WHAT PRICE EDUCATION?

A Western gentleman recently established a new world's record when he skipped the rope for 20,010 consecutive times. Immediately thereafter he suffered a nervous collapse, upon his recovery from which he got married; and in all this swift succession of events the most interesting part is the fact that, according to telegraphed dispatches from the scene of the action, the new champion "is a graduate of the University of Chicago."

We live in uncertain times, to be sure, and a great many university graduates, being unemployed, doubtless have to look for odd and unusual jobs. But one is still impelled to wonder just what a supposedly educated man, a man with a diploma from one of America's greatest universities, is doing skipping the rope 20,000 times in a row.

OUR PROGRESS IN ART

American artists, says Homer Saint-Gardens, are no longer under the compulsion of going to Europe to learn and practice their craft. Hunting for pictures to be exhibited in the 31st international show of the Carnegie Institute at Pittsburgh, this famous art director says he found only two "important" American painters still working in France.

"Twenty years ago," he says, "one-third of the American artists who counted spent at least a part of their time in Paris. Now the school has gone home. It wasn't the depression that did it, either, but a growing consciousness among the artists that they didn't need to go to Paris to paint."

As a symptom of the development of a strong, healthy native art which can be of the highest value to America's cultural life, this observation is uncommonly interesting.

JAPAN'S COURSE IN CHINA

It has been the custom in this country for some time to hold up pious hands in horror over the things Japan has been doing to China. But Nathaniel Peffer, in a recent issue of the New Republic, points out that as a nation we have slight reason to be shocked about it all.

Ever since the war, as he points out, China has been struggling to regain independence of foreign domination. She has tried to clear her soil of foreign troops, to get equal representation in the foreign-concession ports, to abolish the rights of extra-territoriality. We, along with European nations, refused to give her these things—on the ground that China was in turmoil and had no unified government.

By so doing, as Mr. Peffer points out, we provided Japan with a perfect excuse for aggression in Manchuria, Jehol and elsewhere. "When we enunciated the principle that disorder in a weak country justifies a strong one in invading it," he remarks, "we laid the foundations for Japan's defense."

EDITORIAL NOTES

The fact that fewer laws were enacted by the state legislatures recently in session is regarded by many as a favorable indication. But since the number of bills introduced was considerably greater than in 1931, the various assemblies, rather than the individuals, are entitled to whatever encomiums may accrue.

Possibly after the present task is completed, John D. Rockefeller, who is at present effecting the restoration, at Versailles, of Marie Antoinette's hamlet, can be persuaded to cross the channel and see what can be done about the one Mr. Shakespeare wrote.

Wheeler and Woolsey, "Diplomaniacs," Show at Yucca; Give Some Beauty Hints

"What are our beauty secrets?" Wheeler and Woolsey stopped chasing each other around the RKO-Radio lot and fell into thought.

The stars will be shown in "Diplomaniacs" at the Yucca beginning today.

Fortunately, it was not deep thought, so the star comedians were not so severely shaken by their fall. "Mud baths are wonderful," said Wheeler. He scooped some choice terra firma from the wet lawn and patting it tenderly into the Woolsey cheek.

"Yes, wonderful," agreed Woolsey. "But for the hair, I always recommend a gravel massage." He worked a little of the fine rock from the walk into Wheeler's curly topknot. "You are too thoughtful," Wheeler cried in a voice filled, not wholly with gratitude. "Let me give you a demonstration of my setting up exercises—getting a grueling toehold on Robert."

And the chase started anew. "Lots of rest and refusing to let little things annoy me keep my eyes bright," Woolsey gasped, uppeering Bert.

"There's nothing so good to keep cold cream cold as contented ice," Wheeler panted, tugging at Woolsey's ears.

"I use a little scented glue to make my lip stick," was Woolsey's next confidence from under his partner's 170 pounds of body.

"Make-up is all a matter of reconciliation," Wheeler flung back. "Tell him I'll stop if he will."

Otherwise they would be still at it instead of finishing "Diplomaniacs," a musical comedy burlesque with the Peace Conference as the back-

Jinrikisha Service Is Being Planned

BROOKLINE, Mass. (UP)—Brookline, Massachusetts' richest town, will have jinrikisha service, if John P. Fleming, former garage man, has his way. He has petitioned the selectmen for permission to start it.

Twenty-five jinrikishas would suffice—at least at the start—he estimates.

Fleming pointed out that "in congested shopping districts the use of these vehicles would greatly reduce parking problems."

Honor Man Refused To Pay for Degree

COLUMBUS, O., (UP)—Declaring it an economic waste, Harry R. Washburne, Akron, a Phi Beta Kappa and honor student at Ohio State University, refused to pay $5 for a diploma.

Washburne, a student in the college of arts and sciences for four years, was scheduled for graduation with honors June 12.

"College degrees and graduation exercises are a lot of sentimental rot," he said. "I cannot see that the world has much to offer a college graduate except confusion, chaos and no job."

Pilot Gave Family Warning of a Fire

BAKERSFIELD, Cal. (UP)—Mr. and Mrs. John Bunn, of Bakersfield, were alive today because an unidentified Pacific Air Transport mail pilot dove his airplane at their house.

The pilot, flying high over Bakersfield, saw the Bunn home ablaze beneath him. He dived his airplane, the motor drumming an alarm. He circled above the house until the noise of the engine awoke neighbors, who ran into the house and dragged the Bunn to safety.

Then the pilot resumed his course.

SLUMP IN STUNT INDUSTRY

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UP)—The depression also has injured the stunt industry. Hugh Thomason, a Kentucky parachute jumper, made a "death defying" leap of 3,000 feet from an airplane and plunged 2,000 feet before opening his chute.

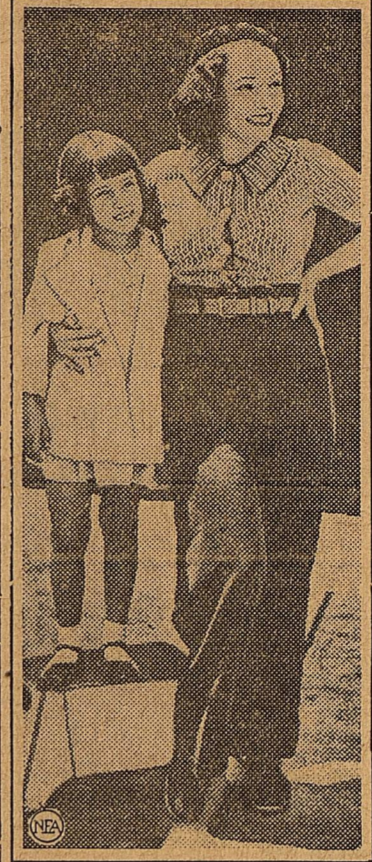

Strong men gasped and women swooned, but the collection that he took afterward netted him not more than $5.

COWS SELL AT $35

LUPE VELEZ'S adopted daughter, Conchita Velez, is growing up to be a real young lady, judging from this picture of the two which was taken in Hollywood the other day. Conchita, now five years old, is the child of Lupe's sister, Mrs. Mercedes Del Valle, and was legally adopted by the Mexican movie star last year.

Eldon Auker Holds An Envious Record

BEAUMONT, (UP)—Eldon Auker, pitcher for the Beaumont club in the Texas baseball league, carried an enviable sports record with him from the Kansas Aggies onto the professional diamond.

The 23-year-old, six-foot-two-inch hurler who weighs 197 pounds received honorable mention for Garland Rice's all-American eleven in 1931, the year he was honorary captain of the all-Big Six football team.

He piloted the Aggie basketball team after the close of the grid season that year and was named captain of the all-conference five. He pitched last year for Decatur of the Three-I league and Moline of the Mississippi valley circuit.

ITALIANS IN DIRECTORY

CHICAGO (UP)—More than 3,000 Chicago business and professional men of Italian extraction are listed in a new directory published by Countess Lisa Cipriani. The directory is the fifth issued by the countess since 1926 to show the part Italians are playing in the city's economic and financial life. Brief biographical sketches of representative leaders such as Joshua D. Esposito, consulting engineer for the Union Station and Daily News Building; Joseph Soravia, Sears-Robuck executive, and Assistant U. S. District Attorney Lawrence Marino are included.

Feeding the Family Along 4-H Pantry Way Saves Money and Time: Demonstration Based on Food Needed to Keep One Healthy

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following is the last of a series of articles on the amount of food needed for a family of five for one year. The articles have included green and starchy vegetables, fruit, protein, grains, sweets and fats.

Foods not classed under the above headings should be classed as miscellaneous. They usually consist of combinations of meats and vegetables (soups) or meat and fruit (mince meat). They include also brown bread, plum pudding, sandwich spread, pickles and relishes. The latter two are not necessary but are desirable to give spice and flavor to other foods.

Miscellaneous foods required include 5 pints of soup, 5 pints gumbo, 10 pints brown bread, 10 pounds pop corn, 8 pints mince meat, 10 pints sandwich spread, 5 pints saucers for meats, 30 quart pickles and 20 pints relishes.

Baby's food consisting of vegetable puree or tomato juices put up in No. 1 cans or half pint jars is often prepared for very young children. Purees may be made from string beans, English peas, asparagus, tomatoes and carrots rubbed through a sieve and strained.

FEEDING THE FAMILY THE 4-H PANTRY WAY

The 4-H pantry demonstration is based on the food required to keep a person nourished and healthy. The least amounts needed daily by an individual to furnish vitamins and minerals are:

Vegetables: Three servings (one leafy or green in color, 1 starchy, 1 other).
Fruits: Two servings, with tomatoes or citrus fruit at least 3 times per week.

Milk: One pint for each adult, 1 1/2 pints to one quart for each child.
Butter: At least one tablespoon, preferably more.

Protein: Two servings of meat or eggs or cheese or nuts or dried peas or beans.

Grains: At least one serving of a whole grain.

Fats, sweets and other grain (four and cereals) in addition to above.

Servings in this case means at least one half cup of all foods except butter and milk.

CLASSIFICATION OF FOOD ON SHELVES SAVES TIME

Meal planning and meal preparation have been made easier for many demonstrators by grouping on

Youthful Dancers

Midland Children Present Numbers on Wellington Program

Mrs. L. D. Bayless returned Friday afternoon with her children, Doris June and Frances, from Wellington where Doris June, assisted by Frances and Joe Beane, made two appearances at the Ritz theatre.

Doris June, known as The Child Wonder, was slated as a special attraction to open a series of home talent productions under the direction of John Bonner, manager of the theatre.

She presented a program of difficult songs and readings, and a routine of dances with the poise and personality of an adult professional.

According to press notices taken from a Wellington newspaper, her specialty tap numbers, Oriental dances and acrobatic numbers were superb. Her performances were given in special costumes and gorgeous light effects.

As far as can be ascertained, Doris

TODAY'S RECIPE

Prune Salad

1-8 head firm white cabbage
1 apple
nutmeats
8 large prunes, uncooked
cream cheese
salad dressing

Shred the cabbage, dice the apple, chop the nut meats, and with salad dressing. Soak prunes 1 hour ahead of time; dry, pit, and stuff them with cream cheese. Arrange the salad in a bowl and garnish with stuffed prunes.

Leaves from celery stalks should be saved for soup. Put them in heavy paper bag, place them in warming oven to get thorough dry. Crumble and store away a jar. This makes delicious seasoning for gravies, French dressing, well as soup.

A MESSAGE TO ALL FORD WORKERS

You and I together are credited with having created "mass production." We use it to make more things in less time at lower cost. By it the people have more and better goods at cheaper prices. Workmen earn higher wages with less strain—not less work. The level of American family comfort has been visibly elevated.

Industry never harms a country; harm comes from elsewhere. But Industry bears the brunt of it. After the slump came, we increased our $6 minimum wage to $7 a day, which continued for 22 months. Today our wage rate is the highest in our line. But Industry still suffers for something she did not cause. Between making and using things, something outside Industry has stepped in to prevent the maker from making and the user from using.

We pioneered the 8-hour day, the 5-day week, a minimum wage that has always exceeded the market rate. Relations between employees and the Company have always stood on a just and human basis. We are as interested in social progress, and possess as sensitive a social conscience as any reformer whose theories have never met the test of a pay-roll. We pay for doing what we think is right. And we achieved these industrial deencies not by regulation or compulsion, but by being free of financial control and "gentlemen's agreements"—free to do what we saw was right and necessary.

We have no fears of what is ahead. We can make good motor cars under any just system. I think industry will spread out. Big factories, crowded industrial centers, will dissolve. Instead we shall have workshops in village and country. Nearness to the land will prevent the worst shocks of economic change. The benefits of "mass production" can be retained without the evils of massed industrial crowding. That is the next step.

You and I are able to take this next step because of what we learned in taking the present one.

June 23, 1933

Henry Ford

Texas Shop Talk From in the Air

By MARLEN PEW
Editor & Publisher Staff

Contact! Four thousand miles, in 10 hours of flying, leaves this department air-minded, if not actually dizzy. This week's Clouds of Young gives youth, restores courage to a faint heart, scatters petty griefs and energizes the soul. Also it makes the patriotic nerve tingle. As the early summer breeze banners unfold in majestic, almost unreal beauty, on the flight from New York to the Gulf of Mexico, one gains a new and better concept of the great American institutions. In the air view trees do not conceal the forests and perverse man is wiped out of the picture, leaving only the spectacle of his works upon the land.

We run along the ground and leap 1000 feet into the air. Below lies Babylon, fringed by the grey-blue waters of the Hudson. New York Bay, Long Island sound. We dash across the Pennsylvania line and while sailing the Allegheny peaks encounter a sudden storm—forked lightning bolts and rain. Clouds closing in which slants fiercely against the body of our frail craft, swift changing air currents which flap us about like a leaf in a September breeze. As a young reporter I write emerge through a hole in the sky into the calm of a summer evening, sailing on an even keel westward to Lake Erie.

A cloud of smoke high in the air announces Cleveland. I look proudly down on my native city, now expanding from the lake shore like a giant spider web. Cleveland has brought miraculous changes in the contour of the Forest City, so-called of its elms, now perhaps for its massed skyscrapers and factory stacks. As a young reporter I write stories about the smoke nuisance, but today in this plane I am grateful for the smell of smoke which pierces the air, whizzing machines, payroll and happiness after a long and dismal pause.

Akron, also scene of early journalistic endeavors, rises from the flying surface to meet our ship. It is so smoky, thick, heavy, that its growth is astonishing. I look for the house in which I once boarded, while working for $3 per week as advertising solicitor, newspaper peddler, and mail carrier in the old Beacon. The retail district has gobbled up my former residence. Columbus suddenly bolts up, with miller domes, twisty river, and magnificent reaches of metropolis in development. I have two views of Cincinnati, one by day and another gorgeous night view—Queen City wearing two strings of sparkling diamonds about her neck, where bridges cross the Ohio, and many millions of electric sparkles on her hillsides and on the 30-mile river in of her skirt. Memories! This trip was one of my best reporter assignments.

Rushing through space at from 100 to 140 miles per hour, sometimes at altitudes of 10,000 feet, but usually only 3,000 feet, we glide over any cities. All seem like old friends. I want to sail down and grab some old newspapers and magazines by the hand and talk shop. Our plane makes but few stops, for we are on a time schedule. Louisville comes up on the right. As we near the tops, approaching the city airport, one sees parks of beautiful homes, set in the rich green velvet of the suburbs, with an occasional stately, ancient frame house, scene of a faded Kentucky hospitality. The countryside is an agricultural mosaic in designs which would dazzle a grandmother who made silk quilts out of old neckties, dress cuttings and store remnants. Even at high altitudes one can pick out the tobacco fields, planted with the symmetry of high art. Nashville, Memphis, Little Rock, rise in order in our path, their tall, slender towers waving friendly hands, but we glide on.

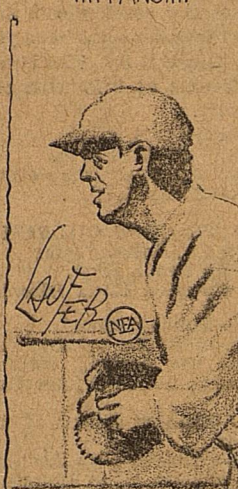

One is struck by the constantly expanding size of agricultural domains. Little, close-packed farms in the densely populated East spread to 100- to 500-acre farms in the mid-west, but now come vast plantations, ranches and ranges—one sees buildings to each one thousand or more acres of land. In Texas I learn a ranch of a million acres—included, not the proprietor or the great estate, and find him to be not iron, but a plain, democratic fellow who thinks as I do that 95 per cent of our people have had a rotten deal at the hands of the dominating 5 per cent. The air view makes me conscious of the fact that more than 40 per cent of our people live on farms or in rural communities.

I marvel anew at the exactitude of the Roosevelt plan to regulate the business of this broad sea of farming activity, limiting crops to create higher price level. From the air I call it an impossible task. Secretary Wallace seems to have his feet on the ground.

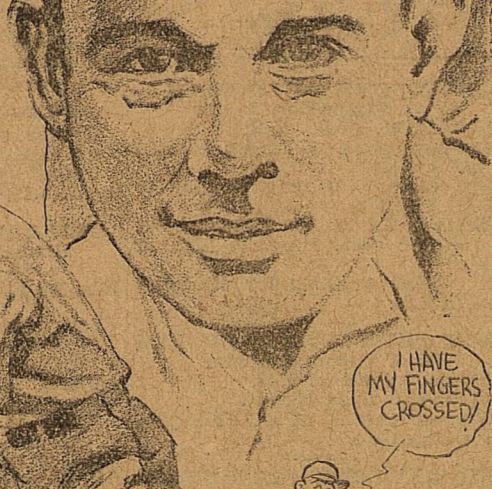

Texarkana just ahead and—Texas! The sun beats on the dry earth, but along the river beds crops and big green plants are waving and there is a refreshing element in the air which makes the midsummer heat less oppressive than on a New York pavement with the thermometer down to 20 points. Two hours more and Dallas rears her stately head. Just beyond lies Fort Worth. Twins of the Texas prairie, with civic rivalry ways at boiling point, but it is a reckless outsider who speaks ill of her sister in the presence of the other. We have but a moment on our schedule and wing on to Houston, this week festive on account of the 54th annual assembly of the Texas Press association, attracting some 500 members from all parts of an Houston's well-known republic. Tomorrow we sail again to Galveston, out over the waters of the gulf we see more clearly the staunch seagulls protecting this gay island retreat, treasured by the Texans. Along the peninsula there are a million head of steers grazing, oil well derricks are thick as fence pickets, endless rice fields shimmer in the sun and a coastal ship canal runs for hundreds of miles through Port Arthur and on to Beaumont. The Gulf is greenish down, frescoed by blowing clouds. The earth is a soft green blanket, laid down smoothly by men and beasts to lay their red bodies upon, while soft cool trade winds sweep in at intervals from the gulf to bathe the fevered one. Our plane taxis in a cloud just across the Beaumont airport. A couple of reporter friends in the cockpit on the field say hello. He is lugging a dripping package six bottles of homebrew in crackles. Here's how, Texas! We shall see your rich Rio Grande valley in time, nor your magic Panhandle, exotic El Paso or legendary San Antonio. In a couple of days we TULSA, Okla. (UP)—Emulating the Mahatma Gandhi in passive resistance, R. V. Kennedy of Tulsa sacrificed his own comfort in the muddy waters of the Arkansas river for a principle—and $5—until police pulled him out.

Kennedy formerly owned a house on the river bank, and a boat. He called on the purchaser to collect a $5 payment and was denied his money. He announced he would sit in the leaky boat until he was paid. The boat filled and sank, but Kennedy clung to it. He was still there several hours later when police intervened.

DURANT, Okla. (UP)—An original land grant, signed by the governor of Maryland province more than 200 years ago, is one of the most prized possessions of Mrs. Marlon Rushing, city clerk. The document, written on sheepskin, is dated 1729, signed by Benedict Leonard Calvert, as governor, and conveys title to 370 acres of land near Havre de Grace, Maryland. It was in effect a deed from the King of England to John Webster, a merchant ancestor of Mrs. Rushing. Some 170 acres of the original

Nancy Carroll Adores Lowe, a Black Sheep in Picture "I Love That Man"

Edmund Lowe brings the world's slickest confidence man to life on the screen with a superb characterization of the man Nancy Carroll adores in Charles R. Rogers' latest Paramount picture, "I Love That Man," which opened at the Ritz theatre with a preview last night and is running today and Monday.

He's crafty enough to sell words to a dictionary, tea to a bootlegger—and does. He pursues elusive dollars and dimes—and gets both. Yet the woman sticks to the side of the smoothest con-man who ever looted the pockets of the "suck American."

The screen's best wise-cracker, Lowe never had a better opportunity to put his tongue in his cheek than he has in this drama of a woman's devotion to a black sheep. Nor has he ever acquitted himself better. Nancy Carroll is the devoted woman who takes the title "wife" at the end through sheer perseverance. Robert Armstrong and Warren Hymer are better than ever in roles well calculated to show off their "dumb" proclivities.

Lowe starts off his famous and shall fly home again, over the same route, making the 2,000 miles in 14 or 15 hours, with time out for sleep in hotel beds.

Texas is emerging from the great slump! She wasn't hit as hard as many another state, though the price levels for oil, cotton, beef, rice, minerals, fruits and other state products have been devastatingly low. However, Texans have not been lined up at soup kitchens nor have they wanted for a place to lay their heads. I find optimism in the air, here. People seem to think the New Deal will work. Farmers will plow in surplus cotton already planted, if Uncle Sam says the word, and do what is necessary to restrict production and gain inflated prices. I have even heard it said the 5 per cent of independent oil men who have long stood against cooperation or conservation of any sort may be induced by day's end to make oil price recovery possible. Crude sells at 15 cents a barrel today—which makes the Eastern automobilist weep, especially when he considers that a barrel of crude refines into a barrel and a half of "gas," worth 18 cents a gallon in my town.

All along the line of travel our plane has been supplied with newspapers, fresh from the press. Great newspapers these days! Realistic, interpretative, carrying news worth reading, not so much tittle-tattle and nonsense as heretofore. These newspapers breathe optimism. I find in them no element of political partisanship which inhibits the frank recital of the industrial recovery movement. Editorial comment indicates that the solid wall of newspaper support which greeted the new president on March 4 remains unbroken.

  - Modern Aer-Stream Styling
  - The Comfort, Silence and Safety of Fisher Bodies
  - Unequalled Gas, Oil and Upkeep Economy
- If you live in certain big cities, you've probably noticed the smarter appearance and snappier action of the police car patrol force. If you happen to be associated with some of America's leading business houses, you've undoubtedly heard talk about big economies in fleet costs. The same car is responsible in both cases! It's the new Chevrolet Standard Six—the only car ever built that successfully combines up-to-the-minute appearance, genuine luxury, six-cylinder performance and record-setting economy at prices as low as $445.
- Talk about smartness—here's the last word in really eye-stopping lines. Look at that big two-door sedan illustrated above. Those aer-stream lines, deep-skirted fenders and beaver-tail back are to be found in no other
- lowest-priced car. Talk about luxury—that same model has No Draft Ventilation, safety plate glass windshield, real mohair upholstery, an adjustable sun visor, and a movable driver's seat. And again, it is Chevrolet alone who offers them at that price. When it comes to economy and dependability—well, over the months and miles you'll spend less for gas and oil, and less for servicing than you'll spend with any other car. And remember, all these great features are wrapped up in the lowest-priced five-passenger six-cylinder two-door sedan you can buy. It doesn't cost much to join the swing to Chevrolet. ### ICERS, HOKUS TEAMS WINNERS FRIDAY NIGHT

By JESS RODGERS

In Friday night's encounters in the soft ball league, the Icers managed to defeat the Magnolia in the initial encounter by a score of 9 to 6 and the Hokus slugged out a 14-6 victory over the Lindy's.

In the first game, Magnolia took a one-run lead in the second inning but it lasted only until the Howard men came up for their bat in the third. The Icers tied the score in this frame, went ahead in the fourth and were never headed.

Bernie Bizzell and Ronald Morgan, both of the losers, were the heavy hitters of the game with three for three and two for three respectively.

The Lindy's were leading the Hokus Pokus five to four at the end of the fifth frame, but the Connors-Northingtonmen came up in the sixth and before they could be retired 13 men had faced Lindy's pitcher. Eight runs were scored in this one inning, including a home run by Levellen. The winners picked up two more in the seventh, while the losers could manage but one.

Doc Will Ram-rod Baseball Dances

Dr. David M. Ellis is a resourceful guy, as you've probably noticed. When the shekels failed to clink fast enough into the till—due, some say, to a rather less than mediocre showing of his Indian baseball club—the doc scratched his thimbling superstructure and uprooted a thought.

"If the ball club management could give regular dances to the customers who leave the ball ground disappointed we might be able to take in enough jack to buy bats—and thereby fan the rarified West Texas atmosphere a while longer," he thought, or something to that effect.

As a result, a contract has been signed whereby the doc and his men will stage regular Tuesday night dances on the Thomas concrete tennis court, admission to be 49 cents and proceeds, in entirety, to go to the ball club. The first dance is this week. Franch and his orchestra will play.

"The orchestra hits its rhythm better than the club hits the ball," the doc said, which establishes the ball management impresario as being honest, to say the least.

SAND BELT HERE, KAT KLAW GOES TO HOBBS MATCH

Lamesa comes to Midland for a match on the Sand Belt Golf Association schedule this afternoon. The clubs will tee off at 1:30.

"The Midland ladder is made up in order of C. L. Jackson, Century Kidd, Frank Day, Henry Shaw, E. M. Miller, Earl Moran, De Lo Douglas and Don Sivals.

KAT KLAW GOES TO HOBBS TODAY

Definite assurance was not had late Saturday as to the personnel of the Midland Kat Klaw golf team due to play at Hobbs this afternoon. Ladder positions are: Joe D. Chambers, Harry Adams, Red Knight, Felix Stonelocker, Bill Bailey, Bill Simpson, M. D. Johnson and James P. Harrison.

More than likely Joe Chambers will play number eight position for the Sand Belt, as Earl Moran may be out of the city. Simpson and Johnson cannot make the trip to Hobbs. W. E. Collier and "Avogadro" Nicholson likely will be recruited for the Kat Klaw group.

Members of the Kat Klaw team have been asked to meet at the Schreiber coffee shop this morning about 9 o'clock to make definite arrangements for the trip.

Midland, with 84 points, is in third place in the Kat Klaw, but has played one less game than two clubs higher on the ladder.

Results of matches with Big Spring have been discontinued for all clubs, inasmuch as Big Spring dropped out of the B class association.

The standings:

Hobbs	116
Lamesa	92
Seminole	90
Midland	84
Stanton	58

STEWARDS TO MEET

The regular monthly meeting of the board of stewards will be held at the First Methodist church at 8 o'clock Monday evening.

The house sparrow belongs to the family of weaver birds.

INDIANS TO TRY AGAIN TODAY TO BREAK BAD JINX

The local baseball club, under the management of "Doc" Ellis, will journey to Big Lake today and try once more to break a losing streak that has extended to four straight.

The locals will not have any cinch despite the fact that the Reagan county players have won only one game this season. Cook, Warrel, Brown, Stevens and Estes will be missing in the Indian line-up this afternoon for various reasons. In their place Ellis will take Timmons and Huff for pitchers and Neal as an infielder.

Ellis has announced that James White, an insurance salesman in the local village, will be out for practice next week, and that he will make an effort to stop the biggest nole on the Indian club. To be specific, White is supposed to be a catcher.

Plays Last Home Game of Season

Notice has been received that Wayne "Red" Hill, hard-hitting outfielder for the Indians, will be playing his last game here for the locals Sunday, as he is leaving Monday for Pecos. Hill has been made a representative for the Business Men's Insurance company of Kansas City, Mo., and will conduct a business hereafter in the Reeves county capital. He will play with Midland when the Indians journey to Pecos for a July 3 game.

Hill's son, of Mrs. T. L. Beauchamp of 701 South Colorado.

Means of Using Toyah Lake Told

PECOS—A vision of a permanent recreational spot and tourist attraction, transformed to the touch of a government work camp and operated on a self-maintaining business by the state park board, was given to directors of the chamber of commerce in a talk by A. H. Dunlap, member of the state board of water engineers at a meeting last week.

Dunlap's idea is that through the proper preliminary steps, Pecos would be able to secure a government work camp and that the vast amount of water in Toyah lake be put to recreational use.

Dunlap sketched the history of Texas allotment of work camps. Plans for these camps were drawn by his department. The state park board has already secured a large number of these camps, including two near Fort Davis.

His idea is that through use of this labor permanent park sites exploiting the recreational facilities of this country and preserving the history and life can be created, one just near Pecos, but near Fort Stockton, Balmorhea and elsewhere.

Dunlap gave some idea of the plan that is in mind for Balmorhea in the Matamoros valley. A work camp is secured there. The idea is to establish a park just east of the Springs. A winding road would be built to the top of one of the foothills where there would be a vantage tower. A magnificent view would there be afforded.

Cotton Meet

He would be entitled to any sum over six cents a pound that cotton was sold for at any time he decided it ought to be sold. There will be some regulations later telling him just how to go about that.

Anyway, he would receive the cotton at six cents and it is selling in the markets today for from eight to nine cents. The cotton may be 1.299 miles away but it is John's for the time he holds the cotton.

In either case, before John gets the money, a representative of the committee will be around to see that he has played up the three acres.

He may plant something else on that part of his patch so long as it is eaten on the farm—or he may let it lie idle.

He will not be permitted to spend the money he took in to put lots of extra fertilizer on the rest of the patch but must go right on with his ordinary plans for other seven acres picking it and selling it as he desires.

WATER IS A BARREL

Water still sells for more than oil in some of the Permian basin fields. Water from Alpine is the favorite non-intoxicating beverage in the oil fields and it sells at $1 per barrel. About 12,000 gallons of water are shipped daily from Alpine into the various oil areas. Alpine has been furnishing drinking water to oil field patrons for nine years.

Half of the horsepower of Major Campbell's speed car was used to combat wind friction in his run on the sands of Daytona Beach.

County Library, Health Station Have New Books

New books on the 14-day shelves of the county library are:

"Songs of the Soil" by Frank L. Stanton. (The Sweet Singer of the South.) A group of collected poems.

"The World's Best Poems," edited by Mark Van Doren and Garibaldi M. Lepolaita. (The best poetry of Japan and China, ancient Greece and Rome, India, Spain, Italy, Persia, Arabia, France, Germany, England, Ireland and America) are combined in this book.

"Collected Poems of Elinor Wylie," one of the forty notable American books of 1932.

"Indian Tales," by Rudyard Kipling, which contains 36 stories of India.

"How to Enjoy Music," by Ethel R. Peyser. "A primer of music appreciation which provides for the listener untrained in music a simple analysis of the various forms of composition, descriptions of instruments, glossary, and reading list."

New books at the county health station:

"Home Care of the Infant and Child," by Tisdall. "An up-to-date manual of information on the feeding, care and health of a child from birth to five or six years of age with a discussion of the behavior problems of children. It is simply presented, well illustrated and conveniently arranged."

"Aspects of Child Conduct," by Richards. "Lectures delivered by Dr. Richards before the Baltimore branch of the child study association of America in 1929. They present a survey of modern methods of treating maladjustments of children to home, school, and environment."

"Preparation for Marriage," by K. M. Walker; introduction by Logan Clendenning, M. D. "An unusually competent and socially-minded group of physicians, scientists, and sociologists served with Dr. Walker on a commission of the British hygiene council to prepare the report out of which this book has evolved. It stresses, more than most other books on the subject, the psychological and spiritual elements connected with marriage but does not neglect the physical."

Pecos Water Wells Contain Soft Water

PECOS—The water in the wells south of Pecos which the city is developing as a possible water source is more than three times as soft as water at Midland, according to Mayor B. A. Toliver in a talk about it at the Rotary club Thursday.

Mayor Toliver said that the opinion of experts from the federal and state departments indicated the water was satisfactory both as to quantity and quality.

He quoted W. N. White, a senior ranking water engineer in the federal service as saying that the water in the section on which the city's wells are drilled was sufficient to yield 300,000 gallons a day per square mile for 14 years without a drop of replenishment. The area covers many square miles and as we know, it rains some every year.

Numerous tests by different laboratories have indicated the water is superior to most city water supplies in Texas, Toliver asserted. On a comparative basis he said that the present city water had 1460 parts of hardness per million parts of water; whereas the new water has only 256. Comparatively, Midland water has 920 parts of hardness to a million parts of water.

Gist to Open Boys' Summer Camp Soon

ODESSA—A summer camp for boys, opening July 10 and running for eight weeks, is to be conducted on the Gist ranch four miles north of Odessa by Marcus Gist, according to information contained in folders sent out this week.

The camp will make headquarters at the Gist estate, but will include trips covering all of this section and parts of New Mexico.

The camp, which is the first to be opened in this section, is to be run on the plan of a cowboy camp, with the boys staying out in the open most of the time. The boys will be taught riding, roping, and most of the cowboy lore, and will be taken during the eight weeks to most of the points of interest in this section.

August 5th and 6th the boys will join in the annual celebration of Odessa's birthday, which includes rodeo contests, and rabbit roping.

This camp will be under the personal supervision of Marcus Gist, manager of the Gist company here. He is 35 years of age and has spent most of his life on a ranch, and is thoroughly capable of teaching boys the ways of the range. Gist will be assisted by two capable cowboys, who are able to teach the boys all of the cowboy lore, and tricks and furnish them with plenty of entertainment. The camp will be visited by many other friends among the ranchmen who will be glad to render valuable assistance to the project.

Forty-five million persons crossed the Canadian boundary in 1932.

Men Die, Woman Survives Crash

FRANKFORT, Mich., June 24 (UP)—Mrs. Margaret Rennie, 27, mother of three children, was rescued by a lake ferry after clinging for 33 hours to a wrecked plane in which her husband, Charles Rennie Jr., James Gillette, pilot and owner of the plane, and Mechanic Peter Keller were drowned.

Gillette, one of the survivors, attempted a flight to Milwaukee, entered a fog and crashed in the lake.

Second Excursion Train to Chicago

ABILENE—West Texans who were unable to take advantage of the low excursion rate to Chicago on the special train sponsored June 13th by G. B. Sandefer, manager of the Simmons University Cowboy band, will have another opportunity to visit the Century of Progress economic section.

The section will leave West Texas Sunday morning, July 2nd, as part of the Sunshine Special. Four days and nights will be spent in Chicago. The top fare from Abilene will be $36.50, including train fare and low Pullman berth to and from Chicago and the four nights there.

Decision to sponsor this section was reached by Sandefer as a result of requests received from persons throughout West Texas that he do so to enable them to obtain the low railway fares available only to large parties and the success which attended the June excursion from West Texas to the World's Fair.

The West Texas party consisted of 177, comprising one section of the special train which carried 474 Texans to the exposition. The facilities and accommodations, which consisted of standard Pullman coaches and hot shower baths available on the train throughout the week, received high praise from members of the party. Meals were reasonable in cost and numerous members of the party made the entire trip at a cost of less than $50.

Proportionately low rates are available at all points on the T. & P. as well as from Abilene. Reservations can be made only through Sandefer at Abilene or Mrs. Paul Vickers of Midland, wife of the chamber of commerce manager there and who made the June trip to Chicago. She has agreed, as an accommodation to persons living west of Abilene, to act as agent and accept reservations for the section.

Methodist Church at Pecos Gets Minister

PECOS—Rev. C. R. Wade, newly elected pastor of the Pecos Methodist church, now pastor at Colorado Springs, Colo., was in Pecos Tuesday on a business trip. He is looking over the town and making arrangements to establish his residence here on July 1 date on which he assumes duties of the local pastorate. Reverend Wade, a big man physically speaking, has a nice personality and should be very successful in his new post.

Loving County Has a Huge Document Filed

Loving County and District Clerk John M. Green received for filing this week the largest document so far for this county. In fact, it is perhaps one of the largest ever filed for record in any county in the state and involves the sum of eight million dollars.

The deeds of trust are given by the Coston Oil corporation to a Deeds Trust Company, to the Manufacturers Trust company and the Commercial National Bank & Trust company of New York City.

The Coston Oil corporation has lately been reorganized and in the future will work under a Maine charter.

It is presumed that the company will in the near future begin development of its leases now held in this county.

The big document embraces approximately 158,000 words and the filing fees will be quite a sum.

Experts rank the 20 varieties of headaches as next to the common cold in causing the greatest loss in business efficiency.

Late News

FT. WORTH, June 24, (UP)—Wheat prices on the local grain market have reached the highest levels in more than two years, a survey today showed. Yesterday's top of 91 cents per bushel for special Denver billing was the highest reached since the trend started upward.

The highest in 1932 was 62 1-2 cents and the 1931 top was 80 cents.

WASHINGTON, June 24, (UP)—Railroad freight loadings gained for the seventh consecutive week, increasing 23,385 over the previous week and 69,533 over the corresponding week ending June 17 last year.

WASHINGTON, June 24, (UP)—Senator Connally said today he anticipates an announcement Monday that Texas Banking Commissioner Shaw will be the state representative of the federal home loan bank board. He said the Texas delegation is unanimous for Shaw.

AUSTIN, June 24, (UP)—Roeser & Pendleton, Inc., of Fort Worth, J. K. Wadley of Arkansas and J. P. Evans of Louisiana were plaintiffs in a suit filed in district court today to cancel a drilling permit issued to J. J. Watson for a well on the Harmony Grove school tract in Gregg county. The permit, it is charged, would endanger adjoining properties.

LAKEHURST, June 24, (UP)—The dirigible "Macon" was anchored today at the Akron's old berth here.

AUSTIN, June 24, (UP)—The state filed suit today against 20 heirs of the late William A. Perry for recovery of mineral rights on 27 acres of the Perry survey, Rusk county, claiming that undrilled land was losing oil and gas to nearby wells, thereby depriving the state school fund of royalty it was to be paid if the land was drilled.
