$5,000 Bond Set In 72nd District Court After Grand Jury Investigates Hockley County Affair

Defendant In Jail

Age-Old Story Of Family Trouble Is Explanation Of Husband In Giving Self Up To Officers

BA FOSHEE, 24-year-old Hockley county farmer, yesterday was indicted by the grand jury of the 72nd district court for murder in connection with the death, last Saturday, of Elmer Wright, 23, living in a nearby farm. Bond was set at $5,000 but at a late hour last night Foshee was still in jail at Levelland.

Trial Date Set
The shooting occurred on the W. Kitchen farm, 8 miles northwest of Levelland, early this morning. The age-old story of "family trouble" was the explanation of the affair as given by Foshee as he surrendered to officers in Levelland following the event.

Wright Single
Foshee, husband of a 19-year-old wife and father of two small children, declared in a long statement to District Attorney Durwood Bradley in Levelland Saturday afternoon, that he had to kill Wright as "the only way of breaking up my home." Wright was single.

According to a statement made by Foshee's young wife, she admitted intimate relations with Wright and that she had told her husband the "affair" about three weeks ago. Trouble between the two had an eminent since that time.

The shooting was done with a .22 calibre pistol and Foshee fired five shots. Three shots took effect, one in Wright's back, another in the chest and the third in his arm.

Shooting Of Well Report Is Denied
Reports last night to the Morning Avalanche, from a spokesman, that a shooting of a well was made to shoot the Marland company's No. 1 Slaughter test, miles southwest of this city, that drilling is being continued.

The well yesterday was standing about 3,000 feet of water with approximately 200 feet of oil on top. A depth of 4970 feet had been reached at a late hour last night.

Drilling was discontinued yesterday that operators planned to plug back and shoot at the pay, found at a depth of about 4,000 feet, in an effort to overcome the flow of water and bring the oil in as a producer. Oil men at the well last night stated by telephone that this had been contemplated, drilling assuredly would be discontinued.

Water was encountered last night, after oil had been standing in the hole. The oil subsided when the water was encountered.

Postponement Of Vare Case Until December Agreed

Tariff Problem Is Given Right Of Way By Action On Motion To Refuse To Vare Senate Seat

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Deferment of the Vare case until the regular December session so that tariff can hold right-of-way in the special session was voted today by the senate.

The motion of Senator Watson, the republican leader, to postpone until December 3 a decision whether William S. Vare, of Pennsylvania, should be granted a senate seat prevailed by a vote of 41 to 34. Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, had sought immediate consideration of his resolution to deny Vare the seat because of "fraud and excessive expenditures" in his 1926 primary campaign.

The vote was not regarded as a test of strength on Vare's right to the senate seat, which has been withheld from him for three years, pending a decision by the senate. Republican leaders urged postponement until December solely on the grounds that consideration of the Vare case would interfere with action on the tariff bill at the special session, until voted upon.

The senate will have before it in December both contests against Vare, that of his primary campaign in which his ticket was reported to have spent $785,000, and that of his election in which his democratic opponent charged fraud.

Bank Cashier On Stand Wednesday In Rogers Trial

Testimony That Becky Did Not Realize Seriousness Of Act Considered Big Triumph For Defense

(By Associated Press)
NEW BRAUNFELS, Sept. 11.—Cashier F. A. Jamison of the Buda Farmers' National bank, held up by Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers in December, 1926, testified in Mrs. Rogers robbery trial late today that he believed she did not realize the "seriousness" of her act. Jamison was called as a state witness.

Jamison's testimony was considered a spectacular triumph for the defense and the 24-year-old former Texas University student's counsel smiled triumphantly.

Pleads Insanity
Her plea is insanity. The cashier was one of the two employees whom Becky forced into the vault with an empty pistol as she took $1,000 in currency.

Jamison said when she entered the bank he believed her sane but his observations at two previous trials, together with the boldness of her hold up gesture, caused him to believe that she was not cognizant of the full nature of her offense.

Robbery Described
The jury of farmers heard Jamison describe the robbery in detail. He said Mrs. Rogers entered the bank, described herself as a newspaper reporter seeking agricultural statistics. After conversing with him she asked for a typewriter to type her notes.

"I gave her permission and started toward the vault with a ledger book," the witness continued. "As I came out of the vault I saw Mrs. Rogers facing me with a pistol. She told me she wanted what money he had on hand and ordered Raymond Howe, bookkeeper, to join me in the vault."

"I was ordered to open the safe," he testified.

Low Temperature Follows Rainfall

Dark Low-Hanging Clouds Shadow South Plains As Echo To Heavy Moisture; Highways Heavy

Dark and low-hanging clouds, moisture laden, but releasing only a cold drizzle in Lubbock and vicinity, continued to shadow the South Plains Wednesday, following four days of almost continuous rainfall throughout the section.

Temperatures in the entire area hovered around the half century mark in the past 24 hours and fall fashions were the vogue. The mercury climbed a few degrees late in the afternoon and stood at 60 only to drop back as night came on.

Roads Heavy
All roads throughout the South Plains are extremely heavy and bus schedules have been badly torn up while in some sections they have entirely disrupted. Announcement from the union bus terminal last night stated that all schedules would be observed, beginning today.

From Sweetwater to Amarillo and from Eastern New Mexico to East Texas, all counties have received varying downfalls. Precipitation on the South Plains has ranged from one to four inches.

WAR MADE IMPOSSIBLE BY CHEMISTRY AND AIRPLANES, New Yorker Informs American Chemical Society

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE, Science Editor, Associated Press Feature Service
MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Sept. 11. (AP)—War has been made impossible by chemistry and airplanes, Francis B. Garvan of New York told the American Chemical society tonight in a written communication.

As president of the chemical foundation, he formally offered President Hoover the use of millions of dollars to investigate the "vast possibilities of chemistry as an agent of peace."

Garvan sketched the chemist's power to protect public health. Dr. Irving Langmuir, president of the American Chemical society, announced a new research sponsored by the society to search for the cause and cure of cancer.

"Can the development of American chemistry do anything for the peace of the world?" said Garvan's communication. "I believe that modern chemistry—plus modern aeronautics has made war impossible. I am notified that in case of a modern war between great powers it would be foolish and useless for a battleship or cruiser to leave its dock or an army to take the field."

"The common people of the world, as well as our wisest rulers, President Hoover and Prime Minister MacDonald, realize the horror of war and its tremendous wastage of life and of the means of living."

Figures In Naval Lobby Probe

Senator William E. Borah, of Idaho, has demanded a senatorial investigation of the activities of William D. Shearer, naval expert, at the Geneva disarmament conference. Borah has asked Senator Frederick Hale, of Maine, chairman of the naval affairs committee, to determine whether or not Shearer was employed by shipbuilding companies to lobby against disarmament. Shearer has brought suit against two shipbuilding organizations for $20,000 back salary, stating he had been paid $20,000 "for work at the Geneva disarmament conference."

Small Town Banker Is Held In Wyoming Resort After Jolting Financial Powers Of New York By Scheme

(By Associated Press)
NEWCASTLE, Wyo., Sept. 11.—C. D. Waggoner, the small town banker who jolted the financial powers in New York with execution of his scheme to get half a million dollars by faked telegrams to protect depositors of his bank, had $400 in his possession when he was arrested here.

With a warrant from New York, speeding by air mail, charging him with defrauding six of the largest banks of the country, Waggoner waited to begin a journey either to New York or Denver in custody of federal authorities. Waggoner indicated his extradition to New York might be questioned on the ground that the offense with which he was charged might legally be determined to have been committed in Denver, whence telegrams were sent August 30 directing transfer of $500,000 to credit of the Bank of Telluride in the Chase National bank in New York.

Activities Of American Shipbuilding Corporations In Geneva Naval Meet To Be Investigated

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Investigation of activities of American shipbuilding corporations at the unsuccessful Geneva naval limitations conference of 1927 was ordered today by the senate and will be started tomorrow by its naval committee.

At an executive session will be held in the morning to determine witnesses and procedure. Open hearings are expected and William B. Shearer, who has sued three shipbuilding corporations for money alleged to be due him for his services in their behalf at Geneva, is slated to be the first witness.

No voice was raised against the investigation in the senate today in the resolution of Senator Borah, republican, Wisconsin, asked if the resolution were broad enough to permit investigation of American naval officers who have been reported to have been in touch with Shearer. Senator Borah said he believed it was Senator McKellar, democrat, of Tennessee, expressed hope that later an inquiry would be made into all manner of naval propaganda, including that issued by the "other side." Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the democratic leader, insisted this particular inquiry be limited to what is essentially the foreign relations of the United States.

Action On Catalogues For Dairy Show Delayed

The meeting of the catalogue committee of the Texas Panhandle-Plains Dairy Show, scheduled to have been held yesterday at the agricultural building at Texas Tech was postponed one week, according to an announcement last night by W. L. Stangel, chairman of the group.

Decision to postpone the gathering was made because of the heavy condition of roads from recent rains.

The committee, composed of R. B. Davis, county agent of Terry county; R. M. Milhollin, county agent of Hale county, and Maury Hopkins, secretary and manager of the Plainview chamber of commerce will lay plans for next year's show catalogue in their meeting here. They hope to have the edition printed in time for distribution at a number of this year's fall fairs.

Wife Of Theatre Magnate Charged In Murder Count

Hottest Legal Engagement Of Hearing Set Off By Mrs. Lois Pantages Wednesday

(By Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, Sept. 11.—W. I. Gilbert, defense attorney, charged in court today, during the second degree murder trial of Mrs. Lois Pantages, wife of the vaudeville magnate, that the prosecution was not acting in good faith in eliciting from six persons testimony that they believed the woman was intoxicated when she drove her automobile into that of Juro Rokumoto, June 16 causing his death. The charge set off the hottest legal engagement of the trial to date.

Four policemen and two eye witnesses of the crash had taken the stand and declared they thought Mrs. Pantages was under the influence of liquor. Gilbert jumped up and shouted "the state has brought these policemen and others to say Mrs. Pantages was intoxicated. If the prosecution is acting in good faith why don't they bring in physicians and surgeons who treated her to testify concerning her condition?"

Prosecutor Protests
Deputy District Attorney A. H. Vanocot entered a vigorous protest. "We are putting this case on in our way, step by step," he said, and when we have finished, if we have not presented doctors, those remarks may be in order. Otherwise I must protest the insinuation."

"It is no insinuation," Gilbert replied. "I make the bald statement—I do not believe you intend to bring in any physician or surgeon who can testify she was drunk."

Superior Judge Carlos S. Hardy calmed the attorneys after several minutes.

O. J. Kvale Burns To Death In Home Due To Explosion

Sixty-Year-Old Farmer-Laborer Solon, Minnesota, Is Victim Of Blaze While Asleep In Cottage

Heater Is Blamed

Identification Difficult As Smouldering Ruin Marks Site Of Charred Cottage Wednesday

(By Associated Press)
BATTLE LAKE, Minn., Sept. 11.—Trapped by fire while he slept in his summer cottage near here, O. J. Kvale, 60, farmer-laborer congressman from Minnesota, was burned to death last night when the home was destroyed.

Explosion of a stove, the kind known as an air-tight heater, or a gasoline lamp was blamed. The cottage was destroyed without other residents of the vicinity being aware of the tragedy.

Identification Difficult
Only a smouldering ruin marked the site of the cottage when the fire was discovered today. So badly charred was the congressman's body that identification was in doubt for a time.

The theory that an exploding stove started the fire was advanced by Dr. I. T. Kvale of Willmar, son of the congressman, while Coroner J. G. Vigen believed a gasoline lamp, may have blown up. Neither theory could be substantiated.

Dr. Kvale declared his father probably was in a deep sleep and had little or no chance to escape. Mr. Kvale, his son said, had suffered from insomnia since the death of Mrs. Kvale three years ago, and frequently was forced to take a sleeping potion.

Kvale was the only farmer-laborer in the house. He succeeded Andrew J. Voistead as representative from the seventh Minnesota district, defeating the famous prohibition advocate in 1922 with the

The Woman's Day

By Abena Sumner

All this talk about the smaller waistline and the feminine figure, made me wonder just what we are coming to this fall, so I sought an authority on the subject—Marjorie Dork, who maintains a fashionable modeling studio in New York, and has helped many a woman to pare off pounds and look younger than her years.

"Tell me the truth, no matter how it hurts," I begged. "Are we going to go back to corsets?"

"A large number of women are," she replied. "Because the new styles all feature the natural waistline, which on many women is a roll of flesh, particularly on those who have secured the stylish straightline figure."

"They reduced every part of themselves, but their waists and they could get away with flesh there because with a straightline dress it did not show."

"Now they will either have to finish the job and reduce the waistline, or they will have to hold in that extra fold of flesh by staying—there is no other way. The sensible woman will reduce and the lady woman will cosset herself."

Regarding the actual measurements, Miss Dork did not see the 18-inch waistline as an immediate peril—or the 21."

"I believe the 24-inch waistline will be the desirable one this season," she said. "And with that smaller waistline will come the higher bust. The figure will change considerably to be in harmony with the 1929 silhouette."

Miss Dork has never recommended drastic reductions. She has always advocated daily exercise, a light diet, and a consistent loss in weight over a long period rather than quick results gained by limited diet."

Almost 20 years of working with women who want to improve their figures have left her with no illusions as to woman's frailty—of

When you want everything done for you, they think if they have money they should be able to buy waistlines and beauty as well as diamonds and pearls.

"For instance, here in my gymnasium, I have expensive electrical equipment. I have a capable instructor who is ready to put every woman through the course of exercises that is best for her health and her figure. But do women actually want to work off their flesh by exercise and by wearing down the fat tissues?"

"No, they want to comfortably on a slab and let a woman massage them, or let them with rollers—all of which are very good for the health and the figure, but effective only when combined with actual physical exertion and sane dieting."

Modish Frocks For School Girls Are Pictured Here

BY LUCY CLAIRE

Fashion Expert For Central Press

The long summer vacation is over or practically so, and school days are just ahead. Perhaps daughter is preparing to go away to college or to boarding school, and a practical wardrobe must be provided. At any rate the younger children are going back to their pencils and books, and there is little enough time left to prepare their clothes. Whether it be college or boarding school or just public school, the keynote is always simplicity. The college and boarding school girl will necessarily need a few frocks for formal wear, but the more simply they are fashioned along the lines dictated by the mode, the better.

A modishly practical ensemble for either the college, boarding school or high school girl is shown at the left of the sketch. This has a top coat and skirt of tweed with a blouse of jersey. The coat is on fairly straight lines with just the suggestion of a flare, and has an attached collar. The skirt is box pleated at the sides for fullness, and hung from a yoke. The blouse is very simply fashioned and tucks into the skirt. With this are worn oxfords or step-ins of brown, blue or black kid, to match the predominating color in the above ensemble.

For the little girl-piece frock to be worn on warmer days without a coat, or on colder days with the separate coat, nothing could be simpler or more school-like than the frock depicted in the center. It may be of silk or wool crepe, with long collar and cuffs, or with the collar and cuffs of silk in eggshell or beige. It is here shown in brown with brown shoes and hat.

Afternoon frock. A necessity. The tweed and a hemline with a double tier skirt, built on princess lines with seamings at the front to simulate a long jacket effect, and a bow at the V neckline. Dark blue kid pumps would be appropriate with this costume.

For the girl who is going away to school, a sport jacket should be added, with one or two extra tucks in or over blouse. Any of the costumes here shown can be easily managed by the home dressmaker as patterns are easily procurable.

The girl's wardrobe for the coming school year should include a best sports frock, and this is the type of head covering most of the girls will covet this fall.

How to Achieve Beauty

BY MISS HELENA RUBINSTEIN

Have you heeded the call of summer? Have you spent glorious carefree hours on the beach, the golf links, the tennis court, motorcruising, swimming, horseback riding—drinking in health and vigor for tired body and weary nerves?

And have you—but of course you haven't—come through the summer with skin as fair and smooth as you began it? Few, indeed, are the women who heed the beauty specialist's warning: Few are the ones who have conscientiously and carefully protected their skin every day—every single time before going out into the blazing sun—with a sun and windproof cream or lotion!

The great majority of womanhood have wavered over their complexion robbers, that bring so much health and energy to the body, ravage the skin of its beauty—coarsen and thicken it—dry out the natural oils until it looks like an ancient piece of parchment. And many a woman laments the dry, cracked skin she has in the early autumn of all the benefits the summer has brought.

If you have permitted your skin to become dry and parched, the sooner you take it in hand the better. Restore the youthfulness of the sun has robbed from it! You will need a cream made especially for the skin—one that is rich in oils and lubricating unguents—and you must use it regularly if you want results. Smooth on a film of this cream twice a day—after you have thoroughly cleansed your skin and have stimulated it so as to bring the blood up near the surface where it can aid your lubricating cream in its good work. Allow it to remain on at least 15 minutes and longer if convenient. At first you will almost see the skin drink in the oil, so eagerly will the parched tissues sap it up. And almost immediately your skin will lose that tight, drawn feeling and become softer and more supple.

When you have wiped the cream off, finish the treatment with a special skin toning lotion made particularly for the dry skin. Do not use any lotion that contains a high percentage of alcohol. In fact, the milky finishing lotion that contains no alcohol is far the best selection.

As the skin about the eyes is the most delicate, it will require special care. Gently fingerprint about the eyes—outward over the eyelid and inward beneath the eyes—a little anti-wrinkle cream which you will leave on overnight. For either evening or daytime treatment, moisten little pads of cotton with a soothing, softening lotion and place gently over the eyes for 15 or 20 minutes. If you can heat this lotion, it will be more efficacious.

While I have always advocated washing the face at least two or three times per week in cases of extreme dryness, it is best to be very sparing with water. You may, however, safely indulge in washing once a week if you will use warm water and a specially compounded washing preparation.

Slaton Territory Drenched By Rain

(Special To The Avalanche)

SLATON, Sept. 11.—The Slaton territory was well drenched by general rains which began Saturday, continuing into this week. Precipitation Monday night was 63 of an inch, making a total of 2.40 inches since Saturday, while parts of the territory received larger amounts.

Cotton and feed crops may be benefited by the moisture, but these crops were severely injured by the continued drought, which began in early June. The moisture may cause young cotton bolls to mature better and will probably increase yields of feedstuffs.

Farmers south and west of Slaton suffered considerable crop damage by hail Saturday afternoon.

Paul M. Hargis left yesterday afternoon for Austin where he will enter the State university in a few days as a Junior. Mr. Hargis spent the summer months in Lubbock with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. # Hoover May Arbitrate Social Battle

Longworth and Gans Must Be Invited To Dinner

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer.
ASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—President Hoover's visit in interests of peace on earth and good will to men in Washington's social war, and Mr. Herbert Hoover will be invited to the dinner.

The dinner, to be held in the White House, will be a social occasion in the nature of a luncheon. It is expected that the dinner will be a social occasion in the nature of a luncheon. It is expected that the dinner will be a social occasion in the nature of a luncheon.

It is expected that the dinner will be a social occasion in the nature of a luncheon. It is expected that the dinner will be a social occasion in the nature of a luncheon. It is expected that the dinner will be a social occasion in the nature of a luncheon.

But there simply doesn't seem to be any doubt that the dinner will be a social occasion in the nature of a luncheon. It is expected that the dinner will be a social occasion in the nature of a luncheon.

How Would Hoover Decide?

'EENIE-MEENIE-MINIE-MO'

Favor one—Send the other! It's a tough task that seems to be facing President Hoover, who must give a formal dinner for Premier MacDonald and who must invite both principals in Washington's social war. Mr. Hoover—somebody—must decide which of the two women pictured here will outrank the other at the state function—Mrs. Alice Longworth, left, or Mrs. Dolly Gann, right.

Social Fight of The Century Looms In Washington

be any "out" for the Hoovers. To invite either the Longworths or Curtis and Mrs. Gann to the prospective MacDonald dinner without inviting them all would be unthinkable.

Not Apt To Refuse.
The only break more unthinkable under the local rules would be for one of the two pairs to refuse a White House invitation.

Another Problem.
Isabel MacDonald, the premier's daughter, undoubtedly will accompany her father. It may seem that she should be parked at Mr. Hoover's right, but the precedence shirks here say not. They assert that Isabel in all probability will be seated somewhere down toward the end, in which case she may happen to have a dinner partner none other than Mr. Gann.

Rhem Reforms Under Texas Sun

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11.—The Athletics took an odd-looking game from the White Sox, 7 to 4, here today, as the Chicagoans began their last Philadelphia series of the season. By so doing, as the Yanks were succumbing before the Browns, the Macks reduced their pennant requirements to four victories.

All of the runs in the battle at Shibe Park were concentrated in the first inning. After the White Sox had raked Bob Grove for five hits and their four markers, the Athletics turned over Ted Lyons and McKain for seven blows and seven runs. Bill Shores entered the Sox for the As after a pinch batsman was called on for Grove in the big first inning, and with McKain made a pitcher's battle of the rest of the route.

Frigidaire Meet Will Close Today

Four-Day Convention Held Of South Plains Dealers And Distributors Here; Instruction Given

A four-day convention of Frigidaire dealers and distributors of the South Plains, being held at Davis Brothers Electric Refrigeration company, 1308 Broadway, will come to an end today.

Representatives from all sections of the South Plains are included in the personnel of the school, being held in connection with the convention. Lubbock was chosen for the gathering because of its central location.

Instruction is being given on water cooling. Another subject of discussion is the National Food Preservation campaign being sponsored by the National Food Preservation Council.

The school is under the direction of W. O. Jennings, division manager, P. M. Bratten, manager, F. W. Werth, S. C. Claiborne, refrigeration engineer, Fort Worth; C. Ray Lowe, factory instructor; E. W. Kinney, district manager, South Plains district, Plainview, and D. A. Davis, local representative.

Those attending include La Greenfield, Post; C. D. Marriett, Slaton; Clyde Gross, Brownfield; F. E. Ninson, Floydada; O. J. Yoder, Snyder; G. A. Farlow, Canyon; Jno. F. O'Hearn, Lockney; Jake Stiles, Pampa; Everett Collier, Lockney; W. B. Whitley, Littlefield; Jim Dunn, Plainview; R. M. Boyron, Plainview; W. Roy Thomas, Big Spring; C. D. Roberts, Amarillo; J. P. Morgan, Lubbock; Joe Cumble, Amarillo; Henry Sexton, Slaton; J. E. Scott, Lubbock; Ivan B. Mardia, Muleshoe; W. C. Scott, Lubbock; O. E. McAllister, Lubbock; H. N. DeBerry, Clovis and Otto Seron, Slaton.

Davis Honored

D. A. Davis, above of the Davis Brothers Electric Refrigeration company, has been awarded one of the highest honors accorded Frigidaire dealers, according to an announcement made last night by W. O. Jennings, of Fort Worth, division manager of the P. M. Bratten company.

Mr. Davis is the first man in this district, composed of most of Texas and parts of Oklahoma and New Mexico, to qualify for the 1929 Star Quota club of the organization, thereby winning a free trip to the company's plant at Dayton, Ohio, early next year.

Three honor organizations are divided into three divisions, the Junior Quota club, Senior Quota club and Star Quota club and membership in these units is based on the volume of business done.

"I attribute my success to the rapid development of Lubbock and to the progressive attitude of home owners in this section," stated Mr. Davis.

Earth Is Slowing Up And Will Someday Entirely Stop, According To Director Of Vienna Museum

By NEA Service NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 11.—Although it has been spinning around energetically and methodically for a good many thousands of centuries, this earth of ours is eventually going to stop spinning altogether and stay eternally at rest, one side forever toward the sunlight and the other side forever in darkness.

When this happens, the sunny side, where there will never be any light, will be one great tropic; and the dark side will be an ice-bound waste, desolate and barren as the antarctic continent of today.

These cheerful forecasts come from Prof. Franz X. Schaffer of Vienna, director of the Vienna National Museum of Natural History and one of the world's leading geologists, now stopping in New Orleans to visit friends after giving a course of lectures at the summer school of the University of California.

Tides Are the Brakes Dr. Schaffer's conclusion is the result of years of study, in which he has traveled thousands of miles, sailed in every ocean and touched at hundreds of remote islands.

The tides, he says, are acting as brakes on the world's rotary motion. Ultimately they will bring it to a complete stop. Then the earth will circle around the sun; and one hemisphere will have everlasting tropic day while the other will have everlasting arctic night.

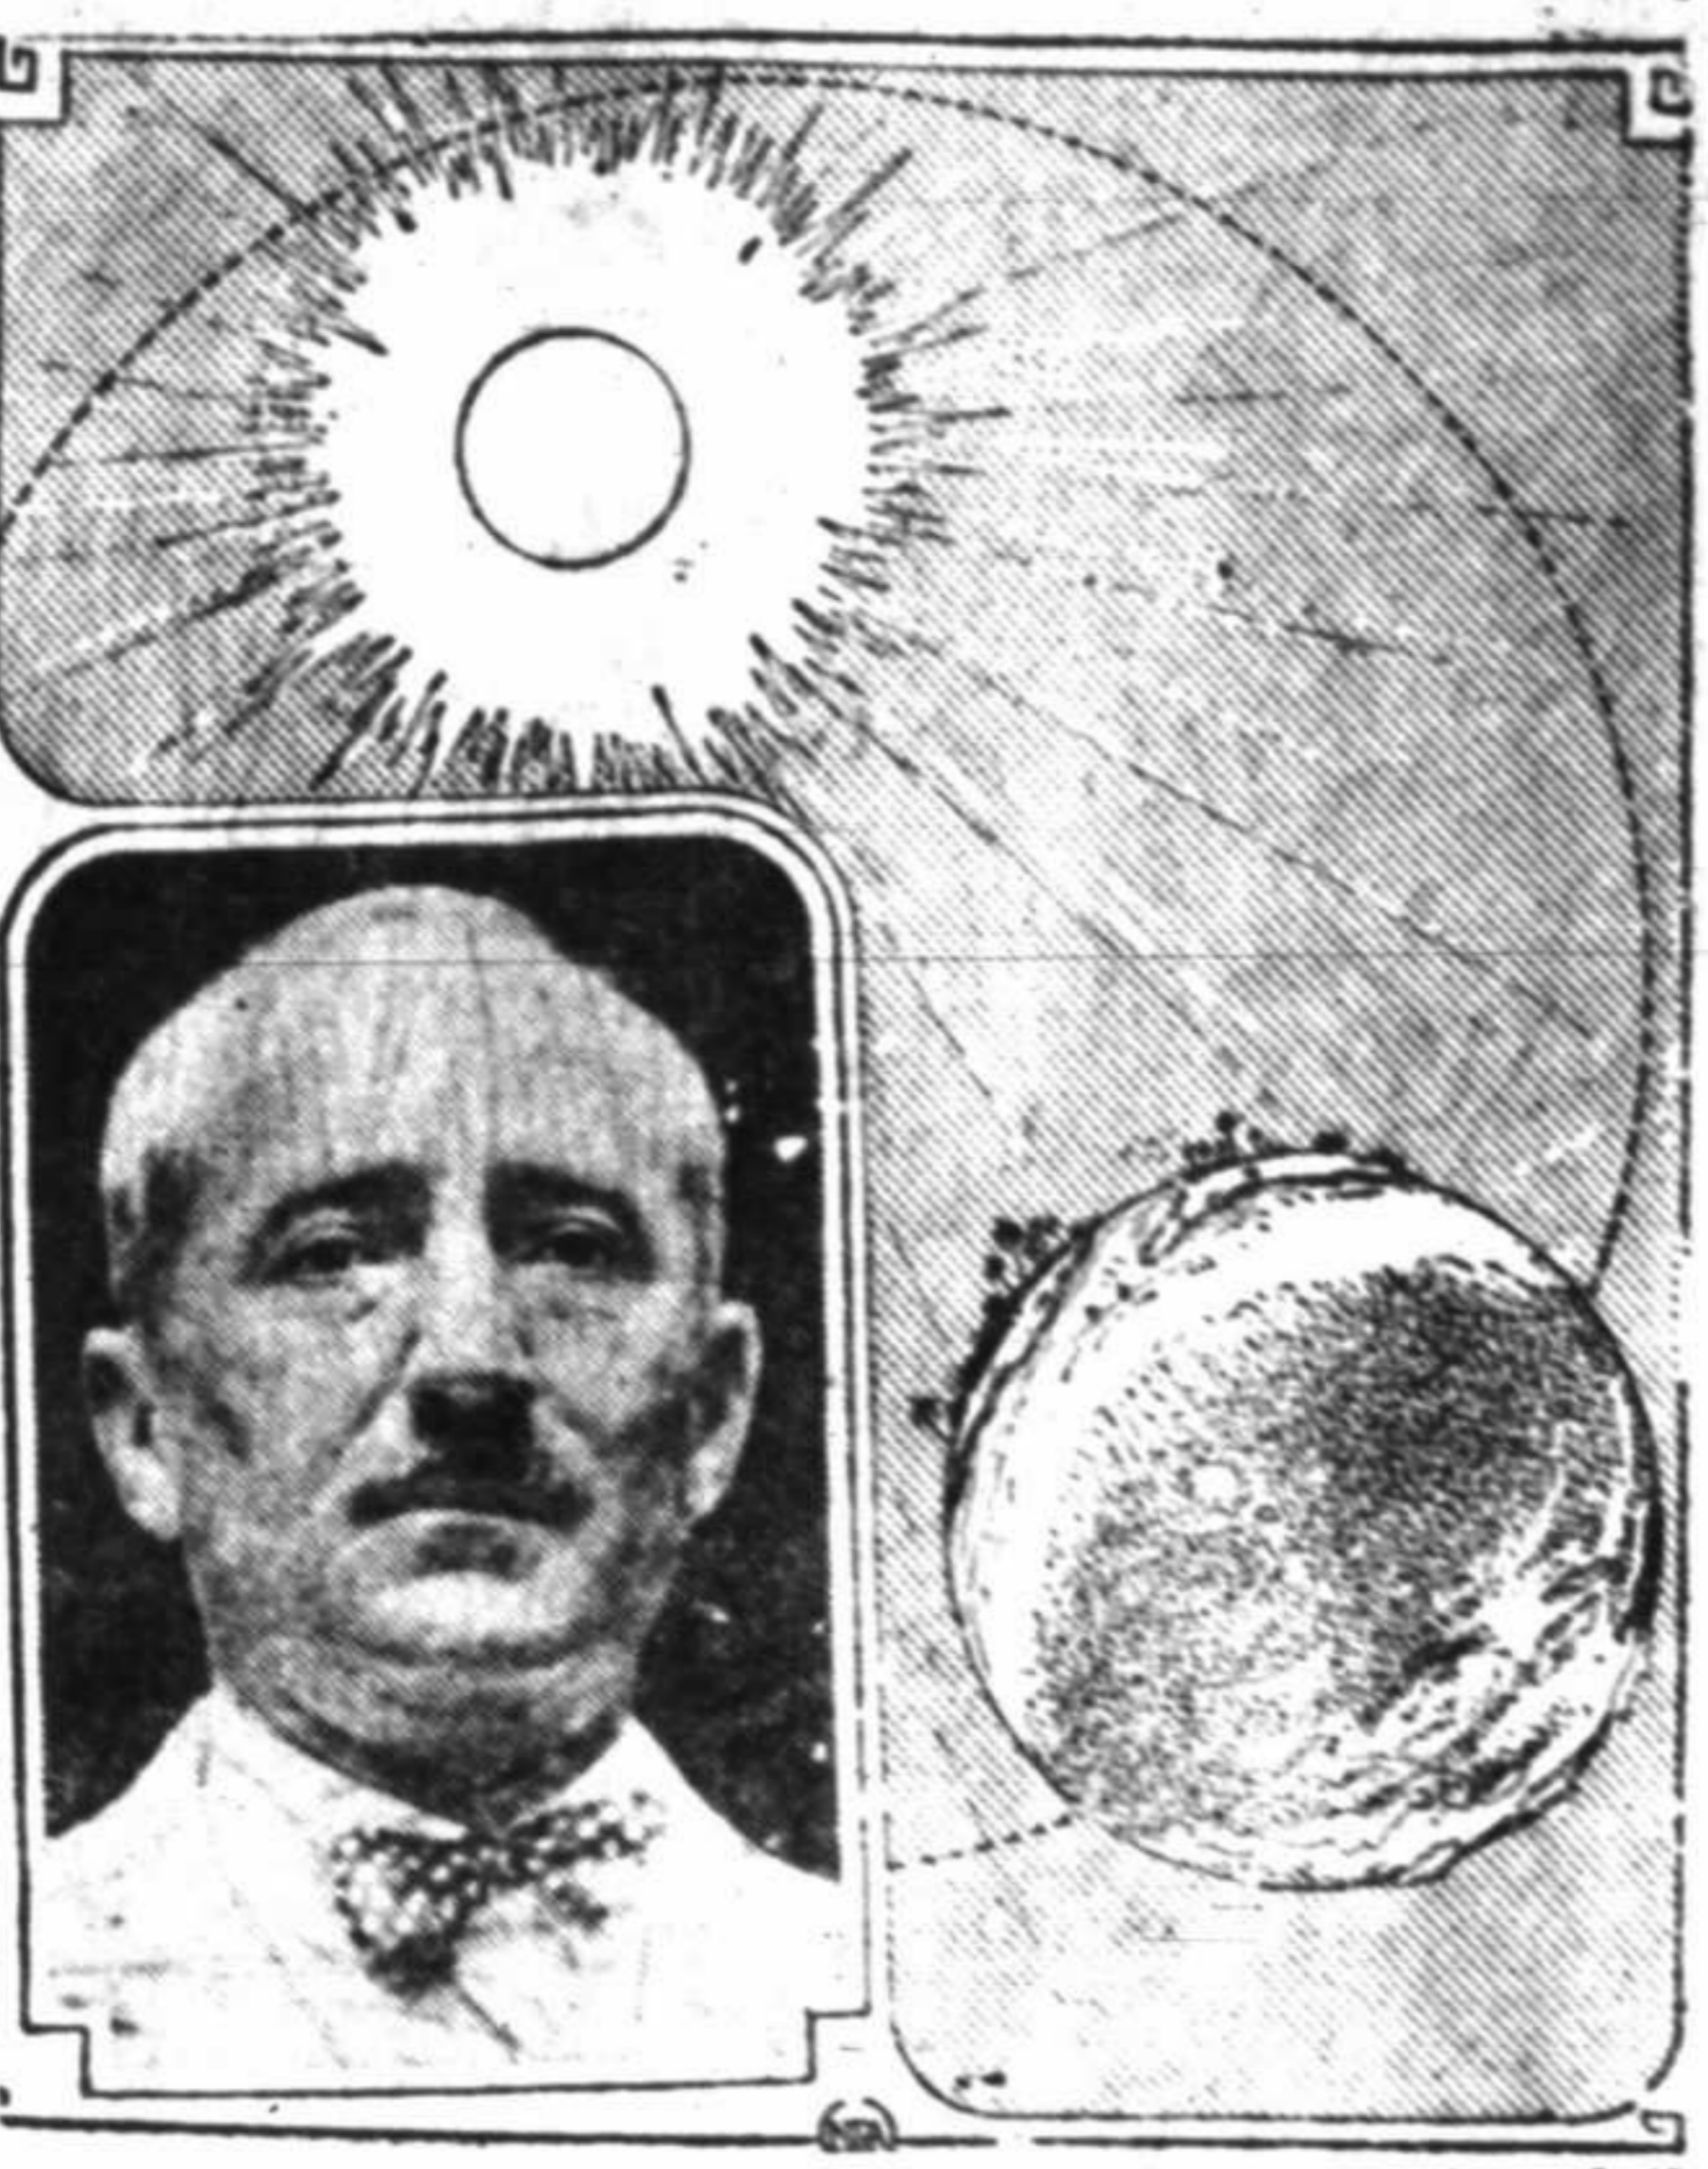

All of this, however, needn't worry anyone. It won't happen for several million years yet. But it's coming—some day.

In addition, Dr. Schaffer says that the earth ultimately will become a perfect sphere. Right now it isn't, even if we do call it a globe. It is flattened at the ends, and it has a bulge at its equator. But that bulge, even now, is redistributing itself—working its way north toward the poles.

To prove this statement, Dr. Schaffer points to the records of the earthquakes. He has investigated them—all of them—and he points out that all the great earthquakes have taken place in the equatorial belt, between the fortieth parallels of latitude, north and south.

As a geologist, Dr. Schaffer has studied all of the world's principal mountain ranges, and his studies have taught him something. He says, for example, that the mountain ranges which run north and south were formed by direct upthrusts from below. Ranges which run east and west, on the other hand, came into existence from lateral pressure—by strata of earth and rock pushed from the side and sliding on top of one another. This, in turn, he says, is due to the fact that the bulge at the equator is slowly working its way north and south.

Incidentally, Dr. Schaffer has no use for the old theory that the center of the earth consists of a flaming body of molten rock and earth. The earth's interior, he says, is solid—material far denser and heavier than the rocks and soil on the surface. This solid material, he says, is enclosed in a "skin" of lighter rock and soil some 60 or 70 miles in depth. The internal fires made evident in volcanic explosions he calls purely local pockets of fire, caused by the shifting of masses of the earth's material, in which sudden internal pressure generates enormous heat.

Dr. Franz X. Schaffer of Vienna and an artist's conception of the way he says the earth will eventually revolve about the sun, with one side eternally in the people sunlight and the other side eternally in arctic darkness.

Dr. Schaffer is incorporating the results of his years of study in a new text-book on geology, which will appear in several volumes.

Meanwhile, he has a warty joke to tell on himself.

Some 20 years ago he came to America from Vienna to deliver a course of lectures at the University of California. While he was there, he was invited down to Los Angeles to see some fossil bones of prehistoric animals that had been found in a special bed in open fields outside the city. Dr. Schaffer went and studied the find. Then he examined the surrounding land.

"Do you know," he asked his brother scientist, "that we are standing over a tremendous oil field? These fat fossils are the result of condensation and stoppages of underground oil."

"Then they forgot it," the scientist's answer that he was probably right. But since then, he was not a geologist and not a business man, they went back to their studies and paid not further attention to the phenomenon.

"And," says Dr. Schaffer, "I could have bought all of that land I wanted for less than $10 an acre."

The land is now within the city limits of Los Angeles. It is dotted with oil derricks as far as the eye can reach, and it has furnished hundreds of millions of dollars worth of oil.

"Anyway," says Dr. Schaffer, with a rueful smile, "I had a chance to make Rockefeller and Henry Ford look like poor relations, even if I didn't take it."

S. Davidson Herron of Pittsburgh, who beat Bobby Jones for the national amateur title in 1919, is the new Pennsylvania amateur champion.

SNYDER, Sept. 11.—The Snyder Business Men's Luncheon club has taken the place of the Lions club here. Supt. C. Wedgewood was elected president and Henry J. Bryce, secretary.

BEAUTIFY FLAZA

MEKICO CITY, Sept. 11.—The federal district government is studying a plan for beautifying the capital's central plaza or "Zocalo," by obliging owners of property fronting on the plaza to make over the exteriors of their buildings so as to harmonize with the cathedral and National Palace, facing the plaza on two sides. The property owners would be exempted from taxation for a period sufficient to repay them for the cost of altering their buildings.

GAME ENDS IN DRAW

PORT SMITH, Ark., Sept. 11.—The first game of the Western association play-off series ended in a draw here this afternoon when darkness stopped the game in the ninth with the score 4 and 4.

ASSISTANT COACH NAMED

SLATON, Sept. 11.—David L. Green, a teacher in Slaton high school, will be assistant coach in football this season, according to L. T. Green, superintendent. Paul W. Wright is coach. H. O. Kennedy, assistant football coach last year, will devote his time to basketball this year.

LONG STRUGGLE IS NEARING END

"A Few Bottles Of Orgatone Have Done Me More Good Than All Else Combined," Says Amarillo Mother

"I've had a long, hard struggle with ill health but by the help of Orgatone I have found relief at last," said Mrs. L. M. Hassell, residing at 1610 Buchanan St., Amarillo, Texas.

"I had gall bladder trouble and indigestion to bad for two years that my life was miserable," she continued, "but I'm a whole lot better since I began taking Orgatone, and a medicine that is doing so much for suffering people can't be praised too much. I've spent lots of money trying to get some ease, but it's the truth, two bottles of Orgatone has done more real good than everything else I ever took combined."

"When I first began taking it I couldn't eat anything without it hurting me. Any of the heavy or more nourishing foods would sour in my stomach and I would be very bilious. I was fearfully nervous and when I fell asleep at night the least noise would wake me. My head would get so dizzy at times that I would almost reel."

"What caused me to take Orgatone was reading so many statements about others in the papers and now I'm talking Orgatone every chance I get. I can eat just anything I want and enjoy it and never feel the slightest bad effects from it. I sleep fine every night and as to my gall bladder trouble, it is so much better that I hardly notice it anymore. I'm still improving every day and it's a pleasure to tell others about the medicine that has done so much for me."

Obtain Orgatone from your local drug store or from Bowers Drug Store, Lubbock at Bowers Drug Store, Ady.

Elinor Smith To Be Guest At Big Spring Air Fete

Eighteen-Year-Old Holder Of Endurance Mark For Women Will Attend Airport Opening

(Special To The Avalanche) BIG SPRING, Sept. 11.—Elinor Smith, the 18 year old girl who holds the world's endurance flight record for women, and Bert White, of the Irving Air Chute company, who flew under Brooklyn Bridge when he was only 15 years old, are making a special flight to Texas to attend the Big Spring airport opening, according to word received here today.

Because of the distance they have to come they will not be able to reach here until the second day of the celebration, it is understood, but they say they will be here Thursday without fail.

These two world-famous fliers are attending the air fete as guests of the Southern Air Transport System, a subsidiary of the Aviation Corporation, which uses the Big Spring airport as its division point and luncheon stop on its Dallas-El Paso passenger line. Southern Air Transport will also use Big Spring as its division point on its Amarillo-San Antonio passenger line when that line is opened next spring or summer.

White is piloting the plane which is bringing him and Miss Smith to word telegraphed here today from Port Worth by the headquarters of the Southern Air Transport System. Miss Smith set her world's endurance flight record for women of 26 hours about a year ago. White, however, made his extraordinary flight in the days aviation had come into its own, when normal people looked upon all aviators as madmen or fools.

A. P. Barrett, president of the Southern Air Transport System and vice president of the $200,000,000 Aviation corporation, dedicated the airport today with appropriate ceremonies in the light of the flood lamps which make the Big Spring airport the only lighted airport between Port Worth and El Paso.

He Rides Bike Makes All Fires For 25 Years

HOUSTON, Sept. 11.—For more than 25 years Johnnie Borna, manager of a Houston macaroni company, has been riding his bicycle to fires and he gets as much "kick" out of a "sure-enough blaze" now as when he was a little brown-eyed boy.

The clanging bells of the old red wagons and the shrieking sirens of the modern fire engine alike have had an irresistible lure for Johnnie and he never misses a fire.

He grew up near a fire station and lived to play on the station lawn. When he was nine years of age the firemen made him their mascot.

The boy would not ride behind the horses. Instead he answered the alarms on his bike. As Johnnie grew so did the fire department. When the wagons were discarded for trucks 17 years ago Johnnie did not care to ride the new speed machines. Instead he bought a faster bicycle. And he still rides it, marked Houston Fire Department No. 1.

Members of the Houston fire department think so much of Johnnie that, recently when officials of the department were presented gold badges with diamonds, Johnnie received one also.

Mexican Jumping Bean Threatens To Usurp Yo-Yo Throne Of Popularity

DEL RIO, Sept. 11.—The Mexican jumping bean threatens to usurp the throne of popularity assumed several months ago by the yo-yo. Just when Del Rio manipulators of the spinning disc were beginning to be clever with the new game. This jumping bean had centers around a game known as "Hop-Hop."

Whereas only a short time ago it was a common sight to see groups on every corner vying with each other in their efforts to perform the most skillful antics, it now is common to see them huddled around a small circle drawn on the ground, displaying all manner of enthusiasm to spur on the hop-hop entries.

Here's the secret. Thousands of Mexican jumping beans have been shipped to Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, San Antonio, Austin, Waco and other cities in the state from below the Rio Grande, where there was a large crop this season for the first time in many years.

The principle of the game is to place the jumping beans within a circle and then pick the winner for a race to the outer edge. No end of excitement results and betting on the odd little beans frequently is indulged in.

The jumping beans have been quite common along the border. Motive power is furnished by tiny worms coiled inside the shell. The worms cannot jump after the bean is opened—at least it won't.

STEWART PORTRAITS IOWA SENATOR ROUGH-AND-TUMBLE CHARACTER WHO LOVES FREE-FOR-ALL DEBATE

BY CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—A super-sluggish is not necessarily a brainy fighter, in the prize ring.

Still, he is exciting to watch.

Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, for instance, the champion of the whole progressive outfit.

Plenty of senators, progressive and otherwise, can run circles all around the Iowa-for-points.

However, Brookhart certainly does waste in and fight.

When the gong sounds, the Hawkeye senator bounces from his corner as if he were on springs already letting loose a perfect hurricane of books, jabs, swings, uppercuts and miscellaneous wallops even as he flies through the air.

Naturally any experienced antagonist, seeing him coming gets out of the way frequently sidestepping the Iowa as he hurtles by.

Much Brookhart cares for that! He can "take it" too.

To watch Senator Norris in action is an education.

He also has a knockout in each fist, but he wastes none of them. Every time he strikes, he lands instead of flailing the atmosphere eight or nine times out of ten, like the fighting Iowa.

Meanwhile he sees to it that his opponent never hits him.

Brookhart has no notion of self defense. He requires none, his skill is too hard to fracture, and the rest of him seems to be made of vulcanized India rubber.

Smitten, he never knows it, hence, always is ready to stop a dozen haymakers, for a chance to plant one where it will do the most good.

The Iowa is no safe person for an even much cleverer man to swap punches with.

He may get in his deadly work only once in the course of a prolonged entertainment—but once is enough. Possibly the victim of his handwork already has piled up a score running into six figures, what good does that do him—as the attendants carry him out feet first.

In plain terms as an orator, debater and all-around influence on the senate floor, Brookhart is about as much of a rough-and-tumble character, yet anything but a joke.

He not only is no joke to the individual he especially is later. Occasionally he is no joke to some unlucky non-combatant who happens to get in the way of one of his rushes.

For example who would have thought that Governor Franklin Roosevelt of New York would catch it behind the ear when the Hawkeye senator took a look at wet sentiment the other day.

Brookhart hails from a dry state. For him to be dry is okay. But how must Governor Roosevelt have felt—considering Manhattan's well-known views—to find the senator quoting him ("Franklin D.") as a dry, too.

The Iowa's next big fight—soon to be staged—will be to put a farm debtors' clause into the tariff bill.

As if it will not be a mean enough rampus without dragging in that issue again! The instant Brookhart starts it, the referee and all hands who like nice clean fighting, will jump on him and try to smother him if they can.

Which probably will make it worse than ever. He loves a free-for-all.

ONE MINUTE PULPIT

I know that the Lord will maintain the cause of the afflicted and the right of the poor. Surely the righteous shall give thanks unto thy name: the upright shall dwell in thy presence.—Psalm, cxi, 12.

COMMANDER SNEED'S IDEA

COMMANDER RICHARD SNEED of the United Veterans of the Confederacy, has struck an appealing note in his urge voiced to leaders of the Grand Army of the Republic that the combined survivors of the Civil War hold a joint reunion in Lubbock while Commander Sneed was visiting here.

The thoughts which are behind the Commander's views are good thoughts—American thoughts—Christian thoughts. And it may be duly noted here that any opposition from either North or South is out of the question. The idea is to have a reunion similar with that of the states only from the fact that they have never been read, the veterans themselves, it has already been interesting to note have kept their hearts admirably free of malice.

After all, the war between the states remains only as a bad dream to the Americans of both the South and the North. We are now thankful, a united people following one flag and one government—undivided in final purpose. Modern transportation, education and a broader vision have united all sections of our almost boundless nation together and may they always remain. It is more courtesy and character than of purpose, like the captain of the now thin Gray ranks, who will help it that way.

There is still a difference in the people of the North and of the South but the difference is natural one—made natural by conditions which will likely never be the same. Basically we have the same ideal and the same purpose. To harbor grudges will never get us anywhere along the high road of civilization.

The veterans who would like to see the once old armies of the South and the North in a combined reunion to be sure practically all the old flags have been removed, the old emblems buried and the meeting would be little more than a restful one. It would be a gesture to which posterity has a right—which could be handed down tradition as a symbol of undivided America.

RADIO CONTROL

Original radio control legislation provided that a federal radio commission should administer radio control for one year after which this function would revert to the department of commerce. Since on the commission's life has been twice extended, the house merchant marine committee plan to produce in congress next month a bill to continue life of the commission for another year.

Regard of these facts raises certain interesting questions relating to the efficacy of the commission and of laws under which it operates.

Do the several reports prove that congress demerited the problem of radio control? Do they prove that the commission as now constituted is unable to handle its prescribed tasks? Do they show the commerce department to be willing to assume new and serious burdens? Representative Whit contends that the latter issue, which is not a negative answer to the first two questions. And the commerce department's disinclination is probably due to the current dissatisfaction with the results of radio control and to knowledge gained from the radio commission's experience that the commission's job is only just beginning.

Perhaps it would be best from the viewpoint of all broadcasters and listeners, if there were no jangling of horns in the middle of the stream.

ZEPPELIN AND COMMERCE

The reported cost of the Graf Zeppelin is $3,000,000. It would be large, she is 778 feet long and 100 feet in diameter, an enormous structure of steel, fabric and machinery. This monstrous craft is back in Berlin after completing a record-making journey around the world. A few years ago such a voyage would have sounded plausible only in a fiction writer's tale of adventure. How much the operating cost of the amazing exploit in a ship was making this bulk of the vessel on the seas, is not known.

That would be large also. The financial side attends these speculations because after the recognition of the achievement the question of utility and transportation development by this means becomes paramount. Presumably after allowing for the cost of mail and necessary fuel and supplies, she could all the passengers she could carry. On the other hand, the long flights the passenger list would be two or three persons. Above her necessary crew of 41 men she has also from 19 to 22 passengers, indicating a maximum human capacity of about 60 persons crew and passengers.

Twenty passengers seems a small number to bear the commercial burden of such a giant's upkeep in normal times. The commercial footing of course, would involve the costs of the essential large landing field with a vast hangar available. Then to bring her to ground and to start her from "dock" demands the help of ground crews now furnished by governments who would not be available gratis to a commercial enterprise.

We have witnessed a remarkable achievement at while time and further experiment and demonstration will work improvements that can easily rush to premature anticipations that can never be realized.

Having taken up the sun-tan vogue in a big way, one of our local hostess is applying for work a bronze.

Such baggage is declared to be the cause of outbreaks, but nobody seems disposed to do anything about it.

There still is a lot of Americanism out in the world whose sympathies are served with the desert.

There is no question in Adam's day, so the records show that got him into trouble. Problem's grass.

Happy no effort is being made elsewhere to better the Wisconsin marathon mark. It appears the legislature there is still legislating.

PROHIBITION PARTY

On Sept. 12, 1888, the National Prohibition party was organized at a convention in Chicago.

The new party was the result of the failure of advocates of temperance to force a prohibition plank upon either of the great national parties.

In the state elections of the next three years candidates were nominated by the party, but received relatively few votes.

The national convention met in Columbus, O., Feb. 22, 1912, and nominated James Black of Pennsylvania and John Russell of Michigan as the prohibition candidates for president respectively.

The convention adopted a platform which, besides advocating prohibition, declared for woman suffrage, a direct popular vote for president and vice president, a sound currency, the encouragement of immigration and a reduction of transportation rates.

In the ensuing election, the party's candidates received only 160,000 votes.

The organ of the prohibition party, the Voice, was established Sept. 23, 1888, and published in Chicago.

Today's Poem

SONNET

Most men know love but as a part of life. They hide it in some corner of the breast. Even from themselves, and only when they rest in the brief pauses of that daily strife. Wherever the world might else be not so rife. They draw it forth as one draws forth a toy. To soothe some ardent, kiss-exacting boy. And hold it up to sister, child, or wife.

Ah, me! why may not love and life be one? Why walk we thus alone, when by our side, Love like a visible God, might be our guide? How would the marts grow noble and the street. Worn like a dunce-floor by weary feet. Seem then a golden court-way of the Sun!

—Henry Timrod (1813-1857)

The Innocent Cheat
By Ruth Dewey Graves
AUTHOR OF "RICH GIRL—POOR GIRL," ETC.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

HELEN BRENT feels unhappy when the girls at the Spann boarding school tease her about being Miss Simplicity just to please her handsome guardian, LEONARD BRENT, who supplies her with ample funds and smart frocks which are brought from Paris for her by a woman friend whom Helen has never met.

But she dares not question his reasons even when her roommate, SHALIMAR MORRIS, accuses her of being in love with Brent and calls her fool for giving up dancing and parties for him.

Helen begs her guardian to tell her about her parentage, but he refuses until after she graduates. Recalling her infatuation for him, he exacts her promise to "do anything I ask you to" after leaving school.

One day Brent sees a hungry beggar fall in an alley and curiosity tempts him to listen to his mutterings. He hears something about "Evangeline—money—disinherited" and as he heads over the old man spies a gold locket with a diamond. He takes the locket and tries to question the derelict. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER IV

Holding the half-conscious man at arm's length, Brent shook him violently. The weak lids lifted over the watery eyes, the muttering ceased.

"Look here, old fellow, come out of it," Brent said briskly. The other stared at him, dazed and uncomprehending. Brent's impatience grew. "Sit up," he said sharply. "What's the matter with you? Drunk?"

"Evangeline," the poor delirious man whispered, struggling to raise himself. Then louder: "She's been dead for a long time. It's been a long time. The joke's on me. Let him rot in his riches. It's all the same to her. She's been dead for years, years. I tell you, years! What does she care about his money? She's got streets of gold, streets of it!"

Brent bent closer, no longer trying to rouse the speaker to more rational utterance. Plainly his mind was wandering, but his words were interesting. "Yes," Brent said encouragingly. "Evangeline—who was she?"

Somehow that name on his lips did what he had been unable to do by conscious effort. It brought the old man to at least a partial realization of his situation.

Brent watched while he made a supreme effort to sit erect. "Don't call the police," he begged, the shadow of experienced degradation cutting through the fog in his brain and filling him with dread.

But the moment of lucidity did not last. He fell instantly to raving of "Evangeline" again, forgetting of Brent's presence, though, strangely, he seemed to sense him there as an immaterial audience.

Brent guessed that he lived more in the past than in the present and that he probably vocalized his story to all who would listen, or when there was no one to his own ears. One of those pitiful, wandering tragedies, making of the borderland between life and death a wide space.

Still, guessing this, understanding it, there was nothing in Brent's heart of pity; only disgust and contempt. But he could not tear himself away. He was held by the scent of quarry. A rich old man, who didn't know that his hard-heartedness was hurting only himself—that the daughter he had disinherited was dead. This much Brent gathered before the shrunk, prematurely aged wreck at his feet quit his babbling and sat quiet, his head drooping on a slumping shoulder.

Quickly Brent stepped to the street, where the light was better, and took the locket out of his pocket. He opened it and disclosed the likeness of a beautiful young woman dressed in the style of 20 years ago. On the opposite side of the locket was engraved the name "Evangeline Cunningham."

Brent thrust it back into his pocket and glanced furtively up and down the street. A coffee house caught his eye and solved his problem. He'd been at a loss to know where to take the old man and pump the rest of his story out of him. Certainly he couldn't take him to his own quarters.

He wheeled back and again leaned over the beggar. This time he put aside his distaste for physical contact with the other's person and lifted him to his feet. Again he shook him roughly, thoroughly.

The limp figure stiffened, the wobbly head held firmer and the wanderer came back from the borderland. He blinked at Brent and began to whimper like a child. "I'm starving," he said several times.

"Come along," Brent urged, supporting him with a shoulder.

"There's a place to eat just across the street. Pull yourself together and don't let go again. Do you hear?" he added, raising his voice as the figure against him began to relax. "Hang on to yourself. There's food—FOOD—and hot coffee."

It was slow progress they made getting across the street but Brent managed it. At the last, he was practically carrying his burden but once at the door of the coffee house he was able to get assistance.

"Drunk," he said laconically to the waiter who came to help him. "An old beggar I'm used to seeing on the street. Rather hate the thought of having an officer run him in. Get him over to that table back there in the corner where he'll be out of the way, and bring some strong coffee immediately."

The waiter was impressed with Brent's appearance and manner. He hastened to obey. "I'll just stop a bit until the rain ceases," Brent explained casually, talking at a seat at the table with the man he had brought in. "Bring me a pot of coffee, without cream."

"The waiter grimaced. Obviously his guest was unused to coffee houses of this order. A pot of coffee indeed! A thick, white mug at the best.

"No individual pots, sir," he apologized, using an address that was unfamiliar in the place. But this man, in his better days had seen better places.

"Never mind," Brent instructed him. "Attend to this poor wretch at once. You have some hot soup, I suppose?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then fetch it after the coffee."

The strong black beverage, held to the blue lips by Brent himself, revived his companion in a condition in which he was able to partake of the thick hot soup.

Brent sat opposite and watched silently while he dipped the large cheap spoon up and down, and down, with the speed demanded by wolfish hunger.

The busy waiter had gone about his duties. Brent had indicated that he did not want attention directed to his table and the man had accepted his wishes without comment. He was used to turning his back on queer affairs. And this affair was queer, "unless the toff in the evenin' clothes really didn't know a drunken guy from a bum just one jump ahead of the undertaker."

Well, it was none of his business. Like enough he'd get a good fat tip out of it. Soft-hearted gink, probably, bit of a fool.

While he went on about his business Brent waited until the soup was finished and then began to ply the old man with questions. But first he lighted a cigaret for him, astutely surmising that it was the first, other than butts, that he'd smoked in years.

But even so, in spite of the coffee, the soup and the tobacco, it was not easy to get the story. Not that the old fellow was at all reluctant to reveal it. He was reluctant for him to put his statements in sequence.

A name here, a date there. Brent had to keep continually on the alert; aware that the man's mind was affected. But the burden of the tale—the vein the teller couldn't get away from—was his satisfaction, his glowing enjoyment of the empty revenge the rich old father was living. But for this Brent might have learned nothing.

"Whose father? Evangeline?" Brent pressed. "Cunningham. What Cunningham?"

"Why, alone in his big house... old Cyril... Cyril K... all these years and he doesn't know it serves him right. It serves him right. Thinka he's going to leave his money away from my wife... chrat me... the poor fool... thinks I married Evangeline for her inheritance... inheritance she'll never get—money I wouldn't touch—money my lit... the girl will never touch... all these years alone, alone in that empty old house... hoping... hoping... the little girl was a pretty kid..."

He lifted a torn, soiled sleeve to his dripping eyes and sniffed. Then he began again. Brent, listening patiently, lost not a word. They sat there at the table for an hour. The bowl of small crackers was empty, the ash tray full of expensive ashes. The story was told.

At least Brent concluded that he would learn no more of it from Charles Nellin. That was the vagrant's name Charles Owens Nellin. He mustn't forget, Charles Owens Nellin.

All that came now was repetition. But he had learned a great deal. He knew that Charles Nellin had been Evangeline Cunningham's music teacher. Knew her father had not seen her since her elopement with Nellin. Knew that she had died a few years after their marriage. Knew that they had a daughter. She'd been named for her mother—Evangeline. Where she was or what had become of her he could not learn.

Nellin had slipped away from all his questions about her without answering. Brent could not tell whether by intention or the vagary of his mind. He seemed scarcely to be aware of the fact that he was being led along—but he did make it plain that the girl's grandfather was not likely to find her. Oh, yes, he mentioned Cunningham, knew of her existence. Evangeline had written to him of the child's birth. His reply—Nellin didn't say in so many words what it was, but Brent understood that it had been caustic.

He seemed, suddenly, to suspect that his listener might misjudge his cleverness. "Listen," he burst. "I'll tell you what I've done... how I've cheated him!"

Cotton Rise Lost; Stocks Rebound

Southern Selling Causes Declines In Cotton Market

Renewal Of Liquidation Is Factor In Price Drop In Wednesday Session After Early Advances

NEW YORK, Sept. 11. (AP)—A renewal of liquidation and southern selling caused sharp declines from early advances in cotton during today's late trading. After selling up to 19.32 on covering and trade buying, December broke to 18.92, and closing quotations were at the lowest figures of the day with the market easy at a net decline of 13 to 21 points.

The market opened steady at a decline of 1 point to an advance of 2 points and after some irregularity sold about 2 to 5 points below yesterday's closing.

The market opened fairly steady, first trades showed one point gain to 3 points decline. Following a rally of 10 to 12 points right after the start the market eased off again under selling in anticipation of a favorable weekly weather and crop summary, turning weak today under hedge and short selling.

December contracts which had sold up to 19.20 eased to 18.79 and closed at the latter figure for a net loss of 17 points. The general market closed easy at net declines of 17 to 19 points.

The market opened fairly steady, first trades showed one point gain to 3 points decline. Following a rally of 10 to 12 points right after the start the market eased off again under selling in anticipation of a favorable weekly weather and crop summary, turning weak today under hedge and short selling.

When the report was received it failed to meet bearish expectations. October advanced to 18.89 and January 19.26, or 27 to 28 points above the early lows.

Doukhorob Are Disturbed Again

Tuesday Declines Are Regained For Principal Stocks

MILKADO, Sask., Sept. 11. (AP)—More than a score of Doukhorob women and children disrobed two miles east of here today following the arrest of eight members of a Sons of Freedom band marching toward Canora, Sask.

Police threatened with riding whips several men who started to disrobe and succeeded in forcing them to remain clothed. The Doukhorobers had been denied entry to Canora. The arrests followed refusal by the leaders of the party to return to their homes.

Fred Blom, a leader of the group, was the first to be arrested. Seven others were taken into custody during a disturbance that followed.

By CLAUDE A. JAGGER, Associated Press Financial Writer.
NEW YORK, Sept. 11. (AP)—The stock market had one of its "day after" rebounds today, which have become characteristic of late on days succeeding floods of selling.

Price indices indicated more than half of yesterday's losses regained. Trading was in large volume, nearly 4,000,000 shares changing hands.

The outstanding bullish development of the day was an influx of call money, which carried the rate down to 7 per cent, after renewal at 9 as compared to yesterday's closing rate of 10. The ease in money was attributed by bankers to the piling up of funds here against the mid-month settlements.

The market failed to show the Wednesday uneasiness, customary of late over the prospect of an increase in the Bank of England's discount rate.

Announcement Bullish
The announcement that the new treasury offering of about $500,000,000 in certificates brought in subscriptions of nearly $1,500,000,000 was generally construed bullishly, although it was felt that the tax exempt feature, rather than the coupon rate of 4 7/8 per cent, was the principal attraction.

Oils were leaders of the advance. Standard Oil of Jersey was pushed up nearly 6 points to a record price for the present: stock above 90. Royal Dutch was bid up about as much to a new peak above 60.

Johns Manville was again a strong feature, selling up about 13 points. Simmons climbed 11 to a new top. Utilities were urged forward. The bulls were firm. Baltimore and Ohio reaching a new peak.

banks which had provided the funds. Today's trading regarding the fake code messages sent from Denver the day before Waggoner obtained $495,000 from the Chase National bank in New York, he refused to give information and referred questions to his Denver attorney.

Waggoner said he rested last night, following his arrest, better than he had for weeks. Prior to the transaction he worried because assets of the Telluride bank had decreased from $1,750,000 to less than $500,000. He said a crash was inevitable and that he took the only possible method to protect his depositors. Waggoner said if the money placed to the credit of his bank was properly handled the depositors would be paid in full. He also said if the government would give him ten months time he would return to the bank and clear his slate.

Waggoner was arrested last yesterday at the Cambria Park casino, a tourist park, after he had registered there under the name of M. Barnett, of Minturn, Colo.

Orleans Public Service and approved by W. D. Mahon, President of the International Carmen's Union. Terms Un satisfactory.

After the vote was announced, Edwin Ferroux, president of the union, said the men rejected the terms of settlement because public service officials refused to give any satisfaction as to when the strikers would be taken back to work. The company's refusal to be specific, he said, made the men doubt the good faith of the public service.

Anti-Communist Mob Investigation Starts
CHARLOTTE, N.C., Sept. 11. (AP)—Open investigation into the activities of an anti-communist mob which Monday night cut a swath of violence through Gaston and Mecklenburg counties got under way today. A Carolina jurist, presiding over the superior courts of Mecklenburg and Gaston counties during the current six months, took hold of the situation in lieu of a grand jury, which could not be summoned for three weeks. He directed Solicitor John C. Carpenter of the local district to summon all available witnesses, examine them in open court and endeavor in every way possible to find out who was in the mob.

Solicitor Carpenter had been ordered by Governor G. Max Gardner to spare no efforts to investigate the kidnapping and hogging of Ben Wells, British subject, and organizer for the National Textile Workers' Union, and the kidnaping of C. M. Lell and C. D. Saylor as well as raids on union and communist headquarters in Gastonia, Bessemer City and Charlotte.

Walker Is Named As Commissioner

AUSTIN, Sept. 11. (AP)—Governor Moody today appointed J. H. Walker to be commissioner of the general land office to succeed J. T. Robison deceased. Robison had been commissioner 21 years and Walker had been chief clerk for the same period of time.

Walker announced the appointment of Sam S. Sayers of Bastrop county, to be chief clerk. Sayers had been employed in the land office 28 years.

Walker came to Austin in January 1899 from Johnson county and entered the land office as Spanish translator. In 1901 and 1902 he was chief clerk of the comptroller's department and for four years during the administration of Governor Lanham was financial agent of the penitentiary system.

The governor's action in appointing Walker seemed to meet with universal approval in the capitol. The new commissioner was said to have a thorough knowledge of land matters in Texas.

Russian, Chinese Troops Are Quiet
KUKIEN, Manchuria, Sept. 11. (AP)—Russian and Chinese troops after an outbreak of fighting in the vicinity of Opanchayna over the week end, tonight apparently settled down to the task of patrolling the frontier within their respective lines as they have done for the past two months.

The Manchurian government announced today the fighting which had been in progress at both eastern and western frontier points ceased last night. Fighting near Manchian, western terminus of the Chinese eastern railway, subject of the dispute, seemed to have been inconclusive and unimportant.

At the opposite end of the railway, at Pochanichayna, the struggle was waged more bitterly and railway buildings were destroyed. Employees of the railway, telegraph and customs staffs returned to their posts today after a total break in those communications for several days.

SESSION APPROVED
Solons Appear Willing To Correct Pensions Law
AUSTIN, Sept. 11. (AP)—Early returns from the poll were taken by Senator W. A. Williamson of San Antonio to ascertain if members of the legislature will serve without pay during a special session to correct the confederate pension law, indicated an overwhelming approval.

Senator Williamson revealed today he had received replies from 18 senators and every one agreed to pay his way to and from Austin for the session and to defray his expenses while here without receiving per diem. Eight representatives stated they would not accept.

A quorum would require the attendance of 100 representatives and 21 senators.

Senator Williamson said the session, if it is called, should be able to transact its business and adjourn in two days.

TARIFF BILL NEXT
Threatened Delay Is Wiped Away By Congress
WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. (AP)—The clouds that hung over senatorial progress with the tariff bill were swept away today by postponement until December of action on the Vane seat controversy.

The Vane issue had threatened to delay the bill.

Except for agreement on proposals to consider first the administrative provisions of the republican revision measure, and to dispense with the initial reading to speed up debate, little attention was given to the tariff by the senate today.

The motion to make the initial order of business the sections embracing the controversial flexible tariff commission, and proposed new valuation clauses, was made by Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking demand on the finance committee, who planned to launch opposition program tomorrow with delivery of a long speech.

Heath Is Indicted In Agent's Death
DETROIT, Sept. 11. (AP)—John M. Heath, Detroit elevator mechanic, was in Wayne county jail tonight awaiting trial on an indictment returned against him today by the federal grand jury in connection with the death of Richard J. Sandlands, federal prohibition agent whose body was found in the Detroit river August 6.

The indictment against Heath charges assaulting a federal officer with deadly weapon, making off with government property and violating the tariff act by attempting to smuggle liquor into the United States.

IRISH IMPATIENT IN WORLD DISARMAMENT ACTION
Geneva, Sept. 11. (AP)—The Irish Free State through its spokesman, Patrick McGilligan, foreign minister of the Saorstait, today voiced impatience with the slow rate of progress in the movement for reduction of world armaments, and called upon the powers to convene a general disarmament conference.

"An improved atmosphere," is practically the only result claimed for the activities of the preparatory commission for disarmament since last year, said McGilligan who pointed out that an anti-war pact between nations, such as the Briand-Kellogg pact, should be followed almost automatically by reduction in the weapons of war.

He praised the United States and Great Britain for their efforts to reach a settlement on the question of naval power.

Question Of Papal Authority Around Malta Arouses Vatican Controversy

VALETTA, Malta, Sept. 11.—Religious controversy again has raised its head this time on the islands of Malta and Gozo headquarters of the British Mediterranean fleet.

The long smouldering dissension which has flared up between the Roman Catholic church and the government of Malta—a part of the British Empire—has reached an acute stage.

The present controversy arose out of the recent transfer of a Maltese monk from Malta to Sicily by his ecclesiastical superior, an Italian. The government, of which Lord Strickland is the head, considered that the monk was being punished for his political views and refused to permit the transfer.

This created such a furor in Catholic church circles on the two islands which are 56 miles from the coast of Sicily, that a church inquiry was requested.

Monsignor Paschal Robinson, O. P. M., titular archbishop of Tyana, was appointed apostolic delegate and sustained the positions of the bishops of Malta and Gozo who opposed Lord Strickland's attitude.

Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, wrote the two bishops saying that the Holy See had been made aware of the grave Maltese situation and expressing the hope that they would continue with firmness in their attitude.

The argument now has become a dispute on a matter of principle between the Roman Catholic church and the Maltese government.

In the letter to the bishops Cardinal Gasparri wrote that the pope "will not fail further to uphold and encourage you in your action for stopping those activities which are harmful not only to religion but also to Maltese superior authority."

Early in July the pope not only declined to see Lord Strickland but three days before his lordship was in Rome Cardinal Gasparri handed a note to Henry Getty Chilton, the British minister, calling attention to his previous letter to the two bishops and saying the letter was intended publicly to inform the Maltese people that Lord Strickland is not persona grata to the Holy See.

At the same time, Cardinal Gasparri handed the British minister an aide-memoire prepared by an anonymous person which depicts Malta as being in a state of terror under a regime in which the opposition is "disarmed," the press "gagged," justice "suspended," the constitution "endangered," the island in a "ferment," and the Roman Catholic church "openly insulted."

Cardinal Gasparri begged the British minister to decide whether the matter should be brought to the attention of the British government.

There the matter stands. Meanwhile, the Maltese cabinet is preparing a memorandum which will be made public shortly in reply to Cardinal Gasparri's letter to the two bishops as well as the aide-memoire handed to Mr. Chilton.

Lindy Grows Up!

These pictures illustrate how, in two years, the strain of being a world hero has transformed Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh from a carefree youth into a man, his face strengthened and hardened by the worries of his career. The two lower photos were taken at the time of Lindy's epochal flight from New York to Paris. Contrast them with the upper picture, snapped when he attended the National Air Races in Cleveland recently.
