Youngblood Here To Confer On Experiment Station Today

COMMITTEES TO SHOW DOWN ON PROJECT TOUR

Youngblood Awaits Talk By Wichita Falls and Iowa Park

STATE FUNDS SHORT

Wichitans Confident of Putting Over Station On Project

Whether the Wichita irrigation district will get the state experiment station authorized by the recent legislature, hinges to a considerable extent on the conference to be held today by Dr. B. Youngblood, director of Texas A. & M. college experiment station surveys, with Wichita Falls and Iowa Park committees.

Visit Project Today.

Dr. Youngblood arrived in sWichita Falls yesterday and will visit the irrigation project today, accompanied by T. B. Noble and Hubert Harrison, general manager of the chamber of commerce of Wichita Falls, J. F. Boyd and W. R. Arnold of Iowa Park. With these two committees will be W. T. Carter, in charge of the federal land survey for this district, at whose home Dr. Youngblood is stopping while in Wichita Falls.

Last night, Dr. Youngblood was unwilling to commit himself on what he expected the Wichita irrigation district o furnish in order o secure the experiment station, preferring to wait until after today's conference. However, the experiment station director—and Dr. Youngblood has charge said he did expect sufficient money and material to work with before attempting to erect a 160-acre station in the Wichita district.

Survey Finds Limited.

The survey will only be able to spend a matter of $4,600 here, as the Wichita experiment station was passed in the rush of the closing days of the legislature.

"I will celebrate my twelfth anniversary as director of experiment station work Tuesday," said Dr. Youngblood, "and after thise 12 years I am just now getting enough money to run some of those stations as they should be run. However, the people of this district have gone about the matter in a thorough way and seem to have planned a thorough irrigation system."

When the legislature allowed the establishment of a Wichita experiment station, it also provided for an experiment station in the lower Rio Grande valley—irrigated land of another type. Farming conditions in this extreme southern section are radically different from those about Wichita Falls. The value, when completed, of this southern experiment station, which has not yet been definitely located, will be about $50,000. This sum has been assured in addition to such things as perpetual free water.

Work Out New Crops.

Experiment stations in this part of Texas are located at Chillicothe, Spur and Lubbock. In addition to working out principles in better farming, the 14 stations over Texas find out the adaptability of soils for various purposes, kinds of crops raised to best advantage, as well as trying to work out new types of crops. At the Spur station several varieties of feterita have been developed.

At the proposed Wichita experiment station, Dr. Youngblood hopes to be able to make discoveries of value, not only to the irrigation district here but to the valleys of the Brazos and Colorado rivers, as well as the vast Pemia nred beds of West Texas.

Wichitans Confident.

Last night Hubert Harrison, speaking for the committee of the chamber of commerce, was unwilling to say just what would be offered Dr. Youngblood, adding that this would have to be developed in today's conference while going over the irrigation project. T. B. Noble was out of town last night, but was expected to arrive this morning in time to join the party expected to leave by 8:30. Harrison added that the chamber of commerce realized the value of the experiment station in developing the Wichita irrigation district and that an agreement between Wichita Falls and Iowa Park was fully expected to be worked out.

In short, Dr. Youngblood is leaving the matter of establishment of the station up to the irrigation district, holding $4,600 available on hand and expecting the balance of the material and money necessary for a complete station before work begins.

Selection of the site will be left up to Dr. Youngblood, who wants a 160-acre site with as many varieties of soil as possible.

Dr. Youngblood may stay over through tomorrow, but is anxious to get into the Rio Grande valley to select the site for the other experiment station.

Three Electra Women in Henrietta Wreck

Three Electra women were seriously injured late Saturday night when their car ran off a 12-foot embankment about five miles east of Henrietta. Mrs. Milton Muncy, Mrs. Berry Trice and her daughter, Catherine Trice, have been taken to the Electra hospital and are reported to be seriously internally injured.

The party was driving out of Henrietta when the lights on the car gave out and running in the dark, the car plunged off the embankment. The injured women were brought to Henrietta at midnight and spent the night in the home of Herman Lowe, druggist.

In the meantime Mrs. Trice's husband at Electra obtained special speeding permission from officers at Wichita Falls and Iowa Park and made the stretch from Electra to Henrietta in an hour and 15 minutes. He moved the patients to Electra yesterday.

Pinned under the car after the accident, one of the women was first thought dead and a passing party of tourists headed for Fort Worth was hailed and asked for assistance. The travellers are said to have replied they did not have time and drove off. When help was finally secured, the tires and tool box were stolen off the wrecked car later.

Feeling at Henrietta is said to be tense, according to telephone messages yesterday, and officers are working on clues leading to the apprehension of the tourists who refused to give help.

Coolidge Not To Allow Coal Strike, He Tells Commission Members

RECOGNITION OF MEXICO READY

Report Says Details Were Complete When President Harding Was Stricken

AUSTIN, Aug. 12.—Details for the recognition of Mexico by the United States were complete and awaited only the return of President Harding to Washigton when the president was stricken in San Francisco, according to reports brought here today by John A. Norris, chairman of the Texas board of water engineers, from Mexicans in El Paso.

Norris held conferences in El Paso with the international boundary commission and Mexican engineers relative to water rights between Texas and Mexico. Reports of the recognition plans had come to officials and others along the border from semi-official sources, the state engineer said.

The recognition pact had been completed and presented to President Obregon for signature according to reports to Norris. It was stated the Mexican president desired to have President Harding sign the treaty first and final action was postponed until Mr. Harding might return to Washington.

What effect, if any, the death of President Harding will have upon recognition plans was not expressed by Mexican authorities, it was said.

Argentenian Swims English Channel For Record As American Gives Up

DOVER, England, Aug. 12.—Enrique Tirabocchi, Argentine swimmer, landed here at 12:33 o'clock this afternoon after swimmiug the English channel from Cape Gris-Nez, France, in the record time of 16 hours and 33 minutes.

After 18 hours and 10 minutes in the water, Charles Toth of Boston, Mass., abandoned his attempt to swim the channel at 6:45 o'clock this morning. He was within two and one-half miles of the English coast when he gave up.

With the landing of Tirabocchi, the channel twice has been conquered within a week by American swimmers.

With fortunate turns in the tides, Tirabocchi took nine hours less for his journey from the French side of the water to Dover than Henry Sullivan of Lowell, Mass., required last week to traverse the route in the opposite direction. The man from the Argentine also cut five hours and 12 minutes from the record set in the seventies by the first man to swim the channel, Capt. Matthew Webb, an Englishman, who later lost his life in trying to negotiate the rapids at Niagara Falls.

The great effort of Tirabocchi sapped him of all his strength. The moment the Argentenian's feet touched the bottom a few yards off from the pebble covered beach of Dover, he fell into the arms of members of the crowd that had cheered the finishing stroke of his trudge across the 22½-mile stretch of water. All around him there were people jabbering in English, French, Italian and Spanish but Tirabocchi did not hear them, for his ears were filled with water and he was "all in."

He recovered rapidly, however, but before anyone had an opportunity to find out from him what he though about his swim he had hopped into a row boat which took him out to a tug which immediately pointed its prow back toward the French side.

At 3 minutes past noon Tirabocchi's feet touched earth again for the first time since he had taken the water at eight o'clock last night. Because of his speed in crossing, Tirabocchi had to contend with only three tides while Sullivan had five to fight.

Like Sullivan, he will receive 1,000 pounds sterling for his feat, and also a gold medal from the Shannell Swim-

BRITAIN OBJECTS TO OCCUPATION OF RUHR IN NOTE

Declares It Illegal and Unauthorized by the treaty of Versailles

ARBITRATION ASKED

Says Britain Cannot Agree With French Policy On Reparations

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The British government in the publication today of its official correspondence with the allies since June, placed on record its position with regard to the German reparations problem.

Lord Curzon, secretary for foreign affairs, in an elaborate note dealing with all the manifold aspects of the problem, sets forth that the British government regards the occupation of the Ruhr as illegal and unauthorized by the Versailles treaty, thus supporting the German contention in this respect. At the same time, however, he offers to submit the point to arbitration at The Hague, or by some other body.

While still adhering to a tone of the utmost of courtesy and saying nothing definite with regard to any separate action on the part of Great Britain, Lord Curzon emphasized that Great Britain cannot agree with the French policy, which he intimates plainly seems to point to an indefinite occupation of the Ruhr.

Lord Curzon still leaves it to the French government to suggest the method of selecting an international commission to examine into Germany's capacity to pay reparations, but he plainly declares that Great Britain cannot accept the decision of the reparations commission on this matter, since that commission has become the mere instrument of Franco-Belgian policy.

Finally Lord Curzon declares that the British government still adheres to the plan of former Premier Bonar Law, under which Great Britain would be satisfied to obtain from German reparations and allied debts to Great Britain a sum sufficient to meet Great Britain's obligation to the United States.

CURZON CLAIMS GREATEST CONSIDERATION SHOWN.

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 12.—The note of Lord Curzon, the British foreign secretary, handed to the French and Belgian ambassadors on Saturday with regard to German reparations expresses the sincere disappointment with which the British government had received the previous communications of France and Belgium, especially since Great Britain had suggested that an inquiry into Germany's capacity to pay should be conducted within the framework of the treaty of Versailles, and that the German government should be asked to withdraw its orders enjoining passive resistance on conditions that this should be regarded as evidence of good faith involving reconsideration by the occupying powers of their conditions of occupation and a gradual return to normal of the industrial life in the Ruhr.

Will Make Germany Pay.

The British note remarks that "It is difficult to think in what way greater consideration should have been shown to the Franco-Belgian point of view." It then at great length outlines the British viewpoint, which Lord Curzon summarizes as follows:

"His majesty's government never contemplated, and does not now contemplate that Germany should be relieved of all reparation payments. They are determined that Germany shall pay to the maximum of her capacity. What that maximum should be decided by an impartial inquiry. It cannot be ascertained by casting up amounts Germany's creditors would like to receive.

"To ask more than Germany's capacity can only destroy assets that Germany would be able to offer the allies. The force liquidation is not the most profitable way of making recovery from a debtor with resources.

Force Cannot Assist.

"It is admitted that Germany can only make substantial payments, if by restoration of her finances and stabilization of her currency, she secures a budget surplus available for reparations. Moreover, this surplus must be in a for which can be made available for external payments over the foreign exchange. External debts cannot be paid by the collection of depreciated paper marks.

"In the view of his majesty's government, forcible interference with the economic life of Germany, even if consistent with the treaty of Versailles, cannot assist in the necessary restoration. Not only will it prevent realization of any surplus for reparations, but, by intensifying the disorder of German finance and currency, will have the gravest reactions on trade.

French Methods Doomed.

"His majesty's government therefore regards as doomed to failure the methods pursued by the French and Belgian governments to secure reparations. Despite wholesale seizure, the occupation forces of Ruhr had produced at great cost, less credits for the allies notably coal and coke, than were forthcoming the previous year. Moreover, his majesty's government feels that the resulting situation involves a great and growing danger to the peaceful trade of the world, and not the least of that Great Britain's."

Stearns, Boston merchant-millionaire, the man who "brought out" Calvin Coolidge and literally put him in the governor's office in Massachusetts and then put him forward as a vice presidential candidate, becomes the "Colonel House" of Coolidge's administration. BATHER FALLS 20 FEET; STRIKES MAN RESTING DOWN BELOW

By The Associated Press.

GALVESTON, August 12.—J. Peterson, an innocent bather, reclining in the sands at the beach today, was an instrument in saving a stranger to him, Harold Carlson, considerable, if not serious injury. Carlson for some unknown reason, fell off the railing on a boat house erected at the foot of Twenty-Third street. The 20 feet drop to peterson, who happened to be underneath, brought him nothing more than a stiff neck.

Peterson, on the other hand, was taken to John Sealy hospital and spent the night there, with minor injuries. Carlson declared he had been in bathing all morning and was resting on the railing of the bouthouse. He said he felt something strike him in the back of the neck and the next thing he knew, he was in the hands of the police at the station. He w s released.

Dallas Gasoline Price Cut To 11 Cents Met By Big Oil Companies

Wisconsin Oil Dealers to Set Independent Price Slashing in Meeting Wednesday.

DALLAS, Aug. 12.—Gasoline is selling in many Texas towns at the lowest prices in several years, stations in Dallas posting the lowest general price of 11 cents a gallon. One small dealer on the highway between Fort Worth and Dallas hit a low mark of 10 cents a gallon today.

The price of gasoline is 13 cents at Fort Worth, 13 and 15 cents at San Antonio and 19 cents at Houston.

Claim Selling Below Cost.

One large oil company operating in Dallas has maintained a price of 15 cents a gallon since the so-called gasoline war started in this section several weeks ago. The company, through newspaper advertisements, informs the people that they cannot refine gasoline and retail it for less. The 11-cent price in Dallas was announced by small dealers a week ago and was met by large distributors Saturday.

THREE-CENT CUT PLANNED OVER WISCONSIN

By The Associated Press.

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 12.—That the predicted 3-cent cut in the price of gasoline in Milwaukee and Wisconsin is in reality only a minor phase of a very serious crisis in the opinion of George F. O'Neil, president of the O'Neil Paint & Oil Co., who declared today that unless the Oklahoma producers can be protected, they will be forced out of business.

At a meeting of the local independent dealers tomorrow it is expected that the cut in price of gasoline will be decided upon. Another meeting to be held on Wednesday will be decided upon. Another meeting will be held on Wednesday at Madison, when independent dealers from the state will decide th size of the cut which will affect the state.

Oklahomans Nearly Bankrupt.

"At the present time many refineries in Oklahoma are closing down for 30 days and a large number of smaller refineries are on the verge of bankruptcy. Unless they can be protected and can secure a price that will equal the cost of producing oil an important source of the nation's supply will be closed.

"It is the elaborate equipment for serving the public that gasoline companies must maintain in order to compete, that is responsible for the apparent high cost of gasoline. Statistics show that over the entire country service stations average 300 gallons a day the year round in sales. Estimating expense of maintenance of each of these stations at 25 per day, there is an expense of 8 cents per gallon which must be paid by consumers," O'Neil said. He also said that Oklahoma refineries are now offering to sell gasoline for any price they can get.

Claim Below Cost Sales.

Due to the influx of California oil and gasoline in large shipments, through the Pacific to the Atlantic ports, the refineries east of the Rockies have been forced to sell below the cost of production, and in consequence are in danger of going out of business, Aubrey G. McGuire of the Batles-McGuire Oil company declared.

S. S. Cramer, president of the Wadham Oil company and president of the Wisconsin Independent Oil Jobbers' association, predicted that the drop in gasoline might come tomorrow or Tuesday, though he stated that he hoped it might be avoided until after the meeting at Madison on Wednesday.

Nebraska Orders Cut In Gasoline

By The Associated Press.

OMAHA, Aug 12.—Governor C. W. Bryan, telgraphing the heads of principal oil companies throughout the state, has requested that they reduce the price of gasoline to the minimum price existing in the state of South Dakota, according to a special dispatch from Lincoln to the Omaha World-Herald. According to this source, a refusal to so reduce prices, will result in the state competing with the oil companies, by opening filling stations.

TEXAN KILLED IN OKLA. ROBBERY

Negro Fires Into Fleeing Robbers Escaping With $25 Loot

By The Associated Press.

McALESTER, Okla., Aug 12.—A $25 robbery of a negro confectionery store here early this morning proved fatal to Chester Sorrell Pryor, of Denison, Texas, and physicians say another member of the gang of four white men may die when R. J. Jones, the bandits' victim, fired upon the band as they retreated. Two bandits escaped.

Wounded Men Abandoned.

Jones, negro contractor, was backed into a small room of the confectionery, operated by his wife, and robbed of $25 within three feet of his rifle, he said. As the men fled, Jones seized the weapon and fired, wounding two of the bandits. The four escaped in an automobile, and later the two wounded members were found two miles from town, abandoned by their companions.

Two unidentified men notified a farmer, living near where the men were found, that medical attention should be given to "a couple of men down the road."

Pryor, when arrested, gave the name of Joe Garner and the other wounded man said he was John Johnson. After a physician told Pryor his condition was hopeless, Pryor asked that his mother, Mrs. M. A. Pryor of Denison, be notified. She and two of the dead man's brothers arrived too late to see him alive.

Germans Are Peived At Would-Be Kidnapers Of Grover Bergdoll

By The Associated Press.

ABERBACH, Germany, Aug. 12.—The man who was shot and killed yesterday by Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, the American draft evader, has been identified as a Swiss, named Karl Schmidt of Lausanne and the man wounded is said to be Roger Sherber, an American resident of Paris.

Lieutenant Griffis, said to be an American, Faint Gagarian, a Russian, and Eugene Nelson, supposed to be an American, who were seated in an automobile outside the hotel, in which Bergdoll used his automatic pistol to save himself from being kidnaped, are under arrest here.

Bergdoll, several days ago, returned to Eberbach from Swizerland, to meet his mother, who had arrived from the United States. He again took up his residence in a local hotel where he had been living during the past three years until he went to Switzerland.

The local authorities assert Bergdoll had been watched closely for several days by strangers living in his hotel. They expressed the belief that a plot to kidna the man, who is wanted by the United States government, had been carefully planned and financed. Rope ladders, blackjacks and a supply of opiates are said to have been found in the possession of the men under arrest. The automobile in which it is believed Bergdoll was to have been taken off is described as a former American army car.

Local feeling is running high against the men under arrest. Bergdoll continues to be popular with the natives. The populale is declared to be doubly resentful over the alleged renewed attempt to kidnap Bergdoll as the first attempt, made two years, and in which a German woman was wounded by a man alleged to be an American detective, is still fresh in their memory.

Germany Would Keep Him.

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—The American embassy has not been informed officially of the Bergdoll incident in Eberbach. The belief is expressed here that the Baden government, through the Germtn foreign office, will protest formally against the alleged attempt to kidnap Bergdoll. The German press refers to the incident as a "violation of German sovereignty."

PEOPLE'S PARTY HEAD TO FORM NEW COALITION

Stresemanu Commissioned by Ebert to Take Place of Cuno

PARTIES ASK POWER

Four Parties All Demand Seats in Stresemanu Ministry

By The Associated Press.

BERLIN, Aug. 12.—The resignations of Chancellor Wilhelm Cuno and his entire cabinet were accepted today by President Ebert. Dr. Gustav Stresemann, leader of the German people's party, has been commissioned by President Ebert to form a new government.

New Seats Lined Up.

After accepting the task, Stresemann had a conference with the representatives of the various parties. The greatest difficulty seems to be in connection with the foreign ministry and it is believed possible that Stresemann will take the post himself temporarily.

It is believed in political quarters that Herr Hilferding will be the new finance minister and Herr Sellman will be named minister of interior, while the name of Herr Rheinhaben, of the people's party, is mentioned as the new secretary of state to the imperial chancellory.

Thus, the new cabinet would be of a strictly political character, including representatives of the united socialists, clerical, people's and democratic parties. The united socialists have made it known that they expect to have four seats in the ministry.

Parties Confer With Ebert.

Just before Chancellor Cuno called on President Ebert to submit the cabinet's resignation, the reichstag leaders representing the present coalition parties and the united socialists, visited the president and discussed with him the prospects of constructing a government on a four-party coalition basis.

This indicated that th united socialists had arrived at an understanding with the bourgeoise parties with respect to their readiness to enter a cabinet which would accept as a a platform the program of internal tax and financial measures and other political and economic demands which the united socialists put forward in their campaign against Cuno.

Five Killed As Gales Hits Twice In Chicago Loop

By The Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 12.—Gale winds which uprooted trees and sent them crashing onto roofs, paralyzing traffice and shattering plate glass in the loop business section accompanied the electrical storm which broke over Chicago and environs late last night and early today, the second storm to strike the city in as many days.

Two deaths in today's storm raised the total casualties during the two days to five. Three had been killed in the Saturday morning storm. Fred Hillman was electrocuted today when he attempted to cut a high tension wire which had blown down during the storm and the body of John Anderson, 76, was found beneath a tree which had been split by a bolt of ligtning.

Firemen who had toiled all Saturday to pump out basements in all sections of the city which were flooded when the first storm—2.08 inches of rain fell during the storm—were again called upon to fight fires, rescue people whose homes were struck by falling trees and pump out more basements.

Alabama Farms Stricken By Army Worm Caterpillar

By The Associated Press.

BIRMINGHAM, Aug. 12.—Coming without warning, Alabama farmers, especially those in the Tennessee river valley, have become alarmed at the ravages of the army worms, according to reports reaching here. The new cotton pest works faster than the boll weevil and wherever it strikes all the foliage is eaten and only the bare stalks and bolls are left standing.

Dr. W. E. Hinds, state entomologist, reports that the caterpillar is active in Tuscaloosa, Bibb, Morgan, Monroe, Chambers, Macon, Talladega, Fayette, Marshall and Winton counties. He urges that the cotton be dusted with calcium arsenate to ward off the worms.

DROUTH SENDS COTTON UPWARD

Week Shows Advancing Market With Net Gain of 135 to 142 Points

By The Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 12.—It was an advancing market in cotton this week the close showing net gains of 135 to 142 points. Highest prices were made in the early sessions, after which there were reactions, but in the late trading the market came back strongly. At the highest prices were 144 to 162 points over the close of the preceeding week and at the lowest they still were 17 to 25 points over. In the spot department prices gained 100 points in the net results, middling closing at 24.00 cents a pound against 21.13 on the close of this week last year.

The main reason for the advance was the drouthy conditions prevailing in Texas and Oklahoma, although excessive moisture in portions of the eastern belt and consequent increase in insect damage also helped values. Reactions of the middle part of the week were due to scattered showers in Texas and Oklahoma, but when at the end of the week, it was seen that they were not continuing there was a resumption of buying movement. Complaints of premature opening of bolls on a very extensive scale came from Texas and this, by some traders, was considered the most unfavorable feature of the week.

Some of the strength on the closing session of this last week was due to the forecast of fair weather for every state in the western belt for over Sunday and it is generally considered that if the market this coming week opens on continued drouth it will be forced to still higher levels. Rains would have the effect of checking the advance, but many circulars on the week end warned the trade that if a rainy spell should set in over the western belt it would take only a very few days to bring in crop complaints of the worst character, and moreover, it was pointed out that rains in the southern half of Texas would do a world of damage to the grade of open cotton besides preventing the gathering of the crop.

Carrot Stew—Six carrots, six onions, eight potatoes, one pint milk two tablespoons flour, one teaspoon salt. Slice vegetables, put in layers and pour boiling water over. Add salt. Boil and hour and a half, or less if the carrots are new. Add boiling milk and thicken. Cabbage soup made the same way is good. Parsnips chowder is made without milk and with a final layer of crackers dipped in cold salt water and just brought to a boil in the chowder so as to be puffy and have the flavor.

Rice and Meat—One pound rice one pound hamburg steak, one cup bread crumbs or pieces of dry bread, one egg, one teaspoon salt, pepper.

Tomato Sauce—One can tomatoes, one tablespoon butter, one tablespoon flour, one teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon calves. Pour boiling water over bread, add meat, beaten egg, salt and pepper. Bake in hot oven. Turn out on big platter and surround with boiled rice. Over it pour sauce. For this, heat and strain tomatoes, set again over fire and thicken with the flour which has been stirred dry into melting butter. Add salt and cloves

Chocolate Pudding— Two squares chocolate grated, one cup sugar, one egg, one cup milk, two cups flour, two teaspoons baking powder. Bake.

Hard Sauce—One and one-half cups sugar, one egg, one tablespoon cream, one-half teaspoon vanilla. Beat egg with part of the sugar, add milk or cream and the rest of the sugar and flavor.

Instead of the usual day's menu, today's column gives economical dinner menus with recipes for several days. You will find many of them suitable for luncheons.

Kitchen Conveniences—A clock, a scrap basket, a pad with pencil attached are three necessities in every kitchen.

Trappist Monks Go to Work In Italian Fields

Trappist monks working in the fields in Italy.

The famous Trappist monks of Italy have offered their services to Premier Mussolini of Italy to further the campaign for increased farm production. Because of the scarcity of labor, due to emmigration, the Fascisti have started to conscript labor. The monks have set an example by volunteering their services for work in the fields during the labor shortage.

Modern Science Opens Eyes of Girl Blind Since Birth Eight Years Ago

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 12.—Blind from birth, for eight years a wanderer in a blackness more impenetrable than night, little Lillian Palen today can open her eyes and see.

In the eight years of her life she never saw the sunshine, her friends, or any of the loveliness of nature, nor see those who were unkind to her. She bore the cruelties of life in darkness and found her pleasures in gloom. Her life was made up of sounds. Now there are brilliant lights.

A short time ago modern science, in the person of Dr. Joel Whitacre, a prominent local occulist saw Lillian's sad plight. The delicately skilled fingers of Dr. Whitacre removed the cataracts from Lillian's eyes. Born blind, she today first sees the things she should have seen eight years ago. Lillian is the adopted daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Palen, formerly of Laporte, Ind. Her blindness was brought to the attention of Dr. Whitacre, who had her taken to St. Vincent's hospital, where the operation to restore her sight was accomplished.

Being born blind was only one of the disasters in Lillian's life. She was abandoned, with her three brothers and sisters, at the age of four years by her parents to be reared in a county institution.

NEWS NOTES FROM MOVIELAND

Ethel Shannon plays both flapper and grandmother in her new play, "Maytime," for Preferred. Here she is in both roles, "before and after" the makeup is applied. Barry says, you know, that the real test of a girl is to consider her chances for "say—50" years of age. If you can imagine her as sweet and lovable looking at that advanced age, then you are safe to marry her.

Well, according to that test, Ethel is a safe bet in the matrimonial race, for she is certainly as sweet and lovable an old lady in the lower picture as she is young and lovely in the upper.

A telephone call at her home decided Miss Shannon's career, she says.

"I was just starting for a matinee when a girl friend called me up and asked me if I wanted to be an extra in a moving picture. I had only been in Hollywood a few days, so the chance to see the inside of a moving picture studio seemed to offer more novelty than the matinee, and I consented. The extra part lasted for several days, and before I left the studio I was amazed to be offered a lead with Bert Lytell. The picture was called 'It's Easy to Make Money.'"

Her last picture was "Daughters of the Rich."

Gossip of the Screen

Constance Talmadge is secretly "married" to Jack Mulhall in "Dulcy," her latest frothy comedy of married life, being filmed at the Joseph M. Schneck studios on the United lot in Hollywood.

Four famous character actors—Hobart Bosworth, William V. Mong, Sam de Grasse and Lucien Littlefield—play prominent roles in "In the Palace of the King." Emmett Flynn is directing it.

Blanche Sweet and her husband, Marshall Neilan, both are working on the world's largest stage. Miss Sweet is playing in "In the Palace of the King." Neilan is directing "The Rendezvous" for Goldwyn.

Charles A. Logue, famous screen author, wrote the film continuity of Cynthia Stockley's "Ponjola," a story of the African gold fields, in which Anna Q. Nilsson will have the leading feminine role. It will be a First National release.

PRESIDENT'S LAST WORDS.

The late President Harding's last words, spoken to Mrs. Harding, who was reading to him, were "That's good! Go on! Read some more." The words indicate that he was not expecting immediate death any more than were those attendant at his bedside.

Most of the presidents, whose last words have been preserved, were aware that the end was approaching. A short time before death, President McKinley chanted the hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee." His last audible words were, "Goodbye, all; goodbye, it is God's will. His will be done."

Resignation also marks the last words of George Washington, John Quincy Adams, Andrew Jackson and Zachary Taylor. Washington said, "It is well." Adams, "This is the last of earth. I am content;" Jackson, "Now Lord, lettest thy servant depart in peace;" Taylor, "I have endeavored to do my duty and am ready to die."

Only three of the presidents thought in their last moments of state. William Henry Harrison, but one month a president, thought of his official duties with his last breath. His last words were "The principle of the government; I wish them carried out. I asked nothing more." John Adams, who had been ex-president for 25 years, thought of his old political opponent, Thomas Jefferson, who he knew also was at the point of death, and his last words were, "Thomas Jefferson still survives." Adams and Jefferson died the same day, July 4, 1826, exactly 50 years from the date both had signed the Declaration of Independence. Jefferson's mind turned to that great occasion and his last words were, "This is the Fourth of July."

SHE'S STRUGGLING FILM EXTRA All the Same She Sports Four Cars

Mary Louise Hartje Woods, struggling film "extra," who motors to work in one of her four big cars.

Out in Los Angeles amidst the tinsel and glamor of the film studios a comely young woman is working her heart out to achieve success in the movies.

She's Mrs. Mary Louise Hartje Woods, daughter of the late Augustus Hartje, Pittsburgh millionaire.

Mrs. Woods is a wife and a mother. But that doesn't interfere with her screen ambitions. Her press agents have dubbed her the "millionaire extra girl." That doesn't interfere either.

The "millionaire extra girl" found many difficulties besetting her path to fame.

She drew the munificent sum of $7.50 a day for her strenuous labors before the camera and though this was scarcely sufficient to buy gasoline she was able to make the trip to and from the studios in one of her four high priced gasbuggies.

Some years back, Miss Hartje broke an engagement to James F. Converse of New York and startled Pittsburgh society which she now leaves flat on its back by marrying Louis Woods, Jr. They've been separated for some time.

But her unsuccessful marital venture doesn't prevent Mrs. Woods from dealing out this advice to women in general.

"This is the age of feminism," she is quoted as saying. "Women should be up and doing. Not permit themselves to be parasites."

Having unloaded herself of this Mrs. Woods probably yawned wearily, hopped into her big car and drove to the studios for another laborious day

ZONAGALE
In Collaboration With Russell Gore Writes On

MUSIC BY RADIO

The members of the radio orchestra are recruited from a famous civic organization—"The Orchestra," say the more aggressive civic boosters. "One of the Great Orchestras," say those in whom urbanity tempers local pride in superlatives.

A newspaper hires the eight musicians—two violinists, a cellist, a pianist, etc.

A flute player—a roly-poly gentleman with small eyes that twinkle from an expanse of shaved and powdered face—often acts as conductor. And sometimes the youngest of the violinists—the corn-tassel haired one who sways throughout his slender five feet eight in time with the music—runs the menagerie with his eyebrows, his shoulders and his bow.

For it is a menagerie. One who has seen these shirt-sleeved, tousled artists in all the dress suit formality of the greater orchestra's formal massing behind palms and the famous conductor's raised platform, must smile at the menagerie effect. The musicians frolic like young animals in the joyous privacy of a radio room to which only an occasional visitor is admitted.

An entrancing bit from the Unfinished Symphony—a silvery, water-falling bit—is being played. And the portly floe shaver, being otherwise disengaged, indicates the falling water effect by a twinkling wriggle of his soft fat fingers as he starts on high and lets his chubby hand descend swiftly in a crude imitation of a foaming cataract. The scowling, beetly-browed musician at the horn—a Gorky person imperfectly civilized in the dress clothes of August occasions—melts into a grin.

The program changes. It reaches a point where we are to have a violin obligato. Not the younger, mystically rapturous, swaying blonde. No, the somber, lithe Italian. Probably Piedmontese, for he is grave and solemn. No, not so solemn, for as the others lean back to give him his chance at the invisible audience he pirouettes daintily toward the copper disc which is to gather his melody in a light little bundle of sound and scatter it to the four winds of heaven.

He not only pirouettes. He bows to the inanimate burnished thing which links him with his tens of thousands, bows profoundly, gracefully, particularly. Then sticks out a red tongue at it as he brings the violin to his dark cheek, raises the book and plays—divinely.

And as he plays the slim Swede—or Russian—or Dane—or whatever the blue-eyed poet is—tosses his blonde head boldly, or inclines it tenderly, as the brother violinist's imperious or beseeching notes command. But when the solo is finished he deftly slides into the orchestra's position before the immobile instrument and mockingly bows to the imagined applause.

"Yes, we buy horse up here—eat's the differens?" The thick owl-spectacled pianist grunts after an attendant has momentarily turned off the connection with the listening tens of thousands. "Music is fun. It is not foot music unless you gets oddies of fun blaying it. Fat? Sad music not fun? Sure, it is fun, too. Ot'er there"—he waves toward the corpulent flutist—"bawls like the fat baby he is ven ve play 'Asas' Death.' He bawls inside—ve do not let him do his blubbering out loud. It is dangerous to forget that the thing bears, Vunst Fritz, the tow-haired kid fiddler, did that same stunt he pulled tonight, ramming Guiseppe way from the rigma-jig, and darned if he didn't trip him right into the drums and symbals. Ach, but they most have heard that clatter one thousand miles past the Gulf of Mexico!"

THE COQUETTE.

Most men love coquettes. They are attracted by their drooping lids and upturned faces, their flirting fans and well timed sighs.

And they find their sentimental and demure ways irresistable and alluring.

But sometimes a girl, who is made of the clay that is magicore and attracts all men, gets too expert. And sooner or later she will loose some of her power with them.

Men like to be fooled a little. A man doesn't want to know that a girl made a bet with herself as soon as he entered the room that she would have his scalp in 15 minutes!

He likes to feel that he is the one that has attracted her and it is his task to make her like him. (Not her tricks.)

The expert coquette gets too open and above board. She is so sure of her methods, and so positive she can turn the trick, that she forgets one big point—

That Herman the great gained his fame by concealing how he did his tricks.

Heart and Home Problems Solved

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a married lady, aged 20 years. I have two children and have been married five years. Another married woman has come in between my husband and me. She has thrown herself in his way for three years and I have worried until I am almost mad.

My home is so unhappy. He does not seem to care anything for me at times and he cannot bear to have me mention her name. He treats the children and me awfully rude. Please advise me what to do.

BROKEN-HEARTED.

A man likes a healthy, happy wife, regardless of the conditions under which she lives. Of course there are exceptions, but I am speaking of the general rule. No matter how much a woman is made to suffer by her husband, if she is to keep his love in the least degree it is necessary for her to be cheerful.

You have one thing to encourage you, and that is the fact that your husband has not left you to go off with the other woman. The fact that she throws herself in his way would not strengthen his regard for her. Probably your opposition and suffering has gone further in kindling his interest in the other woman than you realize. You see he finds you blue and miserable and anything but a cheerful comrade, while she puts herself out to be gay and alluring.

My advice is to stop mentioning her name entirely. Don't let your husband know that you worry about her anymore. Instead of playing the role of a mistreated wife, change your tactics and make your husband's hours at home so free from complaint and so full of peace and good will that he will be less willing to go away from home for his enjoyment.

My dear woman, take my advice and you will see a change in your husband.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a woman 35 years old. I do not believe in telling troubles, but this bears on me so deeply that I feel I must tell someone. My niece, who is 19, is keeping company with a young man of 21. Since this young man has been coming to see her I have learned to love him very sincerely. He is much engrossed in my niece, but I feel that she is only trifling with him. Do you think there is too much difference in our ages for true love?

MISS DEBORAH L.

There is decidedly too much difference in your ages. Do not let yourself think so much about the young man, because it only makes you unhappy and is harmful to you. Your reason must tell you that you could mean nothing to a young man of 21. Do not let the sentimental side of your nature weave dreams.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young man 22 years old and engaged to a girl of the same age, but now I realize that I do not love her and that I became engaged just to spite a former flame.

Not long ago I was introduced to a young girl of 16 or 17 and since then I feel that it was love at first sight. I cannot keep her out of my mind. She is my ideal. What course would you advise me to pursue?

BAIRD B.

It is most unfortunate when betrothal is entered into lightly, but in my opinion nothing can be gained by going on with an insincere relationship. The only thing for you to do is to ask your fiance to release you from the engagement. Tell her that the trouble is in no way hers, but you feel you cannot love her in a way to warrant marriage. Do not enter into another engagement hastily, because you may find that the girl who occupies your mind so much at present, will not stand the test of further acquaintance.

WITH THE WOMEN OF TODAY

Miss Millicent Girling, 21 years old, of Waterford, Ireland, is the designer of the latest stamps for the Irish Free State of the four and nine-pence denominations. This fact was brought out at a recent philatelic exhibition held in London.

Miss Girling's design has the merit of effective simplicity. The background is a shamrock on which appears a shield containing the arms of all the provinces. The word "Ireland" in Gaelic is above the shield, and the denomination below.

Miss Girling qualified as technical instructor in the Irish department of agriculture as well as a certified teacher under the board of education. She was an art student at the time, having won a scholarship in the Dublin school of art.

"Blessed Are They That Mourn"

While the whole nation will feel keenly the loss of President Warren G. Harding, it will be Mrs. Harding, the frail wife, who will miss him most and will long "for the touch of a vanished hand and the sound of a voice that is still." In her recent serious illness, the picture of the strong man anxiously and tenderly bending over her, unmindful for the time being of the affairs of state, touched the heart of the nation and endeared him to us. And now he is gone, she mourns—not for the statesman whose policies influenced the whole world—but for the protecting care—she is just another grief-stricken widow who mourns for her "man."

"May all love, his love, unseen but felt, o'rshadow thee;
The love of all thy people comfort thee,
Till God's love set thee at his side once more."

Spudders Defeated Twice By Fort Worth

PAUL WACHTEL SPITBALLS SPUDDERS OUT OF DOUBLE BILL PULLING IRON STUNT

Two Hits Is All Spudders Gave Eddie Dyer In First Game While Wachtel's Spitter Is Charmer Twice; Meine and Phillips Batted Fiercely; Home Today

FORT WORTH, Aug. 12.—Paul Wachtel, veteran spit-ball pitcher of the Cats, held the Spudders to seven hits in 16 innings today and the Cats took both ends of a double header, 4 to 2 and 10 to 0. After holding Wichita Falls to two hits in the opener, Wachtel shut them out in the second, allowing but five hits.

Dyer Unlucky.

Eddie Dyer pitched a nice article of ball in the first game, being defeated by timely hits. Singles by Kraft, Hoffman and Moore scored one in the second. A walk to Edington and a double by Kraft scored another in the sixth. A walk to Rapp, a sacrifice and Wachtel's single produced the winning run in the seventh, and a long home run in the eighth cinched it.

Coombs' double in the first inning scored Bescher, following a walk. In the seventh, Weiss singled, Cotter and Barrett walked and Joe Berger hit a long sacrifice fly.

Meine battled Wachtel through four innings of the second game, but weakened in the fifth. Calvo started it with a single to right. Sears bunted and Bischoff's throw to second to head off Calvo was too late. Edington sacrificed. Kraft was walked purposely. Hoffman popped an infield fly, but Haworth walked, forcing in Calvo. Rapp hit a long double to right center, clearing the bases. Phillips relieved Meine and retired the side.

In the sixth Wachtel opened off Phillips with a single. Calvo beat out a slow roller to Tanner. Sears was hit by a pitched ball, filling the bases. Edington walkd, forcing in Wachtel. Kraft doubled to left center, cleaning the bases. Hoffman doubled along the third base line, scoring Kraft. Haworth bunted and beat it out, Hoffman taking third. Rapp hit into a double play, but Hoffman scored.

Berger Stars.

Berger's fielding was one of the features of both games. Fort Worth's defense was brilliant in all departments throughout the 16 innings, the Spudders having few opportunities to get loose.

BUFFS LOSE AND WIN WITH CRABS

GALVESTON, Aug. 12.—The Sand Crabs lost their final series of the season with the Buffs when the double-header today was split, Galveston winning the first game, 10 to 3, while the Buffs staged an explosive last inning rally to take the short afterpiece, 6 to 5. Kircher was ineffective in the opening encounter, while Connally kept the Houston hits well scattered. Fortier, Bliss and Knight doubled in succession in the seventh round of the second tilt and later with the bags loaded Schmandt singled to center for two more counters. Score:

Barr and Jester Defeat Adove and Hogue at Dallas

By The Associated Press.

DALLAS, Texas, Aug. 12.—John Barr and Levin Jester defeated J. B. Adoue and Bradley Hogue in the southwestern doubles match here today, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4, 7-5. All of the players are of Dallas.

The championship match was that of youth vieing against veteran ability. Hogue and Jester won the southwestern championship last year and have played together in many tournaments. Jester and Barr played their first championship doubles today and were nervous at times.

Jester's cross court work and accurate drives down the alley and Barr's terrific smashing of lobs supplied the margin of victory.

Adoue and Hogue played together well, but Adoue carried the brunt of the match. Hogue was not up to his standard of play, although occasionally he flashed streaks of great tennis, notably in the final set when his work at the net on Adoue's service was responsible for frequent points.

Take It Or Leave It

By BILLIE SMITH

Welcome back home Spudders! Make the Gassers pay for what the Cats did yesterday. You still have a chance to come out on top.

* * *

The Spudders open a four-game series with Ira Thomas' Gassers today. Following the Gassers the Steers will tramp into town for a three game stay.

* * *

Eddie Dyer just can't have any luck of late. He was nosed out by the Steers last week, and yesterday he was the victim of one of Paul Wachtel's "good days." He pitched well enough to have won, but as Old Lady Luck would have it his mates would give him but two runs, and those two came off a pair of hits.

* * *

These Paris pitchers that the Spudders have been getting don't seem to last very long. Yesterday Lefty George Phillips was touched for six runs and five hits in the sixth inning of the second game after relieving Meine in the fifth. Young Osborne from Paris had two chances to pitch and each time he lasted two-thirds of one inning. There is one fact proven by this and that is the East Texas league isn't any higher than it is rated—class D.

* * *

Joe Berger was the fielding star of the day in both games at Pantherville yesterday. Joe showed the Fort Worth bugs, who have proclaimed Rabbit Tavener the best shortstop in the league, just how shortstopping ought to be done. Fort Worth scribes and fans have been boosting Tavener for a trial in the big show.

* * *

Rip Wheeler will probably get the pitching assignment in today's game against the Gassers, although Manager Salm may decide to give George Stueland another chance. If Stueland is given another trial and fails to come through it may mean that he will get to take a trip back to Chicago. With the arrival of Kunz from the Pirates one pitcher will have to be let loose, and from the way things now stand Stueland is the most likely one to get the gate.

* * *

Spudder fans will see a new member of Salm's hired hands in the person of one Lefty George Phillips of Paris today. Phillips once played with the Panthers. His record for this season is 11 wins and 7 defeats for an average of .611.

* * *

Denver Grigsby should get back into the game today. However, his ankle may be in such a condition that Skipper Walter will refrain from using him until the youngster is in tip-top shape again. The box scores in the Fort Worth series show that he was badly needed in the batting line-up.

* * *

Did you know that the Spudders made only 12 hits in three games against the Panthers and scored only four runs?

* * *

Will someone please tell us why the Cats can beat the Spudders when they can beat no other club in the league. The Spudders never have so much trouble with the Steers, yet the Steers can beat the Panthers, and even the lowly Gassers can win a game now and then from them.

* * *

An Associated Press dispatch from Galveston carried a story last night about one Harold Carlson being rescued from the waters of Galveston beach. The story read that the person who saved Carlson was a stranger to him. Say, Walter, our Hal can swim better than that can't he?

* * *

When fighters mix it in a manner as did Simmons and Grisham Saturday night in the American legion fight night program legion promoters can be assured they will never have trouble getting an audience. Neither Grisham or Simmons are finished fighters yet they put on the kind of scrap fans like to see.

* * *

We are suggesting a bout between "Country Boy" Lance of Gainesville and Battling Simmons. So far Simmons has had but little trouble with his opponents. Grisham is the only one that has made him stretch to the limit, but at that Grisham did not stay the scheduled number of rounds. We believe that Lance would give Simmons the best fight of any that he has been up against yet, and would without a doubt be the best drawing card of any to be staged this season at the lake.

JONES AND ADAIR WIN MATCH AGAIN

By The Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 12.—Bobby Jones, open champion, and Perry Adair, defeated Jock Hutchison and Frank Godchaux, in the last half of a 72 hole exhibition match over the Bellemeade course here today, 6-5.

Under the double Nassau scoring system, Jones and Adair won six of the seven points. The first point was wasted in Atlanta when the first 18 holes were halved. Jones continuing his phenomenal golf shot 69, 71-140.

K. O. P.'s Romp On Shriner Pitchers In Win By 13 to 3.

The Shriners treaded over hotter sands than any desert they have been through in a long time yesterday, when they were forced to bow down to their fraternal friends, the Knights of Pythias, by the score of 12 to 3. The Pythian players had the Maskat temple Shriners hoodooed all through the nine innings of play. They slammed everything that the Shriner pitchers dished up to all corners of Spudder park.

GOTHAM CLUBS MAINTAIN LEAD

Looks As Thought Next World Series Will Be Played In New York

By The Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 12.—The collapse of the Cincinnati and Pittsburgh clubs in the National league race has left the New York Giants hanging high and dry in the lead with a substantial game margin. The New York Yankees maintained their long lead in the American race in the week's games and another all-New York world series appears a certainty.

Including the double defeat by Brooklyn today, Pittsburgh lost six of its last eight games, while Cincinnati was able to win but one game of its last seven. The Giants hit heavily again and had good pitching. The Cubs played good ball.

Cleveland continued its heavy attack and gained a few points on the Yankee who including their loss to Detroit today, won four and lost and equal number of games. The Red Cox though far down in the race, moved along in fine shape their best formances being against Detroit, with three victories in four contests.

CARDINALS WIN GIANT SERIES

Rookie Pitcher Fails to Stop Cards Loosing by 5-2 Score

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 12.—Jess Haines pitched a fine brand of ball today and held the league-leading Giants to six hits while Gearin was hit at opportune times, thus enabling the Cardinals to take the final game of the series, 5 to 2. Today's victory gave the locals three of the five games with New York. It was the first series the cardinals have won this season from the Giants.

Through an oversight, in the seventh, the Cardinals nearly were given four outs. It was not until one of the New York players rushed from the dugout and protested against Hornsby batting in that inning after three men had been retired. Umpires discovered that the inning had already been closed. Score:

NEFF VERSUS SMITH

The Heavyweight battle between Ireland and Argentina is to be staged Labor Day, when Dempsey meets Firpo. The odds favor the Irish.

In the political arena there may be staged during the close of August another heavyweight battle between the governor of Texas and the governor of New York. If such a battle is staged, Texas will lead with a punch in Al Smith's corner when Neff addresses the peace loving folk that attend Chautauqua, New York each year as their idea of a good time.

The rules of Chautauqua provide for courtesy and indefiniteness of all things political. For that reason anything Gov. Neff says may have to be put under a microcope in order to get the drift.

The fact remains that Neff, representing the prohibition South, should have a fine opportunity to lambast Smith, representing the wets of New York and incidentally at present heading the wet wing of the Democratic party.

If Neff attacks Smith and if Smith replies by telling Neff to go back home and take care of his own affairs, those of us who are interested in politics and prize fights may label the encounter at Chatuauqua round one of the National row which Democrats always indulge in every four years.

It being rather warm and lackadaisical in Texas during the dull days of August, any sort of excitement is welcome.

Neff technically is in the better condition. Smith has been flirting with booze and for the last eight years booze has been a bad thing to train with in the Democratic party.

Gov. Edwards of New Jersey found this out four years ago. Candidaate Cox, slightly moist, was beaten by bone-dry Harding. It is hardly conceiveable that the wet wing of the Democratic party will get very far at the next Democratic convention.

Neff has never been Democratic leader in a National sense. About every four years however each major party grows a new crop of leaders or near leaders.

Neff may have strength as a National leader than many Texans might suppose.

There is a romance about Texas that gives anything Texan a National audience. Neff's greatest strength lies in his oratory. If he can attract a National attention—and Al Smith has a way of attracting a considerable audience whenever he takes off his coat for a row—Neff may be able to hold the audience after Smith has introduced him.

Any way it's been a hot summer.

FARMER IMMIGRANTS

Aliens are coming at the rate of 350,000 a year. They are departing from these shores at the rate of 300,000 per year. One ship landed a thousand Dutch Families from Holland to the New York Dock. They made their plans before they sailed from Holland to the New World They sold their possessions in Holland and when they landed on these shores every member of the party had sufficient money to buy a farm in Minnesota or the Dakotas and to embark in business.

Their spokesman said that the high taxes in Holland were ruinous, that there was no bright futures for the people in old countries and that the more enterprising and well-to-do were getting away from the land of birth and settling in the farming sections of the United States and the Canadian northwest.

There are no paupers among them. There are no idlers among them. They prefer the country to the city. They love to keep close to nature and they are wise. Danes and Swedes and Norwegians are coming over. Taxes are high in the cities. They go straight from New York to the Northwest and to Canada where there are farms for sale and farm work to be done.

Those who are familiar with the plans and purposes of the aliens who come to this country say the American industrial centers capture the arrivals from southern and eastern Europe. They are sent to the coal regions, to the coke regions, to the steel mills, wherever there is rough labor to be done. There are many Danes going to Canada and the Canadian government is assisting these sons of the Vikings to obtain homes in the far north. It is said that more than a hundred thousand Scandinavians who have landed on these shores since the signing of the armistice, made their way to the northwest.

Many Poles came to America. These aliens are to be found in the mines and factories. As for the Germans, the vast bulk of these immigrants go to the country. They prefer life in the country to life in the city or town. Thousands of Italians made their way to California. They are unpopular with the big land owners. It is impossible for an Italian to remain a farm laborer it is said.

He hungers for land of his own. He digs and he saves, and when he gets hold of a piece of land he clings to it and and never sleeps until he pays off the mortage. The Italian is willing to work as a farm laborer until he gets some cash in the bank. Then he becomes a land owner. He is land hungry. He craves the possession of the soil. He does not care to be a tenant or to work a farm on shares and he is wise.

More than a million negroes have deserted the south for the north in recent years and in Georgia thousands of white tenants have deserted the farms of that state and journeyed elsewhere. Only the Lord knows where. Another million negroes will leave the south the coming year. And there is no reason why local or state movements should be organized to prevent the exodus; but there is every reason why local and state movements should be organized to invite white farmers who land on these shores and white natives from the farming sections of the north to make their homes in the south and become land owners and makers of wealth.

Why It Seems Difficult for Them to Work Together Much Longer

THE SOUL - SCAR

By HELEN DUFF

"Come across! What is it?"

"Chicken pox."

"No, no!" Natalie Mallinson leaned forward. "Smallpox! Smallpox is what——"

"Oh, huh!" a contemptuous grunt from the Todd girl. "That's what they all been a-thinkin'. Tried not to let on, but I knew they was up to somepen'. First, Lucy, the new waitress, was with us; then she wasn't. Miss Pringle said she'd took sick an' went home, but no one knew when or how. Me, I kep' quiet an' watched. By an' by, I caught Tillie carryin' a tray upstairs. Right off I knew where I could find Lucy Painter. When I got a chance, I slipped in an' talked to her. She ain't no more had smallpox than me. I nursed Sam through a chicken pox—I oughta know."

"In that case"—O'Meara sprang up—"I vote we visit Miss Lucy Painter, and hear what she can tell us. You're not afraid of chicken pox, are you, Miss Mallinson? You've been exposed already, you know."

CHAPTER XXIV—LUCY'S STORY.

The mysterious unnumbered room was small. Lighted and aired by a mere slit in the wall, it contained an army cot, a chair, a wash stand. On the side of the cot, her chin on her hands, her elbows on her knees, sat a girl. More dispirited than ill was the inward comment of the shrewd O'Meara.

A few adroit questions, a little sympathy, and the thin shoulders straightened, the eyes kindled. The resentment she had been harboring for days flared into speech.

She had come from Manchester in answer to an advertisement for waitresses. Three days after her arrival, she had begun to feel queer—spots all over her—funny little blisters that itched.

Miss Pringle, with the help of Tillie, had transferred her from the maids' quarters to the room on the top floor where they usually kept the extra furniture. It was done at night, quietly, for fear the guests would hear about it and leave.

The clerk and Bill, the chauffeur, had taken turns going to Lakeport for medicines.

Just when she began to feel better, Miss Pringle received a letter telling about an epidemic of smallpox in Manchester. The four—Tillie, Bill, Miss Pringles, Jones—were scared stiff. It served 'em all right—she hoped she did have smallpox.

The tedium of convalescence was relieved by spying on the guests from an upper window or by clandestine excursions down the stairs to find out what had happened since her illness.

The night of the storm, the room on the top floor became unbearable. The roof leaked; a mouse gnawed something under her bed; the wind howled, and the music downstairs bothered her. She could not sleep.

After everyone had come upstairs and, she supposed, the house closed for the night, footsteps in the lower hall had excited her curiosity—stealthy footsteps. The girl crept out of her room and half-way down the stairs.

A woman wearing a bright-red coat was in the lower hall. Something about this woman made the watcher more nervous than ever. She followed her to the door of the living room. In there were two men—Jones, the clerk, and a small man with a black mustache. They talked low, she said. Finally, the girl admitted, she had told Aunt Merilda that Bill had killed the princess woman. And Miss Merilda had gone to the barn to find Bill.

CHAPTER XXV—AT THE STATION.

The New York train thundered into Mink Harbor station as Jones raced down the cinder bed beside the track. A figure leaped for the Pullman.

"No you don't!"

With a burst of speed, the clerk reached the spot. His hand shot out; the figure came off the step with a jerk. It was Bill!

"Thought you'd get away, eh, and leave me to face the music? Some yarn you tried to stuff me with last night, you——"

The chauffeur tore free.

"Yarn?" he snarled. "Be damned to you! Look there!" He pointed to the platform of the car.

A slender man, not above the average in height, with a thin, intellectual face and brown eyes, near-sighted without the glasses to which they were so evidently accustomed, was peering out from the vestibule of the Pullman. Jones fell back.

"You? Good God!"

Painfully, one foot dragging, the man hobbled down the steps.

"You seem surprised to see me here, but what of yourself?" he demanded, "How do you explain your presence?"

"All aboard!"—the conductor on the car ahead.

"Is you or isn't you?" inquired a dusky porter.

"Well?" The clerk, his hand still on Bill's collar, looked at the man who had just limped from the Pullman.

"Now's your chance—decide!"

The spread out his hands in token of defeat.

"You have decided for me."

The porter picked up his footstool and hopped aboard: the train moved on.

Sammy Todd, sitting tailor-fashion on the flat rock, saw the searching party of three headed by O'Meara leave the inn. He jabbered excitedly, jumped up and down like a wizened brown ape and run to the huckleberry bushes.

The feet he had been guarding were still motionless.

Satisfied, he trotted down the slope to the alley and plucked the detective by the sleeve.

"Dead!" he mouthed. "All dead in the bushes."

Hearing Natalie's agonized cry O'Meara held her back.

"Let me," he urged. "You go back." And then, with a quick exclamation of relief: "Steady! Don't faint. It's not your aunt. It's a man."

"A man? Is he dead?"

O'Meara stooped.

"Sure!" he said, straightening up with a cheerful grin. "He's dead, all right—dead drunk."

Sammy Todd's sister peered into the bush.

"I know him," she announced. "It's Ole Petersen. Tillie's husband. Oh, my! Look at his eye!"

"That's the 'wild man' who attacked Mr. Jones last night," Natalie said. "He thought it was some kind of a monster." She turned to the Todd girl. "How did you know who he was?"

The girl bridled.

"He's been stayin' up to our house. Sam found him half drunk in the woods. He paid for his lodgin', an' granny said we had as good a right to his money as anybody."

"Oh, don't bother to explain it." Natalie laughed a little unsteadily. "Let's search the barn."

CHAPTER XXVI—THE MAN IN THE HAY LOFT.

In the barn Natalie pointed out to the detective the car in which she had found the jewels. He traced a cryptic triangle and circle on the panel of the door with a stubby forefinger.

"What have we here—a member of the Forty and One Club? That's as near to being a hundred per cent Simon pure on the 'Social Register' as they make 'em. We're dealing with the aristocracy."

A thump, thump from somewhere overhead—an indescribable, muffled tap.

The girls huddled close. O'Meara reached in his hip pocket, to pull out not a gun but an electric torch. Gripping it between his teeth, he climbed the ladder.

As his head and shoulders disappeared through the rectangle of blackness, Natalie ran to the ladder.

The detective shuffled noisily among the loose hay; he stumbled and ripped out a startled oath. There was the sound of another voice, thick, mumbling. Natalie went up the ladder.

In the wavering circle of light lay a figure, its back and shoulders securely lashed to the upright against which it sat, its jaws moving painfully.

"Oh, Aunt Merilda!" Natalie was on her knees, unfastening the silk handkerchief that had been used as a gag. "You poor, poor dear—whatever have they done to you?" And, as O'Meara fumbled with the fastenings: "Cut them—cut them! Don't stop to fuss!"

"Cut the cord of my best dressing gown!" Her jaws once more free, Miss Merilda turned a flood of indignation on her niece. "He'll do nothing of the sort. If I've sat here for nearly twenty-four hours, I guess I can sit here for five more minutes. Undo me properly. What's got into you, Natalie? Your fingers are all thumbs!"

Finally the cord fell away and the aunt struggled painfully to her feet.

"Don't touch me!" The old lady was still bent double, her hands cautiously rubbing the crooks out of her knees. "I don't want your help. All this time—and never finding me! I suppose you let him get away."

"Who?" O'Meara guided the tottering steps toward the ladder.

"I should think you'd know who was who by this time. I mean the owner of this contraption of course"—indicating a home-made ukulele—"that scalawag Bill. An ingenious devil, Natalie; picked six tunes out of it. A pity he can't have a real fiddle. What's going on?"—pointing to the crowd about the house. "A coroner's inquest, eh?" she chuckled. "Our old friend Burby again. Too bad he wasn't in my shoes—he would have had a chance to catch the man——"

"Who? Who?"—a distracted chorus from Natalie, O'Meara and the country girl.

"Hoo! Hoo! Is that all you can say? Owls! You don't deserve to have your curiosity gratified. But"—with a shake of the head—"I suppose you'll never find out until I tell you. The man in the hay-loft, the stranger Bill smuggled out of here at six this morning."

Bill's story, in tomorrow's installment fails to clear the mystery.

So Goes It

By B. H.

Gibbons says that the talk that Dempsey let him stay 15 rounds just to be nice to him is all bunk. Personally we are not posted, other than that we read the public print following the day of the battle and gleaned the knowledge that Gibbons stayed the full 15 rounds and that the fight was over. Gibbons doesn't seem to realize this.

We will now be surfeited with a lengthy description of what President Coolidge wears, on his feet, his head and elsewhere; what the new president eats; whether he likes oil dressing or mayonnaise on his salad; the size of his collar and a host of other details.

If you are given to wondering what occasions the printing of all this sort of thing, the matter is easily cleared up. The fact is that every man has had at some time in his life, a hankering to be president. Most of us get over it when we are in the eighth grade, but at one time another, we have all heard ringing in our ears the plaudits of the dear peepul, and went riding into the white house on a day dream.

Therefore, everyone is interested in the job. And they want to know all about it and the personal habits of the man who has it.

As far as we are concerned, we will trade our chance of becoming president for a Boston bull terrier. We have found that we can get on fairly good terms with a dog of that type, and we are quite sure we could not get along with the job of being president.

A headline says—"Reds would take Mexico." All right, let 'em have it.

The county authorities put a chicken-dinner farm out of business near Kansas City. It seems that what they objected to, was not the dinners, but the fact that they fed too much booze to the chickens out there.

MOTHERS AND THEIR CHILDREN

The Little Nurse

One Mothers Says:

In an emergency it is a comfort to know that my daughter understands the rudiments of home nursing. For instance, she has been taught to wring a cloth out of hot water. She takes a piece of woolen cloth and folds it into a long roll. She holds one end of the roll in each hand and dips the middle well into the pail or bowl of hot water. Then she lifts it up, twisting the dry ends all the while, wraps it in a bath towel and takes at once to the patient. Any child can be taught to do this skillfully.

WHAT TODAY MEANS

By MARY BLAKE. LEO

Excellent vibrations prevail through out the day, making it especially good for business and all forms of pleasure. Take advantage of these benign influences and attend to important matters, begin new a enterprise or even a courtship. Today's marriage will be lasting and harmonious.

A child born today will be dutiful, kind and ambitious.

You have an exceptionally magnetic personality if today is your birthday. You are forceful and determined, but at the same time persuasive and diplomatic. If you do not have your own way in this world it will be only because you do not choose to have it, for it is yours for the willing.

Spiritually you are fine and enthusiastic and you have an undoubtedly psychic influence over others because you know them intuitively better than they suspect, and you can gauge their thoughts and feelings before they are expressed. You are also kind and generous and sympathetic when you find people who really deserve it. But like all powerful personalities you are intollerant of weakness whether it is spiritual or psychical.

You are fond of music, literature and the arts, and you should cultivate your tastes in them in order to have a hobby which will divert your mind from the monotony of work.

Your soner is very pompous when you think it will help you in your ambitions, especially those of social nature, as you always desire to look the part your playing. This is particularly true of your relations with the opposite sex.

You are much given to love making of the story book type, both in word and gesture. But you are capable of profound affection none the less. Love peace, and harmony are as essential to your development as sun is to flower.

August and October are the marriage months for Leo subjects. You will have at least one proposal and will be urged to make a hasty decision. If you turn it down, in all probability you will have to wait for summer to return before another comes into your life.

Successful people born on your birthday are:

Henry J. Abbott, military engineer.

Arthur S. Hickley, inventor, fire alarm, electric lamp.

Emma Eames, opera singer.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

THE LEAST RESISTANCE

I do not care for thoughtful plays;
I do not seek to find
In any theatre the ways
And workings of the mind.
I like the easy stuff the best,
Where coctue, rudely spurned,
Knocks scheming villians galley-west.
When once the tide is turned!

I like to see the tatterer maid
Observed, serenely disrupted,
Observed, serenely undismayed,
That she would scorn disgrace!
I like to hear her say again,
Without a qualm or quake,
That rags are royal raiment when
They're worn for virtue's sake.

I like to see the lightning flash,
And hear the wild wind wail,
And listen to the thunder crash,
And watch the child turn pale!
I like to hear the youngster say:
"Dear Dad, don't take alarm,
For brother'll soon come home to pay
The mortgage on the farm."

Psychology is good enough,
Upon the printed page,
But I like more red-blooded stuff
Upon the acting stage.
The thoughtful drama, I suppose,
Is very much the best,
But when I go to see the shows
I go there for a rest!

SIGNS OF AUTUMN

It will soon be time to take the football players out of the plaster casts in which they were put away for the winter and get them ready for the big games.

NOT AN INCONVENIENCE

The loss of a strike does not matter very much. There are always plenty more.

SAFER

Maybe Mr. Dempsey will decide by and by that he and Mr. Firpo had better shake dice to settle the question of Nordic supremacy.

IRRIGATION

By A. M. McPHERSON
Consulting Engineer
Kahn Bldg., Eighth and Indiana

Into what sized farms should the surplus lands on the irrigation project be divided?

PLUM GROWING.

Plums are a native fruit. They grow wild along the creek and river bottoms in this county.

Certain varieties of domesticated plums are grown in local orchards and gardens, but so far they have had but little commercial importance.

Plums as a money crop are not of great importance any place in the United States. Certain varieties that have been bred up and improved are grown with profit in parts of California. Perhaps the most profitable variety is the Satsuma, or Japanese plum, but considered as a crop they are unimportant.

The prune is very closely related to the plum, and is often classed with it. Prunes are a good money crop wherever they will grow well. Over half of the prunes in the United States are grown in California.

If we can grow prunes here, such as the French and Italian varieties, they may become a good money crop. So far as can be learned no prunes have ever been tried locally.

In considering the plum as a factor in determining the size of the economic farm unit here we are forced to leave it out as being of little value.

Every orchard, home or commercial, should of course contain a few plum trees, preferably such varieties as the Satsuma, if they will grow. Prunes should also be planted to a very limited extent to see what they will do.

For the present we will not consider the plum as having an influence on the farm unit.

The Latest.

Adispatch from Paris, describing the fashion displays at the Auteuil races, says: "A-la-piece chiffon gown that folds about the body like a cape, leaving one shoulder bare to the second rib and fastened by a single button below the waist is popular. It never loses its shape, and can be put on and taken off in 20 seconds."

But could the wearer be quick enough to hold it on in 20 seconds if that single button suddenly should go out of commission?

"Saryann, Saryann sympathetically, "We can't let them dogs suffer."

WOMEN BUILD REAL HOMES

Men Only Put Up Houses; the Wife Bears Burden

By GERTRUDE FISHER

"There are endless paths across the seven seas,
And paths no matter where we choose to roam,
But fairer than them all, the sweetest trail,
Will ever be the path that leads to home."

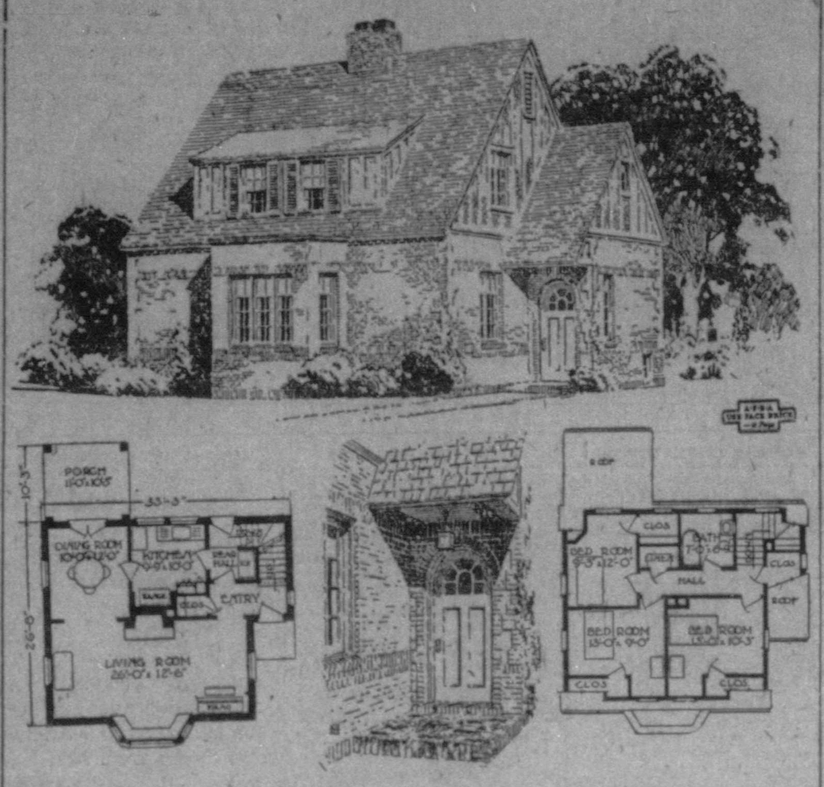

It is the men who build the houses, but it is the women who build the homes—and what a vast difference there is between a house and a home. We couldn't get along without our men builders, but have you ever stopped to think what a barren and desolate place this world would be without our women builders?

Women are not only builders of homes, but builders as well of the lives of those who inhabit the homes; builders of character, and builders of souls—Dreamers and idealists, but none the less builders for they dream as they build and build as they dream.

The world's development depends upon various kinds of construction, but none so important as the work of the women—Building characters and moulding lives of little children—the lives of our future race.

The wife bears the burden of the home, and too many men fail to realize that she is entitled to a home of her own where she can arrange and improve to suit her own taste and convenience.

A DISTINCTIVE HOUSE ECONOMICAL TO BUILD

This trend toward more artistic homes does not necessarily mean that people are building more expensive houses. Very often the very reverse is true, for a well-planned house, simple in its exterior and compact in its interior, gives the builder his greatest value per dollar of investment.

The English cottage illustrated above is a case in point. Every effort has been made to keep it simple and yet its pleasing proportions, the placing of the windows, the skillful handling of the brick work, all contributing to make the house exceptionally charming.

To obtain the most striking effect, it should be built of two shades of face brick, using one for the quoins and the other for the body of the house. A similar effect can be obtained with different colored mortar joints, for changing the color of the mortar has almost as great an effect on the wall surfaces as changing the color of the brick.

This plan is adaptable to a city or country site, as all the rooms have exposure to the front or rear. It may be placed on either a narrow or shallow lot. It has been designed to reduce to a minimum the number of steps necessary for the operation of the household.

Both front and rear doors and stairs are conveniently near the kitchen, or each other, and just a step from the living room. The basement stairs are so located, with outside door at grade, that an outside basement entrance is unnecessary.

The plan has many points to recommend it. Entering at the side, under ample shelter, one finds a goodsized stair hall, off which is the coat closet. The unusually large living room occupies the entire front portion of the house. The attractive bay and the fireplace opposite are features not usually found in houses of this size.

The dining room opens from the living room, beyond which is the porch at the rear for those who like the view of their garden. The kitchen, though directly connected with the dining room, is well isolated, has good light over the sink, and is equipped with cabinets instead of pantry. Note the convenience of the rear entrance.

The refrigerator, located in the rear entry opposite the kitchen door and convenient for icing, has a storage cabinet above it. The basement is the full size of the house and contains a laundry, heater and fuel rooms, vegetable cellar, and storage space.

Summer conditions among office workers are much more healthful, with open windows and fresh air circulating, than in winter when ventilating agencies are closed and the air becomes hot and stagnant, says a medical observer.

Placing the hands in cold water 30 minutes caused the blood in the vein at the bend of the elbow to drop several degrees, said Leonard Hill, eminent British physiologist, in a recent report on whether letting cold water run on the wrists is effective in cooling one.

A Convenient Kitchen

The placing of the cupboards and the range, the height of the sink and of the table, the relation of the storage-space to the working centers and the convenience of access to the dining room and to the screen porch are only some of the things to be considered in planning a kitchen.

The individual pieces of furniture and equipment, whether these be movable or stationary, differ vastly in kind and quality. For instance, there is the question of the Kitchen table. The most satisfactory is one of enamel, providing it is first class. Poor enamel chips and cracks. Therefore, it is poor economy to buy but the best and that from a reputable firm. Glass-top tables are sanitary, easily kept clean and attractive, especially if placed over cretone or other fabric pleasing in color and design. Next best is a table painted and enameled. Such a table looks well, but in time the enamel will show marks from hot dishes and from the wear and tear that is inseparable from its use. A coat or two of hard-finished varnish helps to prevent such mars and so it should be given when the table is new. A wooden table with an oil-cloth cover firmly tacked on is better than a plain table, as it is more easily kept clean.

Then there is the kitchen cabinet. This used to be little more than a well-equipped cupboard, with mixing-board added. But it has been growing and improving, until the newest one is really a pantry and breakfast nook combined. One recently inspected had hardwood drop-leaf table for breakfast nook, seats for four people, large utensil cupboard, storage compartment, cooler, ironing board and broom closet. Even in the less elaborate cabinets the idea worked out is that of bringing within convenient reach of a working center the utensils and materials to be used there. These cabinets come in wood and also in metal, the latter being enameled.

RETURN OF DINING ROOM

"Let a little sunshine in" says the song, and whoever sang it the first time was thinking of his dining room. And if you can't do it by raising the shade—do it with wall paper!

Eat, drink and be merry! The dining room is coming back. Many a modern housewife will tell you that it is her favorite room. And well it may be—with its well-rubbed furniture, its cheery array of electric grills, toasters and percolators, its soft rugs—and its fresh, lovely wall paper!

Modern Kitchen Is Electrical

Electricity Must Go Hand in Hand With Efficiency

Two very distinct trends in kitchen planning and operation are evident in the thinking of the modern housewife and homemaker. One is the trend toward what for want of a better word may be called the efficiency kitchen, and the other is the trend toward an electrical kitchen.

Domestic science schools, home betterment work maintained by the government, housekeeping institutes of national women's publications and other agencies are all laying emphasis on the need for and desirability of kitchens which are laid out so as to make possible the most satisfactory results with the least expenditure of time, labor and money.

Scores of home electric exhibitions throughout the land during the last two years have stressed the service which electricity can render to the woman in the kitchen. And no one who has studied the subject can deny that electricity is a splendid aid in developing a high degree of efficiency in kitchen work. However, honesty compels the admission that kitchens in home electric exhibitions, while emphasizing the value of electricity, have not always conformed to the standards of efficiency otherwise.

Let the home-maker remember that her kitchen is not modern and falls short of what it may and ought to be now unless it is an electrical kitchen as well as an "efficient" one.

Home Feeling Draws Assets

When your friend greets you at his door and adds, as he cordially invites you in, "make yourself at home," you know that he has offered you the sum total of hospitality. For home affords comforts of food, shelter, and warmth with a sense of security and well-being, free from stiff formalities and restraints, but it is a refuge from the toil and worry of the great outside, headlong, jostling world, and the center and source of all those dear affections of sympathy, kindliness and mutual service which give to life its true meaning.

The home feeling is an asset of the very highest value, for it plays richly in a sense of selfrespect, of more responsible citizenship, of moral poise, as a member of the community, besides giving profound personal satisfaction and enriching the spiritual values that arise out of family ties and affections.

Then the community itself regards the home-owner with more respect than it does a floater; he is looked upon as a substantial citizen having a vital interest in the common welfare.

It is such values as these rather than mere money returns on investment, that should lead every young man to set out with the determination to lay by a monthly saving for a home fund, so that he can promise his bride what to her will prove the best of all gifts—a home. Nothing could be sounder or more wholesome for a young man than to set before him, as a fixed aim, the accumulation of a home building fund. It will balance and steady him; it will make more of a man out of him, a better husband, father, citizen, friend.

As taste in architecture becomes more discriminating in this country we are getting a greater variety of houses. The old "packing box" type is becoming scarcer. Its place is being taken by small houses that are attractive and distinctive.

LEGAL NOTICES

SHERIFF'S SALE
THE STATE OF TEXAS
County of Wichita.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of a certain execution issued out of the honorable district court of Clay county, on the 21st day of July, 1923, by the clerk of said court for the sum of $418.80 and costs of suit, under a certain judgment, in favor of J. F. Alcorn in a certain cause in said court, No. 4328 and styled J. F. Alcorn vs. E. L. Means et al. and placed in my hands for service, I, W. W. Murphy as sheriff of Wichita county, Texas, did, on the 25th day of July, 1923, levy on certain real estate, situated in Wichita county, Texas, described as follows, to-wit: The north half (N½), of the south half, (S½), of the north half, (N½), of the west ten (10), acres, of the east twenty (20), acres, of a forty (40) acre tract out of the southwest corner of block number ninety-six (96), Red river valley lands, in the Burkburnett extension oil field.

Second tract. In Wichita county, Texas, part of a survey of 621 acres located by virture of scrip issued to B. F. Blount, and patented May 6, 1889, to N. S. Watson, by patent No. 287, volume No. 37, abstract No. 550, and known as survey No. 3 beginning at the northwest corner of said survey, thence south 75½ degrees east 357 varas to corner in north line of said survey, thence south 471 varas, thence north 65 1-4 degrees west 155 varas, thence south 72½ west 500 varas, thence with west line of said survey north 37 degrees east to place of beginning, and levied upon as property of E. L. Means and that on the first Tuesday in September, A. D. 1923, the same being the 4th day of said month, at the courthouse door, of Wichita county, in the city of Wichita Falls, Texas, between the hours of 10 a. m. and 4 p. m., by virtue of said levy and said execution I will sell said above described real estate at public vendue, for cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said E. L. Means.

And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication, in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Wichita Falls Record News, a newspaper published in Wichita county.

Witness my hand, this 27th day of July, A. D. 1923.

W. W. MURPHY,
Sheriff Wichita county, Texas.

CORRECT FLAG USAGE

Although there is no federal law on the subject, correct usage provides that the national flag when not flown from a staff always be hung flat, whether indoors or not.

War department regulations are that the flag never be festooned over doorways or arches or tied in a bow knot, or a rosette. When used over a rostrum it should be displayed above and behind the speaker's stand. It never should be used to cover the speaker's desk or to drape over the front of the platform. For the latter purpose, as well as for decoration in general, the war department suggests the use of bunting of the national colors. Since the blue union of the flag always goes to the honor point, the colors should be arranged with the blue above, the white in the middle and the red below.

Under no circumstances should the flag be draped over chairs or benches nor should any object or emblem be placed above or on it. Neither should it be hung where it might easily become contaminated or soiled. It should not be used as a portion of a woman's costume or of a man's athletic clothing.

The war department sees no objection to flying the flag at night on civilian property, provided it is not flown for advertising purposes—K. C. Star.
