Housing area bid opening planned April 12

Bids to construct the 24-residence senior citizens housing area Golden Terrace Village will be opened April 12, project supporters announced Tuesday.

Members of the non-profit Snyder Senior Citizens Inc. received a final go-ahead Monday to begin a closing schedule for a loan financed through the Farmers Home Administration.

Following this schedule, bid specifications will now be distributed for the city's first housing area designed for the elderly.

These may be secured from designers for the project, the Lubbock-based architectural firm of Whitaker, McQueen, Jones and Associates.

The bid opening will take place approximately three weeks from now. It is scheduled for 2 p.m. in the Senior Center conference room.

If these bids come in within the maximum loan amounts approved through FmHA, construction on the project should begin by mid-May.

It is hoped the residences will then be ready for occupancy by next fall.

Gloria Shaw, director at the senior center and an officer for Snyder Senior Citizens Inc., said Tuesday that they are still holding off on accepting applications for residency.

A date will be announced with persons may begin applying, she said.

The loan secured through FmHa will be retired through rent monies for the homes. The project itself will be located on a 4.3 acre tract of land west of College Ave. and south of 37th St.

All residences will be single-story and will consist of 17 one-bedroom homes; six two-bedroom and one one-bedroom structure designed for the handicapped.

The FmHA loan is approved at 10.75 percent interest and is to be repaid during a 50-year period.

Mondale, Hart set for lengthy battle

CHICAGO (AP) — Walter F. Mondale, blunting Gary Hart's momentum and predicting "a long tough race ahead" before the Democratic presidential nomination is settled, moves from his Illinois primary victory into a batch of big state contests led by New York.

By winning in Illinois on Tuesday, Mondale took the biggest primary prize so far and boosted his comeback after a string of early primary loses to Hart in New England and Florida. Mondale also won caucuses Tuesday in his home state of Minnesota.

But both Mondale and Hart noted that the road to San Francisco and the party's nomination is destined to be long.

"The debate has just begun," said Mondale, dismissing a suggestion that he has once again assumed the front-runner status that crumbled in New England. "I have a long way to go before I'm nominated."

Hart conceded that Mondale won a "a significant primary" in Illinois but said he would battle the former vice president in a series of industrial-state contests coming up in Connecticut, New York and Pennsylvania.

"As he is, I'm prepared to go on to Connecticut, New York and beyond," the Colorado senator said.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson drew 20 percent of the vote, compared to Mondale's 41 percent and Hart's 36 percent. But nine of every 10 of Jackson's votes came from blacks, belying his claim that women, Hispanics and other minorities will eventually join in a "rainbow coalition" to win him the nomination.

Among blacks generally, 70 percent voted for Jackson, television networks' exit polling showed, while Mondale led Hart for the remainder.

Nonetheless, Jackson said he would press on and insisted there is a now a three-man race for the nomination.

"This is a three-man race," said Jackson. "And the only way it'll be a two-man race is if Mondale or Hart quits."

In analyzing his biggest defeat so far, Hart said he was the victim of new Democratic Party rules which bunched up primaries and party caucuses early in 1984, making it hard for a dark horse candidate to become well known and then run in every state.

"I don't consider tonight's loss that big a loss," said Hart. "We've done extraordinarily well under the circumstances."

But Hart's contention was contradicted by network television exit polls which showed that voters who changed their minds in the final days before the voting shifted not to Hart but to Mondale.

Chamber given April banquet update report

Chamber directors were updated Tuesday afternoon on plans for the upcoming chamber banquet April 5.

Delbert Downing, chairman of the 1984 banquet committee, said tickets are on sale now at various locations in Snyder including the Chamber of Commerce. Tickets are priced at $10. A barbecue meal with all the trimmings was chosen since this year's banquet has a western theme. K-Bob's will cater the meal.

The ticket sales committee was to meet at noon Wednesday at K-Bobs to kick off the sales campaign. Downing said the banquet "is responsible for itself," adding it is expected enough tickets will be sold to pay all costs.

Governor George Nigh of Oklahoma, a humorist, will be the guest speaker.

It was also reported that the following committees have been conducting organizational meetings: business development, petroleum relations, research, cultural affairs and civic development.

The leadership program, Century II: Leadership Scurry County, is organizing for next year also.

Other reports included the following:

—The AJRA committee has already started working toward this year's national rodeo finals.

—A chamber membership drive kicks off this week.

—The July 4th--Centennial celebration will be held at the coliseum rather than at Towle Park this year. Another Whirlagig will also be staged.

—Mike Banta and Troy Williamson are the two newest Gold Coat members. Harley Bynum and Tim Riggan joined the organization in January.

—The Sesquicentennial committee has already begun meeting. The celebration will be tied in with local events during 1986.

—Snyder has also been chosen as the site of the 1985 NJCAA basketball tournament for men and women.

Directors attending include Ernie Armstrong, Murray Anne Ray, Gene Thomas, Troy Williamson, Jarrell, Jerry Vestal, Max von Roeder, Phil Fortune and David Thompson.

DISTRICT AWARDS — These six Snyder High drama students were picked for individual awards for performances in "The Crucible" Tuesday. Individual winners at the District 2-AAAA One-Act play contest were (from left, front) Kathy Norris, All-Star Cast; David Etheredge, Best Actor; Dana Parham, All-Star Cast; (back) Shane Sullivan, All-Star Cast; Kelly Farguhar, All-Star Cast, and Mike Everett, honorable mention. One-act now past district

With 2-AAAA District UIL competition scheduled Friday and Saturday, Snyder High School has already begun to win points by having its one-act play chosen to advance in addition to winning individual actor honors.

The Snyder High School drama department's production of "The Crucible" will now advance to area along with Pecos High's production of Oscar Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest."

Both were selected at the conclusion of the District 2-AAAA One-Act play contest here Tuesday.

Critic Judge Aurand Harris of the University of Texas singled out six of the local players for individual awards including David Etheredge, who was named Best Actor for his portrayal of John Proctor.

Etheredge was also named Best Actor at last week's zone competition.

Other local student actors awarded individual honors included Shane Sullivan, Kathy Norris, Dana Parham and Kelly Farguhar, all named to the All-Star Cast, and Mike Everett, named to the honorable mention all-star cast.

Ira chooses low bidder

Ira School trustees accepted a low bid from Earl Thompson Construction of Breckenridge during a special called meeting Tuesday night, contingent on a favorable check of references submitted.

The base bid was for the amount of $797,478. Two alternate bids were also accepted:

--Addition of greenhouse to science room, $9,640.

--Carpet for existing buildings, $14,300.

The total bid figure is $821,418. Since the bond issue passed last year was only for $750,000, Superintendent Jay Martin said the rest of the funds will have to come from local monies.

Alternate bids were included in the bidding in the hopes that it might be financially feasible to pursue other projects in addition to the construction of new classroom space.

Other base bids submitted were:

--Area Builders of Odessa, $812,000.

--Brown, Rush & Joiner of Lufkin, $866,800.

--Lee George Construction of Big Spring, $856,363.

--H. B. F. Construction of Midland, $849,000.

--Mike Klein General Contractor of Lubbock, $827,000.

Nevertheless, a pretty good size boy was born last Tuesday at Cogdell Memorial Hospital. The fellow was half grown with his birth weight listed at 10 pounds and one ounce. When he left the hospital on Friday, the youngster had gained 10 more ounces.

Named Kyle Ryan, the prospective linebacker is the son of David and Natalie Dolliver.

Cogdell Hospital provides the parents with a hospital certificate complete with the baby's footprint and the mother's thumbprint.

Kyle Ryan's foot was too large for the space provided on the certificate. But resourceful nurses solved the space problem with an additional piece of paper and scotch tape.

Gary Hart has been a champion of women's right. Early in the campaign all three networks had female reporters covering his presidential bid.

After Hart surfaced as a contender with his upset in New Hampshire, two of the three networks replaced the female correspondents with men. Network officials insist the realignments were merely routine.

Along the campaign trail comes the following tidbits:

--Reagan says there are no easy answers, which is why he has so many advisers.

--Mondale thinks he has a chance to win, but wishes Republicans would run Ford again.

--Reagan is more worried about Dan Rather than Walter Mondale.

--Reagan wants to debate, but want Mondale's notes beforehand.

--Reagan wants to tighten all tax loopholes, meaning there needs to be new ones.

Remember, every vote counts, especially in a Chicago election, sometimes three or four times.

Ask Us

Q. — Is there a fault line beneath Scurry County that has caused the earthquakes here and, if so, has the state agency wanting to locate a low-level nuclear waste dumping site considered this?

A. — Reports published by Dr. Deskin Sherbet of the Texas Tech University Geoscience Department speculate that the Scurry County earthquakes have been caused by rock formations cracking due to high-pressue secondary oil recovery methods rather than any major geological fault. The SDN contacted Sherbet Wednesday and he said, "I'm not saying there's not one there, but I'm not aware of it."

Vow to continue fight...

School prayer appears dead

WASHINGTON (AP) — Backers of a rejected constitutional amendment to permit organized prayer in public schools vow they will return another day to wage another battle, but Senate leaders say it's unlikely the politically sensitive issue can be brought up again this year even in a different form.

The Senate on Tuesday ended more than two weeks of debate by turning down the proposal, which was strongly endorsed by President Reagan, on a 56-44 roll call. That was 11 votes short of the two-thirds majority required for a constitutional amendment.

Reagan has made passage of the amendment a major re-election campaign theme and Tuesday's Senate vote is likely to figure in November's presidential and Senate elections.

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., an amendment supporter, told the Senate following the vote, "We have just begun to fight. As long as I'm in the U.S. Senate, there will be other rounds."

But Senate Majority Leader Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., a supporter of the amendment, said he had promised a full and open debate and that has now occured.

"This is my commitment that I feel I have fulfilled, and I have no plans for anything else," Baker said.

Opponents of the amendment hailed the vote. Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., the leader of the anti-amendment forces, called it "the crest of the wave" of the so-called "social issues" pushed by Reagan and his conservative allies in the Senate, none of which have won congressional approval.

"I think anyone who uses this issue in a presidential campaign in 1984 is going to have it backfire on him," Weicker added. Weicker had previously called Reagan's tactics in lobbying heavily for the proposal "tasteless."

Supporters argued that approval of the amendment, which would have overturned the 1962 Supreme Court decision outlawing government-sanctioned prayer in classrooms, would follow the will of a majority of Americans.

Supporters talked of several possible routes to revive the debate: another try at winning support for a silent-prayer-only amendment, already rejected once by the Senate; and a proposal to limit jurisdiction of federal courts on matters like prayer, school busing and abortion.

The proposed amendment read: "Nothing in this Constitution shall be construed to prohibit individual or group prayer in public schools or other public institutions. No person shall be required by the United States or by any state to participate in prayer. Neither the United States nor any state shall compose the words of any prayer to be said in public schools."

All 100 senators voted on the measure. Sen. Gary Hart, D-Colo., the only remaining presidential candidate in the Senate, canceled a trip to Kansas and flew to Washington from Chicago to vote against the amendment. And Republican Sen. Charles H. Percy, a candidate for re-election in the Illinois senatorial primary, returned to the Capitol to vote in favor of it.

Paul Harvey

I attended the openings of two "shopping centers" recently.

Nieman-Marcus opened a grand new store on Chicago's "magnificent mile" and opening-evening shopping was by invitation only.

This country boy, disguised in a black tie, escorted his Angel through the golden doors and across marble floors under crystal chandeliers and the gleaming everything was really something.

On the first floor three bars serving and three bands playing.

On the second floor, luscious salads — help yourself.

Next floor up a lavish entree buffet — take your choice.

Top floor, a spectacular array of desserts.

And more booze.

And then I stopped to price a man's shirt which I thought looked nice. $145!

Then I realized who was paying for all this.

This is not said critically, nor disrespectfully nor without appreciation for this method of merchandising.

I like it. I wish I could afford it.

But there is an alternative — spawned in Oklahoma and Texas and spreading.

It's called "off-price retailing."

Within three years a dozen have burst into bloom.

These are full-size sheltered shopping malls but — in a no-gingerbread building in a low-overhead area — able to sell name-brand merchandise — sometimes for half the price. And shirts for one-tenth that price!

Recently I traveled to Plano, Texas (suburban Dallas) to dedicate the newest of the OUTLET MALLS OF AMERICA.

Tapp Development constructed both the first and the most recent of these malls — where factory-outlet stores are clustered under one roof — inexpensive construction on inexpensive land — so that rental and other occupancy costs can be up to 60 percent lower.

That brings prices down enough to encourage shoppers to drive the extra mile.

Texan Barry Tapp says, "This fills the wide gap between the unbranded strays and the parade paliminos, between the discount store and the super fancy facade."

Many manufacturers and conventional retailers are now converting to outlet malls: Melville, Zayre Corporation, Dayton-Hudson, F.W. Woolworth and U.S. Shoe...

...As sophisticated shoppers become even more sophisticated — and recognize that shopping in an atmosphere emphasizing elegance and opulence they've been paying for a lot of things they can't take home.

Beauty Digest magazine's dermatology advisor, Dr. Jonathan Zizmor, recommends a wonderful facial mask to help tighten pores. Take one ripe tomatoe and mash it into a pulp. Then mix it with three tablespoons of cornmeal until it is of pasty consistency. Spread on your face as a mask and leave on for 15 minutes. Rinse off completely with warm water.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby

Today's Lawrence hand shows how an expert tortures himself with match point problems. South holds the sort of hand experts like to have. He has a good 19-point hand with a nice five-card club suit. He opens one club and trouble starts to rear its ugly head.

West overcalls with one heart, North bids two clubs and East jumps to three spades, which is alerted as pre-emptive.

Mike debates between three no-trump and some sort of bid that suggests a club slam, and finally settles for three no-trump. The four of spades is led and Mike lets East hold the first trick. Miracles happen on occasion, but not this time. East returns the spade queen. Mike has to play his ace and West drops the king.

Now starts Mike's real agony. He can try a diamond finesse to make four or even five no-trump, or he can cash out eight tricks and settle for down one. If the diamond finesse is on, the cowardly play will net a bottom score, but Mike decides that it surely will be a loser. Now what sort of score will minus 100 be? Mike figures it will be pretty good, since he doubts if many declarers in this field will be playing a club contract lower than six.

Mike cashes out, settles for down one and finds out at end of play that minus 100 was worth eight of 10 match points.

HEALTH

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Easy on the exercise

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 65-year-old woman in fairly good health. I exercise for about 15 minutes every day, including leg-lifts, jumping jacks, sit-ups and jumping rope. I also try to walk and ride my bike, weather permitting.

I have some joint pains in my hips, knees and fingers, but only temporarily. The weather seems to affect them. After reading your comments on osteoarthritis, I'm wondering whether I should discontinue the exercises and just stay with walking and bike riding? You said some exercises could affect the weight-bearing joints.

DEAR READER — Unless your exercises are causing you pain, don't be too concerned about them. But people should be careful about strenuous or endurance exercises. From your comments it sounds like you don't overdo it, although the jarring exercises such as jumping rope might cause you problems.

Running or a lot of walking on hard surfaces might not be so good. If one does this, shoes are very important because they provide cushioning.

Your list of exercises should include some stretching exercises. These become more important as you get older. You should stretch before and after exercise.

A person who has disabling arthritis — pain or difficulty in movement — or advanced changes, should limit his or her exercise to maintain muscle strength and flexibility. Additional exercise aggravates the condition. The pain in osteoarthritis often will stop if the involved joint is rested.

To give you more information on osteoarthritis, I'm sending you the Health Letter 20-2, Osteoarthritis: Degenerative Joint Disease. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I'm a 33-year-old woman. My problem is that whenever I'm exposed to cold weather my fingers turn waxy white. When I get back indoors and warm up, my fingers then turn bright red and hurt. I've been told I have Raynaud's disease. What is this and what can I do about it?

DEAR READER — It's what doctors call a vasospastic disorder, meaning that the blood vessels constrict. That's what causes the waxy white appearance. There's usually a rebound reaction when your hands warm up, where the vessels dilate and cause your hands to turn red and become painful.

In some individuals this indicates an underlying abnormality such as rheumatoid arthritis. In many others no underlying disorders can be found.

You should avoid the cold if at all possible. That doesn't mean keeping only your hands warm, it means keeping your whole body warm. And anyone with such a complaint shouldn't smoke at all. Stress also seems to be a factor in precipitating some attacks.

You should have a complete medical evaluation to be sure you don't have an underlying medical problem that needs treatment. Your doctor may want to give you some vasodilator medicine. There are several of these, but the new calcium channel blockers, specifically Procardia, have been reported to be effective in some cases.

Salvadoran woman recants her story

BROWNSVILLE, Texas (AP) — An attorney for a Salvadoran woman who said a reporter illegally helped her travel north says the woman made up the story to protect others and thought the American reporter would be "invincible."

Dallas Times Herald reporter Jack Fischer was charged in an alleged conspiracy to transport illegal aliens after the car he was riding in with the woman, a Salvadoran man and two church workers was stopped by border patrol agents. The two church workers were also charged.

Since the Salvadoran woman has recanted her statement, the charges against Fischer probably will be dropped, Assistant U.S. Attorney John Smith said Tuesday. He said a decision will be reached in the next two to three weeks.

"We are trying to do some other things to determine if Fischer had some (criminal) intent. If he was merely there to get the story then he will not be prosecuted," said Smith.

Federal prosecutors said they still need to talk to the Salvadoran woman.

Fischer said he was working on a story for the Dallas Times Herald and was not a participant in transporting the Salvadorans.

At a preliminary hearing, a border patrol agent testified that the Salvadoran woman, who identified herself as Brenda Sanchez-Galan, told him she begged Fischer to help her and her infant get to San Antonio and that the reporter eventually agreed.

Attorney Jim Rausch, who represented the Salvadorans in initial proceedings, said Tuesday Ms. Sanchez-Galan told him her statement "was all a fabrication. She thought she'd take pressure off of others and put it on a reporter, believing he was invincible. And, by telling authorities that she begged him; she hoped they might not take it out on him either."

In an interview with The Associated Press, Ms. Sanchez-Galan confirmed Monday that she had recanted her statement to the border patrol.

"My declaration is not valid," Ms. Sanchez-Galan said in Spanish. "It is not valid because I did not have an attorney with me for hours and hours, even though I asked for one."

Edgar Allan Poe died in Baltimore in 1849.

2 accidents called hit and run Monday

Three minor traffic mishaps, including two hit-and-run incidents, were reported in Snyder Monday.

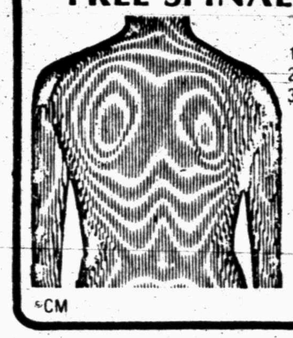

The first hit-and-run was reported in the 2000 Block of Ave. K at 8:20 a.m. According to police reports, a parked 1981 Chevrolet owned by Ray Carrisalez of Rt. 3, Snyder was struck by a vehicle which fled the scene.

The west parking lot at WTC was the scene of the day's second hit-and-run incident, reported at 10:55 a.m. A 1983 Ford owned by Willingham Land and Cattle of Hermleigh was struck by a vehicle which fled the scene.

Monday's third accident occurred on the Varsity Square parking lot at 1:35 p.m. Involved in it were a 1983 Chevrolet driven by Edith Morgan Hattabaugh of Hermleigh and a 1982 Mercury driven by Eleanor Gutierrez of 324 29th St.

Damage to vehicles in all three mishaps was rated minor to moderate.

Eating style now changed

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Lehrer, back as a co-anchor on public television's "MacNeil-Lehrer Newshour" after suffering a heart attack, admits he used to have the eating habits of "a 14-year-old teenybopper," but no more.

Lehrer, 49, who returned to the show Monday, said in a telephone interview from Washington on Tuesday that he now works out three times a week, eats no red meat as part of a low-cholesterol diet, and has quit smoking.

"I'm doing great," said Lehrer.

He suffered the heart attack Dec. 14 and underwent double-bypass surgery several weeks later.

"The doctors have made the understandable assumption that I'm in a stressful profession and that that contributed," Lehrer said. "I just don't know. There were no signals that I picked up."

Louisville, Kentucky vie as NCAA play resumes

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The good thing about college basketball is that on a given night, anybody can beat anybody, says Louisville Coach Denny Crum.

"And we're playing on a given night," Crum said of Thursday's NCAA Mideast Regional semifinal against No. 3 Kentucky in Rupp Arena.

"It's obvious that Kentucky's going to be the favorite," Crum said at a news conference Tuesday. "They're supposed to win and we're not, but that just means we're relaxed."

One key, Crum said, is that if Kentucky dominates on the inside, his Cardinals must prove master on the outside.

"We always have trouble with big men, because our center (Charles Jones) is only 6-foot-8," Crum said. "If we let them get the ball inside, it's going to be hard to beat them."

Jim Master canned 19 points for Kentucky in the season-opening 65-44 rout, while Louisville's backcourt duo of Lancaster Gordon and Milt Wagner, the team's leading scorers, combined for only 12 points.

Louisville outrebounded the much taller Kentucky 41-36 in the game, but while Louisville's backcourt of Jones, 6-8 Billy Thompson and 6-7 Manual Forrest managed only 16 points combined, the Wildcats 7-foot Sam Bowie, 6-11 Melvin Turpin and 6-9 Kenny Walker had 36 points together.

Gordon, a senior, said Kentucky's guards applied a lot of pressure in the last game, and Gordon hopes that he and Wagner have adjusted to that.

A new problem for Louisville is the status of Forrest, who severely twisted an ankle in Louisville's two-point win over Tulsa on Sunday. "It's just a wait and see thing with Manual," said Crum.

The Kentucky-Louisville game is one of four Thursday night as the NCAA playoffs resume with regional semfinal competition in the East at Atlanta and the Mideast at Lexington, Ky. The Midwest bracket in St. Louis and West in Los Angeles, also semifinals, are set for Friday night.

Along with the Kentucky-Louisville contest, Maryland, 24-7, plays sixth-ranked Illinois, 25-4, in the Mideast. North Carolina, 28-2, faces Indiana, 21-8, and Virginia, 19-11, takes on No. 18 Syracuse, 23-8, in the East.

In the Midwest, No. 5 Houston, 29-4, engages No. 16 Memphis State, 26-6, and No. 4 DePaul, 27-2, plays Wake Forest, 22-8. The West pairing matches No. 2 Georgetown, 30-3, against No. 13 Nevada-Las Vegas, 29-5, and No. 15 Washington, 24-6, vs. Dayton, 20-10.

Virginia, which failed to win the NCAA championship the past three seasons despite the presence of towering Ralph Sampson, feels it has a lot to prove since the 7-foot-4 center has gone on to the pros.

"I think people tended to underestimate us going into the season," said Virginia Coach Terry Holland. "I think people tended to look at us and say, 'They were a good basketball team with Ralph Sampson, but they won't be that good anymore.'"

Syracuse, a young team headed by sophomore Rafael Addison and freshman point guard Dwayne "Pearl" Washington, is expected to play run-and-gun against Virginia, a veteran team.

Top-ranked North Carolina has three starters from the 1982 NCAA championship team team — Michael Jordan, Sam Perkins and Matt Doherty — plus freshman point guard Kenny Smith returning to pre-injury form.

Maryland, the Atlantic Coast Conference tourney winner, comes off an impressive 102-77 victory over West Virginia. Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell is counting on Herman Veal, who he calls "the best defensive player in the country," to help stop Illinois, the Big Ten co-champion.

Memphis State is banking on Keith Lee to carry the Tigers past Houston and 7-foot All-America Akeem Olajuwon.

Pro golfers in New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — George Burns takes a very positive view of his playoff loss in Florida last Sunday.

"I didn't expect to play well. I didn't expect to win," the 34-year-old Burns said of his loss to Gary Koch on the second hole of a sudden death playoff for the Bay Hill Classic.

"The important thing is that it showed me I'm starting to play better," Burns said before a practice round for the $400,000 USF&G Classic that begins Thursday on the 7,080-yard, par 72 Lakewood Country Club course.

In recent weeks, Burns has gone from 38th in the Honda Classic, to 14th in Miami, to second in Bay Hill. With $71,535 in winnings, he's already surpassed his earnings for last season.

"In some respects, I'm playing like I always play. I make a lot of birdies and I make a lot of mistakes.

By The Associated Press

Two victories later, hundreds of Pitt fans stood patiently in line for up to three hours Tuesday to purchase tickets for the Panthers' National Invitation Tournament quarterfinal round game Friday against Notre Dame.

The 5,000 tickets allocated the Panthers for 6,500-seat Fitzgerald Fieldhouse went on sale at 9 a.m. and were gobbled up shortly after noon by many of the same fans who thought the Panthers' season ended with a first round Big East tournament loss to Villanova.

"Last week, everybody was saying we had a mediocre season," said Clyde Vaughan, who led Pitt to NIT victories over LaSalle and Florida State. "I said if we won this thing we could call it a great season.

"We're on the verge of a great season."

Santa Clara surprised a Lamar team withh a 26-4 record by 76-74 on Monday, while Southwestern Louisiana scored a mild upset by knocking off Weber State 74-72 in double overtime.

Dog owner given one year in baby's death

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas hairdresser who was found guilty of criminal negligence because her 84-pound Rottweiler killed her month-old daughter says she expects to be deported to her native Norway after serving a one-year jail sentence.

Britt Rognaldsen, 36, was found guilty of misdemeanor criminal negligence and was sentenced Tuesday to the maximum one year in jail and was fined $2,000.

The jury deliberated about 5½ hours before finding her guilty in the Class A misdemeanor charge, the least serious of three possible guilty verdicts.

Her attorney, Vincent Perini said "it's likely" the sentence will be appealed.

Mrs. Rognaldsen, weeping after the sentence was announced by Distrct Judge Ed Kinkeade, said she was surprised by the verdict.

Dear Abby

Wife Resents Being Left 'Odd Man Out'

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1984 by Universal Press Syndicate

DEAR ABBY: My husband has made fantastic progress with a large company. (He's in sales.) I am very proud of him and love him very much.

Now the problem: One of his best accounts has social "business" functions for men only. I have asked him to suggest that wives be included, and he said it wasn't his place to make any suggestions. I told him that if enough men, beginning with himself, would turn down such invitations, the company would have to start including the wives.

Last week my husband received another one of those invitations. I begged him not to go, but he said, "When a big shot invites you, you don't turn him down." And he went anyway.

Abby, I feel that my husband has no respect for me or himself. What is your opinion?

FEELING REJECTED

DEAR REJECTED: Assuming that these functions are respectable company get-togethers, your husband's decision to go has nothing to do with his respect (or lack of it) for you or himself.

It would be inappropriate for him to suggest that wives be included, then refuse to go unless they were.

If you love your husband, add some confidence to that love and quit hassling him. Your present attitude is a millstone around his neck.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: For the last few weeks I have been dreaming that I am pregnant! I know it is not a suppressed desire, and it certainly cannot be the fear of pregnancy, because I am 74 years old!

I have all my marbles, Abby, and this isn't of sufficient importance to justify seeing a "shrink."

What could the reason be?

IMPOSSIBLE DREAMS

DEAR IMPOSSIBLE: Perhaps you have a fertile imagination.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I work as a dispatcher for a police department in a very small town.

Three officers and I were talking about whether it was proper for a policeman to wear his gun to church services when he's on duty. One officer said it might offend some folks, and possibly the Lord.

On the other hand, thieves are not picky about where they steal. (There's always plenty in the offering.) I personally would feel more secure knowing someone is there to protect me.

Two of the officers don't take their guns to church services, and one does. Who is right?

PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Very few police officers attend church while they are on duty, but those who do, carry their guns, since an officer in uniform must be armed.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: In reference to whether "make the bed" or "dress the bed" is correct, be advised that the English "lay the table."
