Amelia Earhart Sets Three New Records in Her Flight

FIRST WOMAN TO CROSS ALONE FIRST TO CROSS OCEAN TWICE SPEED RECORD FOR CROSSING

By P. J. QUINN
(Copyr't, 1932, by Universal Service, Inc.)

CULMORE, Northern Ireland, May 21.—Mrs. Amelia Earhart Putnam dropped her storm-damaged monoplane to a safe landing in an Ulster farmer's meadow today, setting three new records.

She became the first woman to cross the Atlantic alone; the first flier, man or woman, to cross the Atlantic twice, and she set a new speed record for the crossing.

Her time clipped minutes from the 16-hour, 12-minute record set in June, 1919, by Sir John Alcock and Sir Arthur Whitten Brown on the first transatlantic non-stop flight. Her plane averaged 129.5 miles an hour on the 2,026.5-mile hop.

CULMORE, Ulster, North Ireland, May 21. (AP)—Amelia Earhart Putnam, the first woman ever to fly the Atlantic alone, landed this afternoon in a field in this green countryside after a hazardous flight in which she conquered fog and storm and the even more dangerous menace of fire.

Four hours after she put out yesterday afternoon from Harbor Grace, N. F., she saw flames spitting from her exhaust. But she didn't turn back.

"I thought it safer to go ahead," she said.

Tonight she slept in the farmhouse of Robert Gallagher, owner of the field in which she landed. Tomorrow she will go to Croydon, England, in a borrowed airplane, leaving her own red and gold monoplane to be crated up and shipped back home.

Lindbergh Anniversary

Flying on the fifth anniversary of the successful conclusion of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's New York-Paris hop, she put her name just under his on the roll of transatlantic honors, for Colonel Lindbergh is the only other person in the world who has made a solo transatlantic flight.

It was 1:45 p. m., (6:45 a. m. central standard time) when her almost fuelless ship came to rest in Mr. Gallagher's field. She bounded out of it and ran a few yards to the farmhouse, where she found a very surprised Irishman.

Mr. Gallagher offered her tea but she was in too much of a hurry to take it. So he motored her to Londonderry, five miles away, and there she put in a transatlantic call.

"I did it!" she exultingly told her husband, George Palmer Putnam, publisher, who was waiting anxiously in New York for news of her.

Best Time Record

Mrs. Putnam made approximately 2,000 miles in 14 hours and 54 minutes, giving her the best time record of any of the transatlantic fliers.

BURKBURNETT WOMAN DIES AT HOSPITAL HERE

BURKBURNETT, Texas, May 21.—Mrs. Elizabeth Josephine Reha, 85, died at a Wichita Falls hospital at 11 o'clock Saturday morning, after a lingering illness. Mrs. Reha had been a resident of Burkburnett for about eight years and had made her home with her son, J. A. Reha, here.

Giant of Heavier-Than-Air Craft Ends Third Leg of Homeward Flight Comes to Halt in Harbor at Horta

NEW YORK, May 21. (AP)—The DO-X, giant of all heavier-than-air craft, tonight completed the third leg of her homeward flight to Lake Constance, Switzerland.

Sixteen hours and 55 minutes after she lifted her bulk from the waters of Holyrood, N. F., the 12-motored seaplane came to a halt in the harbor at Horta, the Azores, at 6:55 p. m. (central standard time).

The 100-passenger airliner, carrying a crew of 13, including a woman passenger-purser, Fraulein Antonia Strassman, used two hours and one minute longer to reach Horta than Amelia Earhart Putnam took to cover approximately twice the distance in reaching Culmore, Northern Ireland.

The two airships, Mrs. Putnam's trim, crimson gold striped monoplane and the huge German built airliner had left ten hours and nine minutes apart from points in Newfoundland 24 miles removed. The DO-X lifted itself from the waters off Holyrood at 3 a. m., while Mrs. Putnam had roared away from the airport at Harbor Grace at 4:51 p. m., last night.

Seven thousand gallons of gasoline swished against the sides of the vast fuel reservoir of the DO-X as it took off and it burned on its flight more gallons each hour than the 420 gallons that were in Mrs. Putnam's tanks when she took off.

If Fraulein Strassman continues with the DO-X to Europe, she will become the second woman ever to cross the Atlantic by plane.

GANGSTER HAD KNOWLEDGE OF LOCATION BABY

Infomation Given Criminal Identification Expert

SAYS 'HOP HEAD' REAL KIDNAPER BABY LINDY

Declares Some New Jersey "Big Shots" Knew All About It

HOPEWELL, N. J., May 21. (US) The "known gangster," sought by police as having told an inside story of the Lindbergh baby's murder two days before the child's body was actually found, was definitely identified today as a New Jersey rumrunner.

Startling details of a statement made by the gangster to a Baltimore criminal identification expert who has known him for several years redoubled efforts to locate the man and bring him in for questioning.

While the gangster's name was being carefully withheld by both New Jersey and Baltimore authorities, the strangely prophetic statement made by him to Arthur Mills, identification expert at the Maryland house of correction, was revealed as follows:

Gangster's Statement

"The baby will be found within five miles of the Lindbergh home. It was kidnaped and killed with no intention of saving its life. And there are some New Jersey 'big shots' who know all about it.

"The kid was killed with blows over the head and the kidnaping itself was done by a 'hop-head' (drug addict)."

In his complete account to the New Jersey police today of the amazing statement made by the New Jersey gangster to him in

CAPTAIN BOYD PLANS FLIGHT

Time Depends on Progress Of Plane Repairs

WILMINGTON, Del., May 21. (AP)—Capt. J. Erroll Boyd, transatlantic flier, announced here today he is planning a solo-round-the-world flight in his airplane Columbia in connection with his proposed flight to Rome, Italy.

Captain Boyd, who with Lieut. Harry P. Connor, flew from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, to the Scilly islands in October, 1930, in the Columbia, is supervising reconditioning of the plane at Bellanca field at Newcastle.

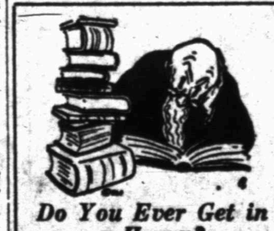

The aviator said he hoped to reach Rome by May 30 before the close of the meeting of transatlantic fliers there. The time of the takeoff will depend on the progress of the work of preparing the plane.

DEMOCRATS OF NEVADA WANT DRY LAW REPEAL

LAS VEGAS, Nev., May 21. (US)—Repeal of all prohibition laws was advocated here today in resolutions adopted at the state convention of Nevada Democrats.

CONGRESS ABANDONS PROPOSAL TO ADJOURN BEFORE CONVENTIONS

Baering Down on News With 'Baer'

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER
Can we borrow federal reserve?

It must amaze the good old congested public to learn that the federal reserve has more money than it can get rid of.

It's there for the asking if you can borrow it. But like the sign over the postoffice building, if you want the wealth of the Indies you must take the wealth of the Indies with you.

In other words, you must have collateral and three good witnesses. Also you must have a sound business. Which is asking a little too much right now.

They're not taking any chances of sending cabbage leaves by a rabbit. The first thing they do is to look at your hands to discover traces of red ink on your pen finger.

Of course, most of us would like to borrow a little money from the government on the American plan and pay it back in the European manner.

It would be a hundred per cent profit for us.

WASHINGTON, May 21. (US)—Dog tired after a week of day and night sessions, the senate worked only two hours today on the tax bill. Night sessions will be held again next week.

Senator Brookhart, Iowa progressive, consumed most of the time in denouncing congress' failure to provide adequate relief for the farmers.

With the senate locked in a fierce battle over tariff items in the bill, leaders virtually abandoned hope of adjournment and prepared to remain at their work throughout the political conventions starting at Chicago June 14. The tentative adjournment date was shoved back to June 30, at the earliest, by which time it is hoped to complete tax, economy, appropriation and public works relief bills.

The new fiscal year starts July 1 and the money bills must be completed before then if the budget is to be balanced.

Plan New Beer Vote

The groundwork for another effort to modify the Volstead act through a tax on 2.75 per cent beer by weight was laid today. Senator Bingham, Republican of Connecticut introduced a beer amendment which would cut automobile taxes in half, exempt checks below $5 from the two-cent tax and eliminate excise taxes on radios, admissions, telephone and telegraph messages and the increased first and second class postal rates.

Flushed with victory in putting oil and coal tariffs into the bill, protectionists were confident today of adopting lumber and copper tariffs next week. To forestall attempts by anti-tariff senators to open the bill to wholesale tariff revisions, they will endeavor to end the fight by sending the proposed new amendments to a pigeonhole in the finance committee.

Opponents of tariffs served notice, however, that no such parliamentary maneuver will succeed.

J. L. STORY RITES WILL BE HELD IN AMARILLO MONDAY

Funeral services for John L. Story, former Wichita Falls photographer who died in Amarillo at 11 o'clock Saturday morning as a result of an accident in which he lost both legs, will be held at an Amarillo funeral home at 2:30 o'clock Monday afternoon.

The Rev. Ira S. Key, pastor of the Polk Street Methodist church in Amarillo, will officiate, and burial will be in the Amarillo Memorial park cemetery.

Mr. Story lost both legs when he fell beneath a passenger train at Amarillo Thursday night. He planned to go to Dallas on business, friends indicated, and attempted to board the moving train as it left the station. Two blood transfusions failed.

Members of his immediate family were at his bedside when death came.

Mr. Story, long a photographer of note in Wichita Falls, transferred his business activities to Amarillo three years ago. He resided at 2101 Washington in Amarillo. He was born in Missouri.

Survivors are the widow; three sons, Harold and Jack Story of Wichita Falls and Bobbie Story of Amarillo; two daughters, Mrs. Philip Wright and Miss Nettie Story of Amarillo; and his father in St. Martin, Mo.

His daughter-in-law, Mrs. Harold Story, will go to Amarillo Monday.

KELLEY MAY RESIGN AS PROSECUTOR IN HAWAII DENY RUMORS FRICTION

HONOLULU, May 21. (AP)—Rumors of friction, quickly denied, among law enforcement officers of the territory over the prosecution of four men accused of criminally attacking Mrs. Thalia Massie, wife of a naval lieutenant, were accompanied today by hints that Public Prosecutor John C. Kelley might resign. A jury disagreed at the first trial.

Kelley, who insisted on another trial even though Mrs. Massie has left the islands, has said he will retry the case if he remains prosecutor. He has displayed annoyance at the action of Gov. Lawrence M. Judd, who commuted to one hour the sentences of Lieut. Thomas H. Massie and three others convicted of slaying Joseph Kahahawai, one of Mrs. Massie's alleged attackers.

Missing Amherst College Student Located in Texas

AMARILLO, Texas, May 21. (AP)—Sought since March 5 when he disappeared from college at Amherst, Mass., John S. Wright, 17, Santa Barbara, Calif., has been apprehended here.

Lieutenant Avery of the Massachusetts state police told Amarillo officers the missing student had been trailed through Florida to Louisville, Ky., and Little Rock, Ark.

There was no charge against Wright, who left with the Massachusetts officer for California.

Avery trailed Wright from Amherst, where the student had torn identification marks from his clothing, paid all his bills with a check sent by his father from California, and left without announcing his destination.

As John S. Warner, the student hitch-hiked and rode freight trains across the country. At Little Rock, he wrote to the postmaster at Louisville to forward his mail to Amarillo. Avery arrived here first.

"I just wanted to get away," Wright said.

STATE SENATOR FACES IMPEACHMENT RESULT CONSPIRACY CONVICTION

CHICAGO, May 21. (US)—Impeachment loomed today for State Senator Daniel A. Sarritella as a result of his recent conviction in a shortweight conspiracy which was estimated to have cost the Chicago public $54,000,000.

Sarritella, who was city sealer in the former municipal administration, and Harry Hochstein, his chief deputy at the time, were accused of accepting gifts from merchants in return for which they refrained from prosecutions for short weights and short measures. Each was sentenced to a year in jail and fined $2,000.

Members of the state senate, it was said today, were preparing to take steps looking toward the impeachment of Sarritella when next the upper house is in session.

MAN DEAD RESULT OF DISPUTE DURING GAME

STILLWELL, Okla., May 21. (AP)—A dispute over four cents in a penny ante game resulted in the death of Wilson Watt, 47, a Cherokee Indian, yesterday at Christie, 18 miles from Stillwell. Watts' throat was cut with a pocket knife.

Elmer Welcher, 39, of Oklahoma City was held in the Adair county jail here charged with first degree murder in connection with the slaying. Two eye-witnesses to the quarrel told Sheriff Bob Parker that Welcher slashed the Indian with a knife. Welcher, found hiding in the brush four miles from the scene of the killing, was arrested two hours after Watt died.

OFFICERS ATTEMPT TO SOLVE MYSTERY OF AUSTIN DEATH

AUSTIN, May 21. (INS)—While curious neighbors poked in the smouldering ashes of the lonely farm home which served as a funeral pyre for Mrs. Elliott, 66, officers tonight sought to clarify circumstances surrounding the death of the woman, shot through the head before her body was burned.

The flaming house was discovered early this morning. It was impossible to enter through the flames and it was not until the fire had subsided that the body, limbs burned away, was found on the blackened springs of her bed, a pistol nearby. The woman lived alone.

The justice who held an inquest at first returned a verdict of murder by persons unknown. This inquest verdict, however, was left open, as Sheriff Coley White held another theory. Sheriff White pointed out bloodhounds failed to uncover any trail. Neighbors saw the house burning before they heard shots, and no one was seen leave the burning structure.

STATE CHAIRMANSHIP OF PARTY AND PROHIBITION ARE FEATURES 'YOUNG DEMOCRATS' PLAN FIGHT

HOUSTON, May 21. (INS)—High hopes were tempered with grave responsibilities as Texas Democrats gathered here tonight on the eve of what well may be the state's most important Democratic convention in many years.

The hopes and responsibilities centered around the name of John N. Garner, citizen of the Southwest, whose name Texans will carry to Chicago as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for president.

Garner leaders were anxious that nothing develop to disturb the harmony of the convention. Most feared, at this time, was a snarl over the question of prohibition, something the state has not witnessed since Texas went dry.

Because Garner's endorsement was virtually a foregone conclusion, preconvention talk centered around the "liberal," uprising, which includes the rise in power of a group self-styled the "young Democrats."

Several of the largest cities in Texas have instructed their county delegations on a liberal, if not downright wet, platform. These include Houston, Dallas and San Antonio, the three largest in the state; Galveston, El Paso, Austin and a number of others.

The young Democrats seek also the election of former State Senator A. J. Wirtz as national committeeman to succeed Jed C. Adams, veteran Democratic committeeman for Texas.

LOS ANGELES, May 21. (AP)—William Gibbs McAdoo, former secretary of the treasury, today was elected chairman of the California delegation to the Democratic national convention, and pledged to support John N. Garner of Texas for president. The delegates organized in a meeting here.

Another purely Texas problem of first importance is what to do about the supreme court ruling which nullified the state law which made possible the "white man's primary."

Race for Congress

Also to be brought very much to the fore is how Texas' three new congressmen at large are to be selected from a field of more than 30. The executive committee already has fixed places one, two and three on the ballot; but several candidates objected to this procedure, holding out for the privilege of running in a field with the high candidates placing.

The prohibition question also is intermixed in that at least one of the contesting candidates for congress—Mrs. Ida M. Darden—believes her platform for repeal of the 18th amendment would have a wider appeal with the open field.

Caucuses were scheduled for tomorrow, as the first convention preliminary. Monday, the state executive will meet, to draft a working plan for the convention. Tuesday will be held the convention proper.

Republican Convention

MINERAL WELLS, Texas, May 21. (AP)—Approximately 30 leaders of the Republican party in Texas were here today prior to the state convention next Tuesday expected to be attended by 1,200 delegates.

They included R. B. Creager of Brownsville, national committeeman for Texas, Henry Zweifel of Fort Worth, Eugene Nolte of Se-

CALIFORNIA YOUTHS HELD AT DALHART ON EXTORTION CHARGES

DALHART, Texas, May 21. (AP)—Two youths were held in jail here tonight in connection with an alleged extortion plot that involved two boys, one the son of District Attorney Ben Richards.

The boys, Truett Garner, 14, and Raymond Richards, 12, said they were accosted while playing in the City park and enticed to a vacant house where their alleged captors demanded $25. The ransom finally dwindled to $5 or a watch, and the Richards boy was released to obtain the money. Meanwhile, the Garner boy broke away from the would-be extortionists and fled to the Richards home. The youths, said to be from California, were arrested at a neighboring house.

Richards said kidnaping charges probably would not be sustained, but said he might file extortion charges.

COLON, C. Z., May 21. (US)—A severe earthquake shook the tiny republic of El Salvador today, taking a toll of at least ten dead, and rocking cities throughout Salvador and Nicaragua, according to radio advices received here.

Ten persons were killed and many injured in Zatecoluca, near San Vicente, when a building crumbled carrying to death its sleeping inhabitants. Many of the frail native dwellings have collapsed it was reported.

Sure, I turned around and shot him when I thought he was going to whip me," the boy told police.

Moody said he was trying to frighten some boys away from the repair shop.

Pennsylvania Oil Industry in Best Position for Number of Years Says Report to Petroleum Conference

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., May 21. (AP)—Improvement in the "statistical position" of the Pennsylvania oil industry in 1931 and an increase in consumption of Pennsylvania oil was reported today at the second Pennsylvania Petroleum and Natural Gas conference.

Ralph T. Zook, president of the Sloan & Zook Co., said in a paper read at the conference that statistics show the Pennsylvania industry is in the best position it has been in for a number of years.

"Consumption of Pennsylvania grade oil has been greatly increased, refinery runs, drilling and crude oil production are being regulated to meet market demands, lubricating stocks have been reduced and crude oil inventory is only sufficient to insure a healthy working arrangement," he said.

"Improvement in the oil industry to a great extent will be determined by an advance in general business conditions. The Pennsylvania industry is tied up with the oil products of other parts of the country in a single industry and in general must share the fortunes of that industry, but its excellent statistical position and regulation assures it a quick reflection of any improvement in either general business or the oil industry as a whole."

MRS. FERGUSON SPEAKS TO BIG WACO AUDIENCE

Opens Campaign for Nomination for Office Of Governor

HUSBAND AND FORMER GOVERNOR ALSO SPEAKS

Uses Manuscript to Have Record of What Was Said

WACO, Texas, May 21. (AP)—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, Texas' first woman governor, was cheered by a big Central Texas audience here today as she read pungent paragraphs from a prepared address formally opening her campaign for the gubernatorial chair.

She had memorized the greater part of her speech and gave it to a receptive crowd in a clear, ringing voice. Her husband, former Gov. James E. Ferguson, in a more extended discussion, for one of the few times, if not the first time, in his long, turbulent political career, read consistently from a manuscript as he enumenrated and commented on planks in the Ferguson platform.

Explaining his decision to read instead of talk extemporaneously as he usually does, he said it was desired to "have a record of what was said, because often when one enunciates initially a gubernatorial platform it is distorted and misrepresented."

Hubby Presides

Turner E. Hubby, state fish, game and oyster commissioner under one of the Ferguson administrations, presided at the meeting. There was a large delegation on the stage with the speakers, among them being former Lieut. Gov. Barry Miller of Dallas.

W. V. Dunnam, Waco lawyer, who introduced the Fergusons, brought a demonstration when he accused the administration of Gov. R. S. Sterling, who defeated Mrs. Ferguson in the run-off primary two years ago, of being dominated by Jacob F. Wolters of Houston and the big oil companies.

That was the only reference made to martial law administration of oil conservation measures in the East Texas field, except when Mrs. Ferguson said she believed the people would be better satisfied if she took the advice of her husband "than if I took the advice of a corporation general," and that she felt they would feel "safer with my Jim than you would with their Jake."

Four-Time Candidate

It was the fourth time Mrs. Ferguson had asked the voters for the governorship. She was elected in 1924, but was defeated for a second term in 1926 by Dan Moody, then attorney general. She was defeated the second time two years ago.

She became a candidate for the office initially when the name of her husband was barred from the ballots because of the Texas senate judgment of 1917 removing him from office and barring him from again holding places of trust and emolument in the state government. In addition to his gubernatorial activities Ferguson was a candidate for the United States senate once and an aspirant to the presidency of the United States under the banner of the American party organized by him.

PORTLAND, Ore., May 21. (US)—Former Senator Joseph I. France, of Maryland, today appeared to have won the Oregon Republican presidential primary over Herbert Hoover by a better than two to one margin.

Governor Roosevelt, of New York won a landslide vote over Governor Murray, of Oklahoma.

Those voting for Hoover found it necessary to write in his name. France alone appeared on the Republican ballot.

Deaths

Mrs. Mahalie Wilson

IOWA PARK, Texas, May 21.—Funeral services for Mrs. Mahalie Wilson, 37, who died at the General hospital in Wichita Falls Friday, will be held at the Church of Christ Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock; with the pastor, the Rev. Clarence B. Williams, officiating.

Mrs. Wilson is survived by her husband, John R. Wilson and six children of Iowa Park, and three brothers, Terry Carver of Wichita Falls, Lawson Carver of Mississippi, and Jack Carver of Tyler. Also two sisters, Miss Flora Carver of Nocona, and Mrs. J. W. White of Waco.

Local Deaths

Charlie Dean Putman

Funeral services for Charlie Dean Putman, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Putman of 1313 Third, who died at a hospital here Saturday morning, will be held at Sugden, Okla., at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The body was taken to Sugden by the Hines mortuary.

Survivers are the parents; a brother, George, 5; and the grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Putman of Waurika, Okla., and Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Reeves of Wichita Falls.

RESERVE OFFICER

Russell Oliver Fudge, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Holloway, 2300 Eighth street, has been commissioned a second lieutenant in the 90th division, United States army reserve corps, according to word received here. He has been attached to the second battalion, infantry replacement center.

Lieutenant Fudge, a graduate of the Wichita Falls Junior college, is a student in the school of journalism of the University of Missouri. He served for three years as a sergeant in the local infantry unit of the Texas national guard.

INJUNCTION STOPS LETTING CONTRACT WEATHERFORD ROAD

PALO PINTO, Texas, May 21. (AP)—A temporary injunction restraining the Texas Highway commission from letting contracts for the building of the proposed cutoff from the Bankhead highway at a point near Weatherford to a point about three miles south of Strawn was granted here today by District Judge Sam M. Russell of Stephenville. Hearing to determine if the writ shall be made permanent was set for June 6.

Mayor O. M. Hurst of Strawn headed the petitioners who sought the injunction. W. R. Ely, chairman of the highway commission, and other members of that body were named as defendants.

Filing of the suit is another step in a long fight led by Mineral Wells in opposing building the cutoff which would shorten the distance from Weatherford to Ranger, Eastland and other points in the section of the state.

Construction of the cutoff would be a breach of promise on the part of the state highway officials, the petition charges. When the Palo Pinto road district voted $1,000,000 in bonds for the building of the present Bankhead highway in that section state officials promised it would be the main east and west thoroughfare, the petitioners charge. Construction of the cutoff would lessen the importance of the present road, the plaintiffs claimed.

With The Burglars

Low bridge!

And crime in Wichita Falls is at the low ebb, non-existent and at a minimum.

Police reports Saturday night proved it. That is, nothing was listed on police record books. Of course, there were three house prowlings from over a month ago hidden away in the book while one that happened early in May finally "made the grade." It seems that authorities either preferred that the public be kept in the dark concerning the extent of local crime or that someone is playing "kittie" with someone else.

Of course, the drive against public transportation organizations, drunks, bootleggers and traffic ordinance violators continued. But that's to be expected.

After a bit of stalling on the part of someone or other, local police are "getting under way" concerning attempts at solution of the recent Continental State bank robbery at Petrolia.

For, after a long time, Detective Luke Hart and O. A. Roberson have been assigned to the investigation. Incidentally, as in everything else, police also save the best for the last. And if you shouldn't happen to easily understand such a statement, sooner or later Detectives Hart and Roberson are assigned to each difficult case that tasks the minds of the authorities.

Preliminary investigations Saturday night failed to unveil any startling disclosures, but it is known that the two officers had lengthy conferences with Miss Mary Frazier, blond cashier who was kidnaped by the two bandits who robbed the Petrolia bank, with a Burns detective, and with the owner of the car which the bandits had stolen two days prior to the robbery.

All in all, it is more than likely that somebody will wake up some nice, shiny May morning in Chief Dick Morris' jail house.

Two substantial Wichita Falls taxi companies had operating licenses revoked by City Court Judge Edgar Scurry Saturday morning. Violation of city taxi ordinances was said to be cause of the revoked licenses.

A 10-cent taxi driver will be tried before Judge Scurry Monday morning for operating without bond.

For outstanding activity during the past week, salutes are due the following members of the police department:

To Patrol Officers J. B. Fiennken and Frank Warfield for the arrest of the two negro women who recently hijacked a local barbecue stand proprietor.

To Detective Luke Hart and O. A. Roberson for recovery of quantities of stolen properties, for investigations, for general ability and for being in charge of the Petrolia case.

To Police Chief Dick Morris for assigning Detectives Hart and Roberson to the Petrolia case.

To all officers of the traffic department.

City police arrested for investigation an alleged hijacker Saturday morning in connection with the robbery of a local Gulf filling station several weeks ago.

A negro youth was arrested Saturday night by Officers Ernest Deaton and Jess Leverett when they found him stealing gasoline from a parked machine.

VALLEY VIEW WINS FIRST PRIZE FOR P.-T. A. PROGRAMS

IOWA PARK, May 21.—Valley View was awarded first place for the best program rendered here by rural P.-T. A. organizations of the county and was given the prize of $25. Clara took second place with an award of $15 and Pleasant Valley third with a $10 award.

The three winners were selected from a group of rural P.-T. A. organizations which have given a series of programs in Iowa Park the last six Saturday nights.

Awards were made at a program Saturday night when Iowa Park furnished the amusement. The program was made up of music by the Iowa Park Triangle band under the direction of Karl K. Goetze, tap dances, readings, and songs by pupils of Miss Catherine Sue Ralston; and group songs by the pupils of Miss Maurine McDonald. Pedro Lopez and his two children, Tommy and Eva also gave a group of Spanish songs.

LARGEST CLASS IN HISTORY FINISHES SCHOOL AT GRAHAM

GRAHAM, Texas, May 21.—After presenting diplomas to over 40 graduates of the Graham High school Friday night and stating a total of 60 pupils will graduate by the end of summer term, Judge S. A. Penix, chairman of the local school board, declared the graduating class of 1932 is the largest in the history of Graham.

The graduating exercises held Friday evening in the Memorial auditorium were conducted by the graduates. No speaker was selected to give an address. It is a custom here for the seniors to actually present a program showing some of their ability as speakers and musicians. Several short speeches were given and musical numbers were rendered. George Mayes spoke on "The Origin and History of Music," while Herman Choate gave a talk on "The Importance of Educational Democracy." Bert Simpson delivered an essay on "Man's Earliest Invention." Larue Hufhines read "Laying the Foundation." The valedictory address was given by Katherine Cook. Special musical numbers were rendered by Vera Mae Babb, James Melton, Douglas Marshall and Mary Glidewell. "Going Home" was rendered by a quartet composed of Mildred Walker, Pauline Jones, Christine McLain and Bernice Phillips. Supt. I. T. Gilmer presented 40 certificates to high school students who had a perfect attendance for the current year. During the presentation of diplomas special violin and piano music was played by Mrs. Francis Crenshaw. Miss Mary Elizabeth Smith and Miss Kathleen Criswell. Following is the class roll for the year: Vera Mae Babb, Myrtle Baker, Laura Bowman, Fay Bridges, Mary Bunger, Juanita Burdick, Katherine Cook, Wilma Davis, Burris Foster, Mary Glidewell, Dorothy Goldston, Jimmie Hodges, Mildred Hinson, La Rue Hufhines, Nadine Herrington, Pauline Jones, Louise Lisle, Merle Montgomery, Christine McClain, Mildred McNutt, Frances Morton, Bernice Phillips, Juanita Poteet, Juanita Prideaux, Verna Lee Purselley, Ila Riggins, Bert Simpson, Fredda Stewart, Leola Tackett, Lavern Taylor, Eloise Tiffin, Edith Timmons, Maribel Thigpen, Mildred Walker, Davie Della Wyly, Billie Baker, Graham Ball, Edward Barron, Dick Baynes, Rufus Bryant, Herman Choate, James Melton, Flint Gibbs, Boyce Goldston, J. BABY LIONESS GAINS ON HOSPITAL'S FARE

CHICAGO, May 21. (AP)—Ri-Ri, a baby lioness, is doing well at a west side hospital, where she was brought about ten weeks ago, suffering from parental neglect and malnutrition.

The animal was born in the private zoo of George F. Getz, Chicago millionaire sportsman, on his farm near Holland, Mich. Its mother paid little attention to Ri-Ri, so the animal was brought to the hospital. Its weight upon entry was but two pounds seven ounces. Now Ri-Ri weighs seven pounds.

"She's still on a straight milk diet," a member of the hospital staff said. "But she may take to meat soon. We'll probably keep her another month so we'll be sure she's getting a good start."

THREE RECORDS BY AMELIA EARHART

She was headed for Paris when she took off from Harbor Grace, but she encountered too much trouble to make it possible to go any farther—almost too much to get to Ireland.

"About four hours after leaving Newfoundland," she said, "I noticed flames from the exhaust, and became very uneasy. But it would have taken four hours to get back and I thought it safer to go ahead.

"My next trouble was a leak in the gasoline tank and all the time I was worried whether the fuel would last out the trip.

"To add to my troubles, I encountered heavy weather and the storm curtailed my speed.

Landed in Field

"I saw land at about the middle of Ireland—probably it was Galway—and then flew north. I next saw a railroad line and followed that to Londonderry, and I finally landed in the field.

"All I had to eat on the trip was some tomato juice. The only clothes I have with me are the flying suit on my back and the only money I have is 20 dollars that was handed to me as I was leaving. I haven't even a check to sign.

"I haven't slept since Friday morning but I don't feel the least bit fatigued."

Mrs. Putnam revealed that she almost met disaster when she landed.

Her plane came to rest within a few yards of the farmer's cottage and she, very tired and half blinded by the continuous strain on her eyes, did not see the house until the ship stopped.

Luck Held Out

"It would have been exasperating to crash into the cottage after safely landing," she said, "but my luck held out."

As her plane started its sudden swoop earthward the racket of its motor startled a plowman and his horses in a field nearby. The horses bolted and the plowman had a hard time getting them back at their business.

Late tonight Mrs. Putnam sent her apologies to the man, but they were not needed. He had learned that the plane which came on him like a bolt by the blue had crossed the Atlantic and was piloted by a woman—so everything was all right.

The arrival of the slim, blond 33-year-old airwoman was so unexpected that even the Londonderry police had a hard time finding her when they learned she had put their community in the all-time log of big aviation feats.

Sends Out Messages

Mr. Gallagher first took her to "The Elms," the home of Mrs. Francis McClure, a prominent Londonderry woman, and from there she sent out the messages that let the world know she was safe.

It was in Londonderry that she got her first taste of public acclaim. A great crowd gathered about her as she was starting back to have one more look at the plane that brought her across. Mayor McCorkell broke through the ring of well-wishers, shook her hand and exclaimed: "You've done an amazing thing!"

Mrs. McClure was much impressed by her unexpected guest.

"She didn't seem a bit perturbed or anxious," she said. "She didn't show any signs of strain or fatigue. She first had to wash and brush up and then she went back to her plane.

"Outwardly she was quite calm but really she was very excited at making the crossing. When every one began to rush up and congratulate her she took it all with a little smile."

Happily to Bed

When the round of felicitations was over, Mrs. Putnam hurried back to the Gallagher farm and went happily to bed. She left word to be called early, for she wanted to start her flight to England at dawn.

In addition to setting a speed record, the airwoman put herself in a special niche, for no one else ever flew from America to Europe and then went back and did it over again.

Her other crossing was in June, 1928. That time she was a passenger. Asked which trip she liked better, she said:

"There is no comparison. On this go I was flying low the whole time and had to rely on myself.

"I am afraid I am a bit deaf after the terrible roar of the engine in my ears all the time, but at any rate I have done it."

Mrs. Putnam said when she saw the Irish coast she felt a great relief.

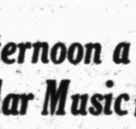

"I hardly know where I am yet," she said.

She was assured she was among friends, to which she replied:

"I am well aware of it. I have had plenty of evidence of the warmheartedness of the Irish people already during the brief time I have been on Irish soil."

DEMOCRATS PLAN CONVENTION FIGHT

guin, state chairman, and Orville Bullington of Wichita Falls.

Indications were the state executive committee meeting on Monday and the convention would be harmonious, without the bitter factionalism evident when the late Congressman Harry Wurzbach of San Antonio fought the regular organization.

Forty-nine delegates will be chosen to represent Texas at the Republican national convention in Chicago. It was a foregone conclusion they would be instructed to support President Hoover for another term. Texas Republicans were among the first to enlist under the Hoover banner four years ago.

Among those mentioned for temporary chairman were U. S. Goen of El Paso, Bullington, W. B. West of Brownsville and Zweifel, all prominent in Texas Republican circles for many years.

John W. Philp, assistant postmaster general, formerly of Dallas, will address the convention Tuesday.

GANGSTER TELLS OF BABY SLAYING

Maryland two days before the baby's body was found, Mills said:

"I ran across the man at a filling station near Ocean City, Md. I had known him when I was a state trooper. He reminded me of the fact and we chatted for quite a while before he came out with the statement about the Lindbergh case."

Notifies Authorities

Mills said he didn't think much about the statement until Thursday afternoon, two days later, when he read of the baby's body, killed by blows over the head, being found in a thicket four and one-half miles from the Lindbergh home.

Recalling the ganster's statement, he immediately sent word of the conversation to the New Jersey authorities and Colonel Schwazkopf ordered a far-flung search for the man who, meanwhile has dropped from sight in Maryland.

Colonel Schwarzkopf denied a report today that the man referred to is a Chinese rum-runner named Ming Ling, known to have been active along the Jersey shores.

There were persistent reports that Curtis may alter his confession and baffle the authorities anew by a statement that his "negotiations," involving names of two known Norfolk rum-runners, were not entirely a hoax.

Around Town

Sheriff Perry Browning returned Saturday night from a trip to Rusk, Texas, where he took an insane negro to the state hospital in that city.

Misses Pearl Goldstucker, Edna Berner and Sallie Mae Arwood are spending the week-end at the Baker hotel in Mineral Wells.

Sid Johnson, night county jailer, seriously wounded in a recent jail-break when slugged with an iron bar by a convict, was back at the courthouse Saturday. Mr. Johnson will not be strong enough to return to duty for several days.

James Rufus Jones returned Friday night from a short fishing trip to Lake Kemp.

District Attorney Sam B. Spence addressed the graduates of the Shamrock High school Friday night.

MANY TO ENTER AIR SLOGANS IN LOCAL CONTEST

Large crowds thronged the retail stores of Wichita Falls Saturday to obtain entry blanks for the "aviation week" slogan contest, reports Saturday evening indicated.

The contest blanks were first distributed at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning, while the contest closes at noon next Saturday.

"Aviation week," sponsored by the Wichita Falls Junior and Senior Chambers of Commerce, will be held May 29 to June 5, and will tend to promote use of passenger planes and the air mail by residents of Wichita Falls and the local trade area. C. E. McCutchen is general chairman in charge of the planned week.

Three prizes will be awarded to first place winners of the slogan contest—trip to Oklahoma City, trip to Dallas and trip over Wichita Falls. The slogans are to herald the week of "air" activity and will be judged on the basis of brevity, originality, effectiveness and neatness.

Members of Mr. McCutchen's aviation committee will meet at the chamber of commerce headquarters at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday morning to complete plans for "aviation week."

Sky Advertising Watched

Developments in Europe of advertising by projection of light or sound into the sky is being watched by Ulster, and it may bring the activity under public control "before any vested interests are established" there. In reply to a question on the subject the deputy leader of the house of parliament said the government was aware that the methods of advertising referred to had already engaged the attention of the imperial government, and that they were likely to form the subject of investigation by a select committee of the imperial house of commons. While there was, as yet, no indication that the new advertising methods were likely to be employed in northern Ireland in the near future, the government would keep the matter under notice.

LABOR BUREAU ASKS THAT FARMERS TELL OF WORKING NEEDS

Cooperation on the parts of Wichita county farmers who expect to employ farm hands during the summer months was requested Saturday by Harry Awker, manager of the federal employment bureau here.

"The bureau plans to help local farmers obtain competent labor for crop harvesting," Mr. Awker declared. "Already we have registered a number of men who desire work as farm workers, and it is our hope to register every man who wants that sort of work.

"Naturally, it will be impossible for bureau officials to arrange for meetings between farm owners and laborers unless the farmer advises us of his needs.

"We plan to enter into correspondence with every agriculturist who asks us to secure laborers for him in order that the farmer may know of the ones we have who are ready for work.

"Consequently, if each farmer will inform the bureau as to the labor he needs, we will be able to supply it for him on a minute's notice," the bureau manager stated.

The bureau, located at 1003 Scott, phone number 6323, will also supply laborers for the cotton fields.

SPORTSMAN KILLED AS BOAT PLUNGES OVER DEVIL'S RIVER DAM

DEL RIO, Texas, May 21. (AP)—Charles C. Busey, Crystal City sportsman, was killed last night when his motor boat plunged 50 feet over a dam in devil's river. He was 46 years old.

Busey was a former president of the Crystal City Chamber of Commerce.

The accident occurred while he was on a fishing trip with a party comprising Sam Schleicher, E. W. Hays, Jack Chinn and R. W. Millan, all of Crystal City. He was alone in the boat when it went over the dam.

A whale weighing 12,000 pounds floated into the harbor of Cuxhaven, Germany, and tied up ship traffic until it was removed.

VOUCHERS HAVING POTENTIAL VALUE OF $49,000 STOLEN

HOUSTON, May 21. (AP)—Forty-nine railroad vouchers having a potential total value of $49,000 were stolen from the railroad station safe at Prairie View, Texas, by thugs who knocked the safe knob, W. R. Ellis, superintendent of the Houston police identification bureau, reported today.

Ellis went to Prairie View seeking fingerprints that might have been left.

Half the vouchers, he said, were the property of the Southern Pacific Transit company and the other half belonged to the Texas and New Orleans agency.

"I believe the safe crackers were familiar with the nature of the vouchers and were seeking nothing else," said Ellis.

CHIROPRACTIC CLINIC TO BE HELD HERE MAY 25-27

A chiropractic clinic has been arranged for Wichita Falls on May 25, 26 and 27. This is the first of a series of such clinics to be conducted in Wichita Falls twice a year by special examiners of the Chiropractic clinics circuit.

These free, educational clinics, sponsored by the profession, are of a strictly educational nature. Latest methods and equipment will be furnished and demonstrated by the clinicians, including an X-ray laboratory.

All people desiring attention are being requested to make appointments through the office of Dr. P. L. Myers who is in charge of arrangements locally. The clinic will be held on May 25, 26 and 27 in the Staley building.

Dr. C. C. Phillips, who for several years was a professor of women's diseases and children's disorders and deformities in the Palmer Schol of Chiropractic, and Dr. F. A. Gorrie, of Davenport, Iowa, will be the examiners. Victor H. Will of Columbia, Mo., will have charge of arrangements.

He advised the class members to remain true to their visions, and told them that their accomplishments would be of just such material, and he suggested the following motto for their lives: "Duty then is the sublimest word in our language, do your duty in all things, you can not do more, you should never wish to do less."

A Candle-Time Reverie

The valedictorian of the class of 1932, of the Academy of Mary Immaculate, having finished writing her valedictory, is tired but feels so happy at the completion of her task that she decides to try on her new colonial frock before retiring. Having donned her finery, she sits down to read over her valedictory again. It is late and she falls fast asleep.

Soon she is dreaming. She sees the Spirit of Bygone Years with her enchanted rose step out from the curtain of the past. With one wave of her rose the spirit transports her to Old Virginia, to Belvoir, the ancient seat of the Fairfaxes. Soon her classmates steal in, and two lovely colonial maidens gracefully step out of the frames which have held them for many a decade. She dreams that she sawkes and is hostess with her sister to the class of 1932, in their class night program honoring George Washington.

Characters in the reverie bear names noted in colonial days.

SEARS, ROEBUCK CO. PAYS TRIBUTE TO MEMORY BRADLEY

If the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world, it may be said just as truly that the hand guiding the plow has built nations. Thoughtful people in all countries and in all periods of history have honored the farmer for his contribution to the welfare of mankind.

At a time when the condition of agriculture in the United States is receiving a great deal of anxious attention, there is something appropriate in honoring a man who invented the first steel plow that would "scour and shed the furrow." Farmers all over the nation are participating in the Sears, Roebuck & Co. celebration of the David Bradley centennial.

It was David Bradley who invented and manufactured the first successful plow of the type that has now become generally adopted. Prior to the first Bradley plow, manufactured in a little shop in Syracuse, N. Y., in 1832, there had not been much change or improvement in this implement for 18 centuries. Wooden moldboards and straight plow-shares that permitted the furrow to fall back into the trench behind the plow had been used from the dawn of history although they were unsatisfactory tools with which to break soil.

Bradley, who was born in Groton, Thompkins county, New York, came to Chicago (then Fort Dearborn) in 1835 on a contract to build a factory for William H. Stowe. He brought some of his first plows with him, and began to manufacture and improve them almost as soon as he came to Fort Dearborn. There were only about 2,000 people in the city then, including Indians, and Bradley used to peddle his plows from a wagon in which he drove across the prairies.

Not wholly content with the plow, Bradley left the manufacturing end of the business in 1842 and remained on his farm four years, experimenting in a practical way. He added certain refinements as a result of this experimentation and the David Bradley plows of today are conceded to be of scientifically correct construction.

The first real factory was known as the Furst-Bradley Manufacturing company and in 1854 it was turning out three plows a day. In 1884 the name was changed to the David Bradley Manufacturing company. The output had increased to 200 plows daily. In 1895 the factory was moved to Bradley near Kankakee, Ill.

The pioneer inventor and manufacturer died in 1899. J. Harley Bradley succeeded his father as president of the company and was at its head when the business was bought by Sears, Roebuck & Co. in 1910. Before their present large plant was built Sears occupied the old site of the Bradley factory at Fulton and Desplaines streets, Chicago and at one time they occupied space in the original factory building.

Under Sears ownership, the most complete line of farm implements put out by a single factory has been developed and the David Bradley trademark has come to be a symbol for uniform hardness, correct shape and durability. The David Bradley plows have won medals at the Philadelphia centennial in 1876, the World's fair in Chicago, 1893; the Pan-American exposition at Buffalo, N. Y., in 1901; Siena, Italy, in 1887 and Rosario de Santa Fe, Brazil, in 1903, etc.

Some very old Bradley plows are still in service. In 1922, E. M. Thorpe wrote from Wapella, Ill., ordering a new plowshare, but Sears could not find one to fit the type of plow he described. Investigation revealed that the Thorpe implement was purchased in 1867 and had been in continuous service for 55 years. Sears acquired the antique plow and it now reposes in the museum at Bradley.

In connection with the centennial celebration, in which the Wichita Falls Sears store is participating, the company will award cash prizes to the owners of Bradley farm implements which have been in service the longest, and who, in the opinion of the judges, write the most complete and interesting letters about them. The capital prize is $500 and the other prizes will be awarded as follows: Second prize, $100, third prize $50, fourth prize $25—while 25 prizes of $10 each will be given as honorable mention awards. The decision of the judges will be final. The letter should give the history of the implement entered in the competition, when it was bought and where, what kind of service it has given and where it was used.

WALSH FINDS HUNTER GAINS

Returns From Trip Northwest and West Texas

"The people are taking charge," Charles K. Walsh, attorney of this city and a staunch supporter of Tom F. Hunter for governor, announced today, following his return from a swing around Northwest and West Texas.

"Mr. Hunter was strong in this part of Texas a month ago, Mr. Walsh asserted, but my recent trips show that his popularity with the people is even far beyond our fondest hope. Not only is this true in the cities but in the country communities as well, for those who have the interest of good, economical government at heart are convinced that Mr. Hunter has the intestinal fortitude to carry on with the various constructive planks in his platform."

"If the election were to be held today, I predict that Mr. Hunter would carry West and Northwest Texas with an astounding majority over the entire field."

"I was surprised," Mr. Walsh stated, "that the consensus of opinion is that with Ross Sterling in the race Mr. Hunter's election is assured."

Clergyman Tells Of Locking Girl In Room at Night

LONDON, May 21. (UP)—The Rev. Harold F. Davidson today explained from the witness stand how he had tried to save a young girl and had locked her in a room to prevent her going out late at night.

The minister, rector of Stiffkey, is on church trial charged with conduct unbecoming a member of the cloth.

He spent several hours telling how he tried to save Barbara Harris, one of the young women with whom he was alleged to have had improper actions. He said he gave her the book "Damaged Goods" and explained:

"It's a warning to young people about the terrible effects of promiscuous intercourse."

He said one night Barbara "said she was going to walk home."

"I said it was absurd at that hour of the night," explaining he locked her in a room but was not in the room with her.

"Did she raise her fist and give you a black eye?" he was asked.

"Certainly not," the minister replied.

Finally with fists clenched, the Rev. Davidson said:

"The only bitter feeling I have about this case was the prosecution's broken promise not to bring in the question of my youngest child."

He read from a newspaper the opening statement of the prosecutor which contained Davidson's alleged denial of the parentage of the child. The rector was flushed. The audience seemed sympathetic and there were cries of "hear, hear."

BUILDING PERMITS FOR PAST WEEK TOTAL $125

Two building permits aggregating $125 were issued by the city engineer's office last week, bringing the total for the month to $1,782 and for the year to $509,385. The permits were for a $75 repair job on the business house owned by Charles H. Stahala at 207 Seventh street and a $50 repair job on the garage of R. H. Armstrong at 1911 Kemp boulevard.

HEAD ADVERTISING CLUBS AIDS DRIVE BETTER BUSINESS

ERLE RACEY

A progressive educational campaign, designed to re-establish the faith of the public in advertising, and to reinforce the various campaigns by governmental agencies and other civic organizations in their efforts to put hoarded money into circulation, is under way in Texas. Cooperating in the campaign are the tenth district, Advertising Federation of America, and its affiliated advertising clubs, located in the principal Texas cities; the newspapers in these and many other cities, who are donating the space for the advertisements; the outdoor advertising organizations, who are donating display panels, and other interested agencies.

The campaign is being directed by Erle M. Racey, governor of the 10th district, Advertising Federation of America, a member of the staff of Tracy-Locke-Dawson, Inc., Dallas advertising agency. The plan originated in Sale Lake City and the preparation of copy, mechanical production of the advertisements, and all other materials and services are being donated without cost.

Not only in the cities where affiliated advertising clubs are actively partiicipating have the newspapers offered their cooperation by contributing space, but in many of the smaller Texas communities where there are no organized advertising clubs, the newspapers have been so impressed with the first advertisements that they have requested the privilege of participating by publishing the entire series in their own cities.

The copy in the advertisements stresses the well known facts that advertising, by producing huge volume, lowers the cost of good merchandise to the customer; that advertising is a great teacher, familiarizing the public instantly with the new development in styles, materials, and better methods of performing common tasks; that advertising has placed America in the forefront of nations, by informing its people and creating markets for the products of America's industrial genius; and finally, each advertisement points out that money spent today will buy at least $1.40 worth of merchandise, as compared with peak prices of three years ago, whereas, money hoarded is worth only 75 cents on the dollar, due to the declining investment value of money under present day economic conditions.

The newspaper campaign already is under way in many Texas cities and towns, and this newspaper campaign is to be strengthened by the posting of 1,500 outdoor poster panels, bearing posters of three different designs—all carrying out the copy themes outlined above.

"Advertising is recognized as one of the most powerful forces for the direction of public opinion," said Governor Racey, in explaining the purposes and aims of the campaign. "And this is simply an organized effort to use it to best advantage in overcoming the hysterical situation which is causing thousands and thousands of dollars to be hoarded in Texas that might be put into useful circulation, to the betterment of its owners and business alike."

Bond Servants

Bond servants were the people who came into this country in colonial times and were sold into servitude upon reaching this country if they were not already bound to a definite master. They were free at the close of their term of service.

WOMAN QUESTIONED CONCERNING DEATH OF YOUNG STEPSON

MAYSVILLE, Mo., May 21. (AP)—A 7-year-old boy was hanged on a farm seven miles west of here and his stepmother, Mrs. Vergie West, was being questioned today by Dekalb county authorities.

The father, Otis A. West, said he found the body of his son, Edward West, hanging by a rope from a rafter of a garage at the home when he came in from work in the fields yesterday. He said beside the body was a chair on which was a nail keg.

The 31-year-old stepmother denied any knowledge of the boy's death. She was quoted by officers as saying the rope by which the boy was hanged was one used by her 2-year-old son, Junior, to lead his dog and that he frequently tied it about the neck of Edward and led him.

Chief of Detectives John T. Duncan of the St. Joseph police department said he had indisputable proof the boy did not hang himself.

POLICE COMMISSIONER AND NOT MAYOR WALKER WHO RECEIVED LETTER

NEW YORK, May 21. (AP)—Police Commissioner Edward P. Mulrooney today acknowledged that he, not Mayor James J. Walker, received the anonymous letter promising information on the Lindbergh baby murder which resulted in the public notice "citizen—guaranteed absolute confidence—Jimmy" appearing in the New York Times yesterday.

Mulrooney said he had inserted the notice in the newspaper as a result of the letter but had received no answer from his advertisement.

Informed that another public notice in this morning's Times read "approached—please call P. C.," he said he knew nothing about it.

The New York Evening Post said yesterday it had learned from a high authority that the letter had been received by Mayor James J. Walker.

COLORADO FLOOD CAUSES ALARM IN HOOVER DAM AREA

LAS VEGAS, Nev., May 21. (UP) Anxious residents today watched the brown flood of the Colorado river swirl by fearful that the rise would continue and impede operations at Hoover dam construction on Black canyon.

The weather threatened the supports of a trestle connecting the Arizona and Nevada banks of the river and forced discontinuance of use of the structure for carrying gravel.

Protected by strong dams, men continued to work in the diversion tunnels, far below the water levels.

Officials of the Six Companies, Inc., in charge of Hoover dam construction; said they expected no trouble unless the river rose an additional 10 feet.

THE SPUDDERS DEPART

Wichita Falls sees the Spudders lose their identity with profound regret, but with no hard feelings. If the offer made by Longview is as generous as reports indicate, the ownership of the club was compelled, as a business proposition, to accept it. Indeed, if the club had been owned in Wichita Falls, and such an offer had been made, we believe that acceptance of it would have been in order. It is an opportunity to turn a losing venture into at least an even break, and there can be no criticism of the club ownership for taking advantage of it.

This city has shown that, with conditions normal, it is a Class A baseball town. We have no doubt that Class A baseball will be restored to this city, in due time, and that Wichita Falls is entitled to say au revoir, but not farewell, to its franchise. That belief is based more upon our knowledge of Wichita Falls than on the assurance given by the club's owners.

DR. WILSON AND THE REFERENDUM

The fact that the general conference of his church has gone on record as opposing any referendum on prohibition does not deter Dr. Clarence True Wilson from taking the contrary view. He announces that he will not fight the movement to submit the question to the voters.

He is a better politician than most of his associates in the conference. He realises, in the first place, that no matter how many arguments against liquor may be cited, there is no valid argument against permitting the people to express themselves upon it. He understands, in the second place, that the wets are lacking in unity and cohesion, that they have no program of their own, and that the odds are decidedly in favor of a dry victory. The sooner the referendum is held, the more likely the drys are to win.

The drys who oppose a referendum are unwittingly playing into the wets' hands. Dr. Wilson is too good a politician to fall into any such error.

NEW YORK'S NOISE PROBLEM

New York City's commission on noise abatement, which was appointed in 1929, has concluded its work and gone into dissolution. The formal result of its three years of labor with the metropolitan noise problem is a lengthy ordinance aimed at the suppression or mitigation of 18 different kinds of noises. The commission found that there were about 10,000 different kinds of noises that assailed the tympana of New Yorkers, but decided that some improvement would result if just 18 of these could be eliminated. The most pestiferous noises, the ordinance indicates, are those due to unmuffled engines, to steel-tired vehicles, to unnecessary honking, to bells and horns used by hawkers, and to unrestrained radio receiving sets.

Our cities can be made less noisy if they are determined to obtain relief. European cities have shown that the unnecessary noise evil is one that can be regulated. It remains to be seen if this country has not already indulged noise-makers so far that it is now impossible to deal effectively with them. New York's efforts will be watched with interest. It is not only in the largest cities that noise is a problem.

THE MARYLAND METHOD

When Maryland Democrats held their state convention recently and indorsed the candidacy of Governor Ritchie for president, they seized the opportunity to tell what kind of governor he has been. The Ritchie candidacy is based on something more than adherence to Jeffersonian principles. His record as governor is one that would commend him, regardless of his political beliefs.

Among his achievements was a thorough-going reorganization of the state government, effecting drastic reductions in state expenditures; the installation of a budget system which really works; and a reduction of 30 per cent in the state tax rate. In a phrase, better government at less cost. Today the credit of the state of Maryland is better than that of any other state in the union.

Not long ago we were talking to a member of the Texas legislature who expects to be re-elected. We asked him what he thought would be done about the state's finances. His reply was a discussion of possible new sources of state revenue. He had nothing to say about the possibility of reducing state expenditures so that current revenues will suffice. His state of mind, we suspect, was typical of legislators generally. The average legislator doesn't want to think of reducing expenses; if the budget won't balance, the only answer he knows is to raise more money.

The experience of Maryland and a few other states shows that there is another way and a better way to make ends meet. The Texas legislature could reduce state expenditures to a point where existing revenues are ample if it would make up its mind to do so. State expenditures in Texas could be reduced by one-third without impairing any state service. It is to be hoped that taxpayers' organizations and other bodies will impress upon legislators and on legislative candidates the importance of cutting down the expenses to fit the revenues rather than of increasing revenues to fit the appropriations.

SHOW-OFF TIME IN THE VALLEY

Plans are being made for the annual tours of the irrigated valley, and it is to be hoped that there will be large participation in them. Wichita Falls understands the valley's needs and possibilities much better than it formerly did, but still not nearly well enough.

You can learn much on the annual tour, but you do not need to depend on it to improve your knowledge of the valley. You can, in an afternoon's drive, see much for yourself. The valley this year is raising a greater variety of products than ever before, in greater quantity than ever before. Those who seek a more intimate acquaintance with it than is possible to obtain on the scheduled tours can go out and look for themselves.

We commend that method particularly to those who have been made doubtful about the valley. Still more particularly to those who have been led to wonder if the irrigation water is suitable for crops. It is probably idle to argue with the individual who believes that the water contains elements which make it undesirable for irrigation. The best way to convince him of his error is to show him. It is surprising how many people who ought to know better have accepted that silly belief. It would be alarming if the valley could not furnish so convincing a contradiction of it.

It has gained circulation because, whenever there is a crop failure the tendency is to blame it on the water. The water is a convenient scapegoat. It is blamed for the troubles caused by root-rot, inadequate drainage, hot winds, poor seed, improper cultivation and the ignorance or laziness of the planter. Whatever goes wrong is blamed on the water.

The valley, we repeat, can furnish many convincing answers to the charge. It is worth the while of every one who contributes to the maintenance of the irrigation project—and that includes every taxpayer to go out and see some of the successful farms and some of the splendid crops that a brief trip will bring to his view.

Freedom and Responsibility

President of University of Wisconsin and Former Editor of the Century Magazine
(Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)
By GLENN FRANK

Deep down under the current discussions of political and economic solutions for our vexed and vexing depression problems is the age-old issue of freedom and responsibility.

We are accustomed to meeting this issue whenever freedom of speech is discussed.

There is a kind of advocate of free speech who seemingly declines to admit that freedom of speech involves any responsibility upon the part of the speaker.

The wiser man knows that, as long as men live together in organized society, a line will be, should be, and must be drawn somewhere with respect to the use of freedom.

The status of freedom in any given instance or period depends upon where the line is drawn.

Some one has said, remarking on the long established devotion of the Quakers to freedom, that nevertheless he, an ardent believer in freedom of thought and speech and action, would expect to be ejected from a Quaker meeting if he insisted upon cocking his muddy boots on top of the pew ahead of him and persisted in puffing away at a black and odorous cigar while the Quakers were awaiting the propulsions of the spirit.

And this ardent believer in freedom said he could not consider that an infringement of freedom.

We must always expect to have to exercise freedom consistent with the conservation of the best values of our time and society.

This applies particularly to our traditional American doctrine of individualism and laissez faire.

As I have said so many times in these articles, I abhor the thought of having to live under a regime of Communism, and should fight its advance with every power I possess, but it is not fighting Communism simply to shout a bit louder about laissez faire and individualism if the growing interdependence of our economic life makes these doctrines, extremely applied, dangerous where once they were productive of a great and glowing period in American development.

If we are to preserve the priceless values that lie at the heart of individualistic freedom we must recognize our responsibility for adjusting that freedom to the new demands of this new phase in our economic life.

The Graduates

To the graduates our blessings go,
Proud of diplomas that they win,
But it's tough to think that now they know
More than they'll ever know again.

As we understand the recent court decision about the Democratic primary, all God's chillun got votes.

And of course it would be improper to suggest that, with them voting, the results of primaries would be any worse than they so often have been.

Flat Tire Conversation

One of this colyum's valued customers comes forward with a request for a little service. We shall do our best to render the service asked. The customer wants to know what a woman should say to her husband while he is mending matters after a tire has become flat.

It is an interesting question and we shall deal with it to the best of our ability, with the aid of observation and experience. We had not previously given the subject any thought, and our approach to it may therefore seem somewhat circuitous, but we shall try to make our answer adequate.

In the first place, it cannot be taken for granted that it is in order for anything at all to be said. In matrimony, as in most of the affairs of life, there are times when silence is golden, and a flat tire may be one of the times. Another time is when a husband and father inadvertently emits an eight-cylinder cuss-word in the presence of the assembled off-spring. There should be silence at such a time, and lots of it.

In the second place, it depends on the state of affairs at the time the tire became flat. If an argument was in progress and the wife was getting the best of it, what she should say differs vastly from what would be in order if she was getting the worst of it. That makes it hard to lay down any definite rule.

The General Rule

We shall undertake, therefore, to lay down a general rule, subject to the objections that apply to all general rules. It is that the wife, if she says anything, should say the sort of things that will divert the husband's mind from his troublesome task and make him think about something else.

There are several ways of doing this. One is to make it plain that the flat tire is all his fault; to remind him that she has several times mentioned the possibility that the valve was defective; to call attention to the fact that she didn't want to come this way anyhow, and then point out that any one who drives helter-skelter like he does, never looking where he's going or paying any attention to the road should expect a flat tire now and then.

These remarks may be combined with something along the line of constructive criticism. Ask him if he is sure he knows what he is doing, and has he fixed the wheels so the car won't roll and oughtn't he to have driven a little farther to the side of the road? Such things may be helpful in both physical and mental sense.

Again, something of a consoling nature may be said. As for instance, that it isn't really his fault that he's a butter-fingered, bungle-some individual because he was created that way and must just make the best of it. Or the talk may be of a diverting nature, on wholly extraneous matters like prohibition and taxes and birth control and bridge and blond stenographers. A few well-rounded remarks on a subject like the League of Nations, for example, might serve to get his mind off the difficulties of his task. This method of entertaining him has endless possibilities.

Once again, she may use the incident as an object lesson to show the advisability of getting a new car before this one falls utterly to pieces.

Contingencies

If there are children along, their presence must be taken into consideration. A child that leans out of the window to watch papa and that permits an ice-cream cone to drip on papa's neck should be reprimanded. There are few men who can give tire-changing the thought it demands when melted ice cream is dribbling on their necks, and if the father should fail to reprove the child for so doing, the mother should take it on herself to administer the rebuke. Sometimes it will not be necessary.

One factor, of course, is what the husband says. It may be that he makes some remarks that serve to direct the conversation. One observation which can usually be counted upon to evoke other observations is that it would be much easier to jack the car up if the wife would rid it of her 180 some-odd pounds.

The general rule is one that applies with equal force to other situations in which there is tension. That is, the rule of silence. The woman who, when in doubt as to what to say, says nothing at all, is pursuing the wisest course. The only trouble with that rule is that there are so few times when a woman has such doubts.

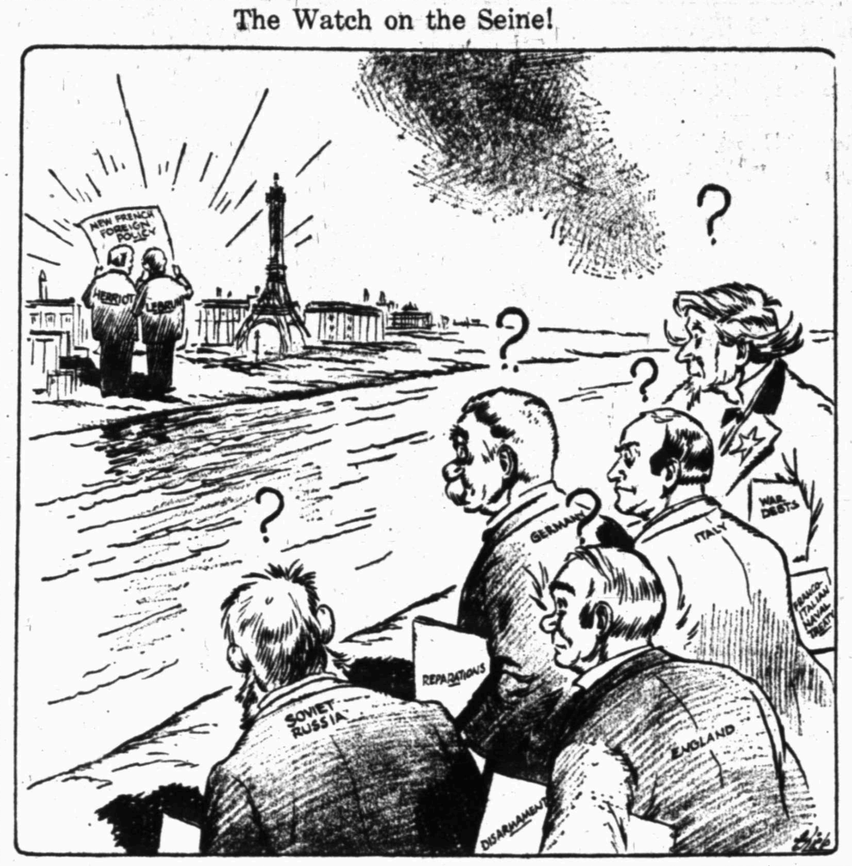

A collateral question is, where should the wife stay while the tire is being changed? The answer is, somewhere else. There is nothing that riles a tire-changer more than having his wife stand by and watch him at work, except to have her sit placidly and comfortably in the car. And there is nothing that peeves him more than for her to sit in the car, except for her to come and stand over him in a sort of supervisory attitude.

Some women have learned by experience that it is best to stay in the car. They have found that it is much more difficult, when they remain inside, for a husband to accurately aim a blow with the lugwrench.

The Spudders are to be known by some other name at Longview. There are several appropriate names for them. Cognizance might be taken of one of the best known examples of that section's fauna, by calling them the Mosquitoes. In view of the temporary nature of the transfer, they could properly be called the Transients. And if some of the reports about what Longview paid to get them are true, Suckers wouldn't be entirely out of order. And it remains to be seen if Derelicts wouldn't be a suitable designation.

There are no offers for our season baseball pass which we are willing to trade. It has become as worthless as a politician's promise.

WILL ROGERS

Maybe Mellon Will Pay British Debt

(Copyright 1931, McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

By WILL ROGERS

Well all I know is just what I read in the writing papers. Cant we beat the world getting all worked up over something as though the world coming to an end depended on it and then find its settled in some little easy way, and a week later we dont know we have ever been excited about it. That affair in Honolulu when we heard they were convicted why we all of us like to tore up the place. Then all there is to it is the Governor over there pardons them, and its all over.

Course every country has got its laws, and every one of em have a right to act them out according to the Dictates of their own views, but we dident think they got a square deal in the case, and we raised a howl. Now here is the catch in it. If this husband had come up on those men at the time and had killed not only one but all of them, why he would have come clear with medals on him, but because he waited awhile to shoot him, why that makes him a murderer. In other words I must shoot you quick if I am going to. Well it was terrible mess and its good its ended. There was several bad angles to it on both sides.

That old Darrow is a great old fellow. I have known and been friends with him for many years. I go to see him in Chicago. He is one of the most pleasant and entertaining men in America. You know for a real down right humanatarian, I doubt if he has his equal in our Country. Color, creed, man or beast, Darrow has a sympathetic interest in him. Lord in this time with every kind of Shyster lawyer that we have, he is a notable exception. Poor old Honolulu, I hope they get this lived down, for it really was not their fault. Course I am for em getting their independence and run the thing like they want to. Darn this thing of being somebody elses country and taking it over. No good ever comes of it. We claim its for protection sake that we hold it. Thats a lot of hooey. Its two thousand miles away. If any Nation can come two thousand miles across an ocean and then lick us, well we are good enough sports to say, "More power to you."

Those little Japs would be so seasick by the time they got here they couldent sight a gun anyhow. Turn em loose them and the Philippines and give Nicaragua back to the Nicks, then come home and take the country away from the Republicans and give it back to the Democrats where it belongs.

Say this political thing is getting more cockeyed every day. Here in California, it looked like Roosevelt was a cinch, then Garner comes in and beats him, and Al Smith who had had no press agent, or advance work done, why he runs right up there almost with both of em, and he was like the girl at the tacky party when they voted on the ugliest person and she won, and said, "Why I wasent even running."

You are going to find this guy They will always be voting for him. Smith has a very loyal following. I met young Roosevelts son out here the other day. He and his charming wife. He made some speeches for his Dad, and I wasent fortunate enough to hear any, but they tell me they were great. He has a lot of sincerity, plain wholesomeness, and good common sense. His little wife was very nice. They have a six weeks old baby. They talked more of the baby than they did of their mission out here. This Roosevelt is a very fine human man, sometimes I think he is too nice a fellow to be mixed up in all this politics.

We don't know yet as I pen these immovable words, what is the things we will pay taxes on. Congress guesses at one thing, and the Senate reaches in the hat and drags out some other objects to be taxed. Mr. Hoover throws the dice and they bring up some more different numbers. Ogden Mills the Treasury Secretarys weegee Board calls out some more names. Everybody is trying to get it over on the other fellow. They all want to put it on objects but they dont want to call it a Sales Tax. They only want it on what is sold.

The English sure have taken to Mr. Mellon. He is the Lion of the hour in London. They figure that he will cancel the debt. The "Pilgrims" Society give him a dinner. Thats a society that found the soleal going not so "Hot" in America and migrated from ham and eggs and coffee, to tea and marmalade. Well they dined him, and the Statue of Liberty that was made in ice melted during the festivities and run into everybodys lap. Well if he cancels the debt he better do it with his own money.

France is still dragging gold out of our Country by the millions and asking us to cancel the debts. And then they tell you a Frenchman has no humor. We are getting all excited out here over the Olympics, and hoping you will come out and see us. We got 55 Nations coming, war or no war. Of course depression will still be on us, but we will be used to it by then. It will be your only chance during your lifetime seeing one on in this country. Course you could go to Europe but you couldent tell what language they was running in.

Health and Diet Advice

SWIMMING FOR HEALTH

Swimming is one of the most healthful of exercises, and at the same time it is interesting and enjoyable. It is one of the best ways for adults to continue the joy of playing a healthful sport. Swimming seems an especially good exercise for women who should all learn to swim for beauty, for health and for pleasure.

Swimming tends to flatten the abdomen and tone up the abdominal organs. It is splendid for the arms, neck, shoulders and chest. The vigorous kicking used in some of the strokes will also have a normalizing effect on too heavy hips.

Swimming has been enjoyed from the earliest times, and we have records that show us there were swimming instructors who gave the ancient Egyptians swimming lessons in the waters of the Nile. There is an old Egyptian relief showing a man using an over-hand stroke, alternating the arms, so we can be reasonably sure that the "crawl" which is known as a modern stroke is really about three thousand years old.

Leander, one of the famous romantic swimmers in history is pictured in an African mosaic with his feet in a crawl position, and employing the over-hand stroke.

It is easy to teach the art of swimming, particularly if the child is plump and energetic. Even 1-year-old children can sometimes be taught to swim in the bathtub. This gives them a healthful exercise while taking their bath.

One of the interesting phases of this sport is that no one is ever too old to learn it. We have some notorious examples of swimmers over 60 years old who have taken up swimming, often in order to reduce, and have become very fine long distance swimmers.

Women are generally conceded to have the better structural form for swimming, due to the natural layer of fat distributed under a woman's skin all over her body, which gives her the distinctive feminine curves. She is more smoothly made than a man, and more like a seal, is able to slip gently and quickly through the water. Sometimes, however, a woman learns to swim so easily that she continues to use her favorite swimming strokes which become easy to her, and does not give her as much exercise as if many difficult strokes were tried.

It is of value to use all kinds of peculiar and difficult strokes in order to get the most exercise. It is sometimes a good plan to simply stand in the water about shoulder high and churn the water vigorously with your arms and hands, imitating movements which you might use in a gymnasium while exercising with chest weights. At least part of the time while you are swimming try to make the swimming as difficult as possible so as to get the proper amount to strengthen to get the proper amount of strenuous exercise which this sport af-

ANSWERS TO QUESTIONS

Nightmares

Question—P. L. Writes: "I have a brother who raves every night and jumps out of his sleep screaming that someone is going to kill him. I have taken him to several doctors, had his adenoids and tonsils removed, which the doctors told me was the cause. He is about 24 years old, his work is not hard, and he does not eat on going to bed. What should be done, as I am afraid he will be killed in a fall through the window?"

Answer—Your brother no doubt suffers from indigestion from eating the wrong kind of food or wrong combinations of food at his evening meal. It takes about six hours to digest a well-balanced meal, and, if he is making dietetic errors, he is liable to have the most trouble from five to 10 hours after eating dinner. Nightmares occur at from 1 to 2 o'clock in the morning, after the stomach has become exhausted through hours of battling with incompatible food mixtures.

Blood Transfusions

Question—Mr. C. McN. writes: "My son has twice given blood for blood transfusions, the doctors claiming it has a certain quality that makes it valuable for this use. Is this not bad for his health. He is 30 years old and has never seemed very robust."

Answer—If your son, lives on a properly balanced diet and gets plenty of exercise and rest, one or two transfusions a year would probably not be harmful to him, as the quantity of the blood of a healthy person increases rapidly.

Pretzels

Question—Fritz asks: "Do you consider pretzels fattening?"

Answer—Yes, pretzels must be considered fattening as they contain a large amount of starch, part of which is dextrinized in the baking.

FLASHES of LIFE

DETROIT.—A "whispering campaign" has been drowned out by the stern voice of the law. Hymie Cantor came into court to complain that his brother-in-law, Moe Diamond, talked about him all over the store, "and as if that wasn't enough," complained Hymie further, "he punched me once in the flimsies." The court would be enlightened. "In the lingerie department," explained Hymie. An injunction was ordered.

NEW YORK.—Marcus Daly III, grandson of the Montana copper king, will have to get along on $36,000 annually. His mother thought $42,781 was the least Marcus could do with, but his legal guardian said his ward ought to learn to save money. A surrogate fixed the amount. Marcus, who is 11, has an income of $96,500 a year from a trust fund left by his grandfather.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

By RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON.—Day by day, in every way, the pretense that there is any fundamental difference between funnier and funnier.

Ask a Democrat the difference and he will quote you the increase in unemployment and bank failures and the decreases in foreign trade, car loadings, commodity prices, federal revenue, stock prices and pig iron production during the Hoover administration.

Ask a Republican and he, beating his breast, will point to the glorious achievements of Herbert Hoover, explaining how, if any other man had been at the helm to steer the ship of state, the crash would have been complete and savage hordes of Bolsheviki would be overrunning the land, burning down steeples, tearing up street car tracks and uprooting all the other grand old American institutions.

Other "Differences"

In case you are so ungrateful as not to be satisfied with such explanations, you may, if you persist, extract further illumination.

Any Democrat, if pressed, will hark back to the days of Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton. Citing the records of those two statesmen, he will invoke the shade of Jefferson to demonstrate that the Democrats are the party of the people and will prove by the past performances of Mr. Hamilton that the Republicans are the party of special privilege and big corporations.

Any Republican will assert that the really fundamental cleavage between the parties is to be found in the fact that Abraham Lincoln split rails, served as president during the civil war, freed the slaves and died a martyr.

By way of invidious comparison, the Republican will recite the horrors of the depression that smote the country during the second administration of Grover Cleveland.

There is no point in asking for further elucidation because that is all you'll get.

Both Favor Prosperity!

In 1928 the important issue was the "prosperity" issue. But it was a partisan issue only to the extent that the Republicans said they could guarantee prosperity and the Democrats denied it.

The Republican candidate then said there would be a chicken in every pot and a car—or was it two cars?—in every garage. In 1932 the Democratic candidate will point derisively to the fact that there is not a chicken in every pot or a car in every garage or a garage behind every home.

You can hardly call prosperity an issue, because both parties are for it and the only argument is as to which party is the best qualified to nurse it with tender care.

Prohibition is an important issue, surely. But in 1928 the party platforms were as one about that and, although the Republican candidate was dry and the Democrat wet, 1932 finds more wet Republicans than wet Democrats in the two almost equally divided branches of congress.

And the politicians of each party are disagreeing among themselves as to how wet they dare be in their 1932 platforms.

Passage of "reconstruction" measures this session not only has failed to reveal a partisan division; it has found both parties scrambling to get the credit for the same measures. And in the hot senate fight over direct federal unemployment relief the leaders of both parties combined to defeat the La-Follette-Costigan bill while minorities of each party favored it.

BARWISE P.-T. A. HAS INTERESTING PROGRAM

Members of the Barwise P.-T. A. met Thursday afternoon at the school auditorium for the final session, when one of the most interesting programs of the year was given, using the theme of "Music and Art."

Miss Jennie Roberson, art supervisor in the city schools was the speaker, and gave an instructive talk on the effects of art on character building as it is applied from the beginners department through high school, and augmented her talk by displaying pieces of art work made by school children which showed both skill and talent.

The devotional was led by Mrs. R. A. Bailey, retiring president who also presided over the business session.

Miss Erma Nala Voss, music supervisor of city schools gave a beautiful piano solo.

An impressive ceremony installing the new officers was carried out when little Earl Eugene and Betty Lou Plunkett, preceded the officers down the corridor carrying the Texas flag, while the audience sang "Our Battle Hymns for Children," led by Mrs. T. B. Parnell with Miss Irma Nala Voss at the piano. They were met at the stage by Miss Adeena Kouri who in a most pleasing manner read to each the charge of responsibility of that office. Mrs. B. C. Blackburn is president; Mrs. D. W. McShan, vice president; Mrs. R. L. Hurst, secretary and I. R. Hanks, treasurer.

The Barwise Mother singers, in blue and gold costumes sang "The End of the Year."

In the business session, Mrs. I. A. Worley, treasurer, gave a complete and satisfactory financial report. Further plans were made for the picnic to be given the graduating class on Monday afternoon at Weeks park and the president thanked each teacher, officer, members for the fine spirit of cooperation that has made the year a most successful one.

Completing a course of six lessons in nutrition study, certificates were awarded Mrs. W. F. Collums, V. C. Plunkett, B. C. Blackburn, and to Mrs. R. A. Bailey for 18 lessons, the association is indebted to Miss Pearl Rorabaugh, nutritionist and the local Red Cross for these instructive courses which have proven both beneficial and enjoyable.

During the day a large number of patrons and friends of the school enjoyed the art exhibits arranged by the teachers and Miss Edith Hannah, art supervisor. Misses Ellen Coleman's and Adeena Kouri's rooms tied for the attendance prize.

The Junior Garden club chairman for the school, Mrs. R. A. Bailey reported that several flower beds were being completed by the children, the charter had been received, and would be appropriately framed. There was a large attendance at the meeting.

PEGGY PIEDMONT Says

"IT IS a grand year to get married." So reads a fashion article telling about the beautiful new fabrics now being used in wedding gowns for summer brides. Further description says, "June roses, the Mendelssohn wedding march, moonlight and everything romantic seems to have gone into their making."

Anyway whether it is a grand year in which to be married or not, Wichita Falls is producing her share of charming brides right now. First of recent date was that of Mary Jo Kell, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kell, whose marriage to Malcolm Putty took place about three weeks ago; and then there was Daisy Marie Wratten, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. V. E. Wratten who was married Sunday, May 15, to Harold Shelton, and Wednesday morning, Elizabeth Love, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert S. Love, became the bride of James S. Maxwell Jr. And for early June, another wedding of interest to numerous friends is that of Harriet Bradley, only daughter of Mrs. John Bradley, whose marriage to Henry Truly is announced to take place on the sixth.

CONTESTS bring out many talented children, and in almost every family there is one "artistic" child, that is to say, if there are two or more children. I write this because the word "artistic" is more or less misused. The child who is less animated than his sisters or brothers, who is higher strung, more emotional, and who responds to more unusual treatment is generally dubbed artistic, or temperamental, because his parents have to call him something.

◇ ◇ ◇

SOMETIMES he, or she, really is artistic, a real dreamer who sees beauty and poetry in hidden things not noticed by the grosser eye. And if this is the case, encouragement, kindliness, understanding and forbearance are necessary to bring out the lovelines of this hot-house plant. Chiefly understanding, I think, because such a nature often does not understand itself. The next thing necessary on the part of the parents, according to a noted writer, is alertness as to any talent or genius he may possess, latent though it me, and to reach through that interest. Most artistic people are misfits in this roughshod world and they have a pretty tough time of it in childhood. The wonder is that we have as much mature talent in the arts as exists, because such children as a rule succeed in spite of their early handling and not because of it.

◇ ◇ ◇

AND now as schools all over the country are about to close for the summer, and graduates are having their last "fling" before final separation from their classmates, several children of more than passing talent, have come before our eyes. One heard from this weekend, in the literary world is Lois Baber, daughter of W. A. Baber of this city, who is a junior at West Texas State Teachers college at Canyon. Lois and her family are happy over the honor she has received in being awarded the prize in the serious short story group in the state scholastic contest held at Austin. The name of Miss Baber's offering was "The Outcast."

◇ ◇ ◇

THEN there is Dorothy McGown, 13-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McGown, who at this tender age is showing marked talent, as an artist and portrait painter, even being referred to as a genius, and Emmy Jean Thomas, daughter of J. A. Thomas, who was one among 100 artists in high schools and junior high schools all over the United States, to receive scholastic honors out of 10,000 entrants. Dorothy is a student at the Crockett school, and Emmy Jean, of Reagan Junior high.

◇ ◇ ◇

AND while we are on this art subject, I am reminded of a show window in a downtown store, where there is an exhibit made by a boys' art class of the Reagan Junior High school, showing sail boats of various types beginning with those used by the early Egyptians, and showing the varied designs up to the most modern. The display is attracting a wide attention, and unusual talent and training is shown in this collection.

◇ ◇ ◇

SPEAKING of "artistic" children, one well known writer gives a little advice in their treatment, and says never let him hear you say that he is "temperamental," or "nervous" or "sensitive" or "artistic." He will trade on it. That is only human nature.

SIX women have made good in the current mural exhibition in the Musuem of Art, New York, in the first large exhibition of murals by American artists and photographers ever held in this country, according to Julia Blanshard, NEA Service writer. They are Georgia O'Koeffe, Berenice Abbott, Joella Levy, Stella

Nutrition Work Annual Report Proves Service

A summary of the annual report of the nutrition service, local Red Cross, describes the program for the past year which, according to Mrs. Harry ten Brink, chairman of the service, has been intensive and wide in scope. The schools, many homes, and many organizations have been able to have the services of the program.

A total of 3,059 persons have been reached through home visits, institutional calls, consultations in homes and at the office and through talks before large groups. Classes for adults and school children have numbered 180. The 16 elementary schools of the city including the white, Mexican and colored public schools, the primary children attending Academy of Mary Immaculate, and the Mexican school under the direction of the academy received supervision from the nutritionist. This enabled 5,550 children to receive training in the simple principles of nutrition and gave opportunity for over a hundred adults to become members of study groups. Special certificates were received by adults attending six of the study programs.

Nutrition service was available for the preschool clinics and health conferences. Two clinics were held at Iowa Park for preschool groups with assistance from the service. There were 15 preschool clinics and four school health conferences in Wichita Falls. The school conferences are a part of a special study to determine the relation of diet and physical condition.

Thirty teachers' meetings were held to explain the outlines worked out for use in teaching nutrition in the elementary schools. Four major projects in addition to the teaching were included in the school program.

These were a diet demonstration with white rats, the promotion of the "A" lunch plan which gives the child certain standards for food selection, a series of radio talks through which each school had opportunity for representation, and weighing the Mexican children. Two schools were given garden seeds for school gardens.

Monthly assemblies were conducted for the students at Draughon's Commercial college offering them nutrition discussions as well as special lectures.

Negro health week received much help from the service.

Diets for 15 types of abnormal conditions were asked for with an average of more than one a day. Competent medical care was advised in the majority of cases.

Over 1,200 pieces of sound literature were distributed to adults in the city and county. Fifty bulletins on diet, nutrition programs, lunches and other service activities were distributed in the form of mimeographed material.

There were 115 special articles prepared for the papers including seven for May day, eight for Negro Health week, 15 for general Red Cross activities and 72 on special health and nutrition subjects.

"The nutrition program is essentially an educational program," commented Mrs. Ten Brink. "We feel that we have been able to disseminate the work in such a way that much practical good has been done in the community. We believe that we are doing our share in remedying the condition found by the recent Child Welfare conference, that of overcoming the undernourished six or seven per cent of every 100 children, as revealed by the findings presented by that group. We know that in the beginning of the service in September, 1925, 33 per cent of the children attending public schools in this city were outside the normal weight range. Last fall we had but 15. Weight has its bearing on the physical condition of the child."

The number of mental patients requiring institutional care is increasing at the rate of 200 a year in the province of Ontario, Canada.

"ALL six women exhibiting show themselves to be thoroughly moderns, sensitive to contemporary modes of living. Georgia O'Keeffe, famous for her exotic flower paintings, has a striking mural called 'Manhattan' on display. It is an impressionist skyscraper design, in black and white, with two or three of her pet stylistic roses in the picture. Radio furnished the inspiration for Jane Berlandina's mural. It is a three-panel sketch entitled 'Radio' Music, Radio Publicity and Radio News.' There are crowds of fascinated listeners in the foreground with the spirit of the radio represented in various aspects as dominant figures in the picture. All the photo-murals by the four women photographers depict the American scene.

◇ ◇ ◇

"BERENICE ABBOTT takes 'New York' for her title and compiles a modern scene of combining and mounting sections of different photographs to form one whole. You seem to be looking at a city's turmoil of activity through bolted girders of a huge building, so cleverly has she cut the white sky from behind the huge girders of skyscrapers and inserted, instead, scenes of New York life.

◇ ◇ ◇

"MRS. SIMON is the woman who made the experimental cinema film, 'Ballet and Hands,' some time ago, and won tremendous acclaim. Her mural in the exhibition is a decorative, abstract, composition with the title, 'Landscape and Cityscape.' In it you can see whatever the city and country means to you. Mrs. Levy and Mrs. Little have cooperated in their mural which they simply call 'News.' It has the same 'montage' technique that Berenice Abbott uses, piling picture on picture and cutting out—combining only what is wanted for a stunning effect. Its material consists of spot news pictures used in rotogravure section."

WITH this last little bit of news about women, "American passport statistics show that more housewives take trips abroad than women of any other occupation and that travel writers foot the list," and vacation time staring me in the face, I believe that I had rather be a housewife right now than to be either a writer or an artist, but guess for the present I will just sign myself—

Miss Corridon Is Presented in Classic Reading

With members of the senior class of the Academy of Mary Immaculate acting as hostesses, Miss Nelda Corridon of Iowa Park, who finished school with a reader's diploma at the academy, was presented in a reading of Tennyson's, "Enoch Arden," Friday evening. She was assisted by Miss Alice Philo, a violin student in the school. Miss Philo played Dvorak's "Going Home" in an artistic manner, and "The Gypsy," by Gabriel-Marie. She was accompanied at the piano by Miss Eris Ward, a talented artist.

Miss Corridon held the tense interest of her audience through the long narrative poem, revealing a depth of feeling which reacted upon the assembly in a most complimentary way. Because of the narrative style of her offering, impersonations reflected in her voice the tone-color of the various moods of the author, sustaining the meter throughout.

The most dramatic moment of the poem was the scene at the window, when Enoch returns from his voyage and finds his wife married to his friend, Phillip. And Enoch's poignant grief, his renunciation and prayer, showed histrionic ability of the highest order.

There were many favorable comments on the young reader's talent, and her future in her chosen field of expression. Besides taking her reader's diploma, Miss Corridon represents her class as valedictorian.

Punch was served by the juniors of the academy.

She preceded her review with a sketch of the life of Pearl Buck, known as the mystery woman, and closed her discourse with the appropriate quotation, "Out of the land we come, and back to the land we go." An interesting discussion followed.

ACTIVE DRILLING CAMPAIGN CONTINUES IN WICHITA AREA

Chalk Hill Pool in Archer County And Graham Area in Young Centers Of Greatest Interest During Week

By JIMMIE MAXWELL

The extensive campaign of development which has been under way for the past two months in all pools of the Wichita Falls district, during last week failed to show any indication of abatement.

A total of 28 new locations was staked out, these being in the Young, Archer, Cooke, Wilbarger and Wichita pools. Several nice wells were brought in and the usual number of dry holes was completed.

With plenty of activity under way in the various pools, Archer county furnished the major portion of the week's features. In the Chalk hill pool the Deep Oil Development company and Lindsay interests added another nice well by the completion of No. 1 L. F. Wilson in lease A-5, block 75 A. T. N. C. L. survey.

This well, which topped the sand at 2238 feet penetrated it four feet, when it began flowing a steady stream of oil and was shut in.

This test, which is rated at 430 barrels in its present condition, is the means of extending the 2200-foot sand 3,000 feet to the northwest of production, its location being that distance from the discovery well.

The completion is the second extension that the field's producing area has received in the past month and as yet its productive possibilities remain undefined. Burns & Long have staked out a location 330 feet each way from the southeast corner of lot 1, block 75, A. T. N. C. L. survey, and will move in 660 feet west of the new well.

One-half mile south of the Lindsay Drilling company wells in block 119, L. F. Wilson land, the Falls Refining company No. 1 Wilson is being watched with the keenest interest and was expected to find the sand some time Saturday afternoon. The well, a wildcat, cored a sand at 2204-06 feet showing some oil. At 2206-10 a broken sand was encountered and was still coring with the expectation of picking up the Chalk hill pay at any time.

Drilling to 2200

Three miles north of Chalk hill, the Bridwell Oil company No. 1 Bridwell farm in the southwest part of the Aldredge survey, abstract 2, failed to make a well after testing a sand at 1456 feet and is drilling ahead to the 2200-foot pay.

Completion of a number of good wells by the Fain & McGaha company on its leases northeast of Holliday has been responsible for a renewal of activities in that section of the county. Last week five new locations were staked out on the different tracts surrounding this townsite. During the week the Fain & McGaha corporation finished its No. 1 E. R. Fain in block 25, Denton county school lands, making 300 barrels, and will drill in No. 2 Fain some time Monday. Both wells were completed in the 1783-foot sand.

While all parts of Young county are receiving the attention of the operators, the hottest spot just now is in section 3412, T. E. & L. survey, about seven miles northeast of the city of Graham. Of these deep tests the King Royalty and Bob Windfohr No. 1 Lowe in block 15 is the most important.

This test last week, after testing a small show of oil in the 2740-foot sand, continued drilling and at a depth of 3480 feet picked up a grey porous lime that when penetrated four feet began gassing heavily and spraying oil. The importance of this well is due to the fact of its being located about five miles northeast of the old Nash-Windfohr No. 1 McCloud well which became the sensation of North Texas by attaining a daily flow of 25,000 barrels from about the same depth and formation.

Casing Cemented

When the formation was encountered a string of 5 3-16 casing was run and cemented 1,000 feet. This will be drilled out Monday or Tuesday. One-half mile east of the Dewey Knox No. 1 Manning in the same section the "56" Oil company No. 1 W. P. Stephens missed the 2750-foot pay and is drilling at 2900 feet on its way to the 3840-foot pay found in the King Royalty-Windfohr test.

Twelve hundred feet east of the King-Windfohr, the Christie brothers No. B-1 Norred in block 15, is drilling out the plug from the 2700-foot sand and may make a nice producer.

Around Jean and Loving townsites, and on the leases of the Orth-Newcastle shallow field many spudder tests are drilling. A few small pumpers were brought in and several dry holes were reported.

Development in Cooke, Wichita and Jack counties showed a number of locations staked out and an increase in the amount of drilling over that of the previous week.

Pipe line runs from the nine pools of the Wichita Falls district for the week ended Saturday, May 21, registered a gain of 1008 barrels daily, as compared with the previous week's run. A total of 49,462 barrels per day was run as compared with the previous week's runs. A total of 49,462 barrels per day was run as compared with the preceding seven-day total of 47,950 barrels.

The four pools representing the North Texas division, Throckmorton, Jack, Haskell and South Young, averaged 5,556 barrels, remaining the same as in the previous week's run.

WEEKLY OIL REVIEW

TULSA, Okla., May 21. (UP)—Major developments came fast in the petroleum industry this week.

The senate passed an oil tariff; the United States supreme court upheld the right of Oklahoma to prorate production; Oklahoma's military rule of 3,000 wells was lifted after being in effect almost a year; the Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing company announced it will reduce materially its purchases in Kansas and to a slighter degree in Oklahoma.

Full effect of these developments could not be determined immediately, although officials of major companies remained optimistic.

The oil men based their optimism to a large degree on the ½-cent a gallon duty on crude oil passed by the senate along with levies on refined petroleum products.

The action of Lieut. Gov. Robert Burns in lifting Gov. William H. Murray's martial law declaration will have little effect on Oklahoma oil production, producers agreed. The state corporation commission has power to regulate production and punish violators, making military rule a formality.

The Stanolind company, purchasing subsidiary of Standard Oil of Indiana, will reduce its purchases immediately. A slackening demand by Standard's refineries is the reason for the move, according to Robert S. Ellison, Stanolind president.

Another plus sign was seen in the weekly report of the American Petroleum industry, which revealed further decreases in gasoline stocks and production of crude oil for the week ended May 14.

Gasoline stocks as of May 14 amounted to 44,789,000 barrels, compared with 45,621,000 barrels the week before. Daily average gross crude oil production during the week was 2,237,400 barrels, compared with 2,251,900 barrels the week before.

Rockefeller Institute Announces Discovery in Embryonic Skin Agent That Can Inhibit Cancerous Growth

NEW YORK, May 21. (AP)—Discovery in healthy embryonic skin of a substance that can inhibit cancerous growth is announced today from the Rockefeller institute.

The new agent may be part of the "mechanism" long sought by science which stops growth of a finger or arm at just the right size.

It is not thus far identified with the well known "growth hormone" secreted by the pituitary gland, and prescribed by physicians.

It is the second important clue found recently at the institute in a search for something that might control wild growth of cancer. Only its cancer effects are discussed in today's announcement, which is made by Dr. James B. Murphy and Dr. Ernest Sturm.

The first discovery was a growth inhibitor existing in chicken cancer. It retarded similar cancers in chickens. Then one time rather unexpectedly it was found also to inhibit mouse cancer.

This suggested the possibility of growth inhibitors in healthy flesh. Search for them was started in normal mice embryos. None was found in the embryo generally. But the skin and the placenta carried one.

These parts were dried to crumbling, soaked in water and the fluid drawn off. In this fluid was the inhibitor, thus far identified only by its effects. It retarded growth in about 60 per cent of the cases of a form of mouse cancer called carcinoma 63. It failed almost completely with another form named sarcoma 180.

"The principal value of the general observations," says the scientific report, "is the possible light thrown on the nature of the mechanism involved in malignancy."

SENATOR KING WOULD STOP GLOVER SALARY

WASHINGTON, May 21. (INS)—Angered by the speech of Assistant Postmaster General Glover urging Missouri postmasters to "go on the firing line for President Hoover," Senator King, Democrat of Utah, today offered an amendment to the post office appropriation bill lopping off Glover's salary for the next fiscal year, starting July 1.

He submitted another amendment to cut-off the salary of all postmasters engaged in political activities.

"I can not conceive of the post office department being used for political purposes, as it has been used recently," King said. "We should do all in our power to prevent the carrying out of a very plain intention to make it a partisan political vehicle."

After his speech Glover publicly explained he told his listeners to support Mr. Hoover's relief measures as their country's leader and not as a candidate for re-election.

Rogers, making his fourth appearance on this series, will, as usual, broadcast from Los Angeles. He will greet Miss Brice, who will be in Columbia's New York studios, and for six minutes discuss various topics of the day.

Miss Brice's participation in the program Sunday night marks her first broadcast in almost a year, during which time she toured with "Crazy Quilt." It also will be her final radio program before she sails for her newly-acquired chateau on the Riviera where she will remain for a lengthy vacation. The star will sing several numbers, including "Rose of Washington Square" which she introduced and popularized in the Follies.

For 14 years, ever since Ziegfeld recognized her talents in a burlesque show, "College Widows," and placed her in his Follies of 1909, Miss Brice has appeared under the producers banner. And, interestingly enough, during this time no written contract ever existed between Ziegfeld and his star—a record in the chronicles of Broadway.

ROMAN CATHOLIC AND PRESBYTERIAN TO GIVE RADIO SERMONS SUNDAY

Dr. T. Guthrie Speers of the Brown Memorial Presbyterian church of Baltimore, and the Rev. Father William H. Kane of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church, Youngstown, Ohio, will conduct the "Church of the Air" broadcasts Sunday, May 22, over the WABC-Columbia network.

Dr. Speers, speaking on "God's Venture of Faith," will be heard in the Sunday morning period from 8 to 8:30 a. m., eastern standard time. The Brown Memorial choir, composed of four soloists and 24 voices, will participate under the direction of John H. Elterman, organist and choirmaster.

Dr. Kane will speak during the afternoon broadcast from 12:30 to 1 p. m. central standard time, on the subject, "God and Man." The St. Patrick's Boys choir, under the direction of the sisters of St. Joseph and assisted by William Welsh, organist, will be heard in the same period.

BOSWELL SISTERS TO HAVE PROGRAM TIME

Ronald Colman and Fay Wray in a scene from "The Unholy Garden," featured at the Majestic theater for three days starting next Tuesday.

Carole Lombard, Chester Morris and Adrienne Ames as seen in the startling romance drama, "Sinners in the Sun," at the State Sunday for three days.

Greta Garbo, starring in "As You Desire Me," coming to the Majestic next Friday.

Wheeler-Woolsey Featured at Gem In 'Peach o' Reno'

If you thought "Caught Plastered" and "The Cuckoos" were good vehicles for the comedy favorites, Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, (and, of course, Dorothy Lee!) you should see "Peach-O-Reno," now showing at the Gem.

One excellent reason for the success of this picture is the superlative supporting cast, which contains such favorites as Joseph Cawthorn, Zelma O'Neal, Cora Witherspoon and Mitchell Harris of the stage fame, Sam Hardy, and Arthur Hoyt. All top-flight comedians, they have distinct characters unusual in comedies and every one of them is at his best.

As for the story, Tim Whelan, famous playwright, screen writer and humorist wrote it, and Ralph Spence, dean of the great old aggregation of silent movie title writers, wrote the adaptation and dialog. It is hard to say just who is responsible for the fine sense of comedy, the nice balance between burlesque and realism maintained; perhaps it's just ideal teamwork.

As the title suggests, "Peach-O-Reno" is a riotous take-off on life in Reno today. It mingles enough realism with its fun to give one a pretty good picture of America's one "wide-open town," and it covers the territory from railroad station to hotel, to lawyers' offices to courthouse, with plenty of night-life of divorcees, divorcers, about-to-be-divorcees and hangers-on.

Majestic Showing 'The Wet Parade' 'The Unholy Garden' Comes Tuesday State Offers 'Sinners in the Sun'

"The Wet Parade," motion picture extraordinary, now playing at the Majestic theater is the mightiest object lesson Wichita Falls has ever seen.

Contrary to popular belief, the picture is in no sense a knock at prohibition, neither is it a boost.

On the one side, we see an old southern colonel killed by his love for liquor. He literally drinks himself to death, and before he does so, he gambles away his entire fortune. On the same side, we see another lover of drink kill his faithful wife because she took from him and destroyed a gallon jug of alcohol shortly after prohibition went into effect. Still later after prohibition went into effect we see a promising young writer hopelessly blinded from drinking synthetic gin or some poisonous liquor.

Then there is the other side. Enraged by the tragic death of his mother and the sentencing of his father to prison for life for her murder, we see the son of the couple mentioned above enter the prohibition service. His revelations as a prohibition agent were sufficient to strike terror into the hearts of the most upstanding American citizenship the country has ever known.

The cast of this wonderful production includes Lewis Stone, Walter Huston, Neil Hamilton, Wallace Ford, Dorothy Jordan, Robert Young, Jimmy Durante, Myrna Loy and John Miljan.

To add to your enjoyment you will see "A Hunting We Will Go," a Talkertoon and Majestic news events.

"The Unholy Garden"

Recklessly adventurous rather than romantic, Ronald Colman comes to the Majestic next Tuesday in "The Unholy Garden."

For the first time in two years, Colman is no longer the suave polished English gentleman. Instead, he is an outcast and a renegade, hiding out with a dozen other refugees from the law in a strange outpost at the edge of the Sahara.

Estelle Taylor and Fay Wray have the principal feminine roles. Miss Taylor has the biggest part since her memorable appearance in "Cimarron." Miss Wray is the protected daughter of the embezzling recluse, hiding at the inn.

In addition you will see "Up on the Farm," a Vitaphone short subject; "Strange as It Seems," a novelty; "Wot a Night," a cartoon and Paramount news in sound.

"As You Desire Me"

The meteoric rise of Greta Garbo to success has not been abated by her latest starring vehicle "As You Desire Me" starting at the Majestic next Friday.

Garbo fans will no doubt remember her wonderful portrayals in "Mata Hari" and "Susan Lennox" and are assured a delightful evening of entertainment when her new picture is flashed on the screen at the Majestic.

Miss Garbo is ably supported by Eric Von Stroheim and Nils Asther.

Other showings will include the best in comedies and cartoons and Majestic news events.

"SINNERS IN THE SUN" AT STATE THEATER SUNDAY

She was young and beautiful. She loved the image in her mirror. And eyes . . . men's eyes, searched her face and then her figure. Why was she so lovely, born poor, when others her own age who walked down avenues of wealth were plain of face and trite of figure, yet rich? She was eager to sip life from a champagne goblet, and meant to do it too. She was willing to turn her back on honest marriage for a career with wealth and "fake" love.

Such is Carole Lombard in "Sinners in the Sun," a swift spectacular story of the problems and temptations of an attractive working girl, a girl who thought she could follow the dictates of her mind instead of her heart. And playing with her is Chester Morris, handsome young man of impelling dramatic talent. "Sinners in the Sun" will open a three-day engagement at the State Sunday.

The background of "Sinners in the Sun" pictures vividly the hectic gaiety of the restless rich, lavish parties, casual love affairs, exquisitely gowned women. And through it all is an undercurrent of soul stirring love . . . a flaming emotion that will not be subdued.

"Sob Sister"

Opening at the State Wednesday will be "Sob Sister" featuring James Dunn, co-star of "Bad Girl," and Linda Watkins. Dunn has rapidly stepped from featured player to star of "Sob Sister" in which he is seen as an "ace" newspaper reporter.

Rather than depicting the hustle and bustle of the press room, "Sob Sister" tells the more interesting and human story of the girl's own romance with a rival reporter, a romance which is cast under a shadow and almost on the rocks by business rivalry and antagonism.

The one-day attraction for Saturday of this week will be Buck Jones in "South of the Rio Grande."

Park Head Warns Home Owners to Care for Trees

A warning to Wichita Falls home owners that trees would need special care this summer was issued Saturday by Park Superintendent Charles C. Bunnenberg, with the following advice:

"On account of the mild winter we have just passed, this will be a severe summer on all trees in this section of the country. There will be a great loss of trees unless they are watched closely. We did not have a freeze that would destroy the eggs that were deposited on the trunks of trees by the borer beetle last fall. These have already hatched and are now working and doing great damage. Even some borers from last year survived this winter. It is necessary to destroy these pests and that can only be done by removing them. The park department is now working on all of its trees, removing the borers. There are a great many varieties of borers, but the two that destroy our trees are commonly called the buck-shot and hammerhead borer. One works directly into the heart of the trees while the other cuts the circulation by cutting the cambien layer directly under the bark. I would suggest to those not familiar with a borer condition to call in some one who is, and not allow any one other than a tree man to do this work.

Just Acquaintances

"I've lost my umbrella," said the fussy man.

"What kind of a handle did it have?"

AUSTIN.—As I stated last week, that since in our school life all activities are being brought to a close, and conclusions and summaries are being drawn on every hand, it naturally follows that certain summarized statements concerning university students can be made. It is my desire to give these summaries of the accomplishments, plans and interests of the students in my vicinity. Last week I mentioned several students, and this week and next I will complete my list.

Waggoner, Lilliard Jackson, LeRoy Wilson, Bill Fitzgerald, Darroll Dishong and William Hayes of Wichita Falls, Hardy Hall of Electra and Virginia Bell of Graham.

Members of the senior class and graduates who live in Scottish Rite dormitory were entertained with a garden party on the lawn of the dormitory on Thursday afternoon. Several hundred senior girls, faculty and friends of the guests called during the evening. Girls of S. R. D. assisted in the entertainment, and the serving. Among these girls were Mizelle Hodge, Betsy Lee, Helen Cline, Marjorie Vincent and Bertha Mae Krueger of Wichita Falls, Annie Margaret Glimer of Graham and Dorothy Bunkley of Stamford.

A total of 146 students are candidates for the degree of bachelor of business administration at the University of Texas in June and 19 are candidates for the degree of master of business administration. Omega Chi chapter of Delta Kappa Epsilon announces the pledging of Milton Eliot of Wichita Falls. Milton is a freshman in the university and ranked among the highest students scholastically.

Ten senior and graduate students, who are seeking jobs in advertising and publicity, were entertained at a luncheon given by the Austin Advertising club in the Pan-American room of the Driskill hotel Thursday at noon. Thursday was set aside as apprenticeship day by advertising clubs all over the state, in order that members of the profession could come into contact with students intending to enter that field. Macon Boddy of Henrietta was one of the guests of this affair.

The traditional senior swing-out was held on Friday afternoon on the front walk of the main building. At this time the out-going senior class passed the bluebonnet chain, symbolizing the ideals of the senior class, to the in-coming senior class, and the officers of each class gave the traditions to the officers of the class below them. Over half of the girls in school took part in this impressive ceremony.

Life-saving tests have been given to university students for the past two weeks, and many students received their badges. Miss Helen Lyles, of Stamford, was one of the many to pass these tests.

Approximately 125 awards in girl's athletics will be given out at the "T Night" banquet on Friday night. The awards are being given to girls, who are especially skilled, or who have achieved some goal in the University of Texas Sports association.

W. F. Gidley, dean of the College of Pharmacy, welcomed more than 1,000 members of the Texas Pharmaceutical association as they began their 53rd annual convention at the Driskill hotel on Monday night.

Students in the pharmacy school of the university have prepared their laboratories and model drug stores for the guests who wish to visit this part of the school. Many entertaining affairs have been planned for these convention delegates and I understand that quite a number of prominent pharmacists from North Texas are attending the convention.

Phi Lambda Upsilon, honorary chemical fraternity, entertained with its annual banquet on Saturday night at the Austin hotel. Decks of cards bearing the fraternity seal were given as favors to the guests. Among the people attending were Miss Elizabeth Beumler and E. W. Willis of Wichita Falls.

ELECTRA GOLFERS SET PACE FOR FIRST EIGHTEEN HOLES

THE LOOKOUT

BY AL PARKER

The long-awaited transfer of Pitcher Hal Wiltse to the once-upon-a-time Spudders finally has transpired, Prexy L. C. McEvoy having announced in Longview Friday that Wiltse was leaving Milwaukee immediately to join the newly-christened Cannibals. Whether Wiltse will be any help whatever to the Cannibals remains to be seen. At least, it is far from a certainty, for he hasn't pitched a ball for Milwaukee, and as the fisherman would say, that's a bad sign. It will be remembered the left-hander was forced out early last season because of arm troubles, rested practically all of last season and tried a comeback this spring with the Brewers. He was not used in exhibition games, despite avowals of Browns' chieftains that he had regained his old-time form. The American association race has been under way for five weeks and he hasn't pitched a ball for the Brewers.

We always have been a firm believer in the major role that psychology plays in baseball, and it may be the very thing to bring Wiltse's arm around. It was in the Texas league that the bouncing Harold won his greatest fame, and when he returns to Texas league wars he may be armed with the confidence he might have lacked with the Brewers. If Wiltse should stage a successful comeback this spring, the Texas sun will be given full credit for doing the job. It will be said the heat pulled the kinks out of his arm and re-made a dern good left-hander. If such is the turn of events, we'd prefer to give the credit entirely to psychology.

Whatever Wiltse's fate in his comeback campaign, we'll always remember him for the pitching performance we rate as the greatest we have ever witnessed in the Texas league. It was not a no-hit game, nor even a shutout. It was the 5 to 4 victory over Fort Worth in the playoff of 1930 that evened the series at two-all. Wiltse had turned in a great season for the Spudders, carrying about nine-tenths of the pitching load on his shoulders. Along about midseason he started suffering from arm pangs, and down through the stretch he was not nearly the efficient pitcher he had been in the first half.

Nevertheless, Wiltse had turned back the Cats in the opener, 6 to 2. Fort Worth won the second, 10 to 5, and the scene shifted to Fort Worth where the Panthers jumped into the lead with an 8 to 7 lead. Wiltse was the only hope to prolong the series and he did that thing on a day when his pitching was not within a hundred miles of its normal efficiency. He didn't have a thing. But he stuck it out on the firing line, dodged line drives and pitched out of one hole after another until he finally came out of it with a 5 to 4 victory. This performance we are willing to rate as the greatest pitching job we have ever seen, for Wiltse won it on sheer nerve. Any tosser can win games when his fast ball is whizzing down the groove and his curve is breaking just right, but the tosser who can weather such a storm as did Wiltse on that September afternoon has done something.

The flowers that bloom in the spring often fade when the dog days arrive, but if this Schoolboy Rowe fellow down at Beaumont skids out of the picture it will be a huge surprise to the Texas league in general. He is being haled on all sides as the find of a decade. When he beat Longview, 17 to 2, Friday with six hits and a dozen strikeouts, it was his fourth start and his fourth victory in professional baseball. But the thing that has turned the spotlight his way has not been his four victories, but the manner in which he has won them. Every player who has hit against him declares he has everything that a winning pitcher ought to have, plus a fast ball that is a wonder. And to make the picture perfect, he's not but 17 or 18 years old, right out of Eldorado, Ark., High school, and is four or five inches better than six feet in height.

Happ Morse, the Dallas manager, is among those who have been properly impressed by this youngster. He writes in Uncle Jake, Dallas sports weekly, as follows:

This young man they call "Schoolboy" Rowe that pitches for Beaumont, is really a prospect if ever I have seen one. My opinion is shared by each and every member of the Dallas ball club. I personally batted against Grove, Earnshaw, Vance, Hallahan, Dean and many other pitchers famous for their blazing fast balls and when I mention these chuckers I mean they have exceptional fast balls, not speed alone but "stuff" as well and young Rowe has just that, a barrel of speed combined with that deception called by ball players "stuff." He is about 6 feet 5 in his birthday shoes and throws with hardly any effort, but the ball is past the hitters before they can get their bats in action. Understand he is just a big green boy without polish or much of a curve, but if nothing happens to him you can lay a little bet he will be a regular in the big tent before two more years roll by. Don't miss seeing him pitch if you have a chance because you will be reading about him in a big way later on.

Rowe is just one of the surprises the Exporters have pulled out of the bag this spring. None could take this extremely young Beaumont club with any seriousness whatever at the start of the race, but at the current writing Del Baker has his boys right at the head of the class and showing no signs of weakening. The Exporters are operated as a Tiger farm, and so is Evansville of the Three-Eye league. A goodly portion of this Evansville club was moved into Beaumont this spring. Nearly half—eight to be exact—of the Beaumonters were at Evansville last season. They are Greenberg, first baseman; Tauby, third baseman; Fox, center fielder; Reiber, catcher; Newsome, utility infielder, and Collier, Schulz and Jachym, pitchers.

All of the Three-Eye leaguers are hitting better for Beaumont this spring than for class B Evansville on the complete 1931 season. The Three-Eye averages of the five other than pitchers were Greenberg .318, Tauby .317, Fox .302, Reiber .283 and Newsome .262. Nothing can be found in that set of averages to alarm Texas league pitchers—but the Exporters are hitting just about as well as any club in the league, and good pitching and good fielding to help have landed the team on top, at least for the time being.

Daniel Registers Classy 70 to Take Two-Stroke Lead

Final 36 Holes in Both Events to Determine Winners Sunday

An Electra quartet composed of Jack Parr, John Marriott, Roy LeBus and A. C. Hill, posted an aggregate score of 330 Saturday to set the pace for the eight teams entered in the inter-city golf tournament sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce, but the highlight of the day's play on the Weeks park course was Orion Daniel's classy 70 that took the lead in a field of approximately 175 entries in the individual competition at the end of the first 18-hole round.

The seven teams that trailed Electra by 15 or more strokes through the first round will start out on even terms with the leaders in the final 36 holes Sunday, for the 18-hole scores established handicaps that will even up the race for the last two rounds.

Daniel takes a two-stroke lead over his nearest competitor into Sunday's 36-hole finals and is faced with the task of beating off the attacks of 19 others who scored 82 or better for the initial round, this number making up the championship flight. All players from 83 to 92 inclusive, will compete in the second flight; from 93 to 99 in the third and those over 99 in the fourth.

Sensational Round

Daniel's 70 landed the Wichita Falls player in an advantageous position to retain the first Junior Chamber of Commerce invitation championship in Wichita Falls, but his closest competitors are two visitors J. T. Nuckles, Seymour, with 72, and Jack Parr, Electra, 74.

Others who made the title flight are John Marriott, Electra; L. T. Burns Jr., Wichita Falls; James Bridges, Wichita Falls; John Kilgore, Wichita Falls; Paul Landes, Wichita Falls; E. W. Marriott, Wichita Falls; J. H. S. Bonner, Wichita Falls; W. S. Pettit, Wichita Falls; Morris Norton, Wichita Falls; Whitney Anderson, Vernon; George Putty, Wichita Falls; D. H. Hyler, Wichita Falls; Roy Farrell, Vernon; Ed Fizer, Wichita Falls; Bob Peck, Wichita Falls; Hub Myers, Electra, and L. S. "City" Walker, Greenbolt Golf association champion from Quanah.

Daniel's 70 was one of the finest competitive medal rounds ever registered on the Weeks park course. It clipped one stroke off par and represented a string of 18 holes of which only two were above perfect figures.

Daniel's card:

Out—Par	444	435	534	—36
	435	424	544	—35
In—Par	334	445	534	—35	—71

Team Scores

Other team scores for the first 18 holes are as follows:

Vernon 345, Graham 358, Quanah 359, Burkburnett 376, Breckenridge 376, Olney 379, Iowa Park 396.

The entertainment features of the tournament were staged Saturday night in the form of a stag dinner at the Weeks park club house and a dance at the Wichita club.

While the number of team entries fell below expectations, H. J. Hughey Jr., general chairman of the junior chamber committee, expressed satisfaction with the splendid turnout of individual players, and the reception the tournament has received its first year assures its continuance as an annual event on the golfing calendar.

Bill Strachan, professional at the Weeks park course, planned to start the big field in threesomes early Sunday morning, leaving the No. 1 tee at five-minute intervals.

Bejma's Clouting Aids Longview In Capturing Opener

Exporters Register Dozen Runs in One Inning To Trounce Buffs

TYLER, Texas, May 21. (AP)—Inability to hit with men on bases caused the Tyler Sports to drop their opening day game here today to Longview, 5-3. Four thousand persons witnessed the contest.

Gov. R. S. Sterling and other Texas officials attended. Governor Sterling threw the first ball to Gus F. Taylor, president of the East Texas Chamber of Commerce. It was the first game here since Tyler obtained the Shreveport franchise after the Shreveport park burned.

Longview scored the winning runs in the eighth. Bejma drove in Garms, and Green doubled to score Bejma. Bejma had homered in the first inning. Longview collected only 12 hits off Steengrafe while Tyler garnered 13, but White kept the Sports' hits scattered Score:

Exporters 12, Buffs 2

BEAUMONT, May 21. (AP)—One enormous inning in which the Beaumont Exporters scored 12 runs at the expense of four Houston Buff pitchers was enough to win for Beaumont, 12-2, this afternoon, gaining a full game on their closest rivals. Greenberg and Easterling hit successive home runs early in the fourth and this seemed to completely demoralize the opposition who made five errors before they finally got the Baker boys out.

Buck Marrow pitched fine ball throughout, not only restricting Houston to five hits but getting three himself and driving in two runs. Judd pitched almost perfect ball for three and a third innings but he could not get anybody out after that and when Heusser finally replaced him the Exporters had gathered six consecutive hits and a base on balls. SAN ANTONIO, May 21. (AP)—Setting the pace twice, the San Antonio Indians were unable to hold the lead as the Galveston Buccaneers came from behind with two runs in the ninth inning to win the opening game of the series 5-4 here today.

The Tribe got to Art Seydler, former San Antonio school athlete, for a two-run lead in the second inning, and Cy Smith held the Bucs until the sixth when Governor's triple, followed by Allday's long fly netted the first run, and they shelled Smith off the hill in the seventh by bunching three hits, good for two runs, only to lose the lead in the home half when Chief Moore, who relieved Smith, started a two-run batting rally.

Governor's double and singles by Allday and Faussett put two runs across in the ninth to win for the Bucs. Score:

Longhorns Defeat Farmers to Gain Nineteenth Title

Disch's Team Triumphs, 11 To 4, to Nose Out Rice For Top Honors

AUSTIN, May 21. (AP)—The University of Texas won its 19th Southwest conference baseball championship here Saturday by defeating Texas A. & M., 11-4, in the last of a two game series. Texas was forced to win Saturday's game to claim the title, since a loss would have given Rice institute first place in the conference standing.

Texas lost the first game of the series Friday, 12-9.

Charley Winton of Waco allowed the Aggies only four hits. He went the entire route for Texas. Scheer started on the mound for the Aggies but was taken out for one inning and replaced by Moon, Scheer again assuming the pitching duties.

Texas collected 13 hits off Scheer and Moon.

Five errors proved costly to the Farmers. Texas was charged with one misplay.

Maurice Baumgarten, left field; Gordon Sullivan, right field, and Raymond Ater, short stop, all of Texas, knocked out two-base hits. Fisher, right fielder was the only Aggie to make an extra base hit.

The Aggies scored their four runs in the fourth inning on three bases on balls, a fielder's choice, a hit and an error by Winton. Winton threw wild to home trying to cut off a run.

Baumgarten, whose home is in Schulenberg, was presented with the Norris trophy, awarded annually to the most popular University of Texas athlete. Baumgarten was captain of the football team last year. He knocked out a two-base hit in his final trip to bat as a member of a university team.

U. S. Women Golfers Defeat British Aces

WENTWORTH, Surrey, Eng., May 21. (AP)—Although her stars met defeat, America's strongly balanced team of women golfers Saturday fought its way through a melange of English weather to defeat England's best, 5½ to 3½, in their first official team match.

The invaders made a clean sweep of three Scotch foresomes in the morning and piled up a sufficient lead to stand off a determined stand by the English women in singles in the afternoon. Victory in two of the six singles matches and a half in another established the American's team triumph.

England's only consolation lay in the drubbing administered Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare by her old nemesis, the great Joyce Wethered. The American star was an easy victim, 6 and 4.

Helen Hicks, America's national champion, also encountered defeat at the hands of Enid Wilson, English titleholder, 2 and 1.

In the long run, the victory was decided by the fact that the supposed weak end of the American team held up better than that of the British side. Virginia Van Wie's win over Wanda Morgan, 2 and 1, and Mrs. Leona Cheney's 4 and 3 triumph over Elsie Corlett clinched the series. Mrs. Opal Hill gained a half against Molly Gourlay after a hot 18-holt fight.

Champ Carries Great Record Into Tourney

By BILL PARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, May 21.—Gus Turner Moreland, Texas amateur golf champion, will be called on to defend his title from May 24 through May 28 at Texarkana at the annual state championship tournament. When Moreland is called at the starting tee, the defending champion will be ready with the same game that won him eight out of nine major Southwestern tournaments last year. He will be there with the game that qualified him for the national amateur with a score of 73-76—149, that made him second low.

It is the consensus that regardless of how large the field is at Texarkana, it will have Moreland to beat. The young Dallas ace is bidding for a place on the United States Walker cup team and he realizes that winning the state championship for the second consecutive time will be a help.

Moreland, beyond doubt, is the same capable golfer this season that he was last year. He started his 1932 tournament tour by finishing second in the Texas open against some of the best professionals in the country. Moreland's card of 149-139—288 was only one stroke more than that of Clarence Clark, professional, who won the tournament.

Medal Playoff

From the Texas open, Moreland went to the annual Houston Country club invitation where he beat Johnny Dawson, crack Chicago amateur, 2 and 1, in the finals. Moreland was also medalist in the Houston invitation in a playoff against young Willie McGuire. In the playoff, Moreland shot a 72.

From the Houston invitation, Moreland trekked to the Dallas city championship tournament where he met his first defeat this year. He was eliminated by Dennis Lavender in the semifinals.

In his campaign this year, Moreland was low amateur and finished second in the Texas open. He was medalist and winner of the Houston Country club invitation. He lost in the semifinals of the Dallas city championship.

His next tournament steps will be over the difficult par 73 Texarkana Country club course where he will defend his crown against the Texas Golf association's best players. He has made several trips to Texarkana to play the course, and has scored low.

Wonderful Record

Moreland is playing his fourth full year of major tournaments, and here's the Texas amateur champion's record that he will carry into the Texarkana event.

Two Leaders Play Rivals in Sunday Bargain Program

Star Tangles With Sullivan's; Red and White Meets Meyers Grocery

Star Transfer company and Red and Whites swing into action Sunday afternoon at Katy park to hold their tie for first place against all comers. Star Transfer takes on Sullivan's grocery in the first game with Red and Whites tackling Meyers grocery in the second, with hostilities starting at 2 o'clock.

Two red-hot battles are expected this week with all the teams strengthening for the run down the home stretch for the remainder of the first half schedule. The two weaker clubs of the league are trying to build strong battle fronts for the last half battle, and fans will be given their chances to see just what sort of teams are lining up for the late summer games that have always been so popular among the Wichita Falls fans.

The first half scramble seems to have narrowed down to the two leaders who went into a tie last week, and both will be scrapping for every inch they can gain in their fight for the first half pennant. Star Transfer company, the team that got away to such a flying start behind sensational batting is finding the road up the pennant hill growing rougher, and the lack of relief pitching and pinch hitting utility men is likely to find things getting even hotter in the future. If August Storbeck can scrape up another good pitcher to go along with Lefty Robertson, and land a good utility man, he will have a team that will be hard to head off.

From the present outlook, Lefty Robertson will be called on to check the wild swinging bats of the Sullivan grocerymen that have begun to click so merrily of late, while Sullivan will have Steve Franklin, Phillip Powell, Gib Lowery, Flip Hoskins and Gabe Harris from which to select a starting chunker.

The pitcher the Red and Whites will call upon to face Myers grocery is another dark mystery that only game time can solve, but in all likelihood Red Nichols, fireball castoff of the Red and Whites, will be out for his sweet revenge, and if the fielders will give Nichols a chance, it will take all the dynamite in the bats of Coyal Francis and Cecil Allison to keep the Red and Whites up there in their tie with Star Transfer for the league lead.

Two fast games loom up for the fans at the bargain price of a dime, and a large turnout is anticipated. Crowds at Katy park to date have been somewhat of a disappointment to league officials, but with the departure of the Spudders and the steady show of improvement in the four teams, the attendance is expected to pick up. It was announced Thursday that the concessions at the park had been awarded to "Goobers" Scarbrough, and that anything the fans could get at Spudder park in the way of refreshments can be obtained from now on at Katy park.

BASEBALL LEAGUES TO START CHAMPIONSHIP SCRAMBLES NEXT WEEK

Championship play in the boys' playground leagues fostered by the city park department and the Lions club will get under way next week, according to announcement of Lefty Robertson, director. Robertson will establish temporary headquarters in the park department offices the first half of this week, and all boys who have organized teams to participate in league play are asked to turn in to him their lists of players as early as possible this week in order that schedules may be arranged and all plans completed for the start of play next week.

Players who are not members of teams at present are asked to register with Robertson Monday, Tuesday or Wednesday of this week to be placed on teams. All boys within the age requirements are eligible.

Forty-six teams participated in the organized league play last season, and Robertson is expecting an even greater number this year.

MICHIGAN CARRIES OFF BIG TEN TRACK TITLE

DYCHE STADIUM, EVANSTON, Ill., May 21. (AP)—Michigan's plucky track team, scoring in 13 of the 16 events, carried off the Western conference outdoor track and field championship Saturday to the accompaniment of record-breaking performances.

Two world records were eclipsed, two others were tied, and three Big Ten marks were shattered as the events reeled off. The record breaking however, including the new conference marks, may not, and in the cases of the world marks undoubtedly will not stand, as a 25 or 30 mile wind blew at the backs of the runners.

The Wolverines amassed a total of 50½ points, to triumph, with Ohio State second with 46½. Indiana was third with 43½, while Illinois was fourth with 31½.

AMARILLO PRO GOLFERS IN MARATHON CONTEST

AMARILLO, Texas, May 21. (AP)—And now it's cross-country golf.

Paul F. Denson, owner and pro of one of the local golf courses, and Bill Laidley, also a professional, Saturday announced plans to drive golf balls ahead of them from Amarillo to Los Angeles. They will leave here July 4 and expect to be in California by Thanksgiving.

The marathon golfers are arranging matches in each city along the route as "rest periods." They will keep a record of their strokes en route. The distance is about 1,500 miles over the course planned.

Denson and Laidley said they had played trial stretches resulting in the estimate that they can cover about 15 to 18 miles a day.

HIGH SCHOOL SPRINTER STEPS CENTURY IN 9.7

CHAMPAIGN, Ill., May 21. (INS)—Randall Herman, an Oak Park High school student, took rank with the greatest sprinters of the country here Saturday when he sped to a new national interscholastic 100-yard dash record—9.7 seconds.

Competing in the Illinois state interscholastic track meet, Herman opened the final day of competition with his record-breaking dash to the tape.

The former national and state mark of 9.8, was held by Ralph Metcalfe, Tilden High school of Chicago.

Oklahoma's Quail Hatchery Receives Its First Setting

Total of 527 Eggs Placed In Electric Incubator at Darlington

DARLINGTON, Okla., May 21.—Five hundred seventeen bobwhite and 10 blue quail eggs comprised the first "setting" Wednesday, made by the state quail hatchery here. Electrical incubation is employed.

This number exceeded by several score the fondest expectations of the most enthusiastic member of the Oklahoma Quail Propagating association, which raised funds for construction of the plant, or the most optimistic member of the state game and fish commission, under whose jurisdiction the farm is being operated.

Despite the fact that the brood birds were placed in their laying pens nearly 30 days late, due to delays in construction, only 20 of the 136 pairs of bobwhites failed to contribute to this early gleaning.

Due to the delay in getting the Darlington plant under way, arrangements have been made for Dr. R. E. Selement of Yukon, a deputy game warden possessing latest improved incubating equipment, to hatch this season's crop of eggs.

In addition to those consigned to the electric incubator Wednesday, 20 bobwhite eggs were placed under a bantam hen May 5 and 18 blue quail eggs were placed under another bantam May 15, making a total egg collection to date of 565 eggs.

Hen No. 94 which yielded the first eggs at the hatchery April 24, is heading the list with 18 eggs in 24 days. No. 52 is second with 16 and No. 36 third with 14.

PLANS FOR WOMEN'S STATE PUBLIC LINKS TOURNEY UNDER WAY

Initial preparations for the second annual tournament of the Texas Women's Municipal Golf association, to be held on the Weeks park course here June 20-25, are under way, according to Miss Winnie Mae Giddings, secretary of the state association. The qualifying round will be played on Monday, June 20, with match play extending through Saturday to select a successor to Mrs. F. C. Rochon, who won the championship last year in the association's first tournament at Dallas, but is not eligible to defend the title because of affiliation with the Wichita Falls Golf and Country club since that time.

A particular effort is being made by the women in charge of the event to interest the feminine players of the smaller clubs of Northwest Texas. All women players not members of clubs affiliated with the Texas Women's Golf association are eligible to participate in the public links championship.

The 32 low scorers in the 18-hole qualifying round on June 20 will compete in the championship flights. All entries will qualify for flights of 16 players each below the championship.

FARMERS IN SUNSET VICINITY CULTIVATE 200 ACRES TOMATOES

SUNSET, Texas, May 21.—Tomatoes are being cultivated by a large per cent of people here this year. Gardeners and truck farmers, have more than 200 acres in cultivation in this section. Many of the producers have more than a half of an acre of tomatoes, but a few are cultivating as much as five acres. Some of the producers are growing tomatoes for the market but a large number are raising them for their own use. Interest in canning tomatoes increases here every year and the local demand for larger quantities for canning purposes is much greater than it was a few years ago. Some people here still have tomatoes which they canned last year.

With the Magazines

By L. N. C.

William Lyon Phelps, writing on Henry Ford in the May Delineator, says: "Now that Edison has gone into the world of light, there is only one American left who is known in every corner of the world. The name 'Henry Ford' is a label of the man." Mr. Phelps' story of a day in Ford's life is interesting; he makes the man a combination of shrewd common sense and extreme idealism, lighted by humor. But deep in our heart, we dare to disagree with Mr. Phelps. We believe the name "Lindbergh" is known from one end of the world to the other. And it has tender associations.

There's an editorial we like in the May Woman's Home Companion. Don't skip it, gentlemen, just because it is in a woman's magazine. "In all the welter of words printed about the depression," it reads, "we do not remember having seen this quotation from Theodore Roosevelt, who was president of this country in a time of panic. 'You cannot create prosperity by law. Sustained thrift, industry, application, intelligence, are the only things that ever do, or ever will, create prosperity. But you can very easily destroy prosperity by law.'

"Too many people have forgotten in their discouragement that those old and tried virtues of thrift, industry, application and intelligence can do more than all the laws ever written, and if need be can undo the effects of bad laws.

"The next period of American life ought to be one of self-reliance."

For ladies alone, we quote a short editorial paragraph headed, "Husbands Don't Differ Much."

"Two department stores have made an investigation of the habits of husbands in the New York metropolitan district. Of the statistical facts which they disclosed, two interested us very much. One is that one million husbands living within the 25-mile radius frequently stay in town for dinner instead of going home. The other is that 39.5 per cent of husbands in the district help wash the dinner dishes. Naturally, the frivolous question comes to mind whether the two groups are the same—whether men who have to do the dishes seek escape by making an excuse to stay downtown."

The husband we are acquainted with just reads current events while we wash dishes. He would not at all mind reading them aloud.

Mrs. John Garner's "30 Years of Dictation," is an entrancing story of comradeship in the May Good Housekeeping; Francis Parkinson Keyes' travelog "How Many Miles to Babylon?" carries you to far and fascinating lands. But we would trade them all for a little poem by Arthur Rudd, one verse of which we quote. It is called "Bluebonnets":

"The sky let fall its azure
And the sea gave up its hue,
And a sheen like drifted snowflakes
Streaked the waving mass of blue
On the rolling wind-swept prairie
Where the fair bluebonnets grew."

If you have seen the celestial fields of bluebonnets as we did last spring, you will agree with us.

Our friend who writes "The Talk of the Town" in the New Yorker, fell down on us in one issue. The only thing we would choose to remember (outside the infamous prices quoted in advertisements—which may still be moderate in New York), is the story of the electrically milked cows. He went with a friend to Plainsboro, N. J., to inspect a new development of the mechanical age, a milk factory.

"We found," he says, "a herd of cows rotating upon a merry-go-round with a slow, but rather mad, dignity, producing milk for the Walker-Gordon people, and every now and then glancing up in bewilderment at a stream of milk which flowed from them into glass containers above their heads. An endless chain of cows it was, a 24-hour-a-day chain, each cow being milked every seven hours, 50 cows being milked every 12 and a half minutes, 240 cows being milked every hour, on and on."

Alas! Never again can we think of cows as placid, cud chewing creatures. These cows are even fed on compressed cubes.

And we will conclude our sermon with a few remarks lifted from the April 30 Pathfinder. The cover reminds us that Walter Damrosch, "the nation's music teacher," predicts the end of jazz. (Hurray for Mr. Damrosch!)

From "Americana":

Arkansas auto licenses being sold on installment plan!

A new law authorizing the sale of "unused Indian cemeteries"!

Depositors of a defunct Baltimore bank receiving a dividend of one cent each mailed in separate letters requiring two cents postage!

Temporary job holders in the Westchester, N. Y., register's office complaining of lack of space to park their autos!

◊ ◊ ◊

From "Personalities":

Refunded $30,000 on income tax payments, Raymond Novarro, movie star, when asked what he intended to do with it, replied: "Pay this year's taxes."

◊ ◊ ◊

From "Hollywood":

Mickey Mouse is one of the few film stars not feeling the "repression." The Walt Disney studios are busier than ever with Mickey working in as many as two cartoon comedies at one time. Meanwhile orders for pictures of other stars—25 cents to you and you—have fallen off some 20 per cent and various stunts are under way, in cooperation with newspapers, etc., to revive the demand for photos and autographs. While we think of it, there are only two pawnshops in Hollywood.

by Walter E. Brooks in the May "The Shoestring Book Collector" Bookman, says, "Every man who wants to buy books he likes because he wants to own them, is a collector," . . . and, "Silly thought it may be, it is always pleasant to own as a rarity something for which other men are seeking."

Nothing we could quote from the last "Pathfinder," could so vividly express the spirit of democracy as the "Americana" in that magazine, which we, with due apologies and credit, lift bodily.

"Part of the Oklahoma emergency relief fund being used to purchase jellies, candy, shoe polish and neckties!

"The Century Country club at Purchase, N. Y., planning to use unemployed married men as caddies but women members objecting to being 'followed around the course by common laborers!'

"Five Michigan State college students on a mechanical engineering field trip being arrested at Jackson for peppering pedestrians with pea shooters!

"Government employees approving only one item in congress's retrenchment measure!

"Restoring George Washington's still at Mt. Vernon!

A Book a Day

By BRUCE CATTON

Men who are completely selfish are, fortunately, rare in this world. But when one does appear it soon becomes evident, not only that he is going to bring unhappiness to every life that he touches, but that he is going to achieve a good deal of unhappiness for himself, too.

This solemn reverie follows a reading of Louis Bromfield's new novel, "A Modern Hero."

Pierre Radier, the central figure of this book, is a wholly selfish man. The son of an irregular union between a lady circus performer and a European financier, he grows up in a traveling circus and nourishes a burning desire to get out of this environment and achieve great gobs of worldly success. He vows, also, that he will always be free. No emotional entanglements are ever going to hamper his movements.

So he sets out to realize his ambitions. First he discards his mother. Then he discards the girl Joanna, his small-town sweetheart. Then Leah, the woman who advances the money with which he makes his start in life, is ruthlessly shelved. Then Maller, the mechanic who enables him to become a rich manufacturer, is used and tossed aside.

He marries Hazel, the rich financier's daughter, uses her as another stepping stone, and tramples her under foot. But at the last he fails; for Homer Flint, his father-in-law, is a little too clever for him, and when Pierre tries to use him as he has used the others, he gets crushed.

And all of these people—except the luckless Hazel—in the end get far more joy out of life than Pierre is ever able to get for himself.

Mr. Bromfield has written an interesting novel, peopled with living characters and touched here and there with colorful melodrama. The book is published by Stokes, and retails for $2.50.

Peeping at New Books

Facets of a Social Order

The ultimate significance of This Circle of Flesh is doubtful. It is a mildly entertaining novel, shot here and there with excellent bits of character shading. It is not inevitable. The story is briefly told. Cherry Driscoll, sheltered, a lady instinctively and by environment, the wife of a conservative attorney, is thrown, almost by chance, into a mutual infatuation with Raeland Warren, novelist of modern trend and man-of-the-world. Warren intends nothing more than a momentary intrigue, but finds himself forced into the position of taking the affair seriously because of Cherry's apologies for not being able to "play the game." His interest turns to love as Cherry offers him passion, the while Cherry's husband, Howard, tenders him the quiet man-to-man courtesy of a passing generation and a passing social order. Warren finds renunciation is the only course open to him. All this takes place before a backdrop of ultra-sophisticated modernity, with Warren's curious polyglot of friends, drawn together from all strata, passing to and fro. Cherry is amazed, then interested, then attracted by the disillusioned, fevered activity of this group into which her relationship with Warren had plunged her.

The most interesting figures in the book, the erotic, unfettered members of society who made up the mad smart set, friends and acquaintances of Raeland Warren, are strangely lacking in vitality and reality. A hint is given of their personalities, their raison d'etre, but not enough to make them believable. It is inconceivable that this lack was intentional on the part of the author. But the reader wishes to know more of Arthur Foyt, gentleman racketeer, whose sole desire was "the complete life"; of Mildred Fentress, of the two "pansies," Carter Shelby and Pat Harrison; of aged Vandergrift.

There are worthwhile passages in this novel, aside from the rather skillfully told story itself. Several of these deal chiefly with expositions of modern philosophies as espoused by various social cliques.

NEW YORK FLIER MAY BE DELAYED IN STARTING FROM SEATTLE TO TOKYO

Seattle, May 21. (US)—Nat C. Browne, New York aviator, may get off tomorrow on his attempted flight from Seattle to Tokyo, but the probabilities seemed against it tonight.

He had not yet received official permission from the Japanese government to land at Haneda airport, and he did not consider weather reports any too favorable. If the permit arrives in time and if the weather is propitious, however, he probably will go tomorrow, provided there is a south wind at Boeing field.

Brown completed all arrangements for his take-off today.

"Rustic and Homely As A Gingham Sunbonnet"

STATE FAIR by Phil Strong. The Century company. $2.50.

This novel is to be seriously recommended to the Pulitzer committee, if, next year, they are looking for the same qualities that made "The Good Earth" universally endorsed. It is the seamy side of life among the Iowa farmers during one week of play. And, by that, is not meant the shabby accents only, but an expose so revealing that nothing is left in the garment that is not sympathetically presented to our unaccustomed eyes.

We meet a cross section of our own countrymen emersed in their serious business of having a good time at the state fair. Even as in Edna Ferber's "Show Boat," it flashes before our mental vision an unforgetable reel of Americans in a provincial pastime which is common to them, but almost a folk lore ritual to us.

Of course, Phil Stong is an Iowan. In fact, he belongs to the fourth generation of Iowans on both sides. One great grandfather was the first settler in western Iowa and his grandfather was a director in the state fair. So the warp and woof of this pastoral tapestry is the blood and sinew of Phil Stong and his people.

Only the magic of his words could depict the various objectives of the different characters. There was the storekeeper. "He believed, with Jack London's Sea Wolf, that Heaven ordains all things for the worst—but more mischievously than tragically. All Brunswick knew him, to be amusingly mad." And it was the storekeeper who warned Abel Frake not to let his hog get too good.

This hog, by the way, is a sparkling gem of porcine pulchritude. Absorb this: "No Park avenue specialist knew one half about any dowager's bowels what the hired man knew about Blue Boy's—in addition, the hired man was pleased with what he knew." Indelicate? Not at all. Highly professional. And this: "Blue Boy was midnight, polished into a blackness, more colored than any color."

His owner, Abel Frake, is so completely oblivious to all else for the week, that his interests and Blue Boy's romance and conquest are inextricably entangled. There is this comment, however, when tempted to by ten cent cigars. "It's not reasonable a man should burn up the price of eight eggs—ten good days work for a fair hen—on Saturday and Sunday."

Melissa, his wife, is easily etched. A canny housewife, a plump and cheerful helpmate, and an indulgent and unsuspecting mother. Her reaction to her victory at the fair: "But what can I enter now? I've got the very most that women can get out of the fair exhibits. Now, unless I start raising horses or something, there's nothing more to do."

Her daughter Margy, with the soft heart and hard head, may be the farm girl of today. If so, she is a new type. Her surrender to the city boy is so unlike the old time melodrama that one can imagine him shoved forth in the snow storm. And she did just that, with this: "Back in Brunswick, I'd be useful and people would like me. We still like land, we farmers, even tho' it's nearly ruined us lately. I'd be somebody—back there."

And Wayne, the boy, whose dreams were so real that he talked to himself. His "conquest" over the sophisticated daughter of the race track gambler was just an episode to her and a jolt to his adolescence that awakened all his ideals and gave him a set of values. This character must have lain near the author's heart. For he presents him with a sympathetic and appealing sureness.

Well, as an unknown work of an obscure author, this state fair book should win laurels on pure worth. At least the Literary Guild thought so. And Carl Van Doren says of it: "You don't know your America and the delights that are latent in its country life, until you have read State Fair."

PETROLIA VALEDICTORIAN ENTERTAINS SENIOR CLASS

PETROLIA, Texas, May 21—Miss Anna Belle Perkins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Perkins of Petrolia and who was valedictorian of the 1932 graduating class of the Petrolia High school, honored the senior class and faculty members with a delightful lawn supper after the commencement exercises Thursday evening. The long table, decorated with pink and green, in the midst of a beautifully lighted lawn formed a harmonious setting. After the supper dancing provided entertainment until the wee hours of the morning.

The senior boys played a joke on the girls and spent the remainder of the night on the lawn in a series of cover disputes and pillow fights. The boys enjoyed a swim at sunrise. Upon their return they were surprised to find the girls back to breakfast. All enjoyed a tasty breakfast which ended the festivities of a delightful senior week.

BOWIE ATTORNEY PROPOSES CHANGE IN BANKING LAWS

BOWIE, Texas, May 21.—Resolutions advocating a change in the national banking laws will be submitted to the Democratic state convention at Houston next Tuesday, as a platform demand to be submitted to the national convention of Democrats at Chicago.

J. W. Chancellor, Bowie attorney and Montague county delegate to the state convention will offer the resolution.

It proposes a plan which Mr. Chancellor says is fundamental to the economic recovery of the nation at the present time. It suggests the establishment of a guarantee fund and recommends the provision of the Stegall bill as an effective way of raising such a fund. It recommends that a portion of the fund raised in a federal reserve district be deposited in the federal reserve bank of that district to the credit of such a fund, for the district. It is suggested that legislation be enacted to the end that when a check or checks may be drawn against a bank of deposits, against a depositor in said bank, that if such banks of deposits has not the fund with which to pay said check of checks, that such check of checks will be a demand against the federal reserve bank of the district for the payment of such check or checks, out of any portion of such guarantee fund then on hand, if any, and if none of such guarantee fund then on deposit in said federal reserve bank of the district, that such check shall be transmitted to the treasury of the United States for payment and that the same shall be paid by the treasury upon demand.

Stricter examination of the affairs of banks is also provided under the plan; and if the bank is found in a failing condition, provision is made for a representative of the U. S. treasury to keep it in operation and if possible restore it to a state of solvency, when it shall be returned to its former owners. If such an institution is found which cannot be restored to solvency, it would be liquidated in a gradual manner and as a going concern, under the provision of the resolution.

A number of other minor changes are proposed in the banking laws, under the resolution which Mr. Chancellor will submit.

Finds Lost Hubby, Divorces Him

STOCKTON, Calif.—Twenty-one years ago Isaac Pius left his wife in Paris. Mrs. Sadie Pius started a search for him that took her through five foreign countries and finally to the United States. After living in New York for several years, Mrs. Pius finally heard her husband was in California. She left New York for Stockton, with forgiveness in her heart and expecting happiness at the pending reunion. But instead of happiness she was rudely shocked to find that Isaac was living with another woman, according to her charges. Mrs. Pius sued for and received a divorce.

TIMES' DAILY MARKETS

SATURDAY SESSION STOCKS QUIETEST SINCE AUGUST 8

NEW YORK, May 21. (AP)—Stocks ambled today through the quietest Saturday market since Aug. 8 of last year.

On dealings of only 302,540 shares final variations were so narrow that for the second successive session the Standard Statistics-Associated Press composite closed unchanged. Quotations reacted moderately in the first four, but slow recoveries during the second evened accounts.

The market's seeming indifference to credit expansion activities reflects, in Wall street's opinion, a desire to await not only results but information on just what plans are being formulated by the Young committee. Rumors of a large "bond pool" have recently been revived, but whether such an operation is contemplated has not been disclosed. It is believed, however, that federal reserve member banks will be encouraged to increase investments in legal securities other than U. S. governments.

Trade news at the week-end was encouraging in that activity in leading lines seemed to be about holding its own. Prices so far have held up against the 10 per cent wage reduction, although consumption volume has perhaps been too light to test them thoroughly.

Lower gasoline prices in the New York metropolitan district were viewed as a local condition rather than as a forerunner of weakness through the general structure of oil quotations.

There was some further loss of gold, but weakness of Dutch Guilders suggested the movement to that country might be coming to an end. Europe has already drawn down her balances here very substantially and bankers feel that exports from now on should be smaller, since it is necessary for foreign nations to maintain some funds here for commercial purposes.

MODERATE DECLINE IN COTTON FOLLOWS SOUTHERN SELLING

NEW YORK, May 21. (AP)—A moderate decline in cotton today was attributed to a little southern selling and realizing or liquidation promoted by favorable weather reports from the South and absence of aggressive support.

July closed at 5.75 with the general market closing steady at net declines of 3 to 5 points.

There was nothing more than a very moderate volume of offerings, and closing quotations showed rallies of about 4 points from the lowest on more active months as a result of week-end covering.

Except for the favorable weather news which indicated further rains or showers in the eastern belt with clear weather in the West, and somewhat higher temperatures, no particular news factor was emphasized in connection with the decline. The failure of Washington advices to show more rapid progress in balancing the budget, however, was referred to as a disappointing feature which may possibly have increased a disposition to liquidate small long accounts.

Except for the trade buying and a little southern selling business was attributed largely to week-end evening up. The Liverpool market will remain closed today, but will reopen for business on Monday. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 104,000 bales against 70,000 last year.

New Orleans Cotton

NEW ORLEANS, May 21. (AP)—Cotton was moderately active for a short week-end session, but prices were somewhat erratic with a slight downward trend. Liverpool was closed and the market here closed steady, showing net declines for the day of 8 points on May and 2 to 5 points on later months.

The market rallied somewhat near the end and on shorts covering for over the week-end, July advancing to 5.78 and Oct. to 5.97, up 5 points from the earlier lows. May eased off 4 points near the end on some liquidation owing to the nearness of the last day of trading in that position. The other months lost only 1 point from the top. May closed at 5.65, down 8 points net for the day, while July and October lost only 3 points net for the day.

Port receipts 5,627, for season 9,613,043, last season 8,798,193. Exports 13,272, for season 7,678,089, last season 6,082,210. Port stock 3,920,362, last year 3,360,348. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston 80,037, last year 68,564. Spot sales at southern markets 4,522, last year 3,983.

Boston Wool Market

BOSTON, May 21. (AP)—Reports of activity in the country, especially in Texas, have overshadowed in importance the slight increase noted in the inquiries of manufacturers for wool in this market. Actual trading in wool continues very dull and values remain unsettled. Transactions in Texas have assumed importance because of the contrast they show in the attitude of wool men toward the new clip in that section as compared with the dullness of recent weeks in other sections of the country and in this market.

WHEAT REGISTERS ADVANCE DESPITE BEARISH CABLES

CHICAGO, May 21. (AP)—For the first time in a long while, the wheat market today scored a substantial advance despite bearish cable reports.

Increasingly sensational crop damage developments in regard to United States winter wheat led to broader speculative buying, with the market at the last outdoing the topmost previous limit since April 27. Nebraska and Kansas crop advices were worse than any heretofore this season, and were supplemented by disturbing reports from Illinois and Indiana.

Wheat closed strong, ⅝@1⅛c above yesterday's finish, corn ⅛@⅜c up, oats varying from ⅛c decline to ⅛c advance, and provisions unchanged to 10c higher.

A Chicago crop authority predicted that in the coming week the havoc from hessian fly would become more apparent, and would continue to do so until harvest. He said the loss of wheat promised to be greater than in any season since 1915.

Large purchases of wheat for domestic mills were noted, and there was also some United States hard winter wheat bought for export.

Corn, oats and rye made a somewhat laggard response to wheat strength.

Midwestern Livestock Review

KANSAS CITY, May 21. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Continued light supplies of cattle this week had a tendency to bolster up the demand for most killing classes and prices are steady to unevenly higher as compared with a week ago.

Bulk of fed steers and long yearlings sold from $5.00@6.50 with a scattering of highly finished offerings at $6.75@7.85. A limited showing of South Texas grass steers turned at $3.75@4.90.

Aggregate receipts at eleven markets of around 135,000 were 5,800 less than last week and 50,000 short of the corresponding period a year ago.

Fat lamb prices during the week under review broke 75c@$1.25 to new low levels for the season. The week's supply approximated 315,000 against 259,402 last week and 342,915 a year ago.

Hog prices are unevenly steady to 10 lower than a week ago, and midweek quotations were lower than any time this season. Chicago had a nominal top of $3.60 with best offered cashing at $3.50. Total offerings of around 428,700 were 19,000 less than last week and 25,000 heavier than a year ago.

LARGE CROWDS EXPECTED FOR BIRTHDAY FETE

50th Birthday Party Plans Moving Rapidly Ahead Says W. D. Cline

W. T. C. C. SPECIAL AND MOTORCADE DID THE WORK

Dallas, Amarillo, A...on and Sweetwater Promise to Have Delegations

Assurance that representatives from over Texas will participate in the "golden jubilee" celebration of Wichita Falls' fiftieth birthday anniversary Sept. 26-28 was expressed by Walter D. Cline, president of the fiftieth anniversary association, as a result of word received from various Texas cities.

During the past week many evidences have been received by Mr. Cline concerning out-of-town attendance. Practically all of such decisions came as a result of the Wichita Falls special train to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Sweetwater last week and the motorcade to Grapevine last Thursday.

Officials of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce have promised that a giant motorcade, made up of at least 1,000 automobiles, will come to Wichita Falls for at least one day of the celebration.

The Sweetwater board of city development has indicated that the Sweetwater gypsy girl organization will be present for all three days of the local birthday party.

Word from Anton declares that the state-known Anton band, the official band of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, will be present throughout the three day observance.

A special train, to remain in Wichita for the entire party, has been promised by authorities of Amarillo.

"Plans for the gigantic 'golden jubilee' celebration are moving rapidly," Mr. Cline stated. "And we believe that the party will draw larger crowds than had been thought possible."

Mr. Cline plans to announce a part of the program of entertainment within the next few days.

MANY CITIES PLAN SEND DELEGATIONS TO BRIDGE OPENING

VERNON, Texas, May 21.—H. Burks of Brownwood, secretary of the Texas division of the Canada-to-Gulf Highway association, has notified L. A. Wilson, secretary of the Vernon Chamber of Commerce, that a delegation from Brownwood will attend the formal opening of the new $122,500 free bridge across Red river between this city and Altus, Okla. The opening is to be held next Thursday and is expected to attract several hundred people from Texas and Oklahoma.

Mr. Burks reported that he was contacting cities from Corpus Christi to Vernon and that delegations probably would be here from a number of communities.

F. S. Abney of Brownwood is president of the Texas division of the highway association and Wilbarger County Judge J. V. Townsend of Vernon is vice president. The new bridge is an important link in the Canada-to-Gulf highway.

Preparations have been completed for the opening which is expected to attract one of the largest crowds ever to gather for a highway program in this section. The celebration will get under way at 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

Addresses by prominent officials of two states will be featured. Sam R. Hawks, chairman of the Oklahoma Highway commission, and Congressman J. V. McClintic of Snyder, Okla., have accepted invitations to attend.

E. VAN DEVENTER ASKED TO ENTER LEGISLATIVE RACE

EARLY VAN DEVENTER

A petition is being circulated throughout the county this week urging Early Van Deventer to enter the race for representative. The petition is being signed by substantial citizens in every precinct. It is understood that Mr. Van Deventer is considering offering for district 111, place 2. Following is the petition:

"Realizing that conditions have become oppressive because of ever increasing taxation occasioned by the constantly growing cost of government, which has increased 20 per cent per year for the past 10 years, we the undersigned citizens believe that only men of mature mind should represent us in the state legislature.

"Knowing Early Van Deventer to be a man of high character and firm in his convictions of what is right, and believing that if elected he would make this county an able and efficient representative, and considering the fact that he carried this county two years ago by more than a thousand majority, we respectfully solicit him to make the race for the legislature in the coming campaign."—Adv.

George Backus of Vernon Will Make Race for Congress in 13th District Condemns Waste Money Washington

GEORGE BACKUS

George Backus of Vernon, Saturday announced as a candidate for congress from the 13th district. His announcement follows:

"While I have talked with many of the people of this district concerning my campaign for the Democratic nominee for congressman this year, it will be impossible for me to get in personal touch with all the voters. I am using this means to make some of my views known to those whom I have not and may not be able to meet.

"I have been a loyal Democrat all my life, and stand for enforcement of all laws, from pilfering to the antitrust act. While I am a person of rather determined disposition, I am ready to retract when I find I am in error. My childhood days were spent in the backwoods, attending school in a one-room log cabin where I sat on a split log without a back. My last schooling was at what was known as the seminary, located at the county seat. I swept the floors and built the fires in the stoves for tuition there. I worked on my grandfather's farm from the age of 16 and for some years later at a wage of $3 to $6 per month. My father died before I was grown. Being the oldest of six children, I had a hard fight to enable us to get on. I worked for a daily or monthly wage until I was near the age of 37. Then, getting into business by the aid of a friend who invested a few hundred dollars with my working capacity. He later sold his interest to me by taking my notes for it, as he decided to enter a campaign for state treasurer. Managing thus to get a little start into the business world, for several years I had lots of very hard work to get that business on a sound footing. Why do I mention these experiences and hardships, Not for any sympathy, but that the people of the 13th congressional district may know that by hard work I have made the little advancement in life, and that you may know that I am in a position to realize the needs of the people who are toiling and having such difficult experiences these latter years to earn a living for themselves and families. My business has taken me constantly almost over the entire congressional district for the past 31 years. In this way I have become acquainted with the country, its people and its needs.

Changes in Money System

"Some very important changes should be made in our monetary system. The federal reserve banking system does not seem to be working to the interest of the little banks over the country. We are in dire need of a system that will afford a more flexible money, and you can depend upon me to use my efforts in that respect if you send me to Washington as your representative. In connection with this question, I think it necessary, and would make it imperative, for all national banks to carry sufficient insurance in bonded insurance companies for protection of depositors against all failure of such banks. The recent Republican administration has built the high tariff wall still higher to the satisfaction of the wealthy manufacturer, causing retaliatory measures by other nations, thereby reducing the volume of our exports to the detriment of the farmer and other producers throughout our nation, adding to the depression. Our farmers and laborers are losing their homes. Within the last decade, representatives of the big money lenders have come and appraised the farms and homes of the working people up to high values, have loaned them money on those homes, and now the insurance and other companies are taking these properties of life-long savings. In the meantime, these companies have made the borrower pay all the taxes and interest; the money or interests held in the notes of these big companies bearing no part of the taxation. This is not right. The borrower should be forced to pay taxes only on what equity he may have in property, and legislation to this effect should be enacted.

"I feel that I am surely in position to know the needs of the ex-service men of the world war. I favor paying our soldier boys all money due them through proper adjustment of war service certificates, and that at once, rather than hold them off for many years, permitting the latter half of their bonus to be confiscated by interest charged against the half that has been drawn. I hold that we can and should pay the ex-service men the money which is rightly due them during this strenuous period, and would fight for them in this respect, or in case this money is not paid, will use my influence toward having congress remit all interest on what has been drawn.

Waste Must Be Stopped

"There is a wanton waste of money in expenditures by the government at Washington that must be stopped. Senators and congressmen are permitted to impose upon the government two or three times as much traveling expense as necessary and that the members participate in this extravagance. We are paying our congressmen more salary than necessary under the existing circumstances. There is an overlapping of help and agencies that should be stopped. We have junketing trips and bureaus that are unnecessary and which incur an appalling outlay of money. I would be diligent in correcting these and all other extravagances. I favor legislation or an amendment to our constitution prohibiting any member of either house of congress holding a retainer's fee, and all paid or professional lobbyists from being on any part of these floors while congress is in session.

"With the wide experience of a working and business man, the fact that I have for the past 25 years been on the floors of various conventions; being able to present my views and to fight for my convictions on any question; having been keenly interested all my life in public affairs, locally, nationally and internationally, I hold that I am, with these varied and practical experiences, qualified to represent this district in congress in a satisfactory manner. I realize the importance of giving this place careful attention, and that it is a post which calls for serious and hard work. I have always been willing to undertake hard tasks that are worth while, would give it my most faithful and guarded attention. I will represent all classes fairly, and will certainly have in mind at all times to do all I possibly can at every opportunity, in the interest of the masses."

Tex Rickard left an estate appraised at $500,000, but it was finally valued at about $184,000.

SEMI-ANNUAL CHEST CLINICS IN WICHITA COUNTY BENEFICIAL

By MARY QUINN
Executive Secretary, Wichita County Tuberculosis Association

The semi-annual tuberculosis clinics came to a close May 19. Dr. J. D. Blevins, county health officer of Jefferson county, conducted clinics during the past week in Iowa Park, Burkburnett, Wichita Falls and Electra. These chest clinics were held for the purpose of tracing the case, as every case comes from another. The most instructive feature of these clinics was the explanation of the tuberculin skin test given by the Mantoux method.

This test is given to children, as a diagnosis of most phases of the childhood type of tuberculosis cannot be made by physical examination. A positive reaction to the tuberculin test always means infection with tubercle bacilli, but it does not necessarily indicate disease, or whether it is active or latent. The intracutaneous test (Mantoux) is more accurate and with it a slightly larger number of reactors will be obtained than is possible with the cutaneous (Pirquet) technique.

During the three-day clinics Dr. Blevins examined 93. Fifty-five were adults, seven in the teen age and 31 children. Thirty-one were given the tuberculin skin test (Mantoux method). There were eight arrested cases, seven suspects and three active cases found.

The following assisted at the clinics: At Iowa Park, Mrs. Mamie Dale and Mrs. T. M. Black; at Burkburnett, Mrs. Kate Wooten and Mrs. I. D. Russell; at Electra, Mrs. Edward Schlaffke and Mrs. C. P. Engelking; at Wichita Falls, Mrs. T. P. Lynch, Mrs. Charles Hartsook, Mrs. W. P. Lowry, Mrs. A. T. Hanretta, Mrs. R. E. Hilburn and Mrs. T. C. Lynch.

The Wichita County association wishes to thank the different churches who so willingly offered them for the clinics, the First Christian in Iowa Park, First Baptist in Electra and Burkburnett; also the Wichita Hardware company for the use of the scales and the Martin Linen Supply company for the use of towels and the various papers for their generous publicity.

M'Kenney Delivers Address at Valley View Graduation

Dr. S. S. McKenney delivered the commencement address honoring 15 students of the Valley View High school at the school auditorium Friday night. His topic was "The Challenge of a Great Ideal."

His address was built around the theme that education should be "of the hand, head and heart." "To realize yourself, you must sacrifice yourself," he declared. "The four steps in self salvation are, 'I am, I can, I ought, I will.' The four steps of unfolding personality, 'ability, duty, assumption of responsibility.' Not achievement, simply, but high ambition, is commendable. Not failure, but low aim is a crime."

Dr. McKenney said there is no such thing as a finished education. "We have never realized nor overtaken it. It is just beyond the horizon where we can not see. Instruction may end in the schoolroom, but education goes on through life. Beyond this God has given us the universe as our adventure," he stated.

Dr. McKenney stressed the religious side of man as needing development above all else.

"The swine is so built that his eyes are on the ground. The eyes of the horse are set to look straight ahead. But God has set the eyes of man to behold the stars. Jacob had his head upon a stone, but his eyes were fixed on the angels in heaven," he declared.

Those graduating were Nina Cope, Della Jeter, Sayra Crutcher, Ozell Laurence, Gertrude Nelson, Beulah Dudley, Edna Erle Hudson, Nell Gray, Lois McClure, Ollie Bius, Lester Jones, Bill Campbell, Alfred Harmon, Bennett Cooksey and Clovis Childress.

The honor roll for the Valley View High school has been announced by Principal O. H. Stowe as follows: Freshman class, Virginia Phillips and Mary Louise Warren; sophomore, Mary Louise Hodges and Gypsy Hugh Rushing; junior, Dorothy Cope and Bennie Everett, and senior, Sayra Crutcher and Bennett Cooksey.

Picked Up

A bootblack was puffing away at a cigar when a patron asked him if he smoked often and what brand he smoked.

"Yes, sir, pretty often," answered the boy. "And the brand is Robinson Crusoe."

"I never heard of that brand," said the patron.

"It's a name I've given 'em myself," announced the boy. "You see, guv-nor, old Crusoe was a castaway, too."—Buen Humor, Madrid.

Settling Claims Against Your Estate

In the settlement of practically every estate there are debts or claims which must be adjusted before a distribution of property can be made.

If a trust company is acting as your executor, you can be sure that such claims will not be paid until they have passed the most severe examination by business and legal experts.

The validity of the claim and the correctness of the amount, must be unquestionable, so that the estate may not be depleted by the payment of unlawful claims.

Protect your estate and your beneficiaries by appointing this Bank in your will as your executor and trustee.

Father's $15,000 becomes the Family's $55,000

MANY of his securities had a low market value at present prices. However, he had $15,000 in good bonds yielding him about $675 a year.

He didn't need to use the income for running expenses, so he put it to work for family protection in this way:

He placed his $15,000 in a Life Insurance Trust. At his age the income pays the premium on a Life Insurance policy for $40,000 which is made payable to the Trustees.

At his death the Trustee will keep the full $55,000 invested for his family's benefit, distributing both income and principal as directed in the trust agreement.

During these changing times you may wish to rebuild your estate quickly. Ask us for further facts about the Life Insurance Trust.
