NO REASON TO SMILE — President Carter has a glum look on his face as he listens through earphones to the speech of Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin today at the Knesset, or parliament. Carter earlier had told the lawmakers that the leaders of Israel and Egypt were not willing to take risks for peace in the Mideast. (AP Laserphoto)

Leaders Huddle To Save Treaty

JERUSALEM (AP) — President Carter delayed his departure from Israel today after making what Prime Minister Menachem Begin called "great progress" in the his quest for an Egytpian-Israeli peace treaty.

The Israeli government press office announced the departure delay, but did not say when Carter would leave.

The announcement came amid fast-moving developments after Begin held an afternoon meeting with U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance and Carter's national security adviser, Zbigniew Brzezinski.

Begin said "a number of problems still remain."

But he was optimistic about prospects for a settlement.

He said neither he nor Vance knew what would happen in the coming hours, but a shuttle by Vance between Jerusalem and Cairo was one possibility.

Begin's spokesman, Dan Pattir, said some issues had been resolved since Carter arrived in Israel on Saturday after two days in Egypt with President Anwar Sadat.

Earlier, Carter had told Israel's parliament, the Knesset, that negotiating efforts had fallen short of an Egyptian-Israeli treaty and that more flexibility is needed.

After hearing the results of an all-night Israeli cabinet meeting, the U.S. president told members of the parliament that leaders of Israel and Egypt are not yet ready to risk a peace treaty, although their people are now ready for peace:

Carter emphasized the words "people" and "now." Begin told reporters: "We must all be patient."

Vance then went into session with Begin and key members of the Israeli cabinet, and Begin said later "real progress was made, and I'm very happy about it."

He said "great progress" came on Palestinian issues, but that other issues remained to be negotiated.

Meanwhile, Israeli radio reported that Carter would remain in Jerusalem through Tuesday, extending his visit another day. Reporters also saw Air Force One, the president's aircraft, towed away from the tarmac at Ben Gurlon airport, a sign that no flight was imminent.

Carter was tentatively scheduled to return to Washington Monday night. On Sunday U.S. and Israeli officials said he probably would stay another day, an encouraging sign. But Monday Carter said he wasn't sure when he would leave.

The officials originally held out hope that a treaty could be initialed before the president's return, but Begin said after the Knesset speech that he doubted if all issues could be worked out within 24 hours.

At dawn Begin said that his cabinet had made "reasonable" decisions on Egyptian peace terms during their 6½-hour session.

Officials said the Israelis had agreed to discuss a compromise plan on linking a treaty to fulfillment of Begin's promise to set up self-ruling authorities for Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza.

The proposal calls for moving more quickly on setting up Palestinian autonomy in the Gaza Strip than on the occupied West Bank.

Stennis, Byrd Seek Balanced Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — A proposed constitutional amendment to require a balanced federal budget was denounced in Congress today as "another level of folly" and praised as the only way to restore "fiscal responsibility" in government.

A clash over the merits of writing a budget-balancing requirement into the Constitution took place at a hearing before the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on the Constitution.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., the subcommittee chairman who previously had taken no position on the proposal, made clear he has serious doubts about the wisdom of a constitutional amendment. Five of the seven subcommittee members favor a budget-balancing amendment.

Bayh warned against "thinking that problems concerning fiscal restraint and economic well-being of this nation can be solved by the quick fix and easy cure."

Bayh made clear he has no intention of acting quickly on any of the proposed amendments. Eleven have been introduced in the Senate and 65 in the House.

"We should not race precipitously into a thicket of economic and constitutional confusion," Bayh said.

Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., testified that the Constitution "should not be tinkered with or amended except for most compelling reasons. However, the financial history of this nation for the past 25 years and my strong sense of fiscal responsibility compel me to propose the amendment."

Stennis, a senior member of the Senate Appropriations Committee, supported an amendment that would require automatic imposition of an income tax surtax to raise money to eliminate any deficit in the previous fiscal year and thus balance the budget.

Stennis' proposed requirement would be waived in time of emergency by a three-fourths vote of the House and Senate.

Stennis strongly opposed the movement to convene a constitutional convention to deal with the issue. "I am both alarmed and frightened by the very prospect," he said.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Ind-Va., said that while he has always campaigned for a balanced budget he has not supported writing such a requirement into the Constitution.

Now, he said, he has reluctantly joined the move for an amendment. "I see no other way to achieve fiscal responsibility in the federal government," Byrd said.

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, opposed amending the Constitution.

"The rush is on to impose a poorly thought-through and badly constructed restraint on the Congress of the United States," said Muskie. "That is disturbing enough.

"But to insist on writing such a blunder into the American Constitution is another level of folly."

Muskie said Stennis' proposal to impose an automatic surtax to eliminate deficits would promote "a spend-now, pay-later mentality" and "impose a terrible economic burden in times of recession."

Women Vow Rights Fight

TEHRAN, Iran (AP) — Ten thousand women marched through the streets of Tehran today, demonstrating for the fourth day against Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini's threat to restrict the freedoms granted them by Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi.

The turnout was much less than organizers of the demonstration expected and far less than the tens of thousands of women who marched through Tehran

Saturday. A statement from Prime Minister Mehdi Bazargan's government that women would not be required to wear the chador, the heavy, full-length traditional black veil, appeared to have eased the fears of many women.

Although feminists fear that the Islamic republic the ayatollah plans will reduce the political and economic rights granted them under the shah's Westernization program, the issue of dress has become the most emotional one because it is the most visible.

Deputy Prime Minister Abbas Amir Entezam in a government statement said women civil servants were not required to wear the veil to work or even scarves, "but they should dress with dignity and avoid appearing cheap or exposed in their offices."

Students in jeans, working women and housewives were among the marchers. A sprinkling of men was seen accompanying wives or friends.

A small group of Moslem zealots stood behind a fence as the marchers assembled at Tehran University and chanted Islamic slogans but made no attempt to attack the women. Another group passed out handbills calling on the women to conform to Islamic tradition and wear the chador.

The women carried placards saying "We want equal rights" and "No to the chador."

American feminist Kate Millett, who arrived in Tehran last week to give her support to the women's movement, was at the rally. Addressing a news conference Sunday, she lumped Pope John Paul II and Khomeini together, saying both are "male chauvinists because as leaders they are attempting to curtail women's rights."

The 44-year-old author of "Sexual Politics" said she had worked against the shah's regime as a member of the American Committee for Artistic and Intellectual Freedom in Iran.

She said three or four women were stabbed or beaten during the demonstration Saturday. The prosecutor-general said anyone found guilty of abusing women physically or verbally faced two to six months in prison, and religious leaders warned against attacks on unveiled women.

Meanwhile, the ayatollah's revolutionary committees and courts, operating independently of Bazargan's government, executed six more men and flogged eight more men and a woman in accordance with Islamic law.

Firing squads executed three men in Abadan, Yazd and Mashad for killing demonstrators against the shah. An ambulance driver was executed in Khoy for killing a person who was trying to donate blood for wounded demonstrators.

Two men were executed on morals charges at Tehran's Qasr prison, one for running a brothel and one sexually assaulting minors.

A young unmarried couple were given 20 lashes each in the central city of Shahr-Kord for "desiring sexual relations with each other" and seven men were given five lashes each for gambling.

The revolutionary committees have executed at least 16 persons for sexual crimes and at least 25 for political killings and torture.

Hit-Run Driver Sought In Area

PLAINVIEW (Special) — A 16-year-old Plainview High School student was killed Sunday night when he was struck by a hit-and-run driver.

Bret Ashley Farmer of Plainview was standing beside a parked vehicle talking to his father when another car veered off SH 194, struck the youth and sideswiped the parked vehicle, according to Department of Public Safety investigators.

The boy's father, Pat Farmer Jr., rushed his son to Central Plains General Hospital in Plainview, about 7 1/2 miles southeast of the location of the incident. But the high school student was pronounced dead at 9:55 p.m., about five minutes after he was struck.

A description of the hit-and-run driver authorities were seeking today was not available this morning, but DPS Sgt. Thurmon Keffer said the suspect's vehicle, a Mercury, had been located.

Services for Farmer will be at 4 p.m. Tuesday at the Parkview Baptist Church in Plainview with the Rev. Stanley Nixon officiating.

Burial will follow in the Plainview Memorial Park under the direction of Wood-Dunning Funeral Home of Plainview.

Farmer was born Nov. 19, 1962, in Lubbock and moved to Plainview when he was 2 years old. The Plainview High School 10th grader was a member of the Rodeo Club, Future Farmers of America and the Parkview Baptist Church.

Survivors include his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Pat Farmer Jr. of Plainview; a brother, Pat III, of the home; two sisters, Judy Kay of Denver City and Teresa of Plainview; and three grandparents, Mrs. Ann Farmer of Shallowater and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Haney of Lubbock.

County Eyes Legislative Proposals

By JEFF SOUTH
Avalanche-Journal Staff

If West Texas legislators feel they're being watched, it may be the hungry gaze of area county officials.

The commissioners courts of Lubbock and other counties have a "vital interest" in many bills under consideration by the 1979 Texas Legislature, Lubbock County Judge Rod Shaw says.

Among those bills, he said, are proposals to have the state, instead of the counties, pick up the tab on the state judicial system; to give counties ordinance-making powers; and to allow counties to levy a sales tax.

Shaw personally supports those concepts — as strongly as he opposes legislation he says would fiscally hamstring county governments or create a bigger bureaucracy.

The West Texas County Judges and Commissioners Association will meet in Lubbock Wednesday through Friday to discuss, among other things, what's pending before the legislature.

With information from that convention, Shaw and other members of the Lubbock County Commissioners Court plan to recommend passage or defeat of various proposed bills.

Commissioners hope to do so as soon as possible so they can give their recommendations to area legislators before the bills come up for a vote.

ROBERTO EDUARDO LEON
Gains Minority Group Status

FORMER CLASSMATE OF CARTER

Name Change To Aid Worker

ROCKVILLE, Md. (AP) — Robert Earl Lee was brought up in the Southwest and thinks his grandfather was of Spanish origin. He says he plans to retire in South America.

So Lee, a former Naval Academy classmate of President Carter, changed his name recently to Roberto Eduardo Leon.

The name change makes him eligible for preferential treatment under a county affirmative action program. It also has raised "some eyebrows" among his colleagues, officials say.

Leon, 56, and a retired Naval captain, works in the Montgomery County Environmental Protection Department. Immediately after the name change, he asked to be reclassified as a member of a minority group and was granted the new status last week.

County guidelines say that because of Leon's Spanish surname, he is eligible for promotion over other white males.

"He has a knack for figuring out loopholes in things," Eric Mendelsohn, Leon's supervisor, said. "Bob, I mean, Roberto, is a highly regarded professional, a little eccentric in some ways. It's nice to have a Hispanic on our staff."

"It's confusing, I know," Leon said in an interview with The Washington Post.

He said he had considered changing his name from time to time.

He did not do it to gain a minority status for job-related reasons, he said, although acknowledging he has applied for other jobs.

Leon said he was brought up in the Southwest and was told his grandfather was of Spanish origin. He plans to retire in Chile and "when you live in a particular culture, you should adapt. It would be easier for me to blend in" with a Spanish surname.

In his current $27,857-a-year job, Leon does not have an advantage over other workers because his department is not under-represented by minorities. But if he seeks another job in an under-represented office, he would have an advantage, Mendelsohn said.

Leon said he remembers Carter from their days at the Naval Academy but does not know the president "personally."

Activist-Turned-Mayor Retiring

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — When he walks out of the office for the last time, he will take with him the sign on the door that reads, "Hizzoner da Mare."

Paul Soglin, who went from being an antiwar activist at odds with police to being mayor of this city of 170,000, is leaving office after six years.

Soglin will turn 34 five days after his third term expires April 17. He was the youngest person ever elected mayor of a city of this size when he first took office in 1973.

He had been an antiwar activist of the 1960s; police clubbed him, arrested him and once cut his hair after a street demonstration.

Yet while still a law student, Soglin developed a solid reputation as alderman for the downtown area dominated by the University of Wisconsin campus.

By the time he announced 15 months ago that he would not seek re-election, Soglin's political base also encompassed both the blue collar East Side and the liberal Democratic West Side.

"I think things have gone really well the last six years," he said in an interview. "There's nothing I would do differently."

Things he did included presenting the key to the city to Fidel Castro on one of his three trips to Cuba, stridently supporting labor groups, and presiding over last Halloween's City Council meeting in a "lame duck" costume of feathers and crutches.

What Soglin calls his "radical perspective" has not been universally accepted, however, particularly by conservatives who criticize him for not enforcing sex-for-sale ordinances and government traditionalists who say he used the power of his office too strongly in some areas, such as education.

Soglin prefers to talk about what he sees as his legacy for this city: one of the best public transit systems in the nation, a downtown mall and civic center project, bureaucratic reorganization, expanded and more efficient human services programs and a "triple-A" municipal bond rating.

Prodded, he becomes reflective on his role as a symbol of his generation and his country.

"During the first week in office in 1973, and I've had the feeling ever since, I've had the responsibility that those of us who came out of the antiwar movement could be competent and administer important programs," Soglin said.

Overseeing a $60 million annual city budget and taking a personal role in everything from welfare to bike paths, Soglin is confident he is not a poor representative of his generation.

"I know I haven't been a liability," he said, adding that while most protesters have exchanged jeans and long hair for three-piece suits and razor cuts, their radical perspective is intact.

"We haven't substantially changed our politics," he said. "What's changed is our ability to communicate. We've become more effective, and that gives us greater freedom to make changes."

Compromise, he said, no longer means "selling out."

"There was always a need to compromise, but now where compromise is called for, I'm in a position where very little has to be given up. Eight years ago compromise meant giving up the shop," Soglin said.

Is this new communication due to maturing of his angry generation or a new tolerant attitude on the part of the rest of the nation?

"A bit of both," a pensive Soglin replied. "The country is more accepting in terms of listening to us. And we've demonstrated, through time, our competence."

In recent years, he said, voters have come to look at the competence a candidate inspires rather than right-or-left stances.

Soglin, however, said he is frightened by the "new politics" of stylized, one-issue or no-issue campaigns.

"When you get an attractive candidate with little or no experience, who doesn't state a position on the issues, you can end up with a very dangerous situation," Soglin said.

Ironically, neither candidate seeking Soglin's job in the April 3 election has any previous elected experience. Former Soglin aide James Rowen, vowing to carry on Soglin's programs, is an underdog to university administrator Joel Skornicka.

"For me," Soglin said, "the scariest thing is not knowing in an unforeseen crisis what an elected official will do."

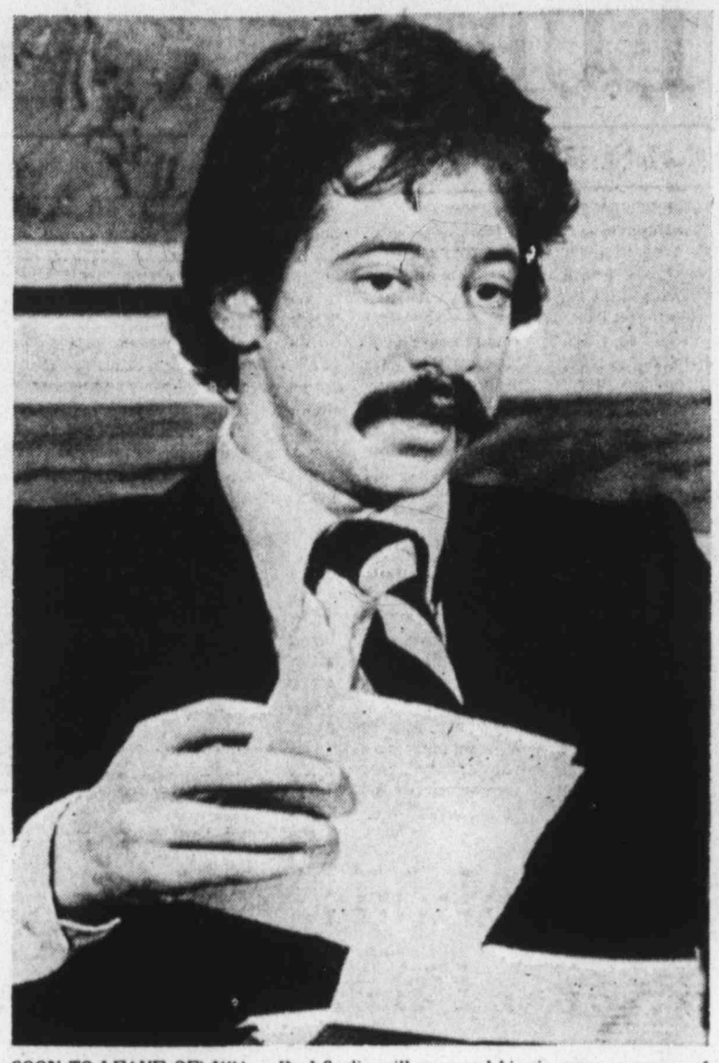
Yet barely a month before voluntary unemployment, Soglin himself has no definite plans. "I want to write," he said. "I may do some consulting or practice law. I want to maneuver myself into a position where I have the flexibility to write."

But there was more behind his decision to leave politics: "It's mostly just to be free. I don't mind working 60-70 hours a week, but I want to have more control over my time."

Soglin used to set up a card table on the steet and make notes of citizens' comments and complaints. But in the last year, since his divorce from his wife of nine years, he has become more private.

He said he will not miss the innumerable meetings or the frustrations of working with ill-prepared politicians, but he will miss behind-the-scenes planning and desk work.

He has been mentioned for Congress, lieutenant governor, a federal job and perhaps someday the ambassadorship to Cuba, but Soglin said any political future depends on how well he adjusts to being a private citizen for the first time in his adult life.



SOON TO LEAVE OFFICE — Paul Soglin will soon end his six years as mayor of Madison, Wis. When he was elected in 1973 he was the youngest mayor of a city the size of Madison. Five days after his third term expires April 17 he will turn 34, and plans to do some writing when his voluntary unemployment begins. (AP Laserphoto)

Space Shuttle Remains Grounded

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Problems with temporary surface tiles on the space shuttle Columbia kept the ship, still bolted atop its jetliner-ferry, from making its scheduled piggyback ride to Florida.

The Boeing 747, with the 75-ton shuttle riding on its back, was due at Cape Canaveral, Fla., over the weekend. The two-day flight was postponed indefinitely, however, while technicians at this Southern California installation tackled the problems.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said that during a brief test flight Friday, temporary foam tiles that had been taped to the shuttle came loose and some permanent tiles were slightly damaged.

About one-fourth of the 28,000 heat-shielding tiles that will protect the ship against the heat of re-entering the atmosphere have not yet been installed, NASA said. The shuttle's skin looks like a jigsaw puzzle with pieces missing.

The gaps were filled with taped-down dummy tiles to smooth the ragged surface and reduce drag during the cross-country flight.

The trip to Florida won't take place until a new method of attaching the dummy tiles is devised and completed, the agency said.

Mrs. Trudeau's Interview Blocked

TORONTO (AP) — An Ontario Supreme Court judge has blocked a television network from airing an interview with Margaret Trudeau, wife of Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau.

MRS. TRUDEAU

Justice David Henry said Sunday the injunction against CTV will be in effect until the case is settled in court or until April 22, whichever date comes first.

April 22 is one week before the planned publication date of Mrs. Trudeau's book, "Beyond Reason."

Tom Lockwood, lawyer for Mrs. Trudeau and Paddington Press of London, argued against the show, claiming viewers would think they are "hearing juicy bits and pieces of the book" before the book comes out.

Donald Cameron, CTV vice president of news, said the 40-minute taped interview, which was to run Sunday, was canceled, but parts of it may be shown later on newscasts.

Costly Car Wash

MIAMI (UPI) — Jay Rudnick couldn't bear to watch when his new $16,000 Lincoln roared out of the end of a car wash "like a cannon."

The Lighter Side Of Today's News

"I closed my eyes when it went flying by," Rudnick said.

The shiny, metallic blue luxury car jumped a curb, booted a garbage can through the air, slid into a pole, crashed into two gasoline pumps, rammed into a parked car and exploded. Moments later a second explosion sent flames shooting hundreds of feet into the air.

The damage: Rudnick's Lincoln and the 1970 Oldsmobile it hit, total losses; extensive damage to six other cars parked nearby, and two gas pumps destroyed. Cost: more than $50,000, police estimate, plus the $3.25 Rudnick paid to get his car washed.

Rudnick said he had waited two months for delivery of his new Lincoln and it only had 600 miles on it when he drove it into the Sav-On Car Wash Saturday.

The 16-year-old car wash employe apparently panicked when he started to drive Rudnick's car out of the car wash tunnel to be dried.

"He shot out of there like a cannon," witnesses told Dade County police officer Mike Osuch.

With the door on the driver's side jammed, the teen-ager dived out the passenger door right after the first explosion with the hair on his head and arms smoldering. He suffered only minor burns, however, and was released from a hospital after treatment.

"It was a narrow escape," officer Boyd Gans said.

Police charged the youth with careless driving and failing to display a valid license.

"The kid didn't mean it," Rudnick said. "But I'm hysterical. My wife's never going to believe this."

Lon Nol, Family In California

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lon Nol, former premier of Cambodia, say he'll move into his new home on an Orange County hilltop this week.

Nol, whose government was toppled by Khmer Rouge insurgents in 1975, said he was moving from Honolulu to Fullerton, about 25 miles southeast of Los Angeles, to give his children better educational opportunities.

The former premier, his wife and at least one of their eight children arrived at the Los Angeles International Airport Saturday.

He was taken off the commercial jetliner in a wheelchair, but walked around while waiting for his luggage. Nol reportedly still suffers the effects of a stroke several years ago.

Queen Mother Praises Canada

TORONTO (AP) — Any excuse can lure the Queen Mother to visit Canada because the country is so "uplifting, so lovely," she says.

In a London interview with a Toronto newspaper, The Star, the 78-year-old Queen Mother said she's looking forward to her Canada visit this June when she will preside over a gathering of the Scottish clans and attend the Queen's Plate horse race in Toronto.

Meals-On-Wheels Volunteers Provide Food, Smiling Face

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

For thousands of homebound Americans, the difference between hardship and happiness is a private volunteer program that provides them with low-cost meals and a friendly face.

The program is Meals-on-Wheels and it is celebrating its 25th anniversary in the United States this year.

The Meals-on-Wheels concept began in England during World War II. It was introduced to this country in 1954 by Mrs. Clarence Toy, a Pennsylvania woman who heard about the project from a British exchange student.

The programs are locally run; most are affiliated with religious or community service organizations.

Neil Scott, a political consultant who is a Meals-on-Wheels volunteer and is editor of the International Directory of Meals-on-Wheels, estimates there are almost 2,000 programs across the country, each serving 30 to 50 persons.

"This is a thing that has cloned itself," said Scott, explaining that programs spread from community to community mainly by word of mouth. (Scott's directory is available at a cost of $1.25 from Directory, 421 Seward Square SE, Washington, D.C., 20003.)

Although the programs operate independently, they are organized along similar lines. Volunteers deliver meals to participants' homes once a day, five days a week. Each delivery includes two meals — one hot, one cold. Participants pay a sum equal to the cost of the meals, usually $10 to $16 a week, according to Scott.

Most of the people receiving the meals are elderly, Scott said, but the program is open to anyone, regardless of age, who is unable to get and prepare his or her own food and cannot afford to hire someone else to do it.

In some Meals-on-Wheels programs, the volunteers buy and cook the food themselves; other meals are prepared at commercial establishments like cafeterias; still others are purchased from restaurants, some of which provide the food at a discount.

Because of the problems of keeping the food hot and meeting their delivery schedule, volunteers cannot spend much time with the homebound when they drop off the meals. But Scott said many of them return later to visit, to take participants on drives and to provide other services.

Most of the Meals-on-Wheels programs are self-sufficient. They can qualify for federal aid under the Older Americans Act of 1965. But Scott said recent amendments to the act will make it difficult for most programs to qualify unless they change their methods of operation and limit their services to people over 60. He said there is a difference between government programs and Meals-on-Wheels.

"I think there's a vital difference for the recipients between having a federal volunteer stand at their doorstep with a meal they paid for with their taxes and having a neighborhood volunteer stand there with a meal which they also paid for, but which they know is there because the volunteers in the community care about them," said Scott. "It says to them: 'You're a valued person in our community.'"

Talk of an energy shortage has Scott and others in the Meals-on-Wheels program worried. During the 1974 crisis, he said, "lots of people said they couldn't get gasoline or couldn't afford to pay." They faced long lines and closed service stations. "Lots of meals were missed," Scott said.

To avoid similar problems, Meals-on-Wheels volunteers are being urged to plan now to find alternate ways of delivery — on foot, by bicycle, using public transit.

Meat Prices May Rise Higher

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — The 77th annual National Farmers Union began a four-day convention by hearing a warning that meat prices may rise even higher.

Union President Tony Dechant told reporters Sunday that beef supplies in the United States could still be in short supply two years from now and the problem may even become worse.

"We can suspect that beef supplies will be in relatively short supply another 18-24 months," Dechant said. "If the White House does what Alfred Kahn is recommending and orders another increase in meat imports it will just lengthen the period in which domestic supplies will continue to be short."

The convention, which runs through Wednesday night, is expected to attract about 1,000-2,000 farmers. Scheduled to speak Monday are Secretary of Agriculture Bob Bergland and Sens. George McGovern, D-S.D., and Henry Bellmon, R-Okla.

In 1969, Premier Eisaku Sato swept to victory in Japan's election for the House of Representatives.

Luke 11: 42-51, The Living Bible

42 But woe to you, Pharisees! For though you are careful to tithe even the smallest part of your income, you completely forget about justice and the love of God. You should tithe, yes, but you should not leave these other things undone!

43 Woe to you, Pharisees! For how you love the seats of honor in the synagogues and respectful greetings from everyone as you walk through the markets!

44 Yes, awesome judgment is resting upon you! For you are like hidden graves in a field. Men pass by you with no knowledge of the corruption nearby."

45 "Sir," said an expert in religious law who was standing there, "You have insulted my profession, too, in what You just said."

46 "Yes," said Jesus, "the same horrors await you! For you crush men beneath impossible religious demands — demands that you yourselves would never think of trying to keep!

47 Woe to you! For you are exactly like your ancestors who killed the prophets long ago.

48 Murderers! You agree with your fathers that what they did was right — you would have done the same yourselves.

49 This is what God says about you: 'I will send prophets and apostles to you, and you will kill some of them and chase away the others';

50 And you of this generation will be held responsible for the murder of God's servants from the founding of the world —

51 From the murder of Abel to the murder of Zechariah who perished between the altar and the sanctuary. Yes, it will surely be charged against you.

Clothes Show Woman's Mood

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — Even before a woman has a chance to speak, her clothes have made a silent statement about her personality, says a Syracuse University professor of environmental and textile design.

Frances Penalis says a woman's clothing is as personal and as important as her signature. "People will be distracted by clothes with shiny, clingy or ruffly details and may not even be listening to what she is saying," Miss Penalis says.

She suggests women choose classic, timeless styles that flow with simple lines.

"A suit or dress should be classic in style, conservative in color and feminine in appearance," she suggests. "Subtle changes in the basic outfit can add to a woman's personal statement once she has been accepted in her position by her group."

Miss Penalis says dresses and suits are invaluable ways for a woman to express her moods and personality in the colors, styles and accessories she chooses.

Media Debate Ways To Win Back Eroding Rights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The spate of court decisions erodig rights the press once thought guaranteed under the First Amendment is stirring great debate within the media over how to fight back.

At least two camps of opinion emerged Sunday from a weekend "First Amendment Survival Seminar" — the "get tough" approach that could involve using "tricks" to cover an event, and the more moderate alternative of trying to cooperate to some degree with courts and law enforcement agencies.

"If there was ever a time when the press had to be peculiarly aggressive and imaginative, it is now," said Lyle Denniston, Supreme Court correspondent for the Washington Star.

Denniston told the 300 East Coast journalists, lawyers and teachers attending the seminar that because judges now are almost routinely blocking media access to trials, reporters should start using "tricks" to cover the courts.

Other panelists suggested ways to hamper the serving of subpoenas or the execution of search warrants on members of the news media.

Techniques debated included:

— Using parabolic microphones across from a courtroom, if it has windows, to hear the testimony.

— Sneaking tape recorders into hearings where they are prohibited.

— Hiding notes by code in office computers so law enforcement officers using a search warrant in a newsroom could not find them.

— Buying one's own notebooks so that if they are subpoenaed, there is no question they are the reporter's exclusive property — not the company's.

— Storing notes in locations other than the newsroom or the reporter's home, and using code names for confidential sources.

"There are tricks, and the time has surely come for tricks," Denniston said. "I recommend sincerely that you don't join the system, that you beat it."

But E. Barrett Prettyman Jr., the lawyer who argued the "gag order" case before the Supreme Court that kept the press from reporting on a murder trial in Nebraska, told the participants: "One of the reasons you're having so much trouble with the courts is that judges perceive the press as totally lacking in responsibility."

He suggested journalists should keep in mind that whatever rights they have now do not come directly from the Constitution, but instead from these same judges' interpretation of the First Amendment.

Prettyman said one way to change the "big bully" image the judges have of the press is by cooperating — when it would not endanger the rights of the media.

He suggested, for example, that if a newspaper learned an accused murderer confessed the day before his trial was to begin, and it planned to run a story, the paper could tell the judge to consider sequestering the jury until it was determined whether there would still be a trial.

He said such an approach would pose no danger to the paper, and it might convince the judge the press was trying to act responsibly.

Prettyman said what the media really needs is a "multimillion-dollar fund which can be called upon instantly" whenever a court case arises that threatens press privileges.

"At some point, the media must recognize that every one of you has a stake in every one of these cases," he warned.

Documents Show Interest In ESP Use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A team of hush-hush mind spies, backed by superdogs, huddles together in subterranean secrecy, using ESP to pinpoint enemy submarine bases around the world.

It sounds like science fiction, but the CIA took such a scenario seriously back in the 1950s when the spy agency looked into the possibility of turning extra-sensory perception into an "atom bomb" of espionage.

CIA documents made public Sunday under the Freedom of Information Act showed the agency also ebpressed interest in Nazi studies of ESP and even looked into the possibility of using dogs as mind spies.

But the information, distributed by the Church of Scientology, failed to reveal whether the CIA ever actually set up an ESP espionage team.

A censored April 8, 1952, memo said the CIA gave "some serious consideration" to subsidizing research into applying ESP "to matters of pure intelligence."

"If a number of individuals could be found in the U.S. who have a very high ESP capacity, these talented individuals could be assigned to intelligence problems," it said.

The note said the mind spies could work on such problems as whether a nation "had a submarine pen at a given port or area."

A Jan. 31, 1952, memo described a conference about the CIA's possible use of ESP. An "outstanding authority on ESP" whose name was censored briefed intelligence officials at the session.

"He insisted that the knowledge on ESP at this point was far in advance of the basic knowledge that was held on atomic energy and atomic weapons before the first atom bomb was developed," the memo said.

A Feb. 7, 1952, note said an undercover CIA agent got in touch with a prominent scientist about the possibility of using dogs on an ESP espionage team.

The scientist disqualified himself because of a lack of experience with dogs, but provided a list of potential candidates "strong in comparative animal psychology."

A barely legible, Jan. 7, 1952, memo recommended a study of similar Soviet ESP experiments and "what the Nazis undertook to do."

The unidentified writer, who apparently was being considered as head of the CIA's ESP program, said he didn't want to become involved without a firm, long-term commitment.

"I am about ready to say that without pretty definite assurance of at least a three-year program, I should not want to try to assemble the personnel, design the research program and put the overall effort into what is really a major undertaking like this," he said.

The Church of Scientology, a controversial religion that began in 1950 as a new approach to mental therapy, has been engaged in a running battle with the government.

The church has accused authorities of harassment and responded by seeking the release of sensitive CIA and Justice Department documents under the Freedom of Information Act.

Individuals, Companies Await Claim Payments From China

WASHINGTON (AP) — When Albert Cohen — known to some as "the rickshaw king" of Shanghai — died 45 years ago, he left his family a business legacy that also included real estate and part ownership of a dog-racing track.

Now his two sons are among the hundreds of individuals, companies and church organizations awaiting at least partial payment on claims against China's government, which appropriated their assets after the 1949 Communist revolution.

Last month Peking agreed to pay $80.5 million on the claims over the next five years — about 41 cents on the dollar and nowhere near the $197 million in claims outstanding before the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission here.

The Cohens — the sons have since legally changed their names to Donnell — were typical of many foreigners who lived in Shanghai before the revolution. They ran businesses within the trading center's foreign communities and had firm financial roots. Then they saw their assets confiscated.

A native of Spain, Albert Cohen had gone to China at the turn of the century and eventually amassed holdings that, besides the Star Rickshaw Factory, real estate and the greyhound track, included utility stocks, a leather company and part interest in a movie house.

After his death the two sons spent much of their time in the United States and in the 1940s became naturalized U.S. citizens.

Now, despite the new agreement on claims, Maurice Donnell says he doesn't expect any money soon. "Mentally I wrote it off a long time ago," he said in a telephone interview.

Donnell, a real estate broker in Encino, Calif., and his brother, an Encino doctor, submitted claims of about $1.1 million, but only about a third of that was validated by the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission. Under the agreement the United States reached with China, the family would eventually get about $135,000.

Francis T. Masterson, executive director of the settlement commission, said he expects no difficulty in locating most of the people who have money coming because of the publicity and because addresses have been kept on file. The Chinese are expected to pay their first $30 million to the U.S. Treasury Oct. 1, with the rest due in installments ending in October 1984.

Although the claims commission provided for an annual 6 percent interest, Masterson said, "That's really a moot point because there's not even enough money to pay the principle."

From 1968 and 1972, the commission reviewed 676 claims and approved part or all of 579. Masterson said details of how payments will be made have yet to be worked out, but probably an initial payment of up to $1,000 will be made on each claim, with the rest of the money distributed as it comes from China.

The claims range from $125 submitted by Vernon Neigenfind, a missionary who lost his furniture when evacuated from South China amid heavy fighting in 1949, to $53.5 million submitted by the Boise-Cascade Corp., which had owned the Shanghai Power Co.

Other claimants include American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the United Missionary Society and even Warner Brothers and 20th Century Fox, both of which claim thousands of dollars worth of films were lost to the Communists.

Solomon and Hannah Shahmoon, now living in New Rochelle, N.Y., have the largest award among the individual claims — $1.4 million for three parcels of land in downtown Shanghai. But they are bitter about the claims process and say they will be lucky to get "even 5 percent" of what their holdings would be worth today. They had submitted a claim for more than $2 million.

"I feel very disappointed," said Shahmoon, now 87 years old. His wife added, "A man works for his whole life and builds up a business and then it's just taken away."

Dole Calls For Probe Of Carter Warehouse

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Robert J. Dole, the former Republican vice presidential nominee, has called for a special prosecutor to look into the finances of the peanut warehouse owned by President Carter's family in Plains, Ga.

In a statement released Sunday, Dole said, "The time has come when it would be in the best interest of everyone, including the president, to appoint a special prosecutor to look into loans involving the National Bank of Georgia and the Carter family warehouse."

Last week, a Justice Department spokesman said the department was considering the appointment of a special prosecutor to look into the warehouse's finances. But he said such action would be a "rather extraordinary step."

Dole, who has authorized a committee to raise money toward a possible 1980 presidential bid, said his call was sparked by a report in Sunday's Washington Post. That account quoted a south Georgia man as saying he misled the National Bank of Georgia about the amount of peanuts stored in the warehouse as collateral for loans that eventually totaled $6.5 million.

Jimmy Hayes, a former warehouseman, said he acted on orders from the president's brother Billy.

In Atlanta, Ed Pistey, assistant special agent of the FBI, said Hayes was questioned by agents over the weekend. "Now we have to sit down and analyze (the information)," he said.

Billy Carter, who is being treated for alcohol-related problems at Long Beach Naval Hospital in California, was not available for comment, according to hospital spokesman Richard Burdess.

But Charles Kirbo, a presidential adviser who is handling the president's holdings in the warehouse, denied Hayes' account, saying "there is nothing in our records to support" it.

"I don't know what he is talking about," Kirbo said. "I never heard of him."

The president's 63 percent ownership of the warehouse has been in a blind trust since his election. His mother owns 22 percent, and Billy Carter owns 15 percent.

The Post quoted Hayes as saying Billy Carter refused for a time to sign checks that were to be sent to the bank every time peanuts — the loan collateral — left the warehouse. And Hayes was quoted as saying he did not quickly notify the bank of any discrepancy.

Report Shows East, Midwest Cities Losing

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new study is expected to provide fuel for congressmen from the Northeast and Midwest who want to adjust the imbalance between military spending and tax payments in their areas.

The study by Employment Research Associates analyzed military spending and tax payments in the nation's 40 largest urban areas and found that dozens of urban communities pay out a flood of tax money that ends up in Western cities. The report was released Sunday.

"The Pentagon is spearheading a massive relocation of wealth at a time that many cities can least afford it," said Marion Anderson, who co-authored the "Pentagon Tax" study.

Mrs. Anderson and her husband, James Anderson of Michigan State University, examined 1977 budget data to determine how much tax money collected in the nation's 40 largest metropolitan areas is earmarked for military spending, and how much goes back in salaries and contracts.

The Washington, D.C., area received $3.1 billion more than its residents paid in military taxes, making it the largest net winner of military spending in 1977, according to the study.

On a per-family basis, San Jose, Calif., fared nearly as well, and San Diego was not far behind. The Los Angeles, Anaheim, Riverside-San Bernardino and Sacramento areas in California also had net gains.

The aerospace centers of Seattle, St. Louis and Long Island, N.Y., had large net gains, as did Providence, R.I., and San Antonio. Dallas and Baltimore also fared well.

The Miami area got the least return from its Pentagon tax dollar on a per-family basis. Other losers were Chicago; New York; Cleveland; Newark, N.J.; Rochester, N.Y.; and Portland, Ore.

Panel Advises Labeling Over-Counter Vitamins

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vitamins sold as non-prescription drugs should be labeled that they are for the prevention or treatment of deficiencies and should be used only on the advice of a physician, a government advisory panel says.

The Food and Drug Administration panel recommended Sunday that the sales of some vitamins and minerals as non-prescription drugs should be curbed. It also called for the banning of labels that mention "super potency," "natural" and "stress."

The panel said only nine vitamins — C, B-12, folic acid, niacin, B-6, riboflavin, thiamine, A and D — should be sold as single ingredient, non-prescription drugs. The only minerals that should be sold as non-prescription drugs are calcium, iron and zinc, the panel said.

Vitamin E was one vitamin that the panel said should not be sold as a single, non-prescription drug. No evidence exists that Vitamin E increases fertility or protects against cardiovascular disease, the group said.

Vitamin and mineral deficiencies usually occur among "special" groups, such as pregnant or lactating women and alcoholics.

The panel's recommendations were made to the FDA. If accepted by the agency, they would not restrict sales of vitamins and minerals as food supplements. Industry sources estimate about three-quarters of the $520 million in vitamins and minerals that Americans buy annually are labelled as food supplements.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL:

Storm Clouds Gathering

AMONG ECONOMIC forecasters, the consensus is that we face a mild recession, beginning in the second half of this year and lasting for about six months.

Just why the expected recession should be mild, why it should begin in the second half or why it should occur at all, is not, well, perfectly clear.

In fact, the consensus view may be more an illustration of the herd instinct than a conclusion based on evidence so compelling that all must accept it.

One thing is certain. We are likely to experience a change in the economic weather which will eventually be labeled a recession —one which goes on for a fairly long period while we are still unaware we are in it.

THE STANDARD procedure in business-cycle dating—the neat division of U.S. economic history into alternating periods of expansion and contraction (recession)—is not very helpful under present circumstances.

"In this inflationary era," writes George Hagedorn, chief economist and vice president of the National Association of Manufacturers, "we must expect to see, from time to time, (a third type of economic weather) which doesn't fit well into either category."

Stagflationary economic weather prevailed during the year beginning with the last quarter of 1973, and Hagedorn predicts more of the same taking over in 1979.

"The reason for anticipating the onset of stagflation this year is that, while there are obstacles to continued economic expansion," writes Hagedorn, "there is no evidence of the strains which typically bring on well-defined downturns—excessive accumulation of inventories or of fixed capital."

DURING STAGFLATION, the economy loses its forward drive but broad measures of economic activity do not show any sharp downturn. Markets soften in a spotty fashion but the steeply rising price trend keeps many customers buying in fear of still higher future prices.

During the stagflation in the first nine months of 1974, investment in plant and equipment remained at record high levels. Accumulation of inventories, we see in retrospect, was a developing problem.

Most significantly, the self-corrective forces that moderate and eventually terminate a recession do not come into play during this equivocal type of semi-recession. A period of stagflation, while we are in it, doesn't look bad at all to a good many folks. Consequently, it doesn't lead to the same kind of retrenchment.

It isn't that economists can't see the solution; it's that they can't see the problem.

IF BROCK ADAMS means what I think he's saying, the extension of Interstate 27 across Lubbock should be speeded up.

In a speech the other day, the Secretary of Transportation announced a five-point policy which he said means that future federal investments in urban transportation "will become an instrument for revitalizing the nation's cities."

The danger is that Adams means exactly the opposite of that, having in the same speech described some interstate highways as having been "designed like concrete canyons, right through our cities dividing neighborhoods..."

Taking the positive view, though, the Secretary said his department "will make transportation money a magnet to bring back to the cities the people, shops, schools and jobs which we drove away."

A crosstown expressway is the best hope Lubbock has revitalizing a central core that has been choked by traffic congestion which has prompted the construction of one after another shopping center, each farther out than the last.

"Second, we will demand that every transportation decision be measured against energy costs," Adams said. "It is no secret that an energy scarcity is upon us and transportation is at the core of the problem."

If it's energy he wants to save, the Secretary will rush through expressway construction that will put an end to the enormous waste of gasoline burned by cars waiting for stoplights to change here.

"A CONDITION of federal approval of any future freeways will be separated rights of way for buses and carpools," Adams added.

Then, unabashedly admitting—nay, boasting —that the Carter administration will use federal highway dollars to bring about social change, Adams said he will see to it "that those adversely affected by an urban construction project get a piece of the action."

He said, by way of example, that a string attached to approval of a major freeway in Phoenix was a demand that 15 percent of the half-billion-dollar cost go to minority contractors in the area.

As his fourth point, Adams said his new policy will emphasize repairing existing facilities in urban areas rather than abandoning them.

Finally, he announced, that he is "reforming the process by which urban transportation projects are designed and approved."

New procedures detailing how these proposals will be evaluated by the Department of Transportation are being published, the Secretary said.

Will the changes cause any delay in getting the I-27 expressway under construction?

George Wall, district highway engineer here, says he doesn't think so. He points out that the project already has been approved, two years ago.

"Nothing in what he said frightens me," Wall adds, "except that we still have to get our design approved."

ENVIRONMENTAL impact statements covering three possible locations for the I-27 extension from north to south across Lubbock now are in the hands of the DOT.

It will get responses from all the government agencies it is required by law to contact. Then, the preliminary design work will be completed and a public hearing will be held here.

The three possible locations all start at Loop 289 in north Lubbock, come down the Avenue A corridor to beyond the downtown area, then offer alternatives down Avenue A or in the vicinity of Avenue H.

Wall says the public hearing can be held "within six to nine months."

Holmes Alexander:

For Sale Or Trade: Jimmy Carter

WASHINGTON—"Is it true what they say about trading Jimmy Carter for Jose Lopez Portillo?" asked the Returning Traveler who'd been away for awhile. "It would be a good deal if we could swing it. It's always been a problem of how we could dispose of defeated Presidential candidates and nominees.

"It was once proposed in this column that the Presidential also-rans, such as George McGovern and Gerald Ford, be given mercy deaths the way they used to dispose of overage cavalry horses —you hold out an apple and when the charger reaches to nibble it, you shoot him between the eyes. He drops painlessly in his tracks, and..."

Please, the Returning Traveler was interrupted, please, show respect for our national leaders. Imagine treating McGovern and Ford like used-up animals! The very idea of trading an American President for a Mexican head of state is an outrageous impudence.

"I MEAN to say," the Traveler continued, "that Mexico would never agree to a one-on-one swap of Carter for Portillo, so we'd have to throw in some make-weight."

Stop it! The Traveler was brusquely told. This nonsense has gone far enough. It's true that Jimmy behaved like a psychopath in Mexico, and that Portillo showed as the best head of state we've encountered for a long while. But your proposal of a trade is off limits.

The Traveler didn't see why. "The situation is that the U.S. under Kennedy, Johnson, Nixon, Ford and Carter has undergone a change of status.

"From a major power it has become a minor country in the world, and adjustments are in order.

"AMERICA CAN'T claim to be a major power when our ambassador to Afghanistan is kidnapped and slain, when the American embassy in Tehran is overrun by armed mobs and our ambassador's life barely saved.

"We arm our Marine Corps guards with skeet shot against live ammunition. We let the sixth fleet ride at anchor while hundreds of American citizens are stranded in Iran.

"We bring Vice Premier Teng of China to Washington where he talks more American foreign policy about Taiwan and the Soviet Union than Carter does.

"It's time we recognized what's taking place," said the Traveler. "We have fallen to second-class nationhood in less than a generation. We had better admit it and adjust.

"There never were times like these," the Traveler said. "Mexico has suddenly become the big power of the Western Hemisphere, and the Mexican President shows himself a standup statesman when he faces Carter.

"A good neighbor policy presupposes a general climate of opinion in which respect prevails over prejudice and intelligence over sectarianism.

"Carter is out of his class in major league politics, and the U.S. is at its historical low as a nation," the Traveler continued.

It sounds like an awful letdown, the Traveler was told.

"It needn't be," said the Traveler. "There isn't any reason why Americans should feel entitled to the two car garage or the color television set. We don't have to be boasters and boosters when, in fact, we have so much to be ashamed of. We can start again.

"It is the essence of the Christian faith, that the sinner gets another chance. And a very good beginning would be an upgrading in quality of leadership. Yes, Lopez Portillo for Carter, by all means."

Sylvia Porter:

Civil Servants Ignore Freedom Act Inquiries

Q: DO YOU KNOW what the "Freedom of Information Act" is?

A: If so, you're the one in 50 U.S. citizens who does.

It's a law, originally passed in 1966 (5 USC 552) and supposedly strengthened in 1974, to give you, as a citizen, the right to ask questions about the huge array of federal government acts and records affecting you—and with few exceptions, to get prompt, truthful answers.

In actuality, it's a sham and disgrace.

Even as federal spending alone careens past the half trillion dollar mark, Washington is stepping up its efforts to "sell itself" to us.

The 90-odd executive branch agencies alone spent an estimated $1.5 billion on advertising and public relations in 1978—plus another $100 million to screen answers and withhold secrets from us. That $100 million tab is the cost of handling your "tough' citizen questions.

THE FOI ACT is bogged down in bureaucratic "laziness," "stupidity," "nastiness," "interminable delays," "irrational deletions," "excess fees," "antagonism," a "log-jam" of court cases taking up to three years to decide, and deliberate attempts by government employes "to subvert the implementation of the law."

These are just a few quotes from authorities on the law!

"Expect to be rebuffed," advises Dr. Paul Fisher, director of the Freedom of Information Center at the University of Missouri. Be "persistent."

If you are and if you're right, you should be able to find out what you want or may need to know about how your federal government operates with your money. The grim facts are:

• RESPONSES TO the simplest of questions may take months and replies to the tough ones could take years.

• Answers to seven out of eight of the difficult queries are refused in whole or in part—and this is in the face of the fact that only about 175,000 questions were submitted under the FOI Act in 1977, the latest full year for which analysis is available.

• Even so, top government officials complain that answering FOI questions hinders their "real" work.

The FOI Act "disrupts" Internal Revenue Service investigations, said William E. Williams, IRS deputy commissioner, last year.

His explanation: so many people sue IRS for information that other agencies don't want to turn over their own data to the revenue service.

• CONFUSION IS widespread about how may FOI questions are asked and different agencies have conflicting definitions. Many experts feel all rejected inquiries should be considered FOI questions. The bureaucracies disagree.

The top "money" bureaus—IRS, Social Security and Veterans Administration—cite statistics showing they handle more than 75 million citizen contacts yearly, mostly routine requests for forms and procedures.

IRS, for instance, says it gets some 37 million queries a year—28 million via its "toll-free" (taxpayer paid) phone lines, 9 million in-person "walk-ins" to its 1,000 offices and 93,000 written requests which are handled with stamp-free responses.

Just 68,201 questions become "problems" for its "Problem Resolution" section. Roughly 7,913 persons file FOI questions, and only 2,425 of these requests are denied the IRS reports.

THE VA HAS similar statistics, ranging from 24.7 million "contacts" down to 1,912 FOI denials.

At Social Security, though, SSA has one set of figures while its parent agency, the Department of Health, Education & Welfare, reports another. Out of 13 million citizen contacts, SSA counts 131,000 as FOI requests.

HEW claims the true total is about 130,748 less or merely 252.

"A difference in definition," explains an HEW spokesman. "SSA doesn't have an FOI definition, we do."

Using the HEW definition, HEW spent $4,521 per denial, almost double the outlay of any other reporting agency.

If you are rejected, no matter how pleasant or unpleasant the turndown is, don't just go to the window and scream (as in the famous movie about TV power).

Go down to the court house and sue. If you win, you even can have your legal fees paid.

James J. Kilpatrick:

Deregulation In High Gear

WASHINGTON—Sooner or later, after a couple of tribal chiefs in the Senate have smoked a peace pipe, bills will be introduced to deregulate the trucking industry.

I used to be all in favor of the idea. Now I am not so sure; I am not so sure at all.

Proposals for truck deregulation began to grind along in low gear as part of the presidential campaign of 1976. They picked up speed in 1978 with the phenomenal success of the move to free the airlines from many areas of federal regulation.

People said, if deregulation is so good for the airlines, it's bound to be good for the trucking industry also.

THIS FORMULATION had great appeal to conservatives; as articles of faith, my folks believe passionately in brisk competition and we believe in a marketplace as free as possible from governmental controls.

The prospect also had great appeal to liberals; their immediate concern is to hold down the kind of power vested in rate bureaus and to reduce costs to the consumer.

An odd couple appeared: the National Association of Manufacturers, hand in hand with Ralph Nader.

There is no disputing the effect of deregulation upon the scheduled airlines. Once freed of the most restrictive federal controls, the airlines took off into friendly skies.

IN 1978, THEIR passenger traffic soared by 16.3 percent over 1977; they racked up profits of $1.2 billion compared to $754 million the year before. Deregulation may not have been wholly responsible for the gains, but it was surely the primary factor.

It is by no means clear, however, that what is sauce for the airlines is gravy for the truckers. On investigation, I am more and more persuaded that the two industries are not analogous. The differences are far more striking than the similarities.

Unlike the airlines, which are concentrated in a score of regulated, certificated carriers, the truckers number in the thousands. By one estimate, at least 155,000 trucking companies are in business.

OF THESE, 16,600 are regulated by the Interstate Commerce Commission, and of those 16,600 companies, roughly 12,500 have gross receipts of less than $500,000.

Proponents of deregulation are fond of citing a superficially shocking statistic: One percent of the companies do 50 percent of the business. True. But 1 percent of 16,600 is 166 separate outfits.

And it is also true that the eighth largest motor carriers account for only 14 percent of the industry's total revenue volume.

By comparison, four steel manufacturers have 47 percent of the steel business; four cigarette makers have 84 percent of their industry's total volume; and four auto makers account for 91 percent of domestic auto sales.

THE POINT IS that competition already is fierce within the trucking industry and, again, this is not like competition in the airline industry.

Truckers compete not only with each other but also with barges and railroads. The potential for new passenger traffic, as the airlines happily discovered, is enormous; but deregulation of trucking, in and of itself, will not produce a single ton of freight that was not moving anyhow.

Railroad spokesmen argue convincingly that deregulation of the truckers would be the killing blow for the rails.

Cutthroat price competition from the motor carriers could well force a number of marginal railroads into bankruptcy. This kind of rate war also would be ruinous to thousands of independent truckers who lack the capital to stay in business over the long haul.

NONE OF THIS is to suggest that deregulation is totally a bad idea. The trucking industry has not been studied critically, in terms of federal controls, in 35 or 40 years.

On March 28, Sen. Howard Cannon of Nevada will begin some exploratory hearings on the whole subject; and if Sen. Cannon can reach a peaceful accommodation with Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts on whose bill is to be heard by which committee, legislative hearings will be scheduled later this year.

This is a complex issue, with good arguments on both sides, but I think the trucking industry, which opposes deregulation, thus far makes the better case.

Police Say Mouse Likes Marijuana

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — The Birmingham police say a mouse with a taste for marijuana is fearless in its quest to get at the supply stored in the narcotics office as evidence.

The antics of the mouse have earned it the name of "C-Bo," a slang for Colombian marijuana.

Lt. J.E. Bibb said officer Pat Curry had pulled out his desk drawer recently and discovered C-Bo chewing on a bag of evidence.

"We had to run C-Bo away from the marijuana," said Bibb. "It was comical, really. There Curry was, armed with a .41 magnum, running from a little ole gray mouse."

WEATHER FORECAST — Snow is predicted Tuesday for an area extending in a band from northern New Hampshire and Canada to the Great Lakes area and northeast Michigan, according to the National Weather Service. Clear skies are expected for the rest of the nation. (AP Laserphoto)

Warm Temperatures Expected All Week

A-J News Services

Lubbock area temperatures should warm to near 70 degrees Tuesday before a cool front pushes into the region at midweek, weather reports said this morning.

High temperatures in the South Plains Wednesday through Friday will be primarily in the 60s, with lows in the 30s as a low pressure cooling system replaces the high pressure system currently prevailing over Central Texas.

Along with the cooling temperatures at midweek, a chance of showers is predicted for the southern portions of West Texas.

Meanwhile, Lubbock skies are expected to remain clear to partly cloudy through Tuesday, with no precipitation forecast.

Area winds today were expected to flow in a southwesterly direction at 15 to 20 mph, caused by the development of the northern front, the NWS said. Winds tonight will calm to 10 to 15 mph tonight.

Elsewhere in the state today, generally partly cloudy skies and temperatures in the 60s and 70s except for the 80s in the Big Bend region were forecast.

A frigid return to winter in the upper Midwest and Northeast appears to have stemmed the threat of serious flooding for at least a few days.

Temperatures dipped to near zero during the weekend in the northernmost states, where the thawing snowpack had sent rivers and streams on rampages last week. A 3 degree reading in Chicago early Sunday set a record for the date.

Fred Meier of the National Weather Service in Chicago said the freeze had a moderating influence on the flooding.

"It has halted the input of new water and is helping reverse the (flooding) situation. Almost everywhere, flood crests have been reached and the rivers are receding," Meier said.

Buildups of ice slowed many of the fast-flowing rivers, including the Kankakee in northeastern Illinois and northwestern Indiana. A massive rupture in an ice jam last week resulted in damage to scores of riverfront homes near Joliet, Ill. Officials also expressed concern about the buildup of new ice jams.

"Everything's at a standstill; it's not melting, that's for sure," Will County Sheriff's dispatcher Bonnie Williams said. "Some of the people have gone back to their homes, but at their own risk. We've been checking the area every hour."

The new round of cold temperatures, settling in just 10 days before the official debut of spring, iced in mounds of snow left throughout the Midwest by January's blizzards.

The Army Corps of Engineers in Memphis, Tenn., said flooding along the southern portion of the Mississippi River still is likely, but indicated the colder weather to the north should slow the river's rise for the next few days.

"We do not anticipate any danger to private or federal levees in northwest Tennessee, northeast Arkansas or southeast Missouri," said Maj. Allan E. Braun, deputy district engineer for the Memphis district.

Readings in the teens and 20s prevailed across the northern tier of states east of the Rockies, through the upper Ohio Valley and across New York State Sunday.

Higher readings in the 40s and 50s were common from the rentral Plains to the Mid-Atlantic states. Temperatures climbed into the 70s and 80s in the South and far West.

Door Closed To Blacks

STAR CITY, Ark. (UPI) — A "Whites Only" sign hanging above the door of a self-service laundry angered a group of blacks who, with their dirty clothes, converged on the business establishment only to have the door locked in their faces.

Owner W.L. Goodwin would open the door Saturday only for whites, keeping it shut to blacks and reporters. He refused to answer questions about his policies.

The blacks were members of Arkansas Community Organization for Reform Now. The group of about 25 proceeded from the laundry to the home of Star City Mayor Robert Morrison and asked him to accompany them to Goodwin's laundry. But Morrison said he had been advised he could do nothing because the matter is pending in court.

Two Acorn members have filed suit in federal court at Pine Bluff against Goodwin's "whites only" policy, charging it violates the 1964 Civil Rights Act. Goodwin has responded the law only applies to businesses doing interstate commerce.

Morrison said he would talk to the City Council tonight about the possibility of a city ordinance prohibiting such discrimination.

Tanzanian Troops Move Away From Capital City

NAIROBI, Kenya (UPI) — A Tanzanian invasion force has staged a "tactical withdrawal" and moved deep into southern Uganda and away from the capital of Kampala after a series of skirmishes with Idi Amin's Libyan-backed forces, sources said today.

A combined force of Tanzanian troops and Ugandan exile guerrillas were south of the town of Lusaka, 60 miles from the capital of Kampala, the diplomatic and exile sources said. The main force was even further south at the town of Masaka.

The pullback indicated the immediate military threat to Amin's regime has lessened for the time being.

The latest battlefield reports supported Field Marshall Amin's latest claims that the invaders, who last week appeared poisd to take Kampala, had retreated "from the gates" of the capital.

Exile sources called the pullback a "minor tactical withdrawal" and said it followed skirmishes with small units of the Uganda army.

Bolstered by the arrival of fresh Libyan troops and armaments, Amin offered to open peace talks with Tanzania to negotiate an end to the war.

Amin Sunday met a special Nigerian peace envoy in Kampala and offered to meet Tanzanian President Julius Nyerere for face-to-face talks in a neutral country, but only after a 4,000-strong Tanzanian invasion force withdrew from Uganda.

The Nigerian diplomat also held talks with Nyerere, but African sources said there was virtually no chance of immediate peace discussions between the warring neighbors. Nyerere thus far has brusquely rejected all conciliation efforts.

Amin made his renewed peace offer as the military situation reportedly began to improve for the Ugandan dictator and after he charged the Tanzanians had drawn up a "document of death" to execute hundreds of thousands of Ugandans if they succeeded in toppling him from power.

Amin said his forces had captured a 13-point Tanzanian master plan to establish a "puppet government" and then eliminate the country's 500,000-strong Moslem population, several of Uganda's tribes, members of the armed forces and anyone connected with his eight-year regime.

Diplomatic sources dismissed the claim as a propaganda ploy to frighten Uganda's population into supporting Amin's regime and to solicit aid from sympathetic Arab nations such as Saudi Arabia and Libya.

With only sketchy and often contradictory information available, the state of the war remained confused.

Smith To Seek Seat In New Parliament

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Rhodesian Prime Minister Ian D. Smith, ignoring pressure to quit politics, has decided to run for parliament. If elected, he would lead the white minority in the first black-dominated assembly.

His candidacy for next month's general elections was announced today by the government, ending speculation that he might retire to his farm in the midlands of Rhodesia.

Smith, 59, who served in the previous white-dominated parliament for 30 years, has been under pressure to quit for some weeks.

Britain, recognized internationally as the governing authority over its breakaway colony, believes the next government has a marginally better chance of acceptance if Smith is excluded.

The three black Rhodesian nationalist leaders who signed a constitutional accord a year ago, paving the way for black majority rule, believe their prospects for recognition are brighter without Smith.

"With Smith sitting in the same parliament as the leaders, the outside world will be convinced he is still pulling the reins," said an aide to Bishop Abel Muzorewa, one of the three black leaders.

Smith has pledged to bow out of politics altogether if Western nations recognize the next government, and if the United Nations lifts sanctions imposed against his government's break from British rule in 1965.

Smith is expected to head his all-white party, which has governed Rhodesia since 1962. Whites, 3 percent of the population, will hold 28 of the 100 seats and control the armed forces, the civil administration and the judiciary for at least five years.

The accord that spawned this constitutional formula excluded guerrilla leaders Joshua Nkomo and Robert Mugabe who have stepped up their six-year war and vowed to sabotage elections and bring down the first black-led government.

Britain and the United States have sought in vain for two and a half years to organize a broader constitutional conference including the Salisbury leaders and the guerrillas.

Black Troops Kill Moslems In Chad

N'DJAMENA, Chad (AP) — At least 200 Arab Moslems have been killed by black troops in the second major massacre in southern Chad in 10 days, informed sources report.

The sources said the wholesale killing occurred Friday in the villages of Koumra and Moissala, near the border with the Central African Empire. They reported that Moslem leaders in the villages blamed the killing on forces of Lt. Col. Wadal Abdelkader Kamougue, a troop commander loyal to President Felix Malloum.

Ten days ago some 800 Moslems were slaughtered in and around Moundou, the nation's third largest city in the heart of southern Chad.

Southern Chad is densely populated with animist or Christian blacks while Moslem Arabs are predominant in the rest of the country but are outnumbered by the southern blacks.

The Moslems in the South control business and commerce, causing resentment among the blacks. This ill feeling has been fanned by the five-week-old civil war between troops loyal to Malloum, a southerner, and forces of Prime Minister Hissen Habre, a northern Moslem.

France has a garrison of more than 2,000 troops in the impoverished, landlocked central African country of 4½ million people, which was a French colony until 1960, and a Nigerian peace-keeping force arrived last week after a cease-fire agreement was reached. But the truce broke down Sunday when the two factions exchanged gunfire in N'Djamena.

Some 280 Europeans, most of them French, left Chad over the weekend. Foreign officials estimated that at most 300 to 400 foreigners, mostly technicians and missionaries, still plan to stay.

A so-called "conference of reconciliation" opened Saturday in Kano, Nigeria, with representatives of Malloum, Habre and various other factions attending. But the new massacre diminished the possibility of an effective peace agreement.

North Yemenis Accuse South

KUWAIT (AP) — Conservative North Yemen today accused Marxist South Yemen of new air attacks on its border posts despite Arab League demands for a cease-fire.

A North Yemeni broadcast said South Yemeni planes bombed positions in the area of Harib, a border town almost 100 miles southeast of San'a, the North Yemeni capital.

Meanwhile, an Arab League committee was trying to get observance of the truce the two governments at the southern tip of the Arabian peninsula agreed to nine days ago.

The committee, which conferred with the North Yemenis in San'a Sunday, includes six Arab foreign ministers and representatives of the Arab League and the Palestine Liberation Organization. San'a Radio said the panel "adopted a number of measures to resolve the conflict" which were conveyed to the North Yemeni government. It did not elaborate.

The committee flew to Aden early today to discuss its proposals with South Yemeni officials.

Research Aims At Increasing Soybean Nutrition

By SONJA HILLGREN

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Researchers at the University of Illinois are working to develop soybean strains that contain 30 to 50 percent more protein and may not require heating in processing.

Theodore Hymowitz, a plant genetics professor at the Urbana-Champaign campus, explained his research at an International Soybean Fair held this week on Capitol Hill.

As about 1,000 people gathered to eat hors d'oeuvres made from soy products, Hymowitz stood at one end of a giant Canon Office Building room with a cardboard chart explaining his work. It was something like a booth at a county fair.

Ten years ago a search began for soybean seeds without an anti-nutritional factor found in American soybean products.

Currently, all soybeans must be heated to remove the anti-nutritional factor before they can be converted into food or feed.

Finally, Hymowitz found two Korean soybeans without the factor. The traits were inherited and easy to transfer, researchers discovered.

"We are beginning a soybean breeding project," he said. "It'll take some time."

In four years, he predicted, varieties would be developed through genetics that could be sold commercially.

Studies indicate the soybeans could be 30 to 50 percent more nutritional than soybeans now grown. Hymowitz said researchers have found that removing the anti-nutritional factor would not reduce yields.

He said it is possible new varieties "may save energy" if soybeans no longer need to be heated to remove the anti-nutritional factor, but processors will have to determine if that is the case.

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Il., chairman of the soybean fair, said he was excited about the potential of the research.

He introduced Hymowitz to domestic soybean growers and processors who sponsored the event, to congressmen and to ambassadors who were invited to the fair in an effort to promote soybeans around the world.

Nearly 50 ambassadors and representatives of 80 embassies attended the event, where they were "confronted with food uses of soybeans" which are usually thought of as animal feeds, Findley said.

The menu included cocktail mini-burgers, with a hamburger analog made from vegetable protein, and Chinese kabobs, with a pork sausage analog also made of protein. The chicken in dumplings was augmented with 18 percent protein fiber.

Chinese Ambassador Chai Zemin was an honored guest and stood in the receiving line for two and a half hours. His embassy provided 10 of the soybean delicacies served at the fair.

Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland was honorary chairman.

Findley said he was pleased Ambassador Funihiko Togo of Japan, the largest customer of American food exports, attended the fair, which is the third Findley has sponsored in seven years.

The Illinois congressman said he could not trace any case histories of sales resulting from his fairs, but he believes they may have helped in expanding record U.S. soybean exports.

He said government cannot do an adequate job of export sales promotion, but private firms should "hold the hands of the big customers abroad every day of the year. It's a neglected field. We do some but not much."

Merlyn Groot of Manson, Iowa, president of the American Soybean Association, said the fair "calls attention to the importance of soybeans. Protein is one of the big interests in the world."

He said soybean use would expand and the "potential is still substantially higher than where we are."

Teen Serves As Adviser On Lunch Programs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — One of the federal government's youngest advisers, a 15-year-old expert on school lunch programs, says his new job gives him a "sense of power."

Todd Purvine of Piedmont, S.C., and Robin Maddox of Independence, Mo., also 15, are members of the 19-member National Advisory Council on Childhood Nutrition.

Congress required the panel to have two school students as members. The council will advise the Agriculture Department, which in turn will issue a formal report to Congress and President Carter.

The two 10th-graders sat at a U-shaped table in a crowded and stuffy government conference room Thursday. The group was expected to make recommendations to the Agriculture Department today on how to decrease waste and improve school lunch quality.

"Just saying you work for the federal government, so to speak, and that you were sent to Washington on a jet, all expenses paid — it just gives you a sense of power," said Purvine.

Purvine, dressed in blue jeans, a yellow T-shirt and tennis shoes, recommended parents play a bigger role in teaching children good eating habits at an early age.

Both Purvine and Miss Maddox said variety in meals served at home makes students more willing to taste new foods in the school cafeteria. Purvine, who took notes and paged through a volume of government documents during the session, said students complaining about cafeteria food are the ones who don't eat it.

"There is a lot of waste because of the competition from soft drinks, candy and crackers," he said. Students buy 55 cents' worth of sugary snack foods with the money their parents give them to buy the school's hot lunch, he said.

"They buy crackers — with cheese or peanuts, cookies or barbeque potato chips and a Coke and eat it at the lunchroom table," he said, calling for a ban on "cokes and crackers" in the lunchroom.

Miss Maddox, who drinks sugar-free soda despite warnings about artificial sweeteners, said the government is "making too much" of the problems of foods that may cause cancer.

She works part-time in a restaurant and said she has made everything from pepperoni to pineapple pizzas.

What did the two school food experts choose for lunch att a government cafeteria during a break in the council's meeting?

Miss Maddox ate french fried potatoes and shrimp, and Purvine had boiled rice, mashed potatoes with gravy and a bowl of peas.

Magazine Cites Rising Cost Of Drilling For Oil

DALLAS (UPI) — Deep drilling for oil and gas in the United States last year registered the biggest one-year increase in history and cost more than ever, Petroleum Engineer International magazine reports.

The magazine in its March issue said the number of wells drilled to 15,000 feet or deeper totaled 604 during 1978 — a jump of 128 over the 1977 mark and over 600 for the first time ever. The previous high was 506, in 1972 and 1973.

"Expectations are that deep drilling in the United States will continue to increase following passage last year by Congress of the Natural Gas Policy Act which promises to make development of deep gas reserves economically justifiable for the first time," the magazine said.

"Price controls are expected to be taken off natural gas produced from new wells drilled deeper than 15,000 feet then incremental pricing rules are issued by the government later this year."

Deep wells, the magazine said, cost $150.60 per foot to an average depth of 17,140 feet; the cost in 1977 was $126.37 per foot.

The success ratio of deep wells was down slightly in 1978, principally because of the large number of exploratory tests. The magazine said the ratio on deep development wells was 63.3 percent, with 189 of them completed as producers of a total of 298 drilled, but, in contrast, that only 97 of the 306 deep wildcats drilled last year produced oil or gas.

Louisiana led all states in the number of deep wells with 173. Texas was second with 152, followed by Oklahoma with 100. In all, 15 states were involved in deep drilling, but Arkansas, Idaho and North Dakota only had one each.

Offshore deep drilling fell to its lowest level of the 1970s, with only 25 completions — 20 in the Gulf of Mexico off Louisiana and five off New Jersey in the Baltimore Canyon 90 mies east of Atlantic City.

Offshore drilling, the magazine said, cost $222.80 per foot in the Gulf of Mexico and a whooping $996 per foot in the Atlantic Ocean. The magazine said the petroleum industry spent more than $85 million in drilling costs alone for the five Baltimore Canyon wells.

Impressionist Rich Little Reflects U.S. Politics

DALLAS (UPI) — A paraphrase of the old political cliche reads as follows: as goes impressionist-comedian Rich Little, so goes the country. Or, rather, so went the country.

Little, reflecting a fact deep in the hearts of Texans, does not yet do an impression of John Connally or George Bush, the two Lone Star State presidential hopefuls. He does, however, do one of former President Lyndon B. Johnson.

All of which means that Connally and Bush have a hill yet to climb in their pursuit of the presidency, or even the Republican nomination for the office.

Little, who appears tonight at the Tarrant County Convention Center in his first appearance in Texas in seven years and chatting in a telephone conversation from Los Angees, tells a story which explains the point:

"Don Rickles' mother once said to Don, 'I don't think you've made it yet. Once Rich Little imitates you, then you'll know you've made it.'

"That is a very flattering story," Little said, "but there is some truth there. I guess when it feels like the public knows someone enough, what they sound like, when they are seen a lot, either on television or the movies, that's when I start doing them."

Little, interested in the suggestion that an impression of John Connally would get a good reception in Texas, said neither Connally nor Bush, or for that matter Vice President Walter Mondale, are wept enough known nationwide to warrant an impression.

"I don't do Connally, but if he is going to run then he is going to be speaking a lot and he's going to be seen a lot," Little said. "Right now doing Connally would not have an impact in the rest of the country.

"There are a lot of people I could do that just wouldn't reach enough people. It's better to go with those who are known by at least 90 percent of the audience. Television is the best for that because more people watch television than go to movies."

Politicians, however, are the fairest game for Little and provide some of the best entertainment for the audience. Little presented a new type of impression which he created this summer. The first part of it he did in advance on film, wearing heavy makeup, fake nose and hair and a business suit, becoming former President Richard Nixon answering question in an interview situation.

Live on stage, Little plays CBS newsman Walter Cronkite asking questions of Nixon, who then answers on the film.

"I had always wanted to do Nixon in complete makeup, but I couldn't put on all that makeup on stage," Little said. "I couldn't just film it and leave the stage; that would be a cheat. With this, though, I can do Nixon in makeup and stay on stage.

"I had thought I would have to move on to Jimmy Carter, that I'd have to retire Nixon. But I discovered that people want me to do something on Nixon."

Not that his audiences don't enjoy Carter.

"I guess it's a shame, but the more unpopular Carter gets, the more people want me to do him. Tell you the truth, I'm having just about as much reaction to Jimmy Carter as I had to Richard Nixon."

Little, of course, must balance on a narrow beam in doing all of his impressions, and the touchiest of all now is John Wayne because of the actor's numerous medical problems.

"I do Duke in a tribute sort of way, but I am reluctant to use much because it kind of sounds like a eulogy," Little said. "People really get emotional about Duke. This last time in the hospital I sent him a telegram. It said, 'I think we should put my impression of you to the test. You get out of there and I'll fill in. And for God's sake don't let the doctors take out your walk.'"

Little said most of today's movie stars are hard to immitate because their voices and roles are not nearly so personal as the Gables, Coopers and Waynes.

"You just can't do a show on Gene Hackman, Dustin Hoffman, Al Pacino or Robert Redford. Actors today want to play different kinds of parts. They're different with every movie, whereas in the 40s, Gary Cooper was always Gary Cooper, regardless of what he played. Same with Gable.

"If I imitate Jon Voight, even if I do it well, who's going to know? The exception is someone like Jack Nicholson. There's a voice."

Hong Kong Products Gain Respectability

By LeROY POPE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Advertisers who proceed on the assumption that Mom dictates the family's purchases at the supermarket may be deluding themselves, says a New York advertising agency.

Neve Savage of Cadwell Davis Savage in New York says this conclusion is based on a rather small sample in a few northeastern supermarkets but the interviews were in depth and Savage believes the trends noted are significant.

It was discovered that in these days of two-income families, when Dad and the older children do a lot of the shopping, Mom's brand preferences get shunted aside rather rudely in favor of other brands in many purchases.

This does not apply so much to staple foods, nor to such things as headache remedies, deodorants and diapers. On these, whoever goes to the supermarket is likely to follow Mom's list or usual buying preference.

Nevertheless, advertisers who direct most of their advertising to the "housewife" may be talking to the wrong person in selling a large number of products, Savage said.

The study covered 43 categories and showed that, overall, Mother's brand preference is ignored if Dad or one of the kids does the shopping.

The things on which Mother's preference is most likely to be flouted are: beer 90 percent of the time, frozen dinners 81 percent of the time, soap and toothbrushes 73 percent, shampoo 70 percent, mouthwash and hand lotions 67 percent, frozen vegetables 67 percent and soft drinks 66 percent.

Savage labeled these "high interest" products, that is products that are consumed or used immediately and which are kept constantly in the public eye by advertising. Headache remedies are high interest but they "also depend on a high level of trust," Savage said, "so Mom's trusted product is not usually questioned."

Curiously, the survey found that price plays very little role in the deviation by Dad or the teenage shopper from Mother's brands. The answers indicated all members of the family are about equally price conscious.

Nor were the switches from Mother's brands mere happenstance. "Those asked gave specific reasons for buying different brands," Savage said. "Somebody's advertising was paying off."

Husbands are more likely than the teenage kids to choose their own brands, the survey indicated. Daughters are more likely than their fathers to follow Mother's preferences, but they still chose different brands 47 percent of the time.

Other recent surveys have shown that Mother now does only about 35 percent of the family shopping alone. Forty percent of married men apparently do much of the shopping either alone or in company with their wives. One survey said 24 percent of all married men do a substantial part of the cooking and the older children cook as well as do other chores.

Supermarket shoppers these days include men who are the heads of one-parent families, single men doing their own shopping, the older children of women alone, and retired couples sharing the shopping.

So, Savage concluded, the advertiser must realize that the traditional homemaker makes only about one-third of the brand decisions.

Railroad Safety Efforts Called 'Ineffectual'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Efforts by the Federal Railroad Administration to reduce rail accidents are largely ineffectual with "no indication" the agency's programs are reducing the number of derailments, claims a government report.

The railroad administration, part of the Transportation Department, is charged with setting safety standards and regulations for both passenger and freight railroad systems.

The report by the National Transportation Safety Board questions whether the railroad administration's top management is giving safety proper priority, calls rail inspectors inadequately trained, and claims the agency's current policy of imposing monetary fines to curb safety violations is not working.

Joseph Walsh, who took over this week as the railroad administration's associate administrator for safety, declined to comment on the report, saying he had not yet read it.

"There is currently no indication that the FRA track safety program is reducing the number of track-related derailments," the 108-page safety board staff report concluded.

The board approved the document unanimously Thursday, but copies of the final version were not immediately released, pending minor changes from the draft copy, agency officials said. A copy of the draft was made available to The Associated Press.

The report claimed the railroad administration's safety program for the transportation of hazardous materials, a subject of prime concern to the safety board, "is fragmented and without established goals."

Buzzing Envelope Surprises Guests

SHARI LEWIS

How would you like to place an envelope at each setting on your party table marked, "A Surprise for You." Then when each guest opens their envelope he'll get a surprise because suddenly the envelope buzzes like it has a gigantic bee inside?

Here's how you can do it:

Each "rattler" is made from two paper clips. Take one and spread it apart.

Take a second clip and open it into a wide V.

With a pair of pliers bend each end of this clip as shown. Put a small rubber band across the large V-shaped clip, and then slip the small paper clip onto the center of the band.

Now wind the small clip about 30 times, and then hold it tightly while you fold a piece of paper around it.

Put the paper (and the surprise!) into an envelope with the words lettered on the outside, and you're ready to give someone a real surprise!

TODAY'S BRAIN TWISTER: Three men fell out of a boat, but only two got their hair wet. Why? (Look for the answer in tomorrow's Kids-Only Club column.)

(Mail to Shari should be addressed Kids-Only Club c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1111, Los Angeles, Calif. 90053.)

Exhibit Scheduled On Bookbinding

NEW YORK (AP) — "Twelve Centuries of Bookbindings," an exhibition of more than 100 examples from the Morgan Library's collection, will be on show through April 8.

The library says the show "will trace the history of bookbinding from the 5th century to the end of its golden age, the 16th century in France and Italy."

Two other exhibitions run through April 14. They are "Medieval Manuscript Leaves" and "'Bab' Ballads and Their Operas." The first will show more than three dozen single leaves of the 12th to 16th centuries from the library's collection. The latter deals with "W.S. Gilbert's early contributions to the comic weekly Fun, many of which reveal the origins of 'H.M.S. Pinafore,' 'Patience' and 'Iolanthe.'"

Firms Prepare For Meetings

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — Like the class reunion, the corporate annual meeting is a rite of spring, a gathering of those with mutual interests to review the past, assess the present, and probably peak into the future.

It once could be as casual as the class reunion too, not really a spring picnic but still an outing, sometimes with box lunches and even entertainment. If only for a day, management and shareholders embraced.

But all that has been swallowed now by the more serious concerns of today, such as consumerism, morality, accountability, governance and the like. Shareholders are aggressive; management often is defensive.

This year, say the big accounting firms that now help management anticipate questions, shareholders will ask about questionable or illegal payments, political contributions, the use of foreign agents.

"What controls has the company instituted to protect against white collar crime? Does the board review the level of compensation of officers? Why aren't there any women on the board of directors?"

That sampler is from a 34-page booklet of probable questions that is being sent to clients by Deloitte Haskins & Sells, an accounting firm. The essential message is: Mr. President, be prepared. Depending on the company involved, preparation this year must also include briefings on how to handle church groups, unions, universities, and an increasing array of socially concerned individuals.

While the latter have been active for decades, especially in seeking to make corporations more responsive to their owners, the shareholders, they have grown more numerous, and perhaps more effective of late.

Charlotte P. Hutchinson, concenred shareholder in Iowa Power & Light, intends to seek resolutions against nuclear power. So does Ronald Pomerance, shareholder in Pacific Gas & Electric.

Robert Hall, manging editor of Southern Exposure, a quarterly journal of social concern, is again likely to be active in questioning the J.P. Stevens Co., particularly regarding its anti-union policy.

Marvin Perry of Phoenix has indicated he plans to question the Arizona Bank about its employment data over the past four years, seeking to determine the percentage of Spanish-surnamed employees.

In addition, the management of various corporations must be prepared for the questions of the old-timers, such as Wilma Soss, Evelyn Y. Davis, Edward Calvert and the 40-year veteran, Lewis Gilbert.

These latter names were referred to as "corporate gadflys" and they were treated with little more than condescension and a minimum of patience, the feeling being that they distracted from business.

Some of the scores of gadflys, but certainly not all, have now earned respect, in part because they have become more probing, more constructive, and above all, more effective in introducing resolutions.

But there's another reason, too. That is, the annual meeting no longer is quite the same. Like other institutions, it has had to change with the times. Above all, it needs to respond.

Management recognizes its new duties; it realizes it cannot simply get up before its audience and tell what it wants them to hear, and then amuse them with details of the great new product to be introduced.

Japan Invests In Foreign Art

TOKYO (AP) — The Japanese government has found a way to spend some of the big supply of foreign exchange resulting from its tremendous trade surplus: buying foreign art.

Dealers and auction houses in Paris, London, the United States and elsewhere may expect to see swarms of buyers from Japan.

The country's trade surplus — which has been severely criticized by other industrialized nations — amounted to $12.9 billion in 1977 and $18.2 billion in 1978.

"Last fall, the government set aside 1,500 million yen (then worth $7.7 million) in a supplementary budget for the purchase of Western paintings as part of a state project to help reduce the trade surplus," said Minoru Shirai of the Agency for Cultural Affairs.

Shirai, director of the cultural division, said in an interview with The Associated Press that he hopes it won't be a one-shot program.

"No additional funds are earmarked in the regular budget for the fiscal year 1979 (beginning April 1). I hope another appropriation is available this fall," he said.

The cultural agency has bought nine paintings and plans to buy three more for four national art galleries, two in Tokyo.

The nine include French artist Henri Rousseau's "La Liberte" at a cost of $1.2 million, Flemish painter Peter Paul Rubens' "Lot Leaving Sodom with his Family" at $764,000 and French impressionist Paul Cezanne's "Vers Solte de Jas de Bussent" at $528,000.

Others were by French impressionist Henri Matisse, Spaniard Pablo Picasso and the Dutch abstractionist Piet Mondrian.

The cultural agency also plans to purchase vintage editions on economics and other classic books in a $4.36-million program.

"If the art project is extended, I wouldn't rule out the possibility of purchasing Oriental masterpieces by Chinese and Korean artists. Their number will be smaller because we already have lots of them," Shirai said.

Bigger amounts are being used for Western paintings by 46 Japanese prefectural (state) governments for their museums and art galleries, he said. They have spent "millions of dollars" for about a score of masterpieces for the past few years, he said.

They included "Man with a Briar" and two others by Spanish artist Joan Miro, bought last year by Toyama prefecture for $454,070, and French artist Jean Francois Millet's "The Sower" and "The Return of the Flock" which the Yamanashi prefecture museum bought at a U.S. auction in 1977 for $715,000.

Many Japanese are fond of Western paintings. Leonardo da Vinci's "Mona Lisa" drew tens of thousands of spectators when it was exhibited in Japan in 1974.

City, Marshall Continue Bond Issuance Dispute

The City of Lubbock and James G. Marshall went to 137th District Court this morning to further contest their dispute over the issuance of $9.5 million in general obligation bonds.

Judge Robert C. Wright denied Marshall's "motion for judicial verification and substantiation of judgment" and sustained the city's plea that the jurisdiction of the district court over the case be ended.

City officials said after the hearing that they are unsure what will happen next in the long-contested case.

The suit by Marshall to block issuance of the bonds was ordered dismissed by Judge Wright after a trial late last year. Judge Wright later denied a Marshall motion for a new trial.

The deadline for Marshall to file a $1,500 appeal bond expired without the bond being filed.

The city plans to use the money from the bonds to build a Southwest Lubbock pump station, drill additional water wells in the Bailey County Sandhills and make improvements at the sewage treatment plant.

Judge Denies Hart Motion

PRYOR, Okla. (UPI) — A judge in the Gene Leroy Hart Girl Scout sex slaying trial today denied a defense motion for a mistrial on grounds the state was withholding evidence.

District Judge William J. Whistler said investigative documents turned over to defense counsel Saturday were irrelevant to the defense.

Prosecutors said the state used the reports to rule out possible suspects. Defense attorneys repeated the dismissal request in open court today and said the state had not acted in good faith.

Hart, 35, a two-time jail escapee who was at large when the three girls were sexually molested and killed June 13, 1977, at a northeastern Oklahoma Girl Scout camp near Locust Grove, is charged with three counts of first-degree murder in the case.

The bludgeoned bodies of Denise Milner, 10; Michele Guse, 9; and Lori Lee Farmer, 8, were found, along with their blood-soaked sleeping bags, about 50 yards from their tent.

Local Man Dies In Auto Crash

Lon D. Pierce, 22, of Route 10, Lubbock, was killed Sunday morning when he apparently lost control of his pickup and struck a utility pole one mile east of the city on Farm Road 835.

Justice of the Peace Charles Smith pronounced Pierce dead at the scene at 7 a.m. and said the man probably had been dead since about 3 a.m. Department of Public Safety officers were notified of the accident at 6:43 a.m.

DPS reports indicate Pierce was headed east on FM 835 when he apparently lost control of the pickup and struck a utility pole broadside, shearing it in half. Pierce was pinned in his vehicle.

As a safety precaution, DPS officers called South Plains Electric Cooperative workers to the site to turn off power so that rescue workers could remove Pierce's body from the pickup truck.

W.D. Cox, maintenance foreman for the co-op, said the power shutoff left 15 customers were without electricity from about 8:30 a.m. to 10:10 a.m.

Services for Pierce are pending with Rix Funeral Directors.

He was a Lubbock native and was employed by Wayne Cobb Sheet Metal Works.

Cheetas Possess Ways Of Wild Despite Being Born In Captivity

By JULES LOH

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Captured in human arms, a baby cheetah, even one who has never known a jungle, is unmistakably a wild creature.

He flails his skinny legs. He stiffens his neck hair. He bares his teeth. He hisses. He wants down. He wants the company of his own kind, other baby cheetahs also ignorant of jungle dangers.

"They're appealing little guys," Roger Birkel said. "It is tempting to pick them up and play with them. But we try to avoid handling them. We don't want to affect their natural behavior any more than necessary. It will be interesting to study them."

The cheetahs, four of them, are celebrated residents of the St. Louis Zoo and Roger Birkel is sort of their godfather.

Their mother is Kuzi. Kuzi and her mate, Sly, also were bred in captivity, a rare enough event, and their offspring are celebrities because the birth of cheetahs two generations removed from the wild is even rarer.

Roger Birkel knows of only two other such litters, one born in a London zoo in 1973 and one in a Cincinnati zoo last June, four months before the blessed event in St. Louis.

"It was some event," he said.

"Cheetahs just don't breed well in captivity. We know little of their habits because they are so difficult to study in the wild and so few of them left to study.

"So, first there was the excitement of Kuzi's pregnancy. I had hoped for it, then suspected it, then knew it — was sure enough of it to tell somebody else, at least. We were halfway there.

"Then, on Oct. 24, the keeper called me and said, 'She didn't come out to eat.' I rushed right over.

"You see, we had trained her to come for her food in another yard, away from her den, so we could check the den while she ate. The den was built in two sections just for that purpose.

"When she didn't come out for dinner we knew something was up.

"The next day she came out. While she ate, I went into the den through the back door and peeked into her section. There they were."

Roger Birkel is a big, gentle man of 33. His eyes are blue. His beard is about the color of a cheetah without the spots. He is associate curator of the zoo, in charge of carnivores. The zoo's Cheetah Survival Center is largely his doing.

"We had the space available and wanted to devote it to an endangered species, try to do more with it than just keep animals.

"We decided on cheetahs. At one time there were millions of cheetahs; now, probably no more than 5,000, mainly because of man's encroachment. Cheetahs are locked into a way of life that is changing faster than they can. Endangered is an understatement."

Cheetahs, he explained, are unlike other big cats. They generally keep to themselves. They hunt alone. When males and females are kept together, in captivity, they become as brothers and sisters and do not mate.

"We do not know as much about cheetahs' habits as other cats, but we designed the Survival Center with what we do know in mind.

"Now we know more than we did before, and we will keep learning, and, I hope, keep breeding cheetahs." A note of pride softened his voice. "Counting the babies, we now have 12 cheetahs. Not one of them," he said evenly, "was taken from the wild."

BIRKEL AND HIS CHARGES — Roger Birkel, associate curator of the St. Louis Zoo, plays with four cheetahs born at the zoo in October 1978. The cheetahs are two generations removed from the wild, making them rare. Birkel is in charge of the Cheetah Survival Center established at the zoo to protect the endangered species. (AP Laserphoto)

Copper Prices Post Dramatic Increase

NEW YORK (AP) — For much of this decade, gold has been the standout metal in the financial world. But lately it has been copper's turn to shine.

The long-depressed price of the metal has staged a dramatic rise from 68 cents a pound as of last September to 98 cents by the end of February. Last week it was hovering around 95 cents.

"The rapid rise in copper prices is being fueled by strong demand for the metal in the U.S. and overseas," analysts at Smith Barney, Harris Upham Co. said in a report issued last week.

"Although there is no current copper shortage given the level of inventories, it's clear that new copper production is well below consumption. Inventories, as a result, are being drawn down rapidly."

The situation, naturally, has had a healthy impact on the stocks of copper companies. From the start of the year through late last week, Phelps Dodge, for example, climbed from 21 to 28; Newmont Mining from 21½ to 26; Freeport Minerals from 32½ to near 40, and Asarco from 13⅞ to 18.

The often-volatile swings of the copper market have a marked and direct impact on the companies' earnings.

The Value Line Investment Survey calculated that every one-cent move in the copper price means a difference of 18 cents a share in Phelps Dodge's annual earnings. For Newmont it's 13 cents, and for Cyprus Mines 10 cents, according to Value Line.

Thus, analysts who follow the industry have lately been busy making sharp upward revisions in their company earnings estimates for 1979.

But few expect the copper price to continue climbing at its recent frantic pace through the rest of this year. In fact, many observers are looking for it to drop back for a while.

"The recent rise came fast and furious. It smacks of speculators trying to climb on a bandwagon," Value Line said. "The sudden spurt may be premature and near-term reaction is probable."

Adding to those suspicions are the widespread forecasts of a business slowdown later in the year. Analysts point out that a number of important markets for copper, in particular the housing and auto industries, are likely to feel the effects of any such slowdown.

Thus, Smith Barney analysts assume an average of 83 cents a pound for the full year. Douglas Moffat, metals and mining analyst at Loeb Rhoades, Hornblower Co., also puts it in the 80-to 85-cent range.

Looking further into the future, however, many observers are predicting substantially higher copper prices and a brighter future for the industry, which had been struggling for four years at or below the break-even point until recently.

"So many mines have been closed and so many expansion plans have been shelved during the four-year copper depression that it will take three to five years after the price of copper reaches $1.25 a pound before supplies catch up with consumption," Value Line maintained.

"By the early 1980s, there will be a true copper shortage," the advisory firm asserted.

Should such a prediction prove correct, and copper prices embark on a sustained rise, it would presumably stir interest not only in copper producers' stocks, but in the common penny. Five years ago, the last time there was a surge in copper prices, there were reports of penny hoarding.

According to Value Line, the value of the copper content of a penny would pass one cent when the copper price reached $1.75 a pound.

President Facing Uphill Battle

By JAMES GERSTENZANG

WASHINGTON (AP) — The squeeze is on the White House.

Working quietly in New York and very publicly in Los Angeles, groups of Democrats are warming up to attempt an exercise that worked 11 years ago: pulling the rug from under an incumbent president.

At the same time, an Iowa labor leader who helped President Carter take that state's Democratic Party caucuses three years ago is unhappy with the president's policies and says "Jimmy Carter is in trouble in Iowa."

A recent Des Moines Register and Tribune poll found that 17 percent of Iowans surveyed favored Carter as the party's nominee, while 40 percent favored Sen. Edward M. Kennedy and 12 percent were for Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr. of California.

"There's a lot of unrest out here," said Chuck Gifford, the United Auto Workers community action projects director in Iowa and a 1976 Carter supporter. "That plants all the seeds for an anti-Carter movement in this state."

The Democrats in California and New York opposed to Carter's all-but-certain renomination bid include some veterans who once before chipped away at a sitting president.

In fact, some might say 1979 is beginning to sound like 1968, when Vietnam War opposition led Democratic Party liberals and others to undercut Lyndon B. Johnson. But this year there is no central, highly emotional issue to unify the opposition. So the president's opponents are taking shots at a variety of his economic, energy and foreign policies.

President Carter's political team, facing what could become a "Dump Carter" movement within its own party, is using a strategy that has become familiar. It bears some resemblance to Johnson's tactics.

As it has for the last two years, the Carter team is emphasizing the president's claimed victories over long-standing problems.

Meanwhile, just as Johnson tried to steadily pursue his policy in Vietnam, Carter shows dogged determination to remain on course, focusing on arms limitation, the Middle East and inflation. These are among the issues that have caused him the most difficulty.

Carter's dramatic, and poliitcally risky mission to Cairo and Jerusalem in quest of a peace settlement could, if successful, silence his critics for a time. If it isn't successful, the opposition likely will be gaining some converts.

Occupied with Middle East peace negotiations, Carter last week skipped a planned trip to address a Democratic fund-raising dinner in Los Angeles, an outing that would have put him face to face with critical Democrats.

Vice President Walter F. Mondale stood in for Carter. Two groups of dissident Democrats marked the event with a well-publicized counter-Carter dinner, and with newspaper advertisements of their dissatisfaction.

In New York, Paul O'Dwyer, the feisty former City Council president, is spearheading an East Coast "Dump Carter" drive.

Like his new-found colleagues in California, with whom he says he has been in contact, O'Dwyer was one of the moving forces behind the "Dump Johnson" movement.

O'Dwyer says he spent nearly two months in a "low key" survey of potential support for a move against Carter.

"We knew the discontent was there, but whether the people have enough energy to protest within the Democratic Party we did not know," he said. "We have come to the conclusion it is a viable thing and can be done."

So, within the next few weeks, he expects to publicize his line of attack, which is likely to involve organizing a slate opposed to Carter to run in next year's Democratic primary election in New York State.

Asked whether he thought he could bring Carter to adjust his policies to suit the liberal critics, O'Dwyer replied:

"The president's position has been so directly opposite from what can be expected from a reasonable Democratic president and administration that there is no sense in pursuing it."

"The guns and butter economic issue — that's number one," he said. "We're conscious of the Israeli situation and we think that has been messed up, too."

O'Dwyer is trying to sell his argument to Democrats by warning that Carter could be vulnerable to a Republican challenger.

"We felt that if we left it to the Democratic Party, the candidate would be Jimmy Carter and that would bode well for the Republicans," he said. "The people would wake up a year from now and realize the opportunity had gone by."

Firefighter Killed In Brush Fire

TECUMSEH, Okla. (AP) — A firefighter was killed when surrounded by a brush fire that burned across two square miles of farmland "just like a tornado," one firefighter said.

Officials initially had said two firefighters died, but only one death was confirmed late Sunday. Firefighter Dwight Wise said the firefighters were trapped when "the fire just came roaring out of the brush and through the tall grass. ... It just kind of surrounded them." It took about three hours to bring the blaze under control. Police officer Gary Crosby said the fire apparently was started by a farmer burning brush.

Virus Blamed In Death

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — The deaths of scores of infants in Italy were caused by a virus contracted by at least half of all children within their first year of life, according to University of North Carolina researchers.

The virus, called respiratory syncytal virus, is the largest single cause of respiratory and lung infections sometimes serious enough to cause hospitalization, said Dr. Fred Henderson of the university's Frank Porter Graham Child Development Center.

Henderson and other researchers reported the results of a 10-year study of the virus in the March 8 issue of the New England Journal of Medicine.

Although a vaccine could be developed, they said it would be only mildly effective.

Since no child involved in the study developed a complete natural immunity to the virus, the researchers said a vaccine is unlikely to be able to do so.

Henderson said no figures are available on how many American children die of infections caused by the virus. It is most dangerous to infants, especially those with heart conditions, he said.

Officials in Naples, Italy, have reported that 71 infants have died there recently of a so-called "mystery disease."

By the end of the study, the researchers noted seven major outbreaks of illness caused by the virus. Two children of the 78 involved in the study developed infections severe enough to require hospitalization.

Blood tests and observations showed that the children developed only partial resistance to reinfection with the virus.

Man Trapped In Booth

CHARLESTON, W.Va. (UPI) — It would have been no problem for Clark Kent.

The mild-mannered reporter would simply have shed his clothes and stormed out of the telephone booth in full Superman costume.

But the man stuck inside a phone booth Saturday in the Kanawha City end of Charleston obviously wasn't Superman.

For more than 90 minutes, the man was trapped inside before calling the fire department to rescue him.

A squad rushed to the scene where firemen found the trouble — a faulty hinge. All it took to extricate him was a screwdriver.

Capt. Gary King just didn't have the heart to ask the man's name.

"It was too embarassing for him," he said with a smile. "There were people standing all around there laughing."

Search Team Probes Snow For Bodies

SEATTLE (AP) — A 24-man search team probed four feet of snow with long aluminum poles to locate the bodies of veteran mountaineer Willi Unsoeld and a student killed in an avalanche.

The team spent more than four hours removing the bodies Saturday from Mount Rainier. Unsoeld, one of the first five Americans to climb Mount Everest in 1963, and Janie Diepenbrock, 21, of Sacramento, Calif., died in the March 4 avalanche. Unsoeld, a mountain climbing instructor at the Evergreen State College in Olympia, was leading a party of 21 students down the mountain when the slide hit.

Moslem Brotherhood Maintains Role In Egypt

By W. G. KIROLOS

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — In the 1950s and 60s, President Nasser attempted to stamp them out. Thousands were sent to jail or detention camps. A few were hanged.

But the Moslem Brotherhood, an Islamic offshoot born in Egypt, has not died despite a 1954 official ban which remains in effect. Spiritually, it is active and well-organized. Politically, it remains on the sidelines but is potentially powerful.

The Brotherhood operates now under different names — the Moslem Society, the Sons of Mohammed, the Sons of Islam, Jihad. They have in common the puritanic, often fanatic, call for a return to the fundamentalist teachings of Islam, a vision of a united Moslem world where the Koran rules unchallenged.

Their influence manifests itself in many walks of life: a female student goes to campus cloaked from head to heel with only the face visible; a government official interrupts his work to spread a little mat and perform prayers; an unshaven young man vociferously sells or distributes Islamic literature on a busy Cairo street.

They denounce communism as "materialistic and atheistic" and condemn western culture as "immoral and depraved." For them, the Koran and the Hadith — the sayings of the Prophet Mohammed — are the path to salvation.

To the average Moslem, Islam, or submission to God, rests on five pillars:

—The declaration that Allah is the only God and Mohammed his prophet.

—Prayers: five times daily.

—Fasting: from sunrise to sunset throughout the holy month of Ramadan.

—Zakat or alms-giving: a Moslem is obliged to pay about 2.5 percent of his income to the poor.

—Pilgrimage to Mecca, if he can afford it.

For the Brotherhood, this is only the foundation — a solid foundation on which they have built a superstructure of teachings, sometimes sophisticated, occasionally simplistic and often fastidious.

The call for enforcing Islamic Sharia, or law, has paramount importance. This is not merely the stoning of adulterers, the flogging of drunkards and the chopping off of thieving hands. It extends to modern banking practices which they consider sinful "usury," a ban on men wearing silk or gold, injunctions against women mixing with men or exposing their hair, arms or legs in public, a detestation of "sex and violence" films shown on television and in cinemas, and virulent opposition to all forms of birth control.

"The rulers of Moslems must choose between the path of Allah and destruction," one of their publications recently declared.

The writer, addressing himself to the "rulers," said: "You have tried every theory and every form of government, and this (sorry state) is what you have arrived at. Why don't you try, if only for once, Islam, the religion of God, the system of God... All of us, then, will become like one hand, will become one nation. The artificial borders will fade away and there will be one currency. We are not demanding this from the states of the Middle East only, but from all countries of the Islamic world."

The call has not fallen on totally deaf ears in Egypt. Parliamentary committees have been working for the past two years to revamp Egypt's French-inspired laws and make them conform with Moslem rules.

But the government, with one eye on tourism and economy, and the other on Egypt's Christian minority, drags its feet. What it gave with one hand, it immediately retracted with the other.

A recent law banned the sale and drinking of alcoholic beverages. Before parliament could approve it, the government tacked on an amendment exempting "touristic" places of entertainment, rendering it largely ineffective. Almost all bars, restaurants and hotels — even those in working-class neighborhoods — got new licenses qualifying them as "tourist" attractions.

Moslem activists were not happy. The no-nonsense mayor of the Nile Delta town of Mehalla El-Kobra, using powers of a recent decentralization law, clamped a total ban on alcohol. It remains to be seen if other cities will follow suit.

More important was a decision by the Justice Ministry, nearly two years ago, to introduce four bills designed to convert the country from secular to "theocratic" law. The draft bills call for:

—A ban on "usury" in dealings between individuals as well as between individuals and banks.

—The death sentence for Moslem "renegades," those who convert to another religion or mock, verbally or in writing, the Koran or the Prophet Mohammed.

—Chopping off the right hand of a convicted thief and, if the theft is repeated, his left leg.

—Stoning to death married persons who commit adultery.

—100 lashes for unmarried adulterers.

—80 lashes for a false accusation of adultery.

—40 lashes for Moslems who manufacture, sell or drink alcohol.

These bills were drafted in July 1977 but must be approved by the cabinet and Parliament, and this does not appear likely in the near future.

Moslem fundamentalists fought the Jews in the first Palestine war of 1948. Two or three years later they were harassing British occupation forces in the Suez Canal zone. And following the rise of Nasser, they set about undermining his regime.

Although they disapprove of some of Anwar Sadat's policies, they appear disinclined to alienate a president who is both devout and tolerant.

When Sadat concluded the Camp David peace framework with President Carter and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, the magazine Al Dawa, which speaks for the Moslem Brotherhood, called it "a violation of heavenly law" and added, "We are mobilized for Jihad (holy war)."

But subsequent editions of the magazine took pains to emphasize its objections were an "inter-Arab and inter-Moslem" affair and cautioned both East and West against attempting to exploit them.

A recent editorial on Iran expressed hope the country's Moslem leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini was behind the removal of the shah, but also voiced apprehensions the Soviet Union, or even the American Central Intelligence Agency, might be responsible.

The Moslem Brotherhood's most dramatic recent intervention in politics came in July 1977 when a former cabinet minister, Sheikh Mohammed Hussein Al-Zahaby, was kidnaped by a fanatic Brotherhood sub-sect seeking freedom for 60 detained members and a $250,000 ransom. When the government hesitated to meet its demands, Al-Zahaby was killed.

Later 54 members of the sect were put on trial. Five were sentenced to death and hanged and 36 were sentenced to prison terms of three to 25 years.

Sadat, though devout, opposes mixing religion with politics. With Iranian developments obviously in mind, he recently told a youth rally, "We cannot be hostile to religion ... its impact on our life cannot be denied...

But he added, "He who wants to worship should go to the houses of worship. He who wants to participate in politics should join one of the legitimate political parties.

Prince Leaves Lubbock To Join Family

By Avalanche-Journal Staff

A composed and smiling Crown Prince Reza Pahlavi boarded an Air Force DC-9 jet with numerous pieces of luggage Sunday at Reese Air Force Base to join his father, deposed Iranian ruler Shah Mohammend Reza Pahlavi, and family in Morocco.

The prince first was given a private farewell party at the base by Reese personnel and a few close Lubbock friends and neighbors. Dressed in civilian clothes, the 18-year-old prince chatted with his friends and boarded the plane at 12:27 p.m., accompanied by his pets, a collie and a cocker spaniel.

State Department and Reese officials Sunday declined comment "for security reasons" on where the jet was to land for refueling, but speculation was the jet was to stop at an East Coast Air Force base.

The prince's westside Lubbock home was quiet late Saturday and Sunday, and it was understood Prince Reza spent his last night in Lubbock at his apartment at Reese.

The crown prince evidently had planned his departure from Lubbock a week ago. He originally was scheduled to leave Friday but the trip was postponed until Sunday. Movers began carrying loaded cartons from his off-base residence Thursday.

His last days in Lubbock were passed quietly. Thursday night he partied with friends at a downtown Lubbock restaurant. On Friday he received his flight training wings in private ceremony at Reese after completing a 50-week flight training course four months early.

He arrived in Lubbock in July 1978 and quickly made the city his home.

He kept a low profile in Lubbock, but managed to visit local nightspots, participate in soccer matches and drive around town in his Jaguar.

A camera buff, Prince Reza photographed media photographers and reporters who camped outside his weekend home in early January when his two sisters and brother paid him an 11-day visit.

REZA PAHLAVI

Princess Leila, 8, and Prince Alireza, 12, and their grandmother, Farideh Diba, arrived in Lubbock Jan. 18 from Iran, while the prince's elder sister, Princess Farahnaz, 15, arrived in December.

The family members left Lubbock Jan. 27 to join the shah and Empress Farah at their Moroccan refuge.

The Shah and his wife first went into seclusion in Egypt after fleeing politically divided Iran in the wake of a takeover by followers of Islamic leader Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini in December, and later moved to Morocco in mid-January.

Pahlavi Thanks City Residents

BEFORE LEAVING Lubbock for Morocco Sunday, Crown Prince Reza Pahlavi personally handed The Avalanche-Journal a letter addressed to the citizens of Lubbock, expressing his thanks for the manner in which he has been welcomed and treated while training at Reese Air Force Base.

The letter follows:

"An Open Letter To The Citizens Of Lubbock:

"On behalf of my family, friends and myself, I wish to thank the people of Lubbock and West Texas for the welcome and continued hospitality extended to all of us.

"We who come from abroad get our picture of Texas mainly from Western films. Now that I have lived here, my future memories will not be primarily of cowboys, cattle, and oil but rather of the people who were so supportive and friendly.

"We were made to feel at home by neighbors, school children, officials and countless others who opened their hearts to us as well as your city.

"Even though our stay with you has been brief, you have made a lasting impression on us because of your warmth and friendliness. Thank you for your many notes of welcome, encouragement and support. You are a great city and a great people.

Yours, truly,
REZA PAHLAVI

Grand Jury Focuses On Bullock's Office

AUSTIN (AP) — The Travis County grand jury focuses on Comptroller Bob Bullock's office today as four former and present state employees appear to testify.

The four were Ed White, head of manpower services; Paul Wehrle, research director of legal services; Leslie Vilas, Bullock's personal secretary; and Randall B. Wood, former chief clerk and now an Austin attorney.

They showed up Friday, but the grand jury was tied up on another case and asked them to return at 1 p.m. today. Bullock's pilot and three others testified last week.

A previous grand jury criticized Bullock's record-keeping, expense vouchers and use of state airplanes, but returned no indictments.

The present grand jury reportedly is investigating if travel vouchers were turned in for hotel rooms provided at no cost.

But an investigation source said that allegation apparently is mistaken.

"The secretary does the travel vouchers and she might not have been aware it was a complimentary room. It looks like that's what happened," the source said.

Bullock declined a grand jury invitation to testify on advice of his lawyer Roy Minton. The attorney said the district attorney's office would not agree to limit its questions to allegations of possible criminal activities.

Thomas Becket, archbishop of Canterbury, was murdered in his cathedral in 1170 by order of King Henry Ii, the records suggest.

At Wit's End...

By ERMA BOMBECK

I saw a neat idea in a magazine the other day where someone gave a shower for an expectant grandmother who was awaiting the birth of a grandchild.

A group of contemporaries got together and brought used cribs, rockers, and toys to provide a home-away-from-home for the new offspring.

What a wonderful idea. I know when my children were small, I did the best I could to furnish Mother with all sorts of wonderful diversions for the children when they visited.

I left the drum set at her house. The one she so thoughtfully got the children for Christmas . . . the one that sounded like the footsteps of a thousand camels on your eyelids.

I gave her the live rabbit to keep . . . the one that made such a hit when she gave it to the children at Easter tucked away in a little yellow basket, lined with green ribboned grass and little pebbles that clogged your sinuses.

From the moment she gave them the trampoline, I knew it was definitely a Grandma's house toy. Better to clear all the furniture out of a room in her house and pad the walls and ceilings . . . than mine.

The moment I saw the train with 630 miles of track that Granddad bought for their birthday I said, Wouldn't that be just the thing to set up at Grandma's house?

I don't think I'll ever forget the look on Mother's face the day I dropped off my daughter and her taffy machine. I left it there, of course. Since Grandma bought it, I knew she'd want to share the enjoyment of picking taffy off the ceilings and out of the carpet.

Somehow, I couldn't be selfish about the noisemaker that Grandma gave them from a New Year's eve party, or the tricycle with the siren on it that she got for their graduation from nursery school, or the saber that she brought to them from her vacation.

I occasionally got a twinge about all the toys at Grandma's, but when she bought them their first phonograph with a volume knob, I knew I was doing the right thing.

The children used to love going to Grandma's house — they still do. They say her home has happy memories and is so lived in.

It's the taffy in the rug that does it.

Clip 'n' Cook

BLACKBERRY COBBLER

1¼ cups flour
½ tsp. salt
½ cup margarine
2 tbsps. cold water
1 cup sugar
3 tbsps. cornstarch
¼ tsp. cinnamon
Dash of salt
1 16-oz. pkg. frozen blackberries, partially thawed
Hard Sauce

Combine flour and salt; cut in margarine until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Sprinkle with water, while mixing lightly with a fork; form into ball. On lightly floured surface, roll out dough to 9-inch circle. Cut several slits in dough.

Combine sugar, cornstarch, cinnamon and salt. Add berries; mix lightly. Place in 9-inch skillet. Top with dough; flute edge along side of skillet. Bake at 400 degrees, 45 to 50 minutes or until crust is golden. Serve with:

Hard Sauce: ½ cup margarine, 1 tsp. lemon extract, 2 cups confectioners' sugar.

Cream margarine; blend in extract. Add sugar, beating until light and fluffy. Makes six servings.

DEAR ABBY

DEAR READERS: If you have never had the privacy of your home violated by burglars, skip this column.

If you have ... welcome to the club.

I want to share a particularly timely and enormously moving piece I recently read in the Los Angeles Times. I welcome your reactions

AN OPEN LETTER TO BURGLARS
By Fay Cohen

Dear burglars:

Having spent my childhood in a clean but poorly furnished home, I set out in marriage to make up for this by decorating our abode in an attractive and cheerful manner. My furniture is comfortable and tastefully coordinated; the wall hangings are equally eye-appealing. My housework and leisure time are made pleasant by up-to-the-minute appliances.

If you want all this, boys, you'd better bring a moving van. Pull it right up to my apartment door next time. No one will notice or question you — or will they?

You already have taken what could be carried away in a sack.

How much did you get for my string of pearls, given to me by mother more than 30 years ago? Did the love that permeated them enhance their value?

My late husband's watch was cold metal when you snatched it. He often laid it on his nightstand, and I'd feel the warmth of his body still on it, giving it momentary life.

And that gold wedding band with the Hebrew lettering — King Solomon's lovely: 'I am my beloved's and my beloved is mine.' How much did that net you?

After the police dusted for your prints, I was left alone, by choice, to try to put myself together. I scrubbed your presence away with soap and water, angry but not afraid.

You did frighten me two years ago when you broke in and took my son's photography equipment and my color television set. It wasn't so much what they took — how can one become sentimental over things that are easily replaced? What upset me so much was that my secure home was intruded upon. It took me a long time to return to normal and lose the fear that you might return.

And return you did, last week. This time my reaction is vulnerability, at a society where even things under lock and key are not safe -- and I'm very angry with you!

Did I say I'm not afraid? Yes, I am — not of you, but of myself and the way I shouted to the police — "If you were to find them now and bring them here, I'd kill them!"

Do you know what disturbs me about that threat? I really, really meant it. For one insane moment I was capable of committing a crime. If I'd had a gun, I might have used it, thereby stooping to your gutter level. No, no guns in my house, thank you.

You took my precious possessions and you stole one thing more: my former self, the non-violent, secure, trusting person I used to be. I am sad — depressed — here in my fortress, now secured with double-bolts and a burglar alarm."

GOREN ON BRIDGE

Q.1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠954 ♡A84 ◇K963 ♣AJ7
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	2 ◇	Pass
2 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Don't let your 12 high-card points and fine heart support go to your head. You have a perfectly balanced hand, and you should deduct one point for that flaw. Also, your hand is almost devoid of intermediate cards. Three hearts is quite adequate—if partner can't bid on, you probably haven't missed a game.

Q.2—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQ1074 ♡A ◇962 ♣AQ104
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	1 NT	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	2 ♡	Pass

What action do you take?

A.—What are your options? Partner has virtually denied three-card spade support by failing to take a preference to two spades. And he didn't have the values for a two-over-one response. In view of the misfit, pass and hope you have enough to enable partner to make his contract.

Q.3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠Q1072 ♡84 ◇9 ♣KJ10762
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
1 NT	Dble.	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—Your side has the balance of power, so it is very tempting to pass and hope to collect a penalty. Indeed, we would endorse that action if we were sure partner would lead a black suit. More likely, however, he will lead a red suit, giving declarer the tempo and a probable trick. To avoid this fate, we suggest a jump to three clubs. That can't show a good hand, for we would have passed with strength. At the same time it suggests more power than a weak takeout of two clubs, and partner should convert to three no-trump with a club fit and stoppers in the other suits.

Q.4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A1054 ♡Q1083 ◇7 ♣8752
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♡	Pass	2 ♡	Pass
2 NT	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—By inviting game, partner has shown a better than minimum opening bid—at least 16 points. In support of hearts your hand is worth 10 points, so you should accept. Bid four hearts.

Q.5—North-South vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠6 ♡AJ95 ◇862 ♣AK1053
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♡	Pass
1 NT	Pass	3 ♣	Pass
3 ♡	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—Partner's failure to rebid three no-trump indicates that he may not have spades and diamonds adequately guarded to make the no-trump game a secure contract. However, four hearts on a 4-3 fit (partner cannot have four-card support) might be no better. For the moment, all you can do is bid four clubs and allow partner to select the final contract.

Q.6—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠752 ♡KQJ8 ◇KQ74 ♣83
The bidding has proceeded:

West	North	East	South
3 ♠	Dble.	Pass	?

What do you bid now?

A.—If partner has full values for his vulnerable takeout double at the three-level, your side could easily have a slam. Unfortunately, there is no safe way to investigate the possibilities. Settle for four hearts, and if it turns out that you did miss a slam, write it off as another victory for preemptive tactics.

Q.7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A7 ♡A109865 ◇Q7 ♣AK3
The bidding has proceeded:

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	Pass	1 ♠	Pass

What do you bid now?

A.—With 17 points in high cards and a six-card suit, some jump rebid is needed to show your values. Your only reasonable choice is three hearts, despite the fact that you would prefer to have a better suit for this action.

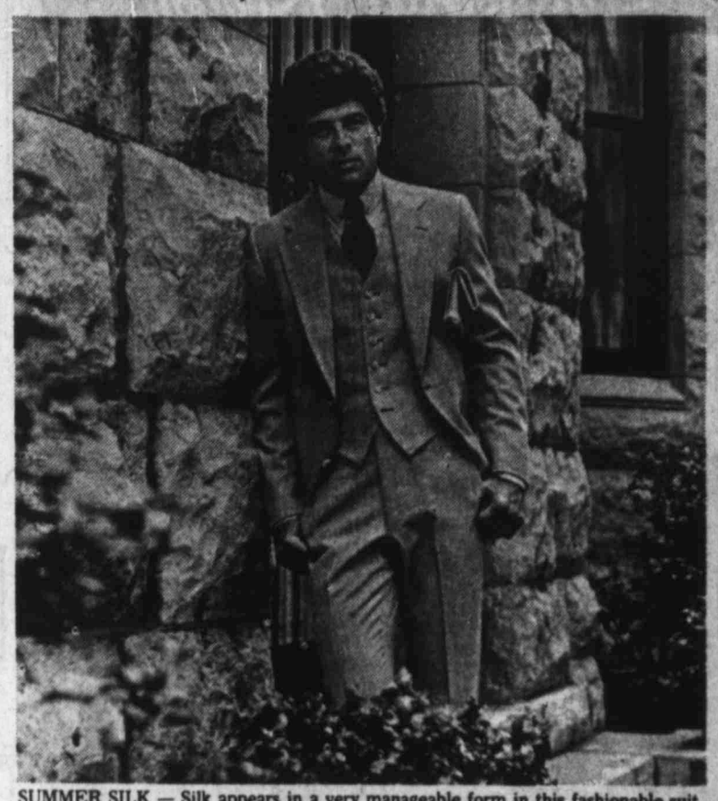
Q.8—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KJ52 ♡AJ8 ◇763 ♣952
The bidding has proceeded:

North	East	South	West
1 ♠	Pass	1 ♠	Pass
3 ◇	Pass	3 NT	Pass
4 ♠	Pass	?

What action do you take?

A.—From his bidding, partner has shown a very powerful minor two-suiter and is making an effort to get to slam. With an ace and a king, you should be ready to cooperate, even though your holdings in his suits are far from robust. We suggest a cue-bid of four hearts to show the ace and a willingness to play slam if that's the control he needs.

Rubber bridge clubs throughout the country use the four-deal format. Do they know something you don't? Charles Goren's "Four Deal Bridge" will teach you the strategies and tactics of this fast-paced action game that provides the cure for unending rubbers. For a copy and a scorepad, send $1.60 to "Goren Four Deal," P.O. Box 259, Norwood, N.J., 07649.



SUMMER SILK — Silk appears in a very manageable form in this fashionable suit. The suit offers natural-shoulder styling, flap pockets and deep side vents. The pattern blends khaki, blue, red and gray on a cream background. Eleven percent silk gives the ensemble the sumptuous luxury look of that special fiber.

HARD-COOKED EGGS

Leftover hard-cooked eggs? Why not stuff them and serve to round out a salad or sandwich lunch? Cut four eggs in half lengthwise then mash the yolks and mix with three tablespoons dairy sour cream, one-half teaspoon of prepared mustard, one-fourth teaspoon each of salt and celery seed and one tablespoon of sweet pickle relish. Refill whites and chill.

Pat Walker's presents: the splendor of being slender.

Has to say about PAT WALKER'S
For several years I had slowly been gaining weight, thinking of course, I could lose it by myself anytime. BUT I found out it's not that easy to do by yourself! When my husband started making comments about my figure I knew it was time I found professional help. Having already read many things about the Pat Walker Program, the idea of being able to lose both weight and inches where I really needed them off, plus not even messing my hair or even having to change my clothes, while doing it really appealed to me. I am so pleased with the success I have had with the Pat Walker Program. Pounds and inches came off to give me a new figure I can be proud of! I can really say I'm glad I did it. VIVIAN RODGERS

MODERN AND AFFORDABLE — Pictured are both exterior and interior views from typical new homes in the south Lubbock University Pines addition. A model home is open there on specified hours at 9310 Detroit.

New University Pines Homes Commended For Plus Features

Shouldn't a new home in University Pines be yours?

(And especially when so many advantages are standard in these energy-efficient homes.)

As first step in consideration of one of these modern residences, likely you would enjoy attendance at open house of a model home at 9310 Detroit, open every day from 2 p.m. until 6 p.m., with appointments available at other hours, seven days a week.

Located adjacent to 91st Street and University Avenue in far south Lubbock, the University Pines development provides new and economical possibilities for new-home acquisition and enjoyment.

Henry Huneke, prominently connected with the Lubbock building community for more than two decades, is the president of First Manufactured Homes, Inc., builder of each University Pines home, and developer of that area. Norman Dowdy is sales manager and each invite inquiry at the 9602 University Ave. offices, phone 745-1533.

Of a projected 500-residence capacity in University Pines, 330 single-family homes already have been sold and occupied, with some 170 to go!

Small wonder the acceptance has been so enthusiastic.

Affordable Price

Consider that the price range for standard-built three-bedroom homes in the development is a modest $33,300 to $33,800, with options available. (Standard features include full carpeting, kitchen appliances, refrigerated air, smoke detectors, two baths, and numerous construction innovations lending to comfort, energy saving and convenience, with quality foremost.)

And it can be so easy to move in, with a most inviting 9 1/2 per cent interest rate available, FHA financing with around $1,600 move-in cost, and VA financing with 100 per cent loan and no move-in cost.

Each home is situated on a lot of basic size 60 by 110 feet, with some variations in particular locations.

The homes involve about 1,280 square feet.

Energy-Efficient

Factors "built in" to enhance the value of each University Pines residence include energy efficient construction, with a large amount of insulation enabling R-30 attic and R-22 rated walls; storm sashes on windows, styrofoam sheeting on the outside, built-in vapor barrier on exterior walls, and with all openings into ceiling, windows and doors sealed with foam. Actually there are 14 specific energy-saving factors in the building program of each of the homes. These must be seen to be fully appreciated.

Isn't it refreshing to find homes available in today's economy and life style that are within a reasonable price range, yet affording comforts to be appreciated and even envied? Henry Huneke and his staff and co-workers understand Lubbock and South Plains preferences and recognition of quality, and they build accordingly, as would one good neighbor for another.

"Come on out, to the open house at 9310 Detroit, or to the offices at 9602 University, and learn full details too numerous to pinpoint in a written story. Learn of the more-than-adequate standard features of each three-bedroom home and of the options available at modest cost. But foremost, note the quality of workmanship, the consideration of today's needs, and the sensible pricing structure. It is all part of the First Manufactured Homes way of serving, and being a good member of the growing community.

Appraisal Service Highlights Gemstone Benefits To Region

Appraisal of diamonds and colored stones (including turquoise) and also for antique jewelry is the specialty of Dottie Saeger, Gemstone owner and a graduate gemologist.

Location of the Gemstone firm is at 1220 Broadway (Metro Tower), phone 744-1638, with the business adjacent to the lobby.

Shop hours are 9 a.m. until 3 p.m., Moodays through Fridays, and also by appointment.

Merchandise brought into the shop early can be appraised in one day in most instances.

Dottie's appraisal services have been utilized by both individuals and jewelry stores in the area.

Selective Stock

Stocked in the small but selective shop is antique jewelry, furniture and Persian rugs, with small prayer rugs priced from $200. One may select at the shop here for such items as rings, pendants, silver and gold items, coral, turquoise, jade, fine gemstones and all.

New Access To Value

A Lubbock resident of some three years, Dottie actually has enabled new access to investment gems, fine jewelry, gem identification and quality analysis reports and appraisals, right here on the South Plains.

So, by all means, drop in to see Dottie Saeger at Gemstone, off the Metro Tower lobby, 1220 Broadway in Lubbock.

This relatively new shop and service is sure to intrigue.

Business & Industrial Review

HOME OF THE VALUABLE, UNIQUE — Daisy Yugovich and daughter, Gerry Bowman, of Daisy's Collectibles on 34th Street, are shown in an attractive nook of their highly-selective shop with some of the rare collectibles gaining acclaim for the shop throughout a wide Texas area.

Daisy's Collectibles Affords Gallery Of Veritable Treasures

"Have you discovered Daisy's Collectibles, 2002 34th St. phone 763-2973, Lubbock's only collectors gallery?

"Then don't delay, for if we don't have it, we're working on getting it!"

Yes, for quality porcelain and limited editions, collectibles and gifts, Daisy's Collectibles is in a class by itself.

Featured are lines including M.I. Hummel, Sebastian Miniatures, Lladro, Cappe, Kaiser, Borsato, Norman Rockwell, Roger Brown, Capodimonte and even many more.

The "most sought after" Hummel and Norman Rockwell plates, figurines and bells are currently attracting much deserved attention; see Daisy's Collectibles, of course.

Owned by John and Daisy Yugovich and daughter, Gerry Bowman, this shop addition to the Lubbock community was opened back in August of last year. Stocking "top of the line" merchandise, appreciation and increasing trade have been the story since.

Daisy's Collectibles is open from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m., six days a week, and Visa and Master Charge purchases are welcomed.

Very Unusual

At random, here are some of the featured items and lines:

As this is the Year of the Children, one likely will be especially interested in the Roger Brown Allison bells, limited to 15,000 and first in a series of four bells. See the Borsato Christmas and annual first edition bells.

And the Gorham and Grossman Rockwell plates and figurines that are coming.

Also the shop has miniature Grossman-designed Rockwell figures and Toby mugs.

There are the Sebastian miniatures of handpainted collectors thimbles and collectors cases.

Etched Crystal

And pewter figurines, the Sascha Brastoff abstracts in porcelain, and many lovely pieces of Beyer etched crystal and limoge boxes.

You must see the Kaiser and Coppe figures, magnificent pieces you'll be proud to own.

Also added is the ever-beautiful Sabino irridescent figures that are truly collectibles. Each is styled and signed by hand.

A large selection of Andrea birds is presented.

Carved Stone

Incolay (carved stone) jewel boxes are here in all colors and sizes, priced from $20 to $220.

The Lladro figurines from Spain, Goebel Red Heads and the Co-Boys are coming soon.

On order are curio cabinets for one's collection, and these will be at a cost one can afford (Daisy's has a divided payment plan to further ease purchasing).

"Come in and see the limited bronze pieces by Collection Francaise. Some are limited to 850 pieces world-wide.

There are porcelain flowers, bells and figurines by Capodimonte, and paper weights by Grant Randolph; and crystal decanters in many styles and colors. Beer steins, too, in large and miniature sizes. We have the beautiful Metlach steins in four seasons, two per year until your set is complete. These retail at $250 each.

Also stocked are the Carl and Carol Burgues, Chun Li and June Dream plates, Birds of Fancy and Floral Fantasies plates and the lovely three-plate Trytich by Anne Perenna.

Coming soon is a large selection of the favorite Belleek porcelain ware.

Fenton pieces and Cardina brass, trays and urns, Royal Doulton porcelain and more are coming soon.

"See why Daisy's is different; see why Daisy's Collectibles should be a favorite shop for you, too? Come in soon, please, to Daisy's Collectibles, at 2002 34th St. in Lubbock."

'Tis the season of the year to seriously arrange for protection during windstorms or tornadoes.

"In Lubbock and area, the Stormaster underground shelter protection can be speedily and easily secured by consulting with the Stormaster specialists at 3406 62nd St., phone 792-5977, who season after season have served most admirably, and who have been proven time after time.

Stormaster shelters are built right; they serve a definite need in the unsettled spring weather conditions of the South Plains; and they are backed with the professional understanding and integrity of their builder, Homer Ries.

Rainbo Salutes, Introduces Key Personnel In Operations

This month's salute at Rainbo Baking Co. of Lubbock goes to Jesse Zamarripa Jr., garage superintendent.

Congratulations, Jesse!

It has long been recognized at Rainbo that acceptance and recognition of the firm and its products is not the mere result of "luck"; but rather the fact that the good product line and the service to match is made possible by a knowledgeable staff devoted to the job at hand, with the customer as ultimate and intended beneficiary.

Harry Hoopes, manager of the Lubbock firm, time and again has stressed that among the factors contributing to a smooth-running and successful operation are the people who make up the staff.

Meet Jesse Zamarripa

In connection with this pride in a job well done by a dedicated group, introduction of these staffmembers is made on regular basis on these pages of the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal.

Jesse Zamarripa Jr. has been with Rainbo for some six years, coming to the firm after mechanical studies in the Neighborhood Youth Corps.

Starting with Rainbo as a mechanic, he has worked up to his present position in charge of maintaining a fleet of 60 units for Rainbo!

This certainly speaks well of the 25-year-old lifelong Lubbock resident. Jesse attended Matthews Jr. Hi and he and his wife, Margie, have two children, Jesse III, age 5, and Larie Ann, age 3. They attend St. Joseph's Catholic Church.

"Rainbo is a great place to work," Jesse points out without hesitation. "All one needs to get along and advance in this organization is ambition and some horse sense!"

Jesse tells how he has enjoyed mechanical work since a very early age, and this aptitude, drive and training has resulted in a most responsible position with Rainbo, a leading area firm.

Inquiries Invited

(Rainbo from time to time has openings in its mechanical department, with another member presently needed. Those interested are invited to check with Jesse Zamarripa now for details. It could be a real opportunity.)

All is not work for Jesse, as he is an avid sports enthusiast and especially enjoys fishing, whether at White River or salt water fishing on the Gulf.

With ambitions, capable staffmembers such as Zamarripa, it is understandable that Rainbo Baking Co. of Lubbock serves superbly!

Business & Industrial Review

EFFICIENCY, CAPABILITIES, STOCK EMPHASIZED — Shown at top is Modern Chevrolet's parts manager, Doretta Kitten, with Jimmie Snook, an assistant parts manager. Another capable assistant, Bob Findley, was not present when picture was made. Note the long aisles within the department, and the fact that roller skates are worn by all countermen. Read the accompanying story for the intriguing explanations.

Modern Chevrolet's Multiple Departments 'Tops In Service'

Modern Chevrolet, at 41st Street and Avenue Q, is more than just a business, as important as that must be. Modern Chevrolet is people, also; people whose knowledge of the firm's products and services is equalled by their desire to serve, people whose devotion to their customers' interests is recognized in every transaction.

Nowhere is this situation more evident than in the Parts Department, Service Department and Body Shop of the firm.

Such customer consideration has met with grateful response.

The firm was founded back in 1955 with present owner Gordon Rose as one of the founders. The growth since that date "has been possible only through ethical business practices and a continuous effort to improve customer service," Rose emphasizes.

Exceptional Volume

As evidence of this growth, in 1978 over $1 1/2 million was chalked in mechanical sales and body shop, with $1 3/4 million in parts sales!

Some 100 cars are serviced daily.

A $400,000 parts inventory is maintained.

And speaking of parts . . . and service:

The efficiency in that department is something to behold!

Doretta Kitten, reared in Slaton, and most, most knowledgeable in the parts business, heads the department where seven countermen are on the job, representing 110 years of combined parts experience.

Innovative Approach

All countermen are on roller skates throughout the day, to speed their work! Really.

The countermen report that they are not nearly as tired at end of day, the customer is served more promptly, and no complaints from staff or customers have been voiced. In fact, quite the opposite.

"I believe the efficiency of the department is increased probably 15 per cent or 20 per cent by the use of the skates," Doretta emphasizes. Special high-quality skates were purchased some four months ago and are "just part of the job" now, with the countermen putting the skates on the first thing on the job, and wearing them throughout the day.

Greg Boyd heads the service department where 19 technicians, seven body shop personnel and three service writers are on the job five days a week.

It all is a part of Modern Chevrolet's continuous effort to improve customer service, a dedicated effort of the ownership and management throughout the years.

"After all, we've been friends a long time . . . at Modern Chevrolet!"

Beck's Warp 'n Weave, Unique In All Southwest, Schedules Added Classes

For anyone interested in weaving, crochet work, knitting, tatting, numerous other fiber projects, Beck's Warp 'n Weave at 3021 34th St. has a most intriguing presentation of goods and services.

Said to be the only complete spinning and weaving shop in a vast southwestern section of the nation, this Lubbock shop can open a whole world of new experiences for you, too!

Of immediate import is announcement of new or added classes to begin at early dates.

For example, a Harness Loom class will start March 29, with Tom Beck (owner of the shop) instructing.

And classes in Natural and Coiled Basketry begin April 3, with Mrs. Beck (Nancy) instructing.

Tatting classes also begin April 3, taught by Betty Bradford.

(Inquire for times, as some courses are only available in evenings, or during the day.)

Saturday Card Weaving classes begin May 5 under direction of Virginia Riggs.

And on April 21-22, an advanced Loom Workshop on use of color will be conducted at the shop by Charlotte Funk, internationally-known weaver.

Dates for a May Spinning Workshop are to be announced.

And all thse are just part of the picture! There are other classes and there are many, many related products stocked within the unique store.

'Hard-To-Find' Items

Looking for a tatting shuttle, an umbrella swift, a beautiful handcarved crochet hook, beautiful space-dyed wool, the new soft cotton chenille yarn, or even intrested in an incredible rope machine enabling you to make your own rope, rug or belt?

Or the great yarns not found elsewhere in the region? See the beautiful slubby yarn for fashioning a spring sweater, soft luxurious cotton for a bedspread to be cherished for generations, or finest wool in hand-dyed colors for a disco scarf, as example.

All these and more are found at Tom and Nancy Beck's Warp 'n Weave, 3021 34th St., in Lubbock.

For classes, materials and supplies, all at modest cost, one should without delay learn more of this one-of-its-kind shop.

SPRING CREST AFFORDS 'SOMETHING BETTER FOR YOUR HOME'

Spring Crest, In Lubbock, Plainview Sets Specific Limited-Time Specials

"You have heard your neighbors talk about it;

"You have seen it in your friends' homes;

"You have read about it in House and Garden magazine . . .

"Now, Spring Crest wants you to have the finest in drapery treatments in your home at a reduced price!"

For a limited time, you can save 33 per cent on stocked Spring Crest hardware when you purchase a custom window treatment at Spring Crest Draperies, 5302 Ave. Q in Briercroft Shopping Center in Lubbock and at the newer Spring Crest store, under same ownership, at 2613 Yonkers in Plainview.

Also, you can save 33 per cent on sheer draperies when purchased with an over drapery.

"Come in now and see the most beautiful draperies in the world: Spring Crest; and enjoy some unusual savings.

Get a free estimate, without obligation, at Spring Crest in Lubbock or at the Edgemere Center in Plainview.

More Savings

(In addition to the above-mentioned savings, you can take advantage of a 10 per cent discount on Del Mar and Kirsch woven woods and 10 per cent off Del Mar mini blinds!)

Such values make it extremely easy to secure "something better for your home," affording a great opportunity to get acquainted or renew acquaintance with Spring Crest . . . with the products and services afforded, and with the home ownership and management.

Ben and Brenda Powell are owners and they are most appreciative of the trade and friendships they have been privileged to enjoy.

Visa and Master Charge purchase plans are welcomed.

"No matter what your style, Spring Crest can dress your windows better; these custom draperies add elegance to the most formal setting, but also can be the perfect finishing touch to a casual room. These unusual draperies, formed by threading a spring steel pleater through a narrow hem at the top of the materials, results in a drapery that hangs beautifully with rounded, supple folds rather than the sharp, stiff edges of conventional pinch-pleated draperies."

Get the entire Spring Crest story and take advantage of the special savings now; it will be a great way to get into the mood and pleasure of a new season!

Comfort, Tax Advantage Among 'Insulating Windows' Benefits

"Did you realize that aluminum replacement windows, storm windows and storm doors can be custom made for your own comfort and beauty, made right here in Lubbock at Insulating Windows, Inc.?

"And have you recognized how insulation-related installations can qualify for income tax credit.?"

"Let Jim Haynes and his efficient staff at Insulating Windows, Inc., 1616 Ave. F, give full details about any aspect of their products and services . . . including the tax credit benefits especially appreciated at this time of year!"

Many have depended upon Haynes at Arcadia Stone, 1922 Ave. E. He now not only still provides the products and services of that business, but also operates the added Insulating Windows facility.

"For cleaner and more comfortable living," Haynes and his experienced crew can perform quite a service.

Simplifies the Job

Imagine, for example, rubber seals on the custom-made windows, with this self-sealing innovation making caulking unnecessary!

These products and services by Haynes are made possible with his purchase in mid-1978 of the window department of House Clinic.

Thoroughly Experienced

Haynes not only has the background and knowledge for superior window and door manufacture and installation, but he has constructed beautiful homes throughout the area, together with construction of fireplaces and other units with use of Arcadia Stone.

Insulating Windows, Inc., can open a whole new world in one's enjoyment of the home every day of the year . . . with the finest in storm windows and doors, with insulating windows enhancing the beauty, comfort and hospitality of the home.

Travel advantages at least effort on your part is the function and assurance at Lubbock Travel, Inc., phone 792-3237, at 4214 50th St., in Lubbock.

"And there is absolutely no charge for the professional services at Lubbock Travel, Inc.!"

Jean Bachman, owner and general manager, is glad to explain how the firm is able to offer special services that combine maximum enjoyment of the destination, wherever in the world, at costs less than likely one has believed possible.

Business & Industrial Review

SKILLED STAFF, ACTIVITIES EXCEL — Shown at Memorial Convalescent Center, 2418 6th St. in Lubbock are (seated) resident Mrs. Winnie Hooser of Plainview, with Sarah Rice, administrator; Ellen Phillips, activities director; and Carol Anderson, director of nursing. An intimate atmosphere is one of the plus-factors at this and other MBFA-operated nursing homes.

MBFA-Operated Nursing Homes Working Hard At 'Excellence'

A tremendous service is afforded throughout the region by the MBFA Foundation, and in no area of service is this more evident than in the nursing homes operated by the Associated Memorial Homes Division of that not-for-profit foundation.

Commencing its operation of nursing homes just over a year ago, MBFA now operates 12 in West Texas, with more scheduled for announcement shortly.

Stressing "vision with a task" and "love without regard," two of these nursing homes in Lubbock are singled out this week for special recognition and introduction. Their operation, concerns, methods and achievements correspond closely with others of the MBFA nursing homes in Lubbock and area. You'll enjoy knowing and appreciating each one better upon understanding the concepts involved, and with the care exerted by management in providing a home in which you would be glad to have a near relative.

(Visits at all MBFA nursing homes are invited, and these are heartily encouraged as part of the resident welfare and community relations aspect of the homes.)

First, let's take a glance at the over-all programs of each MBFA nursing facility, with full recognition of superior nursing services, dietary departments that consider the individual, spiritual programs, special consultants in the several areas of operation, full attention to activities within the homes, with activity directors on the job; physical and speech therapy and Medicaid participation.

On Sixth Street

The Memorial Convalescent Center at 2418 6th St. in Lubbock is one of these MBFA homes.

Key personnel include Sarah Rice, administrator; Ellen Phillips, activities director; and Carol Anderson, director of nursing, each with unique qualifications and a track record of achievement.

Special effort is made at this center, Sarah emphasizes, to help each resident keep his or her pride and identity, with the considerate dietary program very much in the picture in this achievement.

In-service training of all staffmembers is a "must" and has paid off in resident comfort and welfare. The "ordinary" is unacceptable on the staff at MBFA homes; only those with special aptitudes and dedication are involved.

MBFA has operated the 6th Street facility, just east of University, for one year, and long-time residents have been profuse in their appreciation of the current type operation. An intimate atmosphere is evident even upon a few minutes visit here . . . a situation that "is like home" in as many ways as possible. The building is clean and inviting, and housekeeping services excel.

Inquiries regarding residency is invited at both this home and at another one coming in for attention this week, the Skyview Memorial Home at 114 Cherry in Lubbock.

No extended contract is involved at either, with fees on a daily-rate basis. The service and environment is great; the cost, economical. May we give full details?

At 114 Cherry

Wanda Barclay is administrator at the Skyview Memorial Home; Mary Ann Flynn is activities director; and Beverly Golden is director of nursing.

Wanda came to this facility last July, after achievement records in San Antonio and elsewhere. She is most dedicated and has assembled a staff reflecting this concern for each resident.

A really spacious and attractive reception and activities room greets one upon entry at Skyview. A profusion of growing plants hints of the homelike atmosphere and interests of the residents. There is even a back yard area with roses, other plants and with a barbeque pit, all conducive to events including ice cream suppers, etc.

Opportunities Afforded

Both visitors and volunteer workers are invited; a great service can be in the form of assisting residents write letters, participate in arts and crafts, or just to be a friend. All contributes to motivation and happiness of the resident. (There were about 200 visitors at a recent Christmas party.)

Skyview most certainly appears a cheery place to live. Won't you visit and learn for yourself?

(Attention is called at this time to a "Rock 'n Roll Jamboree," benefitting the Heart Association, to be held at Skyview from 1:30 until 4 p.m., this Saturday, March 17. Coffee and cake will be served. Residents will rock in rocking chairs and roll in wheel chairs in the Rock 'n Roll event, and visitors are invited to join in the fun, cheering the residents, and benefitting the Heart Association.)

Now, doesn't all this hint of reasons for knowing better the programs, opportunities and service scope of MBFA? We hope so. For full details, inquiry is invited regarding other phases of operation including home health services, homemaker services, services for the mentally retarded, and the soon-to-be-constructed memorial home in the Lubbock area. The corporate offices of MBFA are at No. 4, Briercroft Office Park, Lubbock, phone 747-3447.

(Visits are also invited, with inquiry welcomed, at the other MBFA-operated nursing home in Lubbock, the Lakeside Memorial Home, 4306 24th St. It is outstanding.)

AT SKYVIEW MEMORIAL HOME — Seated is William Goldstein, well known in Lubbock and a new resident at the distinctive Skyview home, with Wanda Barclay, administrator, also seated, and Dolores Teneyuque, medication aide.

Conveniences, Savings Seen At Guys & Gals Hairstyling

"We're hearing some mighty good things about the Guys & Gals Hairstyling, featuring 'anytime appointments' at its 2605 Canton Ave. location."

"If you already are a customer, you know of the expert attention there; and if you are new, a delightful experience awaits, as only the finest in hairstyling is afforded.

"Actually, a lot of people are glad that Marjorie (Barrett) Flowers is affording this type establishment. As owner of the shop since February, Marjorie has devoted full attention to 'the things that count' in a hairstyling salon.

Some of these plus-factors are:

Haircut and blow dry for either guys or gals is a sensible $6.50 on the Tuesday evening special.

Senior Citizens prices, on Thursday included shampoo and set. $4: permanents, $18; cut, wash and set. $7: frost, $18; and color. $8.

And no kidding, as a special convenience, appointments can be made any day from 8 a.m. to 10 p.m. Guys and Gals Hairstyling is open Mondays through Saturdays, with Sundays appointments by request. The phone: 793-9167.

Thursdays are special days for senior citizen consideration. Savings on shampoo and sets, permanents, etc. are arranged for senior citizens on Thursdays.

Gals are welcome anytime, with special attention to guys on Tuesday evenings and Saturdays.

Now, isn't this offer of "anytime appointments" refreshing? Marjorie hopes to build her business on the old-fashioned idea of service, together with a staff that knows its business and keeps up to date via study and special attendance at seminars, etc.

Marjorie Flowers, as owner, is on the job every working day. She is a lifelong Lubbock resident and is a graduate of Lubbock High School. She has two daughters, Denise, 17, a student at Mickie's Beauty Academy; and Zelma, 15, a student at Heritage Hall.

On hand at the shop is Beth Caffey, a Jessie Lee graduate and an operator who has long had an extremely good following in the city area where she still serves at Guys and Gals; Kelly Etherton, assistant manager; Linda Meletti, a Cinderella graduate and a most proficient hair-care specialist.

Also Linda Head, hair stylist, on the job part time.

Each invite friends and new and old customers alike to come in, make or renew acquaintance, and learn of this "service-oriented" firm.

A full line of Redken and KMS products is maintained for sale.

Not only hairstyling, but other beauty services are given expert attention at Guys & Gals, including manicures.

(Though very much in business at this time, a Grand Opening is planned soon, with gifts and special features. Watch for it . . . but come on in for the best in hairstyling!

We're at 2605 Canton Ave., remember; phone 793-9167.

NEW IN LUBBOCK, AND WITH SPECIAL DEMONSTRATIONS ANNOUNCED

Southwest TV & Appliance All New, Offers 'Name' Lines

Southwest TV & Appliance, at 3415 82nd St., is all new . . . and great!

Opening in spacious, convenient, modern quarters in January, the business has been heartily received.

"Names to trust" have been one of the key factors in the firm's popularity, with a really huge stock on the floor, and with selection enabled from RCA television and video tape recorders, Litton microwave ovens, Frigidaire kitchen and laundry equipment, Sony stereos, Sanyo Stereos, and Harwick gas ranges.

Where is all this? At 3415 82nd St., just west of 82nd and Indiana, clearly marked on the south side of 82nd, with ample off-street parking. One can't miss the attractive building and its outstanding displays.

'Folks You Know'

Lifelong Lubbock resident Dave Abbott is owner and founder of the firm, actively operating it. Assisting is Sam Griffith, store manager, who has been in the appliance field here for many years and is no stranger to the area. Both Abbott and Griffith invite old friends and new ones alike to visit the new 3,100 sq. ft. store and note the effort to afford a really outstanding appliance source for south Lubbock and the entire area.

Microwave Demonstrations

As a special service, (and a great way to become acquainted), in-store Litton microwave demonstrations are now being conducted each Saturday, from 10 a.m. until 3 p.m., by a factory home economist.

"Come on out to this limited-time program; there is no obligation, no fees, no advance registration necessary. Just come on out and discover how really much the firm has to offer!"

The complete line of Litton family-size microwave ovens is stocked, with features "just right for your particular lifestyle". Versatility, warranty, ease of operation and built-in quality are unmistakeable in Litton.

"Any microwave oven can cook one food at a time. But it took Litton innovation to develop a microwave oven that can prepare one, two or three foods — even a complete meal — all at once! A unique cooking system allows microwaves to enter the oven cavity from both sides, completely surrounding the foods and providing more even cooking."

See all this for yourself at Southwest TV & Appliance, all new at 3415 82nd St., open from 8:30 a.m. until 8:30 p.m., Mondays through Saturdays. Finance plans are available, Visa and Master Charge are honored, and free delivery in Lubbock and area is featured.

("Watch our ads for specific price advantages on the quality lines we stock; you just might be amazed at the economy-quality combo we have provided at Southwest TV & Appliance.")

New-Season Auto Performance Given Assist From Johnie Johnson Exxon

"For getting the auto ready for change of seasons, for making sure it is ready for spring and summer enjoyment, a tune-up now at Johnie Johnson's Exxon (34th at Knoxville) is recommended.

And the price . . . just $29.95!

Before opening his own business just over a year ago, Johnson marked over two decades of related experience, including a 17-year stint as front end specialist and more recently as service manager of a downtown Lubbock firm. He knows front end work as probably few in the area.

Yes, front end work is another of the services at Johnie Johnson's Exxon, 34th and Knoxville, as is brake work and expert wheel alignment (the latter at a modest $10.50 price).

Progress Recognized

Thanks to a very good customer response to the service and products at this well-marked corner, Johnson has been most successful. In fact, he and Mrs. Johnson have been recent recipients of a Las Vegas trip for his operation being in the top 2 per cent in the district sales for Exxon. Congratulations!

"If you haven't become acquainted with this modern, convenient firm and its staff, then why not come in now for a changeover to spring and summer driving efficiency?"

Remember, features of Johnie Johnson Exxon, phone 795-5942, include:

Expert wheel alignment with brake and front end work a specialty, and with quality Bear spin balancing and wheel alignment equipment used;

Shocks, mufflers, tail pipes;

Tires and batteries, together with other accessories.

And the tune-ups.

Open Every Day

A state inspection station, Johnie Johnson Exxon is open long hours, seven days a week.

Really large access and parking aprons makes "pulling in to Johnie's" most convenient, and not only is this convenience to be appreciated, but the entire facility is attractive, clean and thoroughly geared to efficiency in customer service.

Whether it is for gasoline, or mechanical service, or for accessories, one can be assured that this veteran in the field sincerely appreciates the trade and confidence.

"Johnie Johnson has been around a long time, and likely already has served you. He welcomes old friends and new ones alike to come in, visit, and form the habit of depending upon the Johnie Johnson Exxon, at the 34th and Knoxville corner."

SUGGESTS, OFFERS SPECIAL SPRING CARE — Johnie Johnson, long-recognized front-end specialist, serves at the 34th Street Johnie's Exxon that he owns and actively operates. He cites advisability of spring tune-ups, alignment and brake attention before trips sure to come with balmier weather, Easter and later vacations.

SALES REPRESENTATIVE FOOD SERVICE
If You're Good--
And You Know It--
Answer This Ad
You're an experienced, able sales professional. You can make it to the top on ability alone but you want that high-quality product line to boost your success even higher. You're either currently selling on straight commission for a food service product line, or you know you can do it...well...and are ready to try.
If you have several years experience selling for a manufacturer, distributor or broker and are self-motivated, energetic and highly independent you'll want to investigate this outstanding opportunity.
We're a high-profit company offering a broad line of super-quality specialty food products to end-user accounts. We offer the chance to do creative selling on an UNUSUALLY HIGH COMMISSION RATE OF 18 complete benefits program, protected territories and best of all UNLIMITED EARNINGS. Individual programs available commensurate with individual background.
If you know you've got what it takes, and are actively looking or merely considering alternatives, we'd like to talk to you. Write us a brief letter and tell us about your background and earnings goals.

DATSUN 210 HATCHBACK GETS 35 MPG*

THAT'S THE BEST EPA ESTIMATED GASOLINE MILEAGE

This year, Datsun's 210 Hatchback with optional 5-speed got a superlative 35 MPG* in the Environmental Protection Agency estimated gasoline ratings. And that's better than any 1979 gasoline car tested. So come on down and see for yourself how we are driven to improve your economy by stretching your mileage.

Standard equipment: ●Split fold-down rear seat to carry passengers and cargo in equal comfort ●Fully reclining bucket seats ●Cut-pile carpeting ●Walk-in seat back release (slides forward to allow easy access to rear) ●Electric rear window defroster ●Side window defogger ●And many other standard features!

STOP HIGH DRIVING COSTS WITH A 210

New 210 Hatchback $4961.

*1979 EPA estimate for comparisons Optional 5-speed. Your mileage may differ, depending on how and where you drive, condition of your car and optional equipment.

 Does not include license, taxes, destination charges and title fees.

FEDERAL ENERGY REGULATORY COMMISSION

Central Power & Light Company Docket No. EL79-8
Public Service Company of Oklahoma
Southwestern Electric Power Company
West Texas Utilities Company

NOTICE OF APPLICATION
(February 22, 1979)

Take notice that on February 9, 1979, the above captioned affiliated Companies tendered for filing, pursuant to Section 205 of the Public Utilities Regulatory Policies Act of 1978, an application for exemption from three orders of the Public Utility Commission of Texas which allegedly prevent Central Power and Light Company and West Texas Utilities Company from voluntarily establishing or maintaining an electrical interconnection with any utility other than those comprising the Electric Reliability Council of Texas. Applicants also request an order of this Commission requiring interconnection, wheeling and related relief under Sections 202(b), 210, 211, and 212 of the Federal Power Act (as amended). Applicants state that the relief they seek would involve interconnections between their respective utility systems, with the Electric Reliability Council of Texas and with the Southwest Power Pool.

Section 210(a)(1) of the Federal Power Act, as promulgated in Title II of the Public Utility Regulatory Policies Act of 1978, provided the Commission with authority to issue orders requiring:

"(A) the physical connection of any cogeneration facility, any small power production facility, or the transmission facilities of any electric utility, with the facilities of such applicant,

"(B) such action as may be necessary to make effective any physical connection described in sub-paragraph (A), which physical connection is ineffective for any reason, such as inadequate size, poor maintenance, or physical unreliability.

"(C) such sale or enhance of electric energy, or other coordination, as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of any order under subparagraph (A) or (B), or

"(D) such increase in transmission capacity as may be necessary to cary out the purposes of any order under subparagraph (A) or (B)."

Section 210 (b) (1) of the Act provides that upon receipt of an application the Comission shall issue notice to each affected electric utility, each affective Federal power marketing agency, each affective owner or operator of a congeneration facility or small power production facility, and to the public.

Any person desiring to be heard or to protest said applicaiton should file a petition to intervene or protest with the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, 825 North Capitol Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. 20426, in accordance with Sections 1.8 and 1.10 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (18 CFR 1.8, 1.10). All such petitions or protests should be filed on or before March 30, 1979. Protests will be considered by the Commission in determining the appropriate action to be taken, but will not serve to make protestants parties to the proceeding. Any person wishing to become a party must file a petition to intervene. Copies of this application are on file with the Commission and are available for public inspection.

Republican Hopefuls Attend Conference

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — They smiled so much, one reporter likened it to a "Miss America" contest, but six men seeking the Republican presidential nomination worked hard to convince people they can lead the party to victory.

The six all worked on the assumption the GOP cannot lose in the 1980 presidential race and attacked President Carter's domestic and foreign policies as though each already was the nominee.

However, a syndicated columnist warned them they may be overstating their position.

The six also privately worried about the high cost of running a campaign, especially in a field that may include as many as 10 candidates before the nominating convention more than a year away.

And they said raising funds will be especially difficult since the man who showed three years ago he could raise enough money to almost stop a sitting president from getting the nomination has announced he will run again.

That man is former California Gov. Ronald Reagan, who bypassed the 13-state Midwest Republican Leadership Conference during the weekend for other campaigning, but still had strong support in an informal poll of delegates.

The six candidates or likely candidates included Former Texas Gov. John Connally, Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker of Tennessee, former CIA director George Bush of Texas, Sen. Robert Dole of Kansas and Reps. Philip Crane of Illinois and Jack Kemp of New York.

Of the six, only Connally and Crane have formally announced their candidacies.

The six viewed Reagan as the man they have to beat to win the nomination. They came to the conference because the states whose Republican leaders were present will have about 30 percent of the votes at the convention next year.

The six apparently lost no points with the delegates in their presentations. All were critical of Carter in ways showing their anticipation he will be the Democratic presidential nominee next year.

Connally, a Democrat-turned-Republican, emerged with the advantage in a straw poll conducted by CBS News among 254 of the 400-plus delegates. The poll included the name of Reagan as well as the six presidential hopefuls in attendance, but not former President Gerald Ford.

Connally was seen by 39 percent of the delegates as the man with the best chance of carrying the party to victory in 1980. Reagan was mentioned by 26 percent.

But 29 percent of the delegates surveyed said Connally was the man they personally support, while 21 percent were for Reagan, 17 for Bush and 12 percent each for Baker and Crane.

Weicker Enters Race For GOP Nomination

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — The growing list of 1980 Republican presidential contenders gets a new name today — admitted long shot Sen. Lowell Weicker Jr. of Connecticut.

The 47-year-old second-term senator, who gained national prominence during the Watergate investigation, planned to announce his candidacy today at the Old State House.

"Everybody's more of a front-runner than I am," he said in a recent interview.

Although the early primaries are in New England, Weicker says he doubts he will have much of a home-region advantage.

"It makes it tougher, because people expect you to do well. ... Obviously, I have an edge in a state like Connecticut, but even there I have a tough fight," he said.

Since winning election as a state representative in 1962, Weicker has come to be known for keeping his distance from party leaders.

His willingness to criticize other Republicans showed most clearly on the national level during the Senate Watergate investigation, when his broadsides at then-President Richard Nixon pained many party stalwarts.

Other evidence of Weicker's willingness to buck the tide is his advocacy of gasoline rationing and his characterization of the Camp David summit conference as a "public relations coup."

Republicans already running for president are Rep. Philip Crane of Illinois, former Gov. John Connally of Texas, Los Angeles businessman Benjamin Fernandez and Harold Stassen. Expected to join the race are Ronald Reagan, the former California governor generally regarded as the front-runner in the race; Senate Minority Leader Howard Baker Jr. of Tennessee; George Bush, former CIA director and one-time GOP national chairman; Rep. John Anderson of Illinois, and Sen. Bob Dole of Kansas, the GOP vice presidential nominee in 1976.

American Workers Feel Unchallenged In Jobs

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — More than ever, American workers think they can do more than their jobs demand, University of Michigan researchers say.

Most workers also feel secure in their jobs but do not think they can switch, said the authors of "The 1977 Quality of Employment Survey" undertaken by the university's Survey Research Center.

"People feel more locked into their jobs. They don't see themselves as having viable alternatives to their present employment," said Graham L. Staines, who with Robert P. Quinn wrote the report released over the weekend.

Staines and Quinn found that 36 percent of 1,515 workers surveyed last year believed their skills were not fully made use of. In a similar survey in 1973, 25 percent of the workers held that view.

Thirty-seven percent believed there was a shortage of workers with their experience, training and skills, a large decline from the 48 percent who thought there was such a shortage four years previously.

But 62 percent believed their job skills would still be useful and valuable in five years, a slight decline from the 68 percent who believed that in 1973.

Twenty percent thought it would be easy to find a job with the same income and fringe benefits. In 1973, 27 percent felt they could find a comparable job.

Other findings:

—Fifty-four percent said they would prefer better retirement benefits to a 10 percent pay increase.

—Seventy-eight percent reported that their job exposed them to at least one health or safety hazard.

—Forty percent of those reporting a health or safety hazard listed air pollution as the hazard.

Newton Says Charge Fabricated

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Black Panther leader Huey Newton, who says the government fabricated a 1974 murder charge as part of a 12-year-old conspiracy against him, plans to take the stand to defend himself, his attorney says.

"Mr. Newton told me before the trial started that he would be compelled to testify if certain witnesses accused him of killing the girl," said defense attorney Michael Kennedy.

Newton is accused of killing a 17-year-old prostitute on an Oakland street corner. The victim, Kathleen Smith, died two months after she was shot and Newton, by then in exile in Cuba, was charged with her murder.

On Friday, Tom Orloff, Alameda County deputy district attorney, rested his case without calling two witnesses who allegedly saw the shooting on Aug. 6, 1974.

Two witnesses who testified that they saw Newton shoot the victim were Carles Buie, 25, who said he was selling marijuana on the street at the time, and Michelle Jenkins, 20, who described herself as a former prostitute.

Authorities said Buie agreed to testify only after being placed in the Federal Witness Protection Program, which will provide him a new identity.

Newton, 36, has pleaded innocent, charging that "the state is responsible for prostitution on that street and for making the victims testify against me."

After the 1974 shooting, Newton fled the United States for Cuba but voluntarily ended his exile 2½ years later to face the charges. He is free on $130,000 bail pending his appeal of a conviction last fall of being a former felon in possession of firearms.

One of two witnesses who did not take the stand on Friday was Crystal Gray, a reported target of an unsuccessful assassination attempt two years ago, when three gunmen broke into a home across the alley from where she lived.

One of the gunmen, a former associate of Newton's and a Black Panther, was killed in an ensuing shootout.

Orloff also did not call his fourth witness, Jeannette Iles, now serving a prison term for the 1977 murder of a University of California professor.

Franklin Delano Roosevelt was inaugurated in 1933 for his first term as president of the United States.

Group Supports Veterans' Wives

By RHONA SCHWARTZ
Avalanche-Journal Staff

The lives of women whose husbands are in nursing homes and whose families are not there to give daily support often are lonely, frustrated and filled with guilt.

To give these women an emotional and supportive outlet, two Social Work Service staff members from the Veterans Administration's Outpatient Clinic have organized a group of veterans' wives who meet each Tuesday to share nursing home experiences and friendships.

Social work associate Sara Griffin and staff worker Susan Verdone agree that "as difficult an adjustment as it is for the veterans (in nursing homes), it is just as difficult for the family."

"Nobody wants to put her husband in a nursing home," Miss Verdone said, "but it gives medical care they (the veterans) can't get in their own home, no matter how devoted the family is."

Getting the proper care in a private home is too expensive, she said, and because the wives cannot get their husbands' Medicare or Medicaid subsidies unless they are indigent, the women are faced with financial as well as emotional burdens.

"We're trying for women whose husbands have just entered nursing homes," Mrs. Griffin said. "Our objectives are to give ways of coping financially and emotionally and to give information on what nursing homes are all about."

So far five women, the youngest about 55 years old, regularly attend the meetings, which are held in a local nursing home. The women are from different economic and cultural backgrounds, bound together by the fact that their spouses are in nursing homes.

The meetings are supportive, helping sessions, not therapy sessions, Mrs. Griffin said.

"We are trying to work on a feeling level," she explained. "We give minimal guidance, and, if they have a good time, that's okay, too."

One of the group's goals, Miss Verdone said, is to have the women make new friends and to have someone with whom they can share "feelings of isolation."

"One woman comes to the meetings because she lives alone, another said she wants to do right by her husband," Miss Verdone said. "All of the women live alone except one (and) there isn't anyone they can share all this with. They (the women) have their own physical problems and are having to suddenly bear the burden of their husbands in a nursing home."

Mrs. Griffin added, "Guilt is a major problem for these women, and one of the initial reasons is most of them have nice homes and haven't worked outside the home. They can stay home and enjoy everything while their husbands are in nursing homes.

"One woman says she watches their favorite program every night and her husband doesn't even have a television," Mrs. Griffin continued. "They think, 'He worked all his life for these nice things and is responsible for everything here.'"

The women talk of these feelings, of gardening and grandchildren, good times and bad, and of the decisions they make regarding their husbands' care.

"Each has done different things in the care of her husband, which is helpful to the others," Miss Verdone said. "One switched her husband's doctor, one brings her husband home for the day once a month."

As each week goes by the women reveal more of their hidden fears and frustrations, Mrs. Griffin said. Each case is unique, and it "takes awhile as a group" for each member to open up completely.

Both Miss Verdone and Mrs. Griffin agree "the ice has certainly been broken."

"One woman already said we could meet in her house and others have talked about baking for the group," Miss Verdone said.

One subject the women have yet to discuss but which Mrs. Griffin believes inevitably will arise is the possibility of a spouse's death.

"This will be an experience for us all," she said. "I can see it as a very supporting thing and (can see) that the wife would want to come back to the group afterward."

One or two women have skirted the subject, Mrs. Griffin said, and both she and Miss Verdone are confident the members can help one another work through the trauma of death.

Both women say they are confident the group will succeed, although they have been able to locate only seven veterans' wives in Lubbock.

"We need more people and are exploring ways to enlarge the group," Mrs. Griffin said. "We have flyers to send to senior centers and hospitals and are hoping for new placements and referrals."

Miss Verdone added, "If they (the wives) can get out to the nursing home meeting once a week, perhaps they can get out to a senior citizens center. The more well-rounded they become the more they will have to offer their husbands."

Few Using Medical Hotline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six months after launching a drive to urge the public to seek a second opinion before undergoing elective surgery, the government is finding Americans are a little bashful about it.

As of late February, only 6,400 people had called the national telephone hotline set up to provide information on where to seek a second opinion, an official of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare says.

The hotline — (800) 325-6400 — is answered by an operator who refers the caller to a medical society or other group in his or her area. In Missouri, the hotline number is (800) 342-6600.

"We don't know how many of these people actually got second opinions," said Susan Pettey, who helps run the program for HEW's Health Care Financing Administration. "It's run on a voluntary basis by the local referral groups, and part of the bargain was that they would not be asked to keep records."

HEW is keeping a closer watch on two pilot projects involving Medicare patients in Blue Cross plans in the New York and Detroit areas. There, Medicare is paying the entire cost of a second opinion.

In the New York project, about 1,200 people asked for second opinions during a six-month period, and so far half have submitted claims. In 30 percent of these cases, the second surgeon did not agree that surgery was needed, Ms. Pettey said.

A large majority of these patients — 78 percent — requested confidentiality in consulting the second doctor. "Some may fear they would alienate their own physician by asking for a second opinion," she said.

HEW had feared patients might find it costly to get second opinions confidentially, because the second surgeon might order a new battery of tests if results from an initial battery could not be obtained from the first doctor. So far, however, the average costs of tests ordered by the second surgeon has been only $5.26, said Ms. Pettey.

Twenty million Americans undergo surgery a year, and only 20 percent of these operations are emergency procedures. HEW has singled out tonsillectomies, hysterectomies and gall bladder surgeries as operations before which a second opinion should be sought.

In the New York project, involving Medicare recipients over age 65, patients are most often seeking advice about "general" surgery and cataract operations.

Actor Expected To Testify

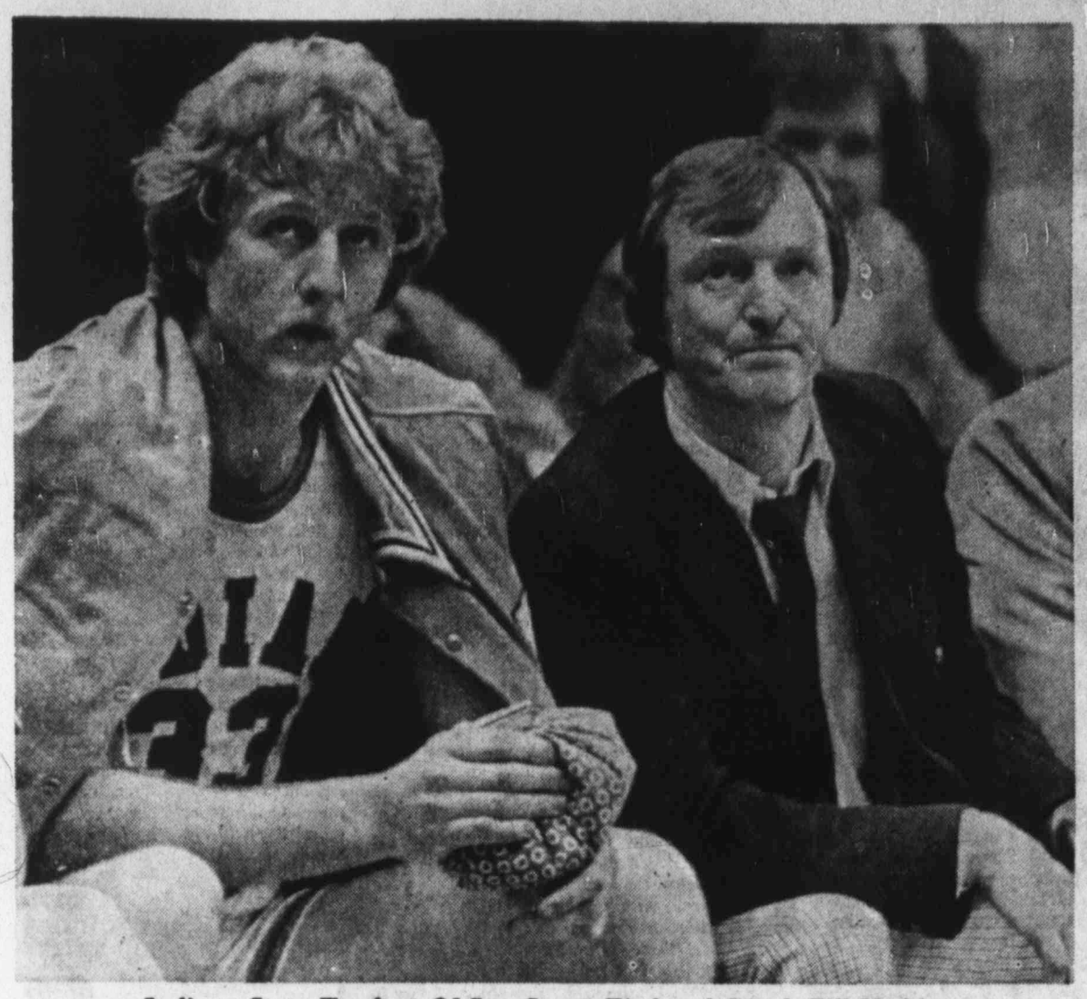
LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Lee Marvin should complete his direct testimony Tuesday in his property settlement trial but may be on the witness stand through Wednesday undergoing cross examination by the attorney for his former mistress.

The trial, which began Jan. 16, was in recess today.

Michelle Marvin was expected to testify again later in the week with the case going to the judge around March 23 for a ruling on whether she is entitled to a part of the actor's estate, valued at more than $3 million when they broke up in 1970.

Miss Marvin's attorney, Marvin Mitchelson, has told the court he has about a dozen additional witnesses besides the former singer to call in his windup.

Superior Court Judge Arthur K. Marshall, who is hearing the case without a jury by agreement of both sides, is expected to hand down a written decision within a few days after closing arguments, ruling whether Miss Marvin is entitled to any damages and, if so, how much.



Indiana State Tandem Of Star Larry Bird and Coach Bill Hodges

Bird, Hodges Picked Year's Player, Coach

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Larry Bird, the gifted 6-foot-9 center who led Indiana State to an unbeaten season and a No. 1 national ranking, was named today The Associated Press' college basketball Player of the Year for 1978-79.

His coach, Bill Hodges, was named Coach of the Year. Bird and Hodges were to receive trophies at a news conference at the Radisson Hotel in Chicago this morning.

Bird, a first-round draft choice of the Boston Celtics last June who elected to remain in school for his final year of eligibility, averaged 28.8 points and 15.0 rebounds per game as Indiana State rolled to the Missouri Valley Conference championship.

The Sycamores raised their season record to 30-0 Sunday with an 86-69 second-round NCAA playoff victory over Virginia Tech to advance to the Midwest Regional semifinals. Bird, playing despite a broken left thumb, had 22 points and 13 rebounds.

Bird, from French Lick, Ind., was a runaway winner of the Adolph Rupp Trophy as the nation's outstanding player, receiving 328 votes from a nationwide panel of writers and broadcasters. Sidney Moncrief of Arkansas was a distant second with 17 votes, followed by Earvin Johnson of Michigan State with nine votes and Mike Gminski of Duke with five. Many players received less than five votes.

The Rupp Trophy is given annually by the Commonwealth Athletic Club of Kentucky in memory of the famed University of Kentucky coach.

Last year's award was won by guard Butch Lee of Marquette, now with the Cleveland Cavaliers of the National Basketball Association. Last year's winning coach was Eddie Sutton of Arkansas. The last time both awards went to the same team was 1976, when forward Scott May and Coach Bobby Knight of Indiana were the winners.

Hodges, an 11th-hour replacement for Bob King after the veteran Sycamore coach was taken ill in the fall, won the prestigious award by more than a 2-1 margin over an entrenched contemporary, Notre Dame's Digger Phelps.

Hodges received 95 votes while Phelps collected 45. UCLA's Gary Cunningham was third with 36 votes, Lute Olson of suprising Iowa finished fourth with 29 and North Carolina's much-honored Dean Smith rounded out the top five with 25 points.

Surprises Hit NCAA

By The Associated Press

North Carolina has learned the power of the Penn.

On the Sunday that shocked the South, the unranked Quakers upended the third-ranked Tar Heels 72-71 before an unbelieving crowd of 12,400 at Reynolds Coliseum in Raleigh, N.C. Hours later, the stunned throng hushed as Reggie Carter's six-foot jump shot with four seconds left helped St. John's, N.Y., sink sixth-ranked Duke, 80-78.

Those two strong swings toppled two mighty trees from the Atlantic Coast Conference, capping a weekend which sent eight ranked teams to the sidelines of the NCAA basketball tournament.

"We absolutely fear no one," said Penn Coach Bob Weinhauer after his Quakers practiced unfriendly persuasion on the Tar Heels. "Other people have to prepare for us and try to stop what we do best."

What they did Sunday was take the lead 55-50 with nine minutes left, survive North Carolina's comeback within a point with 1:26 remaining, and put the game away as James Salters scored four of the Ivy League champions' next six points.

"I think the Ivy League — the so-called weak league — deserves some respect ... and we got it," said the Quakers' Tony Price, who made 12 of his 18 field goal attempts, scored 25 points, collected nine rebounds and had six assists. "I just wanted to play a team of that caliber and show that we could stay with them."

They did that, and more. So did St. John's, which won a nail biter from Duke on Carter's clutch shot.

"I wanted to redeem myself," said Carter, who missed a 1-and-1 free-throw situation with 49 seconds left but still gave the Redmen their second tournament triumph over the Blue Devils this season. St. John's had beaten Duke 69-66 in a consolation game matchup at the ECAC Holiday Festival at Madison Square Garden.

"They were talking consolation and that they weren't up for it," said Rudy Wright of St. John's. "I'm glad we got another chance."

They got that chance against a Duke squad which was missing starters Kenny Dennard and Bob Bender and had Mike Gminski at less-than-full strength due to a stomach virus.

Gminski gave the Redmen their final scare when his 45-foot heave at the buzzer bounced off the rim to sum up the day's frustrations for the ACC powers. North Carolina finished 23-6 and Duke ended up 22-8 while Penn improved to

Longhorns Look Ahead

SATURDAY MORNING SHOULD have been a fun time for Coach Fred Akers and his staff at the University of Texas. With the bulk of recruiting chores behind them and spring training in recess for a week, the mentors should have been out on one of Austin's golf courses trying to forget the long hours and hard work of the last six months.

But success, in the form of 20 victories in his two seasons as head man of the Longhorns, hasn't spoiled Akers. Football still comes before recreation, even when the rest of the university is locked up tighter than the U.S. Mint. And Saturday Fred was interviewing the last prospective grid recruit on his list.

"We've signed 26 prospects," Akers revealed, "and the young man in my office this morning is the last one we are trying to recruit. We won't sign 30 this year—just the ones we feel certain can play."

There never was much of a chance that Akers and his aides could match last year's phenomenal talent haul, which may have been the best by any school in the nation. But the boyish-looking mentor believes that he has signed a bumper crop of future Longhorns.

"We're pleased with our recruiting this spring," Akers declared. "We didn't achieve all our goals, but we came pretty close. We were primarily looking for defensive players, since we will have so many seniors in that category this fall, and we think we got some good ones.

"Our only disappointment was not getting the four superior running backs that we wanted. We signed two of them, but we sure would like to have had the others, too."

AKERS TOPS HIS LIST of star recruits with Estacado tight end Dewey Turner, who has pro size and speed. Akers believes Dewey is a very special talent.

Killingsworth Gets TCU Nod

FORT WORTH (AP) — Jim Killingsworth, a grizzled veteran with a reputation for shoring up sinking basketball programs, has been tapped as head basketball coach at Texas Christian University.

The 55-year-old Oklahoma native signed a four-year contract Sunday, but TCU Athletic Director Frank Windegger would not reveal terms of the agreement.

Killingsworth succeeds Tim Somerville, the 33-year-old coach who stepped down Feb. 19 after a 2-year record of 10-43.

Killingsworth comes to the Frogs off a 12-15 season at Oklahoma State University, the winningest season for the Cowboys in nine years.

Nicknamed "Killer," Killingsworth also has a reputation as a recruiter. He snared the Oklahoma "Player of the Year" for OSU two years in a row.

"We were fortunate to land a man and coach with Jim's credentials," Windegger said. "Our intention from the start was to find the best man for the job and I'm convinced we did. Our No. 1 priority was to find a proven major college head coach who was also an excellent recruiter."

Killingsworth said he felt TCU's administration voiced a "total commitment (to basketball) or I wouldn't have taken the job. We've got the budget and the facilities.

"This is the most difficult decision I've ever made in coaching," Killingsworth said. "It's a real challenge and a great opportunity. TCU has great possibilities.

"One of the main reasons I took the job is the people I'll be working with. Many of them have worked with me previously."

Before joining OSU two years ago, Killingsworth had 28 straight winning seasons at Idaho State, Cerritos Junior College, Tulsa University and four Oklahoma high schools.

He spurred the Idaho State team to national fame in 1976-77 when it won the Big Sky Conference and beat Long Beach State, 83-72 and powerful UCLA, 76-75, in the NCAA playoffs.

"Jim has turned our program around at OSU," Oklahoma State Athletic Director Dr. Richard Young said. "I'm very disappointed to see him leave. He's recruited some excellent players here."

Upsets Dot NCAA Opener

23-5 and St. John's to 20-10.

Meanwhile Sunday, top-ranked Indiana State breezed past Virginia Tech 86-69; second-ranked UCLA trimmed tenacious Pepperdine 76-71; fourth-ranked Michigan State hammered Lamar 95-64, and No. 5 Notre Dame dropped 20th-ranked Tennessee 73-67.

Also, seventh-ranked Arkansas beat Weber State 74-63 and No. 8 DePaul defeated Southern Cal, 89-78.

Thus the tournament moves into regional semifinals, which will present the following matchups:

EAST, at Greensboro, N.C., Friday —St. John's, 20-10, against Rutgers 22-8 and Penn, 23-5, against No. 10 Syracuse, 26-3.

MIDEAST, at Indianapolis, Friday —Michigan State, 22-6, against ninth-ranked Louisiana State, 23-5 and Notre Dame, 23-5, against Toledo, 22-7.

WEST, at Provo, Utah, Thursday—DePaul, 23-5, against No. 12 Marquette, 22-6, and UCLA, 24-4 against No. 19 San Francisco, 22-6.

MIDWEST, at Cincinnati, Thursday —Arkansas, 24-4, against No. 18 Louisville, 24-7 and Indiana State, 30-0, against Oklahoma, 21-9.

Indiana State star Larry Bird easily overcame his fractured left thumb and the top-ranked Sycamores easily handled Virginia Tech. Bird scored 22 points and collected 13 rebounds and Indiana State went on a 20-0 scoring spree midway through the first half.

Carl Nicks added another 22 for the unbeaten Sycamores.

"They've won 30 in a row," said Virginia Tech Coach Charles Moir. "They're for real."

Virginia Tech, 22-9, which blasted Jacksonville 70-53 Friday night to earn its meeting with the Sycamores, got 18 points from Les Henson.

UCLA, playing on its Pauley Pavilion home court, used a 20-6 spurt in the early stages of the second half to hold off Pepperdine. The Waves, 22-10, pulled within three points with nine seconds remaining before the Bruins' Brad Holland sank two free throws for insurance.

"Pepperdine deserves a tremendous amount of credit," said UCLA Coach Gary Cunningham. "They are an outstanding team but do not get the publicity we do."

The Waves, whose campus is just 15 miles from UCLA, got 27 points from guard Ricardo Brown.

Michigan State, with Greg Kelser scoring 31 points and four others in double figures, toyed with Lamar.

"If I'm gonna get beat," said Lamar Coach Billy Tubbs, "I would want to get beaten by a team like Michigan State."

The Spartans were only too happy to oblige. They built a 48-27 halftime lead and waltzed from there.

Notre Dame's Kelly Tripucka scored 21 points to carry the Irish past the Volunteers. Notre Dame unlocked a-32-32 halftime tie with a 14-4 scoring spree and the Southeastern Conference champs were never closer than five after that — to the chagrin of Coach Don DeVoe.

"This is the poorest game of the year for us in terms of concentration," said DeVoe.

Arkansas concentrated on getting the ball to All-American Sidney Moncrief, who scored 19 points against Weber State and became the first Razorback player to pass the 2,000 mark in career points.

"I'm not out to score points," he said after raising his total to 2,009. "I'm just out to win a national championship and I'll do whatever I have to do."

DePaul's Blue Demons broke away with a 15-point burst in the final three minutes to top Southern Cal. Freshman Mark Aguirre scored 25 points, 16 of them in the first half, and Curtis Watkins scored 27 points — 16 of them in the second half for DePaul.

"Aguirre is going to make me a good coach," said Ray Meyer, the Blue Demons' coach.

The Trojans' coach for the last 13 years, Bob Boyd, may not be back. He announced his resignation, effective the end of the season, but Southern Cal fans and alumni have asked him to change his mind.

In Saturday games, Lousiana State downed Appalachian State 71-57; Syracuse outlasted Connecticut 89-81; Rutgers got past 11th-ranked Georgetown 64-58; Marquette throttled Pacific 73-48; Toledo astonished No. 14 Iowa 74-72; Oklahoma shot better than 62 percent in upending 15th-ranked Texas 90-76; Louisville tripped tenacious South Alabama 69-66, and San Francisco bombed Brigham Young 86-63.

On Friday, St. John's trimmed No. 13 Temple 75-70; Penn started its Cinderella weekend with a 73-69 victory over Iona; Lamar outscored No. 17 Detroit 95-87; Tennessee thrashed Eastern Kentucky 97-81; Southern Cal beat Utah State 75-67; Pepperdine needed overtime to defeat Utah 92-88, and Weber State edged New Mexico State 81-78.

Call Gives Team Indoor

DETROIT (AP) — A tarnished victory? The smiles of the champions from Villanova at the awards ceremony belied that. But their coach was candid about it.

Coach Jumbo Jim Elliott's Wildcats captured the 15th annual NCAA Indoor Track and Field Championships at Cobo Arena on Saturday. They nipped Texas-El Paso by a point, 52-51, after the defending champion Miners were disqualified after finishing second in the two-mile relay.

Other than the two-mile relay infraction — called on Jan Boogman of the Netherlands for knocking down Notre Dame's Chuck Aragon on the third leg — the meet went smoothly.

Saturday's 11 finals included meet records by Maryland's 60-yard high hurdles star Renaldo Nehemiah, Texas-El Paso's Sulemin Nyambui in the mile and Villanova's Don Paige in the 1,000-yard run.

Does the disqualification taint the team triumph? Elliott was asked.

"Yes. You've got to say it does," he said, after posing with the championship trophy after the meet. "But how many championships did we lose by disqualifications? Five that I can think of. Three in the last four years, all in relays.

"You win some. You lose some."

Texas-El Paso, which was seeking its fifth title in six years, was the stronger team, Elliott said.

"I felt El Paso would win by approximately 20 points if all our guys performed like they should have," he added.

And Ted Banks, coach of Texas-El Paso whose Miners won last year despite a disqualification, said: "I know down deep we're the best team and I guess that's all that really matters."

There certainly wasn't anything tainted about the performances of Paige and teammate Anthony Tufariello. Paige, a slender junior, won his second consecutive NCAA indoor 1,000 title. He was clocked in 2 minutes, 7.27 seconds, two-hundredths of a second faster than the previous record set by a former Villanova teammate, Mark Belger, in 1976.

Paige told himself, "This is my last indoor race of the year. Let's give it a try (for the record). Give the people a show. That's what they came here for."

Tufariello, hampered by the flu this season, won the 600-yard run in 1:09.41 and ran the quickest leg in the 3:15.52 winning mile relay.

"The key to the meet was Tufariello winning the 600," Elliott said, adding that his quarter mile "was the turning point" of the mile relay triumph.

Nyambui, a 25-year-old Tanzanian, was hardly pressed in the mile and still won in 3:57.89 — bettering the 12-year-old record held by Kansas' Jim Ryun. Nyambui, a freshman, also captured the two-mile handily in 8:37.87. The mile came an hour later.

"In the two-mile I didn't get hard competition," he said. "That's why I felt good to run the one-mile."

He waved goodby to the field on the first turn of the gun lap.

"That was just for fun," he said, grinning broadly.

Nyambui's long distance double triumph was only the third in the meet's history. The others were by Ryun in 1968 and Marty Liquori of Villanova in 1971.

Nehemiah, who broke the 60-yard high hurdles record twice in the trials Friday, won the event with another record time, 6.90 — just one-hundredth of a second off his own world record.

Nehemiah has a goal to make the hurdles a more glamorous event.

How?

"I'll try to do the impossible and break records week after week," he said, "and draw the media attention."

Texas A&M's Curtis Dickey, who hopes to be a No. 1 draft choice in the National Football League next year, captured the 60-yard dash in a photo-finish time of 6.15 seconds.

The distance medley relay was won in 9:47.1 by the Tennessee quartet of Solomon Hunter, Mike Barlow, Richard Hadler and Keith Young. Villanova was third.

Chaparrals Complete Home Stand Sweep

In back-to-back innings the Lubbock Christian College batters really hauled out the lumber and the result were two LCC victories in games shortened by the 10-run rule. The Chaps won the first one 14-4 in the fifth inning and took the night-cap 20-3

Bobby Doe and Steve Brigante lashed homers to key a nine run fifth inning in the opener and then Tim Leslie and Brigante hit a couple of more round-trippers in the first frame of the second game to pace an 11 run explosion. The wins lift the Chaps to 11-2 for the season while Jarvis fell to 3-10.

LCC won that second contest 20-3, and it accomplished that in only five frames.

Micky Crump went the distance for LCC's first win as he gave up only six hits and 4 runs in five innings. Crump now owns a 1-0 season slate.

Coronado Hosts Big Spring '9'

Coronado will be riding a 3-game winning streak today when the Mustangs host Big Spring in a nondistrict baseball game at the Chaparral Field. The action is slated to begin at 4 p.m.

The Mustangs will enter the game with a 5-2 record, including a doubleheder sweep of the Hobbs Eagles Saturday afternoon. Coronado won the first game 9-3, and then took the second contest 20-6.

"I don't think that playing at Chaparral Field is much of an advantage to us," said Coronado coach John Dudley. "Since we haven't practiced very much on that field, it's going to be like playing on the road."

Services Set For 'Trotter

HOUSTON (UPI) — Memorial services were scheduled today for Harlem Globetrotter veteran Theodis Lee with burial planned Wednesday in Monroe, La., his hometown. Lee, 33, died Friday of cancer.

Services were to be held at 11 a.m. and the body was to lie in state during the evening.

The former University of Houston athlete was transferred last Wednesday to M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute, 10 days after completing a game with the Globetrotters in Sasketoon, Saskatchewan, and complaining of weariness. Doctors found his cancer was widespread and he died two days later.

Lee played for Houston three years and was co-captain of the 1969 team. He played on the 1968 squad that defeated UCLA in the Astrodome before the largest crowd ever to see a college game. The Cougars eventually lost to UCLA in the NCAA semifinals.

He had been with the Globetrotters for 10 years.

Lopez Win Breaks Drought

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nancy Lopez left little margin for error in her return to the winner's circle, and for those who might have wondered, there's absolutely nothing wrong with her golf game.

Mrs. Lopez, who made mincemeat of the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour last year, posted her first victory of 1979 in most dramatic fashion Sunday, sinking a 10-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole to nip Hollis Stacy by one stroke in the $100,000 Sunstar Classic.

It was the only time that Mrs. Lopez, who won nine tournaments and a record $189,814 last year, led during the 72-hole event.

Since she turned pro in July of 1977, Mrs. Lopez has won 10 championships and finished second six times. Sunday's victory was worth $15,000, boosting her 1979 earnings to $27,300.

That figure tops the money-winning list and, unlike many of her competitors, Mrs. Lopez has played in just three of the year's four tournaments up to now. And she'll not compete in this week's event in Rancho Bernardo, Calif.

In winning the Sunstar for the second straight year, Mrs. Lopez finished with an 8-under-par score of 280 over the 6,268-yard, par-72 Rancho Park Golf Course lagout. She had a 69 Sunday to go with earlier rounds of 70, 71 and 70. Last year's winning score was 285.

It was a frustrating setback for Mrs. Stacy, who took the lead with a 6-under-par 66 in Friday's second round and either held or shared it until the final hole of the tournament. Mrs. Stacy's scores were 72-66-71-72.

"Consistency was the key factor," said Mrs. Lopez, who had four birdies and just one bogey during her final round. "I knew the back side would be the key."

Mrs. Lopez had eight pars and the decisive birdie on her final nine holes. She started the day two strokes behind Mrs. Stacy but caught her with birdies on the eighth and ninth holes, both par 5s.

Mrs. Stacy went ahead with a birdie on No. 10, fell even with a bogey on 11, went ahead again with a birdie on 14 but then bogeyed 15. On the 18th, a 366-yard, par-4 hole, Mrs. Stacy missed an 18-foot putt for a birdie that would have forced a sudden-death playoff had she made it.

"The reason why I didn't win was because of the front nine," said Mrs. Stacy, who turns 25 next Friday. "I didn't play aggressively enough, I got only one birdie on the front side. The par 3s got me in trouble.

"When you're playing head-to-head with Nancy, you have to play damn good golf."

The first thing Mrs. Lopez did following the award ceremony after Sunday's victory was telephone her husband, Tim Melton, a sportscaster in Harrisburg, Pa.

"I dedicated this to you and daddy since your birthdays are so close," Nancy told her husband, whom she married on Jan. 6, also her 22nd birthday. "I felt like I worked my tail off out there today.

"I played well, real steady, and that made me feel good. I didn't slop it around."

Susie Berning and Peggy Conley tied for third place with 283 totals. Berning finished with a 71, Conley a 69. Next at 284 were Laura Baugh and Pat Bradley, both of whom had 71s Sunday.

King-Flyer Fight Tops Penalty Marks

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Flyers and the Los Angeles Kings broke 10 National Hockey League single-game penalty records and Kings' defenseman Randy Holt got a record 67 penalty minutes Sunday night, when three fights broke between the teams.

Referee Wally Harris assessed 372 minutes in penalties in the first period — 310 at the 20-minute mark when a 12-minute brawl broke out before the teams left the ice at the end of the period.

Ten players, five from each team, were ejected at that point.

It all began when Holt and the Flyers' Frank Bathe, who got a mere 45 minutes in penalties, started fighting with Holt at 14:58. At 18:20, Kings left wing Bert Wilson and Flyers' defenseman Behn Wilson started scrapping. The Flyers' Paul Holmgren got a two-minute penalty 32 seconds later for charging.

Tempers between the three Flyers and two Kings simmered as they cooled their heels in the penalty box and the period ended. As the five were coming out of the box, both teams milled around for about a minute. Then Philadelphia center Mel Bridgman and Los Angeles left wing Steve Jensen started swinging.

The resulting melee spread across the ice to the Los Angeles bench.

Bathe, Jensen, Bridgman and Holmgren received double game misconducts.

Holt's 67 minutes included three fighting majors, two misconducts, a triple-game misconduct and a two-minute holding penalty. His 10 penalties set a record for the most in a single game.

The other records include:

—Most penalties by both teams in one game: 54.

—Most penalty minutes by both teams in one game: 380.

—Most penalty minutes by one team in one game: Philadelphia, 194 (Los Angeles also broke the previous record with 186 penalty minutes.)

—Most penalties by both teams in one period: 50 (Philadelphia 26 and Los Angeles 24).

—Most penalty minutes by both teams in one period: 372.

—Most penalty minutes by one team in one period: Philadelphia, 188 (Los Angeles had 184 to also exceed the old record).

Nelson Decision Good For Victory

LAUDERHILL, Fla. (AP) — The key to Larry Nelson's front-running, 3-shot victory in the Jackie Gleason Inverrary Golf Classic may have centered around a tactical decision made on the 11th hole of the final round.

"I had a perfect lie in the rough and 230 to the pin," Nelson said Sunday of the par-5 hole. "I could have reached it. I also could have hit it in the water on the right. So I took out a 6-iron, hit it up short, chipped up and made an easy 5.

"Two years ago I'd have gone for the green, hit it in the water and lost by 2."

But Nelson, who said he played "the smartest four rounds of golf of my life," made no mistakes in the wind-raked final round, protected the 4-stroke lead he had built through three rounds with a closing 71, and scored his first pro triumph by a comfortable 3 shots. He finished with a 274 total, 14 strokes under par on the 7,127-yard Inverrary Country Club course.

"My caddy and I just didn't want to beat ourselves," Nelson said. "We kept talking to each other, calming each other down. We just didn't want to make any dumb mistakes, make any really big numbers."

They didn't.

"Larry played a super round under the conditions," said Grier Jones, again a runner-up in this event and the only man able to keep Nelson in sight. "He got 4 ahead yesterday and that was all there was to it. There was no catching him. I knew, with this wind, that if Larry played good, it would take a phenomenal round to beat him."

And that phenomenal round wasn't forthcoming in the gusty winds. Jones, who lost to Jack Nicklaus' string of 5 consecutive birdies last year, made the best effort.

No one else really had a chance over the last nine holes.

It was 3 more strokes back to Hale Irwin, third for the second week in a row, at 73-280. He was followed by Lee Elder and Tommy Aaron at 281. Elder birdied the last hole for a 70 and Aaron matched par 72. Ray Floyd was next at 74-282 and U.S. Open champ Andy North was 72-283.

Nicklaus, who had won three consecutive tournaments on this course, never challenged this time. He finished with a discouraging 75 and was 20 shots back at 294.

Nelson, 31, didn't take up golf until relatively late in life, 10 years ago. He found he had a natural talent, quit his job as an illustrator for an aircraft manufacturer and went to work as an assistant golf pro. He joined the tour six years ago and, although without a victory, had shown solid improvement.

"I've led at one time or another maybe 12 times, maybe more," he said. "But this is only the second time I've been in the press room on Sunday in two years.

"And the other time was by mistake. The guy who asked me to come in thought I was somebody else."

It's unlikely the mistake will be made again.

"I feel this is a definite stage, a stepping-stone," he said. "Some reach it sooner than others, some later. I'm pleased with what I've accomplished in golf."

STAR GRIDDER DEAD

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Beattie Feathers, former University of Tennessee running back and a long-time coach at North Carolina schools, died Saturday. He was 69. Feathers suffered an apparant heart attack last Thursday and was hospitalized until his death at a Winston-Salem hospital.

Earl Scudday

"Dewey was our No. 1 priority on signing day," Akers revealed. "Everyone else came after that."

Akers also thinks he came up with some winners at quarterback, including Fort Stockton's Rick McIvor and Garland's Herkie Walls. McIvor is a big, fast triple-threater who did everything for a good football team. Walls is marginal in size (5-9 x 160), but may be the fastest cat around.

"Last summer, Herkie was electronically timed in 9.29 seconds in the 100-yard dash," Akers reported with a note of awe. "We are going to give him a shot at quarterback, but he could be a great prospect at wide receiver or defensive back."

Can you imagine what would happen to a defensive secondary if the 'Horns sent both Herkie and Lam Jones deep on a pass? It boggles the mind.

The new recruit carrying the heaviest burden this autumn will be a kicking specialist from Aurora, Colo., named Jeff Guy. The Texas coaches, knowing that the great Russell Erxleben was graduation-bound, scouted the entire nation for a replacement. Guy (no relation to Oakland's Ray Guy) was the answer.

"Jeff is a fine athlete and has unlimited potential," Akers analyzed. "He is as good a prospect as Erxleben was at the same stage. He has to come through for us."

THE LONGHORNS COMPLETED their first week of spring training before taking off for the annual pre-Easter break, leaving the coaches still seeking answers to some big questions.

Quarterback is the biggest puzzler for Akers, of course. The position looked solid as the Bank of Zurich the last few games of 1978, as Mark McBath came back from the injury list and destroyed Texas A&M and Maryland. But McBath plans to give up his final season of football to boost his grades and try to enter medical school.

"I personally think he could do both," Akers remarked. "And I gave him the option if he should change his mind. At this point, it looks doubtful."

That puts the spotlight on Donnie Little, the heralded blue-chipper who saw considerable action as a freshman, and veteran Jon Aune. Aune, perhaps the best passer on the squad, has been in limbo since the Sooners wrecked his knee in 1977. But he looks healthy now and is bidding for a starting role.

Other quarterback contenders include Ted Constanzo, back for a fifth season, and erratic but talented soph Sam Ansley.

Booger Brooks of Andrews, recruited as a quarterback, has asked to be shifted to another position and is being given a shot at tailback.

RUNNING BACK HAS been a Texas strongpoint in recent years, but suddenly there is no Earl Campbell or Ham Jones on the roster. A.J. "Jam" Jones, the vaunted Youngstown, Ohio, power runner, is the only returnee with experience.

He'll get help from Brad Beck of Perryton, who had injury problems as a freshman, and fumble-prone Leroy King. Brooks could help, too, if he adjusts to his new backfield position.

There will be no easy path for any Southwest Conference entry this autumn, with Houston defending its crown and vastly improved teams such as SMU, Texas Tech and A&M in the race. But the 'Horns seem determined to return to the top of the ladder.

Even if Akers has to work every Saturday.

Martin Popular Topic Of Conversation

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — The subject of most conversations in the baseball camp of the world champion New York Yankees is the man who isn't here — feisty Billy Martin.

Poor Billy. Controversy dogs his heels. Whispers and rumors. Rarely anything concrete. More buzzing and discomfort in the front office. Players gathering in little knots to talk in hushed tones about the latest escapade.

It hardly seems fair.

If Billy The Kid is riding into town and shooting up the saloon again, OK, seize him and bring him to the bar of justice. Hang him if he's guilty. Put him in chains.

But enough of these innuendoes. Enough of the screaming black headlines saying he's been in another brawl — maybe, according to reports from an impeachable source who got it from an unreliable authority who shall remain nameless.

It appears that wild Billy is damned if he does and damned if he doesn't, and someone behind the scenes is greasing the skids to make sure the scrappy ex-skipper doesn't return to the job George Steinbrenner promised him in 1980.

Not George. His patience certainly must be wearing thin and he must be fed up with the whole espidode which largely, because of sentimentality, is of his own making.

But deception is not his style. A volatile, impulsive man himself, he has too much class to stoop to such subtlety. Besides, why should he? He is the boss. He can make a snap decision and — boom! — that's it.

We haven't been one of Billy's great admirers. We respect his ability as a manager, maybe the best in the field. The miracle turn-arounds he achieved at Minnesota, Detroit, Texas and even New York are proof of that.

But there is a spiteful streak in him that has undone much of his statistical success. Proud and arrogant, he has failed to work in harmony with his front offices. He has demeaned by frigid aloofness players with whom he was at odds — Ken Holtzman, Mickey Rivers and Reggie Jackson, as prime examples.

A brilliant tactician, at times a great motivator, he refuses to go face-to-face with personnel problems. He's not the right manager for the new Yankees, now the swankiest family on the block.

But now, during this 1 1/2-year period of rehabilitation, he deserves a better chance than they're giving him. He shouldn't be in a fish bowl, every move subject to public exposure and criticism.

The latest incident over the weekend was a ludicrous example.

Some of the boys were living it up in the local Bachelor's III, a watering hole of which Joe Namath is part owner, and maybe they got a little boisterous. Who knows?

Anyhow, Billy Martin was one of the guests. So naturally he was in the middle of it. Right? It certainly must have been true since Billy showed up with a cast on his hand. Whom did he belt?

Yet a thorough probe by some of New York's sharpest newshawks failed to uncover any untoward behavior. The people around the lounge said Billy was a perfect gentleman. Billy immediately became incommunicado. Yankee brass frowned and said, "No, not again." But nothing was proved.

Martin has been told by Steinbrenner that he can have his job back if he keeps his nose clean. But how clean is clean? What restraints are imposed on Billy's social life?

This is a question that baseball itself must address. Bill Lee of the Expos said — and later denied — he smoked marijuana for 10 years.

Pete Rose is faced with a paternity suit. The late Hack Wilson, the latest Hall of Famer, was a notorious boozer. Babe Ruth loved his beer and women. When, if ever, does a man's personal life offend the best interests of the game?

Writer Reveals Royal Secret

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
Associated Press Writer

RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — When the Ayatollah Khomeini's revolutionary government takes over the Shah of Iran's summer palace, they undoubtedly will have a frustrating time trying to unlock the French windows in the morning room.

Mulligan's Stew

I am in a position to help out there.

I happen to be one of the few people in the world who knows where the key is hidden. The story can at last be told how I came by this imperial secret.

A little over a year before Iran's collapse, I went to the Sadabad Palace in the cool hills north of smog-choked Teheran for an interview with the Empress Farah Diba, the shah's third wife.

The summer palace, in a park-like setting of gardens and splashing fountains, is where the shah and his shabanou or empress resided with their four children until the first snowfall and better central heating called them home to the more ornate Niavaran Palace further down in the parched, dun-colored hills overlooking the teeming capital.

A court protocol officer picked me up at the hotel in a black palace limousine and escorted me through the several security checkpoints. It was a scorching August day. We arrived a half hour early for the appointment and were ushered into the morning room on the ground floor overlooking the formal gardens. The sun climbing over the trees beat mercilessly on the French windows, which walled the room in glass on three sides like a solarium.

"Much too hot in here," said the protocol officer, sweating profusely in his dark worsted business suit, hand tailored on Savile Row, which was his court uniform for all seasons.

At his first attempt to yank open the windows, two soldiers with submachine guns popped out from behind hedges on the lawn and another came loping down the gravel path from the orangery. They recognized him and moved off.

"Locked," conceded the protocol officer, backing away from the window in embarrassment. "Security precautions, you understand." He went to the far wall and tugged authoritatively on a red plush velvet cord.

A court attendant in a swallow-tail coat and striped diplomatic trousers appeared almost instantly, bowing like Hudson in "Upstairs, Downstairs" with the balanced blend of guile and obsequiousness, which showed he knew his station in life but was suspicious of ours. The two conversed politely in Farsi, the Iranian language, although my escort gave the impression of issuing some orders.

Swallowtail withdrew and returned after a while with a large ring of keys. None of them seemed to fit the French windows.

"Tight security," explained my escort, barely able to conceal his chagrin at this failure. "This man obviously is not senior enough to be entrusted with the proper keys. You know, there have been three attempts on the shah's life."

By now the room was like a sauna. A beribboned paratroop officer, obviously summoned by the departed swallowtail, appeared with an even larger ring of keys.

"The colonel is personally charged with the safety of the empress and the children," the protocol officer confided. I noticed he adopted a more respectful tone in conversation with the newcomer.

But none of his keys fitted either. The paratrooper rapped smartly on the pane and with gestures directed one of the soldiers to shoulder his curved steel handled submachine gun and try pulling on the French windows from the outside. Again, to no avail.

Highly polished jump boots marched across the morning room to the gold French phone on the tiny golden table. More crisp orders were issued by a cool voice used to issuing them.

All three of us settled back to wait in the silk-upholstered Italian provincial chairs, arrayed stage center facing the garden like characters in a Noel Coward drawing room comedy. The colonel broke the awkward sweaty silence by addressing some words to me.

"He says," my escort translated, "that the shah is much beloved by the people, but unfortunately there are enemies to be guarded against. We must be ever vigilant. He apologies for your discomfort."

Before I had a chance to reply, there was a discreet knock at the door.

A Baluchi porter entered, wearing the striped collar-less shirt and baggy bloomer trousers of the working class in the Baluchistan province. A feather duster protruded from the bustle of his red cummerbund, giving him the absurd appearance of a bantam rooster. He didn't bow but projected an Old World dignity that was neither arrogant nor condescending.

When the colonel addressed him, in kindly, patronizing tones, the porter's eyes lit up in instant recognition. I thought I heard him say, "A-ha," or its tribal equivalent. He forthwith pattered across the room in his open-heeled slippers, lifted the corner of the exquisite Persian carpet and uncovered the brass key that was lurking there.

In a trice, the windows swung open and a cooling breeze rustled the portiers.

So much for imperial vigilence. Soon afterwards I was escorted up the grand staircase by still another court attendant in a swallow tail coat. The empress, smiling charmingly, arrived in a light breeze of perfume and a silken shimmer of Shantung by Dior, but with a sheaf of official papers under her arm.

I should have known that the squadrons of new F-14s and the big helicopter complex at Isfahan would not be sufficient to guarantee the future of the Pahlavi dynasty. You can't hide everything under a rug.

Auto Companies To Lay Off Workers

DETROIT (AP) — Slow sales of some car models will idle about 7,300 workers at two car companies this week and force an indefinite layoff of 1,500 at a third firm for at least 10 months.

The auto assembly line at Ford Motor Co.'s Louisville, Ky., plant will be closed for a week starting today, idling 3,000 hourly workers, Ford said last week. The truck line will remain in operation.

Ford blamed the shutdown on high inventories of the full-sized LTD and a shortage of 302-cubic-inch V-8 engines.

As previously announced, American Motors Corp. will cut the line speed by 33 percent at its only car assembly plant, in Kenosha, Wis. That means a cut of 1,500 in the work force until at least January, when AMC starts building Jeeps in Kenosha.

The plant was down last week as it has been every other week since early winter. AMC says the slowed production to 610 cars per day will prevent those regular shutdowns, which routinely idled 6,500 workers.

The Chrysler Corp. plant on Lynch Road will start its previously reported two-week shutdown to trim inventories of the full-sized Dodge St. Regis and Chrysler Newport and New Yorker. About 4,300 hourly workers are affected.

A trade publication said that U.S. auto production last week, with some 21,000 workers idled because of shutdowns at four plants by AMC, Chrysler and Ford, will fall 5.5 percent behind the year-ago week but be up 3.1 percent from last week.

Americans built 195,271 cars last week, compared with 206,527 in the same week last year and 189,347 cars the week before, said Ward's Automotive Reports.

Partly offsetting the shutdowns are overtime schedules on Saturday at 16 car plants and eight truck plants.

Since Jan. 1, U.S. car assemblies come to 1,811,826, up 6 percent from the blizzard-plagued winter of last year, when 1,708,997 cars had been built by this time.

U.S. truck output for last week reached 83,149, up 9.5 percent from 75,959 in the year-ago week and 4.5 percent ahead of the 79,572 trucks built last week.

So far this year, Americans have assembled 769,525 trucks, 19 percent ahead of the 645,494 built by this time last year.

Canadian car production will total 20,964, off 3.5 percent from the 21,720 built in the same week last year but up 3 percent from the week before last's 20,536 cars. Since Jan. 1, Canadians have built 229,672 cars, up 8.9 percent from last year's pace of 210,823.

Canadians built 16,781 trucks last week, an 11 percent jump from the year-ago total of 15,104 but down a fraction from the previous week's 16,821 trucks. The year's Canadian truck output is now at 155,496, up 15.6 percent from last year's 134,519 trucks.

Family Still Working On Unusual Home

GREENWICH, Ohio (AP) — When a tornado blew his mobile home apart last June, Jim Kurtz accelerated plans to build an underground house on his nearly two-acre lot.

The Kurtz family of four, who had been living in the mobile unit with less than 500 square feet of floor space, now have 2,100 square feet in a three-bedroom, ranch-style home.

"Nobody thought we would make it as far as we did so soon," said Mrs. Kurtz after the family had moved in. "Jim set a date of Nov. 4 to move in. A week before, it didn't look like we'd make it. But he worked straight through the last few days.

"We didn't have any water and we more or less camped out. But we were here that night."

It's not complete yet, according to Kurtz. "There's some nickel and dime items to be done, but it's about 85 percent to 90 percent finished," he said recently. "This has been in the planning for about three years. All the storm did was push us along on plans."

Kurtz was at work as a mason when the storm hit June 26, a week after he had started a business of his own. Mrs. Kurtz and the children huddled in the bathtub while the storm shoved their home around and finally sucked it into exploding pieces.

"The little girl got a scratch on her nose but nobody was really hurt," Kurtz said. "They crawled out of the wreckage, jumped in the pickup truck and drove to a neighbor's house."

Kurtz said the new house measured 30 by 75 feet. "It's all underground except for the roof. We have to go upstairs to get out and I put two entrances on the place," he said.

"I still want to add an enclosed patio to one side, and we have plans for a swimming pool. I'd like a greenhouse in that area, too," Kurtz said.

Without heat or air conditioning, the house — with masonry walls and cement floor — would stay at a constant 58 degrees.

Kurtz said he had built a fireplace at one end of the house and put a wood stove at the other end, plus electric baseboard panels for heat.

He said the fireplace and stove furnished most of the heat and the electric panels are seldom turned on.

"Right now we've got $8,000 in the house. That doesn't count the lot. I bought this 1.7-acre lot about five years ago for this purpose.

"We just didn't get started building until the tornado."

The couple salvaged two chairs, a clothes washer and dryer and a TV set from their trailer home.

"Things are getting better now," Mrs. Kurtz said. "Things are getting settled. The kids love it. They're happy and better behaved."

Outside, Kurtz left one grim reminder of the storm — a wrecked cooking stove sitting in the open some distance from their home.

Woman Patrols Railway Yard

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A slender, 32-year-old woman in tailored pantsuits and an upswept hairdo stalks criminals, hobos and thieves around Burlington Northern's railroad yards here.

The woman, Neva Chappelle, is a police officer who works the 4-to-midnight shift patrolling the yards, guarding the company's property and freight shipments. She's one of the few female railroad police officers in the country.

Although she's been on the job only three years, she is thoroughly familiar with the field, since both her parents and two uncles were police officers.

With a gun, handcuffs, badge and two-way radio strapped to her belt, she climbs over rail cars inspecting the freight, and checks doors and boxcar seals to make sure nothing has been broken into. Most of those she talks to or arrests are so startled at seeing a woman, they don't know what to do, she says. "They're so confused they end up doing what you want," she adds.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your one-to-one relationships continue to be the touchy area for you tomorrow. A philosophical attitude will go a long way to help alleviate any strain.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you're prepared to change directions because a co-worker has a different way of handling a task, you'll prevent an unnecessary confrontation.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) How you react will be more important than getting even with someone who has stepped on your toes. Protect your reputation above all.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Do what needs to be done quickly tomorrow. Don't waste time arguing over whose job it is supposed to be. You'll save yourself much frustration.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Refuse to take part in any confrontations tomorrow. Change the subject or remove yourself from the scene. You don't have to be drawn into anything unless you permit it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Your financial picture continues to be shaky again tomorrow. Consider how others could suffer by your carelessness. That should make you more attentive.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An objective outsider might have to arbitrate an issue that you and a partner can't come to terms on. Listen to your referee.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Pleas for help may still be coming your way tomorrow. You might have to determine which are purely sob stories and which are legitimate before extending yourself.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Attitude will play an importnt part as to whether tomorrow will be a happy day for you. Put an abrupt halt to thinking that the world is against you.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Follow your instincts tomorrow if you find yourself backed into a corner. They'll show you the best possibly way out.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You'll have little patience tomorrow for anyone who doesn't immediately go along with what you think is best. Know when to hold your tongue if you wish to avoid an argument.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Someone could easily sell you a bill of goods tomorrow. Before buying, make certain you're getting the steak and not the sizzle.

'Roots' Does Little To Change Prospects For Black Actors

By PETER J. BOYER

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Hollywood has never been known for its generous disposition toward black actors. Oh, there were always plenty of roles for blacks, but the work wasn't of the sort that justified long hours spent mastering the craft.

Long after the grin-and-shuffle days of Stepin Fetchit, the best roles offered to black actors were mindless Mr. Macho parts, the kind Jim Brown always starred in.

Then came "Roots," which, among other things, paraded across the screen a host of very fine black actors, many of whom had never before worked before a camera. Surely "Roots," loved by viewers and professional pointy heads alike, would signal a new day for black actors, the end of an old Hollywood attitude.

Surely.

"Nope."

Meet Stan Shaw, acclaimed actor and experienced rejecter of trashy roles. He was Will Palmer, Tennessee's first black businessman, in "Roots: The Next Generativns." It was one of the class miniseries' beefier roles. So, how is Hollywood responding to his fine performance?

"Believe it or not, Universal called my agent after my first night on'Roots II' and said, 'We have this series we want Stan to do. It's about an ambulance driver who's real reckless, who drives through store windows to save babies, and his name is Red Light.'

"Roots" and a starring role in "Boys from Company C" have elevated Shaw above the hungry mass of black actors looking for honest work. Now he can turn down shows about slapstick ambulance drivers; now he can slip a diamond stud into his ear and hang out in a hotel lounge with a reporter all afternoon. But he'll spend much of the time telling you Hollywood still isn't right.

"When white actors work, there's not a lot of referring to them as white actors ... they're just actors doing a role. Like 'Heaven Can Wait,' the guy didn't have to be white.

"It's a shame, but right now, black actors are still specialty acts. When they send out a call saying they want an actor who is 35, handsome, suave — unless they say 35, handsome, BLACK and suave, they want a white guy. It's an injustice. There are black actors who are powerful in their craft and can perform credibly."

Shaw remembers keeping irregular eating habits for more than a year when he first came to Hollywood, after five years on Broadway with "Hair." Certain former athletes, meanwhile, were dining stylishly.

Daly Defends Quality Of Shows

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Bob Daly is one of the most influential men in the country today. He determines what you watch in 22 of the 66 hours of weekly prime time television.

As president of CBS Entertainment, Daly affects the lives of most people who own TV sets — for better or worse.

It is his responsibility, based on advice and counsel of dozens of other CBS executives, to put shows on the air, be they "60 Minutes" or the soap opera, "Dallas."

As Daly says, "No show goes on CBS without my approval."

Inasmuch as Daly — unlike such controversial network powers as NBC's Fred Silverman — keeps a low profile, one is compelled to inquire what sort of man is this who dictates what we watch? What are his qualifications?

Daly, 42, is a church-going Irish Catholic of medium height. He is dark-haired, quietspoken but forceful. He has been a CBS employee since 18. He was born and reared in Brooklyn, attended Brooklyn College and Hunter College.

He and his wife, the former Nancy MacNeil, and three children live in Los Angeles — the only network programming president based on the West Coast.

Before assuming his powerful programming job in 1977, Daly was involved with network business affairs. He worked with Silverman when the latter was a CBS executive.

Daly is thoroughly indoctrinated in CBS standards and attitudes, reflecting the network's traditional reputation for stability. While ABC and NBC have had dramatic ups and downs, CBS retains its cool and, by TV standards, a relatively high quality of programming.

Daly showed his class earlier this season by renewing "The Paper Chase" when the series was dead last in the ratings. He deemed it a quality show deserving of a chance. Daly may have been mistaken, but he didn't hit the panic button.

CBS was perennially No. 1 in the ratings until four or five years ago when ABC — a chronic third in the Nielsens — launched an onslaught of peabrained sitcoms that knocked CBS off its throne.

Today CBS finds itself mired in second place, comfortably ahead of NBC, uncomfortably trailing ABC. Daly's goal is to put CBS back on top. To do so he must come up with popular youth-oriented comedies.

"Comedy is the essence of TV today," he said. "The backbone of success in the ratings. You have two strikes against you without youth-oriented shows.

"Our company was built on Jack Benny, 'Amos n Andy' and others. Even in recent years we succeeded with 'M-A-S-H,' 'All In The Family,' 'The Mary Tyler Moore Show' and other hit situation comedies.

"We do well with dramatic series — 'Lou Grant,' 'White Shadow,' 'Kaz' — but we're having trouble with comedy. ABC has the hot hand. You know by history that youth-oriented comedy will die out. In the meanwhile, you have to go with it.

"It's difficult to project how new shows will do. We don't put anything on the air we think will be unsuccessful, but the attrition rate is tough."

According to Daly, CBS receives 2,000 idea submissions a year, 200 of which reach script form. Fifty pilot films are made with 10 of them making it to the air. Only three of the 10 return for a second season.

He added that TV is regularly judged by the public and critics in its entirety, a rare phenomenon in the other arts. Daly suggests weighing the success ratings of movies, Broadway and book publishing where the percentage of bombs is far greater than on the tube.

"My personal hangup is hearing about the golden age of television," he said, referring to the 1950s and the old time dramas out of New York. "I think the golden age is right now on all three networks and PBS.

"There is no 'Playhouse 90.' But in retrospect not all those old shows were really that good. Compare them with current TV movies and you'll see that overall we're better off today.

"Viewers are offered more quality shows than ever. A lot of stuff is no good, but it's canceled fast. TV is too defensive about its bad shows and does a terrible job of merchandising itself because of network competition.

"People complain about the competitive scheduling of 'Gone With The Wind,' 'One Flew Over The Cuckoo's Nest' and the Elvis Presley special against one another. But look at it this way; they were on the air."

Daly thinks his best accomplishment this year was "maintaining some sort of sanity at the beginning of the season" when CBS was under attack for falling into third place behind NBC in the ratings.

"In the first four weeks we had some movie failures and disappointing new shows," he said. "We were attacked in the press. Rumors had us all getting fired because of our poor start. But we stayed with our standards and backed our judgment. So far it's paid off."

Girl Visits Old Friend

GRAND PRAIRIE (AP) — A friendship between a former American soldier and a little Dutch girl is still alive 35 years later.

When he was stationed in Maastricht, Holland, in 1944, Stephen Fedorko befriended a 9-year-old girl. She was hungry, and Fedorko fed her C-rations.

When he left Holland, he left without saying goodbye, but the girl, whose own father was killed in the war and who regarded Fedorko as something of a substitute father, never forgot him.

She tracked him down through the U.S. Embassy in 1972 and ever since they have been in touch.

Recently, the girl, Marike Janssen, visited Fedorko and his family with her husband, Matthew, and their daughter, Patricia.

Grand Prairie City Council proclaimed the Janssens honorary citizens. The Janssens gave the city tulip bulbs from Holland to be planted in city parks.

TODAY'S STOCK PRICES

Dow Jones Falls 6.93 To 835.93

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock prices fell in moderate trading today showing concern over failure of the Middle East peace talks and domestic interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials fell 6.93 to 835.93 in the first two hours of trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Losing issues outnumbered gainers by almost 2-to-1. Big Board volume was 10.27 million shares by midday, down from 17.81 million shares in the previous session.

Disappointment of a lack of agreement on an Israeli-Egyptian peace treaty depressed stocks much as last week's surprise announcement of President Carter's Middle East trip had buoyed them, one analyst said.

"It's an emotional perception ... there may have been some hope of a settlement," said Larry Wachtel of Bache Halsey Stuart, Shields.

Also weighing on the market, analysts said, was concern that the Federal Reserve may be tightening monetary policy again — forcing up interest rates — in an effort to slow economic growth and inflationay pressures. However, there were signs in money markets early today that the Fed was easing up again.

Sears Roebuck, which reported higher fourth quarter earnings, was the most active NYSE issue and up ¼ to 20.

Several gambling and casino issues continued to fall back following sharp rises earlier last week. Caesars World dropped 2⅝ to 53⅞; Del Webb fell ⅝ to 21⅞ and on the American Stock Exchange, Golden Nugget dropped 1¾ to 25⅛ and Resorts Class A declined ⅛ to 51¼.

The noon NYSE composite index fell .32 to 55.49. The Amex market value index was off .25 at 166.51.

Passman Trial Formally Opens

MONROE, La. (UPI) — The bribery and tax evasion trial of former Rep. Otto Passman, D-La., formally began today with U.S District Judge Earl Veron reading indictments against the ex-congressman and prosecutors promising quick testimony from South Korean businessman Tongsun Park.

The 12 jurors and six alternates, chosen last week in a tedious selection process from among Passman's former constituents, arrived at the federal courthouse in a yellow school bus. They walked up a ramp into the building where the second-floor courtroom was less than half full with spectators.

Passman showed up a few minutes later wearing a gray suit and carrying a walking stick. The aging former congressman entered through the main courthouse entrance accompanied by Richard Burnes, one of his four defense attorneys.

By the time Passman arrived in court, however, Veron already was at the bench. He exchanged greetings with Passman and immediately began reading the indictments, a process that took up much of the morning session.

Passman sat with his left hand cupped around his ear, apparently straining to hear Veron read the indictment. Except for a brief pause to drink a glass of water, the judge read non-stop for an hour and six minutes and then ordered a brief recess before opening arguments began.

The trial is the first of a congressman since Park testified last year he gave $800,000 in cash or gifts to lawmakers so they would support rice shipments to South Korea.

Park, the government's key witness, spent several days in Monroe last week, but departed when it became obvious jury selection would be tedious. He was scheduled to return later today and his attorney, William Hundley, said Park would be the second or third government witness.

"You have to believe the government wants to put him on early," said Camille Gravel, Passman's chief defense attorney. "He wouldn't be coming back this soon to stay here in Monroe and be bored."

Prosecutors David Scott and Morris Silverstein refused to disclose how Park fit into their plans.

Passman, 78, denied the charges he took $213,000 from Park and failed to pay income tax of $77,000 on some of the money. He said he accepted no gifts and did nothing illegal in furthering rice deals to aid farmers in Louisiana and other states sell their crops.

The former congressman, who was influential in foreign aid matters because of his chairmanship of an appropriations subcommittee, served in the House for 30 years until he lost a 1976 bid for re-election. The Park case had not surfaced at that time, but questionable expense vouchers and allegations that he obtained government shipping contracts for a friend undermined his political strength.

Passman was indicted on the bribery charge almost a year ago, March 31, 1978, by a federal grand jury in Washington. The tax evasion indictment was returned there several weeks later, but Passman was hospitalized in New Orleans for depression and senility during that period.

His trial was moved from Washington to Louisiana in consideration of his age and state of health.

During the weekend Gravel said a medical exam after the week of jury selection showed Passman's blood pressure slightly elevated. Gravel also said his client suffered several dizzy spells during the week.

Selection of a 12-member jury and six alternates took all last week. Each prospective juror was questioned individually in the judge's chambers.

Opening statement also were expected to be lengthy.

"The judge has not imposed any length on the opening statements, but I would imagine it would take a fair amount of time for me to cover what I believe are the facts in the case," Gravel said.

Police Predict Arrest In Oklahoma Killings

OKLAHOMA CITY (UPI) — A Police Department spokesman has predicted a prime suspect in the 1978 slayings of three members of a Texas family and six employees of an Oklahoma City steakhouse will be arrested by nightfall.

Authorities today checked out an Alabama man arrested in Corpus Christi. Corpus Christi police said the man fit the general description of Roger Dale Stafford, 27, of Sheffield, Ala., accused of nine slayings last summer and object of a nationwide bulletin.

However, after questioning the suspect, who was driving a car with Alabama license plates, and checking identifying marks, police determined the suspect was not Stafford.

Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation agent Arthur Linville said another suspect was being investigated in another state.

"We're going to get a lot of these," Linville said. "We're checking it out."

Authorities announced late Saturday that with the help of a secret witness they had solved the multiple-slaying cases and issued a nationwide bulletin for Stafford.

Sgt. Tom Mundy, police information officer, said there would be no further announcements until "Monday afternoon at the earliest ... when we announce his arrest."

Stafford had been under watch in Decatur, Ala., but slipped out of town. Rick Logan, an Oklahoma City homicide detective, said Stafford apparently left the Decatur area a short time before he and an agent of the Oklahoma State Bureau of Investigation arrived in Alabama Friday night. Logan declined to say whether he believed the suspect had left Alabama.

Police Chief Tom Heggy said a second suspect, Stafford's 29-year-old brother Harold, died in a Tulsa motorcycle accident soon after the Sirloin Stockade killings.

City police and OSBI officials said the suspect was implicated in the slayings by a secret eyewitness who has been in protective custody for the past week. The eyewitness was identified as a woman, but police are withholding her name for security reasons.

Authorities said the case-breaking lead came in a Jan. 3 anonymous telephone call concerning composite drawings that had been released of the Lorenz-steakhouse suspects.

The investigation began the morning of June 23, 1978, when the bullet-riddled bodies of Air Force Sgt. Melvin G. Lorenz, 38, of San Antonio and his wife, Linda, 31, were found alongside Interstate 35 south of Purcell. The body of their 12-year-old son, Richard Lorenz, was found two miles north.

Firm Purchases Paper, Plant

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Morris Communications Inc., owner of The Lubbock Avalanche-Journal, has purchased a free-distribution publication in Tampa, Fla., and a job-printing firm in Amarillo.

William S. Morris III, president of Morris Communications, announced over the weekend that the firm has purchased Neighbor Newspaper in Tampa and the Amarillo division of Southwest Offset Inc.

Morris Communications also owns newspapers in Augusta, Athens and Savannah, Ga., Amarillo and in Juneau, Alaska.

Morris said a new subsidiary, North America Publications Inc., has been formed by Morris Communications for the acquisitions.

Autopsy Sought On Young Girl

Justice of the Peace Charles Smith has ordered an autopsy on the body of a 2½-year-old Lubbock girl found dead in her bed about midnight today.

Smith said this morning he was withholding a ruling in the death of Shelly Kay Shearer until he received results from the autopsy. He added, however, that preliminary tests showed the child had symptoms of pneumonia.

The child's mother called for an ambulance shortly before midnight after she was unable to revive her daughter, according to Smith. However, by the time EMS attendants arrived at the 5702 50th St., Apt. 9, residence the child was dead.

The child's aunt told police the girl was "playing and happy" Saturday and earlier Sunday.

Med Center Applies To Build Addition

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — John Knox Village of West Texas Med Center in Lubbock has applied to the Texas Health Facilities Commission to construct a 9,928-square-foot addition.

The addition is to provide 45 more beds in the skilled nursing facility.

The application has been set for hearing April 30. However, if there are no protests against the application by April 12, the hearing may be waived and the request referred to a THFC voting session without a public hearing.

Hearing Slated For Care Homes

A-J Austin Bureau

AUSTIN — A public hearing on proposed changes in licensing personal care homes has been scheduled for 10 a.m. March 28 in the Lubbock Garden and Arts Center.

The Texas Department of Health is proposing to clarify the purpose of personal care homes, facilities that provide food, shelter and other services for persons who need assistance in their daily living. A personal care home is not authorized to provide nursing services such as those required in a nursing home nor the care provided in a custodial care home.

The department is proposing standards providing for the administration of medication by the staff under certain conditions and easing some building construction requirements.

Congratulations

Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Forster of 2407 E. 10th St., on birth of a son weighing 6 pounds 3¼ ounces at 10:35 p.m. Saturday in Community Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Howard of Box 2715, Lubbock, on birth of a daughter weighing 8 pounds 4½ ounces at 5 p.m. Saturday in Community Hospital.

Newsletter Keeps Track Of Pornography Trends

By ELAINE S. POVICH

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There have long been newsletters for doctors, lawyers, engineers, interior decorators, bricklayers, joggers and just about any other endeavor you might name. Now there's one for pornographers, too.

"I've been into sex for a while," said Dennis Sobin, publisher of TAB (The Adult Business) Report. "Right now I'm getting more fun than money, but I believe the money will come in."

Sobin said he is trying to carve himself a piece of the nation's multi-billion dollar pornography business and that he has no competition in his specific field.

"This newsletter will give businessmen some advice to let them know what their competitors are doing," he said. "It will let them know what's new in the business."

Adult business operations face different problems from other enterprises, Sobin said.

"It (the newsletter) fills a dire need on the part of adult-industry businessmen who are being hounded by cops, sheriff, politicians, tax collectors and religious zealots," he said.

"They don't know how to react to fight back. Now they can exchange experiences, learn about their rights and become better managers."

The first issue of the newsletter, sent to potential subscribers, had 16 pages of news, photos and gossip about sex-oriented businesses. Among its features:

—An editorial critical of authorities for paying "grossly exaggerated and misdirected" attention to child pornography, illustrated with a picture of Sobin in the buff, at age 7.

—A collection of "news" items from around the country, including a "legal briefs" column. Sobin said an attorney will be joining his staff soon to write a regular legal advice column.

—An advertisement for postcards from Denmark and Tshirts designed for X-rated stores which read: "Purveyors of Fine Smut Since..." with blanks for the store name and date.

—A classified advertising section, including items for a lawyer who says he's "worked in all aspects of civil and criminal law relating to adultoriented business"; a CPA who advertises his experience with massage parlor auditing; and an "adult-oriented businessman with new idea. Print erotic literature in Braille. Reach an untouched market. Needs backer-partner."

Sobin said his next issue will feature a list of printers around the country who will take "any kind" of printing.,

Does Sobin have any moral questions about his endeavor?

"If I'm helping people in their business, eshecially small businessmen which most of these are, I feel I'm doing a moral good," he replied.

But his main motivation is money.

"I'm a businessman. Any decisions I make have to be those that I feel will return my money and then some," he said. "But I also want to do something that's interesting."

Sobin, 35, a thin man with a moustache who operates out of a patched-up row house in a "transitional" Washington neighborhood, boasts he has been deeply involved with everything his newsletter covers.

In the early 1960s, Sobin bought 1,000 pair of women's erotic underwear for 32 cents each and sold them — with a $1 price tag —through the mail. "I sold enough to make back my investment," he smiled.

Sobin also has produced a record titled "Dr. Obscenity," on which he sings bawdy lyrics and plays the guitar, and a second is in the works.

His idol is Al Goldstein, publisher of Screw magazine, who he says gave him an opportunity to research pornography and write articles for Screw.

Sobin holds a Ph.D. in sociology from New York University and also publishes the "Federal Contracts Opportunities Report" newsletter, but at the moment his pet project is the TAB report.

Israelis Investigate Women Draft Dodgers

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — More and more Israeli women are dodging the draft on religious grounds, and the government is using private detectives to find them out.

Five women were arrested last week for driving on the Sabbath after securing exemption from military service by claiming it would interfere with their religious observances. A police spokesman said they were asked to be on the lookout for them because the Defense Ministry questioned the veracity of their declarations.

If convicted of filing false statements, they could get three years in prison.

Defense Ministry spokesman Dan Weinreich said the ministry had hired a private agency to "follow people" but would not discuss draftees or exemptions.

Ultra-orthodox Jews believe a girl should remain at home until she marries. They say the army corrupts young women by allowing them to mix with men without supervision. To satisfy this 5 percent of the population, strict adherence to Jewish law was made grounds for exemption of women from the two-year period of military service rquired of women after they are 18.

Formerly women claiming this religious exemption had to go before a military board that questioned them on religious law and traditions. Last year religious parties that hold the balance in Prime Minister Menachem Begin's coalition government pushed through a law abolishing the boards and requiring only the filing of a declaration that the young woman observes Jewish dietary laws and does not travel on the Sabbath.

"They can send them in the mail, right from the beach," said Orly Dahan, an army veteran now studying at Hebrew University. He is a member of the Movement for Equal Service, a new organization pushing for a law that would require women exempted from the army to perform two years of alternative service.

Most men are drafted for three years. About half the draft-age women are released from the obligation because they marry, claim religious exemptions or fail to meet health or educational standards.

Although it would give no totals, the Defense Ministry said the number of women claiming religious exemptions recently has risen from 22 to 27 percent of all those applying to escape the draft.

"We can respect the conscience of a religious person, but we don't have to give a prize for it," said medical student Eliav Tsarfati of the equal service group. "So let's arrange a way for her to do her duty without a conscience problem. If we send her to school or to the beach, that's not fair."

Two bills for national service for women were recently defeated in the Knesset, the Israeli parliament. The sponsor of one of the bills, Shulamit Aloni, said the defeat "has nothing to do with what's right. It has to do with what keeps the government in power. There is no law, religious or not, that should prevent women from helping children and the elderly or aiding the retarded or those in need of welfare."

Aloni said the situation is causing "a strong feeling of unfairness and a deep demoralization among people who feel it is their (the exempt women's) duty to serve their country.

Met's Newest Production Departs From Tradition

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — The Metropolitan Opera's new "Flying Dutchman" is the wildest departure in memory from traditional presentations. Because of that, the production — first shown last week — is sure to be controversial.

When the Wagner work was over, there were cheers for the singers — and cheers and boos for designer Jean-Pierre Ponnelle.

The set for "Flying Dutchman" ranges from Senta's livingroom to three decks of a ghostly ship. The production lasts 2½ hours and there is no intermission.

In the Met's production, the story is presented as a steersman's dream.

The staging is bold and exciting. Tattered sails, backlighted in red, appear above the ship. Bits of rigging bear representations of men and skeletons.

Americans are not accustomed to avant-garde opera staging. The beautiful church, houses and streets used in Wagner's "Die Meistersinger" are thought of lovingly. We like to thrill to a bold new step but it's hard to let go of tradition.

The singing was generally splendid. Carol Neblett of Modesto, Calif., heard previously with the New York City Opera, made her Met debut as Senta. She started a bit hollow-toned and ended a bit tired but she is a real Wagner soprano — which means she is a treasure.

Jose van Dam of Brussels cut a riveting figure in the title role. His voice timbre is heroic but at times his volume was not. Perhaps he was directed that way for dramatic effect.

DR. LAMB

After Prostate Surgery

By LAWRENCE E. LAMB, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I was operated on for prostate gland trouble by a urologist. I could not urinate at all. He removed my prostate gland and operated on my male tubes. I now have a tube in my bladder to drain the urine which will be taken out in three weeks. I am 68 years old. What are the chances of complete recovery of my urinary organs?

DEAR READER — If you simply had an enlargement of the prostate to the point that it obstructed the flow of urine from your bladder, the removal of the prostate gland may have permanently removed the problem for you.

The remaining question is how much damage was done to your bladder during the years that it was overextended and stretched prior to your operation. If you prostate was removed soon enough and you didn't have prolonged obstruction, you should have complete recovery of urinary function.

There is some difference in recovery in relationship to the kind of surgery that is done. If the prostate gland is removed through a surgical incision, there is a greater likelihood that a man may be left with impotence, but if the prostate gland was reamed out through the urethral tube, called a transurethral resection (TUR), there is a much smaller chance that it will cause persistent complications.

It's common to tie off the vas deferens, which you call the male tubes, at the time of a prostate operation. This was done years before vasectomies became popular for birth control. The idea is to help protect the testicles from inflammation, which sometimes occurs as a complication of prostatic surgery.

With this experience, I am sure you have more interest than usual in the prostate gland so I am sending you The Health Letter number 1-6, Prostate Gland. Other readers who want this issue can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Send your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have a problem with very dark circles under my eyes. I have had these for as long as I can remember. I get more than eight hours sleep so I don't think it can be caused from lack of rest. I had an eye examination a year ago and was told that my eyesight was perfect. My doctor says it is caused from too much pollen in the air. I feel if this is true, why doesn't everyone have this problem? I am 23 years old.

DEAR READER — The problem of dark circles under the eye is usually related to two factors. First, we all have a lot of small veins just underneath the skin. These veins carry blood that looks blue, because it is oxygen-poor venous blood. If you don't have very much fat tissue around the eyelids, those veins may show through the thin skin and cause you to have a darkened appearance underneath the eyes, or dark circles.

The other factor that may be involved is increased pigmentation in that area. These are the same pigment cells that you have in your skin to produce skin color. Some people are born with pigment cells in this area that produce increased amounts of pigment.

In any case, the dark circles under the eyes that people talk about are not related to lack of sleep or dissipation. Usually, there isn't much you can do to eliminate them other than covering them up cosmetically.
