Wife Admits Slaying Of Husband When She Referred To Him As "Dumb;" Offers Own Explanation

(By Associated Press)
WHITE PLAINS, N. Y., Sept. 26.—With talk ranging from erudite discussions of the finer points of psychiatry to blunt remarks such as "he was a dumb," testimony was heard today at the trial of Earle Peacock, for the murder of his wife, whose body he soaked in oil and burned.

There were only three witnesses today. All were noted alienists called by the prosecution to refute previous expert testimony for the defense that Peacock was possessed of a "psychic personality."

Dr. Peacock's wife referred to him as "dumb" and "stupid" and his face on the first anniversary of their marriage, the defense brain doctors maintained, marked emotional impetus was stripped on psychopathic personality, with the result that he was subject to an "emotional storm" at that time, they said, he did not tell right from wrong, did not appreciate either the nature or the quality of his acts, and was not responsible when he shot the girl with his pistol, choked her in the face, and choked her life with his hands.

Dr. Peacock himself had given much the same explanation of his act.

Last night's meeting was one with enthusiasm and plans inaugurated for an extensive membership drive. A committee was appointed to head this drive, composed of C. B. Sherrod, carpenter and E. C. Patton, a man who will enlist others of the club during the week following the Panhandle South Plains fair.

Dallas May Halt Dixie Series

DALLAS, Sept. 26. (AP)—The city will prohibit the Dixie series championship play game between Dallas and Birmingham here Saturday unless steps are taken before hand to assure more emergency exits. Mayor J. Waddy Tate told the owners of the Steer Stadium today.

"Exits must be cut in the wire netting now in front of the grand stand and additional outlets must be cut in the boarded wall under the seats," the mayor declared.

Mayor Tate said he had no fear of fire at the ball park, since the city maintains a complete fire fighting crew on the grounds during a game. He believed, however, that the exits were not sufficient for any and all emergencies.

Lubbock Baptists Will Build Large Auditorium Here

Contract Will Be Let This Week For $10,000 Annex To Present Building; To Seat Total Of 2,500

Contract will be let this week for the construction of a large auditorium for the First Baptist church on Main street, according to an announcement last night by J. D. Carroll, educational director.

The structure will cost approximately $10,000 and will be of only a temporary nature to last for several years while plans are going forward for the construction of a new church building.

All property has been purchased by the church between Avenues M and N, on Main street, and the building will be erected here. It is to be 96x120 feet of floor and will seat about 2,500 people. Plans are being rushed by architects and are expected to be completed this week when contract will be let. Construction will be started probably next week.

Use For Services
The new auditorium will be used exclusively for church services while the present church building will be used for educational purposes.

"The great increase in our membership has made a problem for seating capacity and we find it necessary to erect this temporary structure while we consider plans for building a new church within the next three years," stated Mr. Carroll.

W. B. Atkins is chairman of the building committee.

Slowly but surely the building valuations in Lubbock for the year are climbing toward the three million dollar mark and with the issuance of one permit Thursday for $10,000 the figure now stands at $2,983,614, for 506 permits.

The total for the month is $146,208, representing 36 permits.

Thursday's issuance was made to the First Baptist church for the erection of an auditorium of frame and stucco at 1407-9-11 Main street.

American Experts At Meet Named As Aides To Shearer

Newspapermen State That Rear Admiral Reeves Expressed Hope Of Geneva Conference Failing

Two Others Named
Shearer Is Described As A Lavish Spender At Naval Meet, Interested Only In Failure Of Session

By FRANCIS M. STEPHENSON
Associated Press Staff Writer
WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—Some of the American naval experts at the unsuccessful Geneva naval limitations conference of 1927 were named today to the senate investigation committee as associates in the Swiss city of William B. Shearer, the $25,000 "observer" sent there by American shipbuilders.

Drew Pearson, who reported the Geneva fiasco for several newspapers, told the committee that four of the naval experts lounched frequently with Shearer in the hotel lobby at Geneva—and that one of them, Rear Admiral J. M. Reeves, "frequently expressed the hope that the conference would not succeed."

Frequently Together
Rear Admiral Frank H. Schofield, commander H. H. Frost and Commander H. C. Train were the others named by Pearson as among those he saw "frequently" with Shearer. He said the four stopped at the same hotel as his own.

Describing Shearer as a "lavish spender at Geneva and the resident of a 'luxurious apartment,'" Pearson said the "observer and reporter" for the shipbuilders attended the newspaper conferences, passed out memoranda, and was "primarily interested that the conference should not succeed."

Carnival Quited
In Silent Prayer
10,000 Persons Bare Heads In Tribute To 22-Year-Old Diving Girl Who Met Death In Midway Tank

(By Associated Press)
ABILENE, Sept. 26.—Some 10,000 persons stood for three minutes with bowed heads tonight on the momentarily quiet West Texas fair grounds while the Rev. Willis P. Gerhart said prayers for Betty Jean Bradley, 22 year old diving girl, who died today from injuries received yesterday in a backward dive into a tank of the carnival company which employed her.

The midway was darkened and a hush was over the throng as the ministers, standing facing the grandstand in which 4,000 persons were awaiting the beginning of the Winter Garden Follies, spoke into a microphone and loud speaker hook up reaching all parts of the ground and into the building.

Household Is Diver
The funeral of the girl was set for 10 A. M. here tomorrow and the body was to be forwarded to Elgin, Ill., where the parents live. Betty Jean's husband, Charles Stier, is a fancy diver with a carnival company now showing at Childress. He performs under the name "Suicide Lincoln."

"If Additional Pro Enforcement Is Necessary It Will Be Forthcoming," Says Bishop James Cannon

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—The hubbub over prohibition conditions in the District of Columbia has prompted Bishop James Cannon, jr., chairman of the Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, to express the conviction that if additional enforcement legislation is found necessary "the people will expect it to be promptly forthcoming."

This opinion is contained in a report he is sending to the church press concerning the work of the several international religious conferences which he attended recently as an official delegate. The report reads in part:

"The impression which President Hoover made upon these European leaders was the thing which struck me most forcibly in my contacts with them in the great social and religious gatherings. Their estimate is that he

Lindy To Tour Central American Jungles For Ancient Mysteries

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—An air expedition will be undertaken soon by Charles A. Lindbergh over the unexplored jungle areas of Central America, believed by archeologists to hold the key to the mysteries of the ancient Mayan civilizations.

This announcement was made jointly today by the Carnegie Institution of Washington and the Pan-American Airways, Inc., of New York, which are financing the venture.

The expedition will operate from Belize, British Honduras. It will get under way as soon as possible after Lindbergh returns from his present South American trip.

Oliver Ricketson of the Carnegie Institution, an authority on Mayan archeology and discoverer of several Mayan cities, will accompany Lindbergh over sections of Guatemala, Honduras, British Honduras and the Mexican provinces of Yucatan and Quintana Roo.

Tropical Cyclone Hovering Off Tip Of Florida Coast

Furious Lashing Is Given Bahamas Islands As Storm Moves Toward Lower East Of Florida Thurs.

(By Associated Press)
Having administered a furious lashing to Eleuthera island in the Bahamas Wednesday night and severed Nassau, the Bahaman capital, from communication with the outside world, the tropical hurricane last night hovered somewhere off the eastern tip of Florida.

While there was no Washington weather bureau advisory late yesterday, United States forecasters, Richard W. Gray, at Miami, fixed the center of the storm at 4 p. m. at a position "more than 100 miles east and somewhat south of Miami."

Gray said his observations did not indicate whether the storm would move westward or had started to do so at that time. He said it was probable the next 24 hours would bring winds of gale intensity to the extreme lower east Florida coast.

Earlier in the day Dr. Carlos Millas of the Cuban National observatory, said the storm center apparently was moving closer to Cuba. The Belen observatory concurred in this view, but Dr. Gutierrez Lanza of Belen, said it was impossible to form a definite opinion because the storm was unusual.

FIVE ARE CHARGED Roadside Disturbance Is Fatal To Aged Man

DALLAS, Sept. 26. (AP)—A disturbance at a roadside stand near Grand Prairie, Sept. 1 in which W. J. Bell, 56, received injuries from which he died yesterday resulted today in murder complaints being filed against four Arlington, Tex., men.

The quartet, R. R. Clark, Early Dewberry, R. L. Galloway and J. E. Shelton, was released under bond on charges of assault to murder several days after the affair. Officers announced the men would be re-arrested and required to make new bonds.

LYSSES GRANT DIES Son Of Late President Is Called By Death

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Sept. 26. (AP)—Ulysses S. Grant, 77, eldest son of the late President, U. S. Grant, died while asleep last night at Sandberg Lodge, 70 miles north of Los Angeles. It was learned today. He apparently was in good health when he retired, friends said.

Born in Bethel, Ohio, in 1852, Grant attended Emerson Institute, Phillips Exeter Academy of New Hampshire, and received an A.B. degree at Harvard in 1876. He completed his law course at Columbia University and was his father's secretary during the last year of his presidential term. After serving as assistant United States district attorney for the southern district of New York, and practicing law from 1878 to 1883, Grant moved to San Diego, opened a law office and later built the $1,500,000 U. S. Grant hotel here.

SHOOTING OF GAS Well In Cochran County Postponed

Five Hundred Persons From Over South Plains Area Motor To Wildcat After Report Of Proposed Shot

Drillers Claim Hundreds Of Curious Visitors At Well Jeopardize Workmen By Crowding Around

(By Staff Correspondent)
LEHMAN, Sept. 26.—About 500 persons from South Plains cities who motored through the Slaughter ranch lands to location of the Marland oil company's No. 1 Slaughter test, five miles southwest of this city, returned to their homes disappointed last night, when announcement was made at the 8 o'clock that a "shooter" who was scheduled to arrive Thursday, had failed to appear for the assignment of "shooting" the hole.

The "shooter" was scheduled to arrive from Jai, N. M.

Drillers have made an appeal for consideration and precautionary measures upon the part of visitors. Curious hundreds, elated over prospects for oil, following upon the heels of every rumor, have flocked around the rig in a manner which has jeopardized the workers, it was pointed out.

Leading from the main highway at Lehman, several automobile trails wind across the open ranch land to the location. The winding paths, for the most part, have been made since oil was encountered at the test.

City Dressing Up For Fair

The first section of brightly colored lights, in which Lubbock will dress herself for fair week, was turned on last night at the intersection of Avenue H and Main street.

The section includes two strings of vari-colored lamps with about 25 globes to each string.

Thirty-five intersections over the city will be dressed in such fashion, making a total of about 1,750 brilliant colored lamps to shine out a welcome to the thousands of visitors expected in the city during the week of the Panhandle South Plains fair.

Materials are being paid for by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce while the city is furnishing the labor for installation and the power for lighting each night.

Two-Hour Parking Ordinance To Go Into Effect Here

New Rule Will Be Effective Within Ten Days After Final Reading Passage By Commission Thursday

A two-hour parking ordinance will come into force in Lubbock in ten days following final action and passing by the city commission Thursday evening in meeting at the city hall.

This ordinance was first read at the last meeting and passed. The second and final reading was had yesterday and it was passed again. After ten days the ordinance will be in force. The two-hour parking rule only applies to mercantile districts of the city and has met with approval of practically all merchants. It is designed to alleviate the unsatisfactory conditions which have existed in the mercantile section.

A discussion also was held at the meeting of some length relative to the municipal airport, north of the city. Grubbing on the site already has been finished and next week work will be started on leveling of the terrain. Other plans were formulated for future improvements. Several routine matters came in for attention at the commission's meeting.

Third Good Roads Campaign Started

Bond Issues For Paving Of Highways In District No. Two Sought In Last Drive Made Over County

The Lubbock County Good Roads Association Thursday inaugurated a drive to create a paving program for principal highways in district No. 2 of Lubbock county, with the circulation of a petition asking an election to vote on proposal for a $1,000,000 road bond issue.

The petition will be presented tomorrow at a meeting of the Lubbock county commissioners' court. Charles F. O'Neill, chairman of the association, expects to have an ample number of signers by this afternoon, he indicated late Thursday.

Funds Specified
The petition designates that the specified fund would be used for hard surfacing of Highway 7 from the boundary line to District No. 1, from division, through Lubbock to the Hockley county line, and highway 8, running north and south from Lynn to Hale county lines, 53 from Hockley to Crosby county lines, and 134 from the City of Lubbock to the Hockley county line.

A petition formed here in June for a $1,000,000 bond issue, which has been held in abeyance, due to the state highway department's action June 7 in rescinding the original designation of Highway 53.

Proponents of the current petition are acting at present upon the hope that the exact routing of Highway 53 between this city and Idalou will not interfere with the district-wide schedule.

LINDY RETURNING Lone Eagle Down At Mar- acy On Airmail Flight

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 26. (AP)—Skimming across South American skyways on the return half of his 7,000 mile air mail tour, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh brought his trail blazing plane down at Maracy, Venezuela, today three hours and 50 minutes after he had taken off from Port of Spain, Trinidad, 415 miles away.

He lifted his mail and passenger plane from the ground at Port of Spain at 10:35 A. M., and landed at Maracy at 2:25 P. M. His companions on the journey again were Mrs. Lindbergh, Juan T. Trippie, president of Pan-American Airways, sponsors of the commercial route which Lindbergh is inaugurating, the latter's wife, and the ship's crew.

Probation Sought By Mrs. Pantages

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26. (AP)—Request for probation if a new trial is denied her, will be made by attorneys for Mrs. Lola Pantages, convicted last night of manslaughter in connection with the death of Juro Rokumoto, in an automobile accident, they indicated late today.

Defense attorneys said they would present a petition for probation on the grounds that Mrs. Pantages' health, allegedly seriously undermined by the court ordeal, would be endangered by imprisonment.

Mrs. Pantages collapsed when a jury returned its verdict of guilty on charges she drove her automobile into the machine in which Rokumoto was riding, while she was under the influence of liquor. She was removed to her home after freedom on $50,000 bail was granted by Judge Carlos Hardy.

Davis was thrown from the car, which was hurled along the right-of-way for 100 feet, and his neck broken. McConnell was crushed beneath his machine.

$100,000 Damage Caused By Earth Tremor Thursday

People Roaming Streets In Fear Of Disaster As Result Of Lava Movements In Slumbering Volcanoes

Residents Warned
Volcanologist Of Islands Advises Guard Against Additional Earthquakes, Active Since Monday

(By Associated Press)
HILO, HAWAII, Sept. 26.—Dispatches from Kealahou in the Kona district late today said damage estimated at $100,000 was done by the earthquake at 6:34 o'clock last night. People were reported roaming the streets, fearing disaster. The earth was continually trembling as a result of lava movements within the slumbering volcanoes.

Warning was given today by Volcanologist Thomas A. Jaggar to people residing within forty miles of the volcano Hualalai to be on guard against the severe earthquakes which have shaken the district on the island of Hawaii since Monday night.

Similar vibrations, said Jaggar, preceded the violent eruption of Maunaloa in 1888, which was followed by a tidal wave along the west coast of the island. He advised the residents not to sleep in stone masonry buildings.

The quakes attributed by the volcanologist to rising lava beneath the surface of the earth, have been located by him as having their center near the fire pit of lofty Maunaloa. Eruptions on Hawaii usually are preceded by earth shocks, of which there have been more than 150 in the present manifestation. The heaviest shock rocked the island at 6:24 o'clock last night, destroying walls of buildings in its western part and ruining a seismograph at Kealahou. Shocks today, while less frequent were more violent than the earlier ones.

Martial Law Will Be Decided Today

Moody Will Make Decision After Hearing Report Of General Wolters After Investigation In Borger

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Sept. 26.—Although he will decide "immediately on the advisability of establishing martial law at Borger after he hears the report of General Jacob Wolters of the Texas National Guard on the situation there, Governor Moody will not issue the proclamation before tomorrow should he decide to send the state troops there, he said tonight.

"I only hope that it will not be necessary to declare martial law at Borger," the governor said.

General Wolters, accompanied by Clem Calhoun, special district attorney for the emergency, arrived here early tonight from the Hutchinson county oil town, scene of the assassination of District Attorney John A. Holmes.

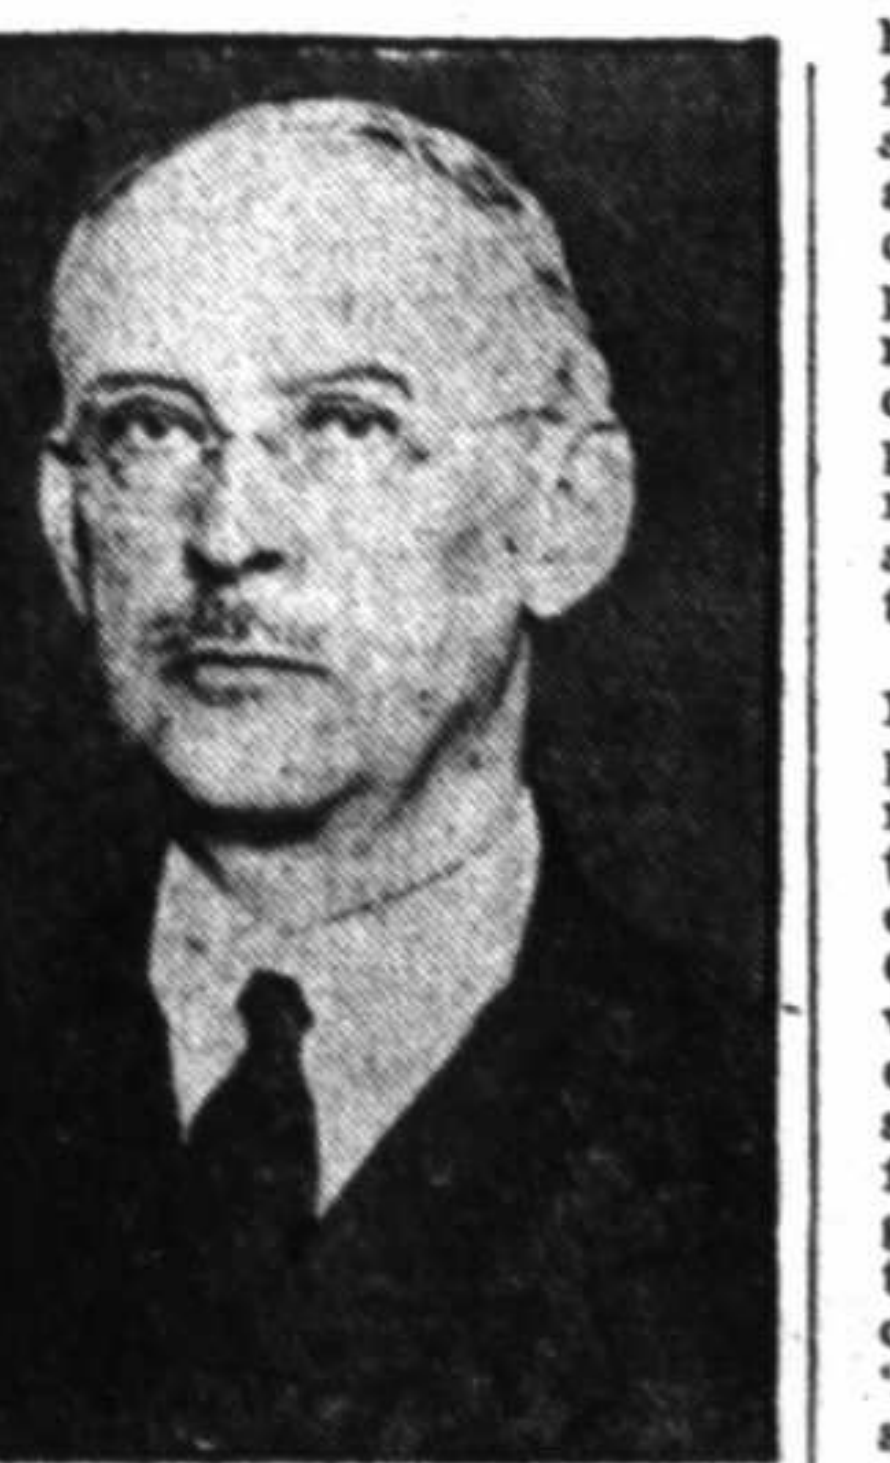

They went into conference with Governor Moody at 10 p. m. They waited on the governor while he attended a banquet tendered former Governor Peck M. Neff by his Austin friends.

Church And Other Social Affairs Planned For Today

Annual Receptions To Be Given At Churches This Evening To Welcome Tech College People To This City

Other Social Occasions To Be Features Of Week-End In Lubbock; Federation Meets This P. M.

THIS EVENING is the annual date for church welcome to the students and faculty members in Texas Technological college and each congregation has arranged a social affair for this evening at some designated place. College students who expect to attend the churches this evening are choosing their churches and are to attend the party given by that institution during the evening.

The entire membership of the First Presbyterian church is expected to attend the party at that church this evening. While most of the affairs are to be given in parlors of the institutions, the Cumberland Presbyterian party will be from 8 until 10 o'clock at the manse, 1613 10th street.

Sans Souci Club Party
In addition to these church affairs, which are interesting hundreds of students and townspeople other socialities are scheduled for today.

Sans Souci club members are to attend a party from 8 until 7 o'clock in the home of Miss Dorcas Vaughn, 2507 22nd street and Las Chaparritas club members are to attend a party from 8 until 7 o'clock in the home of Miss Sarah Michie, 2215 18th street.

The first meeting of the City Federation of Women's clubs for the fall is to be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the First Baptist church and Miss Mae Murrie, president, is to be in charge.

A number of other events have been scheduled for the afternoon and evening.

The WOMAN'S DAY

Chicago girls are in the vanguard of the modern woman in the world. It seems to me in the case of Caryl Prink MacArthur, divorced wife of Charles O. MacArthur, surgeon, and a playmate of the famous Helen Hayes.

Caryl divorced MacArthur in 1925 when he was poor and unknown. He did not contest the suit and, because it was obvious to one who had lived with him that he was not a lasting enough for alimony, she accepted $250 settlement.

So far, so good, for an ambitious young woman. The only trouble was that she was much too hasty. The very next year Charles MacArthur's play "Lulu Belle" brought him fame and money. Immediately instead of standing by her financial mistake, Caryl rushed into court to try to have the divorce decree set aside. She made no pretense about loving MacArthur. She announced she didn't want him back. She merely wanted her "rights" meaning alimony of his money.

WORSE THAN ALIMONY
The courts refused to set aside her divorce decree. MacArthur remarried. Then she sued for separate maintenance. This is still pending. The current comment, "Isn't that just like a woman?" makes me wearily. Yet it is just in that the whole problem of alimony leaves woman open to criticism. Personally, I have never been able to see why an able bodied, self-supporting woman should take money from an ex-husband just for herself. If there are children, that is another thing. But for an ex-wife to enjoy a divorce until her ex-husband gets the rewards for years of work and then come forward and try to claim some of the money he made after she had divorced him seems even less sporting than the usual alimony case. It will be interesting to see what the court decides.

"SOFTIES"
Surely this is a devastating age! Reports come from the far west that even lumberjacks have gone soft. A forester makes the report. He knew the tall timber along the West Coast when men gave men and men were chow. Recently he made a round of visits to logging camps. His lament runs as follows, according to the New York World:

"Instead of the usual stock of wooden cots and chewing tobacco, I found the commissary shelves adorned with fancy soap, face lotion, lip salves and other cosmetics. The table in the dining room was laden with beautiful women, dressed in the latest style.

At one camp the cook got up a special lunch whose sole de resistance was California head lettuce and shrimp salad, with Thousand Island dressing. While we toyed with our forks, no knives being furnished, the cook sat with us and the conversation was confined to golf."

GIVING IN TO LUXURY
I suppose there are some who will say the women started all this weakening of the men when they left home for equal rights. Rather, it seems to me an indication of an ubiquitous yielding to easier life and luxury all along the line. It is funny, anyway you analyze it. For no matter how soft we may become individually, there is no one who does not enjoy picturing the hardy, rough, unpleasant life of the tall timber, if not for romantic reasons, then for contrast to prove how nice our own life is.

How to Achieve Beauty

Among the modern fashions there is one trend which dominates. It is the part that style and "chic" play in the feminine beauty mode. For some time now, the purely pretty face and pretty figure have been quite out-of-date. Slim angularity and a somewhat hard, clear-cut, though smooth, perfection of line and contour have taken their place. Can you remember when a certain "Judy" sold for $100,000? That is the type which modern fashion says is de-mode, though how and why this change has come about is a difficult question to answer.

Perhaps the modern trend in art, with its sharp geometric designs and figures, and woman's efficiency in economic pursuits have been chief influences. At any rate, straight lines and smooth, firm planes have been given a preference over curves in feminine beauty. The sleek, severe contours that have been so smart, replacing curvy, fluffy, careless hair arrangements are one evidence. Slim, straight shoulders and hips, perfectly suited to the skillful tailoring of mannish sport clothes, are another.

Even soft, round cheeks, once an unfailing requisite of the feminine face called beautiful or less like to be admired than the firm, lean cheeks that usually go with firm, lean bodies.

To many whose ideas on feminine beauty were well fixed before the modern era this vogue for hard, slim smartness has been disconcerting. They have begged the fashion gods to give back their soft, gracious lady of feminine curves and feminine waistlines. Long, thin may be beautifully perfect, their careful precision, but their run the risk of making beauty seem too "hard," of robbing it of some sweetness and intrinsic charm.

Some fashion arbiters have gone so far as to imagine a partial resurrection of the Gibson girl, as a welcome reaction to the erstwhile modern type.

A change more imaginative than that, however, is in the air. Feminine curves are coming in, decreed by Paris. The principal line in clothes, higher waistlines, longer skirts, gracefully trailing about the ankles for evening, show the return of the lady-like lady to fashion. How far this change from hard, slim smartness to soft, molded, curving graciousness will go is hard to tell at present. Yet it is safe to say that the modern fashion in beauty is definitely changing.

Big Crowd Visits Lamesa For Fair Program Thursday

Attendance Swells To 5000 Mark Despite Ruling Of Sanitary Commission On Livestock Requirements

(Special To The Avalanche)

LAMESA, Sept. 26.—Despite the fact that all livestock were prohibited from being shown by the State Livestock Sanitary commission on account of insufficient time in which to comply with the new ruling of the commission, read in an ultimatum to fair officials yesterday, the Dawson county fair is swelled with a large attendance and agricultural exhibits are said to be the best ever shown here.

The crowd is estimated at 5,000 people today. At 2 o'clock this afternoon the largest and most colorful parade in the history of Dawson county was held. The parade was led by city officials, including Mayor E. B. Warren and commissioners J. B. Warren, R. L. Myers, followed by the Lamesa municipal band, boy scout Lamesa independent schools, Shetland ponies and decorated automobiles and trucks. The fair closes Friday of this week.

Ashley Will Help Poultry Division

Aubrey Ashley, of Lorenzo, will assist the Panhandle South Plains fair in the poultry division as assistant superintendent, according to an announcement yesterday by fair officials. Mr. Ashley will work under the direction of Ray C. Mowery, superintendent.

He was in Lubbock yesterday conferring with Mr. Mowery on plans for the coming exposition and both men are looking forward to the best exhibit ever produced in the poultry department at a Panhandle South Plains fair.

In addition to a great number of birds being exhibited from the local territory, a large number are expected from other sections of the South Plains due to the fact that farmers and producers are coming here to realize the value of poultry in the farming industry of today.

Lubbock, at this time, has three poultry packing plants, one of which is the largest of its kind in the entire southwest while there are also three hatcheries, one with a capacity of 141,000 eggs at aatching.

SOVIET PLANE READY Monoplane Groomed For Hop Over North Pacific

DUTCH HERBOR, Unalaska, Sept. 26 (AP)—Refueled and groomed, the monoplane, "Land of the Soviets" today awaited favorable weather to start its 700 mile flight to Seward, last leg of its route across the stormy northern Pacific. The plane is flying from Moscow to New York.

Autumn Clothing To Change Gestures, Silhouette Of Milady, Fashion Says

BY BETSY SCHUYLER

NEA Service Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Autumn clothes not only change Milady's silhouette. They change her gestures, too.

I mean this quite seriously. Watching smart women on Park Avenue, at the races, dog shows, and even in the evening at the theater or smart restaurants, I observed the new costs that fasten securely and no longer need holding shut, leave women's arms quite free. This makes carrying a purse a thing of formality. The glove that fits the hand that carries the purse and the purse itself attract much more attention swinging free from the body than they ever had when Milady's hand and all that it held was intent on keeping the coat wrapped about her.

In like manner, the longer, more graceful garments have a way of making women self-consciously feminine. This changes the stride of sports clothes into the more careful and leisurely step.

Feature of Smartness

Muriel Vanderbilt found a use for her free hand at Belmont Park last week. She carried quite the gayest and smartest parasol Belmont had seen, printed black and white, with a tremendously long handle. This smart lady wore a fitted coat colored in a perfect natural silver fox, a beauty. Her mother, the famous Virginia Fair Vanderbilt, looked very petite beside her, wearing a black two-piece suit, with fancy white facings edged in tiny pointed scallops. She wore one gorgeous bracelet of antique type and carried a large, handsome snakekin bag in just the shade of silver that her one-strap sandals were.

Mary C. Whitney sponsors purses to match her different suits and coats. Lunching at Pierre's the other day, she wore a smart tweed coat in tawny autumn tones, with shawl collar, and carried a tricky looking bag, "longer than wide," of the same fabric. Leather fashions the handles and diamond shaped flaps where the handles joined the tweed. It had a zipper fastening.

Furs Are Elegant

If you are thinking of fur this winter, look at your bank account first! For even the neckties appearing on the best throats this autumn are regal in their beauty. Elinor Hutton has one of the new sable scarfs that has a fancy cut, with several skins winding their elegance hither and yon until some-heads are on one shoulder and some on the other.

The way fur collars autumn things is stunning, though. Frances Otley has a gray tweed coat, collarless and cut in a V line. Along comes a grey squirrel scarf, attached in the back, that ties like a stock and wills in that vacancy in front. Chic and different!

Mrs. T. Markoe Robertson has a polka dotted worsted ensemble that uses shaved lamb the color of its grey dots to collar it in quite a novel manner, a turn-down collar like an open-necked sports shirt. Her hat deserved a word of mention. Black and grey velvet, striped to make a soft frame for her plangent features. It turned back from the face in the new manner, so becoming to some, trying to others. New fall fabrics are subtle in their patterns, even when they have stripes, dots and other designs that were wont to be gaudy. Virginia Thaw wore a mighty smart beige, brown and burnt orange worsted frock, with scarf collar and loop trimming up the sleeves and down the front, that was tremendously easy on the eye. Anne Carley has a new slate blue suit for fall that makes much of buttons in the way the blouse coat fastens across the hips and the open cuff sleeves fasten on the wrists.

The fitted silhouette is given preference by nine out of ten chic women arriving home from the other side. Valerie French wears a quaintly brand new creation in the form of a tight bodice, very full and very long sea-green chiffon skirt and elbow sleeves. Diana Guest brought back a plum colored flat crepe outfit, long, fitted and decidedly flaring. She has a little velvet chapeau of smartly contrasting tone of purple to top it.

Breakfast Session Held At Plainview

(Special To The Avalanche)

PLAINVIEW, Sept. 26.—The directors of the Plainview Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture held their regular weekly meetings at breakfast on Thursday mornings at seven o'clock. So popular has this custom of the directors become at Plainview that practically every organization in the city has adopted the same plan for their directors' meetings.

The present board has established a record for attendance at these early morning meetings seldom equaled by a chamber of commerce group. President Bill Gouldy hasn't missed a meeting of the board in two years, and his example has been followed by a great many of the other members of the board. One hundred per cent meetings are the rule, not the exception.

By meeting early in the morning, the members contend they do not interfere with their business hours, and do not have to pass up social functions at night in order to take care of the chamber's business. Then, too, they contend they are not so tired at this hour as if the meetings were held in the evenings.

Prince Of Wales Object Of Gossip

Heir To British Throne Sees No Use In Marrying Until He Falls In Love, Says Intimate Biographer

LONDON, Sept. 26 (AP)—The breakfast tables of England revealed this morning in gossip about the Prince of Wales. A new intimate biography discusses why the heir to the British throne doesn't marry and whether he will mount the throne.

The authors say: "Retaining the best of so-called old fashioned beliefs in his creed of modernity, the prince is a firm disciple of the belief that there is no use in marrying without love. Because he has not yet experienced that emotion in its true intensity, the prince does not get married. That is all there is to it."

May Be Last King
The prediction of the late King Edward VII is recalled to the effect that the present Prince of Wales would be the last king of England. Reference is made to the frequent suggestion made in England that the prince himself is not enthusiastic toward the prospect of becoming a sovereign. Declaring the prince has probably spent more time and thought upon the science of royalty than any other living person, the book says he feels himself faced on the one hand with medieval tradition and on the other hand by a view held by thousands who are not convinced whether royalty is necessary today or not.

Say authors: "He will without question make as good a king as his father, but he is a different type of man altogether." The biography is written by W. and L. Townsend. The publisher is Albert E. Marriott.

Attendance Makes Record At Snyder

Nine Communities Fighting For First Prize Of $150 In Exhibition Division Of Annual Session

(Special To The Avalanche)

SNYDER, Sept. 26.—Attendance records for opening day were shattered here today when more than 100 paid admissions clicked through the turnstiles to witness one of the largest county fairs in West Texas. With nine communities fighting for $150 in cash prizes, interest has been keen with home demonstration clubs, 4-H club boys and vocational agriculture classes keeping pace. Livestock exhibits are the best ever shown with competition in the Hereford classes stiffening ever before. Winston Brothers, J. J. Koonman and W. M. Scott and son all have classes full of the strongest competition.

$5,000 Price Refused
Winston Brothers have Domino, return Hereford bull on exhibit for which they refused $5,000 cash this morning.

Heading the large swine exhibit is a ton litter of Ed Jones, of Fuvanna, who secured the ton weight at a cost of 50-10 cents per pound. All other swine classes are well filled.

The largest exhibit of sheep ever shown here is on display with milk goats as new entries.

The greatest attraction Friday will be the first conference football game with Rotan high school at Wolf Park, where the fair is being held. More than 5,000 people are expected to see this game.

Three register of merit Jersey Herefords are being given away during the fair and the attendance is expected to surpass other years. Many West Texas counties are represented here. Community awards will be made Friday.

RACER INJURED
ABILENE, Sept. 26 (AP)—Bobby Ryan of Douglas, Ariz., was in a serious condition here today as the result of being pinned beneath his car during an automobile race yesterday. His racer went over a high embankment when his machine grazed the wheel of another car.

Nationalists Are Attacked In Paper

SHANGHAI, Sept. 26 (AP)—A stir was caused in political circles today with the distribution of a manifesto attacking the Nationalist government and President Chiang Kai-Shek to the foreign and Chinese press.

The manifesto bore the seal of the Kuomintang, Nationalist political organization, and was presumably signed by Wang Ching-wei, radical former chairman of the Kuomintang central, and ten other former members of the central executive committee, who were ousted with the advent of Chiang Kai-Shek into power.

Origin Unknown
Origin of the document, however, could not be proven although persons close to the left wing of Kuomintang expressed belief the manifesto was authentic and possibly indicated the secret return to China of Wang Ching-wei, who had taken refuge in Europe. Some also believed it was the forerunner of a left wing attempt to dislodge Chiang Kai-Shek and to inaugurate sweeping changes in the personnel of the National government.

Swine Entries At Fair Are Better

Many additional pens have been erected in the past few days at the Panhandle South Plains fair grounds for the swine exhibits, but even this additional construction program is expected by officials to be insufficient to meet the demands of exhibitors.

This year has seen a decided increase in the number of swine entries at the fair and officials have been taxed to make room for them. Douglas Pounds, superintendent of the swine division, returned last night from a trip to the Tri-State fair at Amarillo, where he conferred with officials there regarding other entries for the fair here. He was accompanied by B. C. Dickinson, president of the fair association, and A. B. Davis, manager.

"Hello Girl" Is Object Of Attack

HOUSTON, Sept. 26 (AP)—A 16-year-old Houston telephone operator was said to be in a serious condition at her home after a 24-year-old man attacked her early today.

The man and a couple were sought by police.

The girl said the man offered to take her home when she got off work. Another man and a girl were in the automobile.

She asserted she was prevailed upon to drink some liquor on a promise she would be carried home. The other couple left the car, and the man drove into the country and attacked her.

The girl reported she fought the man for some time and finally escaped from him, running to a highway and hailing a passing car.

Fifty-four Marooned By Flood Water In Harvey House Removed By Boats

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 26 (AP)—It was evident here early tonight that the 54 persons marooned in the Harvey House at San Marcial, N. M., had been removed by boats when continued attempts to reach the place by telephone failed. The Harvey House was the last place in San Marcial available by wire.

At 3 p. m. the manager of the Harvey House said in a telephone conversation with the Albuquerque Journal that all but 12 of the marooned persons had been removed. Shortly thereafter calls by railroad officials and newspapermen in the Journal office failed to bring a response.

Railroad Men Held
Most of the persons taken from the Harvey House were railroad men and laborers who had been working on the dikes and a few San Marcial residents who stayed with their homes until the last minute.

Those who left this afternoon went to the hills where some will wait until the water recedes. Some, however, will go to El Paso at the earliest opportunity, it was learned here. The laborers, according to information received while telephone communication still was in progress, will join work train crews on the Santa Fe railroad south of San Marcial.

Meager advice as to the extent of the damage caused by the flood said the new Santa Fe railroad bridge did not go out although the approaches on both sides were destroyed.

Westerners Battle Crosbyton Chiefs In Game Today

Crosby County Aggregation Brings Strong Offensive Combination To Meet Lubbock In Practice Affair

Debats Of Finis Vaughn Boast Envious Record On Football Field For Past Two Years—Game Today Will Start At 4 o'Clock

The Crosbyton Chiefs, boasting one of the best gridiron records of any team in the state, will today meet the Westerners of Lubbock in a practice game at the Lubbock high school in the second football game of the season for the "Main" Hub.

With a record of fourteen victories out of eighteen starts in the last two years, the chiefs of Crosbyton will today bring to Lubbock to play a grid aggregation that bids fair to make a strong bid for the district crown for the 1929 season. Have Veterans Club.

Eight letter men from the 1928 Crosbyton eleven will be in the starting lineup that takes the field against the Westerners this afternoon when the first whistle blows at 4 o'clock. The Chiefs started training in late August along with the Lubbock gridsters, pitching their camp almost within a mile of the Westerners stronghold in Crosby county. In the only previous game Crosbyton has played this season, the Lorenzo Hornets were defeated by the score of 22 to 0.

Coach Vaughn and his Chiefs will arrive here shortly after noon today. The entire Crosbyton squad is making the trip and the visitors are certain to have plenty of reserve power.

Lubbock's gridsters wound up training Friday afternoon by taking a light workout on the Tech gridiron and getting the lay of the land where they will pitch their battle today.

Victory is Primed

Coach Franks last night reiterated his statement of earlier in the week that the Westerners will be sent into the fray with full instructions to open up the works and test their full category of plays against the Crosbyton aggregation. He said that the Westerners will have a wide-open game with both clubs fighting for possession of the ball.

A large delegation of Crosbyton fans are expected to accompany the Chiefs here for the game with the Westerners today.

Round By Round

ROUND ONE
Carefully, with the deepest respect for each other, the big clean limbed fellows sparred in the center of the ring. Sharkey, growled, turned his head and smashed into Tommy's body with both hands. Loughran flinched a bit and looked up at the Bostonian. Tommy bounced over a left hook to the chin, but Sharkey reached him with a long left hook as he dove forward again and bounced his right fist on Tommy's chin to the surprise of all. Sharkey made the "big" Loughran miss with his next left jab and they bounced together to swap six close quarters. This time Tommy had things under control and he tied up Sharkey as the will rang.

ROUND TWO
Sharkey's wild lunge went a mile to Tommy's sparring head with a left and pushed him into the ropes. A bit perturbed at such treatment, Sharkey dove in with a long right that missed by two feet and Loughran neatly hooked his left to the chin. They fenced in the center, trying to make each other lead until Tommy grimly accepted the challenge and raised three lefts off Sharkey's scowling face. Sharkey drove the dancing master to the ropes with a left hook to the body, bounced his right fist in Loughran's chin and banged home two lefts to the head. As they came away Tommy was boxing studiously at the bell.

ROUND THREE
Sharkey fenced and then flogged Loughran. Only a few seconds after the gong sounded Sharkey lifted a right hand to Tommy's chin that dropped him in his own corner. His head over his shoulders, he came up at a count of five but turned dazed to a neutral corner, tucked his back on Sharkey and hung there helplessly. The referee held off Sharkey and awarded him the fight on a technical knockout.

Card Prexy Pays Tribute To Hug

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 26 (AP)—Branch Rickey, president of the St. Louis Cardinals when Miller Huggins was manager of the club in 1917, paid tribute to the late manager of the New York Yankees in these words:

"There never was a sounder strategist, a shrewder manager or a craftier player or leader. I knew Huggins intimately. It was his ambition to own a ball club in St. Louis and his failure to put through that project is what caused him to leave the city."

BURNS PROVE FATAL

MEXICO CITY, Sept. 26 (AP)—Four persons were dead of burns here today and ten probably fatally burned as the result of a fire which destroyed a small ship anchored off the suburb of Rivera. The fire started last night when 34 persons were aboard the boat, being caused by an overturned lamp. Thirteen passengers jumped into the water and were picked up by a launch, but the fourteenth, a small child, was burned to the ship.

Injury Jinx Hits St. Edwards Crew

Coach Al Sarafins Spreads Gloom Like Veteran Mentor On Eve Of Tilt With Texas Longhorns

AUSTIN, Sept. 26 (AP)—Although he is taking the coaching role for the first time, Al Sarafins, St. Edwards' mentor, today was ready to unfold a tale of gloom that might do credit to far more experienced exponents of woes that beset those who teach the gridiron game. St. Edwards play the State University Saturday.

The youthful coach, who last year was bulwark of defense in the St. Edwards' line, faced the contest Saturday with Texas University with three ailing spark plugs of his eleven. Louis Munoz, tackle, suffered a bruised leg at New Orleans in the Loyola clash. Scott, his best fullback, sustained a shoulder injury in practice. Another ailing member of the squad dropped out today in the person of Fannette, quarterback, and Sarafins' best bet at the signal calling berth.

Reserves worked today. Longhorn supporters had reason to believe that Coach Littlefield's starting team would consist of Rose and Vining at ends, Captain Bryan and Emerson at tackles, Baumgarten and Bealy at guards and J. Burnett at center. Shelley, Reese, Beaulier and Beard likely will start in the backfield.

$9,000 LOSS CAUSED

SAN ANTONIO, Sept. 26 (AP)—Loss estimated at between $7,000 and $9,000 was caused by fire of undetermined origin at the eighth corps area general depot at Fort Sam Houston last night in which eight horses and two mules were burned. JACK SHARKEY

Jack Sharkey, Boston heavyweight contender, scored a technical knockout last night over Tommy Loughran, Philadelphia boxing artist, in the third round of a scheduled 15-round match that ended in a most surprising fashion. A single punch after 27 seconds of fighting in the fatal third round knocked Loughran down for a count of five but he came up helpless, turned his back on his opponent and lost the fight as he gazed in dazed fashion at the people in the arena.

Slaton Bengals To Meet Clovis

(Special To The Avalanche)

SLATON, Sept. 26 (AP)—A new athletic field will be placed in use here Friday afternoon when the Slaton High Tigers meet the Clovis N. M. High eleven for the Tigers' first game at home this season. Clovis is expected to send a large delegation here for the game, and a heavy attendance from over this section of the Plains is anticipated.

The new field is not quite completed, but it has been completely fenced and will be in good condition for the game. Definite information on the Clovis outfit is lacking here, but the Tigers expect a hard battle. They have played only one other game this season, defeating Big Spring last Friday, 12 to 0, at Big Spring.

Tech Gridsters Will Take Last Workout Today For Tilt With Wayland College Jackrabbits

With the worries of registration all over the Tech Matadors Thursday went through their last strenuous training for the opening game of the season here Saturday afternoon with the Jackrabbits of Wayland Baptist college.

Thoroughly drilled on offensive tactics as a result of the first two weeks of training, the Tech men yesterday concentrated their efforts on a defense for the vaunted attack of the lanky Rabbits. Following the usual limbering-up exercises, the Matadors were thrown into a lengthy session of pass defense, paying special attention to the style of aerial attack used by the cohorts of Frank Kimbrough.

Matador officials expressed doubt last night as to whether or not Sidney Knowles, giant Tech tackle, would return for the season. Knowles left Tuesday night for his home at San Benito to be at the bedside of his father, who is critically ill. No word has been received from Big Sid, but his return here is considered extremely doubtful.

Loss of the big veteran will be a stunning blow to the Tech forward wall. Coach Payne had planned to run Knowles at offensive tackle and defensive guard.

Today the Tech gridsters will take their final practice before going into the fray Saturday against Wayland. With the Westerners playing their second game of the season with Crosbyton on the Tech gridiron, the Matadors will use the field west of the stands for their workout.

Stronger S. M. U. Team Looms Up

DALLAS, Sept. 26 (AP)—If hard work can smooth out the wrinkles, the Southern Methodist University eleven that faces Howard Payne here Saturday in its second game will bear slight resemblance to the one that barely staggered through to victory over the North Texas Teachers' last week.

As their important tussle with Nebraska is scheduled a week from Saturday, the Mustangs may be expected to reveal a varied attack against the Yellow Jackets and roll up as big a score as possible.

Neither Bob Gilbert, quarterback, nor Ira Hopper, fullback, will get in to Saturday's fray. Both have slight injuries received in scrimmages, but will be ready to face Nebraska.

Loughran Helpless Before Mad Pace Of Sailor

By EDWARD J. NEIL, Associated Press Sports Writer.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Sept. 26 (AP)—In a comeback that was swift and stunning, Jack Sharkey, bombastic sailor from Boston, swept back to the top of the heavyweight brigade tonight with a sensational three round victory over Tommy Loughran.

A crowd of 45,000, drawn to the spacious American League ball park by the lure of the final heavyweight spectacle of the outdoor season, sat astonished and silent as the temperamental tar, at times the most gifted of the present crop of heavyweights, suddenly turned tiger again and crushed Loughran from the picture in just 27 seconds of the third session.

The crowd that paid $200,000 for the evening's entertainment saw one of the most amazing endings of modern flistic battles, as Loughran, rendered helpless by a vicious left hook to the body and right that crashed full on his chin, took a count of five, rose to his feet, stood dazed in a neutral corner as Referee Lou Magnolia stopped the fight.

Sharkey At Best

Seldom in all his varied career of success and disappointment, has Sharkey appeared to better advantage. From the opening gong, Loughran, a light favorite, was almost helpless before the vicious Gob's power and confidence.

Even in the short span of their appearance, Sailor John outboxed the former master of light heavyweights, out-stepped him with sharp left jabs, and handled ambitious Tommy with ease in the clinches.

With startling suddenness, the fast, erratic mulling of the first two rounds turned into a slaughter in the third. The gong still was echoing in the huge ball yard when Sharkey, as though finally loosed from a leash, drove across the ring, rammed his left to Loughran's body and smashed home a vicious right to the chin. The blow caught the surprised Philadelphia glancing crack on the chin and he toppled backward to the floor, his head resting against the lower rope in his own corner.

Huggins Funeral Services Today

Gotham Will Pay Tribute To Biggest Little Man In Baseball; Coaches, Players Fall Bearers

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP)—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow afternoon for Miller Huggins, the biggest little man in baseball, and immediately after the last prayers are said, the body of the "Yankee" manager will start "back home" to Cincinnati. Huggins was born in the Ohio city and won his ball fame there.

The body was taken this afternoon to the Church of the Transfiguration, better known as the "Little Church Around the Corner," where several hundred persons were waiting. One by one they filed through the Mortuary Chapel to pay a final tribute. The chapel was open to the public until 9 o'clock tonight and will remain open until the funeral services at 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon.

Pall bearers at the services tomorrow will be members of the Yankees who, with Huggins at the helm, twice won three straight American League championships. The two coaches who planned with him, Arthur Fletcher and Charles O'Leary, and four active players, Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig, Tony Lauer and Earle Combs, will be the pallbearers. The baseball game scheduled for tomorrow between the Yankees and Senators at Washington was postponed to permit the players to pay their last tribute.

Soon after the services the body will start west to rest beside his parents in the city of his birth. Services will be held at the First Presbyterian Church, Cincinnati, Sunday afternoon.

EBBETS WINS ON K. O.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 26 (AP)—Harry Ebbets, blonde Brooklyn mid-dieweight, knocked out Johnny Burns of Chicago in the first round of a scheduled ten round bout here tonight. The round lasted only a minute and 22 seconds. Burns going down under a barrage of rights and lefts to the head.

Captains 1929

If all the Wildcats on the Northwestern University football squad were as wild as the Wildcat captain Henry Anderson, what a football team Coach Dick Hanley would put in the Big Ten race this season. The Wildcat leader is rugged and fast for his weight. He is one of the greatest football students on the varsity squad. Anderson is adept at pulling out of the line to block for his halfbacks. Whether or not Northwestern ranks near the top in the conference standing, the Purple leader undoubtedly will be one of the outstanding guards of the organization.

Long Controversy On Provisions Of Tariff Bill Seen

Measure Advocated By President Hoover And
Members Of Republican
Party In Senate Row

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (AP)—The Senate, with the opening attack of democrats and republican independents in mind, today faced the prospect of a long and bitter controversy over the flexible provisions of the tariff bill, advocated by President Hoover and supported by republican leaders.

Both sides were plunged into the task of rounding up and strengthening their forces, recognizing that the vote is likely to be a close one. The democrats were obviously encouraged by evidence of support from the republican independent group given by the attack on the flexible provisions by Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, while the republican leaders felt they could count heavily on the President's statement urging continuance of the policy they favored.

Division, Injected
The fact that Senator Bingham, republican, Connecticut, member of the finance committee, employed an agent of the Connecticut Manufacturers' association as his secretary during his committee's consideration of the bill, meanwhile, injected an element of diversity into the situation. The revelation brought a debate by the Connecticut senator and republican leaders and an attack by democrats, who decried Bingham's action as "brazen."

The democratic attack on the administration's position in favor of raising the President's authority to raise or lower tariff rates upon recommendation of the tariff commission was led by Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, who had completed his denunciation of the bill and the seven-year record of operation.

Statement Interrupted
The President's statement on behalf of the flexible principle and its silence in other respects were interpreted by George as "indicating acquiescence in all other matters in this bill."

Senator King, democrat, Utah, said it was "absolutely certain" the President has failed to give any explanation on the tariff until now. When Senator Simmons of North Carolina, ranking democrat on the finance committee, has moved to strike the executive power.

Simmons' proposal, offered as a substitute for the flexible provisions sponsored by the committee, would take away from the executive the power to change the tariff commission's findings to Congress instead of the President.

"Dynamite The Alimony Racket," Cries Mrs. Al St. John, Who Signs Alimony Check For Al's First Wife

By NEA Service.
NEW ORLEANS, La., Sept. 26.—If you want to get a new light on the ancient subject of alimony, go out some day and find a wife No. 2 who is signing the weekly alimony checks that go to her husband's discarded wife No. 1. When you've found her, just sit back and listen.

June Price St. John, second wife of the movie comedian Al St. John, is such a wife. She married St. John shortly after his first wife, Marion Ball, had divorced him. And a few days ago, when a Los Angeles judge threatened to send St. John to the municipal rock pile "for the rest of his life" if he didn't pay $2,300 in back alimony, it was June Price St. John who saved him from that fate.

She Doesn't Like It.
St. John and his wife stopped off in New Orleans en route to Florida, where St. John's company is to make a movie, and Mrs. St. John proved willing to discuss the subject of alimony in all its aspects.

"These first wives!" she began. "Where do they get off? Just because they catch a nice boy when he's too young to know, they think they've got a meal ticket for life. Hollywood's full of 'em. Almost as many alimony checks in Hollywood as pay checks. Get your man, divorce him and sit pretty for the rest of your life—that's the program for a lot of extra girls who ought to be dealing the dishes off the arm in a beany."

"Al, now—Al's just a great big boy—that's all he is. Pay his bills and love him and give him a hundred a week for spending money and he doesn't want another thing in the world."

The reporter murmured "who would?" But Mrs. St. John didn't hear.

"My first husband," she resumed, "was a business man. When I got a divorce I knew it was up to me to get out and get into business. I went out to Hollywood and got into made money. What I mean, money. Al was getting his $6,000 a week and paying his alimony on the dot when we fell in love and got married. Then he had a long period with no engagements. Who paid that woman's alimony? I did. I signed the checks myself."

"That morning the case came up for trial, the judge was talking rough. He told Al: 'I've got just one more place left on the rock pile, and you can have it the rest of your natural life until you pay up that alimony.' Al leaned over to me and whispered that the judge was joking."

"But I said to Al, 'That judge's eyes are set too close to his nose. He isn't joking.' He wasn't. That's when I got my lawyer to appeal."

"It's all wrong, this business of wives getting married for a meal ticket and figuring from the jump they're going to get divorced and sit pretty for the rest of their lives with an alimony check coming in faster than any pay check they'd see if they lived a million years. 'Any woman judge would know what a joke it is when one of these wives does her baby-faced innocent stare in court and tells how the big bad man came into her life and reluctantly she gave him just everything. Take it from me—take it from any woman who'll tell the truth: when a woman sees the man she wants she goes out and gets him. If it doesn't stick, she ought to be sport enough to take her licking without yelping for an annuity. I don't see any lifetime pensions for good men who married wet snicks."

June St. Price and her moving picture comedian-husband, Al St. John, whom she saved from the rockpile by paying his alimony.

An Appeal to Hoover.
"It's time President Hoover or somebody investigated this alimony industry. It wouldn't take a bunch of women judges long to dynamite it. And take it from me, the municipal rockpile isn't the answer the ages have been waiting for to straighten out love's young dream when it goes nightmare."

"The world is full of men. If you pick a bad bet, forget it and try to make a good one next time."

Laredo Man Succeeds Mr. Pollard As Attorney General After Appointment By Governor Moody

AUSTIN, Sept. 26. (AP)—R. L. Bobbitt, of Laredo, entered upon his duties as Attorney General today, succeeding Claude Pollard, resigned. He took the oath of office, administered by Judge W. C. Fear Of Trouble In Negro Section Of Chicago Is Quieted By Guardsmen

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (AP)—Fear of trouble in the densely populated negro quarter of the South Side was quieted today by the presence of several hundred policemen and national guardsmen, stationed there following the slaying of Police Officer William Gallagher and John Stephenson, a negro.

Militiamen guarded armories in which were stored munitions. The eighth regiment, a negro unit, occupied the armory nearest the flat building in which occurred yesterday's gun fight between policemen and negro cultists.

Policemen Wounded.
Jesse D. Huitt, policeman wounded when officers raided headquarters of the Moorish Holy Temple of Science of the World, lay near death. He was shot seven times. Condition of the other wounded officer, Stewart McCutcheon, also was serious. Moses Jackson, known to other cult members as "The Sheik," was recovering from a shoulder wound. Sixty negroes, men and women, were arrested as police swarmed into the negro area. The entire section, however, was unusually quiet throughout last night. Deputy Police Commissioner John Siegel, who found the "situation disquieting," recalled it was a similar episode that precipitated the race riot of 1920.

when several negroes and white persons were killed. Euclid made all of his geometric tabulations on a smooth surface of sand strewn over the floors of his home.

On the Firing Line at the Nation's Capital

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.—Who are the senators' "progressive" Republicans?

It never has been as easy a job as one might think to list them. This is because not very many senators like to be classified as "progressive." Ask THEM, and a good many of those whom one would not have expected to be progressive a bit, claim to be. Generally they back up these claims by reminding one of a progressive position or two that they have taken, respectively—raising just enough of a doubt to cloud the issue.

Certain Republicans like La Follette, Norris, Nye and a few others, unquestionably are Progressives—using a capital "P" this time, to denote that they believe, virtually, to a separate political party.

Quite a handful, however, always have been hard to place more definitely than in what Senator Shipstead, now the only remaining Farmer-Labor member of both houses of congress put together, calls the "twilight zone"—a difficult political realm to estimate accurately.

Today that is not as crepuscular as it was. The senate's vote on the opening up of income tax returns, to enable the lawmakers to discuss the pending tariff bill more intelligently, illuminated it considerably.

Friends of a much higher set of tariff rates argue, as we know, that a lot of poverty-stricken industries need the increase, for the sake of better protection against foreign competition.

The bill's foes insist that few such industries really are poverty-stricken; that what they want is an air-tight monopoly.

To settle the point—whether or not the supposedly distressed industries are already making plenty of money—was a knotty problem, inasmuch as not even the highest of high tariff advocates had the nerve to propose taking the industries' own word for it.

Finally the low tariff Democratic Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, suggested a plan.

The industries' income tax returns would tell the true story, he said.

To be sure—but income tax returns are deeply confidential—between the folk who make them, and the treasury—under weighty penalties of the law. "But," reasoned Senator Simmons, "we can modify the law," and straightaway introduced a resolution to do so.

The Simmons resolution passed the senate recently. That vote "s" regarded on Capitol Hill as the acid test of progressive-ism—of Republican progressive-ism, that is to say.

Of all of them who were present the Democratic senators voted for the resolution to a man—but that was partly politics.

The Republicans split. Not counting seven G. O. T. absentees, 21 were pro-publicity; 27 were "anti"—21 sure-enough Progressives, more or less; 27 without a discernible trace of it in their compositions, as indicated by the cleanest-cut analysis that the upper house membership has undergone yet.

The 21 Senators Blaine, Borah, Brookhart, Cawley, Cramer, Fraser, Glenn, Howell, Jones, La Follette, McClellan, McNary, Norris, Nye, Pine, Robinson of Indiana, Sackett, Schall, Steiwer, Thomas of Idaho and Vandenberg.

The 27 Senators Allen, Bingham, Dale, Edge, Ford, Gillett, Goff, Goldsborough, Gould, Greene, Hale, Hastings, Hatfield, Herbert, Kean, Keys, Metcalf, Moses, Patterson, Phipps, Shortridge, Smoot, Townsend, Walcott, Warren, Waterman and Watson.

In parenthesis he it understood—this classification should not be interpreted as a classification between sheep and goats. Or, if it is, it is an old-fashioned, regular Republican would refer to the 27 as the sheep and the 21 as the vicious all-controlling goats, whereas a Progressive would classify the 21 as a flock of reactionary goats of the ugliest type.

It all depends on the viewpoint that it was a sorting out of especial interest is all that is emphasized herewith.

The Progressive, in the main, were about the individuals one would have supposed were as progressive as that. The only decided surprise, one might say, was Senator Glenn. Who would have imagined that progressive-ism lurked in the make-up of that Illinoisian?

Senator Allen, on the other hand, is the surprise. If any among the 27, Henry J. as governor of Kansas, had a reputation for rather advanced views—maybe more so than Senator Capper, his Sunflower colleague, who voted the other way.

The Republican absentees were Senators Burton, Cutting, Depue, Johnson, Norbeck, Oddie and Reed.

The betting is ten to one that Oddie and Reed, had they been present, would have transformed the 27 into 29; that Cutting, Johnson and Norbeck would have gone to swell the 21's quota.

Senator Burton has his progressive streaks. One would have guessed Senator Depue as a safe "Republican"—but, considering the way his Illinois senator, Glenn, lined up, who shall take a chance on him?

Your Health

ARE YOU A TACHYPHAGE? IF YOU ARE, TAKE THREE HOURS TO EAT

By DR. MORRIS FISHEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The word tachypage comes from two roots: (1) tachy—rapid; (2) phage—to eat. In other words, a tachypage is a rapid eater and our country is full of them.

We do not have the exclusive right to the group because they have appeared in France, where Dr. Paul Michon coined the word, and the London Lancet mentions their prominence in England.

The tachypage, it is said, wakes in the morning with a tight feeling in his abdomen at the thought of the day that is before him. He lies in bed too long thinking about his troubles, rushes through his dressing, trifles with his breakfast, and speeds to the office. He is troubled with discomfort in his abdomen most of the morning.

He bolts his luncheon, hurries through the afternoon and gets home just in time to bolt his dinner so that he can be off to the theater or a reception.

The constant discomfort in his interior gives him an anxious look. Sooner or later he begins to think he has hyperacidity or gastric ulcers and takes large quantities of sodium bicarbonate or baking soda an hour or two after each meal.

Most of his troubles is due to the fact that he eats too rapidly and because of his mental state has difficulty in digesting what he eats. The chief step in his cure is the establishment of regular hours for his meals, insistence on spending the full time in eating the meal and avoidance of all business discussions, telephone conversation or other anxieties during the meal.

The New York Herald formed some time ago at their favorite resort in the Adirondacks a three-hour-for-lunch club. Perhaps they were initiating one of the first steps necessary for a reaction against the establishment of tachypage as a universal disease.

Today's Poem

TO THE GRASSHOPPER AND THE CRICKET

Green little vaulter in the sunny state,
Catching your heart up at the feel of June

Sole voice that's heard amidst the lazy moon
When even the bees lag at the summering breeze

And you warm little housekeeper, who class
With those who think the candle comes too soon

Loving the fire, and with your trickster tune
Nick the glad silent moments as they pass

O sweet and tiny cousins, that belong
One to the fields, the other to the hearth

Both have your sunshine, both though small are strong
At your clear hearts, and both seem given to earth

To sing in thoughtful cars their natural song—
Indoors and out, summer and winter, Mirth

3,000 "Butchered Like Sheep"

Chinese Separate Moslems From Women And Children To Massacre Them Outside City Wall

HANKAW, China, Sept. 26. (AP)—Additional details of the alleged Chinese massacre of 3,000 Moslems in a remote part of Kansu province indicate the affair took place at Taohow, an old city in southwest Kansu, on the Tau river.

According to information considered authentic, after a period of Sino-Moslem conflict in South Kansu, part of a Mohammedan rebellion in Kansu going on during the last two years, Chinese authorities asked Moslems to convene at Taohow to receive barley.

"Butchered Like Sheep" After the Moslems' arrival, the males between the ages of 15 and 30 were separated from the women and children, taken outside the city walls and "butchered like sheep."

No word reached the women until the next day when pitiful scenes were enacted as women sought to identify their dead. Their mournful cries echoed through the city.

It was considered the Moslems were willing to meet the Chinese at Taohow in hope of securing food.

Hochow, a hundred miles northwest of Taohow, is reported besieged, and Chinese of the Taohow neighborhood are reported panic-stricken as a result of the massacre, fearing Hochow Moslems will ravage Taohow countryside and wreak vengeance.

Banking Conditions On South Plains Are Okeh

P. Tally Says Short
Possibility Over
Southwest Disappointing
Generally Over Area

Lynn P. Tally, Dallas, governor of the Eleventh District Federal Reserve Banking system, declared here yesterday that while business conditions, as reflected from the year's apparent crop yield, are rather disappointing in the Southwest generally, the situation in this particular section is satisfactory.

Mr. Tally, with W. A. Philpott, Dallas, secretary-manager of the Texas Bankers' association, spent part of Thursday in Lubbock en route to San Francisco where they will attend the annual convention of the National Bankers' association opening Monday. The two left late yesterday after being joined here by A. A. "Buck" Horn, of Galveston, president of the Texas Bankers' association.

Mr. Tally, who has served as governor of the Eleventh district for the past five years, commented freely upon financial matters in an interview with the Morning Avalanche. Impressed with West Texas and its possibilities, Mr. Tally showed by his conversation that he is in close touch with conditions throughout the area embraced by the Eleventh district, which comprises 770 member banks in Texas, southeastern Oklahoma, northern Louisiana, southeastern Arizona and part of New Mexico.

"The need of West Texas and the South Plains is to specialize in a particular avenue of production," Mr. Tally said. "To say that you specialize in agriculture is not enough. You must pick out some one phase of agriculture and give the major part of thought and labor to that specialty."

"The trouble with many sections," the governor commented, "is that not enough attention is paid to conditions which react against prosperity and business stability. The good points will largely cancel themselves. Business men should know the bad points and guard against them for the good of everybody concerned."

The governor is of the opinion that the financial structure underlying South Plains business today is entirely satisfactory. "We have no wild and woolly conditions prevailing here," he asserted. Mr. Tally further stated that he was impressed with Lubbock and the surrounding country.

"The speculation will continue," he said, "until the American public reaches the point where it is ready to quit—and not before."

Mr. Tally and Mr. Philpott were honor guests at a luncheon at Hotel Lubbock at noon today. A courtesy extended by the Lubbock Clearing House association, an organization operated by the three local banks. The visit of the two men here today was characterized as incidental to their trip to San Francisco and conferences with officials of all three banks here were purely social.

Although he probably has more widespread problems of finance than any individual in the Southwest, the human side of Governor Tally quickly came to the fore when football season was mentioned. As a citizen of Dallas he showed interest particularly in the prospects of a winning season at Southern Methodist university and his comments upon football showed that he was keeping in close touch with the Pony gridsters.

"S. M. U. will have largely a new and young team this year," he said. "We lost eleven stars through graduation and what the team will do is a matter for speculation. I intend to stop off in Lincoln, Nebraska, on the way back from San Francisco and will see S. M. U. play the University of Nebraska Cornhuskers early next month."

The Federal Reserve chief recalled the days when he worked for the Temple Tribune as a carrier boy and took pride in reminiscing along that era of his life. "I was carrying a route during the blizzard of 1899," he said, "and left the newspaper office on horseback at four o'clock on the morning of the great storm. I completed my route and there was no article complaint registered by a subscriber."

The governor is a man of average physical build, apparently in his middle forties and dresses conservatively but neatly. He thinks quickly, keeps up readily with changes in conversation and is pleasant to meet.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP)—A radio broadcast story that General John J. Pershing accidentally shot and slightly wounded Richard P. Two Ministers Face Court Charges In Pantages Case; Defendant Is Ill

(By Associated Press)
LOS ANGELES, Sept. 26.—Mrs. Pantages, convicted of manslaughter in connection with the death of a Japanese gardener, after a collision of their automobiles, was under the care of physicians today. The theatrical magnates wife fell to the floor of the court room where the jury's verdict was read last night and was carried screaming from the building.

The five women and seven men who had heard three weeks of testimony concerning Mrs. Pantages' alleged intoxicated condition at the time of a fatal collision June 18, and the subsequent death of Juro Rokumoto, found her criminally responsible with 28 hours after the case had been placed in their hands.

Pronouncement Sentence Friday
Superior Judge Carlos Hardy set 2 p. m. tomorrow as the hour of pronouncement of sentence, which is fixed by California law at from one to ten years imprisonment. He permitted the woman her freedom under a $50,000 bond posted prior to the trial pending action on motions for probation and an ew trial.

Alexander T. Pantages, husband of the convicted woman, who himself faces trial October 1 on two statutory charges brought by Eunice Pringle, dancer, sat through the final episode of the sensational trial with tears streaming down his face.

One of the outgrowths of the sensational trial was the beginning of contempt of court proceedings against the Rev. R. P. "Fighting Bob" Shuler, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church South in Los Angeles, and the Rev. Gustav Bruegel, another prominent pastor here. For many years, the Rev. Shuler was pastor of churches in Texas.

The Rev. Dr. Shuler and the Rev. Mr. Bruegel were accused of deliberately casting reflections upon the integrity of the jury which convicted Mrs. Pantages. At the time the jury was selected the Rev. Dr. Shuler in a speech broadcast by the radio station of his church allegedly said the jury was "hung" before the taking of testimony had begun and he could name the man who would "hang" it. Dr. Bruegel was accused of having made similar statements from his pulpit in St. Paul's Presbyterian church.

Judge Hardy ordered the ministers to appear Monday to show cause why they should not be adjudged in contempt.

It is estimated that the sea contains enough salt to bury the whole dry land under a layer 400 feet deep.

Men Rebelling Personality Bound By Clothing

DALLAS, Sept. 26 (AP)—The men are "beginning to rebel at the fashion edict that condemns them to submerge their personality as well as deprive them of comfort," but they are not likely to take up the skirt habit, Miss Bertha Bernstein of New York assured the tenth district advertising clubs which ended their convention here today.

Miss Bernstein's address was one of the high lights of the meeting. While women steadily have been making themselves more comfortable until now they can dress during the summer with six ounces of clothing, men continue to wear about six pounds on even the hottest day, she declared.

"The physiological effect of clothes," she said, however, is being realized by the men.

WELL COMPLETED

Largest Gasser In Wheeler
County Is Brought In

NEW YORK, Sept. 26 (AP)—The Consolidated Gas Utilities Co. it was announced today, has completed one of the largest gas wells yet brought in Wheeler county, Texas. The well has an initial flow of 85,000,000 cubic feet per day. This well will add largely to the company reserves available for its new transmission line from Amarillo, Texas, to Enid, Oklahoma, which connects with its main system in Oklahoma and Kansas.

DENEMARK BOMBED

Wealthy Automobile Dealer
Object Of Bombs

CHICAGO, Sept. 26 (AP)—Emil Denemark, wealthy automobile dealer and sportsman who in recent years has been the victim of bombers, kidnappers, robbers and firebugs, experienced his fourth bombing today.

A black powder "pineapple" exploded at the rear entrance of his garage and salesroom at Ogden and Springfield avenues. Property damage was several hundred dollars.

Slaton Poultry Is Winner At Abilene

(Special To The Avalanche)
SLATON, Sept. 26.—Three Slaton poultrymen, E. L. Hicks, Pierce Youngblood and A. A. DeVore, took eleven first premiums, six seconds, three thirds and one fourth prize in the poultry division of the West Texas Fair at Abilene this week. While in Abilene, the men advertised the Slaton poultry show, which will be held here on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, Dec. 5, 6 and 7, and also boosted the Panhandle South Plains Fair which opens Monday at Lubbock.

STAR-LIGHT ON THE TIRE SUBJECT

A fact worth thinking about—WITHOUT Hicks great buying power at the factories and the big sales volume of more than 130 Hicks stores and associated stores, the Star would be the highest priced tire in the world—

WITH Hicks purchasing power and sales volume, the price of the Hicks built STAR tire is less than you are asked to pay for an ordinary tire. Look for the red stripe, white sidewall and distinctive Red star—insignia of the STAR of the ROAD, the tire that is setting up mileage marks!

USED CAR CLEAN SWEEP SALE

Starts With The "Big Parade"
Saturday Sept. 28, 2 P. M. Don't Miss The
"Spectacular" Parade

$15,000.00 stock of the best used car values ever offered in a sale on the South Plains. Must be liquidated and the job should not take more than a day at these prices. Come early, pick your model and be rewarded.

We are not going into this sale haphazardly, just merely crying values. We have been working day and night reconditioning these cars from the starting crank to the tail lamp—motors reconditioned, new paint and tops where needed, new tires, floor rugs and in fact, just like you would recondition your own car if you expected to use it indefinitely. However, to appreciate these values you must see the cars, for as the old adage goes, "seeing is believing" and "the proof of the pudding is in the eating."

On the radiator neck of each car will be tied a big red tag with the price marked plainly thereon, which will be below the actual cash value of the car. We POSITIVELY WILL NOT deviate one cent from this price. Cars offered in trade will POSITIVELY HAVE TO BE priced at their actual cash value.

No. 368—1928 Nash Standard Six Landau Sedan, a beautiful light sedan, economical to operate and a truly inexpensive little family car. Certainly we have no apologies to make in showing this car. ONLY $545

No. 371—1928 Nash Special Six Cabriolet, brand new Goodyear Tires, original paint and a snappy job. ONLY $595 when he was on the witness stand, although he phrased it more simply.

"She said, well I see you're still in the same old dump," he testified. "I said that's more than you can say." "She said, 'is that so' and I said 'yes that so' and she slapped me and I slapped her. Then everything went black. When I came to I was sitting in a chair and Dolly was lying on the floor, her head in a pool of blood."

That was Peacock's story. The alienist called by his lawyer merely put in big words.

And it was a story that the three doctors called by the people contradicted today.

assembled, stressing the great amount of good the Matador club is doing in its work for the young school. Dr. Horn was high in his praise of the principle which prompts the members and of the purpose of the organization. He spoke of the traditions of Tech, saying that while the school is very young and there are few traditions dear to the hearts of its students, more are coming into being each year and as they make their appearance, they are recognized as essential qualities of a good student.

Following the address of Dr. Horn a short talk was made by George Dupree, in which he told of the work and different phases of the club. Mr. Dupree made his explanations to the new members present.

Plans were laid last night for a representative attendance at the pep rally to be held tonight at 8 o'clock at the Texas Tech gymnasium on the eve of Tech's opening football game of the season. The club expects to have at least 75 of its members and future members at the meeting.

TEMPLE, Sept. 26. (P)—A. B. Crouch, who, because he was one of the "big" people of this town was able, the state claims, to evade local banks out of $150,000, has been found after 16 years of search, but does not intend to return to Temple for trial without a struggle.

In a telegram received here last night, U. S. Senator Tom Connally, at Washington, said the arrest of Crouch in Heliopolis, New Zealand had been confirmed by the state department, but that Crouch, identified by Sheriff John R. Bigham of Bell county, denied he was the fugitive sought and retained "highly paid" lawyers to resist extradition attempts.

Crouch, operator of a thriving grain business here, was superintendent of a Sunday school.

Decline Develops In Cotton Due To Weather Reports

Downward Trend Is Caused When Tropical Hurricane Falls To Reach Coast Of Florida Thursday

NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 26. (P)—Cotton was only moderately active today. Prices developed a slight downward trend due mainly to the fact that the tropical storm had failed to reach the Florida coast which caused liquidation by recent buyers.

While the prices advanced to 7 points in early trading of good Liverpool cables and storm fears, they gradually eased off when the storm failed to reach Florida, making the low of the day at the end of 19 to 21 points under the early high.

December Advances
December after advancing 6 points to 18.64 at the start declined to 18.44 a drop of 20 points and closed at 18.45 or 12 points net lower for the day. The general market closed steady at net declines of 11 to 14 points.

Liverpool came in 1 to 5 points better than due. First traders here showed gains of 6 to 7 points with October at 18.40 and January at 18.74. These proved to be the highs of the day.

Prices Reach Low
Prices reached the lowest of the day at the close with October at 18.45 and January at 18.74. The close was at the lowest showing net losses of 11 to 16 points.

Port receipts, 57,341; for week, 301,411; for season, 1,571,577. Last season, 1,377,207. Exports, 25,881; for week, 100,885. For season, 786,288. Last season, 782,053. Port stocks, 1,118,780; last year, 965,496. Combined shipboard stock at New Orleans, Galveston and Houston, 120,042; last year, 126,072. Spot sales at southern markets, 72,829; last year, 61,853.

Cotton Buying Reflects Weather

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (P)—Unfavorable features in the weather news were reflected by considerable buying in cotton early today, but advances were checked by continued southern selling, the general market closing barely steady at net declines of 12 to 18 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 2 to 3 points with the active months selling about 4 to 12 points net higher during the early trading.

March sold up to 19.11 on this advance, but there was some liquidation of October which eased the price off right after the opening. At the lowest October sold at 18.51 and March at 18.87 and the close was at these figures.

Bank Rate Boosted
Liverpool cables said that covering and buying on the rain news in that market had been supplied by realizing and some selling on the increase in the bank rate. Exports today 26,111, making a season's total of 1,597,318, or 508.56 up this season. Port receipts, 58,464. U. S. Port stocks, 1,119,415.

About 600 feet of oil rose in the hole but subsided after the water finding. Gas was encountered at a depth of 4,750 feet.

Upturn In Wheat Caused By Heavy Buying Thursday

Export Business In North American Wheat Takes On Bigger Volume: Estimate Is Australia Slashed

BY JOHN P. DOUGHAN.
Associated Press Market Editor

CHICAGO, Sept. 26. (P)—Nearby 6c per bushel upturn in wheat prices today above yesterday's low of 1.10 was accompanied by much enlarged speculative buying of wheat future deliveries here. Export business in North American wheat took on bigger volume, aggregating 1,250,000 bushels for the day, with Argentine offerings of wheat at Liverpool apparently being withdrawn. Another outstanding feature was reported slashing reduction of estimates of the 1929 wheat yield in Australia.

Chicago closing quotations on wheat were strong, 2 1-2c to 3 3-4c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1c to 1 1-2c up, oats 1 1-2c advance and provisions ranging from 5c decline to a rise of 2c.

Impeachment Of Highway Commissioners Asked

FRANKFORT, Ky., Sept. 26. (P)—The Franklin county grand jury, which already had indicted eight state officials including Governor Flem D. Alleged instances of "corruption, fraud, favoritism, discrimination, and bribery" which the grand jury reported finding in the administration of the highway department were such as could not be reached by indictment, but should be handled by impeachment proceedings and prompt trial of the offenders before the state senate, the jurors stated.

Calamity Rumors Found Groundless In Stock Market

Operators For Advance In Bullish Demonstrations Thursday After Traders' Nerves Are Tired Out

By CLAUDE A. JACGER.
Associated Press Financial Writer

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. (P)—Operators for the advance felt that they could afford to indulge in a powerful bullish demonstration on the stock market today, with most of the calamity howling rumors which sorely tried traders' nerves yesterday definitely branded as groundless and even absurd. Trading was largely professional, with the day's turnover barely exceeding 4,000,000 shares, as contrasted to nearly 5,000,000 yesterday.

The credit situation, remained definitely adverse, although it did not appear in its gloomiest aspects until after the close of the market, when the weekly federal reserve brokerage loan figures disclosed an increase of $192,000,000. This is the largest upturn since early last January, making an addition of more than $800,000,000 to the total of loans in the past six weeks, carrying it to the unprecedented figure of $8,761,000,000.

Call money held at 9 per cent all day, and time money was very scarce between 9 and 9 1-4 per cent. Relief Act Seen As Boon To Farm

Vice Chairman Of Federal Farm Board Sees Aid To Farmers In Intelligent Marketing System

By RAYMOND Z. HENLE.
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26. (P)—The opinion that the farm relief act, intelligently administered to develop a comprehensive cooperative marketing system, will prove a boon to the farmers was expressed before the senate agriculture committee today by James C. Stone of Kentucky, vice chairman of the farm board.

It may be too much to expect, he said, that all the farmers of the country will participate in the cooperative movement. He believes enough will appreciate its great benefits, however, and be eager to share in the larger profits it seems to him bound to bring.

Represents Tobacco
Stone, who represents tobacco on the board, answered an avalanche of questions designed to elicit information of his ability—with a view of reporting to the senate regarding his confirmation. At the conclusion of his examination several committee members expressed pleasure at the fashion in which he had submitted his testimony.

She Teaches "Made In Paris" French To Travelers

BY JULIA BLANCHARD

NEA Service Writer.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. — Pundits, critics, plump and anagrams show signs of yielding their popularity this winter to a new fashion of learning to speak French as it is spoken in Paris.

Learning French, in fact, is rapidly becoming a great American indoor sport, and the people who are indulging in it give a great cross-section of American life, ranging from the $10,000 executives of big business firms.

This is on the authority of a Parisian, Mlle. Simone France, who knows whereof she speaks. For Mlle. France came to New York 10 years ago to take a degree at Barnard and remained to teach her native tongue to New Yorkers.

Paris a Strong Love.

"Everyone in America seems to have hopes of going to Paris," Mlle. France explains this unprecedented move on the part of Americans to master a foreign language. "So in the first place, there is a practical reason for learning it.

"Second, it is considered very smart for Americans to be able to talk with the Parisian courtiers, order dinner and travel in the French tongue. French always has been the continental diplomatic language, but this affected only a very few Americans. Now, with thousands visiting Paris each year, the advantages and the fun of knowing French become motivating forces.

So far, so good. Mlle. France is charmed that Americans have an inclination to learn her native tongue. Here, however, her approval ends. For in magazine articles, lectures at educational conferences and on the radio this forceful, intelligent young woman has launched a direct attack on the usual methods employed here to teach French.

The Old Method.

"Most American schools and colleges teach French as a dead language for translation, not for conversational uses," is her charge. "Pupils do not learn to think or talk in French. The result is to make bright Americans into deaf-mutes, so far as French is concerned.

Mlle. Simone France . . . teaches Americans to think in French.

It is the ear," her argument continues, "that is the auxiliary organ of speech, and not the eye. One should know how to hear French as he hears it along the Boulevard. The crucial test is not an examination to show how well a student can write such sentences as 'This is the house of my father,' but how fluently he can express an original thought directly in French.

Some of the best educators and editorial writers in this country have congratulated Mlle. France, not only on her spirited attack on what she terms "antiquated linguistic pedagogy," but on her own radical methods of teaching French as a fluid, conversational, usable language. Among others, Monsieur Claudel, French Ambassador to America, has written a note of approval.

How She Came to U. S.

Mlle. France is a most interesting, spirited Parisian. She comes from a family whose children have never done remunerative work. The war came when she was a youngster, and heaped all that. Her father was killed the first year. Two brothers enlisted. Mlle. Simone got work with the French Red Cross. The year after the Armistice was signed, this young Frenchwoman was sent by the Y. W. and the Red Cross to this country on a transport vessel, chaperone to 210 French war brides, their American husbands, and their Franco-American babies. Having seen her charges through the customs, Mlle. France enrolled in Barnard for a degree, instead of returning home. Receiving it, she began teaching, first in schools, then privately.

Last year, this ingenious woman launched a brand new plan. She "sold" certain progressive department stores on the value a working knowledge of French would be to their buyers, stylists and executives, since many of them have branches in Paris and do much foreign business. Now she has classes of from 25 to 50 pupils in several of New York's largest stores. In addition, she teaches clubwomen, stenographers, business girls, artists, authors, students and one manicurist. Her own clients furnish her that "cross-section of America" of which she speaks.

"Think in French."

"One should learn grammar only as he needs it," she described her method. "Theoretical constructions only mix pupils. One should not try to learn by translation. He should make his own sentences, practice his own sentences and speak them directly into French. That is the way to think in French.

"Simultaneously, one should get three pictures of a word—the written word, which is a visual picture of the subject under discussion, the sound word, which is an oral picture, and the expression of the word, which is a vocal picture. This way, one can read and speak and understand the French that will greet him the minute he arrives at the North Station in Paris. He will feel at home on the Boulevard and still be able to enjoy Amatole France and other French men of letters."

Vocational Work Strong In Tahoka

(Special To The Avantage)

TAHOKA, Sept. 26.—Fifty-eight boys have enrolled in the vocational agriculture classes of Tahoka high school under Prof. Taylor White, an increase of twenty over last year. Three years of agriculture are offered in the school.

High points of the year's work will include the selection and completion of a satisfactory home project such as the raising of proper methods of hog, chicken, cow, feed or cotton. Students must also read and report on at least 10 farm bulletins and three reference books on agriculture; make a survey of the home farm including a complete inventory, read three farm papers regularly; visit and report on country fairs and exhibits; something worthy; represent the school in some inter-school judging contest; make out a long time program of continuation work; participate in master students of vocational agriculture contest; complete a satisfactory farm shop job during the year; and introduce some improved farm practice on the home farm and render some outstanding community service.
