'WE'RE READY,' SAYS SPUDDERS' SMILING BOSS

Ruth Hanna McCormick Whips Deneen For Nomination

Home Town Talk

By B. D. D.

Television programs are now being broadcasted regularly from the "Television Theater" in New York. It is estimated that there are now 25,000 television sets in the United States on which these programs can be received. Earl Carroll in "Osculation" in the New York theater was a feature of the first program broadeasted.

The other day the first page of a San Francisco newspaper was transmitted and photographed in the television room of the General Electric company at Schenectady, N. Y.

So far as Talker knows there are no television receiving sets in Wichita Falls but many radio receiving sets are built with openings for television attachments. The television device, no larger than an ordinary suitcase, it is said, can be fitted to any radio receiving set, much the same as a loud speaker.

The next few years are likely to see people taking to television like they have to radio. A great industry will be built up in the manufacture and distribution of television sets. Capital and industry are anxiously awaiting for some such a device as television after having carried the manufacture of radios to its peak and beyond as the number of bankruptcies of radio manufacturers attests. Television is the most promising thing in sight for such a development. Its possibilities may be as great as the broadcasting of sound. Dear Reader, you might as well begin now preparing sales resistance against television. You will, of course, succumb in the end just as you did when you bought your first radio set.

"A Reader" writes in to quote from this column: "Knowledge that finds no application in life is soon forgotten; skill that is not exercised is quickly dulled." To which Reader adds this: "Knowledge that can find no use to human kind, and tools that find no need of application produce the dormant dyspepsia of disappointment."

Talker meant to give this thought, not as his own, but as from a writer in a magazine. Maybe he did not state this as plainly as he should, but as we go along through life, whether consciously or unconsciously, we pick up the thought of others and appropriate them as our own thought and philosophy. Even that thought has come to Talker from someone else. Our philosophies of life are somewhat like streams that flow through our experiences and our thinking, taking into their current a thought here, another further along, and so on with the course of the stream. We rarely appropriate the whole of another's philosophy. Our own is mixed and colored with what we get from another and our own stream colors that which we take.

It is a tribute to the adaptability of the human mind that we find use for most of our knowledge and application for the tools of knowledge. But as Reader says there is too often the dyspepsia of disappointment when the perversity of fate seems to keep us in a situation where we can make no use of what we know or of the tools we have acquired.

More than likely Reader meant to emphasize the futility of acquiring knowledge that the experience of others had found useless. Most of us could save effort and trouble in the selection of the knowledge we would acquire.

Reader says he does not miss

WOMAN HOLDS 3-2 LEAD IN EARLY COUNT

World Court Walloped by Illinois Voters in Party Contest

SMASHING VICTORY

Mrs. McCormick's Plurality May Set New Record as Political Rout

CHICAGO, April 8. (AP)—The nomination of Ruth Hanna McCormick as Republican candidate for United States senator, was conceded tonight by the Chicago Daily News, one of the two metropolitan newspapers to support Senator Charles S. Deneen for re-nomination. The Deneen headquarters however, declined to admit defeat when 1,611 of the 7,117 precincts in Illinois had given representative McCormick a lead of 56,000 votes.

CHICAGO, April 8. (US)—Ruth Hanna McCormick won the Republican nomination for United States senator today by a landslide of votes.

Returns from more than half of the precincts in Chicago and Cook county indicate her plurality here is 160,000.

Downstate the congresswoman took the lead over Senator Charles S. Deneen at the jump and held it as new batches of returns were reported. The indicated plurality for her outside of Cook county was between 23,000 and 30,000.

This would give the nomination by between 170,000 and 200,000.

Never before had a candidate for the Republican senatorial nomination polled such a lead. It was a veritable rout of the Deneen forces.

It not only was a victory for the congresswoman. It was Illinois' voice saying for the second time that it does not want America to become a member of the permanent court of international justice of the League of Nations.

Senator Deneen voted for the international tribunal four years ago. So did the late Senator William B. McKinley. When the latter sought renomination a few months later, the voters defeated him by a plurality of 102,000.

Opposes Lewis

Although unrelated issues were brought into the closing days of the present battle, the league court was the main issue.

Mrs. McCormick, as the Republican nominee, will run in the November election against Col. James Hamilton Lewis, given the Democratic nomination today.

MARK HANNA'S DAUGHTER GIVEN GENEROUS LEAD

CHICAGO, April 8. (AP)—Ruth Hanna McCormick, aspiring to become the first woman elected to the United States senate, stepped forward to a generous lead over Senator Charles S. Deneen tonight in the early returns from today's statewide primary election.

Republican voters gave the daughter of Mark Hanna a 3 to 2 preference for the senatorial nomination as the tabulation of the heavy voting began, and Mrs. McCormick maintained her advantage as returns from down state precincts flowed in.

Returns from 1,042 precincts out of 7,117 in Illinois gave Deneen 63,724; McCormick 104,783; while Newton Jenkins, who opposed Deneen and the late Senator Medill McCormick at the primary six years ago, had gathered 13,777 votes. These figures included 835 precincts in Cook county, (Chicago), which gave Deneen 44,206; McCormick 83,482 and Jenkins 10,713.

These returns included reports from 54 downstate counties.

Gun Blast Shatters Man's Head

Special to The Record News

MANGUM, Okla., April 8.—Almost decapitated by the force of a shotgun discharge immediately below the chin, the body of Ernest Fite, 40, was found sprawled over a wire fence about one and one-half miles from Brinkman Tuesday. The empty gun lay beside the body. An investigation and inquest conducted by Greer county officials brought a verdict of accidental death.

Mr. Fite left his home near Brinkman early Tuesday morning to set out on a rabbit hunt. He was last seen about 8:30 o'clock after he had presented a hungry negro family with his first kill. Investigators believe he had started to crawl through the fence when the gun accidentally discharged, the full force of the shot striking him under the left side of the chin, practically severing the head from the body.

The body was taken to the Greer Funeral home in Mangum. Mr. Fite is survived by one sister, Mrs. Jim Craig, who lives near Brinkman.

POSTAL RENTAL 'RACKET' AIRED

Senator Nye Says Situation 'Rotten to Bottom'

By FRASER EDWARDS

WASHINGTON, April 8. (US)—A new racket—renting postoffices to the government—costing the nation millions annually was aired in the senate today.

In sponsoring a resolution for a sweeping senatorial inquiry into the government's contracts for postoffice rentals, amounting to $18,000,000 a year, Senator Blaine of Wisconsin charged that "fraud, misrepresentation and corruption" reeked in the contracts.

Nye Denunciatory

The system was denounced by Senator Nye of North Dakota, who said it hid a scandal that "smelled to high heaven" and would "rival the Teapot Dome scandal." He revealed that $150,000,000 in securities had been sold to the public on postoffice leases, which he charged were only worth one-third that amount.

The center of attack was a $60,000 item for the rental of the St. Paul, Minn., postoffice building in the postoffice appropriation bill. The house struck out the provision but the senate committee restored it and the fight was to once more knock it out of the bill.

Maas Hears Debate

Representative Maas of Minnesota, who first called attention to the St. Paul postoffice scandal, charging "fraud and corruption," listened to the debate as did Postmaster General Brown.

During the debate, Nye made the

Dawson Road Bond Election in Doubt

Special to The Record News

LAMESA, Texas, April 8.—The result of the $600,000 road bond election in Dawson county remained in doubt here late Tuesday when the final count for the night gave 1,061 votes for and 421 against the issue, with eight precincts yet to be heard from. A two-thirds majority is necessary to vote the bonds.

M. C. Lindsey, chairman of the Dawson County Highway Paving association, announced that should the final returns show a defeat for the bonds, the association will immediately launch a campaign for another election. The success of the project would mean the hard surfacing of two state highways through the county.

Bill Gives Tour Costs To Ailing War Mothers

WASHINGTON, April 8. (INS)—World war widows and mothers eligible to make the Gold Star Mothers pilgrimage to Europe's cemeteries and battle fields would be paid the amount the trip would cost the government should they be economically or physically unable to go, under an amendment introduced in the house today by Representative Douglass of Massachusetts. The bill estimates the cost for each pilgrim at $850.

W. A. E. TO OPEN NEW LINE FOR WICHITA FALLS

Twelve-Hour Service to Los Angeles Is Made Available

ACTION UNEXPECTED

Inauguration of System Comes as Surprise to Officials Here

A scheduled 12-hour passenger service by air between Wichita Falls and Los Angeles will be inaugurated Wednesday by the Western Air Express lines, according to an Associated Press dispatch from Tulsa and a special dispatch from Amarillo to The Record News.

The new line to the coast will be opened in conjunction with two other new lines, all of which will make direct connection with the Kansas City to Los Angeles planes at Amarillo. The lines will be from Amarillo through Pueblo and Colorado Springs to Denver; from Amarillo through Wichita Falls to Dallas and from Amarillo through Oklahoma City to Tulsa.

Announcement Unexpected

Officials here Tuesday night expressed surprise at the announcement and stated the decision to open the line was probably not made until Tuesday. George D. Fairtrace, city manager, said he had not been informed of the plan to open the line and that no arrangements had been made to prepare for landings of the planes at the Municipal airport, although such could be made immediately upon notice.

W. D. Peck, district traffic agent for the Western Air Express at Amarillo, who made Tuesday's announcement in that city, was in Wichita Falls about a month ago. At that time he was making surveys at the port here but would not divulge any possible plans for a line through this city, it was said.

The first indication that the line would actually open Wednesday was given here Tuesday afternoon when a Fokker F-10, 12-passenger Western Air Express liner landed at the Municipal airport with a capacity load of passengers en route from Amarillo to Dallas. Officers on the ship, however, made no statement concerning the opening of the line Wednesday.

Daily Service to Coast

Daily service will be maintained on the new lines, according to the dispatches. Ships through here from Dallas will arrive in Amarillo

The Spudders' Smiling Skipper

"There'll be no alibis," said Manager Carl Williams Tuesday on the eve of the Spudders' opening day tussle with the Sports, and when he said it he had a smile on his face akin to that he wears in the above picture. Manager Williams is piloting the Spudders for the second time, and is still doing his best, as he was in 1927 when the Wichita Falls entry he tutored copped the Dixie series pennant.

Strange Illness Blackens Skin Of Four-Year-Old Electra Child

Physicians Report Three 'Jake' Paralysis Victims Stricken By Creosote Mixture in Wichita County

A four-year-old Electra boy, afflicted with one of the very few recorded cases of "acanthosis nigricans," a disease which blackens the palms of the hands and the soles of the feet, was brought for examination before the Wichita County Medical society in its regular meeting at the Wichita club Tuesday evening.

The case was presented by Dr. F. D. Shepherd, of Electra, who has been treating the patient. Only 25 similar cases have been reported in the history of medicine, the society was told.

Dr. Shepherd said the pigmentation of the boy's feet and hands had been blackened to resemble those of a negro since he was two years old. The disease apparently had not progressed and is not regarded as dangerous it was explained. Neither a cause nor a cure for the change in color has ever been ascribed. Society members were of the general opinion that the discoloration develops from some glandular disturbance, not yet traced to its source.

Banquet table talk before the opening of the scientific discussion at the meeting Tuesday night revealed the existence of three cases of the nationwide "jake" paralysis in Wichita county. Two patients are without the use of their legs and are unable to manage their hands and fingers in Electra. A third is reported in Wichita Falls. All three victims admitted imbibing the poisoned drink, purchased in one instance at Pampa.

Local physicians believe that the paralysis results from the crude carbolic acid, also known as crude phenol, and as cresol, from which the drink is believed to be made. The paralyzing fluid is flavored and made more palatable by a touch of jamaica ginger, their investigations show. The cases reported in the county are serious and have been slow to respond to treatment, according to the physicians' reports.

In the absence of Dr. C. H. Beavers, of Fort Worth, Dr. F. R. Collard read his paper on "Management of Placenta Previa," an obstetrical condition, before the society. Dr. D. R. Venable discussed the "Meinicke Reaction," a check on the Wasserman test. Dr. H. D. Filmore, city health officer, was received as a member of the organization.

BRISTOW SOON TO BE FREED

Oil Man's Son Makes Contact With Brigands

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 8. (AP)—A copyrighted special dispatch from Merle Blakely, correspondent for The Oklahoma City Times and Oklahoman said tonight that the release of J. E. Bristow, 60, Oklahoma and Texas oil man who was captured by Mexican bandits several weeks ago was imminent.

The dispatch, sent from Ahuacatlan, Nayarit, stated that messengers of Obie Bristow, the oil man's son who went to the western coast of Mexico to negotiate with the bandits finally had made contact with his father's captors in their isolated retreat near Hilo, a mountain village. The messengers carried gold with which to pay the ransom.

A private scout returned to Ahuacatlan from the vicinity of Hilo, the dispatch said, and reported that the camp of Cruz Delgado, bandit leader, had been reached by the messengers and that final payment of the gold was under way. Hilo is in the mountains surrounding Ixtlan.

Agreement for the release of Bristow was reached between the messengers and bandits, the scout reported.

Bristow is held high up on the side of an extinct volcano between two great lava beds. The bandit gang has been depleted by the activity of two detachments of federal troops. Three outlaws were shot to death by military snipers

Noted Musician Dies at Memphis

Special to The Record News

MEMPHIS, Texas, April 8.—Stricken with apoplexy in the midst of a golf game Monday afternoon, Paul James Sr., widely known musical director and pioneer of Hall county, died in a Memphis hospital at 9:15 Tuesday night.

The musician was in the midst of a second round of golf, played under the glare of the hottest sun of the season, when he was stricken. Friends rushed him to the hospital where he fought a losing battle for his life during the past 24 hours.

Mr. James has won a state-wide reputation as a band leader and director. He was the head of five musical organizations in Hall county, two of them in Memphis where he returned to make his home after carrying his work into other sections of the state.

CARL WILLIAMS SAYS CLUB IN PERFECT SHAPE

RECORD 'GATE' SEEN

Advance Ticket Purchases Indicate Huge Crowd At Park Today

By FRED D. THOMPSON
The Record News Staff

A tall, good-natured, grown-up boy sat in the grandstand at our baseball orchard Tuesday afternoon and as he loosened his jaws from the cup his hands formed, said: "There will be no alibis when we meet that bunch tomorrow."

The bunch referred to was the Shreveport Sports, and you guessed it—the speaker was W. Carl Williams, who officially enters his second term as manager of a Texas league contender Wednesday when he sends his rampant Spudders into action against Shreveport in the first of a series of three games which will open the Texas league season here.

At Their Best

"No sore arms, no injuries, no alibis whatever; we're at our best and we are going to do our best," quoth the modest Carl, and that was about all this bronze-hued veteran would say at a time when thousands of fans in and about a great city starved for some expression from him. "We're going to do our best," quoth Carl.

At Manager Williams' side sat Art Phelan, skipper of the Sports. Manager Phelan was in just as determined a mood, and just as reticent as he watched his hopefuls cavort around in the final practice session before the huge rift Wednesday. The Spudders had taken their last fielding and batting workout earlier in the afternoon, allowing the Sports the use of the field afterwards.

Parade Planned

Today, according to our slogan contest winner, is the day to "pack the park and swell the chest," and from indications Tuesday it appeared that Wichita Falls will be right up there in the front of the race for J. Alvin Gardner's $250 attendance prize. Activities of all kinds virtually will be at a standstill Wednesday afternoon, a majority of stores and business houses having agreed to close their doors as the trek to Spudderville begins. The trek will start officially with a parade of players and officials, which will originate in the business district and wend its way to the baseball orchard at the foot of Seventh street.

Though no official figures on the ticket sales were available Tuesday

Geyser Hurls Golden Fluid Over Country

Nash and Windfohr's No. 1 McCloud Runs Wild Near Townsite

Special to The Record News

GRAHAM, Texas, April 8.—Spraying thousands of barrels of precious high gravity oil over the rock-strewn side of a hill just northeast of Graham, Nash & Windfohr's No. 1 R. J. McCloud well tonight halted traffic on the Rock Island railroad and a highway and had thrown residents here into a frenzy of oil excitement. It was believed to be making 5,000 barrels of oil and 15,000,000 cubic feet of gas.

The well was drilled in early Tuesday afternoon. The rich oil and gas bearing sand had been touched at 3,757 feet and not more than one foot of pay was drilled when a slackening line indicated the tools were coming out of the hole. Gathering force, the tremendous gas pressure formed a head and hurled the tools to the top of the derrick. Behind the bit and line came a thick spray of light green oil, changing into every color when reflected in the bright sunlight, and floating away in a light breeze to coat the earth and vegetation with a greasy scum, while tiny rivulets of petroleum trickled to the bottom of the hill.

Gusher Is Surprise

The well was as great a surprise to the owners as to residents of Graham. Less than a quarter of a mile to the southeast Pitzer & West have two wells producing from the same stratum as the new gusher but neither of the older wells has any appreciable gas flow. Their No. 2 Morrison, the most recently completed, is making 280 barrels daily after four months, a slight increase over the initial production.

Thus it was that Nash & Windfohr had only two small storage tanks on the location of the new well, no more than enough space to care for the output of the gusher for a few minutes.

Throwing about 15,000,000 cubic feet of gas into the air every 24 hours, the McCloud well immediately became a fire threat and guards patrolled the territory keeping spectators at a safe distance. Less than a mile away, one freight train and one passenger train of the Rock Island stood idly on the track, awaiting a signal from the owners of the well that the oil flow had been capped.

Crew Fights Flow

A large crew of men worked frenziedly tonight to erect additional storage facilities and to lay pipe lines to care for the gas and oil but there was little expectation that the situation would be under complete control before Wednesday morning.

A control gate was placed over the hole before the well was drilled in but was found too light to check the rush of oil. While a few turns of the control head would have closed the spout, this was not attempted because of the small size equipment, the operators fearing the well might "drill itself" deeper and blow off the gate.

The McCloud well is located in the southwest corner of the J. W. Manning survey, abstract 188. It is about 100 feet from the Rock Island right of way and less than 300 feet from the Loving highway on which all traffic was halted while the crew labored to conserve the enormous production.

Gauge Impossible

No gauge of the well's production had been possible late tonight but veteran oil men here said the oil flow would approximate 5,000 barrels daily and the gas about 15,000,000 cubic feet.

The Morrison field, located on the opposite side of the range of hills and nearer the city of Graham, produces from a sand at 2,800 feet as well as from the deeper horizon. The 2,800-foot wells have ranged in production from 200 to 2,000 barrels and some of them have gassed heavily, but none approached the performance of the McCloud gusher.

The battle to tame the geyser was under the active direction of Jim Nash and Joe Windfohr, the principal owners. They left word at their hotel here that they would be in the field until their prize producer was under control.

Hundreds of persons from Graham and other Young county communities visited the well this afternoon and tonight but few of them were able to see much of the battle of man against the forces of nature. Guards held all visitors back and the thick growth of trees covering the hill excluded the grimy workmen from the view of the curious throngs.

Not dreaming they were about to unleash such a tremendous gas

Boy Slain and Father Wounded In Shooting Over Drainage Ditch

GREENVILLE, Texas, April 8. (AP)—Pennington Mallow, 17, was shot and killed and his father, A. B. Mallow, 55, was wounded seriously today at Kingston, seven miles north of here. A charge of murder was filed against J. H. Curtis, 60.

The Mallows were shot while digging a drain ditch between their property and Curtis' property. Orville Mallow, brother of the slain youth, escaped a shot fired at him by running under a culvert.

The father was brought here. He told Henry Pharr, district attorney, and H. L. Carpenter, assistant county attorney, that Curtis approached him after he burned some grass on his property several days ago that scorched fence posts between the properties.

Young Mallow died soon after he was shot. The elder Mallow was struck by three pistol bullets.

Sheriff L. L. Porter hurried to Kingston after the shooting was reported and placed Curtis under arrest. He refused to discuss the shooting.

Power Turned Back Into Altus Lines As Crew Fights to Repair Fire Loss

Special to The Record News.

ALTUS, Okla., April 8.—Emergency efforts of a crew of 40 regular and volunteer workers in clearing debris and making repairs after the fire which swept the Municipal Power and Light plant here Monday afternoon restored a full electric current to Altus Tuesday and allowed the city to resume its normal activities.

Interrupted industrial and domestic power went back to the usual standard as first one and then another of the Diesal engines that supply the current were put into operation again. Heavy insurance carried on the plant was believed adequate to complete the repairs when officials re-checked the fire losses Tuesday.

Conidtions were restored to normalcy after the volunteer salvagers worked all Monday night. Men and materials were shipped in from Elk City, Luther Smith, city treasurer, has already entered orders for steel engine parts, and other re-building material for the permanent reconstruction.

JURY REPORT SLATED TODAY

First Indictments Scheduled For April Term

Presentation of the large number of cases pending for consideration of the grand jury for the April term of the 30th district court was nearing completion Tuesday afternoon and the first report of the grand jury is expected about noon Wednesday, it was announced by George W. Anderson, assistant district attorney.

Trial of persons named in the indictments returned will begin with the third week of the court session, according to Judge Allan D. Montgomery of the 30th district court. Judge P. A. Martin of the 89th district court will occupy the bench next week in the trials.

The case of a Vernon man, charged with a statutory offense after he and another Vernon man were alleged to have taken two young girls on a trip to the fat stock show in Fort Worth, is one among several capital cases on which the jury will report. Other statutory charges and two charges of murder against two negro men are included in the capital cases. The grand jury is also considering an unusually large number of forgery cases, Mr. Anderson said.

THEATER PLANS TICKET SALE

Funds to Aid Work of Welfare Societies

Organization for a campaign designed to sell 2,500 tickets at 50 cents each for the Little Theater's performance of "The Enemy" on April 22 was completed Tuesday afternoon at a joint meeting of Junior chamber of commerce members and representatives of the Salvation Army and the Family Relief association, beneficiaries.

Following brief talks by Ensign A. Schultz and Mrs. Effie McHam, Salvation Army commander and Family Relief association executive secretary, respectively, the city was divided into 28 district, each district to be covered by a committee of Junior chamber of commerce members for the sale of tickets to the benefit performance of "The Enemy." The ticket selling campaign will be inaugurated Wednesday morning, and will be followed until the 2,500 admissions have been sold, it was said.

The two speakers who appeared before those present at Teusday afternoon's meeting depicted graphically the drastic need of the two charitable organizations for funds to carry on their work among the ppor. According to the plans already laid, the performance of the Little Theater's play will place at least $850 in the fund for these two organizations. Sale of tickets is expected to net $1,250 in gross receipts, and about $400 will be devoted to taking the cast of "The Enemy" to Fort Worth for participation in the state Little Theaters contest on April 25. The benefit play is to be given in the Memorial auditorium, use of that building having been granted recently for that purpose.

"The Enemy," by Channing Pollock, is a stirring tragi-drama of post-war setting, and is one of the many shafts aimed by Pollock through his colorful pen against the institution of war. It proved one of the most effective and successful of the plays given by the Little Theater, and is favored with an unusually capable cast.

He must write it whether he has anything to say or not, and there are some days when he realizes it is mighty dull reading. On such days he turns it in to the printers with the wish that it did not have to be printed. Of course, there is just about as much to talk about one day as another, but there are some days when it seems almost impossible to think of anything to talk about or to think of thing to say about the things that suggest themselves or are suggested.

When Glenn Frank, now president of the University of Wisconsin and then editor of the Century Magazine, contracted with the McClure Newspaper syndicate to write a daily article for newspaper publication he did so with the expressed reservation that if he found that he could not present a real thought each day that he was at liberty to void the contract. That was a number of years ago and the newspapers have not missed a day in the publication of his articles.

Glenn Frank finds application for his great store of knowledge. He presents this knowledge with a skill that has never dulled but has grown keener with daily use. He not only has a great store of knowledge but a trained and disciplined mind that he brings to the service not only to the students of a great university but to countless readers of newspapers throughout the country. Talker would count Glenn Frank's articles the most stimulating mentally of any newspaper feature.

The baseball season opens today, and Talker promises himself to furnish one bit of packing for the park this afternoon and one bit of swelling for the chest.

Postal Rental 'Racket' Aired

startling statement that Alexander Fisher, an investigator for the senate committee, "died two years ago under what I consider suspicious circumstances while he was investigating postoffice leases for me." Nye gave no details on Fisher's death nor what leases he was inquiring into at the time.

"Rotten to Bottom"

Declaring that the St. Paul situation was "a fair reflection of the situation throughout the country," Nye asserted that "everybody who has looked into it has found it was rotten to the bottom."

Nye charged that the promoters of the St. Paul postoffice building, which has been assessed at $317,000 and for which the government pays an annual rental of $120,000, floated a bond issue of $750,000 through the firm of Jacob Kulp & Co. of Chicago, before they had the government contract.

Prosecution Urged

The North Dakotan also charged that the securities were sold on the representation that the lease was "noncancellable" when, in truth, it was cancellable. Later, he said, the promoters secured a noncancellable contract by slightly reducing the rental.

This led Senator Wheeler of Montana to remark that the attorney general should prosecute on the grounds of "defrauding the government" and "using the mails to defraud."

"The government should take some action on these unconscionable crooks," declared Nye, "who sold people bonds on these buildings at $3 when they were worth but $1."

INSURANCE MEN NAME OFFICERS

Wilson Reedy Elected Head Of Local Exchange

Election of new officers for the ensuing year featured the meeting of the Wichita Falls Insurance exchange held Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in the directors room of the chamber of commerce.

The following officers and directors were chosen: Wilson Reedy, president; Tom Vague, vice president; John W. Thomas, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Sarah Simmons, assistant secretary; B. B. Greever, C. Y. Tully, Miss Maude Thomas, J. W. Williams and J. L. Jackson Jr., directors.

Following the election, those present at the meeting participated in a prolonged discussion of the "buy-at-home" movement for the purpose of enabling members of the exchange better to cooperate with the purposes of that campaign, it was said.

and four others taken prisoners, the dispatch said.

Troops followed relentlessly until Monday, when General Pablo Rodriguez, military commander of the Nayarit area, finally acceded to requests by young Bristow that pursuit be withdrawn, at least until contact might be established.

Bristow was captured March 10 while prospecting for gold in the mountains at Nayarit. An interpreter named Fields, who accompanied Bristow, delivered the ransom note, was held as a possible conspirator.

Word of the capture did not reach the outside world for several days. When the news reached Obie, a former University of Oklahoma football star, he hastily left for Mexico.

New Airline To Touch Wichita

in time to connect with the Western Air Express liners en route to Los Angeles, giving one day service from Dallas, Wichita Falls and Tulsa to the coast. Passengers boarding the ships at the Municipal port here in the morning will arrive in Los Angeles the evening of the same day. Connections will also be maintained out of this city to Denver, giving daily service to all intermediate points.

The line through here will use tri-motored, 12-passenger ships and the line from Amarillo to Denver will use six-passenger planes, the dispatches said. Tulsa will be the eastern terminus of the Los Angeles line. Amarillo, Albuquerque, N. M., and Holbrook and Kingman, Ariz., will be stops on the line through here to the coast.

AMARILLO BECOMES CENTER OF SYSTEM

AMARILLO, Texas, April 8. (AP)—Daily air passenger service effective tomorrow in five directions from Amarillo was announced here today by W. D. Peck Jr., district passenger agent for Western Air Express.

The routes include the present ships, one each way, between Los Angeles and Kansas City, and three new connections, one each to Wichita Falls and Dallas; to Oklahoma City and Tulsa; and to Pueblo, Colorado Springs and Denver.

The Colorado connection will be operated by the Midcontinent Air Express, closely affiliated with the W. A. E.

In point of planes in and out daily, Amarillo becomes second only to Los Angeles in importance for the 14,500 miles of daily operation for W. A. E. and its affiliated lines, officials said. Tomorrow's schedule adds 2,000 miles to the W. A. E. daily runs.

A permanent personnel of 16, including three overnight pilots, will be in Amarillo.

The schedule is so arranged that west and northbound ships from Tulsa and Dallas and intermediate points will arrive here in time to connect with the regular westbound ship on the Kansas City-Los Angeles route.

FIRE ENDANGERS BIG W. A. E. SHIP

DALLAS, April 8. (AP)—Fire at Love field today threatened the new $70,000 tri-motored plane which will go West on the first run of the W. A. E. one-day service from Amarillo to Los Angeles Wednesday. The blaze started in the left wing pit, but was extinguished before it did material damage, and repairs were made tonight.

Chicago Exchange Seat Brings New High Price

CHICAGO, April 8. (INS)—The price of a seat on the Chicago stock exchange reached a new high figure for the year today, for a second time this month.

Arrangements were made today to sell two seats at $35,000, each, which is $1,000 more than the high of $34,000 established last Friday.

flow, the operators drilled the spouter in without a "bradenhead" available. A bradenhead, it was explained by operators, is a heavy valve device designed so as to allow oil and gas to come out of a well in separate flow lines. The crew was striving tonight to emplace a bradenhead.

Other Big Wells

Following closely the completion of several other large flowing wells in the Graham field, oil men believe the gusher will assure a continued rapid development of the prolific sands, found from 2,200 to 3,800 feet.

Only Monday the Atlantic Oil Producing company and Christie Brothers of Wichita Falls brought in their No. 2 M. J. Jarnagin well in the Shaw-Kissinger pool in the southern part of the county. This well started flowing from a depth of 2,522 feet, 22 feet in the pay and today still was making 50 barrels per hour, with 1,500,000 cubic feet of gas.

Independent's No. 1 Jarnagin is on the sand at 2,529 feet and Shaw and Knox No. 3 Jarnagin has topped the sand at 2,475 feet. Both wells are expected to drill in within the next day or two.

NEW SHIP CRASHES

YAKIMA, Wash., April 8. (INS)—While on a test flight here today, a new airplane crashed, killing Russell Schlosstein the pilot.

Plane Rushes Smallpox Cure to Stricken City

WASHINGTON, April 8. (AP)—Dispatch of 283 pounds of smallpox antitoxin by air mail to relieve an epidemic in Costa Rica was reported to Second Assistant Postmaster General W. Orving Glover today from Miami, Fla., where the mail plane left at 7 a. m. It will arrive at Punta Arenas, Costa Rica, at 10 a. m., tomorrow.

Artist in Seclusion After Murder Trial

ALBANY, N. Y., April 8. (UP)—Henri Marchand, the painter and sculptor who made love to Lila Jimerson, seneca spinster, for the sake of his art, secluded himself tonight in his chateau on a hill overlooking Burgen's lake near here.

On the doors were crudely painted signs reading "keep off" and "dangerous police dog—beware," while an unidentified man turned back anyone who attempted to see Marchand.

How A College Athlete Keeps Himself Well

Colgate University Swimmer finds "Five Times the Vitality" in Simple Health Rule

Robert O. Deming fancy diver on Colgate University Swimming Team.

BOB DEMING of Colgate, one of the fancy divers of the University Swimming Team, says that nobody can accuse him of having been saved from being a physical wreck. He just claims that a sensible method of health has really made life a pleasure for him.

His room-mate was the first one to suggest to him that he try this method, which has changed so many people's lives, and Mr. Deming writes that at first he could not believe this simple thing was the cause of his buoyant spirits. Finally, however, he had to admit that it was Nujol which was keeping him well, besides giving him, as he says, "five times the vitality."

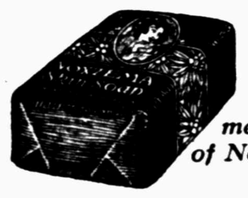

"Believe me," he says "having free and regular bodily elimination makes all the difference in the world to a diver as well as to any other athlete. I can't afford to be nervous, sluggish, or depressed while diving. It just isn't done! I would like to urge any one, whether they think they are in good health or not, to give Nujol a try-out. It certainly can't do any harm, and I'll bet it would make them feel a hundred per cent better. It's worth trying!"

Mr. Deming has just about told the whole story. He is right in believing that Nujol contains no drugs, no medicines of any kind. It is tasteless and colorless as pure water. It is simply harmless internal lubrication, which your body needs as much as any other machine. Regularly as clock work, Nujol cleans out of your body those poisons which we all have, and which make us low in our minds, tired, headachy, and below par.

The way for you to find out how much better Nujol will make you feel is to try it for a few days. You can get a bottle in a sealed package at any drug store. It costs only a few cents, but it makes you feel like a million dollars. Why shouldn't you feel well all the time? Get yourself a bottle of Nujol today!

OVER 3,000,000 WOMEN NOW USE NOXZEMA

"It has done wonders for my skin" THEY SAY

More local women are turning to Noxzema Cream today than to any other beauty cream sold here. And there's only one explanation—Noxzema does bring beautiful complexions—soft, clear, healthy skins, radiantly lovely. Thousands of women who formerly used the finest toilet creams money could buy, now use and swear by Noxzema as the only way to free their complexions of imperfections and keep them smooth, clear and beautiful.

Used as powder base and night massage

ALL beauty authorities today are saying, "A healthy skin is a beautiful skin!" "Clear away the tiny, everyday flaws in your skin, make it glow with health, and you'll be amazed at its new beauty!"

Large pores, blemishes, oiliness, rough skin, and other flaws that destroy beauty are almost always due to one of two things—sluggish skin that needs stimulating or to invisible skin poisons caused by dust and powder clogging the pores and infecting the skin. Noxzema is a snow-white healing toilet cream that sinks deep into the skin, draws out all poisons and stimulates the skin back to smooth, glowing loveliness.

Use Noxzema cream this way—as a base for powder during the day; then, after cleansing the skin at night, massage Noxzema into the skin and leave it on overnight. Feel your skin in the morning—notice now much finer its texture is—after one treatment. See for yourself—get a jar of Noxzema today.

The coupon is valuable—clip it now and present it at the nearest drug or department store listed.

A STATEMENT by GILLETTE about the New Razor and Blade

By Frank J. Fahey
Vice-President

WE had planned to produce 80,000 of the New Razors daily. We have found it necessary to increase this to 100,000 a day.

We have shipped over 3,000,000 New Razors and 65,000,000 New Blades.

Production is still behind the demand.

We made sure of our ground before beginning to manufacture these new products. It was our purpose to produce the greatest shaving improvement in the twenty-eight years of our history.

The public is the final judge of every manufacturer's product. The public has tried the New Razor and the New Blade. Its verdict is even more enthusiastic than we had dared to hope.

We desire to express our grateful appreciation.

Officers Named At High School P.-T. A. Meeting

Mrs. Paul Barnett was elected president of the high school and Junior college P.-T. A. when the association met Tuesday afternoon in the auditorium of the Junior college. Other officers are Mrs. Walter Cline, first vice president; Mrs. Harry ten Brink, second vice president; Mrs. C. E. Basham, third vice president; Miss L. Friend, secretary; Mrs. I. R. Sheldon, social chairman; Mrs. M. L. Tittle, publicity chairman; Mesdames Leon Deaton and S. A. Covington, council representatives.

An especially interesting program was given, with music by the high school orchestra furnishing the opening number under the direction of Durward Park in the absence of Mrs. Vaughn. Miss Virginia Ely gave the devotional, taking for her subject, "Fragments." Mrs. Grover C. Johnson made a splendid talk on "Training for Citizenship in the Home."

The college quartet gave several numbers in splendid harmony and Dr. J. W. Cantwell, who spoke on "The Wise Use of Leisure," told of a pageant in Atlantic City in an auditorium seating 40,000. He stressed the special music, the stupendous cost of educating in the wise use of leisure. Dr. Cantwell said he believed that music, sports and healthy activities help to keep children from the lure of vice.

Business Meeting

In the business meeting, Mrs. A. J. Newby, chairman of the thrift exchange, talked of all the benefits that will accrue from this department, Mrs. L. L. Boardman made a plea for clothes to be sent to the school and asked that all cases needing help be reported.

Mrs. H. O. Newton, chairman of the nominating committee, reported the slate of new officers named and they were unanimously elected to office.

Mrs. I. R. Sheldon, president of the P.-T. A. is the official delegate to the conference meeting in Electra next week and Mrs. S. A. Covington alternate.

Other delegates named from the high school and Junior college association were Mesdames Ralph Hines, Paul Barnett, Mark Walker, H. A. McCarty, T. M. McKinney, Leon Deaton, C. E. Bailey, S. A. Covington, C. W. Roundtree, Everett McCullough, L. L. Albritton, H. O. Newton, Harry Smart, Nat Chenault, Bert Broday, T. R. Boone, W. M. Cason, William Huff, Lester Jones, L. C. Shanklin, Fred Barron, Mary B. Adams, R. D. Bone, Jason C. Walker, C. P. Warman, L. L. Boardman, Mills Tittle, C. E. Basham, Harry ten Brink and Walter Cline.

More than 100 members were present at the meeting and much enthusiasm was shown.

PEEPS AT PEOPLE

By MRS. L. N. CASON

In years gone by, one thought of the farmer and his wife, far away from urban life, sitting under the glow of a prismed oil hanging lamp, studying the fascinating pages of a mail order catalog. He would dream of the farm machinery he would buy, and from the thick pages his wife might not only choose furniture and musical instruments but clothes of all kinds.

That day is past; there is not enough of the world left without facilities for reaching the cities to dream of any farm life such as used to be. They even have electric lights and water pumped into the bath tub, instead of filling oil lamps and the children washing their feet at night in a tin wash pan on the back porch.

But we have discovered a 1930 equivalent for these old dreams. Looking Monday night for long distance telephone toils to an adjacent city, we became enthusiastic over the distances to which we might send our voice for approximately small sums.

To the east and the north and the south, station to station calls were almost like the fairy carpet in the "Thief of Bagdad." We might talk to Atlanta, Ga., for the price of a pair of hose; we could reach our old home and hear loved voices from Tennessee for less than the price of a "facial" massage. Think—for such a sum, to reach the land that was the heaven that lay about us "in our infancy." Many people pay as much for dinner as it would cost them to talk "station to station" to Detroit. We felt tempted to call up Detroit and talk to Henry Ford—only we don't know Henry Ford's number.

Some people get long and glorious journeys from steamship advertisements and we must confess that we ourselves have visited many a picturesque spot in just such manner.

—He who has imagination to fancy far countries, and who can live in the past with glorious adventurers is a fortunate being. In dreams we lose the sharply defined purposes of our working hours; we are no longer limited individuals; we are lost in the world of imagination.

Loneliness is the deepest pathos of human possibility. One may long for his home and suffer an intolerable nostalgia. One may be lonely for friends and unless he be one of the fortunate who has found friends in books and in outdoors, he will spend wretched hours.

That is why we feel that to be able to give one's self to universal life will make one feel the peace and quiet of infinity, and restore to a lonesome soul the sweet calm of nature's healing.

One is greater in unconscious thought than in deliberate thinking.

Dan Moody Jr., Cuts His First Birth day Cake at Governor's Mansion at Austin

In years to come, this picture will no doubt be treasured by the young people who are featured in it, since it shows them in what was for most of them at least, their initial bow to Texas society. The picture was made just as Dan Moody Jr., was preparing to sample his first birthday cake, at the party at which he celebrated with his friends in Austin at the governor's mansion.

Texas "Air-Minded," Says Lecturer

Red-Headed Babies Also Please Skeyhill

By ELEANOR FLEMING
The Record News Staff

Half gasping, half whispering choice bits of philosophy, personal history and Broadway wisecracks between treatments he was being given to restore his voice for his Tuesday night lecture at the Woman's Forum, Tom Skeyhill distinguished himself in at least two ways Tuesday afternoon in an interview given The Record News. Mr. Skeyhill is not only the first lecturer in this country whose entire tour is made by air travel, but he is the first celebrity (or solubrity, as he describes himself) who has given an interview while his throat was being rejuvenated.

The diagnosis-interview, which took place in the office of Dr. R. H. Peterson, revealed the Australian author-lecturer's persistent good humor and wit (as well as an irritated throat). Suffering from a persistent headache, which he described as "the sort of agony I've been suffering the last 14 years because of the damned war," he maintained a continual cheerful conversation and brilliant repartee.

Remembering his own days as a cub reporter and the usual question as to hobbies, he beat the reporter to the conventional question. "My hobbies are airplanes, osteopaths and red-headed babies," he said, as if he had probably told several hundred other reporters the same thing.

"I like airplanes because it's the only way to travel. There is no state in the union who can boast of the wonderful air service that you have in Texas," he said. "The low rates and comfortable facilities here are making Texas air-minded faster than the natives of other states."

Mr. Skeyhill delights in the distinction of being the first lecturer to make his entire tour by plane. The present tour includes Chicago, Oklahoma City, Waco, Dallas, Abilene, Houston, New Orleans and Kansas City.

"I like osteopaths because my sight was restored by an osteopath after two years of blindness," he said. "And I like red-headed babies because—" Failing to think of any better reason, Skeyhill finally admitted, in much the same manner as the average proud parent, that his only child, a three-months old daughter named Marie, was as red-headed as her mother.

"This is the craziest thing I ever did in my life," he whispered, his voice still betraying the pain he was suffering. "I couldn't bear to cancel my engagements on account of this, so I am just spending all my time in bed and with a doctor except when I am traveling or lecturing."

Mr. Skeyhill also told of a "glorious turkey hunt" in the Tennessee mountains a few days ago with Sergeant Alvin York, whose biography Skeyhill wrote. He is at present writing a life of Sergeant York for boys and is also completing research for a biography of Napoleon. His biography of York, recently published, broke even those record prices established by Coolidge, Skeyhill receiving $25,000 for 14,000 words.

Splendid Reports Made at Meet of Executive Board

According to the report of Mrs. Fred T. Datson at the meeting of the executive board of the Federated Missionary societies Tuesday morning, 1,513 children were taken care of at the day nursery during the month of March, an average of 58 per day.

Reports of various committees were given and as special emphasis is being placed on the services being held at the county farm each Sunday, it was announced that Grant Street Methodist church would hold the service there Sunday, April 13; the Easter services will be held by the First Christian church, and Lamar Avenue Baptist church will hold services on April 27.

The month of May will be courtesy month for the First Methodist church at the day nursery.

Among the representatives present were Mesdames G. R. Ellis, L. E. Cowling, W. H. Downing, O. T. Ailes, Daisy Dean, J. R. McKinley, Carrie Wilcox, B. P. Williams, J. L. Keevil, S. E. Trevathan, Harry Hines, Horrace Robbins, W. W. Cook, M. C. Beatty, Van Leslie, Harry Weeks, R. E. Hilburn, C. A. Spragin, G. C. Raley, Charles Harr, J. G. Oakley, Almond Gates, John Singleton, R. O. Harvey, N. B. Rawls, C. G. Watson, Kaufman, Paul Green, L. Loevy and D. B. Greene.

FLEX makes Home Decoration a Pleasure

We speak of varnish, enamel and lacquer as practically synonymous with paint. In reality they are all different, each serving a purpose of its own. Now comes a new product—neither an enamel nor a lacquer—it is FLEX, the new color finish—a brushing finish that's fun to use.

FLEX is easier to apply than any other finish. Any one can use it and bring cheer and color into the home with surprising results. The modern trend is towards more color in the home. FLEX offers twenty beautiful colors. You can use a different color in every room, or a combination of shades in each room. The color possibilities of FLEX are limitless.

FLEX can be brushed on in any direction without showing a brushmark. It dries quickly with a glossy satiny finish that resists moisture, dirt, dust and wear. It gives a hard, tough surface that will not chip or peel. A FLEX finish lasts for years.

FLEX has hundreds of uses. It makes a wonderful finish for the automobile and provides eight separate colors for that purpose. Your nearest FLEX dealer sells the full line of FLEX colors in cans of all sizes up to one gallon.—Adv.

Many Guests Hear Lecturer Tuesday On Social Work

W. W. Whitson, national representative of the Family Welfare association and secretary of the Houston social service bureau was the main speaker Tuesday when a delightful luncheon was served to a group of men and women interested in social work.

Mr. Whitson made a plea for sympathy and understanding, his outstanding point being that in any welfare work, especially that of family relief, the worker should seek first the underlying causes. The rehabilitation of the family was pointed out as the essential thing and a knowledge of environment helps, he stated, to eradicate so far as is possible the causes and put to use the helpful elements in the community.

Among the guests attending the luncheon were James A. McDonald, Rev. H. T. Wood, M. A. Bundy; T. C. Scott, Ensign and Mrs. A. Shultz; Mesdames Harley Snyder, Hazel Jensen, R. P. Willis, A. J. Newby, E. W. Carter, J. F. Detlefs, A. F. Kimmell, W. H. Penix, J. L. Keevil, G. R. Ellis, C. A. Spragins, W. H. Downing, B. P. Williams, W. W. Cook, R. O. Harvey, J. C. Payne, A. L. Proctor, Misses Ruth Downing, Marguerite Haynie and Myrle Neely, Mesdames C. W. Staley, Elbert Hanks, J. J. Jenkins, J. A. Stulken, C. R. Hartsook, W. O. Davidson; Misses Vera Jo Dolph, Pearl Rorabaugh and Martha Temple.

Woman's Council Given Lovely Entertainment

Mrs. J. Lem Keevil's class of Business Girls and Mrs. H. T. Wood's Girls' Circle were hostesses Monday evening to the Woman's Council of the First Christian church, with Mrs. Wood presiding. The first Easter program of several to be observed, was the delightful entertainment of the evening.

A violin trio by Misses Lucile Snyder, Merrell Etrong and Norita Sims with Mrs. R. E. Shepherd accompanist, was a beautiful feature of the evening. Rev. H. T. Wood gave the opening prayer and R. E. Shepherd led in the singing.

Misses Chella Hendrix and Dorothy Reed had interesting parts on the program and R. E. Shepherd gave a vocal solo, "In the Secret of His Presence."

It was announced that $356.70 was collected at the meeting and after Dr. R. H. Wolford dismissed the audience with prayer, the two hostess groups served a delicious refreshment plate.

An unusual feature noted was that among the approximate 100 people in the audience, a number of the men of the church were present.

Lamar Philathea Class Has Business Meeting

Members of the Philathea class of the Lamar Avenue Baptist church met Tuesday at the home of Mrs. A. A. Foster for the regular monthly business meeting.

Following the business meeting and a social hour, a delicious refreshment plate was served to Misses Daisy Straley, Virgie Moore, Margaret Hollingshead, Nannie Mae Parish, Ruth Terrell, Ozella Foster, and Mesdames Raymond Ryle, W. O. Fisher and A. A. Foster.

Music Study Club Has Inspiring Program

The regular meeting of the Music Study club was held Tuesday morning at the home of Mrs. C. M. Miller with Mrs. Jimmie Allred acting as hostess. Among those present was Mrs. Harwood Stacy of Austin, who holds the distinction of being the only honorary member of the organization.

The meeting was led by Mrs. F. E. Van Wormer with an instructive talk on "Oratorio." The program follows:

Of the Tailor and the Bear ..... McDowell
Mrs. Ben Bell
I Know That My Redeemer Liveth ..... Handel
Mrs. Fred Barron
Aria ..... Tenaglia
Mrs. Flora Greenwood

Store Clerks, Attention

"For two years I suffered with irregularities and finally had to leave school. I got no relief until my married sister told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. After taking only two bottles I felt well. Since then I have been able to clerk in a store, on my feet all day and have suffered only once from my old trouble. I want other girls, especially store clerks, to know what it did for me."—Dorothy L. Fairchild, 924 Walnut Street, Freeland, Pennsylvania.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Right Ideal

This four-year-old athlete is the son of Mrs. Sam Jones, 1702 W. Laurel St., San Antonio. She says: "Jimmie's wonderful condition shows my idea is right.

"Whenever he's the least cross or upset, or has a cold, I give him a little California Fig Syrup. It always brightens him up; regulates his stomach and bowels; gives him a hearty appetite. I have used it with all my children and it has never failed to help them promptly."

All children love the rich, fruity flavor of California Fig Syrup. A pure vegetable product, it doesn't gripe or sicken. It always acts gently but thoroughly to cleanse the system of bilious, headachy, constipated children. Doctors say it tones and strengthens weak bowels. Try it with your child. See how bad breath, coated tongue or feverishness disappear!

The name California, marks the genuine, famous for 50 years. So look for it when buying.—Adv.

You never need feel self-conscious .. wearing this sanitary pad

WHAT a relief to know that you can depend completely on Kotex! You aren't handicapped by self-consciousness or embarrassment.

Kotex, you know, is the sanitary pad that is fashioned to fit. It is just wide enough, just long enough and it's made of a remarkable substance known as Cellucotton absorbent wadding, which is not cotton, but a cellulose substance that's really five times more absorbent than cotton.

Eighty-five per cent of our leading hospitals now use this very same Kotex absorbent.

Here's the reason so many women began to use Kotex: it is easily disposable. Buy a box. Try it.

Kotex Company, Chicago, Illinois.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1—Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, lasting softness.

2—Deodorizes, safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

3—Disposable, instantly, completely.

Regular Kotex—45c for 12
Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12

Forum Department Will Give Garden Program Thursday

The last meeting for the season of the literature department of the Woman's Forum will be a picturesque garden tea Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Freear's Furniture company has arranged to add to the natural beauty of the forum grounds with unusually beautiful garden furniture. Gay umbrellas over pretty seats, stately urns, wrought iron stands and all the attractive things that make summer grounds irresistible will be placed by this company.

Mrs. J. W. Cantwell will preside and the interesting program given on the lawn will include a talk by Mrs. J. T. Harrell on "Modern Tendencies of American and European Poetry," which she will illustrate with several interesting readings.

Miss Eva Weber will tell of recent outstanding books and will give a preview of the most interesting publications promised for the coming season.

Mrs. M. M. Garrett will give two vocal numbers with Mrs. A. H. Mahaffey, accompanying and Stanley Raub, accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Akin Jr., will give two violin numbers.

The arrangements committee includes Mrs. Bert Bean, chairman, Mesdames W. W. Silk, Frank Timberlake, C. W. Snider and S. S. McKenney.

Reservations may be made with Miss Clara Schultz, 9664.

Presbyterian Group Has Supper Program Monday

An interesting program was enjoyed by the Business Girls Missionary society of the First Presbyterian church after a delightful supper at the church Monday evening.

Joyce Samuel gave the devotional opening the business meeting and Thelma Maxwell was elected first vice president of the organization. Several important committees were appointed, and it was decided to take as the course of study, "Jerusalem to Jerusalem."

The first number on the program was "The Twentieth Century Parable," by Miss Helen Leech. Miss Scott gave "Stories From Africa." Mrs. W. E. Brothers talked on the general subject of Japan and "The Story of a Missionary in Japan" was given by Miss Delma Wilson.

Members present were Misses Joyce Samuels, Macie McClure, Delma Wilson, Mary McIlheran, Marietta Hunt, Ila Cook, Nellie Mae Mask, Erma Schnelle, Mary Jane Nelson, Nan Scott, Helen Leech, Sue Potts, Mesdames Maud Bartholomew, W. E. Brothers, D. G. Whitnet and J. W. Culbertson.

Don't Go to Extremes To End Constipation

When bad breath, or a coated tongue, biliousness or headaches warn of constipation, don't take violent purgatives. There's no use when a candy Cascaret will stop the trouble in a jiffy; will cleanse your system pleasantly, and completely.

The relief you get so promptly from Cascarets is lasting. Cascarets are made from cascara a substance which medical authorities agree actually strengthens the bowel muscles.

So Cascarets are a blessing to old folks with weakened bowels; to children; to anyone in need of establishing regular bowel habits. Ten cents a box—all drug stores.—Adv.

Poultry Breeders Form Association at Booker

Special to The Record News.

PERRYTON, Texas, April 8.—Poultry breeders of the Booker community have organized a poultry association. Plans call for the new organization to meet the first Monday night of each month and a committee was appointed to work out rules and regulations of the association and to fix up the by-laws and constitution. These will be presented at the next meeting.

R. B. Galloway of the poultry extension department of the Panhandle Lumber company, Guy R. Sheets, Ochiltree county agent, T. D. Moss, secretary of the North Plains Poultry association, Rev. L. B. Brady and R. D. Hall of Booker were speakers at the organization meeting. O. O. Miller, vocational agriculture teacher was chairman. Around 30 farmers were in attendance and all of them were practical poultry breeders.

Officers elected are: L. B. Brady, president; Mrs. Jim Fleck, vice president; O. O. Miller, secretary, and Jim Fleck, treasurer. Those on the committee to work out the constitution are Mrs. R. D. Hall, Mrs. O. A. Asplin and Jessie Landreth. A membership drive will be started at once.

Strip Cadillac and La Salle —If You Will

STRIP Cadillac and La Salle of their prestige, their social position, their rank in the forefront of the world's fine things—

Strip them of their sheer elegance and beauty—go further, strip them of all that gives them character in refinement of detail, of embellishment and decoration—

Strip from the Cadillac and La Salle chassis their magnificent Fisher and Fleetwood bodies, eliminating with these bodies also the invaluable protective feature—non-shatterable Security-Plate Glass. Then take from their engines their lynx-like agility, their hushed mightiness.

Leave them only the usual engine qualities—substitute the usual transmission for the quick, quiet and clashless Syncro-Mesh gear-shift—some lesser four-wheel brakes for the Cadillac-La Salle positive, powerful safety-mechanical system—the usual steering for Cadillac's harmonized finger-touch control—the usual motor car body for all the extra luxury and the individual beauty of the Fisher and Fleetwood creations. And you will still have a superior car—

Superior in that the architecture is Cadillac's and because the making of these cars is in the hands of an organization of skilled fine-car specialists of 30 years' standing.

Superior because General Motors affiliations make possible economies which are passed on to our owners in the form of the lowest prices in the industry for anything comparable in a motor car.

BUT compare Cadillac and La Salle, as they really are, with any other car and compare the prices.

If your purpose be to find the finest in a motor car and the most in value, you will come to the happy conclusion that you have found it in the Cadillac V-type Eight, the La Salle V-type Eight, or the Cadillac V-16.

La Salle prices, $2385 to $3995; Cadillac V-type Eight prices, $3295 to $5145; Cadillac V-16 prices, $5350 to $9700. Special coach work up to $15,000. All prices f. o. b. Detroit

The G. M. A. C. Deferred Payment Plan is available to all Cadillac or La Salle purchasers

Easter Opening, April 12th to 19th

There is no more appropriate time than the week preceding Easter to present formally the Cadillac-La Salle line. From the La Salle and Cadillac V-type Eights to the custom Cadillac V-16, these models offer a range in variety and choice not obtainable in the combined products of all other makers. This Easter Showing has been arranged to provide every opportunity for you to examine and study these cars, and will include, in addition to the eight-cylinder Cadillacs and La Salles, such sixteen-cylinder Cadillacs as purchasers will permit the dealer to retain. The Showing extends from April 12th to 19th. An inspection of these cars will prove invaluable in the right selection of your car. 938

Herbert Kaufman's

DON'T U CROAK WITH THE CROWS

Daily Editorial

NINETEEN HUNDRED TWENTY-One found our ports clogged with merchandise assembled in expectation of Europe's resumed buying-power. Sugar, wheat, leather, lumber, cotton, fats and meat were massed in elevators and warehouses for invasion of old world markets.

War had stripped Europe's shelves and gutted her larders. Undernourished millions yonder, desperately clamored for our foodstuffs—and foreign factories, at last demobilized from military service, frantically signaled local cotton and oil fields, tanneries, granges and copper mines, to rush delivery.

But unfortunately for all concerned, overseas purchasers were short of the only sort of money we could profitably, use. So we kept our goods and they kept inflating the franc and mark and krone, until the shrewdest financier in threadneedle or Broad street couldn't estimate trends of exchange even between dawn and dark.

That's when the American business man lastingly learned not to grill his meat until the customer was seated.

Costly and depressing experience, designed the brakes which now restrain employment and restrict commercial credit. The gigantic losses which banks suffered in the process of thawing the billions in frozen inventories at that time, largely account for their continuing tendency to hobble expansion and halt loans until consumption reduces the dead loads that so many balance sheets inherit from the reckless enthusiasms of 1929. The country's working capital isn't impaired. But it still inclines to linger on islands of safety, watching for the green lights to flash "clear thoroughfare."

Money's cold-foot attack will be cured as soon as the sun takes charge and waves construction back to its interrupted job of erecting skyscrapers, building postoffices, laying highways and hatching new suburbs.

THE replacement of winter wardrobes with spring fripperies will further loosen purse strings. Every increase in retail volume, steel output, wheat shipments, and automobile sales, will open more cyclone cellars—correspondingly encourage financial confidence, and buckle more browsing dollars back into work harness.

You can't see the silver lining behind the clouds because it's tucked away in a safe-deposit box, but by fall, prosperity will be hanging it in the skies again. Nothing can keep a good country down or downhearted.

Folk, who in the space of a single century created, out of a sheer wilderness, wealths to meet fifty-two billions of war obligations without stinting opportunity a stiver, can and will promptly meet any problem which the robot, the fifty-year deadline, and all the other consequences of too-sudden efficiency may thrust upon their collective wit and conscience.

This is still a poor man's land—still a land of fair fields and open games.

Administrative vision and federal preparedness may spasmodically be caught napping, or legislation occasionally prove dilatory in selecting proper remedies for a critical moment-about tradition and the record bear witness that our get-backs invariably cover more ground than our set-backs.

Like Antaeus, the fabled giant who rose stronger from every knockdown, America has never yet failed to emerge from a muddle, better qualified to man-handle the next one.

Take J. P. Morgan's advice and quit selling the United States short. This is a bull pasture, not a bear den.

Whistle with the robins; don't croak with the crowds.

Obliging

Young Porter: Now then, hum, take your seat. The train's going.
Mother: Oh, but I must give my daughter a kiss.
Young Porter: That's all right, mum. I'll see to that for you.—Passing Show.

How about Harvard's scrub teams taking the place of the washerwomen discharged recently by the university? The college song might then be changed to read: "Till the last white line is washed."

Professor Alfred A. Michelson, noted scientist, gave a luncheon the other day and forgot to attend it. This may have been absent-mindedness on the professor's part, but many will regard it as right smart.

But there is no professor as absent-minded as the one who poured cream on his head and then scratched the strawberries.

Wanted: 3,700,000 Jobs

WILLIAM GREEN, president of the American Federation of Labor, is anything but an alarmist. He has been criticized frequently for being too conservative; never for being too radical.

Consequently, it is rather sobering to hear Mr. Green declare that the United States will have a revolution on its hands sooner or later if it does not find some way of coping with the unemployment problem.

He submits figures to buttress his argument.

There are now, he says, 3,700,000 men out of work in the United States. In the month of February alone they lost upwards of $400,000,000 in wages. Unemployment increased from 11 to 22 per cent since last October. In February one worker out of every four in trade and industry was jobless.

Those aren't very cheering facts. Mr. Green declares flatly that if the government does not find some way of providing employment it will have to consider England's use of the dole system.

"The government," he says, "will be faced with the necessity of thus taking care of the men or we will have a revolution on our hands."

In 1921 we had a serious unemployment situation. A committee headed by Herbert Hoover made an extensive study of it and reported in great detail on its causes and effects. But its report was allowed to lie in some pigeonhole or other; and when the present depression came on us, we were no better prepared to cope with it than we were in 1921.

Instead we seemed to have committed ourselves to a policy of deathless optimism. This business of repeating constantly that "conditions are bound to improve" in a few days, or weeks, or months, may be uplifting and sustaining, but it is hard to see how it can do very much for the 3,700,000 wage earners who can find no place to work. Sometimes it seems as if we are not nearly as much worried about unemployment as we are about the possibility of being compelled to admit that it exists.

If Mr. Green's blunt and forceful remarks can jar us into some sort of action he will deserve the thanks of the nation. For there is no job facing us today quite as important as the job of fixing the unemployment problem.

When 3,700,000 workers have lost their jobs, the country is far from being healthy. Our financial and industrial leaders have assured us constantly that the nation is "fundamentally sound"; it is almost time for them to offer, now, a few concrete suggestions for cashing in on that fundamental soundness. They might do well to take Mr. Green's ominous prediction to heart.

Canada and the United States

THE FACT that United States capitalists have invested more than $3,300,000,000 in Canadian enterprises has not, perhaps, drawn the attention one might expect. The sanest bit of comment on it we have seen comes from E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific railway. He says:

"It is not a penetration to which Canadians object, because it only helps to accomplish that which they all desire to see accomplished, namely, safe, sound and orderly development of its resources and expansion of its industries. We cannot very well object if you share our opinion of Canada's future, and as we are ourselves contributing to it in a larger measure from year to year we may, I think, properly regard ourselves as partners in a very sound Canadian enterprise."

The two nations are yearly discovering that they have more and more aims in common. The important thing is to insist on continuing the cordial relations of the past so that these aims may be realized.

The Lottery Winners

IT IS interesting to read that two Massachusetts girls who went to New York and got jobs as coffee shop waitresses are $12,000 riches because they bought tickets in the English Grand National Steeplechase lotteries. Interesting—but it's not news that is going to do anyone any particular good.

Indeed, that news item probably will do a great deal of harm, in one way and another, during the next year. Hundreds of people, reading it, will be inspired to go and do likewise, and will spend money they cannot afford to lose on lottery tickets that will bring them nothing whatever.

If the news excites you, you might remember that for every story like that that gets printed there are several thousand that do not get printed—the stories of those who bought lottery tickets and got nothing.

Buying lottery tickets is foolish business, even if one person in 10,000 does get rich out of it.

A Little Bit Late

THAT Buffalo artist, whose love affair with an Indian model was most unfortunately followed by the murder of his wife, was rather deeply enraged by the treatment defense lawyers gave him on the witness stand at the girl's trial for murder.

Stepping down from the stand, he announced with considerable heat that he was "through with women."

This is an excellent decision, and the gentleman can hardly be blamed for making it. One can only add that it is a pity, in view of one thing and another, that he didn't reach it some time sooner.

WALTER WINCHELL
On Broadway

(Copyright, 1930, Daily Mirror, Inc.)

The Inquest

These views the press will never quote
Of one who died; a man of note.

"To me, he was a laughing lad,
And tender," said a girl called bad.

And when she heard that he had died,
An often-married woman cried . . .

"Ye gods!—that guy knew how to kiss,"
Remarked a slangy little miss.

His widow wrung her handkerchief
A time or two of tears of grief . . .

And sought a discreet other honey
To help spend the insurance money.
—PAT COSTELLO.

The Retort Terrible

The return of Percy Hammond from the Orient yesterday reminds us of the famous dramatic critic's great feud with an actor which started over a Hammond thrust. The player never forgave Hammond for it either, and whenever they met the actor heckled the critic or tried to start a "scene." After a long absence the ham returned in a new play and the first-nighters who were familiar with the feud wondered how Hammond would report on the fellow.

True to his public the critic prepared a hearty notice on the play and didn't mention his enemy until the very last paragraph, which ran: "Mr. ——— who plays the part of hero on this occasion, fortunately gets no opportunity to do the things he does so badly."

Anything for a Laugh

Bless Broadway's little cold heart. Two of its indifferent citizens having nothing to occupy their alleged minds the other night were passing a Times Square theater where a new play was opening.

"Gee, but I'm bored," said the first, "what is there to do?"

"Let's go in here," suggested the other, "and watch the actors get nervous."

Kidding a Kidder

The Friars, the theatrical club which keeps poking fun at its opposition organization, The Lambs, hurled another dinner in honor of Bugs Baer the other midnight and of course belittled him. Someone revealed that when Bugs first came to New York he became a gigolo, "but had to give it up as the hours were too long!"

He was better described by another belittler in this manner: "Bugs isn't a good Friar at all. He's a Lamb in cheap clothing."

Wiseys

From Kerry Williams: After viewing the latest crop of talkies one is convinced more than ever that Hollywood must be full of guess-men . . . Henry Ford'e antique collection is soon to have an addition in the form of a two-a-day vaudeville theater . . . Aimee MacPherson left Hollywood for Palestine and passed a lot of film executives going there . . . There's a fellow working in a certain Hollywood movie studio who isn't related to anybody!

The Revenge Swell

One of the local men about town was "clipped" in a speakeasy the other night but his revenge was grand. He has plenty of coin and spends it, but the gyp joint carried matters too far. After having two rounds of bad likker he was given a bill for $36. He put up a fuss, of course, but decided to pay and not get a licking from the tough management. He gave the waiter a $50 note and the waiter said: "Thanks for the tip." When the victim demanded protection from the owner he was told: "Get it from the waiter or else!"

The spender and his chum took their departure. The next day he met a pal, a detective who pounds the Broadway beat and told him of the outrageous deal he experienced. The pal advised him to check the gypping up to profit and loss and that he would even matters for him in a sweeter manner.

Last night the place was visited by the police who ripped the joint and bar to splinters, busting every ornament and wrecking the dive beyond recognition. A swell revenge if ever there was one and for stealing $36 the management will probably have to spend $3,600 to start in business again.

The Morning Mail

"Dear Winchell," affectionately writes G. G. "I thought you would be interested to know that your recent line, 'Lieut. Paddy Fitzgibbons of the Broadway Strong Arm Squad is the only mannerly detective, because he removes his hat when he enters a night club,' was seen by his 93-year-old mother, who was very pleased. But she proudly recalled that when her son was a youngster he tipped his hat a man on the street he thought was a Catholic priest. 'That was a rabbi minister,' said Mrs. Fitzgibbons, 'but you made no mistake, my son. Always remove your hat whenever you meet any holy man!'"

The Tragedy of It

Among other dramas that seldom make the news columns is the one concerning the gorgeous gal who was wooed and loved by a very rich man. Her mother wasn't impressed by the fact that the suitor was wealthy. She wanted the girl to marry a lad of the neighborhood, and without letting her daughter know she called at the rich lad's office and said: "My daughter isn't of age and I will oppose her marriage unless you take care of me for the rest of my life and give me $100,000 before you marry her."

The man was stunned. He decided that it was a gold-digger's plot between the girl and her mother and broke the engagement. The lass never got over the shock and the pain of it, eventually losing her mind.

When they found her dead the papers said it was because dieting never reduced her once divine form.

The Girl With The Red Hair by Rob Eden

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Gay Terris, has agreed to marry her wealthy employer, Frank Patterson, whom she does not love, in payment for a loan of $5,000 to keep her mother in a sanitarium. Since making her contract, she has fallen in love with Patterson's nephew, Mark Loring. Loring and Gay ask Patterson for her release but he flatly refuses, and tells Gay they will be married at once. To earn $200 for luxuries for her mother, Gay impersonates Fania Crandall, a crook, posing as a society woman, at the Van Schyler masquerade. A valuable necklace is stolen at the ball, and Gay learns through Paul Ladishaw, Fania's accomplice that Fania is the thief. Ladishaw warns Gay to beware of Mrs. Crandall. He intimates that she would take any means to put Gay out of her way, if she suspected Gay's knowledge of her theft. Gay lived for a while in dread and when Mrs. Crandall comes to her offering a trip to see her sick mother in Arizona, Gay wonders at her motive. A few hours before Gay's wedding to Patterson she receives a wire from a doctor at the Arizona sanitarium telling her that her mother is very ill—come at once. Remembering Fania's offer, Gay goes to her and Mrs. Crandall arranges for her to fly to Arizona.

Chapter XXX

Delmar Field. Low slung hangars like caterpillars crawling over the edge of it. The slender bodies of planes in the air. The deafening whir of their motors. Men, running about, diminutive near the airships. Fine gray dust spun over and over by flying propellers . . .

A neat little station, brick, lost among the planes, the hangars.

"You said Lancer?" the taxi driver shouted as he ground to a full stop in front of the red brick station.

Gay nodded. She hadn't said Lancer, but she knew that was the plane. Mrs. Crandall had told her so. The driver was out now, helping her, pointing far over the field where a white ship was standing. It was quite a walk there, and the girl was panting as they dodged now between this ship now between that one.

She caught her breath when they finally reached the "Lancer." A beautiful plane, with long graceful lines. A man with a leather coat over his arms, and a cap, the goggles perched up on his forehead, was standing by the fuslage smoking a cigaret. He threw it down, half smoked when he saw her.

"Miss Terris?"

"Yes." Gay had eyes for nothing but the "Lancer." This was to take her to Arizona—this lovely thing—this white, smooth flying thing. She had never been in a plane before, and now the first time in her life she was to have a trip. Dangerous? She didn't know. "Lancer" was so beautiful it could not be dangerous.

"I'm Randolph, the pilot," he shook hands with her. "We're all supplied—gas, tested, everything. Short notice, but the ship is ready. You want to start immediately?" As if they were going for a short jaunt. For an hour or so. Not all the way to Arizona.

It had all happened so quickly, Fania's arrangements. The girl was still in a daze. She hardly had time to think. Now the plane was waiting, she was going.

A flutter of fear came over her for a moment, then passed. She mustn't be afraid. She was going to her mother, and her mother was ill—very ill. Kind of Mrs. Crandall. This plane, this trip.

"Jump in!" Randolph smiled. It was then that she noticed his face, and decided she didn't like his smile; something leering about it. Half contemptuous. A broad white scar on his left cheek ran under his hair. An accident? In a plane? His voice grated a little, now that she thought about it. It was harsh, dictatorial.

Silly of her to feel like this. She was going to fly a long time with this man—she shouldn't be forming opinions about him so soon.

She brushed aside his help, and pulled herself up into the seat. It was a bad climb, but she made it. Fania's coat went with her, and she tucked it on the floor. She wouldn't need it yet. The weather was warm. The small two-seated cabin was enclosed, and she looked through a thick glass window. The seat was comfortable, and braced her back effectively.

Randolph was talking to the taxi driver. She couldn't hear what they were saying, because of the noise about her. Another driver came up—his cap low over his eyes. The pilot of the "Lancer" lit another cigaret, and left the little group long enough to motion to a mechanic to spin the propeller.

Gay peered out of the window. A plane had swooped down just ahead, and some passengers started to alight. She looked from it to the sky, blue, and flecked in the west with a few fleecy white clouds. She hoped that didn't mean a storm. It couldn't—

The big machine was shaking now. And although she couldn't see the flying propeller she knew it was moving. Her teeth chattered as she gripped the arms of her seat. It wouldn't be like this all the way—rumbling, shaky, would it?

Randolph gave her a quick look, and scrambled into his seat. She marveled at the intricate board in front of him. Now he pulled out something, and the engine raced madly. The roar was maddening.

A knocking on the glass window. She thought at first it was just the motor, shaking the glass, but when she looked a fist was pounding the glass. Tapping Randolph on the shoulder, she saw the frown on his face as he half turned. The man below her, pounding on the glass was motioning to her, talking, and she couldn't hear what he was saying. A mechanic.

Impatiently, Randolph stopped the motor, and leaned out the window. "What do you want," he yelled.

"Miss Terris in this plane?" The answer came.

Gay fumbled with the window and finally found the catch. "Yes," she cried, when the window came down.

"Wanted on the phone at the office, right away."

"Sorry," Randolph put in. "We're about to leave. We can't delay any longer."

Gay was mystified. Wanted on the phone. Who could it be? Mark of course. Fania had called him, he wanted to bid her goodbye! She couldn't work the door catch, although she tugged and tugged. "I'll be right there."

"We haven't time, I say!" Randolph said.

"Only a minute—I'll run all the way there, and back!" Gay begged.

The pilot looked at her suspiciously, then consulted the taxi driver who was still waiting, consulted him with a quick glance. The driver's face was blank. "Haven't time," he repeated.

"It's important, I guess," the messenger mechanic kept insisting, and he climbed up and putting his hand through the window released the bolt that locked the door.

Randolph was biting his thick lips. He took out his watch. "Mind you be back in a few minutes—the engine all warmed up, and I'll have to start right away. No time to waste, telephoning.

Gay resented the tone of his voice, his domineering way. She was flushing as she quickly followed the mechanic back to the office. Her taxi driver ran after her.

One minute—while she talked to Mark. He knew she was going now—

The mechanic pointed to a phone the receiver of which stood up on a desk. "Don't usually have calls like this. But this man said it was important, and asked me to call you—I was the only one in the office at the time."

She sank down on a chair, and smiled into the phone. She was still breathless when she spoke. The smile faded quickly. It wasn't Mark—it was Paul Ladishaw!

"Gay—my God! I just found out you were going up in a plane. Fania's plane! You mustn't go! I warned you—you remember some time ago to look out for traps! Gay, you mustn't go, today! Promise me! I got you in time, thank God!" Ladishaw was so excited that he talked thickly. She could hardly understand him. A trap!

"I didn't have time to get out—anyway I wouldn't dare. But you won't go now—I only just found out. She hasn't told me anything lately, and this was only an accident that I know. . . ."

"My mother's ill, Paul, and she offered me the trip—I'll get there so quickly in a plane . . ."

"So, that's the story she gave you—"

"A telegram came, Paul—so I know it's true about mother. I'm almost crazy with worry!"

"Telegram? She tried that? Where is your mother? Give me the place quickly, and I'll put in a long distance call—you stay on the phone, and take it—"

Then when she had told him, she heard the click, click of his receiver as he signaled central, then his voice asking for long distance. Instructions to the operator.

While she was waiting holding the phone, she noticed her taxi driver lounging in the doorway watching her. Queer he should still be here. Perhaps Paul was right, this was a trap. She was glad the mechanic was around, glad when a couple sauntered in and put a few suitcases on the floor. If only the driver would go!

She thought of Fania's invitation immediately preceding the telegram the hurried arrangements Mrs. Crandall had made. Was it possible to get a plane so quickly to go to Arizona? Fania's plane, the "Lancer" was, Paul had said.

If it was a trap, she had fallen in it of her own accord, she thought. Blindly. But what would Fania gain? Paul was worried—

Someone came up and asked to use the phone. Gay had to explain she was waiting for a call—she was glad she didn't say long distance, because the taxi driver was hovering very close now.

The wait was interminable. Of course it would take some time to get the call through to the Fairview Sanitarium. . . .

A voice at the other end, finally, talking. "This is the Fairview Sanitarium. Yes. You want Doctor North? I'll call him right away . ."

Then a man's voice, cool, smooth, "Doctor North, speaking."

Gay clutched the receiver more tightly.

Tomorrow—A broken promise.

Q.—What are the words of the Flag Pledge?—J. B. M.

A.—During the flag convention held in Washington, D. C., in 1923, the flag pledge was changed. It now reads: "I pledge allegiance to the flag of the United States and to the Republic for which it stands, one nation indivisible, with liberty and justice for all."

Q.—Why are Maxim silencers for guns no longer made?—C. B.

A.—Maxim silencers are no longer made in this country, as the laws of almost every state now prohibit the sale or use of a silencer on any firearm. They were never made for either pistols or revolvers, as it was against the policy of the company to so make them. They would silence the report of a single shot pistol, but they would not silence the report of a revolver, because the report would escape at the junction between the cylinder and barrel of the revolver. The report was not strictly silenced either on rifles or single shot pistols. It was reduced, however, from an explosion to a sort of loud puff or hiss.

Q.—A New York columnist says President Andrew Johnson was not impeached. He's wrong, isn't he?—P. H. W.

A.—President Johnson was impeached by the house of representatives, but was acquitted by the senate in the impeachment trial. The constitution gives the house the sole power of impeachment and the senate the sole power of trying impeachment cases. An impeachment is similar to an indictment in that an official who has been impeached is not necessarily guilty, any more than is a person who has been indicted by a grand jury.

Q.—What churches in Washington are wired for the deaf?—L. V.

A.—There are several churches in Washington, D. C., that are wired for the deaf. Among them are the Foundry M. E. church, the New York Avenue Presbyterian church, Church of the Covenant, Seventh Day Adventists in Tacoma Park, The Unitarian church, and the Calvary Baptist church.

Q.—When was the British house of commons founded?—S. B.

A.—The commons were first admitted to share in legislation during the reign of Edward II. The parliament was separated into two houses in 1332 during the reign of Edward III.

Q.—Are third rails on train tracks charged heavily enough to cause death if a person touches the rail?—F. W.

A.—The third rails on train and subway tracks are so highly charged that should a person step on them death would be instantaneous. However, every precaution against such accidents is taken by railway companies. The law states that at no time shall this rail be exposed.

Q.—Can an emigrant from the old country bring with him all his clothes and personal belongings without paying duty?—C. A. H.

A.—An emigrant entering the United States is allowed to bring all of his personal effects, free of duty.

Q.—How many rooms are there in the Palace of Versailles?—C. S.

A.—The exact number isn't a matter of record. There are between 1,800 and 2,000 rooms in the palace.

Q.—What is afterdamp?—C. S. G

A.—Afterdamp is a gas formed by an explosion of firedamp in a coal mine. It is a mixture of nitrogen and carbon dioxide.

Q.—Is the widow of Johann Strauss living?—G. L.

A.—Frau Strauss has just died at the age of 70. Last year she headed a deputation of Austrian authors and composers in making an appeal to save the Strauss waltzes from jazz treatment.

Q.—Do boys dive for coins in the harbor at Honolulu?—H. N.

A.—About 50 native divers are in the water most of the time and dive for coins tossed them from the decks of arriving ships. It is estimated that coins of small denomination to the aggregate value of $10,000 are thrown to these divers annually.

Q.—What is a decibel?—L. L.

A.—It is an arbitrary unit used in measuring minute quantities of power on the specially engineered telephone circuits over which radio programs are transmitted from station to station.

Q.—What is the national soup of Russia?—D. T.

A.—The national soup is tchie or stchee. It is more of a stew than a soup. It contains sausage, cabbage, and onions, all of which are fried before the stock is added. It is often flavored with tarragon vinegar. Other soups typically Russian are those containing beets in some form.

The Record News Offers Its Readers a Booklet On PAINT

Uncle Sam's experts tell you that painting at regular intervals is the cheapest way to keep buildings and implements in good condition and that painting should not be put off too long. Rot and rust once started cannot be stopped by paint.

Moreover, the longer painting is delayed, the more difficult and expensive it becomes.

Save money and effort by starting your paint job today, and start right by sending for the government booklet which tells you all about paints and painting.

Two West Texans Keep to Fore In Gubernatorial Gossip at Austin

By R. W. BARRY
Associated Press Staff Writer

AUSTIN, April 8.—Names of two West Texans persist in bobbing up wherever politicians gather to discuss the impending gubernatorial campaign. They are both senators and warm personal friends—Clint C. Small of Wellington and Pink L. Parrish, "the big boy," of Lubbock.

Small is a sharp lawyer, former district judge and shrewd legislator. He was the author of the now famous "river bed bill," giving landowners instead of the state title to the dry creek beds where the channels were more than 30 feet wide. Under the law before Small changed it, dry creeks and river beds were "navigable" if they were 30 feet or more wide and hence belonged to the state, and as state land could be filed on for mineral purposes. Some of them were valuable for oil and gas.

Veto Overcome

After the governor vetoed Small's bill the Wellington senator gracefully put it through both houses over the executive's veto.

He has the knack of stepping in and taking hold of things when the old boat begins to wobble. For instance, he was favorable to the move to adjourn the legislature sine die and go home about a week before the constitutional limit sent it home during the fifth special session, but he was also in favor of staying on the job in event anything could be accomplished. The vote on the adjournment motion was about six and six. Small voted to stay in session and his vote settled the issue, but he smartly moved to reconsider and spread on the journal, giving notice he would call the resolution up if the legislature did not get busy. He held a nice advantage and he manipulated it to a nicety.

Parrish is a jovial, easy-going fellow with a marked physical resemblance of the late Gov. James S. Hogg, champion of the common people and outstanding hero of Texas politics. He has the "gift of gab," to use a slang expression, and could warm the hearts of the "common" people from the hustings. It was he who discovered that many county officials were drawing in excess of $12,500 annually in fees and salaries of office, and set out to limit their remuneration to that figure. He was in favor of lowering it to $10,000, but he could not get much support in the legislature in fixing that maximum. He started the "ball a rollin'" which brought legislation to curb the practice of counties paying excessive commissions for collection of delinquent state and county taxes.

Mrs. Lee J. Rountree of Bryan, successful newspaper woman, has announced her candidacy to succeed W. S. Barron in the legislature. The report is that she will be elected without opposition. Her late husband was a legislator of outstanding ability for several terms. She would be an acceptable acquisition to the existing coterie of woman legislators—Mrs. Helen Moore of Texas City and Mrs. Laura Burleson Negley of San Antonio in the house and Miss Margie Neal of Carthage in the senate. Women are taking an increasingly larger interest in making laws and have quite a hand in it now. There are Miss Oveta Culp of Houston, house parliamentarian who may aspire to one of the Harris county places, and Miss Carl Phinney, chief clerk of the house, who is scheduled to hold that important place as long as she cares to keep it.

Calvin Explains Why He Chose To Ask About Alamo

SAN ANTONIO, April 8. (AP)—The taciturn Calvin Coolidge at last has explained a remark which had puzzled Texans.

In a letter received by Gutzon Borglum, sculptor, the former president explained his question, "What was the Alamo built for?" asked while on a recent visit here en route home from the Pacific coast.

The Alamo, according to Mr. Coolidge's letter, was the most interesting place visited. This, he said, was because he was familiar with its history. But there was one point on which he was not clear—whether it was originally built as a mission or as a government house.

While in the Alamo, he determined to clear up this point, and his question, about the only words he spoke in the historical structure, was answered by Gov. Dan Moody, who told Mr. Coolidge that originally the Alamo was a mission.

Mr. Coolidge is in frequent communication with Mr. Borglum in regard to the inscription for the Black Hills memorial, which the sculptor is supervising.

PIERCE ARROW

Who hasn't often heard, and in tones bordering on the reverential, "There's a Pierce-Arrow"? The remark is current daily across America—and has been since today's generation was very young.

Back of this nation-wide pride in a great automobile is a group of men, engaged in building the new Straight Eights, who helped create Pierce-Arrow's earliest reputation.

It would not be conceivable to these men that Pierce-Arrow quality could be attributed to any other motor car . . . so well they know its fineness to reflect certain skilled hand processes which distinguish Pierce-Arrow and Pierce-Arrow alone.

From such character background emerge today's slender, low-swung creations, bringing fresh lustre to Pierce-Arrow's fame as America's finest motor car.

THE FIRST REALLY NEW OIL IN 25 YEARS

THIS is the simple story of the new oil that is now enjoying such remarkable acceptance: Conoco Germ-Processed . . . In the first place, this new oil is an extraordinarily fine paraffin-base lubricant. And then . . . under exclusive Conoco patents, this oil is endowed with the unusual faculty of penetrating and combining with metal surfaces. This faculty, we call "Penetrative Lubriority." The Germ Process, by adding a precious oily-essence lacking in all other oils, does this . . . And so provides constant unfailing lubrication for your motor under any conceivable strenuousness of motor operation. Germ Process is the first fundamental improvement in refining methods in the last quarter century.

So won't you come into the next station you see bearing the Red Triangle and join the thousands of other motorists who have changed to Conoco Germ-Processed Oil in the last few weeks?

REVIVAL OF 'PECOSING' AWES WEST TEXAS RESIDENTS

FAMOUS RIVER YIELDS BODIES

Officers Baffled by 'New' Form of Murder

SAN ANGELO, Texas, April 8. (UP)—When they take them "for a ride" in this desolate cactus-studded waste known as West Texas, they often carry them 200 miles to bury them in the brackish waters of the Pecos river.

Three bodies have in recent weeks been yielded by the green waters of the river—a man, a woman and a 12-year-old girl—all believed victims of oil field gangsters. The man has been identified as H. M. Polan, an easy-money man, a professional gambler from Plentywood, Montana, who said while in San Angelo he was buying fur, "fleece from tender lambs." Theory of police officers and Texas rangers, who were rushed to the territory where the bodies were found, is that this latest victim, who carried a large sum of currency, was murdered in some oil field point, hundreds of miles from where the body was found. Stories of a woman and a gang of gamblers figure in the slender clues that have been developed. Once he was lured into the the "wide open spaces" near San Angelo, the gang is believed to have robbed Polan and stripped him of his clothing.

Women Unidentified

The woman and girl have not been identified. Their bodies, like that of the man, were nude when taken from the river. Robbery was not the motive, officers believe, for expensive jewelry was found upon the bodies of both.

"Edgar Allen Poe with his murder tales could not have picked a more fantastic setting," said Bud Blair, sheriff of Crane county. "We know everyone else in West Texas, but thus far no one knows the woman and girl. If his photographs had not been identified in Fort Worth and San Angelo, we never would have known the name of this latest victim nor the probable manner in which he died."

Efforts have been made by peace officers Bud Barfield, sheriff of Upton county, and Clarence Shannon, deputy sheriff, to link this latest murder with that of the two woman. Barfield is inclined to think the man paid the penalty of knowing too much about the murder of the women. He believes the slavers of the women merely served notice on all who knew of the crime that such a fate might be theirs.

Rewards Posted

Just where the people were killed is the question officers are seeking to solve. Rewards totaling thousands of dollars have been subscribed by several counties in the Pecos section for the conviction of the slayer of the woman and girl and this man whose funeral march through the sands must have been the curses of their murderers.

The cemetery of the murder gangs is located almost in the center of the oil field belt. A more desolate spot for the unorthodox burial could not have been chosen. There are no houses within sight of the 30-foot wide river from which flat lands with heavy sand stretch for miles. Trees are just bushes and sheep and cattle are the only inhabitants. Five miles away lies the town of Imperial, with two stores and about 30 homes. Scattered about Imperial are vacant houses, abandoned by farmers who were unable to earn a living from the infertile soil.

This town of Imperial is used to excitement. In addition to the bodies its residents have seen taken from the river, wildcat oil wells have furnished their quota of thrills.

High, Steep Banks

The banks of the river in most places are only about 15 feet high and there are no trees on them to indicate the river's existence from a distance. The river runs silently and its green color hides a jaundiced reputation. Its waters one cannot drink for it runs over salt beds and thousands of cattle have wandered knee deep in its bed bawling for a drink. It is almost an arm of the ocean that runs through lands devoted to grazing and in these later years to oil wells. Two years ago Pecos county built a number of bridges over the river and it is from one of these that officers believe the victims were tossed with only a faint splash in the darkness to mark their graves.

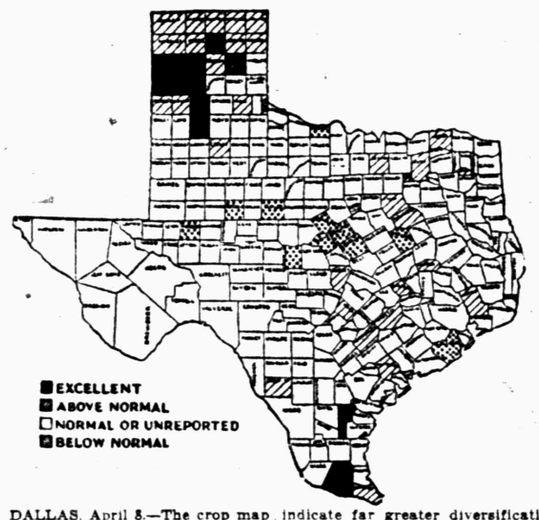

The bridges are only 50 feet wide and but one car can pass at the same time over one. Only an average of 10 cars a day travel the route from Fort Stockton to Crane. One can drive for miles and never meet another car.

There's an old expression, says Sheriff Reeder Webb of Ector county, about "Pecosing" a man, and it means in the argot of the underworld "taking him for a ride." It means killing him and sinking the body in the briny Pecos river, whose waters are similar to embalming fluid. Tradition in the cow and oil country has it that many men in the early days were murdered and pitched into the Pecos.

Polan, the latest victim, was last seen in San Angelo in company with a notorious woman.

Mystery and suspense play their part in these murders, made doubly horrible by their weird setting. And the residents hug their firesides during the nights, made pallid by the gas flares from nearby oil fields which leap up to the sky and fall again with the suddenness of human passions.

Northwest Texas Crop Conditions Shown as 'Very Good' on March Map

DALLAS, April 8.—The crop map of Texas for the month of March, as reported by the public relations department of the Southland Life Insurance company, is curiously spotted. Prospects, in general, are excellent—perhaps more so than they have been in years. In some communities, however, the planting of crops has been seriously hampered by dry and unseasonable spring weather. In others, strangely enough, the opposite is true—it has been far too cold and damp. Divided as to communities, these reports are indicated as follows:

Northwest—Conditions very good with spotted dry places in southern portion, and slightly cool.

North—From "fair" to favorable, with good season in most places although cool in spots for corn growth and cotton planting.

Northeast—A number of counties report cool weather and rains have slowed up developments.

East—Mostly favorable; occasional reports of cool weather and rains.

East Central—Spotted, though generally favorable; rain needed in several counties; some complaint of winds and cold.

West Central—Dry conditions reported generally, although recent showers have helped situation; some counties badly in need of rain.

West—All reports indicate need of rain; dry weather has seriously hampered crops.

Southeast — Generally favorable now, but late spring and excessive rains have retarded activities.

South—Generally favorable except that some northern counties report rains and cool weather have delayed work; warm weather needed.

One of the most encouraging aspects of the entire situation is that there are certain indications that diversification finally has taken a real hold with farmers of Texas. Almost without exception, reports indicate far greater diversification of crops than ever before. More feed crops will be raised; the dairy industry is proving popular and profitable; poultry raising has become more wide-spread; and farmers, almost without exception, are apparently convinced of the wisdom of "raising their own living." Business conditions are decidedly more hopeful. Money is still tight, but in spite of these facts, income tax collections and other certain indicators have proven that money is available and that the recent stock market crash had but slight influence and did but slight harm in Texas.

The head of one of the state's largest financial institutions sums up the situation as follows: "Prosperity in Texas, greater than the state has ever known before, is in the offing. With even fair crop conditions, Texas should be jubilant by the time these crops are harvested, and, if this is true, the state will find itself on the soundest economic basis it has ever known."

Methodist Hospital Activities Planned

DALLAS, April 8. (AP)—Three activities of the hospital division of the Methodist Episcopal church, South, to be held here preceding the general conference of the church in May have been announced by Dr. J. H. Groseclose, superintendent of the Dallas Methodist hospital.

The general hospital board, of which Bishop Warren C. Candler of Atlanta, Ga., is president, will meet at the hospital.

The hospital association of the church, of which Dr. C. C. Harrell of Atlanta is president, will meet May 6.

Bishop W. N. Ainsworth of Macon, Ga., in charge of the Episcopal area when the hospital movement was launched by the church, will preach the commencement sermon for graduate nurses of the Dallas Methodist hospital on the night of May 5, at the First Methodist Episcopal church, South.

Wheat Crops Look Good Claude and Armstrong

CLAUDE, Texas, April 8.—Although this section is beginning to need moisture, wheat and other vegetation are standing up well. The fruit crop for this year will be cut short, due to the freeze in the last days of March, which killed a large portion of the fruit in the bud.

Garden planting and chicken raising is now the "order of the day" among Claude and Armstrong county farmers. Preparations are being made for the planting of row crops and wheat raisers are beginning to examine their combines and other farm implements in preparation for the big wheat harvest they are expecting this season.

ARTISTS WORK FOR PRISONERS

Penal Inmates Found to Have Latent Abilities

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

WASHINGTON, April 8.—The president's crime commission has for some months been engaged in studying the causes for the large amount of lawbreaking among the American people and public prosecutors in all jurisdictions have been energetic in their efforts to curb lawlessness. Nevertheless, crime still is with us and the efforts of governmental agencies seem to have had relatively little effect. Organizations interested in prison reform have been somewhat critical of overcrowded conditions which, it has been claimed, led to such serious outbreaks as those at Dannemora, Leavenworth, and Canyon City.

The other side of the picture is a far more hopeful one. It has to do with what private organizations and individuals are doing both to prevent crime in the first instance and also to help in the rehabilitation of convicts after release from prison, thereby diminishing the likelihood that the ex-convict will return to criminality. The amount of good such agencies can do is limited but it may point the way to a more comprehensive program.

Criminals as Individuals

It appears certain the criminals must be treated as individuals; indeed must be regarded as more individual than the average law-abiding citizen. Their very criminality is a mark of some subtle difference between them and the average man. The difficulty of government application of the principles followed by the private helpers of convicts and ex-convicts is that, with penitentiaries overflowing with inmates, it is practically impossible to give individual attention to these exiles from society. A sort of mass treatment must be accorded all. So, in the very nature of the problem seems to lie a necessity for extra-governmental and private attention.

Of one thing all interested persons have assured themselves: the type of inmate of the penal institution of today is very different from that of a few years ago. The 20th century has witnessed the enactment of many sumptuary laws, the infraction of which may result in jail sentences. Moralists recognize the difference between such fundamentally moral crimes as murder, highway robbery, and house-breaking, frowned upon by all peoples in all periods of history, and sumptuary crimes such as smuggling. Murder is a crime because the accumulated prejudice of mankind condemns it. Smuggling is a crime in certain countries solely because a local law forbids it. Yet transgressors of both laws are imprisoned; often in the same institution and are given practically the same treatment.

Give Prisoners Mental Exercise

The prohibition law, the anti-narcotic law, traffic laws, and many others of a municipal nature have multiplied on American statute books in recent years with a resultant increase in prison inmates. Those sentenced are not of the same type as transgressors of moral laws. Their terms average a much shorter period. They will be restored to society in a relatively short time.

However, it is generally recognized that life in penal institutions is not conducive to moral development but rather tends to degrade and disillusion the victim. How to employ the hands and minds of inmates while in custody so that they will not lose their usefulness to society, today is a greater problem than ever before. This is the work with which private individuals and organizations are making as much progress as their resources and facilities permit.

Perhaps the most interesting regenerative work now being done in the country is under the auspices of the Artists' Council for Prison service. Although its headquarters are in New York City, the council works in cooperation with the superintendent of prisons of the federal department of justice at Washington and with prison authorities in all jurisdictions. At present it is assisting some 200 inmates of penal establishments in some 30 institutions scattered throughout the country.

Political Criminals

The subtle difference which sets many criminals, even transgressors of the moral code, apart from the average man may not be greatly different from the individuality which, if fortuitously guided, could make a talented artist in any one of a number of lines. A great many men are in prison for political crimes; that is, for holding opinions at variance with those of the majority. That was especially true during the world war and in the years immediately following. Actually, they had transgressed no moral law.

There is no lack of examples of the abilities, present and latent, in such men. Sir Walter Raleigh, an explorer, navigator, courtier, soldier, and politician, while imprisoned in the Tower of London, wrote from memory a history of the world. Francois Villon wrote some of his finest verse while in durance. More modern examples are not lacking.

Many Writers Are Developed

Now the Artists' Council for Prison service has taken the line that to develop the latent artistic talent in the prisons is the surest way of ultimately rehabilitating convicts. Some of the prison service done under the council's auspices has produced remarkable results. For example, a professor of English spent six months in teaching a class of 40 convicts at a Pittsburgh penitentiary. He declared that he found more talent and a higher appreciation than in an average class of the same number attending Columbia university.

A great many writers have been developed. There has doubtless been far more writing in jails than the public has any knowledge of, the council says. Some prisoners write merely to pass the time and destroy their works believing there is no outlet for their expression. Others, the council definitely asserts, have been victims of the meanest sort of double-dealing on the part of persons claiming to represent them on the outside. For example, convict writers send manuscripts to magazines or to literary agents. The recipient may be a literary agent who happens to be unscrupulous. Knowing that the author is incarcerated for a long term of years or perhaps for life, that he is not free to protect his own interests and that, as a convict, he would have no standing in court, the agent pirates the manuscript, sells it under another name and pockets the proceeds. The convict waits in vain to hear of the fate of his work. Only by the remotest chance will he ever learn that the free man has taken advantage of him.

Efforts Bear Fruit

The council is making every effort to protect such writers, composers, painters, and cartoonists, and see that the material they send out is honestly handled. Its efforts have borne fruit in that now several convicts in jail have been successful in selling short stories, books, and plays, music scores, and drawings. The advantage of this is great. One of the handicaps under which a convict labors upon his release is the prejudice of employers against ex-convicts. But the writer, cartoonist, or other artist is not under the compulsion to give references as to previous works; he need only show samples of what he has done. Through the council's efforts musical instruments have been supplied to convicts desiring them and musicians and composers have been developed Even sculpture has been made possible to convicts with talent in that direction. All enjoying these benefits come out with a far better chance of making a living honestly.

Private agencies also are working more and more to draw the interest of potential criminals by providing opportunities for young gangsters to exercise legitimate talents.

Grease goes—dishes shine

Millions wash them this easy way

YOU KNOW what a work-saver Rinso is on washday—how it gets clothes much whiter and brighter without scrubbing or boiling.

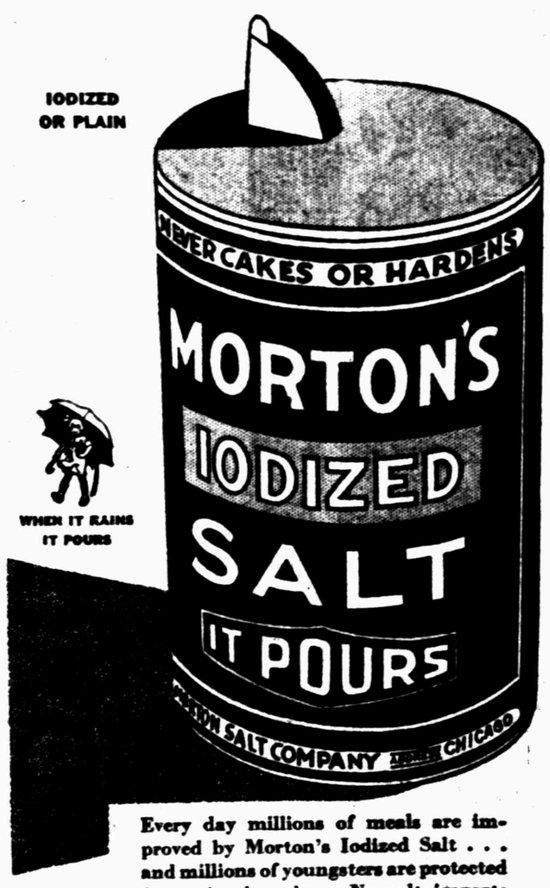

Well, it's just as wonderful for dishwashing! It soaks off grease in a flash. Just soak your dishes, pots and pans in Rinso suds—rinse in hot water—and let them drain dry. How they shine!

And Rinso is economical, too. Granulated, compact—it gives twice as much suds as lightweight, puffed-up soaps. Rich, creamy, active suds, even in the hardest water. No grit.

Rinso makes all cleaning easier. Use it for tubs, basins, floors, woodwork. Get the BIG package.

Every day millions of meals are improved by Morton's Iodized Salt . . . and millions of youngsters are protected from simple goiter. No salt imparts better flavor to food; none offers equal convenience. For, unlike ordinary salts, it pours just as freely in damp weather as in dry. Any grocer can supply you.

NO NEED FOR TASTELESS VEGETABLES

Their Flavor Can Be Improved While Cooking or Before Serving Them

Cooks who are successful in the art of making vegetables appetizing, depend upon two rules. First, cook raw vegetables in as little water as possible. Canned vegetables should not be re-cooked—merely heat them thoroughly. Second, use a mixture of sugar and salt in seasoning them.

Salt, by itself, merely overcomes flatness. Sugar, however, "brings out" the flavor of the vegetable. And when the two are combined, an unusual appetizing goodness is developed. A dash of sugar to a pinch of salt is a good rule to follow.

In the case of extra-mild flavored vegetables, sugar, salt, mustard, oil and vinegar can be combined and used as a flavor just before serving. For example, after spinach—canned or fresh—is taken from the fire, drain it and then heat for a minute in this mixture: 1 teaspoon sugar, ½ teaspoon mustard, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon vinegar and 2 tablespoons salad oil.

The more one experiments with sugar and salt in seasoning vegetables, the more apparent is the flavor value of this combination. Doctors and dietitians approve this use of sugar as a flavor. Most foods are more delicious with sugar. The Sugar Institute.

CROWD HEARS TOM SKEYHILL

Alvin York's Mountain Life Told by Lecturer

Tom Skeyhill, internationally known speaker, soldier, playwright and biographer, spoke to an almost capacity house at the Woman's Forum clubhouse Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock when he used his most entertaining and beautiful subject, "A Young Man Looks at His World."

Mr. Skeyhill, who began his lecture with the early American life in the 18th and 19th centuries, took the life of a young mountaineer, who had gone wrong from the start, who had been a drunkard, gambler and a killer of the worst sort, and traced it through romance and sorrow; war and religion, down to the present time.

Gives Background

Forming the background for his story, Mr. Skeyhill pictured the organization of the "longhunters," so-called because of their muzzle loading guns, which was composed of the cream of masculine society in Virginia in the early days; men of distinction and breeding, as the ancestors of the object of his eulogy, Alvin Connor York.

"The modern mountaineer is red-headed, raw-boned, and determined," Mr. Skeyhill pointed out and as an humorous illustration told a story of the last national election when they were told to vote for Smith or Hoover and how they showed their political independence and voted for Andrew Jackson again.

"They do not know what jazz is. They are of the purest Anglo-Saxon blood and speak the language of Chaucer and William Shakespeare. They are uneducated, crude, ignorant but far from stupid."

"Alvin York had an education equivalent to a second grade pupil and when in school mastered two books, a primer and 'The Life of Jesse James.' Attempting to pattern his life after that of the infamous bandit and highwayman, young York won for himself the reputation of being the best shot in the mountains. After finding his mother in tears from worry over the life he was leading, he conquered himself and became a man of God.

Third Lecture

"When the war broke out Alvin did not care to participate because he thought it was wrong, but was drafted and finally was sent overseas."

In a language that was beautiful and in a most dramatic manner, Mr. Skeyhill described his activities and the battle and capture of the German machine gun battalion which he accomplished almost single-handed.

Upon his return from France, York was offered $125,000 in rewards from the county, state and government which he refused for himself but used to erect schools and install electric plants and a highway for the community. He and his wife are now living in Tennessee where he was born and reared.

This is the third time Mr. Skeyhill has appeared in Wichita Falls as a lecturer. Many will remember having heard his "Mussolini and the Black Shirts" several years ago. He is making his tour by air and will leave Wednesday for Waco. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. N. H. Martin.

'You're Another One and Then Some,' Shout Alabamans in Lobby Inquiry

Senator Black and Newspaper Publisher Exchange Epithets In Boisterous Power Investigation

WASHINGTON, April 8. (AP)—Senator Hugo Black was called "a contemptible liar" today by a fellow Alabaman who faced him in public testimony before the senate lobby committee.

The Alabama Democrat shot the charge back at the witness, J. E. Pierce, who publishes the Huntsville Times. After also being termed a coward, Pierce rejoined that the senator was "a contemptible cur."

Room in Turmoil

The savage exchanges thrust the crowded room into a turmoil unprecedented during the sensational lobby committee hearings. Pierce started the verbal hostilities. Black was questioning him about a $1,000 fund he had received from J. M. Worthington, chairman of the executive committee of the Tennessee River Improvement association, which has advocated the proposal of the American Cyanamid company, to lease Muscle Shoals.

Saying the money was for traveling expenses Pierce turned to Black and charged "that you are insinuating a contemptible lie."

"Coward" Passed

"I'll see you outside about that!" Black retorted. "Everybody knows you are by nature a coward."

Leaping to his feet Pierce shouted:

"We'll go outside right now."

Senator Black withdrew his "coward" remark from the record.

"It can wait for settlement," Black commented.

"Then you admit you are a contemptible liar," Pierce said.

"No," Black replied hotly. "I admit you are."

Black Called Cur

Jumping up again, Pierce turned to Senator Walsh, who was vainly trying to restore order, and said:

"This man Black said I was known as a coward. I call him a contemptible cur in return."

"That is enough of this," Walsh snapped, and at last succeeded in getting order. In a few minutes the committee adjourned until tomorrow.

After the hearing, Pierce talked with newspaper men outside the committee room for several minutes. He said later he had been waiting for Senator Black, but the senator did not appear. Black declined comment except to say that he was not attempting to make any insinuations.

"All I was trying to do," he said, "Was to bring out the facts and let them speak for themselves."

Black read a letter written by Pierce to Worthington on Oct. 29, 1929, which said it was "quite necessary that you make an advance of $1,000." He also attempted to show that it was about that time that Pierce's newspaper began advocating the American Cyanamid proposal to lease Muscle Shoals, but Pierce said he had favored it since it was offered.

TEXAS STUDENT ENDS HIS LIFE

Medical Scholar at Harvard Commits Suicide

BOSTON, April 8. (INS)—Although he was a research worker in spectroscopy, Lidell Spencer Davis, 26, of Dallas, Texas, considered one of the most brilliant seniors at Harvard university medical school, could not see a rainbow in his own life, his friends said today. He feared failure in examinations for a local hospital post, worried over need of money for his wife and two children, and used his medical knowledge to end his own life.

All his fears were groundless for he passed the hospital test with ease and although he thought himself an utter failure, in reality, he had aroused admiration in medical circles as he prepared himself to be one of the country's foremost cancer experts.

Davis, son of Dr. John Spencer Davis, prominent Dallas physician, either drank or inhaled ether, police investigators said, in the bathroom of his Back Bay apartment while his wife and children were out for a walk.

Beside the body, a maid of the household found this note in Davis' handwriting: "I failed miserably. Do not forget the books and apparatus at Thorndike."

Temperature Here Climbs to 99

Cloudy weather over a large section of Northwest Texas and Southern Oklahoma failed Tuesday to materially reduce the high temperatures which borke spring heat records Monday. The clouds lingered only a few hours over Wichita Falls and the mercury climbed to a maximum of 99 degrees, only one point lower than the record Monday, and another high point in local weather statistics for so early in April.

Partial cloudiness was general over the district, bringing the hope that the hot weather would eventually lead to showers needed for grain fields and grazing land.

Mexicans Leary Of Census Quiz

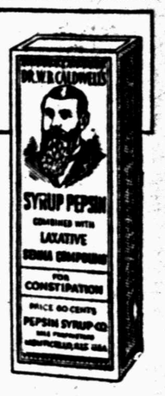

LAREDO, Texas, April 8. (AP)—A census problem peculiar to Laredo and other Mexican border points is that of convincing Mexican nationals that the information obtained from them by the enumerators cannot be used as evidence for their deportation.

During the last decennial census many Mexicans in this country were imbued with that belief. The feeling is more pronounced during this census in view of the heavy deportations last year.

A concerted movement is under way to dissuade the Mexicans from this view. Enumerators and Laredo residents are assuring the Mexican nationals in this district that the information given the census enumerators is held in absolute secrecy, known to the census bureau only, and that no information is furnished the immigration or other departments of the United States government.

Hardening of the Arteries

Most cases of arterial hardening seem to begin with a toxic condition of the blood stream which irritates the delicate inner walls of the arteries, which first become thickened and then infiltrated with calcium salts. When the latter process is extensive, the arteries in the lower limbs will show up under the x-ray and look very much like pipe stems or very thin bones. When the arteries have become quite thickened and hardened, they may become tortuous and look like winding cow paths.

There have been many discussions about the relation of arterial hardening and high blood pressure, discussions taking on somewhat of the form of the timeworn theme, "Which comes first—the chicken or the egg?" In some cases, the arteries may harden with very little rise in the blood pressure. This usually occurs when accompanied by senil degeneration.

The toxic condition preceding hardening of the arteries seems to be built up by eating wrong food combinations or excesses of starch and sugars. The habit of indiscriminate eating will in time produce an acidosis in the body, and as the acid toxins circulate through the arteries the latter become tensed and finally coated with the alkali along the inner lining to protect themselves from this acid irritation. Sometimes the presence of other poisons, such as lead and the excessive use of alcohol may produce a similar condition and it sometimes occurs in diseases such as syphilis or diabetes. Any condition which tends to load the body or blood with harmful material, such as retention of poisonous wastes from the colon, too much uric acid of the system, or the improper utilization of sugar in the body, will tend to bring on an unhealthy state of the blood stream which affects the arteries more or less, and often the valves of the heart.

When the arteries have become badly affected, a cure is necessarily tedious. A person in this condition should begin with a thorough bodily housecleaning to remove as much as possible of the toxins from the system. They can do this by using a fast, preferably with orange or grapefruit juice and also drinking plenty of distilled water. The citrus fruit juices seem to have a special tendency to produce increased alkalinity of the blood stream and distilled water will absorb and carry off more chemical impurities than any other known agent.

Except in exceptional instances, I do not advocate a very long fast at first, as the patient is usually advanced in years and in a rather weakened condition. Instead, it is a good plan to use a short fast of from five to 10 days, then use a well balanced diet for about a month in which the starches and sugars are practically excluded, and then take another short fast, repeating this regime for an almost indefinite period until there seems to be an improvement. Moderate exercise such as walking should be regularly included, not too strenuous at first, but gradually increased with time. The use of cold showers and gentle massage is also of great benefit in improving the circulation.

I have seen many patients, who were apparently far advanced in arterial hardening, improve in a remarkable manner through following this regime. They frequently appear and feel much younger, which is quite natural, for if the saying is true that a man is as old as his arteries, it must also hold good that if the arteries become youthful and elastic, the individual will likewise be inbued with some of the spring and vitality of youth.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Wrinkles)

Question:—A. M. Y. asks: "Do you recommend the use of a vibrator for wrinkles and saggy muscles on the face and neck? If so, how should it be used and how often?"

Answer:—I have prepared some special articles on how to remove wrinkles which I will be glad to send you if you will send me your name and address. The electric vibrator is often helpful in restoring a good circulation to the muscles and skin of the face and neck. If you have one of these vibrators I would advise you to take a few treatments from a beauty specialist who can show you how to use the vibrator for home treatments.

Bananas

Question—M. C. R. asks: "Will you please tell me if bananas are fattening? Will they cause indigestion?"

Answer—Bananas are very high in caloric value and therefore may be said to be fattening. Bananas if used with the proper food combinations should not cause indigestion.

Thin Tooth Enamel

Question—A. C. W. asks: "What causes the enamel of the teeth to become thin, and is there any special class of foods which will restore the enamel to the teeth?"

Answer—The absence of vitamin C in the diet and also a deficiency of silicon is believed at the present time to be the cause of thin tooth enamel and therefore an important cause which permits the teeth to decay more easily. Most of the nonstarchy vegetables contain a large amount of silica and also of the vitamin C. All raw vegetables are rich in tooth building material.

Edgar B. Davis Credits "Guiding Hand of God"

BOSTON, April 8. (INS)—That "the guiding hand of God" was responsible for his moving to Texas, although he left his family and all his belongings in Brockton, was the contention of Edgar B. Davis, who is being sued by the commonwealth of Massachusetts for $380,000 in taxes on the $6,000,000 he made in a "wildcat" Texas oil well that suddenly gushed forth, after he had spent his last cent on it.

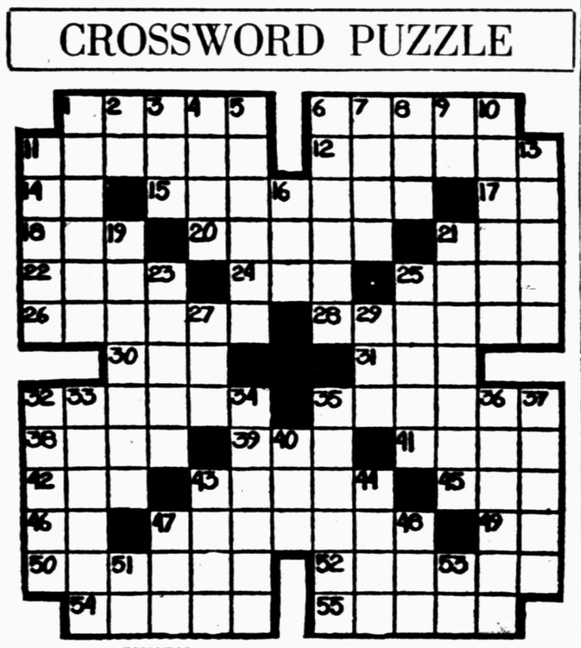

Davis claims that his official residence is in Luling, Texas, "as a matter of religious faith." He attributes the gushing of the oil well "not because of any virtue or ability of mine," but to the "guiding hand of God." The state contends that his residence is in Brockton, that his family and all his family heirlooms are there and that he returns periodically to Brockton.

Nocona Man Inherits 120 Year Old Razor

Special to The Record News

NOCONA, Texas, April 8.—A razor that is thought to be the oldest one in the world in regular use is owned by Lloyd Burgin here. The razor has been in use since 1810, making a record of 120 years of constant service. It was purchased by Mrs. Burgin's great-grandfather for 75 cents at Pine Point, Ala. He gave it to his son and it was the only razor used during the son's lifetime. It was next handed down to Mrs. Burgin's uncle, who used it 56 years. Three years ago he gave it to present owner, who promised to keep and hand it down to other generations to come.

SPUDDER WARRIORS READY FOR CHARGE AGAINST SPORTS

The Rambler's Corner

By FRED D. THOMPSON

At J. Alvin Garner's dinner for the umpires at the Wichita club Monday night, Judge H. F. Weldon, one of Mr. Gardner's guests, pointed out that the movies are coming to the assistance of the umpires. The movies of the closely contested games almost always showed that the umpire was right in his decision, and the booing grandstand wrong, Judge Weldon said.

That was a great concession for Judge Weldon to make, because he admitted he generally takes great pleasure in disagreeing with the umps. So, indeed, do most people. It is a great sport, and one of the most intriguing sidelights of a baseball game—if the umpire's decisions can be called sidelights.

The matter of the movies taking a hand in athletic events was brought up by Judge Weldon at a very opportune time. Because at present not only the movies but the radio—both working hand in hand—are about to become the official scorers in some of our sports, notably track events. The news comes from the Radio Press in Long Island that George Lewis, vice president of a New Jersey radio company, has invented a machine which is a combination of radio and photo-electric apparatus which provides an accurate photograph of the finish of a race, an imperishable record of the time, and indisputable evidence as to place in close events. According to this news dispatch, "a light ray is focused across the track at the finish point on a special photo-electric device that acts as a relay the moment a figure—runner, horse or cyclist—passes across the line. The impulse caused by the fleeting shadow is amplified and within one thousandth of a second actuates a camera which takes a picture of the scene, including the dial of a stop watch set in motion at the beginning of the race. In the case of races where fast contestants lap the slower ones, the device acts as an 'electronic gate' or 'tape,' and can be held open by means of a switch, until the probable winner approaches the 'line.' The apparatus functions unfailingly under all light conditions and is light and portable and readily set up on any track."

Such an instrument, of course, would not be needed on a baseball diamond, where there is no time element to be worried about. All that is required is a camera quick enough to shoot the action. This requirement has been fulfilled, as Judge Weldon pointed out. The next development, in case our electrical wizards are interested, would be a device to tell whether a pitched ball is a strike. The question naturally would arise whether or not human brains or radio tubes and photo-electric devices are better qualified to distinguish balls from strikes.

And again, whether or not the radio tubes, etc., could turn the trick as well, if not better, than the brand of brains exhibited by our umps.

The chair will now hear discussions pro and con. Kindly write on one side of the paper, keep the sawdust and soot out of the envelopes, and address same to the sporting sports dep't. of this rag.

But getting back to that device for use in determinfng winners in track events, such a contraption would have been useful in the Texas relays held recently at Austin, when Cy Leland defeated Bracey in the 100-yard dash. If we remember the account of that race accurately, three stop watches caught him at 9.6 and three at 9.7—something to that effect, and the official scorer decided that 9.7 was the correct time. With this photo-electric thing, all that would have been unnecessary.

Since the forthcoming Texas league baseball race promises to be a closely contested affair, and not a walkaway, as it has been for some years in the past, President J. Alvin Gardner does not believe that a split program will be placed in operation by club owners this year.

In a semi-official opinion expressed the other day, Mr. Gardner said it was very doubtful that a majority of club owners favoring the split season could be mustered.

"In other years, Fort Worth had a walkaway club, then Wichita Falls had the best in the league, then Dallas swept through the season with an unbeatable team, and this necessitated a split season, but from what I have learned touring the training camps of the state, there will be a close race in Texas this year, and I do not believe the split season will be voted," Mr. Gardner said.

The Fort Worth Cats right now seem to be quite tough. But time might turn their meow into a contented purr.

Suggestion for Spudder Slogan: "Make the Cats purr!"

Gone from our midst are the great eaters of old. Last year the great-bodied Pete Turgeon and Rabbit Benton ran neck and neck as the champion eaters of the Spudder nine, with Howard Fitzgerald barely keeping up with them by virtue of eating two orders of ham and eggs and a stack of hot cakes at one sitting.

And Andy Messenger, who once ate $5.45 worth of grup before throwing his napkin in the ring. Fitzgerald is the only one left us.

As Prexy Gardner and his umpires sat around the festive board Monday night, the president and Ziggy Sears talked fondly of the great days when men were men and cooks were overworked.

Mr. Gardner told of a night last season when Slick Ansley, local restaurateur and a friend caught a great batch of fish and turned them over to the ball club. When all were cooked, they made a stack about a foot high on one of these long dishes. Turgeon and Benton, however, got to them first, and when the chomping was over not a ligament was left.

Ziggy Sears told the story of Andy Messenger's great feat, or feast. It was at Houston, and after the game Ziggy and Andy ate together, at least for a time, after which Ziggy dropped out and merely stared as Andy continued. Andy, according to Ziggy, started out with one of these $1.50 table de hote affairs, which, said Ziggy, served Andy as an appetizer. From there he went on and on until his bill soared over the five-dollar mark.

According to Mr. Gardner, Rabbit Benton, now with Milwaukee, had a little trouble with his new owners over the matter of food. A few weeks ago, Mr. Gardner said, he received a letter from Turgeon telling of Benton's plight. It seems that Benton ate so doggone much that the club owners complained, whereupon Benton went to his boss and said, "Now, look here, I'm from the Texas league, where men are allowed to eat, and I want my grub or I'm going back to Texas."

Rabbit was allowed his grub, according to Turgeon, and things now rock smackingly along with him.

SQUAD FACES TEST TODAY

Record Crowd Expected for Opening Game

night, Guy Airey, Spudder secretary, said the demand for the little slips of admittance was intense, and predicted a record crowd would witness the ceremonies connected with popping the lid off the Texas league season in the home of the Spudders.

The game will start promptly at 4 o'clock. At that hour our newly elected mayor, Walter Nelson Jr., will hurl a brand new baseball in the general direction of the home plate, and Fire Chief J. L. McClure, veteran opening day figure here, will make some kind of effort to snag the pitch that will be a signal for the Spudder-Sports game to begin.

Batteries in Doubt

Neither of the managers of the two contesting teams Tuesday would issue a definite announcement of the batteries for the opening tilt but their hints that Wiltse and Williamson would hurl for the Spudders and the Sports, respectively, were so strong that these two artists may be counted on starting. Williams said he was not certain about his pitcher, "but," said he, "the chances are that Wiltse will pitch." Phelan was likewise in an uncertain state of mind, and said that Albert Williamson, veteran right-hander, "might be sent in."

As for the remainder of the Spudder lineup, the same old seven and six is to be expected, with Burns at first, Storti at second, Levey at shortstop, Euller at third, Kloza in left field, Fitzgerald in center and Bettencourt in right. Crouch more than likely will catch.

Manager Phelan was as uncertain about other portions of his lineup as he was anent his hurler. It will depend on what pitcher Williams uses, Phelan said, whether his right-handed or left-handed sluggers are placed in the outfield. In case Wiltse, the left-hander, is used, Phelan said, Perry, Cashion and McClanahan will see duty; whereas if Steengrafe, the right-hander, is chosen by the Spudder manager, Hutson and Park, both left-handers, will be used in the outfield.

Other Hurlers Ready

In case Williamson is not used, a thing that is highly improbable, Skipper Phelan said he would choose between Grant Cooper and Estrada, all left-handers.

The rest of the Shreveport lineup will find Whelan at first base, Stewart at second, Huarte at shortstop, Andrus at third and Starr behind the bat, according to orchard chatter Tuesday.

Skipper Williams announced that the new Spudder hurler, Earl Caldwell, obtained Tuesday on the eve of the series opener from the St. Louis Browns, probably would get into action against the Shreveport team before the three-game series here is concluded. Caldwell's purchase came as a surprise to many fans, although it was known that the Spudder owner was casting his hook around looking for substantial hurling material. Caldwell for the last two years was the ace of the pitching staff of the Waco, Texas, league club, winning 21 games for the fifth place Waco entry last season, and 12 for the sixth place entry in 1928.

Spudders on Air

The Spudder team, destined to make its official debut on the lot Wednesday, practiced up for the ordeal Tuesday night by making speeches and singing baseball songs before the mike. At 9:40 p. m. the whole squad of 24 men was introduced to fans hereabouts over radio station KGKO. Walter Cline, Prexy William E. Huff, and J. Alvin Gardner, president of the Texas league, all made brief addresses, the latter speaking on "Prospects of the Texas League Season This Year."

Last minute preparations for the game were made by the chamber of commerce and other civic organizations Tuesday. The athletic committee of the chamber of commerce, which is in charge of the preliminary festivities at the ball park, announced it had completed plans to send 2,000 school children who otherwise might not get to see the clash, down to the Spudder lot Tuesday afternoon.

In addition, two prizes were added to the list to be awarded players on the Spudder nine for individual performances. The two prizes, according to Eugene Liepold, member of the committee, were offered by the Elks' Barber shop and the Marchman Hotel Barber shop, the first of which offers $2.50 in barber work to the player driving in the most runs; and the second of which offers $10 in trade to the player knocking the first home run.

What the Spudders Are Up Against Today

'Catfish' Smith Joins Georgia Baseball Squad

ATHENS, Ga., April 8. (AP)—Vernon "Catfish" Smith, sophomore end star of Georgia's football eleven last fall, is after his third letter in his first year of varsity competition.

He had no trouble in winning the center berth on the basket ball quint and now is a promising outfield candidate on the baseball squad. "Catfish" is one of the club's most powerful clouters and covers a lot of ground in the gardens.

English Earl to Be In U. S. for Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 8. (UP)—The Earl of Derby, distinguished English nobleman and sport enthusiast, who is coming to America for the express purpose of seeing the Kentucky Derby, is expected to reach New York early in May according to an announcement today of Matt J. Winn, president of the American Turf association and executive director of Churchill downs.

Lamesa Tracksters Hunt for Competition

LAMESA, Texas, April 8.—Unless Coach F. T. McCollum can arrange a meet between Big Spring or Snyder, the Lamesa Tornadoes will likely remain idle this week. The local tracksters entered in two meets last week, losing one skirmish to Lubbock and winning one from the Steers of Big Spring. Arrangements for a meet this week were being made by McCollum, who stated that it is not certain which of the two teams, if any, will mix with Lamesa.

Chicago, Cornell Star Topnotcher at Oxford

OXFORD, Eng., April 8. (AP)—E. W. Goodwillie of Chicago, who came to Oxford as a Rhodes scholar in 1928, has just won the cup presented by the University Athletic club for winning the 100-yard dash in the university field day, and has been selected as a member of the team of ten to tour Greece during the Easter vacation.

Goodwillie, who was interscholastic champion of the Chicago high schools and later a member of the Cornell track team, is very active in college organizations. He is secretary of the Christ Church tennis team, is an officer in many college clubs, and has been elected to membership in Vincent's, and the club whose members are the most prominent athletes at Oxford.

He will run the 100, the 220, and the mile relay during the Greek tour when the Oxford students will participate in the celebration of the centenary of Greek independence. He is also expected to run in the June track meet between Oxford and Cambridge and later in the Princeton-Cornell meet.

Former O. U. Athlete To Make Debut April 18

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 8. (UP)—Frank Crider, former Oklahoma university athlete and football star, will make his professional boxing debut here April 18 when he faces Earl Wise in the semi-final of the Clyde Chastain-Clyde Hull bout. Both are in the light-heavyweight division. Crider, university boxing champion, was champion in his weights at his national guard camp at Fort Sill, Okla.

Swimming Star Gets Divorce as Salesgirl

CHICAGO, April 8. (AP)—As a "salesgirl," Martha Norelius, the swimming star, obtained a divorce from Wirt McAllister, without blowing up a publicity storm.

"How are you going to live?" the judge asked the young woman who won the $10,000 Wrigley swim at Toronto last summer.

"Oh, I'm a salesgirl," was the reply.

The reporters for that court went back to the card game.

EIGHT TEEMING TEXAS LEAGUE UNITS BLOW LID OFF TODAY

FAIR WEATHER IS PROMISED

Cats May Attract Largest Audience

By GAYLE TALBOT JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS, April 8.—Experts, real and fancied, have made their official selections and John Fan has exhorted to turn out and help win the attendance prize. All that remains is for the eight Texas league units to get out tomorrow and start things rolling.

Prospects were that fair weather would attend the blow-off, sending the attendance high. The Fort Worth Cats, present favorites to cop the bunting, likewise were favored to play before the greatest audience. Pantherville officials have waged a vigorous campaign and enthusiasm in that city was said to have reached a high pitch.

Southpaw Battle

A battle of southpaws was in prospect at Fort Worth, where the Cats tie up with the Dallas Steers in general and Jakey Atz in particular. Jimmy Walkup, one of the league's most effective flingers last year, was Manager Frank Snyder's logical choice. He prorably will be opposed by Dave Danforth, an ancient leftie obtained by Dallas during the winter. Danforth has been pitching great ball in exhibitions.

The Steers and Cats will hop back here for Thursday's tussle.

Shreveport and Wichita Falls open hostilities with a three-game series in Spudderville. Howard Williamson has been nominated to take the mound for the Sports, with either Hal Wiltse, a southpaw, or Milt Steengrafe favored to toil for the Oilers. The Sports again are the "dark horse" of the loop. A majority of the boys have picked Fort Worth and Houston to scrap it out around the top, but to a man they are worried about Art Phelan's nine. Little will be known of the new Spudder club's strength until the season is a week or two advanced.

Waco opens with a pair at Beaumont. Bill Harris probably will toss for the visitors, with either the veteran Denny Burns or Abe Martin, a promising southpaw, doing duty for the Exporters. Martin is one of the new crop of hurlers that Beaumont is counting upon to lift the Shippers out of the basement.

Rose May Hurl

Manager Joe Schultze of the Houston Buffs was expected to send Floyd Rose, stocky little right-hander, against San Antonio in the first of their two-game series in the latter city. "Hobo" Carson, the former Texas Christian university hero, was a good bet to take the mound for the Indians.

Most of the clubs have received some last-minute reinforcements; particularly the Dallas Steers. If they keep coming at the present rate it will necessitate some healthy revisions in the predicting league. The Indians in their final exhibition today enjoyed a hot weather romp with St. Mary's Rattlers and won by a score of 13 to 1.

The Fort Worth Panther squad was cut to the required 25 men tonight with outright releases handed two recruit catchers, McTavish and Thurman.

Manager Del Pratt, before departing for Beaumont tonight declared "The Waco Cubs have the best balanced ball team in the history of the city's class A baseball."

President Fred Ankenman of the Houston Buffs today announced the unconditional release of Willie Carr, catcher; Ben Zoch and Floyd Biggers, pitchers. A deal on Kloor, young shortstop from Louisiana, and Roger Traweek, pitcher may be announced tomorrow.

Only Eight Boys in School With Champ Team

PINE BLUFF, Ark., April 8. (AP)—Arkansas has a state championship high school basket ball team of mountaineers from a county without a mile of railroad in it and from a school where only eight boys go to classes.

Stanley Cox, 22-year-old coach, failed to win a basket ball letter at Arkansas State Teachers college in Conway, although he tried for three years.

He was potent medicine, however, for his band of boys from Western Grove, located in Newton county in the Boston mountain chain of the Ozarks. The town boasts 216 inhabitants.

The team played just as hard to get its picture in the paper as to win the championship from Jonesboro in the final tilt of the state tournament, says Coach Cox. Western Grove seldom breaks into print and when a photographer took the team's picture before the decisive contest, it steamed the boys up. Cox is a native of Western Grove.

Former Yankee Pitcher Coaches Son for Mound

BIRMINGHAM, April 8. (AP)—Ray Caldwell, veteran former Yankee pitcher now with the Birmingham Barons, hopes to see his son, James, take his place among the major league moundsmen within a few years.

James, now 19, has spent his time during the past few years pitching for the home town semi-pro team at Croydon, Pa., and is trying out with the Barons this season.

Young Caldwell weighs 180 pounds and is two inches taller than his dad. He has plenty of speed and a nice assortment of tricks for his age, and veteran sports writers predict a promising professional career for him after two or three more seasons in the semis.

Woman Prexy Feeds Ball Club in Home

HIGH POINT, N. C., April 8. (AP)—There are no kicks on the grub in the training camp of the High Point club of the Piedmont league.

Mrs. E. E. Sensenbach, club president, is feeding the athletes in her own home.

"If you don't get in the thick of this pennant fight you'll eat in restaurants," she has warned her hired men.

SMALLEST "U" TO HAVE FIELD

URBANA, Ohio, April 8.(AP)—Urbana university, called the smallest university in the world, is to have an athletic field, with a modern quarter-mile cinder track and 22-yard straight-away, a football field and a baseball diamond. The school has 50 students.

Injury 'Jinx' Casts Shadow Over Cubs, With Three Men Ailing

By BERT DEMBY
United Press Staff Correspondent

CHICAGO, April 8.—The injury "jinx" threatens to start the championship Chicago Cubs on the 1930 National league baseball pennant chase with a less formidable outfit than the one with which they began the season last year.

So consistently has hard luck trailed the team this spring that at present three regulars are out of playing shape and the pitching staff is not what it was expected to be at this time.

Three Men Out

As things now stand, Rogers Hornsby and Charley Grimm, guardians of second and first base, are not in the lineup. Lester Bell, who was regarded as the regular third sacker, is limping along with an arm which refuses to function. He is in the lineup principally because there is no one else to play.

Hornsby still is bothered by the sore heel which troubled him during last season.

Dr. Howard Chislett examined it and said he believed it soon will round into shape. The Rajah, elated, left immediately for a one-day stay in St. Louis. He plans to go from there to Kansas City, where he will join the Cubs.

Grimm is suffering from a broken rib, but doctors believe the injury may heal in time for him to open the season. Bell's incapacity, like Hornsby's, is a problem. Lester's arm has been lame all spring. It simply has no power behind it and doubt has been expressed as to whether he will start the season. Clyde Beck, utility infielder, also has an ailing arm which has been stubborn about responding to treatment.

Some of the pitchers have not come along as fast as was expected. The fans are beginning to wonder if the "jinx" is going to keep up his work during the regular season.

However, Manager Joe McCarthy does have some bright spots to which he can point. For instance Gabby Hartnett, who was out all last year with a sore arm, now is catching regularly and Hal Carlson, who was out most of two seasons with a bad thrower, appears to be in the best shape of any of the pitchers at present.

Then there is young Clarence Blair, who has been playing anywhere on the infield. McCarthy carried Blair last year in the belief the youngster was a "comer" and if Clarence continues to play as he has this spring he may get the third base job. At any rate, he is going to be a valuable utility man if Bell's arm does round into shape and Les takes over the third basing job.

Head Hunters Find Cricket Good Sport

AUCKLAND, New Zealand, April 8. (AP)—Cricket playing has supplanted hunting human victims as a pastime among the natives of the Solomon islands.

Missionaries arriving in Auckland from the islands report that warriors who formerly prided themselves on their collection of human skulls now boast of their cricket bat collections.

During the last big island match a tremendous black savage knocked the ball into the lagoon where man-eating sharks were playing about. The fieldsman stood about in dismay wondering what to do, while the opposing team was scoring rapidly.

The team finally got together, seized their captain and threw him in the water. He grabbed the ball, returned to shore safely, and eventually led his team to victory.

U. T. COMPLETES GRID SCHEDULE

One Open Date Remains On 1931 Program

AUSTIN, April 8. (AP)—Buoyed up by expectations of a championship football squad during the next two years, the University of Texas has undertaken during 1930 and 1931 the most ambitious schedule ever carded at the Longhorn school.

The schedule for 1930 is complete while only one open date remains on the 1931 program. This is the opening date, Sept. 26.

The only out-of-state school that will be met in the 1930 grid season is the University of Oklahoma. This game is scheduled at Dallas, Oct. 18.

In 1931, however, three foreign schools will be met. On Oct. 3 the University of Missouri, always one of the contenders for honors in the Big Six, will be played at Austin. The Longhorns will make their first long trip east to engage the Harvard eleven at Cambridge, Mass., on Oct. 24. Sandwiched between these two tilts will be a game with the University of Oklahoma at Dallas.

The 1930 schedule includes Texas College of Mines at Austin, Sept. 27; Centenary college at Austin, Oct. 4; Howard Payne at Austin, Oct 11; Oklahoma University at Dallas, Oct. 18; Rice Institute at Houston, Oct. 25; Southern Methodist University at Austin, Nov. 1; Baylor university at Waco, Nov. 8; Texas Christian university at Fort Worth, Nov. 15; Texas A. & M. college at Austin, Thanksgiving day.

The following teams appear on the 1931 schedule: Sept. 26, open; University of Missouri at Austin, Oct. 3; Rice Institute at Austin, Oct. 10; University of Oklahoma at Dallas, Oct. 17; Harvard at Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 24; Southern Methodist University at Dallas, Oct. 31; Baylor university at Austin, Nov. 7; Texas Christian university at Austin, Nov. 14; Texas A. & M. at College Station, Thanksgiving day.

BUILD BASEBALL PARK

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 8. (AP)—Work is being rushed on a new park for the Western league team the St. Louis Cardinals will place here this season. Construction of the stands and field, backed by citizens and the chamber of commerce, is expected to be completed in time for the opening of the season April 19, when Denver meets St. Joseph.

YANKS TO BE MAIN RIVALS

Entire Loop Adds Power And Punch

(Editor's Note—This is a summing up of baseball prospects for 1930 in the American league, the last of a series of first hand Associated Press stories.)

By BRIAN BELL

Associated Press Sports Writer

ATLANTA, April 8.—Nothing has transpired in the spring training camps of American league baseball clubs to justify unbounded enthusiasm over the chances of any one of the other seven clubs to dethrone the Athletics of Philadelphia, but ample reason exists for suggestions that the race will be close.

Improvement has been made in the array of talent sponsored by the Detroit Tigers and Chicago White Sox, two clubs who were nowhere throughout the last American league test.

Both Stronger

Detroit, a powerful offensive aggregation, had added defensive strength and may have uncovered two or three pitchers who can take their turn with the club's more experienced moundsmen.

The White Sox, a discouraged, wobegone outfit last year, have taken on new life under the driving inspiration of wee Donie Bush.

By popular consent the Yankees have been elected to fight against the champion A's. If the freshman manager, Bob Shawkey, gets good pitching they may do it.

Connie Mack is prepared for some pitfalls along the path. The tall tactician expects and is prepared for war.

The Athletics naturally will stand pat on the outfit good enough to win in a walk last year. Big Roy Mahaffey may add considerable pitching strength and some bright youngsters will increase the population of the bench.

Yanks Need Pitching

Revamped in large part from last year, the Yankees will take the field with two recruits, Ben Chapman and Allan Cooke at third base and left field, with Mark Koenig restored to good standing as the shortstop. In company with several other clubs in the leagues the Yankees are wondering if they will get the pitching, and time only can tell.

Cleveland may start with a somewhat wobbly infield and the chances are even that Lew Fonseca, leading hitter of the American league, will have to stand aside for a youngster for at least a few days of the season. Fonseca is convalescing from an attack of scarlet fever.

St. Louis has a new manager, but practically the same team Dan Howley led has been left for Bill Killefer to direct. The club could use another hard hitting outfielder with profit and the pitchers would welcome arrangements to score more runs.

Same Senators

Washington will go along with the material it had last year. Manager Walter Johnson expects a distinct improvement in his pitching staff.

Detroit, carrying a wallop in either hand, should be a factor. Last year the Tigers led the league in hitting, but finished sixth, faulty fielding and weak pitching offsetting the terrific batting. Bill Rogell, former Red Sox may solve the shortstop problem, a vexing situation throughout last season. Elon Hogsett, a big Indian from the International league whose delivery is that of a left-handed Ehmke, seems certain to help bear the pitching burden.

Improvement in the Chicago White Sox is largely shown in the better spirits of the players, although the infield has been noticeably strengthened by moving Bill Cissel from shortstop to second base. Ernie Smith and Irving Jeffries provide capable replacements for the vacant short field place. Smead Jolly's bat will add power in the drive for hits and runs.

A bright spot in the American league sky is the prospective improvement in the play of the Boston Red Sox, long a hopeless tailender. The Red Sox may not escape the cellar this year, probably they will not, but they can not be conceded the position in the perfunctory way they have been shunted to the bottom in previous advance calculations.

Snoopers Enter Debate on What Tunney Will Do With His Future

By DAMON RUNYON

(Copyright, 1930, by Universal Service, Inc.)

NEW YORK, April 8.—Mr. Tunney, the retired heavyweight champion of the world, remains an object of interest and speculation to the sports writers, despite his expressed wish to be forgotten.

Only a few days ago a bunch of the boys were snooping it up at Madison Square garden, when his name entered into the chatter, and an earnest debate ensued when someone propounded the query, "What is Mr. Tunney going to do now?"

That is, what is he going to do with his future?

Absorbing Theme

Offhand you may say the answer is that it is nobody's business but his own, and yet the sports writers found it an absorbing theme for half an hour, which is a long time for any theme to absorb sports writers.

Here is Mr. Tunney, it was suggested, still a very young man—only 32—in full possession of his mental and physical faculties, with all kinds of money at his command, a world figure in prominence, and accustomed to an active life, but retired from the form of activity to which he has given all his thought and energy for over 10 years.

Would it be possible for such a man to settle down to idleness for the balance of his life? To wander through the isles of the Mediterranean, to loll on the sands of Florida, and to lounge about the Connecticut countryside for y'ars and y'ars to come?

The answer was a unanimous no. Especially from those who know Mr. Tunney. What, then, will he do?

Mr. Pegler's View

Mr. Pegler opined that Mr. Tunney might engage in literary activity, though he admitted that Mr. Tunney had no preparation for such activity, and that literary ability is something that may not be acquired over night, and for the asking.

Mr. Trumbull thought that Mr. Tunney might enter some financial firm, starting at the very bottom, and working his way up to eminence in that field. However, Mr. Trumbull admitted that his theory didn't seem altogether plausible in the face of the fact that Mr. Tunney is past the age when a man starts at the bottom to work his way up, and that Mr. Tunney already has all the money he can possibly need, money being the fundamental motive for a gent desiring a financial eminence.

Your own operative timidly advanced the idea that Mr. Tunney will one day hop into a gymnasium and start getting ready to belt out a lot of these big blokes who are infesting the fistic community, but your operative was immediately laughed to scorn by a viva voce vote, and retired in some confusion to a distant corner while the debate continued.

The Conclusion

It wasn't definitely settled one way or the other. However, the consensus of opinion seemed to be that Mr. Tunney will eventually do something. That he will not remain idle for any protracted period, though he has been doing very well at remaining idle since his retirement. Still, a heavyweight champion falls into the habit of being idle very easily, when you consider that he fights only at rare intervals after winning his title.

In the old days Mr. Tunney might have opened a saloon after removing the padded mitts for the last time. That was the popular pastime among the champs of yesteryear. John L. Sullivan had his little drop-in, and folks do say that even if John had had no other customers but himself he would have enjoyed plenty of trade.

James J. Corbett had a bar before he permanently became an actor. James J. Jeffries was mine host behind one of the longest stretches of mahogany in Los Angeles. John Arthur Johnson had a gilded cafe in Chicago. The fashion changed with the advent of Jess Willard and prohibition. Jess went back to the soil of his native Kansas, buying a big farm out yonder in the Sunflower state after he won the world's heavyweight championship.

FOUR TEAMS RATED AS NATIONAL LEAGUE FLAG CONTENDERS

Three Others Loom as Runnersup As Loop's Closest Contest Nears

By GEORGE KIRKSEY
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, April 8.—Every National league team has been strengthened, the eight club managers agreed in a poll today by the United Press.

Four managers—Joe McCarthy of Chicago, Jewel Ens of Pittsburgh, John J. McGraw of New York, and Gabby Street of St. Louis—consider their clubs pennant contenders.

Three of the remaining four managers think their clubs will finish in first division. All eight managers agree that the National league race will be one of the closest in years.

Cubs Hindered

In commenting on the chances of the Cubs to repeat, Manager McCarthy said:

"It will take some tough luck that would rob us of one or two of our stars to keep us from winning the pennant again."

With three players—Rogers Hornsby, Woody English and Lester Bell—bothered by ailments, Manager McCarthy seems to have put his finger on one of the most important aspects of the coming campaign.

"Pittsburgh will have much to say about the pennant," said Manager Ens of the Pirates. "I believe we have one of the best outfields in the majors, a fine infield, and a well balanced catching staff. If our young pitchers perform as expected we will be hard to beat."

Manager McGraw thinks the Giants are the equal of the Cubs, Pirates or Cardinals, and has a hunch the Cubs will not get the breaks they did last season.

"The Giants are stronger because they have three fine young pitchers—Pruett, Lucas and Parmalee," said McGraw. "I think Marshall will prove a capable second baseman."

Street Hopeful

Gabby Street, new manager of the Cardinals, rates his pitching staff the equal of any in the National league, and says:

"I predict my club will become a serious threat in the 1930 race."

Improvement through experience is forecast for the Phillies by Manager Burt Shotton.

"The Phillies should finish in first division," he said.

Brooklyn is from 35 to 50 per cent stronger than last season in the opinion of Manager Wilbert Robinson.

Dan Howley said the Cincinnati Reds will be the "surprise of the league if their pitching is satisfactory."

Bill McKechnie, manager of the Boston Brayes, expects one of the closest races in years, but says he does not dare predict where his team will finish.

Athens-De La Salle Cage Tilt Abandoned

CHICAGO, April 8. (UP)—Plans for a national prep school basket ball championship game between Athens, Texas, and De La Salle Catholic school of Chicago were abandoned late today.

Athens won the national high school title by defeating Jena, La., in the final game of the University of Chicago interscholastic basket ball tournament Saturday and De La Salle week before last received national recognition by winning Loyola university's annual Catholic tournament.

Athens issued the challenge but De La Salle turned it down. It was believed on the ground the team has been out of training for a week.

DALLAS, Texas, April 8. (AP)—Eddie Brown, catcher, formerly with the New York Giants and the Boston Braves, has been acquired by the Dallas Steers from Atlanta. Brown played with Toledo last year, his first season in the minors since he went to New York from San Antonio in 1920.

EAST RULES CLASSIC DERBY

Famed Entrants May Make New Turf History

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, April 8. (AP)—For the first time in recent years, the East appears to hold the upper hand in the classic Kentucky Derby, scheduled to be run over the historic Churchill Downs turf May 17.

Even with Harry Payne Whitney choosing to withhold the highly touted pair of Whichone and Boojum for later three-year-old renewals, the eastern owners face that famed May Saturday with a field of three-year-olds that far outclass on paper the offerings of other sections of the country.

Leading the eastern contingent in two-year-old records and future book preference, are Gallant Fox of William Woodward's Belair Stud and the diminutive Flying Heels of Gifford A. Cochran's stable. Bookmakers of the country are quoting 8 to 1 that the Belair Stud colors will be flying in front when the band of thoroughbreds come dashing down the home stretch at the Downs. Flying Heels is considered a 40 to 1 proposition, although some bookmakers are offering as high as 15 to 1 on the gallant son of Flying Ebony—sensation of the 1925 derby.

Gallant Fox looks and acts like a stayer—a quality very essential in the gallop over the mile and a quarter. He is by Sir Galahad 3d and a half brother to Petee Wrack, a ranking handicap horse of last season. During the 1929 season Gallant Fox won the Flash Stakes at Saratoga, the Junior Champion Stakes at Aqueduct, was second to W. R. Coe's Caruso in the United States at Saratoga and third behind Whichone and Hi-Jack in the Belmont futurity. His winnings for the year amounted to $19,890.

If juvenile records won the Blue Grass classic, Flying Heels, the midget marvel of 1929, could be crowned today. This hope and pride of Gifford Cochran won seven out of ten races, including the Tia Juana futurity in March and the Pimlico futurity in November to pile up earnings of $79,450.

High in the estimation of those who claim to know are Mrs. Graham Fair Vanderbilt's Desert Light, which shares second place in the future books along with Flying Heels and Dedicate, Fredrick Burton's western - owned horse.

Schmeling Plans Training Grind As Exhibition Tour Reaches End

By FRANK GETTY
United Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, April 8.—Having concluded his exhibition tour of German cities, Max Schmeling now is looking forward to serious training for his heavyweight title bout with Jack Sharkey, June 11.

Whatever Max's private surmises may be about the outcome of that bout, the young German should consider himself just about the luckiest heavyweight contender of all time. Since John L. Sullivan's day, no aspirant for the world's champion ever has been afforded an opportunity to fight for the title with so little excuse.

Here is Schmeling, within one bout of the championship, after having done perhaps less to warrant his chance than any challenger before him.

Different Long Ago

From John L. Sullivan to James J. Jeffries, the heavyweight title was defended vigorously and lost only on knockouts.

When Jeff passed on the title to Marvin Hart and Tommy Burns won it shortly afterwards, Jack Johnson, the negro, was the best man of his pounds and proved it conclusively as soon as he caught up with Burns in Australia.

Jess Willard was built up for Johnson, but his pathway to Havana and the championship fight was certainly a rougher one than Max Schmeling has traveled thus far. Jack Dempsey licked them all on his way to Toledo, and Gene Tunney certainly went up from the bottom.

In the case of Schmeling, he hasn't a Dempsey or a Tunney to beat. He has only to get past Jack Sharkey, an in-and-outer who may or may not be good on the evening of June 11. If Sharkey is at his best, Maxie won't get past, and you may lay to that. But if the Bostonian is having one of his indifferent nights, the German lad is quite likely to knock him right into the lap of the local boxing commissioners.

Fought Two Good Ones

Schmeling is up there on the strength of just two good fights, his victories over Johnny Risko and Paulino Uzcudun. If he has beaten any other fighter worthy of the name, it is not a matter of record.

Max has won out because his system was perfect. After winning from Paulino, he retired for a year and let all the other contenders demonstrate their unfitness. Then when there remained upright only the erratic Sharkey, Schmeling returned to find himself accepted by all hands as one of two heavyweights worthy of fighting for the world's championship.

NEW YORK COTTON

NEW YORK, April 8. (AP)—Nervous and irregular fluctuations in cotton today were attributed to further evening up in near positions and technical readjustments which included considerable switching by near month longs into later deliveries. May was relatively easy, selling off to or slightly below the price of July but after declining to 16.28 recovered part of the loss closing at 16.44 compared with 16.57 at the close of the previous day. The general market closed steady net 13 points lower to 5 points higher with new crop positions relatively firm.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 points to an advance of 4 points.

The market became very nervous and unsettled during the middle of the day. May led the decline, selling off to 16.28 or 29 points net lower, and about 6 points under the price of July.

The new October contract broke to 15.27 or 10 points net lower but prices stiffened up again in the last few minutes. At the close May was 108 points over the new October compared with 1,220 points yesterday and about 39 points over the price in New Orleans.

Exports today 18,188, making 5,991,588 so far this season. Port receipts, 10,590. U. S. port stocks 1,791,988.

NEW ORLEANS COTTON

NEW ORLEANS, April 8. (AP)—Cotton prices fluctuated narrowly today and developed no definite trend other than a relative improvement in new crop positions owing to buying of those positions against selling of old crop months, a reversal of the process which has been the rule heretofore.

Following a morning advance the market declined later to levels over $1 a bale under the highs but rallied in late trading, with May contracts which had traded off from 16.24 to 15.99, recovering to 16.06 and closing at the latter figure for a net loss of 13 points. The general market closed steady, net 1 point up to 14 down.

Liverpool cables were 1 point higher to 2 points lower and resulted in an irregular opening here. Initial transactions showed gains of 1 point to losses of 5, and the market eased off after the start to 16.08 for May and July and 15.30 for October, or 9 to 15 points under the previous close.

This loss was recovered later on covering which carried May up to 16.24, July 16.22 and October 16.46, or 16 to 19 points up from the lows. During the early afternoon the market turned easy partly on the better weather in the belt and partly on selling of old crop months against buying of later positions. All active positions made new lows with May at 15.99, July at 16.00 and October at 15.25, or 21 to 25 points under the early highs.

Towards the end there was renewed covering and the market rallied, final prices showing recoveries of 7 to 13 points from the bottom.

Bearish Pressure on Steel Spreads Reactionary Sentiment in Market

By BROADAN WALL

NEW YORK, April 8. US)—Concentrated bearish pressure on Steel and other leaders combined with industrious flotation of unfavorable rumors influenced reaction in the stock market today. Offerings were fairly well taken in most instances, however, and volume fell off as the list softened due to general belief that any setback would be technical and limited in duration. Steel finished with loss of 1¾, while Radio dropped 1⅝, American Telephone 4, Westinghouse 1¾, Sears-Roebuck 1⅛, Standard of New Jersey 1⅛, Atlantic Refening 1⅛, United Aircraft 2¾, Columbia Gas 1¾, Public Service 3⅛, Baltimore & Ohio 1⅛, Union Pacific 1⅛, and National Cash Register 1 point. General Motors jumped early in the day and held fraction of its gain to the close. Chrysler gained 1½, while Radio Keith closed 1¾ higher. Call money rate eased from 4 to 3½ per cent again. Turnover dropped to under 4,700,000 share level.

"Bad news on Steel." That was the rumor spread throughout the street that influenced more reactionary sentiment. Brokers advised clients that the mid-week Steel reviews tomorrow would tell of falling off in production and that the unfilled tonnage statement of the Steel corporation would show a drop of at least 200,000 tons in unfilled orders as of the close of March. The technical position of the market is such that this talk may be the signal for corrective setback of the entire list but if so the reaction is expected to be temporary. There is a big and growing potential buying power under the market that will tend to limit setbacks of itself. In addition there is a large short interest that wants to cover in many issues. The banking sponsors for Steel would not be averse to orderly correction, it is claimed, as they don't want the market to go ahead too fast.

Further reactionary influence was aroused by resurrection of report that the price of Copper would be cut. Inquiry of those close to the Anaconda management reveals no change in opinion that everything possible will be done to prevent reduction as it is felt that a lower price would not bring in any more business. The larger producers are holding down output as much as possible and this will result in somewhat unsatisfactory earnings statements for the current period and may bring change in dividend rate of Kennecott and some other companies.

Exclusive report here that the three most powerful groups in General Motors were working in harmony in the market again influenced better demand throughout the automobile list. The real market activity of these interests, however, is likely to wait until after the quarterly reports are out of the way. New interests were at work in General American Tank. There was further talk of merger with Pullman. North American Aviation is expected to come on the big road soon. Recent strength in Telautograph is explained by reports of further increase in business with installations being made in new hotels in several of the larger cities. A new group is starting work in Dunhill under influence of improvement throughout the Tobacco industry. Earnings statements of Real Silk Hosiery, to be issued soon, is expected to show net of around $2.20 a share compared with $1.89 in the same period last year.

The price of Mid-Continent Crude Oil will be advanced before the end of the week. This forecast is made by one of the most active independent oil magnates who is in closest touch with the industry as a whole and particularly well-informed as to happenings in the Texas and Oklahoma fields. The advance in price of gasoline in the East, as forecast exclusively in this column a fortnight ago, is further evidence of the material strengthening of the technical position of the industry. It is expected that gasoline prices in the West will be advanced soon and that another increase will be made throughout the East before long.

Sterling continued to slip off in a generally unsettled foreign exchange market. Cotton was not helped by the movement to bring congressional investigation of the market and the sharp decline in price. Wheat and other grains remained under pressure coincident went circulation of bearish crop advices.

MIDWESTERN LIVESTOCK REVIEW

KANSAS CITY, April 8. (AP) (U.S.D.A.) Cattle around the 11-market circuit was featured by a fair demand for better grade steers with weight and highly finished yearlings.

Choice heavy steers in Chicago scored $15.00 while at Omaha 1323-pound steers made $14.78. Choice 738-pound Angus steers and heifers at Kansas City went at $14.25. Stocker and feeder trade remained sluggish; 530-pound white faced stockers at Kansas City cashed at $12.00. Aggregate receipts 32,800, a decrease of 5,500 from a week ago and 5,000 short of the corresponding day last year.

The hog market was fairly active, steady to 10c higher, but a few points reported a slow close on strong weight butchers at weak to 15c lower figures. The day's top, $10.75 was paid at Chicago. Total offerings 85,300 against 88,986 last Tuesday and 104,689 a year ago.

Fat lambs strong to unevenly higher with several markets reporting upturns of 25@35c. Mature sheep were scarce, and firm to slightly higher. Choice Arizona spring lambs at Kansas City realized $13.00 while choice fed wooled offerings in Chicago reached $10.35. The supply numbered around 62,000, a decrease of 16,000 from a week ago but 9,000 more than a year ago.

TEXAS LIVESTOCK

FORT WORTH, April 8. (AP) (U.S.D.A.)—Cattle trade at Fort Worth was dull today. The day's receipts dwindled to around 2,000 head, with this total including about 600 calves.

Barely steady prices were paid in most divisions. Common killing steers sold at $7.75 and good fat yearlings $11.00@11.50. Good fat cows $7.00; butcher grades $6.00@6.50. Low cutters $4.00@4.50. Desirable light stock yearlings, $11.25; good stock steer calves $11.50.

Slaughter calves steady. Good heavies $10.50@11.00. Heavy averages $8.00@9.00.

Choice rail hogs top at $9.90. Butcher hogs steady to 5c higher. Best truck hogs $9.25. Packing sows $8.25.

Shorn fed lambs $6.25@6.75 and good shorn fat wethers, $6.15, some shorn feeder lambs $5.00.

Hogs—Receipts 1,300; steady to 5c higher; top $9.90; bulk rail hogs $9.70@9.90; truck hogs $9.00@9.25.

Cattle and Calves—Receipts 2,100; very slow; one load common steers $7.75; yearlings up to $11.50; few cows $7.00 range; butcher grades $6.00@6.50; light stock yearlings $11.25; slaughter calves heavies $10.50@11.00.

Sheep—Receipts 1,600; steady; shorn fed lambs $6.25@6.75; shorn wethers $6.15; shorn feeder lambs $5.00.

CHICAGO, April 8. (INS)—Hogs—Receipts 19,000; market steady to strong; top $10.70; bulk $9.75@10.60; heavyweight $9.85@10.40; medium weight $10.00@10.70; lightweight $10.00@10.65; light lights $9.75@10.60; packing sows $8.85@9.50; pigs $9.00@10.15; holdovers 3,000.

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 8. (AP)—Cattle—Receipts 900; calves 400; steady; steers $8.50@9.75; handy weights and yearlings bid $10.25@11.00; some fed cows $8.25, heifers $7.50@9.50; butcher cows $6.00@6.75; calves up to $10.50.

Hogs—Receipts 2,200; top $9.75.

Grain

TEXAS CASH GRAIN

FORT WORTH, April 8. (AP)—Wheat trading showed little improvement today although exporters were still bidding around $1.14 for No. 1 ordinary export wheat delivered Galveston and mills were taking some grain on the basis of $1.16@1.17 for No. 1 hard, delivered Texas common points.

Good demand reported for corn, barley, sorghums and cane seed with oats fairly easy selling.

Bids and offers on coarse grains ranged as follows, basis carloads delivered Texas common points, freight paid:

Corn—No. 2 mixed, 96@97c; No. 2 white or yellow, 99c@$1.00.

Oats—No. 2 red oats, 57½@58½c; No. 3 white, delivered Texas group one points, 55½c; group three, one cent more.

Barley—No. 2 barley, nominal, 72@73c.

Sorghums—No. 2 milo, per 100 pounds $1.79@1.81; No. 2 kaffir $1.54@1.55.

Cane Seed—Bulk country run red top, per 100 pounds, according to type, germination, origin and clean out, $4.00@4.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, April 8. (AP)—Uncertainties over the government crop report to be issued tomorrow had much to do with a late setback in wheat prices today. Many holders of wheat future deliveries showed eagerness to realize profits on an early advance. There was also some speculative selling, because of opinions that drouth advices had been discounted temporarily, exhausting market possibilities on the upside.

Wheat closed unsettled, 1¼@2c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish, corn closed ⅛@1¼c down, oats ⅜@⅝c off, and provisions unchanged to 20c decline. Export business today in wheat from North America amounted to only 200,000 bushels, mostly Canadian.

Corn and oats weakened with wheat and as a result of fine weather for field work.

Provisions were firmer early with hogs, but eased with grains later.

Not in This Case

The enthusiastic young man entered the offices of the first big firm he found.

"What sort of a chance is there for a young fellow beginning at the bottom, to work his way up?" he inquired.

"Not much chance," said the manager. "We're contractors for digging wells."—Ilkston Pioneer, England.

WICHITA CROPS NEEDING RAIN

15 Per Cent Reduction in Cotton Expected

Oats and wheat crops in Wichita county are badly in need of additional moisture, and have already been damaged perhaps to one-third the amount of their previously estimated yield, according to agricultural leaders here.

Damage resulting from deficiency of moisture is two-fold, it was said. Aside from the lack of water required for healthy growth, the plants are being seriously impaired in their development by a marked prevalence of chinch bugs. Rapid growth, which a good rain would promote, would eliminate most of the chinch bug menace, it was stated.

Indications point to a decrease of from 10 to 15 per cent in cotton acreage in this community, the report said. Practically all work of preparing ground for the 1930 planting of cotton has been done, and seed will be dropped soon. Farmers generally are in accord with the recommendations of federal farm board representative relative to reducing acreage, growing better staple, and affiliating with the cotton cooperative movement, according to information brought from the various rural communities.

Terracing of fields will probably show a slight gain over 1929 during the current year, it was said. About 400 acres in this vicinity have been terraced thus far, it was estimated.

Famous Medics To Attend Meet

DALLAS, April 8. (AP)—World-famous physicians and medical authorities will attend the third annual postgraduate clinic of the Dallas Southern Clinical society April 14-18, which is expected to attract from 1,500 to 2,000 visiting physicians.

Among the most important sessions will be that of the night of April 14 when a motion picture showing the actual cell changes of cancer will be exhibited. Speakers that night will be Dr. Logan Clendening of Kansas City on "The Doctor's Dilemma" and J. J. Taylor of Dallas on "The City Doctor and the Country Doctor."

Two other motion pictures will be shown, one on obstetrical subjects and the other on an unusual form of rupture.

Among the nationally known doctors who will be on the program are Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland, surgeon; Dr. Francis M. Pottinger of California, authority on tuberculosis; Dr. John Lovett Morse of Boston, professor emeritus in the subject of children's diseases at Harvard; Dr. Charles L. Scudder of Boston, authority on broken bones; Dr. John F. Barnhill of Indianapolis, ear, nose and throat specialist; Dr. A. B. Moore of Rochester, Minn., head of the X-ray department of the Mayo Brothers' clinic, and Dr. C. C. Sturgis of Ann Arbor, Mich., professor of internal medicine at the University of Michigan.

The preliminaries will start April 13 with separate clinics in every hospital in Dallas.

W. T. C. C. Invites Moody To Abilene Convention

AUSTIN, April 8. (AP)—A committee of West Texans today invited Governor Moody to attend the annual convention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce at Abilene, May 29, 30 and 31. He promised to attend unless something unforeseen prevented.

The delegation presenting the invitation was composed of D. A. Bandeen, of Stamford, manager of the West Texas chamber, Senator Walter C. Woodward and Leon Shield of Coleman and Representative Adrian Pool of El Paso.

Concern Formed To Film 'Birth of Texas'

LOS ANGELES, April 8. (AP)—George Schepp, capitalist of Dallas and Fort Worth, today was announced as one of the principal backers of a film depicting the history of his state, to be called "The Birth of Texas." The Pan-American Pictures company will film most of the story on its actual locale.

BOSTON WOOL MARKET

BOSTON, April 8. (AP)—Demand for wool is slow, transactions thus far have been too small to indicate the trend of values. Inquiries for fleece and bids offered appear weak and slightly under quotations last week.

Slick Undaunted By Sudik Gusher

OKLAHOMA CITY, April 8. (UP)—"Wild Mary Sudik" well which rained gas and oil on this field for 11 days and which caused military discipline and strict fire restrictions, has not "whipped" other well owners.

T. B. Slick, the "king of the wildcatters," and multimillionaire operator, and his wife were leaving for New York City today. Informed another well on his property was about to "blow in," Slick ordered work to begin at dawn. He had never missed seeing one of his wells "blow in" and he wanted to see this one, he told operators.

The gusher, No. 4 Hoopes located near the Mary Sudik well, accommodated its owners by flowing shortly before train time. The flow was gauged 14,000 barrels daily.

A wild gas gusher which has flowed unchecked for the past 48 hours, occupied attention of field operators today. It spouted despite efforts of operators to stop it with a special mud compound. Efforts to check its flow by cementing the well failed.

Fire restrictions which forbade fires near the well and which curtailed operations were enforced because of the highly inflammable gas it was spouting.

Experts Study Tillman Soil

FREDERICK, Okla., April 8.—A. W. Goke, representing the federal department, and William Boatright of the Oklahoma A. & M. extension department, who have been here the past six months making a soil survey of the county, have now finished the eastern part of the county. This is what they term tight land and comprises 425 sections. Data procured by them will be compiled at Washington, D. C., and will be printed at the government printing office. It will probably be a year or more before this volume is finished.

This survey for Tillman is the first work of the kind done in Oklahoma for about 10 years. Similar surveys were made in Oklahoma, Canadian, Payne, Roger Mills and a few other counties in 1920. Boatright expects surveys will now be made for all the remaining Oklahoma counties to assist in the terracing campaign which is now in progress.

Government Barge Lines Operate at Big Loss

WASHINGTON, April 8. (AP)—A net loss of $354,048.46 by government barge lines during the calendar year 1929 was announced today by Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, chairman and executive of the Inland Waterways corporation, in a report to the secretary of war.

Dyer Will Leave Beer Fight to Commission

WASHINGTON, April 8. (US)—Representative L. C. Dyer, of Missouri, leader of the drive in congress for the return of 2.75 per cent beer, today halted his efforts in that direction.

Announcing on the floor of the house that President Hoover's law enforcement commission was considering the feasibility of legalizing beer, Dyer said he would wait until the commission reports.

Our courteous ad taker will receive your Classified Ad and help you to word it, then our collector will call the next day. These accounts are "accommodation accounts" for the convenience of our patrons in transacting business over the telephone.
Classified Ad patrons desiring to have ads charged must have a telephone listed in their own name. No book record is made by the publishers on account of the great number of transactions, hence the necessity of collecting promptly.
Correction of errors in Classified Ads must be made before the second insertion. No allowance will be made for more than one incorrect insertion.
Cancellations and adjustments regarding errors should be telephoned to the Classified Ad department between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.
Ads accepted for afternoon paper up until 11 a. m. same day.
Morning paper up to 6 p. m. for the following morning.
Sunday paper up to 1 o'clock Saturday night.
Same copy in both papers.
THE CLASSIFIED DEPARTMENT IS OPEN ON SUNDAYS from 4 to 6 p. m. and telephone orders for classified ads to be inserted or to be discontinued will be accepted.
Exceptions: Want ads will be accepted over the telephone for all excepting the following classifications: Situations Wanted and Wanted to Rent. Ads for these classifications are cash with the order and will not be accepted over the telephone.
The Times reserves the right to classify all Classified Ads under the appropriate headlines and to revise or to withhold from publication any ads deemed objectionable.

France May Raise Tariff on Autos

PARIS, April 8. (INS)—The future of the American automobile trade in France appears to be hanging in the balance.

The committee on customs in the chamber of deputies has adopted bills which raise the tariff on American automobiles and spare parts. If approved by the chamber, these bills bid fair to shut out American cars entirely.

George Scapini, the blind deputy, has drawn up two counter propositions, with which he hopes to check the increase in tariff that will result from these bills.

The blind deputy has studied the bills carefully and believes that their adoption will bring about an increase of almost 300 per cent in the rates for the importation of automobiles.

HANGAR BURNED

WASHINGTON, April 8. (US)—Fire this afternoon destroyed one of the largest hangars and a parachute hut at Bolling field, the army air base here. The planes in the hangar were trundled to safety.

What's On The Air Today?

Clifford Erwin, tenor, will be featured on Wednesday night's broadcast from radio station KGKO, from 7:10 to 7:45 o'clock, with a program of popular songs. During the half-hour period beginning at 9 o'clock, Sherman D. Kalis, violinist, and Frank Dinkins, pianist, both of the Bluebird orchestra, will entertain.

From 9:40 to 10:30 o'clock Wednesday night the KGKO concert orchestra will present a program of semi-classical numbers, and selections from light opera and musical comedy scores, Frank Bird directing.

Among the features offered by eastern stations Wednesday night will be the appearance of Elliot Shaw, baritone, as guest artist with the Shilkret Concert orchestra at 7:30 o'clock through station WFAA, NBC network. Among Mr. Shaw's numbers will be MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose," and "Beautiful Dreamer," by Foster.

REALTORS TO LIST VACANCIES

Growth of Local Supply House Reviewed at Meet

All vacancies in the residential and business districts of Wichita Falls will be tabulated during the next few weeks by members of the real estate board in compliance with plans adopted by that body in its bi-weekly meeting at the Kemp hotel Tuesday noon.

Assignment of certain territory within the city limits to each member of the board was made by a committee consisting of L. E. Junell, Ray Keith and Roscoe Staton. According to the plan outlined Tuesday, members will follow in the wake of census enumerators and obtain a definite picture of the property vacancies now extant in the city.

Following the program of industrial surveys which has been under way for several weeks, Walter S. Curlee gave a brief discussion of the Green Brothers Supply house, 620 Ohio avenue, manufacturers of laboratory equipment, power plant apparatus, chemicals, and refinery specialties. The business was organized in 1924, Mr. Curlee said, and has multiplied its volume of sales 15 times since that year. Distribution of its products covers Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and, to some extent, every state in which crude oil is produced. It is the largest chemical and laboratory apparatus house in the Southwest and probably the largest refining specialty house in America. It shipped 39 carloads of supplies during 1929.

School And College Notes

By MARGARET FLEMING
The Record News Staff

Representatives in Junior college literary work will leave Wednesday morning for Gainesville, where they will enter the district Junior college meet. Randle Hanks, Curtis Cook, Mary Virginia Barron, and Josephine Kelly will represent Wichita Falls in debate, and Mildred Anderson and Durward Park will enter the oratorical contest. Miss Juanita Kinsey, public speaking instructor in the high school and college, will accompany the group to Gainesville.

Students to See Game

High school and college classes will be dismissed at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon for the opening game of the baseball season, according to S. H. Rider, principal.

Assembly Comedy

Three members of the Junior college Speakers club presented "Sham," a one-act comedy, at the regular assembly period as a pay program for the benefit of the Coyote and Wai-Kun, high school and college annuals. Characters in the skit were: Aaron Kruger, Frank Bain, Philip Kouri, and Josephine Kelly.

Hi-Y Club Hears Leader

Grover C. Good, state secretary of Hi-Y work, was the principal speaker at the regular meeting of the club Monday evening at the First Methodist church when he spoke to the members on "Contagious Christian Character."

Springer Williams, Patrick Henry Jr., and Bill Hord made talks on "Clean Athletics, Clean Speech and Clean Scholarship."

Approximately 20 candidates were taken into the club.

Another Sherman Man Benefited

Back on the Job and Feeling Better; Results of Taking Few Doses Argotane

"I had to lay off work a short time ago on account of a bilious, run-down condition. I got a bottle of Argotane; after a few doses I went back to work and have been feeling better ever since," said Geo. Moore, well known fireman at the cotton mill, who lives at 111 East Park street, Sherman, while in conversation.

"I was pretty well run-down and bilious, my kidneys bothered and my back hurt," continued Mr. Moore. "This kept up until I was just compelled to lay off. I had no appetite and a little milk or something along that line was about all I could eat. I was tired and at night would be just about worn out.

"I had been reading about Argotane and when I had to lay off, I got a bottle and started in on it. After a few doses I began to feel so much better I went back to work and have been feeling better ever since. My appetite picked up and I had real hunger for the first time in a long while. I rest better and do not feel so tired and worn-out when the day is done. Just one bottle has given me enough benefits that I surely can recommend it."

Genuine Argotane may be bought in Wichita Falls at the Allison Drug store, 716 Indiana avenue.—Adv.

MAJESTIC: Colleen Moore and Raymond Hackett in "Footlights and Fools." At last! Intimate of back-stage life. Talking shorts. Sound news.

STRAND: "Hit the Deck," with Jack Oakie and Polly Walker. Sea-legs were always unsteady. Scenic review—fisherman's paradise. Sound news.

STATE: Last day of "The Mysterious Island," with Lionel Barrymore and Montagu Love. Adventure extravagantly enlarged. Comedy, "Sister's Pests." Sound news.

GEM: "The Sophomore," with Eddie Quillan and Sally O'Neil. "Days of '49," comedy.

In consideration of much yea and nay anent the shows which come and go, this department's proffer of service in recalling favored talking film productions has not precipitated a mail delivery crisis. From the depths of disappointment, and some chagrin, it must be confessed that only one petition in writing has been tendered as evidence that the offer of our kindly intercedence did not go entirely unheeded. Albeit, triumph may be vested in only one response, for its writer classifies himself definitely with the elect by pleading for the return of George Arliss' "Disraeli." Since this picture is our passion, the campaign is a complete success if our bait gets nary another bite.

Further contents were in that communication, however, to which the entertainment-seeking hosts may well turn listening ears: a battle cry was raised against a recurrence of the back-stage story epidemic which raged so virulently for many months during the past year. An alarum which might, in truth, appear untimely to one who looks back at the satisfying array of pictures shown during the past month on local screens; but which is burdened with much import if immediately impending exhibitions be scrutinized. It looks very much as though all the old familiar sets and sounds have been piled about the person of Colleen Moore in "Footlights and Fools" for a three-day stand from Wednesday to Saturday—at the Majestic. Then a redeal of the same backgrounds, hoofer's problems, song and dance boys, etc., for Norma Talmadge in "New York Nights" for the next four days. Even though Colleen has learned a few French phrases, and Norma has grown slightly obese, the ho-hum department is threatened with serious congestion. Move over, Polly Walker.

But this is Texas, and Texas atmosphere is popular the nation over, from which it may be seen why "The Light of Western Stars" (Zane Grey) probably will redeem Polly's bromidity during the coming week at the Strand. Dick Arlen, Mary Brian, Fred Kohler and Harry Green are in the saddle for the Zane Grey story, and latest performances by each of this quartet constitute definite promise of interesting portrayal of whatever characters the piece affords. One of the best points in its favor is that we have not yet seen it introduced, in heavy caps, as a twin to "The Virginian."

Last Services Held For D. S. Monaghan

The body of D. S. Monaghan, 59, pioneer rancher of Kirkland, who died in a local hospital here Monday morning, was forwarded to his home at Kirkland Tuesday morning at 5 o'clock by the Merkle Undertaking company. Funeral services were held there Tuesday afternoon.

Folks Who Don't Like Town Given Advice by New Mayor

Good words and good appearances were extolled by Mayor Walter Nelson as good advertisement and deserved loyalty to Wichita Falls in an address given Tuesday noon before members of the Ad club in their weekly luncheon at the Kemp hotel.

"The man who can't find something good to say about this city should begin at once looking for a better place to live," declared Mr. Nelson. "Our spoken words are the most potent advertising our city can receive."

Commendation for the community advertising campaign now being staged by the chamber of commerce was expressed by the speaker.

Entertainment at the luncheon consisted of vocal solos by Al Gray, of radio station KGKO, accompanied by Miss Lorene Tucker.

Bunnenberg and Ward To Speak at Convention

C. C. Bunneberg, park superintendent and W. B. Ward, city purchasing agent, have been requested to give talks at the district meeting of the Playground and Recreation Association of America which convenes in San Antonio April 21. This district includes Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas, Louisiana and Arkansas.

Mr. Ward will stop at Temple on the return trip where he has been asked to address one of the local clubs on "Boys' Work."

JAIL TERMS GIVEN TWO

Electra Man Sentenced for Disturbing Worship

A plea of guilty was entered Tuesday in the county court at law by Raymond Chambers, charged with disturbing religious worship, according to Judge Irvin J. Vogel. Chambers was said to have stood outside a church at Electra Sunday and shouted at the congregation, creating a disturbance which the state contended interfered with the services. He was fined $25 and costs and lodged in the county jail in lieu of payment of the fine.

Judge Vogel also took a plea of guilty in the case of a young man who was alleged to have obtained lodging and money from a local hotel through false representations. It was charged he arranged a call to the hotel by telephone, using the name of a man known to the hotel owners, and later went to the hotel where they extended him credit on the basis of the telephone call. He stayed the night and obtained $10 in cash from the hotel, it was charged, leaving the next morning without paying. He was given 10 days in the county jail.

A sentence of five days in the county jail was given in the case of another man, charged with swindling by passing a worthless check. The cases were prosecuted by L. V. Abernathy, assistant county attorney.

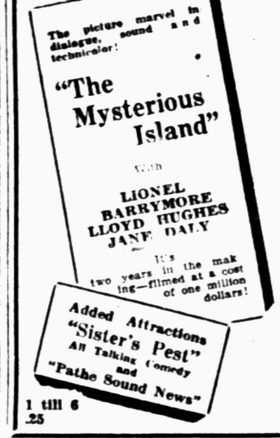

Court Admits Will Of Mrs. Serrien to Probate

The will of Mrs. Anna Serrien, who died here recently, was admitted to probate Tuesday by Judge John P. Marrs of the county court. The estate left by Mrs. Serrien has an estimated value of almost $300,000, including valuable oil properties.

The estate will be held in trust until the youngest daughter, Miss Linda Serrien, reaches the age of 26, according to the terms of the will. At that time the land and other property will be divided equally among the surviving eight children, Mrs. Martha Wacker, Mrs. Amanda Reinert, Emma, Frieda, Ludwig, William, Bertha and Linda Serrien. Miss Frieda Serrien was named administratrix and trustee of the estate without bond. An inventory will be filed within the next few days, Judge Marrs said.

Electra Youth Held On Burglary Charge

James A. McDonald, county juvenile officer, Tuesday took into custody a 15-year-old youth who was charged with burglary in connection with the theft of about $20 in cash from an Electra residence. The boy was caught after a man at the residence in Electra had chased him several hundred yards, Mr. McDonald said. He was lodged in the juvenile ward of the county jail.

Houston Rector To Give Talk Here Tonight

One of the best known speakers in the South, Dr. Peter Gray Sears, rector of Palmer Memorial chapel at Houston, will address the congregation at the Wednesday evening Lenten services at the Church of the Good Shepherd, it was announced Monday by Rev. W. D. Bratton, rector of the church here. The subject of Dr. Sears' sermon has not been announced. He has spent most of his ministry in the diocese of Texas, it was said, and is widely known for his work in the church and his sermons.

CAMP NOBLE DANCE

Members of the Business and Professional Women's club will sponsor a dance at Camp Noble Wednesday evening from 9 to 12 o'clock when Stewart's orchestra will furnish the music. The proceeds will be used to finance a cabaret dinner dance to be held at a later date.
