Dulles Says US Has No Suez Canal Finance Plan

Talks With President

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles said after a conference with President Eisenhower today there is no American plan to finance the "detouring of the Suez Canal."

Dulles told reporters at the White House the United States is prepared to help finance, through the Export-Import Bank, increased exports of American oil to Western nations if transit through the canal is "impractical or greatly diminished."

Asked whether he was barring financial aid to other nations to help them transport oil around Africa and thus detour the canal, Dulles said he and Eisenhower have planned only as a contingency the financing of American oil exports.

"We have not gone beyond that in our planning and we do not believe we will have to," Dulles said.

He spent an hour with Eisenhower in advance of his scheduled departure later in the day for London.

In London, Dulles will participate in a meeting of 18 governments which failed in efforts to get Egypt to accept internationalization of the canal operations.

Dulles reiterated in a formal statement issued after his conference with the President that the United States "is dedicated to seeking by peaceful means assurance that the Suez Canal will carry out the international purpose to which it is dedicated by the to accept for ourselves nor do we seek from other nations acceptance of an operating regime for the canal which falls short of recognizing the rights granted to canal users by the 1888 convention," Dulles said.

He continued:

"We are not trying to organize any boycott of the canal but we cannot be blind to the fact that conditions might become such that transit through the canal is impractical or greatly diminished.

"There must always be ways to insure the development of vital supplies, particularly oil, to Western Europe. Accordingly, we are carrying out planning as a prudent precaution. But our hope remains that satisfactory operating arrangements can be worked out with Egypt."

Dulles added that at London "We will consider developments since the previous conference on the Suez adjourned Aug. 23 and, I hope, find a calm approach to the future."

The earlier conference proposed internationalization of canal operations. This was rejected by President Nasser of Egypt.

Ike Centers Attention On Farm Problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower gave new attention today to the farm situation as he prepared for his busiest week thus far in his campaign for re-election.

Eisenhower arranged in a crowded schedule to see two men who take a deep interest in agricultural problems — his brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower, and GOP Sen. Bourke B. Hickenlooper of Iowa.

The President has been leaning heavily on Secretary of Agriculture Benson for advice on farm matters, but in political circles Milton Eisenhower also is credited with great influence on the President in that field.

As one of his campaign tasks this week, Eisenhower will fly to Iowa Friday for the National Field Days and Plowing Contest at Newton.

He has said he will not make a major farm speech there. But he reportedly wants to brush up on the farm situation before he goes there and in advance of a scheduled major farm address at Peoria, Ill., Sept. 25.

Hickenlooper, running for re-election in Iowa, is expected to give Eisenhower his assessment of the farm situation and its relation to the November voting.

Republican strategists have been making their own polls of farmer reaction. These are said to indicate that Eisenhower has lost some political strength in the normally Republican Midwestern states which gave him large majorities in 1952.

Eisenhower expected to whip into nearly final form today the draft of his first formal campaign speech. It will be delivered over CBS television and radio Wednesday night from a Washington studio.

The address will deal largely with administration efforts to keep the world at peace.

Eisenhower will get up early tomorrow to speak at a breakfast sendoff for Vice President Nixon's forthcoming 15,000-mile campaign trip.

Eisenhower returned last night from his farm near Gettysburg, Pa., after a five-day vacation interspersed with work.

Negroes Give Up Battle To Enter Kentucky School

CLAY, Ky. (AP)— Four Negro pupils gave up their fight to enter Clay Consolidated School today after being informed officially of a school board order denying them admittance.

After the Negroes left, approximately 150 white children returned to class.

The Negroes, escorted here by J. J. B. Williams, heard the order read on the steps by the school principal, Mrs. Irene Powell. Three of the four Negroes attended classes last week at Clay, which was boycotted by the 590 white students.

Mrs. Powell told the Gordon children, James, 10, and Theresa, 8; and the Copeland brothers, Bobbie Carl, 12, and Samuel Lee, 14; that the Webster County Board of Education had barred them from entering. The board acted Friday night after the attorney general's office issued an opinion stating the children were illegally enrolled.

After the order was read, Mrs. James Gordon reached over and shook hands with Mrs. Powell "Thank you for your kindness," she said. "I'm taking my children back to Rosenwald." Mrs. Catherine Copeland also said her children would return to Rosenwald. The Rosenwald school at nearby Providence is for Negroes.

Williams said National Guardsmen would remain "in Clay for the time being."

Williams and Mayor Herman Z. Clark shook hands and smiled after the order was read. "It was very dignified, wasn't it?" the general asked.

"Yes sir, it was," the mayor replied.

A small crowd was on hand when Williams and the Negroes drove up to the school. Escorting the students to the front door, Williams told Mrs. Powell:

"I brought them to the door so you could read it (the order) here." A few children and teachers stood behind the principal.

The school board voted Friday night to refuse admittance to the Negro children, adding it would instruct Mrs. Powell to send them on to the Providence school.

Meanwhile, the issue headed toward the courts with an announcement that a suit would be filed asking Federal District Court at Owensboro, Ky., to require the school board to admit the Negroes at Clay.

James A. Crumlin, a Louisville Negro attorney associated with the National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People, said he would represent the three students and their parents in the action.

Crumlin said the suit, to be filed tomorrow, would name the board, its members individually and County School Supt. Wilbur Collins as defendants.

The suit "would seek an injunction to restrain them (the defendants) from prohibiting the attendance of James and Theresa Gordon and Bobbie Copeland at the Clay school," Crumlin said.

Williams said a decision when the guard might leave Clay may be made today. But he said he had not talked with Gov. A. B. Chandler over the weekend and would act only on Chandler's orders.

Mayor Herman Z. Clark of Clay said Saturday he had talked with the governor by telephone and been assured the guard would be removed from the town "if the facts are right."

DEADLINE CHANGED ON FARM PROGRAM

Two Soil Bank deadlines have been extended by the Department of Agriculture, according to Henry Burchett, county office manager for the Agriculture Stabilization & Conservation committee.

The grazing permission deadline for acreage now in the Soil Bank has been extended from Sept. 30 to Dec. 31.

The application deadline for wheat land for 1957 was pushed up from Sept. 21 to Oct. 5.

Pierce Gets Appointment

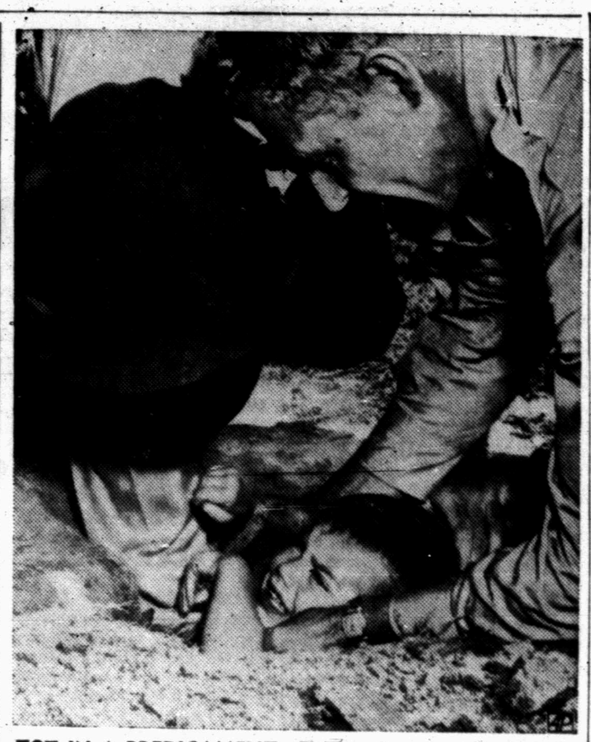

The county commissioners court this morning appointed Dr. Robert B. Pierce for a two-year term as county health officer.

Pierce was appointed upon recommendation of Dr. Robert W. Wasson, who has been serving in that capacity and submitted his resignation. The court accepted Wasson's resignation this morning.

Also during this morning's meeting, A. H. Haney of Roscoe, vice-president in charge of operations for the Roscoe, Snyder & Pacific Railway, said the railroad has been considering placing a traffic signal on the RS&P tracks at Thirteenth Street because of increased traffic caused by the opening of the new Northeast Elementary School.

Haney proposed that the county pay half the cost of the signal, which will cost an estimated $3,500. Thirteenth Street is a farm-to-market road maintained by the county. Haney said the state and federal government pay a large proportion of the cost of such signals on state and national highways.

The court has not yet taken action on the proposal.

Observers Claim West May Start Suez Canal Boycott

LONDON (AP)—Acceptances were reported in hand today from 17 nations invited to the projected 16-nation conference opening here Wednesday to set up a Suez Canal users' association.

British officials said only Ethiopia is to be heard from and is expected to say "yes" soon.

Spain accepted today. However, diplomatic authorities said Spanish Foreign Minister Alberto Martin Artajo would suggest consideration here of Egyptian President Nassers proposal for creation of a negotiating body on noncontrol aspects of the canal's operations. Spain wants to remain on good terms with the Arabs.

The 18 nations are those which originally backed a plan at the London Suez conference of mid-August for international operation of the canal, a plan which Nasser declined to accept even as a basis for negotiation.

While the acceptances poured in, many of the countries expressed misgivings about the idea of the association and made it plain they were not committing themselves in advance to adopting the plan—denounced by Egyptian President Nasser as a step toward war.

It is likely the first idea of the association I to regulate traffic through Suez — would be radically changed before the new London conference successor to the 22-nation Suez conference of mid-August, is finished.

Some sources speculated that a complete boycott of the canal was the new long-range Western scheme to force Egypt to give up sole control of the waterway.

U. S. Secretary of State Dulles, who fathered the association idea, was reported ready to offer half a billion dollars and American oil aid to soften the increased cost to the other nations of sending ships the long way around the Cape of Good Hope. He will arrive here tomorrow for talks with the British and French.

Such a boycott would leave Nasser in control of the canal but with few customers, since the 18 nations invited here for Wednesday's talks represent from 90 to 95 per cent of the shipping through Suez. It would also avoid the use of force.

Besides the Western Big Three, Ethiopia and Spain, those asked to the conference are: Turkey, New Zealand, Australia, Japan, Pakistan, Iran, West Germany, Italy, Denmark, Sweden, Norway, Portugal, and the Netherlands.

British papers began warning their readers of possible oil rationing and higher food prices because of the increased costs of shipping.

In South Africa, port officials in Capetown began round-the-clock work to handle the increased shipping they expect as a result of the Suez crisis.

The London Daily Telegram, a staunch supporter of the government of Prime Minister Eden, said editorially:

"As a device to keep the canal open while international consultations continues its course, in the United Nations or outside, the users' association is likely to be stillborn.

"The next step will be to concert economic measures against what the ministers at Lancaster House will have to consider is their readiness to boycott the canal."

The Soviet Union warned the Western powers they were playing with fire.

Pravda, organ of the Soviet Communist party, said in an editorial broadcast in English by the Moscow radio:

"The most frank expression of the colonial nature of Western policy on Suez may be found in the idea to setup a so-called association of Suez Canal users—rightly described in Arab countries as an association for a declaration of war on Egypt."

Oil Increase Is Considered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government announced today it is seeking cooperation of state oil regulatory bodies in a possibly substantial increase of domestic oil production because of the Suez situation.

H. A. Stewart, director of the Interior Department's office of oil and gas, said he had telegraphed state oil officials in Texas, Oklahoma, Louisiana and New Mexico asking them to meet with him here tomorrow or to send a representative.

All major oil producing states except California have limitations on the amount of oil which can be produced.

Recent estimates indicated daily productive capacity was about one million barrels greater than present production. Domestic production during the week ended Sept. 8 was 7,037,000 barrels daily.

Stewart's telegram said the "Suez situation may result in necessity for increasing domestic production substantially."

Stevenson-Kefauver Drive Planned By State Leaders

AUSTIN (AP)— Democratic party leaders met here today behind closed doors to plan strategy for the Stevenson-Kefauver campaign in Texas.

Here for the session were Democratic National Committeeman Byron Skelton of Temple; the committeewoman, Mrs. Frankie Randolph of Houston; State executive committee Chairman James Blundell of Dallas; and Mrs. Max Brooks of Austin, vice-chairman of the state central committee.

The session, Blundell said, stemmed from a preliminary meeting held in Fort Worth last week, the day after the state convention.

The convention which adopted a resolution putting itself flatly on record as endorsing the national ticket.

While these plans for the campaign were taking shape, Sen. Price Daniel, the Democratic nominee for governor, continued to insist that he is not ready himself to endorse the national convention's nominees for president and vice president.

Daniel said last week he wants them to answer two questions before he does take such stand: Whether Stevenson especially plans to reopen the tidelands questions and how they feel about using force to put into effect the Supreme Court's segregation decision.

Daniel bolted from the party, after winning the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator in 1952, because Stevenson would not agree with Texas' tidelands claims.

One objective of today's meeting of party officials from the convention which certified Daniel as the Democratic nominee and thus made him titular head of the party, is finding a director of organization.

This post had been held by Mrs. Kathleen Voigt of San Antonio, designated as Democratic party organizational director at the May convention. This organization work was apart from the state committee—which until last week was dominated by friends of Gov. Shivers, who also bolted to the GOP in 1952.

Democrats launch their fund-raising drive for the national campaign at a $5 a ticket rally tomorrow at Greenville. Gov. Frank Clement of Tennessee will speak.

Search Going On In Ship Sinking

BODOE, Norway (AP)—The body of a second man killed in the sinking of the American freighter Pelagia was pulled today from the icy sea off Norway. All the ship's 37 crewmen except five men plucked yesterday from a bobbing lifeboat were believed dead.

The lifeboat also contained the body of a steward who died of exposure. An air-sea search for survivors went on despite vanishing hopes.

A low-flying search plane sighted the second body drifting among the debris and oil slick where the Pelagia sank in a raging storm Saturday night.

The Norwegian destroyer Trondheim sped to the scene and retrieved the body. It was not identified immediately.

Three planes and a score of ships and fishing boats searched the area of the shipwreck, off Norway's northwest coast. There was a slight chance that survivors could have been washed ashore on one of the hundreds of rock islands that dot the area.

Close scrutiny of the islands was made hazardous by gusty winds and huge ocean swells. A leaden sky and frequent rain squalls lowered visibility. The air temperature in the search area hovered around 45 degrees.

Rescue officials privately expressed their doubt of finding alive any of the 30 men still missing.

"No one could live in this icy water," one said.

But a spokesman for the Norwegian Rescue Assn. said: "Our intention is to keep on the job as long as the slimmest hope remains."

The American Embassy at Oslo ordered Vice Consul Michael Newling to fly to Harstad—where the five survivors were brought—to provide for medical aid, clothing and other necessities.

The survivors said they last saw their shipmates on the deck of the sinking freighter. They said the gale smashed the ship's three other lifeboats and that they were afraid the others were unable to get away.

TRUCE DECLARED

Road Blockade Called Off

BLACKSTONE, Mass. (AP)— A rifle-toting great-grandmother declared a truce today, and removed a road block which had halted traffic the past three days on a new highway through her farm.

Mrs. Kornelia Zariczny, 72, called off her blockade after consulting with her attorney, Normand Theriault of Milford, after he returned from a conference with police and Judge Edwin F. McCooey at the Uxbridge District Court.

Police were making an investigation of the blockade at the request of the judge.

Judge McCooey said the Blackstone police had produced a release, apparently signed by Mrs. Zariczny, giving the town the strip of land on which the new road was built.

Mrs. Zariczny first blocked the road Saturday with a heap of railroad ties and old lumber.

When police pulled the pile of lumber from the road she returned yesterday with a fallen tree and a sign saying: "The State of Mass. did not pay me for this land. They toke (sic) it. Detour. Keep out."

She removed the tree late last night after state police warned her she might be held responsible for any traffic accident.

However, she and members of her family continued the physical blockade through most of the night.

Mrs. Zariczny threatened to "sit it out if it takes the rest of my life."

With her were her three daughters, two sons and two grandchildren. They said that if taken into custody they would call on Mrs. Zariczny's six other sons and daughters, 29 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren to take up the guard.

Traffic did not come to a standstill despite the blockade. Cars used a road paralleling the 600-foot section blocked by Mrs. Zariczny.

6 Clubs Ready To Go In Big State In '57

ABILENE (AP)—Six clubs have announced they are ready to go in the Big State League for 1957, President Hal Sayles said today in setting the fall meeting of the circuit in Abilene for Sept. 30.

The status of Waco and Texas City, the other two, is uncertain. Waco has indicated it will be moved by the parent Pittsburgh Pirates. Texas City is now staging a ticket selling drive with a goal of $50,000 to insure another season but thus far the sale hasn't been very good.

The Big State League had a good season with 470,000 attendance, a substantial increase over last year. It lost one club during the season when Lubbock quit, but the franchise was quickly placed at Texas City. Lubbock is considered a strong possibility for a franchise next year.

Sayles said Abilene, Corpus Christi, Victoria, Port Arthur, Beaumont and Wichita Falls had told him they were ready to play in 1957.

However, Sayles won't be president of the league next year. He announced last night that he was quitting because of increasing demands of personal business. He is a partner in a large Abilene real estate development firm.

Golf Enthusiasts Find New Obstacle

SAN ANTONIO (AP)—As if sand traps and bunkers aren't enough, golfers ran into a new kind of obstacle on the Brackenridge Park links Sunday.

Three golfers told police three youths leaped from bushes and snatched up golf balls they had shot to the No. 9 green. They then fled in a truck.

L. E. Driver said he tried to block the fleeing trio with his car and was almost run down.

Dies Favors Daniel Plan

DALLAS (AP)—Rep. Martin Dies endorsed today the primary plan for selecting a successor to Sen. Price Daniel, saying he thought a new senator should be elected by a majority vote.

Dies, renominated congressman-at-large in July, said he will run for the Senate post "if and when a vacancy occurs."

Dies was in Dallas to address the American Legion post. He planned a political rally for tonight.

Sen. Daniel, Democratic nominee for governor, has withheld his resignation from the Senate pending a study by the state Democratic executive committee of the possibility of holding primary and runoff elections prior to a special general election to name his successor.

"I would favor any legal practical method that can be devised to insure that the new senator will be elected by a majority vote," Dies told a breakfast meeting.

"The office is so important I don't think a minority candidate should fill it."

Hall Denies Claim Made By Truman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said today former President Truman's claim of proof that Vice President Nixon called Truman a traitor is "without foundation."

Truman, saying "it has been proved rather conclusively," made public Saturday a letter suggesting that Hall contribute to the Korean Red Cross the $1,000 he had offered last February if such a statement were proved.

Replying today, Hall told Truman his letter, "like so many of your speeches, is without foundation," and added:

"When you try to leave the impression with the people that you have been accused by Vice President Nixon of being a traitor to America, the statement is without foundation, and your letter contains no proof of it."

Hall in his letter used the term "traitor to America." Truman, like Hall in his original statement, used only the word "traitor."

Hall made his offer Feb. 12 on a filmed television program on which he appeared with Representatives F. Edward Hebert and Hale Boggs, Louisiana Democrats. It was in reply to a question from Hebert, and Hall in his letter to Truman quotes himself as saying:

". . . If you find where he (Nixon) said Mr. Truman is a traitor or you find where he said the Democrat party is a party of treason, I'll make a donation of a thousand dollars to any charity you name."

Associated Press stories on Oct. 27, 1952, quoted Nixon as saying in a speech at Texarkana that Truman, Dean Acheson and Stevenson "are traitors to the high principles in which many of the nation's Democrats believe." They went on to quote Nixon: "Real Democrats are outraged by the Truman-Acheson-Stevenson gang's toleration and defense of communism in high places."

Acheson was secretary of state under Truman.

George Parr Is Called To Trial Today

ALICE (AP)—George Parr, Duval and South Texas political leader charged with "seriously threatening life," was called to trial in Jim Wells county court today.

Parr is charged with storming into the Duval County courthouse July 11, carrying a rifle, and looking for a long-time political foe.

The charge is a misdemeanor. The case came up before Judge Wash Storm Jr.

Texas Ranger Walter Russell disarmed Parr before Parr found County Commissioner Tomas Molina, who filed the charges.

Parr was released on $1,000 bond.

Witnesses at the time of the incident said the argument originated over absentee voting when Parr became angry at remarks Molina made to one of Parr's political workers.

Molina denied making any offensive remarks.

Molina said he was in his office and did not see Parr with the rifle but heard Parr "cursing in loud tones in the hallway." Russell cornered Parr in the courthouse basement and took the rifle from him.

Dies Opens Campaign

DALLAS (AP)—Rep. Martin Dies opened his campaign for Sen. Price Daniel's Senate seat with talks here today. He spoke at the American Legion at noon. Daniel, nominated for governor, is expected to resign from the Senate later.

STEVENSON MOBBED BY WELL-WISHERS — Adlai Stevenson, Democratic candidate for the Presidency, is literally mobbed by placard-waving, horn-tooting Democrats at a $50-a-plate buffet supper in Pennsylvania's Farm Show Arena at Harrisburg, Pa., as he was greeted by upward of 10,000 persons at the nationally-televised, radio speech.

Stevenson Slates Tour Of 11 States

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson, said to be encouraged after Round 1 of his campaign, takes off next weekend on a new eight-day tour of 11 states ranging from Colorado to Florida.

The 7,000-mile tour will start Saturday with a major farm address at the National Field Days and Plowing Contest at Newton, Iowa. President Eisenhower speaks there Friday.

In a telegram yesterday GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall challenged the Democratic presidential nominee to repudiate former President Truman's statement that Alger Hiss, in Truman's opinion, was not a Communist spy. Hiss, a onetime State Department employe, served a federal prison sentence after being convicted of perjury in denying he passed government secrets to a Soviet spy ring.

"Does your silence mean you agree with Mr. Truman's statements?" Hall asked.

The Stevenson campaign itinerary announced last night for Sept. 22-30 not only starts in the Farm Belt with the Saturday speech at Newton; it includes addresses in several other key agricultural states, underscoring how both parties are working hard for the farm vote this year.

Traveling mostly by plane and some by automobile, Stevenson will go after that vote in such states as Kansas, Missouri, Indiana, Wisconsin and Minnesota, in addition to Iowa. He will also dip into the South and some of the border states, visiting Louisiana, Florida, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

His address in Colorado will be at Denver Saturday evening after flying from Iowa. The Wisconsin stop will be in Milwaukee Sept. 28 for a half-hour nationwide television address from a CBS studio that evening.

Hagler Will Enter Plea

FORT WORTH (AP) — David Hagler, acquitted in a torch murder trial in Oklahoma last April, was to enter a guilty plea in Federal Court today to a charge of fraud over FHA loans.

An indictment was returned against him secretly in Dallas recently, his attorney said.

Hagler could get two years and a maximum fine of $5,000 on each of three counts.

The indictment accused Hagler of making false statements in obtaining Ttle 1 loans. He was charged with swearing he had not other FHA loans in obtaining new loans when actually he had another loan at the same bank where he was making the application.

The former asphalt salesman and executive now is running a Richland Hills dress shop. He is 38.

It was the property of his former wife, Elisabeth Bergmann, prior to their recent divorce.

Scout Meet Slated Here On Thursday

All scout leaders here are being urged to attend the monthly roundtable and 10-in-1 meeting of the Lone Buffalo Scout District Thursday evening.

The meeting, the first of the fall season, will be held in the high school building at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, according to Bill Smallwood, district commissioner.

Roundtables will be held for the three areas of scouting, with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Caviness directing the Cub leaders roundtable, W. W. Grief heading the Boy Scout leaders group, and Stanley Noah leading the Explorer leaders group.

Discussion will be held on the proposed Boy Scout Exposition to be held at the exhibit barn in Towle Memorial Park Oct. 27. A film will be shown on a similar exposition held at Odessa. Details on part of the exposition will be worked out during the meeting.

Announcements will be made on the boy fact survey recently made in the schools by M. E. Stanfield, assistant superintendent, and units may pick their prospects from the survey information.

A district committee meeting will also be held, headed by W. W. Park, district chairman, who is urging all operating committee chairmen to attend and have their committee members with them.

Two Persons Injured By Fire In Dallas

DALLAS (AP)—A dangerous fire on the fringe of downtown Dallas damaged the three-story Sewell Paint and Varnish Co. building and injured two employes.

Minor explosions rumbled through the building. Twenty-five workmen were evacuated. Mike Silva, 75, an employe, suffered burns on his left leg. R. A. Briner, 45, also an employe, cut his hand.

Firemen prevented flames from reaching three paint filled storage tanks in the building.

NO LONGER REGIONAL

States Righter Plans Strategy

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—John U. Barr lounged smoking cigars the other day while his political "baby" raised a great racket in the hotel ballroom six floors below.

His baby was the National States Rights Conference, an ambitious effort to snatch the presidency from Republicans and Democrats. Or — failing that — to give them the scare of their lives.

"I'm resting," explained Barr somewhat guiltily, lighting the day's 15th cigar. "Had to get off the conference floor; too many hands to shake and everybody wants to talk."

Perhaps you've never heard of Barr, a New Orleans businessman of average height, with a thick shock of iron-gray hair and a warm smile. But in the South he's generally regarded as "Mr. States Rights."

He's a methodical man with a head for detail, a flair for organizing. He says he will never run for public office and he seldom steps out front. Behind the scenes he labors mightily.

To a great extent, Barr is the man who nursed the "cause" when it faltered, jogged it to new fire after defeat, scoured up money to finance the fight and threw in lots of hard cash of his own.

The carefully controlled conference he sired drew 317 delegates from a dozen splinter parties scatterd through 25 states.

All of the parties are committed to the doctrine of more powerful individual states and a weaker federal government. All believe racial segregation is a matter for states to handle. All regard the major parties as "Socialist" carbon copies.

"Our strategy is to win enough electoral votes to deadlock the Electoral College," Barr said. In that event the election would be decided in the House of Representatives, where each state would cast one vote.

"It's not such a long shot," he said. "We'll have independent electors pledged to our candidate on a lot of state ballots. They're already on in 15 states.

"We'll have a lot of grass roots support. And we have broadened our base. I wanted to get away from the idea that this is a Southern matter. States rights is no longer a regional question."

Race With Death Lost By Oilfield Worker

MOAB, Utah (AP)—An oil worker injured in an accident lost a race with death and died yesterday en route to Salt Lake City in an airplane.

Pete Donnell of Wichita Falls, Tex., and Artesia, N.M., was hurt at 3 a.m. when a piece of equipment on an oil drilling derrick fell 40 feet and fractured his skull.

A light plane landed on a level area near the rig 80 miles south of Moab and took him to Monticello. There he was transferred to a plane of the Utex Corp. for the trip to Salt Lake City, but he died en route.

A telephone you can dial in the dark? A device that answers your telephone while you're away? A "hands-free" telephone? Dreams? No!

These new telephone services are here today

Don Davis, Telephone News Reporter

DON DAVIS

Today is the tomorrow everybody was talking about yesterday. And with today have come a good many new telephone ideas and services that only yesterday were little more than dreams.

The current crop of telephone innovations is varied and exciting. Some are fairly simple ideas, others have an almost Buck Roger-ish appeal. But all have one thing in common. Each is here today, real and practical. Each, in its own way, is ready, willing and available to add a new dimension, new convenience to your telephone service.

Take, for example, the Light-Up Dial telephone. It's a simple thing. A small lamp lights the dial when you lift the receiver. Just the thing when you want to dial a number in a darkened room. This Light-Up Dial feature is a natural for bedroom telephones, ideal for doctors, nurses, business people who make calls at night.

On the other hand, the new Speakerphone is nothing short of modern-day magic. It's a "hands-free" telephone. You simply press a button and talk—without lifting the receiver. The amazing Speakerphone works like this. A sensitive microphone in the set's base picks up your voice. You hear the person on the other end through a separate loudspeaker. Can you imagine the advantages for a businessman—hands free to write or handle papers, able to have others in his office for a "telephone conference"? Just ask the businessmen who have discovered the Speakerphone. To a man, they say "Great!"

The "hands-free" Speakerphone. You may write, handle papers, move about while you talk!

Maybe you're the kind of person whose work takes you out of the office a lot, yet you need telephone coverage while you're gone. Well, a new answering and recording device made by the telephone company is just the thing for you. A pre-recorded announcement tells the caller that his call is being answered automatically and asks that a message be left. You get back to the office and there are your messages faithfully recorded, your important telephone calls covered. Who says a man can't be two places at once?

The list could go on and on and on. You might be interested in today's stylish decorator-color telephone instruments for your home, a volume control telephone for persons with impaired hearing, a musical chime signal to replace the regular bell.

Whichever among this host of modern telephone services strikes your particular fancy, you can bet it didn't happen by accident. They are all part of the telephone company's constant, continuing effort to build and improve your service, keep it the finest on the face of the earth. So, even while you're enjoying today's new telephone services, there's this happy thought to keep in mind, too. There are more to come tomorrow—and they promise to be corkers.

This device answers your telephone while you're away . . . takes messages . . . prevents lost calls.

Light-Up Dial telephone takes the fumbling and errors out of dialing in a darkened room.

A Narrow Squeak

In a statement at Dallas, Democratic Gubernatorial Nominee Price Daniel, discussing the wild scenes attendant upon the party convention in Fort Worth the other day, declared:

"The people of this state will never know how close the Democratic Party came to falling into the hands of AFL-CIO leaders."

He charged that "power hungry" labor leaders formed an alliance with "good, loyal Democrats" from rural areas under the guise of "party loyalty." The tactics used in trying to capture the convention caused the alliance to fall apart, he went on—otherwise the capture would have been made.

He asserted the booing that broke out when he appeared before the convention was "organized and carried out mostly by paid labor leaders, some of whom were delegates and some of whom were not . . . The booing came mostly from the Jefferson, Bexar, Galveston, Travis and Potter County delegations." The disturbances that led to the ejection of some demonstrators were, as he saw it, calculated and directed.

But it is apparent that the booing and disorders were not aimed particularly and exclusively at Daniel, for Senator Lyndon Johnson and Speaker Sam Rayburn were also on the receiving end of boos and outbursts. This circumstance strengthens Daniel's claim that the disturbances and demonstrations were part of an attempt to stampede and override the convention, for Johnson and Rayburn are symbols of unity and moderation, and the attacks on them indicated the existence of a plan to destroy whatever chance there was to unify the party in Texas.

That could spring only from selfish motivation—from people less interested in unifying all segments of the party and making it a force in the 1956 campaign, than in capturing control of the party for their own ends.

If the political machinery of the national labor bosses ever take control of the Democratic Party in Texas, the moderates and conservatives will be overwhelmed, just as the people of several states where labor politics predominate are overwhelmed.

Well, it was a narrow squeak, and it remains to be seen whether the last-ditch victory of the moderates and conservatives at Fort Worth was a Pyrrhic one. The political machinery of the national labor bosses has gained a foothold in Texas, and the demonstration of its power and ruthlessness at Fort Worth should be a warning to the complacent.

Sight For The Blind

In his current Satevepost story of his blinding by a hired acid-thrower, the labor columnist Victor Riesel tells how hundreds of people, including many convicts and condemned felons, offered their eyes to him for transplantation.

He explains none of these offers could be accepted since the technique of transplanting whole eyes has not been developed, if indeed it will ever be possible.

Riesel's hope of corneal transplantation was blasted because the acid ate into and destroyed or damaged the whole eye structure.

There are more than 20,000 people in the United States today who have lost their vision because of corneal defects but now are able to see because of the advances of surgery and the cooperation of dying people who directed that their eyes be used to help others.

The Eye-Bank For Sight Restoration, Inc., 210 East 64th St., New York 21, N.Y., which handles the work of getting donated eyes to the spot where needed, has run into a curious situation. An increasing number of people are making their eyes available for this work in their wills. "The provision should never be put in a will because a will is not probated in time, and the magnificant desire to restore sight to those who are standing patiently by for this special operation cannot be carried out," the Eye-Bank explains.

So, if you would like to leave your eyes for the benefit of some person who can use them, address a note of inquiry to the organization at the above address, and the Eye-Bank will send you a donor form together with a booklet describing the functions of that organization.

This simple gesture may mean the difference between sight and blindness for some person who is already blind or who is going blind by stages.

You have a chance to participate in a miracle.

Survey After Court's Ruling Indicates 'Solid South' Of Segregation Declines

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17 (AP) — After turning up 1,100 examples of racial barriers dropped in all walks of life in Dixie over the past two years, a Southerner concludes: "There is no longer a solid South of segregation."

Reporting on a carefully documented survey of 17 Southern and border states where segregation has been the historic pattern, Harold C. Fleming said:

"The common notion that desegregation just can't work in the South is plainly contradicted by the findings."

The survey turned up examples, by specific location, of desegregation in schools, housing, public health and welfare.

The study, now in the hands of the printers, was made available in the aftermath of recent disturbances in the South over the admission of Negroes to public schools in Mansfield, Tex., Clinton, Tenn., Texarkana, Tex., and Sturgis and Clay, Ky.

In assessing his state-by-state survey, Fleming, a student of his region for 10 years, wrote

"The 1,100 instances of desegregation discovered were almost evenly divided between the five 'border' states on the one hand and the 12 'Southern' states on the other. Virtually all of them took place smoothly and harmoniously.

"Obviously, a large reservoir of good will and capacity for change exists among private citizens, even in states where the official climate is harsh. There is no longer a solid South of segregation."

The survey covers the period from May 17, 1954 — date of the U.S. Supreme Court decision holding school segregation unconstitutional — to May of this year.

It is the first regionwide attempt to find out what movements toward integration have taken place in the wake of the court's opinion among all segments of Southern life.

The survey did not deal with what was expected to take place, but what has actually happened. The findings in part:

More than 350 school districts in 9 of the 17 states had integrated to some degree. There were no integrated public elementary or secondary schools in Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, Virginia or North or South Carolina.

Negro children were attending previously all-white Catholic parochial schools in 21 Southern cities located in Arkansas, Kentucky, Maryland, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia.

Since 1935 some 164 accredited colleges and universities in Southern and border states and the District of Columbia have opened their doors to Negroes. Of these 164 now open to Negroes, 95 have newly desegregated at some level since May 1954.

As of May this year, Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi and South Carolina enforced complete segregation in state-supported institutions. However, all but South Carolina had at least one private college which admitted students of both races.

In the field of public service, Maryland stood at the top of the list in the number of Negroes appointed or elected in the two years inventoried. At least 11 Maryland Negroes were named, all but one for the first time, to city and state posts.

Fleming noted here that developments in this field are not a reliable measure of the extent of Negro representation. For example, he said, in 1954 Negroes already were serving on city councils in at least 11 Southern cities and held elective or appointive office in more than 20 others.

In public housing, Fleming found "segregation not only deeply entrenched but virtually unchallenged in the South."

Even so, this field was not without its exceptions. Negroes were living in public housing projects occupied by whites in Taylor and Crystal City, Tex.; Baltimore; Charleston, W. Va.; St. Louis; and Rayne, La.

As for transportation, Fleming reported that "local transit systems known to have dropped segregation were found in Texas, Virginia, North Carolina, Alabama, Tennessee, Oklahoma and Arkansas.

Among religious groups 20 newly integrated ministerial associations were counted — four with elected Negro officers. Fleming noted, however, "the overwhelming majority of churches continue to serve either white or Negro congregations, although at least 10 formerly white churches accepted Negro members."

As for hotels, restaurants and theaters, Fleming observed, "desegregation in public accommodations and theaters has been confined so far mainly to cities in the border states, chiefly St. Louis and Louisville.

"Instances of new desegrated seating in motion picture theaters were found in five border states cities, and some eating places began serving both races in a like number of communities."

Why did the council undertake the survey at this time? Fleming explained in his summary: "It is universally recognized that this is a time of trouble in the South . . . In recent months dissension and conflict have domated the news from the region. The danger is that Southerners themselves, to say nothing of people elsewhere, will be blinded to the constructive evidence and will surrender to fear and discouragement."

RADIO-TV REPORT

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Television programing moves in cycles. But fortunately it does move.

A television programing cycle is a kind of combustive process in which one popular idea kindles similar ideas — until nearly all the coals (and a large part of the viewing public are burned out. Because television burns up ideas quickly, cycles change.

A capsule history is a dangerous simplification, but here is one capsule view of TV programing:

In its first years the industry was experimental with a wide variety of subjects, showing an interest in content of programs. Finally it moved into a melodrama cycle with an ensuing period of quiescence — the invariable sign that programing is catching its breath for a new cycle.

Next there appeared a preoccupation with form. The hour program was introduced and became as commonly accepted as the half-hour show. Again there was a period of quiescence. Then came the innovation of the 90-minute program — and that is the cycle in which we find ourselves in this coming season.

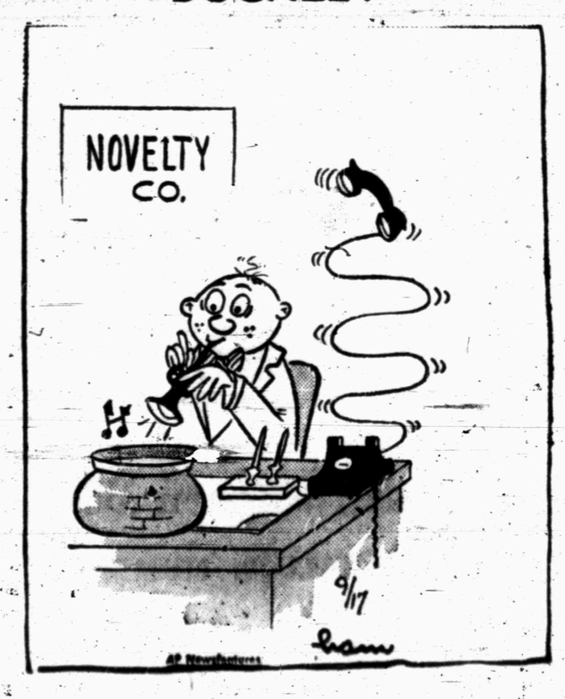

For it appears that this will be a season during which the public digests the fact of the regular 90-minute program.

The most dramatic example of this is Playhouse 90, the first regular, weekly 90-minute drama program to come on the home screen — on CBS-TV beginning Oct. 4.

Yet there are signs that the mere fact of a 90-minute program is not enough to satisfy viewing demands. There is growing concern with the content of 90 minutes. For example:

The sponsors of the 90-minute Ford Star Jubilee are grappling with CBS over the cast of "You're the Top," the Cole Porter story which is currently planned for the program's debut Oct. 6. The sponsors believe the program demands stars with such drawing power as Ethel Merman and Fred Astaire — names long associated with Porter tunes. How it will end is anyone's guess. But the basic idea is: "If it's big, it has to be really big."

Things Are Mixed Up In Minnesota, But Democrats Apparently Have Slight Edge

By HOLMES ALEXANDER

ST. PAUL, MINN. — Minnesota is a two-party State, but 1956 is a Democratic year — and it may take a stroke of luck (which always rides with men of destiny) to win the State for President Eisenhower.

Ike's luck began to show last spring when, upsetting all polls and predictions, Minnesota picked Estes Kefauver over Adlai Stevenson in the Democratic primary. It was really a State election, since close to 90,000 Republican crossed over for the day and cast their votes. The real loser, according to political hindsighters of the moment, was not so much Stevenson as the state political machine operated by Senator Hubert Humphrey and Governor Orville Freeman. Minnesota's revolt against Democratic bossism is still eruptive and it's working for the Republicans.

Whether it's working strongly enough is far from certain. The Minneapolis Tribune polls show Mr. Eisenhower favored by 60 per cent of the State voters, but political thinkers discount this figure when applied as an election prediction. Ike is leading here in public sentiment, as he is nearly everywhere in the country, but an educated guess would rate the GOP election chances hardly better than even. Minnesota has one Democrat and one Republican in the Senate, [illegible] Republicans in the House. It's definitely a swing-State, and the swing this year appears to be Democratic — but there's that built-in resentment against the Humphrey-Freeman machine.

Most of the resentment is aimed at Orville Freeman who is up for reelection s Governor, but Hubert Humphrey is catching some of it too. This energetic young pair threw their political lots together shortly after World War II, when Humphrey was a college professor turned Mayor of Minnesota, and Freeman was a wounded Marine hero from the bitterest Pacific battles.

In 1948 Humphrey overthrew Senator Joe Ball and came to Washington where he parlayed a charming personality and a great gift of gab into rabble-rousing leadership of the Left Wing Democrats. This time last year it was conceded among Washington reporters that the nomination for Vice President was already in Humphrey's pocket. But the astonishing upheaval of the Minnesate Democratic primary, took control of the State delegation away from the Senator. This undoubtedly cost him the Vice Presidential nomination at Chicago. It could conceivably cost him the loss of his State in November.

Orville Freeman, although Humphrey's political partner and protege, did not make it up the ladder quite so fast. People say that Freeman has a way of offending them by a cocksure and overbearing air. It was he, more than Humphrey, who conveyed the impression last spring that Minnesota Democrats were under orders to vote for Stevenson. Therefore, they voted for Kefauver. If the revolt against bossism is still running strong, Freeman could be defeated in November, diverting the Democratic swing.

But there are other complications. The Democratic party in this State is officially known as the Democratic - Farmer - Labor party, a name indicative of its composition. The Eisenhower - Nixon ticket is not very appealing to organized farmers and workers, and these make up into a large bulk vote. In a poll featuring only the two Vice Presidential candidates, Kefauver overwhelmed Nixon by 2 to 1. This might not matter very much, since people will normally vote for the head of a party ticket and not for his running mate. But this year, Mr. Nixon is the main Republican campaigner. It's questionable how much good he will do the GOP in Minnesota and in the rest of the Upper Midwest.

The Republican high command has scheduled Under Secretary of Labor Larson to supplement Nixon as a campaign orator in presenting the Eisenhower case. But this is dodging the big issue. No Eisenhower spokesman or substitute is equivalent to Ike himself. If the President can't come to Minnesota and press his own luck, the Democratic trend may prevail over the Democratic revolt. That's how mixed up things are in Minnesota. (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

10 Days With Two Aunts Is Broadening Experience

By INEZ ROBB

NAMPA, Idaho. — And now, as I bid a fond farewell to Idaho, I cannot leave before setting down a few notes for the benefit of those interested in geriatrics.

Ten days with my two Idaho aunts, Kittie Lee Hedden, 82, and Nellie Virginia Sinsel, 83 have, as usual, winded me and given me a good many new ideas.

I look at them both lovingly and admiringly, and wonder what is the basis of a long and happy life. Love, warmth, generosity and kindness, which they have in abundance, are only part of the answer. Heredity (their Grandmother Callaway lived to be 102) is only one factor.

Strength to endure much, for each has had her full share of the world's sorrow, is not the whole answer.

What, then makes them, in their 80s, so vital and essentially young in spirit? My guess is that their continuing interest in the world and all its works, both great and small, has a lot to do with it Their keen and intelligent pleasure in life and what it holds for the future is, for them, as good as a Fountain of Youth.

They are as interested in the coming election as in the Bull Moose revolt when their mother, a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat, shocked her Democratic family speechless by cheering for Teddy Grandma admired. Since women got the vote, they have never missed the privilege of voting and nothing will keep them from exercising the franchise code November 6.

It is impossible to imagine either "settling down" to old age. Indeed, Aunt Kit is just embarking upon a new carreer as a lecturer. A few weeks ago, a Nampa service club invited her to speak on pioneer days at its weekly luncheon.

After all, young as is the United States, few persons survive who can remember, as do Aunt Kit and Aunt Nell, being hurried to a fort when Indians were on the warpath.

Small, pert and gay, she was such a hit that invitations to speck to other groups are keeping her busy. She also has plans for a new rose garden next spring, but Aunt Nell thinks she will stick to annuals, with which she has such success. There is even talk of joining a duplicate bridge group for the winter.

Indeed, the two of them play such expert bridge that they regard me as not quite bright enough to be in their league. I am lucky that they have permitted themselves to beat the socks off me at Canasta during the past week.

Oh, the devil need never scrounge up work for either aunt. Both are busy as bees.

Dinner is ready, they have just announced. It will be a feast, with the last small, sweet ears of golden corn from their garden to accompany the chicken. They are still superb cooks. When the time comes, it is going to be much, much easier to fasten my suitcases than my clothes! Ten days with the aunts is a broadening experience.

Worrywarts Should Prosper While Others Tranquilized

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

WASHINGTON — Nobody's going to soothe me with any little white pills; not if I know it, they won't. I'll keep worrying, and while everybody else is snoozing I'll just pick up the marbles. Gad!

The tranquilizer pill business is going to this nation's head. All over the land folks are gulping small pills and capsules full of stuff with a long name and the ability to make them forget their troubles.

Suddenly the tranquilizers are selling at the rate of $125,000,000 a year and some of the experts are calculating that consumption will double before 1957 is over. If everybody else remains tranquil, no matter what, then it would seem that we remaining worrywarts will be in the drivers' seats. We'll be the bosses; the tranquil ones will follow our orders.

Bringing up these reflections is my visit a couple of weeks ago to San Francisco where some Republicans — most of whom obviously had taken no pills — were holding a meeting. There I met an actor up from Hollywood and he kept talking about Miltowns. He said he gulped 'em almost like peanuts.

There are a dozen different brands of mild tranquilizers. One of them is Miltown. Equanil and Frenquel are a couple of others. New brands rapidly are coming on the market.

So my actor said his pills made him feel better than ever before. No worries, no fights with the director (who probably took pills, too), not even any arguments with his wife. Life, he said, was delightful. Back home in Washington I met some other people who'd found the tranquil life in a pill-bottle.

One of these is an elderly lady, whose imaginary problems have disappeared, now that her doctor is giving her pills. For her I'd say this is good, but whether it's equally good for normal people suddenly not to care is something the doctors now are beginning to worry about. This includes only those physicians, of course, who do not themselves take pills.

On September 20 and 21 the leading sawbones will confer here on the subject of peace, as produced in a test-tube. The conference is being sponsored by the National Institute of Mental Health, the National Research Council, the American Psychiatric Association and several manufacturers of the new drugs.

Among these new drugs are meprobamate, chlorpromazine, veserpine, and azocycloral. Some of the more potent ones have been used with outstanding success in treatment of mental patients. Others have been helpful in treating nervous conditions and cases of high blood pressure.

These drugs apparently are not habit-forming. The trouble seems to be that they are so new that nobody knows what effect their continued use will have on the tranquil ones. Some physicians believe they have a tendency to cause jaundice and palsy, but this has not yet been proved.

In most cases the drugs can be obtained only on physicans' prescriptions; in a few states they may be bought like aspirins.

I trust the conferees make up their minds about these drugs, but this still is a capitalistic economy and I claim what's wrong with being a little anxious? How else can a fellow stay on his toes?

WASHINGTON LETTER

January Inaugural Plans Get Early Capital Start

WASHINGTON — There will be an inauguration here come January, that's for sure. For the District of Columbia, this has always been a non-partisan affair. So without waiting for election day to see who will be inaugurated, D. C. party heads are already huddling over plans to make the event the biggest and best of all.

Melvin D. Hildreth, Democratic national committeeman, and George L. Hart, Jr., chairman of the Republican Committee for the District, have been asked by the District commissioners to get going.

As in 1953, there will be some 200 required inaugural subcommittees and several thousand workers to set the plans in motion. The festivites will follow the swearing-in ceremony, January 20, which falls on a Sunday.

After the election the inaugural committee will be headed by a supporter of the winning party. Hildreth headed the 1948 inaugural committee. Joseph C. McGarraghy, now a judge of the U. S. District Court here, headed the committee for the Eisenhower inauguration in 1952.

The Eisenhower-Nixon Inaugural Ball committee in 1953 experienced what they called "Operation Headache." Even with the ball running in two sections totaling 14,000 guests they had trouble keeping the invitation list down while keeping friends.

The first Inaugural Ball was held on a spring evening in 1789 in New York. Some historians refuse to recognize this as an Inaugural Ball since it came some weeks after Washington's inauguration. They declare the first Inaugural Ball was that of President Madison, March 4, 1809, at Long's Hotel, a boarding house on Capitol Hill.

LITERARY GUIDEPOST

MALONE DIES. By Samuel Beckett. Grove Press.

Sapo and the Saposcats, Big Lambert and the cousin who is his wife and their children, Moll and Macmann, Lemuel, Lady Pedal—these are the characters summoned for an awsome, ghostly session at the bedside of they dying Malone.

He is 90, 80, 70—he cannot be sure — and in a hospital, probably not a madhouse. With a stick ending in a hook he pulls to him the few vessels he needs, the paraphernalia required for the little living he still has to do. He is determined he will die quietly, there shall be no more excesses, and the second date on his tombstone shall give a "faint idea of the time he took" mildly and decorously "to be excused." He has learned that "ideas are so alike" and he is resigned.

With a stub of a pencil he jots down—it is a memory process like that of Joyce's celebrated Mrs. Bloom — the notions that occur to him, the people who swarm up into his last lucid moments; their various selves, and his own. What, he wonders, breaking off a thought and losing it or recovering it in mid-phrase again, will be his last recorded words? "Never anything there any more" is his farewell, as he presumable cannot know.

Beckett is the Irishman now living in Paris. A kaleidoscope of empty memories flashes by the fading mind of the moribund Malone, and the nearer he draws to death, the emptier it grows. This novel is a major fictional and philosophical experiment that you ought not to miss.

BUCKIN' THE LINE

By BUCK FRANCIS
News Sports Editor

SNYDER'S SCHOOLBOY football teams got off to a rousing start the past weekend, sweeping four games [illegible] out.

That's a good beginning tows as matching the 1955 overall record of which the five local teams racked up 37 victories against only eight defeats and one tie.

Last year's record showed the Tigers with a 9-2 record; the B team with 6-3; the freshmen with 9-1; the 8th grade with 8-0; and the 7th grade with 5-2-1.

That's a victory percentage of 80 per cent.

The four local teams seeing action last weekend yielded only 13 points between them. The Tigers and 8th graders won by shutouts, the Bengals winning 21-0 over Borger and the 8th grade shutting out Big Spring, 34-0.

In the other two games, the freshmen defeated Lake View, 25-6, and the 7th grade won over Big Spring, 14-7.

The B team did not see action as it's scheduled game with Colorado City was cancelled due to C-City's dropping its B team program.

Conley Pleased But Notes Several Mistakes

In regards to Friday night's game with Borger, Tiger coach John Conley said:

"I was pretty well pleased with the performance of our kids but we still have a lot of work to do."

"We didn't move the ball very well but our defense looked sharp," Conley added.

Even though the Tiger defense sparkled in the season debut, Conley and his aides noted several defensive weaknesses that will need to be straightened out.

While the Tiger offense didn't click too well, we don't believe Friday's game presented a true picture of the offensive potential.

The Tigers were never forced to "open up" sticking strictly to "routine" plays. The Bengals only tried three passes so you can see they didn't come close to playing it "wide open."

We're guarding against getting overly optimistic over the Tiger '56 outlook but at the same time we're trying not to get pessimistic, either.

Snyder Now Has Modern Bowling Alley

The newest addition to the Snyder sports picture is the Town and Country Bowling Alley which opened for business yesterday.

The Town and Country invites all to go by and look the place over. Everything is modern and you'll be amazed to see how the automatic pin setters work.

The Town and Country Bowl is located at 2403 Twenty-fifth Street. It's in the same building with the Town and Country Furniture Store.

Browns Still Victoryless

By The Associated Press

It's getting about time for Otto Graham to come out of retirement again.

There has been no indications that Coach Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns will ask his star quarterback of many years to change his mind about quitting football for good. But the way the National Football League champions have been going in exhibition games, Brown apparently is going to have to do something and quick. The championship season opens Sept. 30.

When the Browns dropped a 31-14 decision to the Detroit Lions Saturday night it marked the fifth exhibition defeat without a victory for the champs. It also was the second loss to the Lions, who have a 4-1 exhibition record.

Freer Captures CC Invitational

Brownfield Bows To Freer In Finals 2-1

Frank Freer, smooth playing linkster from Lamesa, walked off with the 2nd annual Snyder Country Club Invitational title yesterday with a 2-1 victory over Charlie Brownfield of Stamford in the championship finals.

Freer succeeds Dr. Dean Strack of Snyder as the tourney champ. Dr. Strack was eliminated in the first round of the '56 tourney.

Both Freer and Brownfield played steady golf in the finals yesterday, each firing in sub-par figures.

When the match ended, on the 17th hole, Freer was four under par while Brownfield was three under.

The two young finalists were even at the turn with Brownfield recording a 33 and Freer a 34 on the out-going nine.

They stayed even then until the 12th when Freer ran down a 10-foot putt for a birdie deuce to go 1-up.

Freer kept his 1-hole lead until the 16th when he went two-up with a par four. Brownfield missed a 5-foot putt in his bid for a par that left him dormie.

It appeared for a moment on the 17th hole that Brownfield might narrow the count to one-hole again when he pitched on about one-foot from the cup for a virtual "gimmie birdie four."

But Freer followed up by chipping within an inch of the cup to match Brownfield's bird and the match ended right there.

During the 17-hole finals, Freer collected 11 pars, five birdies and one bogey. Brownfield had 12 pars, four birdies and one bogey.

There was never more than two holes difference in the title match. Freer took a 2-up lead by taking the first and fifth holes but Brownfield bounced back to get even by winning seven and eight.

Brownfield never held the lead during the afternoon.

To reach the finals, Brownfield took out Colorado City's Dick Craig in the semi-finals Sunday morning, 5-4, while Freer won over Randall Carpenter of Big Spring in his semi-final go, 3-1.

Bubba Markham of Stamford defeated Dr. Strack for the Championship Flight consolation crown, 3-2. Markham enjoyed a 5-up lead at the turn but Strack whittled it to three at the 15th but halved 16 to bow out.

Freer, in winning the title, received a set of Ben Hogan irons while runnerup Brownfield received a $65 golf bag. Freer also received a dozen golf balls for being the tourney medalist.

Other flight winners were Dr. R. J. Kidd, Snyder First Flight; Dean Davis, Lamesa, Second Flight; and Doug Kerth, Big Spring, Third Flight.

Stamford Due Big Test

By The Associated Press

Champion Stamford, which has run over two teams and averaged almost 50 points per game, may be in for a test this week in the feature of the Class AA Division of Texas schoolboy football.

The swaggering Bulldogs encounter a AAA outfit Friday night when they meet Andrews, which blasted Big Spring 41-19 last week. Stamford whipped Ballinger 53-6 in its last outing.

One-Half Game Separates Bums From Braves In NL

By The Associated Press

Just two weeks ago, the Brooklyn Dodgers appeared to be finished. They had dropped a doubleheader to the last-place New York Giants, their hitters were floundering and their pitchers were unsteady.

They were 3 games behind the first-place Milwaukee Braves. The picture couldn't have been blacker.

That was 14 days ago, and to Manager Walt Alston it probably seems like 14 years.

Today, the Brooks are at the top of the heap in the tight National League race. They have a working margin of half-a-game over the Braves, are one game up in the vital lost column, and play most of their remaining games in Ebbets Field.

While the Braves certainly cannot be accused of wilting under pressure, there are these facts to be considered:

1. They have lost 8 of their last 13 games.
2. They are at .500 in their last 10 games.
3. In their last 13 games, their pitchers have turned in only two complete games. Bob Buhl has been knocked out four times in a row and Lew Burdette twice.
4. Normally a placid lot, the Braves have been snapping at the umpires, a sure sign of their high tension.

So it is apparent that their own failure, as much as any streak by the Dodgers, has been hurting them.

Their game with the New York Giants was postponed because of rain yesterday while Brooklyn was whipping the Cincinnati Redlegs 3-2. The defeat was a severe blow to the Redlegs. They now are three games out with only 12 to go. If the Brooks beat them tonight, they can kiss their chances goodbye.

By The Associated Press

	Won	Lost	Pct.	Behind	To Play
Brooklyn	86	56	.606	—	12
Milwaukee	86	57	.601	½	11
Cincinnati	83	59	.585	3	12

Brooklyn (12)—at home (8), Cincinnati 1, Philadelphia 2, Pittsburgh, 3, St. Louis 2; away (4), Pittsburgh 4.

Milwaukee (11)—at home (3), Chicago 3; away (8), Cincinnati 1, New York 2, Pittsburgh 2, St. Louis 3.

Cincinnati (12)—at home (5), Milwaukee 1, St. Louis 4; away (7) Brooklyn 1, Chicago 2, Philadelphia 4.

The New York Yankees were frustrated yesterday in their effort to wrap up the American league pennant when they could do no better than a split with Cleveland. The Yanks won the opener 10-3 but dropped the nightcap 4-3.

Both the Indians and the Boston Red Sox, who dropped a pair to the Detroit Tigers 5-4 and 8-4, were eliminated. Only the Chicago White Sox, who took two games from the Washington Senators 7-5 and 7-2, still are in the running. The next game the Yanks win or the White Sox lose will end it.

The double-header between Baltimore and Kansas City wound up in a stalemate. The Orioles won the first 3-2 and the A's the second 10-1.

In other NL games, St. Louis won the first game of a doubleheader from Pittsburgh 3-2, but the Pirates captured the second 9-3. Chicago and Philadelphia also split, the Cubs grabbing the first 7-4 and the Phillies the afterpiece 4-1.

New Bowling Alley Holds Opening

Snyder's new bowling alley, the Town and Country Bowl, opened for business yesterday.

Town and Country held its "formal opening" yesterday.

The new bowling alley consists of six lanes.

Lee Carson is the manager of the Town and Country Bowl.

One of the features of the new bowling alley is the automatic pinsetters.

Four leagues have been organized for the coming season. The Sun Oil League opened play last Thursday. Two Men's City Leagues have been formed, one to bowl Tuesday's and the other Thursday's.

The Women's League is the fourth league. The Women's League will bowl on Monday nights.

The women will practice tonight and open their season next Monday night. All women interested in bowling on a team are asked to report to the bowl tonight.

Carson reveals that there will always be two lanes open even on league bowling nights.

Hours for the Town and Country Bowl have been set for 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays and 2 p.m. to 11 p.m. on Sundays.

Bowling per line is 40 cents until 6 p.m. after which it is 45 cents.

Alligator Escapes From Oklahoma Zoo

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—An eight-foot, 250-pound alligator named Alfred has escaped from Oklahoma City's Lincoln Park Zoo reptile house into a nearby lake. He crawled out through an unlocked door.

The alligator was seen on the bank of the muddy lake once but efforts to nab him only frightened him back into the water.

Bob Jenni, curator of reptiles, who claims there isn't much danger from the alligator, hopes to shoot an arrow into Alfred's tail to serve as a marker above the murky water.

Farm Income Is Expected To Be Hiked

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department said today that net farm income—a potential key to farm state voting in November elections—appears likely to be around 9 per cent higher than last year for the July-September quarter.

In a monthly report, the agency said the net income this quarter could well attain an annual rate of 12 billion dollars compared with a rate of 11 billion dollars during the corresponding period last year.

What happens to farm income and prices between now and November could influence how many farmers vote. Democrats have criticized declines during the Eisenhower administration but Republican leaders contend that the postwar bottom to farm income has been passed and that better times are ahead.

The income during the first half of this year was reported at an annual rate about 100 million dollars higher than the slightly more than 11½ billion dollars for the first half of 1955.

By net income, the department means the amount farmers have left from gross receipts after paying production costs plus the value of products raised on the farm and consumed there and the rental value of farm dwellings.

The department estimated that farm receipts from marketings in the first eight months of this year totaled $17,100,000,000 or 20 per cent more than in the corresponding period last year.

Prices received by farmers during the eight-month period averaged 2 per cent below last year but the volume of marketings this year was heavier.

The January - August total of cash receipts from livestock and livestock products was estimated at $10,400,000,000 slightly above last year as larger receipts from milk, eggs and chickens more than offset declines for cattle and hogs.

Crop receipts of $6,700,000,000 were 70.3 per cent, with larger sums from cotton, fruits and vegetables, but lower amounts from soybeans and tobacco.

Preliminary department estimates indicate that cash receipts in July and August were up almost 4 per cent from last year, with both prices and marketings being slightly higher than in the same months of 1955.

The department said that farm operating costs continued to run higher than a year ago.

Jayne Mansfield Is Back In Hollywood

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress Jayne Mansfield is back in town.

The busty blonde flew in yesterday with an entourage that included her 5-year-old daughter Jaynie Marie, weightlifter Mickey Hargitay and two Chihuahua dogs — Phillip and Charlessa.

Jayne, unnoticed in Hollywood before she hit the jackpot in Broadway's "Will Success Spoil Rock Hunter," told newsmen at the airport:

"I'm grateful to New York for what it did for me, but now that I'm back here I want to stay 99 years."

She begins work on the film "Do Re Mi," with Tom Ewell.

SNYDER BUSINESS NEWS

EVERYTHING in radio, record player, or record needs are in stock at Holt Music Co., which specializes in keeping all the latest hits on hand in records. For collectors, Holt's now has a special sale on a 60-number Glenn Miller album. (Lee Watson photograph)

Big Attracation Offered By Holt

Two special attractions are now being offered by Holt Music & Record Shop, Big Spring highway.

One is a sale which includes a Dictograph high-fidelity radio set. Terry Holt, operator of the shop, says some record fans, especially the younger ones, have become interested in hi-fi, which is designed to make recorded music sound life-like.

Holt now has one complete hi-fi set on hand, which has a table player, a Collaro hi-fi record changer, a General Electric hi-fi cartridge, a diamond needle, and the speaker in a separate cabinet, which has a long cord for moving anywhere. There are three plug-ins for additional speakers. The set has a 10-watt Dictograph amplifier, with new-type bass and treble controls.

There are special hi-fi records, but hi-fi sets bring out more on regular recordings.

The other special feature now at Holt's is a $24.95 Glen Miller 45-RMP album which is sold for $5 if bought with a $31.95 RCA Victor record player. The album is Volume 1, collector's issue, and contains about 60 Glenn Miller selections. The same special rate if offered with the $36.95 RCA Victor DeLuxe or the $41.95 RCA Victor 45-RPM portable.

Holt recently received a large shipment of new long-play record albums containing all varieties of records, including classical, opera, rock-n-roll, jazz, and western.

Some residents are still buying 78-RPM records, but most now purchase 45s and long-play records. Most record players sold now are either three-speed or 45 - RPM. Holt keeps all speeds of records and all varieties on hand, and he does quite a bit of special ordering when calls are for records he does not have.

All the latest hits, those in all types of music, are kept in stock at Holt's. He now has a good selection of children's records in 45 and 78-RPM, these being educational and entertainment records.

Holt also carries a sizeable stock of all varieties of needles, record carrying cases, record racks, radios, record players, and other items.

The firm, located just north of the Hilander Drive-In, has invited all residents to drop in and browse.

CHUCK WAGON OFFERS CATERING SERVICE—One of the outstanding features of the Chuck Wagon Restaurant, located on Twenty-fifth Street in east Snyder, is its complete catering service for parties of all types as well as for individual family orders. "We can prepare the complete menu for a gathering of any size, deliver it and serve it if the party hosts desire us to do so," R. W. (Chunk) Burney, owner of the Chuck Wagon, said. (Lee Watson photograph)

Chuck Wagon Has Catering Service

Are you planning a party, but have not completely decided how the easiest and quickest way to provide food for the guests could be arranged?

Almost everyone who ever gives a party of any size is faced with a difficult problem in providing food for the gathering, but the problem can easily and quickly be solved now.

The Chuck Wagon Restaurant on Twenty-fifth Street in east Snyder offers a complete party catering service for either small or large groups of people.

"We can prepare and deliver to the party all the food they desire from the appetizers to the desserts, and serve as many courses as the host wishes," R. W. (Chuck) Burney, owner of the Chuck Wagon, said.

"The customer has a complete choice of any meat and other foods he desires in our party catering service just as the customer who comes to the restaurant to eat has," Burney added.

A specialty of the party catering service now is barbecue prepared in the large barbecue pit at the Chuck Wagon in which sufficient meats to feed 300 persons can be barbecued at one time.

A party room in the Chuck Wagon restaurant is also provided for small parties where the party can have complete privacy while partying.

BEST WAY TO KILL ROACHES AND ANTS
Scientists recommend that you control roaches and ants the modern way — with Johnson's NO-ROACH. Brushed just where you want it, (not a messy spray) the colorless, odorless coating kills these pests. It's effective for months, sanitary, and so easy to use. 8 oz., pint, quart. Available at D & H, Furr's, Piggly Wiggly, Safeway, and your local grocer.
