India In Talk With Reds To Clear Up Cease-Fire

Aid Mission Continuing

NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India announced Saturday it has entered a diplomatic exchange with Red China, seeking to clear up several points of Communist cease-fire proposals in the undeclared war along disputed Himalayan borderlands.

But U.S. and British military aid missions continued their talks with Indian officials on whipping the nation's military machine into shape, either for a resumption of fighting or for defense against a neighbor that has proven its ability to hurdle the Himalayan barrier and threaten the fertile plains of Assam.

Top military members of the American and British mission will fly Sunday to Tezpur, for a two-day tour of the areas near the Chinese cease-fire positions in the northeast, a U.S. Embassy spokesman reported.

Prime Minister Nehru has indicated India would not accept Chinese terms for peace in their present form and has geared the nation for what he called a long struggle. He has said various diplomatic moves do not mean an end to the conflict is in sight.

Announcing the diplomatic exchange, a Foreign Ministry spokesman said Foreign Secretary M. J. Desai summoned the Chinese charge d'affaires Friday and "put to him several points about China's cease-fire proposal which required clarification."

The Chinese diplomat is obtaining clarification from Peking, the Foreign Ministry spokesman said. He declined to say what points the Indian government wanted cleared up.

The spokesman said, however, the Chinese cease-fire proclamation, which took effect last Wednesday, is still under consideration. The Nehru government has made no formal comment on it but has issued orders to its troops to fire only if fired upon.

The situation on the bleak mountain battlefronts apparently remained quiet.

Indian feeling has been running strongly against accepting present Chinese terms.

The Chinese would stand to gain 12,000 square miles of territory in Ladakh, on the northwestern front, while Indian and Chinese troops would be banned from a Chinese-proposed 12½-mile strip across the entire frontier battle area. The Chinese also propose a summit meeting between Nehru and Red China's premier, Chou En-lai, after hostilities comes to an end.

The Chinese have said they will pull their troops back on Dec. 1 12½ miles from what they call the actual line of control. But apparently they will not do so unless the Indian forces also pull back.

PREPARING FOR SANTA—Harold Bennett, right, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Merchants' committee, and Doug Burney, city employe, pick out a spot to attach a street decoration as Snyder spruces up for the Christmas season. Merchants are preparing for a series of prizes during the next four weeks, and old Santa himself, is due to appear on the scene soon.

President Sets Visit To Military Men

HYANNIS PORT, Mass., (AP) — President Kennedy will make a one day visit Monday to military men sent to the Georgia-Florida area because of the Cuban crisis, the summer White House announced Saturday.

The President's fast tour will begin near Savannah, Ga., and will take him to Army, Navy and Air Force installations as far south as Key West, Fla., which is 90 miles from Cuba.

Andrew T. Hatcher, assistant White House press secretary, said the President will talk with officers and men at several of the bases he visits.

At Homestead Air Force Base, south of Miami, Fla., the President will see the advance headquarters for the Cuban operation. The top command was under Adm. Robert L. Dennison, commander of the Atlantic Fleet at Norfolk, Va.

The President called off his planned trip to Cambridge, Mass. Saturday to see the Harvard-Yale football game because of the prospect of rainy weather.

The President announced his selection of another Harvard man, Dean Francis Keppel of the Harvard School of Eduction, for appointment to the $10,000-a-year post as U. S. Commissioner of Education.

The job has been vacant four months since Dr. Sterling M. McMurrin quit to return to the University of Utah. The job was hard to fill. McMurrin complained the Office of Education was afflicted with red tape and bureaucratic problems and that Congress gave it only skimpy support.

Texas Has Dreary Day

By The Associated Press

A gloomy overcast spread over all Texas Saturday, sometimes dripping light rain, drizzle or fog.

A cold front that moved into the Panhandle bogged down before it could get very far into the state. Freezing weather returned to the upper Panhandle, where Dalhart had 28 degrees at dawn.

By early afternoon, Fort Worth, San Angelo, Mineral Wells and McAllen reported light rain. Abilene and Junction had drizzle. Fog was reported at all those places also.

Light, intermittent rain fell generally during the day from the Pecos Valley eastward over much of Central Texas.

Mishap Rate Following Usual Trend

By The Associated Press

The nation's accident death toll for the Thanksgiving weekend showed little variation from those of recent years.

Near the end of the 102-hour period's third day traffic fatalities reached 331, deaths in fires 36, and miscellaneous accident deaths 89. The total was 456.

In recent years, the four-day Thanksgiving traffic tolls and those from all types of accidents were: 1958, 454 (626); 1959, 445 (650); 1960, 442 (606), and 1961, 457 (602).

The current count began at 6 p.m., local time, Wednesday and ends at midnight Sunday.

With its large proportion of traffic fatalities, it underscored the dangers that lurk in highway travel during the Thanksgiving holiday.

The record four-day holiday death toll from traffic accidents—706—was set at Christmas 1956. The highest over-all accident death toll of 924 was counted during the four-day Independence Day holiday in 1961.

For comparative purposes, the Associated Press surveyed a non-holiday, four-day weekend. During the 102-hour comparison period there were 459 traffic fatalities, 30 fire victims and 113 killed in miscellaneous accidents. This toll of 602 was recorded from 6 p.m. Wednesday Nov. 7 to midnight Sunday, Nov. 11.

The National Safety Council said traffic deaths for such a period at this time of year could be expected to number about 480.

The council warns of highway perils in advance of some holidays and estimates how many lives are likely to be lost. However, the council said the Thanksgiving mortality risk is scarcely greater than that for any other weekend.

Mother Held In Slaying

DALLAS (AP) — An attractive 18-year-old mother sat in jail Saturday awaiting filing of charges accusing her of murdering her infant daughter.

Detectives said the sandy-haired girl showed no remorse over the death Nov. 8 of her seven-week old child.

They quoted her as saying she beat the child with her hands and toys because, "It cried and made me nervous."

"I couldn't stand the crying," they quoted her as saying.

The child died two hours after it was taken to a hospital of a skull fracture.

A post mortum disclosed that the child had suffered a previous skull fracture, and a broken arm that had apparently gone untreated.

The father, 20, was held for questioning by police. He told police his wife had insisted on putting the child up for adoption because of its crying.

The infant was the only child of the couple.

Huge Defense Contract Is Awarded Fort Worth Plant

By MIKE COCHRAN

FORT WORTH (AP) — The Defense Department awarded a huge contract Saturday for development of the TFX fighter plane to General Dynamics Corp. The jubilant response in this north Texas areas was overwhelming.

The announcement at mid-morning touched off a massive wave of excitement among civic and political leaders and Christmas shoppers weaying through the downtown streets.

All hailed the multi-billion dollar contract as a terrific economical and psychological lift to the entire area and General Dynamics predicted the contract will boost employment ultimately to 18,000.

The huge bomber plant, whose employment soared past 30,000 in World War II and the Korean conflict, currently employs 10,500.

General Dynamics, teamed with Grumman Corp., competed with the Boeing Co. for the TFX program, designed to eventually develop and build more than 1,500 planes over a span of several years.

The Defense Department noted that the award was only for development of the tactical fighter. A production contract will come after development has reached the point where production is possible.

General Dynamics will be required to provide 22 planes for testing.

The standard tactical fighter plane will be designed for use by both the Air Force and Navy, the Defense Department said, adding that while details are still subject to negotiation the program "will surpass any fighter aircraft program since world war II in both numbers and dollars."

It was estimated about $1 billion would be saved by developing a standard type for the two services as compared with the cost of developing separate designs for each service.

"The aircraft will be able to fly anywhere in the world in one day," the Pentagon in Washington said. "It will be capable of carrying all conventional and nuclear weapons including the latest air-to-surface and air-to-air tactical weapons."

Competition for the multi-billion dollar contract was the sharpest in the aircraft industry since World War II and tension in Fort Worth had virtually reached a peak.

Newspapers, radio and television stations were besieged by calls as the citizenry sensed an announcement was due. However, nothing matched the telephone confusion when the decision finally came.

The word spread quickly through the holiday - decorated streets and everywhere exclamations ranged from "wondeful" to "great" and to "being glad that friends would be coming home again."

A feeling has prevailed that if and when General Dynamics nailed the contrct many former workers would consequently be rehired.

A spokesman for the firm said, however, that for a year or possi-

More Dismantling Expected In Cuba

WASHINGTON (AP)—An extensive dismantling of nonnuclear Soviet military bases in Cuba is now expected by U.S. officials to follow Soviet Premier Khrushchev's withdrawal of weapons with nuclear capability.

Russian diplomats are reported to have told U. S. representatives in recent days that several thousand more Soviet troops will be removed from the Caribbean island.

Russia, it is believed, may also disarm and abandon 24 surface-to-air missile sites which could offer formidable opposition to U.S. reconnaissance planes flying patrols over Prime Minister Fidel Castro's land. But evidently because Russians man the antiaircraft installations they have not been used against American planes in the last 10 days despite angry and explicit warnings by Castro that surveillance flights would be fired on.

Both the United States and Russia, Washington authorities say, are now trying to restore their relations to more normal, precrisis conditions. This may lead to efforts by both powers in the U.N. Security Council this week to take the waning crisis off the docket.

President Kennedy and Secretary of State Dean Rusk, it is understood, would be willing to inform the Security Council that the United States has a policy of nonintervasion toward Cuba under present conditions but will continue strict watch over the island in the absence of international inspection arrangements, which Castro has blocked.

Khrushchev pulled out big nuclear missiles from Cuba and agreed to permit U.S. warships to look over the decklouds of missile-carrying Soviet ships. Last Tuesday he promised to take out 30 or so IL28 jet bombers under a similar compromise inspection system.

White House, State Department and Pentagon planners are now looking into possibilities for some different approach to the inspection problem. Castro blocked Khrushchev's promise of U.N. inspection. One concept which has been talked about is the formation of a Caribbean, or some similar, zone free of nuclear weapons, or offensive wepons, which would be brought under a local system of international inspection.

Mission Rectory Swept By Flames

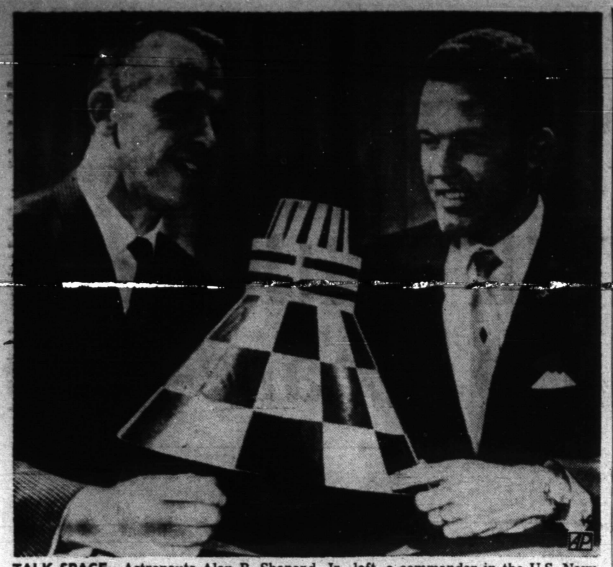

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO, Calif. (AP) — Flames raced through the rectory of famed San Juan Capistrano Mission on Saturday, destroying the library and thousands of books on theology.

The 167-year-old mission attached to the rectory was spared.

The California State Division of Forestry estimated damage at $25,000.

The mission, 70 miles south of Los Angeles, is famed for its legend that swarms of swallows return every March 19, St. Joseph's Day, to spend the summer, then migrate south again.

The Rt. Rev. Msgr. Vincent Lloyd-Russell, pastor, said the fire, which broke out in the library on the second floor of the rectory, heavily damaged living quarters as well.

LIGHTEST MEXICO

BY JOHN ABNEY

MEXICO CITY — If it is the last thing I ever do, I am going to get a job like Mrs. Modesto Perez has. He tests hammocks.

Modesto's mama, wife and sister-in-law turn out hand-made hammocks at the rate of one per day. And test pilot Perez stretches each one for a number of hours to be sure it measures up to the standard.

The price they get on the market is $2.50 U.S.A. per unit and when you multiply this by six days a week, it is no small apples for Modesto & Co.

He reports that he has not missed a day's work in six years. Modesto used to operate on an output of two hammocks per week because he had only his mama doing the construction and she was a pretty slow worker. And of course working a six-day week, testing each job took three days in a row with Sundays off for a rest.

Then the world got to moving along pretty fast and living went up and what with one thing and another, Modesto acquired a wife and a sister-in-law to step up production.

This required a complete reorganization and the reduction of test periods from three days to only a few hours but fortunately, Modesto's instinct for efficiency enabled him to meet the challenge.

There is an awful lot more to this type of work than meets the eye. You probably say, oh just get in and if you don't fall out the hammock is fine.

But no sir. In order to accurately check the balance of a hammock it is necessary to lie completely relaxed and close your eyes and concentrate intensely. Let your feelings sort of crawl up and down and back and forth to locate any sags or uncomfortable cords.

Modesto will climb in a brand new hammock and lie in a state of deep concentration for an hour or two, then say, "Mamacita, pull the third red cord just a little toward the foot. I'm developing a lump."

And then he must stay for a while longer to be sure the adjustment is correct to, say, one two-thousandths of an inch.

Sometimes when he is lying there with his eyes closed, Modesto concentrates so intensely that he makes snoring sounds and the ladies accuse him of being asleep. Actually it is only his system of balanced breathing which takes years of practise and prevents the hammock from developing any uneven stresses.

Another thing that distracts from his work is chatter from the weaving ladies. This reduces his powers of concentration to such a low level that often he is forced to express disapproval in a loud voice.

The whole business adds up to a terrible strain and maybe four or five nights a week, Modesto seeks moments of relaxing solitude with friends in a small spirits emporium down the street. Quietly sipping the cactus juice and speaking of pleasant things helps ease the tension built up from his strenuous test-routine.

Modesto considers one of the biggest assets to his industry is his on, Pedrito. This lad is four years old and he is very sharp.

Modesto is training him as an understudy, a sort of hammock co-pilot, and Pedrito will take over the testing work one day when his pop is too weary to bear the burden.

Well, Pedrito had a curious piece of information which he passed along to me. Last year his mama got sick and they had to take her to a hospital and a couple of days later she came home with a baby sister for him. This year, Pedrito has figuted out he is going to get a little brother.

It seems his papa is sick now.

bly longer there would be no substantial hiring of workers at the plant. He added that employment is expected ultimately to reach "somewhere in the range of 18,000 or perhaps higher."

"General Dynamics-Fort Worth is both proud and happy to be chosen to design and build the first bi-service fighter in the nation's history," said Frank Davis, president of the Fort Worth plant.

"We have been convinced for many months that Defense Secretary Robert McNamara's thesis that a single design could be achieved to satisfy the needs of both services . . . is valid and will result in very substantial savings to the taxpayers."

Snow Trail Is Left By Small Storm

By The Associated Press

A small, fast-moving storm left a trail of snow from Wisconsin to New England and blew itself out Saturday. Another storm was building up in the Gulf of Alaska and already was battering the northern Pacific coastline with gale force winds.

However, most of the nation had pleasant fall weather. Clear skies were the rule over wide areas.

The storm in the East dumped from 2 to 4 inches of snow in parts of the Midwest, Upstate New York and New England. A few snow flurries still continued in the northern New England mountains at midday Saturday.

Temperatures ranged from the low 80s in southern Florida and the Lower Rio Grande Valley to the 40s in New England and westward through the Great Lakes region.

Ample sunshine from the Great Lakes westward to the Rockies pulled afternoon temperatures into the 50s, after chilly morning readings below freezing. Readings in the 30s in the northern Rockies and in the low and middle 50s along the cloud-covered Pacific coast.

Troop Withdrawal Begins In Thailand

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — The withdrawal of 2,300 U.S. combat infantrymen began today with departure of an advance party of 75 officers and men from the northeast military center of Korat.

The Army men came here in May as part of the military buildup after Communist military gains in neighboring Laos approached Thailand. But since the end of fighting in Laos, U.S. forces have been leaving in phases. A Marine contingent of 1,800 men left in July.

The main body of the Army men will start leaving Tuesday in a massive airlift from Korat.

Believe Bird Is Factor In Crash

ELLICOTT CITY, Md. (AP)—Federal investigators said Saturday that an airliner which crashed killing all 17 persons aboard hit a large bird shortly before the crash which could have had a serious effect on the plane.

Edward Slattery of the Civil Aeronautics Board told The Associated Press that remains of a large bird—probably a goose or swan—were found on the left engine of the Lake Air Lines Viscount. He said the stabilizer had been punctured by the impact.

The main carcass of the bird was found near the stabilizer, Slattery said.

He said the tail, which houses the stabilizer, was found a quarter of a mile away from the main wreckage and this leads investigators to believe the tail section broke off before the plane crashed.

The plane crashed and burned Friday on a farm 10 miles southwest of Baltimore.

The bird carcass was turned over to Maryland's chief medical examiner, Dr. Russell S. Fisher, for refrigeration and identification.

Slattery, CAB public information officer, also told newsmen that the pilot of the four-engine turboprop plane was warned by the approach control center in Washington a few minutes before the crash that there were birds in the area.

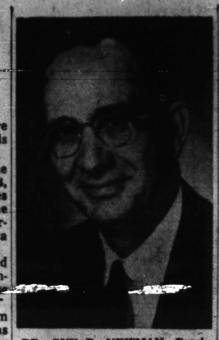

Slattery said the last plane crash because of birds was Oct. 4, 1960, when an Eastern Air Lines Electra crashed on takeoff at the Boston Airport. A flock of starlings was sucked into the Electra engines.

The CAB official emphasized the Boston accident was not comparable because it involved engines of the plane.

The Viscount, en route from Newark, N.J., to Atlanta, Ga., was approaching Washington, D.C., for its first scheduled stop when it crashed.

Investigators split into eight groups with specific areas of responsibility at the crash scene, six miles from Ellicott City.

George A. Van Epps, chief of safety investigation for the Civil Aeronautics Board, said: "It's too early to tell whether there's any indication of sabotage.

Stock Market's Rebound Endures

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market rebound continued for the fourth straight week as trading was vigorous, despite the Thanksgiving Day holiday.

The upsurge in stock prices left security analysts as confused as some of them were during the black days of last May when the market sank week after week to the dramatic crash of "Black Monday," then worked lower until nearly the end of June.

At that time it was "lack of confidence," the experts said; now it's renewed confidence.

The cease fire on the military front between the Chinese Communists and th troops of India, as well as Cuban Premier Fidel Castro's offer to give up Soviet jet bombers, and the end of the U.S. naval blockade of Cuba removed most of Wall Street's worries about international affairs.

At the same time, an impressive list of improved dividends and a brighter economic outlook for 1963 than expressed earlier this year gave investors some solid meat and potatoes to chew on.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week advanced 13.87 to 644.87.

This brought the total rise since the low of the Cuban crisis on Oct. 26 to 75.85. Since the year's low of 535.76 was reached June 26, the Dow industrials have won back 109.11 of the total 199.15 lost since the historic high of 734.91 last December.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks this week gained 5.1 at 238.2. Both The AP and the Dow industrial averages were at their highest levels since May 21, seven days before "Black Monday."

Shortened to four days by Thursday's market holiday, the trading week generated volume of 18,471,945 shares compared with 23,787,955 for the full five-day trading week preceding It.

As the week began, there was not a well known market analyst who did not anticipate a period of "consolidation" of the previous vigorous, three-week rally. This meant a spell of lower or irregular prices and a fall-off in volume, judging by past performances.

The Monday market did, in fact, see a moderate decline. But every day thereafter the market rose vigorously. The day before and the day after Thanksgiving were five-million-share days, Friday's turnover of 5.66 million being the greatest in a month.

An important technical factor in the continued rise was the news after the close on Tuesday that the monthly short interest on the New York Stock Exchange had risen to a record 6,785,894 shares. This is the total of borrowed shares "sold short" with the intention of making a profit by repaying the stock with shares bought in the future at lower prices.

Since the short interest represents a reservoir of future demand, the large total led to anxious "covering" by short sellers to close out their short-sale contracts. In the cases of some of the glamor stocks and the badly-battered steels, this was said to lead to a "squeeze" and some quick rises in price.

Little more than small price changes were recorded in the bond markets. Government offerings were up a shade and corporates held mixed.

Corporate volume on the exchange fell to $22,490,000 par value from $33,545,000 the previous week — largely because of the Thanksgiving day off. But daily volume was off to $5.6 million par value or more than $1 million under the $6.7 million average the previous week.

Next week's new bond financing calendar contains two giant issues: the $32 million Pacific Power and Light Co. 30-year mortgage bonds due Monday and the $25 million Kentucky General obligations up for competitive bids Wednesday.

SHSers only had to go to school three days this week, due to the Thanksgiving holidays.

Wednesday, at our last pep rally of the year, Dana Falls was named football sweetheart. Dana is a senior and a very deserving girl for the honor. She was presented a bouquet of red carnations by Pete Green, and that's not all—

OUR VIEW

Loopholes Are Advisable In 'No Invasion' Pledge

Although it has resulted in the most decisive action by this country since the Korean War, there remains a vagueness about our policy toward Cuba that has many people guessing.

President Kennedy's critics fear the worst, of course. Others are taking a second look in an effort to detect whether we have been as tough as the naval "quarantine" first appeared. Still others feel that the president took too grave a risk with the quarantine and that it is high time that tensions should be eased at any cost.

The statements concerning "no invasion" of Cuba in return for certain concessions for the most part are unpopular, except among the pacifists. Yet, this tenet of the policy, if one may call it that, is the prime puzzle so far, and statements about it have been exceptionally vague.

In recent days it appears that the president likely has left himself some loopholes. Statements have been more than fuzzy concerning the scope of concessions that would be required to guarantee "no invasion" of Cuba, and even more so on the president's definition of the word "invasion."

Perhaps vagueness is the best policy at this stage of proceedings. Anyway, there are indications that Fidel Castro and Nikita Khrushchev themselves are puzzled, and in the wake of the quarantine they cannot afford to take anything for granted .

We grant that a vague line separates defense from aggression, but we trust that the president will not burn any bridges on the invasion issue. The time may come when it is advisable to invade, even if it is called something else.

Backstage...

The new furniture arrived for the jury room last week. Now grand jurors and regular jurors will have nice soft new chairs. But there was a problem. The chairs were designed to hold their occupants in a correct sitting position. You know, straight back, head square on the shoulders, and all that. We thought that was good. It would be good for their posture, and verdicts would be faster if the jurors were kept alert and, let's face it, uncomfortable. But the commissioner of Precinct 4 figured out that if an inch was removed from the back legs of the chairs it would permit the user to slip into his usual slouch. So that's what they'll probably do. But that's all right—too much progress too fast isn't good, and also for the sake of the defendants (who with bad luck could be me or thee) might get a better shake from a juror whose spine didn't hurt.

'Slumber' Party Ends In Melee

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill. (AP)—The entire East St. Louis police night force was called out early Saturday to break up a party attended by about 150 teen-agers.

Police said the melee started out as a slumber party, but a group of boys broke in on the party causing a major disturbance.

A patrolman questioned two youths, apparently drunk, on the street. They told him they had just attended a party.

When the patrolman went to investigate the home on North Park Avenue, he found about 150 teenagers milling about. Beer bottles were scattered around the yard, he said.

The patrolman asked the group to quiet down, but they refused. He issued a call for help.

Eight patrol cars made four trips each to the scene to pick up the youths. They rounded up about 100, with the aid of a patrol wagon.

A desk sergeant said the group became unbearably noisy.

Police said they telephoned the teen-agers parents. Some responded quickly. A number of prominent families were called, police said.

"We had more than a hundred of them here at one time, but they kept slipping out. We finally got 90 of them to give us their names," the desk sergeant said. Police said many of the boys were college freshmen home on vacation.

No arrests were made.

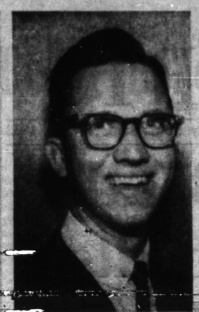

A&M Scientist To Work On Soviet Ship

COLLEGE STATION (AP) —A Texas A&M oceanographer-meteorologist will board a Russian oceanographic ship in February to conduct thermal radiation temperature research in the antarctic.

Dr. Guy Franceschini is the first American scientist selected to sail with Russian oceanographers aboard the U.S.S.R. research vessel Ob, the college said Saturday.

Franceschini will study the exchange of energy between the sea and air where the cold waters of the antarctic meet the warm waters from other oceans.

The researcher is going on the antarctic cruise as part of a U.S.—U.S.S.R. scientist exchange program.

Bonn-Israel Ties Opposed By Paper

BAGHDAD, Iraq (AP) — Under a front-page headline, "Love between Bonn and Tel Aviv—suspicious diplomatic marriage," the newspaper Ath-Thawra warned West Germany today against closer relations with Israel.

"West Germany will dig the grave of the Arab-German relationship if Bonn yields to U.S. pressure for establishing diplomatic ties with Israel," the paper said.

Kuwait Luxuriously Neutral

By WEBB McKINLEY

KUWAIT (AP) — Kuwait is an oasis of luxurious neutrality amid the current hysteria of the Arab world.

With its oil wells pumping riches into its coffers, this little country wants only to be left out of the epic word battles occupying is stronger neighbors.

Iraq's Abdel Karim Kassem still vows he will annex Kuwait to his own troubled country. Saudi Arabian, Jordanian and Sudanese troops still maintain an Arab League emergency force here to protect him.

President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic and his republican allies in revolutionary Yemen threaten to make war against the Saudis. Jordanian air force officers defect to the U.A.R.

In the midst of this frenzy, the Kuwaitis are quietly trying to reduce their protective forces to mere tokens. They have asked in unpublicized Arab League meetings that the 2,500 Saudis, 1,500 Jordanians and 104 Sudanese reduce their forces here to 100 each.

They no longer fear Kassem, and they want to disengage from any other involvements in the Arab cold war.

"Our policy toward current Arab events," said Shiek Sabah El Ahmed, minister of information, "is one of strict neutrality." Before the coup, other Arab leaders paid court with accounts paid. Now they would have much less by taking sides.

His 322,000 residents, including only about 120,000 Kuwaitis, will enjoy this year a national income of nearly a half billion dollars. Huge amounts go to the royal family, but enough is left over to make this the most complete welfare state in the capitalist world.

Even the casual visitor can get free hospitalization and, in the event of an emergency toothache, dental care.

A student gets free education, plus free food, clothing and medical treatment from kindergarten through high school. If he finishes only in the upper 80 per cent of his secondary school science course or in the upper 70 per cent of an arts course, he's eligible for advanced schooling with all costs paid.

If a Kuwaiti turns up jobless, the government may set him in a small shop or help him buy a taxi.

Kassem speeches about oppressed Kuwaitis get the horse laugh here.

The oil boom is so terrific that city planners have talked in terms of an Arab metropolis of three million dwellers, forming the cultural and industrial center of the Middle East in a place that 25 years ago lived on the sleepy Persian Gulf trade, pearls and the building of boats called booms.

Producing more than 630 million barrels of petroleum products a year and owning a fifth of the world's oil reserves, Kuwait has a leading role in Western Europe's economy. Britain relies on this state the size of New Jersey for about 60 per cent of its oil.

By the end of 1962, Americans will have written 15 billion checks, according to an estimate by the Burroughs Corporation. This is an increase of 500 per cent since 1942.

Rotary Rig Count Rises

Rotary rig activity in the Permian Basin oil fields logged a gain last week for the seventh time in a row, according to Reed Roller Bit Company's Friday survey.

The latest count showed 243 rigs working, a gain of 19 from the 224 reported in the basin a week ago. The current count also is a big jump over figures on Nov. 24 last year when the survey recorded 230 active rigs in the West-Texas Southeast New Mexico region.

Scurry County's rig count increased for 4 to 5, while Fisher County had 4 active units, compared to 3 the week before. Borden County had one active unit, compared to none the week before, while Kent County was unchanged at 3. Garza County's count dropped from 2 to 1 and Mitchell County from 3 to 1.

Lea County, New Mexico, maintained its weekly leadership with 33 active rigs. Andrews County had 20, Ector and Pecos Counties 17 each.

'Upstart Cubs' Notch District 3-AAA Title

That new kid who just moved in down the block took all our marbles and flew the coop with them.

Brownfield is the culprit, and the Cubs did nothing but politely move in to the District 3-AAA circle this year and absconded with the football title in its initial venture. It was the first grid championship for the Cubs since the year 1952.

They won the crown in "legitimate" manner by posting victories in all five of their games, and took the one they had to Friday night in Sweetwater by nudging the Ponies, 13-12. Sweetwater was also unbeaten in district play going into the Friday fray.

Elsewhere within the district circle, Lamesa had little trouble disposing of winless Colorado City, 25-0, to assure themselves of third place in the final standings. Earlier in the week—on Thanksgiving—Snyder slipped past Lake View by 14-12 for its hold on fourth place.

Brownfield will not be given the opportunity to rest on its laurels for more than a few days. The Cubs jump from the frying pan and into the Brownwood Lions' fire this week in bi-district play. The Lions are unbeaten, untied, and the top-rated team over the state in Class 3A.

The Cubs have won—and lost—some squeakers during the regular season, and will carry a respectable 8-2 record into the playoffs. Oddly enough, their two losses have been to a pair of 2-AAA clubs, both by narrow margins. Andrews, which claimed only three victims all year, bumped them off initially by 10-8, then Seminole followed up the week after by dropping them 16-12.

Seminole went on to cop the championship in their district.

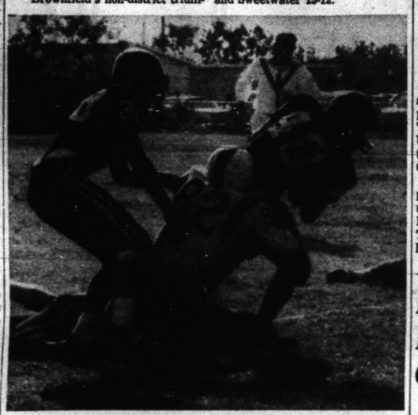

Brownfield's non-district triumphs were over Littlefield 27-0, Hobbs, New Mexico, 26-12, and Levelland 26-6.

In district strife the Cubs won out over Colorado City 27-0, Snyder 21-12, Lamesa 8-7, Lake View 41-6, and Sweetwater 13-12.

Illini Upsets Michigan St.

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—Illinois scored in the second quarter after recovering a fumble and hung on Saturday for a 7-6 upset of Michigan State. The victory was the Illini's second in 19 games.

Illinois, three touchdown underdogs, tallied on a 31-yard pass from Mike Taliaferro to Jim Warren after Gregg Schumacher had captured Dewey Lincoln's bobble. Jim Plankenhorn booted the all-important extra point.

Michigan State, closing out with a 3-3 Big Ten record, spotted the Illini a 7-0 lead at 1:12 of the second period and scored in the final 35 seconds of the same quarter.

The Spartans marched 54 yards in 14 plays with Dewey Lincoln and George Saimes the main gainers.

Sherm Lewis capped it by drilling the last 4 yards. Pete Smith attempted to pass for an extra two points, but it failed.

Duke Nudges N. Carolina

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Halfback Bill Reynolds kicked a 20-yard field goal with 49 seconds left, his third of the game, to give Duke's Blue Devils a 16-14 football victory over rival North Carolina Saturday before a crowd of 40,000.

The victory, Duke's eighth against two losses, gave the Blue Devils their third straight Atlantic Coast Conference championship and buoyed their hopes of a possible postseason bowl bid.

North Carolina had shot out front 14-13 in the fourth period on an 8-yard touchdown pass from quarterback Junior Edge to end Bob Lacey. Dave Braine kicked the second of two extra points. The Tar Heels ended with a 3-7 season record.

Trull Breaks SMU Spirits

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

DALLAS (AP)—Don Trull didn't break the Southwest Conference passing record Saturday but he broke Southern Methodist's heart with his running and throwing in leading Baylor to a 17-13 victory.

The tall Bear quarterback from Oklahoma City ran for one touchdown, passed for one and set up a field goal with his passing in a game that drew only 12,000, who huddled in a drizzle of rain.

Trull needed 12 pass completions to break the conference record of 112 but he got only 6 out of 11. However, Baylor didn't need the passing as it plowed through the thin Southern Methodist line.

Trull gained 37 yards in a 64-yard drive for a touchdown the first time Baylor had the ball. He made the score with a 2-yard blast.

Baylor got a field goal opening the second period with a Trull pass to James Rust for 14 yards setting it up. Carl Choate booted it from the SMU 31.

Southern Methodist scored late in the period after Martin Cude intercepted a Trull pass on the Baylor 35. Tom Sherwin scored the touchdown with a 17-yard run around end.

But Baylor got another touchdown as soon as it took the kickoff, rolling 67 yards with a Trull pass to Ronnie Goodwin for 17 yards the big punch. Trull ran 11 yards to set the ball on the Southern Methodist 12 and from there he threw to Rust in the end zone for the touchdown.

Baylor scored no more but Southern Methodist pushed 59 yards with 2 minutes left for a touchdown. Roger Braugh, subbing for the injured Don Campbell at quarterback, spread the drive with his passing and scored the touchdown with a two-yard run around right end.

Gibbs Shines As Frogs Flail Owls

HOUSTON (AP)—Sonny Gibbs scored two touchdowns and passed for two more Saturday as Texas Christian ran over Rice University, 30-7, to nail down third place in final Southwest Conference standings.

The Horned Frogs still must play Southern Methodist but Saturday's victory combined with Baylor's upset of SMU assured TCU a third place finish behind Texas and Arkansas.

Gibbs, a 230-pound senior who had rather bad days against Rice his sophomore and junior years, scored on runs of 1 and 2 yards and passed for four yards to Bill Bowers for another touchdown in the first 21 minutes of play.

This early rampage by the huge quarterback was good for a 20-0 lead and Rice, meanwhile running only eight plays, never recovered.

Gibbs completed his first eight passes and finished the day with 12 completions in 16 attempts for 117 yards.

Rice drove 65 yards for its lone touchdown in the second period with Randy Kerbow moving the final five yards on a keeper.

Kerbow also directed another threat in the scoreless third period as Rice gave indication of making a comeback but a 67-yard surge ended at the TCU 11 when Jimmy Terrell pulled down the third of five pass interceptions by the Froggies.

TCU iced the game away early in the final period as Gibbs directed an 80-yard march and passed the final 37 yards to Bowers for the final touchdown. Seconds later another interception, this time by Jim Fauver gave TCU the ball on the Rice 43 and Jimmy McAteer kicked a 33-yard field goal six players later.

The Frogs returned their five interceptions 77 yards and held Rice without a first down in both the first and fourth quarters.

TCU narrowly missed a fourth first half touchdown while limiting Rice to the eight plays. A 62-yard second period drive saw Tommy Crutcher carry over from the two but an offsides penalty nullified the play and Marvin Macicek's 22-yard field goal attempt was wide.

Rice	0	7	0	0	—7

TCU—Gibbs 1 run (kick failed)
TCU—Bowers 4 pass from Gibbs (pass failed)
TCU—Gibbs 2 run (Fauver pass from Gibbs)

LSU Accepts Bid From Cotton Bowl

DALLAS (AP)—Louisiana State accepted an invitation Saturday to meet Texas in the Cotton Bowl football game Jan. 1.

The Tigers were named visiting team for the New Year's Day classic in an announcement by Cotton Bowl officials at the Baylor-Southern Methodist game.

Louisiana State will be returning to the Cotton Bowl after 16 years. The only other appearance of the Tigers in the Dallas post season game was in 1947 when they played a scoreless tie with Arkansas in a snow storm.

Texas, champion of the Southwest Conference, has a 9-0-1 record. Louisiana State has 8-1-1.

Louisiana State closed the season Saturday with a 38-3 victory over Tulane. Texas had wound up Thursday with a 13-3 triumph over Texas A&M.

Texas is rated No. 4 in the nation, Louisiana State No. 8.

The invitation was extended to the LSU squad in New Orleans by Charles Wooldridge, president of the Cotton Bowl, and accepted by Athletic Director James Corbett of Louisiana State.

Texas became the host team for the second straight year and it also will be Texas' ninth appearance in the Cotton Bowl.

Both Texas and LSU posted impressive bowl victories last New Year's day, Texas beating Mississippi 12-7 in the Cotton Bowl and Louisiana State defeating Colorado 25-7 in the Orange Bowl.

Texas and LSU have had three common opponents. Texas beat A&M 13-3, tied Rice 14-14 and beat Texas Christian 14-0. LSU beat A&M 21-0, tied Rice 6-6 and won over Texas Christian 5-0.

Clemson Nudges South Carolina

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP)—Rodney Rogers kicked the second of his two 24-yard field goals with 1:42 left Saturday giving Clemson a hard-won 20-17 Atlantic Coast Conference victory over arch-rival South Carolina.

Clemson had forged a 17-17 tie late in the third period on a 14-yard run by halfback Elmo Lam, who gathered in a pitch-out from quarterback Jim Parker.

After the first six games, quarterback Eddie LeBaron of the Dallas Cowboys had tossed 11 touchdown passes and led in average yards gained with a 10.27 average for 60 completions.

December 4 Opener Awaits Tiger Cagers

The "buffer zone" between sporting seasons is indeed a nominal one, with basketball moving right in on the local scene after football wound itself up the past weekend.

The Snyder Tigers will be toiling under a brand new coach in Underwood—who is taking up the varsity reins in succession of J. P. Ward. Underwood was promoted to the job earlier in the year after being coach of Lamar 9th here.

Underwood is a familiar figure in local cage circles, being a native of Snyder and having played basketball while in school here. He went on to star at Texas Tech before returning to take up his teaching and coaching assignment at Lamar.

From an experience angle, the 1962-63 Tigers will be on the shy side of things. Six of last year's "first seven" are gone by way of graduation, with only regular William Robinson back for another fling.

Three other lettermen, each with varying amounts of varsity playing time logged, are back to help form the backbone of the club. They are seniors Stuart Long and Carl Bailey and junior Jimmy Wilson.

A number of boys are up from last year's B team. Among them are Darrell Aldridge, Billy Stewart, Jim Marcum and Harley Bynum. Rounding out the 12-player squad are Jackie Stewart, Jimmy Taylor, Leslie Brown and Drew Bullard.

The latter Stewart was unable to play basketball last season due to a football leg injury. Brown and Bullard comprise the only two sophomore members of the team.

Coach Underwood announces that the Tigers will tip off their season Tuesday, December 4, at Hamlin. They will tune up for that opener this Tuesday when they engage Big Spring in a 5 o'clock scrimmage in Tiger Gym.

The annual Canyon Reef Tournament is set for December 14-15, and will be made up of teams representing Stamford, Winters, Seminole, Big Spring, Plainview, Aspermont, Snyder, and Snyder B. Seminole is defending champion of the tournament.

Snyder will open its district slate of games January 18 against Lake View. The complete Tiger schedule follows:

Dec. 4—Hamlin there
Dec. 6-8—Plainview Tournament
Dec. 7-8—Snyder B Team Tournament

Razorbacks Root Out Raiders, 34-0

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP)—Brilliant Billy Moore, winding up the regular season with 84 points, scored three touchdowns and passed for two more Saturday as the Arkansas Razorbacks warmed up for the Sugar Bowl with an easy 34-0 victory over hapless Texas Tech.

Moore came within one-point of the 35-year old scoring record set by George Cole, present assistant athletic director. The All-America nominee tried to break the mark with a 2-point conversion in the fourth quarter, but was stopped short.

The Razorbacks scored the first time they held the ball with Moore flipping a 5-yard pass to wingback Stan Sparks. After that Moore scored twice on one-yard plunges and once on a 4-yard jaunt, while completing a pass good for 30 yards to tailback Jesse Branch.

The Razorbacks, relaxed and unworried, never had their goal threatened with the Raiders only twice reaching Arkansas territory. Tech reached the Hog 41 late in the second quarter and the 48 early in the fourth quarter.

Moore, who leads the conference in touchdowns with 14, led the Razorbacks to a new school rushing record. The Hogs, needing 179 yards, piled up 247. At the same time, Arkansas held the Raiders to only 68 yards rushing to set another school mark.

Branch, Arkansas' third leading rusher, padded his total with 85 yards on nine carries to pace the Razorbacks, while fullback Danny Brabham had 46 on 13 carries and Moore, 42 on nine.

Arkansas drove 76 yards on eight plays for its first touchdown, all coach Frank Broyles' team needed with Tom McKnelly kicking the first of his four successful attempts for extra points.

After that the Razorbacks went 40 yards to the Tech 15, where McKnelly's field goal attempt was wide, his third miss of the season. But the 7-0 first quarter lead stood up and the Razorbacks added three touchdowns in the second period and closed it out with another in the last quarter.

Dartmouth Undefeated

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—Dartmouth completed its first perfect season since 1925 and stretched its two-year winning streak to 11 games Saturday with a 38-27 victory over fired-up Princeton on a tremendous effort by Bill King and Tom Spangenberg.

King, the senior quarterback who led Dartmouth to the Ivy League title, scored three touchdowns on runs of 4, 3 and 7 yards and also ran for a two-point conversion. Spangenberg, a junior halfback, accounted for the other two TDs on plunges from the 2 and 1.

Bill Wellstead kicked a 25-yard field goal and added three placement conversions to round out the scoring for Dartmouth.

Princeton scored more points than any of Dartmouth's opponents and led at various stages 14-7 and 21-15.

Sweetwater Playoff Site

SWEETWATER (AP) — Sweetwater has been chosen as the bi-district playoff site next week between Brownwood and Brownfield in Class AAA high school competition.

Officials completed arrangements here Saturday.

The game is set for 7:30 p.m. Friday. Brownwood won Dist. 4-AAA. Brownfield is the Dist. 3-AAA champion.

Irish Down Iowa, 35-12

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Tiny Frank Minik scampered 19 yards for one touchdown and grabbed a 24-yard scoring pass from quarterback Daryle LaMonica Saturday as Notre Dame swept to its fourth successive football triumph 35-12 over Iowa's Hawkeyes.

LaMonica, who socred on a 27-yard run, and the 5-foot-7, 160-pound Minik broke up the game after Iowa trailed only 7-6 midway in the third quarter. They tallied two of Notre Dame's three touchdowns in a 22-point closing quarter.

Indiana Nips Purdue, 12-7

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—Marv Woodson, a brilliant Negro halfback from Mississippi, carried an intercepted pass 92 yards Saturday for a second-quarter touchdown that gave Indiana a 12-7 upset victory over Purdue.

The Fighting Hoosiers got their other six points on two field goals by Luke George, a 28-yarder in the first quarter and a 23-yard one in the second.

Purdue scored in the first eight minutes of the game, fullback Roy Walker going the last 10 yards in a 49-yard drive started by a pass interception. Skip Ohl, converted.

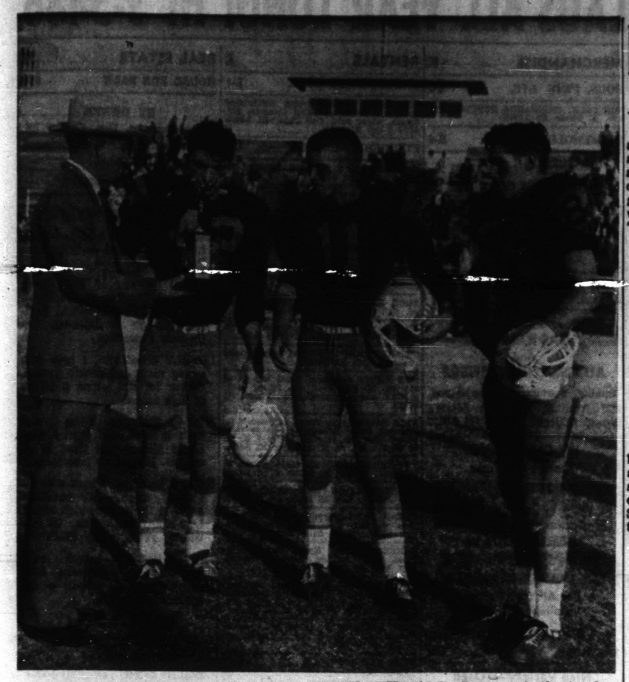

Purdue made a desperate effort on quarterback Ron DiGravio's passes in the last two minutes and had the ball on Indiana's 7 when time ran out.

Between You And Me

By Jerry Jackson

Only once in a blue moon does a district race run as true to form at did the just-completed 3-AAA scramble. It's enough to make the oddsmakers take a little heart and give out with a rare positive answer to the perennial question of, "Is it really worth it?"

Just how close they came to hitting it can be seen when the pre-season predictions of a pair of metropolitan newspapers are considered. The Abilene Reporter had it Sweetwater, Brownfield, Lamesa Snyder, Lake View, and Colorado City from top to bottom. That's exactly the way they finished with the exception of the top spot, thanks to Brownfield's paper-thin 13-12 win over Sweetwater Friday that decided the championship.

The San Angelo Standard-Times had an identical rundown(could somebody have been reading over somebody's shoulder?) with the exception of fourth place, where Snyder and Lake View were picked to tie for the spot.

Snyder's Tigers emerged with a plausible record, and were fighting a handicap in scheduling during the district race that was hard to combat. The way it was set up they had to tackle toughies Lamesa, Brownfield and Sweetwater initially, then end up with tailenders Colorado City and Lake View.

Had the Bengals caught the latter two teams to start off with and won both games, it could have had a definite psychological effect from the standpoint of both Snyder and the teams it still had to face. It's one of the big "ifs" in a campaign that seemed to have had more than its normal share of "ifs".

As it was, the Tigers could have won any or all of the three district games they lost with a break or two in the right spot. They held a 15-14 lead over Lamesa at halftime only to lose 23-36. They were driving for the go-ahead touchdown in the second half against Brownfield when an interception inside the Cub ten killed the bid, Brownfield winning 21-12. And against Sweetwater lack of the "big play" spelled their doom as a dying-gasp field goal with five seconds to go in the first half stood up for a 3-0 Mustang victory.

And had you noticed the plight of Lake View? Their 6-4 season was a winning one, but the Chiefs folded in the home stretch and fell all the way to a fifth-place finish in district.

Switching momentarily to the Southwest Conference grid race, it went against the grain this year by going with the grain. Texas won the championship — as expected — and Arkansas came in second, also as expected.

From there on down there were a few surprises, but none that tended to have a bearing on the eventual naming of a champion or runnerup.

POTSHOTTING: Strange things are hapening. Wichita Falls got tripped up in its annual walkthrough and failed to make it out of district and the Pflugerville Panthers bit the dust after 55 straight victories, a national record. Bob Crowell's candid comment on hearing of the Pflugerville loss: "I told ya all the time they didn't have the coaching!" (Uh huh, he smiled when he said it.) Mrs. Crowell's family stomping grounds are at Pflugerville, by the way...

For those of you who were wondering why Tiger tackle William Robinson wasn't suited up for the Lake View game Thursday — it was an overdose of influenza and not turkey that sidelined the star lineman. He'll help to form the backbone of the 1962-63 Tiger basketball team that is just beginning to take shape in earnest now.

Oh. Had you heard? I hear tell that Aspermont High had a school rule prohibiting marrieds from competing on its athletic teams. Two-time all-state cager John Godfrey took the well-known leap, though, and — you guessed it...the rule has been altered accordingly. Aspermont lost out to Seminole in the finals of last year's Canyon Reef Tournament here, and will be back next month for another try. Snyder B draws the Hornets in the first round...

That Class A bi-district game played here was a cut-and-dried affair as far as Rotan was concerned. Other cities, including Lubbock and Midland, presented lucrative bids in support of their sites, but Rotan officials stayed firm for Snyder, and they had the only vote in the matter since Seagraves won the flip and dictated Seminole as last years battleground. Rotan had Snyder as its choice last year, but its voice went unheard when the flip decided the issue.

Editor Wecil McNair, who covered the Rotan-Seagraves game Thursday while yours truly was Lake Viewing, commented that the contest was "strictly for the birds." After all, he contended, the Yellowhammers were playing the Eagles, and a "Herron" — Rotan quarterback Steve Herron —played an instrumental part in guiding his team to its 27-0 win. You "bird watchers" up in the stands may have noticed that Howard Van Loon was playing tackle for the Yellowhammers, too.

WILLS IS MOST VALUABLE PLAYER—Maury Wills of the Los Angeles Dodgers, the first major leaguer in modern baseball to steal 100 bases in a season, was named the National League's most valuable player of 1962. The 30-year-old shortstop stole 104 bases in playing in all 165 Dodger games, including the three-game playoff against champion San Francisco Giants. (AP Wirephoto)

Trojans Blast UCLA, 14-3

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's undefeated and untied Trojans, the nation's No. 1 football team, crushed the amazing Bruins of UCLA with two touchdowns in the final period Saturday for a 14-3 victory that nailed down a Rose Bowl berth.

Thrown back in a desperate touchdown bid at the 1-yard line by the gallant and underdog Bruins, the Trojans surged back with fullback Ben Wilson smashing the final 2 yards for the winning touchdown.

In the final few minutes of the game, quarterback Pete Beathard led Southern Cal 82 yards against the overmanned Bruins for the second touchdown.

It was the ninth straight victory in the finest season for the Trojans in 30 years and automatically cinched their Big Six championship.

The victory ushered them to the Rose Bowl for the 13th time. Their Big Ten Conference opponent in the New Year's Day classic will be Wisconsin.

Executive Director Tom Hamilton of the Athletic Association of Western Universities, watching the game from the press box, issued the formal statement about the Trojans' berth in the Rose Bowl.

A crowd of 86,740 watched this annual renewal of crosstown rivalry in Memorial Coliseum.

For most of the game, it appeared that UCLA and its sophomore place-kicker, Larry Zeno, might pull off the totally unexpected.

The slender, 180-pound quarterback put UCLA ahead with 57 seconds left in the first half with a 35-yard field goal.

The field goal came after a march of 71 yards in 12 plays, 10 of them for short chunks of ground against the powerful Trojan defense.

When the drive was finally stopped on the 13, and UCLA was thrown back to the 18, Zeno kicked the three-pointer.

Vols Nipped By Kentucky

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—Kentucky's Clarkie Mayfield, who hadn't kicked a field goal all season, kicked two Saturday—the last with 16 seconds to play—for a 12-10 football upset triumph over arch-rival Tennessee.

Coach Quits After Buffs Win Finale

BOULDER, Colo. (AP — Colorado capped the worst season in its 72-year football history Saturday by whipping three-touchdown favorite Air Force 34-10.

Then William (Bud) Davis announced his resignation after coaching Colorado to a 2-won 8-lost record since taking over last March.

Sophomore Bill Symons, sparkled in the victory by running for two touchdowns and contributing to another with a 79-yard kickoff return. He set up one of the scores by recovering an Air Force fumbie on the Falcon 14.

Colorado spurted to a 14-0 lead in the first quarter and 14-7 at half then held off the Falcons until, with 2:24 left in the half, junior quarterback Allan McArtor completed three passes covering 56 yards for the Air Force's first touchdown.

The Falcons cut the margin to 14-10 midway of the third quarter but Colorado scored twice in the fourth quarter.

Plan Shaped To Overhaul Minor Loops

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A plan designed to completely overhaul the minors will be offered for formal passage at the annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues opening here on Monday.

This broad and far-reaching program, which baseball hopes will pump some life back into the rapidly deteriorating minor league structure, calls for the majors to guarantee the backing for 100 minor league clubs. Sponsored by the big league club owners and supported by Commissioner Ford Frick, the program would go into effect no later than 1964.

The plan provides for general reclassification and realignment, reducing the present six classifications to just three—AAA, AA and A—with each big league club, excepting the four newest ones, underwriting five minor league teams.

The big leaguers would provide the bulk of the players and managers, pay all expenses and salaries over a stipulated amount, and reimburse the minors for all losses. In return, the majors would have the right to purchase players from their affiliated clubs for a fixed price, $20,000 for Triple A, $10,000 for Double A and $5,000 for A players.

Passage of the proposal followed by its ratification at the major league meetings in New York Nov. 30-Dec. 1 would eliminate the player development fund through which the majors already have doled out approximately $3,250,000 to the minors since its origination in 1959.

A list of amendments designed to alter the bonus rule presently in effect monopolizes the agenda. The proposals range from increasing the bonus designation figure from $8,000 to $12,000 to doing away with the rule altogether.

The present rule, which went into effect last December, designates every free agent signed since last December as a "first-year player." It doesn't matter whether he gets a dollar or $100,000.

The annual major league draft takes place Monday, followed by the minors' selection of players in lower classifications. The major draft is expected to top last year's record of 35 selections at a total cost of $680,000. The minors sent up 26 additional players.

Lions Earn Gator Bid

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Record-breaking quarterback Pete Liske passed for two touchdowns following Penn State pass interceptions Saturday as the Nittany Lions rolled to a 16-0 football victory over traditional rival Pitt.

The victory earned Penn State a bid to the Gator Bowl. A university spokesman said the team would not discuss it until Monday.

Halfback Al Gursky made the first key interception in the end zone and caught the second scoring aerial from Liske in the Lions' ninth victory in 10 games.

Liske, a junior in his first season as starting quarterback, broke Penn State season records for total offense and passing yardage.

Sooners Rip Huskers For Orange Bid

By NORMAN ROWLAND

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—Quarterback Monte Deere hurled three touchdown passes Saturday and led the Oklahoma Sooners into the Orange Bowl with a 34-6 triumph over Nebraska.

The Sooners also clinched the Big Eight Conference football championship as Missouri and Kansas played to a 3-3 tie. The Sooner's, 10th-ranked nationally, stand 6-0 in conference play. Missouri has a 5-1-1 record.

Oklahoma has one conference game remaining, against Oklahoma State next Saturday.

Two members of the Orange Bowl committee, Ben Benjamin and Jim Llewellyn, designated the Sooners as the choice for the Orange Bowl classic immediately after the Nebraska game. Alabama probably will be their opponent.

Oklahoma stunned the Cornhuskers, who were hoping to dump the Sooners and move into a tie for the conference lead, with a touchdown less than three minutes after the game got underway.

End John Flynn crashed through and blocked Nebraska's first punt attempt on the fifth play of the game and guard Newt Burton recovered on the Nebraska 1-yeard line. Jim Grisham scored for Oklahoma on the Sooners first play from scrimmage.

Nebraska broke Oklahoma's string of four consecutive shutouts with a touchdown in the third quarter after the Sooners had upped the score to 28-0. But Oklahoma's line maintained its refusal to yield a touchdown on the ground to conference foes.

Buckeyes Sail By Michigan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Fullback Dave Francis wound up his collegiate football career in star-spangled fashion Saturday as Ohio State overwhelmed Michigan 28-0 in a televised Big Ten Conference contest.

The Columbus-born senior who carried the ball only five times last year as All-America Bob Ferguson's understudy, outgained the entire Wolverine running and passing corps as he ate up 186 yards in 31 carries, scored two touchdowns and set up another.

The one he set up was on a 52-yard run on which he fell of utter exhaustion on the 6-yard line without a hand being put on him.

Michigan had only 74 yards rushing and 68 passing for a 142-yard total.

Francis started his heroics early as he carried eight straight times to take the ball from his own 42 into the end zone in the first period. In the third session, the Bucks moved 64 yards in 13 plays, Francis carrying 12 times, and he went 3 for his second score.

Bob Butts, another senior fullback, counted the third Buck score on a yard plunge, with Francis carrying four of nine times in the 52-yard drive. The last splurge went 70 yards in five plays with Dave Katterhenrich, third of the senior fullbacks, going 6 yards on the first play after Francis' long run.

Wisconsin Takes Big Ten Bunting

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer.

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Rose Bowl-bound Wisconsin captured the Big Ten Conference football championship by edging Minnesota 14-9 Saturday on an 80-yard touchdown march helped by two 15-yard penalties in the closing minutes.

The Badgers, ranked No. 3 in the nation, completed their finest season since 1912 by earning their eighth victory in nine games in dramatic fashion before a packed crowd of 65,514 at Camp Randall Stadium.

Wisconsin needs only formal Big Ten approval to represent the conference against Southern California, the nation's top-ranked power, in the Rose Bowl New Year's Day.

The Badgers capitalized on a 15-yard penalty for a personal foul on a play in which a Minnesota pass interception was nullified. The Gophers then were penalized another 15 yards for unsportsmanlike conduct because of words from the bench.

The two infractions against the Gophers gave Wisconsin a first down on the Minnesota 13. Lou Holland raced to the 9 and quarterback Ron VanderKelen skirted left end on an option play for a first down on the 2. Sophomore Ralph Kurek then hit right guard for a touchdown with only 1:37 left to play.

Penalties plagued the Badgers after the ensuing kickoff and the Gophers moved from their 45 to a first down on the Wisconsin 14 with 1:06 remaining. However, Jim Nettles ended the threat by picking off a Duane Blaska pass in the end zone.

The victory gave Wisconsin the Big Ten title with a 6-1 record against conference opponents. The heart-breaking setback left Minnesota with an over-all mark of 6-2-1, including 5-2 in league play.

The Gophers' stout defense held the nation's highest scoring machine in check most of the way but penalties ruined the tremendous effort.

Texans Can Wrap Up Division Tie

By The Associated Press

The surging Dallas Texans can wrap up at least a tie for their first Western Division title in the American Football League Sunday if they win, as expected, over the hapless Oakland Raiders.

Whether the title game next month will be an All-Texas affair depends on Houston's success in holding onto first place in the Eastern Division. The Oilers will have to get by their two-time title opponents, the San Diego Chargers, to strengthen their chances for a third straight crown.

Boston, Houston's closest pursuer, played Friday night, while Denver all but eliminated itself in the Western Division race when it lost to the New York Titans on Thanksgiving Day. Dallas now is 8-2 while Denver stands at 7-5.

Houston (7-3) has won three in a row as it makes another late-season dash for the Eastern Title. The Oilers have cast their offensive lot with the passing of quarterback George Blanda, who has gained 2,048 yards and thrown for 19 touchdowns, and the rushing of Charlie Tolar.

Tolar is the AFL's No. 2 ground-gainer and both have combined to pace the league's leading offense.

The Chargers, who have lost title games twice to Houston, currently are on a five-game losing streak, and are only 5-7 overall. Injury-riddled most of the year, San Diego recently signed fullback Gerry McDougall, who twice led the Canadian League in rushing. The Chargers also hope to have halfback Keith Lincoln back from the injury list.

Len Dawson's passing and the rushing of Abner Haynes and Curtis McClinton are favored to send Oakland (0-10) to its 16th straight loss since mid-season, 1961.

Cotton Davidson, Dallas' quarterback until he was traded early in the season, leads the Raiders' attack, which will be without fullback Alan Miller because of an injury.

'My Fair Lady' Not Due Till '64

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Progress report on "My Fair Lady"—

There's no need to start saving up to see the film version of the champion musical. It won't be available before mid-1964.

Director George Cukor is just back from scouting locations in England. Obviously this will be no hasty production. Not when you consider Warner Brothers shelled out $5.5 million for the film rights.

Cukor begins active preparations in January. Six weeks of rehearsals start in June. Filming probably won't conclude until year's end.

"We don't have any schedule as yet," said the director. "It will be long."

Cukor is ideally cast for the film. He is known for his impeccable taste and for his talent for drawing fine performances from women. Among his famous subjects: Garbo ("Camille"), Katharine Hepburn ("Philadelphia Story"), Ingrid Bergman ("Gaslight"), Judy Holliday ("Born Yesterday").

He will be directing another Hepburn in "My Fair Lady"—Audrey. She was the first one cast in the film. Some critics raised the question whether the Dutch-Irish actress could handle the Cockney accent.

"Of course she can," Cukor said. "She will have to take lessons. But every girl who has played Liza has taken lessons."

Audrey Hepburn did not test for "My Fair Lady." Nor did the male star, Rex Harrison. Warners figured he could handle the role.

But Harrison was no shoo-in for the Professor Higgins he created and played hundreds of times. Many were called before he was chosen. Among those mentioned: Cary Grant, Richard Burton, Peter O'Toole.

Movie Actresses Bigger Than Ever

By JAMES BACON
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Movie actresses are bigger than ever.

Some studios call it the Jackie Kennedy influence, but whatever the reason John Wayne no longer has to stoop to kiss his leading lady.

In "Who's Got the Action?" Nita Talbot, 5 feet 9, towers over her costar Lana Turner. And Julie Newmar can see practically eye to eye with costar Kirk Douglas in "Three on a Match." Julie, with heels, is well over 6 feet.

Paula Prentiss, brightest of MGM's younger crop, is 5 feet 9.

Wayne's leading lady in "Donavan's Reef" is Elizabeth Allen, 5 feet 8. Frank Sinatra's costar in "Come Blow Your Horn" is Phyllis McGuire of the singing sisters. At 5 feet 8, she also sees eye-to-eye with the thin singer.

Elsa Martinelli is 5 feet 7, so are Sophia Loren and Shirley MacLaine.

Thus the big girls have broken the height barrier.

• • •

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—From now on, she will be known as "Constance (Don't Call Me Connie) Towers.

The movie beauty decided on this after she started getting fan letters asking her when she was going to marry Glenn Ford.

"Fortunately, my husband was understanding enough to know that the fans had me confused with Connie Stevens who was dating Glenn at the time.

"No name seems to be more widely adopted and used than Connie in show business—Francis, Stevens, Hines, Haines. Ford are just a few."

The actress-singer hated to make a drastic name change.

"After all," she explained, "it is the name I was born with. So I'll just be Constance instead of Connie."

Decline Of Femininity Is Lamented

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — What on earth has happened to American women?

This anguished cry is raised by Dewey Martin, back in this country after two years abroad. He is pained by changes he has noticed in the ladies of the land.

"It's not the styles nor the hairdos; it's the attitude," the actor declared. "After you've been away for a while, you notice it immediately. It's a decline of femininity.

"I'm not saying it's true of all American women. There are still many around, I'm happy to say, who remain feminine and appealing. But the others—.

"I went to a favorite Chinese restaurant of mine when I got back and I was sitting at the bar alone, talking to the bartender. I heard some voices at the end of the bar. They sounded like a bunch of men comparing golf scores. But I looked down and saw that they were four well-dressed women, sitting at the bar and getting stoned.

"Another time I went down to Anaheim to judge a contest. I happened to drop in at a bowling alley at nine in the morning and found it swarming with women. The manager told me it happened every day; the women got their husbands off to work and their children off to school, then came to the alley to bowl and drink beer.

"I notice it everywhere I look: American women are trying to move into the men's world. Now I see nothing wrong with women who choose careers and stick with them. But I think it's wrong for women who become wives and mothers and still insist on competing with men.

"Women in other countries don't do that."

Food Drops Protested

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—A Pathat Lao commander warned the United States today to stop parachuting of food supplies to Pathet Lao and neutralist forces.

He indicated his troops would shoot down planes flying these missions.

Gen. Singapo, chief of the staff joint Pathet Lao-neutralist high command headquarters in Khang Khay in central Laos, said in a statement broadcast by the leftist Pathet Lao radio that neither the coalition government nor the Pathet Lao high command had approved the food drops.

American sources said the coalition premier, neutralist Prince Souvanna Phouma, had asked American officials to airdrop food to neutralist troops.

The operations began more than a month ago.

Steelways Magazine estimates that the new interstate highway system will use 13.2 million tons of structural steel, much of it in bridge construction, and 13.6 million tons of reinforcing steel, used to improve the strength of concrete.

Baby Girl Hopes Doctor Can Save Eye

LONDON (AP) — A Scots baby girl in a Santa Claus suit caught a plane for New York today in hopes that an American doctor can save the sight of her one remaining eye.

The father of 19-month-old Margaret McKeown gave her a farewell kiss in the crowded London Airport lounge and said:

"We are pinning all our hopes on the treatment."

Margaret's mother flew with her in the plane.

The trip was financed by the wife of a Reno financier, Mrs. Joseph Gales Ramsey III. Mrs. Ramsey was a patient in Mayo Clinic when she first read newspaper accounts of Margaret's plight.

This was that a tumor which already has cost Margaret one eye was spreading to threaten the other. British doctors could hold out no hope of saving the eye.

Mrs. Ramsey found out that Dr. A. B. Reece of the Columbia Presbyterian Medical Center in New York City might be able to treat the tumor with radiation. She sent off air tickets to Margaret's family.

Trapped In Cold Truck

STEUBENVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Francis Elseser, 24, an ice cream truck driver, was trapped in 20-below temperature in the refrigerator of the truck for 90 minutes Friday.

He was listed in satisfactory condition in St. John Hospital today with severe cold prostration.

The accident occurred outside a grocery owned by Rosemarie Dittmer in nearby Wintersville. Elseser, who is a substitute driver for the Wheeling Ice Cream Co., went outside to get a delivery for the grocery. Mrs. Dittmer became concerned when he was gone for a long period.

Investigating, she heard groans coming from the truck. She opened the rear door and found Elseser coated with ice and writhing. He was delirious. The heat of his body had melted the ice in the refrigerator, but the ice had coated his clothing.

The lock on the door snapped shut in such a way that it could only be opened from the outside.

CARY GRANT AND DORIS DAY are shown in a scene from the color production of "That Touch Of Mink" which will be seen on the wide screen of the Canyon Drive In starting Dec. 2.

Tentative program features of the banquet, including entertainment, awards ceremony and speaker were developed at a meeting of the Committee last week, Kirk said.

AMUSEMENT

Best 1962 Shows Are Singled Out

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—This is the time when, along with Christmas gifts, people who write about television are asked to select what they believe was the year's best in various television categories.

Here is my personal selection, based on shows between last January 1 and Thanksgiving:

Best network television program — An impossible category, but if that means the consistently best series, my vote must go to CBS's "The Defenders," although I think their scripts are not as good this season as they were last.

But if it means the best one-shot show, I would be torn among CBS' "Tour of the White House" and "The Judy Garland Show," NBC's "Route One: American Profile" and "The River Nile" and ABC's "Yves Montand on Broadway." Strangely enough, there's not a dramatic show in my list.

For best television performer (these categories are not mine, but on the ballot of the magazine "Fame") I would choose Dick Powell if it means a regularly employed television actor. But Peter Falk, who never has turned in other than an excellent performance, would be my choice if it also includes guest stars.

"Most promising" new stars of tomorrow is a hard category, but my choices would be the fine actor Larry Blyden (who is reported to be scheduled to star in a series next season called "Harry's Girls") and Zina Bethune, who as a pretty, young co-star in CBS' "The Nurses" is the only new feminine face I can think of—but that's this season's TV schedule for you.

I choose Dick Van Dyke and Lucille Ball, both of CBS, as television's best comedian and comedienne. My choice of the best comedy team is Lucy and Vivian Vance. And I think, all things considered, "The Dick Van Dyke Show" is the best comedy series.

"The Defenders" must be my choice of the best hour-long dramatic program in spite of previously stated reservations. ABC's "Here's Edie," even if brief, is my choice of the best variety program, although it is based on only two shows.

Jack Webb's "True" series wins, largely by default, in the category of best half-hour dramatic program (where did they all go?) And another CBS entry, "Beverly Hillbillies" whether you think its funny or not, has to be for "the most unique, new program." It is new and, certainly, is unique.

ABC's "Wagon Train" continues to be, in my notebook, the best of the Western series. And it's "Naked City" seems to stand up well as a mystery-type program.

CBS's "Password" and "To Tell the Truth" are my favorites in the audience participation and panel show categories.

John Daly of "What's My Line?" is my pick as best master of ceremonies. Bob Wright, who does cigarette commercials in a non-irritating, soft-sell manner, is my favorite announcer. David Brinkley of NBC is, far and away, my choice of "best news commentator," and Joe Garagiola, as "best sportscaster."

"The Merv Griffin Show" on NBC is, without any doubt, "best daytime program." Shari Lewis has, I think, the best children's program.

Markers Due Civil War Vets' Graves

Every unmarked grave of a Civil War Veteran in Scurry County will be officially marked and recorded, Hugh Taylor, president of the Scurry County Historical Survey Committee has announced.

The Committee will determine the location of the graves, mark them with an official government marker and report the erection of all such markers to the Texas State Historical Survey Committee to be included in a master file.

Other members of the Scurry County Historical Survey Committee are: Lee Stinson, Mrs. O. P. Thrane, Joe Stinson, Pat Moore, John Stavely, H. J. Brice, and Joseph Nachlinger.

"The marking of every confederate grave in Texas is a main object of the Confederate Memorial and Civil War Centennial Programs", stated Dr. Rupert N. Richardson, president of the Texas State Historical Survey Committee, sponsor of the project.

"This recognition by the state is long past due, and we feel that the information will be invaluable to the historian, scholar, and genealogist and will be of real interest to the tourist," Dr. Richardson said. "We urge anyone knowing of the graves of Civil War Veterans in this area to notify this Committee."

The Texas State Historical Survey Committee is sponsoring as part of the Civil War Centennial observance the erection of Travel Information Markers on highways near important sites of action and events. Texas Historical Building Medallions have also been placed on buildings and homes associated with the Confederate period in Texas History.

Textbook Complaint Is Studied

DETROIT, Mich. (AP)—Detroit public school officials studied today a complaint from a Negro group that a history book used in the seventh and eighth grades is "an insult to every Negro in Detroit."

Samuel Brownell, superintendent of the Detroit schools and former U.S. commissioner of education in the Eisenhower administration, named a committee of principals and teachers to study the disputed passages.

Charles Wells, chairman of the education committee of the Detroit branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, said of the book, "Our United States" by Eibling, King and Harlow:

"It promotes an image of the Negro that is not only false, but helps lay the foundation for future community problems."

He quoted an NAACP study of the book as saying:

"The image of the Negro projected by the authors is that of a dependent, servile creature who with the exception of his ability to sing and make music, has contributed only minimally to the development of his country and is incapable of functioning as a responsible person."

Wells said the NAACP considered the book inadequate in its treatment of the role of Negroes in the early American colonies, their role in the abolition movement in the Civil War, attempts by former Confederate states to limit Negroes' freedom, and the Negro's traditional struggle for civil rights.

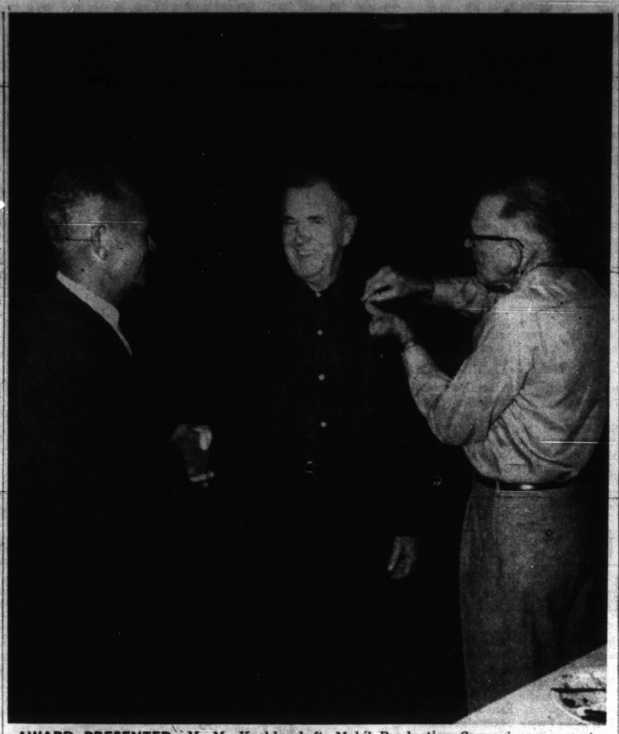

Oklahomans Enter Pleas

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—Pleas of nolo contendere—no defense—were entered Friday by two officials of the defunct First National Bank of Maud to federal charges of bank irregularities.

U.S. Dist. Judge Ros Rizley then convicted Barney Green, 50, and his brother James Green, 47. Sentencing was delayed pending a report by probation officers.

Barney Green, who was vice president of the bank, was indicted on 100 counts. James Green, who was cashier, was indicted on 101 counts. The indictments in October were returned in seven separate cases involving honoring of about $72,000 worth of checks in accounts that had insufficient funds.

The bank was padlocked last Dec. 19 when bank examiners discovered irregularities and declared the bank insolvent. The loss later was estimated at $276,300.

Persecution Is Charged By Chinese

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China said today it has lodged a strong protest with India against with it called cruel persecution of Chinese nationals in India since the outbreak of the Chinese-Indian border conflict.

The New China news agency said in a broadcast heard here a protest note was handed to the Indian charge d'affaires in Peking by a Foreign Ministry official.

Murray To Speak At PBPA Session

MIDLAND — The Permian Basin Petroleum Association will have William J. Murray, Jr., chairman of the Railroad Commission of Texas as speaker for its first annual meeting, it was announced Saturday by Joseph I. O'Neill ,Jr., president.

The event will be held on Dec. 6, at the Scarbauer Hotel in Midland at 6 p. m. and will be a stag affair.

O'Neill further stated that he felt the association was fortunate in getting the chairman of the Railroad Commission of Texas. "Murray's vast knowledge of the petroleum industry not only in Texas, but also on national and international levels qualifies him as one of the most informative speakers in the industry. We are looking forward to hearing his address at the first annual meeting of PBPA" said O'Neill.

The association plans to increase the size of its board of directors and to create an advisory board of non-industry members to assist in its activities. "The strength and effectiveness of an organization such as PBPA stems from the active participation of its members. We have been fortunate in that respect", stated O'Neill.

The association was created in the fall of 1961 as a result of the Permian Basin Area Gas Price Hearings which were held in Midland and in Washington. The need for such an organization to speak as a voice for the Permian Basin was clearly demonstrated to the operators in the area. It has continued to grow and now has approximately 2500 members. The executive committee consists of O'Neill, president; W. T. (Bill) Edwards, Odessa; J. Mark McLaughlin, Snyder; Eugene E. Nearburg, Roswell, N.M.; J. Wilmont Hunt, Midland; Hamilton E. McRae, Midland; Marshall Rowley, Artesia, N. M.; John Ben Shepperd, Odessa; Russell J. Ramsland, Midland; T. J. Silvey, Artesia, N. M.; and Wilbur Rocchio of midland, executive vice president.

PBPA has successfully completed its first year of operations, said O'Neill, and we have aggressively participated in numerous activities to help solve the problems facing the petroleum industry in our area. He further stated that all of the difficulties facing the industry within the Basin could not be resolved over night but that the organization would continue to stay on top of the problems in order to encourage the continuing growth of oil and gas exploration and production in all its many segments throughout the West Texas - Southeast New Mexico region.

GOODFELLOWS LAUNCH 1962 DRIVE

REV. JACK DEAN
Chairman

Would you like to make a tangible contribution this Christmas to someone who might have a drab Yuletide otherwise?

The Snyder Goodfellows is an organization which needs — in fact, cannot do without — just such John Q. Citizens who wish to give of their time and means in helping to further such a cause.

Guiding the functions of the organization this year is Rev. Jack Dean. He is asking the help of all area citizens in the way of donations of food, clothing, toys and money so that the merriest of Christmases may be enjoyed by others unable to have such a Christmas without some help from their fellow man.

Donations of money are now being accepted at Box 661, Snyder, and beginning Monday, December 3, there will be ladies staffing both of the local banks in order to receive donations. For the first two weeks beginning November 26, both the headquarters building (formerly Phillips Hardware) and the applications office (formerly Chamber of Commerce office at 1802 Twenty - sixth Street) will be open from 9-12 each weekday morning. All townspeople are encouraged to donate food, clothing and toys at the headquarters building during those hours.

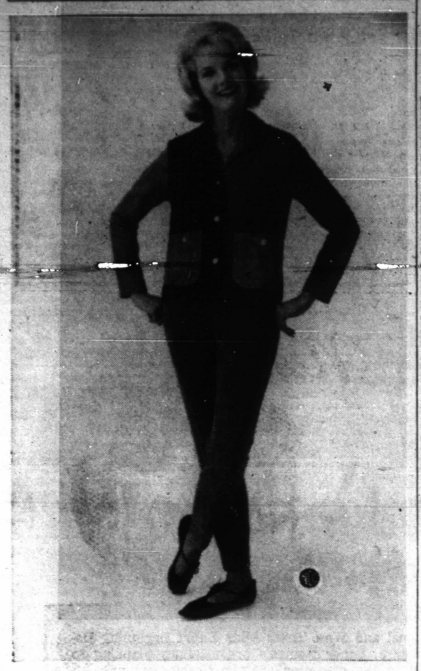

Last Christmas some 225 Scurry County families received Goodfellows assistance, and indications are that a comparable number of needy families will be serviced again to climax the current drive just prior to Christmas.

HEADQUARTERS—Three Goodfellows executive officers — treasurer Cecil Boren, secretary Billie Payne and vice - chairman W. R. Wright — are pictured as they prepare to unlock and enter the building which will serve as headquarters and focal point for the accumulation of goods for distribution to needy people. Hugh Taylor is donating use of the building for that purpose, it being the former Phillips Hardware Store located a half-block south of the square on Avenue S.

'SCOUTING' FOR BOXES—In order to deliver the pre-Christmas goods to families in need of them, a large number of spacious cardboard boxes are needed. Snyder's Boy Scouts will be performing that particular function as part of the Goodfellows drive. Representative of the Scouts who will assist is this foursome from Troop 35 — Robert McAlister, Bobby White, Luther Shy and Eddie Skains — along with Scoutmaster A. J. White.

COLORFUL—Cotton sweatshirt fabric is used for this wonderfully wearable casual outfit. Seven different colors are incorporated in the jacket to provide a striking combination for the solid gray pants.

Frolicing In Mexico

GENIUS by Patrick Dennis.

Those mad, mad screwballs who fill the world of Dennis are boozing, larking and quipping now in Mexico.

The central character is Leander Starr, who overflows with the grandeur and guff that often accompany achievement. The genial scoundrel (his creator describes him with 20 soubriquets on the book's final page) is attempting to redeem his reputation as a great movie producer and rout his creditors with a masterpiece quickie.

Surrounding him are ex-wives, a blowsy vamp, a conglomeration of screeching weirdos (human and animal) and the Dennis family. Edward Everett Tanner III — to use the author's real name — has been a firm believer in involvement of his alter ego in fiction, ever since Auntie Mame's debut.

The mixture of froth doesn't constantly bubble, but can while an idle hour amiably. Innocent, inane fun, you might call it all.

Dogging The Footsteps Of Lewis And Clark

By E. H. Sprunger
AP Staff Writer

Lewis and Clark explored their way up the Missouri and down the Columbia to the Pacific in 1804-06 and were followed by fur trappers, traders, missionaries, ranchers, farmers and now by scholars.

As historians dog their trail, footstep by footstep, "six books have been published within the past few months, the most notable being a reissue in three volumes of an original account, and a huge compilation of the paperwork surrounding their venture.

Meriwether Lewis, then governor of the Louisiana Territory, committed suicide or was murdered in 1809, on a wilderness trail while he was en route to argue with bureaucratic Washington about expenditures he had approved, which the government had challenged.

With him were the journals he and William Clark had kept daily on their wondrous trip — from which Lewis intended to write a book.

After Lewis' death Clark turned the journals and other papers over to Nicholas Biddle, a Philadelphia lawyer who wrote most of the account and then turned the final part of the job over to Paul Allen.

Although historians refer to this 1814 work as the Biddle account, it was Allen's name that appeared on the first book, "History of the Expedition under the command of Captains Lewis and Clark to the sources of the Missouri, thence across the Rocky Mountains and down the River Columbia to the Pacific Ocean, performed during the years 1804-5-6."

And it is this work that J. P. Lippincott Co., Philadelphia and New York, has reprinted in three boxed volumes for $12.50, as part of the Western Americana series. This time Lewis is listed as the author.

These three volumes will be extremely valuable to historians and other fanciers of source materials, but for the ordinary reader they suffer from a lack of footnotes.

Many of the names Lewis and Clark stuck on rivers and other objects have been changed. Some of their observations were incorrect — they were wrong on the names of the mountains they saw on the Pacific Coast. Correcting footnotes are needed badly.

For those not on the inside, this set would have been much more valuable if it had been footnoted briskly by someone like the late Bernard DeVoto, whose 1953 "Journals of Lewis and Clark," incidentally, still is in print (Houghton Mifflin, Boston, $6.50).

The compilation of paperwork was edited by Donald Jackson for the University of Illinois Press, Urbana, costs $10 and is called "Letters of the Lewis & Clark Expedition with related documents, 1783 — 1854." This collection is extremely well edited and the footnotes sprinkled through its 728 pages often are more interesting than the text.

As Jackson notes, Lewis and Clark were the "writingest explorers of their time." Both were Army men, used to full reports, and both believed in keeping plenty on paper. As this book shows, their supplies included, besides the Indian - trading items, six brass inkstands, six papers of ink powder, a pound of sealing wax and 100 quills.

This is almost a perfect book for the Lewis and Clark buff—the man who already knows a good deal about the trip.

For the reader who is not well backgrounded — and there is evidence that some schools don't teach the subject thoroughly — an excellent book is "Lewis and Clark, Partners in Discovery," by John Bakeless, published in 1947 by William Morrow & Co., New York, and now reissued by Apollo Editions in paperback form for $1.95.

Bakeless is a very competent scholar who realizes that many of his readers are coming to the subject for the first time, yet does not write down to them.

Finally, Vardils Fisher has written "Suicide or Murder?" which is published by Alan Swallow, Denver, for $4.95. Fisher goes over the available papers for 288 pages and fails to determine whether Lewis was a suicide or was murdered. Which shows mainly that it is unfortunate that Lewis' death was in an unpoliced wilderness. It does, however, make one wonder that there was no more curoisity in 1809 about the death of a national hero and a governor.

All of these books, except DeVoto's suffer from inadequate maps, which is odd considering the fact that one of the explorers' main objects was to make a map. What we need is a map with the names they used and the names now is use.

Tips For The Lady Who Drives

The average gal driving a car today looks forward to the icy-snowy months ahead with about the same enthusiasm that a lamb contemplates a daily workout with a lion.

It doesn't matter much whether she's a business woman who drives daily to work or is a homebody with the shopping chores and her place in the school car pool. If she lives in or near the so-called "snow belt" areas, she stands in awe and dread of the highway glazed with ice or the road freshly white with fallen snow.

There isn't much she can do about the weather. But there are a few tips on car condition and winter driving that will take the terror out of traffic on snow and ice.

Before winter sets in, play it safe and winterize your car. That means you should take your car to a reputable serviceman and have him check brakes, battery, lights, radiator, windshield wipers and tires. No longer are winter tires a luxury. They are a necessity because snow and ice can be firmly gripped only by the deep cleated tread of a snow tire. They reduce the danger of skidding and, possibly, something worse.

As for handling the car: driving on icy or snow - covered roads requires far more sensitive handing than the average gal — or man for that matter — exercises on a dry surface. Follow these six rules and you'll reduce danger to a minimum:

1. Use a lighter touch on the brake, accelerator and stearing wheel.
2. Accelerate slowly and gradually to avoid spinning the wheels.
3. Try to avoid situations in which quick stops are necessary.
4. Pump brakes gently to maintain steering control and to prevent the car from going into a skid when you stop.
5. Negotiate corners gingerly to avoid a skid - starting jerk of the steering wheel.
6. Turn the steering wheel gently in the direction the vehicle is skidding, if you do start to skid. Then, after directional control is established, reduce your speed by braking gently, and return to your planned route.

If you get into deep snow, don't try to blast your way out by shoving down on the accelerator. To get the wheels to grip the ground again, let some air out of the rear tires. If this does not do it, wedge something (branches, cardboard, wood planks or perhaps an old blanket in the trunk) under the wheels and begin "rocking" the car. Use low or reverse gear and accelerate gently; then shift quickly into the opposite gear and feed gas slowly. Repeat this until the car begins to rock to - and- fro. It should then pull loose.

Split Kitchen Stool 'Healed' By Husband

The top of my kitchen stool with a fold - under ladder had split, and I was ready to junk it, but my husband had a solution:

He glued the split top together and then applied those metal mending bars underneath with screws. However, the split still was visible.

So he got some masonite leatherwood from our lumber yard, cut it to size and fastened it with contact cement. This is a good-looking embossed hardboard which looks like Spanish - grain leather.

He covered the steps of the little ladder with the Leatherwood, too. The stool now is the most attractive one I've seen anywhere.

Storage Boxes Fit Under Bunks

Boxes built to fit under bunk beds and mounted on casters so they'll roll easily are excellent for storing toys and other valuables of youngsters.

Sides, backs and fronts are made of 1" by 10" lumber. Tops and bottoms are masonite ⅛" tempered presdwood. Assembled boxes are 28" long and 23¾" wide. Tops are hinged to the back sections. Casters are bolted directly to the bottoms. Fronts are finished to match the bunk beds.

By 1980, say experts in urban affairs, expanding communities of the Atlantic seaboard may be merged all the way from Bangor, Maine, to Miami.

NEW IN RAINWEAR—Happiest weather prediction of the season: waterproof cotton poplin raincoats that keep you comfortable and dry! Both the trenchcoat and the slim Balmaccan (above) have the new "breathable" Reevair finish, a unique waterproofing processing applied to the underside of the fabric to lock out rain, snow and wind. Coats can be washed or dry cleaned, never need reprocessing.

The Gardeners Corner

BY EARL ARONSON

THE BEST TIME to spray or dust flowers or vegetables is early in the morning or late in the afternoon, when the wind usually is calmest. If you put a weed killer (such as 2,4-D) in your sprayer, do not use the device to spray vegetables or other valuable plants until the sprayer has been thoroughly cleaned. Damage to your plants would be likely.

To control corn earworm, spray with one pint of 25 per cent emulsifiable DDT concentrate in three gallons of water, wetting the silks. Sevin may be used as a substitute insecticide, at the rate of ¼ pound 50 per cent wettable to two gallons of water.

There is an easier way to hose down your basement, garage, sidewalk or driveway than squirting it with the ordinary nozzle. A new water broom has been developed with a wide, flat high-velocity spray that washes away litter quickly.

The stainless steel device (Spray Away, by Chipper Industries, Ontario, Calif.) is 36 inches long and is designed to keep the spray well ahead of the operator to prevent his getting wet. It has a plastic spray head and routs hard-to-get at debris.

The water broom, which attaches to your hose, weighs only 15 ounces. It is suggested also for cleaning windows, fences, pools and the car.

A veteran violet fancier from New Orleans, Mrs. Joseph Gereighty, after reading the pros and cons of plucking leaves from such plants relates this experience:

"A few months ago I was grooming (brushing leaves) of a violet plant for a show (it measured over 16 inches across with 60 to 70 leaves forming an umbrella). In admiration over the many blooms, I guess I got carried away and over-groomed it.

"The next day about two dozen leaves were brush burned and limp. I had to remove them, thus making my plant unattractive for the show. In order to give the plant some balance, I removed some good leaves (sadly). But as the old saying goes, time heals all.

"To date, my African violet is healthier, larger and still blooming profusely. It suffered very little shock, if any. This may have been sheer luck, but I doubt it, and from time to time, I do remove several leaves (if necessary) to enhance a show plant."

Your house plants will keep moist longer when you put them on the porch if you double-pot them. Slip the plant-bearing plant into a clay pot two sizes larger and fill the space between the two pot walls with moist sphagnum, peatmoss, or garden soil.

Each time you water the plants soak the space between the two walls. This will serve as insulation against dry air.

MRS. THOMAS MICHAEL JENKINS

Taylor-Jenkins Marriage Held In First Presbyterian Church Of Lamesa

Zee Lyn Taylor and Thomas Michael Jenkins exchanged wedding vows Thursday at 5:30 p.m. in the First Presbyterian Church of Lamesa, with Rev. Walter G. Horn, pastor, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll Taylor of Lamesa and the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Taylor of Snyder. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jenkins.

The double ring ceremony was read before a large gold floor candelabra with crystal votive lights flanked with baskets of all-white snapdragons, stocks and chrysanthemums.

Mrs. Matt McCall presented the traditional wedding music at the organ with the Bell Choir of the First Baptist Church singing "O, Perfect Love."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal gown of white imported Chantilly lace and pleated tulle. The gown, an heirloom of the bride's mother's family, was fashioned with a sabrina neckline outlined with iridescent sequins and seed pearls and long tapered sleeves, fastened with tiny covered buttons, ending in petal points over the hands. The fitted bodice terminated in points at the front and back.

The bouffant skirt was enhanced with re-embroidered lace medallions decorated with iridescent sequins and seed pearls.

Her waist length veil of imported tulle was attached to a crown of auroa borealis and pearls and she carried petite bouquet of white lily-of-the-valley surrounding a white orchid and accented with white net.

Her only jewelry was an heirloom cameo lavaliere belonging to the bridegroom's family. She wore the traditional blue garter and a sixpence in her shoe.

Maid of honor was Jean Ranson and bridesmaids were Martha Sue Jenkins and Jill Jenkins, sisters of the bridegroom, and Jan Marshall. Anne Taylor, the bride's sister, was junior bridesmaid.

The bridal attendants wore variegated shades of blue velveteen dresses designed with scooped necklines, elbow-length sleeves and bell-shaped skirts. Their headpieces were matching velveteen bows and each carried a single long-stemmed white rose with white ribbon streamers.

Zana Kaye Taylor, the bride's sister, and Jennifer Orson were flower girls. They wore powder blue dresses fashioned with jewel necklines, tiny puffed sleeves and full gathered skirts and each carried a miniature flower basket of white lace and ribbon filled with white rose petals.

Richard Orson was best man and ushers were Jackie Wilson, Keith Leatherwood, Rex Cotten and Bob Sam Flaniken.

Reception was held in Fellowship Hall of the church with members of the wedding party and the couple's parents assisting in the receiving line.

Rice girls were Ann Morris, Loy Cline, Norman Payton, Ginger Edgmon and Judy Hutchins. They threw the traditional rice from tiny white baskets tied with shades of blue ribbon.

Bouquets of white flowers decorated the hall. The four-tiered wedding cake formed the centerpiece of the serving table. The cake, decorated with a miniature bouquet of white tea roses and Lily-of-the-valley was surrounded with smilax and stephonotis.

Guests were present from Lubbock, Colorado City, Snyder, San Angelo, Amarillo, Ralls, Abilene, Plainview, Dallas, Brownfield, Ruston, La., Kent, McAllen and Seminole.

For a wedding trip to Ruidoso, N. M., the bride chose a blue wool knit ensembble with fur trim and black accessories. She wore the white orchid from her bridal bouquet as a corsage.

The couple will be at home at 1632 North 7th St., Lubbock, after Nov. 26.

The bride is a graduate of Lamesa High School and attended McMurry College. The bridegroom also a graduate of Lamesa High School, is a student at Texas Tech.

Best-Selling Novelist

WHERE LOVE HAS GONE. By Harold Robbins.

Robbins has written five novels since 1948 and each has sold over two million copies. His sixth and latest shouldn't lower his batting average.

His last book "The Carpetbaggers," a smash best seller, seemed to many readers to be based on the life of one of America's wealthiest men.

This time, readers undoubtedly will detect in the basic theme of "Where Love Has Gone" parallels with some big Hollywood scandals of recent years.

The book opens with the stabbing to death of a virile but worthless young man, Rick, in the home of a nationally known San Francisco sculptress, Nora Hayden, a nymphomaniac who has been his mistress. Present in the room and accused as Rick's slayer is Nora's teen-age daughter, Dani, a precocious sexual disciple of her mother.

Narrator of the story is Luke Carey, wartime hero, father of Dani and divorced husband of the sculphress.

Part of the plot also revolves around a series of passionate and incrimination letters addressed to the slain man by both mother and daughter.

The writing is terse, the story line better organized than in some of Robbins' earlier works. He is excellent, as usual, with dialogue. The emphasis on illicit sex gets out of hand only occasionally.

Besides a gripping insight into a tangled world of human emotions, "Where Love Has Gone" picks up the tempo of a genuine mystery thriller before it concludes in a dramatic courtroom climax.

Schary Is Slightly Flat

FOR SPECIAL OCCASIONS. By Dore Schary.

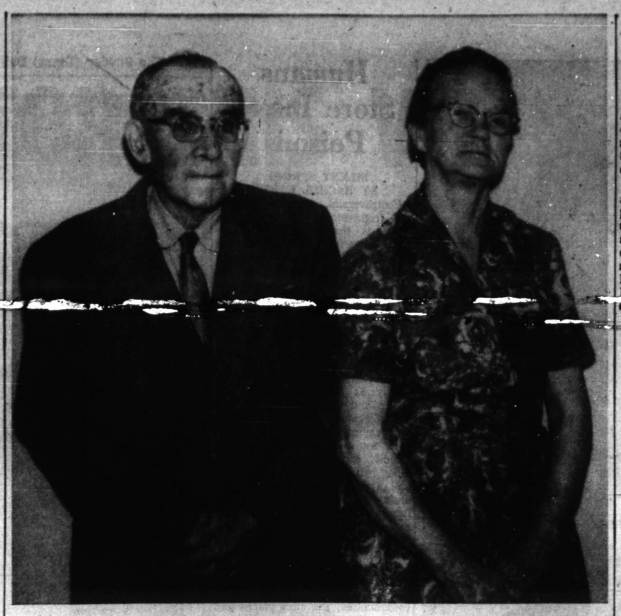

Funny, touching books are sometimes nuggeted with memories of life with father and that swarm of relatives everyone had way back when. This is an in-betweener, mildly diverting rather than amusingly nostalgic.

As boyhood's troubadour on this occasion we have one of show world's most industrious executives. Formerly head of film production at MGM, Schary for several years has been a writer, director and producer of assorted Broadway stage fare. He intends to use material from the book for a future White Way exhibit. The project is clearly close to his heart —too close, perhaps.

The set of anecdotal sketches trace, with some evidences of writing haste, the tribulations and triumphs of the Schary clan in operation of a large-scale catering service at Newark, N. J.; during and after World War I.

On hand are short-tempered dad, all-understanding mamma, orthodox grandpa and assorted employes. They cut up the fruit salad, restore the kitchen to kosher purity after a pork-and-bean Army invasion, rally from assorted banquet crises.

The participants are familiar; events have a way of turning out slightly flat. It may be unfair, but the reader can't help comparing this sedate picnic with previous, livelier family literary outings.

Twain's Bitter Sketches Finally Being Published

LETTERS FROM THE EARTH
By Mark Twain

Part of this book is bitterly and bitingly anti-religious. For that reason it has been withheld from publication for 23 years.

When Twain died in 1910, he left a good many manuscripts, some unfinished. The present collection of sketches and fragments was edited for publication in 1939 by the late Bernard De Voto. But the title piecel and several others, drew the objections of Twain's surviving daughter Clara. Only recently, at the age of 88, did she give permission for its publication.

In "Letters From The Earth," Twain creates a situation in which the archangel Satan, having incurred the Deity's wrath, was banished from heaven for a celestial day and decided to visit the earth. He writes back to the other archangels to tell them about human beings.

Writing from Satan's viewpoint, Twain makes many venomous statements attributing vanity and cruelty to the Creator. He declares that God created the laws of nature and then in the Biblical laws gave out their exact opposites. For example, nature demands sexual outlets, but the Bible prohibits adultery and fornication—applying the injunction, and others, indiscriminately against babes and septuagenarians as well as others.

In this and other essays, Twain is bitter about the human race, contending it invented for itself a heaven containing everything it does not want. He argues that Jesus invented hell. He insists that such things as disease are ways in which God punishes the innocent as well as the guilty. He scorns the human race for worshipping a Deity for his opposites—praising Him for mercy when He is cruel. And in one essay he sets out to prove that human beings are the lowest animals, not the highest.

One short sketch, purporting to be a business letter from the Recording Angel to a miserly coal dealer in Buffalo about his hypocritical prayers, is a devastating document.

In many parts of this book, it is the Twain of "The Mysterious Stranger" who is addressing the reader, not the Twain who depicted Huckleberry Finn and Tom Sawyer. It might be kept in mind that these pieces were written near the end of his life, when he was burdened by misfortunes and the deaths of his wife and a daughter.

The volume is something of a literary curiosity. It contains flashes of Twain's mild and droll humor, but much of it represents the anguished protests of a highly articulate mortal against the absurdities and treacheries of human fate.

Anniversary Open House To Be Held

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Armstrong will be honored with an open house from 2 to 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, December 2, commemorating their golden wedding anniversary.

Hosting the event will be their two children, Mr. James Armstrong, and Mrs. Thomas Brooks, both of Kress, Tex. at the couple's home three miles southwest of Snyder.

Mr. Armstrong and the former Miss Carrie Allen were married on December 1, 1912 at Rainbow, Texas. They came to Scurry County in 1930 from Hood County.

They invite their friends to call between the appointed hours and join them for the celebration.

The Abbey of Gethsemani near Bardstown, Ky., was the first Trappist monastery in the United States. It was founded in 1848.

Homemaker's Work Eased By Table

Providing a table in the laundry area where clothes can be sorted conveniently can appreciably lessen the homemaker's work load. Such a table can be constructed easily from an old door.

Cover one side of the door with a panel of masonite ⅛" tempered preadwood with a smooth side up. These panels are splinter-free so clothes cannot be snagged and damaged on them. On the opposite side of the door attach 30" legs. Both the hardboard panels and the legs can be obtained from lumber retailers.

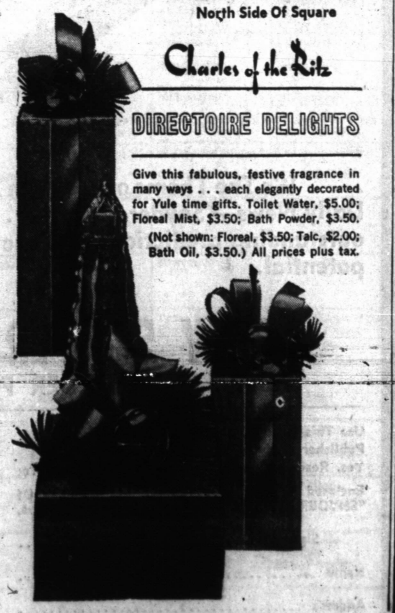

Another way of [illegible] ing table is to cover stationary tubs with a panel of masonite. Cleats of wood on the underside will prevent it from slipping.

It is doubtful whether any other single area of the housing market has been surveyed more thoroughly than that involving so-called senior citizens. If the surveys are to be believed, elderly persons prefer life in retirement villages or away from them, in sunny climates or not in them, in private homes or rented apartments or cooperatives — and near or away from their families.

In short, pick the point you want to prove and there is a survey that will back you up. It may be that what all this demonstrates is that there is no single retirement market. Elderly persons have all kinds of retirement incomes and all kinds of housing needs and all kinds of housing preferences. This explains why so many communities catering exclusively to the elderly have succeeded so well. It explains why other developments have flourished by playing down the retirement angle and concentrating on merging the older folks with the young.

The most recent study on this subject was conducted by the Architectural Department at Pratt Institute, under the direcion of Prof. William Breger. The study esulted in a very emphatic "no" to the question of whether elderly people should be isolated in newly created communities or in and around suburbia. Prof. Breger says such isolation precludes the possibility that retirement persons might wish to spend their remaining years in the same neighborhood or community hweere they have liked all their life.

Nobody can argue with the use of the work "might" in that connection. But undoubtedly there are many retirees who feel otherwise, as evidenced by the almost fantastic success of so many retirement communities in areas where there are no harsh winters. There are enough differences of opinion, it seems, to bring smiles to the housing industry proponents of both sides.

There is one point of agreement regarding the senior citizens. Far more than young families, they know what they want in housing. Most of them have had one or more homes in their lifetime They know something about the advantages and disadvantages of owning homes, they have had experiences with mortgages, they know what features they want or do not want in their houses and they can pretty much tell ahead of time whether the neighborhoods will suit them.

The older folks are at one and the same time easier and harder to do business with in the buying of homes. Give them what they want and they'll buy quicker than young couples. But they can't be talked into something "just as good".

QUESTION: I recently bought a power sander. The instructions that came with it were very good and I have found no trouble in operating it. I am confused, however, by the many different kinds of abrasive materials that can be used with the sander. Can you tell me something about them?

ANSWER: The oldest and cheapest type of abrasive is flint. It is generally used for removing paint and other heavy-duty jobs. Garnet is extremely hard and is used mostly for finishing wood. Aluminum oxide- a synthetic- is a good, all purpose abrasive. Silicon carbide is excellent for plastics, glass and ceramics.

Just as important as the types of abrasives are the grit sizes. All were numbered years ago, but now usually are classified by such terms as coarse, medium and fine. The closer you get to the finishing coat on a piece of stock, the more vital it is that the abrasive be of the fine or very fine variety.

Thus, if you were preparing a rough piece of wood for a varnish finish, you might start by sanding with a coarse abrasive, go over it a second time with medium and finish with a fine. And for the sanding between coats, it might be wise to use the finest grit obtainable.

Roses Survive Winter With A Little Help

With winter approaching, the wisest advice a rose enthusiast in the cold northern half of the nation can take is: a mound of protection will be worth a bushelful of glorious blooms next spring.

Simple protective practices will assure you that, come next spring, your bushes will reward you with all the eye - catching colors and classic beauty for which the incomparable rose is cherished.

Winter safeguards, according to All - America Rose Selections, the group that annually bestows the famous AARS award to outstanding new roses, are required if temperatures in your area reach down to the 15 - degree mark. The protection assists the plants in wintering successfully by providing insulation against alternate stages of freezing and thawing, and guards against cane damage in strong winds or crushing under heavy snow.

IMMEDIATELY after the first freezing frost stops growth and sends roots and canes into a dormant state, follow this simple and really very busy routine advised by All-America Rose Selections:

1. Clean up around the plant, removing all fallen leaves. Spray the entire plant and soil surrounding it. This will prevent any disease from holding over through the winter and harming the bush in spring.

2. Cut back the canes on hybrid teas, grandifloras and floribundas to at least 18 to 24 inches, removing all dead wood. Longer canes INSERT SPRAY CUT ... ... will whip in the wind, become heavily laden with snow, or loosen the protective mound, all of which lead to damage.

3. Hill - up the soil around the canes to a height of 8 to 10 inches, using earth from between bushes or taken from another area of the garden. It will be wise to give this soil a protective spray, too. INSET TRIM CUT ... ...

If your winters are severe, with temperatures around zero or below, added protection can be given your roses by covering the mounded bushes with evergreen boughs, straw, or any material that does not retain moisture. Avoid leaves and grass.

THE LEISURE months of winter are the perfect time to plan those new landscape ideas with the adaptable and versatile rose that will become a reality next spring. To help you plan, there are many catalogs available for the asking They will be mailed free by the mail-order speicalists in roses. In the pages of these books—spring editions are published in December and January—you'll find vivid, full-color illustrations of all the new and popular roses that are readily available to add new life, interest and appeal to your home scene.

"Fireside gardening" is enjoyable and profitable. The returns will be visible and tangible next spring b looming season when your bushes dress up your garden and home with the unrivaled color and charm of the rose.

LAYER PUDDING

3 tablepoons butter
½ cup plus 1 tablespoon cake flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
1 large egg
¾ cup firmly packed light brown sugar
½ teaspoon vanilla
¼ cup shredded coconut
½ cup finely chopped walnuts

With a pastry blender, blend togeher the butter and ½ cup flour until particles are fine; pat or spread over bottom of ungreased cake pan (8 by 8 by 2 inches). Bake in a slow (325 degrees) oven about 10 minutes—do not brown; remove from oven. Stir together the remaining 1 tablespoon flour, baking powder and salt. Beat the egg until thick and ivory colored; gradually beat in brown sugar, then vanilla; fold in flour mixture, then coconut and walnuts. Spread over baked mixture and return to slow oven until firm and light brown—about 30 minutes. Place pan on wire rack to cool. Cut in large squares in pan and remove very carefully with a wide spatula. Serve with whipped cream.

Humans Store Insect Poisons

SILENT SPRING
BY RACHEL CARSON

Controversial, argumentative — and frightening.

That is the nature of Miss Carson's powerful indictment of the use of deadly synthetic chemicals as insecticides and pesticides.

The hazards of nuclear radiation sound no more terrifying than the dangers against which she sounds a tocsin. The substance of the author's message is that our bodies accumulate these chemicals from our soil, water and food, so that eventually they can be as deadly as radiation to our own bodies and to our offspring.

Furthermore, she asserts that in spraying against a "bad" insect, we may kill many "good" insects and soil bacteria, and along with them a lot of birds and animals, thus upsetting nature's balance and imperilling our future existence. It is a prospect more far-reaching than the effects of the drug thalidomide, recently in the news.

The "silent spring" she describes —the disapperance of birds — actually has occurred in some communities; she cites places and dates.

She names the poisons—such as DDT, chlordane, dieldrin, parathion. She piles up case histories about the soil, water pollution and food supplies. She considers the incidence of cancer and the risks of genetic change.

She argues that insects, which multiply rapidly—man does not, and cannot adapt—soon become resistant to specific poisons;from that she argues the uselessness of using these synthetic chemical for even short-range effects. She says they should be used sparingly and under strictly controlled conditions. And she suggests other ways in which pests can be brought under control—such as introducing their predatory enemies.

Excerpts from this book appeared in a magazine in June, and already there have been reactions, pro and con. The federal government set up an interagency panel to study the side effects of pesticides.

Miss Carson's credentials cannot be overlooked. A trained biologoist, she is the author of "The Sea Around Us" and other books.

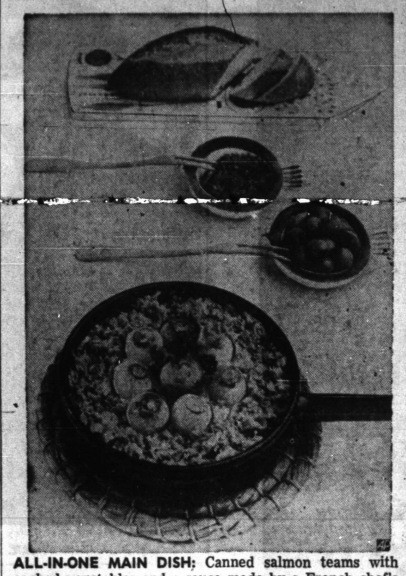

She presents her evidence, like a public prosecutor, with a relentless battery of testimony, much of it from professionally trained observers. And with it all she displays the evangelistic zeal of crusading writer.

TORTAS DE ANGEL
(Angel cupcakes)

1 cup flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup sugar
4 large egg whites
¼ teaspoon cream of tartar
1 teaspoon vanilla

Sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. Heat together the milk and butter just until the boiling point; gradually beat into sugar; add sifted dry ingredients and beat until smooth. Meanwhile beat egg whites and cream of tartar until stiff; fold into flour mixture with vanilla. Turn into buttered floured muffin pans filling them just about to top; bake in a moderate (250 degrees) oven 20 minutes or until lightly browned. Loosen sides of cupcakes with a spatula; cool on wire rack. Cupcakes will shrink slightly after removal from oven and pans. Serve with vanilla ice cream and chocolate sauce. If muffin-pan wells are 1-3-cup size, recipe will yield 18 cupcakes.

ALL-IN-ONE MAIN DISH: Canned salmon teams with cooked vegetables and a sauce made by a French chef's method to save time.

French Chefs Save Time

BY CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

TAKE IT from us. Contrary to current American belief, French chefs are just as interested in using shortcuts in cooking as the rest of us.

One young French chef, George Oddoux, has a time-saving way of preparing white sauce. As any cook knows, this basic sauce—often made in home kitchens—is always stirred during cooking against 'lumping." Now George comes along and imparts a secret to a friend of ours who passed it along to us.

In the American white-sauce method now in current use, butter is melted in a saucepan over low heat, and flour is stirred in. Then milk (or other liquid) is added all at one time and the sauce is stirred constantly while it is cooked until it thickens smoothly and uniformly.

By George's method, the butter is melted and the flour added over heat. Next off heat the extremely hot liquid is stirred in and the heat of the liquid accomplishes some thickening. Then the saucepan is covered tightly and returned to low heat for 10 minutes to complete the cooking of the starch granules in the flour. No standing over the range while you stir for 10 to 20 minutes.

When we used George's shortcut in the followin, delicious canned salmon and vegetable dish, his method worked perfectly. Try the recipe and find out for yourself!

This is a great all-in-one luncheon or supper dish, hearty enough for any man. With it serve crusty French bread plus pickle relish and olives if you like. For dessert, a fruit salad is crisp and refreshing.

SALMON AND VEGETABLES

2 large carrots (pared and sliced to make about 1 1-3 cups)
6 ribs celery with leaves (sliced to make about 3 cups)
8 small white or yellow onions (peeled)
3 cups water
¾ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon dried crushed thyme
2 tablespoons minced parsley
4 tablespoons butter or margarine
4 tablespoons flour
1 can (1 potnd) salmon
½ cup heavy cream

In a saucepan, bring to a boil the carrots, celery, onions, water, salt, pepper and thyme; boil rapidly until onions are tender — 20 to 30 minutes. Turn into a strainer set over a measure. Dump vegetables into a container, add the parsley and 1 tablespoon of the butter; stir to coat vegetables with butter, and keep warm. Pour vegetable stock back into saucepan for reheating. In another saucepan over low heat, melt the remaining 3 tablespoons butter; stir in the flour; remove from heat; while stirring vigorously and constantly, gradually but quickly add 1 cup of the boiling-hot vegetable stock; the sauce should be smooth and thickened. Stir in liquid from salmon can. Cover and over very low heat cook the sauce without stirring for 10 minutes. Stir in cream. Add salmon (in chunks) with the vegetables. Cover and reheat if necessary. Makes 6 servings.

Evergreens Need Cover For Winter

Put in a few hours of "undercover" work this Fall and you'll keep your evergreens healthy during their forty Winter winks.

Winter protection is another name for this undercover operation. It consists chiefly—but not entirely—of spreading a mulch, or cover, of organic material around the base of your evergreens. For plantings a mulch serves much the same purpose as your own blanket indoors, or your overcoat outdoors.

A mulch is a must, according to E. J. Ledger, for evergreens of questionable hardiness such as boxwood, certain azaleas and fire thorn. Spruces, firs and the chief pines usually can survive on their own, but even they'll pull through a severe Winter in better shape if protected.

Your mulch should be at least three inches deep and for best results should cover not only the tree base but the entire root area—roughly the area of branch spread Use whatever material is handiest—peat moss, corn cobs, wood chips, salt hay or dead leaves (oak if you have them). Peat moss possibly is best over all, but any mulch will keep soil warmer, hold back frost penetration and conserve vital moisture.

Because mulches, especially leafy ones, pack and shrink under rain and snow, you'd best start with five or six inches depth.

Your more tender evergreens will stand a better chance of surviving if, besides the mulch, you water them thoroughly and set up a wind screen. You might consider one of the new sprays to help prevent drying.

Finally, protect trunks and stems against mice and other rodents.

Children with neglected hearing problems repeat grades four times as often as children with normal hearing, according to the Hearing Aid Industry Conference.

Diplomatic Immunity Serves As Cloak For Foreign Envoy

By TOM HOGE

NEW YORK (AP)—Diplomatic immunity has been described by frustrated police as a set of ground rules covering how much a foreign envoy can get away with.

As far as U.S. law is concerned this covers about everything from illegal parking to murder.

To make sure the striped pants colony is protected, the United States has a statute which says any policeman who roughs up or jails a diplomat can get up to three years in prison.

The cloak of immunity includes an envoy's family and his household staff.

Diplomatic immunity dates back to the Middle Ages when capricious monarchs were inclined to behead anyone who displeased them. Out of mutual fear, nations agreed to protect each other's emissaries from the chopping block.

A set of international regulations covering immunity was finally laid down in 1815 when the first Congress of Vienna convened to clean up the debris of the Napoleonic wars. Later, another congress codified the diplomatic privileges of 84 nations in everything from the right of asylum to liquor smuggling.

Diplomats today are expected to obey the laws of the land in which they are stationed and use immunity only to avoid time consuming court actions. But under such a sweeping code there are bound to be abuses and misunderstandings.

Diplomatic privilege is not just a one-way proposition, although some Americans may think so.

The United States government insists that its law agencies respect immunity to the letter, largely because is own envoys receive similar protection in foreign lands. Any violation of the code by this country could lead to reprisals abroad.

The State Department keeps a master list of accredited diplomats, their families and employes. U.S. courts are instructed not to prosecute anyone on this official roster, known as the "white list."

In 1957 a car driven by Joza Brilej Yugoslav ambassador to the United Nations, was involved in a widely publicized accident in which a pedestrian was killed.

The driver of the other car, an attorney, accused Brilej of causing the accident by crashing a red light. But Brilej was on the white list, and a high New York police official said he was helpless to deal "with this kind of driver." Brilej cooperated in the police investigation despite his immunity and his government made a substantial cash payment to the victim's family.

An envoy who commits a crime in his official headquarters enjoys double protection—diplomatic immunity plus the fact that an embassy or mission is considered part of the country it represents.

When Haiti's minister counsellor, Samuel Devieux, was shot to death in the Haitian Embassy in Washington in 1958, First Secretary Andre Toussaint was returned to his homeland to face charges.

The sanctity of a foreign mission hampered U.S. authorities in September 1961 when fire broke out in the Soviet Embassy in Washington.

Embassy officials put out the blaze themselves, then refused to let police or firemen enter the damaged room for several days.

When investigation finally was permitted, the United States contended someone inside the embassy had set the fire either intentionally or by accident.

The Russians charged that an "unprecedented criminal act" had been committed by "unknown persons."

New York police who keep watch over a teeming colony of U.N. delegates from 109 foreign nations have found most of the visitors to be law abiding and cooperative. But during the past 16 years, they have had their share of headaches.

Run-ins between U.N. delegates and police usually involve violations of New York's traffic laws which baffle and annoy many foreigners.

New York City firemen clashed briefly with Haitian Ambassador Carlet Auguste when they sought to haul his auto away from a hydrant.

Auguste jumped angrily in his car and started to drive away as firemen delivered a stern lecture through the open car windows. Firemen called later at his office to explain further but found the Haitian diplomat highly irate.

One delegate complained that his car with "DPL" plates had been tagged, while an auto with ordinary plates parked illegally in front of his mission was left alone. He took it philosophically, however.

"I guess it is an expression of the traditional American resentment against a privileged class," he said.

Police gave a new interpretation to immunity last month when Karel Zizka, an attache of the Czech delegation to the United Nations shot his wife to death in the mission and fled. When police closed in on his speeding car near Easton, Pa., he wrecked it, then shot himself.

Police first announced that they planned no action since the killing occurred on Czech territory. But when Zizka died of his wounds they ordered an autopsy on his body, arguing that immunity ended in death.

Decline In Drilling Is Due Again

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — Another decline in oil drilling is indicated this year.

It will be the fifth decline in six years, compared to only one in the 13-year period ending with 1956.

Drilling slumps normally have been interpreted as reflecting bad times for oilman.

An industry effort to eliminate the drilling of unnecessary wells, however, is minimizing such interpretations for 1962.

The industry's top spokesman, in fact, sees signs of progress even while forecasting another drilling decline for 1963.

L. F. McCollum, chairman of the American Petroleum Institute (API), says development and service wells drilled this year are down slightly from 1961.

"And this improvement will become even more apparent in the years to come," he predicted.

The efforts to eliminate wells which are not essential to the efficient production of oil from a reservoir have gained momentum the past year.

They are, in part, an indirect result of cost-cutting programs and efficiency measures resulting from the world-wide oil surplus that has existed since the end of the Suez Canal crisis in 1957.

Efficiency and cost - cutting measures have drawn heavy emphasis at API meetings the last two years.

One report placed before API's production division a year ago cited the vast East Texas oil field as an outstanding example of inefficiency and wastefulness.

The report said 30,000 wells were drilled in the field although only 2,000 were needed for efficient production. The paper said the 28,000 wells that were drilled unnecessarily cost the industry an estimated $420 million.

McCollum said it is encouraging to see a growing awareness of the need for wider well spacing and the elimination of any wells not strictly needed to get oil out of reservoirs.

He commended progress made by conservation bodies in such states as Texas, Louisiana and Oklahoma.

"But they still have not gone far enough in eliminating the economic waste caused by drilling too many unnecessary wells," he said.

The domestic industry drilled a record 58,259 wells in 1956. Last year's completions totaled only 46,725.

McCollum expects about 46,000 completions next year.

Junior Editors Quiz on INSECTS

QUESTION: How do insects produce sound—by vocal chords, or what?

* * *

ANSWER: Insects don't have vocal chords as we do. Yet some make plenty of sound. In Aesop's famous fable, the grasshopper spent the summer making music, the ant toiled carrying food to storage. When winter came, the grasshopper wished he'd been less of a musician and more practical. The males of the group of insects which include grasshoppers, locusts, crickets and katydids are the chief insect musicians. We show their two main methods of sound production. The short horned grasshoppers have tiny teeth on the hind legs, which rub against a sharp-edged vein on the fore-wing. The grasshopper really is a fiddler, with his leg as the bow and the vein as a string. The second method is practiced by long horned grasshoppers and katydids; we show the similar instrument of the cricket. The cricket's upper wings are folded so one lies on top of the other. Toward their base where they cross, each has what looks like a tiny scraper (A) and a tiny file (B). Rubbing these two wings across each other, each file engages a scraper and makes it vibrate to produce the bright chirping sound.

* * *

FOR YOU TO DO: Find almost any kind of a file and an empty tin can. Now rub the file over the edge of the can and you will get an insect-like buzz, produced in an insect-like way. Try to imitate the rhythmic beat of katy-did, katy-did, katy-did.
