EARHART SHIP SINKING MESSAGE INDICATES

Only 9 Texans Killed On 4th

MANY INJURED BY FIREWORKS—NO FATALITIES

(By The Associated Press.)

The lives lost during the nation's celebration of its 161st anniversary anniversary stood at 314 today with not a single death directly attributed to fireworks.

Automobile accidents were responsible for 194 of the deaths, drownings 72 and miscellaneous causes accounted for 48.

The Independence Day casualty list, the third largest since 1930, was slightly above the average for the past eight years. From 1930 to 1937, the July Fourth death total was 2,117, an average of approximately 264 deaths for each year.

Although the holiday passed without a single fireworks death, an Associated Press survey showed hundreds were treated for injuries from explosives. Thirty six firecracker victims were treated in Chicago alone.

New York, with 28 deaths, led the holiday mortality roll. California followed with 19, all except two the victims of automobile accidents.

All but four of the 48 states—Delaware, Nevada, Vermont and Wyoming—reported fatalities. Four persons were killed and three others injured last night when their automobile was struck by a train near Painesville, Minn. Three other persons, a man, his wife and a child, were killed last night when their car was struck by a train near Williamsport, Ky.

Five persons were drowned near Valparaiso, Fla., when a motor boat, carrying 42 passengers, capsized. Fishing boats rescued the survivors.

Three were killed in a grade crossing accident in Rhode Island. An explosion of a gasoline stove in Wisconsin took two lives and two died of mine accidents in Indiana. Before a holiday crowd of 1,000 persons, Arch N. Nutters, 33, an airplane pilot, crashed to his death at Clarksville, W. Va., airport.

It was the first time in a decade no deaths had been attributed to the use of fireworks.

COWBOY ASSOCIATION MAY BE FORMED HERE

Proposal to organize a cowboy association with headquarters at Pampa will be made shortly by J. S. Wynne, of Pampa.

Mr. Wynne, a member of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce, stated Monday that he has been approached by a number of old-time cowboys who have expressed the desire for the formation of such a group.

Cowboys and former cowboys in this area of the Top O' Texas, it was pointed out, have no organization which permits them to get together in business and social sessions.

A meeting is expected to be called in Pampa shortly at which time the matter will be discussed and an attempt at organization will be made.

NOMINATION OF LEGION OFFICERS TO BE HELD

Officers for 1938 will be nominated by the American Legion at the regular meeting Wednesday night at the Hut on West Foster. A dinner lunch will be furnished by the legion ticket selling campaign. Reports on the "Sunrise" and "Firecracker" dances will be given.

All members of the Legion are requested to be present for the nominations which will be made from the floor.

BOLTON ADVANCED COLLEGE STATION, July 5 (AP)—

The new position of vice-president of Texas A. and M. college was held today by F. C. Bolton, who was elevated from dean of the college by the board of directors. This post was created in the recent legislative session.

I Heard . . .

A breezy voice in the office this morning and sure enough it was Jimmy King, Pampa's singing cowboy. Jimmy, looking like a million dollars, is back visiting friends and relatives for a couple of weeks. Jimmy is jodeling over station KNOW at Austin and from San Antonio in between painting jobs.

Going Western

When Reno officials decreed western garb for July Fourth, dimpled and otherwise lovely Irene Delroy came out like this, and it was a case of the queen could do no wrong. Kangaroo court officials decided going western with Miss Delroy would be a pleasure. The famous New York actress was in the Nevada city to divorce her 1932 husband, William L. Austin, Jr.

TEXAN PUSHES PROGRAM FOR COURT REFORM

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—A Texas congressman who says he wants the courts respected has been quietly promoting a judicial reorganization program of his own.

He is Hutton William Sumners, 62, sixth oldest member of the house in point of service, and chairman of its judiciary committee.

Of three bills he has introduced in an avowed attempt to correct conditions provoking criticisms of the courts, one has become law and the other two have been approved by the house.

The one already enacted gave Supreme Court justices the privilege of retiring on full pay at 70. Justice Willis Van Devanter took advantage of it to leave the bench on June 2.

The other two would establish a new machinery for ouster of federal district court judges.

Marvin Jones' Secretary Dines With Pampa Scouts

Miss Allavine Clark, secretary of Marvin Jones, ate supper with the Adobe Walls Boy Scouts the other night at the Jamboree, and the boys have invited Mr. Jones to be their guest, according to a letter received today from Jim Bob Johnson, of Pampa, Scout at the Jamboree. The NEWS today received another entertaining and instructive letter from the Pampa boy. It is as follows:

SCOUT JAMBOREE CAMP, Washington D. C., July 2.—It rained again last night—a hard rain this time, and some of the campers are mud puddles this morning. Our camp is dry, however.

We hiked to town yesterday and made the tour of sight-seeing district number two. Buildings included in this tour were the old and new homes of the Department of Agriculture, the Treasury Department building, Department of Commerce, and the Washington Monument. The last-mentioned structure is 555 feet high, 55 feet square at the bottom and 35 feet square at the top. There is a dome on the monument made of aluminum, while the shaft itself is made of stone. Fifty years were required in the building of the monument. The top is reached by either stairs or elevator. There are windows near the dome, for observation. Between the Washington Monument and the Lincoln Memorial there is a reflecting pool, and on still days one can stand at the Lincoln Memorial and see the reflection of the Washington Monument, or stand at the Monument and see the clear reflection of the Lincoln Memorial.

On the tour we also saw the statue of John Paul Jones, made of bronze, the Tidal Basin which was constructed by army engineers, is at the head of an arm of the Potomac, and with its walls of concrete and stone prevents the flooding of some of Washington's most beautiful parks when the tide comes in.

The Lee mansion, Lincoln Memorial, Washington Monument, and the Capitol are in a line, and Constitution Avenue runs alongside these

PARENTS CALL CONFESSION OF KILLER UNTRUE

CROSSING GUARD SAYS HE ATTACKED THREE GIRLS

LOS ANGELES, July 5 (AP)—Safe from possible mob violence but with prosecutors determined to ask his death, a 32-year-old WPA worker paced his cell in the hall of justice today after confessing, Detective Lieutenant Leroy Sanderson said, to the shocking attack-slaying of three little girls.

By his own words, Albert Dyer branded himself, Sanderson said, as the strangler responsible for the deaths of Madeline Everett, 7; her sister, Melba, 8; and Jeanette Stephens, 9, whose violated bodies were found last Monday in a ravine of Baldwin Hills, near suburban Inglewood, where they had disappeared from Centinela Park the previous Saturday.

Dyer, employed by the WPA to guard children at a street crossing broke down after nearly 11 hours of constant grilling. A threat to take him from the Hall of Justice to Inglewood, where enraged citizens had milled about the small police station during questioning of suspects last week, finally shattered the suspect's composure. Detective Sanderson reported, and he gasped "Well, I did it."

In a few minutes, his wife, Mrs. Isabelle Dyer, reached his side. "He never did it! He never did it!" she cried.

His voice hardly above a whisper, Dyer told a ring of official questioners, Sanderson said, that "I had no other motive than sex—it wasn't revenge."

Persuaded Children For a year, the suspect was declared to have admitted, he was acquainted with the three young victims and developed "more than a liking" for them.

On the morning of the fatal Saturday, he played with the girls in Centinela park. Detective Sanderson asserted the guard laid plans for the lustful crime at this time, persuading the childish trio to "hunt rabbits" in the hills after he finished work at noon.

"They said their mothers didn't want them, but I kept telling them how much fun it was and finally they agreed that they would meet me," the 138-pound, five-foot-five suspect was quoted as confessing.

At the appointed hour, his story continued, "I watched the three girls coming down the road. They were dressed in bright colored clothes and looked fresh and nice."

They route lay through a bean field and down a steep-sided dry wash. "We sat down to rest and I asked Madeline, that was the youngest one, to come with me up the draw a bit and see if we could scare out a bunny. She came right along and the other two girls agreed to stay behind."

Choked to Death "When out of sight of the others, I reached out and grabbed Madeline by the neck and choked her to death. When I thought she was dead, I knotted a rope around her neck to make sure."

Madeline's limp body was left jammed into a narrow crevice. "Then I singled out Jeanette, I told her we'd trapped a rabbit and said we wanted her to help us. Melba wanted to come along too, but I told her to stay there and I'd catch another bunny for her."

"With my hands I choked Jeanette to death and bound her neck with a rope. I wanted to make sure she'd stay dead."

Ignorant of the fact her sister and her chum had been slain only a few feet from her, Melba Everett played and awaited the man's return.

"She went with me without question," the confession recited. "When I began choking her, she tried to scream. She fought. She almost got away from me. But I choked her

Grasshoppers Ford Colorado Pool in Greedy March

'Firecracker' Ball Will Close Double Holiday

DRIVE AGAINST REBS PLANNED

(By The Associated Press.)

Spanish government forces rumbled into action on three fronts today as insurgents moved slowly to complete their occupation of government territory in the north.

Government troops, believed preparing for a general offensive, captured two peaks on the central front, occupied the western slopes of Mount Mellillo on the Santander front and took several trench lines in the El Quezo section of the Aragon front.

The capture by insurgents of a French freighter, chartered by leftists to aid Basque refugees, apparently carried little danger of further complications. Two French warships sent to investigate returned to their bases and French naval circles indicated the insurgents were within their rights in halting the freighter in Spanish territorial waters.

Insurgent bombers droned over Valencia, temporary seat of the government, but dropped their bombs on surrounding territory. Two were reported killed.

Although German leaders, friendly to the insurgent cause, had indicated plainly they wanted Spain's iron and raw materials, Insurgent Generalissimo Francisco Franco was reported today approving shipments of ore to Britain. The staff of the British-owned Osconera properties near Bilbao, biggest British holding in the area, was permitted to return from France.

Legion members have also been requested to check in unsold tickets at the Southern club by 8 o'clock tonight.

FLYING BOATS READY TO SOAR OVER OCEAN

POYNES, Ireland, July 5 (AP)—The Imperial Airways flying boat, Caledonia, was poised at the mouth of the River Shannon today for a pioneering 1,800-mile commercial survey flight across the Atlantic.

With favorable weather, the ship was scheduled to leave western Ireland at 7 p. m. (1 p. m. EST) and head out over the Atlantic toward Botwood, Newfoundland, on the proposed trans-Atlantic commercial air route.

Almost simultaneously the Pan-American Clipper III was to shoot down the runways at Botwood airport and point her nose eastward across the ocean.

West-to-east headwinds were to be against the Caledonia and it was estimated the flight to Newfoundland would require about 16 hours.

Bad weather Saturday held up the first leg of the Southampton to New York flight. The Caledonia reached the 351-mile hop yesterday to reach here for final preparations.

After the difficult trans-Atlantic leg is negotiated, the Caledonia plans to fly by easy stages to New York. No passengers will be carried on the initial exploratory flight.

Imperial and Pan-American Airways have agreed to cooperate while the experimental flights are being made preparatory to establishing regular trans-Atlantic service. An alternative winter route was expected to be mapped.

Swimming, Wrestling On Program for Today

Pampa was midway in its second day of the double July Fourth holiday today minus a report of any serious traffic or fireworks accidents, a survey of hospitals and doctors revealed.

Although there was a general observance of Independence Day with firecrackers a night display of pyrotechnics at the Southern club nothing more than a few minor injuries was reported.

All county and city offices with exception of the police and sheriff's offices were closed today.

Approximately 150 couples attended the hilarious "Sunrise" dance, sponsored by the American Legion, which began at 12:30 last night at the Southern club. Scores of couples came from nearby towns, it was said. The dancers came late and continued their revelry until late. There were only 15 couples on hand at 12:30.

A huge crowd is expected at the "Firecracker" dance tonight. The dance will be preceded by a brilliant fireworks display which includes scores of thousands of bombs. Women and children will be admitted free, but entrance fee for men will be a ticket to the dance. Officers of the sheriff's department will not permit parking on the highway near the club. All Legionnaires and special deputies have been asked to be at the club by 8 o'clock to help handle traffic. Veterans are asked to wear ex-service caps.

Legion members have also been requested to check in unsold tickets at the Southern club by 8 o'clock tonight.

Departments were closed today as were the public library, post office and a majority of the business houses.

Tonight's Program Full.

Pampa's July Fifth program included swimming and diving contests at the city pool this afternoon, a wrestling match at the new arena on Wynne and Atchison streets and the American Legion's "Firecracker" dance and fireworks display at the Southern club tonight.

In connection with the Legion fireworks tonight, the sheriff's department today warned motorists not to park along the highway in front of the club, to witness the display. Those who disregarded the rule will be cited for traffic violations.

Literally thousands of Pampans observed the Fourth quietly by attending picnics or leisurely enjoying the day on nearby ranches.

Sun Sizzling. Whatever Pampans did yesterday, they did it under a sizzling midsummer sun which registered a maximum temperature of 98 degrees for the day.

Many played golf and many more went swimming at the city pool and the various ranch lakes scattered over the surrounding area. At noon today, there was an indication that the thermometer might even go higher today.

After a sunset reading of 86 degrees yesterday, the mercury slid to a minimum of 68 degrees last night and then began to climb at six

RADIO SIGNALS ARE CONFUSING AND GARBLED

LOCATION OF FLYING LABORATORY IN DOUBT

LOS ANGELES, Calif., July 5 (AP)—Three long dashes on radio key transmission received at 5 o'clock this morning (PST) on the wavelength assigned to Amelia Earhart were declared today by Paul Mantz, her technical adviser, to be the most hopeful sign yet received that she is alive and on land.

"The Pan-American station in Hawaii sent out instruction to her including one to send three long dashes if on land," Mantz said. "George Palmer Putnam, her husband, telephoned to me a short time ago that he was advised that three dashes were heard almost immediately after the instructions were sent out."

"We heard the dashes here and this is the most hopeful sign yet," Mantz said. "We understand that Honolulu and the Itasca also heard the three dashes."

HONOLULU, T. H., July 5 (AP)—Navy officials said they received a garbled radio message early today, purported to have been sent by Amelia Earhart, which indicated her plane was sinking.

The message received by three navy operators was pieced together as follows: "281 north Howland call KHAQQ beyond north don't hold with us much longer above water shut off." The operators said keying of the message was poor and they were able only to pick up fragments of the message. It was received between 4:30 a. m. and 5:30 a. m., Pacific time.

Operators Confused. Officials took the message, if it was authentic, to mean the plane was about 281 miles north of Howland island, by Miss Earhart's estimate, and sinking slowly, forcing her to stop sending.

Earlier this morning cross bearings taken on weak radio signals believed from Miss Earhart and her navigator, Fred Goetz, located the confuted weary Pan-American operators at Howland and Wake islands.

The radiomen, who have maintained a ceaseless vigil in an effort to contact and locate the missing globe circling plane said the sender in the vicinity of Gardner and McKean islands in the Phoenix group, approximately 150 miles south of Howland.

A previous bearing taken by Pan-American and coast guardsmen here last night placed the sender in the vicinity of Gardner and McKean islands in the Phoenix group, approximately 150 miles south of Howland.

May Be Inaccurate. Officials said the latter bearing may be inaccurate because of the weakness of the signals. The British steamer Endeavour, en route from Howland, reported it heard a strong continuous carrier wave frequency near midnight last night, and for the last time at 1 a. m. (3:30 a. m. Pacific standard time). Coast guardsmen declared they last heard the carrier of Honolulu at 1:30 (4 a. m. P. S. T.).

The coast guard cutter Itasca, whose radio was silent until messages presumably from the Earhart plane were intercepted by Baker Island colonists, 40 miles southward and by the portable radio station on Howland, began transmitting signals with the hope they would be received by the plane.

Station KGMB, Honolulu, a commercial station, instructed the mysterious station to listen for the Itasca signals.

Coast guard officials said they were "encouraged" by the repeated signals, but were at a loss to explain how the Earhart plane could still have power to transmit. San Francisco coast guard radio men sent word they received weak carrier waves on 3,105 kilocycles since 2:15 a. m. (Pacific standard time) at times for short intervals.

If the signals being received by numerous radio stations at Howland, Baker and Wake islands, San Francisco and Honolulu are a hoax, coast guardsmen expressed the belief they

FINAL ACTION ON FARM TENANCY BILL AWAITED

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—Aides of Secretary Wallace said today the Agriculture department was ready to start the long-time job of converting landless tenants into farm owners as soon as the Senate and House agree on legislation.

Each has passed a separate bill and a compromise is being sought. The Senate bill would authorize the Agriculture department to purchase farms and resell them to tenants. The House bill would authorize direct loans.

Agriculture officials pointed out that in any event, the beginning will be modest, for both measures make only $10,000,000 available the first year.

Estimating that $8,000 will be required to establish the average tenant as a farm-owner, officials said 3,000 to 4,000 families could be aided during the first year. This would be about one of every 1,900 tenant families.

Officials said the county farmer committees utilized in all AAA programs would select the tenants, appraise the land to be purchased, and certify that the farmer and the farm had a good chance to succeed. Tenants who will get first chance at government aid, officials said, will be those with actual farming experience, married men with families, and tenants who have acquired enough to make a down payment or supply necessary farm equipment and livestock.

MODERN MENUS

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX
When lightning or humidity sours that bottle of cream you had been saving for something special, just change your menu and still have something special. Sour cream and sour milk are full of sweet possibilities.

Peach Ice Cream
(4 to 6 servings)
One quart sliced fresh peaches, 1 1/4 cups sugar, pinch salt, juice 1-2 lemons, 2 cups milk, 1 pint sour cream.

Dust peaches with sugar, mix well and mash. Stand 1 hour and then strain through sieve. Add salt and lemon juice, add milk, and cool it, then add. Add sour cream. Mix well. Pour into freezer and pack in ice and salt. Turn crank slowly to get smooth texture. Remove dasher when cream is frozen, and stand in ice and salt at least another half hour.

A simple use of sour cream, beaten until smooth but not thick is the luncheon specialty of a bed of cottage cheese covered with grated raw carrots, plus a smooth coating of sour cream. Try it. It is an ideal summer meal.

Cornmeal Muffins
(4 to 6 servings)
One cup cornmeal, 1 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon baking powder, 3/4 teaspoon salt, 1-2 teaspoon soda, 2 eggs, 1-4 cup melted shortening, 1 1/4 cups sour milk, 1 teaspoon sugar.

Sift dry ingredients together. Beat eggs well and combine with sour milk and melted shortening. Add all at one time to flour mixture. Mix only enough to dampen all ingredients. Be careful not to take more than 30 seconds for this mixing. Turn into hot greased muffin pan. Bake in hot oven (400 degrees F.) until golden brown, about 20 minutes.

Gingerbread makes the ideal companion for stewed fresh fruits, and sour milk understands how to go about it.

Sour Milk Gingerbread
One-half cup butter, 1-2 cup brown sugar, 1 cup molasses, 2 1/2 cups sifted flour, 2 eggs, 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 1/2 teaspoons ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 1/2 teaspoons soda, 1 cup sour milk.

Cream butter, add sugar and cream together. Beat eggs well and add. Add molasses. Sift flour with spices, soda and salt. Add to other mixtures alternately with sour milk. Pour into greased shallow pan and bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for about 35 minutes.

A speck of salt greatly improves chocolate, caramel and white frostings and candies.

For cooking in the open, two fires often are more convenient than one. One may be used for the coffee and the other for roasting corn or frying ham and eggs.

Margaret Sartor, C. E. McCutcheon Marry Yesterday

Miss Margaret Sartor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. R. Sartor, and Clayton E. McCutcheon of Dallas were married yesterday in the home of the bride's parents, 705 N. Cuyler. The ceremony was read by John S. Mullen, pastor of the First Christian church.

Mrs. McCutcheon was dressed in white, with luggage tan accessories. She was attended by Miss Dona McCutcheon of Dallas. The home was decorated with roses for the occasion.

The young couple left immediately after the ceremony for Wichita Falls, Dallas, and other Texas points. They will make their home in Dallas, where Mr. McCutcheon is an attorney.

Attending the wedding were E. W. Blasingame and Miss La Neil Richards of Dallas.

MIND your MANNERS

Test your knowledge of correct social usage by answering the following questions, then checking against the authoritative answers below:

2. When a flag is displayed on a speaker's platform, where should it be placed?

3. Should a flag be used to drape over the speaker's desk?

4. If a flag is to be displayed at half-mast, is it necessary to raise it first to the peak?

5. When a flag is too soiled or old for use, how should it be destroyed?

What would you do if—
You were in a theater where the Star Spangled Banner was played as a finale?

(b) Rise and quietly leave the theater if you are in a hurry?
(c) Stand until the last bar is played?

Answers
1. To the observer's left.
2. Flat above and behind the speaker, or flown from a staff at the speaker's right.
3. No. Use bunting.
4. Yes, for an instant, and then lower it to half-mast.
5. By burning.

Add a little grated orange and lemon rind to iced tea for a delicate flavor. A few chopped mint leaves placed in the tea when steeping also give a subtle taste.

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
Boys are funny. When I say funny, it is with a smile, following the "Virginians" advice. We use the word when things or people puzzle us.

This is why they are funny. They would rather die almost, than show their real feelings. Oh, yes, they will give ready demonstrations of the lustier emotions, quick indignation, braggadocio and all the so-called male attributes, but their softer side they hide at the risk of almost anything they own.

There are a brother and sister, for instance, who could be much happier if the boy would merely concede that he likes his sister. But he won't. She would let him tramp on her, and he is willing slave, if only he would smile at her once in a while, but he won't be kind.

Key to the Mystery
He admitted to his mother once that "Sis was a better guy than anyone he knew almost," but in the same moment, he was bawling her out unmercifully for asking him to take her to a movie.

Their mother asked me what to do. "If I knew exactly what to do, I would know the answer to all boys," I told her. "They are sphinxes, the best of them. But I believe that if caught young and encouraged in owning up to the softer emotions, they would grow into the habit."

"As for children, boys are loving and confidential. They are as affectionate as little girls, and in many cases, more so.

"But this he-man stuff gets them, and suddenly they beat a retreat. Sometimes they continue to be close confidantes of their mothers and admit their love for her, but again not so. They close like clams, not only to friends, sisters and brothers but to parents as well. They think their own thoughts and live their own lives and the true young heart that beats beneath the school letters, seals its secret chambers against all prying.

Attitude Is Defense
"The reason is well enough known, of course. Boys, as a class, are more sensitive than girls, and their indifferent front to the world is a protection and defense. They dare not risk being thought soft, or held up to even the slightest hint of ridicule. Teasing is agony, if it strikes a vulnerable spot. The word they dread more than any other is "softy."

"It isn't a happy state, and men and boys who are able to unlock their true natures are better off.

"The mother, by beginning very early to encourage frank demonstrations and a co-operative family spirit may succeed in overcoming the boy's growing diffidence, or most of it, and he won't be afraid of the fellows sneering if he is nice to his sister."

A lad seems to put his friends' opinions before anything else, but if he only knew the truth, they are all in the same boat with him, afraid of each other; and in their deepest hearts they respect the one who is really true to himself, regardless of what others may say. Such a one can be a very fine example to his crowd.

CATS SCREECH BEHIND TRIBE IN 2ND PLACE

(By The Associated Press.)

The Oklahoma City Indians held a six-game lead over the field in the Texas league race today but cast fearful glances behind them at the screech of the Fort Worth Cats.

Riding the crest of a winning streak in which the Indians were included among the victims, the Panthers held second place by a margin of three and one-half games over the Tulsa Oilers and promised more trouble as the Cat machine, hitting on all cylinders, prepared for the stretch drive.

The Cats last night blasted the Oilers 9-6. Reid and LeBlanc held Tulsa to seven hits while their mates pounded three Oiler hurlers for an even dozen. The Panthers blasted out six runs in a seventh-inning spurge. It was their ninth straight victory.

The Indians walloped the hapless Dallas Steers in a doubleheader, 7-1 and 11-5. It was a dreary independence day for the Herd which tumbled within a game and a half of the cellar Houston Buffs, who got a rest when their game with Galveston was postponed due to wet grounds. Ash Hillin held the Steers to six hits in the opener to hang up his fifteenth pitching victory and then relieved Jim Moore in the final two innings of the nightcap.

San Antonio beat Beaumont 4-3, a balk, caused by a wet diamond, letting in the winning run in the eighth. John Johnson in preparing to deliver the ball slipped and fell. Empire Pate sent Buck Stanton home with the winning tally on the grounds of a balk.

CROSBY'S RACE PLANT OFF TO GOOD START

DEL MAR, Calif., July 5 (AP)—Built to seat 6,500 persons, Bing Crosby's million dollar racing plant made its bow Saturday with an attendance of nearly 15,000, many of them from the film colony.

Glad to see all you folks and hope you have a good time, was the honey greeting of the horse racing crooner in a welcome address. A few minutes later High Strike, from Crosby's stable, romped home winner by a length in the first race, a five-furlong event for maiden two-year-olds.

The Papi-mutuel handle for the day was $83,041. Crosby had hopelessly estimated it would reach $150,000. The handle for the $2,500 inaugural handicap alone was $35,486.

The handicap was won by Grey Count, owned by E. E. Fogelson of Chicago.

COST OF WEARING HAT: $5
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—A tell-tale hat resulted in a visitor to Judge Abernathy's court being fined $5 for drunkenness. The impromptu defendant insisted on wearing the chapeau despite warnings from the bench.

The plant Hale's corydalis was named after Josiah Hale, one of Louisiana's early botanists.

GET IN THE SWIM!

The rolling log stunt, using arms and legs as propellers.

By JACK POBUK

One of the best water stunts is the rolling log. It's good exercise for the spinal column and exhilarating fun.

You first assume the floating log position, lying face downward in the water, arms and legs extended, with your fingers locked overhead and your toes pointed.

Twisting your entire body, roll over on your side, then onto your back, then roll on your other side, and back on your face, and around and around again and again as a log would do.

The twist of the body should come from the shoulders and spine with your arms and legs acting as propellers.

NAVAJO BRAVE SHUNS HIS MOTHER IN LAW

FLAGSTAFF, Ariz., July 5 (AP)—A long striding Navajo brave—one of the 7,000 tribesmen here for the annual southwestern Indian powwow—strolled down Flagstaff's main street today, his squaw in his wake.

He ignored an elderly Navajo couple seated on the sidewalk, but the squaw stopped and greeted them warmly. White visitors puzzled, scratched their heads, and wondered whether the squaw would, white-like, reprimand him.

The squaw didn't, however, for it's just an old Navajo custom to ignore your mother-in-law. Tribal tradition has it that if a brave looks at her he may go blind or become bewitched by the devil spirit. It was not unusual when the tribe was self governing for a brave to marry both daughter and mother if the mother were a widow, just to eliminate the mother-in-law influence.

OHIO PHYSICIAN WILL BE 102 ON TUESDAY

BETHEL, Ohio, July 5 (AP)—Dr. W. E. Thompson, the nation's oldest practicing physician, approaching his 102nd birthday today, "with the nerves of a man of 32," and the zest of youth for the work he has done for nearly four-score years.

Slight-statured, but erect, and hindered only by rather pronounced deafness, Dr. Thompson daily attends whoever may call at his office-home. Several times weekly he is driven to and from the bedside of patients in outlying areas. There will be no departure from the daily routine on his birthday next Tuesday.

Only last week, he excused himself from visitors with the explanation: "I've got to go see a patient of mine who has a heart condition. He's 70—and I don't think he'll make it."

GOOD NEIGHBOR CREED NEEDED WITH NATION

There has been many a march on Washington, from the British invasion in the War of 1812 down to the "bonus army" of 1932; but there never was one with quite that heart-in-the-throat quality that goes with the present demand of the Boy Scouts of America.

Twenty-five thousand of these lads have taken possession of the city. They are not there to seek any favors or exert any pressure; they are simply a bunch of healthy, wholly admirable American boys out to have a good time, to see their country's capital and, just incidentally, to show what a fine set of boys this country can produce. And it does one good to see them down there.

There is something about a Scout Jamboree of this kind that makes a thoughtful adult feel just a little bit ashamed of himself. These youngsters are still free from those trails of jealousy, suspicion, and ill-will which somehow seem to beset all grownups who go to Washington.

In the Scout troops there are all sorts of boys; boys from city slums and boys from small towns, boys whose fathers are wealthy and boys whose fathers are distressingly poor. Twenty years from now these boys will be more or less what their fathers are now—and the free, wholesome comradeship that now holds them together will be gone forever.

Instead, they will share the divisions that curse our grownup world. The poor ones, as likely as not, will be denouncing the rich ones as economic royalists, and the rich ones will be accusing the poor ones of trying to overturn American institutions.

Most of them will be demanding that Washington do something for them—at the expense, if necessary, of all the others—and wanting to know what the country is coming to if the demand is refused.

All of which is simply to say that the easy, uncritical fellowship of boyhood vanishes as boys become men. Life is still pretty much a devil-take-the-hindmost scramble, and it makes a man forget that he has a community of interest with all his fellow citizens. It is mortally easy to get the feeling that men of a different economic or social class are going to get the better of you, if you don't get the better of them first.

And there is something about the spectacle of these Boy Scouts at Washington that makes one understand that our way of living—or, more accurately, our way of looking at life—with its divisions and its unsleeping suspicions, is badly warped.

Our country happens to need this feeling of solidarity, of common striving for a common goal, about as badly as any country could; yet it has to go to the Boy Scouts to find it.

WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The man who stood out in front and fought the C. I. O. and the President's Steel Strike Mediation Board was Tom Girdler of the Republic Steel Corporation.

But the man who supplied the real backbone and force of the battle of the independent companies against labor organization was President Eugene Grace of the Bethlehem Corporation. All those who have had intimate contact with the strike and the efforts to settle it agree that if Grace and Bethlehem second largest concern in the industry, had not stood out against John L. Lewis, there probably would have been no major strike.

Members of the mediation board privately report that Grace acted the part of a pleasant, reasonable gentleman while Girdler made all the noise when the would-be mediators met the steel men.

It appears that Bethlehem had most to lose. It may not be true, as C. I. O. leaders insist, that Grace worked on Wall Street banking influences to get Republic into the fight against Lewis. Girdler always has fought the unions and is understood to have ambitions to head a steel merger which will out-rank the United States Steel corporation.

But the union also charges that Bethlehem has a lower wage structure than other steel companies and that this, plus the fact that it imports most of its ore, gives it a competitive advantage it would be loath to lose.

And this charge has more substantiation. A survey just completed by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, shows that the average steel worker whose work was spread over 52 weeks of the year earned at the time of the survey $1043 in the Eastern district, $1063 in the Southern district, $1123 in the Pittsburgh district and $1177 in the Great Lakes-Midwestern district.

The significance of these figures lies in the fact that practically all of the industry in the Eastern district is at the Bethlehem plants in Bethlehem, Pa., Johnston, Pa., and Sparrows Point, Md.

United States Steel has sought to get uniform wage structure in the industry in order to eliminate this competitive advantage, and Bethlehem has struggled to preserve that advantage, according to authorities. Grace has been the outstanding spokesman

THE CONGRESSIONAL TRAIN OF THOUGHT

Man About Manhattan

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK.—It was just two minutes before midnight when Joe Howard, motoring a red cap toward his bags, sauntered through Grand Central terminal and boarded a fast train for Texas. The old song writer, who was pegging tear-jerkers when Tim Pan Alley wasn't even a foot-path, was heading south.

It may be that the name Howard, confronting you suddenly in cold type, doesn't mean much. . . . but it will when you think back and remember he wrote "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now?"

There's a legend about that song, and how it came to be written. Howard and some friends were strengthening themselves against the rigors of Chicago's bitter cold (this was in 1904) at the Golden Horseshoe bar of the old Brevort.

It was a Friday night. Into the bar came a couple of college boys, in turtle-neck sweaters and small caps. One of the lads was sobbing in a distressing manner. He carried a much-read letter in his hand, a letter from his girl informing him the jig was up insofar as he was concerned. She had stepped out and got herself another beau.

His pal, bitterly reflecting upon the vicissitudes of life, queried: "I wonder who's kissing her now?" Howard heard the question. Suddenly he borrowed a pencil, and there, at the Golden Horseshoe bar, he began to write on a scrap of brown paper:

"I wonder who's kissing her now? I wonder who's teaching her now? I wonder if she . . . ever tells him of me. . . ."

That was more than 30 years ago! The song, the most stickily sentimental ballad ever turned out, set the style for ballads then. It's still being sung.

What brought all this up was the trick of fate that deposited me in Grand Central at the identical moment when Joe, ticket in hand, tossed his luggage to a porter and marched off toward his train.

The porter could not have known who Howard was. Yet, as he trudged along, he was humming an old familiar tune. The one that goes: "I wonder who's kissing her now. . . ."

Frank Black's recent fan gift of a tiny ivory model piano has proved costly. So many friends have admired it, that Black has had to have almost 100 reproductions made as gifts.

Although the Irish are reputed a dominant race in New York, they are numerically only fifth. The Jews and Italians have the largest populations.

IT'S HAY FEVER

By Marie Waters

If you can do nothing but sneeze—If you sneeze through the long day—If you sneeze at night and freeze—And burn up and stay

In bed occasionally, and take Some oil and now and then a pill. Still you sneeze, and then an ache Appears—your nose is sore, but still

You have a snort and wheeze And a roaring in your ears—Each sputter followed by a sneeze, No one can calm your fears—

If the room is cold and hot And shivers creep down your spine, It's hay fever you've got, But you'll survive in time.

People You Know

By ARCHER FULLINGIM

Nobody knew the little wart, but everybody felt sorry for him, even the kids who laughed at him. He was about 13 years old and he was small for his age, but seldom does one see an adult as drunk as that boy was. He could not walk steady or see straight. "I drunk two bottles of beer," he said. "The two guys (men) who were with me drank more than I did but they didn't get as drunk as me. Yeah, I bought them the beer. . . . We were riding around and every once in a while we'd stop at a beer joint. . . . I had five dollars. . . . Sure I worked for it. . . . I can take care of myself—I've been drunk before." The child's tongue was thick as he talked. . . . Around him were dozens of other boys, laughing at the way the child staggered and caught at things to keep from falling. . . . And at the slant of his eyes, which were out of focus. There was a shiner on one of his eyes. "What's wrong with your eyes?" one of his audience asked. "Aw, they (the two guys) told me I had a fight but I don't remember it. . . ."

AROUND HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD.—Even after years in Hollywood, it's startling to walk on a set and see a movie orchid ironing a blue work shirt. Or ironing anything. It's like catching your laundress strumming her harp, if you have a harp.

Movie stars don't do their own ironing, except in pictures. When I saw Sylvia Sydney ironing away, it was surprising. She looked as if she knew how to iron. Her stance was correct. Her approach was almost professional. She said that was no wonder, because in pre-movie days she'd done her share of ironing.

That made it funnier when Director William Wyler, who claims to be a smoothie when it comes to ironing, tried to iron out her technique. He interfered when first she took the hot flat-iron off the cookstove. Wanted her to wait until she reached the ironing board before she tested the iron with wet finger.

"You always test the iron at the stove, not at the board," Sylvia said, not without smugness. "Suppose the iron wasn't hot enough? Then you'd have to walk back to the stove."

"Don't care how you look," said Sylvia. "Do you want to have every woman in the country writing letters telling me I don't know how to iron?"

That settled it. Sylvia won, too, on the way an ironer sprinkled a shirt. Wyler, who'd seen a number of Chinese laundries at work, wanted her to fill her mouth with water and blow on the shirt.

It's little things like this that can show up a director.

Smack-on-the-nose pen portrait of Jimmy Durante is this:

"Off the screen, Durante talks and acts as he does in pictures. He talks equally fast from either side of his nose, speaking in short, jerky sentences, hurling his words at his listener with his whole body."

"In a conversation, Durante retreats behind his nose and lies in wait for the question. It comes. He darts out, pounces upon it, wrestles with it, tears at it, and spits it back out of the corner of his mouth, a

RABBITS AND PNEUMONIA
The story is told of a French sausage maker who sold a sausage made 50-50 of horse meat and rabbit, that is, one horse and one rabbit.

While the rabbit is no match for the horse in sausage making, it does appear to prove a match, and more as a source of serum to be used in the treatment of certain types of pneumonia. Indeed, rabbit serum as a therapeutic agent in lobar pneumonia is so markedly superior to that derived from horses that it is quite likely that the rabbit market will experience a boom.

First, there is the item of economy. Estimates indicate that, unit per unit, the protective substance of rabbit serum will cost about one-fifth as much as that of horse serum. Furthermore, almost 100 per cent of the rabbits used, when properly treated, produce anti-serum against Type I pneumococcus, whereas not all horses treated produce potent serum.

It takes six months or more for a horse to produce pneumococcus anti-serum, whereas in the case of rabbits, it is possible to obtain within four weeks anti-pneumococcus serum from the rabbit, which is about four times as concentrated as that of the horse.

Certain individuals are sensitive to horse serum and in them the administration of anti-pneumococcus serum derived from the horse gives rise to disturbing and dangerous reactions. In addition, the use of horse serum is sometimes followed by what are termed "chill reactions" and "serum sickness." All of these hazards and untoward developments are substantially reduced when rabbit serum is used.

According to a recent report from the hospital of the Rockefeller Institute for Medical Research where much of the work on anti-pneumococcus rabbit serum has been done, rabbit anti-pneumococcus serum is more effective than horse serum in the prevention of common complication of pneumonia, empyema (infection of the pleural coverings of the lung and chest wall).

Many of the experimental work on rabbits has been done with the pneumococci Type I. There is reason to believe that rabbits will prove even better sources of protective serums for the other types of pneumococci than horses have proved in the past.

Handbook on Americanism

Today is Independence day. Could you recite the Declaration of independence from memory? It is very brief, and may be read aloud in 10 or 12 minutes.

Intelligent citizenship begins with a thorough knowledge of the constitution and its forerunners, the Declaration of Independence and the colonial Articles of Confederation.

Complete texts of all three of these immortal documents are available to readers of the Pampa Daily News. This service booklet on the constitution also sketches the history behind each great document, tells of the men who framed them, the circumstances of their adoption and ratification. Grunt And Groan Boys To Come Back Here Tonight

The age old game of arm twisting, leg pulling and an occasional sock will be revived in Pampa tonight after an absence of more than two years when Pomoteer Chiff Chambers of Los Angeles, Calif., will present an all-star wrestling card at the new Pampa Athletic arena at the corner of Wynne and Atchison streets, four blocks east and one block south of the post office.

Popular admission prices will prevail at all matches with reserve ring-side tickets on sale at Pampa Drug for tonight's card at 77 cents. General admission will be 40 cents with children admitted to 25 cents.

Headlining tonight opening card will be the one and only Sailor Tex Watkins of Post who will cross punches and exchange holds, may be, with Shiek Ben Ala Mar Allah of Persia, the grappler who two weeks ago got a chance at Champion Jack Reynolds after an elimination contest.

A newcomer to Panhandle wrestling fans, and one who has been making the big boys around Tulsa and Oklahoma City sit up and take notice, Gust Johnson of Seattle, Wash., will be featured in the semi-final with Vic Webber of Brooklyn as his opponent.

Opening the card will be a time limit affair between Tarzan Krause, a def mite, and an as yet unnamed opponent.

Third man in the ring will be that ever popular and lovable old rascal, Dutch Mantell of Amarillo.

SACRIFICIAL COWS
NYACK, N. Y. (AP)—Apparently victorious in a five year battle, two officers of the state agricultural department arrived at Robert Gibson's farm to administer tuberculin tests to his two cows.

They tried to keep their visit secret, arriving at 5 a. m., in an effort to outwit Gibson, who had opposed the tests. But Gibson "won." He had shot the cows at 1 a. m.

President Roosevelt will throw out the first ball at 1:30 p. m. (E. S. T.)

The game is heralded by Secretary Ed Eymon of the Washington club, as a sellout. The gate, less the operating expenses will be turned over to a fund for indigent players.

Last year at Boston the National league club halted the American leaguers, 4-3, breaking a string of triumphs that had extended since the game was first played at Chicago. The two great hurlers, Dizzy Dean and Carl Hubbell, who turned back the junior circuit hitters, plus the talented Van Lingle Mungo, Brooklyn's exponent of the "high hand one," and the highest hitting infield and outfield the older league has yet been able to muster.

Managers Bill Terry of the Giants, and Joe McCarthy of the Yankees have chosen the teams for this year's game, a departure from the original idea which assigned this duty to the fans. Fans have protested some of the elections violently, particularly in the National league, where Terry's choice of Arky Vaughan, Pittsburgh shortstop to play third base over the circuit's regular third sackers has given the solid citizens of Brooklyn and Philadelphia, home cities of Joe Stripp and Pinkie Whitney, plenty to shout about.

The American league will use such sluggers as Lou Gehrig, Hank Greenberg, Joe Cronin and Bill Dickey, outstanding batsman in a league never shy of men handy with the wood.

Usually deficient at the plate against their American league rivals the National leaguers have plenty of power for this game. Ducky Medwick, Cardinal outfielder, is top man of a batting order that packs power and punch from top to bottom. In includes Paul Waner, Mel Ott, Vaughan, Dick Bartell, Gabby Hartnett, Johnny Mize and Jimmy Collins.

Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, who has been in every all-star game save last year's, will probably start for the junior circuit. He had pitched a one-hitter and a five hit shut-out his last two times out. After he pitches his three innings, the maximum effort allowed each hurler in this game, McCarthy can call on the aging but wily Lefty Grove, Detroit's Tommy Bridges, Wes Ferrell of the Senators, Mel Harder of the Indians, and Monty Stratton of the White Sox.

The United States government now has more than $12,000,000,000 worth of monetary gold stocks—nearly three times what all the world had in 1914.

Colorful Persian Wrestles Tonight

The picturesque gentleman above is Shiek Ben Ala Mar Allah of Persia who will meet the famous sailor, Tex Watkins, in the main event of Cliff Chambers first wrestling card tonight at the Pampa Athletic arena, corner Atchison and Wynne, at 8:30 o'clock.

The Mar Allah-Watkins match will be supported by a semi-final between Gust Johnson, Seattle Swede, and Vic Webber, Brooklyn batter. A good preliminary will open the card.

BORGANS WILL PLAY OILERS TUESDAY NIGHT

PAMPANS AGAIN DOWN BLACKFACES 8 TO 5

Dale Mills, formerly of Portland, Ore., put a patched-up lineup behind him yesterday afternoon and pitched a brilliant nine-hit performance to defeat the Huber Blackfaces of Berger, 8 to 5, at Huber Park. The Blackfaces had four return engagements in Pampa tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock.

With Pitcher Carl Stewart in left field taking Manager Fred Brickell's place, Shortstop Sam Baugh in right instead of Sam Scalling, and Scalling in first base, the Oilers were anything but at full strength. Manager Brickell was in Wichita, Kas., on baseball business and Lefty Cox, first baseman, was on the bench with a fractured rib.

Huber collected a run in the first inning, after the Oilers had picked up two, but that was the end of the ninth the Blackfaces fell before Mills' change of pace and baffling curve ball. In the final frame, with two men on base, Pitcher Chody bagged a triple down the left field line and Keston doubled. In all four runs crossed the plate before the side was retired.

After the Oilers had gotten away to a two-run lead off Chody in the first, Al Summers came up with a home run in the second. Eddie Sain added to his many base hits by getting three off Chody. Carl Stewart, Baugh and Mills bagged a pair each to help in the 12-hit assault of the usually stingy Chody.

While the Oilers were winning in Berger, Pitcher Sam Dalley went to Amherst and turned out to be a big hitter as well as a winning chucker when he singled home the winning run.

The Blackfaces will be here Tuesday to see whether they can make the count 5 to 2 over the Oilers or

Frenchman Takes First Round in Qualifying Play

CORNOUSTIE, Scotland, July 5 (AP)—Aubrey Boomer, the tall, thin, 40-year-old Frenchman who was runner-up for the title ten years ago, rattled around Carnoustie's testing course in 69, two under par, today to break Hector Thompson's course record by one shot and take an early lead in the first round of qualifying play for the British open championship.

Walter Hagen, who captained America's winning Ryder cup team, made his first tour of the neighboring Burnside links in a swaggering 71, even par. His partner, Tony Manero, U. S. champion in 1936, was one stroke back.

Henry Picard, the lanky, smooth-swinging American Ryder cupper from Hershey, Pa., dropped a stroke to par on each of Carnoustie's nines for a 73.

Wee Bobby Cruickshank, the native-born Scot who has been an American pro since shortly after the war, had trouble with his irons all day and posted a six-over-par 77 at Burnside.

Horton Smith, Ace American putter who was left off the Ryder Cup team because of a lame back, came through with another 69 over the championship Carnoustie course to tie Boober for the lead. Meanwhile, at Burnside, Ireland's Pat Mahon was posting a one-under-par 70 to better Hagen's short-lived course record by one stroke.

GRATER SOUGHT
SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y. (AP)—Mrs. William H. Deffen says she has picked pears from that tree in the corner of her garden for eight years, and she doesn't know what to make of things now. "This spring" she said, "the tree had more than the usual amount of blossoms. Then the fruit started growing, stopped, and turned red. Now they are cherries."

Bob Feller's Arm Holds Up In 3 To 2 Loss To Detroit

By SID FEDER, Associated Press Sports Writer.

It was a glorious Fourth for a lot of baseball folks, particularly those sporting uniforms of the New York Yankees and Chicago Cubs, but you'd have to look a long way today to find a happier lad than Master Robert Feller.

Master Robert was like a kid with his first firecracker, all because that mysterious salary wing of his apparently has stopped acting, up and is now ready to take a regular pitching turn for the Cleveland Indians.

If tradition holds good the Yanks and Cubs, leading in the pennant parade on the July 4 deadline, will be fighting it out in next fall's world series. Now all they have to do is stay in the driver's seat until October 3.

To Feller this July 4 goes down in the book as a red letter day. Most publicized youngster of the year, he has been the season's biggest bust to date. They did everything but write songs about that fast ball of his before the campaign started, but his arm went sour his first time out, and he's been on the shelf ever since.

Although he lost a 3-2 decision to the Tigers yesterday, his arm stood the test like Glenn Cunningham's mile record. In four innings, he fanned four batsmen and generally had things in hand. In the fourth, he made a wild peg to third that set the stage for the only hit off him, Pete Fox's single, which produced two of the three Tiger tallies.

Despite the victory, the Tigers dropped to fourth place in the American league, since the surging Boston Red Sox socked the Philadelphia Athletics twice, 7-6 and 4-2, to jump into third.

The Yankees retained a 3½ game lead in the American league as Lefty Gomez pitched a five-hit shutout to whip the Senators, 7-0.

The Cubs split a couple of slug-ging bouts with the Pirates, taking the first 8-5 on three homers, and losing the nightcap, 7-6. The even break left the Chicago clouters one game in front of the New York Giants in the National league chase. After being held to two hits by Van Mungo for six innings, the Giants teed off for four runs in the eighth and topped the Brooklyn

HOUSTON'S ANNUAL BASEBALL TOURNAMENT OPENS AUG. 29

HOUSTON, July 3 (AP)—The Houston Post's third annual $10,000 semi-pro baseball tournament, which draws some of the leading teams of the nation will open Sunday, August 29, and continue through Sept. 8.

The event, which last year drew 46,000 fans in 10 days, will be held at the Texas league stadium here.

The Hattiesburg Cementers of Hattiesburg, Miss., 1936 national champions, will be in the competition again and the team that wins the national title this year at the Wichita, Kas., tourney will be invited to play.

The Monterrey Carta Blancas, one of the strongest clubs in Mexico, will participate and there was a strong possibility a bid would be sent the House of David nine.

At least 12 Texas teams including probably the Pampa Oilers, managed by Fred Brickell, and the Texon Oilers, piloted by Snipe Conley, who holds the Texas league record for consecutive games won, will play.

Many of the teams will come from the Houston vicinity, where a year ago some of the fastest semi-pro baseball in the country was played.

The Gusher nine, with a lineup of former minor league stars, including George Mills, Cy Cashion, "Red" Biggers, Phil Kirchman, Bob Kalbitz, and Tom Fyle, was one of the nation's outstanding teams last year.

Tea was pronounced "tay" until the middle of the 18th century.

Dodgers 6-5 to remain just off the pace.

The White Sox whipped the Browns twice, 4-2 and 9-5. Dizzy Dean pitched a seven-hitter and Lon Warneke a four-hitter as the Cards clubbed Cincinnati 1-0 and 5-2. The Bees boosted themselves into fifth place in the National league with a twin win over the Phillies, 14-9 and 4-2, the latter going ten innings until Eddie Mayo's homer broke it up.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Dizzy Dean and Lon Warneke, Cardinals: Allowed seven and four hits, respectively, in 1-0 and 5-2 doubleheader win over Reds. Dean fanning eight in first game.

Lefty Gomez, Yankees: Blanked Senators 7-0 with five hits. Jojo Moore, Giants: His double drove in tying and winning runs for 6-5 victory over Dodgers.

Curt Davis, Cubs, and Pep Young, Pirates: Davis made first pitching start of year and hit homer and single, driving in four runs in 8-5 opener victory; Young hit homer in each game, driving in two runs in 7-6 nightcap win.

Pete Fox, Tigers: His single in fourth drove in two runs for 3-2 victory over Indians.

Eddie Mayo, Bees: Drove in three runs in 14-9 opener win over Phillies, and won second game, 4-2, with homer in tenth with mate aboard.

Ben Chapman and Pinkie Higgins, Red Sox: Former's double in eighth drove in winning run for 7-6 victory over Athletics; Higgins' two singles sent two runs across in 4-2 nightcap decision.

Ted Lyons and Monte Stratton, White Sox: Each pitched eight-hitter to take win over Browns, 4-2 and 9-5.

'YANKEE JACK' CLOSING SHOP
MOOSE, Wyo. (AP)—"Yankee Jack" Woodman, manager of the Flying V trading post well known in this part of Wyoming, is "abdicating." He said so in an advertisement in newspaper. He explained, his customers "never had paid yet." The advertisement offered his overdue accounts for sale at one cent on the dollar and, in addition, describing a "complete postoffice, except government equipment, with fresh stock of stamps from New York" that he would sell.

LINEUPS FOR ALL-STAR GAME AT WASHINGTON ANNOUNCED

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—There hasn't been so much fuss since Fred Merkle forgot to touch second, as big league baseball has stirred up with Wednesday's fifth presentation of its five-star special, the all-star game.

They took the player selection away from the fans, and since then the howls have been pouring in faster than Van Mungo's fireball.

Expectations are for a full house at Griffith stadium (capacity 32,000), thereby evening up for the financial beating taken in last year's production at Boston.

All signs point to the expected clash of power and pitching between the American league's larping bats, on the one side, and the screwball, fireball and fogball flinging of Messrs. Carl Hubbell, Mungo, and Dizzy Dean, respectively, on the other.

The betting odds give a slight edge to the American leaguers because of their power hitting ability, although the Nationals are coming to the wars with a generally higher batting lineup, led by the re-nicknamed Muscle Medwick.

The senior circuit is out for its second straight triumph. The American leaguers took the first three engagements, from 1933 to '35.

Here's the way the two teams may take the field, with the years of all-star service, and all-star batting averages for each man:

STATES VARY THEIR STYLES OF STILL

HOUSTON (AP)—Federal judge Charles B. Kennamer of Birmingham, Ala., says the moonshiners of Alabama and Texas have different ideas as to the best place to secrete a still.

"In Alabama," he explains, "they operate the stills in the mountains. In Texas you find them in private residences. To me it is a novel situation when you find such things in a home."

Photographic studies of big-horn mountain sheep, taken at close range, are being attempted in Death Valley national monument. Blinds have been built to conceal camera men.

CIO STRIKERS REFORM LINES ON 2 FRONTS

CLEVELAND O., July 5 (AP)—Cio's strike legions, pepped by Fourth of July oratorical fireworks that terrific rainstorms could not dismay, reformed their lines today on the last two remaining strike battle grounds—Cleveland and Indiana Harbor, Ind.

Troops were moved into Cleveland to preserve the peace when Republic Steel reopens its four large plants here tomorrow.

There were no troops at Indiana Harbor where the Youngstown Sheet & Tube company is awaiting guarantees of safety for its men before reopening; but there were pleas for troops, and a prediction that "there will be bloodshed if protection is not supplied immediately."

The union's crack orators sought at Fourth of July rallies to put new iron into their men's determination to "fight it out" (as Ralph Murray, strike chairman, put it) "a week, a month, a year, ten years."

Pennsylvania's "new deal" governor George Earle flew through a thunderstorm to reach a rain-soaked rally at Johnstown, Pa., and tell the cheering strikers and sympathizers: "You don't need acts of violence when you have Franklin Delano Roosevelt in Washington, a liberal congress, and a governor like me."

A committee of six ministers of Indiana Harbor reported that 86.8 per cent of the steel workers in the Calumet area voted in a secret poll they favored "return to work with safety," and 12.2 per cent wanted to remain on strike.

Gov. Townsend made no sign that he would meet the requests for troops at Indiana Harbor.

Ohio troops were sent to Cleveland at the request of Mayor Harold Burton and Sheriff Martin O'Donnell.

With the reopening of steel plants here tomorrow, only the Calumet area will remain with strike-closed plants; and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co., the only corporation still affected here, is expected to reopen possibly by midweek.

Johnstown's Youngstown and Warren, O., mass meetings yesterday all brought out ringing declarations by CIO leaders that the strike is being vigorously carried on.

Philip Murray, at Johnstown, said "all we ask is a square deal, and we have every reason to believe our pickets (in the reopening of steel plants) are not getting that kind of a deal."

Clinton S. Golden, Pittsburgh regional director of CIO, at Youngstown said "We've just begun to fight. The steel makers and leaders of the back-to-work movement have shot their wad."

intervene in private law suits attacking constitutionality of acts of congress.

Convinced that the only outer method now available—impeachment trial before the senate—is ineffective, Summers would permit trial and ouster of judges before a special court.

The Texas, who features resemble Daniel Webster's, is the only man who has helped prosecute three impeachment trials before the senate.

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—The hotly-contested battle over revamping the Supreme Court enters its decisive phase this week after exactly five months of preliminary skirmishing.

Majority leader Robinson (D-Ark.) probably will call up the president's judiciary bill for senate consideration late tomorrow, and immediately ask adjournment until Thursday. The senate will be in recess Wednesday because of the all-star baseball game here.

Administration leaders indicated their first maneuver on Thursday would be to ask consideration of the compromise introduced by Senator Logan (D-Ky.) as a substitute for the President's original proposal.

Logan's measure would authorize appointment of one additional justice each year to supplement members of the court who fail to retire at 75.

The original bill would have empowered the president to appoint five new justices immediately—one for each incumbent over 70.

Logan said he was certain of 54 votes—a majority of five—for the compromise. The same number, he added, can be counted on to vote against any effort to sidetrack or amend the new bill.

Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), veteran of a score of bitter parliamentary battles, will lead the opposition. He insisted his supporters could defeat the president's proposal and if necessary prevent indefinitely a vote on any compromise.

NUDISTS' PARENTS ARRESTED.
PERRIS, Calif., July 5 (AP)—Nude children shooting fire crackers on a farm a quarter of a mile from the business section of Perris led to the arrest of their parents today on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of minors. Deputy Sheriff E. J. Burr said citizens complained that their children were playing activities in the nudist camp, which had been in operation two weeks.

LEAD ROOF STOLEN
VENICE, July 5 (AP)—The entire roof of the world famous Bridge of Sighs—two tons of lead—was discovered today to have been stolen. The theft was found out when rain began to leak through the structure which has been visited by literally millions of Americans.

First Family of Land at Son's Wedding

LAMBRECHT WRITES CONCLUDING ARTICLE ON SALVATION ARMY

(This is the last of a series of articles by Herman Lambrecht of the Salvation Army. In this one, Capt. Lambrecht summarizes the work and objectives of the Army.)

By CAPT. HERMAN LAMBRECHT

During the past several weeks it has been the object of this writer to present to the public in Pampa and surrounding territory a picture of The Salvation Army as it is our desire to see it established here.

All of the material used in the preparation of these articles has been carefully selected and only absolute facts have been used.

May we repeat a statement made in the first article of this series. The Salvation Army is unique in that it numbers among its many friends many who are willing to take its word for granted. On the other hand, we are occasionally subjected to criticism by citizens who are equally honest in their point of view but similarly uninformed as to our peculiar field of operations and our reasons for approaching it as we do. We are human enough to enjoy the unquestioning approval of our friends; and we hope we are intelligent enough to heed the helpful and constructive suggestions of our critics. But, whether it be praise or blame, we prefer that it be based upon a full knowledge of our ultimate purposes and a complete grasp of our wide range of religious and humanitarian service.

There are a number of the institutions mentioned in this series of articles that are not located in Pampa but admittance to same is possible through application to the local corps.

At present the Army has in operation its religious program as well as a limited social service program. It is our desire to cooperate as far as possible with all local social programs and thus become a part of Pampa in a very permanent way.

We wish to take this opportunity of thanking the editor of the Pampa Daily News for publishing this information.

In conclusion, let us express our thanks to the public for the way in which we have been received and say that the Army is ready to serve the community in every way possible and a call to the local headquarters on any matter will be promptly attended to. In brief the following may be said to be the objective of every Salvation Army officer:

"Study and develop your work at its point of intersection with the other services and social activities of your community. Learn to do your daily tasks not any less thoroughly, but to do them from the basis of the whole and with that background always in mind. After all society is one fabric, and when you know the resources of your community, both public and private, and the main trends of its life rather than any particular small section of it, you are able to knit into the pattern of that fabric the threads of your own speciality. There are eddies and whirlpools, not to say crasses. Disregard them and let your minds carry thru to the practical next steps by which genuine social advance is achieved."

structures. The original plan of the city calls for all government buildings to be on Constitution Avenue, and this plan is now being followed in the erection of new buildings.

We have had many visitors in our camp from Texas. Miss Altravine Clark, Marvin Jones's secretary, ate supper with us a few nights ago, and we have invited Mr. Jones to eat with us.

Yesterday afternoon Ike Cumberland and Jack Hessey put on a swapping act, over the air (NBC and CBS). Swapping is a great pastime in camp. Boys brought articles from their own state which they trade for other things from distant parts of the country. Some of our troop brought live horned toads, cactus, beargrass, arrowweeds, Indian beads, and many other things of similar nature.

We have inaugurated the belt-award system in our troop. Whenever a boy accomplishes something or has been on official duty, a design is stenciled on his belt. This helps the looks of the belt immensely, for the designs are all different and in different colors. Everybody is trying to see if he can't get more designs on his belt than anybody else.

just like I did the others. She struggled on the ground. She slaved at the dirt and kicked but pretty soon she grew quiet. I knotted a rope around her neck, too."

Lifeline Bodies Violated

Madeline, the baby of the trio and the first to die, was then attacked. The lifeline bodies of the others were violated in turn.

His blue jeans stained with blood, Dyer was quoted as saying he hurried out of the hills and changed his clothes at his house, eating a "good supper" about 5:30 p. m. "Then I went down to see if anything was doing about the girls being missing from home."

All day Sunday, while search for the trio was intensified, Dyer waited around, offering suggestions to authorities.

During the ensuing manhunt, which spread throughout Southern California, Dyer remained conspicuous. Several times he offered "tips" to officers on possible suspects. He was himself questioned early in the week, but lured investigators' doubts by claiming he was employed at a Saturday afternoon in his garden.

Dyer's first questioning was the result of a story by 14-year-old Mike Tueria, who reported to police Chief Oscar E. Campbell instances when the crossing guard assisted attempted to lure other children from the park.

"This little Mexican youth should share in the bulk of the reward," Chief Campbell said.

Confession Doubtful

Filts said he was filling three murder charges against Dyer. Doubt was cast on Dyer's alleged confession by Merle O. Everett, father of the slain sisters, who asserted "some men will confess anything under pressure, you know, especially if they're a little weak-minded."

Everett insisted the girls could not have walked the five miles from the Ingewood park to the ravine

DIES IN SLEEP.
LUFKIN, July 5 (AP)—Mayor Kenneth Hoskins, 49, active in Lufkin civic affairs for many years, died in his sleep early today. He complained yesterday he was not feeling well after a holiday outing at the Pine Island Fishing Club. A physician recommended he remain in bed, but his condition was not considered serious. A heart attack during the night proved fatal.

Rocke composing the earth's crust are grouped by geologists into three main classes—igneous, sedimentary and metamorphic.

FRANCES ALLEN DIES AND IS BURIED HERE

Frances Allen, 15, daughter of Mrs. D. A. Patterson, was buried in Fairview cemetery Saturday evening following services in the chapel at Pampa Mortuary. The Rev. John O. Scott, pastor of Central Baptist church, officiated.

The former Pampa high school girl died in Abilene Friday afternoon. She is survived by her mother.

Lindbergh Paddles Collapsible Boat

LONDON, July 5 (AP)—A dispatch to the London Daily Mail today told how Col. Charles A. Lindbergh paddled a collapsible rubber boat a quarter of a mile at midnight to St. Gilda's island off the coast of France.

The American aviator flew from England Friday, heading for the island frequently used as a retreat by Dr. Alexis Carrel, the Rockefeller Institute scientist with whom Lindbergh cooperated in developing a mechanical brain.

The story of his arrival was told by Mlle. Yvette Jesquel, whose father acts as messenger between the Britanny coast and the mile square island.

"Late Friday night his big black and orange monoplane swooped down over the island as if to give the signal he was coming," the girl said. "He then flew to the airport at Dinant."

The flier motored 30 miles to Port Blanc where the usual motor boat from St. Gilda's failed to meet him.

The Colonel, however, had brought a collapsible rubber boat from his plane.

"He had to blow up the boat with a hand pump," said the narrator, "and then launched it and paddled to the island just before midnight."

There was a report that Lindbergh would conduct scientific research on the island.

o'clock this morning which had reached 92 degrees at 11:30 a. m. Fire Chief Ben White reported that yesterday marked the first Fourth of July in years that Pampa had not had at least a minor fire. Not a single alarm was turned in yesterday, he stated.

Only Few Arrests.

Sheriff's officers also reported an unusually quiet day with no accidents and only one or two arrests for minor infractions of the law.

District, county and city courts were closed today. Jurymen originally summoned for today have been notified to appear for service in district court at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

A Sunrise Dance of the American Legion attracted many dancers to the Southern club between midnight and 5 a. m. today.

Many Pampans today headed for Canadian where they were to attend the concluding day's show of the Anvil Park rodeo. Others had gone to Dalhart where an annual celebration is being staged this afternoon.

probably were being broadcast from the coast or one of the islands of the Phoenix group.

The messages last night apparently came from the same locality where a "squel" was heard Saturday night, radio operators said. They reported last night they heard a voice which they believed was a man's saying:

"From Earhart."

This was followed by a series of undecipherable numbers.

As radio men swept the air lanes with every facility of modern communication at their command in an effort to locate the source of the signals American warships sped toward Howland from two directions.

The giant aircraft carrier Lexington and four destroyers pushed westward from San Diego under forced draft while southward from Honolulu steamed the first line battleship Colorado.

TASTY HIGHWAY
 RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Virginia's experiment with salt roads was very successful, said highway department officials, except for the sheep. A flock found a section of road on which salt was being tried as a binder, and licked big holes in the surface before they could be driven away.

TOO EFFICIENT
 SHELBY, N. C. (AP)—Local firemen had to pour hot water on their fountain to get iced water. The laddies, tired of tepid water, rigged up refrigerating apparatus from several coils of pipe, an old drink stand, and other accessories. The gadget worked too well, and the boys had to thaw out an eight inch layer of ice on the pipes before the water would flow.

A DOG'S DEVOTION
 TOKYO, (AP)—Every morning at 4 o'clock, a drum is beaten at the village shrine of Sango. A three year old dog kept by the village head, Kakutaro Yauchi, runs to the shrine, and bows before it. Yauchi is a devout person and the dog is believed to have acquired the habit from his master.

NOR IRON BARS A CAGE
 DENVER, (AP)—It looked like a police station, so Walter Weaver, 18, walked in. "I've violated my parole from California," he told the man in uniform. "I'm sorry, buddy—this is the United States Mint," the man said, "but I'll see what I can do." He summoned police officer over the mint radio, never before used except for test calls.

LOST: A FLOOD
 BEATRICE, Neb. (AP)—Anyone seeing nine million gallons of water flowing around on the plains, please notify the City of Beatrice. City Treasurer J. A. Terhune reported that much had been lost somewhere between the pumps and the consumers' water faucets.

QUICKER THAN DYNAMITE
 MIDDLETOWN, O. — Firemen moved quickly to quench a fire in Herbert Isbell's automobile but when Isbell spoke they moved even quicker. Just as they had the blaze about under control, Isbell spoke up: "Oh, yes, you might look out for a couple of sticks of dynamite back there."

SECOND OFFENSE UNLIKELY.
 WEST CHESTER, Pa. — A court examiner asked Andrew Lasak of Conestoga, applicant for citizenship, the routine question: "Have you ever been arrested for any crime?" "Lasak reflected, replied: "In 1917 I was arrested for speeding in a house and bused and was fined $80." The court directed that Lasak's application be accepted.

GETTING TO BE A SORE SPOT.
 MACON, Ga. — Fred Rawlings is convinced his right leg is the Jonah unit of his anatomy. Ten years ago the leg was broken in an automobile accident and after that he used a crutch. Last year it was fractured again in another auto crash and a few months later he fell downstairs and injured the luckless limb once more. Sunday he was in another auto wreck near Jacksonville, Fla. Result: broken right leg.

SCRATCHING THROUGH.
 OAKLAND, Calif. — From the report of Patrolman D. G. Harper, sent to the home of a woman who phoned she left a roast in the oven — and warned the dog was vicious: "I found that by scratching the dogs' neck he was friendly. So, scratching his neck, I climbed over the fence and forced a window. "I turned off the oven, threw out the roast and started out. "When the dog rushed me I scratched his neck. Still scratching his neck, I drew him a drink of water. When he turned to drink, I jumped over the fence."

NO PATH OF ROSES.
 PHOENIX, Ariz. — The road to divorce can be just as rocky as the road to love. Sent to quell a disturbance, Officers W. R. Robertson and Claude Burk reported: "Husband and wife fighting over who is to get divorce. All quiet."

 LINCOLN, Neb. — Grasshoppers are causing Lancaster county farm wives to do the milking. Because some farmer — husbands spread grasshopper poison bait with unprotected hands, their fingers have become too sore to do the milking shores. Agricultural Agent J. F. Purbough said.

 BUFFALO, N. Y. — Arthur Weinberg, 20, pleaded guilty to a charge of stealing an automobile. As punishment, City Judge George W. Wolitz ordered Weinberg to be home at 10 o'clock every night for the next three years.

ALLRED THIRD TERM CAUSES SPECULATION

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL
AUSTIN, July 5 (AP)—Will Gov. James V. Allred seek a third term? Some think the governor himself doesn't know, but whatever the truth, there is much speculation that probably will continue until Mr. Allred says more on the subject.

Before Secretary of State Edward Clark said recently the governor was being urged to run again, very little had been heard about the possibility the governor might shatter precedent and attempt to win a third term. Most gossip on the governor's plans had revolved about whether he might be appointed judge of a new federal district court to be created in south Texas.

For the information of those who do not know the set-up in Austin, Clark is one of the governor's closest friends. Since becoming secretary of state he has maintained the closest relations with the governor, the men ride together, dine together and take counsel of each other on virtually all political matters. It is inconceivable persons who know them say, that Clark would have made his statement without the governor's knowledge and consent. Therefore in the opinion of these, the governor, by such a statement, was feeling out the sentiment of the voters.

Gov. Allred's reaction when questioned about his plans in light of the Clark statement contrasted sharply with that when asked about them several months ago. Soon after he was inaugurated for his second term, he said that while there might be some things in this world of which he was certain one thing he did know—he would not run for governor a third time. Commenting on Clark's statement, he said it was "too early to be making definite plans" and he sides "it gets too hot in Texas for a man to spend two summers in one campaign." In other words, he side-stepped, neither saying he would or would not run. His hearers generally considered it the sort of "follow up" to be expected.

It was recalled that when on several occasions the governor was sounded on the possibility he might be appointed a federal judge he made prompt and vigorous denial. He said simply there was nothing to report, that he never had talked about a judgeship with anyone except newspapermen who had raised the subject.

Incidentally, despite all those denials, there were some who thought, and probably still think, that where there was so much smoke—the rumors had been heard for more than a year—there must have been some fire. After the Clark statement, there was some speculation that perhaps the governor was trying to get action out of those who might have much to do with naming the judge to the new federal court, especially U. S. Senator Tom Connally. It was pointed out that if Allred should run for governor and be elected he would be in admirable position to tilt for Senator Connally's position, for the senator will be up for reelection in 1940. The prediction was made two months ago that if Allred wasn't given a federal job of good value the talk of a third term as governor would be revived. Whether the job had anything to do with it, none on the outside could say, of course, but the third term talk is at hand.

In the speculation these further points have stood out:

1. The governorship pays $12,000 a year, or $24,000 in a two-year term, which no lawyer without established practice would sneeze at.

2. The governor believes the people of Texas are heartily behind him on the issue of gambling and that he could rally strong support as a result of his successful fight for repeal of the horse race betting law.

3. Much of his legislative program, including improving the state's financial condition, has not been completed.

4. The governor has a well-oiled political machine and the parts that make it up hate to see it go to pieces.

Adobe Walls Scouts

WASHINGTON, D. C. -- This is a slogan among Boy Scouts, "Once a Scout -- always a Scout," which seems to hold true for boys and men alike.

Especially is this true of Franklin Delano Roosevelt who has carried his active interest in the Scouting Movement from his private law practice 17 years ago to the Governor's Mansion of the State of New York and on to the White House in Washington, D. C.

So much had Scouting been a vital interest to him that, speaking with friends a few weeks before his inauguration, he declared that "one of the great thrills of becoming President of the United States to me, is in becoming the honorary head of two of America's greatest institutions, the Boy Scouts of America and the American Red Cross."

Through these years, Franklin Roosevelt's interest has been a driving, effective force which attracted both men and money to the support of Scouting. Despite personal physical handicaps, he has led in the accomplishment of much good for boys -- especially for the boys of Metropolitan New York Committee on Scouting in 1920.

Among his first acts was the organization of the Boy Scout Foundation of Greater New York of which he remained president until entering the White House. Within two years the Foundation cleared off indebtedness of $50,000 and had turned to the project of making available to Scouts the one thing Scouting which boys consider as the heart of it all -- a camping site. After an intensive campaign sufficient funds were raised to secure 10,000 acres in the Catskills which became in 1928 the Ten Mile River Scout Camp largest boys' Camps in the world.

Because of such "distinguished service to boyhood" President Roosevelt in 1930 was presented with the "Silver Buffalo" award, highest honor given to Scout leaders.

Since becoming Honorary President of the Boy Scouts of America on March 4, 1933, he has frequently talked to Boy Scouts in coast-to-coast radio broadcasts. Upon the latest such occasion when he spoke in celebration of Scouting's 27th Anniversary, he issued the invitation to Boy Scouts to visit him in Washington which is resulting in this first National Jamoree.

TROOP 80.

Another camping trip to the Hay Hook ranch was enjoyed by members of Troop 80 Friday night. They were accompanied by the Scoutmaster. Swimming was enjoyed, also an interesting hike.

J. G. McConnell instructed the troop in drilling for 30 minutes at the regular meeting Thursday night at the First Methodist church, and the Scouts showed a great deal of interest and said they would like to learn to perfection the various postures and formations. Practice on the drills will be continued next Thursday night. Two boxing bouts were held after the meeting.

PUBLIC SCHOOL AID APPOINTMENT WILL BE SET ON TUESDAY

AUSTIN, July 5 (AP)—The board of education probably will keep the state per capita public school aid apportionment at its present figure or increase it slightly at its meeting here Tuesday.

The apportionment for the fiscal year ending next month was $19 per scholar.

Ghent Sanderford, president of the board, said today the school fund was "in good shape" and he saw no reason why the allotment could not be continued at $19 or perhaps raised to $20.

Robert S. Calvert, statistician in the comptroller's department, was spending the July 4 holiday period working on figures to be given the board.

He will furnish an estimate of the expected balance on September 1 and of school fund revenue during the coming year.

Although Calvert's estimate was far from completion, he said he felt certain the school fund would have a balance at the end of next month and it might be around $1,000,000.

The size of the apportionment will affect the ad valorem tax rate for school purposes to be set by the automatic tax board in late July or early August. Several persons familiar with the situation voiced the opinion the board of education would keep it so low a raise in the tax rate would not be necessary. The present rate is 20 cents on the $100 valuation, 15 cents under the constitutional maximum.

BASQUES UNCONQUERED DECLARES PRESIDENT

SANTONA, Spain, July 5 (AP)—The president of the Basque republic, Jose Antonio Aguirre, driven from his homeland, declared today "Our territory has been conquered but not the spirit of the Basque people."

"It is never conquered," the defeated leader proclaimed in a statement from new headquarters at this Biscayne seaport in Santander province, whither he fled with the remnants of his government and army.

The statement disclosed that all the territory of Buzkadi—the Basques' name for their autonomous state—had been yielded to the still advancing and victorious insurgents.

It bitterly assailed the Valencia government for failure to aid the desperate defenses of the Basque region, which collapsed with the fall of the capital, Bilbao, June 19.

TEXAS CHAIN STORE TAX TO BE DEFENDED

AUSTIN, July 5 (AP)—The state completed plans for defense of the chain store tax today.

Attorney General William McCraw said his department will present oral arguments before the supreme court Wednesday in defense of the impost, collection of which has been enjoined throughout the state.

However, validity of the tax attacked by the operators, has been upheld in an opinion submitted by the Dallas civil appeals court for the supreme tribunal's consideration.

McCraw said the state will contend the law was valid because the so-called license fee assessed by it was in reality a non-discriminatory occupation levy, fully within the power of the legislature.

It will argue also, he said, that a graduated tax based on the number of units in the chain was a valid legislative discretion sustained by various state courts and the United States Supreme Court.

Should the court hold that exemptions in the Texas law were arbitrary, only the exemptions and not the law itself would fall because of the wording of the act, passed in 1936, he said.

Perkins Deplores Rising Migrations Of U. S. Workers

WASHINGTON, July 5 (AP)—Secretary Perkins told the Senate millions of American workmen and their families move around the country in search of jobs, without adequate direction and often living under "deplorable" conditions.

A certain amount of this labor migration is necessary to take care of industrial changes and seasonal work such as harvesting, Miss Perkins added in a report on migratory workers the Senate ordered last year.

"Increasing numbers of workers are forced to move ceaselessly across state lines to eke out a living by piecing-together short and scattered seasons of employment in agriculture and industry," she said.

"As long as employers demand much more labor in one season than another, workers must migrate or find some alternative means of subsistence within each local area."

"Migration of workers, although necessary, is largely unguided or ill-directed. Although the relocation of workers has been broadly advantageous it has often been inefficient from the point of view of the particular individuals involved."

"Seasonal migrants in agriculture seem to be able to average only about six months of work each year. They appear to average about $300 a year per single man and $400 a year per family."

Miss Perkins emphasized that her report was incomplete because of lack of funds for a comprehensive survey. She said recommendations for legislation might come after a more complete study of the problem was made.

Test Air Base for Ocean Service

On Capitol Hill

BY HARRELL E. LEE

AUSTIN, July 5 (AP)—The University of Texas Board of regents is looking for a man for the presidency of the institution who would be worth the $17,500 annual salary the Legislature authorized it to pay.

Member J. R. Parton of Houston said here a short time ago the Board hoped to find someone between 35 and 50 years old.

"We would like to appoint someone under 50," he said, "so we could look forward to his services for at least a dozen years."

The Houston oil man said "the president of the university will earn whatever we pay him because that is a whole of job."

"The university," he said, "is one of the five largest state universities in the nation. The late President H. Y. Benedict killed himself working in its behalf."

Parton said selection of a president likely would be delayed until after the first of next year to permit the board to seek a man of outstanding attainments. J. W. Calhoun, university comptroller, is serving as temporary president.

Approximately 20 house members were personally affected by the senate's ruling late in the June special session to suspend its rules and consider a bill authorizing waiving of the rule requiring persons to give 27 months' notice before being permitted to take the bar examination.

They wanted to take it but had not met the time requirement. Appeals for the bill's passage placed on the desks of the various representatives contained a statement that it would be a personal favor to the would-be lawyers in the lower chamber. The house approved the proposal overwhelmingly after amending it.

Advocates found it comparatively easy to enact measures tightening statutes against horse race bookmaking and outlawing dog race betting as soon as repeal of the horse race betting law had been effected. The tack was impossible of achievement before the horse race law was repealed because friends of horse racing felt it might be driven from Texas through an amendment to a dog race or bookmaking bill.

ANNA DENIES DU PONT AND ROOSEVELTS MADE FACES AT EACH OTHER

PORTLAND, Ore., July 5 (AP)—A "howl" was the way Anna Roosevelt Boettiger described reports that some members of the Roosevelt and DuPont families had glowered at one another while attending the wedding this week of Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. and Ethel DuPont.

Stopping here momentarily en route to her Seattle home by airplane, the President's daughter laughed and remarked:

"We're all terribly good friends and it's simply a howl, these stories about any ill feeling between the Roosevelts and the DuPonts."

HOLDS 21 JOBS TO SHOW WORLD HE LIKES WORK

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Twenty-one jobs keep Francis P. Matthews, Omaha attorney on the jump day and night.

He is deputy supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus, president of a savings and loan company, president of a securities acceptance corporation, counsel for the Nebraska and Wyoming divisions of the RFC, vice-president of the Omaha community chest, Nebraska representative of the New York World Fair advisory board, director of the Omaha Utilities district, and a member of numerous chamber of commerce, relief and social committees.

Matthews attends every meeting of the committees unless other work (and it's got to be important) keeps him away.

Until recently Matthews was active in politics, serving four years as chairman of the county central democratic committee, but the only public office he ever ran for was the Utilities district directorship.

"I enjoy it; that's why I do it," he says.

SEE $200,000 IN GOLD

AUBURN, Calif. (AP)—People who wonder what a fortune in pure gold would look like got to see at the recent Gold Rush Re-creation celebration here. Big mines contributed their "cleanups" to an exhibition at a local bank in which the value of the yellow bullion was some $200,000.

RIPPLING RHYTHM WIN RATTLESNAKE DERBY

CARLSBAD, N. M., July 5 (AP)—Rippling rhythm, a roving rattler from the Pecos country, romped to victory in four minutes flat in the second running of the rattlesnake derby here Saturday shattering the record by two minutes before 3,000 disquieted spectators.

Second place went to a heavily buttoned veteran, Cavern Casey, who finished by a fang ahead of "The Terror of Dog Canyon."

It was a field day for the home entrants of the cavern city, as Rippling Rhythm, living up to its name, slid across the finish line at the outer circle of the arena in front by a button and three rattles, to bring Mrs. T. B. Burns of Carlsbad first money of $150. Second prize of $100 went to Dave Burgett, also of this city.

The Terror of Dog Canyon wore the silks of an El Paso department store as it buzzed and whirled in with third place money of $50.

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—State agriculture authorities have noted a great increase in the number of farm owners and a corresponding past half decade in Texas.

Landowners increased by more than 20,000 while tenants decreased by at least 15,000. The change is attributed to government loans.

FDR Often On Verge Of Leading Youth Revolt Against Conservatives

By RODNEY DUTCHER, Pampa Daily News Washington Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, July 5.—The war between the young New Dealers and the old is not confined to the on-stage septuagenarians on the Supreme Court.

Week by week the tension has grown between the Boss Young New Dealer in the White House—meaning Mr. Roosevelt, who is only 55 and feels much younger—and the elderly gentlemen who make up the so-called Democratic leadership in Congress—most of whom also feel younger than they are.

Roosevelt said, in effect, that the elderly conservative justices were too old for their jobs. That they had been on the job too long and that they were out of touch with the needs and desires of the people.

More or less secretly, that's the way he is known to feel about most of the party leadership in Congress. He is cautious about bringing the point up publicly, partly because there is plenty of fight in the old boys—and caution doubtless is the course of wisdom—and partly because the Capitol Hill leadership hasn't given him as much trouble as the Supreme Court did.

But it has come to be an unspoken belief among the Roosevelt faction in and out of Congress that most of the titular leaders and powerful committee chairmen are nowhere near as closely in touch with the current thought of the populace as the younger, more recently elected members of House and Senate.

Leaderships and committee chairmanships come to members through seniority based on length of service. Just a little less "co-operation" from the leaders, according to some of his advisers, and Roosevelt would be willing to try to bust the seniority system.

They'd Rather Go Home.

The leadership—usually called the southern leadership—is both worried and sore. The leaders early in the session counseled Roosevelt to take it easy, to cut the spending program drastically and to rest on his oars. Roosevelt hasn't paid enough heed to this conservative advice. He popped the court plan on them without warning or consultation. Most of them have been apathetic or antagonistic ever since. They complain that he sees more of young Senator Bob La Follette and other young liberals than of them. Most of them would like to forget about the Roosevelt program and go home.

What worries them is the insurance of a young rump leadership in the House and Senate which might well upset the old leadership and take control of Congress if Roosevelt gave it formal recognition. Maury Maverick of Texas, Jerry Voorhis of California, and other first and second termers form a nucleus of the insurgent New Dealers in the House, and Senators Barkley, Black, Pepper, Minton, La Follette, Schwellenbach and others are in revolt against the Senate's Democratic Old Guard. The 49 Senators who beat the relief bill amendment the other day included 30 first term members.

The leadership is predominantly southern and conservative because the one-party south is given to re-electing its entrenched favorites. But many southern members worry lest liberal opponents flying a 100 per cent Roosevelt banner may rise up to rob them of what otherwise might be lifetime jobs.

Following is a list of the principal congressional leaders, with their ages and the years in which they began to serve in Congress. Many of them are too bashful to give their ages in the Congressional Directory.

First, consider the Senate: Vice President John N. Garner, 67; Texas, 1903; Majority Leader Joe T. Robinson, 64, Arkansas, 1913; Chairman Pat Harrison of the Finance Committee, 56, Mississippi, 1919; Chairman Ellison D. Smith of the Agriculture Committee, 73, South Carolina, 1909; Chairman Carter Glass of the Appropriations Committee, 79, Virginia, 1902; Chairman Royal Copeland of the Commerce Committee, 69, New York, 1923; Chairman Key Pittman of the Foreign Relations Committee, 64, Nevada, 1913; Chairman Henry F. Ashurst of the Judiciary Committee, 62, Arizona, 1912; Chairman Morris Sheppard of the Military Affairs Committee, 64, Texas, 1913; Chairman Burton K. Wheeler of the Interstate Commerce Committee, 55, Montana, 1923.

In the House, Speaker William Bankhead of Alabama is 63 and came here in 1917. Majority Leader Sam Rayburn of Texas is 55 and reached the House in 1913. The chief committee chairmen are: Agriculture, Marvin Jones, age unavailable, Texas, 1917; Appropriations, Edward T. Taylor, 78, Colorado, 1909; Banking and Currency, H. B. Steagall, 64, Alabama, 1915; Foreign Affairs, Sam McReynolds, 65, Tennessee, 1923; Interstate Commerce, Clarence Lea, 63, California, 1917; Judiciary, Hutton Summers, 62, Texas, 1913; Ways and Means, Robert Doughton, 74, North Carolina, 1911.

Not all of these men are sour on the Roosevelt program. But most of them are. And most of the younger, newer men are for it.

Marlene Greets Real Leading Mar

It might have been a wife greeting her husband after a long absence. In fact it was, but the wife who hugs her husband with unmistakable ardor, above, at the Pasadena station is lovely, glamorous Marlene Dietrich of the movies. Husband Rudolf Siebert had just arrived on frequent visits to his wife and child, Elizabeth, 12. The couple hadn't met since January, in Paris.

CAPITOL JIGSAW

By HOWARD C. MARSHALL

AUSTIN, July 5 (AP)—It can be said definitely there was little opposition among members of the Legislature to adjournment of the special session June 25.

Although many members usually are ready for another 30 days of legislating, in this instance everyone was anxious to pack up and go home. The reason, of course, was the weather.

The last two weeks of the session proceeded amid torrid temperatures and members were thoroughly "burned out." Then, there was the consideration they had been grinding away for more than five months.

At least two cases of prostration, possibly due to heat, occurred among the legislative ranks.

Rep. Fred Mauritz of Canado, banker-stockman prominently mentioned for the next speakership, collapsed one afternoon while presiding over the House.

Senator Vernon Lemens of Rainbow also collapsed a few days later on the floor of the Senate after having stood a long time in the sun listening to a public address.

Neither Mauritz nor Lemens suffered serious effects.

Members were anxious to get away on the vacation trips.

Speaker Robert W. Calvert planned to go to Laredo for a celebration of some kind and from there to several fishing sites. Among the latter were the rivers near Del Rio and the Concho River near San Angelo.

Lieut.-Gov. Walter Woodul, who presides over the Senate, was one, however, who said he would take no vacation. He claimed he never took one and expected to spend this summer as all his summers in the past, working.

Sine die adjournment as usual came not at the usual time, 12 noon, but a couple of hours later.

Most folks, however, thought the Legislators were doing very well to quit that early in the day and not run until midnight or later, as they frequently do at the end of a session.

When Speaker Calvert banged his gavel and announced adjournment the work long since had been concluded and many members had gone home. Others were standing around talking and several games of dominoes or "42" had started at the press table in the center of the hall.

Waiting at his desk in the Senate, for clerks to complete enrolling work on several bills, Lieut.-Gov. Walter Woodul was reminded the hour was getting late and the session ought to be adjourned. Only two or three Senators were loafing about.

Woodul suddenly came to life, brought down his gavel and announced that the "Senator from Rockall moves we adjourn sine die."

Senator Claude Isbell of Rockwall was talking at one side and hadn't made the motion but for the purpose of the record he filled the bill very well.

"All in favor of the motion say Aye," shouted Woodul.

There was a chorus of ayes from Secretary Bob Barker, former Senator Joe Moore of Greenville and two or three visitors.

Woodul's gavel fell again and the "anti-gambling" session was ended.

AUSTIN, July 5 (AP)—When Texas vote Aug. 23 on six proposed constitutional amendments they will depart from a precedent of long standing.

They will vote Monday whereas such elections usually are held on Saturday. There has been considerable speculation as to the reason, and Rep. Lon E. Alsop names this one.

One amendment would eliminate double liability for bank stockholders and, according to Alsop, representatives of bankers wanted it submitted Monday. He said there probably would be fewer rural voters at such a time.

This amendment was the first the legislature decided to submit. After Aug. 23 was agreed upon, elections on the other amendments were set for the same date, as customary.

Alsop is sponsor of two amendments authorizing assistance for needy blind and dependent children. Senator Frank Rawlings of Fort Worth was author of the bank stock liability proposal.

In considering the bill to outlaw betting on dog racing, the House of Representatives grew very technical. In fact, the technicalities were so numerous the House could hardly work at times.

One point raised by Rep. W. E. (Uncle Elmer) Pope of Corpus Christi was that the bill, which prohibited betting on "any dog race, or the result thereof," did not come within the governor's call for the session. At a special session only matters submitted by the governor may be considered.

"The governor's message said only 'dog race' and nothing about its 'results,'" Pope insisted.

The point was overruled.

Attorney General William McCraw was jubilant over the Supreme Court decision upholding the anti-trust laws and declaring the state had good grounds for charging major oil companies with conspiring to circumvent them.

He inherited the suit before James V. Allred, who filed it in 1931 when he was attorney general, and handled the appeal from the judgment of the Austin Court of Civil Appeals, which held the laws unconstitutional.

"It won't be long now till the boys will be paying off," McCraw predicted. The state asked $17,500,000 in penalties and that the companies be barred from doing further business in Texas.

Charles L. Black of Austin, attorney for the Standard Oil company of California and the Texas company, scoffed at the suggestion the companies would make an early settlement.

He said the next move would be to ask the supreme court to reconsider its opinion. Should that motion be overruled, he said, the case might go back to the trial court where anything might happen and he even hinted the litigation ultimately might reach the United States Supreme Court.

IN A DIFFERENT CAST
DENVER (AP)—John J. Bonn, 39, has a fractured left ankle in a cast which handicaps the manipulation of the clutch in his automobile. So he rigged up a contraption of broomstick and bolts as a handle for the pedal. Traffic patrolmen who discovered Bonn's inventiveness testified he was speeding 70 miles an hour through suburban Englewood. The fine was $25.

PEONY BLOOMS A CENTURY
M. N. Y. Pa. (AP)—A peony plant in the garden of Miss Sarah McCarty has blossomed every year for a century. Originally in the garden of Dr. E. D. Kittoe, the town's earliest dentist and physician, the plant was given to the McCarty family early in the 1850s.
