Test Damage Minor

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

AMCHITKA ISLAND, Alaska AP- A government spokesman says the only initial adverse effects from the Amchitka underground nuclear blast were minor ones. Scientists now look forward to the use of underground blasts elsewhere to tap new sources of natural gas.

Atomic Energy Commission officials said they were pleased with the results of the Amchitka explosion and plan no further nuclear tests on this bleak Aleutian island between the Bering Sea and Pacific Ocean.

It is conceivable, AEC officials say, that a new test of the use of nuclear explosions in the production of natural gas could come as early as late next year near the small mountain community of Rio Blanco, Colo.

Hundreds of similar explosions could follow beneath the hills of Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico and Utah.

AEC officials also expect that this peaceful use of atomic energy will meet with many of the same protests that met Saturday's Cannikin explosion here, a test of a warhead for the Spartan antiballistic missle.

The AEC said that post-detonation examination of the island has discovered only minimal environmental damage.

The only casualties discovered thus far, the AEC said, were an injured sea otter, several dead birds, a destroyed nesting area and a small fresh water lake.

The otter, the birds and the nesting area - of either bald eagles or peregrine falcons - were apparent victims of massive rock slides touched off by the United States' most powerful underground explosion.

The small lake near ground zero drained away when the nearly 5-megaton blast ripped a crack in the lake bed, the AC said.

Henry Vermillon, an AEC public affairs officer, stressed that the AEC's findings were incomplete. He said the search for more subtle environmental damage - which the AEC hopes it won't find - will continue for at least a year.

Environmentalists, who fought a losing battle against the test all the way to the U.S. Supreme Court, contended there was a possibility the explosion would touch off natural disasters and inflict severe damage to the environment and wildlife.

The blast gave birth to an earthquake which registered 7 on the Richter scale, but it was felt no further away than an island some 200 miles distant. No seismic sea waves developed. And the AEC said scores of monitoring devices on the finger-shaped island showed no trace of radioactivity.

James R. Schlesinger, AEC chairman, took his wife and two of his children to the barren, uninhabited island to demonstrate his faith in Cannikin's safety. He later said the test was "amply justified."

LAIRD TO RECOMMEND
Pullout Speedup Likely

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird indicated today he would recommend to President Nixon a speedup in the pace of American troop withdrawals from Vietnam.

Returning from a five-day visit to Saigon, Laird said the progress of the South Vietnamese was "indeed encouraging" and that the Nixon administration's program of turning responsibility for the conduct of the war over to Saigon was "on schedule or ahead of schedule in all respects."

He declined to speculate on the next phase of the pullout but predicted substantial reductions in the use of American air power as the South Vietnamese air force gains strength.

However, he said that as long as American forces remain in South Vietnam, U.S. air power will be there to protect them.

He also said most Americans have been removed from the ground combat role but that some troops also would remain to protect American logistical and support forces aiding the South Vietnamese.

At a news conference at nearby Andrews Air Force Base, Laird declined to answer how large a residual force would be left behind next year. The administration is believed to be thinking of a force of about 40,000 by next summer.

President Nixon has promised an announcement next week on the size of the next withdrawals, which now average about 14,300 men a month. U.S. troop strength, now down to 191,000 is scheduled to drop to 184,000 by Dec. 1.

The Defense Secretary said the North Vietnamese were not in as strong a position now as they were a year ago and their threat to South Vietnam has been reduced. But, he cautioned, the enemy was still capable of creating some problems.

Nevertheless, he said the South Vietnamese were now capable of handling the situation to a degree "I didn't think possible when the program (Vietnamization) started."

Giving the South Vietnamese a reasonable chance to survive, which Laird now believes they have, is one of the criteria set by Nixon for determining the pace of American withdrawal. The second is the release of Americans held prisoner by the Communists.

Army Offers New Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army plans to offer drafted soldiers a new deal: sign up for a year in the National Guard or Army Reserve and get out of the regular Army six months early.

Army officials say the program is designed to curtail expected losses in Guard and Reserve manpower and to attract more blacks.

Beginning in January, Guard and Reserve recruiters will be stationed at major Army posts to promote the new plan, tested this fall at Ft. Knox, Ky., and Ft, Lewis, Wash.

During the test, 2,857 soldiers were approached and 895 accepted the trade, including 112 black soldiers.

Prayer Nixed In Preliminary Test

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — House foes of a proposed constitutional amendment to permit prayers in public schools demonstrated enough strength on a preliminary test today to defeat the proposal later in the day.

They failed by rollcall vote of 242 to 156 to block a move to force consideration of the proposal but mustered more than one-third of the total tally.

The proposed amendment needs a two-thirds vote when put to a test on its merits later.

The preliminary vote showed the proposal's backers with 24 votes short of the two-thirds required on the final test.

However, it is not unusual for members to switch their positions when the vote is on legislation itself rather than on a preliminary move.

Should the amendment pass the House it still would have to get through the Senate by a two-thirds vote and be ratified by the legislatures of 38 states before going into effect.

Major church organizations and the legal community have mounted a strenuous campaign against the amendment, charging it would endanger religious freedom by involving the state in religion.

Supporters of the amendment say it is needed to restore the practice of prayers in the public schools which was widely followed before a 1962 Supreme Court ruling that banned state-imposed prayers.

There have been efforts in the House ever since 1962 to get a vote on a constitutional amendment to nullify the court ruling, but this is the first one to make it to the floor.

Rep. Chalmers P. Wylie, R-Ohio, got 218 members—a majority of the House—to sign a petition taking the amendment out of the Judiciary Committee, where it had been bottled up, and bring it onto the House floor.

The procedure permits only one hour's debate and bars any amendments to change the proposed language without Wylie's consent. Opponents say such limitations make it impossible to consider the amendment properly.

Election Death Toll Near 200

MANILA (AP) — The death toll neared 200 today as Filipinos elected eight senators and 15,093 local officials in the most violent election in their history.

Sixteen election-related deaths were reported by noon, raising some unofficial tabulations to 178 since the campaign started. Officially the death toll was put at 141 through Sunday night, but all news media reported much higher figures. The toll was more than double that in the most violent previous campaign, in 1967, when 75 persons were killed.

More than 50,000 troops and reserves were posted throughout the islands to combat violence and intimidation and guard ballot boxes.

The government took out life insurance policies for volunteer keepers of the polls, which opened under clear skies over most of the archipelago. Officials estimated that more than 80 per cent of the approximately 11 million registered voters would cast ballots.

Anti-Aircraft Sites Hit By U. S. Bombers

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — A dozen U.S. fighter-bombers attacked anti-aircraft sites around North Vietnamese air bases Sunday and today and one of the strikes was 180 miles north of the demilitarized zone, the deepest penetration this year.

The U.S. Command said the attacks were carried out after the sites fired on unarmed Navy and Air Force reconnaissance planes.

Results of the bombing raids were not known and there was no damage to the three reconnaissance planes and their 12 fighter-bomber escorts, the command said. Each reconnaissance plane was escorted by four fighter-bombers.

The new strikes raised to 73 the number of raids reported by the U.S. Command inside North Vietnam this year.

A spokesman for the U.S. Command, Maj. Richard Gardner, said he had no information on the mission of the reconnaissance planes but apparently they were photographing the air bases and any North Vietnamese MIG interceptors that might be operating there.

There were no reports of any MIGs challenging the U.S. planes. Gardner said he did not know if any MIGs were sighted on the ground.

The deepest penetration was the Quan Lang Airfield, 180 miles above the DMZ and 155 miles south of Hanoi. An Air Force 1,600-mile-per-hour RF4 reconnaissance jet was fired on today over the air base by anti-aircraft guns and four of its escorts retaliated with bombs.

Meantime, the U.S. Command announced that American military strength in Vietnam dropped another 5,500 men last week to 191,000. It was the biggest weekly cut in six months.

The Command said U.S. strength was at its lowest level since December 1965 when there were 184,300 troops in Vietnam. The forces in the country last Saturday included 148,900 Army, 31,900 Air Force, 9,700 Navy, 500 Marines and 100 Coast Guard.

Powell To Dispose Of Stocks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lewis F. Powell Jr. testified today that, if confirmed by the Senate as a Supreme Court Justicen he will dispose of stocks in companies likely to be involved in litigation or disqualify himself from sitting in cases in which he has an interest.

Before taking the witness chair at the Senate Judiciary Committee's hearing on his nomination, the Richmond, Va., lawyer had submitted a financial statement disclosing he owns more than $1 million worth of stocks and bonds.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., asked him if he felt the law and the American Bar Association's canon of ethics should be strictly construed in respect to conflicts of interest.

"I certainly do," replied Powell, a former president of the ABA and rated by its committee on the federal judiciary as qualified in an exceptional degree to serve on the Supreme Court.

Prior to his testimony, Powell said in an interview he was prepared to place his security holdings in a blind trust or do whatever else was necessary and proper to avoid possible conflicts of interest.

ON CLEAN WATER BILL
President To Seek Changes

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer

KEY BISCAYNEN Fla. (AP) — The Nixon administration is not happy with all aspects of a Senate-passed clean water bill and will seek changes in the House, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said today at the Florida White House.

Ziegler told reporters the administration will seek public hearings by the House Public Works Committee with the hope that "a workable piece of legislation will be the end result."

Ziegler spoke after the New York Times, in a dispatch from Washington, reported the White House was campaigning intensively among state governments to promote a relaxation of tough water pollution control provisions in the Senate bill.

The White House spokesman said that to suggest the administration is less than enthusiastic about efforts to clean up the country's water "is a partisan charge that some like to make."

However, he acknowledged that a major administration aim is to give the states a larger role in formulation of the legislation.

Nearing the end of a weekend respite here, Nixon in another move has called on state and local authorities to "move with speed and vigor" to fill 70,000 authorized but vacant public service jobs.

About $1 billion has been available since August to create 100,000 jobs in an effort to ease unemployment. Only about 30,000 have been filled, however.

County Purchases Five Vehicles

County Commissioners this morning accepted the apparent low bid of Snyder Motor Company for five Pontiacs to be used by the Sheriff's Department. The bid was $11,993.35.

Other bids included Wilson Motors $12,441, Les Francis Chevrolet Company $13,071.10, and Thomas Chrysler-Plymouth $12,823.30.

In other business, Commissioners approved a request of Jimmy Dyess, park superintendent, to replace some fencing around the park with cable supported on metal posts.

Session Tonight To Plan Labor Survey

A meeting has been scheduled this evening for persons interested in helping conduct a labor survey here to obtain information needed for a firm now considering Snyder as the site for a manufacturing plant.

Tonight's meeting is set for 7:30 at the Chamber of Commerce office in the city hall. Representatives of clubs and organizations have been asked to attend, and individuals who can help wiih the survey are asked to attend.

The labor survey will be conducted Nov. 18-19-20- at the Scurry County Coliseum.

Meanwhile, officials of the Scurry County Industrial Foundation, the Snyder Chamber of Commerce and Texas Electric Service Co. expressed hopes that at least 1,500 persons would respond to the survey. The firm considering the plant here is regarded as one of the very top manufacturer of women's and children's outer wear. It has been in business since 1948, has eight plants now in operation and does business in excess of $60 million annually. Moreover, this firm has never closed an established plant.

The labor survey is being set up to determine the potential labor supply here for such a plant.

The plants already operated by this firm are noted for their good working conditions, local officials said.

It is esttimated that over 150 volunteers will be needed to help conduct the labor survey. The hours of the survey will be from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. for the three day period. Officials of the company will be on hand to confer with prospective workers while the survey is being conducted.

Skippers To Visit Prisoners

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most sailors doing time in the brig can now expect weekly visits from their skippers, who have been ordered to lend them "a sympathetic ear, sound advice" and a boost back up.

The recent order from Navy headquarters says prisoners rarely have been visited by ship and shore commanders.

"The goal of the Navy's corrections program is to restore prisoners to duty," said a directive sent worldwide.

"If this is to be achieved, it is important that commanding officers show a personal interest and take an active part in the effort to rehabilitate individual offenders under their command."

A commanding officer can contribute significantly to salvaging a prisoner "by visiting him and providing a sympathetic ear, sound advice, and whatever administrative assistance he can provide," the order said.

Accordingly, Navy headquarters decreed, "When circumstances permit, the commanding officer or his designated representative shall arrange to visit weekly the individuals under his command who are in confinement."

Disciplinary officials said the Navy's confinement rate is at the lowest level in history, 1.8 per 1,000 enlisted men. There were 904 men in brigs or correctional centers as of Sept. 30.

Along with other Navy reforms, service leaders have been exploring new prison approaches far removed from the harsh bread-and-water philosophy of many years ago.

The Navy plans to open a new retraining command, probably in Orlando, Fla., senior officers said. Those men found suitable will get from six to eight weeks of special retraining before being returned to duty. During this period, they will be under what is called "minimum custody," living in their own barracks rooms.

The Navy also is stressing "base paroles," under which an inmate with a good brig record may be allowed to work on the base all day like any other sailor. Sleeping and eating apart from other prisoners, these base parolees also enjoy more TV watching and other privileges.

Violence in Texas during the first November weekend claimed at least 32 lives, including 18 in traffic.

Eight persons suffered fatal gunshot wounds, three died in fires, one apparently drowned, one was stabbed to death and one youth died after inhaling a spray deodorant.

Strike Has Hurt Farm Exports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Elation over the sales of 80 million bushels of corn plus barley and oats to the Soviet Union is being tempered by cold facts showing damage to the U.S. farm export structure by dock strikes.

The announcement by the Nixon administration last Friday that clearance had been worked out with maritime leaders for loading Soviet-bound grain at unstruck ports came as a morale boost for farmers and government officials alike.

Although 30 million bushels of corn for the Soviet market will not solve the immediate feed surplus problem, it is substantial.

The one-shot sale alone represents a 13 per cent bite out of the predicted 600 million bushels surplus from the 1971 crop, assuming 4.8 billion would have been used anyway from this year's output of 5.4 billion bushels.

Woman Is Hurt In Car Mishap

Dora Olivarez, 41, 1512 Thirty-ninth Street, sustained minor injuries in a two-car collision at Avenue E and the East Highway at 2:15 a.m. Sunday.

Union Strikes Forecast

DALLAS (AP) — A great majority of the nation's international unions will strike if the presidential Pay Board does not allow retroactive pay raises, an international union official has said.

Thomas J. Lloyd, international president of the 550,000-member Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Workmen of North America, AFL-CIO, said Sunday 90 per cent of the unions would walk off the job.

"There should be retroactive pay raises for anyone having an existing contract prior to the President's freeze order," said Lloyd, in Dallas to dedicate a local's new headquarters building.

Allowing the retroactive pay raises for organized labor would not be unfair to the rest of the labor force, he said because "if a union person gets an increase, he carries the load of unorganized labor with him." Employers then would have to match salaries for employes who could join the union, he said.

Boredom Helped

NEW YORK (AP) — Allen Swift, a leading voice specialist in radio and TV commercials, believes his gift of mimicry came from boredom as a child.

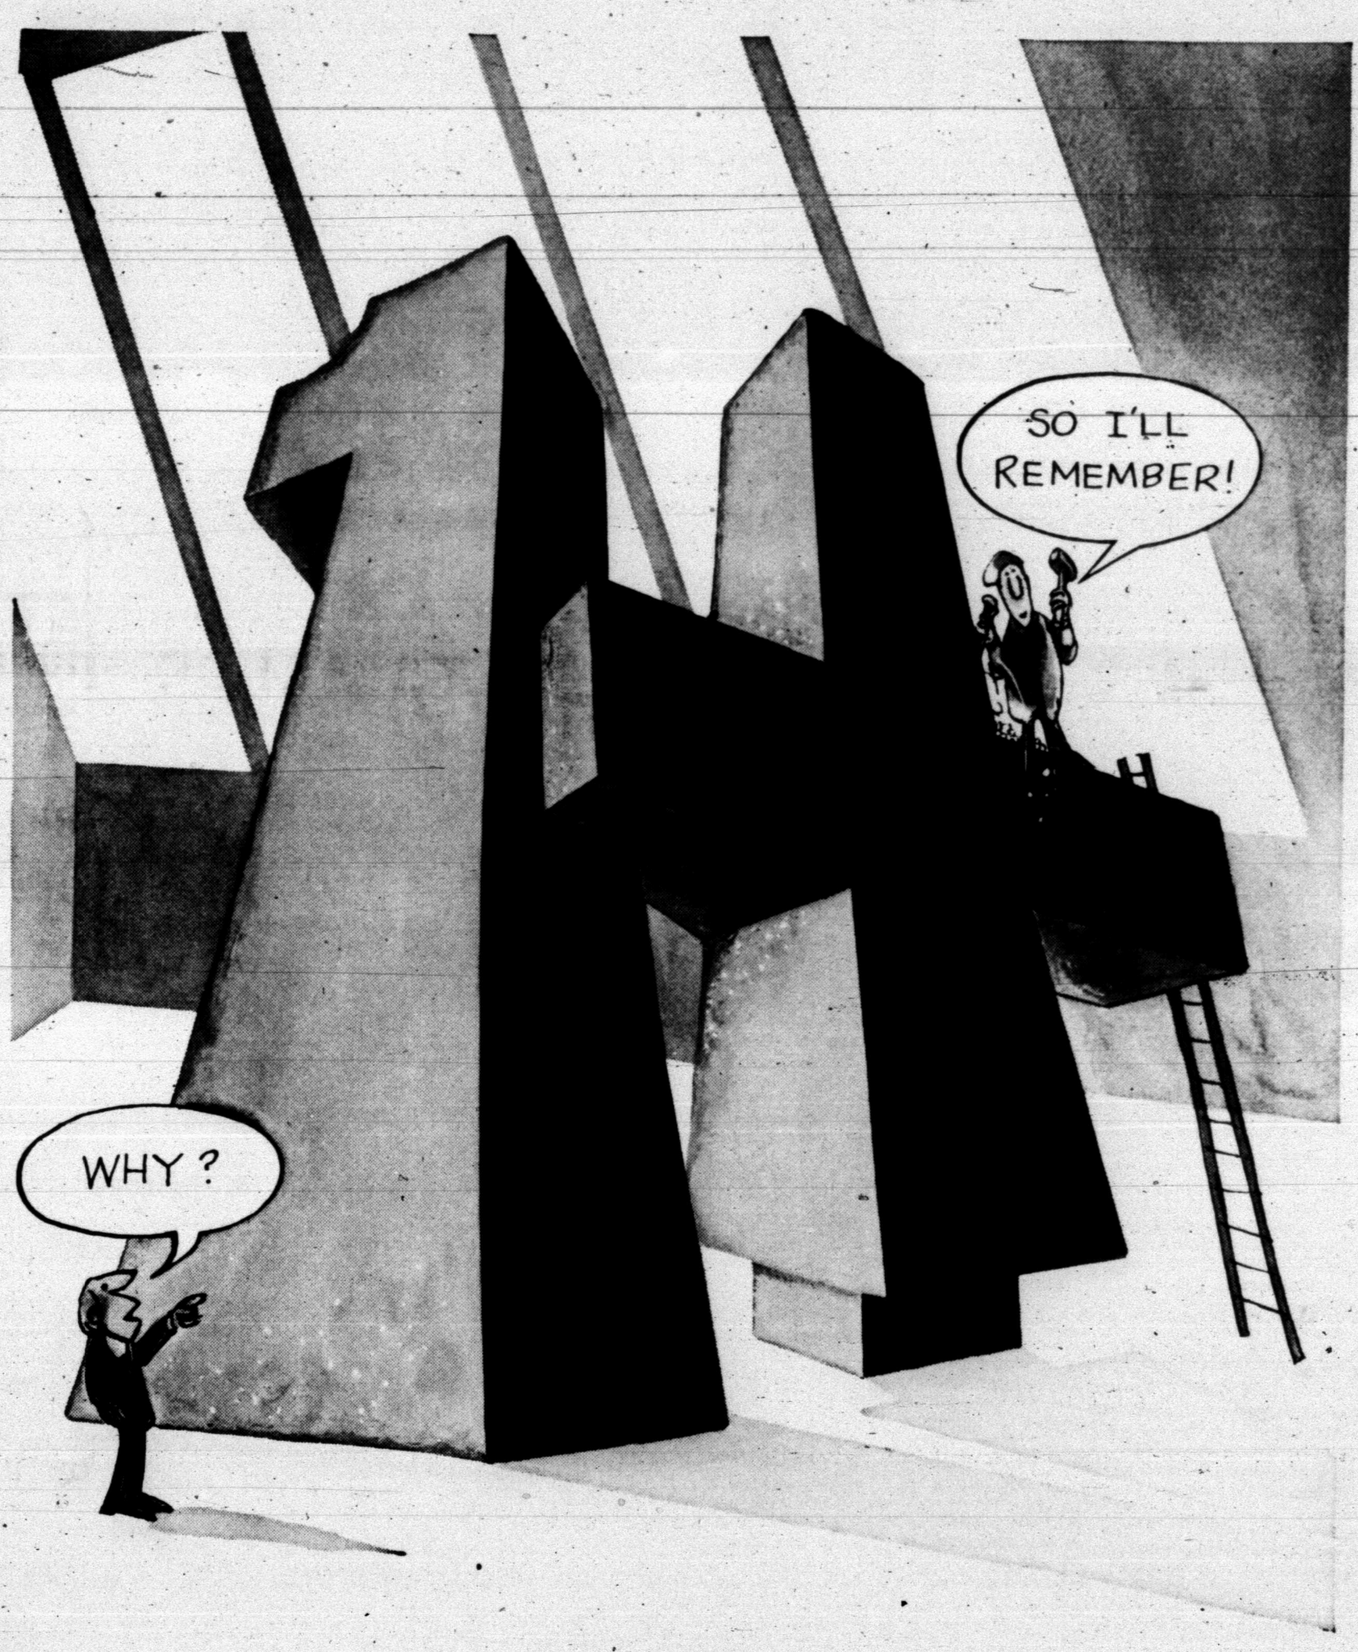

Swift daydreamed a lot and populated his dreams with interesting people. He would carry on conversations with all of them. "I had been practicing mimicry all my life so when the opportunity came to use it commercially, I was way out ahead," says Swift.

A Kettle Of Buttery Hot Oyster Stew Is Holiday Treat

AUSTIN — How long since you've made a buttery, hot kettle of oyster stew for your family? Never? Shame on you! Oysters are an excellent choice for your menu because they are a high protein food, rich in copper, iron, iodine and other essential minerals.

The warning to only eat oysters in months that have an "R" in them (Stepember through April) is a holdover from the days of poor refrigeration and transportation. It was unwise to eat oysters during the summer months.

Now there are wholesome oysters available all through the year. But the peak harvest is just beginning off the Gulf coast of Texas, and that means an abundant supply for Texans and their neighbors.

Traditionally, oster stew is made of oysters, milk and butter. Try this newer version that is special enough for holidays and simple enough for a family supper.

If you would like other free recipes send a postcard with your name and address to: Texas Parks and Wildlife Department, John H. Reagan Building, Austin, Texas 78701.

HOLIDAY OSYTER STEW
2 cans (12 oz. ea.) oysters
2 slices bacon, chopped
1-3 cup chopped onion
1 can (10¼ oz.) frozen condensed cream of potato soup
4 cups oyster liquid and half & half cream
1¼ teaspoon salt
dash white pepper
chopped parsley

Drain oysters, reserving liquor. Fry bacon until crisp. Remove bacon from fat. Cook onion in bacon fat until tender. Add soup, oyster liquor, cream and seasonings; heat, stirring occasionally. Add bacon and oyster; heat for three to five minutes longer or until edges of oysters begin to curl. Sprinkle with parsley. Serves six.

Economists' Forecasts Bright For Next Year

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — As certainly as birds fly south in November, economists send forth a flutter of next-year forecasts.

And while in the past this deluge of mail descending on editors' desks has been compared to more litter falling on the town dump, the messages they bring this year are more appropriate to Christmas cards. They are that bright.

If they are to be believed—and often the broad dimensions outlined in full-year forecasts are more descriptive of events than are more precise, short-term attempts—there is good news for almost all categories of economic man.

To name them: consumers, home-buyers, workers, retailers, corporations, borrowers, lenders. And by inference, one must also include the political fortunes of President Richard Nixon. All this, if the forecasts come true.

The consensus seems to be a Gross National Product, or total of all goods and services produced, of close to $1.15 trillion, or about $100 billion more than in 1971. Real growth of 6 per cent is foreseen; it was only 3 this year.

Such growth must be termined vigorously. And the manner in which forecasters are delivering their message also is more vigorous when compared with the timorous hedging of certain other years.

While conceding there is much uncertainty because of the new and untested economic plan, the economist-forecasters aren't showing it in their projections. Their opinions are noteworthy for their simple, flat and straightforward sentences.

To summarize from a survey of the views of 19 "of the best known and best regarded individuals and firms," made by Dr. William C. Freund, vice president and economist of the New York Stock Exchange:

—Consumer spending is expected to grow 8.5 per cent to $725 billion, fueled in part by a reduction of the savings rate from nearly 8 per cent to around 7 per cent.

Strong housing markets are expected to mean greater spending for furniture, carpeting and appliances. Auto sales are projected at 10.5 million.

—Business too is expected to spend heavily, with plant and equipment outlays rising about 8 per cent. And, as sales expand, inventories will have to be rebuilt. Corporate profits, after taxes, are seen rising 9.2 per cent to as much as 19.4 per cent.

—Personal income is likely to rise 8 per cent. Note this: That rise is after income taxes have been paid. "Real," income, as they say.

—Inflation will probably average 3.5 per cent, if an average of forecasts can be relied upon. The economists foresee rising productivity as aiding in the reduction, although it is quite likely they expect government price restraining mechanisms to have an influence also.

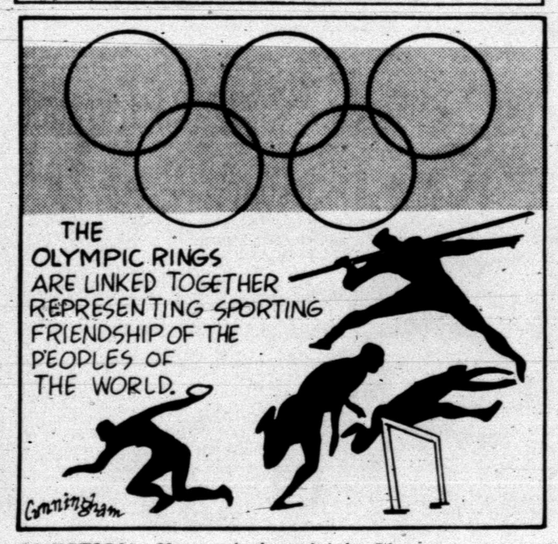

—Unemployment is seen averaging 5.3 per cent, but the forecast range is wide. Some think the rate will be down to 5 per cent, others put it a bit over six.

Why shouldn't the rate be lower? Mainly because of the growth in the labor force. Job opportunities are expected to rise, but not so much faster than the labor supply as to cut sharply into the rate.

And now some somber news. Hovering over the plumping economy are those two buzzards, the confusion in international monetary and trade affairs and the expected persistence of a large federal budget, perhaps a record one.

These are hardly Christmas angels looking down upon a peaceful world, but the forecasters apparently feel that the people who make up the economy must look on the sunny side of a shadowed future.

Junior Editors Quiz on THE OLYMPICS

QUESTION: How and where did the Olympics originate?

ANSWER: The Olympic games originated in Greece about 776 B.C. According to Greek legend, the Olympic games were started by Hercules, son of Zeus. They were held every four years, a time span which was called an Olympiad. They were discontinued by the Romans in 394 A.D. The games were an example of the Greek ideal, that the body as well as the mind and spirit, should be developed. Lasting four days, they included a marathon race, wrestling, boxing and chariot racing.

Fifteen hundred years later, a Frenchman named Baron Pierre de Coubertin had the idea of reviving the Olympic Games. In 1894, an International Congress of 15 nations was held in Paris. This body decided to revive the games and to hold them every four years. In 1896, the games were revived and held in the rebuilt stadium at Athens, Greece.

The modern Olympics are governed by an International Olympics Committee and each nation has its own National Olympic Committee which selects the athletes for participation in the Olympics. The games today include many sports that did not exist in ancient times, such as basketball, water polo, soccer, cycling, shooting and field hockey.

The Olympic games are now held in various countries in the world.

Bulletins From The Mailbag

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

In olden times a "bigwig" was literally a man who wore a big wig. Custom restricted the wearing of full-length wigs to judges and members of nobility. Ordinary persons wore little wigs. So, in time, personages of high estate were called "bigwigs."

Fish and chips, probably the most famed British food delicacy, have been banned from the menu at two U.S. air bases in Britain. The reason: the grease-fried chunks of cod and French-fried potato chips were making the airmen so fat they had trouble racing to man their outposts during base alerts.

Speaking of fat, if you are that way it may be because your mother put you on solid food too early as a baby. A study at the University of Washington found that children who put on solid food at the age of six weeks to two months tended to become more obese than those who remained on a fluid diet until the third or fourth month.

Flowers are regarded as fragile, but some of them exert great strength in growing. For example, the Soldanella of Switzerland is called the ice flower because it forces its way up through solid ice to blossom in the sun.

Quotable notables: "Half the world is composed of people who have something to say and can't, and the other half who have nothing to say and keep on saying it."—Robert Frost.

What is the origin of the gold ring? One theory is that it was invented by the Egyptians who used the rings as money. The fingers of a man's hand were his safest and most convenient bank. He could wear his money.

Durable: Hair is the least destructible part of the human body. It can remain well preserved long after the bony structure has turned to powder.

Smelly cure: Garlic has long been thought by European peasants to have great blood-purifying powers. Now Russian scientists have confirmed garlic's therapeutic property by extracting from it a new antibiotic called "allicin" which avoids side effects by destroying only germs harmful to the body.

High grass: Marijuana grows wild in remote parts of the Himalaya Mountains. The natives rarely smoke the plant but find it quite useful. They make rope from it, a hair pomade and a muscle liniment. Now and then they also get a bit dizzy when they eat food cooked in marijuana oil.

Worth remembering: "Would you believe there's still buried treasure in this country? If you don't think so, just listen to some women talk about their first husband."

Exit lines: Cato the Younger cried out as he thrust a sword into his body, "Now I am master of myself!" Czar Alexander II of Russia said, "I am sweeping through the gates, washed in the blood of the Lamb." King George IV told his page, "Wally, what is this? It is death, my boy. They have deceived me." Gen. U.S. Grant said, "I want nobody distressed on my account."

Folklore: A mole on the right arm or shoulder means you're very wise—on the left arm or shoulder that you're argumentative. A mole near an armpit is a sign of wealth and honors; a mole on the throat, riches and health.

It was Samuel Johnson who observed, "A man is in general better pleased when he has a good dinner upon his table than when his wife talks Greek."

45 Star Flag

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — A 45-star American flag? The local branch of Goodwill Industries discovered there was one, dating back to 1896 when Utah was admitted into the union.

When Oklahoma achieved statehood in 1907, the 45-star flag became obsolete. Nonetheless, it had a 11-year run.

The flag was donated to Goodwill by Ralph Lindley, who found it in an old box he bought at an auction. Goodwill employees, with his approval, have offered it to the state of Utah.

Soviets Display Military Might In Annual Parade

By FRANK CREPEAU
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government staged its annual display of military might Sunday for the 54th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution, but nothing new was shown.

The parade went off like clockwork with tanks, tanks, red-tipped missiles and thousands of Soviet citizens passing through swirling snow on Red Square.

Speaking from the reviewing stand atop Lenin's red granite tomb, Defense Minister Andrei A. Grechko stressed the Soviet Union's military capability. He mentioned the United States only indirectly, referring to "imperialist expansionist plans in Vietnam and the Middle East."

With him were Communist party chief Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin, President Nikolai V. Podgorny and party, government, party and military leaders.

The fur-capped leaders climbed to the reviewing stand to the accompaniment of muffled applause from gloved hands. The snow had just begun to fall.

When Grechko finished his six-minute speech, the military band struck up the Soviet national anthem. Artillery salvos echoed through the huge square, startling the pigeons on the Kremlin towers into flight.

By that time Lenin's tomb was draped in snow. It whitened the shoulders and caps of the massed troops marching past.

Then came the tanks, treads clanking on the cobblestones of Red Square. Rumbling vehicles pulled a sampling of the Kremlin's missile and rocket arsenal. Among the weapons were the 25-megaton SS9 intercontinental ballistic missile and the SA-2 antiaircraft missiles, along with antiballistic missiles and rockets for submarines.

As the tanks and missiles rolled out of sight down the hill behind St. Basil's Cathedral, members of sports organizations, schools and party units began their march. They entered the square from behind the Lenin Museum in two converging streams, carrying banners, slogan placards, red banners, balloons and paper flowers.

One huge poster bore a picture of Brezhnev and a reproduction of Pravda's front page on Oct. 31, showing the joint declaration of principles signed by the Communist party leader and President Georges Pompidou of France. Across the poster in big letters was stamped: We approve.

The celebration of the revolution began Saturday with a rally in the Kremlin Palace of Congresses. Today was a holiday.

Few Agencies For Part-Timers

Career Corner

by Joyce Lain Kennedy

Dear Joyce: I am a mother with 2 children and would like to find a part-time job. A full-time job is not possible because I have to be there when my children get home from school. Do you know of any employment services which specialize in placing women with my special needs? I don't refer to counseling services, but agencies which actually find permanent part-time jobs for women during school hours. — P.E., Cincinnati

So far, only 2 agencies making short-time permanent placements for women have come to my attention. One is a regular profitmaking business, and the other is set up as a nonprofit agency staffed by salaried workers. Both charge fees and both are on the East Coast. (I'd like to hear from readers who know of any other similar agencies throughout the country.)

"NEWTIME," a private employment agency in New York City, advertises its appeal to business employers with this spunky headline: "If Madame Curie were alive and only able to work from 9:30 to 3:15, would you hire her?" The ad goes on to describe Madame Curie-quality applicants: lawyers, scientists, technicians, researchers, writers, accountants, management trainers, administrative assistants and other talented women who are available on a 25 hr./wk. basis. Bookkeepers and clerical applicants are also placed. There is no educational minimum for applicants at Newtime.

The agency has been in business for 18 months, and has 1,200 applicants in its talent bank. The highest 25 hr./wk. salary thus far is $14,000 for a lawyer; the majority fall in the $5,000-7,000 bracket. Fees are on a sliding scale, governed by state law. $5-6,000 jobs — 5 percent of 1st year's salary; $6-7,000 jobs — 7 percent, etc.

Two young married women operate the agency — Joan Baeder and Ina Torton. Mrs. Baeder says it isn't always easy convincing employers to utilize the vast pool of untapped labor that women who can work short hours represent. Newtime's appeal to employers is based on dollars and sense: "Our applicants are more motivated and more productive. You can save a significant amount in salary and get 25 hours of expertise. Do you really get more from the people currently working for you?" Small firms have responded more readily than large corporations.

Joan Baeder advises applicants not to poo-poo clerical skills, but to use them to gain entry and move up from there. "It's tough to place a woman with a master's in English if she has nothing specific to offer the business community," Mrs. Baeder says.

DISTAFF STAFFERS in Washington, D.C., is also piloted by 2 young married women, Frances Goldman and Renee Taft. Both hold master's degrees and both have young children. Drawing on their own experience, they decided that no college educated woman with professional experience should work for less than $5/hour and opened their nonprofit agency last February. After the agency's established, they hope to be able to draw salaries and have enough left over to pay a part-time secretary or two.

Distaff Staffers accepts only college graduates with professional experience or nongraduates with equivalent experience to qualify as professionals as applicants. Forty placements have been made to date — as editors, writers, psychologists, social program analysts, researchers, Federal funding specialists, graphic designers, administrative assistants and other similar positions. A few jobs have been full-time or temporary, but most have been permanent 20-25-30 hr./wk. jobs.

Pay ranges from $5-8/hr., although one placement was made at $12.50/hour. Fees for short-time permanent placement vary from 1/6 to 1/8 of the 1st year's salary. Fees are payable as earned and spread over the year. If clients quit or are fired, fees not yet paid are cancelled. Women in other communities who would like to start such an agency are invited to write to Mmes. Taft and Goldman at 4625-A 41st. St. NW, Washington, D.C. 20016. Please enclose a stamped, self-addressed long white return envelope.

WOMEN -- If you would like a free 1-page mimeographed sheet of names and addresses of trade associations and professional societies to which you may write for career information about a variety of career fields, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Joyce Lain Kennedy at this newspaper. Ask for "Women's List."

Swigert Warns Of Monopoly

MIAMI (AP) — Astronaut Jack Swigert warns that the Soviet Union will soon establish a monopoly in the exploration of space if the United States continues to cut back its own program.

Swigert, a crewmember of the ill-fated Apollo 13 moon mission, told a meeting of the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture Friday that the Soviet Union is spending 13 percent of its gross national product on research and development.

Court's Steps Are Supported

AUSTIN (AP) — The U. S. Supreme Court has taken the correct steps in its opinions on school prayer bans to avoid a church and state conflict, former Supreme Court Justice Tom C. Clark said.

Critics of the court's decision on school prayers "are cursing the darkness rather than lighting a candle and discovering the truth," the retired associated justice told a meeting Sunday sponsored by the Texas Conference of Churches.

"Quite often I hear it said that the court has kicked God out the front door of the schoolhouse and let the Communists in the back door," Clark said. "I do not need to tell you there is nothing farther from the truth than that parody.

"In my view the court has indicated a safe course that may be pursued under its opinions. First, all that had been held unconstitutional is the practice of having a required mini-worship at the beginning of each school day.

"Next, the court went out of its way to point out that our history was steeping in religious tradition. It referred to oaths of office of our officials, the opening prayer at each opening of each house of Congress, the voluntary religious worship in the armed services and the ceremony at the opening of the Supreme Court itself.

"But more significant, the court has emphasized that there is no constitutional objection to the use of the Bible as a reference work, its study for its literary and historic values, the teaching of comparative religion and the study of the history of religion and its place in the development of present civilizations. This is a far cry from banning religion from the public schools."

Buckley Joins GOP Fund Drive

DALLAS (AP) — U. S. Sen. James Buckley joins Interior Secretary Rogers Morton Tuesday night in a twin-forked drive to fill the Republican war chest with Texas money.

Buckley, a Conservative-Republican from New York, will speak in Dallas while Morton goes to Houston. Their appearances coincide with $500-a-plate black tie dinners being given coast to coast Tuesday night in 22 cities.

President Nixon, Vice President Agnew and comedian Bob Hope will speak to all of the dinner gatherings via closed circuit television link.

Prominent GOP senators and show business personalities will make personal appearances at each of the fund-raising dinners.

Chairman of the Dallas dinner is former Mayor Erik Johnson who said the dinners are "an early appeal to major contributors to support the reelection of President Richard Nixon, ... the highest order of importance to the future of the nation and the security of the American people."

Johnson is chairman of the board of Texas Instruments Inc.

Morton will share the stage at Houston with singer Dennis Day.

The Houston dinner is expected to attract Republicans from nearby Louisiana and South Texas.

Chairman of the Houston GOP dinner is L. B. McCallum president of Continental Oil Co.

Texas A&M Schedules Annual 4-H Seminar

The 11th Annual Horse Short Course plus a 4-H Seminar will be conducted at Texas A&M University, Nov. 19-20, County Agricultural Agent Billy Roach has announced.

Headquarters for the seminar and short course will be the Ramada Inn in College Station.

The seminar for 4-H adult horse leaders will get under way with registration at 11 a.m. on Nov. 19. The theme will be "The Challenge of 1972." Featured speakers will be Dr. Donald Stormer, state 4-H and youth leader; Don Householder, Extension assistant in horse production; and B. F. Yeates, Extension horse specialist. Brainstorming for and planning challenging 4-H horse programs will be the main discussions at the seminar.

Registration for the short course begins at 4 p.m., and the program gets under way at 7 p.m. Speakers will be Mrs. Suzanne Jones of Tataum, N. M. and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Loomis of Lincoln, Neb. Mrs. Jones is widely known in horse judging circles and as a horse breeder and author. Loomis is an outstanding individual in the reining horse business and his wife, Joyce, was the world champion barrel racer last year.

Mrs. Jones will discuss "Hunt Seat Equitation" and "Training and Showing the Hunter" while the Loomis' will describe "Ground Work Preparatory to Starting the Young Horse."

The short course will continue at 8 a.m. on November 20 at the College of Veterinary Medicine at Texas A&M. Veterinary science officials will discuss Venezuelan Equine Encephalomyelitis (VEE), Equine Infectious Anemia (EIA), commonly known as swamp fever, immunization programs, chips, fractures, wound healing and infertility problems. Yeates will speak on "The Diverse Texas Horse Industry" at a noon luncheon at the Ramada Inn. The afternoon program will feature discussions by Dr. L. H. Breuer and Dr. Nat M. Kieffer of the A&M Animal Science Department.

The short course will conclude at the Aggie Rodeo Arena where the Loomis' will present a complete program for training the reining and barrel racing horse.

An organizational meeting of the newly formed Texas Horse Council will be held at 8 p.m. at the Ramada Inn.

Registration fees for the two-day event is $10 for adults and $5 for youth between the ages of 12 and 18. All who register will receive a copy of the proceedings.

Sleepwalking husband poses a problem

By Abigail Van Buren

(© 1971 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband insists upon sleeping in the raw. I personally have no objection to this, but he is also a sleepwalker. We have four children, including a teen-aged daughter, and George has been known to roam all over the house in his sleep. He has also walked outside on both front porch and back in this unclothed state.

When I notice that George is gone from our bed, I go and find him and gently lead him back. Is there some way I can talk him into wearing pajamas to bed? He says they aren't "comfortable." But under the circumstances I think he should try to get used to them, don't you?

GEORGE'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Yes. If you can't talk George into pajamas, compromise, and try to talk him into the bottoms. [But settle for shorts.]

DEAR ABBY: Our 19-year-old son has been dating a girl for four months. She is six months pregnant by someone else. She has told our son who the father is, and he is married.

In spite of her pregnancy, her parents allow her to date. We have talked to our son about what kind of girl she must be, told him he is ruining his reputation in this small town, but he says he doesn't care and will continue to see her.

We are a middle-class, respectable family, fairly religious. We've tried to raise our children right.

He lives at home, goes to college, and has a part-time job. We are paying for his education and clothes and he spends the money he earns as he pleases.

How can we get thru to him? GENERATION GAP

DEAR GAP: If his reputation suffers because of his actions, it's his reputation. You refer to the "kind" of girl she is. All kinds of girls have found themselves in that predicament. [She may be a wonderful girl.] Why don't you get to know her? That would be the first step in closing the generation gap.

DEAR ABBY: I've been wanting to write to you for years, but being quite happily married and with no major problems with my four kids, I haven't had to until now.

You goofed! You told a woman whose son accidentally broke her neighbor's window she should have had the window repaired and paid for it.

Abby, almost everyone who owns a home and resides in it has "homeowner's insurance," which means, if any member of one's household accidentally causes damage to someone else's property, the damage is paid for by the insurance company.

Example: My son knocks a ball thru someone's window. I hit a golfball into a passing automobile. While hunting, I accidentally shoot a farmer's cow. While shopping, my wife knocks a lamp off the shelf in a store. Also, if a child under 12 damages someone's property on purpose [kids sometimes do this], this insurance policy covers it.

You should have told that woman to report the broken window to her insurance company. If it turns out she doesn't have a homeowner's policy, then she can start paying.

And by the way, don't ever advise anyone to pay and then notify the insurance company. Insurance companies, because of their volume, can get work done cheaper than individuals can. Sign me

THE "GOOD HANDS" MAN IN FLORIDA

DEAR MAN: Thank you for a very informative letter. We can all learn. Even Abby.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ANYONE WHO MIGHT KNOW: In Highgate Cemetery, London, is an almost life-size granite grand piano marking a grave. The inscription reads, "To the memory of my beloved husband, Harry Thornton, age 35, a genius who died October 19, 1918." If you have ever heard of this man, I would like to hear from you. ABBY

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

LBJ Sells, Autographs Book

AUSTIN (AP) — Lyndon B. Johnson, former schoolteacher, senator, president and author, was a book salesman Sunday as several thousands of well-wishers toured the LBJ Library here where Johnson's book was on sale.

"The Vantage Point," is Johnson's version of what went on during his presidency but it has sparked criticisms from others in his administration whose accounts of history are somewhat different.

"All the decisions that are in this book are backed up by the 31 million documents in this library," he said. "I believe I new what I was doing better than someone else would know what I was doing."

Johnson told the crowds to "buy a book and give it to the generations to come to let them know how good the blessings of the good Lord were to us in the 1960s.

Johnson, accompanied by Mrs. Johnson spent the rest of the afternoon cheerfully autographing copies of the $15 volume and shaking hands with new and old friends.

A big sign at the entrance of the library, which was built by the University of Texas and is operated by the federal government, said: "autographed books may be purchased at 10 locations in the library."

"The publisher (Holt, Rinehart and Winston, New York City), paid $1.6 million for this book," Johnson said holding aloft a copy," not a cent of it is going in Lyndon Johnson's pocket. We gave it to the library and the school (LBJ School of Public Affairs)."

"This book was written so the young people of the future would be better prepared to bring peace to the world," he said.

Johnson made special mention of Rhea Howard, Wichita Falls newspaper publisher, "who not only drove all the way down here from Wichita Falls but he bought 110 copies of the book, one for each of the libraries in the towns that the Wichita Falls paper serves."

A library employe clocking visitors at the only entrance said that more than 6,000 have been counted at the time of the mid-afternoon ceremony. Johnson said more than 350,000 visitors have been in the library in its four months of operations "And they didn't have to pay an entrance fee."

Young Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — John H. Young, 55, journalist and publicist who once was an aide to former Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, died Saturday of cancer. Young broke with Powell and lost primary election battles to him in 1968 and 1970.

McKool Is Target Of Industry

DALLAS (AP) — State Sen. Mike McKool, a persistent critic of the Texas automobile insurance industry, says it is out to defeat him in 1972.

"The industry has a powerful and influential lobby and I have been getting reports for months that it was going all out to mark me as the No. 1 target for defeat and try to get rid of me in order to shut me up," McKool said in a statement issued Sunday.

"Whether I run for the Senate or for Congress, the people will see to it that the auto insurance industry will not shut me up," he said. McKool has moved from the 16th senatorial district to the newly created 9th district, although he has not yet announced his 1972 plans.

"A leader of the industry and a spokesman before the State Insurance Board for higher rates sent the lieutenant governor a plan to move my district northward into a Republican area in an effort to defeat me," McKool said. "This plan was subsequently adopted, leaving approximately 40 to 45 per cent of the original 16th district. Seventy per cent of the Dallas County population of the 9th district is my present constituents. Thus I have moved to be with this majority."

Aspirins Can Be Dangerous

BALTIMORE (AP)—A leading Baltimore physician, claiming that aspirin can cause heavy bleeding in the intestinal tract, has issued a warning on the use of the common medication.

Dr. Vernon M. Smith, a professor of medicine at the University of Maryland and chief of gastroenterology at Mercy Hospital, says there is "no doubt" in his mind that aspirin can be a "dangerous drug."

"There is certainly far more harm in a couple of aspirin than in a couple of cigarettes," Dr. Smith contends.

Tigers, Matadors Vie Thursday At Lubbock

Estacado's Matadors, all alone in first place in the District 3-AAA football race, tangle with Snyder's Tigers, all alone in second place, in a showdown match at 7:30 p.m. Thursday at Lowrey Field in Lubbock.

The local schedules had listed the game for Friday night, but over the weekend school officials here learned that Lubbock has the game set for Thursday night.

The Matadors are 5-0 in district and can claim the crown outright with a win over Snyder. A win or a tie would give them the playoff berth. The Tigers can gain a tie for the lead with a victory, and another victory next week would give the locals the playoff berth.

The Lubbock team has the best season record with only one tie in eight outings. The Tigers are 4-1 in district play and 4-3-1 for the season.

Dunbar and Sweetwater share third place in the league with 3-2 records while Lamesa is in fifth place with a 2-3 mark. Lake View is in sixth place with a 1-3-1 record. Brownfield is in seventh place with a 1-4 mark. Colorado City is all alone in the cellar with an 0-4-1 mark.

Dunbar, Lamesa and Sweetwater have won more games than they've lost with season records of 5-2-1, 5-3, and 5-3 respectively. Brownfield, Lake View and Colorado City all have lost more games than they've won during the campaign.

Perhaps the biggest surprise last week was Lake View's 21-14 upset of Lubbock Dunbar. Snyder raised a few eyebrows with its 27-10 triumph over Lamesa. The Matadors scored the biggest victory — a 40-0 win over Brownfield while Sweetwater put down Colorado City 27-6.

The showdown match between the Tigers and Matadors at Lubbock Thursday night is the feature aattraction of the week. In Friday night affrays, Lamesa hosts Lake View, Brownfield entertains Colorado City, and Sat. Dunbar hosts Sweetwater.

Horned Frogs Take Over Second Place

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

In two weeks, the "dead-as-a-hammer" Texas Longhorns have arisen from a humiliating 31-7 defeat by Arkansas at Little Rock to the point where they can be within a step of their fourth consecutive Southwest Conference football title if they defeat Texas Christian in Austin Saturday.

Arkansas' shocking 24-24 tie with Rice Saturday and a 17-9 whipping at the hands of Texas A&M a week earlier have knocked the Razorbacks into third place with a 3-1-1 record.

Guess who is in second-place—just a half game behind the Longhorns. It's Texas Christian which got a cockroach rating from Texas Coach Darrell Royal one year because "what they don't eat they mess up."

The inspired Horned Frogs own a 3-1 mark on the heels of a 17-6 triumph over Texas Tech.

The Longhorns are 4-1 after a 24-0 victory over Baylor marked by the return of No. 1 quarterback Eddie Phillips.

Now all between Texas and the Cotton Bowl is TCU Saturday and Texas A&M on Thanksgiving Day.

Gallardo Wins Mexican Title

Associated Press Golf Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Lee Trevino had a warning for Spain's Angel Gallardo, who won the Mexican Open Sunday and destroyed Trevino's dream of a fourth national gold championship:

"We'll tee it up again on Thursday and see what happens then."

Trevino, who never was really a factor in the final round, was referring to this week's World Cup championship in Palm Beach Gardens, Fla. Trevino and Jack Nicklaus will represent the United States in the 46-nation competition and Gallardo and Ramon Sota will represent Spain.

The slim, dark Gallardo, who does not compete on the American tour and is little known outside of Europe, pulled off a major upset when he sank a 22-foot birdie putt on the final hole for a one-stroke victory.

Jets, Saints Are Surprise Teams

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Kansas City Chiefs were gone with the wind and Edd Hargett's storm buffeted the Oakland Raiders.

Those elements combined Sunday to keep the American Football Conference's Western Division race in an extremely fidgety state.

Capricious winds, howling up to 35 miles an hour at New York's Shea Stadium, were a deciding factor as the Jets blew out the favored Chiefs 13-10 in the National Football League.

Hargett, meanwhile, was another natural phenomenon, directing three last-half touchdown drives to help the New Orleans Saints salvage a gutty 21-21 tie with the powerful Raiders.

The day's results moved Oakland into sole possession of first place in the bitter West race, only a half-game ahead of archrival Kansas City.

"It was a tough day to work," said Kansas City quarterback Len Dawson after getting caught up in a Jet stream. "Fighting that wind makes it tough. You couldn't lob the ball because the wind got hold of it and you never knew what it would do to the ball."

Hargett, on the other hand, knew where the ball was going every minute as he came off the bench to work his late magic.

Veteran George Blanda, who has performed similar heroics for Oakland but didn't get the chance this time, agreed that Hargett headlined the "Blanda Show" well.

"Yeah, he did," said Blanda, "and more credit to him."

Other surprises laced the NFL Sunday as the last-place Philadelphia Eagles soared to a 7-7 tie with the Washington Redskins, leaders of the National Conference's Eastern Division, and the Green Bay Packers upended the Chicago Bears, who are fighting for the lead in the National Conference's Central Division.

The Dallas Cowboys had to battle to pull out a 16-13 triumph over the St. Louis Cardinals; the San Francisco 49ers won a 13-9 fight over the Minnesota Vikings in a meeting between division leaders and the Miami Dolphins rode a rugged running attack to a 34-0 victory over the Buffalo Bills to keep their lead in the American Conference East.

Elsewhere, the Pittsburgh Steelers dominated the Cleveland Browns 26-9 and tied them for first place in the AFC Central race; the New York Giants turned on the high-scoring San Diego Chargers 35-17; the Atlanta Falcons disposed of the Cincinnati Bengals 9-6; the New England Patriots pasted the Houston Oilers 28-20 and the Detroit Lions slugged the Denver Broncos 24-20.

The Baltimore Colts host the Los Angeles Rams in a game tonight.

Long before Bobby Howfield gunned through a 39-yard field goal in the fourth quarter for the New York Jets' winning points, they had plenty of help from the tricky wind currents at Shea.

The elements handicapped the Dawson-to-Otis Taylor passing combination, one of the hottest in pro football. Dawson was able to connect with his favorite target only twice during the game and threw for a subpar total of 111 yards overall with 13 completions.

Winds also blew off target a 39-yard field goal try by Kansas City's Jan Stenerud just minutes before Howfield's game-winner.

"It's a cross wind here," said Howfield, a former Chief. "It kind of swirls every which-way. I just tried to compensate for it as best I could."

"Had the winds not been blowing it would have been different," the veteran said, shaking his head." The ball would start out fine.... but then take off."

Hargett, who came in after starter Archie Manning injured his right elbow, took the Saints on touchdown marches of 79, 52 and 77 yards. But he wouldn't take all the credit for it, citing the Saints' strong running attack.

SUCCESSFUL HUNT — Ted Floyd (left) and Steve Babcock, both of Snyder, went hunting in the Knapp area Thursday, and Ted shot this bobcat. It measured 54 inches in length. Steve shot one last year.
