The Surf Motel pier has been good... Several good trout (above school size) caught Monday night. Night fishing best from the pier.

Please call 729-6012 with your fishing reports.

tax. They can do this by under-claiming their exemptions or asking their employers to withhold additional dollar amounts, or both.

A married couple, both of whom are employed, filing a joint return should determine the total number of withholding allowances to which they are jointly entitled. These withholding allowances may be allocated between them when preparing the withholding exemption certificate, Form W-4. However, if in their last filing they filed separate returns, and if they expect to file separate returns this year, each of them must make his determination on the basis of his own wages and deductions.

The IRS is mailing to all employers a new Employer's Tax Guide (Circular E) which contains the new withholding provisions and tables and also provides an initial supply of the new withholding exemption certificates which their employees will need. An order blank for additional forms is included.
