HOUSE AGREES TO BOND COMPROMISE

Gov't Orders Cattle Buying Program Resumed in County

2,000 QUOTA IS FIXED FOR PRESENT WEEK

Resumption of cattle buying by the government after a 10-day interval to allow a check-up, took place today with orders to buy 2,000 head. County Agent J. C. Patterson said a telegram from state headquarters directed the buying and fixed the week's quota. Patterson said he did not regard the 2,000 set for the current week as meaning that the figure will be the regular quota each week.

Buying during the next three days, he said, will be done in areas in which the producers were notified to pen up their animals just prior to the order stopping all buying. Today the crew, consisting of Veterinarian Lovell, transferred to this county from Callahan county, and W. L. Henry, appraiser, are buying in the Flatwoods section. It will probably be next week before the buying is shifted to the Cisco territory, the county agent said. He explained that more buying had already been done in this part of the county and any other part.

In order to appraise and buy cattle at the rate of 2,000 per week, Patterson said it would be necessary to concentrate the animals to be purchased in a given section. Notifications will be sent to the producers in sufficient time to concentrate their offerings for appraisal, he said.

Between 9,000 and 10,000 head been offered the government by 900 producers, exclusive of those already bought, he said.

Cotton Certificates Due Here Monday

Tax exemption certificates under the Bankhead cotton control act are expected to arrive for distribution to Eastland county cotton growers Monday, County Agent J. C. Patterson said today. Eastland county allotments have about been completed by the state board, he said.

Notices will be mailed in advance to the growers directing them to appear at a certain date to receive their certificates in the community where they made their applications. Only one day will be allowed for this and those who fail to appear for their certificates will be required to go to Eastland to obtain them.

The grower must appear in person to receive his certificate, or he may give a representative having the power of attorney to act for him or send a writer, order signed by witnesses. He cannot send a proxy without such written authority, it was explained.

More Than One Fire On Liner Possible

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 — Three separate fires may have been burning aboard the liner Morro Castle the day it was destroyed, Arthur Bender, head nightwatchman, testified today at the department of inquiry.

As early as 10:30 p. m. the night before, Bender said he smelled gasoline or a cleansing fluid in the vicinity of the ship writing room where the fire was believed to have started.

He assumed the stewards were following their usual custom of cleaning late the night before docking and did not report the incident.

FOREIGN WEED
COLBY, Wis., Sept. 25.—A South Dakota weed, known as the Buffalo burr and beaked nightshade, hitherto foreign to Wisconsin, has been reported in moderate quantities on three farms in this vicinity. It is believed that the seeds were carried into the state by high velocity winds during the early summer dust storms.

Long-Hidden Lindbergh Ransom Money Found

Spread out on the table for examination and checking by police and federal officials is $13,750 in bills, identified as part of the $50,000 ransom money found in a cemetery wall in the Bronx by John F. Condon, in vain attempt to ransom Col. Charles Lindbergh's kidnapped son in 1932. The police captain is shown with the square tin can in which the money had been buried in the dirt floor of the garage where Bernard Richard Hauptmann, arrested as the kidnapping suspect, kept his car.

PERCY AVERY ROCKEFELLER DIES TODAY

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 — Percy Avery Rockefeller, 56, nephew of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., who built up his own family fortune to tremendous proportions, died today in Doctors hospital of a recurrent stomach disorder.

Accompanied by Mrs. Rockefeller and members of the family the millionaire stock market operator whose name was listed on the directorates of half a hundred corporations, came to New York from his Connecticut estate last Friday.

He underwent an operation for stomach ulcers but failed to rally. The least known member of his famous family, Rockefeller made his tremendous financial power known through subsidiaries. Even his control of the National City bank, second largest in the country, was dispensed through trusted employees.

Seymour Trial Nears Stage for Testimony

SEYMOUR, Sept. 25.—Completion of a jury was scheduled today in the trial of Miss Ruby Brittain, 40, charged with murder in the road-side shooting of Horace E. Nichols, 39, prominent Seymour banker.

Six jurors were selected before court adjourned last night. Miss Brittain's attorneys in questioning veniremen indicated they would plead self-defense for her.

Nichols, father of two children, was shot to death the night of August 15, as he sat in a parked automobile on a country lane with Miss Willie Mae Couch, 17-year-old New Mexico school girl.

Nichols' widow was in court today as the trial neared the testimony stage.

Action in Suit to Bar Allred Delayed

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 25. — Joe Burkett, attorney for plaintiffs seeking to keep James V. Allred's name off the general election ballot, announced today he would delay further action pending careful study of the litigation as it now stands. Burkett had intended to file a motion today asking the fourth court of civil appeals to rehear Allred's appeal from a temporary order issued by District Judge W. W. McCrory restraining democratic party and state officials from certifying Allred's nomination for governor.

Claim Case Against Hauptmann Clinched

NEW YORK, Sept. 25 — Investigators of the Lindbergh kidnapping claimed to have clinched their case against Bruno R. Hauptmann today with discovery of the telephone number and address of the ransom negotiator written on a closet wall in the Hauptmann home.

Samuel Foley, Bronx county district attorney, said Hauptmann admitted writing the scrawl.

The telephone number and address were those of Dr. John F. Condon, who delivered $50,000 ransom money to a man now believed to be Hauptmann. The announcement that detectives had ripped from the prisoner's home a board on which the notation had been written came after federal agents had connected the prisoner with footprints found outside the Lindbergh home.

Hauptmann's footprints were similar to the prints found at the scene of the kidnapping and at the scene of ransom payments, experts decided.

ILLNESS FATAL AT BRYAN TO R. F. LAWRENCE

R. F. Lawrence, assistant to County Agent J. C. Patterson and Bankhead act administrator for Eastland county, died at a Bryan, Texas hospital Monday morning following an operation for an ulcerated stomach performed Monday, Sept. 17. Mr. Lawrence was at A. and M. college sitting with the state allotment board on Eastland county Bankhead act tax exemption certificate applications, as required, when his condition became serious and the operation was ordered.

The strain and worry of his duties in connection with the administration of the Bankhead act in this county was said to have been directly responsible for the weakened condition that brought on his illness. He took his work seriously, although he was not responsible for the allotments that were made by the board County Agent Patterson said.

He was unmarried. A native of Big Spring, Texas, funeral services will be held there this week.

Lawrence, who was a graduate of A. and M. college and served as appraiser for the Federal Land bank at Houston, came to this county on June 1 to take up his duties as administrator and county agent's assistant.

Rainbow Wins Fourth Race Under Protest

A red protest flag also was flying from Rainbow's rigging.

Vanderbilt trailed Endeavour over the first leg, a 10-mile broad reach to the southwestward, but the American skipper hauled his sloop over the second leg, a beat to windward, in brilliant style, outguessing the challenger, and finished leading by nearly three minutes.

JOINS SENATE AFTER REFUSAL ON FIRST VOTE

BULLETIN
AUSTIN, Sept. 25. — It was learned on reliable authority this afternoon that Gov. Ferguson will not reconvene the legislature when it adjourns its special session tonight. The information was from a member close to the administration who was in conference with the governor at noon.

AUSTIN, Sept. 25. — The Texas house of representatives today voted to accept the $6,000,000 relief bond bill which it had rejected yesterday. The house vote was 120 to 18. The senate had previously voted for the bill 21 to 6. The bill therefore can become effective as soon as it is signed by Gov. Ferguson.

Final passage of the relief bond bill was believed to have lessened likelihood of another special session of the legislature being convened tomorrow.

The bill provides for issuance of all but $3,500,000 of the possible state relief bonds, budgets them so that not more than $1,500,000 shall be used in any one month and pledges all state funds for their retirement, except funds specifically put into other channels by the constitution. The bonds may bear 4 1/2 per cent interest.

The existing relief setup is discarded. The state board of control is placed in charge of administration with full power to remove county boards and all administrative officials, including the state director.

The bill is expected to reach the governor's desk late today.

CHILD-SLAYER SUSPECT UNDER TROOPER GUARD

RIVERHEAD, N. Y., Sept. 25 — State troopers guarded the Suffolk county jail today where they had lodged Patrick Downey, 31, after a grim game of hide and seek with 2,000 Irish citizens inflamed over the brutal assault and strangulation of Rita Lazzari, seven years old.

Twenty-two troopers spirited Downey to the jail today from Islip. The mob gathered after a search of a woodland disclosed the child's body. Police said Downey confessed the crime.

The child disappeared Sunday night when she went on an errand next door for her father.

Current Term 94th For U. of Missouri

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 25.—The faculty was in an upsurge and historians had to refer to dusty tomes to determine what academic year the current one was for the University of Missouri.

A special committee appointed by the president finally agreed the 1934-35 term will represent the 94th year of academic instruction.

Dr. Jonas Viles, professor of history, Floyd Shoemaker, secretary of the State Historical society, and other historical authorities were summoned before the matter was settled.

Provision for establishment of the university was made in 1839. Research in a volume by Thomas J. Lowry disclosed that "President Lathrop entered on the active duties of his office and X X X courses of instruction were opened on Wednesday, April 14, 1841, in the old Columbia college building."

Missouri is the oldest state university west of the Mississippi.

BETTER THAN LIFE: Because thy loving kindness, O God, is better than life, my lips shall praise thee.—Psalm 63: 3.

People Who Judge Their Country by the Stock Market

Four large packing firms have announced increases in the wages of their employees averaging eight per cent. The increases will affect more than 130,000 men and women and will add millions of dollars to the total weekly payroll. In the Chicago area the minimum hourly wages for unskilled workers will be higher than in 1929, the news announcement of the pay increases says.

Meanwhile business and industrial leaders petition Roosevelt for a clarification of his position with reference to NRA, currency stabilization and budget balancing. These declare that a "state of apprehension" exists among business men and state a belief that a "restoration of confidence," essential to business advance and the maintenance of employment and payrolls would be aided by such a statement from the White House. The president has already, time and again, stated the aims of his administration. They have been accepted and the nation has joined in the recovery efforts confident of their rightness. Time and time as the recovery progressed, business has come to crossroads, to points of indecision. The old battle between conservatism and liberalism has continued. Business and industry fears to turn from the accepted standards of the past and try a new thing. As a temporary and emergency measure they were ready for the Blue Eagle and the NRA and the other alphabetical agencies of the New Deal. It was the morass, or else, so it really didn't matter. But as they begin to feel firmer ground under foot, as the prospect of normalcy looms they are cautious and questioning. They are now beginning to risk something, to risk the chance of recovery, and they want to be sure that the country is not being shifted from the accepted foundations of national strength and sound practice.

It is doubtful that the president can answer their questions as specifically as they desire. It is doubtful he can give them any guarantee such as they evidently wish. The policy and the aims of the administration may be stated, but these must be subject to modification as developments occur in the fields attacked.

The surest confidence cannot come from the White House. Statements and assurances from the administration may affect business thinking on a subject and be reflected in the barometers of business, such as Wall Street and the stock market. But the source of real confidence is an improved condition among the people whose condition ultimately will control whether or not more gold is removed from the dollar or the public works administration is continued. The increase in the wages paid by the packers is evidence that some improvement has occurred, and that speaks louder than any White House pronouncement.

Will Rogers spoke the proverbial "mouthful" in a dispatch Monday from the liner on which he is crossing the Atlantic back to America after a round-the-world tour. Describing the influence of the stock market upon American business men on the boat with him, an influence that made them gloomy one day and gay the next, he said: "Imagine people whose whole idea of our country is gained from what it does every day in a stock market!"

There never was a more searching indictment of the circumscribed thinking and the fundamental ignorance of some Americans than that. The common interpretation of the stock market before 1929 led the country into the debacle. Today's interpretation of it is just as susceptible to fault. Back of the market is the nation, and those who fail to see the nation and take its resources into account in their estimations of the future are foolish.

But the attitude of those who are seeking a clarification of the administration purposes is indicative of something besides pessimism. There's a reason for it.

Proposes Plan to Pool Bonds

Former Rep. John T. Smith of Austin, a state-wide taxation authority, is proposing a plan for a constitutional amendment to pool all state, county, city and district bond issues outstanding, prohibit any further bond issues except by state authority, and pay off the several hundred million dollars of existing bonds as they mature by a general sales tax.

This would cut local taxation about one-half, he pointed out; but its main effect and chief benefit in his opinion, would be to restore value to property now heavily burdened by the multiplicity of taxes for bond-issue purposes.

Generally, it would be equal and fair, he believes, to pool the whole bond debt and pay it off by a uniform, general statewide sales tax, giving the state the far-reaching and impressive power of preventing any more bond issues except in cases where the state held an actual calamity had occurred.

The sales tax would start at 2 per cent, he said; but ultimately would be cut to 1 per cent, then to about one-half of 1 per cent. It would be retained as a permanent substitute for over half the total taxes Texas citizens are now required to pay.

OUT OF THE PAST

Texas Topics

By RAYMOND BROOKS

BROOKS

AUSTIN, Sept. 25 — Reason for securing a poll of house and senate members to develop a majority will—business to return to Austin and consider a new oil and gas commission bill and then to postpone more or less indefinitely, the session to consider such a bill, was clearly affected by evidence of house votes that a legislative investigating committee will be set up to investigate oil conservation generally.

That will afford an opportunity to fire off the giant cannons of criticism and objection of charges and counter-charges against past promotion and enforcement measures. It will open the way for every objector, every critic, every antagonist, every political pilot of every political trial balloon to have a free hand at building a vast record.

It may be just as well. No public agency is or should be immune from the freest criticism. Possibly, there may be some constructive suggestions along with the customary mass of fault-finding and the customary complaints of disgruntled, dissatisfied and suspicious or disappointed persons.

It deserves to be remembered that the oil industry has been brought out of chaos in 15 months. The state at last, has been able to have its laws passed upon in state courts. It has been able to write orders that federal judges would not enjoin and destroy. It has been able, in conjunction with national allocations to states, and in furtherance of national economic trends to peg oil at a stable and adequate price.

It has cut down the violations of oil laws and orders. It is stamping out illegal oil production.

The present enforcement agency is in better position than at any time in the hectic past of conservation to report and prove its efforts and accomplishments.

So whether it is a fact that the oil commission session will be delayed to await the results of the investigation, or whether it just seems to be a fact, a fog of investigation testimony likely will bring out relatively the true situation; and the inquiry should leave the legislature in as good, or better, position to pass on the state's need of some new enforcement agency.

There seems somehow an anomaly in cities and counties sending prosperous, well-paid, tax-supported officials before the legislature to oppose relief of tax penalties upon their citizenship.

Fort Worth sent down R. E. Rorer, city attorney and J. M. Floyd, city attorney, and Tarrant county sent down George W. Steere, one of its numerous assistant district attorneys, to oppose the tax penalty remission bill. Other cities and counties also were so represented by officials.

As an observation, a destitute citizenship has little to hope for when their needs are presented by officials living of tax proceeds, who represent the agencies in the very business of collecting taxes.

Another bit of red tape that is rendering the home owners' loan relief hard to get, and taking it away from many who looked to it to save their homes, was disclosed in a senate committee hearing by F. L. Henderson, attorney of Bryan. The loan papers were filed months and months ago, including enough to pay off delinquent taxes. So much delay followed that the tax penalty remission law expired, and now the loans do not include enough to pay the recurring penalties; and thus the loans are blocked, and the home owners loan organization can not break through the red tape to offer any relief or won't bother to.

About 80 persons were authorized by the 43rd legislature, by concurrent resolutions, to sue the state for injuries, damages and the like. Resolutions were held adequate to sustain these suits against the state. Judgments were recovered. Now the legislature is informed a ruling holds that the judgments cannot be collected except authorized by general law. So the present session is passing a law to validate the judgments.

Kingsford Smith Seeking New Air Record for Melbourne-London Trip

MELBOURNE, Sept. 25 — Sir Charles Kingsford Smith, the Australian air ace, will try to make a double job of the England-Australia speed record between now and the end of October.

Not content with matching himself against some of the world's best pilots in the London-Melbourne race, he is setting out to halve the record for a flight in the reverse direction just as a muscle-loosener before the race begins. The east-west record he is hoping to smash in his Lockheed Altair machine is the 24 days, 20 hours one set up James A. Mollison in 1931.

Special Plane Kingsford Smith bought the Lockheed Altair specially for the London-Melbourne race. It is mainly to test the efficiency of the plane and the system of controls in the race that he is planning the flight from Melbourne to London in September. The actual date of his departure from here is not yet determined. The machine in which Mollison established the present Australia-England record three years ago was a small Gipsy Moth, with a cruising speed of less than 100 miles an hour and a range of approximately 2,000 miles. The speed and range of Kingsford Smith's plane will be almost double that of Mollison's.

Swift Plane It is believed, in fact, that Kingsford Smith will have the fastest machine entered in the London-Melbourne race. Its speed can be judged from the fact that recently he flew from Sydney to Melbourne in one hour 43 minutes. The normal time taken for this 403 mile trip in four hours. If everything goes according to plan Kingsford Smith should be able to cover the first lap on his "muscle-stretching" flight to England — from Melbourne to Charleville, a distance of 187 miles — in a little over four hours. From here he could make the next hop of 1,330 miles to Darwin in seven hours.

Single Sea Jump He is planning to make a single jump over the shark-ridden Timor Sea and the Dutch East Indian archipelago to Singapore in about ten hours. This stretch is 2,000 miles. His next stopping points, coinciding with the checking stations on the London-Melbourne air race route will be Allahabad and Bagdad. In the final 2,500-mile stretch from Bagdad to London he will have to go out of his way to avoid flying over Turkish territory, owing to the ban placed on him by the Turkish authorities as a result of his making a forced landing there in 1932 while he had no permit. By flying via Aleppo, in Syria, and Rome, the trip would be lengthened to 2,800 miles. He hopes to be able to make it in about 14 hours non-stop.

Stop Chills and Fever!

Rid Your System of Malaria!

Shivering with chills one moment and burning with fever the next—that's one of the effects of Malaria. Unless checked, the disease will do serious harm to your health. Malaria, a blood infection, calls for two things. First, destroying the infection in blood. Second, building up the blood to overcome the effects of the disease and to fortify against further attack. Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic supplies both these effects. It contains tasteless quinine, which kills the infection in the blood, and iron, which enriches and builds up the blood. Chills and fever soon stop and you are restored to health and comfort. For half a century, Grove's Tasteless Chill Tonic has been sure relief for Malaria. It is just as useful, too, as a general tonic for old and young. Pleasant to take and absolutely harmless. Safe to give children. Get a bottle at any drug store. Now two sizes—50c and $1. The $1 size contains 2½ times as much as the 50c size and gives you 25 per cent more for your money—Adv.

Dutch Prof. Tries To Produce Rain

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 25 — America's drought has caused renewed interest in the rain-making experiments of Professor A. Verraart of the Delft university, who for the last five years has been trying to "make the sky weep at his will."

Verraart's method is to attack clouds from the air. Flying at a great height he started his experiments by releasing great quantities of artificial hail, brought to the lowest possible temperature by means of liquid air. When the hail is released it has a temperature of minus 100 degrees Celsius.

On various occasions Verraart has released from his airplane two thousand kilograms of artificial hail.

Verraart explains that his method aims at transforming the clouds into rain by sudden cooling. This will not only affect the clouds themselves but the entire surrounding atmosphere and cause enormous down-pours.

Tacky Party Opens Fall Season at Club

The members of the Country club enjoyed a gala affair last evening from 8 till midnight in the form of a tacky party which opened the fall season of the club.

All members appeared in tacky costumes some were so dated as to be almost unrecognizable.

At nine o'clock a short play was dramatized entitled, "The Shooting of Dan McGrew." The scene was laid in an old fashioned barroom. Mrs. Paul Wood read the poem while the parts were characterized as follows:

Dan McGrew..... George Lee Lou
Mrs. McGrew..... Mrs. George P. Fee
Man From the Creek Mrs. Elizabeth Wood
Ragtime Piano Player
Mattie Lee Kunkel
Ball Room Singer Dr. Paul Woods
Bar-keeper..... A. D. Anderson
Ball Room Girls..... Mrs. Jack
Anderson, Mrs. Roy Smith
Men in the barroom, Jack Anderson, son and George P. Fee.

Miss Dell Frances Miller gave a tap dance. The Hickville Band, composed of Harry Schaeffer, Ernest Hittson and Spurgeon Parks, played for dancing and for the grand march. The guests paraded before judges Mr. and Mrs. Dexter Shelley, Mrs. D. E. Waters and Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Bryant, for elimination. The prizes were awarded to Mrs. Henry Drumwright, most picturesque; Mrs. Lory Boyd, most comical; A. D. Anderson and George P. Fee received the prizes for men.

After a buffet supper of old fashioned gingerbread, whipped cream and coffee, the guests played the game of murder and joined in an old fashioned sing-song.

There were about fifty-five members present.

CHECK HEATING EQUIPMENT IS GASCO. ADVICE

Wild geese have already started south, stepping up their usual schedules about a month, with the first flight in Texas reported in August by a Fort Worth citizen. Scientific minded gentlemen, observing this and similar occurrences in other parts of the state have come forth with statements that early flights of geese foretell an early and hard winter. H. L. Dyer, manager of the local gas company, explains that while he can't pose as a scientist, in his opinion gas users would do well to check over their heating equipment now. "Too many people put off looking over their gas equipment until the first norther hits," he explained.

"Now is the time to look over your heating equipment and have it set up. Wall cocks and old room heaters should be inspected and replaced if necessary. Whenever possible gas equipment should be connected with gas piping; if flexible tubing is used, it should be renewed as it is rarely good for more than one season. Additional heating equipment, if needed, should be purchased now, while gas appliance dealers have a complete selection, and installed before the last minute rush. Vented automatic heating equipment for increased comfort and more healthful conditions in the home has been adapted by manufacturers especially for the moderate sized home. A small furnace which hangs beneath the floor, circulating warm air through a grill into one or two rooms, gas steam radiators, which manufacture their heat at the wall, and warm air circulators are some of the newer popular units. Their even, circulating heat which may be automatically controlled eliminates wall sweating and overheating with its attendant colds and other winter ailments.

All of this heating equipment, as well as room heaters, if connected with gas piping, has been included in the list of home furnishings which may be purchased through National Housing Act insured loans.

But now...

with natural gas,
winter is just another pleasant season in the modern home.

A timely reminder

Days are growing shorter, nights longer, and the first cold days of winter are on the way.

Now is the practical time to check up your heating equipment while winter is still "around the corner." Don't let obsolete or inadequate heating rob you of a pleasant indoor climate. Improved gas heating equipment and your dependable gas service will give you care-free, inexpensive comfort at the touch of a match and you'll find just the type heater to fit your particular need on display at your gas company or appliance dealer's.

If this were a gasless community, the next order of business would be laying in a supply of coal or wood. Of course, your dependable gas service makes this fuss and bother unnecessary. All through the summer months your gas company has been "keeping your fuel service faithful"—improving facilities so that you may have the safety and security of a dependable natural gas supply again this winter.

... If for any reason your gas meter is not connected ready for winter—call your gas company NOW and avoid the rush of that first "norther."

An ample gas supply has been provided... pipe lines and distributing lines have been checked over... compressor stations have been overhauled. In fact, every detail of your gas service has been carefully perfected to assist you in stopping Jack Frost at the threshold of your home.
