THEIR METAL FLOWERS LOOK LIKE THE REAL THING
Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen

WORKS DISPLAYED IN ART SHOWS

Tin Sculpture Shaped By Couple In Demand

By MARJ CARPENTER

A couple who dared to stop two full-time careers and go on a part-time basis so they would have time to pursue the career they really loved are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Allen of Fort Worth.

She is the former Alice Long of Big Spring. They were here this week, en route to the Art Show at the Globe of the Southwest in Odessa.

He is a registered pharmacist and works part-time at this occupation in Fort Worth. His wife has a masters in Home Economics and has taught at Tarrant County Junior College.

But what they really enjoy doing, is making sculpture wildflower pieces which are sold at an increasingly large number of art shows and galleries throughout the state.

The reason they have attracted so much attention is that the wildflowers are authentic. They are copied from real wild flowers and pictures of wildflowers. Each petal, sepal and flower part is cut by hand by Allen.

His wife helps with the base painting and then after two or three coats, he gets each flower to have the realistic color and design he is seeking.

They are also interior decorators and the duo will furnish ideas for a home. He has even painted wildflower murals for two or three homes.

He has become such an expert that the McKinney Wildlife Museum, which only shows true wildlife exhibits, granted him a full month for his display.

The exhibits include large pieces mounted on driftwood and smaller items. The smallest items are butterfly and autumn leaf pins.

The pieces include such delicate items as wild honeysuckle, humming birds, ladybugs, butterflies, bluebonnets, dogwood and ever-so-many other Texas wildflowers.

TEXAS SPRING

Two or three times a year, he plans to put together a superlative. There will only be one each of these models. He just sold his first one called "Texas Spring" at the opening of the Gallery in Austin recently.

It sold for $900 and included different flowers. The smaller models sell at much less than that. He uses galvanized tin, copper and brass for his base.

The exhibits really have to be seen to appreciate the true beauty. Charles' father in Lamesa, Bowers Purcell, is in construction and is artistic. Alice's father, Al Long, is also definitely artistic. Mrs. Long is interested in wildlife, writing and art.

All of these people were a definite influence on the couple in making their decision. Charles decided that fulltime druggist work was not what he wanted to do with his life.

LAMESA NATIVE

He is originally from Lamesa, graduated from pharmacy school at the University of Houston and met Alice, a Tech graduate, while he was working for Cunningham-Phillips here in 1966.

They will have a showing at the Needlepoint Gallery at Nieman Marcus in September. He also has pieces at the Bakers Gallery in Lubbock.

When they get behind on orders, the two will stay up all night to make more.

The artist sold so many items at the recent opening in Austin that they were planning to work most of the night here Thursday, prior to going to the Odessa show.

The delicate beauty of the artistic pieces is authenic and lovely to behold.

And the Allens — they're doing what they enjoy.

Big Spring Week

Give the weatherman another A for effort, for twice during the week we had light, spotted showers. A few areas got enough to help. Moisture circulation was good at low levels, but the upper air was dry as a bone. Still, crops are not hurting, although pastures could use moisture.

The Bicentennial makes its official start this week, highlighted by the "Day in the Park" sponsored by Jaycees. The all-day old-fashioned picnic will be climaxed by the colorful "Let Freedom Ring Pageant" in the amphitheatre, and then the big fireworks display. And it would be so much safer and better if the fireworks would be left to the professionals. By the way, another Bicentennial note: The Chamber of Commerce has ordered 40 Bi-Center flags for display downtown, which is but one of scores of activities which show our town is taking our nation's 200th birthday seriously.

We keep having a series of traffic mishaps, and one last week had all the ingredients for a catastrophe, only luckily it was less than that. One car hit two pickups, on US 87 eight miles north of here, sending eight to the hospital. Only Moses Garza, 8, Crystal City, was hurt seriously. That ought to be a reminder to all to be doubly careful over the holidays; be careful — obey the speed laws.

Oil Price Said Rising

WASHINGTON (AP) — Iranian officials say the price of imported oil may be boosted as much as 35 per cent this fall, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said Saturday.

Mystery Of Disappearing House Is Still Unsolved

TSgt. and Mrs. Clarence Joseph are still house-hunting, in an unusual sense of the word.

They are seeking a house that apparently has disappeared. They told the building permit office that they had been away from Big Spring for several years before returning to view the house at 210 NE 12th.

The city tax records show that in 1967 a house was taxed, but that in 1968 there was no house, so the taxes were lowered.

There is no record of code enforcement tearing the house down as condemned. Records are being searched all the way back to 1965. House moving records are also being checked.

Cost Of Business Letter Has Gone Up To $3.79

CHICAGO AP — The cost of producing a single, standard business letter has jumped 11 per cent in the course of a year, up from $3.41 in 1974 to $3.79 in 1975. And, if postage goes up as predicted, the basic cost will be pushed over $3.80.

According to the Dartnell Institute of Business Research here, this new cost figure reflects salary and materials increase. The survey revealed that the average salary of the dictator the man who initiates the letter has risen from $250 a week to $302.

The salary of the secretary who takes the face-to-face dictation and then types the letter has risen from $136 a week to a current $143 average.

Marxists Release 2 Women

DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP) — Two young women from the United States and Holland were freed by Marxist guerrillas in Zaire on Saturday after nearly six weeks in captivity, but an American man remained hostage.

Carrie Jane Hunter, 21, of Atherton, Calif., and Emilie Van Zinnicq Bergmann, 25, of the Netherlands, reached the town of Kigoma on Lake Tanganyika by boat Saturday morning, then flew to Dar Es Salaam by chartered plane. Miss Hunter's father, Norman Hunter, was with them.

Clad in jeans and T-shirts, they received an emotional welcome from a group that included Joseph Smith, the father of 22-year-old Stephen Smith of Garden Grove, Calif., who was still being held.

Smith embraced the two women, and they assured him his son would soon be released.

U.S. Ambassador Beverly Carter said he was disappointed Stephen Smith was not released but predicted that continuing efforts to free him would succeed within seven days.

Miss Hunter and Miss Bergmann said they were healthy and happy to be free, but declined to say anything else to reporters.

Officials would not say whether ransom was paid. The guerrillas had first demanded $500,000, large amounts of arms and ammunition, and the freedom of guerrilla leaders detained in Tanzania, but they were believed to have scaled down the demands through letters written to the U.S. and Dutch embassies by the hostages.

Others greeting the women in Dar Es Salaam included Dutch Ambassador Jan Van Den Berg and Dr. Jane Goodall, the director of the baboon research station from which they were kidnaped, and fellow Stanford University students.

Members of the Popular Revolutionary Party, a little-known guerrilla group fighting a war against Zaire President Mobutu Sese Seko, kidnaped four students from the research center on May 19.

One hostage, Barbara Smuts, 24, of Ann Arbor, Mich., was soon released to carry the ransom demands to the outside. Tanzania rejected the demands and along with Zaire offered little help to Americans trying to negotiate with the guerrillas.

TRA Sets Open House

Trans Regional Airlines, with scheduled flights from Big Spring to Midland and Dallas, will hold an open house today from 2-5 p.m. at the Howard County Airport Terminal Building.

Trans Regional, which took over air service here following the cessation of service by Texas International Airlines, will be welcomed into the city business community by the Ambassadors and by other city, county, and chamber of commerce officials.

The airline's terminal headquarters and airplanes will be on display and free refreshments will be served, according to R. E. McClure, airline co-manager.

He also said that Trans-Regional would give away two round-trip tickets to Dallas at the open house.

Moving Week For CRMWD

This will be moving week for the Colorado River Municipal District headquarters.

The new building at Goliad and FM-700 is nearing completion, and the schedule calls for starting Wednesday. The transfer from 1318 East Fourth should be completed by the end of the week, said O.H. Ivie, general manager.

Directors of the district will make their inspection of the facilities Aug. 22, giving time for landscaping to be started and other operational details ironed out. A public open house is due for the afternoon of Sunday, Aug. 24, Ivie added.

LASHES LABOR MOVEMENT

Isabel Peron Cuts Salary Increases

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — President Isabel Peron delivered a scathing attack Saturday night on Argentina's labor movement, the bastion of Peronist support for 30 years, and slashed wage increases negotiated over the past month.

"It seems the leaders of unions and political groups do not yet understand the difficulties we face," she said, rejecting union demands to approve the negotiated increases.

The huge General Labor Confederation applied pressure Friday with a seven-hour general strike and a 100,000-worker rally outside the presidential palace in defiance of an appeal from Mrs. Peron to stay at their jobs.

Confronting her gravest crisis since taking office a year ago, the 44-year-old president said: "If we ratified the increases negotiated, we would benefit some and leave others submerged."

She said such a move would fuel inflation and cause unemployment to rise daily.

The president fixed June increases at 50 per cent, with raises of 15 per cent in October and in January. Some unions had bargained for increases of up to 130 per cent in June.

Mrs. Peron spoke forcefully, at times nearly screaming, as she claimed that economic imbalance would play into the hands of subversive interests that she said seek to destroy Argentina.

Speaking on national television, Mrs. Peron squarely supported her new economy minister, Celestino Rodrigo. He was brought into the cabinet at the urging of her virtual premier, Social Welfare Minister Jose Lopez Rega.

Demonstrators at Friday's rally had demanded the dismissal of both men.

Mrs. Peron promised to brake the rising cost of living, as the unions asked, and to crack down on black market operatons. She also hiked family allowances linked to minimum salaries by 100 per cent to benefit low-income workers.

Criticizing the unions, she recalled conditions under which labor leaders persuaded her late husband, Juan Peron, to return to Argentina in 1973 after 18 years of exile.

"They said, 'General, if you return we will work one hour a day for free to help solve the economic problem'...Not only have the promises not been kept to work harder and produce more," Mrs. Peron said, "but we are easing the road so that mercenaries and traitors can triumph without great effort."

Union leaders quickly called a meeting to discuss the speech.

Rodrigo's appointment came after prices rose more than 80 per cent between May 1974 and May 1975. In 18 months the peso slipped from an effective value of 10 to the U.S. dollar to more than 50 to the dollar on the black market.

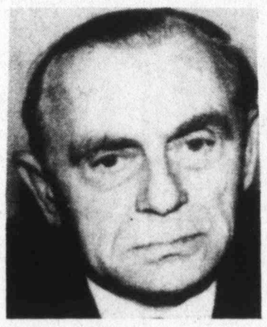

Rodrigo ordered a 50 per cent devaluation and price increases of up to 180 per cent for public services and fuel in a master plan to restore stability and international credit ratings.

ACCUSED OF KILLING 38

Alleged War Criminal Nabbed In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Authorities are holding a man believed to be Walter Kutschmann, a former Nazi gestapo officer accused of executing 38 Polish Jews in 1941, government sources said Saturday.

Information supplied to Argentine police by the Jewish Documentation Center in Vienna said Kutschmann and his men also were responsible for the deaths of between 1,500 and 2,000 other Jews in Brzezany and Podhajce in 1942, but the specific accusation was in connection with the group of 38.

DR. WALTER KUT SCHMANN

The man being held, who is 61, has been living in Argentina since 1947 under the name of Pedro Ricardo Olmo and is now sales manager for Osram, an Argentine manufacturer of lamps and appliances.

He was arrested after police received a report from Simon Wiesenthal, a well-known Nazi hunter who runs the Jewish Documentation Center, the sources said.

Wiesenthal said in Vienna after the arrest that he was gratified by the prompt action of Argentine police and hoped West Germany would now request the man's extradition.

"He cannot be tried in Argentina for crimes he committed as a member of the Nazi SS against Polish Jews," Wiesenthal said, "but he can be tried in West Germany."

One of several highly placed sources in Buenos Aires said Wiesenthal's information "has been passed to very high levels, and there is no information we can give. But we can confirm that Olmo has been detained."

Federal police said they had no information on the case, and there was no public record of charges. Apparently authorities here were detaining Olmo pending international investigations.

Wiesenthal told a news conference Friday in Vienna he had "irrefutable evidence" that Kutschmann-Olmo headed an execution squad that murdered 20 Polish professors and 18 family members on July 4, 1941, in the Polish city of Lemberg, now in the Soviet Union and named Lvov. The reported sites of the 1942 killings also are in the Soviet Union now.

Police had been advised of Olmo's suspected identity by the magazine Vision, which circulates in Latin America and by information from representatives here of the Jewish Documentation Center, the sources said.

Argentina has acted slowly in the past in cases of suspected war criminals.

Coke Stevenson Succumbs At 87

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — Former Gov. Coke Stevenson died Saturday, never sharing with the world all that he may have known of his controversial loss to Lyndon Johnson in a 1948 U.S. Senate race.

Stevenson was 87 when he died, surrounded by his family at Shannon Memorial Hospital where he had been hospitalized for two weeks following abdominal surgery.

Death came at 1:35 p.m. CDT while the critically ill Stevenson lay in a coma.

"Of course, it is a sorrow to all of Texas," said House Speaker Bill Clayton. "We plan to appoint a committee to attend his funeral as an official group from the House."

Stevenson's condition worsened following the surgery to stop internal bleeding and never improved for any length of time.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

Stevenson's race for the U.S. Senate against then U.S. Rep. Lyndon Johnson ended in a controversial defeat by 87 votes which forever altered the course of American history.

Stevenson, a 6-foot-1 rawboned figure, served as governor from 1941 to 1947, when he retired after staying longer in the executive mansion than any Texan up to that time.

He and former president Johnson, then a U.S. representative, tangled in 1948 for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate race. The winner was undetermined for days as recounts shifted the lead to Johnson and then to Stevenson.

Ballots tabulated in Jim Wells County gave Johnson an 87-vote margin. Stevenson forces cried fraud when the official canvass showed 494,191 votes for Johnson and 494,104 for Stevenson.

The State Democratic Executive Committee and the U. S. Supreme Court overruled Stevenson on the votes, which could have changed the course of the nation and world.

Stevenson remained bitter over the defeat. He backed Johnson's opponent in the 1954 Senate race and in 1956 threw his support behind former Gov. Allan Shivers in his battle with Johnson for leadership of the State Democratic party.

Stevenson backed Republican Richard Nixon in the 1960 presidential election.

"I am not a brass collar Democrat any more," he said in his softly gruff voice in a 1964 interview. I don't feel as kindly toward the Democrats as perhaps I should. This may sound like sour grapes, but when they put the stamp of approval on the way the office of U.S. senator was lost to me..."

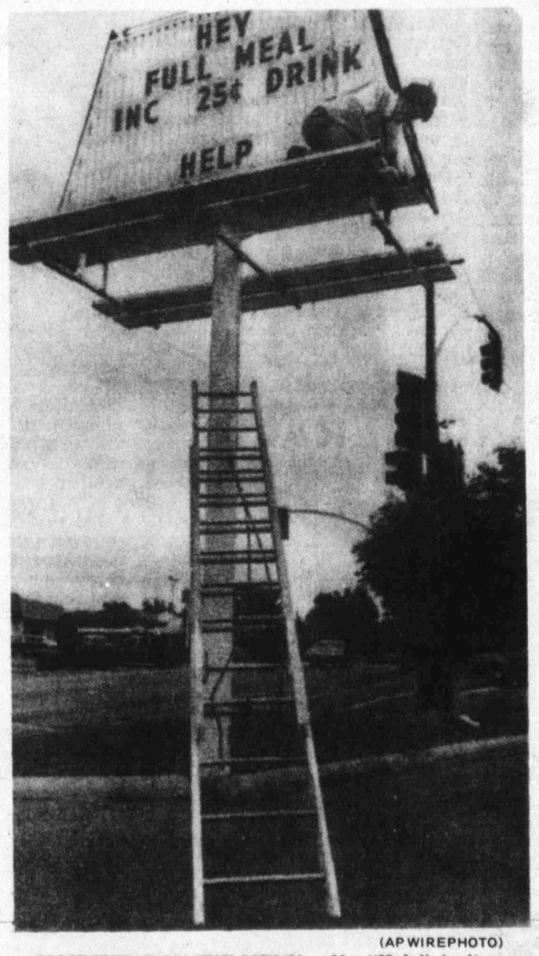

EX-GOVERNOR COKE STEVENSON

Aside from an occasional statement or interview and assistance in the campaigns of others, Stevenson retired from political life after his defeat by Johnson.

His life then revolved around his family, his 15,000-acre ranch by the South Llano River in Southwest Texas and his law practice in Junction.

Coke Robert Stevenson was born March 20, 1888, in a log cabin just 35 miles from his ranch. With only two years of formal schooling, he taught himself bookkeeping. He read law at home and in 1913, at the age of 25, was admitted to the bar.

MAY RAIN

A 50 per cent chance of showers today with weather to continue clear to partly cloudy. High today in upper 80s, low tonight, near 60, high on Monday, mid 90s. Winds from the southeast at 10-20 miles per hour.

Park Will Be Open To Cars

The Jaycees are seeking organizations who desire to participate in the 4th of July celebration in Comanche Trail Park Friday.

Those interested in sponsoring a booth should call the chamber office or Perry Culwell after 6 p.m., daily.

An earlier announcement that no cars will be allowed inside the park on the holiday is erroneous. Persons will be allowed to park inside the park for the celebration, since they are certainly not expected to walk from their houses or park out on the highway, chamber officials pointed out.

Driving around the park will be discouraged since there will be so many activities in the park.

Judging for the beard growing contest will be at 2 p.m. in the Old Settlers pavilion.

Give It A Chance

Here we go again. According to estimates, the United States is facing a possible shortage of gasoline during the summer months, when most vacationers hit the roads.

Paradoxically, the shortage is projected at a time when stocks of crude oil are in surplus, as is producing capacity worldwide.

What happened? As good an answer as is possible comes from John Lichtblau, head of the Petroleum Industry Research Foundation, an independent economic research organization supported by oil companies:

"If shortages occur, the public will blame the industry and government; the industry will blame the administration and Congress; the administration will blame the industry and Congress, while Congress will blame the industry and the administration.

How true. But one thing is certain: Congress, and the President, deserve the lion's share when blame is passed around. We still don't have a national policy on energy. We have bits and pieces of a response to immediate concerns; we don't have anything resembling a long-range program for managing energy on a national basis, providing safeguards against either running out of energy or pricing ourselves out of its use.

What we have is tinkering instead of overhaul. People in the industry claim the system of fuel allocations now in place is working to push down the supply of gasoline and push up its price, and that is probably true because it's a halfway control.

Either we should leave decisions on supply and demand to the market place, or remove them from the market place entirely. In begging the question, government has us in the absurd situation of paying more for less supply gasoline while crude oil shortage tanks are filled. It shouldn't take much thought to figure out what we're doing isn't working. Give a free market a fair chance to prove what it can do — to make good on prediction this is the best and surest solution. Then, and only then, consider the alternatives of control.

Please Show Your Badge

Pity the poor junior member of the U.S. House of Representatives who is recognized only in his home district. He is a stranger to Capitol guards and those who supervise the congressional subway cars.

The House Administration Committe has responded to their complaints. It approved the purchase of congressional lapel pins to identify House members when they try to enter the Capitol, especially at off-hours, or use the subway.

The remedy cannot cope, though, with the absent-minded member who forgets to transfer his lapel pin to another jacket in the morning. He'll just have to produce his personal identification papers and yearn for the day he will be recognized immediately, say like the late Sam Rayburn.

My Answer

Billy Graham

I was told recently that the Bible describes a time when angels married human women, producing giants as offspring. Is this true?

T.E.

Moses in Genesis 6:1-5 is not writing of angels cohabiting with human women. He is rather reflecting God's displeasure at the formation of unhallowed matrimonial alliances.

The "sons of God" mentioned there are considered by most to be the pious sons of Seth. Chapter 5 describes them as men who walked with God. Their mistake was that they did not confine themselves to the beautiful daughters of the Sethite race. They apparently had a preference for the fair women of the Cainites. The evil was that of promiscuous marriages without regard to spiritual character. They became "giants" in terms of roving bands of violent, lawless and immoral men. Neither is there any racial connotation here. It is moral and spiritual.

What they did is prevalent today — I mean marrying according to one's passing fancy. Rather, God expects a determination of spiritual affinity, and emotion and intellectual compatibility. If we hope to avoid an escalating degeneracy in our country, we'll need to get back to God's priorities in matters of marriage and the home.

THE PLAYHOUSE

A flat place under a shade tree was a good spot to build a playhouse. Weeds were cut and raked away; then the ground was swept clean with a broom. The girls decided what size and how many rooms the house was to have and drew lines on the ground with a sharp stick to locate the walls. Brothers or other boys in the neighborhood were commandeered to fetch rocks or old bricks to make the walls. The rocks were placed in a neat row on the lines that had been scratched on the ground. Rocks were left out at certain places to provide doorways and windows.

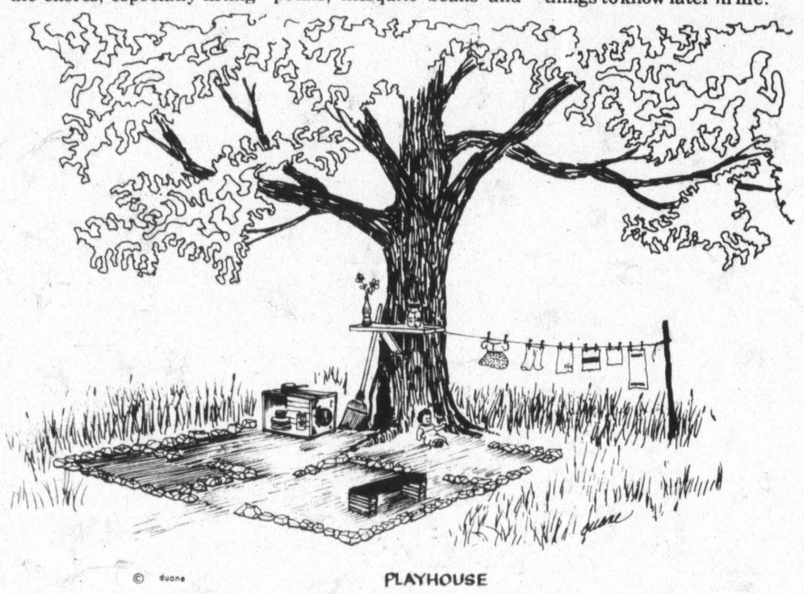

Once the walls were in place the area was swept again and furniture was moved in. An apple box (they were made of sturdy wood then) served as the cook stove or cupboard. Shelves made of boards were placed here and there to stack dishes and utensils on. Some little girls had nice china tea sets but most just used discarded jars, bottles and cans for their dishes.

Boys were welcomed into the playhouses so long as they abided by the rules. The rules were just about the same as for any real household. Guests were expected to knock at the door and wait until it was opened before entering. It sure wasn't polite to just step across the wall into the house.

Boys were also expected to help the girls with some of the chores, especially lifting heavy things or nailing up boards. Sometimes they were sent out to find ingredients for some dish the girls were "cookin up", like elm-leaf salad or clover soup. A good supply of water was always needed for mud pies.

The girls used a piece of old window screen to sift flour (sand) which was mixed with all sorts of other things like grass, flower petals, mesquite beans and wild berries to make a concoction that almost begged to be eaten (ugh). In fact, I knew of some boys who actually tried the stuff.

There was a great deal of educational value in the playhouse. The girls learned how to organize, plan, accept responsibilities, keep house, dress and care for babies (dolls) and get the boys to do most anything they wanted, all of which are pretty handy things to know later in life.

Talk With Sadat

Marquis Childs

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt — President Anwar Sadat believes the situation in the Middle East is so explosive that war could erupt in the near future, he told this reporter in an interview at Borg el-Arab his country retreat.

THE EGYPTIAN PRESIDENT spoke as he weighed proposals brought from Washington. But there can be no decisive action until President Ford publicly announces the results of the Middle East re-assessment.

"The three-month agreement for a peace-keeping U.N. force on the Egyptian-Israeli frontier expires next month," Sadat noted. "I shall not consent to another renewal unless there is a real movement toward peace. That will greatly increase the danger."

Sadat was warm in his enthusiasm about his meeting with Ford at Salzburg. With the greatest frankness, they discussed Egypt's problems and the precarious balance between the present dubious peace and open warfare. At the same time, however, he said he understood the gravity and the difficulty of the decision the U.S. President must make.

"I TOLD PRESIDENT FORD, 'keep your special relationship with Israel and give them everything they ask for to defend their borders.' But these must be the borders that marked Israel before the 1967 war.

"The United States, President Ford, holds not 90 per cent of the cards, as I have said before, but 99 per cent. The position of the United States must be stated clearly. There must be a global solution that goes beyond this region."

The demand that Israel give up the territory conquered in the '67 war meets iron resistance in Jerusalem. Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin in a recent interview spelled out the areas that his country would insist on retaining including the Golan Heights taken from Syria, the Gaza Strip and perhaps strategic points in the Sinai.

THIS SUGGESTS a principal difference in tactics between the two sides. Rabin believes there is time for quiet diplomacy. Sadat is convinced time is running out and there must be tangible moves in the direction of peace if war is to averted.

"Israel does not want peace. They are not capable of working out a peaceful solution. A state of war serves their purpose. It brings money from the United States.

"WHAT WAS PROVED in the October War is that nothing is ever solved by military action. Their government is weak and divided and yet they dream of imposing their wishes on the region. Peace cannot be imposed by the United States or any other power.'

During the past year, Sadat and the half-dozen men close to him have developed friendly and forthright relations with the United States. I was at Sadat's invitation delivered a month beforehand that the U.S. Cruiser Little Rock, flagship of the Sixth Fleet, was second in the flotilla led by President Sadat at the opening of the Suez Canal.

Dawn Of A New Major Industry?

NEW YORK (AP) — A new multibillion business may have been born this past week.

Picturing "an entirely new private industry in America," President Ford asked Congress to allow private companies to produce and sell high quality uranium to nuclear plants throughout the world to hasten an end to the current energy problem.

Since the dawn of the nuclear age 30 years ago, the making and selling of enriched uranium has been a strict federal monopoly for national security and safety reasons, and in Washington, aspects of the Ford proposal already were stirring controversy last week.

Ford said by shifting prime responsibility for building needed uranium facilities over the next 15 years to the private sector, he was saving the taxpayers some $30 billion. While few legislators opposed the plan on principle, some questioned the $8 billion federal guarantee Ford is seeking from Congress to cover losses if private firms find themselves unable to build or operate uranium plants profitably.

There also was question whether foreign partners in these private uranium enterprises might gain access to nuclear secrets. And environmentalists and others who say nuclear energy is costly and hazardous felt the Ford proposal was a giant step away from solving the nation's energy problems.

Wall Street applauded the plan, however, as nuclear-related stocks were among the week's market leaders in a moderate rally. The Dow Jones industrial average ended the week 17.68 points higher at 873.12.

Stock investors also drew encouragement from further government figures suggesting the recession has hit bottom, even if the good news has not yet reached the 8 million Americans still on unemployment lines.

The government's index of leading economic indicators, an aid in predicting the economic future, was up 2.1 per cet in May, the third straight monthly gain. The nation also recorded a $1.05 billion trade surplus last month, the fourth in a row.

On the bond market, the State of Massachusetts had its credit rating lowered form a top-level triple-A by Standard & Poor's Corp., and from double-A to A-1 by Moody's Investors Service Inc. The decision was the result of a credit review by the two bond raters as Massachusetts announced plans to market $450 million in 2 to 6 year notes this coming week.

Moody's also lowered New Jersey's rating from triple-A to double-A, the only other state this year to fall in the ratings.

WEEK'S BUSINESS

- Ford wants private companies to make enriched uranium
- Would $8 billion as underwrite to get operations going
- Wall street applauds, environmentalists are dubious
- Stock investors bouyed by government view recession ending
- New twist — state bond ratings lowered due to risks

Pap Test Confuses Her

Dr. G. C. Thosteson

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My last Pap test came back "Class I Infection." My doctor gave me no antibiotics or douching instructions. He just said come back in six months for another test. Can you explain? — Mrs. D. W.G.

The Pap test is a study of cells obtained from a smear taken from the cervix. It is based on the fact that malignant tumors will slough off cancerous tissue cells, which can be identified in such smears.

A mild or low grade infection, which is what the Class I category refers to, is not an unusual finding, and it would indicate the presence of pus cells. The actual cells studied under the slide were apparently normal.

Antibiotics and douching would not affect such an infection. However, the presence of even a mild infection, as you showed, indicates another test later, and six months is not too soon for this. It does not mean that there is suspicion of cancer.

The value of the Pap test is in its ability to detect very early cancer, it is true. The American Cancer Society estimates that if every woman were to have regular Pap tests several thousands lives could be saved in the U.S. alone each year.

The Pap test will also, of course, detect many other non-malignant conditions, some mild and apparently innocent as yours. If a severe infection is found, then measures such as cauterization to remove affected tissues can be employed.

With "wedding season" upon us, it is time, I suppose, to repeat my annual advice to young married women not to neglect regular medical attention (including the Pap test) as they enter into new married lives, even though mother is not there to urge this.

Dear Doctor: I am in my early 60s and enjoying good health, with one possible exception. During the past winter I began taking a high-potency vitamin-mineral tablet advertised for senior citizens. I noticed that my urine now is a dark golden color, which changes to clear when I stop taking the tablet.

Should I discontinue taking it, or should I have my kidneys checked for possible malfunctioning? — R.A.G.

The dark, golden color could be due to the tablet. If so, it is not harmful, but it is wasteful. The appearance in your urine indicates the body is not utilizing all the vitamin, especially riboflavin, so it is excreting it the only way it can.

Check the label for the various proportions and get a preparation with tablets of less potency. The dark golden color probably does not, in this case, indicate kidney malfunction; but if it occurred without the taking of the tablets, it could indicate some disorder.

Vaginitis can strike any woman at any time in her life. You can find out about the causes — and the cures — for this troublesome complaint in Dr. Thosteson's booklet, "Vaginitis: The Hidden Ailment." The Azores

William F. Buckley, Jr.

PONTA DELGADA, Azores — Gen. Altino Pinto de Matalhaes is the military governor of the Azores. A man of stern, sometimes even prim professionalism, one imagines that he has something of the military magnetism of Spinola, and prays that he has more than Spinola's political acumen: on the other hand, surely Alf Landon had better than that.

NOW THE Genral, whose English is basic approaching non-functional, will speak to you in French, a language of great nuance which, however, the General does not traffic in. Beyond making it very clear that the people of the Azores do not desire Sovietization, he will say only such things as that he is confident they will not be tyrannized over by the mainland. What if Lisbon actually attempted to do this to the Azores? Was secession then a "vive alternative?" Well, yes. Yes.

Ironically, the very same general single-handedly doused the separatist explosion of June 6. Although he is not a native of the island — he is from Lisbon, did the routine military things as a young man, and served as commander of the Portuguese military in Angola — in the brief period he has become something of a legend. A deeply popular man, totally trusted by the people.

IT IS SAID by taxi drivers (the general would deny it) that had Gen. Pinto but given the word, he'd have been crowned President of the Independent Republic of the Azores. He gave no such word. This does not mean someone, at a moment in the future, wouldn't do so under certain circumstances. The mainland is 12 per cent Communist. The Azores something less than two per cent. It is the patriotic thing to resist domination for the 98 per cent by the two per cent.

WHAT, I asked him, did he make of the central government in Lisbon taking over Republica, the Socialists' daily, and handing it over to the Communists? Well, the General explained, it's this way. You see, the technicians who put out the paper are Communists, while the proprietors are Socialists. Since Portugal does not have a tradition of freedom, within which one entity respects the rights of another entity, it has now to feel its way. If the government simply cracked down on the Communist printers and linotypists, that would be to throw the weight of government against the rights of one entity, in favor of the rights of another entity. I forgave him this baloney.

IT GETS darker every day in Lisbon, and the day may come when the people of the Azores gather once again — this time to declare their independence. Will the American navy protect them? I report with great sadness that the residents here have white skin. Otherwise, the matter of their independence would be easy: a postcard to Kurt Waldheim at the Security Council would suffice.

But these are as thoroughly Portuguese as anybody on the mainland, though it is true that they had 20 years of autonomy a couple of generations ago. But here is an operation we would hardly need the CIA to advance: God knows there are enough documents signed in blood by the statesmen of the world guaranteeing freedom to geographical entities that desire sovereignty. One would need only to frame the language of secession in anti-colonialist rhetoric; the rest is child's play.

Recycling Saves Energy

NEW YORK (AP) — The 2.3 billion all-aluminum cans Americans returned to recycling centers in 1974, a 44 per cent increase over 1973, represents a sizable savings in energy, according to Samuel L. Goldsmith, president of the Aluminum Assn.

The energy saving results from the fact that aluminum can be recycled at 5 per cent of the energy it took to make it in the first place and it can be recycled over and over again.

The aluminum cans returned in 1974 represent about 103 million pounds of aluminum, equivalent in weight to aluminum used in energy-saving storm windows for 760,000 homes or solar collector systems on 140,000 homes.

It also represents $13 million paid to recyclers for their efforts.

RESTLESS YOUTH EVIDENT HERE NIGHTLY

Recreational Spots, Jobs Help Hold Down BS Crime

By JOHN EDWARDS

Nightly, streets, parking lots and drive-in restaurants in Big Spring team with youths who seemingly have nothing to do.

Does the city offer adequate employment and recreation opportunities for its youth?

And is there any relationship between crime and violence among the young and the job market and recreation facilities?

Some authorities in larger cities expect an upsurge in minor violence and crime this summer but not the massive rioting which plagued some cities in the 1960s.

Big Spring Police Chief Vance Chisum said he had seen less crime during summer here than during school years.

With recreation programs and vacations, Chisum said: "They seem to do pretty well during the summer."

Lack of employment and recreation could be a "contributing factor" to crimes among youths, Chisum said. "I don't think it would be to a great extent."

"Crime is more prevalent where you have lack of those two," Sheriff A.N. Standard said, referring to recreation and employment.

'KID STUFF'

"Boys who are interested in sports during the school year and part-time employment during the vacation season are less apt to get in trouble with the law than boys who are not," County Attorney W. H. (Bill) Eyssen Jr. said.

"What devilment they get into isn't really going to cause them to get busted," Eyssen added, generalizing. "It's kid stuff."

"Baloney," District Judge Ralph W. Caton said, after reading an Associated Press story on the subject.

Judge Caton, presides in juvenile court and district court for Howard, Martin and Glasscock Counties.

NOT 'FOR BREAD'

Defendants in 80 to 85 per cent of criminal cases are under 25 years of age, the judge observed.

"You can't tell me they're stealing for bread," Judge Caton remarked. "I don't think there's any connection between unemployment and crime."

"So many of those we convict up here are employed and have good jobs and simply have no reason to steal," the district judge said.

Judge Caton said Big Spring offered all sorts of recreation, free and otherwise.

Y HELPS

"I sure think it would be worse if we weren't in existence," the executive director of the Big Spring YMCA said of crimes committed by the young.

Enrolled in central Y programs this summer are 1,012 members and non-members, Curtis Mullins said. Of this number, 64 are adults.

Also this summer, there are 175 using the Lake View Y, including participants in the City-Wide Recreation program.

The most recent membership count was made in 1974 when 3,141 of 4,430 members were under 18 years of age.

Mullins estimated 150 youths were members through donated money.

"We do not turn any young person away who is unable to afford it," Mullins said. The number of "Friend of Youth" contributions does not limit the number of non-paying members, he explained.

For those who can, the annual youth membership runs $15 or 50 cents daily. These rates apply both to college students and those under 18.

OLD PROGRAM

For more than 25 years, the city-wide recreation program has provided youths with activities during the summer, Joe Pickle, chairman of the administrative board, said.

With $4,000 in city and school funds, the Y recruits a staff of coordinate activities at Comanche Trail Park and the Lakeview Y.

An estimated 150 are enrolled at the park, and another 150 are participating at the Lakeview facility.

Elementary school students enjoy arts and crafts, active and quiet games, nature hikes and swimming five days weekly.

Basketball for teenagers at Runnel Junior High School may be discontinued if participation does not increase, though.

CLUBS' PURPOSE

Boys' Clubs always have been directed at keeping youths out of trouble by keeping them active, director Bert Andries said.

"The program has always been aimed particularly at kids in low income areas," Andries said.

Boys from 6 to 17 years of age may belong for 50 cents yearly. The largest group of the 500 members are from 10 to 13 years of age.

In the summer, the Boy's Club offers swimming at North Main and Seventh Streets, and the downtown club building is open long hours.

Basketball, table games, the trampoline, exercising equipment, a word shop, arts and crafts materials and a library are among the things offered.

JOB MARKET

What about employment for youths in Big Spring?

The Howard County Human Resource Center here had arranged for employing 250 young persons for 40 hours weekly through the federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) Manpower Program.

Then, President Ford vetoed the appropriation bill. The center, which is staffed by the Permian Basin Regional Planning Commission, reduced the summer CETA force to 101 youths at 30 hours of work weekly.

No one had to be laid off, Nabor Marinez, Manpower coordinator, said, but many have not been employed yet.

"Of course, that's been heartbreaking when we call the parents and kids and say we don't have any funds," Martinez recalled.

There are 190 qualified applicants who are waiting for jobs and still more who did not apply because of the lack of jobs.

Qualification Determination "sticks pretty well with the income criteria," Martinez said. Asked about the ethnic composition of the group, the coordinator said: "We don't try to fill any quotas, mind you. We don't really have any figures on that."

The summer CETA program included 33 girls and 68 boys between 14 and 21 years of age. All but 8 from Glasscock County are Howard County residents. (these 101 summer workers are in addition to 42 adult CETA trainees.)

When the veto delayed complete implementation of the summer program, Martinez said the center did not cut assignments with city, Boys' Club and Y recreation programs.

The center was limited to paying with previously appropriated funds.

MONEY DUE

Now, Ford has signed a second bill which provides money for the summer program.

When the new funds arrive, the center "probably will be sending up fireworks," Betsy Howe, Manpower coordinator, said.

Mrs. Howe and Martinez did not know when the new federal funds would arrive or how much would be provided for Howard and Glasscock Counties.

But they hoped to return to their original plans of replacing 250 youths at $2.10 hourly for 320 hours of summer work each.

CETA workers are employed with City of Coahoma, Coahoma Independent School District, state, county, Howard College, Big Spring State Hospital and Veterans Administration Hospital, among other non-profit agencies.

ONE OF FOUR

The Texas Employment Commission (TEC) successfully helped about 100 of the 400 applying find employment, Ellis Britton, TEC office manager here, said.

Of the successful 100, some were placed through government programs, Britton said.

During March, the last month for which statistics are available, the unemployment rate here for all ages was estimated at 3.5 per cent of 15,411 workers.

This was before the influx of students into the work force this summer, Britton said. No statistics for youths alone are available.

It can be compared to the Midland-Odessa area where 3.7 per cent was the unemployment estimate and San Angelo where it was 6.1 per cent.

BASE JOBS

Webb Air Force Base, on the basis of "need," employs youth each summer through its civilian personnel office and the TEC.

PIG VALVE SAVES LIFE — Thanks to the heart valve of a pig (similar to the one above), used in Miami Beach to replace her own defective heart valve, Cheryl Petit of Fort Lauderdale, Fla. is now capable of living a physically full life after a period of convalescence. The use of animal tissue valves, about seven years old, is still rare.

THE WEEK

The City of Big Spring has gained COG approval of a couple of projects, which have yet to be funded. One is the widening of Scurry from 15th to the north access of FM 700 a long-needed job and the other is $107,321 as a operational grant for a proposed bus from Big Spring to UTPB in Odessa, via Stanton and Terminal.

Howard County Water Control and Improvement District No. 1 got a resounding approval of a proposal to extend its borders to encompass 2½ an additional sections. The issue carried 157-1, which means the district will be reaching into new acreage development south of the old Coahoma road anf west to Lovers Lane.

Jimmy Taylor, president of First National Bank and who is the retiring president of Rotary, received the annual Rotary outstanding citizen award. A busy civic workder from the time he came to Howard County as its agent, Taylor has served on the school board and Colorado River Municipal Water District, Howard College board, rodeo association and is vice president of the Chamber of Commerce. That leaves him a little time for his banking, home and horses.

The Texas Water Quality Control Board exercised a good measure of commonsense when it held off on making the city provide holding points for filter plant backwash water. Before clamping down, it agreed first to send inspectors here and to see if the staff's recommendations are fair and practical. The city's contention is they are not, because it is returning to the watershed water better than it received.

A couple returned here at mid-week to check on property they had last seen in 1970. To their surprise, the man and wife found the house and fence at 210 NE 12th gone. City and county said they had no record of a house having been there.

After bucking hard winds and heat the first two nights, the annual Big Spring Cowboy Reunion and Rodeo had a good finish. Thanks to the turnout for the Hank Thompson appearance at the rodeo dance, the association may come out even or ahead.

FROM THE NOTEBOOK — McCamey is celebrating its 50th anniversary and most of those signs, with old fashioned type, were done by our town's David Norvelle . . . Conway Craig, who will host a reunion of BSHS Class of '20 at Holiday Inn Monday 5 p.m., belongs to an elite group of five-lettermen football, basketball, baseball, track and tennis. . . . Most remarkable quote of the week belongs to Texas Agriculture Commissioner John C. White: "The downturn in the pig crop in Texas can be directly attributed to the decrease in sow farrowings" . . . Useful information: The National Hot Dog Council says that during July hot dog month Americans will purchase 1.5 billion hot dogs. We didn't know that!

Sen Hart: Demos Must Face Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Reflecting on a three-hour visit with George C. Wallace, Sen. Gary Hart of Colorado has called for a positive Democratic response to issues raised by the Alabama governor.

Hart said in an interview Saturday that, unless Democrats do respond, voter disaffection in 1976 may reach new peaks with as many as two-thirds of the potential electorate refusing to cast ballots for president.

In fact, he said, he is thinking of introducing legislation that would require states to add a "none of the above" line to the 1976 presidential ballot "just to test how many of them would turn up."

Hart said that Wallace "ought to be fairly treated and that somebody ought to figure out a positive way of dealing with the problems he has articulated.

"He was shown he's on to something but it's all negative and destructive," Hart said. "Somebody has to articulate the positive aspects, that most people want to work, that bureaucrats are not pointy-headed intellectuals, etc."

Hart, elected to the Senate last November two years after managing George McGovern's disastrous 1972 presidential campaign, said he went to visit Wallace at the behest of Marvin Warner, a wealthy builder and Democratic national committeeman from Ohio who was a college classmate of the Alabama governor.

"Warner's feeling was that we should make every effort possible to keep him in the party," Hart said. "He said one of the biggest problems is that nobody will talk to him, except for those running for office."

On June 16, accompanied by Warner and Mickey Griffin, Wallace's top national political operative, Hart spent three hours at the executive mansion in Montgomery with the governor.

Hart said that Wallace complained about efforts in various states, including New Mexico, North Carolina and Tennessee, to change the delegate selection process to balk him and the refusal of some state Democratic leaders to answer requests from Griffin.

"I think he definitely feels that, unless the thing is rigged, he's got a reasonable chance to go in with as many delegates as anyone else — and probably more," Hart said. "I think he feels he's got a shot to be on the ticket."

He said he told Wallace "I thought he had as much right to run as anyone else and that, if he didn't represent the views of most Democrats, he wouldn't get the nomination and shouldn't get it."

Gold Is Still Magical

CENTRAL CITY, Colo. (AP) — Unemployed, discouraged and desperate, Jim Lannon squats on the bank of North Clear Creek swishing water around in a pan, studying the bottom for traces of gold.

He is one of thousands of people who, for one reason or another, search the streams around this old mining town.

Some do it as a hobby, others work at it a little more seriously, and the tourists are just looking for distraction. But the excitement of finding gold — the knowledge that it is still possible to pick up something for nothing — remains.

"I expect I've got about an ounce or a little over," says Lannon, a carpenter from Golden who has been unemployed nearly eight months.

"Every little bit helps. It's better than sitting home worrying about it or driving the wheels off that car looking for a job."

No one will say he really hopes to strike it rich. But it's still there, in the back of their minds, that they will be the lucky ones.

Darrow Moline of Denver spends his winters trapping in the Colorado Rockies, and in the summer he looks for gold.

"I've been down in New Mexico panning and just got a dredge so I thought I'd try it out here," Moline said as he cranked up the pump on his sluice-box apparatus.

Moline agreed that if a man needs $100 to $150 per week, he probably won't make a living at it. But he said if a person likes to live outdoors and work hard, he can get by.

"With gold prices what they ace now, I think it's worthwhile. I've got to do something in the summer and this keeps me out. This whole area has been dredged a few times for gold, so if you do find something, it won't be much.

"My wife died and my house blew up, so why not. I don't have any bills."

Larry Valentine of Bedford, Ind., is typical of thousands of tourists who try their hand at looking for gold. Valentine and his family paused by a stream to give a whirl with a tinfoil pie plate.

"We're the outdoor type anyway and collectors of everything. We're really just goofing around," he said as he and his family look over what appeared to be a miniscule nugget of gold. "When you ride 2,000 miles with three kids, anything is fine."

After more than eight years working in a factory, Donald Goss of Mondovi, Wis., gave it all up and plans to look for gold until his money runs out, which he says won't be long now.

"I've never seen a nugget, only a few flakes, and that's about it. I do it mainly to keep from getting bored — I haven't got a library card," he said.

"Gold is always a depression industry. Back in the 30s, a lot of them were panning. But relief pays so well these days, they don't have to do that."

Bulgarian Plane Is Hijacked

SALONICA, Greece (AP) — A Bulgarian airliner was hijacked on a domestic flight Saturday and flown to this northern Greek city, officials said.

The identity of the hijacker and details of the takeover were not immediately available.

Greek authorities said the plane belonged to Balkan Airlines and was on a flight from the Black Sea coast city of Varna to Sofia, the Bulgarian capital, when it was hijacked.

Greek authorities identified the hijacker as Ivan Takov, a 24-year-old construction engineer. They said there were no injuries during the hijacking.

The plane was on a flight between Varna on the Black Sea coast and the Bulgarian capital of Sofia.

Passengers on the plane told Salonica airport officials that Takov got up from his seat near the front of the cabin shortly after takeoff and pulled out a pistol.

They said he then forced a cabin attendant to take him to the cockpit and locked himself in. The pilot reportedly agreed to fly to Salonica, 60 miles from the Bulgarian border, after Takov threatened to kill him.

Salonica airport officials said the plane with its passengers would fly back to Bulgaria later Saturday. Greek authorities said Takov would be held in custody pending the outcome of an investigation.

Parr's Ouster Trial A Biggie

HEBBRONVILLE, Tex. (AP) — There is no doubt about it. The ouster trial of suspended Duval County Judge Archer Parr is going to be the best show in this brush country town for the next few days.

The trial, which started Friday after an estimated 16 hours of hearings in courthouses in San Diego, Rio Grande City and here stretching back to May 19, drew a large crowd of spectators Friday. Ealier in the week the jury selection process drew a standing room only crowd.

Parr, the nephew of the late South Texas political boss George B. Parr and heir apparent to the title "Duke of Duval," was removed from office March 24 by District Court Judge O. P. Carrillo. The judge acted after Dist. Atty. Arnulfo Guerra filed a civil suit, noting Parr's federal perjury conviction and accusing Parr of being involved in acts of official misconduct involving about $460,000 in payments from Duval County. Guerra since added four allegations of official misconduct and conflict of interest.

Judge Carrillo is under indictment for federal income tax evasion and a Texas House committee is considering possible impeachment proceedings against him.

Parr has not attended the trial, but a subpoena has been issued and he may be forced to appear if process servers can locate him.

Dist. Atty. Guerra launched an investigation in February, saying he was going to "clean up" Duval County. He has a grand jury and has enlisted the aid of the Texas attorney general's office and the Texas Rangers.

Robert Forche, Guerra's chief investigator, was the center of attention last week when it was disclosed that he had stored an automobile belonging to Mrs. Rosa Carrasco on Parr's ranch. Mrs. Carrasco, a fugitive, is the widow of Fred Gomez Carrasco, who was shot to death last year while attempting to leave the Texas State Prison at Huntsville with hostages.

A Benavides area rancher and his wife who were in the near capacity crowd that sat through the proceedings Friday, explained, "We just wanted to see where the hell our tax money has been going. We know, but we just want to see if anything can be done about."

Since the courtroom on the second floor of the Jim Hogg County Courthouse is not air conditioned, the windows must be kept open to provide some breeze and relief from the heat.

The watermelon and grain harvest in south Texas is in full swing and the roar of truck motors and the screeching sounds of tires braking on the hot pavement outside at times almost drowns out the testimony.

Pig Valve Helps Fem Fight Back

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A heart valve made primarily of pig tissue will give Cheryl Petit a chance to live a normal life, doctors say.

The prognosis was not as bright three months ago, after the 19-year-old Fort Lauderdale, Fla., woman gave birth to her first child. Without the operation, she could have died, doctors said.

"After a period of convalescence, she will be capable of living a physically full life," Dr. Jack Greenberg, chief surgeon at Mount Sinai Hospital, said Friday after implanting the pig tissue.

Mrs. Petit now has a valve that doctors call a porcine heterograft — a replacement for her own defective heart valve which had blocked the free flow of blood. It's a circular valve about one inch in diameter.

"The valve is not a living tissue," Greenberg said. "It functions but is not living, so there can be no active rejection."

Doctors say Mrs. Petit may have suffered from rheumatic fever during her pregnancy. After her son's birth, she experienced breathing problems and later suffered from extreme exhaustion.

After diagnosing her heart ailment, Greenberg opted for the pig valve — from a supply of pig tissue kept at the hospital. The tissue is preserved in a substance called gluteraldehyde.

DEATHS

Lemuel Free

Burial will be in Mt. Olive Memorial Park.

Born Jan. 5, 1902, in Gilmer, he was a farmer in the Knott community and had lived there since he was a small boy. He married Mozelle Snider Feb. 25, 1939, in Colorado City. He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Knott.

Survivors include his wife; three sons, Alton B. Free of Fort Worth, Weldon Free of Wichita, Kan., and Charles Free of Big Spring; a daughter, Mrs. Linda Bedwell of Big Spring; a sister, Mrs. Eura Anderson of Richmond, Kan.; 10 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Clara Thomas

Services for Mrs. Floyd C. Clara Thomas, 83, who died at 3:30 p.m., Wednesday at the John C. Lincoln Hospital in Phoenix, Ariz., will be at 2 p.m., Monday at the River-Welch Funeral Chapel here, with the Rev. Tommy Williams, pastor of Christ's Fellowship Center, officiating.

The body will arrive tonight from Phoenix. Burial will be in Trinity Memorial Park.

Mrs. Thomas is the sister-in-law of Mrs. W.B. (Quintie) McKee, Big Spring.

Pallbearers will be C. W. Dickerson, J. H. Eastham, W. E. Wozencraft, Ervin Daniel, Lee Porter and Charley Clay.

C. Waggoner

Funeral services were held at 4 p.m. Saturday in Nally-Pickle Rosewood Chapel for Curtis L. Waggoner, 62, who died Friday morning in a local rest home.

The Rev. Randell Ball, First Assembly of God Church, officiated with burial in Trinity Memorial Park.

Pall bearers were Frank Russel, Richard Harrelson, Herman Wilkerson, Burl Dennis, Clinton Harrison and Loyd Arnold.

Bobbie Batton

Services for Mrs. Laura Mae (Bobbie) Batton, 71, who died Friday at 9:25 a.m. in a local hospital, will be held today at 3 p.m. at the Smith-Rogers Funeral Home Chapel in Lovington, N.M.

Burial will also be in Lovington.

Infant Boy

Rene Ray Rodriguez, 23-day-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe R. Rodriguez of Coahoma, died at 1:30 p.m. Friday in a local hospital. Services were held at 10 a.m. Saturday in St. Thomas Catholic Church.

The Rev. Leo St. John of St. Thomas Catholic Church, officiated. Burial followed in Mt. Olive Memorial Park.

Survivors include his parents; a halfsister, Ruby Cabrera of Coahoma; and maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carolos Martinez of Ballinger.

Ida Foster

Mrs. R. I. Ida Foster, 88, of Anson, sister of J. I. White of Big Spring, died at 8:30 a.m., Friday in an Anson nursing home.

Funeral arrangements are being completed at the Lawrence Funeral Home in Anson.

Mrs. Foster's husband preceded her in death Feb. 23, 1972.

Motorist Won't Sign; Jailed

One woman chose to go to jail Saturday afternoon rather than sign her traffic citation when issued one by a city patrolman.

The officer has the right to arrest the motorist if he or she refuses to sign the citation. The motorist has the right to plead not guilty in city court, but, by law, must sign the citation.

Shanklin Quits

STORY TURNS OUT TO BE COMPLETE HOAX

Drug Bust Principal, In Reality, A 'Narc'

Editor's Note: Five weeks ago today the Odessa American published a story about a big dope bust in Odessa. The newspaper reported more than a pound of "pharmaceutical cocaine" had been seized and a 25-year-old suspect arrested. The story was a complete hoax. An explanation of how the American was made an unwitting part to it is presented in the following report.

By OLIN ASHLEY
EDITOR, ODESSA AMERICAN

ODESSA, Tex. (AP) — The four column headline in the Odessa American March 25 proclaimed "Lawmen nab cocaine with $87,800 value" and the story was accompanied by a picture of district attorney investigator Tom Barker staring grimly at a cellophane package containing a white substance.

A 9 mm automatic pistol lay nearby, taken along with the "cocaine", from a 25-year-old suspect who was arrested by Bakrer and two sheriff'sdeputies after a high speed chase.

The man was handcuffed and was taken to Ector County Jail where he faced three charges: possession of cocaine, possession of a gun by a convicted felon, and failure to obey a police officer.

EXERCISE IN HISTRIONICS

During the customary mugging and fingerprinting process, Barker called the newspaper and offered the "tip" that there had been a sizable drug bust.Unaware that it was a phony deal, that it was an exercise in histrionics conceived and orchestrated by Barker, the newspaper dispatched a reporter and photographer to the county courthouse.

It did not know the "suspect" was one of two undercover narcotics agents working for the district attorney and whose salaries were paid by Ector County under fictitious names.

Barker later claimed that the local underworld was growing suspicious and that it was necessary to stage the fake bust to convince the dope pushers the man was not a "narc" (narcotics officer).

The newspaper did not know that the white substance foisted as cocaine was actually household baking soda which Barker had purchased for the occasion.

Neither did it suspect that Barker had planned the masquerade with the indulgence and assistance of a district judge, a justice of the peace, and one of the two deputies who participated in the "arrest".

Barker's boss, Dist. Atty. John Green, was out of the city and was unaware of the scheme.

Green indicated this weekend he would take some kind of "action" because the "arrest" was made without his authorization, but he declined to say what that "action" would be.

Asked specifically whether he plans to punish Barker, he said he preferred to "sort of leave that up in the air."

Green then issued the following statement: "Even though I was not in town at the time and this action was taken without my sanction, I feel the incident has no bearing on the outcome of the effectiveness of this office to eliminate the dope seller from Ector County as shown by the results."

When he returned to Odessa last month and heard of the "bust", Green said, "I wish I'd been here. I just think it should not have been done without me being present."

However, he asked that the true story be withheld until the undercover men could complete their investigation.

INDEPENDENT WORKER

He was joined in the request by state narcotics officer Bob Joseph, who heads a 93-county area for the Department of Public Safety. Joseph said he had an undercover man in Odessa working independently of Green's two men.

Both Green and Joseph said revealation of the true story at that time would jeopardize the lives of the undercover men and would nullify their efforts to dry up drug sources in Odessa.

Green told the American May 28, four days after the incident, "I would ask you not to run a story to hurt the program that they're working now in making buys.

"My only statement is that if you run a story I am going to have to take the opposite side of the paper as usual, you know, same deal, that you help narcotics dealers by running the story."

The newspaper agreed to hold the story until the agents could complete their case which, it was agreed, would take about a month. Subsequently the district attorney's four-month drug investigation came to a successful close Friday when the Ector County grand jury returned 122 indictments against 75 persons.

The American learned about the hoax two days after the story appeared in print and it began at once to interview participants.

From these interviews, the newspaper learned:

—The hoax story was hatched in the private chambers of state Dist. Court Judge R. L. McKim. Attending the meeting were McKim, Justice of the Peace Jan Brooks, sheriff's deputy Elton Faught and Barker. Faught said later McKim had ordered him not to "say a word about this to anyone."

—Barker told others at the meeting that an undercover agent was in danger of being exposed as a policeman and that something clever must be done to convince the underworld the agent was a dope dealer.

CHASE ACTED OUT

—A high speed chase was acted out, an "arrest" was made and a quantity of "narcotics" was confiscated solely to get newspaper coverage which would make the arrested "suspect" appear to the underworld as one of their own.

Judge McKim said he didn't know full particulars of the plan when he was drawn into it. He said afterward he wished Sheriff Elwood Hill had been informed of the charade because "the sheriff really should have known about it."

Green said McKim should have denied any knowledge of the plot. "If I'd been McKim, I would have said 'I don't know what you're talking about' ".

Green said the incident was justified regardless of whether the news media was unwittingly used to mislead the public. "If it keeps dope from our kids, I'm for it," he said.

Sheriff Hill disagreed. "It's not going to happen any more. I'm a little upset. The method it was handled in is what irked me. I had several people call me congratulating me on what a good deal we did. And it's kind of embarrassing to face some of those people."

Police Chief Jack Tomlin said, "The whole thing kind of stinks and it sounded a little amateurish."

PART IN SIMILAR SCHEME

Barker said he participated in a similar scheme while serving as a deputy sheriff in Dallas County a few years ago but he didn't know whether the news media ever discovered it had been "used."

Barker was fired by Dallas County Sheriff Clarence Jones early in 1972 following a grand jury report about apparent discrepencies in Barker's testimony during the murder trial of a former narcotics agent.

Kenneth Decker, agent in charge of narcotics work for the state police, said to his knowledge the state police have no policy regarding setting up phony arrests like the one which occurred here.

Decker said he has never been involved in such an incident "and I've been in this work 20 years."

The American, in an editorial for Sunday editions, said in part:

"The objective was desirable. The method, however, was highly objectionable. By deceiving the news media, causing it to present the incident to the public as a bonafide arrest, Barker and his collaborators tampered with one of the public's most important and most cherished rights—the right to know.

"Certainly, this newspaper is opposed to drug abuse and it supports all legitimate efforts to stamp out illicit drug traffic. We did not want to endanger the life of the undercover agent.

"Those are the reasons we have waited until now to expose the phony story that was foisted off on us and our readers five weeks ago. We feel very strongly that the people's right to know must not be compromised. They must not be fed a pack of lies no matter how high the purpose and the press must not be manipulated at the whim of an enthusiastic investigator or anyone else.

"For how will the newspaper, or the public for that matter, ever know for sure what is true and what is not true. What can we believe?"

LOOKING BACK — Henry Park looks back at the old days in Forsan. This new picture of Park has been laced on a 1936 Forsan street view. Park has worked around Forsan since 1928.

Forsan Once Boasted 2 Hospitals, 4 Hotels

By MARJ CARPENTER

It was 1928 when Henry Park came to Howard County to work in the oilfields. He worked for Fred Hyer Co. as a tool pusher.

That was 47 years ago and he thought he'd be here a few months. He still works for Hyer Co. as a pumper "and everything else they need out at Forsan" he laughed. Then main activity is now in Loving and Ward Counties as well as Howard County.

Henry often talked to Fred Hyer about that first commercial oil producer in Howard County on Nov. 9, 1925. "Hyer had gotten seven sections of leases from H. R. Clay in Fort Worth. Everybody told him he wouldn't find any oil.

NOBODY EXCITED

"When there was a show of oil in the Yates, nobody got excited. Then they found oil at a little over 1500 feet in what later was named the Hyer Sand.

"People still didn't get excited until one of the big companies began to buy leases. Then the excitement spread. Owen and Sloan's No. 1 Chalk came in and then another near Ross City. And the boom was on. Hyer sold that first well to Marland Oil Company."

The records at the Heritage Museum show that Hyer sold that original producer to Marland Oil Co., later Conoco, for $250,000 but "didn't regret it because he said he couldn't have poor-boyed it in the oilfield."

The museum records also point out that Hyer persuaded C. C. Brown of Tulsa to put the first oil pipeline in Howard County.

But Henry Park came right after all this commotion. He eas raised in Comanche County Tex. and began working for Hyer in Coleman in 1927. "That's almost 50 years ago," he said ruefully and added, "doesn't seem like it."

SOME WILD TIMES

He lived out near Ross City and "used to go to dances in that rock building out there. There were some wild times," he recalled.

"I met my wife, Estill, at either a dance or a ballgame. We used to go to both. Her dad was a farmer around Sterling City. We married in 1935.

"Forsan was a lot different in those days. It had hung on when Ross City and Chalk disappeared into thin air. There was a lot of activity out there then. They even had two hospitals, hotels, cafes, and lots of excitement."

A recent history of Forsan donated to the museum by Mrs. H. H. Storey recalls that there were four hotels, including the Conger, Texas, Botelion and Honeymoon Hotels. There also was a Stork Club of the oilfields at Frenchy's. There were two hospitals, three grocery stores, two drug stores, a bakery, two dairies, two tailor shops, and a one cell jail.

LOTS OF JAKE-LEG

"Most of the people treated by the doctor either had a hangover or were suffering from the jake-leg from drinking ginger extract," the history recalls.

Park recalls, "The depression and the end of the big boom kind of whittled Forsan down a little. But it's still there. It's a good place to live.

Oilfields jobs were the best jobs around during the depression. I was sure glad to have mine."

"In fact I can't think of anything bad about working in the oil fields. It wasn't like nowadays. Everybody worked hard and long hours. People were rowdier, but they were harder working, too. Nobody thought a thing about working 12 hours for 50 cents an hour. It was good money.

"We raised four boys in Forsan. Johnny's in Houston with IBM, Freddy is in Odessa with Parker Drilling. Roger is in Snyder with USI and Steve teaches at Coahoma. Two out of three stayed in the oil business. They have seven boys and two girls between them. Our life has been good."

When asked what his philosophy was coming up in the really tough days of the oil business, Park chuckled and said, "Work hard and stay out of the fights."

LIVES ALONE ON COUGAR MOUNTAIN — Meda Porter, 78, has lived alone in a one-room house on Cougar Mountain for 27 years. She grows most of her own food and says she has been to the doctor three times in her life.

Flower Lady Lives In Tune With Nature

ISSAQUAH, Wash. (AP) — Meda Porter, who has lived a solitary life for 27 years as the Flower Lady of Cougar Mountain, lives in tune with nature and says she never gets lonely because she "never gets sad."

Mrs. Porter, 78, has a one-room unpainted house on four acres of land about 25 miles southeast of Seattle. There is no running water; a wood stove is for cooking; an oil stove is for heat. She washes on a scrub board.

Guy wires support a tipsy stovepipe on the roof, and life here can be precarious.

"I bought this place when I was 52 years old and had 50 cents in my pocket," she said. 'But I've paid it off in eight years, living mostly on beans and coffee. I did babysitting until three years ago."

Mrs. Porter cleared the original 10 acres she bought and put a roof on the house. She had to sell six acres to pay her taxes and for some income to supplement her Social Security.

Most of her food comes from her garden and about 50 trees, many of which bear fruit.

"Once in a while I buy eggs and meat, but they're all doctored up with chemicals and neither one is good for men" she said, adding that no weed killers or insecticides are used in her garden.

She was honored recently at a Mother's Day gathering where there was coffee made with chlorinated water. "I took beer," she said.

She makes rich black soil from compost and sifts it to make it light and stone free. With it, she grows strawberries, elephant garlic, cabbage, sweet peas, rhubarb, green peas, beans, tomatoes. And lots of flowers, especially dandelions.

She has thyme and sage and other herbs; sweet cicely grows outside her door for tea.

She says she has been to a doctor only three times — with typhoid at 9, at the birth of her first child and when she had measles at 26.

Guilty Conscience

MIDLAND, Tex. (AP) — A guilty conscience moves in strange ways. Just ask Ching Carr.

Last week a paper sack containing a small ivory horse and a carved elephant was found at the door of her Midland shop, Ching's Imports.

Taped to the sack was a note. It read:

"Five years ago I stole these things from your store. It never bothered me at all. Just lately, though, I found Jesus Christ.

"I read in the Bible where Jesus says when you become a Christian, you need to make right the wrong things you have done.

"I just couldn't keep them any longer. I am very sorry I took them. I'm also sorry I couldn't bring them to you in person, but I am so ashamed for doing such a dumb thing. Please forgive me."

The note was unsigned.

Mrs. Carr, who estimated the objects are worth about $25, said that day "will always be special in my life. All is forgiven."

The carved horse now sits in a locked display case to ward off other shoplifters, she explained. And the elephant, Mrs. Carr said, was bought by a woman the day it was returned, partly because of the story behind the piece.

Musical Drama To Honor LBJ

AUSTIN (AP) — A musical drama on the boyhood life of former President Lyndon B. Johnson—featuring such original songs as "Pokin' Down the Pedernales"—will open here July 4.

Dr. Dorothy Dodd of the University of Texas drama department wrote the play, and Mort Stine did the songs.

A 12-year-old junior high school pupil, Sumner Erickson, will portray Lyndon at age 10, and Jeff Broyles, 18.

Serling, 50, Dies

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Television writer-producer Rod Serling died Saturday, two days after undergoing open heart surgery at Strong Memorial Hospital, the hospital said. He was 50.

TV's ROD SERLING

Serling, was known as creator and host of 'Twilight Zone" and "Night Gallery."

He was first hospitalized in Ithaca, N.Y., for two weeks in May after suffering what was diagnosed as a mild heart attack.

Serling was readmitted on June 6 and placed in the intensive care unit for an undisclosed illness.

Serling was one of the best known and most honored writers in television. Such plays as "Patterns" and "Requiem for a Heavyweight" were prestigious highlights of television's "Golden Age" of drama in the 1950s. They were later made into motion pictures.

He received six Emmy awards, more than any other writer. He also received the Peabody and Sylvania awards.

BUT THEY KEEP U.S. CITIZENSHIP

Americans Have Found Utopia In N. Zealand

QUEENSTOWN, New Zealand AP — Parker B. Mudge, a retired U.S. Air Force Colonel, sits in his easy chair and gazes reflectively out of the huge picture windows of his living room.

Before him spreads 52-mile-long, 1,000-foot-deep Lake Wakatipu, stocked with trout and salmon. In the background, 14 miles away, rise 7,000-foot peaks of New Zeland 's Southern Alps, where there's some of the world's best skiing.

"I'll live here until I die," said the former fighter pilot.

Mudge, 60, his wife, Ruth, and teen-age daughter, Melita, are among several thousand Americans — no one knows for sure exactly how many — who have made new homes in the peace, quiet and considerable beauty of New Zealand.

DECIDED TO SAY

Mudge is chief pilot for Mount Cook Airlines, a small tourist line that flys to the fiords, ski runs and resorts of New Zealand's South Island.

Mudge came to New Zealand 21 years ago with $2,000. "We decided to stay for two years no matter how rough it got," said the Connecticut Yankee.

"When we came here it was like going back 30 years in time. My wife had never bottled fruit and never had gardened. Automobiles were antiques by U.S. standards; central heating was practically unknown. The food was good and wholesome, but lacked variety.

"But we both like the simpler outdoors life . . . we don't miss night clubs. The only place in the States that's like this is the Pacific West Coast around Oregon."

Mudge has only once thought seriously of returning to the United States. He was offered a job with an American airline at five times his New Zealand salary.

"We sold everything and were ready to go," he said.

"But then we thought i over and thought of Melita's schooling, the multiracial problems and decided that material things were not that important."

Mudge, like most Americans who have moved here, has kept his American citizenship.

CHEAP FOOD

New Zealand, with its three million people and relaxed life-style, is as close to Paradise as the Mudge family and others like them expect to get on earth. Milk costs 5 cents a pint, bread is 21 cents a loaf, meat is cheap and beer costs about the same as milk does in the United States.

On the debit side, however, wages are low — average $6,800 a year — and taxes are high, about 40 per cent of the average income.

But unemployment is less than one per cent, compared with 9.2 per cent in the United States.

And the white New Zealanders, or pakekas in the Polynesian based language of the native Maori, live and integrate without obvious tension with the local people who are 10 per cent of the population.

Neal Grove, a retired U.S. Army colonel, had one tour in New Zealand as defense attache at the U.S. Embassy in Weelington. He decided after a further tour in Turkey that with retirement coming up, the place where he wanted to live was New Zealand.

"The thing I like about it most is the people. They are friendly and outgoing and we find the climate very agreeable. We'd never had a home, because you move around so much in the military, and we'd never live in the States a lot.

"The main attraction about New Zealand is the low population density per mile of beach, forest, woods, hunting and fishing. The first time I ever saw a deer herd was here," Grove added. "It's a marvelous place to live."

Grove now is administrative executive of the Anglican Diocese of Wellington. "Any guy, no matter what his age or condition, can go out and get a job here," said Grove, who is in his 60s.

Grove's wife, Rachel, is from Cincinnati, Ohio, and is "Crazy about New Zealand. She's on the national YWCA board," Grove said.

Grove is careful not to make comparisons between his new and old homes. But he tells Americans who write to him thinking they might emigrate that manufactured goods, such as cars and refrigerators, cost twice as much as they do in the States. And that taxes are high.

Commissioner Is Retained

SLATON — Efforts to unseat City Commissioner Otis Neill in a recall election here Friday were defeated, 247-188. It was probably the greatest number of votes ever cast in a ward election.

Neill, who had played a role in the dismissal of Police Chief Fred Clark last month, said he had no comment following the election.

Neill has been on the commission nine years. Clark had claimed his firing was linked to a personal feud between himself and Neill. "He runs this town," Clark said of Neill.

Robbery Story Being Checked

An apparent strong-arm robbery occurred shortly after midnight at closing time at the American Lounge on the service road north of IS 20 Friday night.

Police received a call 50 minutes later from Karen Ann Trawick, waitress, who told the officers that "the other waitress threatened to beat the hell out of me unless I gave her the receipts."

The other waitress went by two different names Maxwell and apparently left the scene with $262.55, according to information given to the officers by Miss Trawick.

The waitress told police that the other waitress left with a man in a light green car. She thought they might be headed for Abilene or Wichita Falls — or possibly Albuquerque.

Traffic Deaths Are Sharply Up

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Texas traffic accidents have killed 1,498 persons so far this year, compared with 1,195 at this time in 1974, the Department of Public Safety reports.

This is an increase of 25 per cent.

Fatal accidents this year total 1,283, compared with 1,053 for the same period a year ago.

This is an increase of 22 per cent.

Paris Callers Not Flower Children

PARIS (AP) — In one of the greatest jewel thefts of all time, four gunmen posing as delivery boys arrived at the Paris apartment of an American millionairess with a basket of gladiolas and left with jewelry which police estimated to be worth $4 million.

Police gave the following account:

At 10 a.m. Friday, the gunmen turned up at the service entrance to the plush Avenue Foch apartment of Rita Sherman-Steinberg, 54, of New York, whom friends identified as the former wife of Charles Lachman, cofounder of the Revlon cosmetics empire.

The four rang the service entrance bell, identified themselves as delivery boys, and were allowed to enter the building, carrying their basket of flowers to Mrs. Sherman-Steinberg's apartment.

There they burst in on the maid and tied her up. They found Mrs. Sherman-Steinberg asleep and bound her and her friend, Shirley Preissman, also of New York.

After shutting the three women in a small room, the robbers located the jewelry and "several hundred thousand dollars in cash" in various cupboards throughout the apartment and escaped.

The women were found two hours later by Mrs. Sherman-Steinberg's chauffeur.

Police said the stolen jewelry included a 38-carat diamond valued at $1 million and a turquoise and diamond necklace valued at $500,000. They said most of the stolen jewels was insured.

Investigators said Mrs. Sherman-Steinberg had been wearing the jewelry at a party Thursday night and had not had time to return it to the bank before the raiders struck. They said the robbery may have been improvised soon after she was seen wearing the jewelry.

Mrs. Sherman-Steinberg refused to confirm the police estimate of the value of the jewelry or to give details of the robbery. She said it would be "very dangerous — I'm afraid for other people." She did not elaborate.

The largest jewel theft on record occurred on November 13, 1969, in Freetown, Sierra Leone, when an armed gang stole diamonds worth $4.2 million and belonging to the Sierra Leone Selection Trust.

In another burglary on the French Riviera, police said Mrs. Howard B. Johnson, wife of the American restaurant and hotel magnate, lost jewelry valued at $250,000 from her apartment in the Eden Roc Hotel at Antibes.

They said Mrs. Johnson did not realize the jewelry had been stolen until she returned to the United States. The jewels, including an 11-carat diamond, had been left in the apartment Tuesday night. When Mrs. Johnson and her husband returned to the hotel Wednesday, she had her baggage loaded on her aircraft to return to the United States without checking the contents.

Covers Story, Finds Son Dead

DENISON, Tex. (AP) — Mrs. Patricia Welch, a reporter-photographer for the Denison Herald, rushed Friday to the scene of a two-fatality collision. When she got there she discovered one of the dead was her son, Joel, 15.

Mrs. Welch who first heard the report of a van-motorcycle collision over the police radio, went to the scene and immediately recognized the helmet of her son on the ground.

The second victim was identified as Phillip Elk, 14, who was riding with Joel.

Mrs. Welch went into semishock and was taken to Memorial Hospital, where the two boys had been rushed moments after the accident. They were dead on arrival.

Police said a van was attempting to make a left turn when it collided with the motorcycle carrying the two boys.

No One Offers Help To Wrecked Sailors

MIAMI (AP) — "We talked about anything ... everything but 'Jaws,'" says one of four men who spent 18 hours floating and swimming in the ocean after their sailboat capsized.

Steve Woodbrey, 22, was fishing with three other Fort Lauderdale, Fla., men Thursday when their 25-foot sloop ran into a sudden storm about five miles from shore. He said they hung on to the capsized vessel's hull for 90 minutes, but were passed by at least four ships which refused to stop.

"We screamed for help and waved life jackets," Woodbrey recalled Friday. But he said the only reaction came when sailors on a freighter waved back.

"We decided to swim to shore for help because we couldn't get help otherwise," said Arnold Walton, 19, another member of the quartet.

They put on their life preservers, and trid to make it to shore, but the current kept pushing them back.

"We got within a half mile of shore," Walton said. "We swam for 12 hours and gave it everything we had, but we couldn't do it."

"I said 'Hey, we're close. We're close," said Gary Turpen, 22, another member of the ill-fated fishing trip. "I kept saying, 'Aren't we there yet?'"

Dave McConnell, the fourth member of the group, said he was concerned about sharks, the subject of a recently released movie 'Jaws' about shark attacks on swimmers in Long Island, N.Y., waters.

"I kept thinking, this is the Devil's (Bermuda) Triangle," McConnell said. "We're shark bait."

They ended up sleeping in the flimsy life preservers. Walton said he was awakened in the morning by a leaping fish. But he said they never saw any sharks.

Finally, the Coast Guard, which had been called by Woodbrey's worried wife, spotted the abandoned boat off Boca Raton. A Coast Guard plane found the men about 10 miles south, and they were picked up by a helicopter.

"Thanks to you I get to see my 23rd birthday," Woodbrey told the helicopter pilot. "I was beginning to wonder."

Cotton Yields In Area Loom Better Than Norm

Standing cotton acreage in the 25 High Plains counties represented by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc. was estimated June 26 at 2,281,500 by the joint PCG-Lubbock Cotton Exchange Estimates Committee.

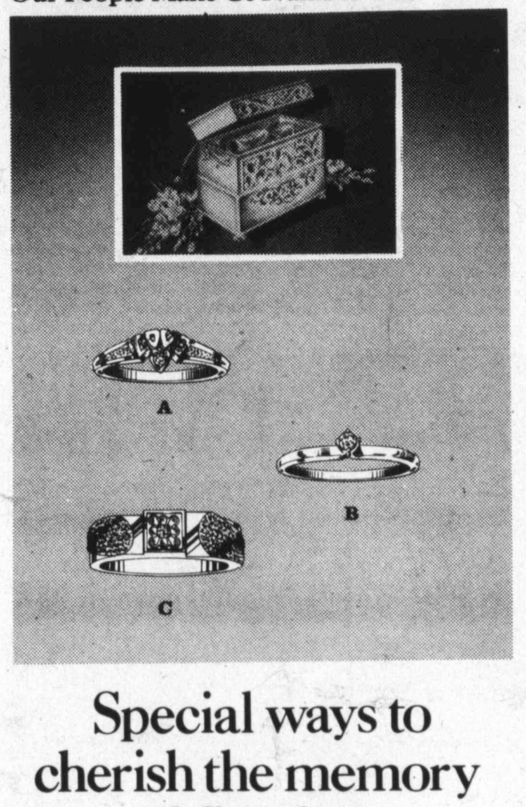

Earlier, private industry estimates, prior to extnesive acreage lost to hail and sand, had guessed from 2.4 to 2.7 million planted acres for the area. Although the joint committee made no official statement on planted acreage, discussion indicated that around 2.5 million acres were planted and that weather had taken out approximately 200,000 acres.

In round figures, the 1975 estimate of 2.3 million acres is less than 5 per cent above the 2.2 million acres reported by the Texas Crop & Livestock Reporting Service as harvested on the Plains in 1974. But individual members of the PCG-LCE committee comment that the odds greatly favor much more than a 5 per cent increase in production over the 1.2 million bales counted in 1974. Yields this year may be better than the 10-year average of 415.5 pounds.

County	1974 Planted Acres	1974 Harvested Acres	1975 Standing Acreage Estimated
Borden	20,300	6,300	20,000

Farm Prices Advance Third Straight Month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Livestock and vegetable farmers continue to receive better prices for their products but grain prices are still dropping, the Crop Reporting Board confirms.

The meat animal index in Friday's monthly farm price report was up 4 per cent for the month ending June 15, largely on the strength of $38.50 per 100 pounds for all beef cattle and $47.30 per hundredweight for hogs.

But the food-grains index was off a sharp 13 per cent with wheat at $2.92 a bushel, 55 cents less than in mid-May and 65 cents less than a year before. Rye was the same at $2.19 a bushel as in June 1974, and rice, unchanged from May at $10.40 per 100 pounds, was $7.10 below a year earlier.

Among the feed grains, with the index off 3 per cent, corn at $2.68 a bushel was up 2 cents from May and 11 cents from June 1974. But that was offset by lower prices for barley, hay, oats and grain sorghum.

Overall, the board said, farm prices recorded their third consecutive monthly increase, going up 2 per cent. That index declined from November until April, when it rose 4 per cent, followed by a 5 per cent rise in May.

Compared to a year earlier, the prices farmers received for their raw products were 10 per cent higher. But, the board said, the prices they paid out for goods and services, interest, taxes and farm wage rates were 1 per cent higher than in May and 11 per cent above a year before.

As an indicator of the inflation rate in the general economy, the board's index of prices paid by farmers for family living items was one-half of 1 per cent higher than mid-May and 10 per cent above June 1974.

The board's ratio between prices received and prices paid, which was even on June 15, 1974, showed farmers two points on the short side of expenses over income this month.

Along with higher cattle prices, potatoes were up sharply, along with tomatoes, cantaloupes and peaches, the board said. Wheat, barley and grapefruit declines partially offset those improvements in the over-all totals.

The commercial vegetables index was up 17 per cent from May, 25 per cent from a year ago. Fruits overall were up 5 per cent from mid-May and 4 per cent from June 1974.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The just-compiled Agriculture Department statistics on the production of manufactured dairy products in 1974 show butter production 5 per cent above last year's record low and cheese output 9 per cent above the previous high of 1973.

But another fiscal year-end report, a summary of federal milk marketing order statistics, testifies to the continued economic crunch for dairy farmers, with tables showing a year-to-year drop of 4,646 in the average number delivering milk to handlers regulated by the orders.

Although there were some breaks in the downward trend, the statistics show 134,328 delivering producers in January 1973 and 127,010 in December 1974.

Nonetheless, 2.93 billion pounds of cheese was double the level of only 15 years ago, with American types accounting for 63 per cent of production. Production of cottage cheese declined, however, by 11 per cent for creamed and 5 per cent for lowfat.

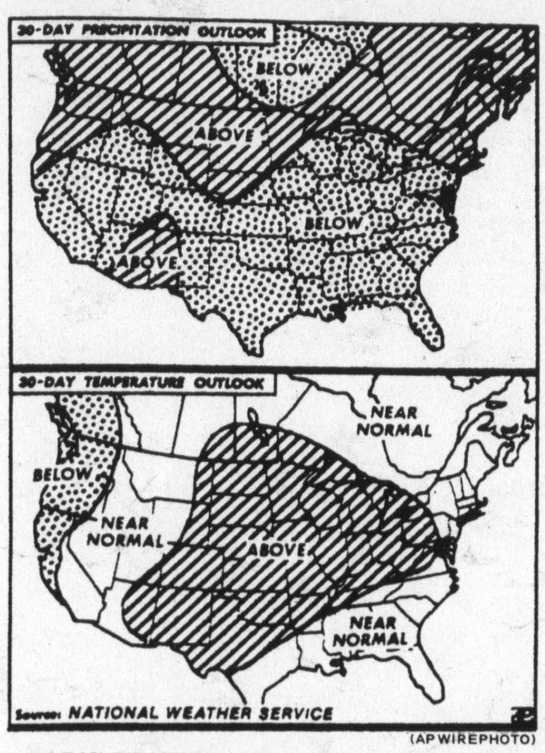

Frozen dairy products — at 1.17 billion pounds — was virtually the same as 1973's peak.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The latest checks by Economic Research Service livestock price experts of spreads for pork and Choice beef show qualified indications that the record retail prices now are beginning to reflect better returns to both producers and supermarkets.

The weekly statistics, which reflect differences in meat values at different stages rather than strict average margins for middlemen, had been showing little additional gain to meatpackers or retailers as live-animal and consumer prices started another climb this spring. Store prices broke the 15-month-old record of $1.50 a pound during the week of May 31. A year before, middlemen were taking a considerably greater share of that retail price.

Net farm value of cattle and hog carcasses continued its steady climb through last week, beef rising 4.8 cents a pound and pork jumping 8.7 cents a pound. Producer-to-packer spreads declined, while the once-lagging packer-to-retailer spread jumped 4.3 cents in a week for beef and 3 cents in two weeks for pork.

Parachute Fails But Diver Lives

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — "I was fighting for my life. I had no desire to die," says a television newsman who plunged 3,000 feet with a useless parachute and lived to tell about it.

"I fought the whole way down. I did everything possible to get the parachute open," Arch Deal, 43, said in a hospital interview Friday.

More than 2,000 spectators watched Sunday as Deal, anchorman for WFLA-TV in Tampa and a veteran of 780 previous jumps, dived from an airplane during a skydiving show at Cypress Gardens and went into a 10-second free fall before pulling his rip cord.

"I looked over my back — normal procedure — to make certain my chute was opening," Deal recalled.

It opened, but in a tangled mess which Deal could not clear. After failing in an effort to free himself from the main chute, Deal said he tried to release his reserve parachute, but it, too, became snarled.

Falling at 120 miles an hour, Deal plunged into an orange grove where his chute caught in a tree and cushioned the impact.

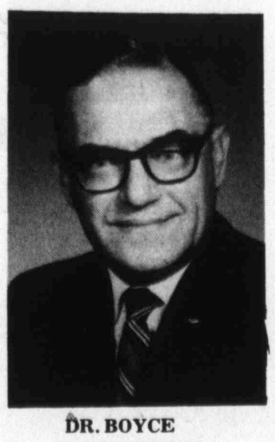

Deal said he never lost consciousness and immediately began trying to move his limbs as he dangled with his feet barely touching the ground.

"I was in terrible pain," he said. "I kept checking out everything so I could tell them it worked. I didn't want anyone to hurt me any further. I was in enough pain."

Deal suffered fractures of his pelvis, neck, spine and ribs but escaped internal damages.

Deal, who celebrated his 42nd birthday by jumping more than 50 times in one day, said he expects to be released from the hospital in about two weeks, and will jump again as soon as he is able.

"I've had main chutes fail on me five times before and the reserve always worked," Deal said. "What happened was so rare, I figure it won't ever happen again."

Abilene Seeks Air Service

ABILENE — Trans Regional Airlines will be among the carriers contacted by the Abilene Chamber of Commerce in connection with possible air service to Midland on a commuter basis.

Bill Baker, chairman of the Abilene chamber's aviation committee, announced Friday that six different "third level carriers" have been contacted.

Baker pointed out that third level carrier is a Civil Aeronautics Board designation for a commuter carrier and is not an indication of quality.

Baker said Rio Airlines of Killeen has a number of Dallas flights from the Waco area and has replaced Texas International in some cases.

He also pointed out that Trans Regional Airlines in Big Spring had been contacted and a meeting arranged for the near future.

TARS Conclave Is Under Way

Several local members of the Teens Aid the Retarded TARS are in Stephenville this weekend attending the TARS State Convention, on the campus of Tarleton State University.

Mary Ament, president; Joan Newton, vice president; Anna Marie Thompson, Charles Thompson, Billy Smith, and Paula Smith local embers, were among the 400 concerned young people from across the state attending the meeting.

The keynote speaker at the convention will be Dr. Phillip Roos, a leader in the field of mental retardation and Executive Director of the National Association for Retarded Citizens. Herman Hoffpauir, president of the Texas Association for Retarded Citizens, will also be featured on the program.

Residents of the Abilene State School will stage a recreational demonstration and participants will attend workshops on such subjects as volunteer orientation, recreation, membership involvement, and career opportunities in the field of mental retardation services.

SLA 'Soldiers' Draw Life Terms On Coast

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — To Russell Little and Joseph Remiro, both self-avowed Symbionese Liberation Army "soldiers," life imprisonment for first-degree murder is "no big deal."

Superior Court Judge Elvin Sheehy sentenced them Friday after denying motions for a new trial. Before imposing sentence, he asked the defendants if they had anything to say in their defense for the 1973 assassination of Oakland School Supt. Marcus Foster.

Defiant, but soft-spoken, Remiro and then Little turned to address the three dozen youthful, denim-clad spectators gathered in the Alameda County courtroom. Many of their remarks were greeted with applause.

"It's supposed to be a big deal," said Remiro, 28. "But it's not really a big surprise. It's a drag. This doesn't excite me. Revolution excites me ...

"It's a gas being called a terrorist. I'm kind of proud of it ... I haven't terrorized many people, just this jolly old joker," he said of Judge Sheehy.

Speaking of the six SLA members slain a year ago in a Los Angeles shootout, Remiro said, "I'm proud of those people. I'm proud I loved them."

Little, 25, a graduate of the University of Florida, also spoke of their dead comrades and said the SLA is "alive and kicking. This conviction has done nothing but increase our forces."

The SLA, which claimed responsibility for the cyanide-bullet murder of Foster, later kidnaped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst. The FBI has said the only known surviving SLA members at large are Miss Hearst, who joined her captors several months after the February 1974 kidnaping, and William and Emily Harris.

The life sentences were the harshest possible verdicts because the murder occurred before the death penalty was restored in California, and it means Little and Remiro can't be paroled for at least seven years.

How to select the right nursing home.

We Americans are not just living longer, we're living more useful, productive lives.

But an increasing number of the chronically ill, the old, the convalescent, need some place other than the hospital and their home where they can receive personal health care, round-the-clock attention and the opportunity to continue to live their lives with meaning.

As your community extended health care facility we want to help you make the right decision. Here are some guidelines: see your family physician to determine the kind of care needed; feel free to visit our facility; ask us for our costs in writing and financial advice about Medicaid; examine all of our facilities; check our food quality; verify our safety features; and finally, observe how our residents spend their time.

There's a lot more to selecting the right nursing home. We want to help. If you have any questions, please call or visit us.

Man's Dream For New Town Near Fruition

LEWISVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Flower Mound New Town with its planned green spaces, playgrounds, industry and schools is Edward Marcus' idea for a community "at one with the environment."

Financial problems stopped its development June 9, but the dream, which started with a piece of "crummy" overfarmed land he bought in 1950, may not be wasted, Marcus says.

"There's not a time in your life when you're 100 per cent successful. But if our present and past efforts influence the course of the future, then that part of my dream won't be damaged," he said.

Flower Mound was to have been the home of 65,000 residents from all income levels by 1992. Five miles west of this North Texas town, 26 families live in Flower Mound, and 75 more have houses under construction at the 6,000-acre project.

MORE PLANNED

Also finished before development stopped were eight tennis courts, a visitor center with a day care center, road cutting and laying of sewer lines. At least 1,000 more acres will be developed, Marcus said.

The dream began to vanish when Marcus and his partner, A.J. Ely, head of Tinnie Mercantile Co., were unable to agree with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) on terms for a $10 million guaranteed loan from HUD.

The developers applied for it five months ago because an $18 million guaranteed loan secured from HUD in 1970 was running short.

Reasons the partners gave for this included the difficulty of piping water from the city of Dallas to Flower Mound, the loss of between $2 million and $8 million because of an 18-month delay starting the project, and HUD's slow pace in approving the development's plans, which delayed lot sales.

Marshall Kaplan, the project's general manager, said some lots were sold before plans were approved.

To secure the $10 million loan, the partnership would have had to put up about $8 million in cash and credit, said Otto Stolz, director of HUD's new communities program. Among the partnership's debts to HUD is $1.4 million in annual interest charges on the original loan.

The partners said they could offer only $4.5 million to secure the loan.

HUD insisted, however, that the partnership meet dollar-for-dollar any HUD loan.

"We have an obligation under the statutes to act in a financially prudent way," Stolz said.

The Government Accounting Office (GAO) studied four New Towns last fall. It said Flower Mound was worth less than $18 million, implying HUD should require stiff securities for loans to the partnership.

Flower Mound economists said the project is worth about $33 million.

TRIED BEFORE

Before funding additional New Towns, HUD will evaluate their financial problems. The concept, made possible under the 1968 New Communities Act, has been tried in 20 other locations.

"Many had weak management, unrealistic financial projections, excessive expenditures and inadequate controls of those expenditures," Stolz said.

Despite the Flower Mound's financial crisis, residents and builders are not too discouraged about the community's future. Peter Chestnut, 37, said the problem is a "disappointment."

"But I really think it's a short-term thing. My house is there, the trees are there, the amenities like the tennis courts are there. They can't disappear into thin air," Chestnut said.

Nancy Knollenberg, who lived near a New Town in Florida, said Flower Mound was her only choice for a homesite when she came to Dallas.

"But even if it folds, it doesn't matter. We have as much as any other development and more," she said.

Community spirit would motivate residents to keep up parks and open spaces if it became necessary, she said.

Builders who have bought land in Flower Mound said they are not yet discouraged. Two houses were sold after the development was halted.

"Most buyers feel that at least they have a subdivision that's better than most in Dallas," said a spokesman for Ryland Group, Inc.

Wildcat Due Near C-City

Tom D. Fowler No. 1-E Morgan, which was completed several months ago as Morgan Ranch field Fusselman producer good for 31 barrels of 50-gravity oil, has recompleted in the Spraberry. The venture made 33 barrels of oil and 30 barrels of water, gas-oil ration 1,200-1 from perforations 5,800-975, fraced with 55,000 gallons.

It is one mile southwest of a depleted Spraberry opener, Kadane No. 1 Flanagan, which rated 140 barrels of oil and 24 of water in May 1971. No. 1-E Morgan is located 540 from the north and 2,177 from the west line section 34-32-1s T&P.

Teal Petroleum No. 1 Teal-Girvin will be a wildcat eight miles southeast of Colorado City. It is a twin to Olson and Flour Bluff No. 1 Girvin drilled to 7,361 with no returned. It had topped the reef at 7,158 and the Ellenberger at 7,385 on an elevation of 2,124. The new best is 660 from the south and 990 from the eastline of section 84-26, T&P.

Also in Mitchell, Amarillo No. 1 Ellwood drilled below 7,560 in lime and shale.

In Sterling County, HMH No.1 Bade was shut in after acidising with 2,000 gallons and fracing with 18,000 gallons from 6,696-804. Marathon No. 1-20 McEntire was taking potential from 6,543-764.

Light Showers Strike In Area

Rain and light hail fell in Big Spring Friday around 7 p.m., but missed most of the rest of Howard County except for the Martin County edge.

Martin County and the western edge of Howard County received showers measuring around .3 of an inch and farmers had the sand diggers out Saturday morning, getting the sand off the top of the young cotton crop.

Big Spring rain gauges showed .15 on the eastern edge, .2 on the western edge and .35 in the center of Big Spring with light hail in parts of town.

Sand Springs and Coahoma had only traces of rain. Vealmoor had a shower that measured around .15. Ackerly, Luther, and Forsan all just watched the clouds go by.

Austin Publisher Loses Court Flght

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals today ordered the publisher of two Austinn Tex., newspapers to recognize its press employes right to vote to enter a new union.

Newspapers Inc., publisher of the Austin American and the Austin Statesman, had refused to enter contract negotiations with Houston Local 43 of the of the Newspaper Printing Pressmen's International Union.

For 70 years, the court said, the publisher had recognized Austin Printing Pressmen and Assistants Union No. 143 as the collective bargaining agent for its pressmen.

Members of the Austin local voted in 1o71 to merge with the Houston local, and the merger was approved by the International Union.

But the following year, when the Houston local notified the Austin publisher that it wished to renegotiate the pressmen's contract, Newspapers Inc. refused to bargain with the Houston group.

The National Labor Relations Board ruled that the Houston local was a 'successor union' and entitled to the same status as the Austin local before the merger. The newspapers appealed, and today the appeals court upheld the NLRB order.

MAP PLANS FOR OLD SETTLERS REUNION
Dwight McCann and Gerald Burgess

Old Settlers To Meet Here Again August 1

The 51st annual meeting of the Howard-Glasscock Old Settlers Reunion has been set for Friday, Aug, 1. Dwight McCann, president, announced Saturday.

Program for the affair, which will center around the Old Settlers pavilion across from the Totem Pole in Comanche Trail Park, will be on the order of an old fashioned picnic.

There will be music, horseshoe pitching, potato race, sack race, and address, and even a tobacco spitting contest. Also on the program will be the memorial services, and the recognition of the eldest woman and man attending, the native settler coming the greatest distance, oldest married couple and the couple married the longest number of years to the same spouse. There also will be awards for best dressed old timer man, woman, boy and girl, and for winners in the old fiddlers' contest.

At noon there will be a barbecue luncheon catered by Don Newson, but the Old Settlers Association plans to have those old timers 65 years and older as guests. Last year there were about 200 of them. Others will buy their luncheon tickets.

Activities will be climaxed by the traditional Old Settlers dance in the evening.

Serving with McCann will be Gerald Burgess, vice president, and Gertrude McCann, secretary. Committees are being named now.

Slides Shown To ABC Club

Dr. Kenneth Patrick, pastor of the First Baptist Church, was the featured speaker at the ABC meeting Friday.

Movie slides were shown by Dr. Patrick's of his Crusade for Baptist Evangelism trip to Korea. The journey was sponsored by the Southern Baptist Convention.

Don Brooks, first vice president, presided at the meeting in the absence of Bill Sneed, president. Sneed,along with outgoing president Wayne Rock, is attending the ABC National Convention in Oklahoma City.

The ABC convenes each week in the second floor dining room of the Settles Hotel.

Bradley Suing After Injury

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gen. Omar N. Bradley, the country's only living five-star general, is suing American Airlines for injuries he said he received in a fall getting off a plane in New York.

Asking for enough money for medical expenses but no specific amount of damages, Bradley said he fell last Jan. 13 and suffered a deep cut in his head, arm and face injuries, convulsions, anxiety and shock.

Texas Home Building Declines By 20 Per Cent

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Home Building declined by 20 per cent from April to May, contrasting with national figures that showed a 9 per cent increase, a University of Texas business researcher reported Saturday.

These statistics were based on the number of residential building permits issued in those two months.

In Texas, the number of residential permits issued in May showed a 31 per cent decrease from May 1974, said Barbara Matetich.

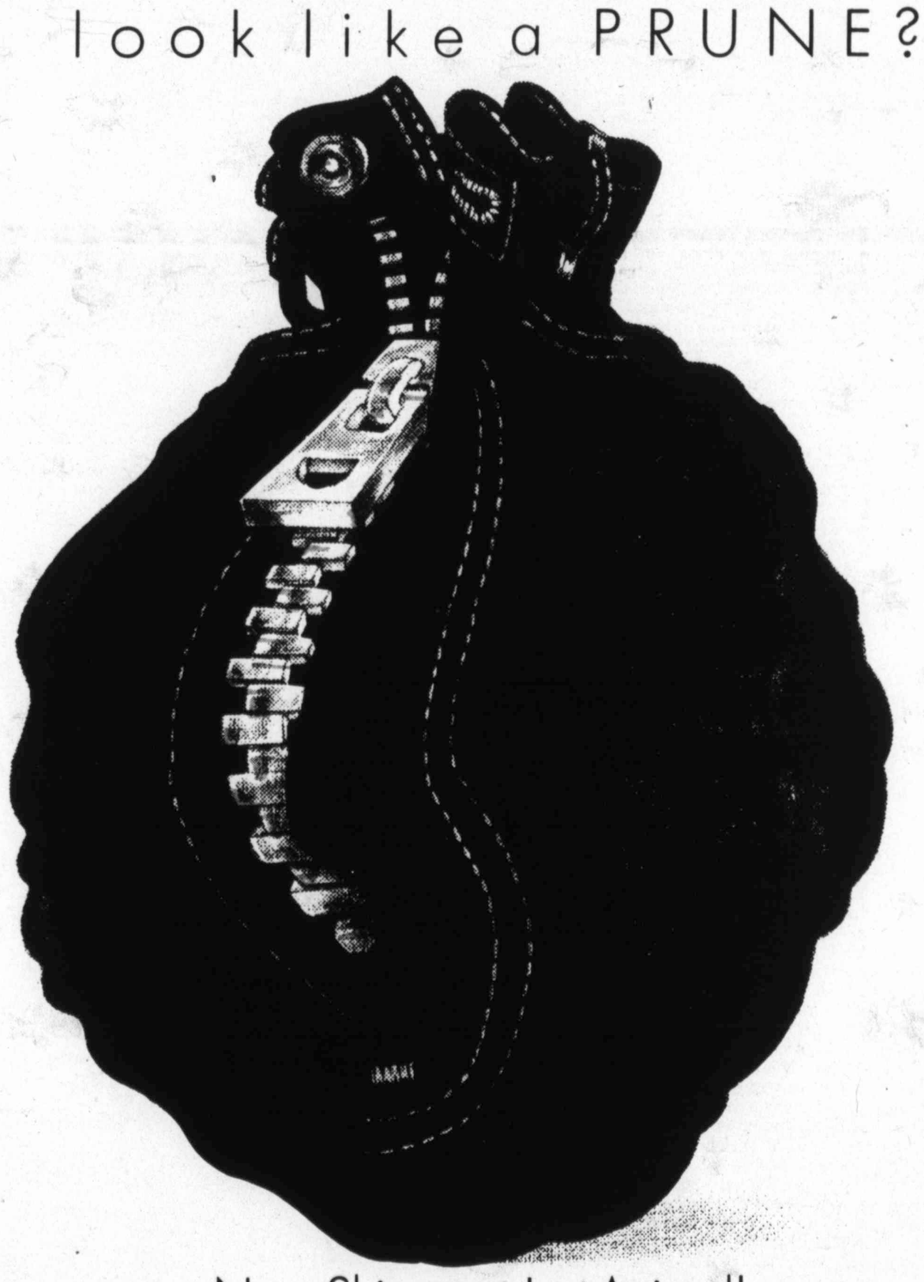

Nonresidential construction authorized in Texas during May fell 23 per cent from April and was down 55 per cent from May 1974.

The researcher said churches and private garages are the only two categories of nonresidential building that increased for the first five months of 1975.

Building dollars per capita in May included Austin $210.45; Houston $175.15; El Paso $171.86; Fort Worth $154.08; Dallas $119.48; and San Antonio $83.85.

LUCKY TO BE ALIVE

Pro Golfers Shaken By Lightning Bolts

OAK BROOK, Ill. (AP) — Lee Trevino and two other lightning-jolted pro golfers are lucky to be alive, their physician said Saturday.

"It is fantastic that three men were struck and all are living," Dr. Paul G. Fredrickson said. "It's quite phenomenal, I think."

Trevino, Jerry Heard and Bobby Nichols were listed in excellent condition in Hinsdale Hospital. All were stunned and shaken by lightning bolts that forced cancellation of Friday's round in the $200,000 Western Open Golf Tournament.

Heard, who was to be released from the hospital Saturday, said he hopes to be able to play when the tournament resumes. Trevino and Nichols will not play.

"Within a week they should be back on the golf course," Dr. Fredrickson said.

"It was a shaky experience for all of them, and I believe Lee was hit harder than any of them," Dr. Fredrickson said. "He was quite shaken up. He had an exit mark on his back and muscle rigidity for some time in his upper back.

"I think they are all fortunate to be here."

Trevino and Nichols were to remain hospitalized until Sunday for observation. They spent Friday night in the hospital's intensive care unit but were transferred to private rooms Saturday.

In the event that weather forces further cancellations, the tournament schedule could be extended as late as Tuesday. After that it would run into a conflict with next week's Milwaukee Open, and this event would be abandoned.

With only one round completed, Australian David Graham held the lead at 65. His six-under-par effort Thursday broke the course record by two strokes. Arnold Palmer was second at 68, with Heard and Gary Wintz next at 69.

Half the field of 156 had finished their second rounds Friday when play was cancelled. All those rounds will be played again in their entirety. Of those who had finished play Friday, none had broken par 142 for two rounds.

"Lee is awful shaken up," said Albert Salinas, his personal manager who spent the night at the hospital with Trevino. "He's stiff and sore all over.

"As soon as he gets out of the hospital, we're going home to El Paso. The doctor here said Lee should check with his personal physician when we get home, just as a safety precaution. After that, it's pretty much a personal thing.

"You know Lee, as soon as he's up and about, he's gonna want to play."

Trevino is scheduled to compete in the British Open in Carnoustie, Scotland, July 9-12.

Twins Shell Texas, 5-3

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Dan Ford knocked in two runs, one of them with a single in a three-run seventh inning and the Minnesota Twins shelled Texas' Gaylord Perry 5-3 Saturday night, handing the right-hander his third consecutive loss since he joined the Rangers.

The Twins combed Perry, 6-12, for 10 hits and chased him in the seventh. Perry has given up 42 hits in the 22 innings he has pitched since coming over from the Cleveland Indians.

Lyman Bostock's triple, Rod Carew's double, a walk, Steve Braun's infield single, Ford's RBI-single and Jerry Terrell's double-play grounder accounted for the three runs that erased a 3-2 Texas lead.

In the fourth, Steve Brye and Seve Braun walked, Ford doubled home a run and another scored on Terrell's infield single.

Astros Fail To Win, 6-3

HOUSTON (AP) — The Atlanta Braves spotted Houston a three-run lead, then rallied with three runs in the seventh and two in the eighth on Marty Perez' tie-breaking two-run single and defeated the Astros 6-3 Saturday night.

Biff Pocoroba drew a leadoff walk from loser Dave Roberts, 4-10, to start the eighth and Rowland Office sacrificed. After a walk to Larvell Blanks, Wayne Grange relieved Roberts and the runners moved up on Mike Lum's groundout. Ralph Garr was given an intentional walk to load the bases but Perez came through with his game-winning single to center.

Cardinals Vs. Tigers For City-Wide Crown

The National Cardinals will go up against the likes of the Texas Tigers for the city-wide Little League Baseball Championship Monday at 8 p.m., at the National League Park.

Final round play was scheduled for Saturday but was moved back two days as the Texas Tigers vs Cards semifinal contest was postponed Friday because of rain.

Moisture failed to keep the other semifinal game from being played Friday with the Cardinals socking the International Sabres, 12-2.

In the rescheduled contest Saturday, the Tigers took care of the Texas Cardinals, 6-4.

Scott Moore twirled a four-hitter and smacked a grand slam homer to lead the Cards toward capturing flag rights. Moore's teammate Mark Warren unleased a four-bagger.

The Cards received a scare in the early frames when Moore was beaned by a Sabre line-drive. Play was called for several minutes but Moore recovered his momentum to remain on the hill.

The Tigers pulled the game out of the fire in the bottom of the sixth on Jamie Renteria's two-run homer. Dickie Wrightsil picked up the win.

ALI SOUNDS OFF

'No Man Can Beat Me'

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Muhammad Ali defends the world heavyweight championship here Tuesday morning in what is billed as "The fight of a lifetime."

And, it is the first professional fight in the life of many Malaysians. There hasn't been a pro fight here in 30 years.

It also could be Ali's last fight. But the champion's announcement last Monday that he was 99 per cent sure he was going to retire has been greeted with skepticism by most Ali watchers. There remains speculation he will fight Joe Frazier for a third time.

London bookmakers have made Ali a 3-1 favorite to accomplish his second victory over the 25-year-old Briton who is the European champion. Ali beat Bugner on a 12-round decision Feb. 14, 1973, 20 months before he regained the world title by knocking out George Foreman in eight rounds in Zaire.

"Ali is not better than the Muhammad Ali of 2½ years ago," maintains Andy Smith, Bugner's manager. "But the Joe Bugner of today is better than the Joe Bugner of 2½ years ago."

"Joe Bugner doesn't have the talent to beat me," says Ali. "No man in the world can beat me for another five years if I wish to continue fighting."

A crowd of more than 30,000, paying from about $15 to $30 is expected at the outdoor Merdeka Stadium for Ali's 16th title fight, which is scheduled to start at 9:30 a.m. It will be seen on closed-circuit television beginning at 10 p.m., EDT, June 30, in the United States.

There also will be two other scheduled 15-round title fights on the closed-circuit program although they will not be seen here. They are light heavyweight champion Victor Galindez of Argentina against Jorge Ahumada of Argentina and middleweight champ Carlos Monzon of Argentina against Tony Licata of New Orleans.

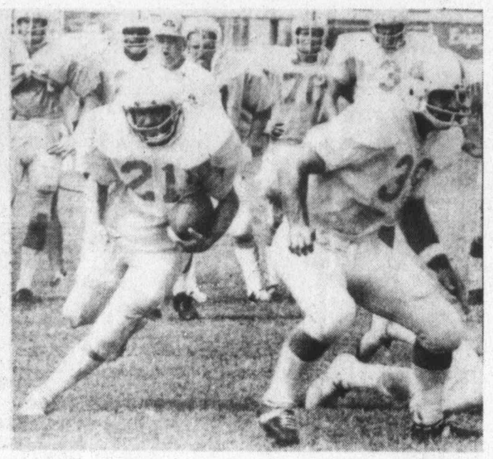

The Ali-Bugner fight appears to be a battle of stamina and age.

Temperatures are expected to be in the 80s with humidity even higher at fight time. Smith figures each fighter will lose from 10 to 12 pounds if the bout goes 15 rounds.

Bugner appears to be in superb condition while Ali looks to be in better shape than he was when he beat Chuck Wepner and Ron Lyle in his last two fights. But Bugner, at 25, is eight years younger than the champion.

"I'm at the dangerous age but I'm not too old yet," says Ali.

Neither fighter holds a physical edge. Bugner is 6-foot-4, an inch taller than Ali, and each has an 80-inch reach. They also are close in weight.

Co-Favorites

LONG POND, Pa. (AP) — Wally Dallenbach, A.J. Foyt, Gordon Johncock and Bobby Unser wound up as co-favorites in a poll of drivers, mechanics and officials for Sunday's 500-mile race at Pocono International Raceway.

Johncock, who will lead the field of 33 cars, and Dallenbach will be driving George Bignottiprepared Wildcats. Foyt in his own Coyote and Unser in Dan Gurney's Eagle complete the first foursome ever named in the poll.

Ashe's Bid Continues

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Arthur Ashe overcame a crop of volleying errors Saturday and reached the quarter-finals of the Wimbledon tennis championships for the first time in six years, but Tony Roche ended fellow Australian Ken Rosewall's bid to win the only major title to elude him.

The 31-year-old Ashe finished strongly for a 6-2, 5-7, 9-8, 6-3 triumph over Graham Stilwell of Britain while Roche the No. 16 seed on the comeback after injury, upset the second-seeded Rosewall 6-3, 6-8, 8-6, 6-1.

There was an air of sadness on the center court as the 40-year-old Rosewall, looking weary and dispirited, made his exit, The little wizard has been a finalist here four times in 20 years but never a winner.

Ashe, the No. 6 seed, was the third American to make the men's quarter-finals. Defending champion Jimmy Connors and 11th-seeded Roscoe Tanner advanced on Friday.

All seven remaining women's seeds also advanced Saturday, including defending champion Chris Evert and five-time winner Billie Jean King.

Connors next plays Raul Ramirez of Mexico, Tanner will meet Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, Ashe will face Bjorn Borg, the 19-year-old Swede, and Roche will meet Tom Okker of The Netherlands.

Ramirez, seeded eighth, overran American Cliff Richey 6-2, 6-3, 6-2, and Vilas toiled for more than 2½ hours to beat Sandy Mayer of Wayne, N.J., 26, 7-5, 9-8, 6-3. Okker brushed past Alex Metreveli of the Soviet Union 6-0, 6-2, 8-6.

Ashe played some fine tennis against Stilwell. But his victory was no walkover, and at one stage he faced a crisis.

The Englishman, 29, has struck his best form since he led Britain to the inter-zone finals of the Davis Cup in 1969. After being outclassed in the first set, he came back with a gritty display to win the second.

In that set, Stilwell won four service games in a row without dropping a point. The American was looking shaky, and his erratic forehand volleying threatened to cost him the match.

Stilwell made no impression on Ashe's service until the last game of the second set. Then Ashe double-faulted and, on set point, made a bad forehand volley. He failed with three more forehand volleys in the second game of the third set; Stilwell had four breaks in that game but couldn't cash in on them.

Ashe hung on grimly, and in the long fifth game, he broke service with a cunning short return and lured Stilwell into a half-volleying error.

Midland Places 2 On 4A Squad

HOUSTON (AP) — Midland Lee placed two players on the Class 4A Texas High School Baseball Coaches Association All-State team released Saturday.

First baseman Bobby Stevens and shortstop Brett Blackwell were the Midland Lee members of the team.

Class 3A state champion Brenham placed two men on the Class 3A first team and one the second team. First team members from Brenham were catcher Wayne Schmidt and shorstop Mark Kuecker.

Second baseman Robert Alderete of Snyder was selected on the 3A team.

Giants Catch Dodgers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Marc Hill chased Los Angeles starter Doug Rau with a game-tying single in the seventh inning and Bobby Murcer followed with a run-scoring pinch single off relief ace Mike Marshall, giving the San Francisco Giants a 2-1 victory Saturday over the slumping Dodgers.

Rau, 7-7, entered the seventh with a two-hitter and a 1-0 lead, but Chris Speier doubled with one out and pinch hitter Chris Arnold drew a two-out walk.

Hill singled on Rau's next pitch, and Marshall relieved when Jake Brown was sent up to bat for winning pitcher John Montefusco, 5-3, who had limited the Dodgers to five hits. Murcer replaced Brown and singled on a 3-2 pitch, scoring Arnold from second base.

The setback was the fourth in a row for the Dodgers, who started the day 5½ games behind Cincinnati in the National League West. The last three losses have been to the Giants.

NATHAN POSS
Lifeguard At Webb NCO Pool

By CLARK LESHER

Former Big Spring High standouts Rondel Brock and Nathan Poss will provide a helping hand in the Rice Owls quest in shaking up the SWC standings this fall.

Rice finished sixth in the league last season with a 2-8-1 record. "Big Al" Conover will be entering his fourth season as Owl head coach.

Brock, 6-4, 235-pound senior, will be out to unseat junior Jeff Rose, 6-4, 255-pounds, at the defensive tackle position.

Both Brock and Poss were understudies to Jody Medford last season, who graduated and signed on with the Houston Oilers. A two-year letterman at Rice, Brock was awarded "Athletic of the Year" honors at Big Spring High.

The husky led played on the Blue team that lost to the Gray, 14-8, in Rice's spring drill finale. Rondel says "Big Al" is optimistic about Owl chances of finishing strong this fall.

"If the team can make it through the non-conference games in good shape, I believe we should have a banner year," said Brock. "We had a good spring and all the younger players are improved."

Vanderbuilt and Mississippi State will replace Notre Dame and Montana on the 1975 Rice schedule.

The Owls lost only five seniors off both the offensive and defensive units. Rondel is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Brock. While school is out for the summer months, Rondel works for his dad who has the local Ford agency.

Rondel has one younger sister, Kim, who will be a senior at Big Spring High.

Poss, 6-0, 183-pound junior, will be competing with three other Owls for the starting defensive cornerback role.

Last season, Nathan excelled in punt and kick assignments. He was a member of the winning Blue team in spring drills and intercepted a late fourth quarter pass to wrap up the game.

Poss was second Owlet and fifth all SWC in JV ball in receiving two years ago with nine for 108 and a TD. He made All-South Plains and All-District at Big Spring High.

Nathan like Rondel felt Notre Dame was the most memorable game played last season. Rice and the Fighting Irish were tied 3-3 with only two minutes left on the fourth period clock. Notre Dame drove for a TD to win though Rice had six-points called back.

Nathan is impressed with "Big Al's" controversal style of tutoring. "Conover is young enough, 35, to understand the youth of today, but old enough to help one accept responsibility," he added.

The robust Rice chief has grabbed the headlines or the air space to let the world know that the Owls and Al Conover are "where the action is, and ready to take on the world!"

Conover has thrown chairs, turned carthweels, handed out popsicles, and taken his players to the woods the night before a game for "talk sessions" to get psyched up. He is colorful, clever and unpredictable.

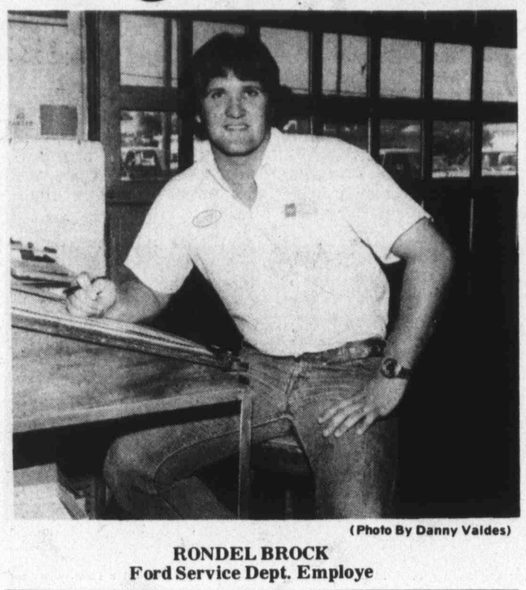

Conover admits some of his stunts inevitably rub some people the wrong way, there is a "method of madness" but in the long runs feels the Owls will benefit from his flamboyant antics.

Nathan and Rondel were recruited by John Linville, now head coach at Cameron College, Lawton, Okla. The two agree there is both advantages and disadvantages of playing on astro-turf. Burns are most noticeable on the synthetic surface. The Owls play one game in the Astro-Dome with the rest sited for Rice Statium.

Both athletes received their high school football training under Clovis Hale and enrolled at Rice with a B average in accordance with Rice's high entrance standards.

While school is not in session, Nathan serves as a lifeguard at the NCO Pool, Webb AFB. He is majoring in commerce and religion and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Delmer Poss. Delmer works for Gamco and is a well-known basketball official. Nathan's mother teaches piano.

Nathan has two younger brothers, Del and Mark. Del will be a sophomore at Big Spring High and Mark, a freshman.

Walt Sparks Yanks

BOSTON (AP) — Walt Williams ripped a tie-breaking double between the legs of Boston third baseman Rico Petrocelli with one out in the eighth inning Saturday, sparking the New York Yankees to an 8-6 victory over the Red Sox.

The triumph put the Yankees back into first place in the American League's East Division.

The decisive run off reliever Reggie Cleveland, 4-4, offset a slugging show by Boston's Carl Yastrzemski, who drove in four runs with his eighth and ninth homers of the season and also added a double.

Yastrzemski gave the Red Sox a 2-1 lead with a solo home run in the fourth inning and blasted a game-tying three-run shot in the sixth that chased New York starter Doc Medich. The Yankees had taken a 6-2 lead by knocking out Boston starter Bill Lee during a fiverun fifth-inning rally.

New York, which dropped the first two games of the fourgame series, moved back in front of the Red Sox by half a game in the nationally televised contest.

Dick Tidrow, who relieved Medich in the sixth, boosted his record to 5-0 by blanking the Red Sox on four hits following Yastrzemski's second home run which came with none out in the sixth following singles by Denny Doyle, Cecil Cooper and Rick Burleson. The outburst came after Medich had struck out five consecutive batters.

New Issue Looms

NEW YORK (AP) — When the National Football League Players Association and the NFL Management Council get around to talking contract again, they'll have a new issue to wrestle with, courtesy of the 26 clubs.

The owners voted Friday to play the 1975 season with 43-man active rosters and no taxi squads. That is either an increase or a reduction in size, depending on how you wish to interpret it.

For the decade from 1964 until 1973, the NFL played with 40-man teams, so in that sense, the 43-man limit voted Friday at the conclusion of the owners' meetings represents an increase.

But last year, after the Players Association strike disrupted the training camps, the league adopted an emergency 47-player limit with no taxi squads, so in that sense, Friday's action is a decrease.

Recognizing the likely conflicts the 43-man limit will create, the league instructed its Management Council to clear any aspects of bargaining required by the decision with the Players Association.

The 43-man figure was not reached easily. Commissioner Pete Rozelle said the owners had devoted about 19 hours over three days of meetings trying to reach an acceptable number.

"I guess we spent as much time, perhaps more, on this as any subject since realignment," he said. "There was a wide difference of opinion among knowledgable football people— coaches—about the number of players needed to play a quality football game. A player limit also has to consider injuries. Most of the numbers debated realistically were between 40 and 45. Most felt that 43 was the right number."

Based on the $36,000 average NFL salary reported two years ago, the reduction of four players would save each NFL team approximately $154,000.

The league also agreed on a strict rule for players put on the injured reserved list during the season. Injured reserved players can not be recalled during the season. After the season, three injured reserved players may be restored but any others would be placed on no-recall waivers.

Player limit cutdown dates were also adopted. Teams must be at 60 players by Aug. 12, 55 a week later, 49 by Sept. 9 and 43 by Sept. 15.

Tiger-Cubs Out To Avenge Loss

The Big Spring Tiger-Cubs will be out to avenge a road loss to Ojinaga, Mexico, entertaining the same club today in a single contest at 1:30 p.m., at Steer Park.

Ojinage struck for 10 runs in the fourth frame to stop the Big Spring representatives, 15-7, in a game delayed by heat in the south of the border town last Sunday.

Willie Williams, unalbe to pitch last Sunday because of an injured knee suffered in a swimming pool, is expected to toe the rubber for Toto Garcia's Tiger-Cubs.

Abel Ramirez will man his usual position behind home plate when the Tiger-Cubs take to the field. The host's team record is now 2-3.

Against Ojinage last Sunday, Ernie Garcia and Cruz Rios starred for the Tiger-Cubs. Garcia was four for five at the plate, picking up a double and three singles. Rios singled twice and was two for three.

Cardinals Trip Over To Odessa

Unable to remember when their last loss was recorded, the remarkable Big Spring Cardinals will trip over to Odessa today for a pair of games with the Stars.

Game time is 1:30 p.m., at Hays Stadium.

The Cardinals are flying high, working on a 13-game winning streak.

The scheduled games with Midland were cancelled as the Colts had to honor tournament commitments at Ft. Stockton.

Last Sunday at Steer Park, the Cards polished off Del Rio, 7-6. Orlando Olague flipped a three-hitter and Joe Martinez singled in Jody Flores in the bottom of the seventh to win the game.

The scheduled second game with Del Rio was stopped after one inning with the host club being awarded a 9-0 forfeit.

Frank Rubio, Card manager, plans to start Jody Flores, 6-1, in the opener. The second game mound chores will go to either Olague, 8-2 or Frankie Rubio. Rubio is back with the Cards after close to a month's absence.

The Cardinals probable lineup: Feliz Martinez, shortstop; Sammy Rodriquez, second; Pat Martinez, Jr. first; Andy Gamboa, centerfield; Billy Pineda, third; Joe Martinez, catcher; Tommy Tune, leftfield; and Joe Cadenhead, rightfield.

John Morelion is no longer with the Cards, joining forces with the Senior Kiwanis of the Teen-Age League.

Cubs Shut Out Bucs

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bill Bonham's six-hit pitching and George Mitterwald's second-inning home run gave the Chicago Cubs a 1-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Saturday.

Mitterwald, a last-minute replacement in the starting line up for Andy Thornton at first base, hit his third homer of the season off Jim Rooker, 5-4, who allowed only six hits. The ball cleared the 375-foot mark in left-center field.

Bonham, 8-5, walked two, struck out five and was in serious trouble only in the fourth inning when Willie Stargell drew a leadoff walk and Richie Hebner singled him to second. But Richie Zisk flied out and Manny Sanguillen rapped into an inning-ending double play.

Bonham gave up two-out singles to Rennie Stennett and Ed Kirkpatrick in the fifth but got Al Oliver to ground out.

Startling Comeback Recorded

The Big Spring Senior Rustlers of Miss Softball America, made a startling comeback from a 25-0 setback a week ago to lose only 24-22, Friday night to host Odessa East.

The final score was first tabulated as a tie but reversed as result of Odessa being the official scorekeeper.

The game scheduled to start at 8 p.m. was delayed for one-hour to permit another game to be completed. The two-hour time limit agreed-on before game time was changed at 10:55 p.m., so as to complete five full frames.

Cindy Upton of the Rustlers blasted a triple, knocked in three runs and scored one run.

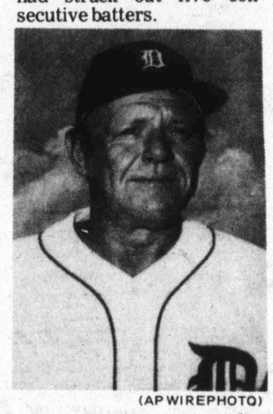

Odessa Adds Tighe, Leach

ODESSA — Joe Tighe and Ron Leach have been added to the Odessa High School coaching staff.

Tighe, a coach at Odessa Hood Junior High four years, will serve as a junior varsity football assistant and will be head track coach. He attended Baylor. He replaces Ken Pair as track coach.

Leach, assistant coach at Kermit for three years, becomes head junior varsity football and basketball coach.

Leach played football under Joe Kerbel at West Texas State. Tighe's starting salary will be $14,450 while Leach will be paid $13,070.

TO BE SERVED ARREST WARRANT — A reporter for the Baltimore Evening Sun swore out an arrest warrant early Saturday for Detroit Tigers Manager Ralph Houk, above, after Houk allegedly assaulted him minutes before Friday's Orioles-Tigers game in Baltimore. Police said they would attempt to serve him the warrant sometime Saturday.

Two Share Golf Lead

TORONTO (AP) — Judy Mesiter, a tour sophomore who never has finished higher than "16th or 17th," fired a course record 68 to grab a share of the second-round lead in a $60,000 Ladies Professional Golf Association tournament Saturday.

The 28-year-old native of Erie, Pa., who has career earnings of about $3,000, had six birdies to go along with a bogey on the 18th for a 36-hole score of 141 on St. George's 6,265-yard layout.

She shared the lead with tour veterans Sandra Haynie and Jan Ferraris. Miss Haynie fired a 70 Saturday and Miss Ferraris, who has only two bogeys in the tournament to date, also shot 70.

LOUISIANA DRAW

Meisenheimer, Rizzo Marcum, Rathert Win

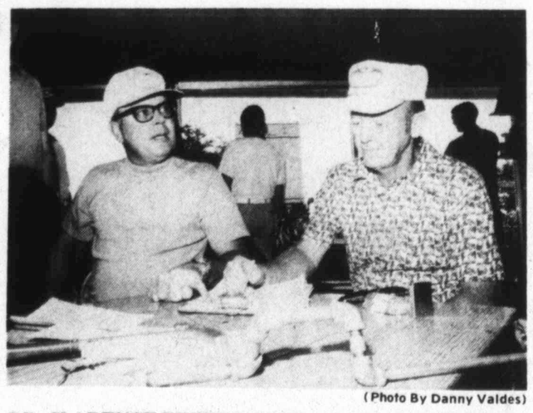

The team of Lt. Chuck Rizzo, Dr. Carl Marcum, Lt. Williams Rathert and Col. Robert Meisenheimer won first place honors in the Century Club-Webb AFB Louisiana Draw Golf Tournament Saturday at the Big Spring Country Club.

The winning foursome fired 58 for 18 holes. Rizzo, Rathert and Meisenheimer are from Webb AFB. Meisenheimer is Webb's base commander. Marcum is a Century member.

Second place was awarded to the group of Col. Robert Owens, Don Reynolds, Jasper Atkins and Lt. Col. James Halvorson. They put together a total of 59.

Both Owens and Halvorson are from Webb AFB, with Owens being wing commander. Reynolds and Atkins are Century members.

Rizzo putted the closest to a hole. Forty-eight entries were received divided into foursomes. Presentations of awards were made Saturday night at the dinner and dance following the one-day tournament.

Mets Mop Phillies

NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Kingman's tie-breaking two-run single in the fifth inning and rookie Randy Tate's four-hit pitching led the New York Mets to a rain-delayed 5-2 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Saturday.

Gene Clines started the fifth with an infield single off Steve Carlton, 6-6, who had won four in a row but suffered his first defeat since May 19.

Clines took second on a balk and went to third on Felix Millan's fly ball. Carlton walked Cleon Jones and Joe Torre to load the bases and fanned Rusty Staub for the second out, but Kingman then lined his tie-breaking hit to left field.

The Mets, winning their fourth game in a row, added a run in the sixth on a leadoff walk, consecutive errors by shortstop Larry Bowa and first baseman Dick Allen and Clines' sacrifice fly.

Tate, 3-6, walked four and struck out nine in pitching his first complete game in his 12th major league start.

Already in session is judo for individuals eight years and up. The class meets Tuesday and Thursday and will continue through Aug. 14. Openings are still available. Ray Williams, black belt holder, is the instructor.

Rizzo Nails Spot

Chuck Rizzo closed with two birdies on the final two holes of play to nip Jim Musgove for the top spot in qualifying for the ATC Golf Tornament at Lackland AFB, July 25-28.

Taking a one stroke lead into the final round of play last Sunday, Rizzo fired a two under par 70 for a two round total of 146 to pace base par-busters in the scramble for four berths on the Webb Air Force Base golf team.

"I had a pretty consistent round," says the former Indiana University (Pennsylvania) golfer. "I hit 17 greens in regulation and took 34 putts. I guess that's the way the game is supposed to be played.

Rizzo dropped a 12-footer for a bird on the next to last hole and reached the green in two on the 545-yd, par 5, finishing hole. He two-putted from 30 feet for his final birdie and a one stroke margin over Musgove.

"I'm just glad I qualified," says young Musgove, who was leading the clubhouse when Rizzo made his charge. A member of three state high school champion teams in Kentucky, Musgove also shot a final round 70 for a 147 total. The new Webb arrival, who has turned down three college scholarship offers including one to the University of Kentucky, should be a strong addition to the Webb foursome.

Strong winds plagued the golfers last Saturday, but Jim Halverson shot a 73 and coasted to a 149 total to nail down one of two spots on the Webb Seniors Division team. Russ Conn fired a 157 for the other slot.

Dade Still Slugs Well In Circuit

Paul Dade, El Paso's slugging sensation, continues to dominate Texas batting, slugging and runs batted in near the end of June of the Double-A circuit's 1975 season.

Hitting at a .355 clip and slugging .705, Dade trails homerun leader Jack Clark of Lafayette, by only one. Dade has poked a dozen round trippers and features a RBI total of 53.

Most of the other offensive pace-setting marks are held by Dade's teammates. Carlos Lopez is first in hits, 83, total bases, 121 and triples, seven.

Bill Flores also of the Diablos heads the league delegation in stolen bases, 29. Flores' teammate John Verhoeven has the lowest league earned run average, a 1.90 mark.

Midland's Bernie Beckman shows the league most wins, eight and Beckman's pitching partner, leadsin strikeouts, 70.

Evert Easily Moves Ahead

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Chris Evert, the defending champion, easily crushed Britain's Lindsay Beaven 6-3, 6-4 Saturday to move into the quarterfinals of the Wimbledon tennis championships.

However, another American, Rosemary Casals, lost to Virginia Wade, Britain's top hope in the women's singles, 6-4, 4-6, 6-4.

The weather had cooled, but another big crowd poured into the grounds of the All-England Club.

AWARD PRESENTED — Jack Swearingen, left, received a special award from Mrs. Shirley Beauchamp, American Little League president, for services rendered this season.

BALL PARK ANNOUNCER

Swearingen Honored By American League

Jack Swearingen was honored for his service to Big Spring youth this week when the American League of the Little League presented him with a special plaque.

"What a surprise," Swearingen stated after Mrs. Shirley Beauchamp, league president, made the presentation.

Swearingen goes out to the Little League park right from work during Little League season and has ever since he got into the vounteer program when his son Warren was 10. Warren is now nearly 18 and Jack is still there.

He helped coach the first year and then found out the league needed a score keeper. He kept score and then began to announce to game. He loves it and has become a familiar voice on the Little League microphone.

While the league is scraping the bottom of the bucket hunting volunteers, Swearingen comes because he likes it.

"If I can help a few boys stay out of trouble for a few hours each day during the summer months, I feel like I have accomplished something in a Christian way," Swearingen states.

He talks to the boys and knows most of them by name. By the end of each season, he knows them all.

"Kids love Little League," Swearingen states. "The parents often tend to forget their kids and treat them like pros. Parents expect perfection and also are quick to blame a coach if ther child is not the star. They blame the umpires for the calls and the kids when they make mistakes. All parents aren't like that, but a lot of them are."

During the week, he works as a parts specialist in the Civil Engineer Division at Webb AFB. He has worked there 21 years, coming here with the civil service, from Hot Springs, Ark.

Swearingen added, "We need to remember what it's all about. It's to help the kids develop physically and mentally and help them to have fun."

To Swearingen, "Little League is fun." And he wants it to be that way for everybody.

SPLIT PAIR

T-Ranger Fist Fighting Erupts

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — That fist fighting in the locker room might work wonders to fire up the World Champion Oakland Athletics but all it did for the Texas Rangers Friday night was get them a split with the Minnesota Twins.

Texas' Steve Hargan, backed by home runs from Cesar Tovar and Tom Grieve, blanked the Twins 2-0 in the opener of a doubleheader but fell to Minnesota 8-5 in the nightcap.

Minnesota rallied for three runs after two were out in the second game, with Dan Ford delivering a two-strike, two-run single.

Earlier in the evening, Texas superstar Jeff Burroughs' frustrations erupted into clubhouse warfare with Ranger Manager Billy Martin having to personally quell the disturbance.

Burroughs sat on the bench in both games of the doubleheader which saw Texas defeat the Twins in the opener although Bert Blyleven, making his first start in three weeks because of a muscle tear in his arm, allowed but three hits.

The slugging Burroughs, benched for lack of hitting and irritated over criticism by an anonymous teammate that he was loafing in the outfield, exchanged words and punches with teammate Joe Lovitto with no damage done.

Later, Burroughs called infielder Jim Fregosi "a back stabber" and Martin hurled himself between the pair to keep blows from being thrown.

A story in the Dallas Times Herald Thursday quoting several unnamed players triggered Burroughs' ire. The players said Burroughs had "dogged it and wasn't hustling" in a Wednesday night game at Chicago.

"There are two or three players on this team who are backstabbers and I'm tired of it," said Burroughs.

No blows were landed in the Lovitto-Burroughs scuffle and the two later exchanged handshakes.

Minutes later Fregosi walked in and Burroughs said "there's the backstabber right there." Only Martin's quick action saved a second fist fight.

Burroughs, the American League's most valuable player in 1974, was benched Friday night on the basis of a 5-for-58 slump.

"I don't think there's any way I can play for this team," Burroughs said. "Not after the fans read this. They'll shoot me. Even now they're on me about everything hit out there (right field)."

Malone Wins Lefthanders

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP) — Bobby Malone of Fort Worth, Tex., overcame a threestroke deficit going into the final round and won the 40th annual National Association of Lefthanded Golfers Tournament with a one-under-par 71 Friday at the Myrtle Beach Golf Club.

Malone, 50, of the Shady Oaks Country Club in Fort Worth, paired a 71 with previous scores of 72-77-71 for a 291 total. He edged Ken Weavil of Winston Salem, N.C., by one stroke.

Bugner Scales Five Over Ali

KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — British challenger Joe Bugner Saturday weighed in at 230, five pounds heavier than world heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali for their championship fight.

The ceremony in the ring at Merdeka Stadium where they will meet Tuesday was marked by Malay tradition and Ali's mouth.

Manager-trainer Andy Smith declared his fighter's weight "just right. I would imagine by the day of the fight he will be down to 226 or 227 pounds."

The boxers were escorted into the stadium by men dressed as Malay warriors, carrying imitation palm trees called "bunga mangam." Drummers were also in the procession.

Efforts to keep the ring clear of superfluous people ended in failure when Drew "Bundini" Brown shoved a security guard and followed Ali through the ropes. Brown is one of the champion's cornermen. Ali's brother, Rahman, also shoved his way into the ring.

Bill Bugner, Joe's brother and one of his handlers, forced his way through.

The morning weigh-in was arranged three days before the first heavyweight championship fight in this part of the world to suit television purposes in the United States. Both camps expected their men to enter the ring lighter than they were Saturday.

At 225, Ali was the heaviest he has ever been for a title match, although he has weighed more for non-title fights.

Both boxers planned road-work and several more gym sessions.

The bout is expected to be heavy with Malay ceremony. One side of the ring has been cleared of the usual cluster of officials, news and others in honor of the country's supreme ruler or Yang Di-Pertuan Agung.

Braves Pelt Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — Atlanta pitcher Jamie Easterly allowed one Houston Astro run to score on a double steal and balked home another run so he's headed for the lowest rung of the Braves farm club ladder, right?

Wrong. Aside from the two mistakes, both attributed to inexperience, Easterly scattered six hits over seven innings and picked up his first major league pitching victory as the Braves pelted the Astros 7-4 Friday night.

"I made a couple of dumb mistakes," said Easterly, a native of Crockett, Tex., who had 32 hometown folk cheering him on. "On the double steal, I completely forgot about (Enos) Cabell being on third base.

"I guess the play is designed as a surprise and it certainly worked. I was surprised."

The Braves gave Easterly plenty of help however, including a five-run, six-hit explosion that chased Houston starter Larry Dierker in the fifth inning.

Marty Perez' sacrifice fly scored the first run of the game in the third inning for the Braves before Houston went ahead in the fourth when Cabell stole home on the double steal and Rob Andrews hit a runscoring sacrifice fly.

But the Braves, trying to stay ahead of the Astros in the battle for last place in the National League Western Division, blew Dierker out in the fifth.

Dusty Baker's two-run single highlighted the inning and other runs scored on Ralph Garr's grounder and singles by Mike Lum and Vic Carrell.

Firecracker Entry Roster Now Includes Over 100

The entry list now includes over 100 riders for the Hi-Noon Optimist Firecracker $5,000 Moto-Cross races scheduled for July 5 and 6.

Located one-mile north of IS 20 and Farm Road 700, the track is considered one of the best in the Lone Star State. Redesigned for the Firecracker races, the area will include an enlarged parking area plus additional restrooms.

Final entry tabulation according to Ray Weir, director, is expected to surpass 300 before the green flag appears.

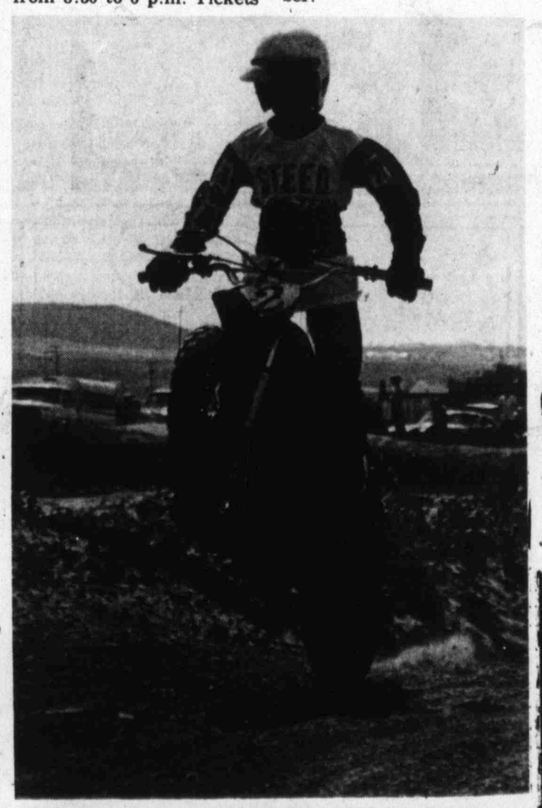

Already signed-up include Big Spring cyclists plus entrants from San Antonio, EL Paso, Austin, Houston, Dallas-Fort Worth, Amarillo, Watonga and Okalhoma City, Okla., and Carlsbad and Albuquerque, N.M.

Reporters and photographers from Cycle News Central, Austin and Gulf Coast Cycle News, Houston, have confirmed they will be present to cover the event.

The Firecracker spectecular will be the second largest race ever held in West Texas. The two-day running is designed to attract the self-sponsored and the dealer-sponsored riders, rather than the factory-listed cyclist.

Trophies will be awarded to 100 novice and intermediate contestants, first through 10 in each class. The cash race purse is to be dispensed in 90 different sections.

The concession stand will be in operation both days from 8:30 to 6 p.m. Tickets are now available from a motorcycle dealer or Hi-Noon Optimist Club member.

FIRECRACKER CONTESTANT — Roy Lee Burklow of Big Spring will be competing for top honors in the mini-bike class of the Firecracker $5,000 Moto-Cross set for July 5 and 6.

from the CARROLL RIGHTER INSTITUTE

SUNDAY, JUNE 29, 1975

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until the afternoon there are many deceptive influences in effect, but if you hold steady to the principles you believe in all turns out well. Make long-range plans.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You may have limitations that you need to do something about if you want to advance. Family affairs can be improved.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't rely on friends during the day since they have problems of their own. Evening brings the aid you need.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Show ability at handling civic matters to which you are committed and this adds to your present prestige.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use practical methods in the handling of a private anxiety. Engage in favorite hobby in the afternoon.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your intuition is now working right during the day, so use only your good judgment. Come to understanding with mate.)

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study what associates expect of you but don't discuss it with them until the evening. Don't let tensions mount.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Plan your new week's activities wisely so that you don't wast precious time and energy in the week.

SCORPIO (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You have certain tasks to take care of before you can have the recreation you desire. Relax at home tonight.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get busy at the tasks that you can't do during the busy work week. You can improve conditions by using willpower.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Planning the future wisely is a good way to spend part of this day. Take time to improve your surroundings.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care you do not commit yourself to responsibilities that will be difficult for you to handlein the future.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get rid of that feeling of unhappiness early or you could make a mistake that you later would regret. Be logical.

monday JUNE 30

GENERAL TENDENCIES: It's necessary in a.m. to use care with facts and make sure you understand everything about any situation. Later you can make some long-range plans that include a new approach to success. An older person can give any needed advice.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Some message may reach you that is not pleasing, but you can turn it into an opportunity to advance. Handle responsibilities well.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't be upset if a friend disappoints you in a.m., as later you find you can improve your whole life-style. Banish blues with activity.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Avoid a bigwig who is out of sorts because of pressures. Later, you can be with congenials for the pleasure you want.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Study new interests that, can relieve you of may anxieties in the near future. Let a higher-up give you needed advice.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Don't argue with a close tie who is itching for a fight because out of sorts. Get busy at practical matters.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A partner has problems and is not very helpful today, so rely on your own judgment and ability more. Create more happiness.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You may find it difficult to get a fellow worker to see things your way in a.m. Later an ally cooperates. Use self-control.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) DoDon't neglect important work by running off on some pleasure tangent that would be disappointing. But only needed items.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 Dec. 22) If you are careful in your speech, you can go out later for pleasure and be happy. A complement works wonders.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get at those routines, though dull, in a.m., and they are soon done. Evening can be a most happy one at home.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21. to Feb. 19) Monday blues soon clear up and all is fine. Gain the backing of associates. Cut down on expenses. Enjoy hobby you like.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You are better off financially than you realize, so get busy building on present nucleus instead of grumbling.

WINS STATE AWARD — Delmer Batla, center, was presented with a 4-state award from Dr. John E. Hutchison, left, director of the Texas Argicultural Extension Service, and J. L. Curly Hays, a Texas 4-H Youth Foundation officer. During Batla's seven years of work, the Glasscock County pig show has grown from 10 to 119 entires. He has served as swine project leader, chairman of program committees, raised funds to purchase a truck and van for 4-H members for stock shows; been a teacher in the hunter-safety program, attended leader conferences. Eight of Batla's children have been in 4-H work.

Open Weather Aids Hay, Wheat, Cotton In Texas

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Open weather last week aided wheat and hay harvests in the state and allowed farmers to replant some cotton and sorghum, Dr. John Hutchison, director of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, said.

Wheat yields are generally running above average with some irrigated wheat producing 45 to 50 bushels per acre in the Panhandle, he said.

Planting of peanuts and soybeans is making good progress in North Central Texas and peanut planting also is active in Central and South Central Texas, Hutchison said.

Much of the soybean acreage in Southeast Texas and the Upper Gulf Coast is being replanted because of recent damage from heavy rains, he said.

Sorghum acreage is larger than usual across South Texas. Many farmers switched from cotton because of low market prices, Hutchison said.

Although it will be some time before the cotton harvest gets into full swing in South Texas, the first bale of 1975 was harested June 21 near Harlingen, Hutchison said.

Livestock and range conditions remain generally good although parts of the Panhandle and Far West and South Texas need more rain, he said.

District agricultural agents gave these reports:

Panhandle: The wheat harvest is active. Dryland yields are running from 5 to 20 bushels per acre. The irrigated crop is averaging 45 to 50 bushels. Cotton, corn, sorghum and sugar beets are making good growth. Range cattle are in good condition.

South Plains: The wheat harvest is nearing a peak. Yields are generally good. Farmers who lost cotton to recent hail are still replanting. Most of the soybean crop has been planted.

Far West: Dryland crops, pastures and ranges need a general rain. Irrigated crops are making good progress. Onion harvesting is about complete. Livestock are generally in good condition. Many heavy lambs are bringing excellent prices.

West Central: Small grains are producing above average yields. Planting of cotton, sorghum and peanuts is past the 90 per cent mark. Blowing sand and high winds have damaged some young peanuts. Webworms are damaging some pecan trees. Most pastures and ranges are in good shape.

Southwest: Some sorghum harvesting has started in the southern portion of the district. Yields prospects look good. The watermelon and cantaloupe harvests are at their peak. The peach harvest is about complete. Heavy lambs have been sold at good prices.

South: Sorghum harvesting is active in parts of the district; dryland yields are off while the irrigated crop is producing good yields. Some cotton fields need moisture. Harvesting of melons and cantaloupes is about complete in the Rio Grande Valley. Ranges continue to improve.

Water Demands Increasing

Continued dry, hot weather is beginning to push up water demands.

Thursday, the Colorado River Municipal Water District experienced its peak day of 1975, according to O. H. Ivie, general manager.

The cities used 61.37 million gallons and oil and industrial customers 19.63 million, a total of 81 million gallons. This is considerably short of the all-time peak day for the system.

Deliveries from Lake J. B. Thomas have been stepped up as a quality control measure, said the general manager.

Too Broad Ruling Turns Inch Into Federal Mile

OMAR BURLESON, M.C.
17th District, TEXAS

WASHINGTON, D.C. — "Give an inch and take a mile" is applicable to most things with which the federal government deals. A case in point, and one which will be resolved in the very near future, relates to the Water Pollution Control Act passed in 1972.

In this law, the Corps of Engineers was given authority to issue permits for dredge and fill disposals. The Corps has applied the Act only to "navigable" waters, but a Federal Court has ruled that this was too narrow an interpretation and ordered the regulations revised. The Corps of Engineers has now invited public comment and statements will be accepted until June 30.

The term "navigable waters," as now interpreted, can include practically all lakes, streams, rivers and wetlands in the United States. The record is silent on what Congress intended but it opened the door to this broad definition. This is another instance of what the fine print can mean for authority never intended.

To the credit of the Army Corps of Engineers it is not their initiative that this unprecedented power is proposed to be exercised. Instead, it is the Courts which in recent years have legislated in about everything that affects our national life.

A literal reading of the law and the court order says that any time anyone wants to drop something into any body of water, whether it is private property, ditches, stock ponds, or whatever; then a permit must be obtained from the Corps of Engineers. Conceivably, this can mean a farmer or rancher could not enlarge his stock tank, deepen an irrigation ditch or even plow in certain places without a Corps of Engineers permit. It is so absurd to be unbelievably ridiculous. At this moment, if this reasoning were strictly applied to its full limit, no doubt hundreds of people are now violating the law and could be fined up to $25,000 a day and even imprisoned.

The Department of Agriculture is opposing the court's interpretation with the statement that it "would set off a bureaucratic growth that would require many farmers to run to a federal official for a permit to perform much of what is now normal farm work" and characterizes such aciton as a harassment to farmers and ranchers trying to grow this Nation's food supply.

Heretofore, the activities of the Army engineers, except for the building of lakes, has been mainly in the coastal areas. But such regulation as this could be applicable to places like our Big Country, where we never dreamed that this bureaucratic invasion could occur.

Aside from the red tape and the cost of maintaining a bureaucracy, it would stake out an ill-conceived role for the federal government in land-use decisions, a matter better left to local and limited State control. Once machinery of this nature is put in place, it can turn into a monster by what appears to be an almost limitless expansion by the courts, bureaucrats and those not given to common sense or respect for the ability of local authority to deal with any such problem.

Many municipal governments woudl be handicapped, if not absolutely powerless, to cope with these requirements.

Legislation has been introduced to prevent these things from happening. Clear definitions are needed as to what was intended in the 1972 law. Hearings will be held by the Public Works Committee of the House of Representatives before the June 30 deadline.

Ticks Back In State

CARRIZO SPRINGS, Tex. (A) — Cattle ticks have reappeared in this South Texas area and the Texas Animal Health Commission (TAHC) has sent five more federal inspectors and placed the area under a "blanket" quarantine.

In Austin, the State Department of Health Resources said Friday that cattle ticks can kill not only cattle, but can carry Rocky Mountain spotted fever which has killed two persons in the state this year.

THAC squareantine covers approximately 60,000 acres including the town of Carrizo Springs.

The commission said there are now 28 inspectors working on the tick eradication program in South Texas.

The Carrizo Spring area, according to the commission, was about to be released from the quarantine for the pest when the ticks were discovered on June 1 on 15 steers used for roping contests here.

Cattle ticks are potential carriers of a blood parasite that causes cattle tick fever, an often fatal disease of cattle. They can also transmitted the Rocky Mountain spotted fever to humans.

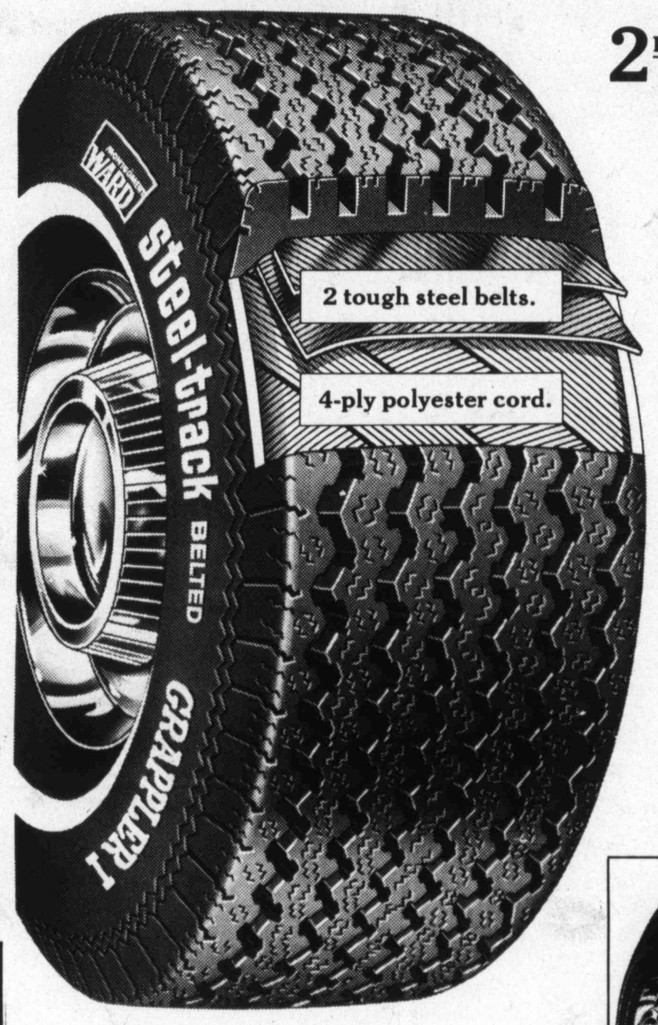

The two human victims were a 41-year-old Tyler man who apparently picked up the ticks while working cattle in Van Zandt County, and a young Cass County woman.

FOR YOUR PLEASURE

Theater Fare: Music, Satire

Rehearsals for "Guys & Dolls" at Howard College are progressing well, but Director John Jordan has sent out an SOS.

He and the cast are needing men's clothing from the 1930s and 1940s — various style suits, particularly double-breasted ones, and men's hats with the wider brims. If you can help out, call either Gordon (263-2288) or Ken Sprinkle (267-7195). Those willing to loan but not donate the costumes will have them returned in good condition.

Good success has been had in getting community participation in filling the key roles, said Gordon. Sprinkle is pleased with the quality of voices and says the music will be exceptional. Tickets for the show (July 10, 11 and 12 at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium) are $3 and $2 students, with reservations made by calling 267-6311.

★★★

"Calamity on the Colorado," or "The Briscoe Kid Rides Again," that pomp-puncturing summer "mellerdrammer" of the Midland Community Theatre, begins July 4 at 8:30 p.m. in the American Legion Hall, 206 S. Colorado, in downtown Midland. This is the 27th season that MCT has staged these weekend fun sessions. This year's characters include such notables as the hero, Lt. Gov. Billy Hobb, struggling young newspaper publisher, and arch-enemy Snathley Snakecheese, an unscrupulous lobbyist for the United Dairy Defense, and Wandalou Welby, beauteous daughter of Dr. Midas Welby, celebrated veterinary surgeon, and Ginsberg of Arabia.

★★★

The Cisco Wrangler Belles of Cisco Junior College will appear on the NBC-TV July 3 special, "Stars and Stripes Show." They are spotted on the show with such personalities as John Davidson, Bob Hope, Anita Bryant, Charlie Pride, Juliet Prowse. The show will be taped this evening before a live audience of 12,000 in Oklahoma City.

It seems too hot to cook, but July 9 is the date for the contestants from 50 states to compete in the National Chicken Cooking contest at San Antonio. The National Broiler Council will award $20,000 in prizes. And if you don't like chicken, then how about goat? The World's Championship Goat Cook-off has been set for Aug. 30 in Brady. If you want to enter or need a goat, write the Brady Jaycees, Box 806, Brady, 76825.

★★★

Heritage Museum continues to have a good flow of visitors to inspect the 48-panel history of the Texas Rangers, from beginning to modern times. It's a fascinating show, and in the process of seeing it, you can also see the "Brandin' Time" display of the museum, plus a number of H.W. Caylor paintings.

★★★

During July the Moody Planetarium in the Museum at Texas Tech will feature "Life Among the Stars" and H.G. Wells' classic, "War of the Worlds." "Stars" will be at 1:30 p.m., and the Wells piece at 2:45 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

Dallas residents are getting on a direct link with Chicago and other Midwestern cities when Amtrak extends its Chicago-Houston train, the Lone Star. It will continue to operate on its present schedule to Fort Worth, where it will split, with one section going to Houston, the other going north via Dallas.

★★★

Alley Theatre in Houston will start this week its 10-week summer film festival devoted to original versions of three films that have proven so popular they have been remade. July 1-12 will be Frank Capra's 1937 masterpiece, "Lost Horizon." On Thursday and Friday, Lewis Milestone's early talkie, "The Front Page," will be presented. Saturday and Sunday, Rudolph Valentino's 1922 classic, "Blood and Sand," will be shown.

★★★

Things are happening around the Fort Worth Stockyards where one of the few remaining examples of the T&P's famous 600 series of locomotives is berthed. Richard Jensen, Chicago, was drafted by David Pearson, president of the 610 Historical Foundation, to put the original 610 back in operation. Its mission: Pull the Freedom Train on its transcontinental tours during the Bicentennial. Jensen is working against a Jan. 1 deadline.

★★★

The seventh annual Odessa summer Shakespeare Festival is now in full swing. As mentioned previously, the fare includes "Much Ado About Nothing," "Troilus and Cressida," plus two change-of-pace contemporary pieces, "Dames At Sea" and "Life of Christ." The schedule may be had from the Globe of the Great Southwest at 2308 Shakespeare Rd., Odessa, 79761.

★★★

Today's offering at Fiesta Del Concho at San Angelo which concludes this evening after a week's run, includes balloon races at 6 a.m. and 9 a.m.; antique aircraft show, 9 a.m.-5 p.m., sky divers (Texas Parachute Council), 9 a.m.-1 p.m.; rifle matches, 10 a.m.-6 p.m.; arts and crafts, same hours.

★★★

Don't forget that this week — Thursday, Friday and Saturday — marks the Texas Arts and Crafts show, plus the Country Western Jamboree at Kerrville.

★★★

The final week of the International Festival-Institute at Round Top (midway between Austin and Houston) will be highlighted by two concerts at 8:15 p.m., July 4-5 as well as the return of the art expert, Richard Muehlberger, director of art education at the Detroit Institute of Art. James Dick, concert pianist, also will be spotlighted.

WEDDING ANNOUNCED — Mr. and Mrs. H. V. Crocker, 1707 Benton, announce the marriage of their daughter, Malinda C. Blackburn, to Ronald L. Berkman, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Berkman of Dallas. The ceremony was held April 26 aboard the Bresco at Lake Texoma, and after an extended trip, the newlyweds are residing at 2803 Custer Parkway, Richardson. Berkman is associated with Napier Company. Mrs. Berkman, a former Miss Big Spring and model, served as secretary to ex-governor John Connally for several years.

MARTHA COUCH

Miss Dean Marries Mark Kent Mercer

Miss Susan Elaine Dean became the bride of Mark Kent Mercer in a candlelight ceremony held Saturday evening in the First Baptist Church with Dr. Kenneth Patrick officiating.

The wedding party stood before an altar enhanced with arched candelabra centered with an arrangement of white galdioli and turquoise carnations. Spiral candelabra and baskets of white gladioli and turquoise setting. Nuptial selections were by Mrs. W. W. Grimes, organist, and Joe Whitten, vocalist.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Dean, 1518 Vines, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal W. Mercer, Seminole. A graduate of Big Spring High School, the bride attended Howard College and received her degree from Texas Tech University in elementary education. Mercer is a graduate of Seminole High School and T.T.U. with a degree in history. He will enroll at Dallas Theological Seminary, and the couple will reside in Dallas.

For the wedding, the bride chose a formal gown of white organza over peau de soie. The portrait neckline had a deep bertha collar of Alencon lace which extended over the shoulders and was accented with seed pearls. Sheer full-length sleeves were enhanced with lace motifs accented with seed pearls, and lace formed a cascade down the skirt and encircled the train. She carried a cascade bouquet of white feathered carnations, stephanotis, gypsophila and English ivy.

ATTENDANTS

The maid of honor was Miss Nancy Dean, sister of the bride, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Steve Parker and Miss Paula Chambers, both of Dallas; and Miss Cindy Matthews of Kermit. They were attired in floor-length dresses of flocked turquoise crepe styled with v-neckline and short, flounced sleeves. The waistline was trimmed with a sash, and a ruffle bordered the skirt. They carried hurricane lamps and turquoise camellias tied with satin streamers.

Steve Parker, Dallas, was the best man, and serving as groomsmen and ushers were Walt Mercer, Seminole, brother of the bridegroom; Robb Dean, Dallas, brother of the bride; and Laird McDonald, Lubbock.

RUIDOSO

Prior to leaving on a trip to Ruidoso, N.M. and Vail, Colo., the couple was honored with a reception in the fellowship hall of the church where refreshments were served by Mrs. Robb Dean of Dallas, sister-in-law of the bride; Miss Debbie Milks, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Miss Jo Carol Hatcher, Kilgore; and Miss Connie Petersen, Ft. Stockton.

The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth, and the appointments were of crystal. The centerpiece was a brass candelabrum with an arrangement of turquoise and white carnations.

Out-of-town guests included Mrs. F. L. Nebrig, grandmother of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Miles Podlipney, all of Rosenberg; Mr. and Mrs. Roy Milks, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Nebrig, Manchester, Mo.; Mrs. E. L. Smith, Midland; and Mr. and Mrs. Wright Smith, Tyler.

MRS. MARK KENT MERCER

Miss Couch Advances To 4-H Director

Miss Martha Couch, who earned her spurs in 4-H as a member in Howard County, has been named director of 4-H activities for extension service District ..I and II (Amarillo and Lubbock).

For the past three years she has been assistant home demonstration agent of Gaines County. Her new assignment will begin July 1, and she will be headquartered in Lubbock.

Miss Couch is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Couch, Luther.

In her student days, she was active in many 4-H projects, earning the county's top honor of Gold Star Girl. She also captured first place in the state in the records book division and thus earned a trip to the National 4-H Congress in Chicago, Ill. She was the winner of the Cap Rock Electric Cooperative oratorical contest and earned a trip to Washington, D.C.

After graduating from Borden High School, Miss Couch attended Howard College and then earned her degree in home economics at Texas Tech University and has all but her thesis on her master's.

Eligible Widower Uses Sister As Watchdog

DEAR ABBY: I am a 59-year-old widow. My husband died four years ago. I am very much attracted to a 62-year-old bachelor who attends my church. He dated women up until his mother's death (two years ago), but so far as I know, the only person he ever goes out with now is his widowed sister. They don't live together, but they might as well because they are inseparable.

I know he likes me because he gives me gifts on my birthday and Christmas, and he even sent me a valentine. When he goes on vacation (with his sister), he sends me postcards.

I've invited him to my home for dinner, but he always asks if he can bring his sister. (What can I say?)

When he invites me out, his sister is always along.

What do you make of this? Don't tell me to forget him. I can't, and I have tried.

LA JOLLA LADY

DEAR LADY: Some men have bodyguards for protection; others have large dogs. Your friend has a sister. He doesn't want you to get any closer to him than you are, and he's making sure that you don't.

You'll never land him — unless you outlive his sister.

DEAR ABBY: I was born Jewish, but three years ago I converted to the Baptist religion.

Last week my cousin, a devout young Jewish woman, died a slow, agonizing death. Everyone remembered her as a person who had never said an unkind word about anyone.

I discussed her death with my minister, hoping to get some consolation and assurance that she was now in heaven.

He said, "She is not in heaven because she didn't believe in Jesus Christ."

Abby, is this true? I was speechless.

PHILADELPHIA

DEAR PHIL: I'll leave it to other Baptist ministers to evaluate the fundamentalist comment by their brother quoted above.

DEAR ABBY: John (not his real name) and I have been going steady for two years. We're both 17.

One day, I was afraid I might be pregnant. I was scared to death and felt I couldn't tell my mother because she'd have been shattered.

By chance, John heard about a program at Planned Parenthood. I hated to go because I thought there would be a lot of little old ladies who would lecture and condemn me, but I went anyway.

I was wrong. Everyone was very kind and understanding. I was examined by a woman doctor and given a pregnancy test. Everything was kept strictly confidential. They had a counseling session for teens. I panicked when I saw a girl I knew there, but John, who was with me all the time, pointed out that we all had the same problem.

The counseling was far better than what I had had in my high school health class. (Not only was the information I had learned in school outdated, much of it was just plain wrong.)

Planned Parenthood helps with birth control, if desired. They also will arrange an abortion if you want it. Nobody tries to talk you into anything.

Please let girls know that Planned Parenthood practically saved my life. And all I had to do was call them up (they are listed in the telephone book) and ask for an appointment.

Installation Dinner Held For B&PW

New officers for the Business and Professional Women's Club were installed in a candlelight ceremony conducted by Mrs. Louis Eitzen during a dinner meeting Tuesday evening at Coker's Restaurant. Responses from each incoming officer were taken from the club collect.

Assuming duties for the year were Mrs. Garland Morrison, president; Miss Edith Gay, first vice president; Mrs. George Foster, second vice president; Mrs. Rozelle Dohoney, recording secretary; Mrs. Phillip Palmer, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Cass Hill, treasurer.

New members, Ms. Joan Phillips and Mrs. Mary Newell, were introduced by Mrs. Morrison who presided in the absence of Mrs. Bert Affleck, outgoing president.

The honored guest was Mrs. Merry Jo Bright, women's editor of the Big Spring Herald, who was named by the club as its Woman of the Month. In additional to civic and organizational activities, Mrs. Bright was cited by Miss Gay as "being a friend to the business and professional women's clubs and a supporter of their state and national program and projects, especially in the legislative field." She was presented an award certificate and gift from the club.

The club's next meeting will be at 7 p.m., July 8 when Mrs. Eitzen will be hostess for an ice cream and cake party at her home, 2601 Carol.

Get Decals For Bicentennial

The Volunteer Council to the Big Spring State Hospital will be selling the official Bicentennial car and window decals as a fund-raising project during the forthcoming Jaycee old-fashioned July 4 celebration at Comanche Trail Park. Price of the decals is $1 each.

Proceeds from the sale of the decals will be used for BSSH resident benefit. The decals serve as a decorative and tasteful memento of America's 200th birthday.

Look for the Big Spring State Hospital Volunteer Council booth July 4 at Comanche Trail Park.

NUPTIALS — Mr. and Mrs. C. Joe Stocks, Fort Worth, formerly of Big Spring, announce the marrige of their daughter, June Ann, to Tony George, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon George of Olten. The wedding was performed June 20 by the Rev. Charles R. Jones in Bethel Temple, Fort Worth. The bride, a graduate of Big Spring High School, attended college in Springfield, Mo.

Wedding Ceremony Performed Saturday

Nuptial rites for Miss Rita Ann Sundy and Gary Lee Faulkner were performed by Dr. Jimmy Law in College Baptist Church at 8 p.m., Saturday, with Mrs. Ralph Walker serving as organist and vocalists being Rick Frayard, Baton Rouge, La., and Mrs. Randy Smith.

Parents of the bridal couple are Mr. and Mrs. Allen E. Sundy, 1601 Sunset, and Mr. and Mrs. Allen W. Faulkner of Nixon. The bridegroom graduated from Nixon High School and attended Southwest Texas State University before becoming employed with Wepco in Big Spring. The bride is a senior at Big Spring High School and is attending Valtai Reeves Beauty College. After a trip to the Dallas-Fort Worth area, the couple will reside in Big Spring.

The couple exchanged vows before an arch trimmed with foliage and blue and white carnations, wedding bells and doves. Palm trees, candelabra and baskets of white carnations flanked the altar.

The bride wore a white crepe gown styled with jewel neckline. The empire bodice was covered with Chantilly lace adorned with seed pearls, and the long, full sleeves were enhanced by pearled lace appliques. The A-line skirt featured the lace appliques and was complemented by a matching chapel-length train. A lace and seed pearl headpiece, holding a tiered veil of illusion, completed her attire. Her bouquet was a cascade of white Fuji mums, Frenched blue carnations and frosted eucalyptus tied with blue and white streamers.

Attendants for the bride were Miss Teresa Hyden, maid of honor, and Miss Faith Tilley and Miss Donna Sundy. They wore blue, floor-length empire dresses fashioned with round neckline and long, full sleeves with wide cuffs. A white velvet sash marked the waistline. Their white garden hats were adorned with blue bows and streamers, and they carried long-stemmed blue carnations, tied with white satin bows.

Richard Faulkner of Nixon served as best man for his brother, and groomsmen were another brother, Bobby Faulkner of Nixon, and an uncle Joe Faulkner. Randy Sundy, brother of the bride, and Terry Pate served as ushers, and the flower girl was Tanya Faulkner of Nixon, niece of the bridegroom. Tapers were lighted by Sherri Sundy, sister of the bride, and James Dunn, Stockdale.

MRS. GARY LEE FAULKNER

At the reception, refreshments were served by Miss Linda Hyden, Miss Pat Biby, Miss Debbie Ayers and Miss Terri Prater. Miss Kim Underwood attended the guest register.

The bride's table was covered with a white embossed net cloth with blue underlay, and the centerpiece was an arrangement of white gypsophila and blue carnations with white tapers. Silver and crystal appointments were used. A blue and white fringed cloth covered the bridegroom's table which featured a silver coffee service and milk glass appointments. The accent was an arrangement of blue carnations.

Out-of-town relatives attending included Mr. and Mrs. Allen Faulkner, Mrs. Bobby Faulkner and Mrs. Richard Faulkner, all of Nixon; Mr. and Mrs. Jack Dunn, Stockdale; Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Sundy, Arlington, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Sundy, and Mrs. R. A. Tate, all of Midland, and Mr. and Mrs. Dickie Lepard, Colorado City.

A rehearsal dinner, hosted by the bridegroom's parents, was held Friday evening at La Posada for members of the wedding party and guests.

Bridal Attendants Feted At Luncheon

Bridal attendants for the Saturday evening wedding of Miss Susan Dean and Mark Mercer were honored at a luncheon at noon in Big Spring Country Club with Mrs. C. D. Turner, 1710 Yale, as hostess. Mrs. Turner's daughter, Miss Cheri Turner, was cohostess for the affair.

Honored with Miss Dean were her sister, Miss Nancy Dean; Miss Cindy Matthews, Miss Paula Chambers, and mothers of the couple, Mrs. Bob Dean and Mrs. Neal Mercer, the latter of Seminole.

The bride's chosen colors of aqua and white were used in decorations. The table was covered with white linen, accented with an aqua runner, and the centerpiece was an arrangement of aqua and white flowers. Glassware in a complimentary color completed the setting.

Dressing Mix

Use sour cream mixed with a little lemon juice as salad dressing for drained canned fruit cocktail, sliced bananas and orange sections. Serve on iceberg lettuce and garnish with flaked coconut.

4-H Girls Plan Dress Review

The Just for Fun 4-H Club met at the county fair barn Thursday to make final plans for a dress review July 7.

The group discussed appropriate ways to dress for different occasions. Examples were shown by members on select attire for church, school, sports, and lounging. Models were Jaylene Saunders, Karon Hobbs, Kathy Harrell, Toni Mundell, Shelly McMurry and Ladene Hartin.

Jaylene Saunders reported on her trip to the 4-H workshop in Levelland last weekend.

Plans were made for a three-day camping trip in July to visit the sand dunes in Monahans and a museum in Odessa.

The next meeting will be in August.

Squares Elect New Officers

The Big Spring Squares, whose officers are husband and wife teams, held its election Wednesday evening during a business meeting at the club Corral in Silver Heels.

The dual officers were Mr. and Mrs. Gary Davis, president; Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Nichols, vice president; Mr. and Mrs. Dale Fox, treasurer; and Mr. and Mrs. Drue Wyrick, secretary.

New directors are Mr. and Mrs. Carstenson and Mr. and Mrs. Gene Smith.

Leaving the presidency were Mr. and Mrs. Brad Bradberry, and presiding for the election was a board member, D. A. Thurman.

Membership in the club is open, at $5 per couple. Meetings are held at 8 p.m. the first and third Saturdays of each month at the Corral.

SAVE ENERGY AND TIME AND MONEY-TAPPAN

MODEL 56-3454

$328.00

An affordable necessity . . . a deluxe oven that includes a special automatic-set defrosting cycle.

Save energy and time and money

MODEL 56-2343

$288.00

Another affordable necessity . . . with a family-size oven to cook family-size meals.

There are two new ways to do it and they're both TAPPAN microwave ovens.

Dimensions for both: 15½" high; 25⅝" wide; 16" deep. Weight: 65 lbs.

These two new Tappan microwave ovens save essential energy by reducing cooking times up to 75%. And saving electricity means saving on your electric bill. Tappan will save you hours of time, too, by cooking complete family meals in seconds and minutes. But the first saving you'll notice is on the price tag. Both these models have a full-size oven and a family-size cooking capacity just as big as many higher-priced units.

These safe, economical, efficient Tappan microwave ovens also:

- Let you cook in paper, glass, plastic or ceramic cookware
- Browns roasts beautifully
- Cook complete meals quickly and easily, retaining more nutrition and vitamins
- Plug into standard household grounded outlet
- Offer countertop convenience plus portability
- Clean easily inside with just a damp cloth
- Stay cool because the heat's in the food, not in the oven
- Reheat leftovers and baked goods to look and taste freshly made

Classes For Expectant Mothers

The Dora Roberts Rehabilitation Center will offer a special class for expectant mothers which will begin at the Center July 1. Class will be held on Tuesday at 1 p.m. and will run for two consecutive weeks.

At the end of each three-week period a new class will begin.

The class consists of prenatal and postpartum exercises, emphasizing proper body mechanics and muscle strengthening. Enrollment must be confirmed prior to the first class period. To be eligible for participation in the prenatal class it is necessary to obtain a written referral from a licensed physician.

MRS. BRUCE A. STANLEY

Couple United In Marriage

Miss Lisa Kay Harwood and Bruce A. Stanley exchanged wedding vows Friday evening in a candlelight garden ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Williamson, Snyder.

The Rev. Elra Phillips of Hart officiated with nuptial selections by Miss Lisa Harwood, of Sterling City, vocalist, and Joe Williamson, organist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Hopper and Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Stanley, all of Stanton. The bride is a graduate of Stanton High School and Bauder Fashion College, Dallas. She is employed at Grigsby's Rag Doll in Midland. Stanley is also a SHS graduate and is employed by Cave-Bowlin Implement in Stanton.

Upon returning from a trip to various points in Texas, the couple will reside at Stanton.

Carrying a bouquet of pastel mixed flowers, the bride was attired in a formal gown of white organza; lace insets adorning the empire bodice, butterfly sleeves and ruffle bordered skirt. Her veil of illusion flowed from a pearl embroidered caplet to form a chapel-length train edged in lace.

The bridal attendants were Miss Julia Langford of Kerrville, maid of honor; Miss Susan Dorn, Austin, and Miss Betty McIlvain, Midland. They were attired in floor-length dresses of knit polyester in pastel colors fashioned with cap sleeves and satin sashes. They carried nosegays of mixed flowers centered with hurricane lamps.

Gerald Stanley, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and groomsmen were Lee Cook and Mike Smith, all of Stanton. Dennis Ireton was the usher, and Roger Stanley of Stanton, brother of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple was honored with a reception in the garden, where refreshments were served by Mrs. Vickie Kiker of Gail and Miss Marty Heyland of Kerrville. The table was covered with an antique satin cloth overlayed with a gathered net cloth, and the centerpieces was the bride's bouquet.

Out-of-town relatives included Mrs. Edith Ferguson and Mrs. Ruby Stanley, grandmother of the bridegroom, both of Leesville, La.; A. C. Bridges, Lamar Bridges and Mrs. Edie Lucas, all of Lake Charles, La.; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmey Marooney, Odessa; Mr. and Mrs. M. P. Dorn, Coahoma; Mr. and Mrs. Jay Williamson, Lubbock; and Mr. and Mrs. Glen Linder, Irving.

MRS. SYDNEY LEE FOWLER

Wedding Rites Held Saturday

The wedding of Miss Anita Kay Jones to Sydney Lee Fowler was solemnized Saturday at 2 p.m. in a ceremony held at the True Vine Church with the Rev. Richard Melton officiating.

The wedding party stood before an altar enhanced with an arrangement of spring flowers, and the choir loft divider featured three arrangements of daisies accented with green and yellow ribbons.

Mrs. Robert Voglino was the pianist, and Robert Voglino the vocalist.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Jones, Star Rt., Knott, and Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Fowler, Garden City Route.

The bride, a graduate of Sands High School and Howard College, is employed in the Webb Air Force Base Hospital Laboratory. Fowler is a graduate of Garden City High School and attended Howard College. He is employed with Berkley Mobile Homes. Upon returning from a trip to Leaky, the couple will reside at 2207 Johnson.

The bride was attired in a wedding gown of A-line design; the bodice styled with a lace yoke, high collar and long sleeves of lace. A lace panel extended down the front of the skirt and circled the hemline. Her headpiece was a bandeau of daisies, and she carried a bouquet of daisies tied with satin streamers.

Miss Leola Jones was her sister's only attendant. She was attired in a lime green, empire dress fashioned with sheer long sleeves and V-neckline trimmed with a ruffle.

She carried a bouquet of daisies.

Kenneth Schulke, Ackerly, served as best man.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple was honored with a reception in the fellowship hall of the church. The table was covered with a green cloth overlaid in white lace and centered with an arrangement of daisies. Refreshments were served by Miss Cheryl McCutcheon and Miss Cheryl Bradshaw of Stanton.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hare, Richardson; and Mr. and Mrs. Elgin Jones, Odessa.

St. Lawrence Church Scene Of Ceremony

St. Lawrence Catholic Church was the setting for the Saturday afternoon wedding of Miss Cynthia Jane Halfmann to Roger Battle with the Rev. Augustine Lucca officiating.

The altar setting was enhanced with arrangements of yellow gladioli, mums, roses and stephanotis. Miss Phyllis Johnson, organist, performed nuptial selections with Mrs. Cathy Livingston, vocalist.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Delores Halfmann, St. Lawrence Rt.,Garden City, and the late Victor Halfmann, and the bridegroom is the son of Bill Battle, 1310 Stanford, and Mrs. Bill Battle, 807 Creighton.

Carrying a bouquet of roses and white daisies, the bride was attired in a formal gown of white cotton lace over peau de soie. The empire bodice was styled with a rounded neckline and long puff sleeves with wide cuffs ending in a ruffle. A bow at the center back of the A-line skirt topped a chapel-length train. A lace cap held her waist-length veil of illusion.

Miss Paula Halfmann, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Miss Martha Doe and Miss BeBee Doe, both of Garden City; and Miss Linda Batla, Miss Antoinette Schraeder and Miss Vickie Halfmann, sister of the bride. They were attired in dresses of A-line design in white daisy lace with yellow underlay. The bodice was fashioned with a low neckline and short sleeves. They wore yellow garden hats and carried bouquets of white carnations and yellow roses.

Kent Newsom served as the best man, and groomsmen were Dick Battle, brother of the bridegroom; Glen Clavin, Nicky Lowe, Oklahoma City, Okla.; and Tommy Halfmann and Danny Halfmann, brothers of the bride. Floyd Schwartz, Jody Schwarz and Bobby Doe were the ushers. Lucy McIlhaney, Knox City, was the flower girl, and John Brenneman, Garden City, was the ring bearer.

The bride is a graduate of Garden City High School, and the bridegroom is a graduate of Big Spring High School. He is employed at Big Spring Printing Company. The couple will reside at 505 Nolan.

After the ceremony, the couple was honored at a dinner dance in the St. Lawrence Hall.

Out-of-town relatives attending were Mrs. Gladys Battle, grandmother of the bridegroom; Mrs. Tom Lennehan, and Mr. and Mrs. James Selph, all of Oklahoma City, Okla.; Tom Lynch, Artesia, N.M., grandfather of the bride; and Mr. and Mrs. Pat Halfmann, Hereford.

FOCUS ON FAMILY LIVING

Don't Let Holiday End With 'Food Poisoning'

By SHERRY MULLIN
(County HD Agent)

It's time to celebrate the Fourth of July, and your whole family is ready for an outing. There's a local park close by, and a state park a half day's trip away. The question is, which place should you go to for your picnic?

One important factor in your decision should be whether you are equipped to carry persihable foods a long distance.

On a 4-hour trip to a picnic site on a 90-degree day, food that starts out chilled can become extremely warm. Then, if you wait an hour or two to serve it, there is an even greater chance for harmful bacteria to grow — and more chance of food-borne illness. For long distance trips, plan meals with less perishable foods.

In preparing food for picnics, don't handle raw chicken and then other foods without washing your hands between. Bacteria can be spread from one food to another by handling. Clean the cutting board with soap and hot water after each use.

Don't spoil a happy holiday by making people sick! Carry the food in insulated bags or chests. Be sure to use ice, dry ice, or reusable cold packs. Don't depend on cold food' staying cold just because it's in an insulated bag — especially on a warm sunny day.

Where will the meal be prepared — at home, in the backyard, or away from home at some outdoor picnic site?

Where will the meal be eaten?

Can you prepare and serve the food to avoid food-borne illness? Your family may enjoy meals every day without problems, but on holidays when large groups get together, meals are sometimes transported without adequate refrigeration. Bacteria can cause food poisoning. All they need to grow is the right combination of time, temperature and moisture.

Food-borne illness can cause diarrhea, vomiting, stomach cramps and other unpleasant symtoms which can last for several hours or even days. With young children and elderly people, the results can be more severe. Often, people mistake food-borne illness for a simple "bug" or virus. The real cause may be food that was not properly handled, prepared or served. This can be prevented.

Can perishable foods such as cream pies, seafoods and dishes made with eggs, fish meat and poultry be kept COLD (below 40 degrees)? Do not let these foods stand at room temperature more than 2 hours.

Can perishable foods such as seafood, poultry and cooked meats be kept HOT (above 140 degrees)? Bacteria grow best in lukewarm foods. Never let these foods stand at room temperature more than two hours.

Picnic meals are fun but need careful planning. How many people can you safely serve? And, how much time will it take to prepare the food? Don't try to feed more people than you can handle. Consider the size and quantity of the cooking equipment you have, your supply of eating utensils and dishes.

Figure out how much refrigerator space you'll need to store foods or how many insulated containers you'll need to transport food to a picnic site. Will washing facilities be available? If not, plan ahead by taking disposable utensils, dishes, paper towels and other supplies to help with food preparation and clean up.

Retirees Will Meet July 1

The American Association of Retired Persons will meet at 10 a.m., July 1 at Kentwood Older Adult Center, 2805 Lynn. Following the business session, there will be a short program. Table games will be played before and after a covered dish luncheon.

BARNES PEMLETIER

Illinois Church Scene Of Nuptials Saturday

Mr. and Mrs. David H. Newton are on a trip to Colorado Springs, Colo. following their wedding Saturday afternoon in Judson College Chapel, Elgin, Ill. with the Rev. Robert Laurent officiating.

The wedding party stood before an altar decorated with arrangements of daisies, gladioli and carnations flanked by palms. Miss Cheryl Dobbins, organist, and Miss Kathy Brawley, pianist, performed nuptial selections with vocalists, Bobby Feltheim, Miss Kathy Brawley, Mark Johnson and Butch Hunt.

The bride is the former Connie Williamson of Streamwood, Ill., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. Williamson of Brookville, Ohio. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Newton, 1212 Lloyd.

The bride wore a formal gown fashioned with full, sheer sleeves and high lace collar. Beaded floral lace embellished the front of the gown and circled the hemline of the train. Her waist-length veil of illusion flowed from a headpiece accented with lace and seed pearls, and she carried a cascade of daisies, carnations and stephanotis.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Ron Schaurer, Brookville, Ohio, sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids were Miss Joan Muehlethaler and Miss Dawn Schoen, both of Elgin, Ill.; Miss Jan Cunningham, Niles, Mich., and Miss Pam Murphy, Anderson, Ind. They were attired in floor-length floral print dresses styled with white eyelet collar and a ruffle edging the skirt.

Jeff Newton, Big Spring, brother of the bridegroom, was best man, and serving as groomsmen were Rob Preston, Wilmette, Ill.; Greg Willis, Houston; Al Harris, Chicago, Ill.; and Ron Schaurer, Phillipsburg, Ohio.

Ushers were Brian Teel, DuQuain, Ill.; Steve Ellison, Bronson, Mich.; Dave Lind, Manchester, N.H.; and Randy Kirk, Molene, Ill. Jennifer Hunt was the flower girl, and Christopher Laurent was the ring bearer. Both are of Elgin, Ill.

The bride, a graduate of Judson College, Elgin, Ill., is teaching at Longfellow School, Buffalo Grove, Ill. Newton is a graduate of Stephen F. Austin University with a degree in social studies, and is presently an interim pastor of visitation at Calvary Baptist Church, Streamwood, Ill. He will attend Trinity Seminary, Deerfield, Ill. in the fall.

Immediately following the ceremony, the couple was honored with a reception at the church.

MRS. DAVID H. NEWTON

Three Join Crafts Club

Three new members attended the Thursday morning meeting of the Busy Bee Hobby Club in the home of Mrs. Millie Green, 1105 Eleventh Place.

Attending as members for the first time were Mrs. Green, Mrs. Edith Gregory and Mrs. Trudy Unger.

The craft made by members was a walnut board decorated with pine cone petal daisies.

Mrs. Ruth Sweatt won the door prize. The next meeting will be an all-day workshop Thursday.

BIG SPRING HERALD

SECTION D — BIG SPRING, TEXAS, SUNDAY, JUNE 29, 1975 — SECTION D

Bicentennial Town Crier

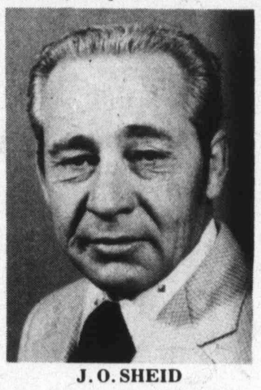

Ray Alexander impresses me as a man of action. When he decided he would like to have his own bicentennial flag, he drummed up five other buyers, enough to merit an order for 12. Others who plan to fly the flag include Myra Robinson Horizons '76 and the Morris Robertsons. If you would like to be a patriotic copycat, call Janell Davis at 7-5745, or Johnnie Lou Avery at 7-6311.

Mel Prather and Mamie Lee Dodds surface for air now and then, but mostly they are submerged in plans for "Let Freedom Ring". Mel who serves as Wade Choate's right-hand man at Webb Credit Union is publicity man for the project, and Mamie Lee is putting finishing touches on costuming. At last report she had finished dying weskits (buttonholes courtesy Big Spring Dress Co.) and planned to rehearse Jaycee members in their debate scene. Never a dull momemt on Drexel.

First Baptist Church, under the leadership of Herb Shipp, is going th second mile in bicentennial activities. Four complete quarters of emphasis will spread through the year, including banquets and special events too numerous to list. The opening gun will be June 29, Christian Citizenship Day — a nice prelude to July 4 doings. Nice going, Herb!

Edna Womack is never at a loss for words — especially when it comes to the red, white, and blue plantings to be done in Johnny Johansen Circle by the Council of Garden Clubs. A bronze placque commemorating the spot was purchased by the council. We'll also be hearing much ado about their upcoming flower show, open to everyone, titled Legends of the First Americans. Watch for this!

Let's face it, some people have it all! Mary Nell Mansfield not only looks good, and is married to a famous cowboy, she comes up with great ideas. Museum members raved about her decorations for the two Chuck Wagon parties aided and abetted by Jane Thomas, so she was a natural choice as Museum Bicentennial Chairman. We can't tell all now, but you will like the things she has planned for our 200th birthday. They have to do with our own area, our own celebrities, and they toot our own horn. Just you wait! And thanks, Mary Nell!

J. O. SHEID

CA Manager Is Named

J. O. Sheid, longtime employe of the Big Spring Herald and the Snyder Daily News, has been named classified advertising manager of the Big Spring Herald, according to publisher W. S. (Dub) Pearson.

Sheid, who first came to work for the Herald in 1949 in the composition room, later went back to his hometown of Snyder where he was composition foreman of the Snyder Daily News.

He returned to the Herald in 1969 in the composition room and was moved to the advertising department about one year ago.

Sheid will replace Ed Thomas.

Beetles, Moths Give Sunflower Bad Time

Bill Fryrear has found out one thing in his experiments with sunflowers as a possible alternate crop for this area.

Sunflowers, like any other plant, move from obstacle to obstacle.

Now that the carrot beetle threat appears to have been passed without too much damage, no comes the insect that girds the stalk just below the head.

And appearing on the scene in threatening numbers are the sunflower moths.

Right now Fryrear, director of the U.S. Experiment Station here, is trying to locate someone who can aerial spray about 10 acres of experimental sunflowers.

"We could use a high-boy spray," he said, "but there doesn't seem to be any of those around, either."

With the spray, he figures the moths could be controlled, and possibly the creatures that cut a groove around the stalk and cause the head to fall.

But so far as weather and moisture are concerned, the sunflowers have been doing well. Even the test plot subjected to severe buffeting by the portable wind tunnel appears to be thriving.

So the bugs seem to be the biggest threat to the development of a new vegetable oil crop for this area.

One 10-acre plot planted in April is just beginning to come into full flower. A smaller varietal plot will make a respectable yield, regardless of the bugs.

Reports from the Texas Agricultural Experiment Stations indicates that perhaps 200,000 acres of sunflowers have been planted on the Plains this spring.

When Success Arrived, Ex-Coach Changed Mind

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Jim Weatherly gave up a possible career in professional football and moved to Los Angeles to try his luck at performing and songwriting.

The former Ole Miss quarterback had just about had his fill of one-night club dates and was considering returning to the gridiron as a high school coach when his songwriting career suddenly took off.

During the 2½ years he was under contract to television star Jim Nabors, Weatherly wrote some 60 songs. But it was an afternoon telephone conversation with a friend's wife that was the inspiration for a song which gave him a solid footing in the music industry.

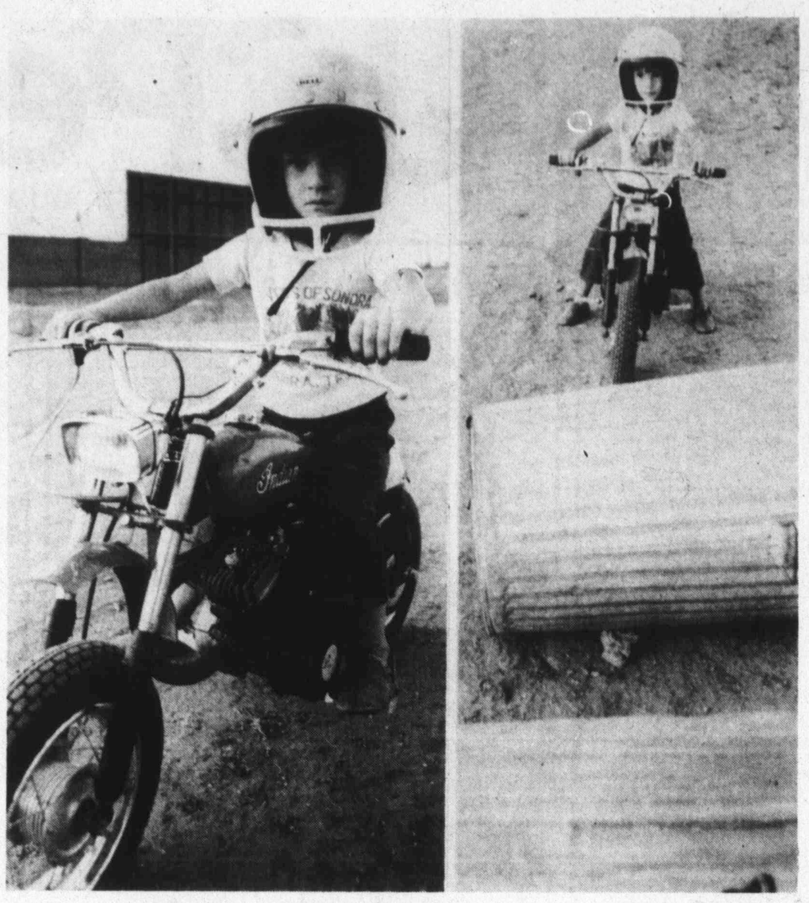

The title was "Midnight Plane to Houston," which Gladys Knight's producers later changed to "Midnight Train to Georgia" because, according to Weatherly, it had more of a black sound.

After that, Gladys Knight and the Pips made Weatherly's "Neither One of Us Wants to Be the First to Say Goodbye" which turned into a pop-soul hit. They then followed with a million-selling version of "You're the Best Thing That Ever Happened to Me" after Ray Price moved the song to the No. 1 spot on the country charts in 1973.

"'Midnight Train to Georgia' came about when I called this friend in L.A., and his wife answered and said she was taking a midnight plane to Houston," Weatherly said.

"She had done some acting and the way she said it made it so real I just conjured up this story in my mind about an actress who never quite makes it, and about a guy who loves her so much that he leaves his whole world to be with her."

He said he originally wrote the song as a ballad and that he feels a lot of the story was lost in the way it was recorded.

CYCLIST STARTS YOUNG — When Steve Bedell was 10 months old, he learned to walk. He's three now and rides a motorcycle. "He just likes to ride, because his Daddy does," Mrs. Johnny Bedell said. Steve's 50-cc. motorcycle goes 20 miles per hour, but the preschooler has only been scratched riding around his yard and a baseball field, Johnny Bedell said. The youth's father and grandfather own and operate a motorcycle shop here.

'Country Music Much Bigger Than Nashville'

There's a part of the Nashville music community that doesn't like the music in this season's hottest new movie, "Nashville," because they think it isn't really country music, says Richard Baskin. Baskin, who is 26, born in Pasadena and without previous experience in country music, chose the songs for the movie, wrote about one-third of them and arranged and produced them all for the score and the soundtrack album on ABC.

"They really don't like it because Californians came into Nashville and knocked this movie off and we're getting the big response we're getting. They want everybody to think country music is a secret. We didn't use any Nashville song writers. We just had fun with it and did just as well as they do and maybe better. There's a certain segment that can't handle that.

"But country music is much bigger than Nashville. It's Roy Acuff and Linda Ronstadt. It's a fusion of styles. It's made all over the world."

The music was written in a way which seems remarkable to some observers but to Baskin is very matter of fact. "Singers all write their own songs these days, so we let our singers write their songs." But the movie's singers in the main aren't singers; they're actors playing singers. "Well, we wanted some kind of reality for these people. What could be more identifiable to themselves than their own songs? It made a lot of sense."

CHILDREN'S CORNER

New Books Are Likely To Please Youngsters

By SUSAN CONLEY
CHILDREN'S LIBRARIAN

Many new books for children and teens are arriving at the Howard County Library. Here are just a few of the exciting titles.

For young readers there is "The Hating Book" by Charlotte Zolotow. This book deals realistically with an emotion all young children feel. A little girl's friend will not speak to her, walk with her or play with her. Her mother tells her to ask her friend why, but the little girl would "rather die." Then one day she does go to see her friend and they discover that they have quarreled over a silly mistake. Charlotte Zolotow is the author of many fine children's books, including "The Summer Night" and "William's Doll."

"Eat!" by Diane Paterson is a story about a young girl who won't eat. Her parents are always telling her to eat and cooking her favorite meals, but she still refuses. Finally she says she wants a frog — not to eat, but keep in a jar. This frog turns out to be a picky eater and they both end up sneaking to the kitchen for a midnight snack.

Older readers will enjoy "Hello, Aurora" by Anne Vestley. In this story Aurora helps her father with cooking, shopping and caring for the baby. The fact that Mother works away from home and Father works at home is the cause of many funny conversations and happenings among the apartment neighbors.

Readers who laugh at the antics of "Henry and Ribsy" and "Henry Huggins" will also like the "Ramona the Brave" by Beverly Cleary.

Ramona is starting first grade and as usual is in everybody's hair. Her new teacher seems to be totally unsympathetic to Ramona's behavior.

'A Sporting Proposition" by J. Aldridge is one book that teens will find hard to put down. The story is about a poor farm boy Scotty, and a rich rancher's daughter, Josie. Both claim the same pony. Scotty's pony is Taff and has been missing for several months. Josie's pony is Bo and she has trained him to pull a cart which takes the place of her crippled legs. The townspeople are squarely divided over whose pony it is, and only an unusual test can determine who owns the pony.

"Brothers by Choice" by E. Read is another book for teens. The two brothers are Rocky and Brett. Rocky has left home because of a hassle with his father. Brett persuades his parents that he is the only one to look for Rocky and bring him home. Eventually he finds Rocky, but not before Rocky has gotten into some deep trouble.

Look for these and other new children's books at the Howard County Library.

Book Could Be Prelude

THE WORLD FROM ROUGH STONES. By Malcolm Macdonald. Knopf. 535 Pages. $8.95.

It is Aug. 26, 1939, and Nora is fleeing the Manchester produce market after learning that her boss in the market, whom she has tried to bribe, plans to have her killed. At novel's end — an improbable but single year later — poor, dirty and ragged Nora has become a lady married to a man apparently destined for power in 19th-century England.

One can only say "apparently" about Lord John's future since the reality of it is left to further books about Nora and John. For this is what the publisher is advertising as the first in a series of sagas about a family during England's period of industrrial growth.

But in the year of this novel Lord John Stevenson — the "lord" is not a title but a nickname — manages to go from being foreman of sandhogs digging a railroad tunnel to an up-and-coming contractor. And Nora drops her rags and, in a blessing to the reader, is dropping that accent she had back in the Manchester market.

Nora's natural cleverness and head for figures has supplemented John's natural cleverness to help him achieve his ends. And later novels may tell where he gained the confidence and mastery that fascinate such men as Walter Thornton.

Thornton, educated, an engineer, with a large sexual appetite, and his naive wife, Arabella, are the other family of this saga. But all the keys to Lord John's character won't be found in these 535 pages. Those presumably will be discovered by the reader with a zest for more of 19th-century England.

HC Starting Bridge Club

Continuing a policy of offering attractions for the community, Howard College started its Community Bridge Club last March. The club meets each Monday at 7 p.m. in the reference library of the Horace Garrett Building. The club has an official sanction from the American Contract Bridge League and issues rating points to winners. Attendance is running from three to five tables.

Director John Gordon advises that the club will close during the month of August, but will resume its games on Sept. 8. Everyone is invited, the charge is $1 per person.

In last Monday's game only one and one'half match points separated the first three places. Winning first were Netti Jean McEwen and Gene Stinson; second were Mrs. R. E. McKiski and Mrs. L. T. King; and third were Jim Krekorian and John Gordon.

The games usually have been contested evenly, with no pair winning regularly. Everyone is invited to play. The charge is one dollare per person.

Cotton Crop Runs Behind

The South Plains cotton crop is running at least 10 days behind average, according to an estimate by Dr. J.D. Bilbro, Texas Experiment Station at Lubbock.

Cold weather set the date of first blooming back at least a week, and taken on the average, he feels that hail and wind damage have added another three or four. Medium-matured variety of cotton planted May 1 can be expected to bloom by July 7 in an average year, but he does not think this will happen until July 17-21.

Cotton planted about May 20 probably will not bloom before July 25-29. (Blooming dates on the extreme southern end such as Howard and parallel counties may be slightly earlier.)

The later the first blooms appear, the poorer the chances of reacing maximum maturity and top quality before frost.
