Sutton's walk-off homer wins series for Lady Wolves

C-City girls are one win away from trip to state

TRY AND HIT THIS ONE — Colorado City freshman pitcher Cassie Sutton fires a pitch in for a Hawley batter in this weekend's Regional Semifinals series. The Lady Wolves came from behind, after dropping Game 1, to win two-straight games and take the series on a eighth-inning, walk-off home run by Sutton. Sutton pitched all three games during the series.

Softball is a game of timing, timing the pitch, the swing of the bat and even the speed and direction of the wind itself. Saturday, in Forsan, Colorado City freshman, Cassie Sutton had her timing down to a science. The Lady Wolves' pitching ace, who pitched every inning of the three-game series with Number 3 ranked Hawley, timed her first home run of the season perfectly. The score was tied 4-4, with two outs in the bottom of the eighth inning of the deciding Game 3, when Sutton sent an 0-1 pitch over the center field fence for a two-run, walk-off homer, sending the Lady Wolves into the next round, the Regional Finals against Alpine.

After the game, an emotional Coach Erin White talked about the girls and her own impending departure from Colorado City at the end of this year.

"I just know in my heart that nobody wants it like they do. I have

Comanche arrow has finally landed

A large Comanche arrow landed in Colorado City Thursday morning, between I-20 and Mitchell County Hospital. The 25 foot metal replica arrow is a work by artist and sculptor Charles Smith.

A crane supplied by Bill Ellis of C.C. Tank Rental of Colorado City lifted the arrow from its trailer and with the help of Ellis, Ray Gonzales and Dennis Evans placed the arrow in its new home.

Early voting comes to an end Friday

Early voting for the May 29 elections continues this week through Friday, May 25, between the hours of 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday and 8 a.m. through 7 p.m. on Fridays (May 18 and 25).

On the county level, the only race will be for the position of County Tax Assessor, between incumbent Faye Lee and candidate Sylvia Clanton.

On the state level, Mitchell County was moved into District 83 last month, introducing the constituents to Republicans Charles Perry and Delwin Jones. Perry is the incumbent, however, Jones was his predecessor and has decided to run for the position again in 2012, after losing to Perry in the 2010 Primaries.

As of deadline Tuesday evening, 120 Mitchell County residents had turned out to cast an early ballot.

Ride for the Wall rumbles downtown

That wasn't thunder you heard this weekend. It was the rolling rumble of 500 United States veterans and their supporters, making a path from California to Washington, D.C. as part of an annual Run for the Wall event.

As the sun hung high in the sky Saturday, it was still more than 24 hours before its mass would be blocked out by the moon in a solar eclipse. That would be Sunday evening. This was Saturday at noon and the sun was shining in all its glory, shining on the residents of Colorado City who lined Hickory Street waiting for a glimpse of the first motorcycle they knew would be rumbling toward them at any moment.

Colorado City fire trucks blocked intersections up and down Hickory, while down at the Railhead, the advance team had arrived and was making everything ready for

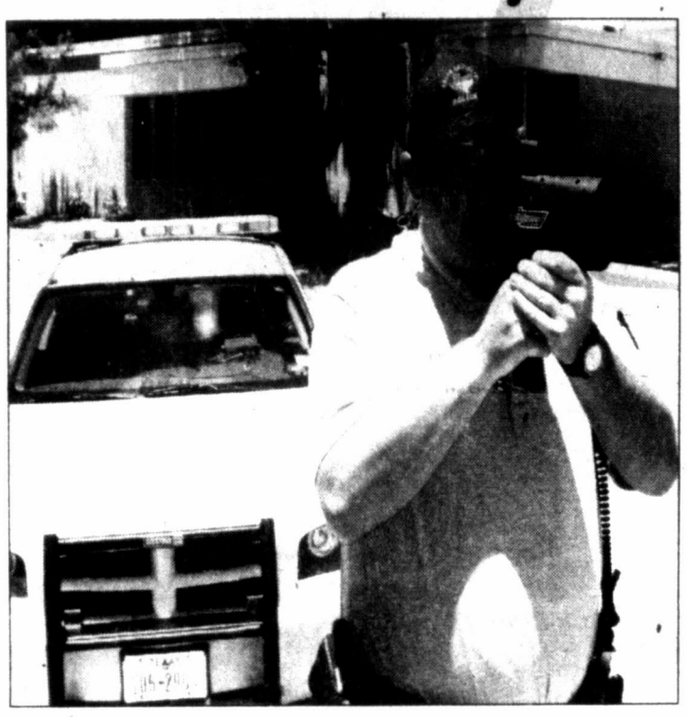
Colorado City Police have a new toy



KEEPING A SPECIAL EYE ON YOU — Sergeant Traven Berrie demonstrates one of the police department's new laser speed detectors.

Laser speed detector first of its kind in Mitchell County, is only the first of three

Police officers in Colorado City have a new tool to help them enforce the laws. The department recently received a TruSpeed laser detector to help in their continued endeavor to maintain compliance with the local laws. Two more will arrive next week.

Unlike a radar gun, the device can calculate speed almost instantly from up to 3,000 feet away with pinpoint accuracy, even determining if the vehicle is approaching or going in the opposite direction.

This takes away any question about whether the officer had the gun pointed at the right vehicle or not. And though the device cannot be detected with radar detectors or inhibited by radar jammers, local officers say they are not out trying to write tickets to pay for the $1,700 devices.

"They are already paid for," Sgt. Traven Berrie said of the devices. "We are really more interested in compliance than writing tickets."

This is fortunate, considering the officers now have the capability to hide just about anywhere with the devices and catch speeders.

According to Sgt. Berrie, by the time a motorist sees the police officer, his speed has already been recorded.

"We won't be hiding on rooftops and trying to catch people speeding," Sgt. Berrie said, grinning. "You will see us in broad daylight, on the side of the road or on the street corners."

According to Officer Nick Holbrook, the technology has been around for a few years, but it is still relatively new.

"As far as I know we are the only department around which has one of these," he said. "Abilene might have one, but if they do, it's only one."

"We just want people to know we have these," Sgt. Berrie said. "Again, we are not as interested in writing tickets as we are in changing driver behavior. We are not trying to be sneaky about it. We want people to see us out using the devices."

Sergeant Berrie said the detectors were paid for by money from the district attorney's office, money derived from a fund consisting of seized property and cash.

Colorado ISD awarded $2,000 grant from TASB

Colorado ISD has been awarded a loss prevention grant of $2000 from the Texas Association of School Boards (TASB) Risk Management Fund. Grant monies help implement loss prevention and safety initiatives to raise awareness of safety issues and reduce the potential for property losses and on-the-job injuries. This award is part of $550,000 in grants the fund gave this year to 242 Texas school districts and education entities. Since 1998, the fund's Loss Prevention Grant Program has distributed 2,230 total grants of more than $5.62 million to fund members in the workers' compensation and property and auto programs. "More than ever, the need to prevent losses and protect employees is critical because the fund's members are facing many challenges and making difficult choices," said Clem Zabalza, director of TASB Loss prevention Services. "Vigilant of changing member needs, we have been successful in protecting valuable resources through education and providing monies for identified exposures. The fund remains steadfast in its commitment to continue giving back to its members, especially in these uncertain financial times," he said.

The 2012 grants were awarded to 227 school districts, five regional education service centers, two county appraisal districts, seven community colleges and one share service arrangement. Workers' compensation grants focused on fall prevention, personal lifting devices and personal protective equipment. Facilities security initiatives, driver improvement and vehicle safety were the primary areas receiving grants under the property and auto programs.

"This year's program was highly competitive, and the selection is always a hard task because applicants closely examine their exposures and how to best address their needs," Zabalza said.

"For the past 15 years, the fund board has made this program possible by its commitment to provide resources that put priority on preventing losses and elevating safety in the workplace. The Loss Prevention Grant Program has been vital in raising awareness and reducing injuries and losses. We will continue to champion the needs of our members so they can educate their staffs about workplace safety and resource protection. The fund is dedicated to a strong partnership with our members to support their loss prevention and safety initiatives," he said.

The TASB Risk Management Fund is the premier provider of risk management services for school districts and education entities in Texas. With more than 1,100 members, the fund is one of the oldest, largest and financially strongest risk pools in the nation.

The fund provides coverage through its unemployment compensation, workers' compensation and property, liability and auto programs. In addition, it offers a wide range of services and member benefits, such as loss prevention, free member training, online claim forms and resources and grant programs,

TASB is a voluntary nonprofit association established in 1949 to serve local Texas school districts. School board members are the largest group of publicly elected officials in the state. The districts they represent serve more than 4.9 million public school students.

MCHD robbed over weekend

The Mitchell County Hospital Board of Directors met in a regular session Tuesday at the hospital and was told the hospital had been the victim of a crime. According to Robbie Dewberry, CEO, sometime between midnight Saturday night and Sunday morning, several vehicles were vandalized.

In addition, a pickup owned by the hospital was stolen. It was found and returned, but with noticeable damage. Tires were blown, the engine had no oil in it and the frame appeared to be bent. The truck was a 1995 Ford, with over 106,000 miles on it, so Dewberry told the board it would be best to look into buying a new one, since it had already been budgeted for.

In other business, the board talked about the removal of asbestos from the old hospital building. Dewberry told the members he had received the last of the bids and the best one showed to be just over $118,000.

Dewberry said he wanted to talk to the city, since they had once showed interest in using the building's basement as a disaster shelter, but he hoped to have it on the agenda by June's meeting.

In other business, the board accepted bids on tax sale properties. A bid of $2,000 was accepted from Jennifer and Jacob Rivera for property located at 1127 Waco. Property at 1838 Locust will go to Mario Rubio after his successful bid of $1,000. The third property was located at 1113 East 7th Street. Rubio also took this property, with a bid of $1,500.

DINNER IS HANDLED — Joey Mayberry takes a hands-on approach to Friday night's crawfish dinner at the Opera House. The CHS Jazz Band not only served dinner to the sold out crowd, but also provided the night's entertainment.

EMS: more than a job; it is a calling

By: Amanda Rivera, MCHD Community Relations Director

This week we celebrate National Emergency Medical Services Week and we recognize the tremendous role that EMS practitioners make to improve health in communities across the nation. The around-the-clock dedication to providing emergency care is evident with one statistic: more than 36 million patients were cared for by EMS professionals in 2011 alone.

Emergency care professionals are committed to delivering emergency medical care in Mitchell County as well as providing emergency assistance to surrounding counties such as Howard, Scurry, Nolan, Fisher and Coke counties. They strive for seamless care, from the field to the hospital emergency department or trauma center. Their commitment to ensuring that patients receive the best medical care available, anytime and anywhere, is instrumental to advancing the health, safety, and well-being of our citizens. EMS is an essential part of building a resilient health care system that functions efficiently and effectively every day and is capable of responding to disasters and public health emergencies.

Our efforts at the federal level are all aimed at supporting the men and women on the front lines of the health care system—the EMTs, paramedics, dispatchers, nurses, physicians, researchers, educators, administrators, and supervisors who come together to provide the best possible care when personal, community, or national tragedy strikes.

"We are fortunate to have an outstanding team of paramedics that work effortlessly in making sure that the help they ensure our community is quick, efficient and with compassionate care." said Robbie Dewberry, Mitchell County Hospital District Administrator. The paramedics for the Mitchell County Hospital District are: Jesse Stark, Bambi Redwine, Ava Ramirez, Rusty Noletubby, Jacki English, Melissa Mauzey, and Gabriela Rios who all provide help in a heartbeat.

Please join the Mitchell County Hospital District during the National EMS Week in thanking the dedicated professionals in emergency medical services for the critical work they do to improve the health of our community and strengthen the health security of all in Mitchell County and other surrounding counties.

Some of the events planned are: Wednesday, May 23 at 10 a.m.-11 a.m. members of the EMS will host story time at the Mitchell County Library and give them a tour of one of the ambulances that is currently in use. They will also educate them about calling 911 and other emergency situations. At this time they will announce the winner of their coloring contest. Later during the day they will be visiting Loraine ISD at 1:00 p.m. and meet with the students there and allow them to tour one of the ambulances and encourage those interested in para-medicine to obtain their education to become a Paramedic.

On Friday, May 25 the Mitchell County EMS will be hosting a Free Blood Pressure Clinic in the parking lot at Fuller Foods for the community from 10:30 a.m. until 1:30 p.m. Patients that take advantage of this opportunity will also be given a favor as a way of showing their appreciation in their support for our EMS. Everyone is encouraged to come and get a blood pressure check while they are out and about during that time or on their lunch breaks.

OPINION & COMMENTARY

TUMBLEWEED SMITH
Rattling around with Jackie

Jackie Bibby lives at Rising Star, or as he calls it, Twinkle City. He is the Texas Rattlesnake Man and has the credentials and bites to prove it. He does some crazy things with snakes.

"I've been in the Guinness Book of World Records nine times for doing things like holding snakes in my mouth, suspended by their tails. I do one stunt where I get in a see-through bathtub with 195 rattlesnakes. I get in sleeping bags full of snakes both head first and feet first."

He makes his living as an alcohol and drug counselor, but he's been fooling around with snakes as a hobby and a sport for 43 years.

"It started in Brownwood when I was 18 years old and won the rattlesnake sacking event. There was a competition to see who could put the most rattlesnakes in a tow sack and I won. I won two trophies and got my name in the paper and the rest is history. I've been doing it ever since. I tried to enter the year before when I was 17, but they said I was too young and to come back next year, so I did."

His hobby has taken him to Europe 14 times, to Asia once and all over the US, including several trips to New York and Hollywood. He is a snake celebrity and people at rattlesnake roundups pose for pictures with him and get his autograph. At those events he wears a derby hat made of rattlesnake skins. He has garnered tons of publicity, including a page on a Jeff Foxworthy calendar. On it, a picture of Jackie carries the phrase, "If you ask for an autograph at a rattlesnake roundup, you might be a redneck." A couple of years ago Jackie started a television show.

"It's called Rattlesnake Republic and comes on Sunday nights at 8 o'clock on Animal Planet. The ratings have been fabulous. We've had phenomenal response. It's about four teams of rattlesnake hunters that go around Texas chasing rattlesnakes and competing against each other and doing shows, stuff like that."

If you've ever seen a rattlesnake safety film that shows the underside of a man's arm with a huge zigzag scar on it from armpit to wrist, that arm belongs to Jackie. He's been snake bit 10 times. He has a few fingers that don't work as well as they used to, but says anything you do for fun is risky. "I've definitely been a model for 'don't do this at home.'"

Rattlesnake season is from February to April. Jackie says Texas has only seven rattlesnake roundups now. When he started there were 42. He blames environmentalists for shutting down a lot of them.

"They think what we're doing is messing up the ecology and get down on us."

During off-season he does seminars, corporate events, safety demonstrations for schools and benefits for non-profit organizations. Jackie is one happy fellow.

"I never thought at 61 years old I'd be having this much fun."

Son's graduation and trip bring about memories... and worry

By Robert Griffin, Editor

Well, graduation is just about upon us once again, and though I have had the responsibility of covering such an event before, this will be the first time it will hold a personal interest for me. My son will be among those walking the stage…or, in this case, the football field.

After his graduation, his uncle plans to take him on a trip into the Ozark Mountains to do some kayaking. Now, on the surface, this may seem harmless enough, but I remember my first time in a kayak, encouraged by the same man – my brother – who plans to take my son on his first trip.

It was only a few years ago and I was already in my forties. The Wichita and Red Rivers were well above flood level when my brother shows up and says, "Let's take a trip down the river."

It sounded great. We would put in the Wichita River, paddle down a few miles to where it dumped into the Red and then get out at the bridge on Hwy. 79, between Byers, Texas and Waurika, Oklahoma.

I grew up on these two rivers, catching river monsters long before the Discovery Channel thought it would make a great television show. For those who have never seen them, the Wichita is a lazy, twisting river, generally about three feet deep. The Red, though it claims a river bed almost a mile wide at most points, generally runs between one and two feet deep, but it has a treacherous current known to suck the sand right from under your feet if you are standing in it. The current is so strong, if you find yourself in water as high as your knee, it can knock you down. Now, imagine that same river at 24 feet deep, with rolling waves high enough to surf on. Yea, this is where I learned how to kayak.

I remember the Wichita widened and we were about to be spit out into a flowing torrent of muddy foam. A fan boat, with four fishermen in it, was tied to the bank. One of the men called out to us as we zipped by.

"Y'all aren't going out there, are you?" he said, pointing at the mighty Red River.

I still remember that, vividly.

I made the trip, obviously, with only one major incident. When I turned the kayak sharply in an attempt to land it, the current got the better of me, filled my ride and sent me over the side like Colonel Sanders in the Waterboy. I think I even made that same "Aayutte" sound, like he did when the baseball hit him in the head.

The trip lasted several hours and I saw some of the most amazing scenery, including my first Eagle's nest. All that time, all those years, I never knew it was down there on that river. I am glad I got to see it. I am glad I went on the trip.

But, I find myself questioning whether it is a good idea to let my son – like I have any say anymore – go on this trip, especially with this particular uncle. I was not prepared for my first trip at 40. How in the world can my son be prepared at 18?

Then what…college, the workforce? I love him dearly and I guess a part of me wants to keep him safe forever, even if it means not letting him go anywhere, do anything. Yeah, I know I can't do that, I just worry. I don't remember the world being this scary when I was his age.

As bad as I hate to admit it, I guess I owe my brother a word of thanks for taking him on this trip, for having the foresight – or ignorance – to show him how much fun the world can be.

But just remember, my dear little brother, you better bring him home safe.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter to the Editor:

To whom it may concern:

This letter is being written to address some statements reported by this paper as having been made at the City Council meeting by Mr. Marshall Garrett as to the tax foreclosure property at 1127 Waco in Colorado City.

This tax suit was filed in 2008 by our firm on behalf of the ISD tax office, not the County, based on the fact that there were seven years of delinquent taxes owed to the school district by the Delaney family. Representatives of the Delaney family contacted our office in March of 2011 to inform us that they did not want to keep the property, that Mr. Garrett had expressed interest in purchasing the property for the taxes and that Mr. Garrett was aware of the foreclosure action.

The property was duly foreclosed upon in April 2012 and, there being no bidders at public auction, was struck off to the County on behalf of itself, the City and the ISD. After sale, we discovered that Mr. Garrett had moved into the property even though there is no recorded deed to Mr. Garrett from the Delaneys. Pursuant to state law and in order to protect the interests of the taxpayers who now own the property through the County, City and ISD, Mr. Garrett has been given until June 1st to vacate the property, even though the taxing entities are entitled to immediate possession.

According to our file and our notes, Mr. Garrett has never spoken to anyone at this office about this property prior to foreclosure. None of the neighbors has contacted us about this property either before or after suit was filed. This suit was not filed or pursued at the urging nor instruction of anyone at the County, ISD or City. It was pursued by our office to collect a sizeable amount of money owed to the public. Mr. Garrett's first and only attempt to pay taxes on this property occurred 10 days after the foreclosure sale, and it was an attempt to pay only one year of the now 11 years delinquent.

VETERANS

what would turn out to be over 500 motorcycles.

Then, all the patience paid off. Mitchell County Sheriff's vehicles led the way, along with Texas Highway Patrol and Colorado City Police Department cruisers. But in spite of the impressive display the law enforcement vehicles put on, it paled in comparison to what rode behind it.

Row after row of Harley Davidson motorcycles, their American-made engines unapologetically whispering the names of those still missing in action, made their way from I-20 to the Railhead Building downtown. They had one objective, one more mission; to make us all remember. It was truly a sight to behold. Only the hardest of hearts could have walked away unmoved.

Richard Gonzales, better known as Agitator, met people at the entrance to the Railhead. He wore a badge on his arm which declared him an ambassador for the Run for the Wall members. On his vest, he wore the Eagle, Globe and Anchor, the trademark symbol of the U. S. Marine Corps.

He had spent 20 years in the Corps and had spent a tour in Vietnam. Now, he had taken on a new mission.

"Run for the Wall is a group of veterans who get together to bring light to all the MIA's (missing-in action) and POW's (prisoner of war) we still have over in the war zone," Master Sergeant Gonzalez said. "The war may be over but our boys are still there."

RIDING FOR THOSE WHO CAN'T – The rumble of bikes could be heard all over Colorado City Saturday, as the veterans of the Run for the Wall made their way through town.

The Master Sergeant, who said to just call him 'Top', said the group hoped to get the attention of politicians to hopefully bring the men home.

"Our motto is: 'we ride for those who can't.'" he said. It's a mission. We have a plaque we take from California to Washington every year."

The group which came to Colorado City was travelling on the Southern Route, as the group branches off into two groups, rejoining before reaching the Vietnam War Memorial in our nation's capital.

"We start out with somewhere around 300 riders," Top said. "As we make our way across the country, at every overnight stop, we gain more riders."

The event this weekend was the 24th annual Run for the Wall. The first run, according to Top, had a total of six riders at the beginning, led by the movement's leader, Marine Gunnery Sergeant Gregory. By the time the group reached the memorial, there were only two left.

"He still rides today," he said, speaking about Sergeant Gregory. "You never know when he will show up. This run helps to heal the veterans."

Master Sergeant Gonzales talked of the kids in Colorado City, from the Colorado Middle School students who sponsored the event to the Colorado High School Jazz Band performing at the lunch.

"These kids touch our hearts," he said. "To have them show the patriotism they have toward our country and the way they respect the veterans is real big with us."

ARROW

Texas.

The goal of the giant arrows along the QPT is to mark with distinction each county's connection to Quanah Parker or the Comanche Nation.

The arrow is the creation of Charles Smith, with the first one being installed in 2007 in New Home. All arrows which come after it, including Mitchell County's, will denote the county's place on the Quanah Parker Trail.

Most Colorado City residents, as well as many visitors to the quiet west Texas town, have been to Ruddick Park. Those who have entered the gate nearest the amphitheater have had an opportunity to learn of small portion of the town's history. A historical marker by the gate entering the park tells briefly of an encounter between Army Colonel John Henry Moore, along with 90 folks referred to as Indian fighters, and a band of Comanche Indians who had a village along the nearby Colorado River.

In the battle, 128 of the natives were killed and 34 were captured, while only two of the attacking Texans were injured and none died. During the massacre, 500 horses were declared stolen property and recovered.

In a handout from the QPT, the arrow is said to physically mark a community's connection to the QPT, connote a past history shared by all 52 counties of the Texas Plains Trail Region, whose lands were once known as the "Comancheria" – the territory of the Commanche Nation and finally, to restore the nearly forgotten presence and history of the Comanche people, who of all the Native Americans, were the last to live free where we now live – the one significant historical fact which makes our region unique from all others in Texas.

Quanah Parker was the son of Comanche chief Peta Nocona and Cynthia Ann Parker, a white American who had been kidnapped and assimilated into the Comanche Nation.

Quanah Parker's Comanche grandfather was the renowned chief Iron Jacket. He was called this because he wore a Spanish coat of mail. It was said among the Comanche Nation he had the power to blow bullets away with his breath.

While his father was killed by Sul Ross – a man who would later become governor of Texas – at the Battle of Pease River, and his mother was returned to her white family, Quanah and his brother escaped.

He would later become the leader of a band of Quahadi Comanches, eventually leading them to a reservation near Fort Sill in Oklahoma.

Before he died in 1911, he frequently returned to towns and ranches of the Texas Plains Trail Region, where he functioned as a diplomat between the Comanche people and the white settlers. It is this part of the great chief's life where Colorado City can find its greatest connection, one of brotherhood and peace.

POINT TAKEN — Charles Smith, the artist who makes the 25' arrows for the Quanah Parker Trail, stands beside Patti Ferris of the Heart of West Texas Museum Thursday, after the arrow was cemented into the ground in front of the Mitchell County Hospital.

Church continues mission to preserve windows

The Save the Windows Committee of Colorado City's First Baptist Church continues to raise money to preserve the historic stained glass windows. The campaign has been extended to include all of the 20 small stained glass windows as well as resealing the plain windows of the original building.

The committee, consisting of Janet Mayo, Kay Fite, Brenda Kelley, Jamie Hammond, Lulu Boyd and Betty Shawn, has been working with John Martinez of Texas Cap & T-Shirts to design a commemorative Save the Windows t-shirt to help generate funds to go towards the windows.

"Mr. Martinez has been so helpful and generous throughout the whole campaign," said Mayo. The t-shirt is black with the words Save the Windows above a picture of one of the stained glass windows and First Baptist Church, Colorado City, Texas, below the picture.

The commemorative t-shirts may be ordered through June 4 at the First Baptist Church office, P.O. Box 641, Colorado City, TX 79512, with payment at the time of ordering. Youth sizes are $15, adults sizes (small-X-large) are $20 and 2X and up are $22.

On Sunday evening, July 8, the church will have an old fashioned ice cream social, reminiscent of 1928 when the church and its beautiful windows were unveiled. During the evening, a church-wide photograph will be taken to mark the Save the Windows Campaign with everyone wearing their t-shirts. The photograph will be added to the church scrapbook with a written history of what First Baptist did to preserve the windows in 2012.

As a special treat during the ice cream social on July 8, the committee will be unveiling and selling pieces of the original 1928 glass that was damaged and replaced following a hail storm in 1974. The glass pieces were "rediscovered" when the committee was created to save and preserve the current windows.

"We have large pieces all the way down to small pieces, and there will be different prices," Mayo said. "We want everyone that wants a piece of the historical glass to be able to have some."

Money from the sale of the t-shirts and the stained glass will go towards the Save the Windows Campaign.

The committee has researched church records to find out more about the stained glass windows and how they became an integral part of the building.

"We discovered that during the construction of the building, the window frames were built on site here and then shipped to Dallas by way of the railroad where the glass was installed," Mayo said. "Once the glass was installed in the frames, then completed windows were shipped back to Colorado City by train – at the expense of the glass contractor!"

"And all these years later, the membership of First Baptist Church, as well as residents of the community, continue to enjoy and appreciate the beauty of these windows," she said.

SAVE THE WINDOWS - The First Baptist Church's Save the Windows committee has several fundraisers planned to raise the funds necessary to save the stained glass windows at the church, including selling t-shirts and 1928 glass that was broken during a ha.. .orm in the 70s. The committee is pictured with John Martinez (center) of Texas Caps & T-Shirts. T'..ey are: (l-r) Janet Mayo, Betty Shawn, Lulu Boyd, Martinez, Jamie Hammond, Brenda Kelley and Kay Fite.

FLH to honor farming families

In continuing a proud tradition of honoring hardworking generations of Texas farmers and ranchers, Agriculture Commissioner Todd Staples today reminds families to apply for the Texas Department of Agriculture's Family Land Heritage (FLH) Program. The program recognizes family farms and ranches that have been in continuous agricultural production by the same family for at least 100 years. Applications are now due June 1, 2012.

"Through generations of hard work, perseverance and love of the land, these families have operated their farms and ranches for 100 years or more, making Texas a powerhouse of agricultural productivity," Commissioner Staples said. "This commitment to the land is the foundation on which Texas agriculture is built, and thanks to these families and their ancestors, the Lone Star State today stands as a recognized producer of the finest food and fiber in the world."

This year's Family Land Heritage ceremony will be held in the fall at the Texas Capitol in Austin and will recognize farms and ranches established in 1912 or earlier.

Eligible farms and ranches must still be owned and operated by the descendants of the founder, either through blood, marriage or adoption. At least 10 acres of the land must be in continues agricultural production for the past 100 years or more. There is no cost to apply for the recognition.

To date, TDA has recognized more than 4,500 properties in 237 counties across Texas. Fayette County, with 151 family operations honored, has been recognized more than any other county since the FLH program began.

Applications for the 2012 Family Land Heritage recognition are available for download at www.TexasAgriculture.gov by clicking Family Land Heritage under the I Need To... section. For more information, you can also e-mail Lance.Williams@TexasAgriculture.gov.

PRAYING FOR MORE RAIN – Most local farmers have started to plant this year's hay and cotton crop. Recent rains have provided ample moisture for now, but according to some, "it's drying out fast." Keith Hiser of the FSA estimates approximately 72,000 acres of cotton was planted last year, and he said that he expects about the same amount to be planted this year or maybe a little more. This planter was busy Monday on the Hal Morren farm.

LORAINE NEWS

By Aimee Jackson
Loraine Correspondent

Last week was such a whirlwind! Loraine graduation and end of the year events at the school has everyone on their toes. This week we will see field day on Friday, which is also just half a school day and no school at all on Monday. I am looking forward to a nice, lovely and relaxing long weekend. If you're traveling, take care and remember to buckle up.

Mr. Domingo Rodriquez of Sweetwater, a teacher at Loraine ISD for the past 22 years, just retired this last week. Mr. Rod, as he is affectionately called by everyone, was honored at a surprise ceremony on Wednesday, May 16th by students and faculty alike. He was presented with a scrapbook that included letters written by the students and mementos from the past two decades.

The students, teachers, and parents of Loraine will miss you. Best wishes on your retirement!

Jennifer Fales would like to thank everyone who helped make the luncheon honoring the recent graduates a success!

Congratulations to Don Boyd and Ricky Bailey. Don will join the Board of Trustees for the Loraine School District, while Ricky will continue to serve.

Loraine is looking pretty spiffy after the recent weekend city-wide clean up. The little bit of rain we received has certainly helped our yards, and I noticed the farmers are in the fields trying get seed in the ground like crazy. Hoping we have a blessed and fruitful cotton season this year.

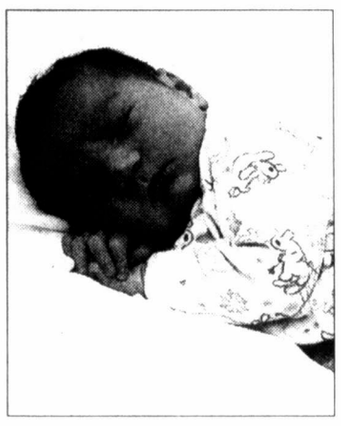
Damian Garcia recently was honored by his parents, Laura and Frank Garcia with a celebration dinner and dance for graduation. Out-of-town guests included many relatives. Damian's uncle, Adrian Garcia and his family; his aunt, Leticia Lopez and her family; Michelle Bolin and her family; and aunts, Angelique and Andrea Garcia all traveled from the San Angelo area to be there for Damian.

Great uncle, Rudy Vallejo and family from Lubbock; uncle Jesse Vallejo from Dallas; aunt Esther and her husband, Andy Rivera from Denton; cousin, Chris and Sandra Rivera and their children from Little Elm and many other relatives traveled from Midland and Lamesa.

Damian's grandmother Mary Helen Sanchez from Colorado City, and grandparents Frank and Manuela Garcia from Loraine also attended.

Michelle Bolin's husband, David, provided the music for the dance. I heard he wore a wig and platform shoes and it was like a flash back to Saturday Night Fever! Damian will be leaving early this fall for an enlistment in the United States Marine Corps.

BIRTHS



Marcelo and Krystal Martinez are proud to announce the birth of their son, Jaythen Thomas Martinez.

Jaythen was born May 6, 2012, weighing 7 pounds, 14 ounces. He was 20.5 inches long.

Maternal grandfather is Rodney Blankenship. Great-grandparents are Tex and Jolene Blankenship.

Paternal grandmother is Sally Martinez. Great-grandparents are Sabas Martinez and the late Rufino Martinez.

Midland Ballet planning a November performance here

Make plans now! Although it's several months away, Kristi Lee Manor is planning to kick off this year's holiday season in a good way.

Mr. Clark Moody , owner/administrator of Kristi Lee Manor, is sponsoring a performance by the Midland Festival Ballet on November 3rd which will include excerpts from The Nutcracker.

No admission will be charged for the performance and everyone is welcome. Children are especially invited, in order to develop an appreciation for the artistry of ballet. Contributions, given at the time of the performance, will be appreciated.

The performance will begin at 5 p.m. at the Colorado High School Auditorium, and refreshments will be served afterward. Those attending will then be invited to Kristi Lee Manor to check out the remodeling being done this summer and fall.

Susan Clark is the artistic director for the ballet company that held a performance at Colorado Middle School during the holiday season last year.

An employee of the long-term care facility is friends with some of the performers in the troup, and the dancers expressed a desire to return to Colorado City for another performance. Moody was more than happy to sponsor the event. "Let's get them down here," he said.

Moody has expressed his desire to excite everyone in the county about the ballet. "We would love the whole community to come out," he said.

While the ballet is being sponsored by Moody, a floral gouquet for the principal ballerina will be sponsored and created by Marsha Jordan at Colorado Floral and Gifts.

For more information about the performance, contact Moody by calling Kristi Lee Manor at 325-728-5247.

LADIES

coached and played with a lot of good players and athletes, but never with a group of young ladies who has grown so much in such a short period of time, emotionally, physically and mentally. We are ready." Coach White said.

"I cannot imagine a more fitting way to leave Colorado City. I remembered what it was like for me, as a high school athlete, to play in the State Tournament. I want these girls to experience what I was so privileged to do, although I must say coaching these girls is more fun than playing in the tournament myself. I wouldn't trade it for anything."

The Lady Wolves saw another long ball in this series, as Shelby Cogburn sent a solo shot over the left field fence against a strong wind, in the girls' 8-5 loss in Game 1 Friday night. Cogburn went 3-3 in the game, with a single, double and then the dinger.

The girls fought hard Friday night, but Hawley was hitting all the spots. Though Cogburn's solo launch tied Game 1 at 1-1 in the fourth inning Friday night, it would be as close as Colorado City would get, though they did make a couple late rallies.

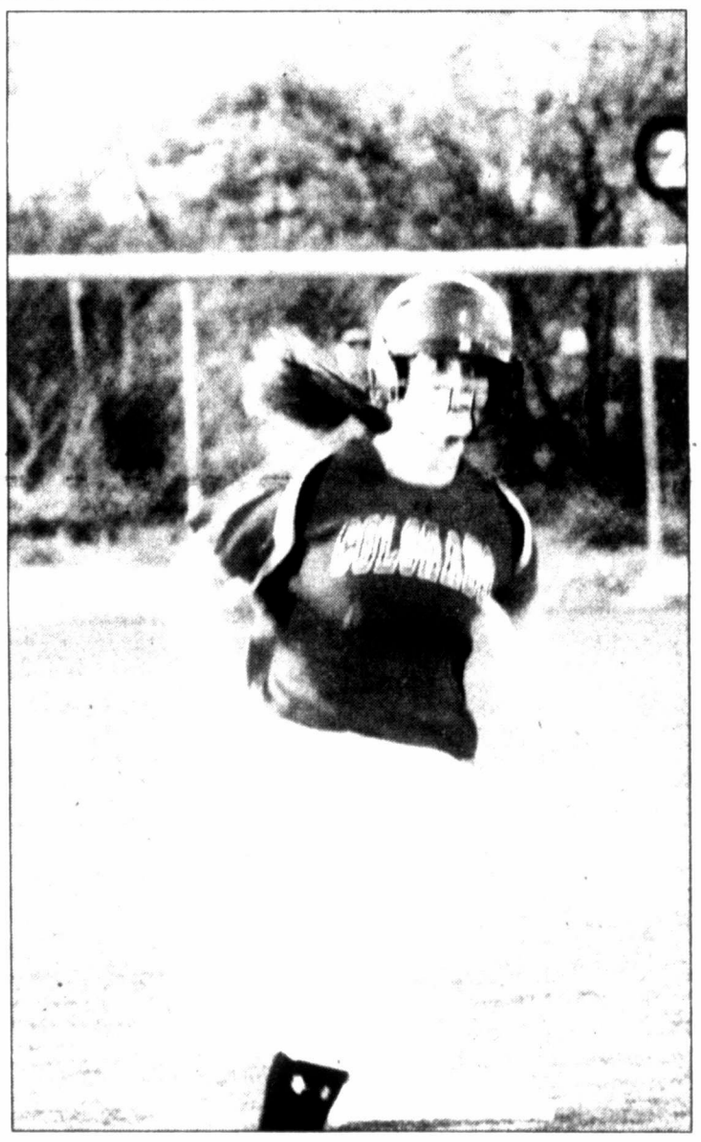
Shylowe Honeycutt, Sutton, Whitney Ortiz and Raegan Costabile accounted for the rest of Colorado City's seven hits in Game 1, all singles.

In Game 2, the Lady Wolves found 11 hits in a 9-6 victory. Miranda Reyna went 2-3, with a single and a triple, while Sutton was 2-4 with a single and a double. Honeycutt, Ortiz and Costabile only found one hit each in the second game of the series, but each belting doubles.

Shyana Baugh had a hit, as did Sydney Upshaw and Cogburn.

In the series-clinching Game 3, the Lady Wolves had only seven hits to secure the 6-4 win. Reyna and Sutton combined for four of them, hitting two each. Reyna had a single and a double, while Sutton had an early single and then the big eighth inning blast. The rest of the girls' hits came from Ortiz, Hope Sanchez and Olivia Luera, each with a single in the game.

The Lady Wolves will face Alpine in a one-game, winner-goes-to-state match Thursday night. The game is set to begin at 7 p.m. in Ratliff Stadium in Odessa.



ROUND TRIPPER — Shelby Cogburn makes a victory lap around the bases Friday night after a long homer against the wind in left field.

Tabbatha Angelo
Tabbatha is the daughter of Dr. Shane and Shae White and Eric and Stephanie Angelo. She has attended CISD for four years.
Most memorable event or moment while you were in school: At a pep rally my sophomore year, I did a Sluefoot skit that involved me throwing a bucket of "water" on the football players. The bucket actually had confetti in it, and when I went to throw the water (confetti) on them, my Sluefoot head flew off! I was so worried about the little kids seeing my "human" face that my first instinct was to put the bucket – full of confetti – over my head.
Hobbies: Traveling, singing, reading, meeting new people and spending time with my family and friends.
Ambition: I pray that I may live according to the plans that my God has in store for me. I hope to accomplish great things in my future and hope to make positive differences in the lives of every single person around me. "Trust in the Lord with all your heart; do not depend on your own understanding. Seek His will in all you do, and He will show you which path to take." Proverbs 3:5-6
