8½% Inflation Rate Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP)- Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal today forecast an inflation rate of at least 8½ percent for the year - a sharp increase over earlier Carter administration predictions.

President Carter's 1980 budget is based on an assumed inflation rate this year of 7.4 percent. Blumenthal told a Senate Appropriations subcommittee that in making that forecast, "we screwed up."

The treasurer secretary said that while continued high prices are expected over the next few months, a trend toward lower inflation should become apparent by the fall.

"I think it is obviously now not possible for us to hit the kind of target 7.4 percent that we predicted," he said. "That's out.

Blumenthal said the fourth-quarter inflation rate if likely to be at least 8 to 8½ percent above the same period of 1978 "and it may be slightly more than that.

"I would be surprised if we're below 8½ percent," he added. "I hope it's not too far above that."

Asked later about when some relief from current high interest rates might be expected, Blumenthal responded:

"No doubt we will see an easing of the rate of inflation and then in th eprevailing level of interest rates in the course of this year. We can't expect much improvement in the next month or so. It will be several months before inflation eases."

Clements Backs Bill

FORT WORTH (AP)—Gov. Bill Clements says he changed his mind and decided to back a bill raising the 10 percent ceiling on mortgage rates because it would protect Texas from a "money flight."

"It was not a decision I took lightly," Clements told members of the Texas Bankers Association Monday. "But it was a timely one, and protects us from money flight.

"It was getting into a situation where the average homeowner was not able to buy," he said, adding that it also threatened a crisis to the construction trades "and tens of thousands of workers."

Ration Plan Nixed

WASHINGTON (AP)—In an unexpected setback for the Carter administration, the Senate Energy Committee reversed itself today and turned down the president's plan for standby gasoline rationing.

The panel turned it down on a 12-6 vote despite last-minute changes made by the administration designed to pick up votes.

There had been predictfons that the vote would be close

Q--Is a license required for driving a moped in Snyder?

A--Yes. The operator of a moped must have a license and must be 15 years old. However, the application for a moped license does not require a driving test and insurance is not required.

Showdown In NW Uganda

MASINDI, Uganda (AP)- Tanzanian and Ugandan troops are advancing toward northwest Uganda for the showdown in their campaign to crush the remnants of deposed President Idi Amin's army.

Ugandan scouts warned the Tanzanians they would be met by spears and arrows from the local population in Amin's native West Nile district, in the northwest corner of the country. Residents fleeing from the area report about 10,000 soldiers loyal to the fugitive despot are there readying for a determined fight.

The SDN Column

There are moves afoot to dismantle the huge University Interscholastic League, the organization that oversees competitive events in Texas public schools, ranging from football to shorthand and typing.

It is seldom that a year passes that someone or some group doesn't go into court seeking a change in the UIL's rules, or else campaign among the member schools for changes.

Operated through the University of Texas at Austin, the UIL has as its members virtually all public schools in the state. One of the complaints is that the league is so large that there is no room for other organizations. Outside the UIL, there is no place that a school can go and compete in events leading to district, regional and state titles.

But if you reflect on that situation for a moment, you realize that if there were other organizations, the situation state wide would become a hodge podge and it would be virtually impossible to determine true state champions in anything.

The UIL has irritated us on several occasions. One which comes to mind readily is the Snyder High basketball team of several years ago that was deprived of a district title because of an awards infraction. Our school had paid a few cents more than UIL permitted for letter awards. Actually, the price had gone up and what had been legal earlier had gone above the limit. Anyway, it was bitter medicine for the local team and fans.

But over the years, the UIL has become known as the most efficient and most successful organization of its type in the world. And its success, we believe, may be attributed to one big factor: discipline. That word is almost an endangered species, and one of the last places you will find it in general use anymore is in the UIL.

And the league also is, in a manner of speaking, a democratic organization. Administrators of member schools vote on rules. And like its counterpart in the college and university ranks (the NCAA) many of the rules came into being because of situations created by members themselves. It has been said that innovative coaches have stimulated most of the college athletic rules (remember Bear Bryant's famous "camp" at Junction for the A&M football team?), and changes have evolved in efforts to give everyone an even break.

Participation in the UIL is not required by the Texas Education Agency and on local levels it is not required for graduation. But some of the most important lessons learned in public schools occur on the playing fields and in the drama, music and academic contests sponsored by the UIL.

We think the legislature and the courts should keep their tentacles off the UIL. It has never been without its critics, but, on the other hand, it has prospered and has provided a service to youngsters that is not available on a similar scale or of equal quality anywhere in the world.

Industrial Arts Pupils Place High In Contests

Snyder Public School students won a number of awards in the state industrial arts contests held at Waco.

Of 17 projects entered by senior high students, 15 of them placed first, second or third, and two SHS students placed high in written test competition.

Robert Alexander was second in the written test on general electricity and Steve Gressett placed third on the written test in general drafting.

Snyder Junior High had two dozen students placing projects in the top three places.

First place winners from the senior high school included Wayne Davis, Rudy Garza and Eric Marble. Senior high second places went to Eric Marble, Barry Blackman, Robert Alexander, Garry Kubena, Andrew Contreras, Manuel Guzman and Mike Wolf, while third places went to Steve Gressett, Greg Hinton, Richard Reed, Charles Bethel and Phil Jones.

Snyder Junior High students who had projects placing first were Sam Raborn, Thomas McBroom, James Caldwell and Ricky Thompson. Placing second from junior high were Mike Halford, Kathe Wilson, Allan Fox, Ricky Vaughn, Richard Derrick, John Patel, Brent Roemisch, Mark Staton, Joe Don

Zone Changes Approved; Board Positions Filled

The Snyder City Council last night approved two zoning changes, appointed a tax equalization board and named four members for the zoning board of adjustments.

Approved on first reading, following a public hearing, was an ordinance changing the zone of a one-acre tract in Sec. 180 (H&GN) from a commercial to a two-family residential zone. The change had been requested by Mrs. J.T. Guynes and had been approved by the planning and zoning commission.

Approved on second and final reading was ordinance changing the zone of several lots in Block 32 of Bootheland West Addition from a multi-family residential zone to a business zone. This change had been requested by Bill Bailey.

A city tax equalization board composed of R.J. Walker, Joe Box and Dick Norris was appointed, and Milton Ham was re-elected mayor pro tem by acclamation. Mayor John Fagin appointed Bryce Booker to replace former councilman Rod Waller on the city's motel tax committee. Named to the zoning board of adjustments were Randy Mosley, Ira Riggs, Carmen McCown and Vernon Young. All had been serving previously on this board, either as members or alternates. Ham and councilman Vernon Rannefeld were appointed to nominate an alternate member at the next council meeting.

The mayor was authorized to sign a letter endorsing an educational program on alcoholism and drug abuse. L.D. Womble, who heads the Tri-County Alcoholism and Drug Abuse Council, requested the letter in support of an application for a grant from the Texas Community Services Commission. Funds are being sought to make a program available through public schools in this area in an effort to combat drug abuse, Womble said.

School Board To Reorganize

Snyder School Trustees are scheduled to reorganize at their session set for 7:30 p.m. tonight in the administration building.

Max von Roeder, who has served as president of the board the past year, has retired from the board.

In other business, the board will consider requests for participation in summer recreation programs.

Also during the session the board will hear reports from secondary counselors and from a representative of the Scurry County Taxpayers Association.

Dates are due to be set for board studies on the 1979-80 budget and up for consideration will be the annual application for participation in the commodity distribution program for 1979-80.

An executive session has been set following action on the regular agenda for the board to confer with its attorney on a legal matter.

power of a trend

Never underestimate the power of a long-term trend to roll over mere laws.

The national ban on mandatory retirement before age 70 took effect January 1. But for the past many months, its pros and cons impact on the work force, economy, national psyche and the like have been discussed and analyzed to an extent that it may be questioned whether there can be anything more to be said.

There is, according to The Conference Board. Surveying top corporate personnel offices of a group of major U.S. firms, the nonprofit research organization reports a consensus: The most significant aspect of the new retirement law is that it is likely to be of little significance to current retirement patterns.

In short, the trend toward early retirement is expected to continue. For some firms, the average retirement age has declined in recent years to below 60. For most responding to the survey, it is well under 65.

A number of factors are probably at work here, but the primary ones appear to be pensions and health. The combination of company plans and government programs can make delayed retirement economically disadvantageous. The benefits immediately at hand are worth more than paychecks continuing into the future.

Also, health problems can make the right to continue working an academic one for many individuals. Failing health is an important consideration in decisions to take early retirement, one unlikely to be much affected by the new law.

In the long run, there is expected to be little impact on promotion opportunities. Advancement will not be blocked by large numbers of superannuated incumbents staying on in key positions.

Nor are corporate equal opportunity programs likely to be significantly affected. Normal retirements should continue at a rate sufficient to accommodate special efforts to hire ethnic minorities and women, although some firms foresee some possibility of an eventual "white male backlash."

But if negative consequences initially foreseen for delaying mandatory retirement turn out to have been exaggerated, so may a hoped for advantage.

The primary intent of the law is to prevent individuals from being forced into retirement at arbitrary age levels, regardless of personal desires and physical capablities. Should delayed retirement have encountered widespread acceptance, a not inconsequential secondary effect would be the relieving of the Social Security system of a considerable load.

Of approximately 17.6 million individuals now drawing benefits. 10.4 million retired before aged 65. Early retirement has been a significant contributor to the system's strained finances in recent years.

If the present forecasts are correct, delayed retirement is going to be scant help in providing the sought-for relief.

light plane surge

There's more to the boom initiated by airline deregulation than new airlines. There are also new planes.

The commuter lines are a major contributor to accelerating demand for light planes, defined as everything from single-engine craft up through twin-engine turboprops. By count of the industry's General Aviation Manufacturers Association, more than 200,000 small craft are currently flying U.S. skies and sales in 1978 alone came to nearly 18,000 planes at a value of $1.8 billion.

Last year, small planes carried 110 million passengers between 14,000 airports - compared with some 400 airports served by major airlines.

Small aircraft are also much in demand as corporate planes, a development the head of one major manufacturer, President Max E. Bleck of Piper Aircraft, attributes in large part to U.S. industry's dispersion of operations to smaller communities in recent years.

Bleck is a confirmed optimist when it comes to forecasting the impact of the fuel shortage on the continuing growth of the market. He notes that light planes account for less than 1 percent of total annual U.. fuel consumption, or by way of vivid comparison, about two tablespoons for every gallon consumed by all other forms of transportation.

Now that sounds like energy conservation.

"Your new polls show a drop — people don't approve of your allowing the tornadoes, floods and earth tremors."

driving out industry

Another United States industry is leaving the United States. Why?

We have seen more and more American industries phasing out, closing down--textiles, shoes, pottery, cosmetics, cars--while we Americans continue to import more and more from overseas. Who is driving U.S. industry out of the United States?

Hiram Walker and Sons, is closing its distillery in Peoria, Ill.. Maybe the shutdown of a whiskey business is a small loss, socially. But what this move indicates economically is archetypical and ominous.

Hiram Walker will continue to make and market the product--but they'll make it in Canada, France, Spain, Argentina, Mexico--anywhere but here.

And here's why:

Our government says that the distillery cannot burn coal anymore. For a hundred years this bourbon business on the banks of the Illinois River has burned coal--employing more than a thousand people, some of whom represent a sixth generation to work for this company.

Indeed, there were once a dozen distilleries in this area of water transportation, plentiful grain, pure well water, a willing labor force--and all that cheap coal.

But now to meet the government's EPA standards and state pollution regulations, the old Hiram Walker factory would have to install scrubbers on its chimneys and other modifications at a cost of some $66 million.

It's cheaper to shut down and leave the country.

The company is also burdened by an avalanche of government paperwork which is not required in other countries. The company pays ever-higher unemployment insurance and workmen's compensation--not required in other countries. And the union wages in Peoria are four to five times higher than workers receive for the same work in other countries.

What about the city that gets left behind? The distillery has been the number eleven employer in Peoria. It has paid $1.3 million a year in local taxes. It has furnished steady employment to more than a thousand citizens--who purchase homes and groceries and pay taxes in Peoria. And the company and its employees pay federal taxes, also.

Whenever any American industry leaves our country we are all poorer.

And if productive, tax-paying workers end up on welfare our loss is compounded.

In our modern overlapping, interlocking economic and social structure Americans must learn a new "spirit of interdependence."

Improving our environment is a worthy objective but there's got to be a better way to dust a lightbulb than with a ballpeen hammer.

my turn

by john dunnam

Here are some animal stories that aren't fairy tales.

Every cop knows that being a policeman can be a lonely occupation at times but usually when all the rest of the world forsakes him he can still count on the comraderie of his fellow fuzz. But after a shootout at West Elementary Monday morning officer Steve Warren of the Snyder police department was being shunned by even his best of friends.

It all started when Warren and his partner, Sgt. Joe Cheyne responded to a call really a bit out of their line and had a confrontation with a bushy tailed mother who was apparently trying to enroll her youngster in school. A showdown ensued and Warren shot the lowdown varmint, but not before momma skunk got off a shot of her own at downwind Warren. It could be worse, but does anybody know any sure-fire remedies for this sort of problem?

Omer Partain recently took a liking to a certain goose egg. Upon trying to take it, however, he was attacked by the goose. But anybody who has lived in West Texas as long as Omer is made of sterner stuff than any silly goose, and so, after a vicious battle, he prevailed.

Being rather proud of his hard-fought victory, he relished relating the details of the battle to his son's family, the John Partain's, when they came over for dinner, said his beloved granddaughter, Laurie, who inadvertantly blabbed the tale to this reporter. Anyway, after the meal he was anxious to display his fine round trophy, but no dice. You guessed it--they had just eaten it. His wife of 50 years had cooked his goose egg.

George Stewart came by with this one. He suggested it may happen to Billy Roach someday.

County agents get lots of callers with questions of when to plant corn, what cows produce the best milk, etc., said Stewart. One county agent made a cross reference file so it would only take a moment for him to look up the answers. One lady called and asked:

"I bought 20 chickens and one rooster. Can you tell me how long I should leave the rooster with the hens so the eggs will all be fertile?"

"Yes I can, ma'm, just a minute."

"Thank you," she said and hung up.

commentary

donald f. graff

Americans might well ask themselves exactly what it was they wrought 34 years ago this August on the decks of the U.S.S. Missouri in Tokyo Bay.

A prostrate Japan, having surrendered unconditionally, was theirs to do with as they would. What they did was to blueprint the rebuilding of the defeated nation according to the pattern of a Western democracy. Under American guidance, Japan renounced its martial past and dreams of political empire to channel its considerable energies into the development of a modern industrial economy.

That rebuilding process is long since completed. Japan, although still deeply conscious of its past and devoted to many of its ways, is today a parliament democracy, one of the world's two or three richest nations and its second largest economy, a close political ally of the United States and the largest U.S. trading partner.

And as a consequence, relations between the United States and Japan are deeply troubled, the number one item on the agenda for currently visiting Prime Minister Masayoshi Ohira in his talks with President Carter, as they will be again in June when the Carters visit Tokyo in return.

While there are political overtones, specifically as regards policies on China, the Soviet Union and oil, U.S.-Japanese differences are rooted in economics. They have developed and intensified during the past several years of U.S. trade imbalance. It has been a temptation increasingly indulged in, to see Japan, which has been deriving the principal profit from the massive U.S. deficits, as principally responsible.

Japan, it is widely believed, does not trade fair. While dumping television sets and taking advantage of liberal U.S. duties on a host of products from autos to calculators, it has kept its home market all but closed to American goods.

Washington has been giving ear to complaints of threatened American industries. Protectionist sentiment against Japanese products is rising in Congress and could take an ugly political turn as an issue in the coming presidential and congressional campaigns.

And it could get much worse, should the anti-Japanese mood endanger congressional acceptance of the new world trade pact just concluded in Geneva after five agonizing years of negotiation. That would be the real disaster because the new agreement, in addition to cutting world tariffs by upwards of 35 percent, for the first time cuts through the tangle of non-tariff trade restrictions that are more responsible than anything else for the difficulty of American exporters in penetrating the Japanese market.

Japan is well aware of the American mood and apprehensive as to possible consequences. It is currently mounting a major public relations effort.

Japan Today, publicizing the nation's comtemporary cultural, economic and intellectual life in seven large cities to improve the Japanese image with the U.S. public.

But it is also increasingly resentful of criticism from the American press and politicians, the pressure from Washington to reduce its trade surplus and what from Japanese point of view is American insensitivity to Japan's own precarious economic situation. Denied significant natural resources by nature, Japan's economic survival in today's world depends upon trade. "Export or perish" has become a virtual national motto during the postwar years of a rapidly expanding economy established upon an inherently infirm foundation.

The real objection to the Japanese is that they have been not just successful in their postwar rebuilding but too successful. Theirs is an economic success story that has certainly been made in Japan, but is not entirely of and by the Japanese. The original blueprint was, after all, American.

And what we have wrought is not only a Western-style democracy and a political ally, but a formidable economic power that is at one and the same time a competitor and an essential partner of the United States.

It is that last point that both Japanese and Americans must keep in mind in the process of adjusting to the changed circumstances of their relasionship. Whatever their difficulties, that relationship remains essential to each.

One-Armed Push Ups Record Set

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)— If Harry Welch doesn't do his one-armed push ups correctly, his dog gives him a nudge.

Welch, 31, who recently broke the world's record for one-armed pushups, says a lot of the credit goes to Fred, his Labrador retriever.

"If I'm not doing 'em right, he rolls me over a little bit," said Welch, who started doing push ups when he was about 12 and does 25 to 50 every morning.

Welch, the general manager of radio station WTIK here, looked up the record for one-armed pushups in the Guinness Book of World Records two weeks ago. "I looked at the figures and just thought I could beat them."

So, last Thursday, he rounded up eight witnesses and started pumping.

He completed 140 push-ups using his left hand to shatter the old record of 112 and 144 using his right hand, narrowly beating the old mark of 139, he said.

It was no big deal to Fred, however.

"He helped me more than anything else, but when I came home and told him about the record, he didn't seem one bit impressed," Welch said.

Bush To Borrow Carter's Tactics

NEW YORK (AP)— George Bush says he's going to borrow some of President Carter's campaign tactics to land the Republican presidential nomination, but there the political resemblance ends.

The former GOP national chairman told an interviewer on NBC's "Meet the Press" Sunday the key to victory rests in out-organizing the competition in key states like New Hampshire, site of the first presidential primary, and Iowa.

But Bush said he would not emulate what he called Carter's campaign of promises and his vacillating presidency.

Opening lead: ♥Q

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Today's hand makes four spades. South has to lose two heart tricks and one club. He has two club losers if East holds both the king and queen, but since East has only one of those cards he avoids the loss of two clubs by finessing twice.

When he gets around to the diamonds all he has to do is to locate the queen and as you readers all know, bridge column Souths find those missing ladies about ninety-nine times in a hundred.

It is also easy to get to four spades provided both North and South push a trifle in the bidding. North has 10 high-card points with 4-3-3-3 distribution; South has 12 high-card points with 5-3-3-2 distribution. A conservative North might just raise to two spades; a pessimistic South would surely drop the bidding at three.

The defense starts with three rounds of hearts. South ruffs the third one, pulls trumps and leads the jack of clubs to East's king. East has a chance to go wrong and lead a diamond to take South's diamond finesse for him. But East returns a club.

The defense has three tricks in and South has to guess where her ladyship is located. He has a clue. East has shown up with ace-king-king. He might well have opened the bidding if he held an extra queen, so South finesses against West.

Local Woman Has 96th Birthday Celebration

Friday, May 4 Mrs. J.W. Phillips, 100 37th St., celebrated her 96th birthday. She was born Mattie Maddox in 1883 in Paris, Ark. She married Walter Phillips Aug. 21, 1904 in Hopkins County, Texas. In 1929 they moved to Childress County. Before Mr. Phillips death in November 1963, they celebrated their 59th wedding anniversary. Mrs. Phillips moved to Snyder in 1971.

Mrs. Phillips manages to live alone. Hampered some by her failing eyesight following surgery on both eyes last year, she is still able to enjoy her hobbies, quilting and crocheting. She also enjoys visits from friends and family.

She has been a member of the Church of Christ 73 years and attends worship services regularly at East Side Church of Christ.

Her six daughters are Mrs. J.E. (Mary Dell) Meadors of Farmington, N.M., Mrs. H.L. (Elizabeth) Mahan of Mesquite, Mrs. L.C. (Exa Mae) Trent of Childress, Mrs. G.L. (Novis) Campbell, Mrs. Oren (Juanita) Sturdivant, and Mrs. A.P. (Myra V) Prather of Snyder. All were with her on her birthday.

...honored by daughters

Mrs. Phillips son, Olvis, a twin to Novis, died in 1970 at Wichita Falls. His wife, Margaree, was one of the many who lost their homes in the recent tornado and was unable to attend the birthday celebration.

Mrs. Phillips has 16 grandchildren, 29 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandson.

Consider Energy Costs In Buying

If buying major appliances in the near future, consider the operating cost of the appliance, a family resource management specialist recommends.

The rapid increase in energy costs in recent years have caused the operating costs to amount to more than the original price, Bonnie Piernot, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, says.

Puff Game Set For 6 Tonight

The annual senior class Powder Puff Football Game will be held tonight at Tigers Stadium on the Snyder High School campus.

Tickets for the 6 p.m. contest are $1 each and may be purchased at the gate.

The game is an annual activity performed by the senior class to raise money for various projects during the school year.

The traditional game pits two female teams in flag football, with boys serving as cheerleaders. Vying for victory this year will be the Slick Chicks, coached by Jim Zoda, Russell Gafford and Greg Hinton, and the Fearless Foxes, under direction of Carl Humble, Richard Crayton and David Lee.

Parents will have a concession stand in operation for the game.

Blast Out With 16 Hits ...

Royals Rally Past Texas Rangers

ARLINGTON (AP)-Steve Comer had a comfortable lead, and he had the Kansas City Royals pretty much under control until the sixth inning.

Then the thread started to unwind.

When it was all over, Kansas City had battled back from a 6-2 deficit, scored eight runs in the sixth and eighth innings, and marked up a 10-6 victory over the Texas Rangers Monday night.

Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog was happy with his club's 16-hit attack against Comer and four Ranger relievers who tried to put out the fires the Royals kept lighting.

"That's more hits than we got the last two games. I think we got four hits in one game and five in the other (against Cleveland) before we came here," Herzog said.

The Rangers lashed out with doubles by Bump Wills and John Grubb, a single by Richie Zisk and a triple by Buddy Bell for a 3-0 lead in the first inning. Pat Putnam and Grubb blasted solo homers later, and Texas led 6-2 going into the pivotal sixth inning.

Darrell Porter walked in the third and scored on back-to-back singles by Al Cowens and LaCock. Two innings later, Fred Patek singled and raced home on U.L. Washington's double.

"We were hitting some balls well, pretty early. Comer was struggling from the start, and they just didn't get anything from the bullpen. That always makes you look bad. And then everything you do turns out bad," Herzog said.

The Royals sent 10 men to the plate in the sixth. Comer had given up six hits until then. LaCock started it with a single to right, and Clint Hurdle doubled to center. Patek then dribbled one between home plate and the mound that nobody could handle, and the bases were loaded.

Brett singled, scoring a run and leaving the bases full, and Texas Manager Pat Corrales jerked Comer, going to Doc Medich. In quick succession, Medich threw a wild pitch, Hal McRae hit a sacrifice fly and amos Otis singled, tying the game.

Otis moved to third on Porter's single and scored the go-ahead run when Bell booted Cowens' grounder.

After Dave Rajsich, a southpaw, came in and got five straight batters out, Corrales replaced him with a right-hander, Dock Ellis, since Kansas City had two righthanded batters coming up.

Then, in came Sparky Lyle, who gave up a single to Porter and a two-run homer to Cowens.

"After they took Comer out, we finally started seeing some fast balls," said Otis, who had a 3-for-5 night.

"Comer was throwing some fast balls, but we never had a chance to hit 'em because he was spotting 'em. It's tough to hit the ball hard in this ball park with the wind blowing 40 mph in your face and the balls coming in slow."

Spurs Host Bullets As Finals Continue

LANDOVER, Md. (AP)-George Gervin and the San Antonio Spurs aren't conceding the defending champion Washington Bullets anything, especially now that the National Basketball Association Eastern finals are moving to Texas.

"Look, don't worry about us - we're tough," said Gervin. "We'll show them and everybody else who says we can't win in the playoffs. When we play our game, we can do anything we want."

The Spurs now get an opportunity to display their playoff talents before their hometown fans. With the best-of-seven series tied at one each, Game 3 will be played Wednesday night and Game 4 is set for Friday night, both in San Antonio.

The Spurs played their game in the series opener here last Friday night and blew the Bullets out of the Captial Centre, 118-97. The Bullets came back on Sunday and crunched the Spurs 115-95 behind the play of Wes Unseld, who had 26 points and 22 rebounds, and Kevin Grevey, who rediscovered his shooting eye in the third quarter to score 12 of his 18 points.

Gervin and James Silas combined for 62 points Friday night but produced only 36 points, 11 in the second half, on Sunday and played terrible transition defense.

"They got the fast-break opportunities when we started to miss," said Spurs Coach Doug Moe. "We weren't getting back. Guys were standing around. We didn't do a good job of keeping pressure on them. When their fast breaks worked, we weren't as tough in a set defense."

"I'm supposed to be the first guard back on transition and I wasn't getting there," said Silas. "Maybe I was trying to think of too many things at one time. We played the same defense that we did against Philadelphia in the semifinal series but Grevey is a lot better shooter than 76er rookie guard Maurice Cheeks. You can't give the Bullets that many easy baskets."

Duster Trio Named All WJC Conference

Western Texas Junior College's Nodia Vaughn led the balloting as the Western Junior College Athletic Conference All-Conference selections were made recently.

Vaughn, a sohpomore and already chosen as an All-American, has signed a scholarship to Texas Tech University.

Amarillo dominated the first team selections with three individuals. In addition to Vaughn, two other WTC Dusters made the squad, both as honorable mention.

Joining Vaughn on the first team were Tammy Crafton, Ramona Spencer and Cristi Newman, all sophomores from Amarillo College. Howard College's Joann LeFridge, a freshman, was the only other player named first team.

Second team members include sophomores Emma Deanda of Odessa, Sherrie Coalson of Howard County College and Teresa Wright and Sandra Tischler of Clarendon, and freshman Linda Vaughn of South Plains.

Katie Fisher and Joyce Plagens of WTC, both freshmen, were on the honorable mention list, as were sophomores Mary Essary and Becky Williams of South Plains, Beverly Bryson of Clarendon and Vicki Maxwell of Frank Phillips. Other freshmen were Laura Smith and Carolyn Burnam of Odessa.

Foyt Called Judas By CART Racers

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)-A J Foyt, denounced as a conspirator in a plot to keep his top rivals out of the Indianapolis 500, figures he has no need for Championship Auto Racing Teams and "they sure don't need me."

The four-time Indy 500 winner was an original director of CART when the dissident group of car owners and drivers broke with the U.S. Auto Club late last year. But he soon returned to the established sanctioning body, satisfied that a number of USAC rule changes were steps in the right direction.

Like it or not, Foyt is still considered the biggest name in auto racing. And his defection back to USAC did not sit well with many CART people, who claimed he was responsible for engineering the original exclusion of the Indy entries by six other CART directors.

"They can't back up any of their statements," said Foyt, who has entered four cars in his bid for a record 22nd straight Indy start.

Nicklaus Honored

NEW YORK (AP)-Golfer Jack Nicklaus was named "Athlete of the Decade" in a nationwide poll of 432 sports writers, editors and broadcasters.

Nicklaus won the award, sponsored by the American Cancer Society, with 123 first place votes compared to 67 for the first runner-up, baseball's Rod Carew.

SHS Plans Ceremony

Snyder High School will honor its athletes at 6:30 p.m. May 21 in the school auditorium.

The annual affair recognizes athletes from all sports.

Because of the number of students involved and in an attempt to recognize the varsity squads to a greater extent, an awards ceremony will open the agenda, followed by a reception with snacks and refreshments in the students center.

Anyone wishing to help prepare for the reception should contact Ann Kitching (573-3466) or Kathy Roberts (573-8347).

Sophomore Surprised Himself

Richardson Leaps To State

By BILL McCLELLAN

He may not fly through the air with the greatest of ease, but Snyder High School sophomore Brad Richardson has found he's a good deal better at high jumping than he imagined he would be.

So good, in fact, that it has earned him a trip to the state track and field meet this weekend in Austin.

"I thought I'd be jumping what the eighth and ninth graders were doing. The same heighth as they were going. They (coaches and friends) told me I could do it, but I didn't know I could," comments Brad, who is competing in his first year of varsity track.

Though he got off to a late start when basketball season carried into bi-district playoffs, he came out and jumped 6-2 for a third place ribbon at the West Texas Relays. A week later, Brad reached 6-4 at Brownfield and brought home a first place medal.

He's been climbing since, and went over 6-8 two weeks ago in Odessa to take the Region I championship and a berth to the state meet.

Saturday, at a qualifiers meet in Abilene, the youth edged over 6-9, rolled off the mat and stood up, only to watch the bar fall off the supports away from the pit. The officials declared it a miss, despite protests from bystanders.

But his goal this weekend is not 6-9, it's 6-10.

"I'm going to try for it," he comments, explaining that his eventual goal as a high school athlete is "7-2 or better. I think 6-10 will probably win it."

To watch Brad in competition is like eyeing an iceberg. He appears cool and confident, indifferent to what anyone else is doing.

"You have to be calm," he explains. "You have to look confident because if the other guy sees that you're not, he'll think he can beat you. You'd rather see him worry about you," he grins. "A lot of it's mental."

Brad's first love is basketball, and with a father like Nolan Richardson, Western Texas College basketball coach, it's not hard to understand why. But high jumping is obviously helping Brad out on the court, too.

"I got into the gym and found I could jump higher. I was really surprised. I'm sure it's helped me a lot."

It's claimed that the great football coach, Knute Rockne, as a young man played for six different semi-pro football teams in one season.

Brad is scheduled to compete about 7:30 Friday in Austin's Memorial Stadium. Two other SHS athletes have qualified for the state meet. He will be joined by Thomas Selmon (long jump) and Dale Jenkins (pole vault).

King Ranch Chairman Dies

KINGSVILLE, Texas (AP) Richard M. Kleberg Jr., board chairman of the massive King Ranch and one of the most powerful men in Texas ranching, died today at a Corpus Christi hospital.

Kleberg, who was 62, had been hospitalized since February.

Born to a prominent South Texas ranching family, Kleberg chaired the King Ranch corporation, one of the world's largest oil and ranching operations.

Kleberg was noted for his willingness to experiment to improve the cattle industry.

Polanski May Return To U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) Film director Roman Polanski, who fled to Paris on Feb. 1, 1978 - the day before he was to have been sentenced for having sex unlawfully with a 13-year-old girl - may return to the United States, says Newsweek magazine.

Newsweek on Sunday said Polanski told an interviewer: "hysteria will no longer be predominant" in his decision to stay in Paris or return. He said his case is being viewed "in a more rational light."

Newsweek quoted Polanski as saying he made an advance toward the girl, "...but she responded. And, certainly, she was not drugged at all, at any time. She was three weeks short of 14 at the time, but at this age you can be an adult, which she was. I can't say anything derogatory about her.

"She was just a nice girl. I pleaded guilty to avoid the carnival proceedings of a public trial and to protect the girl's anonymity."

Polanski pleaded guilty in August 1977.

Says Transportation Czar...

Only 50% Chance Car Will Be Repaired Right

WASHINGTON (AP) Car owners have one chance in two of getting their vehicles repaired right at a fair price, says Transportation Secretary Brock Adams.

And he adds:

"The average car owner is overcharged $150 annually in repairs made on his or her car.

Fifty-three cents of every dollar spent on fix-ups go for unnecessary repairs.

Those are some of the conclusions of a government-sponsored undercover survey of garages in seven cities.

Drivers in the study took cars with carefully planned malfunctions to 62 randomly selected garages to come up with the results.

The report on the experiment also found:

-Nine times in 10 when the motorists' complaint concerned engine performance, the garage made an unnecessary repair or missed the real problem.

-The rate of over-repair or under-repair was 32 percent for complaints concerning brakes, 44 percent for suspensions and 51 percent overall.

"Outright criminal fraud is only a small part of the problem," Adams told a news conference Monday.

"What we have instead is a variety of wasteful practices including habitual over-repair or 'package deals' such as replacing points, condensers and spark plug wires when only one spark plug is needed; replacing parts until the problem goes away - even though one part may have been needed, you wind up buying the whole batch; and finally, just plain old lack of competence to do the job right," he said.

He said the government was not trying "to indict the entire auto repair industry." No fault was found in half the garages visited, he said.

The survey was conducted in Atlanta, Philadelphia, Miami, Houston, Nashville, Tenn., White Plains, N.Y., and Brooklyn, N.Y. It cost $66,000.

Adams declined to identify the garages, but he said their names will be turned over to local authorities for possible prosecution.

Men and women, whites and blacks, received comparable treatment when they sought help for their cars, he said. No distinction was found between garages in big cities and those in the suburb of White Plains, N.Y., he said.

Adams called on the auto repair industry to police itself and to start a system of certifying repair businesses which comply with industry-designed standards.

Until that happens, the transportation secretary advised drivers to use diagnostic centers or visit several garages for estimates and evaluations before deciding where to go for repairs.

It takes more than optimism!

The farmer/rancher is an eternal optimist. He must be—to contend with such imponderables as weather, prices and cost.

Yet, it takes more than optimism in today's high cost agriculture. It takes an organization the farmer/rancher knows he can count on. Farm Bureau is such an organization. That's why four out of five farmers in the nation are members of Farm Bureau.

Farm Bureau works for agriculture on three broad fronts—

1. TO INCREASE ECONOMIC OPPORTUNITY—Through effectiveness in Public Affairs (policy development & legislative activities).
2. TO STRENGTHEN FARMERS COMPETITIVE POSITION IN MARKETPLACE—Through marketing programs, commodity activities, market expansion.
3. TO CONTROL PRODUCTION COSTS—Through group purchasing (tires & batteries), insurance protection (fire, life & casualty), group insurance (medical care).

Ex-Snyderite Retiring From Howard College

BIG SPRING-Leslie Kelley, a Snyder native who has been a member of the faculty of Howard College at Big Spring longer than any other individual, has announced his retirement from full-time service with the college, effective May 11.

With a total of 24 years of service, Kelley also is the only person associated with the college who has served with all four men who have held the office of president of Howard College----E.C. Dodd, Dr. W.A. Hunt, Dr. Thomas Salter and the current president, Dr. Charles Hays.

Kelley began his service at the college as part-time instructor in Old and New Testament, and for the past 20 years has been a full-time instructor in history. He currently teaches United States and Western European History at the college, and has served as head of the division of social and behavioral sciences for the past seven years.

Kelley is an active member of the Texas Junior College Teachers Association, the National Education Association, the American Association of University Professors and the American Historical Association.

Growing up in Snyder, He served as editor of his high school paper two years. Following three years of service in the U.S. Air Force, Kelley enrolled at Hardin-Simmons University, where he was recipient of the Featherston Award for excellence in biographical writing. He attended Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary and earned a masters and doctors degree at Texas Tech. He originally came to Big Spring as a Baptist minister when he became pastor of Prairie View Baptist Church. He had held pastorates in Ruby and Snyder while attending the seminary.

Mrs. Kelley also has a degree from Hardin-Simmons and has done extensive graduate work at Texas Tech and has 20 years of teaching experience in public schools of Anson, Snyder, Big Spring and Lubbock.

Bill To Ease Rule For Felons

AUSTIN (AP)—Ex-convicts would no longer be barred from entering numerous licensed occupations under a bill approved by the House on Monday.

The measure passed, 101-33, and next goes to the Senate.

It would allow a licensing agency to bar entry to an ex-convict only if he or she had been convicted of a felony directly related to the occupation.

A similar bill passed both houses of the Legislature in 1977, only to be vetoed by former Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

Keep Nuts Away From Children Under 5 Years

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—Keep nuts - especially roasted nuts - away from children under 5 years old, says Dr. Leslie Bernstein. Dr. Bernstein says that he and other doctors in his department treat many people who have accidentally inhaled solid particles such as nuts, many of them children.

A child died recently because peanuts accidentally became lodged in his breathing passages, he said.

What if, despite all precautions, an accident happens?

"If a child is choking, try to have someone call an ambulance - or do it yourself if no one else is around," he said. "Then hold the child upside down and slap him on the back sharply several times.

"If the child turns blue and stops breathing you should consider mouth-to-mouth resuscitation."

Combined Appraisals Pass House

AUSTIN (AP)—A proposal allowing each county to have but one office appraising property for taxation by all units of government won surprisingly easy approval in the House on Monday.

The House voted 119-12 to send the proposed constitutional amendment to the Senate.

Existing constitutional language allows the Legislature to force all taxing units in a county except the county government itself to have a single appraisal office.

A Senate-passed bill on the subject requires cities, school districts and special districts to merge their appraisal efforts but lets counties choose whether to join them.

Rep. Wayne Peveto, D-Orange, who has crusaded for the single-appraisal concept for years, let out a shout of joy and rushed to congratulate the sponsor of the constitutional amendment, Rep. Lloyd Criss, D-La Marque.

Criss had taken less than 30 seconds to explain the proposal and there had been no debate.

United Airlines Cancels Flights

CHICAGO (AP)—United Airlines, the nation's largest air carrier, has announced cancellation of all flights through May 19 as a strike by machinists continues to shut down operations.

A United spokesman said Monday, however, that the airline is taking reservations for flights starting June 8.

Negotiations between United and representatives of the striking International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers have been at a standstill since April 27. Union members struck March 31.

Senate Okays College Fund System Change

AUSTIN (AP)—General tax revenues instead of a state property tax would finance construction at 19 state-supported colleges under a proposal approved Monday by the Senate.

The constitutional amendment went to the House on a 25-5 vote. If approved by representatives, it would be submitted to the voters in November.

Opponents claimed the fund should take care of more colleges than just the 19 that benefitted from the 10-cent per $100 state ad valorem tax. The property tax has been attacked as unconstitutional in federal court.

Schools not under the new fund or within the University of Texas or Texas A&M systems would have to request funds every two years from the Legislature.

The new fund, known as the State Higher Education Assistance Fund (SHEAF), would cost the state about $40 million annually.

An East Texas senator led spoken opposition to the measure.

"It is not a fair situation because you do not have all the schools participating on an equal basis," said Sen. Ed Howard, D-Texarkana.

Howard, who graduated from Abilene Christian College, was prepared to filibuster against the proposal last week but agreed to wait until after the week to attack the fund.

The University of Texas and Texas A&M Receive funds from the constitutionally dedicated Permanent University Fund (PUF) which receives the earnings from oil production on university-owned land. Under the proposed constitutional amendment, the two systems' 21 component campuses would benefit from the PUF.

Howard said the SHEAF would not operate the same as PUF. The new fund would be appropriated according to a formula devised by the Legislative Budget Board and possibly the College Coordinating Board, he added.

The PUF formula is set constitutionally and under no legislative controls, he added.

Reducing fat belly

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I sent for your letter on the fat belly. I did your exercises and it worked. I was flat. My waist was only 25, down from a 29-inch waist. Then overnight I swelled up. I looked as if I was pregnant. The doctor said I had a lot of fluid so he gave me a water pill called Esidex. But they made me sick and tired so please, can you help me? I don't know what's wrong. The doctor said I was in good shape. He gave me a good exam. Now I look like I'm pregnant and I have pains in my back and feel like my body's been through a hard work out.

DEAR READER — I'm glad that the exercise program helped you reduce your waist size. Proper exercises for the abdomen will tighten abdominal muscles and help shrink the waistline. The only reason such exercises work is because they strengthen your abdominal muscles. If a person already has strong abdominal muscles, he won't get much out of the exercises.

Other readers who want to try these exercises can send for The Health Letter number 3-7, Girth Control: Avoiding The Big Middle. Send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Address your request to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Whenever your abdomen is full of something, whether it's fluid, fat or gas, there's no way that exercises can compress these. You have to get the fat, fluid or gas out of the inside of the abdomen before you can reduce the waistline.

Some people do feel tired if they take a water pill because it works by washing out salt. Often this is just a matter of having taken more medicine than is needed for the job.

People who have been on weight-losing diets and don't lose any pounds for weeks may actually be accumulating water. Then suddenly they'll flush out all the water. Even with this natural course of events during weight reduction, the water loss may cause temporary fatigue.

I would suggest that you markedly limit your salt intake. In your age group I would raise the question as to whether you're using a birth control pill or not. These often cause a person to retain sodium salt and water.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Our granddaughter is 14 months old and hasn't used milk for five months. She had a virus and was taken off all dairy products for two weeks. Since then when she's been offered milk, she's refused it no matter what we do to try to improve its flavor. She drinks juices and some Gatorade and is eating pretty well. We're always reading how important calcium is for the teeth and bones and are afraid she isn't getting all she needs. Is there some form of other good source of calcium she could take or do you think she should get enough in her food?

DEAR READER — You're right. Calcium is very important in the growth period particularly. Milk is the major source of calcium in our diet or certainly milk products.

There are some baby foods that contain large amounts of calcium. Usually these are cereals. Check your nearest supermarkets and look carefully at the ingredients on the baby food products that are available to you. You may be able to find some that she will use that may help solve your problem. A good example of such a precooked cereal would be barley with added nutrients, one ounce contains 264 milligrams of calcium. However, this figure may vary quite a bit with different brands.

Cemetery For Veterans Okayed

AUSTIN (AP)—The House passed, 69-60, and sent to the Senate on Monday a bill establishing a state veterans cemetery.

The cemetery would be located in Nueces County and would be operated by the Texas Veterans Affairs Commission.

Rep. Hugo Berlanga, D-Corpus Christi, the sponsor, said the bill is needed because national cemeteries in Texas have filled up, while many veterans wish to be buried in a veterans cemetery.

Never operate a window or attic fan in an air conditioned area, a housing and home furnishings specialist recommends. It will force cool air outside and waste energy, says Pat Seaman, with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. The Texas A&M University System.

Both Houses Pass Own School Financing Plans

By LEE JONES
Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN (AP)—Both houses of the Legislature received long-awaited school finance bills Monday, each adding $1 billion to state aid to local districts over the next two years.

The measures approved by House and Senate committees defy Gov. Bill Clements by continuing the automatic salary increases received by teachers in the early stages of their careers.

But they differ widely in cost-of-living raises.

Next step will be debate of state school aid on the floor of each chamber of the Legislature.

A House-Senate conference committee will determine the final shape of state aid to public schools in 1979-80 and 1980-81. It will work closely with soon-to-be appointed conferees on the state budget bill, since total spending for all purposes cannot exceed state income.

The House Public Education Committee's bill would add $1.08 billion to state school aid, while the Senate Education Committee's version would cost about $77 million less.

Senate committee action came shortly after senators passed that chamber's $20.8 billion version of the general appropriation bill.

The Senate bill includes $450 million legislators had promised local school districts they would receive as reimbursement for revenue losses caused by the 1978 Tax Relief Amendment.

The House voted earlier, in the session to place the reimbursement money in a separate bill. This makes the House school finance bill a far more generous one to the school districts than the Senate bill.

School teachers would receive raises totaling $424 million from the House bill, compared with $317 million in the Senate bill.

Most teachers would get a 7 percent cost-of-living raise from the House bill, while the Senate bill provides 5.1 percent increases. Both bills would continue automatic experience step-ups through the first 16 years of a teacher's career in addition to cost-of-living raises - something to which Clements objects.

The House committee recommended a $9,388 starting salary this fall for new teachers, compared with $8,650 in the Senate bill and $8,460 under existing law.

Beginning salaries would rise in September 1980 to $9,082 under the Senate bill and $10,036 under the House bill - reaching the teachers' long-sought goal of a $10,000 minimum salary.

Rep. Ernestine Glossbrenner, D-Alice, won a 5-4 committee vote to add an extra $3.8 million to beef up salaries for beginners.

"I want the brightest and the best going into teaching, and I think we are paying the price today, with regard to ability, for some of the things we did in the past," Ms. Glossbrenner, a former teacher, told the House committee.

The two bills have identical amounts of $264 million to prevent scheduled rises in local expenditures for the Foundation School Program, a boon to property taxpayers.

Senators have a more generous amount for maintenance and operation, which pays for non-salary items ranging from chalk to floor wax to window glass. It is $155 million, compared with $117 million in the House bill.

Equalization of rich and poor districts would get $156 from the Senate bill and $152 million from the House bill.

Bill Requires Registration Of Midwives

AUSTIN (AP)—Lay midwives, who deliver some 8,000 Texas babies each year, would have to register and comply with various disclosure requirements under a bill passed Monday by the House, 107-23.

The bill next goes to the Senate.

If the measure becomes law, a lay midwife would have to register each year with the county where she lives, and the State Health Department would maintain a master registry.

A midwife would be required to disclose orally and in writing to her clients that she could assist only in normal childbirth and could not administer prescription drugs, deliver a baby by Caesarean section or perform an episiotomy.

A midwife would be prohibited by law from doing anything to hasten or delay birth, use instruments for anything to hasten or delay birth, use instruments for anything other than cutting an umbilical cord or providing emergency first aid or administering prescription drugs.

Composer Dies

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Composer Milton Ager, whose songs included "Ain't She Sweet" and "Hard Hearted Hannah," died Sunday after a long illness. He was 85. Ager's "Happy Days Are Here Again" became Franklin Delano Roosevelt's campaign song during his first term campaign and the New Deal era.

The cities of Port Arthur and Fort William, now Thunder Bay, Ont., were incorporated in 1907.

Your Birthday

May 9, 1979

Your secret desires will be realized this coming year after you make several changes that were worthless to you anyway. The opportunities will seek you out, so go along with them.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If you didn't do your work in the last couple of days when conditions where favorable, you're in trouble today. Everything you take on seems to go wrong. How to get along with other signs is one of the sections you'll enjoy in your new Astro-Graph Letter that starts with your birthday. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, P.O. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something quite unexpected that will shake you up a bit could happen today in your social department. The worst thing you could do is strike back.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Chances are you could be around someone quite pompous who will be coming on strong and superior today. Don't let this egotist make you feel inferior.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Mental self-discipline is needed today, or else you're likely to be tripped up by your own carelessness. Be wary lest someone catch you off-guard.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Unless you have an excellent credit record, money-related matters could set you back today. You may have to pay the piper.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your wisest course of action is not to count any chickens before they're hatched. Things you were banking on yesterday won't be happening today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A great deal more work than you were prepared for could be dumped into your lap today. Getting uptight or ranting about it won't help one bit.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You are far too vulnerable today and could easily be taken advantage of. Don't get involved with persons you know little or nothing about.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Now is not the time to buck the odds and defy that which is staring you in the face, telling you it is stronger. If you're to win, you'll have to face the facts.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you allow yourself to be drawn into a debate that can lead no place, your image could be damaged. Turn the other cheek till another day.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You aren't seeing the other side of the coin today. Your expenses could run higher than you are able to comfortably meet. Watch out for loopholes.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Put on the most diplomatic and tactful face that you can muster today. Opposition is running strong. You could lose out entirely.

"NOTICE OF RESCHEDULED HEARING"

"West Texas Home Health Agency d/b/a West Central Home Health Agency, Abilene, Texas. Represented by Marciano Morales, No. 3 Briercroft, Lubbock, Texas 79412. (THFC File #AS78-0703-038) originally scheduled to be heard May 15, 1979, is rescheduled to appear at a hearing at 9:00 a.m. on July 2, 1979, in the offices of the Texas Health Facilities Commission, 1600 West 38th Street, Suite 305, Jefferson Building, Austin, Texas, to present evidence in support of the application for a Certificate of Need to provide the new services of occupational therapy, medical social services, and home health aide to residents in the counties now served of Borden, Brown, Callahan, Coke, Coleman, Comanche, Eastland, Erath, Fisher, Glasscock, Haward, Jones, Lampasas, Martin, Mills, Mitchell, Nolan, Runnels, Scurry, Shackelford, Sterling, Stonewall, Taylor, Tom Green. The Commission proposes to render a decision on the application on July 19, 1979.

A request to become a party to the application may be made by filing a sworn affidavit with the Commission using the format prescribed by Commission Rule no later than 5:00 p.m., June 8, 1979, and by forwarding a copy by certified mail, return receipt requested, to the applicant and all other parties."

Note: If no request to become a party or petition for hearing is timely filed with the Commission, the Commission may proceed with action on the application for a Certificate of Need at any time after June 8, 1979, upon written request by the applicant.

BAND BANQUET-The Snyder High School Black and Gold Band held their annual banquet Friday night in the SHS Student Center. Highlight of the event was the presentation of this year's band sweetheart, Melinda Masters. Presenting Miss Masters a nosegay of silk flowers and $1 bills is Louis Beuerlein, band parents club president. Bill Seale, left, was master of ceremonies. (Photo By Annual Staff)

Opening June 4...

Child Center Planned

Plans for opening a new child day care center here have been announced by Lou Voss.

The new facility, which will accommodate some 60 children, will be located at 1500 37th St. on property formerly occupied by Turnbow Nursery and later by Snyder Trailer Sales.

Mrs. Voss, who will be assisted by a co-director, Molly Tatum, LVN, said the opening of the center is set for June 4. The hours will be from 6:30 a.m. to 5:45 p.m., Monday through Friday, and summer registration is underway now. Registration information may be obtained by calling 573-6873.

Mrs. Voss has operated a licensed day care center in her home for the past two years which accommodated 12 children. The new facility will take children from 18 months to 12 years old. Hot lunches and snacks in morning and afternoon will be provided, and routine educational programs will be held daily.

Mrs. Voss has 15 years of experience in Girl Scout work, serving six years as a Brownie leader and also as service unit chairman. She now serves on the board of directors of the West Texas Girl Scout Council and served as United Way secretary here for three years. She was active in PTA at Stanfield Elementary School for 10 years, and attends 37th St. Church of Christ.

Molly Tatum, the co-director, is experienced in nutrition and child growth and development and in psychology. Additional staff members will be added as needed, said Mrs. Voss.

"I feel that there is a need for a day care center in Snyder," said Mrs. Voss. "I want to accommodate as many working mothers as possible, and children will be under supervision at all times."

Learns To Live With Handicap

HARTSVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Elias Joe, Jr., who lost both his arms in a textile industry accident in 1967 says, "You have no choice. You have a handicap and you have to learn how to deal with it."

Joe, 36, dealt with it by finding an occupation "That you could do without hands."

After years of rehabilitation and study, he became South Carolina's first black licensed auctioneer.

He attended the Missouri Auction School in Kanas City. He was the first black graduate.

He currently works at odd auctioneering jobs.

OBITUARIES

Mrs. Lewis

Mrs. Donnie L. Lewis, 100, died at about 10:45 a.m. today in Cogdell Memorial Hospital.

Funeral Service has been set for 3 p.m. Wednesday at the Bell-Seale Funeral Home Chapel. The Rev. Doug Stenberg and the Rev. David Robertson will officiate. Burial will be in the Snyder Cemetery, under direction of Bell-Seale Funeral Home.

A native of Utah, Ala., she was married on Dec. 25, 1898, at Comanche to Burl Lewis. He preceded her in death in 1957.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. J.E. (Floy) Perry of Snyder; two sons, Leverett Lewis of Snyder and Holly Lewis of Laferia; eight grandchildren, 11 great-grandchildren and two great-great-grandchildren.

Whitehead

Funeral arrangements were pending this morning at Bell-Seale Funeral Home for Mrs. Edma Mae Whitehead, 84.

Mrs. Whitehead, a former resident of Hermleigh, died Monday night in St. Anthony's Center in Pasadena. She was preceded in death by her husband, Luther Whitehead, on April 27, 1974.

Minor Mishap And Mischief Are Reported

Police investigated a minor accident and a case of apparent criminal mischief Monday.

The minor accident took place at 11:38 a.m. in the 900 block of 25th street, reports show. Involved were a 1973 Kenworth truck driven by J.O. Seals of Abilene and a 1978 Cordova driven by Walter Sellars of Trailertopia. No ambulance or wrecker was needed.

The criminal mischief case involved damage J.D. Wilcox of 306 28th St. reported to his car windshield and a window in his home. Value of the damage was estimated at $5-$10.

cepted. These included a year's supply of chlorine from SEC Corp. for $6,330, the lower of two bids received; liquid alum from Russ Chemical Co. for $19,040, the only bid received; hydrated lime for $2,635.77 from Chisum and Co., the lower of two bids received; carbon, potassium permangante for $1,462.09 from Chisum and Co., the only bid received, and soil analysis for $1,969 from Terra Testing of Lubbock, the only bid received.

The bid of Teal Carpet of Snyder of Snyder was accepted for some capeting in city hall. Teal's bid of $3,956.70 was second low, but it offered an eight-ply carpet compared to four-ply carpet provided in the low bid of $3,741.32 and the council elected to accept it on the basis of quality.

The bid of Gage Van Horn in the amount of $297.50, the lower to two bids received, was accepted for the purchase of tax statement forms.

An ordinance was approved on first reading establishing a fire lane on a portion of a street leading to the student center at Western Texas College. It sets a maximum fine of $200 for parking in the fire lane. WTC officials had requested the ordinance to enhance enforcement of parking regulations on the street involved.

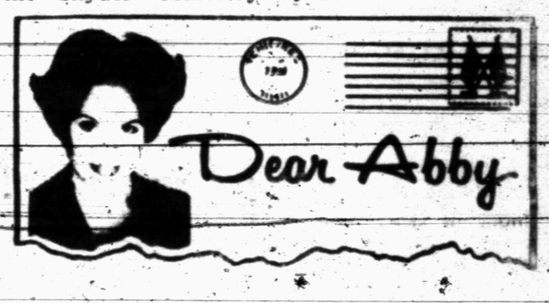

John Boren and Tommy Deffebach, president and treasurer, respectively, of the Snyder Cemetery Association, discussed the cemetery operation with the council. They inquired about the possibility of the city assuming supervision of the cemetery. After some discussion, several alternatives were suggested and the council expressed doubts that the city could assume such an obligation. At present, the cemetery is adjacent to, but just outside the city boundary lines.

City support of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program this year in the amount of $1,500 was approved, and the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation was authorized to inventory, inspect and appraise all bridges on city streets.

A request by the Snyder Chamber of Commerce to stage a fireworks display in Towle Memorial Park on July 4 was approved.

No action was taken on two requests for the city to offer for sale some lots on which taxes are delinquent. It was learned that the city does not own the lots and estimated cost of litigation which would be required for the city to acquire them for taxes would be considerably more than the amount of taxes due.

Pregnant Thought

By Abigail Van Buren

1979 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have a question I'm sure many other women my age would like to know the answer to, so please check with your medical experts and print your answer.

I am 48 and have not had a period in a year. Can I still get pregnant?

NO JOKING MATTER

DEAR JOKE: Even though your chances for getting pregnant are slim, I advise you to take precautions on every conceivable occasion!

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading your column for years and I really enjoy it, but I do believe you have lost your marbles.

You ask your readers to write and let you know if they see DEAR ABBY T-shirts, nightgowns, or any other item for sale bearing your name, saying it's being done without your permission, and that unless you put a stop to it you will lose your copyrighted name. You ask us to let you know the name and address of any store carrying such items, but you don't give us YOUR address! Sure, we can send it to the newspaper (like I'm doing) but it takes more time and we can't be sure the letter will ever reach you. So please, Abby, will you print your address? Thank you.

FRUSTRATED

DEAR FRUSTRATED: Move over. Now we're BOTH frustrated. YOU didn't give me YOUR address! MY address is: 132 Lasky Drive, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. But all mail addressed to me in care of your newspaper will reach me.

DEAR ABBY: My mother just finished reciting the same speech she recites every year just before Mother's Day. It begins, "Now please don't throw your money away on a gift for me ... I don't need anything."

Abby, I know my mother doesn't NEED anything, but I enjoy giving her presents, and it takes the pleasure out of it for me when she takes this attitude. I wish you'd tell mothers that children of all ages enjoy giving gifts on Mother's Day, so please accept them graciously.

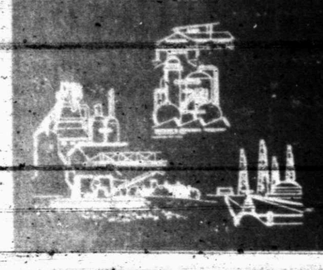

SOMEBODY'S DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Don't blame your mother. Her attitude is typical of most mothers. They don't want their children to deny themselves anything in order to buy a gift.

I know. When I was a child I recall vividly my own beloved mother (now gone 34 years) saying, "Please don't buy me any presents. I have everything I need." So instead of buying a gift I gave her something money couldn't buy. I wrote a poem or a letter telling her how much I appreciated her. Years later I realized how much they must have meant to her, because after she died I found them tucked away among her souvenirs—all neatly bound together with a ribbon. She had saved every one of them!

CONFIDENTIAL TO J. R. E.: Relax and be yourself. "The most exhausting thing in life is being insincere." (Anne Lindbergh)

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them off your chest. For a personal reply, write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Interest Of Clients Is First With Richardson Realty Firm

If you're one of those people who like to do business with folks you know and trust, then you'll certainly enjoy working with the staff at Richardson Realty.

The real estate firm is headed by Eddie Jo Richardson who has been a resident of Scurry County for 28 years. She has been active in the real estate business for the past five years.

Mrs. Richardson is a licensed broker and her sales staff includes Reta Graham and Reba Beck. The agency has been known as Richardson Realty for the past 2½ years, and formerly was Browning Realty. The office is located at 1908 26th Street, just west of West Texas State Bank.

Customer service and satisfaction is a primary aim at Richardson Realty. "We want to treat our customers just like we would want to be treated ourselves," Mrs. Richardson said.

"That is why we make every effort to adhere to the Real Estate Code of Ethics of Fidelity, Integrity and Competency," she added.

"We believe that the real estate sales person has a special obligation and his or her primary duty is to represent the interest of the client while at the same time treating all other parties fairly.

"The code also calls for the sales person to make every prudent effort to avoid misrepresentation," Mrs. Richardson continued. "In addition, the real estate broker or sales person must have a thorough knowledge of the industry, the market, also the skills and judgment to provide the necessary service to complete the transaction."

Mrs. Richardson said her 28 years in the county plus the knowledge of the sales staff allows them to be of special help to prospective buyers and sellers in Snyder and Scurry County.

"When you deal with us, you're dealing with home folks, and you'll like the way we transact your business. In addition, we're trained and well qualified," Mrs. Richardson added.

Mrs. Richardson and Mrs. Beck are both wives of farmers, giving them a special advantage in helping you deal with farm and ranch property. In fact, the firm currently has three good land listings.

Hours of operation are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday, but the sales staff invites you to call them at home after hours and on weekends.

The firm deals in residential, commercial property, farms and ranches and property management. Drop by today and visit with the staff at Richardson Realty.

Get Your Carbide Tipped Saw Blades Sharpened At U-Rent-Em

The U-Rent-Em located on College Ave. has recently added another service to their saw department. Norman Clement explains that they can now sharpen carbide tipped circular saw blades. As people who use them know, carbide tipped blades last much longer than the conventional kind.

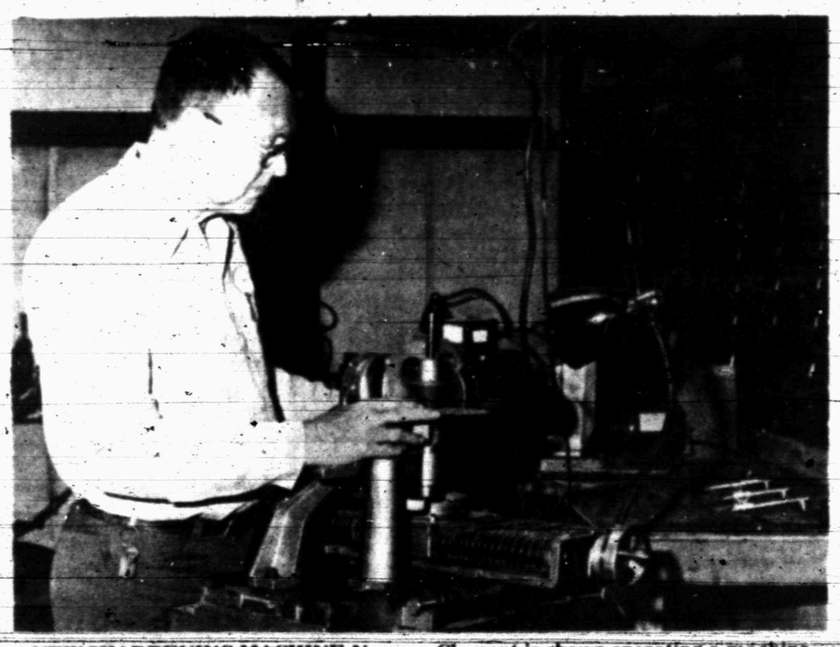

Whatever kind of saw that you have, it is much more economical to have it retoothed, sharpened, and the teeth set than it is to buy a new blade. U-Rent-Em can take a saw, and completely re-tooth the blade, set the teeth and file them to a sharp cutting edge whether it be a chain saw, circular saw or hand saw. They can also sharpen scissors, lawnmowers blades, router bits, hole saws, knives, and planer blades. Clement also mentions that when they sharpen a lawnmower blade that they also balance it too.

Speaking of lawnmowers, U-Rent-Em is a Briggs & Stratton dealer and carries parts for the small engines. George Lowe does repair work on lawnmowers and tillers and also chain saws. If you need a new lawnmower, they carry the Snapper line of lawn products.

U-Rent-Em is also the Snyder U-Haul headquarters with all kinds of trailers, hitches, and dollies. If you're moving and need a truck or trailer, see them.

The Robo Car Wash is also a part of U-Rent-Em and offers a free wash with any fill-up of 15 gallons or more. If you would rather wash your vehicle yourself, bays are available.

U-Rent-Em, located at 3403 College Ave., carries a diverse line of rental equipment in addition to what has been already mentioned. They also offer a key and locksmith service. So stop by and visit with Norman and George, they'll be glad to help in any way possible.
