BLACK COED CRITICALLY WOUNDED BY OFFICER'S BULLET

Nine Persons Shot As Violence Breaks Out In Denton

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — Nine persons, most of them college students, suffered gunshot wounds Monday night following a minor automobile collision in front of a Texas Woman's University dormitory.

Glenda Hopkins, 18, a Negro student, was hit in the chest when a policeman's pistol accidentally discharged. She suffered a critical wound. A male student was struck by the same bullet.

The crowd which collected was sprayed by a shotgun blast from a pickup truck which drove away.

Officers charged the man they identified as the driver of the car in the accident with carrying a prohibited weapon, a club, and aggravated assault on an officer. He is George Allen Miles, an airman and a Negro from Carswell Air Force Base at nearby Fort Worth.

In all, nine black youths were arrested. Police Chief Wayne Autrey gave this account of what happened:

Patrolmen answering an auto accident call found that a car had rammed into a parked vehicle on the university campus.

One of the officers, Wayne Brown, was attacked with a club by the driver, a Negro airman, and knocked down.

ROOKIE PULLS GUN

Rookie patrolman Rick Wiley, 25, pulled his gun. It went off accidentally, hitting Miss Hopkins in the chest. The bullet then lodged in the groin of Ralph Stowol, 18, a student of neighboring North Texas State University. Miss Hopkins and Stowol were taken to a hospital. The Negro airman and a woman companion were taken to jail.

A crowd attracted by the shooting was still in front of the dormitory when two shotgun blasts were fired from a passing truck, injuring seven persons, six of them students.

Later patrolling police arrested five Negro youths with equipment the officers said was for making fire bombs. Four more were picked up when police said, a search of their car, revealed a revolver.

CRIME FIGHTERS

The campuses of both schools have been racially integrated for years.

At least nine persons were wounded. Most were college students and most were treated and released.

Texas Rangers—Capt. Bob Crowder and three more of the state's famed crime fighters—augmented Denton city and county officers in patrolling North Texas State University. Shotgun-carrying police guarded Flow Memorial Hospital where the wounded were taken. Officers made quick arrests in what they termed attempts to prevent rioting.

About three hours after the chain of events began, a Denton officer arrested five Negro youths with equipment for making Molotov cocktails or fire bombs. Four other Negro youths were arrested when an officer searching their car found a .32 caliber revolver.

Under intensive care and termed critically wounded following surgery was Glenda Hopkins, 18, a Texas Woman's University coed from Galveston, Tex.

Chief of Police Wayne Autrey said the Negro girl was struck when a rookie policeman, Rick Wiley, 25, pulled his gun in an attempt to aid officer Wayne Brown.

Autrey said Wiley and Brown were two of the three policemen

'Let's Drink To Our Cosmonauts'

VYSOKA NAD KYSCOU, Czechoslovakia (AP) — They have returned to our planet. Let's drink to our cosmonauts . . . our cosmonauts," the husky Slovak said, raising a glass of brandy.

Imrich Cernan, cousin of American astronaut Eugene Cernan, proposed the toast in a darkened room full of Slovaks.

They were crowded around a television screen so small it needed a magnifying glass to enlarge the flickering image of Apollo 10 brought from the Pacific by satellite. Eurovision and Czechoslovak TV.

By "our cosmonauts," Imrich meant Eugene A. Cernan, Thomas P. Stafford and John W. Young.

Especially Cernan. The Navy commander is a hero to this town of his forebears and its citizens are hoping he will visit them.

Waiting for the astronauts to be fished out the ocean, Imrich said: "They're sure to be drinking to each other's health right now. They've got a tape recorder and recordings and spaghetti in there, surely they must have a bottle of something to drink."

The three astronauts appeared clearly on the screen aboard the recovery ship Princeton a few minutes later. Children in the crowded room said, "There's Cernan on the left. There's Stafford. There's Young."

Imrich, 38, is of the same generation as his 33-year-old second cousin. They are great-grandsons of the late Andrew Cernan of Vysoka.

Two of Andrew's four sons emigrated to America about 1900. One of them was the astronaut's grandfather, Stegan.

Embezzlement Counts Denied

EL PASO (AP) — Kenneth L. Musgrave, 38, former board chairman of the Home Savings Association of Odessa, pleaded innocent to embezzlement charges in federal court Monday. He was placed under $250,000 bond.

The former Abilene resident put up property in Abilene valued at $600,000 as security for his bond. Musgrave now lives in Dallas.

Released under $20,000 bond each were co-defendants Marshall Womack and Jack Bryant.

Homer E. Koon Jr., of Gainesville, a fourth defendant in the case, reportedly posted $5,000 bond in Sherman, Tex., when arraigned before a U.S. Commissioner.

Proposed Post Office Legislation Outlined

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon asked Congress today for legislation to convert the Post Office Department into a government-owned, self-sustaining service removed from Cabinet status.

DIE HARD

"Traditions die hard and traditional institutions are difficult to abandon," Nixon declared. "But tradition is no substitute for performance, and if our postal system is to meet the expanding needs of the 1970s, we must act now."

The President's proposal was largely based on recommendations submitted by Frederick R. Kappel, head of former President Lyndon B. Johnson's Commission on Postal Organization. Nixon said his reform, besides removing the post office from the Cabinet, calls for several sweeping changes including:

—Creation of an independent postal service wholly owned by the federal government and administered by a nine-member board of directors.

BARGAINING RIGHTS

—New and extensive collective bargaining rights for postal employees.

—Bond financing for major capital improvements, similar to the funding arrangement now held by the Tennessee Valley Authority.

—Establishment of a commission of experts to propose changes in mail classifications and postage rates, subject to review by the seven presidentially appointed members of the nine-member board.

Much of what the President recommended was leaked by congressional sources last week.

Postmaster General Winton M. Blair held a White House briefing today on the plans.

President Nixon and Blair appeared together before reporters at the briefing and both made comments on the Nixon message to Congress.

Latin Hijacker Takes Command Of Giant Plane

MIAMI (AP) — Northeast Airlines Capt. Ted Connors says he's the boss in the air and his stewardess-wife runs things on the ground—but there was no question who was in command Monday when a Latin hijacker held a pistol to Mrs. Connors' temple.

"I was very agreeable," said Kathleen Connors, a tall platinum blonde. "As I was passing his seat he jumped up and grabbed me by the arm, put the gun in my side and said, 'Cuba, Cuba!'"

"There was no question in our mind," said Connors, a hefty, square-jawed veteran flier. "We just did a 180 (degree turn) and headed for Cuba."

Nixon said all nine directors would be chosen "without regard to political affiliation."

Seven members including the chairman, would be appointed by the President, and would require Senate confirmation. These seven would then select "a full time chief executive officer who will join with the seven others to select a full time executive who will also serve on the board," Nixon said.

REFORM IDEA

The President said the reform proposal has been under consideration for the past several weeks, and he described it as "the most significant reform bill" that will be sent Congress under his administration.

He said such a reorganization is "an urgent national requirement" and the only way to forestall either massive postal deficits or huge rate increases.

Noting that the department has had deficits for 114 of the last 131 years, Nixon said, "the money to meet these huge postal deficits comes directly out of the taxpayers' pocket regardless of how much he uses the mails."

It is bad business, bad government, and bad politics to pour this kind of money into an inefficient postal service," Nixon said.

The President emphasized that the reforms could be put into effect without a reduction in the postal system's 750,000 employees.

Big Welcome For 'Mooners' In Space City

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Apollo 10 astronauts returned home today to a hero's welcome and to make the reports that will determine when man will go to the moon this year.

As a band piped them in with "Up, Up and Away" and "Deep in the Heart of Texas" the three men who returned from the moon just 24 hours earlier, leaped from the plane that brought them nonstop from Samoa.

The astronauts, Air Force Col. Thomas P. Stafford and Navy Cmdrs. Eugene Cernan and John Young, were wearing leis. Their first act, after embracing their wives and children, was to drape the necklaces around their loved ones' necks.

What the astronauts report will determine when the Apollo 11 astronauts leave on a moon-landing mission. The blastoff for that voyage is scheduled at Cape Kennedy July 16, but space agency officials said Apollo 10 raised a few questions that could delay it a month or two.

Still wearing one of the baseball caps the astronauts received when they boarded the carrier Princeton, Young told the crowd:

"That moon doesn't have any air and that moon's not Texas and we're sure glad to be here."

Stafford said "It's really great . . . it's fantastic to be back from the moon."

And Cernan said: "I'm convinced now more than ever that there's no place we can't eventually go and there's nothing we can't eventually do."

There was little time for reunion with families. After lunch, the astronauts were to undergo extensive physical examinations.

The astronauts' flight from Pago Pago in the Pacific took exactly 12 hours. They landed at Ellington AFB, near the Manned Spacecraft Center.

In the window of their plane, a C141 Starlifter, was a picture of the comic strip dog "Snoopy," the name the astronauts gave to the fragile little moon ferry that took Stafford and Cernan to 9.4 miles over the moon's surface Thursday.

The cone-shaped command capsule carrying the Apollo 10 trio parachuted into the Pacific Monday, climaxing eight days in space that one space agency official said had "given us the confidence to make the next bold step."

Dr. Thomas O. Paine, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said, "The real goal (of the space program) is to develop and demonstrate the capability for interplanetary travel."

Apollo 10 landed less than three miles from the main recovery ship, the carrier Princeton. Television cameras relayed the scene live to the United States and Europe.

Splashdown was at 12:52 p.m. EDT. In one of the fastest recoveries in the U.S. space program, a helicopter deposited the astronauts on the deck of the carrier 39 minutes later.

The astronauts, who became the first men to shave in space the day before, seemed elated as they stepped onto a red carpet rolled across the deck. They danced exuberant little jigs as they headed for sick bay and medical examination.

Doctors reported they were in excellent physical condition.

President Nixon, by radiotelephone from Washington, told them, "This is a proud moment for the country." He invited the trio and their families to the White House for dinner at a date to be set later. Vice President Spiro T. Agnew also telephoned congratulations.

Four New State Colleges Okayed

AUSTIN (AP) — Senators gave quick approval today to four new state colleges, cutting off possible filibusters with a parliamentary maneuver and overriding a strong protest by Sen. Henry Grover, Houston Republican.

Bills setting up branches of the University of Texas at San Antonio and in the Permian Basin were passed to the governor to be signed into law.

Measures creating new schools at Texarkana and Corpus Christi were sent to the House for another vote.

Several senators opposed the proposals and had stalled a vote on them earlier, so the "previous question" was quickly passed to prevent any debate on the measures. The motion was made while the bill sponsors were talking, which meant when they sat down, the bill had to be voted on without prolonged discussion.

Is this tyranny of the majority going to continue on your part," Grover asked Lt. Gov. Ben Barnes.

"The chair is not advised," Barnes replied.

"Well the people should be advised—this is a disgraceful action," Grover said.

The University of Texas of the Permian Basin would supplement Odessa College by offering only junior, senior and graduate work.

The University of Texas at San Antonio would be a four-year college.

The proposed University of South Texas, at Corpus Christi, and Texarkana State University would be upper-level schools such as in the Permian Basin.

The Permian basin school was approved 23-5; the Corpus Christi school 19-9, the San Antonio and Texarkana schools on voice vote.

"This will be partial solution to some of the problems we face in education today," said Sen. W.E. Snelson of Midland, sponsor of the Permian Basin school.

Earlier, Sen. Bill Moore of Bryan and other economy-minded senators had filibustered against creation of several new colleges, including the one between Midland and Odessa.

The House passed the Permian bill on voice vote April 24, under sponsorship of Rep. Ace Pickens of Odessa.

SINCE AMERICAN BOMBING HALT ALMOST SEVEN MONTHS AGO

Charges Red Viet With 5,000 DMZ Violations

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command charged North Vietnam today with more than 5,000 violations of the Demilitarized Zone between North and South Vietnam since the bombing halt last Nov. 1.

The American Command said U.S. forces were shelled four times Sunday from the buffer zone. In one attack eight Marines were killed and 24 wounded, the largest number of Americans killed by a rocket and mortar attack along the northern frontier since American bombing of North Vietnam was halted almost seven months ago.

The Marines were about 400 yards south of the DMZ when their position was hit by five mortar rounds. A U.S. spokesman said the mortars set off some of the Marines' ammunition, and this apparently caused some of the casualties.

Marine artillery fired back into the DMZ "silencing the mortar fire," headquarters said, but there was no report of any enemy casualties.

The same Marine position had been hit by about 10 mortar rounds earlier Sunday and one man was wounded.

"They're trying to increase our casualties to get the people back home up in arms to hurry up our withdrawal," said one spokesman for the U.S. Command. "It's part of their overall strategy."

"They've been stockpiling supplies right across the DMZ like mad since the bombing halt. They've never honored the agreement. They've used the DMZ as a sanctuary and continue to build up fortifications there."

American officials claim that North Vietnam agreed to keep the DMZ free of military action in return for the bombing halt. Hanoi said it made no agreement and that the bombing halt was unconditional.

'PRETTY CONSTANT'

Although allied intelligence officers say North Vietnam has placed nearly 40,000 troops and tons of supplies along the northern rim of the DMZ, a U.S. spokesman said today he had no reports indicating enemy plans for a massive drive through the DMZ.

He said the number of incidents of military activity in the zone per week is "pretty constant." But he said that since May 11, when the enemy command suddenly stepped up its rocket and mortar attacks across South Vietnam, there have been 21 such attacks from inside the DMZ. Only three had been reported in the preceding two months.

In a weekly report today, the U.S. Command said that since the bombing halt, American reconnaissance has detected 5,044

"indications of enemy presence or activity" inside the DMZ, including 3,273 in South Vietnam's half and 1,771 in North Vietnam's sector.

These "indications" include troop movements, bunkers, trail activity, firing on reconnaissance planes and shelling of allied troops below the zone. The U.S. Command said its forces—artillery, planes, warships or occasionally infantrymen backed by tanks—had opened fire in 2,322 of the incidents. But it said only 130 of the incidents were considered significant.

The significance comes from the results, said a spokesman. "We look at each engagement and take the ones that are most significant to report."

According to operational reports from American headquarters, 13 Americans have been killed and 69 wounded as the result of North Vietnamese rocket and mortar attacks from inside the DMZ since last Nov. 1. During the same period, 295 North Vietnamese troops have been reported killed inside the zone by U.S. fire.

Elsewhere in the war, heavy fighting was reported in the Central Highlands. South Vietnamese rangers, in contact with North Vietnamese troops southwest of Dak To since last week, reported killing 62 on Monday. Ranger casualties were put at six killed and 27 wounded.

Delayed reports said South Vietnamese irregulars led by American Green Beret Special Forces men suffered heavy casualties southwest of Dak To last Saturday—18 men killed, 55 wounded, and 43 missing from a battalion of 400 civilian irregulars. Two of the American advisers also were reported killed, eight were wounded, and one was missing.

38 KILLED

North Vietnamese losses were put at 20 killed.

Nine waves of B52 bombers dropped more than 1,600 tons of bombs on enemy troops and camps near Dak To, south of Da Nang, and north of Saigon.

A LOVELIER YOU Improve Posture For More Graceful Look

By MARY SUE MILLER

A teen lovely writes: My family picks on my posture. Continually. My mother tells me I slouch. Daddy calls it a slump. My big sister says I walk like a rag doll. My dear little brother says I clomp. Do you think I could be that awkward? How can I tell?

The Answer: You can tell about your posture in motion — your walk — in moments by taking this test:

1. Clad in your swim suit, stand barefoot as far as possible from a long mirror.

2. Bend elbows, lightly pressing them into sides. Bring palms of hands together with fingers pointing straight ahead; hold hands a bit below and out from waist.

3. Walk slowly toward mirror with eyes focused on hands.

4. As you move forward, carefully note if hands move up and down or from side to side. Or do they jiggle?

If you detect any hand motion whatever, your carriage is not what it should be. The hands would not move if you walked without a flaw — such flaws as slouched shoulders, slumped chest, wiggling hips, ambling legs and clomping feet.

To be rid of all, turn the test into a daily routine. And work to make a controlled, soundless transfer of weight between feet; to hold hips on an even keel; to elevate waist and chest; to square shoulders.

From practice comes gracefulness. Do you suppose other family members would care to join you? Any age can play, and the game is most revealing.

Kenneth R. Gregorys Take Wedding Trip

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth R. Gregory are on a wedding trip following their marriage Saturday evening in the First Presbyterian Church in Coahoma.

The bride is the former Shylene Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Moore of Coahoma. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Callahan, also of Coahoma.

The Rev. Jesse Dea, uncle of the bride, and pastor of First United Methodist Church in Union, performed the double ring ceremony before an altar adorned with white lilies and gladioli flanked with twin greenery.

Mrs. David Northcutt, organist, accompanied Miss Cecelia Cooper as she sang "Always" and "The Twelfth of Never." The couple knelt on a prie dieu to light a "memory" candle.

The bride was attired in a street-length dress of white lace over satin designed in a slender silhouette. The long lace sleeves were trimmed in scalloped lace, and the square neckline was accented with lace. Her veil of illusion fell from a headpiece fitted dress with yellow net of lily of the valley, and she carried a white Bible topped with white roses and orchids.

Miss Diane Syverson of Cordell, Okla., was maid of honor. She wore a yellow satin overlay, and carried a nosegay of white carnations with yellow satin streamers.

Terry Denton of Sand Springs was best man. Ushers were Johnny Moore, brother of the bride, and Alvin Best, both of Coahoma.

Miss Terri Riddle of Wichita Falls distributed rice bags, and altar tapers were lighted by Miss Sharon Riddle of Wichita Falls and Miss Valrae Best.

SCHOOLS
Mrs. Gregory, a graduate of Coahoma High School, was twirler for the Bulldog band for four years and was named "Miss Coahoma High School" her senior year. She is attending Howard County Junior College.

The bridegroom graduated from Coahoma High School where he was named to the all-state football team and a member of the Honor Society and Who's Who. He is also attending HCCJ.

A reception will be at the fellowship hall. Miss Cindy Dea

Party Held Sunday For Graduate

Jenny Schneider, a graduate at Big Spring Senior High School, was the honoree at a punch party held Sunday in the home of Mrs. John Baker, 21 Albrook. The honoree's mother, Mrs. Jimmy Schneider, assisted in receiving guests, and her sister, Joan Schneider, presided at the register.

Refreshments were served from a polished table appointed with silver. The graduation theme was used in decorations for the cake and nut cups were shaped like miniature mortar boards.

A gift was presented to Miss Schneider by the hostess.

Bingham Studio Presents Recital

Catherine Dawson of Big Spring was one of the featured performers in the "Dance In" spring recital presented Friday by Bingham-Dance Studio at Robert E. Lee Auditorium in Midland. Choreography was by E. F. Bingham, Miss Memorie McGowan and Miss Kathy Ruhmann.

Miss Dawson was one of the dancers in modern ballet, "The Garden of Eden," and performed in two acts of the final presentation, a "horse opera" entitled "The Legend of Tumbleweed County."

Hints From Heloise

Dear Heloise:

I wonder if anyone has ever tried fabric softener as an emergency cream hair rinse.

I nearly panicked one day when I found that I was out of cream rinse, so I decided to try the softener.

I put one tablespoon of softener in a gallon of water and poured over my hair.

My hair is now so squeaky-clean, fresh smelling and absolutely soft!

This is really great in an emergency. BEVERLY

That's a real Jim dandy of an idea, Beverly.

In fact, the directions for your very hint are on the box!

Guess we gals should read the fine print more often, eh? Heloise

Dear Heloise: Here is a good suggestion for the home gardener.

Save your empty pill bottles! When you use just part of a packet of seeds and want to save the rest, store them in those empty pill bottles!

Remove the original label and put a piece of masking tape to label the bottle.

This is ideal to store your seeds because they are not scattered and they stay dry. Cindy Lawrence

Dear Heloise: I have read your article "Salt Can Save Rug From Unrained Dog" and most heartily agree that this method is excellent.

In your instructions you stress the importance of cleaning your vacuum after picking up the salt to avoid rusting the machine.

I would like to add to this.

Instead of vacuuming up all the salt, spoon it into a dust pan or piece of paper and only use the vacuum to recover that portion which remains in the carpet. This will make it easier to clean the vacuum and, should it not be cleaned right away, the small amount then recovered would not be sufficient to do much harm to the machine.

Hope you find this suggestion of interest. M. Milton Baker

Dear Heloise: Instead of paying high prices for garment bags to store blankets, winter clothing and spreads... buy some of those heavy-duty thirty-gallon plastic trash can liners with the twist closures.

They hold a multitude of out-of-season clothes or three or four blankets at a time.

These are very inexpensive and really solve my storing problem. An Avid Fan

LETTER OF LAUGHTER

Dear Heloise:

I am the mother of a year-old toddler and I care for a small baby five days a week. This is enough to keep anyone hopping, but me especially, as I am a bit slow in doing things.

Whenever I think to do it, I quickly jot down a list of my planned activities for the day. This list includes every task that I intend to do during the day.

By the end of the day I can look at the marked-off list and feel a sense of accomplishment, even if the house is again in shambles.

It may sound silly, but it really does work. And maybe this little hint may help other "down-in-the-dumps" girls. Wilma Long

Dear Heloise: Don't discard that bottle warmer and the large mouth baby bottles after your baby is older and no longer has use for them.

They can be taken along on trips and used in your motel room to heat chocolate milk water for tea or coffee, or even soup.

Take as many bottles as you have people.

No, we didn't use the nipples — drank right from the bottles. Mrs. E. Mangus

A DOG-GONED GOOD WAY TO AVERT FAMINE
Poodle puppies rely on German Shepherd for daily milk ration

Poodle Finds Handy Helper

By SAM BLACKBURN
Suzette, a three-year-old poodle lady, gave birth on May 9 to five small, hungry pups. Unfortunately, something backfired and Suzette turned out unable to provide her offspring with milk.

Almost to the day, Bianca, a 11-month-old German shepherd, who was supposed to become a mother, didn't. But as it worked out, Bianca's lactate equipment was functioning just fine.

Mrs. Sue Sewell, 2111 Grace, who owns both Suzette and Bianca, made the best of the situation.

She introduced Suzette's babies to Bianca. The babies caught right on and they've been holding on steadily ever since.

Suzette doesn't mind sharing her pups with her much bigger friend. Bianca had a problem that the babies are solving for her in the most effective and time-proven way.

So everyone is happy. This includes Mrs. Sewell, Suzette, Bianca, and above all, the five poodle puppies.

It just goes to show you how being a good neighbor can prove beneficial to all concerned.

Runoff Election Might Set Record

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The biggest turnout of city voters in history was predicted for the runoff election today between Mayor Sam Yorty, seeking a third term, and his Negro challenger, Thomas Bradley.

City Clerk Rex Layton estimated that 70 to 75 per cent of the 1,127,224 registered voters in the nation's third largest municipality would cast ballots in the nonpartisan election.

MAVERICK
Both Yorty, 59, and Bradley, 50, are Democrats, but Bradley, a city councilman and former police lieutenant, won the strong backing of Democratic leaders.

Yorty has long been regarded as a maverick by party regulars because of his refusal to support Democratic nominees in past elections. In 1960, Yorty endorsed Richard M. Nixon over John F. Kennedy.

Although Negro voters number only 15 to 20 per cent of the electorate, Bradley led Yorty by 100,000 votes in the primary, which had a field of four.

Polls showed him running well ahead again, but he cautioned his backers against overconfidence.

"You and I know the polls show me in a substantial lead," Bradley said. "But we cannot let down."

A Los Angeles Times poll made public Monday put Bradley ahead 53 per cent to 36 per cent, with 11 per cent undecided.

The Field Poll had Bradley leading 43 per cent to 38 per cent, with 19 per cent undecided.

COMEBACK BID
For Yorty, victory would be another comeback in a career that has seen him rise from defeat many times.

He has been mayor for two four-year terms. But since he started in politics in the mid 1930s, he has lost seven elections, including runs for governor and U.S. senator.

A Bradley triumph would make the former policeman one of America's most powerful Negro political leaders. The only Negro mayors of major cities are Carl Stokes of Cleveland and Richard Hatcher of Gary, Ind.

Democratic party officials rooting for Bradley said it would give the party a much-needed shot in the arm if he won. The party was the loser in the 1966 governorship election and the 1968 presidential race.

Poll hours were 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. PDT.

Decisions On Tax Benefits For Rich

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Ways and Means Committee has finished a preliminary study on ways to tighten the federal tax laws applying to the very wealthy, foundations and corporations.

The progress report, due for release today, comes after five weeks of study by the committee, which is engaged in drafting an over-all reform of the nation's tax code.

FARM LOSSES

The progress report was expected to propose taxation and strict policing of foundations; limits on charitable deductions; a ceiling on the claiming of farm losses; reduction of tax incentives for corporate mergers and restrictions on the device of reducing corporate taxes by use of subsidiaries.

No final decisions have been made on these issues and they will be considered at another round of closed-door deliberations.

But it is the practice not to order legislative drafts until there has been a substantial, even if informal, meeting of minds on the tax-writing committee.

President Nixon proposed some tax crackdowns April 21 in urging extension of the 10 per cent income surtax after June 30. He said administration proposals for a more complete overhaul wouldn't come until later in the year.

The committee had been waiting impatiently for Nixon's tax message so it could get started on reforms.

"There is a momentum for change," declared Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills after Nixon's message. He said the committee gladly accepted Nixon's suggestions, but would push on immediately toward a complete overhaul.

CLOSED DOORS

It was reported the committee tentatively agreed behind closed doors to a preliminary agreement to phase out an unlimited charitable deduction privilege now being used by about 100 millionaires to avoid the income tax.

The committee also has been working on proposals to limit tax advantages obtainable by some plans of financing mergers.

Other proposals reportedly agreed on previously were:

—A 5 per cent tax on the income foundations receive from their investments, but not on gifts made to them.

—A requirement that donations of appreciated property made to private foundations be deducted only to the extent of the cost to the donor. This would not affect donations to public foundations or charities.

—Stiffer reporting requirements for foundations and a special audit office in the Internal Revenue Service to oversee them.

Christian Way

DENTON, Tex. (AP) — Pat McLaughlin, president-elect of the United Students of North Texas, the student government of North Texas State University, has more than students backing him.

He has anonymous financial backing with the provision that he continue living "a Christian way of life." McLaughlin will receive $50 a month during school terms until he graduates.

Ethics Law For Judges

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate advocates of a strict new ethics law are proposing now that judges—along with every other federal official making more than $18,000 yearly—publicly disclose how they make extra money and how much.

Sen. Clifford Case, R-N.J., sponsor of a broad disclosure measure covering Congress and the executive branch of government, proposed today an amendment applying the same rules to the federal judiciary.

The sweeping financial disclosure plan has the support of Senate Majority leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont.

It faces the firm opposition of Sen. Everett Dirksen, the Republican leader, who said he wouldn't agree to any such requirement unless it was imposed on every American citizen.

A lot of people usually don't see the extra "the" at first reading. Which only goes to prove that you can't believe everything you think you see. The same thing with your hearing. You're not always aware of what you hear.

Like Muzak, for example. Here's an unobtrusive, scientifically programmed musical environment that people don't consciously listen to but subconsciously react to in a positive, functional way. That's one reason why Muzak is so successful in motivating people and increasing their efficiency. Not because we say so. But because companies like your own are proving it every day.

PERSONAL ATTENTION Progress Closing One-Teacher School?

LANNIUS, Fannin County, Tex. (AP) — The faded lettering on the sign above the entrance to the one-teacher school read "Lannius No. 17." Beneath those words was the slogan "Courtesy Promotes Progress."

It was an ironic choice of a phrase. Because last Friday was the last day of school ever for the little establishment. Is it progress that is closing the school? Lannius residents wondered.

From a high of more than half a hundred students with four teachers, the school had dwindled down to just nine students this year.

For Miss Alice Peterson of Bonham, her first year as teacher was her last — at Lannius. She said she will join the Bonham school system next fall.

Lannius has been only a one-teacher school the past 17 years. For 13 of those 17 years, Mrs. Lila Tadlock of Bonham was the teacher.

And Sam Rayburn once taught here, too.

"I had as many as 29 students and as few as 16. That was last year, when I retired."

Mrs. Tadlock recalled in an interview.

Her retirement was brief as she went back to teaching for one more year at Windom. "After 13 years at Lannius I had to teach somewhere else to get Lannius out of my mind," she said.

"Students get more personal attention with one teacher," said Mrs. Tadlock. "Their work is checked closer. Actually, it is better for the children in the lower grades because of the attention they get. But it sure is hard on the teacher. For 13 years I felt like I hadn't missed a notch in a revolving door."

"The younger students had to have more recesses and when I worked with the older ones I'd let the younger ones go outside and play. But I had to keep one eye on the children outside and the other on what I was doing inside. It was quite a job," she said.

The first year Mrs. Tadlock went to Lannius, she was visited by House Speaker Rayburn. The veteran ended his teaching career at Lannius.

"He was one of two teachers at the school then," recalled Ben Taylor, who has lived in the area all of his almost 80 years. "Later we had four teachers, then we started losing ground and now we don't have any."

"The churches will go next. We have one vacant church building here now and I guess the other two will follow. The people with children are going where the schools are. Right now," said Taylor, "I can stand in my yard and see the homes of seven of my nine children. Then I have one in Paris and one in Perryton."

There were only three known one-teacher schools in Texas at the start of this school year. With the closing of Lannius, there will be only two. Their status is not known at the time.

There were a few candy wrappers in the school yard and the grass had grown tall since the recent rains. Some of the bricks had worked loose from the old well which had been capped.

The afternoon of the interview was hot with the temperature in the 90s. The teacher had taken the class into Bonham to turn in books, and they were back for final briefing on the closing of school. Miss Peterson had to speak up sharply as a swarm of bees had once again picked the north side of the school building to gather. They were making a loud, angry buzzing.

Miss Peterson had three first graders, three third graders, two in the fifth and one in the sixth, but no second or fourth graders in school this year.

"I enjoyed it," she said defiantly. "It was the most pleasant year I've ever had teaching! I think a one-teacher school is wonderful!"

So did a lot of people in the Lannius community. But then you can't halt progress. That's what the sign said anyway.

Interplanetary Travel Next Goal

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — After the moon, the whole solar system. That, says the director of America's space program, is the long-range goal.

And Dr. Thomas O. Paine, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, believes the conquest of earth's fellow planets will prove to be "reasonably straightforward."

"While the moon has been the focus of our efforts," Paine told a news conference Monday, "the true goal is far more than being the first to land men on the moon, as though it were a celestial Mt. Everest to be climbed."

"The real goal is to develop and demonstrate the capability for interplanetary travel," Paine said. The space program was "providing the most exciting possible answer to the age-old question of whether life as we know it on earth can exist on the moon and the planets," and he declared.

"The answer is yes. Men working together with modern science and technology can extend the domain of terrestrial life throughout the solar system."

Asked when he believes interplanetary travel will be possible, Paine said he believed it would be the first planets explored—Paine replied: "It's too early to really make a prediction."

The next step is Apollo 11, its towering rocket already sits on a pad at Cape Kennedy.

Present scheduling calls for it to blast off July 16, carrying astronauts Neil A. Armstrong, Michael Collins and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr.

As in the Apollo 10 shoot, the spaceship will carry a little lunar landing craft. Armstrong and Aldrin will make the landing while Collins mans the command spaceship, which will remain in moon orbit.

One Senator Votes Against Conflict Of Interest Law

AUSTIN (AP) — Only one senator voted against a conflict of interest law Monday, but another agreed with him that he did not think it would slow down complaints about the legislature.

"Do you think you can pass a law that would keep 33 1-3 per cent of the people from criticizing the legislature?" asked Sen. W.T. Moore of Bryan, who opposed the bill.

"You can't conform to a code of ethics because the press won't let you," said Sen. A.R. Schwartz, Galveston. "You couldn't pass a code of ethics that the press would let us live with if we swore to God every morning."

The bill, by Sen. Charles Wilson of Lufkin, was passed to the House on voice vote after Moore said "The whole thing is humiliating and smells of demagoguery."

Moore, who sought and received a compliment from Wilson for allowing the bill out of Moore's committee, said he "resented" having to comply with some of the provisions.

Mainly, indicated Moore, he objected to disclosure provisions.

"I resent having to go before the secretary of the state and telling him that I haven't done anything wrong during the previous year," said Moore.

Wilson's bill would require any legislator to file with the secretary of state before Jan. 30 a statement including the names, relationships, and salary of any relatives who are employed by the state government, and "the nature of any business transactions" between the legislator and any state agency.

An amendment by Moore to delete the section on relatives failed, 6-25. Moore said a cousin of his had worked with the department of corrections for five years before he knew about it. "I may have 300 or 400 cousins, many of whom I've never seen," Moore said.

Sen. Chet Brooks of Pasadena backed an amendment providing a $1,000 fine and-or one year in jail for anyone falsely accusing a state official of violating the proposed act.

Another amendment exempted legislators who appear before the Industrial Accident Board from registering because the board already has disclosure requirements, and the fee is set by law, Wilson said.

Wilson's bill sets standards of conduct for any officer or employee of a state agency, legislator or legislative employee. Among other things, it specifies that they shall not accept any "gift, favor or service that might reasonably tend to influence him in the discharge of his official duties."

It requires them to disclose any "substantial interest" in any business which is under the jurisdiction of a state regulatory agency and prohibits a legislator from voting on any measure in which he has "a personal or private interest."

It also prohibits any officer or employee of a state agency from investing in a business which would create a "substantial conflict between his interest and the public interest." The bill specifies that a substantial conflict of interest exists when the investment is in a business "over which the state agency exercises substantial regulation" and "is in excess of the value of $25,000," unless the investment is in a corporation in which the person owns less than 10 per cent of the voting interest.

A legislator appearing before a state agency on behalf of a client for pay would have to file with the state agency his name, the name of his client and the fact that he is being paid.

The bidding:

4♥ Pass 4♥ Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♠

In an attempt to put something over on an unsuspecting opponent, South—the declarer at six hearts—overlooked a legitimate opportunity to improve his own prospects.

When North made a positive response to South's demand opening bid by raising to three hearts, the latter was determined to reach a slam. The four club bid was an attempt to probe for even bigger things. Had North taken advantage of the convenient opportunity presented to show the ace of diamonds—by bidding four diamonds over four clubs—South might have gone all the way. When his partner signed off at four hearts, South settled for the more modest prospect of a small slam.

West opened the queen of spades and declarer played dummy's ace, sluffing a diamond from his hand. A small diamond was led at trick two in an attempt to sneak the king thru. West, however, turned up with the ace of diamonds, and he returned another spade which South ruffed.

Declarer cashed one high heart, followed by the ace, king of clubs and a third round which he trumped with the ten of hearts. East overruffed with the jack for the setting trick.

Had South drawn both trumps, there would have been only one heart left in dummy for ruffing purposes and tho he can sluff one club on the queen of diamonds, he is obliged to surrender a club trick to West at the end.

Declarer had the right idea in attempting to sneak a diamond trick thru, but his timing was faulty. He should have made an effort to conserve his high card strength by inducing the opposition to play the ace of diamonds on a small card instead of an honor.

It is suggested that South ruff the opening spade lead and then play a small diamond from his hand. If West ducks, North's queen will hold the trick, and declarer's king is discarded on the ace of spades thus averting the diamond loser altogether.

If West puts up the ace of diamonds at trick two, declarer obtains an additional sluff in the diamond suit. After drawing the adverse trump with two pulls, South cashes the king of diamonds followed by his top clubs. One club is ruffed in dummy and the other two are discarded on the ace of spades and queen of diamonds respectively.

Without it, none comes close. The Volkswagen Squareback Sedan has 31.2 cu. ft. of carrying space. (48.9 with its rear seat down.)

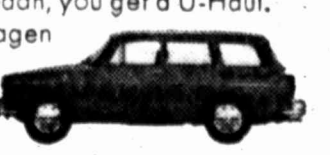

The next biggest sedan has only 22.1 cu. ft. (And a good part of that is taken up by the spare.)

Of course, we admit the difference doesn't matter if you're carrying only a suitcase or two.

But let's say you're out and you find a good deal on an antique chest that's about 5' long. Or a stereo console that's cash and carry.

House Might Vote On Money Measure

AUSTIN (AP) — The House was expected to vote today on a $6 million bill to help pay for a one-year state budget after Speaker Gus Mutscher by refusing to consider it Monday.

who in separate autos answered a minor collision call in front of Hubbard Hall, a TWU dormitory. An auto had rammed into a parked vehicle, the police chief said.

The chief said the driver of the auto was a Negro man who was armed with a handgun. The police chief said the driver was a Negro man who was armed with a handgun.

Chief Autrey said Wiley's gun struck the rookie officer's arm as he attempted to hit the Negro man who had knocked officer Brown to the ground. The gun discharged once, the police chief said, with the bullet penetrating Miss Hopkins' chest and lodging in the groin of Ralph Stelow, 18, a North Texas State University student from Dallas.

FELL TO GROUND
After officers took the young airman and his woman companion to jail, the crowd that had gathered after the accident and shooting lingered in front of the dormitory.

Suddenly two shotgun blasts boomed out from a passing red-and-white pickup truck. Students struck by the pellets screamed and fell to the ground. Girls made a dash for the dormitory for shelter. At least one person gave a license number from the vehicle to police. "A pickup order has been issued for the truck's owner," Chief Autrey said a few hours after the incident.

Separate groups of Negro and white students congregated on the campuses of both NTSU and TWU after the incidents, but gradually had dispersed shortly before midnight.

Asked if he expected further trouble, Autrey said he would not predict it. He said the Texas Department of Public Safety "was monitoring the situation from Austin." He called in all off-duty policemen.

ALL FEMALE
Texas Woman's University has about 5,000 students, all female. Coeducational North Texas State University's enrollment normally is around 15,000, but a college official said Monday night that 60 per cent of the students "have completed their spring examinations and gone home."

STAGE MARCH
Both campuses are on the town's northside but about three miles apart, TWU on the east and NTSU on the west. Both have been racially integrated for years.

Neither school has experienced racial strife. NTSU students recently staged a march in protest of what leaders termed "Denton police brutality" after a youth suffered an eye injury he said was inflicted by a policeman.

A march and demonstration at NTSU that followed the assassination of Dr. Martin Luther King was peaceful.

after Sen. Oscar Maury of Dallas postponed until Wednesday further debate on his resolution to repeal the legislature's 1965 petition asking for the convention.

Mutscher abruptly adjourned the House Monday after the House fell seven votes shy of the four-fifths needed to take up the Senate-passed bill imposing a $10 building use fee on state college students, which would raise an estimated $6 million.

Already passed and sent to Gov. Preston Smith, where they face uncertain fate, are bills that would beef up the general revenue fund by about $18 million.

Hinson moved right after the House's lunch break Monday to suspend the constitutional rule that bills must be read on three separate days and take up the building use fee bill. The measure had just been received from the Senate, read the first time and quickly approved by committee. The vote on his motion was 109-33—with seven shy of four-fifths in favor.

Rep. W.S. Healy, Paducah, Appropriations Committee chairman, quickly moved to adjourn. The "ayes" and "nos" sounded equally loud, but Mutscher banged his gavel and declared the House adjourned.

"I don't think the House was in a mood to work this afternoon," Mutscher told reporters. Under further questioning, he said, "Anybody who voted against us today is against the overall plan" for a one-year college students' pay raise.

Sources close to the House leadership said Monday's failure to take up the bill would push the expected date for the budget to be laid on member's desks back to Wednesday or Thursday, instead of Tuesday as had been expected.

After Mutscher shut down the House, without ever acting on a 21-bill calendar, plus between 10 and 20 requests to suspend rules to take up bills, concur in Senate amendments or send measures to conference committee, numerous representatives were critical.

Rep. Curtis Graves, Houston, said, "To adjourn the House in a temper tantrum was in poor taste and a further cause of bills to be set back and not passed in this legislative session."

"Really, I think he was caught off guard and hadn't given any consideration to where we go from here," another representative said.

"He figured if he couldn't have his suspension, by God, nobody else was going to get their suspension," a third declared.

In Monday's floor action the Senate passed and sent to the House a bill requiring legislators to report to the secretary of state all their relatives in state jobs and any business dealings with the state government. It is given almost no chance of House passage.

Action was completed on several other bills, sending them to the governor. Among them are measures that would:

—Place music and amusement machine companies under state regulation and prohibit them from owning financial interests in taverns.

—Enable the Texas Aeronautics Commission to approve or disapprove intrastate airline schedules and rates.

—Provide penalties for employers who give "hot" paychecks.

—Set up a separate board of regents for Stephen F. Austin State University.

Senators also approved and sent to the House a proposed constitutional change that would exempt persons 65 and older from local property taxes on $3,000 of the assessed value of their homes.

HCJC Named Test Center

Howard County Junior College has been designated as a test center for administering the National Teacher Examinations July 19. Wayne Bonner, counselor, announced today.

College seniors preparing to teach, and teachers applying for positions in school systems which encourage or require applicants to submit their scores on the National Teacher Examinations along with their other credentials, are eligible to take the tests. Last year more than 98,000 candidates took the examinations, which are prepared and administered by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J.

The designation of HCJC as a test center for these examinations will give prospective teachers in this area an opportunity to compare their performance on the examinations with candidates throughout the country who take the tests, Bonner said.

At the one-day session a candidate must take the Common Examinations, which include tests in Professional Education and General Education, and one of the 15 Teaching Area Examinations which are designed to evaluate his understanding of the subject matter and methods applicable to teaching.

Bulletins of information describing registration procedures and containing registration forms may be obtained from Bonner at HCJC or directly from the National Teacher Examinations, Educational Testing Service, Box 911, Princeton, N.J. 08540. Prospective teachers planning to take the test should obtain their bulletins promptly, Bonner advised.

Lucrative Bouts Are Awaiting Dick Tiger

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Tiger, New York Athletic Commission, saw Tiger, who is up to victory over middleweight champion Nino Benvenuti, a complete break of the dominant Benvenuti, who had turned slightly sour when it second metacarpal bone (behind used his injured right only suffered a broken right hand, but hand.

"I broke the hand in the first round when I hit him high on the head. The pain was terrible," said Benvenuti after dropping Don Fullmer in a title fight. "I was a one-handed fighter."

"I was a one-handed fighter," said Benvenuti, who defended his title by knocking out Luis Rodriguez, a one-time welterweight champion, in a fight at Madison Square Garden Monday night.

With Tommy Hart

Sports dialogue: HAAKEN OBERG, Swedish hurdler, after transferring from the University of Houston to Mayaguez A&M in Puerto Rico: "I'm having trouble learning Spanish but I never learned Texan, either."

FRANK HOWARD, slugging giant for the Washington Senators: "Youngsters should be themselves when hitting a baseball. They should not try to copy others. They should try to hit naturally. To be a good hitter a youngster must take a lot of batting practice and always with the ball. Another important thing is that he should get a bat he can handle. It is better to have a bat five ounces lighter than one ounce too heavy. A comfortable stance at the plate is another must. Try to see how often you can hit the ball on the fat part of the bat. Don't be afraid of a pitched ball. You must have confidence you can hit it."

DON GUTTERIDGE, new manager of the Chicago White Sox, who was with the St. Louis Browns club of 1944, which won the team's only American League pennant.

"We didn't have a year, maybe just the third best in the American League. But Junior Stephens, our shortstop, had a great year. So did Mark Christman at third and Chet Laabs in the outfield. Really, though, we rode with destiny. We were knocked out of first place seven times in the last month and still won. How many clubs could stand such pressure? But we wanted mightily to win. Ambition stuck out all over. We didn't worry, either. The final game at home on a Sunday we took in stride. Whenever manager Luke Sewell went out to coach at third, infielder Ellis Clark turned on a little bench radio and we listened to a Bear football game. We just figured we'd gone this far and we'd ride it out."

GEORGE ALLEN, coach of the Los Angeles Rams: "If all players approached the game with the dedication and zeal of Roman Gabriel, coaching football would be a picnic. I predict he'll have his finest season in 1969."

HANK AARON, star outfielder of the Atlanta Braves, on why he got off to such a fine start this spring: "I just had to prove something. I hit .280 last year. I want to prove I can come back and have a good year. Right now, I feel as strong as I ever did. The lower pitching mounds have made a difference. The strong, young pitchers like Tom Seaver and Gary Gentry are good, but the lower mound helps us. Of course, fellows like him will adjust eventually. There is more balance in the game now than there has been in a long time. The game needs it. Kids like Seaver have been tutored in pitching from the time they were on the sandlots and right up through the minors and into the majors. But nobody has helped the hitters until now. A kid can go through his whole major league career as a hitter and never get any help, just keep doing the same bad habits over and over. The lower mound just means that the pitchers can't kick off the rubber as much. They can't fall off the mound and get more speed like they used to. I'm more patient than I ever was before. I wait for my pitch now and I think I understand more what the other club tries to do with me when I'm at the plate."

JOE PATERNO, football coach at Penn State, after donating a $500 set of golf clubs he got in the Orange Bowl to a scholarship raffle on his campus: "I have no use for them. My handicap is my swing."

ABC To Air Night Tilts On Mondays

NEW YORK (AP) — For a "realistic price" the world of professional football entered prime time television with the announcement that the American Broadcasting Co. had agreed to view 13 regular season games for three years beginning in 1970.

The joint announcement was made Monday night by pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle and ABC sports director, president of ABC sports at the commission's plush Park Avenue office.

The weekly series, set for Monday nights, will begin on the first Monday of the regular season in 1970. The broadcasts, in color, will be the first contract with a pro sports league for a regular series during prime television time. The telecasts will originate at 7:30 or 8 p.m. CDT.

Although the amount of money for the package was not discussed, Rozelle did say that "the price was realistic. It was priced accordingly."

"Pro football is a great attraction and this association with pro football is in keeping with ABC's pioneering efforts in television sports coverage."

It was speculated that Rozelle would announce the complete television-money package after he meets with NBC and CBS officials to negotiate the remaining Sunday package. Current contracts with the two networks expire after the 1969 season.

CBS now covers the National Football League and NBC telecasts the American League games.

Further speculation is that each NFL club now receives $1.2 million and each AFL team gets between $800,000-900,000 per year under the present pact with the two networks.

"We're hopeful that in 1970 all 26 clubs will get more than $1.2 million apiece," Rozelle said.

WANTS TITLE SHOT

"Right now we've got offers for Benvenuti of $100,000 in Puerto Rico, $150,000 in Miami Beach, and $200,000 in San Diego which is celebrating its 20th year. My guy will take a lot less, we want the title shot."

"I'm sick over it," said Mushky Salow, manager of light heavyweight champion Bob Foster, before the word got out of Nino's broken hand. He had hoped for a lucrative match between the two champions.

A year and two days before Foster won the light heavyweight crown by knocking out Tiger in the fourth round.

Would Foster fight Tiger again? "Sure, we'll be very happy to do that if the money is right," said Salow.

"He wants a $100,000," said Tiger. "I haven't got that kind of money."

The stocky, stolid Tiger, a 125-underdog, weighed 166 to Benvenuti's 164.

The officials had Tiger the winner by the following round scores: referee Tony Perez, 7-2; judge Joe Armstrong, 6-4; and judge Al Bert, 6-3. The Associated Press had Tiger in front, 7-3.

A crowd of 14,305 paid $147,431 for the television fight. Benvenuti earned $50,000 and Tiger $35,000. They may get more with television reruns. And there's the possibility of a very lucrative return match.

Braves Register Sixth Triumph

The Braves won their sixth game in ten National Little League starts by turning back the Devils, 23-12, Monday night. The Devils hit the ball well but couldn't overcome the effects of a ten-run outburst in the second on the part of the Braves.

Kent Newsom, Mark Taylor and Mike Dennis each had three hits for the Braves.

Frank Wilson and Darrel Nichols each had two blows for the Braves.

Tepee Dweller Is Accident-Prone

By The Associated Press

St. Louis got shut out by Phil Niekro and Washington got blasted by Rod Carew. But baseball's biggest loser Monday night was Atlanta's Indian mascot, Chief Nok-A-Homa.

Niekro, the Braves' knuckle-puller, blanked the Cards 3-0 and Carew's two home runs led Minnesota to a 7-1 romp over the Senators. Atlanta's Indian mascot, Chief Nok-A-Homa, had a rougher time than both losers.

He got burned out of his tepee. Nok-A-Homa, the Injun who camps behind the left field fence in Atlanta Stadium, sets off smoke bombs and goes into a war dance to celebrate every Braves home run. On Monday, though, one of his smoke bombs backfired.

When Clete Boyer tagged a two-run shot in the sixth inning, the Chief, an Ottawa-Chippewa Indian from Charlevoix, Mich., whose real name is Levi Walker, went into his act.

Then, something unscheduled happened. Flames enveloped his canvas tepee, shooting up about two feet over the top of the flimsy structure.

"It was sabotage," said Walker, who gets $10 per game for his home celebrations. "Somebody got in my smoke bombs and fooled with them."

Undaunted by the sudden emergency, the resourceful Indian grabbed a trusty broomstick he keeps "in the tepee for housekeeping" and beat out the flames. But it was too late to save his home. The canvas will have to be replaced.

At the same time, the Cardinals' leading hitter, boosted his average to .394 with his fourth and fifth homers of the year, each with a man on base.

The second one came in a five-run fourth inning that opened a 7-0 bulge for the Twins. Carew also had connected in the third inning.

Carew also made a sparkling play in the field in the second inning. There were runners on first and third with one out when the Minnesota second baseman lunged to stop Paul Casanova's grounder and started an inning-ending double play while on the ground.

Frank Howard broke a nine-game homer famine with his 15th of the season, accounting for Washington's only run off winner Jim Perry, 4-1.

All other major league teams and mascots had the night off.

WIN IN SEVENTH Lee Goes One-Up In Ysleta Set

EL PASO — Midland Lee put a strangle hold on Ysleta High in their regional baseball series by defeating the Indians, 4-1, here Monday.

Consecutive doubles by Mike Cross, Doug Christensen and Steve Morris with two out in the seventh, following a single by Mike Crockett, enabled the Rebels to score three runs and break a 1-1 tie.

Randy Prince, on the mound for Lee, achieved his 12th win compared to three defeats. He yielded five hits to Ysleta, while fanning 15 and walking only one.

The loser was Jim Gregerson, who was tagged for eight safeties.

Crockett and Christensen each had two hits for the Bulldogs.

Both teams remained scoreless until the sixth, when Midland scored an unearned run, only to have Mike Beltran fight back with a tally for Ysleta.

The second game of the series will be unveiled in Midland, starting at 4:15 p.m. Friday. If a third game is needed, it will be in Midland Saturday.

Winner of the series qualifies for the State tournament in Austin next month.

Colts Decision Hawks, 8 To 3

The Colts made it four wins in nine National Minor League starts Monday by thrashing the Hawks, 8-3. The loss was only the second for the Hawks in nine assignments.

The score was knotted at 3-3 until the fifth, when the Colts unloaded for five runs on five hits. Winner Randall Jones fanned seven and yielded only four hits.

Roger Horton collected a brace of doubles for the winners. Billy Bob Yonkers, Jim Puckett, Ricky Moore, Gary Butler and Mark Garrett also glistened at bat for the winners.

Phil Barber, shortstop for the Devils of the National Little League, is confined to the Medical Arts Hospital here with a broken leg sustained in a game against the Wildcats here Saturday night.

Young Barber was attempting to put the tag on a runner advancing from first base when the mishap occurred.

Thelbert Camp and Roy New divided time on the mound for Reed's, limiting the Baroid team to three hits between them.

Gerold Cox slashed three hits, including a double for the winners. Ronnie Dods powered home two runs in the first inning with a single and followed with a triple in the second.

Morton's Wins Close One From Snyder Team, 3-2

Morton's erupted for all its runs in the fifth inning in defeating Snyder, 3-2, in City Softball league play here Monday night.

The narrow win enabled the Morton team to remain undefeated in league competition.

In other action, Bill Reed Insurance barreled by the Baroid Chemical team, 9-0.

Billy Roger drove in what proved to be the winning run when he powered home Jimmy Roger and Jack Blizard with a single. Jimmy Roger had, a moment before, tripled in Pete Cook, who had opened the fifth with a single.

Snyder scored its first run in the second when Roy New crossed the plate and counted Larry Wiggins made it home.

Cotton Mize, on the mound for Morton's, rationed out six hits to the Snyder team and fanned 11.

Reed's scored all its runs in the opening frame against Baroid, plating six in the first and three in the second.

CONSPIRACY, FRAUD Former SBA Assistant Arraigned On Charges

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Albert J. Fuentès Jr., former Small Business Administration assistant, and Edward J. Montez were charged with conspiracy to commit a violation against the U. S. and with the commission of a conspiracy and fraud in connection with an SBA loan application.

The grand jury returned indictments against Fuentès and Montez Monday morning. They were charged with conspiracy to commit a violation against the U. S. and with the commission of a conspiracy and fraud in connection with an SBA loan application.

They were indicted earlier in the day on the charges which in effect accused the two of trying to obtain a part of a company in return for issuing an SBA loan.

U. S. Commissioner John Giles released the men under $2,500 bond each. No plea was entered by either man.

Following the arraignment, they were fingerprinted and photographed in the U. S. marshal's office, and released.

directly and indirectly, corruptly ask, demand exact, solicit, seek and agree to receive something of value, to wit, 49 per cent of the business of Emanuel Salaz.

A conviction on the conspiracy charge carries a fine of not more than $20,000, or three times the "monetary equivalent of the thing of value, whichever is greater," or imprisonment of not more than 15 years, or both.

The grand jury reported its findings to Federal Dist. Judge Adrian Spears.

The charges resulted from testimony heard by the grand jury from 10 witnesses Friday and Saturday. Among those testifying before the 20-member jury was Montez, who had been a member of the jury panel which indicted him. Montez, however, was disqualified when he was subpoenaed Wednesday to testify in the case.

The pair is accused of seeking to gain 49 per cent of a San Antonio businessman's firm in exchange for obtaining a $100,000 SBA loan. Fuentès was an SBA assistant when the alleged act occurred.

Count one alleged the two men "combined, conspired, confederated and agreed to commit an offense against the U. S."

The other count stated that Montez and Fuentès, the latter acting in behalf of the SBA, did

Beatle, Wife Plan 'Lie-In'

MONTREAL (AP) — Beatle John Lennon, recently convicted of possessing marijuana, says he's through with the stuff because it "interferes with my mind."

"I don't regret anything I've done," he told newsmen. "It's just that I get my best high now on brown rice." Rice with the hulls on is brown.

Lennon and his wife, Yoko, were granted a 10-day stay in Canada by immigration officials Monday and a hearing was begun in Toronto to weigh their request for a longer stay. The marijuana conviction was the issue.

Mr. and Mrs. Lennon plan a one week "lie-in" demonstration for peace while awaiting the verdict. They have invited Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau to join them during the seven days in bed.

Survey Shows Dip In Teen Smoking

WASHINGTON (AP) — A survey of teenagers exposed to anti-smoking messages—including the blunt "smoke, choke, croak"—shows a sharp decline of youngsters taking up cigarettes in the last 10 years.

The drop means the total number of smokers in the United States remains about 49 million despite increases in the population, according to Roy L. Davis, a spokesman for the survey group.

Among 17-year-olds questioned during 1967-68, 25.6 per cent of the boys said they smoked cigarettes and 15.7 per cent of the girls said they were smokers.

A 1957 survey of the same age group reported 34.7 per cent of the boys and 25.5 per cent of the girls said they smoked.

The new survey by the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health was prepared for the U.S. Public Health Service.

Ninety-one per cent of those queried answered yes when asked: "Would you say smoking is harmful to health?"

The survey offered no reasons for the drop in youth smoking but, in an interview, Davis cited education programs about health factors in cigarettes.

"Kids probably have the greatest impact on kids," said Davis, citing for example the program at a Bakersfield, Calif., high school where students campaigned against cigarette smoking with the help of billboards, radio, television and newspapers.

Davis said youngsters there distributed the "smoke, choke, croak" bumper stickers. He said he saw one on a car in San Francisco, about 250 miles north of Bakersfield.

"There probably are hundreds and hundreds of school districts and groups of kids doing things like this," Davis said. "You should hear the kids in these projects—they're death on smoking."

Davis said education programs on the dangers of smoking must also be directed toward parents.

One study found the smoking rate highest among students in households where father and mother smoke, he said. However, if neither parent is a current smoker, the rate of student smoking is almost as low as when neither parent has ever been a smoker, the survey found.

Davis said the survey also showed young people who have slipped behind their age-mates in school and those who do not expect to go to college are more likely to smoke.

They Discover People Change

PRESTON, England (AP) — Farmer John Barnes and his family spent 3,500 pounds ($5,400) last year to get back from Australia where they had emigrated in 1967.

Now they are planning to spend another 2,000 pounds—$4,800—to move back again.

"People in Britain have changed," said Barnes today. "Taxes and overheads are crippling everybody. We all want to go back."

He, his wife and their six children had emigrated to Brunswick, in Western Australia. But the family got so homesick they paid off the money they owed the Australian government for their assisted passages out and bought tickets for England.

The family settled on a farm in northern England, then got homesick for Australia. Barnes hopes the Australians will lend them money for their passages for the second time.

Under different Senate rules, Rep. John Tower, R-Texas, reported receiving $9,025 in contributions from July 1 through Dec. 31. Tower made three speeches and received honorariums totaling $3,200. Yarborough spoke to seven groups for $5,643.

The Senate required only three items: Contributions, how they were spent and honorariums. Under different reporting requirements for the House four Texans reported holding interest in banks.

Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Beaumont, is chairman of the Neches National Bank in Silsbee. He holds stock in the Main Bank of Houston, Security Title and Trust Co. of San Antonio, and the First of Groves, Corp. in Groves. He also lists receiving $1,000 from Joe Tonahill of Jasper for work done on referral and says he received income exceeding $5,000 from Long Insurance Co. in Silsbee.

Rep. Omar Burleson, D-Austin, holds stock in the Citizens National Bank of Breckenridge. Rep. Bob Casey, D-Houston, holds 99 shares in the Spring Branch State Bank in Houston and 200 shares in the Bayshore National Bank at La Porte.

Rep. J. J. Pickle, D-Austin, reported holding common stock in the Austin National Bank. He also attached a letter telling of two real estate ventures. One had been criticized last fall during his reelection campaign.

Pickle said he and Sherman Birdwell of Austin own and rent three pieces of real estate in Austin and San Antonio, from which he said each had a net income of $752 during 1968.

He, Birdwell and Robert Mueller Jr., also of Austin, own 958.47 acres northwest of Austin, most of which was acquired after Austin condemned other properties. Pickle said he held for investment.

AWARD APPEALED

Pickle got title from the Connally brothers, John Merrill and Wayne, at a price of $123 per acre for 391.88 acres in the original 1959 investment. Pickle said he acquired an adjoining 211.81 acres for $15,000 in 1961.

He sold parts of his property and by April, 1966, had 569.47 acres which the city condemned at an award of $350 per acre. The award is being appealed.

The Texans who claimed no substantial outside income were: Reps. Wright Patman, D-Texas; Graham Purcell, D-Wichita Falls; Eligio de la Garza, D-Mission; John Young, D-Corpus Christi; Richard White, D-El Paso; Bob Price, Rep. George Mahon, D-Still, due is $20,000 in principal. Lubbock; Henry Gonzalez, D-San Antonio, and Abraham Kazen, D-Laredo.

Rep. John Dowdy, D-Athens, said he sold a farm in 1968 but the capital gain is spread over 10 years and the first year again was only a fraction of $5,000.

Rep. Earle Cabell, D-Dallas, said he holds stock in Southland Corp. and Southland Life Insurance Co., both of Dallas, and the Eastman Kodak Co.

Creative Destruction, Indeed

Police charged 18 individuals, including three priests, who allegedly broke into a draft board headquarters in Chicago, rifled the records, smeared them with tar and similar substances, then attempted to make a bonfire of the lot.

This incident was supposed to be a means of "creative destruction by white citizens who confront the twin evils of American militarism and racism."

What kind of jibberish is this? Creative destruction indeed! This makes about as much sense as setting a friendly fire or committing a helpful murder. It is to be hoped that this excursion into anarchy by the moralistically elite will be rewarded by ample time for confined meditation.

Control But Not Reformation

Chief Justice Earl Warren is busy seeking to draft a code of sorts for federal judges, all the way from the district court level to the United States Supreme Court.

The stimulus for this is the recent Fortas affair in which Justice Abe Fortas resigned because he had held, for nearly a year before returning to the bench, a most liberal fee from a foundation, whose founder later had been convicted of tax evasion. This precipitated the resignation of another justice (Douglas) from the presidency of a foundation. It even brought to light that the new Chief Justice, Warren Burger, is on the board of a foundation.

What Mr. Justice Warren is aiming at is a full financial disclosure of the judiciary, although most of this would not be considered privileged matter. It has been suggested that this code be extended to all three branches of government.

If Justice Warren can bring this about for the judiciary, perhaps it can be extended, with the cooperation of Congress, to cover the executive branch. And then, hopefully, perhaps public opinion will oblige Congress to take the same medicine it has helped to compound for others. A disclosure code for all three would be encouraging.

But it would not get at the most distressing aspect in all of this, namely, the insensitiveness of ethical conscience to accepting easy money because of position.

Marquis Childs Arms Talks Prospects Slipping

WASHINGTON — Not long before he left on his Asian trip, Secretary of State William P. Rogers met with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin, Rogers wanted to reaffirm to Dobrynin what he had said publicly — that the United States would be prepared to enter into arms negotiations with the Soviet Union in the late spring or early summer.

Reporting the discussion to colleagues, Rogers stressed Dobrynin's concern over delay in the long-heralded talks. He quoted the Soviet Ambassador as saying with the wry humor that is one of his characteristics: "You are sure you don't mean Indian summer."

IT NOW APPEARS there will be a delay in the start of the effort to checkmate another sharp upward spiral in the nuclear arms race. What in bureaucratic terms is called "slippage" has taken place. From White House sources comes word it may be August before the American side bears out this pessimistic estimate.

As the days slip by the fear grows that a last chance to head off another and perhaps the ultimate round in the race will be lost. Two reasons underscore this fear. One is evidence of a hardening attitude in Moscow. The military appear to have increasing weight in the Kremlin.

THE SECOND fear is of an accident that suddenly in flaring headlines puts an end to all hopes of talks. The U-2 spy plane shot down in 1960 wrote finish to the attempt of President Eisenhower to abate the cold war and arrive at competitive coexistence with the Soviets. The Russian invasion of Czechoslovakia last August cut across the carefully laid plans of President Johnson to begin arms talks. An accident would all too obviously suit those who in private oppose arms limitation.

IF ANY SINGLE factor has dampened the prospect for arms talks it is the decision of the Nixon Administration to start deployment of antiballistic missiles to safeguard intercontinental missiles. This is not so much because it will mean any significant change in the strategic balance between the two nuclear giant, but because of the loud propaganda coming from Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird and other Defense officials to convince Congress the Soviets are preparing a first-strike capability to cripple the United States.

NO WALLS of silence, such as can be imposed by an authoritarian system, surround the United States to keep the angry ABM debate within the American family. All of the speeches and statements by Laird, Dr. John S. Foster Jr., Director of Defense Research and Engineering, and others carrying the torch for ABM are avidly read in the Kremlin. It is hardly necessary to add that they serve the cause of the hardliners who, it is a safe conjecture, argue that it is useless to try to come to any agreement with the war-mongering imperialists in Washington.

THE DIRECTOR of the Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, Gerard C. Smith, will be the principal negotiator in the first round when — and at this point caution dictates an if — it begins. Smith is determined that the talks will succeed. While they may not bring a reduction in nuclear arms, at a minimum they should checkmate a new spiral.

NO ONE QUESTIONS Smith's dedication and sincerity. But he faces many handicaps within the Administration. A month ago the word was put out that he would have a strong, capable deputy. An approach was made to William H. Sullivan, former Ambassador to Laos and one of the ablest foreign service officers. Subsequently, Sullivan was named Deputy Secretary for the Far East, with emphasis on the Vietnam task force, which may say something about priorities. No deputy has been named.

Why are the forces in the inner council cold, hot and lukewarm on the arms talks? What is the reason for the slippage?

Lung Disease Link Seen

MELBOURNE (AP) — Study by Melbourne University and Melbourne's St. Vincent's Hospital suggest a link between alcoholism, smoking and lung disease.

A study team found that chronic obstructive lung disease was a characteristic illness of the alcoholic, particularly those who smoke.

The report, published in the latest issue of the Medical Journal of Australia, also found that alcoholics were twice as likely to be smokers as nonalcoholics.

"The results have shown that chronic obstructive lung disease is the characteristic pulmonary illness of the alcoholic," the Journal report said. "As with the nonalcoholic, it is related to smoking habits and social class."

"The higher frequency of chronic bronchitis in alcoholics than in non-alcoholics can be explained by alcoholics being twice as likely to be smokers as the nonalcoholics. Unfortunately, despite their high risk of chronic bronchitis, alcoholics appear less able than nonalcoholics to stop smoking."

For this reason, the report said, there seemed little chance of reducing disease among these people.

John Cuniff What Is A Prudent Man?

By PHILIP WECHSLER
(Subbing for John Cuniff)

NEW YORK (AP) — Investment managers of the nation's pension funds are confronted with a continuing question: What is a prudent man?

It is no idle speculation, but a pragmatic question on how to invest these huge pension funds, estimated in excess of $100 billion, for the maximum return with the minimum risk.

The prudent man theory, or how would a reasonable man act, is the guiding rule for pension investments—since these funds represent economic security for millions of Americans in their older age.

TEN YEARS ago when inflation was not the problem it is today most pension funds were invested in conservative fixed income securities, usually government obligations.

"That was prudent a decade ago," says a New York banker. "But is it prudent today? Obviously not, with this inflationary trend."

Inflation, increased benefits and widespread demand for performance have forced pension plans to seek a greater return on their investments, thus the swing to common stocks and convertible bonds. Today pension plans are the largest group of stockholders with combined holdings of $50 billion.

GOVERNMENT figures show that pension plans are buying more, trading more and apparently enjoying it more, as their assets have increased by 20 per cent during the last three years.

With all this activity are pension plans taking unnecessary risks?

"Not at all," says Paul Howell, a national pension consultant. "Pensions are uniquely suited for common stock investment because they are true long-term holders of equities. They can ride out the storms and stresses of the market and they receive preferred tax treatment."

"You have to take prudent risks to do right by your people," says Frank Cummings, a top aide to Sen. Jacob K. Javits.

R.N.Y., who recently introduced a bill to regulate pensions, mainly as they relate to meeting payments to individual workers.

"WE DON'T SEE any need for investment regulation, yet," Cummings added.

Recently eyebrows were raised in financial circles when pension funds were channeled into volatile, glamor companies that operate gambling casinos.

"I wouldn't touch them, they're not my cup of tea," says the investment manager of a $100-million, growth oriented pension plan. "But a slot machine is a great source of income—if you own it," he added.

SOME PENSION plans are taking what they consider prudent risks by investing in growth oriented issues rather than the blue chips. Bankers Trust of New York set up a special fund for pensions seeking price appreciation.

"What is a risk. It's all a matter of degree. Fifteen years ago Xerox was considered a risk and look at it today," says a Bankers spokesman.

To Your Good Health Spots That Float In The Eyes

By G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.
Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please write about dark spots which float around in the eye. What causes them? What can be done to prevent them? Do they do permanent damage to the eyes?—H.L.

These spots, variously called floaters, or vitreous floaters, or positive scotomata, usually appear when a person is past 40.

They are due primarily to chemical changes in the fluid in the eyeball. There may be one or several, and are seen most prominently when a person is looking toward the light.

Very occasionally, they may indicate the beginning of an eye disease, so it is wise to have an eye examination. If — as is usually the case — the reply is, "They're just floaters." Then forget them. Or try to. They can be an annoyance, if you let them. Actually, they do not really interfere with vision unless you are looking closely at something very tiny, as under a magnifying glass or microscope.

Even in such cases, looking at a slightly different angle will take care of the matter. Or, since these floaters may move about to some extent, they can take care of the matter. They don't obstruct enough to interfere with reading, for example.

Sometimes the spots disappear; more often they don't, and you just have to get used to them. There is no way to prevent or remove them, but they are much more comfortable to live with once you know that they will not damage the eyes in any way.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I was in a car wreck and had X-rays of my spine. Unknown then, I was a spine pregnant. I delivered a perfectly healthy boy on schedule, but am becoming increasingly concerned about what effect all the X-rays will have on his future health, as I have read several articles warning against X-rays during pregnancy.—C.M.

While X-rays should not be taken during pregnancy except for urgent reason, I would judge that your reason was urgent enough.

Since the baby is healthy, you should stop worrying. The main danger of X-rays very early in pregnancy is the risk that the fetus, in its formative stages, may be deformed. But your baby wasn't. Instead of worrying, just be thankful.

Mononucleosis is primarily a disease of young people. To learn more about it, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Herald for a copy of the booklet, "Mononucleosis," enclosing with your request a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Around The Rim

Oh, Those Mosquitoes

If you have been enjoying the cool of the evening in the pleasant shadows of your back yard or front yard and telling yourself this is the finest spring you have ever seen in these parts — it's all over, pal!

The mosquitoes have moved in en masse, and insofar as I can determine, the city's little pettingfogg mosquito fogger has had little effect.

OH, YES, I know. I read, just as you did that the machine was to have gone into service two weeks ago. It said so, on high authority from City Hall, right on the front page of the paper.

I will only say that if the machine has been in action, I have not seen it in my neighborhood.

But if it has been working, then the chemical being used needs to be changed. I think it is acting, if the machine is being used, like some sort of dreadful and malignant supervitamin. I think 1) the mosquitoes this year are bigger and 2) armed with more vicious bills and 3) are more numerous than I ever have seen them this early in the season.

IF IT ISN'T treason, may I point out that we're a pretty good sized town now and that we need some of the same comforts and safeguards other towns of our size seem to have. And I believe that investing a few of the city's tax dollars in a larger and more efficient fogging machine to curb mosquitoes would certainly be in order.

There was one spring when the little fogging machine made trips along the alleys in my neighborhood. It smoked up the weeds, trees and other growth and I believe it did the most effective job in our history of spraying.

IN MORE RECENT years, the device is towed only along the streets and if the wind is blowing right and if the machine is working (I once saw it being hauled along, the pump popping like a machine gun and not a trace of smoke coming out of it) you may get some of the fog on the mosquitoes in your yard.

Generally, though, the effect is to agitate the mosquitoes in the yards along the street toward which the wind may be blowing and send them pell mell into the yards of other folk who were not windwardly so favorably located.

WHEN I FIRST moved here and found Bermuda grass with no chiggers and a delicious coolness that came with the fall of night, I revelled in the out of doors of my backyard. That was a very dry year, and no mosquitoes were on hand.

But then my delusion was shattered. Although the chiggers did not appear and the coolness continued, alas, the mosquitoes came — so many that a few minutes out doors, even in daytime, left a poor mortal bloody and defeated.

I don't want to fight city hall. All I want is for city hall to fight the mosquitoes. Please. Pretty please.

Holmes Alexander A Campaign Promise Takes Shape

WASHINGTON — Tom Roeser, white and 40, is the Administration's man on what used to be called Black Capitalism — a bit of campaign oratory that is beginning to take on substance.

Black Capitalism has been renamed Minority Enterprise in order to include Mexican-Americans, Indians and Puerto Ricans, but the idea is much as Candidate Nixon expressed it: to get able-minded but racially handicapped persons into businesses of their own.

"WE HAD A MEETING in a Chicago ghetto church when I was working for Quaker Oats," says Roeser. "About 50 persons showed up, and we were going to tell them how to start a supermarket. By the end of the course, there were only about seven or eight persons left, but they were qualified to become entrepreneurs. The others decided they didn't want all the trouble of being business-owners, and would rather keep their jobs. But that's the point — they decided."

SIMPLISTICALLY stated, this is pretty much how Roeser expects to run the Commerce Department's Office of Minority Business Enterprise where he's been director since March. His theory is that nobody has a Civil Right to own a business, but that everybody deserves the choice of trying. If only 10 or 12 applicants out of every 100 should qualify for proprietorship, that would constitute almost a mass-movement out of the working class into the middle class.

There are many obstacles, and the movement will probably be less-than-massive, but the Nixon Administration is giving Roeser much more aid and comfort than the Great Society ever put into this sort of work.

UNDER PRESIDENT JOHNSON there was a little-known Negro-enterprise shop called Affirmative Action

Program with a director, a staff of three, a budget of $100,000 and no White House or departmental authority. In contrast, Mr. Nixon has set up Roeser as an Assistant to the Secretary of Commerce, given him a staff of 55, promised him a budget of $15 million and issued a resounding Executive Order which gives the Commerce Department national authority over 116 programs in 21 Federal agencies.

ALL THAT bureaucratically can be done to help Minority Enterprise is being done. But Roeser knows that eventually it will be in the private sector that he wins or loses.

For example, there are 28,000 automobile dealerships in the country, and only 10 are Negro-owned with other minorities owning none. There are only 20 minority-run banks in the country, and few have enough deposits to put out loans. There are about 120 minority-owned manufacturing firms, such as textile makers and food-packagers, and hardly any more than marginally successful.

ROESER WILL BE doing his job when he gets the white-owned enterprises to open the way to minority entrepreneurs. That is, the motor-makers must assign dealerships, the oil companies must set up service stations, large companies must transfer sizable bank deposits, many firms must assist the minority-owned manufacturers in sound business practices.

Some of this has already happened. Commerce Secretary Stans recently thanked the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp. and the National Bankers Association for a movement of funds into black-owned banks.

Much remains to be done, and much will be done quietly. But the Minority Enterprise is getting a maximum effort in what began as a mere campaign promise.

Art Buchwald It's Enough To Make A Man Sick

WASHINGTON — There is no question that there is a certain amount of hostility in this country building up toward the Pentagon. My friend Zapcrisp was so disturbed by his own personal feelings that he went to see his psychiatrist.

"I don't understand it, Doc," said Zapcrisp, as he stretched out on the couch. "I keep feeling that there's something wrong over there and I keep getting more frightened all the time."

"Hmmm," the psychiatrist replied.

"The thing is, I love the Pentagon. I believe, architecturally, it is one of the most beautiful buildings in the country. But I still can't get this feeling out of me that they don't know what they're doing."

"Ah, huh," the psychiatrist commented.

"I guess the first time I got the sinking feeling was when I got the sinking feeling was when I announced the TFX was a disaster. I mean, I don't mind paying taxes, but when I heard the news — after all that money was spent — I almost got sick. I did get sick, as a matter of fact."

"Tch, tch, tch," the psychiatrist said.

"THEN I GOT the news about the ABM. How David Packard said it would only cost $6 billion, but then they put out a statement a few days later saying that he had forgotten to include the price of the warheads. Doc, was I being unreasonable when I got sore? I mean, what kind of a thing is it to tell you the price of an antiballistic missile system, and leave out the cost of the warheads?"

"Uh huh."

"You still there, Doc? So I said to myself, 'Packard can't remember everything,' and I pulled myself together. Then there were the stories of the billion-dollar tank that wouldn't work, the helicopters that wouldn't fly.

"Ummmmmm."

"YET, I THINK when they really got me scared was when they announced the C-5A airplane was going to cost over $2 billion more than they thought it would. I didn't mind the money, Doc, as much as the way they kept juggling the figures — telling me it wasn't Lockheed, but inflation and spare parts — and that everyone knew it was going to cost $2 billion more, so no one should be surprised."

"Mm hum."

"OK, I WAS MAD, but I kept it inside of me. I'm not one of these people who is always criticizing the military. But then it happened, Doc. The other night I'm sitting in front of my television set watching the news, and suddenly I see with my own eyes a $50 million submarine sinking at the dock in San Francisco in 35 feet of water. Doc, I ask you. How much can we take?"

"TO TOP IT, they want to move all their nerve gas across the United States, on freight trains and dump it off Atlantic City. Doc, am I wrong in thinking they want to get me?"

"Mmmmm."

"And this morning I read in the papers that they want to scuttle 10 Polaris submarines in the ocean because the new missiles won't fit them. Tell me, Doc, am I going crazy?"

"So," said the doctor, "now we may perhaps to begin. Yes?"

Use Tear Gas In Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — Police using tear gas and night sticks scattered groups of roving, rock-throwing youths during a daylong outburst of violence in this city's predominantly black central area. Three officers were wounded by gunfire, nine others injured when hit by rocks and bricks and 35 persons arrested.

Cooling rain and a barrage of tear gas finally ended the disturbance, which had spread from a unit of Seattle Community College Monday.

Police said they did not know the source of the gunfire and did not return the fire.

The wounded officers were reported in good condition.

Black Student Union demonstrators, protesting rejection of a demand that a black person be appointed to the college's board of trustees, had marched from the school's Edison South building to a branch in the central area.

The crowd grew to 300 persons and rocks were thrown at police. Reinforcements, using tear gas, managed to scatter the group.

The violence subsided about 3 p.m. but erupted again four hours later when about 150 black youths began pelting passing white motorists with rocks. Police rushed the group and used tear gas to disperse the crowd. Heavy rain began falling 20 minutes later.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My daughter is engaged to be married in November. Well, last week while looking for bobby pins in her dresser drawer, I came across some little pink pills in a queer-looking pill box. When I asked her what they were, she said, "Birth control pills. You know I'm supposed to take them three months before the wedding" (I know she had taken one that day because there was one less than the day before).

My question is this: "Why is she taking them now when the marriage isn't until November?" I would throw her fiancé right out on his ear but I'm afraid she'd go with him, and it would break my heart as I love my daughter very much. Every time I look at her fiancé now I get a terrible feeling of hatred. How in the world can I help plan a wedding in November feeling the way I do about him?

DISAPPOINTED MOM: You had better get over your feeling of "hatred." It takes two to tango, and while I do not condone this type dance step before the wedding march, it beats the "Rockabye Baby" waltz.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell me what you think of a father who doesn't think he's needed at the hospital when his 3-year-old son has this third operation (Plastic surgery for burns). Daddy wasn't there for the first two, either. Mommy went alone and sat in the waiting room for a couple of hours.

My husband says, "What good will it do the boy? I'll come in the evening to see him when he knows I'm there."

Am I right or wrong to feel that my husband should be there? "MOMMY'S HERE!"

DEAR MOMMY: I can't

WASHINGTON (AP) — Until pressed by the federal government, General Motors Corp. did not warn the owners of some 150,000 light trucks that the wheels might break up under heavy loads, it was learned today.

GM is notifying the owners of 1960-65 model GMC and Chevrolet three-quarter-ton trucks that overloading could cause the wheels to fall and "break up" particularly on those trucks out-fitted with campers.

And, for the first time, the company warned the owners of the potential defect without offering to pay the cost of repairs.

The GM letter urged the owners to have the wheels replaced at a cost estimated by the company at $100—if their loads exceed rated capacities.

STILL TESTING

Dr. Robert Brenner, acting director of the Federal Highway Safety Bureau, conceded that GM had issued the warning statement after the Department of Transportation had informed the company that it would otherwise publicly demand such notification under the federal highway safety law.

But Brenner said the department is still testing the vehicle and wheel and has not yet decided whether it is basically defective.

And there's nothing in the law, he said, to compel the manufacturer to pick up the tab.

Company officials in Detroit insisted the wheels—manufactured by the Kelsey-Hayes Co.

UNTIL PRESSURED BY GOVERNMENT

GM Did Not Warn Owners Of Trucks

—are not defective. "There has never been a case where a wheel failed which was not overloaded," a spokesman said. But the spokesman acknowledged that the truck "is capable of carrying a camper, is advertised for such purpose and is our largest seller for this use."

Although GM does not concede the truck wheels to be defective, it reached an out-of-court settlement in Claremont, Big Spring (Texas) Herald, Tues., May 27, 1969 5-B

Auto industry critic Ralph Nader, whose attack on GM's Corvair and subsequent clashes with the vast auto firm propelled him to national fame, was infuriated by the firm's truck is equipped with an over-the-cab type camper. Specifically, if one of these trucks is overloaded and the tires are overinflated, these wheels are subject to sudden fracturing and breaking apart during use.

"Such occurrences result in immediate loss of air from the tire, which can come off the wheel, possible loss of control of the vehicle, and substantial risks of serious harm to persons and property in the vicinity."

He said he would seek a congressional investigation. GM's letter said "the problem is serious, under conditions of heavy loading, such as when the

Border Patrol Seeks Recruits

The U.S. Border Patrol of the Immigration and Naturalization Service has an urgent need for physically fit young men desiring a career in federal law enforcement work. This is a career opportunity for those who like action and outdoor work.

The Border Patrol is the mobile, uniformed enforcement branch of the I&NS. Its principle purpose is to prevent the smuggling and illegal entry of aliens into the United States.

The border patrolmen, work in jeeps, cars, on foot, in boats and airplanes. Officers investigate violations of the immigration laws and frequently make arrests.

The entrance salary of an immigration patrol inspector is $9,861 a year (Grade GS-7) and it is expected that these salaries will be increased after July 1, 1969. Additional compensation is also paid for overtime work. There are promotional opportunities.

No experience is required for these positions. To qualify, applicants must pass a written test of verbal abilities, judgment, and aptitude for learning a foreign language. Candidates who pass the written test are called for oral interviews designed to determine if the candidate has the personal qualities needed for the work. Applicants must also pass a rigid physical examination. Candidates who are selected for appointment are assigned at full pay, to the Border Patrol Academy for a period of intensive training.

Applications are now being accepted for the civil service examination for Immigration Patrol Inspector which will be held on Saturday, July 12, 1969. Additional examinations are scheduled for October, 1969, January, 1970, and April, 1970. However, those wishing to be tested in July must submit their applications before June 10, 1969.
