HOSTS CHEER AS WEST TEXAS PARADES

Three In Race For Presidency Of West Texas C-C

ELECTION OF NEW OFFICERS CLOSING EVENT

Hamilton and Cline Also Mentioned; Neither Seeks Office

BUSY DAY MONDAY

Moody and Davis Give Principal Address Of Meeting

Three acknowledged candidates for the presidency of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the entry of Abilene in the contest for the 1928 convention loomed late Monday night.

The selection of the 1927-28 president and the 1928 convention city will be made during the Tuesday session of the convention.

The acknowledged candidates for the presidency are: Judge C. C. Small, Wellington; R. W. Haynie, Abilene, and J. M. Bourland, Vernon.

Two Wichitans Mentioned

W. B. Hamilton and W. D. Cline, both of Wichita Falls, were being often mentioned by their many friends in connection with the presidency, although neither is a candidate, and it is not known if they would allow their names to be submitted. Convention political experts pointed out, however, that both have been prominently identified with the building of West Texas, and would doubtless receive popular approval.

Until a few days ago Fort Worth was the lone contender for the 1928 convention, and is still considered as the leader in the scrap for the next meeting, if one develops.

Information put forth by the co-horts of the respective candidates for the presidency set out that Judge Small and Mr. Haynie would probably be the two outstanding candidates for the office.

Mr. Hamilton recently asserted that he was not a candidate for the office. However, his friends in West Texas are of the opinion that if nominated he would be elected by a large majority.

It is possible, according to the election dope scattered around Monday night, that Mr. Hamilton's name will be placed in nomination.

Bourland Worries Rivals

Mr. Cline was prominently mentioned in 1926 for the presidency It is acknowledged that if Mr. Cline had made an active campaign for the office, such as conducted by the three acknowledged candidates, that he would stand a strong chance of being elected.

Mr. Bourland's boom for the office was only started a short time ago and his voting strength is one of the uncertain quantities of the presidential race. Whatever Mr. Bourland's chances of winning, his candidacy was the source of considerable worry Monday night to the Small and Haynie camps.

The program for the Monday session of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention was a literal presentation of several pages of "Who's Who in America."

An array of distinguished speakers gathered together for one session of a meeting such as presented Monday in the convention hall is rare in the annals of American history.

Concert Opens Program

The meeting was opened with a massed band concert in front of the convention hall. It was called to order promptly at 9:30 a. m., by Mr. McCutchen, president of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce. Approximately 4000 people were in the convention hall when Mr. McCutchen rapped the gavel for order.

Immediately following the order call those in attendance arose and sang "America," accompanied by the Stamford Fireman's band, the official band of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for 1926 and the early part of 1927.

After the song, the invocation was delivered by Dr. O. L. Powers, pastor of the First Baptist church.

On behalf of the city, Mayor Shepherd delivered an address of welcome.

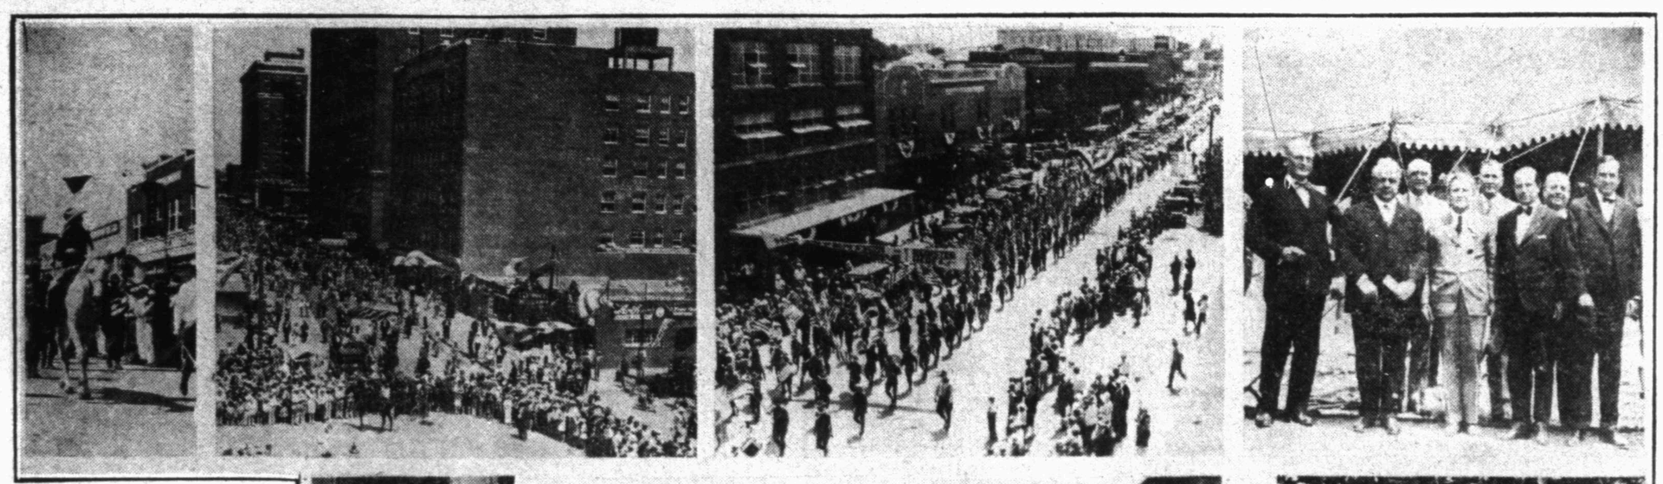

"We have thrown away the keys to the city," he said," we want everyone—men, women and children—to feel at home. What you do in your own home town, do in Wichita Falls. You are our guests and we want you to have an enjoyable time."

Mr. Hamilton delivered an address of welcome on behalf of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce.

"No agency or organization has the opportunity or can do the good that a well organized chamber of commerce can do," he said.

"We welcome the people of West Texas, New Mexico, East and South Texas to the cnovention. We are also glad to have with us the people from the southwestern sec-

COLD FORCES NATION'S HEAD TO GO TO BED

No Cause For Concern Over His Condition, Doctor Says

WASHINGTON, May 16. (AP)—President Coolidge was forced to bed early this afternoon suffering from a cold.

The cold was described as "slight" by Dr. James E. Coupal, the White House physician. He said there was no temperature and that the president's pulse was normal. He prescribed a rest for the president for the remainder of the day.

Mr. Coolidge left his desk a little earlier than usual today and when Dr. Coupal made his call he suggested that he go to bed. The cold is in the chest.

Four Face Court On Intimidation Charge

BROWNSVILLE, Texas, May 16. (AP)—County Judge A. B. Crane and three other Willacy county men, Jesse Rose, John Swanner and Archie Clark, were arraigned before Judge J. C. Hutcheson in federal district court Monday and pleaded not guilty to charges of intimidation on which they had been indicted, the court entering a general continuance. This means that they probably will be tried at the next term of court in December here.

SOLON IN RAID

Member of Legislature Aids Sheriff In Dry Raid

AUSTIN, May 16.(AP)—Led by Rep. Henry Webb of Odessa, rangers and members of the Travis county sheriff's department Sunday night raided the farm home of a former deputy sheriff near here, confiscated a 20-gallon still, several bottles of whisky and dismantled a miniature bar, the sheriff's office reported late today.

Three liquor charges were filed against Walter Carrigan, owner of the farm and he was released on $1000 bond.

Webb, invited by the sheriff to participate in the raid, wore six shooters and carried a rifle.

American Balloonist Reaches Top of World

SCOTT FIELD, Belleville, Ills., May 16. —Captain Hawthorne C. Gray's ballon ascension here May 4 to 42,470 feet was authenticated by the bureau of standards as the highest altitude ever reached by man, according to notification received here from Washington.

Gray's record shatters both the balloon altitude record set in 1901 by two Germans, Suring and Berson, and the world airplane top 39,800 feet, reached last year by the French flier, Gallizo.

Ten Men Injured When Mine Bucket Tumbles

SCRANTON, Pa., May 16. (AP)—Ten men were injured, nine of them seriously, today when a cage on which they were being lowered into the Johnson mine of the Scranton Coal company at Dickson City dropped 60 feet to the bottom of the 600-foot shaft. Four suffered broken legs and the others were injured internally.

Calles' Daughter Will Wed American Youth

NOGALES, Ariz., May 16. (AP)—Trosseau troubles which beset the daughter of President Calles of Mexico, Senorita Ernestine Calles, and caused one postponement of her coming wedding to Thomas Arnold Robinson of New York appeared past today as preparations went forward to celebrate the event in Nogales, Sonora, tomorrow night.

Texas Exports Figures Run Into Record Total

WASHINGTON, May 16. (AP) — Almost one-third of American exports for 1926 came from New York and Texas, the first state furnishing goods for shipment abroad valued at $761,249,789 and the second $648,991,954, the commerce department reported today. Pennsylvania was third with a total of $522,431,651 and California was fourth with $237,691,684.

RIVER PIERCES LEVEE WALLS

Louisiana Continues To Feel Flood's Ire

By Universal Service.

NEW ORLEANS, May 16.—Having made a sieve of the 50 miles of levees along Bayou Des Glaises and doomed eight parishes to inundation, the surging flood waters today threatened to bowl over embankments on the Mississippi and Atchafalaya rivers that would make six more parishes and parts of three others their prey.

A woman and nine children were reported drowned when the flood swept over Plaucheville after the Bayou Des Glaises levee broke in Big Bend, according to word reaching here today. These were the first flood deaths reported in this state.

In the Big Morrow cane fields district more than a thousand people were reported marooned on the roofs of their homes. Trucks sent to bring them out were stopped by the flood before reaching the scene.

Frantic Help Call

Secretary of Commerce Hoover received a frantic call for help from Woodside, about eight miles south of Simmesport on the Atchafalaya, the despatch saying that a levee on the west bank of the Atchafalaya at that point threatened to crumble at any moment.

Orders were immediately flashed to rush workmen from every available point to that sector for a smash in the levee line there would result in inundation of the entire section between the Atchafalaya and Mississippi rivers.

Racing down the Atchafalaya river at the rate of 15 miles an hour, the roaring monster had already eaten away 50 feet of the land immediately in front of the base of the levee. Only the arrival of a pile driver to thrust huge timbers into the embankment would prevent the levee from crumbling, river engineers said.

Alarming Reports

Alarming reports also came to Secretary Hoover from Morganza situated about half way between Baton Rouge and Natchez on the west bank of the Mississippi river.

An army of men has been working there day and night piling up bags of sand and strengthening the levee in a desperate attempt to save it from the feared disaster. Should that levee give way the damage done would equal that of a crevasse across from Woodside.

Boy, 11, Killed As Car And Interurban Crash

CORSICANA, May 16. (AP)—Wilburn Cox, 11, was instantly killed, and J T Bolt, 75, and J. N. Bolt, 45, were seriously injured as the result of a crash between an automobile and an interurban car at Haynie stop, eight miles north of here. Guy Cox, another occupant of the autmobile, escaped with minor injuries.

Greatest C-C Convention Rightly Held In City of Faith, Says Fitzgerald

By HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

IT is most appropriate that the ninth annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce should be held in the city where the idea of its creation first lodged in the minds of men. It was in the City that Faith, built that a master craftsman in the building line conceived the plan which led to the organization of this wonderful association of empire builders. Now it is the largest organization of its kind in the United States or on the continent of North America. It has representatives or rather representation in upwards of 100 cities and towns and "Out Where the West Begins" has expanded so tremendously that it takes the Alamo city on the south and 500 Dallas trade drippers or special representatives to boast that their city is just where the west begins.

Indeed, the jurisdiction of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce covers an empire and some day if its extension spirit of program continues to prevail, it may embrace all the territory lying between the Gulf of Mexico and the Rocky mountains as well as the Red river and the Rio Grande. There are amazing features this year. There was a tremendous crowd of visitors on opening day. There was one of the greatest parades in the history of the southwest. There were more bands of musicians in attendance than ever before at a like gathering and many notable men graced the occasion with their presence.

GOVERNOR DAN MOODY is a native Texan. Taylor is his home. Taylor is in Williamson county and the red-headed governor has added Williamson county to West Texas territory for the time being at least. Mrs. Moody is a West Texan, the first native of West Texas who has graced the mansion as its mistress. There was a time in the not remote past that politicians or candidates for office never carried the venture beyond the limits of Fort Worth. Now, it is different. All the candidates for the major offices have their eyes on West Texas. There is a vast voting contingent beyond out in the territory "Where the West Begins."

The first break came in 1914 when the democrats held their convention for the first time in the city of El Paso where the nomination of James E. Ferguson was ratified. Then in 1926 the democratic state executive committee held a session in the city of Wichita Falls, applauded the administration acts of the Fergusons and refused to give a vote of endorsement to the attorney general of the state. Now, the attorney general is the governor of the state and the Fergusons are going to build a $32,000 mansion in the fashionable district, Enfield, in the capital city of the state. There were three governors billed for addresses on the opening day of the convention. Governor Dick Dillon of New Mexico failed to materialize. He is a republican, a pioneer business man of New Mexico and despite his name, he is not gifted with a silver tongue.

A PICTURESQUE daughter of New Mexico, a blind singer with a magnetic presence and a golden voice, answered for him, and presented the greetings of the sister state after she had rendered with piano accompaniment, a soulful state song of which she is the composer. It interested Texans to be told that the gifted singer is the daughter of the late Pat Garrett, for many years a famous sheriff in New Mexico and the slayer of Billy the Kid, perhaps one of the most desperate outlaws of the times. Pat Garrett was a native of Louisiana. He lived many years of his life in Texas and was known favorably to the old cowmen and rangers of the commonwealth. Governor Henry S. Johnston of Oklahome could not come. He sent a representative, who conveyed the greetings of the chief executive of the stepdaughter of Texas and let it be known that the eyes of Oklahoma were on the convention and its mighty achievement in a build-

Robbers Kidnap Man On Guard Over Bank

COLEMAN, Texas, May 16. (AP) After kidnaping George Mulunax, night watchman at Valera, eight miles south of here and fastening him with a chain to a tree, two men in a speedy automobile attempted to rob the safe of the Valera State bank early today. The lock of the safe was found jammed and it will not be known whether the robbers got into it until experts open the box.

Ousted Ranger Given Deputy Sheriff's Star

AUSTIN, Texas, May 16. (AP)—A. P. Cummins, discharged from the Texas ranger service Saturday as a result of the recent alleged unwarranted arrest of Vic Wagner, Borger newspaperman, and Cummings' reported attempts to suppress reports of the affair, has been made a Travis county deputy sheriff, records showed today. Gov. Dan Moody directed Cummings' dismissal as a ranger after a report of an investigation of the entire Borger incident was made to him.

NOTABLES OF STATE GATHER FOR BIG SHOW

Thousands Line Streets As Great Parade Passes By

DAN MOODY PRESENT

Two U. S. Senators From Texas Also Here For Festival

All the splendor and the glory and the pulsing, pounding spirit of the west — the beauty and the wealth and the purpose of the west —the symbols of her history, the prophecies of greater things to come—these things and more were grouped as the colors of a gloriously flaming dawn into the greatest peace-time spectacle ever witnessed in the state, on Monday afternoon, the parade of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention.

And on the streets of Wichita Falls, thousands of cheering, happy people, the cream of West Texas'

PARADE WINNERS.

Winners in the parade as announced Monday night are as follows: Seymour, Texas in the representation of Japan, first place in the Congress of Nations; Abilene, first place in the citizens' representation, and White Deer, Texas for the most attractive decorative float. Silver loving cups will be awarded each of these delegations by the three judges of the contest. They were judged from the reviewing stand.

Awards were made by the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce.

million and a half population stood for two hours held spellbound with the magnificent array that passed before them.

On the reviewing stand were national, state and city officials silently watching the triumph of the day, saluting the flag, cheering with crowd as some gorgeous float, beautiful girl, uniformed band marched along.

Dan Moody There

Gov. Dan Moody and Mildred Moody were there; two United States senators were there, Morris Sheppard and Earle B. Mayfield; the United States secretary of labor, James J. Davis, added many a cheer, and officials of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce and the city of Wichita Falls loaned a "glad hand" during the afternoon.

The "spectacles" and the "games" of ancient Rome are said to have surpassed all other sights in splendor, the early festivals of the Greeks, of Dionysian flavor, yet evoke praise for the lavish and the unrestrained; nations all down the years have shown their status by processionals, pageantry and dramatic celebrations.

But unique in all of this, in a corner of the world like none other in its past and promise for the future, marched the "Congress of Nations," headed by those flying spirits of the west, a cowboy and his sweetheart cowgirl, on Monday afternoon. Cities large and towns small had their part, persons important and persons insignificant felt that same surge of exultance as the drummed, strummed, the bands went wild with melody and the pushing, peerless, joyous crowds locked on.

48 Bands Participate

Forty-eight bands there were, representing as many progressive, growing, aspiring towns of West Texas. Float after float rolled by, gaily decorated and enchroning some chosen beauty of a city; clowns laughed raucously; souvenirs were thrown from the passing cars; boosters boosted, friends greeted and, heading each division of the five-mile procession, floated the flag of Texas and her nation.

Twenty-five years from now, perhaps even five years from now, the details of the Congress of Nations at Wichita Falls will have been forgotten. Only the vital impress will remain — the ultimate signifance of it as an expression of the startling and solid development of a great country. But today every representation stands out in clear relief, spokesmen of the present, voices of over 80 growing cities and towns, all merging to a harmony of civic welfare and upbuilding.

Leading the parade, were mounted members of the United States army, bearing flags. Following them and the "Red Caps" came the never-to-be-forgotten cowboy and cowgirl in full western costume that took off the hats of the crowd and pulled from his throat the cheer of the true westerner.

Parade Features

Then, following the proverbial parade clown and his antics, came the medley of color, form, sound and action that told the deeds and purposes of all these towns. The Optimists club of Wichita Falls passed by with their banners; the Post, Texas, Junior Cowboy band played madly a martial tune, and the Boy Scouts, with their many waving U. S. flags, and the Camp Fire Girls with their slogans, appeared in the review.

There was the mighty steer of Midland, towing a cotton planter and a miniature oil derrick, as evidence of what the town produced; here came "Miss Stamford" riding on the radiator of her car; McLean presented her Scotch band, and Abernathy passed with a "How-Are-You" on her Hawaiian float.

Many Concerts

The majority of these groups gave concerts at different places in Wichita Falls Monday night, most of them on the roped off streets in the down-town section. Hundreds of people followed each group as they played.

The opening of musicians headquarters through the courtesy of the American Federation of Musicians' local No. 549 has greatly facilitated the proper working of the large number of bands and musicians visiting in the city during the convention. All band masters and members report to the headquarters for directions and various messages during the day.

Dinner Club Fetes Noted Visitors Here

Distinguished visitors to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention were feted Monday night by the Wichita Falls Dinner club at the Wichita club.

J. A. Kemp was toastmaster and called upon Governor Dan Moody and United States Senator Earle Mayfield to make short addresses.

Guests of the club were: R. R. Ellis, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce; Congressman Tom Connally, Marvin Jones, Col. C. C. Walsh of Dallas; Dr. J. A. Hill, president West Texas State Teachers college; Col. C. T. Herring, Amarillo; R. Q. Lee and wife, Cisco; Homer Breisford, Eastland; A. B. Spencer and wife, Fort Worth; R. M. Memphis Gold Medal Band Wins Trophy In Six-Year Division of West Texas Chamber of Commerce Contest

Memphis' crack Gold Medal band won the honors in the six-year band class by forfeiture in the contests which opened here Monday with the convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Memphis, in addition to its band, sent a good sized delegation of between 40 and 50 persons here for the convention. The band created much favorable comment during the parade Monday.

Dallas Junior C of C Sends Large Delegation

Making enough noise for a delegation many times their size, the Dallas Junior Chamber of Commerce, headed by E. Burton Knight, arrived early Monday on the Dallas Chamber of Commerce special.

Soon after arriving the contigent made their way to the downtown centers to tell West Texas about Dallas and the junior chamber organization. The junior chamber of commerce is a part of the chamber of commerce and works with it on all civic movements.

"We're surprised that Wichita Falls doesn't have a junior chamber of commerce," said Mr. Knight. "There are enough young business men in this city to have one of the finest organizations in the state."

West Texas C-C Closes Year With Budget Balance, Report Shows

A substantial amount of money remains from the 1926-27 budget of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, Homer D. Wade, general manager, reported Monday night at a meeting of the executive board held in the Kemp hotel. A dinner for members of the board and their wives was given in connection with the meeting.

Mr. Wade's report in detail will be submitted to the convention as a whole during the Tuesday morning session.

A. P. Duggan, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, presided at the meeting, which was attended by Miss New Mexico as guest of honor.

Miss New Mexico was called upon by those attending the meeting to sing and whistle. At the conclusion of her offering she was given a long ovation.

Short talks at the meeting were made by W. R. Ely, state highway commissioner, who during his address asserted that it was necessary for him to come to Wichita Falls from his home in Abilene, via airplane, due to the bad condition of the roads between the two cities.

R. H. Smith, of San Antonio, vice president of the South Texas Chamber of Commerce, made a short talk during which he praised the spirit of West Texas as manifested at the convention.

Mr. Wade displayed a gold medal won by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at the sesquicentennial exposition in Philadelphia for the best agricultural display. B. M. Whittaker, agricultural commissioner of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, was cited by Mr. Wade as being the man responsible for the high award won by the West Texas organization, which entered its display against others from all sections of the United States.

Preliminary Winners In "Home Town" Speaking Contest Announced

Three of the four divisions in the preliminary "My Home Town" speaking contest, sponsored annually by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce were held Monday afternoon at the First Methodist church, with the first place contestants in the finals as follows:

Pauline Sill, San Angelo; Ollie Belle Collins, Floydada, and Thelma Coffee of Electra. The second and third place winners and alternates announced are. Group 1—Cecil Alsup, Gainesville; Eula McNight, Amarillo, and alternate, Carlos Montandon, Merkel. Group 2—Walter Ely, Abilene; Katherine Marshall, Quanah, and alternate, Idellah Tomlinson, Cisco. Group 3—Jimmie Shipman, Breckenridge; J. T. Burns, Jacksboro, and alternate, Grady Halbert, Crowell.

The fourth group will hold preliminaries at the church at 10 o'clock on Tuesday, and at 2:30 o'clock finals will be held at convention hall, and awarding of prizes made, it was announced. Alternates will participate in the finals in case the regular winners should be unable to appear.

A first prize of $100 in gold, a silver loving cup, provided by Thomas Etheridge Jr., of San Antonio, and scholarships to Texas Technological college and West Texas State Teachers' college, Canyon, are offered this year. Col. C. C. Walsh of the Federal Reserve bank of Dallas, and Leon Shield of Coleman have each contributed $100 in gold for prize money in the contest.

Those who entered the preliminaries on Monday, in addition to the winners, are: Opal Farrar Wellington; Alice Raynes, Goree; Faye Jamison, Spur; Catherine Vincent, Temple; Opal Capps, Dundee; Owen Hutchinson, Albany; O'Brien Thompson, Abernathy; Ernest McElreath, Stamford; George Mickey, Seymour; Pedro Dial, Miami; Floy Rowe, McLean; Naomi Owen, Olton; Bernard Evans, Ropes; Martina Anderson, Clyde; Pauline Ralls, Ralls; Cecil Gill, Mineral Wells; Phifer Eastlack, Clarendon; Evelyn Dilledge, Roaring Springs; Ruth Simons, Baird; Louis Gregg, Ranger; Charles Williamson, Slayton; Lewis Jobe, Sweetwater, and Jay Massey, Perryton.

There were nine judges in the contest, selected by a Wichita Falls committee, and all non-residents of the towns competing. Each contestant speaks for five minutes, telling the merits of the town in which they live.

Commercial Aviation To Put Ban On Guns

By Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The inter-American commission on commercial aviation today adopted a recommendation for absolute prohibition of the transporation of munitions, war armaments or explosives by private commercial aircraft plying between the Americas. The measure was strongly opposed by the United States and as strongly supported by the Argentine republic.

Moody, Davis and Others Discussed

ing sense under the southwest skies.

GOVERNOR MOODY was the orator of the day. He was given loud applause when he appeared on the platform. He was given a snappy introduction by President A. P. Duggan. All this, after the usual curtain raisers or speeches by prominent citizens of Wichita Falls, including the mayor of the city, the president of the chamber of commerce and W. B. Hamilton, the high card of the very admirable body of men known as the committee on arrangements. Colonel Dick McCarty, a white-haired Irishman with a silvery voice, who has been in editorial harness for 40 years beginning with the days when Albany was a frontier town, responded to the welcoming words of the aforesaid prominent citizen.

Colonel McCarty is not only a unique speaker but he is a humorist of the Will Rogers brand and and if he could be locked up and placed in jail and made to write a history of West Texas it would be a valuable contribution to the historis literature of the commonwealth of Goliad, the Alamo and San Jacinto of Shrine fame. Governor Moody never slops over. He indulges in the simple language of the plain people. It is not necessary to read between the lines or employ an interpreter to get at the meaning of his words. Historically he sticks to the text. His review of Texas history for 100 years was founded upon the fact and word-pictures of the Texas of today and the Texas of yesteryear—the Texas of the buffalo and the mustang and the wild deer—was a story gracefully unfolded page by page.

PRESIDENT DUGGAN, in his report to the convention, had complimented certain legislation of the 40th legislature, including the court reform amendment, the amendment to make taxation equal and uniform and the highway legislation or laws recommended by the chief executive of the state. Governor Moody did not talk politics. He did make a powerful appeal to his audience in order to direct or fix the attention of voters on the importance of the adoption of the amendment to increase the supreme court from a tribunal of three judges to one of nine as well as the adoption of the amendment which would authorize the legislature to carry out the intent of the constitution that taxation shall be equal and uniform in Texas.

All thinking men know that it is not equal and uniform; that the system has been functioning or attempting to function for 50 years; that it is not only antiquated but costly in its workings and should be delegated to the company of the mustang and the wild horse and the dodo. It was not a flowery talk. It was intensely practical and very appropriate as the delegates to the convention are practical men and women and they grow their flowers in their own gardens. Another star orator, one of national prominence, graced the platform and delivered his message to a Texas audience. He flew from Oklahoma to Wichita Falls to fill his place on the program. He brought greetings from President Coolidge and the pledge that the government would do all in its power for the relief of the Mississippi valley flood sufferers.

JAMES J. DAVIS was born in Wales. He came to America when a little lad. Morgan Jones, the noted railroad builder and financier of Texas, was born in Wales not far from the place where James J. Davis first saw the light. From a breaker boy in a coal mine James J. Davis advanced until he was given a seat in the cabinet of the republican president of the United States. He is the commissioner of labor. He is the head of the department of government that handles the immigration act. He was given a very neat introduction by President Duggan and then straight from the shoulder he made one of the warmest defenses of the protective tariff system ever heard under Texas skies. Furthermore, he did not mince words when he discussed Mexican labor. He declared for the application of the immigration law quota to Mexico and let it be known that he was for a selective policy to be applied to all the countries of European and elsewhere in the admission of immigrants to the United States. He would shu tout the hordes of Mexicans who cross the Rio Grande river into Texas and if possible he would enact an additional legislation that would apply the selective law instead of the quota test to the admission of aliens.

HE did not mention Canada or the Canadians. Canadians come in on the same terms of Mexicans as the quota clause does not govern their admission. Commissioner Davis was given close attention. He declared that whatever Texas may think in his section of the United States the wage-workers are opposed to the coming of the hordes of Mexican laborers who work for low wages and drag down the high standards of living which prevail among American wage-workers. In many sections of Texas the planters and farmers and cattlemen and the sheep and goat-raisers are bitterly hostile to the Davis plan dealing with Mexico. A Texas congressman, John C. Box, is a champion of the Davis plan and it has the backing of the big labor organizations of America. Rene B. Creager of Brownsville came to Wichita Falls to greet the cabinet officer.

Creager is known as the boss of the republican party of Texas. He is a member of the national committee and is quite certain that Calvin Collidge will be renominated and re-elected in 1928. Major Leonard B. Withington of Fort Worth accompanied Boss Creager to the City That Faith Built. Here they were joined by Orville Bullington, the voice of the Creager republican party in that territory, "Out Where the West Begins." There was quite a gathering of lesser lights here to make it interesting for Commissioner Davis. Of course, there were democratic leaders on the platform. Senators Morris Sheppard and Earle B. Mayfield were in the picture. These gentlemen are spell-binders extraordinary and delivered lay sermons in the City That Faith Built on the Sabbath.

CON. TOM CONNALLY of the Marlin district, who will run for the senate if Dan doesn't, is swinging around the circle. He goes to El Paso in June to address the members of the Texas Press association and—promises to make it interesting for the republicans on that occasion. Congressmen Sam Rayburn of the old Bailey district came from his home at Bonham to mingle with the thousands gathered here to listen to theorators on the program and to find out, if possible, just "where the west begins." There is no love lost between Mayfield and Rayburn. Mayfield has an amendment to the Esch-Cummins act which permits people to build railroads wherever they can get rights of way and the cash to carry on, thus taking the power away from the Interstate Commerce Commission. Now, the senate adopted the Mayfield amendment. It met a mysterious death in the house of commons death in the house and the junior senator holds Rayborn responsible for its foul assassination or words to that effect.

• • •

REP. MARVIN JONES of Amarillo is another top-notcher. He was known as the kid congressman when he defeated the late John W, Stephens after Stephens had held the job for many years. Frank Kell invited these political topnotchers to be his luncheon guests. After the spell binding was over and the boss of the republican party, the special envoy of President Coolidge and democratic lawmarkets and the near-law makers fraternized for the time being at least without any wild discussion of high tariffs or free trade or the Mexican or Chinese foreign policies of the government. Two members of the state railway commission were in the picture. They were not among the spellbinders.

• • •

COMMISSIONERS C. V. TERRell and Lon Smith were very much in evidence. They were here on official business. Terell is a West Texas for be it known that Wise county must be in West Texas if Tarrant and Dallas have been admitted to the holy brotherhood. Lon Smith is from East Texas, the piney woods and all he asks is to be let alone. A railway commissioner gets $6000 a year now. Smith is not a candidate for governor. Terrell is not a candidate for governor. All they ask is to be let alone and continued as commissioners. Chairman Clarence Gilmore may be here before the show is over. He would like to be governor. If Moody jumps into the senatorial race next year Gilmore may take a whirl at the governorship. President Coolidge offered Gilmore the $10,000 job now held by Pat Morris Neff. Gilmore turned it down. He would rather continue to live in Texas than to go to Paradise.

EL PASO sent Mayor Ewing Thomason and Representative Adrian Poole to the City That Faith Built. They head a large delegation from the city that is known as "The Gateway to Mexico." Mayor Thomason defied the so-called ring in the political fight of April and won by a large majority. He is the president of the Texas League of Municipalities. He fought and lost for the governorship of 1920 after he had been speaker of the house. He was one of the Texans who vigorously applauded when Commissioner Davis declared for the selective system of admission of aliens as well as the quota clause if necessary to shut out the hordes of Mexicans from Texas and other American states.

Fort Worth wants the convention next year. San Antonio would like the convention next year. El Paso would like the convention any old year. There are other claimants. Incidentally it should be stated that the president and the manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce reports the most successful year in the history of the organization and incidentally again delegates from every section of the west predict wide-spread prosperity, rapid growth in all fields of endeavor in their respective sections and bountiful crops for the year 1927.

There will be new faces in the picture today. There are prominent speakers from East Texas and South Texas and other sections and it is safe to predict that among the new faces will be the mugs of those who are ambitious to hold high office in the future or retain the positions they now hold because the ballot is said to be the thing.

SHAMROCK LEADERS

The Shamrock division in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce parade was headed by Mrs. Jewel Lyle, sponsor from that city, in an automobile driven by Mrs. Fred S. Oliver, of Shamrock.

In the car were: Mr. and Mrs. James Brooks, Wichita Falls; Mrs. Davis, Shamrock, and Fred S. Oliver.

Former Klansman Says He's "Railroad" Victim

By Universal Service.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 16.—Charging that a fund of $100,000 had been raised to "railroad" him to prison for life, D. C. Stephenson, former leader of the ku kiux klan in Indiana, petitioned Governor Ed Jackson today for a 90-day parole. He asserts in that time he will be able to prove his charges that evidence was manufactured and used against him in his trial for the murder of Madge Oberholtzer, former Butler college co-ed.

HOSTS CHEER BIG PARADE

Thousands Line Streets To View Floats

college paid salute to Mildred Moody on the reviewing stand, who gaily waved in return; the Wellington band, the Wichita Falls Lions club and band, McMurry College band, and Lord Clarendon and his retinue, representing England, all marched triumphantly by.

The Bellevue troup, representing Belgium, fell in line; memories of the war were recalled in the France delegation of Burkburnett, with the dough boys guarding the float; Electra people passed and the military band of the North Texas Agricultural College at Arlington. And the floats from the ice companies of Wichita Falls dispensed chipped ice to the crowds from the hands of young girls.

Parade of Nations.

"Miss Breckenridge" participating in the representation of Luxemberg, rolled by in her car, with bands playing on all sides, while Serbia, Panama, Spain, Morocco and Cuba were symbolized in the costumes of groups from Haskell, Iowa Park, Lubbock, Lampassas and Matador, respectively.

Burkburnett, representing France in the parade, with Joan of Arc accompanying the delegation, received much applause from the crowds.

The Vernon delegation made a hit with their exotic costumes of Turkish design and three bands in different uniforms. In several of the eastern country pageant work young ladies were borne in the shoulder carriages as is common in those countries, presenting case.

"The Old Gray Mare" of Brownwood was loudly cheered, as the band "bore down on" their tune, "The Old Gray Mare, She Ain't What She Used to Be." Spur, Brady, San Saba, Santa Anna, Brownwood, Lampassas, Crowell, and other towns made a showing with banners, etc., marching to the music of bands from Groom, Cisco, Iowa Park, Mineral Wells, Austin, Weatherford, Waco and other cities. The West Texas Gold Metal band of Memphis made an excellent showing with the white float, as did the three floats from Waco, the Shamrock band, the Texas Tech float and the Dallas band.

The Quanah and Plainview shows would have run a tie had there been a contest in the parade, though in widely various costumes. Over 2000 persons were in Wichita Falls from Quanah, and approximately 150 in Indian costume were in theparade, with two bare-breasted braves, riding bare back, in the lead. Holland was represented by Plainview, with an immense Dutch windmill, a big slipper from which a young lady threw kisses, and a tulip garden in which a youngster was playing, constructed on a float.

Seymour as Japan.

Japan was well designated by Seymour, while Fort Worth carried an Arabian motif and China walked with the Dalhart groups. Much ingenuity was shown in each of the presentations, and all were colorful and bazarre, befitting the country they symbolized.

Citizens of Estillene dressed in the costumes of Ceylon, and Goree visitors as the mountain climbers of Switzerland; Pampa represented Poland; Panhandle Bulgaria; San Angelo, Siam; Shamrock, Ireland; Stamford, Portugal; Throckmorton, Chile; Sweetwater, Hungary; and the Childress paraders were respelendent in Mexican costumes.

Four giant negroes created a sensation in the line as they bore the Persian princess of Cisco in a carriage on their shoulders. It is said that the princess' costume was made in Persia 400 years ago, and was obtained for this occasion through the Sesqui-Centennial at Philadelphia.

Queen Annabelle of Chillocothe rode in a gorgeous float, heralded by her band, and the college spirit of the west was shown in the float of Texas Tech. The Mustang band of S. M. U. at Dallas called for cheers all along the line.

Last in the parade came the flashingly-costumed nobles of Moslah temple in Fort Worth, with the Shrine band leading. They presented one of the most truly exotic groupings in the Congress, and were loudly applauded.

Lasts Two Hours.

The parade disbanded at the corner of Scott and Twelfth streets shortly after 3:30 o'clock, after two hours and a half of preparation movement.

Other prominent visitors in the automobiles leading the parade were United States Congressmen Guinn Williams, Decatur; Tom Connally, Marlin; Claude Hudspeth, El Paso; Marvin Jones, Amarillo; Thomas L. Blanton, Abilene, and Sam Rayburn, Bonham; Arthur P. Duggan, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Duggan, who were on the reviewing stand; Mayor R. E. Shepherd and Mrs. Shepherd; C. McCutchen, president of the Wichita Falls Chamber of Commerce; Miss West Texas, Miss Wichita Falls, and Miss New Mexico, and six former presidents of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, R. G. Lee, Cisco; C. C. Walsh, Dallas; A. B. Spencer, Fort Worth; C. B. Jones, Spur; C. T. Herring, Amarillo, and H. B. Breisford, Eastland.

R. R. Ellis, president of the southern division of the United States Chamber of Commerce, rode with President C. E. McCutchen, and was present on the reviewing stand.

Oil Operators Wife Killed in Car Crash

CORSICANA, May 16. (AP)—Mrs. Sarah Bratcher, 22, wife of O. E. Bratcher, employe of the Humble Oil company at Mildred, was almost instantly killed early Monday morning four miles south of Ennis when the car in which she and her husband and three children were riding, overturned. The body was brought to Corsicana and the funeral will be held Wednesday. The other occupants escaped with minor cuts and bruises.

Charles Clarkson Dies At Home of Parents

BURKBURNET, May 16.—Charles J. Clarkson, nearly 21 years of age, died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Clarkson, on Fourth street Saturday about midnight, following an attack of pneumonia.

The funeral was held at the Collier Brothers' chapel, conducted by Rev. M. L. Hamilton of the Methodist church.

Simmons Cowboy Band and Leaders

This is the famous "Cowboy band" of Simmons college at Abilene which won first place in the senior college band contests held here Monday afternoon. The band was among the most popular musical groups to entertain the thousands of visitors during the day.

Resolutions Committee To Report Today On Future C-C Policies

The resolutions committee of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, headed by Col. R. Q. Lee of Cisco, met in closed session in the director's room of the First National bank at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon for the formulation of resolutions to be presented to the general convention at 7:45 o'clock Tuesday night. Col. Lee announced that precedings of the committee would not be divulged before Tuesday, when the session will be resumed.

Several of the most vital issues in West Texas Chamber of Commerce history were being considered by the committee, and their recommendation will vitally affect the future policies of the organization, it is believed. Indications were that some means would be advised for the protection of the oil and gas development in this section of the country, a question that has caused some agitation during the past.

Other problems confronting the committee include uniform state tax reform and highway appropriations. It was indicated that the committee would oppose any experiments in revenue laws, a luxury tax, and the Box immigration bill which would restrict Mexican immigration into this country.

Bands Serenade News Scribes Monday With Tunefully Blown Melodies

The Record News office was the scene of much musical activity on Monday, with three bands displaying their prowess within the editorial rooms of the office. The Electra band was the first to give the free concerts, appearing Monday morning in white uniforms, with several well executed numbers in their reportoire. Paul Smith is director.

"Si" Barcus of Southern Methodist university at Dallas led his purple and gold clad Mustang band into the "sanctum" following the afternoon convention activities, and palyed all the college airs of football fame. The program was concluded with "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You."

The drum corps of the Optimists club of Wichita Falls played drum accompaniment to the pecks of the typewriters for several minutes late Monday night.

Picture of U. S. Ship "West Texas" Presented

The USS "West Texas" was formally presented to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce through a large photograph of the ship which was placed in convention hall Monday morning. H. T. Lindsey, general agent of the Southern Steamship company, was here for the occasion. The ship was christened at Houston on Nov. 6, 1926, and has been running 135 carloads of freight four times weekly between Philadelphia and Houston since that date, Mr. Lindsey said.

It was largely through the efforts of Honer D. Wade, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce that the Southern Steamship lines agreed to name one of the liners the "West Texas." Efforts are now being made to have the next ship christened the "Wichita Falls," and a contest is being waged between five Texas cities for the honor.

The city receiving the most freight over the Southern lines from April 1 to Nov. 1 will win, and Wichita Falls holds second place after the first month, Mr. Lindsey said. Beaumont is leading at present, but shipments into Wichita Falls are expected to experience a material increase within the coming month. Waco and Austin follow second place, it was said.

2250 Official Badges Issued to Delegates

Registration for the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention experienced a 250 per cent increase on Monday over the record of the past week, it was announced at convention headquarters. Registration booths will be open on Tuesday for all convention delegates and visitors to officially sign up, J. L. Jackson Jr., chairman of the committee, said.

"Registrations were not as numerous as we had anticipated," Mr. Jackson stated, adding that "all visitors are urged to please register before Tuesday night and so have a part in making the financial phase of the convention a success."

Approximately 2250 badges have been issued, and it is hoped that this number will be doubled by the close of the sessions, it was said. The registration fees are intended to defray the greater part of convention expenses.

President of France Visits British King

LONDON, May 16. (AP)—President Doumergue of France and his party, including Foreign Minister Briand, arrived in London at 3 o'clock this afternoon from Dover, accompanied by the Prince of Wales.

They were received at the station by King George, Prince Henry, the Duke of Conneaught, Premier Baldwin, Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain and others

Goethals to Survey Rio Grande Waterway

BROWNSVILLE, May 16. (AP)—A survey of the lower Rio Grande valley will be made by Gen. W. G. Goethels, in connection with proposed waterway projects. The plans include a 30-foot channel at Point Isabel and an inland waterway from Laguana Madere extending up the Arroyo Colorado to Harlingen.

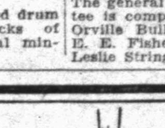

TEXAS EXES MEET TODAY

Varsity Alumni to Renew Campus Traditions

A large number of ex-students of the University of Texas have registered for the Texas-exes breakfast which will be held in the main dining room of the Kemp hotel at 8 o'clock Tuesday morning, according to Mrs. E. E. Fisher, chairman of the committee on arrangements.

A number of prominent Texans from various parts of the state who are attending the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention are expected to attend, and a program has been arranged with addresses, music, and college yells and songs.

W. B. Hamilton of Wichita Falls, president of the local Texas-exes association and chairman of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention will act as toastmaster. The general arrangements committee is composed of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Bullington, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Fisher, and Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Stringer.

The Quick, Direct Route to Colorado

You merely turn a handle

..... but what must the Lone Star Gas Co. do?

You get gas instantly at any hour of the night or day, winter or summer! But where does the gas really come from—what must be done before you can get the service you want? The Lone Star Gas Company, as the original producer or purchaser of gas from the wells, must build high pressure pipe lines from the gas fields to communities served, with gathering lines from individual gas wells to the main pipe lines; it must build and maintain large compressor stations to force the gas great distances through the pipe lines to your local gas company's city lines . . . As you continue to enjoy gas service "at the turn of a handle," we know you'll want to remember occasionally just what is behind this service!

Lone Star ★ Gas Co.

★ The Lone Star Gas Company is a producer, purchaser, pipe line transporter and wholesaler of natural gas. It bridges the gap between the gas fields and your local gas company's lines and thus serves you by backing up the service of your local company.

EAGLES OPEN 21ST ANNUAL STATE CONVENTION TODAY

400 HERE FOR OPENING MEET

Initiation Held For 300 Monday

The twenty-first annual state convention of the Fraternal Order of Eagles will officially open at the Eagle hall, 910 1-2 Ohio avenue, at 9:30 o'clock Tuesday morning. More than 400 Eagles had arrived in the city Monday night and the number was expected to increase to 500 before noon Tuesday.

Initiation ceremony for 300 applicants to the Wichita Falls aerie No. 1889 was conducted by the San Antonio degree team at the convention hall Monday night. The degree team, composed of Gus Schmidt, William Moisa, Frank Guardo, Ed Norberry, Ed Franke, William T. Souter, T. C. W. Rose and Sam Goodman, conducted the initiation services in full form regalia. Following the initiation an open house and smoker was held in the club rooms of the Eagle hall.

Shepherd to Speak

E. G. Dantin of Galveston, worthy state president of the Texas aerie, will call the first meeting to order at 9:45 Tuesday morning. The Rev. J. Walter Johnson of Wichita Falls will deliver the invocation and an address of welcome on behalf of the city of Wichita Falls will be delivered by Mayor R. E. Shepherd. P. B. Roberts, worthy vice-president of the Wichita Falls aerie, will welcome the visiting delegates on behalf of Wichita Falls Eagles, and Judge J. C. Canty of Galveston will respond on behalf of the delegates. Following a number of instrumental musical selections by W. H. Halton of Denison, responses will be delivered by Paul Steffler of San Antonio and State Secretary W. T. Souter, also of San Antonio.

The afternoon session will begin with the president's annual address, delivered by E. G. Dantin at 2 o'clock. Various committees will be appointed, following the address. The meeting will adjourn at 3 o'clock, and delegates will either attend the baseball game at Spudders' park or be taken for automobile rides over the city. A banquet and dance will be held in the convention hall at 7 o'clock Tuesday evening.

Wednesday's Program

Wednesday's program will open with a business meeting at 9:30 a. m. State officers will be elected, the next convention city selected and all business of the state lodge cleared up. A fiddlers' contest and dance will be staged in the convention hall at 8:30 o'clock Wednesday evening.

Judge J. C. Canty of Galveston, grand trustee of the grand aerie, and the only national grand officer residing in the state of Texas, arrived in Wichita Falls Monday afternoon, and will be here for the entire convention. The following grand officers of the Texas state aerie also arrived Monday afternoon: Frank D. Guardo, state worthy past president, San Antonio; E. G. Dantin, state worthy president, Galveston; S. P. Willard, state worthy vice-president, Denison; Dee Dearing, state worthy chaplain, Fort Worth; William T. Souter, state secretary, San Antonio; George Strickhausen, state treasurer, Galveston; Sam Goodman, state worthy conductor, San Antonio; A. J. Bergeron, state inner guard, Port Arthur; Charles M. Bullock, state outer guard, Houston; and state trustees, J. M. Pastusek, Wichita Falls; R. E. Kinze, Galveston; and R. M. Rimer, Beaumont.

State Officers of Eagle Convention

SAM GOODMAN
State Worthy Conductor.

WM. T. SOUTER
State Secretary.

E. G. DANTIN
President.

Death Claims Father Of Wichita Falls Man

The body of Charles H. Moffett, 63, father of Jerry Moffett, will arrive in Wichita Falls Tuesday morning at 11:30 and funeral services will be held from the Merkle Undertaking company chapel at 10:30 o'clock Wednesday morning. Mr. Moffett died Monday morning at Ranger. Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church, will officiate. Burial will be in Rosemont.

A native of Woodsfield, Ohio, Mr. Moffett moved early to Idaho, where he engaged in farming and the hardware business, and went to Ranger during the oil boom there. He later lived two years in Wichita Falls and went from here to Donna, Texas, where he and his wife cultivated an orchard.

Besides his son, Jerry Moffett, who is a Wichita Times advertising man, Mr. Moffett is survived by his wife, Mrs. Sarah E. Moffett; two daughters, Mrs. W. H. Burden of Ranger and Miss Elizabeth Moffett of Wichita Falls.

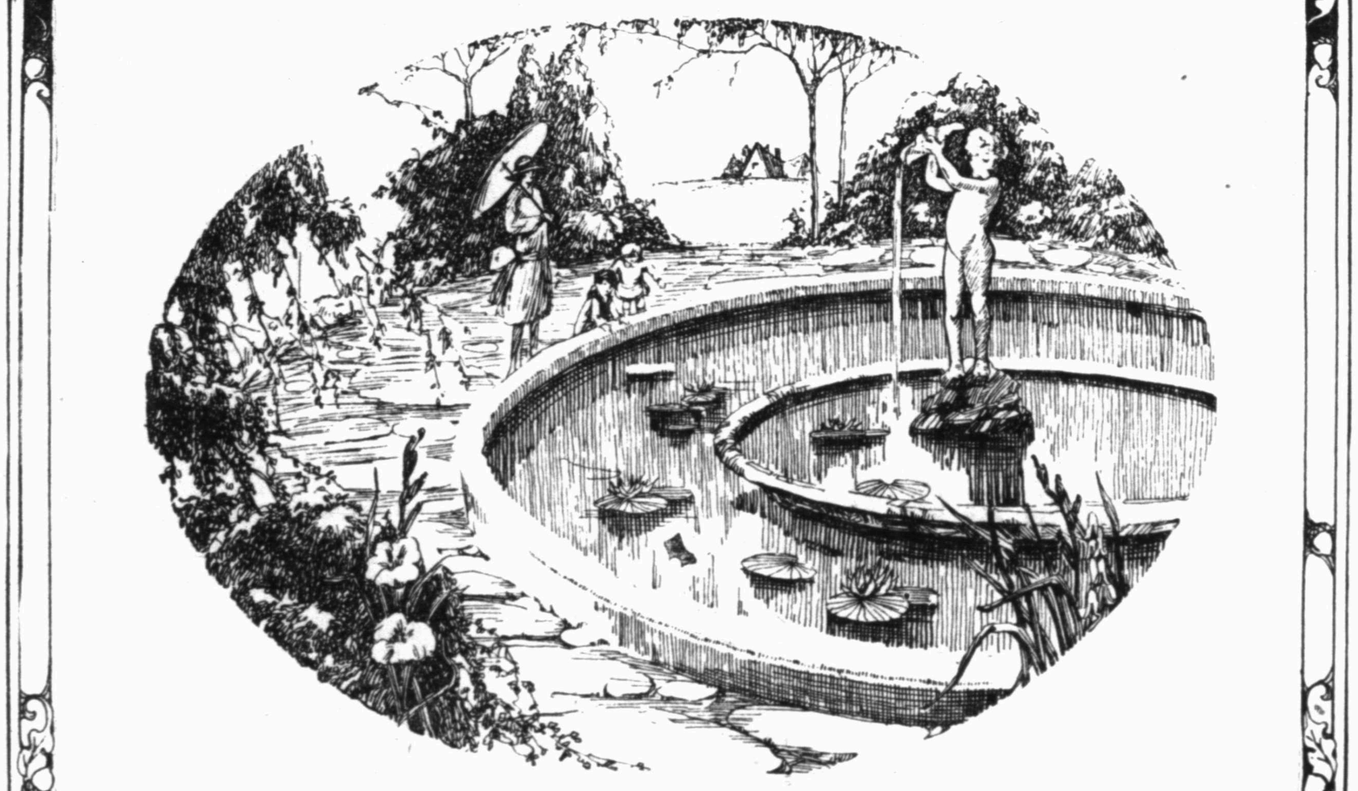

D. O. Wiley, director of the prize-winning Cowboy band, has headed this organization since it was instituted six years ago.

Y. P. Kuhn, popular drum major of the Cowboy band, has led his be-chapped followers in every West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention parade for the past four years. He has drilled the group with snappy stunts in the old western fashion that make them famous everywhere they are heard.

WILLIAM E. MULLIGAN

Funeral services for William E. Mulligan, age 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mulligan, 1214 Monroe street, who died at 7 o'clock Monday morning at the home, will be held from the Sacred Heart church, Ninth and Holliday streets, Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock. Burial will be in Sacred Heart cemetery, it was tentatively announced.

The Tiffany of Low-Priced Cars

Star car buyers are no less particular about style and smartness than are buyers of Locomobiles

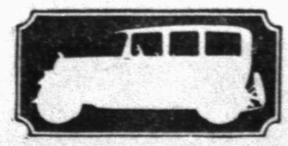

Pride is not a matter of money—of cost, of expense. It is a purely personal thing. Many who buy a low-priced car because they prefer to be economical expect as much style and smartness as buyers of Locomobiles. Such persons find both their taste and their purse gratified in the new Star, because it is intentionally a proud car for proud buyers.

All we ask is that you DRIVE A STAR before you decide that any other low-priced car is "just as good." Then buy the car that suits you best.

Why They Quit the Farm

AN EXPERT of the federal department of agriculture says tat a million farmers have quit the farms in the last two years. A magazine writer lets loose the comment that at this rate the rural districts will be depopulated in 50 years.

Bosh, the rural districts will not be depopulated in a thousand years. In 1926 there was a big over-production of cotton. There was a big over-production of wheat. There was a tremendous over-production of corn. There was an over-production of fruits and vegetables.

Why shouldn't the farmer quit the farm? This is the machinery age. This is the age of gasoline-run tractors and harvesters. This is the age when a few engineers are employed by the big farmers instead of a vast number of laborers as in days of yore. Yesteryear it was man power. Now it is electric power or gas power. It makes a huge difference.

Should Be Kept Alive

"THAT civic record which was set when almost 19,000 out of 23,000 voters re-elected Mayor Tobin and the commissioners is so good that it should be kept alive," editorializes the San Antonio Express.

It was a remarkable expression of the voters. A former governor of Texas and the husband of a former governor of Texas, speaking through the weekly Forum advised the voters of San Antonio to overwhelm Tobin and his ticket at the poll. Did they overwhelm Tobin and his ticket?

They did not. They re-elected Tobin and his ticket by 14,000 majority. This isn't all. D. D. Harrigan who lead the forlorn hope against Tobin is an engineer of high standing and a man of irreproachable character. His assocates on the ticket are men of the highest standing. This made the victory for Tobin and his ticket more significant than ever. Men who are doers of things, men who are builders are not easily overthrown.

Textile Manufacturers Busy

NOW the American Cotton Manufacturers association and the Cotton Textile institute are planning for a national council for the consideration of any matter of mutual interest to both branches of the textile industry.

Cotton manufacturing is the third largest industry of the country and the last of the great industries to get together on a working babis. It is said by one of the organizers that the council will lead the industry into greater cooperation for the welfare of all.

In other words the national bouncil of American cotton manufacturers will be taken over by the American Cotton Textile institution. This it is said will lead to cooperative efforts on the part of the New England millers with the millers of the south.

Steel companies have a working agreement. Coal companies have a working agreement. Why not the cotton manufacturers of America?

"The Colored Troops Fought Nobly"

SENATOR T. J. HOLCOMBE of Galveston backed Louis Elbert of the Island City for mayor. He backed the Elbert ticket. It was the first time in the history of Galveston that the Democrats drew the line and made party nomination. Although defeated Elbert is very proud of the race that he ran. He is very proud of the showing made by the Democrats.

It is said there are 3500 negro voters in the Island City. They voted for Pearce, the winner. Two of the really important commissionerships were captured by Elbert men, and now the followers of Elbert say the Democrats will sweep the city at the next election.

Flood Output of Crude

THERE is a flood output of crude in California and Texas and Oklahoma. There is a determination on the part of Standard Oil company directors to control as well as restrict production. 'Tis well. Why should crude be selling at a price below the cost of production?

Millions of Acres Flooded

NOW it is announced that the greatest flood in the history of the Mississippi valley submerged more than 6,000,000 acres in seven states. Even the oldest inhabitants declare it to be the greatest flood since the days of Noah. Noah had an ark. He knew what was coming. Dwellers in the lower Mississippi valley knew what was coming. They did not build arks. They made their get-away in government boats. There was no organized government to speak of in the days of Noah.

Moss Is the Name

JUDGE ROBERT MOSS of Maryland suspended sentence on Miss Elizabeth Munford who was convicted by a jury in his court. Miss Munford was 51 years old and had stolen $21,000 from her county board of education. She had been clerk at the board 20 years.

There must be something in a name. The judge said that he came of a stock which believed a woman should not be punished unless she has reached such a state of depravity that she is no longer a fit person to be at freedom.

A woman knows right from wrong. A woman knows when she is stealing the money of taxpayers. A woman qualified to be a clerk of a school board must have known that forgery and theft are crimes against the law.

Judge Moss may not have a soft head. He certainly has a soft heart.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, (EFS)—The first electric sign on Broadway graced a roof top at Thirty-eighth street. It represented a chariot race. The chariot and horses took up three-quarters of the sign and the rest was advertising. It wasn't altogether a success. Pedestrians stood gaping at the interminable race, in no way associating it with the product it was designed to stamp on the mind of the multitude.

Advance has been made since then in the art of incandescent exploitation, but the advertisers have been so greedy in the way they've plastered every available house front and roof top along Broadway and its environs with their blazing messages that the eyes of the beholders blink in protest at the blinding display.

* * *

When the sun drops down behind the Jersey hills, twilight comes stealing along Edison Alley and New York starts its nightly slide towards hell, there bursts upon the tortured vision a wild intermarriage of blazing tone represented by 25,000,000 candle-power concentrated in 1,243,538 incandescent lamps, the reflection from which blots out the twinkling stars staining the sable skies a dull, sickly saffron.

The signs are so varied, weird, extraordinary and so closely grouped that after five minutes of puzzled contemplation the bewildered pedestrian isn't sure whether he's been commanded to grease his pancakes with Smith's shoe polish or try Eskimo ginger ale on the piano legs.

A movement is under way to minimize this confusion of blazing bulbs. With every new building going up in the sign-belt, the electric advertising men are conferring with the architects in an endeavor to fit their electric messages with some effectiveness into the general scene. Whether they will succeed and eventually bring about relief to the pedestrian's tortured vision, is matter for conjecture.

* * *

Having advertised everything the well-dressed man, woman, child, chauffeur, nurse-maid and flunky will wear, one of the leading Sap Salons ends its daily full-page claim to attention in a leading morning journal with the injunction:

"And don't forget the dog's new spring outfit!"

* * *

You can get no better slant on the life and thought of a town than by studying the advertisements in the newspapers.

By their ads you shall know them.

It is doubtless a fact that the large department stores of New York keep the bigwig morning and evening papers going. All anyone who doubts this has to do is to glance over a 45-page morning newspaper with thirty-five pages devoted to advertising, and draw his own conclusions.

The department store merchants know their clientele and they don't spend good money for white space in the newspapers indulging wild fancies and gold-bordered dreams.

That's why the study of newspaper advertisements is profitable and diverting to the chronicler who notes the passing show from his camp chair under the striped umbrella on the sidelines.

That's why, for example, the following department store ad that appeared the other morning is enlightening:

"Sale of 15,000 books—23c—14c—89c. Essays to dream over. Philosophy to ponder over. Humor to chuckle over. Economics to dig through. Books on nursing, farming, design, health, spiritualism—and politics. Thrilling travel books. Delightful juvenile books. DECORATIVELY BOUND! Colorful bindings—flaming cerise, peacock blue, egg plant purple—THAT ARE WORTH THE PRICE FOR DECORATIVE REASONS ALONE!

"COME! SEE! BROWSE! BUY."

"Son—I prayed to the good Gor that he would help me bring you up in such a way that you would never make another woman as unhappy as your father made me"

WHAT HAS HAPPENED

Anne Huntington Tracy promised her son a beautiful roadster, and confidently expected that when Phillip Wynne Travy IV would return from the motor salesroom with it he would take his mother to Arrowhead Inn for dinner.

Instead he brings Natlee Jones and asks his mother to loan him $10 so that he may take her out instead. She gives it to him with misgivings and spends the evening thinking of her sad life and indulging in self-pity.

Phillip stays out very late and just as his mother is becoming frantic Phil returns and calmly announces that he has proposed to Natlee and that they hope to marry even before he finishes his education.

Phil also tells his mother that Mr. Jones is very angry because he kept Natlee out so late and asks her to intercede for him with Natlee's father. She can do nothing with Mr. Jones, however, who insists that Phil must never speak to his daughter again.

Finally Mrs. Tracy assures her son that if he will promise not to think seriously of any girl until after he has finished college she will help him to win Natlee if at the end of his senior college year he finds he still loves her.

Here the story further unfolds—

CHAPTER V

PHILLIP WYNNE TRACY IV GROWS UP

Mrs. Tracy began to feel sorry for Phillip. For fear that he would finally persuade her that Natlee Jones in some way would attend his party, she began again to talk of social details.

"Of course, son, we must have Lucia Randolph," she declared, consulting her date book.

"All right," said Phil, rather reluctantly, "but you know, mum, she's an awful counterfeit."

"Son, her father is the richest man in all New York who has a young lady daughter."

"And she never lets you forget the fact for an instant. She makes me sick. However, Jerome Kenyon is fussing around her or her money just at present, and we can invite him to take her off our hands."

"Shall I invite Bernice Cameron, Phil?" His mother was pretty sure by now that he was going to find some fault with every girl invited, so she was not at all surprised when he said: "Bernice is pretty much of a highbrow, but if you invite old Bill Husted he probably will take some of the conceit out of her. You see he is cramming to be a college professor if he can only make the grade."

"Luella Carr," read Mrs. Tracy from her list.

"That little cat," exclaimed Phil, "she snubbed Natlee last night at Arrowhead and I know it was because Natlee looked better than she did. However, we've got to invite Jack Kilgore, and he won't come without her, he's got a bad crush on her."

"That leaves Claire O'Donnell for Pierre Marquard," said Mrs. Tracy.

"It's too bad to pair Claire off with Pierre," said Phil, "for she is a good scout. She told me the other day that she though Natlee was the prettiest girl she knew. Claire likes to dance, however, and Pierre is the best hoofer in the crowd."

Mrs. Tracy checked off the names and remarked: 'I am going to invite my friend, Lyra Hilliard. She has wired me that she will be here tomorrow and I shall need a woman somewhere near my own age to keep me company among all you young people."

She looked over the list again. "We have forgotten Rodney Maxwell, Phillip."

"Oh, I expect we'll have to invite him. Just because he lived next door to use I've had to be bored with him more or less all my life. Sometimes I think he has an idea that he owns me. He's always advising me to do things I don't want to do."

A sudden smile lighted up Phil's face. "I'll tell you what mum," he said mischievously, "he can take your elderly friend in to dinner."

"You'll not call Lyra Hilliard elderly when you see her, Phil. Unless she has changed greatly in the last few years she will be younger than any other girl at the party. She has always been very popular with young people."

"I hate old women who try to be coy and young."

"She is younger than I am, Phil," said his mother, realizing for the first time that to a boy his mother is always old.

"Don't you remember her, Phil? She never makes me think of anything in the world so much as a brilliant, devouring flame with her gorgeous red haid, her red brown eyes, her lithe figure and her transparent skin that always seemed lighter from within by an eternal fire."

"Good lord, mother, I know I never saw any of your friends who were like that. You are making her out a lulu."

"Lyra Hilliard was, when last I saw her, the most beautiful woman I have ever seen. I think I remember now that you were always at camp when she was here."

"Did you say she was married, Mom?"

"Yes—to a man much older than herself. As a girl she always said that she was going to marry money and when Spencer Hilliard, many times a millionaire, turned up, she annexed him."

"I would not think you would like that kind of a woman, Mother—you, whose marriage to my father was purely one of love."

For a moment Anne Tracy forgot herself. All the pent-up feeling of hurt that she had stored in her heart for 17 years overflowed.

"Yes," she responded quickly, "I married your father because I loved him, but what did that marriage bring me? Nothing but loneliness, humiliation and grief.

"Phillip Wynne Tracy III never considered his wife for a moment when she interfered with his inclination, and you must have known, my son, although I have never spoken of it to you, that the very night you were born your father gayly went joy-riding with another woman.

"You have probably also heard before this that they were both killed while returning from a notorious roadhouse."

Pityingly the boy gathered his mother up into his arms. "Don't—Don't tell me any more, Mother. Of course I have known it, but I did not think that you could hold such bitterness all these years. It was probably only an impulse on Father's part. You have often told me that he was gay, irresponsible, and full of life. Possibly he was bored."

This struck the bitter tinder of his mother's self-pity again.

"Yes, that was it," she flashed out. "He was bored with me because I had become logy, both in mind and body, because I was only waiting to hear you, my son—the child he was never to see. He wanted to pass over the time as quickly and pleasantly as possible. But what of me? Do you not think, Phillip, that your father should have gone at least a little way in trying to make my life at that time more comfortable? He didn't try. Instead, he left me along with my thoughts while he went out seeking pleasure and forgetfulness because he was bored."

"Mother—please, Mother—"

"Oh, I expect it's indecent for a mother to tear great rents in the pride that a son should always feel toward his father, but some way your egotistic criticism of Lyra Hilliard just now made me see red. Have I been happier than she because I believed that love was all that was needed to make a marriage happy? I am almost ready to say to you, Son, that the woman who marries for love is laying up for herself a great unhappiness. She is sure to be disappointed."

"Mother, surely—"

Anne Tracy threw her arms convulsively about her son's neck.

"Phil, do you know what I vowed the first time I clasped your little helpless body to my breast—and I have renewed that vow in my prayers every day since — Son, I prayed to the good God that He would help me to bring you up in such a way that you would never make another woman as unhappy as your father made me."

Phillip Wynne Tracy IV never forgot the tragic story which his mother told him that morning. But his mother would have been horror stricken if she had realized that her impulsive confidence about Lyra Hilliard had changed her son from youth to manhood. At that time neither mother nor son had the slightest inkling that Anne Tracy had planted a queer kind of male curiosity in his mind with regard to women.

Up until this morning, Phillip had thought of women as something quite apart from the human family. He had classed them in his mind as mothers and sweethearts, who were potential wives—and other women.

True, he had heard much about those "other women" from his school companions, but in some way what he had heard had rather disgusted him. Today, however, his mother had given him an entirely new idea of those "other women" who had no relation to him except that of curiosity and sense. She had made him wonder if that woman with whom his father had been riding that night had been beautiful, with red hair, red brown eyes, and a white skin that looked as though it had been lighted by a flame from within.

He drew himself up and shook his head, as though he would clear his brain from this treason to his mother.

In doing so, he found he was facing the long mirror that was set in his closet door. He threw back his shoulders and laughed at the tall, handsome youth he saw there. He knew that he had grown up. His white teeth came together with a snap. Life was all before him and it only remained for him to bite into it and find it good!

He began to think of that party his mother was going to give, as a kaleidoscope of beautiful girls in lovely dresses making ever changing figures in the dance. There was a sound of barbaric music in his ears cut into here and there by the sensuous wail of the saxophone. Already he had forgotten his mother's tears. He was not concerned with the past. He had even forgotten the present. No thought of Natlee Jones entered his brain. His mind was storming along the paths of youth into the future.

"Yes," he told that strapping, grinning-faced individual in the mirror, "I am going to conquer the world."

He would annex to himself friends, fame, wealth and love! He was going to do great things. He would try for the football squad at Yale. He saw himself being carried on the shoulders of his admiring fraternity brothers off from the field where he had saved the day for his team! He was going to take up his father's work where he had left off. He was going to make a greater mark in the financial world than his father had done.

He walked closer to the mirror and ran his hand over the side of his face. "I expect I ought to begin to shave every day," he said to himself. "I think I'll buy a safety razor this morning."

(To Be Continued)

Phil plans to smuggle Natlee into the party. How he means to accomplish this is told tomorrow.

After the food has been digested by the stomach and intestines, it passes into the large intestine which is called the colon. This is a long muscular tube whose walls are made up of two sets of muscles which have the power to squeeze along the feces, carrying it all the way from the cecum through the entire five feet of colon to the rectum.

It usually takes about 15 hours after a meal is eaten before any of the food material reaches the colon, and about 24 hours before it is completely filled. It then takes from six to 12 hours before this is emptied from the colon into the rectum. Of course, certain amounts of this feces are often held back in pockets and do not empty out until carried along by other food material. Some food, which is especially constipating, will stay in the colon for many days, while softer feces passes by and is eliminated.

When the digested and undigested food material enters the colon from the small intestine it should be in an alkaline condition. No assimilation takes place in the colon, but there is a kind of digestion which goes on as the bacteria of the colon continues to further decompose the feces. The colonic bacteria can only work in an acid medium and so the feces is again changed from its alkaline condition to an acid one. The colon is literally swarming with billions of acid bacteria which act chemically upon the undigested food material and further change it so that it can be more easily eliminated.

Do not confuse these bacteria with the ones found in different diseases. If you could see them under the microscope you would see that they are simply vegetable growths which multiply by division, that is, they divide again and again, the same as yeast mold.

A great deal of experimentation has been going on lately in an effort to find some way for making the contents of the colon normally acid. It has beee found that those who suffer from constipation the most do not have a large enough growth of this bacterial flora. Lactic acid milk has been tried, but the results have not been entirely satisfactory, and I do not expect any better results from such treatment than we have had from the giving of hydrochloric acid for defective digestion.

A good coure of daily enemas will do more to clean up the colon than anything I know of. At the same time, if the proper physical cultural exercises are taken, a better tone will be developed through the entire abdomen and this effect is soon noticed in a better chemical condition in the colon.

At the same time as a better muscular tone of the large intestine is developed you must also remember to use the proper kind of food, an especially good food combinations in order to change the chemical condition of the feces before it reaches the colon.

QUESTION: X. Y. Z. writes: "Kindly state in your column if an enlarged spleen is caused by taking the wrong kind of medicine. Also, state what treatment is suggested for an anemic person who has an enlarged spleen. Has had same for six years."

ANSWER: It may be possible to cause splenic trouble by the use of certain medicinal preparations. The fasting treatment would be helpful in such a case and would reduce the size of the spleen, at the same time cure the tendency to anemia.

QUESTION: Mrs. M. L. W. writes: "Would an abscessed tooth cause facial blemishes? If not, what would? Facial blemishes around mouth particularly."

ANSWER: It is true that abscessed teeth can cause many different troubles in the body, including skin blemishes. These would not be more liable to come around the mouth than any other part of the body. The place where most of these poisons generate is in the colon, which is approximately three feet from the mouth.

$2500 PAID FOR IDEA FOR FILM

Milwaukee Woman Wins Goldwyn Prize

By Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, May 15.—Samuel Goldwyn, motion picture producer, will pay Mrs. Winifred S. Osborne of Milwaukee $2500 for reading a book, he announced here today.

Mrs. Osborne is the wife of John G Osborne, vice-president of the Wisconsin Malleable Iron company. They live at 873 Hackett avenue, in the Wisconsin city's fashionable residential district, and have three daughters.

Some weeks ago, Mr. Goldwyn mentioned to Miss Louella O. Parsons, motion picture editor of Universal Service, that he greatly desired a suitable screen "story" for Vilma Banky and Ronald Colman. He said to her that he had been trying for a long time, in vain, to find a romantic film play fitted to the glowing talent of his young screen stars.

$2500 for Idea

"I would give $2500 for just a suggestion," the producer said. Miss Parsons told the readers of her column of the distress in the Goldwyn studio. Within a month more than 100,000 letters had been received from all portions of the United States and foreign countries.

Among the first suggestions was that from Mrs. Osborne, who recommended—before any one else—"Leatherface," a novel by the Baroness Orzsy.

Mr. Goldwyn and Marcel de Sano, the director who will make the new picture, read the book. The producer decided that here, at last, was the story he had been seeking.

Cable messages were sent to the Baroness Orzcy, an Englishwoman, who was then touring Europe. Film rights were obtained. Mr. Goldwin then announced that Mrs. Osborne would receive $2500. A check will be on the way to her this week.

Author of Note

The barness is the author of more than ten romantic novels, one of the best known being "The Scarlet Pimpernel."

"Leatherface," which will probably not be its name when it reached the screen, is a story built arounr the struggle made by William of Orange against Spanish oppression in the Netherlands.

Production will start as soon as Miss Banky and Colman finish their present picture, "The Magic Flame." The new film will be released late in the year, Mr. Goldwyn said.

Eight in Narrow Skip With Death Via Crash

MEXICO CITY, May 16. (AP)—Six passangers and two German pilots were almost drowned when the hydro-airplane "Golfo" overturned while alighting at Frontera, Tabasco, yesterday. The passengers escaped through the cabin windows and swam to boats which put out from shore when the accident happened.

The "Golfo" was returning from Progresso, on its maiden trip in the passenger and mail service along the Gulf of Mexico.

Strong Cast For "Applesauce," Senior Week Play of Graduates

Certain students of Wichita Falls high school senior class are literally reveling in "Applesauce," sprightly three-act comedy being prepared for the annual dramatic appearance of high school senior classes. This year the play is being given as a part of senior week, being scheduled on Tuesday night, May 24.

Some of the strongest members of the senior class have been selected for the roles of the play.

Among the leaders of the cast are Raymond Strong, as the steady substantial husband-prospect of the heroine, Harriett Peterson, as the girl for whom the husband-choosing business of her family is going on. Billy, Hood as the carefree young man who is the 3rd of the trio or would-be triangle. The roles of ma and pa of the household are particularly well cared for by Catherine Michaelis and James Moore, respectively. Other parts are equally well fortified, so that no lack of fun will be in store for the citizens of Wichita Falls, who witness the offering of the class.

Rehearsals have been going on daily under the supervision of Juanita Kinsey, director, and will be continued intensively all this week. Business matters are being taken care of by the business staff of The Coyote, high school annual, with Russell Cumley, student manager, and J. W. Williams, faculty adviser, in charge. Tickets are being released for sale early this week and reservations may be made any time now.

Once Poor, Boy Gives $10,000 For School

NEW HAVEN, May 16. (AP)—Years ago Billy Verdi was a poor boy who wanted to be a surgeon. He worked and saved and borrowed money to go to Yale and study in Europe. Returning he was broke and walked from New York to New Haven. Now Dr. William F. Verdi, one of the country's leading surgeons, who was a major in the A. E. F., has given $10,000 to the Yale school of medicine to found a scholarship in memory of his mother.

Cheese Products Will Be Shown During Meet

As a result of the recent visit of J. L. Kraft, president of the Kraft Cheese company, Chicago, to Wichita Falls in the interest of erecting a factory in this city, one of the most unique displays of cheese products will be exhibited during the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention.

The display was arranged Sunday in the Mytinger-Walker building, across the street from the Hamilton building on Eighth street. The arrangement was made by E. W. Phillips, of Chicago, who will be in charge of the exhibition.

Forty-five different varieties of cheese will be displayed in a large case, which was furnished the Kraft Cheese company by the Ed. Fredrichs company, of San Antonio.

The cheese on display is either manufactured or imported by the Kraft company, the largest cheese concern in the United States.

Starting at 8 p. m. Monday and Tuesday nights motion pictures showing the manufacturing and distribution of cheese products by the Kraft company will be in exhibit in the quarters occupied for the display.

When Mr. Kraft was in Wichita Falls he was prevailed upon to exhibit his products at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention.

KID DUGAN By Dick Dorgan

Dear Kid,

I see an article in the papers where you are cleaning them up in the sticks but I guess I would go big in those bush leagues too because maybe you read where when they get a run off me now somebody thinks it's Christmas. Bush started me against Brooklyn the other day and when they looked at my fast one, I thought several of them including this here Statz was going to take sick. If they didn't have their hats on tight my fast one blew them off, and I was talking to Donie about getting some catcher who can hold me so I won't have to ease up. Most of these Robins should ought to wear a rubber on their left foot when batting against me because my fast one makes them step back and keep one foot in the water pail most of the time.

Your friend,
Jack Keefe.

COURT OF NATIONS BRILLIANT PAGEANT OF YOUTH AND BEAUTY

"City of Faith" Portrayed By Miss Wichita Falls In Elaborate Costume

Heralded by the call of the bugle, the flare of many colored lights, and a burst of music, a flash of beauty seldom seen was unfolded at Spudder park Monday evening in the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Court of Nations.

The presentation of about 50 young women representing West Texas cities, some wearing gorgeous evening gowns and others representing foreign nations, was a spectacular pageant and added another chapter to the history of a great convention. It was a parade of fashion, a scintillating drama of youth and beauty and the young women with their escorts were symbolic of the youth and vigor of this section of Texas.

It was also the pageant of progress of the nations, the keynote of the convention and was told in a bold and lavish way.

Nations of World

A trumpet blast at 8 o'clock announced that all was in readiness and following this, two pages, Miss Elizabeth Langford and Joline Woods took their place at the doors of the revolving globe representing the whole world. This was placed in an archway, and brilliantly lighted. From these doors, sponsors from the West Texas cities appeared and marching around the stage in front, made graceful courtesies to the 10,000 specators that filled the grandstand at Spudder park. As each young lady stepped out of the globe she was met by her escort, who after seeing that she was seated, joined others, forming a guard in the background.

As those representing foreign nations were introduced, the flag of the country she represented was flashed in fireworks in the rear of the park.

Intermingled with the presentation of the sponsors were specialty numbers including a Scottish bagpipe dance by Frank Humphrey and Misses Betsy Ross and Olive Humphrey. Misses Rose Marion and Burnett Art gave a "Dream Tango" dance and Miss Juanita Burgess danced the "Spirit of America" with Betty Gaines and Fay Humphreys assisting as pages.

Miss Wichita Falls was the first to be introduced and was represented by Miss Berniece Martin. She wore an elaborate Nemser model gown of flesh tinted georgette studded in brilliants, seed pearls and trimmings of sequins and gold lace. It was made basque effect with a three tier skirt and court train of flesh colored satin lined with old rose and centered with a star radiating miniature mirrors. This was surrounded by a smaller motif of tiny mirrors and jewels. The collar was of jewels studded in pink, green and old rose and the whole was trimmed in a dark old rose fur.

Symbol of Faith.

In planning her costume, Miss Martin carried out the idea of "faith" symbolized by the star which was also the motif carried out in her jeweled crown built high in the back with ostrich plumes. Her staff was topped with a miniature oil derrick with a pulled casing on the inside and glowing with electric lights of varied colors. "The City That Faith Built" was elaborately portrayed in the suggestion of the motif featured in the trimmings of the gown.

Miss West Texas, represented by Miss Emily Francis Key of Lampasas, was beautifully gowned in her costume symbolic of the flag of West Texas, in the red, white and blue under which rests the setting sun. Her gown was basque effect with four tier skirts in bouffant style. The basque was made of blue satin studded in colored jewels and sequins while the skirt was in the same material in red.

A panel was outlined down the front with the jewels and the collar was in the Queen Elizabeth style also studded in jewels. The long court train was lined with gold satin and on the back was the flag of West Texas outlined in jewels under which nestled the setting sun. Her crown carried out the chosen motif and was made cap effect in red and blue, high in back.

Miss New Mexico was represented by Miss Margaret Speakman of Fort Sumner dressed in white cowboy costume. Her trousers were made of white velvet with shirt of silk and large white cowboy hat. Completing this picturesque attire, were boots and spurs.

Following the presentation of Miss West Texas, Miss New Mexico and Miss Wichita Falls, sponsors from West Texas cities not representing foreign countries, were introduced. This was followed by a brilliant spectacle when those representing the various nations were presented in their various style costumes.

Then came Miss America represented by Miss Elva Killingsworth in the costume of the Goddess of Liberty holding a torch high overhead. As the strains of "The Star Spangled Banner" were played, she appeared on top of the world wearing a white gown with a crown of silver.

The appearance of Miss America was announced with salutes and an elaborate display of fireworks, and as she stood upon the top of the world, costumed as the Goddess of Liberty holding her torch, an exact replica of the Goddess of Liberty was shown in fireworks, with doughboys holding American flags on either side. And while the immense throng that filled the grandstand was slowly wending its way down and out, the fireworks display continued in quick succession, climaxing the brilliant pageant in a loud burst of salutes and myriads of colorful lights.

Order of Pageant.

The young women taking part and the cities and foreign nations they represented were introduced as follows: Miss Littlefield, Mrs. C. C. Clements.

Miss Wellington — Miss Irene Moore.

This picture of Miss Berniece Martin shows her in the role of "Miss West Texas" at the Court of Nations staged Monday night at Spudder Park under auspices of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Her staff, topped with a miniature oil derrick is symbolic of West Texas' wealth, while the star, with its five points gathered to fashion her crown represents the faith which built Wichita Falls.

Breakfast and Ball Feature Social Events For First Day

Social events featuring Monday, in connection with the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention were the breakfast at 11:30 in the morning following the rehearsal for the Court of Nations, and the official ball following the pageant. At the breakfast, Miss West Texas, Miss Wichita Falls and Miss New Mexico, sponsors, wives of the officials, and distinguished women visitors were especially complimented. Both affairs were given at the Country club.

The reception suite was beautifully decorated for the breakfast with baskets of spring flowers filling every available space, while the tables were around a miniature spring garden. A fountain and lily pond centered the garden which was covered with a grass carpet, and colorful spring blossoms were dotted around at intervals. It was surrounded with a latticed fence with open gates entwined with Dorothy Perkins roses.

Places were marked with miniature dolls wearing colonial costumes in the pastel shades, and the tables were centered with huge bouquets of spring blossoms. Topping the fresh strawberries and ice at each cover, were miniature West Texas flags. Places for special guests were marked with corsages through the courtesy of the local chamber of commerce.

Mrs. J. A. Kemp headed an informal receiving line and introduced the guests to Mrs. Dan Moody first lady of Texas. Others in line were Mesdames Bert Bean, chairman of arrangements; Frank Mercer, T. M. Conrey, J. L. Jackson Jr., W. N. Maer, O. E. Maer, Jack Barnard, Jouette Bonner and Horrace Robbins.

Young ladies assisting in entertaining the sponsors were Misses Margaret Duncan, Nancy Jane Harlin, Vera Hale, Dorothy Nolen, Gene Nelson, Ethel Moran and Mrs. Frank Woods.

Mrs. Bert Bean presided during the breakfast, and Miss Vera Hale welcomed the sponsors. Mrs. Ben G. Oneal, general chairman of women's activities, welcomed the wives of the officials and other distinguished women visitors, and Misses Juel and Adele Ray gave a vocal duet, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. F. R. Collard.

Among the guests of honor were Miss Emily Frances Key of Lampasas, representing Miss West Texas; Miss Margaret Speakman of Fort Sumner, N. M., representing Miss New Mexico; Miss Berniece Martin, representing Miss Wichita Falls; Miss Elizabeth Garrett, daughter of the late Pat Garrett; Mrs. Dan Moody, Mrs. Arthur Duggan, Mrs. R. Q. Lee, Mrs. Homer D. Wade, Mrs. C. M. Cureton and Mrs. A. G. Greenwood. In addition were the young women representing West Texas towns as sponsors.

Assisting Mrs. Bean in the arrangements were Mesdames Hubert Harrison, Bernard Martin, T. M. Conrey, Jouette Bonner, W. N. Maer, Jack Barnard, J. L. Jackson Jr., O. E. Maer, Horrace Robbins, H. G. Lewis, C. E. McCutcheon, W. B. Jarrell, Frank Mercer, Mark Moore and Misses Willie May Kell and Ann Cargill.

For the ball which followed the court of nations pageant, the reception suite at the club was decorated in flags. Punch was served throughout the evening, and hosts and hostesses included Messrs. and Mesdames W. B. Hamilton, Hubert Harrison, C. E. McCutcheon, J. A. Kemp, J. T. Harrell, R. E. Shepherd, Jack Barnard, Bernard Martin, Ben G. Oneal and W. P. Killingsworth.

Jack Barnard was chairman of arrangements assisted by Misses Vera Hale and Elva Killingsworth.

Music was furnished by the Doc Ross orchestra and about 400 were in attendance.

Dorothy Dix Warns Against Folly And Result of Secret Marriage

Advice to a Young Girl Who Stays at Home Every Evening With Her Dull Mother—Why Men Shy Away From Widows With Children—Showing the Folly of a Secret Marriage.

Dear Miss Dix—What on earth is the family topic of conversation? In our home we seem to have nothing to talk about. Father and I both work in offices where there is very little opportunity to meet people during the day, and all that we have to talk about when we get home is the fact that so and so has not paid his bill or something like that. A mere attempt at conversation. Generally, father spends his evenings at his lodge or club. I do not wish to leave mother at home, so I stay at home with her. As a result I am let out of the good times of the young people of my own age. Mother does not like to read and complains when I read. Mother never goes anywhere, because she claims she is too busy; but I don't see how the work of caring for a house for three grown people should absorb her every minute. I am desperate over the situation. What would you do?

DAUGHTER.

Answer:

I do not think that it is your duty to sacrifice all the pleasures of your girlhood by staying at home trying to entertain your mother. If you do, you will find that you have been left to wither and dry up on the home shelf.

If you want to keep in the procession you have to march with the crowd. If you drop out nobody is going to stop and hunt you up and drag you back into the ranks again. They will just sweep on without you to where the band is playing and the flags flying.

We have to make an exertion to keep in society, just as we have to make an exertion to get anything else that we want in life. We have to go often when we don't feel like it and when we would rather slump down by our own fireside in an old dressing gown than to make the effort to doll ourselves up and go forth and try to entertain people.

But if you refuse invitations people soon cease to invite you. If you stick at home they let you stay there.

Evidently that is what your mother has done. She has been too lazy and inert to cultivate those about her and make a place for herself in society and as a result she is left out of everything just as you will be if you follow her example and sit at home of evenings instead of going out with the young people.

And in addition to the pleasure you lose, you cut yourself off from your opportunities of making a good marriage. If you want to catch fish you must go where the good fishing is. You will certainly have no chance of meeting eligible men if you remain at home with your mother. So you will be wise to go while you are still young and attractive where you will at least have a show of finding some man who would make you a good husband.

I do not believe that it is the duty of any girl to sacrifice her whole life to her mother. Your mother had her chance at life. You have a right to yours.

Because she chose to let herself get narrow and dull, with no interests outside of her home and nothing to talk about except what happens in it, is no reason for your giving up all the pleasure and happiness and opportunities of youth in order to spend tiresome evenings with her.

But let her example be a warning to you, and when you get married and have a home of your own keep its atmosphere bright and cheerful by keeping your interest alert and alive in everything that goes on in this exciting old world of ours. Keep up your social connections. Go about with other people. Go to plays. Read. Touch life at every point. And if you do you will have no trouble about finding plenty of things to talk about in the evenings at home.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Dorothy Dix—I am a widow with a little boy 4 years old. I am employed in an office and make a fairly good living for myself and child. Now here is the problem. I like to have gentlemen friends, but as soon as they find out that I am a widow with a boy they drop me as if I were a cold potato. I am not looking for a husband, but merely a little companionship while I am young and can get it. Why should my having a child make such a great deal of difference to the men?

A WORKING MOTHER.

Answer: Obviously the men find you so attractive that they are afraid that they will fall in love with you and they don't want to marry a woman with a child.

This is easy to understand, and in common fairness you must get the man's viewpoint on it. The high cost of living makes marriage almost prohibitive nowadays. It takes every cent the average man can make to support a wife alone, and he feels that he cannot possibly afford one if she is encumbered with children. Also, fatherhood entails many sacrifices upon a man, and it takes one of an exceptional generous nature to be willing to work and slave to support another man's child.

Then, too, most men fear to marry a woman with a child because they realize that they cannot help but be jealous of it. They know that the child will always come between them and their wives and, while a man may not mind his own baby's hands putting his nose out of joint, it is a different story when it is a step-child who does it.

Women marry widowers with children very frequently because, for one thing women are more generally fond of children than men are and find it easier to be stepmothers than men do to be stepfathers. And also because the widower often has a good home to offer a homeless woman. But a man looks askance at a woman with a child because he has to furnish the home and he doesn't want to be burdened with any ready-made family.

This solves your problem. Working mother, and let me tell you that you are a great deal happier providing for your boy than you would be married to a man who resented him and mistreated him. The cruel step-father is a very common figure and the woman with a child should think a long time before she runs the risk of having her heart torn in two between her husband and her child.

DOROTHY DIX.

Dear Miss Dix—I am engaged to a fine young woman and we are to be married this spring. But as I am taking a course at college, which will probably mean a year or two of hard work before I can make it pay, we feel that it will be best for us to remain at our own separate homes and keep our marriage secret. I believe that if we are married I will see that I have to make good so that I will put forth greater effort. Where can we be married with the least difficulty and with the least danger of having it become known?

DRAFTSMAN, JR.

Answer: I will be a party to no secret marriage, for I consider it the most asinine and dangerous thing that any young couple can do.

Listen, son, to a little reason. If you are bound and determined to get married before you are ready to marry, at least have the courage of your folly and do it openly and honestly and in a way that won't always leave a little flavor of scandal about it. Because you can't really keep your relationship with your wife a secret. People will always be suspicious of it and nobody ever has any faith in a belated marriage certificate.

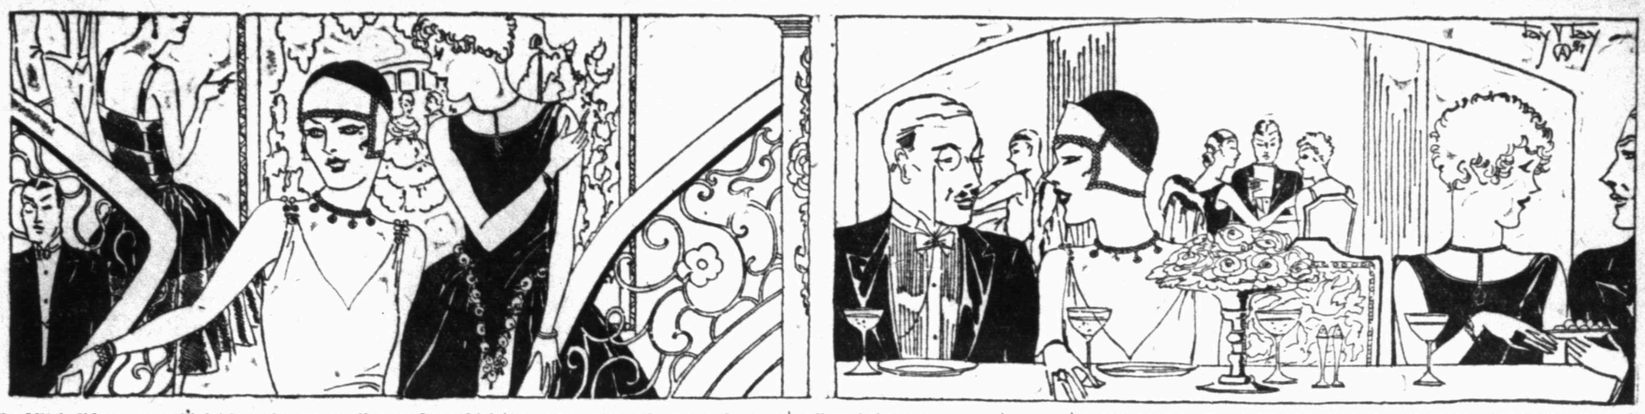

And what good will the secret marriage do? If you are openly married you and the girl can live exactly as you propose to live. She can go on with her work and you can go on with your studies. You don't have to live together all the time unless you feel that it is best, but when you are together you won't have to hide in holes and corners and be afraid of what people are saying behind your back.

But if you are a poor, weak creature who has to have an incentive to make you do your duty, I should think that you would work harder to get a wife than you would for one you had already got.

MODISH MITZI — At The Captain's Table — By JAY V. JAY

"Really, Mitzi, did you ever think to see so many styles going to Paris. It's like carrying coal to . . . to . . ." "Newcastle," prompts Polly. They notice that the straight line evening gowns and the robe de style are equally popular, which is a comforting thought since Mitzi wears a dress in the molded silhouette and Polly's has a full skirt and long bodice somewhat after the shepherdess style. A dining room steward meets them at this point and murmurs something about their being guests of honor at the captain's table. Which is truly wonderful, thinks Mitzi, since it is a place where one can see as well as being seen.

Seated at the long table in the center of the dining salon, Mitzi is very glad that she is wearing a most complete evening costume—her head bandeau matches the satin of her gown and is outlined with pearls. This nearer view of Polly shows that she wears one of the tight flexible chokers of rhinestones with an onyx drop. "The captain has been detained because of foggy weather," informs the gentleman next to Mitzi. "Isn't it too bad," sighs Mitzi, "I do love captains so!" "All captains?" asks the man dropping his monocle in sudden remembrance of a late war title. The trip is going to be interesting. Yes, it looks that way.

DUMB ANIMALS SUFFER ON CITY STREETS

A young woman writes to me as follows:

"I am a business woman, working downtown, and in walking on the different side streets I sometimes watch horses being fed with bags tied on their heads, and half of the material which is given to them is spilled or wasted, nine times out of ten. This is due to the careless way in which the bag is attached.

"The poor horse is made nervous trying to eat, especially when the rein strap is too tight to reach the ground. Will you kindly take this up with the people who own horses.

"It breaks my heart to see horses made to suffer unnecessarily, and my observation has extended over many months."

Many times in answer to such appeals in these columns I have expressed the hope that the day is not far distant when this faithful burden bearer of man will be supplanted by the non-suffering motor, and that the horse will be used only for pleasure or in the rural districts, where very inch of space is not counted in dollars.

But in the meantime, the appeal of this speechless sufferer should be answered with action. With the fellow who uses the horse to "get the most out of him," the animal is prone to get less food than he needs.

This is a dangerous individual and one who should be prosecuted to the full letter of the law. No punishment is too great for him for starves his faithful servitor—the means of the livelihood. Such a person hasn't the first instinct of gratitude.

Also the owner who is careless of the comfort of his poor beast deserves no less condemnation.

Such a condition as the business woman describes could be readily remedied. A little consideration, a little attention in the interest of his feeding, would go a long way to ease up the trials of the animal and doubtless the owner would benefit in better service as a result.

Many cats and dogs are left to stray on the street, suffering from hunger, when a telephone message to the proper authorities would relieve their misery.

What a splendid example is a man I know, who has denied himself many times in order to buy enough food for his horse. He is a huckster and has been in this country but a short time.

He has three little children and a good wife, and times without number the horse is fed before the family. As this man said once when he was hard up: "My children can speak when they have not enough or are unhappy, but with my horse it is different."

This great human quality was soon discovered, and he made many friends as a result of it. This brought him prosperity.

And now his little moter is doing the work, while friend horse is the pet of the children and lovingly cared for in his declining old age.

The glow of gladness that must come to this man in the knowledge that he has acted "on the level" even with the brute who could not "come back at him" should prove an incentive to others who have horses and who want to be real men among their fellow men.

If they will not, let us stop in the byways and have them arrested for lawlessness. For it is unlawful to mistreat a dumb animal.

Wichita Falls is entertaining the West Texas Chamber of Commerce Convention. There are thousands and thousands of visitors in our city.

They came on trains, by busses, and many will drive their own automobiles. Our population has been increased approximately 100 per cent during their stay.

This situation will naturally increase the possibilities of accidents. The Wichita Falls Safety Council is taking this means of appealing to you to do your part by driving carefully and add to your rules of driving, the golden rule, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Remtmber that street cars run on fixed tracks, give the other fellow half of the road; look out for children in particular and pedestrians in general. Don't spee.

RUNYON SAYS

Lovett Will Make Run—
Did Pyle Cop Idea?—
An Old Time Foot Race—
A Gent Loses $60,000—
Was Mabray Enterprise—

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright 1927 by International Feature Service, Inc.)

Mr. Levett, the Human Dynamo, of Los Angeles, advises me that he is going ahead with his plans for a trans-continental gallop without reference to Mr. C. O. Pyle's recent announcement about promoting a race of that nature.

In fact, I gather from what Mr. Levett says that he thinks Mr. Pyle is infringing upon his copyright in this trans-continental business, in short that Mr. Pyle has pilfered his idea. The charge, I am sure, will mortify Mr. Pyle, though it may not dissuade him from his scheme.

Of course of Mr. Levett, the Human Dynamo, proves that it is possible for a man to trot across the continent, it may take some edge off Mr. Pyle's race, but not a great deal, at that. You see, Mr. Levett is running against nothing more excepting than time and his own shadow, whereas Mr. Pyle plans to have several hundred gents running against each, and incidentally running for Mr. Pyle.

Mr. Levett seems to think that Mr. Pyle is talking of a trans-continental race just for publicity's sake, but I must say I never knew Mr. Pyle to seek publicity unless he expected to change it in for what we call the old do-re-mi.

Anyway, as I gather from his note, Mr. Levett expects to start his Human Dynamoing very shortly, attended by his truck with the rubbing tables, and witnesses, and whatever else it takes to make a trans-continental foot race before. In fact, I doubt if anyone ever saw one before. I shall view Mr. Levett's efforts with some interest, though I resent a statement in a note from Mr. Raymond W. Duke, of 165 Broadway, New York, that that he sees by the papers that I am contemplating a trans-continental race.

Mr. Duke writes with reference to Dr. John T. Seiler, "The Flying Yank," my other long distance correspondent, who has been strangely silent since this trans-continental thing came up. Mr. Duke wishes to know the doctor's address, which is Maryland, but he has my connection with the race all mixed up.

I am merely the agitator in the matter. I do not contemplate promoting the race, nor do I intend taking part in the race—not that I might not do very well in it, at that. I once beat the chief of police of Pueblo, Colorado, across a couple of townships, and I didn't have any too much start on him, either.

The only other time I was ever connected with a foot race was in the capacity of an innocent bystander. Some gentlemen out of Webb City, Missouri, came to Colorado City one day years ago, and held a little foot race in which one of the participants fell down just before the finish, and at a moment when he was leading by a Salt Lake City block.

As he fell, he seemed to emit a great deal of blood, and there was much excitement among the spectators. One spectator in particular appeared to be greatly agitated. I subsequently learned that this spectator had wagered a mere matter of $60,000 on the foot racer who fell down and erupted one gore.

I was young, and innocent then, and everything seemed to me to be O. K. oakley, and on the up-and-up, and quite Jake, but presently there came limbs of the law making a vast to-do. It seemed that the runner who fell down had a capsule of beef blood between his teeth, and bit into it to produce the effect of what he produced.

And to my astonishment I learned that all this was contrived to relieve the agitated spectator of his $60,000 and that the gentlemen who did the relieving were members of an organization known as the Maybray mob and that the striken runner was, in truth, and in fact but an instrument of their skullduggery.

Well, some of the gentlemen went to the big house, which is a way of saying the penitentiary, and there was a lot of gossip and scandal, and since that day I have never had much confidence in foot races.

Not that I think anything like this could possibly happen in connection with a trans-continental foot race. To begin with, I doubt if there will be anyone interested in the race who will have $60,000. If there is, Mr. Pyle, for one, will probably try to think of some more simple method of getting it than a foot race across the continent.

But in any event, Mr. Levett says he will soon be on his way, and there is this to be said for his favorite pastime. It will keep him out in the air.

SHREVEPORT 4; DALLAS 3

SHREVEPORT, May 16. (AP)—Chief Nason's single in the fifth inning with two runners aboard, drove in Harris to score what proved to be the winning run of the first game of the series with the Dallas Steers. The score was 5 to 3. The locals scored three of their runs in the fifth inning, when Shuman's wildness put two runners on the path after two were out. From the third inning Blankenship was the master of the Texans. Score:

Spudders Nudge Out On Panthers In Tenth, 7-6

Wachtel Takes Blistering But Has Chance Until He Throws Widely After LaFayette and Mann Hit Safely With None Out

Wichita Falls' boisterous bludgeoners nudged out on the Fort Worth Cats, 7-6, in ten frames Monday afternoon at the Gardner pasture, winning their ninth consecutive start against the Atzmen before a capacity gathering of West Texas fans. The Panthers have failed to turn back the Spudders in a game to date.

Long Jim Roberts essayed the hurling role for Wichita Falls against Paul Wachtel who went the route, but failed to climb the hill, going out in the sixth inning after suffering a bit of aggrivated assault launched by an imbued Panther detachment. Lester White took a chunk or so and George Payne finished the melee on the knob for our side.

Ribbed up by the Moslah temple band and drum corps which serenaded around the Cat dugout shortly before hostilities opened, the Cowtown crew opened on Roberts with gusto, scored a run in the initial round and then subsided until the fifth while your gallant Spudders were amassing a four-run lead.

The Panthers punched over three in the fifth and two in the sixth, grabbing a temporary one-run advantage. Wichita Falls tied her up in the seventh and broke under the wire by a nose in the tenth.

LaFayette Starts It

George Lafayetto opened the domestic half of the victory stanza with a single to right. He romped on to third and Mann made second after outfooting his bunt to the box and catching an extra ride when Wachtel scooped the roller and heaved widely to first. The veteran spitball merchant took no chances on Fitzgerald but purposely passed him. Lamb followed with a flopping roller to McDonald at third. Tex tossed high and too late to the plate in effort to force LaFayette who sped in with the winning marker.

Both clubs were clothed in their slugging garments. The Cats plunked our combined delivery for 13 base bingles, including homers by Bonowitz and Wachtel. The domestics went after Wachtel's saliva slants for a total of 19 safe blows. Fitzgerald, with four clouts in five, topped the swatsmen. Sears, Bonowitz, LaFayette and Jenkins pelted three hits apiece.

The Panthers opened the game by shoving over one run. Eddie Moore slapped a single to left. Richardson popped to Turgeon. Sweeney singled past second and Moore went to third. Bischoff lined out to Mann. Sears doubled into the center field stands, scoring Moore. Redfern flied to Fitzgerald.

The Spudders ripped back in the last half of the first and scored three times before Wachtel could put on the brakes. LaFayette slapped one into the right field stands for two bases. Mann walked. Fitzgerald got his first hit when he doubled to center, scoring LaFayette and sending Mann to third. Lamb rolled out to Redfern with no advance. Jenkins struck out. Turgeon doubled to right, scoring Mann and Fitzgerald. Swenson flied to Eddie Moore.

The Spudders scored again in the fourth inning. Lapan walked and went to second when Roberts singled over short. LaFayette flied to Sears and Mann to Richardson with no advance. Fitzgerald got his second hit when he beat out a slow roller to second. Lindimore made a great stop but was unable to get Fitzgerald. With the bases full and Lamb at the bat, Wachtel heaved one back of Lamb for a wild pitch and Lapan scored, both of the other runners advanced a notch. Lamb rolled out, Richardson to Sweeney.

Swenson Doubles

The Spudders scored again in the fifth inning. Jenkins beat out an infield hit to short. Turgeon forced Jenkins at second base. Turgeon stole second and scored when Swenson doubled to center. Lapan flied to center and Roberts fanned.

In the sixth inning the Cats started their fireworks and three runs were scored. Sears opened the round with a double into the center field seats. Turgeon tossed out Radfern and Sears went to third. Bonowitz lined a home run over the left field wall scoring Sears ahead of him. Turgeon tossed out Lindimore. Wachtel walloped one over the left field barrier for a home run. Eddie Moore and Richardson singled in succession, but Sweeney flied to Fitzgerald to end the round.

Cats Get Rosy

The Cats came right back in the seventh round to score two more and take the lead. Bischoff singled to left and went to third when Sears singled to right. Lester White ascended the hill and McDonald batted for Redfern. White tossed out McDonald. Bonowitz singled to center scoring Bischoff and sending Sears to third. Lindimore hit to Turgeon who stepped on second, but threw late to first to complete the double play and Sears scored. Wachtel fanned.

The Spudders tied the score in the eighth inning. Fitzgerald got his fourth hit of the day, a single to center, after two out. Lamb singled to left and Fitzgerald stopped at second. Jenkins singled past short, scoring Fitzgerald. Turgeon flied out to center.

The Spudders won in the game in the tenth inning when LaFayette opened the round with a single over second. With two strikes on, Mann caught the infield flatfooted and bunted and beat it out. Wachtel fielded the ball and heaved wild to first, LaFayette went to third and Mann to second. Fitzgerald was walked filling the bases. Lamb hit to McDonald, who threw both high and late to the plate and Lafayette scored.

LYONS TOSSES FIFTH VICTORY

White Sox Smack Red Sox By 5-2 Score

CHICAGO, May 16. (AP)—Ted Lyons registered his fifth victory of the season today when Chicago bunched hits behind Harold Wiltse's wildness and defeated Boston, 5 to 2. Wiltse, who had four of Boston's eight victories this season, was hit by a line drive off Falk's bat in the second inning and had to be carried off the field. He was not seriously hurt. Score:

Racers Head For Belmont

NEW YORK, May 15. (AP)—Equine aristocrats were headed from Louisville, Ky., Monday for the race meeting at Belmont park which opens Thursday. The departures from Louisville included Whiskery, winner of the derby Saturday; his stablemate, Bostonian, winner of the preakness at Pimlico; Scapa Flow, Black Panther, Rip Rap and Saxon. In all probability the sextet will meet next in the Withers, at one mile, to be run in the early part of the Belmont meeting.

Looks Like Alex Will Stay On Deck

CHICAGO, May 16. (AP)—One by one the Chicago White Sox are trying out Texas league outfielders to fill the vacancy created by Johnny Mostil's illness. The seventh candidate will arrive tomorrow.

He is Frank Wilson of Waco. Five of the other six were shipped back but there are still six of the regulars from Texas including Alex Metzler, the only "find" of the seven.

Metzler went into the game the day he arrived and proved himself right from the start but the reserve outfield strength was still lacking. Mostil is working hard at a resort in Southern Wisconsin to get back into shape, but his return this year is doubtful.

POLO CONTEST ON TAP TODAY

Wichita Falls Plays "Combine" Again at 3 O'clock

Wichita Falls' speeding polo quartet tangles with the Woodson-Throckmorton team again Tuesday afternoon at Call Field at 3 o'clock.

Both teams survived yesterday's parade in fair shape, although for a period it appeared Horrace Robbins of the domestic crew was going to succumb to an attack of paraditis, or what would you.

Wichita Falls trimmed the combine Saturday, but with the field faster this afternoon and the Woodson-Throckmorton gang better acquainted with the Call Field terrain, the game is expected to be a fast and close contest.

The Fort Sill team comes back at Wichita Falls in the final game of the four-game series Wednesday afternoon at 3.

WACO, May 16. (AP)—Bob Couchman, veteran pitcher of the San Antonio Bears, held the Waco Cubs in complete subjection until the eighth inning here today, and the visitors won the third game of the series, 6 to 5. In the eighth inning the locals counted five times, but were unable to touch Couchman for the necessary scores to win. The Cubs played a ragged game in the field, being charged with five misplays. Leslie hit a circuit smash in the seventh, with none on. The score.

A nice little puff in the paper

BACK in my home-town, this meant a "notice" in the newspaper. But I'm talking about another kind of a puff and another kind of a paper—a puff of a cigarette made with Prince Albert and a makin's paper. Here's a thrill you can repeat every few minutes!

Get some Prince Albert and the papers and start rolling today. The instant you get a full breath of that wonderful P.A. fragrance, your fingers are set to roll. Then you make one and light up. Here's a taste you never had before in any home-rolled cigarette.

Cool as a conductor telling you it's the wrong ticket. Sweet as the remembrance that you have the right one in another pocket. Mild and mellow and fragrant as any smoke could be. Mild, but with that full, rich tobacco body that bangs your smoke-spot in dead center.

Do you ever smoke a pipe? I'd like to bet that you will—often—when you find out how good it tastes with P.A. for packing. Here's double-barreled smoke-joy. Pipe or cigarette, you can't beat good old P.A. Beat it? Why you can't even catch up with it! Try P.A.

P. A. is sold everywhere. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

NO LUCK AT ALL FOR THESE PANTHERS. F. (LEFTY) FUSSELL IS BOOKED TO DO THE CHUNKING THIS AFTERNOON.

• • •

Mr. Fussell, as all close followers (this does not include Fort Worth sport writers) of the game as it is played in the Texas league know, like Mr. Kiefer is very begrudging with the base hits and seldom allows an adversary to score more than a brace of runs at the most.

• • •

WRONG, AGNES.

Fort Worth authors consoled themselves with the prospect that some afternoon our side won't score seven or eight runs, which they figure are how much it takes for us to win, doping it out that the enemy always is good for five or six off our throwers. There's a discrepancy there somewhere when you have either Mr. Fussell of Mr. Kiefer on the knob. With either of these boys doing the throwing we don't need more than two or three runs. And they work almost half our games for us nice?

• • •

The size of yesterday's gathering was disappointing. A scant 6000 witnessed the game. Arrangements had been made to seat at least 5000 more, Six thousand is a higher mark than the usual holiday crowd at Spudder park, but 6000 was just a breeze compared to what Spudder officials expected upon hearing colorful stories about how 50,000 West Texans would attend the chamber of commerce convention Monday and Tuesday.

• • •

THEM SPORTSMAN.

They howl if you do and they howl if you don't!

That noble utterance centuries ago of the Roman gladiator who, standing with big toe tucked in his foeman's larnyx and sword poised aloft, found fandom split in opinion as to what should constitute disposition of the stricken enemy, was resurrected Monday by one A. Ross.

You see, half the crowd turned thumbs down. They wanted the guy finished, but the rest of the bunch figured he must have been a pretty good stiff because he did put up a whale of a fight and were all for helping him out of a tough situation. That's fandom for you: they howl if you do and they howl if you don't.

So goes it with announcement that Yaqui Joe, the popular Indian athlete, does not get his return whack at Jack Reynolds tonight. They would have howled if the matchmaker sent the crippled Joe into the ring against the champion; would have yurped for their money back. Now they'll howl because Joe is NOT going in.

• • •

What are Jack Gorman's chances with Reynolds? Gorman in shape no doubt can give Reynolds the battle of Jack Number Two's hectic career. But just how good a shape Gorman will be in tonight is a question. Caught unawares and called on to wrestle Reynolds in the Indian's place, Gorman may not be at his very best. However, Gorman rarely ever is much below par. He has been training conscientiously all along in hopes, it is said, of cornering Reynolds some day. He gets his chance tonight.

• • •

Matty Matsuda, the wonder Jap and Yaqui Joe's tutor, is quoted as having expressed opinion that Gorman, cool-headed and clever, stands a better show with Reynolds Police Gazette rules than the Indian. Let 'em step over the New York commission route and the Indian is more dangerous than Gorman. But in straight grappling sans jiu jitsu and boxing tactics, Matsuda believes Gorman can cause Reynolds quite a bit more trouble than can Joe.

Bus Sees "Sights."

There comes to this desk a missive from Buster Martin, the Wichita Falls face frescoer. Bus is hooked up somewhere in New York for a summer knuckle campaign or something. Among other things, Bus says he ran into Dickie Dixon, the Fort Worth featherweight, the other day, "there sure are some sights up here to see," and the heavyweights of Gotham aren't half as tough as Bus thought they are, in fact, aren't one bit tougher than then the heavies of Texas.

Gorman Subs For Yaqui In Reynolds Bout Tonight

Indian Blows in With Knee Injury, So Promoter Ross Refuses to Let Him Wrestle; Grip And Brown Ready

THE CARD

Jack Reynolds, Indianapolis, versus Jack Gorman, San Angelo, Welterweights, two falls to a finish.
Pete Brown, Mexico City, versus Charley Grip, Buffalo. Middleweights, two falls to a finish.
Time: 8:15 Tuesday night.
Place: Ross arena on Indiana between Tenth and Eleventh.

The colorful and rugged little Jack Gorman, San Angelo's mat meteor, has been substituted for Yaqui Joe in championship scuffle Tuesday night with Jack Reynolds, king of the welters, it was announced Monday night by Matchmaker A. B. Ross.

Yaqui Joe came to Wichita Falls yesterday anxious to meet Reynolds, but due to a knee injury the Indian received in a New Orleans match, was ordered to forfeit his chance at the belt, Matchmaker Ross said. The Indian seemed in great condition, according to Ross, but when stripped for action displayed a swollen knee that appeared on the verge of catching blood poisoning. Ross declared that under no circumstances would he allow Joe to wrestle Reynolds under such a handicap and run the risk of permanent injury.

Immediately Jack Gorman was obtained by long distance telephone. Gorman has been crying for a match with Reynolds all along, but until yesterday, Reynolds refused to meet him. Upon being confronted with the situation of wrestling Gorman or nobody at all Tuesday night and thereby disappointing hundreds of fans here for the chamber of commerce convention, Reynolds grudgingly agreed to tackle Gorman.

The welter champ made it explicit that Gorman must wrestle Police Gazette rules and that a referee must be in the ring who will enforce strict adherence to the rules. Reynolds said Gorman has a reputation of using unorthodox methods, that he in short is "dirty."

"I admit that Gorman is a tough nut to crack," Reynolds said, "but these stories about my being afraid of him are all wrong. I just don't like to run the risk down here in this country with the hand-picked referees against a hard boy to handle who will be allowed to use any kind of tactics he wishes. I'm willing to meet Gorman any day in a clean match. But I'm in the game making my living; not trying to fight everybody I meet and maim my opponents as Gorman is said to have the reputation of endeavoring to do."

Ross said the great Grip and the clever Pete Brown were on deck yesterday and ready to step.

Sharkey Comes Up With Injured Optic And Odds Change

NEW YORK, May 16. (AP)—An injury to Jack Sharkey's left eye made Jimmy Maloney, his fellow Bostonian, and rival contender for the heavyweight boxing crown, a 7 to 5 favorite Monday for their bout Thursday night at the Yankee stadium.

Sharkey was forced to refrain from sparring Monday because of the wound which Maloney inflicted in one of their previous meetings and which was reopened in a match with a sparring partner Saturday.

Maloney went 12 rounds of boxing in a final drive to get his weight down to 200 pounds.

Sharkey, now weighing 193, expects to dry out to 188 pounds by the time he weighs in Thursday afternoon at the office of the state athletic commission.

The winner of Thursday's fight is due for a shot at the survivor of a match between Jack Dempsey and Paulino with a chance at Tunney if successful both times. The loser will cease to be a contender and will become just a heavyweight again.

SPORT a la CARTE

BY ROY GROVE

Major league baseball is making a futile and ponderous effort to restore base stealing to its proper proportions. There will never be a future ball player to equal the pilfered sack record set by Ty Cobb.

The game has been so systematically developed in the matter of mechanical speed during the last few years that any player who can steal 35 bases does so with as much luck as speed.

• • • •

He swung so much in practice
That when he came to bat,
He just kept up his swinging,
You can depend on that.

• • •

The infield tricks of today are equally balanced with the snap of the infield and a base runner must be speedy enough to take a dangerous lead off if he is to be regarded as a leader in that division.

Compare leading the league with 35 stolen bases for the season of 1926 to that day back in 1888 when Harry Stovey topped the sack swipers by totaling 156 bags. The previous year Stovey took 143 stolen bases with him.

• • • •

"Trudy" Ederle hasn't made anything out of her stage tour as yet. You might remember her as the "Fish" who swam the English channel.

• • • •

Since 1888 base stealing has been on the wane. It wouldn't surprise the record keepers that within five years hence base stealers would top their league with 25 stolen bases.

Ty Cobb's record of stealing 96 bases in 1915 was most remarkable inasmuch as the game was well founded when he made his high run.

Since that time the majors have realized the importance of players sneaking extra bases and since Cobb's time in baseball opposing teams have been concentrating more on this particular department of the national pastime.

HULL SLIPS KAYO TO IRVINE IN SIXTH ROUND OF GREAT BATTLE

RESULTS:
Hull knocked out Irvine in the sixth.
Humphries-Monte, eight-round draw.
Bolen a shade in four rounds over Williams.
Black Sam-Kid Norford, no fight.
Voss won by wide margin over Robertson.

They call him Cloutin' Clyde now.

For that was no idle air, this assertion the other day by Clyde Hull, dapper Fort Worth welter, that he has developed a knockout punch.

Clyde Hull, the boxer, the boy who scrapped rings round Champion Pete Latzo in Dallas not so long ago, but who never seemed to boast a real kayo wallop, stepped out Monday night at the Ross arena on a benefit card for the Lions club boys' band and displayed the sure-fire T. N. T. punch.

They'll be accusing Hull of packing lead in his mitts if he throws many more punches like he slung at Bernie Irvine, rugged Tulsa junior middleweight. For Hull, after waging a merry nip-and-tuck melee with the tough Oklahoman for the better portion of four rounds, bored in during the fifth and dropped Irvine with a right to the chin as adroitly as if he had bumped him over the dome with a sand bag. Irvine, still tough and still game, came up at the nine count merely to be bowled over again. The bell caught him struggling to his feet, but almost dead to the world.

Irvine Game

Irvine's handlers worked over him industriously during the minute rest interval and sent him back in fair shap, but still tottery. Hull jumped in and with a couple of quick feints and lighter flicks with his left, sank home a right cross that put Irvine into the ropes. A hook to the middle doubled the Sooner up, and a glacing blow off the cheek dropped him flat. Irvine nervily struggled to his feet again at the count of nine. But all Hull had to do was push him over. Referee Adolph Friedman didn't count, but awarded the fight to Hull. It was a matter of seconds before the Tulsan would have been clouted cold.

Both Hull and Irvine pitched all the way, with the speedier Hull being the aggressor. Hull tore into his adversary from the first gong and rarely slowed down, pummeling away at a breath taking gait that was bound to bring either his opponent down or wear himself to the mat instead. The Fort Worth welter, who has fought here a number of times, waged his best fight Monday night.

The ringside gathering was small, but the two biffers stood toe to toe and mixed it as if there were thousands of dollars at stake.

Wildcat Monte of Amarillo and Pug Humphries of Wichita Falls, old favorites with local fandom, stepped eight rounds to draw. It was a fairly snappy affair, but Humphries would look a bit better against the slugger type, with Monte mixing it with a faster boy.

Dale Bolen, Wichita Falls lightweight, earned a shade over Scrappy Williams, also of this city. Both boys pitched at top speed. Williams made a fashier showing and proved ever willing, but Bolen landed more cleanly with an overhand right that occasionally took the semblance of a right cross.

A couple of black battlers failed to fight like Referee Ercanbrack wanted them to, so he chased 'em in the second canto.

Young Leo Voss trimmed Tuffie Robertson in a four-round curtain raiser. Tuffie was willing, however.

Humble Refiners Down Grandfield

BURKBURNETT, May 16.—Behind the masterful pitching of little Lil Stoner, cousin of the Detroit ace, the Burkburnett Humble Refining company nine defeated the Grandfield club here Sunday afternoon by a score of 7 to 3. Stoner allowed only four scratch hits and struck out 13 men. Frank Stoner tripled in the seventh with the score tied to ice the game. Payne, Humble shortstop, flashed in the field, handling six assists and two putouts perfectly.

Johnson, Grandfield pitcher, twirled a nice game but was weak in one or two instances. The Humble team is seeking games with amateurs within a radius of 100 miles of Burkburnett.

Firestone Dealers Have Purchased 100% More GUM-DIPPED TIRES

[This Year Compared With Same Period Last Year]

THE demand from car owners for Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires has given Firestone Dealers a large increase in volume that enables them to sell these tires to you at the lowest prices in the history of the industry.

On the cars of motorists everywhere, in the every-day service of the largest truck and bus operators, these wonderful tires are delivering unheard-of long mileage together with greater safety and comfort.

The Firestone Balloon Tread, scientifically designed three years ago, and unchanged today, follows the contour of the tire carcass with no excess rubber at the edges to cause "shoulder breaks." Narrow rider strips permit the tread to yield to depressions and cling to the road, preventing skidding. This tough, pliable tread has the wear-resisting qualities that give thousands of extra miles.

OLDFIELD TIRES at Low Cash Prices

30x3	Fabric	$5.85
30x3½	Fabric	6.85
30x3½	Cord	7.35
29x4.40	Balloon	8.40
32x4	Cord	13.40
31x5.25	Balloon	15.35
33x6.00	Balloon	18.35

Oldfield Tubes also priced low

The tread, however, is not the only important part of the balloon tire. This tread must be placed on a carcass that has the qualifications to withstand the terrific flexing that this design permits. The Firestone carcass is made of cords dipped in a rubber solution which not only saturates and insulates every fiber of every cord, but unifies sidewalls with carcass, eliminating any possibility of separation under the extreme flexing of low-pressure tires.

Many Firestone Dealers are prepared to take your old tires, offering you a liberal allowance on a new set of Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires to start the motoring season.

To meet a demand for a low price tire and tube, Firestone designed and manufactures Oldfield Tires and Tubes for Firestone Dealers only. They can furnish you with these tires at the low prices quoted, carrying the Standard Manufacturers' Guarantee.

POLITICAL POT BEGINS TO BOIL

Sterling Boomed to Run For Governor

Special to the Record News.

AUSTIN, May 16.—If Dan Moody does not seek re-election next year, R. S. Sterling Houston oil man and publisher, will be the most likely candidate for governor of all those connected with the Moody administration, according to persons here in close touch with state political affairs.

Mr. Sterling accepted his first political office by becoming chairman of the state highway commission.

Record of Success

The Houston publisher, after having made one of the most notable records of success in private business of Texas annals, will offer to the people of Texas the business ability and the experience in dealing with vast affairs, it is said, provided Governor Moody is making a race for the United States senate, or otherwise declines to seek re-election in 1928.

Mr. Sterling, should he announce, would be unquestionably the wealthiest man ever to seek the governorship; a man whose wealth has been built up through personal effort and through faith in the future of his state.

Several prospective candidates have been noted by the observers. Speaker R. L. Bobbitt of Laredo is said to be among the most likely entrants. Barry Miller, lieutenant governor, is regarded as a prospective candidate should Moody not seek another term. Others are frequently mentioned.

Sterling Silent

Mr. Sterling has not, so far as known, disclosed whether he has ambitions to be governor; but the political comment indicates that his admirers have figured him the logical "administration" man to carry forward the idea and ideal of business in government, a dominant note of the Moody administration, stressed in the securing of many outstanding men in the state offices.

Nine Drown in Attic Of Flood-Swept Home

Junior College Auditorium

Mr. Ard recently returned from the study of music in Vienna, brings a program which will be welcomed by music lovers in Wichita Falls. This, the first of a series of concerts, will include many numbers which have been a part of his instruction under Professor Emil Sauer and Hans Weisse. A musical treat—from our own instrumentalist.

The proceeds from these concerts will be used to defray expenses for Mr. Ard's return to Vienna in August.

MOODY URGES NEED OF TAX REFORM IN CONVENTION ADDRESS

CROWDS CHEER GOVERNOR DAN

West Texas Paid Tribute In Address

tion of Oklahoma, who are just as much to the people of Wichita Falls as the people in our own state.

"Wichita Falls has always and always will use its best efforts to make the great West Texas grow—grow to be better than it is—and it plenty good enough now for any citizen in the United States; in fact, it's so good that we think it's the best place in the world."

Col. McCarty, editor of the Albany News, delivered the response to the two addresses of welcome.

"The West Texas Chamber of Commerce covers an empire," he said, "and in that empire is one of the most progressive cities of the United States—Wichita Falls. We are glad to be here; glad to be your guests and glad that you invited us.

"The spirit of the west is growing. It has created a spirit of enthusiasm than can only result in making West Texas a greater empire than it is at the present time.

"Take for instance your own Wichita Falls. Men—West Texans—with vision dammed a river and created a fertile valley and furnished power for the lighting of their city.

"Other men with vision in West Texas have seen the need of good highways and as a result there are 1800 miles of good roads under construction at the present time in this great empire."

After Col. McCarty's address the speaking program was suddenly stopped by the entrance of the Post Junior Cowboy band into the convention hall. The organization is composed of boys and girls, none over 12 years old. The band played two selections and received a long ovation at the conclusion of each selection.

Mr. Duggan was presented to the meeting by Mr. McCutchen. The head of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce then gave the president's annual address.

Illustrated Address

To illustrate Mr. Duggan's talk, 12 young ladies, dressed in sailors' costume, walked to the front of the platform with large cards on which were printed the points stressed by Mr. Duggan during his address.

"The West Texas Chamber of Commerce," Mr. Duggan said, "is an organization of service. It lives for no other purpose than to serve; primarily—the people within its regional territory, and secondarily—our beloved state of Texas as a whole.

"We serve, therefore we grow" has been its ideal practice throughout its nine years of existence, and those most closely in touch with its affairs believe its sphere of usefulness will be greatly enlarged and increased during the years to come.

"In this annual report it is not my purpose to go into details of the multitudinous activities of the organization during the past 11 months. I will mention just a few of its minor activities.

"We have regarded the resolutions passed at the Amarillo convention last year as a platform on which to work, and have adhered pretty closely to them.

"Believing that the agricultural and livestock interests of Texas are paramount, the officers and staff of this organization have stressed the intelligent diversification of crops throughout the regional territory. This work, started by Col. R. Q. Lee last year, has been carried on unabated and with all the earnestness at our command.

Dairying

"Our vision is to see the farmers of West Texas have a sufficient number of milch cows on the farms, not only to supply their own families with that most wholesome food, milk, but, to furnish the entire state with its needs, and to keep in Texas the $10,000,000 annually sent to northern states for butter alone, and the additional approximately $20,000,000 sent out never to return, for cheese, canned milk, and other dairy products. During the year 1926, there was produced in the state of Minnesota a little under 9,000,000,000 pounds of milk, which brought to the farmers of that state $159,750,000. That is approximately the value of the 5,900,000 head of cattle on the farms and ranches of Texas, according to government figures. We are intensely interested in an increase of dairy farming throughout West Texas.

Hogs

"We desire to see a sufficient number of hogs on our farms to supply not only the home larders, but to keep in Texas the $85,000,000 now flowing out to northern states every year for pork products. We have encouraged and assisted in importing hogs and glad to report that their number is increasing rapidly on the farms throughout West Texas.

Poultry

"The profits from chickens, eggs and turkeys are so great, and our climatic conditions are so well adapted to poultry raising that we look forward to the day when Texas, and not California will be pointed out as the premier commonwealth of the nation in that respect. We are pleased to report that a start has been made along this line, but much remains yet to be done.

Home Garden

"The home garden, with every family canning its own fruits and vegetables, would go a long way toward reducing household expenses, adding to the health and pleasure of living at home and saving for Texas the approximately $30,000,000 that go out annually for canned goods. The home demonstration agents throughout our section are doing a great educational work along this line.

Cotton

"The farmers of the south, including Texas, have the habit of raising cotton so thoroughly implanted in their systems that they are slow to make changes though the diversification idea is taking root in almost every community, and will grow more rapidly as actual profits are realized from its practice.

Cotton Reduction

"The prospects are there will be no reduction of cotton acreage in the state of Texas this year in spite of all the diversification entreaties. It is very regrettable, for it looks like financial suicide for the farmers to plant a large acreage in cotton again, with the present tremendous carry-over and low prices. We have never missed an opportunity to beg and plead with the farmers to reduce cotton acreage."

As Governor Moody rose to speak, a band played "The Eyes of Texas Are Upon You." He expatiated on the hospitality of West Texas, but hoped the prefix "West" did not indicate any line of separation between this section and the remainder of the state.

"We are one big body of people interested in bringing wealth and prosperity and comforts to all," he said.

He recalled the great growth of the state from the days of San Jacinto, Santa Ana, and the Alamo, 100 years ago, to the amazing progress of the present, and visioned an even greater Texas.

"No country," he said, "offers greater opportunities than this state of Texas of which we are so justly proud.

"But there is one thing that must be done at all hazards. The government must keep in step and march in time with the development of the state. Some men think that it is dangerous to mention government in connection with commerce and business. This is a false idea because the government means as much to you as the rain and sunshine mean to your crops. When the government progresses, business flourishes; when it fails business fails.

"Since the subjects have been introduced by your president, it will not be amiss for me to mention two very important things in connection with the government—taxation and courts.

New Tax System Needed

"Our present system of taxation is a patchwork. It started when wealth was represented by such things as land and cattle, and other property that could be easily reached. But conditions have changed and this system has become antiquated. As the field of government has enlarged, there has become greater need for funds and out of this need the legislature has added piece by piece to the taxing system, until it is lacking in scientific thought or fairness or justice.

"The West Texas Chamber of Commerce has urged a tax survey. But a single glance at the constitution shows that we need constitutional changes in order to make the taxing provisions more flexible and enable the legislature to work out a more just and a more economical taxing system. That amendment comes up for your consideration at the polls next August.

"One thing about our present taxing system is that it costs too much to collect taxes. Another thing it gives no thought to the ability of the property owner to pay. We should have a system in which no man will be taxed to the breaking point. It should be a tax-saving program."

The governor said that the courts are to expensive; that they waste time and money, and that they need improvement so that they will keep up with progress in other lines.

The subject of Secretary Davis' talk was "the Fallacy of Cheap Labor." He said the greatest part of labor is engaged in the production of what 25 or 50 years ago was considered luxuries.

Basis of Prosperity.

"Let the people stop buying these so called luxuries, pianos, radios, automobiles, carpets and you have a panic," he said.

"If you can keep the man who works prosperous you have a prosperous country. The reason America is prosperous is because we have the higest wages in the world.

"If prosperity and low wages went together Mexico and China would be among the most prosperous countries in the world. If you want a panic, talk in terms of cheap labor.

"Three hundred thousand Mexicans came into the country in the last three years. It is wrong to lock the front door against European immigration and open the back door to cheap labor from Mexico. I am in favor of putting the entire country on the same basis of selective immigration.

"The method of keeping United States labor in a satisfied condition is to maintain a high tariff. If we lower the tariff or should do away with it entrely, merchandise from foreign countries, manufactured by cheap labor, would flood the markets of this country and be sold at a price at which manufacturers in the United States would be unable to compete.

"I have in mind one prominent manufacturer who told me that if it was not for the tariff maintained in this country that he could import similar products of which he was manufacturing and do away with his factory. He employs approximately 500 men, who would be out of work if we did not have a high tariff."

Before Secretary Davis made his address Miss Elizabeth Garrett, daughter of Pat Garrett, the famous New Mexico law enforcement officer, addressed the meeting and brought greetings to West Texas from New Mexico. She ended her address by singing "New Mexico," a selection which she composed and which has been adopted by New Mexico as the state song. Miss Garrett played her own accompaniment.

Wade Makes Report.

Preceding Miss Garrett Homer D. Wade, general manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce made his annual report, which follows:

"The president has given a panoramic review of the accomplishments of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce during the past ten and one-half months. This report does not deal with the accomplishments but essays to give some information as to how they were brought about.

"In the outset, it may be said with full truthfulness, that no one man is responsible and may be added that but for the hearty co-operation given by the members of the executive board, the friends of the organization and by the president of West Texas that the wonderful report submitted by the president would not and could not be made.

Tribute to Duggan.

"It is true that the president was a large inspiration, and it should be said of him that no president ever approached his work with a deeper interest and finer motive. His every impulse has been to give service; his every heart beat has been in unison with the ambitions of the west. His work, has been of the type that has inspired confidence, and enabled the citizenry to gain a broader vision of their potential and actual possibilities. No town has been too small for his attention; no distance been too great for him to travel and no inconvenience has dampened his willingness to go when called upon. In his few months service he has entwined the love, respect and admirations of the West Texan around him, and none have responded to his ideals with more alacrity than has the staff of the organization. The organization has received invaluable aid by his services as president and the entire west has benefitted thereby.

"One of the inheritances of the present administration was a staff of workers that had no equal. This staff has remained intact with slight changes and no executive in any line of endeavor could have had such wonderful co-operation, such supreme loyalty and such splendid constructive ability. A work, such as the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, can observe no hours and in the problems, calls demands that have come there has never been a moment's hesitation upon the part of a single member of the staff. To each and every one of the staff, I express my true and heart felt appreciation. Their intelligence and willingness to work has made my task much more joyous and your organization the success that it has been.

"The various departments have ramifications in every line of human endeavor in West Texas and Texas, as to that matter, from securing rural mail routes to the weightiest questions that have confronted West Texas. In fact, no problem has been too great to be undertaken and the solution to many of these has been the greatest ambition of all of us.

"Countless miles have been traveled by members of the staff. In fact, distance has not been considered. The one impelling thought has been "service." Errors in judgment may be made it is true, but there has been no lack of desire to serve.

"One of the accomplishments of which I am very proud is the fact that notwithstanding the organization had outstanding accounts of $9790 when the present administration assumed charge, these have been paid and there is a balance to the credit of the organization at this time.

'It would be hard to say what has been the outstanding accomplishment of the organization during the past year. One outstanding aim has been to keep the 'West Texas' spirit aglow and to 'carry on' in spite of all obstables, apparent or real.

"Agriculture and livestock interests have been benefitted to the fullest extent possible. Excerpts from two letters on file show some results of our labors in livestock matters. One from Dr. N. F. Williams, chief veterinarian of the livestock sanitary commission said:

"We take this opportunity to thank you for the loyal support and wise counsel you have given to the livestock sanitary commission in its efforts to function efficiently and economically. Your thorough familiarity with the industries of your territory and your willingness to co-operate, coupled with your insistent demand for protection and service has spared your people disastrous stock losses that other parts of the state have suffered."

Another from Col. C. C. French, industrial agent of the Fort Worth Stockyards company follows:

"I want to thank you and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce for the great work you have done in assisting the stockyards company in getting well bred gilts into West Texas and other parts of Texas. So far there has been nearly 300 cars of gilts shipped into the state largely directly, and in some cases indirectly, by the Fort Worth Stockyards company. This could not have been done without the assistance rendered by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The service you have rendered was to the state. These gilts now represent a value of $600,000 and their increase since the importation commenced represents a value of not less than four million dollars to the people who purchased them. It may be of interest to you to know that during the year 1926 there were trucked into the Fort Worth stockyards 29,860 truck loads of livestock and 6719 loads of livestock trucked out of the yards."

Help of Railroads

"Transportation facilities have been given increased attention and I feel justified in the statement that there has never been a more cordial relationship between the public and the common carriers than at this time. This organization lays some claim to bringing about this good feeling. When an organization can, sitting across the table, induce a great railroad to make concessions in transportation charges that will save to the people that it serves $250,000 annually in freight charges, as was done in a conference with the Santa Fe railroad, It means respect for the organization and the people that it serves.

"When the governor of a great state like Texas, a state legislature, a board of control and other state agencies, solicit the aid, council and co-operation of an organization it argues that they have a confidence therein. These are experiences and contracts that have been the pleasure of the executive officers of the organization. These statements are not made in the spirit of boastfulness, but in meekness because of the responsibilities that are involved. Mention of these facts is made to tell of the respect in which the organization is held.

"I am not thinking of personal fortunes or future, but my whole being has been a burning desire to justify the confidence of the executive board, who a year ago by unanimous vote placed the responsibility of the management of this great organization in my keeping. If I have succeeded, even to a small extent, then I am fully rewarded. But I shall ever have the deep and abiding faith in this great empire, West Texas, and in the organization that has been such a potent factor in its development, and has such wonderful opportunities for still greater achievements."

At the conclusion of Secretary Davis' address and just before adjournment of the morning session, the following distinguished visitors to the convention were introduced:

United States Senators Morris Sheppard and Earle Mayfield, Texas Congressmen Gwinn Williams, Sam Rayburn and Tom Connally and R. B. Craeger, republican leader of Texas.

Senate Sends Greetings

It was also announced that R. S. Dillon, governor of New Mexico; H. S. Johnston, governor of Oklahoma and Sam G. Bratton, United States senator from New Mexico, were unable to attend the convention and had wired their regrets.

Mr. Wade read a telegram from the state senate which passed a resolution Monday morning to send greetings to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention.

At 1:30 p. m. the convention parade started moving on Wichita Falls' streets. It was approximately three miles long and about 5000 people participated in it.

Nominations Delayed

At 4 p. m. the resolutions committee went into session in the directors' room of the City National bank. A meeting of the nominating committee scheduled for 4 p. m. was postponed until 6:30 p. m. Tuesday morning. The meeting will be held in the Kemp hotel ball room.

The Court of Nations pageant and fireworks display were presented at 8 p. m. in Spudder park and at 10 p. m. the various social functions were started.

All of the delegates to the convention were in Wichita Falls by 9 a. m. Monday. The special trains carrying the delegations started arriving early Sunday morning and at intervals of every few minutes the trains kept arriving until Monday morning.

Bands here, bands everywhere was the situation Monday on the streets of Wichita Falls. Members of delegations and visitors to the convention crowded the streets. Some delegations distributed circulars setting out the advantages of "their own home town."

The band contest started at 9:45 a. m. in the Junior college auditorium and was under the direction of L. V. Lawler. The contest will not end until Tuesday night.

The Tuesday session of the convention will be called to order at 9:30 a. m. in the convention hall by President Duggan. Following the call those attending will arise and sing "America."

The invocation will be delivered by Dr. S. S. McKenney, pastor of the First Methodist church, south, of Wichita Falls. Following the invocation a short musical program will be given.

Distinguished visitors will be presented at 9:50 a. m. and greetings to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention will be delivered by R. W. Morrison, president of the South Texas Chamber of Commerce.

Speaking Contest

R. R. Ellis, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce will make an address at 11 a. m. The nominating committee will report at 12 o'clock. At 12:30 p. m. the morning session will adjourn.

The afternoon session will consist of a musical program by the Abilene Christian college orchestra in the convention hall and an address on conservation by Fred J. Tucker.

At 2:30 p. m. the "Home Town" speaking contest will start. The session will adjourn at 4 p. m. to allow the delegates to attend the Spudder-Fort Worth baseball game.

New officers and directors of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce will have a meeting and a dinner at 6 p. m. in the Kemp hotel.

The final session of the convention will start at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday night, when the new officers are installed. At 7:45 p. m. the resolutions committee will report and at 8 p. m. prizes for the various contests held during the convention will be awarded.

The 1928 convention city will be selected at 8:30 p. m. after which the session and convention will adjourn.

DALLAS' GREETINGS TO WICHITA FALLS
(By Sam A. Fishburn, Trade Trip Rhymer, Dallas C-C.)

Miss Wichita, bewitching Queen,
The idol of the West,
Sir Dallas greets you and is keen
To be your honor guest.

And mingle with you folks, so true,
So big of heart and brain—
Fact is, we're sure in love with you,
And oft will come again.

And bring our kindest greetings 'long,
To you and all the West,
With hope that you will grow and grow
And never stop to rest.

Until you reach the high ideal
That you now have in view:
In short, let Dallas leave this wish:
"May all your dreams come true."

FLOYDADA PEP SONG
"Respectfully dedicated to Floydada Chamber of Commerce,"
(As played and sung by the Floydada Municipal band).

"Gee! Ain't it great to meet a friend from your home town,
What difference does it make if he is up or down;
When you shake him by the hand,
There's a feeling you can't understand—
Oh Gee! Ain't it great to live out West
In Floydada Town."

FOR
Sour Stomach
PHILLIPS' Milk of Magnesia

Hereafter instead of soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda.

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Try a 25c Bottle.

Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

KIWANIS HOST TO VISITORS

"West Texas Day" Observed at Luncheon

"West Texas Day" was observed Monday by the Kiwanians at their weekly luncheon at the Kemp hotel, when about 50 out-of-town Kiwanians and guests were present. Rex Whatley was in charge of the program, and Julian Bobo introduced the guests.

Homer Scott of Abilene was presented first, and raid a few words in behalf of the Abilene club, after which H. L. Stern of Muskogee was introduced. Mr. Stern was a member of the Rotary club of that city, but praised the Kiwanians and their work highly.

Clarence Kraft of Fort Worth expressed his appreciation of being able to be at the meeting, and said he was always glad of a chance to come to Wichita Falls. Frank Moore of Henrietta and J. R. Johnson of Mineral Wells were introduced and also spoke briefly.

L. A. McDonald, lieutenant governor of the Texas-Oklahoma district was presented by Mr. Bobo, and expressed his intention of working to get many more Kiwanis clubs established this year in this district, and said the Kiwanians always had the loyalty and the men to "put anything over."

Among the other guests that were introduced were Horace Smith of Dallas, J. B. Kirvin of Dallas, Roy Christian of Corsicana, John Glivin of Amarillo, R. A. Underwood of Plainview, Dr. H. S. Monroe of Portland, Ore., and O. L. Pate of Wills Point, all of whom spoke briefly giving greetings from their respective cities.

Walter H. Caldwell welcomed the guests in behalf of the local club, and Frank Humphreys, Olive Humphreys and Betsy Ross entertained the members and guests with Scotch dances and bagpipe music.

30,000 Rebels Active Against Calles, Claim

TUCSON, Ariz., May 16. (AP)—The Arizona Daily Star today published a statment received from Adolfe de LaHuerta, former provisional president of Mexico, in Los Angeles, stating that "more than 30,000 armed men now are engaged in fighting the Calles government in Mexico." De LaHuerta was quoted as saying the bands of Yaqui Indians which recenly entered the United States at Nogales and were interned did so "by mistake" and that only the interception of Yaqui couriers saved Nogales, Sonora, from an Indian attack.

Mandamus Action Asks Repeal of Damage Case

AUSTIN, May 16. (AP)—Forced certification of a question of law from the Galveston civil appeals court to the supreme court is sought in mandamus petition filed in supreme court today by the International Great Northern Railroad. The railroad claims that the appellate court, in awarding $170 damages to J. M. McGinty of Grimes county because of the killing of McGinty's mule, allegedly by an I. G. N., train, ruled contrarily to previous supreme court opinions.

Electra Man's Uncle Succumbs to Poison

ELECTRA, May 16. — Tom Lewis of the Trio Barber shop is in receipt of a message from Walters, Oklahoma, stating that his uncle, Tom E. Lewis, 55, of that city had died at his home there Sunday at 10 a. m. from taking poison through mistake. Funeral services will be held in Walters Tuesday afternoon. Surving are a wife and four children.

THIS NURSE NOW HAS GOOD HEALTH

Praises Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for some time and I would not be without it in the house. As I am a children's nurse, I have to be on my feet a great deal and your medicine has helped me wonderfully. I was hardly able to do my housework when I began taking it, and now I am a strong and well woman, able to do all that and go out nursing besides. I have also used the Sanative Wash and found it beneficial."—Mrs. Gertrude L. Stewart, 103 Davis St., Greenfield, Mass.

Valuable for Weakness

"I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a valuable medicine for weakness."—Mrs. J. A. Pietsch, Box 397, Lancaster, Pa.

Hundreds of letters like these are received by the Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass., from grateful women who say that their health has improved since taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

CAPITAL BOMBED

U. S. Army Air Raiders Drop Flare Bombs Over Austin

AUSTIN, May 16. (AP)—Spectacular "bombing raid" over Austin about 9 o'clock Monday night revealed the threat of the United States army air service here. A squad of bombing planes, flying from the fields of San Antonio, passed over the city several times and dropped a large number of flare-rockets. The rockets lighted the sky over a large area as they floated down slowly, rocking in their parachutes.

But three planes participated in the "night raid" but their showing was sufficient to convince Austin people that the city might easily be destroyed by an "enemy" in such a raid.

LUNCHEON FOR AGGIE GRADS

Alumni of School To Meet Today

Graduates of the Texas Agricultural and Technical college will be entertained with a luncheon in the ball room of the Kemp hotel by members of the Wichita Falls A. & M. club at 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, as a special feature of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention.

All members of the Wichita Falls club are co-operating in arranging for the event, and a luncheon program has been arranged. C. B. Clemens, president of the Wichita Falls ex-students association will preside.

A number of prominent Texas people, graduates of Texas A. & M. will attend the luncheon, among them, A. R. Duggan, president of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, and former secretary of the state, A. & M. Alumni association.

Petty Thefts During Jam On Streets Many

Taking advantage of crowded streets and massed groups of persons, pickpockets and petty thieves became active Monday afternoon and night. A. P. Dixon reported to police the loss of two $10 bills, supposedly taken by a member of the "velvet finger" profession. A. R. Carruthers of Rochester lost his wallet, containing less than $5 and a railroad ticket to Munday. Two youths, the oldest of whom was 16, were caught taking a purse from the car of Mrs. E. V. Shaw, 1711 Lucile street, as it was parked at Eleventh and Scott. The boy who had the purse made his escape before the police arrived. The purse contained $21.

W. C. Grant, Associated Press staff representative, was robbed of $30 by a holdup artist between Lamar and Scott.

Borger Pair to Face Temple Theft Charge

BORGER, Texas, May 16. (AP)—Whitey Walker and Ed Bailey, free on bond in several murder cases here, left Monday for Belton on their own recognizance to face charges in connection with robbery of the Hemphill Jewelry company's store at Temple.

That Baby You've Longed For

Mrs. Burton Advises Women on Motherhood and Companionship.

"For several years I was denied the blessing of motherhood," writes Mrs. Margaret Burton of Kansas City. "I was terribly nervous and subject to periods of terrible suffering and melancholia. WEAK, HARDLY ABLE TO WALK

Lady Had to Lie Down and Rest Several Times a Day—Soon Began to Improve After Taking Cardui

Varnville, S. C.—"I have taken Cardui sincegirlhood," says Mrs. E. S. James of this place. "My mother was a firm believer in this medicine. She used it for years in her family, and advised me to take it.

"After my last baby came, I was awfully run-down and weak. I suffered with backache a great deal. I could hardly put one foot before the other. Several times each day I had to lie down and rest.

"I had no appetite at all. Nothing tempted me to eat. I ate my meals from a sense of duty, not because I was hungry.

"Because I had taken Cardui several times before and found I had improved after using it, I began taking it then. Soon my appetite began to improve. I gained in weight and my rest at night was better.

"I continued to take Cardui until I felt well and strong. I have been in good health now for several months, so I recommended Cardui to other sufferers."

What word could be more sincere than the advice of an experienced mother to her daughter, arriving at womanhood?

Cardui is a mild, safe remedy.

POISON PILL FAILS TO KILL

Dalas Man Revived In Local Hospital

Fatal poisoning from bichloride of mercury to a visitor from Dallas was averted only by one of the fastest ambulance runs ever recorded in Wichita Falls and by the fact that everything was in readiness at the General hospital for treating poisoning when the ambulance arrived there, according to physicians attending the man Monday.

At the hospital early Monday night physicians believed the Dallas man had a decidedly better than even chance to recover from taking several of the poisonous tablets in his room Monday afternoon at a downtown hotel.

The patient was reported to be conscious and resting well after particles of two bichloride tablets had been pumped from his stomach and antidotes had been administered. It was stated, however, that the outcome of the poisoning would not be definitely known for three days to a week, because of the action on the kidneys which some times follows this kind of poisoning.

The man had been registered at the hotel several days, according to officials. He had been active during the day in the convention celebrations, friends stated.

He had purchased the tablets at a pharmacy shortly before being stricken and after he was carried to the hospital he told physicians that he took two of them.

The co-operation of police, Hines' ambulance drivers and convention visitors was responsible for the remarkable victory in a race with death, doctors who were first called to the hotel declared.

NEW OIL FLOOD FROM GUSHERS SWEEPS N. TEXAS COUNTIES

SIX BIG WELLS IN FOUR AREAS

Cooke, Jack, Wilbarger Young Score Wells

A new flood of liquid gold, as oil is called by some writers, swept four counties Monday in the tier of North Texas provinces included in the Wichita Falls oil district from flowing wells brought in over the week-end. Cooke, Jack, Wilbarger and Young were the counties from which news of big wells came.

Cooke county, rapidly taking its place as one of Texas' foremost oil areas received its two largest wells and a smaller one. Jack county scored a successful wildcat completion which brought on a spirited play in lease. Wilbarger county was excited by proving of the new 1800-foot sand in the Fluhmann pool as one of the most prolific in the county. In Young county the famous South Bend pool is credited with another flowing well in Panhandle's No. 17 McClusky.

First place among the new wells lies between the Panhandle well which is making 60 barrels per hour and the Gulf's No. 3 Fluhmann which is estimated flowing better than 1000 barrels per day.

DRILLING AHEAD

Humble Seeks Deeper Sand in Knox County

Humble Oil and Refining company's No. 1 F. F. Goode, a wildcat south of Goree in South Knox county, was drilling Monday at 1315 feet after testing the sand encountered at 1307 feet from which a gas flow came out of the hole. The test will be carried on down in search of deeper pay.

Hitting a shallow gas structure in this test makes it the most interesting in Knox county and it would not surprise oil men to see a real oil pay encountered within the next 1000 feet. The test is located in section 7, H. T. & B. survey.

BUTTRAM POOL IS EXTENDED

Holman Well Makes Initial Flow; Bailer Lost

Making an estimated flow of 45 to 50 barrels in the first 15 minutes after being drilled in Sunday, Leibecker and Holman No. 1 Holman in Jack county is now one of the best wells completed there during the year.

After the initial flow the well made 200 barrels in the first 24 hours from two feet of the sand which was topped at 2013 feet, according to Lewis Johnson, Jacksboro abstractor and oil man. The test may be drilled deeper to increase the output.

Extends Pool

This well effects a northwest extension of approximately one and a quarter miles to the Buttram pool and is in a direct line with the Shaw and Rathke producer on the Bryson State bank land. Although producing from the same level as the Shaw and Rathke well, it is making considerably more oil.

Besides leases bought Saturday by Petroleum Producers company and Shaw Rathke near this strike, the Commodore Oil company has purchased two "eighties." One of these is the south 80 acres of the I. Graves survey, Keyser estate, the other half of which was purchased by Petroleum Producers company. The Commodore also purchased the east 80 of the west 160 acres of the J. W. Cullers survey, same fee.

Drill New Walls

Four new tests were reported scheduled to start operations near this strike immediately. Leibecker and Holman will drill their No. 2 300 feet south of the southwest corner of the 160-acre lease which is in the Rice survey, 10 miles southwest of Jacksboro. Shaw and Rathke are reported to have made location for a southwest offset and a test south of the producer. Buttram will drill to the east.

Watchorn's No. 1 Williams Brothers is fishing for bailer at a total depth of 4500 feet with the hole full of oil and no water. The gas blew oil out of the hole three times when the bailer was run and lost. This test is in the B. S. and F. survey, less than a quarter of a mile northeast of the Roxana's flowing well. Storage had been connected.

Gasoline Men Meet at Tulsa

Interesting Program To Open May 24

TULSA, May 16.—Natural gasoline dealers from all parts of the country will gather in Tulsa on May 24, 25 and 26 to attend the sixth annual convention of the Association of Natural Gasoline manufacturers.

The convention will open on Tuesday, May 24. The address of welcome will be given by F. L. Chase of Dallas, vice president of the Lone Star Gas company. The annual address will be delivered by E. L. Peck of Bartlesville, who is general manager of the Empire Gasoline company and president of the association. Following his address the annual report of the secretary and treasurer will be made. Committees for the nomination of officers and directors will then be made. The morning session will be concluded with a Dutch lunch with the compliments of the associated members of the association.

Several papers will be read at the afternoon session as follows: "Economics of the Natural Gasoline Industry," by J. C. Chatfield, staff writer of the National Petroleum News; "The Research and Educational Program," by D. E. Buchanan of the Chestnut and Smith corporation, Tulsa, and chairman of the research committee of the association. Mr. Buchanan is also vice president of the association. "The Natural Gasoline Industry of California," by Paul D. Barton, president of the California Natural Gasoline association.

At night a stag smoker will be given.

Safety Talk

At the Wednesday morning session J. D. Wallace, safety director of the Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association, Tulsa, will read a paper on "The First Law of Nature."

S. S. Smith, superintendent of the gasoline division of the Roxana Petroleum corporation, will talk on the "Portable Plant."

"Co-operation Between Plant and Office," is the subject of a paper by C. L. Swim, manager of the insurance department of the Skelly Oil company, Tulsa.

"Water Treatment," is a paper to be presented by P. B. Good, The Texas Company, Breckenridge.

"Fire Prevention as Applied to the Natural Gasoline Industry," is the subject of a paper by E. T. Ingalls, manager of the Oklahoma inspection bureau, Oklahoma City.

The speaker on "Lubrication" will be announced later.

Hold Open Forum

This will be followed by an open forum and the report of the nomination committee and election of officers.

The annual banquet will be held Wednesday evening at 7 p. m. in the Crystal ball room of the Hotel Mayo. The principal speaker will be Josh Lee of the University of Oklahoma, Norman, Okla. His subject will be the "Pot of Gold at the End of the Rainbow." Lee is one of the best entertainers in the southwest. He is a rare humorist and is much in demand as a speaker.

Thursday will be given over largely to the discussion of natural gasoline and its value in motor fuel.

Dr. G. G. Broom, professor of chemical engineering, University of Michigan, and head of the association's research program, will summarize his year's work with natural gasoline, and in addition present some new thoughts on the subject. Other speakers will be announced later.

A Dutch lunch will be served at noon, compliments of associate members of the Association of Natural Gasoline manufacturers.

Dr. Clark Takes His Boys Out a-Fishin'

Plenty of fish and plenty of fun were enjoyed by more than 20 members of the North Texas Geological society who were guests over the week-end of C. W. Clark, president of the society at his lodge on Lake Kemp. Making headquarters at Mr. Clark's cottage in the Wichita colony, the fishermen used Mr. Clark's motor boat in snagging the battling bass and capricious crappie which were later fried by some of the rock hounds and devoured by the entire party, according to reports.

LONDON, May 15. (AP)—The well-dressed man at the art exhibition of the Royal academy wears an antique top hat and keeps it on even though ladies are present. The older the hat the better, but the rest of the costume must be an up-to-date morning suit. The opening of the exhibition is the one day when it is fashionable to display heirloom headgear.

Gulf's No. 3 Milner Blows In At Terrific Rate From New Deep Sand

Special to The Record News.

VERNON, May 16.—Blowing in at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon with a production estimated at a barrel a minute Gulf company's No. 3 Milner, Fluhmann pool, created the latest sensation in the local oil fraternity.

The well came in on the new 1800-foot Fluhmann sand at an actual depth of 1860 feet.

The new well is located on the southeast quarter of section 31, H. and T. C. railway survey, Fluhmann field.

The well produced 25 barrels the first 25 minutes, and it is estimated to still be flowing about 1000 barrels daily.

Panhandle Brings In Second Big Producer From Rich Stovall Lime

Second gusher well in one week for the Panhandle Refining company on its famous McClusky lease in the South Bend area of Young county was completed Sunday in No. 20 which started flowing at the rate of 60 barrels per hour. This is the first rotary well drilled to the Stovall lime. It was spudded early in January.

A flow of 20,000,000 cubic feet of gas accompanies the oil flow in this well. The sand was topped at 3872 feet and drilled to 3910 feet. The Panhandle last week brought in its No. 17 on this lease with an initial flow of 75 barrels hourly from the deep lime. The well had been deepened from the 2000 horizon.

Panhandle's entire McClusky lease now looks promising for production from the deep pay. The company has some 15 other wells which will probably be drilled to the big pay and there is considerable undrilled acreage on this tract which is located in a horse shoe bend of the Clear Fork of the Brazos.

Texas and Kewanee Get Flowing Wells In Hooser South Extension

Cooke county now threatens to outstrip some of its neighboring counties in oil production with its two largest wells completed and flowing approximately 1500 barrels daily and at the same time proving that Cooke is to be reckoned with in the overproduction muddle.

The Texas company Sunday brought in the county's greatest well when it drilled the plug out of No. 1 Dennis which is now flowing 800 barrels daily according to an official report. This well is in the south extension to the Hooser pool and is a south offset to the Kewanee's No. 1-B which is flowing 600 barrels. The sand was topped at 1298 feet and drilled only six feet.

Flowing 600 barrels daily Kewanee Oil and Gas company's No. 1-B Dennis in the T. J. Hutchinson survey, Cooke county, came in Saturday and at the time was that county's largest oil well. The sand is at 1287-92 feet. This well is an offset to the Homer Campman and C. C. Lanier No. 1 Montgomery, the discovery well in the southern extension to the Hooser pool, near Bulcher.

In the Muenster pool Stroube and Stroube have completed their No. 4 Koelzer in the sand at 1638-59 feet and the well is swabbing 200 barrels daily.

Roxana Petroleum corporation at its No. 1 Walterschied, in the townsite pool, have set pipe on the pay at 1677 1-2 to 1678 feet and will drill in within the next two or three days.

Other wells in this prolific pool which will be on the sand this week are Sun Oil company's No. 1, Camp-Hedrick No. 5, Big Indian Oil company's No. 1 Cler which is a semi-wildcat northeast of production.

108-Ton Steel Truss Damages New Bridge

COHOES, N. Y., May 16. (AP)—A steel truess, weighing 108 tons, broke from a crane as it was being lifted into position on the new Mohawk river bridge of the Delaware & Hudson railroad here, and fell into the river, tearing away a portion of the scaffolding, but not causing much damage to the bridge.

Frank Pangie, a bridge worker, jumped to avoid being hit by the falling truss and was drowned.

She's Only 100, So She Goes to Bed Early (A. M.)

NEW YORK, May 15. (AP)—An example for young folks, in the opinion of the Rev. Dr. Edgar Tilton Jr., is Mrs. Julia C. Berdell. On the eve of her 100th birthday she was up till nearly midnight at a party. Yet she was on time for Sunday morning services in the Reformed Church of Harlem.

Prison Portals Close For Mrs. Ruth Snyder

OSSINING, N. Y., May 15. (AP)—The gates of Sing Sing prison swung open today to admit Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray, and clanged shut behind them. Barring successful appeal the Queens Village housewife and her corset salesman paramour, jointly convicted of the murder of her husband, will never pass through those gates again alive.

Childress High Boys Return to Classroom

CHILDRESS, May 16. (AP)—Students of the Childress High school who left classes Thursday when it was reported their coach, Odus Mitchell, was not to be reelected for the coming year, have called off their strike and returned to school. All classes are being held Monday and other high school activities are continuing as usual with full attendance.

Seek Treasure Bured By Flow of Volcano

NAPLES, May 15. (AP)—It is Mussolini's hope that the treasure of the buried city of Herculaneum will be revealed eventually through subways under the modern towns of Resian and Poritici. Since Vesuvius buried the city more than 2000 years ago a rocky mass reaching a depth of 150 feet has covered it.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, May 16.(AP)—Cotton was only moderately active today and although the price trend was reactionary in the early trading the market influence and at the start the market was 6 to 7 points down despite the weather had been favorable over the past week-end. Near mid-session the market rallied 18 to 19 points above the lows on the forecast for showers in the western belt where, it is believed moisture would be harmful, and the unfavorable cool weather over the eastern belt. During the afternoon the market was quiet and prices eased off a few points from the lows. The close was steady at a net advance of 5 to 7 points.

The opening losses were increased during the first hour, July trading down to 15.41, and December 15.87. Near mid-session covering due to the rainy forecast carried all months to the high points of the day, with July at 15.60, October 15.89, or 9 points above the previous close.

In the late trading the market developed little change and prices eased off a point or two from the top, closing near the day's high points.

Exports for the day totalled 35,195 bales.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, May 16.(AP)—After selling off to 15.43 early today, contracts for July deliveries rallied to 15.62 in the cotton market and closed at 15.57, compared with 15.53 at the close Saturday. The general market closed steady at net advances of 4 to 9 points.

The market opened barely steady at a decline of 7 to 9 points under liquidation, southern and local selling apparently inspired by reports of favorable weather in the south over Sunday. The trade evidently found no fresh bullish factor in the flood news and the decline soon extended to 15.25 for May and 15.75 for October, or about 10 to 12 points below Saturday's closing quotations. Buying was attributed to both domestic and foreign trade account on this setback, however, while offering tapered off after early selling orders had been absorbed, and the midday market firmed up.

May advanced to 15.43, and October to 15.97, while December sold up to 16.17, net advances of about 7 to 10 points on the more active positions. This bulge evidently attracted a renewal of realizing or short selling, but last prices were only slightly off from the best.

Private cables said hedge selling in Liverpool had been absorbed by trade calling with London and continental buying, and also reported a fair business in cotton cloths was pending for India.

Exports today 38,292 bales, making 10,079,798 bales so far this season. Port receipts 11,348. U. S. porft stocks 1,781,447.

COTTON GOODS

NEW YORK, May 16.(AP)—Business in finished cotton goods showed improvement at the opening of the week, chiefly in increased orders by mail. Yarns were firmer but owing to the volume of tinged yarns offered, prices showed much irregularity. Raw silk was firmer and quite active at Yokohama. Silk goods were in moderate demand. Burlaps were unchanged.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, May 16.(AP)—Cottonseed oil was firm today, due to light offerings and moderate covering and commission house buying in response to the steadiness of lard and cotton. Final prices were 8 to 18 points net higher on on active positions. Sales 4900 barrels. prime crude 7.25; prime summer yellow spot 9.00; May closed 9.00; July 9.16; September 9.52; October 9.65; December 9.55.

WOOL MARGET

BOSTON, May 16.(AP)—According to official quarterly wool stock report, holdings of wool by Boston dealers on March 31 were smaller than a year ago. Total stock report as of March 31 was 63,000,000 pounds, compared with 77,000,000 pounds on March 31 last year. The total stock reported on Dec. 31, 1926, amounted to 78,000,000 pounds, as compared with 84,000,000 pounds on Dec. 31, 1925.

Investment Buying in Evidence As Stocks Show Step-down During Irregular Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, May 16.—Stocks became irregular today in market featured by a few specialties. Investment buying was again in evidence on a scale down. A bullish development on stocks has been the sale of New York City bonds, an indication of cheap money ahead. Bonds of high interest rates are being called and replaced by lower interest bearing obligations and preferred stocks are being retired to be replaced with low interest bearing bonds. The stock market is now regarded as a common stock market.

Another development on stocks is the gold holdings of the United States which on May 1 reached a new high record level. No check is in sight for the extension of legitimate requirements. Business is unable to use all surplus funds and the overflow is going into the security markets.

Money loaned at 4 1-2 per cent. Foreign exchange was generally steady.

Commodities were quiet. Exports and consumption of American Cotton is expected to exceed last year's production of 17,680,000 bales by 500,000 bales. Never in the history of cotton have three large crops been produced in succession. A large crop in 1927 would break all records. Purchases of January cotton at the low level in May have in every year of the last 26 shown big profits. In 22 of the 26 years the low point was touched during the first half of May. The low price for January cotton was reached recently below 16 cents. With reduced acreage, lessened use of fertilizer, prospects of more weevils and floods in the Delta states, prospects are for a much smaller crop—materially below prospective consumption the coming year when 17,000,000 bales will probably be required.

Federal Mining & Smelting common was the outstanding feature, rising nearly 25 points. It is understood that negotiations are about completed for adjustment of earnings; that common and preferred stockholders have come to a mutual understanding on the distribution of profits in the way of dividends.

Baldwin reacted but American Locomotive and Car and Foundry held their group. The large block of American Loco. and Car & Foundry which has been overhanging the market, amounting to approximately 200,000 shares, has been taken over by the largest interests in the equipment stocks. The price paid is said to be satisfactory to those who sold the two stocks. Taking over of this big block of the stocks may mean an advance in the issues which are considerably below their high levels.

Reduction in gasoline prices brought some selling into the oils. There are more oil stocks than those of any other industry in Wall street and the overproduction of oil has been a depressing influence not only on the oils but other stocks. Julius Kayser featured the silks with a rise into new high ground. A director of the company estimated recently that earnings for the fiscal year ending June 30 would be in the neighborhood of $10 a share.

General Motors went lower although President Sloan Jr., estimates that retail sales in the first half of the year will show an increase of 40 per cent over the same period of 1926. Buying was again noticeable in Yellow Truck. Selling of General Motors and other Automobile shares was influenced by Detroit reports that progress was being made by Ford with his new model.

Consolidated Gas worked higher and Byers Pipe spurted nearly five points. Hocking Valley led the rails with a rise of nearly a dozen points. Packing shares came in for attention on reports that negotiations in London for settlement of the packers' war in South America was making progress.

N. Y. Stocks

NEW YORK, May 16.(AP)—Reactionary tendencies were quite pronounced in today's stock market, closing quotations disclosing a rather long list of net declines ranging from 1 to 7½ points. Operators for the rise made several attempts to rally the general list by bidding up special stocks, several of which attained new record high prices, but in most cases the rallies met with large offerings.

Marking up of the renewal rate on call money to 4½ per cent, which figure was maintained all day, coincident with the calling of over $15,000,000 in loans, had a dampening effect on bullish enthusiasm.

Baldwin dropped from an early high of 204⅜ to 198, closing slightly above that figure for a net loss of 4½ points. General Motors sagged from 196⅛ to 192⅜, closing 2 points net lower at 193⅛, with selling probably inspired by a cut in Willys Overland prices and renewed talk of a new Ford model. Heaviness of U. S. steel common (old stock) reflected the recent decrease in steel production and consumption.

While there is still a wide divergence of opinion regarding the future trend of the market, much of today's selling presumably was inspired by commission house advices urging profit-taking and a restriction of commitments. Bear traders continued to search out weak spots, but there were no wide-open breaks.

A few specialties gave a creditable performance on the up-side. Federal Mining and Smelting common soared nearly 27 points to a new high record at 148 on rather vague gossip concerning a coming favorable judicial decision in a pending dividend suit. Goodyear preferred issues touched new 1927 peaks on the settlement of the litigation involving that company.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Railroad stocks yielded with the industrials although outbursts of strength developed in such issues as New York Central, Reading, and Western Maryland common and second preferred. "Nickel Plate" common, selling ex-dividend today, dropped from 221 to 216¾, off 1¾ net.

Foreign exchanges held fairly steady, with demand sterling quoted around $4.85¾ and French francs just above 3.91 cents. Japanese cables were a conspicuous exception, breaking 22 points to 47.50 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, May 16.(AP)—With weather conditions favorable today both for spring and winter crops, wheat tended down-grade, despite unusual strength shown at times by corn. July and September deliveries of corn established new high price records for the season, but the gains failed to hold. Wheat closed weak ⅜@¾ to 2⅛c net lower, corn ⅜ to 1⅛c off, oats ⅛ to ⅜@⅝c down, and provisions showing 5 to 49c advance.

Warmth and sunshine here together with falling-off in demand for cash corn led to free selling of corn future deliveries, but not until July and September corn had overtopped the season's previous high record quotations. Advances were largely due to aggressive purchasing based on reports of delayed planting, especially in Northern Illinois. Oats eased down with wheat and corn.

Provisions were responsive to upturns in the value of hogs.

SHERIFF'S SALE.
THE STATE OF TEXAS,
County of Wichita.
Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a certain order of sale issued out of the honorable county court of Wichita county at law, on the 7th day of May, A. D. 1927, by Elizabeth Hall, clerk of said court, for the sum of four hundred and seventy-five ($475.00) dollars, and costs of suit, under a certain judgment, in favor of John B. Barbour Trucking company, in a certain cause in said court, No. 7717 and styled John B. Barbour Trucking company vs. J. T. Willis et al., and placed in my hands for service, I, W. G. Bralley, as sheriff of Wichita county, Texas, did, on the 9th day of May, A. D. 1927, levy on certain real estate, situated in Wichita county, Texas, described as follows, to-wit: An oil and gas lease and leasehold, on and covering the following described tracts of land, situated in Wichita county, Texas, to-wit: First tract: The east 40 acres of the south 70 acres of a certain 100-acre tract out of the W. H. Anderson survey, abstract No. 1, said 40 acres being described more fully in the assignment from J. T. Willis to Verne M. Clopton, recorded in Vol. 274, page 15, deed records of said county. Second tract: East 20 acres of west 40 acres of north 100 acres of H. Willis farm out of said survey, more fully described in assignment from J. T. Willis to Verne M. Clopton et al., recorded in Vol. 274, page 11, deed records of said county, and levied upon as the property of J. G. Hammond and Verne M. Clopton, and that on the first Tuesday in June, 1927, the same being the 7th day of said month, at the court house door, of Wichita county, in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., by virtue of said levy and said order of sale I will sell said above described real estate as public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said J. G. Hammond and Verne M. Clopton. And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in The Wichita Falls Record News, a newspaper published in Wichita county.

PETER TOPIC OF KAY TALK

412 Hear Sunday Address Of Class Head

"I want to confess that the only thing that has kept me here (West Texas) for 40 years, is the people," Judge John C. Kay declared in his introductory remarks before 412 members and visitors to the Kay Bible class at the Strand theater Sunday morning.

Judge Kay's talk Sunday morning was about the day of Pentecost and the sermon of the Apostle Peter.

The talk in full follows:

"I am glad to see these West Texas folks here this morning. The building of this country called West Texas will rank in history as a great epic. The genius of our people finds its expression in their capacity for settlement of new countries. I can go out here anywhere in Texas and pick at random one hundred and fifty families, put them on an island, and the first thing they will do will be to build a church, and a schoolhouse, and open some roads, and appoint a constable and a justice of the peace. That is the thing that makes our country and our race great. West Texas wasn't settled easily, nor readily, but it took great faith and courage and some suffering and effort to make it. I have been watching it all of my adult life.

Early West Texas

"The great poet, Keats, in writing about Ruth, when she went over to live with the Israelites, wrote his immortal line when he said: 'She wept amid the alien corn.' But, when our people went out to settle in West Texas, there was not any corn to weep about, no capital, no farms, no banks, and it was a pretty dreary outlook.

"You know, I have never said much about the climate of West Texas. I have said as little as I could about the wind and the winter and some of the summers, and I want to confess to you this morning that the only think that kept me here nearly 40 years has been the people that live out here. A great race of men and women! I owe everything to them, and they rank in my heart above all men, for in the language of Hilaire Belloc:

"Here is a country that armors a man
With the heart of a boy and the eye of a ranger;
With a laughing way in the teeth of the world
And holy hunger and a thirst for danger.
Texas made me, Texas fed me,
All that I had she gave me again;
All of her best loved,
God keep you Texas men."

"Now, the lesson this morning is about the day of Pentecost, and the sermon that the apostle Peter preached there.

"I have made it a part of my business down here at this little Sunday school, never to say anything except something good about the ministry. I think it 's about time that I gave them a little jolt, or two; not as to what they shall preach, because I am incompetent to do that, but, perhaps, which is the same thing by another name, what they shall preach about. I think the Methodist church, and that is the only one that I have got authority to talk about very much, has hurt herself by going off into political questions and things like that. I say that reluctantly, soberly. When they went to the Savior about a question like that, he asked for one of the coins of the country and said, "Give to Caesar the things that are Caesars, and to God the things that are God's," and, one of the apostles writes that "Your weapons are spiritual and not carnal." Now, don't misunderstand me, this morning. I believe that the preacher has got as much right to take part in every political activity, and every form of citizenship, as anybody in the community. I believe that! I think he ought to stand for whatever he thinks is right in politics. I am saying that, but I don't think he ought to do it in the pulpit, because that is not the forum nor the place, nor the time for those things. Our preachers in Wichita Falls are peculiarly free from that sort of thing, is the reason that I am saying this. I wouldn't have the courage to say these things if our people here were guilty, but I don't know how it is out where our visitors live. Religion is a thing apart from politics. It is a separate thing.

"Now, Peter goes to preach this great sermon. How do we know it was a great sermon? Because, when he got down preaching it, three thousand people joined the church. If we were to have a preacher come here and preach like that, it would make history in this community, or any other community with which I am acquainted.

"So, he got up and preached about the resurrection of Christ. And he said that 'He is risen from the dead.' Now, there is a religious question worth while. Did it ever strike you as remarkable that after the morning of the resurrection, and from that time on, while the Savior was finishing his earthly ministry, that there never was raised against him the voice of the Pharisee or Sadducee, or Roman judge or the Jewish high priest? All of His enemies became silent after that, and his apostles began to preach—what? His resurrection.

"So that is all there is to it after all. Men are religious. Men try to be religious because they believe in a future life. They are religious because of what the Greeks called "a longing after immortality." If there was no resurrection, if there was no future life, what boots it that I slay my neighbor? What difference does it make that I take his goods or destroy his reputation? None at all. If we are just animal creatures here, without any soul, any more than the beasts that perish, then there is no reason why men should be moral, much less religious.

Morality vs. Religion

"Now, a lot of people are preaching these days—not preaching, but teaching—that you can have morality without religion. Of course, some of them say there isn't any such thing as morality. I am not going that deep this morning. I am talking about the fellow that said you can have morality separate from religion. Maybe you could. I never was in a community where there wasn't religion. Maybe they could. I have heard of men that did go to such places and they would put them in the pot and boil them and eat them up. I don't know whether you call that the morality of a cannibal or not. I can't tell about that.

"Peter preached to them that there was an after life. Now, what was the idea of the Pentecost? The Pentecost was something like our Thanksgiving celebration, more like that than any other we have. Folks have that for more than one reason. One reason, however, was that it was a thanksgiving for the laws.

"Did you ever go out and give thanks for the laws of your country? Did you ever thank God and thank good men that you have got a country where the law is (or ought to be) supreme? Could we have a day in this country like the day of Pentecost, where all the people would assemble themselves together and say that' We thank God, and thank the lawmakers and thank our good men, that we have got the law in this country?" We ought to have just that. We ought to have that kind of a celebration. That is one of the reasons why they met on this occasion.

"But the Savior had said before He went away that He was going to send the Holy Spirit. Now we come to a thing that is supernatural; that He was going to send the Holy Spirit to take His place. And, Peter claimed, and most Christian men and women have claimed since then that the spirit of God comes into the hearts and consciences of men and of women. In other words, religion is something that you can't get out of a book. It is something that you can't get by an effort to keep the law, but it is a gift that comes down from above, or else there is no religion.

Religion, Holy Thing

"Now, I am saying to you this morning that religion is a high, holy thing, and that it is supernatural. That it is beyond the power of the microscope and the telescope. That it is beyond the logic of the philosopher; it is beyond the analysis of the mathematician and the psychologist; that it is just simply a gift that comes dripping down like the gentle rain from heaven upon hearts that are ready and willing to receive it."

MARRS SCORED AS POLITICIAN

School Head Is Accused Of Political Move

AUSTIN, May 16. (AP)—Demand for investigation of activities of S. M. N. Marrs, state superintendent of public instruction, was made in the senate today by Senator Joe Moore of Greenville, who charged Marrs with "openly advertising himself as a candidate for governor."

"He spent the state's money in going to Rockwell to advise school trustees whether they should use local funds to subscribe to a newspaper," Moore declared, "and has bought hundreds of dollars worth of stamps with state money to circulate letters telling how certain senators voted on certain questions."

"The state ought to find 'out where this money is coming from and where it is going," Moore shouted.

He demanded a halt in senate business for "a complete investigation of the department." No action was taken, however.

Moore was successful with an amendment striking out a $5500 item in the department of education's biennial budget for a "college examiner." He attacked several items, charging that some created "new and useless jobs."

ELECTRA CIVIC LEADER DIES

Head of Delegation Dies On Eve of Meeting

Special to The Record News.

ELECTRA, May 16.—Never before in the history of the city has such a sadness come over the entire citizenship, as on Monday, the day officially declared as "Electra day," at the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Wichita Falls. Dave Brown, a director of the local chamber of commerce and agriculture, who helped to plan Electra's part in the activities of the convention, did not live to attend the convention, his death occurring at midnight Sunday in the General hospital in Wichita Falls, where a great number of citizens had gone to be near when the end came.

Mr. Brown, who is 32 years of age, was born in Wise county, 1895, being the son of a fine old southern family and came to Electra in 1918 during the oil boom and first became engaged in the oil industry as an employee of the Texas Oil and Production company.

He is the owner of the Brown Insurance company, with several assistants and has an office in the National Bank building. His work in civic enterprises include membership in the Lions club, the the chamber of commerce and the First Methodist church, being an active member of the McKelvey Sunday school class.

Surviving relatives include his wife and son, Dave Jr., age four; his mother, Mrs. J. O. Brown, of Ranger, one sister, Miss Grace Brown, who is a popular member of the senior class in the local high school and who made her home with him; two brothers, Paul Brown of Abilene and Coleman Brown of Ranger. A number of additional relatives and friends are coming for the funeral. Funeral services will be Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the First Methodist church, with Rev. H. E. Anderson, paster in charge, and burial in local cemetery.
