

Sneak Tropical Storm Becomes Dangerous

GALVESTON, Aug. 23. (AP)—A sneak tropical storm took on dangerous proportions late tonight as it approached this section of the rich Texas coastal country.

At 8 p. m. weather bureau advisory placed the swirling disturbance only 100 miles southeast of the Texas coast and said it probably would strike near here before dawn.

Latest reports, the weather bureau said, indicated winds attending the storm have increased to 75 miles an hour near the storm center. Previously, the velocity was reported around 50 miles, indicating the disturbance was increasing in intensity as it neared the shoreline.

The bureau warned that the storm might reach full hurricane proportions when it strikes the coast. It placed the storm center at a latitude of 28.4 and a longitude of 93.6, moving northwest at west northwest about 10 miles an hour.

The storm slipped close to the shoreline before being discovered by ever alert weather observers. Immediately after the first warning was issued at 1:45 p. m. 200 miles of the Texas coastal country, dotted with mammoth oil refineries and other rich industries, were battered down.

At 8 p. m. no unusual tide actions were noted in Galveston. Tides were moderately high, but the water had not reached the seawall that protects Galveston from the open gulf. The coast guard lifeboat also reported no unusual tide or wave actions along the island beach.

The first warning, issued at 1:45 came as thousands of voters of the 15 counties in the ninth Texas congressional district were choosing a successor to the late Rep. Joseph J. Mansfield, who was responsible for many projects in this area intended to minimize danger from seasonal hurricanes.

Hurricane warnings immediately were ordered from Matagorda, about half way up the crescent-shaped Texas coast, to High Island, 25 miles east of Galveston, northwest storm warnings south of Matagorda to Port O'Connor and northeast storm warnings north of High Island to Lake Charles, La.

It was the fourth tropical storm of the season in the Gulf of Mexico. Only last Thursday a disturbance that caused uneasiness all along the coast from Florida to Texas dissipated into squalls off the upper Texas Coast.

Regan, Thompson Lead For Congress

Ken Regan of Midland had a strong lead, on the basis of unofficial and incomplete returns compiled Saturday night, in the special election for Congress in district 15, the vast Southwest Texas district, in which seven men were seeking the seat vacated by the resignation of Rep. Ewing Thompson.

fourth bid for the congressional seat, was in second place, and J. C. Trahan, former mayor of Texas City, was third. Other contestants were far behind.

Fire Damages E. T. Tucker Grain Elevator

Equipment and contents at an elevator of the E. T. Tucker Grain Co. sustained damage estimated at approximately $15,000 in an early morning fire Saturday.

Firemen said they received the alarm at 2:15 a. m. after the blaze started in the top of the structure.

The fire department was handicapped considerably in fighting the blaze since the only method for ascending to the top of the building is by elevator, and cables used in operation of the apparatus had burned in two.

Only apparent damage to the building was a burned roof, but some valuable equipment at the top of the shaft also was destroyed or damaged.

Approximately two cars of grain were stored in the elevator, and part of the contents were damaged by fire and water.

Firemen theorized that some matches or a lighted cigarette accidentally went up the elevator with a load of grain a few hours earlier.

Firemen were called out again at 4:30 p. m. Saturday to extinguish a brush fire at 804 West 17th. There was no damage, however.

Reviewing The Big Spring Week-

Joe Pickle

The week brought the not-unexpected order for a school bond-tax election, with voters scheduled to go to the polls Sept. 9 to decide on a tax boost to $1.50, and a bond issue up to $1,000,000. The whole problem is not settled, though, since a decision has to be made on how many bonds will be issued, and just where the money will be put—in a high school plant or in elementary buildings.

A meeting has been called by the school board for Tuesday night for a public airing of the matter. Those interested in their schools should be on hand.

The orchids of the week very properly went to Mother Zinn, who on Tuesday observed her 101st birthday. She's as happy as ever, as consecrated as ever. The whole community rejoices in her manifold blessings.

A hundred and two candles may seem like a lot of candles, but a special cake for Mrs. Zinn, prepared by Mrs. G. E. Fleeman, had just that many—101 for birthdays, and of course "one to grow on."

If you can think of a good location for Howard county's library, the library folk and county officials would like to know about it. The library is just now getting started, deserves every break it can get. A demand for more space for the highway patrol will force it out of the Third street location, but that's crowded anyway. A permanent home is badly needed, one that will provide for expansion. It would be regrettable to see temporary make-shift quarters provided. Now is the time to look ahead.

The rain still eludes us, but the hot weather has popped cotton bolls. Four bales came into the gins in two days this past week and more should be coming soon. If the honor for "first bale" must be designated, it looks like it ought to go to Tom Barber over Coahoma way, who got his first bale out of the gin.

Howard county was pretty positive in turning thumbs down on the college building amendment.

REPORTER'S HOME BOMBED

ATLANTA, Aug. 23. (AP)—The Atlanta Journal's veteran political reporter, C. E. Gregory, narrowly escaped death tonight when his home was bombed.

Gregory, a writer for the Journal for the past 24 years and key figure in more than one political expose, said he was sitting by his radio reading the paper when the blast occurred.

The 64-year-old reporter said the window into his living room was open at the time and police theorized that his assailants attempted to toss dynamite sticks through the opening.

The explosive, however, missed the window and dropped to the front porch where it exploded with relative harmlessness.

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 23. (AP)—George Baker of Fort Stockton was named president of the West Texas Press Association and the Hamilton News Herald selected the best all-around weekly of West Texas at the conclusion of the organization's annual convention here today.

Forest Weimhold of Levelland was elected second vice president and Willard Jones of Snyder was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

The Hamilton News Herald, published by Coy Perry, received the award for weeklies in towns over 2,000 population.

The Bronte Enterprise, edited by Ed Nunnally, Jr., received the award for the best all-around weekly in towns of less than 2,000 population.

A plaque presented by the West Texas chamber of commerce for the best community service by a West Texas weekly went to the Pecos Enterprise. Joe B. Pouns is editor of the Pecos paper.

Congressman George Mahon of Colorado City, principal speaker at the final session, was voted honorary membership in the association.

College Building Proposal In Doubt

The proposed college building amendment to the state constitution was holding a slight lead late Saturday night on the basis of unofficial returns being compiled by the Texas Election Bureau.

Returns to the Bureau at 11:30 p. m. from 188 out of 254 counties in the state, including 26 complete, showed the following totals in the special election:

For, 68,350.

Against, 63,718.

Voting generally over the state was light, except in those counties where other special elections attracted the electorate. Returns were coming in comparatively slowly, probably because small polls in many rural boxes were not being reported.

It was considered too early to establish a definite trend in the voting, and on the basis of returns compiled, the outcome was considered in doubt.

The Texas Election Bureau estimated that approximately 200,000 votes would be cast on the amendment issue.

The proposal would permit the University of Texas and Texas A. & M. College to float a bond issue to raise $15,000,000. The university would get $10,000,000 and A. & M. College $5,000,000.

The amendment also would authorize a change in the ad valorem tax levy so that the other 14 state-supported colleges would have revenue with which to float bonds totaling $45,000,000 over a 30-year period, the money would be distributed to the colleges on a percentage basis.

County Votes Against Bond Amendment 6-1

Howard counties exhibited practically the minimum of interest in a state constitutional amendment referendum Saturday, but those who did go to the polls registered a firm 6-1 "no" to a proposition to authorize bond issues for a college building program.

Eleven of the county's 15 boxes had reported. The unofficial total was 65 for the amendment and 388 against.

Returns had not been received from Vincent R-Bar, Knot and Soash. It appeared that the county's total vote will run no more than 500.

The vote by boxes:

Blalock Accused Of Seeking To Intimidate Senate Committee

MARSHALL, Aug. 23. (AP)—Sen. William Langer (R-ND), chairman of a U. S. Senate post-office subcommittee hearing complaints against supervisory personnel in the Marshall post-office, said today he was asking U. S. Attorney General Tom Clark "to take whatever action is necessary, criminal or civil, for trying to intimidate a committee of the U. S. Senate."

Langer made the announcement at the opening of the hearing this afternoon after first reading a news story in the Marshall News Messenger for Aug. 15 in which Myron Blalock, National Democratic committee man from Texas, was quoted as saying the announced visit to Marshall by Republican Senators to investigate alleged mistreatment of Marshall postoffice employees "is interesting and amusing."

The North Dakota Senator asked Dillard Rogers, chief investigator for the subcommittee, to subpoena the original copy of a telegram Blalock sent to Postmaster General Robert Hanne-man and First Assistant Postmaster Jeff Donaldson and instructed him to send it to Clark by registered mail.

The telegram, as quoted by the news story Langer read, said "it is publicly reported that Republican Senator Langer expects to personally visit the city of Marshall to investigate mistreatment of employees of the postoffice. It is most interesting and amusing."

"It will be quite interesting to see the formerly deposed Republican governor of North Dakota, under the guise of a 'holier than thou' investigator cir-

U. S. Fears Coup By Rebels In Greece

King Paul Moves To Meet Crisis

Tsaldaris Is Appointed To Form Cabinet

ATHENS, Greece, Aug. 23. (AP)—King Paul tonight instructed Constantin Tsaldaris to form a new Greek cabinet a few hours after an internal dispute brought about the collapse of the government of royalist Premier Demetrios Maximos.

Tsaldaris is a former premier and like Maximos is a member of the Royalist Populist party—the strongest political organization in Parliament.

On leaving the palace Tsaldaris told newsmen he had been given carte blanche by the king in forming the new government. He declared he would endeavor to include all political parties—including the liberals and those whose withdrawal today caused the crisis—in the cabinet. Tsaldaris added that he expected to announce his list of ministers Monday.

Maximos' cabinet fell unexpectedly after its members disagreed over the effectiveness of rightist measures against communist-led guerrillas. King Paul promptly told political leaders that Greece's current peril precluded her being without a government for "even a few hours."

As soon as possible after the new government is formed Parliament will be convened and new elections will be held, Tsaldaris said. The word "party" will be deleted in the functioning of his cabinet, the Premier-designate added.

Tsaldaris did not say whether he would name Napoleon Zervas as a minister. The fall of the Maximos cabinet was provoked in part by a demand that Zervas be removed from the key ministry of public order.

Although it was understood that Tsaldaris probably would ask Zervas to stay, there was some speculation that he might be offered another portfolio.

This marks the second time that Tsaldaris has been called to head the government. He was vice premier and foreign minister in Maximos' cabinet.

Lamesan Found Dead On Highway

Lewis Neel, Lamesa, Negro, was found dead on Highway 87 approximately two miles north of Big Spring at 3:30 o'clock Saturday morning.

Sgt. Gerald G. Ford, Bergston Field; Woodrow Wilson Wood, Banks; and T. L. Howard, Lamesa, who discovered the body while driving in the direction of Lamesa, said their vehicle struck the man but all expressed disbelief that their vehicle killed him.

Ford, driver of the machine, said he was temporarily blinded by an oncoming car. He said he heard the impact of something strike the car but believed the body lay prostrate on the highway at the time.

The trio said they were enroute to a funeral in Hobbs, N. M., at the time of the incident. They were allowed to continue on their way by local officers.

Body of the deceased was forwarded to Lamesa for burial.

King retired from his job as locomotive engineer for the Texas and Pacific railroad more than a year ago. He bought property in Long Beach several years ago and took up residence there but spent considerable time here.

Riots Continue In Cairo Street

CAIRO, Egypt, Aug. 23. (AP)—An Egyptian mob—protesting because the United Nations security council has not ordered British troops through the streets of Cairo tonight shouting "Long live Russia and Poland."

It was the second demonstration of this sort in as many days.

As was the case yesterday the Egyptians shouted "Down with imperialism, down with England, down with America the traitor."

A policeman was injured when members of the crowd, estimated to number more than 500 persons, stoned a truckload of police who tried to disperse them.

Two persons injured in yesterday's demonstration died today in Cairo, bringing the death toll to three, official sources said.

Public Forum Set On School Program

All persons interested in the city schools are being asked by members of the board of trustees to attend a forum discussion Tuesday night on a program to be followed in connection with a bond tax election which has been called for Sept. 9.

The session will be held at 8 o'clock, in room 305 of the high school building.

The district board last week called the referendum, which will be to determine whether or not the school tax levy shall be raised from $1 to a $1.50 maximum, and to determine whether or not the district shall issue up to $1,000,000 in bonds for building construction and plant improvement.

Formal election order, published Friday, calls for voting to be done at the city fire station. Robert Stripling was named as presiding judge, and will be assisted by C. E. Higginbotham, Mrs. N. W. McCleskey and Mrs. C. E. Shive. Only those qualified residents who have rendered property for school taxation will be eligible to vote.

Trustees have asked for public consideration of current fiscal and building problems of the school so that they may determine amount of bonds to be issued, and for what purpose. Under consideration is construction of a new high school building, or possibly an elementary building with additions to existing ward school plants. In addition, trustees must arrange for some part of the additional tax levy, if voted, to provide for increasing operating costs.

Greek Cabinet Falls In Bitter Dissension

Some Hope Is Still Held For Better Regime

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (AP)—The United States government is apprehensive, it was indicated tonight, that communist-dominated guerrilla forces may try to seize control of the Greek government with foreign support.

Loy W. Henderson, director of the state department's office of near eastern affairs, spoke of that possibility in a radio broadcast even as the Greek coalition government fell in bitter dissension over plans to reshuffle key posts.

Before he went on the air: 1. Reporters were given to understand that there is some American optimism over the prospects of getting a new, more efficient Athens regime which can, with American help, speed restoration of Greek economy.

2. In a formal statement, the State department accused the Greeks' three northern neighbors—Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia—of supporting the guerrilla warfare in Greece, and repeated its contention that international action is necessary to maintain Balkan peace.

Henderson appeared on the NBC network's foreign policy broadcast—a regular Saturday night feature—with George C. McGhee, coordinator for the American aid program to Greece and Turkey which has been accelerated in recent weeks to meet the threatening crisis.

Although the broadcast obviously was prepared in advance of the Greek cabinet collapse, Henderson declared that formation of a clandestine "free" government "might be seized upon as a pretext by other countries to furnish more assistance to the guerrillas with some cover of legality."

Henderson said also that United Nations attempts to halt the civil strife have been "consistently obstructed by Russian veto."

He made it plain that United States efforts to obtain international intervention have not ended and will be pressed next month before the United Nations general assembly where Russia cannot exercise its veto powers. Any decisions the assembly may make, however, will be in the nature of recommendations only.

Henderson said that "if a serious situation develops in Greece before the general assembly meets, drastic action will be necessary."

He added:

"If that action is taken by members of the United Nations in support of the charter principles it should not, and will not, mean that the United Nations is being bypassed."

That point—previously made by Herschel Johnson on behalf of the United States before the security council early this month, also pointed to the possibility of an American request for international action outside the UN to halt the civil strife.

Tough Soldier's Soldier

General Eichelberger Runs Works For MacArthur In Japan

YOKOHAMA, Aug. 23. (U)—The floor of the bedroom rocked gently, the walls groaned, the chandelier swung like a pendulum and at length Lt. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger awakened.

"What's going on, Miss Em?" he asked his wife.

"It's an earthquake,"

"Oh," said the eighth army commander, "just an earthquake."

Then he rolled over and went back to sleep.

"That goes to show you what an optimist the General is," said Capt. Bill Tomlinson of Shreveport, La., Eichelberger's aide.

"He's the darndest optimist there is. He always believes everything is going to turn out fine, and for him it always does."

"Just look at him — he's 61 years old and he went through four years of the hardest Pacific fighting. Young officers dropped out like flies with malaria and other tropical diseases. The General lost weight but he wasn't sick a day. Now he works 10 hours a day at headquarters and takes stuff home with him every night. He is tough as a boot."

Indeed, the General looked fit; lean, well muscled, broad-shouldered, very erect. Six feet 1 inch tall, 185 pounds. A roughly handsome man — long faced, prominent nose, full brown, steady, cool eyes, large mouth that slips easily into a smile.

"He's the occupation of Japan," the captain said. "General MacArthur makes the policies and leaves the rest of it up to General Eichelberger. It's General Eichelberger who feeds the people, regulates imports and exports, manages the occupation. I don't know how he keeps up with it all, but with him everything clicks just right, if you get what I mean."

The General's strong, restive hands toyed with a folder on his desk. Behind him flags of the United Nations drooped from their masts. His office in Eighth Army headquarters here is large, tastefully decorated. On both sides are offices of secretaries and aides. The general uses no buzzers—he shouts amiably to summon assistants — calling them by their first names.

"Let's have some tea," the General suggested, then he grinned: "You know you get to like the stuff if you work at it long enough."

"Mary, we need tea," he called, and a WAC captain, smiling broadly, appeared in the doorway.

"Cold or hot?" she wanted to know.

"Hot," said the General decisively.

"You have a nice set up here, General," the visitor remarked.

"We stay happy," Eichelberger replied. "Miss Em says all the assignments we have been on together have been happy ones."

All down the line of Pacific fighting, Eichelberger was a soldier's soldier — going in for the landings, backing through the jungles, taking his chances with snipers. He told his officers during the first cold winter in Japan: "I'd better not catch any of you fellows with oil stains on the enlisted men's barracks don't have them first."

General Eichelberger doesn't call it the Eighth Army. To him it is the "Amphibious Eighth." Fifty-two landings in the Philippines alone.

"He busts a button every time he mentions the Eighth," Captain Tomlinson said. "There never was a man prouder of an Army."

The General's office is lined with photographs and maps. A picture of General MacArthur carries the inscription "to the Eighth Army, with admiration and affection."

Nearby, in another frame, are these words, signed by MacArthur: "No Army of this war has achieved greater glory and distinction than the Eighth."

"I wouldn't take anything for that," says Eichelberger.

A native of Urbana, Ohio, Eichelberger was graduated from the U. S. Military Academy in 1909 and served in Indiana, Texas, the Panama Canal Zone, New York and Arizona. During the first war he served with the American expeditionary forces, Siberia. He had been superintendent of West Point two years when, in January, 1942, he was released to organize the 77th division which was reactivated under his command.

When Eichelberger returns to the United States, he wants to tour Texas.

Texas Wholesalers' Inventories Are High

AUSTIN, Aug. 23. (U)—Inventories of Texas wholesalers remain high despite attempts to hold them down, standing 54 percent above those of a year ago at the end of June, the University of Texas bureau of business research reported today.

Automotive supply dealers saw their inventories double from June 1946, to June, 1947, while electrical goods were up 84 percent, tobacco 63, and the hardware group advanced 70 percent.

Sales of wholesalers were 21 percent above the year-ago June level, but the May - to - June slump of 4 percent brought the state's average down considerably, said the research bureau report.

Only seven warranty deeds were filed in the county clerk's office during the week.

New construction work launched in the city last week will cost an estimated $15,040. Included in the list of permits granted by the city were four for new residential units. Total building figures for the year now amount to $842,387.

B' Spring Livestock Sales Show Strength

A strong livestock market highlighted business activity again in Big Spring during the past week.

Although considerably lighter than average, receipts were considered high for this stage of the season, and bidders appeared anxious to purchase both butcher and stocker animals.

Fat calves topped at $23.50 cwt., while some stocker calves moved as high as $21.80 to lead the way. Other grades of cattle were equally strong, and hogs made new gains, ranging up to $27.50.

Press Of Business Nearly Crushes Him

YORK, Neb. (U)—Supt. T. R. McNickle of York city schools learned a half-horse power drill press was offered for sale as surplus government property.

He thought it would make a fine addition to the high school agriculture shop, and ordered it. Sorry, said the government, the press no longer was available but another press could be had from Tulsa.

A few days later a huge truck pulled into the school yard and started to unload, but the little press ordered, not a 25,000-pound multiple drill press with five motors.

McNickle stopped the unloading in time.

Rutherford And Elliott Purchase Cleaning Plant

Purchase of the Gregg Street Cleaners, 1706 Gregg, has been announced by Frank Rutherford and J. D. Elliott, both of whom have long been identified with Big Spring business operations.

The establishment is to be under management and personal supervision of Rutherford, who has operated cleaning and tailoring shops in the city for many years. He is returning to this chosen trade after an absence, and is inviting his old friends and customers to call on him in the new location.

Elliott is well known as the former operator of drug stores bearing his name, and at present owner of the Elliott Apartment Center at Rundles and Sixth streets.

Latest cleaning and pressing machinery is used in the shop, the new owners said, and they have added the most modern equipment for hat cleaning and blocking. The best workmanship available is pledged by the new owners, who have adopted the slogan, "personal skilled service."

Record Enrollment Expected

Big Spring School System Gets Ready To Start Work

With a record enrollment in prospect, the Big Spring public school system will be ready to launch formal class work for the fall term on Sept. 2, officials announced Saturday.

Although students are not scheduled to report for assignments and orientation until 9 a. m. Sept. 2, several preliminary phases of registration are due to be completed during the coming week.

Students planning to attend the Big Spring High school for the first time have been asked to report to the principal's office in advance of the opening date to fill out registration cards. Also, any previous students who contemplate schedule changes should alter their plans next week. Class period assignments are being made now.

The fall session will begin Sept. 1 with a faculty meeting. Then at 9 a. m. Sept. 2, ninth grade students are to report to the High School gymnasium for orientation and home room assignments. All students in the 10th, 11th and 12th grades will report to their regular guidance rooms at the same hour.

Eighth grade students are scheduled to receive home room assignments at 1 p. m. in the gym.

Two new courses will be offered at the high school this year. Added to those offered last year will be vocational agriculture and mechanical drawing. At the same time the school's music field will be broadened considerably in both band and choral music.

The High school has a full staff of teachers and instructors under contract for the first time since beginning of the war.

Enrollment at the high school is expected to increase, based on the number of new students who have already contacted the Principal's office. Average enrollment during the last long term was 749.

All elementary school students in the district have been requested to report to the school in their respective districts at 9 a. m. on Sept. 2. It is imperative that the elementary district boundaries be respected on opening day, officials said, and it has been requested that no applications for transfers be submitted until the term actually begins.

This policy is mandatory, officials said, since indications are that some elementary schools will be overcrowded, and most transfers must be granted in accordance with enrollment figures.

Officials reminded that all elementary school students in the Ellis Homes and Airport additions should report to West Ward. All students above the fifth grade at South Ward and those above the sixth grade at College Heights are to report to Central Ward, since those grades will not be taught in their respective districts.

Pre-enrollment conferences will be held at the elementary schools on Thursday for all first year students. Parents are requested to accompany students to the conference if possible, since the purpose is to secure information for cumulative records. Students also must bring birth certificates and small pox vaccination certificates.

Although definite enrollment trends will not be established until opening day, officials are confident that double sections will be required through the fourth grade in at least four schools, and possibly through the third grade in some others.

The elementary school system still needs half a dozen teachers to round out the staff. Vacancies exist on the faculty at third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh grade levels.

The High school staff, which was completed last week, is made up of teachers qualified in their respective fields, and all have degrees.

The two, both outstanding club boys in different fields, are Ronny Fee, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. CATTLEMEN SPEAK ON SKIRT LENGTH

MADISONVILLE, Aug. 23. (AP)—Regardless of how long skirts get and how many cattle a woman owns, no woman member of the Madisonville Sidewalk Cattlemen's Association will be allowed to stuff her skirt hem in her boots.

The association, self-appointed boot-wearing regulators for the world, met in special session this week to confront the crisis in skirt length, and decided to leave its celebrated rules unchanged.

Rule 3 of the association allows the owner of as many as four head of cows to stuff both pants legs in his boots.

"We don't care how long Paris and New York experts decide women's skirts should be," the members declared, "no fashion will stay up (or down) astride a horse."

Leader Calls Alaska Godless

CHAUTAUQUA, N. Y., Aug. 23. (AP)—The executive director of the Home Missions Council of North America says Alaska is "The most Godless, yet over-churching place in the world."

Vice and "religious racket" flourish in the territory, Dr. Mark A. Dawber of New York City told the Institute of World Missions last night.

"All I say to the war department is 'why don't you do your duty and enforce the law in Alaska?'" Dr. Dawber added. "If Alaska is to remain a defense area, Uncle Sam must step in and uphold the law."

Dr. Dawber, who toured Alaska last spring, said the territory suffered from legalized prostitution and heavy liquor consumption.

"That territory spends $15 per week on liquor for every man, woman and child per week mind you," he said.

NEW YORK, Aug. 23. (AP)—Eight hundred or more resolutions, some of them on veterans' housing and immigration, are scheduled for consideration at the four-day national convention of the American Legion, beginning here Thursday.

Contents of the resolutions were not available today.

The Legion in the past has advocated restricted immigration, especially when United States unemployment was high.

Red Cross To Study Problem Of Moving

A special meeting of directors of the Howard - Glasscock chapter, American Red Cross, has been called for Wednesday evening at 7:30, by Chairman A. V. Karcher.

Red Cross leaders are urged to attend to discuss problems arising from the possibility of Red Cross having to move from its quarters on Fourth street.

Although definite arrangements have not been completed, it was said Saturday by County Judge Walton Morrison, it seems a foregone conclusion that the Howard County Free Library must vacate its present quarters on Third street, to make room for expansion of the state highway patrol offices here.

County officials have considered moving the library to the Red Cross quarters, but Morrison said final action will not be taken immediately.

Red Cross leaders have indicated they hope to make suggestions to prevent a move, pointing out the varied service the organization is rendering from its central location and the need for continuation of this service which includes not only a heavy veteran-aid load, but a heavy part of the local relief activities for local people.

Chess Champ Gets $1,000 Special Prize

CORPUS CHRISTI, Aug. 23. (AP)—Isaac Kashdan, undefeated United States open chess champion, had a $1,000 special prize along with the George Sturgis trophy today.

The New York City chess master completed tournament play undefeated yesterday by defeating Robert G. Wade of New Zealand in 34 moves. The victory gave him a final score of 11½ points.

The $1,000 added first prize was donated by Sam E. Wilson, Corpus Christi oil man.

Abe Yanofsky of Winnipeg, Canadian champion, and Anthony E. Santasiere, New York school teacher, divided $800 second and third prize money after deadlocking for the runner-up spot.

Miguel Cuellar Gacharno of Bogota, Colombia, won a $200 prize for finishing fourth. He also was given a special award as the top-ranking Latin American player in the tournament.

The four men who tied for fifth place split $240 in prizes. They were George Kramer of New York City; Stephen Shaw, school teacher from the Bronx; Augusto Sanchez of Bogota; and Norman P. Whitaker of Shadyside, Mo.

Howard County 4-H Club Steers To Be Inspected

Howard county 4-H club steers will be assembled for a formal inspection Saturday morning at the Bombardier School warehouse area, County Agent Duward Lewter has announced.

The county agent said that virtually all steers now on feed in the county will be brought in for the occasion. The county 4-H club committee will inspect the animals, and results of the inspection probably will determine local entries at the State Fair in Dallas.

All local business men, farmers and ranchers are invited to witness the inspection.

Club members will be asked to have their respective animals in place by 8 a. m., Lewter said.

South Still Cares For Civil War Vets

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Aug. 24. (AP)—Eighty-two years after Lee's surrender at Appomattox, the South still pays more than $3,000,000 a year to care for its Confederate heroes and the widows of their fallen comrades.

Eleven states maintain separate pension systems for veterans of the war between the states. Oklahoma did, too, until this year, when the legislature abolished it and turned the affairs over to the public welfare commission which administers the old age pension program.

Some states provide assistance for Negro servants who waited on their Confederate soldiers, and one, Virginia, cares for needy daughters of the veterans.

But for the most part, the pensions go to the fast-thinning ranks of those who fought the battle of Dixie, and to the widows of others who have died.

Less than 100 veterans are listed on the pension rolls in the 12 southern states, but the rolls of widows total about 5,000. This is explained by the fact that many of the ex-warriors married women considerably younger than themselves.

Nearly one-fourth the total amount spent each year for Confederate assistance comes from Texas, whose annual pension roll is $715,200 and whose pension rate ranks with Alabama's as the highest.

Two married veterans in the Lone Star state draw $150 a month each, and 11 others who live in the Confederate home receive $100 a month. Alabama, which no longer maintains a home, pays each of its four remaining veterans $150 a month—a payroll of $338,000 a year.

Alabama pays $50 a month each to its 553 widows, and Texas has 1,144 former Confederate wives who draw the same allotment, plus 40 who live at the home and get $25 a month.

Next to Texas, the largest yearly expenditure is in Georgia, where the pension payroll totals about $524,000. Georgia pays its six veterans $75 a month and its 867 widows $50.

Five veterans are still living in Arkansas. Total yearly pension payments are estimated at $8,500.

Old-Timers Invited To Reunion At Colorado City September 3

COLORADO CITY, Aug. 23. — Five hundred invitations to Mitchell county old-timers who now live in 48 states and one in Mexico have been mailed urging attendance at the pioneer reunion which is annually part of the Colorado City Frontier Roundup and rodeo, set for Sept. 3, 4, 5, and 6 this year. Working as the invitation committee is Mrs. J. G. Merritt, who has lived longer in the county than any other citizen, and Mrs. C. P. Gary.

Plans for the reunion, with Mrs. E. A. Barcroft as president of the Pioneer association, are considerably more elaborate than during war years, according to committee members who are already working up program, refreshment, and decoration themes. Beginning at ten in the morning, Thursday, Sept. 4, and continuing through Friday, registration of old-timers will take place in the city-county building. Wednesday afternoon members of the association will be dressed in early day costumes and will have a decorated float in the parade which opens the celebration here at six p. m. the first day of roundup.

Hostesses for the party are to be Mrs. B. F. Dulaney, widow of this town's pioneer dentist, Mrs. R. O. Pearson, Mrs. Lay Powell, Mrs. Robert Terrell, and Mrs. Merritt. Members of the houseparty will again wear the clothes they have saved since the late eighties, and the early nineties to further carry out the theme of "Among My Souvenirs."

400,000 Left Feet that never push a clutch!

GM HYDRA-MATIC DRIVE has been proved by nearly 400,000 Oldsmobile owners in billions of miles of "no-clutch, no-shift" driving!

400,000 left feet... left without a thing to do! Because Hydra-Matic Drive eliminates the clutch pedal and all clutch pushing. 400,000 right hands... on the steering wheel where they belong! Because Hydra-Matic Drive shifts gears automatically—makes manual shifting a thing of the past!

That's the story of convincing proof that lies behind the GM Hydra-Matic Drive of today. Oldsmobile first introduced this revolutionary advancement almost 8 years ago! And since then, nearly 400,000 owners of Hydra-Matic Oldsmobiles have driven literally billions of miles—without ever pushing a clutch!

After these 8 years, Hydra-Matic Drive is still the only "drive" that eliminates the clutch pedal and shifts gears automatically through four forward speeds. The lowest-priced car to offer GM Hydra-Matic Drive* is the smart new Oldsmobile. It's ahead in performance—automatically. Ahead in appearance—dramatically. That's why people are saying, "It's SMART to Own an Olds!"

Britain Sends 4,400 Jews From Exodus To Hamburg

LONDON Aug. 23. (U.P.)—Britain announced today that the 4,400 Jews of the Exodus were being taken to Germany where they presumably will be disembarked by force if necessary with the objective of returning them to France by rail.

But at the same time the Jewish agency of Palestine instituted habeas corpus proceedings against British officials on behalf of the refugees which agency officials said might prevent the Jews from being put ashore in Germany or anywhere else outside British territory.

The Jews, balked in their attempt to run the immigration blockade of Palestine, where some-

Farm Bureau Sponsors Program

Plans Being Laid For Bringing In Cotton Pickers From Mexico

Plans for bringing in alien labor from Mexico to assist with the cotton harvest may be completed by the Howard County Farm Bureau within the next week, officials announced Saturday.

The bureau chapter is taking the lead in development of the proposed program in view of present crop prospects, officials said. Although no shortage of labor from local and area sources is expected immediately, difficulties at a critical stage of the harvest season could materially affect the marketable cotton yield in the county, they pointed out. Barring unforeseen handicaps, production this year is expected to advance into high figures, since exceptionally large acreages have been devoted to the crop.

The Farm Bureau will not be in a position to give full details of its labor program or accept applications for placements for at least another week. However, within 10 days the organization hopes to be ready for full-scale operation of the program.

Here is the system developed by the bureau, which has been drafted in accordance with immigration regulations:

The Howard County Farm Bureau will execute a contract with the Government of Mexico, and individual farmers who need laborers will, in turn, enter contracts with the bureau. Transportation costs for the laborers from the border to the cotton fields will be paid from a processing fund set up by the bureau. Estimates are that the processing costs will amount to approximately $5 per worker, which the farmers will pay to the bureau. Workers will be available until Jan. 1, when the visas will expire.

Laborers brought here in the program will be between the ages of 16 and 50 years, and all will be able bodied men. No women and children will be transported here under the program.

Bureau officials pointed out that individual farmers who make contracts with the Mexican Government are required to post $30 for each worker in a Mexican bank before the laborers can be transported across the border. By administering the program through the bureau organization this fee is eliminated.

All local arrangements for execution of the contract and other details were virtually completed at a meeting here Saturday afternoon.

Wage scales for the alien laborers will be set up as stipulated in the bureau's contract with the Government of Mexico, which will provide a minimum level, with ample flexibility for localized adjustment.

GENTILITY COMES HIGH
NEW YORK (U.P.) — Baghat Chiny Bey, member of the Higher Council of Tourism in Egypt, said he thought he would be glad to get back home after his first visit to the United States. Taking off from La Guardia Field, he explained: "Why, it costs $75 to $80 a day to live as a gentleman should in America."

The Week

Saturday. Probably an example, for a lot of us, of not knowing what it's all about, and playing safe by voting no.

We may be getting somewhere in city paving. Commissioners are due to study a contract deal with a construction firm which would handle the whole program. After all the grief our paving program has been through, this procedure is worth a try. Chances are it can be made into a productive plan.

Treaty Talks By Big Four May Be Resumed

LAKE SUCCESS, Aug. 23. (U.P.)—The possibility of four-power talks on the deadlocked German and Austrian peace treaties in New York during the forthcoming session of the United Nations general assembly was developing tonight.

Information from Washington, London and Paris indicated resumption in New York of the Big Four conference which ended in a stalemate at Moscow last April hinged on Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov.

When the Moscow conference ended the Big Four foreign ministers agreed to meet again in London in November unless all of them showed up for the U. N. assembly which opens Sept. 16. In that event, they agreed a brief session would be held in New York.

Argentina Holds To Stand At Rio

QUITANDINHA, Brazil, Aug. 23. (U.P.)—Argentinian today adhered to her stand against force to stop Inter-American conflicts but admitted that aggression should be branded as such whether from within or without the western hemisphere.

This position, together with Argentina's insistence on a unanimous vote in taking joint hemispheric action against aggression, rather than the two-thirds majority rule favored by the United States, constitute the two main obstacles to agreement on a mutual defense pact in the 20-nation Inter-American conference.

Needless 8,000 Mile Travel

Couple Is Reunited After Trip Mix-Up

SEATTLE Aug. 23. (U.P.)—After more than 8,000 miles of "needless" travel, Mrs. John M. Barksdale of Gladewater, Tex., was reunited with her Army master sergeant husband here today.

Barksdale, stationed at Fort Worth Army Air Field, reported he was in "probably the world's largest doghouse," when a mix-up in signals last month sent his attractive wife, Gladys, 26, to Japan at almost the same time he was landing here from Japan.

Mrs. Barksdale came back on the transport Fred C. Ainsworth, arriving today.

The sergeant was waiting at the pier, but for a few minutes Mrs. Barksdale thought there had been another slip-up, because a reporter found her before her husband did.

"I was hoping he'd be here to meet me," she said. "John can start preparing that doghouse right now."

Then the Barksdales found each other and all was forgiven.

Mrs. Barksdale said the family's travel troubles began July 22 when she left Gladewater under Army orders for Japan to join her husband. Unknown to her, while she was on her way to Seattle, her husband was enroute here. His ship docked July 29 while Mrs. Barksdale was at Fort Lawton waiting for the Ainsworth to sail. Two days later she sailed.

She didn't learn her husband was in Texas until she reached Yokohama, and he didn't know she had sailed until he got home.

"I think it was all the Army's fault," she said. "He was here at least two days—at least that's what they told me."

Ellenburger Strike In Sterling County

By JOHN B. BREWER

SAN ANGELO, Aug. 23. —Prospects of discovery Ellenburger production in Sterling county and Pennsylvania oil in eastern Upton county and western Crockett shared West Texas attention this week with Humble's opening of an indicated major Ellenburger field in southwestern Ector county and addition of Ellenburger pay to the Dollarhide (Devonian and Silurian) field in southwestern Andrews.

Humble No. 1 Yarbrough & Allen in Ector flowed 129.15 barrels of 41 gravity oil on its first drillstem test of the Ellenburger from 10-523-548 feet. It flowed 115 barrels the first hour and 55 barrels the next 33 minutes on a test from 10,547-68. The Ellenburger was entered at 10,490 feet, 7,597 feet below sea level.

The strike is in the C NW NE 18-B14-pst, seven miles west of Phillips Petroleum Co. and others' No. 1 Eldon-Scharbauer, small discovery Ellenburger well east of the Penwell (San Andres) field. Pure and Humble No. 1 E. P. Cowden and others obtained Ellenburger pay after marking a north-west extension to the Devonian and Silurian in the Dollarhide field, most southerly in Andrews county. It flowed 43 gravity oil at a rate estimated unofficially at 50 barrels hourly on a drillstem test from 9,980-10-033 feet. The Ellenburger was entered at 9,900 feet, 6,821 feet below sea level. Location is the C SE SW 24-A52-pst. Plymouth No. 1 Mrs. Georgia Frost, Sterling county wildcat C NE SW 39-2-H&TC, was due to perforate 5 1-2 inch casing cemented on bottom at 8,385 feet, to which the depth was corrected from 8,379. The Ellenburger was entered at 8,354 feet, 5,750 feet below sea level, and 850 feet of oil was recovered on a 3 1-2 hour drillstem test from 8,359-69 feet. Gas was estimated at 250,000 cubic feet daily.

More dolomite with fluorescence and color was drilled to 8,379 (corrected to 8,385). Packers failed due to casing hole on several attempts to drillstem test and casing was run. No. 1 Frost is 11 1-2 miles north and slightly west of Sterling City, on a 24-section block, which Tom Cox leased for Plymouth over 10 years ago after doing the geological work on it.

Slick-Urschel Oil Co. of San Antonio No. 1 D. L. Alford and others in Upton county recovered an estimated 6,000 feet, or 50 barrels, of high gravity oil on a four-hour drillstem test of the Pennsylvania from 9,410-94 feet after cleaning itself. It drilled ahead below 9,640 feet in shale, scheduled to explore the Ellenburger.

Plymouth abandoned No. 1 Alford at 10,384 1-2 feet in 1941 when it could not clean up a fishing job. It retained a divided half interest in 7,500 acres in turning a like amount of acreage to Fred Turner, Jr., of Midland, who made a deal with Slick-Urschel to deepen to 13,000 feet if necessary to explore the Ellenburger. Location is 467 feet north and west of the center of section 50 1-2, P. B. Scott survey.

Byrd and Frost of Dallas and others' No. 1 J. B. Mayberry-J. Homer Trippett, northwestern Crockett county wildcat, unloaded oil through the drillpipe at a rate estimated at 25 barrels hourly on a test from 6,293-6,376 feet. It flowed an ungaged amount of distillate on a test to 6,389. It cored to 6,398.5 feet and was to test again.

The formation was believed by some to be either Canyon or Strawn. Location is 660 feet out of the east corner of section 39-31-H&TC, on a Shell farm out, six miles northwest of the Yates field and 11 miles southeast of McCamey.

Al P. Groehl of San Angelo No. 1 Hayden Baugh estate, Schleicher county wildcat C SE SE 8-M-GH&SA, was credited with the highest Strawn top in the area—5,696 feet, 3,342 feet below sea level. This was correlated from 175 feet high to a dry hole five miles east to 351 feet high to a failure nine miles northwest. Oil and gas shows were encountered from 5,730-80 and from 5,835-73 feet, possibly corresponding to the two upper pays in the Page field 4 1-2 miles south and slight east. No. 1 Baugh had drilled below 6,103 feet in lime and is slated to test the Ellenburger.

R. G. Clay of Fort Worth No. 1 O. W. Jones, new wildcat in southeastern Dawson county projected to 4,750 feet, had passed 3,548 in anhydrite. It is in the C NW NE 26-35-Sn-T&P, five miles southeast of Lamesa.

Apples have been cultivated in Great Britain since the time of the Roman occupation.

Roden Seeking Tourney Spot

Bill "Red" Roden goes to Odessa Tuesday where he will play in a sectional qualifying round for the National Amateur golf tournament, which will be played at Pebble Beach, California, Sept. 8-13.

Roden will be one of 11 linksmen trying for three qualifying places in the 36-hole Odessa show and one of 78 in Texas. Some 67 entries will be playing the Brook Hollow course in Dallas at the same time for 12 qualifying spots there.

Others who will compete at Odessa include Raymond Stoker, Ted Roden, Bill McMahon, Billy and Bobby Davidson, Mac Boring Lloyd French, and Bill Brendon, all of Odessa; Carroll Baird, Fort Worth; and Evans Dunn, Midland.

Local Trio Take In Tournament

Shirley Robbins, Bob Satterwhite and Marvin Miller are in Longview this week when the annual golf tournament there is taking place. The latter two planned to take part in the tourney.

One of the missions of the expedition was to invite East Texas players to the 18th annual Big Spring Invitational tournament, which begins at the Country Club Friday.

No Record Output Seen

Shortages Hamper Auto Production

DETROIT, Aug. 23. (P)—The nation's automobile industry has about 50 percent greater production capacity than it had before the war but it may be well into next year before fullest use of it can be made.

Harassed by parts and materials shortages, chiefly sheet steel, the industry has abandoned hope that 1947 will be a record year in car and truck output. It apparently will do well if it turns out 3,500,000 passenger vehicles and 1,000,000 commercial units.

Latest blow to the industry's hopes for a sharp upturn in this year's output is General Motors' curtailment of production schedules, attributed to sheet steel scarcities. Other manufacturers apparently have had to hold back assemblies for the same reason.

Some of the Ford plants continued to feel the effects of the recently settled strike in the Murray Corporation plants. Studebaker, which obtained sheet metal parts from Murray, plans to resume car assemblies next Tuesday after a shutdown of nearly three weeks.

It was indicated today, however, that while most of the larger Ford plants will be in production early next week, some branch factories will remain closed.

Thus production next week is likely to be little, if any better than it was during the last five days. This week's assemblies numbered approximately 38,500 passenger cars and about 20,000 commercial vehicles built in the United States.

Report Shows 200 Strikes In Nation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (P)—The labor department said today its preliminary reports indicated that about 125,000 workers were involved in 200 strikes on Wednesday—the day before many provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act went into effect, including the ban on the closed shop.

The figure, a labor department official told a reporter, included virtually every work stoppage in the country—several involving only five or six workers.

State's Lumber Output Is Down

AUSTIN, Aug. 23. (P)—Southern Pine mills lumber production plummeted to 75 per cent of prewar production from June to July, the University of Texas bureau of business research reported today.

Average weekly production per unit dropped 1 per cent during June. Rapidly advancing wholesale and retail prices and heavy rain contributed to the decline.

Beauty Wins Her Second Contest

PERRYTON, Aug. 23. (P)—Jean Watson, who was chosen Miss Borger of 1947 Monday night, was crowned "Miss Wheatheart" at the Perryton birthday celebration here last night.

The Borger beauty won over contestants from Texas, Kansas, Colorado and Oklahoma. Formerly of Paris, she was married two months ago and is employed in Borger.

British May Ask More Loan Changes

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (AP)—The British government may request the United States to approve further changes in the $3,750,000,000 loan agreement within two months. American officials frankly acknowledged this probability today, saying they are far from sure the concessions already granted the British will enable them to survive their grave dollar crisis. As the dollar conference ended, these officials said there was a tacit understanding on both sides that the British can return for more "crisis" talks once they determine how much help the changes already agreed upon will provide.

Daniel Clarifies Law

UT Clubs Commend Action Against Race Discrimination

AUSTIN, Aug. 23. (AP)—Three University of Texas student clubs today commended Attorney General Price Daniel for his interpretation and clarification of Texas laws pertaining to racial discrimination. At the same time spokesmen for the three groups said they considered the Texas laws ambiguous and would continue their efforts in combatting segregation of Latin-American children in Texas schools.

The Laredo Club, Alba Club, and university chapter of the American Veterans Committee had previously approved a resolution protesting an opinion by the Attorney General's department. They said the opinion left a loophole for continued discrimination against Latin-Americans.

Ed Idar, Jr., chairman of the Laredo Club anti-discrimination committee, said today that this earlier resolution was directed at ambiguities in the law rather than the opinion itself and therefore would not be rescinded.

The resolution issued today quoted three points of clarification by Daniel on an earlier opinion that Latin-American children may not be segregated on a basis of their racial ancestry:

1. "Pedagogical reasons must not serve as a pretext to practice the segregation of children on subject matter other than those in which scientific tests, equally applied to all students regardless of racial ancestry, have proved that special instruction is necessary."

2. "Separation for instructional purposes in those aforesaid subject matters does not justify inferiority in general educational facilities nor in the quality of teachers, but, if anything, calls for superior facilities and instructors."

3. "The grouping of children for special instructional purposes should be based solely on the result of said test, without reference to racial origin or social background."

The resolution said action would be continued, seeking "remedial legislative and judicial action to prevent such segregation which is a cancerous growth on our democratic institutions."

Two Minors Are Returned Here

Pablo Canale and Ricardo Carrasco two Latin-American minors, were returned to Big Spring Saturday morning and placed in the juvenile detention ward after they had been picked up by Sheriff Morris Zimmerman in Stanton.

The two were in the act of selling a bicycle allegedly stolen here sometime Friday.

LOCAL VISITOR

Mrs. Don Capansky of Larkspur, Colo., arrived Saturday morning for an extended visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Choate.

Swimmers Meet Tests Given At Fort Worth

Seven students who completed the recent YMCA swimming course at the Municipal pool returned Friday from Fort Worth, where progress checks were made by the certifying examiner for the Southwest area of the YMCA's aquatic program.

Representative members of three classes, including three boys and three girls, were given a two and a half hour test by Maurice Neale of the Fort Worth YMCA, and all justified or exceeded classifications awarded here at conclusion of the course. Several in the group were classified as non-swimmers prior to the course.

City Heads Will Talk Paving Again

Paving is expected to occupy a high spot on the agenda Tuesday when Big Spring city commissioners conduct their regular meeting at City hall.

The commissioners probably will convene at 3 p. m.

The city fathers plan to follow up on discussion of paving by contract. One contractor submitted a list of estimated costs at a called session Wednesday, and another firm was indicated that it would have a similar schedule ready by Tuesday.

During the 18th century, or child raising was a rich man's hobby.

The American Business Club's second annual Six-Man Football Coaching school, perhaps the only one of its kind in the nation, will be conducted at the Settles Hotel here Friday and Saturday, Aug. 29-30 with a record registration in prospect.

Last year, something like 43 coaches and officials of the abbreviated sport showed up for the clinic. More than 60 persons from all over the state are due to be here this week.

LOOKING 'EM OVER

With TOMMY HART

Of all the players on the Big Spring Bronco baseball team, only Orlando Moreno and Gaspar Del Toro have been able to play every inning of every game without mishap. . . . At the present time, the squad perhaps is in worse physical shape than at any stage during the campaign. . . . Gerry Rodriguez entered a local hospital last week with blood poisoning. . . . He was struck on the leg by a batted ball in the recent Midland series. . . . The delayed action misery shelved him approximately a week later. . . . Others like Norman St. Gorg, Armando Traspuesto, Humberto Baez and Jake McLain are ailing but manage to stay in uniform. . . . On occasions, Manger Pt Stacey has been hrd spent to put nine men on the playing field. . . . Fortunately, the Hossees have already clinched a spot in the playoffs. . . . Here's a partial rundown on the players sidelined by injuries, the nature of their hurts and the length of their idleness: Andy Viamonte, shattered knee, out for season; Jose Traspuesto, chipped bones in pitching arm, out for season; Peppert Martin, swollen knee, ten days; Norman St. George, pleurisy, still ailing; Jake McLain, bruised thumb, still a bother; Pat Patterson, stomach ailment, ten days; Leamon Bostick, fallen arches, had all year; Mario Varona, pains in side, three days; Bert Baez, bad leg and sickness, ten days; Pat Stacey, painful leg injury, four days; and Ray Mendoza, sore arm, a week. . . .

Joe Cambria, Washington's baseball scout, has been closeted with Pat Stacey and Claude McAden, the local brain trust for the past three days discussing strategy for the playoff. . . . Cambria minced no words in criticizing the lack of aggressiveness in some of the boys. . . . What ever happened to the Most Valuable Player award in the Longhorn league's All-Star game? . . . Our Town's Moreno and Del Toro were standout candidates for the watch that would have gone to the winner.

Fanning: Nelson's Long Irons Tops

Midland baseball fans are starting a pennant fever for their Indians. . . . Bets are being made along the Main Stem here that Sweetwater's Sports, despite their recent slump, will win the Shaughnessy round next week. . . . The same parties say Big Spring would have been the toughest team in the scrap had not Lloyd "Pat" Patterson departed recently. . . . Blacky Hines, manager of the Caden Pipeline softball team, is in the process of challenging the Colorado City Jaycee league. . . . Hines, Cuthbert, for the Mitchell-Howard championship. The Caden team won the Muny league crown here last week. . . . Ducats for the Byron Nelson exhibition at the Muny golf course Thursday, priced at $1.10 each, are on sale at the Sunnyside golf shop. . . . Foy Fanning, the Muny pro, says Lord Byron has the best "tee to green" game in the world. . . . According to Foy, the Roanoke farmer's wood shot is under-estimated. . . . He averages 248 yards with his tee shot but can get more on a long course. . . . He never spews his shot, preferring to get them down the middle in order to bring his devastating iron into play. . . . His shot is just so-so, says Foy, but he rarely needs them because of the accuracy of his long irons. . . . Harold Davis, the new basketball coach and athletic director at Howard County Junior college who has arrived to take up residence here, played on the North Texas Teachers cage team which won third place in the NAIB tournament at Kansas City in 1943. . . . Harold was a guard. . . . According to Hal Saxley, the Abilene scribe, the District AAA football coaches are picking the Odessa Bronco to win the conference gonfalon this fall. . . . Behind the Hossees are rated Abilene, San Angelo, Sweetwater, Big Spring, Lamesa and Midland in that order. . . . Midland will probably fare better, especially if Barnes Milam switches to the T, as he proposes to do. . . . Dunny Goode will make the Bulldogs a threat.

Bronc Closes In On Bob Cowsar

Sweetwater's Bob Cowsar may yet have a fight on his hands if he has designs on holding onto first place in the race for Longhorn baseball league individual batting laurels.

While Cowsar continued to experience trouble through games of Aug. 19, Big Spring's Pat Stacey spurred to .421, cutting the difference between him and the Sport outfielder, to 16 points.

(Includes All Games Through August 19.)

Bengals Repelled By Washington

DETROIT Aug. 23. (AP)—Five Washington errors didn't keep the Senators from beating the Detroit Tigers 5 to 3 today as the Nats scored all their runs in the last three innings to win behind the combined four-hit pitching of Marino Pieretti and Milo Candini.

Brooklyn Nips Reds, 8-5

BROOKLYN, Aug. 23. (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers nipped the Cincinnati Reds, 8-5, today to maintain their six game lead over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Ed Stanky and Pee Wee Reese, the Dodgers' star combination, both suffered spike wounds during the hard fought game by hard-running base runners.

The Reds, apparently incensed by the knee injury suffered by Pitcher Ewell Blackwell at the plate two days ago when he collided with Brooklyn's Pete Reiser, came at the Dodgers with spikes flying.

Stanky was spiked over the left kneecap by Tom Tatum in the first inning. Outfielder Carl Furillo also was spiked going into third but stayed in the game.

The Dodgers sewed up the game in the very first inning, scoring five times on as many hits off Johnny Vander Meer.

Vets Can Get Victory Medal Here Monday

World War II Army Veterans of Howard County who have been authorized by the War Department to wear the Victory Medal or American Defense Medal can obtain the medals on or after Monday, Aug. 25, at the local Army Recruiting Station, Post Office building, upon presentation of their discharge certificate or similar papers bearing the required authorization, it was announced Saturday by Captain Clarence V. Goyer.

Although several million veterans have earned this honor by their wartime service, Captain Goyer explained, the medals have only recently been coined by the United States Mint, and no general distribution has yet been made. In place of the medal itself, veterans awarded either of these medals have worn the ribbon bar which ordinarily substitutes for the medals on all occasions except formal ceremonies.

Captain Goyer estimated that approximately 2500 veterans in this community are eligible to receive the Victory Medal, and about 300 are eligible for the American Defense Medal. He pointed out that the discharge papers of most eligible veterans relieved from active duty since V-J Day bear a notation that the individual is authorized to wear these medals.

In order to facilitate delivery of the awards to veterans living in outlying towns, individuals may mail their discharge certificate to the Army Recruiting Station, Big Spring. Medals will then be sent those applying by mail immediately and the discharge certificate returned to the applicant.

Truck And Bus Operators Are Warned Of Hoax

AUSTIN, Aug. 23. (U.P.)—Texas truck and bus operators were warned today by Director Homer Garrison of the department of public safety against being cheated in purchasing equipment. "We have had reports of truck and bus operators being high-pressed into buying electrical or mechanical signaling devices said to be required by the new uniform traffic code which goes into effect Sept. 5," Garrison said. "The new law does not require every truck and bus to have such a device," he advised. "An apparatus to signal for stops and turns is required on a truck of bus only when hand-and-arm signals cannot readily be seen because of the way the vehicle is constructed."

Garrison also gave advance warning to reckless drivers that traffic officers will begin an immediate crackdown under the newly incorporated reckless driving clause when the uniform traffic code becomes effective.

He said there would be a period of a "gentle enforcement" until drivers become acquainted with other new features in the law.

Traffic Deaths Increase In Texas

AUSTIN, Aug. 23. (U.P.)—Death on Texas highways and city streets increased in July, 156 fatalities boosting this year's total traffic deaths to 1,033, the department of public safety's statistician reported today.

The July death toll was 11 more than for the same month a year ago, but the 1947 total remained lower than that for the comparable 1946 period, in which 1,069 were killed.

Traffic accidents numbered 1,520 the past month, and 1,090 persons were injured.

Sixty-seven people were killed in 55 collisions between motor vehicles, and 27 pedestrians lost their lives.

Expert Calls British Crisis A Depression

NEW YORK, Aug. 23. (AP)—Robert R. Wason, board chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers, believes Britain's present economic crisis parallels the nation's depression of the 1930's.

In an article to be published Monday in "NAM News," Wason says:

"American industry paid for its lesson then. Now it is time for industry to speak up as America is asked to pay again for the same lesson to be learned in Britain.

"In America, the Thirties were a decade of the demagogue," Wason said. "In history it will be known as a decade of phony economics and phony money. Business success became a badge of dishonor. Failure took on its first dignity. In those years, controls borrowed from Marx to end a depression only lengthened it.

"The New Dealers in America said their failure was caused by lack of enough controls. In Britain last week, Prime Minister Attlee said the same thing.

"America reduced controls. Britain has voted for more controls.

"Out of 14 years experience under a labor government," Wason declared, "America learned that stringent economic restrictions on the people restrict production of goods; when government controls supersede reasonable regulation, it is at the cost of the economy.

"Therefore, it can be predicted that more controls on the British people will create less production, higher costs for goods, and a reduced standard of living in the United Kingdom."

OLD MINE REOPENED

Hearing Set For Monday Morning

County's 1948 Budget Based On Higher Valuations, Rate

A tentative Howard county budget for 1948 based on a valuation increase of some $3,000,000, and a boost in the tax rate of 14 cents has been completed for final review, and the public hearing is scheduled Monday morning at 10 o'clock, in the county commissioners' rooms.

In over-all totals, the fiscal schedule calls for total receipts of $341,158.75, with expenditures set up to balance. Although this aggregate expenditure is less than the budget total for the current year, it actually will run some $87,000 more, because 1947 expenditures include a $148,541 item in purchase of right-of-way for projected highways.

The county achieved valuation increases from nearly $18,000,000 to nearly $21,000,000 for next year, and the budget is based on a valuation of $20,500,000. In addition the tax levy will be increased from 63 cents to 77 cents, broken down as follows:

Fund	1946	1947
Judy	.03	.05
Road-Bridg.	.15	.15
Road, Brdg. (spl.)	.05	.15
General	.25	.25
Perm. Imp.	.03	.08
'45 Road Bond	.12	.09
Total	.63	.77

The jury fund has operated continuously in the red this year, and additional levies are held needed to balance it. The road and bridge special fund must carry warrants that had to be issued this year for machinery, plus additional machinery and maintenance costs of $75,000 for 1948.

The permanent improvement levy is jumped since it is the fund from which library maintenance will be paid, under a special enabling law passed by the last legislature. Of the eight cents set up for permanent improvements, half will go to the library.

Interest and sinking fund requirements are down, since the county will have to pay only on the 1945 special road bond issue. Other outstanding obligations are expected to be taken care of through state aid.

The proposed budget provides for salary increases practically "across the board", approximating 10 per cent in most instances.

Anticipated revenues include $157,850 in current ad valorem taxes, an increase of more than $55,000; delinquent taxes of $3,375, down slightly from last year; $179,833 in other receipts, up more than $51,000.

Total receipts, by funds, are set up as follows:

Jury	10,450
Road-Bridg.	147,750
General	58,122
Prem. Imp.	16,475
Officers Sal.	35,600
Int.-Sink	18,500

Budgeted expenditures are the county shows outstanding indebtedness in bonds and warrants of $168,000.

The jury fund is set up to receive $10,450, all of it from taxes with the exception of $50 jury fees. Outgo will include such major items as $5,950 for grand jurors and petit jurors, $2,200 for court reporter, $1,000 for county court and the remainder for various fees.

The road and bridge fund is listed to receive $30,750 from current taxes, $80,000 from auto registration, $4,500 from fines, $500 in refunds and $1,000 from delinquent taxes. Its outgo will include, as major items $12,000 for county commissioners (up from $10,000), $1,200 for commissioners expenses and $525 for assessor's fees. Maintenance costs are jumped from $81,200 to $102,621, largely through an increase for wages, and higher costs for parts and fuel. Construction costs are put at $1,000. Capital outlay (for new machinery) is budgeted at $15,000.

The general fund's revenue is broken down as follows: current taxes $51,250; delinquent taxes $1,850; beer and liquor licenses $3,700; trial fees $1,022; sundry receipts $250.

Outgoing items include commissioners court $2,900 (including salary of stenographer and oil valuator's fees); county auditor $4,035.

building maintenance $6,270; police radio service $1,200; assessor's fees $900; juvenile court, justice court and constable expense $5,275. medical fees $100; pauper care and pensions $6,205; city-county health unit $5,000; agriculture and livestock (including county's share for farm agent and home demonstration agent, and county trapper) $7,150; library expenses $4,000.

Fees of office scheduled as revenues to the officers salary fund include:

Assessor-collector $14,500; district clerk $2,000; county clerk $12,000; sheriff $1,100; county judge $400; county attorney $3,500.

Scheduled expenditures for these offices are:

Assessor-collector $12,675; district clerk $4,790; county clerk $12,680; sheriff $13,435; county judge $4,233; county attorney $4,127; treasurer $2,845.

Total receipts for the library's part of the permanent improvement fund are scheduled at $7,880 to be spent: $3,600 salaries; $500 repairs; $66 telephone; $100 office supplies; $3,250 new books; $364 binding.

The salary increase, besides the $500 per year boost for commissioners, puts most officers up from

Former Baptist Missionary Here Dies At Luling

Friends here were notified Saturday of the death, in Luling, of Dr. J. J. Strickland, Baptist leader and formerly district missionary in this area.

Dr. Strickland came here from Luling, where he had held a pastorate for many years, to serve as missionary from 1937 to 1939. He went from here to Beaumont to accept a pastorate, but recently had to resign his post because of failing health. He returned to Luling.

Death resulted from a heart involvement. Funeral services are to be held Monday in Luling. Dr. Strickland is survived by his wife and one daughter.

PARK VISITS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23. (AP)—The National Park Service said today 26,000,000 persons may visit the U. S. system of scenic and historic areas in the travel year ending Sept. 30—an all-time record and one of the most tremendous travel increases in history.

$3,600 to $3,985. These include the judge, assessor-collector, district clerk, county clerk, sheriff, auditor and county attorney. The treasurer salary is held to $2,620 by law. Similar increases for deputies and others on the county payroll are provided for. Ex-officio salaries for justice and constable are increased from $600 to $900.

HEADGEAR — It's a trick hat being sought by Pat Phillips, (left), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Phillips, who is pondering a college wardrobe prior to her departure for Baylor University, where she will be a freshman this year. Big Spring stores are getting the once-over from the college crowd this month.

SOME SLINGS — One can't wear the old reliable saddle Oxfords all the time, can one? New shoes must constitute part of the college girl's wardrobe, and at the right Patti McDonald has a fitting. Patti will be a sophomore this fall and plans to attend Tech. She is the niece of Mrs. George White.

College Days Ahead For Young People

The summer college students are home now and with little thought of school and the fall semester. But not so with those students who have waited all summer for the spirit of college to move them—now, four weeks before the campus calls its numbers, scores of youths are planning either for that freshman year or simply to get back to the old school.

For the "fish," the first step was drawing up a transcript of high school credits for the colleges to check over. Room reservations in the college of one's choice sometimes had to be made two months in advance. With the necessity of such early pre-arrangements it is scarcely unusual that the back-to-school fever gets a quick hold.

For veteran upperclassmen, entrance trivia are of little consequence. They already know about arrangements, schedules and courses of study. Their interest therefore, is just to get back into the trend of things. Some students plan to leave the first week in September, while the college semester opens during the third week.

Early choices for their first year in college have been made by some 20 graduates of the 1947 Big Spring high school class. Baylor will enroll Pat Phillips, Jean Cornelson and Billie Jean Younger and TSCW, Denton, is the choice of Edna Faye Stevenson and Erma Jean Slaughter. Going to TCU, Fort Worth, are Beverly Stulting, John Currie and Susan Steers, and nearby in Dallas, Mary Louise Davis and Kay Tollett will attend Hockaday school.

Murph Thorp, Jr., is an aspirant to Schreiner Institute, Kerrville, Cotton Jones will be at Howard Payne and Johnny Hambrick at A & M. Tech will find Emma Jean Slaughter and Donald Phillips in their freshman year, and Eugene Jones also will be in Lubbock attending Draughn's business college. Leslie Cathey and Ronnie Johnston have sent transcripts to H-SU, Abilene, and also to be in Abilene this fall are Lynelle Sullivan, ACC, and Bonnie Dempsey, McMurray.

Bobo Hardy has indicated that he will be at Southwestern University, Georgetown, and Reba Roberts is enrolled in NTSTC, Denton. Harold Jones will be at NTAC, Arlington. Luan Smith is making arrangements to attend Harris School of Nursing, Fort Worth.

James Duncan, former Tech student, will be at Texas U. See COLLEGE, Pg. 4, Col. 3.

FOR CAMPUS DAYS — The sweater of course the basic piece for those class hours and campus festivities, and in the lower left photo Erma Jean Slaughter, (left) looks over the selections of a local store. Erma Jean has chosen Texas State College for Women, Denton, for her first-year college work.

AH! FORMALS! — No college girl can expect to participate in all the campus festivities without a lovely formal for those dances. Luan Smith (left), daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Smith, looks at a black number. She'll be going to Harris School of Nursing in Fort Worth this fall.

AND FOR THE TRIP — For that important journey to the campus, being made for the first time, smart luggage is one of the "musts." As other prospective college studees are doing these days, Jean Cornelson (lower photo) studies what local shops have to offer. Jean the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Cornelson, is another who will become a "Bear" freshman on the Baylor campus this autumn.

WHAT GIVES 'ROUND TOWN

By Leatrice Ross

We decided while sitting with the multitude Thursday evening at the Bronco-Indian game in Midland that there are two things the Midland ball club needs: 1) a sports announcer who can pronounce correctly every name in the Bronco line-up and 2) fans who do not turn and gaze frostily at us when we cheer for our own team.

When Big Spring supporters were asked to stand Thursday night a good third of the crowd came to their feet. Faces we knew: Louise Ann Bennett, Janet Robb, Doris Jean Glenn, Laverne Kinnaman, Jeanette Kinnaman, Charlene Tucker, Corrie Tucker, Dickie Cloud, James Fannin, Mary Ann Goodson, Doris Thomas, Mary Joyce Summer, S. R. Wilkerson, Colleen Davidson, Zack Gray, Joyce Beene, Pete Cook, Sam Thurman, Don Wood. We wondered Wednesday eve as we sat by our radio who it was that, in a quiet moment of play, gave out a "Come on, Cundan" clearly enough to carry over the ether.

Commodore Ryan and Guy Cravens were here several days this week from Fort Worth where they are enrolled in T & P training school. They came in to attend the 101st birthday celebration for Mrs. Mary Zinn. Don Richardson, Robert Hobbs and Rogers Miller are in Carlsbad this weekend. Dot Wasson will be in Monday or Tuesday from a two-week vacation in Corpus Christi.

Arlis Atkins and Preston Denton leave today for Fort Worth where they will attend the wedding of Margie Sandridge to Carl Kluck Monday evening. Other recent unions among the people we know are Mildred Houchin and Troy Brown, Bobby Jean Hamby and James Bostick. Ran onto Mrs. Wiley Curry downtown two-three days ago who told us that Pat Curry will take the final step early in September. Pat and the other Currys are still living in Wharton.

Jack Reese who attended high school here in the fall of '45 and spring of '46, is stationed with the Army in Japan and writes that he has come across Richard and Robert O'Brien several times. June Cook and Marletta Staples are in Denver, Colo. on a two-week respite. Jackie Barron, Zack Gray, Jimmy Talbot and Pete Cook depart this weekend for Montana. They'll take in Yellowstone National park while up that way.

Couples at the Terrace Drive-In theatre Thursday evening: Jo Barnaby, Reed Collins, Mae Barnaby, Jimmy Smith, Dorothy Satterwhite, Gerald Harris, Babe Lytle, Alton Wheeler. Face-feeders in the Douglass coffee shop at noon Friday: Laverne Reynolds, Billy Chraue, Billy Crunk, Kenny McFadden, Castle Campbell, Wanda Richardson, Marijo Thurman. Marijo had just gotten into town from a month's vacation through the East and Canada. Couples seen lately about town: Carol Conley, Pete Cook, Helen

Brides Learn Art Of Housekeeping In British Castle

By BARBARA WACE AP Newsfeatures

LONDON—A domestic science school where debutantes can learn to cook and scrub has just been started in an historic 14th Century castle by the Countess of Devon. "I think it so important that girls from abroad should mix with our girls and get to know each other in a simple home with a really good foundation and background," said the countess of Devon, whose husband's earldom goes back to 1553. "I hope very much we'll get some girls both from the United States and from the Dominions."

Only 25 girls will be accepted for each nine-month course. They will learn the housewife's routine in really feudal surroundings.

They can dust the heirlooms, scrub the antique staircases, make the four-poster beds and darn the fine linen sheets. But they won't learn American cooking, so the would-be husbands of a Powderham Castle graduate must give up ideas of such delicacies as pumpkin pie, cranberry sauce, hot biscuits or real apple pie.

"You can't learn more than the basic cooking in a year's course which aims to cover every side of home making," said the countess. "I hope, however, that nice salads will be one of the things the girls will learn."

The girls will learn from qualified domestic science teachers and will be trained to take the National Council of Domestic Science examination at the end of the year. But much will be shown them by the countess herself, who is an excellent cook and manager.

"We will teach them how to keep accounts," said the countess, "and how to run the house in every way. Everybody ought to know how to do her own work these days. Everybody has to, and if girls don't know how to do it well, they spend all their time at it."

Castle's old-fashioned kitchens and laundry hasn't progressed as well as the countess could wish, but there are a washing machine, several gas and electric stoves and a kitchen range.

The earl, who is 32, won't take an active part in the school, but his wife says he is extremely interested, and has helped convert some of the 60 rooms in the castle into bright dormitories.

Betty Alice Nobles Becomes Bride Of Sewell Couch Friday Evening

Couple Exchange Wedding Vows In Presence Of Family And Friends At Methodist Church

Betty Alice Nobles, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Nobles, and Sewell Couch, son of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Couch, were united in marriage Friday evening in a double-ring ceremony repeated by candlelight at the First Methodist church.

The wide altar was marked by potted palms and baskets of fern. Two pairs of double candelabra stood in the foreground, and two single cathedral candelabra on either side of a tall arrangement of fern were in the background. On each side of where the couple stood were placed large bouquets of white gladioli.

Dr. C. A. Long, pastor, officiated. Mrs. Frankie Nobles and Mrs. Darwin Webb lighted candles. Mrs. Nobles was attired in a blue dress and Mrs. Webb wore a pink dress, both styled with round neckline and shirred cap sleeves, with a skirt draped at the hipline and extending into a bustle back. They wore wrist corsages of pink and blue asters.

Patsy Kirk, vocalist, wearing a blue dress similar to those of Mrs. Nobles and Mrs. Webb, sang "I Love Thee" (Friede), and "Because" (D'Hardelot), accompanied by Mrs. C. W. Norman at the organ.

Mrs. Norman played a medley of love songs preceding the procession.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a sheer white woolen street length dress, fashioned with cap sleeves and a slightly flaring skirt that came to a point in the back. A three-tiered bustle was lined in white satin, matching the neckline trim and tiny satin-covered buttons down the back of the bodice. In carrying out the bride's tradition, she wore a pendant necklace and earrings, hair-locks borrowed from her mother. Something new was symbolized by a braided gold bracelet, a gift from the bridegroom. She wore a white circular hat with a large net bow at one side, and a double net ruffle edged in seed pearls, which produced a halo effect. The bride's bouquet was a large arrangement of white gladioli fastened with floor-length white satin streamers and carried atop a white Bible.

Attending the bride as maid of honor, Gerri Staba was attired in a pink sheet wool dress, and Carolyn Cantrell, bridesmaid, wore a blue sheer wool frock, both identical to that of the bride's. Miss Staba carried a colonial bouquet of blue daisies and Miss Cantrell's bouquet was of pink daisies. Both wore satin and net hats.

John Nobles, brother of the bride, served as best man, and John Bill Gary and Earl Lusk were groomsmen.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception in the church parlor complimented the couple. Receiving guests were the bride and bridegroom, Mrs. S. R. Nobles, Mrs. O. E. Couch, Mrs. Webb, Miss Cantrell, Miss Staba, and Mrs. Frankie Nobles.

Mrs. Nobles, mother of the bride, wore a sheer black dress with accordion pleated sleeves and penguin collar. Mrs. Couch, mother of the bridegroom, was dressed in blue chiffon with a drape effect. Both wore chrysanthemum corsages.

The refreshment table was skirted with a lace cloth over an under-cover of ice blue. Pink and yellow lighted tapers in crystal holders, and bouquets of the bridesmaid and maid of honor comprised the centerpiece. Serving were Mrs. Dennis Wall, Mrs. Pat Blalack, Mrs. Tom Cantrell and Mrs. Bernard Lamun.

Hostesses were Mrs. John Noble, Mrs. H. D. Norris and Mrs. Otis Wilson. Leatrice Ross was at the registry table.

All members of the houseparty wore pastel aster corsages.

The bride is a 1945 graduate of Big Spring high school and for the past 18 months has been employed by the First National bank. The bridegroom graduated from the local high school in 1944 and was enlisted with the Merchant Marines for one year. At present he is assistant manager for the G. F. Wacker Stores in Kermit.

For her wedding trip, the bride chose a red faille dress with navy blue trim and navy blue accessories. Her corsage was the floral arrangement from her bouquet.

Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Couch will make their home in Kermit.

The CHIROPRACTOR-and You

No. 5 Of A Series Of Articles Published In The Public Interest To Explain And Illustrate The Practice Of Chiropractic.

STOMACH TROUBLE. All forms of stomach trouble can be classed under two great divisions, namely, the organic and the neurotic. Organic disorders consist of those diseases which involve structural changes in the wall of the stomach. For example, ulcers of the stomach. Neurotic disorders are those conditions wherein the gastric juice is not normal in quality or in quantity.

There is often a confusing similarity between the symptoms of many forms of stomach trouble. A correct diagnosis is difficult to obtain. That is why one practitioner will often diagnose your case as one thing and another diagnose it as an entirely different condition. However, Chiropractic does not depend for its success upon a diagnosis of the case. The Chiropractor does not concern himself with whether the patient is suffering from gastritis, peptic ulcer or nervous dyspepsia.

THE CHIROPRACTOR KNOWS that something is wrong with the stomach; he knows that there are certain nerves supplying the stomach; and that these nerves branch out from the spine. He knows that these nerves must be free to carry nerve energy from the brain to the stomach, and that the only point along the entire course of the nerves where the carrying capacity can be interfered with is where the nerves emit from the spinal column.

So what does the Chiropractor do? He analyzes the spine, and where he finds a subluxation (a condition where the segments of the spine are not in proper alignment), he adjusts it with his hands, and because of this adjustment the pressure (or pinching) is removed from the nerves supplying the stomach. Now the nerves can carry their vital energy in normal quality and quantity to the stomach and under those conditions disease cannot exist.

PERMANENT RELIEF. The relief which follows Chiropractic adjustments for stomach trouble or any condition of abnormality is not a temporary one, but permanent, because the cause of the disorder has been removed, and without cause there absolutely can be no disease.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION concerning the modern Chiropractor and what he can do for you. Phone 419.

The Household And Hubby's Job

Baseball Player's Wife Sees All Games, Re-Plays Them At Home Later In Night

(First in a series of six articles in which wives give a tongue-in-cheek sketch of the influence their husbands' occupations exert over the household.—Ed. note)

By Louise Ross
For better or for worse, for richer or for poorer, for calls at 4 a. m. and for psychology books on the dining room table—so should read the words agreed upon when a girl marries.

A woman scarcely would pick a husband for the job he does, but she lives with his profession just the same. A man just never gets away from his work.

We marvel at the readiness with which a wife accepts the bringing-home-the-bacon methods of her spouse, no matter what they may be. We have selected six women whose husbands' occupations are quite unlike, and who therefore lead lives with little parallel, to give you first-hand talk of what they find themselves doing, thanks to the men they married.

THE SPORTSMAN

Mrs. Pat Stasey, who once had no love for baseball, now never misses a Bronc home game. She sits in the grandstand like any other fan and listens to her husband being called a bum and being told he can't play ball—something she finally is getting used to.

Being married to a professional baseball player is a quiet, easy life, Mrs. Stasey finds. At 6 p. m. Pat takes off for "work" and she usually goes to the field with him. The game is only half over for Mrs. Stasey when the team stops playing ball and the fans go home. Pat and the boys stay till midnight or after and it is usually 1:30 a. m. when the Stasey household retires.

Players never get noticeably excited over the outcome of a game, much to the chagrin of their wives, who stay awake until the team comes back from a road game, just to learn the score. And as a typical fan of the diamond game, Mrs. Stasey rejoins her husband with an account of the disgusting way some fellow plays ball, only to have Pat say calmly, "Why he's a fine fellow, plays a good game."

Sporting News is the main reading matter in the Stasey home and a man with a word for baseball becomes a friend of Pat's instantaneously. When he goes out for a haircut, Mrs. Stasey has learned that he may be gone half the day. There's always a ball fan at the barber shop.

A baseball player is a sort of hero, especially with the youngsters, and that gives a wife a great sense of pride. In cities where AAA teams play, the countless fans show many kindnesses.

Dictionary Recognizes Style Jargon Of Today

The dictionary has become style conscious. Nine of the latest fashion terms appear in the new edition of Funk and Wagnalls New College Standard Dictionary.

The new words, eligible for inclusion because of wide usage, are: Wedgie, bobby pin, shivvies, snow suit, soakers, sun tan, nylon, accessories, halter.

The newly added terms recall other words of fashion origin once held in disrepute but now a part of the language. They show that fashion has lacked neither imagination nor originality in coining new words—such as buckskin, bustle and broadtail—giving old words new meanings—such as talk, swallow tail—and adopting words from other languages such as batik, cloche and bolero.

Sewing Club Meets

The Variety Sewing Club met with Mrs. Lee Wright Friday afternoon.

Mrs. C. E. Sandridge, Mrs. Wayne Morris and Mrs. Orbin Daily were present.

to a player's wife. Mrs. Stasey was on the road two years with Pat before the war, and they hit places like Moline, Ill., Minneapolis, Minn., Knoxville, Tenn., and Jersey City, N. J. Circuit travel is lonely and Mrs. Stasey remembers that on her first night in Minneapolis, she was on the porch of a new acquaintance 45 minutes after Pat had left for a game. She has met the wives of many players who are now with big leagues. Mrs. Stasey keeps a scrapbook of clippings of those games her husband played in, finds most sportsmen's wives do. She loves the game as much as Pat does and gets a thrill from feeling that they are part of the popular sport.

Tomorrow: THE SERGEANT. Mrs. Oliver Goodman speaks.

'They're Selling,' Is Reply

Fashion Experts Defend Long Skirt

BY DOROTHY ROE ASSOCIATED PRESS FASHION EDITOR

Despite parades, placards and oratory condemning the return of long skirts women, will wear 'em and like 'em this fall, an Associated Press survey of stores, stylists and customers indicated today.

Happily oblivious of such organized resistance as the "Little Below The Knee Club" in Dallas and teen-age demonstrations in other parts of the country, store executives the nation over reported the almost unanimously that the new longer-skirted fall fashions are selling like hot cakes.

Dane F. Hahn, manager of the ready-to-wear group of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, said:

"Acceptance of longer skirts is good throughout the country. To every action there is a reaction, and the present objectors to long skirts are merely emphasizing the importance of the trend. In some quarters they may not be immediately accepted, but in general the public will go for longer dresses."

Typical of retail store comment was that of Ralph Leech, buyer of women's and misses coats, suits and dresses for Saks Fifth Avenue, New York, who said:

"We have found no customer resistance whatever to longer dresses. Women of all ages are crazy about them."

And from Dallas, the much publicized opposition center comes this report.

The "Little Below The Knee Club" with the slogan "Hold That Hemline" now claims 1,000 members, but the president of the city's leading fashion store Neiman-Marcus, reported: "Smart women everywhere are accepting gratefully the longer skirt."

Local Women, As Others In Nation Still Dubious Over Longer Skirts

The battle is on among the women of the town. Objective: skirts that brush the ankles.

Fashion decrees that the latest in dresses, suits and coats must be at least to the middle of the calf—the magazines, the manufacturers, and the exponents of chic say so at least. But women of Big Spring are still divided.

A survey of local stores reveals that the younger set are, almost without exception, buying the new length without any gnashing of teeth. Some of their older sisters, however, are maintaining that their skirts will stay as are, regardless of style.

Two of the downtown stores report that, although customers fumed a bit at first, there is now little comment on the new length in clothes. Saleswomen in these stores say that it would now be inadvisable to mention the purchase of a brief skirt to their clientele.

From several stores came reports that customers were having skirts shortened. The majority of these, however, were not having the skirt length as short as previously.

A small percentage of the local women are wearing their dresses

The Sunday School Lesson ---

Advice About Honesty

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for August 24 is II Samuel 24:18-25; Proverbs 3:3; 11:1, 3; 12:17-22; 14:5; 20:10; 23:10-11; Matthew 5:37, the Memory Verse being Romans 13:10, "Love worketh no ill to his neighbor; love therefore is the fulfillment of the law.")

THE FIRST part of our lesson today tells us of a sin committed by King David, when he took a census of the people against the Lord's wishes, and in consequence a plague fell upon the people and thousands died. David confessed his sin to an angel of the Lord which appeared to him, and asked that the plague be stopped as he was the one who had sinned, not the people.

Gad, his seer, came to David and said to him, "Go up, rear an altar unto Jehovah in the threshing floor of Araunah, the Jebusite." Araunah lived just outside the walls of Jerusalem, and he was a wealthy chief of the conquered race of Jebus, who, according to tradition, was spared by David because of an old friendship, when David conquered his people.

"And David, according to the saying of Gad, went up as the Lord commanded."

"And Araunah looked, and saw the king and his servants coming toward him; and Araunah went out, and bowed himself before the king on his face upon the ground."

"And Araunah said, Wherefore is my lord the king come to buy the threshing floor of thee, to build an altar unto the Lord, that the plague may be stayed from the people?"

"And Araunah said unto David, Let my lord the king take and offer up what seemeth good unto him: behold, here be oxen for burnt sacrifice, and threshing instruments and other instruments of the oxen for wood."

A millennium before this, Abraham had offered his son as a sacrifice on this very spot, and later the temple of Solomon was built here. Threshing instruments were "sledges or frames; armed on the underside with rollers or sharp spikes used for the purpose of bruising the ears of corn and extracting the grain, and at the same time breaking up the straw into small pieces for use as fodder."

"All these things did Araunah, as a king, give unto the king, and Araunah said unto the king, The Lord thy God accept thee."

King David would not accept all these gracious gifts from his friend, however, and insisted upon paying him fifty shekels of silver. The David "built there an altar unto the Lord, and offered burnt offerings and peace offerings. So the Lord was intreated for the land, and the plague was stayed from Israel."

David, being an honest and fair-minded man, would not avail himself of another man's religion, but insisted upon "paying his way," as we say.

"A false balance is abominable to the Lord; but a just weight is His delight. The integrity of the upright shall guide them; but the perverseness of transgressors shall destroy them."

Sad to say, many people will cheat when they see the chance. During the war years we heard repeatedly of people buying in the black markets, paying exorbitant prices for things that were scarce because their selfishness made them think they must have them at any cost. They deprived more honest people of these goods, because if they had been fair, they would not have patronized dishonest markets, and if no one had bought in them, they would have vanished.

In their hearts they probably were not really happy. In the end they did not benefit from the transactions, "the perverseness of transgressors shall destroy them."

All through life, from the child in school who cheats and lies, to the older men and women who give false returns on their income tax statements, trying to cheat the government, dishonesty never pays. Even if their dishonesty never is discovered, they are not happy in their hearts. But "He that speaketh truth sheweth forth righteousness; but a false witness deceit."

"There is that speaketh rashly like the piercings of a sword; but the tongue of the wise is health."

"Deceit is in the heart of them that imagine evil; but to the counsellors of peace is joy."

"There shall no evil happen to the just; but the wicked shall be filled with mischief."

"Lying lips are an abomination to the Lord; but they that deal truly are His delight."

Another way of cheating is mentioned in Proverbs, and that is trying to cheat the helpless, the widows and the fatherless, by taking their land, or part of it, from them unfairly.

"Remove not the old landmark; and enter not into the fields of the fatherless: For their redeemer is mighty; He shall plead their cause with thee."

EAT PLENTY AND TAKE OFF UGLY FAT

Try This Amazing Home Recipe For Taking Off Weight Without Starvation Diet

Many people have reported amazing results with this home recipe. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. Just go to your drug-gist and ask for four ounces of liquid Barcenate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grape-fruit juice to fill bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it. If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back.

No Diet—Lost 22 Pounds
"I lost 22 pounds taking Barcenate and I feel much better in every way. I ate anything I wanted and I gladly recommend it to anyone who wants to lose weight."—Gertrude Billings, Route 1, Devine, Texas.

20 Pounds Lost Without Dieting
"I have lost 20 pounds taking Barcenate and did not diet. I ate anything I wanted and when I wanted it, Barcenate not only keeps the weight down, but makes one feel fine."—S. B. McClure, 708 Adams, Amarillo, Texas.

Lost 60 Pounds
"I want to tell you that I have lost 60 pounds since taking Barcenate. I still want to lose 20 more pounds as I now weigh 167, a reduction from my former weight of 227 pounds."—Mrs. C. M. Earsh, 802 N. 12th Street, McAllen, Texas.

Reduces 25 Pounds
"I want to tell you that I lost 25 pounds on the first two bottles of Barcenate and I am still taking it faithfully, for it relieves me of that tired, run-down feeling; also that sluggish feeling so many women have. I can say that Barcenate keeps one peppy and always ready to go."—Mrs. Tony Meek, 429 Lipscomb Street, Fort Worth, Texas.

Lost 15 Pounds
"I lost 15 pounds taking Barcenate and can now control my weight. I feel much better in every way and I gladly say, 'It's Barcenate to control the weight.'"—Mrs. Gayle Matthews, 925 Threadneedle Street, Beaumont, Texas.

Contains No Vitamins
When you buy Barcenate you buy a preparation for taking off weight. You do not pay for a printed diet. Barcenate is not a vitamin tablet, to fortify you against weakness while on a starvation diet. You need never know a hungry moment while reducing with Barcenate. It contains no harmful drugs, but DOES contain ingredients to make you feel BETTER.

Barcenate, when mixed with grapefruit juice does this: First—Cuts down your desire for sweets and fatty foods, but you do not have to FORCE yourself. Barcenate takes care of your DESIRE. Second—Dehydrates and eliminates, so that water is carried away—almost like melting fat. At the same time, you feel better, more peppy, more alive, but never starved or hungry.

Didn't Starve—Lost 30 Pounds
"I wish to state that I lost 30 pounds taking Barcenate. I didn't starve myself and I feel better than I have in years. I am sure that the easy, safe way to lose weight, is by taking Barcenate."—Mrs. Florence Chadwell, Route 1, Box 650, San Antonio, Texas.

24 Pounds Lost and No Diet
"I want to tell you that I lost 24 pounds taking Barcenate. I believe that I would have lost more if I had left off potatoes and sweets. I think Barcenate is a wonderful medicine as it not only takes the weight off, but it is a wonderful regulator for faulty elimination."—Mrs. Anna Clay, Route 5, Box 26, Waco, Texas.

25 Pounds Lost
"When I started taking Barcenate, I weighed 195 pounds. I now weigh 170. I certainly praise Barcenate."—G. W. Miller, Weatherford, Texas.

Lost 18½ Pounds
"I have taken Barcenate in grapefruit juice and found it very satisfactory. I had to lose weight for an operation and I took Barcenate and lost 18½ pounds."—Mrs. Dollie Douglass, 916 W. Kings Highway, San Antonio, Texas.

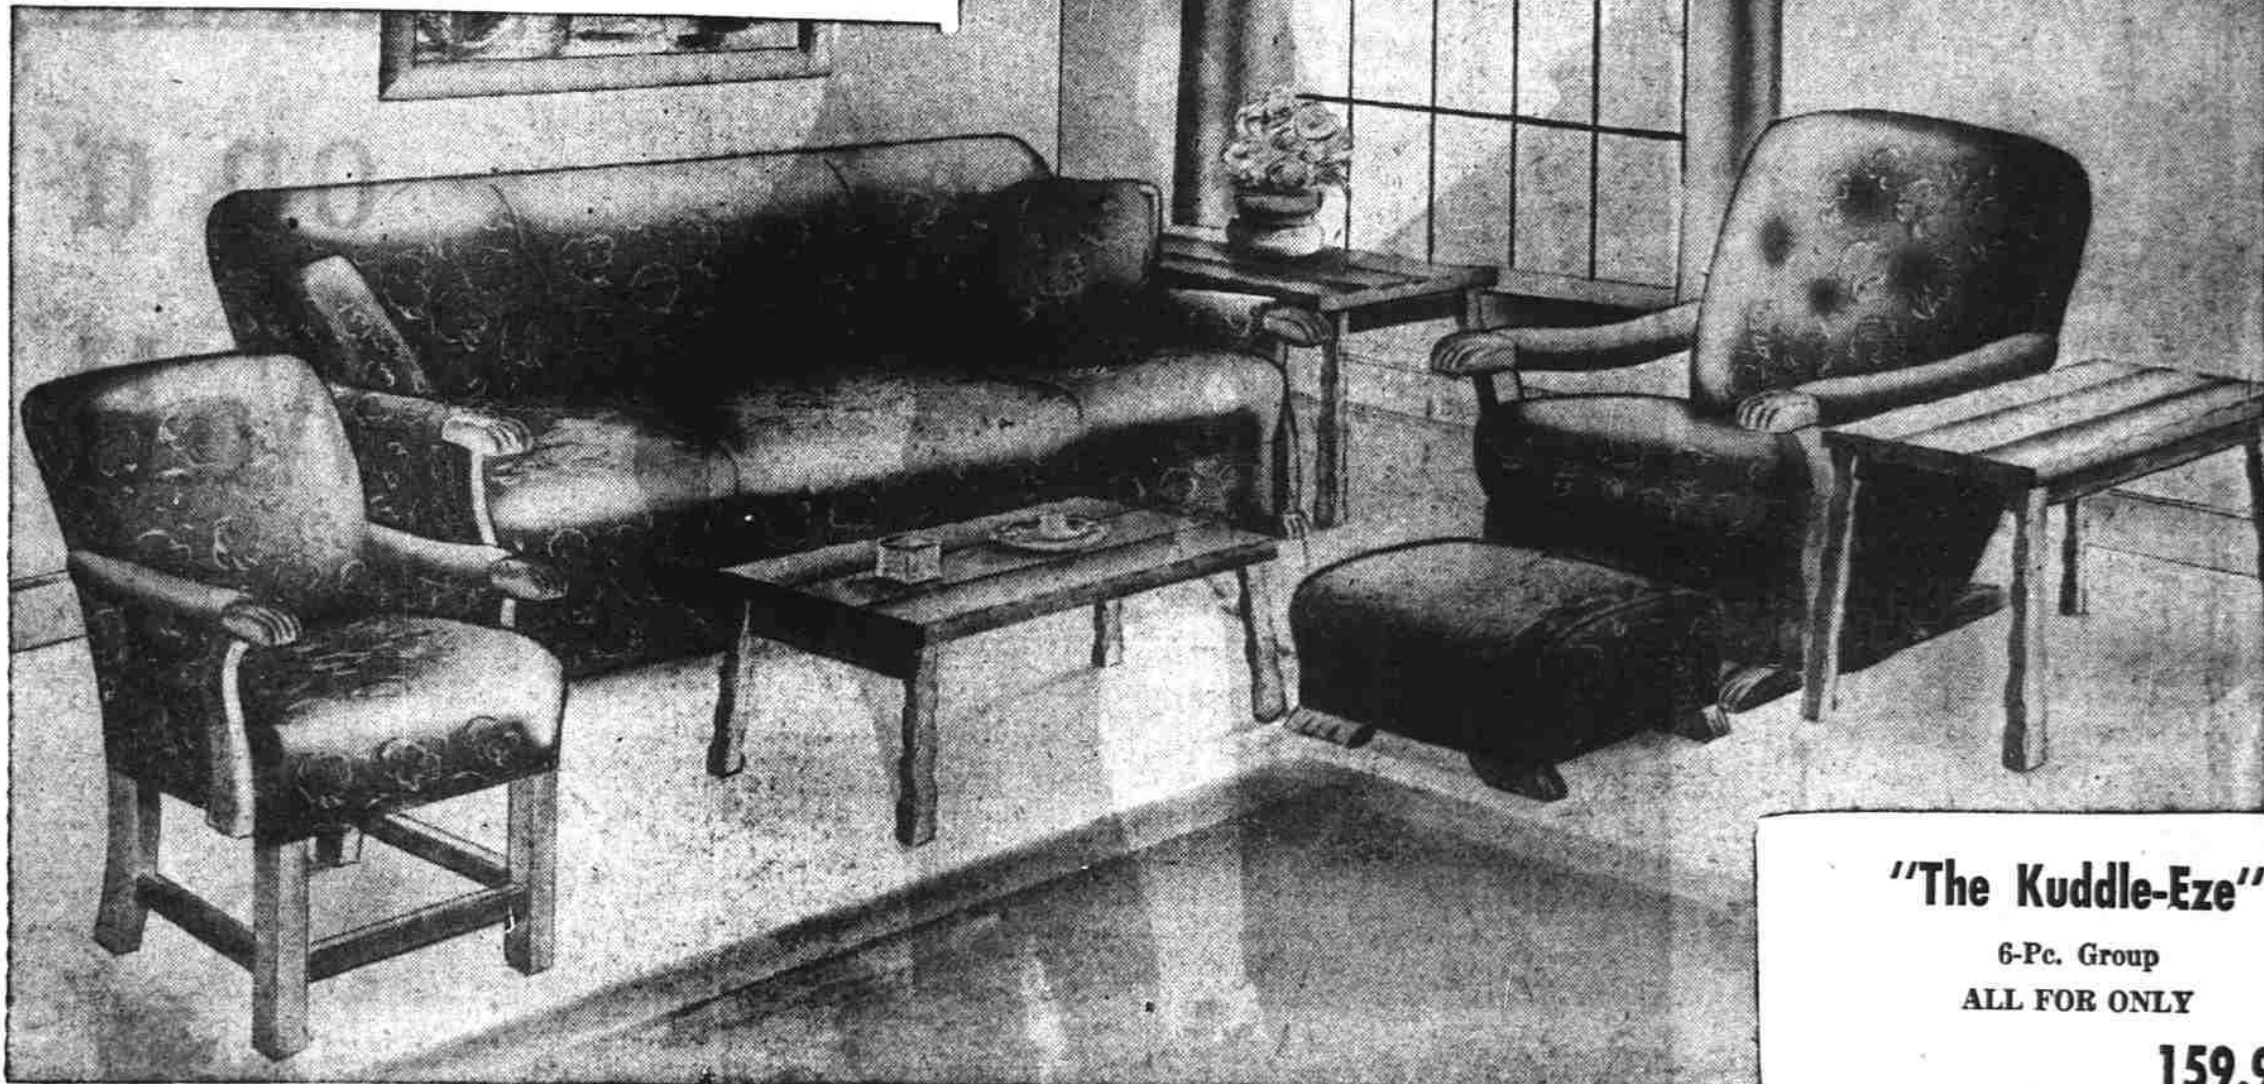

10 Pounds Lost
"I lost 10 pounds on the first three bottles of Barcenate and I feel better in every way. I recommend it to anyone as a weight reducer."—Mrs. Abner Amox, Hughes Springs, Texas.

The Price of Barcenate Has Never Been Changed. It's Still $1.00. Nearly a Million Bottles Sold in Texas in 3 Years.

Walking on a Wall

The little boy in the picture is practicing one of the earliest and most essential arts of life — the art of balance.

His real problem is to keep the weight of his body evenly distributed so that the line of gravity passes through his feet. It is the first lesson a child or young animal must learn in assuming an upright position.

Children derive much pleasure and satisfaction from their ability to walk a wall or narrow curb or rail fence. It gives them a sense of accomplishment when they are able to perform these feats without falling.

Balance is important not only in physical posture and movement, but in all the relations of life. It is especially important for children, as well as older people, to learn to keep their balance, mentally, morally and spiritually.

The life without religion is an unbalanced life. Man needs religion and the consciousness of God to keep him from falling under the weight of temporal cares.

The Church provides religious instruction and spiritual inspiration for all who seek its ministrations.

Miss Broughton, Edison Taylor Married Here

Dorothy Lee Broughton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Broughton, Sr., became the bride of Edison Taylor in a double-ring ceremony at the Wesley Methodist church Saturday night.

Rev. Aubrey White officiated at the ceremony which took place before an altar banked with evergreens and baskets of gladioli on either side.

Dorothy Kenemur sang "I Love You Truly" and "Always". Mrs. B. B. Boyles accompanied her and played traditional pre-nuptial music and the traditional wedding marches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a brocaded satin dress styled with a sweetheart neckline, fitted bodice and full skirt. The fingertip veil was caught at the top with beaded pearls to form a headpiece. She carried a bouquet of white gardenias and carnations atop a white prayer book.

The maid of honor, Pearl Cannon, wore a pink dress with a colonial bouquet of pale yellow carnations.

Betty Burinson and Sally Norton bridesmaids, wore blue dresses and carried colonial bouquets of pink gladioli.

Eula Faye Newton and Bonnie Jean Newton lighted tapers. G. C. Broughton, Jr. served as best man. John Ray Broughton, Raymond Stallings and George Reagan were ushers.

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony in the church parlor. Laurel Grandstaff, Ruby McCleskey and Gertie Bell Wilkerson were hostesses. The table was laid with lace and had a centerpiece of pink amaryllis lily mixed with pink asters. Mrs. Taylor is working for Anderson's music store and he is employed at the City fire station.

For traveling, the bride wore an aqua suit with brown accessories. After a wedding trip to California and Colorado, the couple will be at home in Big Spring.

Development of low-cost steel and petroleum for lubrication appeared almost simultaneously in the infancy of modern machinery.

FRESH BLOOD A MUST FOR FREE ENERGY

Do you feel like you are tied to a drag everytime you try to do something? If so, don't let a low blood count hold you down when you may release vibrant energy to every muscle, nerve, cell.

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. School Problem Is Your Problem

One of the most important decisions before this community in many years is that to be reached on September 9, when property voters of the Big Spring independent school district will determine at the polls whether or not the district shall issue up to a million dollars in bonds; and also whether or not the maximum tax levy shall be increased from $1 to $1.50 per $100 valuation.

They are unified propositions, since the bonds could not be issued unless tax revenues were authorized to pay them off.

The bonds—not necessarily $1,000,000 worth—would be used to construct and/or add to buildings to provide the children of this community with a more adequate instructional plant.

A part of the increased tax revenues would be used to retire these bonds, another part used for a sorely-needed increase in operating revenues. The division would be determined, of course, by the amount of bonds issued.

This division is one of many problems faced by school trustees in connection with the proposition. Another is a final decision as to number and types of buildings to be constructed.

Original developments tended toward the construction of a new high school building, including auditorium and gymnasium space which would free present facilities for other uses. The school's board examination of the district's problems has brought a new proposal, however, of using what bond monies that might be acquired for expansion of the elementary school system.

The ward schools are, without exception, overcrowded; so much so that the lower grades in practically every school have been, and will be this year, on half-day sessions. Everybody knows that this is not conducive to good scholastic progress.

It could be that each of the present elementary schools should be expanded by several classrooms; another solution might be the building of a new elementary school and expansion of some others. At the same time, the high school plant merits utmost consideration.

The matter of operating revenues cannot by any means be ignored. The district never has been able to build up an adequate reserve, will dip heavily into its cash balance this next fiscal year, to emerge—according to the budget—next August with a very few thousand dollars on hand. Big Spring still has not yet met the standard teacher salaries recently set up by the state legislature. It still has not done what patrons want done in the matter of broadening the curriculum. These things, of course, cost money.

Before the Sept. 9 election, members of the board of trustees want assistance from the tax-paying public and the school patrons in determining a final policy in event the bond-tax proposal is approved at the polls. They have called a public meeting to be held in room 305 of the high school building Tuesday night at 8 o'clock.

Every citizen of this city who is concerned with the welfare of the schools—and that means the welfare of their children and the welfare of the entire community progress—should make it a point to be on hand.

The decision on use of bonds and revenues is primarily that of the board, and the board will have to make that decision.

The tax payers and the school patrons, however, are entitled to, and should express, an opinion as to how to meet the myriad problems facing the schools. They ought to be present Tuesday night to hear an explanation of the districts' fiscal and scholastic status, what the conditions are for the coming school term and what they will be in future years. Then they can understand what trustees are attempting to do when they chart a course to be followed with the tax revenues if voted.

The precise balance between building program and operating costs is a delicate one. The fixing of that balance will be a great factor in this community's welfare for many years to come.

"AREN'T YOU KIND OF RUNNING IT INTO THE GROUND?"

Hal Boyle's Notebook

Scotty's Rope Trick

NEW YORK. — Anybody can tie the Scotty in knots. He makes his living that way. Scotty is a kind of bargain basement Houdini who goes around the barrooms of New York with a long hunk of clothesline.

Patience he plods between bars and tables telling the patrons:

"Betcha can't tie me up with this rope so I can't get loose. Betcha ya can't."

Eventually—if the bartender doesn't first toss Scotty into the outer darkness—some captive of the bottle boisterously undertakes to string him up like a trussed chicken. For some reason women in their cups particularly like to hog-tie Scotty.

Scotty is a practical psychologist and knows this. As the female bacchant begins to rope his wrists together behind him he helps in standard feigned pain:

"Ouch! you're cutting my wrists."

This outbreak, of course, is designed to give him a little leeway in the rope. As the lady looks on in flustered pleasure, Scotty grunts and squirms and heaves—the perfect picture of the trapped male. Then he works his little tricks, peels off the rope, and stands there exhausted but free—the male triumphant again.

Like all specialists in a machine-made age, Scotty has his own troubles. Chiefly they are sailors and ex-sailors who know how to knot a man up too well.

In the past he often would grandiosely bet anybody $50 he could escape from his rope in two minutes flat. Now he is chary of such offers, as the result of a number of unfortunate adventures.

Once a visiting cowboy tied him up so completely that long-suffering friends hung Scotty up on a hook the better to admire his struggles.

Another time a stranger with a maritime background trussed him up methodically and then carried Scotty outside and plopped him in a snowbank. Every one came back in and promptly forgot him. Afterward a late wanderer exploded beneath the quaking snow and found the rope trick artist congealing into a feebly struggling icicle. He was brought in and melted back to manhood.

But the man who broke Scotty's confidence forever was the young sailor who sewed him up with half hitches and running bowlines and dumped him on the floor. Two hours later Scotty said:

"I give up."

"I'll untie you for $1.50," said the sailor.

Scotty went back to pitching and twisting. An hour later, his pride shattered, he whispered:

"Okay, I'll pay."

So now Scotty would rather let the girls tie him up. It's more fun all around.

Washington Merry-Go-Round—Drew Pearson

Montgomery Book Shows Bad Taste

By ROBERT S. ALLEN (For Drew Pearson)

WASHINGTON. — The Washington Merry-Go-Round week awards its brass ring—in reverse.

Recipient of the bob-tailed decoration is Field Marshal Bernard L. Montgomery. Occasion: The distribution in the U. S. by the British information service of Montgomery's amazing post-operational report of the war in the ETO.

Bearing the quaint title of "Despatch," the report is an astounding concoction of misstatements of fact, half truths, innuendoes, omissions, and self-glorification. That Montgomery should compose this kind of document is not remarkable. On the basis of past performances, the report is wholly in character. What is remarkable is that the British government should not only permit the report to see the light of day, but to distribute it in this country at this time. Its publication is a blunder as offensive and provocative as Montgomery's extraordinary opus.

It is traditional that high-level post-operational reports are not noted for complete candor. Frequently they are more illuminating in what they omit and gloss over than in what they actually relate.

The reports of Generals Marshall and Eisenhower, published last year, displayed marked symptoms of this occupational disease. Hanson Baldwin, veteran military analyst of the New York Times, sharply criticized the Eisenhower report on this score. Baldwin particularly ridiculed Eisenhower's bland claim that everything in the ETO had gone "according to plan."

But, while tainted with considerable mumbo-jumbo, the Marshall and Eisenhower reports were dignified and restrained. They were meticulously accurate on the details that were covered, all participants were studiously given full recognition, and the perpendicular pronoun was used sparingly and modesty. As far as the reports went, they were gentlemanly and soldierly. MR. FIX-IT.

Montgomery's report is inaccurate, vainglorious, petty, and mischievous. On the very first page is an extraordinary misstatement of fact. Montgomery declares "headquarters twelfth U. S. Army group did not come into existence until just before the jump-off of the Third U. S. Army's epic breakout of the continent through the Avranches corridor. The U. S. Army group headquarters set up in London was the first (FUSAG). Months later, when this headquarters became operational under General Omar Bradley, it was secretly redesignated the twelfth for deception purposes."

Immediately on the heels of this misstatement of fact, Montgomery, on the next page, makes an even more extraordinary pronouncement. He lays claim to sole and complete authorship of the assault plan of Operation Overlord. "My plan," he says flatly and unequivocally.

The basic outline of this plan was agreed upon before Montgomery reached London in January, 1944. And a number of senior commanders participated in working out the details of the plan. Large part of the first chapter of Eisenhower's report consists of a detailed account of the evolution of this plan. Eisenhower makes it crystal-clear that the report was the result of many lengthy conferences, in which Montgomery was only one of a number of participants, and that changes were frequent and far-reaching. Eisenhower repeatedly uses the expression "our decisions," as it was only decent and honorable for him to do under the circumstances.

In striking contrast, Montgomery not only lays categorical claim to full authorship of the plan, but, in keeping with his self-proclaimed proprietorship, makes only three fleeting references to Eisenhower in the first forty-four pages (one-half) of the "Despatch." And only one of them is by name. In the other two instances, Eisenhower is referred to merely as the "Supreme Commander."

PASSING THE BUCK
There is another very significant, and characteristic, aspect to the references to Eisenhower in Montgomery's report.

The first time the "Supreme Commander" is singled out for marked attention is on page 45 in an italicized preface summarizing the operations beginning with September 1, 1944. This was the beginning of the tragic period of the war in the ETO. The period that started with the order, at Montgomery's vehement insistence, halting Patton on the Moselle, when his Third Army had in front of it only a decimated and disorganized enemy and unmanned Siegfried line barring the way to the Rhine.

Nazi Germany could have been conquered before winter if Patton's blasting tankers and slashing doughboys had not been sat down so that Montgomery could launch his costly and abortive offensive in the north. This ill-conceived and bungled campaign was a defeat surpassed only by the Ardennes disaster. And it was this period, also, that witnessed the bloody Hurtgen forest battle, the period that culminated finally in the Ardennes disaster.

It is of more than passing note, therefore, that Montgomery should single out the "Supreme Commander" for special mention in this particular portion of the "Despatch," especially in view of the manner in which the reference is made. Say Montgomery, "In September the Supreme Commander assumed command and direction of the Army groups himself."

This will be very interesting news to Eisenhower. According to his report, he was in personal command of all Army groups from the jump-off of the invasion.

Texas Today—Jack Rutledge

Texas Men Protest Styles Too

Texas women aren't the only ones protesting new styles—Texas men are rarin' back on their heels, too.

The movement has been slow, and not as sensational as the revolt led by Dallas women, a revolt that has become nationwide. But it has been steady and in the long pull may have more results.

A male comfort club, started years ago, rebelled against the wearing of coats and ties in summer months. The club is strong in Fort Worth. It has spread to Sherman, Tyler, Corpus Christi, elsewhere.

Bob McCracken of Corpus Christi has advocated sports shirts for men on summer days—and they now have a Bob McCracken day down there.

Newest of the male comfort clubs is the one sponsored in Tyler by the Courier-Times-Telegraph. Slogan of the club is no coat, no tie, no neck to fry. It also has a little poem: Shuck your coat, shed your tie; look at the girls—they don't fry.

And a brave gentleman named Neil Fletcher of Dallas recently appeared on the main street dressed in shorts, T-shirt and moccasins.

A Chicago visitor commented that he wore shorts all the time back home, and added that Europeans all wear shorts in torrid climates. He said—and we still wonder how he got away with it—that Texas men just haven't the courage to follow suit.

As to the new fall styles—well, for one thing, men don't have the incentive women do to raise cane. Regardless of changes they won't have to discard current wardrobes, because there aren't any current wardrobes except in the upper brackets, and they can afford it.

Men's clothing didn't bounce back like women's clothing—many items are still scarce.

Anything new that men buy is just that much gravy, and not a replacement.

Last fall many experts said the derby hat was coming back. Well, it isn't. We got it straight from the horse's mouth—hat makers aren't going to offer derbies again because they last too long. They last for years, killing annual sales which are low enough as it is. A survey indicated that American men buy one half a hat a year.

The big trend, therefore, seems to be toward summer comfort. There's not much to argue about there. Except to back up the women in their campaign, as every good red-blooded American boy certainly will.

Affairs Of The World—DeWitt MacKenzie

Agression Is Hard To Define

By SIGRID ARNE

(For DeWitt MacKenzie)
At the Rio conference of the American republics an old international teaser has risen again: When do friendly nations go to each other's help?

Time and again nations have tried to define aggression to what point they were agreed at what point to gang up and stop a war-maker. That seems simple enough to a layman. But the League of Nations spent months arguing the question and got nowhere. Russia's foreign commissar of the day, Maxim Litvinoff, pressed for an agreement that would send the member states out after anyone who:

1. Declared war on another state.
2. Invaded another nation.
3. Attacked the territory, vessels or aircraft of another nation.
4. Set up a naval blockade.
5. Supported armed bands active in another country or refused to take steps at home to deny aid to such bands.

Litvinoff failed in the league, but under him in the 30's Russia put the provisions into treaties with Romania, Estonia, Latvia, Poland, Turkey, Iran and Afghanistan.

Some now think that, if the league had approved the Litvinoff plan, point 5 would have prevented World War II. It could have been invoked against Germany in Spain, Austria and Czechoslovakia.

And, ironically, with Litvinoff ill and in the discard, today's Russia probably would be adjudged the culprit under his formula.

The idea of defining aggression got a little flesh on its bones at the 1945 Chaulotte conference. There the American republics did promise to stop any nation whose troops crossed international borders in the Western Hemisphere.

The idea came up at the San Francisco conference of the United Nations, but failed. Now the republics gathered at Rio have been asked again to decide when aggression starts. Cuba's Guillermo belt started it with a request for action against "economic aggression."

That shot was fired at the United States, which, through a recent sugar act, permits the secretary of agriculture to limit U. S. purchase of sugar whenever a nation refuses American citizens air treatment. That worries Cuba because her welfare rises and falls by large sales of sugar to the U. S.

The time which such debates take is one thing which worries the small nations. They would like a sort of international alarm clock to ring when war has started, and they have thought a list of aggressive acts would be the answer.

But the U. S. doubts the value of a rigid list. We argue that the start of war today can take such varied forms that the Americans should have, rather, an agreement for quick consultation to determine whether war has started.

True Stories Of West Texas—N. H. Kincaid

The Battle Over Fenced-In Lands

Copyright, N. H. Kincaid, 1947

Not far from Ballinger in Runnels County and just off U. S. Highway 83, there is an old fence, its wires cut and spliced at every post. A frayed and most uninteresting fence, perhaps, but behind those spliced wires is a story that was duplicated throughout the west until it has become the history of West Texas itself.

This fence was new, back in the spring of 1883. It enclosed the 100,000 acre holdings of the Odum-Luckett Land and Livestock company. But those were the days of conflict between the cattlemen, or the "free grass element," and the small landowner, and every fence became a challenge to the man with the pliers. Guards became a necessity.

So on this night in 1883, just after the guards, going in twos, had completed the first leg of their inspection of the 40 miles of boundary fence, it happened. "All right, you fellows, up with 'em," came quietly from the shadows beside them. Defiantly their guns were removed and each man had a pair of pliers pushed into his hand. "Now get to work!"

And all night long the guards had to cut wire, every strand at each post. Forty miles of fence, three strands high.

This opposition to fenced-in pastures and watering places was bitter and deep. Nor was it confined to the cattlemen. Nesters had their grievances also. The farmers fenced so they could grow crops, that stockmen fenced to assure a range for their cattle; they both fenced for spite. And wire cutting became a profession in itself. Men were known to hire out to first one faction and then another, just for the thrill and the pay.

Garland G. Odum and his father, Thomas L. Odum, had been among the first cattlemen of the open range to fence their holdings. But in 1886, three years after his expensive fence-cutting experience, Garland established his ranch in Apache County, Arizona.

Meanwhile the state legislators, realizing the gravity of the situation, made it a misdemeanor or to carry a part of pliers. And 20 years later final measures were enacted that gave protection to the land holder against the land-claim jumpers and the man with the pliers was no longer a problem.

It's Tough Life For Claudette Colbert In 'The Egg And I'

"Rough and ready" is said to be the description for Claudette Colbert these days.

The smartly clad, enameled nailed Claudette, who on the screen has always been the symbol for chic, takes and awful beating in the hilarious "The Egg And I," which the Ritz theatre has booked for a four-day run beginning today.

She's a gingham-clad farmer's wife who has to lend a hand with the chores or incur the disapproval of her husband, played by Fred MacMurray. Fred portrays the city-slicker turned rural who firmly believes in the old adage that no man should have more land or live-stock than his wife can take care of.

The peak of Claudette's deglamorization in the film version of Bety MacDonald's best-seller is when she wrestles with Cleopatra the pig. For this sequence she had to get right down in the studio-made mud pig pen and try to tug Cleopatra back into the pen by pulling on the sow's ears.

Though the studio used hot water in making the mud — a standby fire engine supplied the tepid liquid — it was still a messy and smelly business for Claudette. The closeups and all took the better part of an afternoon. The mud was sprinkled with fish-meal to keep Cleopatra interested, and the smell, according to Claudette did in no way resemble Chanel No.5.

In addition to mauling the pig, Claudette had to chop wood, shingle roofs, haul water from a well plow, trim trees, feed and water chickens, cows, goats, sheep, a dog and a horse. MacMurray was off in the woods hunting and just came in for meals, also prepared by Claudette, to offer suggestions for speeding up her chores.

By the time the film had been finished, the heretofore glamour girl had suffered a bruised shin, a wrenched shoulder, a stubbed toe, a burnt arm, and bad bruises the size of half-dollars over the greater part of her anatomy. Heading the featured cast in "The Egg and I" are Marjorie Main, Louise Allbritton, Percy Kilbride, Billy House, Richard Long, and Fuzzy Knight. The hit film was directed by Chester Erskine.

Movie Actor Visits Here

Roger Barton, a Brownwood resident who is making the ascent in Hollywood films, and who has been vacationing in Texas, was scheduled to be here over the weekend to visit his grandmother, Mrs. J. C. Burleson.

The young actor signed with the Charles R. Rogers Production Corp. in 1943, and has appeared in "Where Are Your Children," "Rhapsody in Blue," and "Song of The Open Road."

On the radio, he has been heard over Mutual affiliates in Star Gazing and "Stars On The Horizon."

Barton was last in Big Spring in 1945, when an American Airlines plane stop permitted him only a few minutes here. Now he is flying his own plane, and has the time for a visit.

-Highlights On KBST-

When a critic reviews the critics that's news. The news will be made in absentia by Jimmie Fidler this evening when the vacationing Hollywood commentator addresses his open letter via transcription to other movie critics, via KBST at 8:30 p. m.

Fidler will plead with his colleagues to join him in guarding the younger generation against undesirable films by specifying in their reviews whether a picture is suitable for children.

"There's no such thing as a dead star. They are only stars who have been miscast." These words from Jerry Wald, a man who ought to know, will set the theme when he is interviewed by movie commentator Louella Parsons at 8:15 this evening over KBST. Wald is the Warner Brothers producer who guided Joan Crawford back to stardom.

Tenor Earl Tanner will sing "Last Night When We Were Young" and June Browne, coloratura, will sing "I'll See You Again" on ABC's Hour of Music tonight at 9 over KBST. The orchestra, under the baton of Rex Maupin, will play "Drifting Along With The Tide," and "Villa."

The Honey Dreamers, vocal quintet, will sing "I May Be Wrong" and "Try A Little Tenderness." The George Barnes Octet will play an original composition by Maestro Barnes titled "London Bridge work."

Allen Prescott will master the ceremonies on the Breakfast Club while Toastmaster Don McNeill briefly vacations Monday and Tuesday.

Washington Paper Hits O'Daniel

By Associated Press
The Washington "Post" recently carried an editorial entitled "City Slicker", which began: "Senator W. Lee (Pappy) O'Daniel is now contributing his solution to the housing shortage. He is enabling hard-pressed families to purchase units at $10,000 to $13,000 each on a cooperative plan in the Northeast Washington apartment building he bought some two years ago."
After recalling the eviction suits by the senator to gain possession of the four-story structure, the Post said O'Daniel "like a good fellow seeking to remedy past injustice" is putting "the house back on the market, then adds:
"A purely incidental consideration, we presume, is the fact that he stands to boost his original $52,500 investment into nearly $150,000. It would seem that the country boy in a big city—the pose that Senator O'Daniel loves to assume—knows a thing or two."
O'Daniel told reporters that he had spent "well over" $20,000 in repairs and alterations to the structure.

B' Springers Planning For 'Long Weekend'

It'll be a "long weekend" next week for Big Springers, as the city takes its customary respite from business activity in observance of Labor Day.
Through vote of membership of the Retail Merchants association, Labor Day is one of the fully observed holidays in the city, and practically all retail business establishments will be closed.
Public offices, too are expected to close for the day, and banking business will be suspended.
Labor Day also happens to mark the opening day of the term for city schools but pupils will not report for classwork until Tuesday, and it's a work day for teachers only.
No formal observance of the day has been planned locally, but it'll be a big day for sports enthusiasts.
The Big Spring Broncs close out regular baseball season play with an afternoon double-header against Vernon. Labor Day also will mark the finals in the Big Spring country club's annual invitational golf tourney.

Four Businesses In Texas Fail

AUSTIN, Aug. 23. (P)—Four Texas business failures during July were reported today by the University of Texas bureau of business research.
This compared with four failures in June and two in July, 1946.
Business failures for the year now total 24 compared with only 3 for the comparable period last year.
Average liability per failure was $38,000 in July compared with $67,000 in June and $17,000 in May, indicative of failures in larger-size businesses each month.

The Texas Poll

Tidelands Oil Should Belong To State, Is Majority View

By The Texas Poll

AUSTIN, Aug. 23. (P)—Two months have passed since the United States supreme court decided oil lands off the coast of California belong to the federal government. During that time several Texas officials have campaigned for continued state ownership of submerged oil lands in the Gulf of Mexico.

Land Commissioner Bascom Giles suggested that the state secede from the Union rather than give up its off-coast oil. Governor Beauford Jester launched a nationwide campaign for state ownership of tidelands and gained the approval of a governors' conference at Salt Lake City. The state's press and radio has given widespread publicity to the campaign.

Yet almost half of a representative cross-section of adult Texans say they have not read or heard about the tidelands oil fight. And more than three-fourths of those tested by the Texas Poll do not know that tidelands leases earn $5,500,000 annually for the permanent school fund.

Despite lack of knowledge about the tidelands oil, 71 per cent, when acquainted with the question, agreed that the submerged lands should belong to the state.

Texas Poll interviewers asked: "Have you read or heard anything about the tidelands oil fight between the states and the federal government?"

	Men	Women	All
Yes	57	42	49
No	40	57	46
Don't know	3	7	5

Men and women differ only slightly as to who should own the tidelands. Both groups are equally uninformed about the income Texas derives from the submerged oil lands which have an estimated potential valuation of $500,000,000. Persons interviewed were told: "Oil men tell us there is a great deal of oil in the lands under the water off the coast of Texas. Do you think this oil should belong to the federal government or to the State of Texas?"

	Men	Women	All
Should belong to the federal government	14	11	13
Should belong to the State of Texas	72	71	71
Both should hold it jointly	1	1	1
Don't know	13	18	15

The interviewers then asked: "So you know whether or not Texas receives any income from the oil now produced from the wells in the submerged land in the Gulf?"

	Men	Women	All
Does receive income	24	20	22
Does not receive income	6	2	4
Don't know	70	77	74

Opinion varies between those who have heard about the tidelands controversy and those who have not. Eighty-one per cent of the informed favor state ownership, while 62 per cent of those who have not heard about the issue think the tidelands should belong to Texas.

Ninety-two per cent of the uninformed don't know that Texas receives income from the tidelands oil. But among those who have heard or read about the controversy, 37 per cent correctly answered that the state receives income from the off-coast land.
