Two Rockport People Suffering from Auto Accident Injuries

Two Rockport people are suffering from injuries sustained in automobile accidents over the weekend, and a Houston man is confined to the hospital after a heart attack.

Mrs. A. C. Glass, riding with her husband Friday on Rockport beach, was thrown forward when their car collided with another and is suffering from a broken ankle. A cast has been applied, and it will probably be five or six weeks before it can be removed.

Ty Dorathy is in Bayview Hospital, still unconscious after being struck by a car driven by Miss Phyllis Meador early Saturday morning. Miss Meador, who was going to work about 3:15 a.m., said that she didn't see Dorathy before she struck him.

A third weekend casualty was Harris Marr, of Houston, who suffered a heart attack while water skiing, and is in Bayview Hospital.

ACCORDION LOOK—Youth and femininity keynote the pretty collection unveiled for spring in Paris. "Lantern skirt" fans from hip to knee with crisply pleated cerise chiffon; has tucked bodice.

Ad Valorem Tax Election Carries

With approval of a thirty cent ad valorem tax by Aransas County voters by a majority of 122 to 96, County Judge John D. Wendell said that the way was cleared for purchase of needed fire equipment and enlarged library facilities.

First item on the agenda is purchase of the fire equipment—two brush wagons—one of which will be stationed in Rockport at the fire station there, and the other at Fulton.

This equipment will cost between $20,000 and $25,000.

"I want to confer with the firemen," Judge Wendell said, "to be sure that the equipment we have discussed is what they want, and adequate for the job."

"Then, while we're waiting for the new tax to be placed on the rolls, we can go ahead with the purchase, using time warrants based on the airport fund. That way, our interest costs will be practically nothing, and we can get the equipment sooner than if we waited for the tax money to be collected."

"I don't think anyone who has been here this year, and who is familiar with the great damage caused by grass fires, will disagree with that course of procedure, for we certainly need the added fire protection."

As for the library facilities, Judge Wendell said it would be some time before anything can be done along these lines.

"You can say that an architect has been retained," he said. "Lynn Evans, of Corpus Christi, has been commissioned to draw preliminary plans and specifications for a new building which we hope to get to sometime next year."

"Present plans call for this to be built on one corner of the courthouse block, behind the jail and facing in the opposite direction. This is so utilities and janitor service can be consolidated, and so that operating costs will be less."

The issue at stake in the election was whether or not the 30 cent ad valorem tax once levied here should be levied again. Funds gained from this tax will be used to release other funds now collected under the 80-cent constitutional levy and a special road tax voted some years ago will not be levied under present planning.

The funds released by the ad valorem collections will be used, Judge Wendell said, for the equipment and library.

A very light vote turned out. In Precinct 1A there were two for and 51 against levying the ad valorem tax. In Precinct 1, 21 voted for and 15 against; Precinct 2, voters cast 54 for and 20 against; in Precinct 3, there were 40 votes for the ad valorem tax and 10 against; while in Precinct 4 all the votes cast—5, were for the proposition.

Total votes for numbered 122; against 96. Total votes cast amounted to 218.

ROTARY EXPECTS DISTRICT GOVERNOR

O. G. McClain of Corpus Christi, Governor of District 593 of Rotary International, world-wide service organization, will be here July 31 and Aug. 1, on an official visit to the local Rotary club. In addition to addressing Rockport Rotarians at their meeting, he will confer with Eugene T. White, president of Rotary Club of Rockport, and other club officers on Rotary administrative matters and service activities.

There will be a meeting of the Sea-o-Rama Association on Monday night, July 30, at 7:30 p.m., at which preliminary planning will be undertaken for next year's festival.

Telstar's Performance Can Give Rockport Better Television

A small satellite hundreds of miles in outer space is sending signals to earth in tests that will lead to better communications services for Rockport residents.

The satellite, Telstar, is the Bell Telephone System's pioneer in the new frontier of space communications. Telstar tests will help pave the way for a worldwide satellite communications network to send overseas phone calls, live television and other signals. The satellites will receive and retransmit signals.

Television viewers will have the opportunity to see Telstar's work first hand in a series of live telecasts planned between this country and Europe. Television signals will be sent from ground stations in England and France to Telstar and be retransmitted to the Bell System's ground station at Andover, Maine. American programs also will be sent to Europe, via Telstar.

Major experiments involve sending signals from the Maine ground station to another Bell station at Holmdel, N. J., via the satellite. Telephone calls, video tape signals, facsimile news photographs and high-speed data signals are being transmitted in the tests.

In addition to communications transmission, Telstar gathers technical information on outer space. These findings will help advance the peaceful use of space.

Built by Bell Telephone Laboratories, Telstar is a 170-pound satellite, just under three feet in diameter. It carries more than 10,000 electronic parts and this gear amplifies signals 10 billion times for their return trip to earth.

First Graders Should Be Immunized Now

Children entering the first grades in Aransas County high school system on Sept. 4, the first day of school, must have been immunized against small pox, diphtheria and whooping cough, according to Supt. J. D. Gray, while those entering other grades by transfer must show evidence that they have been.

A physician's certificate indicating that such inoculations have been made must be presented by first graders on the first day of school.

Regular registration for the first grade was held last spring for those children whose names were on the Aransas County school census. Parents who have moved to Aransas County since that time may register their child now for the first grade. A birth certificate must be presented at this time to verify eligibility. Since a birth certificate is required of first graders not on the school census, Mr. Gray will be glad to help any parent secure a certificate before school opens.

VFW POST RECEIVES STATE AWARDS

At the state VFW convention held in Houston recently, the local post was presented with two awards—the Honor Roll Award and the Men of San Jacinto Award. These were given because the local post was outstanding, and had consistently had an above quota post. Chester Johnson was the local delegate.

At a district quota setting meeting held in Alice last week, the local quota was raised from 105 to 111 members, for 1962-63.

Several new members have recently signed up for the flag program.

The next regular scheduled meeting will be held Aug. 7.

A county council meeting will be held in Aransas Pass on Monday night, July 27. As many members are urged to attend.

NEW PLAN FOR IDYLLWILDE MOTEL

The Idyllwilde Motel is being changed over into apartments and will not be operated as a motel any longer, says owner, Ran Wilde. It will be known as the Idyllwilde Apartments from now on.

New rooms are now being added and many other changes are to be made to make each apartment very attractive and comfortable. All units are to be nicely furnished or you can furnish your own quarters.

The location is close to the new post office, town, and all churches. To assure tenants of a quiet and peaceful place to live with the right atmosphere, no children or pets will be accepted.

Apartments are available now.

POSTURE SCHOOL HELD HERE TUESDAY

Mrs. Alice Fulcher of Sinton held a one day posture clinic at the Rockport School of Fine Arts Tuesday.

Attending were the Misses Niki Dick, Julia Thompson, Priscilla Carleton, Jill Jeffers, Sallie McCord, Kay Hoffmeyer, Florence Casterline, and Vicki Vermillion.

BELL SYSTEM'S "TELSTAR" active communications satellite is seen in this artist's sketch as it appears orbiting around the earth. The project is the forerunner of a system of satellites which will bring overseas television and telephone service within the reach of local citizens.

Charles Marshall Named To State Mortician Board

Charles W. Marshall, co-owner of Cagle-Marshall Funeral Homes in Aransas Pass, Rockport and Taft, has been named to the six-member Texas State Board of Morticians. His appointment for a six year term was announced June 3 by Gov. Price Daniel.

The state board is the governing body of morticians and funeral homes throughout the state. It is the board's duty to give state examinations to students from schools of mortuary science who apply for licenses.

Marshall estimates the job will keep him away from his business only about two days a month.

A native of Texas, Marshall has been a resident of Aransas Pass since 1949. He finished high school at Raymondville, attended South Texas State of Texas and Nacogdoches College of Mortuary Science. He is a member of the South Texas State of Texas and National Funeral Directors Associations.

Marshall is a member of the Aransas Pass school board and president of Aransas Pass Associated Charities. Active in civic work he is past president of the Aransas Pass Chamber of Commerce and has held offices in the Lions Club and veterans organizations.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall have three children.

JAYCEE FORUM VERY SUCCESSFUL

The Jaycee Forum held here over the weekend was most successful with about ninety people from out of town attending.

They represented Jaycee clubs from Alice, Corpus Christi, Kenedy, Kingsville, Laredo, Mathis, Robstown, Sinton, Falls City, and of course, the Rockport club, which acted as hosts.

The meeting was held in the community hall at Rockport AFS, and the delegates were fed at the mess hall at the base. Rev. C. Wilson Brumley gave the invocation.

"During the afternoon, all delegates went on a conducted tour of the 513th AC&W Radar Station, under the guidance to Major Falk, base commander, and Major Giles, executive officer."

KATHY DUPNIK INJURED MONDAY

Kathy Dupnik, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dupnik of Rockport, was critically injured Monday about 10 a.m., when a boat stored in the backyard of her home before alterations, fell and crushed her side.

She was rushed to Memorial Hospital in Corpus Christi, where she underwent surgery for chest injuries.

ROTARIANS HEAR STEEL MAN SPEAK

List of Text Books Received By Schools

The school district has received a list of 200 textbooks being offered for adoption in Texas schools for 1963-64, according to J. D. Gray, supt.

Gray said local citizens waiting to study the list should contact E. G. Brooks, high school science teacher.

The list includes books on elementary school music, seventh grade Texas History, Algebra I and II, Plane Geometry and high school books on physics, Spanish I and II, economics, homemaking and industrial arts.

The local district won't receive any books until the state has decided which books will be up for final approval.

Local residents have until Aug. 1 to notify the commissioner of education at Austin that they will protest any books being offered for adoption.

Representatives of textbook publishers have been meeting with local committees of teachers who act as advisors to the state textbook committee.

The state committee, composed of 15 teachers, is selected from Texas congressional districts.

SEAMEN'S LIONS CLUB VISITS CHILDREN'S CAMP

Members of the Rockport Seamen's Lions Club and wives visited the Lions Camp for Crippled Children in Kerrville last Sunday.

Those making the trip were Mr. and Mrs. Rudy Nava, Mr. and Mrs. John Aleman, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Covarrubias, Mr. and Mrs. Seferino Cortinas, Miss Alicia Trevino, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Munoz, and Marcelino Ramirez.

The group toured the camp and after a box lunch were taken to the auditorium to see a talent show, presented by handicapped children.

SHRIMP EXPLORATION BY U. S. FISH AND WILDLIFE CONTINUES

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service Motor Vessel George M. Bowers has just completed an exploratory cruise along the Texas coast in which brown shrimp were captured, stained and released to aid in the study of this fishery.

Harvey R. Bullis, Jr., base director of Gulf and South Atlantic fishery exploration and gear research, said this comprised the initial phase of a continuing study by the Service biologists in Galveston to determine this species' growth, mortality and migration patterns.

Work was conducted off Grand Isle, La., in 12 to 17 fathoms, where 2370 shrimp were marked with green dye and released; and off the northern Texas coast, 3,000 shrimp were marked with Trypan blue and released in 4 1/2 to 9 fathoms.

Bullis said that recoveries from an earlier release off the Louisiana coast had been high.

The geographic center of Texas is in McCulloch County, 15 miles northeast of Brady.

Chicago's tallest building is the Board of Trade, 44 stories, 605 feet.

Houston People Buy Oak Shore

William and Elsie Sprigg, formally of Houston, where they operated apartment houses for a number of years, have purchased the Oak Shore Apartments from Matt and Alex Scott, and will operate them.

Sprigg and his wife formerly lived at 6225 Birdwood in Houston, where he was an accountant for the Lummus Company, builders of refineries and similar installations and where he was associated with his mother in apartment house operations.

Mrs. Elsie Sprigg, his mother, formerly lived at 2503 Shakespear, Houston.

Sprigg, his wife, and mother will be associated in operating Oak Shore.

The Scotts have operated the property for the past sixteen years, purchasing it in November, 1946, from Clarence E. Ford and wife.

In the present deal, the Spriggs purchased all three parcels of land that the Scotts obtained from the Fords, and an additional parcel of land, which included the riparian rights, that the Scotts acquired later.

Chief Warns Drivers To Pay Heed To Sirens

Chief of Police E. A. Stautzenberger issued a warning today to local drivers.

Many of them, he said, refuse to give way to the fire sirens, while still others fall in behind the fire trucks and chase them, making it difficult and dangerous for the firemen.

Chief Stautzenberger says that unless these practices are stopped, it will be necessary for him to arrest those people who are guilty of them.

City ordinances make it mandatory to give right of way to fire trucks and ambulances, and to keep from crowding around the scene of a fire.

City Attorney Instructed To File Curb Suits

City Attorney Richard D. Hatch has been instructed by the City Council to file suit against sixteen people that still owe curb and gutter assessments amounting to $2121.16, unless they make satisfactory arrangements for payment within the near future.

These assessments stem from the time when Loop 70 was paved through the heart of town, several years ago.

Hatch, in his letter to the various delinquent property owners said:

"... I have been requested by the city council to request you to pay ... at this time. If you are not in position to pay such an amount in one payment, the City Clerk is authorized to accept partial payments. Your cooperation in this matter will be appreciated."

The amounts in question range from less than ten dollars to a high of $399, and five of the people in question have already made arrangements to amortize their debts a portion at a time.

Although, authorized by the council to do so, Hatch said that he would not file suit on any of the sixteen owners who made a bonafide effort to pay their indebtedness.

Mrs. A. L. Bachman Commended For Cancer Fund Raising

Mrs. A. L. Bachman, Chairman of the 1962 Cancer Crusade for Aransas County has received commendations from the state chairman, Dr. G. V. Brindley, Sr., for the outstanding success of the educational and fund-raising campaign here this year.

Aransas County is one of 83 leading counties in the state which have accomplished the special goal of the 1962 Crusade in "Bettering Their Best." The best previous year for the Aransas County Crusade was 1961 when the total raised was $1,472.50. This year the total has already reached $1,603.00.

Dr. Brindley's letter pointed out that Mrs. Bachman and all who helped with the Crusade here furnished inspiration to the entire state Crusade.

Sixty cents of every Crusade dollar will be immediately available for use in these programs within the state of Texas. In addition to this, the national Society supports research in Texas directly to the tune of around forty cents of this dollar in the average year.

During the current year, support of this Texas research reached a record level and the Society is actually spending one dollar and ten cents in Texas, for all programs, for every dollar contributed by Texans during the Crusade.

Cleveland, of the Social Security Administration.

Leaflets explaining how social security covers household workers and how their earnings should be reported, can be obtained from the Social Security Administration, 530 South Water, Corpus Christi.

GUY CLARK INTERVIEWED BY CHRONICLE CAMERA GIRL IN HOUSTON

Guy Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Clark, was interviewed by Millie, the Houston Chronicle's camera girl, on the street the other day.

Question for the day was "What's your opinion of 'Adults Only' movies?"

Guy's answer was: "To me there are two different types, those based on imagination for pure sex and those based on literature which depicts life. It's a shame pictures which honestly picture life have to be labeled 'adults only.'"

New "TELSTAR"
relays phone calls
and TV pictures
for first time!

Bell System microwave-in-sky satellite is latest communications triumph for America arising from telephone research

The world's first private enterprise communications satellite is now being used for dramatic experiments in relaying telephone calls and television internationally.

Its name: Telstar. It was launched from Cape Canaveral at Bell System expense by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

Telstar receives signals beamed to it from a ground station, amplifies them and transmits them to another station on the ground below—perhaps an ocean away from the first one. The new satellite thus acts as a microwave relay station in the sky, enabling voices, TV pictures and data messages to leap thousands of miles in a new and exciting way.

The ground stations in the U.S. now being used for Telstar were built by the Bell System at Andover, Maine, and Holmdel, New Jersey.

Telstar is a first major experimental step toward a worldwide satellite communications system that was first proposed as a practical venture at Bell Telephone Laboratories. Progress toward such a system would not have reached its present state without continuing research and development by the private communications industry.

Above all else, Telstar is the latest achievement in an unending Bell System quest—the search for ways to make your telephone service still better, more economical, and more useful.

MISS TERESA MAE JOHNSON WEDS THOMAS EDWIN RATLIFF

In a candlelight setting at the First Presbyterian Church on Friday, July 20, at 8:00 p.m., Miss Teresa Mae Johnson became the bride of Thomas Edwin Ratliff, with the Reverend A. Amott Ward, of Corpus Christi, officiating at the double-ring ceremony.

Twin floor baskets of white gladioli and white carnations formed the background at the altar, flanked by tree candelabra, entwined with greenery, and holding white cathedral tapers.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Johnson.

The groom is the son of Mrs. T. H. Ratliff and the late Mr. Ratliff.

Miss Iris Sorenson rendered the traditional wedding marches, and J. Allen Frye sang "I Love You Truly" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of nylon organza over taffeta, fashioned with a Bertha collar and front panel trimmed with re-embroidered lace and highlighted by sequins and pearls. The controlled bouffant skirt featured a shepherdess carriage back and full brush train.

A pearl-trimmed pillbox of organza and Alencon lace held her silk illusion veil.

Her Colonial bouquet of white feathered carnations and satin streamers was centered by a white orchid.

The bride carried an heirloom handkerchief which had been her maternal great-grandmother's and had also been used at the wedding of her grandmother.

Mrs. Van Forshee was matron of honor. Bridesmaid was Miss Mary Evelyn Johnson, sister of the bride. Miss Sherrie Ratliff, of Portland, niece of the groom, was junior bridesmaid.

The attendants wore street-length dresses of pastel blue silk organza over taffeta. The molded bodices featured round necks and short sleeves, with a flat bow trimming the front waist. The skirts were full-fashioned, with deep Martha Washington hems.

Their headpieces were circlets of blue satin, trimmed with seed pearls, to which were caught their circular veils of pastel blue tulle. They carried Colonial bouquets of blue feathered carnations with blue satin streamers.

John Albert Ratliff, of Portland, served his brother as best man. Groomsman was Jerry Iles, of San Antonio. Ushers were Bob Johnson, brother of the bride, and Van Forshee.

Mother of the bride was dressed in a sheath of rose-beige lace piped in matching satin at the round neckline and short sleeves. A flat satin bow trimmed the front waist. She wore a small rose satin hat and a pink carnation corsage.

The groom's mother wore a dress of plum-colored voile over rose taffeta, with full skirt, round neckline, and short sleeves. Her hat was a halo band of pink georgette covered with pink veiling. She wore a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception was held in the assembly room of the church following the ceremony.

The table was laid with white net over a white taffeta flounce. The bouquets of the bride and her attendants formed the centerpiece which was flanked by crystal candelabra holding white tapers.

Mrs. Allen Reed, of Baytown, and Miss Joy Hamblin served the three-tiered wedding cake which was topped by a miniature bride and groom.

Alternating at the punch bowl were Mrs. Leo Morish, of Port Lavaca, and Mrs. Gary Andrews, of Rockport, cousin of the bride. Miss Debbie Brumley was in charge of the guest register.

For her going-away costume, the bride wore a suit of beige Italian silk, with pencil skirt and box jacket. Her hat was a silk pillbox, in shades of orange and beige, and she wore a white orchid corsage. Blending accessories completed the ensemble.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Rockport. They are both graduates of Aransas County High School, and the bride was graduated from South Texas Commercial College, of Corpus Christi.

Among out-of-town guests attending the wedding were the following: Mrs. Josephine Barber, of Goliad, grandmother of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Barber of Cleveland, Texas, great-uncle and great-aunt of the bride; Mrs. J. B. Coulter, of Baytown, the bride's aunt, also Mrs. Allen Reed, of Baytown; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Greeson and Jim, uncle, aunt and cousin of the bride; Mrs. Kennon Stewart and Jeff, of Denver, Colo.; Mrs. Stewart is the bride's cousin; Mr. and Mrs. Leo Morish, of Port Lavaca; Mrs. Francis Scoggins, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Kelly and family, of Refugio and Mrs. Mabel Gerbig, of Corpus Christi.

Barnett's World Tour Account Continues In Japan

Japan, especially Tokyo, is rapidly becoming Westernized, with all phases of living as modern as ours. However, many women, especially the older ones, still wear the kimono on the streets. In Kyoto we also saw many men in kimonos.

Our farewell to Japan ended as our welcome. A large group of Japanese children were on the dock to tell us "Good-bye." After they sang several Japanese songs, we were surprised to hear "God Be With You Until We Meet Again," a fitting farewell to a wonderful, friendly country. Kobe to Hong Kong

Leaving Kobe, Japan at 8 p.m. on May 24, the Chusan steamed across the North Pacific Ocean on a southwesterly course for a very calm passage of two days to Hong Kong. At noon the following day we could see Tanegawa Island which is part of the group running northeast from Japan to Formosa, and including Okinawa. Many of the small islands are inhabited only by herds of poisonous snakes.

These waters in which we were sailing were haunted by pirates until a few years ago. These pirates were so efficient that until only four years ago British ships would transmit anti-piracy signals to Hong Kong every six hours. These were modern pirates with methods somewhat different from those in olden days. A number of them would book passage on a ship as innocent passengers. Later at gunpoint they would seize the ship and immobilize the radio. The ship would then be taken to an inlet on the China Coast where the cargo would be transferred to junks, the passengers robbed, the wealthy ones held for ransom, and the ship allowed to continue its journey.

During this portion of our trip the Nationalist Chinese Island of Formosa was visible off our port side, and later to starboard the Chinese mainland.

At this stage all the passengers are eagerly awaiting the fabulous shopping in Hong Kong, home of the "instant" tailoring. The story goes that on the way to your hotel, the taxi driver will produce suit samples and you can make your selection while stopped on a red light. At the hotel while registering, you have your first fitting by the bell captain who calls off measurements to the room clerk. On the elevator you have your second fitting and while waiting for your luggage to be brought up, your final fitting. Before the suitcases are unpacked the finished suit is brought up with apologies for the delay. Actually a suit or dress requires about two days time, but we did see a sign in one window which said "Suits made in four hours."

The approaches to Hong Kong present one of the most magnificent panoramas in the world. On the eastern horizon are many hundreds of islands. They lie two miles off the mainland with its barren mountains rising almost vertically out of the water.

As we entered Hong Kong Harbor on our port side was the beautiful capital city of Victoria, usually called simply "Hong Kong" which is primarily an English colonial city. We could see the tall buildings of banks, steamship companies and trading firms. Skyscraper apartments run all the way up to the top of Victoria Peak, 1800 feet above sea level. All are perched precariously on the sides of almost vertical slopes.

On our starboard side was the Kowloon, which is more typically Chinese, with many fine buildings surrounded by unbelievably squalid tenement houses. Hong Kong is a British Crown Colony, consisting of the island of Hong Kong, Kowloon Peninsula on the mainland, and an area adjoining Kowloon known as the New Territories. The island was ceded to Great Britain by China in 1842 by the Treaty of Nanking. It soon became the most important outlet for all the exports of South China. When the rapidly growing colony needed more room for expansion, an area of 376 square miles was leased in 1898 from the Chinese government for a period of years.

During World War II, Hong Kong was occupied by the Japanese for almost four years, but fortunately it escaped the heavy bombing that befell Manila and Singapore. The Japanese advanced down the Kowloon Peninsula, crossed the narrow strait and landed in Hong Kong, to take possession of the island from the landward side, instead of by sea as the British had expected.

When the island was ceded to Britain its population was less than 5,000. Now it is more than 3½ million, including more than a million refugees. When one considers that a large part of the colony consists of steep mountains with very little plain, one can see that it is one of the most densely populated spots on earth. The narrow peninsula of Kowloon, only five miles long, contains 1½ million people.

As our ship came close to the pier, Chinese sampans surrounded it with pitiful families begging for anything. They had nets on extremely long poles and never missed catching the oranges, apples and coins the passengers threw them.

The harbor was filled with freighters, lying at anchor. We counted 34 at one time, all surrounded by Chinese junks loading and unloading cargo, much of it from Red China.

After docking at about 5 p.m. on May 27, we visited the shopping arcades of Kowloon. Hong Kong is a free port (no tax) and the very fine shops are filled with goods from all over the world.

On the way to the better district we had to walk through the slum district. There are no words to describe the pitiable conditions under which these people live. Many were cooking, eating and sleeping on the sidewalks. The streets were swarming with adults, children and babies. Some little five year olds had baby brothers strapped to their backs. The adjoining buildings had shops in front on the first floor and crammed full of people above. People were even living on the roof tops in improvised sheds, made of paper, sheet iron or scrap wood. All kinds of business was being carried on on the sidewalks; food vendors, furniture building, every kind of ware imaginable. We even saw a suit being cut out on the bare sidewalk.

After returning from our visit to the shops we took the Star Ferry to Hong Kong. The ferry service is excellent, ferries run every few minutes, the crossing takes about ten minutes and costs less than a nickel "first class." In Hong Kong we took the cable car, "the peak train," to the summit of Victoria Peak. This is a thrilling ascent, especially when we remember that only a ¾ cable is holding the cars. The view from the summit is spectacular, as you see all the lights of the two cities and the harbor between spread below you.

After a less thrilling, but beautiful ride down by bus, we visited the "Poor Man's Night Club." This is really a night open air market of cheap merchandise, spread out on the bare pavement of a large parking lot, each booth lighted by a Coleman lantern. The noise and crush of people were unbelievable. The most interesting thing was its location on the quay where one can see the worlds of junks and sampans with whole families making their homes aboard.

The following morning we took a walking tour, doing what most tourists do, looking for bargains. We visited the fine shops where the merchants soften you up with offers of strong drinks and cigarettes, where you can buy beautiful suits, dresses, jade, turquoise, diamonds, or anything else that money can buy. Then we explored the side streets, the alleys, the shops that nobody else finds, and dark slums that no tourist in his right mind would enter without a police escort. The temperature was 88° but the humidity was 98, so we finally gave up because of physical exhaustion. We knew the bargains were there, but were unable to come up with anything startling.

I the afternoon we took the mainland Territory tour. We passed many picturesque Chinese Villages, some of them with the ancient walls still standing. This was farming country, with hand-kerchief-size plots of vegetables, flowers, and rice, all cultivated by hand. There were many Peking duck farms where thousands of ducks were being raised for the Hong Kong market. We drove past many beautiful bays and finally reached the frontier of Red China, where we could see the Bamboo Curtain. The curtain in this case was an 8' high woven wire fence, topped with barbed wire. On the British side there was a large group of refugees, being handed out loaves of dry bread from a truck.

The rest of the drive was high in wooded mountains with an occasional glimpse of the bays beneath. The foliage was lush and green. Old friends among the plants were pale yellow mimosa, bright blue morning glories, yellow lantana, and lovely pines. An unknown shrub was somewhat like an azalea with dainty rose colored blossoms. Cultivated plants included bananas, bougainvillea, hibiscus, plumeria and most beautiful of all the flaming red royal poinciana. The most striking and fascinating feature of the gardens everywhere was the use of dozens of pottery urns filled with all kinds of brightly blooming flowers.

Our drive around the territory ended with a spectacular view from high on a mountain of the harbor filled with hundreds of ships, large and small, and Hong Kong Island beyond.

"To know the people, ride the ferries." We were impressed with the neatness, briskness, and proud bearing of the Chinese people on our second ferry trip to Hong Kong Island. Of course we always walk and walk and finally find ourselves in the market places. Street markets are not hard to find, they are everywhere. People and wares of all kinds fill the streets and, of course, we were still looking for that "little shop around the corner," that no other tourist had ever found. Unlike Japan, which has many fine large department stores, Hong Kong is a city of very small specialty shops and street businesses.

On our motor coach tour of Hong Kong Island we saw the fine government buildings, fine shops, beautiful hotels, skyscraper office buildings and palatial homes. But it is a city of sharp contrasts. We also saw the slum apartment buildings where each family has only one room, and the shanty towns built high up on the mountains with no water nor sanitary facilities.

Hong Kong has done extremely well to absorb the several million refugees, but the hordes keep coming in spite of tightened regulations. Thousands of children are growing up with no education (there is no compulsory education) and the sanitary problems are almost insurmountable.

On the perimeter of the Island we saw the resort of Stanley Village, and, best known of all, beautiful Repulse Bay with its fine beaches and inviting hotels.

Then on to Aberdeen to see the world famous floating restaurants situated in the fishing village of land-locked floating sampans where hundreds of families live. In the restaurants the live fish are kept in tanks in the hot too clean water where the customer can choose his own.

Parting from Hong Kong was like parting from a new found friend. There was the good and the bad, the wealth and the poverty and destitution. There was the beautiful harbor, the fine shops, the proud people. Then there was the heart-rending sight of the poor, the confused refugee. It is all part of Hong Kong.

A group of mission school children in uniform and a Salvation Army Band bid us goodbye from the pier. We left to the strains of "Onward, Christian Soldiers" and somehow we felt that an appropriate song to express the spirit of the people of Hong Kong.

Manila to Singapore
After disembarking our pilot in Hong Kong on May 30, the Chusan sailed through numerous mountainous islands to the open China Sea. We held a south-southeast course 618 miles to Luzon Island which we raised about noon the following day. We had a clear view of the island for about 100 miles and through the binoculars we could see the sugar cane fields, forests, coconut palms and thatched houses along the beaches. Then on the starboard side we saw Corregidor Island, the Gibraltar of Manila. The island rises almost vertically out of the water, is about one-half mile long, one-quarter mile wide and 400 feet high. From the ship we could see the bombed-out barracks on the top. It is crowned by a powerful lighthouse.

On our port side was mountainous Bataan Peninsula, where the death march took place. After entering Manila Bay, which is guarded by Corregidor, we could see Manila in the distance. There was a very black rain cloud behind it and the white buildings stood out like fairyland. Manila Bay is surrounded by extinct volcanic mountains which loom up on the horizon in the distance.

The Philippine group consists of over 7,000 islands, some too small to be inhabited, but with eleven major islands on which the majority of the 28 million people live.

They were discovered by Magellan, who was slain there in 1521. In 1565 the Spanish Conquistador, Legaspi, claimed them for Spain and named them Filipinas in honor of Prince Felipe. He founded the city of Manila in 1576.

They have been governed in succession by the Spaniards, the English (for only four years), the Americans, the Japanese, and finally in 1946, by themselves, when independence was granted by the U.S. as our guide said: "The English came to save us from the Spanish; later the Americans came to save us from the Spaniards; then the Japanese came to save us from the Americans, now the communists are trying to save us from ourselves. We don't want to be saved by anyone, just let alone."

The Filipinos are basically of Malay stock with a mixture of Spanish and Chinese blood. Their culture is basically Spanish. The three languages used are English, Spanish and Tagalog, with English predominating. The people are 85 per cent Catholic, 1 per cent Protestant, with some Moslems and pagans.

We were delayed in docking in Manila by heavy rain and fog, so it was after 9 p.m. when we finally docked. But the enterprising merchants of Manila had set up a bazaar of native handicrafts on the pier to relieve us of our pesos. We were greeted by a string band playing gay native music, and for our benefit, "My Country 'tis of Thee." Another hard shower dampened the merchandise and sent all the passengers scurrying for cover. Since we had only a day in Manila, we took a bus trip which included a tour of the city and a 40 mile trip into the mountainous countryside.

Our first stop was at Philippine Women's University, a fine modern school built, Spanish style around a courtyard. There we were entertained by an excellent troupe of young dancers, giving native dances of their country. The troupe had just returned from an 8 months tour abroad. We were charmed by their gorgeous costumes, beauty and the variety of their intricate dances. After the program, we were served punch by the gracious hostesses.

Manila is an active port, though not as large as Hong Kong. The city has many fine modern buildings, twelve universities, large government buildings and many beautiful homes. The homes are of modern architecture and beautifully planted.

We visited the American War Cemetery, situated in a lovely setting of beautiful gardens. Again our hearts were touched by the row on row of white marble crosses. There are 70,000 Americans buried there, with the names of 30,000 more missing in action inscribed on the white marble walls of the memorial building.

As we drove into the country we came to a fishing village. We could see large woven bamboo fish traps set in the water. These traps spread out a hundred feet wide and tapered into a small round enclosure where the fish could be dipped up.

The village homes were interesting. They were all of two stories, the first floor being enclosed with woven bamboo or other frail material so that it would go easily in a typhoon, leaving the second floor standing on sturdy posts. The second floor was built of vertical, unpainted mahogany boards, with wide overhanging eaves, and decorated here and there with wooden grill work. The windows slide completely back and were made up of many small panes not of glass, but of translucent sea shells. Outside the windows was a shelf, holding pots of brightly blooming flowers, or ferns.

The farmhouses were built in the same way, but completely of palm thatch with no windows, only openings.

The principal crop in the low country was rice, while the fields in the higher country, were planted in coconut palms. On the same ground, but not so high, were papaya trees, and still lower, plantings of pineapples. Some fields mixed the banana trees in also. Thus, one piece of ground produces three different crops, all at once.

The faithful water buffalo does the following: she carries her master to town on her back; she furnishes rich milk for the baby, and in cool weather, she is brought into the house, so her body will warm the room. In looks, nature was unkind to her; she is a sooty gray color, and in addition, she carries enormous horns that only add more weight to her already burdened neck which bears the yoke for the plow. With all her tremendous strength and ferocious looks, she is so gentle that little children can handle her. She is turned loose in the bare unfenced rice field after the farmer has gleaned even the last bit of straw to forage for what she can find so that her droppings can fall for fertilizer. Her only comforts are her enormous tail which she constantly switches, and the cud which she regurgitates on the rare occasions when she is allowed to rest. She chews with a circular motion, lapping out her long tongue, her eyes dreamy with a faraway look. When she walked even without the yoke, she never raises her head above her shoulders, but plods along as if she had an eternal yoke.

After a 40 mile drive through the countryside, we reached Toal Vista Lodge. This is a beautiful modern hotel, looking down on a large fresh-water lake, a volcanic crater, and further in the distance the sea, 2200 feet below. Along with the rest of a fine lunch we were served fresh pineapple, tree-ripened bananas and ice cream in a half of a green coconut.

We were treated to a cock fight, in which the luckless cock was killed with the steel spurs of his opponent. His keeper carried him home in obvious anticipation of a good meal.

On the way back, we stopped at an old Catholic Church in which we heard a 150 year old organ, made of bamboo. The pipes were crudely notched bamboo with metal caps on top. It is said the priest who built it buried the bamboo for six months in the beach sand to kill the bamboo worms before he erected it. The pipes were operated by foot levers and keys as in a modern organ and the music was quite good.

We also drove through the 400 year old walled city of Manila. It was once surrounded by a moat and full of fine buildings. The only things left are the crumbling stone walls and an ancient church. Squatters in paper shacks live in unbelievable poverty in one section of it. It was the target of heavy bombing by the Americans during the battle of Manila, in order to kill the 1,000 Japanese inside. But besides the Japanese, there were 7,000 Filipino civilians, 4,000 of whom were killed by the Japanese. We sensed from our guide that the Filipinos still feel bitter about the destruction of such a priceless heritage.

Manila has a unique transportation system, thousands of army surplus jeeps have been converted into ten-passenger busses called "jeepbuses," all gaily painted and decorated. They are independently owned but run on regular routes.

The Filipinos show imagination in their other conveyances also. Many bicycles have side-cars with buggy tops, and the horse-drawn two-wheeled carts are gay with fancy paint and fringed tops.

No band saw us off this time, but a smiling group of people waved good-bye when we sailed at 5 p.m. We steamed across Manila Bay as smooth as a lake, past Corregidor with its beacon, and were treated to one of the world-famous sunsets over the Mountains of Bataan.
