Senate Vacates Seat To Which Frank L. Smith Elected

Vote of 61 to 23 Made Against Man Chosen by Illinois

Credentials Declared To Be Tainted with "Fraud and Corruption"; Vote Is Against Allowing Oath.

CONTRIBUTION TO FUND FOR CAMPAIGN

Only Staunchest of Republican Old Guard Sticks With Smith; Ready to Consider Appointee.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—The Senate late today declared vacant the seat to which the people of Illinois elected Frank L. Smith.

By a vote of 61 to 23—more than two-thirds majority—his credentials were declared to be tainted with "fraud and corruption" and it was decreed that he was not entitled to a seat.

Before finally barring his doors against the former chairman of the Illinois commerce commission on account of contributions to and expenditures in his primary campaign in 1926, the senate voted, 56 to 27, against giving him the oath of office.

Established Precedent. This was the second time this season that the oath had been denied and by excluding Smith without first permitting him to take the oath, the Senate established a precedent in a case unique in its more than a century of history.

Only the staunchest members of the republican bloc stuck to Smith's cause to the finish. They joined by two democrats, one from the South, the fiery Bleasdale.

One Killed, Many Hurt In Tornado

Damage Near Million Is Wrought By Storm Hitting Southern Ohio; 16 Treated at Hospitals.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Sweeping out of overcast skies, a line squall, bearing the proportions of a tornado cut a path through Southern Ohio today, leaving one dead and many injured. Property damage was estimated at $800,000.

The storm was the worst experienced in this territory since the tornado of 1917. Damage was heaviest at Cumminsville, a suburb of Cincinnati, where the loss may aggregate $200,000. Homes and schoolhouses at Lindenwald, Ohio, felt the fury of the wind. Two school children were among the injured.

The one fatality occurred at Washington Court House, where A. R. Kruger, salesman of Dayton, O., was crushed to death by a coping that was blown from a building onto his automobile. Damage in this city however, was slight.

Sixteen persons were treated at hospitals here. Scores of others received medical attention for minor hurts. Mrs. Louise Bernhart, 80, was getting breakfast for her two-year-old granddaughter when the storm struck. She was buried under the debris of her home. She was the most seriously injured but the baby escaped unhurt.

REED TRIAL SLOW

Frequent Clashes of Counsel Feature

FORT WORTH, Jan. 19 (AP)—Before a crowded court, trial of the O. P. Reed case entered the final stretches today in criminal district court while opposing counsel engaged in frequent disputes over law questions. Judge George E. Hoey, rebuked attorneys several times while the jury ordered from the court room. Arguments of attorneys were given at a night session.

Even contention arose between high school students, who as witnesses, waited outside the court room for their turn in testifying.

Only Three Jurors Chosen as Ratliff Trial Goes Slowly

Special Venire of 150 Is Rapidly Exhausted and 200 More Summoned for Trial Of Bank Robber.

(By Associated Press) EASTLAND, Jan. 19.—After an all-day session in 51st district court here marked by wrangling over legal interpretations of the terms "fixed opinion" and "reasonable doubt" by attorneys for state and defense, only three jurors had been chosen in the trial of Marshall Ratliff for robbery with firearms in the holdup of the First National Bank of Chicago on December 23.

The venire of 150 called for the case was exhausted shortly after 6 p. m. and Judge G. L. Davenport ordered the sheriff to pick up 200 takersmen, from whom an effort will be made to complete the jury tomorrow.

The jurors selected today are Ed Munn, 38, Olden, pipe line worker, married; J. H. Cheatham, 34, Eastland, gasoline tender, married; J. V. Harbin, 44, Flatwood, farmer, married.

Courtroom Filled. The courtroom was filled to overflowing, with many standing in the corridors at the morning session, but the crowd rapidly thinned out as it became evident that a jury would not be completed today.

When court was adjourned until 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, there were scarcely 50 persons remaining. At the sessions were numbers of women and children. Among the women were Mrs. Rilla Carter, Clifton, mother of Ratliff, and Mrs. R. W. Tompkins, of Brooksmith, Brown county, sister of the defendant. Ratliff appeared in court today.

Sandino Forces Rumored Routed

Marine Corps Flyers, Out To Verify Report Leader Was Killed, Say Army Is Dispersing.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Jan. 19.—Evidence that the forces of the rebel general, Augusto Sandino, are dispersing was brought back from El Chipote, his headquarters, by marine corps flyers today.

Aviators who sought some confirmation of reports that he had been killed found the town and surrounding mountains apparently deserted, while roads leading northward toward Honduras showed signs of recent heavy traffic.

The marine garrison at San Rafael, where Sandino is said to have been buried after he was killed in an aerial attack on El Chipote Saturday, have been instructed to investigate any burials of prominent men since then. Nicaraguans from the department of Nueva Segovia say his wife, a telegraph operator at San Rafael, took his body there for burial, and aviators observed from the air what seemed to be a funeral procession.

Col. Louis Mason Gulick, in command of operations, said the flyers who soared today over El Chipote, where Sandino fled after the marines took his Quail headquarters, Dec. 30, observed considerable activity of vultures in the vicinity, indicating that Sandino's dead remained unburied.

Marine officers believe that some of Sandino's men have gone to Teapancan to join other forces, and that others have fled to Honduras. As the Honduran government has promised not to allow concentration of rebels on Honduran soil, it is believed that Sandino, if still alive, may be attempting to escape down the Coco river, toward the Caribbean sea.

Democrats Show Confidence For Arkansas Leader

Accept Challenge Hurlled By Hefflin Wednesday In Heated Attack On Catholics and Al Smith.

ONLY ONE DISSENTING VOTE AGAINST LEADER

Various Other Senate Leaders Heap Fuel On Coals Of Heated Exchange Taking Place In Senate.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON, Jan. 19.—Accepting the challenge hurled at them yesterday by Hefflin of Alabama, Democrats of the Senate today with but a single dissenting voice expressed their confidence in Robinson of Arkansas, both as their leader and as a member of the special Mexican committee.

The vote was 34 to 1 and came after nearly an hour of debate during which three senators from the South insisted that the conference action should not be interpretative of a decision in any way on the questions involved in the now before Hefflin and Robinson over the Catholic church and Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York.

The Alabama senator who absented himself from the party gathering was alternatively defiant and conciliatory. Immediately after the conference broke up he declared that it was "in bad taste and improper" to bring up a vote of confidence in the party leader in his absence.

Many Cars Still Not Registered

Those Without 1928 Plates Are Subject to Arrest and Fine, According to Highway Dept. Policy.

Despite the fact that long lines of frantic automobilists besieged the tax collector's office until the late hours last night, to get their 1928 license plates before the state officers take the roads today to enforce the law requiring them to be bought by January 20, several thousand cars were apparently not registered.

Officials of the tax collector's office said that about 5000 had been registered up till the office closed last night. This leaves approximately 3500 without the 1928 plates and subject to arrest by the state officers according to a recently announced decision of the highway department.

However, a ray of hope beamed through at the last moment. These tardy motorists may give their cars to a headlights testing station, leave it there and go over to the office of the tax collector and receive their licenses, according to announcement made last night by Justice of the Peace G. R. Scott.

They may do this without arrest for failure to have a license, Mr. Scott said.

Colquitt, who announced formally Wednesday for the United States Senate. On the other hand, the sporadic "boom" for Mr. Moody as vice-president had not abated.

Put Salvadorean Chairman of Pan American Group

Leadership In Most Important Committee Goes To Man Opposed to U. S. Policy In Latin-America.

(By Associated Press) HAVANA, Jan. 19.—Significance was attached in certain sections of the sixth Pan-American conference to the selection today of Gustavo Guerrero, Salvadorean delegate, as chairman of the most important committee of the conference—the committee on international public law.

Senor Guerrero is reputedly antagonistic to the policies of the United States in Latin-America. His name was proposed by Dr. Orestes Ferrera, Cuban ambassador at Washington, and was seconded by Charles E. Hughes, chairman of the United States delegation. He was unanimously raised to the head of the committee at the initial organizational meeting of that body.

James-Brown Scott, president of the American Institute of International Law, Ambassador Fletcher, and Oscar Underwood of Alabama, were the other members of the American delegations present at the election.

Important Committee

The committee over which Senor Guerrero will preside has jurisdiction over the most controversial resolutions which the conference has to pass upon. They are the draft treaties for the codification of American public international law prepared at Rio Janeiro last April, which recommended, among other measures, prohibition of the use of force by one American country in the internal affairs of another.

It is recalled, however, that during the Rio conference, proposals were discussed to extend this prohibition to interference in both internal and external affairs of another country, and views have been freely expressed that the projection of the latter proposals in the debates in the present committee headed by Guerrero are extremely likely.

Bows Near Head of Ornamental Class

Two bow-knot drapes lend an illusion of the peacock to this light green satin gown.

By HENRI BENDEL For NEA Service NEW YORK, Jan. 19. (AP)—The bowknot's vogue is assuming unprecedented importance. Bows play a new part in late winter fashions and promise a popularity for spring that will put them at the head of the ornament class.

The bow as a decorative motif appeared last season in the form of kerchiefs knotted on the shoulder, and uncollared neckties trimmed with a neat of perky bows. New Coats Be-bowed. But now the bow has dozens of manifestations. There's the huge saucy bow of soft velvet that gives substance to a diaphanous lace gown; the delicate lace bow that adds a feminine touch to a broad-cloth tailored costume; their bows, flat or swanky. Blouses tie their collars at the throat and their belt lines with bows. Underwear, too, follows the vogue for bows.

Some of the new coats have bow to collar. An evening coat of certain velvet, gold lined, has a supple collar of gold cloth shirred and tied with bow ends hanging.

Bows are coming in for the proper hat trimming for Palm Beach. Even felt hats are using the bow of self-material more and more as a decorative touch.

In all this profusion of bows, however, one should use some sense of continuity. It would never be good taste to merely perch a bow here or there without some artistic or useful reason for so doing.

The first is a charming two-piece dinner costume of three shades of green satin. The coat over her arm is of the deepest, a rich bluish green or dark tone, lined with the second, intermediate green. The gown itself is of the lightest green with a bluish cast, and has poppins of the dark green here and there.

Here the bow functions perfectly to accent a drooping silhouette that in reality droops little. Glancing first at this gown with its two back bows and flowing cuffs, one's impression is that here is one of the modish peacock silhouettes.

This type of gown, however, with accompanying coat, should never have such a swooping hemline as a lacy evening gown might. By slightly scooping the back hemline and exaggerating this droop by the double bow effect an illusion of the peacock silhouette is attained. The front of this gown is merely V-necked, without any decoration.

In the second look the square neck and the deep square yoke contrast with the circular skirt to give novelty. Two alert little bows of self material accent the squareness of both the neck and the yoke, and the hip-line with its bow tie and graceful ends links up the two ideas of tailored severity and semi-formal grace.

THE WOMAN'S DAY By Allene Sumner

BY ALLENE SUMNER

The stewardess threw a certain lady's husband's ashes out the port-hole, thinking they were cigaret ashes, and with this novel theme Louis Bromfield makes his story called "The Urn," one of the cleverest tales read in ages.

Mrs. Horace Wimpole had grieved in her husband's funeral. She had arranged every detail of it with him before he died. The press notices were very flattering. Mrs. Horace sat there at the funeral on a little black dress in spotless white, a bunch of tuberoses lying across her bare arms. There was a wreath of tuberoses pressed against her gray hair above the nose-glasses. Mrs. Horace lapped up such remarks as "What a beautiful thing of you!"

That funeral was in Paris. It was such a success that Mrs. Horace wanted to have one back home, too. So she put Horace's ashes in a black and purple urn and started home. But in the tangle of sea-luggage she neglected to give the urn the proper care and the stewardess threw the ashes out the port-hole. There was a scene a terrible one. But after a while Mrs. Horace calmed down and gave the stewardess 500 francs to keep still. She screwed the top down on the urn. The ceremony of casting Horace's ashes to the four winds was a great success. Mrs. Horace was all dressed in white with tuberoses on her brow, and the papers and motion picture cameras were quite occupied.

And only the widow and a Norman stewardess ever knew that Horace Wimpole had escaped at last after 22 years.

Mrs. Horace Wimpole should be some almost a classical expression for the type of "managing wife" and one who will utilize even a husband's ashes in a dramatic presentation of herself. I've known many Mrs. Horaces.

Beauty! How and Why

VASELINE MAKES YOUR HANDS SOFT

Aside from all idea of beauty, the hands should be kept soft and pliable if we wish to be comfortable, for there is nothing more annoying than had-conditioned hands.

The treatment for softening the hands should be kept more vigorous than that for merely smoothing them. When the texture of the skin is coarsened and hardened, it is usually the result of a deficiency of the natural oil of the skin.

If the hands are very tired and harsh, so that a considerable quantity of the emollient must be used, choose vaseline for this purpose. It is inexpensive and very effective. Rub it in thoroughly, massaging the hands for several minutes. Coat the inside of a pair of large white canvas gloves with vaseline or cream of your choice, and wear these gloves in privacy whenever possible.

Olive oil, lanoline, cottonseed oil and liquid petrolatum will massaged into the skin are excellent hand softeners.

LET'S ALL QUIT WORK

Now comes a New York society woman, Mrs. Cameron Tiffany, in an article in the current issue of the Red Book and advocates the development of a privileged class in America—a sort of an aristocratic class as it were.

Riches of whatever extent are the result of work, and in most instances of hard work. We don't believe the American people will ever desert the source of their wealth and comforts.

TREATY WITH FRANCE

Secretary Kellogg's remarkable proposal submitted to M. Briand, the French foreign minister, has, of course, the full approval of President Coolidge.

nouncing war as an instrument of national policy." Instead of a Franco-American peace convention, the United States government, through the Secretary of State, suggests a universal treaty of conciliation, arbitration and judicial determination of international disputes.

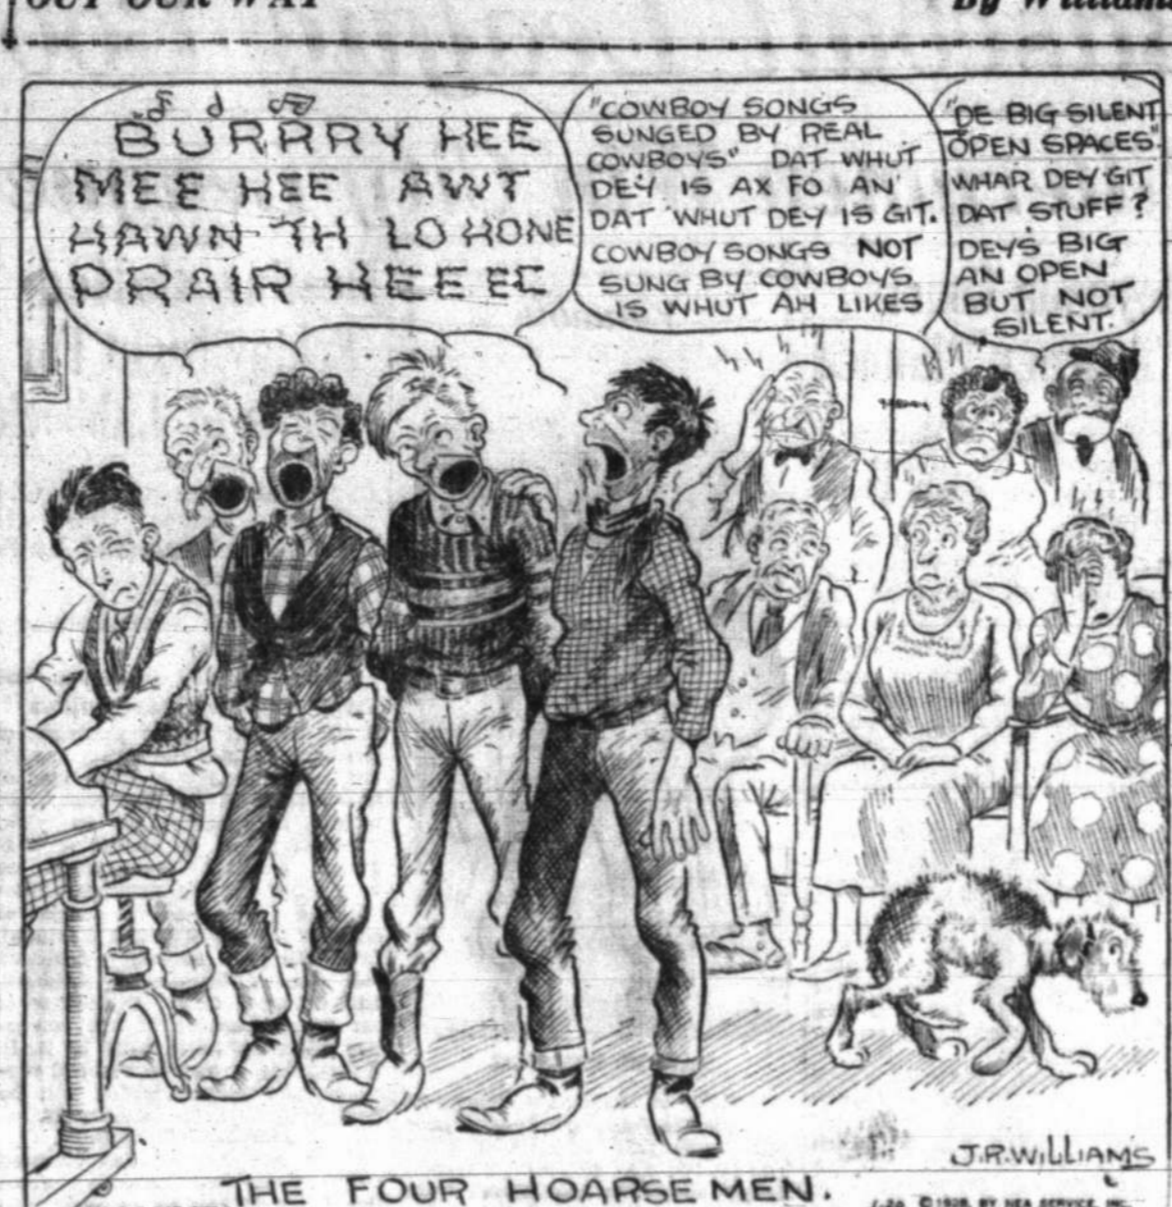

DOOR OF OPPORTUNITY ALWAYS OPEN

Success in life is seldom by accident. Those who attain real wealth and those who climb the ladder to fame get to their eminence by the slow process of preliminary preparation.

HALF BILLION A YEAR

A bill which authorizes the construction of a large number of warships but sets no time limit on the work is not necessarily a big-navy bill.

OUT OUR WAY

THE FOUR HOARSE MEN.

SO THINK WE

Since the designation of the highway has been made out of this city toward the east that we should now get down to business and get ready for the program of hard-surfaced permanent roads.

We think that Lubbock should clean up the downtown alleys. Some of them are a disgrace to any city.

We think that the boys of today should feel highly compensated when they can wear trousers made from dad's ninety-dollar suit of clothes when we fellows who are forty years old and over had to wear 'em from a fifteen-dollar suit.

It is reported that several of the old bachelors of the city are real nervous like because this is leap year. They are afraid that some overzealous maiden may take advantage of the old tradition and pop the question.

We think that four defects in a row is not a very good record for the Tech Matadors. Evidently there is something lacking—somewhere, and the Tech fans are anxious that something be found out as soon as possible and eliminated.

We think the United States needs a uniform law as to punishment of criminals, especially when it gets up to the class that is supposed to be in the capital punishment variety.

We think the doctors who advocate walking for one's health must not have read recent statistics for they would find that pedestrians are the shortest lived class of people on earth.

YOUR HEALTH

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN

Some thousands of years ago it was believed that pestilence of plague was due to a general putrid condition of the air and that putrefaction was brought about by influences wrought by the gods or by the stars.

IT IS REPORTED

That an eastern professor has made the discovery that ninety per cent of the people will tell the truth. We are glad to know that there are that many for honesty.

It is reported that many people get killed in automobile accidents just because they had the right of way.

It is reported that the flivver airplane will give the pedestrian great relief if it will only get up in the air high enough to pass them when they are crossing the streets.

It is reported that the highway department is going to enforce the license plate law after this week. Better get the car lights tested and go over to Hollands and get a plate.

It is reported that plates can usually be purchased at $1.00 per, but the automobile plate costs much more.

It is reported that the reason some people cannot talk is because they have a habit of putting their foot in their mouth every time they try to say something.

It is reported that a couple in Kansas City were married and divorced within a week's time. They both were intoxicated when they married, they claimed, and as soon as they were sober enough to take an honest square and fair look at each other they were ready for the divorce mill. The judge granted the divorce after delivering a strong prohibition lecture.

It is reported now that Dan will be a candidate to succeed himself for the office of governor of Texas. That is the most sensible suggestion that has been made about the Texas governor yet, and we hope the newspaper reports are true this time.

It is reported now that the fellows who said that cotton would go to thirty cents did not say just when, and they are now claiming alibi.

LAUGHS

THE YOUNG MASTER

The son of wealthy but self-made parents was giving an elaborate dinner party to celebrate his coming of age. One of the prospective guests on being asked to attend, first made a cautious inquiry.

"How did you come to go into politics?" "I felt qualified to do so," answered Senator Sorghum. "I heard a statesman was a politician out of a job."—Washington Star.

First Stenog—"I can read the boss' handwriting today. That's funny, I never could before." Second Stenog—"He broke his arm while cranking his car yesterday and he's learning to write with his left hand."—Detroit News.

The Shoemaker—"No sir, we don't sell revolvers. What about a couple yards of clothline?"—Humorist.

Rugians are said to be using eggs for money. In that case, there should be a law against hoarding.—Indianapolis Star.

REASON AND PITY ARGUE WITH A MAN

Reason whispered: "Answer 'no'." Pity whispered: "Answer 'yes'." You have heard his tale of woe. You can see he's in distress.

Reason argued: "You're a fool. Send him on Bel brief and bribe. Use good judgment and be cool. Why should you assume the risk?"

"You have burdens of your own. You—yourself, are deep in debt. Why should you now make a loan? To a man you've never met?"

Reason argued: "Help him out!"

ROTARY'S LOAN FUND Slow Chewing.

Not all men are able, and few are willing, to finance a young man's education. But any business man of high ideals can but feel an urge to help, as far as he is able, in educating deserving young men.

This is primarily the reason Children's Rotarians so readily "chipped in" on a student loan fund for meeting this week. Many who contributed to the fund are educating their own children, but feel the urge to help some other less fortunate son.

Rotary does a magnificent thing when it helps deserving young men to an education. And how the young men rise to the opportunity, or fail to do so, has nothing to do with the worthiness of the club's action.

Through the efforts of H. Steele and J. C. Taylor of Seagraves and R. J. Murray of Lubbock, the Spearman company bought 25 of high grade Jersey cows at Lubbock and shipped them to Seagraves Tuesday.

The Spearman Land company not only sold cheap and upon easy payments, but it backs up the farmers as shown by the facts that this shipment of cattle makes 125 grade Jerseys, two registered cows, and four registered Jersey bulls.

It is reported that the flivver airplane will give the pedestrian great relief if it will only get up in the air high enough to pass them when they are crossing the streets.

HOW TO FIGHT EXCESS FAT

There are hard ways, like starvation, but fewer and fewer employ them. There is a pleasant way, modern and scientific, which combats the cause. A vast number of people now use it. And the slender figures now seen everywhere are largely due to that.

That method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 20 years—billions of boxes of them. And everybody, in almost every circle, sees the change. New beauty, new health, new vitality.

Each box of Marmola contains the formula, also the scientific reasons for results. So users have no fear of harm. Learn the facts about Marmola, because of the good it has done. Ask your druggist—now—for a $1 box with the book. Then decide.

THE "CANARY" MURDER CASE

BY S. S. VAN L. NE AUTHOR OF "THE BENCH" AND "MURDER CASE"

THE STORY THUS FAR
When the strangled body of Margaret O'Connell was found in her apartment, New York found itself confronted with one of the most baffling murders in its history. Vance, student of psychology and of crime, is taken to the apartment by Markham. The rooms are violently disordered. The medical examiner gives it as his opinion that the murder was committed about 11:30 the night preceding.

CHAPTER V
"I guess that's all, doc," Heath decided. "I'll get the body to the mortuary right away. Let's have the post-mortem as soon as you can. You'll get a report in the morning." And despite his apparent eagerness to be off, Doctor Roremus stepped into the bedroom and shook hands with Heath and Markham and Inspector Moran before he hurried out.

Heath followed him to the door, and I heard him direct the officer outside to telephone the department of public welfare to send an ambulance at once for the girl's body.
"Such detachment," Vance said to Markham. "Here are you stewing most distressingly over the passing of one damsel fair and frail and that blithe medicus is carrying only over a sluggish liver brought on by early rising."

"What has he to be upset over?" complained Markham. "The newspapers are not riding him with spurs. . . . And by the way, what was the point of your questions about the torn dress?"
Vance, leaning against the tip of his cigar, said:
"Consider," he said. "The lady was evidently taken by surprise. For, had there been a struggle beforehand, she would not have been strangled from behind while sitting down. Therefore, her gown and corsage were undoubtedly intact at the time she was seized. But—despite the conclusion of your dashing Paracelsus—the damage to her toilet was not of a nature that could have been self-inflicted by her struggle for air. If she had felt the constriction of the gown across her breast, she would have snatched the bodice itself by putting her fingers inside the band. But, if you noticed, her bodice was intact; the only thing that had been torn was the deep lace flounce on the outside; and it had been torn, or rather ripped, by a strong lateral pull; whereas, in the circumstances, any wrench on her part would have been downward or outward."

Inspector Moran was listening intently, but Heath seemed restless and impatient; apparently he regarded the torn gown as irrelevant to the simple main issue.
"Moreover," Vance went on, "there is the corsage. If she had been strangled, it would doubtless have fallen to the floor; for, remember, she offered considerable resistance. Her body was twisted sidewise; her knee was drawn up, and one slipper had been kicked off."
"Now, no bunch of silken poises is going to remain in a lady's lap during such a commotion. Even when ladies sit still, their gloves and hand-bags and handkerchiefs and programs and serviettes are forever sliding off their laps on to the floor, don't you know?"

"But if your argument's correct," protested Markham, "then the tearing of the lace and the snatching off of the corsage could have been done only after she was dead. And I can't see any object in such senseless vandalism."
"Neither can I," sighed Vance. "It's all devilish queer."
Heath looked at him sharply. "That's the second time you've said that. But there's nothing what you'd call queer about this case. It is a straight-away case." He spoke with an overtone of insistence, like a man arguing against his own insecurity of opinion. "The dress might've been torn almost any time," he went on stubbornly. "And the flounce might've got caught in the lace of her skirt so it couldn't roll off."

"And how would you explain the jewel-case, Sergeant?" asked Vance.
"Well, the fellow might've tried the poker, and then finding it wouldn't work, used his jimmy."
"If he had the efficient jimmy," countered Vance, "why did he go to the trouble of bringing the silly poker from the living-room?"
The Sergeant shook his head perplexedly.
"You never can tell why some of these crooks act the way they do."

"Tut, tut," Vance chided him. "There should be no such word as 'never' in the bright lexicon of detecting."
Heath regarded him sharply. "Was there anything else that struck you as queer?" His subtle doubts were welling up again.

"Well, there's the lamp on the table in the other room."
We were standing near the archway between the two rooms, and Heath turned quickly and looked blankly at the fallen lamp.
"I don't see anything queer about that."
"It has been upset—eh, what?" suggested Vance.
"What if it has?" Heath was frankly puzzled. "Damn near everything in this apartment has been knocked crooked."
"Ah! But there's a reason for most of the other things having been disturbed—like the drawers and pigeonholes and closets and vases. They all indicate a search; they're consistent with a raid for loot. But that lamp, now, I've seen, doesn't fit into the picture. It's a false note. It was standing on the opposite end of the table to where the murder was committed at least five feet away, and it couldn't possibly have been knocked over in the struggle."
"No, it won't do. It's got no business being upset, any more than that pretty mirror and the gate-legged table has any business being broken. That's why it's queer."

"What about those chairs and the little table?" asked Heath pointing to two small gilded chairs which had been overturned, and a fragile tip-table that lay on its side near the piano.
"Oh, they fit into the ensemble," returned Vance. "They're all light pieces of furniture which could easily have been knocked over or thrown aside by the hasty gentleman who rifled these rooms."
"The lamp might have been knocked over in the same way," argued Heath.
"Vance shook his head. Not tenable. Sergeant. It has a solid bronze base and sits at all top-heavy, and being set well back on the table it wasn't in any one's way. That lamp was upset deliberately."

The sergeant was silent for a while. Experience had taught him not to underestimate Vance's observations, and I must confess, as I looked at the lamp lying on its side on the end of the library table, well removed from any of the other disordered objects in the room, Vance's argument seemed to possess considerable force. I tried hard to fit it into a hasty reconstruction of the crime, but was utterly unable to do so.
"Anything else that don't seem to fit into the picture?" Heath at length asked.
Vance pointed with his cigar toward the clothes-closet in the living-room. This closet was alongside of the foyer, in the corner near the Boule cabinet, directly opposite to the end of the davenport.
"You might let your mind dwell a moment with the condition of that clothes-dress," suggested Vance carelessly. "You will note that, though the door's ajar, the contents have not been touched. And it's about the only area in the apartment that hasn't been disturbed."
Heath walked over and looked into the closet.
"Well, anyway, I'll admit that's queer," he finally conceded.

Vance had followed him indolently, and stood gazing over his shoulder.
"And my word!" he exclaimed suddenly. "The key's on the inside of the lock. Fancy that, now! One can't lock a closet door with the key on the inside—can one sergeant?"
"The key may not mean anything," Heath observed hopefully. "Maybe the door was never locked. Anyhow, we'll find out about that pretty soon. I'm holding the maid outside, and I'm going to have her on the carpet as soon as the captain finishes his job here."
He turned to Dubois, who, having completed his search for fingerprints in the bedroom, was now inspecting the piano.
"Any luck yet?"

"Good morning, Professor," Heath greeted the newcomer. "Glad to see you. I've got something nifty, right in your line."

DAILY MARKETS

FORT WORTH LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, Jan. 19. (AP)—Livestock receipts for Thursday called for 3,200 cattle, 600 calves, 1,700 hogs and 300 sheep, values ruled steady on all classes of cattle with hogs showing an advance of ten cents.

In the slaughter steers division trading held steady to a good demand. Light common steers from South Texas sold at 9.40; two cars of steers sold at 10.25 and three cars at 11.65. One car made the top for the day at 12.10.

Bulls were scarce, no car lots being on the yards. Values on odd lots appeared a little easy, light bulls $2.35 to $3.00.

Trading in cows, was steady with offerings made up of mixed lots. Choice heads sold at 8.00 to 8.50; choice carlots made 7.75. The bulk of the butchers 6.00 to 7.00; canners were around 6.75; cutters $5.00 to $5.50.

Yearlings and heifers fairly liberal in proportion to the total receipts. Better kind in carlots at 10.00 to 11.25.

The calf supply was light. Carlots of heavy calves sold up to 10.65.

COTTONSEED OIL

NEW YORK, Jan. 19. (AP)—The cottonseed oil market was more active and somewhat steadier today; active months closing 5 to 8 points higher on covering and commission house support induced by steadiness of lard and cotton, but more especially reports that yellow fever was interfering with African palm oil shipments. Sales 31,000 barrels. Prime crude 8.37 1-2; prime summer yellow spot 10.00; January closed 10.00; March 10.01; May 10.25; July 10.50; August 10.59.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, Jan. 19. (AP)—The cotton market was comparatively quiet today and correspondingly sensitive to small orders either way, but reactions from an early advance were followed by renewed firmness in late trading. After selling off from 18.80 to 18.70, March advanced to 18.85 and closed at 18.82, compared with 18.70 at the close the previous day. The general market closed barely steady, at net advances of 8 to 18 points.

Opening steady at an advance of 2 to 7 points, active months sold about 4 to 10 points net higher on overnight buying orders or a little commission house buying and covering brought in by the firmer ruling of prices late yesterday. This bulge met realizing and southern selling, which sent prices back to about Wednesday's closing quotations, but the market steadied at these figures, and there was quite a flurry of buying in late afternoon.

Complaints of dry weather in West Texas may have influenced the advance, while part of the buying was attributed to covering for over the spinning report scheduled for publication next Monday. A private wire from the southwest said the soil in Texas was bone dry for two or three feet down. There was not much discussion as to the probable showing of the approaching report on cotton ginnings prior to January 16. Local traders did not seem to anticipate anything in the figures to disturb present calculations of the available supply.

Exports today 48,513, making 4,394,490 so far this season. Port receipts 12,923. U. S. port stocks 2,366,342.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, Jan. 19. (AP)—A strengthened position for trade buying and anticipation of bullish ginning totals next Monday sent the cotton market up 17 to 21 points here today.

March, after opening at 2 points up at 18.50, advanced steadily to a high of 18.70, then reacted to 18.65 at the end of the session, showing a net gain for the day of 17 points. Liverpool was not quite as good as due but first trades here showed no change to 2 points gain. In the early trading prices advanced on trade buying and May soon climbed to 18.50, July to 18.25 and October to 17.77.

The market continued to gain steadily during the morning owing to expectations of a bullish ginning total and on insufficient moisture in the western belt. Around noon May traded at 18.50, July at 18.39 and October at 17.79.

Another spurt in the late trading carried May to 18.63, July to 18.46 and October to 17.85. Prices reacted 5 to 8 points in the final trading, May closing 18.57, July 18.40 and October 17.88. 17 to 21 points above yesterday's close.

Exports were 48,513 bales.

WALL STREET

NEW YORK, Jan. 19. (AP)—Heavy buying of U. S. Steel common following the announcement that the corporation had raised the price of shares, plus and bars $1 a ton for first quarter delivery only injected life into a day's stock market after a long period of comparative dullness. The day's sales barely exceeded 1,400,000 shares, being the smallest of any full session since July 18 last, and approximately one-tenth of the business was done in steel and General Motors stocks.

The weekly reserve report on brokers' loans, due after the close of the market, undoubtedly tended to restrict trading. The figures showed a decrease of $31,640,960, bringing the total down to $3,767,924,000.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)
