MAINLY ABOUT PEOPLE

By H. N. F.

Major W. L. Culberson of the regular army, who has been detailed as inspector and instructor for the National Guards Units in the 142nd Infantry district, is an ideal citizen and a typical American soldier. Major and Mrs. Culberson and their two children motored from Hillsboro to Wichita Falls, Monday and are temporarily located at the Hotel Kemp. Major Culberson was born and reared in Hill county and the citizens of that county look upon him as their favorite son. Before the coming of the world war he had been prominent in the ranks of the Texas National Guard, and when the call came he was one of the first to land at Camp Bowie where Brigadier Generals John A. Hulen and Henry Hutchings were the commanders of the Texas boys who were trained there. Major Culberson was one of the most accomplished officers of the National Guard and Generals Hulen and Hutchings thought highly of him as did Major General E. Saint John Grebble, a veteran West Pointer who was in command of the cantonment during the greater part of the time before the Panther division, known as the Thirty-sixth, were called overseas by General John J. Pershing. Major Culberson saw service in France where he received the highest praise of his superiors and when peace came he was commissioned in the regular service of his country. Long before our country entered the war the Major saw service on the Mexican border and during the war he was attached to the general staff of the American Expeditionary Forces, considered a rare distinction for an officer called from civil life. Wichita Falls may be his home for four years to come, unless he should be assigned to another field of usefulness. He is widely known throughout the Southwest and thousands of former service men are his staunch friends and admirers. Before entering the military service he was one of the popular young democrats of Hill county and was elected to imporant county offices. During his service in the cause of his country overseas, Mrs. Culberson was not idle. She filled the office of county superintendent of schools in Hill county and later was appointed a member of the state text book board. Major and Mrs. Culberson know all about teaching, they are champions of higher educational advantages for the children of all the people, living wages for those who teach and the placing of Texas, in an educational sense, in the lead of the procession of states. Bob James, a well known dairyman on the Iowa Park road, is a former resident of Hill county where he was the political duke of certain districts and ever a loyal friend and supporter of Major Culberson in the peaceful days before he dreamed of a world war or personal service in it. Colonel John Stevens of Covington, Hill county, is the political king of Old Hill. Every year he gives one of his famous barbecue on his 3,000-acre farm near Covington. If you are down white in Colonel Stevens' guest book you get a bid to the barbecue: if you are down black or spotted then you don't get a bid. Major Culberson never missed a barbecue; Bob James never missed a barbecue and, by the way, Judge Yancey Cummings never missed a barbecue. Cummings is a brilliant orator or was in those days and Colonel Stevens, after he had fed his guests on the fat of the land, dearly loved oratory if fond of the chaps who did the speaking. If he isn't fond of them they are not called upon to speak very long at a time. If Joseph Weldon Bailey were not present, then Yancey Cummings could talk as long as he liked. If Bailey happened to be present, Cummings was limited to 20 minutes and that is long enough for any man to talk either here or hereafter. Of course the Major was given a surprise when he chanced to meet Bob James as he was coming out of the Hotel Kemp and Bob was given a surprise because he doesn't come to town often and didn't know the Major was here. By the way Lieutenant Colonel Alvin M. Owsley and Major Culberson were pals in the National Guards, they were pals on the Mexican border, they were pals at Camp Bowie, they were pals in France and Flanders and they are pals today whenever an opportunity offers. A brotherly attachment exists between these two native sons of Texas. Of course H. N. F. did not interview the Major concerning the political ambitions of his Denton county comrade: the Major is a soldier and he isn't talking politics, or men or measures, for publication. Here is a regular fellow and regular fellows should be in demand here and elsewhere.

Cyrus Edwards, the gologist and his associates are pushing the work for the test well on the Hund farm near Call Field. "Mr. J. D. Parnell who is interested with Messrs. Kemp and Kell in 160 acres at Call Field, informed me that they have been offered drilling contracts on 40 acres and 160 acres by reliable operators who wish to drill there at once," remarked C. E. to H. N. F. This shows what these gentlemen think of the oil prospects there. A well known refinery man has taken a $500 interest in our proposition and Mr. James Marlow has donated a liberal amount. If we had 300 acres for lease we could sell it like hot cakes. I find some knockers, a few of them pillars, to my surprise. Every geologist and every oil man who has been out on the ground says it is a fine gamble. We must offset the work of the few knockers. The way to build is to build; the way to drill is to drill. I believe there is oil out there and a test will confirm my belief."

Texas has what is known as an association against the Prohibition Amendment. Milton Everett of San Antonio is the state chairman. Mr. Everett announces a political program for 1922. First, he demands the election of members of the state legislature

OIL OPERATORS SEE FURTHER ADVANCES IN MIDCONTINENT

Continued rises in crude oil prices, stretching from Pennsylvania fields throughout the oil producing centers of the country, served to confirm beliefs on the part of operators in the Mid-Continent that the late raisers were, rather than a flash in the pan, an indication of a sound movement which is to carry crude prices to within speaking distances of the heighths they held early last winter.

Whether the new raises are to be expected immediately, or whether a time would be necessary at present prices for purchasing companies to "orient" themselves before taking further steps, found prominent local members of the oil fraternity divided.

Opinion was unanimous, however, that the oil industry had turned the corner, and that continued prosperity could be looked forward to—particularly in Wichita Falls where the slump was weathered in good shape, and which now finds itself with a immensely increased net income.

By Associated Press.

PITTSBUGHG, Pa., Oct. 4.—Another advance in the price of Pennsylvania crude oil was announced here today by the principal purchasing agencies, the second within a week. TWO YEAR OLD PROVES BEST IN FUTURITY

By Associated Press.

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 4.—Helen Dillon, B. B. Coxe's 2 year old, proved the best in the futurity, the $7,000 feature of the opening day's card at the grand circuit races here today when Driver Serrill piloted her to victory in the last two heats after she had finished third in the first heat.

Wanna May after finishing third in the first heat of the 2:07 pace, easily captured the second and third heats.

Jeannette Rankin was much the better in the Walnut Hill cup, a 2:08 trotting stake for $3,000, taking the race in straight heats.

SOCIETY QUEEN OF CHICAGO ABDICATES

Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. McCormick Give Their Friends an Honest to Goodness Shock.

Petted Daughter of John D. Rockefeller Brings Her Romance of Love to an End.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Harold F. McCormick and his wife, the daughter of John D. Rockefeller, have separated, it was announced at the millionaire's Lake Forest home.

McCormick, who is head of the International Harvester Company, in a statement through his secretary, definitely confirmed rumors that have been afloat ever since Mrs. McCormick exiled herself in Switzerland eight years ago.

For the last eight years Mrs. McCormick has been in Zurich, Switzerland, where she went when she suffered a nervous breakdown. There she joined a colony of psychologists.

While in New York Mrs McCormick visited with her father and was reported to have discussed her domestic affairs with him, seeking his advice.

"What broke up the McCormick home?" was the question on every lip of Chicago's "400" today.

CLAIM SOURCE OF ARBUCKLE LIQUOR KNOWN

By Associated Press.

SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., Oct. 4—The alleged source of part of the liquor that was delivered to the suite of Roscoe C. (Fatty) Arbuckle in the Hotel St. Francis during a party at which Virginia Rappe is alleged to have received injuries causing her death, was disclosed here today in an affidavit published in the San Francisco Bulletin.

At the same time it was announced by Robert F. McCormack, assistant United States attorney general in charge of the prohibition prosecutions, that arrangements have been completed to arrest Arbuckle for alleged violations of the prohibition law when he arrives here tomorrow.

The alleged affidavit was made by Jack Lawrence who said he was a "whiskey runner." Lawrence, in the alleged affivadit declared: "On Saturday September 3, I delivered four bottles of whiskey at the St. Francis, and on Monday, the fifth, I delivered twelve more bottles."

McCormack also announced that two others will be arrested with Arbuckle.

BANKERS' COUNSEL VOICES OPPOSITION TO CALL FOR BANK SALARIES REPORT

By Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Oct. 4.—Thomas B. Paton, general counsel for the American Bankers Association, in reviewing the work of his department for the past year, before the convention of that organization here today after discussing the subject of federal legislation, referred to the call for publication of bank salaries by Former Comptroller of the Currency John Skelton Williams.

"For the first time in the 58 years history of the national banking system," he said, "the comptroller on February 24, shortly before his retirement from office, issued a call for reports for publication of national banks which included in the blank form of statement for reports and publication, items showing the aggregate amount of salaries paid to officers and employes. General objection was immediately voiced to the publication of this information and President McKee of the national bank division officially protested to the comptroller and also called upon general counsel for an opinion of the power of the comptroller of the currency to force the reporting banks to publish this confidential information.

"An opinion was promptly rendered in which the conclusion was reached that a statement of salaries paid did not come within the spirit of meaning of the law, not being a statement of the bank's resources or liabilities and that the comptroller had exceeded his authority in making the requirement that the banks should publish this confidential information. This opinion was given wide publicity and a large number of national banks did not publish the information. The matter has not been pressed since by the comptroller's office."

ENGINEER IS CHOSEN FOR BIG PROJECT

Irrigation Board Selects R. A. Thompson as Chief Engineer Supervising Construction Work.

Step Taken at This Time as Indication of Belief by Directors That Bond Sale Is Imminent.

R. A. Thompson, former Wichitan and up to this time one of the engineers for the interstate commerce commission, was named Tuesday afternoon as the chief engineer for the irrigation board during the construction of the Big Wichita Irrigation project—construction of which members of the board believe, is rapidly nearing.

Mr. Thompson is widely known as an engineer from his varied works in Texas, and is well known here from having been the engineer for the construction of the Wichita Falls and Northwestern and Wichita Falls and Southern railroads. Since completing this work and leaving Wichita Falls he has been one of the five engineers in the United States retained by the railroad commission to value rail properties of the country.

He has been called in in a consulting capacity on practically every project in which local business men have engaged in the past dozen years where engineering problems were involved, and was one of the first to be called into consultation with regard to the present projects.

The retaining of an engineer at this time by the Irrigation board is taken to indicate a belief on their part of the directors of almost immediate action in the sale of the bonds for the enterprise as a result of the most recent negotiation.

Mr. Thompson arrived early Tuesday prepared to enter immediately on his duties, which he will take up this morning. He first work will be the clearing up of some engineering details which arose at the last moment, and which are involved in the bond sale.

Mr. Thompson, in his capacity of chief engineer, will pass on methods of construction and the construction as done by the contractors on the entire project. Vernon L. Sullivan, engineer who has been retained in a consulting capacity by the board for the past two years, will continue to be the consulting engineer.

NEW WELL IN SOUTH ELECTRA FLOWS TUESDAY

With a thousand feet of mud still in the hole, the Bridwell-Heydrick No. 3 Waggoner, on the new 1810 foot sand, South Electra, made flows on Tuesday amounting to sixty barrels. The well was not put on the swab as planned on Monday, due to mechanical delays, but it is still coming up to early expectations.

Three quarters of a mile to the east of this new deep well the Churchill Trust company is reported preparing to test out a sand drilled into around 1780 feet, which is said to give considerable promise. This is probably the same sand that the Bridwell-Heydrick encountered.

MINERS BAN K. K. K. FROM UNION ROLLS

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Oct. 4—Wage demands of the union coal miners will be made, not later than next February 14 and meanwhile an agreement, sought by government officials cannot be made, binding the union against a strike next spring, it developed today at the convention of the United Mine Workers of America.

A re-convened convention will meet here in February to fix the union's policy regarding the demands, including a decision whether an agreement may be made to arbitarate disputes that may rise in later negotiations between miners and operators on wage scales to become effective on April 1.

The convention today placed a ban on union miners belonging to the Ku Klux Klan, rejected a proposal that the union give $500,000 to Kansas district officials to finance a legal fight on the industrial court law of that state, declared for vigorous efforts to unionize all coal fields and adopted a resolution condemning West Virginia state officials for their alleged aid for coal operators opposing the union in Mingo county.

EX-POLICEMAN CHARGED WITH TAKING CARS

Fitts Presents Letter to City Council Saying Ex-City Officer Kept Stolen Automobiles.

After a communication from an auto theft bureau at Dallas to Police Commissioner J. B. Fitts had been read to the council in which an official of the bureau stated that they had evidence tending to show that a former police officer of the city had confiscated two stolen automobiles which had been recovered by the police department, the city council in session Monday night ordered City Attorney Mann to investigate the charges made against the officer who resigned from the police force several months ago.

The communication stated that the evidence they had regarding the conduct of the former officer had been turned over to federal authorities. According to the letter, the two Ford machines had been stolen at one time and recovered by members of the local police force, although no owners had been found for them at that time. The officer in question is said to have taken the automobiles when he resigned and to have them in his possession at the present time. The rightful owners of the automobiles have been found, according to the letter.

Other Stuff Gone, Says.

In connection with the letter Commissioner Fitts said other people had come to him asking regarding property that had been stolen and recovered by officers but held at the police station. He said very little of the property was at the police station when he took over the office.

The investigation ordered in connection with the statements contained in the letter and the statements of Commissioner Fitts fortured he brief session of the council.

Acting after the request of Fire Chief McClure, Mayor Cline will issue a proclamation in connection with Fire Prevention week. A day will set for the local observance with a parade in the down town district as a probable feautre. Although not definitely decided upon it will probably be on Monday.

To cope with a situation which recently arose in the county court at law in a case on appeal from the police court the council passed as an emergency measure an ordinance which provides for the appointment of deputy clerks by George Thorburn, city clerk, with the approval of the council. In the appeal case the legal position of the acting as clerk to the

FLASHLESS GUN POWDER WILL BE TESTED TODAY

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. Flashless gun powder, making possible night firing without illumination, one of the recent developments of the army ordnance corps, will be demonstrated Friday at the third annual meeting of the army ordnance association at the Aberdeen proving grounds.

Since the invention and use of smokeless powder, which eliminated the locations of guns in daylight, ordnance experts have been working to prevent similar "shooting" at night. This has now been accomplished, it was learned today. Night firing with guns as large as five inches, in which the muzzle was barely visible to observers fifty feet away, have recently been conducted with no more than a momentary dullred glow and no illumination whatever.

It also has been demonstrated that the report is appreciably lessened with flashless charges.

TESTIMONY OF WICHITANS TO BEGIN TODAY

Red River Hearing as Pertaining to Clay County Is Completed Monday; Nine Old Residents Heard.

Testimony of Wichita Countians Expected to Have Very Important Bearing on Final Decision.

Capt. S. B. (Burk) Burnett, famous early day cattleman of of Wichita county will be one of the witnesses to testify before the Red River boundary hearings here. He arrived Tuesday afternoon, and is staying at the Kemp hotel.

In addition to his intimacy, with the early day vagaries of Red River, Captain Burnett has many interesting reminiscences of this section—including the memory of one time when the waters of the Big Wichita and Holliday creek met completely over the site of what is now Wichita Falls.

The nearest to this that more recent residents of the section remember is in 1916 when the waters of one nearly reached Seventh street, on Scott, and the other came nearly to Tenth.

The taking of testimony through which the south bank of the Red river will be established and which will in turn designate the boundary of the states of Oklahoma and Texas as pertaining to Wichita county will open this morning at 9 o'clock before Special United States Commissioner Frederick Tyler at the court room of Justice Gwinn at the courthouse.

After a several hours session Tuesday the taking of evidence as pertaining to Clay county was completed. Nine witnesses, all residents of Clay county, most of them having homes near the Red river were examined during the day.

FIRST DEATH RESULT FIGHT IS EXPECTED

WACO, Texas, Oct. 4.—Louis Crow, who early tonight was reported to be dying, at a late hour had not succumbed to knife wounds received Saturday night during a clash between a sheriff's posse and parading Ku Klux Klansmen at Lorena, although he was sinking fast, according to reports from the hospital, and could not live through the night.

WACO, Texas, Oct. 4.—The death of Louis Crow, well-known local laundry proprietor was momentarily expected here tonight, marking the first casualty growing out of the clash Saturday night at Lorena, near here when Sheriff Bob Buchanan and Deputy Sheriff M. Burton of McLennan county, attempted to halt a parade of Ku Klux Klansmen.

Crow, who had gone with his family to Lorena, like some 3,000 other persons from here and nearby towns to witness the parade, was stabbed during the melee which followed Sheriff Buchanan's attack upon the leader of the parade in an attempt to unmask him.

Upon seeing that the clash was imminent, according to relatives, Crow's curosity propelled him to climb out of his automobile and join the throng which already had lined the street. It was just at this point that the fight took place and Crow was caught in the rush of the crowd as it surged forward to get a closer view of the battle.

Until yesterday, it was thought that he, like eight other innocent bystanders, in addition to Sheriff Buchanan, was the victim of an unidentified assailant. At this time, however, in a reported statement to members of his family, he declared that he recognized the man who had wounded him.

Crow was stabbed in the right breast, the knife cutting his liver almost in two.

Sheriff Buchanan, whose right lung was pierced by a bullet, and Ed Howard, local policeman, who was stabbed in the abdomen while viewing the encounter in an unofficial capacity, were reported by their physicians to be resting as well as could be expected. It was made plain, however, that they are by no means out of danger.

Of the seven other wounded men, two have returned to their homes from the hospital and the remaining five are reported well on the road to recovery.

In the event Crow dies, it is believed here that the McLennan county grand jury will be called immediately to investigate the incident, although no official announcement to that effect has been made. District Judge R. L. Munroe and County Attorney E. B. Tims have declared their intention of calling the jury to conduct the inquiry, but both hold the view that this should not be done until the wounded have sufficiently recovered to enable them to testify. So far, no date has been set.

[illegible] action has been taken to clear up the affair.

A petition signed by one hundred prominent citizens was filed Sunday requesting the county attorney to file charges against Sheriff Buchanan and Deputy M. [illegible]teen Year Old Girl Attacked by Negro Is Used by Him in His Escape as a Shield.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Oct. 4.—Compelling eight members of a house party at Lake Worth to tie each other, and then torturing the men and women for more than an hour, a lone masked negro tonight escaped with more than $1,800 in jewelry, using a girl whom he attacked as a shield.

The matter of closing the city was brought to the attention of the council by Commissioner J. F. Reed, who said that he had been asked by officers of the Pat Carrigan Post of the American Legion and many other citizens to aid in bringing about official action by the city.

Members of the council expressed themselves in favor of the action. It was pointed out by members that the city has never set aside a day in which to pay honor to its overseas dead and by doing so on the return of the body of its most representative soldier who paid the supreme sacrifice for war service it could in a larger sense pay tribute to

MUST GAIN CONFIDENCE OF INVESTORS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 5.—Conviction that the United States cannot refrain from active participation in the settlement of economic and financial difficulties confronting the world is expressed by a special committee of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States just back from an extended trip through European countries where government officials and business leaders were interviewed and where in a close study on the ground the committee sought the views of the various elements of the populations.

In a report to the chamber's board of directors, made public today, the committee declares that:

"In every country visited the opinion was expressed that neither Western nor Central Europe can be restored to a condition which promises hope and progress for the future without our assistance. * * * Every country desires our friendship and assistance, and it is apparent we can participate in the restoration of commercial and industrial productivity on any reasonable and consistent terms, either by modification of the Versailles treaty to meet the policies of the United States, or independently of it."

On the chamber's committee are Joseph H. Defrees of Chicago, president of the chamber; John H. Fahey of Boston, former president of the chamber and director of the International Chamber of Commerce; Silas H. Strawn, of Chicago, chairman of the board, Montgomery Ward & Co.; Robert P. Lamont of Chicago, president, American Steel Foundries Co.; John J. O'Connor of Washington, manager, finance department, Chamber of Commerce of the United States, and James H. Douglas jr., secretary.

War Ever a Menace

A chief obstacle at present to a return to normal business conditions throughout the world, the committee asserts, is found in the armed conflicts in progress and in the continued threat of renewed clashes. Business will not resume its forward movement, it is declared, until the menace of recurring warfare is removed.

Conclusions of the committee, based on an intensive study, stand out as follows:

There is a heavy financial burden involved in continuing the armies of occupation, but the removal of this load depends on some effective plan for the maintenance of peace, on which the nations shall unite.

The United States and the Allies should present a solid front in demanding that Germany make good in the matter of reparations.

The United States should participate in the work of the reparations commission and in the work of the other commissions now existing or to be created which may deal with economic and financial questions which affect the United States.

There should be formed an international commission of business men to aid the reparations commission in working out difficult financial problems concerning reparations.

Keep Soldiers On Rhine

The United States should not withdraw at this time her army on the Rhine.

The committee found further that:

The world is operating on a basis of less than one-half of the pre-war standard.

The consumption of 300,000,000 persons is reduced to 30 per cent of normal.

The stronger nations cannot advance credit to relieve the situation unless there is assurance of stable conditions.

Peace still is not established, three years after the armistice.

The present German government is trying to meet the required reparations payments.

If the opposition gets control in Germany and attempts to evade or repudiate the reparation settlements a crisis will be precipitated which will be a still further menace to peace.

France and other countries bordering on Germany need protection against future attacks.

Financial aid cannot be extended to Germany to enable her to purchase raw materials with which to manufacture goods for the purpose of paying her obligations unless there remains a strong central government.

The United States, in the opinion of the committee, holds a peculiarly responsible position in the present situation and as a matter of economic necessity cannot afford to shirk her duties.

What Must Be Done

"Today the world's business apparently has reached a dead center," says the committee. "It may move forward from the present point by slow, painful and uncertain steps with the result that the process of reconstruction will extend over many years. How long such movement would continue, it is impossible to forecast. No one was able to approximate the length of the most destructive war in history, and no one is wise enough to foresee how long the present condition of doubt and in security with its inevitable suffering and social disturbances may last.

"Only by gaining the confidence of investors can the credit and capital necessary to insure normal business in the world be mobilized and used. Only the free exchange of commodities between the countries in constantly increasing volume can bring normal life to the people and the conditions they knew before the war.

"The United States is regarded as the most powerful country in the world, commercially and financially. Its reputation for integrity and fair dealing is well established. In every country your committee visited and in almost every conference in which it participated, irrespective of the occupation, official position or social status of the persons met, the opinion was expressed that neither Western nor Central Europe can be restored to a condition which promises hope and progress for the future without active assistance.

"Possessing as it does great quantities of raw material and manufactures which it wishes to exchange with other nations, the interest of the United States in accelerating a return to world prosperity is vital.

Isolation Would Be Fatal

"The fact is not debatable that after the part we have taken in the late war we cannot refrain from actively participating in the settlement of the economic and financial difficulties now confronting the world.

"Every country desires our friendship and assistance and it is apparent we can participate in the restoration of commerce and industrial productivity on any reasonable and consistent terms, either by modification of the Versailles treaty to meet the policies of the United States, or independently of it.

"Doutless it was the realization of our moral as well as of our financial and commercial responsibility in relieving the worlds depressed condition that caused the president to call the proposal conference in Washington to consider the reduction of armaments.

"Any student of world affairs cannot escape the conclusion that each of the nations, including the United States, cannot continue to expend so large a part of its entire revenue, derived from taxation which is now almost unbearable, in preparation for future war, if the present civilization is to continue. To peace and to the restoration of the world's economic balance we must give our attention."

The committee treats at some length the slow-down in the production and distribution of goods in European countries.

European Slowdown of Production

"There are no dependable figures," says the committee, "to measure the great decline in consumption, but European economists, whose opinions are highly regarded, declare that the consumption of more than 300,000,000 persons has been reduced on the average to almost 30 per cent of what it was previous to the war. There is a great need of raw materials, food, clothing and all kinds of manufactured materials. Millions want the commodities which others could supply. They are unable to buy because their money is so reduced in value that it has little buying power. Every purchase at the present high rates of exchange means payment at prices that are nearly prohibitive. This means the issue of more paper money and consequently causes a further contraction of the already limited buying power."

The currencies of the countries affected, the committee asserts, cannot be very much improved or exchanges put on a proper basis with aid in the form of loans. But, says the committee.

"The credit and capital of the stronger nations cannot be employed in amounts sufficient to overcome the present crisis without assurance of settled conditions. In every country the committee finds unanimous agreement that confidence does not exist because peace is not established. It seems apparent that business in Europe has come to a definite pause and is not likely to resume the movement forward until the armed conflicts which still persist there are stopped, and the menace of recurring warfare is removed.

All Nations Must Co-Operate

Among the bankers and business men visited, says the report, the committee found the general belief that the establishment of peace and the restoration of confidence is impossible without the wholehearted co-operation of all allied, neutral and former allied countries.

The report devotes considerable space to the subject of reparations. It expresses the belief that many of the German people believe Germany must pay for the damage her armies did and that the government now in power and its supporters are conscientiously trying to solve the problem, and meet the required payments.

"There is, however," says the committee, 'an unfortunately large number of representative industrial and financial interests who refuse to regard the amount of payment arrived at as final. They insist on the inability of Germany to pay and campaign persistently against government leaders. They are supported by the monarchists and militarists. If these groups should secure ascendancy, even temporarily, and should attempt to repudiate or evade the reparations payments it is inevitable that a crisis would develop which would be a further menace to peace.

"The danger of such an occurrence requires that the United States and the allies shall at all times present a solid front and thus carry conviction that escape from reasonable demands will not be permitted. Unless these nations thus act in concert France will be impelled, in self-defense to use military pressure, as she has in the past."

Germany Must Be Given Chance.

The committee does not express an opinion as to whether Germany can pay the amount of indemnities fixed. It declares this must depend in large measure on the promptness with which the normal business of the world is restored, Germany's success in securing outside financial assistance and her capacity to put her fiscal affairs in order. The committee has the opinion, it says, of some of the best of the German leaders that it can be paid and that every effort will be made to pay it if Germany is given a reasonable chance.

Since loans between the governments seem no longer feasible, financing in connection with reparation bonds and payments, the committee says, becomes the problem of private business. The committee, therefore, is of the opinion that an organization representative of the financial and business interests of the leading countries should be constituted to work continuously with the Reparations Commission in dealing with this and other great financial questions to be faced during the next ten years.

"In the absence of international machinery to meet this need," says the report, "business uncertainty will continue and it will remain impossible for bankers or business men to plan intelligently for the future. On no country is the present exchange situation reacting more harmfully than the United States and none is more concerned with efforts to improve it and to deal with he problem involved in the reparations payments."

The committee declares its belief that there is in the United States little appreciation of the importance to this country, as well as to Europe, of the presence of United States troops on the Rhine.

Why U. S. Soldiers Are Needed.

"If the United States," says the committee, "were to withdraw its troops. France would then be obliged to maintain forces along the entire length of the line, with the exception of the short sectors where the British and Belgians are in control. The feeling between the German and French people is intense. After long delays and many evasions by Germany, France forced upon that country the realization that she was prepared to occupy so much of Germany as was necessary to insure compliance with the disarmament provisions of the Peace Treaty, and the payment of the indemnity. French action has been vigorous and it is apparent that during recent months the hatred which attached particularly to the French army has not diminished. If the American forces on the Rhine are now taken away, and the French administration necessarily extended, a great modifying influence will be removed, and the possibilities of further trouble increased."

The committee goes into the subject of security for the countries bordering on Germany, concluding that guarantees must be given. There is a dissent in Europe, says the committee, that if Germany pays the indemnity she must again show great industrial strength. Such a Germany would be a great potential military power. France does not propose to take any chances in the future. She insists on payment for damage done to French territory. At the same time she does not consider that there is sound reason why the present German republic should continue. Other countries also bordering on Germany believe it would make for continuous peace if Germany were broken up and rendered impotent for military action, in the future.

Germans and Raw Materials.

The committee in its report appears to question the wisdom of this view and says: "Germany cannot pay unless she produces at her full capacity and has opportunity to sell. She cannot so produce without raw materials greatly in excess of the quantity she now obtains. It is practically impossible for her to procure the requisite raw materials, a large portion of which she must import from other countries where the exchange is against her by a wide margin, unless she can obain credit and her government fiscal system is placed on a very much better basis than at present.

"Greater financial aid will not be extended to Germany by other countries in the measure necessary unless she can pursue her rehabilitation in peace and there is confidence that a secure central government will be maintained within the German republic. If there is the constant possibility of breakdown and disarmament of that state, it is next to impossible for Germany adequately to be financed."

GRAIN DEALERS CONTINUE FIGHT ON FARM BODY

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Middle men in the grain trade meeting here in the Grain Dealers' National Association voted today to continue their fight against the farmers co-operative grain marketing movement. They endorsed the campaign conducted by their special executive committee headed by R. I. Mansfield, of Chicago, and ordered it to continue its work for the next year.

This committee was called into being last June following organization of the United States grain growers' into a national co-operative corporation of farmers, fostered largely by the American farm bureau federation. In this interval, Mr. Mansfield reported today, the committee had sent out letters to 206,000 influential farmers, had distributed 1,400,000 pieces of literature in 18 states, had had articles printed in nearly 700 magazines, farm journals and newspapers, and had organized a speakers bureau.

The result, Mr. Mansfield declared, was that "the emergency situation has been met and met successfully. Our opponents are not functioning and are meeting with very little response in their campaign."

Reports that the grain trade had raised a fund of $250,000 for its counter campaign, he declared untrue, and he presented a financial report showing total receipts of $40,386.59. Of this, $31,100 was received from grain exchanges, $500 from the grain dealers national association, $6,075 as special contributions from the Chicago board of trade members, $2,000 in outside contributions and interest $15,55.

Urges Educational Campaign.

Vigorous warning was given the grain men by Mr. Mansfield that the work they had started they must carry on for their own preservations. He urged a "concerted and sustained campaign of education for the producer and the consumer."

"Failure to follow up this work so well begun," he declared, "will result in a flood of adverse legislation, in every new and more visionary marketing schemes, and finally, without doubt, in the concentration of the great bulk of the grain business in the United States in the hands of a few powerful interests.

Small Dealer In Danger

"If we do not continue our educational work, in five years the small dealer will be a thing of the past, business will be a matter of dealing with grain pools, and the open competitive marketing system will be gone."

On conclusion of the report of the special executive committee a resolution continuing it was adopted without debate.

In presenting the report of the association's legislative commitee, A. E. Reynolds, of Crawfordsville, Indiana, said that the county agent "instead of performing the legal functions for which the position was created in many cases has prostituted his position to the extent that he had become a common demagogue and agitator, and is a dangerous factor in the community."

With reference to farm legislation at Washington, Mr. Reynolds added, "We have few more glaring instances of the unwarranted practices of professional paid lobbyists than is presented by the lobby maintained by the farm interests at Washington during the past year."

The convention closes its 25th annual session tomorrow.

All departments of the Packard agency will be transferred to the Victory Motor Company at 905 Scott street, where the management announces a high standard of Packard service will be maintained by a corps of expert Packard mechanics and invites Packard owners to drop in and get acquainted.

CAPITAL AND LABOR COURT IS CONSIDERED

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Legislation to establish a federal tribunal of industrial relations to bring capital and labor into more harmonious action was said to be under consideration by members of the senate education and labor committee. Such a tribunal has been suggested by Chairman Kenyon of the committee.

The plan which proposes a federal "supreme court of industry" with decrees enforced by public opinion and not through penal statutes is to be brought up in connection with the committee's report on the West Virginia mine disorders.

Senator Kenyon said that plan contemplated enactment of an industrial code defining unquestioned rights of both labor and capital. The code would grant rights of collective bargaining, peaceful picketing and immunize non-union men from interference.

A fundamental of the plan and its only compulsion by statute, Senator Kenyon said, would be prohibition of strikes during periods of investigation by the federal tribunal. This is similar to the Canadian law. Senator Kenyon plans after consultation with and adoption by other labor committeemen to introduce a bill containing the outlines of the plan.

who would not allow their names to be used, said they believed that the desire of Mrs. McCormick and her daughter, Muriel, for careers of their own, caused the rift.

Mr. McCormick has devoted a great deal of his time and money in recent years to the promotion of the Chicago Grand Opera Company.

Muriel has given out that her great desire in life is to go on the stage, and that she is studying toward that end.

The socially prominent, whose palatial homes line the "gold coast"—Northshore drive—were left to wonder whether Mrs. McCormick, in pursuit of her career, had renounced the position she alone had the right to claim—dictator of Chicago society.

Mrs. "Fifi" Stillman, center of the sensational divorce wrangle with her millionaire husband, James Stillman, is a close friend of the McCormicks. She recently took the "rest cure" at Lake Forest, while both McCormicks were away. Muriel, the daughter, was the hostess.

Muriel McCormick and Anne Stillman are bosom companions and are together either here or in the East frequently. Harold McCormick, jr., is reported engaged to Anne, but there has been no confirmation. Both daughters' actions under the circumstances breaks between their parents are similar, it was pointed out by persons who knew both intimately.

Anne announced she had decided to "stick by mamma in her trouble"; Muriel chose her mother, also. She came from the east with Mrs. McCormick, as did Harold, jr.

A Genuine Love Match

"A genuine love match," so the marriage of Miss Edith Rockefeller, the "richest bride in America," and Harold McCormick, son of the "reaper king," was heralded in 1895. The bride and made up her mind to go to Japan as a Baptist missionary, but about that time Harold McCormick came along and love, engagement and marriage soon followed. McCormick was ill at the time of the marriage ceremony, so it was performed in his apartment. It was a simple affair, compared to the gorgeous ceremony which had been expected to attend the uniting the heirs of two great fortunes.

Installed in the

Installed in the beautiful Lake Shore mansion Mrs. McCormick soon vied with Mrs. Potter Palmer for the leadership of Chicago's "400." And it was not long until she was hailed as the new queen of society when Mrs. Palmer left Chicago to make her home in Florida. Mrs. McCormick's "coronation" came at the debut of the grand opera season in 1911. It was the slender and very erect figure attired in a fabulous robe of heavy satins which drew all eyes that night, for the McCormick reign had begun and from then on the McCormick word and action was law in Chicago's "400."

A Carpet Cleaner

Then a few years later, Mrs. McCormick went to Switzerland for an "indefinite" stay. When the stay lengthened into weeks, and months and then years, tongues hinted at a separation, but such rumors always were denied emphatically. From Zurich, where she had gone as the result of a nervous breakdown, came word that Mrs. McCormick was attending a school of domestic arts and sciences. A Chicago friend found her on her knees cleaning out the space beneath a couch. Mrs. McCormick told her visitor that she had learned to clean carpets with her own hands, to beat rugs and clean house.

FIND FARMER DEAD WITH PISTOL NEAR BODY

NACONA, Texas, Oct. 4.—Joe Mitchell, 46, prominent farmer of the Dye Mound community was found dead at the home of his brother, Joe Mitchell, at Belcherville, near here, early Tuesday morning. An automatic pistol was found by the dead man's side. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of death due to suicide.

izations were condemned in grand jury charges delivered by seven district judges of Texas yesterday, who ordered sweeping investigations of activities of masked bands. Judges at San Antonio and Cameron issued orders against parades by masked men. Judge James R. Hamilton of Austin was especially bitter in his denunciation of the klan. He declared that more than fifty persons had been whipped or tarred and feathered in Texas in the last six months and that numerous persons had received threatening communications. He called attention to that section of the state penal code which prohibits whitecapping.

At San Antonio Chief of Police Mussey and Sheriff Tobin in response to rumors that a Ku Klux Klan parade would be staged there, declared they would not permit such a procession and would employ "any necessary number" of deputies. Sheriff Harrell of Cameron has issued a proclamation calling upon citizens to oppose any attempt at parade by marchers.

WACO, Texas, Oct. 4.—Efforts of several hundred Lorena citizens, represented by a committee of one hundred who Sunday requested County Attorney F. B. Tirey to file complaints against Sheriff Bob Buchanan, of McLennan county, and his deputy, M. Burton, in connection with the clash Saturday night at Lorena, resulting in wounds to ten men when the sheriff attempted to halt a Ku Klux Klan parade, appeared here today to have been temporarily abandoned. The delegation, after the meeting, expressed satisfaction at the promise of District Judge R. L. Munroe and the county attorney to call the McLennon county grand jury to investigate the incident at the earliest possible time and departed for their homes after drafting a resolution placing the blame for the encounter upon Sheriff Buchanan and exonerating the Ku Klux Klan from any violation or attempted violation of the law.

Governor Pat M. Neff's first official comment on the affair, expressing "great regret that such a thing should occur anywhere within the state," attracted much interest here but the majority of those expressing an opinion as to the statement were inclined to agree with County Attorney Tirey that local authorities were able to cope with the situation and that the governor's offer of state aid in the investigation was not necessary.

No announcement as to the date when the McLennan county grand jury will be called to inquire into the incident was made today.

The more seriously wounded, Sheriff Buchanan, Louis Crow and Ed Howard, were reported "holding their own" by their physician, who added, however, that neither was out of danger. Visitors except members of their immediate families have not been permitted since they were brought to a local hospital following the encounter.

Neither man has made public a statement of their part in the fight although Crow is understood to have told relatives that he recognized his assailant.

Of the seven other wounded men, two have returned to their homes and the others are believed to be well on th road to recovery.

NEW TRACTION FRANCHISE IS DEFEATED AT HOUSTON

By Associated Press.

HOUSTON, Texas, Oct. 4.—Complete returns show that the proposed service-at-cost street railway franchise was overwhelmingly defeated in the special election Tuesday. Out of 3,705 votes cast, 2,907 ballots went against the measure, while only 1,798 were cast for it. Only one ward, the second, where most of the company employes vote, gave the franchise approval and in this the vote was negligent.

COLLECTIONS FOR TAXES SPEEDING UP

Complete satisfaction at the response and expressions of co-operation from Wichitans in connection with the campaign for early payment of taxes was voiced by City Tax Collector H. J. Anderson at the close of Tuesday's business, which marked the end of the third day of the campaign.

During the three days, Mr. Anderson reported that a total of $3,056.72 has been collected and assurances received from citizens which indicate that before the end of the first half of the month payments will come in with a rush that will bring the desired quota of $100,000.

In a report furnished the Record News of Monday's collections the name of M. L. Tittle, county tax collector was omitted from the report through a clerical error. Mr. Tittle was waiting at the city tax collector's office when he opened for Monday's business and made the first payment of the day, Mr. Anderson announced.

Citizens who made their payments on Tuesday were:

COUNTY TAXES BEING PAID MORE RAPIDLY

Featured by the payment of $1008 county and school taxes by the Odell Oil company of this city, tax collection Tuesday at the office of W. L. Tittle, county tax collector, continued to greatly exceed the collections of last year. Nine poll taxes were paid on the third day since the opening of the tax collection for the current year.

In addition to the Odell company several other residents of the county paid their taxes. A total of approximately $3,500 has now been received since Saturday the opening day. The Odell company has producing oil properties in the Texhoma field of the Burkburnett district.

police court was questioned. Under the new ordinance the night and day clerks are deputies under the city clerk and are bonded.

Deputy Clerk Named.

After the passage of the ordinance City Clerk Thorburn submitted the names of John Thomason, present incumbent, for day deputy and Lee McDonald, night chief of police as night deputy.

The council discussed at length the position to be taken by the city in a tax case where a previous tax collector had certified through error in an abstract that the taxes on a certain piece of property had been paid and it was later discovered that it was not. The matter was brought to the attention of the council by H. J. Anderson city tax collector, who brought a specific case to their attention in which an innocent purchaser was now being asked by the city to pay delinquent taxes over a period of several years.

No final action was taken in the matter the council being divided as to whether the innocent purchaser should be held responsible or have the city bear the loss.

Street Complaints.

C. F. Moss representing eighteen property owners near the corner of Taylor street and Avenue Q asked that the street be graded in front of their properties. City Attorney Mann was instructed to report on the legal right of the city to use money from its permanent road bond issue for this purpose there being no money available from the street fund.

J. A. Raley Jr. representing property owners on Austin street, complained of the present condition of the street due to excavation. He was assured by City Engineer Montgomery that the street would be graded within a week.

A brief executive session of the council was held ust before adjournment. No announcement was made by members of the council as to the matters discussed.

testimony to open today from Wichita county residents and former residents is the most important that has been taken either on the Oklahoma or Texas side of the river.

It is the valuable oil properties laying in the bed and banks of the river bordering on Wichita county out of which present litigation grew and is in fact the only property concerned in the boundary dispute which is of any particular value at the present time.

May Take All Week.

It is expected that he examination of the Wichita county witnesses will require the remainder of the week with a possibility that the he ring here may extend over into the coming week.

Although not present Tuesday, attorney General Cureton heads the list of attorneys representing Texas at the hearing. T. W. Gregory, former attorney general of the United States as Special Assistant and Assistants Attorney General C. E. Stone and T. H. Taylor are assisting Cureton.

Oklahoma and the United States are represented by John Fain and J. A. Tellier, special assistants, and Assistant Attorney General George Short of Oklahoma. In addition the party is accompanied by W. A. Durant, school land commissioner of Oklahoma and Robert W. Livingston and Everett Kimmel, federal engineers.

According to attendants on the hearing, there were no special developments from the testimony taken from the Clay county residents Tuesday. The testimony was in general the same as that obtained from residents in other counties where the hearings have been held.

Witnesses Early Settlers.

Opening with J. W. Douthitt, whose testimony covered a period of 40 years as a resident of Clay county in which he observed the habits of the Red river, nine witnesses were examined.

A feature of Mr. Douthitt's testimony was the statement that from his observation on the Clay county boundary Texans would not be able to reach the river on what is commonly supposed to be Texas property should the boundary of the state be established as contended by Oklahoma.

He and other witnesses testified at length as to the general characteristics of the river over extended periods, all witnesses being men past middle age. The course of the stream at flood and dry periods was described with the cuts in the banks mentioned several times. The supposed islands in the river were asked about by these men during the examination with the flood line and the line of vegetation emphasized.

The following witnesses, all residents of Clay county, were examined during the day: J. W. Douthitt, T. H. Harrison, H. D. Stine, W. B. Free, R. P. Grogan, S. F. White, Charley L. Wolf and George Hulen.

METHODISTS PLAN YEAR'S ACTIVITIES

Plans were laid Tuesday evening at the annual banquet of the officers and teachers of the First Methodist Church South, held in the church basement, to build the largest Sunday school in Texas. Approximately one hundred officers and teachers were served a three course dinner.

E. C. Huckabee acted as toastmaster and chairman of the meeting. While the dinner was being served, music was rendered by the Johnson orchestra.

Reverend H. D. Knickerbocker championed a teachers' training institute revival which he stated was the proper method of attacking the problem of supplying teachers for the Sunday school. He urged that this institute be held at the earliest possible time. The matter was referred to a committee who were instructed to plan for the institute.

Numerous methods of building up the Sunday school were discussed at the banquet. It was announced that next Sunday would be Rally day and an effort was being made to have 1313 people in attendance at Sunday school on that morning.

MINERS ASK AID FOR MEN HELD BY AUTHORITIES

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The United Mine Workers of America laid before President Harding today a request that the federal government aid in protecting rights of coal miners held in jail by West Virginia authorities as a result of the recent strike disturbances in that state.

The committee appointed by the mine workers' convention in Indianapolis spent an hour with the president advising him of their understanding of the West Virginian situation. They told Mr. Harding that they believed the men under arrest were in jeopardy and that it was the duty of federal authorities to take steps for their protection. No conclusions of the conference was made public.

MEETINGS OF COUNCIL TO BE RESUMED

Early resumption of the meetings of the Chamber of Commerce Business Council as the best means for the speeding up of the work of the Chamber of Commerce for the new season was urged by the directors of the organization in a resolution adopted at a Tuesday morning meeting. The first of the new meetings will be called either Friday of this or next week by J. C. Mytinger, the chairman, who was one of those in attendance at the meeting.

Preparations for the meeting in January were taken with the appointment of a committee to make nominations for vacancies on the board to be voted on in the membership meeting, to be held in January. W. D. Cline, W. W. Anderson, W. S. Curles, G. C. Wood and C. W. Reid are the directors whose terms expire this year.

Major W. L. Culbertson, army officer, who has recently been detailed to Wichita Falls as inspector-instructor of the 142nd infantry, Texas National Guard, was introduced to the directors by D. M. Perkins, and was welcomed to Wichita Falls in a resolution, moved by Frank Kell. He was made an honorary member of the Chamber of Commerce on motion of J. M. McFall.

Major Culbertson expressed his pleasure at being again located at Wichita Falls, and invited the directors to put him to work, as he considered himself a full fledged citizen of Wichita Falls now.

Cyrus Edwards told the directors of his project for the drilling of a wild cat test near Call Field, and the effort was indorsed, for all those financially able to help out such an enterprise, on the ground that the testing of new territory was a worthy enterprise.

Payment of dues by members should be speeded up, a resolution adopted by the directors urged.

TROOP 6 TO TACKLE PARK GRIDDERS

Troop Six football team of the local boy scouts will journey over to Iowa Park high school eleven. Troop Six has an off day on the scout football schedule on Saturday and are supplementing Iowa Park to keep their team busy. Iowa Park lost to Burkburnett last Saturday 33 to 12.

The Troop Six team is admitted the class of the boy scout league. They have a well balanced team averaging 125 lbs. In the four games played they have run up a total of 97 points to their opponents 6. The Troop 6 bunch have demonstrated their ability to cope with every style of play brought against them so far. Their defense is excellent as shown by the fact opposing teams have made first down against them on six occasions in the four games.

The strong Troop 4 team, victors of last years football schedule, have been successful in holding the sixth troopers to a seven to six score. Troop 4 made their touchdown on a fumble, the ball getting away from a Troop 6 back on their ten yard line and rolling across the goal, and a fourth trooper fell on it.

Reports indicate that the Iowa Park eleven pack a strong offense as demonstrated by their ability to make two touchdow s against the strong Burkburnett team. Little comparison of the two teams can be made. The Park eleven averages approximately 135 lbs.

Two of the Park halves are said the weigh 160 pounds each and to be demon line plungers, but the sixth troopers are not worrying about that as demon line plungers have failed to make any important gain through their line. They feel confident that the speed of their back field coupled with their wonderful defensive strength will bring them victory.

The scouts will journey over by automobile, leaving Wichita Falls about 9 a. m., and returning in time for the Electra Wichita Falls high school game that afternoon.

OKLAHOMA OIL MAN HELD ON OIL STOCK DEAL

TULSA, Okla., Oct. 4.—Charles F. Starr, president of the Starr-Kane Oil Company of Tulsa and formerly a resident of Philadelphia, was arrested here today on a fugitive warrant from Philadelphia charging him with obtaining $255,000 fraudulently in an oil stock deal. Starr was arraigned and released on $5,000 bond. His attorneys declared the arrest was the result of a "frame-up" by certain Philadelphians to force him to complete a transaction, their part of which they failed to uphold.

FROM AROUND THE STATE

SOUTH BEND

SOUTH BEND, Texas, Oct. 4.—The Send Bend Derrick makes the announcement that one of the largest oil companies in the United States is to build a pipe line into the South Bend field.

It is said that Hobbs-Haskell well tapped the sand in fourteen days, after the drillers made 1850 feet in twelve days.

South Bend public school opened with 131 children or a 100 per cent of the children in the district. Misses Ora and Luna Harty of Murray are the teachers.

A tank company and supply house have been added to the business activities of Oil City and several new buildings are being erected.

Officials of the Cosben Oil company have been going over their holdings in the Bunger filed. This company recently entered into contract with the Standard Oil company to furnish a huge quantity of production.

T. F. Morton of Wichita Falls is here.

AMARILLO

AMARILLO, Texas, Oct. 4.—R. Hamilton and family of Wichita Falls are visiting in the homes of R. B. Masterson and Branch Anderson of this city.

D. P. McCaleb, district supervisor of the Texas Farm Bureau federation is here to locate district offices somewhere in the Panhandle. Amarillo is said to be his choice.

Fifty babies were born in Amarillo during the month of September; 29 were boys and 21 girls. There were only 18 deaths.

John H. Watson has assumed the management of the Amarillo Hotel, coming from the Harvey House system.

County Harmon Benton has sent prize winning agricultural exhibits to the State Fair at Dallas.

QUANAH

QUANAH, Texas, October 4.—Quanah merchants are hostile to the proposition of giving coupons, based on two per cent of purchases made by those residents of Oklahoma who come across the Quanah-Eldorado bridge to trade here, although it has some supporters. Those who are opposed to giving coupons say that if they give it to Oklahomans they must in fairness do the same to all their customers.

A degree team from Childress Royal Arch Masons will come to Quanah, Monday, to conduct initiatory work in Quanah chapter and to stir up interest in the Knights Templar work.

It is announced that the Quanah Oil Company organized under a trust agreement in 1918, and capitalized at $100,000 has become the property of the Magnolia-Petrolium company for $175,000 in cash. This will pay each stockholder $175 in cash for each share of $100 par value. Wiley Blair Mrs. Hubert Hughes and Earnest Maupin of Dallas and C. A. Newby of Hollywood, California, are owners of considerable stocks of the stock. This corporation has paid one dividend and will pay approximately 200 per cent to the stockholders through the sale of their stock and the division of the bank balance after paying taxes and a few other incidentals.

When the Q. A. & P. railroad was built from Quanah to Paducah twelve years ago there were about 500 people in that town. Now there are about 2500. There was no Swearingen, no Lazare, no Roaring Springs. When the surveys for the road were made, the country was given over to cattle ranching, prairie dogs and coyotes. Now several thousand farmers live in the territory served by this road, and cotton shipments from Paducah territory this crop will, it is estimated, total 23,000 bales by the close of the season. It also is a big wheat section, and the last crop demonstrated that. As one of the premier cattle raising sections, it is noted. These matters a party of Frisco officials learned at first hand when they made the trip on inspection, and there is nothing so convincing to railroad men as to see and hear for themselves.

C. B. Simpson reports that approximately 1,250,000 bushels of wheat have been shipped from the Pampa section of Texas this year and more than 500,000 bushels remains to be shipped. He has shipped 160,000 himself.

Captain S. M. Hankins states that three companies of the 142nd infantry will be mustered into service without delay. Crowell will furnish the headquarters company and Amarillo and Chillicothe the two rifle companies.

J. C. T. V. Christensen of Wichita Falls, a foundryman of Northwest Texas, was here looking up business from the railroads. His company specializes in making the brass boxes used on car trucks as well as iron castings, having a patronage from railroads all over North and West Texas. He recently returned from a visit to his native country, Denmark, and to the battlefields of Belgium and France.

FREDERICK

FREDERICK, Okla., Oct. 4.—On account of the immense amount of cotton being shipped and lack of switching facilities an embargo has been placed on all cotton to be shipped to compresses to Altus, Hobart, Chickasha and other places.

Judge Waterman on his return from Tulsa reported that if co-operation should be given large oil companies Tillman county land owners it would result in six 4000 foot oil wells being drilled in Tillman county. According to Judge Waterman the big companies are to furnish their acreage in Tillman county and $500,000 in cash provided sufficient acreage from individuals can be secured.

Merchants and bankers of Frederick report Saturday last one of the best business days this year.

Hundreds of cotton pickers from Texas are passing through Frederick bound to the cotton fields. On one day forty of these wagons of movers passed through Frederick.

Mrs. Grace Winningham and Sybil Thrush left yesterday for Wichita Falls.

One band at Pacific Grove, Cal., gives concerts in a shell which they carry with them, says Popular Mechanics. The shell is mounted on a condemned fire truck and moves bout from place to place between Pacific Grove and the beach nearby, for use in concerts at different places. The shell floor is twenty feet long with a ten-foot radius. A shell hinged to the shell, which may be raised while the truck is en route, provides additional space.

Seymour Spends Big Sum for Improving City

Special to the Record News.

SEYMOUR, Texas, Oct. 4.—More than $150,000 is being expended on street paving and graveling in Seymour. Four blocks of the twelve to be paved have been finished and excavating for the entire contract is finished. The paving is all of three-inch vitrified brick on five-inch concrete base with sand cushion between. The brick are cemented with asphalt. As the pavement goes down the city is installing an elaborate conduit street lighting system. Ornamental steel poles are being placed on the corners of each block which will be equipped with 500 candle power lamps. The total cost of the lighting contract is $5,000. Graveling of residence streets is progressing satisfactorily. One street in west Seymour has been completed its entire length, and it is thought by Mayor James A. Britain, that several more miles of this character of street improvement will be contracted for this month. A fine quality of gravel in convenient pits near Seymour make this a very desirable and economical improvement.

WURZBACH AND THE "BIG THREE."

Congressman Harry W. Wurzbach of San Antonio is as mad as a singed cat. In the distribution of patronage he has been ignored and Messrs. Creager and Scobey have been given the ear of the president. David Walker is the United States marshal of the western district of Texas and Walker is the brother-in-law of Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty. Wurzbach is furious; he has recommended August Briam for postmaster in San Antonio. The Big Three are supporting P. G. Lucas. All places of any consequence in Texas, Wurzbach says, have been dictated by the Big three. Wurzbach says this policy "is hurting the Republican party in Texas in a way that the party is due to suffer." Of course the party is due to suffer. The genial Wurzbach will be a one termer. By his own admissions he hasn't as much influence with the administration as a Tammany Hall Democrat.

STATE FAIR OF TEXAS

Coming: The State Fair of Texas at Dallas. The great show will open Saturday, October 8, during the following 16 days hundreds of thousands of Texans, and also residents of many other states, will attend what is conceded to be the greatest fair and exposition in the United States. Last year and also in 1919, the attendance passed the million mark, and every effort is being made to at least equal these records this fall. All available space has been taken on the grounds for exhibits and an unusually large number of entertainment features and concessions, that are always interesting and popular. Special buildings, booths, tents and all manner of structures are being erected on all sides and the fair grounds present a scene of industry and activity that well might be compared to the proverbial beehive.

MAYOR HARP'S WARNING.

Mayor D. Leon Harp of Mexia has adopted a slogan "Keep Mexia Clean." This is his warning: "We want to serve notice that we are offering no asylum for the riff raff of the underworld. The town and its environs have been kept free of the elements that pray on society and we mean to keep it so." Thousands have drifted to the Mexia field and are covering Limestone, Freestone and Navarro counties; hundreds sleep in the open and look to the generous to supply them with food. There are ten men for every job in the Mexia field. This should serve as a warning to floaters and drifters who are going to South Texas hoping to take down war time wages and short hours.

Managing Director Eugene Meyer jr. of the War Finance Corporation says he is ready to make loans under terms of the agricultural credits legislation on Texas cattle, sheep and wool. He suggests the formation of a holding corporation in Texas, this corporation to place its paper with the banks and the banks in turn negotiate through the war finance corporation. There appears to be a lot of red tape used in governmental circles but if the cattleman, the sheepman and the woolman obtain the relief they are seeking, no doubt all will be [illegible]

HIS WINGS HAVE BEEN BROKEN.

Fatty Arbuckle may be sent to trial October 10. Fatty wined and dined the parasites who flocked to the place and the man where the food was rich and the booze flowed. He's just as good and just as bad as his associates and this does not appear to be saying much for Fatty. Fatty and his pals were drunk to a hilarious degree on the day one of their number died. According to the testimony all concerned were tarred with the same stick. They were wastrals and "drank and be merry" was their song. Even the woman who swore to the charge of murder against the fat simpleton flitted about in yellow pajamas and according to the witnesses exhibited a drinking capacity that would have done credit to a seventeenth century three bottle gentleman. Arbuckle will never be convicted of manslaughter but he will never fly high again in the movies. His wings have been broken. Booze did it.

WORK FOR THE IDLE.

Governors of American states and mayors of American cities are urged to co-operate to put into effect the recommendations of the Harding conference on unemployment. An attempt will be made to hasten to early passage the congressional bill appropriating $75,000,000 for road building. According to a recent survey Germany has only 250,000 idle workers. Public works on a large scale have been undertaken by the German government and municipalities in order that the small army of unemployed shall be given jobs to sustain them during the winter months. Idleness, enforced idleness, begets hunger and misery and hunger and misery begets crime and criminals. A man will steal before he will starve. Of course this may be denied by men who have been hungary but they are not qualified to give testimony.

TELL IT TO JONES.

Senator Heflin of Alabama is growling because the salaries of officials and others in the New York Federal Reserve Bank has been increased from $1,800, $2,400 and $4,000 a year to $10,000 and $12,000 and 25,000; Senator Fletcher of Florida says there is a $15,000 a year board of operations to tell an eighty-four thousand dollar a year shipping board how to operate the government merchant fleet; Senator McKellar of Tennessee says a $30,000 a year director of shipping operations told a Tennessee business man that he should charter a British ship rather than an American vessel because the British steamer would give a lower freight rate. All this is interesting to Jones. Jones is the gentleman who staggers along while he pays the freight.

EVER FOR THE WRITTEN LAW.

It is Chief Justice William Howard Taft now. He has taken the oath that binds the chief justice of the supreme court of the United States to administer justice without respect to person and do equal right to the poor and the rich. Chief Justice Taft is ever for the written law; he is ever 100 per cent Americanism, he is ever for justice without respect to person and he is ever for doing equal right to the poor and the rich. This is the record that he has made and this is why Americans, regardless of political affiliations, admire the man. Before his presidential career is over Warren G. Harding may be justly criticized for many things but the appointment of William Howard Taft as chief justice will not be one.

Judge Albert H. Gary enters a sweeping denial to the story that he had purchased the smelter plant of the city of Monterery. A Mexican editor says the smelter has been owned entirely by Mexicans and the reported sale to American interests is said to have been a blow to the pride of the Mexican people. Now that Judge Gary has made his denial the agony is over and the Aztec gloom has been dispelled.

Thomas W. Lamont is on his way to Mexico. He is one of the of nancial experts of the House of Morgan. Mexico owes a foreign debt of $500,000,000; Mexico has rich oil fields; Mexico has rich silver and copper mines; Mexico has latent resources having a value of billions. Mexico should be given an opportunity to pay.

Beeville has passed a law or ordinance making it unlawful for any organization or body of people exceeding ten in number to use the streets of Beeville, without obtaining the permission of the mayor and city commissioners, Beeville is for the written law.

Rippling Rhymes

DIVORCES

Divorce news fill the public prints, and jar the gentle readers; and dames in silk and dames in chintz for court decrees are pleaders. They form a dismal caravan, these dames who tire of marriage; and now and then a locoed man looms up, with humble carriage. "Gadzooks!" we mutter, as we read, "odsfish and eke gee-whizzle! Is matrimony gone to seed? Are wedding vows a fizzle? Our institutions are at fault, since sacred vows are shifting; is it not time to call a halt? Oh, wither are we drifting?" But where one female goes to court to have her vows rescinded, and be the melancholy sport of lawyers broken-winded, a hundred wear their wedding rings, old fashioned homes adorning, and cherish still the filmy things they wore one marriage morning. The girls with woes of many tints, who want a separation, all break into the public prints, and make a large sensation. But happy wives who hold the fort don't get that sort of mention; they air no grievances in court, and so escape attention. So when you read of divers dames, with troubles true or phony, who ask to have their maiden names and ample alimony, remember that for every one who takes these public courses, a hundred other women shun the court that deals divorces!

OSCAR CHOWDER, THE TRAINED CLAM.

I first met Oscar about three weeks ago in a restaurant on Lafayette street, and the party who brought him in claims that he is the only trained clam in existence. I was very much attracted to him at once and determined to get something of his life history.

It seems my friend the restaurant-eur picked Oscar up last spring and took him under his guidance. He gave Oscar a liberal education and a good home. It has been this man's habit for years to serve chowder every Friday noon, and that is where Oscar comes into the scheme. He first taught Oscar to do a high dive, and then he taught him to do it every Friday morning. Now Oscar needs no coaching, but every Friday morning he does the jump and lands in the chowder and stays there for five minutes, after which he crawls out.

Of course, being a clam, Oscar is not very talkative, but he consented to be interviewed. "My job is not a very hard one," he said. "I only work one day a week, and then for only a few moments, and I have a kind boss. Our customers all know me and realize that they get real clam chowder, for I am a real clam. This is more than can be said of some other places."

TIMELY VIEWS NOT IN THE NEWS

"India Needs Free Schools," "Russia Disaster Inevitable," Say Leaders.

England may finish what he calls the "robbery" of India, and be welcome, if she only will establish free schools for the Hindu, in the opinion of Dr. Svec Ramnewaz, a direct descendant of Buddha and a philosopher of divinty at the University of Calcutta.

Dr. Ramnewaz studied at the University of Chicago. "The most inonrant man in India, who cannot read or write, can't be taught anything in philosophy or religion," Dr. Ramnewaz declares. "All sit under the trees and discuss questions which are confined in the west to socalled highbrow circles.

"The Darwinian theory of evolution, which was embodied in the Vedas, is talked of by unlettered men as part of heir religion. Missionaries sent from the west do not understand that the things they are trying to tell have been threshed over for centuries by the most ignorant and unpromising of the lower caste natives.

"The education that is needed is in mechanics and surgery, in which western civilization has progressed. The west has learned how to apply things which Indian scholars have speculated upon long ago."

If England gave India freedom now India would be helpless against other enemies, Dr. Ramnewaz says, because its people do not know how to defend themselves with modern weapons. All their wealth in gold now rests in the Bank of England, he declared. But if schools were established England could more than replace what she has taken away and would put into the hands of the natives the ability to govern themselves, he said.

A pessimistic picture of conditions in Russia is painted by Count Frederick Moltke, who arrived recently in the U. S. on a special mission to the Danish legation in Washington.

"The Volga region," he said, "is already almost inaccessible, such is the condition of its roads. Before the winter is over, there will be a disaster there that will stagger the world."

He declared that Denmark was feeling the result of conditions in Russia more than any other country, because of the fact that she sed to supply great quantities of steel to Russia. At present, he said, there were 60,000 steel workers idle in Denmark. This country felt the result of the slump, too," he explained, "because Denmark used to buy most of her raw materials here.

"If the whole world were to go to the aid of Russia in the way the United States has," said the count "it would be too late to avert disaster this winter. The Russians can stand cold and they can stand hunger for a time, but they can't stand them both together."

Breakfast Stories

A story was recently told to exemplify the pride which every man should take in the work by which he makes a living.

Two street sweepers, seated on a curbstone, were discussing a comrade who had died the day before.

"Bill certainly was a good sweeper," said one.

"Ye-e-s," conceded the other, thoughtfully. "But don't you think he was a little weak around the lamp posts?"

The famous scientist, Sir Archibald Geikie, although a Scotchman, was not above thoroughly enjoying a joke, even though it is against his countrymen. One he told himself is about an Englishman and a Scotchman who went to Egypt together and paid a visit to the Pyramids.

The Englishman was lost in admiration of the wonderful sight, and presently asked his companion for his opinion. The Scotchman shook his head sorrowfully.

"Ah, mon," he said with a sigh, 'what a lot of mason work not to be bringin' in any rent!"

An attendant at a certain institute for the deaf and dumb was undergoing a pointless rapid-fire inquisition at the hands of a female visitor.

"But how do you summon these poor mutes to church?" she asked finally with what was meant to be a pitying glance at the inmates nearby.

"By ringing the dumb-bells madam," retored the exasperated attendant.

Who's Who

LORD INVERFORTH.

Lord Inverforth, who is probably better known in America by the name of Andrew Weir, head of the great merchants and ship owning concern of Andrew Weir & Co. of London, Glasgow, Middlesbrough, Hongkong, Buenos Aires, San Francisco and New York, is now in this country for a stay of some duration. It is said that his purpose here is to arrange for a supply of oil for his great fleet, nearly all his liners being transformed, with a view to the use of oil in lieu of coal in the matter of fuel.

Andrew Weir was created a peer in 1919 and in the same year received the American distinguished service medal from the war department at Washington in recognition of the assistance which he had given to the American troops in Europe in his capacity as surveyor general of supplies and afterward as minister of munitions and supplies.

At the outset of the ward Lord Inverforth as Andrew Weir was one of the greatest figures of the shipping trade of the British empire. Hailing from Kirenidy, he is an old friend of A. Bonar Law, and at a time when, early in 1915, confusion reigned supreme in the supply business of the war department, he was the instance of Bonar Law invited by the government to join the administration as surveyors general of supplies and promptly proceeded to put everything on a business basis and to substitute system for something akin to chaos. Since the armistice he has achieved wonders in the bargains which he has secured for the state in his direction of the sales of leftover war supplies and superfinous war material of every kind.

Hyde park, London's greatest recreation center, recently saw the newest phase of a fashion which, though not altogether new, has hitherto been kept from public gaze. On a secluded park bench at a young, fashionably dressed woman contentedly smoking a dainty briar pipe of fancy pattern.

TICKETS FOR PRIMA DONNA ON SALE SOON.

Reserved seat tickets for the Cyrena Van Gordon concert which will be given under the auspices of the Musician's club at the Wichita theater October 14 will be on sale at Tipton's Drug Store October 13 and 14, according to announcements made by the finance committee of the club.

ANCIENT HISTORY

It took Ursus eight years to throw the bull, which is some record. This is the story: As veteran fans may recall, the big scene of "Quo Vadis?" —The throwing of the bull with Lygia tied to his horns, by that well-known compatriot of Bull Montana, Signor Ursus—did not appear in the film version of the famous play. It was the first of the multiple reel features and was imported from Italy almost a decade ago by Kleine. It was recently pulled off the shelf for reissue and after looking it over the promoters of the reissue decided that it lacked pep and that Ursus should throw the bull. So Colonel Selig was sent a print and told to get a white bull like that in the picture, put on a double for Ursus who could grapple with the bovine, tie a Lygia to the horns of the aforesaid animal and shoot a few hundred feet of it. So the thing was done and when you see "Quo Vadis?" next Ursus will throw the bull.

MRS. WALLACE TO GIVE SHAKESPEARE LECTURE.

This afternoon the Delphian Club and the club it sponsored for organization, the Pierian Delphian, and a few invited guests, are to spend a "Shakespearean afternoon" with Mrs. Charles William Wallace as the lecturer who will transport her hearers to the time of Shakespeare and draw for them a picture of the staging of the dramas of the Bard of Avon in those early days. This first meeeting of the Delphian Club, to be held at the Wichita Club this afternoon, will be entirely social in nature.

The lecture which these Wichita Falls club women will hear this afternoon, was originally written for and delivered before a London club, Mrs. Wallace, having with Dr. Wallace spent a number of years in various parts of England, engaged in Shakespearean research. Friends that Mrs. Wallace has made during her residence here, where her husband is on leave of absence from the University of Nebraska, on private business, have been delighted to secure her cooperation in the club work, and are anticipating a particularly interesting treat for themselves and their guests in this first Shakespearean lecture.

A SUGGESTION.

A tablespoon of freshly made coffee added to an apple pie just before baking will give it a most delicious flavor.

Health is a Woman's Greatest Asset.

Contract the cheerful happy woman with head erect, the glow of health on her cheeks, the elastic step and bubbling enthusiasm as she goes about her daily tasks, with the woman who suffers from backache, headaches, dragging-down pains, nervousness and despondency. Such conditions are undoubtedly caused by woman's ailments which will yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for many, many years has been restoring weak, ailing women to health and strength. Every woman who suffers in this way owes it to herself to at least give it a trial. (Adv.)

A WIFE IN THE MAKING

THE HOME-COMING DAY

The morning of Ned's arrival dawned clear and cold. Cherry was up betimes, and filled in the time by decorating rooms with flowers and in putting the finishing touches to her dress.

Ned's train was scheduled to arrive at high noon and long before that hour Cherry had reached the station, anxious to be there in plenty of time.

There was another reason for her going so long ahead—Mrs. Randall had several times hinted that she would like to go down to meet her son and would Cherry wait for her. To this suggestion Cherry had answered pretty definitely that she would not be able to stay away from her day's work, as her mother wished her to do, but would be at Hamlen's until train time and get away only in time to meet Ned.

The last thing that he happy wife desired was Mrs. Randall's presence at her reunion with her husband. Never before had Cherry so yearned for an intimate hour with him alone. She felt as if she would collapse if this were not granted to her.

Accordingly she went to her place of business as usual that morning, but left it much earlier than she had intended to. She was too excited and restless to work much and Mr. Hamlen noticed this fact. At eleven o'clock he came up to where Cherry was sitting, her needle poised in air and her eyes gazing far off into space and told her with a kindly laugh that it would be far better for her to desert her hats for the rest of the day.

At his words she smiled gratefully up at him and fairly skipped out into the brisk November sunshine after she had cleaned up a bit. In her new rose-colored dress and hat to match she made a pretty picture and the knowledge of this brought an extra glow to her cheeks.

It was with a feeling of gratitude that Cherry saw no signs of her mother-in-law at the station. Having a half hour to kill, she sat down and tried to read a magazine. Half a dozen times she got up and walked restlessly about, as though so doing would bring the train quicker. Then again she went back to her seat and sat thinking.

It was just time for Ned's train to arrive when there was a stir in the entrance and, to her despair, Cherry looked up to see Mrs. Randall, very red in the face, struggling out of a car driven by one of her bosom friends.

Everything turned black before the unhappy girl's eyes, and throwing discretion to the winds she darted up from her seat and out to the platform in time to escape her mother-in-law, who was now standing on the station steps peering about for Cherry.

Up to the very end of the platform flew Cherry, as the whistle of the train sounded, and forcing herself to be deaf and dumb she turned her face towards the oncoming engine. Ned would see her and everything would be well. It was dreadful that his mother had not seen fit to let them have their reunion to themselves, more than dreadful. She almost sobbed.

Social Activities Planned by Civic League in Connection With Coming Year's Program

Monthly luncheon, during which the league's business will be attended to, in the same manner in the men's weekly luncheon clubs, will probably be instituted by the Civic League, as a social attraction, and also a time saver, to busy women, according to plans which were enthusiastically received in the October business meeting, held Tuesday afternoon at the Kemp Library.

This luncheon idea was contained in the report of the social department, by Mrs. B. Frank Johnson, the chairman, following the department's meeting last Wednesday.

First on the social calendar of the league, according to his same report, is a big reception to be given the evening of October 25, with he husbands of the members as honored guests. This reception will be given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kemp. The program is being arranged by Mrs. E. L. Fulton, of the program committee.

The November meeting will see an experiment on the luncheon innovation, it was announced, this meeting to be held at the Wichita Club, when a musical program would be given and the regular business attended to.

The meeting Tuesday afternoon was presided over by Mrs. Bentley Bacon, first vice president, in the absence of Mrs. Kemp. Mrs. B. F. Johnson was acting secretary.

The division of the social department into four committees, was also announced by Mrs. Johnson. Mrs. A. H. Britain is chairman of the program committee, Mrs. Newton Maer, chairman of decoration; Mrs. W. S. Richardson, chairman of refreshments and Mrs. Hugh Nugent Fitzgerald, chairman of publicity.

Mrs. W. S. Curlee, chairman of the city beautiful department, announced the award of the football for the largest number of home-school gardens, in the summer contest, to the Sam Houston school, and announced a balance of $50.86 in the department treasury, to be expended in other work.

Mrs. J. M. Isbell, membership chairman, urged again the payment of elinquent dues. Two hundred and twenty members still owe for 1921, she announced, out of the membership of 640.

Mrs. L. W. Perham, chairman of the welfare department, announced a continuation of the work during the summer.

Liver With Bechamel Sauce.—Cook two tablespoonfuls of butter with two tablespoonfuls of flour and add slowly one cupful of strained stock, salt and paprika to taste and a little grated nutmeg. Stir constantly until the sauce thickens and boils and add two teaspoonfuls each of Worcestershire sauce and lemon juice and six tablespoonfuls of cream blended with the beaten yolks of two eggs. Cook until well thickened (do not boil) and add two cupfuls of cooked liver cut in dice. Serve as soon as the liver is heated.

Coffee Fritters—Cut the crusts from fairly thick slices of whole wheat bread and dip the bread in a custard mixture very strongly flavored with coffee. Drain quickly and saute on both sides in hot beef dripping. Dust with powdered sugar and serve with hard sauce flavored with vanilla extract and ground cinnamon. Do not let the bread stand in the coffee custard or it will become too soggy.

SIMPLE GARNISH.

Every good cook knows that much depends on the way she garnishes the food she prepares, but the high class male cooks is a past master at the art of garnishing.

And it is a very good idea for the woman who would do the thing unusual to look about her i. the restaurants and hotels she visits to get tips in this matter of garnishing. Sometimes the simplest thing, which may be easily copied at home, are the most effective. Indeed, the over-ornate garnish is something to be avoided.

One interesting tea room does this with its broiled fish orders. It serves two slices of lemon with each order of fish, one covered with paprika, one liberally sprinkled with black pepper. These bits of lemons are both useful and decorative.

A hotel restaurant serves a fresh leaf, well washed of course with each order of halved grape fruit. The leaf, sparkling with water, is placed on top of the half of grape fruit.

Another hotel restaurant uses a tiny pyramid of whipped cream, pressed through a tube, as a garnish to tomato bisque.

Egg white shredded with a knife is used as a garnish for chicken salad at a place where this delicacy is a specialty.

Strips of toast, narrow, crisp and evenly browned, are used to garnish creamed codfish in a business men's restaurant.

You see, all these garnishes mean something. They add to the taste as well as the appearance of the dish which they accompany. And that is what a real garnish should do. The purely decorative garnish is not half so worth while as the one that is also edible and an addition to the taste of food value of the dish. The leaf in the case of grape fruit is an exception. But there are always exceptions.

RECORD NEWS SPORTS

GREAT MACHINES TANGLE IN SPORT CLASSIC TODAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—The dream of Metropolitan baseball fans has become a reality.

For years local followers of the National game have hoped for a world series battle between the New York National and American League teams. Now, after nineteen years of waiting the Giants and the Yankees, winners of their respective league titles, are to grapple for the supreme prize of professional baseball, the championship of the Universe.

In the historical Polo Grounds tomorrow afternoon the rival league 1921 pennant winners meet in the first of a series of best five out of nine games which is expected to add record breaking features to the long history of the world series. Led by John McGraw and Miller Huggins, the Giants and Yankees will scamper out on the diamond shortly after noon with a combination of stars seldom, if ever, equalled in the annals of the game.

Tonight the baseball and financial statistician is predicting record breaking attendance and gate receipts and there is much in the way of advance data to bear out these predictions. Reserved seats and boxes under the control of the teams are reported sold out. Thousands of spectators, who would have been willing to pay a premium for the privilege of reserving a seat, must take their chances in the long lines of standers already forming before the gates to the unreserved stands.

Enthusiasm is not confined to the fans of Greater New York and its suburbs, however, for thousands of baseball followers from many sections of the country poured into the city for the sole purpose of witnessing the play. Hotels reported their accommodations taxed to the limit and officers of rival clubs were besieged by late arrivals desirous of purchasing tickets with none available. Normally the situation would mean greater profits for ticket speculators, but the demand for seats which has prevailed for almost two weeks, has been so steady and insistent that very few of the pasteboards have found their way to the ticket vendors.

It is generally conceded among the wagering fraternity that the Giants and Yankees are reported about evenly matched, advantage at a certain point for one team being offset by greater power or strength in another section of attack or defense of the rival combination. As a result of which betting is being done at even money or the very slightest of odds.

One enthusiastic admirer of the Giants may offer 10 to 9 on the chances of the Nationals winning, while a few blocks away some Yankee rooter may think that the bludgeon of Babe Ruth warrants odds of six to five on the American chances.

Attempts by experts to analize the chances of the two teams generally result about the same situation of uncertainty and doubt. Not in recent years have two teams entered the final and most important baseball battle of the season with less apparent advantage one way or the other. Of the gameness and fighting ability of both clubs there is not the slightest doubt. Their gallant and winning struggle for the pennants in the closing days of the season is the only proof that need be offered.

In attack, close and impartial followers of the game are inclined to give the Yankees a slight margin of advantage. With their heavy hitting ability, which may be unleashed at any moment, there are extremely dangerous contenders until the final out. Defensively, the team is not always as steady as admirers would wish for, as several incidents and concurrences have demonstrated this season. It is also doubtful if the Yankees play with the same team co-ordination that the Giants have shown at times this year.

In the gray traveling uniform of the Yankees will be Babe Ruth, the clouting king of the baseball world, with a record of 59 home runs this season; Carl Mays, famous underhand hurling artist, Catcher Wally Schang, vetrean of three past world series, against whose speedy throwing arm runner after runner has tried to steal bases only to be thrown out standing up; Roger Peckinpaugh, one of the best shortstops in the major circuits today, and Bob Meusel, heavy hitting outfielder.

Opposed to this galaxy of stars the Giants will offer Frank Frisch, the Fordham flash, one of the fastest infielders that ever played a skinned diamond position; George Kelly, leading home run hitter of the National League; Emil Meusel, brother of Yankee Bob Meusel, also noted for his extra base hits; Dave Bancroft, one of the most finished shortstops of modern baseball, and Pitchers Toney, Nehf and Barnes, all twirlers extra-ordinary.

While close followers of baseball hold the opinion that neither the Giants nor Yankees today are the great playing machines which made earlier world series history, such as the Athletics of 1910-11-13, under Connie Mack, and the Chicago Cubs of 1906-7-8 when Frank Chance led one of the fastest and smoothest working infield combinations in the history of the game, the local teams possess both the color and personality for a sensational and thrilling series. It will be, however, more individual than team or combination feature play and that, in some respects, is expected to heighten the glamor of the clash when the clubs swing into action.

Regardless of the question of individual brilliancy against mechanical playing perfection, the fact remains that never in the history of greater New York's participation in world series has the interest in the outcome been so keen. Twice before have the Giants and the Yankees met on the home diamond in the post-season series of 1910 and 1914. In each case the National League club was the victor, the McGrawites winning the first clash four games to two, with an extra tie contest for good measure, and the second, four games to one. In 1910, 103,000 spectators paid $83,-462 to witness the play, while four years later close to 40,000 fans contributed $30,563 to watch the struggle.

Viewed from another angle, it may be said that if the Nationals excel in team work the Americans balance the scales with the individual power of their players. Much will depend upon the ability of the pitchers to hold the opposing batters in check. This is particularly true in the case of such clean-up hitters as Ruth, Kelly, the Meusel brothers and other extra base hitters in the rival clans. In base stealing and strategy on the base lines which may or may not have an important bearing upon the final outcome, the Giants are generally thought to have a slight edge.

So far the physical condition of the players is concerned, both teams will enter the fray one hundred per cent strong. In the final workout today, both clubs had their full force on the field, and reported after the practice that each and every man was ready.

The Yankees had the Polo Grounds exclusively for their work during the forenoon and put in a two-hour session under the watchful eye of Miller Huggins. After luncheon, the Giants indulged in a similar limbering up, in which Assistant Manager Hugh Jennings directed operations. In both cases the practice was secret and only the players were permitted inside the locked gates. The managers of neither team would give the slightest inkling as to their selections for pitching assignments tomorrow.

Although the forecast for the opening day of play called for fair weather, there was a hint of autumn in the air tonight and early arrivals who took their places in line before the bleacher gates for the usual all-night vigil, went prepared to pass as comfortable a night as possible with the aid of blankets and stools, lunch boxes and the regular accessories which go to make up the campaign equipment of the rabib world series fan. Long before midnight the sandwich and hot coffee venders were doing a profitable business and the lines of men and boys were growing in length.

CALIFORNIA OIL WORKERS DENY CHARGE

By Associated Press.

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., Oct. 4.—Charges made by the striking oil field workers in their telegram to Secretary of Labor Davis against the California oil operators were made public today. The government was asked to investigate the charges of which the strikers said they have proofs.

The operators were charged with "studied misrepresentation of the department of labor's interest in industry."

"Through their press bureau," the telegram continued, "they portray to an unknowing public that we, the oil workers of the state, are unlawful; they are trying to inflame the public mind against us and ultimately these things will probably lead to blood shed."

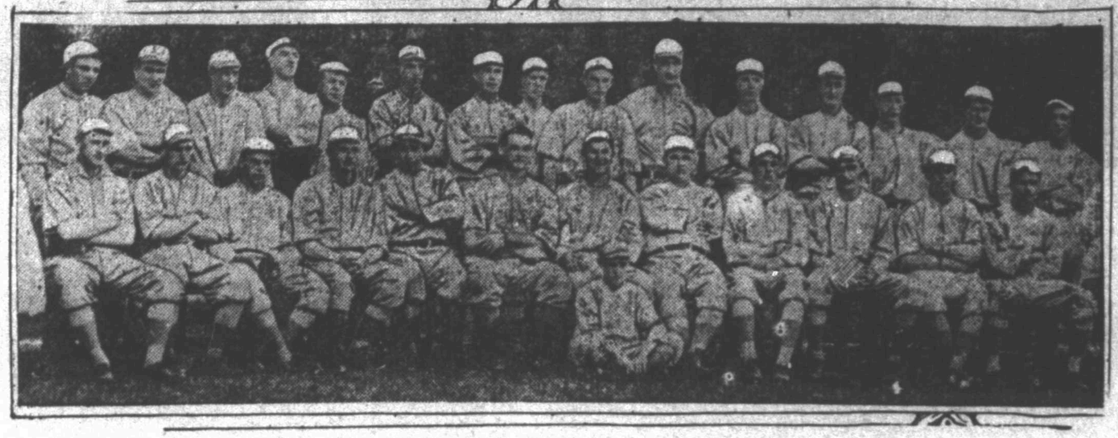

The telegram said that although the strike is three weeks old, nor a "penny of damage has been done by us."

"Bootlegging," is continued, "has almost disappeared, transgression against law and order has been reduced far below the normal and yet the world through so-called respectable oil operators is led to believe that we are worse than Russian soviets."

The workers charged also that "great numbers of small operators would willingly accept governmental signature and put hundreds of men to work, but are afraid to do so on account of coercion, intimidation and threats from the large companies."

Goldfish, as bred in China and Japan, assume strange shapes. The variety known as the Celestial has eyes on the top of its head, the Telescope has grotesque, protruding eyes, while the Tumbler can not maintain its equilibrium in the water owing to its curious shape.

THREE BRITISH WOMEN REMAIN IN GOLF PLAY

DEAL, N. J., Oct. 4.—The danger of the woman's golf championship of the United States being captured by an English woman increased today when three representatives of Great Britain survived the first round of match play of the national tournament in impressive style at the Hollywood golf club.

Miss Cecil Leitch, champion of Great Britain, France and Canada won by 8 and 7, eliminating Mrs. R. H. Hammer of New York.

The greatest upset of the day was the defeat of Miss Glenna Collett, of Providence, who had tied for the qualifying medal, by Miss Edith Leitch, sister of the British champion, 3 and 2. Miss Collett's poor putting and one shot into a ditch were to blame.

The closest match was that between Mrs. Latham Hall of England, who had tied Miss Collett in qualifying, and Mrs. W. A. Gavin of New York, which went to 20 holes. Mrs. Hall won as the result of Mrs. Gavin unthinking tapping her footprints in the bunker with her club before she had played out. Mrs. Gavin did this in the qualifying round and it cost her 2 strokes. Today it meant the match as she lost the deciding hole under the rules.

Miss Alexa Stirling of Atlanta, defending champion, had no trouble in surviving.

CLUB WILL CO-OPERATE WITH LEGION

Preparations are underway to properly equip the Pat Carrigan post of the American Legion in order that it may properly carry on its activities of the ex-soldiers in Wichita Falls, declared Luther Hoffman, post commander, in speaking before the University club luncheon at the Kemp hotel Tuesday.

The local post is launching a campaign for $3,000 with which to furnish the club rooms and place the Legion post in a position to assist the hundreds of ex-soldiers who come to the post asking for assistance in finding work, stated Mr. Hoffman. Every day I have from two to six applicants for work and it is a serious proposition.

"The post is not asking the clubs of the city to donate money. All we want is their hearty co-operation and assurance that they are with us in our undertakings. We want them to talk American Legion and the things for which it stands, and if this is done I am positive that all will be benefited."

"Our post does not agree with others in certain undertakings, but there are many local affairs in which we could be of great benefit to the community. When there was only a handful of members of the local post, jobs for more than 3,000 ex-soldiers were obtained, and many men in need of medical attention received it free of charge."

A committee of University club men consisting of Chairman Guy Rogers, Norris Ewing and J. T. Strong were appointed to co-operate with the Legion.

REHEARSALS FOR SHRINE SHOW IS SCHEDULED SOON

First rehearsal for the "Oh Joy Musical Revue" to be presented at the Wichita Theater October 18 and 19, under the auspices of Maskat Temple band and patrol, was held Tuesday evening in the ballroom of the Kemp hotel. With Mr. Lacey, of McCormack Producion Company in charge, approximately 75 local celebrities participated in the first workout preparatory to the staging of the show. Other rehearsals will be held highly until the date for the show.

With approximately $10,000 worth of scenerly, costumes, and settings for the show, MacCormack Production Company expects to present a revue unequaled in novelty, and originality according to Mr. Lacey, who expressed optimism over the outlook for the show following the first rehearsal, and predicted that it would be the best local production ever seen here.

Shriners express themselves as delighted with the show for which they have contracted, and today announced that an extensive campaign would soon be inaugurated to advertise the show. Sale of tickets will be opened at an early date, and an unprecedented rush for the box offive is expected, owing to the size of the theatre.

Rumor has it that prominent parts are to be taken by A. H. Briton, H. D. Hemphill, Mart Rowe, Ben Neal, Alf Miller and many others, but no cast of characters has been announced as yet.

WISDOM and WORSE

By C. F. C.

Did someone make a remark about a ball game being scheduled in New York this afternoon. Now that you speak of it, we did hear a feller mention it casually on the street last night. Interest No, not a great deal of interest in that ball game—there'll be in attendance only slightly more men, women and children than compose the total population of Wichita Falls; and probably 15,000 to 25,000 more will be turned away.

Say, buddy, there'll be more policemen on world series duty today in Gotham than there are spectators at a regular week-day Texas league tussle!

Who will pitch? How the heck do we know? Nehf for the Giants, Carl Mays for the Yankees? Uh-huh s'pose so. Mebbe so, mebbe not. But we've got a hunch that before this series is over young Waite Hoyt is going to be a world series hero. It's just a hunch, nothing more—but we look to see Miller Huggins start that youngster, and we look further to see him win.

Last night New York must have been full of nutty men and women rapidly going crazy with worry over which team to root for! When the Giants are on the road, Bill Jones goes to the Polo Grounds and roots for the Yankees; when the Yanks are traveling, Bill Jones is a wildly enthusiastic Giant fan—when the Yanks and Giants hook up for the world's greatest baseball honor, Bill Jones finds himself in one heluva fix, yes?

Judge Landis, baseball's high commissioner, got astraddle of the fence early, and made a bright remark: "Just say for me," he remarked, "that I hope New York will win."

"Saints Fall on Haid," says a headline descriptive of the manner in which St. Paul hammered Pitcher Haid of Columbus t'other day. But in some sections of the South where the dialect is strong you might be convinced immediately that the Saints had fallen on their well-known bean.

The Dallas Marines had an easy time licking El Deportivo, the champion baseball team of Mexico City. Now, if the question whether the Hassell-Patterson combination or Ike Sablosky will own the Marines in 1922 isn't settled before spring, we suggest that the Marines stay in Mexico City and start a league of their own.

That would be one manner in which the Marines might win a pennant—and they've been wanting one for some time.

Baylor's squad now in training, gives promise of a strong team and those best informed in football circles are expecting the boys of the Southwest to give the Easterners a hard fight. The game will be staged in the new stadium which has a seating capacity of 16,000, and every indication is that the team will play to a full house.

There will be a return game at Boston in 1922 at Braves Field, the largest baseball park in the world, seating 50,000 people. The Boston authorities state that this game will be witnessed by at least 40,000 lovers of football. The cash guarantee on each of these games is the largest ever made or received by any team in the Southwest, being $7,000 in each case.

LOCAL POST TO DECIDE BONUS STAND

What stand the Pat Carrigan post will take on the bonus question will be thrashed out at the next regular meeting Tuesday evening. The matter came up when a motion was made that the commander of the post instruct delegates from this post to "lay off" the bonus question.

The motion was tabled and it was decided that the question would be debated pro and con at the next meeting. All ex-soldiers and legion men in the city are urged to attend this meeting.

The business meeting was a short, although better than ordinarily attended one, due to the fact that it was a joint one with the members of the Woman's auxiliary. Following the business session coffee and doughnuts were served as refreshments by the auxiliary, with dancing to music furnished by the Legion band, making its first public appearance, as the finale.

During the business session Joe B. Hatchitt, delegate to the state convention, made his report on this meeting, speaking of plans for the coming year, and urging that more legion men attend the convention.

Queried by members to include in this the account of his own election as a member of the state executive committee, which he had left out, he jokingly declared that he had secured this by trading off appointments as delegates to the national convention, that he had promised certain members of the local post before leaving. "I did have Dune Perkins and Luther Hoffman named as alternates, figuring that was about the only jobs they could fill up there," he declared.

Mayor Cline was a visitor at the meeting by invitation, and was called on for a brief talk.

"I just want to tell you folks that the city surely appreciates the interest you have shown, and your request to be assigned a place to serve," said Mayor Cline, in opening his talk, which was principally about the parks and playgrounds of the city, as had been requested by Luther Hoffman, post commander.

"It's a mighty fine thing of you, representing those who devoted a couple of years, maybe more, unselfishly to the good of the country, and the women come in on this, too, to want to keep on serving the general good."

Mr. Cline spoke of the splendid spirit of co-operation that all of the clubs had shown, volunteering their assistance instead of waiting to be called upon, and spoke of the American Legion and Auxiliary as forces in the work of town building.

He also paid a tribute to the two organizations which he declared to be in the main responsible for the already splendid and still growing system of parks and playgrounds—the Civic League and the Chamber of Commerce.

George Hodgins explained to the post some the preliminary plans for a forthcoming Legion minstrel, further plans for which are still in the hands of the post executive committee.

A request that the legion participate in the Armistice Day Disarmament Parade was made by a representative of the local unions, and was referred to the executive committee.

The Santa Fe railroad has been selected as the official railroad to the Kansas City convention, it was announced.

Partners Buy Full Interest In Aetna Firm

The purchase of the full interests of the Mackechney, Maples and Cooper Insurance Company by A. B. Maples and G. W. Cooper, members of the firm with John R. Mackechney was announced Tuesday.

The new firm will be known as the Maples and Cooper Insurance Company and will continue to maintain headquarters at Room 825, American National bank building.

The members of the firm announce that they handle the Aetna insurance policies—and are able to underwrite any policy known to the insurance world.

Mr. Cooper came to this city in December 1919, directly from the home office of the Aetna Insurance Company at Hartford, Conn., and shortly afterwards with Mr. Maples, who had been a resident of Wichita Falls for some years.

DEVOL BALL TEAM DEFEATS MOTOR SUPPLYS

The Constantin-Devol team has won nineteen games and lost but six this season. Games were played with some of the best teams in Southern Oklahoma, including Duncan, Walters and Frederick. The Devol team will probably play one more game, in Wichita Sunday with one of the City League teams.

Baseball Seer Picks Pennant Winners in Major Leagues

ORANGE, Texas, Oct. 4.—From a dinky, ramshackle houseboat of a home, moored to the banks of the Sabine river here, "Walking Johnny" Thompson, eighty-five, feeble and silver-haired, emerged today. He smiled. He was very, very happy. Time has again been kind to him—in building up his reputation as the "miracle-oracle of baseball."

"Walking Johnny," queerest baseball character in the land, is right again. He has a legitimate right to say: "I told you so!" The New York Giants and the New York Yankees will play for the world's series baseball championship flag.

Following up his long list of uncanny predictions, Thompson, on March 16, 1921, almost a month prior to the opening of the major league season, gave the following definite prediction to the International News Service:

"The New York Giants will win the 1921 pennant in the National League and the New York Yankees or Cleveland Indians in the American."

Said by Connie Mack to be the "greatest seer" in the history of baseball, Thompson, whose life is devoutly given over to a study of the national pastime, has successfully picked the National and American League pennant winners during the last eight years. Thousands of miles away from the crack of Babe Ruth's swat cudgel, the decrepit veteran knows more intimately the ability of the Bambino than many New Yorkers who have never been farther away from Broadway and Forty-second street than the Yankee ball lot. Strongest of the many interesting things about him is the fact that he has never witnessed a "big league" game.

A coffin, a tombstone, two sets of false teeth, an assortment of crutches and walking canes, shoes, socks, hats, shirts, several dozen corncob pipes, many humidors of his favorite smoking tobacco—all won from his townsmen—constitute a portion of his earthly possessions.

Won His "Home."

Hundreds of men have disagreed with his predictions. They all have paid tribute to his uncanny gift for "picking winners." The houseboat in which he makes his home was deeded to him by a man who believed Thompson was wrong in one of his baseball verdicts. Likewise he has become the owner of a lifetime meal ticket, a plate of ice cream each day so long as he shall live. Ten acres of land, tax-free in so far as he is concerned, constitute the winning of another of his wagers.

Being right in his predictions is a habit with "Walking Johnny." His uncanny knowledge of the merits of individual players and team machines has won for this wizard of the diamond a following not bounded by the borders of Texas. Thousands of fans watch for Thompson's prediction at the beginning of each season. It's a long bet—but Thompson "is always right," so the "stake" at the end of the season is better than none at all.

An Inspired Follower.

"The inspired follower of baseball," as Connie Mack has pronounced this "miracle man of the river," can go back to the past generations of baseball and tell you the history of the "old timers." Ask him some question about any present satellite of the diamond, and he'll answer it as readily. He knows baseball thoroughly as surely as the world goes around.

"Walking Johnny" admits that he has but a "few score more years to live." But he should worry. The undertaker who, in 1914, bet him that the Philadelphia Athletics would win the world's series flag from the Boston Braves has signed an agreement to prepare him for burial. And a local clergyman who believed with the undertaker has furnished a plot in the cemetery.

SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Raw sugar was quieter today and no fresh business wes reported. Prices were unchanged at 2 5-8 cents for Cubas, cost and freight equal to 4.23 for centrifugal, while Porto Rico and Philippine Island centrifugals were quoted at 4.13. Raw sugar futures were steadier early, but prices eased off under scattered selling by trade and commission houses, closing unchanged to 3 points net lower. October closed at 2.65; December 2.39; March 2.32 and May 2.39.

There were no changes in refined sugar with all refiners listing on the basis of 5.50 for fine granulated. There were no transactions in refined futures and closing bids were 10 to 20 points net higher. October closed at 5.60; December 5.43; March 5.40 and May 5.43.

COFFEE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—An opening decline of 4 to 6 points in coffee futures was due to further scattering liquidation or a little selling accompanied by reports of a slightly easier tone in Brazil. The decline to 7.69 for December and 7.78 for March brought in a better demand, however, and the market rallied later on covering with December selling up to 7.98 and March to 8.00 or 19 to 25 points net higher. The market closed at a net advance of 21 to 24 points. Sales were reported of 22,000 bags. October 7.82; December 7.97; January 7.99; March 8.02; May 8.09; July 8.16; September 8.16.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Cotton goods prices were revised upward on staple domestic today, in keeping with the rise in cotton during the past month. Wise sheetings are up to a basis of 65 cents for 10-4. Uttica goods and denims have been advanced. Print cloths and gray goods generally were firm with a higher tendency. Yarns were higher. Wool goods were hesitant, reflecting a lower purchasing power and delay in seasonable weather for fall retailing.

Stocks

NEW YORK STOCKS

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—In its chief characteristics today, stock market was largely a repetition of yesterday's session. Domestic oils, of the low grade varieties, were most prominent, making temporary extensions to recent gains on the further advance of prices for crude and refined products.

The cheaper or junior shares of western and southwestern railroads as well as coalers of secondary importance also were favored, probably on the theory that their earnings are bound to show substantial improvement on the more extensive movement of commodities to market.

Usual leaders among industrials were irregular and heavy, representative steels, equipments, motors and affiliated issues being supplanted by obscure specialties. These embraced most of the mail order and china store stocks, Kress, for example, rising 13 points on a declaration of a 54 per cent stock dividend.

Sugars continued to weaken in consequence of the increasingly precarious state of that industry. American sugar, common and preferred, ae extreme declines of 3 to 7 points were at minimum quotations for a number of years. Shippings foreign oils and tobaccos were included among the backward stocks, the market being most reactionary in the final hour. Sales amount due to 50,000 shares.

Call money was loaned at the fixed rate of five per cent, and time rates were unchanged, but offerings, even for the shorter maturities, were less liberal. The opposition of Governor Harding of the federal reserve board to any drastic reduction of rediscounts met with approval in high financial circles.

All European exchanges excepting Italian rates were firm to strong on heavier dealings, especially for sterling, which rose above 3.74 for demand for the first time in nearly a fortnight.

Liberty bonds of the several 4 1-4 per cent issues were notably strong at the year's highest quotations and several of the foreign war flotations, including French and Belgian issues, rallied from recent heaviness. Total sales, par value, $17,250,000.

Cotton

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—An early advance met increased offerings in the cotton market today and after selling at 21.24 December eased off to 20.30, closing at 20.35, compared with 20.90 at the close last night.

The general market closed barely steady at a net decline of 45 to 63 points for the day.

The market opened steady at a decline of 28 points to an advance of 9 points and showed considerable firmness right after the call on higher Liverpool cables, continued large Liverpool spot sales and buying here by houses with Liverpool and continental connections. This was supposed to reflect the influence of yesterday's crop figures on the trade abroad and there was some rebuying by yesterday's sellers which helped the early advance. October sold up to 21.10 and January to 20.88 with active months generally showing net gains of 21 to 34 points, but above the 21 cent level for December the market met increased offerings. Part of the selling was attributed to southern hedgings, while there was a good deal of realizing and aside from that local selling for a reaction seemed to become more active and aggressive as prices worked lower. A revival of reports received here sometime ago influencing a threatened closing down of Welch coal mines may have been a factor on the afternoon decline, although no definite development was reported in that connection. With the last of the monthly crop reports out of the way, however, the trade was evidently more inclined to emphasize unfavorable features in the general situation and the market was unsettled. In late trading orders December sold off to 20.30 and January to 19.95 or 55 to 71 points net lower. The close was a few points up from the lowest on covering.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

By Associated Press

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 4.—Early gains in cotton today carried prices 26 to 36 points higher than the close of yesterday to 20.25 for December, but heavy selling met the advance and values shortly were depressed below the level of yesterday's close. Heaviest pressure came in the afternoon and it forced the trading months 55 to 68 points under yesterday's finals, December dropping to 19.92.

The close was at 20.00 a pound for December with the list at net losses of 48 to 56 points.

The strength of the early trading was gained mainly from Liverpool, which stood better than due on futures and reported spot sales of 16,000 bales. As the market rose the usual liquidation of long contracts was met, along with hedge selling, but finally important selling for short account appeared and it furnished the ring with a greater supply of contracts than it could absorb.

While many points in the interior told of continued good spot inquiry, there were reports that the local market offerings were somewhat freer. Easiness in the grain market had immediate effect on cotton and the weakness became pronounced following new rumors of unfavorable labor and industrial developments in Great Britain. The weather over the belt was decidedly colder and too much rain fell in some sections, but owing to claims of next to no cotton in the fields, weather news had little effect.

COTTON SEED OIL.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Cottonseed oil prices were dominated almost entirely by action of other commodity markets. After advancing some six to ten points the market turned about on liquidation sales and for want of outside support and at the close showed net losses of eight to eleven points.

Sales 26,000 barrels. Prime crude 7.75@8.00; prime summer yellow spot 9.45@9.75; December 9.37; March 9.57; May 9.75. all bi.

Grain

CHICAGO GRAIN.

By Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Wheat underwent a decided tumble in the values today after scoring upturns during the first half of the session. Heging pressure from the Northwest, together with absence of export business had much to do with weakening the market. Prices closed heavy, 2 3-4 to 3 3-4c net lower, with December 1.15 1-4 to 1.15 1-2 and May 1.19 3-4 to 1.20. Corn last 1-4c to 5-8c and oats 3-8c to 1-2c. The finish in provisions was unchanged to 12 cents lower.

An opinion by a leading member of the board who has just returned from a four months trip to Europe that there was but little unsold wheat across the Atlantic and that there would be no world surplus of wheat this year was more or less responsible for the initial upward swing of the market. Absence of selling pressure was also a notable feature for a while. Subsequently, however, selling broadened out, especially on northwestern account, and with export demand very slow, the market gave way rapidly, the last hour in particular. Contributing to the late weakness was talk that Argentina, as under-selling the United States and British exporters were in trouble because of failure of continental buyers to pay for wheat.

Bears in the corn market contend that the corn crop was benefited by last night's frost as the crop had already matured. Oats were governed by the action of corn.

Provisions declined at the last in sympathy with grain, but for the greater part of the day had previously been upheld by higher quotations on hogs.

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Oct. 4.—Cattle prices were weak to 25c lower today and the market was slow, although only 1,800 head were on offer. Steers remained about in line with the low end of Monday's market, but fat cows again sold lower, the loss measuring around 25 cents. Canner cows remained about steady. Heifers and yearlings cleared on a weak to shade lower basis. With 2,500 calves here, best lights again sold close to steady, but the common and medium classes dragged at a fresh decline of 25 to 50c.

Activity was featured in the hog division where receipts amounted to 500 head. Values gained 15 to 25 cents. The top was $7.75 to packers and shippers and most of the run sold within a range of $7.50 to $7.65. Quality as a whole was fairly good. Very few pigs were here and on that account the market gained 25 to 50 cents, selling as high as $7.50 for some.

AUTO LIGHTS CAUSE ELEVEN MORE FINES

Eleven cases of violation of the new head and tail light ordinance received fines of $5.00 each in the police court Tuesday morning. A vagrancy case was fined $15, and another case of affray received a $25 fine.

Police Commissioner Fitts stated Tuesday that he appreciated the cooperation of the people in complying with the new city ordinances. Tail lights are scarce articles in the city. Local dealers have sold out every tail light or semblance of one. However, they promise a new supply soon.

MARSHALL VISITS PRESIDENT HARDING

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Former Vice-President Thomas R. Marshall called at the White House today to pay his respects to the new administration as a private citizen out of a job and not looking for one.

Mr. Marshall was particular to emphasize that he should not be classed with the "lame ducks."

"I have supreme contempt," said the former vice-president to a group outside the door of the president's office, "for a man who lies around like a dead cock in a pit and waits for the man who knocked him out to use a hypodermic syringe to inject new life in him."

Mr. Marshall, who is passing through Washington on a lecture tour, said his talk with President Harding was largely about old-time associations in the senate.

ACCEPT ELEVEN JURORS TO TRY HIGHTOWER

By Associated Press.

REDWOOD CITY, California, Oct. 4.—Eleven prospective jurors tentatively accepted by state and defense, were in the box when court adjourned tonight at the end of the first day of the trial of William A. Hightower on charges of murdering Father Patrick E. Heslin, Catholic priest. The state had exercised four of its ten peremptory challenges and the defense three of its twenty.

Six of those in the jury box were women, and at almost all times today women were in the majority in the tentative jury. The defense inquired vigorously into the social and religious beliefs of veniremen, asking each whether the fact that the slain man was a priest would affect his decision. They also were asked whether the presence or absence of Hightower from the witness chair would affect their opinions. It is expected the jury will be completed definitely tomorrow.

SOVIET REPLY TO BRITISH CHARGES IS FORWARDED

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 3.—The reply of the Russian soviet government to Great Britain's recent note charging intrigue against Great Britain in Central Asia is understood to be on its way to London from Moscow. The note, it is asserted, does not attempt to answer the charges of the British government, except to assert that the evidence procured by the government was founded on forgeries emanating from "a notorious Germany agency."

Complaint is made in the note that Great Britain has shown herself unfriendly to the soviet.

Harding Will Head Cortege In Capital City When Nation Pays Tribute on Armistice Day

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Plans for the solemn ceremonies of Armistice day, when the nation will pay highest honors to its unknown dead of the great war reached a climax today when President Harding and his cabinet decided to trudge afoot up Pennsylvania avenue at the head of the funeral cortege.

By presidential proclamation the business and pleasure of the nation will stand at rest two minutes on that day in tribute to the dead as the body from a lonely, nameless grave in some great struggle of the war is carried to its last rest in the peaceful Virginia hills that look down across the Potomac on the nation's capital.

Not since President Wilson led a preparedness march of the great avenue in 1916 has the chief executive appeared afoot in any parade in the capital and never previously has any president set for himself so long a trip as President Harding will undertake.

The war department announced today the makeup of the military escort which will precede the gun carriage on which the basket is carried. In addition to the regulars, sailors and marines, a provisional battalion of New York and Pennsylvania National Guard will share in the honors to the dead comrade. Under army regulations, the escort will be that provided for the highest military rank of the service, a general.

The war department also has made public the list of non-commissioned and warrant officers who will actually bear the casket to and from the caisson on which the last stage of the long journey from a battle field to Arlington will be made. They include Sergeant Thomas D. Sanders, Company A, Second engineers, Camp Travis, Texas, also wounded overseas and decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross for gallantry, and Staff Sergeant James W. Dell, 15th field artillery, Camp Travis, a veteran of long service with the guns and cited for gallantry in France.

ZR-2 ACCIDENT CAUSE IS NOT KNOWN, SAYS

By Associated Press.

HULL, England, Oct. 4.—A coroner's jury investigating the disaster to the big dirigible ZR-2 which fell into the Humber river August 24, killing more than forty persons, among them 16 Americans, rendered a verdict today that it was due to an accident brought about by the breaking of the airship from some cause or causes unknown.

While the inquest was particularly into the death of Lieutenant Commander Charles G. Little of the American navy, verdicts of accidental death were rendered in all the cases.

Harry Bateman, one of the surviving scientific experts on board the ZR-2 testified that first tests of the craft was carried out satisfactorily at a speed of 40 knots an hour. He said the other experts were so satisfied with the condition of the airship that they were anxious to cross the Atlantic in her. No previous airship had ever been so thoroughly tested; its structural strength was never doubted.

According to Bateman there were lateral and longitude shocks which caused the airship to reel and pitch during the flight. He thought they were due to the engine clutch slipping, but shortly afterward the girders broke. He said he never heard an explosion.

MANUFACTURE PRODUCTION SHOWS GAIN

By Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Totalling almost $63,000,000,000, the value of the products of the nation's manufacturing industries in 1920 were three times as great as they were in 1910 and five and a half times what they were in 1900, according to the census bureau's announcement today of results of last year's manufacturers' census.

There was an average of 9,103,200 wage earners employed last year in the 239,768 manufacturing establishments of the country whose capitalization totalled $44,678,911,000 and whose products were valued at $62,910,202,000.

Thirteen states manufactured products with a total value of more than one billion dollars. New York leads all states with more than one-eighth of the country's total, her manufactures being valued at $8,875,007,000 and wage earners numbering 1,229,900. Pennsylvania ranks second with products valued at $7,312,333,000 and 1,137,100 wage earners. Illinois is third with $5,874,007,000 and 653,000 wage earners.

California, which held eleventh place ten years ago, has moved up to eighth place, with manufacturing products valued at $1,981,410,000 and 243,800 wage earners and Texas occupies fourteenth place with $990,596,000 and 107,700 wage earners.

ASKS SPEED IN REVISION OF TAX BILL

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Further revenue revision legislation ought to be enacted as soon as possible, Chairman Penrose, of the senate finance committee, said today, in a statement emphasizing that the pending measure was merely of a temporary and emergency character.

Discussing the sales tax, Senator Penrose said there was "no use to advance novel or untried suggestions of taxation at a time when promptness of action of some kind is the slogan." House leaders were even more pronounced in their declarations regarding such a tax, Chairman Fordney of the ways and means committee, and Representative Mondell of Wyoming, the republican leader, declaring that no such proposal could be put through the house.

Mr. Mondell insisted that there had been no change in the house sentiment that there should be a "lifting and not a shifting of taxes." Mr. Fordney took a similar view and it was indicated that house leaders would insist upon tax revision program substantially in accord with that agreed upon at the White House conference last August.

Senate consideration of the tax bill was confined today to a vigorous assault on the measure by Senator Reed, of Missouri, democratic member of the finance committee. He denounced the bill as "an infamous piece of legislation" and declared that the republican plan to relieve the weak corporations and individuals of a large portion of their taxes was "a boot-licking" performance.

Several amendments to the tax bill designed to stimulate construction of homes were proposed today by Senator Calder of New York, head of the special committee which [illegible] some time ago made an investigation of building conditions. One amendment would provide that profits from the sale of dwellings between January 1, 1922, and January 1, 1927 shall be exempt from taxation [illegible] in constructing other dwellings within one year after the sale. Another would provide that taxpayers shall be allowed an exemption up to $2,000 on money received as interest on funds loaned for building or purchasing dwellings.

K. K. K. PROBE INDORSED BY DAUGHERTY

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Endorsement of the suggested congressional investigation of the Ku Klux Klan, was given today by Attorney General Daugherty, who declared that such action ought to clear up the whole situation. The attorney general said the department of justice would turn over to the investigating committee, if one was created, all information it has gathered concerning the organization. The department will be represented at the hearings, if any are held, he added.

LONDON IDLE HOLD MONSTER PARADE

SPEAKER ASSERTS LABOR LEADERS TO LOSE CONTROL UNLESS WORK PROVIDED

By Associated Press.

LONDON, Oct. 4—What the police characterize as the biggest demonstration of unemployed ever known in London took place today when ten thousand workless, including hundreds of women, some of them carrying babies, assembled on the Thames embankment and marched to Trafalgar square. Finding that closed to them they marched to Hyde Park, where speeches were made demanding work or maintenance.

Harry Gosling, one of the foremost labor leaders, speaking before the London county council today said:

"The labor leaders are on the brink of losing control over the unemployed. Unless the unemployment question is settled immediately there is bound to be a row, not only in London, but all over the country."

After leaving Hyde Park section, the demonstrators tried to renew the meeting in Trafalgar Square where demonstrations are forbidden except on Sundays. The police prevented the demonstration, but the crowd scattered about the square from which it was driven by mounted police down Northumberland avenue.

Here portions of the crowd threw bottles and stones injuring several of the police. An attempt also was made to rush the grand hotel.

ILLINOIS MINERS PROTEST JAILING OF TWO OFFICERS

PITTSBURG, Kansas, Oct. 4.—Coal miners of Illinois are behind the miners of Kansas in their voluntary strike as a protest against the commitment to jail of Alexander M. Howat and August Dorchy, president, and vice president, respectively, of the Kansas union, on charges of violating the state industrial court law by calling strikes, according to a telegram received here late today from Frank Farrington, president of the Illinois miners.

The telegram sent to John Fleming, acting president of the local district, pledged both moral and financial support to the Kansas strikers who have

WOODS WILL HEAD AGENCY TO AID IDLE

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Colonel Arthur Woods, former police commissioner of New York will head the Central Agency to be established here by the national conference of unemployment to coordinate emergency relief of the workless wage earners throughout the country.

The conference desires, Secretary Hoover said, in making the announcement today, to see the whole country organized on a community basis to effect the quick distribution of jobs to the involuntary idle through efficient operation of the emergency program adopted last week. Informal machinery voluntary in its nature, is being set up in the form of one of the conference committees which under the direction of Colonel Woods, can receive reports from various communities of the progress being made and transmit to the different localities successful employment methods tried out in others.

Hope was expressed in high administration circles today that President Harding's suggestion for a review by community authorities of the unemployment situation and steps taken to alleviate it in local areas would produce a picture from which it would be possible to determine whether there is evidence of "slackerism" in any community.

BATTLE OF SUDS ENDS IN CLEAN VICTORY

YONKERS, N. Y., Oct. 3.—On July 29 last Nan Patterson, original "Florodora" sextette beauty, who was tried on a charge of murdering Ceasar Young some twenty-odd years ago, was doing her own washing in a small apartment here.

According to the story she told Acting City Judge Charles W. Boote, in court, Francis S. Feich, her landlord, who lives in the same building wanted the use of the washtubs for his family, and in a discussion which arose he grabbed Miss Patterson, she says, pushed her back over the tub and choked her.

The fight then started, Miss Patterson told Judge Boote, and when the argument was over the former "Florodora" girl had command of the washtub and immediate vicinity, while Mr. Feich lodged a complaint of assault against his tenant.

The complainant was not in court, so Judge Boote dismissed the case.
