Southwest Industrial Works to Build Truck and Trailer Bodies And Store and Office Fixtures

James McGregor of Perryton and Virgil C. Smith of Panhandle are the owners of the Southwest Industrial Works, a new manufacturing plant that will soon be opened for business in Perryton. A site, 300 ft. by 300 ft., has been purchased out of the southeast corner of the Powers tract on North Main St. The factory building, 130 by 156 ft. will be of steel construction. It is now being fabricated in Oklahoma City and will be ready for erection about Sept. 20. It will take eight working days to erect the building exclusive of the time for running the foundation and floor. The building will cost over $30,000.00.

The Southwest Industrial Works will manufacture a full line of large and small commercial truck and semi-trailer bodies, also all kinds of store and office fixtures. Plans for expansion with the addi-tion of other items to be made from wood and steel are being consid-ered.

Materials, equipment and tools are already arriving. Mr. McGregor states that their initial investment in tools and material will be more than $50,000 exclusive of the site and building. Area to be served will be Texas, Oklahoma, New Mexico, Colorado and Kansas.

They estimate that by January 1, they will have 50 skilled employees on the pay roll.

Mr. McGregor is a graduate en-gineer from Texas A&M. He has been engaged in the stock raising business for a number of years. Mr. Smith was with the B. C. True Mfg. Co. at Panhandle for 15 years and is known as one of the Southwest's foremost authorities on truck and trailer body construction. Both will devote their full time to the busi-ness.

Housing for employees will be a problem.

The new concern will carry a full line of parts and maintain a shop for servicing all commercial trucks and semi-trailers and gasoline trans-ports.

Probably many of you tried to place Lt. John W. Thurman when you read in last week's Herald about him being honored by being chosen to escort the presidential party from points of the German frontier to the Big Three confer-ence in Berlin. He was with the 27th Fighter Group. The news story was sent the Herald from the European Theatre of Operations. The Herald staff were unable to recall who his wife was before her marriage, but on Tuesday Lt. Thur-man's father-in-law, M. R. Todd, was in the Herald office and in the conversation, we learned that Lt. Thurman's wife was Miss Lois Todd. He is with the occupational forces in Germany.

Legion Post Denounces Big Jobless Pay

The Perryton American Legion Post passed a resolution at their Monday night meeting opposing President Truman's proposal to pro-vide a nation-wide maximum of $25 a week for 26 weeks in unemploy-ment compensation. A committee consisting of R. B. Orrill, A. P. Spicer and Van W. Stewart was ap-pointed by Commander A. N. Dow-ers to draft a resolution and send copies to Congressman Eugene Wor-ley and Senators Connally and O'Daniel.

Labor leaders and left-wingers are gloomy about prospects for un-employment in next six months. Their estimate is for 10,000,000 un-employed for 15 months. Govern-ment estimates are for 7,000,000 jobless with the figures being re-duced daily as factories reconvert and service businesses absorb more unemployment.

The Legion is opposed to the $25 per week unemployment pay for it knows that millions of war work-ers are "tired", do not want to work, are not interested in a job at the present time, and while statis-tically "unemployed", in reality they are not seeking work and the $25 per week for 25 weeks would be nothing but a pension. The Legion says that if the government is go-ing to pay pensions to anybody, then pay them to men and women who have fought and suffered, not to war workers, many of whom evaded military service through war plant work and at the same time been paid fantastically high salar-ies when compared with a service-man's compensation.

New Edition Texas Almanac Now Ready

The new Texas Almanac is off the press, the 1945-46 edition being commemorative of the Centennial of Texas Statehood. Although print paper is still alarmingly scarce, the fact that the new book contains 608 pages—the largest in history—is considered adequate proof of its value to the public. In harmony with its dedication, a considerable portion of the book is devoted to historical matter. There is a re-vised history of Texas from Ca-beza de Vaca to Coke R. Stevenson, and there are additional chapters on events and places of historic in-terest, including an extensive cur-rent account of Texas' participa-tion in World War II.

As usual, data and statistics on rainfall, crops, mineral deposits, farm demonstration, railroad mile-age, rosters of state and county officials, mayors and city manag-ers, sources of state revenue dur-ing the latest fiscal year and arti-cles on Texas counties, with indi-vidual maps, are included in the current issue, together with re-visions in up-to-date form, cover-ing rail, highway, air and shipping commerce; banking and insurance; Texas athletic events, parks and tourist attractions, schools, libra-ries, health and hospitals.

In view of the postwar program of economic development, especial attention is given to Texas manu-facturing industries between 1940 and 1944, when pay rolls and vol-ume of production more than tre-bled. There is full treatment also of Texas minerals, of which more than 60 kinds were produced last year, for a total value of more than a billion dollars—the greatest value of mineral production of any

Staff Sergeant Billy Stark is Declared as Killed in Action

After being missing in action on his 53rd mission over France, since Aug. 12, 1944, Staff Sergeant Wil-liam F. Stark has been officially de-clared dead by the War Department. The following communication re-ceived by his mother, Mrs. Beulah M. Stark of this city, dated Aug 13, 1945, is from Major General Edward F. Whitsell, acting for the Adjutant General of the Army.

Dear Mrs. Stark:-

"Since your son, Staff Sergeant William F. Stark, Air Corps, was re-ported missing in action Aug. 12, 1944, the War Department has en-tertained the hope that he survived and that information would be revealed dispelling the uncertainty surrounding his absence. However, as in many cases, the conditions of warfare deny us such information. The record concerning your son shows that as a crew member of of a B-26 type aircraft (Marauder) he took part in a bombing mission from a base in England to Piers, France. He was last seen when his plane went down in the target area after having been damaged by en-emy anti-aircraft fire.

Staff Sgt. Billy Stark

"Full consideration has recently been given to all available informa-tion bearing on the absence of your son, including all records, reports and circumstances. These have been carefully reviewed and considered. In view of the fact that twelve months have now expired without the receipt of evidence to support a continued presumation of survival, the War Department must termi-nate such absence by a presumptive finding of death. Accordingly, an official finding of death has been recorded.

"The finding does not establish an actual or probable date of death; however, as required by law, it in-cludes a presumptive date of death for the termination of pay allow-ances, settlement of accounts and payment of death gratities. In the case of your son this date has been set as Aug. 13, 1945, the day fol-lowing the expiration of twelve months' absence.

"I regret the necessity for this message but trust that the ending of a long period of uncertainty may give at least some small measure of consolation. I hope that you may find sustaining comfort in the thought that uncertainty with which war has surrounded the ab-sence of your son has enhanced the honor of his service to his country and of his sacrifice."

The President Writes

The following 12 by 10 inch cer-tificate was received over the signa-ture of President Harry Truman: "In grateful memory of Staff Ser-geant William F. Laboratory Magic Laboratory magic is nothing new to Americans. Our scientists and technicians have been pulling rabbits out of hats with such remarkable persistence that we have come to take scientific miracles for granted. Now the petroleum technicians have succeeded in taking the hydrocarbon molecule apart and putting it back together in whatever form is desired. The results have been astounding. Aviation gasoline and stratosphere lubricants we have heard about, but read this forecast for the future by William R. Boyd, Jr., president of the American Petroleum Institute:

"The new science of hydrocarbon chemistry undoubtedly has the seeds from which a host of new industries will spring up in this country after the war. Not the day after, of course, nor the week after, but within the decade. The vast majority of those which we can now foresee are not the type which will drive an established activity out of business to be replaced by another, but are new services which will make for better living for all. The petroleum scientist insists he is merely standing on the threshold of what he believes is capable of accomplishment. The science of hydrocarbon chemistry has already grown rapidly and its ultimate place in our lives is beyond the comprehension of any of us."

Distinguished Unit Badge to Horton L. Kinder

WITH THE 5th ARMY, ITALY—Pfc. Horton L. Kinder, rifleman, son of W. C. Kinder of southwest of Perryton, recently was awarded the Distinguished Unit Badge as Lt. Gen. Lucian K. Truscott, Jr., commanding general of the Fifth Army, presented the Distinguished Unit Citation to his battalion for its conquest of Monticelli Ridge, dominating height on the Gothic Line in Italy.

The outfit, 3rd Battalion of the 363rd Infantry Regiment, 91st "Powder River" Division, by securing the high ground in a week of ferocious battle, made it possible for Fifth Army troops to negotiate the fortified defense line at Il Giogo Pass.

Flanking and occupying a small village at the base of Mount Altuzzo, the battalion reduced a number of important outposts serving the Germans as a cushion against attack. After beating off several German counterattacks, one company of the 3rd Battalion fought its way to the crest of Mount Altuzzo, cutting through intense artillery, mortar and rifle fire and many barbed wire entanglements, crossing minefields and knocking out several pillboxes.

The company on Altuzzo dug in on the reverse slope when the enemy delivered a heavy concentration of artillery and mortar fire along the crest.

The other two companies of the 3rd Battalion, meantime, had fought a grudging battle with the defenders of Monticelli Ridge, in which neither side gave ground. Then orders were given for the 3rd Battalion to take the ridge at all costs. Advancing and climbing grimly through concentrated enemy fire, one platoon attained the ridge, its strength reduced to 11 men by the time the summit had been reached. Before the height could be recaptured, the position was consolidated by a force of 30 other members of the 3rd Battalion, who stormed the peak as soon as the first platoon had reached the objective.

Intense artillery and mortar fire was brought to bear on the defenders as they retreated down the far slope of Monticelli Ridge.

"Monticelli, the dominating peak in this key defense point," the citation states, "had fallen before the courageous and determined men of the 3rd Battalion."

UNDER TEXAS SKIES

By A. Garland Adair
Curator of History,
Texas Memorial Museum

Many Texans who have been doing spade work for the observance of the Texas Centennial have also had in mind making it a combination Thanksgiving-for-Victory and Centennial of Statehood. Such a program would be most timely. Even after the war is over it will be no time for reckless hilarity but it will be a time to give thanks and to rejoice because of the peace that has been won.

The school programs are to begin in September. Parent-teachers' organizations, faculties, school boards and all friends of democratic education are urged to co-operate with the commission in the programs that have been conceived on a state-wide scale so as to carry the Centennial to the people, rather than to make the people come to any certain one spot to observe statehood—the greatest event in the civic history of the Lone Star state.

The victory of San Jacinto in 1836 had not ended Texas' war with Mexico. Santa Anna, released on his promise to behave, was back in the saddle in Mexico City within a year. A state of war continued throughout the period of the Lone Star republic with occasional threats of a major invasion.

In 1843 Great Britain began urging Texas to make peace with Mexico. Peace would make Texas better satisfied with independence. John Bull had hopes of adding Texas to his colonies. Great Britain arranged for Texas to send a commission to the Mexican border to negotiate with Mexico's General Woll for an armistice.

A British sloop-of-war, the Scylla, plying between Galveston and Vera Cruz, carrying messages advancing these arrangements aroused the suspicion of the administration at Washington. President Santa Anna, apprehending steps by the American congress, warned the United States that annexation would amount to a declaration of war with Mexico.

On Dec. 5, 1843 President Tyler replied that the United States would not tolerate interference in Texas' affairs.

British and French representatives in Texas retorted that Uncle Sam never had offered Texas any help when she needed it. They branded Tyler's attitude as "the most bare-faced piece of political impudence on record."

All this created excitement throughout Texas. But President Sam Houston stated that he was "cool as a shoemaker's lapstone on Christmas day." He said the republic was very happy in having so many friends solicitous for its welfare.

Miss Hallie Payne and J. W. Payne went to Oklahoma City Saturday afternoon to join their brother, M/Sgt. Morris M. Payne, who has just received his army discharge after four years in service. Their sister, Mrs. C. C. Buhrer, Johnson, Kan., met them there Sunday and all visited over Monday in the home of their sisters, Miss Selma Payne and Mrs. W. J. Tuley and Michael.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cox returned Monday from Bentonville, Ark., where they moved the household goods of Mrs. Rose Mitchell and her daughter, Miss Eugenia, and the W. G. Caldwell family. Both families left last week to make their homes in Bentonville.

Miss Wilma Leicht and Louis Gilmore Are Married at Home Wedding Friday

WILMA LEICHT GILMORE

On Friday evening, August 31, at seven o'clock, Miss Wilma Leicht became the bride of Mr. Louis Gilmore in a double ring ceremony performed by Rev. P. E. Rhine in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Leicht, near Waka. Vows were exchanged in front of wide windows, under a white satin ribbon arch, flanked by baskets of multi-colored asters.

Preceding the ceremony and after the candles were lighted by Curtis Lynn Leicht, brother of the bride, Mrs. LeRoy Reeves sang "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life," and "I Love You Truly." She was accompanied by Mrs. Allan Dennison, aunt of the bride, who also played MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose," during the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a beautiful pink net dress, with fitted bodice and full skirt. Her full length veil, in matching color, was sheered under a crown of pink sequins. She carried an arm bouquet of white gladioli, tied with white and blue ribbons.

Attending the couple were the bride's brother, Cpl. Cecil Leicht, as best man, who recently returned from the European theatre of war, and his wife, Mrs. Cecil Leicht, as matron of honor. Mrs. Leicht wore a white, velvet trimmed, crepe dress, and carried an arm bouquet of white gladioli.

The rings were carried on satin pillows by little Miss Judy Pletcher and her brother, Donny Pletcher. Judy was dressed in yellow net.

The bride's mother chose a powder blue crepe dress. Her corsage was of deep red roses, similar to those worn by Mrs. D. B. Stump, grandmother of the bride.

After the ceremony the wedding party proceeded to the lace covered bride's table, which held the wedding cake and a large cut glass punch bowl. Candles in crystal holders and flowers were used for table decorations.

Guests were served punch and cake by Miss Nancy Grabeel and Misses Lois, LaVerne and Faye Jean Burger, cousins of the bride. Mrs. Jackie Garrison presided at the bride's book where the 60 guests registered.

The bride was born in this county and graduated from the Perryton high school in 1938. She attended business college in Wichita, Kan., and has been employed as bookkeeper at the Perryton Equity for the past two and a half years. She will continue her work. She is an accomplished musician and is in demand at social and civic functions in Perryton and community.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Gilmore, of Johnston, Pa. He graduated from the Jonnston high school. For the past five years he made his home in Detroit, Mich. He is a discharged veteran of World War II, and is now employed in Perryton.

Immediately after the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Gilmore, accompanied by Cpl. and Mrs. Cecil Leicht, left for a short trip to Dalhart, Texas. Mr. and Mrs. Gilmore are at home at 504 SW Second Street.

Miss Vesta Gamble, Canyon, and Mrs. Binky McIntyre, Panhandle, were Friday guests of Mrs. Bruce C. Foster and Miss Betty Pugh.

Mrs. C. H. Hext, Canadian, was a guest of Miss Georgia Hurlbey Tuesday and Wednesday.

Whose Victory?

"It's over! It's Peace! It's Victory!"

Those words screamed across the upper half of the front page of a metropolitan daily on Tuesday of this week.

Yes, it was over. It was Victory.

So in New York in the early morning hours of August a milling crowd gathered in Times Square. (You could hear the roar of their voices as a background of sound for the voice of the radio announcer giving a "colorful description of this mad scene.") In Boston and Philadelphia and Washington and Chicago similar crowds jammed the downtown streets. They were celebrating the victory—their Victory.

They bought horns to blow and, until the bars closed, they bought liquor to drink. (It would be interesting to know what the total purchase of war bonds by these horn-buyers and liquor-buyers.) They sang, they screamed, they shouted. (Not so long ago some of these shouting voices were whining about having to stand in line to get a package of cigarettes, or whispering to a friend, "if you want to get a good steak, I know a guy . . ." or growling, "nobody's going to tell ME that I can't take a trip on the train if I want to.") They waved flags. (It would be interesting to know what the "absenteeism" record has been in the plants and offices where they work.) They tore up paper and scattered it over the streets. (On V-E Day about 10 tons of paper were lost in one big city—enough to make 50,000 containers for blood plasma, each container holding enough to save the lives of two soldiers. "The need will be equally great for at least six months after the war," says the chairman of the waste paper salvage committee in this city.)

Yes, American civilians had a big time on the morning of August 14 celebrating the victory—their Victory. But there were a lot of other Americans who couldn't be on hand to shout and blow horns and dance in the streets. They're in army and navy hospitals. They can't shout and blow horns because some of them haven't any lips and others haven't any lower jaws. They can't dance in the streets because they haven't any legs. And then, of course, there are thousands of other Americans who couldn't take part in the Victory celebration. They're just names now—names on white crosses in a foreign land.

And that reminds us . . .

On Dec. 30, 1944, there was reprinted in another column on this page the lead item in "The Talk of the Town" in the December 23 issue of The New Yorker. The colomnist who reprinted it said it was "our nomination for the Best Christmas Editorial of 1944 (or of any other World War II year)." We think it appropriate to reprint it now. Here it is:

They are not wrapped as gifts (there was no time to wrap them), but you will find them under the lighted tree with the other presents. They are the extra gifts, the ones with the hard names. Certain towns and villages. Certain docks and installations. Atolls in a sea. Assorted airstrips, beachheads, supply dumps, rail junctions. Here is a gift to hold in your hand—Hill 660. Vital from a strategic standpoint. "From the Marines," the card says. Here is a small strip of the Italian coast. Merry Christmas from the members of the American Fifth (who waded ashore. This si Kwajalein, Maloelap, Wotje. This is Eniwetok. Place them with your other atolls, over by the knitted scarf from Aunt Lucy. Here is Gea. If the size isn't right, remember it was selected at night in darkness. Roi, Mellu, Boggerlapp, Ennugarret, Ennumennet, Ennubirr. Amphibious forces send season's greetings. How pretty! A little reef-fringed islet in a coral sea. Kwajalein! A remembrance at Christmas from the Seventh Division, Los Negros Island. Put it with the others of the Admiralty Group. Elements of the First Cavalry Division (dismounted) have sent Momote airfield, a very useful present. Manus, largest of the Admiralties. Lorengau, taken from the Japanese garrison in the underground bunkers. Talasea airdrome. Wotho Atoll (a gift from the 22nd Marine Regiment). Emirau Island, and ten more atolls in the Marshalls to make your Christmas bright in 1944: Ujae, Lae, Lib, Namu, Ailinglapalap (never mind the names), together with a hundred-and-fifty-mile strip of the northern New Guinea coast, Tanahmera Bay and Humboldt Bay, together with Hollandia. "From some American troops covered with red mud."

Here is a novel gift—a monastery on a hill. It seems to have been damaged. A bridge on Highway 6. A mountain stronghold, Castelforte (Little Cassino, they used to call it). And over here the roads—Via Casilina and the Appian Way. Valleys, plains, hills, roads, and the towns and villages. Santa Maria Infante, San Pietro, Monte Cerri and Monte Bracchi. One reads the names on the cards with affection. Best wishes from the Fifth: Gaeta, Cisterna, Terracina, the heights behind Velletri, the Alban Hills, Mount Peschio, and the fortress of Lazio. Velletri and Valmontone. Best wishes from the Fifth. The suburbs of Rome and Rome. The Eternal City! Holiday greetings from the American Fifth.

Who wouldn't love the Norman coast for Christmas? Who hasn't hoped for the Atlantic Wall, the impregnable? Here is the whole thing under the lighted tree. First the beaches (greetings from the Navy and the Coast Guard), then the cliffs, the fields behind the cliffs, the inland villages and towns, the key places, the hedgerows, the lanes, the houses and the barns. St. Mere Eglise (with greetings from Omar Bradley and foot soldiers). This Norman cliff (best from the Rangers). St. Jacques de Nehou (from the 82nd Airborne Division, with its best). Cherbourg—street by street and house by house. St. Remy des Landes, La Brouquiere, Baudreville, Neufmesnil, La Porterie, the railroad station at La Haye du Puits. And then St. Lo, and the whole vista of France. When have we received such presents? Saipan in the Marianas—only they forgot to take the price tag off. Saipan cost 9,752 in dead, wounded and missing, but that includes a mountain called Tapotchau, Guam. "Merry Christmas from Conolly, Geiger and the boys." Tinian, across the way. Avranches, Gavray, Torigny-sur-Vire, a German army in full retreat under your tree. A bridge at Pontorson, a bridge at Ducey, with regards from those who take bridges. Rennes, capital of Brittany (our columns fan out). Merry Christmas, all! Brest, Nantes, St. Malo, a strategic fortress defended for two weeks by a madman. Toulon, Nice, St. Tropez, Cannes (it is very gay, the Riviera, very fashionable). And now (but you must close your eyes for this one) . . . Paris.

Still the gifts come. You haven't even noticed the gift of the rivers Marne and Aisne, Chateau-Thierry, Soissons (this is where you came in), Verdun, Sedan (greetings from the American First Army, greetings from the sons of the fathers). Here is a most unusual gift, a bit of German soil. Priceless. A German village, Roetgen. A forest south of Aachen. Liege, the Belfort Gap, Geilenkirchen, Crucifix Hill, Uebach, Morotai Island in the Halmaheras. An airport on Peleliu. Angaur (from the Wildcats). Nijmegen Bridge, across the Rhine. Cecina, Monteverdi, more towns, more villages on the Tyrrhenian coast. Leghorn. And, as a special remembrance, 62 ships of the Japanese Navy, all yours. Tacloban, Dulag, San Pablo . . . Ormoc. Valleys and villages in the Burmese jungle. Gifts in incredible profusion and all unwrapped, from old and new friends: gifts with a made-in-China label, gifts from Russians, Poles, British, French, gifts from Eisenhower, de Gaulle, Montgomery, Malinovsky, an umbrella from the Air Forces, gifts from engineers, rear gunners, privates first class . . . there isn't time to look at them all. It will take years. This is a Christmas you will never forget, people have been so generous.

We reprint the above with the suggestion that it is just as appropriate for V-J Day as it is for Christmas Day.

When V-J Day is celebrated officially (as this editorial is being written that day has not yet been proclaimed) we hope that some of Americans who sang and screamed and shouted and blew horns will remember the places "with the hard names." We hope that they will remember the men who fought at those places, and the men who died there, and, remembering—keep still.—Publishers' Auxiliary.

Things You Should Know
About Christmas Mailing to Servicemen
September 15 to October 15

As a service to the friends and relatives of Men Overseas, The Burk Drug Co. furnishes you with the postal regulations concerning Christmas Gifts. The great demands upon shipping and the need for giving preference to arms and ammunition, medicine and food make the early mailing date necessary. The postal department has assured prompt delivery in order that the boys overseas may know that they have not been forgotten by the folks at home; but you must observe the following

RULES & REGULATIONS

The parcel must not exceed five pounds and must not be more than 15 inches in length or 36 inches in length and girth combined. It should be marked "Christmas Parcel" so that it may be given special attention to assure its arrival before December 25.

Not more than one parcel may be mailed in any one week to the same member of the armed forces by or in behalf of the same mailer.

When combination packages are made up of such items as miscellaneous toilet articles, hard candies, soaps, etc., the contents should be tightly packed so that they will not become loosened in transit and damage the contents or the cover. Hard candies, nuts, caramels (including those covered with chocolate), cookies, fruit cake, and chocolate bars individually wrapped in waxed paper should be enclosed in inner boxes of wood, metal or cardboard.

Perishable goods, such as fruits and vegetables that may spoil, are prohibited. Intoxicants, inflammable materials such as matches or lighter fluids, poisons, and anything that may damage other mail also are prohibited. Gifts enclosed in glass should be substantially packed to avoid breakage. Sharp instruments, such as razors and knives, must have their edges and points protected so that they cannot cut through the coverings and injure postal personnel or damage other packages.

Relatives and friends who know that the personnel in the armed services to whom they plan to send gifts are at far distant points should begin to mail their packages on the opening day — September 15 — of the mailing period. Last year late mailings, causing concentration of great numbers of packages in the final days of the mailing period, threatened to defeat the program. It is stressed that success can be assured, with the limited personnel and facilities available, only if the public gives full co-operation through prompt mailings of the overseas gift parcels from the opening of the mailing period.

Soldier Letters

Neustadt-Aisch
15 August 1945

Dear Van and Jessie:

Well, it doesn't seem possible that Japan could have been knocked out three months after the fall of Germany, does it? I had expected another year of fighting over there. We're all feeling pretty good tonight over the big news, but no celebrations nor wild parties. Just a quiet feeling that it might just be a dream. I should imagine the boys in the Pacific would be the ones with the real right to raise whoopee. If they have anything to raise it with.

The only fly in the ointment that I can see is the fact that Hirohito is still sitting on the tirone. Regardless of his being the cradle of their religion, I feel that it is just like tearing down a rotten barn, yet leaving a good stout foundation. Makes it so much easier for them to alibi out of losing the war. But if the State Department feels it was wise to leave him in, I suppose they know what they're doing. Far be it from me to join the circle of barking dogs.

We did hear some good news about sending the high point men home first now. We've got several in this team that have a lot of points, and I feel sorry for them, having to sweat it out. One guy was drafted in 1940, "for a year," has spent 2½ years overseas, has four battle stars, been wounded once, and is still here waiting for transportation. Well, within a year maybe most of us will be able to look back on our army careers with the rosy glow of retrospection and cook up tall tales to tell the younguns.

I notice where the CIO didn't waste any time in announcing that they were doing away with the war-time overtime agreement they had. They can't wait until the gun barrels cool before returning to normal.

We've been putting on the screws on de-nazification and as a result have bounced out a lot more petty office holders. I told you about visiting the burgermeisters in the country gemeinden. Well, I made another round this week, and none of the old boys were there. I was flooded with suggestions for new burgermeisters, mainly from women who carefully pointed out the reasons why their husband would make an ideal burgermeister. I don't have anything to do with appointing them, but if I did, I believe I'd look around for the village idiot, for he is probably the only one that didn't join the Nazi party. And the reason he didn't was because the Nazis wouldn't have him.

I suppose the news about Germany and the Nazis is getting to be pretty cold stuff by now. I'll sure be glad when I can listen to civilians talk without any "Yah! Yah Vohl!" and all that gutteral tripe. By the time Russia gets through extracting the heavy machinery, I believe we can relax for a while on the point of making war materials by the Germans. I'm glad I'm here rather than in the Pacific though, and I'll never cease feeling grateful to Fate and the War Department for my assignment.

Well, I have beaten my gums enough for now, I guess. Take it easy, the war is over. (As if you didn't know!) Yours, Harold

U. S. CROP OUTLOOK FOR 1945

ROGER W. BABSON

Babson Sees Over-All Prospects Favorable

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Mother Nature has smiled once again on America's fair fields. In fact, 1945 will take an honored place in an unprecedented procession of bumper crop years, provided recent indications are borne out. While total national volume promises to be about 2.5 per cent below the records of 1942 and 1944, it should top aggregate output of any other year by about 8 per cent. This truly is providential in view of the world food and feed situation. Here are a few of the highlights as I see them.

Wheat a Star Performer

Output of the bread grain is expected to set a new record of 1,146,283,000 bushels — 6 per cent above the previous record and 45 per cent over the 10-year average. Total supplies for 1945-46 should prove ample, though by no means burdensome. Rice eaters can find little satisfaction in the indicated record crop of 76,136,000 bushels, since the government "take" will be sizable. The flaxseed out-turn will be well above a year ago and materially in excess of the 10-year average. This should be good news to consumers of linseed oil and meal, supplies of which are extremely tight and prices firm. Soybeans—most versatile member of the farm crop family—will be in good supply; in fact, only a little short of the 1943 record. The wonder bean will play an important part in easing the over-all supply of fats and oils.

Although large total supplies of feed grains are in prospect for 1945-46, they will prove none too plentiful in view of demands. I shall feel easier when the corn crop picks up further and escapes frost damage. The rye crop will be substantially under, and the barley out-turn about equal the 10-year average. A saving feature is the indicated record production of oats. This crop should exceed 1½ billion bushels, which would be nearly double the 10-year average. Hay also has done well this year. So much for feeds.

Food Outlook

Food crop prospects, in general, are favorable. This fact, plus army cutbacks and releases, should mean that civilians can let their belts out a few notches. The over-all supply-demand ratio, however, will continue tight in some instances. Even war's end will bring little relief to sugar consumers, in view of the short world supply and the fact that sugar takes time to grow, ship and refine. Civilian supplies of canned salmon will be extremely tight, unless the government sharply lowers its "take"; but there should be a surplus of most fish. Civilians will get a little more butter, but edible fats and oils—both lard and cottonseed—on a whole basis will continue short. Despite the large 1945 crop of Irish potatoes, total supplies will not be excessive. A below-average dried bean crop is probable. The apple crop will be small this fall.

On the other hand, larger supplies of some foods are in prospect. The canned goods situation, in general, has improved drastically over-night. Hence, both canned fruits and vegetables were removed from the ration list. A slightly larger aggregate commercial output of truck crops for the fresh market is indicated. Meats (canned and fresh) will be more plentiful, perhaps sufficiently so to justify early elimination of rationing. There will be no dearth of fluid milk and skim-milk products in the months ahead. Supplies of fruits (including citrus) should be plentiful. That venerable bird, the turkey, should honor more civilian tables this Thanksgiving and Christmas. Supplies of chickens are increasing seasonally, and the outlook is good.

America Learns How to Eat

I am a statistician, not a dietician. Yet it does seem to me that wartime food shortages have taught the American public much-needed lessons in food conservation, as well as in the science of correct eating. Too much food or wrong combinations can be as bad as too little. "You are what you eat" is no exaggeration. If the lessons learned during the war years are remembered in peacetime, the nation's health should be better. This will be a factor in the labor situation as well as benefit life insurance company stocks.

In 1944 more babies were delivered at Baylor Hospital, Dallas, than in the giant Bellview Hospital, New York.

There are 424 beds including bassinets in Parkland Hospital, Dallas. 75 per cent are occupied at all times.

Texas produced four million turkeys in 1944.

Seeding by airplane, a new method of rice planting, was used for the first time in Texas this year.

From Commanding Officer

"As commanding oficer of the 449th Bomb. Sqd., I submit the following additional information concerning your son. On Aug. 12, the B-26 in which he was flying, failed to return from a sortie against enemy held installations near Fiers. The flak was heavy and accurate. The ship caught a direct hit in the bomb bay. Pilot lost control momentarily and lost about 2,000 ft. altitude. Some of the other flyers reported seeing three parachutes open. The ship peeled off and plunged straight for the ground. When about 2,000 ft. from the ground, the ship seemed to break in half. Then there was a large explosion, apparently caused by the bombs exploding. This information was gained from other flyers who were on same mission. No further information received. Your son was highly respected by all members, both officers and enlisted men, of this squadron."

Native Son of Ochiltree

Billy Stark was born in this county on March 28, 1919 and had lived in this community his entire life until entering service Jan. 1, 1942. He was a graduate of the Perryton high school and was associated with his mother in farming and stock raising.

He was furloughed home in July of 1944 after completing 51 missions over Europe as an engineer gunner. At that time he had been severely wounded twice by shrapnel flak. He had been awarded the Purple Heart, two Distinguished Flying Crosses, the Air Medal with one silver and three bronze oak leaf clusters, Good Conduct Medal and the ETO ribbon with one star.

He is survived by his mother; his wife, Mrs. Nell R. Stark, Downsville, La.; a sister, Mrs. Augusta Mae Collingsworth of Perryton, and a niece and a nephew.

Misses Elsie and Lorene Littau, Irene and Dorothy Beckthold, Alene and Caroline Miller.

For the past two years, Mr. Littau had been in poor health. On Monday, Aug. 27, he was taken to Wichita, Kan., for treatment, and on Tuesday morning, Aug. 28, at 9:05, he died in the hospital there. He was 72 years of age; born Nov. 13, 1872. Both he and his wife were born in Russia near the Black Sea. They were married in 1892 and came to America in 1907, moving to Lipscomb county in 1908.

Until his health failed, Mr. Littau operated his farm. In 1934, he and his wife moved to Perryton.

Surviving are his wife, who will continue to reside in Perryton, and his four sons: L. H., Perryton; Geo. L., Catesby, Okla.; R. L., Booker; Henry, Follett.

The land for the cemetery where Mr. Littau was buried was donated by him some 30 years ago for a cemetery, and is located on the southwest corner of the farm that he then owned. This cemetery is south of Booker and is about a mile from the location of the old Kiowa postoffice.

Christian Science

"Man" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, September 9.

The Golden Text is: "Hear the right, O Lord, attend unto my cry, give ear unto my prayer, that goeth not out of feigned lips . . . As for me, I will behold thy face in righteousness: I shall be satisfied, when I awake, with thy likeness" (Psalms 17: 1, 15).

Among the citations which comprise the Lesson-Sermon is the following from the Bible: "For God, who commanded the light to shine out of darkness, hath shined in our hearts, to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ" (II Corinthians 4:6).

The Lesson-Sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy: "'This is life eternal,' says Jesus—is, not shall be; and then he defines everlasting life as a present knowledge of his Father and of himself—the knowledge of Love, Truth and Life" (page 410).

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

All Things Work For Ultimate Good, Joseph Believed

The International Sunday School Lesson for Sept. 9
Scripture: Genesis 41-44; 42:38

HAS God a plan for individuals and nations? Are the times and concerns of men and nations in God's hands, and beyond our own care?

Joseph, in Old Testament history, and Paul, in New Testament history, both believed that God had a plan and purpose, both for individuals and nations; but neither of them believed this meant that we had nothing to do ourselves.

Joseph believed what Paul later enunciated so clearly—that all things work together for good to those who love God "to them who are the called according to His purpose." He was convinced that he had been called by God to a place of power and influence in Egypt where he could serve others in a time of great need, and he saw all the hardships and adversities through which he had come to that place of power as parts of God's plan for his preparation. In the same way, Paul saw the outworking of God's purposes in his sufferings and persecutions, as well as in his more evident triumphs.

The story of Joseph, and of what he accomplished in Egypt in storing up grain against famine and in feeding a starving world, has particular appropriateness at a time in the postwar world when millions are hungry and ill-fed, if not actually faced with starvation. Will there be modern Josephs, who will be equal to the task?

Joseph worked with God, and with God's laws and forces in nature, and so must we. The world needs more planning, as well as greater production. Even when men lived close to the soil, as in Joseph's day, the danger of lean years made planning necessary; and great numbers died of starvation.

If that were true then, how much more is planning necessary today, when millions live away from the soil, utterly dependent on the farmers and growers and the distributors of food? Reports of great quantites of food gone to waste when it has been sadly needed reveal how greater efficiency is required. So we need Josephs, and greater Josephs; and we shall have them when modern planners realize that consecration to God's purposes makes men great.

ELLIS THEATRE

With Peggy Ann Garner in dreamy-eyed detachment, Mickey Titus, one of proud Mona Freeman's many beaus, appalls hangover-stricken Allyn Joslyn with an over-doze of collegiate enthusiasm in "Junior Miss," 20th Century-Fox's picturization of the Broadway stage sensation that had New York howling for two years. The film, which shows Sunday and Monday at the Ellis Theatre, and stars Peggy Ann Garner in hte role of Judy, was directed by George Seaton who also wrote the screen play.

'Out of This World' At Ellis Sept. 13-14

It's Out of This World! That's what you'll say when you see Paramount's inside story about the little guy with the bow tie! The real lowdown on the voice that sends the bobby-sockers Out of This World! You'll laugh at the hilarious comedy—you'll come out of the theatre humming the eight hit tunes from this glorious musical picture!

And what a great all-star cast! There's Eddie Bracken as the swoon-crooner; Veronica Lake as the brains whose trained swooners make Eddie famous; Diana Lynn as the gorgeous girl leader of a gorgeous girl band! There's Cass Daley, and those five piano maestros: Carmen Cavallaro, Ted Fio-Rito, Henry King, Ray Noble and Joe Reichman! Even Bing Crosby's four boys are in this picture that's got laughs, romance, gorgeous girls, beautiful music—everything! "Out of This World"—an hour and a half of superlative entertainment that is really Out of This World!

'Junior Miss' Due On Local Screen

The film tells the story of a madcap teen-ager, whose lively imagination sets her family's life topsy-turvy in what is being called the most hilarious series of sequences filmed in a long time.

WHATEVER VARIETY OF WHEAT IS PLANTED—THE SEED SHOULD BE —OF—
APPROVED MILLING VARIETY!

Over the years past, milling companies have purchased the wheat of the Panhandle without question and have paid the highest market prices possible for it. This is because it has been the best milling wheat that has been possible to obtain. It is noted in recent years that this quality of wheat is gradually losing its high standard. This is due to the fact that pure tested seed is not being planted back each year. It doesn't make any difference what variety of wheat is planted—just so that it is a good milling wheat and is pure in the variety that is planted.

Get The Data From Experiment Stations, the Agricultural Colleges and Crop Improvement Associations

It is hoped that there will be greater precaution taken this year in planting new pure seed. The experiment stations, the agricultural colleges and the crop improvement associations have been working to this end, to make the farmer "GOOD SEED CONSCIOUS" over the Southwest.

There is larger amount of barley and oats appearing in the wheat year after year and of course this is a great loss to the farmer. This can be corrected by proper tilling of the soil and the planting of pure seed.

IN THE HOUR OF

TRIUMPH

Behind us lie 3½ years of deadly struggle in which, with God's help, we have prevailed.

So, today, we celebrate a victory.

After the celebration, what lies ahead?

For most of us, the outlook is a bright one. If we will simply use the brains, the will, the energy, the enterprise . . . the materials and resources . . . with which we won our war, we can't fail to win the peace and to make this the richest, happiest land the world has known.

For most of us, the years ahead are bright with promise. But for others of us—and, ironically enough, their part in bringing victory was a major one—the years to come must bear a different look.

In America today are hundreds of thousands of injured men. Men with neatly pinned-up sleeves and trousers. Blinded men. Men with clever iron hooks instead of hands. Worst of all, men with hurt and darkened minds.

These men need our help. Helping them will cost a great deal of money. We can help them best by buying Victory Bonds.

Far away from America today are millions of Americans. As we would be, they're on fire to get back—to their wives, to the children some of them have never seen, to their jobs.

These men need our help. Helping them will cost a great deal of money. And we can help them best by buying Victory Bonds.

This is our day of triumph. But it's theirs too—the injured men, the men who are still far away.

Let's not forget them, in our just rejoicing. And the one way we can help most to care for our wounded . . . to bring our veterans home . . . to give them a fresh start in the country they fought for . . . to care for the families of those who died before the victory was won . . . is simply this:

Buy all the Bonds you can. Keep all the Bonds you buy.

Our Defenders Speak!

The Herald asks that men and women from this community serving in the armed forces write letters to this department for publication. Letters to relatives that would be of interest to the public will be published under this heading.

Terminal Island,
San Pedro, Calif.
Aug. 15, 1945

Dear Mr. Stewart:

It has been quite some time since I wrote you. Please don't think for one minute that I have forgotten about you folks at home. I receive your paper every week and can still say I really do enjoy it.

As every one knows, today we are at peace with Japan. I only hope it will last for awhile. You know, Mr Stewart, a guy can't realize what war is until he can be where the blood shed is. I guess I was fortunate not to be there. Practically all hands on this station have seen action, and can tell some pretty good happenings. For instance, the guy I work with lost all his pals on a destroyer hit by suicide planes. When the announcement came of peace he said, "It is too bad the rest of the fellows on the ship can't be here." He turned as white as a sheet, then started crying. I tell you that was hard for me to take.

I suppose every one celebrated the victory as they did out here. California was a mad house. When the word came through of the surrender, sirens, horns, whistles and every other thing broke loose. All flying was secured at the station, so we didn't have much to do. I had the day off and was out with Lt. Hatton, one of the navy fliers at this station, looking at the different parts of this country. We flew over all the air stations in the southern part of California. The most outstanding one was March Field. They have the big B-29s out there. After all this we went to sea to make a few dive bombings. We were in a SB2C Curtiss "Helldiver," at an altitude of 15,000 feet, when he opened the flaps and nosed straight down. At the speed of 270 m.p.h., I have flown some, but nothing like that. He finally pulled out at 2,000 feet. By the time we were level we were practically on the water. After we pulled out he asked me through the interphones if I was still with him. Of course, I said yes. Well, he goes back up and does it again. By the time we were through I had enough diving for one day.

The officers and men of this station are as a whole, swell men. Guys I have talked to from other places seem to dislike their officers, but here you hardly ever hear a complaint. The officers I am connected with are all pilots. I work in the flight office. We make flight plans on every plane that leaves this station or arrives at this station. We keep in ccontact with the plane until it reaches its destination. I like the work because it never gets old. There are only two men on duty. The rest are WAVES. I am on duty 24 hours, then off 24 hours while the other man is on duty. The man on duty is in charge, so that gives you something to do. The duty officer is a lieutenant or more, but you soon find they seem like a guy like yourself. On my day off I usually pass the time flying with the guys here. They can really show a guy a swell time.

As I set here writing this letter I am eating on six pork chops the duty officer brought me, so you see I am getting sleepy. Oh, yes, the chow here is of the best. We eat in the same place the officers and WAVES do, so they cook up a pretty good meal. It seems I have a million things to write about, but when I start writing I can't seem to think of anything. Beings I am in this state I will secure for tonight, wishing all you a happy V-J.

As I sign my name on the teletype,

V NCS R CB
C. R. Bartel

The signature means, NAVY-SAN PEDRO - ROGER - CECIL BARTEL. I am enclosing a copy of a letter from Adm. King to all naval personnel. I just received it a minute ago.

August 20, 1945

Dear Van:

Well, I guess that I had better write you a few lines to let you know that I am still alive and looking forward to going home some of these days.

I have been running around quite a bit since I left Perryton. I spent three weeks in Hot Springs, and then I was sent to Fort Sam Houston to take three weeks military training. From there I was assigned to Santa Fe, N. M., where I am working as a desk and supply sergeant. I don't know how I will make out, but one can only try their best.

Everyone seems to be friendly and willing to help me get started, so with a little time I should come out all right. I have had a pretty long day today, as I started work at 9:30 and will get off at 12:30 tonight. Hope all days are not the same.

I would like to get you to send me the Herald now since I am stationed at one place for a while. I miss all the good old news from home, and I will be looking forward to receiving it.

How is everything around there since the end of the war? I sure hope they can get things settled over there without too much force, but it looks as if we may have to force everything that is to be accomplished on those Jap-held islands.

I guess that I had better sign off as I have some work to finish.

Yours truly,

Veterans' SERVICE BUREAU

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This newspaper, through special arrangement with the Washington Bureau of Western Newspaper Union at 1616 Eye Street, N. W., Washington, D. C., is able to bring readers this weekly column on problems of the veteran and serviceman and his family. Questions may be addressed to the above Bureau and they will be answered in a subsequent column. No replies can be made direct by mail, but only in the column which will appear in this newspaper regularly.)

Income Tax Problems

The veteran returning home after his discharge will be wise if he consults a government income tax collector to get straight on his income tax with Uncle Sam.

Even though the veteran is confident he does not owe a tax, it would be well to get it straight from the internal revenue department. For most servicemen and women, the entire 1942 federal income tax was cancelled, but there were some exceptions. It is possible that if you paid federal taxes for the 1942-43 period, there may be a refund coming.

Unless the veteran is a commissioned officer or had a private income, he likely will owe no income tax for the time in service, since from 1943 there has been no tax on the first $1,500 of annual service pay or on the government's contribution to monthly family allowance. Neither is there a federal tax on mustering out pay, pensions or disability retirement pay, gratuities, war risk insurance proceeds nor on the veterans educational or rehabilitation allowances.

Prior to 1943 the exemption on annual pay was granted only to enlisted men and was $250 for a single person and $300 for a married person. If you owed income tax at the time you went into service, you may be one of those who obtained permission to postpone payment. If that is true, then you have six months to pay-up after your discharge. You may make application to pay in equal installments over a period equal to your full period of service if you desire.

If there were any taxes on real or personal properties unpaid at the time you entered service, there likely will be penalties added and interest charges. If the local courts permitted seizure of your property for taxes while you were in service, you have, under the Soldiers and Sailors Civil Relief act, the right to redeem it up to six months after you are discharged.

Questions and Answers

Q. Is the wife of a serviceman required to include the amount of her allotment in figuring her income tax?

A. No. The amount is taxable income to the person making the allotment, in this instance, the husband.

Q. Where can information be obtained on the number of battle stars to which a soldier is entitled?

A. Ordinarily the immediate commanding officer is the only person who can determine the number of battle stars to which a soldier on active duty is entitled.

Q. Is the family of a soldier notified if he is being transferred from Europe to the Pacific area?

A. The war department informs us that if a soldier is being redeployed from Europe to the Pacific, his family will be notified by the department, and the soldier will be given every opportunity to notify the family of his change of address.

Q. My son has started studying law in college under the G.I. bill of rights. He has decided he does not like law and wants to take Business administration. Can he change his course?

A. Yes, he is perfectly at liberty to change courses. He is entitled to as much time as the law permits in colleges, regardless of what course he studies.

Q. How do I get extra gas to drive the family car when I'm on furlough and how much gas can I get?

A. Apply to your nearest ration board. Take with you the mileage record of the car to be used and your furlough papers. You will get a gallon a day up to 35 gallons.

Q. If a woman served for eight months in the WAC and was honorably discharged is she entitled to wear a lapel button and can she claim mustering-out pay?

A. The war department says if a woman was honorably discharged from the Womens' Army Auxiliary corps she may wear the lapel button signifying such discharge. If she was discharged because of a service-connected disability she is entitled to mustering out pay and hospital benefits.

Q. Must a boy register with his local board on the day he becomes 18 or how soon thereafter?

A. Yes, he must register on his 18th birthday. In case his birthday falls on Sunday or a legal holiday, he must register the following day.

Q. What members of a navy man's family are eligible for medical care?

A. Dependents of a man in service in the navy who are eligible for medical care and hospitalization include his lawful wife, unmarried dependent children, adopted or stepchildren less than 21 years old or dependent mothers and fathers.
