Crewmen Of Sister Ship Are Lost In Rescue Operations

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 — Six Navy submariners and a civilian technician lost their lives and 84 crewmen were rescued today when the submarine Cochino exploded and burned in Arctic waters.

The six Navy men were attached to the U. S. S. Tusk, a sister submarine which rescued the Cochino's crew. The civilian, who was not immediately identified, was the only one lost aboard the Cochino.

Followed By Fire

The sunken submarine was equipped with a snorkel—an underwater "breathing" tube which enabled it to remain submerged for long periods.

The explosion occurred in the Cochino's battery room and was followed by fire.

A lieutenant and five of the Tusky's enlisted men were swept from her deck by heavy seas during the rescue of the Cochino's crew, which was hampered by high seas.

Heads For Norway

The Tusk, with the rescued men aboard, is heading for the Norwegian port of Hammerfast. This is the nearest port where medical assistance can be obtained.

The Cochino and Tusk, together with the submarines Toro and Corsair, had been temporarily assigned to naval forces under command of Admiral Richard L. Connally, naval commander in chief of U. S. forces in European waters.

The submarines had been engaged in cold water training exercises in the Arctic. They left the U. S. naval submarine base at New London, Conn., on July 18.

List Of Missing

In its first announcement the Navy listed the following as missing:

Lt. (J. G.) William Manley Shafter, jr., Stamford, Conn.

Melvin Buck Henneberger, jr., Glouchester City, N. J.

James Robert Miller, Liberty, Mo.

Robert Lee Pinney, Sturgis, Mich.

Robert Francis Brunner, jr., Altoona, Pa.

John G. Guttermuth, Poquonnock Bridge, Conn.

Cost Of Living Shows Decline

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP) — The government's living cost index took a new dip today.

It fell six-tenths of one per cent from mid-June to mid-July.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the mid-July living costs level was 168.5 per cent of the 1935-39 average. That average is figured at 100 on the index.

Over Prewar Level

The new index is three per cent under a year ago but 70.9 per cent over the August, 1939, prewar level.

Price drops for foods, wearing apparel and house furnishings caused the living cost decline. Foods averaged 1.3 per cent lower, apparel nine-tenths of one per cent, and house furnishings three-tenths of one per cent lower.

Rents Show Hike

Slight rises in costs for rents and miscellaneous goods and services, including municipal transportation fares, were recorded.

Foods alone are seven per cent under a year ago but 38.5 per cent over the level when government

THOUSANDS ATTENDING REUNION

Old Settlers Will Elect New Officers

By EDWARD WELSH
Journal Staff Writer

ROARING SPRINGS, Aug. 26. The Motley-Dickens Old Settlers association entered the second day of its reunion here this morning with more than 3,000 in attendance. Many more are expected to arrive today when the Motley county members take over the program. Election of officers is scheduled for 4:30 this afternoon.

A colt show under the direction of "Jinks" Wilson and W. E. Burleson got under way at 10 a. m. in the rodeo arena. Awards are to be given for most typical cowboy, most typical cowgirl, oldtime cowboy and cowgirl and junior cowboy and cowgirl. No entry fee is being charged.

Rodeo And Dance Set

Another performance of the free rodeo will take place at 2 p. m. A square dance performed by small fry will take place in the pavilion at 2:30 with Ed Smith, jr., doing the calling. Matador Mayor Douglas Meador will be the principal speaker. A magic act will be given by Tom Tilson and several other amateur performers will appear.

The two-day reunion will come to a close tonight following a square dance in the pavilion back of the high school.

President C. C. Haile, Roaring Springs polled shorthorn breeder, anticipated a total attendance of at least 8,000.

This picturesque little cotton and cattle town on the Quanah, Acme and Pacific railroad is overflowing with potential business. Today the Smith cafe and hotel is doing "all the business it can handle," according to Mrs. Lois Smith.

The majority of merchants took the easy way out. They realized they couldn't handle such a rush trade and besides they didn't want to miss the reunion and rodeo. They closed up shop until the reunion is over.

Thursday's program was put on by the Dickens county members with Haile in charge. A parade opened the reunion Thursday morning. Nearly 200 riders took part in the parade from the business section to the park grounds near the high school. The old settlers, who made up the bulk of the early arrivals, held a memorial service for pioneers who had died during the past year. This service began at 11 a.m. and was conducted by Rev. J. J. Terry, Farwell, a former Dickens county resident.

A basket lunch was eaten at noon and the pioneers reconvened at 2 p.m. in the pavilion to hear addresses by Judge G. E. Hamilton, Matador; Haile and Judge A.

Police Methods Will Be Probed

The city commission today asked the city civil service commission to investigate police methods of handling the arrest of Lonnie H. Johnson, 28, used car lot operator, on a charge of reckless driving Wednesday night.

No recommendations were made as to the civil service disposition of the case but Commissioner Clarence H. Whiteside said he favored suspensions of all the officers involved.

He was advised by City Attorney Vaughn Wilson that the city commission would have no authority to order suspensions. Any such penalty, he said, would have to be imposed by the civil service commission.

Officers In Case

The officers involved were Patrolmen Lynn Campbell and W. C. Johnson, who made the arrest, and T. W. Cooper, patrolman and radio operator who was serving as relief desk sergeant when the used car operator was arrested.

Members of the city commission criticised the arresting officers for forcing Johnson to accompany them to the police station without giving him an opportunity to sign a traffic summons and police methods in the handling of bonds in such cases.

Campbell, testifying before a special meeting of the city commission, said he and Patrolman Johnson stopped the used car operator near Eighteenth street and Texas avenue because he was

Class Is Largest Summer Session Group In History

The largest summer graduating class in the history of Texas Technological college will gather on the administration green at Tech at 8 p. m. today as 416 persons march across the stage to receive degrees from President D. M. Wiggins.

Fifty master's and 366 bachelor's degrees will be conferred following an address by Gen. Robert Smith, president of Pioneer airlines. A reception was given the graduates on the campus Thursday night and rehearsal was at 8 a. m. today.

"Far Horizons" Is Subject

"Far Horizons" will be Gen. Smith's topic. He has said that the address will deal specifically with the South Plains area in pointing out the huge increase in opportunities for college graduates in West Texas.

As is usual for summer convocation, the faculty will take no part in tonight's processional, but will form a line through which the graduates will march.

No Baccalaureate Service

There will be no baccalaureate services, according to Dean of Men James G. Allen, who is in charge of arrangements.

Organ music for the ceremonies will be given by Mrs. John C. Oldham and soloist will be Mrs. Grace Goodwin, soprano. Rev. Hubert H. Bratcher of the St. John's Methodist church will give the invocation and Rev. Claude E. Canterbury of St. Paul's Episcopal church will pronounce the benediction.

Gen. Smith, who arrived in Lubbock Wednesday night, was asked to deliver the commencement address in an effort "to bring the college closer to the business world," Dr. Wiggins said.

Leader In Aviation Field

The speaker is one of the outstanding leaders in the field of aviation today. He has directed Pioneer airways into one of the leading young airlines since he became president in 1947.

Prior to that time, Gen. Smith had been traffic manager of American Airways, later American Airlines, in New York following his graduation from North-

Floridans Get Instructions On Preparing For Hurricane

(By The Associated Press)

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 26—How do oldtimers weather a hurricane?

South Florida had lots of good advice today from newspapers and radio stations.

Some of the do's and don'ts:

1—Stay inside away from windows. The glass may break and cut you.

2—Don't be fooled by a lull in the storm. A calm center of a hurricane may last from a few minutes to an hour. Then the fury resumes suddenly from the opposite direction.

3—If you must take a drink to settle your nerves, just take one. A clear head may be needed.

4—Don't take anybody's word about what's going on except official advisories and warnings over the radio and in newspapers. Pay no attention to rumors.

5—Board up all windows and put storm shutters in place. Brace outside doors. Sterilize bathtub and fill it up with drinking water. Have a flashlight and lanterns ready. Store up food that won't spoil easily.

6—If your home isn't rugged, try a Red Cross shelter.

7—Becertain to open a window on the side of your

Long Family Dispute Climaxed By Husband's Violence

Ex-GI Shoots Three And Self

(By The Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—Police said a 34-year-old ex-GI shot and killed his 5-year-old son and a prominent Philadelphia eye specialist last night, critically wounded a third person and then took his own life.

The victims were Dr. Sidney J. Kine, 31, in whose West Philadelphia apartment the slayings occurred; the child, Ian Rodry, and his father, Juan Rodry.

The doctor's wife, Dorothy, 25, was shot in the abdomen.

Police said Rodry, a native South American who served in the U. S. Air Transport Command in the China-Burma theater, fired nine shots from a Belgian-made .38 caliber automatic pistol into the group as a climax to a long family dispute.

Rodry's wife, Florence, 27, a sister of Dr. Kine, had been sent from the apartment on a pretext. She and her husband had separated in June, and she had been staying with the Kines since that time.

Police gave this version of the tragedy:

Rodry, apparently irked because the Kines had offered his wife a home during their separation, went to the apartment just as the Kines were finishing dinner.

Rodry said he wanted to apologize, and that he wanted to see his son, whom he called "Cookie." He said he had some pretzels for the youngster and asked Mrs. Rodry to go outside to his car and get them.

Mrs. Rodry had been gone only a moment when she heard the shooting begin.

LACY WINGFIELD IS UNDER SENTENCE ON 119 CHARGES

"Well, Boys, I'm Caught!" Declares Escaped Convict As Officers Close Trap At Sundown

(Special To The Journal)

SUNDOWN, Aug. 26 — Lacy Wingfield, 37, who escaped from Ramsey prison farm last June 11, was captured in this West Texas town yesterday by officers who had set a trap for him.

Wingfield, under sentence on 119 various charges, offered no resistance. Officers walked into an apartment and found him stretched on a bed, unclothed and unarmed.

"Well, boys, I'm caught," said Wingfield.

Woody Sullivan, chief of police in Sundown, and two Lubbock rangers, Capt. Bob Crowder and Raymond Waters, were in on the capture.

Trap Was Set

The trap had been set by Fred Compton, formerly constable at Borger.

Compton learned that Wingfield had been at Sundown. Compton rented an apartment and had one of his "connections" issue an invitation to go to the apartment "where things were not so hot" to hide.

The fugitive accepted the bait and went to the apartment at 4 p. m. yesterday.

Thirty minutes later officers knocked at the door. No one answered. They broke down the door and there was Wingfield.

Pushed Man From Train

He told officers he pushed a man from a freight train near Childress a couple of weeks ago. The man had been robbed and was found along the railroad tracks.

Wingfield said he had walked away from the farm, near Angleton, June 13, while he was laying brick.

Since his escape, he said, he had managed to "make a living" by robbing drunks.

Wingfield was sentenced three years ago from Wichita county as a habitual criminal.

He was taken to Lubbock for further questioning, then remov-

Four Persons Dead After Suicide Pact

(By The United Press)

BELLE PLAINE, Ia., Aug. 26—A suicide pact was blamed today for the deaths of a young Chicago couple and two of their three children as they sat in their car on a wooded bluff overlooking a placid farm scene.

But authorities could not say what caused Millard Parcel, 28, and his wife, Glorena, 25, to kill themselves and their children, Keith, 6, and Kathryn, 4.

A hose from the car's exhaust had let a stream of carbon monoxide gas flow through the trunk up under the rear seat of the family-closed automobile.

Head On His Shoulder

Mrs. Parcel's head rested on her husband's shoulder as they sat in the front seat. The children lay in the rear.

"They all looked as though they were asleep," Tama County Coroner Harvey Jones said.

The children apparently did not know their parents had doomed them to death, he said.

"I don't think it would be possible for those youngsters to understand," he said. "I would say it was a pact between the parents."

The bodies were found yesterday as result of a letter Mrs. Parcel wrote to her husband's mother, Mrs. E. C. Parcel, before the pact was carried out. The mother lives with another son on a farm here.

Letter Is Quoted

"Dear folks:" The letter read. "We are north of an apple orchard in the bluff's looking down into the valley. Hope you forgive us." We love you very much. Don't worry about us."

Jones would not divulge the entire contents of the letter but said it did not give the Parcel's motive for killing their children and themselves.

The Parcels' third child, Darlys, 11, has been adopted by her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Fred Ecker of Pine River, Minn. Mrs. Ecker was reported as vacationing with the child in New London, Conn., this week.

New Missiles Are Developed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP) — The United States is developing guided missiles which would both bring down enemy planes and enable American bombers to shoot down attacking fighters.

Dr. Karl Compton, chairman of the defense department's research and development board, disclosed the new weapons last night.

Value Is Stressed

He described as "exceedingly important" the air-to-air missile which a B-36 could use against jet fighters. He said this weapon "may well become the principal artillery of air combat."

In a radio broadcast with Atomic Energy Commissioner Sumner Pike, Compton listed four types of guided missiles on which U. S. scientists are at work.

Types Are Listed

Besides the plane-carried missile, he noted a "surface-to-surface" weapon which could be used as long-range artillery. Development of this weapon "is already well advanced for those of a few hundred miles range," he said.

The anti-aircraft, or "surface-to-air" missiles, Compton said, "bid fair to become the effective counter measure" from the ground against swift attacking planes.

There also is an "air-to-surface" model, some types of which saw action in World War II.

Soldier Is Critically Burned In Cabin Explosion At Lamesa

(Special To The Journal)

LAMESA, Aug. 26—Master Sgt. Jim T. Christopher, 44, of Lowery Air Force Base in Denver, was burned critically at 8 a. m. today when an explosion gutted the small frame cabin in which he was staying at the Sunset Lodge here.

Dr. J. V. McKay said Christopher suffered second and third degree burns on 75 to 80 per cent of his body and had very little chance to survive. He was taken to Lamesa General hospital.

J. W. Blair and John Parchman, operators of a service station across the street from the cabin, heard the explosion and saw the roof lift up and settle back down on the cabin.

They rushed in to find Christopher, clad in shorts, sitting on the side of his bed holding a light switch chain in his hand. He held the chain in his hand until he reached the hospital, where he told Sheriff Roy King the explosion occurred when he pulled

Woman Admits Brady Slaying

(By The Associated Press)

BRADY, Aug. 26.—Mrs. Sandra Peterson, attractive, dark-haired, and 23, was charged today with murdering a Brady real estate man and leaving his body in a ditch.

The charge was filed by County Attorney Evans J. Atkins in the court of Grover Chambles, justice of the peace.

Mrs. Peterson and a 15-year-old girl were arrested yesterday at San Angelo, a few hours after Lewis Patterson, 34, of Brady had been shot to death on a highway, six miles northwest of Brady.

Girl A Juvenile

The county attorney said a 15-year-old girl, Loretta Fae Mozingo of Austin, who was arrested with Mrs. Peterson at San Angelo yesterday, would be turned over to juvenile officers.

Atkins said Mrs. Peterson gave her age as 23 and said she was born in Somerville, Mass. He said she related that she came to Brady from Temple, and that she had lived in number of places. She mentioned Reno, Nev., and Galveston.

The woman and girl were arrested yesterday at San Angelo a few hours after Patterson was shot to death.

Officers brought the girl here last night. The woman was left at San Angelo.

Farmer Finds Body

Patterson was found by a farmer, Varnard Young, in a ditch about six miles northwest of here.

The woman and girl were arrested less than a block from the San Angelo bus station by City Policemen Bill White and W. H. McGonigal.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Widowed Three Years Ago, Woman Unstrung By Friends' Enviously Critical Gossip

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Why is it that women whose husbands are still living are, for the most part, jealous of attractive widows?

My husband died three years ago and left me a large fortune, so that I can travel extensively and entertain lavishly; and I have a costly and beautiful collection of fine jewelry.

I am really modest and retiring by nature, and my husband, who was very generous, liked to have me always costumed in good and stylish clothes; but since his death some friends have criticized me for dressing so well and always being so well groomed.

DOESN'T INTEND TO MARRY AGAIN

ALTHOUGH good grooming has been a lifelong habit of mine, friends seem to have the idea, since I am a widow, that I am "dressing up" to capture a second husband. This is far from my mind or intention, as I have two lovely young daughters in whom I am most interested and I never intend to marry again.

My friends have been not only unkind in their remarks but very malicious in their gossip and criticism and as a result I am sick with worry. I really don't know what to do about them or how to deal with such jealous envious women. To help my morale, will you please give me some instructive advice or psychological information?

Incidentally, I never boast or brag about my possessions and never really make a lavish display. I have a trained voice and have studied in New York and Paris, and the wives seem to be jealous of my vocal talent, too.

(Signed) S. R.

A GAUCHE STRANGER TO "CAT" ATTITUDES

DEAR S. R.: The unkind gossip you describe is called "catting" by certain amiable young ladies I know, who get around a good deal; and speaking from considerable close association with girls from diverse parts of the hemisphere, and from different types of homes they say philosophically that "most girls 'cat' more or less," but it does no harm and doesn't hurt if you pay it no heed.

Which suggests that your experience of life, until widowhood, was rather more "sheltered" (by patron-profection) than exposed to the realities of human behavior in its unsentimental aspects.

In all probability your so-called friends were just as jealous, or privately as critical of you in former years as they are nowadays: but for expedient reasons they kept their carping views under their hat, or at least didn't thrust them on you, while your husband was alive—because his influence (and yours as his partner) was a force to be courted, not antagonized.

WOMAN'S DISTRESS SHOWS IMMATURITY

NOW that he is gone and you are without a knight-defender on the social scene, the catty dames feel much more free to uncorset their thoughts regarding you—because they fancy they've nothing to lose. But that's where they are wrong, of course; because every gouging comment they make about you has a blighting effect on their spiritual anatomy; and if they could get a candid-camera shot of their expression when blatting unkind gossip, they'd see a witch-face peering through.

Now, about yourself: it seems to me that you tend to be inordinately self centered in a childish, artlessly preening way, and no doubt general immaturity of mind and character is making widowhood a doubly difficult social assignment for you—as spiteful matrons let their masks fal.

For advice: It's your life, so don't let others rule it with their tongues. Be yourself, as the saying goes; always dress to look your best, and don't make vows against second marriage, because a good second husband, wisely chosen without haste—also without apology to "friends"—is the aid-to-morale you really need to revive self confident ease in social exchange. FROM ABROAD

James Pinson, who is touring Europe and studying interior decoration methods and markets, writes "per luchtpost, par avion" from Amsterdam, Holland: "The food is very good and there is plenty of it. I've thoroughly enjoyed Holland as the people are so very friendly except when you go to get on a crowded train and then they pull more stunts than Americans could ever dream up. Even old ladies have more strength to fight each other for a seat than any two professional boxers. They have Coca Cola here, so I've really been enjoying that. Bought a pair of wooden shoes yesterday."

Another picture postcard mailed from Germany "mit luftpost, par avion" reads: "I've seen some beautiful scenery around Heidelberg today. The castles were very interesting, as was the famed huge wine barrel at Heidelberg castle. The ice cream and pastries are very good here, and I hadn't expected that. Nearly all of the shops have marvelous merchandise—much better than I've seen in other countries, and the people seem well-dressed. I went through the University in Heidelberg this afternoon, and plan to eat at the local hangout of the university students tonight. It is named the Red Ox Inn."

HALF-WAY MARK NOT YET REACHED

1949 Is Certain To Be Worst Polio Year In U. S. History

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. (AP)—The polio epidemic may not have reached even the half-way point yet, and 1949 is certain to be the worst polio year in U. S. history, says the National Foundation for Infantile paralysis.

The score on the basis of the foundation's latest reports:

17,306 cases so far in 1949.

3,422 new cases reported in the nation last week—the highest number ever recorded for one week.

Peak Period Year

The total of reported cases through last week compared with 9,743 for the same period of 1948, the second worst polio year up to that time.

In 1916, which had ranked as the worst epidemic year, there was a total of about 30,000 reported cases.

The figures and prediction were issued yesterday by Dr. Hart E. Van Riper, the foundation's medical director, who said:

"Study of previous patterns of polio incidence shows that the peak may come anywhere between mid-August and mid-September. But the mid-point of the epidemic . . . never has occurred before the second week in September.

"If the peak is reached early, the reduction in cases is slower than if it comes later. When the peak is reached late, the number of new cases reported drops rapidly."

Facilities Better

Dr. Van Riper said this year's record of cases shows a sharp rise week by week since early spring, without even temporary drops.

This year has been marked by an increased polio total to date, as compared with 1948, in 38 states.

Calling the national epidemic "both intensive and extensive," Dr. Van Riper said the national foundation "has answered more calls for assistance in more states even than during last year."

He said "medical care facilities, on the whole, are far better today than at ny time in history."

Statisticians of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company announced that a new study shows the children's polio death rate is dropping slowly.

The report, based on deaths among insured children under 15 years old each year since 1911, said the biggest drop in deaths has been among children under 10, and especially among girls.

The statisticians said last year's death rate of 2.4 per 100,000 children was only one-fifteenth that of 1916.

MEET THE MANAGER—Tom French, owner and manager of the Tom French company, 1937 Ave. H, was born in Navarro county, Oct. 16, 1901. He went to school there and lived there until 1921, when he came to Lubbock and worked as a salesman for a roofing company. He married here in 1926, then moved to Amarillo, where he continued in the roofing business until 1932. At that time he came back to Lubbock and went into the second hand business across the street from his present location. His hobbies are hunting, skeet shooting and fishing. He is an officer in the Lubbock Gun club, a director in the West Texas-New Mexico Skeet Shooting association, a secretary- treasurer of the Lubbock County Sheriff's Posse, a member of the Masonic lodge in which he is a 32nd degree Mason, a member of South Plains Shrine council and the advisory council of the Order of DeMolay. Volcanoes Double Small Isle's Size

AUKLAND, New Zealand, Aug. 26 (AP)—Seen and unseen volcanoes play strange tricks in the South Pacific. The latest stunt doubled the size of Matthew Island, a tiny spot on the Pacific 200 miles east of New Caledonia.

The change in Matthew Island was found by the New Zealand naval frigate Pukaki. Until recently, Matthew Island was 30 acres of land with a single volcanic peak. Now it has a second volcanic peak, 500 feet high, beside the first. It is 12 yards long today and 800 yards across the widest spot.

The sides fall steeply to the sea. Crew of the Pukaki saw wisps of steam and smake coming up from the rock, but there was no sign of volcanic action from the new peak. Matthew Island was discovered in 1788. No people live there, but countless sea birds make their homes on the island.

For Sunday morning breakfast serve an omelet filled with creamed chipped beef. Springle the omelet with a little grated yellow cheese, if you like, and garnish with a parsley sprig. A delicious hot bread accompaniment for this main dish would be muffins and marmalade.

Yankee Press Agent Takes Rap For Gag

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—Bob Sayre, a press agent, is prematurely gray anyway. Otherwise results of one of his latest gags might have made him so.

Bob drew the chore of publicizing the movie "Rope of Sand" which is laid in South Africa's diamond fields. He and his red-headed wife spent several evenings putting glass diamonds into envelopes. The envelopes were distributed where they would do the most good. The stunt was a grand success. Bob's boss was happy, gave Bob a bonus.

Then his wife found that the half-carat diramond in her engagement ring was missing. As nearly as they can figure someone who got a "glass" diamond in the publicity stunt has the real thing. Bob says his bonus will just about pay for a half-carat diamond.

Mexicans Annoyed At Street's Remodeling

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 26. (AP)—The newspapers are getting pretty annoyed with the city planners. And even a lot of just ordinary Mexicans don't like the idea of planting cactus in the middle of a main street.

It all started early this year when the city fathers decided to fix up the Paseo de la Reforma, which connects the best residential districts with the business section. It had wide parkways on each side and lots of shade trees. The planners turned the parkways into additional traffic lanes in the downtown section. They sacrificed the benches, repaved the street and put a narrow parkway down the middle. The benches, life-sized bronze statues of minor national heroes and three-foot classical bronze urns which had lined the street, were re-erected farther out.

Romance Is Rumored In European Tour Of Bebe Shopp, Miss America Of 1948

ROME, Aug. 26 (INS)—Bebe "Miss America" Shopp was linked romantically today with a Glencoe, Ill., youth who resembles actor Jimmy Stewart and who was described as her "fiance."

The first inkling that David Meyer had injected a lightning romance into the European tour of the queen of American bathing beauties came unexpectedly when Bebe took her first swim in the Mediterranean.

The Hopkins, Minn., girl, who is 18, was the guest yesterday of an Italian family at a beautiful villa in Fregene, a swank summer resort.

Bebe remarked, jokingly, "I have six men courting me but I can't make up my mind about them."

Fiance Mentioned

Then, at the end of the afternoon, Bebe's hostess said unwittingly—in the presence of a reporter and a photographer—"I'll be happy to have you and your fiance come to lunch tomorrow."

Bebe was plainly upset over the fact that the invitation had been made so audibly.

So she made some remark about not knowing whether she could accept.

She and David eluded reporters on the road leading toward her hostess' home today but they were spotted at the end of the day.

The two avoided being photographed together.

Mexico Considers Negotiations For American Loan Terminated

NEW YORK, Aug. 26. (AP)—Antonio Bermudez, head of the Mexican oil monopoly, was quoted here yesterday as saying "as far as we are concerned negotiations for an oil loan from the U. S. are over."

Dr. Samuel Guy Inman, a specialist on Latin American affairs, told a press conference that Bermudez made that statement to him in Mexico City Aug. 15 soon after U. S.-Mexico negotiations for a $203,000,000 loan fell through in Washington.

He further quoted Bermudez as having said that "evidently" big U. S. oil interests blocked completion of the loans.

He said that a week before he talked to Bermudez he discussed the oil question with President Miguel Aleman. Inman quoted Aleman as saying:

Defense Need Cited

"The only reason we desired a loan was to be in a better position to furnish, if needed, a larger supply of petroleum to any of our American neighbors, including Chile, Argentina, Canada, the United States or any other American country that needed petroleum" for defense, adding:

"We consider that Mexican petroleum belongs not only to Mexico but to the brotherhood of American nations and it will always be at the disposal of American republics for defense of democracy."

Dr. Inman said that there is "general resentment" in Mexico at the failure of the loan negotiations. He said the Mexican people blamed both U. S. oil interests as well as the U. S. government and the State department.

Mexico wanted the loan for further exploitation of oil in that country. Dr. Inman said that "there appears to be more oil in Mexico than was ever dreamed."

Development Is Slow

In the meantime, he said, Mexico "is content to continue its oil industry as before." He quoted President Aleman as telling him that Mexican petroleum developments is "satisfactory but slow."

Dr. Inman said that "unfortunately, the old quarrel about oil is again intruding itself, and threatens to bring back the old hostilities between the two peoples.

"President Truman stated several times recently that the United States would loan Mexico funds to speed up her oil production. But the big United States petroleum companies demanded that a condition of the loan should be that the Mexican government allow them to return and participate in the Mexican oil business.

Gas Prices Cut

"Washington evidently made that a condition of granting the loan. Mexico then broke off the negotiations."

"Mexico is firmly fixed in the idea that the petroleum business, not only in their own country, but all over the world, should be a government monopoly, managed for the benefit of the public.

"Gasoline today is selling in Mexico for less than half of what it costs in New York. Before the government took over the business, the old days . . . it often sold for four times as much in Mexico as it did in the United States. At that time, all the refineries were located on the Gulf of Mexico in order to export quickly. Today refineries are located in Mexico City and other interior points to favor the Mexican market."

Ernest O. Thompson Honored At Big Barbecue In Amarillo

AMARILLO, Aug. 26 (AP) — Friends of Ernest O. Thompson tossed a big barbecue in his honor last night and the Texas railroad commissioner said:

"I have gone through life trying to collect friends, and my collection—the finest friends any man could have—is on display here tonight."

Gov. Allan Shivers, several other state officials and the staff of the Texas National guard were among the 1,400 men from 22 states who paid tribute to the one-time mayor of Amarillo.

Shivers Among Guests

Thompson is a lieutenant general in the guard.

Many of the guests represented the oil industry, whose production is regulated in Texas by the decisions of Thompson and other railroad commissioners .

Jay Taylor, oil and cattleman and one of four men who threw the huge party for Thompson, was master of ceremonies. The other three hosts were Lawrence Hagy, Harold Dunn, and Dr. B. M. Puckett.

Among those who paid tribute to Thompson were Gov. Shivers, Judge Marvin Jones, chief justice of the U. S. Court of Claims; Olin Culberson, fellow member of the Railroad commission; Ross Rogers, who succeeded Thompson as mayor of Amarillo, and John Snider, who knew Thompson as a boy.

Tribute Read

A tribute to Thompson was read by Andrew M. Howsley of Albany, general counsel for the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas association. It was prepared by R. B. Anderson of Vernon, president of the association, and said in part:

"We can remember that when there were those in our own industry who could not resist a temptation of quick wealth at whatever cost. Ernest Thompson had the vision to know that such practices could only result in ruin."

Thompson was first named to the Railroad commission in 1932, during the East Texas oil boom.

South American Oil Potential Is Great

LONDON, Aug. 26 (AP) — The Petroleum Information Bureau, in a memorandum issued in London, said there "is a vast area of potentially oil bearing land in Latin America still to be explored." One of the most promising regions, now being explored, is the Montana zone, which includes parts of Peru, Ecuador and Colombia, at the foothills of the Andes.

But the memorandum warned that only if sufficiently large resources were discovered there would the world oil trade benefit from it. With enough production, the construction of a pipeline across the Andes to the Pacific Ocean would be justified, it said. Private companies are reluctant to engage in the heavy expenses needed for wide exploration work in view of "restrictive oil legislation" by some countries.

SOVIET KREMLINS RESTORED

MOSCOW, Aug. 26 (AP) — The Moscow Kremlin is only one—and of course the most famous—among its many kremlins. A "kremlin" in old Russia was a fortified center of a town, usually erected on a hill or elevated area, and walled with wood piles or brick. It was the center of defense of the city—and in the early days often contained the whole city—when the Mongols, Tatars or other enemies attacked. In connection with a general campaign to restore historical mounments throughout the country, in many centers restoration work has been undertaken on local kremlins.

New Uranium Lodes Found In Australia

PERTH, Australia, Aug. 26 (AP) —A prospector claims he has found large deposits of uranium ore in Western Australia, W. D. Millar says his find is 80 miles west of Marble Bar—hottest town in Australia, 1240 miles north-east of Perth.

Millar told a reporter a local assay showed about 40 percent uranium content, which would make it the richest known deposit in Australia. Millar has applied to the Mines Department, Perth, for a 45-acre prospecting area. The site is in rough country near large known deposits of the mineral tantalite.

War-Time Hospital Made Into School For Navajo Indians

BRIGHAM CITY, Utah, Aug. 26 (AP) — A $10,000,000 hospital plant here in the foothills of the Wasatch Mountains is sprucing up for its most challenging patient.

It is going to tackle a malady that has laid thousands of western Indians economically low — lack of education.

The 292 acres and 70 buildings on the sprawling site housed Bushnell General hospital during the war. Thousands o farmy overseas evacuees were treated at the hospital, which was completed in 1942, just six months after the ground was broken.

Now its name is to be changed. But its function has just been altered. Out goes technical medical equipment for operating rooms and extensive laboratories. In comes desks, blackboards, chalk and crayons.

Biggest In Country

The Intermountain (Navajo) Indian school is fast taking shape. Two thousand Navajo Indian children from Utah, New Mexico and Arizona soon will call the ex-Army hospital home. That will make it the biggest Indian school in the country.

Its first quota of 600 children will arrive in January. In a year it will be jammed to capacity.

The school where the children will learn how to put their race on its economic feet is nestled at the foot of the towering Wasatch Mountains, one mile south of Brigham City.

The hundreds of Indian children will frolic in cherry and apricot trees in the heart of Utah's richest orchard land. A few miles to the west, Great Salt Lake laps at its shores.

The closing of the big plant after the war ended left a $10,000,000 problem in the lap of the War Assets Administration. No one seemed to want it at first, and then too many wanted the plant.

Hospital Ruled Out

Neither the Veterans Administration nor the Army could use the site as a peace-time hospital. It was too far from medical specialists and colleges.

Col. Joseph E. Hill of Portland, Ore., last autumn asked the WAA for permission to convert the ex-hospital into a co-educational military school. He was backed by the Brigham City Chamber of Commerce and the Utah congressional delegation.

The mention of the word "school" started planning wheels rolling in the office of the United States office of Indian affairs. They asked for permission to take over the entire plant for a huge Indian school.

Man's Arm Cut Off Following Collision

O. L. Head, 50, of Warm Springs, underwent amputation of his left arm near the elbow early Friday morning at Lubbock Memorial hospital, where he was brought shortly before midnight after being injured in a two-car accident between Dickens and Warm Springs.

Head apparently had his arm out the car window when the collision came. Damage to the two vehicles was reported as light. The accident occurred around 8 p.m. No one else was reported injured.

Usher Scheduled To Take Sheepskin To Mrs. Evelyn Bradford

Determined Lubbock Housewife Will Get Her College Degree Tonight Despite Broken Leg

BY KENNETH MAY
Journal Staff Writer

To receive a college degree is a big event in anyone's life, but in the case of Mrs. Evelyn Bradford, 1519 Hill street, the thrill will be twice as great.

Why? Because Mrs. Bradford will attend the graduation exercises at Texas Tech tonight with a cast on her right leg and will become what is believed to be the first graduate the college has taken the degree to. Other persons must walk across the stage after it or graduate in absentia.

To Get Diploma

Mrs. Bradford, who broke her leg exactly one month ago today, was afraid Tech officials wouldn't let her attend the exercises tonight. She has been promised, however, that an usher will bring her sheepskin to her.

Not that Mrs. Bradford is new to the education field or that she is helpless with a broken leg—she has taught school herself for 10 years and, even with her leg in a cast, manages a lot of her housework.

The 44-year-old mother was standing on a cabinet table scrubbing woodwork July 26 when she fell and broke her leg just above the ankle.

"I was so glad to be out of school and have a little time to clean house," she said, explaining she had been attending school since last September.

Husband Does Work

"When I fell my husband and Curtis Delano (her nine-year-old son) were in another room. When they saw what had happened, the "Professor" had to take time out for a lecture before taking me to a doctor."

Mrs. Bradford's husband, Willard R., is a history teacher at Lubbock Senior High, she explained.

"He just stood there with his hands on his hips and told me how many times he had warned me not to do that. All the time my leg felt like it was going to kill me."

But after the first deluge, Mrs. Bradford said her husband had pitched right in to be of service. After he had taken her to the hospital in the family car he returned home to do the "housework." "He even canned 30 jars of peaches off our tree in the back yard," she commented.

Plans To Teach

Curtis has done his part, too, according to his mother, who brags on his newly-acquired ability to make beds and wash dishes. The fourth-grade student at George R. Bean school says he doesn't like dishwashing, however.

But tonight, with the assistance of her "menfolks," Mrs. Bradford will don her traditional cap and gown and be off to Tech to receive her Bachelor of Science in Education degree—a degree she started working towards over a dozen years ago at North Texas State college in Denton.

And this fall? Mrs. Bradford says she'll be in Dupre Elementary school teaching fifth grade by Oct. 1.

Michigan Residents Face Medical Charge

FORT WORTH, Aug. 26 (UP) — Five Cadillac, Mich., residents today faced 10 charges of performing cross-eye operations without Texas medical licenses.

The group was accused specifically of performing operations on Mrs. Stella Henderson of Fort Worth and Bob Allred, a six-year-old boy, in a hotel room here Aug. 12.

Defendants were Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Rakestraw, and Maxine Kimmel, a nurse.

Stanolind To Close Three Pump Stations

TULSA, Aug. 26 (Special) — Three Stanolind Pipe Line company pump stations will be shut down September 1, President J. L. Burke announced today. Reduction of transportation requirements in Texas makes the shutdowns necessary.

Stations at El Reno, Oklahoma, and Childress, on the company's 16-inch line from West Texas to Drumright, Oklahoma, have not been pumping recently. Monroe station near Lubbock alone can handle the crude oil pumped through the lines daily at the present time. Both Childress and El Reno have four pumps powered by four 1,000 horsepower electric motors capable of pumping 162,000 barrels of crude oil daily. Of the five men employed at each of the two stations, the chief engineers, A. M. Whitwell at Childress and J. J. Peard at El Reno, will remain on duty.

Lakenon station has Diesel powered pumps with a capacity of 53,500 barrels a day. Located on the Gulf Coast-Drumright line, near Hillsboro, it employs 11 men. Chief station engineer L. H. Springer will remain on duty at the station.

Employees at these stations will be placed at other points in Stanolind Pipe Line company's 11,300-mile, ten-state system. All three stations will remain on a standby basis. In the event that pumping requirements increase, the three stations will be able to resume operation at once.

Pea Removed From Child's Bronchus

The case of the elusive pea ended happily today at Lubbock Memorial hospital, where attendants brought the culprit to a quick justice.

It all started Thursday when Billie Kay Busby was eating peas in her home at Portales, N. M. But the 10-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl T. Busby failed to masticate one elusive pea and inhaled it into her right main bronchus.

The right main bronchus is no place for a pea to lodge, and she was rushed to the hospital here, where the pea was removed this morning with a bronchoscope.

And Billie, who will remain in the hospital for several days of observation, seemed very happy about the whole thing as she uttered a gleeful "goo."

Slash In Arms Aid Plan Seen

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (AP)—Senators considering President Truman's $1,450,000,000 arms aid program pressed today toward an almost certain slash in funds for Europe —and the possible addition of money for China.

Both friends and foes of the measure hoped for decisions on these major issues at a closed-door session of the combined Senate foreign relations and armed services committees.

Even administration supporters said privately it was extremely doubtful the committees would approve the full $1,160,990,000 asked by the President in the bill for military assistance to European members of the North Atlantic alliance.

The House slashed this amount to $580,495,000 before it passed the bill. Some members of the Senate committees, such as Senators Byrd (D-Va) and George (D-GA), favored holding it to that level. Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich) proposed a milder cut to $1,000,000,000, eliminating money requested to stimulate arms production in the Atlantic alliance countries.

But with Senators Connally (D-Tex), Pepper (D-Fla) and others fighting for the full amount, few lawmakers would predict the size of the final total.

Equally uncertain was the exact outcome of demands by Senator Knowland (R-Calif) and others that arms aid for non-Communist China be added to the administration's program.

Arson Suspected In Fire At Schoolhouse

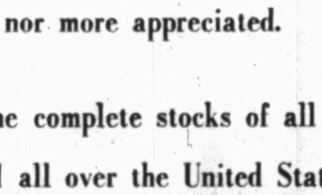

WINTERS, Aug. 26 (AP)—A section of the Bradshaw school, 10 miles north of here, burned last night.

E. C. Kimbrough, Cross Plains housemover, said he believed the frame building, which was being moved, was set on fire. He and an assistant, H. O. Turner, were sleeping in a section of the building.

Turner said he was awakened about 11 p. m. by a sound like the swishing of gasoline on the section of the building that had been placed on skids.

The men said they investigated and found the fire burning rapidly from the floor.

The building was being moved to Tuscola. It was part of a district change under the new Gilmer-Aiken law.

ABC Will Sponsor Show Ticket Sale

The American Business club today voted to sponsor the ticket sale for the Lubbock Kennel club show to be held Sept. 20 at the north air base, formerly South Plains Army air field.

Action on the project came in the form of a standing vote at a luncheon meeting in the Hilton hotel.

Price per ticket will be 60 cents. Ten cents of the ticket price will take care of the federal tax and the two clubs will split the difference.

Funds netted by the ABC will be spent on the Lubbock Boy's club.

The club also discussed the possibility of sponsoring an ice show sometime in October but vetoed the possibility of backing a professional football game here. Sponsorship of a circus in October was also talked.

Guests were Bill Sellers, Dub Boswell, Joe Bryan, Jimmie Kope and Pinky Lowrey. Cameron McKinnon invited the members to hear Governor Allan Shivers speak at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday at the O. L. Slaton Junior High school.

George Dale presided.

George VI Puts Down His King-Size Foot

Princess Wept Over Trip To U. S., British Magazine Says

(By International News Service)

LONDON, Aug. 26. — A British weekly magazine reported today that Princess Margaret wept after her father King George VI refused her permission to visit the United States when American comedian Danny Kaye returned home following a London vaudeville appearance.

The News-Review said the younger daughter of the king has "become the most pro-American of the royal family and keeps badgering her parents to let her visit the United States."

It said this status has developed through Margaret's close friendship with Sharman Douglas, daughter of U. S. Ambassador Lewis Douglas.

"She wanted to go back with Danny Kaye who taught her to can-can," said the magazine. "When her father refused she wept."

The London Daily Express sometime ago published a story saying the princess and Sharman did a high-stepping French can-can dance at a private party at the American embassy. It also said Danny Kaye taught the girls how to do the dance.

Mrs. Douglas, wife of the ambassador, ridiculed this report, saying it was only an "ordinary dance." Kaye also denied that he had taught the girls the can-can dance.

In Hollywood Kaye was asked about the News-Review report. He said: "No comment. The royal family was most gracious to me while I was in London and I absolutely refuse to 'cash in' on their marvelous hospitality."

New Volcano May Be Rising In Mexico

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 26. (U.P.)—A new volcano may be rising out of the earth in Mexico, it was reported today.

A shepherd told Red Cross officials who treated him for burned legs that the earth near Chalco in Mexico state was turning "pasty and hot." He said "smoke and gases" were coming out of the ground.

The same type of activity preceded the birth of Paricutin, Mexico's newest, most active volcano which grew out of a cornfield in 1944.

THREE-WAY RACE FOR COMMANDER

American Legion Convention Delegates Jam Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26 (AP)—Delegates to the 31st national American Legion convention began streaming into Philadelphia today with many apparently intent on naming a World War Two veteran as their new commander.

As the city gradually took on a holiday atmosphere, two veterans of the last war plunged into the business of meeting delegates and lining up support. They are George N. Craig, Brazil, Ind., attorney, and Earl Cocke, farmer and railroad man, of Dawson, Ga.

A third candidate is expected to establish campaign headquarters by tonight — James F. Green, Omaha, Neb., attorney.

Election of one of those three would mark the first time top control of the Legion passed out of the hands of World War One veterans.

Giant Parade Slated

Legion spokesmen have indicated they believe the race will narrow down to a three-way scrap between Craig, Cocke and Green.

But while the $15,000-a-year job is of intense interest to every Legionnaire the big show, as far as the public is concerned, will be Tuesday's parade of 18,000 marchers.

Legion officials say it will be the biggest and showiest ever put on. One official said costumes, musical instruments and equipment for the 15-hour parade are valued at $5,000,000. He added that the national championship band from Joliet, Ill., is bringing uniforms and instruments worth about $65,000 alone.

Thirty bands, 75 drums and bugle corps, firing squads, color guards and choruses of as many as 80 men will be in the line of march.

GAR Guest Expected

Legion officials disclosed they are hoping to have as their guest Monday 100-year old Theodore A. Penland, commander-in-chief of the Grand Army of the Republic, which is holding its 83rd and final encampment in Indianapolis.

Penland is expected to leave Indianapolis by plane immediately after the final ceremonies there, reaching here sometime after President Truman has addressed the opening session.

The Philadelphia naval base is preparing a full-dress welcome for the delegates, with "open house" tomorrow through Wednesday.

Three ships of the Atlantic fleet will be open for the visitors. They are the cruiser Albany, the battleship South Dakota, and the aircraft carrier Randolph.

C. Sharp of Dickens county. Hamilton recalled many of the early days.

"Sure there were a lot of trials and tribulations back then," Judge Hamilton said. "But there were plenty of good times too and those are the things we always seem to remember. The good times and the good friends."

Judge Sharp praised Columbus Haile for his hard work in keeping the activities of the association alive. Haile has headed the group for 19 years. He declared today that he "simply could not accept another term as president. I have too many things to do and I need a lot of rest," Haile said. Haile came to Dickens county in 1897.

A full afternoon of carefully planned entertainment followed the speaking. Old fashioned music and dance tunes were played by the Stephenson Orchestra of McAdoo. Several duet numbers were sung by Norma and Betty Sechrist, Spur, accompanied by Bonnie Beth Henry, also of Spur. A humorous reading was given by Miss Bobbie Morrow, Spur.

The old-timers were especially captivated by a pantomime. It was a skit called "When You and I Were Young" and it was put on by Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Vaughn, Dickens county. Mrs. Jessie Freeman, sang "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" while the act was being given.

While all of this was going on in the pavilion the small fry were enjoying the thrills and prizes of a carnival which was set up adjacent to the park. Beyond the park the rodeo grounds commanded the attention of the cowpokes and the embryo cowboys and cowgirls. Roping and riding contests went on all afternoon.

Results of the rodeo held in connection with the reunion Thursday were as follows:

Calf roping: Jimmie Bird, Post, first; Olin Bryant, Matador, second; Harold Felts, Matador, third; Alvis Townley, Paducah, fourth.

Ribbon roping: Bobby Byrd, Claremont, first; Clem Timmons, Matador, second; Jimmie Bird, Post, third; Bill Ware, Floydada, fourth.

Old timers roping: Bill Rusker, Guthrie, first; E. H. Bacot, Matador, second; E. B. Smith, Matador, third.

Junior Break-A-Way: John Latimer, Matador, first; Darien Brady, Matador, second; Neil Love, Spur, third.

Junior boys' flag race: J. Johnson, Matador, first; Dayton Eraham, Matador, second; Jerry Green, Matador, third.

Sponsors contest: Verna Mae Blackwell, McAdoo, first; Jaunelle Ward, Floydada, second; Janet Love, Spur, third.

Officials of the rodeo were: John Stotts, sheriff of Motley county, arena director; George Humphrey, Guthrie, arena judge.

Former Bomber Pilot Elected Head Of VFW

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 26 (U.P.) — World War II veterans held all top offices in the national Veterans of Foreign Wars today, with a former bomber pilot in top position.

The only contested election, for junior vice commander, resulted in a majority vote for Frank C. Hilton, 41, Womelsdorf, Pa. He is in line to become commander in 1952.

The VFW chose Chicago as its 1950 convention city, by 4,771 to 3,719 over the bid of Atlantic City.

the chain.

G. W. Wyatt, owner of the lodge, said the explosion was probably caused by an electric spark igniting gas in the room. A gas jet was found open.

Christopher checked into the lodge about 3 p. m. Thursday, according to Wyatt. He was due to report back to Denver Sunday.

Blair's wife is a second cousin to Christopher. Blair said the sergeant had stopped by the service station last week on his way to San Antonio. He said Christopher was a native of Nachogdoches and had been in the service for 17 years.

He also has an aunt, Mrs. A. H. Furlow, at O'Donnell.

The explosion, which blew off the front door of the cabin, also rattled windows of residences in the area. Wyatt said the cabin was a complete loss.

WILL FLY TO LAST ENCAMPMENT

Veteran Soldier, 102, Hopes To Be Last Commander Of GAR

LONG BEACH, Calif., Aug. 26 (AP)—Chipper Charley Chappel, one of he last of the old boys in blue, has hopped up from his bed again, hoping to be the last national commander of the Grand Army of the Republic.

And as usual Charley, 102 last July 7, is doing it the fastest way. He's going to fly tomorrow night to the GAR's last encampment at Indianapolis.

That's the way the spry old veteran went to the convention last year, too. Then he said:

"I want to get there in a hurry, help get our business transacted, and come back home. I'm still fairly active, you know."

This year it's just a little different.

Final Gathering

For one thing, it's the final national get-together of the boys in blue before the GAR disbands. So there'll be an awful lot of yarn swapping, at which Charley excels.

Then, too, Pvt. Charles L. Chappel, 10th New York infantry who was at Appomattox when Lee surrendered, isn't quite up to his customary fettle. He had to spend a few days in the Naval hospital recently after a hard session in his garden.

Neighbors found him unconscious in his tomato patch. Earlier the same day he had fallen from a tree while picking peaches in his backyard.

Naval doctors, worried about Chappel's heart, were amazed at his comeback. But not his neighbors on Stanley avenue.

They weren't even surprised when Charley popped into his three-wheeled electric autoette and raced down town to buy his plane tickets. He'll be accompanied by two neighbors, Elmer Wohlgeuth and Ida Baker.

Drives Own Car

The town is still talking about the day Chappel narrowly missed several pedestrians as he wove through traffic in his miniature car to tell police about the theft of his garden hose.

Everyone knows him, loves him. His wispy figure has headed many a Memorial Day parade. When he reached his 100th birthday in 1947, More than 2000 persons showed up for the party.

He is one of three remaining members of southern California's Stanton post. In 1935 there were 42 members. At the last meeting Chappel was alone. Doug Storey, 104, and Bill Magee, 105, can't get around much any more.

So it's up to Charley. He's now the senior vice commander of the GAR.

"If the boys want me, I'll be proud to be the last commander," says the old infantryman.

manager and secretary of the Building Construction Trades Council of Lubbock and vicinity.

Among the unions contributing to the Girlstown building program are Plumbers Local number 629, R. G. Scott, business manager; Carpenters Local No. 1884, M. L. Hogan, business manager and A. H. Kilpatrick, secretary; International Hod Carriers and Common Laborers union No. 357, B. M. Moore, business agent.

The bus will be furnished by the Lubbock City Bus company through C. O. Campbell each Saturday and Sunday until the building program is completed. Miss Amelia Anthony, founder and director of Girlstown, has made arrangements to have the men provided with a hot meal on the grounds.

The plumbers and master plumbers will furnish their own transportation to the job. They will lay out the lines tomorrow and begin the installation of pipe and equipment.

Andy Anderson, Carpenter's Union, will be supervisor of construction and will be on the job seven days a week.

The building now being undertaken is 300 feet long by 36 feet wide. It will have a large living room, 32 bedrooms and 16 baths. The foundation has been laid out and ditched. 1,265 feet of reinforced concrete foundation will be the first step to be taken by the contributing laborers.

There is no money available for hiring labor, according to Lightholder. He is planning to send letters next week to every labor organization in the United States seeking funds to carry on the work. If these funds are made available in sufficient amount men will be hired for five days per week and will continue to give two days. All labor will be employed from this area.

In addition to the labor, materials and equipment have been donated for the building. The entire program is planned to cover a ten-year period at the end of which time Miss Anthony anticipates a population of 500 at Girlstown.

Tito May Take Dispute To UN

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, Aug. 26. (U.P.)—Well-placed Communist sources said today that Yugoslavia may seek to bring Russia before the United Nations if Moscow continues its meddling in Yugoslav internal affairs.

These sources said the final paragraph of the last Yugoslav note to the Kremlin, referring to "international obligations" to which both countries were committed, was a direct reference to the UN charter.

Stalin's Move Awaited

However, they said, Marshal Tito is awaiting Moscow's next move in the present war of nerves and will not make any move toward the UN unless the situation becomes worse.

Many diplomats also interpreted the final paragraph of the Yugoslav note as an indirect warning that Tito is prepared to bring the whole question before world public opinion.

However, some thought that the Yugoslav government might choose the international court, an adjunct to the UN, to adjudicate that part of the dispute dealing with 31 Soviet citizens under arrest here on charges of espionage.

Strategy Shifted

The Yugoslavs, meanwhile, have shifted their home propaganda strategy. When the Soviets finally dropped the pretense that their differences with the Yugoslavs were entirely ideological, the Yugoslavs began to take their case to the outside world.

Visas are being granted to almost every reporter from the non-Soviet world, ranging from the left to the right. Writers, professors and "progressive" churchmen from the United States, France and other countries are given a "red-carpet" reception. They are permitted to travel almost anywhere they want and see anything they desire.

Hurricane

storm center were 110 miles an hour at Cat island in the eastern Bahamas and gusts to 75 miles per hour at Nassau.

High Tides Predicted

The strong side of the doughnut-shaped storm had not yet reached Nassau. Gales extended outward 200 miles to the north and east and 100 miles to the west of the center.

Increasing winds and abnormally high tides were predicted along the Florida east coast.

Precautions should be taken immediately for the protection of life and property in the area where hurricane warnings are displayed, Chief Storm Forecaster Grady Norton said.

The alerted Florida coast battened down. Some householders and business firms began boarding up yesterday. Boatmen moved small craft to safe anchorages.

Crews Alerted

Ships and planes at the Key West naval base were ready to flee if the storm headed that way.

Pilots at Boca Chica naval air station, where President Truman lands when he visits Key West, were alerted for a daybreak flight in their blimps and planes. Crews of submarines and surface craft were ordered to stand ready to take their vessels to sea on two hours' notice.

Norton called the hurricane "a renegade" and "a bad actor."

He said it pursued a veering course during the past three days, first curving northward, then shifting back westward again. A Navy hurricane hunter plane had a difficult time finding the "eye" of the doughnut-shaped disturbance in the confused air currents.

Norton said earlier the blow presented the "rare phenomenon" of a hurricane still in the formative stage but with winds already blowing at hurricane force.

CANS FOR AMERICANS

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP) — Americans now open more than 75 million cans a day, says the American Can Co. The estimate is based on government reports which indicate the equivalent of 28 billion standard-size fruit and vegetable cans are being made annually.

Amsterdam recently opened its new Airport Terminal Building with ceremonies on the anniversary of the first flight in Netherlands civil aviation history, when a plane took off from a nearby pasture and flew to London, in 1920

Patterson's automobile was found wrecked near the McCulloch county line.

The woman and girl were arrested about 3 p. m. They made statements to O'Neal Dendy and Ralph Logan, district attorneys at San Angelo, and to Sheriff A. V. Willborn of McCulloch county.

Wallet, Car Taken

Officers said both the girl and woman told of leaving Brady about 11 a. m., being picked up by Patterson at a bridge outside town, driving about six miles, and stopping as Patterson got out to pick up papers which had blown from the car.

Logan said the woman told him: When Patterson got out of the car she attempted to hold him up. They struggled for the gun and it went off and Patterson went limp. They took his wallet and car.

Dendy, attorney for the 119th district, said the girl told him the woman pulled a gun as Patterson started to get back in the car, but Paterson kept coming. There was a struggle during which foud shots were fired, the last striking Patterson.

Dendy said the girl then told him this happened:

Automobile Ditched

At the woman's direction the girl took Patterson's purse from his pocket and found a $50 bill in it. The girl tried to drive the car but hit a post. The woman drove about ten miles, but the car went in a ditch.

They went to the Wilbert Fleming farm house and told him they had to get to Eden to see a doctor. Fleming and his wife drove them there. Then they hitchhiked to San Angelo.

There they registered at hotel and bought new clothing and hair dye. They went to the bus station and checked a gun in a locker.

Logan said the woman told him she pulled a gun on a man to make him drive her from Austin to Temple Tuesday. She said she robbed him of $10.

(S. L. Cockrell of Houston told Temple police Wednesday he was held up and robbed of $11 and forced to drive to Temple by a woman hitchhiker.)

The woman said she picked the girl up at Temple; that they left there Tuesday night, hitchhiking and that near San Saba she held up another motorist, but he had no money.

Murder, Suicide Is Ruled In Shooting

HOUSTON, Aug. 26. (AP)—Justice of the Peace Tom Maes returned a verdict of murder and suicide in the office building shooting of Hosea Leon Groce and his former wife.

Groce and Mrs. Robert E. Schroeder were shot to death late yesterday in separate offices in the downtown medical arts building.

Homicide detectives said several persons told of seeing Groce chase Mrs. Schroeder down a tenth-floor corridor with a revolver in his hand. A number of persons heard shots, but officers could find no one who saw shots fired.

"Vacationers will spend, all told, more than $11,000,000,000 at hotels, resorts, camps, restaurants, motor courts and gas stations."

ADMITS MURDERING THREE WOMEN

Wife Asks Reward Of $16,500 For Sex Slayer's Confession

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Aug. 26 (INS)—The attorney for confessed-slayer Franklin Click revealed late today that Click's wife, Marie, 23, had demanded $16,500 reward money for obtaining her husband's confession.

Attorney Robert A. Buhler recited the bizarre turnabout which followed Click's surprise confession Sunday of the sex murders of three Fort Wayne women.

Buhler said he was summoned to the county jail Sunday by Click, told him to get Mrs. Click and bring her to him.

When he did so, Click made his confession, orally, in the presence of only his wife and the lawyer. He was being held on suspicion of assaulting another young mother.

Was Husband's Wish

After the oral confession, Mrs. Click handed Police Chief Lester H. Eisenhut a note which read, in part:

"I hand you herewith the written confessions of my husband, Franklin Click, to the murders of Wilhelmina Haaga, Anna Kuzeff and Phillis Conine.

"I now demand that if my husband should be convicted of these crimes, or any one of them, that the reward offered totaling $16,500 be paid to me."

Mrs. Click, a pretty brunette, said it was her husband's wish that she ask for the reward. Until the announcement, she had steadfastly maintained faith he was innocent of the crimes.

Stay Of Execution

The confession and demand for payment were the latest developments in a case which has been termed one of Indiana's most complicated murder cases.

Another confessed slayer of Miss Haaga and Miss Kuzeff received his seventh stay of execution last Saturday—a day before Click's confession.

The man, Ralph Lobaugh, had first confessed and then denied the slayings. He was sentenced to die for a third murder—that of Mrs. Dorothea Hunt.

Senate Speeds Military Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP) — Turning into the final lap on appropriations almost two months behind schedule, senators aimed today at passage of a whopping $14,800,000,000 money bill financing the three armed services.

That would clear the Senate appropriations docket except for five measures it already has approved but in a form different from the House versions. Bills in that category total close to $15,000,000,000.

A bitter argument about cutting government spending still threatened to slow down action on the last of the Senate bills.

Senate Gains Speed

The huge defense measure together with all other bills supplying annual funds for government agencies should have been cleared before July 1. That is when the current fiscal year began.

Late yesterday the Senate put on a burst of speed. It completed work on $668,000,000 appropriation for the Interior department. Then it whizzed through a $188,-000,000 odds-and-ends appropriation bill.

Finally, it began work on the big military bill.

Senator Elmer Thomas (D-Okla) said about $1,200,000,000 had been chipped off the total allowed by the House when it passed this measure April 13.

About $434,000,000 of these savings, Thomas said, would be made by Secretary of Defense Johnson while the rest would come from cutting back House-approved plans to expand the Air Forces.

Truman Ordered Cuts

Johnson took a first step toward those savings Wednesday with the announcement that 135,000 civilian workers and 12,000 reserve officers now on active duty are being dropped by the Army, Navy and Air Force.

President Truman told his news conference yesterday that this economy move—unpopular where it hurt most—was taken on orders from the White House.

Convict Caught

ed by the rangers for the North Plains and other places where he had admitted robberies and other violations of law.

Officials said the man Wingfield admitted having shoved off a train was in a Childress hospital, where he was taken for treatment of serious injuries.

The prisoner also admitted having robbed an "old man" of approximately $100 recently in Lubbock.

He said the man, accompanied by a woman, drove up to a tourist court. They had been drinking. Wingfield saw the money in a pocket of the other's shirt, next to a pack of cigarets. He said he grabbed the cigarets and money at the same time, saying, "how about a cigaret?" He replaced the cigarets, keeping the money, he said.

He explained that he quickly arranged that the man and woman enter a cabin, and said that he "never heard anything more about it."

Prison Officials Advised

Prison officials had been advised of the capture, by Capt. Crowder.

Wingfield was arrested in Wichita county along with confederates after Compton, then constable at Borger, and Sullivan, then a Borger deputy sheriff, had identified them with an attempted burglary of Panhandle Trailways Bus station in Borger.

The offense was Christmas Eve night of 1946. Two shots were fired in the air by one of the officers and four men fled from the scene. One dropped his hat and its trademark supplied the clue that resulted in identification and capture of the four men.

The men were sentenced to eight years each after pleas of guilty in that case.

Woman Is Charged In Slaying Of Husband

FORT STOCKTON, Aug. 26. (AP) Mrs. Ruth Hoover, 53, was released on $5,000 bail here today after she was charged with murder in the shooting of her husband, Rowden Hoover, 66, prominent Iraan rancher, late yesterday.

Mrs. Hoover was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Wayne Cummins of Iraan and brought here this morning. The murder charge was filed by Dist. Atty. Hart Johnson.

Bond was allowed after an examining hearing before County Judge Dan Bihl. The couple's 16-year-old daughter, Jimmy Kate Hoover, testified that the shooting followed a quarrel between her parents.

Hoover was shot with a rifle as he sat in a rocking chair in the living room of his Iraan home, Sheriff Charlie N. Baker said. The shooting occurred at 5:15 p. m. Hoover died in a McCamey hospital at 7:45 p. m.

Police Methods

bell said, Johnson informed then, he would not sign it and the officers took him to the police station.

Johnson there tendered a cash bond for his release, the city commission was advised, and was informed by Cooper that police could accept only a surety bond. Johnson telephoned Mayor W. H. Rodgers and was locked up, but was released a few minutes later under $50 cash bail after the city attorney had called and advised that this be done.

Police Chief Lewis Kittrell, also appearing before the city commission, said he did not know when nor why the practice of refusing to accept cash bonds was adopted, but that it had been followed for years.

The city commission directed that such bonds be accepted henceforth and directed the city attorney and City Manager Steve Matthews to prepare a city ordinance making provision for this method of release.

Police also were cautioned that they have no authority to take into custody any person accused of a misdemeanor traffic violation until after he has been given opportunity and has refused to sign a traffic ticket.

The arresting officers were criticised for failing to complete and offer such a ticket to Johnson for signing, and for failing to explain to him that he was allowed five days in which to appear at the police station to plead to the charge.

Chief Kittrell gave assurance that members of the department will be re-instructed that this procedure must be followed in such cases.

He said also that Johnson's cash bond has been returned to him and he has given surety bonds of $200 each to answer two charges of reckless driving—one filed last June and the other Wednesday night.

Johnson has entered not guilty pleas to the charges but his trials have not been set, the city commission was advised.

Bull Plays Havoc With Parked Bus

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 26 — A wayward black bull boarded a bus marked "Oak Ridge" here last night and began making like an atom bomb.

The bus, fortunately, was parked in a storage lot and no one was aboard.

The fugitive from a packing house kicked out the windshield, tore up several seats, and then lay down in the wide seat at the rear.

The animal was routed from the vehicle by a packing firm's employes who came to claim him, but escaped and kept the neighborhood in an uproar for three hours.

The bull finally was towed away with a big rope looped around his neck.

ESCALATORS INSTALLED

London's new public office building at Whitehall is being fitted with escalators, but architects cannot decide whether the rule shall be "Stand on the Right," or "Stand on the Left."

Car-Truck Collision Injures Two Persons

Two men were injured, neither seriously, when a 1938 Ford sedan crashed into the rear of a parked 1946 two-ton Ford truck at 8:15 p. m. Thursday on the Slaton highway, about 100 yards east of the Slaton-Tahoka "Y."

Cecil Malcom Spivey, about 35, of Comanche, had parked off the pavement, heading west, and was fixing the truck tarpaulin when the car hit. He was thrown to the ground and pinned under a rear dual wheel, receiving a badly bruised leg.

Driver of the car, identified by the Texas Highway patrol as Jim Glenn, about 35, believed to be of Carlsbad, N. M., received a cut lip. Both were treated at St. Mary's hospital and dismissed. A Mc Donald funeral home ambulance took Spivey there, while Glenn was taken to the hospital by investigating officers.

The highway patrol said investigation was continuing.

Ed Spivey, owner of the truck and father of Cecil, was in the truck cab when the car struck. He was not injured.

Six Will Seek Air Race Title

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26. (AP)—The Hollywood battle between planes owned by Jimmy Stewart and Buddy Rogers will highlight the annual Bendix air race to Cleveland Sept. 3.

Rogers just got his entry, a Republic AT-12, in before the deadline last night to make it a field of six. It will be piloted by Vince Perron, Burbank, Calif., flying school operator.

But Stewart's F-51 Mustang with Joe De Bona in the cockpit is favored. He has come close to winning the last two years. The 1948 winer, Paul Mantz, doesn't plan to compete.

Others Entered

But Mantz has entered two F-51s. He'll choose his pilots from these three—Stanley Reaver, Herman Salmon and Edmund Lunken.

Others entered are Leland Cameron of North Hollywood, Calif., in a Martin B-26, and D. E. Bussart of Hong Kong, China, flying a De Haviland Mosquito for China National airlines.

For the first time, takeoff will be simultaneous from Rosamond dry lake on sun-baked Mojave desert, 60 miles northeast of Los Angeles.

LITHUANIAN COLLECTIVES

MOSCOW, Aug. 27 (AP) — The newspaper "Soviet Lithuania" announced recently that great progress had been made in organizing collective farms in Lithuania. Official reports say 4,100 collective farms had been organized in the republic, uniting in themselves 130,308 peasant farms.

Truman Has 'Em All Guessing And In Dark About His '52 Political Plans

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (AP)—Some of President Truman's closest friends predicted today he won't let it be known until after the 1950 congressional elections whether he will run again.

They agreed he will stump around the country next year to get a Congress to back his "fair deal program."

A substantial number of them expressed conviction Mr. Truman's inclination is to leave the White House at the end of his present term in 1952.

All Are Guessing

All of them conceded they were "guessing"—that they were just as much in the dark as are the people who are not close to the President.

And they insisted that Mr. Truman himself couldn't say for sure at this time.

The President himself set off the speculation yesterday.

He hinted—with a smile that might have meant anything—that he won't run in 1952. (He will be 68 on May 8 of that year.)

But then, later, he wouldn't say no, positively, or even probably.

It was started when 96 teen-age girls trotted up to the White House to look it, and the President over, and to sing him a song that lasted so long he had to wave goodbye and get back to work.

One of the girls—students of government brought here by the American Legion auxiliary, had asked about her chances of becoming an ambassador five years from now.

He Couldn't Promise

Reporting this, in one of his off-the-cuff talks, Mr. Truman said he couldn't promise anything that far away "because that is a year or two beyond the time when my term will expire."

Reporters pounced upon the remark at a subsequent news conference. It sounded, they told him, like he would not be a candidate in 1952.

That, said the President, was the implication he intended.

To they tried to nail him down. "But you are going to be a candidate, aren't you?" one newsman pressed.

I'll answer that question when the time comes, Mr. Truman came back.

And, evidently enjoying himself, he added he was not in the position Calvin Coolidge was in 1927 when he said: "I do not choose to run."

A reporter's later trip around the White House didn't clear up matters much.

Doesn't Know Himself

One of Mr. Truman's oldest and most intimate friends summed it up this way:

"I frankly believe that the President does not intend to run again. At the same time, I can conceive of a situation in which he might run. And, my honest opinion is that he doesn't know himself at this time."

This man wouldn't allow the use of his name. Neither would others on the President's staff.

"It would be guessing," summed up the general reply.

All the talk stirred up recollections of the opinions expressed in White House circles right after last year's election triumph for the Democrats.

At that time, riding back to Washington on the victorious Truman campaign train, most of the presidential confidants aboard were pretty positive that the President would not seek re-election.

Peak Of His Career

They pointed to his prospective age in 1952, and to his sensational upset victory which they said was the peak of his political career. His goal, they said, was a successful term in his own right.

Mr. Truman apparently has nothing to gain by an announcement now either to run or not to run.

If he said he is going to run, his friends noted, any future action would be labelled politics, and would further weaken his influence in Congress.

If he said he isn't going to, they reasoned, he would open the doors to a free-for-all battle for the Democratic nomination and thus weaken his influence in his party.

Unhappy feelings continued meanwhile among southern States' Rights Democrats, riled over the treatment given them by the party's national committee. The committee purged from its rolls five southerners who deserted the Truman ticket last year.

Action Condemned

Gov. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, who took his own and three other states away from the President last year as the States' Rights nominee, condemned the committee's action.

Thurmond said at Columbia, S. C., that the Democratic party is "under the domination of Pendergastism" and rejected Mr. Truman's suggestion that dissident Democrats fall in line with the party platform.

James Pendergast, a leader of a Democratic faction in Kansas City, and nephew of the late "Boss" Tom Pendergast, was a White House visitor yesterday.

He served in the 35th division with Mr. Truman in the first World War. The President told his news conference that Pendergast is his friend and is always welcome at the White House.

Royall's Recommendations On Armed Forces Unity Revealed

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (AP)—Former Secretary of the Army Royall believes that the Air Force should be transferred to the Navy or else it should take over the naval air arm.

This was one of the recommendations for unification contained in the report Royall made to Secretary of Defense Johnson when he left the Pentagon April 27. The report, supplementing his annual one for 1948, was released today by the Department of Defense.

Royall said it seemed to him that the secretary of defense should have the right to prescribe and change the functions of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

He said this seemed of special importance in regard to the air functions of the Air Force and the Navy.

He said it was his "conviction that the most efficent type of unification will come about only when there is one Air Force."

If unlimited power to assign air functions is not given the head of the Defense departments, Royall said, then "the Air Force should be transferred to the Navy or, if not, the naval air arm should be transferred to the Air Force."

Royal made other recommendations to strengthen unification and the powers of the secretary of defense.

Some of these, such as provision for an under secretary of defense and assistant secretaries, were contained in the unification act since passed by Congress.

This act specifically forbids secretary of defense to reassign or consolidate combat functions. At the time the bill was pending there were rumors that Johnson planned to transfer the Marine air arm or possibly put the Marines in the Army. Johnson denied it.

Japanese Labor Head Sentenced To Prison

TOKYO, Aug. 26 (AP)—A U. S. Army provost court today gave Communist labor leader Yashiro II two years at hard labor for malicious attacks on the occupation forces.

II was convicted of asserting in a speech last June that the occupation was leading Japan into "slavery," and that the United States was getting rich by selling Japanese exports cheaply and bringing in goods to be sold at "exorbitant prices."

The Communist was one of the leaders of a planned general strike which was halted in February of 1947 by General MacArthur.

B-36 Probers Searching For Others Who Planted Rumors

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (AP)—Congressional investigators took off today on the trail of additional suspects who may have spread discredited charges of fraud and favoritism in the B-36 bomber program.

Actual hearings are at a standstill for six weeks while agents of the House armed services committee dig for more facts.

The hearings produced a spectacular climax yesterday:

1. The complete lifting of any suspicions of corruption from Secretary of Defense Johnson, Secretary of Air Symington, industrialist Floyd Odlum and everybody else connected with the development of the giant, intercontinental bomber. That was by unanimous action of the committee.

Navy Embarrassed

2. An equally complete repudiation of all the charges and rumors of irregularities contained in a once anonymous memo. That was by the author of the document, suspended Navy official Cedric Worth. He got plenty of help in his repudiation from committee counsel Joseph B. Keenan.

The Navy, much embarrassed, ordered an investigation of its own. It set up a court of inquiry, to convene next Monday, to "inquire particularly as to whether other persons, military or civil, under the Navy department participated in or instigated or had knowledge of the preparation of the said document."

Worth was suspended Wednesday from his $8,500-a-year job as an assistant to Undersecretary Dan Kimball.

Before the House committee, with Keenan cracking the whip, Worth executed one of the most sensational flip flops ever seen on a congressional witness stand.

Knows Of No Fraud

He withdrew his "unscrupulous man" description of Odlum, board chairman of Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft company, makers of the B-36.

He admitted to Rep. Bates (R-Mass) that he has no direct or indirect knowledge of any corruption, fraud, collusion, influence or favoritism in the B-36 program.

Voicing regret time after time under prodding from Keenan, the witness agreed that he had:

Made a "great error," "done the Navy no good," brought about heartaches and "a great disservice to the American people," and spread "a lot of loose, false statements."

Worth said he no longer is convinced there was political chicanery or corruption in the B-36 program, but:

"I believe and still believe there is need for serious consideration by a committee of Congress or by a group of objective people of the defense structure, and that is particularly related to the B-36."

Others Thought Involved

While Worth, a former newspaper and movie writer, said nobody collaborated with him, Keenan said he thinks the charges from which Worth backed down originated in other and higher places.

"The area of infection is wider and deeper," he said.

Committee Chairman Vinson (D-Ga) told reporters he is in no position to decide whether Worth, in the words of a newsman, is "covering up somebody else." He simply pointed to the next order of business on the inquiry work sheet:

"Locate and identify the sources from which the charges, rumors and innuendoes have come."

They came partly from Rep. Van Zandt (R-Pa), a member of Vinson's committee. Weeks ago he put into a speech on the House floor many of the hints in Worth's memo that something was wrong.

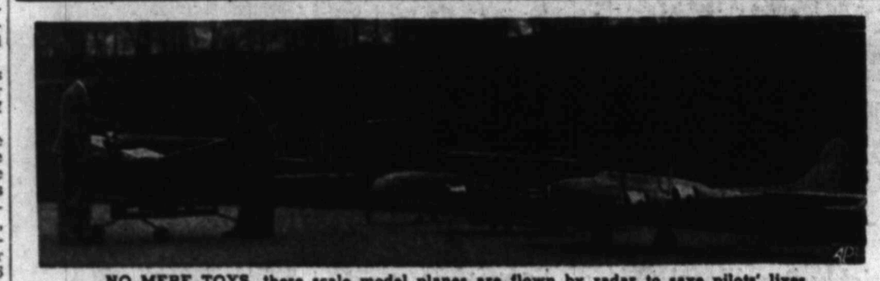

These hints were to the effect that political influence and favoritism, involving Johnson, Symington and Odlum, were mixed up in the B-36 program, but:

Van Zandt himself raised his hand, along with all the other committeemen, in approval of Vinson's statement that:

"There has not been, in the judgment of the committee, one iota, not one scintilla, of evidence offered thus far in these hearings that would support charges or insinuations that collusion, fraud, corruption, influence, or favoritism played any part whatsoever in the procurement of the B-36 bomber.

"There has been very substantial and very compelling evidence that the Air Force has selected this bomber and procured this bomber solely on grounds that this is the best aircraft for its purpose available to this nation today.

"As of this time, I feel that the nation should know that the secretary of the Air Force, Mr. Symington, the military leaders of the Air Force, and the secretary of defense have come through this inquiry without the slightest blemish—that these men continue to merit the complete confidence of the American people in their past actions and in the future."

NO MERE TOYS, these scale model planes are flown by radar to save pilots' lives

Lives Of Airmen Saved By Actual Flight Tests Of Model Planes At Wright Field

By KEN DAVIS
Associated Press Staff Writer

DAYTON, O., Aug. 26 — Over nearby Wright Field these days, a tom thumb air force wheels and dives under radar control.

Some of these Liliputian planes have wing spans no more than four feet, but they save the lives of the boys who fly the big airplanes. And, they save tax money, too.

Each is a miniature of some regular experimental plane proposed as an addition to the Air Force armada. By actual flights, they give information engineers need before they risk the life of a test pilot, or the costly regular-sized plane in customary test flights.

It all began four years ago. A U. S. Air Force pilot died in the crash of a highly unconventional glider design with swept-forward wings. Months of wind tunnel tests of a non-flying model of the XFG-1 stamped it as a clean design. From all calculations short of actual flight, the glider would come out of a spin. In the first flight test, the glider went into a spin, but never came out. The pilot was killed.

Builds Scale Model

Adam J. Stolzenberger, a test pilot-engineer, was assigned to build a scale model of the crashed glider for free flight tests. Today Stolzenberger is chief of the dynamic model unit of the Air Material Command at Wright Field.

The planes have their own airport overlooking the giant landing strips used by the big bombers. It is a queer little thing for such a serious mission. In the center is a control tower for use in flying models familiar to model airplane enthusiasts—called control-line models. Free-flight models-jet-powered, gasoline-powered, gliders, helicopters—are controlled by radio.

Models Not Toys

But models used by the Air Force aren't toys. They vary from a four-foot wing span for high-speed midget fighters to 20-foot wing spread for a miniature of a big bomber. It takes from six weeks to nine months to build them and the cost can run as high as $25,000.

Probably the most impressive model yet to come from the unit's workshop is a miniature of the batlike B-49 flying wing, which was four months in construction. This baby bomber possesses a full set of flight instruments. The workings of these instruments are recorded during flight on 16-millimeter movie film. It has five radio control channels and is equipped with a 28-foot parachute and landing gear which emerges automatically as the chute is opened.

Two jet-power units for high-speed designs also have been developed. These designs use engines similar to those in the V-1 buzz bomb.

Model fanciers everywhere are being benefitted by Wright Field's work with miniatures. Recently it asked the engine industry to develop a gasoline engine that would produce 2½ horsepower, 7,000 revolutions a minute and not exceed four pounds in weight. Yet the engine had to fit inside an eight-inch opening in a bomber nacelle.

The Air Force now plans to branch out with a free-flight experimental base somewhere in the desert. There, far from observing eyes, subsonic, transonic and supersonic miniatures may be flown by radio before man-sized planes of the various types are taken aloft by human pilots.

What People Cram Into U. S. Mail Boxes Is Enough To Put Postmen In Nut House

By JAMES W. HART
United Press Staff Writer

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 26 — A mailman's life is never dull, according to Charles F. Musiol, general foreman of the post office claims-inquiry department here.

Musiol bases his claim on the variety of items plucked from the green street boxes each day by his staff. He is of the opinion that every mail box is a potential "Pandora's Box."

Pittsburgh has some 3,000 mail boxes within the city limits, and each gives up at least one mailed-by-accident article every day.

The items range from lighted cigarets tossed in by pranksters to snoopy cats or house-hunting turtles. Recently, a postman was challenged by an irate garter snake which evidently had decided that the dark, roomy confines of the mailbox made an ideal maternity ward.

Bottles Get In

Tipplers often mistake the letter drops for trash baskets and deposit their empty bottles for the mailman. Other folks toss half-eaten sandwiches, gum wrappers and garbage into the "convenient" boxes.

Often, a cat lover will be blessed with a litter of kittens and simultaneously cursed with the job of giving them away. An easy method, some feel, is to drop the whole family into the mail box with a note instructing the postal authorities to "find them a good home."

Other cats, just curious, manage to find their way into the box and then can't get out. As often as not, their liberator is clawed when he sticks his arm in to scoop up a batch of letters.

Another occupational hazard faced by the mailman is the possibility of beink stuck by pins of costume jewelry which slips from the clothing of letter-mailing women.

Secretaries Contribute

Secretaries, Musiol believes, are the greatest contributors to his "collection." In their last minute haste to get rid of the mail and catch a trolly home, they dump lipstick, false teeth, money, compacts, corn-pasters, keys, spectacles and sundry other items into the drops.

No matter what the intruding article might be or how it got there, the postman delivers it to Musiol's department in the federal building. There it remains for 30 days, while the owner may claim it.

If unclaimed, it's shipped to the parcel post dead end department in New York. When the New York "warehouse" becomes overcrowded, an auction is held and the items are sold to the general public.

WORKS BOTH WAYS

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP)—John J. Wright used a powerful blower to store 75 tons of chopped hay in his barn a couple of months ago. When his barn caught fire he reversed the blower and used it to pump the hay out and save it.

Ice Skater Barbara Ann Scott Ready To Accept Screen Role

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Staff Writer

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26—Hollywood may win Barbara Ann Scott because the ice skating queen doesn't like the cold.

Of course, that's just one reason, but it's a big one. The Olympic champion, who has spent a large slice of her 21 years on the ice, testifies that baby, it's cold out there.

"Mmmm, I love this sunshine," she sighed as she relaxed from the movieland whirl in her $35-a-day hotel suite. "And I like having the ocean nearby. I'm very fond of the water—the non-frozen kind. I'd love to live here."

The way things are shaping up, she may well get her wish. Her agents have been introducing her around at the studios, and the pert and personable blonde makes quite an impression. Some ink may flow before the Canadian gal leaves town next week.

Likes Sonja Henie

Barbara herself is all hepped up about a movie career. "I think it would be like living in a make-believe world," she enthused.

She remarked that she had seen all the Sonja Henie pictures. "I love the way she sailed over the black ice covered with water," she said.

"But I'd rather have pictures with more emphasis on story, and less on skating."

Among the film deals mentioned for her is co-starring with U. S. skating champion Dick Button in "Hans Brinker" for Walt Disney. "It sounds very interesting," she commented. "But I don't know if Dick would do it; his family wants him to finish Harvard."

APOSTLE'S BONES BELIEVED FOUND

Vatican Expected To Reveal Discovery About St. Peter

VATICAN CITY, Aug. 26. (AP)—The Vatican radio has urged the faithful to await a "great revelation" by the Holy See concerning the tomb of St. Peter.

This advice, it was learned, is the only authoritative Vatican comment yet made on American newspaper reports that St. Peter's bones have been found under St. Peter's bastilica here.

The Vatican radio rebroadcast the summary of an article appearing this week in the Catholic action newspaper Quotidiano, headed "premature news and confident awaiting."

A director of Vatican radio told the Associated Press "this represents our views."

Comment Divided

Neither the Vatican radio nor Quotidiano ventured to predict whether the Holy See's forthcoming revelation would announce whether St. Peter's bones actually had been found.

Neither was there any hint regarding the nature of the expected revelation, presumably to be made by Pope Pius XII at some future date.

The New York Times reported recently that the bones of the apostle were understood to have been found less than 20 feet below the pavement of the basilica.

Vatican sources unofficially have labelled the report fantastic.

Comment within the Vatican reportedly is divided—some believing, others disbelieving the account.

Not Innovation

A similar division exists among Rome's newspapers which are continuing to indulge in wide speculation.

The Vatican radio and Quotidiano said: "This information does not have the character of innovation, having been published by the press of various countries in other circumstances."

"However," they added, "it is well to observe that in an important and delicate matter one should adhere to official and definite news which step by step comes to christianity.

"And it is not without profound significance that one who divulged (such news) up to now on two solemn occasions was the pope."

The Vatican radio and Quotidiano recalled that the pope on May 13, 1942, spoke of archeological work, then only recently begun in the grotto of the Vatican.

Right Time Awaited

The pontiff said the findings had demonstrated, among other things, that the basilica of St. Peter was built on the tomb of the prince of the apostles.

On Jan. 30, 1949, the pope addressed Roman students and declared: "It was the decision of Divine Providence that St. Peter chose Rome as the seat of his bishopric.

"Here in the circus of Nero for which we have incontestible testimony," he said as a confessor of Christ, "under the central point of the gigantic cupola (of St. Peter's basilica) was and is the place of his sepulchre."

The Vatican radio and Quotidiano said "now it is believed that with the best foundations, the size of the work and the discoveries achieved will lead to more consoling news."

"When will this be?" they asked. "Evidently the Holy See, faithful to its method of cautious reserve and certain documentation, will await the opportune moment. No anticipation then, but confident waiting.

"Without doubt when the hour of great revelation comes, it will be most solemn and all the christion world will hail it with renewed manifestations of faith and gratitude."

Paroled Ex-Convict Wants His Cell Back

STILLWATER, Minn., Aug. 26 (AP)—A Minnesota lifer, paroled in 1946 after serving 33 years for murder, is asking for his cell back "to avoid going to the poorhouse."

Warden Leo Utecht said the man was 63-year-old Charles Conley, given the life term in 1913 for slaying a woman in a Minneapolis rooming house. Conley gave himself up yesterday to the sheriff at Libby, Mont. and asked to be sent back here, Utecht reported.

He quoted Conley as telling the sheriff he couldn't find a job, thus couldn't obey terms of his parole, and "I'll end up in the poorhouse unless I get back to my cell."

The warden said action by the state pardon board would be necessary before Conley's parole can be officially revoked.

Prickly Pear Fatal To Three-Year-Old

SWEETWATER, Aug. 26 (AP) — Three-year-old Mary Almarquer died yesterday and seven other members of her family were taken to a hospital. Attendants reported they had eaten prickly pear.

The mother and five children were reported improved, but Juan, 12, was reported in a critical condition.

Almarquer is a Texas and Pacific railroad section foreman at Eskoto.

City Slickers Take To Roadsides, Posing As Rural Characters Selling Genuine Home Stuff

WEST HAVERSTRAW, N. Y., Aug. 26 (NEA)—From now until the frost is on the pumpkin, the city slickers will be taken over the horticultural hurdles by rural characters who call themselves Farmer Jones or Farmer Smith, but who really are retail businessmen along the highways of the nation.

This doesn't mean that every roadside stand which sells fruits, vegetables and eggs isn't what it seems to be—a local farmer getting rid of his excess produce by direct sales to consumers. But enough are phonies for weekend city drivers to be on the lookout.

All too often the "farmers' exchanges" and "farmers' outlets" stands that you see along the highways are controlled by city wholesalers.

Sold Along Road

All too often the produce that is temptingly displayed along the roadsides not too far from the big cities has come from the city wholesale markets. The "farmer" has driven into town, loaded up before daylight, and come back to arrange his layout of "local produce."

Thus Maryland potatoes are sold as "home grown" in New York — before the Long Island potato season comes in; Georgia peaches are similarly sold in Indiana. Later on in the year the process is reversed, with the late northern produce sold on southern roadsides.

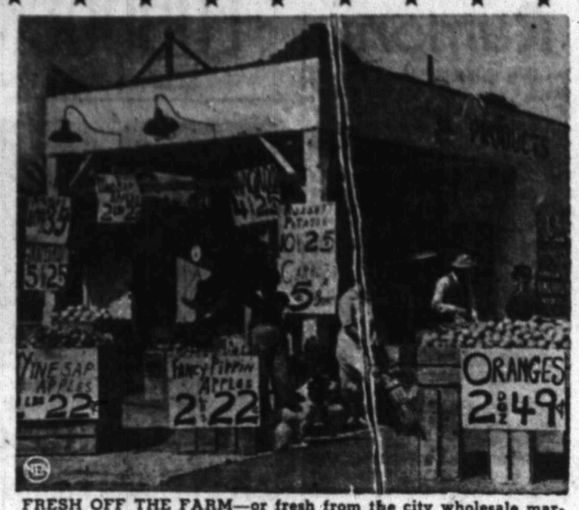

Most states have food marketing bureaus, food commissions or divisions of purchasing standards. These departments annually issue warnings against the gyp roadside merchants.

Nothing Illegal

U. S. Department of Agriculture county farm agents aren't happy about the practice because it tends to give the real farmers in the areas they serve a bad name. But there's nothing illegal about such a procedure. You're getting the same vegetables or fruit you'd be buying from your green grocer in town. Chances are, you're paying about the same price.

But what is represented as fresh farm produce often just isn't fresh.

Eggs fall into the same category as vegetables. There are times when the hens just aren't producing enough to fill the requirements of the roadside trade. During these periods you're probably getting storage eggs sold as fresh ones. The grading that you find in the city groceries doesn't apply in most rural areas, for the assumption is that the eggs that are sold are locally produced and fresh.

FRESH OFF THE FARM—or fresh from the city wholesale markets? That's the question that bothers Department of Agriculture farm agents about the summer crop of roadside stands.

UNEMPLOYMENT SEEN

Unemployment will come to Northern Ireland's shipyards unless everyone in the industry unites to produce ships at lower costs, Sir Frederick Rebbeck, a leading shipbuilder, warned at Belfast.

Tobacco Sacks Aid Prisoners' Escape

LA JUNTA, Colo., Aug. 26 (INS)—Sheriff George Freidenberger of Otero county was wondering today if he should string along with county jail prisoners who want to roll their own cigarets.

Prisoners John L. Lyons, 19, of Osawatomie, Kan., and Leroy Nichols, 17, of Junta, escaped from jail yesterday aided by a 20-foot-long cord made of draw strings from cigaret tobacco sacks. The strings represented a month of heavy smoking.

The cord apparently was lowered to a confederate, who attempted a cutting instrument and a length of rope, which the pair drew up to their cell. They then cut a hole in the ceiling, and lowered themselves through an attic window.

Large Crowds Attend New Store's Opening

More than 3,000 Lubbock and South Plains residents thronged through Lubbock's newest women's store, Skibell's from 7 p. m. until 10 p. m. Thursday during the store's formal opening.

Fifteen hundred orchids were distributed to the women who began lining up before the store a half an hour before the scheduled "open house." The flowers, said Archie Skibell, owner and manager of the $100,000 store, were a common sight in the downtown area after the affair ended.

Small jeweled, gold vials of perfume were also given as souvenirs to women visitors at the opening.

No merchandise was offered for sale during the "open house." But the store will be ready for business today, Mr. Skibell said.

Mr. Skibell, while a newcomer to Lubbock, has operated stores in Greenville, Marshall, Sulphur Springs, Texarkana, Longview and Sherman for over 25 years.

NEW CLINIC, HOSPITAL STARTED HERE—The drawing above portrays the new Abell Clinic and Hospital on the Idalou highway, on which work has started. The large Colonial-style building is due for completion by the middle of October. It is being built by Dr. R. Z. Abell, owner of Abell Sanitorium at 1641 Broadway, and his son, Dr. R. Z. Abell, jr., osteopath. Joe Telford is general contractor. Atcheson and Atkinson are architects. Built of asbestos shingles and stucco on frame construction, the building will contain reception room, offices, examining rooms, delivery rooms, x-ray equipment, laboratory, nursery, 14 patients rooms and two wards. Interior walls will be of gypsum board, with acoustical tile in ceilings of offices and reception room. Asphalt tile will cover concrete slab floors. The roof will be of composition shingles. A paved entrance drive and large parking area will be provided. Work on the foundation of the building is under way.

Wooden Conduits Of Phone Company Burn

Fire destroyed about 75 wooden conduits owned by Southwestern Bell Telephone company about 3:30 p.m. Thursday but was extinguished by firemen before it could do serious damage to a pile of telephone poles stacked nearby.

The fire happened alongside some tracks of the Fort Worth and Denver City railroad about 100 yards west of where the tracks cross Texas Ave. Firemen extinguished the blaze with the aid of a booster truck.

Officials investigating the cause of the fire, said it apparently was started by two unidentified boys. They said the creosote covering on the conduit and the telephone poles caused it to burn rapidly, giving off a great deal of smoke. Two cars and a city garbage truck caused firemen to answer alarms Thursday morning. One car was damaged considerably when the rear seat burned.

VILLAGE LOOTED

Some people fled from the village of Polkampalli, in Hyderabad, India, recently, after armed Communists had raided it, looting stores and assaulting villagers who did not help them.

Colombia is to build a new $6,000,000, 400-room tourist hotel.

Incidents Connected With Red Trial Jury Being Investigated

NEW YORK, Aug. 26 (AP)—Federal investigation of incidents connected with the jury in the Communist conspiracy trial was reported under way today.

The inquiry was reported unofficially to have been touched off by the defense's unsuccessful attempt to get a mistrial on the ground that a juror is prejudiced.

After turning down defense lawyers' motions for a mistrial or for disqualification of the juror they accused of bias, Judge Harold R. Medina impounded part of the defense's motion papers yesterday and ordered that none be removed from the files without his permission.

Prejudice Claimed

The judge rejected a defense suggestion that original handwritten notes among the papers be replaced with photostats.

U. S. Attorney John F. X. McGohey refused to discuss the reports of an investigation.

The defense bias charge was lodged against juror Russell Janney, 65-year-old author of the novel "The Miracle Of The Bells" and a theatrical producer.

Defense lawyers complained that Janney had expressed prejudice against the defendants in private conversations with Miss Carol E. Nathanson, a signer and actress. The lawyers also attributed other anti-Communist statements to Janney.

The defense's mistrial motion was based largely on a lengthy affidavit by Miss Nathanson, with attached notes purported to be in her handwriting on talks she said she had with Janney about the trial.

Conversation Cited

Included in the notes was this reported exchange last July 2:

Miss Nathanson—"well, Mr. Janney, being on this jury certainly gives you an unprecedented opportunity to do the democratic thing."

Janney—"if you want my place on the jury, I'll gladly resign it to you."

The papers quoted Miss Nathanson as reporting "I suggested (to Janney) that European countries that went Fascist started with a Communist trial."

In an earlier conversation, Miss Nathanson was quoted as commenting to Janney that if the Communists were "stopped" there would be a legal precedent to "stop" other political parties in the U. S.

Witnesses Called

The jury in the trial—now in its eighth month—was absent from the court room when the mistrial action was handled. Janney—under orders not to read accounts of the trial—therefore supposedly has no knowledge of the defense complaint against him.

After the jury returned, the defense put four more witnesses on the stand. They were Simon W. Gerson, press agent for the eleven top Red leaders on trial on charges of conspiracy to advocate violent overthrow of the government; George C. Squier, jr., a teacher at the Jefferson School of Social Science; Sampel Sillen, editor-in-chief of "Masses and Mainstream," a magazine; and Edward E. Strong, a Philadelphia negro who testified he is Communist county chairman there.

Strong spoke in a very soft voice, and his manner led Judge Medina to ask him if anything was wrong.

Strong's lawyer, Richard Gladstein, said "I just found out his wife gave birth to a baby boy today."

"Well, in that case," the judge said with a smile, "we'll declare a recess. Mr. Strong, go home, don't hurry back."

Farmers Planning Rescue Of Heifer Confined In Silo

OSCEOLA, Wis., Aug. 26 (AP) — The corn was green today and Snoopy remained in her private valley—a 12 foot deep silo on the Everett Lampman farm.

Snoopy, a frisky 650 pounds of young heifer, jumped into the silo Wednesday through an opening 20 by 30 inches while Lampman was chasing her out of a cornfield.

The silo door is at ground level, and the chamber is built into the earth. With the advice of neighbors, Lampman decided the only way to get snoopy out is to fill the silo. Then, when she's level with the door, greasing, coaxing, pushing and pulling should do the trick.

It was Snoopy's appetite for corn that started all the trouble. To keep her from eating a good part of the fresh-cut corn he'll pour in the silo, Lampman figures on using a bucket as a muzzle.

A "coming out party" is planned for this weekend, when the corn cutting is scheduled to begin. Mrs. Lampman said she would have apple pie and fried chicken for neighbors joining in the rescue. Snoopy, of course, will be guest of honor, and everyone's hoping the party comes off without a hitch.

Los Angeles To Ban Gambling

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26. (AP)—The word is out to Los Angeles county police chiefs: Gambling must go.

District Attorney William E. Simpson put it that way to 60 chiefs yesterday, including Deputy Chief Thad Brown of the big city force.

"If you can't handle the situation, my office will," said the D. A.

"I know that there is gambling, slot machines and bookmaking in many towns around the county," Simpson said. "I want it stopped."

Police Shifted

He said he had received "very valuable" recording said to have been made in a card parlor linked to Mickey Cohen. Although three years old, Simpson described them as "too hot to discuss."

In another development, newly-appointed Los Angeles Police Chief William A. Worton, shifted 182 officers—the fourth and largest shakeup since the ex-Marine corps general took office.

Meanwhile, the little gambling chieftain appeared to be lying low, getting the boys together for confabs at his Brentwood home. Police counted eight Cadillacs outside Cohen's home early yesterday and dutifully recorded license numbers. The lights were burning until the wee hours.

Winston Churchill's Cold Much Improved

NICE, France, Aug. 26 (AP)—Winston Churchill was up and about yesterday, following two days of confinement with a cold he caught while swimming in the Mediterranean.

The 74-year-old former British prime minister took a walk in the afternoon on the grounds of Lord Beaverbrook's villa, where he had come to rest and paint. Later he worked on correspondence. He has postponed his return to Strasbourg to resume attendance at the meetings of the Council of Europe.

Lord Moran, his physician, previously had allayed fears Churchill was seriously ill. A bulletin issued by the doctor said Churchill was "much better this morning but will require a few days of rest and quiet."

All In A Lifetime — Boyhood Hazards

English Learned In Eight-Weeks Course

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 26 (AP)—A sort of linguistic miracle is being accomplished here. Young foreign students, with little or no background in English, are achieving a fluency in eight weeks that might take as long as two years elsewhere. This is being accomplished by the University of Michtute.

"There's been as much advance in linguistic science in the last 15-20 years," Dr. Charles C. Fries, director, says, "as there has been in the field of physics and atomic research."

Dr. Fries says the whole program rests on determination of the differences between the foreign language and English. Different sentence structure, different pronunciation of the same letter and different meanings of the same word provide the working area. Intense effort is then applied to elimnate "trouble spots."

Proof of the system is that about two-thirds of the students are ready to hold their own in their English-speaking world after eight weeks. Each has a working vocabulary of about 1,800 words of usable English.

Dr. Fries looks forward now to the 39th institute session this fall. With it is almost sure to come again the student who learns "room and board," then tries to justify "eat our education" for "board of education."

POLICE FOLLOW SMELL

BEIRUT, Aug. 27 (AP)—A group of drug addicts smoking hasheesh in a cafe on wheels were given away by a gust of wind recently. Lebanese police raiding illegal gambling houses in the outskirts of Beirut were struck by a strange smell carried by an eastern breeze.

They followed the odoriferous track up and down nearby hills.

POLITICAL, MILITARY FACTORS TO BE WEIGHED

British Role In Cold War With Russia Will Play Vital Part In Talks On Dollar Crisis

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26 (AP) — Britain's importance to the United States in the cold war will play a vital part in shaping American policy in the coming negotiations on Britain's economic crisis.

Administration officials declared today that the United States will have to take full account of both political and military factors in working out what they said will be a sympathetic approach to British appeals for help and cooperation.

Exactly what steps the American government will take in the meetings here with British leaders beginning Sept. 6 remains to be determined.

Likely Course Given

It appeared likely that at the minimum the United States would agree to (1) temporary discrimination against American goods as a means of saving British dollars, (2) measures designed to increase British sales in this country and (3) cooperation with the British in promoting development of colonial areas through President Truman's so-called "point four" program.

British diplomats here became concerned over the development of American policy for the talks last week. The administration announced then that Secretary of the Treasury Snyder rather than Secretary of State Acheson would be the chief negotiator for the United States.

Since Foreign Minister Bevin as well as Sir Stafford Cripps, Britain's economic boss, is coming here the British had assumed that Acheson and Bevin would be the dominant figures for the two sides.

Whole Situation Considered

British concern arose out of the fear that Snyder would want to discuss the British crisis solely in economic terms. Since Britain is in a bad way economically British officials concluded that the American attitude might be on the whole less sympathetic under Snyder's guidance than under Acheson's.

Administration officials said today, however, that the complete American position is being worked out in conferences among Snyder, Acheson, and other administration leaders and advisors. They said it will give adequate consideration to political and military factors as well as to economic facts.

In general this means recognition of Britain's strategic position, its close ties militarily with the United States and western Europe and its role as a political ally with the United States and other nations in the cold war.

Export Costs High

Administration leaders thus are willing to take all measures which they feel to be practically possible in a new effort to help get Britain back on its economic feet and keep it there.

Their difficulty at the moment is reported to be that they have not yet been able to figure out exactly what steps this country can take. That is, steps beyond the aid already being supplied through the Marshall plan that would offer any real hope of solving Britain's dollar shortage problem in the reasonably near future.

They are caught too by their privately expressed conviction that some of the most important moves which could be made are solely within the power of the British government. These include, in the American view, moves to cut the cost of British exports to the United States so that they can compete more vigorously with American exports and to increase the efficiency of British production methods.

Officials Optimistic

The vanguard of Britain's negotiators arrived yesterday, a group of about 20 persons led by Sir Henry Wilson Smith, second secretary of the treasury. Preliminary discussions begin tomorrow.

The British officials expressed optimism as to the outcome of their work. A somewhat similar attitude was expressed by President Truman at his news conference yesterday when he was asked whether he thought any good would come out of the negotiations.

He said that he did think so, that if he had not expected some good would come out of them the talks would not be held.

Mr. Truman was also asked for comment on what a reporter called recriminations between Britain and the United States in advance of the Washington conference. To that the President replied all the recriminations had been in the newspapers and there were none between the two governments.

Television No Threat To Movie Industry, Eric Johnson Says

SPOKANE, Wash., Aug. 26 (U.P.) Eric A. Johnston, motion picture chief, doesn't blanch at the thought of what television will do to the movie industry.

"I think television will stimulate rather than retard the industry," Johnston said in an interview.

The president of the Motion Picture Association of America likes to compare the advent of television with the beginnings of sound movies.

"When engineers first started having success with sound, many movie executives shook their heads and said it would ruin the industry," Johnston said. "But look what happened! And I think we'll be able to make as much out of television as we did out of sound."

Problem Under Study

The film executive told how a committee of engineers and producers are at work now studying the possibilities of television.

"The way it looks now, the plan will be to present a television show to a group of theaters in a certain region," he said. "We'll probably start with sports events and from there lead into live talent shows. I think television will prove an invaluable supplement to the movies."

Meanwhile, Johnston is optimistic over the present economic status of the film business.

"We are emerging from an adjustment period that began two years ago," he said.

He pointed to two problems producers faced. One was high costs brought on in the war by the 90 per cent excess profits tax and the other was the difficulty of converting huge amounts of foreign currency into American dollars.

The $150,000-a-year movie boss said the second problem gradually is being licked.

"We have brought into play all sorts of deals to swap foreign earnings for American currency. In Marseille harbor, for instance, we raised a sunken tanker with French francs and sold it to Standard Oil for American dollars."

Johnston said he would know soon the outcome of his bid to capture the Russian film market.

"We've got a man over there now 'screening' American movies for Soviet officials according to an agreement I made with Russia last year," he said. "They may take all or none."

The dynamic "movie czar" is slated to make a tour of Europe the middle of September with several other members of the Economic Cooperation Administration advisory board.

Rotating Floodlight Is Power Conserver

ROME, Aug. 26 (AP) — A new type of floodlight to illuminate railway yards has been tested in one of Rome's main railway stations. The floodlight rotates at high speed and gives even illumination while saving, its inventor claims, nearly 90 per cent of power used in floodlights now in use.

The new system was invented by Guglielmo Riccomagno, who devoted years of study to improve illumination systems in open spaces.

Lie Detector Tests Face Ranch Worker

ABILENE, Aug. 26 (AP)—Sheriff H. T. Fleming said he would take J. T. Jones, jr., 32, to Austin today for lie detector tests.

Jones, Clyde, Tex., ranch worker, yesterday was charged with rape, assault with a deadly weapon and burglary.

A 17-year-old ranch girl had reported that a man forced her at gun point to accompany him to an abandoned ranch house and raped her.

Abilene Tops Pampa, 10-0

(By The Associated Press)

Second, third and fourth place teams gained Thursday in the West Texas-New Mexico League.

Lamesa moved to within five and a half games from still-ahead Albuquerque and Abilene and Amarillo scored similar gains.

Pampa kept its edge over sixth place Lubbock at a full game, but still is a game and a half out of the upper division.

Lamesa Blanks Lubbock

The scores: Amarillo 10, Albuquerque 4; Borger 7, Clovis 1; Lamesa 11, Lubbock 0; and Abilene 10, Pampa 0.

In games tonight, Albuquerque goes to Borger, Clovis to Amarillo, Lubbock to Abilene and Pampa to Lamesa.

Big Jack Guiterrez posted a four-hitter for his second straight shutout and his 17th win of the season to lead Lamesa to its blank over Lubbock.

D. C. Miller supplied all the runs needed in the first inning when he hit his 44th homer of the season behind a walk issued to Hank Melillo.

Abilene Gets Win

At Abilene, Gil Guerra gave up two singles—both of them to Ernie Velasquez—to score Abilene's second shutout in three nights. A three-run homer by George Sturdivant, first baseman, led the hitting attack.

Frank Shone, ace Albuquerque pitcher, left the mound at Amarillo in the midst of a four-run fifth inning Amarillo rally. Steve Lagomarsino, facing the Dukes for the first time, limited them to five hits.

George Matthews struck out 15 Clovis batters and missed a shutout by one unearned run for Borger's win. John Waselchuk was charged with the loss. Ken Sears got his 41st and 42nd homers of the year.

Barber College Gets Wins In Double Bill

The Avalanche-Journal softball team dropped both ends of a City league doubleheader to the Lubbock Barber College Thursday afternoon at Jumbo Webster field. The scores were 6-1 and 5-0.

Pinkert hurled five-hit ball in the first game for the Barber college nine, while his opponent Varderman hurled steady, but futile ball. Faulty fielding by his teammates proved to be the margin for the winners.

Doug Gailey pitched one-hit ball in the second game and again errors proved costly to the Avalanche-Journal team.

Class B Franchise For Corpus Sought

Greenville Opposes Schepps' Plan To Switch To Class C

DALLAS, Aug. 26 (AP)—George Schepps said he wanted to shift Greenville from the Class B Big State league to the Class C East Texas league and directors of the Greenville Baseball club, Inc., promptly said he couldn't do it.

Schepps yesterday asked the Big State league for a franchise for Corpus Christi, now in the Class D Rio Grande league.

He told club owners of the Class B circuit that if he got the franchise for his Corpus Christi club, he planned to shift Greenville to the East Texas league.

Fight Is Planned

The directors of the Greenville Baseball club, Inc., who lease the Greenville ball park to Schepps, said they intended to stay in the Big State league. If Schepps does not operate a team in this league, they said they would do it themselves.

But Schepps said he had a contract with the Greenville Baseball club, Inc., that states he must operate only a club in organized baseball if such a franchise was available. It doesn't say anything about having to stay in the Big State league, he declared.

"My only thought in moving Greenville to the East Texas league is the natural rivalry that exists between East Texas league cities," he declared.

President Is Backed

He said he owned the Greenville baseball franchise and everything else except the playing premises.

Bill Huff, president of the Wichita Falls club, said he had seen reports in newspapers that President J. Walter Morris was to be replaced—that a story in the Sporting News mentioned two sports writers—John Clift of Denison and Al Echols of Greenville—as being considered for the president's job.

"There has been no discussion by the Big State league of any such thing," Huff said, "and I think we should put at rest any rumors that we are thinking of making a change."

Six of the eight clubs were represented at the meeting and by unanimous vote they endorsed Morris.

The Big State league's shaughnessy play-off will start Sept. 7. This will give one day off between the end of the regular season and the play-off. A day off also will be taken between each series.

Reinstatement Of Players Revealed

BEAUMONT, Aug. 26 (AP)—Minor league baseball boss George Trautman has reinstated two Houma, La., baseball players who were suspended after the Evangeline league scandal of 1947.

Sam Tarleton, sports writer from the Beaumont Enterprise, said Trautman told him last night that he felt Pitcher Bill Thomas and Outfielder Lenny Pecou had served their term, and "deserved to be reinstated."

The players were among five suspended after an investigation of gambling.

Shippers Lose To Cats, 15-1

(By The Associated Press)

If Bobby Bragan, Fort Worth Cat manager, had a couple of more players like Walter Fiala, Feline second baseman, he could probably get along without his other players.

Fiala, last night, in leading the Cats to a 15-1 Texas league victory over the last-place Beaumont Exporters, banged out four hits, stole two bases, scored three runs, handled 16 chances and participated in four double plays. Dick Williams and Preston Ward homered for the league leaders.

Tulsa Edges Houston

Second-place Tulsa edged seventh-place Houston 7-6. The Oilers tallied two runs in the last inning.

Sixth-place San Antonio tallied two runs in the ninth to squeeze out a 9-8 win over third-place Oklahoma City.

Shreveport climbed to within a game of fourth-place Dallas by downing the Eagles 6-1. Lewis Davis' two-run homer in the fourth took the wind out of the Dallas sails.

Morris Cooper Named Bowling Group Head

The Lubbock Men's Bowling association has a new president for the 1949-1950 season. He is Morris Cooper, whose election was announced last night by Dale Vannoy, association secretary.

Other officers elected for the coming year were J. A. Peel, vice president, and A. M. Allison and Ken Kimble, board of directors. Vannoy will be completing his third term of a three-year term as secretary-treasurer.

A proposal was received favorably that the association hold a yearly banquet with all team sponsors as guests. The date will be set later.

Tentative dates for the city tournament were announced for the first two weeks in April.

General league operation policies were discussed at length.

Post Notches 10-4 Win Over Tahokans

Post today was one full game ahead of Levelland in the scramble for fourth place in the Oil Belt Baseball league, after scoring 10-4 verdict over Tahoka at Post Thursday night.

L. D. Jones, giving up just five hits while whiffing 13, was the winning pitcher. Robert Harvick, who went the distance for Tahoka, was charged with the defeat.

Bobby Cash, Jones and Doug Simpson led Post's hitting with two safeties each, while E. L. Short hit safely twice for the losers.

Temple Nine Beats Wichita Falls, 6-1

(By The Associated Press)

The Austin Pioneers climbed a notch—into second place—when both league-leading Wichita Falls and Texarkana dropped Big State league baseball games last night.

Austin downed Gainesville 9-3. Temple trounced Wichita Falls 6-1. Greenville defeated Texarkana 8-4. And Waco smashed Sherman-Denison 14-6.

Alex Burkhart hurled six-hit ball for Austin.

Bill Bohne tossed six-hit ball for Temple. Temple rallied five runs in the eighth.

Greenville counted six times in the fourth inning to whip Texarkana.

Bud Upright had six hits in six trips as Waco walloped Sherman-Denison. Johnny McKeown homered for the Pirates, while Dean Stafford, Bob Flis and Jake Suytar hit round-trippers for the Twins.

Black Hubbers Drub Abilene Club, 9-0

The Lubbock Black Hubbers today were all square with the Abilene Black Sox in their season series, after defeating the Abilenians, 9-0, before 600 fans Thursday night at Sam Rosenthal field.

Earlie Abilene had defeated Lubbock, 2-1.

John (Big Train) Childress blanked the visitors on seven hits, striking out 12 as he registered his 11th victory of the year.

The leading Black Hubber hitters were Truman Ross, A. C. Kinhard and Almo Sedberry.

VETERANS ADVANCE

CHICAGO, Aug. 26 (AP) — Two Veteran gal golfers who have come within a couple of putts of winning the Women's Western Amatur crown in the past without cashing in are semifinalists today. Polly Riley of Fort Worth, the 1948 Curtis Cup star and Western Amateur runner-up, tees off against medalist Peg Kirk of Findlay, Ohio. Mary Agnes Wall of Menominee, Mich., meets Helen Sigel, Philadelphia city champion making her first bid for the Western diadem.

Boston Club Loses Ground As White Sox Score 8-3 Triumph

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Only time and the American league pitchers will determine whether the New York Yankees bought themselves a pennant when they gambled on Johnny Mize.

Judging by Big Jawn's showing last night, however, he is easily worth the reported $40,000 the Yankees paid the New York Giants last Monday for his services.

ALPINE TEAM PLAYS

WICHITA, Kas., Aug. 26 (AP)—The Alpine, Tex., Cowboys play the Tuscaloosa, Ala., Indians tonight at 8 p. m. in a second round game in the national semi-pro baseball tourney.

Mize, at 36, may not be as nimble as of old around first base, but he proved he could still powder the ball when he crashed his first American league homer to help the Yankees defeat the Cleveland Indians, 6-3.

Mize Slams Homer

Mize clouted Bob Feller's first offering over the right field fence to score Tommy Henrich ahead of him in the second inning. That put the Yankees ahead, 2-0. John paid off again in the eighth when he singled off Gene Bearden. A crowd of 63,522 watched the Indians lose their third straight at home.

Ed Lopat registered his 13th triumph for the Yankees, although he needed help from Joe Page in the eighth.

The triumph, which ended a three-game losing streak, increased the Yankees' first place margin over the Boston Red Sox to three games. The Sox were beaten, 8-3, by the White Sox in Chicago. The third place Tribe is now six games off the pace

Cards Move Ahead

The St. Louis Cardinals picked up half a lap on the Brooklyn Dodgers, whipping the Giants, 5-2, to increase their first place margin in the National league to a game and a half. The Dodgers were held to a split in their doubleheader with the cellar-dwelling Chicago Cubs. Johnny Schmitz handcuffed the Brooks with a four-hit 4-0 triumph. The Dodgers came back to win the second game, 3-1.

Cincinnati snapped Boston's five-game winning streak, 4-3, in a 10-inning struggle. Philadelphia and Pittsburgh divided a double header. The Phils won the night portion of the twin bill, 4-2, after the Pirates had won the afternoon half, 5-1.

The Philadelphia Athletics retained their slim hold on fourth place in the American league by downing the St. Louis Browns, 9-5, as Detroit defeated Washington, 2-1.

Billy Pierce set down the Red Sox with five hits as the White Sox jumped on Maurice McDermott and Walter Masterson for eight runs in the first four innings.

Trucks Wins Game

Pete Suder and Joe Astroth drove in three runs apiece to help lefty Alex Kellner register his 16th victory for the A's.

Virgil Trucks won his own ball game when he singled home Detroit's winning run in the ninth. The righthander held the Senators to four hits, and made three himself.

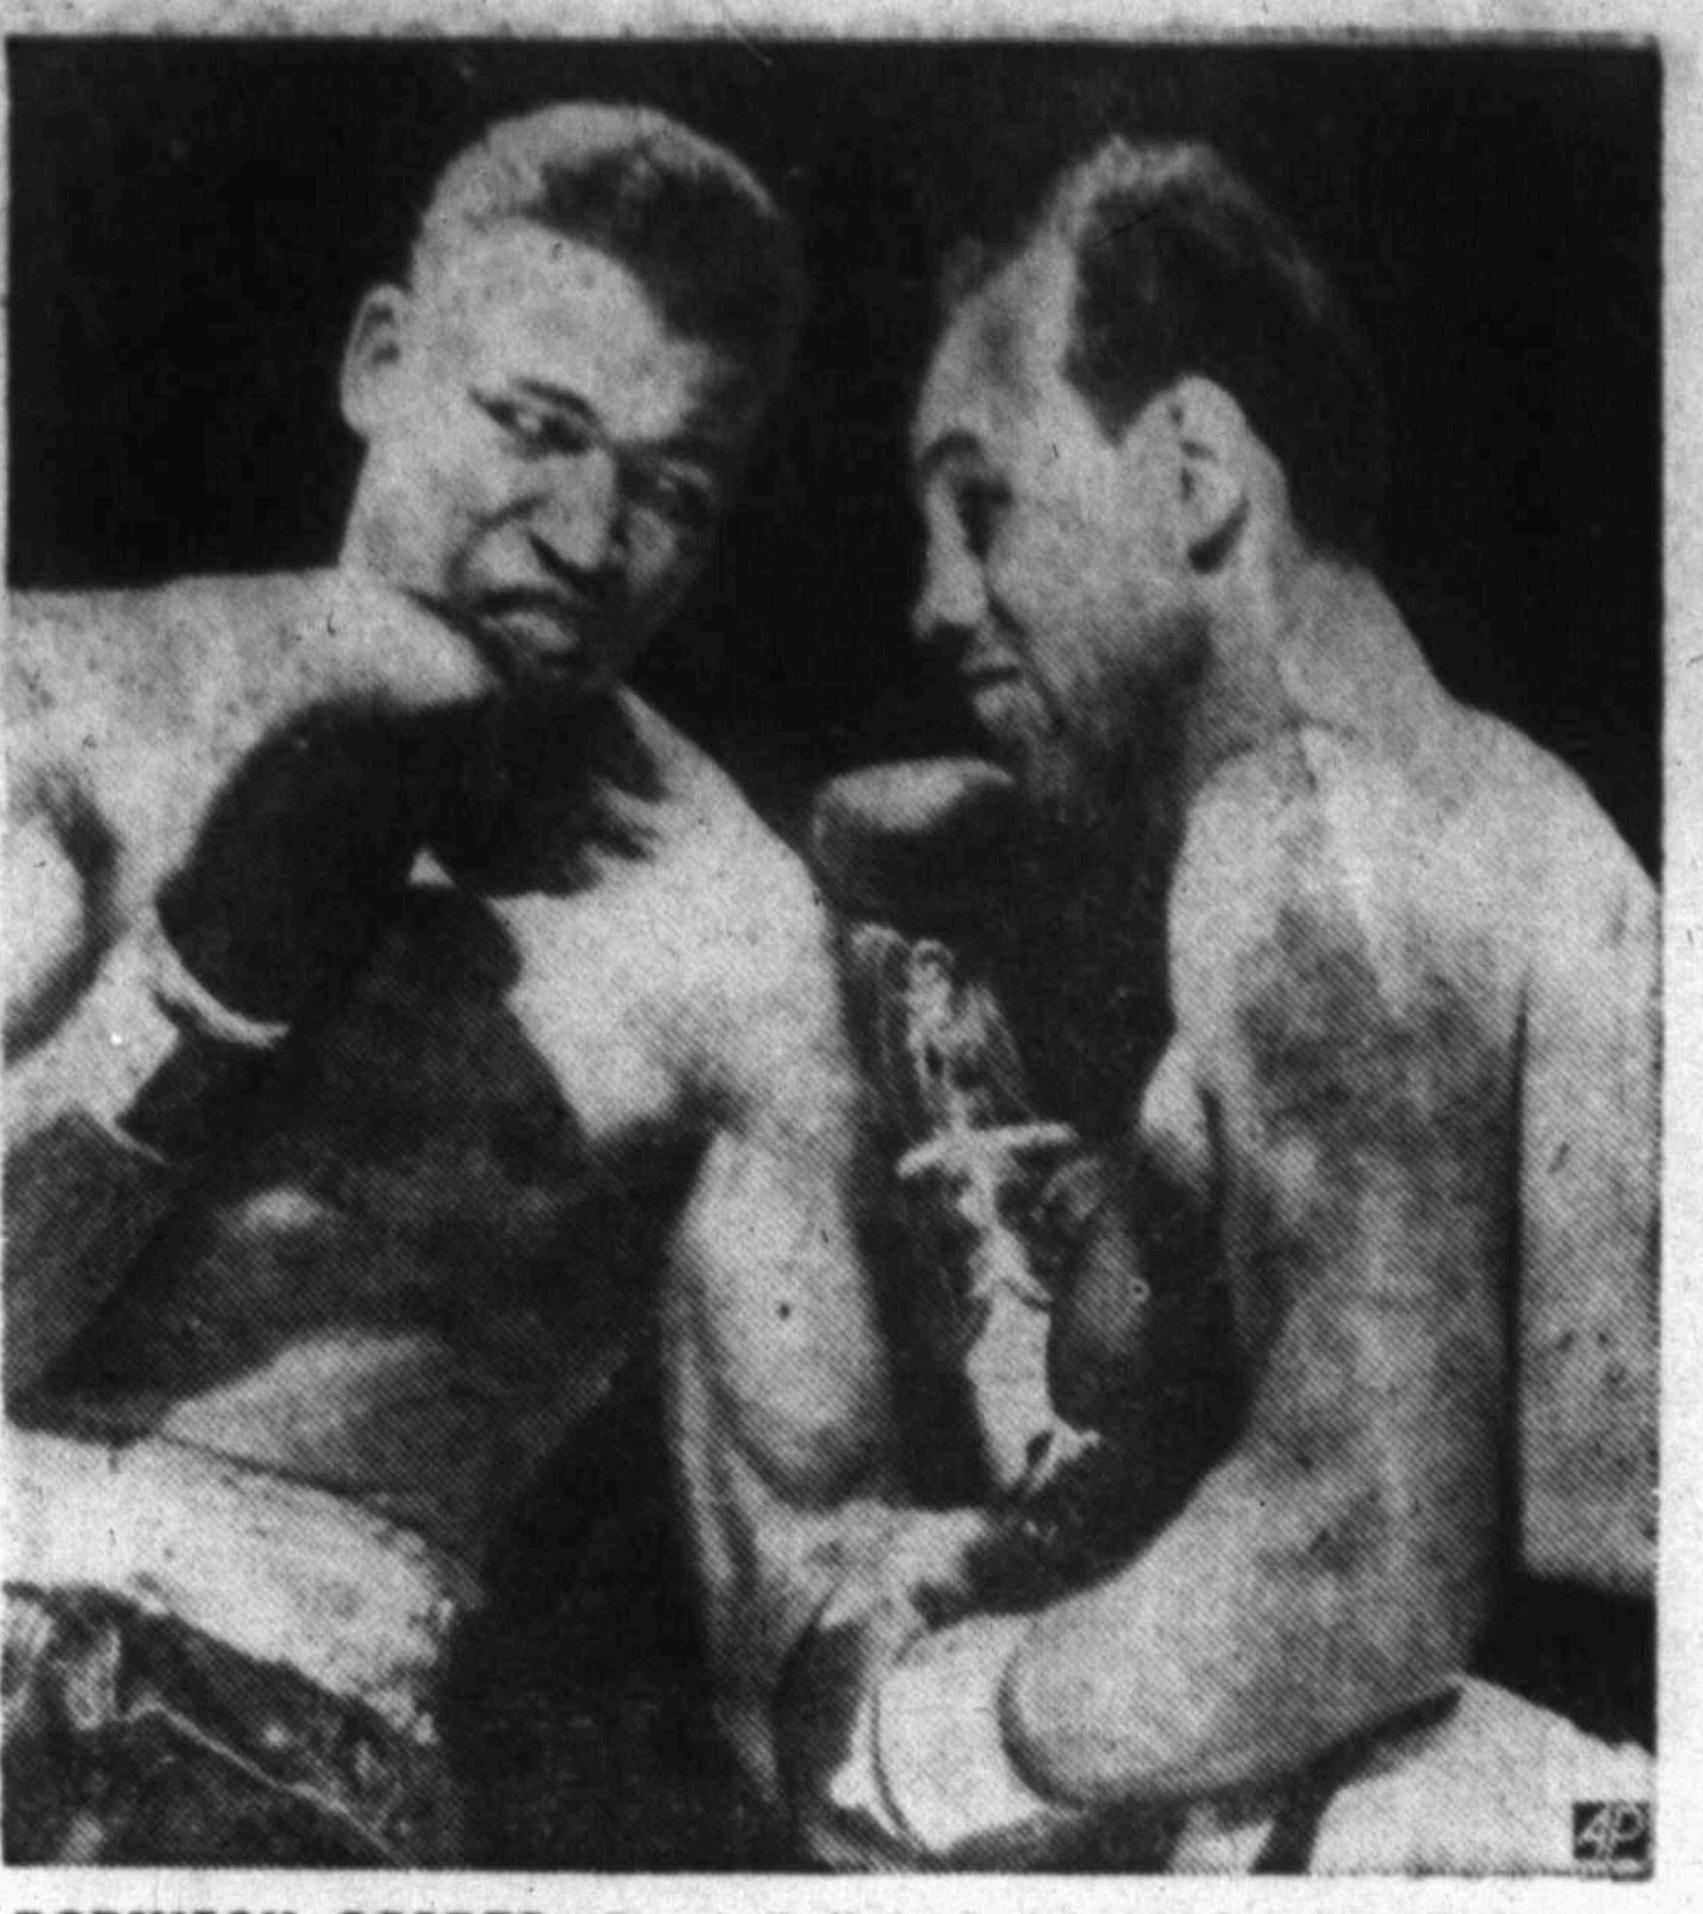

Stan Musial and Enos Slaughter, the Cards' hitting twins, batted in four runs between them to help Red Munger gain his 12th victory.

The Dodgers weathered a ninth inning uprising by the Cubs to gain their split. Trailing by two runs, the Cubs filled the bases with only one out on three straight singles off Jack Banta.

Pinch hitter Bob Scheffing then lined relief pitcher Erv Palica's first pitch right at Jackie Robinson, who threw to Peewee Reese for a game-ending double play.

Southpaw Ken Raffensberger's double and Lloyd Merriman's triple against Nelson Potter in the 10th won for the Reds over the Braves. It was Raffensberger's 14th victory.

After Murry Dickson pitched his seventh triumph for the Pirates in the opener, Robin Roberts gave the Phils an even break by hurling an eight-hitter.

ALL TEAMS HOLD ONE VICTORY

Boys Club Series Finals Set Today

It will be all seriousness at the Lubbock's Boys club this afternoon, when six all-star teams meet in the third and final games of the series in the Pygmy, Pee Wee and Junior Leagues.

Yesterday the three teams that had lost on the first day turned on their foes and evened up the series by winning. The East came from behind to trim the West 7 to 5 in the Junior league; the Whites romped over the Blacks 20 to 11 in the Pee Wee league; and the Blues staged a late rally to nose out the Reds 11 to 10 in the Pygmy league.

Jimmy Stanford was the star in the East's last ditch stand that licked the West club. He tripled to drive in the two runs that brought his team victory.

Rae Hendrix pitched and batted the Whites to victory, allowing the losers in the Pee Wee league game only four hits and slamming a home run and three singles.

Toby McClendon came on in the fifth to stop a Reds rally short of tying the score and hurled shutout ball in the final inning to bring the Blues their victory in the Pygmy league contest.

The West team took a long early lead in the Junior league game and it looked as though the West would close out the series with a second triumph. James Beck opened the West first with a double and scored on Sammy Nolley's triple. Jerry Martin was safe on an error by the third baseman and Nolley scored to put the West out in front 2-0.

After the East had picked up one run, the West came back to score three on a walk to Jerry Gailey, a single by Wray Clark and a hit batsman, Beck, mixed with East errors.

The East scored twice in the third to make it 5-3 and two runs crossed in the fourth, when they tied it up. In that frame, Sidney Butts singled, Ray Young was hit, both runners advancing on errors. And when Dub Sampson's grounder went through the second baseman, both Young and Butts scored.

In the sixth inning, Bobby Welch and Dean Fawcett singled to put men on base and Stanford punched a triple that bounced off the clubhouse and scored the winning runs. Stanford was out at the plate trying to stretch his hit into a homer.

With one out in the seventh, the West threatened. Jimmy Welch was hit in the head and Martin was hit on the left thumb. They advanced when Don Brown grounded out, but Buddy Feris, losing hurler, fanned to end the game.

Monte Yancey, who relieved Billy Leifeste in the second, was the winning hurler. He whiffed 11 during his six innings and didn't allow a run after the second frame. Feris struckout eight.

In the Pygmy league game, Red Becker drove in two runs with a single to pace his team to victory. Gary Morris topped the Reds with two singles in four trips to the plate.

The three all-star games this afternoon will complete the series.

Gridders Impressive In Drill

Brown, Young Spark Attack

KERRVILLE, Aug. 26 (Special)—No rest was in sight today for the Lubbock High school Westerner football squad, which is nearing the end of an intensive grind in its fall training camp at the Schreiner Institute here.

Yesterday the Westerners were turned loose for an hour and 15 minutes, but it was no picnic. It was a rough and rugged scrimmage session and from it, several potential stars stood out.

Long gains and spectacular runs were ripped off by a pair of backfield stalwarts, Malcolm Young and Charlie Williams. Bobby Brown, the quarterback on the T, showed his fine passing arm, connecting repeatedly for touchdown passes.

Gaping holes and tight passing protection were offered by an offensive line, the first one to play, composed of Dick Cobb, center; Sam Modrell and Freddy Gray, guards; Joe "Skinny" Brock and Douglas Ross, tackles; and Garnett Reeves and Billy Wright, ends.

Outstanding backs of the second offensive squad to play were Donnie Rawls, Tommy Fisher and Moe Turner. Turner's passes were accurate and his handoffs were equally as good, but still his squad's gains were held to a minimum.

Deverle Henslee, guard, received a cut under his eye in the early stages of scrimmage, but only one stitch had to be taken.

At the beginning of this evening's practice, temperatures were again in the middle 90's. Later, clouds began to shut out the sun and the temperature dropped five to eight degrees. It aided the workout considerably.

The morning session was identical with Wednesday's. It included calisthenics, blocking, handoffs by the quarterbacks and a dummy scrimmage. Headon tackling completed the session.

Coach Pat Pattison earlier this week turned down an opportunity to scrimmage Kerrville High school Saturday morning. This was done because he felt that the squad was not yet far enough along.

High spirit prevails on the squad, although they have been working at an exhausting pace.

Both Newell and Douglas Wienke missed both practices today because of slightly sprained ankles. They are expected to be back in uniforms tomorrow.

At present the squad is receiving one play and one play pattern every day. These are discussed in 45-minute chalk talks at 2:15 p. m.

Henderson Swamps Marshall, 16 To 5

(By The Associated Press)

Last night, as Henderson defeated Marshall 16-5 in an East Texas league baseball game, the teams rattled off 39 hits.

James Ashcraft hit two triples and a single for Henderson, while Johnny Stone got two doubles and two singles. Henderson iced the game with seven runs.

League-leading Longview made it three in a row over Kilgore by winning 5-3. Lou Morton's two-run homer in the third was the big blow of the Longview attack. Nick Gregory's 23rd homer of the year climaxed a hree-run Driller rally in the fourth.

Max Molberg hurled six-hit ball for Gladewater as the Bears defeated Tyler 8-5. L. D. Meyer hit two doubles and a single in three trips for Gladewater.

Paris defeated Bryan 6-1. Bill Sunblad homored for Paris in the fifth with one man aboard. Stan Goletz homered for Bryan in the seventh.

Between the Lines by Joe Kelly

Hubber chances to get into the first division before the season ends a week from this coming Monday appear less and less following two complete and devastating losses to the Lamesa Loboes. It wasn't so much that the team lost as it was the fact that they couldn't push over a run in either game. It's typical of the Hubber impotence at the plate, although last night they ran into a good pitching performance by Jack Guiterrez. Any time a team gets only four singles, despite seven walks, they generally can expect to lose. But Wednesday night, they still couldn't score.

All the other clubs are much stronger now than they were during the middle part of the season, with the exception of Lubbock, Borger and Clovis. And class shows most when the chips are down, as they are in the stretch drive. It's no secret that the Hubbers have had only one outfielder all year. It's no secret that they haven't had more than one pitcher. And it's no secret that they've needed a third baseman, despite the fine job Charley Willis turned in. You can't win pennants with two pitchers playing in the outfield each night and coming to to take their turn on the mound. And you can't win pennants unless you have some semblance of reliable pitching. Joe Koppe is a good shortstop, but the Hubbers needed two outfielders more than an infielder. They could have gotten by with Willis at third and Nelson Davis at short. But they couldn't get by with their mound corps.

Which doesn't mean that they still don't have a chance. They have, but each loss sends their chances glimmering that much more. Amarillo, in the past three nights, has stretched its lead from a once-tight game and a half to three and a half games. And Pampa still is in front of the Hubbers. Lubbock doesn't play Pampa again, but they do have four games with Abilene, four with Amarillo. But they'll have to win seven of those eight to make the first division. They have a fair chance of splitting with Lamesa here and of taking two from Borger. There's no time left to experiment. The chips are on the line, the stretch is here and the Hubbers are tottering.

It was interesting to read that George Schepps is trying to get Corpus Christi into the Big State League, and Greenville into the East Texas loop. It will be interesting to see whether he is successful. Of course George has made application—standing—for Corpus Christi in the Texas League. He may, sometime during the next ten years, see that dream fulfilled. But in the meantime, Corpus is too big to have just Class D ball. They have shown this year that they want baseball and it's a big enough city to justify Texas League. But if not Class AA, then Class B, since there isn't an A league operating in the state. There are all sorts of angles to the switch. We think that the transfers will go through, barring accidents, but it will be a fight.

Fred Miller, superintendent of schools at Abernathy, is an ardent football fan and he knows his District 3-A pretty well. We enjoyed talking with him yesterday and getting his slant on the situation. So far as he is concerned, Lockney definitely is the team to beat. It would be sound thinking for no other reason than you nearly always stick with the winner. In the long run it pays off. But the Longhorns also have another big team coming up and will be tough to beat. But Fred thinks that Spur, the Spur eleven at the end of the 1948 season, could have beaten them. He thinks that Lockney will have a lot of tough seas to weather this fall.

Sizing up the district, Fred thinks that after Lockney the district teams will have to contend with Tulia, newcomer to the circuit this year. Fred didn't know much about Tulia, but he had read about them last year and respected their material and ability. He places Spur well up in the running and thinks that Floydada will be about the same as last year when they finished in a tie for third with Crosbyton. The Chiefs he doesn't think will be as strong, but sees Abernathy again battling them for the next slot. Paducah, Ralls and Matador don't shape up, in his estimation, as strong teams, but as the type that one night of the year could give any team fits. Fred believes that it's going to be a close, exciting race all the way.

They're looking for fireworks in Dallas Saturday when the annual rules interpretation meeting of the Southwest Football Coaches Association will be held. The pyrotechnics are expected over the alleged "blackballing" of officials in the SWC. Several months ago conference coaches worked out a list of officials on whom all coaches were agreed. The idea was that it would take the pressure off the officials. But in doing so, some older officials were cut off entirely. This is what the officials association objects to and over which there may be a resounding explosion in the meeting. Chances are they'll raise a fuss—and then follo wthe mandate of the coaches.

THE ROUNDUP: Luke Easter, fabulous Pacific Coast League negro player, made a successful debut with Cleveland yesterday. He got a pinch-hit single . . . The Yanks have 36 games to play, Boston and Cleveland each have 34 . . . Houston plays in four states this year — New York, Missouri, Louisiana and Texas . . . Lubbock-haters in Lamesa are so happy today that Bill Warren declares we probably won't get one fan letter, signed or unsigned, from Lamesa! . . . The longest winning streak in the majors was compiled by the New York Giants. They won 26 games from Sept. 7 to Sept. 30, 1916 . . . The all-time one-inning home run record is held by G. Rye of Waco against Beaumont on the night of Aug. 7, 1930. Rye hit three homers in the eighth inning. . . . The nine-inning record is held by J. G. "Nig" Clark of Corsicana against Texarkana on June 15, 1902. He hit eight in that game!

The Texans, who have won the four previous games and not even been scored upon, were rated two touchdown favorites.

Texas will match the passing of T. Ed Bean Will Test Mitchell

Finals in the torrid Lubbock Junior Golf tournament at the Lubbock Country club are scheduled this afternoon, with six players vying for honors in three age groups.

Ross Mitchell takes on Ed Bean in the 16 to 18 year old division, Teddy Black faces Roland Adams in the 13 to 15 year old group and Carlos Hedgcoth meets John D. Adams in the 12 years and under bracket.

Mitchell Fires 68

Mitchell reached the finals by edging Bill Tatum 1 up in an 18 hole match that was tight all the way. Bean skidded into the finals with a 1 up margin over Jack Whitehead. But Mitchell fired a 68 and Tatum a 69, while Whitehead had a 78 and his opponent, a 79.

Hedgcoth defeated Newman Hart 4 and 2 in their 18-hole scramble and Adams bettered Donald Brown 1 up.

The middle age bracket winners had to dispose of two golfers to get into the finals.

Matheny Wins 1 Up

Gene Hollingsworth, a smooth-stroking youth, took the eventual winner, Truman Matheny, 23 holes before Matheny won the match 1 up. In the other quarter-final match, Black beat K. D. Watson 8 and 7.

Whether the match took too much out of Matheny remains a question, but he returned to take a 7 and 6 trimming from Black.

Adams got over Milton Beach in the quarter-finals easily, winning a onesided 9 and 8 decision. Teddy Stone took a 5 and 3 victory from Ray Dell Thurman, but then lost his semi-final match to Adams 9 and 8.

Tonight, following the matches, the tournament players will be guests of Walter E. Granberry, tournament sponsor, at a dinner in the club. Trophies and awards will be made to winners at that time.

Texas U. Hires Six Assistant Coaches

AUSTIN, Aug. 26 (AP)—Addition of six assistant coaches to the University of Texas athletic staff was announced yesterday by Athletic Director Dana X. Bible.

Three ex-Longhorns, Jesse Hawthorne, George McCall and Dick Harris, and John Edwards of Sundown, will join the football coaching staff. Edwards will be with the varsity. The others with the freshman squad.

T. J. (Froggie) Lovvorn, former star at Abilene Christian college and George Pepperdine, returns to assist Coach Clyde Littlefield with track and cross country. He was here in 1945-46 while working on his master's degree and then coached at Laredo junior college for two years.

Marshall Hughes will come from John Tarleton college, where he was head basketball coach, to handle freshman basketball for Texas.

WINNERS NAMED

DALLAS, Aug. 26 (AP) — Heights View Baptist church of Dallas, Colonial Baptist of Dallas, and St. Paul's Methodist of Tyler won opening round games in the state church softball tournament.

Austria looks to dolls in native costumes to spur its export trade with America.

Cup Matches Slated Today

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Aug. 26. (AP)—Tennis hotshots of Australia and the United States tear into each other in the opening singles matches of the Davis Cup challenge round here today and the issue may be all but decided by the time the sun goes down.

The first tussle sends Wimbledon Champion Ted Schroeder, the Americans' No. 1 singles entry, against Billy Sidwell.

Sedgman Key Player

Following their match, U. S. Champion Richard (Pancho) Gonzales will take the court against 23-year-old Frank Sedgman, Australia's vastly-improved singles titleholder.

Sedgman is the key man in the Aussie's hopes of recapturing the trophy which they lost to the Americans in 1946.

If Sedgman can turn back the unpredictable Gonzales today there is every reason to believe he might do the same with Schroeder when the singles pairings are reversed for Sunday's windup.

Australia must be considered the top dog in the lone doubles encounter tomorrow, since its representatives dominated the finals of our own national doubles championships only a few days ago.

But if the Americans come out on top in both of the opening singles battles, the Aussies might as well turn their thoughts to next year or concentrate on the U. S. singles championships starting at Forest Hills on Monday.

In the opinion of most observers, if the challengers can't manage to grab one of the first two singles matches, their chances of winning both of the last two—even if they should take the doubles—are slim indeed.

Boys Town Nine To Play In New York

By OSCAR FRALEY
United Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Aug. 26—The "City of Little Men" was about ready today to take the baseball play away from the pennant races.

The kids from Boys Town are on their way to New York where, on Sept. 8 at the Polo grounds, they'll tackle an all-star orphans' team.

Some of these little big leaguers will be getting their first look at a major league park. For most it will be their first trip in an airplane on a chartered flight from Nebraska. Many of them also will be staying overnight in a hotel for the first time.

It is the kind of stuff which has nurtured the elusive dreams of kids who started off with two strikes, and who now have high hopes for the future.

Athletics Are Stressed

It's another of those mental shots in the arm which Boys Town has planned for its citizens whenever possible ever since the late Father Flanagan founded his colony in 1917. There wasn't much to the athletic program at first, for Father Flanagan started his town with $90 which he borrowed and five boys—two from juvenile court and three homeless waifs.

But Father Flanagan was a great believer in athletics for idle hours, gradually the sports program expanded until now the lads at Boys Town hold their own with the best prep schools.

Msgr. Nichols H. Wegner has carried on since Father Flanagan's death last year. And he, too, is for an all-out sports program.

"Keep a boy busy with athletics—baseball, football, basketball or any such sports—or engaged in music or other worthwhile activities, and he'll be just too busy to find time to get into trouble," explained Father Wegner, a former semi-pro pitcher.

So that's the way they work it at Boys Town. In the last six years their football team has won 49 games and had three ties against 11 defeats. This fall it will play at Rochester, New York, Detroit and Pittsburgh.

But at the moment the accent is on baseball as some 50 citizens battle for the 18 airplane place to New York. And "battle" is the right word.

It will be a terrific moment for the winners, all of them once homeless and without hope, when that plane takes off from Omaha for the big city.

Six of the starting nine never have been aloft. These are Emmett Whiting, 16-year-old catcher from Minneapolis; Catcher Don King of Fort Dodge, Ia.; outfielders Dick Porter of Portland, Ore.; Marlyn Myers of Eldora, Ia.; and Leonard Mackiewicz of Delton, Mich., and Pitcher Jim Gunnell, also of Portland.

Third Baseman Louis Pasqualone of Geneva, O., and Jim Brown of Spokane, the first baseman, have been up before. They toured with the Boys Town choir.

But they'll still get a large charge out of the trip.

Maybe not as much as little Andy Hernandez, though. Only 16 and but five feet, two and weighing 108 pounds, the tiny shortstop from Taylor, Tex., is the "Scooter" Rizzuto of Boys Town.

Andy, typically, has never been to New York. But he hopes to play professional baseball there some day. So it will be something for the long road ahead, for Andy and the others, to say they played there once upon a time.

House Taking Short Vacation

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26. (AP)—House members headed homeward today for a 25-day vacation—without the approval of the Senate.

The House members won't return until Sept. 21, except for a handful who will remain here to conduct formal "no business" sessions twice a week. Those are necessary because the Senate would not agree to an outright adjournment.

The holiday was voted amid cheers yesterday in a simple resolution after members got tired of waiting for the Senate to approve a joint measure. That would have permitted House adjournment without informal sessions in the meantime.

The Senate is unable to leave Washington because it has more work than it can handle.

The twice weekly House sessions, every Tuesday and Friday, are necessary because the constitution does not allow one chamber to adjourn without consent of the other for more than three week days at any time. That can be done only by joint resolution.

In the 25 days between now and the end of the House recess, congressional leaders hope the ruffled relations between the two branches will be healed.

The Senate's refusal to permit an outright House recess was unprecedented. It irritated House members who felt they were entitled to a holiday because they had worked daily earlier this year while the Senate marked time.

Speaker Sam Rayburn told newsmen it was the first time in history such a thing had happened. He said the Senate action was contrary to the traditional "comity" between the two chambers.

House leaders said privately they could not have bowed to the Senate's will without appearing to concede that the Senate may dictate House action. They said the House had to adjourn, one way or the other, to save face.

Boy With Arm Caught In Pipe Is Rescued

FARGO, N. D., Aug. 26 (AP)—Three-year-old Neil Olson went round and round last night before Fargo firemen set him free from a fuel oil intake pipe.

The child was playing outside his parents' home when he stuck the arm into the hole, right up to the elbow.

To avoid injuring Neil, the firemen—five of them—picked the boy up and carefully circulated him while the pipe threads unscrewed. Then he was taken to a hospital where, with the aid of plenty of grease, the pipe was removed.

Neal? Unharmed. The firemen? Just sweaty.

Creek Is Dammed In Search For Lost Boy

McGREGOR, Minn., Aug. 26 (AP) A bulldozer roared into action today, damming a creek in the search for three-year-old Larry Coleman.

Minnesota national guard officers said the barrier was being thrown up "as a last resort" in the hunt for the tot, missing since he started to pick up pine cones on his grandparents' farm 30 miles north of here last Saturday.

Lt. Col. William Johnson, commander of the remaining 100 troopers, said the dam would clear of water an area of one and one-half square miles.

If we don't find any trace of Larry in this operation, it seems futile to continue the search," said Johnson.

The quest has been carried out over a wide area around the farm of Clay Coleman, whom Larry was visiting with his parents when he disappeared.

TOUCH AND GO — "Little David" Walker, 14-year-old American preacher and "divine healer," kept a London audience spellbound as he laid his hands on six-year-old Annie Cup, a London deaf-mute. During the final demonstration he entreated her to speak into the microphone. The child made some sounds into the "mike" which the cheering audience interpreted as the word "Mama."

Livestock Men Plan Fight On Rustlers

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Aug. 26 (AP)—The state crime bureau joined today with livestock men in five southeastern Oklahoma counties in a drive to halt an outbreak of cattle rustling.

Rustlers have stolen more than 150 head of cattle in the five counties since Jan. 1, the bureau said.

Mr. Five-By-Five Will Perch Atop Pole 100 Days To Change His Measurements

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Aug. 26 (AP)—A onetime auto racer who measures exactly five-by-five says his excessive weight makes him sleep too much, so he's going to do something about it.

Percy Coplon weighs 357 pounds. He plans to climb atop a 30-foot steel pole September 1 and stay there without food for 100 days.

The 53-year-old heavyweight says it's all in the interest of science.

"Anything can be cured by fasting and drinking pure water," declares Coplon, who is 60 inches tall and 60 inches around the middle. He plans to drink two gallons of water a day.

A small house six-by-six feet has been built atop the pole for Coplon's comfort.

"I don't want the wind to whisk me away up there," the bulky one explains.

Ingrid Bergman May Wed Movie Director

ROME, Aug. 26. (AP)—Roberto Rossellini, Italian director of Ingrid Bergman's latest film, said yesterday he wants to marry the Swedish star when and if she gets a divorce from Dr. Peter Lindstrom—and when and if she says 'yes.'

Miss Bergman, 34, isn't talking for publication, but sources close to her have said she intends to marry Rossellini, 43, when and if.

Rossellini's family said yesterday he was divorced in Hungary, several years ago and that the divorce was declared final in Italy recently.

He had two sons by that marriage to Mardella de Marcheses. One died of peritonitis in Spain. Miss Bergman has a daughter.

50-Cent Boost Ordered Here

BY H. I. KIEFER
Journal Staff Writer

A 50-cent increase in the city tax rate to a record-breaking $1.75 on the $100 of assessed valuations was approved by the city commission Thursday afternoon after the most largely attended public hearing on a proposed budget in Lubbock history.

The ordinance setting the tax rate at the highest figure in the city's history was passed on first reading after the commission approved the budget calling for expenditures totaling $2,800,881 during the fiscal year beginning Oct. 1.

Present for the hearing was a cross-section representation of the city's citizenship which overflowed from the city hall council chamber into adjoining rooms. This was in vivid countrast with the handful—and frequently none at all—who have appeared at similar hearings in the past.

Paving, Sewage Contracts Let

The most striking feature of the proceedings, perhaps, was the fact that everyone apparently agreed the city must have more money for operating expenses and to keep pace with its remarkable growth. The only differences of opinion expressed during discussions in which many participated concerned the most desirable method of providing increased revenues.

The majority of the expressions favored the tax rate route, but many argued for increased water rates and such special levies as garbage collection and sewage connection charges.

In addition to the budget and tax rate matters, which occupied the greater portion of a nine-hour all-day session, the commission also:

1 Advanced proposed extensions of the city limits in several directions which, according to re-estimates, will add 4,000 to 6,000 inhabitants to the city's population.

2. Awarded contracts for $374,785 in pavement and sewage extensions, two going to Panhandle Construction company of Lubbock on bids aggregating $362,966. The awards in each instance went to low bidders.

Survey Is Approved

3. Joined with Lubbock Independent School district in employing O. B. Whitney, Fort Worth, to re-appraise property valuations for tax assessment purposes for both the city and district. Each will pay half of the $11,000 cost. Officials expect the re-appraisal to add many millions of dollars to the valuations of property now on the tax rolls, bringing them into closer conformity with actual values.

4. Took under advisement, the proposed creation of a citizens' traffic commission to seek the so-

Lubbock Test Has Oil Show

Slick - Moorman Oil Company and C. W. Chancellor No. 1 Cloud, Central-North Lubbock County semi-wildcat, had washed the open hole section at 6,100-44 feet, with 500 gallons of mud acid and had then treated with 2,000 gallons of regular acid.

Operators were swabbing to clean out and test at last report.

The section which has been treated had shown a little free oil and some oil and gas cut drilling mud on a drillstem test.

After casing had been cemented at 6,100 feet the zone between that point and the total depth at 6,144 feet, was swabbed dry, on a natural test.

Expect Oil Show

Interested observers expected the acid to cause the well to show oil in commercial quantities.

It is three-quarters of a mile southwest of the discovery well for production from the lower permian made more than a year ago by Seaboard Oil Company of Delaware and Stanolind Oil & Gas Company, No. 1 Cravens, to open the Cravens field.

The No. 1 Cloud is 1,980 feet from south and 660 feet from east lines of section 22, block D, L & SV survey. That puts it 10 miles north and two miles west of the city of Lubbock.

Slight Signs Noted

Standard Oil Company of Texas No. 2-5 Brown, deep wildcat on the north side of the North Snyder-Canyon field, in North-Central Scurry County, had reached 7,995 feet in the upper Ellenburger, and had shown only slight signs of oil and gas on two drillstem test since entering that formation at 7,934 feet.

On that marker the venture had a datum of minus 5,494 feet. The latest test was at 7,933-84 feet. The tool was open two and one half hours.

There was a blow of air at the surface for a part of the period. Recovery was 35 feet of slightly oil and gas cut drilling mud. No formation water appeared.

A previous test at 7,930-59 feet, with the tool open two hours, had a blow of air for a past of the test. Recovery was 120 feet of oil and gas cut mud, and no water.

AVERAGE MAN STILL HAS FAITH

Leaders In Britain To Solve Problems

(EDITOR'S NOTE: L. R. Blanchard is general executive editor of the 21 metropolitan papers—mostly in the East—in the Gannett chain. As one of the nation's most widely known and respected editors, Mr. Blanchard has often traveled the world for his papers, informing himself, first-hand, on what is going on. Recently he went to England to look at Socialism and the series of articles he wrote while on the trip are highly revealing. Because some politicians urge that the U. S. follow England in experimenting with Socialism, The Journal asked—and received—permission of the Gannett papers and Mr. Blanchard to present the series in Texas. We consider Mr. Blanchard's articles to be most significant, especially since Britain, largely supported by American tax dollars, will seek from us next month more aid to be used in carrying on socialistic aims.)

MANCHESTER — Strangely, the severest critics of Britain's Labor government are among the public officers, national and local.

The comment of a high municipal officer in a large industrial city emphasizes the patriotism of the Englishman, as well as his clear-sighted view of affairs.

He was led into his remarks by a question as to how Britain and her chief critics ever could hope to pay off the vast debts they are incurring.

Here are his illuminating words:

"My country has done enough for me, so I am going to stay here and see it through, no matter what comes. I don't blame the young man who emigrates to seek better conditions; neither can I admire him.

"The Englishman still is good enough and has spirit enough to solve all the problems he faces.

Average Man Worries Little

"Our average citizen doesn't worry about city or national debt. He doesn't know about it or understand it. His attitude is, leave it to the people who are hired to take care of such matters. It will all work out.

"That man is wrong in taking such aview of a vital matter, but I must say he expresses in large part the country's assurance that things will come out all right.

"All classes are pervaded by the idea that matters will be righted. We don't have to talk about it. We just have a faith, just as we had a supreme faith when we stood alone against Germany. We didn't know how we would win, but we knew we would win.

"Now there can be a great misconception of local debts. Instead of looking at figures, one might better take the view that the city is a great coropration. Then he sees that money paid out for municipally-operated plants is not a debt, but represents the shares and debentures of a private corporation.

"Money paid out for housing is listed as a debt, but actually it stands for assets. Thus our housing projects, built largely on money borrowed from the national government, are assets rather than the sign of debt. Those houses could be sold today at a profit.

"WE have just increased our local taxation by a few cents and the new money will be used for schools. We figure that is an investment in our future citizens. Incidentally the new space was needed because the national government now demands that children be kept in school to age 15, instead of 14 as in the past.

"But looking at matters in the rosiest light we are spending a great deal of money and are denying ourselves many comforts. The real fact is that too many people are not pulling their weight. With so much to be done, I feel that we have rushed into some social betterments too quickly. I don't see how we as a nation can feel happy over the five day week.

"The government boasts that we have full employment. We have, if we take that to mean men and women, married and single, are on some sort of job. Just to say, however, that we have full employ-

WANTS SUBSCRIPTIONS—Hollis Mason of Brownfield and Joe, his 4-year-old seeing-eye dog, may come to your house seeking magazine subscriptions. But Hollis says he won't get mad if you say "No!" "I'm used to it," he adds. (Staff Photo).

Blind Brownfield Youth And His Dog Joe Are In Business

Many Lubbock homes are soon to be visited by Hollis Mason and his best pal, Joe.

Only thing unusual about the visit is that you may notice that Hollis is blind and that Joe is no ordinary dog.

Hollis won't tell you he is blind or that Joe is one of the first mixed breed seeing-eye dogs in this area — he'll leave that for you to notice.

But he will ask if you would like to subscribe to a magazine. Some will answer "No!" and close the door. Some might even slam the door.

Such actions will not make Hollis or Joe mad. They'll plod along until they find 10 or 12 new subscribers and then their day will be over and they will head back to Brownfield to tell Mrs. Mason of their success or lack of success. Usually, Hollis averages 12 subscribers daily.

Hollis has had Joe a year and 10 months. He bought him from the Seeing-Eye Institute at Morristown, N. J., for $150. Joe, according to Hollis, is one of the best

Woman, 64, "Shoots In" Oil Well With Dynamite Sticks As Spectators Scatter

TITUSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 26 (AP)—Mrs. E. Ross Carver, whose grandfather brought in the nation's first oil well, knows now how he felt.

The prim, graying lady of 64 came here from Nashua, N. H., yesterday to officiate tomorrow at the 90th birthday celebration of the historic well drilled near Titusville by Col. Edwin L. Drake.

Mrs. Carver was watching preparations for "shooting in" a well on the property of Mrs. Helen Gordon Wilson when a photographer asked her to pose near the derrick.

The professional "shooter," Obert Fitch, handed her a "squib"—two sticks of dynamite in a shell used to set off the 90 quarts of nitro-glycerine at the bottom of the well.

Spectators Scatter

"Why don't you shoot her off yourself," asked Fitch.

"All right," said Mrs. Carver. "I'll do it."

As the spectators scattered, Mrs. Carver dropped the "squib" into the well and dashed for cover. The well roared into life, spewing water, sand, rocks and oil 300 feet into the air.

"I'm really thrilled," said Mrs. Carver, her face and clothes spattered with oil, "do you know, this is the first time I've ever seen a well brought in."

Oilmen said the well should be be good for about 10 barrels a day, average for the region.

U. S. Storm Warning System Is Ready For Annual Hurricanes

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26—Uncle Sam is ready for the 1949 hurricane season with the most efficient storm warning setup ever devised.

Navy, Air Force, Civil Aeronautics Administration and the U. S. Weather Bureau have pooled their equipment and talents. They are aiming at preventing a single loss of life this year from tropical storms, and at keeping property damage at a minimum.

An area of sea off the southeastern coast of the U. S. and over the Gulf of Mexico, roughly 3000 by 1500 miles, is now under 24-hour-a-day watch. The most modern radar, seismographic and other weather instruments, plus hundreds of airplanes, are being used in this work.

The official hurricane season is June 1 through Nov. 30. The center of the season, however, during which the most violent storms usually occur, is between Aug. 20 and Sept. 20.

News From Ships

First news of a developing tropical storm usually comes from such sources as ships at sea, commercial airliners, CAA and Weather Bureau stations, long range radar or the Navy's microseismic network which picks up earth and sea tremors caused by air disturbances.

These reports locate the storm approximately. Then Navy and Air Force hurricane patrols fly into the teeth of the gale in an effort to locate the "eye." Only when the eye is found can the correct path, speed and direction of the disturbance be plotted.

This method gives about a 24-hour advance notice of where a hurricane will hit the shore. It is the warning which is so vital to saving lives and property.

Main base of the Navy's fliers doing this work is Miami. There are also hurricane patrols out of Pensacola, Fla., Corpus Christi, Tex., and other bases. Air Force planes also use Miami as well as Bermuda and Puerto Rico.

All information on hurricanes is coordinated in Miami. In case a severe storm should wreck Miami's communication, Washington has an emergency sub-center which would act as the coordinating point. It is the responsibility of the Weather Bureau to give out the official warnings to residents in an area which is threatened.

Used Six Years

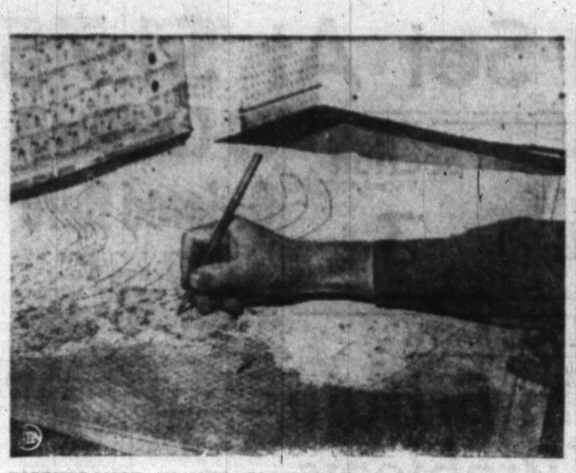

This is the sixth year airplanes have been used for this work. Each year the technique has been improved, resulting in the present stage of better preparedness.

Two new flight procedures were developed last year, and will be used this season. Navy fliers discovered that most hurricanes have a narrow back door, through which pilots can fly into the eye and encounter practically no disturbance.

Air Force fliers also developed a system of flying a complete square around the outside of a storm, and, by plotting diagonal lines through their squared route on a map, the eye of the storm is fixed where the lines intersect.

Catgut used for violin strings and surgical sutures is not from cats, but from sheep, according to the Encyclopedia Britanniea.

Police Seek Further Clues In Disappearance Of Rich Widow

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26. (AP)—Police today trailed flimsy clues, hoping to uncover some trace of the missing Mimi Boomhower, wealthy big-game hunting widow.

They were investigating the report of a Beverly Hills furrier, William Marco, that Mrs. Boomhower had indicated she had secretly remarried shortly before her disappearance last week.

"I can't give you an order right now because I'll have to talk it over with my present husband," Mrs. Boomhower was quoted as saying.

Officers said that the furrier recalled Mrs. Boomhower had quickly recovered and said—"I'll talk it over with my family and will come back."

Purse Is Found

A purse containing Mrs. Boomhower's identification cards and belongings was turned over to police yesterday, but the circumstances were baffling. Found at a Beverly Hills market, the purse bore a printed message: "Police dept.—we found this at beach Thursday night."

Detectives, with no further clues coming in, were inclined to believe that it might be a hoax, and the items possibly stolen from the widow earlier.

A study of Mrs. Boomhower's checking accounts showed no encashments since she disappeared. A gardener reported visits from a well-dressed whitehaired man just before then.

The buxom 48-year-old widow had lived alone in a $50,000 Bel Air mansion since the death of her husband, Novice E. Boomhower, floor covering inventor and big game hunter. She accompanied him on his safaris.

Cutter With Doctor On Mercy Mission

HALIFAX, N. S., Aug. 26. (AP) The United States Coast Guard cutter Coos Bay cleared Halifax harbor early today, heading into the choppy Atlantic on a mercy dash to the Cunard liner Parthia.

Aboard the cutter were Dr. Nathaniel Greenfield of New York and equipment for the treatment of 21-year-old Sidney Moody, jr., of Plainfield, N. J., suffering from infantile paralysis aboard the liner.

The cutter is expected to reach the Parthia this morning.

Dr. Greenfield and a portable respirator and a converter were flown to nearby Dartmouth by a Coast Guard plane after the Parthai sent out a plea for assistance.

YOUNG NIMROD GETS BREAK

WILMINGTON, O. (U.P.)—Youngsters here will not have to go far for good fishing. Only children will be permitted to fish in the pond now under construction at the memorial park.

San Antonio Transit Workers End Strike

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 26. (AP)—The busses were running in San Antonio today.

End of the strike of drivers and mechanics came yesterday in the middle of its fourth week. The first city buses rolled at 5 p. m.

The announcement of a union-management agreement came shortly after the San Antonio Transit company announced plans to resume operations with non-union help if necessary.

Laurence Wingerter, vice president and general manager of the company, announced the settlement. He said union employes had agreed to return to work under a contract providing a wage increase of two cents an hour.

The 600 drivers and 200 mechanics had asked for a 19-cent an hour wake hike. They had been receiving $1.26 an hour.

Actress Hospitalized After Losing Baby

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26. (AP)—Loretta Young has lost the baby she and her husband, radio advertising executive Thomas A. Lewis, were expecting in February.

The actress underwent minor surgery yesterday after the misfortune. Doctor at Queen of Angels hospital said she will be confined for several days.

The Lewises have three children.

Miss Young has been in the hospital since fainting on a movie set two weeks ago. Clark Gable, her co-star in the picture, carried her to her dressing room.

MORE SPENDING CUTS TO COME

Defense Experts Are Mapping Methods Of Further Economy

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—Howls of pain came from congressmen this week over the economy stroke of the armed forces, but more cuts of some kind are still to come.

Secretary of Defense Louis Johnson invited a battalion of congressmen to his office Wednesday and there broke to them news some of them did not like to hear even though they've been preaching economy themselves.

He told them the armed forces were going to chop 135,000 civilian employes off the payroll and shut down about 50 military installations at home and abroad to save about $500,000,000 a year.

Cut Struck Home

The reason the congressmen suffered anguish over the news was this: They've preached economy in the abstract but this economy struck home, at their own states, where layoffs and shutdowns meant lost income.

At his news conference late yesterday President Truman said he had ordered Johnson to make the cuts to economize on government spending.

That happened some time ago, for the secretaries of the Army, Navy and Air Force had to work out a way to make the cuts. But —more of the same, in some way, now lies ahead for the armed forces.

Johnson figures that the layoff of the 135,000 civilian employes and shutting down 50 installations will save the government about $500,000,000 a year.

Yet, on several occasions in recent months he has said he wants to cut down the armed forces spending by $1,000,000,000 to $1,500,000,000.

Economy Studied

Therefore, he has another $1,000,000,000 or so in cuts to make before his wishes are fulfilled. Efforts to do that are now under way.

Several weeks ago Congress passed a bill to unify the armed forces, strengthening Johnson's hand over all three services: Army, Navy, and Air Force.

Almost at once he set up a National Defense Management committee, headed by Lt. Gen. Joseph T. McNarney. On the committee are top officials of the three services.

The committee's job: To find way of cutting down the armed forces' expenses. They're working on that now and will make their suggestions later. Whether that will involve cuts in people or weapons is not known now.

For that reason, the cut announced by Johnson on Wednesday was only a starter.

At this moment the armed forces have a total of about 1,616,0000 people in uniform and, in addition, about 900,00 civilian employes. The cut of 135,000 will reduce the civilian total to 765,000.

The high point in number of civilians employed by the armed forces — 2,634,000 — was reached during the war.

After the war the number was steadily reduced until it reached a post-war low point of 828,000 in December, 1947, just before the trouble with Russia began and this country started to rearm.

So the new cut of 135,000 civilians—reducing the total to 765,000—will be the new low point for civilians employed by the armed forces since the war.

Chinese Reds Crack Down On Code Cables

HONG KONG, Aug. 26 (U.P.) — Business firms and diplomatic officials in China who use coded cables will have no more secrets from the Chinese Communists.

A new regulation requires everyone in Communist-held areas wishing to send a coded cable to supply a decoded copy of the message to local authorities. Private codes are out, senders being limited to only five internationally recognized codes.

The regulations made no mention of incoming coded messages.

Actor's Daughter Is Given $500 Monthly

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26. (AP)—Carol Ann Beery, 18-year-old adopted daughter of the late Wallace Beery, will have $500 a month pocket money.

Superior court yesterday decreed that the girl—who will receive a third of the actor's $2,000,000 estate when she becomes 21—be allowed to withdraw a total of $1200 a month from her guardianship fund. The actor's former wife, Mrs. Mary Areta Foyt, will administer use of $700.

But Judge Newcomb Condee directed the rest be paid directly to Carol Ann for her own personal use, saying:

"She will have to handle a great deal of money in the years to come and it's time she began to learn."

Forest Fires Still Burning

(By The Associated Press)

Fires still menaced brush and timberland areas in western United States today, but few serious developments were reported.

A new brush fire broke out in California just south of the Stanislaus national forest. More than 7,100 acres already have been burned over in Stanislaus and two lives have been lost.

A huge brush fire in San Diego and Riverside counties in California burned out of control along a four-mile front.

High temperatures and changing winds that shifted seven times in one hour harassed the fire fighters. More than 12,000 acres of ranch and grazing lands have been burned over.

Fires Out Of Control

Two fires in Idaho's Payette national forest were out of control. The two—one in Hell's canyon and the other on the south fork of the Salmon river—have charred 20,000 acres of timber. Two men have died this week in the Payette forest.

All fires in Yellowstone park were reported checked and nearing the control stage.

Fire in the Black Hills of South Dakota also has subsided. There still was some danger, however, and rangers said the future depends solely on weather conditions.

Two small fires—both under ten acres—burned in western Oregon. Cold weather lessened the danger in Oregon.

U. S. Embassy Staff At Nanking Reduced

NANKING, Aug. 26 (AP) — The State department has ordered a 50 per cent reduction in American personnel in the embassy here.

A spokesman said about half of the 21 staff members may leave soon. The main office of the embassy has been transferred to Canton. Ambassador J. Leighton Stuart has gone to Washington.

Those leaving Nanking will join a large exodus of Americans from Red China when the repatriation ship General Gordon docks at Shanghai in a few days.

Solid Gold Dice Are Unlucky For Miner

PERTH, Australia, Aug. 26 (U.P.) —Police arrested an ex-miner for possession of dice that were really loaded.

They were solid gold "bones," neatly molded and highly polished, with drillings for dots.

One was loaded more than the others; it was worth $90. The others were worth $30. The official charge was illegal possession of gold.

Suicide Is Verdict In Death Of Woman

PASADENA, Aug. 26 (AP) — A verdict of suicide was returned in the jail cell hanging of Mrs. Helen Shackels, 39, of Pasadena.

Patrolman Everett Stutts found the woman early yesterday. She had torn a blanket into strips to improvise a rope.

Police Chief E. Miller said Mrs. Shackels had been arrested at the request of her husband, Norman Shackels.

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Aug. 26 (AP)—Film producer-director Otto L. Preminger was divorced by Josa Magda Preminger yesterday on grounds of cruelty.

BY ROBERT S. ALLEN: COMPROMISE ANTICIPATED BY BOTH SIDES IN STEEL DISPUTE

Vaughan Something Of A Hero With V.A. Medics

(ED. NOTE: While Drew Pearson is on vacation, the Washington Merry-Go-Round is being written by his old partner, Robert S. Allen).

WASHINGTON. — The President's steel-wage fact-finding board has privately decided it will not be able to make its report by the August 30 deadline.

Present plan of the three-man body is to ask for a time extension, possibly as much as two weeks.

Reason for this is the unexpected length of the board's public hearings. It had been anticipated this testimony could be concluded in a few weeks. Instead, it consumed a lot more time. As a result, the board has been unable to work on its report to the President.

No difficulty is anticipated in obtaining a time extension.

The White House is certain to grant it. Similarly, Phillip Murray is believed willing to defer strike action for this purpose.

Privately, both sides anticipate the board will recommend a compromise.

The steelworkers are demanding a "package" increase of 30 cents an hour, including a wage boost, pension and health benefits. Best inside guess is that the board will hold with the workers on their claims for a raise, but will sharply trim the amount.

Junketeers

House leaders are having a hard time keeping their rank-and-file in check on expense-free junkets aboard.

Usually at this time of the year the boys are scattered far and wide on "official" tours of one kind or another. But the protracted session has stymied this gnawing gravy-train craving. Result, they are very restive.

Interstate commerce Chairman Robert Crosser, D., Ohio, is under strong pressure from committee members to agree to two junkets. One is to Saudi-Arabia, to "study" U. S. oil interests there. Reported conceiver of this plan is the powerful Arabian-American Oil company, which has huge investments in the Middle East. Aramco would house and entertain the junketing congressmen.

The other scheme is a tour of Europe to examine airline setups and operations. Practically all are monopolistic "chosen instrument" systems. Pan American airways, which has long agitated for such a policy for the U. S. Overseas airlines, is credited with originating this junket.

Crosser is holding out firmly against both trips. In this stand he has the backing of both Speaker Sam Rayburn and Republican Floor Leader Joe Martin. Rayburn is very blunt about junkets.

To a group of trip-hungry freshmen he rapped, "your people sent you here to legislate and not to gallivant around the world. You are being paid to work for your consituents. If you want to stay in Congress, you had better stick to your knitting here. It will pay off a lot more in the long run than junketeering at the taxpayers' expense."

REP. ANDREW JACOBS, D., Ind., is as plain-talking in his correspondence as he is in his speeches.

The former labor lawyer received a letter from an undertaker in his district reading, "I guess I owe you an apology. I thought you were one of those labor-lawyer racketeers. But I find I was wrong about you and want to say so."

Jacobs replied as follows, "I was wrong about you, too. I thought you only consorted with the dead."

STRONG DEFENDER

There is another place in Washington, besides the White House, where Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan has strong defenders.

It is the medical department of the Veterans administration.

To chiefs of this agency the embattled White House military aide is something of a hero. He gave them a helping hand at a time when they were in desperate straits. They have never forgotten him for it. This is the story they tell:

In 1946, when Gen. Omar Bradley, as V. A. administrator was frantically trying to reorganize the morbid medical service, his most urgent need was doctors and dentists. V. A. hospitals were jammed with ailing and disabled veterans. Maj. Gen Paul Hawley, chief medical director, reported he needed 2,000 doctors immediately.

Strenuous efforts to obtain civilian medics proved unavailing. Bradley and Hawley were at their wits' ends. Someone suggested they see Vaughan about the matter.

His response was immediate.

"I think I've got the answer to your problem," he said, "if we can get the Army and Navy to cooperate, and I see no reason why they shouldn't. The Army has hundreds of surplus doctors, which it trained and who are clamoring to get out. But it's short of dentists. The Navy has a lot of surplus dentists, which it trained. If we can do some swapping, it will be to everybody's benefit all around. The government has a claim on these young doctors and they should be used in this emergency. I'll see what I can do about the matter."

Vaughan made good his word.

Going directly to then-Secretary of War Robert Patterson and Navy Secretary James Forrestal, Vaughan arranged a three-way swap. The Navy transferred 700 dentists to the Army and 500 doctors to V. A. Similarly, the Army detailed 1,000 doctors to V. A. for two years' service. Thus, the Army got the dentists it sorely needed, V. A. the doctors it desperately needed, and the government received some return for the training it had given the medics.

General Hawley credits his success as V. A. medical director as due in a large measure to Vaughan's effective aid in this crisis.

Next thing you know, baby sitters will be saying they are on a "hush hush" job.

The PLAINSMAN Says:

That Girl on Broadway says the average person can turn a deaf ear to flattery—so long as it isn't flattery aimed at him!

Maybe so many people borrow trouble because they don't have to put up any collateral.

THERE'S a fight brewing on the radio horizon, the termination of which may have profound effect on future conduct of the yah-yah business. The fight features that will-o-the-wisp so dear to human hearts, "something for nothing," and the aging Comedian-Violinist Jack Benny.

Although there are stuffed-shirt protestations to the contrary, NBC, which lost Benny last year, is out to nullify his appeal on CBS, which bought Benny from NBC. But instead of busting into the Benny time with another musical comedy show, NBC will stick in what is expected to be "the give-away show to end all give-away shows." This is assuming that the radio industry wins its current fight with the FCC which is trying to ban most give-away shows.

As a matter of fact, NBC's new give-away has been getting a trial run this Summer. It should be all oiled up and ready to go by the time Benny and others get back on the networks at the end of the torrid season during which even radio people admit few people listen.

Whether or not all the rumors about NBC's give-away battle against Benny are true, nobody knows. But if even a few of them are, the fight will be a lulu.

It is being bandied about, for instance, that NBC will go as far as offering $100,000 in prizes on a single program, if necessary, to lure listeners away from such old Benny chestnuts as his broken down automobile, his one violin selection and his toupe. Maybe NBC won't go that high, after all. But thus far, during its Summer trial run, the new give-away show has been very, very generous, indeed.

This new give-away adds a feature which probably will impress a number of people. Its phone calls to prospective question-answerers are being made by movie luminaries, some of whom are further hooked into the program by being hosts or hostesses in Hollywood to program winners of trips to the movie capital.

WHAT IS important about the NBC-CBS duel is not the amount of prizes being offered to people who can answer such brain-teasing questions as "Where was the Gettysburg address delivered," or the number of movie people involved. Instead, the important angle is whether a widely ballyhooed radio figure can hold an audience against competition in which a lot of stuff is being given away.

If Benny fails to hold his audience, as is not beyond imagination, the radio network people will have indisputable evidence that their stars aren't quite as starry as they've always fondly believed—which means the price of radio stars will go down and more stress will be laid in the future upon program material, less on "big names."

Radio people always have been very fond of describing their listening audiences in astronomical figures, pulled out of thin air and announced as being "in the millions." In the same program the other day, two different ballyhooers on ABC described Herbert Hoover's 75th birthday speech as being heard "by the entire nation," and "by every American."

It is entirely possible that the NBC-CBS setto over Benny will shed some actual light on radio appeal, which programs have it and why, as well as on whether people listen to a program largely because of its star, or because in their opinion there's nothing more interesting to do at the time.

EVERY once-in-a-while — usually in Western states—the suggestion is made that gambling be legalized.

Reasons advanced on behalf of legalization are usually the same, i. e.: gambling is more or less open anyhow; and legalization of gambling would bring in a lot of needed state, federal and local tax revenue.

Both these arguments are convincing on the face of them. There is a lot of gambling going on in many places, all the time. Legalization would bring in a lot of tax revenue.

But no argument we've seen for legalization of gambling has been backed up by actual facts and figures—as well as human experiences—in the State of Nevada. Nevada is the only State in the Union to legalize wide open gambling in many years.

Someone writing for the newspaper syndicates, for one of the nationally circulated magazines, or for one of the news services should go to Nevada and find out what has happened there—then tell the world the facts.

Our hunch is that despite the fact that legalized gambling has brought a lot of money into Nevada cash registers and tax-collecting agencies, that the monetary gain has been more than offset by the human misery resulting from legalization.

Since Nevada is bordered by several of the more liberal states, it's a pretty good guess that they would have followed suit as to legalized gambling if legalization had proved sound in Nevada.

The fact that Arizona, California, Wyoming, Colorado and New Mexico haven't followed Nevada is testimony against legalized gambling, even though illegal gaming of one kind or another is rampant — and very open — in parts of those states.

We would be much less surprised to see legalized gambling go out of Nevada than we would to see it instituted in any nearby state—even including Arizona, Wyoming, Colorado, or New Mexico—where authorities often wink at the law and let everything from slot machines to chuck-a-luck run openly, on Main streets.

INCIDENTALLY, gambling in Lubbock is not the problem it used to be. Perhaps it's because the town is larger and because, apparently, the amount of gambling here hasn't kept pace with population growth. Perhaps it's because the gaming gentry can keep under cover better in a city of 80,000 than they used to be able to do in a city of 35,000 to 40,000. But whatever the cause, this city is no longer the home grounds of an appreciable number of gamblers—the professionals who run the games and make suckers out of the amateurs.

It used to be that there was always a fairly big game running in either the Lubbock, or the Hilton, hotels—or even in both. Occasionally it would "float" to a tourist court, or sometimes into a private residence. But fellows looking for a game could find one pretty easily.

One week-end Lubbock was the Mecca for a group of the Southwest's slickest gamblers—including the much-storied "Titanic" Thompson—and they engaged in a "tournament" among themselves in which between $80,000 and $100,000 was alleged to have changed hands. That was 15 years or more ago, when the major gambling games — poker, that is—were kept constantly running in Lubbock, Amarillo and Childress.

There are still a few of the professionals hanging around, but a very few. The bigger timers who used to operate here have gone.

Whatever the reason for the fall off in Lubbock, it cannot be laid to the credit of law enforcement, admittedly very difficult in the matter of gambling.

Maybe the boys just found greener pastures—or maybe they switched locales after three or four poker game hijackings here and in Slaton.

We don't know of anything that would deflate a fellow's ego more than to be able to know just how many people actually care whether he lives or dies!

Orson Wells Reported Ready To Direct Films For Zanuck

THE Reporter, the Poet and the Bum—The University of New Hampshire, at Durham, sends me an announcement of a campus conclave of writers, amateurs and pros, who will gather there to have their works criticised by professors, intellectual by-liners and editors. I pray that something may come of it. I have destroyed a lot of good white paper by marking it up with typewriting in my time. I have lectured, written a manual addressed to aspiring authors, made a fair living at turning out copy for some years. I have been praised and I have been panned. But I have yet to profit from any but the most rudimentary advice and criticism, which covered at most technical punctuation and rhetoric, which I neglected in English 9 because the course was taught at the hour assigned for baseball practice.

The most cogent and pungent literary criticism in my memory came not as commentary on anything I had written. In truth, I had written nothing to speak of then, as I was a very callow cub reporter. As such, I was assigned to interview John Cowper Powys, then poet laureate of England, who was stopping over in Chicago. The immortal received me in his hotel suite. He poured forth uninspired platitudes. Then I was struck with an idea. I asked Powys to write an original poem for my paper. He chuckled. "Strange," he soliloquized. "Passing strange. I have just concluded one. Yes, you may have it."

HE gave me a hand-written manuscript on hotel stationery. He drew me to the window and pointed down to Grant Park, the lake-front habitat of tramps and loafers. He singled out a fat bum, lying face-upward in the shade. "That man was the principal model for what I wrote," he said. "I have been watching him. Observe, if you please, the opening lines: 'Indolent wastrel of God's time, sunshine and air. Befouling verdant beauty, sprawling there—the velvet grass his couch of useless, idle sloth—a blot on mankind and on nature both.'" (That is from memory). It went on through several verses. The title was, "From My Blackstone Window."

• • •

I thanked him, grabbed the masterpiece and started back. But reporter's instince told me I should get an expression from the hobo, too. I ran across Michigan Boulevard, onto the beautiful broad lakeside lawn, woke up the bozo and handed him the poem. "That," I said, "is fresh from the quivering quill of Britain's poet laureate. You are the indolent wastrel, the sloth, the blot. I am a reporter. Read that and speak YOUR piece." He ran through the pretentious jingle, then said: "In the first place, the sentiment was much more lyrically expounded by Oliver Goldsmith in 'The Deserted Village.' In the second place, poets don't stand in the Blackstone and look down at Grant Park; poets stretch out in Grant Park and look up at the Blackstone!"

News Item-Business Picking Up In Some Lines

BY ROBERT C. RUARK

Actress Marta Toren Is Not Swayed By Filmland Glitter

NEW YORK, Aug. 25 — These two years and more ago I ran onto a sweet Swede kid named Marta Toren, a long-shanked, colt-ish lass who had just been imported to be a new Garbo or a new Bergman or a new something.

RUARK

I may have been the first friend Marta made in America — certainly I was in the first clump. I met her when she was fresh off the airplane — scared, dowdily dressed, stuffed to the gills on banana splits, wearing flat-heeled shoes, open-mouthed in awe of New York, speaking a comic Swede accent. Strictly raw material. All she needed was woollen stockings and a shawl over her head.

I wrote a piece about Marta then because underneath the awkwardness there was a lot of stout stuff. If you don't mind a requote, one of the sentences ran: "The odds may be heavily against her success, but yet Marta Toren has more than Garbo possessed when she stepped off the ship."

Worries About Future

Always the man to turn a mood into a column, I did some worrying about what would happen to this nice kid when the Hollywood processors got through currying her over, fixing her hair, correcting her accent, designing her clothing, and inventing a suitable past. It was an even bet she'd turn out like all the rest —lah-de-dah accent, upstage air, delusions of duse.

It's a real pleasure to report that my little Swede gal is still as sweet and unmannered today as she was in June of 1947. She is in town now, for the premiere of her newest picture, "Sword In The Desert," which I guess is the first romanticized version of the struggle in Palestine. Marta premieres tonight, and it's a dress-up affair, worthy of a lady who will probably be around as long as Garbo.

My gal Marta has taken it slow and easy in Hollywood. She has performed the modern miracle of continuing to be the same dame who came over on the plane on a long-shot chance — the same girl whose clothes were so bad then that they had a rush her off the aircraft and re-dress her before the publicity photographers popped their flashbulbs.

HER CLOTHES are chic, now, but just as simple. The hair-do is still little-girl — none of this high-piled landscape garden business. The heels are still flat. The manner is still the same—still the pleasant Swede with the stubborn Swede underneath. But no Garbo. No Bergman, just Toren.

Marta displayed a remarkable set of guts for a scared kid in a strange land. She withstood all the stock Hollywood ideas of remodeling her into a bad carbon of the other two celebrated squareheads. She wouldn't go for the cheap publicity, the leg art and the rest. She fought with the studio for six months, and won at the end. They shoved her into one dog of a picture, then gave her a small shot at a better one, and now have plumped her into an important number with Dana Andrews, who is no bum at the box-office.

About the only publicity I've seen on Toren was as good as you can get—Life's cover. Marta has a remarkable set of eyes—they are long and narrow and startlingly light, so that she looks more oriental than Scandinavian. Her studio hung one of those stock titles on her, "The Eye," which hasn't obscured the fact that the kid can act.

Actress Is Praised

Our Miss Toren has become sophisticated, I suppose, in that now she knows the names of four kinds of alcoholic beverage — dubonnet, scotch, brandy and port. When she first hit New York she drank port before lunch, because port was the only name she recognized on the wine list. She has met scotch socially, but prefers a mild dubonnett. She is still hungry at all meal times, although she has abandoned banana splits in favor of a slimmer figure.

There is no real point to this piece, apart from a private satisfaction. I thought maybe it would be nice to update one of the few actresses I ever met who was worth writing about, and to say that it is possible for the right kind of gal to undergo the Hollywood treatment without blowing her roof. Call it a fan letter, if you will, to a dame who has spent two years in the movie capital and still owns no mink coat.

BY RUTH MILLETT: TO THE LADIES

The Feminine Viewpoint

WHAT can a mother do about a daughter who is convinced she is unattractive?

"I'd do anything in my power to help her, but I don't know what to do," writes the mother of an unhappy 16-year-old.

MILLETT

Lots of mothers have had to face this problem — and they've tried to solve it in a variety of ways.

Some of the systems don't work too well. Mrs. R. tried to make her daughter "feel" pretty by paying her frequent and exaggerated compliments. But the compliments don't ring true, so they don't help much. It's almost impossible to fool a teen-ager about her looks, if she has a mirror in her room, and if the only compliments she gets come from a doting mother.

Mrs. G. tries to nag her daughter into being better looking. She is always after her to "stand up straight," to stop eating between meals, or to take more pains with her grooming. That just makes Frances G. feel homelier than ever and it also gives her the idea that her mother is as dissatisfied with her looks as she is herself.

HELP WITH APPEARANCE

WELL, what's a better way? Mrs. W. seems to be on the right track. She accepts her daughter's looks for what they are, neither paying her exaggerated compliments or nagging at her to do this and stop doing that.

But she does take pains to help Jane W. select the most becoming clothes, to find the most flattering hair-do, and to use make-up skillfully.

She has also encouraged Jane to make the most of a good mind, to learn to dance and swim well, to go out for activities at school.

But most important of all, perhaps, she has encouraged Jane to show a friendly, gracious interest in other people.

If she has brains and charm, plus some spunk, a girl can get along remarkably well without beauty. A pleasing personality is, after all, a fairly satisfactory substitute for beauty, even in youth. And it has the decided advantage of being more durable.

Laff-A-Day

"Not yet, Mom! Pop's just showing me how!"

By Bennett Cerf

"Try And Stop Me"

ONE of the biggest stars in baseball today can drive the old apple to every corner of the park, but is not particularly noted for his brain. In fact, he is generally rated about one degree dumber than the famous busher Ring Lardner used to write about.

On one hop of his team to the west, the star is reputed to have sent out for a bottle of Scotch while the train was held up temporarily at a wayside station because of a derailment ahead. One of the lads who had come to watch the repair work recognized the famous athlete and was delighted to perform the errand for him. He came back with a bottle of Scotch that bore an unfamiliar label but listed thereon six old Kings of England who had declared this to be their favorite brand. The ball star examined the strange bottle for a moment with unusual concentration and then handed it back angrily to the messenger. "Don't try to palm any of this poison off on me," he bellowed. "Every one of these guys who recommended it is dead."

Today's Thought

Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it.—Ephesians 5:25.

What is there in the vale of life
Half so delightful as a wife;
When friendship, love and peace combine
To stamp the marriage-bond divine?—Cowper.

Another thing is noted in the present trend of affairs. There is a stronger bounce in rubber checks nowadays.

Today's Journal Editorial

A COMMENDABLE GOVERNMENT AID

An important gain in the war against cancer, the nation's most agonizing killer, was recorded recently with the approval by the U. S. Postoffice department of a special service designed to simplify the spreading knowledge about the malignancy.

Medical authorities long have agreed that the chances of curing cancer are almost directly proportional to the promptness of the discovery of the nature of the ailment. Cures usually can be effected if the victim seeks medical attention in time. Too many people wait too long.

In the effort to combat this condition, the American Cancer society has prepared booklets and other literature available for the asking which should help any reader to recognize danger signals.

This information now can be obtained simply by addressing a card or letter requesting it to, "Cancer, Care of Postmaster, Lubbock, Texas," or to the postmaster of any city. It isn't even necessary to include return postage.

The postmaster will forward the request to the American Cancer society, which will supply the literature desired.

City Tax Rate Of $1.75 Is Set Here; 50-Cent Boost Ordered

5. Bluntly declined to favor union workmen in the employment of painters at a higher price to do the city's painting work.

6. Sold approximately 70 buildings at the former South Plains Army Air field to highest bidders for $61,375. Ed Colby, Municipal airport manager, said the total exceeded expectations by about $20,000. The buildings were acquired by the city as war surplus.

7. Starting hearings, which are to be resumed next Wednesday afternoon, on three applications for franchises to establish taxicab services designed to serve negroes exclusively.

Good Turnout Impressive

However the budget and tax rate matters overshadowed in interest and importance any other business considered at one of the longest and most important commission sessions in history.

Even members of the commission were astonished by the response to the invitation extended through The Avalanche-Journal newspapers to all "interested citizens" to attend the budget and tax rate hearing and to take part in the discussions of the city's financial problems.

Civic Leaders Attend

Present were some of Lubbock's most prominent civic, business and professional leaders. The majority were the personification of solid citizens who gave the impression of being there largely because of the hope they might contribute to community service.

Mayor W. H. Rodgers credited the discussions with having contributed sound ideas and suggestions which were an "inspiration" to the city governing body and which, he predicted, will pay many dividends to Lubbock.

This was an opinion in which Commissioners W. B. Price, E. K. Hufstedler and Clarence Whiteside, as well as City Manager Steve Matthews, concurred without reservation.

Budget Is Explained

The city manager summarized the proposed budget, which already has been publicized extensively, at considerable length.

The proposed expenditures of $2,800,881, he pointed out, compare with $2,183,720.54 last year.

The biggest items in the $617,161 increase, he said, include $148,000 more than last year to pay on electric revenue bonds sold within recent months; approximately $185,000 more to pay the city's share of 27 to 30 miles of street paving for which bond money was available last year but will not be next year; about $54,000 more for 20 additional men to man the fire department substation nearing completion on North College avenue; more than $38,000 more for permanent improvement in Lubbock cemetery, which the city took over last year, and the fact that the city starts the new year with a deficit of $96,565 as compared with a surplus of $110,255 last year.

City Needs Revenue

Estimated revenues in sight during the year he listed as $980,000 from the electric plant, $725,000 from the water department and $468,000 from miscellaneous sources other than taxation, totaling $2,173,500.

This meant, he explained, that the city confronted the problem of obtaining about $627,000 to balance the proposed budget.

The city manager suggested several ways by which this could be done. These included:

1. A $1.75 tax rate which, he estimated, would net the city about $1,105,562. Out of this, he said, $353,780 would have to be applied on outstanding tax bonds. But the remainder, he said, would retire the present deficit and balance the budget, leaving a small balance.

2. Garbage collection charges which, he estimated, would produce $125,000 if set at 50 cents a month per residence and about twice that at $1 per month.

3. A sewage connection charge amounting to about 20 per cent of the patron's monthly water bill which would produce about $105,000.

4. And about $123,600 obtainable by an action which, in effect, would increase water rates about 20 per cent.

Tax Boost Favored

Matthews expressed the opinion that the increased tax rate offered the simplest, fairest and most satisfactory answer to the problem of more revenue.

The commission agreed with him. After the public hearing was closed and those attending it had departed, Commissioner Hufstedler proposed the tax increase ordinance. Whiteside promptly seconded and Price and Rodgers made the vote unanimous among those present. Commissioner John Spikes was out of the city on vacation.

Improved Budget Urged

"But I am far from satisfied," Mayor Rodgers commented in approving the budget. "I think we can do better next year and, if I have anything to say about it, we will."

Among the city limits extensions proposals on which the commission took action were these:

Authorized preparation of an ordinance providing for the annexation of Modern Manors addition in Southwest Lubbock, where a $2,511,000 in construction is in progress to provide 293 family residense units for war veterans and the personnel of the reactivated Lubbock Air Force Base. The commission cannot act on the ordinance until after a public hearing, which was set tentatively for Sept. 8 or 22—regular meeting days.

Other Areas Approved

Approved on the first of two required readings ordinances providing for the annexations of these areas: the J. C. Davis subdivision in South Lubbock, bounded by Thirty-fourth street (the present city limits there) Forty-second street and avenues L and P; the area between Nineteenth and Twenty-sixth streets extending from the present west city limits to Taylor Avenue, and several subdivisions in Northwest Lubbock, including the Frank White, Wages, Rice, Westwood Village, Burleson-Osborn Heights, Wood-Peterson and others.

The contract awards included: 150 blocks of downtown alley paving to Panhandle Construction company on a bid of $264,361; the only other bidder was Warren & Purtle, $298,756.

A large program of scattered sewage line extensions, also to Panhandle, on a bid of $98,605. Other bids were Lancaster & Love, Dallas, $101,557; J. D. George, Houston, $102,986; R. B. Hodgson, Lubbock, $104,992, and Fischer-Frank-Butcher Co., San Antonio, $123,011.

Repairs which will amount to repaving of portions of several streets in Northwest Lubbock damaged when water and sewer lines were laid recently: Kerr and Middleton, Lubbock, $6,557; West Texas Construction Co., $7,732, and Elliott Taylor, $11,819.

Survey Action Important

Probably one of the most important actions of the meeting was the decision to join Lubbock Independent school district in employing Whitney to make the reappraisal of assessed valuations.

In this work, which is to be completed by Jan. 15, officials see the possibility of a sufficient increase in assessed valuations to permit a bond issue for long range improvements needed by growing Lubbock and perhaps enough to permit the sale of the bonds voted in 1945 and 1947 for the public library and city auditorium and coliseum.

Whitney's $11,000 bid was the lowest of three submitted. Others were George G. Ebsenborg & Co., Dallas, $23,000, and Southwest Appraisal Co., Stamford and Fort Worth, $24,750.

City Manager Matthews recommended the appointment of the proposed traffic and safety commission to study such problems as traffic signals, loading and school zones, one-way streets and alleys, street markings, parking meters and related subjects. Members of the commission said they would like more time to study the proposal.

The matter pertaining to city painting came up at the close of the meeting. R. L. Oldham, city director of public works, said the city has been criticised vigorously by union labor spokesmen for having employed John Pritchard, described as not being a union member, to do some painting in the city hall recently.

"We didn't ask Mr. Pritchard whether he did or did not belong to a union," Oldham said. "We merely satisfied ourselves that he was competent and trustworthy and then gave him the job because his offer to do the work was the lowest."

The city now is planning to have a building painted for rental to the State Highway patrol in Northeast Lubbock, Oldham continued. He said he has obtained the following cost proposals for doing the work:

Pritchard, $2.50 an hour for himself and $1.75 an hour for assistants, with no increase for overtime or holiday work and with Pritchard supplying all equipment to do the job; C. C. Donnell, $3 per hour, and Tol Smith, $2.50 an hour for journeymen painters and $2 for apprentices, plus time and one-half for any work done beyond eight hours on any day or on Saturdays, Sundays or holidays.

The commission concurred unanimously that the city cannot consider whether anyone employed to do work for the city is union or non-union.

The war surplus buildings at SPAAF brought prices ranging from $163 to $2,282. Forty-five separate bids were submitted, some for all of the approximately 70 structures offered and others for only one. J. O. Rigney, of Oklahoma City, submitted the highest bids on 44 buildings and Texas Compress Co. on 13. Most of them are to be used or re-sold for use as cotton pickers' houses.

The hearing started on the application for a franchise to operate a taxicab service for negroes was that of Miles Neal, represented by G. H. Neison, attorney. Representatives of all existing taxicab lines—City, Bryant, Yellow and Domino—joined in opposing it. Neal, Dr. J. A. Chatman and other colored witnesses insisted that a line exclusively for negroes is urgently needed.

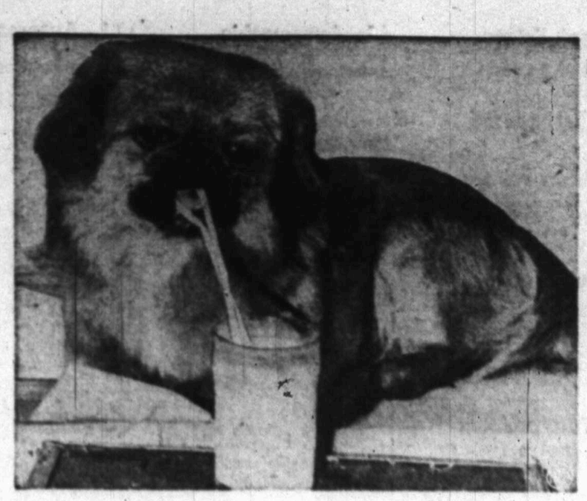

This hearing will be resumed Wednesday at 1:30 p. m. on this application as well as those of John Fair and R. L. Carrington-Jack Glaspie, all negroes.

India To Take Over Princedoms' Control

NEW DELHI, Aug. 26 (AP)—The government of India proposes to take over the administrations of the two tragetic princedoms of Tripura and Manipur in Assam province. Tripura is surrounded on three sides by eastern Pakistan and on the east by Assam. Manipur has a wide vulnerable common frontier with Burma and during the last war the Japanese poised their attack on India through Manipur.

Tripura is 4,000 square miles in area and has a population of 500,000. Manipur, with more than double the area, has about the same population.

Manipur has had a history of repeated wars with Burma. Its vulnerable valley, 50 miles long and 20 miles wide, provide convenient route for invaders of India from the beginning of the 18th Century to the last war. The young Maharajah of Manipur married for the fourth time in 1943 because palace astrologers had predicted the lucky stars of the new bride would ward off the Japanese. But India prefers to strengthen its defenses by direct administration rather than depend on lucky stars of royal brides.

ment doesn't mean that we are doing as much as we should to lift ourselves out of this hole.

Marshall Plan The Difference

"There's a little falsity in this full employment claim, too. The Labor Party admits that if it were not for Marshall Plan aid, we would have a million and a half idle. Besides that, we have three times as many civil servants as we had before the war; and we have vastly more in the Army than prior to the war.

"I know what unemployment means. My father had a terrible time and I don't want ever to suffer what he and his family went through. Yet I'm compelled to believe that we will not right ourselves until there is a touch of unemployment. That would mean trouble of many sorts, but I think it is the need.

"We will not be doing right until a man is eager to work and do a full job. Our prices and wages are much too high. They must come down, so we can work our way out of our troubles.

"This country is sound. But the pendulum has swung, and as usual has swung too far. The former underdog is on top. There are bound to be excesses of one sort and another. My own opinion is that the Laborites were surprised to get into office. When they got there, they found they had made a great many promises that are hard to keep.

"Still, we are not hopeless. We stood alone one time in the war, and won through as we always knew we would.

(Monday: The Labor Party will remain in power.)

for commercial production from the Canyon lime, above 6,900 feet, and it is fails to make a well in the Ellenburger it will be plugged back and completed from the Canyon.

It is 467 feet from north and 1,980 feet from west lines of section 440, block 97, H&TC survey, and 10 miles north of the town of Snyder.

Producer Completed

Sunray Oil Corporation has completed its No. 2-B R. B. Brown as a natural flowing producer from the Canyon reef lime in the North Snyder field of Central-North Scurry County for an initial daily potential of 1,127.85 barrels of 44.2 gravity oil.

Flow of the new oil was through a 32/64th-inch choke and the gas-oil ratio was 842-1. Flowing tubing pressure was 450 pounds and the flowing casing pressure was 500 pounds. There was no formation water.

The production came from open hole between five and one-half inch casing cemented at 6,600 feet and the total depth at 6,805 feet. Top of the pay was 6,580 feet.

This new source of oil is 660 feet from north and 2,081 feet from west lines of section 26, tract 13, J. P. Smith survey.

Sunray has staked location for its No. 4-B R. B. Brown, as a 6,900-foot rotary exploration on the south side of the North Snyder field, and 660 feet from north and west lines of section 21, block 1, J. P. Smith survey.

Drilling is to begin immediately on this venture which will test into the Canyon lime zone. Rotary tools will be used.

It is six miles north of Snyder.

Is Flowing Natural

Standard Oil Company of Texas No. 1 Earl Reinhart, on the southeast side of the south extension to the North Snyder field in North-Central Scurry County has been completed for a calculated 24-hour potential of 1,232 barrels of oil, flowing natural through a one-half inch tubing choke.

The producing formation made no water. The daily initial production figure was computed from an actual flow of 408 barrels of oil in six hours.

The productions is from open hole between 6,533 feet and the total depth of 6,843 feet. This well topped the Canyon lime reef at 6,340 feet, which made that point 3,909 feet below sea level. That made it 131 feet high to Sunray Oil Corporation No. 1 Brown, the first producer completed in the south extension to the North Snyder field.

Lion Oil Company has staked its No. 20 C. T. McLaughlin as a step-out on the Northeast side of the Diamond-M field in Southwest Scurry county, about 12 miles southwest of Snyder.

Projected depth of the venture, located 1,966.9 feet from north and 1,988.61 feet from east lines of section 196, block 97, H & TC survey, is to 7,000 feet to try for Canyon lime reef production.

Operator is now moving on location and drilling is to get under way soon at this exploration.

Loss of sight came to Hollis three years ago at his home town, Mineral Wells. A hit-and-run driver left Hollis lying beside a road there in 1941. When found, Hollis was suffering a severe head injury, which resulted in his blindness.

Hollis, who is 23, hopes to have enough money to establish his own hot dog and snow cone stand in Brownfield. "Then I would have a good living and Joe could have all the hot dogs he wants," the blind man said.
