Midland Lee football players go through some high-powered instruction from Rebel football coaches as Lee begins another quest for a state playoff berth in November. Lee has been in the playoffs two consecutive years with a 25-5 record over that span.

Will big game be televised?

By TERRY WILLIAMSON
Assistant Sports Editor

Midland Lee football fans owning a ticket to the Oct. 11 game with Odessa Permian could be in for a big surprise if they show up at Memorial Stadium on that date if a proposed television package is approved.

No plans have been finalized to change the date of that contest for television, but negotiations are underway to televise the game in the Permian Basin area on Thursday, Oct. 10, according to Dr. Joseph Baressi, Midland Independent School District superintendent.

"The athletic directors and superintendents of both Midland and Odessa have had a meeting with Eddie Clinton in regard to televising the Permian-Lee game," Baressi told the Reporter-Telegram Thursday afternoon. "He (Clinton) gave us a verbal presentation Thursday morning and we have asked that the proposal be put in writing. That should be coming by Tuesday, Aug. 27.

"Of course, we would have to take any proposal to the school board for final approval. We do have approval from the (District 4-5A) Executive Committee to televise the game if it isn't played on Friday night. The Texas-Oklahoma game is on Saturday, so that really leaves us with a Thursday date," noted Baressi.

Clinton owns Clinton Video Productions out of Dallas, which has syndicated Friday Night Magic, a weekly roundup of high school football highlights from across the state.

However, Clinton is proposing a live telecast for the Permian Basin area for Oct. 10, featuring Permian and Lee.

Midland athletic director Gil Bartosh said, "If the deal is approved, it would basically be a local telecast with all three local stations being allowed to bid on the game. There has been some talk of also televising the game in San Angelo and Abilene if the interest is there."

If the proposed television deal goes through, it would mean some extra money for both the Midland and Odessa teams. That figure is not known as negotiations continue.

For all practical purposes, the Permian-Lee game is already a sellout. Lee has sold all of its available season tickets and only student tickets and tickets for Permian's side of the field have not been sold and won't be until game week. However, Permian is expected to sell its allotment with little trouble.

Since Midland's Memorial Stadium seats under 11,000 fans, any TV production would probably go a long way toward healing the wounds felt by individuals who will not be able to attend the game. Undoubtedly, tickets will be scarce.

Controllers agree crash unavoidable

FORT WORTH (AP) — Two air traffic controllers who handled the Delta Air Lines jet that crashed, killing 134 people, on final approach to the Dallas airport, said in a report published today there was nothing they could have done to prevent the disaster.

The controllers, in their first public remarks since the crash, said they also had no idea how severe the weather was at Dallas-Fort Worth International Airport until 100 mph winds were clocked there minutes after the Lockheed L-1011 went down.

"That night going home, I felt like there was nothing I could have done or should have done that would have changed anything," said a 46-year-old Garland man who controlled the flight until six minutes before the crash.

"I don't think any information was withheld from the pilot that he would have made a different decision than he did" to fly into the rain, he said.

Two of the three controllers monitoring Delta Flight 191 on Aug. 2 were interviewed by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram and spoke on condition they not be identified by name.

"It's just a feeling of helplesshes," said a controller from Irving, who had given the pilot clearance to land, then futilely commanded, "Go around."

"You're standing there looking at an airplane explode and you know that people are dying. You don't have any idea how many," he said. "There's not a ... thing you can do for them. Zero."

Thirty people survived the crash of the jumbo jet.

National Transportation Safety Bord investigators have not determined the cause of the crash, butwind shear — a sudden shift in wind speed and direction spawned by severe thunderstorms — is a prime suspect.

But the first thought for each controller, veterans of 24 &ears or more, was whether he had done something wrong.

"When they said it was an airliner that crashed, I thought I hoped it wasn't serious," said the Garland controller, who could not see the crash from his station in a darkened radar room. "I hoped we didn't do anything wrong."

Three controllers at the tower and radar complex supervised Flight 191's approach to the north end of the airport. Two were in the windowless radar room and one in the control tower. One of the radar controllers declined to be interviewed.

By the time the controller issued his "go around" order to abort the landing, the plane had touched down in a field 1,777 feet north of the runway, lifted and smacked into a car on Texas Highway 114, killing the driver.

The controller from Irving said that when he saw the plane break through the rain, he had no idea that weather was responsible for its low altitude.

"Instinct — after years and years and years of watching airplanes landing, it appeared to me he was at an improper attitude to land," he said. "It was just instinct to say, 'Delta go around.'"

As soon as he said that, he noticed a fire in the plane's left wing area.

"It was just seconds afterwards he made a hard left turn, nose down, wing down, hit the ground, then bounced into the (water) tanks and exploded."

He said the 100-mph winds were reason enough to order workers to abandon the tower because of dangerous swaying and would have closed the airport. After the crash, he called the arrival controller to halt flights.

Both controllers said that after listening to tapes and going over their actions in their minds as well as before an investigating board, they were at peace with themselves and confident that they would be vindicated.

"I think you do soul-searching, if you will, to say, 'What could I possibly have done? What clue was there? What should I have said?'" said the radar controller from Garland.

TEC will move offices here from San Angelo

By MELLA McEWEN
Business/Oil Writer

The three-member Texas Employment Commission has decided, on a 2-1 vote, to move the regional office from San Angelo to Midland. The move will affect five employees.

While San Angelo officials, including the Chamber of Commerce-Board of City Development's Economic Development Division and state Rep. Dick Burnett, opposed the move, Midland TEC director Ed Miller applauded the commission's decision.

"I think it's a wise move and should save taxpayers some money as well as improve our services to the community. I am muchly in favor of it," he commented. He said the move could save $12,000 a year in travel expenses and salaries, since Midland is more centrally located and has a more accessible airport.

Miller said it would be more economical to be located in the center of the region, which extends from San Angelo to El Paso, with offices in El Paso, Pecos, Lamesa, Midland and Odessa as well as El Paso.

"You can be in El Paso in an hour by plane, drive to Lamesa in about an hour, and Pecos in just over an hour. The furtherest place is San Angelo, and that's a two-hour drive," Miller noted.

Regional Director Velma Burkham said the move will be beneficial, citing Midland's central location. She also said the move will help the regional office, which helps the local offices administer and handle programs, perform better.

The move will also ease overcrowding in the San Angelo office. "We're housed with the local office in San Angelo," Burkham said. "The move should give the local office a little more room and help them do their jobs better."

No specific date has been set for the move, which Burkham said should be made sometime this fall.

Unemployment grows slightly

By MELLA McEWEN
Business/Oil Writer

Figures recently released by the Texas Employment Commission indicate that Midland's unemployment rate continued its slow rise during the month of July. The city's unemployment rate grew from 5.2 percent in June to 5.4 percent in July. Also, the number of unemployed grew to 3,600 in July, up from 3,400 in June.

This compares to a July, 1984 unemployment rate of 4.3 percent, with 2,900 persons unemployed.

Despite the increases, Midland retained the third-lowest rate in the state, behind Austin with 5 percent, and Dallas with 5.2 percent. Odessa was tenth with 6.4 percent, the same rate as in June.

Ed Miller, manager of the Midland TEC office, attriubted the continued increase in unemployment to summer job seekers. He added the local economy is still a little static, due to the state of the petroleum industry.

Accused spy seeks asylum in East Germany

BERLIN (AP) — A top West German intelligence officer sought in a widening spy scandal has crossed the border and requested asylum from East Germany's communist government, East Germany's official news agency said today.

Hans Joachim Tiedge, who had been West Germany's top counterespionage officer for East Germany, was the fourth person to disappear since Aug. 6. There are growing suspicious that all four were East German spies.

"Hans Joachim Tiedge, who for many years was in charge of counter-espionage in the Federal Constitutional Protection Office of the Federal Republic of (West) Germany has crossed over into the (East) German Democratic Republic and has sought asylum there," ADN said in its dispatch.

ADN said East German officials were reviewing his request for asylum. The news agency did not say when Tiedge had arrived in East Germany. He had been missing since Monday.

Kurt Rebmann, West Germany's chief federal prosecutor, immediately announced that investigators were searching Tiedge's home and that a formal spy probe had been opened against him.

In Bonn, Hans Neusel, an undersecretary in the Interior Ministry, told reporters that West Germany had "no doubt" about the accuracy of the ADN report. He said the government would inform Parliament of the matter.

Tiedge's request for political asylum had provoked "grave second thoughts" about West Germany's security, Neusel said. The intelligence officer, who spent 19 years in "sensitive positions," probably will disclose secret information to East Germany, he said.

The announcement came a day after West German officials said they had launched a major search for Tiedge. Reports had said he vanished Monday after calling in sick to work.

Colleagues could not reach him at home by telephone, and family members could not locate him, said Hans-Gerd Lange, a spokesman for the Constitutional Protection Office.

Earlier today, the Cologne Express newspaper reported that Tiedge had been in charge of surveillance of one of the other three people who disappeared, a bookkeeper for a lobbying group.

The bookkeeper, Ursula Richter, did not show up at work Monday. The Cologne Express, quoting unnamed "security experts," said she may have fled after being tipped off by Tiedge.

Alexander Prechtel, a spokesman for Rebmann, had said that as of Thursday Tiedge was not under suspicion of spying.

Chancellor Helmut Kohl issued a warning to East Germany about possible damage to relations between the two countries because of espionage. "Those in East Germany who are interested in good neighborly relations with West Germany should consider the effect on us ... of spying," Kohl said in an interview with West German television.

"Espionage is bound to sow mistrust," said Kohl, who also called for West Germany to strengthen counter-intelligence and improve security.

East and West Germany, the product of opposing Soviet and Western occupation zones at the end of World War II, often alternate between accusations and quiet diplomacy to improve economic, cultural and family ties.

An army administration office messenger and an Economics Ministry aide also have disappeared this month, and the Federal Prosecutor's Office is probing both as alleged East German agents.

The spy affair began when Sonja Lueneburg, 61, the longtime aide to Economics Minister Martin Bangemann, did not show up for work Aug. 6. Prechtel said Wednesday authorities were looking into whether Ms. Lueneburg might have overseen a ring of East German spies.

In response to Kohl's warning, ADN charged Thursday that 168 West German spies had been arrested in East Germany since the start of 1984.

The alleged spies intended through "criminal activities to damage socialist construction and the defenses of the (Soviet-led) Warsaw Pact in the territory of the German Democratic Republic," said ADN in a dispatch from East Berlin.

The spy affair came at a bad time for Kohl's center-right coalition. The government's failure to cut unemployment and its perceived lack of firm leadership under Kohl left it at a record low in opinion polls.

Mexico's Operation Pacific wages war on drugs

AP Laserphoto

An agent from Mexico's Federal Judicial Police piles marijuana plants on a hillside in Simalea state during Operation Pacific '85, a drug plantation eradication campaign.

By DANA FIELDS
Associated Press Writer

CULIACAN, Mexico — From deep within narrow green valleys helicopters rise into the morning sunlight, scanning hillsides acre by acre for the marijuana and poppy plantations that dot the rippled countryside of Sinaloa state.

A dozen hilltops away, other choppers spray the herbicide paraquat to kill marijuana growing side by side with corn. Teams of soldiers and drug agents will be flown later to these plantations, to yank up the dead plants by hand and burn them.

This is the gritty part of Operation Pacific '85, a land, sea and air assault by up to 10,000 men on plantations thriving in the 95-degree heat of the lush Pacific Coast.

In a hillside field about 20 miles north of Culiacan, reporters watched Wednesday as agents tossed armloads of marijuana into a bonfire. The occupants of a nearby shack had apparently fled, but the agents all carried semiautomatic rifles in case of any trouble.

Mexican officials say these search-and-destroy missions add up to the biggest campaign ever mounted anywhere against illegal cultivation.

"Not even the United States has managed to bring together so much equipment and men in an antinarcotics campaign," said Jose Maria Ortega Padilla, chief of the Federal Judicial Police and head of Mexico's permanent campaign against narcotics.

Since beginning July 22 near the Guatamalen border the operation has been moving north towards its prime target: the so-called Drug Triangle in the foothills of the Sierra Madre of northwestern Mexico. The area covers parts of Sinaloa, Durango, Chihuahua and Sonora states.

The federal Attorney General's Office has thrown its 69 helicopters, three troop transport planes and 20 small Cessnas into the Drug Triangle sweep. It is also contributing 410 members of the Federal Judicial Police.

Eight Army generals are leading 6,500 troops and 385 officers in the month-long regional operation, which began Aug. 13. So far 1,000 marijuana plantations and 200 poppy fields have been destroyed in the four states, said Gen. Carlos Rosas Pedrote.

An aura of spectacle surrounds the operation as viewed from the air. Helicopters swoop and circle as they spray the hilltop planttions, then returning to alight, butterfly style, to inspect the work.

But the commanders say the show is incidental.

"In no way are we putting on a circus," Ortega said. "The concentration of all the human and technical equipment of the Attorney General's Office, and the collaboration of the Mexican army, is to combat this activity."

Mexican authorities are highly sensitive to what they perceive as U.S. criticism of their anti-narcotics efforts. Newspapers gave ample play to the compliments paid to the campaign by Attorney General Edwin Meese III, after he talked with officials in Mexico City Aug. 14.

Moreover, rumors continue to abound in the northwestern states that some police and politicians protect drug kingpins for personal gain. The allegations reached a fever pitch in February after the kidnap-murder of U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration special agent Enrique Camararena Salazar.

In turn, Mexican authorities almost unanimously say the United States is the problem because it provides the market. Without it, they say, there would be no cultivation.

"As long as there exists a market for drugs, there will necessarily be producers," Rosas Pedrote said Wednesday.

Separately, Sinaloa Gov. Antonio Toledo Corro told Mexican reporters there was "not the least doubt" that the cultivation continues to thrive because of the proximity of the United States.

"The problem, I repeat, is that we have consumers with a high level of resources," he said. He added that U.S. officials must reciprocate Mexico's efforts by educating people against drug abuse.

Toledo Corro said his government has tried to provide alternate work for rural peasants by expanding the state's sawmills and mining operations.

"Millions of jobs" were created through projects to irrigate arable hilltops for vegetable farming, Toledo Corro said.

The irrigation also helps the marijuana growing on the same hilltops.

Authorities are least concerned with catching the growers, who work at the order of city-dwelling bosses and have no power of their own, Ortega said.

For one thing the growers are hard to find, he said. The villages in these hills are widely scattered; growers may travel five miles a day on foot or burro, unseen from the air, then go home the next day after working the fields at night.

While Operation Pacific has chased the growers away for now, they will likely return once the troops move on. Authorities will follow up the operation with periodic flights over cleared fields to check for renewed activity, Ortega said.

'Roley Poly' wins weight-loss title

By MICHAEL WEST

LONDON (AP) — Roley McIntyre was once so fat that he drove from the back seat of his specially built car and slept on a bed reinforced with timber beams. Women ignored him.

At 5-feet-10-inches tall, he had a 6-feet-6-inch waist and once got stuck in a turnstile at a soccer match. Stewards had to demolish the machine to set him free.

The boom lowered when his doctor warned the 33-year-old that his weight would kill him in five years and his boss ordered him to do something about his health.

Now, 18 months later and 389 pounds lighter, the man they used to call "Roley Poly" has won a wife, a world listing in the Guinness Book of Records, the title "Slimmer of the Year."

The civil servant from Kesh in Northern Ireland weighed in at 578 pounds a year and a half ago before being put on a diet of salad, fruit and meat. He also stopped drinking beer.

At the height of his weight problem, McIntyre said a typical lunch included a half a pound of bacon, three or four eggs, nine or 10 potatoes and a lot of fried vegetables.

"For afters I might have a rice pudding," he said.

He also ate a heavy bacon-and-egg breakfast, a big evening meal of meat pie, potatoes and pudding and a supper of sandwiches and cake.

Now he eats a 1,500-calorie diet of fruit, skimmed milk and cereal for breakfast, five ounces of baked beans on toast for lunch, and grilled fish and vegetables for dinner.

On Wednesday, in a ceremony at London's swank Savoy Hotel, McIntyre weighed in at 189 pounds and was awarded the title of "Slimmer of the Year" by Britain's Slimming magazine which described him as its "most remarkable success story ever."

McIntyre, who also won $1,380 with the title, is the first man ever to be declared winner of the contest.

He was nominated for the contest by his wife, Josephine, whom he married last Saturday. They met when his weight had fallen to 280 pounds.

"I can get my arms round him much more easily now," she told reporters.

He said that before that, his vast bulk had deterred romance — women simply hadn't wanted to know him. "I led a lonely life before I started to lose weight," he said.

The Guinness Book of Records plans to list him in its next edition for the greatest weight loss in the shortest time.

The current edition of the book lists the greatest recorded slimming feat as that of William J. Cobb, alias "Happy Humphrey," an American professional wrestler from Macon, Ga.

It says it was reported in July 1965 that Cobb had reduced from 802 pounds to 232 pounds in three years. This works out to an average loss of 95 pounds every six months. McIntyre lost an average of 129.6 pounds every six months.

Inmates grow holly bushes meant to deter New Jersey burglaries

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Inmates are busy with watering cans and hoes in a county jail garden raising prickly holly bushes destined for transplanting under the windows of senior citizens as burglar deterrents.

Cape May County Sheriff Jim Plousis, who has dubbed the program "Burglars Preventing Burglaries," said it bloomed from his desires to keep his inmates busier — 20 percent of them are in for burglary — and to prevent crime.

"Also, the nice part about this is, instead of putting bars on your windows, this looks nice around it," he said Wednesday.

GAME

The Lee-Permian game has attracted several television markets. A group representing cable sports channel ESPN, has considered doing a series of high school games live from across the country with Lee and Permian as one of the targets. However, that venture has been put on hold at least until next year because the ESPN group didn't have time to finalize a format for this season.

Clinton had also considered doing the Permian-Lee telecast on a statewide hook-up, but time again prevented that since many stations already are committed to programming for this fall. Clinton also has the state 5A championship game that is televised state-wide. The state 5A championship game has been televised live for the past two seasons with both Permian and Lee making appearances.

It is no secret why the Lee-Permian tussle has become so attractive to television. The last two years, the two teams have met four times with large crowds. Two quarterfinal matchups in Lubbock's Jones Stadium have attracted a total of 70,000 fans.

That has given the Permian Basin some national attention as the Lee-Permian series has grown to near legendary proportions. The legend will surely grow even more if the TV package is approved.

"Oil has affected the two cities in different ways. We still put the deals together, they still go out and do the work," he commented. "We still have a viable economy, though I'm a proponent of economic diversification." He doesn't anticipate any startling changes in the employment picture for the near future, either, he said.

Although Midland's unemployment rate may have gone up, there were more people employed during July. The total number of employed persons for July was 62,900, compared to 61,900 a month ago. The civilian labor force also grew, from 65,300 in June to 66,500 in July. A year ago, Midland's total employment was 64,700, and the civilian labor force numbered 67,800.

For the second month in a row, Miller said, and for the first time since 1970, the Texas state unemployment rate has exceed the national unemployment rate. The Texas unemployment rate for July, 1985 is 7.7 percent, while the U.S. unemployment rate for July is 7.4 percent.

Spy dust revelations 'humanitarian'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Reagan administration says it was guided by humanitarian concerns, not propaganda motives, when it accused the Soviet Union of using a chemical powder to track the activities of U.S. diplomats in Moscow.

"There is absolutely no U.S. attempt in any way to sabotage prospects for a Geneva meeting," State Department spokesman Charles E. Redman said Thursday, referring to the Nov. 19-20 summit between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

"The timing of this whole issue was driven by the humanitarian health concerns for our personnel in Moscow," he said. "Our priority goal was to inform our employees. We did that as rapidly as possible."

At the same time, Redman brushed aside the Soviet denial that it has used a chemical agent to monitor contact between U.S. diplomats in Moscow and Soviet citizens, including dissidents.

"The evidence is there," Redman said.

"We have absolutely no doubt in our mind that what we described as happening has been happening in the manner in which we described it as happening," he said.

"The Soviets have delivered a statement denying our accusations," Redman said. "The facts however, are clear and unambiguous. They are as we have stated. It is distressing that the Soviets are incapable of facing unpleasant facts in a forthright manner, and even more so that they attempted to cover the misdeeds of their officials with accusations against others.

"As we have stated, we expect the KGB practice of using chemical compounds against U.S. personnel to cease forthwith, and we will be taking whatever steps necessary to protect our citizens," Redman said.

Victor F. Isakov, the No. 3 person in the Soviet Embassy, went to the State Department on Thursday to deliver the Soviet's verbal and written objections to the U.S. accusations. He met with John Whitehead, acting secretary of state.

The official Soviet news agency Tass said Thursday the Kremlin "resolutely rejects the absurd inventions that some chemical substances are being used against personnel of U.S. establishments in the Soviet Union."

Tass asserted the U.S. claims that Moscow used NPPD, or nitrophenylpentadienal, were part of a "slanderous campaign against the Soviet Union, to poison the atmosphere in relations between our two countries and to fan hostility toward Soviet people."

Redman categorically rejected any suggestion of a relationship between the timing of the announcement and the propaganda war being waged by the United States and Soviet Union in advance of the summit.

Redman said Wednesday that the chemical had been found to cause mutations in tests performed last year, but he refused Thursday to say which government agency performed the tests or to make the test results public.

Reagan re-opens partisan debate with speech at California party

LOS ANGELES (AP) — President Reagan has used his first major appearance since cancer surgery to bounce back into partisan form, decrying the Democratic party as one that "just keeps going in circles."

Before retreating again to his mountaintop ranch to finish his three-week vacation, Reagan gave an upbeat speech Thursday night to about 1,000 supporters of the California Republican Party at a $1,000-a-plate fund-raiser.

"I am feeling fine and when we get back to Washington it's going to be full steam ahead," the president told the crowd.

It was the president's only major public appearance of his California stay, and the first time he has addressed such a large group outside the White House since physicians removed a two-foot section of his colon on July 13.

Reagan touted the GOP as "can-do party with an agenda for an opportunity-filled tomorrow, the party with a positive strategy for freedom and growth."

Republicans belong, he said, to the "party of the open door ... We are reaching out to Asians, Hispanics and blacks, and it is making a difference."

Democrats, Reagan charged, "look at these people and others as ethnic groups. We look at them as Americans."

Referring to those who say his landslide re-election victory was due to the force of his own charisma, Reagan said: "The other side would like to believe our victory was due to personality. I just hope they keep believing that."

Reagan said the Republican Party has brought about a change in America's political landscape.

"Realignment is real," Reagan said. "What the American people see is that the other party just keeps going in circles. Of course, that's what happens if every time there is a decision to make, you keep leaning to the left."

Reagan also made a pitch for his Strategic Defense Initiative of space-based missile defense systems, known as "Star Wars," saying the proposal would "permit us to shift our focus to saving lives, rather than avenging them."

"We seek an anti-nuclear shield, using technology to make us safer," the president said. "Our success will be measured by the number of people we can save, not destroy."

Reagan said that "some self-declared experts and some of those blame-America-first crowd" have charged that his proposal is unfeasible and a waste of money. But he drew applause from the crowd by asking, "Well, if that's true, why are the Soviets so upset about it? As a matter of fact, why are they investing so many rubles of their own in the same technologies?"

Across the Avenue of the Stars from the hotel, an estimated 200 demonstrators paraded with placards attacking administration policies in Central America, South Africa and at home. A smaller group of counter-demonstrators carried religious placards and chanted such slogans as "Support your local police" and "Down with your local KGB."

New York to introduce all winners of $41 million state lottery today

NEW YORK (AP) — The millions of losers in New York's $41 million lottery drawing were gripped today by a new suspense as they waited to learn the names of two lucky guessers who won one-third shares in the record jackpot.

The holders of one of the three winning tickets jumped joyously into the spotlight Thursday: 21 workers at a factory in Mt. Vernon, north of New York City.

Most of the 21 were immigrants who came in search of the American dream from China, the Dominican Republic, Poland, Trinidad, Thailand, Yugoslavia, Paraguay and Hungary.

"These guys are like a cross-section of America, with every ethnic, racial and religious group represented," said Karl Wallburg, a vice president at Hantscho Inc., which manufactures printing presses.

"I feel wonderful, great, terrifically excited. Maybe now I'll go out and buy myself a big, brand new American car," said Peter Lee, 38, ringleader of "The Lucky 21," as they called themselves on lottery papers.

Computers showed that two other first-prize tickets had been sold, one to a Brooklyn man whose name was withheld at his request, the other to an unknown person who placed a $1 bet in Albany, said lottery director John D. Quinn.

"I can't give any more information. We need some suspense," said Quinn, declining to identify the lucky Brooklynite. The person who bought the ticket in Albany had not stepped forward by late Thursday. Quinn was to introduce the winners this morning.

Wednesday afternoon, hours before the drawing, Lee asked his fellow workers if they wanted to go in on Lotto tickets.

Of 23 workers in the section, 21 agreed. Lee collected a dollar from each, had each worker fill out two games, then bought 21 tickets at a stationery store.

He gave the game cards to Vilart (Willie) Lao, 36, of Yonkers, kept the receipts, went home, but didn't watch the televised drawing.

It was Lao who realized they were winners. "I watched TV and said to my wife, 'I think we won the Lotto!' She said, 'You're crazy!'"

Each of the Lucky 21 earns $18,000 to $30,000 annually, said Karl Wallburg, vice president of manufacturing for the company.

A total of 113,670 tickets won prizes ranging down to $23.

The lottery set several records: the $41 million jackpot, highest ever in North America; $47,825,432 in prizes; ticket sales of $36,112,626; $2,166,757 paid to Lotto vendors; and $16,250,681 for state education coffers.

The Lucky 21 was the largest group ever to split a first prize in the state lottery, said James Nolan, Lotto director for New York City.

Frustaci septuplet Patricia Ann to leave hospital

Los Angeles Times-
Washington Post News Service

IRVINE, Calif. — Patricia Ann, the first-born Frustaci septuplet, will be released from Childrens Hospital of Orange County next week, but she will leave her two brothers behind, a hospital spokesman said Thursday.

The three-month old infant has gained enough weight and is healthy enough to go home to Riverside, Calif., Wednesday with parents Samuel and Patti Frustaci, spokesman Laura Johnson said. She described the baby's health as "just wonderful."

Patricia's two brothers, Richard Charles and Stephen Earl, are "doing fine, but they haven't gained the weight to go home," Johnson said.

Babies must weigh between 4 1-2 and 5 pounds before they are released from the neonatal intensive care unit, where premature and critically ill babies are cared for, Johnson said. She said that the family has not authorized the hospital to release the weights or other information about the Frustaci babies.

Iowans eager players of new state lottery

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Officials proclaimed Iowa's new lottery a "smashing hit" as eager players jammed outlets across the state scratching tickets and, in at least five cases, winning thousands of dollars.

"I'll buy a hot dog, I guess," Richard Bucholz of Tripoli, a $2 winner, said Thursday. "I think it's something Iowa should have had years ago. It's a lot of fun."

About 3,000 tickets were sold in Larchwood, a northwest Iowa town of 700, and a store in Davenport sold 2,000 tickets in the first hour, Lottery Commissioner Ed Stanek said.

"The lottery is a smashing hit with Iowans," Stanek said. "The momentum is there. It's Iowans themselves who will keep it going. We think it will continue."

Winners of $100 prizes are eligible for weekly jackpots expected to reach $5.8 million.

The lottery was officially kicked off amid bands and balloons and a cry of "Scratch 'em off" at the Iowa State Fair, where 5,000 tickets were given away. Iowans jammed the state's 3,100 lottery outlets, scratched their lottery cards to reveal six numbers and hoped for three of a kind.

Within minutes, Wilma Waskow of Des Moines won the maximum $5,000 prize. Stanek said there were four other unconfirmed $5,000 winners. Several players won $100 prizes and hundreds hit $2 and $5 wins.

Ms. Waskow walked into the offices of the Iowa State Lottery to claim her $5,000 minutes after buying two $1 tickets at a Des Moines delicatessen.

"I said 'Give me a winner' and he did," she said. "I scratched it off and I said, 'Do you see three $5,000 there?' and they said 'Yes' and I said, 'Tell me where to go.'"

Stanek said there were reports of customers lining up for the tickets.

"It seems to be pretty uniform everywhere," he said. "Sales seem to be very robust."

The state expected a boost from New York's $41 million jackpot, the largest ever in North America, which was shared by holders of three winning tickets.

"I think it's interesting that all this is happening at once," said Iowa Lottery spokeswoman Carol Custer. "We're really happy about it."

The start of the Iowa lottery was being watched by other Midwestern states to see whether gambling would go over in an area with a reputation for being tight-fisted and conservative.

Early signs were that it would. At noon, many outlets reported they were swamped. In Des Moines, one store went through its initial allotment of 1,000 tickets, quickly sold a second 1,000 and by early evening had only 200 left from a third batch.

Iowa's lottery will be watched closely by professionals in the gambling industry, Stanek said. "This is the first time a lottery has been started in a state with no central urban area of at least a million people."

The projected $50 million a year generated by the lottery is earmarked for economic development in a state suffering from a depressed farm industry.

"I won $2 and bought 10 more tickets," said Shirley Phillips of Des Moines. "I love it. Maybe we'll have better roads and better schools."

Marie Ortega of Des Moines bought five tickets and had three $2 winners. "You bet I'll play again," she said.

Elementary, pre-school wave to swell enrollment to 1990s

WASHINGTON (AP) — Enrollment in the nation's elementary and secondary schools will increase for the first time in 13 years this year and the new wave of students promises to swell enrollment into the 1990s, Education Secretary William J. Bennett says.

A department projection of student population for the 1985-86 school year shows 44.7 million children will be enrolled from nursery school through grade 12 — about 50,000 more than last year.

The number of higher education students will decline slightly, which will keep the overall number of students from nursery school through college just below last year's level, Bennett said Thursday.

An increase in births that began in 1977 is primarily responsible for the slight rise in elementary and secondary enrollments. Children in that mini-baby boom are swelling the ranks in nursery schools and kindergartens, where most of the increase will be seen, Bennett said.

"Although this fall's increase in pre-primary and early elementary school enrollment will be very small, it presages a new trend that will affect elementary and secondary school enrollment for a number of years," he said.

The number of students at that pre-primary level is expected to increase from 3.7 million in 1984 to 3.8 million this September.

"Our projections indicate that elementary school enrollment will increase annually through the early 1990s," Bennett said. "Beginning early in the 1990s, this new wave of pupils will produce enrollment increases in grades nine through 12."

The decline in school enrollments began in 1972.

This fall's enrollment also is expected to include 27.2 million in grades 1 through 8, down from 27.3 million last year, and 13.74 million secondary school students, a slight increase from 13.68 million last year.

College enrollments, affected by a continuing decline in the number of 18 to 24 year olds, are expected to fall to 12.2 million, a drop of less than 1 percent from last September, he said.

Although the college-age population will decline into the next decade, Bennett said, enrollments are expected to drop only moderately because colleges and universities are attracting more older students.

Overall, there will be 50,000 students less at all levels of school combined.

The number of classroom teachers and college instructors is expected to remain virtually the same this year as during the 1984-85 school year, Bennett said in his "back-to-school" forecast.

The department also said total expenditures by elementary, secondary and higher education will increase by about 7 percent this year over last year.

U.S. group funding Nicaraguan rebels tax exempted by IRS

WASHINGTON (AP) — An anti-communist group, which reportedly received White House advice on aiding Nicaraguan rebels, obtained federal tax-exempt status three years ago after vowing never to give "materiel or funds" to insurgents, Internal Revenue Service documents show.

The group, the Arizona-based U.S. Council for World Freedom, now says it is funneling tens of thousands of dollars in aid to the rebels fighting to overthrow Nicaragua's leftist government.

IRS officials refused this week to say if the tax-exempt status for the council would be reviewed, but noted that an exemption can be revoked if a group fails to carry out its stated purpose.

IRS spokesman Wilson Fadely added that White House involvement in the council's fund-raising would not influence IRS actions. "The political situation does not affect the tax code," he said.

Retired Maj. Gen. John K. Singlaub, council chairman, said this week that he was not familiar with the commitment against providing "materiel or funds" to rebels made to the IRS by the group's treasurer.

"I suppose I should be," he said.

Singlaub has also said White House national security officials gave him advice on his private fund-raising last year after Congress stopped CIA aid to the rebels. Next month, two congressional panels plan to examine those contacts, which White House officials contend were entirely proper.

The U.S. Council for World Freedom, the American chapter of the World Anti-Communist League, received tax-exempt status as an educational or charitable organization on Oct. 14, 1982. That means U.S. taxpayers who donate to it can deduct that amount from their taxable income and thus reduce the real cost of the donations.

On Aug. 14, 1982, in response to a question from IRS headquarters in Washington, the council's treasurer, Albert T. Koen, wrote the IRS that "at no time will the USCWF ever contemplate providing material or funds to any revolutionary, counter-revolutionary or liberation movement." In the letter, the words "at no time" are underlined.

Koen offered the assurance in explaining a reference in the council's constitution to rendering "material support to (anti-communist) liberation movements." In the letter, Koen said the council considered "material support" to be sponsoring seminars "for people of nations under communist rule...to present their views to the American people."

The Associated Press obtained the documents under IRS disclosure rules.

Asked this week about his 1982 letter to the IRS, Koen said he considered the pledge against providing "material" to apply only to the shipment of weapons to insurgent groups, not to sending non-lethal supplies. Koen added that his response to the IRS question was discussed by the council's leaders and that Singlaub was aware of it.

Koen also said that even though the council only told the IRS of its plans to conduct educational campaigns, "we had always intended to give support of other types to those (anti-communist rebels) in Angola and elsewhere."

"Materiel" is defined as "material and tools necessary to any work, enterprise, etc., specifically weapons, equipment, supplies, etc. of armed forces."

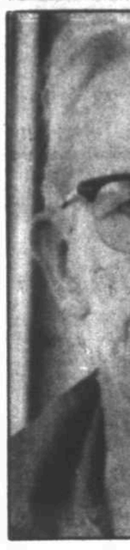

This week, Johnnie Johnson, who succeeded Koen as council treasurer, said the group's U.S. fund-raising for the rebels garnered between $100,000 and $300,000 this year.

He said the money had been spent on such items as boats and clothing — but not weapons — for soldiers in the Honduran-based Nicaraguan Democratic Force, or FDN, and Misura, an Indian rebel organization.

Johnson argued that the assistance was proper because it had President Reagan's backing and "the blessing of the government."

The council established a special account for "Nicaraguan freedom fighters" with the checks made payable to the "U.S. Council for World Freedom" so contributors could benefit from the tax-exempt status, said Griffin Merkel, the group's administrative assistant.

Beyond those U.S. contributions, Singlaub, who is also chairman of the World Anti-Communist League, has said he used the league's international contacts to help the rebels obtain lethal military aid from foreign governments, individuals and corporations.

Ro

Republicans' 'Open Door' needs oiling

An Analysis

By EVANS WITT
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON — President Reagan and the Republicans are proclaiming they are the party of the "open door," but a well-publicized GOP effort to get Democrats to cross that threshold publicly has fallen short of its goal.

The failure of the Republican National Committee's "Operation Open Door" to convert 100,000 Democrats in four states was only the latest unhappy news this month for the president's party.

On Monday, Sen. Paul Laxalt said he would not seek re-election next year in Nevada, meaning Republicans are going to have to fight hard to hold onto the seat that Laxalt, Reagan's best friend in the Senate, would have retained with ease.

And the month started with the Democrats winning a special congressional election in east Texas, despite a major GOP effort to demonstrate that a new day has come in partisan politics in the South.

These developments in the doldrums of August might be omens for the future, eagerly read for signs bearing on the 1986 elections.

But this month's tea leaves should not obscure a major GOP achievement: Republicans are holding about even with the Democrats in terms of how many Americans identify with each party, according to many polls.

"Operation Open Door" was a Republican National Committee effort to make tangible the poll percentages, to show people are actually out there changing their allegiance in large part in reaction to the Reagan presidency.

But in this effort, the GOP may have been a victim of its own expectations and self-imposed demands.

The committee launched the $750,000 "open door" operation in Louisiana, Florida, North Carolina, and Pennsylvania. The goal was to get 100,000 Democrats to switch their party registration to the GOP in 100 days.

The Republican goal for its conversion campaign "had been to re-register 45,000 converts in Florida, 25,000 in Louisiana and 15,000 each in North Carolina and Pennsylvania. They met the goal only in Louisiana, where the party claimed 29,248 registration converts and 7,184 "changes in progress."

Even counting "changes in progress," the GOP reported only 28,000 switches in Florida, a state where the national party hired solicitors to go door-to-door for $4.50 an hour and offered a $5 bounty for every convert.

The 100 days were up last week and party chairman Frank Fahrenkopf proclaimed a qualified victory, despite numbers that were disappointing.

The GOP figures showed that 54,179 Democrats in the four target states had actually done the paperwork to change their registration. In Louisiana, 29,248 had done everything to change; in Florida, 9,203; in North Carolina, 7,075; and in Pennsylvania, 8,653.

And the GOP claimed another 44,000 changes were in various stages of completion.

While claiming victory, Fahrenkopf acknowledged under reporters' questioning that the project fell short of its goal of 100,000 switches in voter registration.

"You're 100 percent correct," he said. "It hasn't been achieved."

Democrats were most pleased with the GOP's failure to meet the 100,000 mark.

Democratic National Committee Chairman Paul Kirk said, "The Republicans used the same arithmetic to calculate open door results as they used to predict a balanced budget four years ago."

Democratic spokesman Terry Michael added, "With the ton of money they spent, they should have been able to register 100,000 people as Mugwumps or Whigs. I think that the open door was slammed in their face."

But the Democrats have to be a little careful in their happiness over the failure of Operation Open Door, for the Republicans are still about even with the Democrats in terms of how many Americans identify with the party.

A CBS News-New York Times poll last month of 1,569 adults gave the Democrats 47 percent of the adults and the Republicans 45 percent. Given the natural error margins in such surveys, that is essentially a split.

Democrats have held huge margins over the GOP in recent decades in such figures and as recently as the month before the 1984 election, the Democratic gap had been 50-40.

Aged mercy-killer gains two votes for freedom

Roswell Gilbert

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Florida Gov. Bob Graham has two of three votes needed from the Cabinet to free from prison Roswell Gilbert, who is appealing a life sentence for the so-called mercy killing of his ailing wife.

Graham on Thursday proposed conditional commutation for Gilbert, convicted in May of first-degree murder in the March slaying of his 73-year-old wife, Emily, who suffered from Alzheimer's disease and osteoporosis, a painful bone disease.

Graham's recommendation proposes that Gilbert remain free only while his appeals are being heard in state courts, a process that could take years.

It was up to Graham whether to recommend clemency, but no relief can be granted without the support of three Cabinet members.

Gilbert, of Fort Lauderdale, was sentenced to life in prison and has been held since at Avon Park Correctional Institution southeast of Tampa. The life sentence carries a mandatory term of 25 years before probation can be granted.

"I'm not that optimistic," said Harry Gulkin, Gilbert's attorney. "I'm just holding my breath as is Roswell and his daughter."

Martha Gilbert Moran, Gilbert's daughter who lives in Ruxton, Md., was worried.

"If Daddy spends an awful lot of hard time in that prison, I don't think he's going to last long," she said in a telephone interview.

Interviewed today on the "CBS Morning News," Mrs. Moran said she was sure her father loved her mother.

"I pray to God that the two gentlemen that are mulling over their final decision about allowing Dad to be free until his appeal is heard, I just pray that they will put (on) the third signature, so that Daddy can come home," she said.

Gulkin pinned his hopes on Agriculture Commissioner Doyle Conner and Treasurer Gerald Lewis, who are undecided. The two said they probably would make a decision next week.

Insurance Commissioner Bill Gunter and Attorney General Jim Smith denounced the proposal, saying it would set a bad precedent.

"I am fearful that the signal we would be sending out, the precedent we would be setting is that elderly people with debilitating diseases can be killed outside the laws of our state," Gunter said.

Supporting Graham are Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington and Secretary of State George Firestone.

Gilbert, who has lost 40 pounds and undergone surgery to correct a urinary tract blockage since entering prison, "was elated ... to hear that the governor was so compassionate," Gulkin said. "But when I explained the mechanics of it, he realized that some of his enthusiasm may be premature."

Graham said he did not consider the case to be a precedent for other so-called mercy killings.

"A permanent sanction through some form of (complete) release...would indicate there was some public acceptability of what Mr. Gilbert has done," Graham said. "It is not acceptable, it is not sanctioned in this state to take the law into your own hands."

Gilbert readily admitted at his trial that he put a 9mm Luger to his wife's head and pulled the trigger twice, but said he did it to end her suffering.

Prosecutors said Gilbert killed his wife because she had become a burden and they say prison has bored Gilbert instead of damaging his health.

Virginia mercy killer free on probation

LYNCHBURG, Va. (AP) — A woman's claim that she stabbed her terminally ill husband with an ice pick out of mercy played no part in a plea bargain in which the woman was sentenced to two years' probation, prosecutors say.

Ruth Steppe Davis, 69, pleaded guilty Thursday to one count of manslaughter in the death of Samuel Roscoe Davis, who had advanced cancer and only weeks to live, doctors had said.

In addition to the two years' probation, Mrs. Davis also was ordered to receive counseling and treatment at a mental health clinic.

During Thursday's trial she testified that she stabbed her 72-year-old husband five times in the chest to "get daddy out of that old cancer misery."

Iacocca beats Bush

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lee Iacocca's TV pitches sold his company's cars, but a magazine's poll indicates he apparently hasn't sold the public on his often-repeated lack of interest in the U.S. presidency.

In a matchup between Iacocca and Vice President George Bush, the Chrysler chief would win by a 47 percent to 41 percent margin, according to Metropolitan Detroit magazine. U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., however, would beat Iacocca by 53 percent to 37 percent.

Despite repeated denials of interest, Iacocca has garnered endorsements from Michigan's two Democratic senators, Donald Riegle and Carl Levin.

AMC financing drops

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp. has lowered its discount car financing offer from 8.5 percent to 7.5 percent to compete with recent incentives offered by the three largest domestic automakers.

The AMC rate, announced Thursday, applies to loans up to 36 months. General Motors Corp. and Ford Motor Co. are offering a 7.7 percent rate for up to 48 months. Chrysler Corp. is offering 7.5 percent for four years.

The AMC offer applies to the U.S.-made Renault Alliance and Encore and the European-made Renault Fuego and Sportwagon models.

Sahara dust building

MIAMI (AP) — A "monster" Sahara dust cloud 1,000 miles wide is heading west across the Atlantic Ocean and experts warn that it may strike Florida by this weekend.

Whipped up by desert winds, red Sahara dust routinely swirls across South Florida between June and September. It begins as a dust storm in the Sahara and travels up to 4,000 miles to the American continent.

Sahara dust has become four times more common in recent years because of the African drought, said University of Miami scientist Joseph Propero.

Freshmen 'immigrate'

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard University plans to pack its 1,600 freshman into boats Sept. 16, sail them to the middle of Boston Harbor, then urge them to view the city with the eyes of modern-day immigrants.

"We want them to open their eyes, to look at skylines, advertisements on buildings, at manhole covers," Burriss Young, associate dean of freshmen, sid Thursday. "We want them to land in the harbor the way immigrants did."

The cruise will be part of a freshman orientation that will include a political tour of Boston and a visit led by Dean of Freshmen Hank Moses to the Sleepy Hollow Cemetery in Concord, where Louisa May Alcott, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry David Thoreau and Nathaniel Hawthorne are buried.

Parking dispute lethal

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — A 22-year-old man was shot and killed in a dispute over a parking space, authorities said.

Danny Gregorio of Cheyenne died early Thursday in Laramie County Memorial Hospital after being shot in the chest, officials said. Donald W. Braley, 20, of Cheyenne, was being held in connection with the shooting, police said.

Braley and his wife found Gregorio's car parked along their street in a space they objected to and began "having a disagreement" when Mrs. Braley hit Gregorio several times, said police Lt. Jim Barker.

Reagan Legg's announcement earlier this week that Midland College President Jess Parrish had been selected to receive this year's Marie Y. Martin Administrators Award surprised Dr. Parrish. But it shouldn't come as a surprise to anyone else who is familiar with the college president's work or has seen a listing of his numerous endeavors and accomplishments.

The award is worthy of note, not only for the fact that 84 other community college administrators from throughout the United States and Canada were in the running, but also for the fact that Dr. Parrish's list of accomplishments verify he is an outstanding educator, administrator and community leader.

During his short time at the helm of Midland College, Dr. Parrish already has instituted data processing courses that have been of great benefit to local businesses and industries, along with respiratory therapy, radiology technology, inhalation therapy and other health related courses, which helped to bring about construction of a Health Sciences building at MC, plus being active in other endeavors throughout the community.

A college president's role in the community must always stress academic needs, but should go further to address the community's needs as well. That's particularly important when the college in question holds itself up to be a "community college," as does MC. In reviewing the efforts of Dr. Parrish to that end since coming to Midland in August 1981, there is no question that addressing the needs of both the community as a whole and Midland College as an educational institution have been foremost in his mind. He is an asset to education in Midland and West Texas, and to the community life of Midland.

A letter from the board of trustees of Midland College nominating Dr. Parrish for the honor said, in part: "Jess Parrish knows as much about junior colleges as any person in the United States. He is a great ambassador to the community, state and nation, and continues each year to build a better, more student conscious and more community-oriented college. No person could do a better job."

That, in a nutshell, tells the story. Dr. Parrish is deserving of this award. He's making an important contribution to the community and educational life of Midland and should be recognized for it.

PP's name says it all

It is time that those who have been helped by the Planned Parenthood clinics in the Permian Basin told the other side of the story.

What is Planned Parenthood about? Is is about exactly what the name implies: to help people plan intelligently for parenthood, both before, during and after pregnancies, both intentional and unintentional.

Planned Parenthood provides, above all else, information. The people there provide information about birth control, yes, but also about prenatal health and nutrition, and maternal health. Women can go there for annual physical examinations by a physician, and be required to pay only what they can afford, even if that is nothing at all.

Planned Parenthood is not only for the young and/or poor. Their doors are open to anyone needing help or information or both. Even women who receive their primary health care from a physician in private practice can go there for information about more reliable forms of birth control, or any other general, unbiased information they might need.

I write this from experience. I have gone to Planned Parenthood on many occasions. No one there has ever brought up the subject of abortion to me, nor have I ever heard anyone talk about abortion. Instead, there are women, young and old, some obviously pregnant and some just as obviously nervous, waiting for help from people who are qualified to provide that help.

Although information about abortion is also available, it is not by any means what Planned Parenthood is about.

What I wonder, more than anything, is whether or not Planned Parenthood's detractors have ever gone there, needing help or advice? (Discounting those who go simply to see if what they've heard is "true," entering and leaving with their minds made up. I know of a few of those people "testing" the clinics.)

I maintain that anyone, anyone at all, needing help with a problem or advice can go to Planned Parenthood and talk to someone who cares and is prepared to help.

YMCA merits gratitude

The Midland Central YMCA is to be commended for seizing the initiative and establishing the Endurance Sports Safety Council as a part of the Hoffman-Werner Memorial Fund.

This council, charged with "Impacting the future safety of Endurance Sports participants in the Midland Area," is worthy of support by all Midlanders.

Perhaps this council, working with our excellent City Council, can take the lead in establishing rules and ordinances which will better define the rights and responsibilities not only of the sports participant but of the neighborhood residents and drivers as well.

TODAY IN HISTORY

Today's highlight in history:

In the early morning hours of Aug. 23, 1927, Italian-born anarchists Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti were executed in Boston for the murders of two men during a 1920 payroll robbery. The case had drawn widespread controversy, with many people convinced that Sacco and Vanzetti had been convicted for their political beliefs.

On this date:

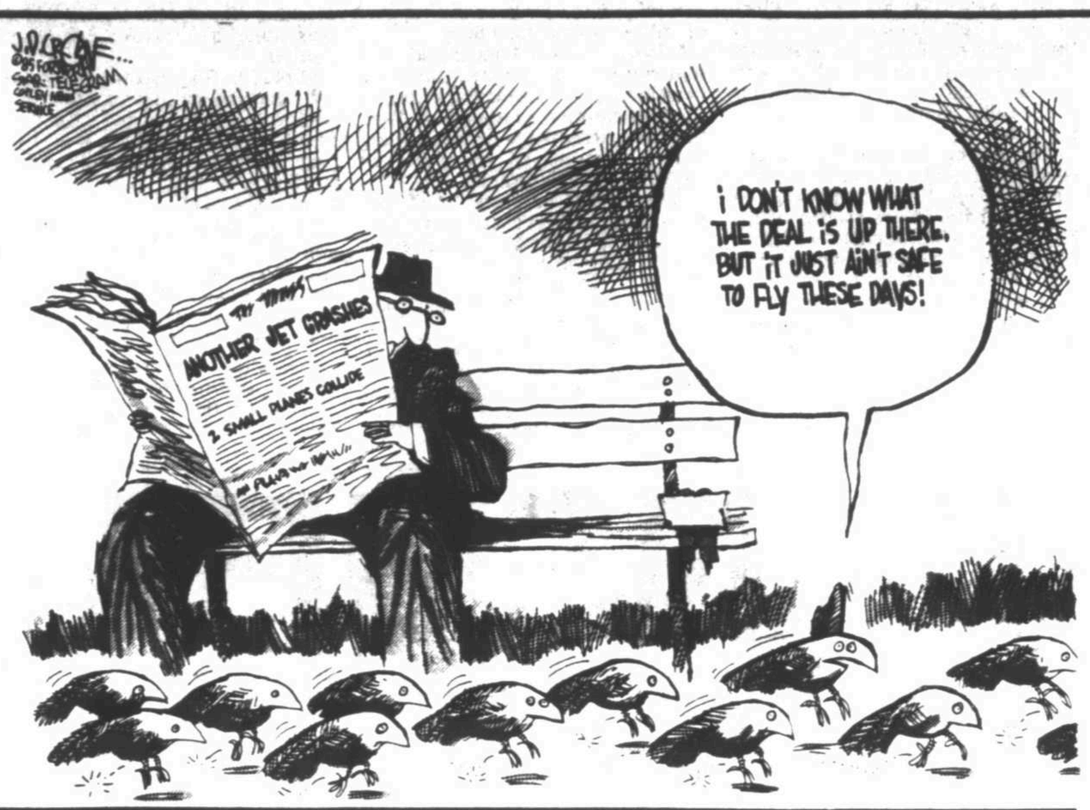

In 1838, the first college for women, Mount Holyoke Female Seminary, in South Hadley, Mass., graduated its first students.

In 1914, Japan declared war on Germany in World War I.

In 1926, silent film star Rudolph Valentino died at age 31.

In 1939, Germany and the Soviet Union signed a non-aggression pact.

Thought for today: "Justice delayed is justice denied." — William Ewart Gladstone, British statesman (1809-1898).

Car maker ready to hit road

WASHINGTON — What's the difference between a magician and a wizard? A magician performs tricks of illusion, and a wizard has powers of real magic.

Jack Anderson

John Z. DeLorean is a little bit of both. He has announced that, once again, he will start manufacturing his unique automobile — slated to be the fastest production-line car in the world.

After seeing his last company shattered and winning a devastating criminal trial, he quit talking to the press and began working on a book about his ordeals. It has now gone to press, and he is about to break his year-long silence.

During his months of seclusion, DeLorean shared some of his thoughts with our associates Tony Capaccio and Indy Badhwar.

The trauma of his recent divorce from model Cristina Ferrare caused him to lose 35 pounds, he said. "What bothered me most was the duplicity of it," he recalled. Because her announcement declaring the divorce followed shortly after the acquittal, "it was obvious that it was in the works for a long time."

DeLorean also confided that he and Cristina "talked with the jurors at great length" about the verdict several days after he was acquitted.

"Essentially," he said, "they said that right from the beginning, from the time that the jury was sent out, they were all unanimous that I was innocent. Unanimous. The only question was to go through the judge's instructions to fit their conclusions to the law."

"The thing that was amazing to me was the high level of intelligence of the jury," DeLorean said. "I mean, we were so fortunate because the whole idea of the government's case was confusing. Most of them concluded that I was just there and that there was no (cocaine) transaction, nothing."

"They didn't think I should have been there talking to these people," he said, referring to the government informant and agents who set DeLorean up in the alleged cocaine deal. But, he said, once the jurors realized that the government's agents had offered "legitimate investments and then switched it around," they "were really upset with the government pursuing me. It was very clear to the jury that I wanted to get out and that the government wouldn't let me."

During his narcotics investigation, the FBI contacted the British government. It was a "crucial" turn in the case, DeLorean said, because the FBI told the British that he had been bragging about having contacts with the Irish Republican Army.

After this "my chances for ever putting the (Dublin based) company back together were gone," DeLorean said, referring to the financial difficulties that led to the closing of his plant days before he was arrested in Los Angeles.

The British government "turned down a number of legitimate transactions that would have saved the company because they just didn't want to associate with a dope dealer and a terrorist associate.... So I blame the U.S. government for that."

DeLorean told us that the government's attorneys had received "a report from the terrorist section of the FBI and the British government saying that I had no IRA connections," but it was never made public. One of the prosecutors acknowledged to our reporters that such a document had been discussed in bench conferences and in the judge's chambers during the trial, but he refused to divulge its contents.

DeLorean credits his renewed religious faith for keeping him going during the trial: "Can you imagine, everything in my life that I believed in, everything in my life I worked for, was taken away from me. My life, my reputation ... and now you're being tried for the most heinous crime next to murder there is. So I think that the only thing that gave me the strength to stand there was my faith."

He continued: "I was also impressed with how strong (my faith) was because after the jury went out, every single member of our team was in panic." Attorney Howard Weitzman "was a nervous wreck" and attorney Don Rae was "throwing up in the waste basket."

Cristina, DeLorean said, was "an emotional disaster, but I ate and slept. I was calming all of them down. I really had faith. I just felt that what God decided was what He wanted and that was the way it was going to be."

PRICE OF PEACE: The United States will sell, at cost, about $500,000 worth of computers and microprocessors to the Soviet Union that will be used to upgrade the top-secret hotline between Washington and Moscow. The Defense Department, always on the lookout for violations of high-tech export restrictions, has approved the sale. The new, improved hotline will permit both countries to communicate faster and also transmit pictures and maps.

Monetary policy still up in air

WASHINGTON — The absence of a clear Reagan administration message to money managers meeting here this week stems from the same ambivalence that guides the White House to consider filling two Federal Reserve Board vacancies with a "split ticket" of one supply-sider and one monetarist.

Rowland Evans

Robert Novak

Manuel Johnson, assistant secretary of the Treasury, is the supply-sider with a leg up for the second Fed vacancy, opening up next January. Like other Treasury officials, he has a low opinion of rigid money-supply targets — the basis of monetarism. But if it's Johnson in January, why would the White House consider a monetarist for the first vacancy, opening Sept. 1?

For the same reason the administration did not say whether or not the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) should loosen money this week. During nearly five years in power, the Reagan team has never been able to decide on a coherent money policy. Monetarist or non-monetarist? The administration does not know.

That failure becomes critically important given the shaky economy. While M-1 (the principal money measurement) is breaking through the roof, the economy stays flat. Monetarists claim growth is on the way without further expansion of M-1, which, they say, would trigger an inflationary outburst. Non-monetarists fear a recession and believe easier money is needed now, without regard for elusive M-1 targets.

There are signs the Fed staff is so worried about inflation that it would like to tighten money, though that would virtually invite recession. Instead, the FOMC this week was expected to punt: neither tighten nor ease the money supply. With 1985 economic growth in danger of running less than 2 percent, that is nowhere near good enough in the opinion of many non-monetarists.

The monetarist school, founded by Milton Friedman, is at crisis point. In the Treasury, Secretary James Baker and Deputy Secretary Richard Darman disdain soaring M-1 figures as worthless yardsticks for either inflation or growth. Even Fed Chairman Paul Volcker, ever eclectic, has privately advised that monetarists are running out of time to prove their theory that economic growth follows soaring M-1.

Supply-siders such as economist Alan Reynolds believe the monetarists ran out of time long ago. The problem, he says, is worldwide deflation and demand for dollars. In Washington recently for meetings with administration policymakers, Reynolds begged them to ignore the flawed M-1 yardstick. So remote an event as the collapse of Bolivia's currency sucks in dollars. That expands M-1 but with no impact at all on U.S. economic growth.

Nevertheless, reading M-1 numbers as holy entrails remains in vogue for Ronald Reagan and Donald T. Regan. The chief of staff remains as ambivalent on monetary policy as he was at the Treasury, but is still advised by Beryl Sprinkel, the devout monetarist he brought to the White House and made chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisers.

While even Sprinkel admits today's M-1 figures may be deceptive, he still urges restraint on the money supply and still ignores commodity prices. He is supplying names of known monetarists (including Lee Hoskins, chief economist of the Pittsburgh National Bank) to fill that first Fed seat.

The prospect of a "balanced-ticket" for the two Fed posts takes on limited coherence only in terms of the deep-seated resentment toward the chairman inside the White House. It is suggested there that appointing two non-Volckerites — no matter how much they disagree with each other — might lead Volcker to resign and open the chairmanship for the president to fill.

Supply-siders don't agree. They feel a monetarist is a considerably greater evil than a Volckerite. Accordingly, they look with some favor on anti-supply side Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole promoting a banker-economist from home-state Kansas to fill the first vacancy.

Wayne Angel, a professor at Ottawa (Kan.) University with banking interests in Hume, Mo., is a total unknown in Washington — but certainly not in the Sprinkel school of monetarists. Even in Kansas nobody has a pigeonhole for him. Although one associate told us Angel "gives credence to monetarism," a fellow banker suspected that on the Fed "he would be more of a Volckerite."

In Washington these days, people listen when Bob Dole talks. The fact Baker does not want a monetarist on the Fed incidentially strengthens Dole's backstage efforts.

Nevertheless, administration insiders are betting the balanced ticket with a monetarist Sept. 1 and Manuel Johnson in January. Combined with the probability the FOMC this week did not loosen money, the lack of monetary policy persists as the Reagan administration ends its fifth year by peering over the horizon at a possible second recession.

CHARLEY REESE

Stockman wasn't loyal to country

I was happy to see David Stockman resign as director of the Office of Management and Budget. Stockman has been one of President Reagan's mistakes.

Charley Reese

Stockman has been just one more sad example of how intelligence and cleverness are no substitute for character and wisdom. Stockman himself is not alarming. He is just one more model of the assembly line production of ambitious young men whose only guiding star is themselves that have peopled politics and business in America since the 1960s. What is alarming is how many people are still impressed by these "hollow men."

Stockman is disloyal and disloyalty is a trait to be despised. It was disloyal of Stockman to ridicule in private the ideas his benefactor and president, Ronald Reagan, was advocating in public. It was foolish to do it to a journalist as Stockman discovered when his "confidante" wrote an article for Atlantic Monthly exposing his disloyalty and "sending him to the woodshed." Reagan should have fired him then.

But that was not Stockman's first act of disloyalty. As a young congressman, Stockman had been close to Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., who is a man of integrity. Then, Stockman was an ardent supply-sider. It didn't take Stockman long, however, to figure out that Eastern Establishment bankers could do more for his career. He became, once in OMB, the chief opponent of supply economics and the chief proponent of tax increases. The $98 billion tax increase which Kemp alone had the courage and integrity to stand against was Stockman's idea.

It was also Stockman who blabbed in a public speech that the Reagan campaign had a copy of Jimmy Carter's briefing book for the 1980 debate.

Finally, Stockman's public libel that career military men care more about their retirement benefits than they do about the security of the nation is simply unforgiveable.

It is unforgiveable because it is a lie. It is unforgiveable because Stockman himself took refuge in ministerial school during the Vietnam War. His "calling" to serve God expired roughly about the same time the draft expired.

It is unforgiveable because a man allegedly so good at crunching numbers has to know darn well that no man interested in money would choose a military career. The reduced earnings and hardships of even 20 years of military service are in no way compensated by retired pay. If a military career is such a gravy train, then why didn't Stockman jump aboard instead of fleeing from the depot?

Stockman is so typical of the base problem which afflicts government without regard for party or political philosophy. The problem is power tends to draw people like Stockman who burn with ambition but have no sense of honor, no willingness to make even the smallest personal sacrifice for the common good.

He is very much like Dr. Henry Kissinger, another man whose ego and ambition exceed his considerable intelligence. Dr. Kissinger, too, was fond of ridiculing and mocking his president — behind Richard Nixon's back. Both men have served their ambition more than their country.

Like Dr. Kissinger, Stockman has been successful in pursuing his own ends. A nobody congressman until President Reagan gave him an opportunity for a high visibility job, Stockman now goes to a high-paying job with an Eastern Establishment banking house. A publisher has given him a $2 million advance for a book in which Stockman will no doubt exhibit even more evidence of disloyalty to his benefactor.

Some of you may be asking the question, "Well, suppose Stockman just decided that Reagan and Kemp were wrong?" The answer is that in such circumstances an honorable man would have resigned and then spoken out. Stockman instead chose to ingratiate himself with Reagan and with Reagan's critics, a dead giveaway that Stockman's real loyalty was to Stockman's welfare.

It's not too early to plan for winter wheat

It's not too early to start planning a fertilizer program for winter wheat production.

Fertilizer requirements will depend on a number of factors. For producers who plan to follow wheat with wheat, fertilizer recommendations will depend upon fertilizer rates applied to the previous crop and yields obtained. Also, fertilizer carryover may have been higher than normal due to heavy rust infestations which plagued 1985 wheat production and reduced the crop's ability to utilize much of the applied fertilizer.

These factors and other unusual circumstances influencing the nutrient status of the soil indicate that a soil test should be a sound investment at this time.

Producers who have not yet made a final decision to plant wheat this fall, but wish to leave the door open to plant corn, grain sorghum or cotton this spring, can submit a soil sample now and request fertilizer recommendations for all cropping alternatives. Resulting fertilizer recommendations then can be used to assist each person in making cropping decisions.

The Extension Soil Testing Laboratory at Lubbock is ready to assist wheat producers in making these economically important decisions. Although new automated laboratory procedures and computerized integration and reporting of soil test results have improved speed and precision, soil test recommendations can be no better than the quality of the soil sample analyzed.

Therefore, it is important to collect soil samples which are truly representative of the field being tested.

A composite soil sample should be collected from each field or area of a field to be tested. Each composite sample should consist of 10 to 15 subsamples randomly collected with a probe or shovel and thoroughly mixed together before taking the composite sample. To sample the soil, remove the top inch and collect the soil samples to a depth of six inches. Soil sample bags and detailed instructions for sample collection may be picked up at the County Extension Office.

During the hot, dry summer weather, landowners often turn to constructing a farm pond. Whether the pond is for stock water, to stop up a gully or for fishing, the first step should be to consult a qualified engineer.

The Soil Conservation Service has engineers skilled in designing ponds or stock tanks who can assist landowners in site selection. Site selection is important because the soil must have enough clay to hold water in the pond, and the drainage area around the pond must be appropriate. Too large a drainage area will cause the pond to overflow the levee, while too little drainage will not bring in enough water to fill the pond. In western areas of our state, a one-acre pond needs a drainage area of 50 to 60 acres.

Depth of the pond is another important consideration. In West Texas ponds may need to be 14 or more feet deep.

Before calling an engineer, decide what you want from the pond. If the pond is to provide stock water, using some modifications, such as shoreline deepening, will reduce the number of aquatic plants and provide for excellent fishing. If the pond is to be used mainly as a fishing hole, then major consideration should be given to the type of fishing desired. Only channel catfish should be used in ponds of less than an acre in size while larger ponds can accomodate largemouth bass and bluegill sunfish.

Winners of 4-H awards include Midlander

The 1985 J.T. Rutherford 4-H Achievement Award winners were selected during the District VI 4-H Record Book Judging held recently in Fort Stockton with Charlene Schraeder of Glasscock County and Richard Triplett of Midland County taking top honors.

Miss Schraeder, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Schraeder of St. Lawrence, placed first in the girl's division of the contest. She has been a 4-H member for nine years and has completed projects in food preservation, foods and nutrition, clothing, swine, breads, family life and entomology.

She has presented 4-H method demonstrations, served as an officer for county district 4-H councils and competed at the state level in 4-H fashion and food shows.

She has served as a junior leader for 4-H projects and has been active in numerous community service projects.

Jennifer Dryden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Merrill Dryden of Midland County, placed second. Amanda Stephens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Stephens of Ector County, placed third.

Triplett has been a 4-H member for seven years. He has been actively involved in horsemanship, leadership, citizenship, sheep, shooting sports, foods and nutrition, recreation and veterinary science 4-H projects. He has been involved in horse judging and has qualified for the State 4-H Horse Show for five years.

As a teen leader, he has helped with county 4-H workshops, clinics and demonstrations in horse showmanship, horsemanship and grooming.

Shawn Ramsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Ramsey of Ector County, placed second in the contest and Craig Braden, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbert Braden of Midkiff, was third.

Congress must streamline bill to fit budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Congress returns next month from its summer recess, lawmakers will have to do some serious thinking about streamlining the new farm bill to fit into budget requirements.

Just before quitting for their August break, the House and Senate Agriculture committees approved programs that Reagan administration officials said would cost $51 billion to $60 billion in the next three years, far in excess of the $34 billion budget limit.

Agriculture Secretary John R. Block says the administration is determined to hold down farm program costs and will put pressure on Congress to do some trimming, including lower supports for key commodities.

Conditions forcast for 8 a.m. Saturday

In North Texas, increasing cloudiness tonight northwest with a slight chance of thunderstorms, mostly fair southeast. Lows in the 70s. Partly cloudy Saturday with a chance of thunderstorms. Not as hot northwest. Highs 90s.

In West Texas, generally fair tonight with widely scattered evening thunderstorms Panhandle, South Plains and far west. Party cloudy Saturday with widely scattered late afternoon thunderstorms most sections. Lows tonight mid 60s Panhandle to the mid 70s south and near 80 in the mountains.

In South Texas, isolated early evening showers or thunderstorms Southeast Texas and coastal plains. Mostly sunny and continued hot days rest of South Texas, generally fair and mild tonight. Highs Saturday upper 80s to near 90 upper coast, between 100 and 106 Rio Grande plains and Edwards Plateau, 90s to near 100 elsewhere.

Hot days continue in Basin

From Staff and Wire Reports

Partly cloudy skies and hot days will continue through the weekend following Thursday's record-breaking temperatures, said the National Weather Service at Midland Regional Air Terminal.

Tonight will be partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorms, low temperatures near 70 degrees and southeasterly winds at 10 to 15 mph.

Saturday will be partly cloudy with a 20 percent chance of thunderstorm activity, highs in the mid 90s and east winds at 10 to 15 mph.

A new record high temperature of 103 degrees was set Thursday beating out the previous record of 101 degrees set in 1963. The record low for today's date was 61 degrees in 1961.

STATE

Cooler weather appeared to be on the way, but another day of hot to very hot temperatures, clear to partly cloudy skies and a few widely scattered thunderstorms was on tap for all of Texas today.

The National Weather Service said the upper air heat dome would remain over the state today and might be broken up sometime Saturday with the arrival of a cold front now moving slowly southward across Colorado.

Showers and thunderstorms were expected in the the Panhandle late today as the cold front arrives. The storms should move into the South Plains and Northwest Texas by tonight.

Showers and thunderstorms are also forecast along the upper Texas coast.

Highs were to be in the 90s, ranging upward to above the 100-degree mark. Lows tonight will again be in the 70s and 80s. Highs Saturday will be slightly cooler over most of the state as the cold front continues its southward trek.

NATION

Rain dotted the nation from the West to the South today after heavy thunderstorms rumbled across the Plains.

Showers and thunderstorms were scattered from northern Nebraska across eastern sections of the Dakotas, Minnesota and northern Wisconsin.

Scattered thunderstorms moved through western sections of Nebraska and Kansas, eastern Colorado and the region from northern Arkansas and southern Missouri to central Kentucky and Tennessee.

Mancini gives up gloves

NEW YORK (AP) — Ray "Boom Boom" Mancini, a former world lightweight champion, had no sooner announced his retirement than doubts were expressed about whether he really meant it.

After all, Mancini is only 24, and fighters older and more worn have come back from retirement.

"Like I say ... he's his own man," said his father, Lenny "Boom Boom" Mancini, an ex-lightweight who probably missed a title shot because of World War II.

"If he wants to fight again, that's his decision."

Asked about that possibility, Ray Mancini smiled and said: "I've learned never to say never."

"It's time to get out of one phase of my life and get into another," the former World Boxing Association 135-pound-class champion from Youngstown, Ohio, said after announcing his retirement at a news conference.

"Feb. 16 is the last day you'll ever see Mancini in the ring. There are other things I want to do.

"Feb. 16 was a good, good day for me," he added. "That day I won the world title again in my heart, my family's hearts and my fans' hearts."

Last Feb. 16 at Reno, Nev., Mancini tried to regain the title from Livingstone Bramble, to whom he lost it when stopped in the 14th round on June 1, 1985, at Buffalo, N.Y.

But while Maninci felt he won the rematch, the three judges all voted for Bramble, although the scoring was close.

Mancini leaves boxing with a record of 29-3 with 23 knockouts. His career started Oct. 18, 1979, with a first-round knockout of Phil Bowen at Struthers, Ohio. His purses, according to manager Dave Wolfe, totaled slightly more than $6.2 million.

After failing to win the World Boxing Council lightweight title — he was knocked out in the 14th round by Alexis Arguello Oct. 3, 1981, at Atlantic City, N.J. — Mancini won the WBA championship on a first-round knockout over Art Frias on May 8, 1982, at Las Vegas, Nev. He made four defenses before losing to Bramble.

In one of those defenses, a 14th-round knockout Nov. 13, 1982, at Las Vegas, challenger Duk Koo Kim of Korea was fatally injured.

"I lost a lot of heart after that," Mancini said. "Then I thought, it's a tragedy. It's part of life."

On Wednesday, Mancini said he decided that his life doesn't not have room for boxing and the kind of dedication it demands. Now, he said, he wants to try acting.

Then he smiled and added, "I'm not going to do Shakespeare."

America keeps Cup home

Win narrowest margin since 1969

PINE VALLEY, N.J. (AP) — The United States continued its domination of the Walker Cup by beating a team from Great Britain and Ireland at foursomes, a golf game they usually don't play very often or very well.

The United States broke a first-round tie by winning three of four foursome matches Thursday morning and then got singles victories from Scott Verplank, Davis Love and Bob Lewis in the afternoon to defeat Britain and Ireland 13-11 to win their seventh straight Walker Cup.

It was the narrowest margin of victory for the United States since it won 10-8 in 1969, when halved matches were not included in the score.

"I was surprised from the standpoint that we had not done that before," said U.S. Captain Jay Sigel, when asked about the foursome results. "Historically, the four Walker Cup matches I've played in I don't recall us being that decisive in the alternate shot. Yesterday, I said they play it better than we do, and I still think they might."

HOWEVER, THE United States was the dominant team on Thursday, outscoring the British and Irish 3½ to one-half in the foursomes to break a 6-6 first-day tie and take a 9½ to 6½ lead.

Sam Randolph and Jerry Haas, Lewis and Clark Burroughs, and Mike Podolak and Love scored the foursome victories for the Americans, while Verplank and Sigel halved their match.

"The morning was the difference," said non-playing British Captain Charles Green. "We were a bit sluggish in the morning. You would think if we were going to do anything in the match we would have to get away early and we didn't."

Walker Cup trophy
...another American victory

Walker Cup

The British and Irish almost did something in the afternoon. They outscored the United States 4½ to 3½ and had a chance to win at least another 1½ points.

However, Verplank and Randolph helped the U.S. hold on to raise its overall Walker Cup record to 27-2-1.

Randolph overcame fatigue and hit a brilliant three wood to the 18th green that allowed him to halve his match with Garth McGimpsey, the British Amateur champion.

Verplank, playing behind Randolph, then edged Colin Montgomerie of Scotland 1-up, nursing his lead over the final three holes.

It was the best match of the afternoon as Verplank fired a 1-under-par 69 on the par-70, 6,691-yard Piney Valley Golf Club, rated by one golf magazine as the best in the world.

Montgomerie, who attends Houston Baptist University, had a chance to tie the match, but missed an 8-foot birdie putt on the final hole. He finished the round at 70.

Verplank's victory clinched a least a tie for the Cup, and Lewis, a 40-year-old re-instated amateur, won the trophy for the United States minutes later when he finished off Cecil Bloice of England 4-and-2 by parring the 16th hole.

"It gets closer and closer every year," said Sigel. "I truly believe this match will be talked about for years."

GREEN AGREED and looked to the future.

"We had been very hopeful that we could win this year," said Green. "To come over here and make it a match, there is no reason why we should not win at home now. It was close last time in England."

Verplank, the U.S. Amateur champion and the first amateur since 1956 to win a professional tournament when he took the Western Open recently, led the United States in scoring during the two-day, 24-match event which is held every two years. The 21-year-old Dallas resident won two singles matches and combined with Sigel to win a foursome match and halve another.

Mexicali eliminates U.S.

Mexico, South Korea in LL finals

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (AP) — It was a momentary lapse, the kind that can happen to a major-leaguer as well as a 12-year-old boy.

At the Little League World Series Thursday, shortstop Richie Conway, who had helped lead Morristown, Tenn., to the semifinals, forgot how many outs there were and Mexicali, Mexico, scored the winning run in a 2-1 game, setting up the first championship game in 39 years without a U.S. team.

The team from Mexicali, a Mexican border city, will play on national television Saturday against a powerful team from Seoul, South Korea, that has scored 29 runs in two Series victories, including a 16-0 romp over Binbrook, Ontario, Thursday.

"It was the pressure on the kids that decided the game," said Jesus Limon, manager of the first Mexican team in 21 years to reach the title game.

With the score tied 1-1 in the top of the sixth and final inning and Mexicali runners at first and second with nobody out, Santiago Villaescusa sent a fly ball to right fielder Brian Shepard. Both runners tagged up, and both took off as the ball settled in Shepard's glove.

Shepard fired a strike to second base, where Conway put the tag on a sliding Omar Mendez for a dramatic double play. Conway spiked the ball near the mound to celebrate the end of an inning that wasn't quite over.

FERNANDO RAMOS, who had taken third on the throw, saw the ball rolling unattended on the grass and sprinted home with the go-ahead run.

As if that weren't enough, Conway was victimized by some overly optimistic base coaching in the bottom of the sixth. After Conway was hit by a Mendez pitch, Brad Cornwell lined a ball into the gap in left-center field. Conway, waved home by the third-base coach, skidded to a halt about 15 feet past the third-base bag when he saw catcher Oscar Perez get the ball.

Perez threw to third baseman Villaescusa to nail a diving Conway. One strikeout later, Perez caught Cornwell trying to take third on a short passed ball to end the game.

"Too many mistakes," said Steve Conway, Richie's father and manager of the Morristown team, which finished with six errors. "The kids played a lot of baseball, and they were tired — physically and mentally."

Mexicali Manager Jesus Limon pointed out that the crucial play started with his player, Mendez, making a mistake by trying to take second on the fly ball.

"It was his error that made the other error happen," Limon said.

Richie Conway was involved in all three runs in the game. He hit Mendez's first pitch over the left-field fence, but committed an error to let Ramos reach base leading off the next inning. Ramos came around on a wild pitch, a bounce out and another wild pitch by Cornwell, who pitched out of jams in four innings.

Mendez was nearly unhittable after giving up the first-inning homer. He allowed just four hits and struck out 10.

"He threw the best game of his life," said Limon, who has another hard-throwing right-hander, Ricardo Ponce, ready for the Koreans.

Teams from the Far East regional have won 14 of the last 18 Little League World Series, and a different team from Seoul won last year.

This year's model pounded out 15 hits in routing the outmanned Binbrook team. A seven-run third inning sealed the Canadians' fate, as pitcher Kyung-Hwan Cho breezed to a six-hit, nine-strikeout shutout.

IN THE big third, Dong-Hyuk Kim hit two doubles, Sang-Yup Kim punched a two-run single and Cho hit a two-run homer.

Sung-Joon Lee and Dong-Hyuk Kim added three-run homers in the fifth and sixth, respectively, and Binbrook aided the onslaught with five errors.

"They are an awesome club," said Binbrook coach Ian Cowling. "I don't think anyone can beat them. We never really expected to win the ballgame."

And does Seoul coach Seong-Yeol Kwag expect to win Saturday?

"Every game is different," said the coach of a team that has outscored the opposition 78-5 in eight tournament games. "You never can predict."

Stanton strong in skill positions

This is one of a series of previews on area high school football teams. Today, a look at the Stanton Battlin' Buffaloes.

By ERIC SCHURER
Sports Writer

STANTON — The Battling Buffaloes of Stanton are hoping to turn around a 2-7-1 season that saw them lose all but two games by a touchdown or less in the tough District 8-2A.

Coach Dale Ruth will field a team small in numbers but big in heart in 1985 — and big in the skill positions on offense.

"Our quarterback returning is our strength from last year, that and speed in our backfield," Ruth said.

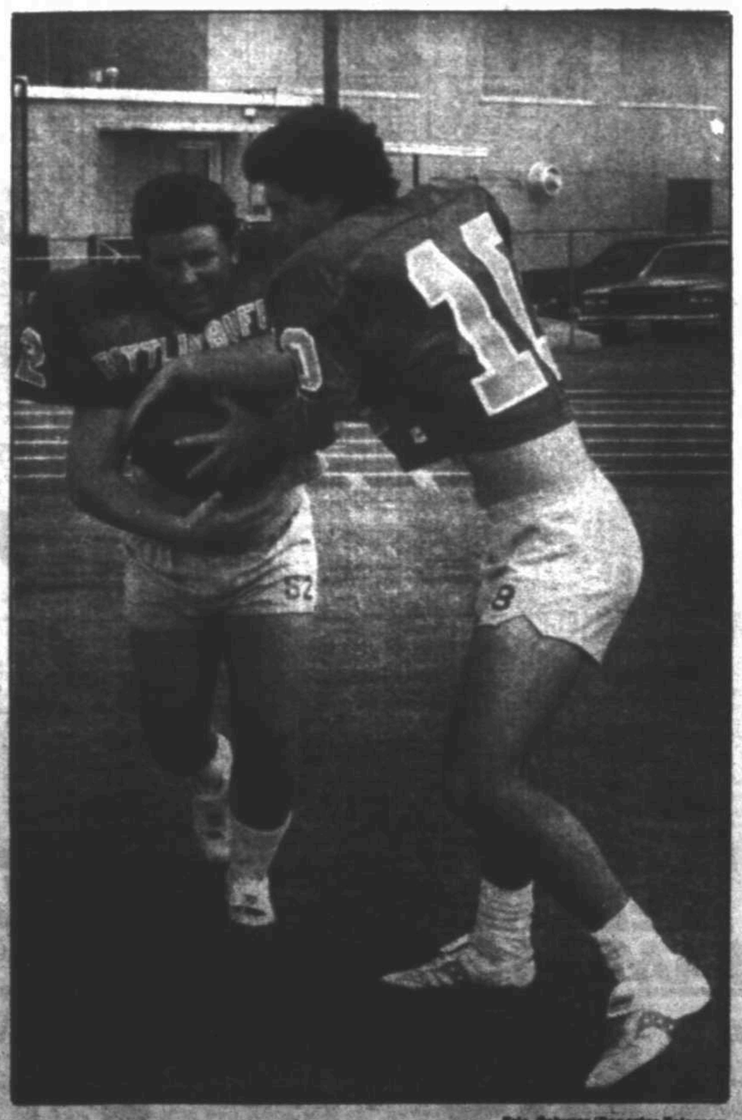

"We've got more experience this year, and we have a lot of experience in the skill positions. We're short on numbers, but as far as playing, nearly all have experience and they are ready to get up for a game anytime."

QUARTERBACK Kevin Glaspie (6-1, 175) carries the hopes of the Buffaloes in 1985 and his accurate right arm gives Stanton a good base to build around. Glaspie threw for nearly 1,100 yards last season and Ruth expects to take full advantage of the senior's throwing ability this year.

Glaspie's main target again will be junior receiver Derek Sorely (5-11, 160), a fleet, sure-handed pass-catcher who totaled more than 700 yards with 26 catches as a sophomore.

Joining Sorely, a third-year starter, in the receiving corps is Mark Gonzales, a senior who is coming out for football for the first time. Gonzalez (6-0, 160) is a fine golf prospect, but Ruth says his speed, 4.7 in the 40-yard run, and good hands will make him a strong receiver.

"LAST YEAR we were a running team, but this year we're going to open it up more. We'll run out of a split backfield and the veer," Ruth said. "I think we've got the speed in the backfield to do it. We also want to use Glaspie more as a passer and utilize the speed of our receivers."

Eric Schurer/Reporter-Telegram

Stanton quarterback Kevin Glaspie (10) and fullback Michael Holt are two reason the Buffaloes feel they will be better in 1985.

Tailbacks Timmy Rose (5-7, 150) and James Vidal and fullback Michael Holt (5-11, 200) will accompany Glaspie as returners in the Buffalo backfield giving Ruth a solid veteran core on offense.

Area Football

On the line, Ruth has brought up a new group of players from last year's junior varsity roster. Senior center Gary Montez (5-8, 160) is returning after a year layoff and will be flanked by Tommie Smith (5-8, 160), Joe Flores (5-8, 175), Billy Don Cox (5-9, 200) and Steve Villa (5-10, 235). All are juniors but Cox, who is a sophomore. The tight end will be junior Stan Young (5-11, 160).

ON DEFENSE, the Buffaloes also sport a young look with a few exceptions like Glaspie, who is a standout in the secondary.

"You don't normally like to play your quarterback on defense, but he really likes to play and he can take care of himself out there. We do put him on the weakside though," Ruth said.

With Stanton low on numbers this season, coach Ruth expects to play most of his kids on both offense and defense. Villa, Montez, Smith and Cox are all likely to see extensive action on the defensive line as well.

"The last game of the season was our best last year, it was when our backs really got going. We're hoping we can carry that game over to this year and play them all like that," Ruth said.

"It seems like we came up just a little short in nearly every game last season, but we're ready to come back and try to turn things around this year."

Stanton gets its feet wet in non-district play against 5-2A's Tahoka before stepping up to face three straight opponents from District 7-3A, Coahoma, Crane and Ozona before coming back down to 2A with a game against Seagraves.

Weather slows play in LPGA's Pro-Am

DENVER (AP) — Like most of her fellow professional golfers, Betsy King abhors weather delays.

"You're always anxious to get through," she said of the threatening weather that disrupted Thursday's first round of the $300,000 LPGA National Pro-Am.

"You hate to come back the next day and play just one hole. It's tough to get up at 5 o'clock and come out and finish."

King managed to finish, firing a 3-under-par 69 to take the first-round lead, but 18 of her colleagues faced early wake-up calls today.

Weather cleared after the two lightning-caused delays, which lasted slightly more than two hours. But darkness intruded, and the 18 were to complete their first rounds at 7 a.m. MDT today, prior to the start of the second round.

King, the defending champion of the tournament that formerly was called the Columbia Savings Classic, held a 1-stroke lead over U.S. Women's Open champion Kathy Baker and tour non-winners Becky Pearson and Lori Garbacz.

Pat Bradley, Rosie Jones, Lenore Muraoka and Cathy Kratzert were grouped at 71, while Amy Alcott led a contingent at even-par 72.

King, the leading money-winner on the tour a year ago and sixth this season, had a solid round that included four birdies and one bogey.

"I made some good putts and I hit the ball pretty well," said King, 30, of Limekiln, Pa. "I'm fairly pleased with the 69."

She got her lone bogey at the 13th hole as the siren sounded suspending play. "The lightning wasn't really a distraction," she said. "I just hit a bad approach shot into the bunker."

When play resumed, her group played two more holes, and King birdied the 15th hole, sinking a 15-foot putt. Then play was halted again.

The field played at both Meridian Golf Club and Lone Tree Country Club, and first-round scores were noticeably lower at Meridian. Of the 17 players at par or better, 13 played at Meridian. The golfers will switch courses for today's second round.

Under the pro-am format, each pro plays with one amateur for the first two days. The pro field is cut to the low 70 and the pro-am field to the low 25 teams for Saturday's action. Only the pros play on Sunday.

Baker, one of the tour's rising young stars at age 24, had what she called "a very consistent day overall. I hit a lot of fairways and a lot of greens."

Watson holds to sweet memories

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — Denis Watson had sweet memories of the last time he played golf at Firestone Country Club. Roger Maltbie had only nightmares.

Yet each shot rounds of 5-under-par 65 Thursday to share the first-round lead on a day of sub-par scoring at the NEC World Series of Golf.

A total of 20 players bettered par, seven more than the tournament's previous record for one day.

Watson, a 29-year-old native of South Africa, won last year's World Series, thanks in large part to a record 8-under 62 in the second round.

Maltbie, on the other hand, missed the cut in his last appearance at Firestone, in the 1975 PGA Championship.

Asked if the course played easier than he remembered, Maltbie laughed, "The course played a lot easier today than I remember it. Now when I played it back in '75, I was a rookie and I was paired with Jack Nicklaus for the first two days. At that time, it was the toughest course I had ever seen."

"The grass in the rough seemed to be this high" — he held his hand waist-high — "the golf ball looked like a basketball and the hole looked like a thimble.

"I shot something like a 153. Just awful. All I wanted to do was to hide and get out of his way."

One shot back of the co-leaders, at 4-under 66, was Calvin Peete. Another stroke back were Gordon Brand Jr., Woody Blackburn, Tom Kite, Bob Eastwood and George Archer.

Bunched at 2-under 68, three shots off the pace, were Fuzzy Zoeller, Hal Sutton, Scott Simpson, Dan Forsman and reigning PGA champ Hubert Green.

Tom Watson and U.S. Open champion Andy North were among a group of seven players at 1-under 69.

Denis Watson, still using a makeshift set of clubs after losing his regular set on a flight back from the British Open, used a quick start to move to the top of the leader board.

Playing in the first group in the 41-man field, he birdied the first three holes en route to his 65.

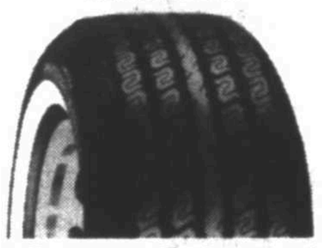

"I just love this course. It has always been one of my favorite courses since the first day I saw it (in 1981)," said Watson, who has won almost $140,000 at Firestone, including the $126,000 first prize a year ago.

Maltbie, winner of the Manufacturers Hanover Westchester Classic, credited par-saving putts of 18 feet at No. 8 and 35 feet at No. 14 for his opening-day performance.

"The key to my round was that I putted fabulously," said the 34-year-old Californian.

Peete, who had two birdies on par-3s but none on the par-5s, tabbed his 66 as "by far the best round I've had at Firestone."

Phony Super Bowl ring found during drug raid

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — What appeared to be a Super Bowl ring belonging to former Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw was found by police Thursday during a drug raid on a home near Silverton.

However, in an interview later Thursday from his ranch in northwestern Louisiana, Bradshaw said the ring was a phony.

"Oh, I've got that one," Bradshaw said when told that police had found a ring that that was inscribed with Super Bowl XIV, Bradshaw's name, jersey number and score of the game.

The phony ring was seized along with small amounts of heroin and marijuana during a police raid on a home west of Silverton.

A man and a woman who were arrested at the home told officers they had purchased the ring at a flea market, said State Police Sgt. Lee Erickson.

Erickson said though the ring looked authentic, Oregon authorities got in touch with the Pittsburgh police department to try to confirm whether it was authentic.

Bradshaw, in an interview with The Associated Press, said one of the four Super Bowl rings he had earned as the Steelers' quarterback was lost by his brother two or three years ago. But that ring was from Super Bowl X, said Bradshaw, who now is a broadcaster with CBS Sports.

"I've had people call from Boston and all over telling me they found Super Bowl rings belonging to me, but it was never the Super Bowl X ring and we always found out they were phonies," he said. "They can duplicate the rings, all right, but the proof is in whether the diamonds are real and things like that."

Your horoscope

By JEANE DIXON

Saturday, August 24, 1985

YOUR BIRTHDAY TODAY: Alter your course a little and you will get impressive results. Greater self-discipline and confidence are the key to lasting success. Take a chance on yourself. Promote your talents to prominent people. Offer a unique service for celebrities or busy executives. Regular exercise makes you more attractive to romantic partner. You feel much more energetic. Consult loved ones before taking on a second job. Youngsters need gentle guidance. CELEBRITY BIRTHDATES: TV host Dennis James, Baltimore all-star Cal Ripken, Jr., Angels pitcher Luis Sanchez, announcer Durward Kirby, Cleveland Indians infielder Tony Bernazard, author Sir Max Beerbohm, pianist Louis Teicher.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): New opportunities arise for individuals of all ages who are willing to work hard. A young person finds romance especially enlightening this evening. Be sympathetic to loved one's concerns.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): This can be a day of great discoveries for those who keep an open mind. Find the areas where you are vulnerable and shore up your defenses. New financial benefits come your way.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): It is not a moment too soon to make a financial decision. Romance could lead to a special journey. Protect your skin against the sun when in the garden or at the beach.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): You can have a lot of fun today if you set work aside and relax. Preserving a family tradition teaches young people an important lesson. A romantic interlude seems like paradise!

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Make this a weekend to remember. Take a friend or potential romantic partner to see your favorite movie or show. Shared memories draw you and loved one closer together.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Accepting a social invitation could give you direct access to someone who can help your career. Choose your leisure-time activities with greater care. Mate may prefer to stay home this evening.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): The answers you seek could be right at your fingertips. Hard work makes your dreams come true. Get in touch with people who share your interests and ideals. Cooperative efforts look promising.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): It's reassuring to know that practical help is always available from mate or parents. Show your appreciation in tangible ways. Offer to work on a special project.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Tailor travel plans to fit your special tastes. Ignore the naysayers and surround yourself with positive people. A casual remark gives you a brilliant idea. Encourage a child to excel.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Changes take time. A patient, confident attitude helps you convince the doubters. Give more thought to your personal needs. It is time you did something nice for yourself!

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Stop trying to draw parallels between your situation and someone else's. You need to concentrate on making a major change. Choose a target and aim for a bull's-eye. Travel is favored.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Rid yourself of something that is almost an obsession. Spiritual growth means much more material gain. Encourage a young child's interest in math and science. Romantic partner cares more than you think.

If we were asked to propose a motto for bridge players, it would probably be: "Pessimism Pays!" Those guys you see walking around wearing a belt and suspenders can afford to do so because of their winnings at the bridge table.

We like North's decision to raise to two spades at his second turn. It was far preferable to either rebidding two diamonds or one no trump, and it certainly made South's life easy.

West led a heart and declarer captured the king with the ace. He foresaw no problem, so he started out by drawing two rounds of trumps. West's discard was something of a disappointment. Now he tried to set up his diamonds.

Although West could have won the second diamond and given his partner a ruff, he saw that his side would take only three tricks, except in the unlikely event his partner had the ace of clubs. Instead, he shrewdly held up the ace until the third round, and the contract was doomed. After cashing the queen of hearts, West shifted to a club. Declarer entered dummy with the trump and led a winning diamond, but East ruffed and declarer still had to lose two clubs for down one.

Had declarer considered the possibility of a 4-1 trump break, he could have brought home the contract if East was the defender with the four trumps. After winning the ace of hearts, declarer should cash just one high trump from hand before driving out the ace of diamonds. It does not help West to give East a ruff. Best defense is to hold up the ace of diamonds until the bitter end, cash a heart, then shift to a club.

Declarer counters by winning the ace of clubs, crossing to the table with a trump and leading a winning diamond. East must ruff. Declarer overruffs, gets back to the board with a trump while drawing East's last fang, and cashes a good diamond for the fulfilling trick.

Country star Hoyle Nix dies at 67

Big Spring (AP) — Hoyle Nix, best-known for his band, The West Texas Cowboys, and for writing the hit country music song "Big Ball's In Cowtown," died Wednesday at his home after a brief illness. He was 67.

Nix, who was influenced by the music of Bob Wills, and The West Texas Cowboys were familiar faces at the annual Bob Wills Day celebration in Turkey. He played at the Howard County Rodeo and the Odessa Rodeo every year for the past several years.

He appeared with such stars as Merle Haggard, Bob Wills, Charlie Walker, Billy Joe Spears, Ernest Tubb, Barbara Fairchilds, Marty Robbins and Tommy Duncan.

In 1975, he received the Wrangler Award from the National Cowboy Hall of Fame. In 1984, he was inducted into the Nebraska Cowboy Hall of Fame in Hastings, Neb, and in 1985 was inducted into the Colorado Country Music Hall of Fame. He played country and western music for 39 years.

He was born in Azle, Texas, and moved to Howard County in 1919.

A funeral service will be at 11 a.m. Saturday in the East 4th Street Baptist Church in Big Spring. Burial will follow in the Mount Olive Memorial Park.

Survivors include his wife, Joy Nix, a brother and four children.

• • •

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — Live Aid mastermind Bob Geldof is slated to arrive here Saturday to pick up a $210,000 check for African famine relief — the highest per capita contribution made by any country, local organizers said.

Bob Geldof

Geldof, of the British rock band Boomtown Rats, will be accompanied by Simon Le Bon, lead singer of Duran Duran.

Lionel Richie, who co-wrote the USA for Africa hit "We Are the World" with Michael Jackson, is also expected to attend a special Live Aid reunion at the presentation ceremony. He is vacationing on the island.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The portrayal of families on many of television's prime-time situation comedies is almost as unrealistic as it was three decades ago, a new study has concluded.

"Hollywood has largely failed to grapple with the important issues of people's lives," the National Commission on Working Women said in a report called "Prime Time Kids," an analysis of children and families on television.

The group based its study on 15 situation comedies and eight dramas with children as characters, monitoring them for five weeks in June and July to see if they reflected the concerns of the country's 20 million working mothers. "Those reflections were virtually nonexistent," the study concluded.

The report noted that almost all real families with working parents depend on some form of child care and many families are struggling to make ends meet — particularly those headed by single women.

However, no single mothers on television live in poverty or have economic problems, the report said; no children lack essentials or extras; serious race and sex discrimination don't exist; bigotry is usually overcome by the end of the show; and young children are so self-reliant that they don't need child care or the care is automatically provided by loving relatives or live-in help.

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Millions of fans of Willie Nelson, Merle Haggard, Neil Young, John Cougar Mellencamp, Kenny Rogers and Charlie Daniels will get to see them and other country stars perform live for the "Farm Aid" benefit.

The Nashville Network, which provides country music programming via cable to 23.8 million households nationwide, announced Thursday it will broadcast the Sept. 22 concert to aid needy farmers.

The concert will originate from Memorial Stadium at the University of Illinois in Champaign-Urbana. "Almost every piece of equipment we own will be at that stadium," said programming director Paul Corbin.

Terry Bradshaw

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Former Pittsburgh Steelers quarterback Terry Bradshaw says a ring found by police during a drug raid is a phony and not the Super Bowl ring his brother lost several years ago.

Police seized a ring inscribed with Super Bowl XIV, Bradshaw's name, jersey number and the game score when they raided a home near Silverton on Thursday. The couple arrested told officers they had bought it at a flea market.

But in an interview later in the day, the retired Pittsburgh quarterback said, "Oh, I've got that one."

Bradshaw, who won four Super Bowl rings with the Steelers, said his brother lost the ring from Super Bowl X.

"I've had people call from Boston and all over telling me they found Super Bowl rings belonging to me but it was never the Super Bowl X ring and we always found out they were phonies," said Bradshaw, now a CBS sportscaster.

Ed "Too Tall" Jones

VENTURA, Calif. (AP) — Dallas Cowboys defensive end Ed "Too Tall" Jones will face a jury trial next month after pleading innocent to misdemeanor drunken driving charges.

Jones was arrested Aug. 15 after a deputy spotted him driving erratically on a state highway off-ramp, police say. Attorney Joe Lax entered the pleas for Jones, 32, on Thursday during arraignment.

Jones will be tried Sept. 30 on charges of drunken driving, driving with a blood alcohol content of more than .10 percent, having an open liquor container in his car and having no proof of auto insurance with him.

The 6-foot-9 lineman has been training with the Cowboys at California Lutheran College in Thousand Oaks.

• • •

PORTSMOUTH, R.I. (AP) — Fried rattlesnake is on the menu and Boy George, Steve Martin and Andy Warhol are just a few of the celebrities on the guest list for the Newport Roundup Country Western Dinner Dance.

Saturday's $150-a-person party is to benefit the U.S. Equestrian Team and comes near the end of this week's annual International Jumping Derby, started by Mason Phelps Jr. 10 years ago.

Phelps, 37, a former member of the team that competed in the 1968 Olympics, will turn his 200-acre Glen Farm into a western town with cardboard cowboy cutouts and backdrops of a saloon, stable, sheriff's office and other scenes.

Actor Stacy Keach and designers Gloria Vanderbilt and Perry Ellis are among other invitees expected to munch on the delicacies flown in from Texas.

Cardinals, Mets maintain pace

Associated Press

In a spot, the New York Mets went to spot starter Terry Leach. In a pinch, the St. Louis Cardinals relied on pinch-hitters Brian Harper and Mike Jorgensen.

Leach, pitching on short notice, threw a three-hitter during a 7-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants, while Harper had a run-scoring single and Jorgensen drew a bases-loaded walk during a ninth-inning rally that lifted the Cardinals over the Houston Astros 2-1 Thursday night.

As a result, New York maintained a one-half game lead over St. Louis in the National League East.

Leach, who had started only one game this season, was relaxing in the clubhouse at Shea Stadium, doing a crossword puzzle 25 minutes before the game began.

"Then they raced in and said, 'Hey, Terry, we're sorry to do this to you, but Sid isn't feeling good so you're going to pitch,'" Leach said.

Leach was filling in for scheduled starter Sid Fernandez, who had dizzy spells.

Leach's shutout was only the second of his major-league career. His first one came when he pitched a 10-inning, one-hitter on Oct. 1, 1982.

New York Manager Dave Johnson had planned on starting Leach, now 2-1, during a doubleheader Friday against San Diego. Now, Fernandez will get the start, if he's OK.

Cardinals 2, Astros 1

An error by Houston first baseman Glenn Davis opened the way to St. Louis scoring twice in the ninth inning at the Astrodome.

Joe Niekro had retired 13 straight batters before Davis' error allowed Tommy Herr to reach base to start the inning. Reliever Dave Smith, the second of four Houston pitchers in the inning, struck out Jack Clark, but Herr went to second on a balk and pinch-hitter Tito Landrum walked off reliever Jeff Calhoun, 2-1.

Harper singled to bring home Herr and tie the game 1-1. Terry Pendleton followed with another single off Calhoun before Bill Dawley surrendered the walk to Jorgensen, the third pinch-hitter of the inning.

Phillies 2, Dodgers 0

Shane Rawley pitched a four-hitter for his first NL shutout and also cracked an RBI double that carried Philadelphia over visiting Los Angeles.

Rawley, who raised his record to 10-6 with his fifth straight victory, recorded his first shutout since July 17, 1983, when he pitched one for the New York Yankees against Minnesota.

Jerry Reuss, 11-8, took the loss for the Dodgers, who had pounded out 22 hits in routing the Phillies 15-6 one night earlier.

Padres 3, Expos 0

Andy Hawkins tossed a four-hitter and Steve Garvey drove in two runs to help San Diego complete a three-game sweep in Montreal.

Hawkins, 16-4, pitched out of a bases-loaded jam in the first inning and went on to get his second shutout of the season.

Garvey doubled home two runs in the third after a two-out error by shortstop Hubie Brooks.

Pirates 5, Reds 1

Rick Rhoden pitched eight shutout innings before needing relief help in the ninth as Pittsburgh beat visiting Cincinnati.

Reds player-manager Pete Rose singled in three at-bats and now needs 13 hits to break Ty Cobb's all-time record of 4,191.

Rhoden, 8-13, who added an RBI single, left with the bases loaded and none out in the ninth. Reliever Rod Scurry gave up a sacrifice fly to Tony Perez and went on to get his second save.

Cubs 3, Braves 2

Thad Bosley led off the ninth inning with a pinch-hit home run, leading Chicago past Atlanta.

Bosley, who leads the NL with 16 pinch-hits, connected for his fifth homer off Rick Camp, 2-6.

Ron Cey's two-run homer, his 16th, gave the Cubs a 2-0 lead in the sixth.

Angels 3, Yankees 2

Pinch-hitter Bob Boone's single with two outs in the bottom of the ninth inning drove home Bobby Grich from second base and helped California end New York's seven-game winning streak.

The victory also kept the first-place Angels 1½ games ahead of Kansas City in the AL West, while the Yankees fell 3½ games behind AL East-leading Toronto, which was idle.

Grich drew a leadoff walk from reliever Rich Bordi and took second when he beat third baseman Mike Pagliarulo's throw on a sacrifice by Juan Beniquez. Reliever Dave Righetti got two outs before Boone, batting for Jerry Narron, singled to left field.

Winner Mike Witt, 11-7, pitched a complete game, giving up two unearned runs on eight hits while striking out 10.

New York's Don Mattingly went 0-for-5 and had his 19-game hitting streak end.

Tigers 5, A's 3

Darrell Evans hit the first pitch of the 13th inning for his 28th home run of the season, and Lance Parrish added an RBI single as Detroit outlasted Oakland.

Evans homered off Keith Atherton, 4-5, the A's fourth pitcher of the game. Lou Whitaker and later scored on the single by Parrish, who had homered earlier.

Bill Scherrer, 2-1, got the victory with two innings of shutout relief, and the Chuck Cary worked the 13th for the save in his major-league debut.

Mariners 4, Orioles 0

Matt Young pitched a five-hitter in breaking his six-game losing streak as Seattle downed Baltimore. Young, 8-14, had not won since June 25.

Phil Bradley hit a two-run homer and an RBI double. Bradley's 18th homer came off Scott McGregor, 10-11.

Royals 7, White Sox 3

Steve Balboni's two-run homer and Willie Wilson's two-run triple highlighted a sixth-inning rally, leading Kansas City past Chicago.

Balboni hit his 26th homer and Wilson hit his major league-leading 18th triple. Wilson had also tripled and scored in the first inning.

Danny Jackson, 12-7, pitched 7 2-3 innings for the victory. Dan Quisenberry finished up for his AL-leading 30th save.

Red Sox 8, Rangers 4

Wade Boggs and Jim Rice had run-scoring singles during a four-run third inning and rookie Mike Trujillo pitched eight strong innings, helping Boston break a six-game losing streak by beating visiting Texas.

Trujillo, 3-2, making his fourth major-league start, took a shutout into the eighth before giving up two runs. The Rangers added two more runs in the ninth off reliever Bob Stanley.

The victory was just the second in 13 games for the host Red Sox.

Robidoux still Angels' wart

From Staff Reports

EL PASO — Billy Joe Robidoux continued to be a one-man wrecking machine against Midland's Angels here Thursday night as he slammed a pair of two-run homers, a double and drove in five runs as the El Paso Diablos took an 11-4 Texas League baseball victory.

Roubidoux got a standing ovation from the El Paso crowd after his double drove in his 131st RBI of the season, a team record. Robidoux broke El Paso's single-season RBI record held by Charles Peterson, who had 130 RBIs in 1962.

"All I wanted to do this season was make solid contact with the ball and stay injury free," Robidoux said. "This is the first time in my professional career (of four years) that I haven't been hurt." He is hitting .342 and has slugged 23 homers so far this season.

The Diablos registered a season-high 20 hits against four Midland pitchers. Jesus Alfaro had four hits, including his 14th homer of the year, a solo shot in the first inning. John Gibbons, Dan Purpura and Robidoux had three apiece.

The winning pitcher was Mark Ciardi, 7-1, who allowed seven hits in nine innings. Ciardi's last two victories have come at the hands of Midland.

Meanwhile, Midland's Billie Merrifield continued to swing a hot bat for the Angels as he clubbed his 10th homer of the year, a two-run shot in the first inning. Merrifield had two hits in four trips, scored twice and knocked in two runs.

James Randall connected for his 12th homer of the season, a solo shot while El Paso's Jesus Alfaro hit a homer for the 14th time this year.

In other Texas League action Thursday night, Tulsa whipped Shreveport, 13-2, Jackson defeated Arkansas, 10-2, and San Antonio edged Beaumont, 5-4, in the only game in which the winning team did not score in double figures.

Cecil Espy raced home with the winning run in the bottom of the ninth inning on a wild throw.

Changing uniforms easy for Mets' Larry Bowa

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Until a few weeks ago, they were the enemy, a team trying to take money out of his pocket — and doing it rather successfully. Now, he is one of them. For Larry Bowa, changing uniforms was as easy as, well, changing uniforms.

Whereas he used to take off one Chicago Cubs uniform bearing No. 1 and put on another as the days and ssasons passed, he now wears No. 2 for the New York Mets.

For years, ever since the Mets thundered past Chicago in 1969 en route to baseball's world championship, and again last year when the Cubs swept past New York on the way to a division title, the Big Apple and the Windy City have been mortal enemies as far as their respective fans are concerned, almost as virulent as the old Brooklyn Dodgers-New York Giants rivalry.

When Jackie Robinson, in the twilight of his career, was traded by the Dodgers to the Giants, he retired rather than play in the enemy camp. But times have changed.

"It's baseball, that's all. It's a business. It's my job," Bowa said. "When you're playing for a team, getting paid by them, you give your full effort, go full bore. If you wind up somewhere else, no matter what team you're on, you do the same thing.

"When I was wearing a different uniform (Chicago's for the past 3½ seasons, the Philadelphia Phillies' for the 12 before that) and we were playing the Mets, my job was to try and beat them. Now I'm here to help them win."

Bowa paused.

"Help us," he corrected himself.

Except for the occasional slip of the tongue, it has been an easy transition for the 39-year-old Bowa. He was released when the Cubs decided 1985 was a lost cause and the best thing to do was give 22-year-old rookie Shawon Dunston the shortstop job outright.

Town hopes film makes 'reel' impact

By BOB DVORCHAK
Associated Press Writer

ENTERTAINMENT

DUQUESNE, Pa. (AP) — Local officials of industrial towns, hoping that life imitates art, have welcomed a Hollywood film crew making a movie about a Japanese automaker that takes over a defunct U.S. plant.

"It generates some money in our community," said Mayor Leo Zabelski, whose city was chosen for scenes for "Gung Ho" being filmed by child star-turned-director Ron Howard for Paramount Pictures Corp.

"We're hoping that somebody comes in and invests in the community to turn this town around. I would like to see what happens in Duquense. I'd like to see a foreign investor," Zabelski said.

Scenes from a softball game were shot last week at Polish Hill Memorial Field, just a few blocks from the shuttered Duquesne Works of U.S. Steel Corp., where a prized blast furnace was idled 15 months ago.

About a dozen mill towns in the Pittsburgh area will contribute scenes for the fictional industrial hamlet of Hadleyville. According to the story line, the town hits the skids when the local auto plant closes, but a millhand persuades the Japanese to take it over.

What happens next is a comic clash of cultures, according to Howard, the film's director and executive producer who starred in television's "Happy Days" and "The Andy Griffith Show."

"Our film is a comedy, but we deal honestly with the (unemployment) situation. We can drive it home without being depressing. It's a timely story. We're not just playing it for laughs," Howard said on a lunch break this week.

"We wanted a certain industrial look. This was perfect," he said.

Howard, 31, also directed the science fiction summer hit "Cocoon," as well as last year's well-received "Splash" and "Night Shift" in 1982.

The new movie marks a homecoming for actor Michael Keaton, 33, a Pittsburgh area native who made his debut in "Night Shift" and starred in "Mr. Mom."

Keaton said he is sensitive to the issue of unemployment in the Monongahela Valley, where the jobless rate among heads of households is 55.4 percent according to one recent study.

"This is the hardest role I've played. Playing comedy in an industrial arena is rough. You can't cheat. You have to address (unemployment). It's a comedy with a message," said Keaton.

Officials say the movie will bring about $2 million to the local economy, which pleased Keaton. "It will put some money into a town that deserves it," he said. "It sounds like hometown hype, but this really is a good city. It's down-to-earth."

Charities such as the Salvation Army, the Girl Scouts, several churches and a steelworkers food bank also are reaping benefits from the filming. Paramount is donating $5 to groups for each extra they provide for crowd scenes.

Record firms agree to labeling

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Printed labels warning buyers of explicit lyrics will be put on albums and cassettes under a proposal by 19 of the nation's top record companies, an industry spokesman says.

The agreement between senior executives of the companies was reached last month during meetings in Los Angeles, said Stan Gortikov, president of the New York-based Recording Industry Association of America.

The proposal was disclosed in a 10-page letter Gortikov wrote to the Parents' Music Resource Center, a group based in Washington, D.C., that has called for a system to rate song lyrics.

"The companies in the future will individually apply a printed inscription on packaging of future recording releases to identify blatant explicit lyric content in order to inform concerned parents and children and to make possible parental discretion," Gortikov said.

The companies, which market 80 percent of the nation's prerecorded music, include Epic, Elektra-Asylum, Atlantic, Columbia, Arista, RCA, Capitol, Warner Brothers and Crysalis.

Dollar higher

LONDON (AP) — The dollar rose against all major currencies in listless European trading early today. Gold bullion prices were lower in quiet trading.

The dollar, which fell to 14-month lows against some currencies in Europe on Thursday, rebounded later in the United States and continued on the upswing in Europe today.

In Tokyo, where trading ends as Europe's business day begins, the dollar rose to 236.45 Japanese yen compared with 236.22 yen at Thursday's close.

In London, the dollar rose against the pound sterling. It cost $1.40 to buy one pound, cheaper than the $1.4085 price late Thursday.

Other mdmorningrdollar rates compared to late Thursday's:

—2.762 West German marks, up from 2.743

—2.2588 Swiss francs, up from 2.245

—8.42 French francs, up from 8.385

—3.1085 Dutch guilders, up from 3.089

—1,854.50 Italian lire, up from 1,842.50

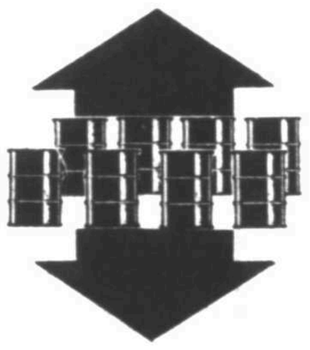

In London, the city's five major bullion dealers set an indicative gold price of $333.60 a troy ounce, down fromHlate Thursday's closing bid of $336.

In ZuricS, Europe's biggest bullion market, gold was also selling at a bid price of $333.60 at noon, down from $336 bid late Thursday.

Earlier in Hong Kong, gold dropped the equivalent of $3.57 dollars to close at $333.79, compared to Thursday's $337.36.

Silver bullion prices were also lower on the London market where the metal was selling at a bid $6.21 a troy ounce compared with $6.29 late Thursday.

Economy may stumble into recession in third quarter

Los Angeles Times —
Washington Post News Service

U.S. catfish production surged 17 percent in July. The 14.3 million-pound crop from the nation's commercial catfish farms in July brought the catfish haul for 1985 to an astonishing 113.4 million pounds, a remarkable 23 percent increase from the similar period in 1984.

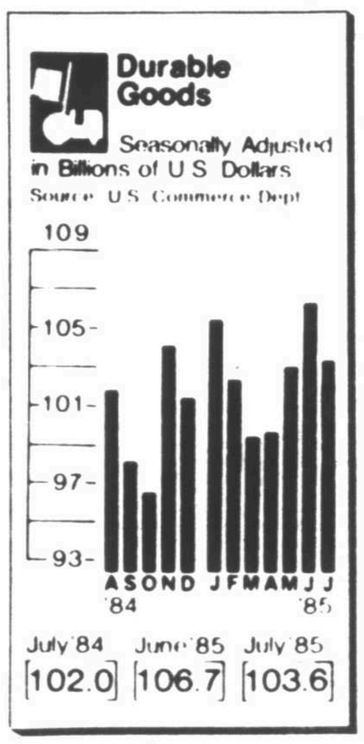

If catfish production were a major economic indicator, or even a minor one, it might be possible to construct an expansive economic scenario for the remainder of this year. As it is, it seems that President Reagan will have to fight his "fall offensive" on economic policy against a background of sloth and uncertainty in the business sector.

"Many economists have lowered their estimates following reports of weak auto and sluggish retail sales," Deborah Johnson, a Prudential-Bache Securities Inc. economist, says. "The economy is going into the third quarter like a lamb. Accoridng to our outlook, it will leave the way it came in."

Allen Sinai of Shearson Lehman Brothers agrees.

"Without stronger growth in consumption, the economy will be hard put to produce the kind of numbers expected by the Federal Reserve and the administration," he says. "The unemployment rate could rise."

Thursday's news that consumer prices rose a bare 0.2 percent in July was pleasant enough. But while a low inflation rate may be agreeable, it is not an expansionary sign.

More indicative of the economy's growth trajectory was Thursday's news that orders for durable goods had fallen a steep 2.8 percent in July. Durable goods are things such as lathes and computers and refrigerators. They last. And they cost a lot of money. They are the first thing eliminated from a family or business budget when things get tight.

So when people stop buying them, it puts economists on a recession watch.

At this point, the consensus for a recession in the next few months is rather weak. The bad news isn't yet bad enough and for long enough to indicate that the economy is headed for a slump as opposed to a flattening in growth.

Then again, not all recessions announce themselves in advance with compelling statistical clarity. It is worth recalling that in the fall of 1974, the newly inaugurated President Gerald Ford was running arround promoting his idea of a tax increase just weeks before the great recession of 1975 struck with devastating force. Fortunately, nobody paid much attention to Ford. And since no politician in his right mind plans a tax increase just before a recession, it is safe to assume that the best minds available to the president had concluded that there was little risk of the recession that was then so near.

Anyway, even if it is too early to mount a serious recession watch this fall, the best scenario that anybody is able to come up with is of an economy that stumbles along with a growth rate just this side of nothing. And to maintain any sort of confidence and leadership economy policy, President Reagan needs something better.

Official says Synfuels not lobbying for survival

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Synthetic Fuels Corp. isn't really lobbying for its survival, but it isn't just going to quietly fade away either, a top official of the embattled agency says.

Synfuels Vice Chairman Thomas Corcoran told reporters Thursday he has been meeting with members of the House and Senate and western governors. Asked if he was lobbying, Corcoran replied, "No. I think like anybody else they're entitled to know what's going on here."

The government-owned corporation, founded five years ago to support development of synthetic fuels, is closer than ever to abolition. The House last month voted 312-111 to reclaim $7.4 billion of the $7.9 billion the agency has left, but the Senate has not yet acted.

Among the influentials whose support Corcoran claims is the Reagan administration. The vice chairman released a July 15 letter from John Svahn, head of policy development at the White House, to chairman Edward Noble in which Svahn said the administration believed the corporation would be justified in supporting "small-scale synthetic fuels facilities that would not become permanent wards of the U.S. taxpayers."

Meanwhile, minority Republican members of the House Energy and Commerce Committee released a letter to President Reagan asking him to support the effort to abolish the corporation, as he tried to do last year.

The president's efforts in 1984 led to a compromise with key Senate synfuels supporters that resulted in trimming of the corporation's funds from $13 billion. The administration has stayed out of this year's battle.

White House spokesman Albert R. Brashear said Thursday the House members' letter had not been received. He said the White House was aware of news reports of alleged irresponsible spending by the corporation and would look into them.

Corcoran's briefing about Wednesday's closed board meeting followed publication in Energy Daily of an internal memo which the trade publication said was a "plan to build support during August."

The memo was written by a staff member to present ideas and never was adopted as policy, Corcoran claimed.

"We have no plan to lobby the Senate. We have plans to do our job here," Corcoran said.

The memo, which Corcoran released, was written before the House vote. It listed as assumptions "Senate position weakening — during August recess budget fears will sharpen," and outlined several visits aimed at gathering support, such as "TC works Simpson in Wyoming on naval oil shale reserves during August recess," a reference to Senate Majority Whip Alan Simpson, R-Wyo.

As the directors see it, their job includes awarding $774 million in new subsidies for three projects by Sept. 13, the target they set on Wednesday for the staff to reach contracts with project sponsors. The Senate is scheduled to reconvene Sept. 9.

Wednesday's actions, as revealed by Corcoran, included a decision to kill the second phase of the Parachute Creek shale oil plant in Colorado run by Union Oil Co., which already has $400 million in loan and price guarantees.

The second part of Parachute Creek had been planned for $2.7 billion to quadruple production on a nearby site with different technology.

The first part has never worked correctly, with the cooling chutes for spent shale always clogging after at most a day and a half of operation. The directors voted to collapse the second part of the project into the first, under a new limitation of $500 million on additional aid.

Fannie Mae places fifty Basin homes up for sale

Fifty homes in the Permian Basin will be put up for sale by the Federal National Mortgage Association (Fannie Mae), through September 22.

The homes for sale are located in Midland, Odessa, Big Spring, Brownfield, Gardendale, Kermit and McCamey.

"These homes, with prices ranging from $20,900 to $96,000, are relatively new and in good condition," said Dr. Mark J. Riedy, Fannie Mae's president and chief operating officer. "Many are highly suitable for low- and middle-income families and also are available to investors.

Through Fannie Mae-approved lenders, who are offering attractive financing for these homes," Riedy said. "Qualified buyers who plan to live in the homes can put down as little as 5 percent. Investors will be required to make a minimum down payment of 20 percent."

To encourage sales, Fannie Mae will pay bonus commissions to real estate brokers who sell the corporation's foreclosed properties.

For a list of the homes and the listing brokers, call 1-800-553-INFO, Monday through Friday between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m. Eastern Daylight Time.

Icahn attempts to withdraw Texas Air's bid for TWA

New York Times News Service

NEW YORK — Advisers representing Carl C. Icahn and the Texas Air Corp. are involved in talks to get Texas Air to withdraw its offer for Trans World Airlines, and thus speed Icahn's ability to buy out the remaining shareholders and name his own directors, sources involved in the negotiations said on Thursday.

Icahn and his partners, in a filing with the Securities and Exchange Commission on Thursday, said they had increased their holdings to 47 percent, from 45.54 percent, by buying two blocks of shares on Wednesday, totaling 742,000 shares.

TWA shares closed at $22.375 on Thursday, unchanged, in trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Icahn confirmed in an interview that the talks with Texas Air were going on. "We would rather do it peacefully," he said, referring to the bitter takeover struggle that the two companies have been involved in since last June 13, when the TWA board agreed to merge with Texas Air for $23 a share. Icahn later offered $24 a share, and Texas Air came back with a $26-a-share bid, but then lost the support of TWA's board.

Sources in the negotiations said that Icahn was not offering any sweeteners to the $42 million that Texas Air and its financier, Drexel Burnham Lambert Inc., already stand to gain.

Texas Air would get an $18 million fee from TWA for breaking its merger agreement as well as benefits from its option to buy 6.4 million shares at $19.625 each and profits on 2.2 million shares it already owns.

One source in the negotiations said that a number of options were being considered in the talks, including a possible merger of TWA and Texas Air. "Merger, that is a possiblity," the source said.

But another source close to the negotiations said that such an option had not been discussed. The source added that a merger was not possible under the agreements that Icahn had signed with two of TWA's major unions, the Air Line Pilots Association and the International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers.

Harry R. Hoglander, the chairman of the Master Executive Council of the pilots' union, said in an interviw that if such a merger took place both the pilots and the machinists would strike TWA.

The most likely outcome of the talks, sources said, was that Texas Air would withdraw. For Icahn, a quick withdrawal would mean he could gain control of the carrier as early as the end of October.

ARCO Chemical sues over oil theft

HOUSTON (AP) — An Atlantic Richfield Co. subsidiary is suing 17 companies and individuals for $6 million, alleging operators of a Deer Park oil terminal stole 200,000 barrels of oil from Arco.

Arco Chemical Co. filed the federal suit in the wake of an investigation of the loss, valued at $5.8 million, by Harris County authorities.

Arco's lawsuit names 17 corporate and individual defendants, including GATX Leasing Corp. and the now-defunct Amarco Petroleum Inc. The suit alleges the defendants violated the federal Rackeeteer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act.

Investigators say GATX Leasing Corp. discovered the shortage soon after taking control of the oil terminal in May from Amarco as a result of bankruptcy proceedings.

A receptionist in the GATX Houston office said Thursday no one was available to comment on the charges.

A Harris County sheriff's detective said in June that the chief suspect in the apparent theft ran the terminal on the Houston Ship Channel for Amarco. The detective said the loss, worth as much as $5.8 million, was "the last big score" in a series of thefts covered by falsified inventories.

Assistant District Attorney Brad Beers said no charges have been filed in the probe.

Donoghue's Money Fund Averages (tm) (Averages for all 259 taxable funds)		46	7.14	7.40

Yield columns represent: annualized total return to shareholders for past seven days and 7-day compounded (effective) rates of return. Past returns are not necessarily indicative of future yields. Investment quality and maturity may vary among funds. (r) -- restricted availability.

MONEY FUND TABLE COMMENTARY: Assets of the 259 taxable money funds reported by Donoghue's MONEY FUND REPORT (R) of Holliston, Mass. 01746 increased $439 million to $200.6 billion during the week ended Aug. 20, 1985. The taxable funds' 7-day average yield increased to 7.14 percent from 7.08 percent. The taxable funds' 30-day average yield increased to 7.08 percent from 7.03 percent. The taxable funds' average maturity lengthened by 3 days to 46 days.

William E. Donoghue says, "It was a week of upward movement as assets and yields increased. Reflecting the rising short-term money market rates of the past four weeks, the 7-day average yield for all taxable money funds jumped to 7.14 percent from 7.08 percent. This is the highest 7-day average yield since June 18, 1985. The government-only money funds 7-day average yield rose to 7.00 percent from 6.88 percent as government-only funds, which hold repurchase agreements, reported substantially higher yields this week. The average maturity for all taxable funds was extended by three days, after shortening from 49 to 43 days during the previous six weeks."

Triton Energy reports fiscal 1985, fourth quarter results

DALLAS--(SWN)--Triton Energy Corp. has announced the results for the fourth quarter and fiscal year ended May 31, 1985. Revenues for the year were $51.0 million compared to $23.9 million for fiscal 1984. Cash flow (working capital provided by operations) was $23.5 million, a 250 percent increase over the $6.7 million for fiscal 1984. Earnings from operations (revenues less costs and expenses) were $15.7 million, an $11.4 million increase over the $4.3 million for fiscal 1984. Net earnings were $9.8 million, or $1.08 per share after preferred dividends of $2.7 million, compared to $12.3 million, or $1.86 per share with no preferred dividends for the prior year. The decrease in net earnings for the year was primarily due to a decline in net gains from subsidiary stock sales, which amounted to $2.3 million in fiscal 1985 compared to $8.9 million last year.

Revenues for the fourth quarter were $15.8 million compared to $7.0 million for the fourth quarter of fiscal 1984. Earnings from operations were $6.0 million, a $4.6 million increase over the $1.4 million for the fourth quarter of fiscal 1984. Cash flow (working capital provided by operations) was $7.5 million, an increase of $5.5 million, or 273 percent, over the $2.0 million for the fourth quarter of fiscal 1984. Net earnings were $5.3 million, or $0.69 per share, an increase of $4.1 million over the net earnings of $1.2 million.

Phillips cuts back gas sales to European customers

NEW YORK (AP) — Phillips Petroleum Co., which operates a Norwegian North Sea natural gas field that has been plagued by a sinking seabed, said that it and its partners are cutting back deliveries by about 25 percent to three European customers.

An agreement with customers in France, the Netherlands and West Germany, took effect today and will reduce deliveries by an average of 250 million cubic feet daily over the next two years, said Dan Harrison, a spokesman at Phillips' headquarters in Bartlesville, Okla.

Harrison said in a telephone interview that the reduced delivery schedule has made it possible for Phillips to reinject natural gas into the reservoir below the rich Ekofisk Field.

The reinjection of the gas began has already begun in the area about 180 miles southwest of Norway and about 220 miles northeast of Britain, Harrison said.

Phillips said that its most recent satellite survey of the field, completed late last month, indicated the seabed is sinking at a rate of about 15½ inches a year.

Petrolane names new president

HOUSTON (SWN) Texas Eastern has announced the appointment of Larry N. Summers as president of Petrolane LP-Gas. Summers succeeds William E. Denny, who has chosen to pursue personal interests.

Summers joined Petrolane in 1968 as manager of accounting and was appointed Petrolane's vice president/controller in 1978. He was named senior vice president of operations in 1980 and executive vice president, operations, in 1983. Summer holds a bachelor of science degree in business administration from the University of Missiouri.

Denny joined Petrolane in 1959 as a district manager. He was appointed Montana regional manager in 1961, area vice president for northeast operations in 1967 and was named executive vice president of supply and distribution in 1973. He was elected president of Petrolane in 1979. A native of Denver, Colorado, Denny has been active in industry organizations and served last year as president of the National LP-Gas Association.

INVESTOR'S GUIDE

Money trust sent you comes from redeeming bonds

By BILL DOYLE

Q. I purchased 60 units of a municipal bond unit investment trust two years ago. Until recently, I received a $411 monthly check. Now, I have received a $5,558.40 check, which is approximately 10 percent of my investment.

It does not seem that this will be a long-term investment, as per my agreement. Is the brokerage firm taking advantage of me by paying me off because I am receiving high interest?

A. Let's go back to square one and explain how a municipal bond unit investment operates. At the time the trust was set up, it acquired a portfolio of municipal bonds. Then, units in the trust were sold to investors such as you. Think of the units as "shares."

Doyle

The trust collects interest, which is not subject to federal income tax, from the bonds it holds and passes that money along to unit owners, also free from federal tax.

Some unit trusts hold municipal bonds issued only in one state, making the interest it passes on exempt from that state's income tax.

In addition to passing along interest, the trust also distributes to unit owners money it receives when bonds it holds are redeemed because they have matured or have been called for early redemption.

That's where most of the money in the $5,558.40 check you received came from. Some of the bonds the trust held were redeemed. The trust received the redemption proceeds and sent it to you and other unit owners.

Now that interest rates are lower than they were two years ago, many bond issuers are redeeming high interest bonds. That's a logical move by bond issuers. The brokerage firm through which you bought the trust units has nothing to do with that.

Eventually, all the bonds held by the trust should be redeemed and you'll get all your money back. The exceptions would be if some of the bonds default or, in unusual circumstances, the trust sells some of the bonds at a loss. Usually, the latter doesn't happen.

You should see that a unit investment trust will gradually be liquidated and the money returned to unit owners in the normal course of events. That process speeds up, as the result of early bond redemptions.

If all the bonds in your unit trust are called for early redemption, your investment won't be "long-term." You're wrong in thinking you had an "agreement" about that.

Q. What happens to the size of the monthly check I receive from my unit investment trust after I receive a sizeble distribution of principal resulting from the redemption of bonds the trust has held?

A. Each of your monthly checks will be smaller, unless subsequent proceeds from bond redemptions are included. After some of the bonds a trust holds are redeemed, the trust has fewer bonds in its investment portfolio. So, it stands to reason the trust collects less interest to pass along to unit holders.

Q. I am 63 and retired on pension and Social Security totaling $35,000 a year. The financial consultant I went to advised me to put $130,000 into a municipal bond unit trust, which pays me almost $12,000 a year tax-free interest. Now, he is advising me to put $265,000 into a mutual fund holding discounted corporate bonds and paying 12.8 percent taxable interest.

This sounds risky. I feel I should put the $265,000 into insured bank certificates of deposit, where I won't have to worry. What are your comments?

A. I go along with you. Discounted corporate bonds — those selling below their face values — are not necessarily risky, but they can be. The risk factor depends on the quality of the bonds. In the current market, that 12.8 percent interest yield indicates the bonds the mutual fund holds are of less than investment grade. That means there's more than average risk there.

You might want to put some of your money out at risk. And, considering your overall financial situation, you probably could. But most retired folks can't and shouldn't. My vote is to do the normal retirement time thing and play it safe with your investments.

STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE℠

HOW TO USE STOCKQUOTE HOTLINE

1. Call the StockQuote Hotline number listed below. A computer voice will answer and ask you for the Account Code.
2. Enter the Account Code, then depress the star key (*) on your telephone. The computer will then ask you to enter your Stock Code.
3. Enter the Stock Code for the stock you wish quoted, the computer will quote the Ticker Symbol; Current Price and Net Change from the previous day's close.
4. After the stock is quoted, the computer will ask you to enter another Stock Code. You have two options:

A. You may request the quote for another stock simply by repeating Step 3, or...
B. You may request additional information on the stock just quoted by once more depressing the star key (*) in which case the computer will respond with the Price, Net Change, Volume, High and Low. The computer will then ask you to enter another Stock Code (repeat Step 3).

You may enter up to 10 requests per call.

STOCK CODES

All Stock Codes are based on industry standard Ticker Symbols provided by your broker or available from any Standard & Poor's Stock Ticker Guide. Codes are made up of a series of two-digit numbers, each representing one of the letters in the Ticker Symbol.

To determine the two-digit code for any letter of a Ticker Symbol, remember: The first key to be depressed is always the one on which the letter appears. The second key is always a "1," "2" or " indicating that letter's position on its own key (first, second or third position). EXAMPLE: "IBM"="43 22 61"; "BX"= "22 92." Remember to depress the star key (*) after entering each code.

ADDITIONAL ASSISTANCE

Call the StockQuote customer service number (915) 682-5311 (Monday thru Friday 8 a.m. - 5 p.m.) for additional information or to report any problem with the service.

Union Pacific withdraws Katy bid

ELGIN, Ill. (AP) — The inability of the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Co. to obtain 60 percent of its 670,000 outstanding income certificates will cause Union Pacific Corp. to withdraw its offer to buy the company, a Union Pacific official said.

"Without the ability to retire these certificates, there is no basis for a deal, and we expect to give formal notice in due course," a Union Pacific spokesman said Wednesday.

The income certificates require the owner of the railroad to pay a portion of its income to the holders and diminish its ability to pay dividends to stockholders.

Union Pacific Corp. had offered to buy the Missouri-Kansas-Texas Railroad Co., known as the Katy, from Katy Industries Inc. for $108 million.

The Katy made a tender offer in June to buy the outstanding certificates for $25 each, but had obtained only 41 percent when the offer was terminated, said Chairman Reginald N. Whitman.

The Katy was to be purchased by the Missouri-Pacific Railroad, a unit of Union Pacific, and the deal was contingent on the Katy's ability to obtain 60 percent of the outstanding income certificates.

The certificates have a face value of $110 and sold for $20.75 when they were issued 28 years ago as part of a settlement on interest, Whitman said. The railroad has never made sufficient income to pay anything on them, though, he added.

"It looked to me like it was a good thing for our railroad to merge with a strong partner," Whitman said. "Now we'll just have to go back to doing things the way we've done them for 120 years."

In 1984, Katy Industries, which also has operations in consumer products, electrical equipment, industrial machinery and financial services, lost $36.7 million on sales of $432 million.

The Union Pacific rail system operates 22,000 miles of track in 21 states. The Katy has 3,100 miles of track in Kansas, Missouri, Oklahoma and Texas.

Cola wars go international

Associated Press

Embattled Coca-Cola, fresh from its tactical withdrawal over new Coke, was fighting on new fronts and taking prisoners as the great soft drink war with archrival Pepsi went intercontinental.

There were these developments Tuesday:

—The soft drink giants swapped charges about the meaning of cola cans marked "New Pepsi" that were captured in Japan by Coke officials.

—Coke vowed not to knuckle under to a judge's order that it reveal its formula, secret for 99 years.

—And in 16 foreign cities, Pepsi, saying its sales in the United States jumped 14 percent in May after the introduction of new Coke, trotted out its competitor's product at news conferences, eager to see it on sale everywhere.

"The new Coke is about to roll out worldwide, and we at Pepsi could not be happier," Peter Kendall, Pepsi's regional vice president for northern Europe, said in London.

Coke officials said the Japanese cans proved that Pepsi was doing something it had chided Coke for earlier this year — changing its taste.

Dick Detwiler, a Pepsi spokesman in the company's Purchase, N.Y., headquarters, said that what Coke claims is "New Pepsi" is actually a "long dead" product that had "a very limited test marketing in one city in Japan ... a couple of years ago."

But the Tokyo sales office of Pepsico Inc. confirmed that it is selling "New Pepsi" in Hiroshima and other areas of Japan. The product has not been introduced in the Tokyo area but the company is running commercials urging cola drinkers to compare the old and new Pepsis.

And Tuesday night, a Coke official provided The Associated Press with an empty can of "New Pepsi." The bottom of the can was stamped "850620," which the Coke official said indicated a June 20, 1985, market date.

Randy Donaldson, manager of public relations services for Atlanta-based Coke, said, "What is amazing is that this product is on the market, clearly identified as new, at a time when representatives of Pepsi said it is something they would never do.

Allegations against bank are dropped

HOUSTON (AP) — The Comptroller of the Currency has dropped allegations that Texas Commerce Bank-Houston treated loans to its bank directors preferentially, a bank spokeswoman says.

"The comptroller's office has now determined that these allegations were not supported by the facts and are therefore being totally dismissed," Texas Commerce spokeswoman Jan Jackson said Wednesday.

Earlier this year, the Dallas regional comptroller's office cited the Houston bank, the largest member bank of Texas Commerce Bancshares Inc., for allegedly not having adequate reserves to cover loan losses.

But Ms. Jackson said a representative from the comptroller's office informed the bank of their findings last Friday.

Officials from the comptroller's office could not be reached for comment Wednesday.

Oilman Patrick Rutherford Jr., a former bank director, drew the attention of officials from the comptroller's office because the bank restructured a $32 million loan in principal and interest for one of his companies.

The preferential treatment allegation also was targeted at bank director Robert Moncrief, Ms. Jackson said.

The Houston bank also announced it plans to follow an administrative agreement with the comptroller's office involving the bank's operations including loan policies and procedures.

Other areas of concern are the implementation of an expanded written interest policy applicable to executive officers and directors and a committee to oversee compliance of the agreement, Ms. Jackson said.

Broken drilling rig leg blocks traffic on Sabine

SABINE PASS (AP) — A 2-ton leg unit of a drilling rig collapsed in the Sabine River, forcing the U.S. Coast guard to close off the waterway to all traffic until the unit could be removed.

The 188-foot leg unit collapsed about 4 p.m. Thursday as it was being moved about four miles southwest of the Port Arthur Bridge, said Coast Guard Chief Steve Morris.

Officials said they might call a commercial crane from Galveston to come hoist the unit up at the dock.

A Coast Guard patrol boat was blocking river traffic late Thursday because officials feared waves could cause the leg to topple, Morris said.

A 55-foot shrimp boat failed to heed the Coast Guard warning about the rig and smashed into the side of the Coast Guard boat about 7:40 p.m. Thursday, Morris said. However, he said, no injuries resulted from the collision.

The drilling unit is owned by Fluor Drilling Co., authorities said.

Eastern plans to leave El Paso in November

EL PASO, Texas (AP) — Eastern Airlines, which entered the El Paso market in July 1980, will pull out this West Texas city on Nov. 1, company officials said Thursday.

Because Eastern's hub is Atlanta, it was forced to make longer, less profitable flights than airlines with hubs in Dallas or Houston, said Tony Batista, the airline's El Paso sales and service manager.

"Basically, we cannot effectively compete with the airlines that have hubs near this city," he said, adding that Eastern's 10 employees in El Paso will be given options to transfer to other cities.

The departure of Eastern — which has two daily flights from El Paso to Atlanta and one to Tucson — leaves El Paso with seven air carriers.

Landmens Association to host its third annual skeet shoot Saturday

The Permian Basin Landmans Association will have its third annual skeet shoot from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday at the Midland Skeet Range, located two miles south of Warfield Truck Stop on FM 1788.

Barbecue will be served and door prizes given away.

The skeet shoot will include seven divisions. Trophies will be awarded.

New fiscal year heralds changes in laws

By RON GILMORE
Staff Writer

College students, automobile drivers, Sunday shoppers, health officials, and those faced with court costs and fees will all find changes in the law as of Sept. 1.

The end of the 1985 fiscal year for the State Legislature has brought with it a slew of reforms affecting Texan residents.

Included are an increase in tuition for state college students, a new law requiring drivers and front seat passengers of automobiles to wear seat belts, increased court costs and the demise of both the Texas Health Facilities Agency and the so-called "Blue Laws".

On Sept. 1, the Midland Police Department and the Department of Public Safety will begin watching for violators of the seat belt law, which, according to Lt. Jimmy Rhodes of the DPS, "essentially requires all front seat passengers in cars and pickup trucks to wear safety belts."

The law applies to all passenger cars and trucks which have a manufacturer's carrying capacity of not more than 1,500 pounds, said Rhodes. Included are ½ ton and ¼ ton pickups and vehicles that have the anchorages for seatbelts.

"If the vehicle was equipped to have seatbelts, then there must be belts in the car to meet the law," he said. "The law doesn't specify whether it's supposed to be a lap belt or shoulder strap, so if they are wearing either, they would be meeting the requirements."

Fines for violations will be not less than $25 and not more than $50, said Rhodes, but actual prosecution will not begin until Dec. 1.

"There will be no punishment given until on or after Dec. 1," he said. "Until then, we'll just be warning and educating people."

EXEMPT FROM the law are U.S. Postal Service employees while on duty and any person with an acceptable medical reason and a letter from a physician. Rhodes added however, that persons who have a medical reason but no letter, will have ten days following the citation to produce a letter in order to get the charges dismissed.

The seatbelt law is the result of a bill introduced by Sen. Ted Lyon, D-Mesquite, and Rep. Bill Messer, D-Belton, earlier this year.

Area stores and shoppers also will be affected by the Sept. 1 changes as the Texas Blue Laws, restricting the sale of 42 items, will be repealed.

The first Blue Law dates back to the 17th century and was named for the color paper on which it was originally printed.

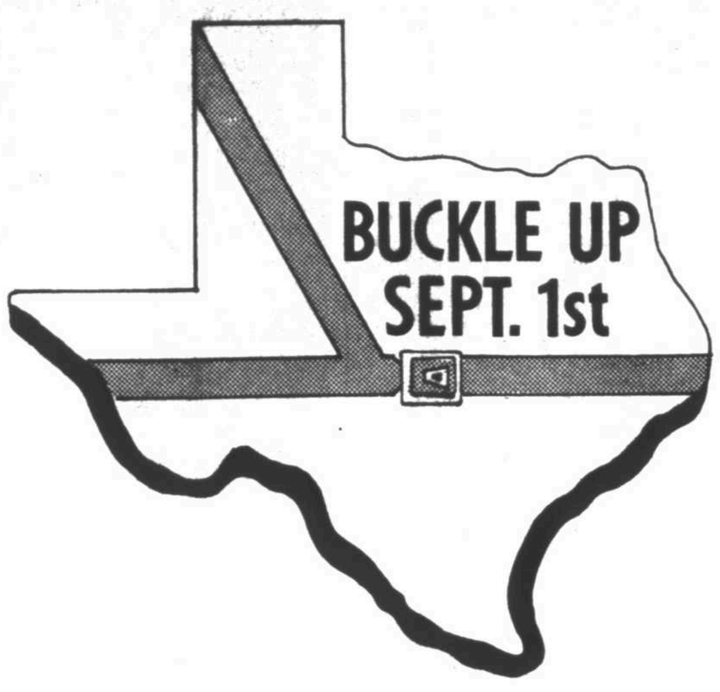

The first Texas Blue Law was passed in Houston in 1839 and prohibited the sale of malt liquor. In 1863, a more extensive Blue Law was passed but was repealed five years later.

Another version was passed in 1871, prohibitiang all Sunday sales except for drugs and medicines. The present law, which restricts the sale of 42 types of merchandise on consecutive weekend days ((affecting only stores open seven days a week), was enacted in 1961.

Included among the prohibited items are kitchen ware, utensils, clothing, footwear, toys, tools, hardware, rugs, lawn furniture and bed coverings.

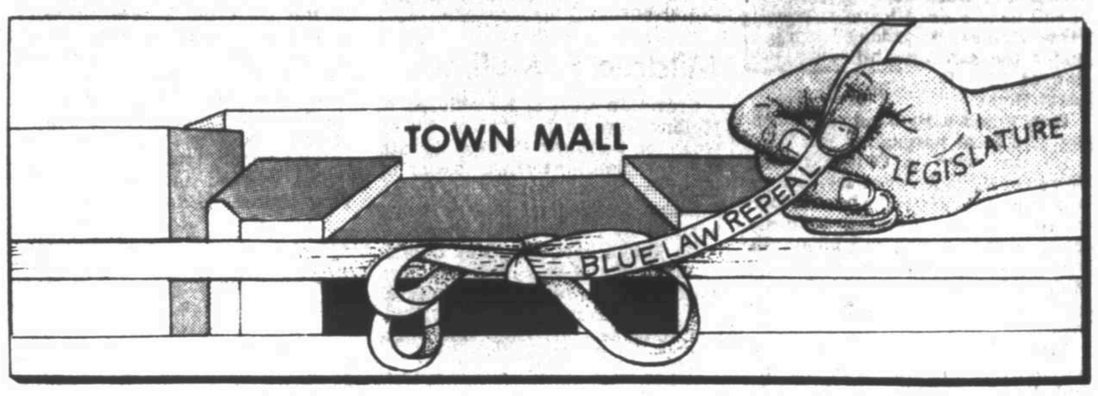

The repealed law will not affect the ban on the sale of alcoholic beverages before noon on Sundays, however.

THE DEMISE of the Blue Laws came about in May when Gov. Mark White signed a bill repealing them.

As of Sept. 1, Texas residents will be required to follow a new seatbelt law, which states that all drivers and front seat passengers in a car or truck not exceeding 1,500 pounds, must buckle up.

Suzan Conder/Reporter-Telegram

Texas' Blue Laws, first enacted in 1961, will be written out of the statutes Sept. 1, when a repeal goes into effect. The laws restrict the sale of 42 items on consecutive Saturdays and Sundays by Texas stores.

Although several stores in Odessa began opening Sundays in July, locally, only some of the discount stores such as Walmart's and Sprouse Reitz Variety have defied the law until this week, when many Midland businesses announced plans to open in advance of Sept. 1.

Among the stores which opened Sunday for the first time were Foot Action, Foot Locker, Great Expectations, Casual Corner and Musicland. J.C. Penney also opened Sunday, "as a convenience to customers who wanted to get a head start on back-to-school shopping." The stores, all in Midland Park Mall, were open from 1 to 6 p.m.

Students returning to Midland College, University of Texas at Permian Basin or any other state college or university, will be paying more for tuition as of Sept. 1.

"Our tuition has been increased from $4 per semester hour to $8 per semester hour," said H.A. Tuck, director of public relations at Midland College. Tuck added that the increase was the first in the history of Midland College. "We opened in 1969 and the tuition has never been changed," he said.

Tuition at UTPB and other state universities will increase from $4 per semester hour to $12 per semester hour, stated Tuck, with mandated increases over the next three years.

Tuck also said that Midland College had placed a maximum ceiling on tuition of $100 for anything up to 21 credits and a minimum of $40.

"WE WANTED to ensure that students wouldn't have to pay exorbitant amounts," he said. "We've also been reassured that we will find financial assistance for anyone who wants to attend Midland College."

Tuck stated that tuition in Texas colleges and universities was among the lowest in the nation.

"We were getting to the point where it was cheaper for people in other states to come to Texas and pay out-of-state fees, rather than go to their own state colleges," he said.

The tuition increases are the result of a bill authored by Sen. Grant Jones, D-Abilene, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee. The bill was passed in April.

The legislative action, which will add $285 million to state revenue over the next two years, was initiated when the Legislative Budget Board recommended a 26 percent cut in state college and university budgets. Lt. Gov. Bill Hobby and others began looking for additional revenues from tuition increases and other state fees.

State legislation has also affected county court costs and increased the price of personalized license plates and marriage licenses.

"The State Legislature passed a bill (HB 1593) and are raising fees," said a spokesman for the Midland County Attorney's office, who added that the majority of the increased revenue "goes back to the state."

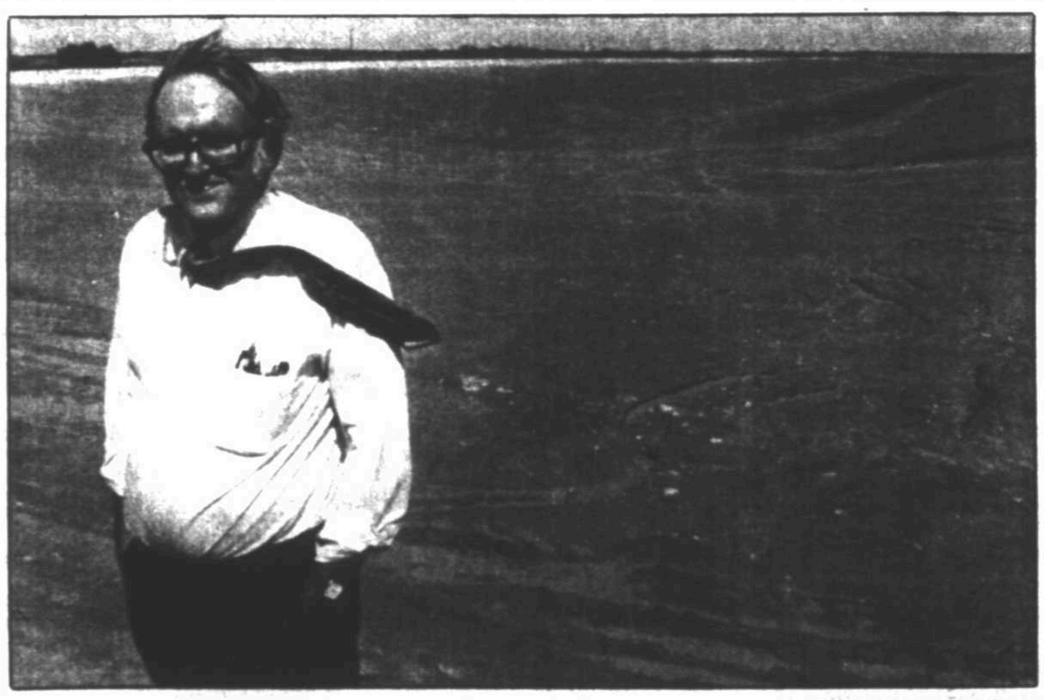

Included in the rate increase are arrest fees, which go from $3 to $12, a $1 addition to criminal fees and increases in criminal and probate fees. Revenues from the latter will go for continuing education for judges.

Also increasing are marriage license fees, which will jump from $7.50 to $25 as of Sept. 1. According to the spokesman, the revenues from the license will be divided evenly between state and county.

Another change will affect persons arrested for drunk driving.

"Something that is new is that all DWI cases will be charged $15 for videocassette tapes," said the spokesman. "The videotape fees were approved under SB 598."

Other increases include a $6.25 hike in car registration fees and a new $75 price tag for personalized license plates.

Sanitarian Jim Roberts of the Midland City-County Health Department stands on the fringe of a disposal pit at site of a new sanitary landfill southeast of Midland. The site is to be open for public use on Sept. 3.

Midlanders' trash to become 'treasure' for new dump site

By ED TODD
Staff Writer

Rubbish is a big deal.

And Midlanders on Sept. 3 will have a brand-new site to dump most of the best and worst of their garbage. It's the city of Midland's 420-acre sanitary landfill site on former farm land southeast of Midland.

"The biggest problem on the face of the earth today is disposal," said Jim Roberts, sanitarian for the Midland City-County Health Department. His concern is to prod people who dump their own garbage to use the site and not to dump rubbish illegally, not to pose a health problem and not to blemish the Midland landscape.

"More waste is being generated," Roberts said, "more babies are being born...and people are living longer."

The path to the new site is 6.8 miles beyond Texas Highway 158's (Garden City Highway's) junction with Interstate Highway 20 and is slightly more than a mile north of the state highway's junction with County Road 1110 South.

The dump site is to serve Midland for the next 50 to 80 years.

Midlanders each day dispose of 500 tons — 1 million pounds — of household and business-generated rubbish, noted Fred Baker, director of the city's Public Works Department. They either toss their refuse in alley-side metal containers called Dumpsters, which are unloaded by garbage-collecting trucks bound for the landfill, or personally haul their rubbish to the landfill.

"We're a throw-away society," Baker said.

The old landfill, a 62-acre site abutting Cole Park, is being abandoned after more than 30 years' of use, and will be covered with two feet of top soil, seeded and turned into a verdant extension of the park just off Cloverdale Road east of Midland.

The new sanitary landfill won't receive all refuse just as the existing old one doesn't.

"We are not in a position to accept hazardous materials such as hydrocarbons, gasoline, diesel or toxic materials" which would include insecticides and other toxic chemicals, and radioactive materials, Baker noted. Those materials are disposed of through provisions monitored by the Texas Department of Health and, ultimately, by the federal government's Environmental Protection Agency.

The first trench or pit at the new site is about a quarter of a mile long, 300 feet wide and about 20 feet deep. The trench is lined with 30-millimeter thick sheets of plastic to prevent the leaching of pollutants from the landfill to the underground water zones and is covered with two feet of dirt to prevent heavy machinery compacting trash from damaging the lining. "It's supposed to last forever," Baker said. He said the landfill has been inspected several times by the Texas Department of Health during construction. It will be routinely monitored thereafter.

To get their rubbish dumped by city services, Midlanders pay $6.75 per household. Those who dump their own trash will be paying 50 cents to haul a carload of rubbish through the landfill's gates, $1.25 for a pickup load and more for heavier trucks. It costs $25 to properly dispose of a dead horse, cow or pig at the site. In addition to rubbish and garbage, the Class I landfill will take old tires and household appliances, such as old stoves, refrigerators and washers but won't accept junk cars. A Class I landfill, said Roberts, is prohibited from storing hazardous waste, though some invariably will creep in. It will be open for public use Mondays through Saturdays from 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. and on Sundays from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.

"Even the most highly controlled dump site is going to get 3 percent (hazardous) wastes," Roberts said.

His concern now is to inform Midlanders where the new landfill is, to discourage those who are inclined to dump trash along roadsides, in ditches, on vacant lots and other illegal sites and to let them know that judges are prepared to levy up to $200 fines on convicted offenders.

Smith's slander suit against Gideon shows no signs of coming to trial

By MARK LEWIS
Staff Writer

More than a year after it was filed, former Midland County Sheriff Dallas Smith's $4 million slander suit against Midland Police Chief Wayne Gideon shows no signs of coming to trial. But despite widespread speculation that Smith's move was a political ploy, he has not dropped the suit since losing his bid for re-election last November.

"It has not been set (for trial) that I know of, and it has not been dismissed that I know of," said William J. Wade of Crenshaw, Dupree and Milam, the Lubbock law firm representing Gideon.

Gideon declined to comment, referring all questions on the suit to his attorneys. Smith was unavailable for comment, and his lawyer, Thomas J. Sims of Fouts and Moore in Houston, did not return phone calls concerning the suit.

"I haven't heard one word about it," said District Clerk Vivian Wood.

The case is filed in Midland's 238th District Court, but the presiding judge is James W. Gregg of the 118th District Court in Big Spring, who was out of town and unavailable for comment.

"I haven't heard a thing about it (the suit) since the election," said Howard County Deputy Clerk Glenda Brasel.

Smith's suit, filed July 2, 1984, claimed Gideon slandered him by spreading rumors that the former sheriff beat his wife, from whom he was later divorced. According to Smith, those rumors cost him the May 5, 1984, Republican primary, which was won by Gary Painter. Two months after filing the suit, Smith announced a write-in campaign for sheriff, but was again defeated by Painter in November.

In the fall of 1982, "Defendant commenced a concentrated and systematic effort to damage and destroy Plaintiff's character and reputation by making and publishing slanderous statements regarding Plaintiff," the suit alleges. "These statements were false."

Gideon denied the allegations, saying Smith's political problems were his own fault.

A deposition taken from Smith's ex-wife, Gail Commagere, was released several days before the November election. In it, she denied being physically abused by Smith while they were married. She mentioned an incident which took place after they were divorced in which Smith injured her hand, but said it was unintentional.

'King Football's' future benched after no-pass, no-play controversy

By JULIE HILLRICHS
Staff Writer

AUSTIN — Polo may be the sport of kings, but in Texas, schoolboy football is the king of sports.

Unlike schoolboy football in other states, Texas seems to have its own brand of the sport. Earl Campbell, Eric Dickerson, Billy Sims and even Tom Landry are just a few of the many Texans whose celebrated football careers got their start in Texas high schools.

Right now, however, King Football's future is on the bench — the Texas Supreme Court bench, that is.

Supreme Court Justices recently upheld the rule that bars failing students from participating in extracurricular activities. But University Interscholastic League Director Bailey Marshall said court battles over the controversial no-pass, no-play law have not ended.

"I would not think we would be past having a lawsuit. We had the lawsuit back in the spring and the Supreme Court upheld the law and all, but there are other means. You can attack different phases of the law," Marshall told a Texas Daily Newspaper Association seminar on the 1984 education reform bill in Austin.

Part of the controversial reforms mandated by House Bill 72, no-pass, no-play has been perhaps the most unpopular of HB72's reforms, and in late May the provision was declared unconstitutional by Harris County State District Judge Marsha Dell Anthony. The ruling resulted after a group of Houston area parents challenged the constitutionality of the law when their children were barred from participating in extracurricular activities. But the Supreme Court overruled that decision.

"I don't think we have eliminated lawsuits. It would be nice if we had," Marshall said.

The UIL director said he looks for an attack on the rule's lack of exceptions for special cases, referring to those students who fail courses because of illness.

"There is no exception clause in there if he legitimately had a reason for not passing his work," Marshall said.

Marshall also said he anticipates no major changes in no-pass, no-play, but predicted the state may shorten the period of ineligibility.

The current rule states that a failing student shall remain ineligible for the entire six weeks grading period following the six weeks in which he or she received the failing grade.

"I think possibly within a year's time, after some evaluation, they will shorten the length of period of ineligibility and allow a student to get back eligibility in three weeks," Marshall said.

Until then, he noted that UIL officials should be concerned with school teachers and administrators who bow to public pressure and change students grades.

A proposal by the UIL Legislative Council would require its District Executive Committee to approve all grade changes by school districts and, in addition, it states that if a sponsor or coach pressures a teacher into changing a student's grade, he or she may be privately or publicly reprimanded or disqualified from coaching.

"Any coach or sponsor who encourages grade changes should be fired," Marshall said.

Ector County jury returns 89 indictments

By FRANK TROMBLEY
Staff Writer

ODESSA — The Ector County grand jury, meeting for the last session of its six-month term Thursday, returned 89 criminal indictments.

Three men were named on a total of eight counts involving sexual abuse or indecency with children. Two men were indicted in connection with the July 27 fatal shooting of a 15-year-old youth.

Abel Carrasco Castillo, 41, Route 2, Box 3214, Odessa, was indicted on one count of sexual abuse of a child and four counts of indecency with a child. District Judge Joe Connally set bond for Castillo at $5,000 on each of the five charges.

Castillo was first arrested Aug. 9 on one charge of indecency with a child allegedly involving a 12-year-old girl, according to Ector County sheriff's deputy Troy Davis. Bond was originally set at $15,000 for Castillo.

On Aug. 14, additional charges, alleging one count of aggravated sexual assault of a child and nine counts of indecency with a child, were filed against Castillo, who was also ordered held on a state parole violation, according to deputy Roy Gladden. Bonds totalling $70,000 were set on the charges.

First UMC celebrates Centennial birthday

From Staff Reports

First United Methodist Church, Main Street at Ohio Avenue, will observe and celebrate its Centennial birthday Sunday.

Historical records indicate the Methodist Church was the first church organized in Midland. On Sunday, Aug. 23, 1885, J.H. Barron, writing a letter to Annie Aycock, his future wife, said, "Brother Scoggins, the Methodist minister, organized a church today with six members, only one male member."

This marked the beginning for First United Methodist Church.

Emphasis for Centennial activities will be on "Homecoming." A number of clergymen, formerly associated with First UMC in the capacity indicated are planning to participate in the birthday celebration. They are:

— The Rev. Lloyd A. Hughes, Albuquerque, N.M., and the Rev. O.A. McBrayer, Fort Stockton, district superintendent;

— The Rev. Luther Kirk, Lubbock, and the Rev. Howard Hollowell, Abilene, former pastors; — And the Rev. Jim Pickens, Albuquerque, N.M., former associate pastor.

Mrs. Marvin L. Boyd, Austin, widow of a former pastor, will be joining the festivities as well as two former members of the congregation who are now engaged in full-time Christian service. They are the Rev. William McReynolds, pastor at first UMC, Clovis, N.M., and David Goolsby, director of Methodist Student Ministries, Auburn, Ala.

Sunday, adult classes will gather for an old-fashioned General Assembly session to begin the Sunday School hour. At the 10:35 a.m. worship service, Brad Kisner, director of Music Ministries, will direct the Chancel Choir in the inaugural presentation of a Centennial anthem, "God is Here." The anthem was composed by Dr. Lloyd Pfautsch, director of Choirs/Music at Southern Methodist University, especially for First UMC's 100th birthday.

Following the worship service, "John Wesley" will lead a congregational processional from the sanctuary to Midland Center. Dinner-on-the-grounds, an old-fashioned hymn sing-a-long, a Centennial style show and a slide presentation depicting the last 100 years as well as other activities are planned to highlight the afternoon's program.

Displays of historical items, significant to First UMC's first 100 years, are on exhibit at First UMC until Sunday when they will be on display at Midland Center. "The History of First United Methodist Church" will also be available for purchase during Centennial Sunday activities.

The ministerial staff currently serving First UMC, the Rev. Charles E. Lutrick, senior minister, the Rev. Bill H. Weir and the Rev. James E. Bell, associate ministers, and the Rev. J.B. Stewart, part-time minister of visitation, invite interested parties to attend the Centennial activities.

Police arrest second man in shooting

From Staff Reports

Midland police have arrested a second man in the Aug. 16 shooting of a 20-year-old Midland woman.

Lucio Salas, 20, 2929 W. Kansas, was in city jail on a $50,000 bond this morning, charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. He was arrested at home about 6:39 p.m. Thursday, according to police reports.

Still in city jail was Jamie Fernandez Juarez, 21, 3105A W. Storey. Juarez, arrested Tuesday and charged with aggravated assault in the same incident, was also held on a $50,000 bond.

Upgraded from critical to serious condition in Midland Memorial Hospital was Mary Martinez, according to a hospital spokeswoman. Ms. Martinez was shot about 4 a.m. Friday through the door of her home at 404 E. Estes. Her assailants fired eight shots into the house, reports said.

In other reports from law-enforcement agencies, Midland firefighters were called out Thursday to quell a grass fire apparently caused by someone trying to burn trash.

The fire in a pasture near county roads 60 East and 1133 North was reported about 1:10 p.m., reports said. It took firefighters about an hour and 2,000 gallons of water to extinguish the blaze.

Charlotte Leigh, 1005 Boyd, reported the loss of an $800 bicycle in a Thursday burglary, reports said.

A $500 stereo was reported stolen Thursday by Rich Newton, 606 W. Missouri, and the Tall City Lions Club, 305 S. Stonewall, reported the loss of 14 wooden tables and 56 chairs, value not given, in a Thursday burglary.

Experimental drug fails to save Odessa infant

ODESSA (AP) — Last month, Ector County Judge Jan Fisher stood in her front yard proudly holding her infant daughter, declaring the baby had miraculously been cured of leukemia.

But an experimental drug and a bone marrow transplant offered little Ashley only a brief respite from the illness, and the 8-month old infant died Wednesday.

The baby — the daughter of the judge and her husband, Dr. Jabez Marshall — was diagnosed within hours of her birth as having leukemia. She was promptly taken to Fort Worth hospitals and underwent blood transfusions and chemotherapy.

Doctors tried experimental treatments in an unsuccessful effort to arrest the leukemia, which is rare in infants. But by the time Ashley was 3 months old, her disease threatened her life.

Ms. Fisher convinced doctors to give Ashley the experimental drug AMSA, an acronym for acridinyl methanesulfomide anisidide. The drug has been used with some success in adult leukemia patients.

The AMSA wiped out the leukemia cells in Ashley's body, but doctors could not guarantee that the disease would not return.

Meanwhile, Ms. Fisher persuaded doctors to perform a bone marrow transplant, also considered an experimental treatment, performed on Ashley.

In May, doctors removed bone marrow from Ms. Fisher and transplanted it in her baby, who soon began producing normal blood cells.

On July 18, Ashley was allowed to go home for the first time.

"Ashley is healed," Ms. Fisher declared as she stood in the front yard of her home that day and held her daughter in her arms. She said her daughter's recovery was a miracle.

But the leukemia reappeared in a routine blood test, and the disease rapidly took hold again, Pat MacAllister, Ms. Fisher's administrative aide, said.

"All that was left to do was to keep her at home and keep her comfortable. It's just a very painful thing for all of us," Ms. Fisher's aide added.

Services for the child were to have been at 10 a.m. today in the First Baptist Church. Gravesides services were to follow at 1 p.m. at Andrews Cemetery.

Texas inmate killed; TDC calls it retaliatory attack

LOVELADY (AP) — A Texas prison inmate was stabbed in what authorities believe was a retaliatory attack for the stabbing of another prisoner, a Texas Department of Corrections spokesman said.

Arturo Aguilar, 30, an inmate at the Eastham prison unit near Lovelady, became the 18th prisoner killed in a TDC facility this year, prison spokesman Phil Guthrie said.

Aguilar, serving five years for Scurry County convictions of burglary and unauthorized use of a vehicle, was pronounced dead about 1:20 p.m. Thursday in the prison infirmary, Guthrie said.

The inmate was attacked in the general population closed custody wing, a tight security area, and suffered six wounds to his chest and right hand, Guthrie said.

"An officer saw the inmate stagger from his cell and collapse in the corridor. He was pronounced dead in the unit infirmary about 10 minutes later," Guthrie said.

A nine-inch shank with a wooden handle was found in the area, he said.

Investigators speculated that Aguilar may have been knifed in retaliation for the stabbing Wednesday of another Eastham Unit inmate, Ricardo Muniz Hernandez.

Hernandez, 27, was in fair condition Thursday at the TDC hospital in Galveston, Guthrie said.

Hernandez, serving five years for a Hidalgo County burglary conviction, suffered wounds to his back, chest and right hand in the attack, which occured about 4:15 p.m. Wednesday in the general population wing, Guthrie said.

"No one saw it, but the officer assigned to the area came down from an upper row of cells and saw the inmate trying to leave," he said.

Community college head not surprised by ouster

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Demoted Alamo Community College District chancellor Byron McClenney says he is surprised he lasted as long as he did in his job.

McClenney was forced out of his job Tuesday by the district's board. He was reassigned to head up fund raising for the district's foundation.

His ouster came in the wake of controversy over the appointment of a new president for St. Philip's College. Black leaders had objected to the selection of Stephen Mitchell, a white, to head the school. The college traditionally has had a black president.

"I took the heat," McClenney said Wednesday. "But then, that goes with the territory."

McClenney said when he took command of the district in 1981, he figured his chances for "surviving for long were slim to none."

Judges: Cases must be reviewed

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Periodical reviews of cases involving fathers jailed indefinitely for failing to pay child support are necessary, two local judges say.

Juvenile Judge Tom Rickhoff said Wednesday he plans twice monthly reviews of the status of such fathers.

And District Judge James Barlow has ordered the district clerk's office to send back to civil court nine cases in which fathers are serving what he calls "life sentences."

Barlow has revealed that 30 Bexar County jail prisoners are delinquent fathers who have completed jail time assessed. But they have not been released because they haven't paid back child support.

Barlow said there is little likelihood the prisoners will ever be able to raise the thousands of dollars they owe. In effect, he said, they have been dealt life sentences.

The judge said the situation probably is unconstitutional because the Supreme Court has ruled that people cannot be imprisoned simply because they are poor.

Barlow Wednesday ordered nine cases returned to civil court to determine whether the prisoners should be kept in jail.

Women present 'Extravaganza'

From Staff Reports

The Midland District Women Department of the Churches of God in Christ will present "An Extravaganza Banquet, Fashion Review and Crowning of a Queen" at 8 p.m. today at the Midland Federation of Black Women, 1705 E. Wall Ave.

Featured speakers are the Rev. Kenneth Weatherspoon, presiding overseer of the Midland District; and Mary O. Weatherspoon, wife of the deceased Overseer W. Weatherspoon. The reining queen is Iola White, Deliverance Tabernacle, San Angelo.

This year's contestants are Paultheia Newson Hunter, Prayerhouse, Odessa; Nancy Gainey, Lighthouse; Dean Sparglin, Wayside; and Lizzie Pollard, Powerhouse, Big Spring.

The fashion review will include toddler, teen-ager and adult fashions.

Advance tickets for this semi-formal affair can be purchased by calling LaVerne Smith, 682-7514. Ticket price is $6.50 for adults and $3 for children. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Odessan held on indecency charges

From Staff Reports

ODESSA — A 20-year-old man remained in the Ector County jail today in lieu of $10,000 bond on two charges alleging indecency with a child.

According to deputy sheriff Roy Gladden, David Allen Cox, 1413 Patton, was arrested about 2 p.m. Thursday. The two incidents, both allegedly occurring Oct. 31, 1983, involved a 13-year-old girl, he said.

Gladden also said Cox's 59-year-old father, George William Cox, also of 1413 Patton, was jailed earlier on four charges of indecency with a child involving a different 13-year-old girl.

The elder Cox remained in the Ector County jail early today in lieu of bonds totalling $25,000.

DUMP

He said police officers, sheriff deputies and constables will be on the lookout for offenders.

"God help you if they catch you (dumping illegally)," Roberts said. "So far, all the judges have agreed its going to be a $200 fine if they catch you."

His public-education campaign includes news dissemination via the print and broadcast media and the display of a billboard, donated by Lamar Advertising Co., depicting directions to the site. The billboard is in the 1200 block of West Front Avenue.

Among the worst offenders, he said, are some contractors who dump building materials in lots or along highways.

"They (the city) had rather have construction material coming in there (the landfill) and pay the fee rather than having it strewed along the highways and roads," Roberts said.

Once rubbish is dumped illegally, other tends to follow.

"Everybody else follows," Roberts said. "Monkey see; monkey do."

"It's really makes for a sad situation," he said. "You can't have all the (illegal) sites watched 24 hours a day, seven days a week."

Recently, Roberts conducted a study of the effects of illegal dumping in the city and county.

"The eyesores, the dangers and the problems of illegal dumping in Midland were far too evident," Roberts determined. "Areas next to (the) interstate highways, county roads, and private county property reflected the aftermath of a so-called 'disposable' society: concrete, bricks, and discarded lumber....Unfortunately, the inclusion of household rubbish, empty toxic containers, and the stench of decomposing animal flesh only compounded the problems at these locations."

Roberts noted that the Clean Midland organization is dedicated to helping clean up Midland.

The success of "Midland, the beautiful," Roberts said, would depend "entirely on its people to create the "proper disposal society."

Jimmy Criddle, 43, 3820 Walnut St., Odessa, was indicted Thursday on two charges of indecency with a child involving two young girls. The incidents are alleged to have occurred April 13 and May 25. Criddle was released after posting $10,000 in bonds. Andrew Hycner, 32, 9945 Westridge, was indicted Thursday on one charge of indecency with a child. He was released from the Ector County jail after posting a $5,000 bond.

Deari Madison Flowers Sr., 49, was indicted on a charge of murder in connection with the fatal shooting May 26 of 15-year-old Stephen Rhodes, who was allegedly killed during an argument between Flowers and Robert McLarn Phillips, 916 War Admiral.

Phillips was indicted on a charge of attempted murder of Flowers in the incident that occurred behind the Twilight Lounge on Andrews Highway.

Bonds for both men were set at $20,000 by Connally.

Hightower: Farm bill would cut deficit

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Texas Agriculture Commissioner Jim Hightower said Thursday a farm bill has been proposed in Congress that would revitalize the agricultural economy and also cut $20 billion from the federal deficit.

"The economic depression that has gripped the agricultural economy for the past five years has not only driven more than 300,000 farmers from the land, it has also decimated the industries that serve farmers," Hightower said.

In a speech to the Agricultural Implement Workers Bargaining Council of the United Auto Workers, Hightower said that during the Great Depression, International Harvester lost money in only 1932 and 1933.

"This time around, Harvester started losing money in 1979 and hasn't stopped since, having lost more than $1.5 billion. As a result, International Harvester closed the Farm-all tractor plant in Rock Island, Ill., causing a loss of 2,600 jobs, and the Memphis plant, costing 1,425 jobs," Hightower said.

GOP chairman won't vote for party 'turkeys'

DALLAS (AP) — Republican National Party Chairman Frank Fahrenkopf says he doesn't vote a straight Republican ticket because "we've got some turkeys, too."

Speaking to Dallas area Republicans Thursday night in the city where President Reagan was renominated to the presidency exactly one year ago, Fahrenkopf disclosed, "I vote for the man or woman who can do the best job.

"It's not always a Republican. We've got some turkeys, too," he said.

Fahrenkopf's comments were made in a speech focusing on the GOP's "1991 Plan," which will attempt to make the Republican Party the majority party by 1991 by focusing on courthouse and statehouse races.

While Republicans have made headway in governorships and congressional seats, "where we've suffered was at the bottom" because of a lack of qualified candidates at the local level.

Fahrenkopf is urging Republicans to set their sights on statehouses so that "by the time the state legislatures sit down in 1991, following the 1990 census, to reapportion and draw the (congressional district) lines, the Republican Party will control a majority...so that we are the party drawing the lines for the decade of the '90s," he said.

He said the reason Democrats have such a powerful hold on political offices across the country is because of the gerrymandering of districts, which he said are drawn to give Democrats the edge.

He declined to speculate on the number of U.S. House seats the party can hope to gain next year, but he indicated the party has its work cut out for it just retaining its majority in the Senate.

Of the 34 seats up for election next year, 22 are Republicans, and 16 of those are freshmen, he said.

He also said that Nevada Sen. Paul Laxalt's announcement Sunday he would not seek re-election "creates tremendous problems."

Garn: Cure would pay for space program

DALLAS (AP) — Utah Sen. Jake Garn, accepting an award from the Veterans of Foreign Wars, said finding a cure for a major disease while in space would justify the costs of the space program.

The Republican senator, who went on an April space shuttle mission, received two standing ovations Thursday after he was given the VFW Space Award during the group's 86th national convention.

Garn, chairman of a subcommittee that oversees funding for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, said he would "make no apology" for advocating continued funding for the space program.

"If a cure for a major disease is discovered because of the space program, it will be worth all the expense that has ever been incurred in connection with it," he said.

The senator — a former Navy aviator who is also chairman of the Senate Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs Committee — said space research already has been advanced by experiments made possible for the first time because of zero gravity.

When he was named as part of the Discovery crew, Garn shrugged off criticism accusing him of using his political influence over NASA to win the assignment.

Garn, 52, told VFW members that one of the first speeches he gave after the Discovery returned to earth was to a kindergarten class.

"I felt impressed to tell them that some of them would someday step on Mars, that some would live on a space experiment station, that some might even leave our solar system," Garn said.

The senior Utah senator recalled watching television with his father in July 1969 when Neil Armstrong became the first person to walk on the Moon.

Tears came to his father's eyes, Garn said, and when he asked why, his father said he was overcome with emotion over the huge strides that had taken place in his lifetime.

Jury's indictment of judge immediately challenged

EL PASO (AP) — The foreman of a grand jury whose indictment of a state district judge was immediately challenged by prosecutors says he had a feeling the jury was "fighting a losing battle, but we had the courage to pursue it."

Just minutes after the indictment of Judge Enrique Pena charging official oppression, attorneys representing the state filed a motion Thursday to dismiss the charges.

Jury foreman Francis Daugherty said grand jurors had decided against the prosecutors' urgings

"It does take courage on the grand jury's part to continue to pursue something like this when you have the dissent of the whole judicial system against you," Daugherty said.

The indictment of Pena stemmed from a courtroom dispute that led to the handcuffing of a court clerk's employee.

Loeffler borrows pages from Reagan game plan in announcing candidacy

By MICHAEL HOLMES

AUSTIN (AP) — In entering the Republican gubernatorial game, Tom Loeffler borrowed a few pages from President Reagan's campaign play book.

He immediately began running against the capital.

He sounded an alarm about taxes.

He branded the incumbent's policies as "failed."

He pushed traditional values.

He promised to mobilize public support if legislators balk at making tough financial decisions.

And in case anybody missed the connection, the congressman used the president's name a time or two.

"President Ronald Reagan brought a new beginning to American and changed the role of the federal government. It is now time to bring a new beginning home to Texas," Loeffler said during a series of stops statewide Thursday.

"What we must do in Texas is follow the model of what President Reagan has done for the American people," was his answer to a question about the state's precarious budget situation.

An Analysis

Criticizing state spending and the $4.8 billion school and road tax increase Gov. Mark White pushed through the Legislature, Loeffler said officials in the capital are out of touch with citizens in the state.

"If we want to continue Texas as we know it," he said, "then we have got to learn to live within our means, to be Texans in Austin as we are Texans throughout the rest of the state."

While no major state official has even suggested a state income tax, Loeffler, third-ranking Republican in the U.S. House, nonetheless warned of the danger of one.

"The downfall of our economy and our state...would be a state corporate or personal income tax," he said.

While no governor's budget proposal ever gets much more than a quick glance from the Legislature, Loeffler said White has failed to be a budgeting leader.

The incumbent's best efforts, he said, are little more than "tried and failed policies." But if elected, Loeffler said he would stand up "and submit a budget that the Legislature will follow."

He promised another Reagan strategy if lawmakers balk: Asking the public to pressure them.

"I will call upon the support of the people...to help me encourage the Legislature to make the tough decisions but to still come up with the programs that are necessary."

Loeffler also tied himself to traditional values.

"As a fourth generation Texan, I have been blessed with the opportunity to grow up with deep roots in the Hill Country...with a heritage and way of life Texans hold dear."

However, he warned, "We cannot and must not stand by and let Mark White preside over the erosion of the bedrock values and rich traditions of this state..."

And Loeffler even has a little in common with the rancher-president's interests in real estate an horsemanship.

NOTICE OF VOTE ON TAX RATE

The Midland Independent School District conducted a public hearing on a proposal to increase your property taxes by 5.105 percent on Tuesday, August 20, 1985 at 7:00 p.m.

A public meeting to vote on the tax rate will be held Tuesday, August 27, 1985 at 1:30 p.m. at the Midland Independent School District School Administration Board Room, 702 North N Street, Midland, Texas.

TWC head: Sierra Club tactic political 'extortion'

AUSTIN (AP) — The Sierra Club says it will decide whether to back the proposed state water package when it sees who Gov. Mark White appoints to the Texas Water Commission.

But the commissioner about to be replaced says the Sierra Club tactic is political "extortion."

"The Sierra Club's position has drifted toward extortionistic negativism — it seems opposed to everything until bought out of the way," Commissioner Lee Biggar said Thursday. "It now threatens to oppose the water plan unless bought off with a commissioner."

Biggart, who was appointed by Gov. Bill Clements, completes his term next Friday. He has not asked Gov. Mark White to reappoint him.

"I would strongly urge Gov. White to ignore amateur attempts at extortion and simply appoint the best person possible from whichever source the person's name appears," Biggart said.

"I feel compelled to speak out against the manner in which the paid leadership of the Sierra Club has tried to manipulate this appointment in return for support of the Texas Water Plan," he said at a news conference.

Stuart Henry, the Sierra Club's water resources chairman, said Thursday that the appointment is crucial because the three-member Water Commission would interpret and administer the proposed $1.4 billion water plan. The package, approved by lawmakers this year, faces voter approval in November.

One commissioner could ruin the plan, said Henry, who denied Biggart's allegations and said the club is merely protecting its interests.

"The Water Commission is going to interpret the water plan. It's not a good plan unless you get a good commissioner to go along with the other commissioners," Henry said. "The language is so vague that one commissioner, and all three, are critical."

The Sierra Club, in general, is pleased with the work of commissioners Ralph Roming and Paul Hopkins, according to Henry.

"But one commissioner can make a difference when you have only three," he said.

The Sierra Club has given White a list of four or five candidates backed by the club.

Biggart, who does not want to be reappointed, said the water plan has drawn widespread support and could win voter approval without Sierra Club backing. But Henry said, "If we work against the plan, we are going to beat it."

Biggart said the Sierra Club's efforts could backfire by upsetting the other commissioners.

"I am concerned that the paid leadership of the Sierra Club is seeking someone who is obligated personally to them rather than someone who is responsive to environmental interests," he said.

Ex-Army captain: Pentagon 'muzzled' combat reports

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Army Capt. Peter Cole says he went to Congress after the Pentagon and top military officials "muzzled" his reports that some Army combat-readiness claims were false.

Cole returns to the witness stand today for the third day in his lawsuit seeking to regain his former rank with back pay. The U.S. Court of Claims trial is expected to last at least two weeks with Army witnesses testifying next week.

Cole says he was relieved of his job as a battalion supply officer in Germany in 1976, then coerced to resign as part of the Army's "retaliation" for his whistle-blowing reports.

"You're muzzled," Cole said he was told by Col. William Coad, battalion commander. "You don't do anything until I tell you to."

Cole, 38, now is a civilian Army employee at Fort Hood in Killeen.

Cole testified he turned in his resignation because he wanted to "protest what I considered retaliation by the Army. I did it to protest in an authorized manner. I had no intention of getting out of the Army."

Cole said battalion, brigade and division officers refused to return his resignation offer, and sent it back to Cole's home station at Fort Hood.

He was called to a meeting with Maj. Gen. George Patton, son of the late World War II general, who at that time was commander of the 2nd Armored Division at Fort Hood.

"He started yelling at me about blackmail and espionage," Cole testified. "He was just screaming at me about all these investigations I had started...He said I owed a loyalty to my commanding officers."

Patton refused to return Cole's resignation and it was forwarded to Washington, Cole testified.

A helicopter equipped with a custon-built "helitorch" flys near a fire set intentionally to consume a 230-acre tract near Lufkin.

Helicopters used to control timberlands

LUFKIN (AP) — A pillar of gray and white smoke rises 40,000 feet in the air from flames intentionally set to consume a 230-acre tract of land.

From what seems like the midst of the massive tower, the drone of an approaching helicopter is heard. As the soot-covered yellow craft breaks through the smoke and zooms in as close as six feet from the ground, droplets of fire can be seen falling from its belly, igniting even more of the dried brush below.

Although the pilot is purposefully setting the earth ablaze, he isn't a woods arsonist. He's a pilot for Custom Air Service — a Jasper-based company owned by Bob Ewing that uses helicopters to do hazard reduction and site preparation burning for timber companies.

Each of the company's five choppers is equipped with a custom-built "helitorch" and a 25-gallon tank that carries the fuel for the burn. When the pilot pushes a lever, a mixture of fatty-acid soap and gasoline called alumagel is released from the tank into the helitorch. As it enters the helitorch, the mixture is ignited by a butane flame and released into the air as a droplet of burning gel from the arm of the helitorch.

Protected by a green flameproof jumpsuit and gloves, Tony Aldridge piloted the company's bright yellow 20-foot-long Hughes helicopter for a controlled burn near FM 1818 ordered by Temple-Eastex recently.

The job of starting the fire was completed by Aldridge within 30 minutes of takeoff.

Aldridge said he doesn't drop the fire haphazardly; there's a pattern to follow.

"I drop the flames about every six feet in rows that are 50 to 100 feet apart. I start downwind and work into it so that I'm usually clear of smoke."

But he wasn't clear of smoke on this particular mission. Because of a shift in wind direction, Temple's ground crew of foresters, who are responsible for control of the fire, had to set backfires on all the tract's boundries to insure against the spread of fire to wooded lands surrounding their tract.

There was no escaping the smoke that day for the pilot or Temple's crew led by Dave Robinson, district supervisor for Temple-Eastex foresters.

The sun looked like a dull orange ball through the smokey, soot-laden sky. Some of the crew members operating bulldozers and four-wheelers wore masks to filter the smoke and dust as they plowed or checked the fire lines.

"We run tree crushers across the land to chop up the smaller stuff so that it will dry out and burn easily. After it's burned, hand or machine planters can more easily replant the area."

To prepare for the burn, Robinson said, ground crew dig trenches around the site to contain the fire and warn area residents of their plans.

INS moves Cubans to El Paso after riot

FLORENCE, Ariz. (AP) — Cuban inmates rioted at a detention center early Thursday, setting fires, breaking windows and furniture, and shouting that they wanted to be returned home, authorities said.

By afternoon, the units were quiet, and the inmates took down barricades they had built with the debris in front of their dormitory-style cell units, said Manuel R. Cornejo, the officer in charge of the facility.

"The Cubans have totally torn up the facility," said Ruth Anne Myers, district director of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service. "They are shouting 'liberty,' they want to be free, they want to return to Cuba."

The 65 inmates broke windows and furniture, set small scattered fires and destroyed plumbing fixtures, officials said. Officials said 102 Cubans were being held at the center, about 60 miles southeast of Phoenix.

No injuries to guards or inmates were reported, authorities said.

The Cubans, who came to the center in June, were among those who came to the United States during a 1980 boatlift and who later were convicted of crimes in the United States.

The disturbance began late Wednesday night and continued until about 4 a.m. Thursday, when many inmates went to sleep, Miss Myers said.

The inmates gave up because "they just got tired. Also, there wasn't anything left to trash. They'd done all the damage they could," Miss Myers said. She added that inmates were warned they would be removed by force if they did not surrender.

Miss Myers said the center was "beyond use," with smoldering fires, flooded areas and inoperable water and air conditioning systems.

Reporters who entered the facility after the inmates left found broken windows, smashed TVs, lighting and plumbing fixtures pulled from walls, and ceilings, torn-down partitions and plugged toilets.

About 40 of the inmates who joined in the riot were sent to an INS facility in El Paso, Cornejo said. As the bus left, the inmates inside could be seen chanting and pounding on the windows.

The other rioting inmates were shipped to Phoenix, where most will be transferred to federal prisons in El Reno, N.M., and Terminal Island and Lompoc, Calif.

The 28 inmates in a third cell unit who did not participate in the riot were bused to the federal Metropolitan Correctional Center in Tucson.

Nine other Cubans being held in a separate building at the facility were not affected by the riot.

Inmates held a brief hunger strike several weeks ago to protest the uncertainty over whether they would be permitted to return to Cuba.

"We knew it (the riot) was going to happen sometime," Miss Myers said.

Striking workers file discrimination action

HOUSTON (AP) — Georgia Evans accuses the A.W. Schlesinger Geriatric Center of being disloyal to her and her 20 years of service by asking her to take a 6-to 10-percent pay cut.

"We know they don't have any loyalty to us," Mrs. Evans, 50, said Thursday after she and two other striking workers filed a discriminatory complaint Thursday with the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission here.

The three black women are among 150 employees, mostly black, at the state's largest nursing home who have been on strike over the proposed cuts since July 1.

Their complaint charges the center with race-based wage and hiring discrimination against black employees.

Linda Caesar, 25, another striking employee, said the center routinely doesn't post some jobs so that black employees don't have an equal chance to apply.

But John Durkay, a Beaumont attorney representing the center, says all employees have the same opportunity to apply.

And the proposed pay cuts, Durkay said, result from the home's losing over $1 million since 1981. He said non-union employees received an 8- to 10-percent pay cut in January.

Even though the average pay at the home is $4.10 an hour, it is still 80 cents to $1 more than other nursing homes in Beaumont, Durkay said.

Bargaining talks between the workers, members of the Service Employees International Union Local 706, and the center ended Aug. 1.

"This whole situation can and should be resolved at a bargaining table," said Rick Hall, business manager for the striking employees.

But Durkay says the center's administrators cannot resume talks because they would be going against labor union laws. He said about 180 employees have said they no longer want the union.

The home is the largest nursing home in the state, said Ruben Guttman, a consultant with the Service Employees International Union AFL-CIO.

Three of city's ambulances break down on same day

FORT WORTH (AP) — Three ambulances — one of which carried a 62-year-old heart attack victim who died — broke down from mechanical problems that have plagued the company for the past several months, officials said.

Roy Perry died Wednesday after the first Daniel Emergency Medical Service ambulance sent to transport him broke down and another picked him up within three minutes, officials said.

He was pronounced dead nine minutes after arriving at John Peter Smith Hospital, hospital spokesman Michael Mayo said.

But C.L. "Kit" Carson, Fort Worth's emergency medical services coordinator, said Daniel officials told him the man did not respond to paramedics' treatment and "was dead at the time" he was picked up at 3:15 p.m. Wednesday.

Adam Weems, executive director of Daniel, which has the city's ambulance contract, declined comment.

The broken ambulance was one of three that experienced mechanical failures Wednesday, Carson said. Two other Daniel ambulances, which were not transporting patients or answering emergency calls, experienced "alternator problems" that were repaired within 30 minutes, he said.

Paramedics from the first ambulance worked on Perry and started toward the hospital with him when the ambulance broke down.

He said Daniel officials told him that "no more than three minutes" passed before a second ambulance arrived.

Mayo said the man arrived at the hospital at 3:30 p.m. and was taken to the emergency trauma room, where he was pronounced dead at 3:39 p.m.

Dallas will let Falwell group use park despite reservations

DALLAS (AP) — The Rev. Jerry Falwell's National Federation for Decency will be allowed to use a Dallas park to stage a Sept. 2 anti-pornography march despite a vote by the city's park board to deny the use of Cole Park.

Board President Billy Allen said the group first voted to ask city staff members to take "all steps necessary to keep Jerry Falwell's group out of Cole Park" because they feared Falwell's recent remarks about South Africa's apartheid regime might spark civil disturbances.

The Falwell group plans to hold a rally at the park that morning and then march to Southland Corp. offices in an attempt to persuade the corporation to stop selling adult magazines at its 7-11 stores.

Allen said the board also "wanted the public to know that we have no part of" the federation's efforts to pressure Southland.

"I don't think this is an appropriate use of a city park," said board member Ida Papert. "And, besides that, I'm a realist. I don't want to attack Southland. They've been too darned good to us."

Employees of American University kidnapped in Beirut

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Two Lebanese Christian employees of the kidnap-plagued American University of Beirut have been abducted, university spokesman Radwan Mawlawi said today.

He identified the pair as Semaan Gaddaa, who worked in the university hospital's admissions department, and Simon Skaff, a university librarian. Both are Christians aged in the mid-30s.

Mawlawi said Gadda was abducted Monday on his way home from Moslem West Beirut, where the university and hospital are located, to Christian East Beirut.

He was last seen near the Barbir road bridge crossing the Green Line that splits Beirut into Moslem and Christian sectors. Mawlawi gave no other details.

He said it was not known who seized the hospital aide. But he noted that university authorities have contacted the security committee, comprising representatives of the Lebanese Army and main Moslem and Christian militias, in a bid to secure his release.

Mawlawi said Skaff was apparently kidnapped by gunmen last Sunday as he traveled from East Beirut to the Moslem sector. The spokesman said it was not known who grabbed Skaff.

The kidnaps took place amid heavy sectarian fighting and a spate of car bombings. Suspicion fell on Moslem factions.

Three American University officials have been kidnapped in recent months.

They are Peter Kilburn, 60, a university librarian missing since Dec. 3 last year; hospital director David Jacobsen, 54, kidnapped May 28; and Thomas Sutherland, 53, dean of the university's agriculture faculty, abducted June 9.

All three are Americans and were believed to be held by Islamic Jihad, or Islamic Holy War, a shadowy fundamentalist Shiite Moslem group.

It is also believed to hold four other Americans and four Frenchmen. It has said it will exchange them for 17 comrades convicted in Kuwait for bombings there. Kuwait refuses to free the men.

Gunbattles continue along line

WORLD

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Gunbattles rocked central Beirut's Moslem-Christian dividing line today, and police said the death toll in the latest outbreak of civil war fighting had risen to 321.

However, the all-out artillery war that had engulfed the metropolitan area for four days ended about midnight, 11 hours after a deadline set for a Syrian-sponsored cease-fire. Today's fighting was limited to the Green Line that splits the city into Moslem and Christian sectors.

The airport, shelled four times since Monday, reopened after work crews cleared debris and repaired the damaged terminal and runways, and a jetliner of the Middle East Airlines, Lebanon's national carrier, arrived from Cyprus, airport spokesmen said.

The airport was closed Wednesday, when it was hit by 30 mortar rounds that destroyed one Boeing 727 jetliner and damaged three other planes.

Police said that 20 civilians were killed and 89 others were wounded in the six hours of shelling that preceded the cease-fire. At least 321 people have been killed and nearly 1,100 have been wounded by car bombs and shelling since Lebanon's 10-year-old war flared up again on Aug. 10.

The truce was worked out by a security committee representing Lebanon's major militias and the Lebanese army. It met under the direction of Col. Ghazi Kenaan, Syria's military intelligence chief in Lebanon, at his headquarters in eastern Lebanon's Bekaa Valley town of Chtaura.

The committee met again today in Dawar, a mountain resort town in the no-man's land of central Lebanon.

A communique said the committee will review the truce and work out a program for deploying Syrian observers on the Green Line that splits Beirut into Moslem and Christian sectors.

Prime Minister Rashid Karami, whose Cabinet met for the first time in four months on Thursday, demanded a greater Syrian military presence in Beirut.

"We demand the deployment of Syrian observers in all of Beirut, and not only on the demarcation line, to draft a comprehensive security plan and to bring stability to the capital and then to the whole of Lebanon," Karami told reporters.

The prime minister, a Sunni Moslem, decribed the artillery battles and car bombings as "acts of the devil ... for which innocents are paying the price."

There was no immediate response from Syria, which maintains an estimated 25,000 troops in northern Lebanon and the Bekaa Valley and is the main powerbroker in Lebanon.

The Syrian troops are in Lebanon under a 1976 Arab League mandate to keep the peace. The Syrians withdrew from Beirut in 1982 under the pressure of invading Israeli forces, which now have all but left Lebanon.

President Hafez Assad of Syria reportedly is concerned by the latest surge in the decade-old factional warfare that has cost the lives of at least 100,000 Lebanese.

Six blacks killed, 20 injured in Cape Province incidents

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police firing rubber bullets and shotgun blasts today battled what they called a large mob of stone-throwing blacks in northern Cape Province, killing six blacks and wounding 20, authorities said.

In Cape Town, the Rev. Allan Boesak, a leading opponent of apartheid, announced a mass march next Wednesday to the gates of Pollsmoor Prison, to demand the freeing of black leader Nelson Mandela, jailed for 21 years.

Residents of Soweto, near Johannesburg, said the army for the second day in a row was arresting youngsters who were on the streets, boycotting classes. Hundreds of parents, aided by clergymen, gathered at a main police station to locate their children, the residents said.

The Star newspaper reported without attribution that police today were holding "about 300" youngsters from Thursday's operation. Police refused to say how many they held.

The fighting that killed the six blacks appeared to be one of the bloodiest confrontations in weeks as South Africa heads toward its second year of anti-apartheid rioting that has killed more than 600 people, most all of them black. The riots began in August 1984.

The latest clashes were in a black area near Aliwal North, 316 miles south of Johannesburg, police said.

This was the second day of disturbances in the area, and police had said fighting between blacks and police left another man dead there before dawn Thursday.

A spokesman at national police headquarters in the capital of Pretoria said in a statement that the clashes were preceded by "several incidents of stone-throwing, petrol-bombing and arson."

"In a further incident, police dispersed a large mob of stone-throwers with tear smoke, rubber bullets and shotgun fire." The rubber bullets were fired from special anti-riot guns. The shotguns fired regular ammunition.

On Thursday, Boesak, a minister of the Dutch Reformed Church and president of the World Alliance of Reformed Churches, said that anti-apartheid activists planned to hold a protest that would "turn this country on its head."

Mandela, imprisoned for life after being convicted of planning sabotage, is head of the African National Congress (ANC), the main guerrilla organization fighting the white government.

Because security laws can be applied to ban most any kind of protest against the government, Boesak refused to say where the march would start.

Falwell's assessment attacked

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Foes of white minority rule said the Rev. Jerry Falwell's visit taught him little about South African race relations, and they condemned his characterization of Bishop Desmond Tutu as a phony.

Falwell said after a meeting with President P.W. Botha that South Africa was making progress, and that an end to foreign investment would lead to "unemployment, unrest, anger and bloodshed."

He did not meet with Tutu during his five-day trip to South Africa, but said when he returned to New York on Tuesday: "I think he's a phony as far as representing the blacks is concerned. He represents no one."

Tutu, the black Anglican bishop of Johannesburg who won the 1984 Nobel Peace Prize, has not responded. His office says he is away from Johannesburg on church business.

But Dan Vaughan, assistant general secretary of the South African Council of Churches, said Falwell's remark "smacks of insolence."

"For an American white to come to South Africa for a brief visit and then claim that he knows who is representative of black people in this country is about the most arrogant thing I have ever heard," Vaughan said.

The Rev. Peter Storey, the white leader of the South African Methodist Church said: "Mr. Falwell's perception of the situation here is totally inaccurate."

Later, he added: "I don't think he ever had his finger on reality in the United States. So why should he here?"

Chief Gatsha Buthelezi, leader of the South Africa's 6 million Zulus, said he agrees with Falwell about the effects of economic sanctions. But he said Falwell was wrong about Tutu, who he called "a very concerned man of the cloth."

Officials examine the British Airtours Boeing 737 which caught fire while attempting to depart a Manchester, England, airport for a Corfu holiday. More than 50 persons were killed.

Study of engines ordered

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — U.S. officials revealed today that the manufacturer of a jet engine that exploded as a Boeing 737 took off from here had been ordered last month to conduct a safety survey because of a fire in a similiar engine.

The exploding engine created a fireball that engulfed the rear of the British Airtours jet as it sped down a runway at Manchester airport on Thurday. Officials say 54 people died in the searing heat and poisonous black smoke. Eighty-three people survived.

The U.S. Federal Aviation Administration ordered Pratt & Whitney, maker of the engine, to carry out a survey of its engines after an incident in the spring involving another fire, said FAA spokesman Dennis Feldman said.

Pratt & Whitney, of East Hartford, Conn., will present the results of a month-long internal investigation to federal investigators next week, Feldman said in Washington.

He said the incident that prompted the order occurred in May, when the pilot of a Saudi Arabian jetliner was forced to abort a takeoff from Qatar after an engine failure and fire.

Air experts were expected to remove the port engine from the plane today and begin the "rigorous inquiry" promised by Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, who visited the scene of the disaster on Thursday.

Mrs. Thatcher said the probe would be carried out by the Accident Investigation Branch of the government's Department of Transport.

AIB spokesman David Deas described the cause of the disaster as "uncontained engine failure." But he added that only detailed investigation will establish exactly what happened.

He said the intense heat of the fire melted the aluminium frame of the plane but would not comment further.

After visiting survivors, Mrs. Thatcher told reporters, "It brings it home to you as nothing else can. You read about these terrible accidents, and there's something that happens on the other side of the world, and then it happens on your own doorstep, and you realize the agony that every person suffers."

Passengers trampled over each other as they tried to flee the raging flames and poisonous black smoke from burning upholstery in Thursday's disaster at Manchester airport in northern England.

The London Times quoted one of the survivors as saying: "There were loads of kids on board but everyone was trampling over everything and everybody to get out. It was like being in hell."

The disaster confirms 1985 as the world's worst year ever in civil aviation history.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Airline incidents noted

TOKYO (AP) — A series of seven incidents involving commercial aircraft in two days, including an emergency landing by one jetliner and an aborted takeoff by another, were reported today.

No injuries were reported in any of the incidents that involved six different airlines, and more than 2,200 passengers and crew at Japanese airports Thursday night and today.

The latest in the string of incidents, according to Transport Ministry officials, involved a Northwest Orient Boeing 747 jetliner that blew half of its 16 tires on landing at Tokyo New International Airport at Narita, and an Air France Boeing 747 that lost power in one of its four engines after leaving Narita. It landed safely in Osaka.

The Northwest plane's tires were so shredded that it had to be towed, forcing closure of Narita's only runway for 1 hour and 40 minutes, an official at Narita said. Other incoming flights were diverted to Haneda airport on Tokyo Bay.

The Northwest plane, Flight 001 from Los Angeles, had 403 persons aboard, and Air France Flight 274 from Paris via Anchorage, carried 162 people. It later flew back to Tokyo from Osaka without trouble, officials said.

West Bank homes hit

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israeli troops destroyed the homes of two Palestinians suspected of being terrorists and blocked off a third home in the occupied West Bank overnight, a military source said today.

The source, who spoke on condition he was not identified, said the suspects were from the village of Anabta 24 miles northeast of Tel Aviv. He said they were arrested recently and charged with killing another Palestinian and with separate shooting attacks that wounded two Israelis in 1983.

A week ago, soldiers bricked up four houses belonging to suspects in a Palestinian refugee camp near the West Bank city of Nablus.

The actions were part of a renewed government crackdown on terror attacks that in areas captured by Israel in the 1967 Mideast War. The attacks which escalated in July have claimed 10 Israeli lives since January.

Bomb threats received

HONG KONG (AP) — An anonymous caller telephoned four internationl airlines today and said bombs were planted on their planes. Police said investigations showed the bomb threats were hoaxes.

Police said United Airlines, British Airways, Japan Air Lines and Cathay Pacific Airways all were hoax targets.

One airline official, who declined to be identified, disclosed the caller demanded an unspecified amount of money or the plane will be blown up.

Police and other officials declined to give further details.

Rabin indicates buildup

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin has hinted at possible Israeli moves against what he claims is a growing Palestinian guerrilla buildup in Jordan.

In a speech at a military academy, the defense minister said:

"Week after week we see more and more terrorist elements...under the leadership of (Palestine Liberation Organization chief) Yasser Arafat arriving in Jordan, enjoying freedom of planning and initiative.

"It is better that the government of Jordan should know the meaning of giving freedom of action to these command posts today before matters reach a point where Israel won't be able to stand quietly," Rabin said.

The foreign minister, Yitzhak Shamir, was quoted on Israel radio as telling a meeting of his Herut Party that the present accord between Arafat and Hussein was a real danger and would lead to a PLO state in the heart of Israel unless resolutely opposed.

Visits agreed upon

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — South and North Korea have agreed on a plan to exchange civilian visits for the first time since the peninsula was divided 40 years ago, raising hopes of reunion for long-separated Korean families.

The visits will take place Sept. 30 to 23, South Korean Red Cross officials said Thursday.

South Korea's chief negotiator, Song Yong-dae, said each side will send 50 civilians, most from the South Korean capital of Seoul or the northern capital of Pyongyang, to the other side's capital. Each side also will send 50 artists, 30 reporters, 20 guides and the president of its Red Cross, Song said.

The agreement was reached at the third working-level meeting of the two countries' Red Cross officials in the truce village of Panmunjom, the officials said.

The exchange plan first was proposed in Red Cross talks in Seoul in May.

Nuclear lab suggested

ERICE, Sicily (AP) — The director of an international symposium on ways to prevent nuclear war is calling for a "world laboratory" where nuclear research can be shared.

"The basic principle of the world laboratory would be research without secrets, so that current and future generations could work towards a future with world freedom and world peace," said Antonio Zichichi, the organizer of the fifth International Seminar on Nuclear War.

He made his remarks Thursday in a speech at the five-day conference, which began Monday.

Attending the symposium are 53 scientists from 12 countries, including Nobel Prize winner Edward Teller, the Hungarian-born U.S. nuclear physicist who developed the hydrogen bomb.

A delegation from the Soviet Union turned down an invitation.

Earth station opened

MAZOWE, Zimbabwe (AP) — Prime Minister Robert Mugabe on Thursday officially opened a Japanese-built Earth station, ending Zimbabwe's dependence on neighboring South Africa for telephone and telex links to the outside world.

The $7.24 million station at Mazowe near Harare directly hooks up Zimbabwe communications via satelite for the first time.

Previously, all international telex and telephone calls were routed through South Africa.

Mugabe said Thursday that communications connection had been "subject to interference and eavesdropping" by South Africa. He did not elborate.

South Africa remains Zimbabwe's main trading partner and is the landlocked black state's chief rail and road link to external markets.

Bus wreck kills about 40

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) — A bus plunged into a river Thursday, killing at least 40 passengers in Gopalganj, 90 miles southwest of Dhaka, a police official said.

The official said the bus was carrying 70 passengers, including 10 women and six children. It fell from a bridge into the Kumar River.

Police said 30 people survived the accident by swimming from the bus before it sank.

Statue of Liberty's flame may go on barn storming tour

NEW YORK (AP) — The Statue of Liberty's flame, beacon of hope and symbol of opportunity for millions of desperate immigrants, occupies a similar place in the hearts of fundraisers who want to send it on a national barnstorming tour to aid the statue's restoration.

The National Park Service and Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Foundation are considering sending the flame, which was removed from the statue's right arm last year, to state fairs, race tracks, amusement parks and special events.

But park service officials are concerned about how the flame, which greeted millions of travelers in New York Harbor, would hold up on such a journey.

"Our concerns are twofold: that it be protected from physical damage during moving and from people," said Charles Clapper, park service assistant regional commissioner.

How fragile is the flame? "It's made of copper stripwork and yellow cathedral glass. That tells the whole story," said Henning Nielsen, spokesman for the foundation.

"It's old, and it wasn't designed to be moved around on a truck or on a plane," Clapper said. "When it was moved to California (in January for the Tournament of Roses Parade) a couple of pieces of glass were broken. To me, that says it's pretty fragile."

Any tour would be designed to raise money for the $230 million restoration of the statue and the Ellis Island immigration station. "That's the only reason we're even considering" approval, said Clapper.

Last weekend the flame appeared at the Travers Stakes horse race in Saratoga, N.Y. It was lifted onto a barge and floated up the Hudson River to Albany, where it was transferred onto a flat-bed truck and driven to the track.

The trip was not announced beforehand, and the flame was protected en route by park rangers and state troopers.

The flame began its career on the road, appearing atop Liberty's right arm at the Philadelphia Centennial Exposition of 1876. The arm and torch later were displayed in Manhattan's Madison Square Park before the statue was assembled in New York Harbor.

William Fugazy, chairman of the state Statue of Liberty Commission, said despite the park service's worries about the flame's fragility, "our congressmen will see to it that (a tour) is done."

He said his plans for a state tour — in which the flame would ride on a barge, visiting communities along the Hudson River and the Erie Canal — had the support of U.S. Sen. Alfonse D'Amato and Chrysler Chairman Lee Iacocca, who is chairman of the national foundation.

Fugazy said there had been requests for the flame at "all kinds of events," including horse races and state fairs. "Everyone wants the flame," he said. "Disney World wants it. (Sports promoter) Sonny Werblin wants it. (New Jersey Gov.) Tom Kean wants it."

Nielsen declined to discuss specific tour proposals, saying only that there have been a number of requests and that some are in negotiations.

A source at the American Express Co. who requested anonymity said the company has been discussing a 50-state tour of the flame for several months.

PACE Concerts back another Texxas Jam

DALLAS (AP) — To a concert promoter, staging a stadium show is a gamble that can pay off big money if the show is a sellout.

But along with the chance for big money comes organizational headaches of staging the show and the possiblity of financial diaster if enough tickets are not sold.

A case in point is the 1985 Texxas Jam concert set for Saturday at the Cotton Bowl.

PACE Concerts president Louis Messina is backing the concert once again — this time with $1 million. PACE needs to sell 60,000 tickets to make a 10 percent profit.

Last year, only 30,000 tickets had been sold in advance to the Texxas Jam, while Messina needed to sell more than 50,000 tickets just to break even.

"Louis went into the day losing a half million dollars," recalled radio station KTXQ-FM program director Andy Lockridge.

The day of the show, 20,000 people walked up to purchase tickets. The concert was not a financial fiasco, but it still didn't bring Messina any monetary rewards for his work.

And Messina had vowed to "never do another Texxas Jam."

But the concert promoter is back to try and turn a profit.

"I'm like an aging baseball player who thinks he has one season left in him," he said.

The key to a successful stadium concert is securing the talent that can sell the show, Messina said.

But since "Bruce Springsteen is the only person who can fill a stadium," a promoter must book a combination of acts to draw a crowd and keep it entertained.

Saturday's lineup includes Deep Purple, the Scorpions, Night Ranger, Ted Nugent, Bon Jovi, Grim Reaper and Victory. Together, the groups will command a salary of $450,000 plus a percentage of the gate.

And although PACE's gate revenue will amount to $1.1 million if it sells 60,000 tickets to this year's Jam, entertainment expenses are only half the bills PACE will have to pay before taking its share.

Rental for the Cotton Bowl is roughly $100,000 based on a share of the gate.

Sound, lights and production will cost an estimated $71,000, and rental of the five-story stage another $60,000.

The backstage crew, which begins small to set up the backstage facilities and fence in advance, will swell to 200 the day of the concert and cost $50,000.

Stadium workers — the folks who man the gates, medical stations, security posts and clean up — will cost $150,000.

Advertising, insurance and support services all siphon off a share, too, Messina said. The cost of about $1 million must be recouped in tickets which sell for $20 apiece.

"The overhead is the same whether 40,000 people show up or 80,000 people show up," Messina said, explaining why a big show is so risky.

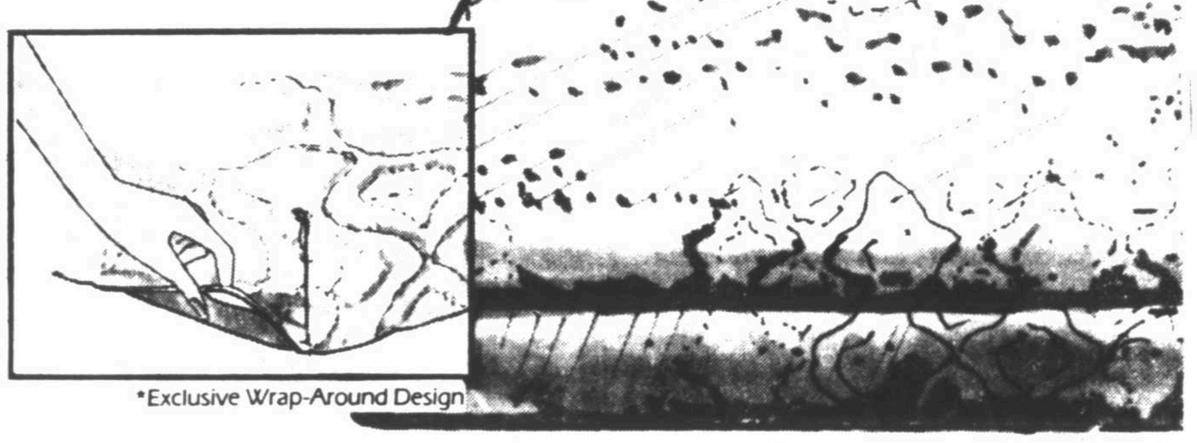

To even the odds, Stroh Brewery Co. is the corporate sponsor this year. In return for promotion, they help with costs. The brewery uses the concert to get its message to young consumers, despite the fact that beer is not sold inside the Cotton Bowl during the event.

Sales of T-shirts, posters and other "rock paraphernalia" could bring more than $500,000, estimated Ed Campbell, concessionaire. Each person in attendance should spend an average of $9, he said.

A crowd of 60,000, he said, would spend about $270,000 on food and soft drinks as well. Vendors are expected to sell more than 50,000 gallons of soft drinks and 50,000 hot dogs during the Texxas Jam.

Family feels condemned for son's spy crime

Copley News Service

Woke up this morning with a tear in my eye,
Six walls, no window and a cold iron door,
Not much to ask for and nothing more.
Take me home, I want to go home.
— Lyrics by Brian Boyce from a song he wrote for his brother Christopher.

CNB Graphic

LOS ANGELES — Brian Boyce pursed his lips, grabbed the falcon perch and playfully tossed it to the ground.

The perch lodged in the grass, vibrating in the gentle breeze drifting through the back yard of the Boyce family's former home.

"I'm keeping this," Brian said, with defiant eyes. "It's a relic. It's Christopher's."

The metal perch was one of the few remnants the Boyce family left behind when they moved from their suburban Rancho Palos Verdes home to the Pacific Northwest recently, partially to escape the tormenting memories of Christopher John Boyce — the all-American boy turned infamous spy.

Since Chris, an avid falconer, was convicted of espionage eight years ago, vicious gossip has haunted the Boyce family. The public has tormented, judged and condemned his parents and eight brothers and sisters solely on the actions of Chris, said an embittered 20-year-old Brian, one of the only family members to ever discuss his family's anguish.

SHORTLY AFTER Chris was arrested, Brian was yanked out of his sixth-grade classroom and taken home, where his mother was crying and men with guns in their belts were rummaging through his brother's belongings.

Brian, then 12, demanded that the men leave. He didn't realize they were federal agents.

It was a traumatic and unnerving moment for the devout Catholic family when they learned Chris, code-named "Falcon," had been arrested for betraying his country by selling satellite secrets to the Soviets through his boyhood chum, Andrew Daulton Lee.

"I didn't understand," said Brian, while smoking a cigarette during an interview. "I'm sure we all blame ourselves. We don't really talk about it. Once Chris got in trouble, that was enough trouble for our lifetimes."

After the arrest, the Boyce home on the affluent Palos Verdes peninsula swarmed with friends and neighbors who tried to lessen the family's pain and humiliation.

FOR SEVERAL WEEKS, Brian and his two brothers — the youngest children in the family — were taken out of school. When they returned, friends had turned into enemies and the Boyce children underwent a siege of merciless taunting. "Pinko," "Communist," "Red" were favorite labels, Brian said. Occasionally, a schoolmate would spit in one of their faces or threaten them with physical harm.

Then there were the fights, the whispered remarks and the vandals who painted the Boyce garage, tore out the mailbox on several occasions and threw eggs at the house, he said.

"We were outcasts," Brian said. "I feel like I was marked. I have a big thumbprint on my forehead."

The Boyce anguish returns every time Chris captures the country's attention — from his spy trial, to his escape from a Lompoc, Calif., prison, to his recapture in the state of Washington, to his second trial on escape and bank robbery charges, to his testimony before a Senate subcommittee.

His story resurfaces constantly in books, magazines, newspapers, television shows and even as a movie, forcing family members to look back at the years when Chris was not only untainted, but considered brilliant, witty and popular.

THROUGH THOSE YEARS of reminders, Brian has formed a tough edge to his personality, an edge he projects to anyone who taunts him about Chris. When he gets angry, he often chooses not to hide it.

"I get mad when anybody gives me a hard time about Chris, or anyone in my family," he said. "I'm protective of my family."

A friendlier, but sometimes cocky and idealistic side of Brian appears when he talks about his music, his friends and one of his goals — becoming a police officer.

"I've got my country and I'll fight and die for my country," said Brian, whose flattop haircut, blue eyes and squarish face resemble Chris. "I'll fight and die for my family. I'm a Republican and proud."

Handcuffed and surrounded by guards, Chris was escorted into a room to see anxious family members at the Federal Correctional Institute at Terminal Island.

Brian couldn't bring himself to look at his brother, he knew Chris didn't want him there. But he will never forget the look on his father's face.

"My God, to see the pain on my dad's face looking at Chris shackled up like a damn dog with rabies. It's not right. It's not fair."

TO BRIAN, the Boyce family began crumbling with Chris locked behind bars.

The three younger brothers fought among each other, Brian said. His five sisters grew up, some married and all moved away. Discussions of Chris — a subject his father routinely avoided — simply were tabled.

"I don't blame Chris for anything," Brian said. "I resent the fact he's gone now. (My parents) had high expectations of Christopher. They were proud. They still are. They don't love him any less.

"What I really miss is his laughter. I miss the laughter."

Brian fantasizes of the day when Chris will return. The two, he said, will wander down to the beach, watch the waves slap against the shore and go sailing in the vast expanses of the Pacific.

He often spends restless moments pondering over the "what-ifs": What if Chris were married now instead of in prison? What if he had children? What if he were a rock 'n' roll star? What if this hadn't happened to his family?

Despite the love he expresses for his brother, sometimes Brian wishes Chris had been killed in a car accident rather than convicted of espionage, a prison escape and bank robberies.

CERTAINLY, LIFE WOULD be more tolerable for the Boyce family than having the 32-year-old spy locked away for life, Brian said.

When the movie "The Falcon and the Snowman" was released in January, Brian's father, Charles, refused to see it. But Brian and his brother, Michael, who rarely got along, chose to attend the Hollywood premiere of the film about their brother.

After reliving the story another time, the two brothers broke down, sobbing on each other's shoulder. Michael, 19, whispered: "'I don't want to be here. Why did we come?'" Brian said.

"It scared me," Brian said. "There I was, watching everything my brother (Chris) did. It's just another brick wall I have to climb over to get on with my life."

The Boyce family life has remained largely private because his father implored everyone not to talk with reporters. Until now, that warning was breached only once — when Brian's oldest sister, Kathleen, talked to the media.

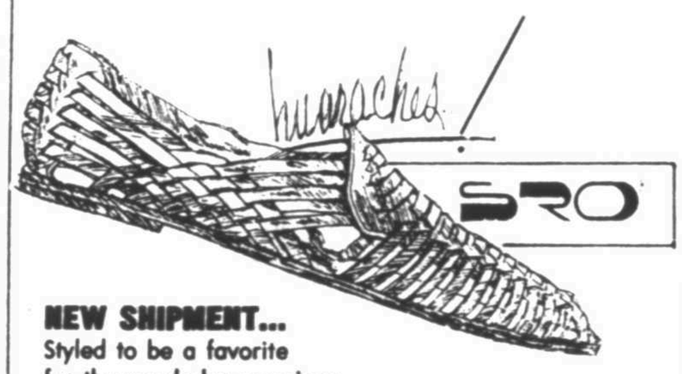

A prideful Brian says he violated his father's rule after years of silence because he has a message.

"I hope the point will benefit all. You can't make a family guilty for what one family member does. Just because Christopher John Boyce committed a horrible crime, we are not bad people.

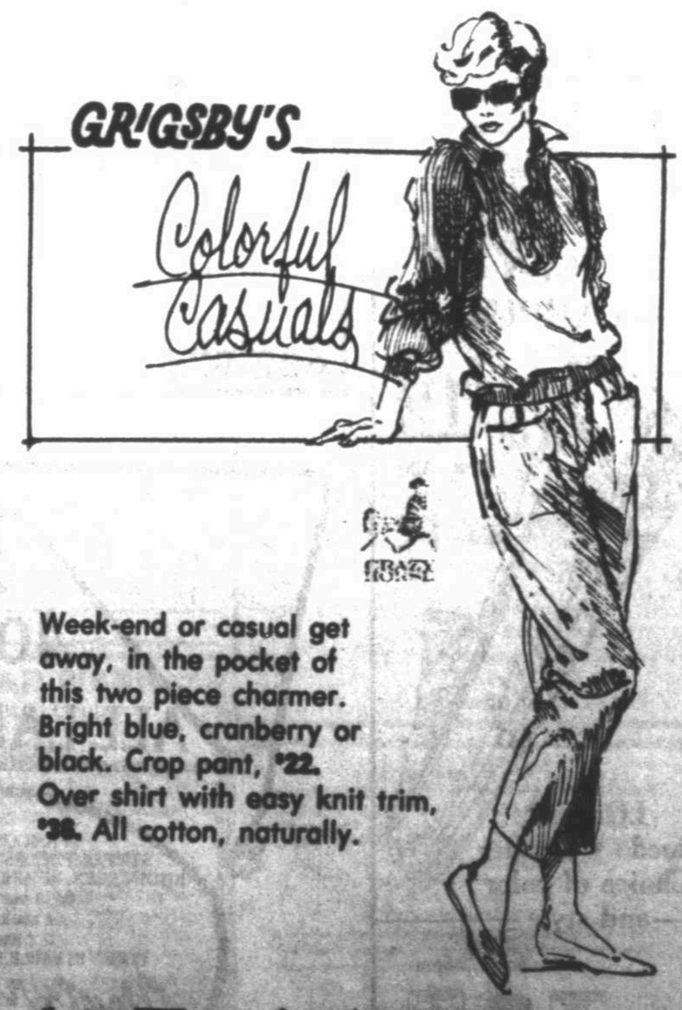

"You can't condemn the family. Pain goes away. Humiliation stays a long time."

Stutterers fight ridicule along with their handicap

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR READERS: My attention has been called to a handicap that afflicts millions of people, but because it isn't life-threatening in the physical sense, it is minimized. It's the only handicap I know of that is openly ridiculed and made the butt of jokes. It's stuttering.

People who stutter are terrified to answer a telephone, speak up in a classroom, apply in person for a job, ask for a date, order in a restaurant, etc.

Because stutterers are afraid to talk, they are thought to be less intelligent than the average person. Some famous people who were stutterers, but overcame it: Thomas Jefferson, Charles Darwin, Jack Paar and Anthony Quinn, to name a few.

When a stutterer stutters, here's what NOT to do: Don't insert words, or finish phrases for the stutterer. Don't say, "Just think before you speak, and don't talk so fast." These seemingly helpful suggestions don't work.

What can help? There's a National Stuttering Project composed of members who form self-help groups in every state. I have seen their materials and newsletters, and recommend them highly.

For information about this organization, write to: National Stuttering Project, 1269 Seventh Ave., San Francisco, Calif. 94122. Please enclose a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

DEAR ABBY: I have not been married very long and I need to know how to handle this:

My husband is a very good-looking man who gets a lot of attention from the ladies. His job (bartending) puts him on display, so to speak, where he can meet a lot of attractive women. Some of them get friendly when they're half-loaded, which is very handy for him because he doesn't have to pay to get them drunk. He also works late hours, which doesn't help our marriage. He should get home by 2 a.m. but sometimes he's not home until 5 or 6. I think he's cheating on me.

Well, I found a strange set of keys in his pocket, so I took them and hid them. I see him going crazy looking for those keys but I don't say anything. I would like to know whose keys they are.

Should I ask him? You can print this. He never reads your column. — NEEDS HELP

DEAR NEEDS: Don't ask him whose keys they are. A man who cheats will also lie.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WORRIED IN DICKINSON, TEXAS: You have good reason to worry. According to the Mayo Clinic Health Letter: "Cigarette smoking greatly increases your chances of acquiring bladder cancer. Cigarette smokers acquire bladder cancer two to five times more frequently than non-smokers. The hazard increases with the number of cigarettes you smoke daily and the number of years you continue the habit."

(Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send your name and address clearly printed with a check or money order for $2.50 and a long, stamped (39 cents) self-addressed envelope to: Dear Abby, Letter Booklet, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038.)

Mom's job satisfaction quiet

By ERMA BOMBECK

A reader who signs herself "35, childless and happily married for 10 years" offers a theory as to why young people are putting off having babies.

The reason, she said, is simple, "We listened to our parents.

"When we were kids and visited a home where there were velvet drapes, glass coffee tables and white bathroom towels, Mama always said, 'Why not? They don't have kids.'

"When we turned the dining room into a fort, Mama would shake her head and say, 'This house will never look like anything as long as I have kids.'

"Whenever we rode the city bus, she'd look wistfully at a woman driving in a nice clean car and we didn't have to be told it was because the woman didn't have kids.

"Lecture No. 1 was always about the babies that cost more money and time than you have, what a huge responsibility they were and how it was the hardest job in the world."

Are you still listening?

Good. Because here's lecture No. 2.

Did you hear your mother's tears the day you were born? That's too bad. Because never before nor since has your mother known such joy. For a while she could not speak to anyone about it. She just played with your fingers and tried to memorize every feature of your face to savor the moment.

Did you hear her smile the day on the bus when she looked at the woman in the car and thought, "Lady, I wouldn't trade you even for what I've got."

Did you hear her prayers the night you had the asthma attack and she was threatened with the loss of something she could not bear to even think of living without?

Did you hear her pride whenever you got an award for anything or appeared in a play as a bad tooth or ran faster, sang loudest or said, "Thank you" without being told?

Did you hear what was in her heart when you graduated and she sat in the darkness and shared the moment when your name was called?

You listened. But some real emotions don't make a lot of noise. It's hard to hear pride. Caring is real faint — like a heartbeat. And pure pleasure from doing your job ... why some days it's so quiet you don't even know it's there.

You asked if I was sure I really wanted grandchildren. Was I ready for spit-ups on my cashmere? An all-night bout with high fever and waiting in line for Cabbage Patch dolls?

I'm not only ready for them, but a day won't go by without my complaining about them, criticizing their upbringing and their lack of discipline and pointing out how much they cost and what a royal pain they are. I hope my grandchildren not only listen to me and appreciate me more ... but occasionally look at me — and see what I am really saying.

Bullies more likely to become adult lawbreakers

CHICAGO (AP) — The class bully who terrorized his peers on the playground has about a one-in-four chance of having a criminal record by the age of 30, researchers say.

These findings demonstrate that physically aggressive boys are likely to have a criminal conviction or a record of drivers' violations as adults, said Leonard Eron, a psychology professor at the University of Illinois-Chicago.

The risk of other children having criminal records as adults is about one in 20, said Eron.

The study, which began with 875 third-graders in Columbia County, N.Y., in 1960, also has found that women who were aggressors as children were more likely to severely punish their children.

"Kids learn a certain way of behaving and solving problems," Eron said in a recent telephone interview. "It sticks with them. They don't lose that kind of (aggressive) behavior."

Eron said the one-in-four chance of becoming an adult law-breaker was determined by analyzing factors such as how punitive the parents were, whether they rejected their children and the amount of violence the children saw on television.

Researchers traced the children through adulthood — interviewing more than half of them at age 19 and 30 — and also talked to their spouses and children.

Eron hopes to interview the participants again in 1990.

He and his associate, Rowell Huesmann, found that patterns for aggressive behavior are set before the age of 8.

He said there are three ideal conditions for learning aggression: seeing examples of it, including television; being rewarded for acting in that fashion and being an object of aggressions. Aggressive children often have parents who punish them harshly, Eron added.

"You come to think this is the normal way of doing things," he said. "This is the way to solve problems."

The study found that physically aggressive boys — those who pushed and shoved their peers and took others' belongings — had a much higher than normal rate of breaking the law as adults, ranging from criminal trespass to assault with a weapon.

"A kid who grows up in an environment where he's rewarded for aggression and has a lot of opportunity to observe (it), and is frustrated a lot ... grows up to have a record," Eron said.

These boys also tended to be abusive to their wives and were demons on the road, using their cars to vent their anger, impatiently honking their horns in rush-hour traffic, swerving around other cars and driving while intoxicated, Eron said.

It's "a way of expressing impulsive kinds of behavior," he said. "It's acting without reflecting."

Planning eases back-to-school transition

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — With the start of school, attention is focused on children and their adjustment to the classroom. But parents need to realize that the transition from summer vacation to school days can disrupt the whole family, says Dr. Gregory W. Brock, a family therapist.

Brock, director of the Marriage and Family Therapy Program at United States International University here, believes that parents and children can better weather the transition if the negative hassles are minimized.

"All of a sudden when the school year starts, the belt of routine tightens around the neck; a little planning can loosen the belt a bit," says Brock, who has been a practicing marriage and family therapist for 12 years and is a clinical member and approved supervisor of the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy.

He offers parents these suggestions, which he says can help both them and their children cope with the annual transition from leisure to a more regulated life and speed the adjustment period:

- If possible, start children on the necessary bedtime and morning routines a week before school begins. In any case, be firm about the bedtime requirements during the early weeks of school, rather than allowing later summer bedtimes to continue once school begins.
- Help your children break the snack habit by sticking with regular mealtimes and limiting snacks on weekends, because after the school year starts children don't have the freedom to nibble at odd times.
- Wait a week or two after school starts before going on a shopping spree. That way children will be able to choose clothes that they will feel good about wearing on a regular basis instead of clothes designed for the first day of school.
- If your children are at a new school this year, take time to go to the school yourself to visit and to meet the teachers.
- Try to be organized with car pools, the time children are to leave for school if they walk, and routines for buying or bringing lunches.
- Parents should arrange their own schedules the first weeks of school to allow time to talk to children about their day.

Brock urges parents to ask children specific questions about their experiences, rather than just an open question such as "What did you learn today?"

Visitors and delegates to the 111th annual National Woman's Christian Temperance Union convention look over reading material in Oklahoma City Thursday.

National temperance union calls 'alcohol' four-letter word

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Prohibition, which lasted 14 years, was a success and could be one again, says the vice president of the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.

The WCTU continues to look forward to the day when alcohol is a four-letter word in America — gone — said Merry Lee Christy of Rivesville, W. Va. "We feel like total abstinence is the only way.

"Statistics proved that the crime rate fell drastically (during the 1919-1933 Prohibition), that families came together. Prohibition failed because it was not enforced, and it's a fact that money talked.

"The only way to bring prohibition back...is if we educate our young people that it's OK not to drink. We're not going around telling them, 'You don't drink.' We're telling them why they shouldn't, what happens to people who drink."

Films, coloring books and leaflets distributed to the nation's schools by the non-profit organization help tell those stories, Martha Edgar, national president, said Thursday at the WCTU's 111th national convention.

"We're concentrating on the young people," Mrs. Edgar said. "Our whole program is educational.

"In Connecticut, the state sent 163,000 pieces of our literature out to the schools last year. We're making great strides in educating our youngsters about the dangers of alcohol and tobacco. One of our aims is to teach a whole generation of young people that it's perfectly all right to not drink alcoholic beverages."

The temperance union has long been chastised as a group of "little old ladies" preaching about the evils of liquor. But Mrs. Edgar said that image has changed and the public realizes "that what we've been saying for the last 100 years is true."

Mrs. Edgar, of Evanston, Ill., applauded the work of groups such as Mothers Against Drunk Drivers and Students Against Driving Drunk, which have worked to reduce the number of drinkers on America's highways. But she said the temperance union takes its message one step further.

"They just go so far," she said. "We are for prevention...and these groups are for moderation."

Alcohol consumption has decreased in recent years for a couple of reasons, Mrs. Edgar said. "I think the public is just alarmed about the alcohol problems in our country. I think there is a fear of the problems alcohol brings. Also, there is a whole change in our lifestyle. People now are going to health drinks and keeping fit more than they ever have before."

Grime Fighter Games sweep teens into organized anti-litter dynamos

BOSTON (AP) — The defending champs held onto the Golden Broom award in the Olympic games of teen-age cleanup crews, but it was hardly a clean sweep.

A Massachusetts Department of Public Works team swept, shoveled and bagged its way to first place Thursday in the second annual Grime Fighter Games.

A New York City Parks Council crew placed a close second, dazzling spectators at the downtown plaza with their virtuosity in twirling a 55-gallon red-white-and-blue trash barrel without overturning it in a relay race.

The competition brought together 288 youths aged 14 through 21, some from as far as Washington to demonstrate the importance of cleaning up. It also gave many of the kids a chance to visit another city, something they could not have afforded on their own.

"It's a good job for any kid. It's fun just working," said Dan Cunningham, 20, of Boston, one of two returning members of the five-person team that won. "You meet with other kids, plus you get a few bucks in your pocket."

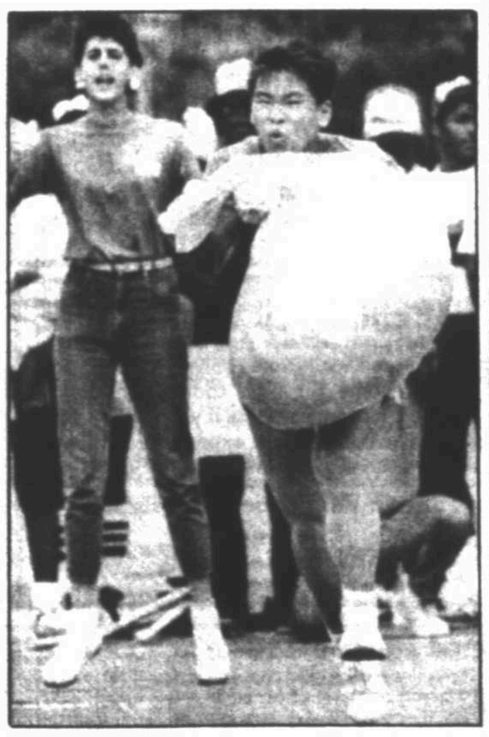

The 50-meter barrel roll was only one of six events combining cleanliness and dexterity. The others were:

The five-way hand pick, which entailed collecting crushed cans in a garbage bag; 100-meter push-broom relay, in which crews swept a crushed soda can over an uneven brick surface; 50-meter shovel carry, requiring balancing a sack of trash on two shovels in a relay race; 100-meter bag shovel, in which cleaners carried 25-pound bags of crushed cans in another relay; and four-way bag-fill, calling for a precise sweep-scoop-shovel-hold method with crushed soda cans.

The games reward top workers, said Lisa Block, director of the New York program. "We think it's a cap to the summer for those who earned it. These kids come from low-income families. They never would be able to come visit another city. They're thrilled and it really makes a difference."

Damon Propst, 16, of New York, said he thinks more youths will want to join the city's program after he tells them about his trip "'cause they'll know about our experience and they're going to want to work at it."

The games, which began last year when 220 youths primarily from Massachusetts competed, are intended to motivate cleanup programs nationwide, said Steve Biondolillo, National Grime Fighter Association director.

Florida faces waste clean-up crisis

MIAMI (AP) — Although it is rimmed by clear waters and sunny beaches, Florida is afflicted with some of the most extensive and serious toxic waste problems in the country.

Explosive, unchecked growth, a fragile ecology and decades of discarding toxins as casually as old newspapers all have contributed to the state's environmental degradation, officials say.

Thirty-five sites in Florida have made the Environmental Protection Agency's Superfund list, the EPA's national priority ranking for cleanup of hazardous waste sites.

Only five states have more listings. Four of them — New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Michigan — are Northern industrial states with a history of 150 years of heavy manufacturing. The fifth is California, the nation's most populous state.

In addition, state officials have identified 402 other locations that could or already do pose a danger to public health and the environment.

"A big part of the problem was our ignorance in handling these materials," said Victoria Tschinkel, head of the state's Department of Environmental Regulation.

Florida has no permanent disposal sites for toxic waste. It recycles some materials such as motor oil and transports the most dangerous wastes to dump sites in Alabama and South Carolina. It won't complete its own multipurpose facility to store, treat or dispose of waste until the early 1990s.

The state's sandy soil and a reliance on high ground water tables complicates the cleanup process.

"When you dump toxins in Florida, it's pretty much the equivalent of pumping them straight into the water supply," said John Ruddell, DER's chief of operations.

Here are some examples of Florida's problems:

— Five Superfund sites sit directly above the Biscayne Aquifer, water source for 3 million south Floridians. In one case, more than 1 million gallons of petroleum solvent polluted parts of the aquifer lying beneath Miami International Airport. Dozens of sites in Dade and Broward counties also are believed to be polluting the aquifer, which is only a few feet below the surface.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
Project No. S 141-85
Sealed proposals, addressed to the Mayor and City Council of the City of Midland, Texas, for the furnishing of materials and labor and the construction of 2800 L.F. 12" PVC Sanitary Sewers and eleven (11) manholes; will be received at the office of the City Secretary, City Hall, Midland, Texas, until 3:00 p. m. on the 3rd day of September, 1985. Bids will be publicly opened and read aloud at that time. Any bid received after closing time as stated above will be returned unopened.
Bid envelopes shall be plainly marked "Proposal for Project No. S 141-85 Garfield Relief Outfall Sewer.
Information for bidders, proposal forms, specifications and plans are on file in the office of the City Engineer, Fifth floor of the City Hall, 300 North Loraine, Midland, Texas, and may be secured upon a deposit for FIFTY DOLLARS ($50) for each set as a guaranty of safe return of the plans and specifications. The full amount of the deposit will be returned to the contractor on submission of bid on the work, with such plans and specifications; or upon return of the plans and specifications immediately after the examination of same and advising the City Engineer that no bid will be submitted; otherwise the deposit for same shall be forfeited.
A bid bond or proposal guaranty is to accompany the bid, thereby guaranteeing the good faith of the bidder and that the bidder will enter into the written contract. The guaranty is to amount to five percent (5%) of the total bid and must be in the form of cash or certified check, issued by a bank satisfactory to the City of Midland, or a bid bond. If in the form of cash or certified check, it is expersly understood and agreed that the City of Midland is given the right to retain such as liquidated damages if such bidder withdraws its bid anytime after such bid is opened and before official rejection of such bid, or if successful in securing the award thereof, such bidder fails to enter into the contract and furnish satisfactory performance and payment bonds. If a bid bond is submitted, it shall be executed on forms contained in these contract documents by a corporate surety authorized to do business in the State of Texas, and acceptable to the City of Midland.
The City of Midland, Texas, reserves the right to accept or reject any or all proposals or bids, to waive technicalities, and to make any investigation deemed necessary concerning the bidder's ability to perform the work covered by the plans and specifications, to award this bid by items and to accept what in the judgment of the Mayor and City Council is the most advantageous bid.

SANITARY SEWER IMPROVEMENTS
PERMIAN ESTATES
SEWER LINE INTERCONNECT
Sealed proposals addressed to the Honorable Mayor and City Council of the City of Midland, Texas, will be received at the office of the City Secretary, City Hall, Midland, Texas, until 3:00 P.M., September 3, 1985, for installing 12-inch approved type sewer pipe, manholes, reconnecting sewer services, jack and bore, and for furnishing and installing other necessary materials, machinery, equipment, superintendence and labor for constructing certain sanitary sewer improvements for the City of Midland, Texas. Immediately following the time for receipt for bids, proposals will be publicly opened and read aloud. Any bid received after closing time will be returned unopened.
The principal items of work are as follows: furnish and install approximately 1,660 linear feet of 12-inch approved type sewer pipe, rock bedding, jack and bore with 20-inch welded steel casing pipe, 9 manholes, remove and replace 480 S.Y. of pavement, interconnects, reconnect existing service sewers, appurtenances and miscellaneous items of construction.
Bidders must submit a Cashier's or Certified Check issued by a bank satisfactory to the Owner, or a Bid Bond from a reliable Surety Company, payable without recourse to the order of the City of Midland, Texas, in an amount not less than five percent (5%) of the largest possible bid submitted as a guaranty that the Bidder will enter into a contract and execute bonds and guaranty in the forms provided within ten (10) days after notice of award of contract to him. Bids without the required Check or Bid Bond will not be considered.
The successful Bidder must furnish a Performance Bond and Payment Bond on the forms provided in the amount of 100% of the total contract price from a Surety Company holding a permit from the State of Texas to act as Surety, or other Surety or Sureties acceptable to the Owner.
All lump sum and unit prices must be stated in both script and figures. The Owner reserves the right to reject any or all bids and to waive formalities, and to accept the bid which seems most advantageous to the City's interest. In case of ambiguity or lack of clearness instating the prices in the bids, the Owner reserves the right to consider the most advantageous construction thereof, or to reject the bid.
Attention is called to the provisions of the Acts of the 43rd Legislature of the State of Texas, page 91, Chapter 45, (Article 5159A Civil Statutes 1925) concerning the wage scale and payment of prevailing rates of wages as established by the Owner. Said scale or prevailing minimum rates of wages is set forth in the specifications.
Information for Bidders, proposal forms, and specifications are on file in the office of the Director of Public Works, City Hall, 300 N. Loraine, Midland, Texas, 79701 and in the office of Parkhill, Smith & Cooper, Inc., Consulting Engineers, 5214 Thomason Drive, Midland, Texas, 79703, phone (915) 697-1447.
Copies of the plans and specifications may be secured at the office of Parkhill, Smith & Cooper, Inc., Consulting Engineers, 5214 Thomason Drive, Midland, Texas 79703, (915) 697-1447, upon receipt of a $50.00 deposit as a guarantee of the safe return of the plans and specifications. The full amount of the deposit will be returned if a bona fide bid is submitted and the Plans and Specifications are returned within ten (10) days after receipt of bids, or in case no bid is submitted, if Plans and Specifications are returned on or before date of receipt of bids; otherwise, the deposit will be forfeited.
