Many Needy People Are Made Happy Christmas

A total of 107 Tahoka children in 34 families received toys on Christmas Eve when members of the Volunteer Fire Department delivered boxes as a part of the Goodfellow annual Christmas visit to those who otherwise might not have had a merry holiday. But not only children were the recipients of gifts as many of those receiving boxes were elderly people, some of them ill and alone.

The boxes contained food for a Christmas dinner and toys were carefully chosen for each child in every family.

Those receiving a visit from the Goodfellows included 13 white families, 12 Negro families, and nine Latin American families. The number of children were about equally divided among the groups.

Final contributions brought the total to about $210, and was used entirely for food, Mrs. Lillian McCord, who has kept the Goodfellows rolling this year, said. She also added that if it had not been for the work of school students repairing old toys this year, the fund just could not have been stretched to provide the boxes for Tahoka families.

She commended the work of the students under supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lee for providing the repaired toys, as well as to those who spent two days packing the boxes. Those helping with the packing were Judy and Cindy Park and their mother Mrs. Nett Park. Vicki and Diann Wilson, Chloe Jan Huffaker, Jill Edwards, Pam Roberts, Layce Walker, Maria Brav, Paige Verner, Carla McNeely, and Carmen and Carolyn Ward.

Final contributions follow:

Bids Called On Church Building

The Methodist Church in Tahoka will open bids on Jan. 15 on the proposed completely new church plant to be built on the present site on Ave. J.

The congregation voted approval of the architect's plans recently if enough money could be raised in addition to the $50,000 already on hand. V. F. Jones of the finance committee has announced that enough has been contributed since that time, to merit the acceptance of bids.

After bids have been opened and all members of the church contacted, the members will again vote on the proposal.

Architect's drawings are on display in the vestibule of the church for those who have not studied them to do so.

Band Concert Presented Here

Four bands of the Tahoka school presented their Christmas concert to a large audience Thursday night of last week, playing both Christmas and other music under the direction of Vic Kyler, band director.

The fifth grade band led off the program followed by the junior high band consisting of sixth and seventh grade students.

The high school stage band contributed three numbers, all well received by the audience. Mrs. Vic Kyler presented a saxophone solo, and the concert was climaxed by the presentation of the Tahoka High School concert band.

All groups showed a great amount of ability and some of them deftly played music composed for more advanced or larger bands.

Eskimo carvings from the ivory of walrus tusks.

Following two weeks of cold, wet weather, skies cleared Christmas eve, and late this week farmers are hoping to get back after the cotton remaining in the fields.

Starting on December 10, mist, fog, freezing rain, sleet and snow ending on December 23 had brought a total of 47 inch of precipitation. The moisture brought the year's total precipitation to 19.08 inches.

Temperatures reached a low of eight degrees on Sunday morning and nine degrees on Monday morning.

The cold, damp weather was climaxed by about three inches of snow Sunday which put 24 inch of water in the U. S. Weather Bureau rain gauge.

Icy pavement for several days made travel difficult and resulted in a number of car crashes, most of them of a minor nature.

There has been virtually no cotton harvested since December 10, but the backlog on gin yards is believed to have brought the ginnings at that time to near 120,000 bales.

MR. AND MRS. R. B. HAYNES OF MIAMI

Mrs. R. B. Haynes, Former Tahokan, Nominated As "Mother of the Year"

Many oldtimers here will remember Mrs. R. B. Haynes, formerly of Tahoka who has been living at Miami in the Panhandle, where she and her husband have been publishing The Miami Chief since 1928.

The Haynes owned and operated The Lynn County News from 1918 until the fall of 1923. Just recently she was honored at Miami as "Mother of the Year," and has been nominated for district and state honors by the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs.

In Tahoka, Mrs. Haynes was a charter member of Phebe K. Warner Club, and she was also active in Baptist Church and community affairs. She has remained active all these years in all phases of community life at Miami, and she still helps her husband publish the newspaper.

Local citizens of Miami, a congressman, a minister, a club woman, and a newspaper man were among those paying tribute to her in a recent issue of The Miami Chief.

Born Elsie Hargis on January 23, 1891, in Randolph county, Illinois, she was educated in the schools of that state, married R. B. Haynes at Amarillo June 10, 1910, and took her first automobile ride on her wedding day.

The Haynes lived at Lubbock from 1910 to 1917, and she and her husband were on the LFD ranch near Littlefield until buying out The Lynn County News from the Harry C. Cries in 1918. After selling The News, they bought the Seagraves Signal, which they published until moving to Miami. The couple celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in 1960, and last year Mr. Haynes was honored by Texas Press Association with the 50-year award as a newspaper publisher.

Mr. and Mrs. Haynes have three children and five grandchildren. Their daughter, Juanita, is a bookkeeper and accountant and an accomplished music teacher, and has served as pianist and organist in the Baptist Church since she was 12. Their son, Edward, is county judge of Roberts county, adjutant of the Miami American Legion post, is married and has two children. Their youngest son, Bob, is an accountant in the firm of Bush & Haynes at Amarillo, is married and has three children.

Many Tahoka people remember the Haynes family for the wonderful work they did in Tahoka during the transition period from a stock raising to a farming country.

IN MEMORY OF LINDLEY DALE THOMAS

(Who died Dec. 31, 1962)
Your gentle face and patient smile with sadness we recall; you had a kind word for each and died beloved by all.

The voice is mute and stilled the heart that loved us well and true; Ah, better was the trial to part from one so good as you.

You are not forgotten, beloved one, nor will you ever be; as long as life and memory last, we will remember thee.

We miss you now, our hearts are sore; as time goes by we miss you more—your loving smile, your gentle face—no one can fill your vacant space.

48 years experience. We had 16 pages in our Christmas edition, and this old seventy year old woman got out and sold all ads. We'll add "Miss Texie" is about the youngest 70-year-old lady we ever saw.

Cards that had a little special meaning to The News force came from Mr. and Mrs. Tommy Paris, now teaching at Friona; Charles, Peggy, Cem and Pam McClellan, operating a printing business in Ruidoso, N. M.; Martin S. and Jimmie Reece, he being a professor in SMU and head of SMU Press; and Karl Prohl, graduate student in public relations at Boston University.

A nice Christmas letter from Cal Farley, the "daddy" of Boys Ranch at Old Tascosa, reveals they now have 312 boys there from 37 states, and that more than 1,500 boys have "graduated" from the ranch into useful lives.

Pat Campbell has this little motto hanging in the postoffice at Wilson: There is no limit to the good a man can do if he doesn't care who gets the credit.

L. D. Moore brought us a copy of The Paris News, his old Lamar county home paper, from which we learned that the national crime rate increased seven percent the first quarter of this year, but the Texas rate increased only .12 of one percent. But, even at that, Texas' prison population has jumped from 5,762 in 1947 to 12,203 in 1962 while our population was increasing by only one-fourth.

Printer have it in a letter to the paper. But, he failed to sign his name. He thought we had been too critical of the Kennedys, and he hinted strongly that The Printer was guilty of contributing to a hate campaign that resulted in the assassination of the President. All we'll say is, the President was killed by a Leftist, a Marxist, a would-be Communist who had defected to Soviet Russia, and then was brought home by our State Department with our tax dollars. Furthermore, this hate business and name-calling works both ways. The writer reminds us of the old saying about the pot calling the kettle black.

Almost every newspaper welcomes letters from readers for publication, whether they agree with the editorial column or not. The editor wants them signed. He goes further than that. He will withhold the name of the writer from publication, but he wants the original signed—an unwritten law of the journalistic world.

A radical is a man who doesn't agree with you.

January issue of Readers Digest has two articles, among others, every good American would do well to read with an open mind. The articles we speak of are by two former vice presidents, Lyndon B. Johnson and Richard M. Nixon.

President Johnson seems to be getting off to a fine start as President. We can not agree with some of the programs he seeks to continue or promote, but we believe our country already has the feeling the office is in capable hands. The Texan is a hard worker, knows the ins and outs of government, and has the proven ability to get things done.

Two things we are especially pleased with. First, he has started a drive for less waste and more economy in government. Second, he has indicated he wants a more common sense approach to the farm problem and quick passage of some kind of farm program to relieve the ills of cotton and wheat.

The late Boyce House told this one: A West Texas farmer put in a hard day digging post holes for a new fence. That night a strong wind came up, blew all the dirt away from around his holes and the next morning he went out to find them sticking up in the air. He knew before he went out that it had been a big blow because it had snapped the trace chain he had tied to a big tree for a weather vane.

The San Antonio Express took its name from the Alamo Express, first published in San Antonio in 1860 as a Union newspaper, but destroyed in 1861 by secession sympathizers.

Mrs. Belle Mathews Has 88th Birthday

Fred Mathews writes his mother, Mrs. Belle Mathews, had a birthday, her 88th, Thursday of last week. Both formerly lived at Grassland but now live at 3351 Malheur Drive, Ontario, Oregon.

Fred says she was born Dec. 19, 1875, at Crystal Springs, Ark. Her maiden name was Belle Shiva.

"This last name," Fred writes, was brought over by her great grandparents who were Polish immigrants. Her great grandfather was born in Missouri in 1815, was a lieutenant in the Federal army in the Civil War, died in 1902. Mama's side fought for the North, and my dad's side for the South.

"We have only received three inches of snow; eight above the coldest, 24 above this morning. The mountains are heavier with snow than last year.

The Lynn County News, Tahoka, Texas Friday, December 27, 1962

"Of course, everyone was sort of paralyzed and shocked at Kennedy's death. Johnson appears could carry this country, which has a slight predominant Republican."

In a footnote, Fred says TAY-HO-KAH means "bad water," he was told by a full-blooded educated Choctaw Indian.

(Editor's Note: Indian language experts at University of Oklahoma and in Washington, D. C., long ago exploded this popular belief among Lynn county pioneers. They say Tahoka is a corruption of Comanche words meaning "clear water" or "fresh water." Another version, from the long-gone Jumanos Indians was "Tahobaka," meaning "enemy.")

Roselle, N. J., was the first town to have electric lights.

McMahon Tells Of Visit To Europe

Laylan McMahon, reared in Tahoka and now vice president of the All-World Travel Agency in Dallas, has been on a business trip to Europe and the Middle East, during which he visited Zurich, Switzerland, Damascus, Iran, and Teheran.

He stated that part of the world is so very vast and beautiful there could be no doubt that a great and wonderful God made it all.

Laylan and wife have two daughters, one ten years old and one five. He is the son of Mrs. Loyce Fleming of Cashion, Arizona, whose husband manages a gin there, and is a grandson of G. C. Shaffer of Tahoka.

Following this, an afterglow Christmas party was hosted by Chloe Jan and Mike Huffaker at their home.

The program for December 29 will be presented by Jim Wells and Jack Edwards, and is entitled "A Look at a Book" which is planned to make possible a new understanding of the New Testament of First John.

Exacting food standards have a long and interesting history. In the Middle Ages, Henry VII of England beheaded any baker whose bread did not conform to the fixed weights for bread loaves. Bakers, to avoid this hazard, added an extra loaf to deliveries of 12, making the number 13 the well-known "baker's dozen."

Quality—and only quality—determines the grade of eggs, reminds the USDA. There are eggs of every size in every grade. For example, a carton of U. S. Grade A eggs may contain either large, small, medium or extra large eggs. U. S. Grade AA or Fresh Fancy is best, followed by U. S. Grades A, B and C.

Beautiful floors will lose their bloom if not cared for properly, says Mrs. Wanda Meyer, Extension Service home management specialist. All floors cannot be treated alike, and the trick is to learn and use materials and methods which are effective for each type of floor.

Before buying a pesticide, read the label to make sure it is the best answer to your pest problem. And, for your protection, read the label again each time before using, the U. S. Department of Agriculture urges.

Homemakers can save valuable kitchen minutes during the holiday season by thawing the holiday turkey in the refrigerator. It takes about two days for large turkeys and at least overnight for smaller ones.

Nearly 8.2 million persons were working on farms during the labor survey in mid-September, says the USDA. This is two percent less than last year but the number of hired workers is slightly higher.

A quarter of a million babies are born each year in the U. S. with significant birth defects.

Tech Dean Tells What A Student May Expect When Entering College

"What a Student Can Expect at College" was the subject of a talk at Tahoka Rotary Club Thursday noon by Dr. Dick Carter, dean of undergraduate admissions at Texas Tech.

First, he raised the question of what college a student should attend, and advised that parents encourage students to look over two or three campuses and let the student make his own choice. Give the student guidance, but "your son or daughter knows more about his own capabilities than you do," and the student will more frequently be right in his choice.

He said most college students need not decide on a major until about his sophomore year.

Over one million students entered college this year, and a total of four million are attending colleges. By 1970, six and a half million are anticipated. Texas Tech has 12,036 enrolled this year, expects 20 to 22,000 by 1970.

Forty percent of the four million are in private, or church institutions, 60 percent in state schools. Most colleges in Texas have an open-door policy, or will take almost any student graduated from an accredited high school who has had the proper courses. But, the speaker said, 40 percent of the first year students will depart or flunk out from the freshman class.

Reasons for drop-outs include: Academic failures; poor motivation, or lack of ability for serious study; attending college against wishes; lack of money; the false lure of high-paying jobs; and emotional problems.

If parents run-down their local school system and teachers, he said, they can almost be sure their students will fail to make it through college. If the student is not interested in college, the parent should not insist on them going. The young person may decide later he needs an education.

He said there are four qualities the college or university expects in students entering them, namely:

1. Mentally prepared.
2. Satisfactory work in high school, or having been among the top 20 percent scholastically. There are 17,000 students in Texas on academic suspension because they failed to do satisfactory work in college.
3. Desire. The student must desire an education or he is wasting his time. He must not only have a high IQ but a high "I will."
4. Maturity, not necessarily in age, but the ability to budget his time, his money, do his own thinking, and take his own responsibility.

The program was arranged by Joe D. Unfred of New Home, introduced by Clint Walker, who had secured the speaker through an old Army buddy, Dr. Paul J. Wood, a history professor at Tech. Joe D. said he and Wood were in the Army together, following which Dr. Wood spent 14 years at Texas A&M before coming to Tech. Dr. Wood introduced the speaker as a man who had "brought a cultural program to this area from the Piney Woods of East Texas."

Wait a bit—don't get bit!

"SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Whether or not much comes of it, the U. S. decision to offer wheat to Russia will be discussed long. It perhaps, then, would be well to put the situation into a proper perspective.

The sale of a million and a half bushels of wheat to Russia makes a very small dent into the more than a billion bushels of U. S. surplus wheat.

Roughly, C. W. Harder the sale would bring into the U. S. $250 million, but inasmuch as the American taxpayers must make up the difference between the higher pegged domestic wheat price and the world wheat price, government subsidies of about 55 cents per bushel will cost $82 1/2 million, bringing net gain to less than $170 million, so financially it is not tremendous.

There is the moral issue. That is whether or not the American people should come to the aid of a communistic government whose system is unable to feed its own people. On the other hand, two "misguided allies" Canada and Australia have no competitors in the matter. And presumably there can be an argument over when a dictatorship is most dangerous. Is it when it's people are well fed, or when they are hungry and dictatorship starts a war to take their minds off their stomachs?

However, Senator William Proxmire has stated the Russian need for foodstuffs is no greater than it has been for several years, and the wheat deal will open road for further sales to Russia.

If the Senator's position is correct, then there is an area to watch closely. Recently Russia opened a bank in Beirut.

This is the part of the world where gold is sold for far above the U. S. pegged price of $35 per ounce. In India, for example, gold brings at least 50% more, or $52.50. Now it is known that Russia has long had vast deposits of rich gold bearing ore. The Russian success in mining the metal is the best kept secret of the 20th Century.

But it is possible that the Russian bank in Beirut will principally engage in selling gold for dollars. If it can get prevailing Indian price of gold it will be in effect, discounting dollars 13-17%.

This means that instead of getting wheat at the world price of $1.75 per bushel, it will be paying, in fact, $1.17. Russia can then sell this wheat at world price and make a profit of almost $60 million.

A few deals like this and Russia could become the dominant trading power in the world, provided she has sufficient gold reserves. Experts estimate that despite the poverty of its millions, the USSR has gold reserves reaching $7 billion. If this is true, Russia could easily have $10 billion or so in gold around, which could bring it $15 billion in dollars. And in all the discussion of this Russian wheat deal, this seems to be the area to watch. Russian cleverness, is not to be discussed. They do understand the profit system, but only for government not the individual.

Elmer Wuensche On College Honor Roll

Elmer Wuensche, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wuensche of Wilcox, was one of 74 students named to the 1963-1964 fall quarter Dean's List of Concordia Teachers College, River Forest, Illinois.

Wuensche, a senior at Concordia, is preparing for full-time service in The Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod as either an elementary or secondary teacher.

To be named to the Dean's List, the student must have achieved a grade point average of 3.625 or better, this point system being based on 4. The student must also carry an academic course load of not less than twelve quarter hours. Appointment to the Dean's List is an academic honor which appears on the permanent record of the student.

Concordia Teachers College is owned and maintained by The Lutheran Church—Missouri Synod and is operated for the purpose of preparing full-time workers for the elementary, secondary, and special schools of the church body.

Lee Home Turned To Santa Workshop As School Boys And Girls Repair Toys

One would have thought Santa had moved his official workshop to Tahoka Wednesday and Thursday nights of last week, in fact right into the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Lee.

The two teachers in Tahoka High School had decided to help out Mrs. Lillian McCord by surprising her in having all used toys contributed to the Goodwill Fund in readiness by Friday.

They will also defy anyone who says that boys and girls in Tahoka are not the finest in the world and willing to help on a worthwhile project.

Mr. and Mrs. Lee invited those students in the school who wished to help to come to their house, and the number that turned out was startling. On Wednesday night, alone, at least 20 to 30 students were in their home at all times for nearly three hours, and they stated that there was almost a complete turnover of helpers from time to time. Therefore, they could not estimate how many helped the two nights.

And the elves were busy. In one room were boys and girls sorting toys, as another group brought in load after load. In any corner could be found a girl mending a doll, making a doll dress, or styling the doll's hair. Some boys repaired trucks, puppets, and other mechanical toys while others were making sails for boats, gluing together wooden toys and trying out every item to see if it was workable.

The pile of toys would begin to diminish as the ones "ready" were put into boxes. But Santa's other helpers were not loafing. They were out in town collecting other toys, and kept them coming in almost as fast as those on hand were repaired.

All in all, some of the students were heard to say it was the best

LYNN COUNTY NEWS

Divorce Rate In County Lower Than Over Nation

(Special to The News)
New York — What is Lynn county's record with respect to divorce? How does it compare with the record in other communities? Locally, it is found, fewer marriages have been ending in divorce or separation than in the United States as a whole.

As a consequence, the amount of family dislocation, together with the many social problems that follow in its wake, are somewhat smaller than average.

The extent of these breakdowns, which are considered to be a contributing factor to child delinquency, is brought out in Government figures which show that there were more than 400,000 divorces in the United States in 1962.

During the same period, about 1,600,000 marriages took place, so that one couple was divorced for every four that got married.

A closer look at the situation is taken in a report on the trend in divorce, just released by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and in data issued by the Department of Commerce.

In Lynn county, it is shown, there are 80 men and women who are divorced and 49 who are separated. The total is 129.

In terms of the local population, this means that 18 out of every 1,000 residents over the age of 14 are either divorced or separated.

The rate is lower than that in the rest of the United States, where it averages 43 per 1,000. It is also below the 45 per 1,000 reported for the State of Texas.

Despite the increase in the number of divorces each year, there has been no increase in the rate, it is noted. The number is larger because the population is larger.

As a matter of fact, since the end of World War II, when the divorce rate hit its all-time high, it has been declining steadily.

City Employee Gets Citation

An official State Health Department citation for outstanding proficiency in public utility work has been awarded to Bobby Hays, a meter specialist with the Tahoka municipal water department.

The document is signed by the state health commissioner and authorities of the Texas Water and Sewage Works Association. It signifies that the holder has completed a prescribed amount of actual work experience and long hours of special study on modern methods of plant management.

Under the State Health Department's operator certification program, utility plant personnel are carefully examined on their technical skill and an understanding of their work's importance to community health. Each must pass a stiff written examination to qualify for certification.

Hays qualified in all phases. Sponsors of the certification program praised him as a "credit to the Tahoka public utility systems."

In addition to work experience and successful passage of an examination, candidates for certification earn points by attending annual state and regional short schools which deal with the technical details of public utility operation.

Sponsored by the state health agency, the engineering extension service of Texas A and M University, and the Texas Water and Sewage Works Association, the short courses have earned an international reputation as a method of training water and waste water plant personnel in public health protection through proper plant operation.

divorced marry a second time. The figures show that there are 2.5 such persons in the United States for every one who is currently in the divorced column.

Applying this average to Lynn county, there are some 200 men and women locally who were once divorced and who are now remarried.

John Hegi Visits Switzerland, Site Where Grandparents Were Born

John Hegi, who has been in Europe several months, writes his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Hegi, that he has visited the birthplace of his Grandfather Hegi in Buckten, Switzerland and the reception given him by residents of the small village was far above ordinary hospitality.

A widow and mother of three children acted as interpreter for John, and took him over the country side to various landmarks in the Hegi history.

The Hegi family owned a hotel and a farm and the family lived in the hotel, where Pete's father was born. The hotel is still standing, but the big barn was torn down last summer. However, the cornerstone was still in its place reading "Hegi-Ott" (the latter the name of Grandmother Hegi's parents), and one old man said he planned to dig up the cornerstone and send it to Tahoka for the cornerstone of the new Hegi home.

Grandfather Hegi owned as many as 40 horses, which he kept in the large barn, used to freight cargo over the mountains into Germany. The interpreter took John over the road that was used by his grandfather. Another man was going into nearby Basel to the Archives of the Canton to go through the old records looking for additional Hegi history, which would take about a week.

John said he found the people of Switzerland the most outstanding of the Europeans he had met. He, David Bray, who is attending Oxford in England, David's friend, Louise, and a classmate from SMU and Oxford, Chuck Shirley, were spending Christmas together in the Alps of Switzerland, where they planned to spend the day skiing.

Following Christmas, John and David planned to do some traveling before David goes back to school in February.

In a tape recording sent David's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Bray, David described the food the group would eat on Christmas Day prepared by a Swiss lady, and taped an outstanding English choir.

Hints On Home Freezer Buying

College Station — With the recent interest in buying large quantities of meat for home freezers, consumers are advised by Frank Orts, meat specialist with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, to seek more information on meat quality and proper processing methods.

Beef, lamb or pork which is to be stored in the home freezer should be frozen at a low temperature in order to retain the juiciness and flavor of the fresh product, he says. Rapid freezing also is an aid to tenderness, and meat should be frozen at a temperature of -20 to -30 degrees Fahrenheit.

The type of wrapping paper used is also an important factor to be considered when purchasing a side or quarter of beef, says Orts. Meat should be wrapped in a high quality 4 ply wax coated paper, polyethylene coated paper or aluminum foil to insure its keeping quality. Meat which is wrapped in a poor quality paper is subject to excessive dehydration or freezer burn, and double wrapping will not compensate for low quality paper, he emphasizes.

The method of wrapping is also an important factor to consider when purchasing meat for the freezer. A "drug store" wrap is most efficient in excluding air from the package, according to Orts, and the flaps should be closed tightly with a good quality tape. Since torn places in a package will allow free entry of air, which will dehydrate the meat, these packages should be wrapped.

Confidence in the processor or locker plant operator and the type of meat he handles will substitute for personal inspection and judgment in obtaining the desired quality of beef, lamb or pork for your home freezer, explains the specialist. But be sure to give the processor exact cutting and packaging instructions, or ask his advice if you are not familiar with cuts and cutting methods, advises Orts.

Date Set For THDA Meeting

College Station — The Texas Home Demonstration Association will hold its 1964 meeting in Houston, next Sept. 16 and 17.

The 22-member board of the state homemakers group selected the site and set the dates during a recent board meeting, reports Bonnie Cox, organization specialist with the Agricultural Extension Service and advisor for the association.

Headquarters for the annual meeting will be the Rice Hotel. Approximately 1,000 women are expected to attend.

Plans for district spring meetings within the 12 Extension Service districts of the state also were outlined by the board. Mrs. George Hackney, Jr., of Greenville, president of the organization, made up of home demonstration club members, presided at the board meeting.

Arrangements for the 1964 meeting will be completed at a meeting of the board set for mid-May in Houston.

Home demonstration work, increasingly called home economics Extension work in many states, is an adult education program in better homemaking. Through its "tell-how" and "show how" methods, women learn how to apply the latest findings developed by home economics research.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Happy Smith and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Jones for Christmas were two of the Smith daughters, Mrs. Reuel Casey and family of Lubbock and Mrs. Carey Frisby and family of Fort Worth, and Mr. Jones' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Jones of O'Donnell.

Today, because of aggressive leadership, this Texas Panhandle town boasts an active new textile plant making sheets for national distribution. What is more important, the plant's parent company is the world's largest manufacturer of textiles using all known fibers.

This new industry is the Hall Plant of Postex Cotton Mills, a unit of Burlington Industries, Inc. It is designed to have in excess of 100 employees, mostly women, and is an important
