

Trinity United Methodist Sets Harvest Program

The annual Harvest Festival and acceptance of Lord's Acre gifts will be held at Trinity United Methodist Church Wednesday evening, Jan. 8, the Rev. Lloyd Futch, pastor, has announced.

The service will begin at 7 p.m.

Dr. Luther Kirk, superintendent of the Pampa District of the Methodist Church, will be the guest preacher. Now in his fourth year in that capacity, Dr. Kirk is a former pastor of Methodist Churches in Amarillo and a number of area towns.

He is well known in Wellington, for in addition to his official visits to the churches here, he was here many times when his daughter and son-in-law, the Rev. and Mrs. Davis Edens, were at First Methodist.

Mrs. R. H. Isbell is chairman of the program for the Harvest Festival. Billy Waters is president and treasurer of the Lord's Acre program.

The Rev. Mr. Futch explained that families participating in the Lord's Acre give the proceeds from one acre of crop to the church. Those of salaries give a designated portion.

The public is invited to attend this service, the pastor said.

DWI Charge Filed Dec. 25

Charges of driving while intoxicated were filed Christmas day against Odvar Melvin Labraaten of Esterhazy, Sask., Canada, Sheriff John Rainey reported.

The man was arrested while driving on US 83 about eight miles north of Wellington by Patrolmen Doug Wright and James Haley. He told officers he was en route to Indianoma, Okla.

Sheriff Rainey said Labraaten first entered a plea of "not guilty" and his bond was set at $500. He remained in jail in lieu of bond. The sheriff said Tuesday night that the man had told him he wanted to change his plea to guilty, and that he will appear in county court as soon as Judge Zook Thomas recovers from the flu and can return to his office.

Connie Daves to Hospital

Connie Daves, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Daves will return to the Scottish Rite Hospital in Dallas for additional tests and spinal shots that may relieve a paralysis that has developed in her left leg, her father said this week.

Therapy and other measures also may be tried, Mr. Daves added.

Their son, Royce Lee, was placed in corrective braces at night following a recent examination at the same hospital. If his condition is not improved by June, he probably will undergo surgery, the father said.

"Camelot"

Youth Center Sought by Student Group

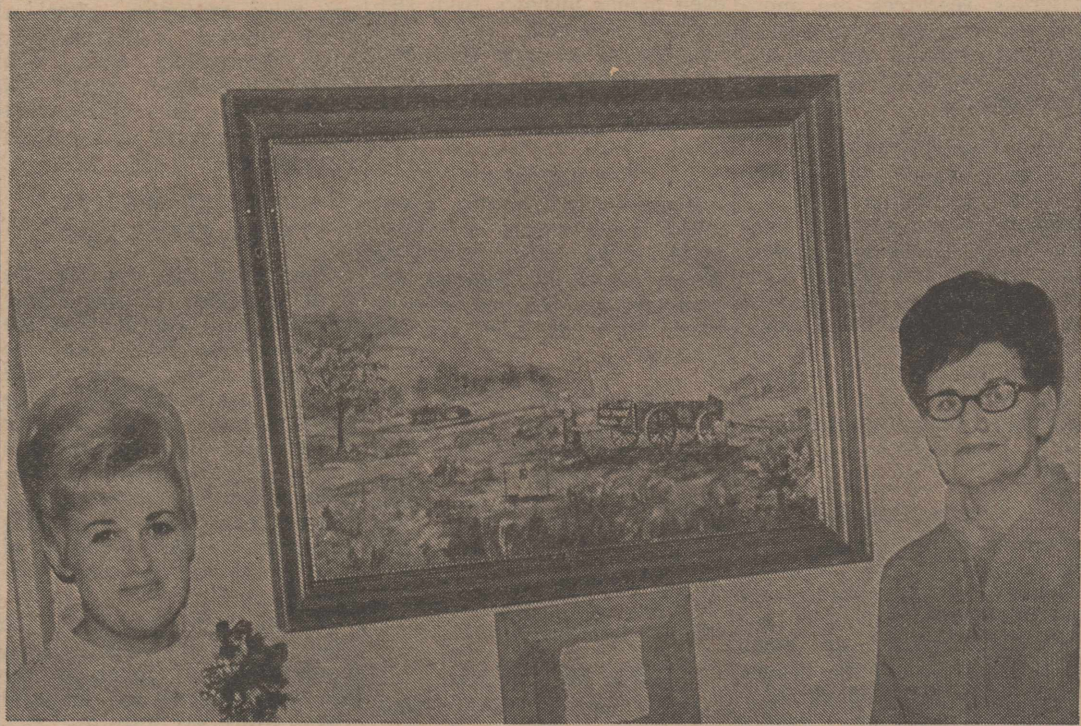

A group of Wellington high school students, under the leadership of the Skyrocket Youth Council, is seeking to organize a youth and recreation center which they say would be for the use of all boys and girls in the county.

Working with them is Police Chief Donald Nunnelley. "Camelot" has been chosen as the name.

It is still in the process of being organized and the group is trying to locate a building in which to set up the center.

Those working with the project say that 150 students have indicated they will join.

Chief Nunnelley said the members of the proposed center would pay dues of $2 per month. Camelot is purely recreational in nature, he con-

Moon Crater Is Named for County Native

A crater on the moon was named for a Collingsworth County native during the Apollo 8 lunar orbiting—a man just 26 years old.

He is John W. Aaron, Jr., an engineer in the control room of Mission Control Center at Houston, and the son of Mrs. John W. Aaron of Vinson. He is a brother of Mrs. Clinton Norman of Dodson, who teaches in Wellington High School.

His was one of two namings made on the spur of the moment by the three astronauts, Col. Frank Borman, Capt. James A. Lovell, Jr., and Maj. William A. Anders, and he was chosen for having spotted a minor mechanical problem aboard the spacecraft, allowing the astronauts time to repair it before trouble arose.

Mr. Aaron told The Wellington Leader by phone Wednesday morning that the defect was one of the evaporators in the cooling system not functioning. Had it not been found, it would have resulted in an overheating problem.

Mr. Aaron, whose console is just a few steps from that of Christopher Kraft, director of flight operations at the manned spacecraft center, has the tremendous responsibility for monitoring the electrical, environmental and communications systems of the Apollo Command and service modules.

He said Wednesday that a passive monitoring of the spacecraft began about 12 hours before lift-off, then the active monitoring was picked up immediately on lift-off.

His greatest concern came at the point of the Apollo 8 re-entry into the earth's atmosphere, when the historic flight was almost over.

Crater Aaron is one of only two namings made during the Apollo 8 mission, for the others which honored astronauts and spacecraft center personnel were made prior to the flight because ground and spacecraft need a way to identify landmarks.

John Aaron Jr., who was better known as Bud when he was growing up, was born in St. Joseph's Hospital Sept. 7, 1942, while the family lived at Quail.

He received his early education at Dodson and finished high school in Vinson in 1960, where he was an outstanding Future Farmer.

Friends recall he often accompanied his father, the late John Aaron, to livestock sales... the family at that time having a little difficulty getting him to attend school on sale days.

Mr. Aaron received his B.S. degree in 1964 at Southwestern State College in Weatherford, Okla., graduating as a physicist. Immediately following his graduation, he was employed as Mission Control engineer at NASA in Houston.

He is married to the former Cheryl Hart, also of Vinson. The Apollo 8 flight over, they and their children, Kimberly and John William III, are visiting their families this week at Vinson.

14 Take ACT Tests

Fourteen Wellington High School students took the American College Tests for college entrance, held in Shamrock Thursday, Dec. 19.

These included Barry Johnson, Jerry Woodbridge, Andy Lowe, Yates Parker, Eddie Patterson, Ricky Brown, Wanda Whitten, James Hooten, Judy Porter, June Popwell, Mickey Ann Kendrick, Sharon Gaston, Larry Kane and Mary Lou Holton.

Several other students will take the test later, according to Louis Graham, high school counselor.

This test is accepted for entrance by most colleges except those of the Southwest Conference, which require the College Entrance Examination Board, Mr. Graham said.

Rev. Todd III at Plainview

The Rev. Ellis Todd, former pastor of First United Methodist Church here, is in a Plainview hospital recovering from a heart attack which he suffered Saturday, Dec. 21, Mrs. Todd has written friends here.

Transferred to McLean in June, 1968, he became ill and was hospitalized at Pampa for several weeks. He gave up his pastorate and he and Mrs. Todd planned to move to the home which they have in Plainview.

The move was made Dec. 19, two days before his heart attack.

"He sat up Dec. 27 for the first time," Mrs. Todd wrote. "Progress is slow, but Dr. Joe Horn is his doctor and I think he is in good hands."

The family home is 1209 Independence, Plainview.

1969 Soil Essay Contest Open to Students

Salt Fork Soil Conservation District will again sponsor the Fort Worth Press soil and water conservation essay contest among the boys and girls of Collingsworth County, according to Gary Reed, work unit conservationist of Soil Conservation Service.

This essay contest will be similar to those in the past, in which local schools have produced winners on both the area and state level.

The subject this year is "How Conservation Helps Texas."

"Any boy or girl resident of Texas may enter," said Mr. Reed. "You may be 19 years old or younger, in or out of school but not a high school graduate."

There is no limit to the number of words in the essay, but 300 words or less is suggested. Those wishing to enter may get help from their library, teacher or the soil conservation district supervisors.

The deadline for turning in the essays will be announced later, Mr. Reed explained. Before that time, however, an explanation will be given in all the county schools to the individuals or classes wishing to enter.

Prizes on the local level also will be announced. Area winners traditionally receive trophies and medals.

On the state level, the first prize is $200, plus 50 trophies and medals to other winners.

The soil conservation essay contest is only one of the series of Save the Soil and Save Texas contests sponsored by the Fort Worth Press. Salt Fork SCD has been a consistent winner in these for many years.

Roger Babson Reports

Business to Reach New Peak; Peace Unlikely

By Babson's Reports, Inc.

Wellesley Hills, Mass.—Dec. 26.—President Nixon will take over in January in a continuing national and international "state of siege". His major legacy from the outgoing administration will be Vietnam, a militarily resurgent Russia, inflation, and a dollar that is not yet "out of the woods".

WAR AND PEACE

Much of the difficulty in which the United States finds itself today, both at home and abroad, can be laid squarely on the doorstep of a terrible error in national policy. The great mistake was the belief that we could fight a war in Southeast Asia and conduct "business as usual" elsewhere.

The result was an immensely unpopular conflict and the setting in motion of a massive inflationary wave. The effects of both tragedies will continue to scourge our people with social divisiveness and economic inequalities for an untold length of time.

Mrs. Henry J. Wischkaemper Dies Here Sun.

Mrs. Henry J. Wischkaemper, a resident of the county almost half a century and the widow of a long-time Collingsworth County agricultural leader, died in St. Joseph's Hospital at 12:40 a.m. Sunday, Dec. 29, after a long illness. She was 72.

Most of Mrs. Wischkaemper's life here was spent in the Quail area, but in recent years she had made her home in Wellington.

She was born July 22, 1896 in Yorktown. The former Lillie Sauerlich, she was the daughter of the late Carl and Marie Sauerlich. She was educated at Yorktown and married there to Mr. Wischkaemper Feb. 22, 1919. A month later they came to Collingsworth County to make their home.

From then on, her life was devoted to her family and her community. No small part of it was in the help and encouragement she gave her husband in the many ways in which he exercised leadership in the county. She shared with him his work in behalf of agriculture in this part of the state. He was a man with a fine education, a keen mind and compassionate heart, and it was fitting that he should be one of the men to organize the Quail School District in 1935, and to serve for a long period as a trustee. All this, Mrs. Wischkaemper shared with him.

She, too, had the qualities of caring about others and a concern for their welfare.

Mrs. Wischkaemper was a member of the Lutheran Church and the Rebekah Lodge. Here she attended Trinity United Methodist Church.

Funeral services were conducted at 2:30 p.m. at First Baptist Church. Officiating were the Rev. Leroy Gaston, pastor; the Rev. Daniel Schorlemer, Lutheran pastor at Seguin; and the Rev. Lloyd Futch of Trinity Church.

Burial was in the family plot in Fairview Cemetery under the direction of Kelso Funeral Home.

Palbearers were Marvin Knoll and these members of her family: Bill Wischkaemper, Theodore Wischkaemper, Edgar Wischkaemper, James Wischkaemper and Joe Henry Wischkaemper.

In honor of her memory, the Quail School was dismissed on Tuesday. Her son, Carl, is president of the board of trustees.

Survivors include her son, Carl Wischkaemper; a daughter, Mrs. E. A. Lancaster of Seattle, Wash.; a step-son, Theodore Wischkaemper of Fort Worth; two brothers and four sisters: Hilmer Sauerlich of Yorktown; Max Sauerlich of Houston; Mrs. Edgar Brauer of Victoria; and Mrs. Ferd Stanchos, Mrs. Ben Meyer and Mrs. Ervin Huber of Yorktown. There are five grandchildren.

24,200 Bales Harvested with Crop 90% Out

Approximately 24,200 bales of Collingsworth's 1968 cotton crop has been harvested and it is estimated the crop now is 90% harvested, or 95% in some areas.

If this is the case, a crop of between 26,000 and 27,000 bales would still be one of the best the county has raised in several years.

One fact stands out: yields have been good in those areas not damaged by floods or hail. Some growers say they are the best they have ever had.

For the first time, there is dry land cotton in the county that has produced two bales per acre. This yield has been reached in the county on irrigated land several years in the past, but not on dry land.

In fact, in most areas, good dry land cotton is out-producing that which was irrigated, gin managers report.

There has been some drop in grade and staple in the Wellington area, with most of the lint averaging strict low middling light spot, according to Jack Kopp of the Farmers Co-Op Gin.

This crop did not quite come up to expectations on micronaire. Some of it is just on the line, around 3.5, while other has dropped below the premium figure.

Many factors enter into the micronaire, it is pointed out, and most local gin managers have a different idea.

Raymond Cearley, manager of the Dodson Co-Op Gin, noted that some of the factors affecting the micronaire are the type of cotton itself, time of planting, maturity of the fiber when it is harvested, and even the type of soil.

Others have said they believe cool nights in July contributed to the low micronaire, as well as a dry spell late in the season.

Micronaire on some of the cotton in the Dodson area is reported as still holding up well; on other cotton it is low.

This has not been an expensive crop to raise, Alonzo Cartwright pointed out, other than having to plant over.

The shortage of cotton trailers which slowed harvesting earlier in the season is past, and almost any grower can get as many as he needs, Grover Graham of Davis Gin, Dodson, said.

In the Lutie area, Bill Oldham said there is not more than 175 bales left in the field. He added that most of his customers were satisfied with their production, but certainly were not satisfied with the price they are getting, much of which is ranging from 15.25 to 19.15 cents.

Some of the yields have been up to a bale and a half on both dry land and irrigated

New Flashers Ruined

Vandals Strike Many Times Over Holidays

Vandals using rocks, beer bottles and pop bottles heavily damaged the two new flashing traffic lights being installed at the Wellington Schools and St. Joseph's Hospital - Wellington Clinic — before they could even be connected to the power lines. The cost of these two lights alone is $400.

Police Chief Donald Nunnelley reported this and other acts of vandalism during the Christmas holidays.

The west traffic light, located west of Elementary School, was ruined Christmas night. Both flasher lamps and light bulbs were destroyed and a beer bottle was inserted in one light socket.

The following night, the traffic light located at the hospital and clinic suffered "tremendous damage". The metal box housing the electronic timing equipment was torn off and carried away. The sign was hit with a number of pop and beer bottles and was struck through the heavy metal. Officers counted approximately a dozen dents or breaks. Numerous bottles and rocks were left lying about.

Sunday night, vandals struck the Wellington high school for the third time in recent weeks, breaking two window panes in the library, Chief Nunnelley said.

The glass was broken on the large sign in front of First Baptist Church.

He joined the postal service almost eight years ago and has served as city carrier and also worked in the office.

The Quail Route extends in all directions from that town.

Band Boosters Meet January 6

Boom Spots Too

But, if we may need fewer bombs and less TNT, we shall surely have a lot of work to do in order to catch up in modern weaponry. For while we have been tied down in

Recession Pockets

Peace will not come in Vietnam like the dropping of a

—See page 2

Vietnam, we have been neglecting our defense posture elsewhere... especially the application of the most up-to-date research and development. 1969 will not feel the full impact of the coming arms catchup; but it will see a strong beginning. Emphasis will be on silent submarines, lasers for use with both offensive and defensive weaponry, much more highly sophisticated computerized control of short- and long-range missiles, deployment of the latest ABM system, greater versatility and mobility in battlefield nuclear "artillery," a completely new tank fleet, another generation of manned attack fighter and bombers, etc. It will add up to greater spending on new armament than to real saving or cutbacks in the older types. Note, too, that the stress will be on expensive technological devices... requiring highly skilled management and labor.

Space Revival
We have made great strides in space penetration... despite our occupation with the jungles and twamps of Southeast Asia. Yet, our progress has lacked the impetus of the early years after Sputnik. Just now, recurring reports indicate a real likelihood that Russia will score a significant "space spectacular"... probably some time soon. Should this be the case, we foresee a new source of spending on more massive boosters and on more refined vehicles... both manned and unmanned. Again, observe that the big need will be for skilled men and highly complicated machines.

Russia Resurgent
The Russian Bear is no longer emitting friendly grunts of detente. Thoroughly aroused by near-revolution on his very doorstep—and the gateway to his heartland—by the Czech stirrings for freedom in the summer of 1968, he will not risk any "repeat performance" in 1969. It will be the "hard line" for the Kremlin throughout the coming year; and the Nixon Administration will be shoved off balance many a time. Most ominous is the powerful strengthening of the Soviet Mediterranean fleet; for there it is in direct contact with American and other NATO warships. Once more, it will be a case of urgent defense needs taking precedence over pressing social demands. The issue of "guns or butter" will persist throughout 1969. Too much attention to either or both could well lead to a price-wage spiral in our economy... with all the threat of a deflationary plunge thereafter.

INFLATION STILL INCUBATING
1968 will go down in economics as "the year of the great boo-boo". Early it was recognized that the economy was overheating... that a cooling off was necessary to prevent runaway price boosts and the inevitable aftermath of recession. The government opted for a fiscal "wet blanket" to smother the inflationary fires... and belatedly the surtax on personal and corporate incomes was enacted, effective mid-1968.

But the boom rolled on... confounding both the Federal Reserve—the country's money managers—and the President's Council of Economic Advisers. What happened? Two things: (1) The Fed thought the surtax would cause "overkill" in business, so opened the money spigots wider... stimulating buying just when the tax was supposed to depress it; (2) Mr. and Mrs. J. Q. Public sharply cut their rate of savings and went on a buying spree... augmenting their fling with big gobs of borrowed money.

More to Come
So, here we are: Months after the "tax to kill inflation", prices of goods and services are still spiraling upward. This, of course, goads the workingman to support his labor boss when he demands outside hikes in pay and benefits. Even though the Fed now gives signs of having moved to lessen the money rise from gusher rate to a more gentle flow, the floods of prior months will continue to seep through business and financial channels... at least during the early part of 1969.

Our staff here at Babson's Reports looks for "more of the same" during the first half of the year: Higher price tags, further wage raises in excess of productivity gains, continued up-pressure on costs all around, and the inexorable fattening of the tax burden—not alone from the perennial upswEEP of state and local levies, but also from the substantial step-rate in social security charges. Indeed inflation is still incubating. The virus is virulent. The antitoxin is known. But the political medicos that will administer it have not yet come forth.

Number One Problem
Mr. Nixon knows that inflation is the one force that can destroy this nation—financially, morally, even militarily. He also knows that to move aggressively against it could plunge the U.S. into a depression. The latter state might be worse than the former. It seems likely, then, that he will move slowly against the incubus of perpetually climbing costs and prices. Fortunately, the incoming President has the advantage of the anti-inflationary moves made in the late days of President Johnson's tenure. We expect that he will move cautiously to augment these. As a result, we look for no spectacular attack on the country's number one enemy in the opening days of Nixon's office. That means there will be further portents of inflation early next year... later in 1969 you can look for many signs of a topping off, even maybe some DEflationary signals.

STRONG START FOR DOLLAR
Unlike a year earlier—when the dollar was under world suspicion and attack—the "good ole buck" will start 1969 with a halo over it. The big bad wolf—President de Gaulle of France—who led an all-out offensive against the dollar in 1967 and early 1968 is now pretty "dead" insofar as any lethal threat to it in 1969 is concerned. His own franc had to have a good many blowout patches applied at the end of 1968 to keep it rolling.

It is not that the dollar has gained any real fundamental strength in recent months; rather it is that the pound and the franc got so weak that, by contrast, the dollar gained stature. Excellent co-operation with the U.S. by Germany has caused the deficit in our international payments to all but disappear. Then, too, our nation did move toward fiscal restraint when it enacted the surtax. Finally, with the pound sick and the franc tottering, the other stable currency areas such as the German, Swiss, and Dutch just did not have sufficient size and room to accommodate all those financial refugees who might have been seeking shelter.

Could Be Only Temporary
But it is too early yet to crow. Our dollar may still fall victim to a recurrence of the persistent weakness in our international payments position that has marked our relationship with the rest of the Free World for 90% of the last two decades. Actually, the final-half 1968 strength in our balance of payments has not been the result of an improvement in our trade or payments position. Its good health then was more apparent than real... resulting from financial transactions, capital movements toward our shores—some of them flights from the currency ills of Europe, some for speculation in our stock markets, some "deals" between our Treasury and Germany to keep the mark from getting too strong and the dollar too weak.

Barring cataclysmic developments on the military front, the dollar should occasion us no great concern for 1969. However, the Babson prediction still stands... that the dollar may be living on probation, even on borrowed time, if the new Administration lets prices and costs run wild... or even if it cracks down too hard on inflation, touching off a recession. The things it must do: (1) Keep the federal budget close to balance; (2) persuade the money managers to maintain a moderate, not too stimulating increase in the money stock; (3) crack down on speculative excesses; (4) curb the underlying causes of our deficits in international payments... namely, faltering exports, soaring imports, non-competitive (with nations abroad) prices and costs (which are the faults of both business and management leaders).

The dollar is now in the "eve" of a tremendous national and international inflationary hurricane. Its respite will be but temporary. To bring it through the "other side" in late 1969 or 1970 will be a Herculean task for the new Administration. Indeed, Mr. Nixon and his advisers will have to do a veritable "tight-rope act" above the Seylla of inflation on the one side and the Charybdis of DISinflation on the other. 1969 will witness the first scenes of the act.

BUSINESS TO SCALE NEW PEAKS IN 1969
The momentum built by rising business volumes and production will surely carry the usual measurements of Gross National Product and the Federal Reserve Index of Production onto new all-time high ground in the year 1969. But that is not the whole story. What you want to know is what the rate of gain will be and what the shape of the year, businesswise, will look like.

Gross National Product
Total dollar value of all goods and services finished 1968 on a strong note... at nearly a $20-billion gain. That is only slightly less than the best 1968 quarter of $22 billion. Prospects now favor a good further boost in the first 1969 quarter... perhaps equivalent to the $18-billion advance of the third 1968 stretch. The second quarter of next year may slip a bit from the first; but the upcoming half year will show a climb in dollar values perhaps only $3-$4-billion below the great bulge of a year earlier. Assuming no dropping of the surtax, we look for a lesser rate of gain in the final 1969 half... another big year, but tapering as it wears along. Over all, expect a GNP upthrust over 1968 of close to 7% (about $60 billion).

Physical Volume
Physical output is not expected to match the dollar value of increase in 1969... not surpassing, as more than half of the looked-for improvement will result from higher prices. Assuming the Federal Reserve Index of Production averages around 165 for 1968, we can project about a 4-point climb in the year ahead. But again, we think the best will be seen early in 1969.

Capital Outlays
Despite a continuing depressed rate of plant utilization, business managers are projecting increased budgets for new plant and equipment. Look for a strong start—perhaps as high as an 8% increase—to be followed by a slower rate of gain as the year ages. For all of 1969, a 4% betterment would seem about the best to expect.

Profits
Total corporate profits in the first half of 1969 will outdistance those of the year-earlier period... they may even equal the strong final six months of 1968. Here again, however, squeezed by inflationary costs and somewhat less boisterous demand, we look for a down-drift in profitability before 1969 has advanced too far.

MONEY TO STAY COSTLY
The first half of 1969 may experience some moderate easing in short-term interest rates. This will be occasioned by lessened federal demand for loans

... as the budget moves from deficit to surplus and the Treasury has no need to borrow. Most of the easing, however, will show up in the Treasury 90-day bill rate. Long-term money may experience some temporary downjiggle... but over all Babson's Reports is not expecting any sustained slide-off from the most costly credit of the century. Also, as Uncle Sam comes back into the bond market later in the year, rates should again stiffen.

Mortgage Costs
No real relief is in sight here. Availability and rate may be somewhat more favorable in the first half of 1969 than in the last. No incentive to postpone building or buying plans.

Business Loans
If the Treasury bill rate declines in the first half—as we expect—there will be much talk of lower costs for business loans. Here again, we feel that any easing will be tiny and temporary.

ANOTHER HIGH IN COMMON STOCKS

The buy - stocks - to - protect - against - inflation "bug" has bitten deeply. Most investors are convinced that a stock-buying formula is the best antidote for soaring living costs. New common-stock-oriented institutions are being formed "a mile a minute". Foreign investors are flocking back to U.S. securities markets. And corporate sales and earnings trends are supporting the convictions of the multiplying herds of bulls.

On pure momentum alone, we anticipate all-time highs in the Dow Industrials, as well as in the more comprehensive averages, during the forepart of 1969. If such does occur, however, we shall have our "fingers crossed" about the course of stocks during the time after mid-year... especially if market "fireworks" become particularly brilliant in the early 1969 days. Under these circumstances, cautious selecting may pay bigger dividends in 1969 than "playing the field."

Farm Equipments
One group that has hardly gotten off the ground in 1968 has been the agricultural machinery makers. Some good long-range values exist here in issues such as Deere and International Harvester.

Conglomerates
The big multiple-activity companies have certainly failed to shine in the year now closing. Some issues may hold low risk for investors with patience. Among such are Tectron, Gulf & Western Industries, and TRW Inc.

Chemicals
This once-favorite of securities fans has again passed a year in the market doldrums. Some indications of a turn-in-the-making are beginning to appear. We feel there is not too much risk in old-line concerns like Allied Chemical and Union Carbide at recent levels.

Containers
Another group that does not seem to have exhausted its investment potential is the containers... though they are not as cheap as they were a year ago. Our choice in this field would be Continental Can.

Fertilizers
After a long and painful stretch of being "put through the wringer," there are now some signs that moderately more profitable days may lie ahead for the plant-food makers. International Minerals & Chemical—with vast potential raw materials resources on more than one continent—appears to hold little risk at current levels for long-term purchasers with patience.

Life Insurance
Hailed five years ago as "the greatest" for appreciation, life company stocks overshot their dynamic possibilities and were disavowed by speculators for several years. In 1968, however, life stocks—with management becoming much more aggressive in diversifying—again began to stir. The persevering speculator might find opportunity in Life Insurance of Kentucky.

Electric Utilities
Electric power stocks, one of the soundest growth areas, are showing signs of emerging from the investment pall that has enshrouded them for some time. They offer both income and growth. Try Texas Utilities for the latter and Niagara Mohawk for the former.

BONDS STILL ON BARGAIN COUNTER
With stocks all the rage, bond buyers among individuals have become "scarcer than hens' teeth."

Yet bonds are selling at the lowest prices and the highest income yields of this century... yes, in many cases, for a full 100 years. We state emphatically: If the inflation prospects are as sure-fire, as pervasive, and as unpreventable as many would have us believe, we doubt that the ownership of common stocks will provide a truly safe passage through the inevitable maelstrom that will follow in inflation's wake. If the storm comes high-quality bonds may ride it out better than stocks. If it does not come, 6½%, 7% and even higher incomes from senior securities will furnish food and shelter to those dependent upon savings... and afford something left over with which to "feed" inflation.

For Big Income
If current high return is your major need—retired or supplemental—top-quality corporate issues of recent flotation are your best bet. Returns here run from 6½% to 77% for the "cream".

Income Plus Profit
Those who can take somewhat less currently, but with equal certainty of income, should pick up best-grade deep discount bonds. Middle-term maturities—say 8 to 12 years—give you fairly high current return... and a capital gain if held to pay-off time.

Karen Richardson, Gene Sweat Speak Vows at Methodist Church

Wedding vows were exchanged by Miss Karen Lynn Richardson and Robert Gene Sweat, U.S. Navy, Charleston, South Carolina, in First United Methodist Church Saturday evening, December 28 at seven o'clock. The Rev. Raymond T. Dyess, pastor, officiated.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James Richardson and Mr. and Mrs. Dick Sweat.

The bride presented the vocal selections at her wedding, accompanied by Mrs. Dick C. Sweat of Amarillo, who also gave the organ prelude and played softly during the ceremony.

A tall candle tree holding votive candles centered the altar area, with arched and branched candelabras extending on each side. Candles also lighted the bride's aisle.

Mr. Richardson gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride wore a white angel crepe gown designed on empire lines. Venice lace framed the portrait neckline and accented the high-rise waist. Appliques of Venice lace sprinkled the skirt and framed the chapel length panel train. A matching Venice lace toque held a bluish veil over a chapel veil extending the length of the train. Her bouquet was a cascade of white roses with an orchid at the center.

Miss Linda Richardson, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Mrs. James Hall of Fort Worth, her aunt, Miss Donna Zenor of Canadian and Mrs. Richard Mauldin of Oklahoma City.

They wore floor-length candlelight velvet gowns in princess design with long sleeves. Flower headpieces held their noseveils and they carried colonial nosegays.

Bill Gibbs of the U.S. Navy, Idaho Falls, Idaho, was the best man, and groomsmen were Dan Warrick, Lynn McLain of Lubbock, and Craig Bergvall. Guests were seated by Mike Richardson of Plainview and Milburn Keener of Spade, cousins of the couple.

Candles were lighted by Paula Strain of Olton and Debbie Richardson of Plainview, also cousins of the bride. Becky Sweat of Amarillo and Lance Schuler of Houston, niece of the groom and cousin of the bride, were the flower girl and ring bearer.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Richardson entertained guests in the Fellowship Hall of the church. The reception table was laid with a white cloth, having a net overlay that was caught up at the sides with wedding bells and bows.

The bride's bouquet was the centerpiece and silver and crystal appointments were used. Members of the house party were Mrs. Billy Wilkerson, Mrs. John Barton and Mrs. Tom Lockridge of Abilene; also the bride's aunts, Mrs. Russell Strain of Olton, Mrs. Walter Schuler of Houston, Mrs. Gerald Ray of Olton and Mrs. James Williams of Plainview.

Notes from Your County Home Demonstration Agent

By Mrs. Leta Hill

Agent's Shorts

• Children fill pockets with everything from crayons to pet frogs. All mothers should search pockets before laundering clothes. Crayon stains can be removed by rubbing with detergent, then rinsing well. I don't know about frogs.

• With leather fabric big on the fashion scene, do not use cleaning fluid on stains. It may take color from the garment or cause rings on it. But do not leave a stain on a garment. If left too long, the stain may set and be hard to remove. Try a professional cleaning job or wipe with a damp cloth.

• To remove the Christmas tree without shaking dry needles all over the floor, place it on a sheet. Then you can easily take the tree outside without dropping needles on the carpet.

• For best quality, select frozen orange juice concentrate that is stored at zero or below in a grocery freezer case. Place it in the home cold storage immediately and keep frozen until used. Frozen concentrate may be kept one week in the ice cube compartment, three months in the refrigerator-freezer compartment, or one year in the freezer.

• Brick, Camembert, cheddar, Edam, Gouda and Swiss cheese may be frozen if cut into pieces of a pound or less, not over an inch thick, and stored at 0 degrees F. or lower for six months or less.

• Hot dogs with mustard are easier to digest than hot dogs without, according to a German food expert.

• Even if they move to new surroundings, a family will retain their traditional food habits.

Highway Patrol Has New Method to Check Speeders

The Texas Department of Public Safety is now using a revolutionary new speed control device in an effort to reduce accidents caused by excessive speed.

It's called Visual Average Speed Computer and Recorder (VASCAR). It is actually a computer mounted in a patrol car and works on the simple formula: Distance divided by Time equals Speed.

Suppose you are breezing along the highway at 80-85 miles per hour. You keep a watchful eye to the rear to be sure a patrolman is not following you. You'll slow down when you see a car parked beside the highway until you're certain a patrolman is not in a car equipped with radar. You watch for patrolmen ahead of you and you keep a lookout for painted stripes across the highway that could be marked distances for calculating your speed from a helicopter.

You feel apprehensive most of the time you're speeding, but one thing is certain: it's a relief to see a patrolman pass from the opposite direction, because you know he must be going in the same direction to clock you with his speedometer. You know his radar unit is ineffective unless it's stationary.

Not so with Vascar! Don't be surprised some day if a patrolman passes you from the opposite direction, then overtakes and stops you.

If he does, the situation might have been that he suspected you were speeding as you went under an overpass, for example.

As you traveled under the overpass, the patrolman flips on a time switch, one of two toggle switches that are a part of the unit—a square box mounted in front of the dashboard of the patrol car. When the patrolman passed the suspected speeder, he turned off the switch, putting into the Vascar machine the exact time to took the motorist to drive between the two points, the overpass and the patrol car.

At the same time he turned off the time switch, he also turned on a distance switch. When the patrolman reached the overpass, he turned off the distance switch. The Vascar unit is connected to the patrol car's speedometer. This puts into the machine the exact distance on which the patrolman had timed the motorist.

The electronic unit computes the speed of a motorist through a linkage between the time and distance measurements inside the Vascar.

Patrolmen are able, by varying the sequence in manipulation of the switches, to determine the average speed of the motorist no matter which direction the patrol car and the target vehicle are traveling.

That distance can be checked between numerous objects, such as overpasses, underpasses, intersections, bridges, utility poles, highway signs, trees, shadows, and even the flicker of headlights on such objects at night.

BUSY STATION

Two million passengers a day are handled by Tokyo's huge Shinjuku Station, which employs pushers to shoehorn people into the cars and then gather up articles lost in the process. Two pushers are normally assigned to each door, with reinforcements available in emergencies.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Ranes and Patty Lynn of McKinney were guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James McDanel over the Christmas holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bruton, James Dean and Stephen of Sayre, Okla., spent Christmas with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roland Mayhugh.

Mr. and Mrs. Wade Welch and daughter, Generah, visited on the Sunday before Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Welch in Hedley.

Mr. and Mrs. Guy Owens spent Christmas week in Dallas with their daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Kent and Keverly Kay.

Holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Bratten were their sons, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Bratten of Oklahoma City and Stan Bratten of Dallas, also his mother, Mrs. L. Bratten of Hollis.

New Strength for our Already Strong Agriculture Sought

Collingsworth County continues to look in new directions to raise agricultural income in the years immediately ahead, apart from any changes in the farm program on the national level.

Feedlots, with one large and several on a smaller scale are an established part of the livestock economy, bringing with them a demand for locally grown grain sorghum. This can be expanded even more. The Southeast Panhandle is considered by agricultural economists as ideal for feeding of cattle. Lots do not need to be on the giant scale as those on the Plains in order to be valuable economic assets.

Interest in production of fruit and pecans is firming. Several orchards for commercial production were set out in 1968, although it will be several years before they come into production.

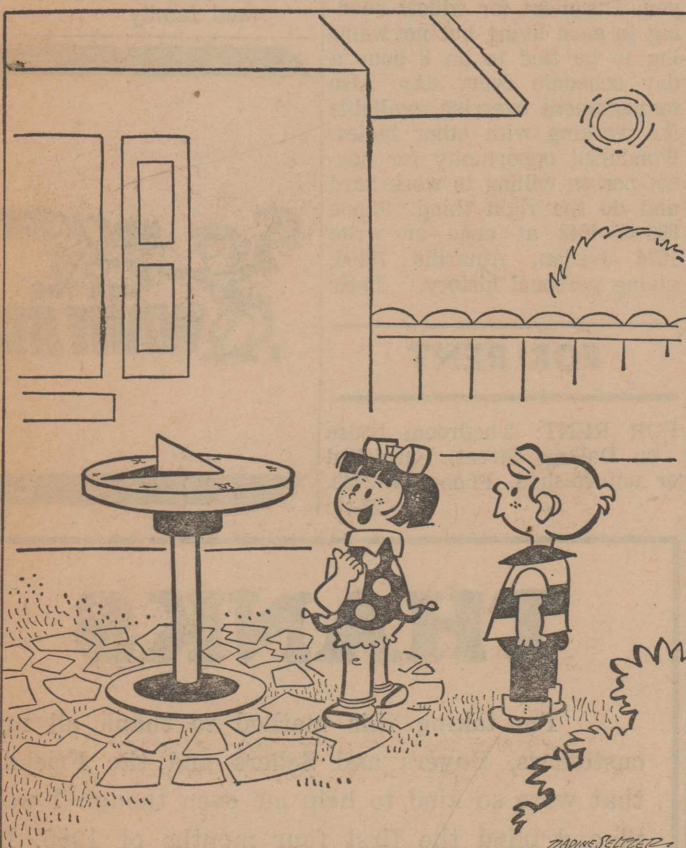

Interest also continues in expanded alfalfa acreage, with the realization anew that Collingsworth lies in one of the prime alfalfa seed producing areas of the nation.

Collingsworth farmers and ranchers continue to watch closely the experimentation on new varieties of crops, new breeding methods among livestock, and new ideas that will further strengthen our agricultural economy, which already is among the strongest of the counties of this area.

This Time How About Peace and Good Will?

AUSTIN—Just before the New Year dawned the Governor's Committee on Public School Education unfolded details of a controversial plan to shake up school district boundaries and dramatically revise finance formulas.

Indications are that it will have rough sledding in the Legislature.

Committee's reorganization plan to help make Texas schools better and more efficient would limit 219 of 254 counties to one school district each. General rule is that all operating 12-grade systems should be either countywide in size or contain at least 2,600 students in average daily attendance.

Exception would be sparse-area districts stretching over a county or more with less than 1,600 pupils and 24 special-purpose units like that operated in connection with military bases.

Governor's Committee recommended that the Legislature adopt its proposed district maps for further study by special local countywide study committees charged with approving the new pattern or recommending something better to suit their own area needs. The State Board of Education would compile the final reorganization plan by June 1, 1971.

Projected plan would slash the number of school districts from 1,218 to 354. All but 19 of 662 districts which now have less than 500 pupils would be eliminated. There would be 35 multi-district counties (those of larger population) with from two to 13 districts. All of the latter would have fewer districts than they now have.

Committee's proposals for figuring local districts' adjusted share of a basic foundation school program will also prove controversial, particularly in rural areas. Local share is calculated on the actual property taxpaying ability in each district.

In many counties the number of districts would be drastically reduced. They include the following:

Bowie from 14 to 2; Cameron 14 to 3; McLennan 20 to 4; Williamson 12 to 2; Grayson 14 to 2; Collin 16 to 3; Denton 11 to 2; Tom Green 9 to 1; Hunt, Taylor, Cherokee and Nacogdoches 10 to 1; Rusk 9 to 1; El Paso 9 to 3; Nueces 17 to 4; Hidalgo 19 to 8; Fannin and Lamar 11 to 1; Cameron 14 to

CROSSROADS REPORT

Dear Editor:

Ever since the longhairs and looselips hit Chicago last August and met up with police reaction it has been said highly and widely by experts that the event was a police riot.

My ex-youth neighbor says his banker grandpa out West once reacted to a pair of unwashed and unbarbered 1890 model hippies who came into his bank with pistols to protest because they didn't have any money and wanted some.

People back then didn't know about social problems, so they highly approved when grandpa won the shoot-out with those demonstrating kids. It has taken many years to find out this was actually a one-man banker riot.

Attorney General Rules

Omission of a paragraph in a 1968 tax bill eliminated the exemption of non-profit corporations providing homes for elderly from franchise tax on debt, Atty. Gen. Crawford C. Martin said in a new opinion.

In other opinions, Martin concluded that: Establishment of a retirement trust for the president of Midwestern University does not constitute a supplement to salary and does not make the official ineligible for a $1500 raise provided in an appropriations bill by the Texas Legislature last June.

Petitions for local-option liquor election, filed after Nov. 5, must contain signatures of 25% of voters for governor at the general election on that date.

A girl 15 to 18, or a boy 15 to 17, who is a first-time offender may be tried in a court that is other than a juvenile court, and can be sent to jail until he has paid his fine or served it out if convicted of possession, purchase or consumption of alcoholic beverages.

Martin also filed suit for an injunction against an Austin transmission repair company, alleging deceptive trade practices banned by the Consumer Credit Code. District Court hearing is set for Jan. 9 in Austin.

Sunken Treasure

Land Commissioner Jerry Sadler displayed the treasure salvaged from a Spanish ship sunk by a hurricane off the Texas coast in 1553. It's the first such treasure-trove to be found in Texas waters.

A gold crucifix, which Sadler estimated to be worth $100,000, plus a gold bar (showing a ragged end where the tax collector had cut off the crown's share), over 500 coins of Charles V of Spain and his mother, Queen Joanna "the Mad", and some 30-pound "plates" of bulk silver were among the items displayed.

Exact value of the treasure hasn't been set, but may run into "millions," Sadler said. Texas and the Indiana salvage firm working the wreck will split the treasure 50-50, which Sadler says is the best deal worked out for any government. Legally the treasure—or the money from it—belongs to the Permanent School Fund, which owns the land on which the ship sank. Details on the exact sharing of the booty have yet to be worked out. And there are four other ships which sank in the same area during the hurricane that are expected to yield more "goodies".

Credit Code Study

Texas Finance Commission is making a comparative study of the 1967 Texas Credit Code and the proposed Uniform Consumer Credit Code.

Study will be submitted to the Legislature for guidance in revising the code adopted two years ago.

Uniform Code was drawn by National Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, approved by the American Bar Association and recommended for adoption by all states.

If adopted in Texas, uniform code would supplant the 1967 state code.

Consumer Credit Commissioner Frank Miskell said Texas is the only state which has a comprehensive code regulating consumer credit.

"It seems assured, however, that the 61st Legislature will consider some changes in the Texas code to make it conform with new federal truth-in-lending law," Miskell said.

Short Snorts

• Texas crop output increased 18% over 1967, led by a 26% cotton production jump, according to the Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service.

• Texas hospital employees' salaries rose 7% to 14% during the last year, Texas Hospital Association estimates.

• Jan. 1, Texas gained two new high court judges: Sears McGee of Houston as Supreme Court Associate Justice and Leon Douglas of Vernon as Court of Criminal Appeals judge.

Highway Regulations

Texas Highway Commissioners, with the support of the Texas Good Roads Association, continue to attack proposed federal regulations which provide for public hearings and design approval for highways fully or partially funded with federal money.

Commission Chairman J. H. Kultgen addressed a hearing in Washington on the proposed regulations and said, "We do not believe that the people of our nation, their congressmen and senators, expect a federal agency to become the ultimate umpire for all construction projects."

TGRA president Charles F. Hawn told the hearing, "We believe the regulations are unnecessarily rigid and detailed, that the appellate procedure invites harmful delays in highway building and that the proposals generally reflect upon the intentions, capabilities and rightful authority of the State highway departments."

Highway SAFETY Guidelines

Q. When stopping for a railroad crossing does the law specify where you stop and how long?

A. Yes. Whenever any person driving a vehicle approaching a railroad grade crossing must stop for a signal, flagman or approaching train, he shall stop within 50 feet but not less than 15 feet from the nearest rail and shall not proceed until directed by signal or until the way is clear.

Q. What is the accepted safety rule for being able to avoid cutting back to the right hand lane too quickly after passing another vehicle on the left?

A. You should wait until you can see the vehicle being passed in your rear view mirror.

Q. What are the universal signs of distress that a motorist may give to indicate to other vehicles that they need assistance?

A. A white handkerchief tied to the front door handle, radio antenna, and/or raise the hood of your car.

Q. If there is no sign telling you of a minimum speed limit, how slow can a person lawfully drive?

A. It is illegal to wilfully drive a vehicle so slowly as to obstruct or impede the normal, reasonable and safe movement of traffic.

Q. Can you legally operate a motor vehicle while under the influence of drugs that were prescribed by a doctor?

A. It is illegal to drive a motor vehicle while under the influence of drugs. The fact that drugs were prescribed by a doctor is not a defense for driving under the influence of drugs.

New DPS "Breathalyzer" Hits Hard to Cut Drunk Driving

The Texas Department of the Public Safety will be using a sophisticated new instrument called a "Breathalyzer" this holiday season in an effort to hit hard at the problem of drunk driving.

According to Col. Wilson E. (Pat) Spier, director of the department of public safety, some 450 highway patrolmen and sergeants have completed training in the use of this new instrument, which is installed in our more populous counties.

The instrument is designed to accurately measure the amount of alcohol in a person's blood. Air from a person's lungs contains alcohol in a ratio proportionate to the amount in the blood stream. The suspected drunk driver blows into the instrument which holds an exact amount of air. This air bubbles through a solution of potassium dichromate causing a color change proportionate to the amount of alcohol present in

Collingsworth County FARM NEWS

By Don Reeves
County Agricultural Agent

Many cattlemen consider the calf crop as the only crop produced on a ranch, but by the time the calf crop is ready to sell, cattlemen have already produced and harvested or partially harvested a crop of grass. This forage crop has some of the same characteristics of a wheat, milo, or cotton crop. It may be extremely good, average or almost a complete failure. Averages of dry forage taken from native pastures over an eight-year period have revealed that pounds of dry forages range from 557# per acre to 1,488 pounds per acre from one year to the next.

Proper stocking and good brush and weed control practices seem to be the key to increasing quality and stocking rates of native pastures.

A ranchman can either adjust his livestock numbers or the length of time they are grazed to meet his forage supply.

Research and demonstrations show that grazing half and leaving half of the quality grasses by weight is a good rule of thumb for proper stocking. Half of the plant's weight must be left for its maintenance and well being.

Worthless brush and unpalatable weeds use water and plant nutrients which could be used for this valuable forage production.

Various mechanical, chemical and biological methods can be applied economically to control noxious plants. The area should be seeded with adapted grasses for rapid grass re-establishment when mechanical methods that disturb the existing turf are used or when no desirable grasses are present.

Cotton grades took another dip this week according to the cotton classing office at Memphis. The percentage of spotted grades increased to 22%, compared to 16% last week. White grades classed 8% and Light Spotted grades accounted for 68%.

Micronaire, or fineness and maturity readings continue to stay in the desirable range for 71% of the cotton classed this past week. The market continued to be more active for the white and light spot grades in shorter staples that miked in the desirable range of 3.5 to 4.9.

MORE MONEY EVENTS

During 1844, the coinage of the United States was so limited that notes were issued for ten cents.

The first paper money of North America was issued by Canada in 1685. It was called "playing-card money." These were actual cards on which was written the monetary value and signed by the Governor. They were used for paying the soldiers.

From the days of Caesar, the mountainous problem of paying troops has worried government.

During 1861, the North used postage stamps extensively as small change, due to the shortage of coins. Then followed "shin-plasters" which were small paper notes issued by corporations, banks and tradespeople.

Causing too much confusion, "shin-plasters" were soon driven from the scene and replaced by coins.

Sharon Daves, TWU Serenaders Make Music at top of the World

The Serenaders, Texas Woman's University's 14-member stage band has just completed a one-month tour of performances for servicemen in Greenland, Iceland, Newfoundland and Labrador. It was sponsored by USO, the National Music Council and the Department of Defense.

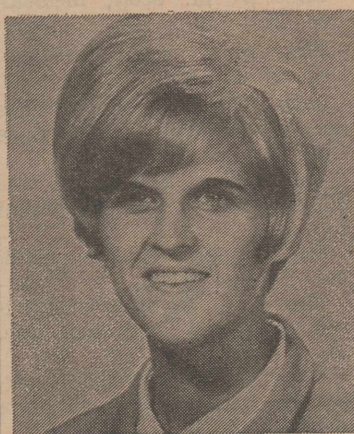

The Serenaders are under the direction of Dr. Thomas E. Turicchi. The group was declared to be one of the "most outstanding" college or university stage bands in the United States by the National Convention of the American Bandmasters Association. After preparing all types of popular music with arrangements made especially for the entertainment of troops overseas, the Serenaders were on their way to a new and different world.

Miss Sharon Daves, a 1967 graduate of Wellington High School and drummer of the group recalls quite a few experiences. She said, "It was a very successful trip and we received standing ovations every place we performed."

"Our first stop was Thule, Greenland, which is often referred to as 'The Top of the World' because it is only 300 miles from the North Pole. We witnessed a rare sight, the meeting of three glaciers which empty 2,000 tons of ice into the sea each day. Greenland had about three hours of twilight each day we were there. During our seven day stay, the temperature dropped to -24 degrees, so we were issued heavy parkas. The weather was an extremely dry cold and our eyes never adjusted to the haze."

While in Thule, the Serenaders visited the largest radar installation in the world, BMEWS (Ballistic Missile Early Warning System), visited a Danish bakery and obtained samples of the pastries, saw the ruins of an Eskimo village, and became members of the Knights of the Blue Nose at a brunch given by the only Army unit there.

Next stop was Sondstrom, Greenland, for four days of sightseeing in the mountains and picking up such souvenirs as Eskimo dolls and pewter jewelry. "We were treated like queens, especially at the performance because we were told that the audience had been known for walking out on USO shows; yet, we received stand-

Sharon Daves

"Goose Bay, Labrador was the next stop," said Miss Daves. "And this was the first time we were able to look out across the countryside and see trees. The base commander treated us to a steak dinner and we presented an early Christmas party for the GIs as a blizzard kept us grounded for two extra days. Even though snow was waist-high, we were still able to go ski-dooing or tobogganing, which was most thrilling! About two miles from the base we visited a native village where some of us secured oop-tip dolls, good luck symbols which are stuffed owls made of baby seal fur. We all got excited because, for the first time, we saw real live Eskimos."

Next stop: Argentia, Newfoundland, for two and a half days. "We toured Placentia, a fishing village of small wooden frame houses with pointed roofs sitting right along the roadside. Due to bad weather, our stop at St. John's, the expanding capital of Canada's newest province, was cancelled."

"The last nine days," Sharon said, "were spent in Keflavik, Iceland, where it is characteristic for natives to knock a person out of their way should he be there. Upon arriving in Iceland, we were chauffeured by a Norwegian bus driver who barely understood English and who, not being accustomed to the newly adopted system of driving on the right-hand side, drove down the middle of the road. While crossing a bridge, we met two Volkswagens and at that point, I hid my eyes! Two days were spent in Reykjavik, the capital of Iceland, which houses 100,000 people, half the population of Iceland. Our first stop was at the bank to convert our money into Icelandic, the Kronur, which took 87.50 kronurs to make $1 in American money.

"The rug factory was our next stop and it was interesting because Icelandic women actually skin sheep and ponies to make beautiful rugs. Our last stop was downtown to shop for the gorgeous Norwegian and Icelandic handknitted sweaters and various souvenirs."

"After one month of traveling, sightseeing, performing and socializing, it was rather sad to say our goodbyes to 25,000 miles of the Northeast area of the world. We met people who had graduated from TWU, a woman who went to college with Coach Tank Forrester, and a GI who went to WTSU and knew Kenneth and Jimmy Martindale from Samnorwood. I felt very honored to take such a trip and from it I gained a lot of fond memories," Sharon concluded.

Mayhugh Hurt at Dodson Gin

Fred Mayhugh received severe injuries to his left hand recently when it was caught in the mangle press at the Dodson Farmers Co-op Gin.

The West Texas State University student was working there during the holidays.

He was treated in Harmon County Memorial Hospital for extensive cuts, a broken little finger, and broken bone in the wrist, his mother, Mrs. H. R. Mayhugh, said.

She reported the press door came open and he was putting spilled cotton back into the press.

Mayhugh was dismissed from the hospital to spend Christmas at home, then returned for further treatment.

RING FINGER

A wedding ring is generally worn on the third finger of the left hand because of an old belief. People supposed that a vein runs directly to the heart from this finger, thus heart and hand are offered together. Although the belief is not true, the custom continues.

Deck's DIDACTICS

—By Deskins Wells

Last week this column was written in awe as three astronauts circled the moon before firing the shot that would bring them back to earth safely. It was the greatest single material accomplishment that man has achieved in all recorded history. And there were spiritual overtones that defy description. The wonder of the event surpasses words.

In awful wonder I wrote that it might be a good time for us to read the first two chapters of Genesis. Can you imagine my amazement as I sat in my living room and heard three voices, clear as a bell, intone the first ten verses of the first chapter of Genesis? And the voices came from outer space.

Prayers were said, church bells rang and people around the world hoped fervently for the safe return of the three astronauts from their miraculous mission. Yet one female, presumably of the human race, was uncouth and boorish enough to protest the reading of these immortal words as a violation of the Constitution.

This seems to be a good time to print a letter from Mrs. Maude Mitchell:

Ft. Worth, Tex.—This is in regards to Mrs. Madalyn Murray O'Hara of Houston's recent protest against our astronauts prayer and reading scripture from the Bible while in Space.

How proud I am to know we have men who have enough faith in God to undertake such a mission as Apollo 8's moon flight, and to show the world that faith by prayer and reading from the Bible while making the first flight by man around the moon. I hope their faith in God at this time will influence many, many people all over this troubled world, and maybe in some way help bring about Peace. For if Prayer by such devout Christians won't help—what will?

I realize our Space Administration is too busy for a deluge of mail either "for" or "against" Mrs. O'Hara's proposal. But maybe the newspapers isn't. And if she insists on going ahead against what our astronauts did, she may get a challenge from those who approve it, for God is not dead.

God bless our astronauts, and our entire Space Administration.

Mrs. Maude Mitchell
4603 Miller
Ft. Worth, Texas 76119

In addition to the woman who protested the reading of the beginning of the Bible, there were others who protested because one network interrupted the Baltimore - Minnesota football game for 2½ minutes to bring a live account of the flight of Apollo 8 around the moon. We need to adjust our sense of values; but more than that we need to elevate our taste mentally and spiritually.

I am as enthusiastic about sports as anyone of my age; but I believe they should be considered and regulated in some semblance of their relative importance to more important activities.

Frank Anderson made an unexpected donation to the pastor of the Methodist Church this week. He had four tickets to the SMU-Oklahoma football game in the Astrodome and both he and Mary came down with the flu so he gave them to Rev. Raymond Dyess.

It is an ill wind that blows nobody good.

tist Church. A rock was thrown through the windshield of a car on the church parking lot.

That same night, a tape was stolen from a car parked beside Brown Body Shop for repairs, the police chief reported.

He said that also at Christmas there were signs of drinking around the swimming pool, near the Dairy Mart, by the Wellington Livestock Commission Sale Barn, and in Fairview Cemetery.

Homes decorated for Christmas were hit. One strand of outdoor Christmas lights was taken from the Velman Warwick home, two from the E.W. Clement home and a spotlight was taken and a deer's head broken at the Billy Mac Sims home.

Officers believe it is the work of youths.

"All the kids are not responsible for this. It's just a few that I don't think would have any self respect or any respect for others," Chief Nunneley declared.

Wellington Takes Duo From Memphis Monday

It took the Wellington Sky-rockets nearly five minutes to warm up to their Memphis Cyclone opponents but from that point they came on strong and built a narrow first period lead into a 68 to 54 victory Monday evening, Dec. 30, in Rocket gymnasium.

The same evening, Wellington girls defeated the Memphis team 52 to 44 in a game that Mr. and Mrs. Farrell Kent and children, Kendall and Karen, of Amarillo, were here on Tuesday to visit his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Noble Murray.

A short time ago Mr. Kent became a counselor with the Texas Education Agency, Division of Vocational Rehabilitation, working in Amarillo and the northeast Panhandle.

Mrs. Kent has passed her state examinations for a real estate license and is now associated with an Amarillo firm.

had several unbelievable moments.

The Rockettes scored 17 points before Memphis scored at all. Then followed a second quarter in which their playing had its good and bad points, then Memphis began to close the gap until there was only 3 points between them.

From that point Wellington was able to pull away to the 8-point victory.

Mary Lou Holton scored 27 points for Wellington and Betsy Trapp added 17. Memphis high scorer was Sue Melton with 33.

In the boys game, Memphis jumped to an early lead, but after the first few minutes Wellington was able to contain their aggressiveness.

"Our boys played good basketball, they hustled well, and they made some mistakes, but this is to be expected during the Christmas holidays," said Coach James Stavenhagen.

"I felt that overall the defense was real good, because we were able to contain Memphis, which is a high scoring outfit."

Glen Barber put 26 points on the board for Wellington and Larry Robinson had 18. Memphis high pointer was Ronny McCall with 15 and Bill Kilpatrick with 10.

Unable to Walk, Texas Tech Student Has Big Ambitions

Mary Jane Crane of Texas Tech, born with a birth defect that prevents her walking normally, lives so active a life that she literally leaves other college students behind.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Crane of Muleshoe, her story was featured recently in the Muleshoe Journal. She is also the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Crane of Wellington.

"Twenty, going on twenty-one, Mary Jane Crane was born the victim of the rare congenital disease of the nerves, spina bifida, which meant in her case that some of the nerves from the waist down were just missing and that she has very little feeling in, or control over, the movement of her legs," said the Journal story.

"Unable to walk, she learned to ride a tricycle at the age of one and one-half years which her mother believes helped to strengthen her for walking at the age of two. She walked about a year until her 'bones separated and came out of the sockets.'"

The next few years were a series of body casts, a wheel chair, braces and crutches. Of independent nature, she managed to attend school regularly except after surgery.

A flute player in Muleshoe's Mighty M Band, she held office in the band, worked on the high school annual staff and as a freshman at Eastern New Mexico University.

It was at Eastern that Jane acquired a golf cart to negotiate between buildings. It went with her to Tech, where she is the only cart rider. Narrow or non-existent sidewalks did not stop her and she manipulates winding and free-standing stairs on crutches.

Interested in politics, she managed during political rallies to get through crowds and shake hands with Muskie at the airport and missed by a slim margin the chance to shake the hand of President-elect Nixon.

She is pleasant and quick-witted, and in high school attended skating parties and dances, where she "did a mean twist on crutches."

Mrs. Crane is a teacher in the Muleshoe Schools and Mr. Crane is owner of a tire store in Muleshoe. There are three other children, Cindy 17, Kim 13, and Terri 11.

Often a Wellington visitor, Jane has one ambition—to work on a large daily newspaper and ultimately with the Associated Press.

McBrides Here From Oklahoma

Mr. and Mrs. Gene McBride and daughter, Vicki, were here during the holidays to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hardy Wright.

Mr. McBride is head of the sociology department of Central State College, Edmond, Okla. One of the projects of this department includes work with Oklahoma City probation officers, he said.

The college, with an enrollment of more than 10,000, has 8,000 who commute from Oklahoma City, Mr. McBride said.

The couple's son, Ken, a junior in Oklahoma Baptist University, Shawnee, was spending the holidays in Florida.
