Athenaeum Club Studied Works of John Esten Cooke

The Club met Tuesday afternoon at three o'clock in the club room at the First Baptist church. In the absence of Mrs. Davis, President, Mrs. Gus Ford was elected temporary chairman which place she filled very capably. Roll call was answered by quotation from some book of the lesson. After a rather lengthy business session in which Mrs. Jack Lewis, whose name was on the waiting list, became a member of the club filling the only vacancy, Mrs. J. H. Hankins took the chair and conducted the lesson.

The topic: "The Writings of John Esten Cooke." The Writings of John Esten Cooke.

Mrs. John Lemond gave us the plot of Surry of Eagles Nest, one of Cooke's most delightful stories. Its scene the romantic setting of Richmond and surrounding country. Its characters the Valiants of Virginia with a villain to add to the interest. Cooke's personal acquaintance with Col. Jeb Stuart and Stonewall Jackson, and his charming description of events in which he personally was engaged make this one of the most entertaining of historical novels.

Mrs. J. H. Hankins who took Mrs. Stanton's place on the program reviewed another of Cooke's novels written in his best vein: "The Virginian Comedians." This book is also a history of Virginians but of an earlier period and takes one vividly back to the time of powdered wigs, silk hose and doublets; hot headed political discussion and rumors of revolution. In this instance however it is the Colonies against the Mother country and the story ends before the war of the Revolution. Patrick Henry has already made himself heard in the convention halls.

On account of the long business session the other numbers on the program will be given at another date.

Every member should read these novels in order to be able to add something to the final discussion that will be called for when we finish this series of novels.

CIRCLE NO. 5 OF BAPTIST W. M. S. HAS INTERESTING MEETING

Circle No. 5 of the First Baptist Church met Monday afternoon with Mrs. E. L. Noey. Thirteen were in attendance including one new member.

The meeting opened by singing Happy Day followed with prayer by Mrs. Agee.

Our Bible lesson was then entered into and our efficient teacher Mrs. James brought us a most wonderful lesson on the book of Joshua.

You are missing a rare treat when you fail to hear one of these lessons.

Mrs. Agee was given a rising vote of thanks for the faithful and helpful service rendered during 1925 as Circle chairman.

Mrs. Bryant, our present chairman, presented each officer with a note book in which to keep a complete record of all reports.

Our leader made a most earnest appeal to all the ladies to stand together in love and harmony and thus being united we can do greater things for our Master.

Next Monday we will meet at the church and begin our Mission Study book. Talks on Soul Winning. Those wishing a copy of this book can get one at Mrs. Ed Alexander's 704-W. Next week will also be our week of prayer and every lady in the church is urged to attend these services each afternoon and better prepare ourselves for our meeting which is to begin the last of February.

Utility Coats Emphasize Fur-Collared Plaid Cloth

By JULIA BOTTOMLEY

WHERE your dreams last night of living models passing in review, some garbed in handsome topcoats, others in trim tailored suits? No wonder, for it is the time of the calendar when sleep and calm are apt to be disturbed with the harrowing question as to whether it is the better part of wisdom to invest in a smart utility coat or a tailored suit. Both, if the pocketbook will agree, is the answer. Certain it is, that this year in particular, no fashionable wardrobe is complete without an up-to-the-standard topcoat. The vogue for the full-length coat worn over a dainty frock has never been more enthusiastically endorsed.

Topcoats, without a doubt, are a very important and immediate style item. It seems that the long coat is in a particularly joyous mood this season. How could it be otherwise, styled as it is of novelty wools, ray in coloring and striking in either striped, plaid, checked or tweed patterning. Colors are considerably varied with pastel tones to the fore. At the same time a brighter shade range is also being featured. The plaid wools are adorable and most of the coats thereof are fur-collared to blend. The youthful model in the picture is developed in a soft downy plaid of blue and gray, with collar of griselets fur. Set-on pockets and pointed-shoulder sleeves are accented style details. The lining of this model coat is of gray crepe.

BOY SCOUTS GIVEN ENTERTAINMENT BY LEGION

Sixty members of the local American Legion Post entertained thirty members of Boy Scout Troop No. 3, which troop is being fostered by the Post, in the basement of the Leader Building, Monday night.

Much pep and enthusiasm was manifested in the meeting and the Boy Scouts enjoyed plenty of fun. The Mess Sergeant came next getting licked by the Boy Scouts inasmuch as he had promised for two weeks that he would furnish backed beans, and then served hamburgers instead. His alibi that he did not know how to bake the beans did not satisfy them, so after a hurried trip for more hamburger and giving them seconds on Eskimo Pies furnished by Bell Ice Cream Company he was able to keep down the clamor by promising to feed them all soon again.

Quite a number of new members paid in their dues at the meeting, and the chairman of the membership committee reported favorable progress and from all indications the post will enjoy a good paid in membership this year.

Quite a bit of discussion was had on the National Convention to be held in Paris, France, in 1927, and only those members whose dues have been fully paid up for the years 1926 and 1927 will be eligible to go on the reduced rates. Mr. Helfenstein is working up a "40 and 8" organization in conjunction with the activities of the Post, and he will be in Fort Worth at the time of the convention of this body to be held there next month. All overseas veterans are invited to get in touch with him and enroll in this branch of the Legion.

GULF COAST WAS MOUNTAIN RANGE SAYS GEOLOGIST

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 9 — In a lecture before the Austin section of the Southwestern Geological Society, Dr. Charles Schuchbert, geology professor of Yale University, said that a land mass in the form of a mountain range existed along the Gulf coast millions of years ago. Most of Texas was submerged during this time. A body of land was known to exist east of the present location of Austin. Dr. Schuchbert is visiting professor of geology for the winter term at the University of Texas.

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 9.—A group of 25 slides showing the principal musical instruments of the period before 1520 among the Aztec Indians has been procured by the Division of Extension of the University and is now ready for distribution, according to Dr. Lota Mae Spell, who gathered the collection. She also wrote a lecture on the subject to be given with the slides. This tribe of Indians made its home in about the same place that the City of Mexico now is.
"Beautifully carved drums of two kinds were the first musical instruments the Aztecs had," said Dr. Spell. "The originals are now in the National Museum in Mexico. Flutes of horn, clay and wood followed. There were even a few flutes made from human leg bones. Whistles and rattles were made of clay. They also had a peculiar sort of rattle made from gourds."

Besides these slides about the musical instruments, there are a number showing the picture writing used by these Indians. Emphasis is placed on these which demonstrate their use of musical instruments. Some of these slides were made from negatives taken from the original objects and others were made from reproductions.
This collection of slides represents the first form of musical life in America. For one studying the history of music in America this would be the first chapter. Dr. Spell stated. The second chapter would consist of the work of the Spaniards during the 16th and 17th centuries.

GOLD IN TUT'S SARCOPHAGUS MAY RESULT IN GOLD RUSH ACROSS PLAINS OF THE NILE

By W. E. DRAKEFORD
(United Press Correspondent)
CAIRO, (United Press)—Disturbed in his sleep of centuries, Tut-Ankh-Amen may have a message for modern civilization that will result in a gold rush across the vast plains stretching from the banks of the Nile.

Visitors who come to view the rich golden coffin of the pharaoh invariably turn to sober reflection as they stand in the Cairo Museum. Minds try to reach back through hundreds of years and comprehend something of the bygone civilization, but out in the street, and brought back to the hard facts of today, reflections often turn to practical deductions.
View of the coffin is open to the public. Visitors see the traditional ancient style, following the contour of the mummy within, and an exquisite carving of the face in the likeness of the deceased.

As part from the historical and artistic significance of the coffin, the fact can not be overlooked that between seven and eight hundred-weight of pure gold was used in making this coffin. Even though he was a god-king it is clear that the precious metal must have been obtainable in great quantities from some source which must be presumed to have been in the country itself.

The gold is of a reddish color, indicating the presence of copper. This affords a clue to its origin, for gold mined in certain parts of Egypt is known to have had an admixture of copper.

In modern times it has been taken for granted that the ancient Egyptian mines were worked out centuries ago. This is probably true as far as the alluvial workings are concerned, is not certainly true of the deeper deposits.

During the past forty years concessions for mining gold have been granted to various companies, but not until after the outbreak of war was anything like scientific research undertaken by the Egyptian Government. In the course of these investigations, conducted under the direction of A. H. Hooker in 1915, one of the valleys of a known auriferous mountain was exhaustively examined.

Previously very rich gold had been extracted from the mountain, but the work was not continued because the miners who found the pockets contented themselves with their early harvests and did no further work. It was discovered that the ancient alluvial workings did not, as a rule, go deeper than about 25 feet, at which depth no gold was found, but at a depth of forty feet and in one place sixty feet, gold of considerable richness was discovered.

Vast sums of money are now being expended in digging for minerals, but none for research work which might produce a vast reward of a more practical nature. Previous attempts have all failed because of insufficient data and the lack of proper enterprise. Experts say it would not be difficult, from data now available, to ascertain beyond a doubt whether the ancient gold industry of Egypt is definitely beyond revival. What might be discovered, with the help of this data and modern mining equipment, is a question that is causing serious reflection here.

SOVIET TO PROTEST JAPANESE FISHERIES IN FAR EAST WATERS

By FREDERICK KUH
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
BERLIN, (United Press)—Parleys will soon commence in Moscow between representatives of the revision of the Russo-Japanese Soviet Union and Japan concerning fishing convention of 1907.

In the opinion of the Soviet government, this convention has placed Russia in an extremely unfavorable position. It is stated in Moscow that the penetration of Japanese capital into the Far Eastern fishing industry since 1907 has seriously jeopardized Russian interests.

It is alleged that out of $13,000,000 invested in Far Eastern fishing enterprises, $10,000,000 comprised Japanese capital. In 1924-25 Russia obtained only 13 per cent of the total fishing production in these regions. Two hundred and fifty Japanese fishing concerns, employing 25,000 workers, mainly Japanese and Chinese, are active in Far Eastern waters. The fisheries possess 300 vessels, totalling 150,000 tons. Japanese fish-canning factories have displaced similar Russian factories in Kamchatka and other districts along the Far Eastern coast of the Soviet Union. According to Soviet statistics, during the past 13 years the Japanese have exported $150,000,000 worth of canned goods from fisheries in Russian territory.
It may be expected that the Russians will demand a very drastic expansion of their fishing rights in relation to Japan's fishing industry during the impending conference in Moscow.

Thanks for Poor Marksmanship

Kent W. Clark of San Francisco is thanking a pair of Chinese waiters for their poor marksmanship. They showered bullets all around him recently near Tientsin. He was leaving for Peking in an automobile when the aerial attack started. The attackers spotted for their recklessness when they landed and found Clark was not an enemy.

TWO LOVING CUPS

Following a custom now widely observed, Birmingham and Atlanta recently awarded loving cups, each to its "most useful citizen during the year 1925." The cups were donated by the Birmingham News and the Atlanta Georgian, respectively, but the awards were made by committees of men and women representing various civic organizations of their cities.

Birmingham's cup went to Erskine Ramsey, coal operator, banker, developer, inventor and philanthropist, who has given $100,000 each to five colleges of Alabama—the State University Women's College, Birmingham-Southern, Howard and Auburn—a total of half a million dollars besides many other benefactions of lesser amounts.

Atlanta's cup was awarded to Henry M. Atkinson, chairman of the board of the Georgia Railway and Power Company, president of the Title Guarantee & Trust Co., and a director in many other corporations. His claim to the gratitude of his fellow citizens was expressed by the award committee in part as follows:

"The man who succeeds in business today is the man who directs his operations with a view of service to his fellowmen. Mr. Atkinson has brought almost single-handed a new era of industrial development and prosperity to North Georgia, guiding the employment of hundreds of millions of capital in new enterprises established in this region—and in so doing has brought about the establishment of better wages, a broader vision, a new, more pleasant and more promising condition of life for many thousands of people."

All over the land other great captains of industry, like Mr. Ramsey and Mr. Atkinson are devoting themselves more and more to the service of their fellowmen. It is one of the most encouraging signs of our times that this is so.

A GRIM RECORD

Death came peacefully in sleep a few nights ago to William C. Patterson, "the world's oldest hangman and first electrocutioner," at his home in Hornell, N. Y., at the age of 84.

Mr. Patterson was hangman at Auburn prison New York, for years before the electric chair was substituted for the rope and during his long service as executioner had put 54 convicted criminals to death.

These included Kemmler, the wife-slayer, the first man to meet death in the electric chair, Mary Farmer, first woman to be so executed; Leon Czolgosz assassin of President McKinley, and many others whose crimes attracted world-wide attention.

Shortly before his death, when asked whether he believed he had ever executed an innocent person, Mr. Patterson said: "It is a good rule of life to mind your own business. I was not employed at Auburn as a judge."

His was a grim record, but he seems to have taken his job philosophically, and from the ripe age he attained it appears that if he was ever haunted by memories of his victims his days were not materially shortened thereby.

PLIGHT OF COAST GUARD

It was a rather appealing story that was told last week regarding the plight of his men by Lieutenant Commander Yeandle of the Coast Guard. While it was not intended as an excuse for the actions of those guardsmen who have been convicted of conniving with run-runners, it may be considered by some as affording mitigation.

Lieutenant Commander Yeandle said that the guardsmen are forced to go to sea in 75-foot boats, pitched and tossed by the waves, making sleep difficult and the serving of hot meals almost impossible. Night after night they keep their vigils, stung by chilling winds and spray, suffering untold discomforts and hardships.

Then, upon return to shore for a brief rest, they are greeted with insults and epithets such as "bone job" and "rum navy man" by people on shore who are not in sympathy with enforcement. He also asserted that families of guardsmen are insulted and ostracized by their neighbors.

In the face of these hardships and indignities, suffered for the sake of earning the small government wage they receive, it was declared to be not surprising that some should be tempted by the rum-runner's gold.

Of course the hardships of the guardsmen do not excuse disloyalty to duty. But with conditions as described by Lieutenant Commander Yeandle, it is going to be extremely difficult to maintain the moral of this oldest branch of our military service, whose brilliant record in the past has filled many glorious pages.

AIRCRAFT AND PEACE

In view of the forth coming conference at Geneva for further disarmament, it is naturally the hope and desire of all well disposed people that some measure of success may attend these efforts.

The disarmament conference called by President Harding in 1921, had an excellent moral effect, but it only made a very imperfect beginning in the direction of permanent peace, as it did not limit the use of submarines or other vessels except capital ships; neither did it restrict the size of armies.

In any consideration of disarmament the subject of aircraft must ultimately hold an important place. Yet aircraft is an agency of peace as well as war.

Suppose that armies and warships were reduced to an absolute minimum, then the nation possessing the largest number of aircraft would have the advantage in the event of war, for aircraft built for commercial purposes can be used as engines of destruction upon short notice, by equipping them with machine guns and bombs.

Can the building of aircraft be restricted? With the present dream of airways encircling the globe, with airplanes and dirigibles crossing the oceans as easily as trains now cross a continent, can the progress of aviation be halted? Who shall say how many airplanes the United States may use for transporting freight and passengers? Who shall set a like limit for other nations, to which they will agree?

This is only one of the tremendous problems which the Geneva conference must face. The most encouraging fact about the whole situation is that the nations are at last willing to discuss these problems in a friendly manner, in an effort to preserve the peace of the world.

PEACEFUL EUROPE

A new spirit of co-operation and mutual forbearance is extending its beneficent influence over an increasing part of Europe. The hatreds of the World War, which seemed eternal a short time ago, are being forgotten. Germany is beginning to confess that French enmity may have been deserved, and Englishmen are saying that the war guilt was not all on the side of Germany.

Traveling through the countries of Europe and comparing present public sentiment with popular opinion of the period following the Versailles treaty is like passing from one epoch of history into its opposite. Europe is through with hatreds for the time being. Humanistic sentiments are abroad such as would have made the Versailles treaty an entirely different document had they existed at the time of the peace negotiation.

There is no sentimentality in the new spirit of peace. On that respect it differs from the idealism of the millenium movement of the war period. Europe today is passing into the control of practical men of affairs whose ideals are based on the principle of facing today's problem today and not legislating for the indefinite future.

Europe is rapidly becoming its old self once more, plus the experience gained from the war that fighting is a gambler's game that ruins everybody. This is not to say Europe has seen its last war. The probability is that there will be another war when some nation decides it has found an unbeatable system, just as the habitues of Monte Carlo ever think they have found a combination of numbers that will prove infallible against the roulette wheel.

But, for the moment, Europe has resolved that the roulette wheel is a danger for everybody. That spirit is sending the war gamblers back to the woods, while the doctrine of work and co-operation is now in the ascent.

The leaders of Europe today in the principal countries—with the possible exception of France—are returning to the principles of Samuel Smiles, "Self-help." France is a laggard, but the impetus will be felt in Paris eventually. Meanwhile, the contagion of the American spirit of hustle is spreading elsewhere, from Great Britain to the Balkans. Europe wants to get rich again, and Uncle Sam's way of getting rich by sticking close to the job is becoming Europe's way as well.

President Coolidge's frequent explanations of America's desire to help Europe if Europe will first help itself have been received with something like outward derision by the Europeans. They have told one another that such proffers of advice were only America's way of dodging her responsibilities to the world. But, now, this mental attitude is changing. America's persistent plea to Europe to start digging has finally had results. Europe is starting in to dig and at the same time, is beginning to forget there is a United States.

This is all to the good. When Europeans explain that they are forgetting there is a United States, they mean they are abandoning hope of getting any free financial help from Washington and New York. That is to say, they mean they are saving themselves by their own exertions and are not expending their energies crying for Uncle Sam to come across and save them.

Europe has had to wait for its old spirit of self-reliance, crushed by the war, to come back into being. But, less than a decade has passed since the ending of the most disastrous conflict modern Europe has ever known. In reality, strife has been remarkably rapid. The tenth anniversary of the Versailles peace, if Europe keeps up with its present strides toward prosperity, will see the old world nations renewing their youth and preparing to challenge America to a race for economic supremacy.

Slow moving coal barges in New York and other harbors with their precious "black diamonds" offer valuable loot for a growing horde of port pirates.

SO THINK WE

We think it may be hard to get hunters to report the game killed, but we have never seen a fisherman that would not tell about every fish he caught and then some.

We think a lot of people safely make the same statement that Mr. Donovan did when he said he would quit work when he had made a million, and then not have many idle moments in their life.

We think that school taxes is one of the best investments that a community can make.

We think a great many people never contribute a penny to the upbuilding of the community, but they usually put in twenty four hours a day grumbling about taxes, and laws, etc.

We think now is a good time to do a lot of building. If you are intending to build and have the money, now is the time to dab down. There are numbers of workmen who are not busy and will be glad to do the work. The material dealers are not rushed and will be able to give you good service. Build now if you are going to build this year.

We think that fool jealousy has wrecked more homes than most anything else. Lack of confidence is not any worse.

We think that he who hesitates often keeps out of a lot of arguments.

We think that when a fellow goes out to hunt work he never carries a gun in his hip pocket. It is usually the fellow that is hunting trouble that carries those things, and he usually finds it.

We think that late prowl around of the young people is liable to lead to a lot of grief among parents.

We think that a fellow can know that honesty is the best policy without trying the opposite.

We think the women of the country have taken up most all of the practices of the men except chewing tobacco and spitting on the sidewalk.

We think there is nothing more filthy looking than the corners where the battle axe falls.

We think there is one thing that a woman cannot get the last word with and that is with the echo. The more she talks the more comes back.

We think that love is just one silly thing after another, but there is one thing sure there is never any divorces mixed up in it.

We think it hurts for the truth to be told on some folks, and if that be the case there will be a bunch of people running for office in Texas that will certainly suffer under the lash of

IT IS REPORTED

That a few automobile drivers still insist on violating the laws, and operate their automobiles with one light.

That slow down signs have been placed at the corner of the school grounds but we notice are not at all affected by the information. We saw one fellow whizzing past the school grounds a few days ago at the rate of thirty miles per hour, and he did not seem to be in any hurry then. He was just going.

That contracts will be let for the erection of the new school buildings in Lubbock next month. We believe it is a good idea to get this building program over during the slack building months.

That Amarillo will ask for an election to vote $240,000 school bonds soon.

That congress is threatening to make a few more holidays for the banks and the postoffice. But we have not heard a word about making one for the newspapers.

That a lot of the congressmen are going to want the support of the newspapers in their race for election, but we do not see how they can have the check when congress has poured it on every printer in the United States by raising the postal rates and printing stationery at less than the printer can buy it.

It is reported that a good disposition seldom ever wears out. That may be true, but we have seen a number of them badly spoiled.

It is reported that Games county just like one of issuing 800 poll tax receipts and 554 auto and truck license were— an auto for every 2 1-4 persons in the county. They have to ride eight in one coupe in Lubbock sometimes.

It is reported that many thousands of hogs will be bought by West Texas people this year. Every farmer should raise his meat and some to sell but do not go "Hog Wild."

PETER'S ADVENTURES

ONE LITTLE DROP

Then how Father Lion did roar! Peter thought he must be growing more and more angry with his little son until he looked at the great fellow's eyes and saw how they were twinkling now, and twinkling right at him! "Humph! You are a very young Two-Legs if you are not a cruel one, and I think I am going to like you, after all—I don't care for stupid folks, whether they are men or beasts. Ha, ha, ha! You knew what you were doing when you drew your hand away from the knees of that too affectionate son of mine."

JUST FOLKS

THOSE FIRST LONG TROUSERS

We went together, just as though together we must share the blow. Though she alone had gone before, we went together to the store. And watched him proudly try them on. And then our little boy was gone. Our little knickerbockered lad. Came out a youth, in trousers clad!

DINNER STORIES

One of the features of an entertainment that was given for charity some time since was a vocal selection by a woman. Midway in the audience a man-looking little man listened attentively. "That is the most atrocious singing I ever heard," remarked a woman to the meek little man. "I wonder who the rock star is?" "She is my wife," was the startling rejoinder of the meek little man. "Oh, I beg your pardon?" responded the other, greatly flushed. "The fault may lie with the music, which is really barbarous, but have you any idea who composed it?" "Yes, madam," replied the other, administering yet more embarrassment. "I did."

They were very much in love, but at length came the day when they had a bitter quarrel and parted, each resolving never to see the other again as long as they both lived. Years passed, and they had almost forgotten the little love affair, when with each other at the local Christmas dance. The man fell rather embarrassed, but he went eagerly up to her, nevertheless, and said softly: "Why—Muriel!" She looked at him indifferently. "Let me see," she said calmly, "was it you or your brother who used to be an old admirer of mine?" "I really don't remember," he replied affably. "Probably my father."

Reza Khan began his sensational career as a private in a Russian Cossack regiment stationed in Persia. He became very popular with the soldiers and his superiors. This was the reason he succeeded in keeping together a handful of men after the Russian government collapsed and his regiment was disbanded. In February, 1921, backed by loyal soldiers, Reza Khan overthrew the government, appointed a prime minister and made himself minister of war. In 1925 he discarded the civilian cabinet and by means of a second coup d'etat assumed the premiership. Realizing that the priests did not look with favor upon a republic, Reza Khan set about to discourage talk of one and at an opportune moment when he had gained sufficient power seized the throne for himself. He has endeavored himself to the people by tempering his absolute dictatorship with liberal rule. The price of bread has been reduced and political prisoners have been liberated. They hold in great affection the man who now sits upon the throne of Darius and Xerxes, rulers of a day when shahs would not have considered it disgraceful to assume a commoner such as Reza Khan.

PETER'S ADVENTURES

FATHER LION

Father Lion, "What earthly good would a smooth tongue be to a Lion, I'd like to know? Not a bit of use. How would he pick his bones clean? If you worked as hard to get a meal, as we Lions do, you'd not like to lose even a wet morsel, and you'd scrape off each precious bit of food, clean, too. We can move our tongues just as we like. Did you know that, Two-Legs? We not only use our tongue for a scraper, but it is our cup as well. With it we lap up the cool water, and then, after we have finished eating and drinking, we use it for a wash rag. But all this talk about our tongues has nothing to do with what made you draw your hand away. I'll bet you base like the taste of blood, and go to Step-Lightly's head like mule wine—that one little drop would change him on the moment from your best friend into your most dangerous foe."

COMPLAINT

Complaint was made by British who roasters that Germany is flooding the country with cheap tomatoes.

The laughing, loving, roguish child whose kisses on her cheeks were piled. She knew what change was taking place. Within that narrow dressing space, Her child went in beyond a doubt, But soon a man was coming out. The clerk said: "Fine" but well I knew. The mother held a different view. The little lad she'd loved was gone. There stood a youth with trousers on. A youth, with shoulders broad and square, A youth who had a jaunty air, And when we left that clothing store. We had a little boy no more.

SPORT FLASHES

FANNING WITH FARRELL
By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Sports Editor
NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—In protesting some time ago against the avaricious methods of boxing managers when they were talking business with him, Tex Rickard said he couldn't fathom the business workings of their minds.

"They will go to some of the smaller clubs and take a hard match for a few hundred dollars and they want thousands for fighting in the Garden against set-ups," he pointed out.

Rickard says that he offered Harry Wills, negro heavyweight, $150,000 last summer to meet Gene Tunney and promised him a bout with Jack Dempsey if he defeated Tunney.

He turned me flat. Wouldn't even listen to me," Rickard said. "He walked right out of the office and accepted a match against Floyd Johnson in Newark for $7000. It was a bad fight and it is impossible to compute the real financial loss resulting from the prestige dropped in that fight. It is quite possible that it cost him a chance against Dempsey in a world's championship fight."

Fighters, as a matter of fact, should be willing to cut their prices mendacious overhead expense he has in operating his Garden and it was Rickard and his willingness to take chances that put boxing over in New York.

The Pioneer Club, an old horse barn on the east side with a capacity of only $4000 and a clientele that will not stand for more than $5 tops, has been getting the best fights in New York. Lew Raymond has been able to make matches that were good enough for Garden headlines and get out of them with a profit.

Just recently he put on Phil McGraw, one of the latest lightweight stars and Rasil Galiano. Rickard tried to make the match and could not. After the fight Rickard wanted to match McGraw against Stanislaus Loayza, the South American. They packed their prices and refused to go on in a semi-final.

TY COBB

DETROIT, Feb. 8.—When the first "play ball" of the 1926 season is called, Tyrus Raymond Cobb probably will be at his regular post in centerfield. If he is—and if he continues as a regular throughout the season, Ty will have equaled another of baseball's records for he will have played through 22 seasons in the big leagues.

"Cap" Anson, the great first sacker of baseball's early days, is the only man on record to play that many years as a regular in the big show. Hans Wagner withdrew after 21 years—the nearest approach to Anson's achievement.

Breaking records is nothing new to Cobb but this one probably will give him as much if not more satisfaction than all the others because it's one of the human desires to "stay young." Every year that the Georgia Peach plays ball from now on is certain to reduce his grand batting average because it will be virtually impossible for him to hit higher than .350 any longer, but he is assured, even now, of passing Anson's magnificent record.

During Anson's 22 campaigns in the big leagues he batted for a grand average of .339. Cobb, in the 21 seasons he has completed, had an average of .369. If he can bat over

WOMEN'S OLYMPICS
GOTHENBURG, Sweden, Feb. 8.—"Women Athletes Only," will be the watch-word of a special set of Olympic Games planned here for next year. A continental European association of women called "La Federation Sportive Feminine Internationale" has formally requested the National Swedish Women's Athletic Union to manage the games, in which representatives of all countries will be invited to participate, and the Swedish body has tentatively selected Gothenburg as the most convenient location. In 1928 the regular Olympics will be held at Amsterdam.

In Sweden sports for women are highly developed and in the coming Northern Games at Stockholm there are special events for them such as fancy figure skating, and mixed skating, as well as ski runs over the open country as long as twenty miles, or half the distance for men.

In the famous Vasa Run, or Swedish Ski Marathon, over a course of 57 miles a woman ski-runner has set a record of ten hours. In summer time competitions such as swimming, diving, sprints and jumping, as well as gymnastics and tennis Swedish women have previously taken prizes in international contests.

MATADORS TO MEET WITH BUFFALOES TONIGHT BEGINNING A TWO GAME SERIES ON THE BUFFALO FLOOR

Higginbotham's gang of cagers will leave this morning to make an invasion on the Buffalo camp there tonight and tomorrow night. The Matadors have sharpened their banderillas and are prepared to make a better showing with S. D. Burton's crack quintet. The Buffaloes are expecting a much stiffer encounter with the Matadors at Canyon than they did when they played here.

The game between the Matadors and the Buffaloes is creating much interest throughout the Plains and Panhandle owing to the fact that a friendly rivalry spirit is now existing between the two institutions. Students and ex-students of both colleges are awaiting the clash and many of them will be present tonight in the Buffalo gymnasium to see the fight.

For the last several games the Matadors used new combinations on each appearance and are rapidly shaping into form a better club. Their record now stands with four defeats and three victories.

ATTRACTIVE TROPHIES AWARDED TO THE STATE CHAMPS

AUSTIN, Texas, Feb. 9.—Not the least attractive feature of being winners in the state interscholastic basketball tournament to be held in Austin, March 5-6, will be the awards to the three winning teams and the players of those teams. Roy Henderson, athletic director for the University of Texas Interscholastic League, says that these awards which have been given for the last three years are permanent, being renewed each year by the donors.

For the winning basketball team in the state there is a silver basketball, bearing the proper inscription as to the significance of the trophy. The members of this team receive small gold basketballs. In the season of 1925 Beaumont was the winner. Oak Cliff high school of Dallas won the state championship in 1923 and 1924. In 1921 El Paso won the silver trophy. Sandi Equival, captain of the Longhorn basketball team, was a member of this high school team.

For the runners-up in the state tournament there is a silver loving cup, and for the individual players there are silver basketball awards. Breckenridge high school in San Antonio was the winner of this trophy in 1925.

SENSATIONAL SEMI-NUDE DANCING HIT OF MOSCOW WINTER SEASON THREATENS TO DISPLACE OLD BALLET

MOSCOW, (United Press)—The most startling and popular theatrical innovation in Moscow this season is the new style of ballet staged by the ballet-master Cassian Golezyovky with the co-operation of the artist and costume designer Boris Erdman. Golezyovky's ballets, especially his production "Joseph The Beautiful," which is modeled after the Biblical legend of the attempted seduction of Joseph by the wife of Potiphar, are playing to crowded houses and seriously threaten the supremacy of the traditional classical ballet, which is still given in the State Opera House.

One of Golezyovky's first principles is to put just as few clothes on his performers as the stage molder. Moscow code of stage morals will permit. The beautiful and talented Marietta Lyubova, Bank, who played the role of Potiphar's wife, appeared on the stage in a costume that first dazzled and then delighted the audience. Her white body was covered only with narrow silver strips across the bust and hips while a string of diamonds parted here bobbed black hair. Many of the other performers appeared in equally daring costumes. Golezyovky emphasizes the importance in posturing the ballet. Instead of clearing the stage for dancing he provides a number of chairs and platforms which afford a good setting for the group poses which are a characteristic feature of his production. He tries to teach his dancers to express the complicated rhythms of such modern composers as Naxos, who wrote the music for "Joseph The Beautiful," Debussy, Prokofiev and Scriabine. He is recognized as the most striking in-

Clark Griffith Troubled With 1926 Line Up

By FRANK GETTY (United News Staff Correspondent) NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators, who has no great reputation for generosity, is having a deal of trouble in lining up his ball players for the 1926 season.

When the Senators won their first pennant in 1924 and come out of the world's series with the winner's end of the purse, the "Old Fox" had to loosen the purse strings a bit here and there, but succeeded in persuading most of the players that if they sat tight they would share in future lucrative post-season receipts. This proved to be the case in 1925.

Now, however, there is a feeling in Washington, as well as in seven other cities embracing American League teams, that the Senators have shot their bolt and that the 1926 pennant is going to Philadelphia. Accordingly, the Griffen are out to sandbag the biggest salaries possible out of their owners.

In a recent statement in Florida, Griffith said he would go into the season with six ball players who already have signed and a bunch of bathys and amateurs from Capital City before he'd give in to the salary demands of his regulars. But that drew a real laugh from the winter stove league was his announcement that he would bench Roper Peckinpau and "Muddy" Ruel and play Buddy Myer at short and Tat behind the bat.

Seldom is a big league team stronger than its catcher. In Ruel, Griffith has the best backstop who ever played ball for Washington, not excepting Eddie Ainsmith and "Gabby" Street. "Mully" was responsible for much of Washington's success during the past two seasons.

"It's too good to be true," quoth Connie Mack, when he heard Griffith's threat. "If he benches Ruel, we will win the pennant surely."

As for Peckinpau, he was voted the most valuable player in the American League last year. If Washington hadn't won the pennant giving Peck a chance to make eight errors and toss away the world's series, he still would be so considered.

SCOUTING AND THE HOME Here is our special chance to display ingenuity. It is the central day of the week. We do not want merely to do something, but to start something on this Home Day. We want to start in Scouts a keener appreciation for their homes; and also a deeper appreciation of Scouting on the part of the home. And this day of all days a Scout should prove his ability of obedience and capability of sharing the home duties. Each scout should strive to make the Scout Law apart of his daily program.

MISS WILLS NEEDS HELP TO WIN IN FRANCE

BY FRANK GETTY United News Staff Correspondent NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—United States lawn tennis officials regret the fact that they are unable to assist Helen Wills, who appears to be emmeshed in the commercialism of tennis as it is played on the French Riviera.

Young and unsophisticated to a rather unusual degree, the girl from California is surrounded by those who make a living, one way or another, from the game she plays so well.

Miss Wills went to France, hoping to have a sporting test of her tennis ability versus that of Suzanne Lenglen. Instead, she finds herself one of the Riviera attractions, a source of tremendous profit to a lot of people who are using her to make money for them.

Visiting the Riviera as an amateur, the serious, youthful Californian finds herself practically a puppet in the hands of those who make their living from Riviera, tennis.

Hundreds of thousands of francs are being made by promoters as a result of her various appearances in the "invitation tournaments," of the cote D'Azur.

Because Miss Wills went to France as a private individual, however, the United States lawn tennis association can do little more than to deplore the situation in which she finds herself.

"Had Miss Wills gone to France under the auspices of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, said an official of the parent tennis body of this country, "an experienced tennis adviser would have been sent along with her and things would have been different. As it is she has no one to help her, and because she is not officially representing this country, there is little the tennis association can do, other than to see that the amateur rules are observed."

SCOUTING AND THE SCHOOL Nationally on this day it has been found practicable to secure opportunity for Scouts to demonstrate Scouting in the schools, to make brief addresses, and to have parent and friends in attendance for the occasion. Demonstrations are also made on the school grounds at recess time and after school. Distinctive patrol and troop Good Turns, to school authorities. This connection will impress upon Scouts that it is a patriotic duty to acquire the best possible education in preparation for their coming to the head of the homes of America.

Here's hope that the Scouts of Lubbock will do their best to prove the good of Scouting in the school. And do their Good Turns Daily.

CUMMINS STARTS ON ENDURANCE TEST

At two o'clock this morning Jim Cummins, owner and manager of the Cummins Battery & Electric Company who at 10:00 o'clock Tuesday morning started on a 120-hour drive in a Chevrolet roadster from the salesroom of the Kuykendall Chevrolet Company showed no signs of tiring and was confident that he will be at the wheel when the last minute of the 120-hour has passed.

Deafening cheers went up from the hundreds of Lubbock and South Plains people who blocked the streets in front of the Kuykendall Chevrolet Company as Cummins drove the car into the street and started on the run that he declares will not end until 120 hours have passed.

The run will be completed at 10:00 o'clock Sunday morning unless something happens to make Cummins abandon the test and this is not expected.

Just before the car was rolled from the sales room of the Kuykendall Chevrolet Company, Cummins was locked to the wheel by Gerald V. Smith, of the advertising department of the Lubbock Morning Avalanche, who immediately gave the key to the handcuffs over to chief of police T. E. May. Smith assisted Mr. Kuykendall and Mr. Cummins in making plans for the endurance test.

Cummins will drive the Chevrolet through Lubbock county and South Plains, visiting before the trip has been completed all of the Chevrolet dealers of Division nine of the Chevrolet organization, Lubbock is the hub of this zone and when all of the dealers have been visited the 1926 model roadster will have been given over all kinds of roads, in leading places where sand makes the roads impassable for cars of lesser strength, while in some sections of the division stone-strewn highways will make going a wrecking process that will leave the car a mass of broken steel or place it upon a pedestal for endurance not achieved by many cars.

The car is equipped with Federal Balloon cord tires from the J. F. Rye Rubber Company, which rank case is filled with Veedoll from the 555 service station, which Howell Brothers are proprietors.

Cummins' friends have made arrangements to have Dr. Castleberg, informed of his whereabouts during the last hours of the drive in order that medical attention may be given him in case it is found necessary. Cummins will spend a great deal of his time in the vicinity of Lubbock.

ANNUAL MEETING RETAIL MERCHANTS WELL ATTENDED For their coming to the head of the homes of America. Here's hope that the Scouts of Lubbock will do their best to prove the good of Scouting in the school. And do their Good Turns Daily.

DAVIS MAKES REPORT After the artists had completed their part of the program President Gamel introduced Manager A. J. Davis, who took charge of the program reporting the work that has been accomplished by the Lubbock Retail Merchants Association during the past year and calling upon members for reports of the work as it had applied to their separate businesses.

Paul Sherrod, of Sherrod Bros. Hardware, and J. D. Hassell, of the Hemphill-Price company, made reports of the regular weekly credit meetings, declaring that the most good can be derived from these meetings only through a large attendance of the credit men having membership in the association.

Thousands of motorists have admired the concrete on Broadway which was laid in 1914. Its pleasing salmon pink color was obtained by adding red oxide to the concrete mixture. No one who has tested out its riding qualities will forget the pleasure of driving over this firm, rigid, unyielding surface.

It is even because it was built that way; and once in place concrete remains as built—firm, rigid, unyielding, unaffected by traffic and changing seasons. Concrete streets are also safe streets because they are skidproof. You know what that means.

GOVERNOR LIKELY BE ASKED FOR BIG REFUND

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Len Small's stormy career as governor of Illinois may be entering its final crisis as a result of the state supreme court's reaffirmation of its decision that he owes the people of Illinois $1,000,000 obtained by fraud while he was state treasurer five years ago.

Action to have Small impeached will be started soon by his prosecutors under that clause in the state constitution which provides that no person who fails to account for public funds entrusted to him is eligible to hold public office.

In reaffirming its original decision that Small must be held to account for the missing money that supreme court renewed vigorously its belief that the governor organized a fictitious bank for the purpose of enriching himself.

To this bank he is alleged to have loaned $30,000,000 of state money, turning some of the interest back to the state and pocketing the rest. The money was re-loaned at a high interest rate to Chicago Pack-ers.

At its March term the Sangamon county court will set the exact amount of the governor's liability. Meanwhile Small's political defendants have undertaken to collect by popular subscription from the voters a fund large enough to relieve the governor of the $1,000,000 payment he must make.

PHILIPPINOES ARE TO OFFER PRAYERS FOR FREEDOM

MANILA, Feb. 9.—Prayers for independence will be offered on Washington's birthday throughout the Philippines.

The date for prayer services was set Tuesday night by the supreme council, which leads parties campaigning for an unified defense fight. A form for various gatherings throughout the islands was decided upon a common prayer for all Filipinos was recommended.

Secretaries and members of boards of directors of retail merchants associations at Lorenzo, Lamesa, Brownfield, Lockney, Slaton, Crosbyton, Ralls, Idalou and Leveland were in attendance at the meeting, and while it was impossible for all of them to be heard from several were called upon for extemporaneous talks.

Morgan Copeland, secretary of the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce, delivered an oration on the value of co-operation in business, citing instances wherein lack of co-operation has caused failure to accompany the efforts of men and declaring that there is no room for lack of co-operation among organizations of the plains.

Slaton High to Publish a Year Book

SLATON, Feb. 8.—Slaton High School will publish a high school year book for the first time in five years, according to Jack D. Wester, principal of the high school. The book will be a pictorial history of this year's school work, and will contain many interesting pictures and incidents in the hundred pages which it includes.

The book is to be printed upon enameled paper and handsomely bound as it will be, it will be a credit to the school system. "We are working the high school annual and the weekly newspaper, along with our regular English work, giving the students not only a chance to study journalism through actual application, but training in the use of business English as well. The book is to be called the Tigers Liar, honoring the athletic name under which Slaton does battle, and although the book will be devoted to the entire school life, athletics will have a big place in its content.

"The issuance of this book," said Wester, "will be accomplished only with the expenditure of $1,000. We have been pursuing two methods in the raising of the money; we have sold advertising to those who were anxious for advertising in the book, but most of the money has been raised through class activities. Various carnivals, entertainments and shows have netted us the majority of the $900 which has already been raised, and we have the other $100 in sight."

Addie Mae Dickson is art editor. Alton Young is business manager, and Wilson McKirahan is editor-in-chief of the year book. Quite a number of the students of the senior high school are on the staff of the annual, and practically all of the work of arranging material for the books publication has been completed.

The Tigers Cage, a weekly publication, is being used to a great measure in compiling material for the year book. A great deal of the material used in the weekly will be used in the year book. Edda Belle Benton is editor of the editor-in-chief. C. W. Wilkes is acting as sports editor for both the weekly and the annual.

Italian Cardinal Gives Wrestler Formal Blessing

ROME, (United Press)—Cardinal Maffi of Pistoia has recently shown his personal interest in sport, and in the art of wrestling in particular by sending the Italian Greco-Roman champion of Europe, Giovanni Raicevich his blessing and good wishes for success in the match with the Czechoslovak Kavan.

Cardinal Maffi received Raicevich in private audience after the latter's victory over the German champion and had a long talk with him on the subject of Greco-Roman wrestling, which it seems the cardinal understands, having practiced the sport in his youth.

The cardinal said that Greco-Roman wrestling was a fine sport, because it made a man strong and healthy, and did not excite his brutal instincts.

Sport generally is greatly in favor with the present regime, for Mussolini, after winning a winning fight put up by Bruno Fratini, the middle-weight champion was so pleased with him that he ordered him to be nominated a "cavaliere" of the Crown of Italy.

TODAY'S RECIPES

EGGS EN COCOTTE—Eggs en cocotte are prepared by buttering small individual baking dishes or ramekins and pouring into them a small quantity of cream. An egg is then broken into each dish and they are baked until the yolks are semi-solid. Serve in the dishes in which they were baked.

Planked Ham—Cut a slice of boiled ham from the center of the ham about an inch and a half thick. Dip it in a mixture of a tablespoon each of lemon and onion juice and two tablespoons of melted butter. Dust well with cinnamon and sugar mixed and place it on the center of the plank. Surround it with small pared potatoes that have been dipped in the same mixture and set in the oven. Cook for thirty to thirty-five minutes. If the ham seems to dry on top sprinkle a little of the butter mixture on top, dredge very lightly with flour, and when brown send to table. Garnish with lemon quarters dipped in chopped parsley.

Parsnips—Peel the parsnips—always peel vegetables as close to the skin as possible, with many of them the best part lies directly under the skin. Slice them across in about inch thick pieces, and boil in as little water as possible until they are tender. This varies with the age and size of the parsnip, but half an hour is usually sufficient. Heat a couple of tablespoons of good drippings in a thick frying pan—you may use either butter or bacon fat—put in the parsnips and brown on both sides. Sprinkle salt and pepper over them when you take them off. Many people like to

Floyd County to Promote County Parks

FLOYDADA, Feb. 9.—Possibility that Floyd County will follow the example set by Lubbock in the matter of a county park system is indicated by the interest being shown here and at Lockney in such a system. The Lockney Chamber of Commerce recently adopted the county park system for Floyd county, as one of its objectives for the year, and representatives of that organization at the Booster's Luncheon Club in Floydada Monday—Misses Floyd Huff and Lawrence Gruber—told of some of the advantages such parks will have for the county.

James Check, prominent Oklahoma City attorney, who has been on the south plains for several days on business, was one of the speakers at Monday's luncheon of the business men here. "No need to tell you people what a fine country you have," he said "find what you readily admit it."

Improvements Made by Texas Utilities at Slaton

SLATON, Feb. 6.—A new transformer has been added to the equipment of the Texas Utility Company in Slaton. This new transformer is of 75 kw. capacity and weighs 3240 pounds. It was purchased and delivered in Slaton at a cost of $2200 to the Utility Company. This new unit will be used as a supplement to three other transformers that are now in use in Slaton. The work of these electrical machines is to step-down a current of 23,000 volts to 2,300 volts, making it suitable for local use.

Floyd Schools to Seek State Aid For Schools

FLOYDADA, Feb. 9.—Twenty out of thirty two rural schools of Floyd county, are asking for state aid according to Price Scott, county school superintendent.

J. S. Roscoe of Austin, State Aid Inspector, will arrive here Wednesday and spend four days investigating these schools.

Fred Beauvais former Indian guide friend of Mrs. "Fifi" Stillman, is suing her for $7,621.80, for "work done and money advanced." Those who had begun to fear that they should hear no more of that racy romance may be reassured.

The 1925 spinach crop of Texas amounted to 4,639,000 bushels and it was worth $2,876,000.

VON STROHEIM'S MUCH TALKED OF GREED COMING. Eight or nine years ago Erich von Stroheim "discovered" the motion picture potentialities of McTeague, the American classic by Frank Norris. But it required nearly a decade of effort before the picture was directed by a producing company with sufficient vision to back him in the picture of this powerful story. That was the Metro-Goldwyn company.

In 1915 von Stroheim was a struggling screen actor. He read "McTeague," and immediately was fired with the ambition to produce the story. Realizing his own lack of directorial experience, he hoped at that time to interest some producer in the story and confine his work to writing the scenario or, in other words, making the adaptation. With this object in view, he attempted either to purchase the story or obtain a notion on it. After some extensive correspondence with the publishers of "McTeague," he learned that the film rights had been sold, and the matter was in litigation.

This picture will be shown at the Palace tonight.

When L. M. Charlton, witness in a Chicago court, was asked his occupation he said that he was "a decorator; a beauty doctor."

Sugar. Still feel purchases on slight setback will prove profitable eventually.

Coffee. Still favor purchases of new crop months on all good recessions.

Cotton Opinions. Hicks and Williams—Market looks again attractive at the decline.

Weld and Co.—For the time being market seems apt to remain in a scalping range.

Hubbard Bros.—The market remains steady and it is rather hard to predict the next move until we have fresh information on which to work.

Orvis Bros.—It is improbable that any immediate important fluctuations will develop, but rather quotations will continue their movements within a restricted range, which suggests purchases on business and sales on strength.

Cotton. Liverpool says—American and Continental selling there.

The weekly weather is likely to be favorable tomorrow reports of good progress in preparation.

A few of the March shorts have been run out but there is still a big short interest in that option and we look for it to continue very strong.

Grain Opinions. Bartlett Frantz—May be more liquidation in wheat but we are strongly of the opinion that better buying power will appear further declines.

Hulburo Warren—The entire grain list closed weak and looks lower.

Lamson Bros.—This reaction may go some further, but would use good desire to buy wheat for moderate lots.

Harris Winthrop—While conservatism is called for in wheat after such a break, double if the world situation has been wholly adjusted. Corn needs a better cash demand.

Local sentiment was decidedly bearish with general selling in evidence, and the market became weaker as the day progressed with a large eastern operator going out of his line. The best buying toward the last came from traders who were sellers higher up. The technical conditions were largely responsible for the decline, as there was nothing in the news to account for the selling outside markets, failed to reflect fully the weakness in wheat here. With liquidation on an slack of aggressive support here the decline in corn and oats was easily attained.

Canadian Pacific declared regular quarterly dividend of 2 1-2 per cent on common and regular semi-annual of 2 per cent on preference stock.

COTTON LETTER. Furnished by Fanner & Beane.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Feb. 9.—Cotton moved but little today and ended practically unchanged from the previous finals. There was a little liquidation in March but the demand from shorts absorbed this and it had no effect on the market.

Predictions of a favorable weekly review Wednesday, claims that there were signs of an over production of goods in this country and of slack spot demand were put forward by those bearishly inclined in an effort to induce liquidation in March.

The generally accepted view is that there is apt to be a strong demonstration in March before long and that it should help the market. This probably reduces the volume of short sales more than anything else.

NE ORLEANS, Feb. 9.—Market was strong today owing to rally in lard and improving demand for oil, contracts were scarce and there were a good many buying orders under the market. Refiners believe market has again turned for the better and should rally further.

Spots steady 5 higher 10.65.

CHAIN LETTER. Furnished by Fanner & Beane.

CHICAGO, Feb. 9.—Wheat—It is quite within the natural order of events that the wheat market should have some reaction after the severe liquidation experienced yesterday.

Support in the market has come from previous sellers instead of from new investment sources. The situation in the cash market has not been improved except that milling centers find a little more interest on the part of buyers and premiums for cash wheat are steady instead of weak.

Export trade consisted of a few scattered sales, but nothing of importance, advices of this nature come from Winnipeg as well as the seaboard. Broomhall expresses the belief that consumption is below normal and that native supplies are too large to warrant expectation of any active buying by importers.

The weekly report on crop conditions some damage by alternate frosts and thawing and by high winds. Inasmuch as the market has lost leadership on the bull side, confidence has been severely shaken and foreign buyers still uninterested, there seems no basis for expecting a return of higher prices.

NEW YORK FINANCE. BY TODD W. WRIGHT. United News Financial Editor.

NEW YORK, Feb. 9.—all street has concluded that there is no reason why the weakness in food stocks, resulting from the government's investigation of the combination of food producing companies, should affect the rest of the list.

This reasoning resulted Tuesday in a suspension of aggressive buying activities which restored a good deal of the shakken confidence in the market.

The advance of American Can to record levels did much to arouse speculative enthusiasm and the closing going found the majority of active stocks at their best prices for the day. The strength of American Can was in response to the publication of the company's 1925 earning report which showed a balance of $32.74 on each common share, a most remarkable achievement.

The financial community Tuesday was surprised to learn that negotiations are in progress between Southern Pacific Railroad and the National Railways of Mexico for control of the latter's 160 mile subsidiary road in the United States, the Texas & Mexican Railway. The Missouri Pacific has been bidding for the road but it is reported the Southern Pacific is offering terms which the Missouri Pacific isn't willing to meet.

The road runs between Corpus Christi on the Southern Texas gulf coast line, west through an agricultural and oil district and across the Southern Pacific's newly acquired San Antonio & Arkansas Pass Railroad to Laredo, Texas, an important gateway to Mexico.

Southern Pacific's need for an entrance through Mexico's eastern states has been greatly increased by the rounding out of the Missouri Pacific system. The acquisition of this new road would establish a third border connection with the Southern Pacific.

MIX IS DIFFERENT IN PICTURE FROM GREGORY'S NOVEL. Tom Mix has a role of a different sort in "The Everlasting Whisper," a fast-moving story of the Northwest by Jackson Gregory, famous novelist of the out-of-doors school. The picture tonight at the Lindsey Theatre for a 3-day engagement.

There are thrills enough to satisfy any taste in this William Fox production and the story is given added interest by a pretty romance in which Tom proves himself an ardent and persuasive wooer.

Alice Calhoun, as the heroine, is most captivating and lends a feminine appeal to this picture of rugged men and the great outdoors. One doesn't blame Tom, for risking his life for her—and sympathizes deeply with him when it looks as if he were going to lose her, even though she is his wife.

The climax is a realistic fight in a cave high up in the mountains where Tom mixes it freely with a gang of outlaws led by Brody. This is the high spot in the action. The doughty Tom, of course, vanquishes his foes, and the girl adds the finishing touch by her presence of mind just as Tom is about to be hurled over a cliff.

It's good, old-fashioned melodrama with a rousing finish, and if it doesn't make you grip the edge of your seat, there's something wrong with your red blood!

Robert Cain makes a most suave and hatable villain, while Tony, the celebrated horse, comes in for a share of the honors.

One of the notable features of "The Everlasting Whisper" is the excellent photography of the snow country. Some of the long shots of the mountain are veritable pieces of art—worthy of framing if they were reduced to "stills."

Statement of the State's Finances, Etc., Made by W. Gregory Hatcher, State Treasurer, at the Expiration of First Year

Believing that the tax payers of this State are interested, and should have from me, as State Treasurer, a brief report of the conduct of this office during my first year's administration, and sickness having prevented my making this informal report at the beginning of the second year, January 16th, I am now giving out the following statement for publication through the press.

The records of the Treasury Department show that on the 31st day of August, 1924, the State of Texas went on a deficiency and at the time I assumed the duties of State Treasurer, there was a deficiency of about $2,052,000, in the General Revenue Fund. On February 25th following, having received sufficient funds, I issued a call for all outstanding warrants and the State went on a cash basis and has remained upon a cash basis continuously since that date.

Within a few days after taking office, I transferred about two million dollars of State funds from Austin Reserve Depository Banks, where they were drawing interest at rate of two per cent per annum to State Depository Banks scattered over the State where they would draw four per cent interest. This was shortly followed by the creation of twenty additional State Depository Banks, and the placing of another half million dollars of State funds at four per cent interest. On March 1st, $2,000,000, funds in Reserve Depository Banks in Austin had reached the sum of $8,500,000. Immediately afterwards I obtained the passage of a resolution by the Depository Board creating Reserve Depository Banks in the ten "centrally located cities" of Texas with a population of twenty-five thousand, or more, inhabitants, and for the first time, State funds were deposited in Reserve Banks outside of the city of Austin.

During July and August, I visited twenty-one counties in the drought area, (at my own expense), and in October obtained the passage of a resolution by the Depository Board allowing me to deposit two-thirds of the funds allotted to State Depository Banks, amounting to over $2,000,000, with the drought area banks, the same being secured by a surety bond in double the amount of the deposit. Seeing that the State was going on a deficiency, as it had done for four years previously on October 15th, I wrote to all county tax collectors asking their assistance by remitting tax monies at that as collected. This was followed by a personal visit by me to the larger counties, and I obtained about $200,000, which kept the State off of deficiency for two weeks. I visited the Reserve Depository Banks in my home town, Dallas, and they agreed to let me have a million dollars to keep the State off of deficiency. Austin Banks then voted to advance a half million. Reserve Depository Banks in other Reserve cities offered their assistance.

On November 1st, the Banks of Austin advanced $500,000. On December 1st, Dallas and Austin banks advanced $750,000, and on January 1st, Dallas and Austin Banks advanced $1,500,000, and Ft. Worth and San Antonio Banks shortly afterwards advanced $500,000, making a total of about $2,000,000, carried by the banks of these four cities, and for which they received no interest. On January 9th, I repaid the Austin banks, and made partial payment to the Dallas Banks. I am now owing about $750,000 which will be paid during the next ten days if sufficiency funds are received during that time.

Credit for keeping the State off of deficiency should be given to the named. It was their assistance, and splendid co-operation which enabled your State Treasurer to keep the State on a cash basis. This will be quickly shown by referring to the State Comptroller's reports which showed that on November 1st, there was only $7,841 in General Revenue; and that warrants to the amount of $2,007,619 were outstanding and unpaid; that on December 1st, there was only $35,080 in General Revenue, and that outstanding warrants amounted to $2,114,996; that on January 1st, 1926, there was only $75,729, in General Revenue, and that warrants to the amount of $3,226,000, were outstanding and unpaid.

I now have deposited with State Depository Banks about three million dollars drawing four per cent interest, and with Reserve Depository Banks in nine Reserve cities about $6,000,000. Nearly all of the Reserve Depository Banks are now paying two and one-fourth, and two and one-half per cent interest, instead of two per cent, the amount previously paid by the mfor reserve funds.

A friendly mandamus suit was filed by the Attorney General in the Supreme Court to determine whether the Oil Royalty monies received from University Oil Lands, should be deposited in the Available Building Fund for the University of Texas, as provided for in an act passed by the 39th Legislature, or to the Permanent Fund. This case was submitted on January 7th, and the decision of the court is awaited to govern the deposit of this fund. In the meantime, the State Treasurer has this money now amounting to $2,083,150, deposited with Depository Banks drawing interest at the rate of about three and one-half per cent per annum.

Every warrant presented to the State Treasurer since the State went on a cash basis, February, 1925, has been paid either by him, or by the banks with whom he arranged for payment, and no employee, individual, or corporation has ever had to discount a warrant.

Jardine Invited to Open Texas Hereford Assn.

FORT WORTH, Texas, Feb. 9.—Hon. W. M. Jardine, Secretary of Agriculture, whom it is understood has tentatively agreed to address the convention of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Convention in March, has been invited by John C. Burns, secretary of the Texas Hereford Association, to open the new sales pavilion at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, March 8 to 13.

Mr. Burns' letter of invitation to the Secretary was as follows: "January 16, 1926. 'Hon. W. M. Jardine, Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, D. C. 'Dear Mr. Jardine: We are much pleased to learn that you are planning to attend the meeting of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Raisers' Association, to be held in this city March 9, 10 and 11, during the week of the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, which is also held here.

"We want you to attend the Show and would appreciate it very much if you would deliver a brief address to our breeders on the occasion of the opening of our Hereford Auction Sale, which will be held Wednesday, March 10th, beginning at 1 p. m. Our new sales pavilion will be used for the first time on this occasion and a large representation of Southwestern breeders of both registered and commercial cattle will be assembled. A message from you at that time, with the revival of interest in the cattle business and the generally better outlook for the industry, will be very encouraging and helpful.

"We also wish to extend to you an invitation to be our guest at the Annual Banquet of the Texas Hereford Association at the Texas Hotel this city, Tuesday evening at 7:00 o'clock."

An Erie Pennsylvania jury composed of eight men and four women, wrestled for 25 hours over the value of a dray horse, disagreed and were discharged. Ten of them agreed that the horse was worth something, but two insisted that 50 cents was too much. It cost the county $340 and the disputants as much more.

The Kansas City, Star credits Senator Oscar W. Underwood as having said, "It is a fundamental canon of taxation that all taxes are paid in the end from the accumulated wealth of the people." If the senator is quoted correctly it partially explains why he has never stood higher in the councils of the Democratic Party because what the senator says is not a canon of taxation. All taxes are paid in the end out of the annual production of wealth of the people. Whenever a people pays out of its accumulated wealth they are on the down hill grade, and will soon strike bottom.

L. D. Beckwith of The Forum, Stockton, California, says, "Our fatal mistake was made on the day we ceased to be nomads and settled down as fixed dwellers. We knew no property but personal property; we knew no laws of property but those of personal property. We ignorantly carried over to real property (so-called) the laws of personal property, not knowing that they do not apply because the two kinds are affected in exactly opposite directions by economic forces. We did not understand that whereas taxes made personal property higher-priced, taxes lower the price of land."

Rousseau declares: "The greatest enemy of the human race was the man to whom it first occurred to put a ring fence around a piece of land and to announce 'this is mine.'"

The railroads have fallen upon evil days indeed. The motor bus and truck have taken the short haul passengers and freight, so increased freight rates are demanded to make up for this loss. Then increased taxes invite more competition. It also tends to decentralize industry, giving more short hauls and still more competition. Hard lines indeed!

COLORADO STATE CAPITOL WITHOUT FIRE INSURANCE

DENVER, Colo., Feb. 9.—The Colorado State Capitol Building, pride of the entire state, soon is to be without fire insurance. Policies now covering damage by fire and aggregating more than $2,000,000 will expire during the latter part of March. There is no money to renew them and now with which the state can carry its own insurance. The predicament, for which no state official has been able to offer a solution, was brought about when the twenty-fifth general assembly of the state enacted a law providing that the state should carry its own insurance and that policies on state-owned buildings now in force in private companies should be discontinued.

Murray to Speak at Brownwood Farm Meeting

R. J. Murray, land commissioner for the Santa Fe, will be one of the principal speakers at a joint meeting of members of the Terry County Farm Bureau and the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce February 23. Mr. Murray has taken special interest in crop diversification on the plains and is well prepared to enter into a discussion of farm needs on the plains.

He attended the meeting that was held here Monday at which Col. C. C. French, representing the Fort Worth Stock Yards Company and the West Texas Chamber of Commerce spoke on the necessity of restocking West Texas farms with purebred hogs, and took special note of the argument presented by Col. French.

"The Brownfield section is especially prepared to take care of larger number of hogs than are kept in any one section of the country, and the corn production there would especially prove more profitable if fed to purebred hogs," Mr. Murray said.

ARGENTINE PRESIDENT REGARDED AS "LUCKY"

BUENOS AIRES, (United Press) Argentina's "lucky president," Dr. Alvear continues to bring luck to those who are associated with him. In the recent 2,000,000 Peso Christmas lottery, a group of servants belonging to private resident of the President divided a 10,000-Peso prize among them.

On a recent journey to Buenos Aires from France, several members of the crew on the ship bearing Argentina's president bought a lottery ticket after they reached Buenos Aires. The "lucky president" did his part, and the sailors drew the first prize of 100,000 Pesos.

Irene Kelley, 8-year-old girl of St. Paul, got a spool lodged in her throat but was able to breathe through the hole while an operation was performed.

23 ANNIVERSARY OF REXALL DRUG STORES

Forty progressive druggists formed the Rexall partnership 23 years ago this month. Their purpose was to manufacture drug store merchandise through a company they named the United Drug Company, and to sell it through all Rexall Drug Stores so that their customers could SAVE WITH SAFETY!

Today there are 10,000 Rexall drug stores in the United States alone, and the United Drug Company's business last year was over $70,000,000.
