PROTECTING THE HARVEST

"Keep going that-a-way"—that's what this scarecrow in the garden of Lavonne Humphreys seems to be telling the critters this Thanksgiving holiday. The handsome fellow was created by Mrs. Humphreys and stands beside her home in the fall garden, warning the birds to keep away and attracting sightseers—and photographers—to his little plot on FM 881.

Council Clears Way For New Business

Rockport's City Council took action that will clear the way for a new "light industrial" type business in the city during the last of three sessions Monday night, November 24.

In other action during the meetings, council members voted to annex the tract of land where the Sonic Drive In is located and set Monday, December 8, as the date for a public hearing on a request for annexation of the Pine Tree Office Park site.

Pine Tree Office Park is owned by Five Stan Investment Corporation.

The council cleared the way for Chagrin Plastic Methods Company to locate in Rockport by affirming that the company could locate on a tract of land on Enterprise Street without changing the present B-1 general business zoning of that tract.

The tract is located east of the city well site property.

Bent, Ward Appointed To Look At Park Land

Aldermen Henry Bent and Betty Jean Ward have been appointed as a committee to look into the possibility of securing park sites in the south part of Rockport.

The action came Monday night, November 24, during a discussion by city council members of a $40,000 Coastal Energy Impact Program grant that has been awarded to the city to purchase park land.

The city applied for a grant to purchase 5.85 acres of land adjacent to Memorial Park, but Alderman Bent said he felt a park is needed in the south part of town.

"I don't like to see us abdicate our responsibility to the south end of town," Bent said.

He pointed out that more apartments are being constructed in the south part of Rockport and this means more people and a need for nearby recreational facilities.

"There may not be land available (for parks) in the south part of town," Bent conceded, "but I think we should look real hard."

Rockport Mayor Walter S. Falk Jr. appointed Bent to look into the matter. Since Bent represents Ward 2 on the council. Falk appointed Mrs. Ward as the Ward 1 representative on the committee.

Falk also recommended that Bent and Mrs. Ward consult the city park board on the matter, to get that board's input.

The federal Coastal Energy Impact grant is administered by the Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration for the purpose of reducing "the impacts associated with offshore oil and gas development and

With more than $13,000 in the coffers — more than halfway to the 1980 goal of $20,103 — Aransas County's United Fund officials have set a tentative deadline of January 1, 1981.

"We're going to try to wrap it up by then," said United Fund Campaign Chairman Betty Jean Ward who added that a tentative "next meeting" date has also been set — for Thursday December 11.

The meeting will get underway at noon at Corky's Restaurant.

United Fund Secretary Lois Gurley reported another 550 letters have been mailed to individuals in the county, soliciting contributions to this year's campaign.

ACMSI Women's Committee Turns Eyes To Dance

By Pat Blair

With the Christmas Bazaar successfully behind them, members of the Women's Committee, Aransas County Medical Services Inc., have turned their attention to the annual Valentine Dance

Joanne Haskell who will be in charge of the affair put out a call for volunteers at the Friday, November 19, luncheon meeting of the Women's Committee.

Although the Women's Committee will not meet in December, Joanne said she would like a meeting of Valentine Dance chairpeople and their helpers on December 4.

Committee members also heard a report on the Christmas Bazaar — held November 15 and 16 — which netted more than $8,400 for the organizaiton — an increase of more than $2,000 over the $6,000 that was raised in the 1979 Bazaar.

Two of the booths brought in more than $1,000 each this year: Polly Rogers' linen boutique made $1,473.25 in sales, and the gift boutique, with Pat Jackson in charge, brought in $1,095.85.

Coming close to the $1,000 mark, the "Trim-a-tree" booth, chaired by Patty Fishwick, made $976 in sales for the organization.

All money earned is used to help maintain Aransas County's ambulance service.

Earnings from other booths include $828.07 from the surprise package booth, chaired by Mary Coudy; $695.06 from the baked goods, Francey Leggett in charge; $617, fashion booth, Jane Warren; $486.68, children's nook, Sue Warrick; $864.23, tea room, Pat Evers and Jean Duggen; $433.38, "white elephant," Vi Street; and $216.60, book stall, Edwina Stranahan.

Joanne reported $843 raised in ticket sales for the organization's giveaway. In addition, she added, she "robbed Miss Piggy" and found another $135 for the ambulance fund.

The "Miss Piggy" bank was a giveaway prize in last year's Christmas Bazaar and was won by Bertie Cone. Live Oak State Bank put the bank on display in its lobby and has been asking customers to donate to "Miss Piggy" during the past year.

"Uncle John" Leslie was guest speaker at Friday's Committee meeting, making a brief talk on Texas and its history and exhorting those at the luncheon — "especially you newcomers" — to take advantage of Aransas County's public library to learn more about this state's history.

The Women's Committee's various projects have raised $6,415.62 during July through October of ths year, including $2,560 in memorials and $2,353.48 from popcorn shrimp sales in Sea Fair.

CHRISTMAS GIVEAWAYS

Sara Bates, president of the Women's Committee of ACMSI, Polly Rogers and Babs Muecke admire the two ceramic trees that some lucky people will win next month. Donated to the organization by LaZelda's Special Ceramics, the trees are valued at $60 for the big one and $20 for the small one. Tickets may be purchased for a donation of $1 from Women's Committee members and the drawing is set for December 19. The first person whose name is drawn will be given a large tree in their choice of three colors, and...oh, yes...the tree comes with a music box. The second person whose name is drawn will be given the small tree. [Pilot Photo by Pat Blair]

In A Different Vein

By 'Uncle John' Leslie

It's a fact we came into this world, not at our own request. We were accepted, loved, bragged about and spoiled before we were dry behind the ears.

Do you agree?

Then came those years between childhood and shaving and changing of our voice (not being a girl I don't know how to describe this period). All I do know it was hard on parents and rough on kids.

Soon we were in the period of life when we looked at girls. Girls giggled when we did. We were real smart — knew it all, hated school but, under parental guidance, we went and eventually graduated. Some smart kids we were.

Well we finally made it to 21 and because an adult—met a good-looking gal — married her — got a good job — raised a nice bunch of kids — made a good living — lived in a nice home in Podunk. Does that sound anything like you?

On the social side, we made friends, visited, fished, played cards, etc. with them over the years. Went to see them in the hospital when they were sick, joined some fraternal organization — also the church. Yes, we were big shots and life rolled on to retirement at 65.

All our social life slowed down, more of us were ill, it was harder to get to the hospital to visit. Some of us became ill and did not make it. We did attend the funerals.

We slowed down on our church and lodge attendance — seldom visit a friend — sick or well. Then wondering why friends did not show up when we were sick.

Can you see yourself from birth to this point?

This is all summed up in the following poem I clipped from The Texas Freemason.

Read this and make a resolution to do something about a lonesome brother or friend because some day soon it may be you.

DEDICATED TO THE AGED MASON

He sits on the side lines
His hair has turned gray
We pass him by as if to say
Sorry old Brother you've had your day.

If we would stop and shake his hand
And tell him we were glad he came.
It would mean so much to a tired old man
Just to feel the warmth of a friendly hand.

He lays not claim to renown or fame
Only a few remember his name.
We may not know from whence he came
But he's our Brother just the same.

He sowed the seed for us to reap.
He paved the way so we could meet.

Ever humble yet sometimes proud
Ever alert to keep his vows.

His stored up wisdom of many years
He leaves to us if we would only hear.
We are Brothers, let's act as such
For the years of the aged have seen much.

"Texas Homes" Features Texas Gulf Coast

Hundreds of species of birds spend their winters in the balmy climate of the Texas Gulf Coast, and watching them has become a favorite pastime of both natives and tourists.

In its December issue," Texas Homes," the state's fine interiors and lifestyle magazine, takes a look at the string of coastal towns between Galveston and Corpus Christi — with emphasis on the Rockport-Fulton area — which provide wonderful respite from the rigors of winter and work.

One favorite gathering place for avid bird-watchers is the Sea Gun Resort Hotel at the upper end of the L.B.J. Causeway in Lamar.

There is a nice turned-down informality about the Sea Gun that harmonizes well with the general down-home and low-key casualness of the coast, the magazine says.

A short drive north of the Sea Gun on State Highway 35 is the National Wildlife Refuge at Austwell — a treasury of rare and beautiful creatures in a serene setting of open marsh and deep woods.

In a beautiful fullcolor feature, "Texas Homes" also reports about the most well-known of the tourist spots — Aransas and Rockport — where bird-watching is "most special and relaxing," the editors say.

"Texas Homes" is available throughout newsstands along the Texas Gulf Coast or may be obtained by writing the Circulation Department, 1925 San Jacinto, Dallas, Texas 75201.

Census Figures Draw Protest From Rockport Officials

By Pat Blair

The Aransas County tally is described as "fairly accurate" . . . and Fulton actually came out ahead . . . but Rockport city officials are "furious" with preliminary Census estimates.

That's because the U.S. Census Bureau has credited the City of Rockport I in preliminary figures — with a population of 3,649.

Those figures are "absolutely, unequivocably out," is the comment of Rockport Mayor Walter S. Falk Jr., who also described the preliminary census report as "ridiculous" and the 1980 Census as a "complete washout."

Backing Falk's statements are figures from Central Power & Light which makes population estimates according to a formula based on the number of accounts in an area.

In 1979, according to CP&L Rockport Manager Joel Zapata, the power and light company was estimating Rockport had a population of at least 6,000.

Estimated 1979 population for Aransas County was around 14,000, and no estimates were made on Fulton's population at that time.

The Census Bureau came close to the CP&L figures in its preliminary report on Aransas County, crediting the county with a 1980 population of 14,148.

County Judge John Wendell said he was "not happy" with this preliminary report. "I think it's fairly accurate," he said. "They probably missed a few, but you can't get 100 percent accuracy."

Besides, he added, "It wouldn't make any difference if I wasn't happy with it."

Fulton is credited with a 1980 population of 951. Fulton Mayor L.E. Casterline said this is "a little more than what we (Fulton city officials) thought we had."

The U.S. Census Bureau's preliminary housing figures credit Rockport with 2,043 housing units, Fulton with 619 and Aransas County with 7,749 — another sore spot for Rockport's Mayor Falk.

"At one time," Falk says, "they (the Census Bureau) said we had 999 unoccupied houses." The Census Bureau also used a formula of 1.54 persons per housing unit where in the past the standard figure has been "2.6-something" per housing unit.

Income tax returns alone, Falk continued, indicate that Rockport has a population "in excess of 5,000."

City officials are doubly unhappy about these preliminary estimates because federal programs such as revenue sharing and grant programs are based, at least in part, on population figures.

The reduced population figure also would preclude home rule for Rockport, Falk pointed out, since a city in Texas must have a population of at least 5,000 before it can qualify for home rule.

Census Bureau officials point out that the figures it has released are preliminary only and final totals — due to be released in early 1981 — may be different.

But that does not soothe the feelings of Rockport city officials — nor the officials in other Texas cities where similar "miscounts" have been reported.

"We have absolutely no confidence" in the Census, Falk said. "They made a complete failure to give an accurate and adequate count."

AARP News

By Lucille E. Skrobarcek

At game afternoon on Thursday, November 20, eight tables of bridge and one table of canasta were set up. The host and hostess were Tommy and Lucille Skrobarcek.

Refreshments were served during the afternoon.

The winners on November 20 were S.E. Duncan and Mrs. Genevieve Ohrling in bridge. The "Pouch of Coins" went to Ms. Leona Duffy and the finale was won by Mrs. Chloe Bennett. The canasta winner was Mrs. Sally Forseth.

There is another game afternoon on Thursday, December 4, at 1 p.m. at the Paws and Taws Building.

The AARP-sponsored dance on Wednesday, November 19, was a gala affair. The attendance is increasing and everyone is having fun.

The first dance in December is Wednesday, December 3, at 7 p.m. Start the month off right by dancing to Gene Rickles' music. Refreshments will be served at intermission.

There will not be a meeting or a Thanksgiving Dinner on Wednesday, November 26.

Instead, on Wednesday, December 10, there will be a buffet luncheon. Members are asked to bring a covered dish — vegetable, salad, or dessert. The Chapter will furnish turkey and/or ham.

Preceding the luncheon, there will be a formal installation of officers and an exchange of gifts between members. The Rockport-Fulton High School Choir will present a Christmas program under the direction of Mrs. Martha Luigi.

When attending the luncheon and related affairs, members are asked to present their current AARP Membership Cards at the time they sign the register.

Also, members are asked to bring canned goods so we can complete our Christmas Baskets for needy families.

Lady Pirates Win

By Bob Crawford

Rockport-Fulton's Lady Pirates made it three in a row Friday night when they put a loss on Ingleside's Mustangs.

Although the Ingleside girls were much taller, the Rockport team outscrapped their opponents.

Terri Moore and Kim Foitik combined for 44 total points in the 61-44 victory. Moore, hitting the 20-point mark for the third time in a row, had a big second period, hitting for 11 points in that eight minute stretch.

Foitik was solid in both halves, hitting 10 in the first half then nine more in the last half.

The Ladies outscored Ingleside 16-8 in the first quarter, and by the half, the score had increased to an eighteen point bulge at 37-19.

Characteristic of the Lady Pirates, they had a slow third quarter, scoring only 10 points. In that period the Ingleside five were scoring 12 points. But by the fourth period, the Rockport team had put the game away.

Lee Ann Shaw paced Ingleside with 21 points.

Things To Be Thankful For

A few years back, in one of Charles Shultz's "Peanuts" comic strips, the beagle, Snoopy, was exhorted about this time of year to be "thankful."

Snoopy had to think about it for a while, but he finally concluded, since it was Thanksgiving Day, that he could be thankful he wasn't a turkey . . .

Like Snoopy, we all can find something to be thankful for — including the fact that we aren't turkeys. We can be thankful that we're around for another Thanksgiving . . . that we don't have to work Thursday . . .

Thankful that we don't have to go out and shoot our Thanksgiving meal before we can eat it . . . and that technology has made it a lot easier to prepare food than it was back in the days of the First Thanksgiving . . .

We can probably all be thankful that we live in a country where criticizing the government isn't a crime. Otherwise, we wouldn't have to worry about inflation and the cost of gasoline because most of us would be in jail or in front of firing squads.
or in front of firing squads.

I guess we can be thankful that inflation isn't any higher . . . (Or the cost of gasoline, for that matter.)

Some of us can be thankful for the reunion of families that we haven't seen all year (and others of us grateful that the families aren't reuniting and we don't have to worry about trying to feed 100 people . . .)

Each of us has our own personal list of things to be thankful for: friends . . . family . . . the chance to watch our favorite teams play football on TV . . .

As for me, I'm very thankful that it's Thanksgiving — and not Christmas.

And I still have 23 shopping days left . . .

Accident Report

An accident at the intersection of Liberty and Ann Friday evening, November 21, led to a traffic citation and driving while intoxicated charges against one of the drivers involved.

Police reported the accident occurred about 8:08 p.m. when a vehicle driven by Gary Louis Rolls, 27, of Aransas Pass was in collision with one driven by Michael Alford Richardson, 37, of 422 Market, Rockport.

Rolls was ticketed for failure to yield right-of-way at a stop sign and charged with DWI. Bond was set at $500 on the DWI charge

Daniel Thomas Rubey, 37, of Canyon Lake was given a traffic citation after an accident about 6:15 p.m. Friday at the intersection of Austin and Liberty.

Rubey's vehicle was in collision with a vehicle driven by Patricia G. Blackwell, 50, of Rockport. Rubey was ticketed for failure to stop at a traffic signal on red following the mishap.

Hanson Named President

Arlo Hansen was elected president of Rockport Rotary club for the 1981-82 year at a luncheon meeting of the local civic organization at Cattlemans Restaurant Wednesday, November 19.

Hansen is currently vice president of the club. His term as president will start next July 1.

Named vice president for next year was Calvin Scholz. Larry Boone was elected secretary-treasurer and Pat Brown, sergeant at arms. Elected directors were Jimmi Luigi — who is president this year — Bill Wilson, Van Taylor, J. Milton Sorem, Alex Knox, James (Dutch) Koppenhaver, Roy Hicks and Dudley Bracht.

Accomplishments worldwide of Rotary International in the field of education and public service were recounted by Sorem, who said a total of 20,218 scholarships and financial awards for individuals and community projects have been granted since the program was started in 1947. Some of these awards and scholarships vary in value from $6 to $10,000, he added.

He said a total of 6,880 graduate fellowships have been awarded. To be eligible, a student must already have a bachelor's degree and be between 21 and 28 years old.

Undergraduate scholarships have been awarded to 1,007 undergraduates who have at least two years of college work and are between 18 to 24 years of age.

Technical training awards have gone to 652 individuals who were secondary school graduates with at least two years' work experience and between 21 and 35 years old.

Teachers of the handicapped have received a total of 479 awards. Applicants must have had two years experience in this field.

Journalism scholarships are available to students who have two years work either in college journalism training or work experience in journalism. So far 138 of these scholarships have been awarded.

Special grants also are available for civic projects in which local Rotary clubs are active, according to Sorem.

One of Rotary Foundations's most widely known aid program is its International Group Study Exchange project, Sorem said. Since 1965, 5,126 students have participated, living and studying in a foreign country.

All these programs are supported by contributions from individual Rotarians and by Rotary clubs throughout the world. For the three years ending on June 30, 1981, Rotary Foundation is committed to spend a total of $28 million on these scholarships and award programs, Sorem said.

"THE OLD DOG WITH THE BAD HEART"

The cough hadn't seemed bad at first. Fido's owners thought he had a mild respiratory problem. However, the cough became gradually worse, and he began to tire easily. He lost his enthusiasm for playing.

Fido, a 12-year-old miniature schnauzer, was a victim of heart disease.

As it is for his human owners, heart disease in an older dog is a major threat. Statistics show that half of the dogs that live to be over six years old will experience heart disease of some type.

Approximately 75 percent of these will have a condition known as mitral valve insufficiency.

For the owners of those dogs, it is necessary to know how to cope with the canine cardiac patient.

This is important because dogs die of what we know as congestive heart failure, due to the inadequacy of the heart's pumping action needed to circulate blood throughout the body.

The blood moves in one direction into the atria through the valves into the ventricles, and out the heart through more valves into the arteries. It is when these one-way valves stop functioning normally and allow the blood to move back through them the wrong way that the heart's efficiency as a pump breaks down.

The symptoms that the dog shows will vary depending upon what valve is affected. In dogs, the most common culprit is the valve between the left atrium and the left ventricle called the mitral valve.

The result is that blood returning from the lungs is not pumped efficiently out into the arteries to the rest of the body. Instead, it backs up into the lungs and stagnates there.

Fluid from the blood leaks into the air spaces of the lungs, making it difficult for the dog to inhale enouth air to provide oxygen for the body, and causing him to try to cough up the excess fluid in the lungs.

If the opposite valve is at fault, the blood will stagnate in other parts of the body and fluid will leak out into the abdominal cavity causing ascites.

These valves are paper-thin membranes, moored to the heart wall by strong muscular tissue. Diseased valves are thickened and nodular, which makes a fluid-tight closure impossible.

The only preventive measure known is regular exercise for the dog and to prevent obesity.

Stethoscopic examination of a leaky heart valve will give a squish-squish sound, whereas, a normal heart valve sound is a typical lub-dub.

Preferred treatment of congestive heart failure is twice-a-day oral medication of digitalis in a carefully controlled dose — along with a diuretic medication.

Diet plays an important part in congestive heart failure. One substance to eliminate is sodium (salt).

Sodium is like poison to a dog with congestive heart failure. This means, he can no longer eat commercial dog food.

His owner has a choice of feeding him a specially prepared prescription dog food, such as "H-D" (Hill Packing Co.) or cooking special meals for him.

A dog with congestive heart disease will never be cured. His medication only strengthens his heart and gets rid of the fluid in his lungs or abdomen. He will always have to be on a salt-free diet.

If such medication is started before the deficient circulation has done too much damage to the other parts of the body, we can give an old dog an efficiently functioning heart again.

There are other types of heart disease, such as heart worms, malformations of the heart, etc., but due to space limitation, these conditions will be discussed in another article.

Sons Of Hermann Number More Than 78,000

The Order of the Sons of Hermann in Texas, the largest fraternal benefit society functioning solely in one state, has gone over the 78,000-member mark, the largest membership in its 120-year history.

Louis B. Engelke of San Antonio, grand president of the society, announced the new membership figure following tabulation of results of the order's annual fall membership campaign which ended in November and saw 1,945 applications processed.

In slightly less than two years the order has grown by 3,000 members, and in the past year and a half four new lodges have been chartered — including one — Rockport — bring the total to 159 lodges in 138 cities and towns across Texas.

Two more new lodges, one at Scottsdale and one at Kingsland, are in the process of being organized.

The Order of the Sons of Hermann was founded in 1840 by German immigrants in New York City.

It was named in honor of an ancient hero, Hermann the Cherusker, whose German tribesman in the Battle of Teutoberg Forest in 9 A.D. annihilated three Roman Legions.

Since the Romans were denied these Teutonic lands, and the entire course of Western history was thus changed, the battle has been listed by some scholars as one of the 15 most decisive in world history.

Hermann Sons came to Texas in 1860 with the organization of Hermonia Lodge No. 1 in San Antonio where German immigrants had lived since the period prior to the fall of the Alamo and where there was a great influx in the 1840s.

In 1921 the Sons of Hermann in Texas ended its 60-year affiliation with the national order and became a separate entity. The Texas group was already stronger financially and had more members than the lodges in all other states combined.

In addition to other fraternal benefits, the Texas society operates a youth summer camp near Comfort for its junior members age 9 through 13, some 22 tuition-free dancing schools for juniors age 3 to 18 and a home for its aged members near Comfort.

Eyes And Answers

COMMUNICATIONS BREAKDOWN

Dear Dr. Pettey: I never am quite satisfied with the information I receive from the doctor after having my eyes examined. I leave with a number of unanswered questions in my mind. I would think good communications with a patient to be invaluable in the doctor's work.

You were never more correct. Your doctor should make sure you understand what he is trying to accomphish for you, and why.

Once he has finished your eye and vision examination and has made his explanation of your condition to you, he should inquire if you have any questions, and answer them.

If you do thoroughly understand your vision problems, you are in a much better position to cooperate in your vision care.

Throughout life, garbled, careless, insufficient, indifferent communications have been responsible for many of our problems. If I were you, I would have a complete understanding with my doctor the next time — or there would be no more "next times."

San Antonio will be the site of an intensive one-day real estate seminar, "Texas Earnest Money Contracts," to be held Friday, December 5.

The seminar is an in-depth learning experience covering the legal aspects of each clause of the new promulgated Earnest Money Contracts.

CITY

merce told the council that Chagrin Plastic is a non-polluting light industrial type business that makes injection-molded plastic products.

Armstrong told the council the company does not handle any raw materials. The plastic that it uses comes to the company in the form of pellets which are heat-molded in a computer-controlled process.

He added the company uses only small quantities of water and discharges no effluent. He emphasized this is a "clean, non-polluting" industry of the type area Chamber members feel is needed to help boost Rockport's economy.

Council members Monday night gave approval to two tax-related measures to keep Rockport in compliance with the Texas State Property Code that will go into effect on January 1, 1981.

The first measure was to set assessment of all property inside Rockport city limits at 100 percent. City Secretary Herman Johnson pointed out that the tax rate will drop accordingly so that taxes in the city will essentially remain the same.

The new city tax rate, to be in effect after January 1, 1981, will be 60 cents per $100 valuation based on 100 percent assessment. The current rate is $1.50 per $100 based on 40 percent assessment.

In related action, the council raised the homestead exemption for homeowners age 65 years and older from the current $3,000 to $7,500.

City officials emphasized that this is also required under the new State Tax Law. The law does not make provision for an increase in the Disabled Veterans exemption.

In other action Monday, the council approved, on recommendation from the city planning and zoning commission, a request by Dennis Jenkins for rezoning of part of one lot and all of six lots bounded by Ann, Cornwall and Gagon streets.

The property has been rezoned from B-1 business to B-2 business.

The council also concurred in a planning and zoning recommendation that the city's existing laws concerning fences be left as they are. At an earlier council meeting, James H. Newberry Jr. had requested changes in the zoning ordinance pertaining to fences in the city.

Council members opened bids on purchase of two half-ton pickup trucks and on repair of storm damage to the roof of Rockport's City Hall.

Bidders on the trucks were George Clark Chevrolet of Aransas Pass, $13,337.30; and Commercial Motors of Aransas Pass, $13,450.

Bidding on the repair job were Claude A. Wilkerson of Rockport, $5,885; and John S. Hicklin of Fulton, $4,998.

On both items, the council voted to award the bid to the lowest bidder that meets the city's specifications.

Council members voted to write to the State Highway Department and request a traffic survey with an eye toward reducing speed limits on North Pearl Street between Highway 35 and Sabinal.

The council also approved an ordinance establishing Laurel Street between Live Oak and Pearl as a one-way street for westbound traffic during the school year, September 1 through May 31.

This street has been one-way west during the school year for 15 to 20 years, Johnson told the council, but no ordinance was ever adopted on the matter.

Council members also:

—Voted to write off as bad debts some $6,300 in uncollectible water, sewer and garbage bills that have accumulated over a four-year period since 1977.

—Adopted a resolution approving request of a Corpus Christi Commercial Zone including Nueces and San Patricio counties and the Live Oak Peninsula. Purpose of the zone is the deregulation of local truck deliveries. The matter will go before the Texas Railroad Commission for consideration.

—Adopted an ordinance granting a special use permit for construction of a 100 foot communications tower at 501 East Market.

—Approved payment of October bills.

An ordinance setting speed limits on Navigation District streets within Rockport city limits was delayed, pending receipt from the Navigation District of the exact measurements of the streets in question.

THAT'S INCREDIBLE

Mrs. Frances Hitzfeld holds two squash left on vines that virtually cover her back yard on Sweet Bay. The one on the left is a 10 pounder and will be eaten, and the monster on the right weighs 14 pounds. It will be used for seed. Last year Mrs. Hitzfeld threw some seed into the soil around a peach tree and these were the result. The yard is now covered with squash vines and Mrs. Hitzfeld said they produced about 30 of the 10 pound size during the season. Although she doesn't know what variety the squash is, she declares that they freeze well and are delicious fried or cooked as any other squash.

Popcorn red, blue

Indians throughout the Americas discovered long ago the high nutritive value of corn and beans cooked together. They had four species of beans, each with many varieties, and more than 100 varieties of field corn, four of sweet corn, plus red, white and blue popcorn.

They call it "The Overnight Wonder" for constipation.

Are you uncomfortable with your laxative? Then meet the little white pill they call "The Overnight Wonder." Just one pill at bedtime safely, surely stimulates your system's own natural rhythm. Overnight. So in the morning, you're back on the bright side. Comfortably! It's a good feeling.

What is "The Overnight Wonder"? Ex-Lax® Pills. That's right—pills from Ex-Lax. Look for the white box.

Accent On Health

Make sure you know who won't be coming for Thanksgiving dinner.

Don't have all your plans for fun this holiday season replaced with bad memories about food poisoning.

Happily, something can be done about this health problem which seems to occur in major outbreaks around Thanksgiving and Christmas.

At the bottom of the pain and misery of what is commonly known as food poisioning is usually a bacterial infection called Salmonellosis. Most types of warm and cold blooded animals — and man — can be infected with Salmonella organisms. Infected animals and humans are termed carriers and through their infected body discharges others may catch the disease.

Man may also be infected by eating improperly prepared or stored foods derived from animals suffering from Salmonellosis.

The incubation period varies and may range from a few hours to several days. The most common symptoms are vomiting, diarrhea, stomach cramps, chills, and fever.

"Since Salmonella germs are endemic in poultry and pork and to a lesser extent in beef, these products should be thoroughly cooked," said Lenwood L. Scholz, with the Food and Drug Division of the Texas Department of Health. "The adequate cooking of food is one of the most practical methods of preventing Salmonellosis."

Scholtz said a pretty common mistake many cooks make around Thanksgiving is cooking a turkey with the dressing inside it. "It's better to cook the bird and stuffing separately," he explained. "When you cook a stuffed bird, the internal temperature doesn't get over the advised 165 degrees in certain cool spots."

Scholtz said improper sanitation or improper refrigeration are the main causes of food poisoning. "In most cases, the food was contaminated after having been cooked and allowed to stand at temperatures which encouraged bacterial growth."

Bacteria in food can really multiply quickly at temperatures ranging from 45 to 140 degrees Fahrenheit — from cool to warm. "We recommend that food be kept below 45 degrees or above 140 degrees," Scholtz said. "So keeping food just barely cool or warm doesn't help at all. Keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold until they are served."

For safety's sake, foods should be served soon after cooking and then refrigerated promptly. Some people feel that cooked foods should be left out to cool before being put in the refrigerator.

"It's safe to refgirerate hot foods just as long as they don't raise the temperature of the refrigerator above 45 degrees Fahrenheit, jeopardizing the other foods therein. Hot foods can be cooled quickly by setting their containers in ice water for a few minutes before refrigeration," Scholtz said.

He warned that most homemakers don't know the temperature inside their refrigerators, and that inexpensive thermometers can be purchased for this purpose.

Many people apparently feel that once meat and poultry are cooked, it is safe to leave them out at room temperature. This is not so. Cooked food at room temperature can be come a haven for bacterial growth. "Around the holiday season, many people leave the leftovers out so that the family can nibble on them," Scholtz said. "Leftovers belong in the refrigerator, and not in the danger zone of room temperature."

Scholtz also warned about cross contamination. "Say you are preparing a steak and salad. Many cooks will slice up the meat and the vegetables on the same cutting board with the same knife. Cooking the meat will destroy the bacteria, but it's possible the Salmonella germs will be transferred from the knife and cutting board to the vegetables," he said.

"Of course you should always wash your hands before preparing any food. But you also need to wash your hands after touching raw meat or poultry. And always wash the cutting board with hot soapy water and rinse it well after cutting fresh meat."

Scholtz advised homemakers shopping for food to select the meat, poultry and dairy products last, and then to get them home and into the refrigerator as quickly as possible.

"Don't ride around with the groceries in the trunk of your car, and make several stops on the way home," he warned.

There are five factors that must come into play to produce food poisoning. You must, of course, have bacteria present, and you need growth-supporting temperatures, suitable food, moisture and time.

"Some of the things you are most likely to fix around the holiday season are the high protein, moist foods in which germs thrive," Scholtz noted. "These include milk, milk products, eggs, meat, poultry, fish, shellfish and such favorites as cream pies, custards, and potato salad."

"Food to be served cold, such as potato salad, should be taken through the danger zone rapidly by keeping preparation time to a minimum and refrigerating it in shallow containers so the entire mass will chill quickly," he said.

Scholtz said it is best to thaw meat in the refrigerator, or for faster results, in a watertight package under cold water or in the microwave oven as part of the cooking process.

He said Salmonella germs aren't necessarily going to affect the smell or taste of food. "You can't tell if meat is going to make you sick by just going by its taste and smell. If it does taste and smell a little funny, however, this usually does mean that the product has ben held at temperatures good for the development of bacteria which could make you sick."

The Texas Department of Health is so concerned with the problem of foodborne infections that it sponsors courses in teaching food hygiene. Its regional offices and local health departments help carry out training programs for handlers in commercial establishments. Periodic inspections are also carried out at food handling places.

In addition, films and literature are available on the subject from the department's Public Health Education Division.

For more information, contact Lenwood L. Scholtz, Food and Drug Division, Texas Department of Health, 1100 West 49th Street, Austin, Texas, 78756, telephone 512/458-7279.

Corn Farmers Can Control Fate

BEEVILLE — The secret of combating diseases in a corn crop is by not letting them get a toehold in the first place, two Texas Agricultural Extension Service plant pathologists agree.

"How do you do that?" a producer might reasonably inquire.

By aggressive field management practices, explained Dr. Jose Amador, Weslaco, and Dr. Roger K. Jones, Uvalde.

Speaking to the Coastal Bend Corn Symposium last week (November 19) Amador said disease in plants can be more easily prevented than cured. For instance, Amador said, sorghum downy mildew, a serious ailment, can be controlled by planting resistant varieties, rotating crops and destroying infected crop residues.

Others can be kept in bounds much the same way. Crazy top can be minimized by avoiding low-lying areas when planting. Common smut, which turns ears black and swollen, can be warded off by avoiding mechanical injury to the plants and high levels of nitrogen fertilization, as well as using resistant varieties.

A tiny virus with a long name — maize dwarf mosaic — the most common virus disease of corn, is transmitted by aphids. Smitten plants are stunted, have irregular, light and dark green mottle or mosaic in the foliage. Resistant varieties and controlling weeds, particularly johnsongrass, in and around fields, will mitigate this problem, Amador advised.

"Resistant varieties to the more prevalent diseases should be used to make the host plant less susceptible to infection," the pathologist explained. "Seed treatments, crop rotation, sanitation and fungicide applications when needed will prevent the buildup of parasitic organisms. Observation of proper planting dates and fertilization, employing level fields where water will not stand and clean cultivation will make the environment unfavorable for parasite development and favorable for normal plant growth."

Amador noted that three factors must overlap to create a favorable climate for disease — the presence of a host plant (corn in this case), the presence of pathogenic organisms (fungi, viruses, bacteria, nematodes) and the proper environment (temperature, humidity, soil fertility etc.) for them to multiply.

By understanding and manipulating these factors so epidemics are unlikely to occur, conditions can be created favoring the production of an economic crop, he explained.

Aflatoxin, a fungus which grows on a wide variety of agricultural products including corn, can also be limited by cultural practices, Roger Jones added. It is one of the few plant diseases affecting both plant and animal health.

Branded a carcinogen by the Food and Drug Administration, corn containing a minute 20 parts per billion (as few as one kernel in 200) aflatoxin infection is unsalable in interstate commerce, he said.

When these commodities are made into feed, the contaminated feed stuff can cause reduced weight gain, liver cancer and even death in many animals, Jones said. Poultry and suckling pigs appear to be most sensitive, mature cattle less so.

Data on the susceptibility of humans to aflatoxin is scarce, the FDA notwithstanding, the scientists insisted.

Because it's a stress-related disease, Jones advised a good fertilizer program and avoiding drought stress in reducing the risk of aflatoxin contamination. Planting dates selected so ear development does not occur during the hottest part of the summer have also been shown to lessen the problem, he advised.

Other practices designed to reduce infection include harvesting early and drying down quickly to a safe (below 13 percent) moisture content; using adapted hybrid seed; avoiding kernel damage (aflatoxin seldom attacks undamaged kernels); and minimizing trash in the harvest operation.
