Sprayed With Acid

(NEA Telephoto)

Atlanta, Ga., police have been alerted to locate a flashily dressed man who sprayed acid from a water pistol. Three women reported the acid attacks in one night. Here, Mrs. Helen Shelley shows her employer, Mrs. Thurlow Evans, Jr., the acid burns on her back.

America Moves To Plug Defenses As Cold War Gets Hot

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON—(P)—The United States moved on many fronts this weekend to strengthen key military and political positions against Russian pressure in the cold war, which steadily grew hotter.

Top officials here were reported continuing Saturday to seek some formula to lessen the tensions of the conflict. But in the State and Defense Departments—perhaps the White House itself—there appears to be almost no optimism.

By contrast with Senator McMahon's $50,000,000 proposal for winning atomic arms control, the actual moves of Administration officials disclosed they mainly are concerned now with matching American power against Russian power.

What apparently causes American policy makers most concern is that the Soviet—Communists, having scored their tremendous triumphs in China, now are pressing on in Southeast Asia.

Moreover, as ECA Administrator Paul Hoffman reported Friday on his return from Paris, all official information indicates that the Western European Communists are beginning to regain confidence and generate new offensives.

Reporter-Telegram To Publish 'Golden Fifties' Edition

The Golden 50's Petroleum Progress Edition of The Reporter-Telegram will be published this month, with plans calling for the largest, most complete and most important newspaper edition ever printed in the Permian Basin Empire.

Progress in Midland and the entire Permian Basin Empire will be reviewed in the special edition. Again this year, the edition will have "Petroleum Promotes Progress" as its general theme.

Advertising and news copy must be received promptly for inclusion in the Golden 50's edition.

American Scientists Beg U. S. Not To Use H-Bomb

NEW YORK—(P)—Twelve top American scientists called Saturday for a solemn promise that the United States never will use the hydrogen bomb unless it is first employed against us or our allies.

The scientists, mostly A-bomb men, said this country should develop the bomb for one reason only—to prevent its being used.

They sounded two warnings:

1—Russia probably will have the H-bomb in less than four years.

2—The bomb—ours or the Russians—will be much more powerful than most estimates have indicated. A single H-bomb could wipe out New York or any other great city.

"It is a betrayal of all standards of morality and of Christian civilization itself," said the group, headed by the real father of the H-bomb, Dr. Hans A. Bethe of Cornell University, who discovered how the sun makes its heat with hydrogen.

All are attending the annual meeting of the American Physical Society. They spoke for no group, but for themselves as "worried citizens."

Despite the H-bomb's vast power, their statement said, this country could survive an H-bomb attack and effectively strike back.

They said it will be difficult to stockpile the bombs because they probably must be liquid hydrogen at about 450 degrees Fahrenheit below zero.

And they said it is certain the Russians will be able to build the bomb, too.

G-Man Called To Help Stem Atomic Leaks

WASHINGTON—(P)—Grave-faced lawmakers, anxious to plug any further leaks in atomic security, Saturday called J. Edgar Hoover to testify Monday after hearing first-hand that a trusted British scientist—now an atomic spy suspect—was free to obtain "most vital weapons information."

The Senate-House Atomic Committee asked the top G-man to testify in closed session as it sought to learn from Lt. Gen. Leslie R. Groves the size of the hole in America's atomic treasure chest.

Chairman McMahon (D-Conn.) related to reporters that Groves, wartime head of the atomic project, had told the Congress members Scientist Klaus Fuchs had "access to a wide area of the most vital weapons information." Groves indicated this included data on the proposed hydrogen bomb.

Hoover already has told a Senate appropriations group, according to senators, that Fuchs became a paid Moscow agent in 1939. He was filtered into the English atomic setup after the war broke out. The physicist then worked his way up to become a member of the British Atomic Mission to this country.

Fuchs also was present even at the assembly of an atomic bomb, according to this account.

Behind Closed Doors

Groves testified behind closed doors—closed, one committee member said, to keep other possible spies from hearing tips which might cause them to skip the country.

McMahon said Groves told the atomic committee Saturday that:

(1) "He had no doubt as to Fuchs' opportunity for knowing vital information"; and

(2) The British scientist never subjected to an American security check, having already been cleared by his own government.

The 38-year-old scientist was brought to court Friday in England to face charges of relaying U. S. atomic secrets to the Soviet Union.

Representative Durham (D-NC), vice chairman of the congressional atomic group, said Saturday's session discussed—without reaching a decision—whether the United States can take any action against a foreign subject who gives away U. S. secrets.

He pointed out that under American law, an offense like the one Klaus Fuchs committed would call for the death penalty on conviction.

Seek More Members Of Safe-cracker Gang

Three suspects arrested here late Thursday in connection with a number of burglaries and safe-cracking jobs were being held in the Midland County Jail Saturday. They are said by Chief Jack Ellington to be part of a ring which now is believed to number 11. All are negroes.

Ellington said four more suspects have been arrested. Big Spring in connection with the safe-cracking, bringing to six the number held there. Two others are being sought in California.

The three held here have made statements admitting burglaries and safe-cracking jobs in Midland, Odessa, Martin County and Howard County, Ellington said.

Sheriff's Department Aids

Deputies Ed Edwards and Bill Felt, Ellington and members of his department cooperated in apprehending the trio.

Felt and Ellington Friday questioned the suspects held in Big Spring.

Ellington said 23 jobs have been cleared up by admissions from the nine under arrest.

Six burglaries in Midland, nine in Howard County, four in Martin County and two in Odessa have been linked with the gang by confessions from the negroes under arrest, Ellington said. He said two other burglaries also have been connected with part of the gang.

A Midland County grand jury will be in session Monday and Ellington and Sheriff's officers indicated the cases against the three held here will be presented directly to the body. Indictments will be asked, they said.

Postal Receipts Show Sharp Gain

Postal receipts for January jumped sharply in comparison with the same period last year, according to Postmaster N. G. Oates. An increase of more than 43 per cent is shown.

Total receipts for January of 1950 were $26,911.73, as compared with $18,770.66 for last year. The increase is $8,141.07.

Oates said this is the largest increase ever registered in one month over the corresponding month of a previous year.

Bitter Cold Knives Into Northwest

By The Associated Press

A blizzard knifed through parts of the Pacific Northwest, halted trains and blocked highways Saturday. Two cities in the area faced a critical water shortage.

Flood waters continued their rampage in parts of Arkansas, and the Mississippi neared the emergency mark at New Orleans. But elsewhere in the nation the flood picture was brighter.

A blizzard roared through Oregon's Columbia River gorge Friday. Ice caused breaks in water mains and let reservoirs run completely dry at Aberdeen, Wash. Many sections of the city of 25,000 were without water. Aberdeen's seven lumber mills and two plywood plants were forced to shut down.

Southern Rivers Rife

Rainier, Ore., was left without a water supply because of a frozen intake.

Judge Sentences Spears To 18 Years

ODESSA—District Judge Paul Moss late Friday sentenced Armo Spears, 44, to 18 years in the state penitentiary for the murder of Robert L. Wallace, 29, on Oct. 12, 1947.

A 70th District Court jury here, on January 18 convicted Spears, of Midland, for the murder of Wallace, and recommended the 18-year sentence.

It was the second trial for Spears.

He was convicted in Midland June 3, 1948, on the murder charge and sentenced to 15 years in prison.

A new trial was granted, however, by an appellate court and a change of venue transferred the trial to Odessa.

Grand Jury To Convene Monday

A heavy schedule is in prospect for a 70th District Court Grand Jury which will convene here Monday, court officials indicated.

Advisers Say President To Use T-H Law

WASHINGTON—(P)—Two top presidential advisers said Saturday night President Truman will invoke the Taft-Hartley Act against John L. Lewis unless his soft coal miners return to the pits Monday.

The two officials, in separate interviews, said the United Mine Workers chief had left the chief executive no alternative but the use of the act which he has sought to repeal.

Presidential advisers already are at work on the draft of a presidential order. Earlier in the day Lewis spurned Truman's plan to end the mounting coal crisis with a fact finding board.

This immediately set off rumors that a nationwide mine strike would get under way on Monday.

Neither of the White House intimates who outlined the White House plans would be quoted by name.

They said the President would act unless there is an unexpected return to the coal mines by the UMW members.

Late Saturday the White House announced that Lewis' answer "is construed as a rejection" of the President's proposals.

Three strings

One of the officials in close contact with developments, said he had "grave doubts" whether Lewis would send the miners back to work on Monday.

Lewis, in a letter to the White House, advised Truman that the miners "do not wish three strangers"—the President's proposed fact finding board—to fix their wages and working conditions.

John D. Battle, executive vice president of the National Coal Association, said reports from the field indicated that the "wink or nod" to walk out already had been given by Lewis.

Truman had proposed that the miners return to normal coal digging.

Midland's Popular $Dollar Day$ Is Scheduled Monday

$DOLLAR DAYS—February $DOLLAR DAYS—will be observed in Midland Monday.

It will be an outstanding occasion—this February $DOLLAR DAYS—with precinct all Midland merchants cooperating to make it the "biggest and best" in the history of Midland's popular $DOLLAR DAYS.

The $DOLLAR DAYS special appears to be more attractive than ever before, and it will be the shoppers of Midland and other Permian Basin Empire cities who will benefit from the spectacular bargains, many of which are advertised in this issue of The Reporter-Telegram.

It will be the early shopper who will have the real advantage and crowds are expected to gather in downtown Midland early Monday, even before the stores open.

Many stores plan to have extra clerks on duty to handle the rush. $DOLLAR DAYS stocks in an abundant supply will be ready for the Permian Basin Empire shoppers. It will be their day.

Free bus transportation for women from the residential districts to downtown Midland Monday morning again will be provided through the courtesy of The Reporter-Telegram and the Midland Bus Company. A bus coupon appears elsewhere in this issue.

Midland's February $DOLLAR DAYS is scheduled Monday.

HOW GREENVILLE DOES IT

GREENVILLE, TEXAS—(P)—All the pennies, nickels and dimes put in Greenville parking meters Saturday were turned over to the March of Dimes.

Later Rossellini's chauffeur came downstairs and apologized on behalf of the director. He said Rossellini was excited and upset.

"I forgive him," the photographer said. "I'm a father too."

Life Shutterbug Forgives Attack By Ingrid's Lover

ROME—(P)—Roberto Rossellini, the Italian film director who specializes in realism, tussled with a cameraman three minutes Saturday night outside the hospital housing Ingrid Bergman and her infant son. The clash was bloodless, but sound effects were loud.

"Sound effects," Rossellini shouted as he jumped from his new car at the gates of the clinic.

"This is enough, enough. When are you going to stop this?"

Rossellini seized Photographer Jack Birns of Time and Life Magazines and shook him violently. Birns, of Los Angeles, shoved Rossellini right back.

Other photographers snapped the scene as the two 185-pounders jostled each other. Both are about five feet, 10 inches tall. Rossellini is 43 and Birns 31.

Turning to a policeman, Rossellini ordered: "Arrest this man!"

The officer ignored the order. Rossellini then turned and stalked into the hospital, where he has been living since the Swedish film actress, still legally the wife of Dr. Peter Lindstrom of Hollywood, gave birth to the boy Thursday night.

Abundant Living

By
E. STANLEY JONES

Luke 13:3; Rom. 2:4; Acts 2:38; 3:19.

REVIEW YOUR LIFE AND REVERSE

This matter of taking the initial step is so important that if you do not really take it the rest of abundant living will be a sealed book to you. As someone said of another, "He hasn't the combination; and when you haven't it, you can't get at the locked treasures of God."

At the risk of seeming tedious we will go back again over some of the same ground, this time using a different ladder. For I know that many may have gone through our last week's study of the five steps of actually taking them. I would gather in that last hesitant soul before we go on. For what lies ahead is too good to be missed! You will remember we are working our way through the five steps of the scientific method. We have lingered on the second and third steps, picking out the most likely hypothesis and experimenting with it. We have picked out Christ as the most likely hypothesis and are now experimenting with Him as the answer.

This ladder will be even simpler than the other using nine R's upon which to step up and out. Review. Take an honest look at yourself. Perhaps you will find not so much positive sin as a lack of divine life.

"Outwardly splendid as of old inwardly sparkless, void and cold. Her force and fire all spent and gone. Like the dead moon she still shines on."

Or life may be at cross-purposes with itself, "sweet bells jangled out of tune." Or you may feel you are not getting anywhere. A Negro redcap said, "No, don't talk that coach, for it ain't hitched to nothing that is going somewhere." You may feel your life is hitched to something that isn't getting you anywhere. Then let us take the second step: (2) Reverse. Repentance is reversal. You have been going in a wrong direction; now you turn on your heel and reverse. Don't confess other people's sins; confess your own. If you begin with yourself, then like may beget like—they will confess theirs.

O God, I do begin with myself. I've been a coward. I've laid things on others and I blame them for my condition. I am to blame for what I am. But I do not stop with useless regret—I about-face. I honestly, even bitterly, repent. Forgive me, Amen.

Capon Brings $1,000 At Houston Auctions

HOUSTON (AP)—Records continued to fall at Houston Stock Show auction sales Saturday as a 12-pound grand champion capon sold for $1,000.

Willie Walch, Weimar, received the record price from Houston Restaurant Owner Bill Williams as auctioneer of 3,000 poultry entries began at the Sam Houston Coliseum Arena.

The previous capon purchase record was last year's $850. Williams also equaled a record he set last year by paying $1,500 to Jimmy Pickett, Jago, Wharton County, for the champion pen of five fryers.

Earlier Saturday, stock show officials had announced that market division auction sales, exclusive of poultry, had set a new show record of $222,927.38. The previous record set last year was $213,372.19. The 337 fat steers, excluding the grand and reserve champions, sold at an average of 54.76 cents a pound, compared to the old record of 52 cents set in 1949. The current market price is about 30 cents a pound.

New records had been set Friday as Ollman Glenn McCarthy paid $15,400 for the grand champion steer, an 880-pound Hereford shown by Bobby Zane Egger, Star Mills County. The highest previous price had been 1947's $15,000. McCarthy's brother, Bill, and his brother-in-law, paid $6,400 for the reserve champion, another Hereford shown by Donald Hewitt, Big Spring. The old record was $6,200 paid last year by Bill McCarthy.

Other poultry sales Saturday included $600 paid by Houston Banker Neal Greer for the champion turkey hen shown by Bircham Turkey Farm, Aubrey, Denton County.

The champion turkey tom, also shown by Bingham, went to the Fogle-West Funeral Home, Houston, for $400.

Williams also purchased the champion trio of capons for $750.

Former Governor Of Bank Of England Dies

LONDON (AP)—Lord Norman, 78, who headed the Bank of England longer than any other man in its 256 years, died in his sleep early Saturday.

The spruce financier, whose trademarks were a Van Dyke beard, conservatism and secrecy, was better known as Montagu Norman. King George made him a baron in 1944 when he retired after 24 years as governor of the Bank of England, 19 years longer than any of his predecessors.

Texas Asks Bids On 274 Miles Of Roads

AUSTIN (AP)—The Highway Department Saturday asked for bids on 274 miles of farm-to-market road construction estimated at a cost of $3,259,000.

The contracts will be awarded February 14-15. In addition, the department will accept bids on 19 miles of construction for primary highways and 13 miles of state highways.

Contract bids asked, by counties, include:

Pecos—U. S. 285, 18,911 miles, grading, flexible base and double asphalt surface treatment, from Fort Stockton south-east to Stockton Tank.

Crane—State 51 and 329, 1,436 miles, grading, flexible base and double asphalt surface treatment, from 500 feet of First Street to 13th Street on State 51; from State 51 to west city limits of Crane.

Dawson—FM 1064, 179 and $29, 20,702 miles, grading, flexible base, one and two-course surface treatment, from U. S. 180 to Mungerville; from Woody to one mile north of Grandview School; from State 329 to State 137 in Welch; from State 137 to one mile north of Grandview School.

Borden—FM 1054, 10.5 miles, grading, drainage structures, flexible base and one-course surface treatment, from Lynn County line to 10.5 miles south.

A Little Bull Is Going A Long Way

AMARILLO (AP)—A little bull is going a long way. The famed Boys Ranch near Amarillo and Hereford in the Texas Panhandle to the new Hereford House Restaurant in New York City will go Larry Domino.

Domino, a 350-pound registered Hereford bull, Larry with 22 escorts from the City of Hereford, will leave Amarillo Sunday in a special Pioneer Air Lines plane for his trip to New York.

Plans for the trip will be a specially constructed crate to provide the valuable animal with the utmost in comfort and ease throughout his 1,557-mile trip.

Plans for the trip started last year. Orlo McOsker of Bronxville, New York, the manager and director of the Gramatan Hotel, was vacationing in the Panhandle area. He passed through Hereford, Texas, and the idea of naming his hotel exclusive steak house, The Hereford House, struck him. After his return to New York, he wrote to the Hereford Chamber of Commerce outlining his proposition. He offered the group a full five-day adventure in New York at his expense if they would join him in the opening of his new restaurant.

Hereford accepted, and plans for the present trip were made. Larry, the little bull who is going a long way, has only a one-way ticket.

Convicted Rapist Slashes Own Legs

ORANGE (AP)—Sheriff Chester Holts said Saturday Paul LaFleur recently slashed his legs with a razor in jail here. He expressed belief the 30-year-old Houston ex-convict plans to plead insanity when tried on shooting and robbery charges.

LaFleur, already under life sentence on charges of raping an Orange girl, has been transferred to the Jefferson County jail at Beaumont to await trial on charges of robbing and shooting Don Hulsoppe, young Orange High School boxer.

LaFleur, through Attorney John O. Young, issued a handwritten statement Saturday accusing officers of abusing him. He said "I got afraid and cut my heel string."

"I'm not guilty," the LaFleur statement said. Holts denied there had been any abuse of LaFleur.

Barkley To Visit Houston In March

HOUSTON (AP)—Vice President Alben W. Barkley is to visit Houston March 7.

He has accepted an invitation to a dinner honoring three Houstonians, Banker A. Dee Simpson, Ollman George Strake, and Industrialist Mose M. Feld.

Mrs. Barkley also has been invited.

From Farm To Museum?

Rep. Reid Murray (R-Wis.), shares his grief with crane-shrouded Rosie over congressional repeal of oleomargarine taxes. The dairy state congressman claims the new tax relief, plus large government subsidies on oleo ingredients, possibly will destroy the cow as well as the dairy business.

Rossellini—

"We thought it was the chief of police followed by two jeepsloads of police," one of the Italian cameramen said later. "That's how much noise Rossellini was making."

Miss Bergman, who is awaiting a math degree from Juarez, Mexico, has until Sunday, February 12, to register the birth. Juarez attorney said that, in normal course, her divorce will be granted about February 14. She will have an opportunity, in registering the birth, to declare who is the father of her baby—tentatively named Roberto.

Under Italian and California law, the baby would be regarded legally as the son of Dr. Lindstrom, who visited Miss Bergman in Sicily last May in a reconciliation attempt that failed.

Dr. Pier Luigi Guidotti, one of her doctors, said, "Biologically and sentimentally, there is no doubt that the child is Rossellini's—juridically, that's another matter."

Speaking of Rossellini's bid for a Roman Catholic annulment of his marriage to Marcella de Marchis Rossellini, the Rev. Felix Morlion said in Milan there is serious reason to believe this will be granted, "although the church is very cautious in these matters."

The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano sharply criticized the publicity given the case. With mentioning Miss Bergman's name, it compared the interest in her motherhood to that which attended the birth of the daughter of Rita Hayworth and Prince Aly Khan. It referred to the flood of news stories which covered the arrival of Miss Hayworth's daughter, Yasmine, December 28.

"Now," said L'Osservatore, "another has been unleashed upon the birth of another baby, which has crowned a so-called 'romantic affair' that is described, illustrated and commented upon without sparing space or expense; an affair which in the face of divorce laws, invoked but not yet applied, is and therefore, openly, undeniably and clamorously, a violation of conjugal fidelity."

Another American Simpson Marries British Nobleman

WASHINGTON (AP)—Another American Mrs. Simpson married to British royalty Saturday.

In a simple ceremony at the National Presbyterian Church here, the socially prominent Romaine Dahlgren Pierce Simpson, a pretty Washington divorcee, became the wife of the Marquess of Milford Haven, second cousin of King George VI.

The 30-year-old divorcee, however, did not have to relinquish his title as did his other royal cousin, the Duke of Windsor, who gave up his throne 13 years ago to marry Mrs. Willis Warfield Simpson, a Baltimore divorcee.

The 28-year-old marchioness is the daughter of Gen. C. G. McIlwaine of Washington. Her first husband was William S. Simpson of Locust Valley, N. Y., whom she married in 1946. They were divorced last year and have a 22-months old daughter.

Despondent Banker Kills Three, Then Takes Suicide Dive

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A Yonkers, N. Y., banker slashed and beat to death his wife, mother-in-law and sister-in-law Saturday, and then committed suicide by diving in front of a truck.

Peace Justice J. G. Spicola identified the victims of the mad attack by the banker, Tony Slechia, 50, as Ann Slechia, 47, her sister, Ellen Ruziak, a few years younger and their mother, Mrs. Peter Ruziak, about 70.

J. G. Spicola, acting coroner, said "There is no question" that Tony Slechia committed the killings and then threw himself in front of a truck because of depression over the critical illness of Slechia's father-in-law, Peter Ruziak.

Ruziak, 77, is at the point of death from cancer in a hospital here.

Texas Building Permits Are Down $886,000

AUSTIN (AP)—Building permits issued in Texas during the last week showed a decrease of $886,000 from the estimated value of permits granted during the previous week.

A report issued Saturday by The Texas Contractor, a building trades magazine, showed that permits issued last week totaled $15,621,561. Permits totaling $16,508,546 were issued during the previous week.

Moves Up

Theodore T. (Teddy) Hayes, above, former trainer of Jack Dempsey and more recently connected with a notorious "Mexican Sweepstakes" in New York, has been appointed to an important post as assistant to Federal Security Administrator Oscar R. Ewing. Hayes' duty will be to act as contact man with Congress, supplying information on Social Security, federal aid to education, National Health Insurance and related legislative items. Hayes denied reports that his appointment resulted from a "must" request from Edward J. Flynn, Bronx Democratic boss.

Attorney General Assistant Resigns

BEAUMONT (AP)—Attorney General Price Daniel Saturday announced the resignation of Assistant Attorney General Pat T. Peyton, Jr., who has returned to Beaumont to enter the practice of law.

Peyton will resume his association with the attorney general's office, however, as a special assistant during the trial of the state's pending antitrust suit against major gasoline refiners, Daniel's announcement said.

Texas Scouts Report To Governor Shivers

AUSTIN (AP)—Hundreds of Boy Scouts swarmed over the Capitol Saturday and then lined four stories along the balconies of the rotunda to hear Gov. Allan Shivers.

The Scouts came from Central Texas to give their annual report on the state of their part of the nation—Boy Scouts of America in Texas.

"We worry about the future of America," Gov. Allan Shivers told them, "and then we look into the faces of youth like you and know that it is safe."

Junior Edition Of Barrymore Profile Isn't A 'Mirror-Boy'

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
NEA Staff Correspondent

HOLLYWOOD—John Barrymore, Jr., has a profile just like his father's but he's not the "mirror boy" Senior was. Credit this to Harry Ray, make-up man. Ray worked on the late Barrymore and is now assigned to Junior's second movie, "Deadfall." He told me:

"Old John was always conscious of his make-up. He always looked into a mirror just before a scene."

"Young Barrymore never looks at his make-up once it is on. He's not a mirror boy," Ray added. "Both Barrymores are similar in having a wonderful sense of humor and minds fast as lightning."

Jack Carson is headed for television in a big way now that he and Warner Brothers have called it a day. He's working on a show with Jimmy Kern, the film director.

Elizabeth Taylor is celebrating her seventh anniversary at M-G-M. In her first picture, she played a supporting role to Lassie. Now look at her.

Ramon Novarro, who took a leave of absence from movies a few years ago, is back before the cameras working almost as steadily as in the old days when he was a star. Arthur Freed gave him a big role with Cary Grant in "Crisis" and predicts a second career for him as a character actor.

Thinking Hard. Despite her denials at the time, Betty Hutton's stormy with her two children at Sun Valley was a trial separation from husband Ted Briskin, not a vacation. She left town to think it over and after thinking it over she was ready to try again. But Ted thought it over, too, and the divorce announcement followed.

Veronica Lake is Mexico-bound to star in "The Red Fury" opposite Pedro Armendariz. Olivia de Havilland is interested in buying the film rights to Mildred Cram's "The Promise" from Benedict Boggs. Big musical in the wind for the Valley is at U.I. They're already appeared in six shorts there. When Joan Davis was named best-dressed woman in radio, her 16-year-old daughter, Beverly, cracked: "It should have been a tie I wear her clothes all the time."

The Blackburn Twins, who danced into headlines with Janet Blair, may wind up in acting greasepaint. Huntington Hartford wants to co-star them in the Joe Sharer story, "The Secret Sharer," story of two men who are look-alikes.

Bill Schuster, star shortstop for the Seattle baseball club and a rapid-umpire butter, helped Columbia make "Kill the Umpire" authentic by playing himself. But Bill says he's still confused.

"I tell the ump what I think of him, then the director tells 'cut,' and they have me do it all over again. And for that they PAY me."

Tricky operation for Joe Kirk.

Paul Jr. Hell have a bone removed from his foot to be placed in his back to relieve a vertebra condition. The Dinning Sisters are out of harmony. One is suing the other three, plus a brother-in-law. Success story: Sid Cassidy, new president of the Academy of Television Arts and Sciences, arrived in Hollywood four and a half years ago as a university graduate. His first job was on the labor gang at Paramount studio.

Dorothy Lamour is singing to standing room only at the Shamrock Hotel in Houston. When you have a place where there's standing room only in the state of Texas, brother, you have a crowd.

Paul Raymond is being prepped for the lead in the road show of "Kiss Me Kate" and then pictures. Nelson Eddy's coach, Dr. Edouard Lippe, claims he's a young Pinza. He's the same Raymond who turned down a seven-year contract at Republic because they wanted him to be a cowboy star.

News item: "Dr. Harold Fink, Beverly Hills psychiatrist, just purchased the rights to the Spanish film, 'Hardly a Criminal,' for distribution in the U. S." Who's loony now?

There's a big orange-picking sequence in Ida Lupino's next, "Nobody's Safe." Ida made arrangements with the California Orange Growers Association for the rental of two orange ranches. Everything was okay but just as Ida was leaving the association office, one representative said:

"Of course, Miss Lupino, we're not trying to suggest you put into the script, but would you be sure to make clear that these are not the Florida oranges."

Dollars Instead Of Dimes

Midland's 1950 March of Dimes campaign is lagging more than any financial drive in recent years—and at a time when contributions should be running far ahead of any previous year.

Just what the trouble is we do not know, but Midlanders must wake up to their responsibilities concerning the fight against dreaded polio if this county's $18,000 quota is met promptly. The campaign already has been extended from its original deadline and the goal still is far from being attained. Quick and generous action is needed.

Perhaps the major trouble is that the campaign is misnamed. Rather than a March of Dimes, the drive should be termed a March of Dollars. Dollars instead of dimes must be the basis of contributions if Midland County meets its quota.

It is true that $18,000 is a lot of money and that the goal represents an increase over previous quotas, but it should be remembered a lot of polio cases must be treated as a result of last year's unprecedented epidemic. Treatment and rehabilitation of old cases continues as does the constant research work in the battle against polio. Quotas have been increased this year in practically all cities and communities to finance the stepped-up battle. Wars cost money and this war against polio must have unlimited financing if the conflict is to be won. It must be won.

Just where the dreaded disease will strike this year and to what extent of course is not known. But remember —it could strike here in epidemic proportions as it did last year in some West Texas communities. Attention is called to Peter Edson's Washington Column appearing on this page).

Midland County last year was more fortunate in respect to polio than were several other communities in this section, although several cases were reported here. We hope there will be no cases this year, but we must be prepared. This county was hard hit in 1948 when the National Foundation was called upon for some $10,000 to assist in providing medical treatment and hospitalization for its polio victims. The county last year received almost $3,500 from the foundation.

Midland residents surely are interested in providing funds with which to care for patients of this county and to aid other counties which may be faced with emergencies.
Then, too, a part of each dollar contributed goes for research.

The 1950 drive here cannot and must not fail. But it will take dollars rather than dimes to bring the campaign to a successful conclusion. Every citizen must give, and it even may be necessary for some who have given dimes to increase their gifts to dollars. That is up to the individual. Think about it.

Remember—A polio epidemic could strike here. It could happen to you.

Mail your dollars today to POLIO, Midland, Texas.

Mao, He's Makin' Eyes At Me...

DREW PEARSON ON THE WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

Drew Pearson says: Democrats and Republicans find unity in prayer; Senator Capehart blames Truman for Indiana flood; Tireless Democrats thwart gag rule.

WASHINGTON — Forgetting political and religious differences, three Supreme Court justices and half a dozen senators shut themselves off from the hustle of government the other morning and, clasping hands, Democrats and Republicans shouldered in a circle, bowed their heads in prayer. It was quite a contrast to the usual bickering of the smoke-filled room.

Those joining in the prayer circle included Chief Justice Fred Vinson, Justices Tom Clark and Sherman Minton, Senators John Stennis of Mississippi and Willis Robertson of Virginia, all Democrats, and Senators Forrest Donnell of Missouri, Alex Wiley of Wisconsin, Homer Ferguson of Michigan, and Zales Ecton of Montana, all Republicans. Also in the group was ex-Senate doorkeeper Ray Bellamy.

The meeting started off with breakfast, but not until Senator Robertson had offered grace. Senator Wiley, arriving late, explained he had been tied up in traffic. Senator Ferguson, who had ridden with him, added that Wiley was stranded in the middle of an intersection when a policeman waved him back. Instead, according to Ferguson, Wiley stepped on the gas and shot ahead.

"The cop said to go back," objected Ferguson.

"But the Lord said to go ahead," explained Wiley, who said he was anxious to get to the worship hour.

After the fast and eggs were out of the way, the group turned to religion. Senator Stennis sounded the keynote by calling for a return to spirituality.

"We are trying to rebuild the world on a materialistic basis to offset the materialism of communism," he warned. "But we must balance our planning with spirituality."

Chief Justice Vinson agreed. "I am not a preacher, but even the son of a preacher," he declared. "But I know we must adhere to the ideals of Christianity before we can have a lasting peace."

He told how internal divisions had whittled away at ancient civilizations until they fell.

"It will be the same for our civilization," Vinson warned. "If it ever falls, it will be because of division."

Justice Clark added his opinion that "no country or civilization can last unless it is founded on Christian values," and Justice Minton urged a closer brotherhood with the people of Europe.

As an illustration, he told how he had visited an American graveyard in France after World War I, and found a French mother and three children laying greenery on American graves. She told him that French people came every day to decorate the graves of the fallen Americans.

All Truman's Fault

The inside story of the devastating flood which rolled over historic Vincennes, Indiana, now can be told.

It was not an act of God, and Harry S. Truman caused it all — according to Indiana's GOP Senator Homer Capehart. This message was brought to the President by Democratic Rep. Jim Noland of Indiana, after Senator Capehart had charged Truman with responsibility for the weak flood wall on the Wabash River.

"I came to urge your support for a higher and stronger flood wall at Vincennes," said Noland. "I hope the senator's indictment won't influence you against the project."

"It won't," replied Truman. "But this is the first time I've ever been accused of causing a flood. Reminds me of a bank robbery a fellow in New Jersey tried to pull me after the 1948 election. He lost $4,000 betting against me and then tried to get it back by robbing a bank. In his confession he contended that he wouldn't have broken the law if I had let Tom Dewey win the election."

Congressional "Gaggers"

A lot has been written about the seven coalition members of the House Rules Committee who have fought the "democratic gag rule" in Congress, but little about the seven men who fought for democracy inside the Rules Committee.

They are Representatives Chet Holifield of California, John Carroll of Colorado, Adolph Sabath of Illinois, Walter Graner of Utah, Herman Eberharter of Pennsylvania, Mike Kirwan of Ohio, and Mike Mansfield of Montana, all Democrats.

So they say

The final eradication of the Franco-German animosity will certainly lead to a close relationship between all Western European nations including Great Britain.

—Konrad Adenauer, chancellor of Western Germany.

The foundation of a vital republic is an enlightened electorate. We weaken that foundation when our voting records are buried in musty volumes requiring a major archeological expedition to bring them to light and encouraging pressure groups to interpret the unearthed facts as it suits their particular interests.

—Rep. John W. Byrnes (R) Wisconsin.

The only question still open is whether the occupation powers are prepared to sacrifice their strategic outposts in East and West Germany for the sake of peace. And this is the question which all peoples who desire peace are now asking the great powers.

—Rev. Martin Niemöller, outspoken foe of Adolf Hitler in Nazi Germany.

You can't occupy it (Formosa) with a few tourists, two or three senators who went over there and would go into holes at the first shot.

—Chairman Tom Connally of Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

If private capital has only the wish and not the will to keep government out, the financial status of our academic institutions will deteriorate to such a point that money must come from any source available.

—John S. Mills, president of Western Reserve University.

Week's quotations: Slaughter steers and heifers 16.00-27.50; beef cows 15.50-17.50; fat calves 15.00-25.00; stocker steers yearlings 16.00-24.00; stocker cows 16.00-19.50; stocker calves 17.00-25.50; closing sales: butcher hogs 17.50-75; sows 13.50-14.50; feeder pigs 11.00-14.00; slaughter lambs 21.00-24.00; yearling wethers 20.00-21.50; feeder lambs 21.00-23.00.

Automobile Life Expectancy Hiked

PHILADELPHIA —P— Today's automobile life expectancy has doubled. Whether the vehicle is ready to fall apart or is fresh off the assembly line, chances are that it will have more than 12 years of service and 103,000 miles behind it before reaching the junk heap. This compares with an average life span of about six years and 25,750 miles for the car of 1925.

These figures are cited by W. L. Aiken, chief automotive engineer at SKF Industries, Inc. He's already given his own car over to 200,000 miles—and it's still going strong.

Everyone participating in a national tournament cannot win one of the national championship trophies. Nevertheless, there are a lot of one-session events which are important.

Today's hand was one which was played in the opening night of the Ronald Rosenberg of Atlantic City and his partner Freddy Richel also of Atlantic City, N. J. They won top score in their section and finished second in the event.

Rosenberg, sitting West, liked today's hand because he had to keep counting his tricks. In response to cover.

South's club suit opened the seven of clubs. The jack was played from dummy and South refused to cover.

Declarer started to count his tricks. He marked South with the king of clubs; therefore he figured he had three club tricks, three sure diamond tricks and if he broke, that would give him an extra trick in diamonds. He had a spade trick, but still not enough for his contract.

If he tried to establish a heart trick he knew his club stoppers would be knocked out. He decided to steal a quick spade trick. He led the four of spades and South, correctly, played low and Rosenberg won the trick with the queen.

Declarer now tried to find out if the diamond suit would break. He cashed the king of diamonds and then led a small diamond to the ace, only to learn that North held four diamonds. At this point declarer led a small heart which South won with the king. He returned a small club and Rosenberg won the trick with the queen.

To try and establish a heart trick now was not enough, so he led a spade hoping the finessing of the ten might work. When North's jack dropped, dummy's king was played and South won the trick with the ace.

South returned a club which declarer won with the ace. Declarer played the queen of diamonds and South was embarrassed.

He could not discard a spade, as that would establish a spade suit, so he decided to discard the nine of clubs. Declarer now led a heart which South won. South cashed his last club, but was forced to lead a spade, which gave declarer his contract.

End of a Chapter

By Edwin Rutt

THE STORY: Alice Pine, literary secretary to the popular writer Muriel Halleck, has been on the job only a short time before she has learned that something is not quite right. The storm center seems to be Brent, Muriel's ardent suitor, who is described as a brilliant, charming, and successful man.

Clark Harker, who is described as a village loafer by the women of the village, is a friend of Brent's. Alice has been a "one guy" a few days later Alice has a love affair with Clark Harker, who lives in Tellville, and Molly is telling Alice all about Brent Halleck.

XII

AS Molly Tremaine paused in reciting the history of the Halleck family, Alice asked: "Was Brent's brother Bill the father of Rick—the little boy Brent and Muriel adopted?"

"Yes, Bill was the one that was killed three years ago in a plane crash. And old Jordan Halleck was Brent's father, and he wasn't worth a continental. Drank like a fish. But Jordan inherited the house on the Point and a few acres. Everything else had been dissipated by the time he grew up."

"So Brent inherited from Jordan?"

"No he didn't. As I say, Jordan was no good. Wouldn't work, but gave himself the airs of a country squire. And it caught up with him. Molly finished the sandwich, lit a cigarette. "Brent must have been about 13 years old when his father had to sell the Point and the old house with it. The old man took a liking too. It was one of those really old houses, big as a country club and rambling all over. But it was a white elephant. Still, the buyer didn't care. He was a New York stockbroker with pots of money."

"Which he lost in the depression?" Alice guessed.

Molly shook her head. "They said he actually made money during those dark days. But his wife

WASHINGTON COLUMN

Here's Bob Averill's Story—It Could Happen To You

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON—This will be a piece about Robert M. Averill and his wife, "Peg," their three children and the March of Dimes.

Sure, most people know all about the March of Dimes—or think they do. And the drive for this year is just about over—though it's never too late to strike another blow for a good cause.

Bob Averill's story may tell a lot of people things they didn't know about the March of Dimes, and provide a good reason for making a late contribution.

Bob Averill has been working for the March of Dimes drive in Washington this year. There's a reason. He's an assistant to the president of Capital Airlines in private life. Three years ago he was working in Chicago. The family was getting ready to move home to a new house which they were building, and looking forward to it.

His two boys—they were five and three then—and a baby daughter eight months old all came down with an attack of February flu. The youngsters got over it. Then Mrs. Averill got it. Walking across the bedroom floor one night she collapsed.

Her husband put her to bed and called the doctor. Next morning he ordered her to hospital and pronounced the verdict: Infantile paralysis. She would never walk again.

Bob Averill had about $1,000 in the bank. He was saving it to buy things for that new home. He spent it in the first week of Mrs. Averill's illness. It went for iron lung, oxygen treatments, special nurses, other hospital expenses.

He found a friend.

Plans for the new house vanished. He borrowed another $1,000 from his company. And then at the end of that first week, he got a letter from the Cook County Chapter of the Infantile Paralysis Foundation.

Bob had never heard of it. But the letter told him simply that the foundation had learned of his wife's illness. It stood ready, willing and able to help him if it could—financially if necessary. Bob went around to see what it was all about.

This was the first offer of answers to the questions he wanted to know. They told him what the disease of infantile paralysis was. What the treatment was. What he would have to do.

They asked him what his income was. What his probable expenses would be. They wanted to know where he could park his three youngsters, or who would take care of them. They asked about his insurance, and insisted that the payments be kept up.

Then they struck a balance of what Bob Averill would be able to contribute towards his wife's care. The foundation said it would provide the rest.

First year's costs for Mrs. Averill's care were $18,000. In the three years since she was first stricken, the costs have been about $35,000. Averill has been able to contribute about $14,000 of this. The foundation has made up the difference.

When Bob Averill was transferred to a better job in Washington, the Infantile Paralysis Foundation provided the American Red Cross carried the iron lung in which Mrs. Averill made the trip.

Mrs. Averill Comes Home Again

For a time Mrs. Averill made progress. Then a year ago she caught another cold. Since then she has required constant nursing. She now requires oxygen for about 12 out of every 24 hours. Nevertheless she came home last November, and she again lives with her family.

This is just one man—one family—left experience with infantile paralysis. Since the Infantile Paralysis Foundation was created in 1938, it has helped more than 150,000 families.

But they sent him to the Pacific. We didn't—she squealed—"see hide nor hair of Brent Halleck until the war had been over more than a year. You see, he got himself transferred to some outfit in the Japanese occupation. He didn't want to come home, if you ask me."

Alice frowned. "I can't imagine why."

"Who can? He finally got his discharge after Bill and his wife were killed, and there wasn't anybody else to take charge of their little boy. Rick. I'll say for Brent that he did his duty there."

Alice wanted to ask where Molly had gotten this information. But the question seemed unimportant. And doubtless, in this small community a person's life was an open book.

"Meanwhile," said Molly, "Muriel married a fellow like her. She took an interest in everything. Red Cross, Woman's Club and heaven knows what. And still found time for her work. Also, to tear down that old eyegore and put up a decent house, as soon as you could get building materials again. At her own expense too."

When the present house is really Muriel's. Alice remembered that stormy scene when Sloan had started to cut down the apple tree over Brent's objections and at Muriel's orders.

But even at that time, she remembered, Brent had said, insistently, that "the land and what's on it is mine." The apple tree was his, then, but his stubborn attitude about allowing it to be cut down, seemed somewhat childish to Alice.

"Every stick and stone of it. And that's about the size of it. Brent came back from the war, the youngster came, and there they are. But what Brent contributes, I wouldn't know."

"Well, he works constantly," Alice said, a little defensively perhaps.

Molly sniffed again. "You mean he wanders around with his painting paraphernalia. Brent couldn't work seriously and still hobnob half the time with that drunken Chuck Winsor."

SW Midland Wildcat Flows Oil From Ellenburger Zone

GAOC No. 1 Peck Already Has Oil From Devonian And Pennsylvanian Pays

The Ellenburger has shown for flowing oil production in Southwest Midland County at General American Oil Company No. 1 Mrs. Hal C. (Josie) Faye Peck, to assure that wildcat of being the discovery for commercial production from three different horizons.

The Ellenburger production was developed in a drillstem test in the top of that formation at 13,126-208 feet. The tool was open three hours. A 500-foot water blanket was used.

Gas showed at the surface in eight minutes. The gas volume was at the rate of 902,000 cubic feet per day. The water blanket started flowing out in 58 minutes.

Oil In One Hour
Oil began to flow at the surface in one hour and five minutes. The flow was through a five-eighth inch bottom hole choke and a one inch top opening.

The well was flowed to tanks for one hour and five minutes. The flow during the first 55 minutes was not gauged. During the last 60 minutes, the well flowed 36 barrels of pipe line oil to tanks.

Gravity was 52 degrees. There was no formation water.

Operator started pulling the drill pipe and when 96 stands had been racked a fire broke out on the rig. It was extinguished in a short time with no major damage.

Repairs Damage
Operations were shutdown at the tri-pay discovery Saturday while fire-damaged electric wires and belts on the motors were repaired.

That work was to be finished late Saturday. Operators were scheduled to pull the remainder of the drill pipe, make between 20 and 30 feet of new hole, then run another drillstem test.

This development entered the Ellenburger at 13,137 feet, to give it a datum of minus 10,234 feet on that marker. The tool was 594 feet low on the top of the Ellenburger to the same point in Magnolia Petroleum Company's No. 1-A TXL, discovery well of the Pegasus field, which is five miles east and slightly south.

General American, and associates, No. 1 Peck is at the center of the northwest quarter of the northwest quarter of section 21, block 41, TP survey, T-4-S.

It has previously shown for flowing production from a Pennsylvanian lime and from the Devonian. In addition the wildcat logged good gas production in the Wolfcamp zone of the lower Permian and in the Fusselman-Silurian.

Operator probably will continue drilling until the Ellenburger water level is reached, then continue from the Ellenburger—and possibly from one of the upper pays, to make a dual-completion.

Cochran Flanker Deepens Pay Zone In Pennsylvanian

More pay section in the Bend sandy quartzite of the lower Pennsylvanian has been penetrated at Stanolind Oil & Gas Company No. 3 Brown, outpost to the Landon-Deep field in Central-South Cochran County, about 15 miles south of Lehman.

This venture flowed oil at the estimated rate of 50 barrels per hour during a drillstem test in the Bend at 10,703-223 feet.

The tool was open one hour and 10 minutes. A 1,000-foot water blanket was used. Gas showed at the surface in 20 minutes and oil started flowing in 40 minutes.

It flowed for 30 minutes at the estimated rate of 50 barrels per hour. There was no water. The venture is drilling ahead below 10,233 feet in sandy quartzite.

Flowed 40 BOPH
This exploration discovered production in the Bend in a drillstem test at 10,119-175 feet. The tool was open two hours and 13 minutes. Oil started flowing at the surface in two hours. The flow during the last 13 minutes of the test was at the estimated rate of 40 barrels per hour. There was no water.

This project had failed to find any Strawn lime, which produces in a nearby well. The well is in the Devonian at about 12,000 feet. Location is 1,320 feet from north and 660 feet from east lines of section 14, block L, psi survey. It is on the west side of the Landon multi-pay field.

SE Winkler To Get Ellenburger Venture

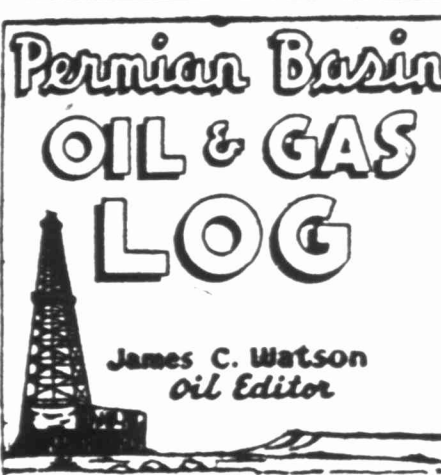

Shell Oil Company is to start drilling immediately at an 11,000-foot wildcat in Southeast Winkler County. The prospector will be Shell No. 50 Sealy-Smith Foundation. It is slated to test the Ellenburger.

Location is 1,982 feet from east and 1,979 feet from south lines of section 24, block A, G&M&B&A survey. That makes it three miles northeast of the town of Monahans, and about one mile east of the nearest completed oil wells in the Monahans field which produces from the upper Clear Fork and the Tubb, both of the Permian, and from the Ellenburger.

Operations at No. 50 Sealy-Smith will be started at once.

Mitchell Ellenburger Yields Oil-Cut Mud

S. F. Huribut and Olson Drilling Company No. 1-A Wulfin, South-Central Mitchell County prospector, seven miles south of Colorado City, and 660 feet from north and west lines of the southwest quarter of section 89, block 26, TP survey, developed a slight show of oil in a drillstem test at 7,448-7,810 feet, which covered the lower section of the Mississippian and the top horizon of the Ellenburger.

The tool was open 47 minutes. There was a blow of air at the surface for a part of the period. Recovery was 140 feet of slightly oil cut drilling mud. There were no signs of gas or of formation water.

The venture is to drill ahead and it will stop for a drillstem test when a soft zone is encountered.

Top of the Ellenburger was called at 7,490 feet. That is on a datum of minus 5,359 feet.

Lower Permian Strike Finaled In SE Crane

The Texas Company continues to test its lower Permian discovery in Southeast Crane County, No. 6-B Hobbs. This new field opener is 1,980 feet from southwest and southeast lines of section 34, block 35, H&T&O survey and one and one-half miles northeast of the Crossett-Devonian field.

The section at 5,075-5,188 feet is being tested through perforations. That zone swabbed 55 barrels of new oil in five hours, with a shake-out of three-tenths of one per cent drilling mud.

The perforated interval was then treated with 500 gallons of acid. The hole was loaded with 160 barrels of oil for the injection.

On 10 hours of swabbing after the acid treatment the project recovered 141 barrels of oil—most of which was load oil.

Swabbing is continuing with fluid standing at 1,000 feet from bottom. Ability of the section at 5,075-5,188 feet to produce new oil should be determined in a few days.

C-N Upton Wildcat Swabs In Fusselman

Republic Natural Gas Company No. 1 American Republics Corporation, field, Central-North Upton County wildcat, one and three-eighths of a mile southwest of the nearest completed producer from the Ellenburger on the south side of the multi-pay Pegasus field, was swabbing to clean out and test on perforated section at 12,370-490 feet in the Fusselman lime of the Silurian.

That interval had been treated with 2,000 gallons of acid.

Operator was swabbing out some oil, some drilling mud, and some acid residue. Some fluid is heading out at the top while the swabbing is going forward—but up to now no new oil has flowed out.

Ellenburger Bottom
This prospector is 660 feet from north line of section 6, block 40, TP survey, T-5-S.

It is bottomed at 13,118 feet in the Ellenburger. A string of 7-inch casing is cemented at the top of that formation at 13,025 feet.

When the producing ability of the Fusselman is determined operator will acidize and test the Ellenburger. It has shown some prospects of producing.

Pegasus Has Eight Drilling Prospects

Deepening is continuing on eight possible additions to the Pegasus oil field in Central-South Midland and Central-North Upton Counties.

Phillips Petroleum Company has two explorations drilling in deep horizons on the north side of the Pegasus field in Midland County.

That company's No. 1-BB TXL is cutting in the Ellenburger below 13,145 feet in lime. This exploration is a diagonal northwest offset to the discovery well of the field.

It is 664 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 23, block 41, T-4-S, T&P survey.

Drills In Pennsylvanian
Also in Midland County, Phillips No. 1-1D TXL was drilling in the Pennsylvanian below 10,316 feet in lime, on last report.

This test is a half-mile east of the discovery well and is located at the center of the northwest quarter of section 31, block 40, T&P survey, T-4-S.

Magnolia Petroleum Company, discovery company of the Pegasus, is continuing operations on six explorations in the bi-county field.

In Midland County, Magnolia No. 3-30 Glass is drilling below 11,256 feet in shale.

Has Proven Production
This exploration had developed production possibilities on a drillstem test in the Pennsylvanian at 10,350-10,465 feet.

It is the farthest north well in the Pegasus pool, located 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from west lines of section 30, block 40, T-4-S, T&P survey.

It is approximately 30 miles southwest of the city of Midland. The other five possible additions to the pool, being drilled by Magnolia, are across the line in Upton County.

West Flanker
One-half mile south of production on the west side of the Pegasus, No. 2-36 Glass, on last report, was drilling below 11,940 feet in lime and shale.

It is 660 feet from south and east lines of section 36, block 41, T-4-S, T&P survey.

Magnolia No. 1-B TXL, one-half mile south of production, was drilling at 7,448-7,810 feet, which covered the lower section of

TEXAS OIL ROUNDUP—

Britain May Find Curbs Against U. S. Oil Firms Affect ECA Pocketbook

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON.—(AP)—Great Britain may find her restrictions against American oil companies affect her own ECA pocketbook.

Oil men and congressmen want to know how much of Britain's Economic Cooperation Administration money is being used to expand her own oil industry.

Several senators have indicated heavy slandings of United States European recovery funds will be in order if they confirm what they suspect.

The administration is expected to ask Congress shortly for $3,100,000 for the recovery program.

In December British officials ordered a ban on all fuel oil imports from American companies and a one-third reduction in gasoline imports.

The order became effective January 1.

India, Australia and Kenya immediately made similar announcements.

The announcements explained it was desired that such oil from American companies be replaced by surplus British reserves.

A fifth major importer of foreign oil has announced cutback plans but imports opponents do not seem to be impressed.

Socomey Vacuum Oil Company, Inc., plans a cut of 5,000 barrels daily. Standard Oil of New Jersey, Shell, Gulf and Texaco already have released cutback statements.

Most industry spokesmen who have blamed imports for domestic troubles think the cuts are not deep enough.

William J. Murray, Jr., chairman of the Texas Railroad Commission, said 1950 receipts of the 11 major importers, including those of the state, still will exceed last year by 20 per cent or about 108,000 barrels daily.

The Texas Independent Producers and Royalty Owners Association described the company announcements as "token reductions." An association official said only about 41,000 barrels of oil daily will be affected, with imports still remaining over 700,000 barrels daily.

An increase of from 10 to 15 per cent in Texas oil and gas taxes was proposed last week as the Legislature began an emergency special session.

Gov. Allan Shivers reminded the legislators that state hospitals are in disgraceful condition. He recommended an unspecified blanket increase in the omnibus tax bill that covers oil, gas, telephones, corporation franchises, chain stores and numerous other tax-paying items.

Should this rate of increase continue, gasoline stocks would approximate 140,000,000 barrels by the April 1 opening of the heavy Spring and Summer consuming seasons.

Gasoline Peak
Domestic gasoline stocks are headed for an all time high.

Stocks last week totaled 124,270,000 barrels, only 3,817,000 barrels below the record peak set March 26 last year.

Last week's increase in stocks was 2,066,000 barrels.

Should this rate of increase continue, gasoline stocks would approximate 140,000,000 barrels by the April 1 opening of the heavy Spring and Summer consuming seasons.

Keogh's Plan
If the plan is tried, the government would be adopting, at least in part, ideas advanced cogently by Rep. Eugene J. Keogh (D-N.Y.), chairman of the House Small Business Subcommittee on oil imports. He suggests:

"The situation now presented offers an opportunity for again bringing in industry statesmanship to the end that this problem may also be solved within the industry. If proper government sanction is necessary for such a program, I would lend my support to see that it was forthcoming."

While this has been a week of gossip and rumors about what the President would or would not do regarding oil imports, the single outstanding fact lies in the National Petroleum Council's report on the situation.

Requested six months ago by the Interior Department, the council made a study to conclude that the present law on imports causes "harm" to the domestic petroleum industry. If it continues, further "damage" will be done, says the report. The council is composed of majors as well as producers, royalty owners and refiners.

The council refused, however, to recommend specific steps to right the wrongs.

This, it would appear, leaves the problem of the doorstep of Interior. Pressure is on.

If the White House directly is involved, it is because the pressure capital gains rate on his profit, which is less than a third the income tax he pays on his personal earnings.

Oil men contend this sort of case is a violation of the rule that, despite Treasury claims, to the contrary, most oil drilling or "wildcatting" is done by independent prospectors, many of small means.

They say it costs heavily to drill a well—$20,000 or more—and a driller faces chances of drilling so many "dry" holes before he strikes oil that he'll quit trying unless he can count on the present tax allowances.

And, they say, so will the man with a marginal oil well—one with relatively low production and high production costs.

The oil men also say the threat of an oil shortage was overcome because of the present tax law.

The Administration credits improved methods and good prices.

Alford Is Appointed Executive Of AIME Petroleum Branch

Joe B. Alford of Dallas has been appointed executive of the Petroleum Branch of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, Chairman Lloyd E. Elkins of Tulsa has announced. He succeeds William H. Brang who resigned recently to affiliate with the American Petroleum Institute.

The Petroleum Branch of AIME, with headquarters in Dallas, is a professional society for petroleum engineers, and its work is concerned with the development and publication of technical literature on petroleum engineering.

Since January, 1949, Alford has been editor of the "Journal of Petroleum Technology," a monthly magazine in which the literature is published, and also assistant secretary of the branch.

The AIME, which was organized in 1871, has a world wide membership of about 20,000 engineers, the Petroleum Branch being credited with about 5,000, and the Metals Branch with 10,000, and the Metals Branch with 10,000.

Alford is a native of Seymour, Tex., who attended Texas Technological College from 1935-39. After graduating there in business administration, he affiliated with Texas Power & Light Company in Dallas, and then enlisted in the 36th Division Artillery in 1940. He was commissioned in 1942, served with the 71st Division Artillery in Europe, and was released in 1946 in the rank of major.

Entering Leland Stanford University for the 1946-47 term, he acquired an M. A. in journalism, and then returned to Dallas, where he was engaged in public relations work before joining the AIME.

If he fails to strike oil, he's really out only 25 cents on each dollar that goes into "intangible" drilling costs—and remember, that's 50 to 75 per cent of all drilling costs. (There are depreciation allowances on the remaining drilling costs).

Exception, say Oilmen
If he strikes oil, he still has the deduction from his income from oil, movies, radio, etc., and in addition an oil-producing investment carrying a tax exemption on up to half of its net profits.

Alternatively, he can sell the property six months later with no tax liability beyond the 25 per cent

WASHINGTON OIL—Government-Called Session Is Possibility If Import Problem Gets Out Of Hand

By JOSEPH HUTTLINGER

WASHINGTON.—A government-called conference of major and independent oil companies is the government's ace in the hole if the import problem gets out of hand.

Only extreme urgency would prompt the government to go for this, but it already has facts indicating the urgency may be here. To find out for sure, President Truman has Interior Secretary Oscar Chapman making a study.

The idea would have the approval of many in the oil industry—both majors and independents. But oil men, fearful of the anti-trust laws, are loath to propose this, much less take the lead in any such move.

The government, however, could call such a conference. The attorney general, Interior secretary and secretary of State acting jointly, could offer immunity to the companies and negotiate quotas on imports fair to the domestic producer and the foreign country.

Even so, many majors would prefer to have the sanction of Congress for such action. Thus, there is some disposition in government toward seeking legislation authorizing such a round table.

Ultimate result of the conference would be for major importers to agree to limit oil imports to a certain amount. Perhaps the agreement would be signed with Interior as the other party. Flexibility would be provided to assure adequate supplies in times of high U. S. demand.

Among those in government considering such a step, this shapes up as the speediest, most effective method of handling the problem of excessive oil imports. These sources say, and are reinforced by late developments, the chances are dim for passage of quota legislation this year by Congress; they take an equally dim view of chances of passage of Rep. Ed Gossett's dollar-a-barrel oil import tax measure.

Cousin Of Midland Man Writes Of Life In Moscow, Russia

Life behind the Iron Curtain in Moscow, USSR, is described in a letter received last week by Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Hobbs, 101 East Ohio Street, Midland, from his cousin, Albert M. Paschall, who is assigned to the American Embassy in the Russian capital. Paschall has been in Moscow since Nov. 14, 1949. He is a former Texan.

In the letter, Paschall describes his boat trip from New York to Finland via England and Sweden, and relates his experiences with Russian customs officials.

High prices in Russia are mentioned by the writer who told of eating an $8.50 dinner at the old world Astoria in Leningrad. He enjoyed genuine Russian caviar, beef steak, natural, consommé, Crème de la Crème, and other delicacies. Army personnel stationed in the Moscow embassy receive $14 a day for living expenses, and Paschall says that at the prevailing prices, that isn't too much.

The embassy is situated across the street from the Kremlin, and near St. Basil's church, which dates back to the time of Ivan the Terrible.

Moscow "enjoyed" cold and snow in abundance early in December, the letter said.

No fraternizing

"There is little or no fraternizing with the Russian people of either sex," Paschall wrote. "The Russians are naturally friendly and are loaded with child-like curiosity about foreigners. However, the Soviet passed a State Secret Act in June, 1947, which makes it an offense against the state for a Soviet citizen to divulge state secrets to foreigners. And with the Russian government anything can be interpreted as a state secret. For that reason they dare not have anything to do with the Americans or anyone else outside the USSR."

"Americans are not allowed to associate with the Russians on principle. Some who have become chummy with the Russians have found that their Russian friends had been 'plants' of the Soviet government and later on were beautifully framed."

Visits to famous buildings, theaters, churches and other spots in Russia are mentioned, and interesting happenings are cited.

In-Service Training Speakers Announced

Speakers for the in-service training program for Midland teachers this week were announced Saturday.

Dr. Carson McGuire, an expert in the field of child growth and development, of the University of Iowa, will address the third year in-service group on "Social Metrics." His address is scheduled at 4 p.m. in the high school library.

The in-service program is conducted by the University of Texas. At 7:30 p.m. Monday, Dr. McGuire will address the combined faculties in the Junior High School Auditorium on "Peer Culture."

Ralph Duke and Don Mitchell of the University of Texas will work with groups.

Duke will deliver the main address at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the Junior High cafeteria.

Several teachers from Amarillo will observe the in-service program both days, on recommendation of the University of Texas which has branded the Midland system as a model.

Little Girl, Sent To Hospital By Court Order, Dies

SAN ANTONIO — (AP) — Evelyn Heck, nine, hospitalized by court order over the objections of her parents, died Friday night.

Attendants said the girl died of acute peritonitis. Doctors said Evelyn's illness probably resulted from a ruptured appendix which allowed her intestinal contents to drain into the peritoneal cavity.

She had run temperatures up to 105 degrees after she was admitted to the hospital January 27.

A representative of the Children's Bureau found the child ill when he went to investigate her absence from school. The parents, Bruno and Lottie Heck, asserted the girl was getting adequate treatment "over the phone" from an unnamed physician.

Over their protests, an order was drawn up by the district attorney and executed by a district judge, sending Evelyn to the county hospital.

An order for the parents to appear before the judge Saturday to show why permanent custody, care and control of their daughter should not be taken from them was dropped.

DECEASED SIGN

The arithmetic sign of equality was devised in 1937 by Renée, who said: "No two things can be more equal than a pair of parallel lines of one length."

McKenney On CANASTA

By WILLIAM E. MCKENNEY
America's Card Authority
Written For NEA Service

Some of the questions in today's article are based on points that came up during the recent match between Oswald Jacoby and John R. Crawford vs. Sam Fry, Jr. and Theodore Lightner.

Q—A player made a meld of four cards. His partner, at his turn to play, threw over on this meld enough natural and wild cards to complete a canasta. However, the original player did not notice that it was now a complete canasta, and did not close it up. When the play came around to him again, he added a deuce to the same meld. As he gathered it up, he noticed that he now had eight cards in the canasta. Could he take his deuce and move it to another meld?

A—No, he may not. He has made himself an eight-card canasta. Law 12 of the Official Canasta Laws clearly states: "A card is melded as soon as it is placed face up on the table with evident intent to meld. If the exact location of a melded card is in doubt, any player may ask that the meld be clarified."

This law further states that a melded card may not be discarded and may be shifted only if it has been melded illegally; or to join two melds of the same rank provided the merged meld does not contain more than three wild cards.

In the above case the deuce was not melded illegally, as it is permissible to add wild cards to a canasta.

Q—Should my partner's discard give me an indication of his holding?

A—Yes. There was an interesting example of this point in the Jacoby-Crawford-Fry-Lightner match. The discard pile, which was frozen, was quite large, numbering approximately 45 cards. No tens had been discarded. Lightner was squeezed and finally let go a ten-spot, which Jacoby could not take. Then it was Fry's turn to play, and he also was embarrassed for a safe discard.

Remember that the large discard pile contained no tens, and Fry's partner had discarded a ten, which Jacoby could not take. Fry held three ten-spots, and he therefore had a right to assume that his partner held at least three, and possibly four ten-spots, because he would not risk discarding a free card on a large discard pile.

Fry decided, in view of these circumstances, that the discard of a ten from his hand might be a fairly safe discard. However, Crawford, on his left, happened to have the seventh and eighth tens, and was able to pick up the discard pile, thereby melding close to 5000 points. Although Fry made a good and proper deduction from his partner's discard, it went wrong in this match.

The following question came from one of my readers:

Q—The discard pile was quite large. I drew a card from the stock pile. It was a red ten, so I drew another card. I did not have a safe discard and I wanted to freeze the pack, but I did not have a wild card in my hand. Could I forfeit the right to put the red ten down on the table for 100 points, and discard it to freeze the pack?

A—No. You may, if you wish, hold a red ten in your hand, but if you get caught with it, it will cost you 500 points. The only other thing you can do with it is to put it down on the table. If you make a legal initial meld, the red ten will count 100 points for you; otherwise it counts 100 points against you.

Oil Men In Canada Are 'Hard To Please'

By JACK B. BENEFIELD

West Texas oil men, who are making producing fields from areas where there is hardly any smell of oil, can appreciate the humor section in the February issue of "World Oil."

Joe R. Sims of Midland, scout for Stanolind Oil & Gas Company, called our attention to two excerpts clipped by the trade magazine from a supposedly serious article, "Canada's Oil Frontier," in the January issue of "Portune."

The first excerpt read: "At Stettler, on the plains, about 100 miles southeast of Edmonton, Gulf recently brought in an oil well in the Devonian section at 5,300 feet. This well has a daily potential of 3,000 barrels and may indicate the presence of an oil field."

To this, "World Oil" said: "It would be a bit surprising if there weren't an oil field here!"

Another clipping from the same article: "Far to the south in the foothills of the Rockies, Gulf again has brought in the deepest well in Alberta at Pincer Creek. This well, from 12,400 feet is capable of yielding 83 million cubic feet of gas and 3,000 barrels of condensate. Further drilling may reveal oil."

"World Oil" replied: "They seem to be pretty hard to please in Canada."

John Emery Adams of Midland has been elected vice president of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists for 1950. He is a research geologist for Standard Oil Company of Texas.

Announcement of Adams' selection to fill the second highest office in the international organization of geologists was made Saturday at the AAPG headquarters in Tulsa.

C. L. Moody of Shreveport, La., has been elected president of the AAPG. He is with The Pure Oil Company.

Adams and Moody, along with the other new officers of the association, were selected by a mail ballot which has been in progress several weeks.

They will assume their new offices at the annual meeting of the American Association of Petroleum Geologists to be held in Chicago during the latter part of April.

Adams is widely known for his work as a geologist. He has held several other important positions in the AAPG and in other professional organizations. He is a fellow in the Geological Society of America, and has also been a councillor in that body.

He has spent most of the last 25 years in West Texas and New Mexico. He has been with Stanolind for that period.

He has been out of this territory a number of times on special assignments for the company but so far has always come back to the Permian Basin. He is currently attached to the Standard of Texas division office in Midland.

Connelly Resigns As Chairman Of Sinclair Board

W. L. (Bill) Connelly of Tulsa, has resigned as a director and chairman of the board of Sinclair Oil & Gas Company and will devote his time to special work for the company.

Connelly has been with the Sinclair organization since 1906. He became chairman of the board of Sinclair Prairie Oil Company in 1932 and continued in that position when the company name was changed during 1949 to Sinclair Oil & Gas Company.

New Mexico Is To Hold State Sale Of O. & G. Leases

Sealed bids for oil and gas leases on 28 tracts of state owned lands in New Mexico will be accepted in the office of the Comptroller of Public Lands, Santa Fe, until 10 a.m. February 10.

The bids will be opened at that time and the tracts will be awarded to the high bids.

Midland JayCees At Bi-Region Parley

Midland JayCees are attending a bi-regional parley at San Angelo Sunday. The two-day event opened Saturday. Regions 3 and 4 of the state setup are convening.

Rule Parr of Midland is regional vice president and will preside at business sessions concluding the meet. Irbey Dyer, president of the Midland club, is representing it.

The program included registration, business sessions, fellowship hour and dance Saturday. A breakfast and more business sessions are slated Sunday.

State president E. M. Kirkpatrick, Jr., of Baytown, is special guest of the parley.

Events were scheduled during the two-day meet for wives of JayCees.

Bauers Gain Final Round; Riley Beaten

HOLLYWOOD, FLA. —(P)—The amazing young Bauer Sisters, Marlene and Alice, from Midland, Texas, reached the finals of the fifth annual Women's International Four-Ball golf tournament Saturday by defeating Jean Hopkins, Cleveland, Ohio, and Edean Anderson, Helena, Mont., 3 and 1.

They will meet Betty Bush, Hammond, Ind., and Betty MacKinnon, Mount Pleasant, Texas, who upset Defending Champions Polly Riley, Fort Worth, and Bee MacWane, Birmingham, Ala., one up on the 20th hole in the semi-finals.

After turning one up at the end of nine holes, the Bauer sisters went two up on the 10th hole with a par four. Miss Hopkins, winner of the tournament in 1946, won the 13th as she canned an eight-foot putt.

But little Marlene, who celebrates her 18th birthday this month, scored a birdie four on the 16th green to regain the two-up margin and she and her 22-year-old sister combined for a par four on the 17th, ending the match.

Stunning Upset
In the bitterest match thus far in the tournament, the Bush-MacKinnon team staged their stunning upset over last year's winners. They halved the 19th hole with par fours then on the 20th Miss Riley, who won the Helen Lee Doherty tournament in Miami last week, had par trouble while her partner's second shot went over the green. The Bush-MacKinnon team holed out in regulation four, ending the match.

The finalists meet in a grueling 36-hole match Sunday over the 6,643-yard Orange Brook Golf Course, where women's par is 38-37-75.

Drake Still High Scorer

Norman Drake stayed at the top of the heap in conference scoring for the Bulldogs last week even though he didn't connect for a point.

The Purple played only one game, that against Lamesa Friday night. Reed Gilmore increased his total in District 3-AA play to 23 points to the Walter Spiller for second high. Spiller has been out due to illness and did not see action against Lamesa.

Ollie Phillips, David Weaver and Ralph Brooks also increased their marks.

Buddy Johnson saw his first conference action Friday night.

The Bulldogs will meet the Odessa Bronchos in the Midland High Gym Tuesday night in their next action. Odessa took the decision in an earlier meeting.

Scoring records for the season in conference play follow:

Player	Pts.
Drake	30
Spiller	23

Shands, Rowan Will Captain Longhorns

AUSTIN —(P)—Halfback H. J. "Bubba" Shands and Center Richard Rowan will captain the University of Texas football team next fall.

The two three-year lettermen were chosen co-captains by the squad Friday night.

Texas' spring football training, scheduled to start Saturday, was delayed until Monday because of rain.

New Hearing Device Has No Receiver Button In Ear

Chicago, Ill.—Deafened people are hailing a new device that gives them clear hearing without making them wear a receiver button in the ear. They now enjoy songs, sermons, friendly companionship and business success with no self-conscious feeling that people are looking at any button hanging on their ear. With the new almost invisible Phantomoid and Beltone you may free yourself not only from deafness, but from even the appearance of deafness. The makers of Beltone, Dept. 40, 1450 W. 19th St., Chicago 8, Ill., are so proud of their achievement they will gladly send you their free brochure (in plain wrapper) and explain how you can test this amazing device in the privacy of your own home without risking a penny. Write Beltone today.—(adv.)

Scribes Vote Ruth Baseball's Kingpin Of Last 50 Years

NEW YORK —(P)—George Herman Ruth, the inimitable and immortal Babe, Saturday was named the greatest baseball player of the last 50 years.

The mightiest home run slugger the game ever has known, Ruth was more than a great player. This large, hulking top-heavy man with basted 730 home runs out of big league ball parks, was the idol of the youngsters of America. He continues on that pedestal even in death.

No player ever has left as great an impression on America's national game as this lusty, fun-loving and magnetic person. Starting out in life as a waif in Baltimore (Md.) Ruth became the most colorful and most lovable figure any sport has ever known.

Holder of almost every long-range hitting record in the books including the most covered of all—60 home runs in a single season—Ruth easily outdistanced all opposition in the opinion of sports writers and sports-casters. The Associated Press mid-century poll.

This gave him a total of 197 to establish a new competitive mark for the par 70 El Rio Course. Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, Va., and Ralph Lumeli, Fresno, Calif., moved into second position with 54-hole totals of 192. Henry Williams, Jr., Secane, Pa., was three strokes back of the leader with 200.

Jimmy Demaret, Ojai, Calif., who was paired with Snead as the pre-tourney favorites, improved his position Saturday. He shot a five-under-par 65 to give him a total of 202. Grouped with him were Glenn Teal, Memphis, Tenn., who was tied for third Friday; Jack Burke, Jr., White Plains, N. Y., and U. S. Open Champ Cary Middlecoff, Ormond Beach, Fla.

Midland Quintets Lose, But Benefit Is Great Success

By SHORTY SHELBOURNE
Reporter-Telegram Sports Editor

The March of Dimes is richer by sixty-odd dollars, more than 125 fans are chattering of the good ball games they saw and there is a general air of success over the March of Dimes benefit basketball double-header played in the Junior High Gym Friday night. VFW-sponsored City League teams represented Midland.

Only trouble is — both Midland teams lost.

The VFW quintet took an unmerciful drubbing from the People's Humble Service five of Andrews in the first tilt.

But the nightcap between Rotary Engineers and Bill Hale Motors of Odessa gave everyone their money's worth.

Rotary lost by a 54-53 count after leading by a wide margin up to the last two minutes of play.

The Vets never were in the ball game with the classy Andrews outfit. The visitors won easily, 68-29.

Almost Unbelievable
The story of the Rotary Engineers' loss is almost unbelievable. When we tell you the Engineers had a 22-point lead as late as the last five minutes of play and still lost, we know it's hard for you to believe. But that's just what happened.

Rotary, with Leland Huffman taking passes from Don Haskens and Tom Schalk, made a complete run-away of the 1st for three quarters.

Huffman was hot, Schalk was controlling the backboard and hitting the basket with hook shots. Frank Brabaney was brilliant and Charlie Kelly and Haskens were moving fast. It was nice to watch — until the final minutes.

Rotary led 12-6 at the end of the first period, 28 to 17 at the half.

De La Torre Stays Up In Tucson Open

TUCSON, ARIZ. —(P)—Manuel de la Torre, Glencoe, Ill., a newcomer who refused to crack under pressure, Saturday night held a two-stroke lead at the end of 64 holes in the $10,000 Tucson Open golf tournament with a four-under-par 66.

This gave him a total of 197 to establish a new competitive mark for the par 70 El Rio Course.

Sam Snead, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Chandler Harper, Portsmouth, Va., and Ralph Lumeli, Fresno, Calif., moved into second position with 54-hole totals of 192.

Prince Signs Contract

Owner-Manager Harold Webb of the Midland Indians, right, says, "Sign right there" as he points to the proper line for Big Jim Prince, slugging first baseman. Prince recently was purchased from Lubbock by Webb and will be in the spangles of the Midland Indians again this year. The contract signing was done in the offices of The Reporter-Telegram, where this photo was made.

SPORTSLANTS

BY SHORTY SHELBOURNE

Add to the list of prominent sports figures in Midland one C. H. (Chili) Walsh, who has been farther in the game of professional football than we've been into our pants pockets searching for his fare. And that's a long way, brother.

Chili and Mrs. Walsh now are full-fledged Midlanders. They have anchored in Hotel Scharbauer for the present but will be blossoming out with a new home soon.

What are the Walshs doing here? They are here for the same reason a majority of the other folks are: To get into the oil business.

In the case of Chili, we should say to get deeper into the oil business. He has been in it since early 1949.

Robust, friendly Chili Walsh is the type of fellow who will make a good Midlander. He's got his feet on the ground, so to speak, and knows what he wants.

After more than 20 years of playing, coaching, owning, buying and selling football—he's retiring from the game.

"I still love football and always will," says the famous Mr. Walsh. "But I wouldn't go into it in any capacity again. I've retired to the status of just Joe Fan."

Walsh definitely doesn't have any bone to pick with football. He readily admits football has been good to him in more ways than one. But he's been good to football, also. In fact we doubt if there is a record in professional football which could compare with his.

Walsh had more success with the Cleveland Rams, later named the Los Angeles Rams, than with any other pro team.

But he had to do a big job to make it a successful venture.

One thing a lot of folks don't know until now is that he took over the Rams when they existed in name only.

He got a franchise to start on. That was all.

Chili performed a miracle in just 111 days. That's the time he had to get a team together, set up a business office and make a thousand and one other arrangements.

But he did it. And Cleveland was proud to claim the Rams in that year, 1943. They were a first-class grid machine.

Walsh's success continued. He hired Bud Donelli to coach the Rams in 1944 and moved himself to the front office.

They had another good year. But the best was to come in 1945.

That's the year Chili hired his brother, Adam Walsh, to coach the Rams.

This brother act, with Chili in the front office and Adam on the field, set the National Football League on fire.

The Rams won the title going away which is another way of saying Chili and Adams Walsh were great football men.

Ask anybody who was in the National League with them if you don't believe it.

After the war, Chili and the Rams moved to Los Angeles, where the team became the Los Angeles Rams.

Walsh continued to make those in the pro football business sit up and take notice.

He did something right off the bat that Don Ameche and Christi Walsh (no relation to Chili) could not accomplish.

Chili moved into Los Angeles and obtained the first rights to stage professional football in the Coliseum. He says Don Ameche and Christi Walsh, who had the franchise for the All-America Conference Los Angeles Rams, had been trying to get the Coliseum for a long while.

But when it ended up, neither of them had much of the Rams and the Rams didn't have many rights. If any, to the Coliseum for staging their games.

Walsh had scored again.

But came 1947 and the National League lost its great operator. Chili Walsh sold out and got out. He has not been connected with a football team since that time.

He did, however, engineer the peace agreement between the National and All-America Leagues. That took a lot of doing just like building a football team in 111 days.

Chili is the only man who knows both sides of the pro peace agreement. The real story never has been told because he hasn't been at liberty to tell it.

That, in brief, is the history of Chili Walsh of football fame. We believe you'll agree Midland is fortunate to have him as a citizen.

Touring Pros Point To Texas Open Meet

SAN ANTONIO —(P)—The largest field in the history of the oldest tournament on the Winter golfing circuit will tee off here next week in the 23rd $10,000 Texas Open.

More than 300 players are expected to begin the 72-hole chase over the Fort Sam Houston Country Club and Brackenridge Park courses Thursday.

Half the field will play 18 holes the first day at one course, the other half will tour the second layout. The players will shift sites for the second round Friday. The low 64 players will qualify for the final 36 holes to be played Saturday and Sunday over the 6,400 yard Brackenridge Park Municipal Course. Par is 36-35-71.

All of the leading links nomads except Ben Hogan are entered.

George D. Widener, owner-breeder and president of the Westchester Racing Association, which operates Belmont Park, is the fifth chairman in the history of The Jockey Club.

Bulldogs Downed By Lamesa Fives

LAMESA—The Midland Bulldogs, stymied by a bad case of near misses at the basket, dropped a brace of games to the Lamesa Tornados Friday night.

The A Bulldogs went down by a 40 to 24 count and the 'B' Bulldogs were edged out 39-33.

Coach Jack Mashburn's charges did right well at defending the offensive minded Lamesa five but couldn't make the ball hang in the basket.

The Bulldogs succeeded in holding Wally McNeil and Ronald Chapman down. The usually high scoring pair collected only 12 points between them.

Good Floor Game
Ralph Brooks, Reed Gilmore and Buddy Johnson played a good floor game for the Bulldogs and were responsible for holding McNeil and Chapman to a minimum.

David Weaver, Ollie Phillips and Brooks tied for high point honors for Midland with six each. Gilmore counted five.

Royce King and Bobby Hawkins banked 10 each for Lamesa. The game between the 'B' teams was a hard-fought battle all the way and Lamesa had a hump in the final quarter to notch the victory.

Close All Way
Although Coach Audrey Gill's 'B' Bulldogs never took over the lead for long they never were far behind. Lamesa led 22-19 at the half.

John Van Buskirk was the big gun for Midland's 'B' with 15 points. Jimmy Linebarger scored six.

Van Buskirk topped Delbert Dickenson, Lamesa's high man, by four points.

moment Russia is on the offensive or in position to strike new blows. The Western nations have lost much of the momentum worked up by the Marshall Plan and the Atlantic Treaty. They are holding strong positions in Europe, still even in Germany and Berlin—but there is concern for the future and there is obvious Western weakness in the situation in Asia.

Authorities pointed to the following steps by the American government as indicating a grave concern with which Washington looks to the future:

1. President Truman ordered the Atomic Energy Commission to go ahead on the hydrogen bomb because he considers it essential to American security in the arms race with Russia.

2. The Navy is planning to strengthen its forces in the Western Pacific to offset the threat of large scale Russian submarine operations.

Even though the Administration has written off Formosa as far as American military protection is concerned, there is considerable worry here over other moves which the victory-flushed Russian and Chinese Communists are believed about to take. The situation appears somewhat like that of the pre-Pearl Harbor day when the Japanese were driving south toward Singapore and the Dutch East Indies, using Indochina as a strategic point enroute.

3. Since Indochina well may be the next main theater of conflict in the Far East, the State Department and the Defense Department are considering measures which might strengthen the non-Communist forces there.

4. The United States may be expected to give military support in the form of supplies and possibly advisers to the French forces, more than 150,000 men, in Indochina.

5. Similarly in Europe, the United States, Britain and France are confronted with the possibility of strong Moscow-directed action against another country—Yugoslavia—which is extremely important to them in the cold war. The Administration is prepared to consider favorably military assistance in the form of arms and equipment for Marshal Tito.

6. Best informed American officials believe that regardless of struggles for control in countries like Indochina, Burma, Yugoslavia or elsewhere, Russia's primary long-range objectives must be to try to take over Germany and Japan because of their military potential.

Among the most important current developments, therefore, are the visit of the American joint chiefs of staff to Japan and the declaration of the State Department that it is considering retaliation if the Russians practice new squeeze tactics on truck traffic to Berlin.

U. S. Census Bureau Measures Romance In Round-About Way

By ROBERT E. GEIGER

WASHINGTON — (AP) — In a roundabout way the Census Bureau has been measuring the amount of romance in the U. S. A.

It finds romance is popular, more so than in 1940. There are fewer unmarried men at large than there have been for years and years.

This might indicate the chances for a woman to find a husband are getting thinner and thinner—but the number of unmarried females also is at low ebb.

The really big news for old maids is contained in statistics showing that although there now are more than 5,000,000 women in the United States than in 1940, there are fewer unmarried ones. More women in every age group, 14 to 65, have husbands.

Actually, as everyone has been told, there were more marriages each year between 1945 and 1949 than ever before in a five-year period. Almost 3,000,000 females were erased from the unmarried columns.

Some women who are finding it particularly easy right now to find a husband may be those "depression babies" born around the start of the depression 17 or 18 years ago. But some of these female depression babies may find harder going later on.

The census persons explain it this way: Women are likely to marry men about three years their senior. During the depression, the total number of U. S. births declined. There were fewer babies.

Now, the first of the depression babies are reaching the marriageable age, for girls of 17 and 18 years. A great many of these 17 and 18-year-old girls will be marrying boys who are 20 and 21.

These boys were born before births began to decline, so there will be more of them in proportion than there are girls 17 and 18.

Persistent Rains Spatter Eastern Sections Of Texas

By The Associated Press
Persistent rains—heavy enough to bog down farming in some places—kept spattering the eastern half of Texas Saturday night.

Rain had fallen from Brownsville at the state's southern tip, to Wichita Falls, near the Texas-Oklahoma border. The Weather Bureau said there'd be more rain in the central and northeast parts of East Texas Sunday.

Nowhere, however, was there a threat of new ice. "The weather's neither hot nor cold," the Weather Bureau said. Temperatures were mostly in the high thirties and forties.

Steady rains Friday night and Saturday in the Athens and Malakoff areas of Henderson County in East Texas swelled streams, turned farm fields into swamps and country roads into mires. All work had stopped in the country, a report from Malakoff said.

No flood conditions were reported. Skies were dismal from the Louisiana border beyond Wichita Falls, on the West. West Texas skies were partly cloudy.

The Weather Bureau said there'd be little change through Sunday.

Systematic Mind Helps Trap Suspect In Hot Check Deals

MEXIA — (AP) — Police are holding a suspected hot check artist whose systematic mind helped trap him.

The man, listed as a Dallas resident, kept in a notebook detailed records of checks passed in 16 Southwestern cities.

He passed himself off to a Mexia couple as a friend of their son—an FBI agent in New Mexico.

His hostess got suspicious, wrote her FBI agent son, and got a quick telephoned reply that the guest was no friend.

Aided by the notebook, police are checking up on the man in Tyler, Pittsburgh, Hempstead, Jacksonville, Palestine, and Buffalo, Texas, and Shreveport, La., as well as in Mexia.

Francis Outmet won his first U. S. amateur golf title in 1914 at the age of 21, and his second 17 years later at the age of 38.

Berlin-Bound Trucks Roll Again As Reds Lift Little Blockade

BERLIN — (AP) — The Russians Saturday dropped their "little blockade" of truck traffic at Helmsdorf. In an official statement Saturday night they said it was imposed to combat smuggling.

After two weeks of slow-down tactics, Soviet guards threw the zonal frontier wide open and waved through trucks bound from West Germany to Berlin at rates up to one a minute.

"Come on, come on," they shouted. The break came as the United States, British and French authorities discussed possible counter measures.

The official Soviet statement on why the blockade was lifted did not refer to these conferences. But the Russians learned in the 1948-49 blockade that an Allied counter blockade could hurt. The U. S. State Department said this week that a new counter blockade was under consideration.

The Soviet licensed news agency ADN distributed a statement by Maj. Gen. Alexander Kotikov, the Berlin commandant, replying to a protest by the Western Allies over interference with truck traffic on the super highway. His statement declared:

"Smuggling activity was the primary reason behind the stringent measures imposed at Helmsdorf that choked truck traffic. At least 266 cases of smuggling had been uncovered at Helmsdorf in the last three months."

Hot Biscuits, Eggs Make Up Last Meal For Doomed Rapist

HUNTSVILLE — (AP) — A 31-year-old Houston negro porter ordered boiled eggs and hot biscuits for dinner Saturday night and declared himself ready for the electric chair.

William Wilson, Jr., father of five children, was to die shortly after midnight for the rape of a 31-year-old Houston housewife.

Given the privilege of selecting his last dinner, Wilson asked for hard boiled eggs, hot biscuits with gravy and sweet milk.

Wilson was convicted in Houston October 31, 1948, on charges of raping the Houston woman March 29, 1948. He also had been indicted by the Harris County grand jury on charges of murdering another white woman and attempting to rape two others.

Prominent Gains County Rancher Dies At Seminole

SEMINOLE — T. O. (Terry) Stark, 62, pioneer Seminole resident and former Gaines County judge, died at his home here Saturday.

He had operated ranching interests in this section many years and was judge of Gaines County from 1918 to 1926.

Born Feb. 15, 1887, in McCullough County, he was married to Mattie Elizabeth Thomas July 8, 1906. Stark was a member of the Methodist Church and the Masonic Lodge.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in Seminole. The Alpha Phi Omega Home is in charge of arrangements.

Survivors include the widow; a son, Morris of Seminole; two daughters, Mrs. Jack Ferguson of Midland and Mrs. George McCoy of Dallas; a grandson, Terry George McCoy of Dallas; two foster children, Sammie and Dick Freeman of Seminole, and three foster grandchildren.

Texas Dimes Poster Girl Returns Home

AUSTIN — (AP) — A little eight-year-old girl, crippled by polio, hobbled off the train here Saturday to receive a hero's welcome.

She is Wanda Wiley, poster girl of the 1950 March of Dimes campaign, who has just completed a two-weeks tour of Northern cities to promote the drive.

On hand to greet Wanda were her mother, Mrs. Earl Wiley; her Pekinese pup, Shugy, and a lot of city officials.

She kissed her mother, said "Thank You" to the city dads for a bouquet of flowers, then devoted all her attention to Shugy.

When asked to describe her trip, Wanda replied:

"I hope you join the March of Dimes."

David Proves He's Not Easy Pickings

EAST CHICAGO, IND. — (AP) — David Olah, a skinny kid of 13, looked like easy pickings. As he crossed a dark alley a deep voice commanded:

"Come here or I'll cut you into little pieces."

"I'll give you the money I have, mister," David said meekly. But as soon as David got within range he lashed out—and hard—with right and left hand punches. The tough guy got away from there fast—possibly recalling the fate that befell Goliath.

Southwest Educators Outline New Goals

DALLAS — (AP) — Leading public school educators of the Southwest set up Saturday two goals designed to improve the quality of teachers. They are:

To tighten teacher certification laws, and to improve standards of the institutions which prepare teachers.

The action was taken at a meeting of 122 delegates to a five-state regional meeting of the National Education Association which ended Saturday. Delegates were from Oklahoma, Louisiana, Arkansas, New Mexico and Texas.

BURGERS KEEP BUSY
SWEETWATER — (AP) — Eight guns were stolen in five burglaries here Friday night. Thieves also stole a blind man's shoes, containing $30, from under his bed.

Arctic Air Search Shifts To Check On Smoke Signals

WHITEHORSE, YUKON — (AP) — The search for the missing American Air Force C-54 transport plane which vanished nine days ago swung 100 miles northwest of here Saturday.

A 15-man trail crew carrying emergency equipment set out for the area, some 15 miles south of the road junction with the Haines, Alaska, cut-off.

Smoke has been reported sighted there. It also is a location whence radio signals previously have been heard.

Radio contact will be maintained with both the ground crew and searching airplanes overhead.

Meanwhile, ten Superfortresses left Anchorage Saturday for a return sweep of the Alaska-Canada air route from which the C-54 vanished with 44 aboard, including an expectant mother and her two-year-old child. The Superforts will continue on to Great Falls, Mont.

San Antonio Doctor Heads Medical Group

SAN ANTONIO — (AP) — Dr. S. Foster Moor of San Antonio Saturday was elected president of the Texas Association of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, to take office a year hence.

Dr. Howard O. Smith, of Marlin, elected a year ago, took office as president for 1950 as the organization closed its 21st annual meeting. The retiring president is Dr. Cary Hiett, Port Worth.

The elected vice president was Dr. D. Wall, San Angelo. Galveston was chosen as the site of the 1951 meeting, at a date to be decided later.

Americans had 1,300,000 telephones in 1950.

Ellis Ambulance Equipment Credited With Saving Life

New portable oxygen tanks, recently added to emergency cars of the Ellis Funeral Home, already are credited with saving the life of a Midland man.

On the day following the installation of the new equipment, an Ellis ambulance answered an emergency call. At the scene, the driver, David Bainbridge, administered oxygen to a man who had suffered a heart attack.

Doctors at Western Clinic-Hospital said the oxygen probably had saved the man's life. He since has been released from the hospital and is recuperating at home.

The new oxygen tanks have a face-piece similar to wartime gas-masks, and are known as "demand-type," since they cut off the supply of oxygen when the patient's lungs have taken all the oxygen they demand. The tanks are recommended, Ellis said, for heart cases and pneumonia, where resuscitators—which force breathing—are not necessary.

The Lower White River spread over more farmlands in Southeast Arkansas and the Ouachita River still was rising at Camden. Some 23,000 persons have been driven from their homes in Arkansas.

The swollen Mississippi river climbed to 19.3 feet at New Orleans, a tenth of a foot above its predicted crest. But Army Engineers made no decision on opening the Bonnet Carré Spillway. The spillway, designed to protect New Orleans, will be opened if the river goes to 20 feet, they said.

Moving into the international limelight again is Spain's Generalissimo Francisco Franco, center, above, following Secretary of State Acheson's statement that the U. This newest picture of the Spanish dictator was taken at a recent gathering of high government officials in Madrid.

ging for 70 days while the board studied the dispute and came up with recommendations for settlement which could be accepted or rejected by either side. But Lewis voiced suspicion.

In cryptic terms, the United Mine Workers leader contended that the board's findings would leave his union with but one choice—to accept or face a Taft-Hartley Act injunction against a strike.

And he hinted broadly that such an injunction would bring on a work slowdown.

Strike Order Reported
That shifted the problem directly to the President, Lewis threw out no hint whether he was directing the miners to join Monday in the partial walkouts which already were threatening to spread in the contract slowdown.

Reports that Lewis had sent out a general strike order came from Illinois. It was not confirmed by any top district or international union officers. In a strike-torn Western Pennsylvania, angry leaders promised to swell the ranks of the 100,000 who were idle last week in the "No contract, no work" movement.

All major groups of operators sent word to the President before Saturday's deadline that they would accept a fact-finding board.

AFL Charges Stalin Is Wiping Out Jews

MIAMI BEACH, FLA. — (AP) — Leaders of the American Federation of Labor charged Saturday that Stalin is trying to wipe out Jews behind the Iron Curtain.

The AFL's Executive Council said Russia is imitating Hitler by making life miserable for Jews as a class—in a way which means "virtually sentencing these human beings to death."

New Wells Completed In 1950 Number 927

AUSTIN —P— A total of 211 oil wells were completed in Texas for the week ended Saturday, making the total this year 927 wells.

Twelve gas wells were completed for a yearly total of 66.

There were 14 wildcat oil wells drilled.

The total average calendar day allowable was 2,018,073 barrels, compared to 2,106,466 barrels the previous week.

Coast Guard Search And Rescue Division Gets Odd Questions

By ED CREAUGH
NEW YORK —P— From a yacht off the Virginia Coast the distress message flashed:

"Wife's hair has been set by home permanent wave outfit. Neutralizer spilled and lost. We have no way to remove permanent solution. Advise soonest what to do."

As shore, a Coast Guard lieutenant rubbed his chin, sighed deeply and reached for the telephone. Within an hour, dots and dashes spelled out this message to the distressed husband:

"Try four ounces of peroxide in quarter of water. If 100 minutes available. Wash 10 times with any soap and shampoo."

And so the Coast Guard Search and Rescue Division chalked up another victory over disaster—and another story was entered in a remarkable book known in Coast Guard circles as the "D.F." book.

"D.F." stands for the kind of question that people keep asking the Third Coast Guard District night and day, by wireless, by phone and in person.

Get Some Good Ones
They get some dillies at their headquarters on the 10th floor of a Manhattan building.

"Do barnacles bite?" "No, ma'am."

"How deep is the Atlantic Ocean?" (It varies, sir—up to 30,246 feet.)

"The only sure remedy is to get off the ship."

To some extent the search and rescue division is a victim of its own good reputation. People expect it to know everything, do anything. Witness this item from the "D.F." book.

"Received call from excited woman requesting we find and board husband's fishing boat somewhere in Long Island Sound and see if a silly-acting, dumpy little redhead is with him."

"Advised caller that unless boat reported missing in distress Coast Guard had no cause to hunt for it."

"Caller became highly indignant, asserted men were all dead, said Coast Guard typical of government red tape."

Girls, Nuns Escape In Bus-Train Crash

KANSAS CITY —P— A bus load of school girls and two nuns miraculously escaped with injuries to only eight Saturday when a streamlined passenger train struck the rear of the bus at a crossing near here.

Sister Mary Lenore suffered severe injuries. The condition of seven teen age students was said to be not serious.

Sgt. A. H. Bell of the Missouri Highway Patrol said he would file charges of careless and reckless driving against Clarence H. Miller, 53, driver of the bus.

Mrs. James Thomas Willis, II

Ryan-Willis Vows Recited In Church

Candles lighted the altar and aisles of the Trinity Episcopal Church Saturday evening for the wedding of Veryl Ann Ryan and James Thomas Willis, II. The Rev. R. J. Snell, rector, read the singlering service.

Woodwardia trees made a green background at the altar, where yellow tapers burned in candelabra. Other candelabra were placed to light the aisles and pews were marked with fern and moss green bows. The only flowers were in an altar arrangement of yellow carnations.

The bride, whose only attendant was Mrs. C. G. Dunwoody of Houston, wore a long-sleeved gown of lime green velvet, the bodice slightly draped to shirring at the sides and the high neckline finished with a small collar. The skirt, fitted at the waistline, flared slightly and was shaped into a short train. Framing her face was the wide brim of her hat, of lime illusion fabric with velvet to match the dress.

She carried a bouquet centered with green cypripedium orchids with mock calla lilies fashioned of philodendron leaves around the edge, the whole backed by moss green tulle and ribbon.

Wears Emerald Velvet

The matron of honor was gowned in emerald green velvet with a braided halo headress of the material and a bouquet of talisman roses.

His brother, Cmdr. Enos Willis of the U. S. Naval Base, Philadelphia, was Willis' best man. Ushers were R. K. White, C. R. Vandervoort, C. W. Post, Jr., and W. H. Pomeroy, Jr. Mrs. Preston Lea played an organ program preceding the ceremony.

The selections were "O Thou of God the Father" and "Prelude and Pledge in E Minor," both by Bach; "Trumpet Tune," Purcell; "Cantabile," Franck; "In Summer," Stebbins; "Elevation," Debat-Ponsan; and "Improvisation," Karg-Elert. She played the traditional wedding marches.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bertram Lacy Ryan of Midland and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Henry Thomas Willis of (Continued On Page Two)

Shower Honors J. D. Crawford

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Crawford, who recently announced their marriage of last August, were honored with a shower in the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Patton Friday night. Mrs. Patton's mother, Mrs. W. M. Bramlett, was the assisting hostess.

Mrs. Crawford was Dorothy Head before the marriage. The couple is living in Midland now.

A Valentine motif was used in the refreshment course served to guests at the informal party. They included Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Burrow, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Bramlett, Nada Bramlett, Mrs. G. T. Crawford and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Crawford, Carl Crawford, Myrtle Craig, J. W. Blocker, R. D. Baker, Frances Lesley, Mr. and Mrs. Pleas Richters, Mr. and Mrs. D. Branch, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Branch and Opal Ponder. Other friends sent gifts for the shower.

High School P-TA To Sponsor Study

Organization of a parent education group sponsored by the High School Parent-Teacher Association is scheduled for 9 a.m. Tuesday in Room 122 of the Midland High School. One of the in-service training consultants from the Education Department of the University of Texas is expected to be present.

He is to discuss "Growing Up in the United States," Mrs. A. B. Arick will have the topic, "Are Fads and Fills Fundamental?" and Mrs. Ray Gwyn the topic, "Struggle for Independence." Three topics will be presented in a two-hour session, once a month and will complete the study course in three months.

The general subject is "Freedom to Grow." Topics for March study are "What Kind of Success?" "Sharing and Self-Fulfillment" and "The Open Mind and a Changing World." April topics are "What Do Psychological Tests Really Mean?" and "Evaluating Sex Education." Mrs. O. L. Stalcup, P-TA president, invites all interested parents to attend the course.

AAUW's Spring Party Planned

The date for the American Association of University Women's Spring bridge and canasta party has been set for April 15. It will begin at 1:15 p.m. in the Midland Officers Club.

Lady Golfers To Entertain With Coffee

Plans for a "Get Acquainted" coffee February 22 were made at the Ladies Golf Association meeting Friday in the Midland Country Club. Guests at the coffee will be all women members of the country club. Association officers and committee members will be hostesses.

Mrs. Herschel Ezell, golf chairman, announced that Shirley Culbertson will be co-chairman of this committee for 1950, and that Mrs. H. C. Hood, Mrs. Wright Cowden, Mrs. R. K. White and Mrs. Rachel Hornbeck will be its members.

It was announced that hostesses for next week's association meeting, which will be at 1 p.m. in the clubhouse, will be Mrs. C. W. Chancellor, Sr., and Mrs. Henry Murphey.

Mrs. T. J. Melton, Jr., and Mrs. Fred W. Gaarde were hostesses for the Friday meeting. The table centerpiece was of Spring flowers with purple stock, daffodil, calendula and heather in predominance.

Guests of the group were Mrs. Frank Turner, Mrs. E. V. Gumm, Mrs. Perry Gill, Mrs. Miles Hall and Mrs. J. A. Eubank.

Engaged Girl Is Honoree

Helen Rose Griffin, bride-elect of Walter C. Beardsley, was honored at a breakfast Saturday morning by Mrs. W. R. Donnell and Mrs. W. N. Hargrave, in Mrs. Hargrave's home.

Miss Griffin and Beardsley will be married February 20 in Tulsa, Okla. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Griffin of Tulsa, and his parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Beardsley of Algonia, Iowa.

An informal fruit basket arrangement, surrounded by lemon leaves centered the table and candles moulded to look like pineapples were on either side of the basket. Sarah Johnson poured.

Miss Griffin was presented a gift from the hostesses.

Guests were Anne Tolbert, Louise Cox, Ruby Millard, Mrs. F. T. Brannan, Mrs. W. M. Brice, Alice Walton, Frances Morton, Mrs. Bill Kotch, Mrs. Frank Thompson and Dell Steel.

Sashaway Club Has Valentine Guest Dance

A Valentine dance, the first of several to be given by Midland social groups, entertained members and guests of the Sashaway Square Dance Club Friday night in the American Legion Hall.

After the dancing, refreshments were served from a table covered with red Valentines of all sizes. A sunburst effect of tall red tapers was used against the wall as a background for the table. Those attending received white hearts inscribed with their names which were used for name tags.

A collection was taken as a contribution to the March of Dimes Fund, and it was announced that the club will contribute $25.

George Glass was a guest caller and Mrs. Ed Halfast, John Mills and B. R. Mathews, all club members, also called. George Glenn's orchestra furnished the music.

Engagement Announced

March Wedding Date Announced At Tea

"The Telephone Romance" was the title of a story told with verses and sketches to announce the engagement of Lafara Harbison of Midland and Ray Phillips, Jr., of McCamey at a tea Saturday afternoon. Mrs. E. L. Harbison of Lovington, N. M., mother of the bride-elect, and Mrs. J. S. Griffith were hostesses in Mrs. Griffith's home.

Scrolls tied with pink and green ribbon were drawn from an old-fashioned Valentine box by the guests, who unrolled them to find the rhymed story of a romance which started by telephone and will enter the "happily ever after" phase with a wedding on March 18.

Mrs. J. A. Rogers and Ruby Nellie Braly, who will be bridesmaids at the wedding, received guests with Mrs. Harbison and the honoree. The ceremony is planned for the afternoon in the First Methodist Church, and the bride's other attendants will be Bonnie Dale Anderson of Big Spring and Phillips' sister, Mrs. Albert Sutton of Whitesboro. Nancy Robnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Robnett of Stanton, will be the flower girl.

Miss Harbison has chosen pink and green as her wedding colors, and they were used in the party decorations.

Both Miss Harbison and Phillips are employed with the Humble Oil and Refining Company, she in the Midland offices and he at McCamey, where they will reside. Her parents live in Lovington and he is the son of Mrs. May Phillips of Whitesboro.

She has been active in the Beta Sigma Phi Sorority here, is a past president of Iota Beta Chapter and is one of the advisers of the Nu Phi Mu Sorority, the "little sister" organization.

Wanda Burnside Is Installed At Head Of Rainbow Officers

Officers in the Order of Rainbow for Girls for the next six months were installed in a formal ceremony in the Masonic Hall Saturday night. Wanda Burnside succeeded Beverly Keisling as worthy advisor of the assembly.

Betty Nix took office as worthy associate advisor; Peggy Minear as Charity; Swan Hagler, Hope, and Ruth Greene, Faith Officers in the color stations are Betty Reeves, love; Virginia Breedlove, religion; Carolyn Reigle, nature; Nancy Klingler, immortality; Virginia Kroenlein, fidelity; Jan Houck, patriotism; and Martha Scharbauer, service.

Sue Talkington is the new treasurer.

Annual P.E.O. Tea Marks Founders' Day

The second annual tea given by the BS Chapter, P. E. O., to honor the founders of the national organization, was a Friday afternoon event in the home of Mrs. W. Dave Henderson. Approximately 200 friends called to join members in their observance of Founders' Day.

Mrs. Henderson's home was also the scene of the tea last Winter, when the Midland group was completing its first year. The 1950 observance marks the eighty-first anniversary of the P. E. O., a national organization of women which carries on a welfare program, supports schools and educational projects as well as stressing social activities and study for its members in local chapters.

Seven women who were founders of the society are honored at the annual tea, and seven yellow candles burned in their memory on the table which was laid in the P. E. O. colors, white and yellow. Acacia blossoms and yellow mums filled a container in the shape of a star, the P. E. O. emblem.

Presidents Four Tea

Mrs. John Casselman, chapter president, poured tea for callers during the first hour, and Mrs. Paul Kolm, immediate past president, took her place later at the antique English silver service.

Mrs. Henderson was at the door to greet guests and officers were in the receiving line—Mrs. Herbert A. Hemphill, corresponding secretary; Mrs. F. C. Cummings, treasurer; and Mrs. Kolm to welcome early callers, and Mrs. Vernon Yearby, chaplain; Mrs. Mittie Norman, vice president, and Mrs. Casselman the second hour.

Mrs. Tom L. Ingram, who served as recording secretary until she resigned recently to move to San Angelo, and Mrs. T. W. Flewarty, who will complete her term of office, presided at the registry in the den. (Continued On Page Two)

Mrs. Cummings Is Civic Music Party Honoree

Honoring Mrs. F. C. Cummings, who is leaving to make her home in Ponca City, Okla., the Civic Music Club will entertain with a tea from 3 to 6 p.m. Sunday in the home of Mrs. J. B. Koenig, 1800 West Tennessee.

Guests will be club members, their wives and husbands, and special guests. Mrs. Cummings was a charter member of the club, and served as its president in 1940-1941. She has held various other offices in the organization.

Yellow and white, club colors, will be used throughout the decorations. Yellow flowers in a silver bowl will center the serving table and yellow candles in silver holders will be on either side of the center arrangement. A hand-crocheted cloth will be used on the table.

The honoree will be given a corsage of yellow flowers. Past presidents of the club who still live in Midland have been invited to pour. They are Edith Conyers, Mrs. Bernice Stevens, Mrs. Hermann B. Williams and Mrs. Joseph Mims.

Mrs. Van Camp and Mrs. Ralph Trost, members of the social committee, are in charge of arrangements for the tea.

Fashion Show Models Meet

The first meeting of models who will show Spring fashions in the "Fashion is Magic" stage revue March 3 and 5, was held Friday night in the home of Mrs. William Y. Penn. The group will meet again in Mrs. Penn's home at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Albert Kelley and Mrs. Ray Howard are in charge of models.

The stage production is being sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the Midland Memorial Hospital and will be given both nights in the new Midland High School Auditorium. Proceeds will be used by the auxiliary in its work for the hospital and this show will be its main financial project of the year.

Other committees also are working and the stage group has completed the 12 panels that will be background and curtain drops. They all are circus scenes done in vivid colors.

The show will feature Buck Kirksey as a magician. Mrs. Milton Loring, coordinator, will read the continuity.

Dinner Date Slated For Theta Alumnae

Kappa Alpha Theta alumnae will have a dinner meeting February 15 in the home of Mrs. H. C. Hood, newly-elected president, 1603 West Kansas Street. The dinner will begin at 6:30 p.m.

Thetas are requested to make reservations before February 13 by telephoning Mrs. Ralph Lea at number 923. Any sorority alumna who has not affiliated with the alumnae group is invited to attend the dinner.

Beta Delta Chapter Will Meet Tuesday

Final plans for the Beta Sigma Phi Valentine dance of Friday night will be made at the Beta Delta chapter meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Randy Rubin, 105 Ridgely Drive.

Feder training and an executive council meeting, both at 7:30 p.m., will precede the chapter meeting.

For Fond Remembrances at Valentine!

Barbara Long, recorder; Ann Boring, organist; Pauline Norwood, choir director; Nelda McDuffy, outer observer; Shirley Harrison, confidential observer; Glenda Hambleton, chaplain; and Mary Lou Manning, drill leader.

Installing Betty Keisling presented the installing officers: Mrs. E. W. Edwards, marshal; Mrs. Fred Wycoff, officer; Mrs. Vera McLeRoy, organist; Mrs. J. B. McCoy, chaplain; and Mrs. F. H. Shirley, recorder.

The theme of the installation ceremony was "Love, Adoration and Devotion," and red and white were the colors used. Red roses decorated the altar and streamers in the colors were hung in the hall.

Opening the program, officers and members of the Rainbow Order performed a drill. Mrs. L. R. Burnside presented the Bible at the altar, and Richard Patton, senior counselor of the Order of DeMolay, led a flag ceremony. The Rainbow and DeMolay Orders both are groups for young people under Masonic sponsorship.

Certificates Given Girl Scout Leaders After Craft Course

Six Girl Scout leaders received 10-hour certificates for perfect attendance at the five sessions of the crafts workshop held last week in the Trinity Episcopal parish house. They were Mrs. Charles Horton, Mrs. Robert Hart, Mrs. R. R. O'Neil, Mrs. C. O. Fredregill, Mrs. Jack Maier and Mrs. B. B. Leaton.

Mrs. I. A. Searles, Permian Basin Area field director, was the instructor.

Twenty-one other leaders attended one or more sessions of the course, which was arranged by Mrs. J. C. Rinker, training chairman of the Girl Scout Association. Attendance hours of all 27 women enrolled totaled 174 hours. Mrs. W. L. Woolley registered for the course during the last sessions.

Cookout Planned

At the closing session Friday morning the group planned and executed a cookout. Leaders planned a menu, made paper charts and did the other things a troop would do in preparing for a cookout. The menu included pigs-in-blanket, apple wedges and "some-mores." Place mats were made as the craft project for the day.

The Rev. R. J. Snell, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, and his secretary, Mrs. Robert West, were guests of the group.

Contribute To Survey—members broke up into small groups to discuss "What My College Education Meant To Me." Last year, the national AAUW made a survey on this subject using individual questionnaires to gather material. This year, going at it from a different angle, group discussions are being used and three questions are the subjects. They are: (1) "What were your objectives when you entered college?" (2) "When you graduated, did you feel satisfied with your education?" and (3) "Do you feel that you are better able to take your place in society because of your college education?"

Results of these small group discussions will be sent to the national organization, compiled and used to complete the survey.

Nurses' Group To Meet In Big Spring

Registered nurses of the Midland District of the state Nurses Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the clinic of the Big Spring Hospital. The subject to be discussed at the meeting will be the "Structure Plan," for registration of practical nurses with one-year training.

The Midland District has 87 active registered nurses in the newly-formed group, and is seeking membership of all registered nurses in the area, according to Mrs. Elina Williamson, City-County Health Nurse.

Cumberland Gap was discovered by Gabriel Arthur in 1674.

which was decorated with fruit arrangements and made more hospitable with an open fire.

All Members Hostesses—Acacia and Jonquil repeated the yellow color note in flower arrangements in the rooms, accented with blue Dutch iris blossoms in a bouquet on the buffet. All the members, who shared hostess duties, wore corsages of jonquils. Mrs. Caselman and Mrs. Kolm tucked their flowers in their hair to make attractive pictures while they were seated at the tea table.

Other members of the BS Chapter are Mrs. Clint Dunagan, Mrs. J. M. Devereux, Mrs. Van Camp, Mrs. J. L. Brown, Mrs. James N. Allison, Mrs. T. S. Head, Mrs. O. J. Hubbard, Mrs. Clark J. Matthews, Mrs. Glen E. Mershon, Mrs. L. E. Patterson, Jr., Mrs. H. L. Skinner, Jr., Mrs. James E. Sprinkle, Mrs. George S. Turner, Mrs. K. C. Heald, Jr., and Dr. Louise Fillman.

Guests included three P. E. O. members residing in Midland but not affiliated with the chapter here: Mrs. Marshall Bailey, Mrs. W. P. Buckthall and Mrs. Donald A. Ross. Visitors from the BT Chapter of Odessa were Mrs. F. E. Slevier, its president, and Mrs. A. E. Wright, its secretary. Also present were Mrs. T. C. Blair, Mrs. Lee Purley and Mrs. E. A. Studer.

CARS STOLEN, RECOVERED—Midland police Friday night received reports of two automobiles being stolen. Both were recovered shortly after the reports were made. No damage was reported to either car.

NEW YORK — The versatile ensemble, one of Spring fashion's favorites, blossoms this year in colors as fresh and easy on the eyes as the first garden flowers.

Such delicate tints as parasol pink and apple green, for example, point up the simple styling of slim-lined suits and matching coats.

Ensemble toppers, which vary in length from the full-length coat to the finger-tip jacket, team up skillfully with other togs, thanks to contrasting bandings, print linings and subtle design details.

Suits can also lead an independent life. They base their appeal on such solid virtues as classic simplicity of design and freedom from clutter or distracting fro-fro.

Typical of these new wardrobe-in-one outfits is an apple green ensemble of wool gabardine designed by Philip Mangone. The designer lines the finger-tip length cape-styled jacket with a sprightly splatter print. A matching print scarf is bow-tied at the neckline of the straight-cut suit. The flaring topper has cuffed sleeves and double fake pockets to pep up bodice interest. What gives the suit new style interest is the cut-away jacket.

Another example of the colorful Spring ensemble is a full-length coat of parasol pink worsted, worn with a matching pink gabardine suit. Broad cuffs and tuxedo bandings of navy blue forecast the affiliation of this coat with Spring navy togs. A stitched-down capelet rounds off the shoulderline.

PATIENT DISMISSED

Jo Dales was discharged Saturday from Western Clinic-Hospital where she underwent major surgery.

A reception in the Ryan home, 1608 West Michigan Street, followed the ceremony. The couple and their parents greeted guests, and the house party included Mrs. Chappell Davis, Mrs. Pomeroy, Mrs. W. F. Pennebaker, Mrs. J. H. Pittman of Big Spring and Mrs. John David Manly, III, of Corpus Christi. They all wore corsages of yellow carnations.

Smilax garlanded the silver candelabras, punch bowl and wedding cake on the table, and the light was from yellow tapers. Jonquills and sweetwood made a bouquet on the entrance hall table; the same flowers were used on the registry table and in the living room.

A green background was arranged in the fireplace, where jonquills were in a garlanded log. On the mantel, smilax trailed and made a silver picket.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis left on a wedding trip and will be at home after February 15 at 1608 West Louisiana Street. He is employed with the Diamond Core Drilling Company here.

Out-of-city guests for the wedding included his sisters, Mrs. O. Lee Bettles of Oklahoma City and Mrs. George Ellis of Ventura, Calif., his brother, Dan M. Willis, and Mrs. Willis of Santa Ana, Calif., and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Henshaw of San Antonio, Mr. and Mrs. D. T. Richardson, Sr. and Mrs. D. T. Richardson, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Alcorn of Houston.

Texan Heads Library Of Congress, Which Plans 150th Anniversary Fete

WASHINGTON —(P)—The Library of Congress, headed by Texas-born and reared Dr. Luther H. Evans, celebrates its 150th anniversary this year.

It was on April 24, 1800, that Congress established the library. The sesquicentennial date will be marked by the opening of special exhibits of the most famous books, manuscripts, prints and documents on hand.

The history of the world's largest library is entwined with the lives and achievements of the men who have directed its operations. In its long history there were only nine librarians prior to Dr. Evans.

The job, now paying $15,000 annually, is filled by presidential appointment, subject to confirmation by the Senate. There is no definite term, but the position normally is considered non-political and does not change with changes in party control of the White House.

It took about two years to get the library actually established, so the first librarian didn't assume the position until 1802. He was John Beckley, who doubled as clerk of the House of Representatives. He served until 1807. A few years later the dual role was dropped.

The longest record of service is that of Herbert Putnam, from 1899 to 1939. He took over just two years after the opening of the existing huge granite library building, with its interior of bright marble, bronze and colorful murals.

Under Putnam's direction the library grew to such proportions that a mammoth new annex with stacks for 10,000,000 books had to be erected across the street, just behind the main building. There are now more than 8,000,000 books and 8,000,000 manuscripts, in addition to countless other items, sheltered in the two buildings.

Dr. Evans took over as librarian in 1945, after six years there in various roles, including that of assistant and acting librarian. He is only 47. With a decade of service already to his credit, he stands to achieve a long career in the job.

Born near Sayersville, Bastrop County, Oct. 13, 1902, the son of a railroad section maintenance foreman, Evans spent much of his boyhood on a farm. He was graduated from Bastrop High School and obtained an A.B. degree from the University of Texas in 1923 with a major in political science and a minor in economics. A year later he got a master's degree in the same subjects, then went to Europe to observe the League of Nations and study various governments.

After a teaching career in various colleges and universities, including Stanford, Dartmouth and Princeton, he directed a nationwide WPA project initiated in 1935 for assembling and compiling historical records and data of the various states and many of the larger cities.

Evans' success in this work prompted Archibald MacLeish, a month after the latter's appointment in 1939 as librarian, to make the Texan director of the library's legislative service.

The duties of this section recall the origin of the library, which had its beginning along with the creation of the District of Columbia to serve as the seat of the national government.

When the Capitol was in Philadelphia and New York the legislators had access to the libraries in those relatively large cities. Here they had moved to a sprawling settlement being carved out of the wilderness and populated largely by the laborers building the Capitol.

and White House, and their families. So, one of their early steps was to authorize the library and provide $5,000 for the purchase of books. For years virtually all were made in Europe. Gradually acquisitions were made of private collections, including the 7,000-volume collection of Thomas Jefferson. It was purchased in 1815, a year after the British had pillaged and burned the Capitol, destroying all of some 3,000 books which had been amassed up to that time. About two-thirds of the Jefferson Library was burned in a fire in the Capitol on Christmas Eve of 1851.

Collection Largest An act of Congress in 1870 made the library the depository for copies of every publication on which a copyright has been obtained. Its collection of books and manuscripts in Hebrew and Chinese are perhaps the largest anywhere in the world. One hundred million dollars has been appropriated for the library in its 150 years existence; it would be impossible to place a value on its contents, which include the Declaration of Independence.

Although the Library of Congress was established principally to fill a need for the lawmakers, it now is primarily the center of research for students and scholars.

Congressmen and other Federal government officials are the only ones who may take books and documents away from the library. But any citizen in the land is privileged to enter its reading rooms and have access, within the building, to its volumes.

Soap Helps Replenish Skin Oils

By ALICIA HART Those soap-and-water showers you never think that their faces are clean unless well-scrubbed will welcome a soap that helps to replenish the oils that are washed off the skin.

Such a soap unites detergent agents with a rich skin lotion and the two aids work in a happy union at the same time. The girl in the picture is giving herself a facial with soap and water.

This girl is giving herself a facial with soap and water. The contribution that the lotion makes to this soap, makers claim, is that it neutralizes all traces of harshness. When lathered, it produces suds like heavy whipped cream. Best way to draw the creamy suds over the face, leave it on to dry mask-fashion, and then soften it again into lather by massaging the skin over a steaming basin. For the final step of this "facial," a washcloth is used to remove the soap and the skin is rinsed in first lukewarm, then cool water.

HEAVY DEMAND FOR U. S. INCOME TAX GUIDE EL PASO — "Your Federal Income Tax," official guide for taxpayers published by the Bureau of Internal Revenue, has established itself near the top on national best-seller lists, according to T. U. Purcell, district manager for the U. S. Department of Commerce in El Paso. More than 200,000 copies of this 138-page tax book were sold during the first five weeks since publication. Purcell said the demand for this booklet priced at 25 cents, has been so heavy that the initial supply has had to be replenished several times, but he believes that a new supply just received will be sufficient to fill all future requests.

Club Begins Project To Renew Furniture

New upholstery was put on a club chair by members of the Valley View Home Demonstration Club at an all-day meeting in the Community Center Friday, and another all-day meeting was set for February 17 to upholster a sofa.

Unusual materials to use in making lamp bases were demonstrated at the meeting. Mrs. S. D. Bartlett will use empty pools to make a base for a lamp and Mrs. E. L. Mason has a well-proportioned cedar jug which is to be converted into a lamp base.

Mrs. Earl Pain was appointed to serve as home improvement demonstrator in the club this year. Members answered roll call by naming articles they plan to buy for their homes in 1950.

A covered dish luncheon was served at noon for Mrs. I. J. Howard, Mrs. Bonnie Bizzell, Mrs. Bartlett and Mrs. Pain. They were joined in the afternoon by Mrs. Will Long and Mrs. J. C. Stevens, Jr.

Obliging Customer Also Lifts Money

PHILADELPHIA — (AP) — The young man who entered the grocery of William Maguire was so polite and so helpful.

Maguire told police he was having difficulty lifting a heavy box when the young man appeared.

"Let me help you with that," the stranger said.

He lifted the box easily and Maguire discovered later—also easily—"lifted" $25 from the cash register before tipping his hat and walking out of the store.

Humorist To Address K&F Club In School Cafeteria

Ed Harding of Washington, North Carolina, widely-known as the "Tar Heel Humorist," will address the Midland Knife and Fork Club at its February dinner-meeting banquet style by members of the high school's Home Economics Department.

Club members are asked to make reservations by mail not later than Thursday. Advance reservations may be cancelled at any time prior to 5 p.m. Thursday. Banquet tickets also may be obtained at the Chamber of Commerce.

"Is America Losing Its Risibility?" will be the subject of Harding's address.

Pure Entertainment Club officials said the speaker is one of the nation's best-known humorists and there will be nothing serious in connection with his message here. He has no other mission in life but to help folks enjoy themselves, they said. A carefree evening with "nothin' but pure entertainment" is promised.

Formerly in the fertilizer business, Harding has been a farmer and a chamber of commerce secretary. He says he reformed when he became a professional after-dinner speaker.

Harding is a former district governor of Rotary International, and has spoken in hundreds of cities throughout the United States.

Knife and Fork Club officers said the speaker is one of those "comfortably rotund," bald-headed, cheerful individuals who likes to see folks enjoy themselves. They said his completely humorous address will be far different from those usually heard at club functions, but they are confident members, after hearing Harding, will want to bring him back next year for a repeat performance.

A capacity attendance is expected at the dinner, which will be the third since the organization of the club here last Fall. Officers urged members to make reservations promptly.

will practice at 6:30 p.m. and the teachers' and officers' meeting will be at 7:30 p.m.

MIDLANDERS TO ATTEND MECHANICAL CONFERENCE

A. C. Robertson, foreman of The Reporter - Telegram's composing room, and Ervin Crisman, machinist, will leave Sunday for Fort Worth where they will attend the annual mechanical conference of the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association.

Regional Wage-Hour Law Clinic Will Be Held Here Tuesday

Scores of businessmen from Midland and neighboring cities are expected to attend a wage-hour law clinic to be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in Hotel Scharbauer here.

The new changes in the national wage-hour law and the effect they have on businesses engaged in interstate commerce will be discussed at the area gathering. The changes in the law became effective January 25.

The clinic is sponsored by the Permian Basin Chapter of the Texas Manufacturers' Association and the Midland Chamber of Commerce. Lloyd R. French of Odessa, chairman of the TMA chapter, is in charge of arrangements. Assisting him are A. H. Vineyard of Midland, chapter industrial relations committee chairman, and Ed Hudson, TMA regional manager.

Out-Of-City Speaker

Hugh L. Cole, of the Wage-Hour Division's Dallas office, will address the meeting. His remarks will be followed by a question and answer period.

The public is invited to attend. Invitations have gone out to businessmen in other Permian Basin Empire cities, including Odessa, Big Spring, Stanton, Lamesa, Monahan, Kermit, Wink, Pecos, Crane, McCamey and Rankin.

Children's Story Hour will be at 10:30 a.m. in the Children's Room of the Midland County Library.

Favorite RECIPES of WEST TEXANS

MAYONNAISE

Mrs. Walter Cremin

1010 West Kansas Street

Mix 1 1/2 tsp prepared mustard,

1/2 tsp salt, 1/8 tsp pepper, 1/8 tsp paprika, 1/4 tsp cayenne pepper and 1/4 tsp garlic salt.

Add 1 whole egg and beat with a rotary beater, gradually adding about 1 1/2 cups salad oil and 2 1/2

tbsp. vinegar or lemon juice. Split a garlic button in two pieces and put each on a toothpick and add to the mayonnaise, leaving them in it until ready to serve.

This recipe does not differ greatly from most mayonnaise recipes but I think it is better because of the addition of paprika and cayenne pepper. I also have found that it is not as good when made with an electric mixer because it is too thin.

The amount of salad oil needed will vary, depending on the size of

Grower Allotment Deadline March 1

Cotton growers have until March 1 to make applications for new grower allotments, providing allotments have not been received already, according to Charles Champlin, county Production and Marketing Administration supervisor.

The new cotton allotments are for farmers whose first crop on the land was harvested in 1949 and for those whose farms did not have a cotton history for the years 1945-1948.

Rankin News

RANKIN—Clint Shaw, Clay Taylor, Herschell Shaw and Boyd Cox returned recently from a fishing trip to Mexico. They reported fine weather but not too good fisherman's luck.

A son was born Tuesday, January 31, to Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Price in a McCamey hospital. The baby has been named Marcus Wayne.

William Taylor, who is employed on the Noelke ranch south of Rankin, was taken to San Angelo Tuesday by his brother, Clay Taylor, for treatment of a heart ailment.

BACK FROM AUSTIN

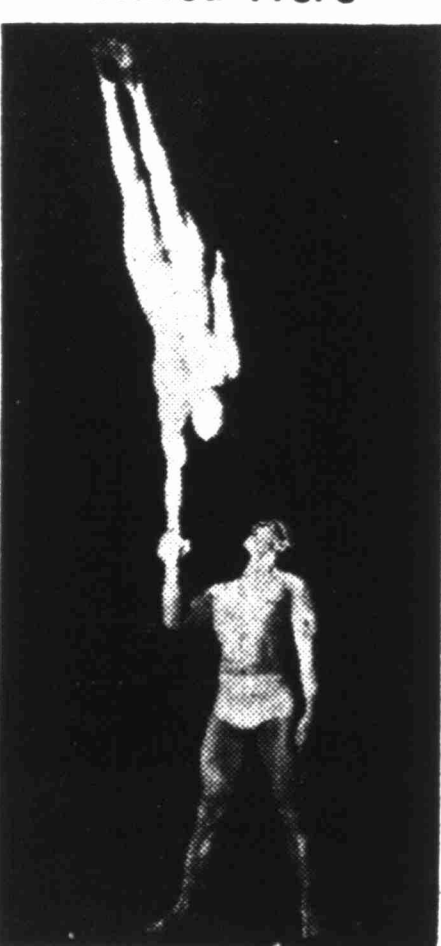

The Rev. Robert J. Snell, rector of the Trinity Episcopal Church, and Dr. R. Matthew Lynn, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, returned late in the week from Austin where they attended a series of lectures held at the Austin Presbyterian Theological Seminary.

TROOPS HAVE JOINT MEETING

Girl Scout Troops 13 and 14 had a joint meeting Wednesday at the Trinity Episcopal Church, with Troop 14 as hostess. The program was a series of skits by Barbara Tom, with Peggy O'Neal, Helen Zant, Janice Stalcup and Barbara Munson as other characters. Visiting leaders of Troop 13 were Mrs. C. C. Cool and Mrs. H. L. Hensley.

PCA Unit Urges Prompt Payment Of Dog License Fees

Officials of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals urged Midlanders to purchase licenses for their dogs as promptly as possible. They said more than 1,500 licenses should be issued here this year, but that fewer than 100 had been issued late in the week.

It was pointed out that revenues from the licenses are used to maintain the modern and clean animal shelter on East Wall Street and to finance the operation of the dog shelter truck. A dog marshal also is on duty here.

CLUB MEETING CALLED

A called meeting of the Twentieth Century Study Club is announced for 3 p.m. Tuesday in the home of Mrs. Duke Jimerson. Regular club meetings for this month will be on February 14 and 28.

The United States produced approximately 60 per cent of the world's corn in 1948 and 1949.

SPCA officials said it is most important that owners obtain tags for their pets promptly. Certificates showing that animals have been vaccinated for rabies within the last 12 months must be presented when applying for licenses at the police station in the City Hall.

North Elementary, Latins Cop Wins

Latin American School continued to dominate both volleyball and basketball in Elementary School activity here last week.

The Latin boys downed South Elementary 15 to 2 on the hardwoods. Andres Ramirez, Abundio Reyes, and Julian Lopez had four points each.

North Elementary's boys took the measure of West by a 13 to 4 count in basketball. Preston Bridgewater was high with 8 points.

In volleyball the Latin girls turned back South Elementary in two out of three games and North took West two out of three.

North Elementary P-TA Invites Public To Hear Review

Parents especially are invited to hear the review of John Gunther's book, "Behind the Curtain," which Mrs. Frank Monroe will give at 8 p.m. Thursday under the sponsorship of the North Elementary Parent-Teacher Association, Mrs. S. M. Erskine, president, announced.

Since the book is of general interest, however, the invitation is extended to all Midland residents who would like to hear a lucid summary of the famous writer's findings on a post-war trip through Europe.

Mrs. Monroe has presented book reviews on various subjects to club and church groups here, and was requested to give this review to a wider audience after she presented it to the Twentieth Century Study Club last fall.

The North Elementary P-TA selected this program to present to the public because the book emphasizes the 1950 platform of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers, "The Citizen Child — His Destiny, a Free World."

"Behind the Curtain" is an account of Gunther's observations in a trip to the nations which are satellites of the Soviet Union, the countries between Russia and Western Europe. Nation by nation, Gunther tells of what he saw and what people living in those nations told him.

He concludes that "The world has become a two-power world, and it is in Europe that the two powers meet most sharply, with Moscow pulling one way, Washington the other." He believes the best countermeasures against Communism are internal and so will strength and harmony, rather than retaliation or even such structures as the Atlantic Pact.

The author has been represented on the best-seller lists for the last decade, beginning with "Inside Europe," then the other "Inside" books dealing with Asia, Latin America and finally the USA, and in 1948 with the moving story of his son's losing fight for life, "Death Be Not Proud." All these books have been chosen by the Book of the Month Club.

H-Bomb Is World's Most Feared Child

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK.—The world is talking about two big babies—the Bergman boy in Rome and our own little chunk of sun, the hydrogen bomb.

Both come into a divided world of deep, angry disillusionment—and divorce.

Ingrid's little lad will be only a nine-day wonder in a globe that likes to gossip about other people's public and private lives. Everybody wishes him well and he has a fine future before him.

Our own strapping boy, the hydrogen bomb, hasn't even been born yet. But he is on the way. Just when he'll arrive is the great secret—a secret that can't last.

And no baby in history will be more unwelcome. His father is fear and his mother is science, and he can't be anything but a problem child.

Tight Rope Over Death
If he turns out to be a real juvenile delinquent, well—we all will walk a tight rope over death.

Every generation begins as a prisoner of the generation that spawned it, and ends as a caretaker of the generation that brought it into being.

What can we do for this ugly, unwanted child of our despair—and how will it take care of us as time makes it older and stronger? What crib can we build even now to hold it?

As the years go on other nations will have more of these hideous offspring, and so will we, and what will we do with them all? Once the first one is let go, they all will be free, and like maddened children they will turn against their creators and destroy us. There is no blinder wrath than that of an angry child, because it knows no control.

Country Club Lists Committee Leaders

Announcement of chairman of committees for 1950 has been made by the Midland Country Club. Appointment of the new committee heads was made at the January meeting of the club officers and directors.

Edwin Stephens will head the house committee. He will be assisted by James T. Lore.

The entertainment committee will have Don Johnson as its chairman in 1950. Roy Mearns will head the tournament committee, assisted by Fred Hogan and Vann Ligon. Mearns will also be chairman of the special Professional Golf Association committee which will supervise the Texas PGA Open Golf Tournament here May 29-June 5 this year. Other members of the special committee include H. Eddie Chiles, Jr., J. P. (Bum) Gibbins, Guy Mabree, Lloyd Mackey and J. Ed Warren.

Finance And Budget
The budget and finance committee new functions under the leadership of James T. Smith who will be assisted by L. H. Anderson and Roy Mearns.

The greens committee will be headed by Fred Hogan, assisted by Lloyd Mackey. Head of the swimming pool committee is Phil Yeckel. Bruce McKague will assist Yeckel. Publicity chairmen are Bill Pomeroy, Jr., and Mrs. Bob Franklin.

Retiring 1949 committee chairmen were: W. H. Ground, house committee; Tex Carleton, entertainment committee; Paxton Howard, tournament committee; Bruce McKague, budget and finance committee, and James T. Smith, Greens committee.

MARRIAGE LICENSE
A marriage license has been issued by the county clerk to Robert Lee Hudgins and Claydene Bush.

Dish Towels Enter Fashion's Ranks

By EPSIE KINARD
NEA Fashion Editor

NEW YORK.—A raid on the nation's kitchen-towel supplies to find inexpensive dress linens has resulted in a good haul for spring and summer for budget-minded gals.

Low-cost dish toweling has been turned into high-style play dresses, thanks to the adventurous spirit of Tina Leser—the designer who went around the world last year to track down new fashion ideas. Moreover, there's enough linen crispness in a dish-towel dress to satisfy the demands of this mad-about-linen season.

One tailored redingote outfit of Miss Leser's design owes its crisp tailoring and fresh appeal to green-and-white cross-barred kitchen toweling. The extravagant cutaway of the coat reveals a solid green sundress of poplin with which it is ensembled.

Another style which comes out of the kitchen to take its place in the sun is a dress topped by a tie-on bolero. This outfit of blue-and-white-checked toweling is trimmed at pockets and sleeves of jacket with blue cotton fringe.

CLUB TO SEE FILM

The Optimist Club will see a film of the 1949 Sugar Bowl game between Oklahoma and North Carolina at its weekly meeting Tuesday noon in Hotel Scharbauer, according to Jack Chase, program chairman.

Small amounts of alfalfa hay will protect cattle from deficiency of vitamin A.

Light Bulb Keeps The Piggies Warm

DES MOINES—(AP)—Researchers of the Iowa Agriculture Experiment Station at Iowa State College say an ordinary 100-watt light bulb can prevent the loss of many early pigs during the critical first two weeks. The light bulb in a corner brooder, or an infra-red heat lamp, will help provide a warm, dry area for the litter to lie down and sleep. These lamps also will keep pigs from crowding the sow too close for heat.

Rules For A Good Marriage Should Work Both Ways

By RUTH MILLETT
NEA Staff Writer

Every time I read a "Help Your Husband to Success" article I wonder why someone doesn't write an article for men called "Help Your Wife to Success."

In order to be successful and feel successful at their jobs wives need help as much as husbands do. In fact, just about every rule laid down for women to help their husbands could as well be used by husbands to help their wives.

Rule one for wives usually is: "Give your husband plenty of appreciation and encouragement. Let him know that you believe in him." What wife wouldn't be a more successful homemaker if her husband followed that same rule in regard to her?

Rule two is almost sure to be: "Make his home life happy." Well, what about Mama's home life? It ought to be happy, too. And a woman with a grouchy or uncommunicative husband has as much trouble feeling like a successful human being as a husband with a nagging or indifferent wife.

Wife's Friends Rule three probably is: "Be an asset to him socially." Well, that ought to work both ways, too. It's a rare woman who doesn't put herself out to be charming to her husband's friends and business associates, however dull they may be. But the husband who makes no effort to be sociable to the friends of his wife that he finds boring isn't a rare bird at all.

Rule four is, of course: "Learn as much as you can about your husband's business, so that he can at least discuss it with you." But if Mama is going to listen with bated breath while Papa discusses problems, shouldn't Papa at least come out from behind his newspaper when Mama wants to talk about her day?

And so it goes. Any rule offered women as a means of helping their husbands to success can be just as soundly applied to husbands in helping their wives to be successful.

And it's high time somebody told husbands that the rules do work two ways. (All rights reserved, NEA Service, Inc.)

SAMURAI SWORDS ON SALE

TOKYO—(AP)—The Japanese samurai sword, once a trophy which could be won only in combat, now is a souvenir item. The U. S. Eighth Army Central Exchange is putting 6,000 of them on sale for occupation personnel. They'll sell for $10 on down, depending on size.

Pre-Nuptial Party Honors June Dyess

ANDREWS—June Dyess, bride-elect of Bob Snyder of Caldwell, Kan., was complimented with a pre-nuptial shower Thursday afternoon in the home of Mrs. W. A. Farmer. Hostesses with Mrs. Farmer were Mrs. J. C. Reynolds, Mrs. Sam Smith, Mrs. L. H. St. Clair, Mrs. W. C. Peoples, Mrs. M. H. Brewer, Mrs. R. C. McNett, Mrs. O. O. Barrett, Mrs. Dewey Braswell and Mrs. Bob Yancey.

Miss Dyess is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Dyess of Andrews, a 1948 graduate of Andrews High School and has been employed as clerk in the postoffice here. Snyder's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Snyder of Perry, Okla.

The bride-to-be and her mother received guests wearing gardenia corsages presented by the hostesses. Mrs. Braswell was in charge of the registry. Mrs. H. M. Oswald entertained with a reading and gifts to the honoree were presented by Marilyn McNett, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. R. C. McNett, and Ronny Nichols, small son of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Nichols, dressed as a miniature bride couple. To the strains of "Here Comes the Bride," they brought in the gifts, loaded in a cart decorated with hearts.

The Valentine theme was repeated in the refreshments served to Mrs. Lawrence Snellman, Mrs. Edwin Cook, Mrs. R. A. Thames, Mrs. R. O. Davidson, Mrs. Gerald Johnson, Mrs. Jim Underwood, Mrs. D. M. Pinnell, Mrs. J. L. Greggston, Mrs. O. M. Houndshell, Mrs. Roy Ayres, Mrs. H. M. Oswald, Mrs. J. R. Arnold, Mrs. B. W. McDaniel, Mrs. Percy Morrison, Mrs. Phil Houston, Mrs. Fronis Jones, Mrs. E. A. Nichols, Mrs. D. W. Johnston, Mrs. Eugene Brand, Mrs. M. L. Allison and Erma Jean Broom. Other friends sent gifts.

Deer With Crippled Leg Still Roaming

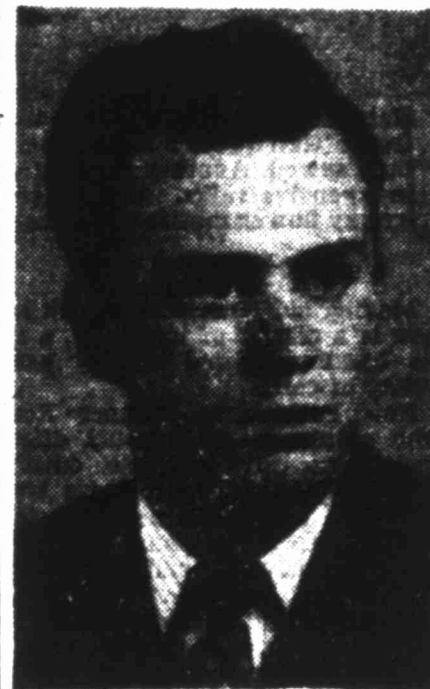

MISSOULA, MONT.—(AP)—Wild-life oddity in the Blackfoot Valley near here is "Limpy," a buck deer with a crippled hind leg. Ranchers say he was shot as a yearling six years ago. Despite the adage that only the fit survive in the wild, he has been seen each year since. Although he still has a pronounced limp, he's reported hale and hearty despite efforts of hunters, wolves and other predators.

Public Invited To Display Of West Texas Artist's Paintings

An informal gallery tour with comments on paintings by the artist will be a part of the exhibition of Cecil L. Casebier's pictures in the Palette Club Studio Sunday. His discussion of the exhibit is scheduled at 4 p.m. It will be open to the public from 3 to 9 p.m.

Casebier, who grew up in Fort Stockton and now teaches and practices painting in San Antonio, has been notified by the Texas Watercolor Society since he came to Midland Thursday that he has won the Harry Freeman Lee Memorial purchase award for a watercolor painting.

His watercolor entries have been accepted recently by the Springfield, Mass., Watercolor Society and by the Alabama Watercolor Society. His show here will include paintings in watercolor and other mediums.

Cecil L. Casebier

He is the brother of Mrs. V. C. Maley of Midland. After the display of his work Sunday, he will begin Monday a three-week class open to all interested Midland residents. The Midland Palette Club Art Center is sponsoring this Winter class as one of a series of classes by recognized teachers.

Prospective students may enroll Sunday. Members of the sponsoring club will be hostesses: Mrs. R. S. Bogardus, Mrs. George Kribbs and Mrs. F. L. Conners from 3 to 5 p.m.; Mrs. Leonard Swords, Mrs. J. M. Grimsland and Mrs. Bryan Denison from 5 to 7 p.m.; Mrs. W. L. Pierce and Mrs. A. P. Scharbauer from 7 to 9 p.m.

Casebier has explained to the class, "The purpose of this course is academic and fundamental—to learn something about color and its nature, to learn to see color where the layman fails to see it, to learn to observe things in proper proportion and perspective and above all to broaden our scope of observation and gather a greater appreciation of the things around us."

He has arranged a tentative instruction schedule, subject to change to meet students' needs. For the first class Monday at 9 a.m., he plans an orientation lecture on color and color theory; for Wednesday morning, application of color theory, and Friday morning, perspective. The same program will be followed in the night class, starting at 7:30 p.m. The Monday afternoon class beginning at 1:30 p.m. will be devoted to composition and still life arrangement; the two other classes of the week to still life drawing and painting in oil and watercolor.

Second Week In the second week, morning and night classes will concern still life, composition, drawing and painting. The afternoon subject will be flower painting and use of the painting knife.

Morning and night classes of the third week will be spent drawing from a model, with study of proportion of heads, full figure and anatomy. Portrait painting in oil, pastel or charcoal will occupy the afternoon periods.

Saturday mornings from 10 to 11 a.m. Casebier will give general criticism of work done during the week and suggestions for framing pictures.

Home Demonstration School Is Concluded

A two-day training school for home demonstration agents of this district was concluded here Friday. Frances L. Reasonover, assistant food and nutrition specialist with the Texas A&M College Extension Service, was in charge.

She will conduct a training school at Pecos Tuesday and Wednesday. Attending the school were Mrs. Hattie G. Owen of Odessa, Eugenia H. Butler of Big Spring, Mildred L. Chapman of Stanton and Myrna Holman of Rankin.

The "most beautiful" co-eds will be picked at an afternoon coffee in Baylor's Union Building. The 16 candidates were selected by the student body.

In addition to Miss Theis, the other beauties are: Florine Ganze, Dallas; Liz Lyons, San Antonio; Marion McCutcheon, Fayette, Mo.; Laurie Simpson, Tulsa, Okla.; Hester Curl, San Antonio; Margie Denison, Cameron; Minette Williams, San Antonio; LaJewel Brister, Corpus Christi; Charlotte Purrh, Mineral Wells; Elizabeth Hood, Belzoni, Miss.; Joyce Matzka, Houston; Patsy Barfield, New Boston; Geraldine Guderian, Waco; Helen Love Smith, Winters; Annetta Wortham, Galveston.

Students Wed January 14, Visit Parents

The marriage of two college students, Betty Lou Harper of Texas State College for Women, Denton, and J. R. Powell of Southern Methodist University, Dallas, was announced when the couple visited their parents between semesters last week. They were married on January 14.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. James G. Harper, 707 North Carrizo Street, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Powell of Odessa. They returned to their schools, where both are senior students, Saturday after a brief visit in their parents' homes.

Dr. Glenn C. McGee, minister, officiated for the wedding in the First Presbyterian Church of Ardmore, Okla. The couple's attendants were their college roommates, Mary G. Louissena was the maid of honor and Bill Roach the best man. Both are from Roswell, N.M.

Wearing a brown gabardine suit with a gold hat and brown accessories, the bride had an orchid corsage.

She is a graduate of the Austin High School and her college clubs are Alpha Lambda Delta, Sigma Tau Delta and the James H. Lowrey Club. Powell, a graduate of San Angelo High School, is a law student at SMU and expects to receive his degree at the close of this term.

McCamey March Of Dimes Completed

MCCAMEY — A Western dance Saturday night in the McCamey Park Building brought the Upton County March of Dimes campaign to a close.

The Western-style dance was given in lieu of the annual formal dances of past years. The Lyles Square Dance Band of Crane furnished the music for the dance.

Admission prices were set at $1.50 per couple and $1 per person. A floor show under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hester of Crane was the feature attraction of the evening.

The March of Dimes campaign drive had netted more than $1,000 prior to the dance. A party at the Rankin Park Building earlier in the week had produced $400 for the drive.

Midlander To Enter Teaching Profession

SAN MARCOS—Joe Ed Boatright of Midland is among the more than 2,000 students at Southwest Texas State Teachers College, most of whom will enter the nation's most critical occupation—that of teaching in the public schools.

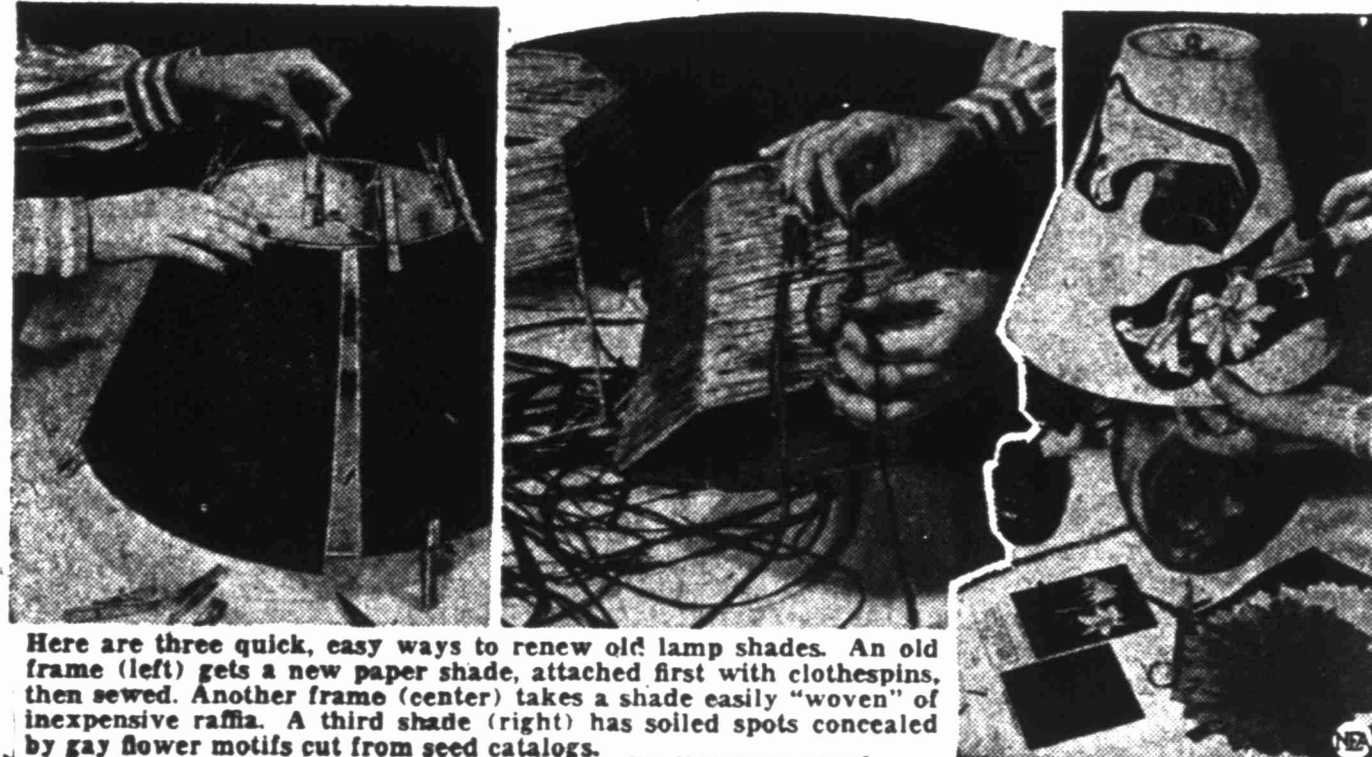

This expanded teacher-training program is a part of the efforts of the college to help overcome the war-born scarcity of teachers.

On the basis of figures recently compiled, 88 per cent of the students who will graduate from the San Marcos school will teach in the public schools in Texas.

Aladdin's Magic With Lamps Makes Shades Good As New

Here are three quick, easy ways to renew old lamp shades. An old frame (left) gets a new paper shade, attached first with clothespins, then sewed. Another frame (center) takes a shade easily "woven" of inexpensive raffia. A third shade (right) has soiled spots concealed by gay flower motifs cut from seed catalogs.

NEA Staff Writer

Making old lamp shades look like new is a matter of ingenuity, a little handwork, and a very small outlay of cash.

New York lamp designer Rosti, who custom-makes unusual effects for an exclusive clientele, outlines four quick, easy, inexpensive ways to revive wilted shades. He tells you how to paint, weave, or put a brand-new shade on an old frame.

If the shade to be remodeled is in fair shape, but spotted, save it by pasting motifs over the soiled area. Decorative motifs come courtesy of any seed catalogue. Cut out the most colorful blooms in the catalog, brush the back of each with vegetable glue and paste over soiled spots. Then give the entire shade a protective coat of clear varnish.

A shade which won't clean easily can be transformed with paint, water colors, oils, or enamel. Choose a color which picks up a bright tone in the room, if you like. Un-even brush strokes can be used to create an interesting effect when you switch on the light. If you want a really rich glow from your lamp shade, use oil paint. Buy small tubes of black, Van Dyke brown, chrome green, yellow, and gilt paint. Mix these colors right on the shade with your paint brush. You'll get an expensive-looking mottled tortoise effect which you can heighten by using a strip of gilt paint, or solid cellophane tape, applied at top and bottom of the shade. Cover with clear varnish again.

Weaving with raffia, which is inexpensive and available in decorator colors, is another way to

Liquid Sachet Lingers Long

By ALICIA HART
NEA Staff Writer

A new version of sachet powder is a creamy liquid sachet meant only for skin application.

Because liquid sachet was a very slow rate of diffusion and evaporation, it's particularly recommended by the makers to women who think perfume does not last long enough on their skins.

Liquid sachet is simply a different perfume medium. It's used in

This girl smooths on a new liquid skin sachet for long-lasting scent. exactly the same way that perfume is used: on the pulse points. Try smoothing it inside wrists, at the temples, at the side of the neck, even behind the knees, wherever the heat of the body tends to bring out fragrance.

Women with sensitive skin will find liquid sachet soothing. It's not greasy and can't stain garments with which it comes in contact.

If you use a powdered sachet to perfume lingerie and hankies in dresser drawers, it is wise to use a liquid sachet of the same scent on the skin to avoid a clash of fragrance.

her daughter of a Rainbow pin signifying the assembly's appreciation for her service as worthy advisor. Miss Burnside was presented a merit bar and seven service bars by her father, L. R. Burnside.

Miss Bredlove gave a reading, "Love," and Mary Neill ended the program with a vocal solo, "My Rainbow." Mrs. Clyde Hambleton, mother advisor of the assembly, gave the benediction.

Refreshments were served to the members and guests at a table centered with a red runner, red berries and leaves on an oval reflector. Napkins were lettered with the name of the new worthy advisor. Each guest was given a tiny Bible, with red cover, which listed the theme and colors of the new officers' term.

In 1930, the United States had only 8,000 automobiles.

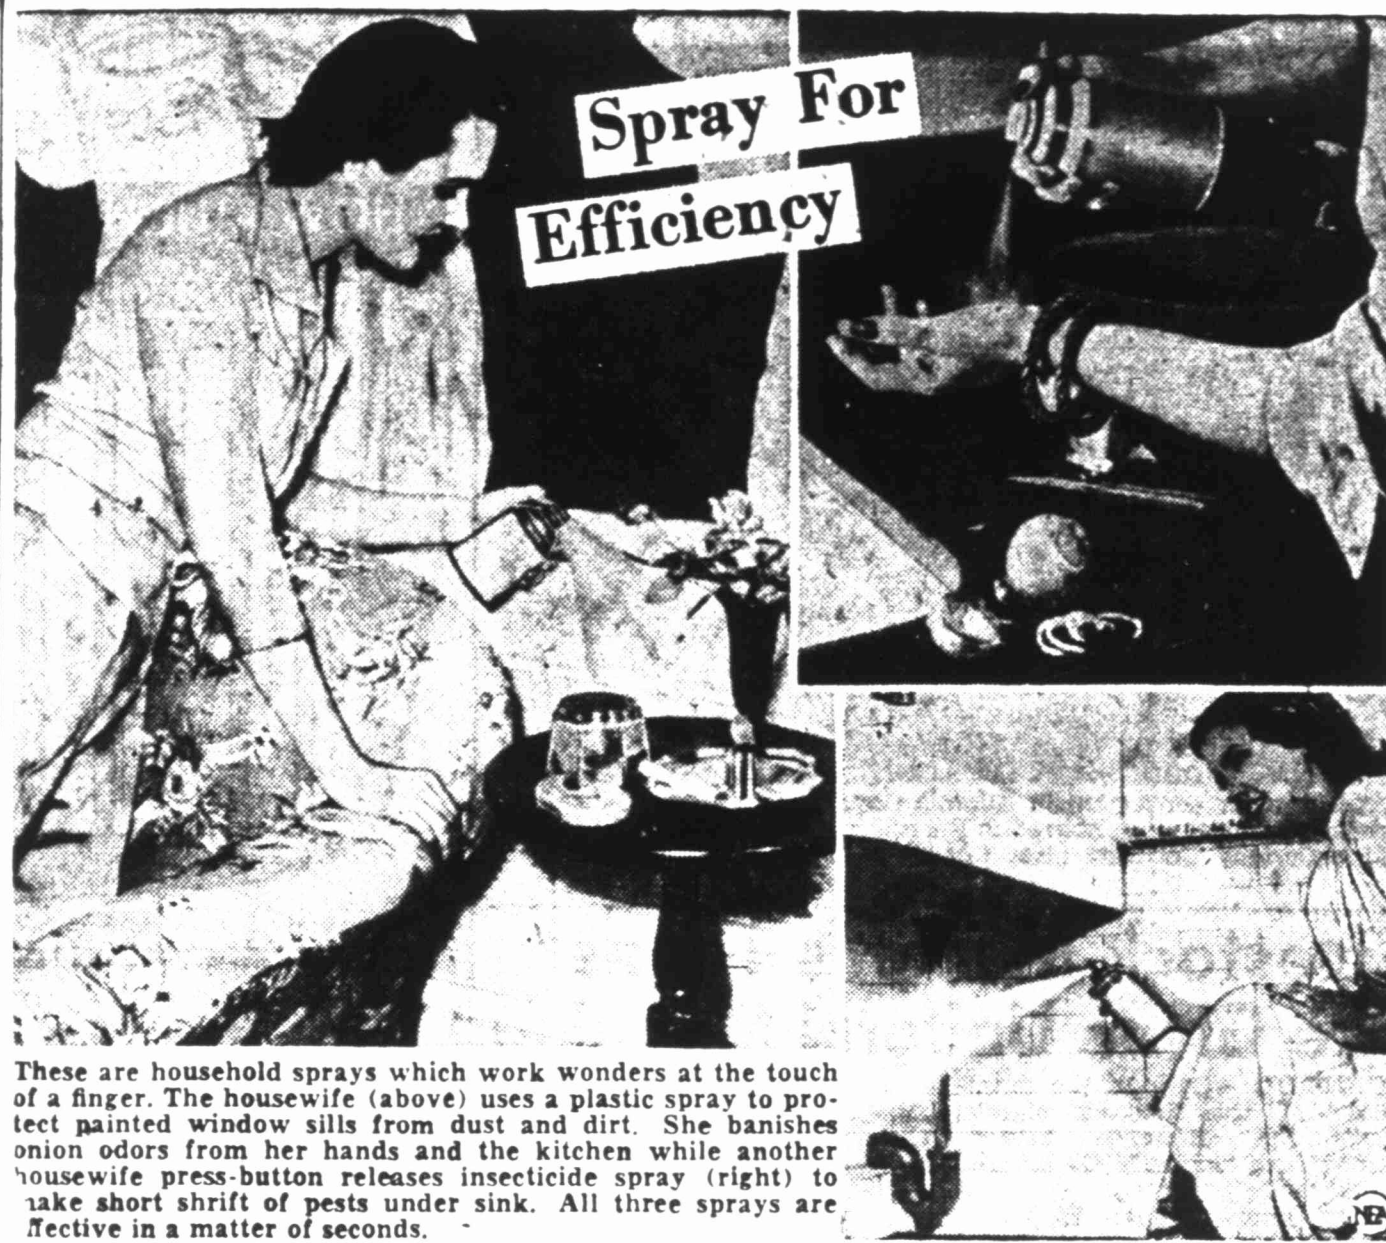

Bob Yancy, Bride Living In Andrews

ANDREWS—Mr. and Mrs. Bob Yancy are at home in Andrews after their marriage Monday in Lovington, N. M. She is the former Anita Terry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest D. Jones of Andrews and his mother is Mrs. Ida Yancy of Ozona.

The couple was married in the parsonage of the First Methodist Church in Lovington with the Rev. J. Houston reading the ceremony. Erma Gene Broom and Arnold Slack of Andrews were the only attendants.

The bride wore a beige suit, brown accessories and a corsage of yellow jonquills. Miss Broom wore a brown ensemble and a pink carnation corsage.

Before 1921, there were few mechanical refrigerators in domestic use.

These are household sprays which work wonders at the touch of a finger. The housewife (above) uses a plastic spray to protect painted window sills from dust and dirt. She banishes onion odors from her hands and the kitchen while another housewife press-button releases insecticide spray (right) to take short shrift of pests under sink. All three sprays are effective in a matter of seconds.

By GAILE DUGAS

NEA Staff Writer

Push-buttons which help to run a house now are heading for the home in spray-type containers. The super-charged mist which one container releases gives insects the permanent knockout treatment in a few seconds and kills them from a distance of 20 feet. Used either for space spraying to kill flying pests or to control roaches and other crawling insects, this insecticide is bad medicine for flies, ants, fleas, moths, gnats, silverfish, waterbugs, and spiders. The spray contrivance makes the liquid killer easy to get into floor cracks, wall crevices, behind sinks, stoves, cabinets, and refrigerators.

The plastic spray, another handy helper, is almost as useful to have around as a maid-of-all-work. It can be used to prolong the life of painted surfaces and to protect brass, silver and copper. Plastic spraying from a handy can dusts, polishes and shines painted wood, iron, steel and chrome. The coating makes it possible just to wipe off painted window sills, instead of laboriously scrubbing at surfaces. The spraying also will keep fireplace accessories bright and shiny and do as much in preserving the shine on fishing tackle or metal toys. The plastic finish is fast-drying and long-lasting.

Effective for a 12-month period unless it is removed by dry cleaning or washing, a moth-proofing in a spray-type can will protect woolen garments, drapes, blankets, carpets, and upholstered furniture from the ravages of moths.

This spray, which mothproofs a woman's suit in a couple of minutes, is guaranteed not to stain or discolor woolen fabrics. Clothes on which it is used need not be cleaned before spraying but should be thoroughly brushed before treatment.

A deodorizer, sprayed from a can onto the cook's hands takes onion-peeling off the list of unpleasant KP duties. In addition, it clears cooking and smoking scents quickly from any apartment or house.

Women's Golf Class Will Start At Club

Golf instruction for a class of women beginners will be given by J. C. Hardwick, golf pro at the Midland Country Club, it is announced by Mrs. Herschel Ezell, golf chairman of the Ladies Golf Association.

Women who wish to join the class are asked to enroll with Mrs. Ezell, Hardwick or Mrs. Vann Ligon, president of the Golf Association. Plans are to start the instruction this week, at times to be decided for the convenience of members. There will probably be a morning and an afternoon class, Mrs. Ezell said.

Wednesday Club Designates Month For Memorial Books

The annual designation of February as Memorial Book Month for the Midland County Library has been made by the Woman's Wednesday Club, which sponsors this annual emphasis on gifts of memorial books as a part of its long-time assistance to the library.

Club members urge residents of the county to present books as memorials to friends or relatives, whether or not the person memorialized lived here.

A number of books have been received by the Midland County Library recently as memorials and have been placed on the Memorial Shelf.

The following books have been given in memory of Mrs. T. Paul Barron: "Home Book of Bible Quotations," Burton Stevenson, given by Mrs. Grace Wallace; "Literature for Oral Interpretation," M. Comper, given by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fasken; "Women in the Old Testament," Norah Loft, given by Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Preston, Sr.; "Peabody Sisters of Salem," Tharp, given by Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Yeager and Wilbur Yeager; and "The World's Great Madonnas," Maur, given by the Althean Sunday School Class of the First Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Cummings have given "Lead Kindly Light," Vincent Sheehan, in memory of Mrs. Susan Cole.

"Webster's Geographical Dictionary" has been given by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fasken in memory of Drew Campbell.

In memory of S. S. Stinson, the following books have been given: "Oil Property Valuation," Paine, given by Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Arick and Ann Arick; "The Indians of the Southwest," E. E. Dale, given by Mrs. Mary Gatlin; "Oil Boom," Boyce House, given by Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Yeager; and "Oil Titan of the Southwest," C. C. Rister, given by the Kimberlin family.

An autobiography, "Rise to Follow," Albert Spaulding, has been given by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fasken in memory of Mrs. Grace McClure.

In memory of Daisy Hayes, Cynthia and Miriam Parkinson have given "The Travels of Babar" and "Zim's Rabbits," both by Brunhoff. "Some Southwestern Trails," E. Haley, has been given in memory of Ed B. Rountree by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fasken.

A special plate giving the name of the person memorialized and the donor of the book is placed on the flyleaf of each volume in the library's Memorial Section.

Wish Comes True For Little Karen In Telephone Call

HOUSTON—(P)—Sometimes the wish in wishful thinking comes true. It did for a seven-year-old girl who hasn't long to live.

Friday, Beva Karen Rippetoe, Bronte, Texas, tot who has an incurable form of cancer, talked by long distance telephone to Roy Rogers, cowboy motion picture star.

And that was part of her wishful thinking.

Rogers called the girl when he found out she wanted—very badly—to see and talk to him. But she couldn't make the trip here where he is appearing at the Houston Pat Stock Show.

Karen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Rippetoe, have been told by specialists at Mayo Clinic that the child has neuroblastoma, an incurable form of cancer.

Rogers sang a song just for Karen and said if he ever got the chance he'd come to West Texas to see her.

"You know," he remarked after he said goodbye, "a person may think he has trouble until he runs into something like this."

Week's Permits Up Total To $839,945

Building permits issued during the week ended Saturday amounted to $65,450, to bring the total for the year to $839,945.

Water Strike

To water-short New Yorkers the finding of a new water supply is cause for rejoicing. Here, officials of the Ambassador Hotel are all smiles as they watch workers tap an old, unused well in the hotel's basement. The spring was used by a brewery once located on the site.

small TALK

By SUE COLEMAN

A couple of the home-town girls came in for frank praise from Paul Baker, the Baylor dramatic department head who spoke at the Community Theater membership dinner Monday night. He mentioned the excellent work at the University Playhouse of Billy Jean Jones, who received her degree with a major in dramatics at Baylor in November, and shortly afterward became Mrs. Bruce Griffiths and left for New Haven, Conn., and of Virginia Dungan, who was with the Baylor Players last Summer and is now a student in Hardin-Simmons University at Abilene—and acting there, too. Baker said he was looking around Midland for more talent like theirs while he was here.

Notice to P. E. O. members—Your organization is one that people inquire about often, because it is one of the national women's societies not so well known in the Southwest and because people wonder what the initials stand for. A man telephoned the other day to say that his curiosity had gotten the better of him; he'd read and read about P. E. O. and couldn't tell what the letters meant; would we please tell him whether it was a branch of the P-TA or what? Dunno why the masculine curiosity, but we had to tell him the name is a secret we don't know, either.

Whatever it means, the P. E. O. members had one of the prettiest teas of the Winter Friday and Joan Ingram, helping as a hostess, said to be sure and mention that "Mrs. Tom L. Ingram of San Angelo was among those present." Actually, Joan and Tom didn't leave for San Angelo until Saturday, but their belongings had been shipped down ahead of them.

They visited around with friends after their furniture was packed and were bidden goodbye with a rush of parties which were all mixed up with stork showers for Joan, who is being sent off to her new home with a multitude of good wishes. They hope they'll be moving back to Midland before the year is out.

House plans, decorating schemes and furniture designs surround Viola Lindeblad these days, while she is planning all the details of a new home. The house, still in the planning stage, is her first thought but she is looking ahead to the decorative schemes which she is to work out, and the furniture she will have to add to the pieces that suffice while she is an apartment dweller.

Freida Shaky and Mildred Goodman were comparing their golf scores in a chat at a recent club party, but Addie Penn was replying enthusiastically in the affirmative to somebody's question, "Have you got your box seats yet?" It was obvious that the reference was to the baseball season, addressed to an Indian fan.

Clever verses which announced Lafara Harrison's engagement to Ray Phillips of McCombs brought chuckles from the guests at the announcement tea Saturday. They were the poetical efforts of Reta Beight, recounting the inter-city courtship that led up to plans for an early Spring wedding.

The party was at Mrs. J. S. Griffith's home, and Lafara thinks it was downright thoughtful of her hostess to have had her dining room chairs upholstered in pink a short time ago. Although at the time, Mrs. Griffith didn't know Lafara was going to pick pink and green for her wedding colors, or that the chairs would fit so well into a party color scheme. They looked like part of the decoration.

And speaking of pink chairs, you simply can't overlook them in the new high school auditorium. With the seats in pink and all the rose drapes and stage curtains, the color scheme there just naturally is reminiscent of a French boudoir but a little oversize. Pretty, anyhow.

On one of last week's chilly, foggy days, Nina Kribbs was looking vaguely uncomfortable walking along a downtown street muffled to the ears in coat collar, scarf and down-pulled hat brim, and Mrs. C. H. Shepard waved cheerfully from the driver's seat of her car, cozy in a red coat that added a bright note to the gray day.

P-TA Over Nation To Honor Founders

CHICAGO—The fifty-third anniversary of the founding of the National Congress of Parents and Teachers will be observed February 17, by P-TA's throughout the country, with special Founders Day meetings and programs.

Mrs. L. W. Hughes of Arlington, Tenn., Founders Day chairman and immediate past president of the organization, said ceremonies will honor the memory of Alice McElwain Birney and Phoebe Apperson Hearst, co-founders.

The National Congress of Parents and Teachers was organized Feb. 17, 1897, at a convention of 5,000 persons in Washington, D. C., to work for what is now called parent education and the "welfare of children and youth in home, school, church, and community."

The organization, originally known as the National Congress of Mothers, grew rapidly. In 1908 the name was changed to the National Congress of Mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations, and in 1924 to the National Congress of Parents and Teachers. There are now branches in every state and territory, and more than 33,000 local units. Membership exceeds 5,774,000. The theme of the present administration under the presidency of Mrs. John E. Hayes of Twin Falls, Idaho, is "The Citizen Child: His Destiny, a Free World."

P-TA Study Group At Terminal Meets

Mrs. J. V. Gunn, led a discussion on "Sex Education for Intermediate Children" at the Terminal Parent-Teacher Association Study Group meeting Thursday night in the home of Mrs. M. G. Burgess. It was announced that the next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. February 9 with Mrs. Neal VanFosson. Others attending the Thursday meeting were Mrs. Ralph Skelton, Mrs. J. E. Matlock and Mrs. T. McElligott.

'Howdy, Tinho'

Livestock Market's Terms Are Given Uniform Meaning

CHICAGO —P— In the terminology of the livestock market, what's the difference between "strong" and "higher"? Or between "weak" and "lower"? Those phrases appear frequently in livestock market news issued daily by the news service of the Department of Agriculture. So do such terms as "uneven," "slow" and "incomplete clearance," among others.

What do they mean? And do they mean the same thing to the man reporting the market at Denver as at Indianapolis?

The Agriculture Department has set up a system to give these market terms a uniform meaning—the first time this has been attempted in 35 years, according to E. J. Rowell of the Washington office of the department's production and marketing administration.

"The use of these terms in describing trade conditions should result in a better understanding and a more uniform interpretation of market reports by producers, traders and others," the department says.

All reports now are divided into five categories—supply, demand, activity, price trends and quotations, and clearance.

Supply refers to that quantity of product available for the current day's market. Demand represents "the desire to possess a commodity, coupled with the willingness and ability to buy." The department adds that demand is not used unless an unusual situation exists in the market.

Relative Rapidity Activity is the relative rapidity with which sales are being made.

It's divided into three parts—active, moderate and slow. The market is active when buyers are urgently seeking supplies; moderate when trading is about normal and slow when buyers are selecting supplies very carefully.

In the price trends and quotations section, the department divides the market into six classifications, each with a different meaning—higher, strong, steady, weak, lower and uneven.

Higher is used when prices for the bulk of sales are measurably higher than in the previous period. Strong is used when there is a definite leaning toward an upward price change, but this advance is not measurable. Some sales have been made at higher prices, but there is no advance on the bulk of sales.

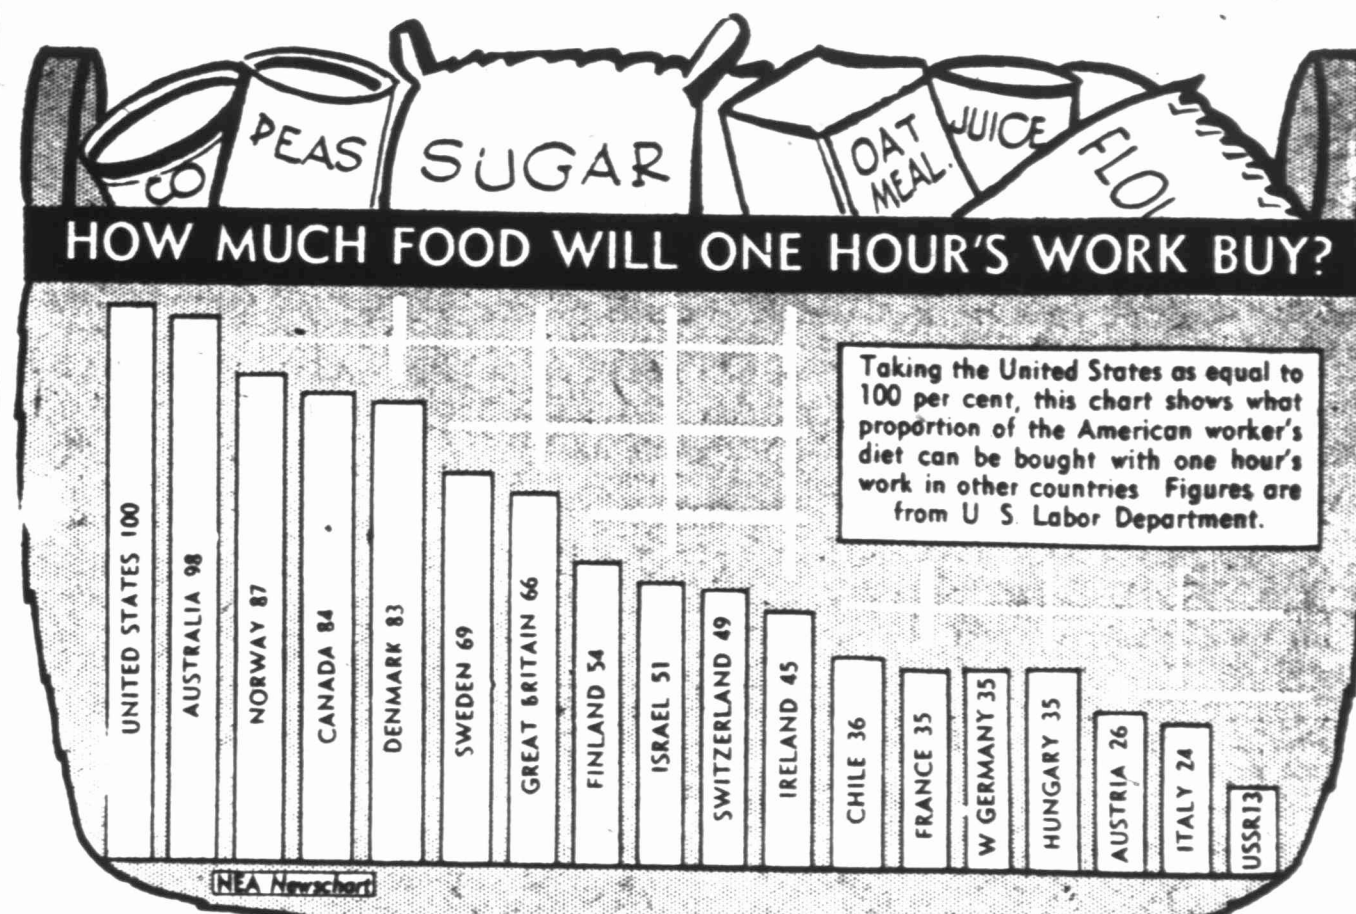

Steady applies when there are no changes, weak when there is a definite but unmeasurable leaning toward reduced prices and lower sale prices for the bulk of sales are measurably lower as compared with the previous period.

Above Normal Sales Uneven, a tricky classification, is used when there are substantially more than the normal volume of sales outside the quoted price range.

Clearance refers to how well supplies are taken. It's either "complete"—meaning all offerings have been bought—or "incomplete"—meaning some offerings were not sold.

Thus, in the Chicago hog market for January 25, the department first listed the number of hogs for sale. That was the supply picture. Nothing was mentioned about demand because there was nothing unusual in it. Then came the price quotation—uneven, 25 to 30 cents higher. Prices were higher with a substantially more than normal volume of sales outside the quoted price range. The market closed "active"—meaning buyers urgently sought supplies—and there was a "broad early clearance"—meaning all hogs offered were bought early in the session.

Gives Color Television A Whirl

With an outlay of 30 cents, Forrest W. Kelly, above, 27-year-old electrician of Roselle, N. J., rigged up his television set to receive experimental color telecasts. Kelly surrounded the TV experts with the three-color cellophane wheel, powered by an old phonograph motor, which turned his black-and-white receiver into a full-color set, making him perhaps the only citizen in the U. S. except President Truman to receive television in color.

Meetings Here Will Launch Programs Of Clubs' Conventions

Definite program plans for two April club conventions will get under way at meetings scheduled in Midland within the next two weeks. One convention is that of District One, Texas Garden Clubs, Inc., to be held here April 14 and 15 with the six garden clubs of Midland as hostesses. The other is the annual meeting of Eighth District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, which will convene in Big Spring April 20-22.

Preparations to be made locally for the garden club convention will be outlined when Mrs. Albert Morrow of Morton, district president, visits the Midland clubs Wednesday and Thursday. Members of the Garden Club Council, which includes representatives from the six clubs, and convention chairmen named recently by Mrs. J. D. Dillard, general chairman, will meet with her Wednesday night in Mrs. Dillard's home.

Mrs. Morrow will be complimented with a coffee Thursday morning in Mrs. Ralph Lowe's home. Council members will be hostesses, and members of all the city's garden clubs and the new Stanton Garden Club are invited. Mrs. Joe Koesler is in charge of decorations and Mrs. I. E. Daniel of refreshments.

Mrs. James O. Simmons, Jr., of Midland is district program chairman for the federated club convention and will work with Mrs. H. M. Jarrett of Big Spring, local program chairman, and Mrs. Joseph Best of Wink, district president, in making plans. They are to meet in Mrs. Simmons' home February 15 for the planning session.

Mrs. F. L. Gehr, district secretary, and Mrs. J. P. Holle, district publicity chairman, are to attend the meeting also, as will the general convention chairman from Big Spring.

Mrs. Best has announced that the convention theme will be "Building Better Communities," and that Mrs. J. Howard Hodge of Midland, new president of the Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, will speak at the President's Dinner which will open the convention. A speaker for the annual Fine Arts program is to be selected, and other program details will be decided when the group meets here.

Humane Method Of Destruction Claimed

LOS ANGELES —(AP)—The City Animal Regulation Department has devised what it believes is the most humane method for destroying animals.

Richard L. Bonner, manager, said the system works on the principle that a reduction in air pressure causes a decrease in the amount of oxygen carried in the blood. Without oxygen, he said, there is first a loss of sensation and consciousness and finally the heart stops. The department already has a pressure chamber unit operating.

Bonner said the method stems from altitude tests given pilots. Aviators who underwent pressure chamber tests, he said, described the loss of consciousness when oxygen is reduced as painless.

World Airlift Is Main Job Of MATS

Map above shows what the MATS—Military Air Transport Service—does when it isn't flying the "Berlin Airlift." Although Red blockade threats keep it over alert to resume the Berlin lifeline, MATS normally operates a global airline with 900 planes and a chain of 750 stations, ranging from large air bases to tiny outposts. With its top headquarters in Washington, MATS operates three major air transport divisions—Atlantic, Pacific and Continental. The Atlantic Division is based at Westover, Mass., the Pacific Division at Hawaii, and the Continental Division at San Antonio, Texas. All told, MATS flies over 70,000 miles of air routes.

Gables Win Battle In Bremen, Germany

BREMEN, GERMANY —(AP)—Every once in a while the Germans show signs of rebellion against the bureaucracy that has plagued them since long before Adolf Hitler's days. That makes American occupation officials happy.

A case that encouraged the Americans was Bremen's "battle of the gables." The Bremen Board for Control of Building Affairs decided that new buildings in the business district should not have gabled roofs. A lively public discussion followed, with Bremen's architects, art experts and ordinary citizens protesting.

Carl Ronning, a coffee merchant, defied orders and built a gabled roof. Authorities ordered him to tear it down. That really stirred up public reaction. And the ban on gables was rescinded.

Through the aid of camera-equipped rockets, we soon may see the other side of the moon.

Fire Makes Phone Delay Expensive

RUSH, N. Y. —(AP)—"Please let me use the phone so I can report a fire," farmer William Yahn shouted to users of his party line. "We're talking and you'll just have to wait, Yahn," said one of the women on the line told him. Yahn said his alarm was delayed five minutes. Flames had all but leveled both his barns when firemen arrived.

Juggler Finds Lunch Plates Not His Dish

CHICAGO —(AP)—John Ramone, who likes to juggle in his spare time, tossed three dinner plates into the air. He deftly caught No. 1 in one hand and No. 2 in the other. The No. 3 dish landed on his forehead. After the wound was closed with three stitches, he commented: "Well, it always worked with rubber balls."

Molyneux Takes Play Clothes To Paris

These American play clothes will have a fashion whirl in Europe. Picked by Captain Edward Molyneux as one of the models taken back to Paris to "copy up" for his couture trade, the linen golf dress (left) combines windbreaker jacket of beige with wrap-around skirt of deeper tan. The accordion-pleated dress, of thin worsted white jersey (center) has elasticized bodice and white leather belt. The cabana dress (right) with accordion pleated skirt of beige jersey has string-wrapped top of elasticized white jersey.

"copied up" for his custom-order clients in both Paris and London houses. Two of Molyneux's choices are styles which may help to banish proxy tennis and golf dresses from the courts and links of France. England and the U. S. A. One choice is a McCordell-designed golf dress of linen which combines a beige-colored windbreaker jacket with a light brown wrap-around skirt that stops at the knee. Two rows of dark brown buttons on the waistbands of both jacket and skirt double up to make an impressive display of four rows around the middle. Pockets on jacket and skirt are almost big enough to carry a lady golfer's clubs. The other Molyneux choice was a tennis dress of sheer white worsted jersey, accordion pleated from its small high collar to the hem of its fan-like skirt. Besides being belted for control at the waistline with white patent leather, this dress is held in place through the bodice by elastic bands. The most popular tube in the U. S.—one of elasticized knit that makes swim suits and sportswear tops—was chosen by Molyneux in both guises. A tubular swimsuit of chartreuse woolknit is accompanied by a big triangular-shaped beach cape of multi-color striped tapestry cotton. An elasticized tube with top of off-white jersey makes the bodice for a cabana dress of beige jersey with an accordion-pleated skirt. Spaghetti strings on the bodice of this dress criss-cross through tiny brass rings. The other two choices which the French designer liked and bought — giving a reverse twist to a familiar fashion story — included a broomstick-pleated cotton jacket with a cotton-checked bathing suit beneath it and an ensemble which combined a woolknit jacket and Miss McCordell's famous diaper-styled swim suit.

Midland, Georgia, Situated In Rich Farming Region, Is Delightful Community

By ADA LEE JENKINS
Midland, Ga.
(Third of a series.)

MIDLAND, GA.—Named for the Georgia Midland, the first train to go through the town, Midland, Georgia, was established in 1888. The Georgia Midland train ran from Columbus to Atlanta. The line later was purchased by the Southern Railway.

One of the most delightful communities in Georgia, Midland is located 10 miles north of Columbus, Ga., in Muscogee County, on Highway 85. Midland is about 40 miles south of the "Little White House" at Warm Springs.

Agriculture is the leading industry of the town, which had a population of 107 persons in 1940, but which has had a large growth in recent years. Midland is situated in the heart of a rich farming region, with fruits and vegetables being the leading crops. Red clay and gray soils predominate throughout the area.

Cattle And Timber

The cattle business also is an important industry as is timber raising.

Many Midland citizens are affiliated with business firms in Columbus and commute back and forth daily. It is a favorite residential spot, offering peaceful, comfortable and most pleasant living conditions.

Midland, Ga., has a post office, rural route, Methodist Church, Baptist Church, Masonic lodge, branch library, excellent school facilities, physician's office, several grocery stores and many beautiful homes, all served with gas and electricity. All city streets are paved.

Several well-stocked privately owned lakes are situated in the vicinity, and there is a large county park, open to the public, between Midland and Columbus.

This small Georgia community truly is an ideal place in which to reside.

Today, scattered throughout the nation are many of Midland's sons and daughters who have gained success and prominence in the business and professional world.

Midlanders are proud of their little city and of its citizenry.

George McEntire To Address Church Men

George H. (Little George) McEntire, Jr., veteran Midland aviator, aviation enthusiast and former test pilot, will be the principal speaker at the regular February meeting of Presbyterian Men of Midland at 6:30 p.m. Thursday in the church's Fellowship Hall. Ernest Sidwell is program chairman.

"Safety In Test Piloting" will be the subject of McEntire's address. He served several years as a test pilot on the West Coast during and following World War II. He is a recognized authority on matters pertaining to aviation.

Committees to nominate officers for 1950-51 will be appointed at the session.

Dinner will be served by Women of the Church.

Prayers At Holy Stairs

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

Double wedding at the turn of the century, and a double golden wedding anniversary at midcentury was the unique experience of these two couples of North Royalton, Ohio. They are Halbert and Harry Cartwright, brothers, who married Jennie and Ethel Baird, sisters. The picture is a study in wedding costumes of 50 years ago. For the men, stiff wing collars and white ties, black two-button cutaways, and at the vest of each a heavy gold watch chain and fob. For the brides, white frilly gowns, floor-length, stiffly incurred at the waistline, with long sleeves and many ruffles, white high-topped shoes with bows. Brides are demure, as is the custom with brides, and the bridegrooms look slightly frightened, even as bridegrooms today.

DREW PEARSON ON The WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

(Copyright, 1950, By The Bell Syndicate, Inc.)
Drew Pearson says: Republican-Dixiecrat coalition killed civil rights program; GOP outsmarted in public power deal; Why not retire surplus five-star officers?

WASHINGTON—It seems a far cry from the civil rights issue in the South to the public power question in Montana, but the story has just leaked out as to how a coalition of Republicans and Dixiecrats killed the civil rights program in the Senate a year ago.

The deal was engineered by the Montana Power and Light Company, and illustrates how certain GOP maneuverings between elections help to lose elections on election day.

Key figures in this historic deal—discreetly referred to as a "voting arrangement"—were smooth, shrewd Senator Dick Russell of Georgia; Nebraska's gregarious Senator Ken Wherry, the GOP floor leader; and Jack Corlette of Montana Power and Light, who coached the anti-public power team in the Senate.

The first "contact" was made when Senator Russell approached Corlette. Senator Russell, of Montana last March, at which time the Senate was fighting over a cloture rule aimed at stopping a civil rights filibuster.

Eaton then called in Wherry and Wherry pledged enough Republican votes to override a President Alben Barkley's anti-filibuster rule—provided Russell would deliver Southern votes to beat a government plan to run a transmission line from the government's Kerr Dam to Anacostia, Mont. Montana Power and Light wanted to run these transmission lines and was opposed vigorously to government operation.

Result of all this was that Wherry delivered 19 votes to Russell. Russell—although it should be stated that some GOP senators did not know of the "voting arrangement." Those who voted with the South to doom the civil rights program are: Bricker, Ohio; Bridges, N. H.; Butler, Neb.; Cain, Wash.; Capehart, Ind.; Cordon, Ore.; Donnell, Mo.; Eaton, Mont.; Gurney, S. D.; Hickenlooper, Iowa; Jenner, Ind.; Kem, Mo.; Langer, N. D.; Malone, Nev.; Millikin, Colo.; Reed, Kans.; Schoepfel, Kans.; Thyne, Minn.; Vandenberg, Mich.; Watkins, Utah; Wherry, and Young, N. D. Republicans Outsmarted.

Actually, the Republicans and the utility crowd had the worst of the bargain, for Russell delivered only six votes in return. For, by the time the appropriation for the Kerr-Anacostia line came before the Senate in August, the deal had been discovered by three inquisitive pro-public power senators: Alabama's Lister Hill, hearty Bob Kerr of Oklahoma, and fiery Wayne Morse of Oregon.

At the time the three senators made their discovery, power mogul Corlette and Senator Wherry had the votes to beat the transmission line. But a special emergency meeting was called quickly by the public power senators in an unmarked room a few feet from the Senate chamber.

Oscar Chapman, then undersecretary of the interior, and White House Assistant Charlie Murphy rushed up to the meeting and a new strategy was outlined. Alabama's Hill persuaded Southern senators to be absent when the Kerr-Anacostia line came up. He reminded them they had only promised not to vote for a government power line. But they were not pledged to vote. Oregon's Morse urged the same "absent" strategy on moderate Republicans.

Result: The government transmission line was approved. Only six Southern senators were on hand to vote against it—Byrd, Va.; Elender, La.; Holland, Fla.; McClellan, Ark.; Robertson, Va.; and Russell.

Note 1—Republican failure to vote for cloture against a civil rights filibuster probably will cost the Grand Old Party more Northern votes in the next half dozen years than any other single issue.

Note 2—Despite the conniving of Montana Power and Light against a part of the Truman program which the President has stated to be crucial, Secretary of Defense Johnson endeavored to appoint Curtis Calder, head of the parent company, for Montana Power and Light, to be secretary of the Army. This is one reason why some senators wonder whether the White House always wonders what it says.

Truman's GOP Lady Friend

After President Truman's belting speech to the National Defense Conference, Senator Margaret Chase Smith, the gracious lady from Maine, leaned over to her colleague, Senator Owen Brewster, also from Maine, and remarked:

"That's just what the Republican Party needs, to humanize itself and talk with the people, like Harry Truman does."

Five-Star Officers

The Senate Appropriations Committee is about to ask why the Army and Navy don't retire their surplus five-star generals and admirals.

Only one still works at his job—General MacArthur. Yet only one has formerly retired—Admiral Halsey. The rest—General Marshall, General Eisenhower, Admiral King, Admiral Nimitz and Admiral Leahy—are still officially on active duty, which means that they take up valuable office space that they don't use, and are assigned office help who have nothing to do.

Actually, they would still get the same pay if they retired, for five-star officers are permitted to retire at full pay—by special act of Congress. Their total salary, incidentally, is $13,761 a year—plus an additional tax-free $5,000 expense account.

Capital News Capsules

The United States has offered a formal treaty of friendship and alliance to the Iranian government to protect it from Russia. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman presented the treaty to the Shah last week, but found the Shah so burned up at being refused American tanks for his army that he tossed the treaty onto a table, said he would look at it later.

The joint chiefs of staff have given orders to rush a shipment of 220 American tanks to the French government under the Atlantic Pact agreements signed last week. Norway will be next on the list and will get medium artillery in its first boatload. This first equipment already is moving from arsenals in Illinois and Ohio.

Senate Sarcasm

Senators had been badgering him all afternoon about Formosa. But "Old Tawm" Connally of Texas, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, sat stoically at his small desk growling fierce side remarks that could not be heard in the gallery.

Bill Knowland of California waved his arms in a most important manner and shouted dire prophecies across the aisle. Frail Alexander Smith, the ex-Princeton professor, piped indignant words about American policy.

Tom Connally listened to all this with the patient air of a man hearing his wife out.

Then a senator for whom Connally has no affection jumped up like a cork out of a bottle. It was boisterous Ken Wherry of Nebraska, the GOP floor leader. Like a match between an old bear and a small, yapping dog became the debate between the two senators.

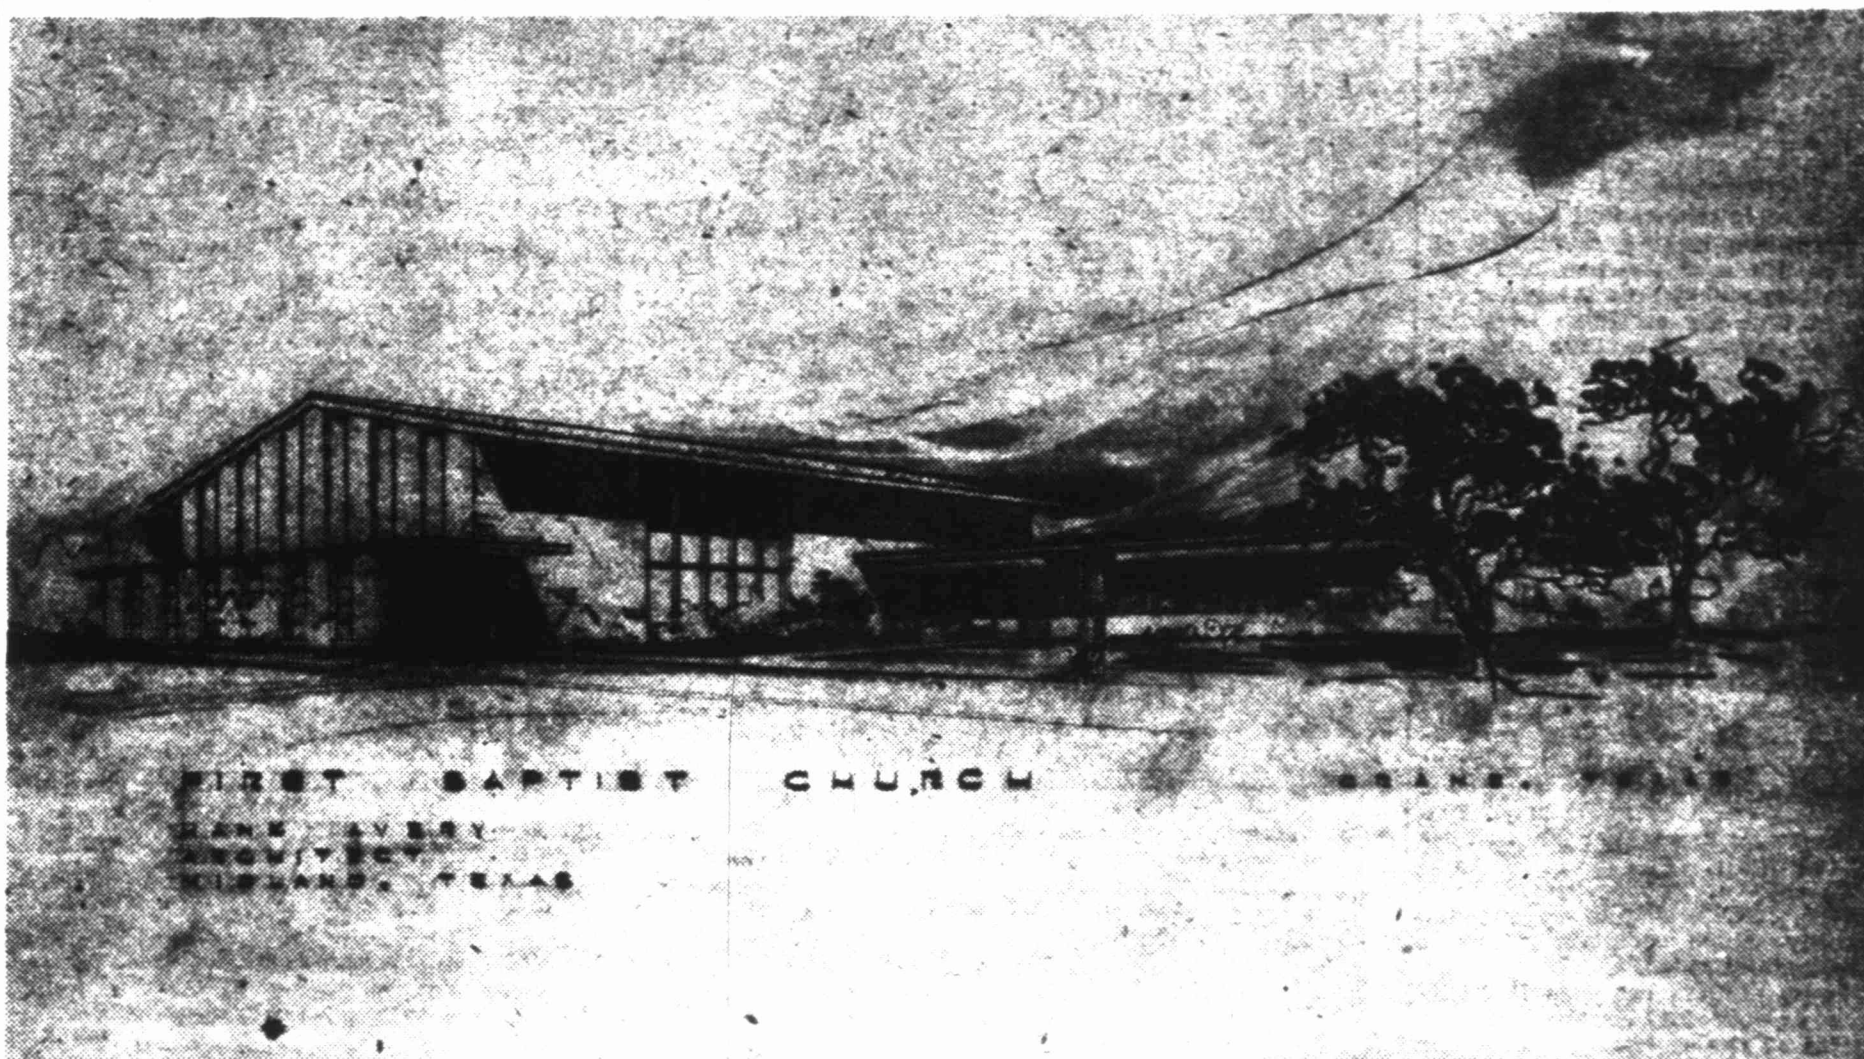

At one point, Wherry burst forth with: "Nebraska is the best state in the Union, and the senator will find more Americans to the square inch in Nebraska than in any other state in the Union."

Old Tawm of Texas waited until the Senate was completely still, then he drawled: "They are getting pretty small if they can be compressed into a square inch."

Proposed First Baptist Church At Crane

Ground-breaking ceremonies for the proposed new, spacious and attractive building of the First Baptist Church of Crane will be held there at 3 p.m. Sunday, with the Rev. Vernon Yearby, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Midland, as the guest speaker. The Rev. H. D. Christian is pastor of the Crane church. Construction of the edifice, contemporary modern in architecture, will be started at once.

with completion scheduled within five months time. Hank Avery of the Avery-Stanford Company of Midland, is the architect. Of masonry construction, the new church will have a seating capacity of 525 persons. The church plant, one of the most modern and most equipped in West Texas, will contain 36 classrooms.

National Children's Dental Health Day Is Slated Monday

National Children's Dental Health Day will be observed Monday, with the program in this section of West Texas being sponsored by the Permian Basin Dental Association.

Extensive preparations for the observance have been mapped by the organization, which has offered numerous recommendations for the proper care of children's teeth. Careful attention of the teeth at an early age will pay dividends in later years, association officials said. They recommend regular visits to the dentist for examination and expert care.

It is recommended that a child begin brushing his teeth when all primary teeth have erupted, which usually is between the age of two and three years. Parents should assist with the brushing for some time. The teeth should be brushed immediately after eating whenever possible.

Specialists, according to information released by the area organization, stress the fact that diet does have an influence on the child's dental health, especially during the first eight years. An adequate, properly balanced diet during these years of growth and development is conducive to good dental health.

The so-called protective foods, which include milk and milk products, vegetables and fruits, whole grain cereals and breads, eggs, lean meats, poultry and fish, comprise a well-balanced diet, according to authorities. A reduction in the consumption of sugar in all its forms is recommended for improved dental health.

A child should visit the dentist for the first time when all 20 primary teeth have erupted. Dentists also should be consulted as to the proper time for starting the process of straightening irregular teeth.

National Children's Dental Health Day is termed one of the most important of the numerous special days and weeks observed annually in the nation.

Hank Thompson And Lone Star Playboys At VFW Hall Friday

Hank Thompson, one of the nation's top western singing stars, has been booked for an appearance with his famous Lone Star Playboys at the Midland VFW Hall Friday night. Thompson and his band will bring with them all the color which has made them a national hit.

Dancing will be from 9 p.m. until 1 a.m. John Henderson, VFW commander, said.

Hank Thompson

Lanky Hank is a native Texan, having been born in Waco. He started his singing career there.

Thompson's recordings, many of them his original tunes, have been on juke boxes throughout the nation since the war.

He composed such favorites as Humpty Dumpty Heart, Swing Wide Your Gate of Love, A Lonely Heart Knows and many others.

Thompson's appearance here will be sponsored by the Midland post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The public is invited to attend.

DOMESTIC CHARTER

AUSTIN — (AP) — Permian Transportation Company, Midland, has been issued a domestic charter here. It is a transport business, capitalized at $1,000, with Joe R. Trainer, Lois E. Trainer and Walter C. Beardsley as incorporators.

ON HONOR ROLL

Bill Faubion, senior geology student at the University of Texas in Austin, has been placed on the "A" honor roll for the first semester of the 1949-50 school year. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Faubion of Midland.

Dad, CAN I BE A DOCTOR Like You?

"Yes, Son—If you think you can stand hard work, long years of study, and little or no earnings for about ten or twelve years, after leaving school. It will take quite a lot of money to put you through, too.

"You see, after you complete high school, it will be necessary to have two to four years of regular college, then four years of Medical College, then two to four years of Internship in an accredited Hospital. After that, many young Doctors take postgraduate work in special fields.

Stringent examinations are then required, before you receive a license to practice Medicine. As your practice grows, your time belongs more and more to your patients; there are no hours. You should be genuinely fitted for the profession, as your greatest reward, Son, will come from a sense of serving mankind."

It is for your protection—that your Doctor, and his colleagues, keep a close watch on stringent requirements of Medical Schools and Medical Examining Boards. ... Do not allow this quality to be lowered.

Cyanide Guns Killing Dogs In Addition To Coyotes In Panhandle

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff

Cyanide guns are killing a lot of coyotes in the Texas Panhandle. They also are killing many dogs. "This," says Albert Law at Dalhart, "has precipitated a warm controversy."

Cyanide guns use a blank cartridge. It and the cyanide are arranged on a metal peg that is stuck solidly in the ground. About the cartridge is a bait, usually wrapped with wool and saturated with a scent attractive to coyotes and bobcats.

When the luckless animal closes his mouth over the bait and attempts to pull it up a trigger is released and the cartridge fires the deadly charge of cyanide into the animal's throat.

State trappers, working with the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and in cooperation with county commissioners' courts and state agencies, plant the cyanide guns in coyote territory.

Many Coyotes Killed
In Texas from Sept. 1, 1948, to Sept. 1, 1949, these trappers killed 26,248 coyotes.

But what about the danger to dogs?

Law, a newspaperman, quotes Game Warden Jess Felts at Dalhart as saying the government seems to take the position that if dogs are property—such as cattle or sheep—they should be kept on the premises of the owner.

If they are not property, Felts added, they belong to no one and nobody should complain if one is accidentally killed.

Some hunters use dogs in hunting coyotes for county bounties. Some of these hunters complain they have lost dogs to the cyanide guns.

State trappers put up signs and warn ranchers in areas where cyanide guns are buried. But Felts told Law of one rancher who told a trapper: "Don't worry about my dogs. They never get out of my yard unless I take them."

But that night, the rancher lost all his dogs to cyanide guns.

Felts said it has been proved that dogs roam up to 10 miles from home at night.

Shakespeare Theater Is Planning Program

STRATFORD-ON-AVON, ENGLAND—(AP)—William Shakespeare's sleepy home town has announced its program for the Summer boom days when American and continental tourists traditionally flock here to honor the bard.

The 1950 season of plays at the Shakespeare Memorial Theater will be the longest ever—six and three-quarter months. First play of the season, "Measure for Measure," opens March 9.

Cigarettes in their modern form were introduced into America about 75 years ago.

Don't Jaywalk Yourself To Death

Among urban dwellers, a most popular, though dangerous, sport is jaywalking. With all the odds against them, the jaywalkers persist. Seen here are some of the principal types. You will find them on almost any street. Frequently you will find them run down by their major opponent, the motorist.

Open field runner is the true elite of the jaywalking clan. He's at his best when the going is toughest—in the middle of the street with automobiles whizzing by on all sides. Note his complete indifference.

Short cutters usually travel in bunches. These girls have spotted a market stand across the street where potatoes are a nickel cheaper, and they're making for the bargain on the shortest possible line.

Fender dumper is a most familiar type. Here is the guy who makes it to the middle of the street, then edges out into oncoming traffic. He's close enough now to thump the passing fender with his knee.

Thoughtless thinker here was marketing, then remembered he forgot something across the street. Now he crosses in mid-block, darting out from between two parked cars, ready to be picked off by a third.

Story About Texas Norther Originates From Many Sources

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
Associated Press Staff

When a cold wave sweeps down through Texas, it is tracked as relentlessly as an invading armada of enemy planes.

And the story you read about it comes from many sources. The reporting of daily weather, storms, and northers has improved greatly in recent years.

The main sources, of course, are the weather bureau and weather stations over the state. There are about 150 of these, and when they put their information together, they really know which way the wind is blowing.

Twenty-five of the major Texas cities have "first order" bureaus. They are on a teletype circuit. The Fort Worth Bureau is the main bureau for airline weather information in the state. The Houston Bureau keeps records for the entire state. But forecasts for Texas are made in the District Weather Bureau in New Orleans.

With their weather maps, the bureau always know when a cold wave is headed for Texas and generally are able to predict its schedule.

Follow Progress

When it whistles into the Panhandle, the "first order" bureaus on the teletype circuit keep track of its progress in their hourly reports. These reports, made 24 hours a day, give temperatures, precipitation, sky conditions, barometer readings, wind velocity and other information. Smaller stations give reports every six hours.

Through the reports, the bureau know how fast the cold wave is traveling, its position at all times, and how it is affecting the temperatures of the area it is passing through.

Associated Press member newspapers in cities throughout Texas send their weather information to a centrally-located Associated Press bureau where it is written into the state weather story and transmitted to the newspapers.

The information sent to the Associated Press by its members might cover a variety of events pertaining to weather. The Amarillo paper reports a blizzard and livestock losses; Pampa and Lubbock send details of traffic fatalities due to poor highway conditions; Wichita Falls, Fort Worth, Dallas, Sherman and Denison have ice storms and business paralysis and Brownsville, McAllen, Corpus Christi, El Paso and Texarkana come in with reports of fair, balmy weather.

In addition to member newspapers, scores of correspondents over Texas contribute to Associated Press weather stories. Other information comes from the Texas Highway Patrol, the Texas Highway Department, air lines and bus lines.

Addition of a percentage of copper to pure gold gives it a reddish color; silver gives it a greenish tint.

WINNIE IS UNDISTURBED—Announcement in London that a general election that Conservatives hope will make Winston Churchill prime minister again would be held February 23 failed to disrupt the vacation of the doughty opposition leader. The Labor government's No. 1 foe and Mrs. Churchill are vacationing in Madeira, where Churchill is seen engaged in his favorite diversion, painting a scene in the village of Camara de Lobos, near Funchal.

U. S. Plans To Tap More Hydro-Electric Resources In Region

WASHINGTON—(P)—The federal government has big plans for tapping more of the vast hydro-electric power resources in the Southwest.

Already it has made a start in developing public power from dams in Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and parts of Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, Louisiana, Colorado and Nevada.

Government agencies estimate that almost five times the present installed public power capacity could be developed in the area over a long period if Congress approves.

The latest report compiled by federal agencies—Army Engineers, the Interior and Agriculture Departments and the Power Commission—shows present hydro-electric capacity of the area as 1,361,300 kilowatts. The report estimates the undeveloped potential at 6,765,000 kilowatts.

An FPC engineer said 5,000 kilowatts would supply an average city of 10,000 population.

Congress is being asked this year to authorize many additional projects in the Southwest, some with power features, and to provide funds for continuing work on projects already started. Power is a by-product of flood control and reclamation works.

In the flood control bill now before the Senate is a proposal by Senator Kerr (D-Okla.) for a commission to study and recommend a program for coordinated development of the Arkansas, Red and White River basins for flood control, power, navigation and reclamation.

Water projects costing an estimated $1,093,000,000 have been completed or are under construction in Oklahoma, Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado and New Mexico.

Planned projects carry an estimated price tag of $2,543,600,000 and potential but yet unplanned projects are estimated at $4,532,700,000. Of the overall total, $1,440,900,000 would be for power.

Present hydro-electric capacity in the Southwest, including Norfolk dam in Arkansas, Denison in Texas-Oklahoma and the state-operated Pensacola Dam in Oklahoma, is 367,000 kilowatts. All of the remaining undeveloped potential of 4,102,000 kilowatts is on the planning board except for 300,000 in the Gulf Southwest.

The Lower Colorado River basin in Arizona and Nevada and the Rio Grande in New Mexico have installed capacity of 1,194,300 kilowatts, most of it at Hoover Dam. The potential in these basins is estimated by the reclamation bureau at 2,663,000 kilowatts.

Cost of Lower Colorado projects which Congress has authorized is big projects in the southwest now under way include Bull Shoals in Arkansas, Fort Gibson in Oklahoma and Whitney and Belton in Texas. Eufaula and Markham's Ferry in Oklahoma and Greer's Ferry in Arkansas have been authorized but no appropriation has been voted for them.

The Southwestern Power Administration, created by the Interior Department in 1944 to handle sales of government-produced power in Oklahoma and parts of Louisiana, Mississippi, Arkansas, Texas, Missouri and Kansas, has been a subject of sharp controversy in Congress. Private power companies have contended the SPA transmission CRANE — At the request of National Headquarters, the March of Dimes campaign here will continue until February 10, according to O. B. Wagner, local chairman. It is hoped the extension will make it possible for Crane to meet its quota.

Setting a goal and beating it is the practice of the Men's Downtown Bible Class, conducted each Sunday morning in the Crane Theater. L. L. Martin, Superintendent of Crane schools, is the teacher. Last Sunday's goal of 40 was topped by one. The goal for this Sunday has been set at 50. Jack Porter, president, said that special music is planned for services Sunday, and that men not attending Sunday School in any church are invited to join this group.

Greek Town Ends Year Of Mourning

SALONIKA—(P)—The people of battered Naoussa, a small textile town bordering on the Macedonian plain west of here, have marked the end of a year of mourning. It was last January that Naoussa was sacked by three Communist brigades. During the three days the guerrillas remained in the town, they set out on a systematic plan of murdering, burning and looting. Eighty citizens were killed and more than 600 men, women and children dragged off in freezing cold into the mountains.

Naoussa depends mostly on its textile industry. Now the first pieces of new textile machinery have begun to arrive, part of ECA's program to provide a half-million dollar cotton spinning plant to replace the one destroyed by the Communists.

Art, Rats And Cat Cause Big Mixup

JOHANNESBURG—(P)—On the eve of his departure for London to take up the deputy-directorship of the Tate Gallery, le Roux Smith le Roux has been presented with an official bill for $8.05—for cat's meat. When le Roux was director of the Pretoria Art Center in 1944, rats began destroying valuable supplies of war-scarce art paper. A cat was appointed guardian, and waged such an efficient campaign against the rats that within six months the survivors had departed. As a reward for services rendered and as insurance against further attacks, Tatiana was granted an allowance of meat by the center.

The Art Center's accountant was satisfied, but on the day le Roux's resignation became effective he received a letter from the Transvaal Education Department which disallowed the claim. De Roux declares that he will fight the claim.

THIS WEEK THOUSANDS OF YOU WILL TASTE REALLY FRESH COFFEE FOR THE FIRST TIME

CANS AND JARS COST YOU MONEY...

The vacuum can or glass jar has added a lot to the cost of your coffee. But what else could you do? It has been roasted and ground, as a rule, weeks before you get it. That delay can be fatal to flavor. Vacuum cans and jars were the only answer until SAFeway found a better way.

NOB HILL IS COSTLY COFFEE TO BEGIN WITH

No finer blend of coffee exists. It's your kind of coffee. The quality you are accustomed to. The flavor you always bought in a can or glass jar. But Nob Hill comes to you in the whole bean! That's the whole secret.

HERE'S WHY NOB HILL IS THE FRESHEST COFFEE IN TOWN

- 1 World's finest coffee beans roasted (but not ground) in a modern plant only a few hours distant from you.
- 2 Then (still in the whole bean) rushed roaster-fresh to your SAFeway Store.
- 3 Finally ground to your order, and not a moment before.

That releases the fresh flavor of a truly fine coffee. Nob Hill comes to you weeks fresher than usual—so fresh it needs no expensive vacuum package. Time saved! Expense saved!

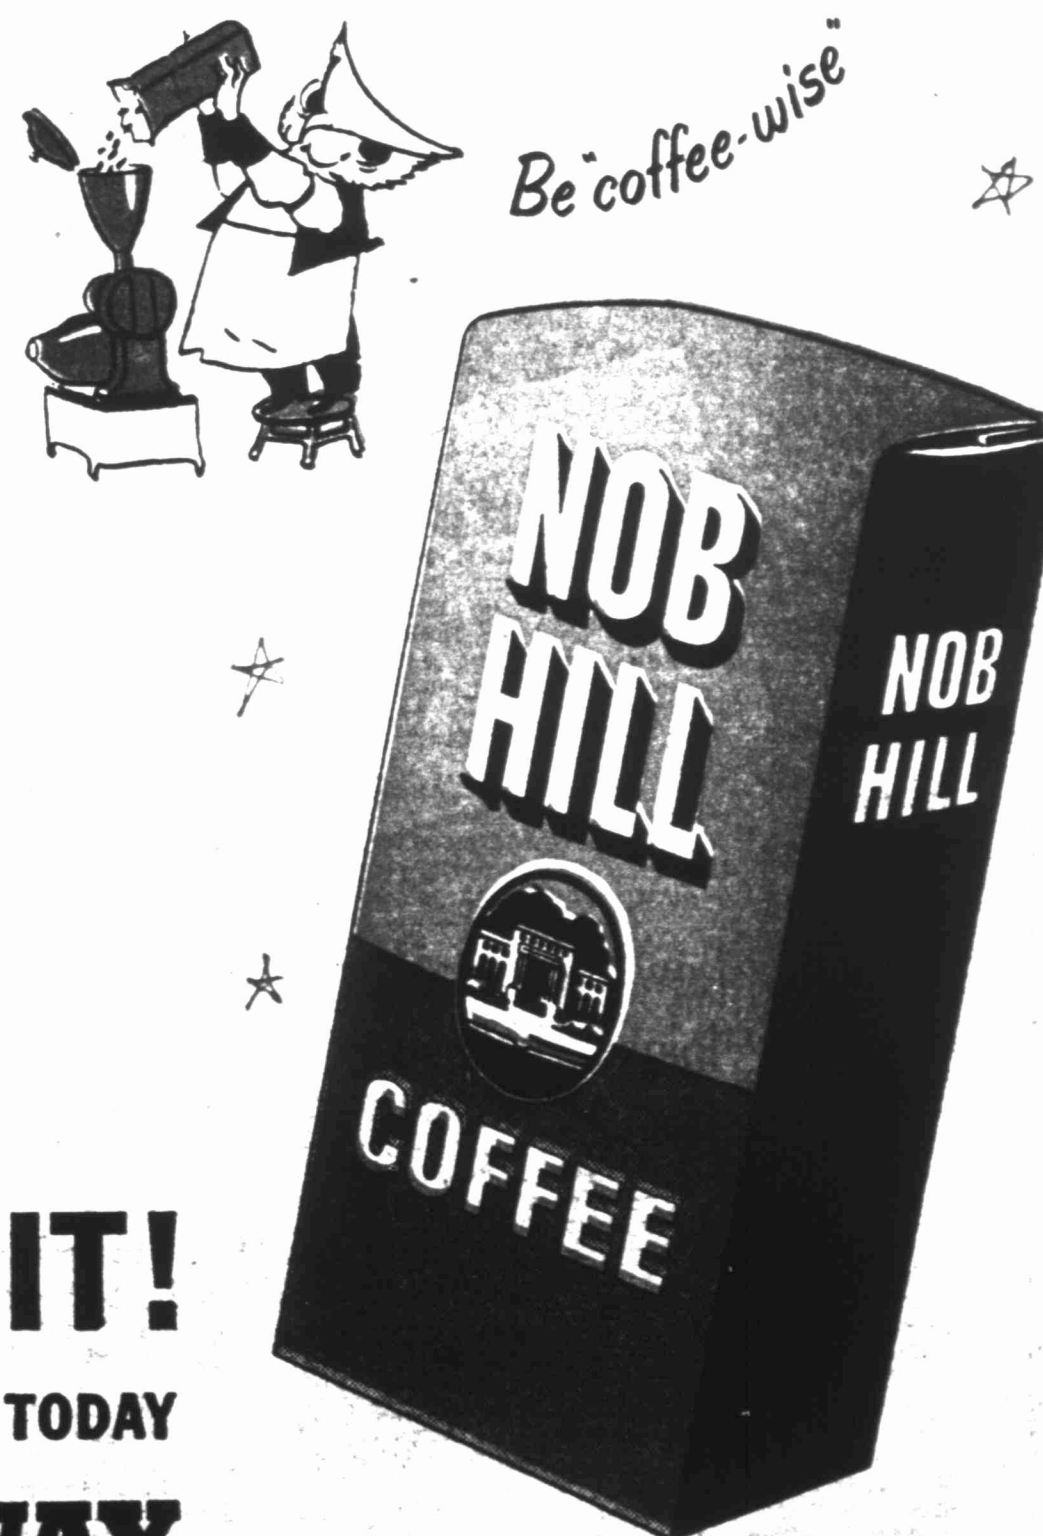

THAT'S HOW YOU SAVE 5c to 10c A POUND

JUST TRY IT!

Bulldogs Praised, Debaters Win Honors At Odessa Interscholastic Meeting

By JOHN WOOD

New ideas and methods were discussed by students attending the West Texas Student Activities Conference in Odessa, January 28. The conference was held for the benefit of the speech and journalism departments of West Texas high schools.

The program opened with a general meeting of welcome in the auditorium and continued with separate meetings of the journalism and speech students.

The Journalism meeting was presided over by Bluford Hestir of the University Interscholastic League.

Problems brought up by the several groups of students were answered by the panel which consisted of Anna Louise Jones of Odessa High School, Mrs. Charles Samsom, Reporting Laboratory Supervisor of the University of Texas School of Journalism, Mrs. W. J. Parr, Midland High School, and Journalism teacher, Bluford Hestir of the Interscholastic League.

Fourteen schools were represented.

With a total of seventy students, the schools represented were: Yuleta, Crane, Kermit, Lubbock, Monahan, Big Spring, Big Lake, Andrews, Port Stockton, Levelland, Garden City, Lamesa, Odessa, and Midland.

The afternoon was devoted to constructive criticism by the various schools on their papers. The Bulldog was rated with Canyon, Texas, as one of the best high school papers in Texas, printed in the local paper.

The MHS delegation of journalism students headed by Mrs. W. J. Parr included Cynthia Parker, Katherine Lewis, Bet Studdert, Rosemary Brazill, Denny Kemp, Billie Love, and John Wood.

The morning meeting of the speech students was given over to debate and one-act plays. Frank Monroe, Superintendent of Midland Schools, was the presiding chair. The debate, Lynn Nicholson and Tony Dunagan competed with San Angelo on the question—resolved: that the President of the United States should be elected by the direct vote of the people. The Midland debate team took the affirmative and presented a plan in which two primaries and a general election would be held to determine the selection of the President and the Vice President.

MHS Debaters Won

The Midland team was coached by Verna Harris, head of the MHS Speech department. Lynn and Tony were declared to be the winning team.

Speech students spent the afternoon listening to declamation and extemporaneous speaking presided over by E. W. Smith, superintendent of Port Stockton Schools.

KEEP THE HOWDY HABIT

(An Editorial)

Tomorrow ends Howdy Week, but will it end one of your new found friendships? Let's hope not.

Wasn't it heart-warming to see a pleasant look on everyone's face as they greeted friends and strangers alike in the halls?

Remember: "The way to gain a friend is to be one."

Howdy Week Successful, Says MHS

By KATHERINE LEWIS

The Roving Reporter

Howdy Week has come and gone in the halls of MHS. Has this project been a success and beneficial to teachers as well as students? For the answer to this perplexing question, students were quizzed this week.

Bill Weaver—"Howdy Week has been a success because everybody has been friendlier and more girls are speaking to boys."

Jean Ferguson—"Howdy Week has helped me meet two good-looking boys. Therefore it has been a great success."

Bill Spencer—"My right hand is sore from shaking hands and signing the Howdy booklets."

Wilma Like—"This week has helped kids get better acquainted."

Richard Patton—"I've met two or three people I didn't know. It's gotten up a good spirit around school."

Mary Nell—"I thought boys were supposed to be nice to girls on 'Boys Be Nice to Girls Day' but only Mark McKinley opened the front door for me Wednesday morning."

Made New Friends

Loren Roberts—"Howdy Week has been successful as I've met a lot of people I like better than I did before."

Wanda Burnside—"I really think Howdy Week has gone over well. It was really neat."

Bill Burnside—"The girls have gotten a little sassier."

Beverly Keating—"It's broken the ice around school."

Obie Stalcup—"Everybody in school has seemed a little livelier and things haven't been so dead."

Susan Hagler—"Things have been just the same as always except on Monday when everyone was speaking to everyone else."

Bill Franklin—"Yeah, I reckon you bet Howdy Week was a success." (Editor's Note: Mr. Franklin seemed at a loss for words.)

Richard Hull—"I don't speak without a mouth piece!"

Idea Is Approved

Agatha Tabor—"I've made a lot of new friends and I liked 'Boys Be Nice to Girls Day' best of all."

Betty Nix—"The new students should feel more at home."

Ann Arick—"The teachers were hoping all week the teachers would remember Friday and assign no homework over the weekend."

Bob Burks—"Yes, Howdy Week has been fine."

Jean Hall—"Kids have been a lot friendlier."

Margi Carter—"It's been fun!"

Sue Johnson—"This last week has been very worthwhile as Ronnie Edwards has been here for a change and carried my books to class."

Roy Kimsey—"It has given me a chance to make new friends and know old friends better."

Larry Friday—"It has encouraged students to be friendlier."

New, Beautiful MHS Auditorium To Open With Male Quartet

By PEGGY MINEAR

The new MHS auditorium will be used for the first time on February 12th when the Midland Music Association presents the National Male Quartette. The building has been under construction since early last summer.

There are five entrances on Illinois Street. Inside the main doors is the ante-room, with two ticket booths, a large trophy case, rest rooms, a side exit, and stairways to the balcony.

The stairs cases leading to the balcony are light veneer paneled. Upstairs you will find a double decked balcony and the projection room. The seats are wooden backed and have metal sides of a rose color that matches the long draw-type velvet drapes.

Main Hall Described

From the lobby, there are four doors into the auditorium proper. The four aisles are asphalt tile and lead to the orchestra pit. This is the only orchestra pit in West Texas and is large enough to accommodate a 75-piece orchestra. The walls are light veneer paneled six feet up from the floor.

Well Equipped Stage

The mammoth stage is bordered in gold and the side curtains are of rose velvet and trimmed in gold. The main drop curtain is rose velvet with a gold back drop.

Off-stage are the girls' dressing room and a rest room on the left. The light control panel is also on the left side. The lighting system is installed so that either red, white, or blue stage lights may be used. On the right side of the stage is the property room. Upstairs is the boys' dressing room.

The cooling and heating system is one compact unit and is controlled in the attic.

Musical Melodies Change MHS Moods

Music of all moods was the theme of the assembly held Wednesday night in the MHS auditorium.

Sammy Koen, master of ceremonies, presented Betty Wilson, MHS senior, as the first on the program. She sang two solos, through "Long and Sleepless Night" and "Body and Soul."

Next two senior girls, Billie Love and Denny Kemp, presented a skit complete with jokes and songs. The pair vociferously "Show Me the Way to Go Home" and then the reversal, "Home Me the Way to Go Show."

Following this skit was the group of young men known as the "Midlanders," three of whom MHS students. The quartet includes Alfred Bente, Sammy Koen, Bill Branch and Joe Richters. They sang "Walkin' Down the King's Highway" and "Hide Me Rock of Ages."

For an encore they sang "New Born Feeling." Their accompanist, Shelby Rwyer, also played two solos, "Roll On, Jordan," and "In the Love Call."

The assembly was concluded by several lively numbers by the pep band, under the direction of Tony Dunagan, MHS junior. The Student Council sponsored the assembly.

New Math Teacher Joins MHS Faculty

The faculty of MHS boasts the presence of a new general math teacher, E. W. Marks.

Marks comes to Midland from the University of Texas where he recently graduated. In the course of his studies he also attended North Texas Agricultural College for two years.

For a hometown Marks lists Alvado, Texas, where he attended high school. The "keeper of the keys" in freshman homeroom 121 lists Mexican foods, photography, and lively music.

WARNING: Do not be caught underfoot in the rush to room 121.

Exes Visit School At Mid-Term Break

Mid-semester in the nation's colleges sent many MHS exes home for a brief holiday. This holiday varied from the weekend of January 21 and 22 to the weekend of January 28 and 29.

From Texas Tech were Dub Thompson, Jerry McDonald, Joe Davis, Richard Clark, Maurice Cox, Jimmy Connine, Glenda Shookster, Thalia Atkinson, Joan Chapman, Patsy and Tula Bates, and Fred McMurry.

At home from Texas University were Moe Price (now attending Odessa Junior College), Richard Vaughn, Charlie Wheat, Alma Faye Cowden, Emma Sue Cowden, Mumsie Cowden, Patsy Patteson, Betty McCain, Bill Kerr, Lew Hoey, Jimmy Frazier, Gerald, Patsy Lou, Arlington Shirley Brunson, Gilbert Sevier, Bill Gilmore, and Frances Puet.

Francine Weaver, Jimmy Barber, Don Downing, Pat Benedict, and Sally Seor were from North Texas State College.

From McMurry were Peggy Whitson, Frank Shepherd, Joe Mabee, Joel Simms, and Roy Douglas.

Don Hamblet and Eugene Heil came home from Abilene Christian College.

Raymond Doyle and Bull Whitson were home from Sul Ross.

Barbara Whitson—Has Unusual Alias

By JO ANNE BOYKIN

Barbara Whitson was one of the happy winners of the prize Howdy Week booklet, the most popular 700 sold, two of them had "Bulldog Feature" printed across them. This meant an article in the Bulldog would be written about that person. Also they would receive two tickets to the show. Next week the other winner will be announced.

"Hi, Little Bull!" Yes, this is what you may hear when someone passes Barbara Whitson in the hall. The way she got the nickname is a long story, but to make it short, it's this way:

Her big brother, R. A., won the nickname in his high school days in MHS because he was a "bully" football player. This name was then passed to Peggy Lou, her sister, when she was in her later days in the high school. The students called her "Little Bull."

Naturally, when Barbara became a freshman, students who remembered Peggy Lou, and R. A.'s nickname, started calling her "Little Bull."

There is a "Little Bull" too. But Mae is in the sixth grade, so her friends don't call her that yet. But wait until she gets in high school!

Barbara, who has green eyes, blonde hair, and the sprinkle of freckles, has a favorite pastime—the Youth Center. She enjoys all the activities going on there. She has no special hobby but particularly enjoys watching basketball and playing baseball. World history is her favorite subject and Mr. Marks is her favorite teacher. She likes to wear blue and to sit on other people. Mexican food is high on her list of likes, but food in general interests her greatly. However, Barbara points out, "I do eat a small breakfast, which is something." Skirts and sweaters rate with her when it comes to selecting clothes for school wear. She doesn't wear much jewelry, but likes it. When she hears the strains of "Again" coming over the juke box or radio, she's bound to listen because she is currently partial to it.

As for boys, she likes them to be blond, blue eyed, five foot six and one-half inches tall, a freshman, and with a cute grin. This could only mean that she has one special boy in mind, Bill Erskine.

Barbara was born August 23, 1935, in Midland, and she's been here all her life. She says it suits her fine if, "I spend the rest of it here, too."

Dr. McGuire To Speak To In-Service Group

Carlson McGuire, Doctor of Philosophy at the University of Texas, will be in Midland to speak to the In-Service Training group at 7:30 p.m. February 6, in the Junior High School auditorium.

Dr. McGuire came to Texas University from the University of Chicago last fall as a regular member of the staff. He has been in Austin for two summers with the "Workshop in Human Development" under Dr. James Knight.

Still Leading—Sophs Place Most On Semester Roll

All-Around Boy, Girl Are Named

JoAnne Boykin, MHS senior, and Bill Medard, junior student, were elected All-Around Girl and Boy by the student body, Tuesday, January 31. A page in the Catalo, MHS yearbook, will be given them in recognition of this honor.

Boykin is an easy-going girl, five feet, four and one-half inches tall with medium length light brown hair. Her eyes are green and she answers to the name "Boykin" among other things. Her nicknames friends have dubbed her: Boykin was born in Big Spring, January 11, 1933, where she lived until she moved to Colorado for eight months, before coming to Midland three years ago.

Boykin likes football and enjoys playing ping-pong when she isn't busy executing the jobs of assistant editor on the Bulldog, cheerleader, or reporting the happenings of the senior class. She spends part of her spare time riding around with her girl friends or astride a horse.

She is unique in that she likes to write letters but she finds that getting them mailed is quite a problem. "I don't like to go to bed at night, but I hate worse to get up in the morning," mourned Boykin.

Her favorite color is blue and incidentally, "Blue Moon" is number one on her hit parade. Van Johnson is the best Hollywood actor in Boykin's opinion and Hamlet is the best movie she's seen.

After graduation, Boykin plans to enter Christian College, Columbia, Missouri, for one year, then the pitch on last year's baseball team, in 1946 he laid to enter the University of Texas.

All-Around Boy

The five foot, eleven and one-half inch, dark haired, dark combed, blue-eyed junior elected All-Around Boy is Bill Medard. Bill was born in Pamulla, Texas, March 26, 1933. The Medard family and young Bill moved to Port Arthur and later moved to Killean, Texas. In 1946 he moved from Killean to Midland.

Bill played Wingback on the 1949 football team and it is logical that football is his first love. Who the booklet, the most popular 700 sold, two of them had "Bulldog Feature" printed across them. This meant an article in the Bulldog would be written about that person. Also they would receive two tickets to the show. Next week the other winner will be announced.

Skits, Play Featured In Howdy Week Assembly

Four skits portraying the idea of Howdy Week and an impromptu play with teachers as the characters highlighted the assembly presented Monday, January 30, in the gym.

The first skit showed "Stuck-up Bess," played by Margi Carter, being converted from her former snooty point of view to a friendly outlook on life by a handsome Howdy Week enthusiast, Stan Coker.

In the second skit, two boys, "I Don't Know" (David Weaver) and "I care Less" (Ronny Estel), were taken by surprise by two lovely ladies, Zoe Underwood and Grace Boles, and carried off as new beaux during Howdy Week.

The third skit showed the four demons of MHS as played by De- phane, Ted June, Halp, by De- Moss and Jim Chauncey, who besieged their teacher, Gwen Gordon, until Howdy week came along when they repented of their evil ways and then peace reigned.

A "man" teacher, Louise Boyd, had a change of heart in the fourth skit when her pupils, Eddie Darnell, Harrie Smith, Owen Roberts, Jo Anne Boykin and Reed Gilmore, were so sweet to her during Howdy Week. As a reward for their friendliness she gave them no assignments over the week-end.

Faculty In Play

Katherine Lewis then directed an unrehearsed play, "Gathering in the Nuts," featuring Charles Mathews, Helen Miller, Ella Mae Blair, Audrey Gill, Jack Mashburn, Gwen Gordon, Mildred Jackson, John Blais, Louise Boyd and Garvin Beauchamp, all members of the faculty.

Mistress of Ceremonies Peggy Minear then led the entire group in the singing of two songs, "Friendship Train" and "She Wore a Yellow Name Tag."

Volleyball Season Opens With Victory

Victory was sweet to the A squad girls' volleyball team when they triumphed over Andrews 47-9 Monday night in the Midland High School gym. This was their first game of the 1949-50 season. The B squad lost 37-32 to the An- drews 5 squad. The next A and B squad game will be with Odessa Tuesday night. Frances Tredaway and Jo Ann Ragan were captains for the A and B games respectively. New acting captains will be chosen for each following game.

Those girls playing on the A squad are: Frances Tredaway, Marian Aze, Patsy Pyle, Wanda Wise, Lella Wood, Frances Clay, Ruby Elizabeth Walton, and Dorothy Allen. Those on the B squad are: Jo Ann Ragan, Dorothy McQuerry, Murphy June Baxter, Rosalyn Smith, Leora Crawford, Martha Campbell, Verna Beasley, Lolla Lenard and Betty O'Neal.

"RAITIE WATCH" POLICE

New York's first police force was Peter Stuyvesant's light - m in "Raitie Watch" of 1666, and its first fire truck was one imported from London in 1731, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Richard Patton And JoAnn Ragan Named As Most Friendly

Richard Patton and JoAnn Ragan were voted Most Friendly Boy and Girl in MHS in the election held Thursday.

Richard, one of the most active seniors, is the only boy who has been leader this year. He is a member of the D.E. Club and the Thespian Society.

JoAnn, a newcomer from Odessa, is a member of the Court for the Coronation, a member of the National Honor Society, Business Club and the Student Council. She was also elected Football Sweetheart.

The nominees for Friendliest Boy were: Harland Allen, Joe Barnett, Dan Black, Denver Blaincoet, Ralph Brooks, Yates Brown, Robert Burks, Jack Burris, Joe Bob Capps, Earl Chapman, Don Clark, Stan Coker, Alan Cole, Preston Conner, Keys Curry, Arnold Drake, Norman Drake, Bill Erskine, Ronnie Estel, Bob Evans, Bill Franklin, Larry Friday, Dickie Glass, W. InAndAround MHS

By CHARLES PARIS

Freshman Timmy Cornwall purchased the first "Howdy" tag and booklet Monday, at 8:37 a.m. in room 205.

MHS

Is Freshman English teacher and Bulldog sponsor Josephine C. Parr "loco" or "loca"? This was the question raised in Minnie Jackson's third period Spanish class Wednesday. One un-named student declared: "La Senora Parr es loco!" "Oh, no es verdad," (that is not true) Lander Coleman said. "She is loco loco is masculine." The Bulldog staff is selling tickets to the oncoming fight.

MHS

How's this for "Howdy Week?" Senior English teacher Gwendolyn Gordon last week had her English classes stand up and name all the pupils in the room. This helps to get to know everyone.

MHS

All MHSers that saw the program of the Coleman Brothers "Millionaires" were very thankful for the opportunity to see the quarter. Lander Coleman, the spokesman for the group said, "We have certainly enjoyed staying here in Midland. I wish our visit here could have been longer." The program was sponsored by the Optometrist Club in Midland.

MHS

Senior Peggy Minear seems to have a great love for wastebaskets. The most recent time was in room 101, Coach Beauchamp's advisor room. Right on the spot were Pat Emmons and Denny Kemp. They "just happened" to have a camera, and consequently it went off in Peggy's direction. Look for the picture in the annual this year.

MHS

MHS gave a total of $70.97 to the March of Dimes for 1950. The total for Midland County is $18,000.

MHS

"The dog cart is waiting, sir." "Don't touch the cucumber sandwiches." "It's about time he made up his mind to do the color mix." A few of the lines one could hear coming from room 213 late last week, where Verna Harris was holding the trouts for MHS's entry in the contest play. The judges were Jere Bass, Edna Magree, Fannie Reeves, and Louise Boyd.

Light Is Explained In Terms Of Color

"What would happen if all the different colors of paint were mixed together?" Inquired John Bizio's chemistry class.

MHS

The question opened a general discussion as other students began inquiring about the color mix.

MHS

Bizio began the explanation by saying that if all colors in paints were mixed, the resulting color would be an off grey.

MHS

Though light itself is white, it also is a mixture of the color red, orange, yellow, green, blue, indigo, and violet. Because sunlight is transparent the mixing results is clear white.

MHS

Art and science are related in that they both deal with the basic or primary—colors red, yellow, and blue. All the other colors such as green, orange, indigo and brown are obtained by the mixing of the three primary colors.

MHS

After the students finished their studies of light and of how a prism separates rays of light into a spectrum—the lines seen when a beam of light passes through a prism and is reflected—they began experiments in color mixing.

MHS

New officers for Club Group II were elected in a regular meeting held Monday, January 30 in Room 205.

MHS

Elected were: Kay Stalcup, president; Ruth Nell Kuykendall, vice president; Jack Waddill, secretary; and Swan Hagler, reporter.

Bits Of Stone Are Used On Roof Tops

Mineral granules—hard, opaque bits of stone—are used as a surfacing material for asphalt shingles, widely used home roofing. The granules are embedded under pressure on the surface of the shingles during manufacture. Granules are used because they increase the natural fire-resistance of the shingles, permit manufacture of the shingles in a wide range of colors and provide an excellent wearing surface. Granules are colored by "firing" pigments into them. This is a ceramic process. In producing blended color shingles, granules of two or more colors are mixed before they are applied to the roofing.

WATER DOES HARM EVEN FAR FROM LEAK

Water seeping through a roof can show up far from the actual leak. It can flow down through the walls of the house to crack plaster and stain wall paper. Reroofing, rather than patching, is advisable if a roof is in poor condition.

High Fire Loss Can Be Reduced

An increase of almost $200,000,000 for fire loss in five years is appalling, yet that will be the figure if the current U. S. fire loss rate continues. In 1945 the figure was $484,274,000; the present rate of $56,900,000 per month will add up to a yearly $682,800,000.

A drop of 8.9 per cent in losses in the first seven months of 1949 from the same period in 1948 indicates that fire loss can be cut. The lower figure of $398,399,000 in contrast to $437,435,000 is due largely to intense campaign by fire prevention authorities, insurance companies and far-sighted local and federal officials.

Fire Safety Recognition of the fire-resistant properties of specific building materials and voluntary use of them and improved techniques of constructing fire-safety into buildings, even when not required by local regulations, has helped.

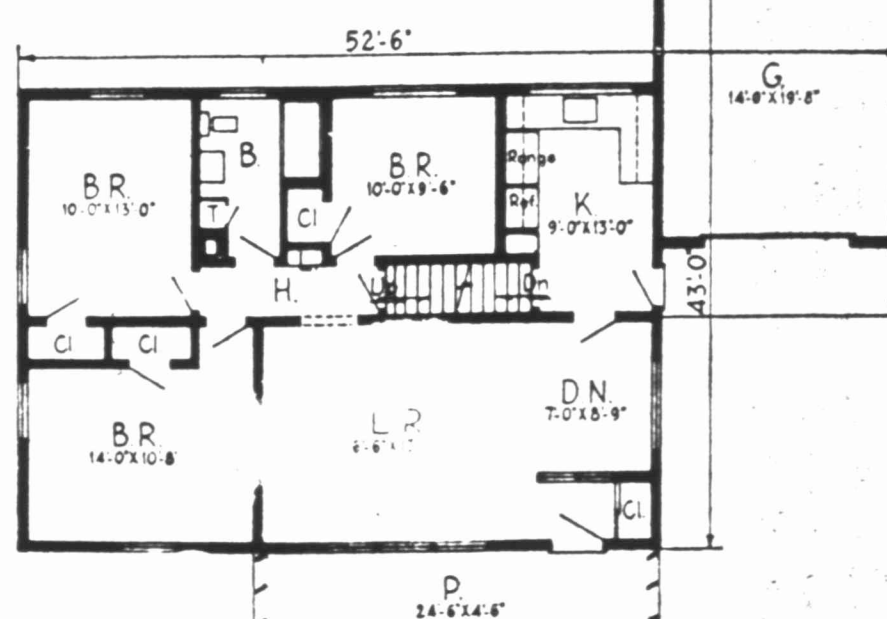

Confinement of fire to its starting place is the best way to check large losses, experts agree. "Among primary causes of loss of life and property by fire," says the President's Conference on Fire Prevention, "has been the ability of fire to spread through concealed spaces within partitions and walls under, beneath or within floors, and above ceilings. All concealed spaces should be effectively fire-stopped with naturally non-combustible materials."

Snug-looking and low, this house was designed carefully to permit economical construction without neglecting any of the requirements for comfortable, enjoyable living. The architect adopted practical design, sound planning and simple framing as architectural principles to "come up" with a house which can be reproduced in permanent materials at an absolute minimum cost. The large, divided front window is a feature of the plan. With the adjoining plywood panels, a striking central motif is created. Contrasting materials are used on the gable ends and the garage door. The dwelling has three bedrooms, each of ample size. The dining alcove is an extension of the living room, in the modern, informal manner. The kitchen is situated for convenience to the dining alcove.

Congress' Drive For 40-Hour Work Week Bogs Down In Economic Committee Hearing

WASHINGTON—(AP)—Congressmen already get pensions when they retire. Now they are talking wistfully of getting a 40-hour-week while they work.

The matter came up at a hearing of the Senate-Economic Committee in its study of the price of steel.

Alva Phelps, president of the Oliver Corporation, a Chicago farm equipment company, was explaining how the steel increase affected his business.

Representative Rich (R-Pa) was doing the questioning. Suddenly Rich asked:

"How many hours do you put in each day?"

"We put in a 40-hour week in the office, just the same as they do in the plant," Phelps said.

"First time I ever heard of an executive who could get by on eight hours a day," said Rich, who runs a woolen mill in addition to his duties as a congressman.

"I have always felt, congressman, that eight hours was about all a man could work—if he worked efficiently," Phelps said.

Senator Flanders (R-Vt) cut in to say:

"I think senators and representatives would do a better job if they worked a 40-hour week."

Efficiency Factor

Chairman O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) chimed in with:

"I think that's true. Of course, here in Congress it's—"

Phelps nodded. "You understand," he said, "I said, if he worked efficiently."

The next witness was Otis Brubaker, director of the CIO United Steelworkers' Research Department. Brubaker told along a 85-page statement. Obviously the efficient thing to do would be let him breeze right along and read it.

But he hadn't got past a page before the interruptions started.

Federal Housing Administration Had Record Year In '49

WASHINGTON—According to reports from its 68 field offices, 1949 proved to be the biggest work-year in the history of the Federal Housing Administration. Commissioner Franklin D. Richards announced figures showing that since establishment of that organization in 1934, all volume records were broken in the 12 months ended Dec. 31, 1949, in: number of unit-applications received, number of home units started, number of home units completed and number of home units whose mortgages were insured under the FHA plan.

"One of the most significant aspects of this tremendous volume is, in my opinion, the increased interest in the lower-cost home," Richards said. "The American people have shown that they want a home in the lower-cost range that is within their capacity to pay. Evidence of the effectiveness of this demand is demonstrated by the fact that during the last year the FHA has issued commitments to insure more than $309,000,000 in mortgages under the insurance plan especially devised for the lower-cost dwelling. Under this plan, the mortgage cannot be greater than $6,000."

He emphasized, however, that the insurance of mortgages under this section of the act has been predominantly for smaller houses of two bedrooms and has been distributed unevenly throughout the country. There continues to be a tremendous need, he pointed out, for better and more adequate housing which could be produced for sale and rent within the means of families of moderate income.

Applications received during 1949 covered 783,800 dwelling units, one-third more than the previous record in 1949.

Averaging over 30,100 units a month, FHA starts during 1949 totaled 361,450—about 24 per cent above 1948 and accounting for 36.8 per cent of total privately-financed nonfarm starts as estimated by the Bureau of Labor Statistics. This compares with 31.8 per cent in 1948.

Completions of home units numbered 315,400—11 per cent above 1948's all-time record. There were 245,300 units completed in 1- to 4-family structures; and a 52 per cent increase was recorded in the completion of rental project units bringing the 1949 total of 70,000.

Mortgages and loans insured during 1949 were secured by 448,600 dwelling units of which 70 per cent were new.

In addition to the mortgage insurance written by the Federal Housing Administration, property

Remodeled Dwellings Increase In Value

Texas has 796,834 houses which are at least 30 years old and are beginning to suffer from the infirmities of old age, but present-day wonders of "rejuvenation" could improve many of them so they would represent better values by $3,000 to $4,000 than comparable new homes bought on today's market.

This is one finding made in a study of the "Improvement Quotient"—or modernization value—of old homes just completed by the Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator Company. Real estate operators interviewed estimated that, generally speaking, it would cost $4,000 to $5,000 to give an old house a new look, but that the increased value would justify the expenditure.

Several new phosphorus compounds are deadly to mites, spiders and other insect pests.

Improvement loans in the amount of $607,000,000 were insured under Title I during the year 1949. This sum involved approximately 1,250,000 individual loans made by private lenders to repair and improve properties.

All-American House Of '50 Is Economy-Built Bungalow

WASHINGTON—The All-American House of 1950—the most popular type of dwelling now being sold—is a bungalow of no definite architectural type ranging in price from $8,000 to $10,000, with no dining room or basement and with smaller kitchens but greater closet space than prewar. T. H. Maenner, Omaha, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards, said.

His description of the 1950 house is based on a survey in 613 cities just completed with the aid of local real estate boards.

The All-American House can best be described as eclectic—picking up ideas from everywhere—in half of the reporting cities, Maenner explained. In one city of every three, however, the 1950 dwelling is a "ranch" type house, and in one city of every five, it is the Cape Cod or colonial type.

Popular Ranch Type

The ranch type is tops as the 1950 house on the Pacific Coast, in the East South Central States, and in the West South Central region, where it originated. The Cape Cod house dominates its own home region, New England, but it is not the most popular house in a majority of cities in any other region. Even in New England the eclectic bungalow is the most popular design style in one city of every four, and in one-third of the larger cities.

The All-American House of 1950 is emphatically a low-cost dwelling, Maenner said. The price range begins as low as $5,000 in 16 per cent of the cities, and it runs no higher than $10,000 in every region of the country and for both large and small cities (78 per cent of all cities).

In the smaller cities, he added, only one city of every six shows a predominance of higher-cost homes in the new construction. But one of every three of the larger cities reports that top cost, if a new house is to be popular, runs up to $15,000.

Less Living

The lot on which the House of 1950 is built is larger than for prewar structure. This is the trend in 76 per cent of the reporting cities, and in 83 per cent of the larger cities.

The dining room in the House of 1950 is vanishing, Maenner said. It is likely to be a mere indicated corner of the living room in 66 per cent of the reporting cities. Small cities are now the leaders in eliminating the dining room. The separate dining room is vanishing in seven of ten of the smaller cities.

Its porch still is oftentimes found in the front, where it will shelter the entrance and "dress up the looks of the house."

Plaster still is the typical interior finish of the House of 1950. Dry wall construction has become typical in only 28 per cent of the reporting cities.

Smaller Kitchens

Notwithstanding the considerable movement for larger kitchens, the typical new House of 1950 has a smaller kitchen than the prewar house. However, while 58 per cent of reporting cities indicate that costs are keeping kitchen size down, 42 per cent report that new kitchens now are larger than in the prewar house. The large cities show this trend slightly more frequently than do the small cities.

Closet space definitely is greater in the 1950 house than it was in prewar houses.

DADDY RINGTAIL

By WESLEY DAVIS

Daddy Ringtail And The Sugar Bowl

Bobby Ringtail, Daddy Ringtail's monkey boy, can ask more questions than anybody. He could ask questions that other people would never think to ask—like that day up in the monkey house when he was sitting at the kitchen table with Daddy Ringtail.

Bobby looked out the window at all the Great Forest. Daddy Ring-times like this when he didn't know at first what else to say. "Sugar doesn't look sweet," Bobby said. "It looks almost salt that you put on your egg, or maybe like sand that is white."

And that isn't all. Sugar not only doesn't look sweet. It doesn't feel sweet. Bobby rubbed a bit of it between his fingers just to be sure, and the sugar didn't feel sweet at all. "See, Daddy Ringtail," he said, "it doesn't feel sweet any more than it looks sweet."

"Well now," Daddy Ringtail said, because he still was trying to decide what it is that makes sugar sweet.

Bobby reached out with a spoon and got a bit of the sugar in it. He touched the sugar to his tongue. "No," he said, "sugar doesn't look sweet, and it doesn't feel sweet, but it tastes sweet. Daddy Ringtail, is sugar sweet because it tastes sweet?"

"That's the reason," Daddy Ringtail said, answering Bobby's question at last.

Bobby got down from the table and went out in the forest to tell everyone why sugar is sweet.

"Daddy Ringtail told me," said Bobby. "Daddy Ringtail answered my questions. He said that sugar is sweet because it tastes sweet. And the funny thing about it, you know, is that Bobby had answered his question himself. He is the one who decided that sugar is sweet because it tastes sweet. And there are so many of our questions we can answer ourselves if we stop to think about things. Happy day!"

Dirt, Squirt and Quirt

— FARM, DAIRY AND RANCH NEWS —

Cotton picking isn't completed in Midland County even though ginning figures last week may indicate the season's end.

The total for the season Friday noon stood at 17,837 bales, only 67 bales more than the total reported at the end of the previous week.

But ginneries said they expect the cotton to start coming in faster if the weather clears.

If the weather doesn't clear to permit picking pretty soon, however, the Spring plowing might get some of that left in the fields, one observer said.

One large grower reportedly has started turning under stalks in his field which would have yielded several bales by "scrapping."

Bill Wyche, formerly of Midland, but who now ranches in the Van Horn area, has purchased 1,250 bred ewes from Lawrence Bledsoe of San Angelo. The Van Horn rancher was mixing and mingling with friends here last week.

Tom Lineberry of Midland and Kermit reportedly has sold and delivered 171 head of light mixed calves to Joe Nunn of Artesia, N. M., and 968 head to Phil Reeves of Fort Sumner, N. M.

It is a bit early, but branding is said to be underway on a number of ranches in the Midland sector.

Buyers were plentiful and eager but sellers were scarce at Thursday's livestock auction sale here. The market was very strong and active with all classes of stockers selling at $1 per cwt higher than the week before. Probably because of bad weather, the sale had a light run with only 200 head of cattle consigned and sold.

M. A. Thornberry of Andrews drew top price at the sale for a group of 26 white-face steer calves which averaged 377 pounds and sold for $27.30 cwt.

Prices Listed
Fat calves and yearlings sold for $21 to $24. Medium kinds went at $18 to $21. No fat cows were offered. Medium cows brought $15 to $16. Canners and cutters moved at $11 to $14. Bulls sold for $17 to $18.50. Stocker steer calves were bid from $25 to $27.30. Stocker heifer calves went from $24 to $25.50.

Other area consignments at the sale were G. P. and Charlie Mitchell, Kermit; T. F. McReynolds, Goldsmith; J. J. Willis, Odessa; O. E. Anthony, Monahans; E. B. Barron, Imperial, and J. J. Eastham and M. M. Mathis of Andrews as well as several Stanton and Big Spring stockmen.

With plans practically complete for the staging of the annual Upton County Livestock Show in Rankin next Saturday, Chairman Walton Harrah said indications point to the most successful show in the 13-year history of the Upton event.

He issued a blanket invitation to all Permian Basin Empire residents to attend the show and sale. A barbecue, sponsored by the Upton County Sheriff's Posse, will be served at 5 p.m., following the animal judging in the morning and the auction sale in the afternoon. W. M. Day, Jr., is the Upton County Agent.

Gov. Allan Shivers has proclaimed the week of February 19-25 as National Future Farmers Week in Texas. Special observances by FFA chapters are scheduled throughout the state.

The annual Martin County Livestock Show is scheduled February 24-25 at Stanton, under the sponsorship of the Stanton Lions Club. The event will be held in the Martin County Exhibit Building.

Martin County Agent Ralph Jones said there will be six exhibitors of steers, 31 of barrows and 12 of capons.

Trophies, ribbons and cash prizes will be awarded.

George W. (Stud) Barnes, district agent at Fort Stockton, will judge the steers, and Travis Hicks, Coke County agent, will select the winners in the barrow division.

Steers calves will be shown by Jimmy Holloway, Earl Koonce, Gearl Koonce, R. L. Hull, Homer Lee Hull, Johnny White, and DeWayne Peterson.

Barrows will be exhibited by DeWayne Peterson, Lloyd Mims, and James Tunnell of Stanton; Jimmy Holloway, R. L. Hull, Wayne Holcombe, Charles Nance, J. L. Wallace, Elmer Stroud, William C. Hull, Tom Ed Angel and Eugene Smith, Courtney; Ross Standerfer, Martin Springer and Curtis Winters, Lenora; Juggy Britton, Jack Alred, Merle Miller, Jimmy Miller, Charles McKaskle, and Malcom Tunnell, Valley View; Darrell Froman, John P. Graves, Travis Lillard and Jerry Coughman, Flower Grove.

Boys planning to show capons include Norris and Don Bullard, Derwood Blagrove and Jerry Coughman of Ackerly; Dale and Leon Hogg and Jimmy Welborn, Tarzan; Phil Carlile, Lenora; James Rhodes, Bobby Gaskin, Elmer and Sue Stroud, Charlie Nance and Monty Castleberry, Stanton.

"Mule Train" won't be the theme song of the famed Mardi Gras parades in New Orleans this year. For the first time in the century-old history of the world famous parade, the traditional mules are being replaced by tractors to propel the spectacular floats.

Two meetings for cotton farmers in Reeves County are scheduled for Wednesday, Reeves County Agent Jimmy Taylor said.

First of the meetings will be held at 2 p.m. in the Community Hall at Balmorhea, and the second is planned for 7:30 p.m. in the Community Center at Pecos.

Fred C. Elliott, cotton work specialist with the Texas A&M College System, and Allen Gunter, entomologist with the system, will be the guest speakers at the meetings.

Elliott will discuss the various phases of cotton production, while Gunter will discuss cotton insects and their control. All cotton growers in the area are invited to attend one or both of the gatherings.

Increased premiums will be a feature of the 11th Annual Monahans Livestock Show, which will be held March 6-7 in the Ward County city.

The raises were given principally to the Registered Hereford Breeding District Division of the show.

Premiums for the first 12 classes of the division were raised as follows: first prize—from $5 to $10, second prize—from $3 to $7.50, and third prize—from $2 to $5.

The champion bull will receive a trophy and $25; the champion female a trophy and $25, and the reserve champion female, rosettes.

In the Baby Beef and 4-H Club Show a few alterations were made in the premium schedules but they remained practically the same as last year. Class winners will receive $15 for first prize, $10 for second prize, and $5 for the third through the tenth prizes. However, the champion dry lot calf and the champion milk fed calf will receive a trophy and $25 each. The grand champion will receive a trophy and the reserve champion a rosette.

Midland County will be honored with special ceremonies during West Texas Day, Wednesday, February 22, at the San Antonio Livestock Exposition and Rodeo, February 17-26. J. L. Tiner, chairman of the special events committee of the exposition, state that special sections of seats and special celebrations honoring the visitors will be held.

Livestock exhibits, auction sales, quarter and cutting horse show, commercial, farm machinery and appliance exhibits, world's championship rodeo and carnival midway will feature the big attraction.

Thirty-six top Herefords have been consigned for the Howard County and South Plains Hereford Association sale to be held in Big Spring, Monday, February 13.

Among those consigning animals for the sale are: Sam Buchanan, Leland Wallace, R. E. Martin, Charlie Creighton, Alex Walker, I. B. Cauble Hereford Farm and C. A. Walker, all of Big Spring; J. E. Mann and L. C. Wheeler of Lubbock; H. C. and Sam Garrard, Lennie and Tom Garrard, George Wells and J. C. Wells of Tahoka; C. W. Shafer, Alton Youngblood, Tom Estes and Roundtree and Bratcher of Lamesa.

A photographic library has been set up in the Animal Husbandry Department at Texas A&M College.

A camera and all attachments were given the department by Roy A. Brewer of San Antonio, an animal husbandry graduate.

Detailed pictures of animals, carcasses, etc., will be taken and the pictures used in classroom work, F. I. Dahlberg of the department, said.

Announcement has been made of a change in emphasis in the 4-H Electric program, which in 1950 will be known as the 4-H Farm and Home Electric program, according to the National 4-H Committee.

With the change of name, the program will encourage more boys and girls to study and plan how to use electricity, and to demonstrate what electrical equipment they have made, adjusted, repaired and installed.

A check-up at the end of the second period of the experiment to evaluate sorghum silage and cottonseed hulls in yearling steer feedlot at Texas Tech shows that silage-fed steers out-gained the hull-fed lot.

Dean W. L. Stangel of the division of agriculture said results of the entire 56-day period gave a 272 pound daily gain for lots fed on silage. Hull-fed steers had a daily average gain of 218 pounds.

Sixty yearlings are being used in the research program, which began November 22. It will end in February. The steers are divided into six lots, and the only diet variety in five lots, has come from silage or hulls. The sixth lot was fed hulls without concentrates, while the others had the same concentrates and alfalfa hay supplement.

During the initial 28-day period, a straight sorghum silage diet proved to be the cheapest. The early report showed the 100 per cent silage-fed lot gained at a cost of $11.20 per hundred. A 100 per cent diet of cottonseed hulls cost the most—$13.04 per hundred.

Costs for the second period have not been determined.

Clothes Make Skiers, Ace Designer Says

NEW YORK — (P) — One of the best ways to improve your skiing is to wear the right clothes, says Fred A. Picard, ace designer of ski clothes. The new bright colors help improve confidence, and proper design and fit make the hardest stunts easier, he insists.

It's wrong to put on as many garments as possible, he says. Layers of clothing should keep you warm by insulation.

Underwear, shirt, light sweater, ski jacket, form layers as do two pairs of wool socks, shoes and ski pants. "The properly dressed skier is relaxed and after a skier is relaxed, improvement is inevitable, Picard says.

It is the custom of the natives of eastern Nepal, Asia, to sing for clothing should keep you warm.

FAITH OF OUR FATHERS

The men and women who built America had a profound faith in a Divine Providence. They believed the Government they founded here in a new land would be protected by Providence.

They believed prosperity to be the product of hard work and right thinking. Upon these broad principles they built the greatest Government and the greatest prosperity man has ever known.

In this time when there is so much misunderstanding and fear, would it not be a good idea to turn again to this faith of our Fathers?

Out of Crocodile's Mouth Comes Reds' Ideas Of Life In 'Hateful' United States

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— The teaching of Anti-Americanism has for the past three years been such a fixed goal of Soviet propaganda for consumption by the Russian people that it now is a mania. That is the statement of Prof. William Nelson of Columbia University, a former editor of the magazine "Amerika," published in Russian by the State Department for limited circulation in the USSR.

To prove his point, Nelson has been making a special study of the cartoons published in "Krokodil" (Crocodile), the Russian tri-monthly humorous magazine. It is the only humorous magazine published in Russia, but its circulation is a mere 165,000. It nevertheless is looked upon as the official Communist line of satire against everything which the Kremlin opposes.

On Press: The Soviet joke—"Jack, write a piece exposing Communist plots." "But I haven't any facts." "What if I? Haven't we a free press?"

Campaign Launched
Up until April, 1946, "Crocodile" snapped largely at Russian citizens who failed to do their duty to the Soviet State. When Premier Stalin announced that "international reaction was making plans for a new war, all Russian agencies of propaganda and agitation began to focus their attention on the United States in a big hate campaign.

Inefficient factory managers in the Soviet Union can breathe easier now, for Nelson says over half the space of "Crocodile" is taken up with cartoons against America. In one issue, 20 of 42 drawings were anti-American in character.

The reason for this, Nelson believes, is that the Soviet government realizes that its people will not readily learn to hate America unless a powerful campaign is carried on. For at the end of the war, the Russian people liked the United States very much indeed, and were grateful for its aid.

Book Compiled
To show how this campaign is being conducted, Nelson has just compiled a book, "Out of the Crocodile's Mouth," reproducing over 100 of "Crocodile's" cartoons, translating their labels and analyzing their attacks against American capital-

On potatoes: "When you're done, mister, are you going to boil the water?" "Crocodile" satire.

Every item of American news that can be seized upon to promote this idea is played up, such as the destruction of millions of bushels of potatoes under the price support program.

To "Crocodile" cartoonists, liberty in the United States is a myth. Loyalty investigations of government employees were cited as examples of American "thought control." This was satirized by a cartoon showing capitalists examining the Statue of Liberty in search of dangerous thoughts.

On facts: From top to bottom in this one, called "Equal Partners," are Uncle Sam, England's Revin, France's Schuman and "Be-Ne-Lux" signing the Atlantic Pact.

ing the Statue of Liberty in search of dangerous thoughts.

For Long Time
The myths that America is populated entirely by gangsters, that the children are all delinquent, that U. S. culture is of an extremely low order and that the masses are uneducated or illiterate have been popular throughout Europe for a long time. American thriller movies are of course given much credit for spreading these beliefs, and "Crocodile" is on the bandwagon.

Russian railing against American newspapers is well known. Their principal contention seems to be that the free press of America is really in the hands of the capitalists and does only their bidding.

Against the Marshall Plan and the North Atlantic Pact, the Soviet press in the past year has unleashed an all-out attack. Both have been pictured as leading to the enslavement of Europe and the subjecting of European economy to management by "Uncle Sam."

This criticism of American foreign policy is carried over into the conduct of United Nations affairs. Overlooking world criticism of Russia's vetoes, "Crocodile" centers attention on the majorities which they contend are mere puppet shows, in which the other countries follow the vote of the U. S. delegation.

On probes: "In search of 'dangerous thoughts'—the Statue of Liberty under investigation" is Red caption on this.

Nelson's analysis of these and other propaganda cartoons has been published under the auspices of the Joint Slavic Committee of the American Council of Learned Societies and the Social Science Research Council. The illustrations reproduced here are made available through the courtesy of the copyright owner, Public Affairs Press, of Washington, D. C., publisher of "Out of the Crocodile's Mouth."
